Plans Expand Crime-Watch

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Burley Mitchell Jr., secretary of the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, today announced the opening of a drive to involve citizens in prevention of crime.

Mitchell said his department has created a Division of Crime Control, which will concentrate on public involvement in the fight against crime.

"This division will be dedicated to motivating citizens in every home and community to join actively in the fight against crime," Mitchell said during a news conference.

"The division will work to establish community-watch programs throughout the state and will also contain sections to deal with domestic violence and juvenile crime," he said.

Mitchell said the major emphasis of the new division, which will be headed by L.D. Hyde, will be to prevent crimes by citizen involvement at an early stage "rather than the traditional approach of reacting to crimes after they have been committed. This will make the new division nearly unique in the United States."

No new funding will be required, he said.

Hyde, a graduate of Western Carolina University and Antioch University Law School, will come to the position from the state Administrative Office of the Courts.

Jets Of Syria And Israel In Dogfight

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli and Syrian warplanes battled in the skies south of Beirut today, and two to four Syrian jets were reported shot down. It was the second dogfight between the old enemies in four days.

Lebanese government sources said two Syrian fighters crashed in flames near Beirut International Airport but their pilots parachuted to safety.

An Israeli military command spokesman in Tel Aviv said four Syrian planes were downed and all Israeli aircraft returned safely to base.

Associated Press reporter Mohammed Salam said he saw a large explosion near the airport when he was driving to work.

"There was a big orange flash and a big explosion and then smoke," he said.

The air clash came at a time when the United States and other countries are growing increasingly critical of Israeli military actions in neighboring Lebanon. But Israel vows to continue its policy of striking at Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon.

Syria's Damascus Radio said last Thursday that Syrian jets had engaged and driven off Israeli aircraft flying over southern Lebanon. Israeli newspapers said the Syrians used air-to-air missiles in that encounter.

Syrian and Israeli jets clashed for the first time in five years last June 27, when the Israeli air force used its U.S.-made F-15 fighter for the first time in combat. The Israelis claimed they brought down five Syrian MIG-21s in that battle over southern Lebanon.

Military activity stepped up in Lebanon's troubled south late last week.

The Palestine Liberation Organization claimed an Israeli armored force crossed the Israeli-Lebanese border last Friday and engaged PLO guerrillas, who drove the Israelis back across the frontier. Israel denied its troops had entered Lebanon, and said fighting Friday and Saturday in the border region was between Palestinians and Israeli-backed Lebanese Christian militiamen.

Congress Begins 'Decision Week'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy Secretary Charles W. Duncan today urged quick congressional passage of President Carter's multibillion-dollar synthetic fuels program as "an insurance policy" against higher prices for future energy supplies.

"As with any insurance policy," Duncan said, "one must pay a premium to have it. But the cost of being without it could be disastrous."

Duncan, making his first congressional appearance as energy secretary, testified before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

As he spoke, the Senate Energy Committee began work on the synthetic fuels legislation, initially expected to cost between $20 and $22 billion.

President Carter had urged an $88 billion effort to be spent by 1990, but he subsequently agreed to a sharply curtailed spending program on development of alternative fuels from coal and oil shale.

Under persistent questioning from Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Duncan said he is close to a decision on ordering about 30 utility plants to convert from oil to coal.

"I want to make that happen as quickly as possible," Duncan told Byrd, who represents a coal-producing state.

During a House committee hearing on synthetic fuels last week, Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., voiced some of the criticism heard in Congress about the president's proposal.

"There is a lot of suspicion about turning over $88 billion to an agency that will have no political accountability to anyone," Ottinger said.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, has indicated he will propose that about $20 billion be spent while various methods of producing synthetic fuels are tested.

In other congressional developments this week:

—The House will again try to reach agreement on a budget for fiscal 1980, which begins next Monday.

Last week, a coalition of conservatives and liberal Democrats defeated the budget package, one group believing it is too high, the other decriing what it called inadequate spending levels for social programs.

A vote is now scheduled on Wednesday on a new budget scheme with somewhat leaner spending limits.

The House Budget Committee chairman, Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., predicted the compromise would pass the House. But he anticipated serious conflicts in the Senate, which approved significantly higher spending for defense.

—A related defense debate also is expected in the House, which late in the week is to vote on a $129.9 billion defense appropriations bill.

Most of the fight is expected to center on attempts by some House members to include funds for construction of a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

The Senate has approved spending for a conventional carrier and Carter has reluctantly agreed to accept the idea, but the president opposes constructing any new nuclear-powered warships.

—For the fourth time in a week, the House will attempt to raise its pay on Tuesday. House leaders are proposing a 5.5 percent increase as part of a continuing resolution that is needed to finance a variety of government programs after Oct. 1.

Capping The Runaway Oil

By MARJORIE MILLER
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican oil workers hope to finish capping the runaway Ixtoc-I oil well today after lowering a 125-ton steel cone into place over the maverick gusher that has fouled Gulf Coast beaches from Mexico to southern Texas.

The capping operation, aimed at reducing the flow of oil and natural gas by 85 percent, was halted by darkness Sunday. A team of 300 technicians, divers and engineers from the Mexican state oil monopoly PEMEX had worked for a dozen hours Sunday to lower the 35 foot by 69 foot cone onto the underwater superstructure over the well.

"The cone is in place on the structure and (Monday) we will rotate it 90 degrees to put it over the mouth of the well," said Jose Luis Garcia Luna, a senior PEMEX engineer working on the project, dubbed "Operation Sombrero."

A company spokesman said the team hoped to complete its work by the end of the day.

"The purpose of the cone is not to plug the well, but to turn it into a producing well" until it can be closed, said a PEMEX spokesman in Mexico City, who declined to be identified. "Fifteen percent will still possibly spill into the ocean and have to be collected."

PEMEX says it has spent about $1 billion so far on several attempts to cap the runaway test well, located 50 miles off the Campeche Bay shrimp port of Ciudad del Carmen in southern Mexico. It also is drilling two relief wells at angles to the blowout in hopes of eventually shutting it down completely.

About 84 million gallons of oil have spilled into the bay and drifted as far north as the southern Texas coast. In the seven weeks since oil first began blackening South Texas beaches, U.S. damage claims and cleanup costs have climbed to about $360 million.

Three suits seeking a total of $355 million in damages have been filed in Texas against PEMEX and firms working under contract to it at the well site.

U.S. Coast Guard officials fear more oil may stain the Texas coast, but they say the autumn shift of offshore currents to the south has helped push many large patches of crude away from the coast.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

MOTOR FOR SPECIAL CAR NEEDED

Arthur's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church has asked Hotline to appeal to the public for help in enabling a young man to continue to drive himself to his job. The man drives a car specially equipped to accommodate his physical handicaps. The motor of this car is unrepairable and must be replaced.

The man and his wife are self-supporting, but do not have the extra money to take care of this extraordinary expense. The church is seeking to raise money to help them buy and install a motor in their car. Tax-deductible donations may be sent to the Motor Fund, Arthur's Chapel FWB Church, c/o the Rev. J. N. Back To Africa

PARIS (AP) — Deposed dictator Jean Bedel Bokassa took to the skies again today, heading back back to Africa in search of asylum after spending 56 hours at a military base west of Paris in an abortive effort to gain sanctuary in France. Unconfirmed reports said the Ivory Coast agreed to accept him.

But official French sources who reported Bokassa's departure declined to give the precise destination of the former self-proclaimed emperor of the Central African Empire, overthrown in a bloodless, French-backed coup Thursday by former President David Dacko.

By The Associated Press

Rain-swollen creeks and rivers are apparently to blame for at least four traffic deaths during the weekend as heavy rains swept through the western sections of North Carolina and moved through the state.

Meanwhile, the mayor of Mount Airy is asking the state to help the town secure federal disaster relief funds.

The state Highway Patrol reported Sunday two men drowned when the car they were riding in was inundated by waters from a creek in Davie County. A third passenger in the car swam to safety.

The patrol said Glenn Wayne Potts, 21, of Mocksville and Robin Scott Burton, 19, of Advance drowned early Saturday morning when they continued through a barricade and warning sign on a rural unpaved road. Reports said the men tried to drive across a bridge when the water overtook the car and swept the vehicle into the creek.

A third passenger, Penny Regina Matthews, 15, also of Advance, escaped from the car and swam to higher ground. Authorities said the two men apparently could not swim, and tried to hang on to the car.

Ms. Matthews was treated in a local hospital and released.

In Iredell County, two men also drowned in a swollen creek late Saturday night when the car they were riding in smashed through a bridge railing on a rural paved road three miles east of Statesville.

The men were identified John Walker Barber, 28, and James Allen Ostwalt, 31. Both men were from Statesville. Their bodies were found inside the car early Sunday morning.

Creeks overflowed east and west of Mount Airy in Surry County during the weekend. Inside the town, damages from the weekend rains were estimated to run as high as $15 million.

"It started coming down at 6 (p.m. Friday) and by 11:30 we already had five inches," said Christine Beamer, whose husband Maynard is mayor of Mount Airy.

A spokesman for Gov. Jim Hunt said late Sunday night that Mayor Beamer had requested the state's help in securing federal disaster relief funds. The spokesman said Hunt gave assurances that the state would help the town in its request.

Nearly 100 men and women in their 60s and 70s were evacuated from the Surry Community Nursing Center late Friday evening. Many were taken to a local National Guard armory.

Rural roads in the northwest mountains appeared to suffer the brunt of the heavy rains. Bob Adams of the state Division of Highways said conduit pipes and bridge approaches were reportedly washed out. Others operated with only one lane of traffic, he said.

A tornado was reported in Murphy in Cherokee County Friday night. Several homes and businesses were damaged, but authorities said no injuries were reported.

To Protect Palestinians

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States gave assurances at the United Nations today that it intends to protect "the legitimate rights" of the Palestinian people in any Middle East settlement.

In a major policy speech, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance called also for preserving Lebanon's integrity. He said a shaky cease-fire must be built up to a broader truce.

Hours before he spoke, Israeli and Syrian warplanes engaged in a dogfight over Lebanon and two to four Syrian jets were reported shot down. Last Thursday, Syria's Damascus Radio reported Syrian jets had driven off Israeli aircraft flying over southern Lebanon.

The United States and other countries have been growing increasingly critical of Israel's military activity in Lebanon, but Israel has vowed to continue its policy of striking Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon. The annual U.S. statement to the U.N. General Assembly appealed for international cooperation, particularly in sharing oil and other resources.

Vance said the oil producers must understand there is a limit to what consuming nations can pay. But he also accepted high prices as inevitable.

"We accept the fact that that oil prices must reflect not only the strength of demand, but also the long-term scarcity of supply," Vance said.

The Middle East and southern Africa were the two world regions where Vance saw the greatest danger of war. In fact, he said, their future might depend on decisions taken in the next few months.

Proclaiming an overall settlement as the U.S. goal, Vance called on the Palestinians, Jordan and Syria to join the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks.

Dollar Dips In Money Marts

LONDON (AP) — The dollar slipped to its lowest afternoon price in 11 months against the West German mark today following a revaluation of Europe's strongest currency.

Gold prices shot up by $7 an ounce or more in early trading. In Frankfurt, dealers "fixed" the dollar rate at 1.7653 marks this afternoon. That was down from the morning rate of 1.7697 but still up from Friday's close of 1.7635.

It was the lowest afternoon fixing rate, however, since the fixing at 1.7367 marks to the dollar on Oct. 31, 1978, the day before President Carter announced a massive dollar rescue plan.

Some dealers suggested that the dollar's afternoon weakness against the mark indicated steps to realign currencies of the European Monetary System which were announced early today, may not take pressure off the dollar.

Trading was described as moderate compared with panicky activity late last week.

Mexican Visitor

The president of Mexico is scheduled to travel to Washington this week, for two days of talks with President Carter. The two leaders, who have met twice before, have many important issues to discuss. One serious problem involves illegal aliens — Mexicans who cross into the United States illegally to look for work because they can't find jobs at home. Mexico's population, about 64 million, is larger than that of any other Latin American country except Brazil. And it's growing fast. But the job outlook for many Mexicans is bleak. About half of Mexico's working people are either out of work or underemployed. Millions of these people illegally enter the United States each year.

112-Year-Old Church Is Damaged In Sunday Fire

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — The 112-year-old First Baptist Church in Murfreesboro was heavily damaged by fire Sunday, spewing thick black smoke within a half-mile radius and threatening several historic homes in the area.

Ironically, a choir which mistakenly entered the church to practice for a concert notified officials in time to avert what may have been a major disaster in the historic neighborhood.

No injuries had been reported late Sunday, but several firemen were overcome by the heavy black smoke and flames and had to take oxygen treatments.

Fire departments from several neighboring towns were called in to respond to the blaze. Units from Hertford, Northampton and Bertie counties stood watch to assure that the flames would not spread to the historic sites.

Gusty winds drove the flames toward the John B. Wheeler house, a focal point for restoration efforts in the Hertford County town; the Gingerbread House, an intricately-carved wood structure; and the Captain Meredith home. None of the homes had been reported harmed, according to late reports.

The fire apparently broke out in the ceiling of the church, and was discovered shortly after 5 p.m. A church choir from Suffolk, Va., which had gathered for a rehearsal before a concert, was inside the sanctuary at the time. A young boy noticed the smell of smoke, and several choir members noticed smoke oozing from the ceiling above the baptismal pool.

The Rev. A.M. Williams, pastor of First Baptist, arrived on the scene as the choir was leaving the sanctuary. He said the choir's discovery of the fire allowed an early alarm to be issued. No one else was believed to be in the church at the time the blaze was discovered, officials said.

The 500-member church is one of the largest and oldest predominantly black churches in the state. Recently, its congregation had become integrated. Joint services with predominantly white congregations are held at the church during holiday periods.

Williams said that although a new site will have to be found for the church, the congregation will proceed with plans to gather for a special service at Chowan College to honor students there who worship at the church.

Illegal Aliens Not To Blame

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A sociology professor at Duke University says illegal immigrants are not responsible for increasing welfare rolls, adding that the fear of being discovered and sent home stops them from applying.

Alejandro Portes is studying immigrants to the United States from Mexico. Though the main thrust of the effort is on legal immigrants, Portes has made a number of discoveries on illegal immigrants. He has found that illegals pay taxes promptly to avoid breaking the law.

Among other findings in his work, Portes said illegal immigrants don't get smaller wages for their work. Because immigrant workers are available, certain industries can keep wages low in a particular area. He added that illegal aliens do not get paid lower salaries than an American doing a similar job. Most illegal immigrants get no less than the minimum wage. Evidence does indicate, however, that illegal aliens do not receive fringe benefits, which makes some difference in total earnings.

Most illegal Mexican immigrants are not poor farmers, but are good skilled workers who cannot get decent wages in Mexico. Portes said they come to the U.S. because wages for their particular skills are higher. They apparently come to the country to save up the money they earn, then return to Mexico, he said.

There have been reports of whole communities of illegals living in cities such as Washington and New York. However, Portes said, estimates of the number of illegal aliens in the country range from 2 million to 12 million and are all guesses.

Portes and other researchers said evidence indicates an increasing number of illegal Mexican immigrants in North Carolina, especially among tobacco farm workers. Portes said he hopes to conduct research on illegals within the state.

NEEDLEPOINT ORNAMENTS... can be a festive addition to holiday decor.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

With simple needlepoint skills, you can adorn a Christmas tree with jolly Santas, jaunty snowmen, toy soldiers, trees and bells. Worked on ten-mesh plastic canvas, these six-inch ornaments are quick and easy to make.

Each one of the ornaments will be an eye-catcher on your tree while a dozen or more will make a spectacular display. Send them instead of cards for a special "I'm thinking of you" Christmas message. The needle point charts can, of course, also be used for counted cross-stitch.

To obtain full directions for making the needlepoint ornaments, send your request for Leaflet No. N-923 with $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, The Daily Reflector, P. O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. KN-923 by sending check or money order for $12.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains Persian-type yarn, ten-mesh plastic canvas and felt backing sufficient to make ten ornaments, plus needle and instruction leaflet. Price includes shipping charges. Please include your full street address. Design is worked from chart and is not stamped on canvas.

DEAR READERS: From time to time, I hold a "Reader Design" contest, offering prizes for designs selected to feature in this column. During the coming weeks, I know that many of you will be making ornaments, decorations and gifts for the holiday season.

If you would like to share your original design and have a chance at winning a $25 or $50 prize, send me a photograph and a set of directions for your entry. Please do not send the actual item.

Entries may be knit, crochet, needlepoint, cross-stitch or macrame and should be suitable for Christmas gifts or decorations. Winners will be notified by mail by Feb. 1, 1980. No photographs can be returned.

Speaking of Christmas gifts, here's an idea for a "two-faced" scarf sent to me by a reader from Seattle, Wash. It uses a version of the tubular knitting stitch which I have given many times in the past, but the unique thing here is that the scarf is one color on one side and a contrasting color on the other side.

The pattern may be worked on any even number of stitches and must be done on circular or on double-pointed needles so that you may work stitches off either end.

Cast on any even number of stitches, using Color A. Then join Color B and work the first row with this color.

Row 1: With B (knit one stitch, bring yarn to front of work, slip one stitch, take yarn to back of work). Repeat the steps within parentheses over and over across row. Now, slip the stitches to the other end of the needle, drop Color B and pick up Color A.

Row 2: With A (holding yarn in back of work, slip one stitch, bring yarn to front and purl one stitch). Repeat across row. Then turn work, keeping stitches at same end of needle, drop A and pick up Color B.

Row 3: With Color B, work

same as for Row 2, except that at end of row slip stitches to other end of needle, drop B and pick up A.

Row 4: With Color A, work same as for Row 1, except that at end of row you turn work and pick up strand of Color B.

The stitch itself is quite easy to do, but you may have trouble keeping track of the correct row. I would suggest that you write out directions for each row on separate index cards, clipping them together with a paper clip.

Each time you complete a row, slip the card for that row to the bottom of the stack and you will always have the correct row in front of you.

Since this can be made from any yarn you have on hand and of any width you desire, I can't give you the specific number of stitches to cast on. For a narrow scarf, using knitting worsted weight yarn and size eight needles, I cast on 36 stitches.

I suggest that you make a small sample swatch on eight to 12 stitches to learn the pattern and to determine the number of stitches you will require for the width you wish to make.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Boat People: Stormy Issue

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: AMERICA FIRST wrote to say that we in the United States were foolish for taking in the "boat people." I disagreed.

Judging from the passionate response from my readers, I touched a raw nerve in a very nervous nation. My mail has been running roughly 200-to-1 in favor of AMERICA FIRST.

Some typical excerpts:

"Overpopulating is the basic cause of all the world's problems. Overbreeding Europeans took over America from the Indians. Are we going to let overbreeding Asians take over our country? We should help them only if they agree to be sterilized!"

MT. CRAWFORD, W. VA."

"The immigrants who came here from other countries made this country great. Are we to deny others the same chance our forefathers had? By God, I hope not! If there's room in the heart, there's room in the land!"

A VOICE FROM UTAH"

"I am sick to my stomach seeing our Navy planes and ships wasting our taxpayers' money searching for boat people."

We welcomed the Europeans who have similar lifestyles, but let the Chinese go where they can eat raw fish, rice, ride bicycles, live 20 in a room and smoke opium!"

EL PASO, TEXAS"

"I have as much compassion as you concerning the refugees from Vietnam, but why must the United States take in as many as we can rescue? Some other countries have taken in a token few, but they are too practical to act as emotionally as we."

KAILUA, HAWAII"

"Now it is fashionable to open up our country to Vietnamese who are bringing more diseases with them than we have cures for. I think it's a Communist plot to destroy this country!"

Still But A Political Gesture

House Democrats voted last week to reinstate price controls on fuel oil.

The voice vote came at a Democratic caucus. The resolution is only an expression of opinion by the House Democrats and action by the full House and the Senate would be required to institute price controls.

With the soaring price of heating oil facing homeowners this winter, price control is tempting. Nevertheless the House Democrat's action is nothing more than political utterance.

If the representatives really want to do something to help their hardpressed constituents they will get at the real root causes of inflation. They will get serious about programs to make this nation independent of foreign oil.

The Democratic congressmen will look more carefully at the government spending programs which come before them every year in the form of an unbalanced budget, a sure inflationary instrument.

Congress has been unable or unwilling to roll out the howitzers in the war on inflation, so the House Democrats have come up with a pea shooter in the form of this oil price control resolution.

Realistically, Kennedy Is A Candidate

Secret Service protection has been ordered for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy by President Carter.

The move is proper, of course, even though Kenedy has not formally announced as a candidate for the office that Carter now holds. Realistically Kennedy is a candidate, despite the fact that he still has the option of not announcing.

THIS AFTERNOON

It Isn't Just 'Kid Stuff'

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Add another dimension to the disturbing saga of breakdown of people caring about others and their rights.

Suddenly, in community after community, there is a showdown brewing between property owners-city officials and young people who congregate for a good time.

The good times, by all accounts, have gone beyond talk, cruising to show off the fancy wheels, trying to make out, and drinking beer.

There are foul language and gestures; property damage; littering of trash, broken glass, cans; and drugs.

Officials and citizens in Gastonia, Salisbury, Lincoln and Concord are presently wrestling with problems.

A police crackdown in Lincoln netted more than 150 arrests.

Town fathers at Concord hastily adopted a city ordinance giving police authorities to enforce trespass laws on downtown parking lots.

Elsewhere

Salisbury police have been ordered to use more manpower — even overtime — to try to control the situation.

Gastonia's city councilmen are torn between getting tough and recognizing the needs of youngsters hunting something to do.

There are obviously two sides to the escalating problem: the young people say they need a place to get together and "do their thing"; people who live or do business in the area where that is happening say they have a right to peace and security.

Since time began, youngsters have gravitated to a gathering place. Today the event centers around cars, trucks and vans as it has for a generation. Bicycles and foot traffic were the mode when events of the 30s and 40s held rein. Many grandfathers will recall horses and wagons once occupying centerstage in such gatherings.

Almost every North

Carolina community at one time or another has witnessed hundreds of youngsters "trooping the main" endlessly on Friday and Saturday nights; seeing and being seen. That tiresome promenade is even one of the main attractions at resorts such as Myrtle Beach.

But the present situation adds another dimension, and some of those involved see it as a most disturbing one — more destruction of property and aggressive disrespect for other people is evident.

Is this, one must wonder, a continuation of the vandalism and lack of discipline which are evident in the public schools, neighborhoods, and even homes?

Older

Reports also demonstrate that participants are not just students, but an increasing number of men in their 20s; some even in 30 and 40 years old.

Problems, according to reports, also go beyond simple loitering and littering and shouting at the girls. There have been bottles thrown through windows in residences and businesses; signs and furnishings destroyed; vehicles parked in the vicinity damaged and in at least one case dismantled; law enforcement officers defied; and innocent passersby verbally abused and threatened with harm.

Various communities are seeking to meet the problem in various ways. Some are trying to find ways to involve the young people in constructive activities in a place where they are welcome and out of harm's way. Others are looking to tough law enforcement to discourage such activities.

Beneath it all, though, is the nagging realization that "raisings" has more to do with the problem than anything else.

Status In Real Estate

WASHINGTON — Your status in Washington is no longer based on your title in government, nor how much entertaining you do, nor even if you come from Georgia.

You are now judged strictly on real estate.

I attended a party recently and my hostess was all aglow. "I want you to meet the most divine couple," she said. "These are the Schmertzses."

The name didn't ring a bell. "They bought a house in Georgetown in 1965 for $14,000 and it is now worth $350,000," she explained.

I got excited. "Forgive me," I apologized. "I didn't know you were those Schmertzses. I've been reading about you in the real estate pages. Didn't you get a mortgage for 4½ percent?"

"It was actually 4¾," Schmertz said modestly. "You know how real estate reporters tend to exaggerate."

Everyone gathered around the couple, while Sen. Teddy Kennedy stood in a corner all by himself. I looked around the room and couldn't believe my eyes. Coming in the door was Ziggy Wintermelon.

I went over to my hostess. "Marion, how did you ever get Ziggy Wintermelon, the condominium king, to come to your party?"

She just grinned mysteriously. "I told him Sam Freed might be here tonight. Wintermelon has been dying to meet him ever since Sam sold his mobile home in Potomac for $750,000."

"Is Freed coming?" I asked.

"He's already here, darling. He's talking to that man with the glasses and frizzy hair over there — I forget his name."

"That's Henry Kissinger," I told her.

"It's funny I don't remember inviting Kissinger. He really doesn't fit in with these people," she said.

"You certainly turned out the stars," I told her. "Isn't that Vic Orsini who just bought a million-dollar townhouse in the Kalorama section of Washington?"

"Yes, he closed on Friday. I believe he told me he's paying 12 percent for a 25-year mortgage which the bank insists it wants to renegotiate every five years. Vic's not too bright, but he's fun to have around."

"Why isn't anyone talking to Vice President Mondale and his wife?"

"They get free housing at the Naval Observatory. What could you talk to them about?"

ART BUCHWALD

"Marion," I said, "is it true the Stauntons sold their house in Alexandria for what they paid for it five years ago?"

"I'm afraid so. They seemed like such a nice couple, I don't know what got into them. Most people have dropped her when I see her at Bloomingdale's."

Marion surveyed the room. Suddenly I saw her eyes stop. "I told Chief Justice Burger not to bug Charley Smith about buying a house in Mount Vernon," she said. "Warren knows perfectly well Charley can't discuss his projects while they're still being developed."

"Maybe Burger forgot," I said.

Marion took out her guest list. "Perhaps you can help me with the seating protocol. I have three Supreme Court justices, the Vice President of the United States, six senators and Carey Winston, the mortgage banker. Should I put Carey on my left or my right?"

Return Of A Decade

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The new decade, the effervescent Eighties, will soon be upon us, and then it will be the Gay Nineties again.

Before you know it, the millennium will be here.

So the time has come for all good men to rid their vocabulary of all accusatory anachronisms and face the future unafraid with a fresh set of cliches.

Phrases that date you must be plucked from the lips and consigned to the refuse heap of yesterdays mots, bon or otherwise.

The next time a speeder passes you on the Interstate, which henceforth should be called the Superslab, it is positively antediluvian to raise the cry, "Who does he think he is, Barney Oldfield?"

Now that definitely dates you. Barney Oldfield commenced his auto racing career shortly after Henry Ford inserted an axle into a slice of the old oak tree and invented the wheel.

The phrase, however, can be recycled — to say streamlined also dates you back a couple of decades — to "Who does he think he is, Emerson Fittipaldi?" (Or Niki Lauda? or A.J. Foyt? or Paul Newman? or whichever carbon monoxide champ is reigning on the sports pages).

You are not ready for the imminent decade if you leave the porch (rather than the deck) to hunt for a brew (instead of some medication) in the fridge. In fact, you weren't even ready for the last couple of decades if you still call the refrigerator the ice box or "the Norge." The latter, by the way, was named after a famous blimp that went to the Arctic back in the days when gas bags made news outside of legislative chambers.

If any of this makes you feel old and heading down the slippery slopes toward the final decades, remember the embalmer isn't called the funeral director.

CAPITOL LETTER

Scrutinizing Commission

By WILLIAM M. WELCH

Associated Press Writer RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —

The state Industrial Commission, a judicial panel under fire for its delays in settling compensation claims by victims of brown lung, is now coming under scrutiny by the Hunt administration.

Dozens of victims, wheezing from the occupational disease of textile mills, demonstrated in Raleigh this month, asking that Gov. Jim Hunt speed up the years-long hearing process most must go through to win compensation.

According to the commission's own figures, 829 claims by victims of brown lung, or byssinosis, have been filed in North Carolina over the years — most in the past three years. But so far, the commission has ruled or agreements have been reached in only 242 cases.

The commission has awarded just more than $3 million in claims to those workers.

But of the total number of brown lung cases filed, only nine have been denied outright by the commission, so the delays are clearly working to the detriment of many former mill workers who might otherwise win compensation.

"They're understaffed and underpaid," top Hunt aide John A. Williams says. "Certainly the complaints are warranted. But there's nothing that we can do about what happened five years ago...These claims have increased in number substantially in the last few years."

Williams told the textile workers he will examine the commission, its chairman

William Stephenson and its logjam of worker's compensation cases. And Williams said the administration will be receptive to proposals for adding more hearing officers and expediting the board's cases.

The administration is not likely, however, to meet the request of the Carolina Brown Lung Association that Stephenson, who began as a commission clerk 31 years ago, be replaced.

"They just have to have an object to take their wrath out on," Williams said. "Bill is an obvious object."

Stephenson, in his own defense, notes that the commission has had three vacancies among its nine hearing officers in the past year and has needed time to train new ones. He said he may ask the Hunt administration for several new ones, but, he added, "They're doing a good job and I'll defend them."

The demands of the brown lung association, which represents hundreds of disabled textile workers across the state, are to be transmitted in writing to Hunt this week. They read like a litany of problems that face these textile workers, most of whom are incapable of work because of their disease.

—Delays. Workers who have been refused compensation by employers or the mill insurance companies can appeal only to the commission, and the Carolina Brown Lung Association complains that many workers must wait a year or even two years to get a hearing. More delays can result from demands for further medical evidence from the worker.

—Precedence. There is little established legal precedent for most cases in the state courts, and the brown lung victims contend that the commission renders differing findings on cases with nearly-identical circumstances.

—Legal complications. Brown lung victims are usually represented by young, often idealistic lawyers willing to risk taking the cases on the chance of being paid years later — if they win. Insurance companies and textile mills are represented by some of the state's most wellknown, and highly-paid, legal firms.

—Money. Affected textile

Strength For Today

UNCHANGEABLE WORDS

A noted Biblical scholar said recently that he was quite sure that if Jesus were living in the modern world, wearing our clothes, and going about in automobiles and airplanes. He would not change one word of the Sermon on the Mount.

When we think about the matter for a moment, we can see why this statement is true. The Sermon on the Mount deals with basic human situations and problems which exist in every age. It proposes the only solution for these problems. There is a way in which human life is constantly changing, but there are other ways in which it never changes at all.

Jesus, therefore, saw life as it always had been, and — we may be sure — always will be. His solution for world problems remains definitive, for He dealt with life at its basic levels. Not only is Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and tomorrow — His words are unchangeable also.

workers may have little or no income during the long delays. Pressure to reach an outside settlement for their disability — for an amount less than might be received after full commission hearings — is thus great.

Medical questions. Each worker must prove individually that his breathing affliction was acquired in the mills. Lawyers for the victims would like a "presumptive diagnosis" law similar to one covering coal miners' black lung, carrying the assumption that anyone with the symptoms who worked in a mill has byssinosis.

Lawyers who have argued for brown lung victims before the Industrial Commission say the problems Williams will find run deep. And, they say, Williams' findings will indicate the degree of commitment the administration has to helping brown lung victims.

"I don't think there's enough commitment on the part of the state to deal with what's been known for 10 or 15 years, that this is an occupational hazard of national proportion," said Charles Hassell Jr., a Raleigh lawyer who represents a number of brown-lung victims.

Central to the problems, some say, is that the cases have become too complicated both medically and legally for the commission, which was established in 1929, long before anyone knew of brown lung. It now receives a quarter of a million cases a year, most of them routine and unchallenged worker's compensation claims.

"The simple fact of the matter is the commission is not set up to handle this," says John Wallace, another Raleigh lawyer who represents brown lung victims. "They're pretty good at dealing with broken arms and hurt backs. But they're not capable of handling the complex litigation this has become."

End Of Midwest Grain Strike Tie-Ups Is In Sight

Meeting Future Foods Needs Has Obstacles

By BILL HUMPHRIES
NCSU Agricultural Information

RALEIGH — In the years ahead, will U. S. farmers be able to increase their production sufficiently to keep pace with the growing needs of an expanding population?

The answer depends on a number of factors, say scientists in the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences at North Carolina State University.

Although additional land can be brought into farming, there are limits on the extent to which this can be done, the scientists say. Generally, the most productive lands already are being used for farming.

Weather is an ever-present factor in farm production, of course. It can affect everything from the survival rate of baby pigs and the amount of milk produced per cow to per-acre yields of filed crops and the quality of peaches harvested.

Adapting crops to weather is being studied. Also in the long run it's likely that weather modification has considerable potential for increased productivity in agriculture.

Farmers must be able to control insects, diseases and other pests for efficient production of crops and livestock. Adequate supplies of pest control materials, along with the knowledge required for their proper use, will be essential.

Farm production accounts for only about three percent of the nation's total energy needs, but it is a vital three percent. Unless priorities are established so that farmers are assured of the energy they need when they need it, shortages of food, fiber and other commodities could develop at times.

To an increasing extent, capital is an essential tool in modern agricultural production. Nationwide, the capital investment per operating unit now exceeds a quarter-million dollars, and the figure will continue to increase. An inadequate supply of capital could seriously cripple farm production.

The management skills of farm operators will affect productivity levels. To be successful, today's farmers must be better educated, better trained and better informed than the farmers of a generation ago.

The most important factor contributing to long-term growth in farm productivity, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture economists, will be technology.

"If technology does not advance, the limit to productivity growth will eventually be reached," say two USDA economists in a recently published study. They are Yao-Chi Lu and Leroy Quance.

Whether or not limits to agricultural productivity growth exist, say the authors of the study, depends on whether agricultural scientists can continue to produce new technologies that farmers will adopt.

The growth rate in U. S. productivity over the past 50 years has averaged 1.5 percent a year, the USDA economists say. From 1936 to 1960—a period of exploding farm technology—productivity increased at a rate of two percent annually, but from 1960 to 1970 it fell back to 0.9 percent a year.

Does this mean that farmers are approaching the limits in crop yields per acre and production of milk, eggs and meat per pound of feed?

There is no firm consensus on the answer to this scientists at North Carolina State say, however, that two points are very clear:

First, meeting U. S. and world needs for food and other commodities in the years ahead will become an increasingly more difficult challenge for the nation's farmers and those who provide production supplies, credit and technology to farmers.

Second, advances in technology depend on public investment in agricultural research and extension programs. Among the areas of basic research that appear promising are photosynthesis, nitrogen fixation and genetic engineering for plants. Discoveries in these areas could lead to breakthroughs that would boost farm productivity at unprecedented rates.

Fraudulent Devices For Energy-Savers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Just as the cost of energy edges upward, the number of so-called energy-saving devices hit the consumer market at about the same speed. But for every gadget, state consumer protection officials are trying to weed out the good from the bad.

Some of the devices have hit the shelves in North Carolina. But of the products tested by various government agencies, none has shown substantial savings, according to Nancy Leonard, consumer specialist with the state consumer protection office.

"The market today is so ripe for fraud," she said, "because there are so many different kinds and because of the cost of energy."

Apparently, biggest on the list of new products is gasoline-savings devices. There are several types of gasoline savers that people seem to fall prey to, she said, along with a gadget called a surge suppressor that is supposed to reduce electricity consumption at home.

Not only have the gas savers been found useless but several have been discovered to be harmful to a car engine, Ms. Leonard said.

Ms. Leonard said the devices are appealing to consumers because their advertising material frequently includes testimonials from satisfied customers.

"There are so many variables that affect gas mileage that any savings usually can be traced to something else," she said.

The surge suppressor is designed to hold down the amount of electricity coming into a house when periodic power surges occur. Ms. Leonard says that if they work at all, the savings are small.

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Striking millers and the last of eight grain elevator companies have reached a tentative contract agreement that could end a two-month labor dispute which blocked the shipment of a bumper harvest and cost Midwest farmers at least $1 billion.

Grain shipments from Duluth and its twin port, Superior, Wis., could resume as early as Wednesday if the 530 members of Local 118 of the American Federation of Grain Millers approve the new contracts in balloting set for Tuesday, said to John Rogers, spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The last of the proposed contracts was reached Sunday in Minneapolis after a 19-hour session between the union and the giant General Mills Co. Rogers said union negotiators would recommend approval of all eight agreements, but no details were released.

The strike began over a wage dispute on July 6, a week after the old contracts expired, and quickly spread to all eight elevators in the Twin Ports.

Inflation Takes Up Farm Profit

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Farmers are getting higher prices for their products, but inflation is eating up the profit, a North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service Economist says.

North Carolina's cash farm receipts reached record heights in 1978 when they reached $3.2 billion. And experts predict they could top $3.4 billion this year.

But Robert Wells, chief economist for the extension service, said, "Even though net farm income was higher in 1978 than in the two previous years, the purchasing power of that net income probably showed no improvement because of the effects of inflation."

Production cost increases may again offset much of the increase in receipts, according to A. Frank Bordeaux Jr., the state Agriculture Department's chief economist.

Bordeaux said farmers "are direct users of gasoline and diesel fuel, as well as fertilizers, herbicides and pesticides which are affected by higher petroleum prices."

Officials also said that the gain in farm income appears to be unevenly distributed, with some crops showing declines.

One crop not showing a decline is soybeans. A record 37-million bushel soybean crop which brought $179 million last year, will probably be topped this year with production expected to reach 42.6-million bushels. Prices are expected to be slightly above last year's.

Tobacco cash receipts are expected to be far below last year's $1.1-billion record. The flue-cured crop is down 18 percent from last year.

Hogs and pigs have emerged as the third largest source of farm income in North Carolina, rising to $305 million in 1978. However, continued expansion of hog production is expected to be offset by lower summer and fall prices this year. The same trend exists for poultry and eggs.

Tobacco Day

Tobacco talk will be plentiful at the 21st Annual Extension Research on Wheels Review Tobacco Day Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Jane S. McKimmon Center, North Carolina State University, Raleigh.

Events will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 3 p.m., with a mid-morning coffee break and recognition luncheon. Tobacco growers, test cooperators, R-9-P committee members, county and home economics extension agents, warehouse operators, and all interested in the welfare of the crops are invited to attend. Interested persons should call the county extension offices to reserve seats for the 1 p.m. recognition luncheon.

The cost is not, however. The gadgets carry price tags ranging from $135 to $700.

"The scientific community as a whole has adopted the position that they produce no significant fuel savings," Ms. Leonard said.

By July 25, the walkout had halted all shipments through the Twin Ports to Lake Superior, aggravating the impact of a strike against the Rock Island railroad, a major Midwest grain hauler, just as a bumper harvest began in the Midwest.

The talks were conducted by top federal mediator Wayne L. Horvitz, under orders from President Carter. "These were very difficult and complicated negotiations because each company negotiates a separate contract with the union," Horvitz said.

The strike has had a severe impact on farmers in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, who could not move their crops to elevators for shipment to market. Thousands of tons of grain were already piled up on farms across the Midwest by farmers unable to get trains cars to move it to market and hoping for price increases.

Charles Rhoades, head of the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, said the strike caused $1 billion loss in his state alone, with the millers' walkout responsible for a slowdown among farmers, shippers, truckers and country elevator operators.

Davis Helberg, director of the Duluth Port Authority, said 22 ocean-going ships are in the harbor waiting to load grain. He estimated the strike had cost $40 million in "direct economie impact to the port including lost earnings and services."

He said the Western Great Lakes Ports Association had asked the U.S. and Canadian governments to delay closing the St. Lawrence Seaway at least 10 days once the millers are back on the job. The seaway, which freezes each winter, is scheduled to close Dec. 15.

The tentative pact with General Mills was the third agreement to be reached in the non-stop bargaining session that began Saturday morning. Agreements with the Peavey Co. and International Multifoods were reached Saturday.

Settlements were reached earlier with ADM Corp., Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association, Cargill, ConAgra and Continental Grain Co.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY CARRIES THIS MUCH LUMBER 174 MILES ON A GALLON OF FUEL.

"Guess how far a truck could carry it."

L. Stanley Crane, President,
Southern Railway System, Washington, D.C. 20013

The railroad is the most efficient user of fuel in the transportation industry. Bar none.

And the Southern Railway is one of the most efficient railroads in the country.

For instance, on the Southern, this 2,511-lb. load of lumber can travel 174 miles on one gallon of fuel. How far could a truck carry it on the same amount of fuel? Well, the railroad is four times more efficient than trucks. 60 times more efficient than planes, and even more efficient than barges. So it's easy to see that trucks can't carry freight anywhere near as far as railroads can per gallon of fuel.

What does this mean for the future? Well, it means that trucks will be used less and less for long hauls. More and more products will ride on the Southern, and trucks will be used for distribution at the other end of the line. Because, in the coming years, only the railroad will have the energy-efficiency for long hauls.

We have the energy for the long haul.

COUNT ON THE 1580

When you've got 67 years of building peanut harvesting equipment behind you, you pretty well know what you're doing. The Lilliston 1580 is a prime example.

There are 5900 pounds of clean harvesting performance here—a lot less weight than you'll find on other makes. Here, too, is the exclusive separator system which adjusts to a wide range of field conditions.

Every pound's working for you. There's none of that dead weight that only builds up costs. Yet it brings in a payload as big as any thing else in its class.

And it's a true Lilliston—built to run hard and run long. Steel channel framing, for instance, gives the 1580 extra strength, reducing the metal fatigue that's the big factor in long performance.

It's all here in the Lilliston 1580. This is some lean machine.

ALL YOURS IN THE 1580:

- Lilliston's exclusive Separator System—the best there is.
- A special Camless Pick-up that runs quiet, smooth and is very easy to maintain.
- Three pick-up drive sprockets, 12 available pick-up speeds.
- Six dirt removal components to deliver you a clean, high-grade harvest.
- Wide 66" pick-up takes in the largest windrows.

Anti-Nuke Rally Drew 200,000

By MARIA PALLAIS
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—It was billed as a protest against nuclear power. By the time it ended, sunny skies, free music and a controversial issue drew an estimated 200,000 people to the tip of Manhattan for a "No Nukes" rally.

Why did they gather here on the crisp first day of autumn?

"It was mainly for the music that I came, and to remember Woodstock and the '60s," said Princeton student Janine Verbinski, 20.

"People here will learn about the cause," said Jonie Miller, who came to take a stand against nuclear energy and sat in the front row.

The peaceful day-long gathering was the largest anti-nuclear, pro-solar rally in history and the focus of a day of similar protests nationwide. There were no arrests or other incidents here.

Elsewhere, however, protesters blocked the main gate to the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant in Vernon to disrupt its annual refueling, and police arrested 167 persons on charges of unlawful trespass.

The festive crowd on the edge of New York Harbor heard speeches on the dangers of nuclear power from political and environmental activists and listened to the music of a loose new alliance of musicians committed to a solar society—including Pete Seeger, Bonnie Raitt, Jackson Browne, and Crosby, Stills and Nash.

"We are here to propose a conversion program from a nuclear to a non-nuclear society, community by community, state by state, region by region, to an age of solar energy and renewable resources," said activist Tom Hayden, who heads the Campaign for Economic Democracy. His wife, actress Jane Fonda, also spoke.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged the crowd to oppose presidential candidates who favor nuclear power and support those who oppose it, making energy a major political issue in 1980.

"To stop nuclear energy is patriotic. It is fighting the cancer war," he said. "Do you have the will?"

The crowd responded with chants of "No nukes! No nukes!"

Barry Commoner of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems in St. Louis announced the formation of a new political party, the Citizens Party, which he said would lobby for anti-nuclear issues.

Sunday's rally, organized by a committee sponsored by the non-profit Musicians United for Safe Energy, capped a week of concerts at Madison Square Garden by major rock performers who volunteered to raise money for political activity against nuclear power.

Those concerts were not free, but Sunday the crowd was only asked to place donations for the anti-nuclear effort in red plastic bags. It was not known how much was donated.

Bob Hope The Pentagon Comedian, Says Tass

By NIKKI FINKE
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press is calling Bob Hope the "Pentagon's comedian" as the Kremlin steps up its swipes at that most American of institutions — Hollywood.

The list of film stars and movies attracting Moscow's attention is growing almost weekly, including Elizabeth Taylor, Jane Fonda, John Travolta, "Apocalypse Now," and even James Bond's "Moonraker."

The latest target of Soviet barbs is Hope, whose recent trip to China irked Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said this weekend, and not just because of what it said was his "low standard of comedy" about Chinese laundries.

"Now this clown, an envoy of the American military establishment, has visited China and made a movie whose goal is to advertise the Pentagon-backed policy of military and political rapprochement between Peking and Washington," Tass maintained.

It said Hope will be involved soon in a "New venture of a dubious nature," involving the Middle East.

According to the news agency, Hope has instructions from Washington to star in a show in Cairo commemorating the second anniversary of President

Anwar Sadat's precedent-setting journey to Jerusalem.

Just last week, Tass denounced Miss Taylor's just-completed trip to Cairo, noting that not too long ago her films were boycotted in Egypt because of her strong pro-Israeli stand.

Why this avid Soviet interest in Hollywood's people and products?

The reason may well be that as more and more Western influences penetrate Soviet society, the government is feeling the need to combat what it sees as Hollywood's dangerously alluring glitter.

A Siberian schoolteacher proudly displays a West German magazine cover of teen-idol Travolta, though she has never seen his films.

And Soviets line up to see Miss Taylor's U.S.-made "Cleopatra," now showing at local movie theaters, though it is years old.

Soviet citizens go to the cinema an average 17½ times a year, making them one of the world's leading movie-goers, behind Singapore and Hong Kong. In America, people go only about five times a year.

And the price of a movie ticket here is cheap, ranging from 45 to 75 cents.

While many Russians may never get the chance to see a high quality Hollywood production, Soviet artists often look to the West for inspiration and technique in their film-making.

Yet Soviet propaganda persistently tries to portray American movie culture as vapid, self-serving and heavily profit-oriented.

For instance, the newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta recently said movies about Agent 007 were "unlimited stupidity" and contained all the time-worn values of Western mass culture — sex, violence and "super-individualism," in the words of a reviewer.

Though usually averse to liking Hollywood extravaganzas, the Soviet press nevertheless gave a thumbs-up review to "Apocalypse Now," Francis Ford Coppola's controversial Vietnam War epic.

But newspapers alleged that Hollywood bosses and the Pentagon teamed up to try to kill the film because of its heavy anti-American, anti-war message — which is why it won Soviet favor.

A Review

H.G. Wells Story Has Remote Links

Don't be misled by the provocative ads for "The Shape Of Things To Come" depicting a young woman whose costume is revealingly all tattered and torn, and a nine-foot giant of a man whose granite chest is exposed.

In the film, it just ain't so. It is perhaps the most discreetly costumed movie since the last Marie Dressler — Wally Berry venture.

And any basic resemblance to the insightful visions of future days penned by H. G. Wells is another, and the most damaging shortcoming in the stereotyped "good guys/bad guys" script. This extends to the robots, i.e., the good robot is witty, nimble and of a brighter hue than the clumsy, inarticulate bad robots who wobble about like ungainly rubber-coated haystacks.

One scene gives brief promise, where the hero and heroine return to earth. Some spooky looking creatures enmeshed in mouldy coverings, however, turn out to be fearful children disguised. Uncovered, they are dirty faced urchins sporting outlandish Dolly Parton snow white wigs. (End of suspense).

Anyone who perchance may get a kick from repeated close-ups of fingers, human and robot, punching computer keys about every other scene will go into orbit with this film. Otherwise?

What does merit a nod of approval for "The Shape Of Things To Come" is the good acting, and a whirlaway sequence when a spaceship is caught in a magnetic field.

"The Shape Of Things To Come" is showing at the Plaza Cinema.

In addition to the stop sign, officers recovered two "Fifth Street" signs, two "Tyson Street" signs, a one-way sign, a Greenville City Limits sign, a "Bump" sign, a railroad crossing sign, an N.C. 33 highway sign and a sign warning of traffic signal lights ahead.

HEW Goals Said 'Alive'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The efforts against smoking and attempts to effect integration on the University of North Carolina system have not altogether died with the departure of HEW Secretary Joseph Califano.

John Pinney, who heads HEW's anti-smoking program recently had an appointment with new HEW boss Patricia Harris. The program hasn't made any friends in North Carolina. Pinney was none too calm as he went to talk with Mrs. Harris. And his concern wasn't diminished any when reports leaked of a fiery confrontation between Mrs. Harris and civil rights office head David Tate.

Tate's hard stance on desegregation of the UNC system is often mentioned as one possible reason for Califano's demise.

According to reports, when Mrs. Harris first met with Tate, she chewed him out, accusing him of being disorganized and insensitive to the political effects of his actions.

Pinney later found there was no cause for alarm.

"There's no question but she was very interested in the subject of smoking," Pinney said after his briefing. "I don't think she's soft at all. I came away encouraged."

Things aren't as cheerful at the civil-rights office. But a holdover from the Califano days remarked, "I have no sense whatsoever of a shift in policy ... she has bent over backwards to take a strong line."

Tate will be leaving his post, effective Dec. 1, and his replacement will be seen as a major test of Mrs. Harris' willingness to be tough on civil rights. She is also said to have allowed subordinates more policy-making powers than they were given under Califano.

Quality, Quantity, Or Both, Pays Off For NFL QBs

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
Sometimes, it's quality that pays off for quarterbacks.
—Example: Tampa Bay's Doug Williams completed just five passes Sunday, but two of them went for touchdowns and 31.

the Bucs beat Los Angeles 21-6. Sometimes, it's quantity that pays off for receivers.
—Example: Buffalo's Jerry Butler caught 10 passes for 255 yards and four TDs as the Bills trampled the New York Jets 46-31.

And sometimes, it's a little bit of both that pays off for benchwarmers.
—Example: Sub Craig Morton of Denver came in to complete 11 of 16 passes for 178 yards, throwing three TDs in 2½ minutes as the Broncos rallied for a 37-34 victory over Seattle.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, it was New England 27, San Diego 21; Pittsburgh 17, Baltimore 13; Minnesota 27, Green Bay 21 in overtime; Houston 30, Cincinnati 27 in overtime; Kansas City 35, Oakland 7; Washington 17, St. Louis 7; Detroit 24, Atlanta 23; New Orleans 30, San Francisco 21; Philadelphia 17, New York Giants 13; and Miami 31, Chicago 16.

Unbeaten Tampa Bay packed three touchdowns into the second period, two of them on passes by Williams to Larry Mucker for 15 yards and Jimmie Giles for 29.

For the game, Williams finished with 5-of-20 and 101 yards but the quality of his completions outweighed the quantity.

Bills 46, Jets 31
Buffalo was trailing 24-12 when Butler caught a deflected pass and took it 75 yards for a TD on the final play of the first half.

That touched off a Buffalo burst that resulted in 34 consecutive points. Joe Ferguson threw for 367 yards and five TDs, with Butler's scores coming on 5, 75, 74 and 9-yard plays. His 255 yards was the seventh best single game for a receiver in NFL history.

Broncos 37, Seahawks 34
Denver was trailing 34-10 halfway through the third quarter when Morton came off the bench to shatter Seattle.

Patriots 27, Chargers 21
New England built a 20-0 lead but then needed an interception by Steve Nelson to halt a Charger rally in the final two minutes to clinch the victory.

Nelson picked off Dan Fouts' pass from the 10-yard line as San Diego drove for the end zone. Steve Grogan's 5-yard TD pass to Russ Francis supplied the deciding TD.

Steelers 17, Colts 13
Pittsburgh won its fourth straight by coming from behind in the final period for the third time. Terry Bradshaw's 28-yard screen pass to Bennie Cunningham provided the winning TD with 5:41 to play.

The Steelers, who began the game with five starters injured, lost wide receiver Lynn Swann and guard Gerry Mullins with pulled hamstrings.

Vikings 27, Packers 21, OT
Ahmad Rashad grabbed Tommy Kramer's pass on a 50-yard play that gave Minnesota its winning TD against Green Bay.

Oilers 30, Bengals 27
Toni Fritsch's 29-yard field goal with 33 seconds left in overtime carried Houston past Cincinnati. The kick hit the left upright but tumbled over the Crabar, climaxing an Oiler comeback in a game in which they once trailed 24-0.

Chiefs 35, Raiders 7
Kansas City sacked Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler six times, with Art Still recording four, in a victory dominated by the Chiefs' defense. Gary Barbaro returned a Stabler interception 70 yards for one TD and J.T. Smith returned a punt 88 yards for another score.

Redskins 17, Cardinals 7
Washington yielded 306 passing yards to Jim Hart but capitalized on four fumble recoveries to beat St. Louis. Rookie linebacker Don Hover recovered one of the fumbles in the end zone for one of the Redskins TDs. The other recoveries halted Cardinal drives deep in Washington territory and the Redskins also sacked Hart three times.

Lions 24, Falcons 23
Rookie Jeff Komlo passed for two touchdowns as Detroit won its first game after three straight losses. He completed 19 of 35 attempts for 289 yards.

Saints 30, 49ers 21
Archie Manning completed 20 of 28 passes for 355 yards and two TDs as New Orleans won its first game of the year and tagged San Francisco with its fourth loss. Tony Galbreath also scored two TDs for the Saints.

Eagles 17, Giants 13
Wilbert Montgomery rushed for 126 yards and scored on a 53-yard pass play from Ron Jaworski as Philadelphia handed New York its fourth consecutive loss.

John Sciarra blocked a punt setting up Jaworski's TD pass to Montgomery and also made an interception halting a late-game Giant rally.

Dolphins 31, Bears 16
Larry Csonka scored on TD runs of 1, 9, and 12 yards — the first time in his 11-year career that he has had three TDs in a single game — leading Miami past Chicago.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Dolphins, who came from behind on the precise passing of Don Strock, filling in for Bob Griener.

Pirates, Expos Continue Chase Of Must-Win Games

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
For the Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos, there was no time to savor the latest crucial victory. The next "must-win" game was only a day away, and both teams knew it would stay that way — for the next few days, anyway.

Because tonight the Pirates and Expos play a two-night doubleheader to start a four-game series that, in the words of Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, "could decide the (National League East) title."

"This four-game series now has become the most important series of the year for the Pirates and the Expos," he said. So by the time the last pitch had been thrown, Jim Bibby's three-hit, 6-0 masterpiece over the Chicago Cubs had been shunted to the background — it lay behind the Pirates, not ahead.

"This game was just as important as any coming up in the Montreal series," said the Pittsburgh right-hander, aware the first-place Expos had beaten the Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 to maintain a one-half game lead over the Pirates in the National League's East Division. "That one-half game," said Tanner, "doesn't mean a thing."

It meant a lot to Expos catcher Gary Carter.

"Our fate is in our hands," he said after Andre Dawson hit two solo homers and Chris Speier drove in three runs with a single and a two-run homer to back Bill Lee and Montreal. "The whole season could be riding on that (Pittsburgh) series."

On Sunday, the Cincinnati Reds and Houston Astros completed what had been billed as just such a series. The first-place Reds scored a controversial 7-1 triumph over the second-place Astros and boosted to 1½ games their NL West lead.

The key play came with two out in the Reds' fourth, when Ray Knight — easily beaten to the plate by the throw to Astros catcher Luis Pujols — was ruled safe at home by plate umpire Joe West.

run double in the five-run Pittsburgh second inning that carried the Pirates past the Cubs. Bibby, 11-4, struck out six and walked one, allowing a single to Larry Bliittner in the first, a double to Ivan DeJesus in the third and a single to Steve Ontiveros in the eighth.

Expos 7, Phillies 4
Montreal beat Philadelphia for its 24th victory in the last 28 games. But the Phillies' Pete Rose extended his hitting streak to 21 games with a fifth-inning single and was one hit away from a major-league record 10th 200-hit season.

Rose has hit in 28 of his last 29 games, and in the 14 games since he was returned to the leadoff spot has gone 29-for-55 — a .524 batting average.

Reds 7, Astros 1
The Reds' George Foster, who hadn't driven in a run since Sept. 11, clubbed his 28th homer of the year to help Cincinnati.

Cardinals 7, Mets 4

Lou Brock became baseball's all-time greatest base stealer, copping the 938th of his career in the fifth inning against the Mets. The theft erased the all-time mark held by Billy Hamilton, who played from 1888 to 1901.

Giants 2, Braves 1

Mike Ivie's eighth-inning homer and an RBI single by Roger Metzger carried San Francisco past Atlanta.

Dodgers 5, Padres 2

Pitcher Steve Mura's throwing error on a sacrifice bunt by Derrell Thomas in the eighth inning allowed the winning run to score as Los Angeles bested San Diego.

Rough Weekend For Top Ranked College Powers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Southern California poured it on in the first half. Alabama rolled it up in the second half

This past weekend's visit to Winston-Salem was a strong dose of nostalgia for this writer. It's been 20 years since I last saw a football game played by the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in Winston-Salem.

In those days, I was an undergraduate at Wake Forest College, completing my senior year. Back in those days, football was played in Bowman-Gray Stadium, a field that was also shared by the local high schools, seeing use several times a week.

But things have changed since then. A drive through the campus showed quite a bit of difference in the intervening 20 years. New buildings have sprung up, and the buildings that were fresh and new when I was a freshman in the first freshman class at Winston-Salem are beginning to show the slow process of aging.

Groves Stadium is a big step up for the Deacons, and the team they put onto the football field Saturday night shows that the program has come a long way since those undergraduate days.

But just as I have seen the differences in Wake Forest, so, too, I can see them in East Carolina. Over the past 16 years I've spent in this city, I've seen constant changes, not the least of which have been in the athletic program of the university.

Watching the game left me with a number of mixed emotions, having to watch my alma mater do battle against my adopted alma mater.

And while I was glad to see Wake Forest team win its third straight game for the first time since 1951, I was also saddened to see the Pirates drop three in a row for the first time since 1971.

Over the past six years, no, really going back into the Sonny Randle days as far back as that three-game losing streak, the Pirates have built a reputation on their defensive play. But watching the Pirates play Saturday belied that reputation.

There was little to be proud of defensively. While the offense did its job, the defense, again, made nothing happen.

Wake Forest, which has passed for nearly all of its touchdowns, is not a "bomb" type team, but a first down passing team. They pick your defense apart with the long, the medium and the short passes. They send out three receivers on every play, and keep another loose in the flat for the escape-valve throw.

And Jay Venuto did an outstanding job. Not only did he pick up primary and secondary receivers, he had time to look for others behind the strong protection of his line.

Only once during the evening did the Pirates sack the Wake quarterback. The receivers, if covered, had time to make the moves to get away, or Venuto had time to find alternate receivers.

Those first downs added up. While the Pirates stopped Wake on a number of occasions, allowing only two touchdowns, the passing game got the Deacons into field goal position four times. Three of those were successful, and the fourth missed mainly because the Deacons ran out of time.

East Carolina, over the past six years, has lost 18 games. Of those 18, field goals have been the deciding factor in over half of them.

In these days of excellent kickers, stopping the offense at the 25 isn't good enough anymore.

control Saturday.

The same could not be said for the rest of The Associated Press Top Twenty. Notre Dame, Penn State and Pittsburgh were losers while Texas, Nebraska, Michigan State, Missouri and Washington had to rally for second-half victories.

There likely will be no changes at the top of this week's ratings. Top-ranked Southern Cal surged to a 35-0 halftime lead as All-America Charles White rushed for 153 yards and two touchdowns and plastered Minnesota 48-14.

Meanwhile, runnerup Alabama broke open a relatively close game with four touchdowns in the final period and flattened Baylor 45-0 while third-ranked Oklahoma scored 21 points in the opening period, 21 more in the final one and crushed Tulsa 49-13.

Elsewhere, though, fourth-ranked Texas overcame a 9-3 halftime deficit to turn back Iowa State 17-9, fifth-ranked Notre Dame was knocked off 28-22 by No. 17 Purdue, Texas A&M stunned No. 6 Penn State 27-14, No. 7 Nebraska and No. 8 Michigan squeaked past Iowa and Miami of Ohio, respectively, by 24-21 scores and ninth-ranked Missouri walloped Mississippi 33-7 after trailing 7-3 at halftime. Houston, the No. 10 team, was idle.

The only loser in the Second Ten was No. 13 Pitt, which bowed to North Carolina 17-7. Eleventh-ranked Michigan downed Kansas 28-7, No. 12 Washington edged Oregon 21-17, No. 14 Florida State thrashed Miami, Fla., 40-23, No. 15 Arkansas whipped Oklahoma State 27-7, No. 16 Ohio State trimmed Washington State 45-29, No. 18 Southern Methodist held off North Texas State 20-9, No. 19 North Carolina State trounced West Virginia 38-14 and No. 20 UCLA mauled Wisconsin 37-12.

"We wanted to come out fast...and we did," said USC's White, who scored on a spectacular 68-yard scamper and a 10-yard burst as the Trojans tallied on five of their first six possessions against Minnesota. Coach John Robinson, however, said he "didn't expect this kind of game (586 yards to Minnesota's 235). I thought it would be more difficult."

How good is Alabama?

"It would be an understatement to say Alabama is an outstanding football team, but I want to say it just the same," Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said after the Bears suffered their worst pasting in a decade.

"Steadman Shealy is just an outstanding quarterback, Major Ogilvie and Steve Whitman are fine running backs that show great balance and that offensive line is every bit as good as you hear."

Alabama not only allowed Baylor to cross midfield just once in each half but intercepted six passes, recovered two fumbles and blocked a punt while the offense reeled off 431 yards on the ground.

Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims scored twice while romping for 109 yards on 11 carries while J.C. Watts rushed for 122 on 20 to lead Oklahoma over Tulsa, Texas, which meets Oklahoma in three weeks, got a pair of 1-yard scoring runs from A.J. "Jam" Jones in the last two periods and fought off Iowa State. The Longhorns were the last major college team to get under way.

Notre Dame, playing without quarterback Rusty Lisch, led 20-7 in the third quarter before Wally Jones swung the momentum Purdue's way with a pair of short plunges. Mark Hermann, who threw 15 yards to Dave Young for Purdue's first touchdown, hit Bart Burrell with a 6-yarder midway through the final period to offset a safety with five minutes left.

Penn State usually is the best in the East, but previously winless Texas A&M whipped the Nittany Lions as world-class sprinter Curtis Dickey rushed for 184 yards, including touchdowns of 69, 11 and 21 yards. He also scampered 33 yards to set up David Brothers' 1-yard TD plunge.

Nebraska erased a 21-7 deficit and beat Iowa on short runs by Tim Hager and Craig Johnson plus Dean Sukup's tie-breaking 30-yard field goal with 5:22 to play. Michigan State blew a 17-0 lead against Miami of Ohio and trailed 21-17 before winning on Bert Vaughn's 6-yard toss to Mark Brammer with just 1:25 remaining.

Missouri got second-half touchdowns runs from Gerry Ellis, James Wilder and Phil Bradley, as well as a 69-yard

Bradley-to-Ken Blair pass play, in overcoming Mississippi.

Stanley Edwards scored twice on short runs to help Michigan beat Kansas while Washington needed Mark Lee's 53-yard punt return with 1:59 to go to hold off Oregon.

Matt Kupec scored once and passed for another touchdown as North Carolina upended Pitt. Mark Lyles and Greg Ramsey ran for two TDs apiece to lead Florida State over Miami, Fla., and Kevin Scanlon's two touchdowns helped Arkansas knock off previously unbeaten Oklahoma State.

ECU Soccer Team Boots Catawba

SALISBURY — East Carolina's improving soccer team claimed its first shutout of the season with a 3-0 victory over Catawba College here Sunday afternoon.

Despite the rain and chilly temperatures in the low 50s, the Pirates upped their record to 2-2-1, the best since 1974.

Sophomore Brad Winchell booted the first goal on an assist from freshman Chip Baker, as the Pirates ended the first period with a 1-0 lead. Two penalty kicks from senior Jeff Karpovich and freshman Brant Hylton were good for the final score.

ECU gave Catawba little chance to score as they completely dominated the sloppy field. The Pirates took 39 shots while the Catawba booters could manage only six attempts. Goalie Mike Angelo was credited with all six saves for the Pirates.

"Our guys gave a super effort," said Coach Brad Smith, who takes his Pirate squad to Davidson Monday for a 4 p.m. match. "The freshmen are doing the job for us. Mike Hitchcock and Brant Hylton just dominated."

After Davidson, the Pirates return to ECU, where they will host South Carolina Friday. The Gamecocks are ranked No. 7 in the south.

Summary

Catawba	0	0-0
Scoring—Goals:	Winchell, Karpovich, Hylton	Assists: Baker.

Royals Looking To Do More Than Knock On Angels' Door

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals are knocking on the California Angels' penthouse door.

And tonight, they get a chance to break it down a little.

"Realistically, we have to sweep," says Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog as the Royals open a do-or-die, three-game series with the American League West pacesetters.

The Royals remained three games behind the Angels by beating Oakland 4-2 Sunday while California was defeating Texas 6-1. Two victories by the Angels in the Kansas City series will give them the West title.

Winning pitcher Marty Pattin contributed to Kansas City's latest victory with seven strong innings in a rare starting assignment.

Angels 6, Rangers 1

Carney Lansford's three-run homer keyed a six-run fifth inning and Dave Frost spun a six-hitter as California beat Texas. Frost, 16-9, allowed Texas' only run in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Willie Montanez. Frost struck out five and didn't issue a walk.

After being limited to one hit by Ferguson Jenkins, 15-14, the Angels chased him with five consecutive hits starting the fifth.

Indians 4-1, Orioles 3-3

Eighth-inning doubles by Wayne Cage and Dave Rosello snapped a tie and led Cleveland past Baltimore in the first game of their doubleheader.

Mike Flanagan gained his 23rd victory with ninth-inning relief help from Don Stanhouse as the Orioles won the second game. The save was the 21st this season for Stanhouse.

The Orioles lost to Cleveland Saturday but nevertheless clinched the AL East title when second-place Milwaukee was defeated by Minnesota.

Brewers 8, Twins 7

Gorman Thomas hit a three-run homer in the first inning, his 44th, and Don Money's pinch single in the sixth scored the go-ahead run as Milwaukee beat Minnesota. Jerry Augustine, 8-6, was the winner.

Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5

Tommy John reached the second 20-victory season of his career as New York beat Toronto. John, 20-9, allowed six hits, struck out one and walked none before getting relief help in the ninth from Rich Gossage, who recorded his 17th save. John was 20-7 in 1977 with the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League.

Red Sox 2-2, Tigers 1-3

Tom Poquette led off the eighth with a pinch single, took second on a sacrifice and scored on Jim Dwyer's pinch single to lead Boston over Detroit in their doubleheader opener.

Ron LeFlore led off the 10th inning with a walk, stole his sixth base of the afternoon and eventually scored on Champ Summers' single, giving the Tigers their second-game victory.

Mariners 8, White Sox 3

Tom Paciorek drove in four runs as Seattle beat Chicago and reached a club-record 65 victories for the season. Winner Rick Honeycutt, 11-11, scattered nine hits, striking out a career-high eight batters.

Pacioerek's three-run homer chased Rich Wortham, 14-13, in the fifth. Paciorek drove in his other run in the sixth with a bases-loaded grounder.

Fought Wins

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — John Fought reached the final hole in a $300,000 golf tournament Sunday and found himself in a situation that, two weeks ago, might have seemed frightening.

"I looked at the leader board and realized that if I made that putt, I could win the tournament. I couldn't believe it," said the 25-year-old golfer who made the putt and won his second consecutive title.

Two weeks ago, Fought was a virtual nobody on the pro golf tour, a rookie with $22,000 in tournament winnings. Then he won the Buick Open by beating Jim Simons in a playoff and earned a check for $27,000.

Fought began the final round of Napa's Anheuser-Busch Classic 3 strokes off the lead.

Fought was in a five-way tie for the lead as he looked over a 10-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole of Silverado Country Club's North course.

"Winning last week helped me a lot. I said to myself,

"John, you know you can win now, handle this kind of pressure," Fought said after pocketing the $54,000 winner's check.

He finished with a 3-under-par round of 69 and a 72-hole total of 11-under 277, becoming one of the few rookies in tour history to win back-to-back tournaments.

"When I heard that roar from the 18th green, I knew exactly what had happened," said Buddy Gardner.

Pigeon Results

The Golden Leaf Pigeon Club raced from Columbia, S.C., this past weekend. The results: 1. Rayford Kennedy; 2. Kennedy; 3. Charles Wainwright; 4. Wainwright.

The club's next race is on September 30 from Dillon, S.C.

Post Wins LPGA

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — Sandra Post may have stumbled upon a sure-fire formula for success on the LPGA tour, but the Canadian isn't quite ready to try it regularly.

"I really try to play as much as I can," said Post Sunday after rebounding from a 3 1/2-week layoff to grab a 2-stroke victory in the $100,000 LPGA Kansas City Classic. "It's my business and I love it."

Post, a native of Oakville, Ontario, fired a 3-under par 70 on the 6,273-yard Brookridge Country Club course to wipe out a 3-stroke deficit after three rounds of the 72-hole tournament.

"I drove the ball exceptionally well all week, which I think is the key to this course," said Post, who had only three bogeys in winning the $15,000 first prize with a total of 284.

The victory, her third on the tour this year and the sixth of her 11-year career, lifted her to second place among 1979 LPGA money-winners with $138,344.

Spikers To Play Duke

The East Carolina women's volleyball squad will resume NCAIAW Division I competition Tuesday night at 7 o'clock when the Pirates host Duke in Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates, coming off a round-robin tournament at William and Mary, are 1-3 overall and 0-1 in conference play.

Duke, who has dominated Division I volleyball in the past, winning two consecutive state titles before losing in the finals last year to N.C. State, will be playing without all-state performer Leslie Lewis, who was lost through graduation.

"Even without Lewis, Duke is a good team," she warned. "They are probably better. They now have more balance both on offense and defense."

Rowin' Deacons Next Challenge: N.C. State

By DICK BRINSTER
Associated Press Writer

Ask any football coach what he thinks will happen in a game against Wake Forest and he'll say "they'll try to throw the ball all over the place."

Indeed, especially in view of Jay Venuto's showing of the last two weeks. Coach John Mackovic has turned Venuto loose, and the Deacon quarterback has completed 46 of 62 passes for 617 yards.

Still, the Deacons have struggled to win in each outing, despite being 3-0. Their latest conquest was a 23-20 victory over East Carolina Saturday night.

Wake's opponent next Saturday night is none other than unbeaten North Carolina State, a 38-14 winner Saturday over West Virginia.

"What we were trying to do over and over was to get one-on-one coverage," Mackovic explained.

With a quarterback of Venuto's obvious ability and a receiver as talented as Wayne Baumgardner, who caught six passes for 105 yards, Mackovic's modus operandi is not expected to change.

But they'll attempt to throw against the likes of Woodrow Wilson, Donnie LeGrande and Ronnie Lee. No one claims to have seen a more active and efficient secondary anywhere in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The game should be terribly interesting in view of the Wolfpack's early-season vulnerability to the long gainer. This tendency has so annoyed Coach Bo Rein that he attempted to "embarrass the defense into playing better" after they left the field with a 17-14 halftime lead against the Mountaineers.

"The big plays we gave up were because of a lack of concentration," said LeGrande, who made six unassisted tackles against West Virginia. "Coach Rein's talk fired us up. We pulled together in the second half," LeGrande added.

Then quarterback Scott Smith scored three touchdowns and N.C. State was home free.

While Wake Forest may attempt to throw the opposition out of the ballpark, North Carolina has been kicking them out so to speak. Take for example the field position 13th-ranked Pittsburgh found itself in when it was upset by the Tar Heels, 17-7.

As a result of kickoffs by Jeff Hayes and punts by Steve Streater the Panthers got the ball at their own 6, 21, 19, 14, 20, 22, 23, 15, 12, 34, 20, 18, 20, 7, 20 and 20 yard lines.

"We had to go the whole distance every time we got the ball," said Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill in praising the North Carolina kicking game.

Only punts he is kicking out of bounds and into the end zone are holding Streater's average to 41 yards through two games. The tremendous height he is getting on the ball is giving the punting team an opportunity to prevent returns.

"The play of our specialty teams was the key to the game," said Tar Heel Coach Dick Crum. "We got good punting and excellent kick coverage. That unit has a lot of pride."

Army should get a kick out of it Saturday.

So should Kentucky, but the Wildcats may get their thrills watching Maryland's Dale Castro, who seems to have forgotten he is being given room and board at College Park to play baseball.

He qualifies as a football walk-on. He walked on the field five times Saturday after the Terrapin offense had stalled and kicked a like number of field goals in a 35-14 victory over Mississippi State.

And what did he get for his trouble? A chewing out from Coach Jerry Claiborne after he missed and extra point—that's what.

"I think he lost his concentration," Claiborne said.

"I just tried to keep my head down and kick all the same way," said Castro, whose field goals covered 45, 29, 18, 32 and 42 yards.

"I felt sorry for him when he missed it," Claiborne said of Castro's muffed extra point.

"But five-for-five is super." Red Wilson would have appreciated five field goals. His Duke Blue Devils barely surpassed that number in the first-down column during a 35-0 loss to South Carolina. Duke made but seven and gained only 142 yards against 440 for the Gamecocks.

"Once you get everything going like they did it's sort of like a poker game," said Wilson. "You get hot and before you know it you're drawing to an inside straight."

The Blue Devils will try to get started again Saturday when they travel to Virginia. The Cavaliers posted their second shutout of the season, a 19-0 victory over VMI.

But it left Coach Dick Bestwick dissatisfied.

"We just made too many mistakes," he said. "But things have changed at Virginia, because we're now talking about playing poorly and winning when we used to talk about playing well when we lost."

Former Clemson Coach Frank Howard once said "a tie is like kissing your sister." Georgia Tech's Pepper Rodgers called one a victory when the Yellow Jackets blocked a late Florida field goal to earn a 7-7 tie. Tech hosts William & Mary Saturday.

"I think you saw a different Clemson team than you saw last week," said Coach Danny Ford after the Tigers beat Georgia, 12-7. They have the week off.

Browns To Face Dallas

CLEVELAND (AP) — If history repeats itself, as some believe, then the Cleveland Browns should be favored to beat the Dallas Cowboys in their National Football League clash tonight.

Instead, the Cowboys head into the meeting of undefeated teams as three-point favorites.

The kickoff of the nationally televised game is scheduled for 9:05 p.m. EDT in front of a sellout crowd of more than 82,000 in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

The Browns helped launch Monday night football on Sept. 21, 1970, with a 31-21 victory over the New York Jets. In fact, they've won four of their six appearances on Monday night, while the Cowboys have managed just one victory in eight appearances before the ABC cameras.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry shrugs off his team's Monday night history, saying, "I don't know why we've had so little success, but every game is different. You just have to take them as they come."

The Browns aren't thinking about past performances either, but most of them are happy for the chance to gain some national limelight.

Don Cockroft, the veteran placekicker who booted the winning field goal in Cleveland's last Monday night appearance — a 30-27 overtime victory over New England two years ago — is one of them.

"Every game is important, but I can say I'm glad they feel we're worthy of being on national television, and it also will be great playing one of the best teams in football," Cockroft said.

Browns running star Greg Pruitt has another reason for looking forward to the national exposure.

"It should be a great measuring stick as to what kind of team we are, and how good a running back I am. I think I'm as good as any guy in the game, and I'm looking forward to going head-to-head with (Dallas running back) Tony Dorsett," Pruitt said.

The powerful Cowboys made it to the Super Bowl last season. But they lost to Pittsburgh in that game and have not been impressive in three cliffhanger victories so far this season.

Nostalgia Trip In Three Parts

By PETER J. BOYER

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

Viewers accustomed to a diet of knowing wisecracks from world-wise adolescents might yawn at the prospect of a six-hour memorial to the naive of the '40s generation.

And tonight's opener of NBC's "The Last Convertible" would seem escapist itself — a slow-moving nostalgia trip to the pre-World War II Ivy League, where golden heroes and heroines waltz giddy with pretty dreams.

They are shining knights in a realm of innocence, their jousts staged on dancefloors and in the backseats of convertibles to the sounds of the Glenn Miller Orchestra.

No, viewers who need their weekly fix of a Fonzy "Aaaaayyyy" won't go for "The Last Convertible." This one's for the Old Man. He'll want to remember the shag and the stomp and all those irreverent dreams.

The miniseries focuses on five Harvard roommates of the Class of '44 — the "Five Fusiliers" they call themselves — a diverse group of young world-beaters whose promise was lost in the darkness of war.

There is handsome aristocrat Russ (Perry King), a writer; George (Bruce Boxleitner), solid, studious and good; Terry (John Shea), the friendly Irishman; Ron Dalrymple (Edward Albert), the competitive "Dal"; and French expatriate Jean-Jean (Micahael Nouri).

Maid Marian to this carefree crew is Radcliffe student Chris Farris (Deborah Raffin), a radiant beauty who is loved by three of the Fusiliers. They laugh and dream big dreams and drive around in a glorious Packard convertible dubbed "The Empress." They issue bold challenges to the world.

"We're the brightest, hand-somest, most sophisticated crew that ever graced fair Harvard," boasts Russ. "I think we're going to make history."

But then comes war and, afterward, the hurried attempt to recover lost illusions. Finally, the Fusiliers meet at a 25th class reunion, and sort of wonder what happened.

It's a lovely nostalgia, and would have made a perfect four-hour miniseries. But six hours is a long time to spend chasing lost dreams, and the result is a lot of inaction, especially in tonight's opening segment.

The first jab you get, in fact, comes at the very end of the first episode when bitchy Well-lesley girl Kay Haddon (artfully played by Sharon Gless) ruins Chris's New Years' Eve, and prompts a fight between two of the Fusiliers.

As I say, the Old Man will love it. Others, though, might weary of labored pace and such dialogue as, "George, you didn't use a ... you know... Well, I guess it'll be all right. Girls only get pregnant the first time in bad novels."

Speaking of novels, this was based on the best-seller by Anton Myer, who was in the Harvard Class of '44. The idea came to him when he heard the announcement that the last American convertible would be made in 1976.

Rebuilding Life Six Years Later

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Six years after serving time for his role in the Water-gate scandal, Donald Segretti is quietly building a law practice here and trying to avoid the limelight.

"I'm not a public person anymore," says Segretti, now 36. "I'm a private person and I'm trying to live a private life."

Segretti was among the first of the Watergate defendants to plead guilty and go to prison. In 1973, he served four months and 20 days of a six-month federal sentence for election law violations.

Segretti was recruited by two old University of Southern California classmates, Gordon Strachan and Dwight Chapin, to disrupt the campaigns of Richard Nixon's opponents.

In 1976, the California Supreme Court slapped him with a two-year suspension of his right to practice law, delaying the start of his practice as an attorney dealing with corporate matters.

AIRPLANE MUSEUM

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — A new aviation museum created by Doug Champlin, an Oklahoma gas and oil businessman, will open at Falcon Field near here.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A civic problem comes up unexpectedly but it is for your benefit, so take it in stride. Maintain a cheerful manner.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study the situations ahead of you from a different angle and you get the right perspective. Follow your intuition which is accurate now.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will easily understand the ideas and needs of others, so direct the education along such lines as law, medicine and government work for best results. Allow to express musical talent early in life.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KQ5 ♦Q102 ♦76 ♦KJ1043

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Don't let your fit for both of partner's suits lure you into doing anything rash. You have already made a two-over-one response, and you have nothing to spare for that action. A simple preference to two spades is all that your hand merits. Partner is unlikely to pass, but if he does, your hands probably won't stretch to game.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦5 ♦AQ104 ♦109652 ♦A96

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ 2 ♦ ?
What action do you take?

A.—With a potential misfit, you have no reason to be optimistic about your side's prospects for game. On defense, however, your hand could easily produce four tricks or more. Therefore, double. If partner can contribute three defensive tricks, you would net 500 points—more than any game you could possibly make.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦9832 ♦K4 ♦7 ♦AKQ985

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—In modern usage, North's two no trump rebid does not show much extra values—simply a sound opening bid with stoppers in the unbid suits. Therefore, the limit of the hand is game, so it's merely a matter of choosing the best spot. Our choice would be a raise to three no trump because your club suit will be a welcome source of tricks. You could try locating a 4-4 spade fit, but even if you succeed, four spades might go down when the no trump game is ironclad.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦Q754 ♦Q653 ♦764 ♦A8

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
1 ♦ Pass Pass 2 ♦
3 ♦ ?
What action do you take?

A.—In light of partner's cue-bid, you should be interested in slam.

♦J1074 ♦QJ92 ♦AQ5 ♦Q6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Normally, we would prefer to play a 4-4 or 5-4 major fit than no trump, but this hand is an exception. First, most of our values are "soft"—queens and jacks. Secondly, our hand is balanced with an honor card in every suit and partner has told us that his hand is also balanced. This certainly seems to be a case where nine tricks might be easier to take than ten, so we would pass.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦62 ♦K10875 ♦KJ10863

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Even though partner only took a preference, our distribution is so attractive that we cannot resist one effort to reach game. We would try three hearts. If partner goes on to game, we should have a good chance to make it; if he does not, we might be overboard at three hearts, but the risk is worth it.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KQ94 ♦KQ86 ♦KQ ♦KQ5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—Our balanced 20 points are admittedly flawed by the fact that our diamond honors are unguarded. Nevertheless, partner should have a play for game on most hands with which he would respond one no trump, so we would relieve him of any strain by jumping to three no trump.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦Q754 ♦Q653 ♦764 ♦A8

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
1 ♦ Pass Pass 2 ♦
3 ♦ ?
What action do you take?

A.—In light of partner's cue-bid, you should be interested in slam.

However, you cannot be sure which suit to choose—partner didn't promise both major suits for his action: he could have a powerful two-suiter. To show your slam interest while allowing partner the option to name a suit, cue-bid four diamonds. If partner bids four of a major, you have just enough to issue a slam invitation by cue-bidding the ace of clubs.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦A1075 ♦A52 ♦A763 ♦A2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1 NT Pass 2 NT Pass
What action do you take?

A.—Your four aces make your hand worth at least 17 points, but there is a major flaw—you have almost no intermediates to back up your honors. Thus, any suit the opponents lead could prove fatal, for you have no suit to provide you with a source of tricks. The likelihood that you will be able to collect nine tricks in a no trump contract is so slight that we consider a raise to three no trump wild optimism.

Cancer-Causing Traces In At Least 28 Beers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Test results just released by the Food and Drug Administration show at least 28 beers have traces of cancer-causing nitrosamines, with Schlitz leading the list.

The test, made public late last week, showed 17 domestic and 11 imported beers contain detectable levels of the contaminants.

The highest reading for an American beer — 7.7 parts per billion — was found in Schlitz. The lowest — no detectable level — was Coors, with Stroh's a close second.

The highest reading among imports — 3.6 ppb — was found in a Heineken sample. Low among the imports was Guinness Stout, with no detectable level.

Both the FDA and the brewing industry have said they are confident the nitrosamines can be eliminated through changes in the brewing process, and they expect a clean-up within a few months.

The FDA also has said the amount of nitrosamines in beer is small enough that — based on what the agency knows now — there is no reason for moderate beer drinkers to change their habits.

FDA released the latest test results — from studies made last spring — after it got several requests citing the Freedom of Information Act.

Among those seeking the results was the Center for Science in the Public Interest, which has asked the FDA to force brewers to disclose nitrosamine content of beer and to give the industry six months to eliminate the contaminants.

A part per billion is a very small amount — the equivalent of one ounce of vermouth in 10,000 tank cars of gin. But scientists have said there is no known safe level of exposure to cancer-causing agents, in part because of their cumulative impact.

The FDA said its test results are based on a "limited survey" of beer and most of the figures below 5 ppb can only be considered "presumptive" on a scientific level since they can be detected but not absolutely confirmed by a spectograph.

These are results of the FDA tests:

Domestic beers and their readings in parts per billion (more than one figure for a beer means several samples were taken):

Schaefer 2 and 2.5; Budweiser 3.2, 4.4, 5.4, 5.8 and 5.3;

Miller 1.7 and 1.8; Colt 45, 6 and 6.4; Schlitz 2.8, 7.5, 7.7 and 7.4; Lowenbrau 8, 3 and 3.3; Colt 45 Silver 3; Stroh's none detectable in one test and 9 in another; Olympia 1.7 and 1.9;

Old English-800 .9 and 1.3; Blitz-Weinhard 6.2, 5.7 and 6.2; Carling Black Label 4.6 and 4; Coors none detected; National Bohemian 3.6 and 3.8; Old Milwaukee 1.9 and 1.8; Pabst

7; Tuborg 6.2 and 5.7; and Ballantine 1 and .6.

Imports:
Kaiser Export 1; Paulaner Munchen 4; Stauder Spezial 3.1; Diekirch 1; Dortmunder Union Special .5 and .6; Theakston Old Peculiar .9 and .8; Gosser Golden Rock 1.9; Heineken 3.6; San Miguel 2.7 and 2.5; Molson 3.1 and 2.9; Molson Ale 3.4 and 3.3; Guinness Stout, none detectable.

Wage Guidelines Were Battered By The Unions

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's wage guidelines have taken a battering from organized labor in the past year. They've been defiled by machinists, stretched nearly to the breaking point by teamsters, simply ignored by auto workers.

But as an unusually crowded year of contract bargaining nears an end, the administration says its wage standards — which are voluntary — have done well in the face of strong union defiance and rampant inflation.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall says the guidelines have reined in large wage settlements without provoking a year of punishing labor strife that had been predicted for 1979.

Carter's 7 percent annual wage ceiling was expected to provoke a disruptive auto strike to close out 1979's bargaining schedule. Instead, General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers, the last major union to negotiate national contracts in 1979, settled last weekend on a new industry pattern agreement without a strike — the first time that has happened in 15 years.

Labor peace at GM apparently was achieved at the expense of the guidelines. Administration officials believe the settlement will boost wages and benefits by more than 30 percent over three years.

And this follows national contract agreements that gave Teamsters above a 9 percent yearly increase in wages and benefits, airline mechanics 34 percent over three years, rubber workers 35 to 40 percent in a three-year contract, construction workers 10 to 11 percent a year, and electrical workers 30 percent over three years.

Overall, an estimated 3 million workers are affected by these major contracts.

One presidential inflation adviser estimates that wage settlements this year are averaging 8½ percent — well above the guidelines — even though weak unions and unorganized workers generally have been held to increases within the voluntary 7 percent pay ceiling.

Despite the many large settlements won by big unions, the government has declared only two national contracts to be above the guidelines. In the other cases, notably the Teamsters settlement, the government stretched the guidelines through special exemptions.

And, the administration refuses to let the GM settlement and the other big increases dampen its praise for the voluntary guidelines.

"Without the program, wage settlements would have been higher by at least a percent or two," said the inflation adviser, who asked not to be identified.

"Despite a lot of bruises and batterings, the wage standard really did have a decelerating effect on overall wages," he said.

Marshall said the guidelines "obviously fared a lot better in the earlier part of the year than the latter part," when inflation rose to a 13 percent annual rate — twice what the administration expected when it set the wage guidelines last fall.

Nevertheless, Marshall said, "nobody would doubt" that the guidelines held wage settlements down.

That kind of restraint was accomplished, he said, without provoking prolonged, economically crippling strikes by recalcitrant unions.

The year had its share of national strikes — by teamsters in the trucking industry, mechanics at United Airlines, electrical workers at Westinghouse.

But Marshall said there still were fewer and less disruptive walkouts than had been feared last fall, when tough-talking administration inflation fighters urged companies to take strikes rather than give in to excessive union wage demands.

Spokesmen for organized labor agree that the guidelines suppressed wages, a trend that has angered them.

"On balance, they have restrained worker wages, but in a sense that they weren't ever intended to," said AFL-CIO research director Rudy Oswald.

"Initially, the guidelines were intended to keep workers up with inflation," he said. But he added that the administration should have seen its price restraint program was failing and relaxed its wage guidelines.

Administration officials have acknowledged that the price guidelines have not curbed inflation, in large part because they do not cover food, fuel, housing and interest rates — the major causes of inflation.

Some powerful unions, like the UAW, dealt with what they felt was an unfair program by simply declaring that the wage guidelines were dead and ignoring them in bargaining.

The AFL-CIO and a number of member unions challenged the guidelines in a court suit contesting the administration's authority to withhold federal contracts from companies that violate the guidelines. The AFL-CIO lost in the U.S. Court of Appeals, but a request for the Supreme Court to take the case remains active.

The administration, acknowledging inequities in the program, is negotiating with labor on a revised program for the fall that would tighten voluntary price restraints and loosen the wage guidelines.

But even loosened wage restraints will be unable to blunt the effect that the UAW settlement will have on the year's remaining contract talks.

The UAW's settlement with GM will set the wage pattern for contracts covering another 300,000 to 400,000 workers in the auto and farm equipment industries.

Beyond this year, the auto settlement will provide an alluring goal that big unions like the United Steelworkers may try to match when their national contracts expire in 1980.

Voluntary wage restraints can only work next year if the government shows it can restrain inflation, administration officials acknowledge.

WHOOOSE PARKING?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A sign at a parking lot here is getting some doubletakes. It says, "Owl Parking Only."

Actually, you don't have to be an owl to take advantage of the parking lot. But you must be a customer of The Owl cafe which is adjacent to the lot.
