Ballerina Returns Home To Moscow And Mother

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova returned to Moscow and her mother's tears today as U.S. and Soviet officials traded claims that her 73½-hour ordeal was unnecessarily long.

"Please, Mama, don't cry." Then she said again: "Please, Mama, I'm back." The showdown over Miss Vlasova's departure from the United States could have been settled well before the compromise that finally cleared the way for her return to Moscow, U.S. and Soviet officials agreed Monday.

And both sides claimed vindication when Miss Vlasova declared she chose to return to the Soviet Union without her husband, Bolshoi Ballet dancer Alexander Godunov, who defected last week.

Miss Vlasova, who wore a black jumpsuit and red blouse, declined to answer reporters' questions about her defector husband, saying she was "too tired" to talk about the ordeal.

She joined in singing during the return flight and had signed autographs.

Mondale Reveals Carter Visit To China Planned

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
PEKING (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale announced today that Hua Guofeng (Hua Kuo-feng), China's premier and Communist Party chairman, will visit the United States next year and President Carter will visit China.

Mondale said at a news conference after a meeting with Hua that China's top leader accepted Carter's invitation "with delight." He said the dates for Hua's and Carter's visits had not been set.

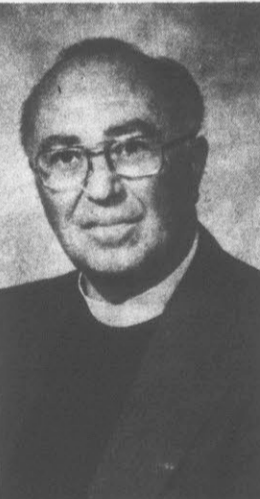

"the first consulate we've had in China in over 30 years," when he visits south China's biggest city during his tour. He said it would have a staff of seven or eight headed by Richard Williams.

Hua said to Mondale he was aware it was his first visit to China and the first by such a high-ranking American since diplomatic relations were established Jan. 1.

Tass said the United States was guilty of "crude provocation" aimed at "worsening Soviet-American relations." It accused the United States of "acts of cruelty" to women and children aboard the jet.

Hadden Seeks Council Seat

The Rev. W. J. (Bill) Hadden Jr., Episcopal East Carolina University campus chaplain, filed Monday for a seat on the Greenville City Council.

REV. WILLIAM J. HADDEN

Hadden, who served on the Council from 1975 to 1977, also serves as part time rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Farmville. He and his wife, Margaret reside in Greenville. They have four children.

The vice president also announced he would open a U.S. consulate in Canton, "the first consulate we've had in China in over 30 years," when he visits south China's biggest city during his tour.

Then he expressed gratification that his speech Monday at Peking University was covered in such full detail in Peking newspapers.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the incident established a principle that foreigners have a right to choose freely whether to leave the United States.

Carter Seeks Council Seat

Edward E. "Ed" Carter, chairman of Greenville City Board of Education for the past six months, today filed for one of six seats on the Greenville City Council.

ED CARTER

Carter, a native of Havelock, received a B.S. degree in physics from Virginia State College in Petersburg, Va., in 1962. While at Virginia State, he was designated as a distinguished military graduate.

Shot By A Dog

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — According to the journalist's rule of thumb it's not news when dog bites man, but when man bites dog, now that's news.

Using that definition, a Thomasville man was involved in quite a story Monday. He was shot by a dog.

Raymond Lemmons, 29, of Rt. 1, Thomasville, was wounded slightly when a dog tripped a loaded .22-caliber rifle in the back of his van.

The bullet struck the clutch plate in the van and a bullet fragment hit Lemmons on the cheek. He was treated and released at Rowan Memorial Hospital.

Two Coeds Arrested In Probe Of Truck Theft

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two 19-year-old East Carolina University co-eds were arrested by Greenville Police last night in connection with the theft of a truck from the Langston Park Apartments parking lot off Stancil Drive, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

ing the scene of an accident after university officers witnessed the stolen truck strike a car parked in a loading area north of Jones Dorm on the campus.

ed car on campus and followed it to Elm Street, near the 14th Street intersection, where two women jumped from the vehicle and ran.

Cannon explained that the truck, owned by Terry Vann Sparrow of 1102 East Wright Rd. was reported stolen at 8:10 p.m. by Carl Gilchrist of 1104 East Wright Rd. who had borrowed the vehicle to move some furniture for his son.

Both Miss Mull and Miss Shannon were taken into custody a short time later.

University police reported an estimated $300 to $400 damage resulted to the truck from the collision. They added that the owner of the parked car involved in the mishap has yet to be identified.

Cannon said Marilyn Catherine Mull of Langston Park, and Mary Susan Shannon of 204 Elm St. were both charged with auto larceny, while Miss Mull was charged with careless and reckless driving, operating left of center and driving without an operators license.

The car had left the scene by the time officers returned to the loading area.

This morning, Gilchrist praised the cooperation and efforts of police agencies in their handling of the case, "from the time it (the truck) was stolen, until they (the two women) were apprehended."

Council Planning Ordinance-Change

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council, after discussing yesterday possible revision action concerning the outdoor advertising sign section of the Zoning Ordinance, adopted a statement of intent to change the existing ordinance.

Meeting in a special call session, Council members voted to issue the statement of intent and to attach the notice to permits for outdoor advertising signs.

advertising sign permits had been considered but it was felt that the action taken yesterday would put permit applicants on notice that an amendment is under consideration and revocation of permits issued now could occur.

The permit attachment points out, "The...City Council is considering an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance which could render this permit invalid. If such an amendment is adopted it could result in revocation or denial of this permit."

The current ordinance lacks an amortization provision that would regulate the length of time a sign would be allowed. The Joint City-County Planning Commission has recommended, among other things, that such an amortization provision be added to the current sign ordinance.

Mayor Percy Cox said that the meeting was made as a special call session in case the Council wished to take some action on the matter.

In addition, copies of the permit with rider attachment will be forwarded to the sign company requesting the permit to serve as notification.

The planning board, which considered the matter at last week's meeting, also suggested that a new section be added to the ordinance allowing outdoor advertising in certain classifications only when the advertised product is sold on the premises. It was also suggested that outdoor advertising be allowed as a permitted use in industrial zoning classifications.

Chief building official Alton Warren said that he had been asked why he was continuing to allow the placement of outdoor signs. He pointed out that under the existing ordinance, he has no way of preventing new billboards as long as they meet the current requirements.

The Council action was taken as a means of initiating

The city's staff attorney, Judy Kornegay, said that efforts will be made to come up with a revised ordinance for Council consideration as soon as possible. It was mentioned that it will probably take a minimum of four weeks to have something ready.

Cox noted that sign companies had indicated to him that the city's sign ordinance is too lax. He mentioned that the ordinance now states that signs can be placed no closer than 300 feet apart. The mayor suggested that 1,000 feet might be a more suitable restriction.

Prime Rate At Record Level

NEW YORK (AP) — Chase Manhattan Bank today raised the prime rate to 12¼ percent, the highest level ever for loans to major corporations.

A moratorium on outdoor

Bobby Roberson, planning director, suggested that the staff study the current ordinance and come up with recommendations for the Council to consider.

Chase, the nation's third largest bank, did not explain the increase from 12 percent, but economic analysts had expected the increase following recent increases in other interest rates.

A public hearing will be scheduled in the future on the ordinance amendment.

The Federal Reserve moved last week to force up short-term interest rates in an effort to control inflation.

Other major banks were expected to match the increase.

Cox Will Serve In United Way

JEANNETTE COX 1

The prime rate is the rate charged to the most credit-worthy corporate borrowers. It does not directly affect consumer interest rates, which are still at 12 percent at many banks, but is widely watched as an indicator of interest rate trends.

Jeannette Cox, president of Jeannette Cox Agency Inc., Greenville, will head the United Way Business II division for Pitt County this year.

BASIC SERVICES

I just got both my city and county tax bills and I'm upset — shades of Proposition 13. Why in the world does a resident of the City of Greenville have to pay so much county tax? The city provides for us, not the county. J. H.

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said he begs to differ with you — that most of the basic services you enjoy are supplied by the county. The city, he said, provides over and above the basics services that an urbanized society requires. He mentioned the following: city schools, public health services, mental health and alcoholism services, tax appraisal, hospital, library, elections, social services, registering of deeds, many services of sheriff department, communications center for emergencies, sheltered workshop, jail, court facilities, clerk of court services, rescue service, and solid waste disposal.

East Carolina University police officials said Miss Mull was also charged with leaving the scene of an accident after university officers witnessed the stolen truck strike a car parked in a loading area north of Jones Dorm on the campus.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm and generally clear weather is expected in the forecast period until Wednesday morning for most of the nation. (AP Laserphoto Map)

High pressure over the western Atlantic is continuing the southerly flow of warm, moist air over North Carolina and there is little change in sight until possibly Thursday or Friday.

Scattered showers and thundershowers are most likely during the afternoon and evening hours through the end of the week. In addition, an upper level disturbance is expected to maintain thundershowers across many parts of the state tonight.

By Thursday or Friday the wind may become more south-west, which would decrease the moisture available for cloudiness and thundershowers.

The forecast called for high temperatures today and again Wednesday well up in the 80s. High temperatures Monday ranged up to 91 degrees at Charlotte. In the mountains, Boone recorded a high of 80.

Scattered thundershowers developed over the state Monday and were most numerous over and near the mountains. However, the most intense storms occurred in the southern coastal plain and Sandhills area.

Serious Crimes In N.C. Grow

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — As North Carolina grows, its crime statistics are growing with it. Serious crime was reported up in North Carolina's five major cities during the first six months of this year compared to last year.

"More serious crimes have been reported during the first six months of 1979 than ever before in the history of North Carolina," said Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, adding that crime statewide has increased about 15 percent since the beginning of the year.

"There is no doubt about it," Edmisten said. "I think you'll see a crime wave coming unless something is done."

"North Carolina is a prime target for crime because we are growing so rapidly," Edmisten said. "With an increase in population, you get an increase in crime. We ought to say right now that we are not going to put up with it."

Durham led in the crime statistics with a 43.14 percent increase during the first six months of 1978 compared with 1979.

Raleigh came next with a 29.3 percent increase in serious crime; Winston-Salem with 19.65 percent; Greensboro with 9.85 percent and Charlotte with a .74 percent increase.

Edmisten said the larger increase in Durham's rate could be attributed to recent turmoil in the city's public safety operations. "But I think that things are going to be ironed out very soon," he said.

The State Bureau of Investigation recently probed allegations of drug and other offenses by police officers. Three former vice squad members were indicted this month on charges of conspiring to sell drugs.

According to figures from the Justice Department Police Information Network, violent crimes increased 8.71 percent while property crimes increased 15.67 percent during the first six months of 1979. Robbery increased 25.61 percent, homicide 20 percent and aggravated assault 3.8 percent. Reported rapes were down 3.85 percent, the first decline since 1976.

Predict 15 Will Die On Holiday

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The N.C. State Motor Club has predicted that 15 persons will lose their lives on the state's roads over the Labor Day weekend.

The state will begin its holiday death count at 6 p.m. Friday and continue through midnight Monday. During the 78-hour period last year, there were 16 deaths and 893 injuries on the state's highways.

Bitten By The Convention Bug

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — In several cities throughout North Carolina, civic leaders are anxious to build new convention and hotel facilities or expand those already standing. It is estimated that conventioners spend more than $50 a day on food, entertainment and shopping while visiting a city. And many city officials are anxious to see that money flowing into local cash registers.

Cities where leaders have been bitten by the convention bug include:

—Raleigh, which expects to add more than 1,000 new hotel rooms within the next two years, including a new $17 million, 360-room Raddison hotel near the downtown Raleigh Civic Center.

—Charlotte, where ground will be broken for a $35 million, 450-room 12-story luxury hotel that will be patterned after the Atlanta Hilton and Atlanta Hyatt hotels.

—Winston-Salem, where city officials are pushing forward with plans for an 18,000-seat downtown coliseum that will be presented to the voters in a $33 million bond referendum, probably in November.

—High Point, where a market feasibility study has been completed and local economic development leaders are hoping for a hotel-convention center-office complex.

—Hickory, where Catawba County voters will decide in November whether a proposed $5 million, 70,000-square-foot civic center will be built with public money.

—Durham, where a feasibility study has been completed on a proposed downtown hotel and public activities center.

—Greensboro, where voters will decide on Oct. 9 whether $7.5 million in public bonds will be sold to finance a downtown convention center.

The Greensboro facility would be built only if a major hotel chain can be persuaded to operate a first-class hotel in conjunction with it. Last week, Loews Corp., which operates 15 hotels in the U.S. and abroad, said it is interested in downtown Greensboro.

Debate Workshop For Pitt Teachers

"Techniques of Debate," "Participation in Debate Tournaments," and "Coaching and Teaching Debate to Middle and High School Students" were some of the topics presented in a two-day workshop for Pitt County teachers of academically talented children. The program, sponsored by the county Exceptional Children's and Community Schools Programs, was held Thursday and Friday at D. H. Conley High School.

Consultant for the two day in-service was Ms. Virginia Sutherland, a debate teacher at Myers Park High School, Charlotte. Ms. Sutherland, district chairman of the National Forensics League, was assisted by Myers Park students Charles Burke, Robert Fields, Stephen Valder and John Gilbert.

Describing debating as "the best single tool that exists for education in the academic world," Ms. Sutherland pointed out that debating hones students' skills in analyzing problems and the ability to formulate and express resolutions in a concise manner. Debating also aids students in gaining insight on major political issues in the United States and the world, according to Ms. Sutherland.

The students from Myers Parks stated that debating was well worth the effort, with one student noting, "Debating is the only class I take in which I do my own homework without an assignment."

Debate will be introduced in classes for academically talented students in Pitt County this school year. Due to interest expressed in the renewing of debate in county schools, plans are underway to form a Pitt County Forensic League.

Desegregation 'Protection' Out Of Court Settlements

CLEVELAND (AP) — City officials have promised police protection for students and anti-busing groups alike when a federal court-ordered desegregation plan begins in Cleveland on Sept. 10.

"The mayor has said he is against busing, but like myself, he has taken an oath to enforce the laws of the city, state and federal governments," Safety Director James W. Barrett told a meeting of 1,200 school administrators Monday. Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich did not attend the meeting.

The limited desegregation plan involves busing 9,500 pupils at 34 schools with a total enrollment of 23,000 pupils. The school system has 92,941 students, of which two-thirds are non-white.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Some victims and the families of some prisoners killed in a 1977 fire at a federal prison will receive $329,000 from the U.S. government in out-of-court lawsuit settlements, authorities say.

In the settlements, made public Monday, the government agreed to pay from $1,000 to $60,000 to each of 14 persons who filed suit in connection with the July 7 fire at the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury. Five inmates died and 70 others were injured.

In the agreements, the government did not admit the negligence and fire-safety violations alleged in the suits. More than a dozen other damage suits resulting from the fire are pending.

Great-looking hand-knit sweaters — never out of fashion — are more important than ever this year. Choose a tweedy, heather yarn to knit a classic cabled pullover, complete with hood.

Directions for this quick-knit sweater, written completely without abbreviations with the beginner in mind, are for small (6-8), medium (10-12) and large (14-16) sizes.

To obtain directions for knitting the hooded pullover, send your request for Leaflet No. 8701 with $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-8701 from Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains the instruction leaflet plus Red Heart Shetland Look yarn (a blend of wool, acrylic and polyester fibers). Send check or money order for $21.00 for small size, $24.00 for medium size, $27.00 for large size, and specify your choice of gray heather, brown heather, blue heather, cranberry or natural.

With fashion editors everywhere proclaiming this as the year of the knit, I'm sure that more and more of you — beginner and experienced knitter alike — will be picking up needles and yarn this year.

So perhaps this would be a good time to give you a few basic tips to make life easier for you.

Frequently you will be instructed to "pick up" a certain number of stitches at the neck edge. The first step is to decide how to space the stitches to be picked up.

You may have some stitches at the back and at the front being held on stitch holders. Let's assume your pattern instructs you to "pick up 78 stitches at neck edge, including stitches on holder."

Then, for example, if you have 32 stitches on the holder for the sweater back and 26 on the holder for the front, you can quickly figure that you need to pick up 20 additional stitches. Divide that figure by two and you then know that you will have to pick up 10 stitches at each side.

If, on the other hand, your directions simply tell you to pick up a certain number of stitches and none have been held on holders, a slightly different procedure is followed. In that case, divide and mark the space into quarters. Divide the total number of stitches to be picked up by four. Then plan to pick up this number of stitches in each quarter.

For instance, if you are directed to pick up 80 stitches, you will need to pick up 20 stitches between each set of markers.

As to the best method of picking up the stitches, I find that a QUICK-KNIT SWEATER... is styled with a hood for cooler months.

crochet hook simplifies this task. Holding your yarn with your left hand and the crochet hook with the right hand, insert hook into the second stitch from the edge and pull a loop of yarn through the knitted edge. Slip this loop onto your knitting needle, forming one stitch. Keep repeating this procedure until the required number of stitches are on the knitting needle. You may find it easier to let several stitches — or loops — remain on the crochet hook, and then slip them all onto the knitting needle at one time.

Left-handers would follow the same instructions except that they would probably be more comfortable holding the yarn in the right hand and the hook in the left.

We have all seen handmade sweaters with unsightly holes at the neck edge. Picking up the stitches through the second stitch from the edge, rather than the first, usually eliminates this problem.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Every cook has her secret. The one I'd like to expose today is the hostess who serves dinner at 9:30 p.m. and sits there beaming while everyone says, "Margaret, how do you do it? Everything tastes so good!" At 9:30 at night she could serve mildewed dishtowel with food stains and we'd fight over it. Social hours have clearly gotten out of hand in this country. Those little periods set aside to have a drink and "unwind" have gotten to the point where a guest becomes so relaxed he cannot cut his own meat. (Well, maybe he could if his head weren't resting on it.) I don't know when "supper" became "dinner" in this country... but I do know it has created a jet lag among those of us who are used to eating at 5:30 or 6:00 in the evening. I'm okay until about 6:30. Then I begin to look for the cracker with the bait on it that I hid under a cocktail napkin in the powder room. By 7:00 I'm ordering exotic drinks just for the fruit. By 7:30 I feign interest in the hostess' children and have been known to shake them down for candy bars.

By 8:00 I'm approaching the hostess with a plaintive, "Anything I can do to help?" By 9:15 I have passed the point of no return. My stomach no longer growls. The silver tray of cheese fluffs no longer titillates me. My clothes hang loosely. My appetite is enjoying a period of remission. I don't want to eat. I just want to go home and go to sleep.

This is when the hostess announces, "Dinner is served." I never sit down at one of those late-night food orgies that I don't wonder what my digestive processes are thinking. I can just visualize my teeth saying to the salivary glands, "Wake up, turkeys! I'm sending you a Cornish game hen stuffed with wild rice, fresh asparagus, tossed salad and brandied fruit."

The salivary glands reply sleepily, "You've got to be kidding!" The esophagus yells, "Would you keep it down? I'm trying to get a little sleep."

At this point the stomach, liver, pancreas, gall bladder, duodenum, small and large intestines stir and groan, "Is she eating at Margaret's again?" My lying lips say, "Margaret, everything tastes so good!"

SUMMER DRINKS
 If you find yourself hot, exhausted and dehydrated after over-exerting yourself on some summer sport, the fluids you've lost through perspiration and breathing need to be replaced. Don't gulp down an ice-cold drink however, it can cause cramps. According to NC Agricultural Extension Service, it's far better to sip slowly on a cool drink.

Pedestrian Safety Recognized

The Pedestrian Safety Award from the Carolina Motor Club to the city of Greenville recognizes the city for prevention of pedestrian fatalities and injuries for the year 1978.

It is an award that has been received by Greenville a number of years dating back to 1950, and it is something to be proud of.

The award represents the traffic accidents, injuries, death, suffering and mental anguish which didn't happen within our city during 1978.

It recognizes the lack of inconvenience and monetary costs which were avoided by prevention of traffic accidents.

It took the cooperation of all our citizens to achieve this distinction and it is a record we hope we can keep going.

The Courts Can't Solve Everything

Somehow we have come around to the unique conclusion in this nation that the courts can fix anything.

Thus it was not surprising that someone brought suit against the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to halt price fixing.

Fortunately a wise federal judge quickly recognized that U. S. laws do not reach to other sovereign nations, and threw the case out.

Perhaps we avoided a situation where we would receive no OPEC oil, or pay even higher prices.

The courts can't do everything for us, and certainly they are powerless to halt the rise in foreign oil prices.

School Chiefs' Dilemma

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Between local desires, changing times, state and federal bureaucracies and increasingly militant special interest groups, local school superintendents in North Carolina are walking a tightrope.

Concern over this increasingly tenuous nature of their community positions and security was much in evidence at a recent statewide conference for superintendents.

The figures verify that concern: this year there have been 17 changes in superintendents in the state's 145 local school units. Also in the past year, almost 200 local school board members have been replaced.

Raleigh Dingman, executive director of the N.C. School Boards Association, feels there is some special problem facing local public school administrators.

"I see the superintendent as the man caught between the horns of a dilemma," says Dingman, who goes on to define that precarious perch:

Hired by a local school board as an educational leader, the superintendent becomes an "administrative functionary" beset by "an avalanche of state and federal regulations".

Local school leaders expect the chief to lead in providing an educational program "that reflects the unique needs of their community", yet state and federal bureaucracies impose conflicting rules and regulations which ignore local concerns and "are not accepted or appreciated by local citizens and the boards who represent them".

At the superintendents' conference, William Pierce, director of the Council of Chief State School Officers talked of the problem.

The role of the administrator has changed greatly, often without local school board members or the public being aware of that phenomenon.

Local school boards are less pliable, teachers are more militant, and the public is more vocal, Pierce maintains. Parents are better educated, and there is a sharp difference in family structure to deal with.

Also, he says, the central office should be provided "as much clerical help ... as possible", and local leaders should take a firm stand in favor of local decision-making powers opposed to state or federal legislation or regulations which erode that power.

Even so, Dingman concedes, there may be no escape for the local school chief caught between the horns of the dilemma.

administrative and management skills.

Troubles

All of this, Pierce says, comes in the face of reduced school funding; more state and federal regulation and financing; and declining student enrollment.

Dingman suggests that local school boards could make the superintendents' lot a less untenable one by simply recognizing the changing situation and the pressures inherent in it.

But what can a single individual do to help, he was asked on a radio call-in show. "The first thing we can do is to count our blessings," the president replied.

Such talk was easy to listen to and the voters who flocked around Jimmy Carter listened well. But unlike the president himself they showed no sign of inspiration or confidence in the way their country is running.

As one top Midwestern party leader told us, they listen because they are polite and because "they know Carter is fighting for his life." They gave him a shot of adrenalin, which is a long way from a cure, a reality that the president and his men may not quite grasp.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Mississippi Adrenalin

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
BURLINGTON, Iowa — President Carter's remark here that he has been "reinspired" by the crowds at his lock-and-dock stops on the Mississippi River revealed a familiar and disturbing paradox of his presidency.

The paradox centers in the president's tendency to confuse image and reality. The reality here was a week-long all-out political campaign for reelection that accomplished little. It was pointed toward the first-in-the-nation Iowa delegate-selection process, now less than five months away.

That reelection campaign, deceptively labeled as a non-political "vacation," did nothing more for Jimmy Carter than a shot of adrenalin for an asthma patient: temporary relief.

The images were pleasant — crowds and banners and a country-fair atmosphere all revolving around the president on the Delta Queen. They were there because Carter has a reputation as a nice guy with a nice smile, his strongest political asset. They were there also because any president is a magnet for voters.

They were not there to show confidence in Jimmy Carter as keeper of the nation's fate. They did not begin to remove the stigma of confusion and incompetence that threatens to make him a one-term president.

A large-bosomed mother pushing against the ropes to shake Carter's hand as he left the Delta Queen at Davenport expressed it bluntly. "If you want to know what I really think, I think he ought to be home working in the White House."

Moreover, the particular target of the president's trip down the Mississippi was far removed from all those jolly crowds on the riverbank: the January precinct caucuses in the first state to start the delegate-selection process for next summer's Democratic national convention. Carter was "reinspired" by those smiling crowds, but many local leaders of the Democratic party were left sulking far away.

"If he's coming out to our city, do it wide open," Democratic Mayor Charles Wright of Davenport told us he advised the White House when he was first contacted about the president's "vacation." But instead of making himself accessible to party leaders, Wright said, "Jimmy Carter used that phony old vacation gimmick and that means as many Republicans and business leaders get to see him as Democrats and labor guys."

Wright's view was prevalent. A former Iowa Democratic state chairman with political clout throughout the party told us he was appalled by the flawed political performance of the White House in preparing for the trip. One example: party vice chairman Jean Haugland was not invited to greet Carter at the Davenport stop until 24 hours before the event. She sent word she couldn't quite make it.

The cost of this insensitivity could be high next January because of the nature of the Iowa caucuses. Carter will be judged not by the voting public — the cheerful throngs that "reinspired" him — but by a small handful of party workers who take the time and trouble to attend those precinct caucuses.

These party operatives were not at all impressed by Carter's sudden turn from preaching the gospel of "malaise" on top of the Camp

David mountain to a line here that echoed Hubert Humphrey's politics of joy. "We're the greatest country on earth, do you agree with that?" he said at the docks of Davenport.

Such talk was easy to listen to and the voters who flocked around Jimmy Carter listened well. But unlike the president himself they showed no sign of inspiration or confidence in the way their country is running.

As one top Midwestern party leader told us, they listen because they are polite and because "they know Carter is fighting for his life." They gave him a shot of adrenalin, which is a long way from a cure, a reality that the president and his men may not quite grasp.

Strength For Today

SECRETS

A house in a newly-built real estate development was recently struck by a truck and badly damaged. The owner was horrified to see what poor quality, undersized lumber had been used in the framing and how carelessly the studding had been cut and nailed in place.

Of course, the contractor who built the house did not know that his secrets would ever be exposed. How many of us, like that contractor, do things we are ashamed of once we are certain that no one will ever know about them? And how often, as it turns out, are we exposed.

Absolute secrecy is almost impossible. We cannot be sure of hiding anything from the sight of others forever, and we can be sure that nothing is hidden from the sight of God. "There is nothing covered," the Bible tells us, "that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known."

Rights, The Quiet Way

WASHINGTON — The Equal Rights Amendment may be dying on the constitutional vine, but its aims are thriving handsomely in the Supreme Court and in Congress. Little by little the women's movement is winning so many battles that it is about to win its war.

That conclusion emerges from a study of Supreme Court cases recently undertaken by Matt Verschelden, a top student at the University of Virginia School of Law. Some of the trends are mixed. The Court plainly is having problems in fixing standards by which sexual discrimination should be judged. In some areas of the law, prospects can be described only as confusing.

But on the whole, women are doing pretty well. Verschelden reviewed 30 cases decided over the past nine terms of the Court. In seven cases the women's movement flatly lost, but two of those losses subsequently were nullified by congressional action. In four other cases, women lost and won at the same time; that is, the Court upheld laws that give women certain advantages not given men.

The other 19 cases constituted clear victories for women's equality under the law. In these cases the Court held that gender classifications violated the concept of equal protection of the laws and could not be sustained by some overriding interest of the state.

First, the lost causes: A unanimous court held summarily in 1972 that Alabama could require a married woman to use her husband's surname in obtaining a driver's license. In 1976, another unanimous court upheld a distinction in the Social Security Act between married women and divorced women. This past term the Court found nothing unconstitutional in a Massachusetts law on veterans' preference. It approved a Georgia statute dealing with illegitimate children. And by a 5-4 vote it upheld a provision of the Social Security Act denying certain benefits to mothers of illegitimate children.

In 1974 and again in 1976, women plaintiffs lost cases having to do with pregnancy benefits under health and accident insurance. The decisions proved so unpopular that Congress last year overturned the Court's ruling by passing an act flatly forbidding employers to treat pregnancy differently from other last-time disabilities. As a cause for gender classification, pregnancy is now an absolute no-no.

In four cases the Court has upheld unequal treatment by reason of sex, but the unequal treatment has rebounded to women's advantage. In Florida, for example, widows retain a special tax exemption not available to widowers. The Navy may treat women officers more favorably than men in certain

Censure Rarely Invoked

Governor Hoey said today he had decided not to change the date of Thanksgiving in North Carolina.

Reasons for changing the date from November 30 to November 23, as suggested by President Roosevelt, "are not impressive," the governor stated.

"After mature consideration," he said, "I have decided that it would be unwise to change the date for Thanksgiving Day, and hence the last Thursday in November will be designated in due time as the official date, which will be November 30."

"For 75 years, the last Thursday in November has been observed in America as a day of thanksgiving. The suggestion that it is too close to Christmas and too far away from Labor Day overlooks the fact that Armistice Day is generally observed." He added, "if Thanksgiving was to come mid-way between Labor Day and Christmas, it would be fixed for early November."

"I am advised that the orphanages in the state have plans for their Thanksgiving offering and a change of date would disrupt their program, and would result in much confusion as to many other observances of the day."

Confirmation On Wednesday?

By CHET CURRIER

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If the projections of some Wall Street analysts are correct, Wednesday's news will bring further confirmation of the much-discussed slowing of the U.S. economy.

The subject of their expectations is the Commerce Department's monthly report on the index of leading indicators — the nearest thing government statisticians have yet developed to an economic crystal ball.

The index is a collection of such data as building permits, stock prices and other indicators which tend to "lead" the general economy, and thus presumably tip off its likely future direction.

Its past record is by no means perfect, and the impact of the preliminary numbers is reduced by the fact that they are almost always revised in later reports. But they still get considerable attention from economy-watchers.

According to the projections of Richard B. Hoey, an economist at the brokerage firm of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc., the July report due Wednesday will show a decline of 0.5 percent.

That would mark a continuation of the erratic downward trend the index has been in for the past several months. The preliminary report for June, subject to revision Wednesday, showed a 0.1 percent decline, following a 0.3 percent rise in May and a sharp 2.1 percent drop in April.

A clearer image of a dropoff in business activity comes into focus when the reading for the second quarter of 140.9 (the index is calculated using a base of 100 in 1967) is compared with its level a year earlier of 141.9.

Hoey said the most significant development among the 12 indicators for July is likely to be a considerable drop in an item called vendor performance, which tallies the number of companies reporting slow delivery of items they have on order.

"We take this as an indication that involuntary inventory building has begun," he said. "When companies begin to get faster delivery from their suppliers, it is evidence that industrial supply-demand is shifting from excess demand to excess supply."

The level of inventories is an important factor in the pace of the economy because of the strong influence it has on production and business earnings. If inventories build up too much in the pipelines of the economy, manufacturers and suppliers at some point start cutting production.

And unsold merchandise is a drag on profits because of the costs of holding it — including interest charges in the many cases in which companies use borrowed money to bridge the gap between the time an item is produced or purchased and the time it is sold.

To date, separate government reports on inventories have shown only modest increases in recent months. But if involuntary inventory-building has indeed begun to take place, that could well change.

 pelled more members than it has censured. It threw one out in 1797 and then 14 during the Civil War, all on charges of treason.
 The House, on the other hand, has expelled three members — all accused of treason during the Civil War — and censured 19.

The Senate may keep censures at the remarkably low number of seven for a while.

Sources say the Ethics Committee's special counsel, Carl Eardley, recommended that Talmadge be added to the list. But some Ethics Committee members are reported looking for a less severe action.

Talmadge, D-Ga., is accused of overcharging the Senate some $50,000 for his official Senate expenses and of diverting campaign contributions to his own use. He denies both charges.

One reason the Senate has censured so few members is that it's appetite for punishment has varied with the times.

For example, it censured both South Carolina senators, Sens. John McLaurin and Benjamin Tillman, for fist-fighting on the Senate floor in 1902.

But in 1850 Sen. Henry S. Foote of Mississippi was not punished for drawing and cocking a loaded revolver on the Senate floor.

The Union Pacific-Credit Mobilier bribery scandal in 1873 led to censure of two House members, but the Senate took no action on a recommendation that one senator be expelled and another censured.

Sen. Timothy Pickens was censured in 1811 for disclosing a secret letter on the Louisiana Purchase, and Sen. Benjamin Tappan of Ohio was censured in 1844 for leaking President John Tyler's message on the annexation of Texas.

A fifth senator, Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, was censured in 1929 for hiring a manufacturing agent to advise him how to vote on a tariff bill.

Then came the recent-times censures of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., in 1954 and Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., in 1967.

Although McCarthy is remembered most for charging Communist infiltration he could not prove, that is not what he was censured for.

 promotions. In the calculation of average wages for Social Security benefits, the Court in 1977 approved a distinction in women's favor.

The 19 victories for women's equality cover a wide range. In cases from Oklahoma and Utah, the Court has knocked out the notion that a different "age of maturity" may be gender-based. If a woman of 18 may buy beer, a male of 18 must be permitted to buy it too. Cases from Missouri and Arkansas have put an end to the special immunity from jury service that women once enjoyed.

This past term the Court broadened the right of women to sue on grounds of discrimination. In Orr vs. Orr the Court ruled 6-3 that Alabama could not impose alimony obligations only on husbands and not on wives. Several cases, notably a case involving Corning Glass in 1974, have ringingly upheld the federal act requiring equal pay for equal work. In other opinions the Court has nullified state laws giving special advantage to males in the probate of estates.

The trend, if I interpret Verscheiden's findings correctly, is toward nullifying state and federal laws that discriminate by sex, unless some compelling public interest can be shown. If this trend continues, most of the purposes of the pending Equal Rights Amendment, other than symbolic purposes, will be accomplished by court decisions backed up by legislative activity.

I would argue that this is the way these purposes should be achieved, by legal evolution rather than by constitutional revolution. The general aims of the ERA command almost universal support. Some of the possible specific consequences cause grave concern. Leg over leg, as they say, the dog goes to Dover. In this same fashion we ought to dogtrot our way to a better day in the law.

HAIRDRESSING
TORONTO (AP) — Women now represent 60 percent of the students in Ontario-licensed hairdressing schools geared to male clientele, and their numbers are growing.

He was censured for "abuse of" two committees that investigated charges against him. One of the committees had recommended censure for McCarthy's "contemptuous, contumacious (insulting) ..." conduct as a senator.

Dodd was censured for alleged diversion of $116,083 from campaign contributions and political fund-raisers to his personal use.

The blame for the larger number of 15 Senate expulsions, of course, goes to the Civil War.

The only exception was Sen. William Blount of Tennessee, who was expelled in 1797 on charges of trying to carry out a plan to seize Spanish Florida and Louisiana with English and Indian help.

Celebrate Summer Reading Program

Over 175 parents, children and friends gathered Thursday at Elm Street Park to celebrate the 1979 summer reading program. "Read the Circus Train Around the World." Festivities included a picnic supper followed by a puppet show, storytelling and the McDonald's Magic Show.

Thursday marked the final day of the summer program. Children attending the picnic earned points by reading a specified number of books. Children participated in the programs at Sheppard Memorial Library, Carver Branch, East Branch, the Bookmobile, and six county school libraries, including A. G. Cox, W. H. Robinson, Chicod, Bethel, Ayden Elementary, and Wellcome Middle. Over 250 children earned the specified number of points during the summer and received paper suitcases with foreign stamps.

The following children were presented trophies as top readers from each unit: Joanie D. Cherry, bookmobile; Carolyn Shanley, Children's Library; Sheila Pearson, East Branch; Ericka Hill, Carver Branch; Jacalyn Gray, A. G. Cox; Kevin Briley and Michelle Ayers, Bethel Elementary; Joey Johnson, Chicod School; Niambi Green, Ayden Elementary; Mike Bacon, Wellcome Middle; Jacob Benton, W. H. Robinson.

Children at the picnic were presented helium balloons with cards attached with each child's name and some information on the reading program. The balloons were released as a grand finale.

The summer reading program was made possible through Sheppard Memorial Library, Pitt County Community Schools Program and McDonald's.

Weaver Watches Palmer—From Stands

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Earl Weaver liked what he saw of Jim Palmer ... on the mound. And Jim Palmer liked his view of Earl Weaver even better ... in the stands.

Weaver, the feisty manager of the high-flying Baltimore

Orioles, began serving a three-game suspension Monday night while the sore-armed Palmer, the Birds' long-time pitching ace, recorded his first victory since June 27, a 5-1 triumph over Minnesota.

"He's a lot easier to ignore when he's 20 rows behind the screen instead of in the dug-out," said Palmer, who has had numerous differences of opinion with Weaver over the fine art of pitching.

Palmer's triumph gave the Orioles a split of a two-night double-header — the Twins took the opener 4-3 — and left them with their biggest lead of the season, seven games ahead of both Boston and Milwaukee in the American League East. The Red Sox edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and recaptured second place by four percentage points over the Brewers, who were beaten by the Kansas City Royals 10-9 in 10 innings.

The three-time champion Royals thus took over second place in the AL West, one-half game ahead of Minnesota and 1½ games behind the California Angels, who lost to the Detroit Tigers 3-2. Elsewhere, rookie Phil Huffman pitched a one-hitter as the Toronto Blue Jays whipped the Oakland A's 7-0, the New York Yankees downed the Texas Rangers 7-4 and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 12 innings.

Royals 10, Brewers 9
Darrell Porter singled off the right field wall with the bases loaded in the 10th inning to drive in the winning run and give the Royals their fifth consecutive triumph. The Royals loaded the bases on singles by Hal McRae and Amos Otis and an intentional walk to George Brett before Porter came through.

Porter also was instrumental in Kansas City's two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth. He delivered an RBI single following a double by Brett and eventually scored the tying run on singles by Al Cowens and Frank White. He also drove in a run with a seventh-inning grounder.

Howell wrapped it up with a grand slam homer in the sixth.

Yankees 7, Rangers 4
Oscar Gamble's fourth-inning grand slam homer against his former teammates lifted New York from a 4-2 deficit to a 6-4 lead. Gamble's blow enabled Tommy John to pick up his 17th victory with help from Ron Davis in the eighth. Singles by Brad Gulden and Willie Randolph and a hit batsman preceded Gamble's second career grand slam.

Mariners 6, Indians 5
Joe Simpson doubled with two out in the 12th inning for his fifth hit and scored the winning run when second baseman Duane Kuiper muffed Bob Stinson's grounder for an error. Stinson's two-run homer gave Seattle a 5-3 lead in the sixth but the Indians tied it with a run in the seventh on Cliff Johnson's homer and another in the ninth on singles by Mike Hargrove and Rick Manning and infield outs by Ron Pruitt and Toby Harrah. Harrah homered in the first inning.

Valentine On Final Roster

At least one former East Carolina University football player has made the final cut, while one of the other two was a victim of that cutdown yesterday.

Zack Valentine, a second-round choice of the Pittsburgh Steelers, was one of five rookies who survived the final cut yesterday by the World Chamions. Of six linebackers retained by the Steelers, Valentine was the only rookie.

"Zack is a player of great physical ability and potential," Steeler coach Chuck Noll said. "He has good size and outstanding speed. His making the transition from defensive end to linebacker was not as much a matter of adjustment since he was a stand-up player in college. He showed tremendous progress during camp, and is obviously learning what we wanted him to do."

Meanwhile, the Baltimore Colts cut defensive back Reggie Pinkney, who had moved to the Colts following several seasons with the Detroit Lions.

Eddie Hicks, a sixth-round draft choice of the New York Giants, was apparently waiting word on his future. Reportedly, the choice was between Hicks and another back, but officials at the Giant office said that the team was not ready early this morning to announce its cuts. Word was expected later today on whether Hicks had made the team.

Drill Not Exciting

East Carolina's Pirates began the final week of pre-season drills yesterday, gearing their work toward Saturday's opener against Western Carolina University.

The long drill, over three hours, was not impressive to Coach Pat Dye, however. "I didn't see a lot of exciting things," he said.

A scrimmage was held for those who did not get to play much in last Thursday's scrimmage, while the first and second units went against Western Carolina's defense both in passing and running. A 20-minute specialty drill was also held.

The Pirates play host to Western on Saturday at 7 p.m. in Fjcklen Stadium.

Coaches On TV

Two members of the East Carolina University football coaching staff will have their own weekly television program, starting Thursday.

Dick Kupec and Frank Orgel will start their weekly show this week. It airs at 11:30 p.m. on Thursdays over WCTI-TV, Channel 12, in New Bern. The station's sports director, Lee Moore, will serve as host.

The show will feature the upcoming game for the Pirates each week, along with special aspects of the East Carolina program and an opportunity to meet players.

Kupec, the offensive line coach, and Orgel, the linebacker coach, will offer fans a preview of each game with a special look at the next opponent and some of that school's leading players as well.

New Viking Coach Optimistic About Conley League Prospects

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — D. H. Conley went into last week's scrimmage against perennial Coastal Conference champ Havelock with only eight plays — four running and four passing.

The Rams, on the other hand, used their full arsenal, scoring twice in the first half and once in the second, while holding the Vikings scoreless.

Despite the lack of scoring punch, the Vikings' play in the second half was encouraging to first-year coach Jimbo Walker.

"The second half was more like a real game," Walker said. "In the first half each team had the ball 12 straight plays and Havelock was throwing everything at us."

"In the second half, when we got to playing more like a regular game, we played them almost even, despite not scoring," he said.

"I was scared to death going up there. Havelock has a pretty good team," he added. Not only that, but according to Walker the Rams had been "having two-day practices while the (Vikings) were practicing only once a day."

"We have the kids coming in every evening and we're trying to teach, practice and condition them all in one two-hour period," he said.

Among the players Walker, a former offensive lineman at East Carolina University, is counting on are two senior running backs, Curtis Joyner and Arnell Credle.

Joyner, 5'9", 155, was honorable mention all-conference last year and is the fastest man on the team, running the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds.

Handing off to Credle and Joyner will be senior quarterback Curtis Spencer, 5'10", 155.

Doing the blocking up front for the Vikings will be sophomore center Ray Crawford (5'10", 165), guards Jeff Cooper (6'0", 191) and Robert Sutton (5'8", 165), and senior tackles James and Jerry Coward.

The Vikings' receivers include tight end Bobby Carmon and flanker Anthony Carmon.

Running from a split backfield, the Vikings will, according to Walker, "pass as much as we have to."

Defensively, D.H. Conley will be led by junior noseguard Kevin Ivey (5'10", 187) and defensive ends Mike Long (5'10", 165) and Bobby Carmon. Senior Jeff Gould, hurt in pre-season practice, is expected back soon and will play one of the defensive line positions.

At linebacker in Walkers 6-2 defense will be Sutton and Tommy Joyner. Back ups include Earl Page, Alfred Ross, David Sutton and Ray Crawford.

Anthony Carmon, Frank Eastwood and Credle will play in the secondary, with Curtis Joyner, Shannon Carson and Chris Daniels as reserves.

Doing the punting and place kicking this season for the Vikings will again be junior Troy Perkins.

Looking at the conference race, Walker said Farmville again will be the team to beat, with Southern Nash and Greene Central close behind.

"We just hope we can whoop the rest of 'em," Walker said. "With some good luck and good defense we can do that."

The Vikings open the season this Friday against at home against West Craven.

How J. H. Hudson keeps your building from costing too much and taking too long:

Putting up a new building too often means paying more than you expected and taking longer than you thought.

The most frequent reason? No one person is clearly in control. That can cause a basic communication breakdown among all parties involved, resulting in confusion, cost overruns and missed deadlines.

But we offer you a team of construction professionals capable of controlling your entire project ... concept to completion.

We can handle all the details — planning, rights-of-way, permits, construction, even landscaping. We'll make sure you get your building on-time and on-budget. And we'll do it using construction methods and building systems that can cut up to 40% off some conventional building timetables.

So if your next building has time and budget limitations, call us. We'll give you both the building and the control you need.

Giant Troubles Team Up For Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Will John Montefusco swallow his words and return to the San Francisco Giants tonight?

"I don't know. That's his decision. I can't tell him what to do," General Manager Spec Richardson said Monday, not sounding too concerned about the pitcher's departure from the Giants' stormy Candlestick Park clubhouse a day earlier.

The Giants open a three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals tonight.

Montefusco, a pitcher in the $200,000-a-year salary range with a 3-5 record this season, was mad at being fined $500, along with three teammates, for breaking one of Manager Joe Altobelli's rules and drinking on an airplane flight during last week's road trip.

Allen Elder and Danny Woods teamed up to shoot a 29 under par 79 to win the 54-hole Monday Bestball Tournament last night at the Putt Putt Golf Course.

Elder and Woods held off a late charge by Steve Johnston and Tim Harris to win by one stroke.

Trailing the leaders by three strokes after 36 holes, Johnston and Harris fell back early in the third round by five strokes before starting their comeback, which fell short at 80.

Third place went to Larry Paul and Steve Taylor with an 83, while Nancy Beacham and Carl White came in fourth with an 84.

Veterans Play Big Role For Tigers

By DICK BRINSTER
Associated Press Writer
CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — It was the biggest play of Jim Stuckey's life, to say the least, but to a certain extent it was overshadowed because it happened the day Woody Hayes said goodbye to America.
Ohio State quarterback Art

Schlichter turned inside and headed for the end zone for what would have been the tying points. But Stuckey, who already had made 11 tackles in the game, held his ground short of the goal and Clemson beat Ohio State 17-15.
It was the 1978 Gator Bowl, a day of glory for Stuckey, his teammates and coaches and Clemson fans.

"Stuckey made a great play," coach Danny Ford said Monday. "He separated him (Schlichter) from the ground."
Moments later, Hayes, before a national television audience, took a few swings at Clemson linebacker Charlie Bauman, whose interception ended Ohio State's last scoring bid.
The effect of this act on the general public was two-fold. The game, never to be forgotten by most fans, put Clemson in the national spotlight and robbed Stuckey of some of the attention he apparently had earned as a result of a great performance.

But Stuckey, an All-America candidate for the Tigers, isn't dwelling on it.
"I didn't know he was going to run that way," said Stuckey, as if to minimize his own performance.
It was true, however, Ford said, that the Tigers expected the Buckeyes to run to the wide side of the field on the two-point conversion that followed their last touchdown.
"A lot of it is being in the right place at the right time," Stuckey said.
His story is one of a kid who dreamed of being an All-America football player. Now 21 and a senior, the defensive tackle from Cayce, S.C., could soon realize that dream.

He has been named to several preseason All-America teams. Postseason recognition is a step away, should he have a good season.
"I want to be regarded as one of the best in the nation," he said. "I'm going to work as hard as I can to achieve that."
Stuckey, like Ford and the Clemson staff members, knows the importance of his contribution. The Tigers, despite a scattering of talented veterans, are youthful, and the experienced juniors and seniors must set an example early in the season.
"I don't know how much the younger players can help us," Ford said. "We hope they play well early in the season and learn a few things."

The key to Clemson's success could well be quarterback Billy Lott, who has spent the better part of his time with the Tigers as an understudy to the great Steve Fuller, who now plies his trade with the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League.
"I have played about 100 downs," Lott told the Atlantic Coast Conference football writers. "The fans may know my name, but I don't think they know very much about my ability."
Ford, who said Lott is being pressed for the starting job by Mike Gasque, is uncertain how the senior signal caller from Jessup, Ga., will react to starting.

"I don't know what he'll do when he's out there before a big crowd," Ford said. "But it might be easier for him to do his job without looking around and seeing Fuller every day."
Lott says he cannot hope to compare himself with Fuller, whose 6,069 career yards lead all Clemson players by more than 2,300 yards.
"But I've been with these guys all the way, even though I wasn't on the field," Lott said. "They know me and have confidence in me."
While Lott and tailback Lester Brown, who gained 1,041 yards last season, must provide offensive spark, linebacker Bubba Brown should aid Stuckey in mastering the defensive troops.

"The tougher it is the better he likes it," Ford said of Bubba Brown. "He's nasty. He plays football the way it's supposed to be played. He's not a dirty person, he just wants the football."
Another weapon in the Tiger arsenal is Nigerian-born placekicker Obed Ariari. His attitude, as summed up by Ford, is perhaps typical of the Clemson team as a unit.
"He wants to be the best kicker in the ACC," Ford said.

Open Tennis Event Starts

NEW YORK (AP) — Bjorn Borg and Chris Evert Lloyd began their bids today for U.S. Open titles. Borg, the four-time Wimbledon champion, is seeking his first, while Lloyd could win an unprecedented fifth women's crown.
Borg looked almost invincible going into the fray. He has played well all year, while his nearest foe, Jimmy Connors, floundered. As one of his colleagues, Gene Mayer, said recently: "By the time you win your fourth Wimbledon, you're pretty confident."
But Borg looked this way last year after winning Wimbledon, only to fall apart against a ferocious Connors in the final.
Connors, the defending champion, is scheduled to play tonight in the first evening match on center court.

Wimbledon final to Martina Navratilova, was beaten for the first time by teen-ager Tracy Austin this spring and has not won an important title all year.
Lloyd has made it back to the top ranking on the Women's Tennis Association computer list, but even the prospect of making history does not provoke much of a battle cry from her.
"In the past, every time I had my back to the wall, I've come through," she said. "And there's never been a year when I haven't won at least one major tournament."
"But it's too hard to tell. I just don't know how hungry I am."
Today, she met Iris Riedel of West Germany.
Navratilova, the second seed, has a first-round bye. Austin plays Argentina's Ivanna Madruga Wednesday.
Billie Jean King was to return to U.S. Open singles action after a year away for rehabilitation of injuries. The 36-year-old ex-champ, who was seeded ninth, was to play Zenda Liess.

Richard Hurls Houston By Expos To Hold Shaky Lead For Astros

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
It's tough seeing the ball with J.R. Richard seemingly in your face.
"He's so darn big, it seems like he's looking down your throat," said Montreal manager Dick Williams after the 6-foot-8 right-hander hurled Houston to a 3-0 victory over the Expos with a sizzling, 12-strikeout, two-hit performance Monday night.
"He sure pitched a gem," said Williams. "If it wasn't for the walks (six), that was the only way we had a shot at him."
Double-figure performances in strikeouts have become commonplace for the hard-throwing pitcher. The 12 strikeouts gave him a major league-leading total of 244 so far this year.

"He's the master," said teammate Enos Cabell, whose sixth-inning single drove in two runs to provide Richard with more than enough support. "He said in the dugout that he was getting tired — but he sure didn't show it."

Reds 4, Phillies 2
Dan Driessen's two-out triple in the ninth inning drove in two runs to spark Cincinnati over Philadelphia. Loser Larry Christensen, 4-10, had a three-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth before the Reds rallied.
The victory kept Cincinnati just a half-game behind Houston in the hot West Division race.

Padres 5, Cubs 4
Paul Dade lined a two-out pinch-hit double in the 10th inning to lift San Diego over Chicago. Kurt Bevacqua led off the Padres 10th with a single but was wiped out on Jim Wilhelm's fielder's choice ground-er. Wilhelm moved to second on a ground ball by Bill Fahey and after an intentional walk to Bill Almon, scored as Dade doubled off Bruce Sutter, working in relief of Willie Hernandez, 4-3.
John D'Acquisto, 9-12, pitched the final 11-3 inning to gain the victory.
The Cubs were trailing 4-2 with two outs and the bases empty when they rallied to tie the game in the ninth.
Dodgers 4, Pirates 2
Dusty Baker singled a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning to power Los Angeles past Pittsburgh. Gary Thomasson singled with one out to launch the Dodgers' winning rally. Von Joshua followed with a pinch single, chasing reliever Kent Tekulve and bringing Enrique Romo out of the bullpen.
Romo got Derrel Thomas to fly to center for the second out. But Baker, who was inserted in the lineup as a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning, hammered a 2-2 pitch over the left-center field wall for his 20th homer.

Ken Brett, 4-3, who relieved starter Don Sutton, earned the victory. Tekulve, 8-7, took the loss.
Mets 2-1, Braves 1-5
Alex Trevino's single in the ninth inning delivered Lee Mazzilli from third with the winning run as New York beat Atlanta in the completion of their suspended game. Jeff Reardon, 1-1, pitched one inning and recorded his first major league victory.
Eddie Solomon scattered seven hits and drove in two runs to help Atlanta win the regularly-scheduled game. Solomon, 6-10, singled in his first three at-bats and drove in the go-ahead run in the fourth inning off Kevin Kobel, 5-8, following a 65-minute rain delay.
Atlanta scored three times in the fifth, driving out Kobel, with Solomon driving in the final run with his third single.

Borg looked this way last year after winning Wimbledon, only to fall apart against a ferocious Connors in the final.
Connors, the defending champion, is scheduled to play tonight in the first evening match on center court.
Borg was to play 1977 NCAA singles champion Matt Mitchell this afternoon. Connors meets Anand Amritraj of India.
Borg's chances look good, but his female counterpart, Lloyd, is perhaps the biggest question in the tournament.
She lost a second consecutive

An Andy Kauffman Reject Show Finally Hits A Network Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Everyone knows what Fred Silverman's idea of a good time is — "Laverne and Shirley" and "Hello, Larry." You want to know what Fred Silverman doesn't like? Watch "Andy's Fun House" tonight on ABC.

This show kicked around for more than two years, shelved because "network executives thought it was too far out for the American public." At last, says Andy Kauffman, that was the explanation offered him. I wonder if it wasn't really just too far out for TV executives. It strikes me that perhaps the reason network TV — especially comedy — is so consistently vapid and uninspired is not because TV executives think viewers are stupid, but because network executives themselves are a little limited.

Andy Kauffman's "Fun House" is a very funny entertainment, a showcase for the various elements comprising a richly talented man. It's also different, which caused its problems.

Kauffman is an artist who deals in the absurd. One of the funniest bits in the show is his singing the perky and sweet little "It's a Small World" to the accompaniment of the burly B Street Conga Band. He interviews Howdy Doodly. Seriously.

Anyway, someone at ABC liked what they saw of Kauffman on "New Dick Van Dyke Show" a few years ago, and the network went after him. Of course, they wanted him for a sitcom.

He makes you laugh, and sitcoms are what everybody's doing, so the answer is obvious, right? Forget that his humor is ill-suited to sitcom structure. Forget that he doesn't want to do a sitcom. This is TV, and in TV, there are certain ways to do things.

"I said I'd do it (a sitcom pilot) if they'd give me a late-night special," Kauffman says. "They agreed, and so I did the sitcom and 'Fun House.'"

The sitcom pilot failed. "Fun House" was never given a chance. "It seems executives in top positions were afraid of it," he says. "Not that it was obscene or anything (it's not), but they thought it was too avant garde and too far out for the American public."

Anyway, ABC gave up on the thing a few years ago, and Kauffman was signed to play the role of Latka Gravas on "Taxi." But "Fun House" was not forgotten. Kauffman showed a tape of the show to friends, and Lorne Michaels, producer of NBC's "Saturday Night Live" was among those who didn't it was too far out.

Kauffman says that "Fun House" was all set to go on in the "Saturday Night" time slot this summer when Silverman,

Iredell People Ask End To Fiddlers Convention

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The annual Union Grove Fiddlers Convention is under fire from Iredell County residents who want it ended.

John Henderson, a local Baptist minister and coordinator of a petition drive against the convention, said he attended the event for about 30 minutes one time.

"It makes Sodom and Gomorrah look like Sesame Street," he said. Petitions signed by more than 4,000 persons were presented to Iredell County District Attorney H.W. "Butch" Zimmerman Monday.

But in a news conference Monday, Zimmerman told more than 30 ministers and members of the media that petitions will have little influence on whether the courts end the convention. Instead, Zimmerman said, a State Bureau of Investigation

Symphony May Play For Pope

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Symphony will forego its usual home at Orchestra Hall to play a special concert at the 2,000-seat Holy Name Cathedral for Pope John Paul II during his October visit, a symphony spokesman says.

According to plans announced Monday, the pope will attend the concert the evening of Oct. 5, after addressing a closed meeting of Roman Catholic bishops and saying an outdoor Mass in Grant Park on the city's lakefront earlier in the day.

Although the pope's itinerary has not been announced officially, he is expected to arrive Oct. 1 in Boston after a flight from Ireland. He is to address the United Nations General Assembly on Oct. 2 in New York, visit Philadelphia on Oct. 3 and make a brief stop in Des Moines on Oct. 4 before arriving in Chicago.

McDevitt One Of 'Several'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — John McDevitt, a former member of the N.C. Utilities Commission, is apparently in contention to become the state's chief consumer advocate before the commission, succeeding Hugh Wells.

Wells was recently appointed to the North Carolina Court of Appeals. While Hunt has talked with McDevitt about the job, Hunt's office said the 66-year-old Durham man is one of several persons under consideration for the $41,450-a-year post.

"The governor did not offer him (McDevitt) a job, and it's still a possibility he may," said Gary Pearce, Hunt's press secretary.

that might unduly complicate matters and, since he had no intention of playing no trump, because of his singleton heart, he chose to jump to three spades. That action is normally reserved for hands with four-card support for partner's suit, but since North expected to find a five-card suit in his partner's hand, he made what we feel is a justifiable exception to the general principle.

West led the fourth-best card in the suit his partner had bid and South paused to consider his prospects. To make the contract, he had to draw trumps and establish the diamonds, but the shortage of trumps complicated matters. After careful thought declarer found a line that needed little more than a 4-2 trump break.

Declarer allowed East to win the first trick with the queen of hearts! East continued a heart and declarer ruffed in dummy. The king and queen of trumps were cashed and a low diamond was led from dummy. Since declarer still retained control of the heart suit, there was no way the defenders could stop him from drawing the remaining trumps and setting up the diamonds for his contract with an overtrick!

Art Carney In Intensive Care

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — Actor Art Carney has been transferred to the intensive care unit of Middlesex Memorial Hospital for observation of several ailments including chest pain, his physician says.

Carney, 60, was admitted to the hospital Thursday after complaining of a variety of symptoms. He was transferred to the intensive care unit Monday after he had arrhythmias, or irregular heartbeats, and some chest pain, according to Dr. Roger W. Cyrus.

"He was really kind of exhausted," Cyrus said. "He's been working hard for at least a year on one film after the other. He's not a young man. He's been burning the candle at both ends."

Recently, Carney has been working in Las Vegas on a film called "Going in Style," which also stars George Burns and Lee Strasberg.

Since Silverman no longer calls shots at ABC, Kauffman brought the show back there to be viewed by Tony Thomopoulos, Silverman's successor. "He said he couldn't understand why the show hadn't been on," says Kauffman.

"So, here it is, a chance to pit your tastes against Fred Silverman's. The loser gets to watch 'Hello, Larry.'"

Rural Odors Sometimes See Suits

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — People who move out to the country in search of fresh air sometimes find that air has an unpleasant tinge to it — and may end up filing farm "nuisance" suits.

North Carolina State University extension service agents say the new country dwellers sometimes have to cope with offensive odor from nearby livestock operations. Sometimes they sue for relief and damages.

"We in North Carolina have a tremendous opportunity to face up to this problem now and work together to develop satisfactory solutions before the delay gets critical," said J.C. Williamson Jr., an N.C. State economist in waste management.

"If we delay, the ultimate cost to agriculture — and to society — could be very great." Williamson said a lawsuit was filed earlier this year against a New Bern swine operation. He said the operation was sued on the grounds that it was a "nuisance." In an out-of-court settlement, the hog producer agreed to pay damages and to make certain changes in the operation to reduce the odor problem.

The 1979 General Assembly passed a bill, titled "An Act to Protect Agricultural Operations from Nuisance Suits under Certain Circumstances," designed to cut down on such lawsuits.

"When non-agricultural land uses extend into agricultural areas, agricultural operations often become the subject of nuisance suits," the legislation says. The purpose of the bill is to "reduce the loss to the state of its agricultural resources by limiting the circumstances under which agricultural operations may be deemed to be a nuisance."

Dr. Frank J. Humenik, N.C. State specialist in biological and agricultural engineering, said no method has been developed for measuring the nuisance potential of livestock odors.

"Technology is available to get high levels of treatment, but a certain amount of odor will continue to exist and it will be offensive to some people," Humenik said.

APOLOGIES FROM DIRECTOR OZAWA
BOSTON (AP) — Boston Symphony Orchestra Musical Director Seiji Ozawa has apologized for frequent absences, telling members of the orchestra, "I want to be with you."

Ozawa, who has been criticized for absenteeism and gloating, made the promise last Thursday at a dinner party he gave for orchestra members in Salzburg, Austria, according to the Boston Globe.

Advise Hunt Try Rafting

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Inspired by President Carter's highly publicized steamboat trip down the Mississippi, a wag has suggested that Gov. Jim Hunt do the same on an eastern North Carolina stream, and take along his staff.

The suggestion came in a message purporting to be from the Tar River Chamber of Commerce of Rocky Mount.

"Success of President Carter's tour has increased demand that you and your excellent staff travel by raft down the Tar River," said the message.

It continued: "All arrangements are made. A ship captain's uniform is available for Mr. Joe Pell (a Hunt senior aide) and a riverboat gambler's attire is ready for Mr. John A. Williams Jr. (Hunt's administrative assistant). We will outfit Mr. Pearce (Gary Pearce, press secretary) as you specify."

There is, of course, no such thing as the Tar River Chamber of Commerce. Mark Jordan, director of the Rocky Mount Chamber of Commerce, says his group had nothing to do with the suggestion.

"I think somebody's just pulling his leg," said Jordan.

Out Of The Past

TORREMOLINOS, Spain (AP) — Gangster Alvin Karpis of the 1930s Ma Barker gang has been found dead in his Torremolinos apartment, and official sources indicated an overdose of sleeping pills was suspected. He was 71.

The judge-instructor's office said the body was found by a neighbor on Sunday. A police source said sleeping pills were nearby. An official said death did not appear to be due to natural causes, and an autopsy was being performed today.

The Canadian Consulate said Karpis, who was a Canadian citizen, would be buried locally.

The consulate said Karpis registered as a resident of Spain in 1973, four years after his release from a U.S. penitentiary where he served a sentence for bank robbery.

The judge-instructor's office said he lived alone here on the Costa del Sol, Spain's famed sun coast.

The Barker gang consisted of Ma Barker, her four sons, her lover, Arthur Dunlop, and Karpis. It became notorious in the 1930s with a series of holdups and kidnappings that put it on the FBI's most-wanted list.

Record Profit For Avery County Bank

NEWLAND, N. C. (AP) — Bank investors, attention! What bank in North Carolina had the highest profit percentage in 1978?

North Carolina National? Wachovia? First Union? North-western? Hardly.

The Avery County Bank in the mountain community of Newland — assets $14.5 million, with 16 fulltime employees — gets the honor.

According to Management Science Systems of Framingham, Mass., the Newland bank, founded in 1913, earned 33 percent on its income in 1978. Most banks are delighted to earn 15 percent.

"I can't believe it," said Martha Guy, vice president, cashier and chief operating officer of Avery County Bank. She checked her books and, sure enough, the profit figures were correct.

In this case, profit is defined as net income before taxes as a percentage of the bank's total operating income. Last year, the Avery County Bank had operating income of about $910,000 and net income before taxes of just over $300,000.

Quality Leaf Volume Up At Farmville

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Market had its largest volume of quality tobacco of the season Monday, according to Louis N. Williams, sales supervisor, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade. The average, $150.56, was the highest of the season, with the heavy volume of quality leaf responsible for the high average.

Prices for top grades of tobacco remained steady, with the volume of low grades of lugs and primings decreasing from last week, said Williams. Stabilization receipts accounted for 1.59 percent, the lowest of the season.

The Farmville market sold 690,496 pounds Monday for $1,039,598, an average of $150.56 per 100 pounds. To date, the market has sold 11,957,721 pounds for $1,632,266, an average of $139.09 per 100 pounds.

Taft Furniture Opening Held

Ribbon cutting ceremonies marking the official opening of Taft Furniture Company's new addition to its Dickinson Avenue store were held Monday morning.

Mayor Percy Cox handled the snipping duties as the William H. and Joseph M. Taft families began a new era in the 82-year-old history of the furniture dealership with the opening of the major addition.

The addition, involving in excess of 11,500 square feet, affords Taft Furniture some 250 feet of window frontage with store openings on Evans and Sixth Streets and Dickinson Avenue.

Completed in approximately one year, the modern one-story addition adjoins the firm's existing facility and gives the store some 32,000 square feet in total square footage.

The construction project, which followed the successful bidding by Taft Furniture and subsequent purchase of a tract from the Redevelopment Commission, also involved the remodeling of the frontage on the existing 535 Dickinson Avenue structure.

The firm retained the first and second floor display areas in the existing facility and moved offices and counter areas into the new section. Former office space in the old store now serve as catalog and sample rooms.

The new section is completely carpeted and a sprinkler system has been installed throughout the furniture facility. In addition, the old section underwent redecorating in order to complement the new quarters.

The addition actually stands independent of the old facility although both buildings tie in with common interior walkways.

The business was begun in 1897 by E. H. Taft Sr. who operated a store in the structure on Evans Street now occupied by Coffman's Men's Wear. The furniture company's present Dickinson Avenue facility was constructed in 1915.

Early furniture deliveries were made by horse and wagon from the store and the railroad was utilized for the shipment of merchandise to points all over eastern North Carolina.

Joseph M. Taft joined the firm in 1926, followed by William H. Taft in 1927. E. H. Taft Sr. remained involved in the business until his death in 1952.

In 1958 and 1961, the sons of the owners, William H. Taft Jr. and Joseph M. Taft Jr., respectively, joined the firm and today manage the business. Their fathers are now retired from the firm.

Edgar and Louis Taft, twin sons of Joseph M. Taft Sr. are also associated with the firm, joining the business in 1972 and 1973, respectively.

Taft Furniture Co. is not a corporation but operates as a partnership through the Joseph M. and William H. Taft families as owners.

Carpenter Files $10 Million Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — A $10 million damage suit has been filed in Circuit Court by a carpenter injured in the roof collapse of the Rosemont Horizon stadium that killed five persons and injured 15 others.

It was the fourth suit file as a result of the Aug. 13 accident. It accuses the building's architect, Anthony M. Rossi, of failing "to design, erect, construct and install the roof in a safe, suitable and proper manner."

Attorney Philip H. Corboy filed the suit Monday on behalf of Herbert Drummond, 54, of Itasca, who suffered a concussion and fractured both legs. He had been working on a scaffold when the roof caved in.

Teachers Are Off Their Jobs In Seven States Again Today

By The Associated Press
Thousands of striking teachers were off the job in seven states again today. In Oklahoma City, the school district refused to send negotiators back to the bargaining table, saying it might be illegal to do so.

Other strikes were reported in suburban New Orleans, where more than 2,000 teachers walked out, and in some school districts in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Oklahoma City School Superintendent Thomas Payzant refused a request by the striking American Federation of Teachers to resume talks today.

In a statement issued Monday night, Payzant cited language in a state law barring teacher strikes that says school boards are relieved of the duty to negotiate with teacher organizations that strike.

"That is extremely disappointing," federation President Mike Barlow said. "That indicates to us the superintendent and the board don't want to reach a settlement."

Payzant said less than half of the system's approximately 2,300 teachers observed picket lines Monday, the first day of classes for the district's 43,000 pupils, but union officials said 65 percent to 70 percent were absent.

In Louisiana, a strike by the 1,800-member Jefferson Parish Federation of Teachers entered its third day today without a budge in financial positions by either side, a federal mediator said.

None of the parish's 85 public schools was closed. Classes were staffed by administrators, substitutes and non-striking teachers.

Less than half of the 37,500 pupils in the district showed up for school Monday.

In teacher strikes elsewhere: — Nearly 2,300 teachers struck five districts in Michigan on Monday. The Michigan Education Association estimated 40,000 teachers in the state were without contracts, including the 12,000 teachers in Detroit, where classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 5.

— Teachers in two southern Ohio districts struck Monday. Only 13 percent of the 6,000 students in the Ohio Valley Local School District showed up for classes while 78 percent of teachers stayed off the job. In the Frontier Local School District, none of the 78 teachers reported for work to prepare for classes for 1,450 students scheduled to begin Wednesday.

— An orientation meeting for 3,600 students in Park Ridge, Ill., was called off Monday when about 200 teachers formed picket lines. Strikes also were reported at the DeSoto Consolidated School and schools in the Sparta School District.

— Some 270 teachers in the Chartiers Valley school district in Pennsylvania struck Monday, while a walkout of 400 teachers at Bethel Park continued. Both districts are in the Pittsburgh area.

— The leadership of the Tippecanoe County Education Association in north-central Indiana said a strike of the system's 387 teachers would begin immediately after an approval vote Monday night. Meanwhile, the 270-member Crown Point Teachers Association picketed one high school Monday.

Feared Reprisals Over Testifying, And Fleed

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A Durham man who said he fears reprisals fled Monday to avoid testifying against three persons charged with possession and conspiracy to possess illegal weapons.

James A. Murphy was to have testified in Colquitt County, Ga. He claims the FBI renege on a promise not to reveal his name or location in return for information.

"I'm going to run as far and as fast as I can. . . . I don't want to die," Murphy told a newspaper in a telephone interview from an out-of-state motel.

"I will not come back to North Carolina under any conditions. I've had to give up a family. I've had to walk out on a 17-year-old daughter and tell her I was going to Myrtle Beach on a business trip," he said.

Dwight May, assistant Colquitt County district attorney prosecuting the cases, said he did not think Murphy's life would have been endangered by his testimony and that he did not believe the FBI promised Murphy confidentiality.

But the district attorney said he offered Murphy 24-hour protective custody during the time he would be in Georgia to testify.

Bomb Rips A Podium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — A bomb exploded beneath a temporary stage in Brussel's medieval Grand Place square today, injuring four people, two of them seriously, police reported. The blast came as a British military band prepared for a concert on the podium, leading to speculation it was an IRA attack.

The centuries-old plaza was crowded with tourists at the time of the blast. The victims were not immediately identified.

Last Chance To Save Soul City

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soul City founder Floyd McKissick will have his day in court on Oct. 9, when he'll get a last-ditch chance to save his dream.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Green set the date for a trial on the town's claim that the government had reached its conclusion that Soul City faces too many obstacles to survive in an illegal manner.

But Judge Green Monday refused to issue an injunction to keep the government from abandoning the town, despite the pleas of a lawyer for Soul City that it would never recover from the blow.

"There will be no land sales," said the lawyer, Philip L. Cohen. "There will be nothing. Soul City will die."

But the judge said her refusal to issue the injunction would not affect the outcome of the issue of whether the government had acted arbitrarily and illegally last June when it decided to terminate its support for Soul City.

McKissick, a prominent civil rights leader of the 1960s, founded Soul City five years ago to draw impoverished blacks from the cities to the countryside, homes and jobs.

He has charged that the government was pressured to cut off support for the project by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and other politicians, who, he said, did not relish the prospect of

Cars Collided At Intersection

An estimated $1,300 property damage resulted from a 1:50 p.m. collision yesterday at the intersection of Washington and Fourth Streets.

Police identified the drivers of the two cars involved as Kinsey Harvey Worthington of Route 1, Ayden, and Maude McCulloch Taylor of 300 North Oak St.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $800 to the Worthington car and $500 to the Taylor vehicle by investigators who said Mrs. Taylor and a passenger in her car were injured.

ROSES PLEDGE TO CUSTOMERS

Roses strives to have every advertised item in stock at the beginning of the sale period. If for some unavoidable reason the advertised item is not in stock, Roses will, at the customer's request, but at Rose's option, either issue a Rain Check to purchase the item at the sale price when the merchandise is available or offer a comparable item at a reduced price. It is the honest intention of Roses to back up our policy of "Satisfaction Guaranteed" always.

Due to the nature of certain purchase of merchandise ... we will be unable to issue RAINCHECKS since there will not be any merchandise available to re-order. These items will carry a No Raincheck notation.
