

Castro Arrives For Appearance In U.N.

By JUDIE GLAVE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With a tip of his hat and the familiar cigar in his mouth, Cuban President Fidel Castro arrived in New York early today and said: "I'm happy to be in the U.S."

Castro was greeted by one of the tightest security nets ever woven for a dignitary visiting New York. He is here for an address to the United Nations on Friday.

The Cuban dictator, dressed in green fatigues, tipped his hat as he descended the stairs of his Russian-made Ilyushin-62 jet at Kennedy International Airport.

"I'm happy to be in the U.S.," the 53-year-old leader was heard to say as he was greeted by government and U.N. officials. It is Castro's first trip to the United States in 19 years.

The United States and Cuba do not have diplomatic relations, and Castro is officially visiting the United Nations, which is headquartered on international soil.

An angry group of about 30 anti-Castro demonstrators shouted "Murderers! Murderers!" in Spanish as the Cuban leader's 42-car motorcade arrived at the Cuban Mission to the United Nations about 2 a.m. EDT.

Castro will stay at the newly acquired mission less than a mile from U.N. headquarters on Manhattan's East Side during his two-day visit.

More demonstrations were expected. Police said pro-Castro groups and anti-Castro groups — including those from the more than 90,000 Cuban-Americans who live in New Jersey — would be separated.

U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar said Castro, the president of the Non-Aligned Movement of 95 Third World Nations, on Friday would stand on the same United Nations podium he did in 1960 to address the 152-nation assembly for about 75 minutes.

Because of "genuine threats" against Castro and reports that teams of assassins were en route from Florida to New York, police set up a four-block barricaded "frozen-zone" around the Cuban Mission.

Officials said Secret Service agents and the more than 2,000 policemen assigned to protect Castro were more tense over this visit than any by a foreign dignitary in recent memory, including last week's 29-hour stop by Pope John Paul II.

Leaders of anti-Castro groups predicted that an assassination would be attempted: "Everybody wishes to do that," said Dr. Hector Wiltz, who heads the Bloc of Cuban Organizations, an umbrella group representing more than 100,000 Cuban exiles in the metropolitan area.

"He has killed thousands and thousands of innocent people who have relatives here. They hate him so much," Wiltz said.

A U.N. spokesman said Castro would meet with Secretary General Kurt Waldheim on Friday morning and then with General Assembly President Salim A. Salim.

After the scheduled 11:30 a.m. address Friday, Castro is to have lunch with Waldheim, according to a spokesman.

The United Nations will be closed to the public while Castro is there.

Two Share Record Nobel Prize In Medicine Field

By DICK SODERLUND
Associated Press Writer
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1979 Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded jointly today to an American and a Briton for developing computer-assisted tomography, a revolutionary X-ray technique that gives medical science a strikingly clear inside look at the living human body.

The winners are Allan McLeod Cormack, 55, a native of South Africa and head of the physics department at Tufts University, Medford, Mass., and Godfrey Newbold Hounsfield, a research engineer with the British company EMI.

The two, who did the basic research on the "CAT" system independently of each other, were chosen by the faculty of the Royal Caroline Medico-Surgical Institute.

Informed sources said the selection of Cormack and Hounsfield for the record $190,000 award, which they will share, came after the Institute, in an unusual move and following a lengthy debate, vetoed the choice of its own Nobel selection committee.

The identity of the committee nominee or nominees was not publicly known.

The medicine award was the first of the six annual Nobel prizes to be announced. The physics, chemistry and economics prizes are to be awarded next week, and the literature and peace awards in the following weeks. President Carter has been nominated for the peace prize.

The system developed by Hounsfield and Cormack involves the X-raying of successive cross-sections of the body to build, with the aid of a computer, a highly detailed image for examination.

In general hospital use for only about six years, it has represented a breakthrough in medical diagnostic methods, particularly in the examination of the brain and nervous system.

One Institute member explained that the method has been used, for example, to prove that alcoholism leads to brain damage, and recently gained attention in Scandinavia when it showed that alpine world skiing champion Ingemar Stenmark had not suffered brain damage after a bad spill.

Cormack, who moved to the United States in 1956 and became a U.S. citizen 10 years later, was the first to theoretically analyze the possibilities of developing a radiological cross-section of a biological system.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

SNUFUS GONE

The Pitt County Humane Society has asked Hotline to serve as a "last resort" for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Horton of Grifton, who are seeking their pet dog, Snufus (pronounced to rhyme with Rufus).

The Hortons have spent hundreds of dollars on ads in area newspapers and on radio and television and have alerted highway maintenance, law enforcement and other officials over a wide area to be on the lookout for their dog. Snufus is a mixed-breed dog, about 24 inches high, black and white. His shape is basically that of a German shepherd. He is about three years old, is highly intelligent and has been extensively trained by his owners. A $1,000 reward, which will not be increased further, is being offered. Anyone believing he or she has seen the dog may contact the Hortons at Horton Engineering, 524-5475 in Grifton or their home located on Highway 118, near Quinerly's Crossroads, phone, 524-4269.

Stock Market Mood Calmer, 'Stabilizing'

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose slightly today, showing some signs of stabilizing after the Federal Reserve Board's new plans for clamping down on credit touched off some of the wildest activity ever in the markets on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.45 to 850.77 in the first half hour of trading this morning. The widely recognized average had fallen more than 48 points from Monday through Wednesday.

The New York Stock Exchange had by far the busiest day in its history Wednesday, with 81.62 million shares changing hands. The previous high of 66.37 million was set Aug. 3, 1978.

Bond prices likewise have broken sharply since the start of the week as they absorbed the shock of unprecedented increases in interest rates.

On Tuesday, many of the nation's banks raised their benchmark prime lending rates a full percentage point, to 14½ percent.

Contributing to the calmer mood today was a strong showing by the dollar in foreign exchange, reversing Wednesday's decline, and a sharp drop in the price of gold.

Gold was quoted in New York at $392 an ounce, down more than $23 from Wednesday.

Stock-market analysts described early trading today as busy, but less frantic than Wednesday's unprecedented pace.

Amid all the confusion and uncertainty, however, many Wall Streeters were unshaken in their initial approval of the Federal Reserve's decision last weekend to use some powerful new ammunition in its battle against inflation.

Mortgage Money For Homes Tightens Dramatically In N.C.

By The Associated Press
North Carolina lending institutions haven't felt a full effect of the Federal Reserve Board's increase in prime rates, but the mortgage money market for new homes has tightened drastically and seems certain to become more expensive.

Mortgage money for new homes is available, primarily because North Carolina does not have a ceiling on home-loan interest rates, but the prospective home-buyer may have to search for funds.

Savings and loan officials said today money supplies are dwindling rapidly, leaving the lending institutions and homebuilders somewhat in the dark in planning for the future.

"We've just decided to put our heads in the sand and wait six months to see what happens. In the last year, you could just wonder what you ought to do," W. D. Lee of High Point said in a telephone interview.

Lee is president of Piedmont Savings and Loan in High Point and also is president of the North Carolina Savings and Loan League.

Lee said a 20 per cent downpayment generally is required on new-home loans, although some agencies still make 90 per cent or 95 per cent loans in North Carolina. Interest rates reflect a range of 11.5 per cent to 12.5 per cent.

"I think rates will go up again," said Ted Matney of Asheboro, president of First Peoples Savings and Loan.

"As the government tries to accomplish this, a short supply of funds, and if the demand stays at current levels, our rates will have to go up," Matney said. "My crystal ball has gotten so cloudy I'm cautious, but we're at 12.5 now, basically, and I think we'll probably see a 13."

"But I do believe we are getting close to the maximum that people will pay for mortgage money."

Matney and other lenders predicted new housing starts, especially by small homebuilding firms, will drop, perhaps as much as 25 per cent below last year's levels for the fourth quarter.

Lucius Jones, executive vice president of the Wendell Savings and Loan Association, said housing starts would decline, especially in the speculative market. "The presale market will be the same. We've seen some softening of that, but we will have a market," he said.

W. D. Webster, president of Henderson Savings and Loan Association, said of his agency's 12.5 per cent rate: "It's brutal."

Hopes Verify Charlie's Age

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — A scientist hopes to verify the age of Charlie Smith, who Social Security officials said was the nation's oldest person at 137 when he died, by testing bone fragments.

Smith, who died Friday and will be buried Saturday, said he was kidnapped from his native Liberia in 1854 at age 12, and was sold on a New Orleans auction block. The Social Security Administration said it found records of Smith's purchase and other documents to verify his story. Dr. Ted Brown, of the Cornell Medical College Division of Human Genetics, said Wednesday he hopes to verify Smith's age within five years after analyzing the fragments.

Three-Year-Old Can Walk Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three-year-old Sammy Perkins, whose feet were sheared off by a hay-mowing machine, is walking again with artificial limbs made of plastic and wood.

He wandered into the path of the hay-mowing machine June 23, while playing on the family farm near Williamston just east of Lansing. Doctors were not able to reattach the feet, which were cut off just above the ankles. He was fitted for artificial feet and underwent two months of physical therapy.

"Sammy's biggest worry in the hospital was that he would never be able to run again," said his mother, Gloria.

A Cool 43

Temperatures dropped to 43 degrees Fahrenheit early Thursday morning in the Greenville-Pitt County area, according to the Water Plant of the Greenville Utilities Commission.

A half-inch of rainfall was recorded yesterday, with the river level dropping from 4.8 feet to 4.1 feet Wednesday. Wednesday's high was recorded at 63 degrees.

According to the National Weather Service, a warming trend moving across North Carolina should bring some relief from Wednesday's unusually cold weather.

Skies should be clearing by this afternoon, with highs predicted in the 60's.

New 80,000-Square-Ft. Shopping Center Planned

Carolina East Centre, an 80,000 square foot community retail center adjacent to Carolina East Mall, will open in the spring of 1980, development officials announced.

The new one-story complex is a development of the Goodman-Segar-Hogan Development Corp., a division of the Norfolk-based Goodman-Segar-Hogan Inc. real estate organization.

The center is located on a 14-acre site on U.S. 264 and NC 11, off Mall Drive and will be anchored by a 22,720 square foot Winn-Dixie, a 6,720 Rite Aid Drug facility, and a 15,400 square foot four-screen Pitt Southern Theatre complex.

GSH vice president James H. Culpepper, who is responsible for the leasing of the new center, said that the development will also have some 30 specialty shops and restaurants. Pad sites suitable for free standing retailers are also being developed, he added.

Some 660 parking spaces are planned for the center, which will be managed by the Property Management Division of Goodman-Segar-Hogan.

Culpepper pointed out that Carolina East Centre offers a "prime retail opportunity because of its key marketing location adjacent to Carolina East Mall." Goodman-Segar-Hogan served as leasing agent for the new mall.

"The trading area for these centers," Culpepper said, "includes a market approaching 200,000 potential shoppers with an estimated average annual household income in excess of $10,000."

General contractor for Carolina East Centre is Joe N. Guy Co. of Atlanta, Ga. A permit for $896,800 has been issued by the city for the facility housing the new retail center.

SOLO VOYAGE—Naomi James hoists sail as she leaves the Canary Islands on her trip around the world. The first woman to circumnavigate the globe single-handedly, she clipped two days off the record of Sir Francis Chichester in her 272-day journey aboard a 53-foot yacht.

Sailing Woman Recalls Sea Challenges

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Naomi James was 22 years old the first time she set foot on a boat — on a voyage from her native New Zealand to England. But she's made up for lost time.

Six years later she became the first woman to sail single-handedly around the world. Her 272-day journey of nearly 30,000 miles aboard a 53-foot yacht clipped two days off the speed record set by Sir Francis Chichester in 1967.

In between those two sea trips she met the man who was to become her husband, Rob James, a charter-yacht skipper who taught her to sail and encouraged her in her craving "to do something on my own that was very exciting and adventurous."

"The thought of breaking the record was something that came at a later stage," the 30-year-old, long-haired blonde said in an interview. She also minimizes her desire to be the first woman to accomplish the solo feat.

"Though the fact that no other woman had ever done it, made it appear as if no woman could have done it," added Mrs. James, who speaks matter-of-factly about the experience and was amazed to find the tumultuous greeting awaiting her when the Express Crusader returned to Dartmouth, England, on June 8, 1978.

"I did it for myself," she explains. "Coming back to discover the tremendous number of people who wanted to know all about it was a surprise."

Her ability to enjoy solitude, and a single-mindedness that she says she happened to be born with, played a part in her success, says Mrs. James, who has written a book about her nine-month triumph over the elements, "Alone Around the World."

"I viewed it as just getting on a boat, pointing it in the right direction and sailing, and sailing, and sailing," she said. "You can minimize dangers by doing things slowly and carefully, giving everything thought and planning."

However, she admits, there were dangers and difficulties, including problems with the self-steering unit, a radio that went dead, being becalmed for days in the "doldrums," storms and — worst of all — capsizing in the 30-foot waves of the turbulent Southern Sea "Roaring 40s."

"The difficult things I managed to do only when there was no alternative, like leaning over the edge of the stern on my stomach for two hours to fix the steering gear," she relates. "When I was on land I never thought that I could climb the mast. But once you get to sea and something happens and you have to climb the mast — then you climb it."

"I have always believed that a person is capable of tremendous things in the way of survival," adds Mrs. James, who cites as the worst time "when the shrouds broke and the rigging fell to the deck." Another low point was when her black kitten named Boris was washed overboard in a squall.

Without him to talk to, she was afraid she might lose her voice, so she sang to the birds along with the vocalists on her tapes. She also read the 200 books she'd brought with her.

"Books are very important on an odyssey like that. Because of the lack of contact with the outside world, you need the stimulation," explains Mrs. James, who was totally out of contact for the 43 days her radio was out. Though she put into port twice for repairs, she didn't see a human being for months at a time.

She took along enough food for a year, cooking on a stove that had a grill and oven in addition to the burners; she washed dishes in cold seawater and detergent, and took along enough T-shirts that she could throw them overboard when they got dirty.

"Sailing around the world on my own was the most fascinating experience I'll ever encounter, a very satisfying and worthwhile way of existing," says Mrs. James, named this year by Queen Elizabeth "Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire."

After finishing a tour in connection with the publication of her book she plans to spend five months in Ireland with her husband "doing absolutely nothing. We're going to build a house near the sea and I intend to hide."

She has bought the Express Crusader, which had been loaned to her, and she and Rob will compete against each other in June 1980 in the Single-Handed Transatlantic Race.

Her fame, she says, hasn't changed her at all but has changed her lifestyle enormously, in a way she declares she doesn't like.

"Once you become a celebrity, in everybody else's eyes you've changed," she says. "I think Rob is the only person who has been able to incorporate the change. He still thinks of me as being a bit of a nitwit — which I am."

"Alone Around the World" is published by Coward, McCann & Geoghegan.

Members will make a contribution of $100 to the Foster Children's Christmas Fund. Plans for the unit Christmas party set for Dec. 6 were made. Members of Post No. 39 and Gold Star Mothers will be invited guests.

12-Year-Old Rematchmaker

By Abigail Van Buren
1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My parents are divorced and I am trying to get them back together. I am 12 and an only child. You see, my Mom is dating another guy, but I know she is still trying to get my Dad back. I really don't know if there is any hope, because my Dad is also seeing someone else, but he isn't married to her, so there is always a chance, right? Do you have any ideas about how I can get my parents to remarry? I don't know whether I should talk to them, or let them work it out by themselves. I think they still love each other, but I could be wrong. If they didn't care about each other, they wouldn't ask me so many questions about the other one.

Answer me in the paper because my Mom gets the mail first and I don't want her to know I wrote to you.
LIVES WITH MOM

DEAR LIVES: It wouldn't hurt to let each parent know that "the other one" seems interested. Beyond that, let them work it out by themselves.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her husband (I'll call him Joe) recently celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary. Joe has done fantastically well in commercial real estate, and just bought (for cash) a very beautiful, expensive home. My daughter proudly announced that Joe had put the house in HER name.

I turned to Joe and said, "I think you were a jerk; if you two get divorced, she will get the house, then you will realize how stupid and shortsighted you were." My daughter became very angry and said, "You should THANK Joe for being so good to me instead of insulting him!"

Then Joe said, "We are very happily married, and the possibility of divorce has never entered our minds, so I don't think my gift was stupid at all." I still maintain that we never know what tomorrow may bring, and my son-in-law was both shortsighted and stupid. What do you think?
NO SIG IN L.A.

DEAR NO SIG.: I think the only stupidity I see here is in your tactless remark.

DEAR ABBY: I recently was a maid of honor and a bridesmaid in two weddings. On both occasions neither my parents nor my boyfriend were invited. Is it no longer proper to invite the parents of those in the wedding party to enjoy the wedding festivities? And don't you think the maid of honor and the bridesmaids should be allowed to bring a guest?
ILLINOIS INQUIRY

DEAR INQUIRY: Unless the parents of those in the wedding party would have been invited anyway, they shouldn't expect to be invited because their daughter (or son) is in the wedding party. And as for bringing a guest, only fiancés of those in the wedding parties should be included.

DEAR ABBY: When my grandson became engaged, he was unable to purchase an engagement ring for his fiancée, so I gave him my engagement ring, which I had willed to him on my demise. After a year and a half of marriage his wife left him and they were divorced. Am I right in expecting her to return the ring, since it was an heirloom?
VERY UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: Yes. DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you ran a letter from a busybody who was frustrated because she couldn't figure out what her new neighbors were up to. She claimed they were ruining the neighborhood. You put her in her place with a three-word answer that wiped me out! Please dig it up and run it again. This country could use a good laugh right now. Thanks.
CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: Is this it? DEAR ABBY: About four months ago, the house across the street was sold to a "father and son" — or so we thought. We later learned it was an older man about 50 and a young fellow about 24. This was a respectable neighborhood before this "odd couple" moved in. They have all sorts of strange-looking company. Men who look like women, women who look like men, blacks, whites, Indians. Yesterday I even saw two nuns go in there! They must be running some sort of business, or a club. There are motorcycles, expensive sports cars and even bicycles parked in front and on the lawn. They keep their shades drawn so you can't see what's going on inside but they must be up to no good, or why the secrecy? We called the police department and they asked if we wanted to press charges! They said unless the neighbors were breaking some law there was nothing they could do. Abby, these weirdos are wrecking our property values! How can we improve the quality of this once-respectable neighborhood?

UP IN ARMS

DEAR UP: You could move.

HEW Seems Rather Selective

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare seems to be rather selective in the areas it chooses to bring Civil Rights Act violation charges.

Anyway HEW's Region IV office in Atlanta has now picked the Pitt County School system for charges of something it calls assigning students to regular classrooms in a "racially discriminatory manner."

"The assignment practices have resulted in racially identifiable and racially isolated classes that have not been educationally justified," a letter from William H. Thomas, director for Region IV Office for Civil Rights, said.

Pitt is apparently one of ten school systems in North Carolina chosen for attention by the Region IV office.

Superintendent Ott Alford responded to the charges, "We contend we've established classes on achievement, using both teacher-made and standardized tests, as well as teacher observation."

Alford said the school system will defend its position with the Office for Civil Rights, and possibly the fight may move into the courts.

We would certainly feel that the Pitt school system should first self-evaluate to determine that nothing it is doing is discriminatory.

Once that is done, however, then this current HEW move, which may be discriminatory in itself, should be resisted.

Pitt County's foremost goal in education should always be to provide the best in education for all. That frequently is not in accord with what HEW wants.

The Final Day Of Area Tobacco Sales

Today marks the final day of sales for both the Greenville and the Farmville tobacco markets. The final figures are not yet available. Prices held up, but they didn't discount inflation...

...and there was less tobacco to sell compared to last year. All-in-all it was a pretty good crop and a fair price, not the greatest of years, but not too bad.

Close Training Schools?

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH — How many families in North Carolina are raising kids on an income less than $17,000 per year? Judging from consistently bottom-ranking wage data from Census and Job Service sources, a lot. The Majority. Raising kids on that income includes feeding them, and mother and father as well, buying clothes, providing a home and education, an occasional vacation, and saving up for college.

Given the state's low income status, in a good many homes both parents must work to come up with a combined family income of $17,000. And more than one child lives in the majority of homes.

Yet, $17,000 per year is what the State of North Carolina is presently paying to keep one child in a juvenile training school for one year. What do the taxpayers get for that amount of money spent?

Problems The Governor's Advocacy

Council on Children and Youth has been reminded that several studies have identified grave problems with the training schools: "empty and unchallenging educational programs; meaningless work details; inconsistent discipline; inadequately trained staff and an inadequate number of staff; grim physical facilities, including dingy isolation cells; inadequate, second-rate medical care; and finally, a total lack of rehabilitative treatment."

Shirley Hastings Carlisle, in a discussion paper prepared for the Advocacy Council, recalled those indictments and proposes simply that "it is important for us to begin to seriously question why we as a society continue to send our children who are in most need of a helping hand to institutions which have a demonstrated record of failure."

She has suggested that the council seriously consider a push to simply close the training schools altogether. The dollar figures reported here were not included in Ms. Carlisle's report. She chose, instead to explore the social, psychological, and educational failings of the training schools.

She also put major emphasis on the point that so long as lawyers and judges and average citizens think the training schools are doing some good, and they remain a handy, isolated place to keep problem kids out of sight and out of mind, they will be occupied. "As long as we can lean on the training schools and use them as a crutch, innovative alternative services cannot flourish and will not be developed," the report suggests.

Should Be Actually, the General Assembly was convinced that the training schools should be closed, and has passed law and policy which should move in that direction. Non-criminal children have already been removed and provided community treatment alternatives, and the Department of Human Resources has closed two of the seven institutions. The law allows the agency to close more as the population declines, but that step has not been taken.

BILL NOBLITT

At this time about 650 youngsters occupy the institutions. The Youth Services Division has 736 employees; 40 in central administration; 17 in community services work; and 17 at regional detention facilities. The overwhelming majority of employees are at the training schools; there are 303 cottage parents alone. The budget for the training schools is more than $11 million per year.

Wouldn't that budget provide genuine help for youngsters in trouble, rather than isolation in a training school? The Advocacy Council is wondering.

Heard As In A Dream

WASHINGTON — The president of the United States invited a dozen senior correspondents to breakfast with him one morning last week. His pleasant purpose was to feed us on bacon and eggs, to water down the Cuban non-crisis and to sell us a nice bill of goods.

As our leader explained how a status quo that had been wholly unacceptable had now become altogether acceptable, my sleepy eyes seemed to glaze. The drowsy mind wandered. As in a dream, I heard Mr. Carter say:

"Gentlemen and lady," and here he bowed to Meg Greenfield of the Washington Post, "I have invited you here this morning to brief you upon a modest proposal on arms limitation that I will send to the Hill within the next hour.

Mr. Powell will give you the text of my message when we conclude."

The Los Angeles Times hunched forward in expectation. The Washington Star produced pen and notebook. The New York Times looked grave. Three columnists creased their noble brows. The president smiled fleetingly, and began.

"You should first be advised," said the president, "that I am withdrawing SALT II altogether. The arms limitation treaty is now as dead as last year's Congressional Record. You may discard your copies of the proposed treaty and toss out the various analyses you have been interpreting so profoundly."

The stunned correspondents sat frozen in disbelief. A network commentator interrupted to ask if the president had disclosed his astonishing decision to the Soviet Union. Again Mr. Carter smiled.

"Cool it, Rod," he said in his disarming way, "You'll get the whole story. You should know that I spent more than an hour on the hot line last night with President Brezhnev. I had phoned him to get his approval of my statement on the Cuban business, but we fell to talking about SALT. I do not intend to release a verbatim transcript of our conversation — I am saving that for my memoirs — but I can give you the substance.

"I remarked that the treaty will authorize each of us to have 2,250 launchers, heavy bombers and air-to-surface missiles next year, and I added, simply in passing, that we both truly could get along with half of that number, or less. I must quote to you Mr. Brezhnev's precise response: 'Jimmy,' he said, 'you took the words right out of my mouth.'"

"It seemed appropriate to pursue the point, I commented, rather casually, that even one-fifth of our existing nuclear weapons would blow the Soviet Union to smithereens. I remarked that it was no secret that we had missiles perfectly targeted on Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and the bistros of Minsk. He replied with some warmth that with just one-tenth of his existing strategic arsenal he could wipe out Washington, New York, Baltimore and John Conally's ranch.

"Leonid,' I said, 'why don't we scrap this troublesome treaty? Why don't you fellows stockpile what you think is necessary, and we will stockpile what we think is necessary, and we will both save a great deal of money.' He snapped at the idea. He remarked that maybe I could now abandon the Goofy. I thought the translator had misunderstood, but Mr. (Continued on page 5)

A Quiet Nurses' Strike

By JULES LOH AP Special Correspondent WESTWOOD, N.J. (AP) —

"Nightingale Base," a block from the hospital, is a flaking old yellow building where the pace is feverish, the care intensive and the pulse rate fast.

It is headquarters for an activity looked upon with some curiosity in America, a strike by registered nurses.

This strike, at Pascack Valley Hospital, is in its third week.

If a nurses' strike is itself curious, the manner of striking is more so. Take the picket line. Nurse Andrea does needle-point. Nurses Ellen and Barbara rollerskate. Nurse Chris pushes a baby stroller. Nurse Cathy reads.

"But not in the rain," said Nurse Cathy. "You can't read in the rain. Picketing in the rain is the pits."

Over at "Nightingale Base," Nurse Ann Twomey counts the take from the bake sale. Nurse Clementine Scheideler arranges the car wash. A team of nurses blow up the balloons.

Bake sale? Car wash? Balloons? What would a dedicated striker in, say, Harlan County, Ky., make of such business?

"The balloons contain messages," Nurse Twomey explained.

"We can't get through to the hospital trustees to talk to them directly, so we put questions we would ask them on a slip of paper in the balloons and hope whoever finds the balloons phones the trustees."

Nurses, one is reminded, are taught to improvise.

Sure enough, at high noon the other day, the nurses decorated the autumn sky above the hospital, above the picket lines, with an exhalation of 200 balloons. The sight was glorious; its effect in the annals of labor negotiations as yet unreckoned. Cookies and cakes are another matter.

"We made $160 on the bake sale and Lord knows we need the money," said Nurse Scheideler, "but the purpose was larger.

"There is no pedestrian traffic in front of the hospital, no chance to talk to the townspeople to explain our position. The bake sale gave us that chance. So will the car wash."

"We realize," said Nurse Twomey, "that it is difficult for the public to understand a nurses' strike.

"We know our responsibilities as nurses. We promised to provide nurses for any emergency, and have. Just the other day the administrator phoned and said he needed a nurse to accompany a patient being transferred to another hospital.

"He got his nurse. Martha Stucke pinned her union button on her sweater and jumped in the ambulance. No sweat." Nurses Twomey and Scheideler are the only paid members of the union, president and vice president.

To the editor:

Now is the time to be concerned about the schools merger. Remember, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," for once the merger takes place, it will be too late to have a say or show your feelings.

It is said the merger will be a good thing but let's first ask, "good for whom?" Surely, not the students who will be uprooted and bussed to wherever, nor the parents who will be bound to have added expense nor the teachers who have devoted time and effort, and certainly not the taxpayer who will bear the burden. Let us ask, could it be the National Education Association who MUST have the merger? Let's also ask, could it be that North Carolina is on the way to becoming like Hawaii? To quote from SIECUS CIRCLE, (p. 273) "In the state of Hawaii, NEA's objective has already been achieved. Hawaii now has only one school district, one superintendent, and one school board." Could it be that when states achieve Hawaii's status, they are ready to be locked into Federalized control under the cabinet-level Department of Education, lobbied for by NEA. THERE WOULD BE NO LOCAL CONTROL. Think about this and SPEAK OUT.

James J. Kilpatrick's "Americans Can Say Farewell To Local Schools", (Daily Reflector — Sun Oct. 7, '79) is a very informative article. It is certainly worth a few minutes' time to read it.

Carter Uses Inside Clout

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter gave a textbook demonstration four years ago on how to campaign for president as an outsider. Now he's showing what an insider can do to stay in office.

Although facing a challenge from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination and record low ratings in public opinion polls, Carter is by no means without recourse.

He has the power of the federal purse, authority to appoint thousands of officeholders and control of the Democratic Party machinery.

With federal grants at his fingertips, Carter is gaining endorsements from big city mayors.

And in Florida, where Carter and Kennedy forces clash Saturday in a forerunner to a Democratic Party straw convention, the draft-Kennedy chairman in Escambia County made a last-minute switch to Carter.

Donald D. Spence of Pensacola said he switched after reviewing Carter's record in appointing blacks to high-level jobs. The president recently named two blacks to federal judgeships in Florida.

Another black who switched from Kennedy to Carter in Florida did so after a call from former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young. Sergio Bendixen, chairman of the pro-Kennedy campaign in Florida, said the two defections were the result of "unbelievable pressure" the Carter camp has put on the state's black community.

The Florida contest is for whatever psychological edge can be gained from a victory on an extremely limited battleground. Democrats will vote in the state's 67 counties to choose 879 delegates to a party convention in St. Petersburg, Nov. 16-18. An additional 838 delegates remain to be chosen, most of them by party leaders considered loyal to Carter.

The highlight of that convention will be a presidential preference vote, which will commit no one who will represent Florida at the Democratic National Convention.

Florida's delegates to the national convention will be chosen in a primary election March 11.

Nonetheless, Saturday's voting and the convention next month will be the first test of strength among Democrats for Carter and Kennedy.

The Massachusetts senator minimizes the importance of Florida. He did not choose the people running his campaign in the state and he has not campaigned there. Wait for the Iowa caucuses in January, says Kennedy. Those caucuses will pick delegates to the national convention and it was in Iowa in 1976 that the Carter campaign got its biggest early boost.

Carter said Tuesday at a news conference he will leave it to the news media to assess the importance of the Florida voting.

Strength For Today

BASIC PRINCIPLES Physicists tell us that the physical world contains ninety-two elements. These are the building blocks out of which everything capable of being seen, touched, heard, and in any way experienced is made.

There are also basic moral principles of equal importance as elements. They are in effect the building blocks upon which the material superstructure rests. Such principles as honesty, fair dealing, purity, love, courage, and faith are the foundations upon which all beneficial and lasting social relations are erected. If we do not build on these qualities, we build upon sand.

Individuals may have wealth, power, and great capacities, but if they do not have the elements of moral principle, all of their endowments are as nothing. The principles out of which we make a meaningful life and upon which the superstructure of genuine achievement must rest are few and simple. But they are elemental.

Investments Are In Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) —

"Invest in inflation — it's the only thing that's going up."

Will Rogers offered the advice partly in jest, but speculators in recent weeks have accepted it as the best tip since somebody discovered the certain route to riches, "buy low, sell high."

They've been investing in inflation, in bars of gold and silver, in currencies and commodities, not because they need them, to produce goods, for example, but because they think they'll rise in price.

In fact, it is more correct to say they are investing in price, not product.

Price and profit — that's their interest. To many, the product would be a terrible nuisance. They might not recognize it; they couldn't handle it; they wouldn't know what to do with it.

But they certainly know what to do with the price. When it rises they cash in and look for something else that, because of the underlying energy of inflation, looks as if it could be rocketed even faster.

In so doing, as you can readily understand, they have contributed mightily to some astounding price rises. Gold has risen 40 percent or so in just a couple of months, and silver has increased even more. Currencies, including the dollar, have fluctuated wildly.

Many who buy commodities and currencies do indeed hold them, but others — too many, apparently — jump aboard merely for a free ride. That ride, a joyride for them, mean ruinous inflation for serious buyers.

It is at speculation, among other things, that recent action by the Federal Reserve Board is aimed. It seeks to bring calm to the marketplace by denying speculators the money with which to speculate.

When high expectations are removed, by making it more difficult to obtain money, investments might then be considered more soberly, and more likely channeled into economically productive projects.

The Fed moves in intricate ways, but the net impact of any of its moves is to make it more difficult or more costly for commercial banks to obtain funds to lend.

In doing so, it assumes banks will be more cautious about projects on which they lend money; it assumes also that borrowers will think twice or more before seeking loans at increasingly higher interest rates.

It hasn't been alone in delivering the bad news. Other government offices, bank officials and economists have joined in a psychological blitz to shock speculators, other bankers and the public in general.

John G. Helmann, U.S. currency comptroller, delivered perhaps the most upsetting warning of all, telling the American Bankers Association convention that we should be prepared to see some large banks go under.

Named Director Of Foundation

RALEIGH — Dr. Charles E. Russell of Hookerton, special assistant to the president of Pitt Community College, has been named as a director of the North Carolina State University Education Foundation.

Roger Mazingo of Washington, D. C., vice president of the Tobacco Institute, will serve as president, succeeding Charles A. Poe of Raleigh.

Russell will join 11 other directors on the foundation's board. The NCSU foundation provides private support for the School of Education.

Kilpatrick Col. ...

Brezhnev said he was referring to the Goofy Racetrack for concealing missiles. He said it must have been designed by that dog with the floppy ears.

"Well, we chuckled a bit over that, and I said, yes, I certainly could put the $30 billion to better uses. We could beef up our Navy, buy the Marines some new trucks and provide the Air Force with enough airplanes to intimidate the Cubans. We could stop chiseling on our officers and enlisted men by nibbling at their commissary privileges and dependent benefits. We could modernize our conventional equipment, the better to meet real problems instead of fictitious ones. He said, 'Jimmy, I couldn't have put it better myself.'"

"The upshot was that within minutes we reached a clear understanding to abandon 85 percent of our strategic weapons, and to make our own unilateral decisions hereafter. Jody will give you the text. I will now accept questions..."

When the president said "accept," the word triggered a renewed awareness of cooling coffee and congealing eggs. Mr. Carter, I realized, was telling us earnestly that the difference between a combat unit and a non-combat unit lies in a Soviet assurance that a combat unit will not function as a combat unit. And alas, my eyes glazed over again.

Ask Penalize Smith-Douglas Insurer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Insurance Department attorneys called Wednesday for the revocation of a state license for the Smith-Douglas company's prime insurer after characterizing the insurance company as "unrepentant and unwavering."

"Their attitude is, 'We did it wrong, our money is out, so what?'" Deputy Commissioner Daniel Nelson said in arguments at the close of a 10-day hearing.

The department has accused the Affiliated Factory Mutual Insurance Co. of delaying settlements and payments in claims resulting from damage to tobacco by Smith-Douglas fertilizer contaminated by the herbicide picloram.

Officials of the company testified that its liability limit of $10 million was reached on Sept. 18. Remaining claims for damage to tobacco and other crops are being handled by secondary insurers, including Lloyd's of London.

In his summation company attorney John Campbell of Lumberton noted that one of Affiliated's officials, claims supervisor W. J. Ormonds, had described as improper some of the procedures used in settling claims.

However, Campbell said, the company had acted in good faith, without adequate information, to meet an "impelling force to get this adjustment process under way yesterday."

"Darkness has prevailed ... darkness because we didn't know," he said.

Ingram has 30 days to rule in the case. He denied a company motion Wednesday to dismiss the charges.

In closing the hearing, Ingram expressed concern over apparent conflicts in testimony by Ormond and W. K. Collins, an extension service tobacco specialist at North Carolina State University.

Ormond repeatedly referred to Collins as the company's prime source of expert opinion in developing its adjustment program, testifying that initially he understood Collins was employed by Affiliated as a consultant.

Collins testified that he conducted a training session for adjusters, some of whom had no experience in tobacco, at Raleigh on June 25. The adjusters began work in the field the next day.

"I was worried, because they weren't ready ..." Collins said. "Without a shadow of a doubt, there was a climate of 'get on with it.'"

'No Hesitation' As To Nuclear Weapons' Use

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a speech reminiscent of the Cold War era, presidential adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski says the United States would not hesitate to use nuclear weapons against the Soviet Union in the event of a Soviet attack on Western Europe.

Brzezinski told a State Department gathering Wednesday that the Soviets may be tempted to declare war against the NATO allies unless they match the Soviet buildup of nuclear weapons in Europe. Brzezinski is President Carter's national security adviser.

His speech to the Atlantic Treaty Association, a private group that supports NATO, was given against a background of growing European concern over the reliability of the U.S. defense commitment.

The Western European allies have been debating the issue in connection with a U.S. proposal to deploy medium-range missiles in Europe to counter Soviet deployment of comparable weapons.

"Let there be no question about our commitment, nor of our determination to help defend Europe by all means necessary, nuclear and conventional," Brzezinski said.

"The United States commitment to the security of Europe is unshakable, it is organic, it is complete," he said. "We view the security of Western Europe as an extension of our own security."

European concerns about the U.S. commitment were heightened recently when former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger publicly questioned whether the NATO allies could continue to count on U.S. security pledges.

Brzezinski said the alliance would be left at the mercy of the Soviets if it refused to match Moscow's "substantial and sustained" buildup of the nuclear weapons, particularly the SS-20 mobile missile which is capable of reaching targets in Western Europe from Soviet launching sites.

Duffus Named Regional VP

GREENSBORO — Jack Duffus of Greenville has been elected as regional vice president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors following the organization's 58th annual convention here.

J. Harold Craven of High Point, president of Craven-Johnson-Pollock, was named head of the 8,000 state members during the convention.

Ginger Hackett and Oscar Edwards of Greenville were named state directors. Duffus will serve a two-year term, while Hackett and Edwards will serve one-year terms.

Not Diamonds?

PARIS (AP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's office has denied that one of Affiliated's officials, claims supervisor W. J. Ormonds, had described as improper some of the procedures used in settling claims.

The charge that he accepted the gems was made by three leftist opposition newspapers Wednesday, a week after the satirical weekly Canard Enchaîné published what it said was a photostat of a letter signed by Bokassa ordering the set, valued at $250,000, for his official French visitor in April 1973.

The French president's office responded to the newspaper reports with a brief statement saying "the traditional exchanges of gifts, customary when government officials are in foreign countries, in no case have had either the character or the value which have been mentioned by certain press organs regarding Central Africa."

"Ask yourself whether you are happy, and you cease to be so." — John Stuart Mill.

United Way Concedes Should Relax Its Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to complaints from dozens of competing charities, the United Way of America acknowledged today that its virtual lockhold on contributions from government employees should be relaxed.

In a statement prepared for a kickoff hearing by the House subcommittee on civil service, United Way official Marshall S. Harris agreed that current rules governing fund-raising in federal offices "could be modified to allow inclusion of otherwise outstanding groups."

The issue, over which the panel headed by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., has scheduled four days of hearings, centers around practices of the Combined Federal Campaign, in which the United Way plays a predominant role.

Under current rules, the CFC is the only volunteer organization allowed to solicit payroll contributions from the 2.5 million federal employees. Of the $80 million collected annually, about 70 percent goes into United Way coffers while national health agencies such as the American Cancer Society collect 23 percent. Most of the rest goes into international funds such as CARE and Save the Children.

Mrs. Schroeder's panel is looking into whether the distribution formula of CFC is fair to other charities, of which at least 49, operating under the banner of the "National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy," have lodged complaints about the rules.

Under the CFC formula, only those groups that are national in scope and have overhead costs of less than 25 percent are eligible for a chunk of its revenues. That has resulted in about 89 percent of its undesignated funds, and 70 percent of the total, going to United Way.

Ayden Mayor Seat Will See A Contest

AYDEN — Glenn Bowen Jr. has filed to run against incumbent Ross Persinger for the mayoral seat of the Town of Ayden.

Bowen, a lifetime resident of Ayden, serves as a representative for Associated Brokers of Eastern North Carolina, a post he has filled for nine years. He is also owner and operator of B and G Guns, Ayden.

A graduate of Ayden High School, Bowen served four years in the U. S. Navy. He has attended East Carolina University and Lenoir Community College.

Bowen and his wife, Margie, reside on Snow Hill Street. They have three daughters, Tammy, Pat and Karen.

J. A. Butler filed last week for the commissioner's seat now held by Dr. J. Elliott Dixon, who is also seeking re-election.

Butler is sales manager, agent and manager for Southern Life Insurance Company. He has been employed by the company for the past 23 years. He has lived in Ayden since 1956 with his wife, Margaret, and their three sons.

Butler is a member of Liberty F. W. B. Church, where he presently serves as member of the Official Board and Sunday School teacher. He is past president of the Pitt County Life Underwriters.

Kennedy Library Dream Is Nearing Realization

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The famous rocking chair, the carved coconut shell, the doodles and other flotsam and tokens of a lifetime in public office are back together, assembled in the long-delayed John F. Kennedy Library.

In a dramatic glass and concrete building at the edge of Boston Harbor, workers are completing the exhibits that will make the museum section of the library a magnet for tourists and Kennedy buffs.

The Kennedy family is turning the library over to the federal government on Oct. 20. President Carter and dozens of friends and appointees of the late president will attend the official ceremony.

The following Monday, the public will get its first look at what's inside. They will find a sickly displayed collection of the documents, gadgets and trivia that were handled, owned or somehow made special by Kennedy, his ancestors, relatives and political pals.

For 75 cents, they can watch a half-hour movie and browse amid the exhibits, which takes about an hour.

They will see the flag from PT-109 and the coconut on which Kennedy cut a plea for help after the boat sank in World War II, Kennedy's collection of ship models, the gown Jacqueline Kennedy wore to the inauguration, Robert Kennedy's Harvard letter sweater, the family Bible, campaign buttons, and telegrams sent between the president and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev during the Cuban missile crisis.

Their most arresting first impression, though, likely will be the building itself. It is a sculpture of dark glass and gleaming white concrete arranged in three geometric shapes.

The main building, which holds the museum and archives, is a nine-story triangle lying on its side. Its point juts into a soaring glass cube, an empty block crisscrossed by the matrix of steel that holds it all in place. This room, called the pavilion, is decorated only with a flag, and it is the last stop on the museum tour.

Off to one side is a low cir-lar wing that holds the museum's two 300-seat movie theaters. The whole thing fits together like a child's set of blocks. It is expected to attract 1 million visitors during its first year of operation.

Architect I.M. Pei says the building is placed like a lighthouse, sitting at water's edge on Columbia Point, once a city dump.

The Kennedy family reluctantly decided to build the library there after trying futilely for years to locate it near Harvard.

In October 1963, a month before he was assassinated, Kennedy chose a site that held a subway repair yard. He envisioned a scholarly center for political study where he would have an office after the White House years were behind him.

Plans for the library went on after his death, but when the transit authority finally moved the repair yard, nearby residents — worried about traffic jams — threatened to go to court to block construction.

The pavilion and landscaped grounds offer panoramic views of the harbor islands, South Boston and the downtown skyline. By opening day, the builders plan to have Kennedy's yacht, Victoria, resting on a sand dune outside the windows, headed out to sea.

The building was constructed with $18 million raised by donations to a private corporation controlled by the Kennedy family, who also approved the introductory movie and the exhibits. Patricia Lawford, the president's sister, oversaw this part of the project.

The glass-enclosed wall exhibits begin with displays of Kennedy's ancestors and childhood. Brief captions accompany such family mementos as Rose Kennedy's high school diploma and Joseph Kennedy's baseball letter from Boston Latin.

Next come the political campaigns and exhibits of artifacts showing the high points of foreign affairs and such domestic projects as civil rights, the Peace Corps and the space race.

One large case contains the homey memorabilia of Kennedy's cigar cutter, golf clubs, scrimshaw collection and flight jacket. Mini-theaters show tapes of presidential news conferences and scenes from a typical day in the White House. Most of the exhibits are arranged around a large round room that holds a glassed-in replica of the Oval Office as it looked during the Kennedy years. The desk, however, is a copy, because the real one is still in the White House. On the upper floors of the library are the archives, rooms of documents available to scholars but not to visiting tourists. Stored here are the 8.5 million pages of Kennedy's papers, 115,000 photographs, 6 million feet of film and videotape and 1,050 spools of taped interviews.

Some of the displays are still in packing cases, but museum officials promise everything will be ready for opening day.

"It's designed to give people a sense of how the American political system functions," said Director Dan Fenn, "how campaigns are run, what the presidency is all about, relationships with the press and what a cabinet officer does. We hope the museum will give people a little sense of the processes."

FINISHING TOUCHES — Workmen are adding the finishing touches to grounds of the newly completed Kennedy Library. The Library sits on Columbia

Point overlooking Boston harbor and will house memorabilia of the late President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy. (AP Laserphoto)

The names Kaplan and Kay have graced many a bridge column. Here they are again—but with a difference. This time the stars are not Edgar and Norman, but their better halves, Betty and Judy, who are responsible for this hand from the recent Summer National Championship held at the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas.

Betty Kaplan's jump to three hearts on the North hand was preemptive—after a double, the only strong actions are a redouble or a jump shift. Undaunted, Judy Kay judged that there should be play for four hearts despite the fact that both black kings are badly placed. Since West did not want to lead away from any of his tenaces, he opted for a trump lead. Declarer won in her hand with the queen and led to the king of hearts in dummy to draw the last trump. Now a club to the king lost to the ace, and West speedily shifted to a diamond.

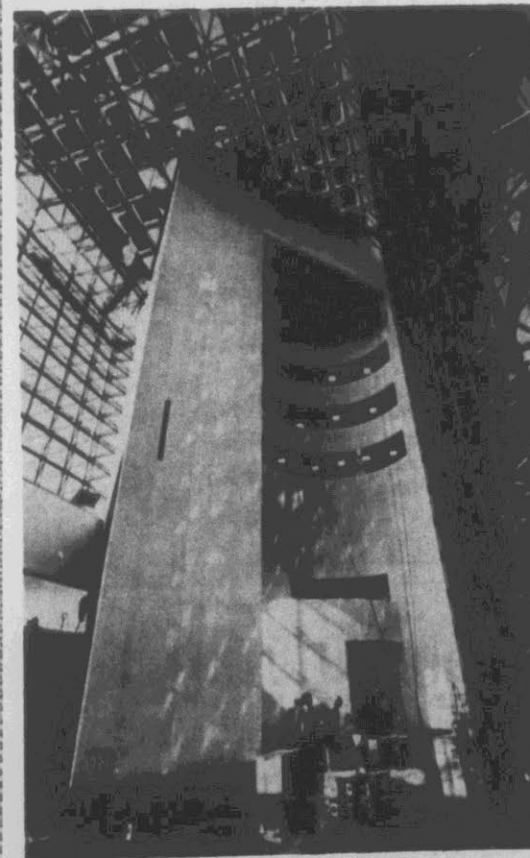

Declarer grabbed the ace of diamonds, finessed the ten of clubs successfully and discarded a diamond on the queen of clubs. A diamond ruff completed the groundwork for a loser-on-loser play, designed to avoid the loss of three spade tricks.

A trump to the ten provided the entry to dummy for a lead of—no, not a spade—a club. When East failed to follow to the trick, as seemed probable because of West's takedown double, the contract became a sure thing. Declarer simply discarded a spade from her hand, allowing West to win the club trick.

West did not enjoy the prospect of having the lead. If he returned a diamond, declarer would ruff in dummy while discarding a spade from her hand. So he tried ace and another spade, but now declarer scored the king of spades for her tenth trick.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.75 to "Goren-Four Deal," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Make checks payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS.

THE PAVILION AREA of the Kennedy Library is near completion for the scheduled dedication by President Jimmy Carter on October 20 along with members of the Kennedy family. (AP Laserphoto)

Bloodmobile Given 766 Pints In Campus Visit

The Bloodmobile concluded a successful two-day visit to East Carolina University on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross said that the college blood drive, sponsored and coordinated by the Air Force ROTC at ECU, resulted in a collection total of 766 pints of blood.

Mrs. Taylor, who noted that the collection figure exceeded the sponsor's goal of 750 pints, reported that Tuesday's visit resulted in the collection of 371 pints of blood and 18 deferrals, while Wednesday's activities saw 395 pints donated and 25 persons deferred.

Mrs. Taylor commended the AFROTC personnel for the "well organized" drive and she offered special appreciation to AFROTC co-chairmen Dianne Snodgrass and Cinda Sherill and Capt. Steve Biestock, Commandant of Cadets.

Tobacco Prices Remain Strong

FARMVILLE — Prices on the Farmville Tobacco Market remained strong Wednesday, notwithstanding the fact that Thursday is the last sales day of the season, said Louis Williams, sales supervisor.

Top prices paid continued at $1.55 to $1.60 per pound, with some less desirable grades a little stronger on the floor. Volume consisted of a variety of grades due to the end of the season. Stabilization receipts accounted for 1.78 percent of gross sales Wednesday.

The market sold 61,100 pounds for $82,372 Wednesday, for an average of $134.82 per 100 pounds. To date, the market has sold 25,990,460 pounds for $37,018,004, an average of $142.24.

AFTER THE HARVEST
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority says it will probably wait until after fall crops are harvested before closing the gates of its Tellico Dam to flood 2,500 acres leased to farmers.

Citing ECU students for their participation in the campus drive, Mrs. Taylor said that, "We are so pleased that young people are still aware of the need for blood and are willing to give of themselves."

Thanks were also expressed to the volunteers, especially student nurses, who assisted and to the campus sororities who furnished sandwiches. Mrs. Taylor thanked the women of the Greenville Service League for their assistance.

The next blood drive in the area will be on Nov. 1 at North Pitt High School. A Jan. 7 visit to Pitt Community College is planned, followed by the next ECU visit on Jan. 29 and 30.

Files For Seat On Grifton Bd.

GRIFTON — Walter O. (Jack) White has filed for a seat on the Grifton Town Board of Commissioners.

White, 44, is a Craven County native. He is a graduate of Jasper High School, and received an associate of applied science degree at Lenoir Community College.

A 15-year resident of Grifton, White served in the U. S. Army for two years, where he served as a member of the Tri-Service Honor Guard for the Far East Command Headquarters.

White, a member of the Grifton First Baptist Church, the Grifton Masonic Lodge and the American Welding Society, is a welding instructor at Lenoir Community College.

Married to the former Betty Lou Ebron of New Bern, the couple has four children.

Delta Chapter Met Tuesday

The Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met Tuesday at St. James United Methodist Church. Hostesses for the meeting were Sue Branch, Madeline Griffin, Doris Rasberry, Eunice Casey and Ella Bonner.

During the meeting, Bonnie Harrington presented the President's pin to Dr. Betty Levey. Dr. Levey highlighted her trip to the International Convention held in Dallas, Texas in July.

Dr. Mary Lois Stator presented Nancy Smith, program director, following the business session.

President Levey announced that a regional Delta Kappa meeting will be held in Wilson Oct. 27.

evening, according to a spokesman at the Pitt Fire Marshal's office.

The spokesman said that the cause of the fire at a house on the Walter Latham farm, located off Rural Paved Road 1400, as well as the extent of damage, was undetermined this morning.

According to the Fire Marshal's office, the blaze was reported at 6:32 p.m. and firemen fought the fire until 8:48 p.m.

No injuries were reported, the spokesman said.

Says Royal Heir Is Playing Field

LONDON (AP) — To all ye young females who harken to be Queen of England, know ye that your prospective spouse is "hot-blooded sexually" and "considerably right of center" but faithful and "will not contemplate taking a mistress after he has taken a bride."

That's the word on Prince Charles from author Anthony Holden, who's new book

"Charles: Prince of Wales" recently went on sale here.

Holden, Washington correspondent for the Sunday newspaper The Observer, says much of his inside material on the heir to the British throne comes from informal chats with the prince.

According to Holden, Charles has been playing the field since Princess Marie-Astrid of Luxembourg dropped out of the picture last year.

No New Filers

FALKLAND — As of this morning, there have been no new filers for the Falkland municipal election set for Nov. 6, Pitt County Board of Elections Supervisor Margaret Register said.

The deadline for filing for the three commissioners' seats and the office of mayor here was extended from Oct. 5 at 5 p. m. to tomorrow at noon, because, prior to the first deadline only two candidates had filed — incumbent Commissioner John Tyer and Woodrow Wooten, incumbent commissioner and Mayor Pro Tempore, chosen following the death of Mayor Oscar Norville last summer.

Asked what will happen if there are no more candidates by noon tomorrow, Miss Register said, "I understand we're to go ahead and hold the election anyway and see if write-ins will fill the other offices."

Church Marking Anniversary

The Evangelistic Tabernacle Pentecostal F. W. B. Church on 264 Bypass West will celebrate its 11th anniversary Sunday, Oct. 14.

Homecoming activities will begin at 10 a. m. with Sunday School, followed by the worship hour at 10:45 a. m.

Featured singers for the occasion will be "The Believers" of Greenville, with the homecoming message delivered by Dr. George Brackman.

A homecoming meal, served in the J. T. Manning Building, will conclude the day's activities. The Rev. Preston Heath, pastor, invites friends of Evangelistic Tabernacle to share in the special. special day.

Freak Snow And Cold Damage To Crops Feared In Virginia

By JEAN-CLAUDE BOUIS

Associated Press Writer
Apple growers in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley were checking today to learn whether a freak autumn snowstorm that set records for cold and snow across the north Atlantic seaboard had damaged their crop.

The storm, which dumped as much as 13 inches of snow in portions of Virginia on Wednesday, had largely subsided early today, with light snow reported only in Augusta and Bangor, Maine.

However, temperatures remained chilly over much of the nation, with readings in the 30s from Minnesota across the Great Lakes and into the north Atlantic Coast.

Half the apple crop remains to be picked in the Shenandoah Valley, and grower Ira Boyers of Tip Top Fruit worried that the snow-covered fruit could be lost if temperatures fell below freezing.

The National Weather Service had issued a frost warning for areas west of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Temperatures dropped to 35 by 4 a. m., but the forecast called for scattered frost by daybreak.

It was the worst early season snowfall in Virginia since the weather service began keeping records in 1872, and more than 200,000 utility customers were without power Wednesday at the peak of the storm. Some isolated areas were still without power today.

In Maryland, farmers said they feared soybean and silage corn crops still in the fields might have been lost when up to 6 inches of snow fell. It was the earliest measurable snowfall in the state's history. It knocked out power to 90,000 homes and forced some schools to close early.

Overall, more than 350,000 customers lost electrical power in five states as snow sent tree limbs still covered with leaves

Carter's Press Office Role Told To Students

"With all the responsibility, it gets pretty scary at times."

Jim Purks, assistant press secretary to President Carter in the Media Affairs office, told a group of East Carolina university journalism students that although he enjoys his job, "there are times when morale is a little bit low around here."

"I enjoy it," he repeated, but added cautiously, "I tell you, there are days when I'm not sure I can cope."

Speaking via telephone from his Washington office, Purks explained the functions of the Media Affairs office and answered a variety of questions from the students.

Purks said he primarily served the out-of-town press, answering letters from the various media outlets. He said his job called for many assignments, "particularly answering complaints."

"The press constantly wants access to the president," Purks said.

He commented that President

Carter will probably conduct his own re-election campaign, after he announces his candidacy.

"I have a feeling he'll probably be out on the road a lot," offered Purks. "He's quite a campaigner and a fighter. Fortunately I've got a boss who doesn't like publicity gimmicks."

Purks, a seven-year veteran of the Associated Press before accepting his current position, reassured the students of Carter's firmness and authority.

Chapter Guest Of Alpha Nu

The Alpha Iota chapter was the guest of Alpha Nu's October meeting celebrating Founder's Day. Joyce Cherry, vice president of District V, Alpha Kappa Alpha, gave a talk concerning increased participation in the women educator's sorority.

Martha Everett, Anne Hardee, Leila Heath, Margaret Norville and Linda Whitehurst assisted Evelyn Finch, president, in presenting the Founder's Day program. Members were reminded of the Oct. 20 District V workshop at Lenoir Community College, as well as the executive board meeting Oct. 25 at the president's home.

Members also discussed plans for observance of Alpha Delta Kappa week, Oct. 7-13. Mrs. Judy Carawan will present a program on Christmas decorations at the Nov. 1 meeting, to be held at the Ramada Inn.

It was the second time in 110 years that snow fell so early in New York City. A trace fell on Oct. 10, 1925, the weather service said.

Forecaster Ben Scott at Newark International Airport blamed the snow on a cold front followed by a "good push of cold Canadian air."

The suburbs of Washington, D.C., experienced the earliest snowfall of the century and slush up to 4 inches deep made driving hazardous.

Records for cold or snow also were set in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. One traffic death in Connecticut was blamed on storm-caused slippery conditions.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day finds conditions dragging, but be patient, and you can accomplish a great deal before the day is through. Be on your best behavior at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to have more harmony at home and then you can have more success in business matters without anxiety. Increase happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Mistakes in reports could occur early in the day but then all straightens itself out later. Steer clear of a troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Consult a financial expert first and then you can invest wisely later. Keep an eye on your wallet or purse or both.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid temperment in morning, whether yours or that of others, then the afternoon runs smoothly. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get rid of worrisome affairs early in the day and then make long-range plans to be more prosperous in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyze why you are failing in gaining personal wishes and rectify errors. Look for quiet pleasure with mate in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't irritate any higher-ups early in the day and then you get support from them later. Obey all rules that apply to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Figure out the best way to get ahead in the future and then be sure to act upon your plans. Plan the weekend activities wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your duties well and know how best to handle them. Don't overlook an important business matter early in the day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Very good morning to be cooperative with associates and then later you gain their support. Take no risks with your reputation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to be more precise in handling your duties and then you gain fine benefits from them. Express happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have something in mind that could lead to trouble, so avoid it. Come to the aid of a loyal friend who needs help now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most successful in life because of the ability to investigate a problem and following through to a happy conclusion. Use gentle form of rearing and prevent your child from becoming hypersensitive.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to fall today as a fresh wave of selling overcame an early rise in prices. Volume was well off the record-setting pace of Wednesday's session.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which plummeted 48.29 points in the first three days of this week, was off 4.18 to 845.14 at noon today.

Declining issues held a 5-4 lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange. Worries about the effects of the Federal Reserve's newly announced credit-tightening actions sent stocks skidding in extremely high volume this week. The Fed's moves sent the prime lending rate up a full point to 14 1/2 percent on Tuesday.

The decline stalled late Wednesday and stock prices be-

LPG Storage Not Yet Dead

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Gulf Interstate Engineering Co. says it is still interested in building a 21-million-gallon liquid propane gas storage facility, despite efforts by Carteret County residents to keep the company out.

Company officials have told county residents the project is looking more attractive because of energy needs and changing international marketing conditions.

In 1978, county residents enlisted the support of Gov. Jim Hunt, who said he would oppose the plant if storage or transport of LPG proved hazardous to local residents. A spokesman for the governor said Hunt still holds that position.

The $25-million storage facility would be operated by other companies under a contract agreement. The terminal would be located on Radio Island near the State Ports Authority facility.

C.T. Wells, president of Gulf Interstate, said the company would pursue the project when economic conditions became favorable. He discussed the project in meetings last week sponsored by the Carteret County Economic Development Council.

Opponents have claimed that the highly flammable LPG could pose a safety hazard. An informal organization, Citizens Awareness and Action Group, was formed last year to monitor the project.

Hunt Missing Hospital Radium

DETROIT (AP) — A search is on for a silver- and gold-colored metal tube containing highly radioactive radium missing from Sinai Hospital in Detroit, officials said.

A physicist reported the tube — about three-quarters of an inch long and a quarter of an inch in diameter — missing Monday. A two-day search failed to turn up the radium, which is used to treat cancer patients. "If a person were to find the source and place it in a pocket, severe tissue damage could result from exposure of less than a couple hours," Donald E. Von Farowe, a state Public Health Department spokesman said Wednesday.

Trident Launch Again Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy says it conducted a second successful demonstration launch of a Trident I missile Sept. 26 from the submerged submarine USS Francis Scott Key.

The key is the first of 12 Poseidon-class missile submarines to be converted for use with longer-range Trident missiles. The intercontinental ballistic missile eventually will replace Poseidon and Polaris missiles, which have a maximum range of 2,880 miles. The Navy says the Trident I can be aimed at targets 4,600 to 6,900 miles away. The Navy said Wednesday the latest launch was from "a broad ocean area." Previous launches were 50 miles off Cape Canaveral.

Denies Abuse By Authorities

MOSCOW (AP) — The mother of ballet dancer Leonid Kozlov says she and the mother of her son's ballerina wife have not been abused by Soviet authorities since their children defected to the West in September.

Kozlov's wife told a New York press conference Monday that her mother had told her things were "going very badly for her" in the Soviet Union since the defection, but Leonid's mother said neither family had suffered.

Early Birds Get All They Need, 5-4

Pitching For The Birds

Halo And Horns: Doug DeCinces

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's hard to fit a halo over a pair of horns, but Baltimore's Doug DeCinces pulled off the bizarre hero-goat double spectacularly in his first World Series baseball game Wednesday night.

He had no boasts and no apologies. "Just say I had an important role in the game, pro and con," he said good humoredly in assessing his two-run homer in the first inning and a pair of errors in the sixth that put him in the record books.

His home run — in his first at-bat — provided the margin of the Orioles' 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the chill of Memorial Stadium. Then his two rare bloopers — followed by another miscue for which he was not charged — helped the Pirates in their bid to pluck the game out of the embers.

The tall, handsome California native was a man on the spot as he took his position at third base, a position occupied for more than two decades by a ball-hawking Houdini named

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — All season long, the Baltimore Orioles have been typed as a club lacking superstars but a club that has the knack of doing just what it takes to win.

That's exactly what the American league champions did in Wednesday night's first game of the World Series as they beat the National League's Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4.

The Orioles, of course, didn't know it at the time. But they needed a World Series opening-game record of five runs in the first inning to win.

And that's just what they got. It was just enough to hold off the usual late charge of the Pirates, who had won 25 games in the regular season in the ninth inning.

The key play and big hit came in that Orioles first inning, almost before a crowd of 53,735 could get comfortable on a 41-degree night.

The rain and snow that made the field spongy and the game doubtful for a good part of Wednesday, took its toll on the Pittsburgh defense in the first.

Al Bumbry opened for Baltimore with a single on the first pitch from Pirates right-hander Bruce Kison. Then, Kison, who had difficulty with his breaking ball, walked .167 hitter Mark Belanger.

The runners moved to second and third on an infield out, and Eddie Murray walked loading the bases. Then, came THE play.

John Lowenstein bounced what appeared to be an inning-ending doubleplay to sure-handed Phil Garner at second. Garner, however, wheeled and threw the ball into left field, two runs scoring.

The ball was soaking wet, Garner said. It was like a bar of soap.

Kison, a September hero with a 4-0 record in the Pirates' drive to the NL East title, was gone before the inning ended. He threw a wild pitch that allowed Murray to score, and finally delivered a 3-1 pitch that Doug DeCinces slammed for a two-run homer.

The Pirates could have died right there, but that wasn't the way they got to the 76th World Series. Slowly but surely they crawled back against left-hander Mike Flanagan, the biggest winner in the major leagues this season with 23 victories.

Four Pittsburgh relievers held the Orioles to just one hit through the last 61-3 innings.

But the damage was done. DeCinces' game winning homer made him the 15th player to hit a home run in his first World Series at bat.

DeCinces, the Orioles third baseman who made only 13 errors all season, set another record, one he'd like to forget. He was charged with two errors in one inning.

That tied a record set in 1910 by Harry Steinfeldt of the Chicago Cubs.

Steinfeldt is the answer to one of baseball's most famous trivia questions. Who was the third baseman in the Cubs' infield that contained the Joe Tinker to Johnny Evers to Frank Chance double play combination?

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner admitted that the first game was important, but he'd settle for a split by winning tonight's second game in the best of seven Series.

"Then we'll be going home for three games," Tanner said. Tanner said the Pirates were no way in a state of shock after the Orioles' big first inning.

"We've been behind by five runs before and come back," said the Pittsburgh field boss, who is in his first World Series.

What troubled Tanner was that the Orioles hit only two balls well off Kison. But the Pirates right-hander threw 27 pitches in his one-third of an inning, 16 out of the strike zone and 11 in.

Kison said it was a miserable night to play baseball for both clubs. He said the ball felt very slick, and he didn't have any sensitivity or feeling.

"However, I seemed to be the only one who had problems. The ground ball to me in the first inning should have been a double play," he said. He was referring to a Ken Singleton topper toward the mound, a possible double play ball which turned into just an out at first.

Pirates captain Willie Stargell insisted everyone forget the weather conditions.

"Flanagan had a darn good fastball aid a good slow curve," said Stargell. In the ninth inning, with the tying run at second, Stargell popped out to end the game.

"If I didn't get under it," Stargell said, "it might have been another home run."

The Pirates' comeback started in the fourth on singles by Tim Foli and Dave Parker, who had four hits. The run scored on a Stargell groundout.

In the sixth, Parker and Bill Robinson singled, and Garner eventually drove them home with a bases-loaded single.

Stargell made it 5-4 in the eighth with a prodigious home run over the right field wall. Parker singled in the ninth, and after being picked off first by Flanagan, slid into second and knocked the ball out of short-stop Mark Belanger's glove for an error.

But Robinson and Stargell couldn't get him home. Flanagan said he won the game with his change up and side arm curveball.

"I thought I had a pretty good changeup," Flanagan said. "I wanted to go with it because they are a pretty good fastball hitting club — I was impressed the way they hit the fastball."

Flanagan said the Pirates shot down the lefty-lefty theory. "They run like Kansas City and have the power like Milwaukee. Parker was impressive. I didn't make the pitches on him. They were down the middle. I was trying to go in and out on him," Flanagan said.

In today's second game, right-hander Bert Blyleven, 13-5, goes for the Pirates against Jim Palmer, 10-6, also a right-hander.

ECC Race Settles Down To Three Teams

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

With the high school football season now half complete, the race in the Eastern Carolina Conference is beginning to clear. Although five weeks still remain in the season, three schools have established themselves at the top of the heap.

Farmville and Southern Nash, as they have done since the start of the year, continue to share the league lead with 4-0 marks.

The Jaguars, winners of 27 consecutive ECC games over a three-year span, defeated a scrappy D.H. Conley squad, 23-0. The win upped Farmville's overall record to 5-0.

The Firebirds remained tied for the lead with a 3-1-1 record over North Lenior. Southern Nash has the best overall record in the conference, at 6-0.

Ayden-Grifton, still to play both the Jaguars and the Firebirds, outpointed an improving North Pitt team, 48-28. The Chargers are 3-1 in the ECC, 4-2 overall.

Greene Central, the only team to defeat Ayden-Grifton in the conference so far, won its second straight, after losing two of its first three early in the season, sweeping Southwest Edgecombe, 42-0. The Rams are 2-2 in the ECC, 3-3 overall.

In other games last week, Roanoke nipped Plymouth, 12-8. Jamestown remained the only undefeated 1-A team, rolling past Aurora, 23-6, and Williamson won its fifth straight without a loss, upending Washington, 27-3.

This week's ECC schedule includes D.H. Conley at Ayden-Grifton, Greene Central at C.B. Aycock, North Lenior at Farmville Central and North Pitt at Southwest Edgecombe. Southern Nash has an open date.

Also this week, Washington travels to Roanoke, Tarboro goes to Williamston and Matamuskett travels to Jamesville.

Ayden-Grifton
Ayden-Grifton Coach Dixon Sauls is still not sure how good his team is, despite a 48-28 win over the Panthers of North Pitt.

"We still don't have a true picture of our players, or of our team," Sauls said. "North Pitt, going into the game, was crippled and we can't really be sure about our team yet."

Sauls did, however, like what he saw offensively, as his squad rolled up nearly 400 yards in total offense. "We were able to establish our outside running game, and as I said before, Calvin Ellison had an outstanding game," Sauls said.

Ellison, who gained 218 yards rushing, will again be counted on heavily to provide much of the offense for the Chargers as they play host Friday to D.H. Conley.

Ellison may have to carry more than his normal share of the burden this week because of two key injuries. The Chargers, who are still in the hunt for the conference crown, will be without flanker Timmy Edwards and may be without star fullback Billy Holland for the third consecutive week.

Holland, listed as a doubtful starter by Sauls, injured an ankle three weeks ago and has not fully recovered. Edwards, who also plays defensive back for the Chargers and who Sauls called the "best all-around athlete on the team," suffered a hip injury against North Pitt and has been lost for the season.

Timmy Roberts will replace Edwards at flanker while Vance Barfield will take over Edwards' defensive back position.

Add this to Sauls' feelings that D.H. Conley will "have a definite size advantage," and the Chargers may find out quite a bit about themselves.

"I feel like we'll have to play a very physical game against them to win," Sauls said. "We'll definitely have to play better defense than we did against North Pitt."

D.H. Conley

Viking Coach Jimbo Walker is, one, proud of the way his team played against Farmville Central, despite losing 23-0 to the Jaguars, and, two, glad to have that game behind him.

"Damn right I was scared," Walker said. "You hear so much about Farmville, and in the past we've gone up there and really not played football. This year, though, we made them beat us. We didn't just roll over.

A-G's Lawrence Hardy

"All week we talked to them (the players) about Farmville," Walker said. "We hadn't been getting after them (opponents) like we had done in the past. We did that against Farmville."

This week, the Vikings, now 1-2 in the ECC, 2-2-1 overall, travel to Ayden-Grifton to take on the Chargers.

"Ayden-Grifton seems to have a pretty quick team," Walker said. "In the past, D.H. Conley has not been able to beat them.

"I hope this week, with the confidence we hopefully gained in playing Farmville, we'll be able to win," he said.

Farmville Central
Last Friday night, Farmville Central ran up nearly 350 yards in total offense, scored 23 points against none for D.H. Conley, and won its 27th consecutive ECC game, and with all this, Jaguar Coach Gene Brewer was far from satisfied by his squad's performance.

"I don't think they were ready to play. I don't really know why, I just don't think they were mentally prepared to play football," Brewer said.

"Offensively, I wasn't pleased with anything we did. We fumbled three times, were intercepted once and had a lot of penalties."

This week, the Jaguars play host to North Lenior and Brewer said his squad will be working all week to try to eliminate its errors.

"We're going to try to work out our getting so many penalties," he said. "We're going to work on our pass offense, which just isn't clicking. We had receivers open Friday night, and they'd drop the pass, and then we'd overthrow open receivers."

As for North Lenior, which last week lost to Southern Nash, 33-12, Brewer said the Hawks are somewhat of a surprise team this year.

"They lost a number of good players last year and they're but they're a lot better than I anticipated at the beginning of the season," Brewer said.

"They're a fairly good size team and have two pretty good running backs and their quarterback can throw the ball real well."

DHC's Jeff Gould

North Pitt
The Panthers had something they have had few of all season long: a good, hard-hitting practice, with everyone in attendance.

"We had an exceptionally good practice," Panther Coach Pat Smith said. "We had the hardest hitting I think I've seen all year."

"A lot of that, I think, had to do with the fact that some of the guys suspended will be coming back, and they know they have a chance to play this week. They worked hard, they earned it," Smith said.

Four players—all of whom start for Smith—return this week for the Panthers to face Southwest Edgecombe, which has had some problems of its own.

"They've been having some trouble on offense," Smith said. "But their defense is pretty good."

"They've only scored 19 points so far, but it's homecoming and I look for them to be up for the game. One of us is going to get out of the cellar."

Southwest is 0-3 in the ECC, 1-4 overall, while the Panthers are 0-4 in the ECC and 1-4 overall.

No Worries From Parker—He Did Job

BALTIMORE (AP) — With his bat, his glove and a well-placed foot, Dave Parker led a Pittsburgh Pirate comeback that came up short.

"I gave 100 per cent. I'll sleep well and come back tomorrow," Parker said Wednesday night after Baltimore beat Pittsburgh 5-4 in the opening game of the World Series on a chilly and damp evening.

Orioles starting pitcher Mike Flanagan went the distance after being staked to a 5-0 lead in a first inning that was as dismal as the weather for Pirate pitcher Bruce Kison and second baseman Phil Garner.

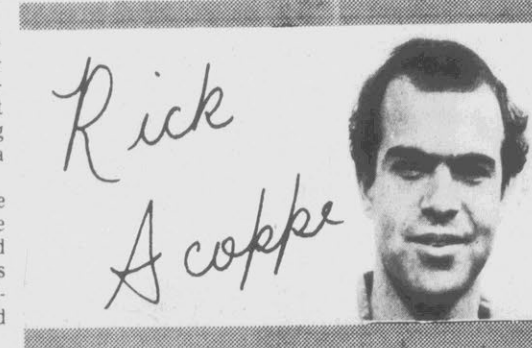

But Parker, playing in his first World Series, showed why the Pirates are paying him an estimated $1 million per season.

"This is the World Series. This is for all the marbles. I played my best baseball, aggressive baseball," said Parker, who went 4-for-5 with a double and three singles.

In the seventh inning, Parker ran down a long fly ball by Doug DeCinces despite the soggy turf in right center to cut off a Baltimore run.

In the Pittsburgh ninth, Parker singled with one out. Attempting to steal second, he was picked off by Flanagan. First baseman Eddie Murray toss to shortstop Mark Belanger at second base got there well ahead of Parker. But Parker kicked the ball out of Belanger's glove on his slide and was safe.

Notes on the ECC
Farmville Central's undefeated Jaguars lead the Eastern Carolina Conference in nearly every statistical category going into the sixth week of the season.

The Jaguars, who share the ECC lead with Southern Nash, lead in seven of the eight team categories. Farmville is tops in scoring per game (35.5), rushing (295 yards per contest), passing yards (103 per game) and total offense (nearly 400 yards per contest).

Defensively, the Jaguars are tops in points allowed (2.6 a game), yards rushing (80 a contest) and total offense (108 a game).

North Pitt is tops in defending against the pass, allowing only 27 yards per outing.

Farmville players also top many of the individual categories.

Donald Reid of Farmville leads the conference in rushing with 536 yards, followed by Anthony Crumel of Southern Nash with 526 and Calvin Ellison with 525.

Reid also leads in points scored with 55. Crumel is second with 40 and David Pope of Southern Nash and Donald Shaw of Greene Central are tied for third with 36 points.

Eugene Joyner, also of Farmville, leads in passing yards with 468, followed by Paul Morgan of Southern Nash with 410 yards and Ken Johnson of Greene Central with 280.

Johnson also leads the league in punting with a 41.9-yard average on 19 punts. Guy Sanderson is second with a 40.3 average and George Harrison of Southern Nash is third with a 35.1-yard average.

Leading pass receivers include Wayne Grady of Southern Nash (14 catches for 197 yards), Donald Reid seven for 141 and Timmy Edwards of Ayden-Grifton (seven for 123).

Moore Helps Panther Cause

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL — It was early in last Friday night's game between Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt. The Chargers had just scored to go up 7-0.

Following the kickoff, Panther tailback Terry Moore took his accustomed position in the backfield. With the snap, Moore was off, taking the handoff from quarterback Bob Hemingway and slanting to the left.

Eluding one potential tackler, Moore slid to the outside on his way to a 59-yard scoring jaunt.

Later, Moore would score again, on a 28-yard run; he would also gain 140 yards rushing. But it wouldn't be enough, as the Panthers were again beaten, 48-28.

It's been that kind of year for Moore and North Pitt.

After opening the season with a 27-0 win over Enfield, the Panthers have lost five straight going into Friday's game with Southwest Edgecombe.

The Panthers have had a number of problems, the major one being the suspension, early in the year, of 11 players for breaking training rules. Only three of those 11 were suspended for the season, with the remaining eight allowed to return after a week's leave.

This week, four of those players return.

Amid the turmoil, Terry Moore has continued to play consistent football. Moore has scored six touchdowns and rushed for 439 yards in five games.

"Terry's been consistent for us," Coach Smith said. "We know he'll be there every week. He's a silent leader we count on. He's not the real mouthy-type of player. He just does a good job."

Moore, although admitting he is a little disappointed with the season so far, said he expects the team to still have a successful year.

"We've lost a number of offensive linemen but we're always trying to do our best," Moore said. "We've got four players coming back this week and that should help us."

"Friday after we lost, I heard some guys in the lockerroom already saying we had to get ready for this week's game. Everybody was saying let's do our best to win this week," Moore said.

"We need to concentrate on the games ahead of us. That's what Coach Smith is always telling us. He helps us do this. When we lose, he tells us to look to the next game. Go on to the next one," Moore said.

Moore, who suffers from asthma, which limits his playing time on defense to only crucial situations, is among the most important players the Panthers have on offense, Smith said.

"He means a lot to us, as much as any one else we have out there on offense," Smith said of the 5'10", 175 pound senior. "He's the workhorse of the team."

Cubs Rip Bruins

STANTONSBURG — Rose High School's junior varsity football team romped to a 41-7 victory over Wilson's Beddingfield High School yesterday.

The Rampant Cubs pushed over three scores in the first quarter to put the game on ice. The first came on a 50-yard pass from Barry Smith to Marty Tyson, with Mike Thurber adding the extra point.

Later in the period, Robert Brown broke away to go 65 yards for the second touchdown, making it 14-0.

Finally, Wayne Joyner picked up a Baby Bruin fumble and carried it 42 yards back to inside the ten before he was stopped. Smith finally went over from the one for the third score and Rose held a 21-0 lead.

In the second period, Brown scored his second touchdown on a four-yard run, giving the Cubs a 28-0 halftime lead.

Rose added two more in the third period. The first came when Johnny Green blocked a punt at about the third, and Jule Budack picked it up and carried it into the end zone. Thurber's fifth kick made it 35-0.

Smith finished off the scoring with his second touchdown, another one-yard plunge.

Beddingfield's only score came late in the game on a one-yard dive.

The win boosted the Cub record to 5-1. They travel to Bertie next Thursday.

Pirates Top Southern Group In Offense

East Carolina University, 134.0 per game. despite an open date last weekend, continues to lead the 13 Southern Independent schools in both total offense and rushing offense.

According to statistics released this week, the Pirates are averaging rolling up 414.0 yards a game, well ahead of Virginia Tech's second place figure of 385.8 yards a contest.

The Pirates are picking up 304.2 yards a game, on the ground, while South Carolina is second. The Gamecocks are averaging 259.4 yards a contest.

Through the air, East Carolina ranks 11th among the 13 schools, picking up 109.8 yards per game. The leader is Tennessee State with a 237.6 yards per game average.

On the other side of the coin, East Carolina ranks eighth in total defense, giving up 317.0 yards a game. Florida State, ranked in the top ten nationally, is at the top allowing just 186.4 yards per game.

Against the rush, Florida State is also the leader, giving up just 80 yards a game. East Carolina ranks ninth, allowing 169.0.

Against the pass, the Pirates are tenth, allowing 148.0 per game. Northeastern Louisiana is the leader, allowing 67.8 per game.

Tulane's Roch Hontas is the Southern Independent leader in total offense, picking up 234.8 yards a game. Leander Green of East Carolina ranks sixth with the top six. Likewise, in receiving, there are no East Carolina players listed. Mike Jones of Tennessee State is the leader, having caught 23 passes.

The Pirates, after their week off, return to action Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., playing host to The Citadel for the annual Homecoming game.

Halo....

Brooks Robinson. DeCinces inherited the hot spot in 1976 after Robinson's retirement.

Ironically, it was Robinson who was called upon to throw out the first ball and to toss it to his successor.

"He told me he was going to bounce it to me," DeCinces said in the locker room afterward. "Then he said 'Go get 'em.' I told him all I wanted to do was follow in his footsteps and some day win a Most Valuable Player award."

The shadow of the great Brooks Robinson has hovered over the 29-year-old, sure-handed infielder ever since he inherited the assignment, but it hasn't awed him.

"It wasn't easy for me to replace the man," he said. "He was the greatest third baseman ever. It was tough at first. The fans resented me. They wanted to see Brooks out there. But I've gradually won them over."

Fans have seen visions of Robinson in his successor. DeCinces has dazzled all of baseball with his range, speed, sure glove and deadly arm which suddenly came apart in the chill and slippery conditions of the opening Series game.

DeCinces joined a select group of 15, including Brooks Robinson, who have hit home runs in their first World Series at bat. In making two errors in one inning, the third baseman had the dubious distinction of matching a man named Harry Steinfield, the last and only other one so charged who did it 69 years ago — with the Chicago Cubs against the Philadelphia A's.

Asked at the postgame news conference how it felt to be bracketed with Steinfield, DeCinces replied: "It's great to hit a home run the first time at bat."

State Traffic

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Athletic officials at North Carolina State have some advice for football fans planning to attend Saturday's game against Maryland: Come early and pick your route carefully.

The Highway Patrol expects more than 100,000 people to be in the vicinity of Carter-Finley Stadium Saturday. The stadium is adjacent to the fairgrounds, where the State Fair opens at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Officials said that fans who want to be in their seats by kickoff should plan to be in the general vicinity of the stadium no later than 11 a.m.

The same advice was issued for the N.C. State-North Carolina game Oct. 20 at Carter-Finley Stadium.

Fans were urged not to use Hillsborough Street to get to the stadium from Raleigh. When going from Raleigh via Wade Avenue and Interstate 40, avoid Blue Ridge Road but get into the left lane and travel past the exit to Gate E, watching for signs that say "Stadium Traffic," officials said.

Greenville Clean-Up Project Planning Is Outlined

The Beautification, Cleanup and Litter Control Committee of the City of Greenville met yesterday.

Mayo Allen, Director of the Greenville Public Works Department, introduced three representatives of the N. C. Department of Transportation

— Horace Vincent, Carl Boyd and O. L. Potter.

They informed the committee of the N. C. DOT's "Clean Up Litter" project to be held throughout the state during the week of Oct. 15-20. They explained that state crews will concentrate efforts outside city limits and that individual and group volunteers will be needed to pick up litter along streets within city limits which are maintained by the State. In Greenville, these include the 264 Bypass, Greene Street, Charles Street, Tenth Street, and Fourteenth Street. Collection bags will be provided by DOT workers, who will collect the filled bags and dispose of them. Organizations or individuals wanting to take part in the "Clean Up Litter" project are urged to call Mayo Allen at 752-4137 for instructions on obtaining bags and having locations designated for them.

A motion was approved for the committee to work with the guidelines and assistance of the "Positive Litter Reduction" program which has been established in many cities throughout the nation under the sponsorship of the U. S. Brewers' Association.

Endorsement of this affiliation is being requested by the City Council.

Lynn Olmstead of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce reported on two proposals for the Greenville area: the planting of trees on school property to begin Dec. 1 and a pilot project for tree planting along Arlington Boulevard. These plans are to be considered for approval by the city soon. The committee gave endorsement to both projects.

ference in temperature.

— Up to 50 percent more electricity is required to cool buildings if adjacent trees are removed.

— In parking lots and on paved streets, when the temperature outside is 84 degrees, the temperature of the pavement will be 108 degrees or more if there are no trees to shade it; 88 degrees if there are trees.

— Trees provide a windbreak, reducing air infiltration through windows.

The Committee was reminded that the City of Greenville has a tree ordinance for the regulation of planting, maintenance and removal of trees on city property and pruning and treating of trees, a master street tree plan, and an arborist on the city staff.

The Committee passed a resolution to change its regular meeting time to the first Wednesday of each month at noon.

Dog-Hunters Found Body

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two men searching for a lost dog Tuesday found the body of A. Nelson Warner, a board member of the Asheville Art Museum.

The body was discovered in the French Broad River, about seven miles north of Marshall in Madison County. Warner's locked car was found on the bank of the French Broad River in Asheville shortly after his disappearance Sept. 12.

Police searched in helicopters and with a specially trained dog for Warner for several days after he disappeared.

Warner had been involved in a dispute with the museum's director over an armor collection. Warner had been instrumental in bringing the collection to Asheville. The museum director resigned after the dispute.

The body has been sent to the medical examiner's office in Chapel Hill for an autopsy. The cause of Warner's death has not been determined.

Warner had been a manager of employee communications and public relations for the Ecusta Paper and Film Group plant of the Olin Corp. at Pisgah Forest. He was a former staff member of The Asheville Citizen, The Greensboro Record and The Burlington Times-News.

NEW LEASE ON LIFE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's recruiting center at Ft. Dix, N.J., has a new lease on life. The Pentagon said Wednesday it had changed its mind and decided not to close the base as planned.

Taking Course In Chapel Hill

Gail B. Meeks, assistant to the city manager here, is enrolled in the Institute of Government's course in municipal administration in Chapel Hill.

The course provides practical advanced training in municipal government. Subjects to be covered include management responsibilities of municipal administrators and special problems in finance, planning, and personnel.

Over 1,000 municipal officials from throughout the state have attended the course since it was first organized 25 years ago.

Allen reported that some of the efforts by the city to plant trees have been hampered by vandalism. In some cases, the expense of the trees was too great to continue replacing those which were destroyed. He requested support from the committee in trying to prevent such destruction and waste.

Robert Tugwell, Energy Services Officer in the Department of Energy Conservation and Management of the Greenville Utilities Commission was a guest of the committee and reported on some aspects of tree removal and planting as they relate to energy use and conservation.

N.C. Hunger Coalition Active Again In Pitt

The North Carolina Hunger Coalition is active once again in Pitt County.

The goal of the Hunger Coalition, according to its Pitt County coordinator-advocate, William Monk, is "to eliminate hunger in North Carolina through improvement and expansion of the Federal Food Program.

Though the Food Stamp Program remains the focal point of the Coalition's energies, the Hunger Coalition continues its support of varied hunger efforts, Monk added.

He said the Coalition relies heavily on (1) a county-wide volunteer task force made up of citizens who are committed to alleviating the program of hunger and malnutrition within Pitt County; (2) a full-time coordination advocate who supervises the outreach drive and recruits and trains volunteers—Monk's job; and (3) involvement of local citizens. In order to be successful, the drive must draw from all existing resources in the county for volunteers and referral, he said. "Because the majority of persons who need Food Stamps are located out in the county, the Coalition strongly urges use of the satellite certification stations located in Farmville, Bethel, Grimesland, Grifton, and Ayden.

Volunteers are needed to distribute literature, inform, transport clients and pre-screen, Monk said. In pre-screening, a volunteer lets a potential client know if he or she may be eligible for Food Stamps. Anyone who has questions about the program or who wishes to volunteer is asked to call the N. C. Hunger Coalition at 758-5667 from 9 to noon or the Food Stamp Office, 758-2167.

Tar Heel Minneapolis Founder

By Dr. H.G. JONES
 For The Associated Press
 CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — In Minnesota, William Winford Wales is honored as one of the founders of the great city of Minneapolis. Yet his name appears nowhere among the biographical directories of his native North Carolina.

A chance discovery of his papers during a recent visit to the Minnesota Historical Society yielded the story of a man who, at the age of 74, returned to his native state and devoted the remainder of his life to the welfare of his fellow citizens.

Born in March 1818 in Iredell County, young William Wales in 1851 traveled by stage and canal boat to Cincinnati, thence down the Ohio and up the Mississippi by steamer to St. Paul, the capital of the Minnesota territory.

From there they took the stage a few miles to the Falls of St.

Anthony, a little community of about 300 people. He opened the first book store in the area, and his little shop soon became for culture-hungry frontiersmen a sort of social center.

His arrival coincided with the rapid increase of the population of St. Anthony and the beginning of the twin community of Minneapolis across the river. He was soon elected town clerk, then to membership on the local school board.

When St. Anthony was incorporated, Wales became its mayor.

In 1857, Wales served in the territorial legislature and as a member of the upper house he played a dramatic parliamentary role in blocking an effort to move the territorial seat of government from St. Paul to St. Peter. Minnesota was admitted to the Union the following year.

During the Civil War, he served as postmaster of St. Anthony.

Minneapolis outgrew St. Anthony, and the two cities were merged. Wales wrote the first history of the combined cities and henceforth was prominent in the business affairs of Minneapolis.

His business acumen and political positions masked an intensely religious sensitivity. A biographer wrote of Wales, a Quaker, "his catholic spirit was larger than sect or denomination, and recognized the good of humanity wherever it was found in whatever form expressed."

His influence among others was described as "that of a quiet spirit, like the falling of the gentle warm spring rains, which cause the earth to respond in a renewal of life."

As he grew older, William Wales was more and more drawn to make a bold decision—perhaps one that he wished he had made in his youth.

He was not a wealthy man, but his family lived comfortably. There were millions of others, however, who lived under conditions of privation—and many of those people inhabited the mountains not far from the place of his birth.

His restlessness won out, and as he approached the age of 75, William Winford Wales gave up his business and the comforts of a fine home. They were replaced by the life of a missionary in the most remote mountain regions of North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

On Aug. 1, 1882, Wales wrote his old friend Calvin Cowles of Wilkes County, "Am on my way to N. C. where I suppose I shall find my future field of labor."

Found Discarded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is temporarily refusing to grant new furniture contracts for federal agencies after good quality desks and chairs were found dumped in trash bins at the Agriculture Department.

Rowland G. Freeman III, head of the General Services Administration, said Wednesday he will sign no new furniture contracts until safeguards are put in place to prevent the waste of usable furniture.

His moratorium has already been challenged in court by the low bidder on three pending furniture contracts. The firm, Art Metal Inc., claims that the GSA is illegally discriminating against it.

Freeman's announcement before a Senate subcommittee came after a congressional investigator estimated that federal agencies could be wasting nearly $200 million a year on unneeded, new furniture.

The investigator, Paul Granetto, said large amounts of usable government furniture are apparently being discarded.

AMISH HARASSMENT — This quiet scene of an Amish man and his son raking hay in Adams County (Indiana) is often interrupted by an increasing number of incidents of Amishmen being harassed around the community of Berne, Ind. Recently a baby was killed

City Will Raise Taxes For Heart Transplant

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — The governing body of this city of 70,000 has decided to raise taxes so Framingham can provide $60,000 to a sick, retired firefighter who needs a life-saving heart transplant. After a 45-minute town meeting debate Wednesday night, members lifted their hands and voted 104-13 to approve the appropriation for Frederic Kelley, a 39-year-old father of five. "The vote showed the people of Framingham have a heart," said John DelPrete, chairman of the Framingham Board of Selectmen, whose decisions are ratified by the 210-member town meeting.

Doctors had given Kelley six months to a year to live without the operation. He had suffered two heart attacks since July 1978 and retired on disability last month.

Doctors had given Kelley six months to a year to live with out the operation. He had suffered two heart attacks on the job since July 1978 and retired on disability last month. "It's over finally," said Kelley, who stayed home from the debate because physicians feared the tension might bring on another heart attack. "It was a long wait but it was worth it. It's the biggest thing that ever happened in my life."

Kelley's wife, Evelyn, 38, and daughter Kathy, 20, silently watched the debate in the Framingham Memorial Hall. Mrs. Kelley trembled as the vote was taken, and when it was over, cried out in relief, embraced her daughter and wept.

"I can't say anything," she said. "I just want to call my husband and tell him."

Although most speakers favored giving Kelley the money, the town meeting members had demanded a debate to discuss setting a precedent for other municipal employees with extraordinary medical expenses.

The appropriation will increase local property taxes 10 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation, officials said. Framingham's town meeting, a limited version of the 200-year-old form of government still popular in many Massachusetts communities, had previously agreed unofficially to pay the money.

Pupils Told Of Coon-Hunting

Bud Clemons was a special guest for the Rotation Reading students of Wellcome Middle School recently. He described coon hunting experiences and displayed many items used in coon hunting.

The students especially enjoyed Clemons' demonstration of a whistle used to trick the raccoon, their teacher said. Clemons is the retired custodian of the school.

Marine Exercise Marred By Weather, Surprise

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Bad weather and a number of delays brought the deployment of Marines for a mock assault on Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, almost to a standstill Wednesday.

The exercise, ordered by President Carter last week as a show of United States military muscle in the face of Soviet troops stationed in Cuba, was dubbed "Operation Reinforce."

But several setbacks cropped up along the way. The ships for the expedition were assigned on Oct. 2, but they arrived at Morehead City, the state port, one week late on Tuesday. It had taken four days to load food and one ship arrived without the required combat supplies.

Bad weather created high seas Wednesday, making it tough for pilots to land crafts used to ferry soldiers and equipment to the ships. The unit was scheduled to move into the Atlantic late Wednesday night for the trip to Cuba, but officials were expected to continue loading the ships through midnight and then move out early today.

"This was a complete surprise to us," said Navy Commander Bill Shannon, in charge of supplies on the USS Nassau, one of the three ships. "It took us four days to load the food."

He said food was loaded from barges at sea near Norfolk. Usually, he said, it is loaded from a dock, where it can be driven aboard by tractors, a quicker process.

The actual date of the mock attack is being kept a secret, according to Col. Lou Piantadof, commander of the operation. The Marines began moving equipment into Morehead City from Camp Lejeune, Tuesday night and troops from Camp Lejeune, the New River Air Station and Cherry Point arrived by bus on Wednesday.

The three ships — The USS Nassau, the USS Plymouth Rock and the USS Spartanburg County — arrived at Morehead City on Tuesday to begin taking on men and equipment. Norfolk, Va., is home port for all three ships.

The Nassau, commissioned only three months ago, is a helicopter-launch vessel. It is anchored off Morehead City because of its size.

The Plymouth Rock is capable of moving within 500 feet of a beach and unloading supplies onto a portable causeway, while the Spartanburg County is an amphibious vessel with similar capabilities.

"This mission shows we have the resolve and capability to go into Guantanamo Bay and defend the area," Piantadof said. "It's going to tell the Russians that the Corps is an efficient operation."

The Marine units made up of 1,200 combat-equipped personnel, a 300-member logistics support unit and a 300-member helicopter squad.

It was equipped with five tanks, 15 halftracks, a battery of 105mm howitzers, eight anti-tank guns, eight 81mm mortars, 35 heavy machine guns and 26 helicopters. It carried 40 tons of live ammunition, said by officials to be enough to last three to five days under battle conditions.

Military officials said the exercise is no different in size or in routine than other regular deployments.

"The only difference with this force is the showing of the flag kind of thing and the political implications," said Capt. John Camp Lejeune.

implications," said Capt. John Camp Lejeune.

Celebrating ADK Week

The Alpha Nu chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa has been busy during the past week observing "Alpha Delta Kappa Week."

The Alpha Nu chapter, the Pitt County unit of ADK, is designed for professional women educators, both from Pitt County schools and Pitt Community College.

Alpha Nu's Ann Byrd has served as District V vice president, and is presently head of the North Carolina chapter. Faye Dempsey, another Alpha Nu member, serves as the state corresponding secretary. Alpha Nu chapter is well-represented in District V workshops, as well as state, regional and international conventions.

Alpha Nu chapter works closely with its sister sorority, Alpha Iota chapter, which is designed for women educators in Greenville.

Seniors Had Meeting

A business meeting and birthday luncheon was held recently by the Town and Country Senior Citizen Club at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. One hundred members and guests attended.

Following devotions by the Rev. Adrian Brown, Sarah Ashton, president, reported that a few bus seats were left for the Nov. 12 one-night trip to the Southern Living Christmas Show in Charlotte. Members who plan to go should call Mrs. Ashton, 752-2912, as soon as possible.

Mrs. Helen Lawrence gave a performance of vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. Annette Braxton, pianist.

Guests at the meeting included the Rev. L. P. Houston, Mrs. Doris Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allison, and Mrs. Alberta Peaden. Tickets were distributed for the concert at J. H. Rose High School.

Members on the luncheon committee were Sadie Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roper, Eula Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. James Ward, Ann Fornes, Julia Houle, Ruby Parkerson, Ruth Harris, Sallie Reagan, Louise Tucker, Ethel Allen and Sarah Ashton.

PWP Chapter To See Film

Extensions?

FARMVILLE — Residents within the Farmville town limits who have applied for extension of natural gas service to their property (residential or commercial) within the last several years and who were denied service are asked to contact the town office.

The town wants to hear the particulars of each case. The town is now negotiating with N. C. Natural Gas Company an extension of its franchise to operate using town rights-of-way and wants to hear from citizens who have been unable to obtain gas extensions.

Several residents have already brought to the town's attention instances which seem to the town officials to be reasonable requests for extensions which were not granted. Thomas said. He said the town began discussions with N. C. Natural Gas this past summer on the terms of a franchise extension. A principal concern of town officials, he said, has been the gas company's extremely conservative extension policy.

The gas company was granted a franchise which began in October, 1959, and expires this month. The franchise now being negotiated, if successfully concluded, will govern gas company operations in the town limits for years to come. Thomas indicated.

Reduction And Refunds Seen

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Recent federal action should give the average North Carolina natural gas customer an $18 refund and a $22 cut in yearly bills, a state official said Wednesday.

The refund and reduction come from actions involving the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and Transcontinental Pipeline Co., the state's only natural gas supplier.

Raymond J. Nery, head of the gas division of the N.C. Utilities Commission's Public Staff, said that the state's natural gas customers will receive a total $14 million refund and an $18 million-a-year reduction in rates.

Prompting the move was Wednesday's approval by the federal commission of a rate case settlement between Transco and other parties, including the North Carolina commission, that will result in a $10 million refund and $10-million-a-year reduction in current rates.

Transco officials said the refunds and rate change will be made within 60 days.

Last week, the ERC denied a request by Transco to reconsider an Aug. 30 commission order requiring a $4 million refund. Also, ERC denied Transco's request that it reconsider its Aug. 6 decision involving "zone rates," which would have charged different rates for the three zones of the country served by Transco.

The decision meant, in essence, that Transco must cut its North Carolina rates by $8 million a year.

In another matter, the Public Staff of the commission reached an agreement with Piedmont Gas Co., which will result in a $5 million refund.

Stephen M. Conner, a Piedmont spokesman, said the refund would be about $13.75 for the average residential customer and the reduction would amount to about $17 a year. He did not know how much an average customer consumes.

If the commission does not approve the agreement by Oct. 31, it would be void.

Skokie Case Badly Bloodied ACLU

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it no longer is reeling from its legal support of a neo-Nazi group in Chicago, but executive director Ira Glasser of the ACLU concedes that an anticipated $500,000 of red ink could ruin his organization.

Describing the plunge in ACLU membership in the wake of its support for the neo-Nazis' attempt to march in Skokie as "a knockout punch," Glasser said in an interview that the ACLU has made up those losses and would announce in January a "very, very ambitious" five-year campaign to raise an extra $11 million.

"I have no doubt that that program will work," he said in offices that the ACLU soon will vacate for smaller ones. "The question is how much and how soon and what we're going to do in the meantime."

Reinsurance Role Lauded

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Reinsurance Facility received words of praise from Gov. Jim Hunt Wednesday for its decision to delay implementation of an 18.6 percent surcharge on auto liability rates.

But Hunt also urged the facility to drop its plans to implement the surcharge at the end of 90 days, saying the delay was not long enough.

The state attorney general's office has filed suit to block the surcharge, approved by the facility's board on July 25.

"The facility has acted wisely by delaying this increase in rates while the courts consider the legal action that the state has brought to block it," Hunt said in a prepared statement. "But the facility would be well-advised to abandon its efforts to impose this unreasonable and illegal increase."

"I am confident that we will prevail in a court test of its legality."

Created by the General Assembly in 1973, the facility provides auto liability coverage for high risk drivers who are refused coverage by insurance companies. All companies that offer auto liability in North Carolina must share in operation of the facility.

Officials of the facility said the surcharge, originally scheduled to go into effect Dec. 1, would have generated $31.3 million to recover part of the $139.2 million it has lost over the last six years.

because a period of social activism was on the wane. Also, there was more competition for the same potential members from the rise in single-interest groups. And finally, people found it harder in an inflationary period to join.

In the course of its 59-year history, the ACLU has often taken stands that offended one segment of the population or another. In its fight against what it sees as infringements of constitutional guarantees, the ACLU has sued over the separation of church and state, for example.

It even defended Nazis in the first year of its existence, but its defense of the Skokie group's right of assembly and free speech cost the ACLU a large proportion of the 60,000 members lost, Glasser said.

The case started in 1977 and ended last spring, when the small band of Nazis originally was allowed to march in Chicago. The march itself, ironically, caused less uproar when it occurred than the ACLU's defense of it precipitated among the many Jewish members of the ACLU.

"It's not really possible to say with any precision how much membership was lost because of Skokie," Glasser said. "But it hurt us so badly that our survival was threatened."

He said the organization cut back its personnel by 25 to 30 percent, leaving some state affiliates with only a director, who had to answer telephones and mail in addition to doing legal work.

"We've squeezed everything, and we really haven't restored much," Glasser continued. "Any further cutbacks will really threaten the viability of the organization."

The ACLU, including its state affiliates, has a $10 million annual budget but plans to spend $250,000 more than it has this year and next. Glasser chalks up another $250,000 to inflation, which is "eating us alive."

And while membership has climbed back up to about 200,000, the director said it seems to have peaked without compensating for the losses that provoked the decline prior to Skokie.

It was a letter from the ACLU lawyer who represented the Nazis that stemmed the losses.

In it, David Goldberger declared his abhorrence for the beliefs of the Nazis, outlined the free speech arguments and said that the ACLU's survival was at stake.

The letter brought in $550,000, almost triple that of any previous ACLU direct-mail appeals. The response was "just incredible," Glasser said.

Subsequent versions of it continue to be part of the four million letters that the ACLU mails annually to recruit members.

He said the special fundraising campaign will concentrate on areas hitherto ignored — bequests and donations from wealthy individuals and corporations.

Glasser said he believed this would cure the organization's financial ills after about five years, but observed, "What I'm worried about is the next two."

DA Assails Speedy Trial

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Forsyth District Attorney Donald K. Tisdale said Wednesday the state's speedy trial law is unnecessary and, in many ways, detrimental to justice in the court system as a whole.

Tisdale blamed the law, which was patterned after the federal model, on "self-serving politicians who trumpeted rhetoric rather than logic" to persuade their naive colleagues to vote for the legislation, which became effective Oct. 1, 1978.

"The same people who pushed for speedy trials are the same people who are yelling for cuts in government spending," he said.

Tisdale was asked by the Administrative Office of the Courts to assess the effectiveness of the 120-day speedy trial law during its first year and to make proposals for additional needs when the 90-day period becomes active.

The 90-day rule is a component of the law which says the 120-day period in which a criminal defendant must be tried, or the case dismissed, will be reduced to 90 days.

"I don't think a speedy-trial law is needed, period, whether it provides for 120 days or 90 days," Tisdale said. "Taking all things into account, I could bring a criminal defendant to trial quicker under the old law than I can right now."

He said the "general public, the taxpayers who are going to foot the bill," should be forewarned that there will be "immense additional costs" when the trial period is reduced from 120 to 90 days.

Tisdale added that his office has not been compelled to dismiss any criminal cases that could be tried within the 120-day period and that he does not anticipate losing any cases when the 90-day period goes into effect.

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a big monster of a TV set, with a giant screen set in a cabinet five-and-a-half feet tall. It was not a friendly looking thing.

It was kept in Mr. Woods' office, covered and quiet, for purposes unknown. Mikey Angel always said that Mr. Woods, being the principal and all, probably watched cartoons on it. Parochial Mikey. But nobody could come up with a better explanation, and for the whole month of September, that giant TV in Mr. Woods' office was the subject of schoolyard supposing.

The answer came. Mr. Woods, he of the grinding teeth and bow tie, was a baseball nut. One happy October morning, Mr. Woods wheeled the monster into the lunchroom, where good little boys and girls could catch a few quick minutes of the Go-Go White Sox and the just-arrived-in-Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was a miracle, some of us thought, a providential reward for coming to school. The World Series. Old Man Woods was all right.

The next year, Mr. Woods moved to a new school. But October 1960 was saved, as were

Withdraws In Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC News has released what it says is a full, unedited transcript of an interview with former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger by television personality David Frost, who withdrew from the project in a dispute with the network.

The program, "Henry Kissinger: An Interview with David Frost," is to be broadcast tonight at 10 p.m. EDT.

The apparently unprecedented release of the transcript Wednesday was made at Kissinger's suggestion, the network said.

Frost, who withdrew from the interview project this past weekend, could not be reached for comment on release of the transcript.

Frost, who conducted two interviews with Kissinger last week, declined to conduct a third. Frost complained that NBC had agreed to allow Kissinger additional time to respond to questions he had already answered.

NBC said, however, that it had agreed only to allow the subject of Cambodia to be brought up again.

The portion of the 52-minute interview in question dealt entirely with U.S. policy toward Cambodia, and specifically, Kissinger's role as an adviser to then-President Richard M. Nixon in formulating that policy.

Past recipients of the Thayer Award have included Henry Cabot Lodge, Dwight David Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur, Bob Hope, and Neil Armstrong.

Mrs. Luce, who now lives in Honolulu, has written many plays, and her 1937 play "The Women" was translated into 26 languages. She was an editor for "Vanity Fair" and "Vogue" magazines.

the following couple of Octobers, by my Pop, an understanding sort whose youthful October were survived not only without Mr. Woods but without TV.

Pop and I both sort of caught a bad cold the day before the Pirates greeted the Yanks in Forbes Field. Mom called the school. Pop and I recuperated at the home of Bob Salcedo, Pop's pal with the brand-new Zenith. The Yanks got beat, and the world was right.

I'm glad I was a kid then instead of now, when all the weekday Series games are played at night. Baseball, Mr. Wrigley would have told you, is meant to be played under the sun. I know that television and baseball are fast friends, and I know that networks benefit from a prime-time World Series, and I know that baseball is happy when TV is happy.

But consider: All of the grumpy bosses in all of the workplaces in this land whose one chance to be regular folks came during the World Series. They could bring in a portable, turn the volume down and make small talk about Bill Mazeroski or Bob Gibson. The day of a Series game was like a mini-vacation.

Or consider the unlucky American kid, who doesn't get to sneak a transistor radio into class or stay home with his Pop to catch to Series.

The World Series has become just another piece of programming, something to defeat the other networks with. I can see it now, after a couple more years of nighttime Series:

"Hey, what's on after 'Laverne and Shirley?'" a kid will ask his sister. "Let's see...The World Series," she'll reply. "Oh. Must be a new show. What else is on?"

Daytime baseball is something special, something that belongs to kids and wise old men. It is going the way of Forbes Field and natural grass; vanishing, like old man Woods.

Music Ensemble Officers Named

ECU News Bureau
Ronnie Wooten of Goldsboro and Mike Elliott of Woodbridge, Va., are the new president and vice president, respectively, of the East Carolina University Symphonic Wind Ensemble.

The Wind Ensemble is one of the major performing groups of the ECU School of Music, with an annual tour as part of its yearly activities.

Herbert Carter, professor of music at ECU, is conductor.

BROADWAY BOUND
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dick Van Dyke is Broadway bound starring in a revival of "The Music Man" which Michael Kidd will direct and choreograph. "The Music Man" is scheduled to arrive on Broadway in the spring of 1960.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The corporate remnant of the Beatles is going to court again to fight imitations of the now-defunct British singing group. Attorneys for Apple Corp. Ltd. filed a motion in Superior Court on Wednesday seeking an injunction to prevent producer Dick Clark and ABC from using either the names or employing look-alikes of the Beatles in a planned movie called "Birth of the Beatles."

The civil suit seeks $40 million in general damages and $100 million in punitive damages.

Apple Corp. holds the rights for former Beatles John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr. This was the second time in the past month the former Beatles have taken legal action against portrayal of the group by imitators.

Apple Corp. recently filed suit to stop the long-running stage play "Beatlemania," which uses four men who look like the Beatles at various stages in their career and sing Beatles tunes.

Award For A Woman

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — For the first time, the U.S. Military Academy has bestowed its coveted Sylvanus Thayer Award on a woman — author, editor and ambassador Clare Boothe Luce.

Mrs. Luce, 76, received the academy's highest civilian honor during ceremonies Wednesday. The award is named for the architect of many of the principles espoused by West Point.

Past recipients of the Thayer Award have included Henry Cabot Lodge, Dwight David Eisen-

Seek Answer To Vanessa

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group of writers and producers want equal time from CBS to respond to the casting of Vanessa Redgrave as a Nazi death camp victim in a television movie because she supports the Palestine Liberation Organization — a mortal enemy of Israel.

The Committee for Equal Time made the request Wednesday in a full-page advertisement in the Los Angeles Times.

The committee said it wants CBS to make room for a dramatic program showing "a very real connection between Jews of the world and the state of Israel."

Miss Redgrave is to play a Jewish survivor of Nazi atrocities in World War II Germany in the movie "Playing for Time."

CBS said Miss Redgrave "was recommended for the role because of her artistic ability and not her political views. CBS regrets this has offended some people, however, this does not give rise to the question of equal time."

Need Strategy For Objectives

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP. Investors, new as well as experienced, spend a great deal of time trying to pick "winners"...

Investors generally fall into one of three categories: conservative, growth, oriented, and aggressive. Conservative investors seek to minimize risk while obtaining a relatively high current return...

The mix of securities in your portfolio will be determined by your investment objective. Every portfolio should be partially invested in "fixed income" securities.

The remaining portfolio funds could be invested in common stocks which meet the investment objective. Conservative investors would select stocks which provide a relatively high current return...

There have been medical advances made "which assist many epilepsy victims in achieving control and functioning normally," the mayor observed.

RELENTLESS POLICY LONDON (AP) - Amnesty International says Soviet leaders are prolonging jail terms of some political prisoners...

precipitation potential as well as prospects for rising dividends. The aggressive investor has little need for current income and may even purchase stocks which pay no dividend at all.

Depending on the level of risk you are willing to assume, other types of strategies (including margin buying, short sales, and puts and calls) can be utilized.

One tactic which all investors should keep in mind is diversification. This means more than just owning securities of different companies; it means owning securities representing different industries as well.

Determining your investment objective will lead you to mix of securities appropriate for your individual situation. A successful plan should try to anticipate the future in terms of your overall objective and the way you will try to meet it.

Designated To Epilepsy

Mayor Percy Cox proclaimed November as "Epilepsy Month" in Greenville, saying that "the citizens of our town and state need to be informed of the four million Americans who suffer from epilepsy."

Cox contended in his proclamation that "the epilepsy victim has the basic human right to be accepted in society without the added burden of discrimination in employment, unfair legal practices, and superstitious attitudes."

There have been medical advances made "which assist many epilepsy victims in achieving control and functioning normally," the mayor observed. According to Cox, "the educational program of the Epilepsy Association of North Carolina, under the guidance of its parent organization, the Epilepsy Foundation of America, seeks to increase the general understanding of the disorder, develop concern for those who must live with these problems, and eliminate the ignorance that has surrounded epilepsy for too many years."

Latest Smoker Research Just In:
MERIT undisputed victor over leading high tars in tests comparing taste and tar level.

Smokers Prefer Merit 3 To 1!

Smokers find the taste of low tar
MERIT matches that of high tar cigarettes.

New taste-test results prove it.

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rated MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference when tar levels were revealed, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders.

MERIT smokers rate low tar MERIT satisfying taste alternative to high tar brands.

New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled

© Philip Morris Inc. 1979

felt they didn't sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried!

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that seems to be attracting more and more smokers every day and—more importantly —satisfying them long term.
