DEMOLISHED CARS — Rescue personnel work at the scene of a head-on crash which killed two persons last night. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Head-On Collision Killed Two Persons Wednesday

By TOMMY FORREST
Reflector Staff Writer

Two persons were killed late Wednesday afternoon when two cars collided head-on on U.S. 264 about two miles west of Greenville.

According to Trooper A. G. Wright a car driven by Malachi Lewis Evans, of Greenville was headed east on U.S. 264 when it hit another car head-on. Trooper Wright identified the woman in the other car as Peggy Smith Bowen, of Ayden. Both died in the crash.

Eyewitness to the accident, Joseph Braswell, of Snow Hill, told investigators he was standing along the highway when he saw the Evans car pass another car headed east just before the beginning of the four lane of U.S. 264.

Braswell gave this account, "He (Evans) passed a car and didn't pull back. There was this lady getting ready to turn left in the turn lane and he (Evans) just hit her head-on."

"I saw some fire under the hood of one of the cars. I was really scared they would come over where I was standing," Braswell added.

Trooper Wright confirmed that the Bowen vehicle was preparing for a left turn onto rural paved road 1127 when the accident occurred.

Medical examiner Lawrence Harris said both victims died of head injuries. Harris said Mrs. Bowen was dead at the scene while Evans was pronounced dead at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Members of the Greenville and Winterville Rescue squads were called to the scene along with the Red Oak Fire department.

Investigation into the 6:15 p.m. accident is continuing.

See Housing Starts Surprisingly Strong

By EILEEN ALT POWELL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The construction of new houses and the sale of existing homes have remained strong into the fall, but housing experts see a precipitous drop on the horizon.

What will soon turn things around, analysts said Wednesday, are mortgage interest rates soaring to 14 percent or more and a severe shortage of loan money.

The predictions came as the government and private industry announced surprisingly strong housing figures for September.

—The Commerce Department said new housing construction rose 4.2 percent last month to an annual rate of 1.88 million units. Much of the strength was attributed to a 25 percent jump in starts on new apartment units, many of them federally subsidized.

—And Jack Carlson, chief economist for the National Association of Realtors, said sales of existing homes rose nearly 3 percent in September to an annual rate of 3.95 million units. "This could be our second best sales year ever, second only to 1978," Carlson said.

Meantime, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker warned that Americans will have to accept a lower standard of living if inflation is to be controlled.

Volcker told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that if people "try to catch up with the existing standard of living or try to increase their standard of living...up goes the price level some more."

The September housing figures came as a surprise to many analysts.

Housing experts had expected both starts and sales to fall off sharply by now because of the economic downturn that began in the year's second quarter.

But demand has remained strong despite record high mortgage rates, now in excess of 11 percent nationwide.

Carlson attributed the continued housing demand to the maturing of the "baby boom" generation, which is in the age range for many first-home purchases, and to inflation, which has driven people to buy real estate as tax shelters.

What could dampen the demand is the Federal Reserve's Oct. 6 announcement that it was raising a key interest rate and changing the way it controls monetary growth.

The board's policy change comes as savings and loan associations are reporting a decline in deposits and, thus, a loss of money they could lend as mortgages.

Terrorist Link In Chicago Bombings

CHICAGO (AP) — Explosions shook a Chicago city-county government building late Wednesday and left a small crater at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center in a series of bombings apparently connected with a Puerto Rican nationalist group, police said.

A dynamite bomb also was found at an office building and disarmed, police said.

Earlier Wednesday evening, an anonymous telephone call to television station WBBM had warned of "a series of bombings" by the Puerto Rican terrorist group FALN.

No one was injured in the blasts.

The explosion in the office building extensively damaged a bathroom near the offices of Cook County Board President George Dunne. Mayor Jane Byrne has offices on that floor in another part of the building.

"You can figure it was a dynamite bomb," said Fire Commissioner Richard Albrecht.

The blast at the Navy facility in North Chicago occurred about the same time, shortly before midnight, authorities said.

A bomb consisting of four sticks of dynamite and a timer was discovered and disarmed in a building housing several Republican organizational offices only a few hundred yards from the government building, authorities said. It also had been set to go off shortly before midnight.

Police said officers were searching other government buildings today, but there were no reports of other bombs.

Navy Lt. George Farrar, a spokesman for the naval training center, said the blast blew out windows on the east side of a one-story, wood-frame building and left a two-foot crater about six inches deep outside the building. The blast lifted a concrete parking lot marker and slammed it against a car about 12 feet away, he said.

The site of the blast was about two miles west of the main base, in an unrestricted area where access could be gained without checking in with guards, he added.

TAKING REQUESTS

Persons needing the home weatherizing service of the "War on Winter" project of the Greenville Energy Program and the Conservation Dept. of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville are asked to call 752-1717 by Oct. 26. This phone number is that of the Pitt County Council on Aging, which has volunteered to accept calls for the project. Elderly and handicapped citizens of Greenville are invited to avail themselves of this service, if they or members of their family cannot handle such jobs as caulking, weatherstripping, applying plastic over windows, and cutting firewood.

DRY ICE SOURCE?

Is there a place in or around Greenville where dry ice can be purchased? S. C.

A telephone call to both Pitt County Memorial Hospital and the ECU Chemistry Department provided the address of a place in Durham. It is Carbonic Industries Corp., 205 OI-H Raleigh Road, Durham, 27700.

PROJECTOR NEEDED

A Peace Corps volunteer in El Salvador has notified the Peace Corps / VISTA Alumni group in this area that he would appreciate help in locating a 16-millimeter projector for use in a mental health organization in that country.

Michael N. Gibbons, who is originally from North Carolina, has requested the projector for use in a special education program in this Central American nation. Anyone interested in his request is asked to contact Peace Corps/VISTA Coordinator Emily Coble, 756-7775.

Stewart Definitely To Seek Lt. Governorship

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Although he has not yet made an official announcement, N. C. House of Representatives Speaker Carl Stewart makes it plain it is his intention to run as a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor in the 1980 elections.

"I'm definitely laying the foundation for the race as a candidate for lieutenant governor," Stewart commented on a visit to Greenville Wednesday. "While I'm here in Greenville, I'm meeting with political leaders and attending the Tar River Fellowship Club meeting."

The Gaston County native, son of millworker parents, has been Gaston's representative since 1967 and is the first person in recent N. C.

history to be elected to a second term as house speaker.

A former chairman of the legislature's appropriations committee, Stewart mentioned "I was an early advocate for a medical school at ECU, and was chairman of the appropriations committee when $15 million was allocated for the school in the 1973-74 session of the legislature."

"I'm still interested and supportive of the ECU med program, and will be taking a look at the school and the program while I'm here."

On the possibility of higher interest rate having an impact on available state revenues, Stewart said "If high interest rates persists, it is only natural that business activities are going to diminish, so eventually we will see the effect of this in revenue collections.

"This fiscal year," Stewart added, "general fund revenue collections are holding up pretty good."

"Highway funds, in contrast, are in difficulty. Already we are facing the possibility of slowing down on plans for highway work."

Stewart feels, however, this situation will not adversely change plans for work underway on U.S. 264. "I don't feel that the section of U.S. 264 between Greenville and Wilson is in jeopardy. I don't know of any highway project with a higher priority. It is an expensive project, but work on it is being speeded up, and I feel plans for this highway will remain intact."

Democrats Turn Out For Fellowship Club's Rally

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

About 225 Democrats and Democrat Party politicians attended the third annual North Tar River Fellowship Club session held at the M. K. Blount Farms' River Road Ranch last night.

Ed Warren, a member of the Board of County Commissioners and one of the club sponsors, acted as master of ceremonies. He told the gathering, "we're glad to have a lot of Democrats get together and discuss a few plans."

M. K. Blount, another of the club's sponsors, said he was, "interested in having a lot of fellowship here," pointing out that the club is, "not a political organization. We just want fellowship with the men in government."

And the men in government — and those that would like to be — were there. Former Gov. Bob Scott, who is expected to challenge Gov. Jim Hunt for the Democrat nomination as governor, attended, as did Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, House Speaker Carl Stewart, who will oppose Green in the Democrat primary for nomination as lieutenant governor, Commissioner of Insurance John Ingram, as well as George Breece, a candidate for the office of Secretary of State, and Commissioner of Labor John Brooks.

Other politicians included N.C. Appeals Court Judge Robert Martin, State ABC Board Chairman Marvin Speight, Senators Vernon White and Julian Allsbrook, Representatives Horton Rountree and Sam Bundy, as well as members of the Board of County Commissioners, Mayors and city board members.

Membership Campaign Underway

RALEIGH — Mrs. William S. Corbitt Jr. of Greenville, state membership chairman for the North Carolina Museum of History Associates, led the kick off for the 1979 membership campaign at an Executive Mansion coffee.

First Lady Mrs. James B. Hunt Jr. honored the associates' campaign volunteers, which is a statewide volunteer and financial support group for the N. C. Museum of History, its Northeastern Museum Service Branch, the Museum of the Albemarle and the 23 state historic sites.

According to Mrs. Corbitt, a primary concern of the associates is that antiques and artifacts which tell the state's history are lost or sold outside the state because the museum receives only $4,500 annually in state funds for acquisitions. The associates use membership dues to purchase N. C. artifacts when they come on the market.

Mrs. Corbitt announced Andy Griffith had agreed to serve as honorary chairman for the museum again this year. She said, "In 1978, with the help of Andy Griffith and campaign workers across the state, we more than doubled our membership to 2,200 members statewide."

After the coffee, a training session was held and included slides of a number of artifacts.

The associates set a campaign goal of 3,200 new and renewal memberships.

The state is divided into 15 districts for the drive, each with a district chairman, county chairman and campaign volunteers. Mrs. Roger Mann of Greenville is district chairman for this area. Pitt County Chairman Mrs. William Taft of Greenville will be assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Perkins, Mrs. C. E. Baker, Mrs. I. Jackson Edwards Jr., Mrs. Charles Howard Jr., Mrs. John Howard, Mrs. Jerry

Jodi Hyder Gives Meeting Highlights

Highlights of the Coastal Area meeting held in Rocky Mount in September were given by Jodi Hyder at the dinner meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club.

The meeting was also attended by Estella Dunbar, president, and Arlene Mallison.

Polly Dail, chairman of National Business Women's Week commented on the special activities the club had planned for the observance including: attending a Sunday morning service at Memorial Baptist Church; attending a dutch breakfast yesterday; and an open house will be held at the home of the president in Farmville Sunday afternoon.

Ms. Hyder announced the Young Careerist contest will be held at the November meeting.

Carol Hignite, chairman of the public relations committee, introduced Mrs. Barbara DeVoss, manager of Carolina East Mall, who presented the program. She was named business woman of the year in 1974 in Montclair Heights, Calif. She gave a description of her work with the Hanh Property Management Corp.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A lot of us go through life thinking we have a marriage based on trust, faith, and affection.

Well, I'm here to tell you you have to be on your toes every minute. Everyone knows how I've lusted after Ultra-Suede. The first time I heard Ultra-Suede in motion was in an auditorium in Columbus, Ohio. I'll never forget I've lusted after Ultra-Suede. The first time I heard Ultra-Suede in motion was in an auditorium in Columbus, Ohio. I'll never forget the sound of those 800 women rustling into their seats if I live to be a thousand. It sounded like 1500 corduroy knees rubbing together.

"What is that?" I asked the chairman.

"Ultra-Suede," she said. "Everyone's wearing it."

I made my decision that day to go right out and finance a skirt. When I told my husband of my decision he was shocked.

"You'd never live with yourself if you knew how many Ultrasuedes gave their lives just to hang on your back."

"What are you talking about?"

"Ultrasuedes. Haven't you seen them? They're little wrinkle-free, drip-dry animals about 15 inches long who used to be indigenous to Beverly Hills. Lord, I remember how they used to roam in herds . . . their Hunter Green, Tawny Beige, Electric Blue, and Fire Island Red coats glistening in the sunlight. Then people began to kill indiscriminately and make suits and tailored dresses out of them. Now they're in the process of being protected under federal law."

I hesitated. "How come I never heard of Ultrasuedes before?"

"I don't wonder," he sighed. "They're almost extinct. In a few years we'll have children growing up never knowing that an Ultrasuede once roamed this earth . . . free."

Ultrasuedes would have been closed had it not been for a visit with Mayva. She talked one of her kids into believing an overbite made him look like John Travolta and bought an Ultra-Suede suit for herself instead. I made the mistake of asking her when she was getting it out of fur storage.

I see a new species about to become endangered. They're called husbands.

Credit Women Install Officers, Make Awards

Greenville Credit-Women International held its annual bosses night at the Greenville Country Club Tuesday evening. New officers were installed and boss of the year and credit woman of the year were named.

State President Angelene Vinters installed the following: Mrs. Lind Westbrook, president; Mrs. Mildred Porter, first vice president; Mrs. Lillie Darden, second vice president; Mrs. Jackie Goodson, recording secretary; Mrs. Lois Stanley, treasurer; Mrs. Louise Stox, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Pearl Hartsell, parliamentarian.

Members of the board of directors are Mrs. Carol Hardee, Mrs. Mary Roberson, Mrs. Martha Mills and Mrs. Vinters. Sponsors are Edward Hackett, Frank Lawrence, Maynard Porter and Mrs. Joanne White.

The theme for the installation was "Angels of Credit" and each officer was presented an angel as a symbol of her duties.

Hackett, patient representative at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, was named boss of the year by Mrs. Hardee. The selection is based on the participation of a boss in the club, attending meetings, giving programs, donations and being a sponsor.

Mrs. Porter was named credit woman of the year and given the award by Mrs. Vinters. This award is given to the member who has contributed the most to the ideals and purposes of her club.

Guests present included husbands of members, bosses and their wives and Kinston club members.

State Chaplain Mrs. Roberson gave the invocation. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Kachmer and response was given by Dan Gregory. Mrs. Hartsell introduced guests. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Gail Crisp, pianist, introduced by Mrs. Inja Wingate.

Mrs. Wingate was chairperson of the evening assisted by Mrs. Stox, Mrs. Audrey Norris and Mrs. Darden.

Bride Wants Place For Youngsters

DEAR ABBY: I'm planning my wedding and want to provide a nursery where the guests can leave all children under 4.

Do you think that would hurt the feelings of relatives with small children?

I don't want screaming babies, fussy or restless tots, or children dropping hymnals, all of which I've seen happen time and time again!

Small children are wonderful, but not when they cry and talk during a wedding ceremony which should be a sacred occasion.

Would it be proper to include a note with my wedding invitations notifying the guests that such a nursery is available for all children under 4?

BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE: It's not only proper, it's a great idea.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a neat one for you. Mom was widowed many years ago and has since built herself a very successful career as a realtor. She's 60-ish, slim and attractive, but she's allowed her business to usurp her social life.

Recently, in showing a property, she met a widower her age who lives just a few blocks from her. He's tall, good-looking, gray-haired and well-dressed. He lives alone in a big house and has several foreign cars. I've met him, and he's really a great guy who looks and acts like he's not exactly hungry.

Well, this gentleman has been giving Mom a big rush and providing her with lots of fun and laughter. Recently he sent Mom a semi-serious invitation in the mail inviting her to "spend several naughty days with me at one of California's most romantic spots—Carmel."

I said, "Mom, get with it and go!" Mom said, "No way; it's just not my lifestyle."

What do you say, Abby?

TODAY'S DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Don't try to redesign Mom in your image. It's not easy for some people to "get with it" when they've gotten along nicely WITHOUT it for years.

Club Dinner Set For Dec. 7

The Westhaven Home and Garden Club held its meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Felice Parent. Mrs. Peggy Neill was assisting hostess.

Plans have been finalized for the club's Christmas dinner Dec. 7. Members will be working on crafts and baked goods this month to sell at the silent auction at the November meeting. Proceeds from the auction will be used to sponsor a child at Christmas.

The program was an informal demonstration by several members of craft ideas which included monogramming towels with cross stitch, macrame wreaths and making dough flowers for miniature pictures.

Integrity Requires Listening

UNC President William C. Friday and other higher education officials from North Carolina apparently got curt treatment from Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Patricia Harris in a recent conference concerning HEW demands of the UNC system.

The shabby treatment drew the ire of Gov. Hunt and a spokesman for the governor said he contacted the White House to complain when he learned of the problem.

The fact that Mrs. Harris would not listen to an educator of Dr. Friday's stature is deplorable. Mrs. Harris, or any other high federal official, should know that refusal to listen to valid arguments does not convey the image of an agency acting in a fair and impartial manner.

If President Carter places any value on the integrity of his administration he will order his HEW secretary to hear the North Carolina higher education officials.

Needed Facility For A Growing City

With a groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday construction of a $1.9 million public works facility officially got underway.

Getting the project started was one of the accomplishments of outgoing Mayor Percy Cox's administration.

When completed in October, 1980 the project will provide improved garages and other facilities for the Department of Public Works. It also should take care of a growing city's future needs.

School Changes Mapped

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — If it seems the world around you is changing more rapidly than you can adjust to it, consider what that is doing to the kids.

Those who espouse a "back-to-basics" simplistic approach to modern-day school dilemmas would be well advised to spend a few hours browsing through the most recent publication from the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

It is called "Competency Goals and Performance Indicators, K-12". Definitely not light reading. State Superintendent Craig Phillips considers the publication a followup and companion piece to the 1977 "Course of Study for Elementary and Secondary Schools: K-12".

The purpose of the combined volumes is, at the simplest, to put down in writing what schools ought to be trying to teach and at what level that teaching ought to be done, so that parents and professional educators alike can keep track of progress, or lack of progress, given even individual child's differences.

Plan
George A. Kahdy, assistant superintendent for instructional services, puts it this way: "This is not intended to create a static, mechanical curriculum, for that would be detrimental to students and to the educational process."

"It should not be considered the maximum, the minimum, nor the total curriculum. It is not to be viewed as an effort to destroy a local school system's initiative to develop its own curricular material nor to replace the material which a school system has already carefully designed for its students."

"Its purpose is not to label students, measure teacher competence, nor determine promotion and retention."

The purpose, Kahdy says, is to help educators plan curriculum and programs to help students learn to their maximum; and help parents and laymen "have a better knowledge of what our schools are trying to teach; and with this understanding they will be better able to help us with our work as well as provide the necessary resources."

Plan

help the youngsters with their homework lately will welcome the fact that the schools indeed reflect the rapidly changing world around us as knowledge and technology expand at ever-increasing rates.

The school library is no longer a roomful of books. It is the media center, and the state guides devote a major section to how students must learn to use different resources (television, computers, projectors, cassettes and recorders, etc.) in the search for answers and knowledge.

Sections labeled "Healthful Living" and "Cultural Arts" occupy significant parts of the 279-page Goals book. Under two categories called Goals and Performance Indicators, we learn that students should be taught:

Fact
To recognize propaganda in popular songs and television commercials; to distinguish between fact and fancy in fact-food advertising; to know the dangers of smoking, overweight, inactivity; to be aware of the dangers in drug use; to resolve human conflicts, etc.

But nowhere is change more evident than in the mathematics section. The introduction calls it "broader and more inclusive than in the past" and points to cultural changes and technological revolutions involving math in behavioral sciences, computers, decision-making, and probabilistic math in "all areas from business to medical research to quantum mechanics, and a vast host of new applications..." Math today is even concerned with distinguishing fact from opinion, relevant from irrelevant data, and experimental results from proven theorem.

BILL NOBLITT

At every turn, both publications — and top state officials — repeat the position that none of the material is imposed upon local schools, but is to help set guidelines for student achievement.

Why Not Goldwater?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The Republicans are having their problems these days, and I have a solution for them: Bring back Barry!

This stroke of inspiration derives from a book fresh from the press, "With No Apologies," a personal and political memoir by the senior senator from Arizona. Hi ho, it sets the old adrenals pumping.

For many of us on the conservative side, Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign of 1964 had the unforgettable exhilaration of a great run on skis. It was downhill all the way, but by God, it was glorious. In the end, we wiped out. Lyndon Johnson swamped our man by 16 million votes; it was 486 to 52 in the Electoral College; we carried only six states — Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. Eight years later, George McGovern would record a greater disaster for the Democrats, but the debacle of 1964 was the Republicans' Johnstown flood. The survivors emerged from the ruins battered and beaten, but we carried a banner with a great device: In our hearts we knew we were right.

Goldwater's memoir brings it all back, the whole crusade, the splendid futility, the joy of total commitment to a cause that was lost before it began. In the autumn of 1964, less than a year after the assassination of John F. Kennedy, no Republican candidate could have beaten LBJ. The country was not about to embrace a third president in a span of 15 months. Barry Goldwater gave his best effort. He waged a clean and honest campaign against a host of distortions and dirty tricks. Remember the TV commercial of the little girl picking daisies while the atom bomb explodes? Goldwater never had a prayer.

He recalls the campaign: "In 1964 I addressed myself to the quality of life in the United States. I warned that a continuation of existing policies must inevitably lead to expanding bureaucratic control over the people's lives. I said that continued unbalanced budgets would bring on more inflation and that one day the sheer weight of the national debt would destroy our economy."

"I argued that government was necessary to protect the people from our enemies overseas, to restrain the greedy and the lawless and to provide a civil framework for the growth of commerce and industry. I said that everything else which needed to be done could be better done by the people themselves without government interference."

You will seldom find a better two-paragraph explication of Republican principles than Goldwater here provides. His memoir breathes the fierce, fire-eating spirit of a man who truly has kept principle ahead of politics all his life. When he first ran for the Senate in 1952, he told his beloved Peggy that "We are all required to pay rent for the space we occupy on this earth." His way of paying the

Other Editors Say Aid Is A Noose

(The Wilson Times)

Local governments that accept federal grants are in somewhat the same position as individuals who borrow from a loan shark. Hapless creditors of the loan shark are forced to pay exorbitant interest and find it difficult to get out of debt. Local governments yielding to the lure of federal funds become enmeshed in red tape and lose control over their activities.

During the early 1970s the City of Wilson jumped at the offer of federal funds to finance a major expansion of municipal waste treatment facilities.

Now the federal government is demanding that Wilson eliminate red ink from its water-sewer operation. To comply, local officials have no choice but to impose a 12-15 percent increase in sewer service charges for residential users and to hike the cost to industrial customers by 100 percent or more.

There is nothing wrong with putting water and sewer operations on a break-even basis, but the idea of federal dictation is repugnant.

In a related development, the federal government has decided to scrutinize Wilson's utilities operations, citing authority granted under provision of the Public Utilities Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA).

This means that the city — because its electrical distribution is so large — must meet standards applicable to private companies.

During a Wednesday morning Council agenda session, City Manager T. Bruce Boyette disclosed that as much as $250,000 could be expended over the next three years just to meet PURPA regulations. Naturally this cost would be passed on to consumers in the form of higher rates.

Conservatives have warned that there are strings attached to federal aid. Recent developments indicate these strings are being woven into a noose designed to strangle local government and transform it into a weak unit subservient to a powerful central authority.

Big Oil's GOP Defection

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The politically significant aspect of Senate Finance Committee maneuvering on the "windfall" oil profits tax is not unsurprising gains by the oil industry but unexpected anti-oil votes by Republicans, setting off shock waves from corporate boardrooms to political backrooms.

The modest good news for the oilmen is that the Senate committee's tax bite is less severe than the House-passed version. The painful bad news is that this is no thanks to the committee's eight Republicans. On key issues lost by oil, the Republicans split 6-to-2 against the industry.

That 6-to-2 GOP margin meant the committee said "yes" to higher taxation on "old" oil (pre-1973 embargo) than was passed by the House; "no" to an exemption for all "stripper" (small) wells; "no" to an exemption for all independent drillers. These votes mean that unless unexpectedly changed on the Senate floor, the Senate bill is sufficiently similar to the House bill to block any compromise version that would not risk killing the point of oil decontrol: an incentive for new exploration and production.

Besides an agonizing reappraisal of whether the Washington lobbyists are earning the big money paid them, oilmen also are pondering the value of firm ties to the Republican party. The Republican senators, supposedly devoted by party policy to the supply-side economics of rising production, have split into consumer-state and producer-state camps regardless of party label or economic ideology.

The golden cord linking oil and the GOP has been stretched thin. Republican National Chairman William Brock and Senate leader Howard Baker have expressed concern to the finance committee members. Oil state Republican senators are chagrined, with the issue reaching the weekly closed-door meeting of the Senate Republican Policy Committee. Republican fund-raisers and petroleum contributors are reassessing 1980 election finance plans.

The seeds were planted back in January when vacant GOP seats on the finance committee were filled. Three staunch allies of the oil industry were gone — Nebraska's Carl Curtis and Wyoming's Clifford Hansen, both retired; Nevada's Paul Laxalt transferred to more pleasant duties on the appropriations committee.

Replacing them was Malcolm Wallop, a Wyoming conservative, but also two liberal Republicans: Pennsylvania's John Heinz and Minnesota's David Durenberger.

Strength For Today

THE IMPORTANCE OF LISTENING

One reason why some people appear not to profit from praying is not that they are poor pray-ers, but because they are poor listeners. They rush to the Lord, asking for guidance or for gifts; then they do not wait to find out what the guidance is, nor to receive the gift.

Prayer for some people is like an appointment with a psychiatrist. They pour out their confessions, their troubles, their desires. And

'Restraint' Policy Is Unsure

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — While respected business leaders and economists applauded the Federal Reserve's new policy of restraint, a policy they say might arrest inflation, that policy's future isn't assured.

The faltering conceivably could begin with the Fed itself. While the board agreed unanimously on Oct. 6 to restrict the availability of credit, it had split 4-3 on a similar decision just shortly before.

Fed watchers can't forget that such a split meant, and maybe still means, a basic disagreement on how to deal with inflation.

The subsequent unanimous decision, they say, may have signified more the power of Chairman Paul Volcker's personality than a genuine meeting of minds, and that unanimity could be shattered later on.

There is much dissent elsewhere too. Lane Kirkland, who may succeed George Meany next month as AFL-CIO president, claims the Fed erred. The effect of the tight money move, he said, would be to worsen inflation.

President Carter seems to have straddled. He has indicated support for the Fed, but he won applause last week by telling an AFL-CIO meeting that interest rates, a Fed restraint tool, were too high.

John Wright of Wright Investors Service, a large advisory firm and manager of hundreds of millions of investment dollars, represents a segment of financial thinking that believes the Fed policy is a fiasco.

The policy, he told clients this week, "has dangerous consequences." If continued, he said, it could "dissipate the nation's capital, stagnate growth and impair the development of new sources of energy."

He feels the Fed perceives its fight as being against inflation induced by excessive money growth. That, however, is not the problem, he said. Besides, "interest rates per se have never been an effective deterrent against speculation."

As interest rates rise where regulations do not impede them, passbook savers at thrift institutions, such as savings banks and savings and loan associations, grow

Fuels Aid To Poor

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — From the poorest of the poor to middle income America, the Senate Finance Committee wants to make sure the government lends a helping hand when it comes time to pay the winter fuel bill.

And it wants to give everyone — regardless of wealth — a break on household investments designed to reduce future consumption of oil.

The Senate's tax-writing committee, nearing the end of a marathon debate on a "windfall profits" tax bill, voted Wednesday to permit tax credits of up to $200 a year for millions of low and middle income Americans who heat their homes with oil, propane and Canadian natural gas.

Experts estimate that as many as 9 million American households will qualify for some break under the proposal, designed to help offset sharply higher prices for the three fuels. A tax credit is subtracted directly from taxes owed to the government.

The committee's vote was the latest indication that Congress is getting ready to place billions of dollars into the hands of needy consumers who face sharply higher energy costs this winter and in the next several years. The money would come from the "windfall profits" tax that President Carter wants Congress to levy on the increased revenues industry will receive from the gradual removal of price controls on oil.

As a further indication of Congress' determination to help consumers, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., arranged to testify today before a House subcommittee considering an additional $1.1 million to help poor people pay their energy bills this winter.

It will be O'Neill's first time before a committee since he became the House's top Democrat three years ago and is symbolic of the importance he and other top Democrats attach to energy assistance programs.

The Senate already has voted to spend $1.2 billion on special assistance this winter, and its Senate Finance Committee has agreed to commit $30 billion through 1990 to help consumers offset the increased costs of energy.

Included is about $20 billion that would go out in the form of government checks to recipients of welfare and food stamps.

In its decisions on Wednesday, the committee agreed to make up to $200 available in income tax credits to households with income of $20,000 or below. Smaller credits would be available to households with incomes between $20,000 and $22,000. The median national income is $16,000.

rent was to fight in the political arena for the preservation of individual freedom.

At 70, Goldwater is the patriarch of his party. His unflinching integrity — his willingness to take stands that are unpopular but right — has elevated him to a high plateau of affection and respect. Like the English peer whom Dr. Johnson described as "a very good hater," Goldwater cherishes his animosities. He never forgave Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon for defecting to the Democrats in 1955. He still nurses the pain of William Scranton's vicious anti-Goldwater letter at the GOP convention of 1964. He clings to a justifiable grudge against the media for badly reporting his campaign positions on Social Security, TVA and the use of nuclear weapons.

But the years have softened the iron man. Goldwater has grown old as the curmudgeon with a twinkle in his eye. He has class. And come to think of it: He's only a few months older than Ronald Reagan; he's been around Washington as long as Gerald Ford. At a time in his party's fortunes when John Connally is fighting for acceptance, when Howard Baker, George Bush and Bob Dole have failed to catch fire, perhaps the Grand Old Party could settle upon the Grand Old Man. A legion of the faithful would put on their skis again; in our hearts, we still know he's right.

Carter To Fight Taiwan Ruling

By SALLY JACOBSEN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will fight a federal judge's order that he must ask Congress' permission before going through with plans to single-handedly end this country's mutual defense treaty with Taiwan, according to administration officials.

The scheduled Jan. 1 termination of the treaty cannot come about, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch ruled Wednesday, unless the action is approved by two-thirds of the Senate or by a simple majority of both houses of Congress.

Carter's surprise announcement last December that he was terminating the 25-year-old treaty came as the United States recognized the People's Republic of China and ended formal ties with Taiwan.

"We are recognizing simple reality," Carter told a national television audience.

The administration maintained after Gasch's ruling that Carter was well within his constitutional powers when he decided to end the treaty.

"We feel that the president was acting entirely properly," said Mark T. Sheehan, a Justice Department spokesman.

He said the ruling would be appealed "as promptly as we can" in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

In Taipei, both civilian and military officials declined immediate comment on the ruling.

Gasch's decision came on a suit filed by Sen. Barry Goldwater and 24 other present or former members of Congress.

Goldwater immediately praised the judge's decision, saying it "means that no American, not even the president, can break the law of the land."

Goldwater of Arizona, a one-time Republican presidential nominee, said he hoped "the president will now submit a proper request for legislative approval of his policy on its merits, rather than continue to battle Congress over an issue of constitutional power."

The treaty provides for the United States to aid the island nation if it is attacked from the mainland. The pact contains an option that allows either party to end it on a year's notice.

Sheehan noted the one-year termination provision. "We gave our notice on Dec. 23, 1978, to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1980. ... We are confident the matter can be resolved before the termination date."

Nor would Gasch's ruling have "any immediate effect on our relations with the People's Republic of China," said a State Department official who asked not to be named.

Carter's decision came as a blow to the Nationalist Chinese, who have maintained a bastion on the island of Taiwan for three decades, dreaming of some day recapturing the mainland.

But in a joint communique with the Peking government, Carter said in December that the United States "acknowledges the Chinese position that there is but one China and Taiwan is part of China."

At the time, U.S. military experts said they believed mainland China had neither the intention nor the ability to invade Taiwan successfully.

Controversial Fight

This Saturday, October 20, a boxing match is scheduled to take place in a large outdoor stadium in Pretoria, South Africa. The winner — either America's John Tate or South Africa's Gerrie Coetzee — will become the World Boxing Association's heavyweight champion. Because black and white spectators will be allowed to watch the fight together, South Africa hopes to use the event to show that it has made progress toward ending racial discrimination in sports. But many people, including American black leader Jesse Jackson, believe that the fight should not take place in South Africa, where a white minority government still denies its black citizens many basic human rights.

DO YOU KNOW — What word is used to describe South Africa's system of racial separation?

incomparably more adept at one-liners than the departed Curtis, he is considerably less skillful at guiding the committee's Republicans. De facto leadership unexpectedly was assumed by Rhode Island's liberal John Chafee.

That geography smoothes ideology was brought home in ironic fashion by freshman Sen. Max Baucus of Montana, a liberal Democrat whose election last year mortified business interests. But Montana produces oil; Baucus voted consistently pro-oil in the finance committee.

On an amendment to exempt "upper-tier" oil (from wells drilled after the 1973 embargo), the vote was first 10-to-10 (with a majority of Republicans opposed). Baucus then entered to cast the deciding vote for the exemption. Only after that did Republican Heinz change his consumer-state vote against the exemption to an unneeded vote for the exemption. The lobbyists were not enchanted.

That typified a Republican performance which led one oil industry executive to describe himself to us as "disgusted and disheartened." Apart from millions of words they have printed in the Congressional Record about cause and effect between taxes and productivity, the Republicans are proving that the economic indicator they really follow is their finger in the political wind.

More Than Half 'Below Average'

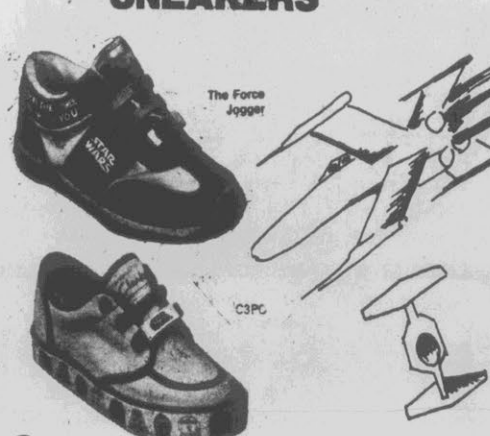

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 60 percent of the young men enlisting in the Army are "below-average in intelligence," according to the general in charge of training them.

Gen. Donn Starry, head of the Army Training and Doctrine Command, told reporters Tuesday that the lower intelligence factor has been somewhat offset by "greater motivation" among those who join. He said recruits with below average mentality are trainable, but that it takes more time to teach them certain tasks.

ECU Administrators Discuss Plans For Future

AT COFFEE TALK ... East Carolina University officials, Dr. Elmer Meyer, Vice-Chancellor for Student Life, Dr. Robert Maier, Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs, Don Lemish, Vice-Chancellor for Institutional Planning and Advancement, and Chancellor Thomas Brewer.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
East Carolina University administrators outlined some of the plans in the school's future for members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce at a chamber-sponsored coffee talk Wednesday morning.

Promise To Principals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt promised public-school principals Wednesday that he would support them in their push to establish a uniform pay-scale for the state's educators.

In a speech to the principals, who were attending a meeting of the N.C. Association of Educators, Hunt said he would back the uniform salary schedule they are seeking.

"I want you to know that I am personally committed to the development of such a schedule and I believe we can get it done soon," he said.

Educators' salaries are currently determined by a number of different pay schedules, and the association is seeking a single schedule like that used for other state employees.

Hunt also repeated his promise to support a cost-of-living pay raise for all state employees next year. But he told the principals that the partial freeze on state hiring he has ordered is necessary if there is going to be a pay raise next year.

The NCAE and two groups representing state employees are seeking a 15 percent pay raise, which would cost an estimated $300 million, next year. Hunt has said he does not foresee that the state will be able to afford that large an increase. He has pledged to seek a pay raise as close as possible to the increased cost of living.

"The most important thing for education in this state is that we have dedicated men and women who care and will work their hearts out," Hunt said.

ECU Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer introduced Don Lemish, Vice-Chancellor for Institutional Advancement and Planning; Vice-Chancellor for Student Life, Dr. Elmer Meyer, and Dr. Robert H. Maier, Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs, who reviewed their areas of responsibility.

"Some of the things I see for the future," as far as Institutional Advancement and Planning is concerned, include programs to attract students to East Carolina, programs to improve faculty morale, and programs to "gain private support for the university," Lemish said.

Stressing the need for involvement and financial support, Lemish said, "There are many things we need support for."

In the development area, Lemish said, "we need to build our endowment."

By building an endowment, Lemish said funds would be available for scholarship programs, "to attract excellence," as well as for faculty development. "It will tend to build the university," he noted.

He indicated that Major Donor Clubs will be established to recognize contributors.

Lemish added that, "a key objective," is also to improve alumni relations by expanding alumni programs which will stress involvement.

East Carolina is, "a fantastic institution," Lemish said, indicating that the school can be even better by increased involvement by alumni.

An expanded alumni awards program which would recognize the accomplishments of outstanding alumni, and an expanded continuing education program are also in the works, the vice-chancellor pointed out.

"A group of programs that support," the education mission of the school, is the way Meyer described Student Life. He added, "the future for Student Life at ECU has great potential."

According to the vice-chancellor, 80 to 85 per cent of a student's time is spent outside the classroom. Many work to earn part of their way through school, and over half of the students at ECU are on some type of financial aid, he explained.

The Student Life area, Meyer explained, includes services offered through the Counseling Center, the Career Placement and Planning Center, intramural recreation sports (80 per cent of the males and 40 per cent of the females on campus participate), the student housing office, new student orientation, food services, the Student Government Association, financial aid, and the Student Center (building) and Student Union (program).

"We believe the university is on its way to being another Chapel Hill... State," Meyer suggested.

Students are citizens of the community, Meyer pointed out, indicating that the Student Life areas of responsibility are designed to complement the education mission of the university and help make students better citizens.

Maier, Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs told the coffee talk audience that his office oversees all academic affairs at the university with the exception of the School of Medicine and its related programs.

The major objectives of the university, he described as, "the discovery...the transmission...the utilization of knowledge."

East Carolina, according to Maier, "has a splended tradition as an educational and cultural center in Eastern North Carolina.

"We need the help of persons like yourselves," he said, to make ECU an even greater university.

Dr. Brewer noted that this is the first year at ECU for the three vice-chancellors, hired following an administrative re-organization at the university today.

FOUR INJURED IN AYDEN ACCIDENT — Four persons were injured Wednesday afternoon on N.C. 11 just west of Ayden. Trooper J. A. Brinkley reported a car driven by Rebecca M. Foshay, of Kinston, who was listed as injured, was headed south on N.C. 11 when the auto struck another car driven by Albert Muhlesstein, of Ayden. Trooper Brinkley said two passengers in the Foshay auto were injured. They were listed as Helen McWilliams and eight-year-old Cindy Foshay. Muhlesstein, according to the investigator, was headed east on N.C. 102 and was struck on the driver side. Muhlesstein was charged with a red light violation. The accident occurred at 1:50 p.m. with members of the Ayden Rescue squad responding to the call. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Plan New Pipe Under Evans St.

Public Works Director Mayo Allen said that the city has been advised by the Department of Transportation that an additional pipe will be installed under Evans Street to help eliminate flooding problems experienced at Hopkins Park.

Allen reported that installation of the 66-inch pipe will begin Monday, Oct. 22 and should be completed on or before Oct. 24.

Gerald England, traffic engineer with D.O.T., has notified Public Works that during the installation period, Evans Street will be barricaded at 16th and Evans and also at Arthur and Evans.

According to Allen, traffic going south on Evans Street will detour at 16th to Hopkins Drive down to Arthur Street and back to S. Evans. Traffic going north on Evans will detour at Evans and Arthur Streets to Hopkins Drive up to 16th Street and back to N. Evans.

"The city...apologizes for this inconvenience," Allen noted, "but it is in the best interest of the city for the state to correct the flooding problems in this area."

The Public Works official added, "We are asking the public to take all precautions necessary and to drive safely through this detour route, as there are many families with children living in this area."

Brooks, a Greenville native, said simply, "I'm delighted to be home," while Judge Charles Windberry said Gov. Hunt would like to have attended the fellowship gathering but was out of the state.

Scott, when introduced, said, "tell the governor I'll be glad to finish four-laning those roads."

East Carolina University Chancellor Thomas Brewer, when introduced, said simply, "I've decided not to challenge Gov. Hunt or Gov. Scott," in the bid for the Democrat nomination. Brewer's predecessor, Leo Jenkins, was considered a possible candidate for governor several years ago.

Cite Energy Impact In Subdivision Regulation

The Greenville Energy Commission presented a report at Tuesday's City Council session regarding the energy impact of Greenville's subdivision regulations.

In the report, presented during the Council's public hearing on articles of the subdivision regulations, it was pointed out that an objective of the Energy program here is to "maintain (or increase) the standard of living in the community while reducing per capita energy consumption and increasing use of alternate energy sources."

The entire approach of the program, according to the report, "is that of comprehensive community energy management, and it is in this light that we approach land use regulations and their impacts on energy usage."

The report continued, "All of the regulations (subdivisions, zoning and building codes) are seen as highly interrelated in their ability to impact energy considerations in development, and therefore revisions for energy efficient development are very interdependent."

According to the report, "These regulations impact planning for energy efficient land use by prohibiting optimum site design, orientation, and location; requiring lot sizes which do not allow for higher density developments; and providing for more than adequate streets and related automobile oriented facilities at the expense of neglecting to provide land for alternate modes of transportation and mass transit, among other conflicts."

The Energy Commission recommended that the City Code be amended to include a section to read: "To provide for and protect the option of the consumer to use alternative energy sources by such means as protecting solar access in developments designed to use solar space conditioning and/or hot water systems, promoting site planning and landscaping designed to coordinate with the use of alternative energy usage toward the goal of increased energy conservation, while not excluding other methodology which can be demonstrated to facilitate energy efficient land use."

It was also recommended that, "The Greenville Energy Program be supported in its attempt to develop a performance-based methodology for evaluating energy efficient development in terms of its support of and relation to the Comprehensive Energy Plan."

Prior to the formulation of the final methodology, it was pointed out, input from city government departments and other parties will be used to develop an initial set of criteria to evaluate proposed revisions to the subdivision regulations.

"Upon completion of the revisions," it was suggested, "a separate review board is to be utilized to judge new developments for energy efficient design using the finalized performance-based methodology."

The report said that, "The product of the recommendations is to be a procedure incorporated into the local planning process for consideration of energy efficiencies in land use planning."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were little changed in moderate trading today with oil issues and special situation stocks providing most of the focus.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, which gained more than 2 points in the early going, was up just .94 at 831.66 by midday.

Big Board volume came to 12.58 million shares, up from 11.89 million at midday in the previous session. Gaining issues outnumbered losers by a 6-5 margin.

Analysts suggested that traders may be cautious today while awaiting the results of the Federal Reserve's weekly report on money supply due after the close of the market.

It may offer an indication of whether the Fed's recent credit tightening moves are successful in slowing money growth to ease inflation pressures.

Oil issues generally continued their recent strength. Some analysts have suggested that investors expect good profit figures in the third quarter earnings reports which are expected to come out in the next week or so.

Among actively traded issues, Union Oil of California gained 3/4 to 47 1/4; Texaco rose 3/4 to 29 1/2; but Standard Oil of California was unchanged at 55 1/2. Getty Oil gained 1 to 67 in less active trading. Exxon rose 1/2 to 57 1/4.

IBM fell 1/4 to 63 as the most actively traded NYSE issue. The company reported lower third quarter earnings on Wednesday. Boeing, also active on the Big Board, was down 1 1/2 to 43 1/4.

The NYSE composite index of all common stock rose .15 to 58.80. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.09 to 209.89.

Carl Stewart...

that of demands by North Carolina teachers and other state employees for pay raise, was commented on by Stewart.

"It is not just teachers, but in general all state employees who are interested in a pay raise," he explained. "They are frustrated, as they have consistently been asked to hold the line and have done so with a good attitude."

"But," Stewart said, with the cost of living index rising about 12 percent in most areas, they're shooting for a 15 percent increase which is not that unreasonable.

"Considering the prime interest rate of 14 percent, which will likely go to 15 percent before it goes down, the legislature will have to address itself to salary increases in that percentage range."

"It's the only way they can catch up, dramatic as it may seem. In the past we have held up the possibility of future increases, and now we must face this."

Stewart noted that "voluntary guidelines have pretty well washed away, and administration of these have been unfair." Pointing out that recent union contracts have awarded a three-year pay hike "typically at about 33 percent, or a little under 12 percent yearly, I feel that if voluntary guidelines remain in effect, they will be greatly liberalized next year."

Stewart said that a liberal increase in salaries for North Carolina employees would cost in excess of $200 million. Right now, with only the first quarter of the fiscal year to base expectations on, we are going to have to look carefully at figures to see what kind of balance we have on June 30.

"Hopefully," he concluded, "because of the strong industrial growth North Carolina continues to experience, more than a $2 billion increase, revenues will be good enough to consider funds for significant salary increases. But we'll have to wait and see."

Furniture Mart Is Begun Today

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — An autumn ritual, The Southern Furniture Market which is a highlight of North Carolina's large furniture industry, began today along a 150-mile corridor swinging through the state from Burlington to Lenoir.

Between now and Oct. 26, an estimated 38,500 persons from throughout the United States and from 45 foreign countries are expected to visit the area to buy and sell furniture.

According to the Furniture Factories Marketing Association of the South, more than 1,300 furniture manufacturers will use a total of 5 million square feet of showroom space to exhibit their wares.

More than 12 million square feet, or 46 acres, of that exhibit space is contained in the Southern Market Center in High Point.

Buyers representing department stores, buying groups, retail chains and syndicates will inspect new styles and place orders for next year's sales.

The buyers come by car and by plane, descending on the cities and towns along the state's Furniture Row, filling hotels and motels and straining the area's dining and entertainment facilities.

Manufacturers representatives, sales persons and buyers streamed through the Greensboro-High Point-Winston-Salem Regional Airport Wednesday.

They left the airport by rental car, taxi, hotel and motel van and limousine, bound for their respective accommodations.

"Looks like it's going to be busy," said Mary Ellen Lamuraglia, supervisor of an airport hospitality center set up for the market by the chambers of commerce of Greensboro, High Point and Winston-Salem.

Charge Woman Raped 2 Boys

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo. (AP) — A 27-year-old woman is free on $5,000 bond after being charged with rape and sexual assault in a case involving two teen-age boys, according to Wright County authorities.

Police Chief Bert Hopkins said Wednesday the woman, Connie Supancic, was arrested after a complaint was filed by the parents of the boys — 13- and 14-year-old brothers.

Officials said the case may be only the second time a woman has been charged with rape under Missouri's new criminal code, which went into effect Jan. 2. Under old laws, a woman could not be charged with rape or sexual assault.

Times To Die?

LONDON (AP) — The Times of London, the Gibraltar of British journalism for nearly two centuries, appeared headed for the graveyard today after a holdout union walked out of last-ditch negotiations aimed at resolving a prolonged shut-down.

"We have broken down. If the Times means what they say, it is closure," said Les Dixon, president of the National Typographical Association, after leaving the bargaining table early today.

Lord Thomson, the Canadian owner of the Times' parent company, had warned he would close down the paper, its affiliate, the Sunday Times, and three weekly supplements if the union failed to come to terms Wednesday night.

Creature?...

GYPSUMVILLE, Manitoba (AP) — Ten residents of the Little Saskatchewan Indian Reserve say they saw an 8-foot-tall black creature this week that walked upright like a man and appeared to be covered with hair everywhere except the face.

Conservation officers in Gypsumville, 140 miles north of Winnipeg, are investigating some large footprints in an area where the creature was reported seen. One print, in hard dry clay, was about 2 inches deep.

The officers said they didn't think the prints had been made by a practical joker. "Where would they get that kind of pressure?" one asked.

Antique Auto Show To Open At Greensboro

GREENSBORO — The Annual Classic and Antique Auto Show sponsored by the Friendship Sertoma Club will be on view at the Greensboro Coliseum Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, October 19, 20 and 21.

More than 100 classic and antique automobiles including a 1937 Mercedes, a legendary Stanley Steamer and many others will be on view. Also shown will be a Richard Petty race car.

The Bolar Conversion exhibit will feature the procedure of converting a standard V-8 engine into a gas saving V-4. Various performers will be on hand to provide live entertainment.

Hours are 6-10 p.m. Friday; 10-10 Saturday; and 1-6 Sunday. Tickets will be on sale at the door. Proceeds will benefit the Sertoma hearing and speech disorder program in North Carolina.

Pops Lead Pittsburgh To Victory

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Perhaps Pops Stargell should stick two of those little gold stars on his hat. His four hits, World Series-winning home run and his leadership of a record-tying comeback by the Pittsburgh Pirates would seem to merit such reward.

Stargell, the 38-year-old father of the Pirates' baseball family, hands the ornaments to his teammates for meritorious achievement. And the cheering in the streets of Pittsburgh this morning — for Wednesday night's 4-1 victory over Baltimore and the rally from a 3-1 deficit in games — told how meritorious that performance was.

If it didn't, a visit from President Carter did. With his Secret Service entourage, Carter joined Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in saluting the man they call Pops and the rest of the Pirates.

"He said congratulations and talked to me about the records I broke. He said it was a thrilling game between two outstanding teams," said Stargell, named Most Valuable Player in the Series. "I wanted to ask him if he had any peanuts on him, but there were too many Secret Service men around and I was afraid to ask."

It was Stargell, a mountain of a man, who provided the muscle, and reliever Kent Tekulve — the thin man of baseball — who triggered the Pirates to their seventh-game triumph.

Stargell's hits included two doubles and that two-run sixth-inning homer. Tekulve choked an eighth-inning Baltimore rally and set the Orioles down in the ninth to clinch the fifth Series title in Pittsburgh's seven championship appearances.

The Stargell-Tekulve act capped one of baseball's great comebacks as the Pirates became the fourth team in history to make up a 3-1 deficit in a seven-game Series. The others were the 1958 New York Yankees, 1968 Detroit Tigers and the 1925 Pirates.

After Rich Dauer's home run gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Stargell sent Pittsburgh ahead 2-1. The Pirates added two runs in the eighth to wrap up their fifth World Series triumph in seven appearances.

"I feel bad," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "We won 102 ball games in the regular season. We won 108 the whole year. We needed 109. We fell one short."

It was the first Pirates' Series triumph since 1971, when Roberto Clemente led them to a victory over the Orioles in seven games. Clemente later perished when his private plane crashed on a mercy mission to hurricane-stricken Nicaragua.

The late Danny Murtaugh was the manager of that 1971 champion.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, who succeeded Murtaugh after the little Irishman died, observed, "Danny Murtaugh and Clemente must be having a ball up there right now."

Actually, death hung over the Pirates throughout the Series. Tanner's mother died Sunday morning and the manager's joy was certain to turn to tears today when he was to attend the funeral for Anne Tanner in New Castle, Pa.

Her passing may have spurred the Pirates' comeback. As an emotional Stargell noted after this triumph: "There has been a closeness on this team that there are no words I can think to describe."

"We scratched and clawed our way to this day," said the 225-pound first baseman, his voice broken and tears running down his cheeks. "We are family and that's not being sassy or fancy. It typified this ball club."

Baltimore's Scott McGregor, the losing pitcher, was asked what he thought of Stargell, who was 12-for-30 in the Series, hit .400, tied Reggie Jackson's record for total bases with 25 and set a record with seven extra-base hits on three homers and four doubles.

He also became the 40th player in Series history — the fourth this series — to collect four hits in a game.

"I tell you, Mr. Stargell is one heck of a man. You gotta tip your hat to them all. But we had a good season. I'm not going to pout. I may party, too," McGregor said.

The absence of the long ball when it was needed took its toll on the Orioles. They managed just four hits Wednesday night, snapped a 21-inning scoreless streak with Dauer's homer in the third, and finished with just one run in the final 28 innings.

The Pirates amassed 81 hits in the seven games. The Orioles had 54.

"Our hitting stopped," said Weaver, famous for his lineup switches and righty-lefty percentage plays. "We went stale one game too soon."

"We had just about every move we wanted to make, but

Garner: We Never Do Anything Easy Way, But We Get It Done

BALTIMORE (AP) — Phil Garner uncorked a wild throw at the start of the World Series. He popped open a bottle of champagne at the finish.

"I'd like to sit down and spend three days just sipping this," the second baseman said with a placid, almost dreamlike smile amid the noisy clamor of the Pittsburgh Pirates' clubhouse after their 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles in Game Seven Wednesday night.

In the frigid opening game here last week, Garner made a numb-fingered throwing error that helped Baltimore to a five-run first inning. And the Orioles ultimately took a 3-1 lead in last Saturday's game in Pittsburgh.

"We never do anything the easy way. We always make it tough on ourselves. But we get the job done in the end," said Garner, who batted .500 during the series and would likely have been the Most Valuable Player if a fellow named Willie Stargell hadn't been playing first base for Pittsburgh.

"I always believed this club would come back and win," said relief pitcher Kent Tekulve, who came on strong in the final two games after being pounded Saturday in Pittsburgh.

"We never gave in or up," Tekulve added between gulps of champagne. "We expected to be here. It's been a lot of hard work and a lot of pain, and if we were going down, we were going to kill ourselves trying."

Right fielder Dave Parker, who almost fell down before making a catch that saved the Pirate victory, led the locker room revelry.

"We are the best comeback team in baseball history! And they said it couldn't be done," Parker exulted.

Parker's grin was as broad as the gap in right center field, which was where Eddie Murray lashed a drive with the bases full in the Baltimore eighth and Pittsburgh ahead 2-1.

Tekulve said he was confident on the mound as he watched the drive sail into the night. "I was waiting for Dave to stop stumbling and make the catch," Tekulve said.

Parker made the catch. "Then I breathed one great big sigh of relief," Parker said. "Me too," said Garner.

"He had it all the way," Tekulve said.

As the Pirates doused one another with champagne, Stargell and Manager Chuck Tanner took their bows on national television while standing atop the locker room platform.

Rose High School's Rampants, coming off a high-powered 52-6 victory over Wilson Beddingfield High School, turn to a stiffer task this weekend, having to play host to Bertie's Falcons in a Division I game.

The Rampants will be celebrating Homecoming during the Friday game, set for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff in Ficklen Stadium.

Rose comes into the game with a 2-1 Division I record, while Bertie is unbeaten in three outings in the league. In their three league games, they have allowed only 13 points, while scoring 56 of their own.

Fullback Mark Shank

Overall, the Falcons post a 5-1 record, having lost only to 3-A power Edenton, 20-7. Earlier, they downed Ahoskie, 16-15, a team favored to win the Northeastern Conference title over Edenton.

For Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner, the opportunity to post a victory like the Rampants did over Beddingfield was a welcome thing. "We hadn't had a real good ball game, where just about everything we right for us, but we got it last week, and I think it did us a lot of good. We had people like Todd Tyson (fullback), who needed a good game and got it. We're already getting good, constant work from (backs) Calvin Whichard and Mark Shank, so it helped us a lot."

Bumgarner took exception to charges made by Beddingfield coaches that Rose had run up the score on them. "We didn't do it," he said. "It was one of those times when nothing went right for them. Everyone has those nights occasionally." Asked about an onside kick with Rose leading 28-0, Bumgarner replied that it offered a good opportunity to practice the play against people other than their own teammates.

"We used all seven of our running backs, and both of our quarterbacks. We would have used (Jeff) Porter, the second-stringer, more, but he broke his wrist on the second series of the second period. After that, we had to use (Kenny) Barnes (the first-stringer). We finally did put Mark Shank back there in the final period and a half, and he hasn't taken a snap all year."

Nevertheless, the quarterback from last season, now running as a fullback or halfback, guided the team to three scores.

"Our defense gave us the ball in great field position," Bumgarner said. "We really had to drive only one time. With the interceptions and fumbles, along with the blocked punt, our offense really didn't have much to do."

Against Bertie, Bumgarner looks for a very physical game. "They are as physical or more physical than Rocky Mount," the coach said. "They have a very good team. Not only are they tough, but they haven't lost a conference game."

"So you can see that it's that big a game for both of us"

Aycock In Third Loss

WILSON — Wilson Fike Junior High School romped to a 24-14 victory over E.B. Aycock last night.

Aycock's touchdowns were scored by Donnell Lee, on a 15-yard run in the first period, and by Roderick Harrell, with an 11-yard run in the third period. Harrell added the PAT following the final score.

Now 2-3, Aycock plays host to Washington next Wednesday.

when the ball players don't come through, your moves don't look quite as good."

It remained for Phil Garner, who hit .500 in the Series to lead the Pirates' batters, to sum up the team's feeling: "Willie Stargell gets younger every year. If he ever retires, we'll all go with him."

Garner finished the season with a 24-game hitting streak: the last 14 games of the regular season, three playoff games and seven Series games.

Tekulve said he always believed the Pirates would come back and win.

"That's been the nature of this ball club ... It's been a lot of hard work and a lot of pain, and if we were going to go down we were going to kill ourselves trying," he said.

It was a very trying Series. The first game was postponed by rain. The second was played despite snow and rain earlier in the day. The weather was cold except for the final two games in Baltimore.

One last thing on Stargell. He showed his leadership in the eighth inning when Tekulve Bumgarner added.

While a loss might not put Bertie out of the race for the two playoff spots, it would hurt their chances, since they still must face Rocky Mount. For Rose, however, a second loss would just about spell the end.

"Bertie still has a tough road ahead. They've got to face Northern Nash and Rocky Mount after they play us, so they won't have anything locked up," Bumgarner said. "But a loss for us would give us two defeats and that might be difficult to overcome. Not impossible, but difficult."

Bertie, according to Bumgarner, has an excellent defensive unit. "They haven't had many points scored against them, and only two teams have scored more than once against them. Just one has scored as many as three times."

While the defense is strong, the offensive unit is even tougher—and very, very explosive. "They went in at halftime against Hunt trailing 6-0. At the end of the third period, they had pushed ahead 7-6. Then, they scored 27 points in the final period. That shows what they can do."

The offense is led by quarterback Stanley Pugh, who operates the I-formation much like an option one. He did a good job both of running the offense for the other backs, of sprinting out to keep or pass on the option. His top runner is fullback Isiah Hill.

"We've got to try and get them out of their basic game and force them into doing things they don't want to do," Bumgarner said. "That will be the key to our stopping them."

Lefty Holden Helps Buc Cause

Using your left hand can be awkward and inconvenient for some people, but not Loretta Holden, East Carolina's first and only left-handed volleyball player.

Holden feels that being a left-handed spiker has its advantages.

"Since I'm the only left-handed player, I have the advantages of either faking or dinking with my right and then spiking with my left," she said. "Spiking is my main contribution to the team."

Loretta Holden

The 5-7, 136-pound junior from Henderson, was named to the All-East Carolina Invitational team last year while a sophomore at Louisburg Junior College. This year's East Carolina Invitational is coming up Friday and Saturday and Holden is looking forward to its eagerly.

Holden's outlook for the Invitational is full of confidence which applies to both the team and herself. Looking back on last year's Invitational, Holden had confidence for the Louisville team, but also had a certain praise for the East Carolina team. She felt that East Carolina was one of the best.

"I looked up to East Carolina because every time I saw them play they looked good," Holden said.

Everyone has their problems though, and Loretta is no exception. Earlier in the year she had some problems with her defensive play. Being the striving player that she is, Holden worked hard and now feels she has bettered herself in that department.

"I've improved my defense. I'm coming around. I'm more of an all-around player now," said the left-hander with a bit of poise.

Injuries have thinned the ranks for East Carolina this year, but Holden still has the enthusiasm and confidence which helps her to hold true to her views on East Carolina's chances in the Invitational.

"The seven people that we have left are going to work hard.

We want everybody to know that we can do it," stated Holden, casting her vote of confidence.

When a volleyball squad is reduced to seven players it could become a matter of working for survival, but for Loretta Holden and her teammates it's still a matter of working to win.

East Carolina Hosts Tourney

East Carolina University's women's volleyball team will play host to the annual East Carolina Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday in Minges Coliseum.

Among the teams competing in the tournament are the 1978 Division II state champions of Kentucky, Kentucky State, along with Longwood, North Carolina Central, Wake Forest and Wintrop.

Play will begin Friday at 4 p.m. with round-robin play, which continues Saturday at 9 a.m. The field will be cut to the final four for matches starting at 12:30 p.m., with the championships to follow.

East Carolina comes into the match with a 4-14 record, suffering from a host of injuries.

"We have been knocking ourselves out with some tough opponents in other tournaments, and we'll see in this one if it has helped us," Coach Alita Dillon said. "This should be a very competitive tournament."

There will be three round-robin matches on Friday, and two more on Saturday morning, to be followed by a playoff, if necessary, to set up the final four.

Coming Home To Houston Best Thing For Malone And Company

By The Associated Press

After bombing on the road, the Houston Rockets brought their show home.

"I was a little nervous before this game," said Calvin Murphy. "We had played three and lost three, and we were a little tired and a little frustrated."

Murphy and his Houston teammates, however, felt considerably better after a 116-112 National Basketball Association win over the Indiana Pacers Wednesday night.

Murphy had a big hand in Houston's first victory of the season with 22 points. Moses Malone had a bigger one with 44 points and 29 rebounds.

"Last night, the New York writers were a little down on Mo," Murphy said. "I told them I sure would hate to be the man that had to guard him when we played Indiana."

The night before, Malone had a sub-par game against the New York Knicks, when Bill Cartwright held him to 17 points and 15 rebounds. But Wednesday night, Indiana's James Edwards was hardly as effective.

"When I rebound well, I can score, so I don't worry about that," said Malone. "We have a lot of shooters. I go after the rebounds."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Washington defeated Atlanta 100-97; Boston whipped Cleveland 127-108; Philadelphia stopped New Jersey 113-88; Golden State whipped Kansas City 107-94; Milwaukee turned back Denver 125-97 and Seattle edged Los Angeles 112-110.

After the Houston-Indiana game was tied at 47 at the half, Murphy hit 14 third-quarter points and Rick Barry added 10 as the Rockets pulled away to a 10-point lead, which Indiana could never overcome.

The Pacers came within six at 103-97 with 5:43 left in the fourth quarter. But Tom Henderson and Major Jones hit quick baskets to hold off the Indiana surge.

Malone kept the Rockets close in the first half with 19 points and 17 rebounds, then led Houston's surge to victory with 25 second-half points, including 15 in the final quarter.

Bullets 100, Hawks 97

Roger Phegley came off the bench to score 11 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter to spark Washington past Atlanta. Phegley, a second-year forward from Bradley, sank seven of his last eight shots to give the Bullets the boost they needed for their first victory in three starts this season.

Atlanta led 95-89 with 4:36 to play. Then Phegley scored seven straight points to put the Bullets in front to stay 96-95.

Celtics 127, Cavaliers 108

Dave Cowens led seven Boston players in double figures with 21 points as the unbeaten Celtics rallied in the second half to beat Cleveland.

Held scoreless in the first half, Cedric Maxwell poured in 10 points in the opening minutes of the third period. That triggered a decisive 41-point quarter which led the Celtics to their third victory of the week-old season.

76ers 113, Nets 88

Julius Erving scored 22 points and Bobby Jones added 16 to lead Philadelphia past New Jersey. Erving scored 14 of his points in the first half when the Sixers took control of the game.

Week Of Tragedy And Triumph For Tanner

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's been a week of baseball triumph and personal loss for Chuck Tanner, manager of the World Series champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

And he reacted with relaxed calm Wednesday night after the Pirates clinched the title on the eve of his mother's funeral in his hometown of New Castle, Pa.

"It's a great feeling to have gotten the job done," said Tanner, who chose to sip a cup of beer rather than drink champagne after Pittsburgh beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-1.

On Sunday morning in Pittsburgh, Tanner learned that his mother, Anne, had died at a hospital in Greenville, Pa., where she had been undergoing treatment following a stroke. Tanner planned to attend the funeral today in New Castle.

"The funeral is tomorrow. I'll get to it but now I'm happy," he said.

"I really believe that when somebody up there started to help 'The Family,' we started to get the breaks. Danny Murtaugh and Clemente must be having a ball up there right now."

Murtaugh, the late Pirate manager, and Roberto Clemente, the late Pirate right fielder, helped Pittsburgh to a string of division titles.

Tanner, Murtaugh's successor, had guided the Pirates to a pair of runner-up finishes in the National League East. He also guided Chicago to second place in the American League West in 1972, and his Oakland team had placed second in 1976. This is his first year at the top.

"I've had a lot of big thrills, but I'd have to call this my most satisfying," said Tanner, who was born on the Fourth of July and smacked a home run in his first major league at-bat with the Milwaukee Braves in 1955.

"We were down three games to one, and it took a total effort to come back and win...There wasn't one guy who didn't contribute. It was tremendous."

Pirates Atop Southern Group In Offense, Rushing, Scoring

East Carolina University continues to pace the Southern Independents in total offense and rushing, and have taken over as the top scoring team among the 13 schools.

The Pirates, who also rank sixth in the Division I-A of the NCAA, pace the Independents in total offense with 436.2 yards a game, well ahead of second place Tulane, which averages 378.3 yards per game.

In rushing offense, the Pirates have a 328.0 average, well beyond runner-up South Carolina at 259.4. The Pirates rank third among the NCAA teams here, trailing only Nebraska at 360.6 and Alabama at 385.4.

Tennessee State is the leader in passing offense, averaging 237.6 yards a game. Here, East Carolina ranks only 11th, passing for 108.2 yards a game.

In scoring, East Carolina ranks tops among the group with a 29.8 average, just nipping Tulane, which has a 28.2

average. The Pirates are ranked 15th nationally here.

In the defensive statistics, however, East Carolina drops down. They rank ninth in total defense, allowing 299.8 yards a game; eighth in rushing defense, giving up 169.5 per game, ninth in pass defense, at 130.3; and sixth in scoring defense at 18.0 point a game.

Florida State leads the group in three of the categories, total defense, 210.7; rushing defense, 102.7; and scoring defense, 9.3 points a game. Northeastern

When Farmville Central tackles Southern Nash in Stanhope Friday night for the Eastern Carolina Conference crown, both teams will have winning streaks on the line.

The Jaguars, who lead the ECC with a 5-0 record, have won 28 consecutive conference games, dating back to mid-1975. With a win Friday, the Jaguars cannot only extend that streak but can also practically assure themselves of their fourth straight league title.

The Firebirds, a slim one-half game back of Farmville with a 4-0 mark, are in the midst of an 11-game winning strak. Southern Nash won their last five games last season and have won their first six this year.

Last year, Southern Nash was 7-3, including a 46-13 loss to Farmville Central, after the Firebirds had jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead only to see the Jaguars come storming back.

This season the Jaguars are once again favored to win, but Coach Gene Brewer is taking nothing for granted.

"They'll probably do a few little things different, but I don't think it'll be like last year's game. Last year, they came out in the shotgun and stayed in it most of the first half," Brewer said. "I don't think we'll see that, but we're preparing for it."

The Firebirds, meanwhile, must prepare for one of the best running teams in Eastern North Carolina and a team that the AP ranks as the No. 1 3-A squad in the state.

"They're averaging over 300 yards rushing and we feel like that's what they do best," Southern Nash assistant coach Rick McMann said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

"Obviously, we are concerned about that have been working on it. At that same time, when we scouted them against North Lenior, they threw the ball a lot, a lot more than we had expected," McMann said.

"They have a lot of guns to work with, starting with their two excellent running backs."

The Firebirds, however, are not lacking in offensive power. Wide receiver Wayne Grady leads the ECC in receptions and in yards gained while quarterback Paul Morgan is one of the league's best passers. The Firebirds also have the second leading rusher in the ECC in Anthony Crumel.

"We feel like we have three good running backs in Anthony Crumel, Kenny Morgan and David Pope," McMann said. "They'll all definitely see action Friday night."

"We'll throw the ball a fair amount Friday, but we have confidence in our running game."

In Farmville, the Firebirds face the No. 1 defensive team in the ECC. Last year, the Jaguars limited Southern Nash to seven yard rushing, although the Firebirds, with Morgan at the helm, did manage to throw for 212 yards.

Against the Jaguars, Morgan completed only seven of 26 passes, but two of his tosses were for scores. He also had three intercepted. Six of Morgan's seven completions were to Grady, for 191 yards.

Southern Nash has had two weeks to prepare for Farmville, having had an off-date last week.

"We had the kids practice three days last week and this week we've had'em out all week trying to get ready for one of the best teams in the state," McMann said.

"This is the most important game Southern Nash has had in recent times, dating back to the early 1970s, when they had a team go 10-0."

"It feels good to be playing for something this late in the season. But to win, we're just going to have to go out and beat them."

Game time at Southern Nash is 8 p.m.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — BELLIPOSE BELLE COULD REALLY DISRUPT OUR PARTY.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: H equals D

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Needs A Buffalo To Pay Off Bet

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. George Nigh says he has some hot leads on finding a buffalo to pay off a wager with Texas Gov. William Clements.

Nigh wagered a buffalo against a longhorn steer over the annual football showdown between the Oklahoma Sooners and the Texas Longhorns last week.

The Sooners lost, 16-7, and now Nigh needs a buffalo — especially since Clements has promised to barbecue it for the Texas players.

Nigh said he expects to be able to acquire a buffalo soon, noting that he has had offers of sales and outright donations from persons in Oklahoma and other states.

"After we get one, we're considering taking it to the Red River and turning it loose," Nigh quipped. "We could say, 'Here it is. You catch it.'"

Aware Program Is Aimed At Juveniles

"The Final Step," a juvenile aware program conducted by North Carolina's Department of Correction, is currently being offered to the public at four youth centers and at the N. C. Correctional Center for Women.

The program will be made available to persons 12 to 18 in groups of 30 on the first and third Tuesday of each month at the Polk Youth Center in Raleigh, the Harnett Youth Center in Lillington, the Cameron-Morrison Youth Center near Hoffman, the Western Correctional Center in Morganton and the NCCCW.

"The Final Step" is designed to show the realities of life in prison through the testimony of inmates close to their age who are now serving time. The groups will tour the particular institution they visit.

This project is a support component of the criminal justice system. Its purpose is to educate young persons who may be unaware of what goes on behind bars and to motivate them to avoid behavior that might lead to a criminal conviction.

Parents, adult volunteers, groups such as PARTNERS Inc. and Big Brother, representatives of the juvenile justice community, school administrators and others may contact the superintendents at the appropriate facility to arrange for a "Final Step" presentation.

Dog Helped Find Two Lost Boys

WILLIAMSBURG, N.C. (AP) — Little Timmy Miller, 10, and his companion, Toby Sprinkle, 6, were couldn't find their way out of the woods Tuesday night and were growing lonely, cold and scared of the dark.

Then, as the new longer and their voices weaker, along came Tubby, Timmy's dog.

ciate everyone turning out to help like they did."

Timmy said he has never been afraid of the dark and still isn't. But, he added, he wouldn't want to be lost in the woods again.

"It felt terrible just to look around and see woods sticking up everywhere," he said.

"When I saw Tubby, I was real happy."

Timmy and Toby were both unharmed. As for Tubby, he got some well-deserved dog biscuits.

"I still won't let him sleep in the house," Bobbie Miller said. "But then again, I won't call him a stupid mutt any more."

Of all the sheriff's deputies, volunteer firemen and neighbors who searched from 8 p.m. Tuesday until 2 a.m. Wednesday, it was Tubby that first found the boys and gave them hope that help was on the way.

"When I saw Tubby, I thought, 'Somebody's gotta be with him,' so I started yelling for daddy," a rested Timmy said Wednesday. "It was too dark to follow him back, so we just waited and started yelling some more," he said.

Meanwhile, on the edge of the woods, Timmy's father, Clyde Miller, and a group of increasingly desperate searchers noticed Tubby was missing.

"We got to missing the dog and then we heard something coming through the woods," Miller said. "Well, it was the little dog coming back. So we went in the direction the dog came from, and finally we heard their voices."

It didn't take long after that before Timmy and Toby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sprinkle, were safe.

The boys had been playing in the woods along Grooms Road in the eastern Rockingham County community with James Sprinkle, Toby's older brother, and the only one of the three who knew his way home.

James went home for supper, and when the other boys didn't show up, their parents became worried and the sheriff's department was called out. Before long the woods were full of searchers.

One of the deputies brought a bloodhound, but the scents of so many searchers left it confused, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said.

So it was Tubby, the black, one-year-old half-Labrador and half-bound that Timmy helped raise from birth, that happened upon the lost boys.

"It was just like Lassie," said a relieved Bobbie Miller, Timmy's mother. "I just want to stress how much we appreciate everyone turning out to help like they did."

Interest Hurts Auto Dealers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Soaring interest rates are cutting into automobile dealers' profits, and at least one dealer thinks the consequences may be even worse.

"It ain't just cutting profits. It's going to put a lot of dealers out of business," said Herman B. Johnson, general sales manager of John Dinley Chevrolet in Apex.

The prime interest rate rose to 14.5 percent last week, and Johnson predicted it would rise again very soon. "Just 18 months ago we could borrow money at 9 percent," he said.

As a result of the higher interest, dealers' inventories will cost more and this will leave fewer cars on the sales lots. The result of all this will probably be higher prices for the consumer.

Johnson said he had about 80 cars, or a two-month supply, on hand that were costing between $8,000 and $9,000 a month in finance charges. If the company borrows money at an anticipated rate of 15.5 percent, that figure will be more than $10,000.

A spokesman for Thompson Cadillac-Oldsmobile in Raleigh said the monthly inventory cost is about $20,000 a month. Another Raleigh dealer, Charlie Wiygul Ford, said the increase in the prime rate will cost his firm an additional $6,000 a month.

In Greenville, J.P. Cullipher of Bill Haddock Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge said the agency's inventory costs had doubled in the last year.

"Our inventory for next month will be down to 125 to 145 cars from 200 cars at the same time last year," Cullipher said. "It costs us about $15,000 a month to carry those cars for one month, compared to about $7,500 a year ago."

The Haddock company will try to offset some of the interest costs by doing more repair and service work.

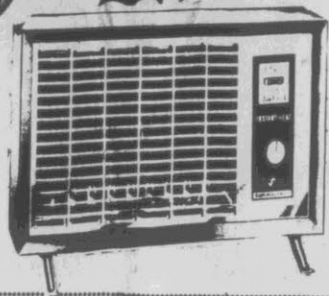

Haddock has cut back orders of new 1980 cars by 50 percent. Wiygul Ford plans to cut its inventory by 35 percent, while Thompson Cadillac-Olds will carry a 30-day supply instead of the 45-day supply it carries now.

Conley PAC Officers Named

Mrs. Rose Ann Williams was elected chairman of the D. H. Conley PAC during its organizational meeting Tuesday. Mrs. Nora Gatlin was named vice chairman, with Mrs. Velma McLawhorn as secretary.

Bernard Haselrig, Title I director for Pitt County, discussed the Conley Title I program with the parents, as well as the program on the county level.

Stage Set For Showdown On Chicago Desegregation Case

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Board of Education has set the stage for a showdown in the federal courts over desegregating public schools in the nation's second-largest city.

The board voted 7-2 Wednesday night to refuse to accept guidelines set down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for preparing a desegregation plan.

"We do not want to go to court, but if we must we are prepared to argue our case before the judiciary," Superintendent Joseph Hannon said.

The key feature of the HEW guidelines was that no student body in the system consist of more than 50 percent whites. About 17 percent of the system's 475,000 students are white.

HEW officials, including Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, have said that if the board refused to accept the guidelines, HEW would refer the case to the Justice Department and recommend a lawsuit.

In Washington, HEW spokesman Bill Wise declined to comment Wednesday night, saying: "First, we want a full report from our people in Chicago."

HEW's Office of Civil Rights, which concluded a two-year investigation of the school system in April, has charged that the city's schools have been deliberately segregated for 40 years.

The office said school boards fostered segregation by the way they drew school district boundaries and by the ways in which new schools were located, as well as in other ways.

If the city had accepted the conditions submitted by HEW last week, it automatically would have been given an extension until Nov. 17 to prepare a desegregation plan. Instead, the board vote 6-3 to ask HEW for an additional 170 days to come up with an acceptable plan, echoing a plea Hannon made a day earlier to President Carter.

However, Hannon told the board he had been informed Mrs. Harris would send him a letter today telling him that the Justice Department would get the case in 10 days, and that there would be no 170-day extension.

Earlier this fall, the Justice Department suggested in a study that significant desegregation of the schools could be achieved in a program that would involve busing of about 114,000 pupils.

Hannon said Wednesday that "if we were to implement HEW's feasibility study, 55 percent — over one half — of the schools they included would not meet their own standards for desegregation."

A largely voluntary integration program submitted earlier by the city — called "Access to Excellence II" — was rejected by HEW.

Both President Carter, in a visit to the Chicago area Tuesday, and Mrs. Harris, in a speech Wednesday in Washington, said it might be better to settle the segregation issue in court.

"I have a feeling that to have the decision made by the local federal court might very well be better for Chicago and the preservation of its neighborhoods and the honoring of the civil rights of people than to have it as a debate between the local school system and the Department of HEW," Carter said.

PTL Hails A Tax Break

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — PTL officials say they're delighted by a decision that apparently means the religious broadcasting network will not have to pay property tax on its major holdings.

The Property Tax Commission of the North Carolina Department of Revenue ruled this week that PTL's Heritage Village property in Charlotte is tax exempt.

The commission ruled that PTL is a religious organization under the definitions of state law. Property used for religious purposes is tax exempt in North Carolina.

PTL's Park Road property includes its studios and major administration buildings.

However, the Charlotte-based network will have to pay taxes on four other pieces of property, since the commission found they were not used specifically for religious purposes. The tax bill, which dates from 1977, will amount to about $8,000.

"PTL is happy," said organization attorney Allen Gordon. "They feel this is a fair interpretation of the law, and that they did get justice as the law was written."

County tax attorney Hamlin Wade said he's not sure yet whether he will advise an appeal of the ruling to the N.C. Court of Appeals. The decision to appeal would have to come from the North Carolina Board of County Commissioners.

The case began about two years ago when PTL applied for a tax exemption on all its property and was turned down by the county. PTL appealed the county's decision to Mecklenburg County's Board of Equalization and North Carolina Association Review.

The board ruled that all PTL property should be exempt, and the county then appealed to the state commission.

County commission chairman Ed Peacock said he doesn't know whether the county commissioners will vote in favor of more appeals.

Vivid Colors

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The Great Smoky Mountains National Park is expecting between 200,000 and 300,000 visitors this weekend as the fall foliage blooms into brilliant reds, oranges and yellows.

Park Naturalist Glenn Cardwell said fall colors in the half million-acre park on the Tennessee-North Carolina border will peak between today and Oct. 27.

"The wind, rain and snow of the first week in October have already left many of the trees bare in the higher parts of the park, but the best is yet to come at the mid and low elevations," Cardwell said.

The number of visitors in the park usually drops off in September after the summer tourist season but rebounds sharply in October with the changing colors.

Cardwell said the most scenic areas are from the overlooks along Thomas Ridge, the Newfound Gap Road, Cades Cove, Rich Mountain, the Foothills Parkway and along Tenn. 73 near Cosby.

Mental Health Bd. Held Meet

The Pitt County Area Mental Health Board met Wednesday afternoon at the center.

Reports were presented by committee chairmen, Ray Rogers, Bill McDonald, John Mewborn and Robert Martin. Dr. Stephen Creech, area director, reported on a proposal for a regional workshop, the area board association meeting, gave a transitional home update, and reported on deinstitutionalization emphasis, Phoenix Club, Camp Willow Run, and evaluation findings.

Propose Reduce Tobacco Yield

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture will hold three public hearings in North Carolina on a proposal to change the national yield goal for tobacco for the first time since 1965.

Hearings in Lumberton, Winston-Salem and Nashville, as well as other areas outside the state, will be held before U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland reaches a decision by Dec. 1 on whether to increase the national yield goal.

The yield goal is an estimate of the amount of tobacco poundage the USDA thinks farmers can produce per acre. The goal is currently set at 1,854 pounds and is divided into the national marketing quota to determine the number of acres allotted to farmers for their tobacco crops.

Vongarlem said in a telephone interview that the department was considering raising the goal to 1,991 pounds for the 1980 season. That figure is closer to the actual average yield per acre reached by farmers, according to Vongarlem.

The effects of an increase in the yield goal would depend on Bergland's decision about the 1980 national marketing quota for tobacco. The quota includes the total poundage of flue-cured tobacco permitted to be grown in a given season.

But a USDA spokesman said tobacco farmers with inefficient operations might not be able to produce their quota if the goal were increased.

Thomas A. Vongarlem, deputy director of the USDA's price support and loan division, said Wednesday that the proposed change in the federal formula to determine the amount of acreage allotted for flue-cured tobacco was designed to discourage illegal marketing of tobacco.

The illegal marketing prompted complaints from some growers when tobacco prices tumbled off near the end of the 1978 season, Vongarlem said.

Dr. Knox To Be Radio Speaker

Dr. David Knox will be guest Sunday at 1:06 p. m. on "Mental Health Matters" on WNCT radio.

Knox, marriage counselor and professor of sociology at ECU, will discuss a behavioral approach to marriage counseling. Asserting that "a happy marriage doesn't just spin by itself," he will explain how behaviors can change, how couples can be helped to communicate positively, and how compromises and contracts can lead to positive behaviors, commitment and reward. Through humane and scientific marriage therapy, the marriage counselor, using the behavioral approach, can help the couple realize a happier relationship, Knox asserts.

TAX SHELTERS

A seminar on tax shelters will be conducted by Tom Waite, vice president and tax shelter coordinator for E.F. Hutton.

The seminar will begin at 7:30 tonight and is open to the public.

If We're So 'Indispensible,' Why Can't We Get a Contract?

"United Telecom and its employees serve some 3,000 communities in 21 states, from Florida to Washington State.

"Since 1972, these indispensable folks helped us grow from $650 million to almost $1.4 billion in revenues."

That's some of the praise that United Telecommunications Inc. heaped on its employees in an Oct. 5 advertisement in the prestigious New York Times.

In the same advertisement, United Telecom brags about its $3 billion in assets, its impressive profit picture and says: "In short, our employees are the vital force behind a system that is bigger—in numbers of telephones, revenues and assets—than all but two of America's 1,500 telephone companies."

Yet at the collective bargaining table with the Communications Workers of America, management has another line.

Management is letting more than 4,000 of these indispensable telephone workers walk picket lines in New Jersey, eastern North Carolina, southern Virginia and upper Tennessee.

Members of CWA Local 1075, employed by the New Jersey Telephone Co., a United Telecom subsidiary, have been on strike since June 1.

And, CWA members employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., which includes the Norfolk and Carolina Telephone Co., and United Inter-Mountain Telephone Co.—all United Telecom subsidiaries—have been on strike since Oct. 1.

Indispensable?

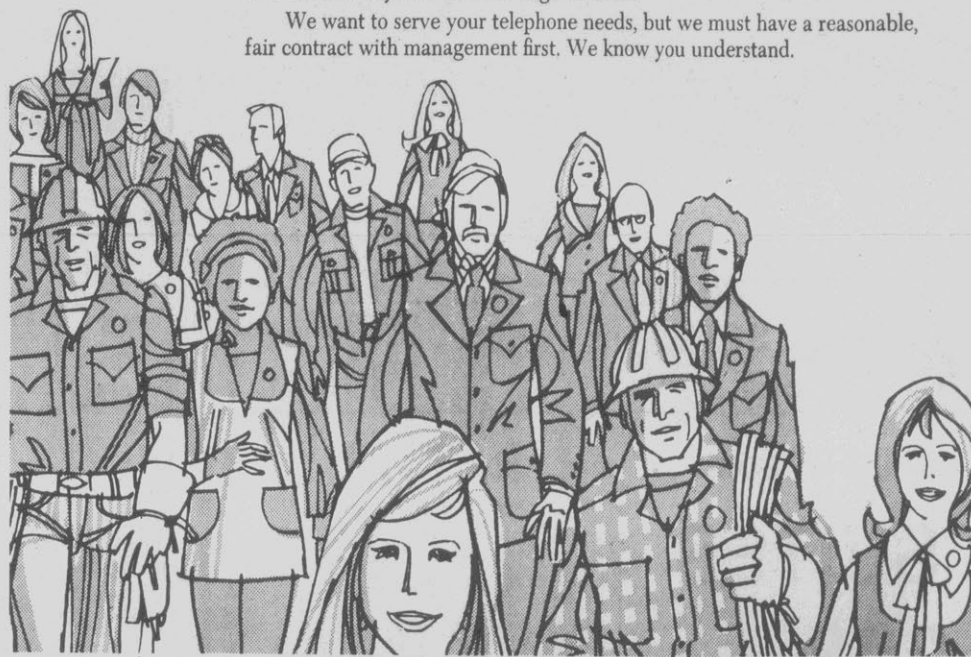

We think so. We think CWA members, the men and women who install your telephones, answer your information questions and perform hundreds of vital services, are truly indispensable.

But, United Telecom does not.

United Telecom says one thing in public and says something totally different in private.

The members of CWA want a reasonable contract with United Telecom... a contract that will provide the kind of wage protection that all workers need in these days of continued high inflation.

We want to serve your telephone needs, but we must have a reasonable, fair contract with management first. We know you understand.

'Black English' A Stigma Says Prof

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — A black educator says blacks will be hurt rather than helped if so-called black English is required in American schools.

Advocates of black English "have either misread their own history or have never read it at all," said Jesse Jackson, a member of the educational media faculty at Appalachian State University.

Black English, he said in an interview, is useful only to ghetto residents and is a "language that, aside from its bad grammar, is shot through and through with the argot of the shoplifter, the pusher, the hustler and the gambler."

To teach children in the urban ghettos to use black English, Jackson said, would be "tantamount to saying that there is no hope for them ever to leave the ghetto."

Jackson, who has written nine books for children, said the use of standardized American English and black English by different groups of blacks resulted, "almost a 300-year-old conflict between the slave who was a house servant and benefited socially and culturally from his proximity to his white master, and the field hands who lived in the quarters and had very little contact with literate people.

"The proximity of the house servant to the master gave him the chance of learning to speak properly, dress well, eat better food and enjoy some of the other niceties that his master enjoyed," Jackson said.

Jackson traces his own ancestry to house servants of the Henry Clay family in Kentucky.

Besides making black youngsters unemployable, Jackson said, it "denies black youngsters role models, so very necessary."

Patricia Harris, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Justice Thurgood Marshall of the Supreme Court, exemplify proper role models, Jackson said.

Standardized English will be necessary if blacks are going to succeed economically, Jackson said.

"What language do you think the Vietnamese boat people will learn? They will be taught standard English to take the jobs of blacks who believed black English would help them succeed in a highly competitive and complex American society," he said.

A movement to require black English in public schools gained some strength last summer when a federal judge ruled that a Michigan school system must take black English into account in teaching children to read.

VEPCO Asks New Increase

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Virginia Electric and Power Co., which already charges the highest electric rates in the state, is seeking an increase of $1.62 per 1,000 kilowatt hours from the N.C. Utilities Commission.

Veeco wants the increase in its fuel adjustment for November bills. Carolina Power and Light Co. is asking for a reduction of $1.13 and Duke Power Co. is seeking an increase of about 30 cents.

The Utilities Commission will consider the changes, which reflect fuel costs from June through August, on Monday.

Veeco is seeking a November fuel adjustment of $6.55 per 1,000 kilowatt hours, compared with $4.93 in October. CP&L is seeking $2.96, down from $4.09, while Duke is asking $3.44, up from $3.145.

Robert Fischbach, director of the commission's consumer-oriented Public Staff, said in an interview that Veeco's higher proposed fuel adjustment clause resulted largely from several power plants being out of service during the summer months.

Fischbach appeared before the Legislature's Utilities Review Committee Wednesday to present a report on Veeco's high electric rates and low generating capacity.

All three of Veeco's nuclear plants, the least expensive ones to operate, were down Monday.

Its North Anna unit was out for refueling. Its Surry 1 and 2 units have been down since last spring under a federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission order involving a review of pipe restraints being used, according to Veeco spokesman Nicholas W. Parham.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's aspects seem not to be too important. Nevertheless, consider all aspects of whatever course of action you wish to pursue in the days ahead. Get the goodwill and approval of others by a very cooperative attitude.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Entertain close associates and come to a better understanding. Improve upon any agreements you may have made. Avoid a con artist.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Instead of arguing with family members, establish more harmony with them. Get involved in civic work that is important to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find a tangible way of pleasing those you like and get good results. Work hard at your finest talent and get the right benefits from it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Think more about pleasing kin and less about amassing more money and property for now. Let this be a cultural evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A cheery attitude and a smile can work wonders with routine contacts or co-workers. Take a little trip with one you want to know better.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improving your home makes it more comfortable; improving health brings more success. Be with good friends and have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't be afraid to ask good friends for favors you need and they can extend. See that you are paid properly for good work done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an adviser who can be helpful to you if you contact this person early. Keep advice confidential for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be with friends but only for constructive purposes and mutual help. Don't neglect business affairs. Evening fine for recreation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show you admire what a bigwig is doing and gain backing you need for own projects. Bring talents to the attention of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into new activities now that can prove lucrative in the future. Take a short trip with a delightful friend.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Taking a new attitude toward a loved one could easily bring better results than in the past. You can also deal better with creditors.

Julie Harris Relishing Different Radio Roles

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Harris had the rather unique task recently of portraying two major literary figures simultaneously — Emily Dickinson on stage and Charlotte Bronte on radio.

"I think when I started acting," the five-time Tony-winner says, understating the case a bit, "I felt that was one of the benefits, and one of the challenges, of being an actress, that I could be a lot of different people."

Miss Harris' current, somewhat unusual professional relationship with "The Belle of Amherst" — Miss Dickinson — and "Currer Bell, Esq." — Miss Bronte — is hardly surprising in light of her lifelong affection for the two women and their work.

"I think I sort of read them side-by-side," she recalls, "beginning in high school with Emily Bronte's 'Wuthering Heights' and Charlotte's 'Jane Eyre.'"

"I was reading the letters of Emily Dickinson," Miss Harris says, "and then I realized that there were letters of Charlotte's that were in existence and then sort of side-by-side ... there was so much work to do ..."

"Currer Bell, Esq.," concludes a two-week run on many National Public Radio stations at 6 p.m. EDT Sunday. It's the season's premiere program in NPR's "Masterpiece Radio Theater" series.

As with all NPR programs, air date and time may vary, so check local listings for time and station.

Miss Harris' performance in "Currer Bell, Esq.," is but a part of her "Masterpiece Radio Theater" association this season. She will introduce subsequent programs in the weekly series — Anne Bronte's "The Tenant of Wildfell Hall" Oct. 28-Dec. 2, "Les Miserables" Dec. 9-March 23, and "Moby Dick," March 30-April 27.

"You know, I was a big failure in radio," the actress says, reflecting on her current relationship with the medium. "I auditioned when I first came to New York in the 40's ... never got to first base."

"As a listener, I grew up on radio, loved it and still do." Miss Harris says her interest in radio drama goes beyond that of the performer's.

"Good radio drama, well done," she says, "can be very exciting, and I believe it's a way to interest you in reading for yourself."

"I'm a disciple. I want other people to see what I see in what I read."

Became Actor 'To Be Liked'

By FRED YAGER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "I became an actor so people would like me," said William Devane, star of the recently released movie "Yanks."

"But now I don't care any more," Devane continued. "In fact, once I realized some people actually didn't like me, I kind of liked it. It helps you know ... a little variety."

In "Yanks," a movie about GIs in Britain during World War II, Devane is an American army captain in love with a Vanessa Redgrave.

"I play a guy who's basically lonesome," the actor said. "He's past the point of bravado and insecure loudness that Americans are normally identified with. After seeing so many war war movies, I just tried to find another way to go."

The 42-year-old Devane credits director John Schlesinger with helping him find the right way to go as an actor. "Some directors pretend to know a lot about acting," Devane said. "Those are the real dangerous guys. John Schlesinger doesn't pretend to know a lot about anything. He just knows a lot about how to make a film."

WILLIAM DEVANE

New Facts By Guinness

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor James Coburn was paid a record $250,000 per syllable to speak two words for a beer commercial. Actress Sophia Loren's husband received the largest fine ever imposed. And the United States ranks third among the world's richest nations.

These are among facts gleaned from the 1980 edition of the Guinness Book of World Records, on sale today. The book itself sets a record with 704 pages, the largest edition ever.

The Italian courts tried to make Carlo Ponti, Sophia Loren's husband, a little bit less rich when they fined him $26.4 million for violation of tax laws.

And the richest nation in the world is Abu Dhabi, on the Arabian peninsula, where the annual per capita income is $70,000. Five years ago the record per capita was $8,500 in the Pacific island of Nauru. The difference lies in oil.

"He hires actors who can act, and if he doesn't like something, he'll tell you," Devane said, smiling. "But if we get into a deep conflict and he knows I'm wrong, he lets me go ahead and do it then cuts it out of the picture."

Offered the role of Bobby Kennedy in the 1974 television film "The Missiles of October," Devane uprooted his family from their home in New York and moved to California. When he got there, there was a problem. The role of President John Kennedy hadn't been filled.

"Hal Holbrook was tied up, and a lot of people were afraid to do it," Devane recalled. "They didn't feel they could make it work. I had nothing to lose. It was just a bigger part than Bobby."

For Devane, the role of JFK opened the road to stardom. He went on to do Alfred Hitchcock's "Family Plot," Schlesinger's "Marathon Man," and Paul Schrader's "Rolling Thunder," as well as the TV miniseries "From Here to Eternity," last season.

Bridge is a paradoxical game. When it seems that the contract is hopeless, great optimism should be exercised — any chance you take to make the contract is justified, even at the cost of an extra undertrick or two. However, when prospects appear rosy, the play should be approached with every caution. Ask yourself what could go wrong, then see what you can do to prevent it.

South became declarer at a contract of six hearts after an aggressive auction. North's cue-bid was under strength in terms of high cards, but in view of South's free bid and the fact that North's long diamond suit would provide partner with a welcome source of tricks, the cue-bid was an intelligent choice.

West led the queen of spades, and declarer was delighted with his dummy. He ruffed, drew trumps in two rounds and then cashed the ace and king of diamonds. When East discarded on the second diamond, the contract could not be made — declarer needed two entries to establish and run the diamonds, and the table had only one.

South rallied against the fates. "Why couldn't diamonds break 3-2 like they're supposed to," he complained. That is true, but the

Fall Festival Slated Friday

Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist Church will hold its annual fall festival Friday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. sponsored by the Maggie Little Circle and Club.

The festival will be held at the Sweet Gum Grove Community Building. Hot dogs, sandwiches, coffee and drinks will be sold.

A bazaar table will be featured. The public is invited.

and ruffs another diamond high, setting up the suit. Now even if trumps are 3-1, the contract is cold.

Declarer simply enters dummy with a trump, and if they have not split evenly, he draws the last trump and runs the diamonds, conceding a club at the end. However, with trumps 2-2, declarer will be able to discard all of his losing clubs and one spade on the diamond suit, and will then emerge with all the tricks.

You Can Buy In For $10 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — You can get a piece of the Rockefeller estate if you have $10 million to spare.

The Rockefeller brothers' 4,085-acre Virgin Island property on St. Croix is up for sale. The block of land is one of the largest in the Caribbean, and constitutes one-tenth of the entire island.

Included in the Estate Fountain River is the famed Fountain Valley Golf course. The estate also encompasses 2½ miles of coastline on Davis Bay. A spring-fed lake and more than a dozen wells provide fresh water for the estate.

The two surviving Rockefeller brothers, David and Laurance, bought the property independently of their three brothers, now deceased. They began assembling it in 1963.

CONVERSING SHOVELS? — Also taking part in Tuesday's groundbreaking for the new public works project were the shovels and hard hats. The shovels, during a groundbreaking, are the center of attention, but seldom recognized, and always soon forgotten. Also an important part of the ceremony, were the hard hats required on the heads of officials. This photo was made shortly after the ceremonies. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Switch To Metrics Broadly Opposed

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Traveling Metric Show rolls into Michigan this week, an effort aimed at persuading Americans to measure milk by the liter, hamburger by the kilogram and the miles to grandmother's house by the kilometer.

Americans gave the system mixed reviews at U.S. Metric Board hearings earlier this year in Dallas, Boston and San Francisco.

Indeed, Americans have steadfastly ignored the metric system despite its being the official system of weights and measures since 1893. This country — alone among the world's industrial nations — seems to prefer using quarts and pints, and more obscure measures such as bushels and pecks, all four of which can be converted to the metric liter.

The only other non-metric nations are Brunei, Burma, Liberia and North and South Yemen.

The sessions in Dearborn, Mich., on Thursday and Friday are expected to feature a lively discussion on the merits of metrics, according to Bill DeReuter of the Metric Board, with auto industry figures arguing both sides of the question.

Congress created the board in 1975 to "coordinate the voluntary conversion to the metric system." While many consider this a mandate to encourage Americans to give up yards, pounds and gallons in exchange for meters, grams and liters, others — even board members — disagree.

And if it is a mandate, it is one without teeth, since conversion is voluntary.

Changeover activists include U.S. industries that want to sell their products overseas where the metric system is nearly universal.

But firm opposition also exists, from people for whom the English system is too deeply ingrained to those, like the garage mechanic with a full set of English system socket wrenches, who hope to avoid the inevitable costs of the changeover.

Nonetheless, the board predicts the metric system will be the dominant system in the United States by 1990.

In Detroit, the car companies are already converting to metrics because of their large involvement in overseas markets, and they are pushing for other industries to follow.

However, the United Auto Workers union is concerned the costs of retooling to accommodate metric measurement would be borne by car owners and mechanics, according to DeReuter.

UAW fears were realized, at least in part, by the alcohol industry.

Distilleries and vineyards, under pressure from the U.S.

Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, were leaders in adopting metrics, but the changeover brought price increases for wine and liquor buyers.

A federal study last year noted that "most wines and distilled spirits that were converted to metric sizes experienced unit price increases greater than those that did not convert."

DeReuter said that public forums in Dallas and Boston drew opposition to change, so the board was surprised when a majority of those speaking in San Francisco favored use of metric measurement.

The Detroit meeting will likely include discussions on the current hot topic in the world of metric measurement — gasoline pumps.

Gasoline prices of more than $1 a gallon have led to problems because most pumps can indicate prices only to 99.9 cents.

Some stations are selling by the half-gallon as an interim measure, but metric proponents are urging a conversion to pumps that measure in liters, which are slightly more than a quart.

This, they claim, would be cheaper than changing the calculator part of the pump. Some independents have already converted to liter measurements.

For the time being, there is no national consensus, and gas station owners or oil companies must make the decisions individually. The metric board has no power to compel the use of metrics, and when others tried to use leverage, the public outcry was overwhelming.

In 1977, for example, the Federal Highway Administration proposed converting highway speed signs to kilometers-per-hour. The plan was withdrawn after a two-month barrage of public opposition: of more than 5,000 comments sent in, 98 percent were negative.

The National Weather Service has also eased its push for metric usage, offering both Celsius and Fahrenheit temperatures but delaying further moves toward metric windspeeds and other measurements.

Even the Metric Board seems divided over the future of Metric measurement in the United States; following lengthy discussion in San Francisco during August, the board wound up taking an almost neutral stand, defining its job as helping those who want to make the change to metric, but not to encourage either the metric or English systems.

Mining Town Has High Cancer Rate

DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — The uranium that kept this mining town booming in the late 1940s and '50s may have given residents four times the national lung cancer rate, says a doctor who has reviewed local hospital records.

Dr. Scott McCaffrey said Tuesday that records at Mercy Medical Center, one of Durango's two hospitals, show 237 cases of lung cancer diagnosed over the past 15 years. Normally, he said, one could expect only about 60 cases for a town of 10,000 over the same period.

Durango's actual lung cancer rate may be much higher, he added, because his study did not include records from Community Hospital or from patients who may have sought treatment in Denver.

There was no immediate comment from public health officials.

What's left of the uranium boom is a 1.5-million-ton mountain of tailings — leftover material from uranium processing — on the south side of town, just across the tracks of the narrow-gauge silver mine railroad that draws thousands of tourists each year.

Within 50 meters of the 20-year-old tailings pile, radioactive radon gas has been measured at four to six times higher than the normal background level. Federal research has shown that radiation from radon, a product of the radioactive decay of what little uranium is left, causes lung cancer and other respiratory ailments.

It is "impossible to say with certainty" whether the radon seeping from the tailings pile caused the higher incidence of lung cancer, he said, because "there are other things that cause cancer."
