MARINES AND NAVY SET SAIL — A Marine assault unit set sail Thursday night for an Oct. 17 mock attack on the U.S. Navy

Community Development Role Reviewed By Council

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The City Council conducted a public hearing on local Community Development performance last evening as a means of reviewing the city's CD program over the last five years. Ben Shivar, CD coordinator for the city, explained that the performance hearing was necessary due to new program regulations and requirements. In reviewing the local CD involvement, Shivar pointed out that the federally-funded program was aimed at the "development of viable urban communities, including decent housing and suitable living environment."

The five-year program has resulted in Greenville receiving to date some $7,864,246 in "hold harmless" funds, he said, including $1,909,000 in 1975-76, $2,071,320 in 1976-77, $1,909,000 in 1977-78, $1,242,000 in 1978-79, and $732,000 in 1979-80.

The "hold harmless" funding program, Shivar explained, is set up on a five-year schedule and Greenville is in the final year of its participation. Cities of 50,000 or more population are eligible to apply for continued guaranteed entitlements and funding does not stop for those cities after five years, he added.

Shivar said that the "hold harmless" funding is now phasing out here and the city is moving into the discretionary funding phase. Two public hearings are scheduled on the Small Cities Pre-Application as part of the discretionary funding procedure, as well as a series of neighborhood meetings to inform citizens of the new format.

Shivar mentioned that the five Community Development project areas have been West Meadowbrook, South Evans, West Greenville, Southside, and the Central Business District. The Southside and CBD segments have been urban renewal projects, he said.

Under the program, he noted, extensive acquisition, rehabilitation and relocation has been completed and some 7.5 linear miles of local streets have been improved and paved.

Shivar explained that of the $7.8 million received since 1975-76, including $276,246 in urban renewal closeout funds, approximately 70 percent of the total has been spent and an additional $137,221 is currently encumbered.

The coordinator pointed out in the CD progress report that, "It is very important that the city continue a maximum effort to spend the remaining funds since this will directly affect our ability to secure additional CD funding."

According to the report, "The Department of Housing and Urban Development has set minimum threshold criteria which must be met before an application is considered. For the current fiscal year, HUD will require that at least 80 percent of the cumulative 'hold harmless' funding be spent and an additional ten percent obligated by the Jan. 7, 1980 pre-application deadline."

It was mentioned that while the HUD requirements are designed to be flexible, the competition for discretionary funds "will tend to make them more absolute."

Mayor Percy Cox told last night's gathering that it is important to have a good citizens turnout for the hearings and neighborhood meetings in order to have an opportunity to receive funding application approval.

Pat Dunn, representing the League of Women Voters, urged the city to present the discretionary program information to citizens in a format that is easily understood. Shivar said that the information will be summarized and should be available prior to the meetings.

In other business, the Council approved a request by Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Vincent for rezoning some 11,250 square feet on the east side of Memorial Drive (2717 Memorial Drive) from R-6 (residential) to Office and Institutional.

Also approved in a related matter was a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission that the lot situated between the Vincent property and the Century 21

Fidel Castro Driven To The UN Complex

By JOHN BAUSMAN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP)

— After spending nearly 36 hours within the iron security of the Cuban mission, Fidel Castro emerged this morning and motored to the United Nations, where the General Assembly awaited his speech.

There were no demonstrators around the mission on East 34th Street as cars departed, first a decoy motorcade and then Castro's between 10:15 and 10:25 a.m., for the seven-block ride to the U.N. site along the East River.

Castro's arrival at the U.N. headquarters on New York City's east side by driving through a secured zone of five blocks between two areas set aside by police for demonstrators.

Anti-Castroites were permitted no closer than the 47th Street end of Dag Hammarskjold Plaza while supporters of the Cuban president were confined to a site five blocks south.

The plaza itself, after Castro was inside, was eerily quiet, with the sound of police helicopters carried away in the wind. The clasp of police-horse hooves carried and the clicks of police hand radios were the only other sounds.

Following his speech, reportedly on the economic rivalry between the world's rich and poor, Castro had a lunch date with U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry and 90 other dignitaries.

During Castro's scheduled 4½ hour U.N. visit, hundreds of America, Cuban and United Nations security men will blanket the East River headquarters and the surrounding streets, where pro- and anti-Castro groups are expected to gather. U.N. grounds will be closed to the public today.

New York police boats will patrol the river to head off any incidents similar to the 1964 attack on Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Castro's industry minister. As Guevara addressed the General Assembly, anti-Castro Cubans fired a bazooka at the U.N. complex from across the water. The shell fell short and splashed harmlessly into the water. Guevara was killed in 1967 leading a revolutionary band in Bolivia.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim will provide a presidential welcome for Castro, who will be making his first address to the General Assembly in 19 years. The bearded revolutionary will be speaking to the 152-nation body as Cuban head-of-state, and he is expected to concentrate on the non-aligned summit he was the host of in Havana last month.

Castro's staff told U.N. officials he will speak for about an hour, far less than the more than four-hour speech he made in 1960, which still stands as a U.N. record.

Assault Force On Its Way To Cuba

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Moving to enforce President Carter's declaration of increased vigilance in the Caribbean, a Marine assault force set sail Thursday night for a reinforcement exercise at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Carter ordered the exercise last week as a response to the Soviet Union's stationing combat troops in Cuba.

The 1,800-member 38th Marine Amphibious Unit was supposed to leave from Morehead City Wednesday, but a spokesman said rough seas slowed down the loading of helicopters, jeeps and other equipment on three Navy ships.

"If it had been a wartime situation, they would have gone ahead and done it without waiting," said Capt. Jack Schmidt, public-affairs officer for Camp Lejeune.

Loading finished Thursday, and the USS Nassau, the USS

Plymouth Rock and the USS Spartanburg County left for the Oct. 17 landing shortly after 9 p.m.

The three ships are based at Norfolk, Va.

Schmidt said Marines from Camp Lejeune, the New River Air Station and Cherry Point Marine Air Station were ready to leave by Wednesday afternoon but that much of the equipment had not been put on the vessels.

"Seas were already kind of turbulent and got choppy and choppy as the cold front moved through (Wednesday)," Schmidt said.

He said the Marines were not disturbed over the delay since there was still plenty of time to get to Guantanamo Bay in time for the reinforcement exercise next week.

"Things went very smoothly," Schmidt said. "The equipment was being loaded. I think what they did more or less was done from a safety standpoint. They decided to hold off until the seas got a little bit calmer."

Highest Season Price Average

The Greenville Tobacco Market held its final sale of the 1979 season Thursday and recorded the highest season average in the history of the market.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here, said the market finished the season with an average of $140.71 per hundred pounds, a record figure for the market.

Bryan said the record average was achieved through the sale of 40,894,930 pounds of tobacco for $57,541,577.

Thursday's final sale saw an average of $123.09 per hundred pounds recorded as local warehouses closed out their auction activities for the year by selling 62,159 pounds for $76,510.

According to the sales of ficial, total Stabilization receipts for the season were 8.05 percent which consisted of 3,290,616 pounds.

"I would like to thank the farmers who sold on the Greenville Market this year and to tell them that we will look forward to serving them in the future," Bryan commented.

He suggested that early designation will make the operation of the 1980 marketing season as successful as 1979. Bryan urged farmers to designate their tobacco to the "warehouse of their choice in Greenville as early as possible for the 1980 season."

The Greenville Market began sales in 1890 and has had 89 years experience in the tobacco business, Bryan pointed out.

Confirm Tally

The Pitt County Board of Elections, meeting Thursday, confirmed in its official canvass the Greenville municipal election totals published by "The Daily Reflector" on Wednesday.

By virtue of the official tally, Don McGlohn will be the city's new mayor and will serve with City Council members Joe Taft Jr., Judy Greene, Clarence Gray, Louis Clark, Richard J. McKee and William Hadden Jr. Taft, Greene and Gray are incumbents.

The canvass confirmed McGlohn's winning total of 2,928 votes while Mildred McGrath received 1,490 votes and Elizabeth Savage 364 votes.

The winning Council candidates surpassed the majority figure needed for election and will face no run-off. Confirmed totals were: Taft, 2,980; Greene, 2,914; Gray, 2,679; Hadden, 2,503; Clark, 2,276; and McKee, 2,022.

The new mayor and Council will take office on Dec. 13.

Big Pot Cases Are Continued

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Cases against 11 defendants arrested here in July after law enforcement officers confiscated 8,500 pounds of marijuana at a house trailer off Greenville Boulevard, just outside the city limits, were continued in Pitt County Superior Court yesterday until next Thursday.

Motions were scheduled to be heard in the cases yesterday. However, conferences between the defendants' attorneys and representatives of the District Attorney's office took most of the day and no motions were heard.

Defendants in the case include Greenville Police Department Sergeant Douglas H. Ross, his wife, Marga Ross, Mrs. Ross' sister, Louise Whitehurst, and Mrs. June Miller Edwards of Greenville.

Other defendants include James Robert Bohanon of Campbellville, Ky., Armond Modesto Abreau of Miami, Eddie Perez of West Miami, Manuel Antonia Garcia of Miami, Lourdes and Ernesto Reyes Jr., of Las Vegas, and Daniel Lee Guinand of Homestead, Fla.

As a result of yesterday's conferences between attorneys, it is expected that the out-of-state defendants will enter guilty pleas in connection with the case when they return to court next week.

The defendants were arrested after Greenville Police, State Bureau of Investigation agents and federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents raided a mobile home owned by Ross and confiscated 8,500 pounds of marijuana being moved into the trailer from a rental truck.

Officers also found almost $100,000 in cash in a rental car used by the out-of-state defendants.

Investigators reported that the marijuana found at the house trailer — located about 200 feet from Ross' home — had a street value of about $3.18 million.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

MAILOGRAMS NOT RECEIVED

I received a call from a promoter of Fairfield Harbour resort near New Bern a while back and so did a friend of mine. Neither of us have received the mailograms promised us. P. D.

Hotline talked with both David Byrd and John McIntosh of the firm which is developing and selling lots at Fairfield Harbour resort, located about eight miles from New Bern. Both said that a contract was entered into with a firm which was to provide telephone contact with prospects in the Greenville area during the last half of September. "We terminated the contract because we were not satisfied," McIntosh said. He asked that anyone who has complaints or who, like you, have had promises made and not kept to call Byrd collect at 919-638-8011.

GOOD RESPONSE, BAD DESCRIPTION

Carl Horton, whose missing dog was written of in yesterday's column, said he has had tremendous response, but has not yet found Snufus. He said Hotline's description of Snufus' color was misleading — his coat is the grayish brown of a German shepherd and he has a prominent white chest, he indicated. Calls about possible sightings of Snufus will continue to be welcomed by the Hortons and the $1,000 reward is still offered, he said.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

Dominic Piracci, president of Dominion Construction, Inc., general contractors for the renovation of the Pitt County Hospital site, called Hotline to respond to the Sept. 25 article on assessment damages for late completion of the hospital project.

"We have adequate forces on the job, and we're prepared to bring the job to conclusion as quickly as we can," said Piracci from the Maryland base headquarters. "We're aware of the liquidated damages and we're going to do everything to avoid them, and defend ourselves against them."

Piracci noted that his company "beat all local competition by a quarter of a million dollars" on the site bid. He pointed out that the company had maintained excellent working relationships with the site architect, Cameron Dudley of Dudley and Shoe.

FOCUS

The Trade Route Wasn't There

Christopher Columbus, who first landed in the Western Hemisphere on October 12, 1492, changed the course of history by failing to accomplish his most important goal. Altogether, Columbus made four voyages to the New World, financed by the king and queen of Spain. He believed that by sailing west across the Atlantic, he could establish a new trade route to India. Columbus never got to India, but his voyages were the first to bring Europeans into lasting contact with the Americas. On his last voyage in 1502, Columbus was still searching for a waterway through Central America, and the Indian trade route he would never find.

Told Boost Fund-Raising

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Symphony must dramatically increase its fund-raising efforts to avoid a new deficit this year, symphony society officials said Thursday. At the end of last year's season, the symphony had an operating deficit of $995,959, said Mrs. A.C. Menius, treasurer of the society.

She said investments have been sold, some assets liquidated and the 1979-80 budget underspent by $2,600 to clear the debt.

"We felt we had to do it before we could go out and ask for more money," she said after the society's annual meeting.

The deficit this year is projected at $714,000. The outgoing president of the society's board of trustees, George Norman of Greensboro, said the deficit is projected at $841,000 for 1980-81. Last year, the group raised $314,000 in outside contributions and received $868,000 from the state.

This year, the General Assembly appropriated $1.1 million for the symphony, but its budget, approved without discussion and unanimously Thursday, is $2.37 million, up from $2.21 million last year.

"That's a lot of money to raise, and it won't be done quickly or easily," Norman said of the deficit.

Norman said a telephone solicitation campaign, an expected matching grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and an annual sustaining-fund drive are expected to net about $625,000 this year.

In related business, Norman said the trustees are recruiting an administrator to supervise business and development aspects of the symphony.

They are also looking for an artistic director and conductor to replace John Gosling, who has announced he will leave at the end of June 1980.

By MATT YANCEY
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Claiming a lake over their ancestor's sacred burial grounds will violate their religious freedom, the Cherokee Indians are launching another court effort to again stop the snail darter-stymied Tellico Dam.

Attorneys for 40,000 Cherokees in North Carolina and Oklahoma said they would file a suit today in U.S. District Court in Knoxville to stop work on the dam for a third time in its 13-year history.

Robert Stivers, an attorney for the tribe, said the suit also seeks a temporary restraining order directing the Tennessee Valley Authority to stop the work it resumed on the embattled $130 million dam Sept. 26.

The project had been in mothballs since January 1977, when a federal court ruled that the dam on the Little Tennessee River 25 miles southwest of Knoxville would illegally destroy the only natural habitat of a rare three-inch fish, the snail darter.

After the Supreme Court affirmed that ruling in a split decision last year, Congress passed a law this summer exempting the dam from the Endangered Species Act and ordering TVA to complete it "notwithstanding any other laws."

TVA said it would be able to close the dam's gates by late October to begin turning a 33-mile stretch of the river into a lake covering 16,000 acres. But TVA said this week it will wait until after farmers complete harvesting fall crops on 2,500 acres that will be flooded.

Tribal Planner Bob Blankenship said the Cherokees' suit contends the lake will flood the Indians' sacred burial grounds before Andrew Jackson drove them west on the Trail of Tears in the early 1800s.

The suit contends such an act violates the 1978 American Indians Religious Freedom Act and the Cherokees' freedom of religion rights under the First Amendment, Blankenship said.

Attorneys for the tribe said they have affidavits from several Indians who say they still visit the area to worship even though the last Cherokee burial there was 175 years ago.

Since the dam began, archaeologists hired by TVA have found evidence that an Indian civilization existed in the Little Tennessee River Valley 6,500 years before the birth of Christ.

TVA estimates there are about 1,500 Indian graves on the land to be flooded, which also includes Chota and Tensai, respectively the 18th century capital of the Cherokee Nation and the village from which the state of Tennessee derives its name.

Offer Film At Church Sunday

"The Burning Hell," an Ormond Organization-Evangelist Estus Pirkle production, will be shown Sunday, Oct. 14, 6:30 p.m., at People's Baptist Temple. There will be no admission charge.

The film was produced by Ron Ormond, who devoted his life to Christ following a near-fatal plane crash. Ormond Productions is a family venture, with Ormond's wife, June, in charge of distribution and son Tim, crew chief. The organization now has five gospel films to its credit.

The Rev. J. M. Bragg, pastor, invites the public to attend. The church is located next to the Red Oak subdivision on Hwy. 264 West Bypass.

Two Soliciting Permits Okayed

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of two requests for solicitation permits.

Wyatt said the requests were submitted by: the Greenville City School Band Boosters for permission to conduct a door-to-door and merchant solicitation to raise funds for the band boosters from Oct. 10-31; and by UNICEF for permission to conduct the annual Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF door-to-door and at local businesses in order to raise money during the week of Oct. 22, 28 and 31.

Gospel Concert Set In Kinston

The Faithfulaires of La Grange will be in a gospel concert with the Dixieland Singers of Kinston on Sunday, Oct. 14 at St. Matthew Free Will Baptist Church, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Whenever night began to fall on travelers in Colonial Virginia, they would look for the sign of the pineapple, as they rode.

Inns and taverns were few and far between. They were to be found mostly in the towns but seldom along the crude country roads. And, of course there were no hotels, then.

But the sign of a pineapple, as they wrote it, on a home meant that travelers were welcome to come in and eat, drink, quarter their horses and bed down for the night, or longer.

Sometimes the pineapple appeared as finials on gateposts, as they do even today at Mr. Jefferson's Monticello. Sometimes it could be seen for miles as a huge carved symbol on the roofline, as it does at Brandon and Shirley on the James River. More often, it was the finial in the pediment of the great entrance door to the house. Some Virginians stenciled pineapples on the walls of their sitting rooms or sleeping chambers. Or, they had them carved into fireplaces, over mantles, over doorways, in ceiling plaster and on the posts of guest beds.

But wherever or however it appeared, the pineapple was, and is today, the traditional sign of welcome, of hospitality, of graciousness, of warmth; as is The College Shop.

We welcome all East Carolina University Alumni to Greenville for Homecoming Week-end.

Simplification Eases Housework

MONTICELLO, Ill. (AP) — The director of therapies for a group of nursing and rehabilitation centers. "While it was designed specifically to aid our elderly patients and to prevent disability occurring from overexertion, the idea makes good sense for anyone, young or old, who is concerned with making life easier, more efficient and more enjoyable," says Sondra Gerhardt of the Americana Healthcare Corp.

"The first premise of 'work simplification,'" she explains, "is eliminating unnecessary details I uncluttering. Household items that are not used are thrown away. Motions and activities are combined or streamlined. The sequence in which jobs are performed is rearranged to reduce movement and exertion. The remaining necessary elements of each task then are simplified as much as possible."

To illustrate, Ms. Gerhardt advises that equipment in each work area be pre-positioned and organized at the point of first use. Other suggestions include having all baking items — dry ingredients, mixing bowls, mixer — within a small radius. And she suggests storing vegetables that don't need refrigeration near the sink, along with knives, brushes and pans.

"An assembly-line approach accomplishes more in less time and with less effort," says Ms. Gerhardt. During meal preparation, for instance, all needed items should be taken from the refrigerator to the work area in one trip, using a wheeled cart, if necessary. After preparation, everything is moved to the stove, again in one trip. Ms. Gerhardt estimates that this type of "work simplification" can save as much as 64 miles a year in preparing one meal per day.

Correct work heights are another important element to be considered, she points out, to eliminate excessive bending, stooping and reaching. "The proper counter height for standing or sitting work should be 2 inches below the bent elbow," she notes. "And when washing dishes, hands should rest comfortably on the bottom of the sink while standing erect."

The program also incorporates some general tips for making tasks easier and reducing exertion. Motions should be swinging, smooth and rhythmic, with no jerking. When possible, both hands should be used to do a job such as dusting. To further cut down on fatigue, the program suggests that you work to music, in a relaxed way, at your own natural pace. If you rest between tasks, lie down.

"It takes one-third more energy to sit at rest than it does to lie down," Ms. Gerhardt says. Body mechanics — which concerns itself with posture, balance, body alignment and the use of muscles, bones and joints — is yet another element of the work-simplification program. Ms. Gerhardt offers the following hints for using the body most efficiently:

—Keep feet a shoulder-width apart with one foot slightly in front of the other to provide better stability.

—Try to stay as erect as possible while sitting, standing, walking or climbing stairs.

—To lift, push or pull a heavy object, bend your knees, not your back.

—Never twist while lifting. Pick up the item, hold it close to your body, then pivot.

"Work simplification stresses the importance of how you do a job rather than what job you do. Plan ahead and allow yourself time, so there's no need to rush. And," Ms. Gerhardt adds, "why not encourage family teamwork?"

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Hey, Mom. You with the neglected roots who has to take a glycerine pill before you go into your son's bedroom... who has spent a lifetime of shouting, "We'll see," and wonders if a convent will take a woman who considers Sara Lee a god. I want you to imagine for a moment what it is like to be a child. It might help.

Suppose you were so insecure about yourself that you had to call your neighbor each morning to find out if she's wearing a skirt or jeans that day.

Suppose you thought you'd flatter your child by imitating his spitting, using slang and belching openly and he said to you, "That's disgusting."

Suppose your children never caught you "being good."

Suppose you had to eat a "good breakfast" while your children dieted and when you said you weren't hungry they said, "That's different."

Suppose your children forbade you to touch their games, bedroom, toiletries, clothes, or hair dryers, but when they borrowed your things told you, "If you don't share, you're selfish."

Suppose the child you loved asked you for the truth and when you told her the truth she said you were lying and believed a woman she had never seen before and whose name she couldn't pronounce.

Suppose you told your child something very personal in

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, October 12, 1979—3

Would you be forgiving? Suppose you lived in fear because an English teacher told you you'd never amount to anything unless you could diagram a sentence. Suppose someone said, "You're all grown up, aren't you?" and you still didn't know what you wanted to be. But worse... suppose everyone told you these are the best days of your life. Have a good day.

ESA Chapter Holds Session

"How the School Serves the Child" was the program topic for the meeting of the Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Frances Cassick presented the program in keeping with the education theme of "Child and the Community."

The classroom, of course, serves as the mainstream where all students meet for the basic academics of reading, writing and arithmetic. Those who need special training are taken out of the mainstream classroom at designated times and given the training needed.

President Hester Latham conducted the meeting and distributed yearbooks, which are dedicated in memory of Odell Evans. The group will join Pitt ARC and will help other organizations with a Christmas party for all citizens at the recreation center.

A contribution will be made to the Pitt County Department of Social Services to help with their Christmas project for foster children. Social Chairperson Boots Barlow announced the chapter's holiday party will be held Dec. 13 at a local restaurant.

A pledge ceremony will be held at the November meeting for Shelby Bradshaw, a new member.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Cassick.

Trees Proven A Major Asset

Trees bring more admiration and controversy than just about anything.

Various trees feed us (apples, oranges, nuts), provide us with housing (lumber), and are the basis of our daily newspapers. They give us some beautiful furniture (hardwoods). Best of all, trees are a renewable resource. They can be cut and regrown, some rather quickly, as opposed to oil or coal which takes millions of years to develop.

Trees, we are finding, also now have an important role to play in helping our hard-pressed society save energy.

Robert Tugwell, energy services officer for Greenville Utilities, told the Greenville Beautification, Cleanup and Litter Control Committee about this recently.

Fine Campus Contribution To Living

There are some Bloodmobile visits that virtually save the Pitt blood program each year. One of them invariably is on the ECU campus.

It happened again this week. Some 766 pints of Trees alongside a building can cause a 10-degree difference in temperature.

As much as 50 percent more electricity is needed to cool buildings if the nearby trees are removed.

In 84 degree temperature a shaded paved area will be 88 degrees as opposed to 108 degrees in a non-shaded area.

Trees also provide a windbreak for a building.

The message is clear. It will be important to leave all trees possible in constructing new buildings. Where the trees are not there, planning for them will be almost essential in controlling future energy use.

Trees have long had great value to mankind... and in this energy short time that value is steadily increasing.

blood were collected in the Wednesday visit, sponsored by the Air Force ROTC.

That is a fine record, and the collection of that blood is so important to the health care of our community.

THIS AFTERNOON Job Training Is The Goal

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There should remain little doubt in North Carolina that the primary mission of the community college network is to train people for good-paying jobs.

There has been some doubt about that. There have been enough stories around concerning courses which critics condemn as worthless being taught by some of the institutions in the 58-campus system.

State officials engaged in economic — especially industrial — development have complained that some of the community colleges and technical institutes put more emphasis on academics than on the nitty-gritty chore of teaching skills for employment.

Existing industries polled in communities taking part in the Community of Excellence Awards program listed the lack of adequate job training assistance as a major shortcoming.

Selling Junk

Labor Commissioner John Brooks has been regularly criticizing the system's inadequacies in teaching high technology skills.

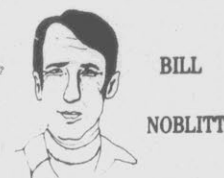

Commerce Secretary D.M. (Lauch) Faircloth, in a speech to presidents of the State Community College System, put the situation most bluntly:

"If I were running a community college I would get those pocketbook painting and knot-tying and slim-aramas out of the newspaper. It is bad public relations. Half the people in the community have to go to a dictionary to find out what you are doing," Faircloth said. He suggested that selling college programs, because "people buy them" isn't the right approach.

The object has to be selling people on preparing themselves to do a day's work, make money, produce, and learn to live a good life.

Faircloth took the podium recently along with Gov. Jim Hunt and the new chief of the community colleges, Larry Blake, as the three announced a program "to renew and revitalize the long-standing commitment of the Department of Community Colleges to serve its appropriate role in the economic development of the State of North Carolina, and service to new and expanding industries," as Blake put it.

BILL NOBLITT

In response to a question, Gov. Hunt agreed that the system has strayed from the assigned course. "There is no question that the fact is that we have gotten away from the primary mission, and that is to provide training and education for improved job skills. Skills training to provide jobs, upgrade income, and improve the quality of life of our citizens. That is the primary mission."

Leadership

In fact, the governor interjected, that was the major factor in the recent change in leadership of the community college system as Ben Fountain was replaced by Blake.

The schools do have a broad mission and do serve a lot of people all over the state. Located in the communities, they should provide a variety of learning experiences, Hunt said.

But, as the state succeeds in wooing and winning a host of new, capital intensive, high technology industries such as medical laboratories, data processing firms, electronics, ever increasing skill levels must be reached.

"As we recruit industry, and with considerable success, we are beginning to see some constraints," the governor said. The need for skilled workers and the means of training them, is the major constraint, he said.

Carter Stands By Plan

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON, (AP) — If football, a team that sticks with its game plan under pressure has a better chance of winning than one that changes signals. In politics, that's what President Carter has decided to do in the face of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's challenge.

After soulful deliberation, the White House and the Carter-Mondale Committee announced last week that Carter will make his presidential announcement on Dec. 4, more than two weeks after his first showdown with Kennedy.

This was a deliberate decision to wait for their own time instead of announcing early in reaction to the inroads of the Kennedy draft movement in Florida.

Although Kennedy is not a candidate, his boosters have mounted a highly active and professional campaign in Florida, where caucuses Saturday will begin the first test of the 1980 presidential nomination battle.

Delegates chosen in the caucuses will go to a state convention in St. Petersburg, where they will cast straw ballots Nov. 18 for their presidential favorites.

The vote will have no official meaning whatsoever because Florida's delegates to the Democratic National Convention won't be chosen or committed until the primary next March.

But if Kennedy, who already leads Carter in public opinion polls, should defeat him even in a non-binding preference vote in Florida, it could cripple the president for the early primaries next year.

Nevertheless, Carter chose to stick to his plan, and for these reasons:

—Although obviously concerned, he is not all that unsure about Florida.

—Rushing an announcement to boost his cause in Florida would have been an obvious sign of panic and could have done more harm than good.

—And Carter still thinks his best chance of a political recovery

By ART BUCHWALD 3 Coins In The Fountain

WASHINGTON — The Treasury Department is very mad at all of us. We haven't taken to the Susan B. Anthony dollar as their experts predicted we would.

Millions of dollars (paper ones) went into research to develop a coin that would replace the one dollar bill. The Treasury engineers worked in their cellars day and night to devise something that would grab the imagination of the American people. They finally came up with a foolproof design — a coin the size of a quarter with 11 sides and a picture of a suffragette on it. What more could the American people ask for?

Apparently a lot more. When the coin flopped the only thing left for the Treasury officials to do was to call a meeting.

"Gentlemen, the secretary is very upset. No matter how many Susan B. Anthony coins we put into circulation, people insist on using paper dollars. What can we do about it?"

"My staff has been doing some research to find out why the coin won't fly. Most men we've talked to say that if they have more than seven in their pants pocket they make a hole, and all the coins dribble out into the street. The young people say the dollars make a bulge in their jeans, and women complain if they take enough dollar coins to buy groceries they develop a bad back."

"That's nonsense. This coin was tested under the greatest stress conditions. We put $50 worth in a deputy secretary's pants pockets, threw him into the Tidal Basin and he didn't even sink. One of our women department heads carried 100 coins in her handbag for one week and except for black and blue marks on her shoulder where the strap hung, there were no signs of bodily damage. As for the young people complaining of bulges in their jeans from carrying the coins, my

Other Editors Say Beach Confusion

(Jacksonville Daily News)

There is a division of opinion among people — and that division is reflected by members of our governing boards — as to whether the privilege to walk on the sand and splash in the water should be "free".

Should the town of Emerald Isle spend tax money on public parking lots and dune crossings that would give people who don't own beachfront property free access to the beach?

Should the Onslow County Board of Commissioners compel the developer of West Onslow Beach property to spend money on free parking for the public?

Apparently the term "free" in both questions means "paid for by somebody else."

There are places at Emerald Isle to park for a small daily fee, but the pressure is on the politicians to build tax-subsidized parking lots, which would be free only in the sense that the people who use them would not pay their fair share of the cost.

And if Onslow County government compels the use of private money to do the same thing at West Onslow Beach, we have a comparable — if not slightly more pernicious — situation.

The developer of that property at the New River Inlet would pass the expense of parking-lot construction along to his buyers, even those who oppose the presence of day visitors' cars on their land.

Visiting the beach costs money. It costs money to get there; it costs money to lay marl or asphalt for parking.

It may rally the masses to cry that visiting the beach should be free, but it makes no sense from the Libertarian point of view.

The Libertarian opposes the use of government power to force one person to pay for another person's fun. Beach land is nice, no doubt about it; but it belongs to its owners. They alone should decide how it is to be used.

To the editor:

Mr. Baines was correct in saying that I could not be reached for comment about the election yesterday (Wednesday), as I left Greenville shortly after 8 a. m. to attend a N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, District 15 meeting in Oak City which had been scheduled for a year.

However, I have to comment the "best MAN won"— and about the only comment on my candidacy that anyone can make is "she also ran."

I want to thank each of the 364 people who voted for me. I had said that I was going to run if I only got six votes and you see I got 60 times that many.

I also want to thank the groups and organizations who invited me to speak. I thoroughly enjoyed it. I met people I didn't know and learned much I didn't know.

My campaign cost me $111.80 and I got that much fun out of it. Now I'll return the big book of the City Code and ordinance. I've learned them and won't need it any longer.

My husband was the happiest person in Greenville at the outcome of the election. But who knows? — I might run again in two years.

Thanks everyone for phone calls, encouragement and the offer of tennis shoes. Isabella and I lost.

This has been an experience I wouldn't have missed. I enjoyed every minute of it and now I don't have to look forward to any headaches. It surely proved to me that all the children I taught didn't vote for me. If they had, Mr. McGlohn wouldn't have had a chance.

Congratulations, Don. I hope you have a very happy and successful two years.

INSIDE REPORT Naval Weakness Strategy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Against the military's better judgment, the Carter administration is continuing in slightly modified form a strategy that, kept secret from Japan, would "swing" substantial U.S. naval force from the western Pacific to Europe if the Soviets attacked NATO.

This confirms the "swing strategy," one of the U.S. government's most closely held secrets for 25 years. Plans to shift half of U.S. naval power to Europe if war seems imminent troubles Pentagon professionals in two ways: First, it underlines U.S. naval weakness in coping with a global emergency; second, it is less than candid in dealing with Japan (which, if it knew the truth, could be urged to step up its own defenses).

Nevertheless, continuation of the post-Korean War swing strategy was recommended by the Pentagon's Consolidated Guidance Study No. 8 (CG8) of May 14. It did urge that U.S. replies to NATO's annual defense planning questionnaires (DPQs) be amended to make more flexible just how many ships would "swing." But secrecy with Tokyo was endorsed: "It is recommended that the U.S. not announce the DPQ commitment, whether modified or not, to its Asian allies."

This recommendation is grounded on the bleak assessment, quoted in the document, by the U.S. commander-in-chief, Pacific (CINCPAC), of what would happen if half his fleet was sent to Europe: "... He would have to turn his back on U.S. alliance commitments and become totally defensive in order to survive in the Pacific."

High officials refer to documents such as CG8 as "think papers" when disclosed. In fact, not only are its recommendations a secret U.S. policy but it unwittingly says the unsayable by admitting U.S. global weakness. Without meaning to be, it is a chilling document.

Particularly unsettling is the counterpoint of comments by the military, peppered throughout, mostly as asterisks and parenthetical notes. For example, this footnote: "The joint staff believes we do not have sufficient assets to perform all missions assigned in a global war." The alternative "is to program additional forces."

Time and again, conclusions of CG8 (directed by Dr.

Lynn E. Davis, a deputy assistant secretary of defense) are challenged by military professionals. A footnote from NATO commanders suggests the "swing" forces would arrive in Europe too late. A footnote from the Navy and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) disagrees with CG8's "view" (attributed to the CIA) that the Soviets probably would not and could not interdict U.S. shipping to Europe.

In forwarding CG8 to Defense Secretary Harold Brown, Assistant Secretary David E. McGiffert noted that the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS), "believe the long-term solution is to obtain the forces required to make the 'swing' unnecessary." Nevertheless, McGiffert called the military rationale for the swing strategy "sound."

What did trouble McGiffert, Davis and other authors of the document is what McGiffert flatly calls "subterfuge" in dealing with Japan. CG8 rejects the naval buildup favored by the JCS,

Strength For Today

THE HOLY SPIRIT

The average Christian believer thinks very little about the Holy Spirit. In church he or she may repeat the term as it occurs in liturgies, but few people realize what the Holy Spirit really is.

This great reality is nothing less than the living and creative spirit of God operating in the lives of people. The Holy Spirit is our great guide. Without it we could have no spiritual life. If one can image a physical world devoid of atmosphere, he has an idea of what the spiritual life would be without the Holy Spirit. This living, active, creative spirit of God touches the hearts of individuals, guides the life of the church, and makes possible spiritual growth and maturity.

All we can do with reference to the Holy Spirit is to believe in it and open our hearts to its power. Then this mighty spiritual force begins to operate to our growth and fulfillment.

Ignored Only By Psychologists

By GAIL MICHAELS

At this very moment somewhere in America a mother who took her children to the supermarket has just had a nervous breakdown.

Supermarket discipline is such an overwhelming problem that no one except child psychologists can ignore it. Kids make supermarkets a dangerous place. While shopping, I have been caught in a squeeze play between two youngsters with empty grocery carts. I have seen kids lying on their stomachs in the middle of an aisle playing dominoes with cereal boxes. I have even seen one scale a meat counter in an attempt to get at a toy truck displayed on top.

I did find one Super Mom who had overcome the supermarket problem. She was the only mother I've ever known who could breeze through a supermarket completely unfrazzled.

Her secret was simple. She made her protesting eight-year-old sit in the cart.

Unfortunately, by the time most children reach the age of three, their mothers don't have enough strength left to lift them onto a Big Wheel, much less into a grocery cart.

This is the age, too, when kids embark on a 15 year power trip, the aim of which is to neutralize all discipline at all times.

Some time during this year a mother will take away a glass of juice that her child is blowing bubbles in, and instead of sobs she will hear, "So what? I didn't want it anyway."

She will make her child sit in a chair for 10 minutes as a punishment for wrapping the dog in electrical tape, and she will hear, "I'm glad you're letting me sit down. I needed a rest."

This power trip makes behavior at the supermarket particularly bad because a kid knows that when he has pushed his mother beyond all physical and moral restraint, her social instincts will prevent her from murdering him in public.

He can pull an apple off the bottom of a fruit display and watch 16 more smash to the floor, knowing that his mother will merely smile wanly at the produce manager and buy 16 half-apples.

He can play hide-and-seek behind the soup displays, and all his mother will do is hope that he has disappeared forever.

He can push through a line

Among Most Realistic Films On Jesus' Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most authentic motion pictures ever made on the life of Christ is being released Oct. 19, in 600 cities in the South and West.

It's to open elsewhere later, with blanket showings by next Easter.

Called simply "Jesus," it is a tightly paced, gripping and exactly accurate film rendition of the New Testament book of Luke.

"A masterpiece," says Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, one-time famed television preacher and author of numerous books on Jesus and the historical-cultural atmosphere in which he lived.

The movie, produced at a cost of $6 million by the Genesis Project and being distributed by Warner Brothers, sticks precisely to the Scriptural dialogue and action as well as to historical settings.

"The Bible comes alive and walks into the 20th century," says the Rev. Buckner Fanning of San Antonio's Trinity Baptist Church.

Unlike other films about Jesus which have toned down scriptural material, often subordinating substance and mystery to spectacle, the new one stays with the original script, and does it with dramatic impact.

"A 1st Century 'docu-drama,'" noted British producer John Heyman calls it. "It is realistic and sometimes grubby. Unlike other film versions, our temple has sheep dung and garbage in the courtyard, because that is the way it was."

"Jesus and the disciples did not walk around in pristine robes with halos over their heads. When you see Christ in this film, you can believe that he is a man who spent 18 years in a carpenter shop before he started his ministry."

"None of the reverence and respect has been sacrificed but we are dealing with a Jesus who is strong and has muscles. He is a man who can smile and laugh and share his emotions with people."

Five years of research by archaeologists and historians went into the production, with special workshops set up to turn out accurate replicas of first century pottery, clothes and artifacts, such as the alabaster flask used by the woman who anointed Jesus' feet.

The film was made in Israel. The movie dialogue is taken straight from Luke's account, as well as the miracles, the crucifixion and bodily resurrection, which are presented as fact, not symbol.

Glowing Years

It was their Golden Anniversary. And, as Granddad placed his arm around Grandmother he said, "The years have been good to us."

"You have been good to the years," someone replied.

What a perfect description of their marriage. They cherished each day and filled it with love. They faced every week as a new adventure in useful living. They counted the months with patience and crowned them with firm commitment. They made the years glow with their confident trust in God.

Thus they lighted the hearth-fires of faith in the lives of their children and grandchildren.

Long after our grandparents are gone, the years will still glow with the faith they kindled in a dozen other hearts.

Bob Scott Expects Announce His Candidacy In November

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Former Gov. Bob Scott said Thursday that he will probably formally announce his candidacy for governor on a Saturday in late November in his hometown of Haw River.

Scott said he definitely plans to challenge Gov. Jim Hunt for the Democratic nomination for governor in the May 6 Democratic primary.

Scott, 50, was lieutenant governor from 1965 to 1969 and governor from 1969 to 1973. He resigned in July as federal co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission in Washington.

His father, the late W. Kerr Scott, was governor and later a U.S. Senator.

Scott said he expects his candidacy will put some of his former supporters, who have switched to Hunt, in a tight spot. "It puts some of them in a bind and they don't like it, but there'll be others who'll come with me," he said.

Scott's campaign committee head, Charles W. Bradshaw of Raleigh, agreed. "It (Scott's candidacy) would put a few people in a tight spot, but there are so many others new to voting age or new to the state. You're only talking about a few hundred people, and some and warns that "any U.S. initiative to retreat from the swing concept probably could be viewed in NATO capitals as...an indication of confusion and indecision among U.S. policy makers."

Yet, the document warns that "public acknowledgment" of the swing strategy could "further reinforce" Asian notions of a "general U.S. withdrawal from the region." Even though Japan and other U.S. allies in Asia "are probably aware" of the strategy, "public disclosure or official notification of our Asian allies...could further undermine the credibility of our commitments in Asia and become an issue in our defense relations with Japan." The backdrop: consternation over Carter's now modified withdrawal of U.S. ground forces from Korea.

Specifically, CGS warns that a public discussion would "strengthen pressures for Japan to go neutral or rearm." Here is the issue between Carter appointees such as Lynn Davis and the professionals, both military and civilian, who think neutrality out of the question and want Japanese defense spending encouraged by telling Tokyo the truth. But Davis and her State Department allies are wary of Japanese military expansion.

This conflict leads to the flights from reality characteristic of Carter administration defense policy papers. Arguing for the swing strategy, the paper claims "a primary Japanese concern is whether she becomes directly involved" in a U.S.-Soviet conflict. "...while Japan would undoubtedly be disturbed if the carriers on the (U.S.) West Coast headed for the Mediterranean rather than for WESTPAC (the western Pacific), she would be more disturbed if U.S. carriers...prepared to initiate attacks against Petropavlovsk, and these preparations resulted in pre-emptive Soviet attacks against U.S. bases in Japan."

Here is a family resemblance to presidential review memorandum (PRM) 10, which in 1977 envisioned withdrawal from one-third of Germany if the Soviets attack, and President Carter's Oct. 1 grudging acceptance of growing Soviet military power in Cuba. Being forced by weakness to deceive one ally to help another adds another chapter to U.S. decline.

answer to that is, let them buy bigger jeans."

"I'm just reporting on what our research revealed, sir. If you ask me I think it's more psychological than anything else. The one dollar paper bill has George Washington's picture on it. The people can't tell Susan B. Anthony from the Queen of England. They don't trust the coin because they are afraid it was minted in Canada."

"I agree with Merriweather. I tried to give one to a taxi driver the other day and he said, 'I only take American money.' I said, 'It is American money' and he said, 'Yeah and Margaret Trudeau is the First Lady of the United States.'"

"I don't want to hear any more stories. We're stuck with billions of these coins and we're going to get them into circulation if it kills us. Now let's hear some constructive ideas."

"We could put them in cereal boxes as a promotion."

"Why don't we raise the price of a local pay telephone call to a dollar?"

"What about printing on paper dollar bills under 'In God We Trust' the words: 'This bill could be dangerous to your health?'"

"How about having Karl Malden do a TV commercial? He could be pushing a wheelbarrow and saying to the audience: 'Traveler's checks can be stolen — but nobody could carry off this wheelbarrow of coins. The Susan B. Anthony dollars. Don't leave home without them.'"

"Why don't we just use them to pay the OPEC people for their oil?"

"What good will that do?"

"They'll all get hernias and be so miserable they'll think twice about raising their prices."

of those that Hunt appointed to boards and commissions will go with Scott. The upper-level people will stick with Hunt," he said.

Scott declined to talk about potential campaign issues but elaborated on three issues he had mentioned earlier during a reception in Sampson County. The issues were educational policy, the proposed Benson-to-Wilmington freeway and a possible $600 million state school construction bond issue.

"I'm finding dissatisfaction in the ranks of professional educators...with respect to programs, particularly the reading program and whether it's doing what it's supposed to do" he said.

Hunt's reading program provides a reading aide in every classroom in grades one through three.

Scott said a proposed $600-million school-construction bond issue might be too large an undertaking for the public schools.

He also said he did not oppose the Benson-to-Wilmington freeway but that he was worried part of the freeway was being supported without proper consideration of its impact on rural residents.

Hunt is the first modern governor to attempt to succeed himself and Scott is the first governor in more than 100 years to try to return to office.

School Of Arts Enrollment Up

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina School of the Arts has increased its enrollment of students from the state by 10 percent this year, school officials say.

The school has been criticized for not enrolling enough in-state students.

Forty-four percent of this year's new students are from the state, compared with 40 percent last year.

Some state legislators, led by Rep. Mary Pegg, R-Winston-Salem, have tried to attach an amendment to the school's appropriation bill to require that at least half the school's students be from North Carolina.

Dirk Dawson, the school's admissions director, told the trustees Thursday that the arts school has made every effort to attract students from in-state.

Admission to the school, which has programs in dance, music and the visual arts, is competitive and based on auditions as well as academic performance.

The school had a record number applicants audition for this year, Dawson said. Of the 749 who auditioned, 294 were from North Carolina, up 45 from the previous year. Fifty percent of the in-state students were accepted, and 86 percent of those decided to attend.

Of the out-of-state students, 48 percent were accepted and 76 percent of those enrolled.

The school has 682 students enrolled this year, 14 more than last year. Dawson said 12.8 percent of the student body are minority students, which he said is probably one of the highest percentages of any of the predominantly white campuses in the University of North Carolina system.

Counterfeit Bills Said Poor

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Secret Service officials say a few poor-quality counterfeit $5 bills have turned up around the state recently.

The $5 bills found in the past few days "are of such poor quality that they can be easily recognized as counterfeit," an agent said, explaining that the bad fives apparently were printed on a printing press and not photo-reproduced.

"We believe that the people who printed these counterfeit fives realized that they were almost unpassable. Some have been found along roadsides," he said.

ery lies in his doing well in Washington this fall. Any overly political turn to his presidential role might have endangered legislative successes that he hopes will help him later.

"And the game plan makes sense," a campaign official said. "There was a reason for it. For one thing, we want the president to run on his record, and we want the record to be as good as possible."

"We don't want to distract him from his legislative program for the next month or six weeks," the official said. "Right now, things are going better on the Hill."

In his news conference Tuesday, Carter confirmed this strategy, saying the December date is "late enough to give me a chance to do what I can with this year's Congress," but in time to meet the primary filing deadlines.

real estate office at 2715 S. Memorial Drive be included in Vincent's request.

Neal Hahn of Hahn Construction Co. told the Council that he initiated the initial rezoning request involving the Vincent property since he was in the process of purchasing the tract. Since the request was initiated, Hahn noted, he has found that he will be unable to make the purchase. Hahn asked if his name could be removed from the rezoning request.

Planning Director Bobby Roberson explained that the rezoning petition was submitted by Vincent and he has now sold the property. Roberson said that the new property owner has confirmed that he has no objections to the rezoning.

In another rezoning item, the Council approved the request of the Redevelopment Commission to rezone, from R-6 to Office and Institutional, some 27,664 square feet on the north side of 16th Street across from Hopkins Park. It was pointed out that Dr. Hazel Johnson Brown, who owns the property at 104 W. 16th Street containing 10,264 square feet, asked that her property be included for rezoning from Highway Commercial to Office and Institutional.

Three recommendations by the Traffic Commission received Council approval. Approval was given to a request submitted by the residents of 200-202 E. Ninth Street to prohibit parking on the south side of E. Ninth between Forbes and Cotanche Streets; a request by Bill Brantley of 1304 Forbes Street that signs denoting "No Trucks" be erected on Forbes between Tenth and 14th Streets; and a request for removal of the "No Parking" signs from the vacant warehouse area on Atlantic Avenue.

The Traffic Commission also recommended approval of a request of Delmas Ayers of Blount Fertilizer Co. of 615 W. 14th Street to install a loading zone on the west side of Railroad Street from 14th to the railroad. City Engineer Ron Sewell said that discussions were held with the management of Blount Fertilizer and they agreed to a reduced length for the loading zone. The Council approved the new loading zone.

Bids were approved by the Council on a residential refuse truck and a containerized refuse collection truck. Bids submitted by Truxmore Industries Inc. in the amount of $34,220 for the containerized side loader refuse truck and $29,850 for the sideloader refuse truck with walk-thru type cab were approved.

A $51,688 bid submitted by Dixie Uniform Rental for uniforms for Public Works employees for a two-year period was approved. Tarheel Uniform Service submitted a bid of $53,104, while Pilgrim Laundry Co. Inc. offered a $68,666 bid.

Several key appointments were made by the Council, including: reappointment of James Ebron Jr. and Francis Meban Jr. to their second three-year terms on the Shepard Memorial Library Board; C. J. Harris, Charles Hudson and Kay Whitehurst to the Tar River Port Commission.

Jeffery Atkinson and Mary

Beth Ferrell as the Rose High School SGA representatives on the Human Relations Council; reappointment of Danny Montford and Susan Artino as the East Carolina University representatives on the HRC; and appointment of F. Gerald Smith to the Greenville City School Board to fill the unexpired term of Miles Frost, expiring June of 1980.

Mrs. John P. East has resigned from the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Council will appoint a new member next month to fill the term of Mrs. East, which expires June of 1981.

Other business on the agenda included:

— Granting of a one-year renewal permit to the Pitt County Health Department for the mobile home located behind the Health Department;

— Approval of a request by the Greenville Utilities Commission for a grant of easement across the Airport Authority property (the easement parallels the existing Vepco line);

— Approval of an amendment to the Transit Market Grant contract with the Energy Division of the N.C. Department of Commerce, involving making the transit manager's position here eligible to be funded with marketing funds under the state transportation program;

— Approval of a CETA contract with the Division of Community Employment of the N.C. Department of Human Resources and Community Development;

— Adoption of a resolution approving a Labor Protection Warranty Agreement for the city's mass transit operating grant application (action certifies that the city is in compliance with labor requirements);

— Adoption of an ordinance amending the 1979-80 city budget and adoption of amendments to the CD budgets;

— Adoption of an ordinance amending the Driveway Construction Ordinance;

— Scheduling of consideration for the acceptance of three streets for permanent maintenance at the Oct. 16 special meeting of the Council;

— Scheduling of a public hearing for Nov. 8 on a recommendation by the Public Transportation Commission that bus fares be increased on Jan. 1, 1980 to 30 cents and on July 1, 1980 to 35 cents, and that one-half fares

Heavy Volume In Closing Sales

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market closed its 75th auction season following sales Thursday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor. Volume was heavy Thursday for a closing day, with volume consisting of mostly non-descript grades.

Williams noted that prices on practically all grades remained steady, with Stabilization receipts accounting for 84 percent of gross sales Thursday.

The Farmville market sold 106,408 pounds Thursday for $120,351, an average of $113.10 per 100 pounds. The market closed with a total of 26,096,868 pounds sold for $37,138,356, an average of $142.31.

Last year the market sold 35,294,257 for $48,512,813, an average of $137.45. Williams noted that the poundage was off this year due to a cut in acreage. However, 1979 prices ran approximately $5 higher per 100 pounds than last year.

The Farmville market operated 45 sale days in 1979, compared to 57 days last year. The market opened one week earlier than 1978 and closed four weeks earlier.

Tentative Date

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — House Speaker Carl Stewart said Thursday night he plans to officially announce his candidacy for lieutenant governor before Thanksgiving.

Stewart has been an unofficial candidate for some time and has already opened a campaign office in Raleigh.

Stewart, of Gastonia, was guest speaker Thursday at a dinner sponsored by the High Point Municipal Democrats.

Former Gov. Bob Scott's decision to challenge Gov. Jim Hunt, Stewart said, may help his chances of defeating Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green. Both Hunt and Green are expected to run again for their respective seats.

Stewart said he thought Scott's candidacy would "guarantee a large vote. And I think I'm more likely to benefit from a large vote than the incumbent."

Scott's candidacy, Stewart said, could hurt his own fundraising efforts, however.

"I expect my campaign to cost in the range of a half-million dollars," he said. "And I expect to have half of that comfortably in hand by the end of the year. I am pleased with our progress so far. We are well over the $100,000 mark now."

Stewart said his greatest problem is name recognition.

Shortage Areas Are Designated

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Agriculture has extended an emergency regulation that permits half-pricing of gasoline until July 1, 1980.

The board voted Thursday to continue to allow gasoline dealers to price gasoline by the half gallon if they do not have pumps that compute prices at $1 or more per gallon.

"The original proposal," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, "was to extend the regulation until July 1, 1981, but the board felt all pumps should be converted to accommodate $1 or above by next summer to eliminate the confusion as quickly as possible."

On the program will be the New Goldaires of Goldsboro and the Gospeltones 1 and 1 of Hookerton. All are welcome.

Nineteen of the 29 Eastern North Carolina counties served by the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency have been designated by the Bureau of Health Manpower Analysis as Primary Medical and or Dental Care Manpower Shortage Areas.

The announcement was made at the October 10 meeting of the ECHSA governing body. The designation as health manpower shortage areas makes the 19 counties eligible for federal aid, which may come in the form of National Health Service Corps Workers, Public Health Service scholarships and loan repayments for health personnel, and preference for grant funds under various sections of the Public Health Service.

The counties include Beaufort, Bertie, Camben, Currituck, Dare, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Hyde, Hertford, Jones, Martin, Northampton, Onslow, Perquimans, Tyrrell and Washington.

The ECHSA governing body, upon recommendation of the project review committee, approved the purchase of a mobile gamma camera for Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The ECHSA is a private, non-profit corporation funded by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare designed to plan changes in the health care system in the 29 Eastern counties.

Talmadge Unbowed By Penalty

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With in moments of being overwhelmingly denounced by his Senate colleagues for "reprehensible" financial conduct, Herman E. Talmadge started beating the drums for his re-election.

"I intend to serve as the senior senator from the grand state of Georgia for a number of years to come," Talmadge said Thursday, shortly after the Senate vote to denounce him.

Talmadge, serving his fourth term, is the first member of the Senate to be disciplined by his colleagues in more than 10 years.

Senate Majority Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said as far as he is concerned, the 81-15 vote to denounce Talmadge ends the case.

"I think we should put this matter behind us," Byrd said. "The senator has accepted the Senate's decision."

As chairman of the Democratic caucus, Byrd would play a critical role in any possible further disciplinary action against Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Although such action is considered unlikely, Senate Democrats could vote to strip Talmadge of his 23 years of seniority and remove him as head of the Agriculture Committee.

In denouncing Talmadge, the Senate accepted the unanimous recommendation of the Senate Ethics Committee, which had rejected the more traditional penalty of censure.

Only two of the seven senators who have been censured in Senate history have been re-elected.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, one of the 15 senators who voted against the resolution of denunciation, urged the Senate to "consider more fully the career of the senator from Georgia before we take action that could bring it to an end."

However, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., a close friend of Talmadge, said, "The people who know Herman know he is no crook. They know he is ethical."

Talmadge himself declared the Senate's vote a "personal victory" and said he had been vindicated of allegations of intentional wrongdoing.

Three Accidents In Thursday's Traffic

An estimated $2,850 property damage resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 2:15 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, north of the Arlington Boulevard intersection involving cars driven by Grace Dixon Hill of 1307 Ragsdale Rd. and Carolyn K. Ockletree of Ayden.

Police, who charged Mrs. Hill with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $1,400 to the Hill car and $850 to the Ockletree vehicle.

An estimated $200 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in an 11:45 a.m. collision at the intersection of Third and Greene Streets.

Investigators identified the drivers involved as Robert James Gouras of 121 State Rd. and Alexander Wallace of Simpson.

Officers said no injuries resulted when a school bus carrying 44 students from Sadie Sauter School collided with a truck about 3:24 p.m. at the intersection of Myrtle and Watauga Avenues.

Police identified the driver of the bus as Gary Wayne Savage of 609 Wyatt St., and listed the operator of the truck as James Earl Harris of Route 1,

Eye Guidelines For Refineries

BOGUE BANKS, N.C. (AP) — The state Coastal Resources Commission is expected to take action today on its first draft of regulations for the development of areas around oil refineries.

The guidelines would regulate growth or modification of the refinery after it is built and would oversee development in the area surrounding the facility.

Representatives of Brunswick Energy Co., a consortium planning to build an oil refinery just south of Belville, attended the CRC meeting Thursday, but made no comment.

Under the regulations, companies would have to obtain a permit from the CRC to build a refinery. The industry would have to answer a number of questions concerning the refinery's impact on the environment, coastal resources, the economy and existing industry.

SUES MAGAZINE — Teresa Mackey, 19, of Charlotte, N.C. filed suit Thursday against Penthouse magazine, charging that she was coerced into having sex with a photographer and was never paid for posing, and that her pictures were never used. Penthouse officials deny the allegations. (AP Laserphoto)

Much Ado About Practically Nothing For Florida

By DAVID POWELL
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Saturday's county caucuses of Florida Democrats have turned into a pressure-cooker of presidential politics, even though the only thing at stake is delegates to a state convention.

"It's like the movie Superman," says Democratic National Committeeman Sergio Bendixen, head of the Florida movement to draft Senator Edward Kennedy. "Everybody knew it was superficial and meaningless, but they went anyway."

President Carter's supporters and insurgent Democrats backing Kennedy's undeclared candidacy today wind up statewide campaigns with all the earmarks of powerhouse electioneering.

The Carter administration sent speakers to stump the state, made astute use of patronage powers and wooed potential delegates intently. Federal grants to local governments blossomed, and one even went to a man who asked Carter for help in designing a solar home.

One woman joined the Carter camp after she said she got about 35 phone calls. The callers, she said, ranged from Carter Press Secretary Jody Powell and former United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young to local officials who back Carter. The caucuses, held in each of Florida's 67 counties, will select 879 of the 1,717 delegates to the Democratic state convention scheduled Nov. 18 in St. Petersburg. The convention agenda includes a nonbinding but psychologically important presidential straw vote.

Overall, about 50,000 Democrats are expected to gather around the state Saturday. The delegates they elect will join 838 others appointed by party leaders and elected officials. Neither the caucuses nor the straw ballot directly affects selection of state delegates to the 1980 Democratic National Convention. They will be chosen in the state's March 11 presidential primary.

But both sides have approached the caucuses as the first test of the 1980 political season, giving the struggle the look of a presidential campaign.

"It is certainly a test of support and intensity of support, and a test of organizational ability," White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan said in Washington on Thursday. Some examples: —Carter staged a "town meeting" in August in Tampa, focus of the pivotal central Florida contest. He sent first lady Rosalynn Carter and top aides on numerous Florida trips. Mideast envoy Robert Strauss, wearing a yarmulke, tried to cut into Kennedy's strength in heavily Jewish southern Florida. Carter's mother, Lillian Carter, will campaign in Tampa on Saturday.

—Using his appointment powers, Carter named former Gov. Reubin Askew as his special trade representative, a move that would give ambassadorial status to the popular former chief executive. The president also focused attention on Florida's 400,000 black Democrats: Two blacks were named to federal judgeships, state Rep. Carrie Meeks of Miami was part of the official U.S. party to Lord Mountbatten's funeral in England and former Miami City Commissioner Athalie Range was named to the Amtrak board.

—The White House has increased federal aid to Florida, awarding $31 million for housing units for the elderly across the state and $20 million for public housing projects in Miami, plus a loan guarantee for an electric cooperative in Palatka.

—During the Tampa town meeting, John Craig complained to the president that his effort to develop a solar house wasn't getting enough support from the government. Craig was later invited to the White House to meet with Carter. On Thursday, he said he'd been told he will receive a $10,000 Department of Energy grant.

The Kennedy campaign does not have similar resources, but has had help from out-of-state Kennedy supporters. More than half the $190,000 the Kennedy group has raised has come from outside Florida.

Draft Kennedy leaders acknowledge they are the underdog. They announced Thursday that they had secured delegate candidates for 843 of the 879 to be chosen Saturday, but an Associated Press spot check of 40 of those listed showed four uncommitted and one supporting Carter.

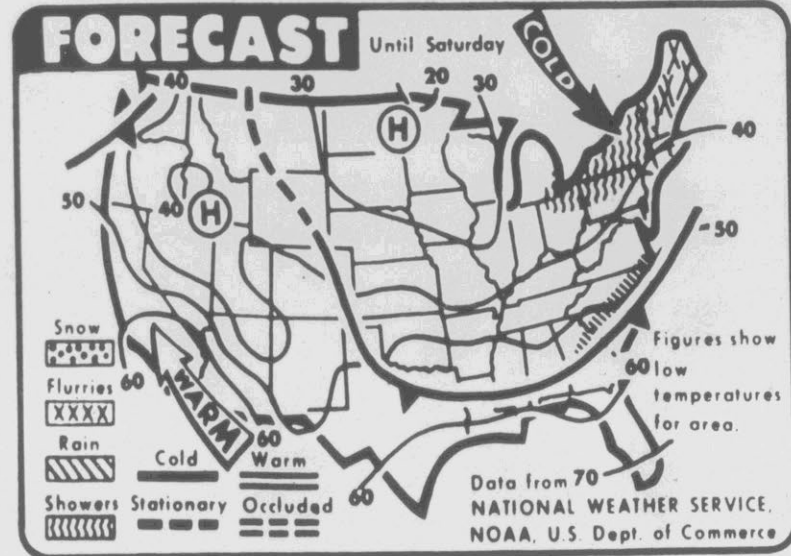

In recent days, the Carter campaign has deployed government figures, state staffers and pro-Carter officials to entice local opinion leaders into their camp, especially blacks. A black dentist heading the Kennedy campaign in Pensacola defected to the Carter campaign Monday but most Kennedy delegates have remained in line.

Jay Hakes, the Carter campaign manager, estimates he sent the names of 50 to 70 delegate candidates to national campaign headquarters for telephone calls from Washington leaders. Many more delegates have been called and wooed by state and local campaign leaders.

One Democrat who received the Carter campaign touch was Veronica Shoemaker of Fort Myers, a black community leader in southwestern Florida's Lee County. She was put on the Carter slate after she said she received about 35 calls from Carter supporters such as Powell, Young and local officials.

"How would you feel if you were being called all the time and called and called and called?" she says. "How would you feel? You figure it out. People were calling and calling and calling, asking me to be involved. I've never seen anything like it."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period until Saturday morning from the lower Great Lakes to New England. Snow flurries are forecast for northern New England and rain from central Georgia to the Carolinas coast. Cooler weather is forecast for the Plains through the Midwest and most of the East. Warm weather is due for the extreme South and West. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Improved weather is in store for North Carolina temporarily. Partly cloudy skies and a shift to southwest winds will allow temperatures to warm into the upper 60s to low 80s across much of the state, or 10 to 15 degrees warmer than those of Thursday afternoon.

The increase in sunshine today will be short lived. Another cold front will move across the mountains tonight and to the coast Saturday. As a result, cloudiness will thicken across the mountains again tonight and across the rest of the state Saturday. Along with the cloudiness there will also be a chance of rain.

Temperatures tonight will cool into the 40s across most of the state. There will be some readings in the upper 30s in the higher mountain valleys and readings will be in the low to mid 50s along the coast. Highs Saturday will range in the 60s and low 70s across most of the state.

Cloudy skies were the rule across the state Thursday. Afternoon temperatures ranged in the 50s and low 60s. Warmest locations included Wilmington with 64 followed by Cherry Point with 63 and New Bern with 62.

Skies cleared last night and some fog formed after midnight. Overnight lows were in the upper 30s and 40s.

State Fair Opens Today

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's annual "love a fair" begins today with ceremonies at 2 p.m., but the festivities start much earlier.

The gates and exhibition halls to the state fair open at 9 a.m., the midway begins business at 10 a.m.

Children from Raleigh's Theater in the Park will release a hogshead of balloons, signaling the official opening of the 112th N.C. State Fair after remarks by Gov. Jim Hunt and Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham.

The ceremonies at the Scott Building are expected to be attended by several thousand people, including various state and local officials.

Morning events include a quarter horse show and the junior steer show.

Afternoon highlights will include a grandstand show and performances by a number of musicians, including Ronnie Milsap.

Fireworks at 9:45 p.m. in the exhibit area will conclude the official activities of opening day, and the fairgrounds will close at midnight.

The fair continues through Oct. 20.

One feature of the fair will be the Village of Yesteryear, where craftsmen from across the state will demonstrate and sell their work.

It's the 29th year for the village, and some craftsmen have attended each year.

Igram Is Still Facing Debts

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Federal reports filed this week show state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram is still faced with debts of $18,674.34 from his unsuccessful U.S. Senate campaign last year.

And Luther Hodges Jr., acting Commerce Secretary and Ingram's chief opponent in the Democratic primary, remains out nearly $400,000 of his own money from that losing campaign, the records show.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Morgan's campaign committee reports it has raised more than $143,000 since July 1 for his 1980 re-election bid.

Hodges' and Ingram's debts are listed in election campaign reports required by federal law and filed with the Federal Elections Commission and the state Campaign Reporting Office this week.

According to the reports, the Friends of Luther Hodges committee still owes Hodges $396,802 for money he loaned the campaign from his personal finances. It owes no one else money, the report said.

Ingram won the 1978 Democratic nomination in a runoff with Hodges but lost to Republican Sen. Jesse Helms in the general election.

The John Ingram for U.S. Senate Committee, formed for that 1978 campaign, reported owing Ingram himself $3,461. The report said the committee owed Ingram $20,000 earlier this year but repaid him $16,539.

The remaining outstanding debts of the Ingram committee are owed primarily to private airplane charter services, to a business machine company and to a newspaper for advertising.

The Morgan report, filed by the Robert Morgan Senatorial Committee with the secretary of the Senate on Thursday, said the committee had $113,385 on hand and had spent $32,961 to raise its funds.

The donations came from more than 3,000 contributors and more than "95 percent of those were from North Carolina," according to a press release from the committee.

The report listed about 20 individuals who have made donations of $1,000.

'Frozen Zone' Security Given Castro

NEW YORK (AP) — Police call it the "Frozen Zone," a four-square-block security ring around the Cuban Mission that chilled business and cooled neighbors. Nearby, the demonstrators protesting Fidel Castro's visit remained definitely not.

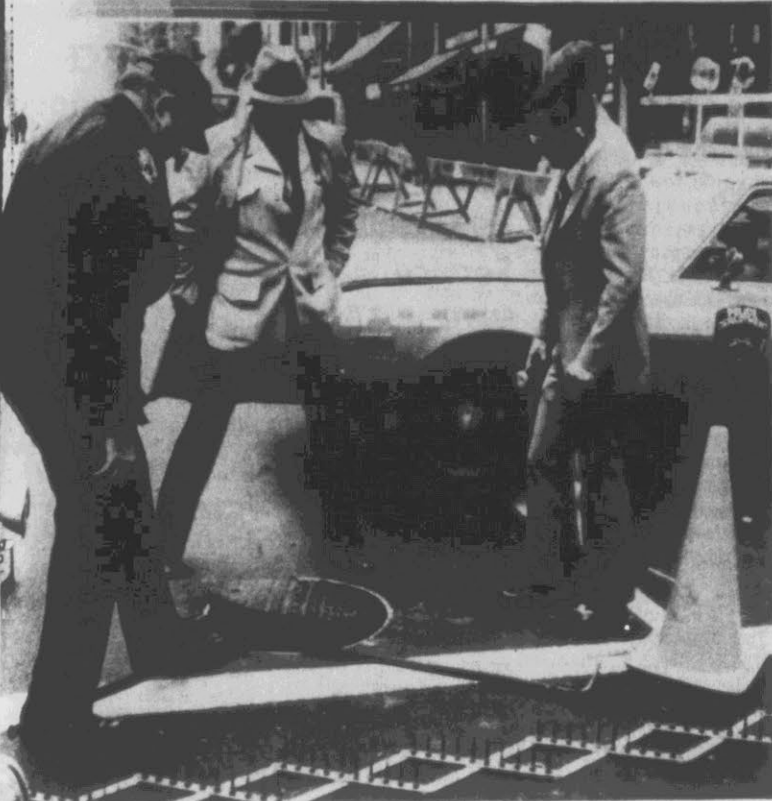

tan mission early Thursday, every woman's purse is searched, 3-inch high spikes are laid across streets to control traffic and machine gun-toting Secret Service agents scan rooftops, windows and doorways for any suspicious movement.

sign at a hotel across the street. "Close the window!" it admonishes. Residents are searched before they enter their apartment buildings. Police, who have said there are "genuine threats" against Castro's life, even escort the mailman on his rounds in the neighborhood. "I have to get my clothes cleaned," said Olsen Entenfer, looking at 17 uniformed police officers, four Secret Service agents, a Cuban bodyguard and six wooden barricades standing between him and the Radiant Three Hour Cleaners. "How am I going to kill Castro with dirty shirts," he said as a Secret Service man thrust his hand into the laundry bag. Satisfied after the search, an agent escorted Entenfer to the cleaners. Throughout the day, the tight security web was tested when tempers flared among a band of about 30 anti-Castro demonstrators.

There were constant taunts of, "First the Pope, now the devil," and "Fidel, go to hell." Castro was secluded in the mission, reportedly reading newspapers and meeting with envoys. The picketers promised thousands of protesters would participate in a demonstration to day at the United Nations when the Cuban leader addressed the General Assembly. At least one man was arrested and taken to Bellevue Hospital for mental observation after he tried to hurdle a double row of police sawhorses.

Since the Cuban President arrived at the midtown Manhattan mission early Thursday, every woman's purse is searched, 3-inch high spikes are laid across streets to control traffic and machine gun-toting Secret Service agents scan rooftops, windows and doorways for any suspicious movement.

THOROUGH SECURITY CHECK — New York Police lift a manhole cover on Lexington Ave. near the Cuban Mission in their protective strategy for the visiting Cuban President Fidel Castro in the city. A four block area around the mission has been closed off, and steel spikes designed to puncture the tires on unauthorized vehicles attempting to enter the area can be seen in the foreground. (AP Laserphoto)

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was 3 cents higher for next week. Supply adequate. Demand good. Weights desirable to heavy. The North Carolina dock weighted average price next week is 39.09 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,617,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady. Supply adequate. Demand good. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds, at farm, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter, 11 to 12 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly today, recovering a small part of its heavy losses over the past few days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 54.99 points in the first four days of the week, was up .60 at 845.22 at noon today.

Gainers held a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said traders were encouraged by the market's relatively steady showing Thursday after the sharp selloff that broke trading volume records earlier in the week.

They also noted that the dollar was doing well in foreign exchange for the second straight day.

And the price of gold dropped to $387.75 an ounce at the morning fixing in London, off $13.75 from Thursday afternoon.

Occidental Petroleum led the active list, up 1/4 at 25 1/2 in trading marked by a 108,000-share block at that price. On Thursday the company reported record third-quarter earnings.

Memorex rose 1/2 to 22 1/2 on top of a 4 1/2-point jump Thursday. The company is opposing a takeover proposal by Storage Technology, and is involved in merger talks with Amdahl.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .21 to 59.72. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.71 to 214.95.

Volume on the Big Board was a modest 15.24 million shares at noon today, down from 25.44 million at the same point Thursday.

BELLEVIEW, ILL. — Edward R. Hioh, 76, died Thursday here. A Masonic memorial service will be held at the Kurrus Funeral Home in Belleville tonight at 7:30. Funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home Saturday, 3 p.m.

Mr. Hioh was a retired engineer for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jane Maier of Greenville and Mrs. Phyllis Nestor of Belleville; and ten grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that contributions be made to the Edward R. Hioh Emergency Student Fund, in care of East Carolina University.

Johnson

FARMVILLE — Funeral services for Mr. James Johnson Sr. of 308 W. Perry Street here will be conducted Sunday at 1:15 p.m. at St. John's F.W.B. Church here by the Rev. J. S. Lucas. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park near here.

Mr. Johnson died at his home

Thursday. He was born and reared in Farmville and attended the area schools. He operated a service station in Greenville for a number of years and was a member of St. John's Church, which he had served on the Trustee Board and in the choir.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mary B. Johnson of the home; four sons, William Earl and Johnny Ray, both of Farmville, the Rev. David Johnson of Fountain and James Johnson Jr. of Oxen Hill, Md.; two daughters, Mrs. Bessie Taylor of Washington, D. C. and Mrs. Carolyn Williams of San Antonio, Tex.; five brothers, Charlie of Farmville, William Clarence of Falkland, Edward of Stanford, Conn., Lester Little of Stanford, Conn., and Herbert of Chicago, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Barnes of Falkland, and Mrs. Annie Mae Mack and Mrs. Minnie Jordan, both of Rochester, N.Y.

The body will be at Joyner's Mortuary after 5 p.m. Saturday. Family visitation will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Saturday. The family will assemble at the home.

Jones

The Rev. William Ernest Jones, associate pastor of the junior church at Mount Calvary F. W. B. Church, Greenville, died Tuesday at Beaufort County Hospital, Washington. Funeral services will be held Monday, 3:30 p.m., at Mount Calvary F. W. B. Church by the Rev. W. L. Jones, pastor. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill cemetery.

The Rev. Jones was born and reared in Greenville. He served as junior pastor of the Arthur Chapel F. W. B. Church for two years. He also served as secretary of

Pirates Host Citadel For Homecoming

Offensive Guard Wayne Inman

Special Honor Given Zwigard

The term "jock" often brings visions of a six-foot, 200-pound hulk, but East Carolina's Kathy Zwigard, a right inner for the field hockey squad is one athlete who doesn't fit the mold.

"It used to bother me to be called a jock," grinned the petite blonde from Lawrenceville, N.J. "One could think that the person doesn't look like a girls and that they are into athletics and nothing else."

While athletics have always been a part of Kathy's life, the 5-4 senior obviously looks like a girl; and is involved in much more than the sport she enjoys so much.

Zwigard and her teammates will do battle next when they host High Point at 10 a.m. Saturday.

But field hockey isn't the only thing that Zwigard is involved in at East Carolina. She is quick to admit that she is active in her sorority, Delta Zeta.

"It is hard trying to divide my time between my sport and the sorority and do a good job with each. Both of them are big commitments that I have made and enjoy," she said.

She must make some sacrifices, but Zwigard has her activities in perspective and emphasizes those she feels are most important.

"I miss a lot of the social benefits of the sorority, being away on the weekends with the team and at practice every day," she said. "But I feel athletics will take me further than the sorority."

In the past, her dedication has resulted in twice being named to the Deep South all-star team, as a freshman and again as a junior. This year, Zwigard is receiving yet another honor, the Mary Ann DeSimone Memorial Scholarship.

The award, which is presented annually to an outstanding female athlete at East Carolina, is a tribute to the memory of Mary Ann DeSimone, a native of North Springfield, Va., who was fatally injured in an auto acci-

Following a week's vacation from the gridiron, the Pirates of East Carolina return to the field Saturday afternoon to play host to rapidly improving Citadel. It will be Homecoming for Pirate fans, with a 1:30 p.m. kickoff set.

The Pirates go into the game with a 2-3 record, having snapped a three-game losing skid two weeks ago with a 45-10 win over Virginia Military Institute.

The Citadel comes in riding a three-game winning streak. The Bulldogs opened with a 21-13 loss to Presbyterian, followed by a 26-7 spanking by the Naval Academy.

But they have followed that up with a 27-14 win over Vanderbilt, a 24-23 win over Appalachian State and a 21-19 victory over Western Carolina. East Carolina beat Western, 31-6, in its opening game.

If there is a joker in the deck, however, it would be Bulldog coach Art Baker, who used to give the Pirates fits when he coached at Furman University, leaving there two years ago for the Citadel job.

East Carolina coach Pat Dye expects that Baker will bring his group into Ficklen Stadium just as wild-eyed and anxious for a victory as any of those Furman teams.

"We look for them to be a very excited team on defense," ECU assistant coach Dick Kupec said. "They have some momentum now, and they played a lot of people in their front eight against Western. They have a very experienced defensive team, with eight people back from last year's squad.

"If they have a weak spot, it's probably at the linebacker position, where they replaced two starters, and then had one of them hurt," Kupec added.

Kupec feels that The Citadel has two strong guards in Scott Wages (6-0, 230) and Sedrick Brown (6-2, 235). "Brown is extremely aggressive and has good size and quickness. Wages is an excellent technique man, and these two are the top tacklers on the team. They are both very active around the ball, and I think we're fortunate to have our best blockers going against them. We're going to have to control them."

At the same time, the two defensive tackles, Chuck Strong (6-0, 225) and Gerry Bigos (6-3, 225), are also very sound in their techniques. "They can make a lot of things happen for them," Kupec said. "Both of them have knocked last year's starters, Bill Hopkins and David Wardlaw out of their jobs, and these two are now the backups, so you can see that they have four people here who are very good."

The other threat on defense is free safety Paul Gillis (5-11, 185), who has been one of the leading tacklers on the team for the past three years. "He's a solid all-conference performer," Kupec said.

"They'll play a lot of people on defense, and keep them fresh," he added.

Turning to the offense, aide Wayne Hall feels the Bulldogs field a sound, fundamental team. "They don't have a lot of size, but they get the job done. They get after you and they don't make mistakes."

Quarterback Tim Russell (5-11, 165) is the key man in their system. A veteran who started most of their games last year, is an outstanding runner. "He's a threat at all times. He'll sprint out and you never know whether he's going to pass or run with the ball."

So far this year, Russell had rushed for 249 yards, third on the team, including one 46-yard touchdown run. He's hit 26 of 67 passes for 348 yards and two touchdowns.

"The Citadel runs out of the I formation, but they operate it like a veer or a wishbone. Russell reads well and has developed into a good passer."

Tops among the running backs is tailback Stump Mitchell (5-9, 180). He's rushed for 358 yards, while backup Danny Miller has picked up 260 yards on the ground.

Hall rates the line as being very consistent, with top play from tight end Orion Rust (6-4, 225). The top receiver is flanker Mark Slawson (6-3, 185), who has 11 catches for 144 yards.

"The Citadel has a better football team, personnel-wise, from those we've seen in the past," Dye said. "Russell reminds me a lot of Robbie Price who used to be at Appalachian State."

Dye still is worried somewhat about his own team's defense, but believes the offense may be at its best ever.

"We're improving from week to week, but on the negative side, we've given up 3.9 yards a rush and 5.1 yards per play. That's a good deal more than last year, about 100 yards a game. I could live with this if the defense were making something happen, but so far they haven't."

Dye pointed out that last year, the Pirates were averaging four turnovers recovered a game. This year, through five games, they have only eight turnovers.

And while the offense has turned the ball over nine times in the games, Dye feels that three of those, all interceptions, came either off tipped passes or desperation ones.

Dye singled out linemen Wayne Inman and Matt Mulholland, along with backs Sam Harrell and Anthony Collins for their play. He added that Billy Ray Washington and Vern Davenport were both having fine years as receivers, and that quarterback Leander Green is having an outstanding season.

"But I hesitate to mention anyone on defense right now," he said. "I do think that Vance Tingler is giving us outstanding leadership, but it's hard to single out any individual who has been exceptional. John Morris (defensive end) has been hurt a lot, and Tim Swords has improved a lot, but also has been hurt. Mike Brewington has been good at times and average at others."

Dye added that Willie Holley and Charlie Carter were the most consistent performers on defense.

"In the kicking game, we are not making things happen with the good return or the fumble recovery. But we have had good coverage on our kicks, except for the one at State (that a punt return for a touchdown by Woodrow Wilson)."

"And our kickers, Rodney Allen (punts) and Bill Lamm (placements) are doing an outstanding job for us," Dye added.

Close Out With Win

STANTONSBURG — Rose's cross-country team ended its regular season on a winning note, defeating North Nash and Beddingfield.

With the win, the Rampants finish the regular season with a 15-2 mark, one of their best ever, according to Coach Ron Hochmuth.

The Rampants tallied 31 points to win, followed by Nash's 37 and Beddingfield's 66.

Sophomores Harry Williams and Kenny Smith finished one-two in the meet, breaking the old course record. Williams ran a 15:48 and Smith finished with a 16:06. The old course record was 16:24.

Steve Dew of Beddingfield ended up third with a time of 16:14, followed by Dwight Davis of Northern Nash, 16:31, Frank Brown of Nash, 16:50, Ed Eley of Nash, 17:01, Casey Darden of Beddingfield, 17:09, Vincent Murphy of Rose, 17:12, Chip Little of Rose, 17:16, and Jim Harris of Nash, 17:23.

Other Rose finishers were (11) Ted Gartman, 17:26, (13) Dan Mayo, 17:40, (14) Larry Talbert, 17:42, (16) Chris Jones, 18:04, (20) Blair Smith, 18:20, (26) Skip Hill, 19:01, (27) Robert Stancill, 19:02, (30) Dan Sharf, 19:24, (37) Charles Fadel, 22:33.

Rose travels back to Stantonburg Tuesday for its Division meet.

Rose Rips Bruins, 52-6

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School's Rampants scored every time they had the ball except for four possessions, rolling to a 52-6 drubbing of the Beddingfield Bruins last night.

Kenny Barnes and Mark Shank both scored twice in the rout, while kicker Ted King added 10 points with seven extra points and a field goal.

Other touchdowns were added by Calvin Whichard, Jeff Porter and Chris McLawhorn along the way.

The lone Beddingfield score came late in the game on an 18-yard run by Karey Gee.

"Everybody played well," a pleased Coach Dave Bumgarner said following the game. "I think we did a fine job both on offense and defense. Beddingfield was never really able to move the ball against our first defense, and scored only against the third and fourth units."

Beddingfield was held to minus yardage in the first half of the game on the ground, netting only ten yards in total offense. They gradually improved that as the Rampants went to their bench, finally ending up with 28 yards rushing and 88 passing.

The Rampants, led by a 109-yard game by Todd Tyson, finished up with 331 yards on the ground and 72 through the air, their best output of the season.

Only four times were the Rampants denied the end zone. On their first possession, they were stopped just inches short on third and fourth downs, turning the ball over. An interception stopped their third chance, and another ended their final one. Only once was King called upon to punt.

Rose got off to a good start when the Rampants drove from their own 30 down to the Bruin six for a first down in just six plays. The key one was a 35-yard keeper by Barnes. But after reaching the six, a pass fell incomplete, a run gained a yard, and a pitch out to Kenny Wilson was stopped only inches outside the goal line. A dive by Shank also was stopped short, turning the ball over on downs.

Rose got it quickly back for its first score, however. After holding, Shank returned a short punt back to the six yard line, and Barnes scored on a keeper around the right side on the first play. King's first PAT made it 7-0 with 5:07 left in the period.

On the first play following the kickoff, Beddingfield fumbled but Rose gave it right back on an interception.

Two plays later, the Bruins again coughed up the ball at their own 16, setting up the second Rampant score. That came in five plays, with Whichard scoring over left tackle from the one. That made it 14-0 with 54 seconds left in the first quarter.

Tyson got the ball rolling for the third score on Rose's first play of the second period. From his own 27, Tyson broke through the middle and rambled 60 yards to the Bruin 13 before finally being hauled down. Four plays later, second string quarterback Jeff Porter keep around the right side for the third touchdown. With 8:29 showing, Rose led 21-0.

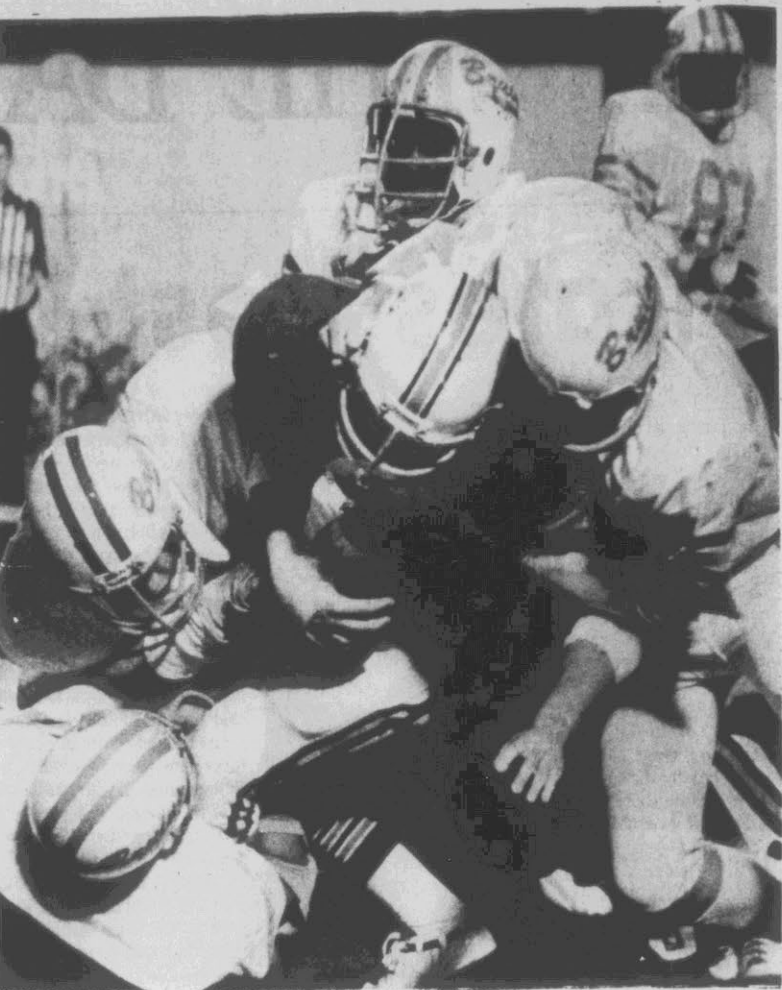

After being forced to punt on its next possession, Rose turned a blocked punt into a score minutes later. Forced to punt from its own 30, the Bruins saw Ron Butler crash through to block the kick, then pick it up, returning it to the four before he was shoved out of bounds. Shank got the first three yards and Barnes added the final yard with 2:51 left. That made it 28-0.

An interception by John Vestal, the first of two by him, gave Rose the ball at the Rampant 29 with just under a minute left. On the first play, Barnes hit McLawhorn on a 59-yard gainer to the Beddingfield 12. Rose reached the six, but then settled for a fourth-down 23-yard field goal by King with 18 seconds showing. That closed out the half at 31-0.

Rose's first series of the second half led to another score. They started from their own 15 and drove in 12 plays, including

As expected, last week's football results did produce a shakeup in the standings of our panel of experts, although Rick Scoppe continues to hold onto his lead in the pack.

He continues to lead the way with a 44-14 record, while Tom Baines and this writer are now knotted for second place with 40-18 marks.

Joe Jenkins holds onto fourth place with a 39-19 record, followed by Etha Allen at 38-20, and our guests trail at 37-21.

As far as our mayorial race went, it ended up just like the elections did. Don McGlohon, the mayor-elect, finished ahead with a 9-2 record, followed by Millie McGrath at 8-3, and Elizabeth Savage at 7-4. Our thanks to the three candidates for joining in the fun.

This week, we've invited back old hand Jim Kyle, our former sports assistant, now a writer for the "Fayetteville Observer." Jim promises to do just as well as he did in the past, but we're not sure how to take that.

At any rate, this week's picks don't show up as showing any great changes in the lineup, but what the heck!

Turning for a moment to the high school ranks, we find a 27-9 mark now following last week's 6-0 record.

Tonight's games feature seven games, including three involving Pitt County teams. North Pitt visits Southwest Edgecombe, North Lenoir is at Farmville Central; and D.H. Conley plays host to Ayden-Grifton in county games. Elsewhere, Washington is at Roanoke; Mattamuskeet at Jamesville; Tarboro at Williamston and Greene Central at C.B. Aycock.

North Pitt is trying to get off a losing streak in the Eastern Carolina Conference, and so is Southwest. The game promises to be the battle for the cellar the way things are going. We feel that Southwest will be fired up for this one, but so should the Panthers. We'll pick North Pitt.

Farmville Central remains not only unbeaten, but the top-ranked team in the state. North Lenoir, after a good start, has fallen off, but could pull off an upset. Still, who can go against the Jaguars. Farmville to win again.

Conley did a good job against Farmville last week, while Ayden-Grifton's offense clicked well against North Pitt. This one could have a lot of fireworks to it, and might be the toughest of those to pick. But I'll string along with the Chargers.

Other picks include Roanoke over Washington; Jamesville over Mattamuskeet; Tarboro over Williamston; and Greene Central over C.B. Aycock.

We are not picking the Rose High game this week, naturally, since it was played last night, and nobody would believe that all six of us picked it correctly.

East Carolina's Pirates will play host to The Citadel in the annual Homecoming game Saturday. The Bucs come off an open date, while The Citadel is riding a three-game winning streak. It has the promise of an exciting game, but our panel goes down the line with the Pirates, seeing a 6-0 ballot.

Our other consensus winners include: Clemson over Virginia Tech; Tennessee over Georgia Tech; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Appalachian State over VMI; Kentucky over Mississippi; Oklahoma over Texas; Duke over Richmond; N.C. State over Maryland; Virginia over James Madison; Florida State over Mississippi State; and Texas Christian vs. Rice, a toss-up.

A speedy Pfeiffer team scored four goals in the second period to rout East Carolina 5-1 in women's field hockey here Thursday afternoon.

Sophomore Kathy Tilton scored with less than three minutes gone in the second half to break a 1-1 deadlock and put the Falcons in the lead for good. Jean Whitehouse, who scored in the first period for Pfeiffer added another goal in the second. Tilton also had another score and Gail Ritzert had the fifth point.

Sue Jones, a junior from Virginia Beach, Va., was the only scorer for the Pirates. Donna Nicholson, a junior from Wallace was credited with the assist.

"We had a good 20 minutes" Pirate Coach Laurie Arrants said. "We are having difficulty putting two halves together."

The Pirates, now 1-3, will see action again Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when they host the High Point Panthers on Bunting Field.

Summary:

dent just weeks before she was to enter East Carolina.

Mary Ann was an outstanding athlete who participated in gymnastics, field hockey, track and softball at Jefferson High School. Each year, Mary Ann's parents Timmie and Des DeSimone travel to Greenville to present the award to the deserving recipient. This year's presentation will be held at Saturday's game with High Point.

"It's very touching to be given this award," said Kathy. "I was overwhelmed when I found out about it. I am looking forward to meeting the DeSimones and just hope I can live up to it."

However, someone feels that Kathy has already proven herself.

"This gesture is something that is based on more than athletic ability and achievement," said Pirate coach Laurie Arrants. "It honors a person's character as well. That is something that Kathy has as much of as she does talent."

Last season, she led the Pirates in assists and was the team's second leading scorer. In last week's 3-2 win over Catawba, Zwigard scored for the first time this season.

"It bothers me not to be scoring, because it's my job," she said. "But that doesn't pressure me, the pressure comes from within. I want to be the best I can be."

With that attitude, character and talent, the Pirate field hockey squad will go onto the field with a little more confidence knowing that the "athlete" Kathy Zwigard is there.

Sanguillen's Hit Gives Pirates Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — The two men involved in one of baseball's most unusual trades combined Thursday night to tie the 1979 World Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles at 1-1.

Manny Sanguillen, 35, ripped a single to right, scoring catcher Ed Ott with the winning run in the top of the ninth to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Only two years ago, the Pirates felt the aging Sanguillen from Panama was expendable. They shipped him and a reported $100,000 to Oakland for A's Manager Chuck Tanner, who replaced the late Danny Murtaugh as Pittsburgh field boss.

It isn't everyday you see a player traded for a manager. The Pirates, however, hadn't forgotten Sanguillen was an integral part of their last World Series team in 1971.

After one season in Oakland, Pittsburgh reacquired Sanguillen for three players. He was relegated to bullpen work and pinch-hitting.

"Anything we do in this Series," said Sanguillen in his halting English, "we are doing for (the late) Roberto Clemente."

Clemente is a Hall of Fame outfielder who was the most valuable player in the 1971 Series for the Pirates in a seven-game triumph over Baltimore. He died in a plane crash while on a mercy mission Dec. 31, 1972.

"Roberto was with me in spirit," Sanguillen said. "My hit — all I do to help the ball club win — is for him."

After Clemente's plane crashed, Sanguillen personally made dives into the ocean, looking for his friend and teammate. Finally friends convinced Sanguillen that his plunges into the choppy water were too dangerous.

"If Roberto was alive, he might be a coach or a manager, but he is still with us. God took him away from us. That is the way life is and it will happen to us all some time. But I still have Roberto in my heart."

In the ninth inning Thursday night, with rain sweeping across Memorial Stadium, Tanner called upon the craggy veteran who had helped make a Tanner dream come true.

Tanner wanted to manage the Pirates ever since he was a boy in New Castle, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

The Pirates had runners at first and second with two out and the score tied 2-2 on the cold, wet night. Tanner told Sanguillen to grab a bat and go out to face ace Orioles reliever Dan Stanhouse.

The Pittsburgh runners were Ott, who had singled, and Phil Garner, who had walked. Stanhouse went to one ball and two strikes on Sanguillen before he threw a pitch out of the strike zone.

Sanguillen, one of the best bad-ball hitters in baseball during his prime, still swings at anything he can reach. He slammed the outside pitch on a line to right for a single.

Ott never stopped as he lit out from second and just slid under the tag of Orioles catcher Rick Dempsey on a relay from outfielder Ken Singleton

In the bottom of the ninth, Pirates reliever Kent Tekulve, who saved 31 games during the regular season, came in and did his act. He retired the side in order, striking out two, and the Pirates headed home for three games in Three Rivers Stadium.

Sanguillen was asked what pitch he was looking for from Stanhouse.

"I just tried to make contact. I don't try to pull the ball with two strikes. He made a good pitch, but it was outside. I don't think it was a strike," Sanguillen said.

Tanner plans to use left-hander John Candelaria in tonight's third game against Baltimore left-hander Scott McGregor, who won the deciding game of the American League playoffs for Baltimore.

The Pirates built an early 2-0 lead in the second inning behind starter Bert Blyleven. Willie Stargell, John Milner and Bill Madlock singled in succession, Stargell scoring, and Ott delivered a sacrifice fly to send home Milner.

The Orioles pecked away at a 16-yard run by Whichard, and another 13-yarder by him. Finally, Shank took a two-yard dive up the middle for the score with 7:30 left and it was 39-0.

McLawnhorn set up the next score with a 31-yard punt return back to the Beddingfield 29. Tyson ripped off 28 more yards to the one and Shank cracked over from there with 1:31 left in the period, putting it to 45-0.

On the first play of the final period, Beddingfield got its first earned first down of the night, having gained two others on penalties against the Rampants.

Two plays later, another penalty nullified a pass interception by King and set up the lone Bruin score. From the Rampant 44, quarterback Greg Dall added 15 yards on a scramble, then hit Kenny Barnes for 11 to the 18. Gee added the final 18, ripping through the middle. A bad snap killed the PAT try, leaving it at 45-6 with 9:41 to go.

Rose came back to score one more time. Taking over at the 40 following the kickoff, Rose added a quick 15 on a penalty, then drove in eight plays, topped by a counter dive by Alonza Taylor that gained 12 yards.

The score came on a one-yard toss from Shank to McLawnhorn with 6:26 left.

If there was any thing negative in the game it was the loss of second unit quarterback Porter, who suffered a broken arm during his second series of the night.

The victory boosted the Rampants' record to 4-2 overall and 2-1 in Division I play. They play at home again next Friday, entertaining Bertie Senior High School.

Blyleven, scoring a run in the second on a home run by Murray, who has four hits and three walks in the two games.

In the sixth, Ken Singleton singled and Murray doubled him home to tie the score. That's the way it stayed until Sanguillen did his thing.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver refused to second-guess Murray on cutting off Singleton's throw trying to cut down Ott in the ninth.

"The third base coach sent him home. We were trying to force the play. They (the Pirates) won the National League pennant and are probably going to make the play more than they won't. When you shoot craps, sometimes you lose," Weaver said.

Tanner was asked if he was playing a hunch when he pinch-hit with Sanguillen.

"No, I wasn't," Tanner replied. "I know Sanguillen can handle the bat, and with the type of pitcher Stanhouse is, I felt he could do the job."

Stanhouse said of the pitcher Sanguillen hit: "It was a slider. It didn't slide at all. Today it was him. Maybe tomorrow it will be me."

Murray said he cut off Singleton's throw because he thought the ball was off line.

Singleton said he would rather have seen his throw go through, but admitted it was a split-second decision.

"Eddie (Murray) did what he thought he had to do. I thought we still could have had him, even after the cutoff," Singleton said.

Dempsey, the catcher, said he tried to swipe at Ott, but the runner already had reached the plate. He said it was a judgment play for Murray and a tough one.

The Run That Won It

Ed Ott, Pittsburgh Pirate catcher, deftly slides his foot across home plate after a hit by teammate Manny Sanguillen in the top of the ninth inning last night in Baltimore to score what proved to be the winning run in the Pirates' 3-2 win. Rick Dempsey, the Baltimore Orioles catcher, reaches in vain to try for the tag. The Pittsburgh win evened the World Series at one game each. AP Laserphoto

Texas, Sooners In Top Match-Up

By The Associated Press

Texas has the defense and Oklahoma the offense. And both have yards of emotional intensity for their annual "Battle of Big D" football game Saturday.

"Texas simply has the finest defense in the country," said Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer as he prepared to play Texas in Dallas.

Oklahoma's high-powered offense has produced 45.5 points and 442 yards a game. The Texas defense, meanwhile, has allowed only 16.5 yards and six points per game thus far.

Both schools come into the Red River rivalry unbeaten for the 22nd time. Third-ranked Oklahoma is 4-0 and No. 4 Texas is 3-0.

"They won't be the best offense we've faced this year, but their defense is their pride," says Sooner defensive back Mike Babb.

Texas leads the overall series 43-27-3 but the teams are tied 16-16-1 since World War II.

There's little problem getting them ready for this game. "We have a lot of starters from Texas," said Babb.

The only Oklahoman on the Texas team is tight end Steve Hall.

Switzer says there's "no other matchup this year like it in collegiate football."

Volleyball

Conley 2, Farmville 0

HOLLYWOOD — Defending champion D.H. Conley continued to roll along in volleyball yesterday, sweeping a pair of matches from Farmville Central.

In the first match, Conley took wins of 15-1 and 15-4. Pam Manning serves up six straight points in the first game, and Tammy Streeter added eight. Glenda Green served up seven in a row in the second, and teamed with Lexanne Keeter for three spikes for points.

In the second match, Conley won 15-2, 15-3. While there were no strings, Green again was a star, spiking five times for points.

Conley is now 9-1 in conference play and travels to Ayden-Grifton on Tuesday for the final match of the year.

North Pitt 2, S. Nash 0

STANHOPE — North Pitt gained a 2-0 sweep of a pair of volleyball matches against Southern Nash High School yesterday.

In the opening match, North Pitt took 15-3 and 15-1 victories. Tammy Purvis served up ten points, while Rene Vernelson added eight.

The second match saw North Pitt picked up a pair of 15-6 victories. Cynthia Short led North Pitt with nine, while Connie Dupree had eight. Cynthia Brown led Southern Nash with nine.

North Pitt is now 3-7 on the year, while Southern Nash is 0-10. The Pant-HERS close out by hosting Greene Central on Tuesday.

Ayden-Grifton 2, Greene C. 0

LITTLEFIELD — The Ayden-Grifton Chargers swept two volleyball matches from Greene Central yesterday.

The Chargers, now 8-2 overall and in the conference, beat the Rams 15-9, 15-4 in the first match. In the second, the Chargers beat Greene Central 15-9, 15-10.

The Chargers play again Tuesday, traveling to D.H. Conley.

Colts Top Vikings

HOLLYWOOD — Halfback Kenneth Randolph scored four touchdowns and ran for 183 yards as Ayden-Grifton blanked D.H. Conley, 36-0, in a junior varsity football game Thursday night.

Randolph scored twice in the opening quarter, on runs of one and 50 yards, to put the Chargers up, 14-0. He then scored twice more in the second period, on runs of 10 and 85 yards.

The Chargers other touchdown came on a 17-yard pass from Tyron Gay to Art Rouse.

Ayden-Grifton, now 2-2-1, takes on North Lenior next Thursday.

Two League Games Highlight ACC Slate

By The Associated Press
About 100,000 people are expected to be within a one-mile radius of the North Carolina State Fairgrounds Saturday afternoon, and it's a good bet that about half won't be there for the state fair.

North Carolina State plays host to Maryland at Carter-Finley Stadium adjacent to the fairgrounds in one of two Atlantic Coast Conference matchups this weekend.

The second pits Wake Forest against North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Both N.C. State and Maryland are trying to recover from the last Saturday's defeats.

Coach Bo Rein is trying to patch together a defense after injuries have seriously damaged his linebacking corps. The Wolfpack, 4-1, had a 14-0 lead against Auburn, but lost, 44-31.

Coach Jerry Claiborne's Terrapins, 3-2, also have suffered their share of injuries. The Terp defense has been the best in the ACC, but Maryland has scored just 14 points the last two weeks.

Wake Forest coach John

Mackovic appears fairly confident that the Deacons may beat the 14th-ranked Tar Heels, 4-0.

But he has to worry about Amos Lawrence and Matt Kupec.

"Well, if we lose it will be just about impossible for us to win the title outright," Mackovic said when asked if a North Carolina victory would remove the Deacons from ACC title contention.

"We have a never-give-up attitude," he said earlier this week. "Besides I think there are more upsets to be had."

Lawrence is the nation's leading rusher, and Kupec is one of the nation's top passers. Then again, Mackovic has Jay Venuto's golden passing arm going for his boys and a 4-1 record.

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum expects a close game.

"Wake Forest is a very fine football team," Crum has been saying to all within earshot. "They are well coached and Venuto runs the offense the way John wants it done."

In nonconference games,

Clemson visits Virginia Tech, Virginia hosts James Madison, Georgia Tech travels to Tennessee and Duke plays at Richmond.

Clemson's defense is second in the ACC, but Coach Danny Ford has been concerned from the start about his offense, and rightfully so. The Tigers, 3-1, have had problems scoring.

Virginia, 3-2, ranks fourth in the conference in offense and third in defense and Coach Dick Bestwick's Cavaliers figure to improve on both of those marks against James Madison. Georgia Tech is in week five of its backbreaking schedule. Coach Pepper Rodgers' Yellow Jackets, 1-2-1, gave a good account of themselves before bowing to Notre Dame last Saturday, 21-13.

Duke, 1-2-1, has not won since opening day, and Coach Red Wilson figures the Blue Devils will change that against Richmond. It will probably be the last time this season the Blue Devils are favored to win.

"It's hard to build overnight with inexperienced players," way they an acquire experience Wilson said, "when the only is to play."

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

National held at the Hilton Hotel in Las Vegas during July and August would have pleased most experienced players.

The opening bid showed 15-17 points and North's response was a transfer bid. South obliged and North, for reasons best known to himself, launched into Blackwood with a void, and then subsided in five hearts. Now Doug recounted his points and found that he had more than he had promised, so he chose to go on to six hearts.

West was quite delighted about his defensive prospects. The opening lead of the five of clubs was covered by the jack, king and ace. At trick two Doug led the nine of hearts and let it run, getting the bad news of the 5-0 trump break. That alone might have unnerved the average declarer, but Doug never lost his cool.

He switched to the king of spades. West covered and dummy ruffed. Declarer returned to his hand with the king of diamonds, cashed the queen of spades, discarding a club from dummy, then ruffed a spade. After cashing the queen of clubs, Hsieh won the next two tricks with the queen and jack of diamonds.

Now West was down to nothing but four trumps, and declarer already had nine tricks in the bank. He led his last spade. West could only ruff helplessly and dummy overruffed. The last diamond in dummy was ruffed with the king of trumps, and declarer still had to score the ace of trumps for his twelfth trick.

Not bad at all. Watch out for this kid when he turns 10!

Showbiz Story, Too Good To Be True

By TOM JORY

NEW YORK (AP) — It's one of those showbiz stories simply too good to be true: A 12-year-old actress plays young Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker" on Broadway, then returns.

Fifth-Grader Had Chance At Stardom

By NAOMI KAUFMAN

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ten-year-old David Barnhill came as close as anyone can get to landing a starring role in a CBS television movie, but it wasn't quite close enough.

The fifth-grade student from Durham auditioned for the role of Booker T in the movie, a pilot for a series tentatively titled "Tumblebunnies."

It's the tale of two boys, one black, one white, who try to bring their feuding families together.

"They told me the other boy had got it, but they said I was really good," David said in a telephone interview Thursday from his Durham home. "I felt kind of bad."

"They said not to give up acting, so I just keep telling myself not to give up," he said.

David excelled in auditions held in Raleigh as part of a national talent hunt by Norman Lear and Alex Haley, the movie's producers.

He went to Hollywood for a screen test last month and was in the running with one other black child, Jermain Johnson of Houston, for the part. The producers selected Johnson last week.

David, who said his only acting experience has been in school plays and in children's parts at plays produced at North Carolina Central University, said his friends at Holloway Street School also told him not to keep trying. He said the 20 years later, as Helen's teacher, Annie Sullivan, in a new TV production of the play. The tale, it happens, is true.

Patty Duke — now Patty Duke Astin — was, indeed, Helen Keller, opposite Anne Bancroft's Miss Sullivan in the 1959 Broadway play and 1962 motion picture. And she will play the teacher in the two-hour NBC special Sunday evening, with Melissa Gilbert from "Little House on the Prairie" as the deaf and blind Miss Keller.

"When I was asked to do it, my reaction was, 'Oh my God, yes,' and 'Oh my God, no,'" Mrs. Astin recalls of what was, at the time, a rather casual suggestion that she return in "The Miracle Worker" as the teacher.

"And then," she says, "when it was about to become a reality, I was terrified."

"Anne Bancroft was very instrumental in calming my fears," Mrs. Astin says. "I television producers told him they may have another part for him later.

He's become something of a celebrity at the school, with his picture adorning bulletin boards in the principal's office, the library, the cafeteria and his classroom.

If he can't become an actor, David said he wants to become a singer and "get real popular and stuff like that."

David, the youngest of four children, is the son of Henry and Dorothy Barnhill of Durham.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 13, 1979

YOUR DAILY

Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are likely to feel imposed upon early in the day, but rise above such a mood and attend to more important matters. Seek the good company of cheerful, optimistic friends.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure to handle home affairs in the morning, then join congenials later in the day at favorite recreation. Express happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle routine chores and shopping, and later improve your skills and talents. Discuss new ideas with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take a good look at your surroundings and make necessary repairs to property. Strive for harmony with family members.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to study your appearance and improve where necessary. Try not to criticize others so much.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There could be delays early in the day that are annoying, but use patience and later all is well. Be with congenials in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right outlet for your talents and you can be more successful. Engage in favorite hobby later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be truthful in a business deal in the morning and later enjoy friends and cultural activities. Use your brains.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You now comprehend how best to gain success in new projects and can get the support you need. Improve prestige.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your intuitive faculties are not working accurately early in the day, so wait until they are. Avoid arguments with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some annoying situation can arise that should be handled and solved quickly. Relax in the evening and ease tensions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't complain about doing work you have committed yourself to and it is easily done. Be more willing to cooperate with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't go off on any fun tangents today, but be cheerful with those you come in contact with. Strive for increased happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one concerned with matters of importance and should have a fine education in order to achieve a great deal in life. Philosophical studies are important here. Give encouragement when it is needed.

Patty Duke received an Oscar as best supporting actress.

"The Miracle Worker" dramatizes Annie Sullivan's determined fight to help Helen Keller learn to communicate from her dark and soundless world.

William Gibson wrote the play, which was produced initially as a television drama in 1957, with Patty McCormick as Miss Keller. Gibson also wrote the teleplay for the current production, which ran for two weeks on the stage in Palm Beach, Fla., a unique form of rehearsal.

Patty Duke appeared in more than 700 live performances of "The Miracle Worker," and was described at the time as the youngest person ever to have starred on the New York stage.

Indeed, Anna Marie Duke's career had begun long before "The Miracle Worker," with television commercials, several live TV dramas, a documentary film and a motion picture, "The Goddess."

She returned to Broadway for "Isle of Children" after filming "The Miracle Worker" in 1962, and for two years had her own TV series, "The Patty Duke Show."

Later, she would win Emmys for "My Sweet Charlie" and "The Captains and the Kings," and appear in several motion pictures, notably "Happy Anniversary," "Valley of the Dolls" and "The Swarm."

She married actor-director John Astin, and, since 1973, they have toured the country in theatrical productions.

An Observer Finds Fun In Onomatopoeia

CHICAGO (AP) — A man who comes across thousands of names while doing his job says some names can be amusing, and some amazing.

An Ardmore, Okla., woman who had tonsillitis and a baby at the same time named her child Tonsillitis Jackson, says Wilfred Brand, title operations officer of the Chicago Title Insurance Co. A brother was named Meningitis and three sisters were named Appendicitis, Laryngitis and Peritonitis, said Brand.

Brand, who has access to 1.2 million names in the company's computerized judgment index file, says his work qualifies him as an amateur onomatopoeist (one who studies the origins of proper names).

A routine part of conducting title searches is keeping close tabs on what people call themselves, Brand said. Although a name may be spelled differently, if it sounds the same it is considered to be the same under law, he said.

Carbon Petroleum Dubbs was Wilmette (Ill.) village president during the 1930s and became wealthy for perfecting an oil cracking process.

Brand said a Honolulu gem dealer named his daughters for notes of the musical scale — Dodo, Rere, Mimi, Fafa, Soso, Lola and Octavia.

Lear Jet designer William Powell Lear called his daughter Chanda Lear, said Brand. And Judge Learned Hand spent 40 years on the bench.

"There was a deed that conveyed property to Elif Srepap," recalled Brand. "Backwards, the name is File Papers."

Beloved By An Elephant

MOSCOW (AP) — Efim Bobonets simply can't retire from his zookeeper job in the Ukrainian city of Kharkov, because leaving might well drive his devoted Asan mad with grief.

Asan is an elephant who was brought to the Kharkov zoo 10 years ago.

At first, as the Soviet news agency Tass reported Thursday, "he was hard to tame, but the man's patience, benevolence and affection made the elephant obedient."

Upon Bobonets' command, for example, the animal would help clean up his own cage or entertain schoolchildren visiting the zoo.

But when Bobonets, 80, tried to retire from his 50 years of zoo work, Tass said, "Asan refused to take food, started trumpeting to the full capacity of his lungs and crushed all equipment he came across in the open-air cage."

Bobonets just had to return. "The elephant calmed down only when he saw his friend. The giant animal rushed to him and embraced him with his trunk," Tass said.

Mark Pastor's Anniversary

The members of Sycamore Chapel Church, Rt. 5, Greenville, will observe their pastor's anniversary beginning Oct. 16 and ending the 19th.

The Rev. Dennis Walston and Salem Chapel Church will be in charge of Tuesday's services, with the Rev. James Harris and Tabernacle Church leading services Wednesday. Thursday, the Rev. James Crandall and Hayes Chapel will conduct services, with Friday's services conducted by the Rev. David Godley and Holly Hill Church.

Sunday, 2 p.m., the final services will be held by the Rev. George L. Harris and the Cornerstone Church of Williamston.

The Rev. Hue Walston, pastor, invites the public to attend these services. Weeknight services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Bible Lands Tour Planned

GOLDSBORO — The Rev. George C. Lee, pastor of Victory F.W.B. Church here, will co-host the 12th annual Winston Sweeney Special Trip to Bible lands.

The group will leave from the Raleigh-Durham Airport Monday, Feb. 25, and the 11-day trip. For further information contact the Rev. Lee, 1806 Wayne Memorial Dr., Goldsboro, 27530.

EVERYTHING IMAGINABLE FOR EVERYONE

Plenty room outside for the children to run and romp and when it's raining they'll have plenty of room for fun and games in their own game room. Mom will have a kitchen with plenty of cabinets and every imaginable built-in that would truly be any gourmet's delight. Dad has his own workshop plus his two car garage. Mom and Dad have a huge master suite and we mean suite! On these nice autumn nights they can lounge on their deck off their suite. There's a huge den with stove fireplace and plenty of built-in bookcases. There's a huge dining room for those formal dinners and a sunken living room. The foyer is fantastic for greeting your guest and the traffic pattern for entertaining is superb. There's 3 more bedrooms that are large and spacious. The inside decor would please the most discriminating. Truly much to this home you must see for yourself. $185,000.

This older home is a gas saver. Thats right a gas saver because its close to almost everything in Ayden. Leave your car in the drive and walk to most schools, shopping, churches, and recreation. Good size too with 4 bedrooms, whopping 13x20 kitchen combination, 1 1/2 baths, big pantry adjoining kitchen, 15x15 living room, central heating system and 82 gallon water heater installed about 3 1/2 years ago, and some insulation. The present owners have done work on this 1768 square foot home and we know there's more you'll want to do so we have priced it accordingly. Worth looking into today.

$17,500

1978 Viscount Mobile Home and lot. The mobile home is in perfect condition, underpenned and a big 14x70. 3 bedrooms, 2 full baths, large closets, kitchen, dining area, fully carpeted, central heat and air. Washer, dryer, refrigerator with ice maker and stove all stay. All on a 130x168 foot lot with trees. No city tax. Located just outside of Greenville in Homestead Mobile Home Estates. Call now.

$20,500

We've had many inquiries about a place in the country, now here it is. When we say in the country, thats exactly what we mean. No city tax and you'll also save with your own water system (new pump house and 210' well 2 years old). Located between 2 rural communities south of Greenville, lets quote some room sizes. Bedrooms: 12x15 1/2, 9 1/2 x 16, 9x15 1/2, living room 13 1/2 x 28, nice size kitchen is 11x15 1/2. Kitchen has been remodeled with modern cabinets and counter. This home boasts 1177 feet of living area, attached garage, nice front porch for just plain relaxing, and a central heating system. By the way, all this on a 9/16 acre yard. Its quiet, its peaceful, and its out of town. See for yourself. Just call us.

$21,500

This yard is a big 92'x175'. In fact the present owner's had a most impressive garden with lush red tomatoes, green cabbage, bright radishes, and vegetables of all kinds. There's also mature pecan trees that afford nice shade as well as delicious nuts. This is an older 1 1/2 story home in Ayden with 4 bedrooms, den, large living room, 2 baths, convenient kitchen, large utility room, and friendly front porch. The home is so arranged that 2 rooms upstairs can easily be rented. Though the owner is painting the outside, there will be work you'll want to do. But, take your time, the home is very livable now. Good residential area. Your inspection is invited now.

$41,900

Modern 4 bedroom ranch in excellent neighborhood. Aluminum siding, central heat and air, family room "L's" just off kitchen and dining room, 2 baths, living room, carpet throughout, storm windows, doors, single car garage, patio, and a beautiful tree studded back yard with chain link fence. Ayden.

Police 'Stings' Making A Dent In Robbery Crime

By MIKE STANTON
Associated Press Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — For three months, Rochester police officers asked local criminals what they knew about a fencing operation working out of an old downtown grocery store.

Word spread. So when thieves began driving stolen cars into the garage behind the store this spring, they never suspected the "fence" who was buying the cars was really an undercover police agent. Agents made deals for 64 stolen cars, paid $250,000 for other stolen property and in three months collected enough evidence to arrest 36 persons on 111 counts of possession of stolen property.

With greater frequency, police across the country are using "stings," phony fencing operations, to con thieves out of millions of dollars in stolen goods.

In Buffalo, N.Y., an undercover officer posing as an antique dealer bought half a million dollars worth of stolen goods in nine months, including diamonds, pearls, rare coins, gold ingots and a 1655 Rembrandt painting stolen in France.

In Memphis, Tenn., "Operation Hotstuff" convinced local criminals the proprietor of a wholesale lamp sales outlet was related to a former East Coast underworld boss. In eight months, agents had infiltrated interstate drug fencing organizations and arrested 74 persons, 73 of whom pleaded guilty to 224 felony indictments.

In Los Angeles, the county sheriff's office and the FBI ran a 22-month sting that used seven storefront fencing operations to recover more than $42 million worth of contraband. More than 260 persons were arrested.

The operations were all part of a new federal attack on property crime, one that has seen $190 million worth of goods recovered with an expenditure of $6 million.

Responsible for the increase in anti-fencing operations is the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which has funded 79 "sting" operations since 1974 and is now financing another 55.

The operations aim to disrupt the system by which stolen property is distributed. Taking away that market, LEAA officials say, is a new approach to cutting property crime, which accounts for about 90 percent of all crimes reported in the country.

"We're actively going after criminals instead of waiting for them to come to us," said Rochester Police Chief Thomas Hastings.

"Receiving stolen property is probably the biggest money-maker for criminals in the country," said Rod Carr, a Syracuse, N.Y., police spokesman. "It's bigger than drugs, bigger than anything. And now that we have the funds from LEAA, we're finally doing something about it."

Since 1974, sting operations have led to more than 6,400 arrests across the country.

"We're actively going after criminals instead of waiting for them to come to us," said Rochester Police Chief Thomas Hastings.

"Receiving stolen property is probably the biggest money-maker for criminals in the country," said Rod Carr, a Syracuse, N.Y., police spokesman. "It's bigger than drugs, bigger than anything. And now that we have the funds from LEAA, we're finally doing something about it."

Since 1974, sting operations have led to more than 6,400 arrests across the country.

According to the LEAA, 8,691 indictments have been handed down, and because the evidence is so convincing, prosecutors have posted a conviction rate of better than 90 percent, more than 17 percent above the national average for criminal convictions.

Because the phony operations are so believable, criminals who like to brag about their exploits have unwittingly confessed to more than just property crimes. The stings have led to convictions for murder, arson, assault and drug dealing, said James Golden, director of LEAA's Criminal Conspiracies Division.

Golden said that even after a sting has shut down, the memory still deters crime. Four to 15 months after the finish of successful stings, he said, cities reported a 5 percent drop in larceny, 15 percent in robbery and burglary and 26 percent in car thefts.

Golden said the operation makes criminals wary of approaching a real fence for fear they may be walking into a trap.

"The operations have a psychological affect among the criminal community," he said. "It keeps them nervous and off balance."

The operations can be dangerous.

Golden said a sting in El Paso, Texas, was shut down last year after seven armed men tried to hold up the undercover agents, starting a shootout that killed three persons, including two agents.

Many police departments protect their men by hiding officers armed with shotguns behind one-way mirrors. Also concealed behind the mirrors is equipment essential to later convictions — movie cameras and tape recorders.

"It's the old story of a picture being worth a thousand words," Golden said. "In the past, police had to testify as to what a suspect said and what transpired and it was easier for the suspect to argue. But what's on the videotape is damned near irrefutable. It psychologically zaps the defendants."

Will Speak At Laity Sunday

Dr. William Preston (Bill) Wilson, professor of psychiatry and head of the division of biological psychiatry at Duke University Medical Center, will be guest speaker at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church's Laity Sunday services, Oct. 14, 11 a.m.

Laity speaker for the 8:45 a.m. services will be Mrs. Nancy Middleton, president of the United Methodist Women of Jarvis Memorial. Mrs. Middleton was certified this summer as a lay preacher in the United Methodist Church.

Mitchell Jones will preside at the services. A children's sermon will be given by Mrs. Dabney Glick prior to a prayer by Mrs. Pinkney B. Young III. Robert I. Barnes Jr. will read the scriptures.

Special solo music at the 8:45 a.m. service will be provided by baritone vocalist Dan Holland, director of music at Jarvis Memorial. Organ music will be provided by Mickey Terry.

Rector Will Get Degree

ALEXANDRIA, VA. — The Rev. Don Raby Edwards, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Richmond, Va., will receive the Doctor of Divinity degree at the annual Fall Academic Convocation of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Virginia Monday, Oct. 15.

Edwards, a former Greenville resident, attended East Carolina University, receiving his bachelor's degree in 1955. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from the Virginia Seminary. He was ordained to the diaconate in 1958 and ordained to the priesthood in 1959.

Edwards has served parishes in Havelock, Wilmington, Goldsboro and Athens, Ga. He has served as rector of St. Stephen's since 1973.

REV. D. R. EDWARDS

Selected For Council Board

REIDSVILLE — Ann Bellis of Greenville has been named to the Board of Directors of the Conservation Council of North Carolina.

The action took place during the Council's annual meeting here Sunday. Lavon Page of Raleigh was elected president of the state organization.

WOW Meeting Set Oct. 18

MOUNT OLIVE — The Cape Fear District Association of the Woodmen of the World will hold its annual meeting Thursday, Oct. 18, in Mount Olive. The business will begin at 5:30 p.m. in the Mount Olive Lodge Hall, with the evening banquet at the National Guard Armory.

Featured speaker will be T. E. (Ted) Newton, national secretary for Woodmen of the World, Omaha, Nebraska.

The Cape Fear district is composed of 13 southeastern North Carolina counties.

Unitarians Set Seminar

The Rev. Vernon Chandler will conduct a seminar, "Building Your Own Theology," Sunday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at Planter's Bank building here.

Sponsoring the program is the Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Greenville. Unitarian-Universalists have a reputation for tolerance and have traditionally provided a haven for religious humanists such as Thomas Jefferson, Florence Nightingale, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and Linus Pauling, local leader, Carol Cox, said.

Rev. Chandler received his religious academic training at Methodist College in Spartanburg, S.C., Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., and Candler School of Theology of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga. His clinical pastoral counseling took place at the Georgia Mental Health Institute. He was ordained to the U-U ministry in Atlanta in 1976. In the spring of 1979, he was called to the U-U parish of Kinston and Seven Springs, where he lives. He teaches religion courses at Lenoir Community College and serves as an Army Reserve chaplain.

The public is invited to attend the seminar.

YARD SALE

A yard sale will be held by Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church Saturday at the church, located on Mumford Road.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

Newspaper Carrier Day
October 13, 1979

I am pleased to congratulate the young people who deliver newspapers in cities and towns all over our nation. Newspapers are important to our American way of life, and you help us to be informed citizens by getting the news to us in a timely fashion.

At an early age you are learning personal discipline and responsibility. Sometimes you may not feel like getting up early or facing bad weather, but you do it all the same because you know that other people depend on you. You are learning as well that customer satisfaction is important to maintaining a demand for your services.

Whether you pursue a business career or follow some other career path, the experience you are now acquiring can help you become a more productive member of our society.

Rosalynn joins me in sending each of you our best wishes for the future.
