

Rose High Policies Approved By Board Plan Palestinian Debate

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer Three policies relevant to students at Rose High School — on attendance, examination and graduation requirements beginning in 1983 — were approved by members of the Greenville City Board of Education at its action meeting Monday night.

The policies, all discussed in detail in prior sessions, provide for: — Attendance policy — The basic change of the new policy over the old is a system of keeping a record of absences on the basis of each class rather than by a school day basis.

When a student has missed 15 days in a class, an attendance committee will hear the case and recommend to the principal a course of action. Here too student, parents, teachers and assistant principal will be in attendance.

Other parts of the policy stipulate that no notes will be required when a student has been absent unless the administration feels such notes will be helpful in maintaining proper attendance.

Students with an absence record of more than 20 days due to illness must present verification acceptable to the assistant principal in charge of attendance. In such cases, it is the responsibility of the student to apply for the waiver.

— Examination policy — Types of examinations and procedures for giving them are contained in this policy. The exam schedule will not exceed three days; a maximum of two hours exam time will be given to each course;

Also, a student exempted from taking a particular exam may choose to take it anyway, and will receive grade credit for the exam. Exemptions from taking exams are based on a combination of maintaining certain grade averages and regular attendance with established allowable absences.

The policy in effect rewards students with exam exemption based on good attendance as well as maintaining certain grade levels. Thus, a senior who has missed no more than two days, or a junior or sophomore who has missed only one day, but whose grade average is D, can still be exempted from exams.

The examination policy does not apply to six examinations which are mandatory requirements during a student's high school tenure.

— Graduation requirements — In line with a new state policy, graduation requirements effective for students who will graduate in the spring of 1983 were adopted. The 21 course requirement for this and successive groups of graduates include courses taken in the four-year span of grades nine through twelve.

Fourteen directed credits will be required — four in English, three in mathematics, two in science (with biology as one of the two), two in physical education and health, three social studies (U.S. History, Western Cultures, and Government), and seven electives.

Another action approved at Monday night's meeting was the price for extra milk for the coming school year. A decision had not been made earlier due to lack of firm information on a possible statewide milk price increase. In the absence of such an increase, the board adoped recommended prices of nine cents for a half pint of extra milk for students and 17 cents a half-pint for adults. This is a one penny drop in last year's price for students, and a two cents increase over the price charged adults last year.

The resignations of two teachers — David Ryan and Janice Luper Daniels — were accepted.

Both are resigning due to moving out of the area. Gerald McCall, an audiologist and speech clinician, was elected for this new position, one being shared with Pitt County in a joint project for both school systems. The county schools will pay for half of the salary for this position.

McGlohon In Mayor Race

Pitt County native Don McGlohon became the second person to file for the October 9 Greenville mayoral race when he filed as a candidate on Monday.

A 1954 graduate of East Carolina University who served as a pilot in the U.S. Air Force from 1957-1957, McGlohon is president of Hines Agency, Inc., an independent insurance agency.

Commenting on his decision to run for mayor, McGlohon said: "It is important that we work to maintain our good life and the heritage of Greenville as well as to promote comprehensive planning for the present and future growth of our area."

"As mayor," McGlohon added, "I hope to encourage more efficient and productive efforts by all city departments through good business management methods."

He also noted "I am confident that our city manager, departmental officials, and city employees are well qualified and dedicated to working together for the progress of Greenville."

The 47-year old candidate is active in civic, religious and community activities. He is a member of the Greenville-Martinsborough Lions Club, the ECU Pirates Club, a director of the Pitt County Red Cross, a director of the Greenville Country Club, and president of the Rose-Aycock Athletic Foundation.

Frost Departs School Board

Miles Frost, a member of the Greenville City School Board, has resigned. Frost's letter of resignation was accepted by the school board at its August action meeting Monday night.

Frost, a resident of Greenville since March 1973, is moving to High Point to accept a position as head of the Trust Division of the High Point Bank and Trust Company. He has been affiliated with North Carolina National Bank since June 1963.

First appointed to the school board in June 1976, Frost was reappointed by the City Council last June as one of three appointed members in addition to six elected members.

In action related to Frost's resignation, Edward Carter, chairman of the board of education, named Mrs. Nancy Middleton as the replacement for Frost on the joint county-city merger study committee.

The City Council has the responsibility to name a successor to Frost to fill his vacancy on the school board.

Cheers Greet Carter On September 17 Marijuana Trial

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — A hang-glide waterskier, two hot air balloons and a crowd of several thousand welcomed President Carter to Davenport today as the president cruised the Mississippi River on a save-energy crusade.

Carter vowed last month in his "crisis of confidence" television speech to get away from Washington and closer to the people, and he is living up to his pledge on a vacation that doesn't seem much like one.

Today he jumped ship from the sternwheeler Delta Queen to conduct a 45-minute call-in radio show to answer citizens' questions. He also planned to tour an energy-saving project at the John Deere farm implement plant across the river in Moline, Ill.

When Carter arrived here, he found a warm reception at the riverfront. A Dixieland band played and — for a third time in Iowa — Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, showed up to welcome him to this politically important state.

'Cease-Fire'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Leaders of an oil spill task force say they'll use an expected two-day "cease-fire" in the advance of history's largest oil spill to prepare for a second assault.

Coast Guard officials Monday night said reconnaissance flights showed only "a couple" of patches of sheen within 80 miles of the 100-mile-long Padre Island, which took a major greasing last week.

Huge concentrations of the crude oil from a crippled Mexican offshore well cover thousands of square miles of the western Gulf of Mexico, but remain more than 100 miles south of Texas. The northerly flow of the oil is expected to stall at least until Wednesday as winds and currents calm.

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Carter steams down the Mississippi, his senior advisers are gathering at the White House to plan American strategy for the U.N. debate on the Palestinian issue.

That strategy, admitted Robert Strauss, the president's special Mideast negotiator, may be to offer no U.S. proposal whatsoever.

Strauss told reporters on his return from Israel and Egypt Monday that he found "considerable hesitation" in both countries about a number of possible American approaches he suggested in talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We might conclude to do nothing," Strauss said.

This would appear to be in accord with Israel's strong resistance to any U.S.-led effort to modify longstanding Security Council resolutions on the Mideast. Somewhat surprisingly, Strauss found Egypt backing the Israeli view, possibly because a U.S. split with the Begin government could upset continuing peace talks.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was chairing today's meeting with Strauss, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser. Vance interrupted his vacation at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., to try to settle on a U.S. position in time for the opening of the U.N. debate Thursday in New York.

Strauss ended his mission without blaming either Israel or Egypt for the U.S. dilemma. He called them "good and strong partners" in the peace process and said he found they were making even more progress in their own negotiations than he had expected.

But as to the Security Council debate, where the United States is likely to face strong Arab demands to acknowledge Palestinian "rights," Strauss said he returned without any recommendation for Carter.

"I do not know what he is going to decide," the special envoy said.

The goal of the White House meeting is to produce recommendations for Carter's approval by Thursday morning.

The trial of 11 persons arrested here after 8,500 pounds of marijuana were seized by State Bureau of Investigation and Drug Enforcement Administration agents, and Greenville Police Department officers July 24, has been set for September 17.

The defendants, including suspended police sergeant Douglas H. Ross, his wife Marga, his sister-in-law Louise Johnston Whitehurst of Winterville, Mrs. June Miller Edwards of Greenville, and seven out-of-state residents, entered not guilty pleas at arraignment proceedings in Pitt County Superior Court here yesterday.

The seven out-of-state defendants and Ms. Whitehurst were taken into custody at a house trailer on Greenville Boulevard as the marijuana was being moved from a truck to the mobile home.

Ross was arrested in connection with the incident on July 25, while Mrs. Edwards was indicted by a Grand Jury in connection with the case on July 30. Mrs. Ross was arrested July 31.

Officers said the mobile home at which the marijuana was confiscated was owned by Ross and was located about 200 feet from Ross' home.

In addition to the marijuana, which investigators said had a street value of $3.18 million, law enforcement officers confiscated almost $100,000 in cash found in a rental car operated by one of the defendants.

Pastor Heading UF Division

The Rev. Richard Rhea Gammon, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Greenville, will serve as Professional III division chairman for the 1979-80 United Fund campaign in Pitt County.

The announcement was made by East Carolina University Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer, who said, "I appreciate the Rev. Gammon taking on this responsibility as Professional III division chairman. I know he'll do a great job in the 1979 campaign."

Gammon, who was born in Lavras, Minas Gerais, Brazil, received his bachelor's degree from Davidson College and his bachelor of divinity and Th.M. degrees from Union Theological Seminary, Virginia.

He served as pastor to Dunn Presbyterian Church and First Presbyterian Church, Columbia, Tenn., before coming to Greenville in 1958.

The Rev. Gammon and his wife, Flora MacDonnell Gammon, reside in Greenville.

"The verse we learned as children, 'Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean, and the beautiful land,' expresses the idea behind the United Fund," said the Rev. Gammon. "It is not just a few people giving large amounts that makes for success, but many many people taking part, giving $5, $10, $20, and so on that enables the United Fund to assist such a large number of worthwhile projects all over the county. In this way, most citizens of the county can join hands to do something good and worthwhile for others."

Council Bid By R.D. Hunt, Jr.

Robert Hunt Jr., 24 of 503 East Fifth St. filed yesterday with the Pitt County Board of Elections as a candidate for a seat on the Greenville City Council.

Hunt, a Pitt County native, spent most of his life in Granville County before returning to Greenville seven years ago.

An East Carolina University student majoring in geology, Hunt works part-time at Art and Camera Shop here and has his own photography business, Spirit Freelance Photojournalism, specializing in travel and action photography.

Active in programs at the Methodist Student Center here, Hunt said, "since there is such a large percentage of people in Greenville are students, I can help represent that group better."

Hunt added, "I look at it (a seat on the council) as an educational experience."

"One of the things I've been thinking about," Hunt noted, "is getting federal help in reopening the old coal-fired power plant," off West Third Street.

"I don't know how feasible it is," at the present time, Hunt noted, but indicated it might be worth investigating.

Annexation, Rezoning Requests Facing Meet

Five rezoning petitions and an annexation request are among the items scheduled for consideration Wednesday night by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions.

Items on the joint agenda include: revised preliminary plat of Whichport Subdivision on Greenville Boulevard; annexation petition of Tucker Farms and Shenandoah Subdivisions on Greenville

Boulevard S.W. east of Baker Heights;

Request by J. Bryant Kirtrell III and others for rezoning 15.16 acres at the northwest intersection of the Allen Road and Stantonsburg Road from RA-20 to Highway Commercial; request by BCF-JKMW for rezoning 34 acres north of NC 43 across from the East Carolina University Medical School from Flood Plain to R-6;

Final plat of Section I of University Medical Park on the Stantonsburg Road west of the Professional Center; final plat of Tucker Farms, Section III, located on Greenville Boulevard S.W. adjacent to Laughtonhouse Drive;

Final plat of Section I of Quail Ridge on 14th Street Extension across from Windy Ridge; preliminary plat of S & S Mobile Home Park on the Belvoir Highway in the vicinity of State Road 1440; recommendation by the Codes Review Committee; and consideration of a recommendation for the City Council to advertise for public hearings the first three articles of the Subdivision Regulations.

Business on the city agenda includes: preliminary plat of Brooklea Subdivision on the proposed Brownlea Drive north of Kingsbrook Road; request of the Redevelopment Commission for rezoning 27,664 square feet on the north side of 16th Street across from Hopkins Park from R-6 to Office and Institutional;

Request by S. E. Vincent and his wife for rezoning 11,250 square feet on the east side of Memorial Drive across from the Olde London Inn from R-6 to Highway Commercial; request by J. T. Williams for rezoning 24,500 square feet on the south side of T. th Street between Cedar Lane and Greenville

Boulevard from Highway Commercial to Shopping Center;

Final plat of Grayleigh Subdivision; preliminary plat of the Bernice Branch Subdivision adjacent to the Seaboard Coastline Railroad between Airport Road and Dudley Street; and consideration of the withdrawal from dedication of a portion of Railroad Street between Dudley Street and Airport Road.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

INSURANCE INFO

I need some information on National Home Insurance Company — Lifeguard. It's supposed to be a special insurance program for older people who can't get insurance anywhere else. My mother's paying $26 a month for it and I want to be sure it's legitimate. J. M.

Hotline called the Consumer Assistance Division of the N.C. Insurance Commissioner's Office. We were told that the office has no complaints against the company, has licensed it to solicit and advertise in North Carolina, and has no reason to believe that the company does not fulfill the tenets of its policies. If you want more specific information about this company or any other, you may call this division office, 733-2032 or write sending along copies of policies and other pertinent information. The mailing address is 430 N. Salisbury St., Raleigh, N. C. 27603.

KERSHAW FEEDBACK

In response to the Hotline appeal for "who grows kershaw" published last week, we've heard from three. They are Buddy Overton of 1805 Drewry Lane, Greenville; Junior Davenport, in front of the New Blue Warehouse near Farmville; and Raymond McLawhorn, near the Ayden Country Club. Their phone numbers are as follows: Overton, 756-7366; Davenport, 753-4335 (a neighbor, Dick May); and McLawhorn, 746-4636.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Now's the time to plan ahead for a happy holiday season, by using your spare moments to make clever, appealing crochet and felt Christmas tree ornaments. They will be great fund-raisers at charity bazaars, too.

Snowmen, stockings, stars, candy canes and a whole menagerie of whimsical animals will create the most delightful tree you have ever seen. This special Christmas leaflet includes directions for making 14 crocheted ornaments and seven designed to be made from felt.

Each crocheted ornament requires no more than a fourth of an ounce of knitting worsted weight yarn plus a few yards of contrast color for trim, so, many could be made from your supply of leftover yarns.

To obtain directions for making the Christmas ornaments, send your request for Leaflet No. 0-14 with $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-14 by sending check or money order for $11.75 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains the instruction leaflet plus yarn in 10 colors and felt in six colors, and will be sufficient for making three to four dozen ornaments.

Also, if you want to make a crocheted Christmas tree skirt, send $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope for Leaflet No. MC-723 or $11.50 for Kit No. K-723 to Pat Trexler at the same address.

Knit and crochet garments are never really out of fashion, but some years they are more "in" than ever. And from all indications the coming fall and winter season will be the biggest ever

Dear Abby

Hers Is A Sterling Silver Anniversary

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I will soon celebrate my silver wedding anniversary and consider myself the luckiest woman in the world to have been married to this wonderful man for 25 years.

I want to express my appreciation to my husband for all his kindness and understanding, but I'm not very good with words. A friend told me that you published a beautiful tribute to your husband on your 25th wedding anniversary. Please print it again. I could use some ideas.

WILMA IN DENVER

DEAR WILMA: What a coincidence! Your letter reached me on my 40th wedding anniversary, and because those words are as true today as they were 15 years ago, I repeat them with pleasure:

July 2, 1964

Dearest Mort:

Today is a very special day for me. It's my 25th wedding anniversary and I have this to say:

I had a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I've seen two teenagers safely through the traumatic teens, so I know what satisfaction is.

I've prayed, and my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And I've had by my side for 25 beautiful years, the kindest, gentlest, most considerate human being I've ever known, so I know what happiness is.

And because I've known all these things, I know what wealth is.

I love you.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old son and two neighbor boys his age were playing in our small pool in the backyard. Since I'm always within earshot when children are in the pool, I heard my son say, "Let's play like babies without any clothes!" Then they all giggled and took off their swimming trunks. It was a very hot day and I saw no harm in letting them play in the pool for a while unclothed.

Suddenly an older sister of one of the boys appeared, and when she saw her brother naked she raised a big fuss. My son quickly admitted it was his idea. The girl ran home, horrified, and returned with her mother who was practically in hysterics. By that time I had already dressed her son, but the mother dragged him home screaming that he was never to play here again, and spanking him every step of the way.

Abby, is it wrong for small boys to play naked together? Or am I raising a pervert? What do the experts say about children and nudity?

CALIFORNIA MOM

DEAR MOM: The experts say that to make a big deal out of nudity tends to give children the impression that their bodies are "dirty" and something to be ashamed of. Furthermore, it's normal for children to be curious about the bodies of their friends, and it's reassuring to discover that when they've seen one, they've seen 'em all.

for the knit and crochet look.

Knit suits, which are basically sweater-like jackets with matching or coordinating skirts, are to be particularly good this year. If you can't find a suit pattern that appeals to you, simply take a favorite sweater pattern and chart a matching skirt.

If you have an understanding of the relationship between gauge and fitting, you should find it quite easy to do this. I will describe the method for working a skirt that is started at the waist and knitted to the hem. The same principle would apply for a crocheted skirt, however.

First, take your waist measurement and your hip measurement. Then measure a skirt that fits well, is the correct length from waist to hem and is the same width at the hemline as the one you plan to knit.

Some designers feel that skirts should be knitted to exact waist and hip measurements and then be blocked for ease. Personally, I prefer to add one-half to one inch to the waist measurement and one to two inches to the hip measurement, using these figures to determine the proper width at these two points.

In either case, you decide how many stitches to cast on at the waist by multiplying the desired width in inches by the gauge. For example, if you want the front or back section to be 13 inches wide and your gauge is five stitches per inch, you would cast on 65 stitches.

The hip measurement, which usually is approximately seven inches below the waist, will, of course, be larger than the waist measurement, so we have a span of six to seven inches in which to make the necessary increases. In my opinion, a better fit is achieved if these increases are made at each side seam and at two front and two back darts.

To figure position of darts, place markers on needles one-third of the way in from each side seam. You will increase one stitch at each edge and one stitch before and after each marker.

Let's assume that you want the hip measurement to be 10 inches larger than the waist measurement. That would mean that you need to add five inches to the front and the same to the back of the skirt.

You have a span of approximately seven inches in which to make the necessary increases and you will be making four in-

MacDonald Attorneys Stymied By Court's Ruling

By NAOMI KAUFMAN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dr.
Jeffrey MacDonald's attorneys appeared to be taking on the role of prosecutors Monday as they questioned witnesses about statements a former heroin addict made about her possible involvement in the deaths of MacDonald's family.

But their efforts were stymied after U.S. District Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. strictly limited testimony about Helena Stoeckley's out-of-court statements on her actions.

The 27-year-old former addict testified last week she took mescaline and didn't remember where she had been the night the former Green Beret doctor's family was stabbed and bludgeoned to death.

Others said out of the jury's hearing she told them she remembered standing over Mac-Donald with a candle in her hand that dripped blood, not wax, and remembered other scenes at MacDonald's Fort Bragg house.

MacDonald, 35, of Huntington Beach, Calif., is charged with bludgeoning and stabbing to death his pregnant wife Colette, 26, and daughters Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2, in 1970.

He says one of the four intruders, a woman, held a candle and chanted, "Acid is groovy. Kill the pigs."

Dupree said Miss Stoeckley
"absolutely burn(ed) her mind out with opium, heroin, mescaline, LSD" and other drugs,
making her various statements
"clearly untrustworthy."

"The picture emerges of a person whose mind is so far impaired and distorted by this drug addiction that she (is) in an almost constant state of hallucination," he said.

The ruling appeared to stun MacDonald. He said last week after Miss Stoeckley testified he remembered her, "the voice as much as the face."

Defense attorney Bernard Segal argued the Army hearing officer who dropped charges against MacDonald in 1970 urged the government to investigate Miss Stoeckley for possible complicity in the murder. MacDonald was indicted by a federal grand jury in 1975.

"We have here a reversal of roles. Here is the defense doing what the military said in 1970 should be done by the government," he said of the defense's efforts to track down Miss Stoeckley and people she talked to.

James Blackburn, assistant
U.S. attorney, called Miss Stoeckley's statements untrustworthy and not credible.

Dupree's ruling severely restricted answers Segal could get from his witnesses. Each time he asked what Miss Stoeckley had said to them,
Dupree stopped the witnesses from answering.

Segal later started calling his first character witnesses for MacDonald, who has been an emergency room physician at St. Mary Medical Center in Long Beach, Calif., since 1971.

Carmine Welch, who recently retired as an emergency room admitting clerk, testified Mac-Donald's quick action saved her husband's life when he had a blood infection.

She called MacDonald dedi- cated and compassionate.

OPEC Wins A Round In Court, In Absentia

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has won the first round of a price-fixing suit against it without appearing in court.

As hearings on the suit began Monday, U.S. District Judge A.
Andrew Hauk ruled that OPEC could not be a defendant and declared it was not liable for damages under United States antitrust laws. The oil cartel had no representatives present in court.

Hauk left OPEC's 13 member nations as defendants, but expressed doubts as to whether they are subject to U.S. laws or the authority of his court.

The suit, filed last December by the 900,000-member International Association of Machinists, seeks an injunction to block American oil companies from passing OPEC price increases to consumers.

It accuses OPEC and its member nations of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act by fixing prices and contends the oil producers are subject to U.S.
laws because their crude is sold here.

In June, oil ministers meeting in Geneva approved an increase in OPEC's base oil price from $14.55 a barrel to $18, but allowed members to add a $2-per-barrel surcharge and boosted the premium charged for higher-quality oil to $3.50 a barrel. The increases were the largest since prices quadrupled during the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

Hauk said he was removing

OPEC as a defendant in the case because the Vienna-based cartel could not be served with a copy of the complaint. He said its 13 member nations have been served through their embassies.

Hearings, including night sessions if necessary, will continue ised a full ruling Friday.

"Everybody is up in arms about them (OPEC)," he said,
"but the question I have to decide is a legal one."

Hauk said he is "looking for what is the true picture and then the effect" of OPEC's oil-pricing policies. "Do the OPEC nations really set prices or are they set by the marketplace?"
he asked.

He also said he had researched the case thoroughly, a "40 to

School Jobs To Mothers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
About 300 welfare mothers are expected to begin work in the Wake County school system this fall under a pilot program begun by the county to get low-income mothers off the welfare rolls.

"The mothers will ride school buses to their jobs and work as monitors during the ride. At the schools, they will work as teacher aides and custodial, kitchen or clerical workers.

The program was developed by the Wake Department of Social Services, county public schools, the N.C. Employment Security Commission and Wake's federally-funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program.

"This is something we're moving towards and would like each ... county to be able to do," said Linda F. Bowden, state program coordinator.

Forty-five counties have work incentive programs, she said.
CETA will pay the women minimum wage, $2.90 per hour, for the time spent at their job and the time spent as monitors on the buses.

In some cases, county officials said, the county will also provide child care to mothers with younger children who are not in school. The program will attempt to place mothers in the same school with their children.

Ideal Time To Reduce Taxes

Angry homeowners are expressing indignation to county officials across the state over property-value adjustments.

Burke County commissioners were threatened with eggs, rocks and verbal abuse after results of a property evaluation became known.

The much higher valuations placed on homes will, of course, mean higher total tax bills if the tax rate stays the same.

The increase is real enough, of course. There is hardly a homeowner who won't tell you about the increase in value of his house over the years that he has lived in it.

It is, however, also a Catch-22 situation in that the higher value for re-sale purposes also means higher value on the tax books.

It is the kind of situation which led to Proposition 13 in California that limited the amount of property taxes.

Any arbitrary limitation could be harmful to the city and county governments, but certainly property owners need some assurance that re-evaluation is not going to mean tax bills beyond their ability to pay.

Both city and county governments should be assuring the tax payers that there will be economy in their governments. They should be assuring their constituents that as property values soar, the annual tax rate will be reduced. The higher tax values should not be looked on as a bonanza for local governments; rather they represent an ideal time to reduce tax rates so that the amounts paid will be held to a moderate increase.

A Ringside Seat If East Nominated

Most everyone expects Sen. Robert Morgan to seek re-election, but who will be his opposition? Well the Democratic senator may or may not have competition for the party nomination, but it appears now that his Republican opposition could very well be Dr. John East, conservative member of the East Carolina University political science faculty.

It would promise an interesting campaign.

Morgan has strong ties with his alma mater, ECU, and has served as chairman of the board of trustees.

The articulate Dr. East, has previously sought the first congressional district seat as a Republican.

It's a long way to the general election campaign, but we here in the eastern section may have a ring-side seat to the campaigning.

Voted For A Change

By SERGE SCHMEMMANN
Associated Press Writer

After 13 years of military rule, civil war and an oil boom that went bust, Nigeria is nervously returning to civilian rule under an avowed capitalist.

Alhaji Shehu Shagari, the 55-year-old winner of the recent presidential election, is scheduled to take office Oct. 1. His credentials include experience in previous civilian and military governments, a broad power base not limited to one region, religion or tribe, and pluralities won by his National Party of Nigeria in both houses of the new Parliament.

He faces immense problems. Despite oil wealth, the economy is a shambles. The population, 80 million to 100 million, is the largest of any African nation, and the people are sharply divided along religious and tribal lines. And the Nigerians acknowledge that they traditionally have little respect for authority.

The election of the wealthy businessman from northern Nigeria was good news for American and other Western investors. He was considered the most conservative of the candidates and the choice of the business community.

His party's platform promised "to encourage investment in foreign capital services and know-how in Nigeria to the fullest extent and ensure that unjustifiable limitations on drawing profits will be eliminated. NPN will ensure the investment climate of Nigeria is such that foreign investors shall invest and reinvest in Nigeria in preference to other countries."

The election of a free-enterprise man is particularly significant for the United States since it buys about half of Nigeria's oil production. This is the second largest source of oil imported by the United States and accounts for about 6 percent of the 18.7 million barrels the United States consumes.

The Effort To Improve

By BILL NOBLITT

SNOW HILL — It seldom snows in Snow Hill, and if there's an elevation worthy of the name "hill", it's mighty well hidden.

The name comes from the gleaming white sand on the banks of Contentnea Creek which is now a major community source of recreation, but was once the community's lifeblood as flatboats hauled turpentine and other forest products, then cotton, then tobacco from the flourishing agricultural region of Greene County.

Off the beaten path of major traffic and development in North Carolina's Coastal Plains, Snow Hill is among the least visited and least known county seats in the state. Yet the town's closeness to the booming urban centers of Eastern North Carolina—Snow Hill is central to Wilson, Goldsboro, Kinston and Greenville—may be its most successful claim for attention in a renewed bid for economic growth.

Location

Says a brochure put out by the Greene County Economic Development Commission

(with the help of the regional development institute at East Carolina University): "A location in Greene County... to serve these surrounding cities seems feasible for expansion minded freight lines, retail distribution warehouses, supply centers..."

Greene County, say its boosters, "has the potential of becoming a regional commercial, industrial and agricultural center" by its proximity to the four leading urban places in Eastern North Carolina.

The main street of town is made up of small shops and offices, reached by a shaded boulevard along which gracious, old houses—some in disrepair and some lovingly restored—remind of bygone days. A pretty courthouse, a remodeled Town Hall, some car dealerships, a couple of home-grown eating places where residents say you can get good food and gossip in equal portions, a shining and modern county office building... this is home for some 3,000 residents. The total county population is about 15,000.

almost evenly split black and white.

But if you ever bought a Hallmark Greeting Card, you bought it from a sales rack made in Snow Hill. If your dog has fleas, chances are good you used a Snow Hill product (Happy Jack's) even in Hawaii or Alaska. If you wear a Hampton Shirt, or wear a pair of work gloves, they likely came from Snow Hill.

And that is what Balanced Growth is all about. Local people, living at home where their roots sink deep in Tar Heel soil, working at good jobs making products that sell all around the world.

BILL NOBLITT

The Team

The other day an inspection team hit Snow Hill. The team of bankers, utilities experts, economic developers, state planners, and community resource specialists were greeted by a cross-section of Snow Hill people who showed them pictures and made short talks about: schools, recreation, beautification, the short talks about: schools, recreation, beautification, the self-financed community activities center, nature trails, job training. A tour followed, and while some say the streets and sidewalks had been specially cleaned for the visitation, others insisted the town always looked so good.

The mayor had new brochures; the chairman of the development committee described efforts; people from existing industries talked about their experience in the community (one was from Illinois and had retired, only to remain in Snow Hill rather than going "back north"); and the group sought to impress their visitors with the potential of economic success in Snow Hill.

Thus was the Governor's Community of Excellence Award Program entering its final phase: the selection of Tar Heel communities to share in that honor.

D.C. Amendment Today

WASHINGTON — A year after it was launched toward ratification, the leaky vessel known as the D. C. amendment is breaking up on shoals of indifference. The proposition still has six years to go, but for all practical purposes the amendment may be counted a dead duck.

These are tough times for constitutional amendments. The long-pending Equal Rights Amendment has not picked up a single state since Indiana ratified in January of 1977. The D. C. amendment, which would treat the District of Columbia as a state for certain purposes, has won approval in only six states. Meanwhile the Senate has killed a proposed amendment for direct election of presidents, and the House has killed a proposed amendment to prohibit racial-balance busing. An anti-abortion amendment is stalled in committee. The drive toward a balanced budget amendment has run out of steam.

All this is fine with me. Our Constitution is not flawless. The provisions dealing with presidential election ought prudently to be tightened up; some new mechanism ought to be devised as a check against the power of life-tenured federal judges. But taking one thing with another, the old boat is remarkably sound. It certainly does not need the barnacle-encrusted appendage of the D. C. amendment.

To refresh your recollection: The amendment would provide that for purposes of representation in Congress, election of presidents and ratification of future amendments to the Constitution, the District of Columbia would be treated "as though it were a state." A second section of the resolution says "the exercise of the rights and powers conferred under this article shall be by the people of the District constituting the seat of government, and as shall be provided by the Congress."

Few observers have any idea of what is meant, if anything, by the curious second section. The first section, despite its clumsy phrasing, at least is reasonably clear: It would give Washington, D.C., two seats in the United States Senate and at least one seat in the House.

The resolution cleared the House in March of last year, 289-127; some months later the Senate concurred by a single vote, 67-32. On August 22 the resolution went out to the states for ratification. The response, to put the matter mildly, has been underwhelming.

New Jersey ratified in September, Michigan in November, Ohio in December. Last March brought approval from Massachusetts and Minnesota. Connecticut added its vote of ratification in April. That's the crop.

Meanwhile, Idaho and New Mexico have adopted formal instruments of outright rejection. Delaware, Pennsylvania, Hawaii, Missouri, Arizona, Washington, New Hampshire, Louisiana and California have debated the amendment and failed to pass it. In North Dakota, Wyoming and South Carolina, consideration has been postponed indefinitely. Virginia agreed to a two-year study, which amounts to the

THE INSIDE REPORT

Mondale's Role Damaged

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — White House insiders close to President Carter's Georgia mafia are blaming Vice President Walter F. Mondale's staff for a spate of bad publicity about soon-to-depart White House aide Greg Schnelders, a small tempest that reveals the weakened role of Fritz Mondale in Carter's inner councils.

Minor troubles between the Mondale staff, headed by long-time aide Richard Moe, and the president's own senior staff visibly worsened after Carter installed Gerald Rafeboon as his new image-maker slightly over one year ago.

Now, with Rafeboon about to leave the White House for full-time campaign work on the president's reelection drive and his chief deputy, Schnelders, about to leave for private life—voluntarily, and without prejudice—political intimates of Mondale are exhibiting a certain relish. "If the image-makers were so damn good," one such intimate told us privately, "why are they leaving?"

But in fact, to perceive in the departure of Rafeboon and Schnelders some kind of triumph for Fritz Mondale would be a grave misreading. Indeed, the muted crowing of Mondale men over the alleged downfall of the image-makers conceals this far more important fact: Carter's White House staff changes are all but certain to downgrade Mondale's influence in the brief period remaining in Carter's first term.

While Mondale is touring China for Jimmy Carter, a trip he starts Aug. 24, ex-Time editor Hedley Donovan will be getting accustomed to his new White House role as chief listener, hand-holder and across-the-board strategist for President Carter. That job description closely matches Mondale's own duties in the White House. "Donovan is going to have automatic access to Jimmy," one staffer says, "and he will use it."

In addition, Carter's search for a heavyweight White House counsel, now centered on Lloyd Cutler, one of Washington's super-lawyers, won't stop until Cutler or some one equally high-powered is willing to serve. This concession to the despised Washington establishment will also cut back Mondale's Oval Office role, no matter how many demurrers are heard from the White House. The new White House staff, one Carter insider told us, will be older, more seasoned and less self-conscious, "all of which threatens Mondale."

Other Editors Say Eure's Challenge

(Henderson Dispatch)

If Secretary of State Thad Eure seeks reelection next year, as apparently he is planning to do, he will face perhaps the greatest challenge to continuing his unimpeachable record of efficiency and courteous service in the office. He will be 80 years old by electiontime, more than a year hence, and will have held the office 34 years—most of the time without serious opposition. That would be the chief basis for a challenger, but the secretary even now may make it again.

There are two prospects, both of them from Fayetteville. Former Rep. George Breece ran for the office in 1976 and is again a candidate. State Senator John T. Henly also has aspirations. If both go into the primary against Eure they could kill off each other to assure Eure's win.

By his own admission, Eure boasts of being the "oldest rat in the Democratic barn"; and no serious fault has ever been found in his conduct of the office. That's in his favor, together with continuing good health.

At this distance it would seem unlikely that two candidates from the same city would seek the office. If they did, neither might win. If only one of them, his chances would be more favorable. Any challenger to the secretary must realize that Eure is widely known across the State and through the years has been a popular official.

Eure could retire with distinction after 34 years in office. Should he try still again, and then lose, it would be capping long honorable service with defeat—and mostly because of age and lengthy tenure.

The decision is for the secretary to make. He cannot but know better than any one else what is at stake. Friends through the years may stand firm, but how many would conclude that enough is enough, is only a conjecture. Candidates and officials come and go but Thad Eure seems, figuratively, capable of going on forever. We could wish him well still again in 1980.

Volcker Facing Expectations

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the greatest challenges facing Paul Volcker as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board is to live up to the high expectations his appointment has created on Wall Street.

When President Carter named Volcker last month to succeed G. William Miller in the top job at the nation's central bank, the business and financial communities responded with euphoric approval.

Since that time the stock market has staged an impressive rally, carrying the Dow Jones industrial average to its highest levels of the year.

The price of gold, considered a reliable measure of fear and anxiety among the world's investors, abruptly levelled off after a runaway rise in the preceding weeks.

The driving force behind these developments was the perception of Volcker, with his generally conservative monetary philosophy, as the right man to lead, at last, an all-out effort to fight inflation and get the dollar off the critical list—in short, as something of a miracle worker at a time when a few economic miracles are sorely needed.

The new chairman pledged immediately to take a tough anti-inflation line, and the Fed last week backed up that promise by making borrowed money more expensive, increasing its discount rate to a record 10½ percent.

But no matter who is running the show, the task facing the Fed is a difficult one. As economists at New York's Bankers Trust Co. pointed out:

"The monetary authorities are faced with a real testing in endeavoring to bring down the galloping inflation and put a real damper on inflation psychology, while at the same time preventing the economic decline now under way from turning into a severe and protracted recession."

In addition, the Fed is by no means the only body in Washington that influences the direction of the economy. Many Wall Streeters are fretting that pressures will mount on the Carter administration and Congress to stimulate the economy, rather than cool it off, as the recession develops. Those pressures will be heightened by the approach of the 1980 elections.

It all adds up to a tough setting for anybody, even a miracle worker, to operate in. And many analysts who follow the various markets are fearful that stocks, bonds and the dollar might be vulnerable to a new setback once Volcker's "honeymoon" is over.

For the moment, however, Wall Street is pleased with the philosophy Volcker brings to the Fed—not just his stance on inflation, but his strong views on the dollar as well.

MISSING IN HEAVEN?

Yes, there will be many things missing in heaven. We read in the Bible that there will be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying; neither will there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away. And there will be no more sea, for the sea divides continent from continent and people from people, and as a result, breeds misunderstanding and war.

Surprisingly, there will be no church in heaven. At first that seems like an outright contradiction, but it is not. There will be no need of a church, for a church is a sacred area dedicated to such uses as will make men conscious of God. In heaven the consciousness of God will be widespread. There will be no localized places of worship, no shrines, no sanctuaries.

Of course, the most gratifying absence will be that of death. The Bible says that the last enemy to be destroyed is death. Heaven will be light and life eternal.

Elisha Douglas

Evans-Novak . . .

That may partially account for the continuing assault on Greg Schneiders, Rafshoon's departing deputy, by unnamed attackers believed by Carter men to be close to Fritz Mondale.

Struggles between the Rafshoon-Schneiders image-makers and the vice president's far more liberal staff created tensions almost from the start. At Carter's first domestic summit at Camp David, the decision was made to bring Rafshoon and Schneiders into the White House in Carter's first effort to prop up his presidency by a staff shakeup.

Although never advertised, these struggles centered on Mondale's understandable efforts to promote liberal democratic philosophy in the Hubert Humphrey tradition. Mondale's men lost almost every battle, including a major effort to sell Rafshoon the idea of a media extravaganza to celebrate signing the Humphrey-Hawkins full-employment bill late last year.

So insistent were Mondale's staffers on an elaborate signing ceremony that Rafshoon and Schneiders finally proposed staging the signing not in the Carter White House but in Mondale's state of Minnesota. If the bill had so much political punch, Mondale was told, Carter could arrange to sign it in Minneapolis with Muriel Humphrey getting the first pen.

No thanks, said Mondale, whose Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidates were losing major statewide races in a conservative surge that threatened to bury his party. To Carter's men, that meant Mondale was willing to put Carter's neck on the line, but did not want to risk his own neck. The bill was signed quietly in a modest ceremony at the White House on Oct. 27, just before the midterm election, but the clash left bad feelings.

Mondale staffers also clashed repeatedly with the Rafshoon-Schneiders team over Carter's national health plan. Mondale wanted the president to keep open his options to buy the all-out national health insurance scheme pushed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, feeling the rising conservative tide, Carter's image-makers vetoed that for the smaller Carter version.

So it was that when Schneiders on Aug. 1 told the president he was planning to resign from the White House staff in mid-September, stories spread that he had not quit; he had been fired. In fact, Schneiders confided his intention to quit to close White House friends weeks before the second domestic summit at Camp David early last month. He started domestic summit at Camp David early last month. He started negotiations for teaching a course in politics at Georgetown University as early as last March, long before the Cabinet and White House staff shakeups had even been thought of.

In the annals of the Carter presidency, whether Greg Schneiders quit or was fired is a question of little consequence. But to Schneiders, it is a question that vitally affects whether his re-entry into private life will be as a man who succeeded or a man who failed in his White House job, a distinction that deeply marks any man.

Carter's senior staff insists the resignation was just that. But it suspects that some of Mondale's staffers are venting their frustrations to compensate for old, lost battles and out of concern over Mondale's role in the new White House, unfairly victimizing Schneiders.

Kilpatrick Col. . . .

same thing. Oregon will hold a referendum on the question in November. The other states are yawning indifferently.

The case in favor of ratification is short and simple. Residents of the District of Columbia pay the same federal taxes that others pay; they are subject to the draft, as others are; they are bound by the entire code of federal laws—but they have no vote in Congress on anything. Simple justice, says Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., demands that the District's people be given full representation.

The case against ratification is equally short and simple: The District is not a state; it cannot be made a state for some purposes (but not for all purposes) without doing grave violence to the whole constitutional structure; the District is plainly and simply a city, and as such it is no more entitled to two senators than Phoenix or Indianapolis is entitled to two senators.

Opponents agree that in principle every citizen should have representation in Congress. The proper answer in this case is to cede all of the land area of the District back to Maryland except for the area between the White House and Capitol Hill. To this proposition the people of Maryland respond by saying they wouldn't take the District back if it were handed to them on a platter. The response to that childish attitude is that some problems have no solution, and this is probably one of them.

Lightning Hit

Chemical Tank

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Lightning struck the top of an almost-full chemical tank Monday afternoon, sparking a potentially serious blaze at the Amoco Oil Co., located just outside the city on the Cape Fear River.

Wilmington firefighters, aided by volunteer departments, quickly extinguished the fire, which broke out atop a 127,000-gallon tank containing asphalt and naphtha, a highly flammable liquid.

Firemen cooled the tank with water before climbing to the top of it to extinguish the flames with dry chemicals. Company employees had tried to put out the fire but were thwarted by electrical problems with a water pump.

There were no reported injuries and fire officials said little damage was done to the tank.

Volume And Prices Rise

FARMVILLE — There were no noticeable changes in prices on yesterday's sales of tobacco here, according to Louis Williams, Sales Supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Quality grades of leaf and cutters bringing $1.55 a pound showed an increase in volume, he said. Volume of leaf grades are beginning to increase on each day's sale. Little of nondescript grades were on the floor yesterday. Primings accounted for only a small percentage of volume. Stabilization receipts showed a sharp decline last Thursday and yesterday.

The Farmville Market sold 388,166 pounds for $575,600, for an average of $148.29 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 9,458,176 for $12,944,711, for a season's average of $136.86 per hundred.

Since the date for the monthly information meeting in September falls on Monday, September 3 — Labor Day — the board voted not to hold an informational meeting next month.

Two reports were heard — one from Bob Stewart, Director of Maintenance, on the progress of maintenance work carried out in the schools during the summer months.

On one item, the cleaning of tubes in boilers, which is done by hand, Stewart was asked to come up with cost figures for equipment to do this mechanically and to provide these figures to the board.

The second report a survey of the new North Carolina Open Meetings Law presented by school board attorney Phillip R. Dixon. Dixon concluded his presentation by noting "The amendments to the open meeting law, particularly in the area of executive sessions, are significant." He added he feels it would be advisable for him to hold a workshop session with the board to go more thoroughly into the new statute.

The city school board will meet with Pitt County Commissioners and the Pitt County Board of Education at 5 p.m. Thursday, August 23 in the Law Library in the courthouse. The purpose of the meeting is to seek direction to be taken on the Pitt County Commissioners directive for the two boards to come up with a merger proposal by October 1.

Kucinich Seeks A Second Term

CLEVELAND (AP) — With familiar attacks on big business, banks, utilities and the media, embattled Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich has announced he wants a second two-year term.

The brash, 32-year-old mayor told wildly enthusiastic supporters Monday that he has entered the Oct. 2 non-partisan primary election because he needs another term to solve the city's problems.

Mitchell Sworn Flee Homes In Big Rain, Flood

by good parents who instilled in him good values and the right attitudes," Hunt said.

Former secretary Hyde was out of town and unable to return in time for the morning ceremony but Gov. Hunt said he "pledges his cooperation."

Mitchell, 38, was named by Hunt to the Court of Appeals in 1977. He was chairman of the Governor's Crime Commission.

Mitchell earned his J.D. degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1969. For three years, he served as an assistant attorney general under then Attorney General Robert Morgan, now a U.S. senator.

More than 300 people fled from their homes early today as three inches of rain in less than two hours sent a flash flood gushing through sections of Weirton, W.Va. No one was injured, authorities said.

Residents of some areas of Iowa, Minnesota and Pennsylvania also were alerted about possible flash floods as showers and thundershowers ranged across the nation from the Pacific Northwest through the Northern Plains and from the Mississippi and Ohio valleys to the Great Lakes region. High winds caused some damage near Xenia, Ohio, and Lexington, Ky.

In Weirton, authorities said 150 houses had been damaged by floodwaters, which left several feet of water in one 4-by-6-block area. Gov. Jay Rockefeller ordered in the National Guard and other emergency workers.

The National Weather Service said the floodwaters began receding as the rain tapered off at daybreak, but it warned that showers and thunderstorms were possible again later in the day.

Interrupting Water Service

OCRACOKE, N. C. (AP) — Residents and visitors to this Outer Banks resort can expect to have their water periodically cut off until tonight, when the Ocracoke Water Association plant is back in full service.

A 60-hp motor burned out Sunday night in the plant, knocking one of two units out of service. The breakdown left the island with a water supply at 50 percent of normal and the prospect of periodic cutoffs until the water plant is repaired.

"There's no panic, there's no suffering, and in view of the fact that they do have water periodically through the day, it's no big problem," said Frank Wardlow, chairman of the water association.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR MOUNT OLIVE, N.C.

— Mrs. Jean F. Ackiss, Secretary to Mount Olive College President W. Burkette Raper, will direct the 1979 annual dinner program among the Free Will Baptist churches of eastern North Carolina.

According to Sheriff Tyson, a .38 caliber pistol was apparently used in the suicide.

"If I lived near you I'd have a great place to get 1-hour eyeglass service."

Some big stars get their glasses at PEARLE Vision Center. One reason is, depending upon the prescription, we can make many glasses in 1-hour. We can give you this fast service because we have our own in-store laboratories. So come to PEARLE Vision Center. You've got as good a reason to go as Don Adams does.

We've got contact lenses, too.

STAIN or PAINT?

Cabot's STAINS

Undecided whether to stain or paint? Perhaps this will help: Stains are more economical than paint . . . they cost less, are easier to apply, require less maintenance; stains will not crack, peel, or blister; stains offer unique color effects in a wide color range . . . enhance the beauty of wood grain; stains preserve the wood by penetrating deeply. For building or remodeling, specify trouble-free Cabot's Stains, the original stains and standards for the nation since 1877.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed today amid Wall Street fears that interest rates may be rising too high.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was down .94 to 885.58 at noon.

But advancing issues led declines by a slight margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

While last week's increases in interest rates were greeted warmly by the market as a show of strength for the dollar and economy, many experts say another increase — believed to be in the offing — may do more harm than good.

The Federal Reserve Board has been pushing its interest rates higher in recent days, leading to speculation about further rises in consumer interest rates. And on Monday, Security Pacific Bank of Los Angeles increased its broker loan rate, a move seen by some analysts as a harbinger of a more general increase.

Tesoro Petroleum led the NYSE most-active list at noon, rising 1/4 to 17 1/2.

The NYSE composite index of its more than 1,500 listed common shares fell .03 to 61.99. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .10 to 213.97.

Big Board volume in the first two hours of trading was 17.23

Blame Brakes In Derailment
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A derailment last month that a Union Pacific official called one of the railroad's worst and that turned 80 freight cars into kindling has been blamed on brake failure.
 UP spokesman Barry Combs in Omaha said Monday an obstruction in the brake lining of one of the cars was a "rare occurrence" that prevented the engineer from slowing the train down a hill.
 "The train took the curve too fast, and that was the immediate cause," Combs said of the July 31 accident. "What we were trying to determine was why." Combs said the engineer was not at fault. He said the derailment cost Union Pacific $4.5 million.

Vessels Seized By Coast Guard
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Coast Guard has seized two Taiwanese fishing vessels in the Aleutian Islands for an apparent violation of fishing regulations, a Coast Guard spokesman says.
 The trawlers Highly 301 and Highly 302 from Keelung, Taiwan, were being escorted by the Coast Guard cutter Morgenthau to Kodiak, Alaska, where the case would be turned over to a U.S. Attorney, Petty Officer Ray Massey said Monday.

Fourteen Rebel Kurds Executed By Iranians

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Fourteen more Kurdish rebels were executed early today, raising to 25 the number shot since the weekend in a crackdown by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini on the fight by Iran's ethnic minorities for autonomous home rule.

Radio Tehran said nine men were executed in the western town of Paveh, where Kurdish rebels and government forces fought for three days last week.

The broadcast said Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkali, sent to the Paveh region to try the rebels, found them guilty of "corruption on earth and fighting against God and his prophet."

A firing squad executed five others in a prison courtyard in Kermanshah, south of Paveh, after an Islamic tribunal convicted them of taking part in the fighting, the radio report said.

Eleven other Kurds were executed Saturday night a few hours after government reinforcements regained control of Paveh from armed Kurds who took over the city five days before.

Radio Tehran also reported the execution in Khoramshahr, the Persian Gulf port, of two former agents of SAVAK, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's secret police. This raised to 441 the number of executions announced since the overthrow of the shah in February.

Khomeini ordered more army reinforcements to Kurdistan Province to bolster western-manned garrisons as Kurdish attacks were reported on government installations in several towns in West Azerbaijan to the north.

RAIL DISASTER
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A freight train rammed into a commuter train south of Bangkok early today, killing at least 50 persons and injuring more than 170, railway officials reported.

Early Alert On Meeting
WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence officials told the White House, State Department and intelligence agencies last month that Arab diplomats had suggested U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young meet with an envoy from the Palestine Liberation Organization, it was reported today.

But Carter administration officials did not follow up on the alert by instructing Young not to meet with the PLO official, nor did they check to see whether the meeting took place, The Washington Post said in a story attributed to unidentified intelligence sources.

U.S. policy forbids contacts with the PLO until that organization recognizes the existence of Israel.

Young, in fact, did meet with the PLO observer at the United Nations, Zehdi Labib Terzi, on July 26, just hours after the U.N. ambassadors first made the suggestion to him, the newspaper said.

However, the report said, the intelligence alert did not reach administration officials until four days after the meeting, and it is unclear whether top-ranking policymakers at the White House and State Department ever saw it.

Loses Bid For A Third Trial
MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Former United Mine Workers boss W.A. "Tony" Boyle has lost a bid for a third trial on charges he arranged the assassination of a union rival nine years ago.

In a second trial, Boyle, 77, was convicted in February 1978 of three first-degree murder charges in the Dec. 31, 1969, shooting deaths of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and Yablonski's wife and daughter.

Presiding Judge Francis Catania of Delaware County Court on Monday denied Boyle's request for a new trial and ordered the former union leader to appear Sept. 20 for formal sentencing. The convictions carry a mandatory life sentence.

Sally Little Starts Believing In Self

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Sally Little, looking forward to becoming an American citizen, says maturity is helping her produce the type of golf others anticipated when she left her native South Africa for the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour in 1971.

Little, 27, said she is starting to believe in herself after scoring her fourth victory in nine years Monday at Plymouth Country Club.

Little made a 3-foot putt for par on the final hole to edge defending champion Pat Bradley by one stroke. The putt gave Little a 71 for the final round and an 8-under-par 208 for the 54 holes on the 6,156-yard, par-72 course.

The victory in the Barth Classic was worth $15,000 to Little, the tour's most consistent performer recently with 11 consecutive finishes in the top 10.

"I feel like I'm maturing. I'm coming of age. It's like every week I set goals for myself," she said. "In the past, I used to tee it up without any goals. I'd just go out and try and win, win, win."

"You can't do that. You've got to be in a position to win, and that's being in the Top 10 every week."

Little, who has earned a career high $97,392 in climbing to the No. 6 spot on the tour's money list this year, credits new confidence in her recent performance.

"Ability doesn't mean a thing unless you believe with yourself. It's not a cockiness or anything. It's a very comfortable feeling," she said.

"It's taken me longer than expected to become consistent. There were a lot of things I had to adjust to after coming from a foreign country, but I think I've matured to where I can compete as an equal."

Little, who moved from Dallas to Delray Beach, Fla., earlier this year, plans to become a naturalized citizen in 1981. She said she hopes to eventually have her parents, sister and brother join her in this country.

Little began the final round protecting a 1-stroke edge over Amy Alcott and Dot Germain. She made putts of 10 and 3 feet for birdies on her first two holes to pull away.

But Bradley, who began her defense with an opening round 73, kept charging, and the two were even at 8-under when Little bogeyed the 191-yard par 3 No. 14 hole.

Flanagan Wins 17th, 3-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Ruth and Gehrig. Mantle and Maris. Now add Flanagan and Singleton as one of the potent 12 punches in baseball history.

The only difference is that Singleton does his punching with a bat while Flanagan uses his arm. The two have become a bad case of double trouble to Baltimore's opponents and Monday night was a perfect example.

Singleton continued his amazing support of Flanagan, driving in all the runs as the lefthander pitched the Orioles to a 3-0 victory over the Texas Rangers and became the American League's first 17-game winner.

After Mark Belanger singled in the first inning, Singleton hit his 31st home run of the season and the 14th in games started by Flanagan. He added an RBI double in the third.

The triumph enabled the Orioles to increase their lead in the American League East to five games over the Boston Red Sox, who lost to the Minnesota Twins 10-5. Elsewhere, the California Angels edged the Cleveland Indians 6-5, the New York Yankees bombed the Kansas City Royals 17-4, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Chicago White Sox 5-3, the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Oakland A's 7-3 and the Seattle Mariners turned back the Toronto Blue Jays 7-4.

Singleton has been hitting home runs for Flanagan ever since the pitcher made his debut with the Orioles late in 1975. Of his 89 homers since then, 35 have come in games that Flanagan has pitched.

"He's lucky to have me going out there every four days," Flanagan said. "If I ever got hurt or something he might not hit any more homers."

Twins 10, Red Sox 5
Roger Erickson won his first major league game in almost a year and Ken Landreaux drove in six runs with a homer, triple and double. Erickson, a late replacement for scheduled starter Geoff Zahn, snapped a personal nine-game losing streak, a club record which dated back to Sept. 15, 1978. Landreaux, who had an RBI double in the Twins' four-run first inning, added a three-run homer in the sixth to make it 7-2 and chase loser Mike Torrez. He tripled off Win Remmerswaal in the eighth.

Angels 6, Indians 5
Rookie Tom Donohue hit his third major league home run with one out in the eighth inning to give California the victory and keep the Angels four games ahead of Minnesota in the AL West. Donohue, a last-minute replacement because regular catcher Brian Downing was suffering from muscle spasms in his back, homered off Sid Monge with one out after the Indians tied it with two runs in the top of the eighth on a pair of bases-loaded walks by reliever Mark Clear. Cliff Johnson's first-inning homer gave Cleveland a 3-0 lead but the Angels rallied for five runs in the seventh.

Yankees 17, Royals 4
Jim Spencer homered twice to drive in five runs and Bobby Murcer added a homer and four RBI in an 18-hit attack that powered the Yankees to their biggest scoring spree of the season. They wiped out a 10 Kansas City lead with seven runs in the second inning, including five off loser Rich Gale and two-run singles by Willie Randolph and Reggie Jackson off Steve Mingori.

Brewers 5, White Sox 3
Sal Bando and Dick Davis lined run-scoring doubles in a three-run sixth inning that rallied Milwaukee. With the Brewers trailing 3-2, Ben Oglivie walked and Bando and Davis followed with their RBI doubles off loser Ken Kravec. Davis scored when shortstop Harry Chappas booted Robin Yount's grounder for the game's seventh error.

The White Sox went in front 3-2 in the fifth when Kevin Bell and the 5-foot-3, 150-pound Chappas homered on successive pitches off winner Bill Travers.

Tigers 7, A's 3
Jason Thompson's three-run double broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning as Detroit snapped Oakland's longest winning streak of the year at four games. Lynn Jones' third hit of the game, a double, scored Thompson with the fifth and final run of the rally as Detroit wiped out a 2-1 Oakland lead. Both doubles were off Dave Hamilton, who took over after the Tigers loaded the bases against loser Dave Heaverlo.

Mariners 7, Blue Jays 4
Willie Horton capped Seattle's five-run fifth inning with a tie-breaking three-run homer, his 22nd of the season and 310th of his career. It came off Jesse Jefferson, who had just relieved Toronto starter Butch Edge. Seattle's Mike Parrott went the distance, scattering eight hits. It was his eighth complete game of the season, tying the club record.

NFC Central Up For Grabs This Season

By SCOTT PAPILLON
AP Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — For the first time in many years, nearly every team in the National Football Conference Central Division has a chance to finish in first place — or last.

That's how balanced the division has become since the Minnesota Vikings began losing their grip on supremacy in the last three years. And for 1979, it appears that the Vikings may even slip out of title contention after winning championships in 10 of the last 11 years.

"We'll be as competitive a division as there is," observes Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, whose club is 0-3 in pre-season games.

"The first thing all the other teams start out with is, 'Let's beat the Vikings.' Then they go on from there."

Minnesota has scored only one touchdown in its three exhibition games so far, and misses the direction and leadership once provided by quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who retired last winter.

"They're just not going to be the same team without Tarkenton," said Miami center Jim Langer after the Dolphins beat Minnesota 21-10 last Saturday.

The Vikings, on a string of six straight divisional titles, have logged a record of 30-7-1 against the rest of the division since 1973.

Four-Way Struggle In Works For Big 10

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer
Notre Dame, Purdue and Michigan will be among the football powerhouses this season but hopes of the Midwest providing a national champion appear remote at best.

Notre Dame probably has the toughest opening schedule in the country. The Irish start out at Michigan and Purdue before their home opener against Michigan State.

"We don't think we're going to be 0-3," said Irish Coach Dan Devine. But if the Irish happen to be 3-0 against three of the Big Ten's title contenders, they also have an Oct. 20 date with Southern Cal, the team Devine insists "has to be rated No. 1 in the country."

While the Irish are fretting over a schedule which finds them finishing the season against Miami, Fla., in Tokyo, Japan, the Big Ten race figures to be a four-way struggle involving Purdue, Michigan, Michigan State and Ohio State.

Passing, a phase of the game once frowned upon in the Big Ten, could make even greater strides this season.

"The Big Ten could be a different type of conference this year," said Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers, who emphasizes the passing game and guided the Spartans to a share of the title last season. "There could be seven teams who will average 25 or more passes a game."

Bo Schembechler, dean of Big Ten coaches now that Woody Hayes is no longer in the Ohio State picture, agrees Purdue should be one of the favorites.

"But it is not limited to Purdue," insists Schembechler. "It will have to be Purdue and Ohio State. Both have experienced quarterbacks who are good. Secondly, they don't play each other. That's a big break. But don't count us out. If you do, you're making a big mistake."

Earle Bruce has replaced Hayes at Ohio State but the Buckeyes will be right up there in contention and their leader will be quarterback Art Schlichter who is equally adept at running and passing.

Astros Widen Lead Behind Niekro

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Astros have begun what pitcher Joe Niekro calls their "biggest and most important" road trip of the season, and he says now is the time to run for daylight.

Houston opened a three-game set in New York Monday night with an 8-1 victory over the Mets, snapping a four-game losing streak. Niekro threw a two-hitter and became the first 17-game winner in the National League.

That victory, coupled with Cincinnati's 5-2 loss to Montreal, allowed the Astros to open a 2½-game lead over the Reds in the NL West Division. After the Mets series, Houston moves to Philadelphia for three games, then winds up its road trip in Montreal with three games. The Astros won't see the Astrodome again until Aug. 31, when the Mets pay a visit. "We can't just relax at any time," said Niekro, who walked three and fanned six. "We have to play like we did early in the year. A couple of one-run victories will give us a better mental attitude."

In the rest of the league, Pittsburgh outlasted San Francisco 6-5 in a rain-delayed contest, the Chicago Cubs edged Los Angeles 2-1, Atlanta downed Philadelphia 5-2 and St. Louis rallied to beat San Diego 6-3.

Expos 5, Red 2
Larry Parrish lined two home runs to left, and Tony Perez added a towering shot over the center field wall to power the Expos to their fifth straight victory.

Dan Schatzeder, 9-4, won his fourth in a row with relief help from Scott Sanderson and Woodie Fryman, who got his seventh save.

Parrish now has 19 homers on the season, Perez 12. George Foster and Johnny Bench homered for Cincinnati. Bench's shot, No. 14 this year, tied Frank Robinson's club record of 324 lifetime. "We had our shots and just didn't deliver," Reds Manager John McNamara said. "Every game is crucial. We just picked up three games on Houston. So we lost one. That's all."

Pirates 6, Giants 5
Pinch runner Alberto Lois scored the winning run on a passed ball by catcher Mike Sadek in the eighth inning, allowing the Pirates to maintain a lead of two games over Montreal and four over Chicago in the NL West.

Pittsburgh tied the game for the third time in the bottom of the fifth on John Milner's sacrifice fly, and a half-inning later, the game was delayed by rain for 3 hours 42 minutes.

Jack Clark had given the Giants a 5-4 lead in the top of the fifth with his 24th home run of the season. Stargell homered for the Pirates, his 23rd.

Cubs 2, Dodgers 1
Barry Foote hits his second homer in two games, and Lynn McGlothen doubled and scored to pace the Cubs to their fifth straight victory. Bruce Sutter pitched the ninth and got his 32nd save, breaking the club record of 31 in 1965 by Ted Abernathy and equaled by Sutter in 1977.

Dusty Baker's 17th homer of the season, off McGlothen in the eighth, provided the Dodgers with their only run.

The NL record for saves is 37 by Clay Carroll and Rollie Fingers, and the major league mark of 38 was set by John Hiller.

"I don't worry about the number of saves," Sutter said. "Winning is important."

Braves 5, Phils 2
Phil Niekro picked up his 16th victory of the year, and Atlanta rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the Phils. Jerry Royster's sacrifice fly snapped a 2-2 tie, then Jeff Burroughs drove in two more runs with a single.

Niekro, who also has lost 16, pitched eight innings before Gene Garber finished up, getting his 20th save.

Cards 5, Padres 3
St. Louis dealt San Diego its seventh straight loss with two runs in the sixth and three more in the seventh, two on a single by Ken Oberkfell. Bernie Carbo and Tony Scott each drove in runs in the seventh, and Carbo added another RBI hit in the seventh off Gaylord Perry.

Silvio Martinez, 11-6, scattered nine hits for the victory.

Anatomy Of A Knuckler
Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves rears back to deliver a knuckle ball in this multiple exposure picture made Monday as Niekro beat the Philadelphia Phillies for his 16th win of the season against 16 losses. It was the seventh straight victory over the Phillies for Niekro, the score was 5-2. (AP Laserphoto)

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 3NT Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♣.

If there is one thing we have learned in our years in bridge, it is never to say never. That is especially true of the adage: "Never finesse against partner."
The contract of three no trump was reached in quick time, and West chose to lead the three of spades. (This was best, but in view of the fact that his hand was entryless, he might have considered leading a short suit in the hope of hitting his partner's suit.) East rose with the ace of spades and continued with the queen, which was allowed to hold. Declarer won the third spade and took the club finesse, losing to East's king.

Unable to return a spade, East shifted to a heart, and declarer easily romped off with the rest of the tricks. The hand was given no further thought—everyone presumed that a normal result had been obtained. In fact, East was guilty of a major bridge crime.
East's proper play at trick one was the queen of spades.

If partner holds the king, the play is immaterial; but South's no trump opening bid makes it likely that he has the king, and it cannot be singleton. East should realize that, if he plays the ace, declarer will hold up the king as long as possible, and surely West cannot have a quick entry card since all the strength is in sight.

South would have been compelled to win the first trick with the king of spades. When East gets in with the king of clubs, he can continue with the ace of spades and another, and West will be able to cash his spades for a one-trick set.
It is true that South can still make the hand by refusing to win the first trick, but that play is hardly rational unless East was in the habit of holding his cards somewhat carelessly and had placed the ace of spades directly in declarer's line of vision. Otherwise, holding up the king could easily result in the defeat of a cold contract because the club finesse might have succeeded, or the missing spades were divided 4-4.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Once Network Nuisance Now Real Problem

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few months ago, it was just a small labor matter, a little bit of tidying up that had to be done as NBC prepared for 1980, the biggest and busiest year in its history.
Then it became something of a nuisance, nothing to fret about, really, but a nuisance. Now it is a problem, one which NBC would earnestly like to resolve. If things go wrong, it could mean disaster in 1980.

The issue is NBC's contract with the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, which represents about 2,300 of NBC's employees (virtually everyone connected with a TV production is in NABET except on-camera people, directors, producers and unit managers).
Even though the current NBC-NABET contract doesn't expire until March 31, 1980, NBC began thinking about the contract as far back as last fall.

There was reason for this farsightedness — the network is playing for incalculable stakes in 1980, the year charted as its turnaround year. Besides its normal entertainment and sports programming, NBC will telecast two presidential primaries, a national election and 150 hours of the Moscow Olymppics.

It is the year that NBC plans to move into No. 1 or No. 2 position in the ratings race, and the network reckoned it didn't need labor negotiations stirring things up. So, NBC asked NABET leaders last fall if the union would go for an 18-month extension of the current contract.
Last May, NBC and NABET negotiators agreed to a deal that would have extended the current contract through the hectic next 18 months. But NABET rank and file strongly rejected the plan, with 60 percent of membership voting "no."

At that point, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service stepped in (at the suggestion, some say, of the State Department).
The FMCS called a meeting between the parties in July, but again, no agreement was reached, except a decision to meet again.

The basic positions of the two sides emerged last week as the two sides met in Washington. Underscoring the unique nature of the dispute is the fact that neither side is placing much emphasis on substantive issues, such as working conditions, which usually play a central role in negotiations.
Rather, NBC seemed almost exclusively concerned with getting an extension; NABET was concerned with money and length of extension, asking for at least three years.

When negotiations closed Friday, NBC forwarded its "final offer" — a three-year extension with overall wage increases of 25 percent. The union negotiators agreed to present the offer to membership without recommendation.
A vote on the offer is expected by mid-September.
Should the rank and file membership reject the suggested package, there would likely be no further negotiations until the contract expires next March, precisely the situation NBC had been wanting to avoid all along.

Film Production 'Blitz' Slated

NEW YORK (AP) — Film and record mogul Robert Stigwood says he plans an 18-month, four-film production blitz in New York City beginning in October.
The movies will carry a total budget of $25 million and are expected to employ more than 1,000 persons. Mayor Ed Koch, who announced Stigwood's plans Monday, vowed the city would "extend all possible cooperation."

The Australian-board Stigwood, known for the parties and promotions that go along with his productions, has made a fortune on such movies as "Grease," "Saturday Night Fever" and "Jesus Christ Superstar." He plans to supervise production from his yacht moored in the Hudson River.

Breaking Box Office Records

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Near capacity crowds are seeing "Apocalypse Now," director Francis Ford Coppola's $31 million Vietnam War epic, in the three theaters where it is playing on a reserved-seat basis.
United Artists reported the long-awaited picture grossed a total of $322,489 in its first five days at New York's Ziegfeld Theater, Toronto's University Theater and the Cinerama Dome here. The film broke box office records on its first day, last Wednesday, at the Toronto and Los Angeles theaters.

Another Says He Is Bandit

By GWEN FLORIO
 Associated Press Writer
 WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Supporters of the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano gasped as Judge Andrew D. Christie announced that another man had confessed to the armed robberies for which the Roman Catholic priest is being tried. But they said later they were not surprised.

Pagano's friends, who have packed the small Wilmington Superior Court room during his two-week trial on charges of being Northern Delaware's "Gentleman Bandit," say they expected something like this all along.

"I'm not the least bit surprised," said Marge Seebode of Cambridge, Md., where Pagano was assistant pastor at St. Mary Refuge of Sinners Church when he was arrested in February on five armed robbery charges and one of attempted robbery.

Pagano was accused then of being the mild-mannered, well-dressed robber who used a small chrome-plated handgun during the heists that netted the robber $1,185.

Attorneys for the 53-year-old priest were preparing to present their defense Monday, a week and a half after testimony began, when Christie made his announcement.

"The court will need some time to evaluate whether to interrupt this trial," he said before excusing jurors until Wednesday.

But before the court recessed, Ronald W. Clouser, 39, of Brookhaven, Pa., appeared with his attorney, Saul Segan of Philadelphia.

Clouser, who identified himself as an industrial engineering coordinator, has not been placed under arrest in Delaware, but is free on $5,000 bail in Pennsylvania pending sentencing for three armed robberies to which he pleaded guilty.

Attorneys were scheduled to meet with Christie late today to discuss whether Pagano's trial would proceed or if the charges against Pagano would be dropped and filed against Clouser instead.

Indicted In Plot To Kill

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A prison inmate serving a life sentence for a first-degree murder conviction was indicted Monday by a Columbus County grand jury on charges of contracting to kill two law enforcement officials involved in his conviction.

James Earl "Jimmy" Britt, 50, who has served six years of his life sentence, was indicted on two counts of soliciting to kill. He allegedly tried to arrange the deaths of District Attorney Joe Freeman Britt and Robeson County Deputy Carl Herring. The two Britts are not related.

Jimmy Britt allegedly paid $10,000 to have Joe Freeman Britt killed and $5,000 to arrange the killing of Herring, Superior Court Judge Giles Clark of Elizabethtown appointed an attorney for Jimmy Britt after Britt said he could not afford one.

Jimmy Britt allegedly made the contract offer while in the Brunswick prison unit in Brunswick County. He was convicted in three trials of first-degree murder in the slaying of Clarence Blackwell of St. Paul's.

Meet Held By NAACP

The Pitt County Chapter of the NAACP met recently at Phillip P. Missionary Baptist Church, Simpson. The meeting was hosted by Clarence Moore and other members of the group.

The president, D.D. Garrett, made some recommendations to conserve energy: 1) Turn-off unnecessary lights. 2) Turn-down hot water heaters. 3) Park your car one day a week. 4) Use electric fans rather than air conditioners when practical.

Communications were read from the state president, Kelly Alexander of Charlotte, and Benjamin Hooks of the New York office.

The communications directed the branch to become more politically involved and to monitor the actions of elected officials.

A report submitted by Joyce Daniels included allegations that discriminatory hiring, firing and promotional activities in several local businesses are taking place.

It was also reported, that there appears to be about 17,000 eligible voters who are not registered in Pitt County.

Sale, Soliciting Permit Okayed

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of a request by the Knights of Columbus for permission to conduct a door-to-door, sidewalk, and merchant solicitation from Sept. 28 through Oct. 6.

Wyatt said the request was submitted by Tom Hanifer of Greenville.

Collect Items For Refugees

Clothing, layettes, towels and soap or blankets are needed by the Church World Service Center in Maryland for international refugees.

The local clothing depot is at St. James United Methodist Church. Clothing should be packed and tied in boxes ready for the pick up truck which will be here the first week in September.

Donors give 15 cents per pound to the secretary at the church which will pay for processing expenses.

REFERENDUM TODAY
 WEST JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP) — Residents of West Jefferson are going to the polls today to decide whether to allow the establishment of an Alcoholic Beverage Control store in town.
