Consumer Prices Up 1.1 Percent Due Energy Cost

By EILEEN ALT POWELL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Higher energy costs continued to surge through the economy in August, pushing consumer prices up 1.1 percent, the government said today.

The sharp rise was the eighth consecutive monthly increase near or above 1 percent, the Labor Department said. And it occurred despite a leveling-off in food prices, which showed no change in August.

If there is no break in the price pattern, the nation will end the year with an inflation rate above 13 percent — the worst since World War II, economists said.

The Labor Department today also introduced its new energy report, which gives monthly price statistics on gasoline, fuel oil and other energy costs.

The report showed the impact on families of the 60 percent rise in crude oil prices enacted by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries since the start of the year.

Among the statistics: —The average price for a gallon of gasoline last month across the nation was 96.7 cents, up 22.2 cents since the start of the year.

—The average price of fuel oil was 80 cents per gallon, up 25.5 cents since December 1978.

In another report, the Labor Department said Americans' average weekly earnings were badly eroded by inflation in August, falling 0.8 percent in the month. Spendable earnings, which are weekly earnings after Social Security and federal taxes are deducted and adjustments are made for inflation, fell 0.9 percent in August, the third consecutive monthly decline.

The Carter administration has been hoping for a turnaround in inflation before the end of the year.

But Labor Department economist Patrick Jackman said signs of that turnaround are not yet visible in the Consumer Price Index.

The report said "about two-thirds of the (August) increase was due to higher energy and home ownership prices."

Transportation prices were up 1.5 percent for the month, with most of the rise blamed on a 4 percent surge in gasoline prices. Public transit costs also rose.

"In the 12 months ended in August, gasoline prices increased 46.1 percent," the report said.

Housing costs also reflect higher fuel costs, with a 7.1 percent August rise in fuel oil costs (56.4 percent for the year) pushing the cost ahead rapidly.

"In August, home prices rose 1.5 percent," the report said. "Home financing costs rose 3 percent, reflecting increases in both mortgage interest rates and house prices."

Although food prices held, continuing a pattern begun in June, clothing prices rose 0.7 percent after two months of decline and the miscellaneous category went up a full percentage point.

The Consumer Price Index in August stood at 221.1, meaning that goods that cost $100 in 1967 cost $221.10 last month.

The figure was 12.7 percent ahead of August 1978, a record for a one-year increase. The previous record was 12.2 percent in 1974.

Views Explained By 15 Candidates At 'Coffee Talk'

By TOM BAINES

Reflector Staff Writer

Fifteen of the 16 candidates for municipal offices here were on hand to briefly state their positions at this morning's "coffee talk" sponsored by the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The three mayoral candidates and 12 of the 13 aspirants for the six City Council seats took part in the session, which followed a format that allowed each candidate, in alphabetical order, a three-minute presentation.

First-time candidate Don McGlohan, who is seeking the mayor's seat now held by Percy Cox, stated the need for comprehensive planning here. McGlohan, a Pitt County native who is president of The Hines Agency in Greenville, said that he had "reached a certain level of success" in his business through "good management." The candidate contended that government is operated like a small business, "you just have more numbers."

Mildred McGrath, a present Council member who is making her first bid for the mayor's post, said that the city needs to broaden its tax base and extend the city limits to include the extrajurisdictional jurisdiction. Mrs. McGrath said a written policy on annexation is needed with some immediate annexation involved and some for future consideration. The city, she asserted, can not depend on the availability of federal funds for continued growth and she pointed to the need for budgeting five years in advance.

Elizabeth Savage, also a first-time candidate for mayor, told the gathering that she has "been here forever" and said that Greenville is "my town...I love it." Mrs. Savage, an 80-year-old retired school teacher, mentioned that the current campaign is her first attempt at seeking public office and she added, "I want to be mayor...and I think I'll make a good one."

Ed Carter, present chairman of the Greenville Board of Education, was the first City Council candidate to speak and he advocated the need for "orderly growth and development" of the city. Carter addressed the Blue Law issue and said that rather than any one member of the Council deciding the matter, a referendum should be held.

Greenville native Louis Clark, said that since graduating from East Carolina University he has spent his career in Greenville "working with people." Clark stated that he has been in the "people business all of my life" and he added that he felt he had now "arrived at a time when I'm ready to give something to Greenville." The candidate is a former member of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission.

Former Council member w. E. (Bill) Dansey observed that "Greenville needs leadership" and he said that while the community is growing, more of it is taking place outside the city limits than inside. Dansey said that unless something is done about the situation, "we will have a deteriorating core." The candidate contended that county support is needed, adding that nothing is contributed by

Mamie Ailing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower suffered an apparent stroke and was being rushed to Walter Reed Army Medical Center today from her home in Gettysburg, Pa., a spokesman for her personal doctor said.

Susan Bean, an assistant to Dr. W.N. Sterrett, said the physician was riding in an ambulance with the former first lady to Walter Reed in Washington.

Ben Smith, a hospital information officer, said the widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower was expected to arrive at the hospital about midday.

The Gettysburg Volunteer Fire Department said it received a call for an ambulance at the Eisenhower farm before 10 a.m.

Federal Judge Bans Patronage

By PAULINE JELINEK

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The late Mayor Richard Daley built Chicago's fine-tuned Democratic political machine, Mayor Jane Byrne stripped its gears and now a federal judge may have turned it off.

Patronage, the practice of tying government jobs to political work, was declared unconstitutional Monday in a 60-page decision issued by U.S. District Judge Nicholas J. Buia.

Buia said patronage in Cook County violates the First and 14th Amendment rights of political candidates and voters and ruled that persons cannot be required to perform political work in order to be hired or retain public jobs.

"The point is that patronage workers give an important advantage to regular Democrats," Buia said in his decision.

Patronage assured decades of Democratic Party control in Chicago and was the fountainhead of the powerful organization Daley built in his 20 years as mayor. The organization delivered clean streets and, some say, the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960.

Daley died in 1976 and power transferred to Michael Bilandic, the organization's choice. But Mrs. Byrne, a maverick, upset Bilandic last spring in his bid for reelection.

Mrs. Byrne won election as a Democrat without the backing of the organization that reelected Daley five times and swept Bilandic into office in a special election after Daley's death.

Chicago prides itself as "The City That Works" — a slogan that pays tribute to the machine — and it was Bilandic's failure to deal effectively with a deadly 1979 snowstorm that proved his undoing.

Buia, in his decision, lashed out at the practice of requiring letters of political sponsorship from applicants for government jobs. He said it represents "deliberate governmental discrimination," against Republicans and independents in Cook County.

Cook County Democratic Chairman George Dunne said officials will challenge Buia's decision in an appeal.

'Far Right' Forms A Racist Alliance

LOUISBURG, N.C. (AP) —

Members of different factions of far right groups met in Louisburg over the weekend, and formed a new alliance called the United Racist Front.

Amid cries of "Heil Hitler" and "White Power," about 100 members rallied in what was billed as the first-ever meeting between Ku Klux Klan and self-proclaimed Nazi stormtroopers.

Kleagles in brightly-colored robes and white-shirted members of the National States' Rights Party attended the rally.

The leaders pledged to pool their resources into what they call the United Racist Front.

Grand Dragon Virgil Griffin of Gastonia claimed the assembly marked a rebirth of racist sentiment in the South.

"We're coming back strong," he said. "People don't see it yet. It's underground. But we're coming back stronger than we were in the '60s."

Leroy Gibson of Jacksonville, founder of the Rights of White People and convicted in 1974 in connection with two bombings, was credited with organizing the meeting. But concerns about his federal parole regulations prevented him from attending.

Gorrell Pierce of Forsyth County, grand dragon of another Klan group, said it was difficult for some klansmen to socialize with Nazis, though their goals were common.

"You take a man who fought in the Second World War, it's hard for him to sit down in a room where there are swastikas," he said. "But people realize time is running out. We're going to have to get together. We're like hornets. We're more effective when we're organized."

Some at the meetings were heavily armed, and a rope noose "for purely inspirational purposes," was strung from an old oak tree outside the lodge.

"Piece by piece, bit by bit, we white people are going to take back this country!" shouted Nazi leader Harold Covington of Raleigh, holding aloft an AR-14 semiautomatic rifle.

Everett Reelected As PCC Board Chairman

The Board of Trustees of Pitt Community College reelected Clifton W. Everett Sr. of Bethel as chairman of the board during its Monday meeting. Other reelected officers included Mrs. Kay V. Whichard as vice chairman and Mrs. Mary Langston as secretary.

An increase in the vocational and technical enrollment at Pitt Community College was reported by President William E. Fulford Jr. to the PCC Board.

Comparing fall, 1978 quarter enrollment to the current fall quarter enrollment, Fulford noted that enrollment in technical programs had increased 19 percent and vocational enrollment up seven and a half percent. He pointed out that 106 full and part-time students had enrolled in the college transfer program. Full-time enrollment is up 22 percent from fall, 1978, Fulford said.

Total curriculum enrollment for fall quarter was tabulated at 2,055 students, an overall increase of ten percent, and the largest enrollment in the institution's 17-year history.

Board Chairman Everett informed the board that A. B. Whitley Jr. and R. E. Davenport Jr. had been reappointed to the Board of Trustees for eight-year terms by Governor Jim Hunt and the county and Greenville City school boards, respectively. Both Whitley and Davenport were administered the Oath of Office of Trustees by Mary Langston, board secretary, and notary public.

A state budget of $2,866,836 and county budget of $361,773 were formally adopted by the trustees. Both current operating and capital outlay funds are included in each of the budgets.

In other actions, the board formally accepted the following gifts for instructional purposes: used equipment and tables from Burroughs Wellcome, valued at $1,145; used lockers from Ayden Golf and Country Club, valued at $160; used electrical equipment and supplies from W. Hoke Smith, valued at $427; and a $1,000 check from Union Carbide.

Ohio Firm Eyes Farmville Site

FARMVILLE — The Baylis Brothers Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, manufacturer of children's clothes, has indicated interest in moving to Farmville.

Mrs. Ann McGaughey, executive director of the Farmville Economic Council, said no definite commitment has come from the company, but that Baylis Brothers officials requested that its interest in Farmville be made public.

The company, which makes smocked dresses and children's clothes under the label, "Poly Flinders," has expressed interest in occupying the USI building just off Anderson Avenue in South Farmville. The building was vacated about a year ago by U. S. Industries under a reorganization plan which phased out the local operation.

George Fox, president of the Baylis Brothers Company, said the firm hopes to employ here about 250 persons. He and John Daugherty, director of manufacturing, visited here recently.

Linwood Mercer, president of the Farmville Economic Council, said, "Baylis Brothers' coming here would be a tremendous boost to the local economy and would afford employment to many who would like the kind of work the company offers. We pledge our wholehearted support to this very important project."

WHY NO PENALTY?

According to a recent news report, the renovation of the old hospital building for county offices is way behind schedule. It was reported that it should have been ready July 1. It also was reported that no penalty has been charged the contractors. Why not? It seems that, in effect, the taxpayers are being penalized by the laxity of the contractors and of the county officials. A. S.

According to Reginald Gray, Pitt County manager, July 1 was originally the target date for occupation of the "A" wing of the old building by the East Carolina University School of Medicine, with the rest of the building to be completed at a later time. He noted that two trucker strikes this summer had held up the contractor from completion.

Site architect Cameron Dudley of Dudley and Shoe stated that the entire building was to be completed by August 19. He noted that extra time has been allowed for the contractor to finish his work because of the hold-ups with the strikes.

"The contractor is subject to assessed liquidation damages," Dudley pointed out. He stated that renovation jobs usually take longer than building new structures.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

NUMBER WRONG, PLACE CHANGED

The phone number given in the Hotline column Thursday for Adair Fogl, one of the persons conducting a benefit yard sale next Saturday was incorrectly stated. The correct number for Ms. Fogl is 758-5594.

Since the item was run, those giving the sale have accepted an invitation from the Downtown Greenville Association to hold the benefit sale on Evans Mall downtown Saturday during the annual flea market to be held there. The hours are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. So the sale will not be held at Rose High, as was stated in the Thursday item, but downtown, instead.

Also since the item was run, a Whitehead Fund has been set up at North Carolina National Bank, 201 W. First Street, Greenville. Persons interested in donating to help the Donald Whitehead family, whose six-month-old daughter was critically burned, may contact Ms. Furrell Worthington at the bank.

The Bride Needs To Have Her Say

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm getting married next month and a very touchy problem has come up. My fiance wants to sing at our wedding. And before you say you think it's a lovely idea, let me give you a few facts. Danny has a fair voice. Just fair. It's all right in the shower, but it's not good enough to sing in public. He loves the idea of having such a large audience, but, Abby, our wedding guests are coming to see a wedding, not to hear a concert. Danny is practicing three numbers with his sister who plays the piano, and she plays about as well as Danny sings.

I love Danny and hate to hurt him, but I don't want to be embarrassed at my own wedding. So how do I tell him I don't really want him to sing? I don't want my wedding day turned into amateur night.

ON THE SPOT IN COLUMBUS

DEAR ON: Honesty is the best policy. Tell Danny you love him very much, but you feel that your wedding isn't the appropriate place for him to sing.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, who has always been an excellent student, graduated from a fine Eastern school last spring. She decided not to stay for the commencement ceremony since she felt the financial burden wasn't justified. Consequently she felt it would be tacky to send graduation announcements, so she didn't send any.

We have a large family on both sides, and I have always acknowledged graduations with gifts—announced or not. Even though the whole clan was aware of my daughter's graduation, not one sent her a gift!

I am upset over this, and intend to act accordingly when future gift-giving events occur in the family.

My daughter thinks I am being overly sensitive. What do you think?

DISAPPOINTED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You are hurt because your daughter's accomplishments were not acknowledged, and I don't blame you. But if you intend to withhold gifts from the clan because they failed to give your daughter a graduation gift, you are, in effect, acknowledging that you give only to get a gift or to repay one.

DEAR ABBY: As you pointed out to STEAMED IN STOCKTON, who cooled his heels in the doctor's office for two hours, emergencies and telephone interruptions can throw any doctor off schedule. As an obstetrician I am particularly susceptible to this, but there is no excuse for keeping a patient waiting for two hours! I don't care whether he earns $50 an hour or is unemployed, every patient's time should be considered as valuable as the doctor's.

If I am running late, my office telephones the patients to let them know before they arrive at my office.

Any patient who is kept waiting for two hours should complain to the receptionist who booked the appointment, and to the County Medical Society if necessary. Overbooking is a common practice, unfortunately. And unless these doctors who overbook don't get feedback in the form of complaints, they will continue to overbook.

IRVINE, CALIF., DOCTOR

DEAR DOCTOR: You're just what the patient ordered!

DEAR ABBY: Can a person ever REALLY forgive and forget?

LEE

DEAR LEE: Not as long as that person keeps asking himself that question.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Every Christmas when I get a card from the Nelsons showing their entire family gathered in front of the fireplace in their ski sweaters and their capped-teeth smiles, I make a vow that next year the Bombecks will be on a Christmas card.

We took the picture last weekend and if we send the card at all, I want a black strip over my eyes to assure anonymity.

The call was for 10:30 on a Saturday morning. At 10:15, my husband's tripod was in position and the kids began to drag in. "How did you get them all here?" he asked.

"I told them we were reading the will."

My husband looked through the lens.

"What does it look like?" I asked.

"It looks like a group of illegal aliens hauled in for questioning. What are you doing in a tennis dress?" he asked our daughter.

"Playing tennis," she said dryly.

"This is a Christmas card, for crying out loud. Go get in something appropriate. Come on, boys! Stand up straight!"

"I can't," said our son. "I don't have shoes on."

"What do you mean you don't have shoes on?"

"I can't find them."

"Then stand behind your mother. No, that won't work. The marijuana plant on your T-shirt looks like it's growing out of your mother's head. Good grief, what are you doing in a T-shirt with a marijuana plant growing out of it?"

"I was washing my car."

"Go change. Now where's your sister?"

"She's washing her hair."

"Is this going to take long?"

"His feet smell."

"Where's the dog? We can't have a picture without the dog in it."

"I'm not standing by you. Your hair's wet."

"Quit shoving!"

"I'm telling, Mom!"

We got the pictures back yesterday. Our daughter has an orphan-wish on her face. One son has his eyes closed. The other one is displaying a part of the dog's anatomy that does not exemplify the spirit of Christmas.

There are two blurs. One is of my husband's backside trying to beat the self-timer to get into the picture. The other is of my front-side trying to get out of the picture.

Mrs. Helms Leads Discussion

The September meeting of the Greenville Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Phoebe B. Owens.

President Mrs. R. A. Davis conducted the meeting. Mrs. Robert Little, a guest, was introduced by Mrs. J. C. Galloway.

"Getting Acquainted With Our Yearbook" and discussion of projects was the program given by Mrs. Marshall Helms. She also identified wild flowers in arrangements made by Miss Maude Moore.

Mrs. Owens gave the garden therapy report and members made plans to continue the workshops with Mrs. Nancy Walters' classes at Aycock Junior High School in October.

Mrs. Helms told of the club's wild flower exhibit at the Pitt County Fair "Ours to Enjoy-If We Can Save Them."

Mrs. Katherine Adams, Mrs. George Fleming and Mrs. Galloway were assisting meeting hostesses.

Bridge Winners Announced

Wednesday morning duplicate bridge winners at Planters Bank were:

East-West: Mrs. Joseph LeConte and Mrs. Eloise Gabbert, first with a .495 percent game; Mrs. Raymond Martin and Mrs. B. V. Payne, second; Mrs. Ralph Sullivan and Mrs. Jean Cox Jones, third.

Wednesday afternoon winners included: Mrs. David Stevens and Mrs. William McConnell with Claude Goodman and George Martin for first with a .588 percent game; Mrs. Robert Exum and Mrs. Dot McKemie, third; Mrs. J. S. Rhodes Jr. and Mrs. Roger Critcher Jr., fourth; Mrs. Harold Forbes and Mrs. George Martin, fifth.

Saturday afternoon winners at First Federal were:

Mrs. William Parvin and Mrs. Clifton Toler, first with a .538 percent game; Mrs. Effie Williams and Claude Goodman, second; Mrs. Robert Barnhill and Lewis Newsome, third; and Mrs. Eloise Owens and Mrs. Mavis Smith, fourth.

A Unit Tournament will be held Wednesday morning, Sept. 26, at Planters Bank.

Doug Jackson Is Speaker

The September meeting of the Lake Ellsworth Garden Club was held at the Lake Ellsworth Clubhouse and Mrs. Hilda Weathers presided.

Doug Jackson, crime prevention officer of the Greenville Police Department, gave a presentation on "Community Watch". He told how Lake Ellsworth might effect such a program in that neighborhood. Jackson issued numbered tags for safe return of keys should they be lost or stolen.

The club voted to purchase chrysanthemums for the Lake Ellsworth entrance and also to replace a tree. Members were reminded of the yard of the month judging in October.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Hilda Weathers and Mrs. Alice Dickens.

PARTY FARE
Spinach Pork Pate
Red or White Wine
SPINACH PORK PATE

After chilling, there will be a little "jelly" at the bottom of the casserole.

10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, cooked
1 pound lean pork, finely ground
1 cup diced (1/4-inch) lean meat from a cooked smoked boneless pork shoulder butt

1 large egg, unbeaten
1 small onion, finely grated (pulp and juice)
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/4 cup minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced fresh rosemary leaves or mixed dried herbs to taste

1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg
2 slices bacon

Sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives
Press spinach as dry as possible; chop very fine; mix well with remaining ingredients except bacon and olives. Press into a 1 1/2-pint casserole. Place bacon over top, cutting to fit. Tightly cover casserole. Place in a pan with enough hot tap water to reach halfway up casserole. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Chill 24 hours. Uncover and remove bacon. Cover top of pate with the olives. Wipe casserole rim clean. Serve from the casserole with "party" bread or crackers. (Adapted from a French recipe by Mary Reynolds.)

Public Hearing Is Scheduled

RALEIGH — The N. C. Nurses Association will conduct a consumers' public hearing on health needs of children Friday at Burroughs Wellcome Auditorium, Research Triangle Park.

A panel of commissioners will hear testimony from parents, children and child advocates. The hearing begins at 10 a.m. and concludes at 3:30 p.m. Open and scheduled testimony will be received.

Keynote will be Septima Clark, Charleston, S. C., representative of the National Year of the Child Commission.

See Increase In Hogs And Pigs

RALEIGH — All hogs and pigs on North Carolina farms as of Sept. 1, totaled 2,700,000 head, an increase of 26 percent from a year earlier and 14 percent from June 1 of this year, according to the North Carolina Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The Sept. 1 inventory consisted of 400,000 head being kept for breeding purposes, 20 percent above last year and 2,300,000 head of market hogs up 27 percent.

Sows farrowed during June-August at 150,000 were 25 percent above the same period last year. These sows averaged 7.3 pigs saved per sow, which produced a pig crop of 1,095,000 or 23 percent above June-August of 1978.

No Clue From Soil-Sampling

ERWIN, Tenn. (AP)—The Nuclear Regulatory Commission said today it could find nothing in soil samples to help it locate at least 19.8 pounds of weapons-grade uranium unaccounted for at a defense plant.

NRC spokesman Ken Clark said soil samples taken from around the Nuclear Fuel Services Inc. plant showed no traces of the missing high-enriched uranium when tested Monday at Oak Ridge National Laboratory and at the Argonne National Lab near Chicago.

"The analyses indicate that the material in the soil is consistent with normal effluents from the plant, which means it doesn't have anything to do with the inventory," Clark said.

The NRC closed the plant on Sept. 17 after the Getty Oil Co. subsidiary reported at last 9 kilograms—19.8 pounds—of 96 percent enriched uranium 235 unaccounted for in a two-month inventory from June 18 to Aug. 14.

Inventory discrepancies are not unusual in such plants but NRC officials decided to order an immediate shutdown at Erwin because of its long history of such errors, most of them later blamed on accounting mistakes.

Clark said officials will likely have to wait until a new inventory is completed at the end of October before knowing if the uranium is really missing. The new inventory, requiring 30 days, is to begin Oct. 1.

"We have eliminated some possibilities," he said. "We know that it's not a glaring bookkeeping error and we did a physical search and it wasn't located."

"After completely reviewing the physical security plans and procedures, there is nothing to indicate that there was a breach that allowed someone to physically remove the material," he said.

The soil samples were taken from areas associated with settling ponds that handle some of the plant's wastes. The sites were chosen on the basis of an aerial survey pinpointing locations where radioactivity exceeded levels in a similar survey two years ago.

Bob Burnett, the NRC's director of nuclear safeguards, said it is not unusual for such readings to occur in an area where a plant such as the Erwin facility has been operating for more than 20 years.

Clark said the trace amounts of uranium and other material found in the soil pose no health or safety threat. The Erwin plant has been fabricating uranium for the Navy's submarines and experimental reactors since 1957.

Licensing N.C. Pet Handlers

RALEIGH — North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has announced an escalated effort to license all pet shops, animal dealers, boarding kennels and public auctions which handle dogs and cats to bring North Carolina into strict compliance with the state's Animal Welfare Act.

The act, passed by the 1977 General Assembly, requires all boarding kennels, public auctions, pet shops, and animal shelters which deal with dogs and cats as pets to be inspected and licensed by the Animal Health Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

The act also applies to dealers who sell dogs and cats to pet shops and for research.

"By strictly enforcing this new law we can help prevent the sale or use of stolen pets, and maintain healthy dogs and cats in trade channels," said Graham.

Expect Record Farm Receipts

RALEIGH — North Carolina farm cash receipts are expected to set a record in 1979. North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham announced Friday that total cash receipts from farm marketings are estimated to reach $3.4 billion, surpassing the record $3.2 billion last year.

"I am extremely pleased with the good news," said Graham. "This just shows our farmers are hard working and resourceful. Everyone knows farmers have been plagued with unusual conditions this year."

You're choosing a bank.

You figure the time has come to open your own savings account. Good thinking. You'll never regret it. But think about this. The bank you choose will probably be "your bank" for a long time. Your bank for savings. Your bank for checking. Your bank for loans. So why not choose the bank that assigns a Personal Banker to each individual customer. Then no matter what questions may come up, what help you may need, you'll always have the name and phone number of someone you can call. There's only one such bank, of course. Wachovia. Why not stop by this week? Someone will be looking for you.

Possibly A Market In China

There was a time when mainland China was one of the United States' major customers for tobacco. The communist takeover ended all that and China turned to growing its own tobacco during a period of isolation from the western world. Now there is a new era of good will between the United States and China, despite the vast differences in the two forms of government. There is at least the possibility that U. S. grown tobacco can again be sold to this once major market. A tobacco trade delegation, including Gov. Jim Hunt, will go to China in November in an effort to resume tobacco trade. They don't expect any quick results. "Our goal will be long range, to re-establish contact and to open discussions with a nation that used to be the second largest buyer of our tobacco, behind only the United Kingdom," the governor said. It is obvious a big opportunity exists for resumption of American tobacco exports to China. We have a superior product that should win favorable acceptance in that nation. This trade mission could be highly important to the U. S. tobacco industry.

Cutting Into Use Of Foreign Oil Fuel

Last week a service station on Highway 11 began selling the first gasohol in Pitt County. No one expects the fuel, a mixture of gasoline and alcohol, to take the market by storm. It will, however, cut by a little the use of imported oil.

As we learn more about the production of alcohol from various waste sources, gasohol could become a significant fuel for our autos. It is one of many things we are going to have to do to reduce our foreign oil imports.

Joint Agency Showcase

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A combined police and fire agency can work effectively and offers a reasonable alternative to the escalating cost of those vital services, the city manager at Morganton finds.

Douglas O. Bean was the administrative assistant to the city manager when he first began a study of the possibility of a Public Safety Organization (PSO) in the community. He is now city manager, and an avid supporter of the system which he is convinced can work in a small community.

Part of his original study was to find out why some communities had rejected the PSO concept, why some had tried it then abandoned it.

"Our conclusion was that the basic concept of a public safety officer was sound," Bean recalls in a report published in the Institute of Government periodical "Popular Government".

"Cities that had adopted a public safety program did not abandon it because of a flaw in the concept."

Bean found that police officers and firefighters were mostly young, well educated, and highly motivated; but frustrated by an apparent lack of promotional opportunities down the road. He discovered that during a six-year period police personnel expanded 30 percent as the budget rose 89 percent; and the fire department budget went up 209 percent while personnel increased 121 percent — largely as a result of changing from a volunteer to professional organization.

The study demonstrated that both policemen and firefighters had sufficient available time to perform joint services (only 1.4 percent of a firefighter's time was spent answering fire calls).

BILL NOBLITT

Advantage
Cross-trained officers cruising in well-equipped vehicles able to provide police, fire or first-aid services could offset numerous problems such as false alarms, small fires which escalated before equipment arrived, etc.

Should such an approach, however, be viewed as budget-cutting means? Not necessarily, and certainly not at the beginning. Bean reported that $35,000 was needed to launch the program in Morganton, mostly for equipment, salary increases for Public Service Officers, training, and uniforms.

But the potential for long-term savings is there as the city grows in population and annexes new areas. "Under consideration, only one employee would have to be hired instead of two for separate police and fire duties," Bean reports.

"Even with the short-term costs it appeared that, if nothing else, simply increasing the productive time of police and fire personnel would provide a cost advantage over the present system," Bean concludes.

TOUGH DECISION?-WE'D BETTER CHECK CLOSER!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Deregulating The Radio

WASHINGTON — From the very beginning of federal regulation of broadcasting, dating back to the Radio Act of 1912, the government has grappled with an insoluble question of public policy: How do you regulate that which the Constitution says must not be regulated?

The years have brought no satisfactory answer. The 1912 act yielded to the Radio Act of 1927, mandating that stations must be operated "in the public interest." The 1927 act yielded in turn to the basic law that still obtains, the Communications Act of 1934. That act is now encrusted with 45 years of interpretation and expansion by the Federal Communications Commission.

The dilemma remains. Radio broadcasting obviously is a form of free speech. The Constitution says that Congress shall make no law abridging free speech. The FCC's infinite requirements plainly are abridgements. So what else is new?

What is new is that the FCC is moving to reduce the pervasiveness of its powers over the nation's radio stations. The agency has asked for public comments on a series of options for deregulation. Even if the most liberal options were finally to be approved, the licensees would not be wholly free of federal control. Radio stations still would have to comply with the Fairness Doctrine, which requires the airing of diverse views on important issues.

The FCC would retain the power to discipline station owners, or to cancel their licenses outright, for serious offenses against the public interest. A few other substantive rules would continue.

These are light reins. For all practical purposes, the commission is proposing to set radio stations free to serve their audiences in the competitive marketplace. Under existing regulations, licensees are not supposed to devote more than 18 to 20 minutes an hour to commercials. They are expected to provide news and public affairs programs at least 6 to 8 percent of their time. They are required to keep elaborate logs and records. Periodically, a station must undertake a costly process known as "ascertainment," by which "the needs and problems of its community" are compiled. Under the FCC's broad proposal, all this would go by the boards.

In a fact sheet issued a few days ago, the commission justifies these happy prospects.

When the 1934 law was enacted, there were only 583 AM stations in the country. It probably made sense for many years to insist that as a condition of obtaining and holding a valuable license, a station demonstrate its responsible commitment to the public interest. The trouble with this approach was that inevitably it entangled the FCC in all sorts of programming decisions. What was "fair"? What responses were "adequate"? What issues were "controversial" or "important"?

The situation is wholly different today. The FCC has licensed 4,548 AM stations and 4,105 FM stations. There are 118 all-news stations. In principal markets (those with eight or more stations) more than 75 percent of the licensees devote more than the required 6 percent of air time to news and public affairs.

Minorities once were neglected. Today the commission finds 416 radio stations in 239 markets that aim specifically at black listeners. In 173 markets, 270 stations provide regularly scheduled programs in Spanish. Forty-four stations are full-time Spanish-language outlets. All told, programs may be heard in 63

House Calls Save

By ROBERTA ULRICH
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — In Portland doctors still make house calls.

But when Dr. Michael J. Ognall first suggested to the Multnomah County Medical Society that he open a house calls service, "The whole medical society thought he had lost his mind."

That was in 1976. Today the medical society provides formal approval and advice but not financial aid for Ognall's service, now 14 months old.

Dr. David Price, a one-time doubter and chairman of the society's advisory committee, says he knows only "three really vocal opponents" of the project. He said the small opposition remaining is based on feelings that medical care should not be involved with a commercial enterprise. He said early opposition was based "mostly on tradition."

Doctors who use the service are enthusiastic. They say their patients are happy with it.

Ognall, 41, an Englishman, had established a similar service earlier in Great Britain.

The first physician subscribers for his Portland area service totaled 19 from a medical society membership of 1,700. Between 85 and 90 subscribe now. Ognall sees a potential for 300.

Housecalls Inc. treats patients in their homes, hotels, nursing homes and aboard ships docked at Portland and other Columbia River ports.

In an interview Ognall said a study showed 10 percent of the telephoned requests sounded as if a house call were not needed and another 10 percent turned out to be unnecessary.

"But they weren't the same 10 percent," he said. "We feel that the patient would not call us unless he wanted a house call. The only way he's worse off if we make the call is in the pocket-book."

Studies have shown most people go to a hospital emergency room when their own doctor is unavailable.

INSIDE REPORT

Party-Splitting Outlook

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The White House was less than pleased when two of President Carter's most visible supporters, Ambassador Robert S. Strauss and Democratic National Chairman John White, denied that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's challenge would split the party.

"I thought Bob went a little overboard," one of Carter's closest senior aides told us in commenting on Strauss's statements to newsmen. Once Strauss took that position, fellow-Texan White changed his. After spending months warning of the woes that would ensue if Kennedy challenged Carter, he agreed with Strauss. "We would have been happier if John had just disagreed," the same presidential aide told us. The White House sticks to the position we previously reported: Kennedy's challenge unavoidably opens North vs. South, urban vs. rural, Catholic vs. Protestant tensions in the Democratic party. The president's men take the position that this conflict is inevitable, whether they forecast it or not.

Which Way Church?
Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is now telling the White House that he never did condition his support of the SALT II treaty on withdrawal of the Soviet combat brigade from Cuba.

That word, stunning to both administration officials and many senators, is being put out by the senator to smooth his poor standing in the White House following his leak of U.S. intelligence that the combat brigade had been discovered.

Church said then that the Senate would never approve SALT II so long as the brigade remained in Cuba. That unaccustomed hawkishness of the dovish Church was directly tied to his tough re-election campaign for a fifth Senate term in conservative Idaho.

Now, by telling the White House that his warning about the defeat of SALT was simply his objective judgment, but did not apply to himself, Church is trying to have it both ways: appear tough and hawkish back home and as a loyal ally for SALT to the White House.

Notziger After Reagan
During the week after he unexpectedly resigned from Ronald Reagan's campaign, veteran political pro Lyn Notziger received feelers or offers from five other Republican presidential hopefuls — and turned them all down.

Notziger, a top aide in every Reagan campaign dating back to 1966, was probably tempted by one offer:

to run a dark horse campaign for Gen. Alexander Haig. But he decided to stay out of presidential politics in 1980. He will vote for Reagan in the California primary, without actively working for him.

Contrary to denials by the Reagan camp, Notziger in fact was concerned by efforts to moderate Reagan's conservative image. But that isn't the reason he quit. He decided he simply could not work as a subordinate to Reagan campaign manager John Sears and Reagan's top aide, Mike Deaver.

Club Ties
Before agreeing to become President Carter's new White House counsel, Washington super-lawyer, Lloyd Cutler, laid down this condition: He would not resign his membership in the men-only Metropolitan Club. In the background was a White House order barring an informal, off-the-record talk to club members by inflation czar Alfred Kahn several weeks before Cutler signed on at the White House.

The veto of Kahn surprised Washington politicians. When the White House first com-

Who's to blame for the standing of this world and the economy of the United States being as it is? Who's to blame for the high cost of living and the rising gas prices? Who's to blame for the drugs abused in the streets and the alcoholics in the streets? Who's to blame for the misused and the abused? Who's to blame for those that will take the lives of innocent little children born and unborn? Who's to blame for teenagers running around in the streets throwing their lives away? Who's to blame?
When God called Adam in the Garden of Eden and questioned him of his whereabouts and of his doings, Adam immediately tried to put the blame for his faults upon someone else, but who was to blame?
Is it the President and his staff? Some say yes, it is the President and his staff. Some say no, it is the entire governing body of this, our United States. Some say no, it is the preacher and the Church. But who is to blame? Look at yourself and think about your life. Are you living the best that you know how? Are you perfect? Can you clean the White House while yours is dirty? Can you tell Mr. Carter what he should do when you will not do what God tells you? If we would take full inventory of our lives, I believe we would find out that the fault rests within the individual. Who's to blame? You.

Strength For Today

LOVE EVERLASTING
Sometimes it appears that God has forgotten us. Almost everyone is afflicted by this fear at one time or another; but of course, God never forgets.

Most readers of the Book of Genesis overlook the fact that many years passed between God's call to Abraham to leave Ur of the Chaldees and His directions as to how Abraham was to proceed. If any man had the right to feel that God had forgotten, that man was Abraham. Yet today we call him the Father of the Faithful because he waited, knowing that at last God would speak. Sometimes even Abraham's faith temporarily faltered, but in the end it triumphed.

Appearance and fact are often quite dissimilar. And by nothing are we more deceived than by what may seem to be God's indifference to us. We may not always understand God's ways, but of one thing we can be sure — He loves us with an everlasting love.
Elisha Douglass

Tantamount To His Candidacy

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's suggestion that he might seek the Democratic nomination if the economy failed to improve quickly is tantamount to saying that without a miracle he'll be in the race.

Unemployment, one of the key measures of public attitudes, is rising again. The rate of inflation remains near 13 percent; even if it begins to recede by yearend, as many predict, it might not be soon enough. Interest rates too are on a similar course. A scattering of analysts now declare the turnaround may be near, but even they do not foresee a decline much below double-digit rates until mid-1980 at the earliest. These indicators — jobs, prices and interest rates — are among the best understood economic signals, measuring not abstract monetary or fiscal activities, but events that immediately affect pocketbooks.

But voters weigh abstractions too. Perhaps not one in 100 understands the technical sophistications of monetary policy, but they know the dollar has fallen internationally and that it means weakness.

There are clearcut reminders of this everywhere. There is no secret, for example, behind the price rise in various published products from fine prints to old comic books. They are in limited supply.

Dollars, meanwhile, speed off the printing presses in unlimited quantities.

Buying power has fallen, or barely held its own, through most months this year. Paychecks grow, but the bag of groceries doesn't. And money that is saved shrinks instead of grows, as in theory it should.

Studies show that for the first time in the lives of many Americans they do not expect the future to be better. Even during the Great Depression of the 1930s, it is claimed, Americans held to the notion.

Problems such as these provoked Business Week magazine recently to declare that Kennedy's qualification — that the economy improve substantially — is "a clear demand that Jimmy Carter walk on water." Even if the economy improves, it may be painful. Most economists seem to think that as interest rates fall, and price increases diminish, the unemployment rate, now at 6 percent, will rise by at least a point.

With the civilian labor force now exceeding 100 million, an increase of just one percentage point would mean one million more idle workers. Some economists foresee this as the minimum impact of a slowdown.

Whether the economy continues toward greater inflation and higher interest rates, or a slowing of prices increases along with falling borrowing costs, there is likely to be unhappiness from some sector.

— Stuart Morgan

Slaughtered In Trailing PCB

By WARREN WINTRODE

THREE FORKS, Mont. (AP) — The trail of a toxic chemical accidentally mixed into animal meal at a Montana packing plant has led to a second Western poultry producer, and the owners have slaughtered nearly 63,000 laying hens.

Earlier this month, the Rite-wood Egg Co. in Franklin, Idaho, gassed 300,000 hens and destroyed millions of eggs after it learned it had used contaminated feed from Pierce.

see the service's $37 fee as a major advantage because the average emergency room visit cost about twice as much. Most cases seen do not require emergency room facilities.

Price said Ognall "came along at a time when the high cost of medical care was getting scary for everybody, including physicians."

"The fact that they can handle many types of calls at lesser cost than going to an emergency room was probably the big selling point."

Welfare, Medicare and most insurance firms pay for the service on the same basis as emergency room care.

Most calls are for patients whose doctors have "signed out" to the service. Others are from persons with no regular doctor or from visitors and the ships.

Perhaps a little girl develops a sore throat. Her mother calls the family doctor and is switched to the service.

A registered nurse records the symptoms and dispatches a doctor in a chauffeur-driven car containing basic laboratory testing and resuscitation equipment, a two-way radio and medications—but no narcotics.

The doctor makes a diagnosis and prescribes medicine, if needed, or suggest hospitalization, if indicated.

A report later goes to the patient's regular physician. Those who have none are referred to other doctors for continuing or hospital care.

Most are for the very young or the very old, he added.

"The old are ill more often and less able to travel to a doctor. The very young are ill more often and their illnesses tend to frighten their parents."

Another 30 percent are for respiratory tract infections and about 15 percent for gastrointestinal ailments.

The present staff includes 12 physicians, 12 registered nurses who handle telephone calls, six drivers, a three-person office staff and Ognall, the full-time administrator.

foreign languages or dialects. Excessive commercials are rarely a problem. In many markets, the number of commercials per hour is far below FCC limits. The FM stations especially have racked up a good record in this regard. The commission's thought is that in a free market, listeners will soon tune out a station that offers little but commercial advertising.

It all makes sense to me. The broadcast media for years have been the redheaded stepchildren of the First Amendment. So long as radio frequencies and TV channels must be assigned by some national authority, so as to avoid chaos on the broadcast spectrum, doubtless some standards for licensing must be imposed and enforced. In a free society, the rules ought to be minimal, and the station owners' discretion ought to be broad. Many voices, many musical tastes, many diverse interests, many political and ethnic points of view — this is what freedom is all about.

And if radio stations can't have total freedom from government control, the FCC's new approach is surely the next best thing.

What impressed the money men more than the political sales pitch was the performance of Ham Jordan. Not quite knowing what to expect in light of Jordan's recent notoriety, the Wall Streeters were impressed by his general demeanor and particular knowledge of politics.

As part of the president's campaign for re-nomination, his political agents are wooing the titans of Wall Street with this message: Considering the threat offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, you're better off with Jimmy Carter.

Nationally known money men flew down to Washington from New York last week for a private dinner with White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan; Jordan's deputy, Alonzo McDonald, and Dr. Charles Schultze, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers. Besides extolling Carter as safer for Wall Street than Kennedy, they promised a continued budget-balancing effort with no tax cut now but perhaps one in the near future.

$146.54 Day In Leaf Sales

FARMVILLE — Grade for grade, prices yesterday on the Farmville Tobacco Market were about the same as those of last Thursday, according to Louis Williams, Sales Supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

A few grades of leaf were slightly lower than last week. Quality grades of all types of tobacco continue in strong demand. Top price yesterday was $1.60 a pound. Top practical continues at $1.55 a pound. Stabilization receipts were approximately six percent of gross sales.

The market sold 685,491 pounds for $1,004,506, for an average of $146.54. To date the market has sold 20,814,535 pounds for $29,720,981, for an average of $142.79 per hundred pounds.

Heart Punctured, Had Seconds To Save Life

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Operating in such urgency they had no time for anesthetics, Charlotte Memorial Hospital doctors cut into the chest of bartender Randy Cook to save his life after an assailant plunged a knife into his heart.

One of the doctors halted the flow of blood from the heart by holding his finger in the hole made by the knife until stitches could be made.

The work moved so quickly that Cook, whom doctors say has a good chance of returning to normal, was still wearing his pants and boots when the operation was over 90 minutes later.

It was around 2:30 a.m. Sunday. Cook was injured so badly that he was rushed directly from the ambulance to the operating room.

Dr. Richard Glaser made the cut, felt around the rapidly beating heart until he found the hole in the heart wall, and then held his finger there, stopping the bleeding.

With the bleeding stopped,

Glaser, Dr. Michael Thomason and the other members of the operating room team began to do the things that normally would have been done first — give Cook blood, stabilize his blood pressure, and, finally, give him an anesthetic.

Then the 34-year-old Glaser, just days away from finishing his thoracic surgery residency, used two big stitches to close the half-inch hole in the 25-year-old bartender's heart.

"The hole was very hard to find," said Thomason. "Once we got in, we had 15-20 seconds to find the hole."

Both doctors said Cook would have died if everything hadn't clicked — from the time he was picked up by MEDIC at a downtown Charlotte restaurant where he was stabbed while trying to stop a knife-wielding patron, to the time when surgery was complete.

"He would have died before he got to the hospital without what the medics did," Glaser said.

Cook was in satisfactory condition Monday, and said he remembers only snatches of the hospital drama.

"I remember rushing down the hall, and I remember feeling that first cut," said Cook.

Glaser says Cook jumped when the incision was made. After the cut, Glaser stopped up the hole, which was in the right ventricle, and a few minutes later sewed up the wound.

"What Dr. Glaser did was just amazing," said Thomason. "He sewed up something that was beating that fast. I was impressed."

Glaser said the whole incident hit him afterward.

"I had to go over and sit down," he said. "That's when it hits you — when it's over."

In fact, the hospital moved so fast nobody stopped to find out who the seriously injured man was. The wrist band Cook had on Monday called him, "Mr. X."

Selected By Students

ECU News Bureau
Students in the East Carolina University Department of Library Science have elected representatives to university and department committees for the 1979-80 school year.

Graduate students elected Cecilia M. Boklage of Greenville to represent them on the Graduate Student Advisory Council. This body serves as an advisory group to the Dean of the Graduate School. Elected to the departmental Graduate Committee were Pamela J. Madaris of Albemarle, and Nancy W. Hall of Richmond, Va. All three of these graduate students also are serving as teaching fellows in the department this year. Other teaching fellows include Vickey L. Baggott of Long Beach, Miss., Jane H. Keller of Greenville, and Betty Nelle Manning of Edenton.

Serving on the departmental Undergraduate Committee as student members will be Edna Price Grady of Seven Springs and Virginia Louise Massey of Dudley. They will advise faculty on undergraduate curriculum and programs.

Showing Film On United Way Here Sunday

A 20-minute film dealing with the Pitt County United Way will be shown following the NFL football game on WNCT-TV, Channel 9, according to Joe Tripp, county UW executive director.

The film, which deals with the functions of the United Way in the county, was produced by the Audio Visual Services Center of the East Carolina University School of Medicine. Some 500 hours of volunteer work went into the production of the film. An estimated time of 6 p.m. has been given for the film showing.

According to United Way officials, the film is the first such motion picture venture undertaken by the charitable organization in its 21-year history in the county.

Counted 4 Traffic Accidents Monday

An estimated $3,400 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 9:39 a.m. collision on Greene Street, 50 feet north of the Fifth Street intersection involving cars driven by Archie Dean Roebuck of Route 2, Tarboro and Shelly Slidge Hazell of 409G Eastbrook Dr.

Damage from the mishap was set at $700 to the Roebuck car and $400 to the Hazell vehicle.

Cars driven by David Cornelius Brown Jr. of 206 North Summit St. and Russell David Staton II of Bethel, collided about 1:40 p.m. at the intersection of Ninth and Cotanche Streets, resulting in an estimated $600 damage to the Brown car and $400 damage to the Staton vehicle, investigators reported.

Anne Dudley Katrosh of 404B East Second St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:03 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Hooker Road.

Police said the Katrosh car collided with a truck operated by Jeffery Keith Bailey of 101 Westwood Dr., resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the truck and $400 damage to the car.

Officers said a car driven by William Godfrey Taylor of Route 5, Greenville and a truck driven by Deborah Rogers Harris of Route 6, Robersonville, collided about 8:38 p.m. at the intersection of Reide and Cotanche Streets.

Investigators, who charged Ms. Harris with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $500 to the Taylor car and $100 to the Harris truck.

Atlanta School Suit Dismissed

ATLANTA (AP) — A panel of three federal judges issued a 33-page order Monday dismissing a seven-year-old lawsuit originally aimed at desegregating metropolitan Atlanta school systems through massive student transfers that would probably have included multicounty busing.

In the original lawsuit, attorneys for the 24 black parents who were the plaintiffs argued that Atlanta city schools are mostly black and surrounding suburban county schools mostly white due to carefully planned efforts by state and local governments. The result, said the suit, was unconstitutionally segregated schools.

But the federal judges ruled otherwise Monday.

The plaintiffs' attorney, Margie Pitts Hames, said, "We have waited so long for a decision. We filed this suit in 1972. In 1972! We have been waiting for a long time, so it's a victory just to get them to rule, even though they did us in. We will appeal."

However, the judges' ruling won quick praise from Warren Fortson, attorney for the Atlanta school board, one of 11 governmental units named as defendants during the life of the lawsuit.

"I think the ruling is correct," said Fortson. "Now we can go forward with the education of our children without being hampered with this hanging over our heads."

The original suit involved approximately 300,000 students in nine school districts — Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb, Gwinnett and Clayton counties, plus Atlanta, Decatur, Marietta and Buford. The Douglas County system was later added as a defendant.

Also, the state board of education was a defendant.

However, all but Fulton, DeKalb, Atlanta and the state parties were earlier dismissed as defendants.

Signing the Monday order dismissing the lawsuit were 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judges James C. Hill and Albert J. Henderson Jr. and District Judge William C. O'Kelley.

Mrs. Hames argued for the plaintiffs that if Georgia was able to use multicounty busing to maintain segregation and if it allows multicounty comprehensive high schools in rural areas, it ought to permit county lines to be breached in the interests of metro desegregation.

Mrs. Hames said that black children in Atlanta, even on the eve of the 1980s, still have fewer educational opportunities that white children in suburban school systems. She said the loss of art and physical education from Atlanta elementary schools is an example.

"We simply don't have the level of educational services that the suburban schools have," she said.

Weekend Flooding Prompts Hunt To Ask Surry Be Disaster Area

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer
MOUNT AIRY, N.C. (AP) — Weekend floods that ravaged factories, roads and bridges, doing an estimated $40 million damage in Mount Airy alone, prompted Gov. Jim Hunt to ask Monday that Surry County be declared a federal disaster area.

Hunt toured the flooded areas Monday afternoon and expressed amazement both at the damage and at the height waters reached after leaving the banks of Lovill's Creek and the Ararat River.

"Some of the very largest businesses in Mount Airy have had millions and millions of dollars damage," Hunt said after inspecting the damage. "It's a very great loss, and we're going to do everything we can to get federal and state assistance in there as quickly as we can."

If declared a disaster area by the federal government, those affected in the county will be eligible for low-interest loans, grants and other assistance.

In addition, Hunt promised the state would immediately begin repairing bridges and roads.

Flooding began late Friday night and crested early Saturday along streams in the northwestern North Carolina mountain and foothill counties of Surry, Alleghany, Caswell and Watauga.

Most of the damage was to factories, as few homes lay in the flood plain along the creek banks. But a number of residents were forced to flee because of leaking oil and gas.

More than 100 patients at the Surry Community Nursing Center, where flood waters struck, spent two days at a National Guard armory before being returned to the nursing home Monday afternoon.

"Never been anything like it here before," said Mayor Maynard Beamer, who estimated damage in the town at $40 million.

Hunt first viewed the town from a helicopter. Visible were portions of roads and bridges swept away by the water, mobile homes washed out on a sales lot and onto a railroad bridge, and warehouses with walls knocked out.

"I really did not realize that the flooding had been this deep. I've just been up to a place where the water line was above my head," Hunt said after leaving a lumber warehouse.

At several damaged businesses, there was no insurance.

At the Mount Airy Furniture Company where damage totaled $2½ million, and the Renfro Hosiery Mill Co., where damage totaled $1¼, officials said they had no insurance to cover losses.

"It's out of the hip pocket," said Robert Merritt, president of Renfro, where computers were submerged in water.

Why no insurance? "I don't know. I've been trying to ask myself that," Merritt said.

At another textile plant, Quality Mills Co., damage to equipment and inventory was estimated as high as $4½ million.

Other damaged businesses included a tobacco warehouse, a Chevrolet dealer where water tossed new cars on top of each other, and a building supply and lumber warehouse where damage amounted to $1½ million.

At a municipal park where waters rose to basketball goals, trees were uprooted, fences knocked over and tennis courts covered with muck.

At the furniture factory, board chairman O.H. Yokley said the federal assistance would be needed. The company had just begun production of new lines of high-priced bedroom, dining room and office furniture to be displayed at the fall furniture market.

"We'll need funds. We're going to have to have some from somewhere to keep it running," Yokley said.

"We'll get you every bit of help from every possible source we can," Hunt told furniture company officials. "I want to warn you there's some damn red tape involved with the government."

The flooding followed more than four inches of rain Friday night, and hit too quickly for many businesses to prepare for it. In some places waters rose as much as eight feet higher than the level of any previously-known flooding.

Local officials had been seeking to have a flood control dam built upstream along Lovill's Creek, and several officials

Concerned Over Defense Policy

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Sounding like a voice from the past, Winston Churchill, a member of British Parliament, says he's impressed with America's missiles but has some grave concerns about U.S. defense policy.

The great-grandson of the late British prime minister inspected missile installations at Warren Air Force Base here Monday as part of a six-week tour of U.S. bases by 10 members of Parliament.

Churchill said he thinks it is unfortunate the West is far behind the Soviet Union in development of mobile MX-type missiles. He noted there has been a "dramatic escalation" in Soviet missile strength.

As for his famous name, Churchill allowed it has caused some interesting situations, including the time he was at the 1968 Democratic Convention and told a Chicago policeman his name was Winston Churchill.

"This particular one pulled out his night stick and hit me over the head," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was lower for the second straight session today, in a decline that many analysts said meant that the rally of recent weeks was over.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was off 5.12 to 880.72 at noon.

Three times as many issues showed declines as went up on the New York Stock Exchange.

The slump in stock prices began Monday in a decline traced by analysts to tumult on world currency and gold markets and selling in an attempt to take advantage of the steep run-up in stock prices late last week.

Candidates....

the county towards the city's recreation facilities.

Clarence Gray, one of three incumbent Council members seeking re-election, cited the need for continuity on the governing board "not just for the sake of continuity" but in order to continue capable leadership. Gray mentioned a concern for the Blue Law and said that he would "weigh the whole situation and deal with it in that respect." The incumbent said he was concerned about recreational facilities here and he stressed a concern for the elderly and providing facilities for those citizens.

Judy W. Greene, who is completing her first term on the Council, said she was "just beginning to find out what it's all about." Mrs. Greene said that problems here should be identified, information gathered and a decision made after "careful deliberation." Planning, she said, should be undertaken "not only for tomorrow...but...years to come." The candidate pledged her energy toward providing for the "health, safety and general welfare of all the citizens of Greenville."

The Rev. Bill Hadden, a Council member from 1975 to 1977, said that he came to Greenville some 20 years ago and he has "grown to appreciate" the city. "Humanly speaking," he observed, "Greenville is one of the finest communities I've lived in." Hadden mentioned that after being off the Council for two years, he decided he "wanted to be back" on the board. Greenville, he stated, is progressive and "moving more and more to new ideas."

Planning was the key item cited by candidate E. E. (Ed) Howell as being needed here and Howell pointed out that he spent seven and a half years on the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission. Howell recalled his involvement in planning for the new hospital community in the western sector. The candidate said that people are the key element of the city and he stressed the need to be civic minded.

Robert David Hunt Jr., a senior geology major at ECU, said that he was born in Greenville and then resided in Granville County before moving back here some seven years ago. Hunt told the gathering that he would like to "represent you, the people of the city of Greenville" on the City Council. He is currently assistant manager of the Plaza Camera Shop here.

Richard J. (Dick) McKee, plant engineer at Proctor & Gamble, said that he had been involved in industrial management and engineering for some 30 years and he cited his experience in the control of costs and schedules. McKee called for a master plan to guide the city's growth and he said the city has a unique opportunity, as one of only 17 cities in the nation, to participate in a Comprehensive Energy Management Program and to develop an energy program.

Gretchen W. Skinner, mentioning the rainy weather conditions that greeted the coffee hour attendees, said that she was sure the "room is not full of fair weather friends." Mrs. Skinner said that, "I want to be on the Council, Greenville is my home." She said that she has time to devote to the city and she added that she saw a need for comprehensive planning.

Incumbent Councilman Joe Taft Jr. said that in his six years on the governing board he has served as its representative on the Recreation Commission and two years on the local Parking Authority. Taft mentioned the completion of the recreation-library complex that serves as the headquarters for the recreation department here. The 42-year-old incumbent said that he was "born and raised here" and has four children in public schools in Greenville.

Ray Milton Whittington said that he has "always hoped our children will have a future" but he contended that with inflation and energy problems "if something is not done they will not have a future." Whittington said that apathy is a problem and he added that "everybody can be a concerned citizen regardless of the position held in life." He said that citizens have the responsibility to work for the betterment of the city and the Council is responsible for representing Greenville.

Asked to comment on the prospects for annexation of industrial land, Mrs. McGrath asserted that a committee of industrial members should be involved in the planning. Mrs. McGrath said that industry is aware of "what it takes for orderly growth" and she contended that without that growth, industry would be deprived of the things it initially chose Greenville for.

Mrs. McGrath said that industry should not have annexation rammed "down their throat." McGlohon said that in addressing the annexation issue, "I can't stand here and say the Industrial Park should be annexed." He said the matter "goes back to comprehensive planning." McGlohon said that Greenville is in trouble if the industrial area must be annexed in order for the city to survive.

Mrs. Savage said that she learned a long time ago to listen to both sides of the question. She said that she understood that industry located here "under certain agreements and they should be honored." She said that if annexation is necessary,

however, "I don't believe we can do it at once."

Council candidate Henry E. (Ed) Stallings did not take part in the session.

Obituaries

Abera
Mr. Jonas Abera, 34, died Friday.

A memorial service will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Immanuel Baptist Church by the Rev. Gene Adams, the Rev. Lynwood Walters and the Rev. Dan Earnhardt.

Mr. Abera was a native of Ethiopia who came to Greenville this year. He was a student at East Carolina University, a resident of the Wesley House, 503 E. Fifth Street, and a member of Immanuel Baptist Church.

Surviving him are his wife, his parents and a sister, all of Ethiopia.

FARMVILLE — Mr. Alonza Theodore Nichols, 69, of Rt. 4, Greenville, died Monday in Wilson County Memorial Hospital.

The funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by the Rev. Bruce Barrow. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery here.

Mr. Nichols, a lifelong resident of this community, was a retired mechanic.

Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. C. H. Overman of Ayden; three sons, James R. Nichols of Farmville, Robert L. Nichols of Knightdale, and Billy Gene Nichols of Fredericksburg, Va.; a sister, Mrs. Floyd Bruce Morgan of Greenville, and eight grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Paid Debt With 4,380 Cookies

MONTROSE, Minn. (AP) — Tim Kowalke's romance began over a plate of chocolate chip cookies. When his fiancée returned the ring, he asked for a breach of promise settlement — 4,380 chocolate chip cookies.

Kowalke and the woman, who preferred to remain unidentified, were to have been married next month. He had bought a small house for them to live in after they were wed. But in May, she returned the ring.

"I felt that I should have some recompense," he said. He asked her for a dozen cookies for each day they had been together.

The 24-year-old woman missed an Aug. 22 deadline, but finished up the job last week. Her debt was paid and Kowalke's freezer was full.

however, "I don't believe we can do it at once."

Council candidate Henry E. (Ed) Stallings did not take part in the session.

Claims Reverse Discrimination

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A professor at North Carolina Central University filed a $1.9-million lawsuit against the school Monday, claiming he was fired after refusing to change the grade of a student who allegedly cheated on a term paper.

The suit, claiming reverse racial discrimination, was filed in U.S. Middle District Court by Dr. Paul Scagnelli, an associate professor of psychology at the Durham university.

Scagnelli, who is white, told the News and Observer of Raleigh that his supervisors at the predominantly black university were guilty of "a pattern of reverse racial discrimination." He said all his supervisors are black.

Scagnelli contends he assigned a failing grade to the student and was forced to resist pressure from the school administration to allow the student to drop the course. Instead, Scagnelli said he gave Alexander Reese Jr. of Goldsboro a failing grade.

He said Reese, who still is enrolled in graduate school, had completed course requirements. He said it was too late for Reese to be permitted to withdraw from the course under school regulations.

Scagnelli said university rules call for penalties as severe as expulsion or suspension for plagiarism. In the suit he claimed the "F" grade was the least punitive action he could have taken against the student. Scagnelli charges that in the past he had been given undesirable class hours and that he was denied leaves and merit raises on the basis of race. He said he was notified in July that he would not be given tenure and would be fired at the conclusion of the 1979-80 school year.

King Of Swing

Phillies' Pete Rose follows through on the swing that gave him his 200th hit of the season making him the all-time 200-hit season record holder with ten seasons. The hit, which happened Monday night off Pete Vuckovich of the St. Louis Cardinals, also extended Rose's current hitting streak to 22 games, tops in the majors this year. (AP Laserphoto)

Rose Makes Baseball History... Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Rose made major league baseball history again Monday night. The 38-year-old first baseman made it look easy as he stroked a Pete Vukovich pitch into right-center field for his 200th hit of the season. It was the 10th time in his illustrious career Rose had reached that magic figure and only the immortal Ty Cobb and Rose had ever done better than eight. Later, Rose tried to put the achievement into perspective. "I don't know," he said when asked to rank his latest accomplishment. "Nobody else has averaged 198 hits over their career. Maybe, because I've been so close to 200 every year, I don't realize how unusual this is. "It's nice. You have to get the at-bats, you have to be durable. You can't get hurt and expect to get 200 hits." Rose is proud of his durability and points to a major league record-tying 12 consecutive years of 600 or more at bats and his major league mark of 15 years of 600 or more at bats. "I feel if I get to bat 600 times I'll get my 200 hits," said Rose. "A lot of people counted me out this year and I counted myself out, not because I thought I couldn't do it but because I was getting so many walks."

Bucs Getting More Confident

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer The Tampa Bay Buccaneers are playing the biggest confidence game in the National Football League. The club that began its life as a punching bag for one team after another and a punchline to one joke after another is doing all the punching now — and laughing while it does. "We're getting that killer instinct," says Ricky Bell. Until recently he was known primarily as the answer to the trivia question, "What running back was drafted No.1 when Tony Dorsett was drafted No.2?" Now he, rookie runner Jerry Eckwood and second-year quarterback Doug Williams are helping to give the Bucs an offense to go along with their defense. "Remember how the fans here used to talk about putting up signs on the 20-yard lines, 'The Bucs stop here?'" Bell recalls. "We used to wonder, 'How are we going to blow it?'" "What's going to go wrong this time?" And somehow we'd make the mistake that would cost us another touchdown. Now, when we get down near the goal line we know we're going in."

That's confidence. And that has helped the Bucs build a 4-0 record.

Rose Rolls Past Enloe, 26-6

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor RALEIGH — Rose High School drove for a quick 3-0 lead and never trailed as it rolled to a 26-6 victory over Raleigh Enloe High School last night.

The game had been postponed because of rain from Friday. Kenny Wilson scored twice for the Rampants, on runs of 12 and 5 yards, while Calvin Whichard got the other touchdown, that on a 16-yard run. In addition to kicking two of the three extra points, Ted King scored on field goals of 27 and 24 yards on the first two Rose High School drives.

Enloe's only touchdown, its first in three games, came a 72-yard punt return. "Offensively, we didn't move the ball like I thought we could," Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "We made a lot of mistakes that we shouldn't have made, and it cost us. There were entirely too many penalties to suit me." Rose had 11 penalties for 115 yards, several of which kept Enloe drives alive, including back-to-back roughing the kicker penalties that gave the Eagles two straight first downs.

"Maybe we were just too eager," he said of the penalties. "But we need to shape up our offense before we get into conference play. Then, again, we played a lot of people, so that might have a lot to do with it." Bumgarner felt that the Rampant defense did a good job, however, limiting the Eagles to just 50 yards in total offense, 37 on the ground and 13 through the air. Rose picked off three interceptions during the evening, as Enloe completed but one of 16 attempts.

"The only time they really got yardage (in the final quarter) was against our second unit," Bumgarner added. Going into the fourth period, Enloe had only four yards in total offense. "I hated that they scored. I didn't want to be the first team they scored on. There was no excuse for breaking down in the kicking game like that.

"But I have to praise Ted King's kicking. His two field goals got us started, and his punting (two for 40.5 yards) was great," Bumgarner said.

Rose opened up with a score on its first series. Taking over at its own 46 after forcing a punt, Rose moved to a first down at the Enloe 11 in seven plays, including a 17-yard rip by Mark Shank. But the drive sputtered there, and King came in with his first field goal, a 27-yarder for a 3-0 lead with 6:01 showing.

Early in the second period, Rose got the ball in great field position following a three-yard punt by the Eagle kicker, who was under great pressure and had to roll out to kick.

From the Enloe 35, where the punt was downed, Rose moved to the ten for a first down, but a penalty pushed them back to the 15 and helped to dull the thrust. Finally, on fourth down, King again kicked, this time from 24 yards out, and Rose boosted its lead to 6-0 with 8:00 left in the half.

Donald Johnson gave the ball back to Rose with an interception and a 23-yard return to the Enloe 23. On the first play, quarterback Kenny Barnes (2-for-4 on the night) hit Whichard for a 12-yard gain, but Rose was again hit with a five-yard penalty on the next play.

From the 16, Whichard then took the ball around the left side and scampered into the end zone for the first Rose touchdown with 6:07 left. King's kick for the PAT was wide, and Rose led, 12-0.

Enloe came back with its only penetration of the first half following the score. That drive was sustained by the two roughing the kicker penalties, as the Eagles got only one other first down during the series, which finally ended when Rose twice sacked the quarterback, with Curtis Spell doing the honors both times, for a net of 25 yards in the wrong direction.

Rose quickly scored on its first series of the second half. Barnes again went to the air, hitting Tyrone Tucker down the sidelines for a 70-yard gain from the Rampant 25 to the five. Only a last ditch effort save it from being a touchdown then.

Rose was again hit with a penalty, backing them up to the 20, but after Whichard gained eight on first down, Wilson took a quick pitch around the left side for the score from the 12. King's kick made it 19-0 with 10:45 left in the third period.

Enloe's only score came midway through the period. Rose was forced to punt from its own 33 on its next possession, and Limbo Powell fielded the ball at the 27, cut to his right, got a couple of blocks at the corner, then outraced the rest of the Rampants to the end zone. A two-point conversion try failed, and Rose led, 19-6 with 6:44 left in the period.

Rose mounted another drive after the kickoff, moving from its own 28 to the Eagle 23 before running out of gas and missing on a 41-yard field goal attempt.

But on the next series, the Rampants wrapped up the scoring. They moved 65 yards in ten plays. Second unit quarterback Jeff Porter ran for 24 yards on the first two plays, and a 14-yard penalty was tacked onto the end of the last run, down to the Eagle 27. Whichard picked up 15 yards on a fourth and three run, down to the four. Then, after being stalled, Wilson went around the left side once more, from the five, for the final score. King's kick made it 26-6 with 3:32 left in the game.

The Rampants moved to 2-1 with the victory, while Enloe fell off to 0-3. Rose returns to action on Friday night, playing host to Northern Nash in its first Division I effort.

Wake-State Set For TV

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. announced Monday that the Atlantic Coast Conference clash between Wake Forest and N.C. State will be regionally televised Saturday afternoon.

The game, to be played in Raleigh, was originally scheduled for 7 p.m. in Carter-Finley Stadium. But by ABC adding the game to its regional package, kickoff has been moved up to 12:50 p.m.

Sports Information Director Ed Seaman said Monday refunds may be obtained at the Reynolds Coliseum box office up until noon Friday. Mail refunds should be postmarked by Thursday, he said.

State officials expect a crowd of 42,000 for the game, which matches two undefeated teams in the conference.

Contest Winners

Rick Langston of Lot 24, Shady Knoll Trailer Park, Greenville, is the winner of last week's "Daily Reflector" Football Contest.

Langston correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games.

Second place went to Jay Smith of Box 936, Bethel, who had 26 games correctly spotted. He won on the basis of his point total guess. His guess of 69 hit the total scored in Tennessee's 51-18 win over Utah on the nose.

Nine other entrants also had 26 correct, but were further off the point total.

The third of the weekly contests appears on the following pages.

Don't let a sharp pencil stick you on your next building.

Before you put that new building out for bids, stop and think a moment. Will the lowest price actually give you your most economical building?

Maybe. But more than likely, that low bid won't include some of the more important factors you must consider. Like long-range energy savings, regular maintenance requirements, the ability to expand your facility in the future or the possibility of cost overruns. So if you award only on the basis of a sharp pencil, you could end up getting gouged.

We think we have a better way. We'll sit down with you and talk about your exact building needs.

For instance, we can help you plan a tighter construction timetable. You can avoid the possibility of cost overruns and we'll give you quicker occupancy, which means reduced interim financing.

And, by talking with you, we can better determine the proper materials and designs needed. Our experience has taught us that planning this way can save you money both initially and in the long run.

Then, we'll give you a realistic price based on what it will take to best satisfy your requirements. You'll get increased operating efficiencies, reduced maintenance, and substantial savings for years to come.

In short, we can assure you of the right building at the right price in the right amount of time. So before you put your building out for bids, call us.

We think you'll be very surprised at all the advantages we can offer.

For the business owner who hasn't got all day to talk about insurance...

Etna Business Owners Policy Can Save Your Day!

Etna Business Owners Policy can't claim what used to be a whole day's discussion down to a few minutes. Why? Because it's so simple. Instead of a mountain of forms to fill out, there's only one. Instead of a lot of questions to answer, there are only a few. And instead of hours to give you a quote, it takes minutes. Yet you get the Premises Liability and Property protection your business needs. Perhaps more than you're getting now. And maybe for less money. What's more, it can help you manage your cash flow better because you can pay monthly, quarterly or annually, with our customer-oriented payment plan. We know you haven't got all day to talk about insurance. So give us a call. In just a few short minutes we may be able to save you a lot more than time.

Think Positive. Think Etna. Think...

WEEKLY PRIZES

1st PRIZE $25.00
2nd Prize $15.00

CONTEST RULES

Wake Forest at Georgia

1. Thirty-two football games are placed on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $25.00. Second place $15.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per person per week. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: FOOTBALL CONTEST, P.O. Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. (Reasonable facsimiles also accepted.)

DUNKEL FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Cowboy's Errors Help Keep Surprising Browns Undefeated

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe gave his teammates a pat on the back for coming up with the big plays, but Dallas linebacker Thomas Henderson couldn't believe the things that happened to the Cowboys in their 26-7 National Football League loss to the Browns Monday night.

"We were probably as surprised as most of the fans were," Sipe said. "They (the Cowboys) turned the ball over in critical situations, and it's a credit to us that we came up with the big play."

The veteran quarterback ignited a 20-point, first-period explosion by capping Cleveland's first possession with a 23-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Dave Logan.

Don Cockroft missed the extra point, but Dallas was forced to punt and Sipe, who connected on 15 of 28 passes for 239 yards, struck again. This time he combined with tight end Ozzie Newsome for a 52-yard score on a broken play.

The stunned Cowboys tried to come back in a hurry, but free safety Thom Darden added insult to injury by ending Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach's string of 150 passes without an interception. He picked off a pass intended for running back Robert Newhouse and ran 39 yards for a touchdown to build the margin to 20-0 just seven minutes and five seconds into the nationally televised game.

The Cowboys, 3-1, did bounce back after Darden's score on a 48-yard pass from Staubach to wide receiver Tony Hill. But, despite dominating the rest of the half and all of the third quarter, Dallas was stymied by an uncharacteristic rash of errors.

Three fumbles, another interception by Darden, a blocked

35-yard field goal try by Rafael Septien and Septien's missed 47-yard attempt spoiled Staubach's 303-yard passing performance — on 21 of 39 — and kept the Cowboys off the scoreboard the rest of the way. "They're rolling now," said Henderson about the unbeaten Browns. "They're hot. They're screaming out there like Oklahoma University."

"I don't think much of their offense, though. Did they get some breaks tonight?" he asked with a shake of his head. "They must have had a fairy godmother out there. They scored 20 nonsense points." The Browns, playing the ma-majority of the game without injured running star Greg Pruitt — who suffered a sprained knee in the second quarter — added a touchdown early in the fourth period on a 2-yard dive by fullback Mike Pruitt. It was Cleveland's first score on the ground this season.

"The Browns aren't that much better a team than us, obviously," said dispassionate Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "They're capable of being a playoff team, but it's a different game when you're on top and people are challenging you."

The more excitable Sam Rutigliano, Cleveland's second-year coach, said: "Our team just played great defense. We pressed to cause those mistakes to happen. The key was that we played opportunistic football."

Trojans, Crimson Tide, Sooners Continue To Dominate Poll

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Southern California, Alabama, Oklahoma and Texas continued to dominate The Associated Press college football ratings today, while Missouri vaulted into fifth place and Penn State and Notre Dame tumbled out of the Top Ten.

Southern Cal, a 48-14 winner over Minnesota, received 51 first-place votes and 1,286 of a possible 1,300 points from a nationwide panel of 65 sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama, which routed Baylor 45-0, received 13 first-place ballots and 1,235 points. Last week, Southern Cal led 49-12 in first-place votes and 1,227-1,153 in points.

Oklahoma held onto third place with 1,122 points following a 49-13 drubbing of Tulsa while Texas received the remaining first-place vote and 1,040 points after finally opening its season with a 17-9 victory over Iowa State.

The top four teams have been the same since the preseason poll.

Missouri jumped from ninth to fifth with 898 points for trouncing Mississippi 33-7 and Nebraska climbed from seventh to sixth with 862 points after downing Iowa 24-21.

Michigan State defeated

Miami of Ohio by that same 24-21 score and rose from eighth to seventh with 816 points while Houston, which had the week off, moved up from 10th to eighth.

ACC Stars Named

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina linebacker Buddy Curry and Virginia return specialist Pat Chester have been named Atlantic Coast Conference Defensive Players of the Week, it was announced today.

Curry, a pre-season pick for all-ACC honors, made nine unassisted tackles and assisted on five more in the Tar Heels' 17-7 win over 13th-ranked Pittsburgh last weekend. In addition to his hitting, Curry intercepted two passes, recovered a fumble and recorded a tackle behind the line of scrimmage to lead North Carolina to its second win of the season.

The 5-9, 185-pound Chester provided the Cavaliers with excellent field position all afternoon as Virginia downed VMI, 19-0. The Cambridge, Md. sophomore returned seven punts for 130 yards, including a 56-yard return for a touchdown. Two other returns went for more than 20 yards each.

Chester also had one interception in limiting the Keydets to just 51 yards in total offense.

ECU Soccer Team Whips Davidson

DAVIDSON — Neither rain, chilly weather nor the dreaded virus could "dampen" the East Carolina soccer squad as they won their second game in as many days, downing Davidson, 2-1, Monday afternoon.

Playing in carbon-copy of the match at Catawba Sunday, the Pirates overcame still another problem, a red car, to up their record to 3-2-1 with two goals by senior Jeff Karpovich.

A red car ejects a player from the game and with about 10 minutes left in the game, Pirate sweeper Chris O'Neill left, leaving only 10 Pirates booters to contend with a full slate of Wildcats.

Despite an attempted six shots and one goal by Davidson in the waning moments of the game, the young Pirate defense held fast.

"Our freshman did an outstanding job," Coach Brad Smith said. "When Chris left, there went all our experience, plus several other players had to be taken out because they were sick."

"We also lost our intensity at that point and that's when Davidson scored," he said. "Overall, though, we just played well up and down the field."

For Karpovich, the two goals were the second and third in two days.

"Karp had the best game he has had in a long time," said a jubilant Smith.

The Pirates do not have another game until Friday and that is with powerful South Carolina at 4 p.m. in Greenville.

"Hopefully, we'll have some time for everyone to get well and dry out and get ready for South Carolina," Smith said. "We are going to need everybody for that one."

Summary

East Carolina	1	1-2

Fans Help Pirates Take Double-Header From Expos

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates got all the support they needed from their fans in the stands. It was on the pitching mound where they were hurting.

With a crowd of 49,137 at Three Rivers Stadium chanting "Defense, Defense" and waving yellow "Terrible Towels" left over from Pittsburgh's football fandom, Pirate followers exhorted their baseball team to hold back the Montreal Expos in the second game of a double-header Monday night.

But Kent Tekulve couldn't. "The Expos have come back too many times," said Tekulve after allowing the Expos to tie the game with three runs in the eighth inning. "You never expect them to roll over and play dead. We had them on the ropes. That's my situation. I'm supposed to finish them off."

"But I didn't. I gave them a second life and they took advantage of it."

After Montreal's rally made it 6-6, the Expos won the game 7-6 in the ninth on Ellis Valentine's run-scoring single.

Coupled with a 5-2 loss to Pittsburgh in the opener, the split kept Montreal's National League East lead over the Pirates at a tenuous half-game.

The Houston Astros, meanwhile, were beaten 5-4 and 8-1 by the lowly Atlanta Braves and dropped 2½ games behind the idle Cincinnati Reds in the NL West.

In other NL action, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 7-2 and New York stopped Chicago 3-1.

Valentine's game-winning single in the second game for Montreal, which came off losing reliever Grant Jackson, was his first hit in eight times at-bat on the night.

Bill Robinson drove in three runs with a homer and a triple to lead the Pirates' first-game victory.

The Expos and Pirates meet again in single games tonight and Wednesday to close out their season series.

Braves 5-8, Astros 4-1

Jerry Royster hit a run-scoring, ninth-inning single with the bases loaded to rally the Braves to their first-game victory over the Astros.

Royster's liner over left fielder Jose Cruz' head came after the Braves had filled the bases with nobody out off loser Joe Sambito, 8-7. Mickey Mahler, 5-11, got the victory in relief.

Cardinals 7, Phillies 2

Ken Oberkfell singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning as St. Louis beat Philadelphia in a game highlighted by Pete Rose's record-making 200th hit of the season.

The Phillies' star reached the coveted 200-hit circle for the 10th time in his career with a single in the second inning, thus becoming the first major league player to accomplish that feat. The hit, which extended his hitting streak to 22 games, enabled him to break the record he had shared with the legendary Ty Cobb.

Mets 3, Cubs 1

Richie Hebner hit three doubles. Elliott Maddox belted his first home run in over a year and Craig Swan scattered six hits to lead New York over Chicago.

IF YOUR KIDS SUDDENLY START READING THE NEWSPAPER, IT MAY BE OUR FAULT.

Some people say kids don't care about what's happening in today's world. But THE DAILY REFLECTOR is trying to change that popular misconception. This year, students in 15 area schools are taking part in an exciting current events program provided free-of-charge by THE DAILY REFLECTOR. This unique service called the Visual Education Consultant (VEC) News Program - is a comprehensive news film-strip program that provides students with the opportunity to follow history as it happens. The timely weekly materials effectively bridge the "textbook lag" by presenting clear, objective coverage of the week's news. The accompanying discussion materials are written on three distinct concept and vocabulary levels so teachers may choose the level most appropriate for their students. Both the weekly issues and the in-depth studies are carefully planned to increase students' awareness of news events; to improve their critical thinking, reading and discussion skills; and to encourage newspaper readership.

Angels Win, Lead By 4, 5 Games Left

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels edge closer to the American League West title, leading now by four games with just five to play.

They combined the five-hit pitching of Nolan Ryan with the hitting of Dan Ford and the fielding of second baseman Bobby Grich to down defending AL West champion Kansas City 4-3 Monday night.

The Angels and Royals meet again here tonight and Wednesday night, and California finishes the season with three games at Texas.

The Angel victory was the only American League game Monday night.

The Minnesota Twins, with six games to go, hold third place in the AL West, 4 1/2 games behind the Angels, and like Kansas City must pray that the Angels stop winning.

"A miracle might not even win it for us now," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, who hoped for a sweep of this three-game series. "We could win all five left and still not win it."

"The Grich play under the situation was as good a play as I have ever seen. It was the ball game. Instead of having runners on first and third with none out, we had none out with two out."

The veteran Grich's spectacular play went well with the four runs driven home by Ford's single and two sacrifice flies after the Royals grabbed a 3-0 second-inning lead on three unearned runs.

It was in the eighth inning when Kansas City catcher Darrell Porter was hit by a Ryan pitch while leading off.

Then Pete LaCock rifled a grounder to the right of Grich, who dove, grabbed the ball while lying on his side and flipped to shortstop Jim Anderson — who touched second and threw to first to complete the double play.

After the double play, the capacity crowd of 40,423 gave Grich a standing ovation. "It made all those 12 years worth it," Grich said of the applause.

With the "magic number" at two, the Angels could clinch the pennant tonight, since any combination of California victories and Kansas City defeats totalling four would end it.

The Angels have had complete-game pitching victories from Chris Knapp, Dave Frost and Ryan to break up a recent pitching slump.

Wolfpack In Strange Position Playing 'Undefeated' Deacs

By DICK BRINSTER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Linebacker Joe Hannah, like most of those who play on the North Carolina State football team, finds himself in a strange position as week four of the college season unfolds.

He will be staring across the line of scrimmage Saturday at a group of players wearing uniforms that signify their membership on the Wake Forest football team ... the undefeated Wake Forest football team.

"I don't expect it to be a blowout," said Hannah when asked if the Wolfpack would rout the Demon Deacons. Earlier he had surprised no one by predicting that N.C. State would be 4-0 and Wake Forest 3-1 when the day's action was complete.

But the blowout statement was significant in view of the last two meetings between the teams. N.C. State was a 34-10 winner last season and a 41-14 victor in 1977.

"Yes, we have to go with State this week," said tight end Lin Dawson amid considerable laughter.

Then both players settled down and spoke of the task before them. They realize the Deacons can score, and do it in a hurry.

"Respect them more? Oh, yes, you have to," said Hannah. "They have proved they can play football."

Hannah needs no evidence beyond the number 40, which belongs to a running back named James McDougald. He gets Hannah's vote as the toughest runner in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"He's probably the best I've played against since I've been here," said Hannah. "He's the toughest to bring down. He can take a blow or two and get right back up."

Respect for Wake Forest, despite what those in football officialdom say, is not an epidemic. Each year when the schedule was examined any game involving the Deacons was counted as a win.

In the last two seasons 10 of 11 people who did that were right. Then along came Georgia two weeks ago. The Deacons beat them Between the Hedges and suddenly they have earned enormous respect.

Among those who count themselves as believers is the American Broadcasting Co. ABC thinks so much of John Mackovic's aerial circus at Wake and Bo Rein's seven blocks of whatever at N.C. State, that the game is being televised.

Kickoff is now 12:50 p.m. instead of 7 o'clock.

"That's all right with me," said Rein. "That's four hours less worry time."

With quarterback Scott Smith running behind All-America center Jim Ritzer and company, you'd think Rein's problems would be at a minimum.

This time the nose guard is quick James Parker, whom Rein classifies along with his own John Stanton as "the best nose guards in the league."

A receiver named Wayne Baumgardner is threatening to be a record-setter and quarterback Jay Venuto is almost illegal. He has completed 46 of 62 passes the last two Saturdays for the unheard-of total of 617 yards.

Wake Forest has the respect of N.C. State ... Wake Forest really has the respect of N.C. State.

ABC To Telecast Summer Games

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC-TV, with a long history of broadcasting the Olympics, has sewed up the television rights to the 1984 Summer Games, sources said, with a bid believed to be $200 million, the minimum figure established by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

ABC, which became the No. 1 rated network following its telecast of the 1976 Games from Montreal, thus would regain the broadcasting plum that it lost to NBC for the 1980 Olympics. NBC paid $87 million for the rights to the Moscow Olympics and plans 152 hours of coverage next July.

less glamorous Winter Olympics, which will be held in Lake Placid, N.Y. in February.

The proposal by ABC for the Los Angeles Games, significantly higher than the bids tendered by CBS and NBC, was the only one to meet the minimum demanded by the LAOOC, said sources who declined to be identified.

CBS offered $160 million and NBC bid $150 million, according to sources, and neither of these networks have been asked to send representatives to meetings scheduled for today involving members of the Los Angeles Organizing Committee and the International Olympic Committee.

ABC paid $15 million for the

Recruitment Cheating Said Largely Condoned

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Four recruiters accused of participating in a nationwide Army recruiting scandal, told a Fayetteville newspaper that unwritten rules of corruption for recruiters have been in existence for years.

The four men, who have all been relieved of duty and three of whom are facing court-martial, said in the interview that getting copies of entrance exams to aid recruits in cheating in the Army's Charlotte district was as easy as taking in the mail.

One of the four said the tests arrive in the mail, or a veteran of the recruiting system takes a newcomer aside and "slips him one."

The four made their comments in an interview with The Fayetteville Observer. They all agreed to the interview, arranged by their Fayetteville attorney, Mark Waple. They asked that their names not be used.

They said to fulfill enlistment quotas, recruiters frequently gave enlistees test answers, handed out forged Social Security cards and IRS forms and lied on paper about a prospective recruit's educational qualifications.

They said those and many more illegal activities go on indiscreetly beneath the noses of recruiters' commanders without protest, and are condoned by the commanders. In some cases, they claimed, superiors have participated.

"It's been exposed to the public now, and the commanders have to do something to satisfy the public. So they are going to make scapegoats out of the enlisted people," one said.

The four recruiters are among a group of nearly 20 recruiters who were relieved of duty in the Charlotte District and have banded together in an attempt to start a Senate probe into recruitment fraud.

Waple said Monday that some of the suspended recruiters plan to hold a news conference Wednesday in Charlotte "to be more specific with their allegations."

The Army has relieved 101 recruiters and three officers nationally in five months of investigation inside at least eight recruiting districts that began with the Charlotte command last May.

Thirty-one of 55 recruiters in the Charlotte district, plus the district commander, have been relieved of duty. The command covers 47 North Carolina counties and four South Carolina counties.

In the Montgomery, Ala., district, the district commander, an operations officer and 25 recruiters have been suspended.

Six other districts have been included in the probe. In Dallas, 19 recruiters have been relieved; six in Chicago, 12 in Nashville, Tenn., and eight in Jackson, Miss., the Pentagon said.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., who had previously objected to the first investigation, has called for an end to the second probe and has promised to seek a Senate investigation which he said would be more impartial.

Morgan, after hearing several recruiters on Aug. 27, said: "More than 50 persons have been relieved and I don't believe that many people could be involved without someone in the chain of command knowing about the cheating."

Wassermann Test Can Be Wrong

I had a physical examination in connection with employment. My wife and I were surprised and upset when the Wassermann test of my blood came back positive for syphilis. I never had such an infection and insisted that the test be done over. Only then was it found that the report was false. I think the suffering I had undergone should be brought to the attention of other people so that they can be spared our agony. — Mr. H.V., Minn.

Dear Mr. V.: I am grateful to you for calling this to my attention. Some time ago, I wrote that false positive Wassermann reactions are not uncommon. Even in the absence of the disease of syphilis, the occasional report can be mildly positive.

Recent viral infections, pneumonia, malaria, pregnancy, mononucleosis and even vaccination may sometimes produce a temporary false positive Wassermann.

There are now a number of more sensitive and highly sophisticated blood studies that can positively determine the absence or presence of syphilis.

I hurt my breast while playing tennis. I am concerned that this injury can cause a cancer of the breast at some later time. — Miss E.N., Ga.

Dear Miss N.: I doubt that a single injury can be responsible for a cancer of the breast. Sometimes, repeated pressure or injuries can cause a rupture of a blood vessel and a collection of blood beneath the skin. This is known as a "hematoma" and may give the appearance of a tumor.

Following injury, women more carefully examine their breasts. When any lump is found by such inspection, there is a tendency to attribute this finding to the injury, even though there may be no causal relationship between the two.

My son had his spleen removed after a skiing accident. Even though I have been assured that he can live a healthy life, I could use some reassurance from you. — Mrs. D.T., Canada.

The spleen is a remarkable organ and is involved in many of the body's functions. It is difficult for many people to understand that such a vital organ can be removed without disrupting the normal functioning of the body.

Let me assure you that in this wonderful body of ours there are other organs that can take over the functions of the spleen when it has been removed.

You can be sure that your son's health and longevity will in no way be affected by the removal of the spleen.

Economic Russian Cruises Irk Western Shipowners

EDITOR'S NOTE — Western shipowners have been complaining about increasing competition from Soviet passenger liners. AP Moscow correspondent Nikki Finke took a Black Sea cruise to see what the Russians have to offer. Here is her report.

By NIKKI FINKE
Associated Press Writer
ABOARD THE M.S. GRUZIYA (AP) — It's a world of pingpong and propaganda, bikinis and blinis, saunas and samovars.

A Black Sea cruise aboard the Soviet Union's newest fleet of passenger ships is a curious mix of East and West. But one thing is certain: these U.S.S.R.-flag vessels are riding a wave of success.

More than 100,000 Russians a year are cruising between Crimean and Caucasian resorts to lap up capitalist luxuries at dirt-cheap, Kremlin-supported prices even mechanics can afford.

It's such a bargain, in fact, that more and more foreigners are booking aboard the ships' Mediterranean and North Sea routes.

And what are they getting? For Westerners, it's a slice of Soviet life in non-Spartan surroundings; for Russians, a chance to sample Western-style entertainment without leaving the motherland.

"Some of our people, who live very deep inside the country have never seen the sea," said M.S. Gruzija Capt. Anatoly S. Garagula. "So why shouldn't the communists travel comfortably?"

Filled just to capacity with 480 passengers, the 519-foot-long Gruzija — "The Georgian" — left Odessa at sunset for a week-long cruise to the Black Sea resorts of Yalta, Sochi and Batumi.

A Russian song blared from the loudspeakers in the 173 passenger cabins as the ship left some 150 well-wishers on shore waving wildly. The speaker announced: "We are happy to greet you aboard ship! We hope that this journey will be a fascinating one."

And right away, the Russians began crowding around Las Vegas-like slot machines and U.S.-made electronic tennis and hockey games, ringing up jackpots or piling up points. Some just stared, unable to puzzle out how the games worked.

The Gruzija itself looked almost out of place on Russian waters filled with freighters, so sleek was it. The ship, built in Finland, was one the Soviets bought between 1975 and 1977.

Why don't the Soviets build their own pleasure boats? "We think," said Capt. Garagula in a serious tone, "that building rockets to go to the moon is more important."

The ship offered five types of cabins, ranging from "super-deluxe" two-room suites to tourist-class double-decker beds.

For the penny-pinching, $13.50 bought an armchair for the night along with meals. A 29-year-old army officer called his armchair "not too bad" — but he was stroking a sore back.

Most passengers paid full fare, an average $300 for the week-long cruise, or slightly more than the average Soviet's monthly salary. Others were subsidized by unions for up to 70 percent of the fare.

Aboard were a whole range of passengers, from factory workers to bureaucrats to singing stars. Explained one passenger: "To be on ship is romantic, and we are all romantics."

Lida, a 28-year-old Moscow divorcee, understood that. Besides wanting to get away, the chunky blond accountant wanted to meet a man. "If you don't get married by 28, it's too late," she sighed, as couples gyrated to tunes in the "Music and Dancing Saloon."

Were there enough single men aboard the cruise? "Enough," she said with a smile.

Cruises are a favorite of Soviet singles, who often complain they have nowhere to meet eligible mates on land. Single passengers are assigned roommates regardless of sex, but cruise director Elena Pomanskaya says the young rarely ask to change to same-sex roommates.

"Sometimes they are very happy with our choice," she said.

By day, Gruzija passengers can choose between a pool, basketball court, pingpong tables, sauna and 7:15 a.m. gymnastics on deck. A hairdresser, post office, souvenir kiosk and library stocked with the works of Lenin are also provided, as well as excursions ashore.

At night, passengers pack three bars for dancing and drinking.

As on most cruises, there is entertainment. The Gruzija's variety show was modest by Western standards, including an Armenian belly dancer with midriff conservatively covered by chiffon and a couple spoofing hapless American tourists. The middle-aged wife mixed up her Russian words — calling a friendly Soviet "fat" instead of

Look For Leaks And Cut Costs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — To avoid costly roof repairs, homeowners should wait for a hard rainstorm and go into the attic at least twice a year to search for leaks appearing on the underside of the roof deck.

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., a shingle manufacturer, says the best time to look for leaks is during a rainstorm because this is when small leaks are most noticeable. When the storm is over and the roof is dry, inspect it from the outside to find the cause of the problem.

"clever" — and invited everyone to visit her in "Tekhzes."

There is even a "Miss Cruise" contest on each trip, but the cruise director noted, "It's not taken very seriously." Food is, however. Three full meals were included in the fare, though passengers had to arrive promptly or miss out altogether. The food was better than in most Moscow restaurants, including certain cuts of meat and fresh produce seldom available in Soviet towns.

Western shipowners have their own beefs about Russian ships, meanwhile, warning that the Soviets are amassing a huge fleet that could be used in time of war. The Gruzija can carry 250 automobiles, for example, and some say it could be converted to transport tanks.

Russian authorities claim, however, that their low-priced passenger and freight services — sometimes 40 percent cheaper than on Western ships — are just causing Western shipowners to have sour grapes.

A TURTLE FROG — A rare frog has been found in Western Australia which looks like a cross between a turtle and a frog. The tiny animal which feeds only on termites and is thought to be unique to western Australia has a hard shell on its nose and strong forearms for burrowing like a mole. (AP Laserphoto)

JOINT EXERCISE
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A combined force from Indonesia and Malaysia will attack and capture the Indonesian island of Natuna in the south China Sea as part of a five-day joint air exercise beginning Oct. 19, Deputy Chief of Staff Mohamed Ngah said today.

A Rolls For Depositors Stirs Business For Bank

By JAMES A. WHITE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — When East New York Savings Bank offered a Rolls Royce in exchange for an eight-year deposit of $160,000 with no future interest payments, it had an immediate problem: someone was interested.

In fact, several inquiries seemed serious. The bank, whose Rolls offer was meant as an eye-catcher in an otherwise more modest promotion for deposits, hastily called its Rolls dealer to make sure it could get quick delivery.

"I just hope this works," Louise A. Sniederman, East New York's vice president for marketing, said just after the promotion broke. "I have so much riding on this in ego."

Three weeks into the campaign, the bank still hadn't attracted a $160,000 depositor for the keys to a Rolls but Ms. Sniederman was riding high.

Aided by a tidalwave of free publicity, East New York had popularized its "instant interest" accounts and had lured hundreds of new deposits in the $1,500-$2,000 range — the real target of the campaign — for its offer to give high-priced gifts and travel to depositors now, instead of cash interest later.

Development of "instant interest" on savings, under which the depositor gets back years later only what was first put into the account, illustrates the lengths to which financial institutions are going to attract customer deposits.

"We think this is the only incentive we have now to influence a depositor to keep his money in a savings bank," said Ms. Sniederman, who says instant interest provides the consumer with the best deal possible.

Other bankers disagree. Some feel uneasy about substituting merchandise for cash interest and others don't even like giving away the smaller free gifts that also are used to attract deposits.

"We prefer to compete on terms other than who has the best toaster," said Fred C. Enlow, senior vice president for marketing of Seattle First National Bank, largest bank in the Pacific Northwest.

"I think a lot of the stuff banks have gotten involved in with merchandise is garbage," said another unenthusiastic banker: "You see some banks that look more like department stores."

Like it or not, the business of offering merchandise for savings deposits will mushroom to a total of between $120 million and $150 million this year, according to various estimates.

Properly done, the offers cost the financial institutions little or nothing in comparison to the billions in deposits they generate.

The dimensions of the business point to shifting consumer attitudes toward savings in an era of non-stop inflation.

Consumer savings are the cheapest source of money for savings banks and savings and loan associations and even commercial banks, which rely on such deposits for most of their funds. In June, for example, U.S. commercial banks had time and savings deposits of $636.4 billion compared with only $356.5 billion in checking accounts.

Competition for these dollars intensifies as money becomes tighter. Federal Reserve Board policies this year have driven interest rates to record territory but higher rates don't help small depositors at financial institutions, where government regulation keeps a lid on the level of interest payments.

So for years financial institutions have joined the soap companies and other mass merchandisers and given free gifts in return for deposits. Toasters, blankets, sunglasses and glassware and other so-called "premiums" have been the most effective lure for new deposits since the 1960s.

What a bank can give away, like every other phase of its business, is regulated. Federally chartered and insured institutions can give items costing only up to $5 for a deposit under $5,000 and $10 for larger deposits. Most states impose the same limits on the institutions they control.

"We have watches we can sell a bank for $10 and with clocks we manage to get down to $5 but we find it more difficult every year," says Gene Knapp, special markets sales manager for Timex Inc., which has a multimillion dollar premium business.

The inflation-riddled $5 and $10 gifts have brought customer complaints of shoddy merchandise and forced some banks to drop premiums they've offered for years.

"If you're restricted by law on what you can give away, you have to find another way," says William Neubauer, vice president of International United Industries, a Farmview Village, Pa., firm specializing in premiums and bank promotions.

With a lot of encouragement from middlemen such as Neubauer, who devise marketing programs and serve as wholesalers for premiums — banks have come up with new wrinkles using gifts.

One is to ask the customer to pay something in order to get a higher value product when opening an account. A piece of luggage selling in stores for $50 might cost the bank $25 at wholesale but with the $5 the bank can give away, it can offer the depositor a $50 value for $20.

Incentive Marketing magazine, which conducts annual surveys of bank marketing activities, says the free premiums still dominate but are losing ground to the gifts requiring partial cash payment by the customer. It says the partial payment offers are less successful but many bankers believe they have little choice if they want to offer something of value to customers.

Then came the idea of prepaying customers some or all the interest they would earn over the term of their deposit. Federal savings and loan associations are banned from prepaying but most other institutions can give customers the "present value" of the future interest on their deposits.

Using the present value concept, East New York's offer of a Rolls Royce now is an even swap for eight years worth of interest on a $160,000 deposit. Total interest earned at 8 percent on the account would amount to $146,166 but only after eight years.

The value of $146,166 today is $76,385, the amount that would grow to $146,166 after eight years at 8 percent interest. East New York says it would pay around $76,000 to have a Rolls delivered, so a customer making the necessary deposit would get exactly the same as if he waited eight years for the interest.

But beyond that, the customer gets the use of the Rolls for eight years and who knows what the new car will cost then. On the other side, prepaid interest is all taxable in the year received and there are penalties for withdrawing early from the account. In addition, someone with $160,000 available today probably can do better than 8 percent interest.

The Rolls is an exceptional case but the same idea applies to smaller deposits. A two-year deposit of $1,950 at 6½ percent would produce interest of about $275, which has a present value of $241. East New York offers a 13-inch General Electric color TV for that amount, less than the store price today and an even better bargain than if bought two years from now. And, of course, the customer doesn't have to wait two years to get the TV.

"It provides instant gratification but it promotes saving because people get their money back," Ms. Sniederman said. "It's 'buy now and don't pay later'."

James A. Beakey, head of the Minneapolis sales promotion firm of Beakey, Lewis & Co., noted prepaid interest in a lot of variations has been tried elsewhere. "It works damn well," he said.

"It addresses two motives: everyone is impatient and with this I'm getting something right away. Secondly, savers are relatively sophisticated and they recognize that the bank can buy value for less than the consumer," he said.

But not everyone is happy. "Retailers don't like it because everytime we give away a TV, we take a retail sale off the market," said Neubauer, who is working on the East New York promotion.

Timex's Knapp is all for banks using small merchandise, such as his watches, and thinks the extra bank advertising listing products by name even helps sales at retail outlets. But he feels the bigger items offered in lieu of interest may bring retailers out in force against any merchandise offered by banks. "It's not a good climate," he said.

Banker views around the country vary, often according to the degree of competition in their markets. Most anything goes in New York, Chicago, Minneapolis and, increasingly, in Florida and Ohio, but bankers are less brash in other areas.

"I'd never say there is not a time and place for premiums, but when it becomes a bank's whole marketing program, that is what I don't like to see," said Enlow at Seattle's Seafirst. "There are people who chase premiums and my guess is they are not the most profitable type to cater to anyway."

While not wanting to introduce a merchandise war, Seafirst does offer prepaid interest in an almost unheard of fashion — cash. The bank does not push the offer but has it as an option, mostly for large depositors.

Enlow says the success of the cash offer "is less than anything that would excite you."

THERE'S ALSO A ROLLS — What Ms. Louise Sniederman did was offer a Rolls Royce in exchange for an eight-year deposit of $160,000 with no future interest payments. She found herself with an immediate problem when someone was interested. So far, the vice president for marketing at East New York Savings Bank has had no takers for the auto, but the campaign has been a huge success. (UPI Photo)

Top Notch Piano Tuner Earns Few Accolades, But Indispensable Man

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Even the best pianist in the world, playing the world's best piano, can't guarantee a good performance without the cooperation of a person who seldom receives accolades — a top-notch piano tuner.

Roy Connor, who has been tuning pianos in Statesville since 1946, has a reputation that extends throughout the state and even beyond. He's now tuning for the grandchildren of people he served when he first came to town, and when customers move to other states, they frequently write to him, asking for advice

Hopes Unravel Earhart Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man who hopes to unravel the mystery of Amelia Earhart's disappearance will try another expedition to the South Pacific next week in search of the missing aviator's plane.

Vincent Loomis of Orlando says he found what he believes is the wreckage in 1952 while working for the Air Force on one of the Marshall Islands in the Pacific. He says interviews on recent trips there indicate Miss Earhart was captured by the Japanese.

Miss Earhart and navigator Fred Noonan disappeared July 2, 1937, during an attempt to circle the world at the Equator.

Polytheistic Religious Age

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Lutheran theologian says the latter 20th century is the "most religious age" since the decades after Jesus lived, and like those years, this is an age of polytheism.

"We believe in many gods at the same time," the Rev. George Forell of the University of Iowa told campus ministers, adding that this "fragmentation of reality" is disastrous for Christian ethics.

on their piano or even wondering if he could possibly visit them to tune the instrument properly.

Kimball, a well-known piano manufacturer, has sent him on trips, he says, "to other towns where the local tuner couldn't solve the problem." He has regular customers in Hickory and Charlotte, and has even gone as far afield as Burlington and Sumter, S.C.

The consensus is that Roy Connor is top notch.

A piano tuner's biggest asset, of course, is a good ear, and Connor has more than ordinary motivation to develop his — he's been blind since a bout with measles at age six.

Another faculty he's developed more than the average person is his memory. "One of the necessary skills of a blind person is to remember," he said. "I have to know, for instance, where I put my tools, whereas others can just lay 'em down anywhere."

Many piano tuners can't play the instrument, Connor can, but again, he has to rely on his memory since music written in Braille can't be "read" and played at the same time.

Connor, 59, was born in Forest City and learned his profession at the Morehead School for the Blind. After a two-year course in tuning, he spent another two years, while waiting to graduate, on the school's piano-maintenance crew, so he had some solid experience.

"I've never had any trouble getting jobs," he said. "There's a shortage of piano tuners."

Back in 1946, in fact, there were no piano tuners in Statesville so Connor was encouraged to come here.

Some tuners today rely not on their ears but on an electronic strobe tuner, a device that allows the tuner to work by sight, by flashing sound-wave images on a screen. Connor can't use the strobe, but he still doesn't approve of the device. People who use one "aren't really tuners, and they know little about the piano," he says.

He explained the pitch must be set at the start, and "from A to D everything is going real well. But then the refrigerator comes on and takes part of your power, raising the pitch, so the next few notes will be real sharp." When the current changes again, the pitch also changes. If it isn't rechecked, Connor said, strobe tuning can be highly inaccurate.

Like many blind people, Connor finds that sighted persons frequently overestimate the extent of his handicap, shouting at him instead of speaking normally, or even worse, asking him questions through a companion, as though he were deaf. "My hearing is as good as theirs," he snorts.

Connor needs a driver to take him to and from jobs, but there have been times when his chauffeur would have been lost without the tuner's excellent sense of direction. "I had a driver in the '60s," he recalls. "I had to give him directions. I didn't say I wanted to go to Boulevard; I'd just say go south here, or turn right now."

When Connor walks into a strange room, he can tell within minutes, from the way the sound carries, how big it is and he can walk out again without a misstep. He can frequently be seen strolling around Statesville with his guide dog, and in his spare time, he knocks out neatly typewritten poems for the Record & Landmark's "Column Write."

He learned early how to fend for himself. In a family of 10, he says, "I either had to join the others or be left behind. And I kept up with them most of the time."

When talking about himself and his dog, Connor says "we" as if the dog were not merely an animal but a friend and member of the family. He confirms that this is exactly how he feels about her. "The longer you have them, the more it's that way," he said.

"Buffy" is his second guide dog. About eight years ago the first developed a heart condition so severe that Connor "had to carry her up and down steps."

A hard worker who once tuned as many as five pianos a day five days a week, Connor says he's slowing down. "I don't care a thing about tuning more than 10 a week," he said.

His doctors, he said, have told him to reduce his workload because as a person ages, the eardrum becomes "less pliable and doesn't vibrate as well. It's quicker to get tired and stay tired longer."

He hasn't written much poetry lately, either. "I've had other things on my mind," he laughs, "like being lazy."
