N.C. Leadership Supports Carter Energy Proposals

By The Associated Press
North Carolina leaders say they'll support the energy proposals President Carter made in a nationally televised address Sunday night.

The speech drew praise from political leaders and anti-nuclear groups, who took heart from the president's failure to mention nuclear power in his speech.

Several anti-nuclear power faculty members at Duke University said the fact that Carter didn't mention nuclear power as an alternate source of energy strengthened their position in North Carolina.

The group announced the formation of a committee for alternatives to nuclear power Monday.

"It is very significant that even with his announcements of massive cutbacks of oil imports, the president did not once mention nuclear power as an alternative," said Inez Hedges, associate professor of romance languages and a member of the group.

But Sherwood H. Smith, president of Carolina Power & Light Co., said Monday that he was disappointed that Carter made no references to nuclear power as an alternate source of energy.

"We simply cannot have an adequate energy supply without using the nuclear option," said Smith in a statement.

He said Carter's request for legislation requiring utilities to cut their use of oil by 50 percent within the next 10 years would have little effect on CP&L.

Smith said the utility used oil to produce less than 3 percent of its electricity in 1978. He said most of the company's electricity is generated by coal and nuclear power.

Gov. Jim Hunt outlined a two-point energy-conservation plan for the state in response to Carter's speech.

"To help make this nation independent again, I have issued an order to state government that we are not to put any more oil-burning boilers in state buildings," Hunt said Monday.

"We have a tremendous resource of wood in North Carolina. Getting the wood out will provide jobs for our people and it's cheaper, so we're going to use wood first. If that's not possible, then we'll use natural gas or coal."

Hunt also announced plans to establish a State-Local Government Working Group on Energy to help local communities and the state conserve energy resources and develop new resources.

"Mayors and county commissioners' chairmen can do even more than the president can to get individual citizens and businesses to cooperate in our effort to become less dependent on foreign oil," Hunt said.

Plans for the panel were developed in a meeting last Friday by representatives of the governor's office, the N.C. Association of County Commissioners and the N.C. League of Municipalities.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., said "Carter obviously realized that this was a turning point for his administration and the country and was seeking words to move a nation. I think he will get the reaction he was seeking."

Carter Seeks Bipartisan Support From Congress

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter appealed today for bipartisan congressional support for his energy proposals, and said he wants enactment of his proposed "windfall profits" tax before Congress begins its August recess.

Carter's comments were reported by Democratic and Republican congressional leaders who attended a White House breakfast meeting with the president.

House Democratic Whip John Brademas of Indiana said there appeared to be "significant bipartisan support" for the president's energy proposals. Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia was quoted as telling Carter the mood of Congress and the country was for action.

But Brademas said some Republicans were less than enthusiastic about parts of the president's program, including the windfall profits tax and a proposed Energy Security Corporation to spur the search for new energy sources.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, said he was unhappy that Carter had "left the private sector out too much" from his energy plans.

Brademas, however, predicted approval of oil taxes and a standby gasoline rationing plan before Congress recesses Aug. 4.

Assistant Senate Republican Leader Ted Stevens of Alaska said Carter wants Congress to give him "the broadest possible" authority to ration gasoline in the event of a national emergency, without provision for a congressional veto — a condition not likely to sit well with many legislators.

The House already has approved the windfall profits tax Carter wants on the oil industry, but it is not clear how swiftly the Senate is prepared to act.

The House is expected to vote before the recess on gasoline rationing, which the Senate approved earlier this year. The original Carter rationing plan was defeated by the House in May.

The president also was reportedly planning to hold high-level talks on personnel changes that could find longtime aide Hamilton Jordan with more authority over the White House staff. The Washington Star today quoted White House sources as predicting domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat and press secretary Jody Powell also would be given more power in the expected staff shakeup.

The Category I total amounts to $59,500.

Three items, graduation requirements, the examination policy at Rose and the attendance policy at Rose, were discussed and will be acted on at the August action meeting.

A proposed schedule of school fees was tabled until the August action meeting. The tabling followed a long discussion on the feasibility and constitutionality of charging a $2 physical education fee. Superintendent

Somoza Quits As Nicaragua Boss; Flies To Florida

By JOE FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer

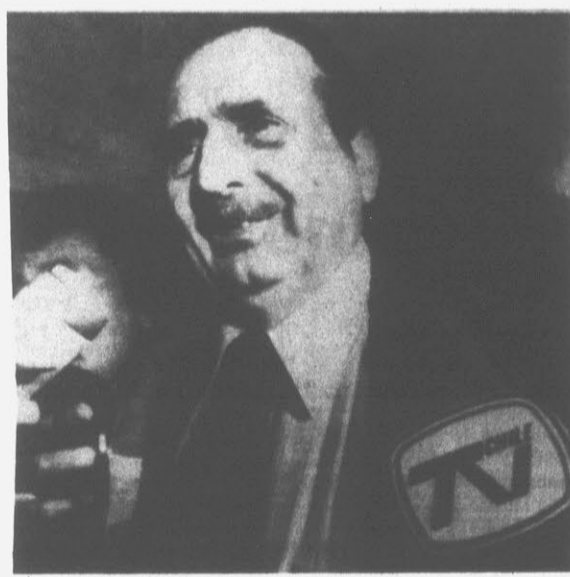

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza, toppled by revolution, resigned early today and flew in his private jet to Florida, ending 42 years of dictatorship by his family. A motorcade took him and dozens who fled with him to his private Florida estate.

Members of the Nicaraguan Congress elected the president of their lower house, Francisco Urcuyo, to succeed him, but Urcuyo, 54, was expected to serve only until the arrival from neighboring Costa Rica of the provisional junta named by the Sandinista guerrillas.

The Sandinistas, in a successful, seven-week rebellion, fought Somoza's national guard to a standstill and toppled the onetime strongman in the largest but most thinly populated Central American state.

Somoza was still in the air en route to Florida when junta member Sergio Ramirez Mercado announced in Costa Rica that the new Nicaraguan government would ask the United States to extradite Somoza to stand trial for crimes against the Nicaraguan people, including corruption and human rights violations.

U.S. officials said Somoza landed at Homestead Air Force Base near Miami at 9:50 a.m., in a party of about 45 people in five planes.

Base guards said the group left the air base by motorcade, escorted by the Florida Highway Patrol, and headed for Somoza's estate on Sunset Island. The motorcade brought with it crates of food, sacks of potatoes and cases of soft drinks, the guards said.

Nicaragua has more land area than Florida, but has a population of 2.5 million, little more than one-third that of Florida's 6.8 million. It has coasts on both the Atlantic and Pacific sides of Central America.

An aide reported the 53-year-old ex-president took a helicopter from downtown Managua to the international airport.

LEGITIMATE, RELIABLE?

I have received information from a Texas firm which paints a glowing picture about how easy it is to earn $370 per thousand for hand addressing envelopes "mailed according to our simple instructions." All postage and shipping expenses are paid by the company. It claims to be different from the usual work at home schemes. How do I go about determining if this offer is legitimate and if the company is reliable? I'm supposed to send in a $10 deposit-application fee to cover the cost of my Homeworkers Starter Instructions material. The offer says there is a six-month unconditional guarantee. E. T.

Nancy Leonard of the Consumer Protection Division of the N. C. Dept. of Justice said the requirement of any kind of fee for information or deposit by such a work-at-home deal is now illegal in North Carolina. She said she'd be interested in having you mail in the material you have to her and would like to know whether you got it by direct mail or whether it was in response to an ad in a national publication that you may have answered. "We can't, of course, control national advertising," she said, "but we can do something about direct mailing to North Carolina citizens."

She advised that you not send in the $10, stating that she has never yet known anyone to have good experience with one of these you-work-at-home companies.

"We believe the recent law passed by the General Assembly, which went into effect July 1, will soon do away with solicitation by these companies in North Carolina," she said. "They just cannot operate without the charging of those 'initial fees.'"

CONSUMER PROTECTION MEASURE

The N. C. General Assembly has enacted a law that clarifies the tenant's right to stay in his dwelling while his eviction is being contested in court. The effective date is Sept. 1.

Left Decaying Bodies In Defunct Mortuary

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Owners of a defunct downtown Kansas City mortuary "apparently just walked away," leaving 31 decaying bodies stacked in caskets and lying on tables for as long as a year, health authorities say.

"In the basement, there were caskets stacked three high," said City Health Director Dr. Richard Biery, who with other shocked authorities entered the abandoned Kansas City Mortuary Service to discover the grisly scene Monday.

"There was a body thrown on a table with a sheet thrown over it," he said. "As I looked, the sheet moved, then moved again. Then a rat ran out from under the sheet."

Biery said he walked through the converted two-story frame house with Jackson County Medical Examiner Bonita Peterson and police, and found it "very messy."

"The basement floor was slippery with juices, mostly embalming fluid. It smelled of embalming fluid," he said. "Most of the bodies were in shipping cases or closed coffins, and there were more of them on the main floor."

"There were a couple of children's coffins in the basement, and then upstairs, where it was warmer, there was another body on a table." Biery said ashtrays, papers, boxes and records were strewn around the house and it appeared the building had been broken into since it had been closed.

He said legal proceedings against the mortuary began last year when the Missouri Board of Embalmers and Funeral Directors sought legal authority to revoke the license of Don Coldsnow, the home's owner.

"We had not been receiving death certificates of people we thought we should have," Biery said.

Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Recalls Bits Of Horror

SANFORD, N. C. (AP) — The 13-year-old survivor of a gruesome attack which left her 4-year-old niece dead talked with relatives Monday, apparently recalling bits of her experience, her sister said.

Patsy Ann Mason was reported in fair condition at Duke Medical Center in Durham where she was taken following the attack at the home of her parents early Sunday.

Her father, John Earl Mason, said he will never forget what he saw when he entered the bedroom of Patsy and his 4-year-old granddaughter at 1 a.m. Sunday.

The child, Carol Ann Hinson, still wearing the shorts and tops she had played in all day, lay wedged between the foot of a double bed and the wall. She had been brutally hacked to death by what police say was either a meat cleaver or a sharp knife.

Mason said he found Patsy in a small bathroom off the girls' bedroom. She was badly injured, stabbed repeatedly about the face and upper body. Blood splattered the walls and floors and stood in a pool in the sink, Mason said.

Patsy's sister Terry Hinson, mother of the child, said Monday Patsy "says she doesn't want to talk about it now." She said Patsy "knows she got beat up," but apparently was unaware that the child had been killed.

Meanwhile, the Lee County Sheriff's Department was investigating the apparent slaying later Sunday of a family friend, Clifford Edward Ferguson, who was found shot to death at his home near Sanford.

"We've had murders, but not like this," said Sanford Police Chief R. V. Yarborough.

"I'll never forget the last thing she (Patsy) said before she passed out," Mason said. "She said, 'I can't see, I can't see.' She kept saying it and trying to wipe the blood from her face with a rag."

Patsy was scheduled to be moved out of the intensive care unit at Duke Medical Center today. Her father said she had received 300 stitches in her face.

The police chief said there were no signs of forcible entry at the house, no apparent motives and no suspects. The State Bureau of Investigation also is investigating the case.

Night Fire

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE — Two Greenville firemen were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for observation from a house fire at 300 Contentnea St. last night. Fire Chief Jenness Allen said J. P. Roy and Michael Pollard suffered smoke inhalation at the 10:20 p.m. blaze. Officers said the fire, which started in the attic of the one-story section of the wood frame dwelling and spread to the second floor and attic of a two-story section of the home, caused heavy fire and water damage to the structure. Cause of the fire has not been determined. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By The Associated Press
Temperatures rose with temperatures Monday as thermostats were raised to the 78-degree minimum setting mandated by President Carter.

In the state Capitol at Raleigh, the building's sole thermometer was found to be set at an embarrassing 70 degrees, and the unoccupied downstairs office of Gov. Jim Hunt registered a cool 75.

When he learned about it, Hunt ordered the Capitol thermostat raised to 80 degrees and asked for a thermometer to be installed on his wall, press secretary Gary Pearce said.

At Raleigh's North Hills Mall, the temperature crept to 82 degrees, and the mall manager, Phil Pitney, said there were complaints from sweltering merchants. The thermostat will remain at 78, said Pitney.

Dominick Brugnolotti, manager of the Le Chateau restaurant at the North Hills Mall, said, "If we raise our temperature to 78, nobody's going to eat here." The restaurant's thermostat remained on 75.

In Greensboro, several clothing store employees felt that the warmth in their store was discouraging customers from shopping. Especially discouraged by the temperature was the trying on of new winter clothes, they said.

"It's impossible to sell the new fall merchandise," said Ric Chandgie, owner of Chandgie's Clothing at Greensboro's Carolina Circle Mall. "Nobody wants to try on wool suits when they're sweating."

Bob Mefford, operations engineer for the mall, said the temperature in the mall concourse will rise only a few degrees from its normal 76, but there may be problems in individual stores.

James Shand, general manager of Greensboro's Four Seasons Mall, noted there were different rules for different types of businesses, and that temperatures would have to be calibrated accordingly.

At the Carolina Circle Mall, there was one spot calculated to remain cool — the ice skating rink.

Automakers Negotiating

By GUY DARST
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Bargainers for 780,000 auto workers and the Big Three automakers open negotiations today for a new contract that seems unlikely to follow the Carter administration's 7 percent wage guideline.

Talks on a contract to replace the three-year United Auto Workers agreement expiring Sept. 14 begin at General Motors Corp., shift to Ford Motor Co. on Tuesday and to Chrysler Corp. on Wednesday.

Chief union demands are expected to be pension increases for retired workers, more time off and "substantial" wage increases. The companies will propose measures to reduce soaring medical insurance costs and absenteeism.

Slowing sales and their attendant temporary layoffs, inflation, gasoline lines and station closings, hot-selling imports and the financial struggles of Chrysler Corp. have left workers uncertain.

What could produce a strike? Fraser has used only one example: a company attempt to get workers to pay part of health insurance premiums.

GM says it paid $1.3 billion in medical insurance premiums last year, a 50 percent increase in three years.

GM says its average UAW employee earns $9.07 an hour on straight time. Fringe benefits and taxes bring the cost to GM to $15.10 an hour. Figures for the other companies are comparable.

Death Warrant

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Bob Graham today signed a death warrant ordering the execution of convicted murderer Howard Virgil Lee Douglas. His execution is scheduled to die at 7 a.m. July 26 at the Florida State Prison.

Douglas was condemned for the July 17, 1973 slaying of Jessie William Atkins Jr., who was abducted along with his wife at gunpoint. Atkins was struck in the head with the butt of a rifle and then shot at least once in the head.

Graham signed the death warrant today, his press secretary, Steve Hull, said. It was the fifth execution that Graham has ordered since May.

So far, only convicted killer John A. Spenkelink has been put to death in Florida's electric chair under Graham's warrants.

Douglas was sentenced to death even though the trial jury recommended life in prison. The trial judge said he was not bound to the jury recommendation.

Graham and the Cabinet heard Douglas' clemency plea earlier this year. The governor gave no indication at that time whether he would grant mercy or sign a death warrant.

Annexation Hearing Held On 'The Pines', Ayden Subdivision

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer
Approximately ten persons from "The Pines" area west of Ayden attended a public hearing Monday night concerning the annexation of the subdivision into the town's corporate limits, an event tentatively slated by the Ayden Board of Commissioners for January 1, 1980.

Ayden Town Manager Don Russell highlighted portions of a 21-page report on the proposed annexation, which spelled out the services offered by the town and the various costs to borne by both the town and "The Pines" residents in the ensuing annexation.

Those residents who attended the three-hour meeting queried Russell and Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger on different items in the report, with much discussion on the town's role in providing a safe transportation route for "The Pines" children to cross

North Carolina Highway 11, as well as the costs for the subdivision's residents to install sewer hook-ups to the town's sewer system.

Subdivision residents pointed out that with the gasoline shortage, many of their children might have to walk to school, and asked town commissioners to look into the matter of making Hwy. 11 more safe for crossing.

Residents also spent much time in asking about the sewer improvements, which would provide a continuous loop around the area. The town will bear the cost of installing sewer lines, a lift station, and manholes. However, the residents will have to install sewer lines from their houses the the street right of way, then pay a $85 connection fee to join with the town service.

Town Manager Russell told subdivision residents that installation of sewer lines is not often an easy job, saying, "I can't promise you a bed of roses" when town employees come to install the main lines.

"We hope to work with the property owners on letting them know when we'll connect lines so that they won't be inconvenienced," said Russell.

Residents also asked questions on ward districts in Ayden, and asked the town board whether the wards could be realigned so that "The Pines" residents could possibly have more representation when annexed.

One of the final items of the report dealt with tax liability, with Russell explaining that the town's fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30. He noted the formula supplied in the report in figuring out residents' tax liabilities.

Other items in the report included police, fire, and town government services, as well as street maintenance and street/curb and gutter improvements.

Nixons Reportedly To Abandon West Coast

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon will move back to New York at the end of the year, abandoning plans to buy a new home in California, according to a family friend.

Nixon and his wife, Pat, recently sold LaCasa Pacifica, their home in San Clemente, Calif. They had planned to move into a $650,000 house in the nearby Cyprus Shores subdivision in late fall.

But the Cyprus Shores purchase won't be completed, the family friend said Monday, and Mrs. Nixon recently went home-shopping in the New York City area.

Nixon had a Fifth Avenue apartment in the city when he made his successful run for president in 1968.

"They are moving in order to be near their children and grandchildren," said the friend, who asked not to be identified.

The Nixons' oldest daughter, Julie, and her husband David

Eisenhower, live near San Juan Capistrano, Calif., with their 11-month-old daughter Jennie. Eisenhower is finishing a biography of his grandfather, the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and the couple plan to move East when it is finished.

The other Nixon daughter, Tricia, lives in New York with her lawyer-husband Ed Cox and their 4-month-old son, Christopher.

"Given the fact that both Nixon children will be back there, the Nixons felt they didn't want to be deprived of those kind of family ties and the enjoyment they get from their grandchildren," the friend said.

"You can't be doting grandparents 3,000 miles away."

The friend said no decision has been made on whether Nixon will move his government-maintained office, now on the grounds of a Coast Guard station abutting LaCasa Pacifica.

"Right now it is not contemplated," the friend added.

"That would happen in the indefinite future."

Nixon sold LaCasa Pacifica in May to a group of Orange County businessmen for an undisclosed sum. The Nixons bought the estate in 1969, soon after he became president, for $1.4 million and the government added $700,000 in improvements.

The House voted Monday in Washington to charge Nixon $66,614 for some of those improvements. It also voted to reduce government benefits for Nixon in the upcoming fiscal year to cover work that House members said could not be justified on security grounds.

Judge Not Reappointed

Special Superior Court Judge Robert R. Browning of Greenville was not reappointed by Gov. Jim Hunt to his judgeship, a spokesman in the governor's office confirmed today.

Browning, a Republican, was appointed as a special Superior Court judge during the GOP administration of former Gov. James Holshouser.

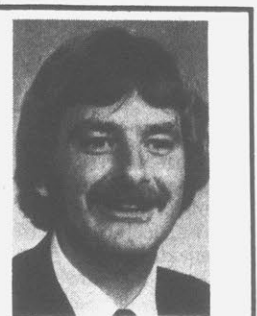

Browning's term expired on June 30, as did the other special judgeships appointed by Holshouser. The incumbents have continued in office pending Hunt's announcement of their replacement.

Donald Smith, A Raleigh Republican, was the only Holshouser special judgeship appointee to be named by Hunt on Sunday to a new four-year term.

Divided Over Gasoline Rules

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer group says new federal allocation and pricing rules grant windfall profits to gasoline dealers, but an organization of 60,000 service stations claims the regulations don't help enough.

The Energy Department, meanwhile, says more motorists will benefit than suffer from the changes, which set a uniform ceiling on dealer profit margins of 15.4 cents per gallon, effective Monday.

Whatever the future price of gasoline, its supply appeared to be improving Monday.

Even in the hard-hit Northeast, where blocks-long lines at gasoline stations were common in recent weeks, drivers were facing little or no wait.

Missouri Energy Program Director J.W. Abbott said, "We probably are in as good a position as we've been in the past 60 days. ... We think people have realized things aren't as bad as they thought. They're finding out they can operate just as well on the bottom half of their tanks as the top."

In Pennsylvania and Delaware, independent dealers began pumping fuel again after many closed during the weekend to protest the outgoing federal fuel allocation and pricing rules.

While the Energy Department said the new rules would "provide new protection for consumers," the Center for Auto Safety, a private consumer group, said it will file suit this week to overturn the regulations. "No dealer deserves more than an 11-cent to 12-cent profit margin," said its director, Clarence Dittlow.

"The bottom line is: consumers will be paying more and many dealers who don't need relief will be getting windfall profits," said Dittlow. He also charged that the Energy Department moved so rapidly to help dealers it failed to give motorists time to speak out against the new rules.

The department said current profit margins range from 14 cents to 16 cents a gallon, so the new ceiling will not raise prices significantly, and in some instances, it will force rollbacks.

But the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers puts the current average profit margin closer to 12.5 cents per gallon, which means many motorists could be paying about 3 cents more at the pump.

Gasoline prices in the Midwest and South should rise the most, with little change in the East, the retailers' group said. Western motorists may see prices fall, it added.

Certificate Of Need Approved

The Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency last week approved a certificate of need application for renovation of the Guardian Care nursing home in Farmville and the third-year operations grant application for the Pitt County Mental Health Center.

The ECHSA governing board also approved a grant application for continuation of full designation for the ECHSA.

The health systems agency, a private, non-profit organization, acts as a planning and development organization for health-care systems in 29 Eastern counties.

The agency also acts as a review agency for proposed changes in the health system in the area, making recommendations to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

MRS. JAMES EDWARD SIMPKINS

Couple Weds In California

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Gulselle Aguirre Echeverri and James Edwards Simpkins, both of Greenville, N. C., were united in marriage Saturday at 1 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. John C. Bonner of the Lakewood Christ Presbyterian Church, Long Beach. The ceremony was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Yelba Echeverri. The bride's father was the late Mr. Victor M. Aguirre Rueda. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. N. E. Simpkins of Rt. 6, Greenville.

Laura Aguirre, sister of the bride, was honor attendant and best man was Ledy Gladson of Raleigh, N. C.

The couple will be living in Greenville after a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev.

The bride is the owner and operator of Gulselle's Beauty Salon, Greenville. She is a native of San Jose, Costa Rica, where she attended school. She is a graduate of the Claudia Institute of Beauty, San Jose, Costa Rica. The bridegroom is employed by S. G. Wilkerson and Sons as a licensed mortician and funeral director. He graduated from Belvoir-Falkland High School and is a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science.

Miss Mason, Mr. Tyson Wed

Katherine Morgan Mason and Grant Harold Tyson were married Thursday evening at seven o'clock in the garden of the home of the bridegroom's parents on Churchill Drive here.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Irvine Kilby of Clinton, Iowa, godfather of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Ms. Katherine Moler Mason of Olympia, Wash., and the late Rev. Howard Merritt Mason. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Vernon Tyson of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory Italian silk fashioned with a full skirt. Alencon lace beaded with pearls and sequins bordered the oval neckline. Her illusion veil extended from a tulle Camelot cap trimmed with pearls. Her only ornament was an antique necklace of oblong dropped pearls set in gold, a gift of her grandmother. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, cymbidium orchids and ivy.

Miss Kay Pakkanen of Myrtle Beach, S. C., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Miss Virginia Merritt Mason and Miss Ellen Michael Mason of Olympia, Wash., sisters of the bride.

The attendants wore formal length gowns of lime green which featured ivory trim and spaghetti straps. They carried clutch bouquets of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath tied with yellow and white ribbons.

Miss Kimberly Dianne Moler, niece of the bride of Washington, N. C., was flower girl and carried a basket of white and yellow daisies. Miss Christina Leigh Moler, also niece of the bride, was ring bearer. Their dresses were identical and were fashioned after those of the other attendants.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore formal gowns of silk knit in coordinating shades of green to those of the attendants. Both mothers wore daisy corsages.

Grandmother of the bride, Mrs. D. Grove Moler of Mullens, W. Va., and grandmother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ollie Bates Cash of Wendell, were remembered with daisy corsages.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Groomsman were William Vernon Tyson Jr., brother of the bridegroom of Houston, Tex., Greg Lewandowsky and Howard Lincoln, both of Greenville.

Mrs. Ruland W. Davenport directed the wedding.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club. Guests were received by the wedding party and directed to the registry by Mr. and Mrs. William Vernon Tyson Jr.

Mrs. Stephen Moler, aunt of the bride, poured punch. Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Roy A. Cogdell, Mrs. Mac C. Stocks, Mrs. Earl Alder and Mrs. George Cogdell.

The bride has attended Olympia Technical and Community College and the Evergreen State College in Olympia. She will continue her education in South Carolina in the fall.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and has attended East Carolina University. He is an electronics technician for Ripley's Inc.

A breakfast for the wedding party and out-of-town guests was given Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Mercer and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Holt at the Weaver home.

A pink, yellow and green color scheme was used throughout the house. Flowers and gifts of silver were presented to the bridal couple.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests with an after-rehearsal dinner Wednesday at their home.

On Wednesday, a bridal luncheon was given by Mrs. Floyd

Phillips and Mrs. Ruland Davenport at the home of Mrs. Davenport.

The bride was presented a corsage of yellow mums and a gift of brass candlesticks.

The living room was decorated with a bridal motif.

Accepts Alimony As Punishment

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a divorcee and want to marry her. She says she loves me, too, but doesn't want to get married again because, if she does, her ex will not have to pay her any more alimony. She frankly admits that it's not the money—she just wants to punish him by making him pay as long as she lives.

I am not rich, but I could support her well enough so that she wouldn't have to go to work.

How can I get her to change her mind?

IN LOVE IN ST. CHARLES

DEAR IN: You probably can't. And you could be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother had been a widow for a long time. About two years ago she married a nice-looking, quiet man none of us knew. They live only a few miles from us but we never visit them, and neither do any of her other four children who live in this area. The reason is one you will probably not believe: Mom's husband smells like he hasn't had a bath in 50 years! I am not kidding. Their house is an absolute pigsty; every piece of furniture in the place smells to high heaven. Nobody cares to eat or drink in their house because the smell spoils their appetite.

Mom was in the hospital for three weeks recently, and every day we'd take her husband to the hospital with us (it's a 25-mile drive). He smelled so bad we had to keep all the car windows open.

My husband even told him flat out that people were complaining, and to please clean himself up, but he got mad and refused to do anything about it.

The merchants in town complain about him, but they can't keep him out. They spray after he leaves. Abby, what can we do?

HOLDING OUR NOSES IN W. VA.

DEAR HOLDING: The man must be mentally ill. And his wife has either lost her sense of smell or she's as sick as he is. This is a case for a doctor. For goodness' sake, don't just hold your noses; hold a family conference and get some medical advice!

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, before I met the man I married (I'll call him Bob), he got a girl pregnant. Bob was in the service in San Diego at the time.

The girl went to a home for unwed mothers in Seattle, had the baby (a girl) and gave it up for adoption. She named Bob as the baby's father.

My questions: When this child grows up, do we have any responsibility for her? Can she locate us if she wants to? Does she have any claim on my husband's estate if he dies before I do?

We have children of our own. Our wills read: "To all our surviving children...." Is this illegitimate daughter considered a surviving child of my husband's?

Bob told me that he has no real proof that this is really his child. He said he didn't love the girl, but he did sleep with her one weekend exactly nine months before the baby was born, so he could be the father.

Where do we stand?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: You could be standing right behind the eight ball—or in a safety zone, depending on what state you live in. (The laws differ.) Your questions are intelligent. Consult a lawyer. It could be the best investment you ever made.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

In spite of the professional labor-force expansion, the female component has increased only 3 percent over the past 27 years. Ginzberg reports the ratio of men to women in engineering still exceeds 50 to 1, in law 20 to 1, in medicine 10 to 1 and in the sciences 6 to 1.

Future improvement is suggested by the 50 percent female enrollment in undergraduate colleges and graduate professional schools, he notes.

It isn't often I have a chance to do something for my country. But China needs me.

It seems Peking has just suffered an invasion of Western styles and trends which our children introduced in the '60s. Or as the Chinese press put it, "long hair, bellbottom trousers and other outlandish fashions that are decadent and quite bourgeois."

Cartoons in Communist newspapers are already showing the effects of what happens to a nice boy in a crew cut, Mao jacket and baggy trousers who turns into a long-haired freak and gets drunk on heady spirits and eventually engages in "billing and cooing."

Believe me when I say American parents have empathy and expertise on how to handle these problems. In the interest of friendly relations, we are willing to share with Chinese parents the stages and their progression so that you may know what to expect and how to handle the problem.

First, the hair-in-the-eyes phase. Your child will develop an affliction in which he will snap his head to one side and, for a few seconds, you will actually see his eyes. They will be hostile and you'll be glad when the hair falls back over them.

The second stage develops when you suggest he gets a haircut and he combs it over to one side and secretly uses your hairspray to make it stay. He has begun to do other things like not wear socks with his tennis shoes and uses words like "Chin laing" (tough) and "Ho Me- ingh" (No way!).

The third stage is when he appears for school one day wearing pants he has worn for the last five days. He now owns his own hair dryer.

In the fourth stage his hair is down to his shoulders and he is sprouting hair all over his face. With pure belligerence he will tell you, "Confucius had a mustache this long and no one complained."

The fifth stage, you have lost control. Trousers are frayed, holes are secured with pins, your newspapers have no rubber bands on them since they are

It's Largely Up To The People

It would be difficult not to agree with President Carter's address to the nation concerning our energy problems.

The president generally put the burden on the American people for self-restraint in energy usage. There can be no question that that is how the problem will be solved.

He also proposed an Energy Mobilization Board with broad powers to get energy projects moving; an energy security corporation, with an $82 billion budget to develop synthetic fuels; import oil quotas; standby gas rationing; "solar banks" for financing solar-energy equipment and a number of programs to encourage industries to switch to fuels other than oil.

Early reaction was that the president's talk, after days of conferences at Camp David, was well received by the public and by Congress.

The full impact of the oil conservation program is still in the future, however. It is clear that we must cut our dependence on imported oil, and the president would not have taken too radical a stance if he had ordered the importation of all oil halted immediately.

We could, of course, get along with the energy we have. The public, however, is already mad about gas shortages and high energy prices, so the political consequences of such an action would have been dire.

Even as it is, the oil import quotas are going to pinch, since the alternative fuel sources will be slow in coming.

So the real answer for meeting the fuel crisis in the next decade will lay with the people. Will we be willing to get along with less fuel, and at higher prices? The alternative is more inflation and a steady weakening of our economy. Unless the people get behind the president's program we can be certain that nothing will work.

Perhaps 1984 Will Bring Another Call

Gov. Hunt says he was sounded out by President Carter last week about taking a high position in Washington.

The governor told the president he would just as soon stay in North Carolina.

Gov. Hunt is, of course, eligible for re-election and most observers expect him to seek the office again.

Maybe Washington will beckon in 1984.

Is A Tax War Shaping Up?

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Mention Burke County to a county official or state tax expert, and the reaction is immediate:

That was the opening salvo in a developing Tar Heel Tax War of significant consequence.

State and local officials have gone to great pains to dismiss as unnecessary and far-fetched the notion that Proposition 13 Fever would ever rise to a crescendo in this state.

After all, go the protests from officialdom, property tax rates in North Carolina are generally quite low, and efficiency in government at all levels has won a typically high level of citizen approval.

But all of that reckons without the impact which property revaluation is having in those counties in which that procedure is currently coming to a head.

Burke County demonstrates the dangers: hundreds of shouting and angry protestors disrupted public hearings; threats were made against officials and their families; a sharp knife sliced off the necktie of a county commissioner, missing his throat by a hair.

Protests Nowhere else has public anger reached such proportions as in Burke, but there have been protests and petitions in other counties as well.

This is only the beginning, and any number of knowledgeable people expect troubles to grow increasingly as the property revaluations required every eight years by state law are carried out in various places.

A simple description of the process: the local county and municipal tax rates are based on appraised value of real estate at current market prices. Those tables must be upgraded periodically. Obviously, if the property value is increased sharply the tax levy will go up dramatically.

The citizen then, is caught between two overwhelming forces:

1. Welfare costs — especially Medicaid — mandated by state and federal law are pushing local budgets all out of shape, and county commissioners are forced to find new millions.

2. Inflation of real property is greater even than the runaway inflation in other areas. In many places, home costs have increased 10 percent in the past year. In desirable neighborhoods, prices have doubled, even tripled, in the past two or three years. Over an eight-year period (the lapse between valuation for tax purposes) the increase is staggering.

So while county commissioners struggle to meet welfare budget increases and in doing so often break promises to cut local tax rates to compensate for revalued appraisals, the elderly, the widows, the middle income worker whose take-home pay isn't keeping up with inflation, suddenly finds the homeplace priced all out of proportion to reality and taxes on it actually taking food off the table.

At Home It is not the property tax rate in comparison to California or Massachusetts which is important to a North Carolinian. It is his tax rate this year in comparison to the taxes paid in the past which matter.

Robert P. Alexander, retiring tax supervisor in Mecklenburg County after 31 years of experience, has sounded the warning: The tax system is destined for deep trouble. "How would you like it if we doubled the value of your house? You'd be angry, too. So would I. But that's what we are headed for," Alexander says of a coming revaluation in Mecklenburg.

Alexander sees the situation moving toward taxes taking milk and bread off the family table unless the General Assembly moves to relieve local government reliance on property taxes as the main source of income.

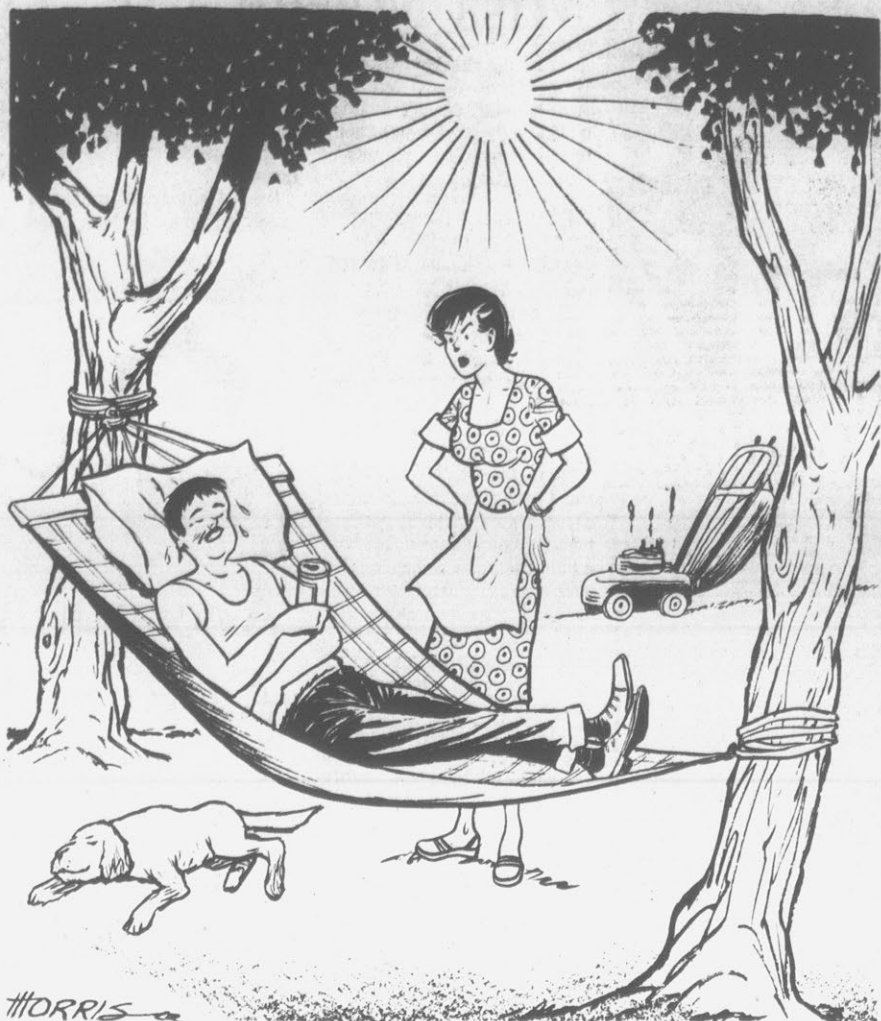

Options include a payroll tax, more efficient collection methods especially for the auto tax, general governmental efficiency and consolidation.

"In the old days," says Alexander, "property was a good measure of a person's wealth; today, it's more often a measure of a person's debt."

SPEAKING OF SOLAR ENERGY---

Paying With Lives

By KATHY OSOBA

Associated Press Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic

deaths can be expected to rise up as Americans turn to smaller cars, motorcycles and mopeds to save gasoline, the head of the National Safety Council says.

Such an increase would end a five-year period of progress in reducing such fatalities, said Jack L. Tofany, president of the council, said Monday.

The nation's driving habits are changing in response to the energy situation, but safety specialists caution that while slower speeds, less driving and better use of public transportation help cut down traffic fatalities, smaller vehicles do not.

Subcompacts and other energy-efficient vehicles are more likely to be damaged on impact, and such accidents are twice as likely to result in deaths as those involving standard-size cars, the council says.

And though motorists tend to stay closer to home during the last energy crisis in 1973, the old warning that most accidents happen close to home still holds true, said Jack L. Recht, manager of the council's statistics department. In 1977, the last year of complete statistics, 71 percent of the 49,500 motor vehicle deaths occurred within 25 miles of home, he said.

In addition, as more commuters car pool or double up for social outings, the risk rises of more people dying from a single collision, said Tofany.

Preliminary figures indicate 51,900 lives were claimed in traffic accidents in 1978. The record was set in 1972, when 56,278 died.

Before the effects of long gas lines and high gas prices took hold, the accident death rate in the first quarter of 1979 began climbing for the first time since 1974, when the 55 mph speed limit was enacted, he said.

"If that were to continue, we would achieve a record number of deaths this year compared to previous years," Tofany said.

Making Right Moves

WASHINGTON — Under the rules of chess, a bishop moves only along diagonal lines. That was how Abel Tendekayi Muzorewa was moving about the world last week. The prime minister of Zimbabwe-Rhodesia was seeking by indirection to find direction out.

He is a diminutive figure, not more than 5 feet 2 or 3, chocolate-brown, with eyes as sad as a Border collie's. He turned 54 in April, but he looks about 60. An aide told me the bishop had looked just the same way for the past 10 years; if he can evade assassination by terrorists of the "Patriotic Front" who have publicly promised to kill him, the bishop probably will look the same way for another 10 years. Muzorewa has something timeless about him; the eons of Africa are carved in his face.

We met in a hotel room in suburban Arlington. The prime minister had arrived only a few hours earlier under circumstances remarkably different from the circumstances that surrounded a Rhodesian delegation last October. At that time, Prime Minister Ian Smith was plainly persona non grata; Smith was grudgingly admitted to the United States only as a guest of Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina. President Carter stuffily refused to acknowledge his presence; Smith could talk with no one at the State Department.

By contrast, the president himself initiated the Muzorewa visit. The White House telephoned Helms two weeks ago, suggested that the prime minister would be welcome, and promised Helms that the prime minister could be assured a one-on-one talk with the president himself. Helms got on the phone to Salisbury. Muzorewa caught the next plane and met Mr. Carter at Camp David for 40 minutes of private conversation. Muzorewa, keeping on a proper diagonal line, would describe their talk only as

To the editor:

Abortion has brought mass torture and violence to both babies and women in our society. Take the saline procedure for example. This killing technique was perfected in Nazi concentration camps. It cannot be performed until 16 weeks of pregnancy; the unborn child can feel pain as early as six weeks.

What does a saline abortion do to a baby? After the concentrated solution is injected into the amniotic sack, the baby breathes in and swallows the salt and is poisoned by it. The outer layer of skin is burned off by its corrosive effect. The baby will kick and struggle for over an hour before he or she dies.

And what about the woman? The New York Academy of Medicine Bulletin reported the following immediate effects of saline abortion on 300 women: 10 percent required blood transfusions; 13.3 percent had fevers; 31 required additional surgery; 64.8 percent were in hard labor 24 to 36 hours; 14.3 percent were in hard labor 36 to 48 hours; five percent were in labor for more than 48 hours; 1.7 percent needed major surgery to remove the baby.

The Dept. of Human Resources reports that from 1973-1977, 7,145 saline abortions were performed in our state. Probably Pitt County Memorial Hospital has been responsible for a number of these procedures.

Meanwhile, the Philadelphia Inquirer presented an article on June 10 about a tiny boy and girl, each weighing three pounds who were doing well and breathing on their own. Each had survived a saline abortion. Both were relinquished for adoption and by now are probably in the loving arms of their new families.

I wish that some "pro-choice" person in our county would write to this paper explaining their justification for the legality of saline abortions. I would be interested in what would or could be said.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Turks Warmer To Soviet

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ANKARA, Turkey — Turkey's feeling for the Soviet Union has switched from cold to warm during five years of fumbling American foreign policy, a sweetening up that is sour news for the West.

The change is particularly disturbing because it coincides with growing hostility for the U.S. throughout the Moslem Middle East. It also underlines once again the lack of confidence in the U.S. that has shaken its allies everywhere.

The switch was documented in an exclusive interview with Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit, that was bluntly frank. The left-leaning head of government credited the "continuity and stability" of Soviet policy, not the punitive anti-Turkish measures of the U.S., for what he called the "different attitude" of Turkish public opinion toward the Soviet superpower along Turkey's 500-mile northern border.

"There has developed a lot of mutual confidence" between Moscow and Ankara, Ecevit told us over tea and cakes in his suburban, walk-up apartment. We now feel quite secure in this region, although it took long years of patience with the Soviet Union to convince our people that they (Moscow) have adopted a different attitude."

Skeptics would never agree that the "different attitude" claimed by Ecevit is more than skin deep, if that. Indeed, illicit gunrunning from communist Bulgaria aimed at arming scores of radical-left terrorists and guerrilla groups points the other way: to the continuing, long-range Soviet objective here to replace American influence with its own.

What has changed is Washington. On his recent tour of the U.S. to discuss modernizing the antiquated weapons of NATO's largest European army, Turkish Gen. Kenan Erven was not amused to see the M-48 tank of Korean War vintage on display in the famous museum for old, forgotten tanks at Fort Knox. The M-48 is still Turkey's main battle tank, and it is a tin toy compared to the dreadnaughts across the border in Russia and Bulgaria.

The tin toy that passes for a tank is not unique here. Turkey's air defense still depends on optically-targeted antiaircraft guns — there are no Hawks, Red Eyes or Vulcans here.

For defense against attacking tanks, the wire-guided TOW anti-tank missile, which the U.S. gave to Israel over six years ago, has not been

Strength For Today

SELF-LOVE There is a story that on one occasion General Robert E. Lee came suddenly upon one of his young officers gazing at himself in the mirror with obvious pleasure and satisfaction. "You must be the happiest man in the world," Lee said.

"Why do you say that, sir?" the officer asked. "Because you are in love with yourself, and have no rival for your affection," Lee replied.

This story contains an important truth. The surest way to lose the love of others is to devote all our love to ourselves. And the more intense our self-love becomes, the surer we can be that no one else will share it.

But fortunately for humanity, the reverse of this process is equally true. Unselfish affection for others inevitably draws affection in return. The person who can forget himself or herself in the welfare of others is fortunate, for others will not forget that person.

Activism Is Unlikely To Help

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Meanwhile, back in the "isolated world of Washington," the description used Sunday evening by President Jimmy Carter, problems of inflation, recession, and unemployment remain.

The underlying problem with America, Carter said in his address, is a "crisis of confidence," but to W. Michael Blumenthal it is something more prosaic. "Our core problem is inflation," he said last Friday. The Treasury secretary told the Senate Budget Committee that inflation decimates consumer buying power, discourages business investment, and weakens the country's ability to export.

But, he advised, workers shouldn't seek to make up income losses because the effort would merely lead to higher prices. It would be "futile," he said. "It would merely perpetuate the inflation."

Testifying on the same day before Congress' Joint Economic Committee, Barry Bosworth reinforced Blumenthal's message. Surges in the prices of food, energy and housing are ominous, he said.

Even more portentous, in his view, would be any attempt by workers to recapture lost buying power. It wouldn't just be futile; it would be, he said, "only asking for more trouble."

The result, said Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, would be "an acceleration in the underlying inflation rate (13.4 percent so far in 1979)...followed by a severe recession."

Now there's a problem — economically, politically, socially — more intricate perhaps than energy, and painful enough to wither the confidence of any family.

The comparison doesn't end there. One of the depressing aspects of the energy problem was the public's view of the official attitude, since addressed by Carter, that little could be done about it.

Now the public is given even less hope — a warning, in fact — about food and housing, which are even more closely associated with economic survival. And this time, no political activism is likely to help.

In fact, activism in the form of government spending may have worsened inflation in recent years, and the energy initiatives just announced could add to the problem, at least in the short run.

The energy independence scenario could involve the government in expensive support plans, such as grants, loans, guarantees and price supports, and maybe even in building its own synthetic fuel plants.

That is, while benefits would accrue to the entire nation if the plans work, there is likely to be a period of a several years during which costs may outweigh benefits by billions of dollars.

The energy remedy, therefore, might contribute to the inflation problem. While the 13.4 percent annual rate is expected to moderate, nobody seems to know what the "underlying" level is.

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slipped in moderate trading today in what analysts said reflected inflation worries and continued concern about a recession.

The market got only a mild lift Monday from President Carter's energy proposals. Some analysts said fears that the $140 billion program may worsen inflation weighed on the market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which gained 1.37 on Monday, was down 2.05 at 832.85 by midday today. Declining issues outnumbered gainers by a slim 6-5 margin.

Big Board volume was 13.15 million shares, up from 11.03 million in the previous session.

The effect of second quarter earnings reports coming out in recent days also was evident. RCA Corp. fell 1/8 to 23 3/8 as the most actively traded issue. Trading included a 200,000-share block at that price. RCA said Monday its would have recorded a loss in the second quarter if it had not had a one-time gain from the sale of property.

IBM Corp. fell 1/8 to 70 3/8, on trades including a 100,000-share block at that price. Among oth"encouraging." Then he moved off to meet with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in London, and thence, on another path, back home to his Cabinet and Parliament in Salisbury.

In my own brief interview I asked the bishop the predictable questions. Back in April, The New York Times had said, quite accurately, that Muzorewa "is viewed among many of his countrymen as a hesitant, sometimes vacillating figure whose capacity for toughness is open to doubt." The Times noted that immediately following the parliamentary elections, when his party swept to power with 44 of the 72 non-white seats, the bishop had confessed to being "frightened at the immense responsibility placed on his shoulders." It had been widely surmised that Muzorewa functions as little more than a puppet of the white power structure.

The prime minister understandably bristled at thoughts so manifestly unkind. He shed fatigue in an instant. Indecisive? He had consulted with his staff, concluded that an increase in the ceiling price on gasoline was urgently needed, and — snap! — he had pushed his bill through Parliament. Not tough? He was actively pressing the war against his guerrilla foes, and the war was going reasonably well. But were not white generals calling the tune? Of course! Could he make a black general overnight? Could he make a black general in five weeks? There would be predominantly white generals, white judges and other white officials for some indefinite time, until black officers, black lawyers and black civil servants became truly qualified. But do not be deceived: "I do not take orders, I give them."

His country's most urgent need is for the lifting of the U.N. sanctions. Relieved of that burden, he said, Rhodesia could sell her tobacco, chrome and manufactured products on world markets. With sanctions ended, thousands of followers of Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo lay down their arms — they could come home to jobs and to normal life. With recognition by the U.S. and Britain, the huffing and puffing of African neighbors would subside.

Muzorewa has to pursue his goals obliquely. Mr. Carter's domestic problem is a tricky one — how to mollify a Southern white conservative, such as Helms, without mortally alienating Southern black liberals. Mrs. Thatcher's problems in Britain are not quite so delicate — she doesn't have to run for reelection next year — but she cannot prudently offend her Commonwealth members.

I obtained no confidences from Muzorewa. He had a tight mouth. But it is probably not too far from the mark to speculate that the bishop will go home with an offer that Ian Smith and his colleagues would find hard to refuse—constitutional revision to diminish the number of white-only seats, new gestures of amnesty to the guerrillas, and Smith's personal abdication from politics, all bargained in exchange for Britain's letting her sanctions act quietly expire in November.

Muzorewa is a little guy in a clerical collar and two-toned shoes. He is inexperienced in politics and diplomacy, but he seems to be making all the right moves.

Cluster Of 4 Hepatitis Cases

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — One man died Sunday from hepatitis and three others are in the Craven County Hospital with the disease, Craven County authorities said.

"There is no cause for alarm," Dr. Verna Barefoot, Craven County Health Department director, said Monday. Although there has been no determination of the kind of hepatitis involved, she said there is "no indication" the source could affect the general public.

"This seems to be a cluster of very serious cases but not by any means could you call it an epidemic," Ms. Barefoot said.

Craig Gaskins, 19, a resident of the Saints Delight area north of Bridgeton, died Sunday in Craven County Hospital.

Eye Stressing Career Studies

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The state is hoping to elevate career education to a top priority so high school students will be better prepared to choose the vocations they will pursue.

Brooks Whitehurst, chairman of Gov. Jim Hunt's advisory council on career education, said Monday that students will have the kind of resources needed in the next decade to prepare them for the job market. Speaking at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Whitehurst said the 25-member committee is developing a state plan for career education.

The program "cannot be centered entirely on vocations and be effective," Whitehurst said. "Students need advice on what type of jobs will be in demand in the future and they have not been getting this type of information on a broad scale."

Protesting 'Brutality' By Former Pitt Deputy

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
 Pickets walked in front of the Greenville Police Department and City Hall for the second day in a row, today, to "protest police brutality in the Pitt County Schools during educational classes conducted by a Pitt County Deputy Sheriff, now a city policeman," according to the application for the permit to picket.

Officials of the Pitt County chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference applied for the permit last week. According to the permit, the purpose of the action is to "draw public attention to the alleged lack of restraint by police officers concerning the rights of students, while these officers are conducting classes in criminal justice."

Although the application fails to name any individual officer, officials say the protest apparently involves Ptl. Doug Tripp, assigned to the Police Department's Uniformed Division.

Tripp joined the Greenville Police Department on March 5, after working for the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and Pitt County Board of Education since the Summer of 1978, under a federally funded project. Under the project, Tripp acted as a liaison officer between the schools and the Sheriff's Department, teaching classes and conducting other activities in an effort to sensitize students to the problems they might run into by violating the law. School officials explained the program as a crime prevention-type activity.

The protest apparently centers on an incident that occurred during a class at the Chicod School on January 11, in which Tripp allegedly struck an 11-year-old sixth grade student.

Tripp was suspended for two weeks, without pay, by school officials, then resigned from the county job a month after he returned to work.

On March 7, two days after Tripp joined the police department, the parents of Bruce Nathaniel Cox, the youngster involved in the incident, charged him with assault.

The assault charges against Tripp were heard in District Court here June 28 and Tripp was found not guilty.

School Board....

Glenn Cox was asked to provide information on the exact extent to which this fee is used to take care of laundry service for towels used in PE before the board acts on fees.

A motion by Miles Frost to rescind the requirement for a second year of physical education effective with the graduating class of 1983 was defeated. Concern was expressed over problems that would be encountered with the driver education course — which is part of the second year of PE, if the requirement were rescinded.

The schedule of meal prices for the school food service was approved. Cox noted that for two years there has been no increase in meal prices, and that it is now mandatory to raise prices to preclude a large deficit in the food service operations.

Prices for the coming school year are 60 cents per lunch, up 10 cents, for students in grades K-6; 75 cents per lunch for students grades 7-12, up 15 cents; and 90 cents for adults, up 15 cents. Full breakfast prices are 30 cents for students in K-12; and 45 for adults. Reduced breakfast and lunch prices are ten cents, a rate set by federal guidelines. Extra milk is 15 cents for students, and 20 cents for adults.

In other actions, the school board: — Approved a student insurance policy with Youth Guard. The annual fee is $4.25, which is 25 cents higher than the policy with the same company last year. — Approved issuance of a quit claim deed to a small wedge of property adjacent to South Greenville School. There is some confusion as to who clearly and legally owns the tiny piece of land, and the approving motion carried a stipulation that if later it turns out the transfer is illegal, that the matter again be considered. Also, the party to whom the quit claim deed is being made will be responsible for the cost of paper-work involved.

Board members approved continuing the policy of granting seniors the privilege of having an off-campus lunch period. Cox was asked, however, to bring no later than the October informational meeting information on the legal responsibilities of the school relating to the absence of seniors from the school grounds during the day's school period.

A review of the Alcohol Education Agreement shows that tobacco has been added to drugs and alcohol as a subject to be taught in the program.

On the matter of a Health Educator, Cox informed board members that state officials have suggested that the best route to take is to prepare a joint proposal with the Pitt County School system. He added that he and county school officials are working on a proposed program. He expressed a belief that this approach would help insure that Greenville (and Pitt County) would stand a better chance of being assigned one of eight health educator persons to be funded in a statewide pilot program.

A request presented by teacher Floretta Smith for early dismissal of school on three dates during the coming school year was denied. The defeat of the request followed Cox's statement that he did not recommend granting the early dismissal for the teacher members of the Greenville Educators Association.

In an executive session following the open session of the meeting, board members approved the acceptance of the resignations of eight staff members, and the election of 19.

Moscow's compliance with SALT II. "The U.S. wants us to risk Soviet anger," one high Turkish official privately told the U.S. embassy, "at the bottom of our defense capability."

This example of American insensitivities to Turkish national pride is a glaring contrast to the smart Soviet game being played here. Gone are the days when Moscow threatened Turkey in its quest for bases on the Bosphorus. Instead of threats, Moscow is giving Turkey highly visible aid in joint industrial projects, in the sale of Soviet-produced electricity and in many other energy-related fields. It has become Turkey's major economic supporter.

The new Soviet way is calculated to build a record of reliability. An article in Pravda two weeks ago, widely read here, praised Turkey for its shift away from an all-out U.S. embrace. The Kremlin's campaign to soften up Turkey with sweet talk and rubies is a demonstration that it does not always deal, as in Ethiopia, Afghanistan or South Yemen, from brute strength.

But the Russians could never pull it off if the Americans were able to run the foreign policy ball without repeated, embarrassing and costly fumbles. What is clearly called for is not to subvert the clever Soviet campaign but to stop the drain of confidence in Washington. That would more than take care of the Russians.

But in April, when gas supplies were reduced, the death rate stopped its upward trend, he said.

Safety council statistics show that during the first four months of this year, 14,580 persons died in motor vehicle deaths compared to 13,390 last year and 13,900 in 1977.

There's no doubt that the 55 mph limit has saved lives, Tofany said. "There has been nothing more dramatic in the history of driving in this country — with the exception of World War II — that has enhanced public safety than the 55 mph speed limit," he said.

Apparent Victims Of Murder, Suicide

SARATOGA — A Saratoga couple died early Monday morning, the apparent victims of murder and suicide at their home here.

The Wilson County Sheriff Department identified the couple as Carl Turmage Nichols, 43, and his wife, Joyce Cates Nichols, 40. "It seems apparent now," Wilson County Sheriff's Detective Wayne Gay said, "that Carl Nichols shot his wife twice in the head with a 38-caliber pistol and then shot himself once in the right temple."

Both died in the master bedroom of their residence, located beside the store they operated together, Nichols' Minute Stop, in Saratoga.

Gay quoted the Nichols' 16-year-old son as saying he was awakened by shots and screams and that he found his parents. He and his five-year-old brother had been asleep in the residence when the violence occurred at approximately 1:45 a.m. The couple has one other son, who's in the U.S. Army.

Mrs. Nichols' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Cates, live in Farmville.

Knight Marked By Strong Controversy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Bobby Knight is considered one of the country's best college basketball coaches. But his career from West Point through last week's Pan Am Games has been marked by controversy. The first part of this three-part series examines that career.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The coach, who knows it all, approaches a gangly teen-ager, who thinks he does. The coach asks the kid to run as fast as he can to the other end of the basketball court, touch the rim and come back.

The kid struts his stuff as fast as he can.

"Not bad," said the coach. "Eleven seconds. Now do it again."

This time, the coach is on the kid's heels every step of the way, screaming up and down the court. "C'mon...Hustle...Move..." he barks, commanding the kid into a faster gear.

At the end of the second run, the kid looks befuddled. He's puffing a lot harder now. The coach puts his arm around him and stares at his stopwatch. "Now which time do you think was faster?"

The kid, not so strident any more, says sheepishly "the second."

The coach smiles. "Nine seconds," he says.

Bobby Knight, considered by many to be the best basketball coach in the country, has made his point. And if the kid can overcome the shock to his bruised ego, he will have learned a lesson.

It doesn't matter that this wasn't Indiana University, where Knight gets to teach quality players. It was a summer basketball camp for teenagers. But the motivational technique and results are the same.

In six years as head coach at Army and eight years at Indiana, the 38-year-old Knight has never had one of his players make All-Pro in the National Basketball Association or an all-rookie NBA team. Yet, these players in college gave him 200 career victories by the time he was 35. He now shows a mark of 284-103.

Last season, his Indiana squad — weakened by injuries and suspensions for smoking marijuana and without a single All-American player — won the NIT basketball championship. When the season was over, a computer ranking service called Knight's nine-man team the second best in the country behind Michigan State.

Yet Knight isn't judged by his court achievements alone. Everywhere he goes controversy hangs over him because of his volatile nature and his strong-armed motivational techniques.

At the recent Pan American Games the spotlight again fell on Knight, coach of the U.S. basketball team. The U.S. was beating the Virgin Islands by 35 points when Knight hotly disputed a charging call. He was ejected from the game and forced to apologize to representatives of the international basketball federation.

Then he got into an altercation last week with a San Juan policeman over the use of a practice facility. Knight wound up in jail for a short time, and the coach and the cop filed assault and battery accusations against each other. Knight faces as much as six months in jail if convicted. Knight's complaint against the cop was dismissed.

Knight doesn't recruit showboat players with oversized egos or statistics. And the consensus of coaches is that, in a sport tainted by recruiting violations, Knight doesn't bend the rules.

"The only thing I'm sure of is that Indiana doesn't cheat," says Abe Lemons of Texas. "But that sonavagun thinks he can take five guys off a street corner and beat you."

Knight's players are fundamentally sound and team-oriented, otherwise they aren't Knight's players. His teams play a disciplined, passing-game offense and hard-nosed man-to-man defense. Their trademarks are hustle, intelligence and patience. Practices are fast-paced with players skinning elbows and knees diving for balls.

"Sure he yells and screams a lot, but he's doing it for a purpose. He had my attention at all times," said former Indiana player Steve Downing, a No. 1 draft choice by the Boston Celtics and now an administrative assistant to the Indiana athletic director. "Pretty much to this day I'm still scared of him. I'm always on my toes. But I respect Coach Knight more than anybody in this world. Because of him, I feel I can deal with any problem at any time."

"He treated me like a piece of meat," said Rich Valavicius, who quit Indiana and transferred to Auburn two years ago. "He's rough and tough on you mentally and physically. He's constantly on your case, cursing you out. I was intimidated, and I don't feel I deserved it one bit."

Knight played basketball at Ohio State, where the Buckeyes won Big Ten titles from 1960-62 and the national championship in 1960. One year after graduation, Knight volunteered for the draft with the understanding that his initial duty would be in the West Point basketball program under Coach Tate Locke.

When Locke left for Miami University in 1965, the 24-year-old Knight was named head coach. He quickly earned a reputation as a hot-head, ranting at referees, breaking chairs and getting into hot water with the Army brass.

SEATTLE AP — It won't take a king-sized hit to get out of Seattle's Kingdom, so batters look forward to tonight's 50th All-Star baseball game with unabashed anticipation.

Even though they'll face the major league strikeout king Nolan Ryan, the National League hitters surveyed the enclosed stadium with happiness.

Davey Lopes, the second baseman from the Los Angeles Dodgers, banged a few balls into the bleachers and observed:

"This is very conducive to hitting. Everybody in batting practice was trying to hit the ball over the wall to hear the oohs and aahs from the crowd. It will be a different story against Nolan Ryan."

The right-hander from the California Angels was named for the Americans with Steve Carlton of the Phillies the choice of National League manager Tommy Lasorda.

Ryan is 12-6 with 160 strikeouts with Carlton 11-8 with 113.

Lasorda said he went to Carlton as his starter because the American League would send up a flock of left-handed hitters and he wanted a southpaw to be going against them the first three innings.

The game is scheduled to start at 5:40 p.m. PDT as the NL goes after its eighth straight triumph and 16th in 17 games. Overall, after 49 games, the NL has won 30, the AL 18 and there has been one tie.

The National League batting order leads off with Lopes, followed by Dave Parker, right field. Steve Garvey, first base. Mike Schmidt, third base. George Foster, left field. Dave Winfield, center field. Bob Boone, catcher and Larry Bowa, shortstop.

There will be no designated hitters in this games so the pitchers bat ninth.

The Kingdom is sold out at $8,960 — a record for the park which measures 316 down the foul lines, 357 down the power alleys and 410 to center.

Weather doesn't mean much in the enclosed Kingdom, but for outsiders it will be fair with temperatures in the 60's. Many feel the All-Star Game record of six home runs will be broken. Six homers have been hit in All-Star Games on three occasions, in 1951 and 1971 at Detroit and in 1954 at Cleveland.

Each manager vowed he would use as many from the 28-man squads as possible, but Lemons said, "I feel just as Tommy does. We want to win."

In this game, pitchers are limited to three innings of action, each and Lemons said he didn't know who would follow Ryan. He has seven others to choose from including rookie Mark Clear, a reliever for the California Angels.

Game Should Be An Honor

An AP Sports Analysis
By HAL BOCK

AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — When they introduce the All-Star teams tonight, Ted Simmons will be there to take his bow, broken wrist and all. Rod Carew will line up, too, even though his torn-up thumb will prevent him from playing.

Forty-year-old Lou Brock will be there and so will Carl Yastrzemski, dragging an aching Achilles tendon and playing first base instead of the outfield because of it.

So can somebody please explain why it stars like Simmons, Carew, Brock and Yaz can make it, how come Gary Templeton and Dave Concepcion can't fit in their busy schedules?

Templeton and Concepcion both were selected as backup infielders by Manager Tom Lasorda but both are missing in action, replaced by Craig Reynolds and Larry Parrish, who didn't even have to be asked twice.

Templeton was irked at not being named a starter and refused to come as a reserve, a very adult approach. Concepcion complained of a leg injury which was so severe that he played Sunday for Cincinnati and drove in four runs with a sacrifice fly and a homer. It was obviously a courageous act for him to play hurt that way.

There are some people who could legitimately stay away from this Game but are here because they recognize its importance to baseball, the industry which happens to provide them with a living.

How about the Managers, Lasorda and Bob Lemon? They could have begged off. But they are here and happy to be on the scene.

Lasorda's NL champion Los Angeles Dodgers are dragging along in last place. He could have used three days off to recharge his batteries after a disastrous first half. He did not. Lemon was fired by the New York Yankees — forget all that fancy front office talk, he was told his managerial talents were no longer needed and that's being fired. He could have stayed home in Long Beach, Calif., feet up, sipping a tall cool one, instead of coming here. He did not.

How about a couple of senior citizens, the honorary captains, Lefty Gomez and Carl Hubbell? Gomez not only showed up, he was out there in uniform during Monday's workout. Hubbell is here despite suffering a stroke which has reduced his ability to get around.

How about Sparky Anderson, manager of the Detroit Tigers?

He's here, fulfilling a commitment to the Pitch Hit and Run people. Sparky agreed to represent baseball's official youth program before the season started, when he was an unemployed former manager. When he took the Tiger job, he could have pulled out of the PH&R finals here at the All-Star Game. But Sparky would have none of that. He knew the kids were counting on him and he's here.

There's no defense for baseball to deal with athletes who refuse to recognize their obligations — never mind the honor involved — and choose to snub the All-Star Game. But it has been a topic of some conversation here this week.

One suggestion was a substantial fine, but at today's salaries, how much of a dent would that make? Another was to remove the names of absentees from future ballots. But that's not much of a solution either because it would just reduce the validity of the ballot.

So here, at absolutely no charge is another idea. When next year's computerized All-Star ballot is distributed, fans should remember the players who don't show up tonight and then vote accordingly.

If they can ignore you by not showing up, you can ignore them by not voting for them. There is a suspicion that winding up with 27 votes in the election some year might just wake these guys up. Something or somebody ought to.

Albemarle Tops Gr.-Pitt Team

Greenville-Pitt's 16-year-old Senior Babe Ruth team rallied for three runs in the seventh inning yesterday, but came up one short in a 10-9 loss to Albemarle in the finals of the area tournament.

Greenville got off to a 3-0 lead in the first, but Albemarle scored six runs in the second. The local team scored two in the third, while Albemarle put three across. Greenville-Pitt cut the lead to 9-6 with a run in the fifth, but Albemarle got the winning run in the sixth.

The winning run was scored by Jimmy Knight, who doubled with two away and scored on singles by Danny Newborn and Tony Spivey.

Greenville-Pitt got runs from Ricky Simpson, Brady Quinn and Kenny Barnes in the seventh, but the game ended with pinch runner Ronnie Hause on second base.

Simpson was 4-4. Quinn 3-4 and Jeff Jones 2-4 for Greenville-Pitt, while Knight was 3-4 and Aubrey Patterson and Mike Winslow 2-4 for Albemarle. Ryland Lindsey was the winning pitcher and Barnes was the loser.

Waltrip Pulling Away

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With five victories on the Grand National stock car racing circuit, Darrell Waltrip is pulling away from his challengers for the 1979 championship. Waltrip won the Nashville 420 Saturday night and boosted his point total after 18 of the year's 31 races to 2,905. Bobby Allison is second with 2,702.

Others in the top 10 are Richard Petty 2,677; Cale Yarborough 2,670; Dale Earnhardt 2,507; Benny Parsons 2,400; Joe Millikan 2,321; J. D. McDuffie 2,144; Richard Childress 2,129; and Terry Labonte 2,097.

Waltrip leads in money winnings with $323,220, followed by Petty $253,900; B. Allison $237,335; Yarborough $212,765; Buddy Baker $166,280; Earnhardt $158,895; Millikan $123,165; Donnie Allison $110,645; Parsons $94,060; and Neil Bonnett $86,720.

Earnhardt, who took third place at Nashville, was the top rookie and earned a $500 bonus. He leads the rookie-of-the-year competition with 233 points. Millikan is second with 216.

The next event on the 31-race schedule is at Pocono International Raceway in Pennsylvania on July 29.

15 Nations Withdraw

BERLIN (AP) — Fifteen nations withdrew from the World Archery Championships to protest participation by South Africa and Zimbabwe-Rhodesia, cutting the field to 28 teams for the first round.

The Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China started the walkout of the championships in West Berlin over the weekend after the International Archery Federation rejected a Soviet demand to bar the two African countries for their white supremacy policies.

Poland, Hungary, Romania, and Czechoslovakia joined the boycott along with India, Finland, Yugoslavia and Ireland. A record 43 nations had sent teams to West Berlin.

Bartkowski Needed His Healthy Year

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — Quarterback Steve Bartkowski passed for more yards than any other Atlanta Falcon ever last year. But another aspect of the season means more to him.

He didn't get hurt. "The thing I needed more than anything else was just to have a healthy season," said Bartkowski, who missed 21 of his first 42 games and whose knee problems were on the way to matching Joe Namath's.

"I was beginning to wonder whether I was going to make it through one season healthy," Bartkowski said.

For a while he wondered whether he would make it at all last season. The quarterback, heralded as the savior of the Falcons' franchise when he came into the National Football League five years ago, lost his job to a rookie.

The idea that he was an automatic starter suddenly disappeared.

"That was the first time it hit me," said Bartkowski. "The time on the bench really gave me a chance to reflect back and do some soul-searching. After my rookie year I had great expectations for that next year, but I thought they would just come.

"I threw balls under the coverage and got away with it. A lot of things I shouldn't have gotten away with I did, because God gave me a strong arm.

"Up until last year I hadn't done anything in the NFL. I made rookie of the year my first year on just raw ability — I didn't have any experience. I didn't know what I was doing."

Some improved blocking helped as Bartkowski set Falcons records for most passes completed and attempted, 187 of 369, and most yards passing, 2,489, last year after starting three games on the bench.

He said he won't allow anybody to beat him out for his job again.

"I'm awfully excited about football again," Bartkowski said. "I took a lot of things for granted last year. Coming into the season, I thought I was pretty stable as the No. 1 quarterback. I didn't know my job was there to lose during the preseason. I didn't think about what could happen."

"There's always the chance it could happen again," he said, "but I feel I have a different attitude than when it happened last year. I feel like I'm going to do everything to avoid that. I can't afford to have off days, is what I'm trying to say."

Two Falcons Depart Camp

SUWANEE, Ga. — Two players quit football for personal reasons following the Atlanta Falcons' first workout for rookies and free agents Monday.

Three players were sidelined temporarily by the heat.

Safety Scooter Reed, an 11th-round draft choice in 1978 from Baylor, and offensive guard Arden Keune, a free agent from Northwestern, left the National Football League training camp after the workout, Falcons spokesman David Richardson said.

Three others players left practice early because of the heat and humidity, Richardson said, but he added that Coach Leeman Bennett was pleased with the "overall condition" of the players.

Ray Strong, a second-year running back who is recovering from knee surgery, particularly impressed Bennett, Richardson said.

Seventy-one rookies and free agents remain in camp, which opened Saturday. All Falcons veterans are to report by Saturday.

The Falcons will have to trim their squad to 45 players before the season opens in September.

Another Job For Lemon?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

SEATTLE (AP) — Bob Lemon hauls on Yankee uniform No. 21 again tonight as American League manager in baseball's 50th All-Star game, and people are wondering: Will Lemon ever put on a uniform again?

"I don't know, I want to think about it," the 58-year-old former pitcher, a member of the Hall of Fame, said as excitement built for the annual mid-summer display of the game's finest talent.

"I won't make a decision until after this season. I will go home and decide what direction I want to take. I intend to stay in baseball. In what capacity, I'll just have to wait and see."

Lemon's career is at the crossroads. After taking over the Yankees in mid-season a year ago, with the world champions 10 games out of first place, and leading them to a second pennant and World Series victory, he was unceremoniously removed from his job June 18.

That was the day that owner George Steinbrenner decided that his sagging "gold dust team" needed a shot in the arm and he called in probationed Billy Martin half a year ahead of schedule to reassure charge.

It was a bitter pill for Lemon.

"Sure, I was disappointed," Lemon said. "I'm always disappointed when I get fired. I was given only three days' notice. I wanted to finish out the season."

"Did I feel betrayed? Well, I didn't like it. But I understood the realities. A guy can do anything he wants with his property."

Disenchantment ran particularly deep. Lemon had taken over a mediocre Kansas City team in 1970 and carried it to second place the next year. He was fired in 1972.

He took over the last-place Chicago White Sox at the end of 1976 and had the team in first place in July and August of the next year. He was fired in 1972.

"It seems ever time I have a good year, I can't get through the next one," he said wryly. "Maybe if I had a losing ball club, I could hold my job."

Lemon was pleased when he was selected to manage the AL All-Stars although he no longer was in uniform. And there was precedent for not using a winning manager who had been dismissed in the interim (Yogi Berra, Yankees, 1965).

"This fills out the cycle for me," he said. "I have been player, coach, captain and now manager in the All-Star game. I have done it all."

There was an ironic twist to Steinbrenner's managerial machinations. Lemon, an easy-going fatherly type, was hired a year ago because of his settling effect on a team that was in constant turmoil. The quality that got him the job also got him replaced. The owner thought the team needed the more volatile Martin.

Now Lemon is a man in limbo.

Steinbrenner says he will be the new general manager. But the Yankees have a general manager, Cedric Tallis. Or is it Al Rosen? Meanwhile, Lemon has been offered the Cleveland pilot's post by his old friend, Gabe Paul. But he hasn't taken it.

"My duties with the Yankees haven't been clearly defined," Lemon says. "I want to see what that deal is. Meanwhile, I am not shutting the door on a managing job. It's the closest thing to playing."

The old Cleveland pitcher, who earned a reputation for 20-game pitching seasons and leaving his troubles in the bar, never allowed himself to be shaken by the massive egos and personality clashes in the Yankee dressing room.

"They're no worse than anywhere else," Lemon said. "The difference is that they happen in New York."

"Everything that happens in New York is a catastrophe, magnified all out of proportion. If you look cross-eyed at somebody, it becomes a family feud."

Lemon was asked if he thought he was getting too old to continue being kicked around.

"That's what they said when I was fired at K.C.," he replied softly. "I've been on winning teams and on losers. I've had disappointments. Sometimes it makes you wonder. But I still love the game and want to stay in it."

Possible Answer

The answer to the Atlanta Falcons' running game, which was next to last in the NFL last year, may be George Franklin, a virtual unknown picked up on waivers a few days before the 1978 season opener. (AP Laserphoto)

For All TV Can Offer, It Lacks Being There

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — I'm sure that NBC's coverage of baseball's 50th All-Star game tonight will be more than adequate, with all the cameras and replay equipment and bunting, and such.

But for all of TV's enveloping qualities, it just can't bring you some of the really important elements of the game. You have to be there.

Through a near miracle of good luck, I was assigned to help cover the last summer's All-Star game, which was not unlike asking a kid to mind the candy store while you take inventory. Trying to conceal my delight, I packed my notebook and my White Sox cap, and headed for San Diego with my old baseball pal, Tim.

At baseball's 49th All-Star game, I learned the connection between Rod Carew, Albert Einstein's theory of relativity and blue polyester. TV would never have taught me this.

The press-box was stuffed with sportswriters, so I took a seat in the stands, which was where I wanted to be anyway. On the mound for the Nationals was Vida Blue, the San Francisco ace who'd tossed nothing but heat at the league during the previous three months; in the batter's box for the Americans, ever-ready, was Minnesota's Rod Carew, the best hitter on the planet.

A beer, a hotdog, the National Anthem — and the game was on.

Crack! Carew blasted a drive that rang off of San Diego Stadium's faraway centerfield fence. By the time the puffing Nationals returned the ball safely to the infield, Carew was standing on third, smiling.

"How does he do that?" I asked (rather stupidly, I now admit). "I mean, Carew seems to hit safely at will..."

"Same way Ted Williams could," said Tim, who knows all the answers (even when he doesn't). "He just makes the ball go where he wants it to."

"Yeah, but how?"

"He swings late," said the red-faced fat fan in front of us, wearing a blue polyester suit. "Gives him a couple of seconds longer to see the ball."

"Nah," said Tim. "It's his stance. Anyway, you can't ask how he does it. That's like asking how the first sailor thought to attach a sheet to his raft. It would take a quantum leap of the imagination to understand."

"Quantum leap?" I asked.

"Yeah, same thing with Einstein," said Tim. "How did this little guy suddenly realize that energy was equalled matter, or whatever it was? It's the same thing."

At this point, I excused myself and went back up the press box. Two innings of All-Star baseball had passed, while I was hearing about Einstein and quantum leaps — stuff TV couldn't have given me.

Like I say, you have to be there.

Grady Cole Had Big Following

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Many long-time residents of the Carolinas thought of Grady Elgin Cole, who died early Monday morning after an automobile accident, as "Mr. WBT."

Cole, 72, suffered multiple injuries in the wreck and died about 3 a.m. Monday at Charlotte Memorial Hospital.

Cole was riding in his Volkswagen Sunday night behind his son Edward's car, which was being towed on U.S. 29 north. Highway patrolman J.R. Faglier said a car driven by Jerry Martin Thrower, 42, of Fort Mill, S.C., hit Grady Cole's car from the rear.

Thrower was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. The Highway Patrol is investigating the incident.

In Cole's heyday, from 1930 to 1961, the dial was turned to his early morning show on WBT Radio in thousands of homes in countless cities and towns. He filled the slots of announcer, disc jockey, farm editor, weather reporter, news commentator and general entertainer.

"I'll miss him terribly," Charles Crutchfield, Cole's former boss, said Monday. Crutchfield, former manager of WBT and retired president of its parent Jefferson-Pilot Broadcasting Co., credits Cole with making WBT a broadcasting institution in the Carolinas.

Cole was born near Pinehurst on March 13, 1907. He once described the farmland he grew up on as "so poor the only thing you could raise was a family." His radio career actually began while he was a newspaperman. It was 1929, and Cole, as a Charlotte News reporter, persuaded Managing Editor Brodie Griffith to let him read the newspaper's daily five-minute newscast on WBT, which had no news program of its own in those days.

"He stuttered and stammered over the air," Griffith told a Collier's magazine writer in 1952, "but he had an instantaneous effect on the audience. His voice had a special timbre."

Cole's career took off the next year when WBT hired him.

Local Attorney To Guest Lecturer

Greenville attorney has invited to return for the year as a faculty member at the Hastings College of Advocacy of the Hastings School of Law, San Francisco, Calif.

Paul Davis of the law firm of Taft & Taft here will serve as a workshop leader for the personal injury litigation section of the Aug. 5-11 session.

Davis, the only attorney from North Carolina currently on the program faculty, said that participants at the Hastings session are practicing attorneys who are continuing their legal education.

The attorney pointed out that a teaching method is employed during the summer workshop utilizing a combination of lectures, demonstrations and simulations. Hastings, he added, is one of four major continuing legal education institutes which specialize in teaching trial skills.

New faculty members, who are recommended initially by a current member, are evaluated after their first session and then invited back if they receive a positive evaluation.

A Greensboro native, Davis completed his undergraduate and graduate studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and earned his law degree from the UNC School of Law. He joined the Taft law firm last July.

Look-Alike Ads Barred

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Cheryl Ladd has won a court order barring the star of an X-rated film from being billed as her look-alike.

Superior Court Judge Campbell Lucas granted the preliminary injunction Monday after Miss Ladd's attorney, Jerry Selna, said that the "Cheryl Ladd look-alike" advertisements for "Taxi Girls" were made without his client's permission and "put her in a false light."

"Cheryl Ladd has never appeared in an X-rated movie and has never appeared in the nude," Selna said, adding that the star of television's "Charlie's Angels" objected to the ads "on a very personal level as a family woman and the mother of a 4-year-old daughter."

He said posters advertising the film actually bore paintings of Miss Ladd's face rather than the face of Nancy Suter, the actress featured in the film.

However, defense attorney Joseph Rhine said his clients — Jacob Jacqovi, Jacqovi Productions and Superfilm Ltd. — did not intend to deceive anyone.

"It's the intimidation of the big name over the smaller person," Rhine said of the judge's ruling.

Actor Wilding's Ashes Scattered

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Wreaths from English actors and one American senator surrounded the white-walled chapel when the ashes of stage and screen actor Michael Wilding were scattered.

Actress Elizabeth Taylor attended the funeral of her former husband with her two sons, Wilding's only children. Wilding died last week at the age of 66.

Among the many wreaths and sprays of flowers was one marked simply "Dearest Michael. God bless you. I love you. Elizabeth." There was also one from Miss Taylor's current husband, Sen. John Warner, R-Va. Actor Sir Alec Guinness delivered personally a wreath marked simply "With love."

The 20-minute service in the chapel was conducted by the Rev. Philip Berry, rector of Birham, the nearby village where Wilding lived.

Wilding's ashes were scattered in the crematorium's remembrance garden, where the ashes of his fourth and last wife, actress and painter Margaret Leighton, were placed three years ago.

Sanford Chosen

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Duke University President Terry Sanford was chosen Monday as the man in charge of guiding the state's 58-campus community college system from the control of the state Board of Education to a separate board.

The former North Carolina governor was named chairman of the planning board that will set up the steps for the transition. Sanford said he expected a smooth transfer of control to the state Board of Community Colleges and Technical Institutes on Jan. 1, 1981.

Barbra Said Now Recluse

NEW YORK (AP) — Movie director Rick Edelstein says Barbra Streisand has decided not to perform in public anymore because of fear of audiences, the Ladies Home Journal reports.

Edelstein, described as a confidant of the superstar for the past 20 years, was quoted in the magazine's August issue as saying:

"One of Barbra's big fears is appearing in public. Having audiences spend millions of dollars to see her perform reduces her to a tremor. She gets very scared. That's why she has decided not to go on stage anymore."

Price Boost In Store On Cigarettes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Smokers will see increases by the end of the week in the price of cigarettes, a Goldsboro cigarette distributor said Monday.

The price is going up because two major North Carolina tobacco companies have raised the wholesale prices on cigarettes by between 1 and 2 cents a pack.

"Everyone will pass the same increase on to their customers," said E. Lee Bryan, president of Southern Wholesale of Goldsboro, the largest cigarette distributor in North Carolina.

An increase was announced Friday by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, producer of Winston, Salem, Camel and Vantage among other brands. On Monday, Liggett & Myers of Durham followed suit. The company makes L&M, Chesterfield, Lark and several other brands.

Reynolds said the increase was "necessary to partially offset increased production costs." Liggett gave no reason for the price increase.

The increase for both companies was the same — 55 cents a thousand. The price of cigarette cartons will increase about 11 cents, officials said.

The new prices will reach retailers Thursday, Bryan said, and then smokers can look for increases of between 1 and 2 cents a pack.

The prices of cigarettes in some vending machines probably will increase five cents, officials said.

New Cracks At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)

Scientists have found new cracks in the base of a Niagara Falls observation point, days after a sensor signaled the rocks had moved and one week before the day a self-styled psychic had predicted a tragedy.

"We know we are in the midst of a rock movement there," U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman Ronald Hoskins said Sunday. "The question is, are the rocks going to fall in 20 years or next week?"

Hoskins said officials aren't sure what might happen or how much the rocks have moved. At worst, he said, if the observation point above the falls crumbles, a nearby "training dam" or breakwater will go along with 100,000 tons of rock, possibly altering the face of one of the world's greatest scenic attractions.

The scientists' studies began after housewife and former teacher Pat St. John of Bridgeport, Conn., predicted a breakwater will give way on the Canadian side of the falls at 4:56 p.m. July 22, causing an onrush of water that would capsize a Maid of the Mist tour boat and kill a group of deaf children.

One Friday, one of three seismic devices at the Terrapin Point observation system sounded an alarm, forcing officials to cordon off the area. Officials first said the device malfunctioned, but later found it to be in working order. The other two were not.

Parachutist In Fatal Plunge

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)

Staff Sgt. Meade J. Gilmore Jr., a Fort Bragg paratrooper learning free-fall parachute techniques, was killed in a high-altitude jump Monday.

Gilmore, 31, was making his second jump with the HALO (High Altitude, "free-fall" Low Opening) school on Smoke Bomb Hill. His parachute failed to open after a jump from an airplane flying at 12,500 feet, authorities said.

Gilmore was the third Fort Bragg soldier to be killed in free-fall jumps this year. He was the first to die while on duty, however.

One off-duty trooper died while jumping at Raeford on March 7 and another trooper, jumping with a sport parachute club on post, died June 12, according to records.

As opposed to a "static line jump," where the parachute is activated automatically as a jumper exits the plane, a HALO jump requires the jumper to fall freely several thousand feet before activating his parachute with a ripcord pulled by hand.
