Gasohol Is Here

FIRST PITT COUNTY GASOHOL SOLD FRIDAY — McDonald Dixon, manager of the Quick Fill Gas House on Highway 11 South, stands beside one of the pumps that delivered the first unleaded gasohol in Pitt County Friday. Sales of the ethyl alcohol-gasoline mixture began at 12 noon today, at the Highway 11 site and the self-service pumps at Bell's Fork Crossroads. Gasohol proponents state that the blend will give a five mile per gallon better gas mileage than unleaded gasoline, with an average octane rating of approximately three points higher than regular unleaded gasoline. Secret Service Is Assigned Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, facing increased threats in the two weeks since he said he might challenge President Carter, is under Secret Service protection ordered by the president.

Neither White House aides nor Kennedy's staff would discuss whether the threats received by the senator's office had increased, but it was learned that the number was sharply higher since Kennedy disclosed he is considering running for president.

Dispatched by Carter, several agents appeared at Kennedy's office on the second floor of the Dirksen Senate Office Building shortly before 6 p.m. Thursday.

They accompanied the senator when he left his office about an hour later, heading down a stairwell and driving off in a three-car caravan. Carter ordered the protection after receiving what the White House described as a Secret Service analysis of the senator's safety. There also were discussions between administration officials and members of Kennedy's staff. "I have accepted President Carter's generous offer of Secret Service protection and my family and I deeply appreciate his action on this matter," Kennedy said in a statement issued by his office.

Asked about the Secret

Service analysis and the conversations with the Kennedy staff, White House press secretary Jody Powell said, "I just really don't want to talk about that sort of thing very much."

A Kennedy spokesman acknowledged that the Massachusetts senator regularly receives threats and that an average of one a week is considered serious enough to be referred to authorities.

Tom Southwick, the Kennedy press aide, declined comment when asked whether there has been an increase in the number of threats since Kennedy disclosed Sept. 7 that he is considering challenging Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

However, a source who asked not to be identified said the number of threats received by Kennedy's office had increased sharply in the last two weeks.

Powell said the president was acting under authority given him in the Constitution rather than under any specific statutory power — an apparent reference to federal law which authorizes protection for presidential candidates.

That law was passed in 1968, after the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, the senator's brother. Another brother, President John F. Kennedy, was assassinated in 1963.

House Speaker Puts Off Planned Pay Raise Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill

Thursday's N.C. Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's how North Carolina senators voted in the 60-35 roll call Thursday by which the Senate passed a compromise bill to carry out the Panama Canal treaties and sent it to the House for final legislative action:

Morgan, "yes"; Helms, "no".

The following House members from North Carolina voted Thursday in favor of legislation containing a pay raise for members of Congress who now make $57,500 a year, and for bureaucrats and federal judges making more than $47,500 a year:

Andrews, Fountain, Hefner, Jones, Preyer, Broyhill and Martin.

Gudger, Neal, and Whitley voted "no". Rose was not recorded.

The measure was rejected by a 212-196 vote.

The House rejected a Senate-approved compromise bill to carry out the Panama Canal treaties by a 203-192 roll call vote. North Carolinians approving the compromise, were: Andrews, Hefner, Neal, Preyer. Those opposing, were: Fountain, Jones, Rose, Whitley, Martin. Broyhill not voting.

surprised the House today by announcing at the last minute that a proposal to raise the pay of congressmen and top bureaucrats was being postponed until next week.

His announcement came after several members already had made speeches on the issue.

Delay of the proposal until next Tuesday puts added pressure on the House because the pay proposal is attached to money legislation that is needed by Oct. 1 to keep the government operating.

O'Neill had told reporters earlier today that the pay proposal would be taken up.

And the House had actually opened debate on the proposal setting ground rules for the showdown vote.

But when Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., a pay raise opponent, asked if votes on the pay proposal would be taken today, O'Neill replied that they would not. The House then passed ground rules for the debate and moved on to other business.

The House has killed the pay proposal three times — acts which Bauman referred to in the early debate.

No amendments had been offered before debate on the pay hike was cut off. But opponents were known to have prepared a resolution prohibiting any increase in congressional salaries and the salaries of top-level bureaucrats.

And Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y., told the House he would introduce an amendment that would prevent any member voting against a pay raise from receiving any proceeds if the hike were passed.

The stage for a fourth vote on the pay proposal was set when the House Appropriations Committee voted Thursday to report a new bill containing a proposed 5.5 percent pay increase for members of Congress and top-level bureaucrats.

That committee action came shortly after the House rejected a 7 percent pay hike by a 212-196 margin.

The Rules Committee, which sets the ground rules for House action, then decreed that any amendment anyone wants to offer would be in order during the pay raise debate on the House floor.

That gave opponents the opportunity to kill the pay raise outright or to try to exclude Congress from any salary increase while giving some cost-of-living raise to the 22,000 bureaucrats and federal judges who make $47,500 a year or more.

A 5.5 percent boost would increase current congressional salaries from $57,500 to just over $60,600. In contrast, the 7 percent hike would have raised those salaries to $61,525.

House and Senate leaders get more than $57,500 a year, so any percentage hike would raise their salary even more in dollar amounts. O'Neill and Vice President Walter Mondale, who presides over the Senate, both currently make $75,000 a year, for example. Five other House and Senate leaders get $65,000 a year.

State Zoo Opening Slated October 25

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — After five years of delays, rebidding on some projects and the hiring of a new director, the North Carolina Zoo is finally set to open.

The opening date is October 15, when the first permanent African animal exhibit is opened to the public at the 1,371-acre site south of Asheboro.

The announcement of the zoo's opening, along with a prepared statement by Gov. Jim Hunt, expressing support for the project, is contained in a news release to be distributed this weekend.

In the statement, Hunt said he is "quite proud that this permanent part of our zoo is ready to open because we have waited and worked for so many years."

Zoo director Robert Frye called the opening of the Zebra-Ostrich-Giraffe exhibit in the African habitat a preview of the entire African section, which is slated for a later opening.

"Initially, we will have just one animal habitat open with the ZOG area," Frye said in a statement. "But by next summer, five additional animal habitats will be opened."

When the total African exhibit is completed, the 300-acre site will include a black-maned lion exhibit, set to open early next year, a baboon island, chimp exhibit and elephant-rhino exhibit, scheduled to open in 1980 during the zoo's "Grand Opening."

Visitors to the zoo, Frye said, can "watch the zoo grow." He said construction is underway for a gift shop and four new animal exhibits. Other exhibits, such as habitats for elephants, white rhinoceros, chimpanzees and baboons will be ready next summer.

Construction of the African plains exhibit, indoor habitats, a tramway and a greenhouse-nursery will begin in 1980, according to the announcement.

The zoo originally was scheduled to open with six major exhibits at the permanent site in 1975, but the date was pushed back several times. Some bids were over budget and the zoo had to get a new director.

The Raleigh Jaycees first envisioned the zoo in 1964, when funds for a zoo feasibility study were raised with an exhibition football game. The legislature appropriated $250,000 in seed money for the project in 1969 and the Asheboro site was chosen in 1971.

Private citizens, businesses and state and local governments have provided money for the project. North Carolina voters approved a $2 million bond referendum in May 1972 to pay for the zoo's design and construction. Randolph County voters added a $1.85 million bond issue the same year for the construction of six miles of water and sewer lines from Asheboro to the zoo site.

Oct. 2 Hearing For Farmville

FARMVILLE — A public hearing on the preparation of a new application for federal Community Development funds will be held during a town meeting here Tuesday, Oct. 2.

Farmville currently has and is implementing its first Community Development grant, a $273,300 project consisting primarily of housing rehabilitation. Consideration is now being given to applying for a multi-year comprehensive grant which could be for amounts up to $1 million per year. Community Development Coordinator John Schofield said.

A preliminary hearing concerning the proposed project was held Sept. 13 at H. B. Sugg School. During this meeting, Schofield discussed the origins and purposes of the Community Development Block Grant program, listed program objectives, reviewed eligible activities and application requirements and current application alternatives. He pointed out that a community's program must have a significant impact on bettering the living environment for low- and moderate-income citizens, that it should have a strong housing improvement element, and that a comprehensive application in particular would require very active neighborhood participation. Specific requests were made by several of the approximately 30 persons attending for inclusion of houses for rehabilitation and for drainage improvements.

Representing the town, in addition to Schofield, were Mayor Sara Albritton, Town Administrator Patrick Thomas, and Administrative Assistant Edwin Thorne.

RECORDING DEEDS

I know of several deeds that have been drawn up and not recorded at the courthouse. If I want to sell the property, are the deeds good? N.G.

Mrs. Elvira Allred, Pitt County register of deeds, has your answer. "A deed delivered, but not recorded, is good between the grantor and grantee. The deed, however, should be recorded because it is not effective against the rights of third parties searching the records unless recorded."

PRODUCTS FOR HANDICAPPED

I would like to know where to find a good listing of products made especially for the handicapped. Any suggestions? M. L.

The Governor's Council for Persons with Disabilities has suggested that you consult a copy of "The Green Pages," a sourcebook of supplies of all kinds for the handicapped.

We have not been able to find a copy in Greenville, but if there is one that would be available for you and other interested persons to look at, we'd appreciate hearing about it.

If not, you may order a copy for $15 from Sourcebook Publications Inc., Box 1586, Winter Park, Fla. 32790.

Non-Violence Message Is Rejected By Arafat

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - rejected the message of non-violence they carried to the Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat, a pistol strapped to his hip, embraced and kissed a group of American blacks but violence they carried to the war-ravaged Middle East. Their meeting ended with the singing of "We Shall Overcome." The beaming chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization, speaking in halting English, thanked, "My good friends to my cause, to my peoples," after the three-hour closed-door meeting Thursday at the Sabra refugee camp on the outskirts of Beirut.

"The truth shall make us free," sang the 10 members of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference delegation, including SCLC President the Rev. Joseph Lowery, as the meeting ended.

Lowery said his group heard Arafat's concerns and enjoyed the evening. He made no other comment.

Arafat, his head swathed in a traditional black and white checked kafiye and wearing his familiar khaki fatigues, greeted the black leaders with kisses and hugs.

But according to a text of his remarks, distributed by the Palestine News Agency Wafa, he rejected their appeal for non-violence. "We are no terrorists, but we will not stop our struggle...and our confrontation with the enemy inside occupied territories," Arafat was quoted as saying. He bitterly denounced the U.S.-sponsored Camp David agreement, that spawned the peace treaty between Israel and Egypt, saying it would lead to "a new slavery" for future generations of Palestinians.

"What kind of peace is that they are talking about? The peace of the war of liquidation that Israel is launching each day with U.S. weapons, or the peace the U.S. has given them (Israel) with 600 tanks and armored vehicles? How can we believe they want peace?" Arafat asked.

He said the PLO was ready to accept either a democratic secular state in which Jews, Christians and Moslems would co-exist in the land that is now Israel; or an independent Palestinian state in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, territories Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Mideast war. The blacks had hoped to visit Israel to convey their plea for non-violence to Prime Minister Menachem Begin, but the Israeli Embassy in Washington said neither they nor the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who also plans to meet Arafat, would be received by the government.

Financial Help Available For Adult Education

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last of six articles on learning opportunities for adults, written for The Associated Press by the College Board, a non-profit association concerned with education for students of all ages. This article deals with financial aid.

NEW YORK (AP) — There are several possibilities for financing your continuing education or training with aid available in the form of scholarships, grants or loans, according to Kathleen Brouter, program planning officer for the College Board Scholarship Service.

The Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) Program provides support to millions of undergraduate students attending an accredited college, university or vocational-technical school on at least a half-time basis. Eligibility depends on your financial circumstances, and the amount of the award depends on the costs of attendance at the college of your choice.

A Basic Grant cannot be used to support work toward a graduate degree. For information, call this toll-free number: 800-638-6700.

Colleges administer federally funded financial aid programs, including grant, work and low-interest loan options for students with demonstrated need, as well as programs designed to assist students entering certain professions such as health care or law enforcement.

Many colleges also administer their own grant, scholarship, loan and work programs. For information contact the financial aid office at the colleges you're considering.

Most states sponsor some financial aid programs, and most award aid on the basis of demonstrated need. Contact your state department of education for details.

There are thousands of special programs — public and private, local and national, large and small — that offer scholarships, grants and loans to students. Full-time attendance is usually, but not necessarily, a requirement.

Find out if your employer, union, professional association, local community or fraternal organizations, church, veterans' post and local businesses offer any such aid, or ask your library to guide you to books and pamphlets on financial aid. Most financial aid is awarded on the basis of demonstrated need, or the difference between what it costs to attend a particular college and what the learner can contribute to meeting these costs.

Almost all colleges, government agencies and special programs that award aid will expect you and your family to pay something, according to your means. You can get a close estimate of what you'd be expected to pay by using the exercises in "Meeting College Costs," a free booklet published by the College Board and available in most high school guidance offices and community-based educational opportunity or counseling centers. The "Self-Supporting Student Insert" covers independent students.

You must apply for aid in order to be considered; simply applying for admission is not enough. Since different colleges and programs have different application requirements and deadlines, start as soon as possible to find out what they are. For most students, the first step will be to file a Financial Aid Form (FAF) with the College Scholarship Service of the College Board, or a Family Financial Statement (FFS) with the American College Testing Program. Find out from the college, state or other, private programs to which you're applying what form you should file.

You can use the FAF or FFS to apply for a Basic Grant, too. Some colleges or programs may also require that you file their own special application as well. The key is to find out what you have to do, when you have to do it — and do it!

If you can't supplement your cash on hand any other way, you may decide to borrow. Your best deal would be a National Direct Student Loan, available through the college you attend at a low 3 percent interest rate with no repayments required until you've left school.

If the college doesn't have enough NDSL funds available or you don't meet the criteria, your next best bet would be a Guaranteed Student Loan, backed by the government and available through participating banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, insurance companies and some colleges.

At a 7 percent interest rate with a deferred repayment until you've graduated or left school, a GSL is a better deal than you'd be likely to get from a commercial lender under normal programs.

An education loan may well be worth it in the long run, but it's still a big investment in your own future, and one that nobody should make lightly.

Telephone Charges Have To Be Paid

By Abigail Van Buren
1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote complaining that her daughter preferred calling relatives long distance to thank them for Christmas, birthday and graduation gifts rather than write thank-you notes. You said, "A letter is better, but a telephone call is better than nothing."

Well, I work for the telephone company, and more and more I am faced with the unpleasant task of disconnecting the telephone service of a parent or grandparent for non-payment of a large telephone bill because some child or grandchild has made long-distance calls all over the country without the slightest thought of the cost involved.

Perhaps we have made it too easy to dial long distance or even overseas, promoting the idea of long-distance calls because it's more profitable for us.

If a phone bill is not paid because of indiscriminate calling by irresponsible children (or adults), the responsible paying customers will end up paying the bill in higher monthly rates. Please let your readers know this, Abby.

DOING MY JOB

DEAR DOING: Consider it done! Readers, did you get the message?

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with a super dude, but he has one very bad fault. Bad breath. Abby, you couldn't ask for a nicer guy, but this one fault is really hard to take — especially when we kiss. It's not just after he's eaten onions or garlic. It's all the time.

He's a business person who deals with the public, so I worry about what other people might think.

I keep thinking maybe he needs to see a dentist, but holy cow, the man is 33 and I hate to suggest it.

I have an idea he knows his breath is bad because he's always sucking on mints or chewing gum, but it doesn't help. He's a very sensitive guy and I wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world. Somebody should tell him. But who?

CHICKEN IN DETROIT

DEAR CHICKEN: You! It would be an act of kindness. If a dentist can't help him, he should see a doctor. Chronic bad breath can be a symptom of a serious physical ailment, and masking it with breath-fresheners, mints, mouthwashes or chewing gum is NOT a proper solution. If you love him, tell him!

DEAR ABBY: My husband wears a hearing aid, and when we're at a cocktail party he turns it off and sits in a corner all by himself. Many people think he's anti-social or snobbish, but it's not true. He says that when some folks (especially women) get a few drinks in them, they tend to laugh and shriek extra loud, and the sound, when amplified through his hearing aid, feels like a "knife" in his ear.

Abby, you would be doing people who wear hearing aids a big favor if you asked your readers to be a little more considerate.

SAN DIEGO

DEAR SAN: I can ASK, but I fear that my plea will fall on deaf ears.

Cecily's Moreos Are Copied

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I enjoy your copycat recipes. Now I'd like to try making those chocolate cookies sandwiched together with white frosting that my kids are forever wanting me to buy. Have you ever tried to duplicate them? If so, I think a lot of other mothers besides me would appreciate your giving the recipe. — MODERN MOM.

DEAR MODERN MOM: Here's my attempt to copycat the cookies you describe — available, I'm sure, in every supermarket from California to North Dakota. The homemade ones, which I've named Moreos, went over big at my house.

Hope you have the same success.

If you and your children enjoy culinary history, you may be interested to know that the bought cookies were first put on the market 67 years ago and have been popular ever since. At that time the manufacturer described the cookie as "two beautifully embossed chocolate-flavored wafers with a rich cream filling at 30 cents per pound." Nowadays the cookies cost about $1.16 per pound. Any cook who has more time than money can use my copycat recipe and save some pennies. — C.B.

CECILY'S MOREOS
2 1/2 cups fork-stirred all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup cocoa
1 cup (two 1/4-pound sticks) butter or margarine, room temperature
1 1/2 cups firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg

Filling, recipe follows
In a medium bowl stir together until blended the flour, soda, salt and cocoa. In a large bowl cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in egg, then flour mixture, until blended. With a rubber spatula scrape the dough together and flatten it across the bowl. Mark in half. (There will be a generous 3 1/2 cups of dough. It will be very soft, but don't worry because it will roll out easily). With a wide metal spatula lift half the dough onto a well-floured pastry cloth. With a well-floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out to about a 14-inch round — it will be about 1/8-inch thick. With a floured round 1 3/4-inch cookie cutter, cut out. Form scraps of dough into a ball and, rubbing more flour into pastry cloth if necessary, roll out to the same thickness and cut out as before. Place cutouts at least 1/2-inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. With the tip of a small sharp knife, carve the letter "M" on half the cookies, but do not cut all the way through. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until cookies lose their shiny appearance, look dry, but do not brown — 6 minutes. With a wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool completely. Meanwhile chill remaining portion of dough and treat the same way.

Questionable Federal Policy

We are happy to see Greenville Area Transit System get a fully reconditioned bus for $250. We have to wonder, though, about the federal programs which made it possible. The 35-foot bus was purchased from Roanoke, Va. As it was explained by local authorities the bus was completely reconditioned by Roanoke at a cost of $10,000 under a federal grant program. Then, it was explained, Roanoke received another federal grant which made replacement vehicles possible and the bus was declared surplus.

As it turned out GREAT bought the bus for little more than scrap value, but we wonder what would have happened to the $10,000 in federal money spent on the bus if Greenville hadn't bought it. Would the bus have gone to a private buyer, which in effect would have been subsidized by $10,000 in federal funds, or would it have been scrapped? It could be another case of overlapping federal grants with funds being spent for the same purpose.

Industrial Development Is Promising

The report on Pitt County industrial development by Bruce Beasley, chairman of the Pitt Development Commission is not bad. During a 12 month period new and expanding industry invested over $50 million and created 400 new jobs, he said. Some 11 percent of the new industrial jobs in the east during the period came to Pitt County. We are making progress and it is showing up in a robust local economy in face of a national recession.

Streamline Jury System

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — In a recent survey to determine which of their institutions people have confidence in, the courts ranked just below the U.S. Congress, and just ahead of organized labor. While Justice must grind exceeding fine, some efforts in North Carolina prove there is no reason she can't also grind efficiently and more rapidly. Take the jury system as an example. A consistent complaint from citizens is that the selection system doesn't seem always fair, and that once reporting to the court house, the prospective juror spends countless hours awaiting a call to duty which never comes. Buncombe County has tackled that aspect of the court problem head-on, producing dramatic results. Two procedures are involved:

1. The jury selection list has been computerized, drawing on the tax lists, the voter registration rolls, and student enrollment in the schools to provide a better sampling of young people. 2. The firecracker system requires a juror to serve only one day unless actually empaneled on a case which lasts longer. And while neither step was taken with the idea of saving money, the result has been just that. Even though jurors are paid only $8 per day, when hundreds are called the total can run quite high. Studies of the Buncombe program shows jury cost cut by 30 percent; productivity of the sheriff, clerk and register of deeds offices improved; quality of the jury list upgraded; and perhaps most importantly — a 22 percent increase in willingness of those called to actually report for duty. One innovation alone cut costs by $8,000 in a 6-month period. That is the jury hotline. When the prospective juror gets his summons in the mail there is a special telephone number on it which must be called on the evening prior to reporting to the court house. A recorded message either instructs the juror to report, or tells him that because a long case is in progress, or the calendar is cleared early, or the judge is sick and that he need not report. In just six months, panels were cancelled 24 times, saving thousands in juror fees. The "one day, one trial" system has become popularly known as the "firecracker": the juror either "goes off" or is excused. This means less idle time for jurors, saves them time lost from work or other activities, and allows court officials to save time and money.

Aware A side benefit of having a separate panel come in every day in Buncombe has been to cause court officials to be more sensitive of the cost of a jury and the need to use the juror's time better. Buncombe took advantage of a change in the law approved by the 1977 General Assembly to change the selection system. Elsewhere names must be filed by hand and numbers drawn from a jury box then matched up with the cards. That is time consuming, and the lists tend to get outdated. Use of a computer to file the names, update the list, make corrections, and select jurors at random saves time and money once the program is set up. Henry C. Campen Jr., trial court administrator for the 28th Judicial District developed the system, and believes it is a demonstration of modern management technology which could be used widely to improve the entire justice system.

THE GALLUP POLL

Rosalynn Is Approved

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — Mrs. Jimmy (Rosalynn) Carter is far more popular than her husband, Jimmy, with 59 percent of Americans saying they approve of the way she is handling her role as first lady compared to 32 percent who approve of the way President Carter is handling his job as chief executive. Mrs. Carter enjoys a high degree of approval in each region of the nation and among all major segments of the population. Approval is highest in the South (64 percent) and particularly in the Deep South (70 percent). Blacks as well as whites accord her a high degree of approval for the way she is discharging her duties. Those with a college or high school education voice approval to a greater extent than do those whose formal education is limited to grade school. Women tend to be slightly more favorably inclined (62 percent approve) than are men (56 percent approve). On the basis of the political affiliation of persons surveyed, 53 percent of Republicans express approval, compared to 66 percent of Democrats and 56 percent of independents. Younger adults tend to approve to a greater extent than do persons 50 and older, although a majority in the latter group (54 percent) also expresses approval. Mrs. Carter, a Protestant and Southern Baptist, is as highly regarded by Catholics as by Protestants, with 60 percent of each faith expressing approval of the way she is handling her role as first lady. In recent weeks much attention has focused on the leadership abilities of President Carter, the future of his presidency, as well as the role Mrs. Carter plays in his presidency. Washington observers have noted that Mrs. Carter is more politically active in her husband's administration than many of her predecessors. Following is the question asked about Mrs. Carter: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Mrs. Jimmy (Rosalynn) Carter is handling her role as first lady?"

Jimmy's Big Decision

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — Things happen very fast in Washington. A few months ago everyone was asking: "Will Teddy Kennedy run in 1980?" Now people want to know: "Will Jimmy Carter run in 1980?" At the moment it is very hard to predict. There has been a great deal of pressure on Carter to run, particularly by members of his staff. But insiders say he is reluctant at this time to announce his candidacy. Carter has told friends, "If I challenge Kennedy in 1980 I could split the party. Besides, there are many family considerations that I have to resolve." One is whether his wife Rosalynn wants Jimmy to run for President. Intimates say that Rosalynn, who has never enjoyed the give and take of national politics, would prefer that Jimmy go back into the U.S. Navy. Most of Carter's Annapolis classmates are admirals now, and Rosalynn is sure that if Jimmy would reapply for his commission he would earn his flag rank in no time. On the other hand, some friends say that Rosalynn enjoys being First Lady and much prefers the East Wing of the White House to the Grand Ballroom of the Carter Peanut Warehouse in Plains.

To the editor: This past summer Ed Bradley, CBS news anchorman for the Sunday Night Report, was commentator for a special two-part television series entitled "Blacks In America: With Deliberate Speed." The series was in conjunction with the 25th anniversary of the Brown v. Board of Education decision that upheld the "equal but separate" education illegal. The irony that underlies the series is in 1979 there still exists in the minds of some people the idea that blacks are inferior. The series was filmed in the state of Mississippi and Bradley's hometown, Philadelphia. Bradley brought to the nation's attention that segregated public schools and facilities exist in Mississippi. In Philadelphia he showed film clippings of police brutality against blacks, black welfare recipients and dilapidated apartment buildings which blacks called their homes. A majority of the whites Bradley interviewed felt that blacks belonged in the lower bracket of society and should remain there. The middle-class blacks conveyed attitudes of "unconcern and indifference" towards their struggling black brothers and sisters. The purpose of Bradley's series was not to point and say that prejudice and segregation is only alive in Mississippi and Philadelphia. Moreover, it is to show that there is still a lot to be done for equality and mankind. Blacks, without a doubt, have come a long way since the Brown v. Board of Education decision; however, as time progresses blacks constantly struggle to prove to their fellow Americans that they are equal. Ed Bradley should be commended for his excellent series, which not only should have touched the minds of people, but opened hearts as well. Think about it, America, and let us all join together, regardless of the color of our skins and sing with exaltation, "My Country Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty" and mean it. Other family considerations that Jimmy is seriously weighing is whether, by not running, he'll have to take his daughter Amy out of the District of Columbia's school system. One of the reasons Jimmy gave for wanting to be President is that he had heard the D.C. school system, was so much better than the one in Americus, Ga. A third family consideration Jimmy has to face up to is how his brother Billy will feel about him running for another term. Billy has always been shy by nature and hated the limelight, and he has never cottoned to his brother being President of the United States. He was once

Something The FTC Missed

By GAIL MICHAELS
Although during the past decade great strides have been made in the area of consumer protection, the Federal Trade Commission has consistently neglected one ubiquitous problem. If the FTC is really concerned about the safety of the consumer, it should require this message on all sales brochures: Warning! The Surgeon General has determined that sales can be hazardous to your health. Nothing will strip away the thin veneer of civilization as fast as the frenzy of a sale. Normal people turn into savages. I have attended a sale at which a man caught me by the hair in an effort to keep me away from a marked-down bean pot. At another sale a woman stomped on my instep, and as I stiffened and let out a scream, she grabbed out of midair the sweater I had been holding. The sweater was size 8. The woman was size 16. Of course, no mere warning will dissuade people from attending sales. But those people who want to avoid the most serious pitfalls should follow two simple rules. First, beware of sales gimmicks, especially those which use stampede tactics. The most frequently used gimmick of this kind is the one hour sale. The advertisement reads something like, "100 percent wool skirts $4.99 - only from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m." The second thing a smart shopper should never do is attend a sale when she's in a hurry. She should give herself at least three hours. Several days would be better. Stores never seem to make any arrangements for the sudden influx of people during a sale. Business is conducted at a normal pace with check-out lines extending almost to the back of the store. The few visible sales clerks amble back and forth as if they were there merely to tan themselves under the fluorescent lights. A woman who shops under those conditions on the same day she has an appointment is subject to high blood pressure, migraines, and criminal charges for attempted murder. So I must have temporarily lost my senses when I decided one day last week to go shopping an hour before I was due to pick up Meg from nursery school. I reasoned that I had only to

PURPOSE OF RELIGION Religion is an "extra" for people who want it only as a convenience. Some belong to church because it is the thing to do. They go when the weather is bad for golf, or when they have a weekend engagement, or when the fancy moves them. Of course, they go at Christmas and Easter. Furthermore, they want to be sure, by membership in the church, that they will have someone to perform baptisms, marriages and funerals when the need arises in the family. Whatever people pay for religion under these circumstances is too much, and for the simple reason that they are getting nothing vital that religion has to offer. What religion offers us is the forgiveness of our sins and the release from high heaven within our hearts of those powers which make triumphant living possible. Religion, when it is real, gives us something which is priceless and which we can get from no other source. Elisha Douglass

Food Sharing Appeal In African 'Emperor' Is Unseated Alabama Sees Results

By DAVID PACE
Associated Press Writer
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Hundreds flocked to National Guard armories with grocery bags and boxes filled with canned goods after Gov. Fob James appealed to Alabama residents to look in their cupboards for supplies to feed victims of Hurricane Frederic.

"I ask you throughout Alabama to band together, organize and give us food to send to Mobile and Baldwin Counties because we need it desperately," the governor said in a statewide appeal on public television.

The hurricane forced many supermarkets to close. Power outages made refrigeration impossible and turned off electric ovens and ranges. Many people lost everything — including their jobs — and cannot afford to buy food.

Thousands have lined up for emergency food stamps, but relief centers have been unable to keep up with the demand. Some people have waited for two days without being served, authorities say.

"Call and go to your nearest National Guard armory and bring us food that you have in your pantries," James said. "I ask you to start tonight."

Within 15 minutes, Warrant Officer Willie Barrow reported from one of three Montgomery armories, "there were so many people here they had to call me in extra to help."

Barrow said 60 to 70 persons, "way more than we expected," brought bags and boxes loaded with nonperishable food.

Sgt. Charles Rocell, spokesman at an armory in Huntsville — several hundred miles north of the stricken Gulf Coast — said about 40 persons arrived by 9 p.m. bringing nearly 100 bags of food.

In Selma, donors provided "a good pickup truck load between them" in the first hours after the 6:30 p.m. CDT appeal. A spot check of 13 of the 114 centers statewide showed 277 persons gave food and other supplies before the armories closed for the night.

James' plea came just hours after he issued a proclamation declaring a civil defense emergency in 11 Alabama counties hit by the hurricane last week.

The storm lashed the coast with 145-mph wind and tides of up to 12 feet. At least five people were killed in Alabama before the storm moved north, and the National Weather Service estimated damages at about $1.25 billion.

the scene in even greater detail:

"The fruit dealers unanimously urge the election of Marcus Holconius Priscus..."

"If upright living is considered any recommendation, Lucretius Fronto is well worthy of office."

Even this: "The petty thieves support Atia for the aedileship."

And this (from a non-aligned voter?): "I wonder, o wall, that you have not fallen in ruins from supporting the stupidities of so many scribblers."

And on watered liquor: "May your lies fail you, landlord, you sell water and drink the good stuff yourself."

Death came down the mountain to this vibrant town on a hot summer's day, leaving the victims just as they were to posterity and museums 2,000 years later, sprawled on their hands and knees, caught by the poisonous fumes and buried under the burning ashes and lapilli.

A way of life died and yet lives on as one of the treasures of the ancient world.

who say they approve of the way Mrs. Carter is handling her role as first lady:

"Rosalynn seems to have all the leadership qualities that I wish Jimmy had."

"She's trying to back and support her husband in every way that is feasible for a woman as first lady. She is always traveling and speaking out in a confident, positive manner. I feel that she has done a lot for the position she is in. She does not relax and lead the life of luxury that some first ladies of the past have done."

"She is very supportive of her husband in his job as president. She has impressed me as a gracious woman and handles herself well in public appearances. As first lady she has a lot of diversified responsibilities of her own that she handles well."

Following are comments that reflect mixed or negative feelings about the way Mrs. Carter is discharging her duties:

"I am impressed by her unwavering support for her husband. But at times, I think she gets carried away and her main concern becomes what is best for Jimmy and NOT what is best for the country."

"She seems overly defensive of her husband, is always too eager to 'explain' Jimmy's actions."

The results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,555 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in more than 300 scientifically-selected localities during the period August 17-20.

overheard to tell Jimmy: "I'll be glad when you're out of the White House so I can get back to tending my gas station. Everyone who owns a station has been making a mint. But not me. Every time I want to go to work I get called in front of a grand jury. If you cared anything for me you'd chuck it all and get the feds and press off my back."

The most important factor in Jimmy's decision will be how his mother feels about him running for President. Miss Lillian has yet to indicate if she will give her permission or not.

"I've tried to give Jimmy a good upbringing and teach him right from wrong," she told the Muppets on television the other night. "But the trouble with being President of the United States is that you don't know what is right or wrong. When you think you're doing right, the public says you're doing wrong. And when you're doing wrong, the public says you're doing right. I've never stood in the way of my children. So if Jimmy wants to run for President it's my duty as his mother to support him, even if it's difficult to explain to my friends whose sons are all successful in their own fields. On the other hand, if he wants to buy a cooperative apartment on Fifth Avenue in New York City, I'll go along with that too."

Most of the pressure on Carter is coming from his close advisors who keep telling him, "Some people will say it's unfair of you to challenge an incumbent senator from Massachusetts when he decides he wants to be President. But these are not ordinary times and the country needs leadership. You're the only one who can do it after what we've gone through for the past three years."

Pretty soon Jimmy Carter will have to make the hardest decision of his life. Will he enter the presidential sweepstakes and risk splitting his own party by challenging Kennedy? Or will he bow out and wait another four years to run, when the Democratic nomination would be his for the asking?

PARIS (AP) — Former President David Dacko overthrew Emperor Bokassa I and declared the Central African Empire a republic again after 14 years of dictatorship that included the mass murder of schoolchildren and a coronation that cost a quarter of the impoverished nation's annual income.

There was no immediate indication of casualties in the coup late Thursday, but some looting was reported in the Central Africa capital of Bangui, a dawn-to-dusk curfew was imposed and the state radio appealed to all medical personnel to go to Bangui's University Hospital "extremely urgently."

The head of the French medical mission in Bangui also appealed to his staff to go to the hospital, and the French government said it was sending troops to its former colony at the request of Dacko and Prime Minister Henri Madoou. It said they would remain until "the Central African authorities judge the safety of the population is assured."

Bokassa was the third African dictator overthrown in five months following the fall of Uganda's Idi Amin and Francisco Macias Nguema of Equatorial Guinea.

Informed sources said the stocky, bearded 58-year-old Bokassa was in Libya when the coup was staged by the 49-year-old Dacko. They said Bokassa arrived in Tripoli on Tuesday to negotiate financial aid from Libya in exchange for letting the Libyans establish a military base in the northern part of the Empire. Bokassa was due back home today.

The French Embassy in Bangui reported the coup in a message to the Foreign Ministry in Paris and said it took place at 11:55 p.m. Thursday.

"I am acting, in the name of the government of public well-being and my name personally, to re-establish democratic liberties, to rapidly return the sovereign power of the people and assure its security," Dacko said in a state radio broadcast shortly afterward.

He said since Bokassa took power "the nation has gone back 100 years," and attacked the "ridiculous" nature of the "caricature of monarchy" of the deposed ruler who ruined the nation's economy and held its people in a grip of terrors.

Dacko was overthrown by Bokassa on Dec. 31, 1965 and held under house arrest until three years ago when he was freed by the emperor and named a personal adviser to Bokassa.

Dacko, a brilliant student and one-time educator, entered political life in 1957 as a deputy in the territorial assembly. After independence from France in 1960, Dacko was elected president of the republic.

But during his presidency, he took a number of austerity measures to revitalize the economy that angered the population and fueled the 1965 coup led by Bokassa, then head of the army.

Dacko was overthrown by Bokassa on Dec. 31, 1965 and held under house arrest until three years ago when he was freed by the emperor and named a personal adviser to Bokassa.

Dacko, a brilliant student and one-time educator, entered political life in 1957 as a deputy in the territorial assembly. After independence from France in 1960, Dacko was elected president of the republic.

But during his presidency, he took a number of austerity measures to revitalize the economy that angered the population and fueled the 1965 coup led by Bokassa, then head of the army.

Bokassa, a former French colonial army sergeant, proclaimed himself emperor in December 1976 and changed the name of the country from the Central African Republic to the Central African Empire.

Fellowships For Women

ECU News Bureau
Melrose Flowers Krenek of Fayetteville and Bonnie Temple of Zebulon, graduate students at East Carolina University, have received fellowships in marine education.

Working under the direction of Dr. Carolyn Hampton of the ECU Department of Science Education, they will be interns at the N.C. Marine Resource Center on Roanoke Island next spring.

Both students will be developing interpretive materials and lead school and community youth groups in a variety of marine education experiences.

The fellowships are funded by the N.C. Sea Grant program and are part of a program to train youth leaders to assist the state's young people in understanding the historical, cultural and economic components of the marine environment.

A 1974 cum laude graduate of Campbell College, Mrs. Krenek taught fifth grade in the Fort Bragg schools for three and a half years before beginning work toward her master's degree at ECU.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Flowers of the Anderson Creek Community in Harnett County.

Miss Temple, a 1979 graduate of ECU, was an intern teacher at Farmville Middle School last spring semester. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Keith Temple of 116 East Franklin St., Zebulon.

Little Variance In Leaf Prices

FARMVILLE — Prices varied very little on all grades during the week on the Farmville tobacco market, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis Williams said.

Top price for a company purchase was $1.60 a pound. Demand for quality grades has been strong all week. Less desirable grades have been in less demand than they were last week. Every firm had a full sale the entire week. It's estimated that approximately 75 percent of this year's crop has been sold. Stabilization receipts were up this week.

The market 673,405 pounds for $981,262, for an average of $145.72. To date, the market has sold 20,129,044 pounds for $28,716,475, for a season's average of $142.66.

OUR DOCTRINAL STANDARDS—Our first and final rule for all doctrine, faith and practice is God's Holy Word, the Bible. We believe the Bible is the written Word of God, without error in the original manuscripts, and of infallible and divine authority in all matters of faith and practice. Therefore, all of our teaching and preaching is from the Bible.

Bolstering His Constituency

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

President Carter, whose strong religious convictions give him a ready-made appeal in that sphere of the populace, is working to reinforce the connection.

His recent speeches, among other things, radiated it. And the religious ranks reciprocated in some ways.

With rumblings of the 1980 presidential election in the air, Carter also has taken concrete steps lately to bolster his links to the religious constituency, including:

—A White House reception for clergy Tuesday, observing the 20th anniversary of the installation of American Greek Orthodox Archbishop Iakovos.

—A breakfast meeting last week with a big delegation of clergy, Protestants, Catholics and Jews, on hand to help persuade senators to approve SALT II accords on limiting strategic arms.

—Assignment of a White House staff member, a clergyman, to facilitate contacts and exchanges with the religious community.

—Efforts to soothe strains between blacks and Jews resulting from the resignation of Andrew Young from his United Nations ambassadorship because of his talks with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

—Inclusion of religious leaders among consultants in his review last month at Camp David of the nation's status prior to his address emphasizing a "spiritual malaise" in the nation.

—Appointment of two Roman Catholics to his cabinet in the wake of controversy over his recent cabinet shakeup, including departure of its then only Catholic, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano. "The conscience of America is built into our institutions and it is rooted in the ethics of the Judeo-Christian tradition," Carter said recently at United Methodist's Emory University in Atlanta.

Just as a spiritual revival brought Americans out of a moral slump in will and purpose in the 1700's and produced the nation's independence, he said a similar awakening is needed today to "rejuvenate the spirit" of the country. He added:

"And then may history record that our generations of America heeded the word of Isaiah 61: that we brought good tidings to the afflicted... that through us the Lord God will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all nations."

Preschoolers' Program Begun

The weekday preschool program of Memorial Baptist Church has begun its second year. Director and teacher is Mrs. Marcia Pleasants.

Classes for four year olds will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. A new class for three year olds will begin in October on Tuesdays and Thursdays. For registration, call the church office, 756-5314, or Mrs. Pleasants, 752-6503.

Mrs. Pleasants received her bachelor's and master's degree in education from East Carolina University. She has taught kindergarten and second grade in Martin County and San Antonio, Texas.

State Mortgage Corp. Is Proposed By Boyles

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Treasurer Harlan E. Boyles has proposed a plan to make more home loan money available in North Carolina by creating a state mortgage corporation.

Boyles made the announcement of the plan at a luncheon of the N.C. Home Builders Association Thursday.

He told the audience of 200 that state S&Ls made more than $2 billion in home loans last year, but resold only 0.6 percent of that amount to mortgage investors through national secondary mortgage markets like the one outlined in his proposal.

The corporation would buy mortgage loans from savings and loan associations and other lenders and then sell those loans to large investors, such as pension funds and insurance companies, Boyles said Thursday.

The plan would give lenders a new source of funds — the proceeds of the mortgage sales — then enabling them to lend more money for homes, he said. Currently, S&L's main source of money for loans are the deposits they get from savers.

The increased money supply should promote lower interest rates, Boyles added, since lenders would have more money to loan out and would not have to use high interest rates to discourage demands for loans.

Boyles said the program, which would require approval of the Council of State, will be submitted soon.

Already, support has been expressed for Boyles' plan. "Anytime we can get another source of funds, the better off we'll all be," said F. Guy Walker, president of Raleigh Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Lost Millions In Tobacco Sales

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia

tobacco growers lost about $5 million in sales this year and may lose more each year unless they return to growing the high-quality tobacco sought by European and Asian cigarette makers, according to industry experts.

Rain and farming short-cuts were cited as reasons for the lower-quality this year. Lack of sufficient high-quality leaf caused European buyers, particularly Germans, to lose interest. Demand fell, and prices were as much as $5 per hundred below 1978's record levels, the experts said.

"I've talked to international buyers. They said the quality just wasn't there," Joe Parks, owner of the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse in Valdosta, said in an interview.

"We've got to get the quality back to what it used to be three or four years ago," said Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin.

The Germans, who normally are major buyers of flue-cured tobacco from the Georgia-Florida belt, said "You don't have the quality you've had in the past. You don't have what we want," Irvin said.

Too much rain in some areas hurt the crop.

"Our area, Bacon and Apple Counties, was damaged real bad. We had way too much water," said Billy Warren Sellers of Baxley, a member of the Tobacco Advisory Board.

"Too much water results in leaf that isn't fully mature, that doesn't have all the body, flavor and aroma, he said.

Poor growing practices kept some of the leaf from being in the top quality class, Irvin said.

"Some of the farmers' problems were self-inflicted, using ripening chemicals to hurry the crop along. It hurt the quality, makes the leaf slick. That's one thing that kind of turned the export people off. They want dark, deep color with lots of oils," he said.

One farmer's offering was typical, Irvin said. "Every pile had chemicals on it. 'He pushed it and didn't get as good quality. It could have been much better quality. It could have gotten greater interest from the Germans."

The selling season ended Thursday. When the few clean-up sales next week are completed, the final 1979 average should be about $139.50 per hundred pounds with a top price of $155 per hundred.

That compares with last year's record average of $142.36, with a practical top of $160.

Prices for Georgia tobacco increased steadily the last few years — at least in part due to inflation. From the 1975 average price of $100.03 per hundred, the average climbed to $110.20 in 1976 and $115.90 in 1977. Then it soared to $142.36 for last year's exceptionally good crop.

"There are some buyers who say they think they made a mistake last year — that they spoiled the farmers, and decided not to do it again," said one insider, who asked not to be identified.

He added, however, there was no collusion among buying companies.

But farmers, many of whom left their sand lugs — the poor quality lowest leaves — in the field to improve the overall quality of the crop, expected 1978-style prices this year.

They never got them, even for tobacco of equal quality to last year's $160 leaf.

Closed Business To Visit White House

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Minas Dascalakis had to close his grill abruptly Tuesday for the first time since he bought it 25 years ago.

But Tuesday was a special occasion. It isn't every day that Dascalakis and his wife, Soteria, are invited to the White House.

"It was a dream come true, a thrill of a lifetime," he said. The dream was an invitation from President Jimmy Carter to a reception in honor of Archbishop Iakovos, head of the Greek Orthodox Church for North and South America, who is celebrating his 20th year in office.

The couple have been active in the Greek Orthodox Church for years, but their church is tiny compared to others in the nation. So they were baffled late Monday when the invitation arrived from the White House, inviting them to be present the next day.

"I thought it was a joke at first," Dascalakis said. He called some friends and found several other Greek-American couples who had also received invitations. But to make sure, he called the White House. A spokesman there said the president looked forward to their arrival.

The couple left for Washington by car early Tuesday where they met President and Mrs. Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale.

"The entire White House was open except for the living quarters," Dascalakis said. "Guests wandered from room to room. I went to the Oval Office. It was quite a thrill."

For Dascalakis, who came to the U.S. 30 years ago from a small village in central Greece, it was a special thrill. He sent for Soteria 10 years later and they married and worked together. Both became citizens, raised a family and became active in the church.

Specialist Sees China Leaf Trade

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—There is a market in China for companies with the right kind of product, but they have to be willing to invest a lot of time and money in travel and negotiations, according to one trade specialist.

"And you have to be willing to write it all off if nothing materializes," said Sam Troy, trade specialist in the Greensboro office of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

In North Carolina, the firms that seem to be on the leading edge of a possible increase in China trade are about 25 companies clustered near Charlotte that manufacture textile parts and machinery.

The United States exported $824 million worth of products to China last year, but James Hinkle of the International Division of the state Commerce Department said shipments from North Carolina were in significant.

Most of the state's $3 billion in exports last year went to western Europe, Canada and South America. Japan received $259.6 million in exports from the Tar Heel state, mostly in flue-cured tobacco.

James Sommers, executive vice president for international banking for North Carolina National Bank, said the United States is taking the first steps on a long road to trade development with China.

Sommers, who is also president of the Bankers Association for Foreign Trade, said he doubts China will develop a program of rapid industrial development through private enterprise and pro-business government policies, as Japan and South Korea did.

NCNB has an office in Hong Kong and is considering the possibility of financing a textile mill in China, Sommers said.

Many business leaders expressed optimism over the opportunities for the sale of North Carolina's products to China when Deputy Premier Teng Xisoping visited the U.S. nine months ago.

Trade specialists say they were swamped with requests for information about the development of markets in China after Teng's trip to America in January, but after that businessmen slowly began to understand the realities.

The organ loft is expected to be completed within 45 days and the new organ installed and voiced by Christmas. It is not anticipated that the nave of the church will need to be closed for long.

Re-Inventory Ordered In Missing Uranium Case

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
ERWIN, Tenn. (AP)—It will likely be at least five weeks before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission knows what happened to at least 19 pounds of bomb-grade uranium missing from an atomic fuel fabricating plant, officials say.

"The major emphasis will have to be on a re-inventory," Robert Burnett, the NRC's director for nuclear safeguards, said after officials could find no simple, glaring accounting errors Thursday to explain the loss.

The commission ordered Nuclear Fuel Services Inc. to close its uranium plant in Erwin on Monday after the Getty Oil Co. subsidiary reported its latest inventory showed a loss of at least 19.8 pounds of 96 percent fissionable uranium.

The new inventory, Burnett said, will not begin until the plant is entirely inactive next Thursday and will take 30 days from then to complete.

He said he had hoped a paperwork mistake would turn up in a cursory review of the plant's accounting and security measures but did not really expect such an error to surface at first glance.

An aerial survey team measuring atmospheric radiation has begun a series of low-level flights to determine if some of the missing uranium escaped into the air. The FBI is on standby if the NRC finds any indication the uranium may have been physically removed from the plant, either by accident or theft.

Burnett said there is nothing in a preliminary review focusing on the plant's paperwork and its physical security system to indicate any such removal. Officials, though, have not yet ruled out a security breach, he said.

"It is not a fair conclusion that the material has gotten out of the plant," he said. "It's just not at that stage yet. The re-inventory is what we're counting on."

He said the new inventory will include flushing out the miles of pipes and chambers inside the plant to locate any residues of uranium that may be there.

"If you have a lot of data to look at, and you take a cursory review of 10 percent and don't find anything, that doesn't tell you the answer is not in the bottom 90 percent," he said.

Nuclear Fuel Services' plant in this remote mountain town of 4,000 near the North Carolina border has been fabricating fuel for the Navy's submarines, aircraft carriers and experimental reactors since 1957. None of the material handled here is intended for bombs.

The NRC will not specify the amount of uranium missing, saying such data is classified for six months. But the plant's license requires it to shut down if there is an inventory discrepancy of more than 9 kilograms—19.8 pounds.

Though 72 hours normally are allowed before closing a plant in such instances, Burnett said he ordered an immediate shutdown at Erwin because of the quantity of material missing and the fact that is 96 percent fissionable enriched uranium U235.

Uranium has two atomic weights — the common and nonfissionable U238 and the fissionable U235. In its natural state, uranium has less than 1 percent of the fissionable U235.

To use it as a source for nuclear chain reactions, the material "enriched" by converting to a gas and running it through filters to remove some of the U238, increasing the concentration of U235. A nuclear power plant producing electricity requires enriched uranium with only a 3 percent or 4 percent concentration U235.

Officials would not say how much of the 96 percent enriched material missing at Erwin would be needed to manufacture an atomic bomb. But, according to physicists, the "critical mass"—the minimum needed to start a nuclear chain reaction—is 39 pounds.

A Las Vegas firm, EG&G Inc., began setting up sophisticated equipment Friday to conduct an aerial survey for any uranium that may have escaped into the atmosphere from the Erwin plant.

The firm, under contract to the Department of Energy, performed a similar task at the Three-Mile Island nuclear plant accident last March. NRC spokesman Ken Clark said the data collected by two low-flying aircraft would be compared with a similar aerial survey made in November 1977.

The plant reported an accidental discharge of 300 grams of the material through its stacks Aug. 6. Burnett said it is unlikely that all of the missing uranium escaped into the atmosphere but the NRC wants to assure itself that more than 300 grams did not go up the stacks.

The NRC is looking at a four-month strike by the plant's 250 hourly production workers. The walkout ended Aug. 4, leaving 50 days in the two-month inventory period in which the plant was operated only by salaried management personnel.

When the strike began last

April, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union tried to get the NRC to stop production at the plant, saying their supervisors did not have the knowledge to operate it safely.

Meanwhile, the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said in a report released last week it could find nothing to link the plant with an increase in cancer deaths in the area.

The study was requested by the Tennessee Department of Public Health last year after local residents expressed fears about wastes from the plant being leaked into the air and the Nolichucky River.

The report concluded that a doubling in cancer deaths in Unicoi County since the plant opened was due mostly to an average age increase in the population and chance. It said, however, officials should continue to monitor the area as a precaution.

Probe Hamilton Jordan Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hamilton Jordan, facing possible appointment of a special prosecutor over allegations of cocaine use, is being described as a participant in a "licentious" 1977 party in Los Angeles.

Leo Wyler, a former Carter fund-raiser, says Jordan and two other White House staff members attended a party at his home. And he told CBS News Thursday night that he felt their "approach to this relaxation was one of...drugs and girls."

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Herald Examiner reported that the FBI is contacting actress Shirley MacLaine and several others who were present at any of four California parties with Jordan in the fall of 1977. An FBI agent said the agency was looking "into certain allegations involving narcotics use" by Jordan.

The latest reports seem likely to add pressure on the Justice Department to make a quick decision on whether to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate alleged cocaine use by Jordan, the White House chief of staff. Department officials, who asked not to be named, said Thursday a decision is probable within the next two weeks.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said, as he has before, that Jordan has never used cocaine, and he said Wyler's description of the party at his home was not accurate. Jordan told CBS News that if a special prosecutor were appointed, he would not resign or take a leave of absence.

Wyler, a California businessman who broke his ties to Carter and is now supporting Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination, described the Oct. 22, 1977, party at his home Thursday in an interview on the CBS Evening News.

He said the party was attended by Jordan, then-presidential aide Tim Kraft, who now is a prominent figure in Carter's reelection effort; White House pollster Patrick Caddell; and John Golden, a close friend of Jordan.

He said he was shocked by the "general licentious feeling about the evening."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock was mixed in heavy trading today, leveling off after Thursday's strong rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 17.24 Thursday to its highest level of the year, slipped back 2.82 to 890.87 by noon today.

Gainers clung to a 6-5 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market began rising sharply late Thursday as rumors circulated about an oil find at an exploratory well off the Newfoundland coast.

Standard Oil of California's Chevron Standard subsidiary today confirmed a discovery. But Leo Barry, Newfoundland's mines and energy minister, said tests at the well showed a flow of oil considerably less than would be needed for commercial production. Chevron said it would drill deeper for further tests.

California Standard's stock, up 3 1/4 Thursday, dropped back 3 to 59 after a delayed opening today.

Among other issues with Canadian oil interests, Gulf Oil lost 7 1/2 to 34 1/2, and Gulf Oil Canada fell 2 to 86 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index lost .11 to 62.74. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .42 at 227.19.

Volume on the Big Board reached 25.75 million shares by noontime, up from 16.22 million at the same point Thursday.

Arrest Youths In Chasing Van

FALKLAND — Two Virginia Beach, Va. youths were arrested near here Thursday following a chase involving a van they were operating and a Pitt County deputy who wrecked his patrol vehicle while in pursuit.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that Mike Morris, 16, of 3237 Burt Mill Road, and John Barresi, 17, of 656 Cunningham Road, were arrested on a variety of charges following a series of incidents Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff Tyson said that Deputy Art Fonseca, who is stationed in the Falkland area, received a shoulder injury when his car wrecked after he lost control of the vehicle while pursuing the youth's van. The left side of the patrol vehicle sustained damages.

According to the sheriff, his office was notified that someone had driven off from the Pitt County Mart, south of Bethel, without paying for 19.5 gallons of gasoline. Fonseca spotted the van described in the report on the Belvoir Highway and pursued the vehicle across the Tar River bridge and through Falkland before wrecking about a mile south of here, Sheriff Tyson explained.

Area law enforcement officers sealed off the area and Sheriff Tyson said that the youths drove down a dead end road and into a ditch. The boys fled, he said, and were apprehended around 2 p.m., some 30 minutes after they vacated the van. Highway Patrol troopers and Pitt deputies were involved in the apprehension.

Sheriff Tyson said that after the van was seized, a check of the vehicle registration revealed that the van was taken from the car lot of Sportsman Chrysler-Plymouth Dealer Corp. of Virginia Beach. The new vehicle, valued at $10,000, was allegedly stolen from the dealership on Wednesday night.

According to the sheriff, Morris was charged with larceny of $17.89 worth of gasoline, fleeing from an officer, reckless driving and speeding, possession of a stolen vehicle, no operator's license, and failing to stop for a blue light and siren.

Barresi is charged with aiding and abetting Morris in reckless driving and speeding, aiding and abetting in the larceny of gasoline, aiding and abetting in fleeing from an officer, and aiding and abetting in possessing a stolen vehicle.

Bond for each youth was set at $10,000, with a first appearance hearing scheduled for today in District Court here.

Pirates Seek To Snap Back At Wake

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina University's Pirates, in the midst of a two-game tailspin, hope to avoid having something happen that has never happened before to a Pat Dye-coached team: a third-straight loss.

The Pirates invade Winston-Salem's Groves Stadium to face the 2-0 Wake Forest Demon Deacons, fresh from their 22-21 upset of nationally ranked Georgia. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

You have to go all the way back to 1971, when Sonny Randle was beginning his career to find three straight setbacks for a Pirate team.

And Dye is working his charges hard to make sure that the search of the record books was all in vain.

"Wake Forest is probably the best coached team in North Carolina," he said. "They have great oneness, something we are still trying to get."

After a faulty performance against Duke last Saturday, the Pirate coach has done a little shuffling in his defensive lineup, although he notes that the final couple of days of practice may change these.

"Generally when you make changes, it's because someone isn't doing their job, or someone has beaten them out. Right now, we have some people who aren't doing the job and have been beaten out."

Chief among these is all-America candidate Mike Brewington, who was relegated to the second unit at the start of the week. His fellow linebacker Jeffrey Warren missed last week's game with an infected hand, but is expected back for the Deacons. However, Glenn Morris and Chuck Jackson were listed Wednesday by Dye as being the first-stringers.

Other lineup changes on the defense, found freshman Freddie Jones taking over at free safety for Wayne Perry; freshman Doug Jones taking over nose guard from John Hallow, and Tim Swords moving into the left tackle spot of Vance Tingle's.

"We're looking for leadership," Dye said. "We didn't get it against Duke. I hope we get it against Wake."

ECU assistant Ken Hutcherson painted the Wake defense as a very experienced one, with nine starters returning. The Deacons, however, has allowed 341.5 yards a game in their two outings, a figure placing them seventh in the ACC. They are fourth against the rush, allowing 151.5, and last against the pass, giving up 190.0 per game.

"They are the best team we play technique-wise," Hutcherson said. "Their nose guard, James Parker, is their most outstanding player on defense. He makes a lot of big plays and makes things happen on defense for them. Their strong safety, Mark Lancaster, is second best. He's an excellent pass defender and a team leader."

The Deacon offense is a potent one behind the quarterbacking of Jay Venuto and the running of tailback James McDougald.

"McDougald is their number one threat. He's the strongest running back we'll see all year. We've got to lock him up, but he runs hard, breaking a lot of tackles. I'd say that half of his 190 yards against Georgia came after the first hit on him," assistant Bobby Wallace said in scouting the offense.

"Venuto is an excellent passer, with great accuracy and they have good receivers. They have big people to give him protection, and big people for him to throw to, a problem for our shorter defensive backs. They do a real good job executing."

On offense, the Deacs are tops in the ACC, ripping off 436 yards a game. They are fifth in rushing with 235 a game, and first in passing hitting 34 of 68 for 200.5 per game.

Venuto is second in the ACC in total offense with 197.0 per game, and he's the league top passer, completing 17 a game. He's had five picked off.

McDougald is the number two rusher in the league, with 150.0 per game, while fullback Albert Kirby is averaging 55.0 per game.

Venuto's top target is split end Wayne Baumgardner, who's caught eight for 123 yards and three scores, while McDougald has caught six for 30 yards and two scores.

Wake also has a fine kicking game, with Frank Harnisch hitting on all four of his field goal attempts.

The key will probably be whether the Pirates can stop McDougald. "He's a great back," Dye said. "He'll probably be one of the top four or five in the country before it's over. He's somewhere between Ted Brown (former N.C. State runner) and Amos Lawrence (currently at UNC). He's stronger than both, but not as quick as Brown. He's a very strong runner."

Dye said he was glad to be playing Wake at this point in the Pirate season. "We need to be playing a good team now. It would do us little good to play a mediocre team and win. What we need to do is to play a good team and win. Wake is the type of team we need to be playing."

And, Pirate fans hope, the record book search for three straight losses, will have been in vain.

Linebacker Mike Brewington

Brewington, Unhappy, Vows To Be Ready

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Mike Brewington on the second team? Surely, you jest!

But no, that's what East Carolina Coach Pat Dye said. All-American candidate Mike Brewington, the leading tackler on the team, has been pushed back to the second unit.

"I just had a bad game," Brewington said this week. "Against Duke, I guess I was just on a losing track and I didn't do anything right. Everybody had a bad game at the same time, it seems."

"Maybe if I'd played better, the rest would have been picked up too, so I'll take a lot of the blame for the way we played on defense," Brew said of the poor defensive effort against Duke last week.

Leadership for the past few years has come from the linebacking area, and Brewington admits he likes the role of the leader. "I have to be a leader. If I don't play well, it lets the team down."

Brewington feels that Wake will be a good challenge for the rebounding Pirates. "They come at you with different sets, but mostly out of the I. They run a lot of traps, and get their backs out into the passing zones. We have to cover them and improve our pass defense," he said.

Brewington and Wake star James McDougald played in the same East-West All-Star game in Greensboro four years ago, and Brew remembers him from that game. "He's a great runner who loves the game. But he's not only a good runner, he's an all-purpose back. He does it all, and is a fine receiver."

As far as the Pirates are concerned, the week has been a good one in practice. Brewington feels. "We have to pick it up and salvage it. We realize that we can have a good team if we work for it."

But because of his play, the big Greenville native will be listed, at least, as backup linebacker against Wake—not the starter.

"I've been working hard this week to get back off the second unit," Brewington said. "But whether I'll start, I can't say. That's up to the coaches."

"But I can tell you one thing: I'll be ready to play on Saturday."

Lady Jags Sweep RM

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's girls opened the 1979 volleyball season with a two-match sweep of Rocky Mount yesterday.

Farmville won the first match by a 2-1 score, then took the second 2-0.

In the first match, Farmville captured the opening game of the best-of-three series, 15-4, but Rocky Mount came back to win the second, 15-10. Farmville then rebounded with a 15-9 win in the clincher.

The Lady Jaguars swept the second match, 15-6 and 15-8 to complete their twin-killing.

Gail Harris, Ellen Albritton and Angie O'Brien were cited by Coach Mike Terrill for their play in the first match, while Peggy Dwyer was highlighted in the second match.

"For our first match of the year, the girls played quite well," Terrill said. Farmville opens Eastern Carolina Conference play on Tuesday, traveling to Southern Nash for two matches.

Rampant Cubs Crush Enloe

Rose High School's junior varsity football team rolled to a 24-6 victory over Raleigh Enloe yesterday.

After a scoreless first period, the Rampant Cubs put together an 18-point second quarter. The first score came when Wayne Joyner recovered an Enloe fumble in the end zone. Woody Whichard ran for the two-point conversion and an 8-0 lead.

The second score came on a one-yard run by Jimmy Jones, with Mike Thurber kicking the PAT. That ran it to 15-0. The final three of the period came on a 20-yard field goal by Thurber.

Neither team scored in the third period, and Rose added its final score in the fourth. Chris McLawhorn scored on a 60-yard pass from Barry Smith. The PAT try failed.

Enloe's score came in the final seconds of the game on a short run.

The Cubs are now 3-0 on the year and travel to Northern Nash next Thursday.

Chargers Roll, 32-0

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's junior varsity football team rolled to a 32-0 victory over Roanoke last night behind the scoring of Kenneth Randolph.

Randolph scored three of the four Charger Colt touchdowns, on runs of 20, three and four yards. He also added two-point conversion runs after the first two scores.

The other touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from Joey Kennedy to Jesse Stewart. Rudolph Reid ran for one of the other conversions, while Stewart passed to Art Rouse for the other.

Ayden-Grifton is now 1-0-1, while Roanoke is 0-1.

Despite Record, Rose Is Second

RED OAK — Two Rose cross-country runners broke the Northern Nash course record, but it wasn't enough as the Rampants finished second to Wilson Fike yesterday in a four-team meet.

Fike won the meet, held at Northern Nash, with 33 points, while Rose was second with 40. Northern Nash wound up third with 68 points and Hunt was fourth with 78.

Rose's Harry Williams finished first in the meet with a time of 13:53, 13 seconds under the previous course record. Kenny Smith, also of Rose, finished second at 13:56, 10 seconds better than the previous mark.

Other finishers in the top five were, in third, Tony Batts of Fike, 14:31, followed by Mike Montague of Hunt, 14:50, and Dwight Davis of Fike, 14:56.

The second five finishers were Wade Stephenson of Fike, 15:51, Perry Morrison of Fike, 15:17, Riky Hills of Fike, 15:18, Tony Hills of Fike, 15:19 and Ted Gartman of Rose, 15:29.

Other Rose finishers include: (13) Chip Little, 15:42, (14) Vincent Murphy, 15:47, (16) Blair Smith, 15:54, (26) Larry Talbert, 16:16, (29) Chris Jones, 16:20, (31) Mike Davis, 16:42, (32) Robert Stancill, 16:58, (33) Skip Hill, 17:06 and (37) Dan Sharf, 17:21.

Rose, which was without its No. 3 runner, Dan Mayo who underwent an appendectomy this week, is now 4-1.

The Rampants next meet is Tuesday at Rose against New Bern and Beddingfield.

"WE SWITCHED TO SOMETHING NEW."

Times change. Tastes change. But, for 184 years, Jim Beam hasn't. By sticking with our basic recipe since 1795, Jim Beam has come to be the most popular bourbon in the world. In a mix. With water. On the rocks. Neat. Jim Beam. More people discover it every year. Isn't it time you did?

184 YEAR OLD JIM BEAM

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY 80 PROOF DISTILLED AND BOTTLED BY JAMES B. BEAM DISTILLING CO., CLERMONT, BEAM, KY

Joe Jenkins hasn't hit us with his "No more Mr. Nice Guy routine yet," but we're expecting it any time now.

He has told us that he wants everyone on the poll to get thoroughly sure that he's out of it before he starts reeling off the victories that have made him a winner twice in the past three years.

Nevertheless, the results of last week's picking left Rick Scoppe ahead of the pack with an 18-6 record, but his lead shrank. Etha Allen, Tom Baines and this writer are knotted for second place at 15-9, while Jenkins and our guests trail with 13-11 marks.

Last week's guest was "Daily Reflector" photographer Tommy Forrest, who scooped all of us by picking Duke, but he ended up only 6-6 for the week.

This week, we join in the political swing of things. Our guest this week is mayoral candidate Don McGlohn, and for the next two weeks, we'll be having the other two candidates, Millie McGrath and Elizabeth Savage—all in alphabetical order of course, to avoid any touch of partiality.

While it won't prove anything about the candidates' ability to serve as our mayor, it might prove fun as it leads up to the election.

Turning to our local high school picks, we find a 12-7-1 record after last week's dismal 4-3-1 mark. Roanoke let us down and Jamesville continues to surprise us.

This week's chart finds only five games, not counting Rose, which the panel picks. Both Williamston and Roanoke have off nights.

In Pitt games, Southern Nash is at North Pitt, Farmville Central at Greene Central, Ayden-Grifton at C.B. Aycock and North Lenoir at Conley.

The Panthers of North Pitt are having problems with the team, and Southern Nash has been flexing its muscles like a contender. With all that, we are forced to go with the Firebirds.

Farmville plays the team that was the early pick to challenge the Jaguars for the title. This could be a key game in the conference, but Farmville is just too strong if the Jags play their game. Farmville will win here.

Ayden-Grifton had trouble against Southwest Edgecombe last week due to its own mistakes, while Aycock was getting bombed by Farmville. The Chargers do have a little momentum now, and we feel they should come out on top.

North Lenoir visits Conley, and the Vikings are coming off a tie against Washington. North Lenoir picked up an easy victory over North Pitt, and should be rolling now. We go with the Hawks to win it.

Elsewhere, it'll be Jamesville over Belhaven. Now to the poll. First, tonight, Rose will be traveling to Raleigh to face Enloe. The Rampants are coming off an off week, while Enloe is coming off its second straight shutout loss. On paper, the Rampants should be highly favored, but can they follow through on the field? Our panel likes the Rampants, 6-0. (What, Jenkins voted for Rose? Can't believe it!)

East Carolina, reeling from two straight losses, goes up against Wake Forest, which upset Georgia last weekend. Maybe we're just stubborn, but the panel isn't convinced that the Deacs are all that good.

In fact, the panel has gone right down the line for another 6-0 ballot for the Pirates.

Other concensus picks find: Georgia and Clemson, a toss-up; Florida over Georgia Tech; North Carolina over Pittsburgh; Virginia over VMI; Appalachian State over Western Carolina; Indiana over Kentucky; South Carolina over Duke; Maryland over Mississippi State; N.C. State over West Virginia; and Virginia Tech over William & Mary.

Tar Heels Make Bid For National Recognition As They Host Pitt

By DICK BRINSTER
Associated Press Writer
Nothing appears to annoy the Atlantic Coast Conference football community more than the league's reputation for basketball superiority and gridiron mediocrity.

There were smiles all around in the press box at Wallace Wade Stadium last Saturday when Duke dominated and then upset East Carolina, 28-14. But it's difficult for a conference to sell itself nationally on the strength of a victory over a team that plays neither in a major conference nor against major independents.

"Was that a final score on the Wake game?" someone asked after it was reported that Wake Forest had taken a 22-21 lead over Georgia in the fourth period.

Soon, all that hope had become a reality. The Demon Deacons had indeed defeated the 12th-ranked Bulldogs by a point. What perhaps was more satisfying was that the victory had been achieved at Georgia.

By Sunday the statistics told the story in greater detail. John Mackovic's Deacons had squeezed by Georgia by a mere point on the scoreboard, but in truth they had rolled up 570 yards against Vince Dooley's team.

Only seven turnovers by Wake Forest kept Georgia from being routed. Mackovic said afterward that the Deacons had not beaten a ranked team since Jefferson Davis slept in Winston-Salem, if ever he did.

The ACC's only ranked team was North Carolina State. But the Wolfpack was extended to the limit by Virginia, the team many believe is the worst in the conference.

When the new rankings appeared earlier this week, N.C. State remained 19th and nary an ACC club could be found elsewhere among the NCAA's elite, despite the league's overall 10-3 record.

There could be an addition after Saturday, however. North Carolina could earn a spot in the top 20 with a victory over 13th-ranked Pittsburgh.

To do so Dick Crum's Tar Heels (1-0) must contain a rugged Pitt defense led by end Hugh Green. Jackie Sherrill's Panthers (1-0), are visiting Chapel Hill for only the second time.

North Carolina will need a top performance from Amos Lawrence, off to another fast start after back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons.

It is the top game of the day involving ACC teams, all of which play outside the conference.

Bo Rein takes his Wolfpack (2-0) on the road for a meeting with West Virginia (0-2). N.C. State will rely on the blocking of All-America center Jim Ritcher and the running of Billy Ray Vickers against the Mountaineers (0-2).

Clemson (1-1) will try to get its offense untracked when it hosts Georgia. Danny Ford's Tigers were shut out by Maryland, 19-0, last Saturday.

Jerry Claiborne's Terrapins (2-0) host Mississippi State (1-0). Maryland has received brilliant play from sophomore tailback Charlie Wysocki.

No one is likely to take Virginia (1-1) for granted in view of its 29-point-per-game average. Dick Bestwick's Cavaliers host VMI (2-0).

The motto at Duke is "Red Means Go," and the Blue Devils (1-0) will try to make their new coach Red Wilson a winner for the second straight time when they visit South Carolina (1-1) in one of three night games on tap.

Wake Forest (2-0) is looking for a continuance of the fine performances it has received this season from quarterback Jay Venuto and tailback James McDougald when its hosts East Carolina (1-2).

Georgia Tech (0-1), a loser to second-ranked Alabama in its only start, hopes to break into the winning column against Florida (0-1), a team coached by former Clemson boss Charley Pell, last season's ACC coach of the year.

Angels Neither Gain Nor Lose

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
The American League divisional races have become a matter of simple mathematics for managers Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles and Jim Fregosi of the California Angels.

Weaver prefers multiplication. "We're on our way home, trying to start a one-game winning streak," he said after the Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers 8-7 Thursday night. "That's all we need: two more one-game winning streaks."

Two times one is two, which just happens to be Baltimore's "magic number" for clinching the East Division crown. If multiplication isn't your strength, try subtraction: every time the Orioles win or the second-place Milwaukee Brewers lose, subtract one from Baltimore's magic number.

Fregosi's forte is addition by subtraction. His first-place Angels arrived in Kansas City three games ahead of the Royals, then played four games, and left exactly as they arrived: three games up.

"And that's four more games off the schedule," he noted, even if three of the Angels' remaining nine contests are against Kansas City.

"I'd say if we win five out of nine, we've got it," said California's Bobby Grich, an advocate of long division.

Kansas City's George Brett wouldn't divulge the specifics of his favorite equation. After the Royals lost an 11-6 decision to the Angels Thursday night, he put it this way: "From now on, each game becomes more important than the last. We need a little help from Texas (which visits California next). We need to sweep in Oakland."

It remains to be seen if that's as simple as it sounds. In the other games on an abbreviated schedule Thursday, the Toronto Blue Jays bopped the Boston Red Sox 6-2 and the Minnesota Twins trimmed the New York Yankees, 3-1.

The Orioles' Eddie Murray snapped a 6-6 tie with a seventh-inning homer off Jack Billingham, then Al Bumbry doubled home the winning run in the eighth as Baltimore bested Detroit.

Lee May and Rich Dauer homered in a five-run Baltimore second inning, wiping out a 3-0 Tigers lead, but Detroit tied it with three runs in the fourth on a bases-loaded walk to Jerry Morales, a groundout by Jason Thompson and Kirk Gibson's RBI single.

Brian Downing hit a three-run homer, Bobby Grich hit a controversial two-run shot, and Don Baylor had three RBI — raising rulemajor league-leading total to 138 — in California's victory over Kansas City.

After George Brett's three-run homer keyed a four-run eighth and brought the Royals within 8-6, Grich was awarded a home run when umpire Jim Evans ruled a fan had interfered with his drive to right.

Blue Jays 6, Red Sox 2
Tony Solaita and Rick Cerone hit two-run homers and Roy Howell hit a solo shot to back Balor Moore's four-hitter as Toronto beat Boston.

Twins 3, Yankees 1
John Castino drove in all the Minnesota runs with a single and a two-run homer, powering the Twins over the Yankees.

Lye Sure To Have Enthusiastic Gallery For Napa Second Round

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Anywhere else, 26-year-old Mark Lye would be brushed off as one of those tour "unknowns" holding a first-round lead and not to be taken seriously.

But Lye, whose 6-under-par 66 Thursday tied him with the more successful young pro Bobby Wadkins, was sure to have an enthusiastic gallery of golf fans cheering for him today in the second round of the $300,000 Napa stop on the tour.

Wadkins, winner of $95,000 on the tour this season, had six birdies and no bogeys for his 66 Thursday. Lye had one bogey but finished his round with a 35-foot putt for an eagle on the closing hole of the 6,619-yard Silverado South course.

The coleaders faced the challenge of the longer, more demanding North course today. Nine of the low 10 scorers Thursday played the South layout, on the tour, was a tie for 12th, knows how quickly tournament leads can disappear.

Ruling Could 'Be Frightening'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Marvin Webster compensation case is back in court and the Bill Walton compensation case appears headed there in a battle whose effects could reach beyond the area of "payment" for free agents.

The Trail Blazers announced Thursday night that Kunert and Washington were given permission not to join the club for an exhibition game against San Antonio in Minneapolis tonight.

"You really don't know who's leading after one round," said Tom Purtzer, who was tied for third with Lee Elder at 67. The six men at 68 included Buddy Gardner, who had the day's best round on the North course. John Mahaffey, Lon Hinkle, John Fought and Jim Simons were in the large group at 69.

Tom Watson, the 1979 tour money-winning leader, is not defending his title in the tournament, the Anheuser-Busch Classic, but several other members of the top 10 are on hand.

Ben Crenshaw, Bruce Lietzke and Fuzzy Zoeller opened with 71s. Jack Renner was at 72 in a big group that included John Cook, the 1978 U.S. Amateur champ who is making his pro debut.

That ruling was appealed Thursday by the NBA to the U.S. Court of Appeals. It was a ruling that put into question the power of the NBA commissioner and its effects could be felt after the compensation process ends...and that won't be long.

Larry Fleisher, head of the NBA Players Association, said the players' contract calls for no compensation for free agents at the end of the upcoming season — only the right of the original team to match another team's offer. Under the compensation clause, the commissioner decides payment to be made by a club signing a free agent to a club losing the free agent.

Fleisher said Thursday that he anticipates petitioning a special master that O'Brien's com-

Umpires, National League Are At Odds

NEW YORK (AP) — "Foul" says the Major League Umpires Association about labor practices involving salaries and fringe benefits in the National League. "Fair" says the National League.

Richie Phillips, counsel for the umpires association, met Thursday with NLRB representatives for six hours and charged the NL with five separate counts of discrimination against union umpires.

The NLRB must now conduct an investigation into the charges.

Earlier in the season, the umpires association struck both the National and American leagues, but the games went on, with most of them worked by non-major league umpires. Thursday's charges were denied by Blake Cullen, supervisor of umpires for the National League.

No charges were filed against the AL, but Phillips said it "has been guilty of some of the same infractions, but the pattern of conduct has not continued throughout the season. The American League did not grant extra vacation time to the non-union umpires and didn't deduct rental car expense charges from the paychecks of the regular umpires."

The umpires association specifically charged the National League with discrimination in the areas of guaranteed salaries, advancement opportunities for minor league umpires who honored the strike, vacation time, umpire evaluation and expense money.

"Until this year, no union employee has ever been given more than a one-year contract and there was never any salary guarantees for umpires," Phillips told The Association Press by telephone. "Yet the replacement umpires who worked during the strike were rewarded with three-year guaranteed contracts. The league gave them more than it ever will give us."

"It's the same for them as it is for the union umpires," Cullen said, stating the replacement umpires had two-year contracts covering 1979-80.

Another umpires association charge was that the NL had granted additional vacation time and related benefits to non-union umpires while withholding them from umpires who struck.

The Montreal Expos have been so busy playing double-headers this month its a wonder they've had the energy to do anything else. After moving back into first place, however, Montreal found time for a little celebrating.

The Expos swept their second consecutive twinbill from the New York Mets with 6-3 and 2-0 victories Thursday. With the Pittsburgh Pirates falling to Philadelphia 2-1, the Expos — who lost a pair of games to the Pirates in Montreal earlier this week to fall two games back — moved a half-game ahead of Pittsburgh. It was the biggest first-place margin for Montreal since Aug. 4.

"I think we've got a right to be whooping and hollering a little bit," said Expos Manager Dick Williams in the exuberant Montreal locker room. "It's great. We've really battled."

They've battled through six double-headers this month, winning 10 of the 12 games. They still have two more to go, including one during a four-game visit to Pittsburgh next week.

"I felt all along that those double-headers in front of us were our only obstacle," said catcher Gary Carter, whose run-scoring single in the ninth inning of the nightcap broke a scoreless battle between Scott Sanderson and the Mets' Mike Scott. "We sweep two here, go to a big series (three games) with Philadelphia, and then comes the showdown."

Sanderson, 9-7, threw a seven-hitter and struck out nine. Andre Dawson and Rusty Staub singled prior to Carter's RBI hit and Jerry White got another RBI single off Scott, 1-2.

In the opener, White led off the eighth with a home run and the Expos tallied three more times in the inning. Two New York errors helped the rally.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati maintained its 2½-game lead over Houston, the Reds beating San Diego 8-5 and the Astros taking Atlanta 7-1. Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 3-0 and St. Louis edged the Cubs 2-1.

Phillies 2, Pirates 1
Randy Lerch, 10-12, struck out a career-high nine batters and pitched a nine-hitter. Manny Trillo's RBI single in the seventh off Pirates relief ace Kent Tekulve, 10-8, provided the decisive run and Pete Rose had two hits to extend his consecutive-game hitting streak to 18.

Reds 8, Padres 5
A five-run explosion in the eighth inning by Cincinnati gave it the victory over the Padres. Johnny Bench had a two-run double in the inning and Dan Driessen doubled in the go-ahead run.

Astros 7, Braves 1
A pair of fielding errors by Darrel Chaney and Terry Puhl's two doubles keyed the Houston victory. Ken Forsch, who threw his first complete game since July 28, pitched a nine-hitter.

Dodgers 3, Giants 0
Bob Welch and Joe Beckwith combined on a seven-hitter. Welch, 5-6, winning his first game since May 15.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 1
Silvio Martinez, 15-7, hurled a six-hitter to outduel Dennis Lamp, 11-9, who had a five-hitter. The unearned winning run was scored by Keith Hernandez, who reached on an error.

Marks Sixtieth Year As Priest

NEW YORK (AP) — Still at his desk despite heart surgery two years ago, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen celebrated the 60th anniversary of his ordination and is looking forward to meeting the pope.

"I always wanted to be a priest," said the 84-year-old Sheen, who was ordained Sept. 20, 1919, at St. Mary's Cathedral in Peoria, Ill. "My brother, Joe, always said that I was practicing preaching even as a kid."

Sheen, who puts in a morning's work each day although under doctors' orders to rest, marked the anniversary Thursday by concelebrating Mass with two other priests in the chapel of his East Side apartment.

The bishop said he is looking forward to meeting Pope John Paul II when the pontiff visits New York on his six-day U.S. tour next month. Sheen recently filmed a half-hour television program on the pope's visit and typically refused to sit for the telecast.

Exhuming Presley's Body Improbable

GOREN BRIDGE

The bidding:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 1♦ Pass
3♦ Pass 4♦ Pass
Pass Pass
Opening lead: Six of ♠.

When there is only one possible holding to beat a hand, assume that the necessary distribution exists. Failure to do so could be costly.

The bidding was reasonably straightforward. In terms of high-card points, North's hand does not quite measure up to a jump raise, but the two tens and void in clubs were adequate compensation. South considered issuing a slam invitation, then settled for a "certain" game because any try he made might be misinterpreted.

To West, the prospect of defeating the contract did not appear bright, so he quite properly decided that drastic measures were in order. Therefore, he led his singleton heart. East won with the ace and returned the seven. West ruffed and lazily shifted to a diamond. With that, any hope of beating the contract vanished.

Declarer took the precaution of discarding his queen of hearts on a high diamond before starting on trumps, so the ace of spades was the defenders' last trick. "I couldn't tell you had the ace of trumps, partner," was West's plaintive bleat.

True, West couldn't tell that his partner had the ace of trumps—but that is beside the point. It should have been very obvious that, unless East held the ace of trumps, there was no way to defeat the hand. Thus, West should have proceeded on the theory that East held the key ace. After ruffing the heart, West should have returned a trump, and he would have obtained another heart ruff to set the contract.

In his defense, West contended that his partner should have returned his highest heart as a suit preference signal. Conventionally, the return of your highest card in a situation such as this shows an entry in the high-ranking suit. But that pertains to side-suits, not trumps. If East had returned the jack of hearts, West might have worked out that his partner could not possibly want a diamond and might have shifted to a trump. But that is an obscure point, so the full burden of guilt must lie with West.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — It's improbable Elvis Presley's body would be exhumed for a second autopsy as part of an investigation of the singer's physician, Jewitt Miller, Shelby County assistant attorney general, said.

Such a move would be legally questionable and unnecessary, Miller said Thursday.

Rumors of plans to exhume Presley's body shortly after the state Board of Medical Examiners charged Dr. George Nichopoulos with indiscriminately prescribing drugs for Presley and 15 other persons. Nichopoulos was Presley's physician for 11 years.

He was notified of the charges Sept. 8 and Shelby County Attorney General Hugh Stanton Jr. announced less than a week later that his office had begun an investigation of the doctor's practice.

The Memphis physician is to appear Nov. 7 or 8 at a medical examiners hearing in Nashville, where he faces possible loss of his Tennessee medical license.

Stanton's office could bring criminal charges against the doctor. But Stanton has emphasized his staff's investigation is directed toward Nichopoulos' practice and not how Presley died.

Miller, Stanton's top assistant, said Thursday investigators might be interested in whether Presley's death due to drugs. But he said it was unlikely officials would exhume the singer's body.

"It's possible," he said. "Almost anything is possible... but it's not probable. We have no plans whatsoever, now or in the foreseeable future, to ask for exhumation."

Miller said investigators already have an autopsy report and tissue samples from Presley's body are available. He also cites Tennessee law — TCA 38-707 — which sets guidelines for exhumations.

"I don't think it's possible to comply with the statute," he said. "One of the requirements is that no autopsy has been performed... and we've already had an autopsy."

An autopsy was performed on Presley at Baptist Hospital the day of his death, Aug. 16, 1977. Dr. Jerry Francisco, Shelby County Medical Examiner, announced afterward that Presley died of a heart ailment.

The ABC television network last week disputed that claim, saying abuse of prescription drugs led to Presley's death. The network's "20/20" program accused Francisco of participating in a coverup and criticized him for not making the full Presley autopsy report public.

Chancellor D.J. Alissandratos of Memphis is to hear a lawsuit by two ABC investigative reporters seeking release of the autopsy Wednesday.

A person familiar with Presley's medical records at Baptist said Thursday the entertainer was never treated at the private hospital for heart disease.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said Presley was treated for a number of other ailments, including exhaustion, a twisted colon and influenza.

Francisco said earlier this week a second autopsy would be a waste of time. He said pathologists often cremate organs after postmortem tests.

Maurice Elliott, Baptist vice president, declined to say Thursday whether Presley's organs had been disposed of after the autopsy.
