

Schlesinger Joins Carter's Firing List

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter removed Energy Secretary James Schlesinger today and will nominate Deputy Defense Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr. to replace him, government officials said.

Schlesinger confirmed that Carter has accepted his resignation. Capitol Hill sources said the president told congressional leaders of his selection of Duncan to take over the Energy Department.

Schlesinger, at the Capitol to testify before a House committee, was asked about reports that he was leaving the administration. "That is correct," the secretary said. There also was speculation that Transportation Secretary Brock Adams might be ousted today.

Asked about Schlesinger, House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas said he expected Carter to make the official announcement later in the day.

Wright said it was his understanding that Schlesinger would remain in office until the fall, while Congress is considering the president's recent energy proposals.

"It's cut and dried," one source said of the Duncan decision. Duncan refused to confirm or deny it early today, as did White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Under the shadow of Defense Secretary Harold Brown, Duncan, a multimillionaire and former Coca-Cola executive in Atlanta, has wielded more power than most Cabinet secretaries as he managed the Pentagon on a day-to-day basis.

White House political aides have high regard for Duncan and have long sought a wider role for him in the administration. Duncan, who is

U.S. Productivity Down

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's output of goods and services fell at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the second quarter this year, the largest such drop since the nation was in the depths of the 1974-75 recession, the Commerce Department said today.

The decline, which had been expected by economists in and out of government, followed a modest 1.1 percent rise in the first three months this year. It was the first dip since early 1978.

The drop was the largest since the first quarter of 1975, when "real" output — that adjusted for inflation — fell more than 9 percent, said Commerce Department analyst Adren Cooper.

The nation's output, adjusted for inflation, showed a modest 0.8 percent growth in the first three months of the year after rising almost 7 percent in the vigorous, final quarter of 1978.

The last quarterly decline was recorded in the January-March 1978 quarter with a 0.1 percent drop.

A recession traditionally is defined as two consecutive quarters of "negative growth." And that's just what economists in and out of government say the United States is in for, if not more.

Growth figures are important because they reflect personal and industrial well-being, which in turn reflects the ability of Americans to get and hold jobs and acquire income.

The Carter administration, which for months denied that a recession was on the way, reversed itself last week and acknowledged that the economy was in for declining output, possibly through the end of the year.

The deteriorating economic conditions, which Carter's advisers said could cost more than 1 million persons their job before December, was blamed on the impact of price hikes enacted by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

OPEC has raised prices by more than 50 percent since last year.

G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and President Carter's choice to replace W. Michael Blumenthal as Treasury secretary, gave an even gloomier forecast to Congress earlier this week.

Miller said the nation's output could fall as much as 2 percent this year and that as many as 14 million people could lose their jobs.

"It appears likely that they (the new Commerce Department figures) will indicate that real gross national product declined somewhat after advancing only marginally in the first quarter," Miller told Congress.

Selected To Fill Key ECU Role

By William A. Shires
ECU News Bureau

A noted scholar, scientist and richly experienced university administrator today was named chief academic officer for East Carolina University.

Dr. Robert H. Maier, 51, was chosen for the post at ECU while serving as chairman of a select search committee which will recommend a new president of the University of Wisconsin system. Maier has held increasingly important academic and administrative posts at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay for the past 12 years.

At ECU he will become Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs with administrative responsibility for all of ECU's 11 colleges and professional schools, except Medicine, including all academic departments and related programs and functions.

Dr. ROBERT H. MAIER

"The possibilities for the future at East Carolina are exciting and challenging," Maier said in a telephone interview. He considers ECU "a dynamic institution of the future," which is now facing

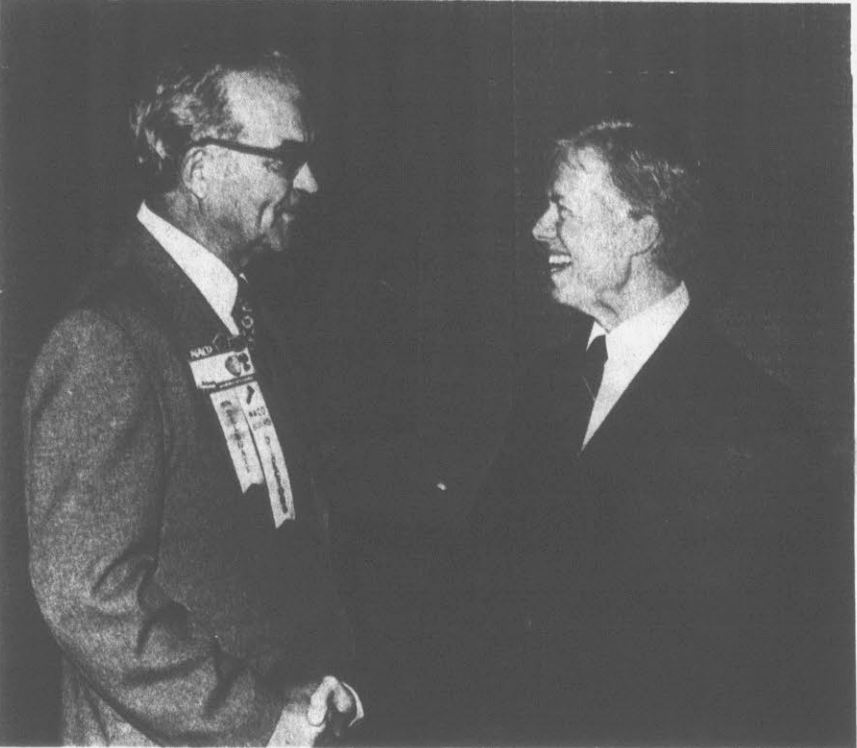

"new turns and a new direction."

He said the task of "building on strengths we already have is very much in line with my background and experience."

Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer said, "Dr. Maier is among our nation's leading educators. His outstanding qualifications and experience in educational administration and teaching and research will add greatly to the strength of the University. We are most fortunate that he and his family will join East Carolina."

Maier will replace Dr. John M. Howell, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs since 1972, who requested last January that he relinquish administrative duties to return to teaching and research. A committee conducted an intensive nationwide search before choosing Maier.

Kansas City Meeting

TALKS WITH PRESIDENT — R. L. "Bob" Martin, chairman of the Board of Pitt County Commissioners and a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Counties is shown with Pres. Jimmy Carter in Kansas City, Missouri. Martin met with Carter Monday to discuss solutions to the nation's energy crisis shortly after the president spoke live on national television at the 44th annual conference of NACO. As a member of NACO's board, Martin is one of 100 county officials who have overall responsibility for the supervision, management and control of the 1,800-member-counties organization, which represents more than 75 per cent of the nation's population. Some 5,000 county officials attended the NACO conference, which ended yesterday.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done one day.

MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTION

A salesman named Darryl Robinson sold me a 52-issue subscription to Newsweek Magazine for $32. Of that amount, $2 was a nonrefundable subscription fee, $13 was paid to Robinson, and the remainder — upon my understanding — has to be paid to Dixie Reader's Service within the next 10 days. Was he a legitimate salesman representing a legitimate company, and was the method used for payment a standard payment procedure of Dixie Reader's Service? S.M.

Hotline talked to Clara Padlock, sales director for Dixie Reader's Service in Jackson, Miss.

According to Ms. Padlock, Darryl Robinson is a legitimate field representative of Dixie Reader's Service, a field selling agency in Jackson, Miss.

Padlock said the agency has been in business since 1948, and added that Dixie Reader's Service is not a "fly-by-night company."

"We plan on staying in business," the director said. "We are a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Jackson, Miss., and if you need to check on us with the better business bureau we will be happy for you to contact them."

About the procedure used for payment, Ms. Padlock said the method has always been used by Dixie Reader's Service. She added that Robinson gives his portion of the money to his traveling sales manager, Jim Rouhoff, who is in charge of sales in this area. At the end of each week, Robinson receives a commission.

According to Ms. Padlock, Dixie Reader's Service has contracts with each of the magazine companies it sells subscriptions for. For further information, she said persons can call 1-601-372-0212 to speak to her or either Pat Dunham, who handles complaints for Dixie Reader's Service.

CONSUMER PROTECTION MEASURE

The 1979 General Assembly has enacted a consumer protection measure effective July 1, prohibiting "junk" telephone calls — automatic dialing machines that call one's number and play a recorded advertisement.

Supertankers Collide; Fire; Sailors Missing

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Two supertankers carrying oil collided in the Atlantic off the island of Tobago overnight, setting both ships afire and forcing the crews to abandon ship, the U.S. Coast Guard said today.

Thirty-four men were reported missing as the blazing ships drifted toward Tobago.

The Coast Guard said oil had spilled over 12 square miles of water.

Quartermaster First Class Carlos Martinez said five crew members from the supertanker Atlantic Empress were rescued but the other 34 were still missing. All 36 from the Aegean Captain had been saved, he said.

He said first reports indicated some injuries, but he did not know how many or how serious.

The ships were burning fiercely and had drifted to within seven miles of the Tobago coastline and continued to drift toward the coast, Martinez said.

Both ships are more than 1,000 feet long — the length of three football fields — and each is registered in Liberia.

They collided between 7 and 8 p.m. EDT Thursday about 20 miles east of the island of Tobago, Martinez said. Tobago, part of the island nation of Trinidad and Tobago, is about 100 miles northeast of the nearest point in Venezuela, near the mouth of the Orinoco River.

The Coast Guard

spokesman said both vessels were carrying oil cargoes, but it was not known how much or of what kind. The circumstances of the collision were not yet known, he said.

In Miami, Coast Guard spokesman Dan Dewell said, "We don't know if the boats are sinking. Reports are sketchy."

Trinidad and Tobago authorities had two patrol boats, a helicopter and two airplanes at the scene, Martinez said. Dewell said the Coast Guard had no plans to send ships or aircraft.

Initially, the Coast Guard had identified the Atlantic Empress as the Atlantic Express, a small freighter, but it later said that was an error.

Pitt County Property Revaluation Is Begun

Field review of property for tax revaluation purposes is now under way in Pitt County, tax supervisor Jimmy Hardee reported today.

The field review, according to Hardee, is being conducted by employees of W. P. Ferriss, Inc., under contract with the county since April 1978, to conduct a revaluation of all real property in the county as required by the North Carolina General Statutes.

Under the state law, all real property must be revalued every eight years. As appraisers, the Ferriss firm has the responsibility of determining the true value of the property.

The true value of property was described by Hardee as meaning "market value," or

"the price estimated in terms of money at which the property would change hands between a willing buyer and a willing seller."

Preliminary work on the revaluation was begun by the Pitt Tax Supervisor's office in July 1978. The field review of property by the Ferriss firm began in May, Hardee noted, and is currently underway in Ayden, Bethel, Farmville and Winterville. Field work is expected to move into other areas in the next few weeks, Hardee added.

The revaluation, Hardee said, is to be completed on the tax books by January 1981.

However, the tax supervisor was quick to explain that although property may have a substantial increase in value, it does not necessarily mean that property taxes will increase because of the increase in value.

He explained that the present 95-cents per $100 valuation tax rate can be reduced and still bring in the same amount of money if property values are increased. Hardee urged all property owners in the county to cooperate with tax department and employees of the Ferriss firm in the revaluation process.

The tax official noted that proposals are being studied that would allow the Pitt County Tax Office to do future revaluations of the county.

Farmville Winner Governor's Award

Gov. Jim Hunt announced today that Farmville will receive the Governor's Community of Excellence Award.

"I want to commend the fine job done by Farmville residents," Gov. Hunt said.

"Their participation in this program is an example of the outstanding community spirit and desire for progress that we see throughout North Carolina."

Gov. Hunt will present

Farmville with its award at a Statewide Economic Development Conference to be held in Raleigh in November.

Farmville Economic Council President Linwood Mercer expressed delight with the designation. Providing of information which led to the designation was done by the Farmville Economic Council. Mrs. Ann McGaughey, Director, Representatives of the State Department of Commerce visited in Farmville June 27 to assure the standards had been met.

The award will be presented to communities with fewer than 15,000 residents which meet requirements set by the Dept. of Commerce to make them more competitive in recruiting industry. Each award-winning community will receive highway signs designating it as a Community of Excellence. The Dept. of Commerce will give special promotion attention to the award-winning communities when working with industries looking for plant sites in North Carolina.

"This award doesn't guarantee that a new industry will locate in a community," Gov. Hunt said. "But we know from experience that meeting the requirements to win the award will give a community an edge when recruiting industry."

Sandinista Gather To Tackle Reconstruction Job

By JOE FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista leaders and guerrillas converged on Nicaragua's capital today to tackle the tasks of relief and reconstruction as jubilant crowds up and down the little Central American country celebrated the downfall of the Somoza dictatorship.

Two of the five members of the junta arrived in Managua with members of the new cabinet from Costa Rica. The other three junta members were expected today from Leon, their provisional capital since early Wednesday.

Concluding a seven-week uprising, the Sandinista guerrillas took control of Managua early Thursday, two days after President Anastasio Somoza fled to Miami Beach and a day after his handpicked successor, Francisco Urcuyo, flew to Guatemala. About 700 guerrillas poured in from Leon, 55 miles northwest of Managua, and charged into the deserted Bunker, Somoza's military headquarters. Some grabbed weapons and uniforms. Others entered the dictator's apartment, and one guerrilla couple posed for photographers on Somoza's bed with a red and black Sandinista flag tacked up over the headboard. A second column of 4,200 marched in from the southern cities of Masaya, Granada, Jinotepe and Diriamba late Thursday afternoon. Most camped in front of the Intercontinental Hotel adjacent to the Bunker. They said they were awaiting further orders and that many of them likely would be sent back to their hometowns after it was determined how many soldiers were needed in Managua. There was no indication the guerrillas looted or molested Managua residents. Hundreds of local people picked up automatic weapons abandoned by national guardsmen who changed into civilian clothes and tried to blend into the civilian population. Delighted teen-agers careened through town in cars and trucks, firing automatic rifles and pistols in the air. Throngs of civilians danced through the streets, shouting, "Victory has arrived!" Junta members Daniel Ortega and Moises Hassan flew in about 5:30 p.m. on a chartered DC-3 from Costa Rica. They were accompanied by Cabinet members, guerrilla leaders and the foreign minister of the Dominican Republic, Ramon Emilio Jimenez. In an airport interview Ortega said: "After shedding blood for the revolution, we have to give our sweat for the reconstruction of the country." Hassan said Somoza left the economy in a shambles and "we will have to start from the bottom and build."

The most immediate problem appeared to be food in a city of 500,000 people where food already was in short supply. Some guerrillas said they had eaten only one meal in the last two days. The guerrillas, who take their name from a Nicaraguan rebel who fought the U.S. Marines who put Somoza's father into power 42 years ago, launched their "final offensive" May 28, quickly taking 26 cities ringed Managua. At least 20,000 Nicaraguans were killed in the drive, and tens of thousands of others were left homeless.

Fills ECU Role ...

At the time, Maier had been named chairman of the search committee for a new president of the University of Wisconsin system. He immediately asked that he be replaced as chairman of that committee.

Since 1975, Dr. Maier has held the rank of Professor of Science and Environmental Change and of Public and Environmental Administration, UW-Green Bay. From 1969 to 1975 he was Vice Chancellor of UW-Green Bay and also Professor of Environmental Sciences, 1970-75. Earlier he was Assistant Chancellor for Instruction and Research. He went to Green Bay in 1967 as Professor of Chemistry.

In 1965-66, he was one of 23 Fellows in Academic Administration chosen by the American Council on Education and was assigned to the University of North Carolina general administration in Chapel Hill to work in the offices of the President of the UNC system.

Academically, his field of specialty is agricultural chemistry and he has undertaken extensive research projects and authored numerous publications, and holds many professional member ships, honors and recognitive awards. He served eight years on the faculty of agricultural Chemistry and Soils, University of Arizona, and served a year, 1966-67, as assistant dean of the Graduate College, University of Arizona.

He also served two years, as a technical advisor to the U.S. Army Chemical Corps in classified biological research.

At the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, Dr. Maier was designed Deputy Chancellor of the Green Bay campus by recommendation of the chancellor and approval of the Board of Regents and served in that additional capacity from 1971 to 1975.

He was selected national chairman of the nominations committee for the Society of College and University Planning, 1972-73, then served as chairman of the membership committee for this society, 1974-75.

His research and publication both in the scientific and academic planning fields are voluminous. He also served in numerous consulting capacities centering on academic planning and budgeting.

As an undergraduate, Maier had a dual major in chemistry and botany at the University of Miami, in 1951, taking cum laude honors with his BS degree. An MS and PhD in plant and soil chemistry with minors in analytical chemistry and botany were taken at the University of Illinois, 1952 and 1954.

Dr. Maier will assume his duties at ECU August 15.

The recommendation of his appointment was reached by the ECU Search Committee several weeks ago and was approved by the ECU Board of Trustees and forwarded to President William C. Friday of the University of North Carolina who presented the recommendation to the UNC Board of Governors today.

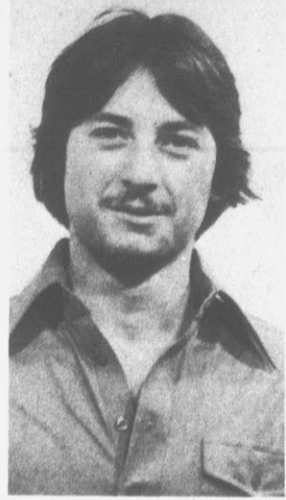

Represents N.C. Charged In Bank Holdup

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — An O'Berry Center health care technician has been charged with the Thursday morning armed robbery of a Goldsboro bank, authorities said today.

Kenneth Caesar Howell, 28, of Goldsboro is being held in the Wake County jail in Raleigh. Howell was arrested late Thursday afternoon by members of the Goldsboro police department and FBI agents about eight hours after the bank robbery.

Employees of the Branch Bank and Trust Co. said a man with a chrome-plated pistol and carrying a briefcase entered the bank shortly before 10 a.m. and demanded money. After getting an undisclosed amount, the robber ordered the tellers to lie on the floor while he escaped on foot.

The robber was described as being neat and well-mannered. Howell was released to the FBI and was taken to Raleigh to face a federal magistrate.

MITCHELL EAKES

Mitchell Eakes of Greenville, a 1979 graduate of Farmville Central High School, will represent North Carolina in the small engines contest in the National VICA Skill Olympics to be held in Atlanta, Ga. July 23-27.

Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eakes, placed second in the contest last year in Asheville before claiming the state title this year in Wilmington.

John Vernelson, Mitchell's instructor at Farmville Central, praised the student's fine work while at Farmville and noted that Mitchell has a good chance at clinching the national title.

Vernelson explained that Mitchell will compete against young people from across the United States in disassembling small engines that have had "bugs" put in them, repairing them, and putting them back together in a specific time frame.

"Mitchell placed fifth in the state in the Plymouth Troubleshooting Contest," said Vernelson. "He also placed on the school honor roll many times this year and was exempt from taking exams."

Mitchell plans to continue working with independent garage owner Joe McLawhorn in the coming year.

District Meet On Saturday

The Union Crusaders of District Union Meeting No. 2, North East A Conference, are asked to meet Saturday morning at 11:00 a.m., Warren's Chapel Freewill Baptist Church for practice.

All churches of this district union meeting are asked to send representatives from their church. All members interested in forming a youth usher board are asked to attend also.

Family Reunion September 1

The first annual Jim Smith-Avery Jane Joyner Family Reunion will be held September 1-3. Registration will be Saturday, September 1, from 3:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. at the American Legion Post 39, Saint Andrews Drive (located off 264 By-Pass).

All family members who are planning on attending, should contact Mrs. Evelyn S. McNeal, 523-8850 or Mrs. Elinor W. O'Neal, 752-4158.

Youth Services Slated Sunday

Youth services will be held at Rock Spring F. W. B. Church Sunday, July 22, 11 a.m. Elder James Smith, the No. 2 Choir and the No. 2 ushers will be in charge of services.

The No. 2 Ushers will celebrate its anniversary Sunday at 2 p.m. Elder Horace Joyner, youth pastor of St. James F. W. B. Church, Fountain, will be the speaker, accompanied by the Rock Spring No. 2 Choir. Various ushers have been invited to attend. Bishop W. L. Phillips, pastor, extends an invitation to these services.

Weekend Church Visit

The St. Mary F.W.B. Church of New Haven, Conn. will make its annual visit to Philippi Church of Christ, 1610 Farmville Boulevard, this weekend.

Saturday at 8 p.m. the Male Chorus will present a music program. Sunday at 11 a.m. the St. Mary pastor, Eldress Martha Green, and the St. Mary Choir and congregation will be in charge of the worship service.

The Senior Choir and the pastor, the Rev. E. B. Williams, invite the public to attend both services.

Officers Chosen By Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Ruff and Ready Volunteer Firemen met recently at the Batchelor Benedict Club to elect officers. Maggie Hymond was named president, with Virginia Ebron and Annie Bell King as vice presidents.

Other elected officers were as follows: Sudie Mayo, secretary; Virginia Watts, assistant secretary; Dollie Drewery, financial secretary; Dorothy Barnes, assistant financial secretary; Martha Spencer, treasurer; Beatrice Reaves, assistant treasurer; Audrey Jackson, chaplain.

The organization presented a $50 check to the Greenville Rescue Squad during the meeting.

WOMEN'S DAY

'SELLING OUT' LONDON (AP) — True to its promise to sell off chunks of nationalized industry, the Conservative government announced today it will offer "a substantial minority" of the state-owned British Airways to the public.

St. Peter Missionary Baptist Church will observe its annual women's day on Sunday at 11:00 a.m. Eldress Romia Knox will be the guest speaker. The Rev. Hugh Walston, pastor and members invite the public to attend.

You don't get a prize for playing fast to the first trick. Both as defender and declarer you should take time out to plan your campaign. An early slip could prove lethal in the later play.

North-South bid well to their slam. South's bid of four clubs was designed to coax a more useful bid from his partner. North liked it so much (as far as he was concerned, it was a suit) that he cue-bid the ace of diamonds. This delightful development almost tempted South to leap to seven spades, but he realized that his bare ace of hearts might cause communication problems, so he wisely contented himself with a small slam.

West made his natural lead of the king of diamonds. Declarer flew up with dummy's ace, led a heart to his ace and then exited with a diamond. West won the jack and carefully returned the ten of spades. Declarer now had no way of getting to dummy, so the king of hearts withered on the vine. Declarer eventually had to lose another diamond trick for down one.

While West must be congratulated on his excellent defense (the ten of spades was the only return to defeat the contract—on a low trump return dummy's nine would have been an entry), declarer had only himself to blame for going down. Careless play at trick one cost him his slam.

Observe the difference if declarer allows West to win the king of diamonds at trick one! If West continues with a diamond, declarer will win in dummy, cross to his hand and ruff his remaining diamond loser. The rest of the tricks will be his.

But it is no better if West shifts to a trump at trick two. Declarer wins, draws the remaining trumps and cashes the ace of hearts. Now he can enter dummy with the ace of diamonds and discard his remaining diamond on the king of hearts.

Once South ducks the first trick, the contract can only be defeated if West simultaneously returns a trump and a diamond, which even the current streamlined code doesn't permit.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Concur On Governor Hunt To Speak Here

Energy conservation recommendations for commercial, residential and vehicular uses were approved by the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Thursday.

Upon approval of the recommendations, board members said that it is "necessary for the business community leaders to take a positive first step approach in implementing energy conservation methods."

More than 30 specific energy conservation suggestions were included in the chamber's Energy Conservation Recommendations which were presented to the board for approval by Charles Schwidde, chairman of the chamber's Greenville Utilities Commission Committee.

The recommendations were mailed to all members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce. Members were encouraged to study and implement the energy conservation methods in their businesses and homes.

The chamber's Energy Conservation Recommendations will be presented to Governor Jim Hunt at a chamber meeting scheduled for Tuesday, July 24.

Governor Hunt To Speak Here

Governor James B. Hunt Jr. will be the guest speaker at a Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, July 24, 9:22 a.m., at the Ramada Inn, Greenville.

"Energy—Concerns of the Citizens" will be the topic of the governor's discussion with the business and professional leaders.

The governor will discuss local, state and national energy problems as well as comment on President Carter's proposed energy plans. Following the governor's address, chamber members will be allowed to ask questions and to express their concerns about energy problems. The meeting, sponsored by Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, Greenville, and the Coffee Hour Task Force of the chamber, is a free service open to chamber members and the public.

To make reservations to attend the meeting, contact the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, 752-4101.

Students Involved In Summer Intern Program

Four young sociologists in the Diagnostic and Reception Center at the North Carolina Correctional Center for Women are part of a group of seven student interns spending the summer with the Department of Correction in Raleigh.

More than 125 young people have been employed by the State Government this summer through the Youth Involvement Office of the Department of Administration. They are learning more about public service professions while gaining job experience in fields related to their interests and curricula.

"Internships are excellent opportunities for learning about state government and how it works," said Governor Jim Hunt, "and we in government have an opportunity to listen to fresh points of view from these young people."

Interns are also a great source of assistance for staff employees such as Ms. Lydia Dellinger, Diagnostic Center director at NCCCW. Ms. Dellinger, who is new to the women's prison, but not the department, is well aware of how valuable her interns are to her and the job she is doing.

"They come to us academically prepared and eager for some meaningful experience," she said, "and very quickly they learn the basic functions of our tasks at this center."

Mrs. Robin Smith, from Greenville, is a senior at Meredith College majoring in sociology and social work and is one of those to whom Ms. Dellinger referred. Like the other interns, Robin's days this summer are being spent interviewing new residents at the women's prison, filling out personal history forms and interpreting some psychological test data. Her work will help those newly admitted in being properly assigned to available rehabilitation programs and work schedules. "It is the kind of work

I had hoped to find following my experience as a volunteer with a probation and parole counselor," she explained.

Margaretha Moore, from Red Oak, is a graduate of ECU where she majored in psychology and minored in social work. Having served as a student intern at a special school in Greenville for young persons with behavioral problems, she felt well suited for her role at the NCCCW.

Mike Cooke is a senior at UNC-CH. He is majoring in sociology and speech communication and is no stranger to a penal environment having worked as a speech teacher's assistant at the federal penitentiary at Butner. He has also been a community volunteer at the Triangle Correctional Center, Raleigh, where he helped develop the "Speak Out" program. Under the auspices of Professor Paul Brandis in the speech department at UNC-CH, this program provided inmate speakers for public service clubs, schools and other audiences interested in learning more about life within the walls of a N. C. correctional facility. Mike, who is from Troy, will enter the U. S. Air Force following graduation next June but expects to return to the corrections profession after his tour of service.

"Corrections work is catching," Mike admits, "and it takes a dedicated person to stay with the challenge of meeting the needs of the inmate population."

The only social work intern among the four is Paula Whittle, originally from New Bern, but now working on a graduate degree at UNC-CH. During this summer she is developing group therapy programs for those at women's prison who have not been classified and thus are kept apart from the general inmate population. She also counsels individuals but when involved with psychological services, she is always supervised by the resident psychologist, Steve Kiefer.

Internships offer the individuals selected an opportunity to examine career possibilities in state government and an opportunity for state government to see a new and perhaps fresh approach to our method of operation.

Her 'Real' Father Isn't Real Father

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago, when I was 2, my parents split up. My mother was an alcoholic and didn't want me. My father couldn't raise me alone, so I was given up for adoption.

The only parents I have ever known are the wonderful couple who adopted me, loved me, gave me their name and a good life.

Recently, out of the blue, my "real" father contacted me by telephone and said he was coming out to meet me. I had always known I was adopted and thought it rather exciting to be meeting my "real" father.

I'm not sure what I expected, but this man was a terrible disappointment. He is a heavy drinker, smokes like a chimney, has had a rough life and looks it. The father who raised me is exactly the opposite.

Although I feel sorry for this stranger, I don't know how to tactfully discourage him from wanting more of my life than I want to give him. I'm grown up now and have no desire for a close relationship. I don't want to shut him out completely, but we have nothing in common and I see no basis for more than a distant friendship.

How would you or your readers handle this?

DEAR ABBY: This is our first baby, and my husband and I couldn't be happier but, wouldn't you know it, there is a problem.

My husband absolutely, positively refuses to change our baby's diaper.

He says he will do anything and everything in the line of housework, cooking, laundry, marketing, etc., but he simply cannot bring himself to change a diaper! He says that is a MOTHER'S job.

Abby, my husband is the dearest, sweetest, most considerate guy in the world, but his mind is closed on this particular subject and he will not budge.

What is your opinion?

PICKLED BEETS
A recipe my sister Phyllis favors.

Two 1-pound cans sliced beets

1 cup cider vinegar

3/4 cup sugar

1 teaspoon whole allspice

10 whole cloves

1 1/2 to 2-inch piece stick cinnamon

Drain beets; save liquid. In a medium saucepan bring beet liquid and remaining ingredients to a boil and boil 2 minutes; pour over beets. If there is not enough liquid to cover beets make up the rest with boiling water. (The recipe should fill a 1-quart jar.)

Bridal Couples Entertained

Miss Joan Long and Charles Martin and Miss Ann Bennett and Hap Maxwell were honored at a surprise couples shower Tuesday at the Windy Ridge Clubhouse.

The brides-elect were given corsages of kitchen utensils tied with ribbon bows.

Approximately 200 guests were present for the event, given by Joy and Fred Ferrell, Shirley and Harold Stroupe, Paula and Tony Brown, Sharon and Logan Whitehurst.

A Sunday morning brunch was given in honor of the two couples at the Windy Ridge Clubhouse. Hosts and hostesses were Bob and Deborah Shaw and Chuck and Betty Bland.

Signaling Changes In Govm,t

President Carter is making sweeping changes in Washington. The latest is the naming of Hamilton Jordan as chief of staff.

The appointment signals major changes in the way the president manages the government.

It appears that Jordan, who once had a maverick image in the administration, will become one of the most powerful men in government. The administration also indicated that Vice President Mondale would have an increased role in White House duties. That may be, but the spot light currently is on Jordan.

There were also reports that the president is not too happy with his treatment by the Washington press corps, and that he will seek other ways to reach the public.

It appears that a new pattern of the presidency is emerging. Carter will leave more of the day-to-day management of government to others, with administrators answerable to Jordan.

We can also expect more speeches by the president and more traveling about the nation. He will be attempting to sell his energy and other programs directly to the people, and also incidentally he will be seeing more people as the 1980 election approaches.

These are major changes the administration is carrying out. They are designed to get some of the nation's problems under control and create more public confidence in the Carter presidency. Whether or not they will work time will tell, but there is no doubt that it was the moment for bold moves on the part of President Carter.

Little Real Use In That $300 Gold

What has little real use to man, has fascinated him for centuries and now sells for $300 an ounce?

Gold, of course. The discovery of it opened up California, and off and on it has been the world's medium of exchange.

You can't eat or wear it, except as a gold tooth or as jewelry, but many believe it will have the value to buy you things in the future. Hence its rapid rise in price.

Gold has always been enticing to humans, and recent market developments indicate it still is.

THIS AFTERNOON

Changes Coming In N.C.

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The 1980 census will drive home three important points for North Carolinians:

1. The state is now tenth most populous in the nation, pushing Massachusetts from that spot.

2. The rural nature has changed, and the state is now balanced half and half, between urban and rural people.

3. People are no longer leaving the state to hunt jobs; they're staying, and many who left are coming back.

Each set of circumstances promises far-reaching change for Tar Heels.

Preliminary information about the census results has already been compiled by planners in the Department of Administration drawing on numerous statistical methods to get a sneak preview.

Between 1970 and 1975, population growth outstripped the most optimistic projections, and by 1975 the state has about 73,000 more people than planners had originally thought would be here by that time.

Given this speedup in population change, best estimates now place total population just over six million.

Differences

And it is a different population, the years having brought change: a lower birthrate means fewer children, more mature people; the move from farm to factory means a different economy and more people living in cities and towns. Racial patterns are shifting, with more nonwhites moving to town for jobs, and more whites moving back to the country. Increasingly, the population especially in the Piedmont, is made up of people who move to North Carolina from other states.

Until the late 1960s, people were leaving North Carolina rather than moving here. That trend has reversed.

All of this means profound change for the economy of the future, and in politics.

For government, it means that local and state decisions which have been dominated by rural interests will yield to the stronger urban groups. No single urban center towers over the rest of the state, but dozens of small cities are rapidly becoming regional centers of commerce, culture, industry, and education. Those cities will seek new leadership to cope with growing pains as they change from small town attitudes to urban ones. County officials will lose power as city dwellers take over.

In the General Assembly, the "old guard" regime nears an end, and rural domination will yield to a new coalition of power in which urban interests not only from the Piedmont but from rapidly growing Eastern cities come together out of common causes.

Until the late 1960s, people were leaving North Carolina rather than moving here. That trend has reversed.

All of this means profound change for the economy of the future, and in politics.

For government, it means that local and state decisions which have been dominated eastern part of the state is changing as Interstate highways and open land produce a new development boom along the Interstate 95 corridor.

Growth

All else being equal, say experts on future economic growth, development will take place near an airport and near an Interstate highway. Industrial growth means jobs, and that means people; and in the wake of that come new shopping, entertainment, housing, service, cultural, and educational growth.

If the trend continues strongly, then the historical domination of the state's economy by the Piedmont will be challenged by other regions of the state in future years.

So while the state becomes more urban, it becomes less because the urban population growth is not in the traditional "big four" of Charlotte, Winston, Greensboro and Raleigh. It is in Fayetteville and points north and east.

Britain Won't Change

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

LONDON (AP) — Well, I hadn't been back in the Mother Country for a while, but the Empire still stood, steadfast in its ability to muddle through and tolerant as ever of occasional eccentricity among the citizenry.

When last I called at the House of Lords, an opposition peer thundered that "Britain was going down the drain with a loud, sucking sound that is the Prime Minister drawing vacuously on his pipe."

That was two prime ministers ago, and it hadn't happened. Now there is a Prime Minister, who doesn't smoke a pipe, although I know for a fact that the lady director of Dunhills, the tobaccoists, does. The Lords the time were debating, according to the notice board in the strangers' gallery, "conservation of wild creatures and wild plants."

Across the hall in the Commons, Frank Maguire, the Irish public-house keeper, had shown up to take his seat as the independent member for Fermanagh and South Tyrone. His Catholic constituency in Northern Ireland had rewarded with re-election this man of commendably few words who had gone through the entire previous session of Parliament without making a single speech, asking a question or, except on the rarest of occasions, turning up at all.

Whilst I was nibbling on my allotted portion of plaice (a tourist must know his plaice in England) at my favorite fish and chips parlor off Piccadilly the former officers of Skinner's Horse, the Duke of York's Own Cavalry, were having their annual luncheon at the Cavalry and Guards Club across the

Brain Surgery In China

KUNMING, China — There are many ways to see China. If you are a tourist you get to go to museums, palaces and theaters. If you travel with the Secretary of HEW, Joe Califano, you get to see a lot of brain operations. The Chinese are very proud of performing brain operations with acupuncture. That and Peking Duck are their main specialties, and each hospital wanted to prove they could do it better than the one we had just visited.

In Kunming, the doctors permitted Califano to talk to a man while he was being worked on. It's hard to believe but the patient was wide awake and in control of all his faculties as he conversed with the secretary.

As I watched, I couldn't help thinking what the man would say when he got back to his commune that evening for dinner, with his head in bandages.

"Well, Wu Ling, what did you do in Kunming today?"
"I had a brain operation."
"What a great honor. How were you selected?"

"I was walking past the hospital on the way to the Chinese Herb Pharmacy, and two doctors came out and said, 'If you have nothing better to do would you like to stop in for a brain operation? It won't take long and it will help Chinese-American friendship.'"

"I explained that I had several errands to make and suggested they find someone else, but they told me this wasn't an ordinary brain operation. It was to be performed for a visiting delegation of important Americans, headed by their Minister of Health. They told me it was also going to be covered by ABC and NBC television as well as correspondents from the New York Times, the Washington Post, and the Wall Street Journal.

"Well, that changed the picture as far as I was concerned and I said, 'Count me in.' They took me inside, gave me a glass of hot tea and before I knew it I was lying on the operating table. Peering at me through glass windows in the ceiling were at least two dozen Americans, including their Minister of Health."

ART BUCHWALD

"You're making all this up, Wu Ling."

"May Chairman Mao strike me dead if I'm lying. The doctors started sticking needles into me, and before you knew it I could feel nothing. Then one of them started to cut off the top of my head."
"It didn't hurt?"

"Of course not. My head felt a little cool for a few moments, but I wasn't uncomfortable. But I haven't told you the best part. While they were sawing away, the doctors invited the Minister into the operating room to talk to me."

"I thought we weren't supposed to talk to foreigners after the March 1 edict."

"They told me it was perfectly all right. Patients having brain operations are not covered by the new law."

"What did the Minister ask you?"

"He asked me how I was feeling, and I told him 'fine.'"

"Then he asked me if I would like to visit the United States. I told him I'd like to very much because I knew the Americans were true friends of the People's Republic, and it was important for our Four Modernizations' Plan to have trade and technical assistance from the Scout Commissioner Sam B. Underwood said today that Scouting in Greenville has held its most active year during the last 12 months, and that Dr. E.L. Henderson, district chairman, along with members of his committee are enthusiastic at the progress.

He said also that John J. Sigwald, scout executive, and George W. Thomason, assistant, are delighted that there is more activity during the summer vacation period than ever before.

Underwood explained that there is every evidence that this activity would be continued which as President Roosevelt, who is also honorary Scout President, says "will develop in our youth those qualities of character and understanding which alone can guarantee the future of democracy."

At the suggestion of Dr. N. Thomas Bennett, health and safety chairman for the Greenville district of the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts, Underwood released a letter written by President Roosevelt to James E. West, chief scout executive, previous to the National Council meeting held in New York in connection with Boy Scout Day at the World's Fair, at which over 65,000 Boy Scouts attended.

WASHINGTON TODAY

The Big Difference Is—

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — According to President Carter, the new energy proposals he is presenting to Congress will complete the agenda of campaign promises he made "for legislation to be passed."

Maybe so. But there's a big difference between proposing legislation and getting it passed.

There's a lot of unfinished business in the catalogue of campaign promises prepared by the White House early in the administration.

And that could be one of the problems behind the confidence gap Carter is trying to bridge. He gave the impression that he was going to change a lot more than was changed.

In fairness, he has tried to deliver on virtually every major point. Congress frequently has blocked his way.

Furthermore, it is likely that some of the intractable problems facing the nation now, particularly in energy and the economy, would be at least as severe no matter who was in the White House.

As Carter has said, there is no quick fix.

But as a campaigner, Carter suggested that he could do some rapid repair work. For example, he said he would strive to hold both the unemployment and inflation rates to no more than 4 percent by the end of his term. He didn't guarantee it, but he did set those targets.

He has 18 months to go, but he's not going to make it. No president could, for a variety of reasons, the soaring prices and shortages of energy among them.

The administration now expects an inflation rate of 9.8 percent this year and 8.1 percent in 1980. It acknowledges that unemployment could reach 6.9 percent next year. The Federal Reserve Board anticipates more severe problems on both fronts.

Carter said Sunday night he has worked hard "to put my campaign promises into law — with mixed success."

On Monday, in Detroit, he added:
"In a time of shadowy dread and fear, of growing anger and frustration, the only firm ground on which we can regroup and rebuild our own confidence is to be honest about ourselves. The energy proposals which I presented last night and this morning ... will complete the list of campaign promises that I made in 1976 for legislation to be passed."

But there is a lot on the list that hasn't passed, and may not before the end of Carter's current term.

Take taxes, for example. While Congress has passed two major tax cuts during the Carter administration, and has included some features the president proposed in the name of reform, it hasn't come close to the total tax rewrite he promised.

White House aides said the last Congress approved 32 major administration proposals, and many of them grew out of the campaign. The current Congress hasn't added much.

Other Editors Say Full Speed Ahead

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

President Jimmy Carter's proposals for meeting the energy crisis are positive and necessary and demand the full support of the nation.

Some of his plans are particularly encouraging: 1. Speed-up construction of new energy projects by slicing through bureaucratic red tape. 2. Shoot for cutting the use of oil for electric generating plants to half of what it is today within 11 years. 3. While being conscious of the need to protect the environment, "when we need refineries they will be built." 4. Launching a crash program for developing alternate energy sources.

While Mr. Carter's not ruling nuclear energy out of Time, of course, is important. We cannot rule out those sources immediately available to us — such as nuclear power and coal — on the notion that, given time, we can get all the energy we need from the sun.

We are out of time. The OPEC nations hold a gun to our heads. Inflation is strangling the national and world economy. Our foreign policy is predicated on how it might affect our supply of foreign oil. We should not be so enslaved.

Our resources are too great. Our people are too smart and too independent. Let's get going — at full speed.

Bring The Beach To Durham

By GAIL MICHAELS

If I were to ask Meg to name her five favorite things, she would probably answer candy, water, grandparents, play-dough, and Mommy and Daddy, in that order.

I have to admit that I have some doubt about the last items on the list: I may be fudging when I place myself above cheeseburgers in her estimation.

But the order of the first items on her list is indisputable. The only thing Meg would prefer to a trip to the beach would be a job as a taster in an M&M's factory.

Even Grandmommy ranks a poor third. My parents recently visited us for several days, after which Phillip, Meg, and I planned a weekend at the beach. When my mother asked if Meg would miss her after she left, Meg answered quite honestly, "I'll miss you until I see the ocean."

But ocean water is not the only water Meg likes. Almost any water will do. Tap water is one source of amusement. It takes her 30 minutes to wash her hands, and she told her preschool teacher last year that I never let her do anything fun because I wouldn't let her wash the dishes.

In fact, she likes any household chore that involves water. I am no longer allowed to water the plants without her or to mop the kitchen floor. I evidently don't mop enough to suit her though, because last week I caught her scrubbing the hardwood floors with a wet blackboard eraser. Even when housework is discounted, her normal routine involves enough water to wrinkle her permanently. Yesterday, she spent the three hours at play group under a sprinkler.

She came home, ate lunch, and I took her to her swimming lesson, before and after which she showered in the locker room. When we came home after the swimming lesson, she insisted on changing into a dry swimsuit, and she went swimming in the plastic pool in the backyard.

I figured that after such a day, the last thing she would need that night would be a bath. But we happened to have an invitation to dinner. And the main attraction at the house to which we were invited was a tremendous sandbox. So after dinner the four adults sat inside and talked while the children played outside. At about 9 o'clock we got ready to leave, and I called for Meg.

She was caked with wet sand. It seems that the three children had used the outside water faucet and some sand buckets to bring Atlantic Beach to Durham.

We spread newspaper in the back seat of the car, and after we got home, I undressed her in the carport.

Then I went inside to run the bath water. But the minute she saw the bathtub, she began to shriek. "I don't want to take a bath!"

"And why not?" I asked.

"Because! My hair might get wet!"

WHAT'S IN OUR NAMES?

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare asked, implying that things might as well be called by one name as another.

But from the earliest recorded times, men have regarded names as very important. In some pagan religions, to be able to name a demon was to be able to command his services; in other religions the names of the gods were so significant that they must not even be spoken. People's names have always been vital in making solemn agreements, or doing important business. Manufacturers think so highly of their products' trade names that they copyright them.

Not everyone can be rich, famous, or influential, but everyone can make his or her name stand for something. It is always worth while building a name which commands respect where we work, or in the community, the home, and the church. And once it is built, a good name is worth maintaining. It is as precious a possession as a person can have.

Record Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board today raised the discount rate from 9.5 percent to a record 10 percent, effective immediately.

The action will make it more expensive for banks to borrow money from the Federal Reserve and likely will have the effect of pushing up other interest rates, such as the prime rate for industrial borrowers.

The action was taken less than 24 hours after the Federal Reserve announced the U.S. money supply jumped a sharp $3.2 billion in the week ended July 11.

Slight Price Gain For Border Belt's Tobacco

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The second day of tobacco sales on the Border Belt in North Carolina and South Carolina brought only slightly improved prices Thursday, while leaf quality declined.

State agriculture officials said gains of $1 to $5 per hundred pounds were recorded in lower lugs and primings.

However, there was an increase in low and nondescript leaf Thursday.

According to state officials, demand was light in both North Carolina and South Carolina markets, and some sales were discontinued as a result. Reports were not much better from Georgia and Florida markets.

Final totals from opening-day sales Wednesday showed that 12 percent of the day's sales on the Border Belt went to the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp., compared to 3 percent last year.

The corporation is the agency that pays farmers the federal price support if their tobacco does not bring more than that at auction. When the agency takes a large percentage of sales, it is an indication that the market is not healthy.

Gross sales Wednesday totaled 5,791,968 pounds averaging $123.26 per hundred pounds, up only 84 cents from opening day last season.

State agriculture officials and farmers had hoped that tobacco would set record prices this year.

Curtis Tarleton, director of the state Agriculture Department's marketing division, said officials were at a loss to explain the low prices and slowness of sales.

Officials had blamed Wednesday's low prices on opening-day jitters. Tarleton said Thursday that he hoped a second slow day wasn't an indication of a trend.

"It's certainly different from last year," he said. "I haven't talked with anyone yet has the answer, who knows just what is causing it."

Tarleton said that perhaps buyers were still waiting the sales out to see what developed. He speculated that some may have heavy inventories.

Reorganization In Grimsley's Dept.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state secretary of administration announced Thursday that he was reorganizing his department, effective today.

Administration Secretary Joseph W. Grimsley said the move involves the creation of two new deputy secretary positions for Jane S. Patterson, assistant secretary for personnel and programs, and Arnold J.

Zogry, assistant secretary for policy and management.

Both Ms. Patterson and Zogry joined the administrative office when Gov. Jim Hunt took office in 1977. They were active in his 1976 campaign.

The two will assume duties held by John Talton Jr., assistant secretary for government operations, until he retired earlier this month.

Grimsley said Ms. Patterson will receive a 10 percent pay hike — from $36,132 a year to $39,708. The raise will be in addition to the 5 percent salary increase all state workers received July 1.

Zogry will continue to be paid $43,764 a year.

Ms. Patterson will manage seven divisions or agencies within the department. Zogry will continue his management of the Division of Policy Development and Office of Administrative Analysis. His new duties will include overseeing new telecommunication responsibilities assigned to the department by the Legislature this year and managing the Division of Management System.

way. Aside from a rather ribald limerick, I know nothing of this chap named Skinner, but I do know that the Cavalry Club has an enormous painting of "The Charge of the Heavy Brigade," who probably knew the reason why and were snubbed by Tenyson.

The Queen had issued a new honors list during the night, and I had failed to make it again. Titled Mulligans are few on the ground here.

You'd think a chap named Burke could slip one or two into his peerage listings.

Prince Charles, if anyone cares, was off presiding over the dedication of a new multi-million pound long-range weather forecasting facility. It rained on the ceremony, of course. But no matter, the weathermen were going out on strike anyhow. Britain, they announced before walking off the job, was having its wettest summer in 27 years. When last I called at this sceptered isle, it was having its wettest summer in 26 years and the manufacturers were going out on strike.

Some things remain the same.

And, Oh yes, the new arts minister, Norman St. John Stevas, concluded his speech at a luncheon for "Museum of the Year" with some riveting rhetoric:

"But I mustn't go on singling out names. One must not be a name-dropper, as Her Majesty remarked to me only yesterday."

There'll always be...etc.

Gas Supply Is Adequate

By The Associated Press

Gasoline supplies are expected to be adequate throughout North Carolina this weekend with chamber of commerce and state motor club officials describing gas as plentiful in coastal and mountain areas.

"We haven't had any problems down here," a spokesman for the Morehead City Chamber of Commerce said Thursday. "Gas is available all around here."

James E. Ellis, vice president of the chamber of commerce in Asheville, said supplies will be the same as they have been all summer — plentiful. He said a visitor slump has been the result only of fears that motorists could be stranded without gas in resort areas.

"We're in real good shape," said Joe F. Augustine, executive vice president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce. "I haven't seen or heard about shortages."

The Charlotte-based Carolina Motor Club in its weekly gas survey reported that 43 percent of the state's service stations would remain open Saturday with 28 percent doing business Sunday. The report said 26 percent of North Carolina's stations would be open after 8 p.m.

The club said the average price for premium gas in the state had reached 95.8 cents with unleaded gas selling for 94 cents per gallon and regular at 90.1 cents.

list was a good deal longer than that, although not every pledge involved legislation. When White House aides assembled every promise of the 1976 campaign, they produced a 111-page book.

APPRECIATION PROGRAM

An appreciation program will be held Saturday, July 21, 7:30 p.m., for Mrs. Odell White at Sweet Hope F. W. B. Church, Galloways Crossroad. The Rev. W. J. Best, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Manager Of Local Office

Fred Lilley has been named manager of the Social Security District Office in Greenville, according to William Greenwald, area director for eastern North Carolina. The Greenville district, which includes the Washington and Elizabeth City branch offices, serves 12 counties in northeastern North Carolina.

Lilley, a native of Martin County and a Williamston High School graduate, has been employed by Social Security since his graduation from East Carolina University in 1960.

Prior to his current assignment, he served as Staff Officer to the Assistant Regional Commissioner, Field Operations, in the Regional Office of Social Security in Atlanta, Ga. Lilley is a Major in the Army Reserve and is Director of Administration for the 1188th Military Ocean Terminal Unit, East Point, Georgia.

"Did the Minister say anything else?"

"Yes. He told me a brain operation such as I was having would cost at least $3,000 in the United States, which is over 4,000 yuan, but he hoped to cut it down to $2,900 in his new health bill. Then he asked me if I had gotten a second opinion before I agreed to the operation?"

"And what did you say to that, Wu Ling?"

"I said, 'You've got to be kidding.'"

BY DAN HALL, Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Thomas H. Emerson figured in some of the nation's landmark legislation and legal decisions, gave Richard M. Nixon his first government job and almost ran for governor of Connecticut.

But the most influential work of the Yale Law School professor emeritus is probably four hefty books he wrote. The titles may discourage the average reader: "Toward a General Theory of the First Amendment," "The System of Freedom of Expression," and the two-volume "Political and Civil Rights in the United States," which he co-authored with David Haber.

Nonetheless, retired Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. Supreme Court has hailed Emerson as "the outstanding authority in the nation on the First Amendment."
Louis Pollak, a former Yale Law School dean, calls the second book "the major treatise on free expression written in our time."

The white-haired Emerson, now 71, greets visitors to his small, book-lined Yale office with a quiet manner.

There is an unexpected lightness in his voice when he talks about his 13 years in Washington, being branded a former Communist in the early 1950s, and how the FBI compiled more than 1,500 pages on his comings and goings to at least 1973.

When he learned to his amazement in 1977 about the exhaustive surveillance, he said, "I was somewhat amused. Obviously, they didn't get anything."
Emerson's concern with civil rights was intensified by those personal experiences, but his involvement goes back to 1931 and his first assignment as a New York lawyer just out of Yale Law School. He was on the defense team in the celebrated Scottsboro case.

Plaque Given Pitt Pastor

John A. Allen, pastor, First Baptist Church, Fountain was recognized this week with a plaque of appreciation by the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority at its July board meeting in Washington.
Dr. Allen has been a member, representing Pitt County, of the Mid-East Regional Housing Authority since 1977. He is leaving the area in August to go to Edenton.

Mrs. Christine Farrior, chairman of the Authority, said Dr. Allen had been an outstanding member of the Authority and had made a valuable contribution in helping provide housing to low-income families in the area.
The Authority presently operates 440 housing units in a six-county area including apartments in Fountain and Winterville.

Churches Challenge The State

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

In a time of growing strain between church and state, Roman Catholic and some Protestant churches are launching unprecedented court challenges to new government inroads on their lives.

U.S. Catholic bishops have filed their first lawsuit in history against the federal government. Lutherans are laying grounds for another key case, and United Methodists are fighting a landmark dispute. In each of the actions, the issues are different but they all claim government infringements on the constitutionally guaranteed right of free exercise of religion.

The Catholic suit is against legislation that could force private employers to pay for abortions, even when that would violate their religious convictions.

Lutherans, in a mild form of civil disobedience, are honing a showdown with the Internal Revenue Service over a new regulation that defines limits by government fiat of the scope of religious work.

In a different yet somewhat similar case, United Methodists are drafting petitions to the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn California court rulings that hold the entire denomination can be sued for claims against regional units.

Methodist legal counsel Samuel W. Witwer Jr. of Chicago says the case has potential implications for all denominations, raising for the first time a landmark test of whether a worldwide church body can be held accountable for each local activity.

In the Lutheran tactics against new IRS regulations,

Evangelist Sees A 'Judgement'

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — "The judgment of God is falling on America and the western world for our long ruthless exploitation of natural resources," says the Rev. Alan Walker, director of world evangelism for the World Methodist Council.

The Australian minister told a church gathering that "the energy crisis is far more than a temporary interruption of oil supplies. It is God's warning that western attitudes and lifestyles must be drastically changed or disaster is certain."

SENIOR CITIZENS DAY BELL ARTHUR — Senior Citizens Day will be observed at Arthur Chapel F. W. B. Church Sunday, July 22, 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend, says Bishop J. N. Gilbert, pastor.

the nation's three major Lutheran denominations have advised various social service agencies to ignore deadlines for filing newly required informational forms 990 so as to trigger fines and a basis for fighting them in court.

Historically the churches have maintained that only they can define their nature and scope of their work — not the government, although in communist states, churches are restricted to sacerdotal functions.

The IRS restrictive 222e U.S.A., and "an unwarranted intrusion by government into the affairs of the churches." Meanwhile, U.S. Catholic bishops and their action agency, the U.S. Catholic Conference, have sued the government for a restraining order blocking enforcement of the Pregnancy Discrimination Act of 1978.

Among other things, it requires employers to provide paid time off work for all abortions and to pay if without it the mother's life would be endangered.

This is a "grave and serious violation" of religious rights, says the suit filed against the U.S. Department of Justice and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and thus unconstitutional.

OUR DOCTRINAL STANDARDS—Our first and final rule for all doctrine, faith and practice is God's Holy Word, the Bible. We believe the Bible is the written Word of God, without error in the original manuscripts, and of infallible and divine authority in all matters of faith and practice. Therefore, all of our teaching and preaching is from the Bible.

OUR CHURCH'S VISION—All of our teaching and preaching is centered in the Bible. We believe God's Word provides the answers to today's situation, just as it did 2000 years ago. Just as man breaking God's laws disrupts the ecological balance, so man breaking God's spiritual laws upsets man's relationship with other men and God. Submission to God's Word, the Bible, is the key to resolving these problems.

To Arrive
The lookout tower was scarcely visible, and five miles ahead, straight up the mountain. With the whole afternoon ahead of me, I began the climb. It was a hot day, and the dry, winding road made the climb twice as difficult.
Then something wonderful happened. Sitting by the roadside in the shade of some friendly pine trees were an older couple and their grandchildren. They, too, were on the way to the lookout and were resting. I joined the group and continued the hike, chatting the whole way about families, places we had been, our home towns.
Before we knew it the fatigue was forgotten and two hours had flown by. We had arrived at the tower.
Life, too, sometimes feels like a difficult climb on a hot, dry day. Its demands and burdens can drain us of energy and the will to continue. God knows this, so He gave us His Church, a fellowship of believers to strengthen and encourage us along life's road.

Carnival Career Of Twins Also Ended With The Burial Of Billy

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — When Billy McCrary was buried in a quiet, hillside cemetery, the carnival career of "the world's largest twins" was buried with him.

McCrary, 32, weighed 747 pounds and his twin brother, Benny, tipped the scales at 727.

For nearly three years, the two mountain boys who grew up near Hendersonville toured the world, met royalty and political leaders and entertained thousands with their size.

Billy died Saturday of injuries he sustained in a motor bike accident while he and his brother, who performed as the McGuire Twins, were making an appearance in Niagara Falls, Ontario.

Billy McCrary was no ordi-ary person and his funeral Thursday, accordingly, was no ordinary service.

McCrary was buried in a specially designed maple coffin, nearly twice as wide as a normal casket, and a crane was used to maneuver it out of a Hendersonville funeral home.

Heavy earth-moving machinery was used to lower the casket into a grave more than twice as wide as a normal grave.

"Billy lived a full life," intoned the Rev. Albert Jones. "In fact, he saw more than many of us will ever see in a lifetime."

A contingent from the Guinness Book of World Records and Ripley's Believe It or Not, which feature oddities at museums across the country, attended the graveside service with about 300 of the McCrarys' friends and neighbors.

Among the floral arrangements at the gravesite was one about 5 feet tall from the Guinness people. It was made of orange silk roses.

"There's 747 flowers in it. That's one for every pound he weighed," said Charles Jackson, the funeral director in charge of the service.

Benny McCrary, sitting on a wooden bench near the folding chairs used by others, held back tears during the ceremony but sobbed openly as he and his normal-sized wife backed away from the gravesite in a peach-colored Cadillac sedan.

The McCrarys, whose parents are normal sized, attributed the twins' obesity to a childhood case of measles both suffered simultaneously.

But acquaintances said prodigious appetites helped the two gain their size.

"I've known those boys to sit down and eat 15 hamburgers straight," said one family acquaintance.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

Nuclear Plants 'Best Source'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While nuclear power is not totally safe even in the minds of nuclear physicists, two of them told the North Carolina Utilities Commission Thursday that it remains the best energy source available.

In making his point about the general safety of nuclear energy, Dr. William D. Walker, chairman of the Duke University physics department, used the injury count at the Three Mile Island plant. He said the worst exposure to radiation there was the equivalent of two chest x-rays.

should be expected that something could go wrong, despite the best of our expectations," she testified.

The Commission is conducting hearings on the state's power needs through the end of the century. Each year it develops a report to guide its decisions about licensing new plants.

In response to a question, Walker estimated that radioactive material leaving a plant during a meltdown would decay to what he called safe levels in hours or months. He said the plant itself might warrant destruction and bulldozer burial for a period of up to 50 years.

"Although operating flaws and some design flaws came to light at Three Mile Island, there was essentially no radiation damage to the populace," said Walker. "There was economical and psychological damage."

His wife, Constance Kalbach, an independent nuclear chemist consultant, blamed the news media for the distrust people now have for nuclear energy. She said the fact that the accident was well contained should promote faith in nuclear stations.

"In any new technology it

Attorney Fails To Win Fee

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge says Lee Marvin won't have to pay $500,000 in legal fees sought by the attorney who represented the actor's former live-in lover during the celebrated Marvin vs. Marvin case.

Judge Arthur Marshall also said Thursday that he would not reconsider his decision that awarded $104,000 to Michelle Triola Marvin. Attorneys for both sides said they are considering appeals.

The district attorney is still probing perjury allegations against the actor.

Marshall expressed concern about the perjury probe, but said even if Marvin had lied on the witness stand, the outcome of the trial would be no different.

Last April, the judge awarded Miss Marvin money "for rehabilitation purposes," but rejected her claim that she

'Animal Crackers' May Be A Knockout Punch

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Remember last February's ratings "sweeps" period, when the networks were beating each other over the head with blockbuster movies?
"Gone with the Wind," "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," "Marathon Man" — you can have those. As far as I'm concerned, CBS saved its knockout punch for the summer.

"Animal Crackers" makes its network television debut on CBS Saturday night. I've canceled my frog-gigging date for this.

"Animal Crackers," made in 1930, was the Marx Brothers' second movie, and beyond a doubt, their best. It was their biggest Broadway hit, transferred practically intact to film.

Because of some legal difficulties, the movie was out of circulation for more than 30 years, and reappeared in theaters in 1975. Groucho himself attended the Los Angeles re-opening.

Forget storylines — the plot here is thinner than the one you'll find on ABC's "Love Boat" rerun playing opposite. This is pure crazy. I think the story has something to do with some missing art the brothers are trying to recover for plump and rich Mrs. Rittenhouse (Margaret Dumont), but it doesn't matter.

You know the plot doesn't count as soon as Groucho enters Mrs. Rittenhouse's plush Park Avenue digs in a sedan chair borne by four Nubian slaves. He is Captain Spaulding, famed explorer. You can tell that because he is wearing boots, riding pants and a pith helmet.

And because he dances his bizarre dance and sings the song that was to become his theme, "Hooray for Captain Spaulding":

"Hello, I must be going, I cannot stay I only, Came to say I'm going.
"I'll stay a week or two, I'll stay the summer through, But I am telling you, I must be going."

day is a good seven-cent nickel."
"You go Uruguay and I'll go mine."
CBS has had the rights to the movie for a few years now, "but we've been waiting for the right moment to show it," a CBS spokesman said.
Well, anytime is the right moment as far as I'm concerned. Hooray for Captain Spaulding, hooray, hooray, hooray.

Young Boy Killed Entering Booby-Trapped Home

MIAMI (AP) — "What are you going to say to a man when you've killed his only son?" robbed Carmen Charles Falco, Boy Scout leader who police say rigged a booby trap in his home that killed a member of his scouting troop.

ard Brush Jr. was struck in the chest and killed by a bullet from a 22-caliber rifle that had been rigged to the bathroom door of Falco's home to stop burglars.

No charges have been filed. Assistant State Attorney Robert

Kaye said Thursday his office was awaiting a police report on the shooting.

"I knew exactly how to set it up. I knew exactly how to scare somebody away," said Falco.

31, who told police he learned to set booby traps while in Vietnam.

"Unfortunately, the only thing the Army taught me was how to use a weapon to destroy an individual in every possible way," he said.

Police said the rifle was positioned on a chair with a string running from the bathroom door knob to the trigger. When Richie opened the door, the gun went off.

The scoutmaster told authorities his home had been burglarized three times this year — once earlier this week when an intruder broke in through the bathroom window.

Dade County homicide detective Fabio Alonso said young Brush smashed the same window Wednesday night and entered the house when no one was home.

"Richard was a little boy. He was a nice boy. He was an ordinary boy who loved camping. Why he went in that house I don't know," said the youth's father, Richard.

"I haven't the slightest idea why the boy broke in," Falco said. "Anything I had I would have shared with him. ... He was too beautiful a person to do something like this."

Falco and his wife, Kerri, both of whom work as counselors for a state agency, said Brush had left his bicycle pump and Boy Scout shirt at their home after a scout meeting Tuesday night — "nothing so urgent he couldn't wait until we got home."

Richard's parents became concerned when their son disappeared while watering their lawn about 10:30 p.m., police said.

The Brushes rushed two doors away to the Falco home after a shot rang out in the quiet neighborhood.

"I looked through the bathroom window," the boy's father said. "I saw something on the floor, but I couldn't tell what it was. Then I found my son on the floor, dead. My son, 14 years old, dead. ..."

Falco was called at work, and when he arrived home and learned of the tragedy, put his head against a police car and cried.

"I just hope that family can forgive me," he said.

Brush walked over and said, "Chuck, I'm so sorry." "Mr. Falco is a nice man," said a neighbor, Aristedes Lima. "The family isn't blaming him for this tragedy."

No Extradition For McKinney

By MONTE PLOTT Associated Press Writer

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — British authorities will not extradite fugitive beauty queen Joyce McKinney on kidnapping-for-sex charges, but a U.S. magistrate has ordered her to undergo psychiatric tests.

Miss McKinney, 28, of Minneapolis, N.C., and Keith Joseph May, 26, of Los Angeles appeared Thursday in U.S. District Court here in connection with their arrest Wednesday on a charge of giving false information to obtain a passport.

That charge, according to the FBI, stemmed from a British investigation of Miss McKinney and May for the alleged 1977 kidnapping of a Mormon missionary, Miss McKinney's former boyfriend.

Prosecutors said Kirk Anderson, then 21, of Provo, Utah, was taken to a remote cottage and shackled to a bed where he was forced to have sex with Miss McKinney.

The former Miss Wyoming-USA and May jumped bail in England and fled to Canada under assumed names in April 1978, less than a month before a scheduled court appearance on the kidnapping charges. They lived mostly in the United States until their re-arrest Wednesday. FBI agents said.

During their court appearance Thursday, Judge J. Paul Teal reduced their bonds on the passport charges from $10,000 to $5,000.

But he said as a condition of her bail reduction, Miss McKinney must undergo psychiatric tests because federal authorities believe she may have threatened suicide.

Sir Thomas Hetherington, British Director of Public Prosecutions, said in London that Miss McKinney would not be extradited to England to face still-pending charges because it would be too expensive.

Drug Cases Dismissed

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A total of 115 drug cases in which current or former Durham vice squad members were needed to testify has been dismissed by the Durham district attorney's office, according to District Attorney Dan K. Edwards Jr.

Edwards has indicated members of the vice squad are the subjects of a probe by the State Bureau of Investigation begun in early May.

The dismissals, 47 in Superior Court and 68 in district court, involved 39 persons. The alleged offenses ranged from possession of cocaine and LSD to manufacturing marijuana.

Edwards said he anticipated "future action" in an undetermined number of drug case convictions that included testimony by the same vice squad officers involved in the SBI probe.

"The decision has not been made on how to deal with them (convicted defendants)," Edwards said. "I don't have the power to write the parole board and tell the warden to release someone."

"It would be impossible ethically to prosecute the 115 dismissed cases because of information recently produced by the SBI investigation," Edwards said.

Edwards has confirmed that drugs are involved in the investigation. On Tuesday, Edwards announced he will seek grand jury indictments Aug. 6 in connection with the investigation of the vice squad.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today as word of a significant decline in the Gross National Product counteracted a rise in the discount rate and traders continued to evaluate the Carter administration shuffle.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was up .17 to 827.47 at noon. But declines held a slight lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Fed raised its charge on loans to member banks from 9.5 percent to 10 percent in an attempt to stabilize the rapidly increasing money supply. The basic money supply measure, M1, rose $3.2 billion last week, the Fed reported Thursday.

But the Commerce Department reported that the nation's gross national product had fallen at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the second quarter, the largest drop since the 1974-75 recession.

And there were fears about the effects of President Carter's cabinet shake-up. One analyst said the market was "stunned" Thursday by Carter's acceptance of the resignations of Attorney General Griffin Bell and Health Education & Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano and his replacement of Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal with Fed chief G. William Miller. Today, Carter also accepted the resignation of Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Northeast Utilities was uncanceled at 10 at the top of the most-active list, with a 272,200-share block crossing at 10 1/8.

The NYSE's composite average of its more than 1,500-listed common stocks was unchanged at 57.76. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .09 to 194.78.

Pittsboro Strike Ends

PITTSBORO, N.C. (AP) — After discussions resolved some "misunderstandings," 28 employees at Kayser-Roth Hosiery Co.'s Pittsboro plant have returned to their jobs, a company spokesman said.

H.D. Kenan, the firm's vice president for personnel, said the workers, all women sewers, were back on the job Wednesday, ending a two-day walkout over new production standards and new equipment recently installed at the plant.

When the plant recently switched from women's to men's hosiery, the employees were forced to learn the operation of different equipment and meet new production standards. In walking off their jobs Monday, the 28 women protested the new quotas were too high to be reached in their training time allowed by the company.

Workers said that pay dropped from $4 to $2.90 per hour because of the new quotas and that some workers had been dismissed for failing to meet them. Kenan said one worker had been dismissed for production reasons.

The women agreed to return to work after company officials met with them briefly Tuesday afternoon. Some said the company had agreed to reevaluate the new production standards and promised that no workers would be fired for failure to meet the new requirements until after the study is completed.

Fifth Hepatitis Case Reported

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — The fifth person to contract hepatitis, which already has killed two in the New Bern area, was listed in stable condition Thursday night following his admission to Craven County Hospital earlier in the day.

Hospital officials would not release the man's name, but Dr. Donald Francis of the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta said his case was not serious.

Four investigators from the center are in New Bern seeking the origin of the disease. Francis said investigators are talking to acquaintances of the area's five victims, one of whom, John C. Carter Davis Jr., 18, died early Thursday. Craig Gaskins, 19, died Sunday.

Two other men, whose names also have been withheld, were listed in critical condition Thursday night.

Study Risks In Panel Approves Chemical Agent Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is new evidence a type of nitrosamine called NDELA, a "weakly carcinogenic" chemical found in many cosmetics, can be absorbed through the skin, says acting Food and Drug Administration Commissioner Sherwin Gardner.

Meanwhile, Gardner said Thursday, hundreds of cosmetics contain a chemical associated with the cancer-causing agent dioxane.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. at First Born Holiness Church, Grimesland, by Bishop James Smith, pastor. Burial will be in the Burney's Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Buck was a native of Norfolk, Va., but spent most of her life in Grimesland. She was a member of First Born Holiness Church.

Surviving her are her husband, William Lewis Buck of the home; two children, Sheila Arlene and Ronald Lee, both of Grasonville, Md.; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Speller of Grasonville, Md.; five sisters, Mrs. Everette Jean Rogers of Greenville, Mrs. Mary Lee Jones, Mrs. Velcia Mae Speller, Mrs. Henrietta Gray, and Mrs. Teresa Marie Newton, all of Grasonville, Md.; five brothers, Deladimore Speller, Benjamin Clifton Speller, and Robert Jefferson Speller, all of Greenville, Jimmy Jefferson Speller of Grif-ton and John Thomas Speller of Grasonville, Md.

Family visitation will be held Saturday from 8 to 9 p. m. at Flanagan Funeral Chapel.

Hardy
 Mr. Harry Hardy, a resident of the Hugo community of Lenoir County, died Wednesday at Queen Village Hospital in Queen Village, N. Y. Funeral services will be held Sunday, 3 p. m., at Antioch Church of Christ Disciples of Christ Church, Rt. 1, Hookerton, by Elder W. H. Joyner. Burial will follow in the family cemetery.

Mr. Hardy was a native of Greene County, where he lived most of his life. He had been a resident of the Hugo community for the past four years.

Survivors: his wife, Mrs. Lottie Rowe Hardy of Queen Village, N. Y.; two daughters, Mrs. Bessie H. Swinson of Queen Village, N. Y. and Miss Leatha Ruth Hardy of Newark, N. J.; three brothers, Leamon and Calissia Hardy, both of Farmville and Preston Moore Jr. of Baltimore, Md.; four sisters, Mrs. Winnie D. Washington of Rt. 1, Hookerton, Mrs. Bertha Lee Best and Mrs. Etta Ree Green, both of Baltimore, Md. and Mrs. Ruth D. Edwards of La Grange, four grandchildren.

The body will be in the Norcott Memorial Chapel in Ayden from 7 p. m. Saturday until carried to the church one hour prior to services. Family visitation will be held from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. at the chapel. The family will be at the home of Miss Mattie Louise Washington, Four Way Intersection, Rt. 1, Hookerton.

Cite Hazard In Disco-Dancing
BOSTON (AP) — Besides the problems of fitting into tight, slinky clothes and enduring the glare of loud music, a team of doctors has identified another hazard of disco dancing — disco fingers.

Doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore say disco dancers may develop an infection if they constantly snap their fingers while moving to the music.

In a letter Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine, the doctors told of treating a 17-year-old girl who had such a finger infection. "She made an uneventful recovery," they wrote.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.
 Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 9849, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Perkins
 Ms. Ella Perkins, 1404 Chestnut St., Greenville, died Sunday at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Funeral services will be held Sunday, 3 p. m., at Phillippi Church of Christ, Farmville Blvd., by Elder E. B. Williams. Burial will follow in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Perkins was born and lived most of her life in Greenville. She lived with a granddaughter, Ms. Ella Mae Matthews.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Rachel Perkins Pierce of Greenville; 16 grandchildren; 37 great-grandchildren; 24 great-great-grandchildren.

The body will be in the Gold Room of Norcott and Company Funeral Home in Greenville from 6 p. m. Saturday until one hour prior to services. Family visitation will be held in the Chapel of Loving Memories from 8-9 p. m. Saturday.

Smith
GRIMESLAND — Mrs. Bertha Smith, 83, a former Grimesland resident, died Sunday night in Patchogue, New York.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Mt. Calvary Holiness Church in Washington. Bishop James Smith will be officiating. Burial will take place in Whitfield and Whitley Cemetery in Washington.

The family will receive friends at the Chapel of Whitfield and Whitley Friday night from 7:30 to 9:00.

Surviving her are four daughters, Mrs. Lucy Hawkins and Mrs. Hazel Howard of Grimesland, Mrs. Pearl Clark and Mrs. Clara Coffey of Patchogue, N.Y.; three sons, Tilton Smith of Baltimore, Md., Almire Smith of Greenville, Lenzor Smith of Chocowinity; one brother, James Smith of Aurora; two sisters, Mrs. Eldora Smith of Brooklyn, N.Y. and Mrs. Mabie Remond of Brooklyn, N.Y. She also has 41 grandchildren and 38 great grandchildren.

She served twice as president of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club, was chosen as "Woman of the Year" and served as president of North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club in 1964-65. She was president of the North Carolina Council of Women's Organizations from 1971-73 and served on the Commission for the Status of Women during Governor Terry Sanford's administration. She was a charter member of Oakmont Baptist Church and a longtime Sunday School teacher.

She is survived by a son, Ruel W. Tyson Jr. of Chapel Hill; two sisters, Mrs. Willard Timberlake of Youngville and Mrs. Joel Wester of Franklin County; two brothers, Linwood and Ronda C. Gupton both of Louisburg; two grandchildren.

The family suggests that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the local Chapters of the American Cancer Society or the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7-9 p. m. Saturday.

Tyson
 Mrs. Bert G. Tyson, 74, widow of Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson, died at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill Friday.

Funeral services will be held Sunday, 4 p. m., at Oakmont Baptist Church by Dr. Robert Holt, Baptist minister of Greenville. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park. The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the Church at the funeral hour.

Mrs. Tyson, a native of Franklin County, received her education at Red Oak Farm Life Boarding School, Wake Forest College and East Carolina Teachers College and was a public school teacher. For a number of years she was secretary and office manager of North Carolina Extension Service in Pitt County. From 1958-75 she was employed by North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society in —Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia R. Harris to succeed the controversial and outspoken Califano.

—Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller to succeed Blumenthal, who has had frequent clashes with White House staff members.

—Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti to replace Bell.

Powell said successors to Miller and Mrs. Harris will be named soon.

Adams may have undermined his own position Thursday afternoon with a statement that he had been asked to remain in the Cabinet but was "considering whether or not I should."

Adams said he was weighing such factors as "the commitment of this administration to mass transportation and moving Detroit towards a fuel-efficient automobile, the direct accessibility of the president to the Cabinet and the responsiveness of those with enhanced authority at the White House to the Congress and the American people."

Asked if Adams was staying, Powell replied: "The president has not yet had an opportunity to talk with Secretary Adams. He will do so in the near future."

One close Adams associate said the secretary had made up his mind to leave. But an aide said Adams was undecided.

It was learned that White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan told Adams in a Thursday morning meeting that the secretary had Carter's confidence but there were problems with some officials in his agency.

It was understood that after Adams issued his statement, an irritated Jordan reached him by telephone aboard an airplane to complain that none of the issues Adams raised in his public statement had been broached during their face-to-face meeting.

One Adams associate said Federal Aviation Administration chief Langhorne Bond and Federal Railroad Administrator John L. Sullivan, a Carter campaign veteran, are under consideration to replace Adams.

Bell, who had long said he intended to leave before the end of the year, was asked if his resignation was announced now to make Carter's actions appear broader than they might otherwise seem.

Bell replied: "Hold on two or three more days; you'll see that it's pretty broad. They don't need one more body."

A high administration source compared Schlesinger to Blumenthal and Califano, who were fired. "There are different sorts of resignations and acceptances," this source said.

Powell declined to comment on reports that Andrew Young, often embroiled in controversy as U.N. ambassador, might be asked to take another post, possibly that of HUD secretary.

The drumbeat of departures riveted attention throughout the government. Many congressmen expressed fear that the sharp changes would undo gains Carter made with his recent energy proposals.

Asked to explain the departures, Powell said Carter is hoping to improve future administration performance. But at a news conference Califano said Carter told him Wednesday night that a major reason for the shakeup was to "get the Cabinet and the administration ready for the 1980 elections."

In addition, Califano said Carter cited a problem with his performance "related to friction with certain members of the White House staff" — Jordan, Powell and budget director James McIntyre.

Powell said he expected Carter to complete evaluating his Cabinet before the weekend and to turn his attention next week to his own senior staff. A high administration source said the Cabinet reshuffling would be "completed by the end of the day (today)."

On Thursday, in three announcements in 4 1/2 hours, Powell said Carter had dumped Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and had accepted the resignation of friend and fellow Georgian, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell.

Revealing a new Cabinet look for an election year, Powell said Carter will nominate:

—Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia R. Harris to succeed the controversial and outspoken Califano.

—Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller to succeed Blumenthal, who has had frequent clashes with White House staff members.

—Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti to replace Bell.

Phil Niekro Catches Brother Joe

Throw To First

Atlanta's Phil Niekro has caught his brother, Houston's Joe, as the National League's only 13-game winners and it looks like someone else may catch the rest of the Astros before too long.

The Brothers Niekro each surrendered six hits Thursday, but Phil did it over nine innings in hurling the Braves to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Joe lasted only 42.3 innings in the nightcap as the Astros dropped a 9-5, 4-2 double-header to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati routed St. Louis 16-4, the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Montreal Expos 7-3, the San Francisco Giants nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 and the San Diego Padres defeated the New York Mets 3-1.

Two-run homers by Willie Stargell and Phil Garner in the opener and John Milner in the nightcap helped the Pirates to their sweep of the Astros. Milner slammed a first-inning homer in the second game and Bruce Kison blanked the Astros on four hits until the ninth, when he needed help from Grant Jackson after retiring 17 consecutive batters.

In the opener, the score was tied twice before Garner's homer in the sixth gave the Pirates a 7-5 lead.

Braves 8, Cubs 2 Two-run singles by Rowland Office and Jeff Burroughs highlighted Atlanta's six-run fifth inning that erased a 2-0 Chicago lead. Office singled to tie the score and Burroughs' bases-loaded hit put the Braves on top 4-2. Burroughs hit a solo homer in the ninth.

Reds 16, Cards 4 Ray Knight drove in six runs with a grand slam homer, a single and a sacrifice fly to pace a 19-hit Cincinnati assault against Pete Vuckovich and four relievers. The Reds scored five runs in the first inning and continued the attack until Knight's third home run of the season and first career grand slam wrapped up the scoring in the ninth against Will McEnaney.

Dodgers 7, Expos 3 Steve Yeager, Joe Ferguson and Davey Lopes slugged home runs and Burt Hooton scattered six hits as the Dodgers broke a five-game losing streak.

The offensive outburst followed a closed-door pregame meeting following charges during the All-Star break by several players that Reggie Smith had "quit on us." Smith, angered by the remarks, said following the meeting that "I gave my side of it and everything is now geared toward a more positive attitude."

Giants 1, Phillies 0 John Curtis hurled a seven-hitter for his second consecutive 1-0 shutout and Darrell Evans drove in the only run with a fourth-inning double. Curtis struck out five and didn't issue a walk and was in deep trouble only twice but was helped by some fine defensive plays.

Padres 3, Mets 1 Pitcher Randy Jones doubled and scored what proved to be the winning run and Dave Winfield cracked his 23rd homer. Mets starter Kevin Kobel retired the first 12 Padres before Winfield homered, giving him a league-leading 73 RBIs. Winfield has hit eight home runs and driven in 18 runs in the last 18 games.

Pitt Mistakes Prove Costly In 11-5 Loss

By JIM KYLE Reflector Sports Writer

Pitt County blew a 5-0 lead last night as Johnston County took advantage of Pitt mistakes and pitching difficulties to rally for an 11-5 victory in their American Legion eastern semifinal playoff series.

The win gives Johnston County a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven event, which continues tonight in Smithfield. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Smithfield American Legion field.

Pitt County scored two runs in the third and three in the fourth for a 5-0 lead last night, but the momentum began to swing towards Johnston County in the fifth when starting pitcher Mike Williams walked three batters and gave up two runs.

Williams walked three more in the sixth and had one more reach on an error before he was pulled in favor of Mel Howard. All four of those runners scored to give Johnston County the lead and Pitt was unable to challenge after that.

"We made many more mistakes than they did and it cost us," Pitt coach Gary Overton said. "Because of those mistakes, we weren't able to hold onto the 5-0 lead."

Overton said his team's pitching wasn't that bad, but the mistakes on the field put extra pressure on the Pitt hurlers. "Our pitching wasn't as good as it has been, but I didn't think it was atrocious."

Pitt County used a total of four pitchers. Williams went five innings and suffered the loss, while Howard lasted three. Bob Hemingway and Jeff Allen finished up, splitting the final inning. Seven of the Johnston County runs were earned, three charged to Williams, two to Howard and two to Hemingway. Williams is now 6-2.

Overton said the 2-0 deficit in the series is a big one, but not insurmountable. "At this point, two games seem like a lot, but with a couple of good ballgames, we could even this thing up. We have to play hard and eliminate mistakes, but this is the type of ballclub that can do just that."

The Johnston County club, Overton said, is very similar to Pitt County in that it makes few mistakes. "We just seem to have made more," he said.

Joe Stephenson went the distance for Johnston County, giving up seven hits and three earned runs.

A Johnston County error helped Pitt County get on the scoreboard in the third inning. Mike Campbell reached on a two-base error with one away and went to third on a single by Mark Shank. The two runners pulled a successful double steal and Shank went to third on the throw home. He scored on a base hit by Curtis Spencer.

Pitt added three runs in the fourth. Will Barrett led off with a walk and Ben Wilson sacrificed him up, reaching himself on the late throw to second. The runners moved up on Williams' foul fly and Will Sanderson was intentionally walked to load things up.

Campbell laced a seeing eye single to left to plate Barrett and Shank doubled in Wilson and Sanderson to make it 5-0.

Johnston County got on the scoreboard in the fifth. David

Irwin Shooting For Both Opens

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Golf fanatics have argued for years whether the U.S. Open or the British Open is the world's leading tournament.

Hale Irwin, the current U.S. Open champion, doesn't profess to have the answer. But he could well answer the question "who is the Open champion?" by winning the British tournament as well.

Irwin went into today's third round at Lytham St. Annes with a 2-stroke advantage over young Spaniard Severiano Ballesteros. Irwin shot his second successive 68 for a 6-under-par total of 136.

"There are those in the States who feel the U.S. Open is the tournament that matters," Irwin said. "Our friends across the pond think this is the big one. To win both would really settle the argument as to who won the Open."

The last man to win both opens in the same year was Lee Trevino in 1971.

"I would dearly love to win the British Open," Irwin said. "It would be a big, big feather in my cap. It is pretty special."

Irwin's round included three birdies on the front nine and not a single bogey. The round lifted the bespectacled American above overnight leader Bill Longmuir.

The little-known Briton shot a 3-over-par 74 to end the day at 139, one shot behind Ballesteros. Two-time British Open winner Tom Watson was fourth at 140, after carding a 3-under 68.

Ballesteros' 65 was the best round of the day. It equalled the course record that Longmuir also had equalled the day before.

Ballesteros' round was remarkable in that he birdied four of the last five holes. The back stretch is regarded as the most difficult part of the course, and it finished off such dogged competitors as defending champion Jack Nicklaus.

"Sevvy's finish must have been fabulous," Irwin said, and the jovial young Latin modestly thought so too.

But he was willing to give much of the credit to Trevino, who played with him.

"At the 10th hole, he (Trevino) pointed out that I was not following through with my left leg. That helped me. After that, I played better," Ballesteros said.

Longmuir, the 26-year-old former truck driver who shot 65 Wednesday, was far from downhearted about finishing the second day in third place.

"I am not at all depressed," he said. "I didn't play well, but I tried hard, and I got as many pars as possible. It could have been a lot worse."

Behind fourth-placed Watson were Nicklaus and New Zealander Dennis Clark, both at 141.

Nicklaus shot six birdies on the first 10 holes but had to settle for a 2-under 69 after a disastrous back nine. Clark, a former New Zealand amateur, also shot a 2-under 69.

Rabbit Leads In Quad

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — A rabbit leads the pack, with veteran Victor Regalado one stroke back in the $200,000 Quad Cities Open Golf Tournament.

George Cadle went into today's second round with a one-stroke lead after matching the competitive course record with a 7-under-par 63 Thursday at the 6,514-yard Oakwood Country Club.

Regalado's second-place stand was a little more like it. He won last year and tied for second last Sunday in the Greater Milwaukee Open.

But then at 65 were Dennis Sullivan and Canadian Dan Hallidorson. Who? They had to qualify Monday to get in the field.

And bracketed at 66 were a bunch of other lesser-known pros — Jeff Mitchell, Larry Webb, Doug Tewell, Peter Jacobsen, Morris Hatalsky and Lon Nielsen. They're all non-winners.

In all, 59 players broke par

70. The star of the tournament, second-leading money winner Larry Nelson, shot par, along with 20 others including Sam Sneed who had an eagle.

The 230-pound Cadle, who won the Kentucky Amateur crown three times before turning pro, has won only $4,141 this year. He has failed to make the cut nine times and failed to qualify four times. His performance was nearly typical of many of those seeking the $36,000 first prize and the year's exemption from qualifying that goes with it.

Cadle, 31, finished with a 68 and a tie for 37th place — his best finish of the year at the Milwaukee Open.

"I've been letting my temper get to me. I'm trying not to get mad out there on the course," said Cadle, whose blazing 33-30 contained birdie puts ranging from 10 to 30 feet. He dropped a 10-footer on the last hole to capture the first-round lead.

"I only missed one green and didn't have a bad shot to even test my temper," he said. "But I decided at Milwaukee that I was going to try to control my temper. Everytime I'd make a bad shot my blood pressure would rise and it's been affecting my game. If I feel like I'm getting mad now I just laugh. Sure, I've thrown some clubs, but I never got caught."

Rosen Resigns

NEW YORK (AP) — George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the world champion New York Yankees, has begun looking for a new president for the American League team after Al Rosen resigned "to explore several other business opportunities."

Rosen, in a statement issued by the Yankees, said "contrary to speculation, I have not, nor will I, accept any of those business opportunities in the near future."

Rosen's resignation, which had been rumored for several days, apparently was triggered by a dispute between Rosen, Steinbrenner and Manager Billy Martin.

Martin, who has been embroiled in controversy several times during his two tenures as manager, said of Rosen: "I feel sorry for him."

In accepting the resignation, Steinbrenner, after two days of meetings and conversations with Rosen, said in a statement: "When he (Rosen) told me of one of the opportunities, I gave him my best advice. I did not see, frankly, how he could turn such an offer down."

Missed Sign Helps Red Sox

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Larry Wolfe was supposed to be sacrificing Rick Burleson to second. Instead, he got Burleson and himself all the way home — and the Boston Red Sox closer to the top of the American League East.

"I thought the hit-and-run was on," Wolfe said after misreading a bunt sign from third base coach Eddie Yost, swinging away and hitting his third home run of the season to break a fifth-inning tie and help the Red Sox beat Seattle 7-1 Thursday night.

In the rest of the AL, Baltimore split with California, taking the nightcap 3-0 and losing the opener 4-3. New York mauls Oakland 10-2. Milwaukee beat Toronto 3-2 in 11 innings. Detroit defeated Minnesota 8-3. Cleveland nipped Kansas City 2-1, and, in twinbill, Chicago swept Texas 9-6 and 5-4.

"I found out I was wrong (on Yost's sign) when I got back to the dugout," Wolfe said. "They told me it will cost a $2 fine from the Kangaroo Court." To which Manager Don Zimmer said, "It's going to cost him $5. I'm glad he hit the homer."

Dennis Eckersley scattered six Seattle hits and was nicked for the Mariners' only run in the fourth inning when Dan Meyer singled and Leon Roberts tripled. Angels 4-0, Orioles 3-3.

Gary Roenicke drove in two runs and Mike Flanagan pitched a six-hitter to give Baltimore its split in the second game. California won the first game when Dan Ford's single broke an 11th-inning tie.

Yankees 10, A's 2

Luis Tiant checked virtually everyone on Oakland — Jeff Newman hit a pair of solo homers — while Reggie Jackson hit a two-run homer and Brian Doyle drove in three runs with a double and a bases-loaded walk in the Yankees' victory.

A bobbled bunt and a wild pitch spelled trouble for Kansas City's Dennis Leonard, who allowed only five hits in losing the game. In the first, Leonard bobbled Toby Harrah's bunt. Andre Thornton singled, scoring one. Then Leonard wild-pitched Harrah to third, from where he scored on Cliff Johnson's sacrifice fly.

White Sox 9-5, Rangers 6-4
Ralph Garr was Chicago's big gun with a two-run homer in each game against the Rangers. Chet Lemon also homered for the White Sox in the nightcap while Richie Zisk had a two-run clout and Pat Putnam and Buddy Bell solo shots for Texas.

Virginia Is Ahead

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Led by Kandi Kessler and Virginia Amateur champion Jane Mack, the top women golfers of the two Virginias have taken a 12-11 edge in their 23-year series of team matches with women from the Carolinas.

Although the Carolinas team edged the Virginias 15-14 in Thursday's last round of best-ball play, the home golfers' 14-point lead built up Tuesday and Wednesday over the Kingsmill course added up to a victory margin of 51-38.

The 16-year-old Kessler from Charlottesville, Va., had an eagle and four birdies as she posted a 3-under-par 68 on her own ball. She and Sue Vail of Wheeling, W.Va., combined for a 21-12 decision.

Brewers 3, Blue Jays 2
Ben Oglivie's one-out homer in the eighth inning boosted the Brewers into a tie with Toronto, then Sixto Lezcano's one-out shot in the 11th beat the Blue Jays. Bill Castro got his third victory without a loss with 3 2/3 innings of shutout relief for Milwaukee.

Tigers 8, Twins 3
Lance Parrish drove in three runs, two with a triple in Detroit's four-run fourth inning against Minnesota, and rookie Pat Underwood won his fifth game without loss with ninth-inning relief from Aurelio Lopez. Rusty Staub added two RBIs for Detroit with a first-inning single off loser Jerry Koosman and a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Drawing Attention

All-American linebacker Tom Cousineau draws attention even without the diamond earring, but the former Ohio State gragger became the first NFL draft pick to prefer the Canadian Football League when he signed with the Montreal Alouettes Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

Cousineau Goes Canadian

NEW YORK (AP) — As a kid, Tom Cousineau never dreamed he'd be a pioneer. Just a couple of months ago, when he was the No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft, the Ohio State All-American linebacker appeared on the verge of accomplishing a childhood ambition: Now he may become known as a sporting trendsetter.

"Any kid in the U.S. playing football grows up dreaming to play in the NFL," Cousineau said Thursday after signing a multiyear contract with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. "I'm no exception but this is a very positive move."

Pitt Beaten...

Bass and Joe Stephenson walked with one away, and after a strikeout, Stanley Adams got a base on balls to load the bases. Richard Upton hit a long fly ball to center that Shank dove for and missed and got a double out of it with Bass and Stephenson scoring. Adams was thrown out at the plate.
Pete Norris walked to start off the sixth for Johnston County and moved to second on a balk. He scored when Tim Barbour reached on an error and Barbour moved to third on another Pitt misplay.
Roger Byrd and Wayne Brown both walked before Howard came on in relief. He gave up a sacrifice fly to Bass, scoring Barbour, and Byrd came in when Stephenson reached on an error. Adams and Upton both walked to push Brown across and give Johnston County the win.

Johnston added two more runs in the eighth on a single by Adams, a triple by Upton and a single by Norris.
Brown homered with one away in the ninth, and after an error, Stephenson and Gibson walked. Adams singled in Stephenson and Gibson scored on a single by Norris.

Wolcott Holds Southern Lead

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — At 18 Bob Wolcott may be considered by some too youthful to win the prestigious Southern Amateur golf tournament, but if inexperience in such events is to take its toll it will have to wait at least another day.

Wolcott added what he described as a "solid" 71 Thursday to what most felt was a superb opening-round 67 Wednesday to lead the 203-player field by three shots at the halfway mark.

He is three shots in front of his nearest pursuers with a two-round total of 138, six under par on the 6,985-yard Country Club of North Carolina course.

Foremost in the chase to catch the Dickson, Tenn., native are Scott Hoch of Raleigh, Larry Jones of College Park, Md., Frank Fuhrer of Chapel Hill and the 1950 Southern Amateur champion, 60-year-old Dale Morey of High Point. They are grouped three shots under par at 141.

Morey, whose consistent (70-71) performance has made him one of the focal points of the tournament, overcame a 39 on the front nine Thursday with four birdies to close out the back side with a 32.

"I was just too cautious on the front," said Morey. "At my age you'd think I'd learn a thing or two about this game."

Georgia-Florida Leaf Prices Continue Low

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin rebuked domestic tobacco companies for low prices at Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco auctions and urged state farmers Thursday to withhold their top-quality product until prices improve.

Two warehouses in Waycross halted auctions Thursday on their first day of sales, and Blackshear and Douglas warehouses remained closed after shutting their doors shortly after opening for the season Wednesday.

"Tobacco growers have been led to believe that if they would harvest only the better-quality, low-stalk tobacco and bring it to market in clean condition, they could expect a favorable price," Irvin said.

"But prices were lower yesterday than they were a year ago despite increased cost of production," he said.

Yet Irvin, who visited several warehouses Thursday, said he found prices "much improved" over Wednesday's.

About 70 percent of the Georgia tobacco crop is exported, and a spokesman for Irvin said sales may pick up Monday when foreign buyers arrive, increasing competition and prices.

Some disappointed farmers rejected the bids offered Thursday by tobacco companies, since prices continued low on most markets, said Darrell Kirkland of the Federal-State Market News Service.

"Buyers failed to bid on numerous piles offered ... and growers were rejecting some auction bid prices," Kirkland said.

Thursday's preliminary totals for Georgia were 1,786,720 pounds at an average price of $126.54 per hundredweight for a value of $2,260,848. The preliminary Georgia season total is 1,501,637 pounds at $124.60 for $5,608,827.

Preliminary totals for Florida Thursday were 522,472 pounds at $113.10 for $590,925, and for the season 761,969 pounds at $115.63 for $881,097.

For the belt, preliminary Thursday results were 2,309,192 pounds at an average of $123.50 for $2,851,773 total value. For the season, the belt totals were 5,263,606 pounds at $123.30 per hundredweight for $6,489,924.

President Greeters Protestors

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It had been a long, tiresome day. But when Jimmy Carter looked out his bedroom window and saw some visitors out front, he decided to "get dressed" and go greet them.

So, accompanied only by security guards, the shirt-sleeved president went alone to the iron fence along Pennsylvania Avenue, climbed it — to shouts of "Hi, Jim" — and addressed 150 or so surprised but joyous protesters.

Their concern, the plight of Vietnamese boat people, is one Carter shares. "Your spirit of caring for other people is exactly what we need all over this nation," he told them.

"We are going to let Navy ships and planes help find and pick up the boat people," Carter told the youthful crowd, drawing the most enthusiastic applause and cheers of his five-minute appearance.

His announcement was the first public administration comment on reports that such a mercy mission was under consideration. Carter pledged that the United States would "do all we can to save the boat people."

"Together we are going to let everybody on earth know America has a big heart," said the president, without elaborating on the rescue operation or what would be done with the refugees plucked from the high seas.

'Sunshine' Activities

Members of Operation Sunshine have been very busy this summer with trips and various crafts activities, says Gloria Piersall, director.

Some 41 girls involved in the program have been assisting with a puppet show at Sheppard Memorial Library. Many girls have learned how to make puppets at the Greenville Art Center. Members have also been assisting workers at Carver Library on Tuesday Film Days and Thursday Story Hours.

Ms. Piersall says that the girls have been learning about nutrition and table settings, and participating in lots of arts and crafts at the center. Their field trips have included a visit to the Cliffs of the Neuse and the Greenville Police Station.

The Greenville Jayettes will give a party for the girls August 15. "Miss Operation Sunshine" will be crowned at that time. The members are also looking forward to a field trip to Bath. For more information on Operation Sunshine, contact Ms. Piersall, 756-2371.

Alaska Has Hard Time Keeping Up With Time

By ROXANNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — If you live on the East Coast, think about dialing someone in Oregon. What time is it there?

Answer: Subtract three hours. Alaskans have to go through a similar sort of mathematical exercise that involves four time zones within the state alone, plus four in the continental United States—every time they pick up the telephone for business or social calls.

Some want to take the first step toward alleviating the problem—by switching the state capital, now in the Pacific Time Zone, and the communities north of it, to Yukon time.

That would move Juneau clocks an hour closer to Anchorage, which on Alaska Time is now two hours earlier. But it would also put Juneau four hours behind East Coast time—a move that some businessmen and politically astute say would be bad.

"We're continually dominated by the political and economic forces of the East Coast," Fred Koken, a vice president of Foster & Marshall, a Wall Street firm with offices here, told a federal hearing recently. "I'm not so sure that further removing us from their time would be a good idea."

Kit Stewart, a worker in the Department of Environmental Conservation, described the problems of a two-hour time difference with Anchorage in a way that makes one wonder how the state government manages to operate.

"We come to work at 7:30 a.m., to avoid the rush," she said. "We can't call anybody in Anchorage until 10 a.m. But it's no sense calling someone the minute they walk in the door, so you wait a half hour for them to get some coffee and settle in."

"That gives you an hour and a half to call before you go to lunch. By the time you return, you have just one hour before they go to lunch," she said. "Then, there's just two hours before we go home."

"It's an intelligent response to the criticism that state workers are more interested in getting off work to go fishing rather than serve the people," said Mayor Bill Overstreet.

Other Juneau residents say the mental health of the community might be improved if watches were moved back an hour. Milton Hunt, a Lutheran pastor, notes that the summer equinox on June 21 sees darkness arrive at about 12:15 a.m., and lightness follows in just two hours.

Alford Named To Council Role

Pitt County Superintendent of Schools Ott Alford has been named by Governor Jim Hunt to serve as one of 22 members of the Interagency Council on Community Schools.

The Council consists of representatives from agencies and organizations who work with the Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips in interagency work with public schools.

J. Harold Moses of Raleigh, chief of the State Recreation/Park Consulting Services Section of the state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, was named chairman of the council. Mrs. Charlotte Watkins of Charlotte, who has served on the council, was named vice chairman.

Holding Service On Saturday

Services will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Cherry Free Will Baptist Church with the Rev. Louis Clayton giving the sermon and the choir, ushers and congregation of Tabernacle of Victory Church taking part.

The pastor, the Rev. C. R. Parker, invited the public to attend.

Cars Collide On Tenth St.

Cars driven by Mark Arron Conway of 2001 Forrest Hills Dr. and Mary Shanahan Faser of 200 Deerwood Dr. collided yesterday about 5:25 p.m. on Tenth Street, East of the Cedar Lane intersection.

Police Department investigators estimated damage from the collision at $200 to the Conway car and $500 to the Faser vehicle.

Plan Services For Weekend

Quarterly services will be held Saturday and Sunday at Water Side Free Will Baptist Church.

Holy Communion services will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The 11 a.m. service Sunday will be conducted by Bishop W. L. Phillips, assisted by the choir and ushers of the church. The Rev. Robert Phillips and his choir and congregation, will be in charge of the 3 p.m. services.

Miss Universe Contestants Are Shaken Up By Collapsing Stage

CROWNED — The new Miss Universe for 1979, Miss Venezuela (Marita Sayalero) sits in the royal throne after winning the contest held in Australia. (AP Laserphoto)

Associated Press Writer
PERTH, Australia (AP) — Hysterical screams shattered the triumphant climax of the Miss Universe contest today when part of the stage collapsed and pitched eight beauty queens down a 6-foot hole moments after Marita Sayalero of Venezuela took the coveted crown.

The 18-year-old Miss Sayalero was unhurt but Miss Malta, Dain Borg Bartolo, 18, and Miss Turkey, Fusan Tahire Demirtan, 21, were taken to a hospital. Miss Demirtan suffered a concussion and Miss Bartolo was badly bruised.

Officials at the Perth Entertainment Center, where the contest was held, blamed the collapse on the sudden surge of reporters and photographers onto the stage as Miss Sayalero took the throne.

"The back of the stage was designed to hold 75 girls. It was not designed to hold 200 people pushing and shoving," one official said.

The third and fourth place finishers, Miss Britain and Miss Brazil, were among those who fell through the hole that opened in the wooden stage. Seven or eight newspaper people toppled with them.

"There was a rumble and one end of the platform dropped about six feet," said David Tanner, a photographer for the Perth Daily News. "The girls slipped down in a heap, and I fell among them."

Pageant officials hauled the women back to the stage. Miss Brazil, her $3,000 silk chiffon dress torn badly, and several of the other contestants wept hysterically. Others trembled with shock.

Miss Sayalero will reign for a year and collects $18,500 in cash and other prizes.

There were 75 entrants in the Few Regrets In N.C. At Ouster Of Joe Califano

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The reaction of North Carolinians Thursday to the ouster of Joseph Califano as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare was probably best summed up in the words of 2nd District Congressman L.H. Fountain: "Bon Voyage to Joe Califano. I will be interested to learn if Secretary Harris smokes."

Tobacco represents one third of the state's $3 billion agriculture industry, and Califano raised the ire of North Carolinians with his multimillion dollar anti-smoking campaign and his efforts to further desegregation in the University of North Carolina system.

Califano's name was taken in vain several times during opening day sales on the flue-cured Border Belt Wednesday by growers and industry officials who knew his resignation had been submitted and were hoping Carter would accept it.

"He ought to be fired," said 64-year-old James Branch, who manages 1 1/2 acres of tobacco in Lumberton. "All he did was hurt the farmer. He ought to come here and work in the dirt a while and see what it's like."

President Carter announced Thursday he had accepted Califano's resignation and replaced him with Patricia Roberts Harris, former secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

State officials applauded that move but were still cautious about the future of tobacco in the hands of federal officials.

"It is a well-known fact that I have disagreed all along with Mr. Califano, especially with regard to tobacco and our educational program," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said. "I think this is a good move for the Carter administration as far as North Carolina is concerned and will be a relief to the tobacco industry."

However, Graham said Califano's ouster didn't mean the tobacco program was in the clear. "There will still be individuals and organizations who will do their best to destroy this important industry."

That sentiment was echoed by Billy Yeargin, managing director of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee.

"I feel the industry will be carefully scrutinizing the actions of the new secretary of HEW," he said. "We will not be comfortable until we find someone who can regard the tobacco industry with objectivity."

Gov. Jim Hunt said Califano's departure would do much to lift the spirits of tobacco growers and farmers. "It certainly wouldn't hurt anything," Hunt said shortly before the resignation was officially accepted.

Some tobacco industry officials declined comment. Richard Miller, director of media relations for the Tobacco Institute in Washington, said that agency has decided to keep quiet about the matter.

"It's a political matter that transcends our special interests," he said. "We believe comment would be inappropriate." R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in Winston-Salem declined comment also.

Califano's resignation prompted more comment from tobacco men than education circles.

UNC President William Friday said he was not surprised that Califano's resignation had been accepted. "I wish him well," Friday said.

The desegregation case is now in court.

"We should remember that HEW is the defendant in the action, whoever the secretary may be," Fountain said. "Current legal proceedings will, therefore, continue under the new secretary."

"However, I hope that Secretary Harris provides more flexibility when it comes to passing judgment on the merits of proposals submitted by the university."

New Plant Manager

The appointment of Henry Kraus as manager of the Greenville Division of Vermont American Corp. was announced by Lee B. Thomas Jr., president.

Thomas said that Kraus, who replaces Robert Glutting here, was previously production manager of the Greenville plant, which manufactures high speed steel twist drills and router bits.

Prior to joining Vermont American, Kraus served six years as plant manager for the Republic Twist Drill Co. in Chicago, Ill. He has also served as vice president of manufacturing for CJT Industries, a manufacturer of carbide tipped drills.

The new manager and his wife are the parents of six boys.

Vermont American is a Louisville-based manufacturer of a variety of tools for consumer and industry.

Expect Pledge To Aid Exiles

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A two-day U.N. conference on Indochinese refugees opens today with expectations of pledges from the United States and other Western nations to give refuge to more of the homeless and contribute more to the refugee camps.

A verbal battle between Vietnam and China was also expected.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim called the conference at the suggestion of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to seek aid for the hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese and Cambodians that the governments of Thailand, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Indonesia and the Philippines say they can't settle on their territories.

According to U.S. estimates some 57,000 Indochinese refugees made it to safety in Southeast Asian camps last month, while 20,000 to 60,000 were lost at sea.

Although many governments called in advance for Vietnam to stem the refugee flow, Waldheim urged the delegates from 60 to 70 countries to avoid political rhetoric and focus instead on concrete help for the situation. And Vietnam warned it would not be arrested or cross-examined.

Malaysia and Indonesia, two of the main targets of the refugee flood, have indicated qualified support for a plan to set up more refugee transit centers somewhere in the region, backed by some form of guarantee that all refugees will be resettled elsewhere.

Fire-Fighters Are All Women

By JAMES E. WALTERS
Associated Press Writer
FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Their day had started at 6 a.m. in a dense, choking smoke that clung to the mountains, hiding the sun and the fire-ravaged Ponderosa pines.

Now it was nearly dusk in the Coconino National Forest. The 650-acre fire had just been described as under control. And "Apache 7" — a 20-woman, all Indian crew — was ordered to help nine other crews mop up.

The ash-covered forest floor was still smoldering. Dust and smoke were everywhere. Temperatures approached 100.

Regina Massey, mother of two, swung an ax at a suspicious stump. It burst into flames. She swung the ax again and again, until satisfied the stump was out.

Andrea Palmer, college student, a five-gallon water pack strapped to her back, hand-pumped streams of water to douse hot spots.

Apache 7 arrived to fight this fire one day last week after a night-time, 180-mile trip from the Fort Apache Reservation in north-central Arizona. They'd had a brief rest in their sleeping bags in a nearby meadow before being awakened to replace an all-male crew that had been there since 6 o'clock the night before.

"All-women, all-men, we simply call for so many fire-fighting crews," said District Ranger John Sims. "They're supposed to know their jobs, and a crew is assigned where it's needed with no consideration of sex."

The women of Apache 7 would have it no other way. Mostly in their 20s — housewives, mothers, students, fugitives from routine office jobs — they have to be in perfect physical condition.

One requirement, said crew boss Mary Harvey, is to run a mile and a half each morning in 12 minutes or less.

During the summer fire season, they must be ready to drop everything on an emergency basis 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and leave for a forest fire.

The lure? To hear them tell it, mostly money. Also a love of the outdoors and the land.

Their average base pay is $5.20 an hour. When a fire is out of control, hazard pay adds 25 percent. It's time and a half after eight hours. Travel time from home — but not sleeping or eating — counts as work time.

Beverly Stago is the mother of a girl, 7, and a boy, 5. She is in her second season fighting fires.

"I worked in an office," she said, "but the pay is nothing like this. And I love the outdoors."

Grandmother baby-sits the youngsters while she is away.

Miss Harvey says she applied for a job as a secretary with the Bureau of Indian Affairs but switched after talking to women already on fire duty. When not fighting fires, she does forestry chores such as thinning young trees. "I like to be out in the woods," she explained.

Mrs. Massey is married to the crew boss of another Apache unit. She took up fire-fighting in October. Her mother-in-law cares for their two boys when she is away.

Marvene Nozie was on an otherwise all male crew before joining Apache 7 two years ago. She says she learned a lot about fighting fires from the men but prefers an all-women unit.

Eva Hoffman was a police department records clerk. She plans to fight fires each summer as long as she can pass the physical. She is majoring in accounting at Maricopa Tech in Phoenix.

Andrea Palmer majors in home economics at Arizona State University. She and Eva proudly related how they have been able to buy 1979 cars with their fire-fighting earnings.

"Apache 9" is another all-women crew that leaves the reservation as a unit. The two are believed to be the only such roving units. Of 16 crews that remain on the 2,601-square-mile reservation, six are all-women. Are the women equal to men on the job?

Sims, a 30-year Forest Service veteran who is in charge of 250,000 acres south of this fire's range, says:

"Ten years ago, you never saw women in forest fire crews. Then there were a few women in all-male crews.

"The women nowadays are extremely willing and capable up to a point. That's 98 percent of the time. But when it comes to sheer physical strength, it becomes a problem. I'd hate to have Mary, for example, need to pick me up and carry me out of a fire."

He thought a moment and added: "But she'd probably tell you she's already figured that out and has plans for three girls to handle such a job together."

Annoying Symptoms May Follow Childbirth

Since the birth of my third child, I find that I urinate frequently. Even after I do, I sometimes get the feeling that the urination is not complete. Is this an unusual complaint? — Mrs. P.B., Va.

Dear Mrs. B.:

There may indeed be a relationship between the birth of your third child and these annoying symptoms. Some women who have had a number of children may have stretched and weakened the muscles and ligaments that normally hold the bladder in a fixed position.

This weakening may produce a "cystocele" of the urinary bladder which may protrude into the vaginal canal. And this could create the symptoms you describe. Sometimes the muscles and ligaments that keep the rectum in its normal anatomical position may similarly be altered and cause difficulty in bowel movements and some other related symptoms.

The condition is readily recognized by direct examination. Exercises have been tried, to alleviate the symptoms. These are not very effective. In some instances, mechanical devices and pessaries are used to support the weakened structures. When these are not adequate, surgery is used to better strengthen the weakened muscles. The operation has been refined, with new and excellent surgical techniques. It is a safe one and the results are most gratifying.

It's frustrating to go to a drug store and ask for a renewal of a prescription and have the request denied. I was furious with my druggist. It seems to me that this is such an easy thing to do and can spare one an additional visit to the doctor. — Miss B.B., Neb.

At first glance, one would think that you have a right to be irritated. When, however, you project yourself into the position of your pharmacist you will find that your accusation of "unfairness" will actually be converted to a feeling of gratitude.

Doctors prescribe drugs for a specific purpose and for a definite period. When doctors want prescriptions to be renewed at regular intervals, they will indicate this on the prescription. As a protective device, your pharmacist legally cannot refill a prescription drug without the permission of the doctor. Often, he will call the doctor and ask for that permission. Patients, too, will frequently call their doctors and ask if a prescription can be renewed.

This is an age of skepticism. Far too many people are unnecessarily resentful of the forces at work that are, really, in essence, protective, rather than exploitative.

When the patient, doctor and pharmacist is a very valuable one. That bond should not be weakened by annoyance and suspicion.

WARREN COUNTY TO GET SEWAGE PLANT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's plan to scrap Soul City won't interfere with Warren County's sewage plant, officials said.

The officials said HUD would allow Soul City's fire station to be completed with federal funds.

HUD decided June 28 to phase out government backing for Soul City, a project that absorbed $29 million in federal grants and loan guarantees since 1974.

White said at that time he feared McKissick would try to fight the action in court, but McKissick said Thursday, "We are trying to avoid a court fight if at all possible."
