Rose High Acquisition Again Discussed

East Carolina University and Greenville City School officials, in an executive session Monday night, agreed to continue discussions on the feasibility of the university's acquiring the J. H. Rose High School property.

The Greenville Board of Education and ECU today released a joint statement about the Monday meeting and the possibilities of the university acquiring the Rose High and other city school property.

"Several months ago," according to the joint statement, "East Carolina University expressed a desire to begin exploratory talks with the Greenville City Board of Education with regard to the feasibility of the University's acquiring the J. H. Rose High School property.

"Monday night the Board of Education, in executive session, met with Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer and Vice Chancellor (for Business Affairs) Clifton G. Moore to discuss the proposal.

"The Board and the University agreed to continue the talks, but cited the need for more data," the joint release explained.

"To that end, it was agreed that East Carolina will have the properties of Wahl-Coates Elementary School, J. H. Rose High School, and Elmhurst Elementary School appraised and supply that information to the Board of Education."

The statement also said the Board of Education authorized Greenville City School Superintendent Glenn L. Cox to begin preliminary work to determine the availability of adequate sites for the possible location of a new high school facility for the city.

"When the appraisals are received, decisions will be made whether to continue the exploratory discussions. If there is mutual interest in continuing the talks," the joint statement concluded, "study groups will be appointed to gather more detailed information."

Wahl-Coates Elementary School, located on East Fifth

Street a half mile from ECU, is owned and maintained by the University, but operated by the Greenville City Schools. Both Rose High School, adjoining university property at the intersection of 14th and Elm Streets, and Elmhurst Elementary School, across West Berkley Road from ECU's Ficklen Stadium, are both owned and operated by the Greenville City Board of Education.

Acquisition of the Rose High and Elmhurst School properties by ECU would provide expansion space adjacent to land already owned and in use by the university.

Lawyer Asks MacDonald Release Pending Appeal

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An attorney for Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, the former Green Beret captain sentenced to three life terms for the slayings of his wife and two young daughters, asked a federal judge today to permit MacDonald's release on bond pending an appeal.

U.S. District Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. ordered MacDonald, 35, held without bond on Wednesday after a jury found him guilty.

Defense attorney Wade Smith met with Dupree in the judge's office this morning to ask for reconsideration of the decision denying bail.

"Jeff obviously lived an exemplary life for nine years," Smith told reporters, referring to the period since the slayings in 1970. "People who are not on bail are at the tremendous disadvantage."

Smith said the defense would file a notice of appeal of the convictions later today. He said that if Dupree denied the request for bail that he likely would appeal that decision to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Handcuffed and looking grim, MacDonald was led from the federal courthouse in Raleigh shortly after the verdict was returned Wednesday afternoon. He was taken to the federal prison unit at Butner. Chief Deputy U.S. Marshal Eddie Sigmon of Raleigh said today he expected MacDonald to be moved to another facility shortly but he refused to comment further.

Members of the jury of seven men and five women appeared tearful as they were polled by Dupree. Some spectators burst into tears but MacDonald, who lives at Huntington Beach, Calif., sat upright and still, then wiped tears from his eyes as defense lawyer Bernard Segal put an arm around him.

Asked by Dupree if he had anything to say, MacDonald replied

"Sir, I'm not guilty," MacDonald told U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree Jr. before sentencing. "I don't think the court has heard all the evidence. That's all I have to say."

The jury returned verdicts of second-degree murder in the deaths of Mrs. MacDonald and Kimberly. MacDonald was convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Kristen.

Iran's Troops Denied Entry To Stronghold

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A Kurdish spokesman repudiated a reported agreement to admit Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's forces to Mahabad, the rebel stronghold in northwest Iran, and said, "not one person is willing to agree."

"I am certain the goodwill delegation has not agreed to the army entering Mahabad; not one person in Mahabad is willing to agree to the army entering the city," the spokesman said by telephone Wednesday.

The spokesman, an official of the outlawed Kurdish Democratic Party who refused to be identified, said Tehran Radio, which broadcast the alleged agreement, was "distorting reports of the negotiations."

"We do not hold much hope for the negotiations in Tehran," he added.

The Kurdish delegation arrived in Tehran Sunday, one day after Khomeini's troops crushed a three-day uprising in Saqqez, 50 miles south of Mahabad, then marched to within 19 miles of the rebel stronghold of 100,000.

An undeclared truce went into effect and the delegation held several days of talks with Khomeini's representatives in the capital. On Wednesday, Interior Minister Hashem Sabaghian told Tehran Radio the Kurds "had agreed that the army has to enter Mahabad and take hold of the city's security."

Hurricane Lashes Isles

By LEW WHEATON Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Hurricane David regained its strength and lashed the Virgin Islands and the south coast of Puerto Rico with gale winds and torrential rains early today after battering two of the Windward Islands.

Ham radio operators reported heavy property damage on the islands of Dominica and Martinique, but there were no reports of casualties.

Moving west-northwest at 15 mph, the center of one of the most powerful hurricanes to hit the Caribbean this century passed about 80 miles south of St. Croix, the southernmost of the U.S. Virgin Islands, at daybreak.

In its 6 a.m. EDT advisory, the U.S. National Weather Service pinpointed the center or eye of the hurricane at 16.4 degrees north latitude and 65.2 degrees west longitude, or about 150 miles southeast of San Juan. It had been located about 220 miles southeast of San Juan in the midnight bulletin.

The Weather Service predicted it would be within 70 miles of Ponce, Puerto Rico's second largest city on the south-central coast, about noon and then would move on to Cabo Beata, the southernmost point of the Dominican Republic, by late afternoon. The storm is expected to stay on the same northwesterly track for the next 24-hours, the service said.

"When they pass the Dominican Republic, that's the point where they usually turn north toward Cuba or the United States," a member of the Weather Service staff said. "Some go straight west toward Mexico and some just die out, but this one doesn't look like it's going to die out."

Study 2-Toned Moon

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — As Pioneer 11 raced to within 1.5 million miles of Saturn today, scientists were searching through fresh data for clues to explain the ringed planet's weird two-toned moon that seems unlike anything else in the solar system.

The unmanned ship, soaring through space at more than 21,000 mph, is to fly within 12,950 miles of Saturn on Saturday. Pioneer is mankind's first emissary to the golden planet and its dazzling rings.

Scientists at mission control in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames

Research Center here received measurements Wednesday of the moon Iapetus after Pioneer made its closest approach — at 644,180 miles — to the strange moon.

Iapetus, roughly 900 miles in diameter, is very dark on its leading half, while the back half is very bright.

The ninth of Saturn's 10 moons is about 2.2 million miles from the planet and "is a particular puzzle," said Dale Cruikshank of the University of Hawaii. "It is apparently unique in the solar system."

Following the swearing in of the trustees, Pate was re-elected chairman of the board, while Futrell was re-named vice-chairman. In addition, Mrs. J. C. Burgwyn of Jackson was re-elected secretary.

Board Readies Road Cutbacks

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The use of gasoline has declined in North Carolina along with rising price and scarcity, and at the same time, state budget officials have projected a $15 million to $30 million decline in the Highway Fund for 1979-80.

About two-thirds of the Highway Fund revenues come from the state's 9-cent per gallon gasoline tax, and the projected budget figures represent a 5 to 10 percent decline in gasoline tax collections for the 1979-80 period compared to the 1978-79 period.

As a result, the State Transportation Board is preparing to make major construction cutbacks on projects planned into the early 1980s.

"Some large projects involving relocations of highways are going to be moved back, particularly those scheduled to be built in segments," says Highway Administrator Billy Rose.

Major projects already under construction, such as the Raleigh Beltline, will not be affected by the cutbacks, Rose said.

Gov. Jim Hunt has appointed a commission to study the state's highway program and the way it is financed. The commission is headed by former Gov. Dan K. Moore and some observers expect it to recommend an increase in the gasoline tax.

The initial reduction in the Highway Fund, which began to be felt in May, forced the transportation department to withdraw all or parts of a number of projects from contract lettings in the fiscal year that ended June 30.

Among them were the U.S. 421 Siler City bypass, and work on U.S. 17 near Elizabeth City and U.S. 158 in northeastern North Carolina.

Rose declined to specify what projects might be delayed or deleted from the Transportation Improvement Program, saying the most likely casualties would be major projects that involve relocation of primary roads.

QUESTIONING

I believe the Greenville Utilities "Beat the Peak" load management program is a good thing, something I'd participate in as a matter of principle even if there were no monetary incentive. However, since the incentive was offered, I question the truthfulness of the letter sent out initially to invite customers to take part. The letter stated that "in volunteering for this 'no charge' program, you receive a reduction on your June, July, August and September utility bills of $3.75 a month for each switch installed (maximum of $7.50 per customer, per month)." I did sign up right away, but it was mid-summer before my Beat the Peak mechanisms were installed and GUCO refuses to give me credit for the months I missed out due to their being slow with the installation. J. D.

Reese Helms of the Energy Conservation and Management Office of Greenville Utilities said he has told you personally and reiterates that your interpretation of the GUCO Beat the Peak letter is different from its intention. "We didn't submit the letter to a lawyer or a journalist or an English teacher," he said, "but I believe that complying with Mr. D's wishes would be unfair to all the other Greenville Utilities customers and would violate the spirit of the 'Beat the Peak' program, which is to save money for all our customers through load management. We credit all our customers who have Beat the Peak mechanisms on their air conditioner(s) and water heater only for the months after they're installed and then only for the months considered times of peak usage — June, July, August and September.

He'll Leave Her Flat —Broke, That Is

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Lenny for 25 years. When we fell in love we couldn't marry because he had an invalid father to care for and I had a sick mother.

He's in the entertainment business, knows interesting people, and we've had some great times together. (I pay my own way because I'm in better shape financially than he is.)

His father died recently, and so did my mother. I inherited a nice sum of money which I invested on the advice of my attorney and accountant. I have a nice income and a job that pays well.

Lenny says he wants to marry me and take charge of my investments. I'm not in favor of that because he hasn't been very successful with his own investments, and I think I'm better at handling money than he is.

He says if I don't accede to his wishes, it will be "goodbye." I'm in my early 50s, I love him, and it could be a lonesome life if I let him go. On the other hand, I don't want to lose my financial security, which I fear will happen if I turn my money over to Lenny. Help me.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW: If Lenny refuses to marry you unless he can handle your money, say goodbye. There are worse things than being lonely. Like being lonely and broke!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I worry constantly about my husband. He's in construction work and I have this terrible fear that he will get hurt or even killed on the job.

I know that worrying won't change anything, but I can't help it. We've been married for 12 years and have a very good marriage. Everything would be wonderful if I didn't have this awful fear. Do you think it is normal?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NAME: A certain amount of concern over your husband's safety is normal, and even healthy. But constantly dwelling on it is neither normal nor healthy. I recommend professional counseling. Inquire at the mental health clinic nearest you. Therapy could resolve your problem. It's worth a try.

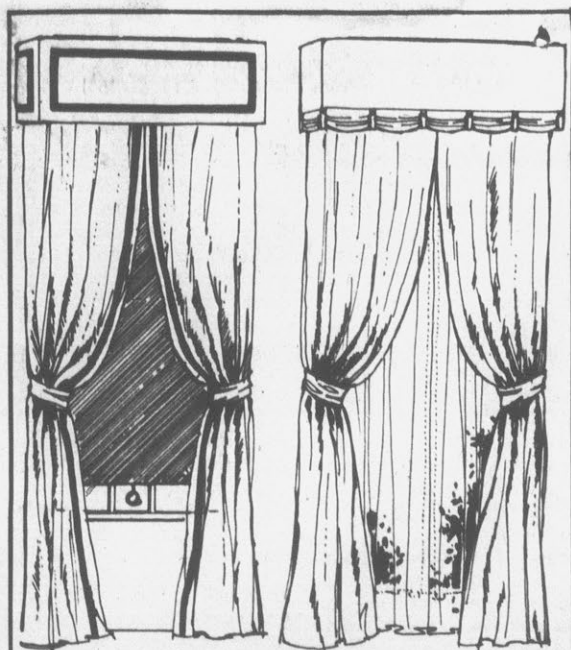

DEAR ABBY: A girlfriend and I have a difference of opinion concerning tipping. (I'll call her Jean.)

I recently took her to breakfast in a good restaurant. Jean received her order and I was told that mine was coming "momentarily." I told Jean to go ahead and start eating while hers was hot, so she did. In the meantime, only part of my order came.

I watched Jean eat, and just when she was finishing, the rest of my order came. It was cold. Evidently the waitress had forgotten to pick it up when it was hot.

Needless to say, I left no tip. I did not complain about her poor service. Jean left a tip, contending that the service she received was just fine.

I explained that she was out of line for two reasons: First, she was my guest and I was paying the bill. Also, the service

Schools Cut Orientation Of Vesco Underway

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina school systems have been told to save gasoline, and several have decided one way to do it is to cancel student orientation days.

"We are wondering if we'll have enough gas (for the year)," said William F. Tillett, director of transportation for the state Department of Public Instruction. "We've asked school systems to cut back 20 percent from last year."

Orientation day gives students a chance to adjust to the new school year by going through their schedules, learning about school policies, paying instructional fees and receiving books and locks.

Wake County will hold its orientation day today. But several systems including Lee, Brunswick, Columbus, Whiteville, Scotland, Lincoln and Charlotte-Mecklenburg have cancelled their orientation days.

"I think orientation is beneficial," said Columbus County Superintendent James Rabon, "but I had to weigh orientation day versus a 20 percent cut in gas and to me it was more important to eliminate orientation than to take the chance of running out of gas."

"There will be little loss of instructional time on Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it is conducting a thorough investigation, free of White House interference, into allegations that associates of Robert L. Vesco tried to bribe the Carter administration to halt extradition proceedings against the fugitive financier.

Assistant Attorney General Philip B. Heymann, head of the department's criminal division, when we begin," he said. "It (orientation) would have eliminated a little confusion for those kids."

Rabon estimated that by not holding orientation, the district would save $1,200 to $1,500 in gasoline consumption.

"Our orientation day amounts to 1/2 (of a percent) to 1 percent of total bus gasoline usage," said Lee County Superintendent Kenneth H. Brinson. "It seemed that with that kind of pressure on the fuel situation, we didn't have much choice."

In Wake County, school officials did not consider canceling orientation, according to Superintendent John A. Murphy.

"Orientation day is an important part of our instructional program," Murphy said.

denied on Wednesday charges of a cover-up by Ralph E. Ulmer, the foreman of the grand jury investigating the case, who resigned in protest over the government's handling of the probe.

"It has been an absolutely rigorous and exceptionally probing investigation," said Heymann. "There has been no White House contact with me or any of my subordinates. No one above me had anything significant to do with this case."

Ulmer, a 61-year-old engineer and a Republican, said in a letter of resignation to U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant that "cover-up activities are being orchestrated within the Department of Justice under the concept that the administration must be protected at all costs."

New Coats Offer Style, Warmth

NEW YORK (AP) — A new coat is always a wardrobe investment, so "sightsee" a bit before you buy, advises the Fiber Information Center, which points out that guidelines should be warmth, versatility and personal pleasure.

With luxurious quilts that look more at home on city streets than on the mountain trail and man-made fiber "furs" that look and feel like the real thing, the range of current coats is large, fashion experts at the center report.

As you start your pre-winter hunting trip for the right coat, look for some of the newest body-warming and eye-warming trends, they suggest.

The "new-generation" quilt coats are weather-resistant and offer warmth without weight. The Puff Coat, the latest designer answer to the problem of keeping warm, looks like a sleeping bag walking, and is actually called "a walking environment." Like many other kinds of quilted looks, it's made with a nylon shell and polyester fiberfill quilting.

The great variety in quilted styles this season makes it easy to find one to suit your shape, the stylists at the center note. If you're concerned about looking like a walking cocoon, try one of the slimmer styles.

The newest look is a full-length, side-toggled and fitted quilt coat, inspired by the fencer's jacket. There are quilts that serve as rugged, daytime storm coats and then reverse to sparkling iridescence for evening.

Along with quilts, the fun-fakes offer man-made "furs" that are more drapable and durable than previously because the "fur" side is often backed with woven or knit polyester. They maintain their shape and offer light-weight, easy-care comfort, stylists at the center say.

This season there are "species" such as simulated fox, lynx, raccoon and mink in luxuriously soft, long-wearing mod-acrylic and acrylic. Styles include such imaginative looks as a trapper's vest, complete with fuzzy tails, a completely reversible storm coat with a "furry" overshell of "lynx," and numerous toggled jackets, as well as evening styles with an elegant Perisan-lamb look and touches like jeweled collars and buttons.

Most such coats should be cleaned at least once or twice during the wearing season, the Fiber Information Center advises. Always check the fabric-care label, doubly important because of various lining materials.

A good care tip for all coats: let them dry thoroughly before storing in a closet. Never place them near a direct heat source such as a radiator or fireplace.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

August. The season when every mother dedicates her life to sending her children back to school in new underwear. A time for settling fitting-room tantrums and tears of "I won't wear it!" A time to reflect on whether what you bought will stay in style until you reach the car, or will still fit when school opens in two weeks.

For years, mothers of children in public education have expressed open envy of mothers whose children are in private and parochial schools and wear uniforms.

Well, I don't know what you've heard, but believe me, don't do anything drastic until you've walked in the shoes of a mother who sews in 25 name tags a season.

To begin with, the argument that uniforms take away the hassle of a decision in the morning of what to wear, is a myth. Each pleated skirt or jumper may look like all the others, but each has a personality of its own. One hangs long in the front, one has a zipper that sticks, one has a permanent stain in it, and the other one makes her look fat.

Secondly, schoolchildren who dress alike never wear the same sweater twice. They may go in on the first day of school in the uniform green sweater, but from there on in it's musical sweaters — the pick-up-and-wear-whatever-is-left.

Third, mothers who iron 15 white shirts a week become terminally strange. They get white spots in front of their eyes watching TV, twitch whenever they see a pen bleeding through a pocket, and wake up in the middle of the night from a ring-around-the-collar dream.

True, uniforms are a great equalizer, but they leave their fashion mark on the wearers. I have children who, to this day, cannot look at plaid pleats without becoming nauseated. What reminded me of the subject was a niece of mine who is a police officer in a large city. She pulled in a woman the other week on charges of soliciting. When the woman took off her coat, she was wearing the same plaid skirt my niece had worn at St. Helen's.

All my niece could think of was, "As if she doesn't have enough problems, her mother made her wear that crummy uniform on a Saturday."

LAUNDERING TIPS FOR THE COLLEGE CROWD

If you're one of the thousands of young men and women who are leaving home to begin your first year of college, you can certainly look forward to many new and exciting experiences. However, one of the new, but perhaps not so exciting, experiences may be doing your own laundry.

"New miracle machine-washable synthetic fibers have made wash days a lot easier," says Mrs. Evelyn L. Spangler, Home Economics Extension Agent, "but just a few laundering mistakes can be very costly." To help you avoid these mistakes, here are some laundering tips they've provided to make you an "A" student in Laundry 101:

Absolute no-no's:

—No Levis mixed with delicate fabrics.

—Don't jam everything into one wash load. Clothes need room to move and flex in the tub.

—Don't mix dark colors with whites, unless you're really fond of that "dingy gray" shade.

—Don't pour bleach or fabric softener directly onto clothing in the washer. Direct contact with bleach can cause white spots on your colored items and holes in others. Direct contact with fabric softeners can leave colored blobs on white clothing.

—Do not take two or three month's worth of dirty clothes home to mom. She'd rather spend some time with you than the washing machine.

Absolute Do's:

—Sort and separate clothing items by color, fabric, and weight.

—Pre-treat stains before washing.—Do use enough detergent. Follow the manufacturer's suggestions on the package.

—If in doubt—check for washing instructions on the garment label.

—Do your laundering fairly often, every other week if possi-

High Drama At RFK Airport

The defection of Soviet dancer Alexander Godunov and the return of his wife to Russia have all the international implications and personal drama of any film.

Godunov defected, but his wife, Ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova, was on a Soviet airliner preparing to leave the country when United States authorities blocked the take-off.

For over 70 hours the plane was held while U. S. and Soviet authorities negotiated over the United States' desire to talk freely with the woman and determine whether she really wanted to leave.

Finally a common ground for the conference was found in a mobile lounge which was wheeled alongside the plane. U. S. authorities concluded that she wanted to return to Russia and the plane was permitted to take off.

Left behind was her saddened husband who reportedly believed until the last that his wife would join him in the United States.

It was an extremely delicate negotiation which involved the honor of both nations. With the emphasis that President Carter has placed on human rights it is hardly surprising that such an effort was made to make certain that ballerina Vlasova truly wished to return to her homeland.

There can be no completely happy ending to this saga, although Hollywood may try. We do hope, however, that Alexander Godunov will find professional fulfillment and personal contentment in our country.

Powerful Hurricane Is On The Prowl

An awesome hurricane has formed in the Caribbean, with winds of 150 miles per hour.

In the past, the names of hurricanes have carried the names of women. This year, however, men's names have been mixed with the female and this one was named, even before it developed, David.

As this is written, no one is certain what direction the hurricane will take, but — as with all hurricanes — it has the capability of sweeping up the East coast.

In this area we should be alert to this, and all, hurricanes.

A Little Age Is Helpful

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — A popular saying among defense lawyers is: "Let this case get a little age on it".

Gov. Jim Hunt says he is determined to put a stop to that in North Carolina. "I've heard that saying. I never believed in doing that, but it is done," says Gov. Hunt.

Aging the case before trial has some distinct advantages for the defense: witnesses move or get sick or die, or their memories get fuzzy; evidence disappears; the case gets further and further down the list of court priorities as other, fresher occurrences move in.

When Hunt was pushing for a Speedy Trial Law in North Carolina, he repeatedly insisted that the promise of swift justice and punishment is critical to deterring the would be criminal.

Now that the state has a law calling for trial within 120 days of initial criminal action against an individual (that time limit will drop to 90 days in October, 1980) there are already strong signals that the purpose is being thwarted.

Took Orders

The governor vows that the law will be effectively enforced. "We asked the courts when getting ready to implement this law how many judges it would take to handle the job... how many assistant district attorneys it would take. We took orders, as it were, and the General Assembly responded and the state funded every request which was made."

There is, as a result, no reason that the courts cannot meet the deadline. Yet some cases have been dismissed by Superior Court judges because of failure of the state to meet the 120-day limit.

Hunt vows that every effort will be made to see to it that the deadline is met, and that when the 90-day limit takes effect "we will not let up... I'm going to be even tougher" in demanding that the time limit be observed.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Depleting Strauss Asset

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Uncharacteristic grumbling in public by Robert S. Strauss following his failed Mideast talks was triggered by his realization that policymakers had sent him on a suicide mission — enlarging previous worries that President Carter is depleting his administration's most valuable single asset.

Strauss never was fully at home putting the U.S. behind a new United Nations resolution recognizing "legitimate rights" of Palestinians. But what temporarily drove him off the Carter reservation was that he had been sent to Cairo without any warning that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was no less opposed to the new policy than Israel's government. In truth, Strauss's revelation of Sadat's opposition was unpleasant news back in Washington.

In relating that information, Strauss convinced the president and his top advisers not to back a new resolution. But Strauss's authority remains unclear, as does the prospect for his future missions as Mideast negotiator.

Bob Strauss, for the first time during exemplary service for an administration conditioned to ineptitude, "got egg on his face" in the words of one longtime political associate. That raises the question of whether Strauss has been given a mission where not only even his formidable talents are inadequate, but where his own prestige may be steadily eroded.

Strauss's value to this harassed administration cannot be measured, merely in recounting his achievements, crowned by the trade treaty that won easy ratification once thought impossible. Strauss is the only figure in this administration really taken seriously by business, labor, Congress and the Democratic Party.

Given the president's feeble political prognosis, why not ask Strauss to take over at the White House? That idea was mentioned in some staff memoranda, but there is no sign Strauss was seriously considered for the chief of staff's post that went to Hamilton Jordan.

Instead, just when the 60-year-old Strauss wanted to phase out of government service to rest prior to the presidential campaign, Carter prevailed upon him to accept the Mideast assignment. Strauss's friends worried about his talent wasted in a post where he could hurt himself without helping the president.

Strauss, normally most accessible and voluble, refused to discuss with us the substance of his recent mission. But his feelings can be pieced together by observations of close associates.

From the start, Strauss's relationship with National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski has been prickly. His unique situation as a negotiator reporting directly to the president has been maintained only because of mutually warm personal feelings with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Even so, when Strauss learned in Cairo that Sadat as well as the Israelis opposed the new move, it was too much. He grumbled out loud that he needed a fresh commitment from the president

Strength For Today

ON THE WRONG SIDE

Goliath of Gath, the huge antagonist whom the shepherd boy David brought low with his sling, appeared, as the battle began, to have everything in his favor.

In the first place, he had overwhelming strength. In the second place, he had the best military equipment of his day. His spear was as long and heavy as a weaver's beam. He had a mighty helmet and a heavy sword.

But Goliath lacked one thing. He was on the wrong side. He had everything but God. He did not know that the weakness of God is stronger than men and the foolishness of God is wiser than the wisdom of men. So David, with his sling and God on his side, was more than equal to Goliath, the horrendous champion of an evil and lost cause.

We cannot be sure today that the better but weaker cause will triumph over evil as easily as David felled Goliath, but we can be sure that the victory over evil will come at last.

Proper 'Fleece' Award

William Proxmire of Wisconsin, the Senate's greatest gadfly, stung his brother congressmen the other day. He gave his Golden Fleece of the Month to the House and Senate for profligacy beyond the bounds of mere extravagance. Seldom has a Golden Fleece been more deserved.

Specifically, Proxmire honored Congress "for the eruption in its staff and spending over the past decade." He had his facts in line. Ten years ago the two houses employed 10,700 persons; this year the payroll embraces 18,400. The cost has gone from $150 to $550 million a year, and the end is not in sight.

Ten years ago, it made good sense for the House and Senate to enlarge their staffs. I used to write columns to that effect, pointing out the vast resources of the executive branch in working its will upon the legislative houses. In those days the White House sent up a budget so large and so complex that appropriations committees could only look upon the volume in dismay. The administration had platoons of expert witnesses to support its requests for new weapons, space programs, scientific studies. The committees were little more than eunuchs to the presidential harem.

So the Congress came to life. As a part of the Young Turks' rebellion that overthrew the seniority system, the House and Senate began to enlarge their staffs. They created a Congressional Office of the Budget. They created an Office of Technology Assessment. They enlarged libraries. They commissioned studies.

Like a fifth banana split, the movement proved to be too much of a good thing. The House was more modest than the Senate: Over the past 10 years the House enlarged its staff by only 60 percent. The Senate almost exactly doubled its payroll, from 3,400 to almost 6,800. As Proxmire observed, a decade ago each of the 100 senators had 34 employees; now there are 68.

Many of them — perhaps most of them — are hard-working men and women who put in unbelievably long hours. But it is commonplace these days to cover a committee hearing and to see the wall behind the bench solidly lined with staffers; they have nothing else to do and no place to go. Their own cubicles are 6-by-6 feet and they would rather hang around a hearing room than stay back at the office and be cramped.

To resolve this problem — the problem of space to house the swollen staff — the Senate is now building a prodigious structure known unkindly as the Taj Mahal. The building started out seven years ago as a $48 million project. It is now a $142.6 million project. It will be astounding if the building opens its doors two years hence for less than $150 million. The envious House will not be far behind.

Except for Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who delights in being perverse, it is hard to find anyone who supports the Senate's magnificent obsession. John Danforth of Missouri sees the edifice as a symbol of what ails us: It demonstrates that "we in Washington, we in the UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations surveyed the state of the world's women in 1979 and reported today that they can only be raised to equality with the male half of the population by "political, social and cultural change on a scale unprecedented in human history."

Most of the more than 2 billion women "have never had the opportunity even to ask for an improvement in their situation," said the report issued today by the U.N. Center for Social Development and Humanitarian Affairs. "Such an improvement has to come through changes in the whole society."

The center is headed by Assistant Secretary-General Helvi Sipilä, the only woman in the top echelon of the U.N. secretariat.

The report, titled "The State of the World's Women 1979," said the cultural, social and economic situation of women "is one aspect of an unjust socio-economic order which also enshrines and perpetuates such values as the 'superiority' of one race over another, of capital over labor, of the healthy over the sick, of the 'normal' over those who are 'different.'"

It estimated that women make up a third of the world's labor force, put in nearly two-thirds of the work hours but get only a tenth of the world's income.

According to the report, the International Labor Office estimates that in the United States the gap between men's and women's wages nearly doubled in the past two decades. It said in 1976 white women were getting 43 percent less than white men and non-white women 35 percent less than non-white

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, registrar at East Carolina Teachers College, said today that advance registrations for the fall quarter, which begins September 29, are the heaviest in the history of the college.

He revealed that dormitories are practically taken, with not more than 50 spaces remaining. He expressed the belief, however, that these would be taken in the immediate future.

Freshmen orientation will be held September 26 and 27 and upperclassmen will register September 28. Classroom work will begin September 29.

Mid-week sales on the Greenville tobacco market showed decided price advantages, with optimism prevailing among local tobaccoists that the best prices of the year were being paid for weed today, according to R.C. Rankin, sales supervisor on the Greenville market.

Today's poundage is estimated to range at approximately 1,500,000 pounds which is regarded as an exceedingly heavy offering in view of the inclement weather that has prevailed in the New Bright belt during the past week.

Middleman's Role Debatable

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter's recent criticism of the "middleman" in the food industry has revived an old and bitter debate.

Whenever food prices rise at a painful rate — which seems to be most of the time these days — consumers naturally start asking who's responsible.

And when prices on the supermarket shelf keep rising while farm prices decline, as has happened in recent months, the search for a culprit is bound to turn to the processors, distributors and retailers of food.

This collective "middleman" has never been a very popular guy, in any business or profession. The term itself has a distinctly pejorative ring, like "money changer" or "10 percent."

But at least one voice, that of the weekly Financial Digest published by New York's Manufacturers Hanover Trust, has been raised in defense of the middleman in the current foodprice situation.

First of all, the bank says, "In the past it has taken two to three months before farm price drops were reflected at the checkout counters. Consequently, expectations of lower food prices resulting from recent farm price declines have been somewhat premature."

Secondly, the bank points out, the rise of retail food prices has in fact slowed lately.

That argument is supported by the government's consumer price data for June and July, which showed rises of only 0.2 percent and 0.1 percent, while the index of all prices was jumping a full percentage point in each month.

In addition, the bank says, costs of processing, distributing and selling food account for more than half of its retail price, and in an inflationary environment they can easily offset small declines in farm prices.

During the second quarter, it noted, food industry labor costs, rose at a 7.4 percent annual rate, while packaging costs climbed 16 percent and energy costs were up by almost one-third.

There is even some evidence that the middlemen have absorbed some of those rising costs rather than passing them on. Manufacturers Hanover's economists maintain. The middleman's average share of the retail food dollar actually declined from 60.7 percent in the first half of 1978 to 59.5 percent in the first half of this year.

And the profits of food processors and retailers increased by a relatively modest 15 percent in the first half, while those of all industries posted a 29 percent rise.

Thus, the bank contended, although the spread between farm and retail prices widened by 6.5 percent from early spring to mid-summer, the situation does not seem to have "unduly benefited" the middleman.

The debate over the middleman's role will continue, of course. Like inflation, it seems to be something that just won't go away.

that he was in charge and made clear he wanted no more fool's errands. With the Andy Young affair exploding in Washington, it was what the president needed least.

That was not the Bob Strauss who had brought the Democratic Party back from death's door after 1972 and since 1977 had stared down foreign trade negotiators. Pulled prematurely from his annual summer vacation in California, he was subjected to the jet-lag torture of a quick Mideast roundtrip. "I think he was talking out of fatigue and frustration," one White House aide told us.

After a good night's sleep back in Washington (and a long telephone conversation with Carter aboard the Delta Queen), Strauss was nearly his old self. Having convinced everybody the U.S. should not sponsor a UN resolution, he enunciated that as government policy Wednesday over NBC's "Today" program. In private, Strauss talked of his friendship with Vance (with whom he spent 45 minutes discussing personal matters of common interest to aging, rich lawyers, such as estate planning) and his direct ties to the president.

But Strauss's authority remains fuzzy. While he regards himself as no less a free agent than he was as special trade representative, Dr. Brzezinski is known to consider Strauss much more restricted now by national security considerations. Strauss himself recognizes one overriding distinction: he no longer enjoys the convincing threat of trade retribution.

Besides lacking bargaining chips and clear authority, Strauss also approaches future Mideast talks burdened by over 30 years of presidential decisions — some good, many bad, all irrevocable. The miracle man from Dallas may yet surmount all these obstacles. But the odds would be infinitely better were he back home confronting political questions where his own expertise is unchallenged and the president's needs are unmatched.

This inequality, said the report, "provides a strong motive for the mobilization of all women," and so "the women's movement will remain one of the most creative and dynamic of our times — a force for change through which the emancipation of both men and women may one day be realized."

"At a time when the concept of a New International Economic Order is being translated into action," it continued, "a new social order must also be included so as to eliminate the exploitation of the majority of the world's people."

"The time has come to ask: how long can we afford to continue the present waste and discrimination which affects human society as a whole, now and in the future?"

Amtrak Board Votes Eliminate Six Trains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak's board, bowing to red ink and Congress, has voted to eliminate six passenger trains and to combine some others this fall.

But critics say the cutbacks will only bring more deficits. "If we had good service and good frequency, trains would become just as popular and just as successful as they were years ago," said Gene Young, a Kern County supervisor at Bakersfield, Calif., the last stop of the San Joaquin train from Oakland. The San Joaquin is one of the trains targeted for elimination.

The board action Wednesday trims 5,000 miles from the 27,500-mile Amtrak system and leaves at least one major train serving each section of the country.

Amtrak officials said their vote is conditional, pending congressional approval expected in late September. But they believe their plan, to go into effect Oct. 1, will pass muster.

The cuts came after the Department of Transportation said the federally subsidized system carried only .5 percent of the intercity traveling public and cost too much.

Operating subsidies, authorized at $40 million for fiscal year 1971, will hit about $600 million this year. DOT officials said that without cutbacks, the subsidies could exceed $1.4 billion by 1984.

Both houses of Congress passed bills reducing the system by about 18 percent, instead of the 43 percent recommended by DOT. Both bills set a fiscal year 1980 operating deficit of about $550 million and require trains to average 150 passengers per mile and lose no more than 7 cents a mile. Fiscal year 1980 begins Oct. 1.

Amtrak's new route system will be based on the basic network recommended by DOT and include trains that met Congress' economic and regional criteria.

The six trains to be eliminated are: the National Limited from New York and Washington to Kansas City; the North Coast Hiawatha from Chicago to Seattle; the Lone Star from Chicago to Houston; the Hill-topper from Washington to Catlettburg, Ky.; the San Joaquin from Oakland to Bakersfield, Calif., and the Floridian from Chicago to Miami and St. Petersburg, Fla.

The board voted to combine two New York-to-Florida trains, the Silver Meteor and the Champion, between New York and Jacksonville, Fla. A Silver Meteor section will continue on to Miami and a Champion section to St. Petersburg. The Seattle-to-Portland Mount Rainier and the Seattle-to-Vancouver, British Columbia, Pacific International are to be combined on the southbound leg, with separate legs northbound.

The board also approved a new train, the Desert Wind, between Los Angeles and Ogden, Utah, a route added by the DOT when it recommended nearly 12,000 miles in cutbacks last January.

Gather Today

Secretaries gathered in Greenville today from across the eastern region of North Carolina to attend the second annual Eastern Regional Secretarial Forum. Approximately 240 secretaries were in attendance, representing mental health centers, departments of social services, and health departments in 33 counties.

The secretaries were welcomed by Robert Martin, chairman of the Pitt County Board of County Commissioners. The forum consisted of speakers from private industry and East Carolina University, with group discussions on problems and the role of local government agencies in North Carolina.

The forum was sponsored by the Eastern Regional Personnel Office, Department of Human Resources, with Ted Bowen as director and Dixie Souther, forum coordinator.

Senate, we in the federal government, have absolutely no way of controlling anything that goes on in this country, including the cost of one lousy office building."

The conditions that have drawn Proxmire's wrath are familiar to every student of Professor Parkinson. It is an inexorable law of bureaucratic life that the number of paper shufflers rises by the square of the volume of paper to be shuffled. The reverse of that theorem is equally valid. Work to be done increases proportionately to the workers available to do it. And so far as the Senate's new building is concerned, another rule applies — the rule of Mr. Bland's Castle: It costs $2 million to build another Senate gym, but only $1 million is saved by knocking it out. Last year the House vociferously rebelled at the Senate structure and ordered construction delayed while economies could be instituted. According to some critics, the delay cost $20 million.

Where it ends, nobody knows, but of this much we may be certain: Proxmire's Golden Fleece Award will not prick the thick skins of his colleagues. The congressional budget for fiscal 1980 will be larger still.

Two Men Charged In Mountbatten Bombing Death

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — charged today with the murder of Earl Mountbatten. Irish police said they also were holding an unspecified number of men for questioning after a search in the border county of Donegal. Police identified the suspects in the bombing that blew apart the 79-year-old war hero's fishing boat as Francis McGirl, 24, and Thomas McMahon, 31, and said they lived in counties in the Irish Republic adjoining the border with Northern Ireland. McMahon, a married man with one child, is an upholsterer, but security sources said they regard him as an acknowledged expert on time bomb mechanisms. McGirl is an unmarried farmer. His uncle, John Joe McGirl, was at one time one of the top six men on the Provisionals' Council, its top policy-making body.

Mullaghmore, County Sligo, they murdered Lord Louis Mountbatten contrary to public law. The two were flanked by policemen, and the suspects' lawyers were present but said nothing during the 4½-minute proceeding.

McGill sat expressionless, wearing a leather jacket and an open-necked shirt. Behind him was McMahon, who wore a parka-style jacket, also with an open-necked shirt.

As they were led by to the cells afterward, each waved to friends and relatives among a small band of spectators in the court. The two were arrested several days ago, and before the announcement was made that they were being held for Mountbatten's murder they were scheduled to appear in court on charges of possessing explosives.

Instead they were ordered held for a hearing by a special court Oct. 2.

The two suspects arrived at the court in a police van escorted front and rear by army Land Rovers and with sirens blaring. The convoy was driven at high speed through the streets of Dublin and screeched to a halt in front of the court building.

Troops wearing flak jackets and carrying automatic weapons leaped from their vehicles and formed a guard in front of the courthouse as the police van was driven into an enclosed courtyard adjoining the building. Civilians were barred from the immediate vicinity and everyone entering the court was closely searched. The court is in a side street in West Dublin and is used exclusively for anti-terrorist cases.

The Irish government already had offered a $225,000 reward for information leading to Mountbatten's killers. McGirl and McMahon were picked up Monday morning driving toward Dublin from the west of Ireland shortly before a powerful bomb ripped apart Mountbatten's 29-foot fishing boat in Donegal Bay, on the northwest coast. Police sources said the two men had traces of nitroglycerine and sea water in their clothing.

U.S. And Canada Feud Over Fishing Rights

SEATTLE (AP) — Albacore tuna — the white, most expensive grade of tuna in your supermarket — are swimming in the midst of a fishing rights squabble between the United States and Canada.

Although both nations maintain a 200-mile fishing control limit off their shores, the United States doesn't regulate the harvest of the migratory albacore beyond 12 miles.

However, Canada does control albacore fishing within its entire 200-mile limit, and eight American fishing boats were seized this week about 60 miles off the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The captains posted $5,000 bond on each boat and were released pending another court appearance in February.

In Ottawa, Canadian Fisheries Minister James McGrath said Tuesday he had received reports that 40 to 60 U.S. vessels might be fishing illegally off Canada's West Coast.

Two Fisheries Department vessels reached the area west of Vancouver late Wednesday with instructions to seize any American boats, said Wally Johnson, director general for the Pacific region of the Canadian fisheries department in Vancouver, B.C.

Meanwhile, two U.S. tuna boat owners' associations told members Wednesday to leave Canadian waters until the dispute is settled.

The seizures were unprecedented, said Johnson. U.S. fishermen were confronted as they neared Canadian waters last year and turned back.

A tuna war has been looming since 1976, when both nations extended their fishing zones, taking in large areas of tuna fishing. An interim agreement on fishing rights expired in June 1978, and a new treaty covering West Coast fishing is awaiting action by Congress, said Bob Ayers, chief of the fisheries management branch in Seattle for the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Schools of the albacore — known as the "T-bone of tuna" — normally travel up and down the coast seeking food in water of 60 degrees or warmer, said Ayers. The fish normally do not reach Canadian waters until late summer, if ever.

accomplishments: establishment of the Greenville Area Transit System (GREAT); building of a public swimming pool in Greenville; the paving of streets; obtaining and utilizing of Community Development Funds; and development of an improved method for the selection of police officers.

Gray added, "Because of many such successful accomplishments of the Greenville city government, I would like to continue the continuity needed to maximize the growth and development of our city."

WEEKLY CLASSES

FARMVILLE — Bible and reading classes are being held weekly on Thursday night at the hospitality house here from 7:30 until 9. The YPCL of Union Grove FWB Church is sponsoring the classes and the public is invited to attend.

cities during the course of my adult life and have enjoyed living in Greenville perhaps more than any other area. During the past five years Greenville has had enormous economic and industrial growth and I have watched with both pride and concern for the resulting total impact on our community.

"After 30 years in planning, engineering and construction, I believe I can add a professionalism to the Greenville City Council principally in the field of engineering and long-range planning that is sorely needed. Upon election to the office of councilman," McKee stated, "I shall endeavor to insure that the activities undertaken by our city government are logical, economically sound and allow for progressive and orderly growth."

He said that his principal areas of interest would be the development of a comprehensive energy management program and a master growth plan for the city.

"I appreciate the encouragement of my friends and the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce in encouraging me to seek this position and promise to discharge the duties of the office of councilman with the highest degree of integrity and professionalism."

Exiled Shah Said Concerned Over Events In Iran

By MARJORIE MILLER
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The deposed Shah of Iran goes around Mexico visiting tourist sights, seeing friends, playing golf or tennis — all under very tight security.

But, say aides, he also is disturbed about events in his country and is working on his memoirs.

"He remains loyal and patriotic," one of the aides, Mark Morse, said of the shah's concern for events in Iran that he left last January.

Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his family are "basically vacationing" in a posh Spanish-style villa in Cuernavaca, a colonial resort 50 miles south of Mexico City, Morse said.

"He's a classic tourist. He enjoys museums and is intrigued by the Aztec culture," Morse said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. "His life is as normal as possible."

"But he continues to be disturbed about what is happening in his country which is in a shambles now." Except for one news conference held after arriving here, the shah has shunned reporters.

Security around the shah was sharply increased in June after Iranian revolutionary court judge Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali authorized the deposed monarch's assassination and said he would give a reward to anyone who carried it out.

Iran is now led by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, one of the shah's long-time foes, who is establishing an Islamic republic to replace the Pahlavi monarchy.

Far from living in isolation, the Iranian imperial family, under heavy guard, visits with friends in Cuernavaca and other parts of the country, goes sightseeing and occasionally night-clubbing and receives visitors, who have included former President Nixon and former U. S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Morse declined to name any of the shah's other visitors and friends.

"We have received thousands of letters from all over the world since we've been in Mexico — and I don't think we've received one negative letter," Morse said.

"We've gotten several offers from Americans saying that if he needs a place to stay they have property available," Morse added. But he said the shah and his family plan to stay in Mexico for the foreseeable future.

The shah, Empress Farah and their four children — Reza, 18; Farahnaz, 16; Ali Reza, 13; and Leyla, 9 — entered Mexico on June 10 on three-month tourist visas. The visas are renewable, and eventually could be upgraded to distinguished visitor permits.

Another aide, Robert Armao, said that at home in Cuernavaca, "the shah leads a very quiet, relaxed lifestyle. He reads, trying to keep up with the situation in his country. He's also working on his memoirs."

He said the shah plays tennis and golf and "he's in good shape, thin and tan." The enormous villa sitting on a three-acre estate is surrounded by high bougainvillea-covered walls and includes a large swimming pool.

Adjoining it and divided by a small mountain stream is the golf club, Los Tabacchines, one of Mexico's most exclusive.

Cuernavaca, a city of 220,000 in a series of small valleys, is a quiet resort favored by wealthy foreigners as a place for seclusion, especially by retired Americans because of its balmy year-round weather.

The estate belongs to the widow of a wealthy Mexican architect, and last year rented for about $13,500 a month, according to local residents. This could not be confirmed. What the shah pays has not been disclosed.

Since moving to Cuernavaca, the shah and Empress Farah have made trips to the silver-mining center of Taxco, 112 miles south of Mexico City, to the southern state of Oaxaca and "occasional trips to Mexico City to go shopping or visit friends," said Morse.

Morse — who, along with Ar-mao, is an American — said the four royal children have been studying English and Spanish all summer with special tutors and plan to enter school in the fall. But he would not reveal where — whether in Mexico or in the United States, as is rumored in Cuernavaca.

Care Asked By Principal

Parents who transport their children to H. B. Sugg School, Farmville, are asked to use caution in letting off and picking up their children, says Frederick Graham, principal.

The flow of parent traffic onto the campus is from West Wallace Street to the street leading into the lunchroom area on Hines Street, with a left turn from Hines Street in front of the gym. Parents are advised when dropping off or picking up children in front of the gym to exit from the newly constructed road onto Wallace Street.

Drivers should keep to the right side of the road as close to the shoulder as possible in order that drivers needing to pull out of the line will have sufficient room to pass, Graham says.

School buses will load and unload students in front of the main building on South George Street. This portion of George Street will be closed to public traffic from 7:30 to 8:30 in the morning and from 2:55 to 3:30 in the afternoon.

Artifacts From 'Monitor' A Boon To Researchers

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The variety of artifacts recovered from the Civil War ironclad Monitor will give scientists their first opportunity to study a broad range of material kept under the same underwater conditions for more than a century, authorities say.

Although the famous warship cannot be raised at present because of its fragile condition, researchers have been able to bring up bits and pieces of its contents and structural material for study, officials said Wednesday at a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration briefing.

"These artifacts, primarily from the captain's cabin, represent the broad range of materials archeologists hoped to recover, including wood, brass, iron, leather, glass and ceramic," said Richard A. Frank, NOAA administrator.

Frank said this will allow those who preserve artifacts to see for the first time how such varied materials fare after so long under water in the same conditions.

In 49 scientific dives this month, scientists recovered a wealth of new artifacts from the ship. Among the items are three identical mustard bottles, a mason jar still containing relish, a brass lantern base, fragments of wood and a porcelain soap dish from the captain's cabin.

Officials said the government has decided against trying to raise the entire ship from its resting place off the North Carolina coast because of its extremely fragile condition.

The recent dives to the wreck, which was discovered in 1973, revealed that the ship has deteriorated seriously after 117 years under water, and may have been damaged further by depth charges during World War II.

Most of the vessel's upside-down hull has collapsed inward and many of its iron frames are weakened and badly distorted. Officials said the damage supports the theory that the Monitor was harmed inadvertently by depth charges dropped by U.S. ships hunting German submarines.

"If we tried to bring the Monitor up, it would do a substantial amount of damage," Frank said. "We will not risk shattering the remains in such an effort."

However, Frank said, the government will put together a panel of experts to determine whether historically significant parts of the seagoing tank should be raised and preserved for public view. The cost of such a project has not been determined, he added.

The dives to the Monitor, lying in 210 feet of water off Cape Hatteras, N.C., were an undertaking of NOAA, the state of North Carolina and the Harbor Branch Foundation, a private, non-profit oceanographic organization based in Fort Pierce, Fla.

While under tow on Dec. 31, 1862, the Monitor sank in a gale, taking four officers and 12 crewmen down with it. The loss came only months after a classic battle with the Confederate ironclad, the CSS Virginia, commonly called the Merrimack.

The armored ships heavily damaged one another in a standoff on March 9, 1862. Historians say the battle marked the end of the era of wooden warships.

HAMs Share VOA Tour

Last weekend approximately 25 members of the Cape Fear Amateur Radio Society visited the Voice of America in Greenville. The tour was promoted and conducted by Douglas Sanders from the VOA with assistance by Bob Knapp, a retiree of VOA. Other members of the Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club also made the tour.

At the receiving site, Winifred Crockett, the supervisor on duty, described the equipment and operations. Davey is a former member of BARC.

The next meeting of Brightleaf A.R.C. will be held September 4 at the club house in the building behind the old Pitt Memorial Hospital. William Rumley of Washington, N.C., a radio amateur who has operated in many exotic spots around the world, will give a talk and slide presentation of some of his operations and experiences.

Senators Opine SALT Reservations Acceptable

By STEPHEN R. HURST
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — After meeting with Soviet President Alexei Kosygin, a U.S. Senate delegation has concluded the Soviet government will accept the four Senate reservations proposed for the SALT II treaty, a Senate source said.

The source, who sat in on the meeting between Kosygin and the six visiting senators, said the Americans reached that conclusion because Kosygin did not respond "negatively" when they told him about the reservations.

There was no confirmation from the Russians.

The senators agreed not to discuss their meeting with Kosygin until a news conference later today.

The four proposed policy declarations, including a limit on Soviet production of its sophisticated Backfire bomber, would be included in the Senate's resolution of ratification and would not alter the treaty text itself. The Soviets have adamantly opposed any change in the text.

The treaty — the product of seven years of difficult negotiations under three presidents — sets ceilings on the Soviet and American missiles and bombers capable of carrying nuclear payloads on long-range attacks. Presidents Carter and Leonid I. Brezhnev signed it in June in Vienna.

The pact has come under fire in the Senate, where it must be ratified by a two-thirds majority before it can take effect.

The four "reservations and understandings" were proposed by Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., the head of the delegation visiting Moscow, at the start of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on the treaty. When the hearings ended early this month, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman, and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., the panel's ranking Republican, said they would attach the four points to the ratification resolution.

The reservations would declare these U.S. policy positions:

—The United States understands that verbal reassurances by Soviet President Brezhnev on the Backfire bomber are binding. A violation would be considered as serious as violation of the treaty itself. Brezhnev pledged that production of the plane would be limited to 30 a year and that it would not be given the capability of striking the United States and returning to Russia.

—Temporary restrictions on cruise missile technology contained in a separate protocol will in fact expire on Dec. 31, 1981, as scheduled, and will not become a precedent unless agreed on by a two-thirds Senate vote.

—The United States will not permit any Soviet interpretation of the treaty to prevent it from transferring weapons technology to its European allies to modernize their nuclear or conventional arsenals.

—The so-called "agreed statements and common understandings" attached to the treaty have the same weight as the treaty itself.

"There was a great deal of give-and-take, a very active Senate source, who declined to be named.

Commission Provides On-The-Job Training

James E. Hannan, manager of the Greenville office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission, reports that the office is administering on-the-job training under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act of 1973 (CETA).

Using CETA/on-the-job training funds, the commission may enter into a training contract with any business having a license to operate in North Carolina — or a non-profit or public agency.

The amount of training time a business receives for a trainee is dependent upon the skill level of the occupation, Hannan added. The employer will be reimbursed up to one half of the hourly starting wage of the trainee throughout the established training time.

This reimbursement is received monthly for the extraordinary cost of training unskilled persons. Record keeping has been made as simple as possible, requiring the employer to keep only attendance records and to prepare a monthly invoice for reimbursement.

The Employment Security Commission has the responsibility of certifying all trainees in such programs as being eligible for participation in the CETA program. Employers may refer individuals to the commission for consideration, and/or receive referrals from the commission of eligible applicants. In any event, the employer makes the final decision as to who is hired.

Through July of the current year, the Greenville office of ESC has written 19 CETA/on-the-job training contracts in Pitt County, according to Mrs. Maxine Cox, CETA Selection and Referral Officer for the Greenville office. There have been 34 individuals in training during this time, she added.

Any business, non-profit or public agency interested in CETA on-the-job training opportunities should contact the Greenville Employment Security Commission at 756-2686.

4-H Horse Club Meets Monday

Homecoming At Church Sunday

STOKES — Homecoming services will be observed at Sweet Gum Grove FWB Church Sunday.

Services will begin at 10 a.m. with Sunday School followed by morning worship at 11 a.m. The Rev. Joe Hudson, a former pastor, will be the speaker. A memorial service will also be held. Lunch will be followed by a sing-spiration.

All former pastors, members and friends are invited.

Announce Agency Fringe Benefit

Lynne Siddall, occupational program consultant with the Pitt County Mental Health Center, has implemented an Employee Assistance Program for the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency.

According to ECHSC Executive Director Roy Selby, "as the local agency responsible for health planning in eastern North Carolina as it relates to manpower, services and facilities, one of the goals in our Health Systems Plan is to have employees participate in Employee Assistance Programs. Therefore, in keeping with the tradition of our plan and concepts, we have enacted an Employee Assistance Program as a fringe benefit for the employees of this agency."

Siddall says that the EAP is designed to identify at an early stage problems that may affect work performance, provide the employee with assistance resources, and preserve the employees' abilities to perform his or her job satisfactorily. The program serves employees and their immediate families.

The program is offered to businesses and industries of all sizes through the Pitt County Mental Health Center. Further information is available from Ms. Siddall, 752-7151.

Cites Honest Errors In CETA Funds

MACDONALD'S MOTHER — Mrs. Dorothy MacDonald, mother of Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, leaves Federal Court in Raleigh Wednesday afternoon after learning her son had been found guilty of the 1970 slayings of MacDonald's wife and the couple's two children. Escorting Mrs. MacDonald is Michael Malley, one of MacDonald's lawyers and long time friend. (AP Laserphoto)

First Meeting By Tree Board

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tree Board, recently appointed by Mayor Sara Albritton, held its first meeting Monday.

Members saw a film presented by State Forest Service staff members and agreed to procedures for conducting an inventory of street trees and developing a proposed ordinance for tree board operations and tree protection.

Gene Perkins, a forester who is a Farmville resident, was elected temporary chairperson of the committee, and Jess Heizer was chosen secretary. Other members present were Lottie-Lane Henry and Ken Poe. Bob Deans was absent.

Also present were ex-officio member, Patrick Thomas, town administrator; Edwin Thorne, assistant to the administrator; Herman Terry, forester in the State Urban Forestry Program; and Rod Swink, a landscape architect with the Urban Forestry staff.

May Have Swayed Wife, Says Dancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolshoi Ballet star Alexander Godunov, who defected to the United States last week, says if he had been able to see his wife before she returned to the Soviet Union, she would have stayed with him.

But Godunov, 29, who was granted asylum after he walked into an office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said he was unable to contact his wife, ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova, 36.

He told reporters Wednesday: "I found myself in a situation at that point where I couldn't come to her. At the moment of my defection I wasn't able to contact my wife."

Asked why he thought his wife wanted to return to the Soviet Union, Godunov said with tears in his eyes, "I myself would like to ask her this question. I know that if we had been able to meet we wouldn't be separated now."

Miss Vlasova returned to the Soviet Union on Monday after a 73-hour diplomatic standoff at Kennedy International Airport. U.S. State Department officials grounded her jet until they were sure the ballerina was leaving of her own free will.

Godunov denounced Soviet newspaper reports that he defected for a "mountain of gold and a sea of whiskey." He said he left because of limits on his work as a dancer in the Soviet Union, where he was a soloist with the Bolshoi company.

"The first restriction is that one imposed on my performances," he said. "That is, I wasn't dancing enough there. I wasn't able to work with the choreographers of other countries...even inside of Russia."

"I am full of hopes and I am full of energy," he said. "I am in the States and I hope that the freedom that has been given to me will help me to use all my talents and my energies in my work."

He did not say anything else about his plans.

He asked newsmen to pass on to his wife "my desire to see her again."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Virtually all of the irregularities found in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act programs since 1976 have been the result of honest error, according to Howard N. Lee, state Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development.

State auditors have found nearly $20 million in "questionable costs" in CETA programs since 1976, Lee said.

"I don't know of anybody who has had to pay back money because of questionable costs," Lee said. Only two out of "thousands and thousands" of contracts have been terminated for non-performance, he said.

The questionable expenditures by contractors in the job training-public employment program were unearthed by auditors who checked only about half the funds involved.

All of the CETA funds allocated to North Carolina by the federal government are channeled through Lee's department.

It was reported Wednesday that the North Carolina AFL-CIO and two corporations headed by union president Wilbur Hobby were awarded more than $1 million by Lee's department and by Labor Commissioner John Brooks.

Organized labor, including the state AFL-CIO, gave its endorsement and financial contributions to Lee's unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and Brooks' candidacy for labor commissioner in 1976.

Gov. Jim Hunt's press secretary, Gary Pearce, said Wednesday that Hunt would have no comment until an investigation by the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development is completed. Lee ordered the investigation after he was informed of the situation.

As an example of the errors that crop up in the handling of CETA money and how they are handled, Lee cited irregularities in a Lumberton program totaling $5 million. He said they were resolved "with the proper filing of reports."

Will Speak On Center Services

Dr. Sam Williams, coordinator of adult services at Pitt County Mental Health Center, will be a guest Sunday, September 2, on "Mental Health Matters," at 1:06 p.m. on WNCN Radio. Williams will discuss direct services offered by the Center, as well as the Center's biofeedback service.

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold mining stocks rose as bullion hit new highs on international markets but the broader market was mixed in listless trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.37 at 883.53 by midday.

Overall gaining and losing issues were about evenly matched on the New York Stock Exchange. The NYSE composite index rose .02 to 62.20.

Among the precious metals stocks, Homestake Mining rose 1 to 39 3/4; ASA was up 3/4 to 27 1/4 and Hecla gained 1/4 to 14 1/4. Gold climbed to $319.15 an ounce on London's bullion market today and also hit a record $318.62 in Zurich, Europe's other bullion trading center.

Trading volume was a slow 12.53 million shares at midday down from 13.15 million in the previous session.

Some analysts suggested that the weekly Federal Reserve report on money supply issued after the close of trading today, may add a note of caution to the market.

The Federal Reserve recently notched up short-term interest rates in an effort to slow money growth and dampen inflation. But higher rates also increase the risk of a more severe business slump.

In other economic news, the Labor Department said wages and salaries rose an average 1.9 percent in the second quarter, down from a 2 percent gain in the previous quarter.

Retail stocks were mixed as stores reported monthly sales figures. K Mart rose 1/4 to 27 1/2; Federated Department Stores gained 1/4 to 30 1/2; Penney was unchanged at 33 and Woolworth fell 1/4 to 27 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .65 to 214.94.

As approved, the new planning commission will include the members of the board's executive committee, the chancellor and vice-chancellors, the dean of the School of Medicine, president of the Alumni Association, the executive committee of the Faculty Senate, representative members of the Academic Council and the Graduate Council, as well as representatives of the Student Government Association, the Educational Policies and Planning Committee and State Personnel Act representatives.

As outlined, the commission will study the philosophy and goals of the university and plan for academic programs and support, organization, institutional support, student service and public service.

Trustees also adopted a resolution that permits employees of the school who change from a 12 month contract to a nine-month term to use and account for their accumulated sick leave so that they may count unused sick leave toward their creditable service for retirement purposes.

Also given approval yesterday was a fund-raising policy for the university under which all fund-raising efforts at the school will be coordinated by the Office of Development, in consultation with the vice-chancellor for Institutional Advancement and Planning.

The board, after being told by Athletic Director Bill Cain that it is in the best interest of ECU to be a member of an athletic conference, give him the authority to continue negotiations toward the formation of a new conference.

Cain told the board that the athletic directors of the U. S. Naval Academy, Old Dominion University, William and Mary, Richmond University and James Madison University, as well as East Carolina, have been discussing the establishment of a new conference.

The athletic director explained that six schools are required to establish a new conference and that conference members must participate in six sports. He emphasized that although basketball and baseball might be included as two of the sports, football would be excluded, if the conference becomes a reality.

He added that the athletic directors have scheduled a meeting in September to continue discussions of the proposal.

In staff reports to the board, Dr. Robert H. Maier, vice-chancellor for Academic Affairs told the trustees that as of 5 p.m. Tuesday, some 11,751 students were registered for the first semester some 480 more than at the same time last year.

Dr. William Laupus, Dean of the School of Medicine reported that the medical school faculty now numbers 118 full time equivalent positions and 129 part-time clinical faculty members, while 105 medical students are enrolled, including 40 first year students, 34 second year, and 28 third year class members.

He also said the ECU School of Medicine has been rated, "the strongest of the new and developing medical schools," established since 1970. "Other schools are having great difficulty," with funding, he explained.

MacDonald Is Welcome

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald is still welcome at an emergency medical conference in Wyoming next week despite the California doctor's murder conviction in North Carolina Wednesday. "Certainly I still want him to attend," said Jim Murray, head of emergency medical services for the Wyoming Department of Health and Social Services, sponsor of a three-day conference next week at which MacDonald is scheduled to speak.

Murray said Thursday he was "shocked and saddened" by MacDonald's conviction in the 1970 stabbing deaths of his wife and two daughters.

Rampants Open Season Against Kinston

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
For Rose High School's Rampants, the wait is almost over. During most of the preseason drills, the media throughout the east has tagged the Rose eleven as one of the teams to beat in the Division I, 4-A race.

Friday night, in their opener against Kinston, the Rampants will learn if that reputation is real, or just a paper one. The kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, but it is not a "home game" for the team. Kinston, which is unable to use Grainger Stadium in Kinston, has charge of the game, and Rose season-ticket holders are reminded that their tickets are not good for this game. "We can't improve any more without playing someone," Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "We have to play other people to improve now."

Following last week's scrimmage game with New Bern, Bumgarner felt that the Rampants did some things poorly and some things very good. "Despite the problems we had, we still picked up a lot of good yardage," he said. "We threw the ball well. And we've had good practices this week. "So I think we'll improve offensively and have better blocking than we had in our scrimmage, as well as better play in the backfield." As far as the game in concerned, Bumgarner feels that the Rampants must control the ball on offense if they are to be successful in the opener. Many of last year's offensive starters return this season. They include tackles Bill Cobb and Jerry Daniels, guards Vance Taylor and Wallace Brown, along with Mark Shank and Calvin Whichard in the backfield, and Ron Butler at tight end.

Daniels and Curtis Spell offer line backup support, with Willie Short at linebacker, and John Vestal, Jamie Byrd and Pat Dye Jr. in the backfield. "Our kicking game should be excellent with King returning. He'll handle all of our kicking duties," Bumgarner said. Shank will be the deep man on all kicks. "I'm very apprehensive about the Kinston game," the coach said. "Kinston is going to be very tough. They've improved tremendously, and then I expect that we'll have some first game jitters, too. It will be difficult to do what we need to do."

Kinston, which runs from the slot-I, has the ability to move the ball. "But I'm not so much worried about how they move the ball as how we'll move it. It could easily be a low scoring game."

"But then, they have a good offense, and if either team could crank it up..." he said. The contest is one of six being played in Ficklen Stadium by the Rampants this year, although Rose will be the visitors in this contest only.

Rose High
Rampants

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
With the large number of starters returning from last year's squad, Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina might be expected to be prophesying big things for the Pirates.

But just a couple of days prior to the opening kickoff, Dye is subdued and waiting for the team to show what it can do rather than have him talk about it.

"We've got a lot of potential," he said during the first of his regular weekly press conferences for this season. "But so does a keg of dynamite. But unless someone lights up that dynamite, it just sits there. We're like that. Right now, I'm waiting to see if there's going to be any fire to it."

The first units on both the offensive and defensive teams return a number of veterans, but Dye notes that offensively, at least, there are a number of question marks. These are mainly due to the fact that untested people are operating in backup roles. Until they have a chance to show what they can do against an opponent, they remain question marks.

"You can look at our depth chart and you'll see," he pointed out. "About the only place we have real experience on the second unit is in the backfield. At the rest of the positions, we have very little experience."

"We do have a good attitude, good enthusiasm, and I like their approach to the game. But how quickly they come along is going to be important for us, as well as how healthy we stay."

On defense, there is more depth that's been tested. "Our secondary situation is the best it's ever been," Dye said. "We have three starters back, and we have tested people at the other position. We also have some good newcomers who we think can do the job."

As an example, Dye noted that cornerback Freddie Jones, a freshman from Portsmouth, Va., has been one of the most exciting freshmen the Pirates have had in years. "Of all the freshmen, I'd have to say that he's the closest to being ready to play," Dye added.

With returning Bill Lamm handling the placements and field goals, and Rodney Allen back to take care of the punting, Dye feels good about these aspects of the game.

In the return game, Anthony

Collins returns to handle kickoffs, where he ranked 14th in the country last season. Jones is a good best to be deep on punts.

"We're tired now, and we haven't looked good the last couple of days on the practice field," Dye said. "But I hope we will snap out of it and be ready by Saturday."

The Pirates are expecting to start former Ayden-Grifton star Vern Davenport at split end, with Billy Ray Washington, the leading pass receiver from last year at tight end. Matt Mulholland will be at one tackle with Joe Godette, last season's tight end at the other. Wayne Inman and Mitchell Johnston will be at the guards. The latter was the lone Pirate to make the pre-

It's Not HomeGame

Rose High School will be the visiting team in its opening game Friday night, despite the fact that the 7:30 p.m. contest is being played in Ficklen Stadium, athletic director Bud Phillips said.

The game, scheduled to be in Kinston originally, had to be moved when Kinston's home field was previously committed to a softball tournament.

Rose High School season ticket holders are reminded that their tickets are not good for this game, but will be good for the remaining five home contests on the schedule.

Murray Sparks Baltimore's Sweep

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

In nearly three seasons with the Baltimore Orioles, none of Eddie Murray's 72 homers had been hit in Minnesota. Three swings later, the Metropolitan Mystery was solved.

"All I know is, I hadn't hit one in this ballpark before," said Murray, who hit three homers in the second game of a double-header sweep over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday. "The Twins have been tough on me. I haven't had too many hits here of any kind."

The 23-year-old switch-hitting slugger had a sacrifice fly in the 4-0 opening-game victory and then knocked in all of Baltimore's runs in the 7-4 second-game triumph with his three homers, two from the right side and one from the left.

Murray has built a reputation as a hitter you shouldn't throw fastballs to, but on Wednesday he said he "decided to sit on some slow stuff for a change."

Geoff Zahn blanked the Orioles until the fifth when Murray, hitting right-handed, connected for a three-run homer. A two-run blast off Zahn in the seventh and another two-run shot, Murray's 21st of the year, against Mike Marshall put the game away in the eighth.

In the opener, Scott McGregor won his seventh game in eight decisions since the All-Star break, scattering eight singles for the shutout, while Doug DeCinces hit a two-run triple to supplement sacrifice flies by Murray and Al Bumbry.

Chicago's Comiskey Park field was declared unplayable Wednesday for the third time in six days.

The outfield has been a mess because of heavy rains following rock concerts during which fans trampled the grass.

White Sox owner Bill Veeck said the postponement of Wednesday night's Boston-Chicago game was "another strange and stupid decision." He said his outfield was as good as the field was in Milwaukee last week when his team played there.

But Red Sox Manager Don Zimmer said, "Anybody playing in that outfield tonight would be in danger of breaking a leg."

Royals 18, Brewers 5
Milwaukee fell eight games behind Baltimore in the AL East and Kansas City moved within one-half game of California in the West with a 19-hit attack.

Pete LaCock drove in four runs and Amos Otis three and the Royals got homers from LaCock, Otis and George Brett as they scored 17 of their runs in the first four innings. Infielders Sal Bando and Jim Gantner and catcher Buck Martinez combined to pitch the last five innings for the Brewers, allowing three runs.

Tigers 2, Angels 1

Slumping California lost its seventh game in the last eight and 11th out of 15 as Detroit's Steve Kemp knocked in Lou Whitaker with a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning.

Jack Morris, 13-5, got the victory with hitless relief the last two innings by Aurelio Lopez.

Indians 5-2, Mariners 4-1

Floyd Bannister was cruising along with a three-hitter and a 4-0 lead in the opener when Cleveland erupted for five runs in the ninth to win. The Indians then captured the second game on Toby Harrah's two-run homer and a combined six-hitter by Rick Waits and Victor Cruz.

Andre Thornton hit his 21st homer, a two-run shot off Bannister, for the first big blow of the first-game rally, then a single by Gary Alexander and a walk set up a two-run double by Mike Hargrove off Shane Rawley that tied the game.

Yankees 7, Rangers 5

Ron Guidry won his eighth straight start to up his record to 14-7 and George Scott, acquired only last Monday, hit a three-run homer in a five-run second inning as New York beat Texas.

Buddy Bell, who had three RBI, doubled home a run in the ninth to deprive last year's Cy Young Award winner of a complete game.

A's 6, Blue Jays 4

Mario Guerrero had three RBI and Mike Norris scattered 10 hits in a complete-game victory for Oakland. Guerrero had a two-out single in the first inning that gave the A's a 1-0 lead and brought home two more runs with a bases-loaded single in the third when Oakland scored four times.

Standing behind the podium, Demetrius Edwards appeared out of place. He admitted as much, saying he was a fighter not a talker.

But none of the more than 60 persons at the Ayden-Grifton gym last Friday night expressed concern about Edwards' admitted inability as an orator.

They had come for one thing — to honor Edwards' prowess as a fighter, a prowess which, according to the program distributed before the ceremonies, has made him the world's number one contender for the light-heavy weight crown in full contact karate.

Numerous speakers ? from Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger to old high school buddies — paraded up to the podium and spoke of Edwards in glowing terms.

Without fail, each speaker said Edwards was a person who cared about everyone. He likes everyone, even his opponents, the speakers said.

Citing an example, Master of Ceremonies Gaston Monk said, "Before he puts his foot in his opponents face he taps him on the shoulder to get his attention."

Edwards, whose is called "Oak Tree" by his friends — he has no enemies — has been getting attention in Ayden, where he was born and raised, since he was in high school.

"We didn't call him Oak Tree then," said William Wiggins, now principal of Ayden-Grifton, but when Edwards was in school was on the football coaching staff. "His body must have softened up because I always thought he was made of steel, and so did his opponents."

"He was a conference champ in wrestling at 185 pounds, even though that was about two weight classes above his own weight," Wiggins said.

"He won a lot of matches by forfeits as I recall. His opponents would take the mat, take one look at him, and leave."

During the ceremonies, Oak Tree was awarded a key to the city — one of only two people ever to have received that honor— and was also given a number of certificates of recognition.

But every time he got up to receive an award he would humbly thank the person and then quickly return to his seat.

Perhaps the person who knows Edwards best, beside his immediate family and close friends, is his manager, Bill McDonald, himself a karate expert.

"Whenever Demetrius travels he's representing you folks," McDonald said. "When he steps off the plane at the places he goes people know him and know he's from Ayden."

During his fighting career, Oak Tree has compiled one of the best records in the sport, 25-2-1, McDonald said.

"The fact is he's won all these fights and people are beginning to recognize him. But more important than that, people come up to me and tell me he's a real gentleman."

"He's humble, I've never seen him egotistical," McDonald said. "After every fight, he always goes to his opponent's dressing room, whenever his opponent wakes up."

At this point McDonald paused, and then said, "I'd like to tell you a little story."

"Demetrius was set to fight the Italian champ in Lake Tahoe a while back. This fighter was a real colorful, confident individual, who had been mouthing off a lot during weigh-ins."

"Well, Demetrius was well within the weight limits, but I told him to strip down to his shorts anyway. He looked at me and said he was all right. But I told him, 'Strip down to your shorts.'"

"Well if you've ever seen Demetrius in his shorts you know what kind of body he has."

"That Italian fighter got one look at Demetrius and grabbed his manager and said he wasn't going to fight Demetrius. He got a look at Demetrius and we had psyched him out. He's truly built like an Oak Tree."

After listening to the rest of the speakers, the crowd gave Edwards' a standing ovation, during which Oak Tree brushed his hand across his eyes a number of times, as if to wipe a tear away.

Following the ovation, a few persons left, but the majority remained, pushing in around Demetrius "Oak Tree" Edwards, congratulating him on being a champion.

Okay New League

East Carolina's Board of Trustees gave formal okay for the conference to pursue matters in the formation of a new non-football athletic conference.

East Carolina has been involved in negotiations with the University of Richmond, James Madison, William & Mary, Old Dominion and the Naval Academy concerning the formation of a new league and several meetings have been held already, although the full formation of the league is not expected in time for this year's scheduling.

The trustees gave their formal approval of the effort to form the league, giving Athletic Director Bill Cain unanimous approval to continue negotiations.

Putting Winners

Johnny Carrow edged Danny Woods and Tim Manning last night in sudden death to win the Top Dog Tournament at the local Putt-Putt.

All three tied at 18 under par 90 at the end of regulation play. Carrow then aced the first hole to win the tournament, while Manning aced the second hole to place second.

Gryphons, Rampants Get Coaches' Nod

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Defending Division I champion Rocky Mount was tabbed as the team to beat in a coaches' poll conducted by "The Daily Reflector" at a Monday afternoon press conference held by the conference.

Walt Wiggins' Gryphons drew first place votes from six of the other seven coaches, while Rose High School garnered Wiggins' top ballot and one other. (Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own team on the ballot. A full tabulation of the balloting appears below.)

Based on a 7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point basis, Rocky Mount finished with 48 points, while Rose was close behind with 43.

Northeastern finished third among the coaches' poll with 35, followed by Bertie Senior with 30. Wilson Fike was picked for fifth with 20 points, followed by Northern Nash with 19, and newcomers Wilson Beddingfield with 15 and Wilson Hunt with 14.

Rocky Mount
The Gryphons have a number of people returning to the championship team, and Wiggins feels that being favored to win again is just fine with him.

"I think we'll be okay. We lost some key people especially in our receivers, but we should be much better than adequate."

Wiggins feels that there is no pressure on the Gryphons as defending champs and favorites. "We've been here before so it's nothing new to us. The kids enjoy being defending champions. I kind of like the role of favorites."

Wiggins rates the versatility of the team as its strong point. "We can run or pass equally well, and that makes it hard to defense us." As a weakness, he pegged having to replace nine starters on defense. "We looked good in the scrimmage, however, so I think we'll be okay."

Quarterback Bill Merrifield, tackle Cliff Powell and tailback Victor Thorne are listed as the top offensive people, while linebacker Jeff Arrington, halfback Pete Weaver and Powell top the defensive stars.

Northeastern
Northeastern's Jerry McGee

feels that his team is destined to finish "in the middle."
"I think we'll be competitive, but we don't have enough talent to be a number one contender," McGee said. "We have a lot of good kids, but not a great deal of great athletes. Basically, they're all up from the jv's."

McGee feels that his defensive secondary, along with the offensive line, will be the strongest features of the team, while the lack of experience will probably be the weakest point.

"Our offense will probably be a lot different from last year," the coach said. "We don't have the big play people. We're quicker, but not as big or talented. Defensively, the team is a question mark. We have some size, and have the chance to be good."

Top offensive players will probably be tackle Lawrence Brooks, switched from nose guard, and a cousin, Dustin Brooks, at the other tackle. Clement Williams, the returning tailback, is the biggest back at 5-9, 165.

Defensively, James Copeland, who didn't play last year, has talent, while Brad Olson, another tackle, is the best lineman up from the jv's. Safety Walter Harris and Jerry Spencer head the backfield.

Bertie Senior
Bertie Coach Bing Mitchell looks for the Falcons to be small, but quick this year. "I hope we'll be real aggressive. We're going to have to be aggressive to be competitive. We lost a lot of good players in last year's senior class. We lost 23 seniors and 18 of them were starters."

The Falcons return an outstanding quarterback in Stanley Pugh. Only one other player returns on offense, however. "We have some strong running backs, but our offensive line is inexperienced and small. That's probably our weak point."

Mitchell feels that his defense will come along, but is going to be young. "We do have some good athletes on defense," he added.

Mitchell listed tailback Paul Spivey, fullback Paige Cherry, Pugh and center Ricky Askew are the top offensive players, while linebacker Frankie Bazemore, safety Clarence Hayes and end Isiah Hill spark the defense.

"Our biggest problem is depth. We have seven people going both ways now, and that's too many in a 4-A league," Mitchell said.

Wilson Fike
Maxie Williams of Wilson's Fike High School looks for some improvement this year. "We're a little quicker and stronger. I've worked the kids harder than I ever have before, but I felt we needed it."

Williams said that the Golden Demon future depends a lot on how healthy the team stays. "We don't have much depth in the interior line on offense. We've lost a quarterback to mono and a tailback to a knee injury. But Anthony Moore has stepped in and done a good job at tailback."

Other top offensive players include fullback Truck Ruffin, center Rob Carpenter; guard Jeff Moore, tackle Randy Adams and tight end Robert Bland.

"On defense, we're using a new system, the five-two. We don't have a lot of size, but good quickness."

Top players here include tackle Bernie Walker, linebackers Jerry Ruffin and Truck Ruffin, nose guard Frank Cook, tackle Larry Norman, and safety Ricky Matthews.

"I hope our defense will be our strong point, and we have good depth in the offense backfield. Our interior line, depth and inexperience are our chief weaknesses."

Northern Nash
For the Northern Nash Knights, Coach Walter Barnhill sees a brighter future this year. "We're small but quick and we have good numbers," Barnhill said.

Barnhill looks for his defense to be strong, despite having only four starters back. "They are all back in key positions so this helps," he added. "Our offensive line will probably be the weakest part of the team. We don't have any experienced people in our front six positions."

Key offensive people are running back-quarterback James Jones, running back Kenny Ray Richardson, quarterback-flanker David Wells, and split ends Jeff Collins and Charles Macklin.

Orlando Battle, a linebacker; David Schindehette, a defensive end; and safeties Larry Battle and Calvin Hargrove spark the defense.

Beddingfield
"We're going to be basically young and inexperienced," Beddingfield Bruin coach Ray Barger said. "We have only two seniors on offense. The defense is a little better off, with our secondary back intact. It's the strongest point of the whole club."

Barger listed the lack of depth and inexperience as the two weak points for the team.

Running backs Cary Gee, Randy Emory and John Bynum, along with quarterback Greg Dail lead the offense. "We lost all our our tackles and are also weak at center," Barger said.

On defense, Barger was pleased with the play during the team's pre-season scrimmage. Linebacker Clarence Anderson leads that side of the field.

"Overall, we're just real young and inexperienced. We don't have much senior leadership. I just hope we come around and grow up quickly."

Wilson Hunt
Hunt Warrior coach Bill Williamson is the lone new coach in the conference, and he feels that while the team is small and lacking in depth, he does have a couple of blue chippers.

"It's going to be a testy year for us. We have to play hard, avoid injuries to have a good season," he said.

Mike Wells, a halfback, and quarterback Will Webb, are expected to pace the offense.

"Our defense is young, and the best player is strong safety

Claims Stories Were 'Stolen'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jerry Rushing of Union County was an admitted bootlegger, and he once operated an archery business near his home in western North Carolina.

If this sounds a bit familiar, Rushing says it ought to. He has filed a $1 million lawsuit claiming that the CBS television series "The Dukes of Hazzard" is stolen directly from stories he recorded between 1973 and 1978 on life in the rural South. The tapes made by Rushing were based on his teenage and early adult antics.

"The Dukes of Hazzard" chronicles the adventures of Bo, Luke and Daisy Duke and consists mostly of fast cars, good ol' boys and moonshine. In a lawsuit filed in U.S. Western District Court, Rushing claims that Cy Waldron, acting as an agent for Warner Brothers Inc., Warner Communications Inc. and Warner Television Inc., solicited Rushing's tapes and then used the copyrighted material without his permission. Warner Brothers is the producer of the series.

Rushing said in the suit that he turned over the tapes with an oral agreement that none of the material would be used without his permission, which he never gave. He believes the stories have been worth quite a bit to CBS and a recent ratings survey bears him out, at least in his home territory.

The survey found that "The Dukes of Hazzard" is the most-watched show in a 22-county area in western North Carolina, with an estimated 29 percent of the households tuning in every Friday night.

Rushing is seeking a permanent injunction to prevent the series from being broadcast, and he wants the tape transcripts back.

Warner Brothers has offered to settle out of court, according to reports in the Charlotte News. The company is willing to pay Rushing a small initial sum, plus a weekly fee for each of the shows and reruns.

But Rushing wants $1 million in punitive damages and an unspecified sum of money to compensate for use of the material, plus damages equal to the material's value. He has named CBS, Warner Brothers and Waldron as the defendants in the suit.

Reversal On Loan Decision

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development said Wednesday it has reversed its decision to defer a $1.5 million loan to the University of North Carolina at Charlotte for a new dormitory.

In documents filed in U.S. District Court in Raleigh, HUD also said it will not withhold any loans or grants to the University of North Carolina system until an administrative judge decides whether UNC has violated federal civil rights laws.

The federal government denied allegations by the North Carolina Department of Justice that HUD deferred the funds in an attempt to force a desegregation settlement between UNC and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

On June 8, U.S. District Court Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. ordered HEW and 11 other federal agencies not to cut off or defer any funds to UNC until administrative hearings on whether the university system violated civil rights laws are completed. HEW will hold the hearings, which will begin in January.

The federal government said in the documents filed Wednesday that HUD's decision to defer the UNC loan was made independently. The papers said the decision did not violate Dupree's order because HUD was not named in the order.

The loan was approved by HUD on July 27, but federal officials told the university on Aug. 16 they had decided to defer it, saying they were holding it up until it was determined at an administrative hearing if UNC was violating federal civil rights laws.

The state went to federal court Friday, asking Dupree to block attempts by HUD or any other federal agency to defer funds to the UNC system. The state will not drop that request, Attorney General Rufus L. Edmisten said Wednesday in an interview.

A Greenville native, Browning was a Superior Court Judge for six years. He also is a past member of the North Carolina State Board of Transportation.

WOMEN'S DAY

FARMVILLE — Union Grove F.W.B. Church will hold women's day services at 11 a.m. Sunday. Evangelist Sarah Applewhite of Wilson will speak. Elder H. L. Hill, pastor, invites the public to attend and asks all women to wear white.

Fish Kill In Lake 'Legal'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A nine-acre fish kill on Lake Wylie last week has brought some complaints, but Duke Power Co. and South Carolina officials say the kill was legal.

About 2,250 pounds of fish were killed to allow Duke to take its annual fish population sampling.

"When you consider the total (fish) population, this is less than one-tenth of 1 percent of the lake," said Duke biologist Dr. Larry Olmsted.

Olmsted said rotenone, a chemical that restricts fish gill movements, is used in the annual sampling at Lake Wylie and Lake Norman.

The chemical does not harm any other animal or plant life.

Sampling is used to check the health and size of various fish species. Results are multiplied across the total area of the lake sampled.

In the Wylie sampling, nets were strung across the entrances to three coves of about three acres each. Rotenone then was poured into the water.

Olmsted said the exact number of fish killed has not been determined but that a small sample of each species is being studied at Duke's biological laboratory on Lake Norman.

Millions Of Americans Are Expected Greet Pope

By The Associated Press
Millions of Americans are expected to turn out to welcome Pope John Paul II when he makes a whirlwind tour of six cities in one week, say officials who heard with delight of the pontiff's plans to celebrate Mass in cities from Des Moines, Iowa, to New York.

"There are 500,000 Catholics in Iowa alone," said Joe Grubbs, an aide to Gov. Robert Ray. "That doesn't begin to account for the non-Catholics from Iowa and other people from outside the state who will undoubtedly want to be here."

John Paul will be the second pope to visit America. In 1967, Paul VI made a visit to the United Nations and celebrated Mass in New York's Yankee Stadium.

The Vatican announcement Wednesday gave only the pope's general itinerary, but said John Paul would celebrate Mass at each stop.

After a visit to the Irish Republic, the pontiff will arrive in Boston on Oct. 1, then fly to New York on Oct. 2 to address the United Nations General Assembly.

On Oct. 3, he will fly to Philadelphia, stopping the next day in Des Moines on his way to Chicago. The pope will then visit Washington for two days, according to the Vatican announcement.

"It is with profound gratitude and joy that I learned the holy father is to come to Boston..." said Cardinal Humberto Medeiros. Added the Rev. Edwin O'Brien, coordinator of the papal visit to New York: "Wherever he is he does so much good not only for Catholics but for people of all faith."

More than a million people are expected to attend a pontifical Mass on the Washington, D.C., mall between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial. John

Paul is expected to meet with President Carter during his Washington stay, a meeting that would make him the first pope to visit the White House. As Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, the pontiff visited 11 American cities in 1969. He has visited Mexico and his native Poland since becoming pope last year. The pope had considered a visit to embattled Northern Ireland, but dropped the idea "due to the dreadful murders of recent days," said Vatican officials.

Arrested In Holdup Try

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A spokesman for the Jacksonville Police Department said a Jacksonville man was arrested today when he attempted to rob a branch of North Carolina National Bank.

Delma Thomas, who is in charge of the department's special operations division, said James L. Fountain was arrested when he entered the bank at 9 a.m. and demanded money. He said a juvenile also was being sought in the case.

Thomas said police officers and FBI agents posing as customers were in the bank when Fountain came in.

"He (Fountain) was the first customer inside the bank, and he was carrying a fake explosive device," Thomas said.

Thomas said a Jacksonville police detective, Herbert Battle, has been working undercover to gather information on the robbery, which Thomas said Fountain had planned for some time. He said officers found out last week that Fountain planned to rob the NCNB office on Western Boulevard this morning.

Fountain was scheduled to appear before a federal magistrate in New Bern later today. Thomas said he would face federal charges of attempted bank robbery and conspiracy to commit bank robbery.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass
 4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass
 6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

To assure making his contract, South, declarer at six spades, took a finesse in the "wrong" suit—with gratifying results.

North's jump response of three no trump showed specifically a hand of 4-3-3-3 pattern and 16-18 points. South, who had a king more than a minimum opening bid, made a slam try below the game-level, and North indicated a good spade fit and maximum values by jumping over game. South naturally continued to slam.

West led the top of his diamond sequence, and South was satisfied with his dummy. If both black queens could be picked up, he would make his contract with an overtrick. Only a most unkind twist of fate, losing a trick to each queen, would sink the slam.

"Eight ever, nine never" has been drummed into us over the years, so it would seem that declarer should play to drop the queen of spades, and if that did not succeed, then fall back on the club finesse. But that would be a casual way to play the hand. This declarer found a better plan.

He won the ace of diamonds, cashed the king of diamonds and ruffed dummy's remaining diamond. Next, he cashed three rounds of hearts, discarding a club from his hand. (The chance of an enemy ruff was slight, and would still leave declarer with play for his slam.)

With the stage set, declarer cashed the king of spades and led a low spade toward dummy. When West followed with a low trump, declarer finessed the nine. If that lost to East, his troubles were over, because East would be obliged to return a club into the ace-jack or lead a red suit, which would permit declarer to discard a club from one hand and ruff in the other.

And what if West shows out on the second spade? Declarer simply rises with the ace of spades in dummy and leads a third trump, end playing East in exactly the same way.

DUTIFUL DOG? — It could be a sense of social responsibility, a love of clean waters, that inspired this canine cleanup at Swansboro recently, or it could be that this fellow is showing up the beer drinkers who crush beer cans with one hand ... (he does it with no hands). Whatever is going on, he seems intent on it. (AP Laserphoto)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: All kinds of new ideas are entering your mind, but study them well before going ahead with any definite plans. Control your ambitions and be more considerate of loved one.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your intuition is not accurate now and it could lead you in the wrong direction. Take initiative in career matters.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy at whatever obligations you have and be very efficient in handling them. Make the evening a happy one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Situations arise with others that are annoying, but handle them quickly and be off to better activities. Be logical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) There is much work ahead of you, so get at it quietly and efficiently, and it will soon be behind you. Use common sense.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may have an upsetting problem but use tact in dealing with others and all will be well. Take no issues with outsiders.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show more kindness for family members and have increased harmony at home. Not a good time to engage in a new interest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you handle routine duties well and avoid possible trouble. Plan how to be happier with close ties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to use tact in dealing with others, especially where finances are concerned. Try to save more money for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go after personal aims in a conservative way, otherwise you could encounter trouble. Trust your judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to take any personal ire out on innocent associates at this time. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you are naturally gregarious, this is not a good day for such. Keep busy at whatever is important to your welfare.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go after outside interests enthusiastically and you make big headway today. Be sure to keep promises made to higher-ups.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who wants to please others. A very good student with a retentive mind, so be sure to give the best education possible. Give ethical and religious training early in life.

A Challenge In Correspondent's Role

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlayne Hunter-Gault recalls the day she was hired as a correspondent for "The MacNeil-Lehrer Report," public TV's nightly news and analysis program.

"Al Vecchione, the producer, was very pointed in commenting to me," she says, now two years later, "that I was being brought in not as a black woman who knew a lot about civil rights and teen-age unemployment, but as a journalist and a substitute for Robin and Jim."

"I'm consulted on stories like that," she says, "but there's never been a situation that I was given a story only because of my special interest in the subject."

"Some people have asked me why I didn't do a particular story, like the time Robin and Jim interviewed (John) Vorster, the president of South Africa. They asked me, 'Wouldn't it have been poignant?'"

"Well, I'm not here for poignancy."

Ms. Hunter-Gault had been eight years at the New York Times, covering the urban black community, and she liked Vecchione's description of the new job.

"It required that I become more of a generalist," she says, "that I expand my own horizons, my own basic knowledge of the world."

"And that was part of the challenge," the 37-year-old correspondent says, "to develop a greater interest in economics and foreign affairs and energy and so on."

"And I could do that while maintaining my own interest in things I felt were important, like civil rights, not only because I felt they were important, but because the media tends to go with what is fashionable at the time."

"It was civil rights in the mid-'60s, then the Vietnam war, now nuclear power, and we tend to give less coverage to the others. My background would have me insist that we continue to cover the subjects I feel important."

Ms. Hunter-Gault was born in South Carolina, the daughter of an Army chaplain. She attended Wayne State University in Detroit for a year and a half, then became one of the first two black students to enter the University of Georgia. She was graduated in 1963 with a degree in journalism.

She worked for The New Yorker magazine, and spent a year as co-anchor for the local evening news on WRC-TV.

NBC's affiliate in Washington. She joined the Times in 1969.

Her background includes a year as a Russell Sage Fellow at Washington University, and 15 months — on leave from the Times — as co-director of the Michele Clark Fellowship Program for Minority Journalists at Columbia University.

'WKRP' Leads Nielsen Ratings For The Week

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "WKRP in Cincinnati" nudged ABC's "Three's Company" from first place in the prime-time ratings race, but ABC won the networks' competition for the fifth week in a row, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

ABC's rating for the week ending Aug. 26, with six of the 10 highest-rated shows, was 16.1. CBS was second at 15.2 and NBC third, for the 12th week in a row, at 12.9.

ABC's rating, the networks say, means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 16.1 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to the front-running network.

With the fall prime-time season now about three weeks away, ABC stuck the pilot for a new series, "Hart to Hart," in among the summer reruns, with gratifying results. It was No. 10.

Aside from that, there was little variation in the lineup at the top. CBS' "M-A-S-H" was second, and last week's winner, "Three's Company" from ABC, third.

The rating for "WKRP" was 24.1. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 24.1 percent saw at least part of the show. NBC's highest-rated show, "The Rockford Files," was 20th.

ABC's "20-20" continued to fare well in the ratings, No. 14, ahead of CBS' "60 Minutes" in 22nd place. "Prime Time Sunday," NBC's newsmagazine, was No. 50.

ABC and CBS each had two shows among the five least-watched. The order of finish: No. 58, "The 41st," from CBS, followed by "The Runaways"

DISAPPOINTED.... IN LOW CORN PRICES?

Perhaps Commercial Grain Storage will allow you to market your crop later in the year and at more attractive prices. It allowed one of our customers to earn an additional $1.11 last year and $1.32 the year before. Maybe this year it could help you.

Morgan-Carolina Corporation is offering its customers a limited amount of grain storage space in its Farmville, Saratoga, and Snow Hill elevators for storing their 1979 crops. Storage is Licensed and Bonded under the United States Warehouse Act; warehouse receipts will be issued for all grain stored; and eligible farmers can use these receipts to secure low interest commodity loans through their ASCS office and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Stop at any of our elevators to consider the advantages of commercial grain storage in your own marketing program.

O.K. A FEW CARS ARE EQUAL TO OUR VOLVO. BUT THEIR PRICES FAR SURPASS IT.

If you want a car that offers quality, comfort, safety and performance, you don't have to buy a Volvo. But among the handful of above-average cars capable of offering this combination, you may find the only one within the capabilities of your budget is our Volvo.

Volvos offer many of the benefits and features of more expensive cars for less than you would expect. Like our responsive overhead cam fuel-injected engine. A superior four-wheel disc brake system. Plus improved steering and suspension systems that make our Volvo one of the best handling and performing cars available today.

So to find superior value in a new car, stop in at our Volvo showroom. Because while you may find comparable cars elsewhere, you may never find them at comparable prices. VOLVO
