Aussies Scrambling For Fallen Skylab's Debris

By JEFF FRANCIS
Associated Press Writer
PERTH, Australia (AP) — Australians on a Skylab hunt scooped up chunks of charred debris on the edge of the great western desert today after the U.S. space station showered its red-hot pieces over southwestern Australia like "a train on fire."

While some Australians piled into jeeps for what could be a profitable search for Skylab's remains, others flooded the American consulate here with angry calls about the way the plummeting spacecraft happened to hit Australia.

"I think it stinks that they delayed the descent for 18 minutes so it missed them and hit us," said one housewife in a call to a Perth newspaper. "I don't think our so-called American allies like us very much."

The U.S. space station ended its six-year odyssey early today in one of the world's most desolate areas, tumbling to Earth in a spectacular fireworks show in the night sky. There have been no reports of casualties or property damage.

Three men awakened by a loud boom in the remote town of Albany were among the first to report finding what appeared to be a piece of Skylab.

Bill Norton said he and his two companions spotted the 6-foot-long, 3-foot-wide cylindrical piece about six miles south of Rawlinna, which is 550 miles east of Perth.

Norton, a telecommunications technician, said the cylinder, coated with a fiberglass-like substance, appeared to have bounced about 600 feet from the point of impact and came to rest in low scrub.

Another reported find was made 400 miles to the southwest, in the town of Jerramungup, where an unidentified resident brought a chunk of burned fibrous material to a local police station, the newspaper The West Australian reported.

A golf course groundskeeper in the coastal town of Albany was the first to claim a find, but his turned out to be a hoax — perpetrated in part to "retaliate" against U.S. space scientists "as we didn't appreciate them deliberately deciding to put Skylab down in Australia," said one of those involved.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration did not "aim" the descending craft at Australia, but a tumbling maneuver made toward the end may have extended its fall far enough to reach the continent's southwest corner.

The San Francisco Examiner newspaper is offering a $10,000 reward for the first piece of Skylab turned in to it, and various commercial outfits around the world reportedly are ready to pay for chunks they could sell as souvenirs.

NASA spokeswoman Mary Fitzpatrick said in Washington today the space agency might send experts to Western Australia to check on the authenticity of pieces reportedly found.

Authorities calculated that most or all of the space station's remains landed in an area centered near Balladonia, a sparsely populated ranch area 530 miles east of Perth.

U.S. officials estimated 20 to 25 tons of metal survived Skylab's disintegration when it plunged into the Earth's atmosphere about 2 a.m. today (12:37 p.m. EDT Wednesday). Tony Boulton, operations officer of the Western Australian Emergency Service said he

Carter Conferences Appear Near Close

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's flurry of domestic policy conferences is apparently drawing to a close amid heightened speculation his embattled energy secretary, James R. Schlesinger, is about to leave office.

There were signs, too, that after a week of meeting with about 130 official and unofficial advisers and perhaps the most important speech of his presidency ahead, Carter was about to shake up his staff as he tries to deal with the nation's economic and energy woes.

The subject of Schlesinger's departure brought a spate of comments from White House officials, none denying flatly a report he is resigning.

The Energy Department's chief spokesman said Wednesday evening Schlesinger had not resigned. But the spokesman, James Bishop Jr., stopped short of denying the secretary was being fired.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the report was "uninformed speculation."

One sign the president was beginning work on a speech to the nation summing up his seminars was the presence Wednesday at the Camp David retreat of Hendrik Hertzberg, a key speechwriter.

Powell said no date has been set for Carter's return to Washington, but he said "for the next couple of days or so, he will be here at Camp David."

This fueled speculation that Carter was planning to remain there working on an address that could be delivered Sunday evening before he sets out on a planned trip to the Midwest on Monday.

Powell said during the remainder of his stay at the hideaway in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, Carter would review options for reducing oil imports and reviving the economy in the face of an approaching recession.

A White House aide, who asked to remain anonymous, said the president had made no final decision related to energy, although he was considering "some pretty bold stuff."

Carter is expected to endorse some type of mobilization board to cut through government red-tape and speed up crucial energy projects, said administration sources who asked not to be identified. It was not yet clear how much power the board would have.

An energy task force delivered this and other proposals to Carter Wednesday.

The Washington Post said today the Energy Department gave Carter four options for reducing oil imports by 40 percent to 60 percent in 1990.

The proposals reportedly call for slashing imports through a combination of synthetic fuel production, reduced use of oil by utilities, greater production of hard-to-get oil and gas, better insulation of houses and commercial buildings and more switchovers from oil to natural gas heating.

Among the staff changes Carter is contemplating is giving Hamilton Jordan, his longtime aide, more direct lines of authority in the role of chief of staff, said an official, requesting anonymity.

Plans also call for "chopping off" a number of second-level White House aides and moving others to the Carter re-election campaign staff, according to another White House source, who also asked not to be named.

This source also said Californian Victor H. Palmieri was under consideration to be deputy energy secretary, a job that will be open in September when John F. O'Leary's resigns.

Palmieri, 49, is a lawyer and real estate developer in the Los Angeles area. He is on the board of directors of Phillips Petroleum Co. and has served on a number of federal commissions.

Recreation, Parks Policies Adopted

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The adoption of a policy governing use and rental fees of softball fields, and the elimination of tackle football for seventh and eighth grade boys were among actions taken by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission Wednesday night.

With reference to use of softball fields by the public, primarily on non-regular play time during weekends, the policy approved establishes the following conditions and fees:

— Softball fields will rent for $30 per day for one field; and for each additional softball field a $10 per day fee will be charged. Beginning rental time is 9 a.m. For use begining after 4 p.m., the $30 and $10 fees will be halved. If lights are turned on, an additional fee of $25 per field will be charged. Curfew time is 11 p.m. at Evans Park and Guy Smith; and 10:30 Smith, and 10:30 p.m. at Jaycee Park.

— A Recreation and Parks Department employee will be on duty during the entire rental time. Fee for this is $8 per hour up to six hours, and over six hours the fee is $50 per day.

This representative will assist renters in such things as bathroom, lights, keys, etc — but will not be involved in ball playing matters. The representative also has the authority to make final decisions on cancellation of a rental contract due to infractions of policy or due to possible damage to the field because of rain.

— If applicable, the concession stand at Evans Park will be available for a rental fee of $10 per day.

Tag Football Deleted

After Director Boyd Lee had cited the high cost of maintaining the tackle football program for seventh and eighth grade boys within the recreation program, and pointing out that the budget is extremely tight this year, commission members took action to delete tackle football.

Commissioners approved Dr. Edgar Hooks' motion to "drop the tackle program and to implement a tag football program and a soccer program for seventh and eighth grade level children." By using the word "children," Dr. Hooks noted, "the program can include both boys and girls in this age group."

A HOTLINE APPEAL

WERE THERE WITNESSES?

My life and that of my seven-month-old baby were endangered Tuesday afternoon, July 3, about 1:40 when my car was forced off the road by a passing vehicle — a compact station wagon, I believe — we were meeting on Charles Street Extension (Highway 43 South) in front of Hargett's Drug Store. A head-on collision was avoided. Fortunately, my baby was strapped into her car seat or she would have bounced up against the ceiling of the car like one of the hubcaps bounced way up in the air. My car was damaged — a tire was flattened, a wheel was irreparably damaged, and the front end assembly was messed up. The car in such a hurry in that 45-mile zone never stopped, but I feel sure the persons in the car it was passing and several others saw it all happen. I'd appreciate information from anyone who can tell me the identity of the driver. My phone number is 756-8152. F.D.

Health Care Study Has Cigarette-Tax Appeal

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt received the results of a three-year study on health care problems in North Carolina, and some of the details will come as bad news to the state's tobacco farmers.

The report, recommended by the N.C. Health Coordinating Council, called for an extra one-cent per pack tax on cigarettes and increased anti-smoking campaigns.

Hunt praised the report in a speech to the 40-member panel, but said nothing about the tobacco sections. Hunt press secretary Gary Pearce said later Hunt was opposed to the recommendations.

"Obviously, there are some things that are of interest to us and we'll follow, but this administration is not bound to this report," Pearce said.

Council chairman William Richardson of Wilkesboro said the report places primary emphasis on new health education programs, improving disease prevention programs and containing medical costs.

The tobacco tax recommendation is contained in a section on cancer. The report recommends legislation levying a one-cent per pack tax — in addition to the present two-cent tax — with revenues from the tax going toward lung cancer information, education and research.

In another section on heart disease, the report recommends developing two types of education which would encourage smokers to quit, and also to intensify anti-smoking efforts toward young people and others who may have a high risk of disease.

Though anti-smoking campaigns have been politically sensitive areas, Richardson said his group, which includes doctors, other health professionals and laymen, plan to follow through.

"If through health education in public schools you can prevent someone from smoking, you don't have to worry about getting him to stop later, or treating the diseases that result from it," Richardson said.

Richardson said locally written plans are required by federal law in each state in order to project health needs in the next five years. Among the recommendations in the projection are education on many types of diseases and development of health maintenance organizations.

Called HMO's, they are prepaid health clinics which serve as alternatives to health insurance. Such clinics are said to be the key to competitive health care service and keeping a lid on rising medical costs.

The study said North Carolina made progress in reducing the number of infant deaths, with a 1975 rate of 18.5 deaths per 1,000 live births. The study pointed out, however, that three states still have higher infant mortality rates than North Carolina.

The report called heart disease the number one cause of death in the state, accounting for nearly 37 percent of all deaths. Cancer ranked second, accounting for 18 percent.

Mail Rule In Effect On July 15

Sunday, July 15, is the deadline mailers have to use up small undersized envelopes and cards, Greenville Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills reminds customers.

Starting Sunday, the Postal Service makes its new size standards effective. Cards and envelopes measuring less than 3½ inches high or five inches long no longer will be mailed and will be returned to sender.

Extra large First Class envelopes — more than 6½ by 11½ inches will incur a seven cent surcharge if they weigh one ounce or less.

Postmaster Mills advises these oversized pieces will be returned to the sender if they do not carry the seven cent surcharge, but can be remailed if the surcharge postage is then affixed. However, delays for the pieces can be avoided if mailers make sure that sufficient postage has been supplied.

The new regulation will also prohibit thin or flimsy cards. After Sunday, the cards must be at least seven thousandths of an inch thick. "Small envelopes and flimsy cards tend to jam mail processing equipment and cause damage to other mail as well," explained Postmaster Mills. "The surcharge on oversized or odd-shaped pieces is intended to cover the added cost of handling such pieces manually."

"These standards have been established to allow the Postal Service to process mail more efficiently and this will mean better service for customers," he continued.

HONORED FOR SERVICES... Mrs. Dorothy Wooles, outgoing chairman of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission was honored for her services during the past year. Dr. Edgar Hooks, left, former chairman, presented a plaque to Mrs. Wooles at the July meeting Wednesday night. With them are Rufus Huggins, incoming chairman of the commission.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Boy, you don't know what to believe anymore.

Remember when tan was healthy and pale was sick? I do.

Back in Ohio, I dedicated four months out of every year of my life to getting a tan. My ultimate goal was to turn brown before Jan Reeves did. I never made it.

Jan was one of those women whom I suspect hung out all winter under a bulb in the refrigerator, greased up when she stood under a lighted theatre marquee, and turned bronze when she strung Christmas tree lights.

If I dragged out to the community pool right after Easter with a coat over my terminal goose bumps, there she'd be anointing her brown body with baby oil. She couldn't have tanned more evenly if she had been revolving on a barbecue spit. When I appeared she'd look over her large sunglasses and say, "You feeling better?" I felt like a naked chicken.

We all had a Debra Paget wish. Tans made your clothes look better, your teeth whiter, and besides, they announced to the world that you had time to loll.

I personally found being "into sweat" a bore and was relieved when it was discovered to be not only unhealthy but turned you into Dorian Gray.

People have done a complete about-face. No woman wants to admit any more that she suns herself. If you find one who is toasty brown, she'll stammer, "I got this in the garden pulling weeds," or "Can you believe I played golf on an overcast day?"

It makes me suspicious that if sun has only recently turned into a villain, maybe it's only a matter of time before someone figures out that carrots cause cavities, roaches are a status symbol, glasses make you look sexy, giving birth is good for your figure, jogging makes you fat, and small cars are gas hogs.

Somehow, I can't get used to telling people who are tan, "Gosh, you look so brown. Have you been sick? You know, you ought to set aside just a couple of hours a day to get out of the sun more."

Communicate Directly With Gentleman

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing a Dear Abby letter, but here I go: I am 64 and have been widowed for two years. A widower in town has been showering me with expensive presents ever since he lost his wife a year ago.

His sister is a good friend of mine and I have asked her to please tell her brother to quit sending me presents, but either she hasn't done it or her brother doesn't pay her any mind. The presents continue to come.

I am not considering remarriage—at least not to HIM. What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Communicate directly with the generous gentleman. Don't rely on his sister to be your carrier pigeon. Tell him that if it's marriage he's after, he has the right technique—but the wrong woman.

DEAR ABBY: I am an old fogy (50), but with the changing times I think we should change some of our customs.

When I was young, lovers had a courtship, then were married, after which they went on a honeymoon. Then they returned to set up housekeeping.

Now the order is backwards. They go off on a honeymoon first. If they still like each other, they decide to live together. If that works, they get married, and friends and relatives are expected to provide them with wedding gifts. In my day, wedding gifts were for the purpose of getting the newly-joined couple started in their new home. Couples who have lived together for two or three years are not entering into a new union. The don't need a toaster, dishes, pots, pans and coffee-makers.

So, I suggest skipping wedding presents for those who have already lived together.

Please give me your opinion.

ASKING IN ALASKA

DEAR ASKING: It won't work. Most friends and relatives are so glad when the kids decide to make it legal that they send gifts anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our 4-year-old son live above a retired couple who sit home 24 hours a day. We are not the kind of people who have wild parties. In fact, the last party I had was two years ago, and they were all older relatives.

Well, the man below started to complain about our "noisiness" a week after we moved in. He would bang on his ceiling with a broom handle when I'd shut my cupboard door, walk in my kitchen with shoes on, or slam the refrigerator door.

To top it off, my husband and I were walking out to our car and this man came at my husband with a pocketknife saying we had kept him up until 2 a.m. (We never stay up past midnight.)

I think this man must be off balance. Our landlord agrees with us. Any suggestions?

M.C. IN N.Y.

DEAR M.C.: Your neighbor has already broken the law by threatening your husband with a dangerous weapon. If you and your landlord have reason to believe that the man is "off balance," don't wait for a more convincing incident to occur.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago our small gift shop was robbed.

A few days ago a young man came into the shop, introduced himself and asked to meet the owners. We identified ourselves as the owners, then he told us that he and two other boys had committed the robbery. He apologized and made full restitution for the merchandise stolen, plus 8 percent interest for the 10 years!

The money will be used for a good cause.

OVERWHELMED IN BALBOA, CALIF.

DEAR OVERWHELMED: Thanks for a real day-brightener.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 33-year-old woman who would have a very nice figure if I were filled out in the back. I am flat as a board back there and my clothes just hang on me.

Someone said you once listed a place where a woman could get a mail-order fanny made of foam rubber padding that looked and felt like the real thing.

Where is that place?

FLAT IN HAGERSTOWN, MD.

DEAR FLAT: Write to Fredericks of Hollywood and ask for a catalogue. You'll be sitting pretty in no time.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Skylab's Demise Is History

The saga of the summer of 1979 concluded in a fiery heavenly ball yesterday — Skylab plunged to earth.

The demise of the United States-launched space laboratory, now characterized as a ghost ship, has been fully chronicled for weeks.

Skylab served as a home for earth scientists in space and then was abandoned, presumably to circle the earth for many years.

Sun spot activity and other factors changed the estimates of Skylab's orbital life, however, and it became clear to observers on earth that it would gradually fall back into the atmosphere.

Slowly the ship dropped into lower orbit and it became a worldwide topic of conversation as people in every land speculated on their chances of being struck by Skylab debris.

Despite assurances by space agency officials that there was little chance of anyone being hit, there was concern based on the knowledge that the best science could do in estimating re-entry was not totally accurate.

Skylab was many things. It was well worth the expense for the scientific knowledge it contributed.

It was a great waste, burning up as it did on return to earth . . . and it was a learning experience for all of us.

Good Precedent For Other Meetings

Ayden town board commissioners, recognizing that high electric bills would bring complaints, held their monthly meeting without air conditioning Monday night.

It was done to illustrate the board's concern for conserving electricity.

Come to think of it, that might set a good precedent for all governmental boards and commissions.

Without air conditioning on a hot summer night, maybe the complainers won't stay so long.

Jim Hunt Serving Notice

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There is much more than mere political charades or publicity-seeking behind formation by Gov. Jim Hunt of an "exploratory committee."

The three-member panel is supposed to explore his options and goals in this the final year of his term as governor, and determine whether Hunt should seek re-election. This will be the first time in recent history that a North Carolina governor would be allowed to succeed, and Hunt pushed that landmark constitutional amendment through legislative and referendum passage.

Wilson's Betty McCain, a key person in Hunt's first election bid, then chairman of the Democratic Party, now one of the three "explorers" pulls no punches on the purpose of the group: to look only at the governor's race . . . there are no other options to be explored.

That puts the squelch on a popular line of reasoning which some wouldbe Hunt opponents are spreading through the political action lines across the state:

Senate

The talk goes something like this — U.S. Senator Bob Morgan wants out of Washington, and will get a federal judgeship before the election, leaving a vacancy which Hunt would fill.

Hunt would then appoint himself senator, leaving the race for the Governor's Mansion an open field, gaining thereby his much-desired step ahead toward national political prominence.

Of that scenario, Hunt people say flatly, "No Way!" All other problems aside, it would obviously be political suicide, for Tar Heel citizens look askance at such self-serving political maneuvering.

Talks with key Hunt people leave no doubt that he will enter the race for a second term as governor, and the exploratory committee's formation signals that action. It is significant that Hunt himself triggered formation of the committee and the public announcement. He did not wait on somebody to claim they were setting up a committee to help influence his decision or convince him to run again.

BILL NOBLITT

Thus, the committee (in addition to Mrs. McCain, there are State Senator Jim Garrison of Albemarle and State Rep. Henry Frye of Greensboro — a financial wizard from close to Charlotte, and a black from the upper piedmont) has a special purpose.

1. It serves notice on potential Hunt opponents that they must be prepared to tackle the incumbent; an especially difficult task when the man has such firm control over party purse strings and fundraising machinery, and over the ability to get publicity in newspapers and on radio and TV.

2. It puts those who worked for Jim Hunt in the 1976 election campaign, and those who would choose to work in the 1980 race, on notice that they should keep their loyalties in line, and not get committed to any other candidate. Akin to that aim, the activity gives wouldbe supporters and campaign workers a "contact point" in which they can get their names on the line early.

3. It centralizes fund raising activities. The committee must register to handle political funds, and will provide a formal organization to receive and begin storing up the dollars needed for the election campaign. The 1976 race cost Hunt nearly $1.5 million, and if strong opposition materializes, that much will be needed again.

So while some may see the new committee as fun and games with early political speculation, the real purpose is two-fold: to scare off some possible opposition, and to signal the loyal that Jim Hunt will run again.

Unnoticed Blockbuster

WASHINGTON — Over the past 25 years the Supreme Court has handed down five major decisions involving school segregation. Four of them are well known — the Topeka case in 1954, the New Kent County case in 1968, the Charlotte case in 1971 and the Denver case in 1973.

The fifth one came down just the other day, and it is amazing: The Court's blockbuster opinions in the combined cases of Columbus and Dayton, Ohio, have gone almost unnoticed. These surely are among the most significant pronouncements of the Court in this entire field of litigation; the cases will affect families, both black and white, in many states outside the South; the Court has given new life to the grotesque business of racial-balance busing — and except in the cities of Dayton and Columbus themselves, no one has paid much attention.

Let me cut through some of the legalese. When this series of cases began in 1954, the Court was concerned only with segregation where the practice was sanctioned by state law. This was de jure segregation. It was not until later that the Court began to get deeply involved in school cases from outside the South — in Pasadena, Detroit, most

Clique Clicks Help

By PETE JACOBS
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mitch Egan didn't like the idea of his mother being harassed at airports by charity-seekers. Then something clicked and "Froggie" — the Fellowship to Resist Organized Groups Involved in Exploitation — was born.

Now thousands of citizens are armed with Egan's protest tool, those little toy clickers shaped like frogs.

Rather than argue with solicitors, Egan's clique uses clicks to ward them off. He said he got the idea from the noises his children made while he was trying to watch football games. "One (solicitor) did a Krishna curse on me when I clicked her, and told a security guard I was harassing her, at which time the security guard raised his clicker at her and clicked her, and then all the security guards raised their clickers and clicked her. And pretty soon 200 people were clicking her. That just blew her out of her socks!" Egan said Wednesday.

Egan, 36, who wears a "Froggie 1" sweatshirt, is succeeding where legal maneuvers, public relations and a polite "No" have failed at preventing unwanted solicitations. "If God wants a dollar from me, he can ask for one," said Egan.

Egan said he is not against religion, but he's fed up with what he considers organized beggars. He said he and four volunteers have given away 10,000 clickers at San Francisco and Los Angeles International airports in the one-week-old movement.

"The redcaps (doormen) have Froggies, and so do the bus drivers. People who work at the airports are among the most harassed and they love their Froggies," Egan said.

"People love it. They walk right up to me and take the Froggies," Egan said, handing one to a distinguished looking man.

Former football star O.J. Simpson and actor Karl Malden are among the growing legion of Froggie owners, Egan said.

"You can hear it all over the airports. Click, click, click. It's wonderful."

To the editor:

I am a native North Carolinian who has worked in Greenville for the past eight years. One weekend four years ago I learned to hang glide on the soft slopes and smooth winds of Jockey's Ridge, Nags Head.

That first gliding flight will forever be etched in my memory as one of the great moments of my life, as it must have been for the Wright Brothers when they first glided at Kitty Hawk. Having Jockey's Ridge for my weekend training hill allowed me to progress to the point that I could fly from mountains. I have flown more than 100 flights at Jockey's Ridge, have entertained hundreds of spectators, and have never injured even one.

Based on mine and other pilots' experience, spectator safety is not a valid issue at Jockey's Ridge State Park. All pilots know spectators are ignorant of our launch, flight, and landing paths; therefore, we watch for them.

The energy of the Dept. of Natural Resources and Community Development Division of Parks and Recreation would be better expended out there on the dunes with us, rather than in the name of spectator safety. The division should help us provide safe recreation for the spectator by education and direction of weekend visitors. Their signs should be used to caution people to be observant of glider flights, not to announce the banning of weekend flying.

Have they asked the people of N. C. if they wish for hang gliding to continue at Jockey's Ridge. It should be their decision. It's their park. Public hearing should be held.

Have you ever competed with a hawk to see who could get higher, or flown wing tip to wing tip with an eagle? Have you ever watched the sun set as you silently glided down into a darkening valley with wood smoke curling to your nose? Wouldn't you like to? Or, at least, would you like for others to be able to if they wish?

Jason Williams
Greenville

P. S. I understand the ban has been temporarily lifted. I beg the Parks and Recreation Division not to reimpose it.

To the editor:

The 17th annual Jaycee Boys Home Game will be played in Raleigh at Carter Stadium on July 14.

The event was previously held in Greenville at Ficken Stadium until last year when the stadium expansion project was underway. Did Greenville and the local Jaycees give up this event willingly? Can the Jaycees give a good reason for moving the game to Raleigh other than now that it has developed into a significant event, Raleigh has cast its greedy eyes upon it?

During last year's radio broadcast of the game, Raleigh commentators were unashamedly begging Jaycee officials to move the game to Raleigh permanently. There were gradiose pregame predictions of 30,000-plus attendance. The predictions fell flat on their face, but Raleigh has apparently obtained an all-star game.

Greenville has lost by default — not even a murmur of protest! Does anyone care!

THE INSIDE REPORT

Rafshoonery Is Fingered

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Gerald Rafshoon, President Carter's chief image builder, is the presidential aide fingered by other administration officials as most culpable in the Fourth of July week fiasco that brought further deterioration to the Carter image.

When Carter returned from the Tokyo summit, Rafshoon pressed hard for a presidential speech to the nation on the energy crisis. Rafshoon wanted the televised speech as early as July 3 and certainly no later than July 5. What's more, Carter himself was more than willing to go along.

But other members of the Carter team were dubious from the start, for the simple reason that basic energy decisions still had not been made. Giving credence to the old criticism that "Rafshoonery" is all imagery with no substance, the decision to make a speech was made well in advance of actual energy policy decisions.

Energy problems were debated at protracted White House sessions presided over by Carter July 2 and 3. But the fourth and final draft of the speech was scarcely a decisive document. "I told the president it wouldn't help him one bit," one of Carter's most astute advisers confided. Reading that fourth draft at Camp David July 4, Carter agreed.

With or without an energy speech, energy problems persist. High administration officials, dissatisfied with the compromises contained in the fourth draft, will urge the president to make trade-offs on environmental protection that will be necessary as substitutes for imported oil are to be produced.

Jerry Stays Home

Although Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. won't admit it, his proposed campaigning this year for the Democratic presidential nomination has been severely disrupted by the tactics of Republican Lt. Gov. Mike Curb.

Curb stunned Brown during earlier absences from the state by using his acting governor's power to make appointments and issue executive orders, and he has refused to promise any abstinence from such action during future trips by Brown. That effectively shut off Brown's plans to travel the country in behalf of pet causes, such as pro: balanced budget and anti-nuclear power.

Most recently, Curb wrecked Brown's plans to visit Texas to attend a Border States Commission (BSC) meeting. Had Brown left, Curb would have signed a bill putting an anti-busing referendum on the November ballot and might well have appointed a superior court judge. Not until the superior court vacancy is filled and the legislature has adjourned can Brown think about any serious national traveling.

Reagan's Old Friend

Jeffrey Bell, the surprise Republican senate nominee in New Jersey last year who was one of Ronald Reagan's top idea men in 1976, has repaired his badly tattered relationship with Reagan and will soon endorse his 1980 presidential candidacy.

But Bell will not be inside the 1980 campaign as he was in 1976. He is blamed for principal authorship of the plan to shift $80 billion in spending from the federal to state and local governments which caused Reagan so much trouble in the early primary elections.

Bell was outraged last year when Reagan did not support his successful uphill campaign against liberal Sen. Clifford Case in the New Jersey Republican primary. Following his loss in the

Strength For Today

ACCORDING TO A DIVINE ARRANGEMENT

In California at the Mount Wilson Observatory, an astronomer was watching an eclipse. He called in a visitor to let him see the great sight. After gazing at the eclipse for a while the visitor turned and said, "Well, professor, that's the slickest job I ever saw."

This little world of our goes a million and a half miles every day. During the past five minutes we have been hurled more than 5,000 miles through space. Yet no one has felt the least jar. Not a flower was shaken from its stalk, not a cup rattled in the pantry, not a baby was awakened. We have been on a journey that took us 70 times faster than swift aircraft, and all this without a collision. It is a slick job.

Yet the atheist watches this marvelous handling of the traffic of the universe, sees evidence of design not only through the telescope but through the microscope, then shakes his head and says, "There is no God!"

FTC Stirs Industry Reaction

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The FTC report that cash value life insurance policies are a very poor way to save money isn't the last word on the subject, even if the statement can hardly be challenged, even by insurers.

What the Federal Trade Commission undoubtedly has done is to provoke a reaction from the industry, whose assets range between $350 billion and $400 billion. And that reaction, finally, might clear up a few things.

Such as the questions of why savings should ever have become linked with life insurance, why insurers pay such low returns on the cash in policies, and why you have to pay to borrow that cash — your own cash.

The first reaction from the American Council of Life Insurance was that the report was inaccurate and its conclusions wrong. But more will come later. It has to, with all those billions of dollars involved.

The major point made by the FTC staff was that cash-value policies pay an almost insignificant amount of interest, on average only 1.3 percent a year, and that, moreover, this low rate isn't made clear to buyers.

Many agents have a standard answer for the low return. "You're buying protection; the savings are incidental," they say.

Viewed that way, the prospect of nevertheless accumulating savings is appealing.

But it depends on the view. In selling the policy, the salesman seldom fails to stress the savings factor as an important bonus. "Imagine, you get protection and money you can borrow when you need it."

It is straight or ordinary life policies that accumulate savings. It is the kind salesmen love to sell, not just because it is profitable to them but because, they feel, such policies are good protection.

For one thing, they can't be cancelled. The premiums can't be raised. They have those cash and loan features. They can be changed to other forms of life insurance. Agents extol them, correctly, as flexible.

They can, in fact, be converted to term life insurance, with the cash value built up in the straight life policy being used to pay premiums. Term life insurance has no savings feature; it is simply protection.

 general election. Bell was a behind-the-scenes adviser in the still-born presidential effort by Rep. Jack Kemp of New York. Once Kemp made clear he would not run, however, Bell began reviving his old ties with the Reagan campaign.

Blumenthal Travels
 The appearance by Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal at Adams, Mass., July 6 as the guest of Republican Rep. Silvio Conte at ceremonies honoring Susan B. Anthony had national Democratic strategists gnashing their teeth.

Conte, a liberal Republican who often backs Carter administration legislation, frequently has run unopposed in his western Massachusetts district — but not this year. Much to Conte's consternation, he is opposed by Helen Doyle, a member of the Democratic National Committee who was recruited by national Democratic leaders.

Doyle's chances were not helped when President Carter's secretary of the treasury accepted Conte's invitation and appeared beside him as his guest in his home district. But Conte, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, is more important to the Treasury than a long-shot prospect to become a freshman member of Congress.

 notably in Denver. These cases turned upon segregation de facto, that is, upon all-black or all-white schools that existed as a matter of fact and not as a matter of law.

This is generally what the Court held in the de facto cases — that plaintiffs would have to bear the burden of proving that a community's all-black or all-white schools were the consequence of conscious segregative decisions by public bodies — that it wasn't just by accident, but by covert design, that a locality's schools were racially imbalanced. The Court further held that remedial measures must be carefully confined to correcting only those situations where a current constitutional violation could be shown.

The Court's ruling of July 2 in Dayton and Columbus turns everything upside down. The two cities have not operated racially separate schools as a matter of law since at least 1888. But at the time of the Topeka case in 1954, they did in fact have some all-white and all-black schools. Because of this de facto situation 25 years ago, says the Court, it may be presumed that today the two systems are unconstitutional — and the burden of proof has shifted: It is up to the defendant cities to prove their innocence.

Mr. Justice Powell, dissenting, termed the majority's opinions "profoundly disturbing." They appear to endorse "a wholly new constitutional concept." Instead of diminishing the role of the judiciary in school desegregation, these opinions will expand that role. The Court condones the creation of bad constitutional law; its ruling will be "even worse for public education."

The lower courts had decreed that the school systems of the two Ohio cities must be effectively dismantled and restructured. In Columbus, almost half (!) of the students must be bused; teachers must be reassigned; some schools must be closed; patterns of family life must be disrupted. Neighborhood schools must be abandoned by parents who have long supported them. Everything must yield to the draconian ideal of precise racial balance in every school.

Will it work? "The experience in city after city," said Powell, "demonstrates that this is an illusion."

"The process of resegregation, stimulated by resentment against judicial coercion and concern as to the effect of court supervision of education, will follow today's decisions as surely as it has in other cities subjected to similar sweeping decrees."

The prospect for sanity is poor. With this giant step backward, the Court positively invites "white flight" in cities across the nation. The Court's guidelines in the Ohio cases may not be precise, but they are clear enough to guide activist district judges with a yen for social engineering. The grim outlook is that we are about to get scores of such federal judges under Jimmy Carter's nominating power.

I never thought I would smile upon a constitutional amendment to prohibit racial-balance busing, but such an amendment is moving toward a vote in the House. It looks better all the time.

clicking and open one of our books, he'd be a happier man." But Egan says he won't stop clicking and has been asked to expand his movement.

"People are saying, come to Fort Lauderdale, come to Hawaii, come to Chicago," says Egan, who added that he doesn't have the funds for such travel.

"I don't eat too well any more," said Egan, a restaurant consultant, who gave up his job to devote 14 hours a day to his "Froggie 1" duties. He estimates he has spent hundreds of dollars on the toy clickers and flights to Los Angeles.

N.C. Tourism Officials Refuse Accept Defeat

By The Associated Press

North Carolina tourism officials refuse to accept defeat in this season of gas shortages. They say that even though numbers are declining, they are appealing to out-of-state tourists to come to the state anyway.

Bill Arnold, state director of the Travel and Tourism Division of the state Department of Commerce, said state tourist attractions are sponsoring special advertising campaigns to lure tourists back into the state, emphasizing the availability of gasoline.

"The main theme of all these special advertising campaigns is an attempt to tear loose those people within easy driving distance," Arnold said. "A lot of ads are aimed at cities right here in the Carolinas, and most of them are saying: Don't be concerned about the availability of gas. Then they give a telephone number where you can get a gas update."

Arnold's office said it has found some examples of the special campaigns, such as:

—Cherokee, which emphasizes its proximity to the Great Smoky Mountains and "Unto These Hills," the outdoor summer drama depicting the area's history. With attendance down at the two sites from last year, television ads are being shown across the Piedmont section of the state, and as far away as Atlanta.

—Asheville is suffering a 34 percent decline in attendance from last year at its prime attraction, the Biltmore House. The city's chamber of commerce is sponsoring a $24,000 ad campaign to attract visitors within a 250-mile radius.

—The Outer Banks has seen a 15 percent decline in tourism from 1978, aided by three oil spills in the last month. The Dare County Chamber of Commerce is fighting back with newspaper and TV ads being shown in major East Coast markets such as Baltimore, New York City and Philadelphia. Their ads include a "gas supply update" and a toll-free number.

Arnold said only Carowinds, the theme park just south of Charlotte on the Carolinas' state line, has enjoyed a good summer. He said the park has concentrated advertising and marketing within a 150-mile radius of Charlotte.

He said he hoped for a "strong finish" to the state's summer tourist season, and said he is heartened by signs that the gasoline shortage may subside.

Boost Price Of Coffee

NEW YORK (AP) — Procter & Gamble Co., the nation's second-largest coffee roaster, has boosted the wholesale price of Folger's ground coffee brands by 10 cents a pound.

The Cincinnati-based company said Wednesday its new price for ground coffee is $3.18 per pound.

Procter & Gamble said the increase reflects a steady rise in the price of unroasted coffee beans that has pushed the price of a pound of Folger's coffee up by 70 cents since February.

The wholesale price of a 13-ounce can of Folger's Flaked coffee was raised 10 cents to $2.68. Prices of Folger's instant brands were not changed.

Although the Agriculture Department has predicted that coffee prices could go up as much as 40 percent this summer, effect of the latest increases may not be immediately apparent at supermarkets. Many retailers sell coffee at or below wholesale prices to attract customers.

Spokesmen for General Foods Corp., the nation's leading roaster and producer of the Maxwell House brand, and Hills Brothers, ranked third, declined comment on the Procter & Gamble move.

Three weeks ago, Folger's, General Foods and Hills Brothers raised wholesale ground coffee prices by 25 cents a pound.

A frost in coffee-growing areas of Brazil in May is one of the major factors in the price increases. United Business Service, a Boston-based advisory organization, has said that due to the frost, "the potential loss for both the 1979-80 and 1980-81 crops could be substantial."

Nixon Leaving To Visit Shah

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon tonight begins a journey to a suburb of Mexico City for a private visit with exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran.

Nixon plans to leave his San Clemente seaside estate, possibly by helicopter, for Tijuana, Mexico, where airline officials said Nixon would board a jetliner for the trip to Mexico City.

"The reservations were made through Aeromexico," said Bud Lewis, president of the Lewis Co. in Los Angeles, which handles public relations for the Mexican state airline. Aeromexico's office in Tijuana also confirmed the arrangements on Wednesday.

Lewis said the former chief executive will depart from the border city with a party of 14 people and will be flying in a DC-10. The wide-bodied jetliner series is barred from U.S. airports because its design certificate has been withdrawn, but Mexico and some other foreign nations continue to permit their use on routes outside the United States.

The visit to Mexico was not expected to be a long one, since Nixon has scheduled a party at his home on Sunday for several of the nation's astronauts. The party will be the Nixon's last major event at the estate, formerly the Western White House. Nixon has sold the property to an unidentified group of Orange County businessmen.

SKYLAB ENCOUNTER? — Jay Mattox of 215 Wesley Rd., right, and a friend David Tingelstad stand beside a piece of debris young Mattox found in his front yard Wednesday morning. The metal object was painted with the letters USA and Skylab. It strongly resembled an auto fender. The youngsters said they didn't know where it came from or who placed it there, but it was a good job. Although the object obviously wasn't from Skylab, the youngsters took it seriously. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Hunt Turns Down A Job Offer

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt says he has no interest in taking a job in Washington, but is flattered that President Carter would ask.

speech to the N.C. Health Coordinating Council in Raleigh.

Hunt was one of several governors that Carter invited to the Maryland retreat as he began what became summit conference on domestic issues. Hunt went to Camp David on Friday and stayed overnight.

Hunt press secretary Gary Pearce later said no specific job was mentioned in the brief exchange. "He just asked him, if he would be interested in coming up and helping him," Pearce said. "Hunt said no, he was interested in staying in North Carolina...He just said, 'I don't have any interest in that whatsoever.'"

Pearce said Hunt did not ask if Carter had any specific job in mind.

Hunt and Carter have been friends since Carter was governor of Georgia, Pearce said. He said the president made the comment after the two completed a three-mile jog together at Camp David.

"They apparently spent right much time talking about education," Pearce said.

Hunt, widely expected to seek re-election in 1980, has long been a vigorous supporter of Carter, and was among the president's most vocal defenders at the National Governors' Conference last weekend in Louisville, Ky.

Education Department Barely Wins In House

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of a Cabinet-level education department, undaunted by a lukewarm House endorsement of President Carter's proposal, say they are concocting new strategies to stymie the idea.

Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., a leader of the opposition, said the next fight will occur as House and Senate negotiators sit down to compromise major differences in their plans for the department.

The House approved its version of the proposal, which would create a 13th Cabinet department, on a vote of 210-206 Wednesday.

Walker says opponents will try to force the Senate, if the bill is to survive, to accept House-passed amendments on abortion, busing, school prayer and quotas.

Walker and his colleagues are counting on the Senate and even many of the members of the House who voted for the bill to balk at that choice because of their objections to the amendments.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., the proposed department's chief Senate backer, said he was sure all differences in the two versions would be worked out. Other sources, however, predicted Senate negotiators were sure to object strenuously to the amendments.

Even if the Senate capitulates, Walker said, some members of the House might be convinced to change their favorable votes when reminded that there is a mood in the country against creating more federal agencies.

He said he feels opponents have "an excellent chance of beating the conference report."

Nevertheless, the House vote was a significant victory for the president, who has had difficulty convincing Congress to adopt several of his programs. Establishing the department is a top domestic presidential priority.

The new agency would have a budget exceeding $14 billion and a workforce of more than 15,000 employees.

Praising the House action, the president said the department "would streamline administration of more than 150 federal education programs, saving tax dollars and cutting red tape."

The Senate approved its version of the bill on April 30 on a 72-21 vote.

Many of the education programs now handled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would be transferred to the new agency.

The proposed department has been described by its backers as a management tool that would bring greater accountability and visibility to education while reducing slightly the federal workforce and generating some long-term savings.

But the opposition claims it would lead to federal dominance of education. They said there was no reason to believe the bureaucracy would shrink with a new department or that the quality of education would improve.

Claims HEW Waste Is Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is wasting less taxpayer money in distributing welfare payments, according to HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

Califano announced Wednesday that the payment error rate has been reduced in recent months by one percentage point to 7.1 percent, saving more than $100 million.

Union Loses In Election

Produce and grocery department employees of three Harris Super Markets in Greenville, yesterday defeated a union election by a vote of 41 to 18.

The Retail Clerks International Union, Local 204, (AFL-CIO), petitioned for a vote in Harris' three Greenville stores May 1 to represent produce and grocery department workers.

Managers, supervisors, guards and meat department workers were not included in vote for union representation, held yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board.

Durward Harris, owner of the grocery chain said today, "I'm mighty happy."

He termed yesterday's vote a "great victory...not just for us, but for Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina."

Harris characterized the bid by the union to organize the workers, "a stepping stone for them," and said, "I am mighty proud of my employees who voted against it."

Grants Awarded 2 Fire Departments

Two Pitt County volunteer fire departments have been awarded grants from the North Carolina Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.

Announced Tuesday, the grants to the Red Oak and Clarks Neck Fire Departments totaled $530 each. They are included in more than $78,000 distributed to 114 rural fire departments in the state in an effort to aid the fire agencies in obtaining equipment to provide better fire protection.

State-wide, the grants ranged from $2,000 to $530. In addition, surplus military trucks have been provided to a number of rural departments for outfitting locally.

The funds and vehicles are provided under the federal Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act and must be matched with local funds.

In addition to the two Pitt County departments receiving grant funds, the Jason Volunteer Fire Department in Greene County will receive a $530 grant.

Bicycling And Jogging Trails Being Prepared

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The trails may not be long, long trails, nor winding ones, but as Greenville grows, the need for inter-city pathways to serve non-motorized travelers are being recognized and efforts made to provide them to users.

Two trails are now in progress in Greenville — a nine mile plus bicycle trail to be inaugurated on Friday, July 20, and a combined jogging-exercise trail that will encompass a little more than a mile's length within Green Springs Park.

City officials and others will be making the initial tour of the bicycle trail — whether on bikes or by other means is unknown at this time.

The joint jogging-exercise trail is now in its early stages of preparation. Recreation Director Boyd Lee reported that "our youngsters in the YCC grant program are working on it. Their main job will be to build eight exercise stations along the trail. The Greenville Pilot Club has donated $800 for construction costs, and J. C. Penney Company is donating signs to be placed along the trail."

Plans are not yet firm about how the trail from station to station will be marked, but one possibility is the installation of rails or boards to delineate the trail.

"We'd like to have a firmed down path, possibly with an asphalt covering," Lee commented, "but that's far beyond our resources at this time."

The joint trail will provide a safer running course for devotees of jogging, and a convenient series of stations with equipment to help exercisers to build and tone body muscles.

Investigating Theft Of Safe

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said officers at mid-morning were pressing their investigation of the theft of a safe from Overton's Supermarket at the intersection of Third and Jarvis Streets.

Cannon said thieves gained entrance to the store through the roof and removed the safe through the rear door.

The theft, he noted, was reported by employees opening the store for business today.

The chief noted that the theft of the safe was the second incident at the Overton building in recent days. He explained that thieves broke a window at Overton's ski shop several days ago and took about $1,500 worth of water skis from the store.

Tellico Dam To See Test Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate floor test is coming on whether to complete Tennessee's $119 million Tellico Dam project, long stalled because it threatens a tiny fish, the snail darter, with extinction.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday decided in favor of completing the project by clearing for floor action a bill appropriating $10.8 billion for the next fiscal year for energy and water projects.

Supports U.S. Compensation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Clifford Alexander supports federal compensation for parents of Army Pvt. Wayne Krassow of Cygnet, Ohio, and Lester Watts of York, S.C., who died after being abused by drill sergeants during the first day of boot camp at Fort Jackson, S.C., in 1978.

A compensation bill may be introduced by Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, a member of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee which heard Alexander and Army training command officers testify Wednesday on incidents of abuse of recruits.

Begin Praises Talk With Sadat; Positive Results

By MICHAEL PRECKER
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin returned today from three days of talks with President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria, saying the peace process had reached a "stage of friendship, common understanding and cooperation," Israel Radio reported.

Begin said his visit was good and produced "positive results," the radio said. Begin told reporters in Alexandria he would telephone President Carter and send him "a full report" on his talks with Sadat.

He also said Israel would return the Sinai oil fields to Egypt on Oct. 27, and as agreed before, would buy oil from Egypt "at market prices."

The oil fields handover is part of the three-year Israeli phased withdrawal from Sinai stipulated in the March 26 peace pact between the two countries.

"I think the negotiations are going the right way," Egyptian Vice President Hosni Mubarak told reporters as Begin's air force executive jet lifted off from Alexandria airport. "We hope with these contacts and meetings we can reach something very fruitful."

Israeli spokesman Dan Patir said Begin was going home today after two days of talks "feeling he accomplished a mission with important and good results."

"I can underline that on the Israeli side we regard the talks and their results, although not made public, as very important."

He told reporters the two leaders omitted a number of topics they discussed when they summarized the results at a joint news conference Wednesday.

Patir defended the lack of announced accomplishments, saying: "These talks were not negotiations and we did not expect any resolutions or decisions."

Sadat and Begin said they would meet again in Haifa, Israel, next month. Patir said the summit talks would continue on a regular basis but would not speculate how often they would occur.

Egyptian officials offered no elaboration on Sadat's statement to the news conference that the progress of the talks was "sufficient." The Egyptian leader said details should not be discussed at this point.

Despite two days of intensive discussions, the leaders failed to announce any resolution of such basic issues as new Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip territories or their different ideas of autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians in the two areas.

Begin said they "agreed to differ" on the settlement issue. Sadat revealed that he had raised the issue along with the conflict in Lebanon where Israel has carried out reprisals against Palestinian guerrillas.

Observers said he sought to get Israeli pledges of restraint on both issues to try to attract Arab moderates to join the peace process.

But Begin vowed to continue to defend Israel against the guerrillas and said "we don't do any wrong" by settling uncultivated land in the West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza Strip.

Sadat and Begin said they agreed, however, that there should be no partitioning of Lebanon despite Israel's support of a Christian militia commander, Maj. Saad Hadad, who has proclaimed a tiny "Free Lebanon" state just north of the Lebanese-Israeli border.

Sadat also agreed to allow Egyptian Jews, who number a few hundred, to visit relatives in Israel and promised to investigate Israeli complaints that only 20 Israeli tourists have been allowed through the "open borders" declared two months ago.

Paving Project

City Engineer Ron Sewell reported that the city is in the process of paving Evans Street from Fifth to Tenth Street.

Sewell pointed out that the paving will begin on Monday, July 23 and should be completed within a matter of two days.

"Until that time," Sewell noted, "the street will have to remain as a dirt street to provide for all utility adjustments and repairs."

The city engineer added, "We realize that this will be an inconvenience to the citizens of Greenville, and we apologize for any hardship that may be placed upon anyone during that time. However, this is necessary in order to acquire the desired results."

Sewell mentioned that persons seeking further information as to the schedule of the city's paving projects should contact the Engineering Department at 752-4137, extension 211.

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New signs are arising that American business, particularly the automobile industry, is facing tough times as the economy slides deeper into a recession.

The Commerce Department reported Wednesday that business inventories rose again in May to levels one agency spokesman called worrisome, particularly as consumers cut back purchases from auto salesrooms to restaurants.

The inventory buildup was announced as the Congressional Budget Office said the recession would be deeper than it originally believed. It predicted double-digit inflation through 1979 and as many as 2 million more Americans out of work by the end of next year.

Despite the gloomy news, Alice Rivlin, the agency director, warned against hasty action to reverse the slowdown because that could fuel inflation.

And Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told the congressional Joint Economic Committee the U.S. dollar was "in reasonably good shape" because of improvements in the nation's trade and payments accounts.

He said the dollar had lost some value on international money markets Wednesday, but attributed this to "nervousness" over the impact of the latest oil price rise imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Crane, a congressman from Illinois, reported raising $2.5 million in the past 10 months, but he also reported his campaign was $795,211 in debt.

Other reports from Republican presidential hopefuls showed George Bush has raised $1.48 million so far this year, Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, $643,373, and Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, $253,286.

The budget office, which advises Congress on economic matters, blamed the deteriorating business outlook on skyrocketing prices for fuel and food and sharp increases in mortgage rates, which have slowed the construction industry.

That outlook was dampened by the Commerce Department report that inventories in May rose $4.7 billion, or 1.2 percent, to a seasonally adjusted $402 billion. They increased $5.4 billion in April. In May 1978, inventories were valued under $360 billion, the department reported.

Auto inventories in May rose even more sharply, 4.7 percent. "The inventory buildup is getting fairly high," a department spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said. "It will begin catching up with us unless we get better retail sales."

Overall retail and wholesale levels in May were virtually unchanged. The department attributed a 3 percent rise in sales almost entirely to manufacturing.

Carter Cash Is Mounting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has raised about $1.5 million for his re-election campaign — less than raised by Republican presidential hopefuls John Connally and Philip Crane.

According to reports filed with the Federal Election Commission Wednesday, Carter raised $1.2 million in the second quarter of the year.

Including cash carried over from the first quarter and subtracting expenditures of nearly $600,000, the president's re-election committee reported $947,350 on hand at the end of June.

Connally, a former Treasury secretary and Texas governor, reported raising about $2.2 million so far this year, including about $890,000 in the second quarter.

Crane, a congressman from Illinois, reported raising $2.5 million in the past 10 months, but he also reported his campaign was $795,211 in debt.

Other reports from Republican presidential hopefuls showed George Bush has raised $1.48 million so far this year, Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, $643,373, and Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, $253,286.

Jupiter Ring Confirmed

JUPITER'S RING — Voyager 2 photographed this view of Jupiter's ring Tuesday. The unexpected brightness is probably due to forward scattering of sunlight by small ring particles. (AP Laserphoto)

By REYNOLDS R. RAST
Associated Press Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists howled with glee as beautifully clear pictures of Jupiter and its newly-found ring were beamed to Earth by Voyager 2, now sliding toward a 1981 rendezvous with Saturn.

"Oh, hell. It's wild," raved Dr. Bradford A. Smith of the University of Arizona. "It's been one spectacular discovery after another. This is the most exciting unmanned mission in history."

Smith, head of the Voyager photography team, said the photographs show Jupiter's ring, discovered by Voyager 1 four months earlier, extends all the way to the surface.

"There is structure in the rings of Jupiter," Smith said at a Wednesday news conference summing up Voyager 2's preliminary findings. "We have a very narrow outer ring (about 6,500 kilometers wide) and an inner ring of thinner matter that goes all the way down to the surface."

One theory about the ring configuration is that it may be composed of mass lost from the volcanic moon Io or possibly material from a satellite ripped apart by Jupiter's fierce gravity pull, Smith said.

The pictures being beamed back to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here since Sunday were taken about one million miles from the dark side of Jupiter, the fifth planet from the sun. They clearly show a large portion of the ring structure.

During Voyager 1's flight past Jupiter four months ago, scientists learned the ring's outer edge is 79,500 miles from the center of the planet and the ring itself is no more than 18.6 miles thick.

Early findings also indicate similarities in atmospheric movement, including storms and clouds, between Earth and Jupiter, said project scientist Garry E. Hunt.

"We are seeing many analogs in the Jovian atmosphere which are similar to Earth," he said.

Scientists were elated with data gathered on the four Galilean satellites (the largest of Jupiter's 13 moons) — Io, Ganymede, Callisto and Europa.

Legislators To Get The Tunnel

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It appears the state's legislators will get their tunnel after all, despite continuing objection from Gov. Jim Hunt.

The Legislative Services Commission made the request for the $315,000 project during the last session of the General Assembly. But Hunt suggested that legislators should invest in umbrellas instead of building the tunnel.

But the pet project of Wilmington architect Herbert McKim will come up for final consideration before the Advisory Budget Commission.

Hunt's objection is to be read into the record. The News and Observer of Raleigh reported Thursday, when the committee

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell for the third consecutive session today amid continued uneasiness over energy and economic policies being drafted at Camp David.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 3.84 at 840.02 at midday, after falling nearly 9 points in the two previous sessions.

But trading on the New York Stock Exchange was slower than in the previous session. At noon Big Board turnover was 14.06 million shares down from 15.79 million in the previous session. Losing issues outnumbered gainers by about 3-to-2.

Analysts said traders apparently were awaiting more word on what type of energy and economic policies might be unveiled by President Carter when he addresses the nation, possibly on Sunday.

In addition, some traders were said to be looking for another big jump in money supply figures when the weekly Federal Reserve report is issued after the close of the market today. If so, that might increase concern over the nation's ability to slow the pace of inflation.

Braniff International, down 1/2 to 11 1/2, topped the noon NYSE most active list. A block of 389,000 shares was traded at 11 1/4.

National was unchanged at 46 1/2. Eastern today was granted authority to purchase up to 25 percent of National stock following earlier approval for Pan Am and Texas International Airlines in the three-way merger contest.

Eastern rose 1/4 to 8; Pan Am slipped 1/8 to 7 and on the American Stock Exchange, Texas International gained 1/2 to 13 1/2.

International Telephone & Telegraph slipped 1/8 to 28 1/2, as the second most active NYSE issue. Its president and chief executive Lyman Hamilton Jr. resigned because of differences with the board of directors.

The NYSE composite index fell 30 to 58.56. The Amex market value index slipped .02 to 197.81.

New Warplanes Strengthen Somoza

not known, but it was suspected that they came from neighboring El Salvador. It, too, is ruled by a military dictatorship which is known to have T-28s.

The T-28s have bomb racks under the wings, and six of them would greatly increase Somoza's airpower. The national guard, his combined army and police force, has had only two operational T-33 jets used for strafing and rocket attacks, four helicopters from which bombs are kicked out the door and two DC-3s with machine guns mounted in the door.

Reporters also saw women in national guard uniforms carrying rifles at checkpoints and aboard troop trucks bound for battle zones in the past few days, indicating women were being drafted.

He told reporters Wednesday he would "fight to the end" unless his Liberal Party is represented in the next government and his army is kept intact to keep order. He also said the United States has cut off all its outside arms shipments. Israel has been Somoza's principal supplier of weapons since the United States stopped selling to him.

The provisional junta named by the rebels failed to reach agreement in San Jose, Costa Rica, with special U.S. Ambassador William Bowdler on conditions for Somoza's resignation and sent a policy statement to all Latin American presidents.

Damage was estimated at $600 to the Buck car and $1,500 to the Streeter vehicle.

An estimated $1,000 damage resulted to a car driven by Emma Cox Farmer of 109 Raleigh Ave. when her vehicle collided with a truck operated by Alfred Johnson Cotton of Route 7, Kinston, about 9 p.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Dickinson Avenue, investigators reported.

No damage resulted to the Cotton vehicle, police noted.

Officers said cars driven by Clayton Edward Wilson of Route 2, Greenville and Glenda Faye Nobles of Langston Park Apts. collided about 4 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Davis Streets, causing $100 damage to the Wilson car and $300 damage to the Nobles auto.

New officers for the commission were elected. Rufus Huggins was elected chairman, succeeding Mrs. Dorothy Woolees; and Roy Carawan was elected vice-chairman.

A plaque in appreciation for her services as chairman was presented to Mrs. Woolees by Dr. Hooks, former chairman.

Disposition of the tackle equipment now on hand will be decided at an early date.

Commissioners approved Rufus Huggins' motion to reiterate their earlier decision to opt for a $1 a running foot fee to be charged the Greenville Cable TV Inc. for a right of entry fee at the Town Common along First Street.

Two months ago, the TV agency had sought an easement for the purpose of installing underground cable in order to take Cable TV across the river to residents living in the Meadowbrook area.

Huggins' motion also included a stipulation that the company be responsible for any damage done to the area.

It was noted that the City Council is tonight considering a vote on the issue. Commissioners concurred that they would stand pat on their recommendation.

Files Suit Over Estate-Handling

RALEIGH — Barbara Ward Tyson, widow of the late James Harvey Ward Jr. of Greenville, has filed suit in Wake County Superior Court against North Carolina National Bank for alleged mismanagement of her late husband's estate.

Filed yesterday, the suit asks $625,000 in actual damages and $550,000 in punitive damages.

Mrs. Tyson, who has remarried and is now living in Orange County, alleges in the complaint that punitive damages are warranted because the bank breached its duty to her as trustee of her husband's estate.

Ward, the Democratic nominee for the North Carolina House of Representatives from Pitt County in 1968, committed suicide shortly before the General Election.

The suit charges that NCNB, as trustee of Ward's estate, has conducted a number of questionable transactions that depleted Ward's trust and resulting income for his wife.

One disputed act cited in the complaint was the sale of Ward's farm in December of 1969.

According to the suit, the farm, which was generating $25,000 gross profits each year, was sold because the bank erroneously believed it was the only piece of property that could satisfy debts incurred by Ward prior to his death.

The complaint charges that Ward owned a house that could have been sold to satisfy the debts, leaving the farm to generate income for Mrs. Tyson.

The bank, which had assumed that the house belonged to Ward's wife after his death, learned that the house actually belonged to Ward a year after his death and sold the home for $60,000 the suit charged.

GREENVILLE (AP) — An estimated $3,500 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Damage was estimated at $600 to the Buck car and $1,500 to the Streeter vehicle.

Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza reportedly has received six new warplanes to bolster his defense against the Sandinista guerrillas and apparently is drafting women.

Meanwhile, a lull continued in the six-week-old revolution against his family dictatorship. An intercepted rebel radio conversation revealed that the guerrillas of the Sandinista National Liberation Front had suspended plans for major new offensives while they consolidated what they have — control of all the major cities and towns in western Nicaragua except Managua.

A reporter saw two T-28 attack bombers at Managua airport Wednesday and a reliable source said four more of the propeller planes already had been delivered to Somoza.

The source of the planes was not known, but it was suspected that they came from neighboring El Salvador. It, too, is ruled by a military dictatorship which is known to have T-28s.

78° IS COOL.

For every degree cooler than 78°, your air conditioner uses about 5% more electricity. And in the summer, when the most electricity is being used, that can make a big difference.

So please, set your home air conditioner at 78° or higher, or no more than 15° cooler than the temperature outside (which ever is the higher setting).

You can also take these two important energy management steps. First, restrict your use of major appliances during the "peak load" hours of 10 A.M. to 10 P.M. Second, don't overwork your water heater. Use the dishwasher and washing machine only for full loads, and wash clothes in cool water instead of hot.

By following these tips, you'll be keeping your electric bills down, and helping us all make it through the summer without power shortages.

Pitt Wins, 4-3, In 17th

ROCKY MOUNT — Mark Douglas tripled in Curtis Spencer in the 17th inning last night to give Pitt County a 4-3 victory over Rocky Mount in the second game of their best-of-five Area A American Legion championship series.

The marathon victory gives Pitt a 2-0 lead going into tonight's game at Harrington Field. Post 39 can wrap up the championship with a victory tonight.

Pitt County had to work hard for last night's win. It took a Post 39 run in the ninth inning to send the game into extra innings and excellent defensive plays by both teams prevented the contest from ending sooner.

Ben Wilson started on the mound for Pitt and pitched well for 12 complete innings. He had to be taken out at that point, however, due to an American Legion rule that prevents a player from pitching more than 12 innings in any two-day period. Mel Howard hurled the remaining five frames and got the victory. Wilson gave up seven hits and three runs, while Howard gave up just two hits.

Rocky Mount also used a pair of hurlers. Bruce Rhodes was the starter, lasting until the ninth. He was responsible for three Pitt County runs. Carl Payne handled the relief duties and gave up the final run. He was charged with the loss. Rhodes gave up four hits and Payne eight.

Rocky Mount scored first in the game with a run in the bottom of the first. Bill Merrifield singled and moved to third on a double by David Wells. He scored on Bruce Ellis' infield out.

Pitt County tied the game in the top of the third when Mike Williams was hit by a pitch and scored on Mike Campbell's double.

Rocky Mount scored runs in the fourth and fifth to take a 3-1 lead. Wells singled and scored on an error in the fourth, while Rhodes got a walk in the fifth and was pushed across by walks to Rayford Long, Merrifield and Wells.

Pitt County cut the lead to 3-2 in the sixth as Wilson singled, went to second on Skip Topping's sacrifice, went to third on Spencer's single and scored on Douglas' infield out.

Pinch hitter Micah Dixon tied the game in the ninth. He walked and advanced on a passed ball. Williams beat out an infield grounder and Campbell sacrificed the two runners up. Shank then hit a fly ball to shallow right that fell in and Dixon went racing home with the tying run. Williams was left at third.

Pitt County had men in scoring position in the 11th, 12th and 13th innings, while Rocky Mount had men in position in the ninth, 10th, 11th and 15th.

The winning run came in the top of the 17th. Spencer singled with one out and Douglas followed with a triple to win the game.

Shank was 2-5, Spencer 2-6 and Topping 2-7 for Pitt County, while Wells was 4-7, Merrifield 2-6 and Dwayne Pridden 2-7 for Rocky Mount.

Bonds Hits Homer, Then Says He Wants To Leave Cleveland

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

There are 75 games left in what is becoming a lame duck season for the Cleveland Indians.

They hold fifth place in the American League's East Division because their record is one-thousandth of a point better than that of Detroit. Their manager, Jeff Torborg, will not be back; and neither, it appears, will slugger Bobby Bonds.

And if Bonds leaves Cleveland at the end of the season — as he said he would after Wednesday night's 9-8 victory over Kansas City — so might Cliff Johnson, who just got there.

Bonds and Johnson made their presences felt twice Wednesday night. Bonds hit a three-run homer in Cleveland's four-run sixth while Johnson's seventh-inning homer (his third RBI of the contest) produced the winning run in the error-filled encounter.

Then Bonds dropped another bomb, calling a post-game news conference in the office of his soon-to-be-departed manager.

Contract negotiations with Indians President Gabe Paul, he said, have seen "no movement," though Bonds is on the second year of the five-year pact he signed with Texas last season.

According to the collective bargaining agreement, Bonds — who five times has hit 30 or more homers and stolen 30 or more bases in the same season — has the right to request a trade by Oct. 15. He would become a free agent if the Indians do not trade him by March 15.

"I'm thinking about leaving, too," said Johnson, acquired from the Yankees on June 15. "If Bobby leaves, it'll destroy this team."

In other AL games Wednesday, the Seattle Mariners bombed the New York Yankees 16-1, the Boston Red Sox downed the California Angels 9-3, the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-3, the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 2-1 in 10 innings and the Baltimore Orioles topped the Oakland A's 3-1.

Mariners 16, Yankees 1
A two-run triple by Mario Mendoza and a two-run homer by Ruppert Jones keyed the nine-run first inning that started Seattle to its 13th victory in 16 home games against the world champions.

Seven runs were charged against New York left-hander Tommy John, 13-4, who entered the game with the AL's best earned run average for starting pitchers (2.23) and left after retiring just one batter.

Bruce Bochte and Leon Roberts added two-run homers for Seattle, with Jones' blast landing in the third deck of the Kingdom.

Floyd Bannister, 5-7, held the Yankees to three hits — including Lou Piniella's seventh-inning homer.

Red Sox 9, Angels 3
Fred Lynn had two doubles, two singles, scored twice and drove in two runs to spark Boston's victory over California.

The Red Sox amassed 17 hits, including seven doubles, a triple and Butch Hobson's home run, to back Dennis Eckersley, 9-5.

Jim Rice had three hits and two RBI for Boston.

White Sox 5, Rangers 3
Successive seventh-inning singles by Alan Bannister, Junior Moore, Chet Lemon and Lamar Johnson snapped a 3-3 tie and lifted Chicago to its eighth victory in 10 games against Texas this year.

"There's teams you beat up and teams that beat you on you. It just so happens that Chicago beats up on us," said Rangers Manager Pat Corrales said.

The White Sox have won seven of their last eight games.

Brewers 2, Blue Jays 1
Robin Yount's 10th-inning triple scored Sixto Lezcano with the run that carried Milwaukee past Toronto. John Mayberry's single drove in a first-inning run for the Blue Jays, but Milwaukee tied it in the fifth on a bases-loaded groundout by Ben Oglivie.

Orioles 3, A's 1
Eddie Murray had three hits, including his 10th homer of the year, and Gary Roenicke added his 15th of the season as Baltimore bested Oakland.

Dennis Martinez, 11-6, pitched a seven-hitter for his first victory since June 20.

Gillette Move A Big Gamble

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

There were 3,000 razor blade companies in 1939, when Gillette found the edge. The Boston-based company bought the World Series between the Yankees and Reds — not just a minute or two of commercial time, but every pitch, hit and run.

The company paid $100,000 for the Series and hoped it would go seven games. The Yankees, however, short-circuited the Reds and nearly 50 percent of Gillette's advertising with a four-game sweep.

That Series promotion was a big gamble since Gillette sank 20 percent of its advertising budget for the year into radio broadcasts of a single sports event, a vehicle not highly regarded by advertisers in those days. Beyond the rights fees, the cost of putting the commercials on the air brought Gillette's total outlay to $203,000 — a big bundle back then, even if it wouldn't buy a single minute for today's Super Bowl.

"There were a lot of people who thought we were cutting our throats," says Joseph Marino, vice president of marketing for Gillette's safety razor division.

When the results were in, the Gillette people looked pretty sharp, and sports advertising has not been the same since. The sales for Gillette's 49-cent special, featured on the Series broadcasts, were up 350 percent over the year before.

To paraphrase, Chico Esquele, the zany character on "Saturday Night Live", baseball has been berry, berry good to Gillette.

Forty years later, Gillette and baseball continue their happy marriage with commercial exposure on this Tuesday night's All-Star Game on NBC and the underwriting of the All-Star balloting for the 10th straight year.

The All-Star voting is the largest non-political election in the United States. This year, nearly 12.5 million ballots were cast. Gillette's name was on every one of them, although there were no plugs for any products.

That's been Gillette's concept since 1910, when razor blade testimonials were elicited from baseball figures such as John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. Officials of the company now laugh at one early endorsement, in which the crusty McGraw supposedly said sweetly of the razor: "It makes shaving all to the merr-y."

With the phenomenal success of its 1939 World Series campaign, Gillette began buying other sporting events.

When television arrived, the "Gillette Cavalcade of Sports" became part of the viewer's consciousness. Its first foray into TV came in 1944, with the featherweight championship fight between Willie Pep and Chalky Wright. At that time, there was only one station, WNBT in New York, and only 6,000 sets, most of them in bars.

In the 1950s and 60s, TV audiences were introduced to Sharpie the Parrot, who asked: "How're Ya Fixed for Blades?" With sports as its vehicle, Gillette went from 18 percent of the blade market in 1938 to over 60 percent 20 years later. Somebody must have been listening.

The Cincinnati Bengals picked defensive back Jim Browner of Notre Dame in the 1979 NFL Draft. Jim's brother, Ross, is a star defensive lineman for Cincinnati.

Albemarle Teams Take Senior Tourney Wins

Albemarle County's Senior Babe Ruth teams advanced into the winners' brackets last night in the first round of the Area G tournament being played here.

Albemarle's 16-year-olds downed Pitt County, 12-6, while their 17-18-year-olds took a 7-6 win, also over Pitt County.

Tonight, Albemarle will face Windsor in the winners' bracket, with the survivor of the games moving into their respective finals. The losers face Pitt on Friday in the finals.

Albemarle scored first in the 16-year-old game, getting a run in the first. Mike Winslow walked and was safe at second when David Bunch's grounder was error-ed. He moved on to third on the play, then scored on a passed ball.

Pitt came back with four runs in the bottom of the first, taking the lead, 4-1. Ricky Simpson singled and Brady Quinn walked. Billy Dough's grounder was error-ed at second, scoring Simpson, and moving both Quinn and Dough up a base. Quinn scored on a wild pitch, and Kenny Barnes walked. A double steal brought in Doug, and an error moved Barnes to third. He scored on Jeff James' sacrifice fly.

Albemarle scored a second run in the second, then pushed ahead for good with five in the fourth.

Walker Named DHC Grid Coach

Jimbo Walker, former East Carolina University star offensive lineman, has been named as the new head football coach at D.H. Conley High School.

Walker will replace Chuck Dunn as head coach. Dunn will continue as a member of the Conley faculty, and will retain his track coach position.

Walker, a native of Atmore, Ala., is a graduate of East Carolina, where he played football under Sonny Randle and Pat Dye. Walker was twice named to the All-Southern Conference team, and was an outstanding blocker from his guard position.

Following his graduation, he served a year as graduate assistant at East Carolina, and was assistant coach at Cox High School in Virginia Beach, Va., this past year.

The head coaching position at Conley will be Walker's first as a head coach.

Probation No Problem For New Coach Odom

Dave Odom, the new head basketball coach at East Carolina University, feels that the one-year probation handed the school's basketball program will not hamper his efforts to rebuild it.

"When I was interviewed for the position I was made totally aware of the facts and the possibility of a probationary period being imposed by the NCAA. I didn't go into this with my eyes closed."

"I made the statement at the time that I accepted the job that I was aware of an NCAA investigation and that I hoped that if any penalty was imposed that it would not be severe. But, I also said that we would be able to live with whatever happened."

The NCAA, late Tuesday, assessed East Carolina with the year's probation, based on its own investigation of the recruitment of a "star player," believed to be Al Tyson. East Carolina's own in-house investigation discredited the NCAA report, but the school announced yesterday that it would not appeal the ruling.

The alleged violations occurred during the tenure of former coach Larry Gillman, and, according to the report, were laid at the feet of assistant coach Herb Dillon, also no longer on the staff.

"I'm totally satisfied with the efforts of the officials in charge of our part of the investigation. I know that they did everything possible to completely exonerate us," Odom said.

"I'm disappointed that the NCAA didn't completely concur with our findings."

Odom added that he felt nothing further could be gained through appeal, and he also felt that the probation would have no effect on the future of the program.

The probation does not allow East Carolina to participate in post-season tournaments, nor to appear on NCAA-controlled television games during the coming season.

"Our recruiting is already over for this coming year, and everyone was aware of the possibility of probation," Odom said. "And it should have no effect on the recruiting of future players."

"I just hope that everyone will realize that no one in our program had anything to do with it so that it will be over and forgotten as soon as possible."

Pitt Teams In Tourney Wins

EDENTON — Pitt County's entrants into the Area G Junior Babe Ruth League Tournament both came away with victories yesterday.

Pitt's 15-16-year-olds downed Windsor, 10-0, on a two-hitter hurled by Doug McRoy. McRoy walked four and struck out eight in taking the victory.

Pitt scored all it needed in the first inning of the game, pushing four runs in. Roy Lassiter singled and stole second. Greg Hardison walked, and Dixon Page singled, scoring Lassiter. Kevin Battle singled, driving in both runners. Battle moved up on the throw in, took third on an out and scored on Billy Bunting's sacrifice.

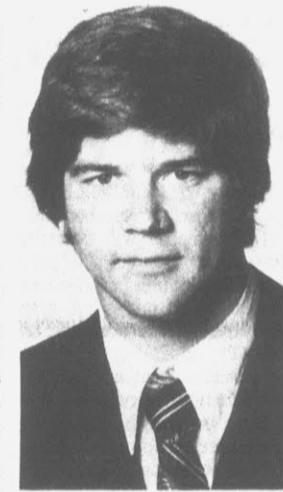

Pitt added four more in the second. Lassiter singled and Hardison doubled him in. Page walked and Battle singled to score Hardison. Bobby Avery singled in Page and Battle. Single runs were scored in the fifth and sixth innings, the latter a home run by Page.

Battle led the Pitt hitting with three, while Lassiter had two. Pitt returns to action tonight at 9 p.m., facing the winner of last night's game between Albemarle and Currituck County.

The 13-year-olds from Pitt also advanced in the winners' bracket, but the score and details of the game against Currituck were not available. They next face the winner between Windsor and Albemarle.

Curtis, Ivey Help Giants Top Expos

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

John Curtis spent all night throwing lefts at the Montreal Expos but it was teammate Mike Ivey who provided the knockout punch.

Curtis became the first left-handed starter to beat the Expos since Doug Rau did it May 11, pitching a nifty four-hit, 1-0 victory Wednesday. The lone run came on Ivey's 12th homer of the season, leading off the seventh against Montreal's Dan Schatzeder, who surrendered just three hits in eight innings.

"Opposing pitchers usually have to come in with a 2-0 pitch and they were being a little cautious," said Curtis, 5-5. "I felt that I had to be aggressive so I didn't pull any punches out there. I wanted to get to the point where I had to make them hit my best pitch."

Ivey didn't have to hit Schatzeder's best pitch because the Montreal hurler, 4-2, made a mistake.

"In my previous two at-bats, Schatzeder threw the ball down and away but he came up high with what looked like a foreball," said Ivey. "I got all of it."

And the Giants got the best of the Expos for the second straight night, becoming the first team to win a series at Olympic Stadium this season. Montreal is 28-9 at home and leads the National League East by 4½ games.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh beat Houston 5-1, handing the Astros their fifth consecutive loss. San Diego blasted Philadelphia 7-3. New York edged Los Angeles 4-3 in 10 innings; Atlanta stopped Chicago 6-5, and Cincinnati bested St. Louis 6-1.

Pirates 5, Astros 1

Dave Parker and Willie Stargell started off a four-run, five-hit seventh against J.R. Richard, 7-9, with consecutive home runs. John Milner then tripled, Bill Madlock singled him in and Ed Ott singled for the fifth Pirate hit in a row. The last run of the frame scored on Rennie Stennett's groundout.

Houston is in the midst of its longest losing slide of the season and holds just a 5½-game lead over Cincinnati in the NL West.

Padres 7, Phillies 3

"I made three mistakes and all of them went for home runs," said Phillies hurler Randy Lerch, 4-8. His errors came to Jerry Turner, Dave Winfield and Gene Tenace in consecutive at-bats in the opening inning.

"I threw most of the pitches where I wanted to. The trouble was that the Padres hit them where they wanted to — over fences."

Garry Maddox homered for the Phillies, who started the game without Pete Rose in the lineup for the first time this season. Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark rested Rose and played red-hot Del Unser at first. Tuesday, Unser had set a major league mark with pinch-hit homers in three consecutive appearances.

Mets 4, Dodgers 3

John Stearns' bases-loaded single in the 10th scored Lee Mazzilli with the winning run and gave the last-place-in-the-West Dodgers their 12th loss in 15 games and 27th in the last 37.

The Dodgers blew a three-run lead built on Reggie Smith's first-inning home run and Joe Ferguson's two-run double in the third. The last-in-the-East Mets tied it with the help of some sloppy fielding by Dodgers left fielder Von Joshua, who threw away a relay.

"What happened was typical," said Smith. "We killed ourselves with mental mistakes and sloppy play. We have to work our way out of the mental mistakes and I don't know if we can with the guys in the lineup at present."

Braves 6, Cubs 5

Bob Horner's two-run homer and a two-run double by Rowland Office paced Atlanta.

"They were throwing me fast balls inside all night. I was looking for them and I hit them," said Office, who also had two singles.

Reds 6, Cardinals 1

All-Star pitcher Mike LaCoss broke a personal three-game losing string with an eight-hitter and lowered his league-leading ERA to 2.30. Dave Collins contributed three hits and two RBI for the Reds.

"I really started to get tired in the eighth," said LaCoss. "My arm speed slowed and I started to aim the ball in the fifth. I kicked myself and got it going."

Simpson, Wiley Keel, Tommy Griffin; second row, Coach Robbie Calfee, Steve Wallace, Neal Cargile, Will Harris, Clay Roberson, Jesse Matthews, and batboy Leigh Hebbard. Not pictured are Street Lee, Joseph Morning, and Quincey Morning.

Simpson Says Coming Season Will Be Final One On The Field

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

O.J. Simpson will be doing less running through airports and more running on the football field next fall — but, after that, the procedure will be reversed.

"One more year and that's it — definitely," vows the star running back of the San Francisco 49ers, putting his priorities in order for retirement at age 32.

"When I was traded to the 49ers by Buffalo a year ago I committed myself to play two years. It's an obligation. I still love the game. Despite my knee problems, I am still physically fit."

"But I have other involvements — particularly movies and TV. I can't do them and do full justice to football. Football is not something you can give just part time to. You have to pay the price."

O.J. insists that he will not change his retirement plans even if he falls short, as now seems likely, of attaining two longtime goals — breaking Jim Brown's career rushing record and scoring a touchdown in the Super Bowl.

Simpson flew into New York Wednesday to present Hertz No. 1 awards to high school athletes chosen from the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

He patiently posed with each of the 52 honorees, flashed 52 separate smiles, signed autographs and had a personal word for every youthful winner. "Amazing," commented an on-looker. "I don't see how the guy does it. He never gets testy or bored."

"Class — the guy simply has class," another was heard to say.

"I just want to touch him," said a buxom woman, the mother of one of the athletes.

"Class" is the word for O.J., Heisman Trophy winner out of the University of Southern California, one of the National Football League's all-time leading ball-carriers and the indisputable "Mr. Nice Guy" of sports.

"I like people," he said. "If you like people, you don't have a problem. One of my heroes always has been Muhammad Ali. He likes people, too. He has a wonderful, outgoing nature."

O.J. refuses to criticize prominent athletes who are less approachable, who put themselves in an invisible isolation booth and cold-shoulder those responsible for their million-dollar contracts.

"I can understand basketball players," he said. "Apparently because of sensitivity over their size, they are inclined to become loners. In most cases, athletes who become aloof suffer from insecurity."

"They are like some actors I know. They feel safe on the set — in the athlete's case, on the field — but away from it they feel threatened. They don't react as comfortably."

O.J., who missed much of last season after surgery for a torn cartilage in his left knee, underwent two more operations at the end of the year.

"I had a tumor in front of the knee and a cyst behind," he said. "But I feel fine. If I am okay and the other guys who were hurt last year come around, we might — under Bill Walsh, our new coach — be the team we were supposed to be in 1978."

He ran for only 593 yards in 1978 but boosted his career total to 10,776, second in the NFL only to Brown's 12,312.

Simpson's football salary is $733,000 a year. He gets a reported $200,000 a year from Hertz, has a lucrative orange juice contract and is kept busy doing movies and TV.

He has just finished two movies in which he starred as well as produced — "Goldie and the Boxer" and "Detour." He has done close to a dozen movies, appeared in TV series and has signed with NBC as a commentator for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

His greatest exposure, Simpson says, comes from the TV commercial which has him running through an airport.

"Everytime I go into an airport, people say, 'O.J., why aren't you running?'" he says. "I'll do less running in my new commercials."

PITT COUNTY AMERICAN Legion baseball coach Gary Overton frankly admits he is a bit surprised by his team's success this season. Overton, who took over the Post 39 helm this season, was expecting a competitive team, but not a championship season.

"We were optimistic before the season in the fact that we thought we could have a competitive ballclub. I can't say we were looking for a championship ballclub, but we were hoping to be competitive."

The team was much more than competitive, recording a 10-2 mark in Area I play, finishing a full three games ahead of the three teams that tied for second place. Pitt defeated Washington in two games in the first Area I playoff series and came back to down Snow Hill 2-1 after losing the first game of that series.

The team is now involved in the championship series against Rocky Mount. It won the first game of the best-of-five affair 9-6 Tuesday night and took a 4-3 victory in 17 innings last night.

"Our style of play was dictated early in the season and we have stuck with it," Overton commented. That style is conservative play on offense and sound play on defense. The team tries to score one run at a time and play solid, not spectacular, defense.

The squad's surprising success is the result of two factors, Overton said. "We played real good defense during the regular season and have good pitching in both quality and quantity. Those two factors have been the key, nothing outstanding."

Asked if the Post 39 pitching is the best in the league, Overton said, "We have more sound pitching; I don't think we're better, but more sound."

Mike Williams, Ben Wilson and Skip Topping have been the three main starters in the Pitt lineup this season and all have done well, Overton said. In addition, the team has gotten some excellent relief help, especially from Mel Howard. A total of six victories have come in relief or with the help of saves this season.

Hitting has been up-and-down for the Post 39 batters, but well-placed, according to Overton. "We've won some games with few hits and lost some with a lot of hits, but we seem to get hits at the right times."

"And I can't single out any one key hitter because we've had a balanced attack. Several times this season the lower part of the lineup has won games with their hitting."

After breezing through their first playoff series with last-place Washington, Pitt County encountered some problems in the semifinals against Snow Hill. In the first game, played at Post 39's home, Harrington Field, Williams started, but lost his first game of the season, 6-4.

Wilson and Topping came through on the mound in the next two games, however, to put Pitt into the championship series. The loss to Snow Hill was "a bitter pill to swallow," Overton commented, "But it gave us a chance to prove just what we really did have. Wilson pitched a real good (second) game. If not for his performance, we would have been out of the series early."

Overton said Snow Hill was "tough and they gave us everything they had. We had to scrap, fight and claw to get by them. But I'm looking for Rocky Mount to be equally as tough."

The team may have gained some momentum after coming back against Snow Hill, Overton said, but pitching will be a key the rest of the way. "From here on in, pitching will tell the story."

Overton added he has a lot of confidence in his pitching staff, as well as the rest of the club.

Strickland To Try Pro Ball

COLUMBIA (AP) — Jim Strickland, a center on the University of South Carolina basketball squad, plans to try out with the professional New Jersey Nets this month.

Strickland, a transfer from Furman who played with the Gamecocks for the first time this year, says he has no plans to return to the South Carolina team.

The 6-foot-11 Strickland was picked by the Nets in the seventh round of the National Basketball Association draft.

Gamecock basketball coach Frank McGuire said he advised Strickland against the move.

"I told him he was making an awful mistake," McGuire said. "By the seventh round, your chances of making a team are almost impossible."

Yankees Manage To Place Pair As Lemon Picks AL's Reserves

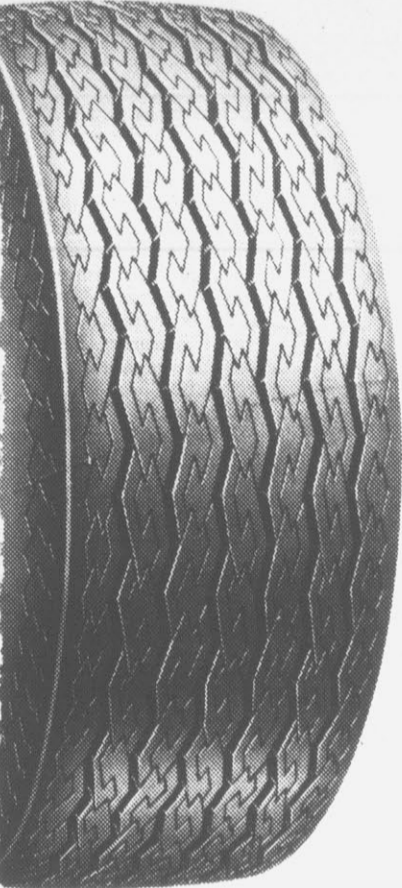

NEW YORK (AP) — If sentiment means anything next Tuesday night in Seattle, first baseman-outfielder Bruce Bochte of the host Mariners will be the people's choice and maybe Manager Bob Lemon's pick to start at first base in place of the injured Rod Carew. Bochte was named Wednesday as one of the 12 reserves on the American League roster for next Tuesday's 50th annual

All-Star showdown with the National League at the Kingdome. His competition for the first base spot is Cecil Cooper of the Milwaukee Brewers, who could step into the starting lineup because of Carew's thumb injury and Boston outfielder Carl Yastrzemski's temporary status because of a strained Achilles tendon. The California Angels placed three players including outfielder Don Baylor, the major league runs batted in leader, second baseman Bobby Grich and catcher Brian Downing on the squad. The world champion New York Yankees, who were shut out of the starting eight positions by the voting public, managed a couple of "reserves" in third baseman Graig Nettles and outfielder Reggie Jackson, who played for Lemon in last year's World Series. Also chosen were Cooper, shortstop Rick Burleson of the Boston Red Sox, catcher Jeff Newman of the Oakland A's and outfielders Chet Lemon of the Chicago White Sox, Steve Kemp of the Detroit Tigers and Ken Singleton of the Baltimore Orioles. Earlier Wednesday, National League Manager Tom Lasorda completed his 28-man roster, naming 13 reserves including five outfielders. Lasorda added outfielders Lou Brock of St. Louis, Jack Clark of San Francisco, Dave Kingman of the Chicago Cubs, Atlanta's Gary Matthews and Lee Mazzilli of the New York Mets; infielders Garry Templeton of St. Louis, Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan of Cincinnati, Ron Cey of Los Angeles and Pete Rose of Philadelphia; and catchers Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, Bob Boone of Philadelphia and Montreal's Gary Carter.

Lee Elder Feels He Can Win At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lee Elder thinks he can win here again, but the veteran from Washington, D.C., doesn't expect it will be easy. "The course is in excellent shape, and if the winds stay died down I think it will take an even lower score to win this year," Elder said Wednesday of the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament, which was to start today over the 7,010-yard, par 72 Tuckaway Country Club course.

Elder held or shared the lead after each round here last year and tied Lee Trevino after 72 holes with a 13-under 275. Elder won with a par when Trevino bogeyed on the eighth extra hole, second longest sudden death playoff in Professional Golfers Association tour history. Several of the tour's top players traditionally bypass this tournament, which has one of the smaller purses on the tour at $200,000 and which usually precedes the prestigious British Open by a week. However, this year's field generally is considered to be the strongest in the GMO's 11-year history. "I think the GMO deserves better dates, but that's difficult to do because it's hard to count on good weather in this part of the country until the end of June," Trevino said. "But the word is starting to get around that Milwaukee has one of the best courses and well-run tournaments on the tour."

Tuckaway, a relatively new course with less than fully mature trees, has four comparatively short par 5 holes and is custom made for the long hitter. Trevino, who won the Canadian Open three weeks ago, is one of the favorites, along with Masters and San Diego champion Fuzzy Zoeller and Hawaiian and New Orleans winner Hubert Green. Zoeller, one of the tour's longest hitters who opened with a pair of 66s here three years ago, ranks fifth on the 1979 earnings list with $185,399. Trevino is sixth at $175,117 and Green ninth at $149,346. The field includes 26 of the top 60 money winners for this year.

CHANGING SOCKS AT GRAVESIDE — An Outlaw gang member with wet feet changes his socks as he sits on a grave while fellow gang members listen to a eulogy for their slain comrade Leonard (Terry the Terrible) Henderson during services at a cemetery near Telogia, Fla. 'Outlaws' At Burial In Florida

By MATT BOKOR
Associated Press Writer
TELOGIA, Fla. (AP) — "He lived like an Outlaw, by God, he died like an Outlaw, and by God, he'll be buried like an Outlaw."

Larry "Stitch" Savage wasn't kidding.

Savage led a group of some 200 motorcyclists in a gun-shooting tribute to Leonard "Terrible Terry" Henderson, one of five Outlaw gang members who were slain last week in North Carolina.

Following traditional remarks by a minister and impromptu comments from Savage, the dozens of bearded riders pulled out handguns, aimed skyward and fired repeatedly to signal the end of the road for a fellow cyclist.

One North Carolina policeman said the July 4 murders were the deeds of the Outlaws' rival gang, Hell's Angels. Savage indicated Henderson's graveside Wednesday the killings will be avenged.

"We'll remember God for gives," he told mourners. "Outlaws don't."

Members of Henderson's family wept aloud in front of the bronze casket as Savage offered a final farewell of "See you later, brother."

Henderson was buried adjacent to a small, abandoned church in a tiny cemetery alongside other relatives. The Rev. Larry Potts, the minister who delivered a traditional address at the service, said, "I hate to see it desecrated this way."

During Potts' prayers, two Outlaws puffed a marijuana cigarette only feet away. Others stood around the green canopy which shaded the family and Henderson's casket, while more riders perched themselves on tombstones at other graves.

Police said the bearded, tattooed riders caused no trouble while in town. Only one cyclist was arrested on an outstanding warrant from Milwaukee.

At least 10 extra officers helped the five local policemen handle the motorcade and dozens of curiosity seekers during the Outlaws' brief visit to Liberty County, where long hair and beards are still frowned upon and the sale of hard liquor is prohibited.

The riders assembled during a driving rainstorm at a small chapel in Bristol where Henderson's body had lain, then revved up their engines for the lonely, winding drive to the cemetery.

The weather cleared as they rolled out on small country roads lined with bean fields and pine stands. Dozens of curious residents stood at intersections to catch a glimpse of the long, noisy motorcade.

"This is just a handful," Savage said of the riders, some of whom rode from as far as Milwaukee and Pittsburgh to see the slain cyclist buried.

No incidents were reported, although one biker, Clifford Michael of Hialeah, was arrested and held without bond on a Milwaukee charge of "endangering the lives of others." He was picked up after police ran a check of his license tag. "It's been quieter than we ever expected," said Liberty sheriff's dispatcher W.T. Webb.

Hansen Twins Still Treated

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Doctors say Lisa and Elisa Hansen, the Siamese twins who were successfully separated in a 16-hour operation in May, continue to improve and have been moved from the intensive care unit to the pediatrics ward at the University of Utah Medical Center.

The girls, now 20 months old, are undergoing physical therapy to strengthen muscles they could not use while they were joined. Still ahead, however, is additional surgery, primarily for cosmetic purposes. They also will need protective coverings for the tops of their heads.

Dr. Steve Minton, the twin's physician, said Wednesday there are no definite plans yet for sending the girls home to Ogden with their parents, David and Patricia Hansen.

Southern Colleges To See A Teacher Surplus

ATLANTA (AP) — There will be a surplus of teachers for Southern colleges and closer scrutiny of education budgets in the 1980s, according to a report by the Southern Regional Education Board.

The reason is declining enrollment. Total enrollment increased at colleges in 14 Southern states last fall. But most of the increase came from part-time students, the report said.

The number of full-time students actually declined, and total enrollment can be expected to decline by about 2 percent by the mid 1980s, it said.

Demand for new faculty members will decrease dramatically by 1986 if full-time enrollment continues to decline, according to the report released by the SREB Wednesday.

"Nearly 70 percent fewer new faculty will be needed in 1986 than in 1976," it said. "This also means that fewer faculty with recent doctorates will be in demand.

"Comparing these projections of demand with the expected supply of doctorates produced in the South alone results in large surpluses, perhaps as high as 80 percent for each year from 1981 through 1986," the education board said.

The report, compiled from a series of studies conducted by the SREB, covered Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia. The SREB is a non-profit organization established in 1949 through an interstate compact.

Declining college enrollment also will mean closer scrutiny of the budgets of both private and public colleges in the South, the report said.

"Higher education may be expected to justify why resources cannot be reduced at the rates of enrollment decrease," it said.

The SREB predicted that a "loose form" of zero-base budgeting may be instituted by college administrators, replacing the traditional budget procedure of automatically carrying over programs funded the previous year.

The report predicted that declining enrollment also will result in increased competition between colleges within state systems and between private and public colleges.

"If such competition is allowed, the results could be unnecessary duplication of programs and dilution of revenue so that quality is lowered," it said.

The SREB recommended that unique roles be established for each college in a state system to prevent such competition.

Safety Steps For City Bicycling Convenience

The division office here of the state Department of Transportation has taken steps to improve bicycling convenience on state maintained streets in Greenville.

Dr. Jim Hix, chairman of the local Citizens Bikeway Committee, said that D.O.T. has installed thin steel straps on approximately 300 storm grates here to prevent bike wheels from being caught in the grates.

Hix, who said that Charles Snell, division engineer here, came up with the idea, added that metal straps were installed on grates along Tenth Street, Greenville Boulevard and Charles Boulevard.

The grates which have caused bicyclists problems in Greenville have bars which are parallel to the streets and have been given the designation by bike riders as "wheel catchers" since bike wheels drop down in the gap between bars.

Hix noted that each grate repaired by D.O.T. with the strapping method cost about $5 while replacement costs would have been approximately $50 for each grate.

The straps, which are approximately eight inches long and an inch wide, were tried here on a trial basis before the go ahead was given for all of the problem grates to be altered, the spokesman said.

Hix said that he feels the strapping procedure will be a model system for other areas with similar grate problems to consider.

The city has already replaced problem grates on locally-maintained streets, Hix said, and coupled with D.O.T.'s strapping program, "there should be few grates remaining here that are 'wheel catchers.'"

The committee chairman added that anyone knowing of grates here with parallel bars should contact him at 756-2970.

'Unopening' Is Widely Ignored

By The Associated Press
SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of Salisbury residents stayed home, as was expected, for the first annual unopening of the town's Fisher Street Bridge Wednesday.

The un-event was set up as a joke by a group of citizens poking fun at city officials. The group is disturbed over the lengthy delay in getting Southern to act in the matter.

The bridge has been closed since a Southern Railway freight train carrying oversized equipment damaged the structure a year ago.

Medal Of Honor Award Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Armed Services subcommittee is considering whether to approve a bill awarding a Medal of Honor to a World War II machine-gunner for his bravery in helping hold off an entire German panzer division during the Battle of the Bulge.

However, Army officials told the panel Wednesday there is no official evidence to support the award for Pfc. William James Tsakanikas, who died in Port Chester, N.Y., in 1977. Former Lt. Lyle Bouck, Tsakanikas' platoon leader, said he favored the bill, but he believes the entire platoon should be recognized.

Hold Study Of Whiplash

AYDEN — The Ayden Rescue Squad studied the nature of whiplash injuries at its Monday night meeting. Dr. Steven I. Cohen, chiropractor of Family Chiropractic Health Services, Winterville, was the guest speaker.

Dr. Cohen presented an audiovisual program designed to educate health professionals and the public about what he described as "the most commonly misunderstood injury." He explained the many possible severe consequences of a whiplash accident to the neck, even after what might appear to be a minor accident or collision.

The group discussed the problem that many whiplash victims do not suffer any pain or symptoms of the injury for days, weeks or even several months. Dr. Cohen cited numerous cases where victims lost sensation in their arms, hands, fingers or developed chronic headaches. He stressed the importance of spinal examinations and spinal treatment after any neck injury.

Tobacco Protein-Use In Experimental Stage

By BETTY SANDERSON
New Bern Sun-Journal
NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) —
Tobacco-burgers...tobacco-tacos...tobacco-pizzas.

Yes, America, your famous "junk foods" could one day have their nutritional levels improved with the addition of protein derived from tobacco.

The project is still in the experimental stages, but researchers think tobacco has a good chance for producing major amounts of a food protein which could also be used as a dietary supplement for patients with kidney disease.

If the experiments on tobacco's protein potential are successful, the tobacco industry could get a boost in future years which might offset any decreases in cigarette revenues due to anti-smoking campaigns.

Dr. Sam Wildman, a professor of biology with the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), has studied for many years the possibility of using tobacco as a food source.

"On the basis of my research to date, I am persuaded there's a very good prospect that the tobacco plant could now be developed into a major food crop of the world," said Dr. Wildman at a North Carolina State University lecture.

The leaf's characteristics make it good candidate, he explained, because fresh tobacco plants are 80 to 90 percent water. They can easily be ground up, he said, and then reduced to a pulp from which proteins can be extracted.

Higher Nutritional Values
Fractional protein from tobacco is higher in nutritional value than milk or soy protein, according to Dr. Wildman.

"In crystallized or pure form, Fraction 1 protein from tobacco is superior to other plant proteins and in its balance of amino acids is comparable to any animal protein," he noted.

The other types of protein found in tobacco, Fraction 2 and insoluble proteins, could be added to junk foods, snacks, beverages or other types of food material to improve their nutritive value, he added.

Researchers at the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Tobacco Research Laboratory in Oxford are currently studying ways to grow, harvest, cure and process tobacco for food.

"We're looking for tobacco with a maximum protein yield," said Dr. Donald DeJong, USDA chemist. "This means using tobacco which is less mature than that harvested under normal or conventional culture."

The Oxford station has facilitated the protein extraction process through homogenized leaf curing, or HLC. This involves washing the green tobacco and grinding it into a semi-liquid slurry which is dried and cured.

The HLC process is completely mechanized and could possibly be used for health purposes to remove or neutralize any cancer-causing agents, Dr. DeJong said.

Odorless, Tasteless, Colorless

The tobacco protein, according to Dr. Wildman, is composed entirely of amino acids with no carbohydrates and is odorless, tasteless and colorless.

The initial use of Fraction 1 protein from tobacco will probably be for persons with kidney failure who now undergo dialysis up to four times a week, or must have kidney transplants, Dr. Wildman noted.

"Conceivably, the (dialysis) treatments could be reduced to one time every two weeks," said Dr. Wildman.

"The reason is that the protein is primarily free of potassium salts and sodium salts," he explained. "When the body has less potassium and sodium to be removed in the urine, there is less load on the kidneys or on the dialysis unit."

The response from Dr. Thurston J. Mann, assistant director in charge of tobacco research for the N.C. Agricultural Research Service, is that he is "delighted to see attention being given to the possibility of a positive contribution" from a crop that has come under much criticism in recent years.

Such a contribution may be a key factor for the tobacco industry in years to come, especially in view of the anti-smoking campaign being waged by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano.

However, tobacco's ultimate food and protein value can only be determined after considerable additional research, according to Dr. Mann. It could be several years before research is finished, and perhaps 10 years before the tobacco protein products might appear on the market.

Interest In Solar Field

The recent price increases and shortages of gasoline have prompted renewed interest in the solar field. Also, the Three Mile Island nuclear accident has contributed to this interest.

President Carter has been an active supporter of solar energy. The current proposal is for a solar energy bank which would subsidize interest on loans for solar devices installed in homes and businesses. The proposed "windfall" profits tax on oil companies would fund this bank. The President hopes that the bank would subsidize 100,000 solar systems the first year and that 20 percent of our energy would be provided by solar by 2000. The 1980 budget allocates $1 billion to solar programs, double the 1979 figure.

Solar heating is the main thrust of solar energy. For space heating, a collector, usually on the roof, traps the heat, ducts convey it to the proper location, and a storage unit keeps it for sunless hours. Water heating is the most advanced of the solar types, with many companies, including recently Sears, marketing these devices. Generally, solar can provide 30-60 percent of space heat and 80 percent of water heat. Costs of these units are still very high - from $3,000 to over $30,000 for space and $200 to over $2,000 for water.

Production of electricity from the sun's energy is at a very early phase of development. The photovoltaic cells used for this purpose are still inefficient and the current must be changed from direct to alternating.

One way to take advantage of the sun's energy is "passive" through design of the house, e.g. window placement' screens, and isolation.

Over 80 major companies and numerous newer companies are engaged in some aspect of solar energy. For the larger companies, such as Gruman and Varian, solar represents a very small part of total business. The field is still at too early a phase of development to predict where the investment opportunities will lie.

Boone Residents Celebrate Windmill's Dedication

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer
BOONE, N.C. (AP) — The residents of this mountain resort town celebrated the dedication of the world's largest windmill Wednesday by declaring the day "Windmill Day" and turning the downtown area into a street fair.

Officials from state and federal energy departments and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hailed the $3.5 million experimental windmill as the beginning of the nation's dependence on foreign oil for its energy needs.

The huge windmill, which sits atop Howards Knob at an elevation of 4,200 feet, dominates the Boone skyline. It was a joint project of the federal Department of Energy and NASA. It will be operated by the Blue Ridge Electric Corp. and is expected supply power to 300 to 500 homes under ideal wind conditions.

The windmill will not actually begin feeding power into the system of Blue Ridge until fall. Tests are scheduled to be conducted until then.

The structure has two 100-foot blades, making its blade span longer than the wingspan of a Boeing 747. The rotor of the windmill is designed to begin generating power at winds of 11 mph and to stop at a wind velocity of 33 mph. Its ideal wind speed is 25 mph.

Several hundred tourists and town residents attended the dedication ceremony on the lawn of Appalachian State University's Continuing Education Center Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Bennett Miller, solar-geothermal specialist for the U.S. Energy Department, said the windmill "symbolizes man's energy future just as it links man's energy past."

He called for an end to a reliance on imported oil and said, "We must look to sunshine and wind power."

Brian Flattery, state energy director, called wind and solar energy "the way to slip the stranglehold of OPEC." He said the windmill represents all fields of alternate energy-source technology.

After the ceremony, hundreds of balloons were released under overcast skies.

Meanwhile, the streets of the town were jammed with tourists who browsed through merchants' and craftsmen's wares set up on the sidewalks. Town officials and merchants said they couldn't remember a bigger turnout for any event in Boone's history.

"It's more than just 'Windmill Day,'" one merchant was overheard telling a customer. "It's the first day in three weeks that it hasn't rained."

There has been a sharp drop in the number of tourists in the North Carolina mountains this year due to the gasoline shortage and the cool, damp weather.

Joe Miller, owner of Boone Drug Co., took a tongue-in-cheek attitude toward the holiday.

He displayed a well-worn saddle on one wall of his store with a sign that read, "For the first lady to ride on the windmill." The saddle was complete with a safety belt to hold the rider securely on one of the windmill's two 100-foot blades.

"I'm just having a lot of fun out of this," Miller said. "That's what it's all about, isn't it? That and the fact that it's bringing a lot of business to town."

Many local residents predicted that the windmill will become a tourist attraction, and the state announced Wednesday approval of a $38,500 grant to build a park around it.

Local residents, while enjoying the festivities, were obviously proud of the windmill.

"I think the windmill is great," said Alfred Adams, a local banker. "The time has come that this country has to have an alternative source of energy and this is a good starting place. It will be good for the town and it will be good for the country."

Bob Matheson, a member of the Miami Dolphins football team and native of Boone, said, "I hope it's successful. It's good to see that the government is interested in experimenting with other energy sources besides nuclear power."

Others expressed similar opinions on signs they carried around town. One said, "Wind power blows nukes away." Another told President Carter, "Jimmy C., use your cranium, make power with wind, not uranium."

Quiet Student A Rebel Leader

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A former N.C. State University student, whom professors said never uttered a political or rebellious thought, is one of the leaders of the Sandinista guerrillas in Nicaragua.

Moises Hassan, 37, received a doctorate in physics from N.C. State in 1971, and was remembered as a quiet, serious and brilliant student.

"I'm quite impressed by his guts," Fred Lado, associate professor of physics at NCSU, said in an interview this week.

"I'm disappointed he's in a different career. It's highly unusual to find an academic person undertaking such a risky venture. His situation could be very untenable."

The Sandinistas are involved in a struggle to topple the government of President Anastasio Somoza.

Lado, who speaks Spanish, conversed with Hassan in his native tongue. "We were comfortable with each other, and there was certainly nothing to indicate he would one day lead the Sandinista revolt," he said.

Hassan entered N.C. State in 1964 and spent a couple of years working on his master's degree in math and science education. After earning the master's in August 1966, he returned to his hometown of Managua and taught at the Nicaraguan national university.

He returned to State in 1968 to begin work on a doctorate in physics. By 1971, he had completed a dissertation entitled "On The Evaluation of Time Correlation Functions." He then returned to Managua to teach.

Most of his instructors said they were impressed with his intelligence, but they added that he never discussed any political goals or ideals with them.

Marijuana In The Planters

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Workers cleaning out miniature planters near the Cumberland County Courthouse Monday morning found some surprising foliage in their work.

The workers discovered five marijuana plants, each about two feet high. Members of the City-County Bureau of Narcotics were called to the building and tested the plants to confirm that they were the illegal weed.

Ray Davis, chief of the bureau, said the seeds were placed in the planters by pranksters, possibly persons who had been in court for drug trials.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The only beneficial influences in effect today for you are from events that can be sudden and unexpected. Be on your toes to accept them. Otherwise accidents and arguments are likely to occur to test your ability to handle them with tact.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You feel you are restricted and cannot gain your aims, but this is only because you are forcing issues. Your mate can bring you benefits you had not counted on. Avoid a troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are not making the progress you desire but a good friend can be of help to you now, and conditions improve. Not a good time for social visits or accepting invitations.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day for business matters but fine for social duties you want to perform. Listen to what a fellow worker has to suggest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Those new interests you are studying could prove troublesome, so get out for recreation and forget about them. You can handle a creative idea well, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) An obligation you have needs care in the handling and listening to advice of a close tie for best results with it. Gain the favor of one who comes to visit you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid arguments with partners or there could be a severance of connections, which you would later regret. Follow through with what your closest tie suggests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are not in the mood for work but can do fine where money is concerned. A fine opportunity to advance presents itself. Don't let it slip through your fingers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful that you are not too extravagant and start saving money instead. A good day to get creative idea working that can yield fine benefits, satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan time to get your life on a more secure foundation, but don't let it floor you if someone breaks a promise. Try to please your family more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Exercise much care in all you do today, especially in driving. Don't be sarcastic with allies and listen to one who is serious and wise. Fusing over reports and statements could lead to arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your monetary position and don't commit yourself to more than you can afford. Listen to suggestions of one in an official position. Plan small repairs to property also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't be forceful with others in order to gain your aims. Take time to study into new philosophies. Try to be helpful to others in their goals and gain good will.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand early the problems of other individuals. Give a good education slanted along lines of the law or psychology for best results throughout the lifetime. Not much interest in sports here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Tony Bennett's Wife Is Suing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Tony Bennett's wife has filed for divorce, seeking to end their seven-year marriage.

In the Superior Court petition filed Wednesday, Sandra Elaine Bennett sought custody of the couple's two daughters, 9-year-old Joanna and 5-year-old Antonia, and half of their property, including their Beverly Hills home and stock in Tony Bennett Enterprises. No reason for the divorce was listed in the suit.

Bennett, 50, is best-known for his recording of "I Left My Heart in San Francisco." He has two sons by a previous marriage, which also ended in divorce.

The 36-year-old Mrs. Bennett was an actress before her marriage. She had been married and divorced before, but has no other children.

Telephones Don't Ring So Much At ABC-TV

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

Lonely At The Top Dept.: ABC, the network with much money and many hits, can't get the phone to ring.

This startling news comes from Tom Werner, ABC's vice president and senior executive of prime-time development. He is charged with developing new projects for the No. 1 network.

Problem is, he says, producers and writers who used to swarm the joint when ABC was No. 3 don't come around much anymore.

"There has been a wrong perception that, since we're No. 1, and our schedule is so solid, it is more difficult to put on a new idea here," says Werner. "In fact, that is not true. We put on more new shows than the other two networks."

"But obviously, there are holes in the other two networks. So producers figure they'll take their ideas there, where they'll get a better shot. It's been difficult."

Now, some might find themselves reluctant to extend sympathy to the network that dominates the Nielsen ratings, but I feel sorry for ABC, and for Werner. "There are some shows on the other two networks that we didn't get the opportunity to hear," he says. "Some producers in town are not bringing their best product here..."

Anybody who's seen "The Ropers" will agree with that.

Werner won't specify which shows ABC would like to have, but he admits that producer George Schlatter didn't even mention his "Real People" to ABC. That show, original and crazy, is NBC's strongest prospect this fall.

"Let me give you a specific example," he says. "I'm involved in taking a number of pitch meetings everyday Hollywood talk for 'I meet with people who are trying to put shows on the air'. A man brought us a show that made it through the various processes script, pilot, etc. and made it to the schedule."

"The man then told me he was bringing his next good idea to another network. I asked why. He said, 'Because you've got such a strong schedule.' I said, 'You idiot! You're a perfect example of somebody who has a show on the schedule.'

"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury:

"We are gathered here today to assess blame for the disaster that occurred on this hand. We are not concerned with South's hit-or-miss bidding style — after all, who are we to complain when it bore such a rich harvest.

"Against the diamond slam, West chose to lead the ace of spades. While we do not usually approve the lead of an unsupported ace against a slam contract, on this type of bidding there is some justification. East followed to this trick with a low spade, and West accordingly shifted to the jack of clubs. Declarer won the ace, drew trumps and crossed to dummy with the king of clubs to discard his heart losers on the spades.

"West contends that East is 100 per cent to blame. He could not shift to a heart away from the king without a suit preference signal from East. East maintains that a suit preference signal means nothing against a slam contract, and that declarer was simply lucky that West guessed wrong."

"This panel cannot go along with East's contention. A suit preference signal was obviously vitally important on this hand. On the ace of spades East should have played the nine, asking for a shift to the high-ranking of the remaining plain suits — hearts. That would have led to a two-trick defeat.

"However, West must shoulder some of the blame. Obviously, the slam was not going to be defeated unless East held a trump trick (virtually impossible on the bidding) or an ace. If he did hold an ace, which was more likely — the ace of clubs or the ace of hearts?

"A little bit of thought would have brought West to the conclusion that if East held an ace, it had to be the ace of hearts. South blasted into slam with a spade loser in his hand. Would he have done so if he had a club loser as well? Never! Since it was almost a certainty that declarer held the ace of clubs, the only hope for the defenders was that East held the ace of hearts. Therefore, West should have shifted to a heart.

"Accordingly, this court assesses East with only 80 per cent of the blame."

U.S. Lacking Muscle To Strike Back At OPEC

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The potential "weapons" for the battle are unusual: wheat, rice, air conditioners, radios and even furniture.

They're different because a fight between the United States and the world's oil-exporting countries would be an economic battle — at least at the beginning.

And it's a battle that the United States, with all its resources, might not be able to win against the OPEC nations' "oil weapon," interviews with experts suggest.

Recently, President Carter and his spokesmen have stepped up verbal attacks on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries for raising the price of crude oil at a time millions of Americans are stuck in gasoline lines. And the administration has hinted at moves beyond just strong words.

"With strong steps, we can mobilize the nation around a real crisis and with a clear enemy — OPEC," said a memo to Carter from his chief domestic policy adviser, Stu Eizenstat.

Carter has not yet said what those steps would be, but Americans — tired of gasoline lines and soaring prices — are angry and frustrated, ready to strike back at OPEC.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll taken as gas lines were spreading across the country showed overwhelming support for moves against the OPEC nations like those suggested in song and bumper sticker — "No Crude, No Food" and "A Bushel of Wheat for a Barrel of Oil."

In this face-off, the OPEC nations — Iran, Saudi Arabia, Indonesia, Ecuador, Nigeria, Gabon, Libya, Nigeria, Venezuela, the United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Iraq and Algeria — have one major weapon — oil. And their weapon is aimed squarely at the glass jaw of Western industrialized nations, which need the oil desperately. In 1978, the United States paid the OPEC nations $30.7 billion for oil.

OPEC countries also have an investment portfolio estimated at about $200 billion in bank deposits, stocks, bonds and government securities. Such funds could be used as a "money weapon" but only at the risk of wrecking the world economy and the market for oil.

On the other side, the United States' weapons against OPEC fall into six categories.

—Food: This is the most obvious and politically popular weapon. The United States is the largest exporter of food, particularly wheat.

"We are the OPEC of grain," said Rep. James Weaver, D-Ore., who is pushing for a government agency to control wheat exports.

Opponents of such uses of food exports say that while the United States is by far the world's largest wheat exporter, it is not the only one. Embargos or price increases would not hurt the generally wealthy OPEC nations, they say, and would hurt poorer countries.

"The OPEC nations would just go elsewhere," says Gerald A. Bange of the Department of Agriculture. "We just don't wield the kind of market power that people think we do."

—Technology and other exports: The United States shipped the OPEC nations $14.8 billion in non-food items in 1978, ranging from metal-working machinery to furniture and underwear.

—Weapons sales: In 1978, the OPEC nations bought $4.3 billion in military arms from the United States, with the bulk, $4.1 billion, going to Iran and Saudi Arabia. And there are $13.3 billion more in arms already promised under agreements to the OPEC nations, not including Iran.

—Foreign aid: Only four members of OPEC get significant U.S. aid — Indonesia, Ecuador, Nigeria and Gabon. In 1978, the total aid to them was $273.7 million, with $254.7 million going to Indonesia.

—Investments in U.S.: The Treasury Department estimates OPEC investments in this country at about $38 billion — $12 billion of that in U.S. government notes and about $10 billion in bank deposits. The rest is in real estate, stocks and bonds and direct loans to U.S. corporations.

In most cases, foreign countries could buy the same items or services from other countries if the United States withheld its products.

—Military attacks: An extreme move would be for the U.S. troops to seize one or two of the larger Middle Eastern oilfields and produce oil solely for this country. But there are many questions: world reaction to such a move, could the fields be captured intact and could such a large force be resupplied thousands of miles from the nearest major U.S. base.

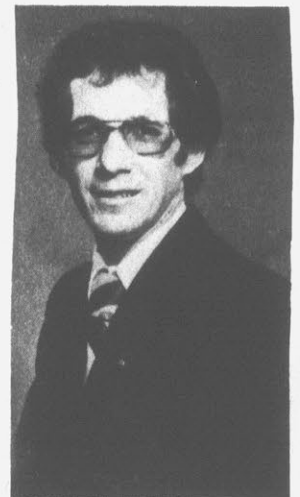

Despite the pitfalls of various options, Americans seem angry enough to support strong action.

In an AP-NBC News poll taken May 24, as gasoline lines were beginning to show up outside of California, 71 percent of the public agreed that U.S. food and other exports should be cut off to the OPEC nations until they agree to continued, affordable oil supplies. Twenty-four percent opposed such a move and 5 percent of the 800 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

Asked if they would support "any steps necessary" against the OPEC nations to assure supplies, 60 percent said they would and 29 percent would not. Eleven percent were not sure.
