Rezoning Medical Arts Area Approved By City

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A request by the J. R. Moye heirs to have some eight acres at the southwest corner of NC 43 and Moye Boulevard rezoned gained the approval of the City Council last night, despite several indications of opposition, including East Carolina University.

The Council, after discussing at length the Moye request to rezone the property from Medical Arts to Office and Institutional designation, voted unanimously to rezone the tract.

It was pointed out that the Moye property fronts on NC 43 and is bounded on the east and north by Office and Institutional zoning and on the south and west by Health Care zone.

Mayor Percy Cox reported that the city had received "several letters of protest," including a protest petition submitted by ECU and signed by Chancellor Thomas Brewer. Cox said that in view of the city receiving a certified petition in protest of the rezoning request, at least a 75 percent approval vote from the Council would be necessary.

David Stevens, attorney at ECU, said that the university recognized the contributions of the Moye family to the community but he said that at some point the chipping away of land zoned for medical use around the new hospital had to stop. Stevens said that ECU feels the city should stick to the "well thought out" medical district plan formulated by the planning commission here several years ago.

The attorney said that "in all consideration of the Moyes," the university feels that the long range future of Greenville should be addressed and the city should look at what the medical complex and hospital area could be like in 25 years.

Stevens, in urging the Council to consider the "long term development" of the area, asserted that the tract under consideration represents the last piece of land that the university can "stand up and protest" in terms of its contiguous nature with the ECU medical school property.

Patricia Daugherty, land use and annexation chairman for the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, said that the LWV urged the city to retain the Medical Arts zoning of the Moye property.

Dr. Daugherty stated, "It is anticipated that the medical district will become a regional medical center. Unless the (medical district development) plan is adhered to, it seems inevitable that the area will become ringed by very intensive commercial development, with accompanying congestion."

She said that the League feels that the public interest is best served by Medical Arts zoning of the Moye tract and that the Moyes "can find sufficient flexibility to make reasonable use" of the property within the MA zoning.

Ruth Trevathan, who served on the Planning and Zoning Commission during the development of the medical plan, said she feels the plan is needed "even more now."

Attorney Fred Mattox, who represented the Moye heirs, said that the Moye family has not capitalized on the growth of the medical area. Mattox said that if Office and Institutional zoning is so detrimental to the hospital, why would the Moye tract be detrimental when another nearby tract was not.

Mattox said that rezoning of the Moye tract will not unleash a flood of rezoning and he said that rezoning would make the property conform to existing zoning on two sides of the property. The attorney contended that the need is just as great for Office and Institutional zoning as for Medical Arts.

Council member Judy Greene said she recognized the work that went into the medical plan but she said she felt the plan, "like any other plan," is a tool with which to work and changes are sometimes necessary.

Council member Mildred McGrath said she did not feel the city could have too much health care zoning in the hospital area but she noted that the recent county request to have the old hospital property rezoned was approved. Mrs. McGrath said that she felt the city "should feed everyone from the same spoon."

Councilman Charles Vincent said that he wished he and Mrs. McGrath had had the support of others when the county request came up several months ago. Vincent said he feels that the county could have utilized the old hospital property without rezoning.

Vincent said that he did not feel that government should be given preference over private individuals and to treat citizens any differently would not be fair. The councilman said that he was in favor of the Moye request.

Councilman John Howard said that he felt the ECU position was valid but at the same time the city has rezoned property adjoining the Moye tract. Howard said that he found himself in a "real dilemma" as to what is best for the area.

"I've worked with this Council for two years and these decisions do not come easily," commented Cox. He explained that if two members of the Council voted to oppose the matter, it would be denied in view of the certified protest petition.

All six Council members voted in favor of the Moye request.

In other business last night, the Council approved, following a public hearing, a request by Jerry Rhodes, Brent Heiser and Doug McPherson for a special use permit to operate a discotheque, private club and restaurant in the structure located on River Bluff Road behind the Honda dealership.

The petitioners indicated through their attorney, Garry Pegram, that they planned to operate a private club for customers 21 years of age and older. The facility has been in operation as a non-private establishment for teenagers, it was mentioned.

The Council voted that the findings of fact pertaining to the issuance of the special use

Join Rate Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Major New York banks raised their prime lending rates to 15½ percent today, joining Chase Manhattan Bank at the record rate that has drawn political fire from Congress.

Banks announcing the increases included Citibank, the nation's second largest, No. 5 Morgan Guaranty, No. 6 Chemical Bank and No. 8 Bankers Trust Co. The rate had been 15¼ percent.

Citibank said its formula called for a prime rate of 16 percent, but that it had exercised restraint in raising the rate only to 15½ percent.

Chase, which is ranked No. 3, announced its boost on Wednesday and was denounced by Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., the chairman of the House Banking Committee, who said the increases were beyond the level justified by recent Federal Reserve moves to tighten credit.

The prime rate is the rate charged by banks to their most credit-worthy corporate borrowers. Other commercial and industrial borrowers are forced to pay higher rates.

The prime rate does not directly affect consumer loan rates, which at some banks are now lower than the corporate rate. But it is a widely watched indicator of short-term rates.

Citibank is the only bank to publicly disclose its formula, which is based on other short-term market rates. Last week it said its formula called for a 15½ percent rate, but it did not announce an increase after Reuss asked that the rate not be raised.

The prime rate was 11¾ percent in early August, but has risen sharply since then, particularly since Oct. 6, when the Federal Reserve sharply tightened credit.

Told On Teacher And Loses Job

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Cumberland County school superintendent says a teacher acted out of character when she spat on an 11-year-old mentally-handicapped pupil to teach him not to spit.

Alice Johnson, a 25-year veteran teacher, was reprimanded Wednesday by Superintendent C. Wayne Collier. Mrs. Johnson works at Cedar Creek School, a special school for the handicapped.

"I think I've been done a terrible injustice," she said. "I would love to stand on a house-top and scream."

The teacher's aide who reported the incident is out of a job for her action. School principal Martha Hair asked the aide to apologize to Mrs. Johnson and when the aide refused, Mrs. Hair asked the aide to resign.

Tax Break For Gasohol

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — If the state wants to sell gasohol, it must exempt it from all or a portion of the state's gasoline tax, a state Commerce Department report says.

The report, released Thursday, says gasohol cannot be sold competitively now with regular unleaded fuel because fuel-grade alcohol prices are so high.

"Recognizing that state gasoline tax revenues are down sharply from projected levels, a tax exemption for gasohol would undoubtedly have to be accompanied by an increase in the state tax on gasoline," the report concluded.

The report said such an exemption should be for a limited time to allow the state to gauge its impact on tax revenues.

Thousands of Iranian demonstrators chanting "Death to America!" marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today as Anwar Sadat, Muhammad Ali and Pope John Paul II joined other world figures trying to win the release of some 60 Americans held stage there.

Tehran Radio, monitored in Kuwait, said Red Cross representatives were allowed into embassy today and reported the hostages to be in good condition. The student militants holding the U.S. compound previously had barred the Red Cross.

The Turkish ambassador in Tehran, Turgut Tolumen, also visited the embassy, Saudi Arabian radio reported. State Department officials said they were informed Tolumen might try to open negotiations with the students. If he does, it would be the first direct mediation of the 6-day-old embassy standoff.

Egyptian President Sadat was reported ready to send his personal jet to fly the shah from New York to Egypt. Former heavyweight boxing champion Ali reportedly offered to exchange himself for the hostages. And the pope dispatched an envoy to Iran to meet with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The State Department said it was considering calling for a U.N. Security Council meeting on the situation.

Witnesses in Tehran, reached by The Associated Press from Bonn, West Germany, reported the march on the embassy, where the Americans have been held captive since Sunday by Iranian demonstrators demanding the United States hand over Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi for trial in Iran, where he has been condemned to death.

The witnesses said the marchers were urged on by Moslem clergymen.

President Carter sent a peace mission en route to Iran two days ago but the Iranians rebuffed the overture. They also rejected a mediation bid by the Palestine Liberation Organization, saying they would not open negotiations with anyone unless the Carter administration agrees to surrender the shah.

The rejection of the PLO overture, reported by Tehran Radio, left world leaders groping for solutions to the stalemate.

Sadat told an NBC-TV correspondent in Cairo that the events in Iran were "a disgrace to Islam," and he believed that flying the shah to Egypt from his New York hospital bed would help meet the Iranians' demand the monarch be sent out of the United States.

"Quote me: my airplane is ready to bring him here any moment," Sadat said. He said he had talked to Carter about the idea by telephone Thursday night.

A State Department spokesman said such a decision would have to be made by the shah. Earlier this week, the deposed monarch offered to leave the United States but his doctors said it was medically inadvisable.

Pope John Paul dispatched Archbishop Annibale Bugnini to Iran "for humanitarian reasons ... to secure the safety" of the hostages, the Vatican said. Bugnini, papal ambassador to Iran, will seek a meeting with Khomeini, who sources said has "high respect" for the Roman Catholic Church and the pope.

Approve 9-6 On SALT-2

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 9 to 6 today to recommend that the Senate ratify the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty with the Soviet Union.

The vote ended the committee's four months of intense examination of the SALT II agreement and set the stage for a Senate debate that is certain to be long and divisive.

Two Democrats joined four Republicans on the committee in voting against the treaty. They were Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio; Richard Stone, D-Fla.; Howard Baker, R-Tenn.; Jesse Helms, R-N.C.; S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., and Richard Lugar, R-Ind.

Senators, voting for the treaty were Frank Church, D-Idaho; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; George McGovern, D-S.D.; Joseph R. Biden, D-Del.; Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.; Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine; Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb.; Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia hopes to bring the treaty to a vote this year, but treaty opponents hope to prolong the debate into the 1980 election year. A two-thirds majority of the Senate is required for ratification, or 67 votes if all 100 senators are present.

Before the vote, senators on both sides of the issue restated why they believed SALT II should be either ratified as it stands or defeated unless sweeping changes are made.

Church, the committee chairman, called the treaty one of the nation's most important foreign policy commitments since the NATO treaty in 1949, and said it should be ratified because it keeps the arms control process alive.

Church said he had concluded that neither President Carter nor Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev are the most powerful men in the world because "they only possess a button neither dares push except in the act of committing national suicide."

He added: "We are like two gladiators locked in some sort of death dance. Finding a way to separate them is going to be difficult and will take time. This treaty gives us more time."

But Senate Republican Leader Baker, a candidate for the 1980 GOP presidential nomination, said he cannot support the treaty because he believed it is "unequal and unfair."

"I think we got out-traded," Baker said.

Helms, a leading opponent of the treaty, said the terms of SALT II would permit the Soviets to increase their strategic weapons by 42 percent and their megatonage by 39 percent.

"This increase in explosive power will equal 242,700 Hiroshima bombs," Helms said.

McGovern, who has expressed great disappointment that the SALT negotiations did not result in far deeper arms cuts, said he will vote for it on the Senate floor because he believes the process "holds out the hope of genuine arms reduction in the years immediately ahead."

Glenn, the Senate's leading expert in the complex craft of monitoring Soviet strategic weapons development, said he remains convinced Soviet compliance with SALT II cannot now be adequately verified.

IN HER ARMS — First Lady Rosalynn Carter holds a Cambodian refugee child at a refugee camp in the border district of Sa Kaew, about 75 kilometers from the Thai-Cambodian border. (AP Laserphoto)

First Lady Is Appalled

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer

SA KAEW, Thailand (AP) — Rosalynn Carter visited this Cambodian refugee camp today, said the sight of the sick and dying was "emotionally overwhelming" and she would "go home and tell my husband" about it.

Afterward she flew to another refugee camp in Thailand where she received a rousing welcome from 36,000 Laotian refugees.

"It's been very difficult for me as a wife and a mother and a human being...I can only say I want to go home as fast as I can and mobilize people and do all we can to help the people here," she said.

Trailed by about 300 reporters and a contingent of Thai and U.S. security men, Mrs. Carter toured the 18-day-old camp facilities and took a walk through the sea of bright blue tents that house some 31,000 refugees, 100 miles east of Bangkok, and 30 miles from the Cambodian border.

In the hospital, she went from bed to bed stroking people's foreheads, holding their hands and asking the doctors to explain the diseases.

"Does it hurt?" She asked one old woman. "Give me a smile," she said and kissed the woman on the forehead.

Mrs. Carter and her entourage flew to Bangkok on Thursday on what the White House said was an official fact-finding mission for President Carter.

Speaking to reporters at the end of her 90-minute visit, Mrs. Carter said, "it's like nothing I've ever seen — it's emotionally overwhelming."

Sa Kaew's aid coordinator, Mark Brown of the United Nations, told her the camp is overflowing and new areas must be found to house at least 200,000 more refugees who are expected to enter Thailand from Cambodia by Christmas.

Red Cross medical coordinator Dr. Hans Nothdurft said 75 percent of Sa Kaew's population is malnourished and 20 percent need special nutritional care.

Mrs. Carter was scheduled to fly to a Laotian refugee camp at Ubon, 300 miles northeast of Bangkok, and then proceed to Sakon Nakhon province for a meeting with King Bhumipol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit. She planned to return to Bangkok this evening to attend a U.S. Embassy reception. She departs Saturday.

Her party includes Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke, Surgeon-General Julius B. Richmond, former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's wife, Jean, and former Senator Harold Hughes of Iowa.

The aid situation already has been studied by Holbrooke, three U.S. senators, six governors and U.S. experts stationed in Thailand, and some Thai officials suggested Carter might be hoping his wife's visit would boost his re-election campaign.

But Holbrooke told newsmen, "I believe everybody is united in the feeling that we must help these people (Cambodians). I can't see that it is political. It just doesn't work that way."

UTILITIES MEETING

The Greenville Utilities Commission will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Utilities Building at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets.

No Cease-Fire

COMRADE MURAD CAMP, Lebanon (AP) — While Yasser Arafat builds diplomatic bridges to the West, his Palestine Liberation Organization is relying on Soviet arms and know-how to train young men to wage guerrilla war against Israel and defend southern Lebanon against Israeli air raids.

"There is no cease-fire whatsoever with the Israeli enemy," said Abu Majdi, the commander of southern forces for the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, during a break in training at this secret base in the south.

The pro-Soviet Front is one of eight guerrilla armies that make up the PLO. It has claimed responsibility for many recent bombings inside Israel, and Majdi said he believes it would be a mistake to give up the military strikes before an independent Palestinian state is established.

"We should continue to fight and negotiate until we achieve our right to self-determination and statehood," he said. "We shall continue to step up our struggle against the Israeli enemy in the occupied homeland and we are always ready to confront and repulse reprisal attacks in southern Lebanon."

SELF-SERVICE ABC STORES?

Why doesn't Greenville have self-service ABC stores? Such stores are common in North Carolina's major cities. M. Y.

The ABC Board of Pitt County had some self-service stores for three years — from May, 1967 through spring, 1970. According to John Harris, supervisor, the program proved to be unsatisfactory, largely because of shoplifting. He said that personnel were highly dissatisfied.

He said the ABC Board is open to suggestions from the public. Petitions and ideas may be brought before the Board concerning the self-service issue or any other.

Carter in Canada

President Carter is scheduled to travel north today, on his first official visit to Canada since taking office almost three years ago. Canada and the United States share a 4,000 mile-long boundary, and have been at peace with each other since the War of 1812. The two countries share many common interests and problems. Among them are issues involving energy, trade, air and water pollution, and fishing rights on both the east and west coasts. Carter is expected to discuss these matters with Canadian leaders during his two-day stay in Ottawa, Canada's capital. He will also speak before a joint session of the Canadian Parliament.

Big Oil Silent On White House Pleas

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

We hear a lot of talk these days about Teacher Burnout.

In layman's terms, it's stress brought about by hassles with kids, abusive language, physical assault, pure exhaustion and lack of appreciation for what you're trying to do.

What a coincidence! In 1959, every mother in our suburb suffered from Teacher Burnout. Only we didn't know it was a national social problem with a scientific name. We simply called it a nervous breakdown.

The symptoms were the same: difficulty in sleeping, irritability, upset stomach, headaches, and an unnatural craving for weekends.

I was telling this to Sylvia Safron, who teaches third grade and lives down the street from me.

"I know just what you're going through, Sylvia," I said. "I used to get tired I'd fall asleep having my teeth cleaned."

"What did you do about it?"

"Some women took shots for it. Others didn't even bother putting it in a glass after awhile, but I knew if I just toughed it out, it would all work out somehow."

"What happened?" asked Sylvia.

"Well, I used to go crazy every morning telling the kids what to wear. By the time they got out of the house, I was a nervous wreck. Then we got the school to set up a dress code and THEY had the hassle."

"I used to get exhausted keeping up with nutrition to make sure my children got a well-balanced diet, but then we got the schools to do this for us."

"Sex education was tough for parents to handle, but then we got the school involved and now they have the responsibility."

"Same thing for physical fitness. I used to nag my kids to exercise and get involved in sports, but now it's the school's problem. And I can't tell you what a relief it was when we dumped driver's education on the school. That can throw you into early menopause."

"But the biggest factor in getting us well was when the school had to take the responsibility for the values and morals of our children . . . not to mention discipline and how they are going to fit into society."

"That's fine for you," said Sylvia, "but how do I get relief?"

"You spell it, P-A-R-E-N-T-S."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials aren't saying whether major oil companies agreed to cut the prices of their petroleum products during a "jawboning" session.

President Carter's key energy and economic advisers met Thursday with oil company executives to discuss petroleum prices.

"We have asked them to be moderate," said Energy Secretary Charles Duncan after the meeting. He did not answer when asked if the executives had promised to reduce their prices.

The oil company executives did not comment.

The administration officials and the oil executives also discussed foreign oil supplies and possible actions that might be taken if Iran shuts off oil shipments to the United States, said Duncan.

The executives were called to the meeting at the suggestion of two Carter advisers, who wrote in a White House memo that the president has suffered politically from his decision to raise crude oil prices in stages over the next two years.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic policy director, and Alfred E. Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, wrote the memo. White House spokesman Rex Granum said the memo never reached the president's desk. Instead, the "jawboning" session at the Energy Department was arranged.

Oil companies represented at the meeting were: Texaco, Amoco, Mobil, Gulf, Amerada-Hess, Union Oil, Conoco, Ashland Oil, Exxon and Atlantic Richfield.

Meanwhile, the Energy Department said five oil companies may have violated crude oil pricing regulations to the sum of $365 million.

The department issued "notices of probable violations" against Shell, Sun Oil, Conoco, Exxon and Amerada-Hess. The companies have 30 days in which to reply to the notices.

The citations stemmed from department audits of oil company compliance with the government's complex price control rules. They were the second notices issued this week.

Companies accused have argued in the past that the department misinterprets its own rules.

Agenda Set For Pitt Planners

The Pitt County Planning Board will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Law Library at the Pitt County Court House.

The agenda includes the consideration of the preliminary plat for Burnette Acres in Chicod Township, preliminary and final plats for Stantonsburg Estates (formerly Stantonsburg Heights) on secondary road 1200 in Arthur Township, preliminary and final plats for Foxboro Subdivision near North Pitt High School in Bethel Township, and the final plat for Edwards Acres, near Simpson in Grimesland Township.

Other business will include the establishment of priorities for revising subdivision regulations and consideration of a multi-family dwelling ordinance.

PCB Disposal Solution Seen

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Canadian chemist believes he's found a process that may solve North Carolina's problem of disposing of toxic PCBs.

C.L. Bubbar of the University of Waterloo in Ontario said his process uses the solvent tetrahydrofuran and a cyclic converter, a chemical reaction chamber.

In the converter, the solvent and contaminated soil are combined and in 15 to 30 minutes the PCBs are reduced to table salt. He said the organic material becomes inert and can be burned.

The state is trying to find a way to dispose of contaminated dirt along 210 miles of state roadsides where PCB-laced oil was dumped in 1978.

Cannon Cup Is Awarded Mrs. Sarah Williamson

RALEIGH — The award of the Cannon Cup, an incentive grant of $1,000 and 12 merit awards for outstanding efforts in the field of preservation highlighted the day-long 39th annual meeting of the Historic Preservation Society of North Carolina on Thursday. The meeting is one of several events which is part of the week long North Carolina Culture Week taking place in Raleigh this week.

The Cannon Cup, North Carolina's most prestigious preservation award, this year went to Mrs. Sarah Denny Williamson of Raleigh for her individual leadership in the preservation movement in the city of Raleigh. Among efforts for which she was cited are leadership for the rescue of Mordecai Square and its conversion to a city park; her effort to save the Seaboard Building; the establishment of the Oakwood, Blount Street and State Capitol Historic Districts; and other activities.

The $1,000 Stedman Incentive Grant was to the Preservation Society of Asheville and Buncombe County for rehabilitation and preservation of the Gudgey House.

The 12 awards of merit were presented to: Dr. Aaron Hyatt of Cullowhee; John Lantzus and John Reid of Asheville; the Junior League of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Love Jr. of Iron Station; Friends of Weymouth, Southern Pines; Malcolm Blue Historical Society, Aberdeen.

Also, the Chapel Hill Preservation Society; the Smithfield Community Appearance Commission; the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of North Carolina, the Wilmington chapter; the Downtown Area Revitalization Effort, Inc. of Wilmington; Robert L. Stallings Jr. of New Bern; and Martha Rebecca Swindell of Fairfield.

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently had a birthday. His ex-wife and children invited him over for dinner and a birthday celebration. I was excluded. He accepted and I was left alone for the evening.

I believe that what he did was inconsiderate and unfair to me. He could have invited his children over to celebrate his birthday with us, or arranged to do something with them at another time.

What do you think?

HURT

DEAR HURT: I don't blame you for feeling hurt. Next year start early to plan a special birthday celebration for your husband. Awkward situations such as this almost always arise when a woman marries a divorced man with a "first family." It's unfair to "No. 2," but it usually comes with the territory.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago I married a fine man. (Second marriage for both of us.) I moved to my husband's town and met his friends. His best friend is a mortician (married) who keeps making passes at me. Whenever we are together in a group, he manages to ask me quietly if I will meet him somewhere. I have told him repeatedly I'm not interested in anything like that, but he persists. He and his wife and my husband and I are a frequent foursome, and we enjoy each other's company.

I have never mentioned this to my husband because so far it's harmless, and besides it's not worth jeopardizing the present good relations we two couples enjoy.

Abby, the thought that drives me up the wall is this: when I die, I know my husband will call on this mortician to do the "honors" (as he did with his first wife), and I cannot bear the thought of it!

This situation does have its humorous aspects, but nevertheless it is disturbing to me. If I were 22 and in perfect health maybe I wouldn't feel so panicky, but I'm not.

I am going to arrange my funeral with another undertaker, but what do I tell my husband? He'll be astonished that I didn't take my business to his friend.

SERIOUS IN CONN.

DEAR SERIOUS: Don't tell your husband anything. Simply leave instructions with your lawyer, physician, clergyman and a few close relatives. You may outlive your husband AND the mortician. Or decide on immediate cremation. That way the mortician wouldn't get to lay a hand on you, dead or alive.

DEAR ABBY: SOFT TOUCH, the mother who couldn't get her grown children to repay the money they borrowed from her, should have given them "soft terms." That's what we did.

When our two married sons needed grubstakes to buy homes, Dad and I gave them longer terms at lower interest than any professional lender would have given a couple of penniless kids.

We made them sign IOU notes, telling them that their notes were part of our estate, so that other heirs would not be cheated in case of our unexpected deaths.

Their payments to us are small-but regular. We feel that this is as important a part of their character training as their Boy Scout days were.

Engagement Announced

MS. BARBARA SPEIGHT THOMAS, . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Speight of Rt. 1, Snow Hill, who announce her engagement to Charles M. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Rt. 1, Hookerton. The wedding will take place Dec. 1.

Equipment Need Stressed At Meet

The need of additional convalescent equipment in the Greenville Service League Lending Chest was discussed at the group's meeting Monday.

Mrs. James Graham, lending chest chairman, told of the expanding role of the committee in the community and called upon members to seek donations of home care equipment to the Lending Chest.

Wheel chairs and hospital beds are needed. The donated equipment is stored with the Salvation Army and is loaned upon the recommendation of the Social Services Department and the Pitt County Community Health Department. Donations may be made directly to the Salvation Army.

President Mrs. Jack Whichard conducted the meeting and other committee reports were given.

Bloodmobile Chairman Mrs. Raymond MacKenzie reported on a recent two-day visit to ECU where there were collections of 770 units with 65 workers giving 217 volunteer hours. A mini visit will be made Nov. 14 to Procter and Gamble.

Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. R. K. Barnhill reported excess Halloween favors were placed on residents' trays at Greenville Villa. The Laughinghouse Fund received two memorials and had a disbursement. A layette was furnished at the hospital.

Mental Health Chairman Mrs. John Guy requested members to bring an unwrapped gift to the December meeting for patients at Cherry Hospital. Chairman of the Emergency Charity Fund Mrs. Herbert Carter asked members to bring donations for Christmas baskets, which is an annual project of the group.

Mistletoe

Show Planned

ELIZABETH CITY — The second annual Mistletoe Show, sponsored by the Elizabeth City Junior Woman's Club, will be held Thursday, Nov. 15, through Saturday, Nov. 17.

The hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. The show will be held at the Knobbs Creek Recreation Center. Proceeds will be used for community improvement projects.

The show will feature 70 exhibits of crafts and merchandise including silversmith-jewelry makers, doll makers, artists, weavers and potters.

For further information contact Mrs. Clark C. Watkins or Mrs. Sam Davis III, both of Elizabeth City.

Rome Beauty apples are a good choice for baked apples because they retain their shape when cooked. For eating out of hand, Red Delicious are good.

Mrs. Nason Gives Program

Mary Jo Nason gave the program at the meeting of the Cherry Oaks Garden Club. She explained how to properly select lamps, shades and how to recover and design personal lamp shades from paper or fabric.

She further demonstrated fabric, paper and cut-out design techniques. She was given a water color painting by the club.

Gail Jennings, tasting tea chairman, reported on the progress and date of the tea. Members were reminded to submit recipes since the preliminary organization of the cookbook would be held in December. Janis Holland asked members to begin root cuttings for the plant bazaar portion of the tea.

Faye Baker will head the Christmas charity project committee.

The Friday night benefit for mentally retarded and crippled children was announced. Otto Dykstra will be performing.

International Dinner Held

The Woman's Club of Greenville held its annual International dinner honoring foreign students and faculty at ECU.

The dinner was sponsored by the club's Department of International Affairs.

The club building was decorated with fall flowers and a pumpkin.

Special guests included Vice Chancellor and Mrs. Elmer Meyer Jr., Carolyn Fulghum, Luis Acevez, who provided background music, Dr. and Mrs. Wanderman, Mrs. Ernest Holt, state chairman for International Affairs for the N. C. Federation of Woman's Clubs. Approximately 10 countries were represented.

After dinner, Nicky Nichols, an ECU junior, spoke and showed slides on a trip to Taiwan. Students from Costa Rica sang several selections, accompanied by Acevez.

Official Visits Made By Grand Officers

Co-hosting chapters for the official visit of the Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron in Greenville at the Masonic Temple for the meeting Thursday were Farmville No. 146, Ayden No. 52 and Grimesland No. 350.

The guests were greeted by Lenoir Munford, Worthy Matron, Ayden; Deloris Bell, Worthy Matron, Grimesland; Joyce and Robert Wheelless, Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, Farmville; and Irene and Charles Ledbetter, Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, Greenville.

Estelle Tucker and Sadie Wrae Carrington presided at the guest register. A corsage of yellow silk roses was pinned on the Worthy Grand Matron.

A barbecue dinner was served the about 60 persons present. Master of ceremonies was Bryant McLawhorn, Past Patron, from the Ayden Chapter. The invocation was given by Robert Wheelless. Irene Ledbetter gave the welcome and Glenn Garner, Past Grand Matron, responded. The introduction of guests was given by Mary Freeland, Past Matron. Delores Bell and Fred Chappelle, Past Patron and District Seven Project Chairman, Farmville, presented gifts to the Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron from the chapters. The benediction was given by Roland Stocks, Past Patron, Grimesland. A program of special music was presented by Robby Harper, soloist, and Lynn Chappelle, accompanist.

After the dinner, members assembled in the chapter room, which was decorated in the Worthy Grand Matron's theme and colors. Irene Ledbetter and Charles Ledbetter conducted the meeting. Introduced were Dorothy Rich Miller, Worthy Grand Matron; Floyd Britt Mulholland, Worthy Grand Patron; Glenn W. Garner, Past Grand Matron; Rachel S. Deaton, Grand Marshal; Amy Elizabeth Huggins, Grand Electa; and Grand Representatives Polly Mulholland of California, Jean Creech of Oklahoma, Ann Rouse of Virginia and Vivian Anderson.

The Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron thanked the chapters and spoke on their projects. Honorary memberships from each chapter were presented to them and by Joyce and Robert Wheelless. Nancy McLawhorn, soloist, accompanied by Marguerite Cook, pianist, sang, "It Took A Miracle."

A reception was held after the meeting. Lucille Carawan, chairman, assisted by members of the co-hosting chapters, served refreshments.

Polls Have Way Of Changing

In North Carolina a poll authorized by the N.C. television network shows President Carter ahead of Sen. Kennedy. Neither however, has a clear majority with the Democratic voters.

The poll has Carter with 30.7 percent and Kennedy with 28.5 percent. Some 26.8 percent went to other candidates and 14 percent were not sure.

On the Republican side Gerald Ford got 22.7 percent, Ronald Reagan received 19.6 percent; John Connally, 10.3 percent; Sen. Howard Baker, 8.2 percent; others, 19.6 percent and 19.6 percent undecided.

Talk Of Force Would Be Dangerous

At this writing nothing has been resolved concerning the Americans held hostage in the embassy and consulates of Iran.

Former Attorney Gen. Ramsey Clark was sent to talk with an unreceptive Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Understandably there are no public comments about use of military force from Washington. That would virtually sign the death warrant of the cap-

Poll results have a way of changing many times before elections are held. If this one indicates anything at this point, it is that North Carolinians hold widely divergent views on who they want to represent the two parties in the presidential election.

We suspect that North Carolina will be an important state to those who are serious contenders for the Democratic and Republican nominations. We would expect a number of visits from the presidential candidates.

Speaking softly is the only way to proceed at this stage.

The administration, however, has to be considering its reactions if harm should come to the Americans who have been so cruelly detained.

If we are to maintain credibility strong action will have to be taken.

THIS AFTERNOON

Hope In School Dilemma

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There's a glimmer of hope shining for many people close to the trials and tribulations of education in North Carolina in recent years.

The hopeful, if not downright good, news is that students, parents and educators alike have at last begun to put some things together which are working.

The ripping of social fabrics which brought about the well-known troubles are many: racial integration and subsequent clashes, exploding enlargement of knowledge and technologies, social experimentation in the name of education, mergers and consolidations of school units and schools — and busing to achieve racial balance — which devastated community and school ties, and widespread declines in individual commitments to moral and social responsibilities among them.

The impetus for what some optimists now perceive as a mending of the torn system differs from one analyst to another:

Swinging

Some see it as simply the pendulum swinging to a more conservative, responsible point.

Some see it as an adjustment by students and educators to the racial facts of life. Almost gone are the abrasive, sneering, comments, and physical abuses which accompanied early massive mixing of the races in the schools. Over-aggressive turf protection and claim-staking have yielded to at least grudging acceptance if not outright friendship, some sources say.

Still other observers — a majority — see the changing mood in education as a happy result of several significant changes in the system in North Carolina.

When Gov. Jim Hunt first started talking about student testing to measure the output, reading programs and classroom aides, improved teacher training and certification methods, and a way to bring parents and educators together on the school grounds, he commented that it was a hope that, combined, the steps would bring about a quiet revolution in the schools.

Early testing would spot troubles to be fixed by intensive remediation; reading as the key to learning would take center stage; a test as a requirement for a diploma would foster a more serious attitude, even if that test were at a minimum competency level; spotting student weaknesses and problems would push educators to respond positively, and would focus on those educators who were not performing, Gov. Hunt hopes.

The Community School Act was the catalyst which would bring all that together; bringing parents back in touch with the schools, and reminding educators that the community is, after all, the master whom they serve.

BILL NOBLITT

Visiting Teachers, no longer able because of geographic distribution of students and increasing demands on time and energy to visit homes and chat with parents at the grocery store or at church, would find the parents coming to them. The result would be the same; closer relationships, better discipline, quicker attention to problems. Community groups would begin to center around the schools for recreation, club meetings, dinners, and in return come to care about the people, equipment and facilities.

Is all of this beginning to come together? The answer seems to be an encouraging Yes in many school districts, especially those in rural and small town areas where neighborhood stability and civic participation — teamed with a positive attitude on the part of county commissioners, school board members, and school administrators — are at work.

On the other hand, where one or more of the successful ingredients is missing, additional study and reform will be required.

IT WOULD BE TWO BIRDS WITH ONE STONE!

The Panhandler's Spiel

WASHINGTON — "Hey, mister, could you spare a billion and a half dollars to get me through 1980?"

"Out of my way, you bum. Why don't you get a job like everyone else?"

"I have a job making Chrysler cars."

"Then why are you standing here with a tin cup asking decent folks for money?"

"Nobody seems to want to buy my cars."

"In the capitalist system, my good man, it is the survival of the fittest. If you can't sell a product, then you don't deserve to be in business. Suppose I do give you a billion and a half dollars. How do I know you won't use it for drink instead of building better cars?"

"Don't worry about that, mister. You give me the money and I'll go right to the plant and produce one of the most beautiful automobiles you've ever seen."

"Why didn't you produce one before if you know how to do so?"

"That's a long story. I'll tell it to you if you put a billion and a half dollars into my tin cup."

"It seems to me that is a lot of money to pay for a hard luck story."

"I'll also give you a new pencil if you give me the money."

"This is ridiculous. I don't approve of panhandlers, even if they make automobiles."

"Don't think it's much fun being out here on the street, mister. But panhandling for car money is all I can do. The banks won't give me none, and a lot of people think I'm a loser. But if I can just get a little nest egg, you won't see me on this corner again."

"You were going to tell me your story."

"Only if you gave me a hand-out."

"I want to hear your story first."

"Okay. What happened was that once upon a time, I was a happy, prosperous auto maker. I made some of the best cars on the road. The kids used to whistle when I went by."

"Get on with it. I'm late for dinner."

Debate Series Coming

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — By the time the presidential campaign of 1980 is over, the candidates may be qualified to form a debating society.

President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy have agreed to open the debate season in Des Moines, Iowa, next Jan. 7. It is likely to be a long season, although the roster of debaters may change as the campaign progresses.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has challenged Carter and Kennedy to a three-way debate in the campaign for the Feb. 26 New Hampshire presidential primary. That has not been arranged yet, but if the Democrats start debating in Iowa, it is going to be hard to stop.

The Des Moines Register and Tribune, which is sponsoring the Carter-Kennedy debate in advance of Iowa's Jan. 21 party caucuses, also has invited Republican candidates to appear and be questioned jointly on Jan. 5.

The League of Women Voters, which sponsored the last round of presidential campaign debates, wants to stage joint appearances by the Democrats in New Hampshire on Feb. 19, and by the Republican candidates the following night.

There's nothing new about debate challenges. What is new this time is the fact that the incumbent, President Carter, is willing to square off with his challenger during the campaign for the Democratic nomination.

Before Carter and then-President Gerald R. Ford debated in 1976, incumbents always had found a way to avoid such confrontations with their challengers.

To debate, or not, always has been a matter of political strategy, even though the candidates explain their decisions on grounds that sound nobler. They say they want to explore the real issues, or do their duty by the voters.

In fact, they want to win and they debate if a face-to-face meeting with a rival seems to serve their ends.

That's why Ford decided to challenge Carter in 1976 — the night before Carter was going to challenge him. Ford was the incumbent, but the polls showed him far behind Carter. Carter led the polls, but he was still the lesser known candidate. After the election, Carter said that without the debates, he would have lost.

Again this time, circumstances dictate strategy. If Carter held command in the public opinion polls, it's unlikely he'd be willing to debate Kennedy this winter. But his strategists see the confrontation as a chance to whittle Kennedy down by forcing a discussion of specific issues and alternatives.

So far, Kennedy has talked a lot about leadership, and very little about specific proposals and programs.

Presidential candidates, particularly those trying to come from behind, have been challenging one another to debate for decades. Wendell Wilkie wanted to confront President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940. Roosevelt said he was too busy being president.

THE GALLUP POLL

KKK Held In Low Regard

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — With the Ku Klux Klan again in the news, the question arises as to the attitudes toward this organization of the Americans in the South and the nation as a whole.

Gallup surveys over the last decade and a half trace the changing attitudes toward this organization, and the current survey shows only one person in 10 giving the Ku Klux Klan a favorable rating and only 3 percent a "highly favorable" rating, representing little statistical change from earlier surveys.

The survey findings show 83 percent giving this organization an unfavorable rating. The accompanying table, however, shows that "highly unfavorable" attitudes have softened since the first survey, in 1965. That year, 76 percent of Americans surveyed held "highly unfavorable" views toward the Klan; today 66 percent do so.

The softening of highly unfavorable views toward the KKK since 1965 and 1970 has come about entirely outside the South. Since 1970, highly unfavorable opinion in the West has declined 14 percentage points; in the Midwest, 19 points; in the East, six points. In the South, however, the proportion has remained at 59 percent.

Among those most inclined to take a negative view of the Klan are younger adults and persons living outside the South. Although southern whites are slightly more favorably inclined toward the KKK than non-southern whites, the differences in views are not great.

Stapel Scalometer Used To Measure Views

The ratings in this report were obtained by a sensitive attitude scale called the Stapel Scalometer, which consists of 10 squares or boxes. The person being tested is given a card showing the squares and told the top square represents the highest degree of liking, the lowest square, the lowest degree. He or she is then asked to indicate how far up or down the scale he would place the organization he is asked to rate.

Highly favorable attitudes are the responses in the TOP two positions; highly unfavorable attitudes are the responses in the BOTTOM two scale positions.

Survey respondents were handed the scalometer card and asked this question:

"You will notice that the boxes on this card go from the HIGHEST POSITION OF PLUS 5 — for something you like very much — all the way down to the LOWEST POSITION OF MINUS 5 — for something you dislike very much. How far up the scale or how far down the scale would you rate the Ku Klux Klan?"

Following are the national results on the KKK and the trend back to 1965:

	Trend In Attitudes Toward The KKK
	Highly Favorable	Total Favorable	Highly Unfavorable	Total Unfavorable	Don't Know
1979	3%	10%	66%	83%	7%
1973	4	9	68	82	9
1970	3	8	75	86	6
1965	1	6	76	84	10

Strength For Today

A SERVANT OF GOD

Someone once asked George Washington Carver, the famous scientist, how he had succeeded in finding so many commercial uses for the peanut. Carver, who was a deeply religious man, replied: "I put a peanut in the palm of my hand and said, 'Mr. Crater, show me what's in this peanut.'" The result was that he discovered several hundred interesting things about the peanut, many of which have had a great industrial significance. Dr. Carver kept a copy of the Bible on his desk, and continually referred to it, believing it to be the divinely inspired word of God. For him God worked through natural law. He was sure that these natural laws constituted God's policy of dealing with the material world.

Humanity today needs the faith of this venerable, learned man. The lure of great salaries never affected him. He counted it sufficient reward to serve humanity in humility of spirit and by so doing serve his God.

Elisha Douglass

Curse Of The Non-Sleepers

By GAIL MICHAELS

Everyone of us has at least one wonder woman in our neighborhood. She works full or part-time, keeps a spotless house, loves to cook, spends creative time with her children, reads an historical novel every week, entertains bridge club, adorns her door with seasonal decorations, attends covered dish suppers, takes yoga classes, contributes stuffed wreaths and decoupage coffee cans to the church bazaar, and belongs to the volunteer fire department.

My only reaction is, "So what?" If I got eight hours of uninterrupted sleep each night, I could do one or two of those things, too. As it is, my biorhythm peaks at zero shortly after my morning shower and plunges precipitously for the rest of the day.

I do not know why Meg regards sleep as an unforgivable cessation of her play time. But if the women whose kids attend Meg's nursery school are any indication, Meg's attitude is far from unusual.

The mothers of non-sleepers are easy to spot. They are the women who trip over the floor mats when they get out of their cars. They often suffer from slurred speech and thick film over their eyes. With these symptoms, they are easy to mistake for winos, and the wonder women usually do.

The variety of ploys that non-sleepers use to keep their mothers in this semicatatonic state is amazing. One ploy is the intermittent cough. This cough begins like croup and sounds increasingly tubercular until the mother finally stumbles to the child's door. Then it stops. The mother waits five minutes in silence before she goes back to bed. The cough begins again.

The nightmare is another popular ploy. Granted, a nightmare is often a genuinely terrifying experience, but I begin to get suspicious when the third time I try to tiptoe from the room after Meg starts snoring, she sits straight up in bed and moans, "The monsters are still in my eyes."

There are children who start to cry inconsolably at 2 a.m. because a parent forgot a goodnight kiss.

And there are children who can squirm through an entire day without going near a toilet but who make a trip to the bathroom every hour on the hour after 8 p.m.

Then there are the kids who share a room. Thank goodness I don't have to contend with this, but mothers who tell me that no child is ever content to sleep in a shared room until one has started something and the other has tried to finish it. Giggling, scratching, biting, kicking, and screaming is the usual sequence.

But the children who won't sleep through the night when their bedtime routine is upset are among the hardest to deal with. One little girl I know has a special place on the bed for each of 17 stuffed animals, and she herself sleeps in a sailor hat with a pocketbook over one arm and a blanket under the other. If anything is missing or out of place, she throws a tantrum.

Unfortunately, no cure other than drug addiction is available for non-sleepers or their mothers. The only recourse I've found is the curse my mother used to utter each night as she slumped against my door.

"Gail," she'd say, "I hope you get one just like you."

"BUILDING LIVES WITH CHRIST AS THE CENTER"

What does the Bible really mean to you? Is it an old leather volume gathering dust on the shelf, or a beloved, faithful companion?

The answer depends partly on your childhood. If your family read the Bible daily, then its Books have long since become part of your way of life.

But to many of us, the Bible remains a mystery and even the "modern" versions seem complicated. We may want, almost desperately, to understand, but it isn't that easy.

Help is as near as your closest church. For centuries the Church has made a business of studying and interpreting the Bible. Despite the passing of time, they proclaim its message with remarkable clarity. Try it and see.

Bars U.S. Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is ordering a halt to shipments of military equipment spare parts to Iran while 60 Americans are held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, U.S. officials say.

Carter, who said the last two days of the Iranian crisis "have been the worst ever," refused any comment on the action Thursday night, but a White House official said the move was the obvious one to take.

"Something you would certainly do in a situation like this is not continue to send military supplies to a country that's holding your people. Clearly, no country can do otherwise," said the official, who asked not to be named.

Carter, saying his responsibility is to protect the lives of the hostages, took these other actions Thursday:

—Called off a 26-hour state visit to Canada that was to have begun today.

—Cleared his schedule for the remainder of the next five days to monitor the crisis from the White House.

—Ordered police to revoke a permit for Iranian students to demonstrate outside the White House. The action was unprecedented.

Since Iranian students took over the embassy Sunday, the Carter administration has displayed caution in its public statements for fear of endangering the hostages.

permit were satisfied and approval was given to the request.

A request by P.E.I. Foods Inc. of North Carolina, doing business as Clyde's, for a special use permit to operate a beer hall and entertainment center at 300 E. Tenth Street was tabled until the Nov. 20 special meeting, at the suggestion of the petitioners.

Ed Issacs of P.E.I. Foods said that the owners would like to reopen the facility that formerly housed the Roy Rogers Restaurant and operate a business offering game or pinball machines entertainment and the serving of beer. He said that fast food items would be sold.

Council members gave their approval to an increase in city bus fares as recommended by the Public Transportation Commission. Cox said that the commission felt that the rates should be raised and the Council decided the increase should be on a phased format. The mayor added that rather than establishing one-half fares for the elderly and handicapped citizens, the Council felt that a flat 15 cents fee should be implemented for those citizens since it is difficult to charge one-half of 35 cents.

Approved was an increase from the present 25 cents per passenger to 30 cents on Jan. 1 and to 35 cents on July 1. Increases will also be effective for 40-ticket rider cards from the present $8 for adults and $8 for elderly and handicapped citizens to $10 and $5 on Jan. 1 and $12 and $5 on July 1.

The Council conducted a public hearing on the Small Cities Community Development program. It was explained that the city now submits an application for federal discretionary funding. City Manager Ed Wyatt said that the application this year would be for a revitalization project in the South Evans area.

The city has been unsuccessful in two previous years in its application for discretionary funding. Previously, funding under the "hold harmless" or entitlement format had been received by the city but that program is no longer available.

Community Development coordinator Ben Shivar said that the city is submitting an application for $3 million under the small cities CD program. Shivar said that the city is less than optimistic about the prospects for funding approval.

A request by J. T. Williams for rezoning, from Highway Commercial to Shopping Center, some 24,500 square feet on the south side of Tenth Street between Cedar Lane and Greenville Boulevard, was approved. No opposition to the request was expressed during a public hearing.

Other action taken by the Council included:

— Appointment of Sidney Warner to the Land Development Ad Hoc Committee, replacing Melvin W. Rountree, who has resigned;

— Appointment of Gene Taylor to the Redevelopment Commission, succeeding Billy Laughinghouse who completed 13 years on the board;

— Appointment of Rachael Croom to the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. John East, who has resigned (term expires June of 1981);

— Appointment of Mike Sizemore to the Greenville Citizens Bikeway Committee, replacing Bill Clark whose term expires in June of 1982;

— Adoption of a resolution adopting a bikeway plan map delineating a bicycle recreational loop, future commuter link, and a greenbelt-bikeway;

— Adoption of a resolution accepting and supporting the Young Adult Conservation Corps Program;

— Approval of a cost of living increase for city employees, effective with the Jan. 3 pay period, to conform with the president's wage guidelines;

— Approval, upon the recommendation of the Traffic Commission, of a request by Don Trippier, plant superintendent of Carolina Dairy Products Inc., to erect "no parking" signs on both sides of Millbrook Street from the firm's driveway gate westerly to Memorial Drive;

— Tabling until Dec. 11 of a recommendation that "no parking" signs stipulating no parking between the hours of 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. be erected on the south side of E. Eighth Street from Evans Street to Forbes Street;

— Acceptance for permanent maintenance of Laura Lane from 14th Street easterly 733.46 feet, Lisa Lane from Laura Lane northerly to Fletcher Place, and Fletcher Place from Laura Lane approximately 1,050 feet to the end of the cul-de-sac on Fletcher Place;

— Scheduling of a request by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Savage for rezoning 14.5 acres on the southeast side of US 264 Business across from Westwood Subdivision from RA-20 to R-6 for a Dec. 11 public hearing;

— Scheduling of a request by Jay M. and Cynthia S. Colie for rezoning from Medical Arts to Office and Institutional of 20,800 square feet at the southeast corner of NC 43 and Red Banks Road for a Dec. 11 public hearing;

— Scheduling of a request by Dan Powers Sr. for rezoning from RA-20 to R-6 of .988 acres on NC 33 across from Brook Valley;

— Scheduling of a public hearing for Nov. 20 on the annexation of the right-of-way of Mumford Road;

— Approval of the Greenville water service area as recommended by the Greenville Utilities Commission;

— Approval of an application by Swiss Colony of Greenville Inc., 155 Carolina East Mall, for an off-premise

Angrily React To Iran Actions

By CHARLOTTE PORTER
Associated Press Writer

While government officials past and present urged them to keep calm, Americans angered at the seizure of U.S. hostages in Tehran refused to load Iranian ships, burned that nation's flag and scuffled with Iranian students in protests across the nation.

"Send in the Marines," urged the placards carried by hundreds of protesters who marched through Houston on Thursday bearing American flags and posters of the late actor John Wayne, himself a symbol of two-listed nationalism.

Meanwhile, Iranians demonstrated in support of their countrymen in Cleveland, Los Angeles, Portland, Ore., and Reno, Nev., in new denunciations of the deposed shah that began on Monday when protesters chained themselves inside the Statue of Liberty.

Iranian students are holding about 60 hostages inside the U.S. embassy in Tehran, demanding the shah, now in New York for treatment of cancer, be returned to stand trial. He is under a death sentence in that nation.

While the United States has refused to grant him asylum, President Carter has refused to order him to leave. Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi has offered to leave the United States, according to adviser Robert Armao, but doctors said the move could kill him.

Meanwhile, the International Longshoremen's association announced it would stop loading cargo in ships headed for Iran.

Thomas W. Gleason, president of the 50,000-member AFL-CIO affiliate, said he would meet with leaders of other labor organizations about joint action to protest the holding of American hostages.

Officials of the AFL-CIO's Transport Workers Union and Air Transport Division announced they would not service Iranian aircraft until the hostages are freed. At least one jet was diverted to Canada when New York union members refused to maintain it.

John Crowley, a New York businessman aboard the diverted Iran Air flight, said the pilot of the jet announced he was heading to Montreal "for political reasons." Mused a British passenger, "I'm wondering if flying with Iran Air isn't supporting a questionable government."

The demonstration started when a group of about 10 people began chanting obscenities, singing "America the Beautiful" and yelling "Iranians go home" in front of Alexander Dormitory, where most of the schools foreign students stay.

The crowd swelled to about 100 students, but WRAL-TV film indicated the demonstration took on a party-like atmosphere.

Campus police closed off the dorm, and no demonstrators were reported inside the building.

School officials say about 100 Iranian students attend N.C. State. It wasn't known how many of them were in the dormitory at the time.

No arrests were reported. The demonstration started about 10:45 p.m. and ended a short time later.

A Cold Shoulder From American Counterparts

MURFREESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Iranian students attending Chowan College said Thursday that their American counterparts have turned the cold shoulder to them in the wake of unrest involving Americans in Iran.

And some said they have received threatening notes. The students said they don't feel Americans understand the situation in Tehran. Students there have seized the American Embassy and are holding Americans hostage to protest their deposed shah's stay in a New York hospital for cancer treatment.

"The hostages in the embassy will be healthy, my government will protect them," said

Abdolho Sain-Razi. "The students do not hurt them."

"We want to know why the Americans want to deport us," he said, referring to a call in Congress for deportation of Iranian students following demonstrations by Iranians in Houston, Texas.

"We want to know why they let the shah in the U.S. without a visa," he said.

Nader Nadiri and other students said their American friends don't understand the situation with the shah.

"They (the Iranian government) would not kill the shah very rapidly," he said. "They would take the shah to court to decide whether he's guilty or not."

The Iranian students said they disliked what they felt was American protection of the shah, and said they did not believe he was as ill as news accounts had said.

Thirty three Iranians are enrolled at Chowan College, which has a total student population of 1,100 and 80 foreign students.

Both Iranian and American students at Chowan admit there is some tension between the two groups on campus, but say there is not enough at this time to cause any violent incidents.

College officials said Thursday there had been no reports of violence there and that all students were attending class.

Researcher Urges N.C. To License The Moped

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) —

Since the cost of gasoline continues to climb and more people are turning to the use of motorized bicycles, North Carolina lawmakers should consider requiring a license to operate such vehicles, a highway safety researcher says.

William Hunt of the University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center said Thursday that licensing requirements would reduce the number of persons operating motorized bicycles, also known as mopeds, after losing their licenses to drive other motor vehicles.

North Carolina is one of only five states that does not require a license to operate a motorized bicycle.

Hunter suggested that licensing requirements might be met by any valid drivers license or a special permit for the vehicle.

Hunter and associate Jane Stutts found during a recent study of Moped accidents in North Carolina that 27 percent during a nine-month period last year involved operators with suspended or revoked drivers licenses.

"We also found that during a three-year period, operators impaired from drinking were involved in 16 percent of the Moped accidents as compared to 4 percent for motorcycles and 6 percent for passenger cars," he said. "An additional 12 percent of the Moped drivers had been drinking but with impairment unknown."

"Since most suspended or revoked licenses are due to drinking and driving violations, the carry-over is obvious. A licensing requirement could make a difference."

Hunter said one criticism of a licensing requirement for mopeds is that it would keep those with suspended license in the car.

He also said the thinks Moped operators should be required to be at least age 16.

"In North Carolina, the Moped operator should, by law, be 16 or older. In our study, we found that 10 percent of the operators were underage and that the inexperience of these young drivers was a particular safety problem."

Hunter said about 10,000 of the motorized bicycles are in use in North Carolina.

"With rising prices of petroleum products there is reason to think Moped sales will continue to rise," he said. "Now is an appropriate time to take a look at the statutes and get ready for the future."

Pled Guilty And Then Appeals

Marion "Bud" Hill of Route 1, Grifton, pled guilty to killing a doe deer in District Court in Greenville, Wednesday, but appealed the sentence to Superior Court after Judge Charles Whedbee fined him $100 and costs, ordered his rifle and telescopic sight confiscated, and suspended his hunting and trapping privilege for one year.

Wildlife Protector Kay Dunn said Hill was charged with shooting the doe on October 26 in the Gum Swamp area near Ayden.

N.C. Panel Seeks End Cheating In Medicaid

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State law enforcement officials, saying they are determined to stop cheating on Medicaid, set the new Medicaid Fraud Advisory Panel in action Thursday, after naming a Kinston dentist as its chairman.

Dr. James Hudock was elected to head the seven-member committee and Dr. G. Wesley Allen of Fayetteville was named vice chairman at the group's initial meeting at the Justice Department in Raleigh. The panel is composed of health-care providers who will attempt to help curb Medicaid fraud in North Carolina.

The problem here is not of epidemic proportions, according to Attorney General Rufus Edmisten.

"There is not wholesale cheating in North Carolina," he said. "I want you to know we are not on a witch hunt under any circumstances. We are not out to crucify anyone. But we are out to stop deliberate cheating on Medicaid."

The panel of medical doctors, dentists, nursing-home administrators and private citizens, will advise the attorney general and the Medicaid Fraud Unit, established last year to investigate cases of alleged Medicaid cheating.

The panel will be responsible for recommending improvements in the entire health-care delivery system and to work with other Medicaid providers in an effort to halt fraudulent use of the medical assistance program.

In addition to Hudock and Allen, panel members are Dr. John Dees of Burgaw, Dr. Wallace Evans of Cary, J. R. Garrett of Durham, Johnnie Setzer of Clairmont and Michael Lee of Greensboro.

Members of the Medicaid Fraud Unit, headed by assistant attorney general Donald W. Grimes, also will sit on the committee.

Investigations by the unit have resulted in indictments against two pharmacists, a dentist and two nursing-home administrators thus far. Grimes said about 10 cases were currently under investigation.

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — As many as 900 National Guardsmen and local officers will line the streets of Greensboro Sunday to ward off violence at a funeral procession for five leftist activists shot at an anti-Klan rally.

Members of the Communist Workers Party, which is organizing the funeral procession for five slain "comrades," vow they will be armed during the march.

But Greensboro Police Chief William E. Swing said Thursday that any civilian carrying a gun will be arrested.

Swing said 500 National Guardsmen and 250 state Highway Patrolmen will be in Greensboro Sunday to help 175 Greensboro policemen — about half the local department — patrol the 2.5-mile funeral-procession route.

"At this point in time, I don't think anyone would question why we requested a large number of people to be in the streets," Swing said at a news conference.

Greensboro has been quiet since Saturday, when gunmen blasted a crowd that had gathered for a leftist-organized "Death to the Klan" rally. Five persons died and 14 suspects, many claiming affiliation with either the Klan or a Nazi organization, have been arrested on murder charges and conspiracy charges.

The Communist Workers Party has issued a nationwide invitation to sympathizers to come to Greensboro for the funeral march Sunday.

Swing said, based on reports he has received from police departments in other cities, he expects at least 2,000 persons for the procession, which will include the coffins of the five victims.

Swing said he had received no reports of any right-wing groups planning counter-demonstrations on Sunday.

The police have been holding daily news conferences to talk about the case, and the communist group has been holding its own daily meetings with the media.

"We have reports of carloads and busloads of people coming in from other points," group spokesman Nelson Johnson said Thursday.

After Swing made his announcement that any civilian carrying a gun will be arrested, Johnson repeated his declaration that his people will be armed "in self-defense."

Swing said members of Johnson's group are refusing to cooperate with local police and FBI agents who are investigating the shooting.

Johnson, whose organization has accused the FBI of orchestrating the shootings, said that was true.

"We think it is ridiculous of us to ask our assassins to investigate their assassination of us," he said.

Stewart Will Be Speaker

CARL STEWART

The 24th Annual Fall Meeting of Area Five Soil and Water Conservation Districts will be held Tuesday, Nov. 13, in Chowan County. North Carolina Speaker of the House Carl Stewart will be the guest speaker for the program.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion Post No. 40, approximately two miles west of Edenton on Business U.S. 17.

District Supervisors and conservationists from 17 counties, including Pitt County, will attend the program. Furnie Laughinghouse of Beaufort County, chairman of Area Five, will preside.

Spokesmen for law enforcement agencies have denied that their agencies were involved in any way in the shooting.

In the wake of the shooting, city officials suspended the issuance of parade permits, but the communist group went around that by scheduling a funeral procession. No parade permit is necessary for such a procession.

"You simply can't deny people a funeral," Swing said.

The procession is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. in downtown Greensboro and end at a cemetery where four of the victims will be buried. The fifth body will be shipped to South Carolina for burial.

Swing said the investigation of the shooting was continuing but there were no new developments.

Police have conceded that a man who identified himself to police as a Klansman was given a copy of the parade permit for the anti-Klan march, telling where the march would begin and when.

Swing refused to comment Thursday when asked whether that man, who identified himself only as Dawson, had been watched by police after he got the permit two days before the shooting.

Meanwhile, the state NAACP chapter opened a four-day annual convention in Greensboro Thursday. The convention was scheduled before the shooting, but state NAACP president Kelly Alexander Jr. of Charlotte said the shooting was a prime topic of conversation.

"We started off with a brief memorial service for the victims this morning," he said.

Alexander emphasized that his group had no connection to the communist group that scheduled the fatal anti-Klan rally in a black neighborhood. But he said NAACP were appalled by the shooting and several would probably march in the procession Sunday.

"We have members who have lived with harassment and violence all their lives. They have a high feeling about what happened here. They've been that route," he said.

Defense attorneys for some of those charged in the incident said Thursday they may claim self-defense, contending the shooting came only after their vehicles were attacked by gun-carrying, stick-wielding marchers.

District Attorney Mike Schlosser said he anticipates self-defense and even insanity as defense.

An attorney for the one of the 14 being held without bond in the case has petitioned for a new bond hearing. Jack Floyd, attorney for Roy Clinton Toney, 32, of Gastonia, filed the motion and it will be heard by Monday by District Court Judge Robert Cecil.

Change In Zoning Map Of Williamston Made

WILLIAMSTON — A change in the zoning map of Williamston and two amendments to the zoning ordinance were approved at the November meeting of the Williamston Town Board.

One motion is to amend the ordinance so that mobile homes or mobile office structures will not be allowed for office use in any district except when granted a special use permit by the Planning Board/Board of Adjustments.

The second amendment allows single family dwellings in existing structures to be allowed as a special use in Downtown Commercial and Highway Commercial zones.

This amendment was approved after concern was expressed by long time residents that their homes could be destroyed due to zoning regulations.

John Boykin was instructed to look into plans to utilize a vacant lot in downtown Williamston as a possible small park-like site. The lot is the one left vacant after fire destroyed Collins Department Store.

Fire Chief Tommy Price asked the board to consider the purchase of a van to carry accessory equipment needed by fire trucks. He noted a new van would cost about $9,300, but that a used one could possibly be purchased at a lower price. The board voted to let Price pursue the matter.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

The KKK traces its origins to a meeting of a half-dozen Confederate veterans who met in 1865 in Pulaski, Tenn. They took the Greek word "kuklos," meaning circle, added "klan," since most of them were Scotch-Irish and became the Ku Klux Klan.

The results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,538 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in more than 300 scientifically-selected localities across the nation during the period Sept. 7-10.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes for a letup in credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve sparked a broad rally in the stock market today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 7.00 to 804.61 in the first two hours.

Gainers outpaced losers by a 4-1 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported a $400 million decline in the basic measure of the money supply, surprising many analysts who had been expecting a substantial increase.

That added to recent tentative evidence of a slowing in monetary growth — a trend which the Fed has been trying to encourage in an effort to restrain inflation.

As a result, hopes rose that the Fed could now pursue that goal without clamping down further on credit, and that interest rates might peak out soon.

Today New York's Citibank raised its prime lending rate from 15 1/4 to 15 1/2 percent, with most major banks joining in the increase. But by Citibank's formula for computing the basic rate on blue-chip loans, it could have posted an even larger increase.

Amid those developments, the market showed few ill effects from the continuing tension in Iran.

Gainers on the active list included Xerox, up 3/4 at 58 1/2; Bally Manufacturing, up 1 at 31 1/2; and Rowan Cos., up 3/4 at 33 1/2.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .56 to 57.58. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.96 to 207.91.

Volume on the Big Board reached 14.16 million shares by noon, up from 12.69 million at the same point Thursday.

UPLIFTING EXPERIENCE — Firemen and workers at Deer Valley Airport, just north of Phoenix, work to right a light plane after it flipped upside down when its brakes locked while landing. The workers got the craft to a nose-down position and finally back on its wheels. Damage was minor and the pilot, Chris Woods of Scottsdale (Ariz.) was not injured. (AP Laser-photo)

Muhammad Ali Ready To Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali, the former heavyweight boxing champion who is a Muslim, reportedly has offered his help to secure the release of the 60 Americans being held in the U.S. embassy in Iran, even if it means exchanging himself for the hostages.

The U.S. State Department expressed some interest in the idea and referred the boxer to the Iranian embassy in Washington, according to today's New York Post.

The paper quoted an Iranian embassy official as saying the idea had merit and that the government of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in Tehran would study the suggestion.

"If agreed to by all parties, I would go," the former heavyweight champion was quoted as saying. "I'd go quick, even if they wanted to hold me instead of those people. I'd go. I'm a Muslim and I don't think they would hurt me."

Ali indicated that he knows such a swap could be dangerous: "Even if they shoot me, I'm just one man, and if I could save 60 people, I'd take it."

See A Risk To Many Patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical Association says the closing of nuclear waste disposal dumps is threatening treatment of thousands of patients.

Dr. Leonard M. Freeman, testifying for the AMA before Congress on Wednesday, said hospitals could soon have problems administering radiation diagnosis or therapy because of the lack of dump sites for the radioactive wastes. The problem arose when governors in two of the three states that have such dumps ordered them closed. Freeman said that "inability to dispose of low-level medical nuclear waste products threatens to make life-saving diagnostic and therapeutic procedures unavailable to thousands of persons who desperately need these services."

Ten Highway Patrol troopers and two Alcohol Law Enforcement agents have been assigned by Crime Control Secretary Burley Mitchell to patrol the county for the duration of the slowdown.

No serious law-enforcement problems have been reported in the county since the slowdown began, a sheriff's spokesman said.

my chances. Let Washington give me a jet and I would rely on Allah (the Islamic name for God) — I'm ready to go."

Ali compared the seizure of the embassy and the hostages to an airplane hijacking, saying that if one gives in to terrorists once, then terrorists everywhere will start hijacking planes.

"Americans can't be bullied," he declared. "America is too big to just put its tail between its legs. If they want America to crawl, then that ain't right."

The suggestion that Ali intervene in the Iranian situation came, Ali told the newspaper, from an acquaintance who used to work for the State Department.

No Pay Hike To Deputies

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — Pay raises won't be given this year to Lenoir County deputies involved in a work slowdown, the county commissioners told Sheriff Leo Harper Thursday.

But the commissioners said they might consider pay increases during the next fiscal year.

The 19 deputies, who have stayed off the jobs on a rotating basis since Monday, have scheduled a meeting for 4 p.m. Friday to discuss the commissioner's decision.

In a two-page letter to Harper, the commissioners said they were concerned about the deputies' slowdown but that the county couldn't afford to raise their pay this year. However, the commissioners said they would ask the state personnel office to provide them with information on the salaries of deputies and county employees in nearby counties and would use the information to re-evaluate salaries for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1980.

Ten Highway Patrol troopers and two Alcohol Law Enforcement agents have been assigned by Crime Control Secretary Burley Mitchell to patrol the county for the duration of the slowdown.

No serious law-enforcement problems have been reported in the county since the slowdown began, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Pirates Entertain Winless Richmond

Guard Mitchell Johnson

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Most of the time, a coach whose football team is facing an opponent that has yet to win in nine starts has trouble in coming up with adequate and fearful words.

But Pat Dye of East Carolina didn't seem to have much trouble in describing the Richmond Spiders, the Pirate foe here Saturday at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

Despite the fact that the Spiders are 0-9 on the year, Dye is fearful that the Spiders will put it all together against the Pirates.

"They have a very capable team. And I'm not real sure that they didn't beat Cincinnati two weeks ago. They had two shots from the six-inch line and they say they got over both times, but the officials in Cincinnati say they didn't," Dye said. Cincinnati won the game, 17-14. "Then," Dye added, "Cincinnati turned around last week and came within an eyelash of beating (unbeaten) Florida State."

It's been a rough season for the Spiders, whose own faculty has voted to recommend to the Board of Trustees that the school drop from Division I-A to Division I-AA after this season. That decision was to come from a meeting of the board in Norfolk this weekend.

"I don't see how any decision they make can be a help to us," Dye said. "If they decide to drop down, then they're going to be all fired up to prove them wrong. If they decide to stay Division I-A, then they'll be enthusiastic about that. No matter what, the coaches will turn it in their favor."

Dye feels that despite their record, the Richmond unit is a capable one. Richmond's top rusher, Barry Redden, is listed as injured and is not expected to play.

In his place will be fleet-footed Jesse Williams, who ran circles around the Pirates last year in Richmond's 21-14 Oyster Bowl loss. Redden has rushed for 420 yards in nine games, while Williams has picked up 286 in seven starts.

"They have two fine quarterbacks in (Greg) Gregory and (Tim) Venable," Dye said. "Gregory is more of a passing quarterback, while Venable is a better runner."

Venable has rushed for 93 yards, while hitting seven of 22 passes for 62 yards. Gregory, the starter, has hit 75 of 175 passes for 895 yards, but has been thrown for 89 yards in losses.

"They have excellent speed at the skill positions, and are quite capable on offense," Dye added. "Their defense is well-coached and well-disciplined. They have always done a good job against us on defense, and they've really had two weeks to get ready for us."

Forbes Quiet Court Leader

For East Carolina's Joy Forbes, life as a two-sport athlete is coming to an end soon.

The redhead from Bethel is drawing the curtain on a standout volleyball career with the Pirates tonight when the team opens play in the State AIAW tournament.

"We had a tough schedule this year," said Forbes. "But I think that some of the tournaments that we have been in have prepared us well for this one."

Competition is nothing new to Forbes who joins the track team each spring, running the 800 meters.

"I enjoy volleyball in the fall and running in the spring, too. One helps keep me in shape for the other," she added. "Some people think it's an extra burden to play two sports, but it's exciting to me."

Primarily a defensive player, laboring along the back row with the volleyball team, she can play all the way around the court us."

Dye explained that last week's opponent, Villanova, is a wishbone team, and that having that extra week to prepare for a second team is a great asset for the Spiders. "Most teams only have that one week to get ready for us," he said.

The Spiders have picked up a total of 2133 yards in their nine games, while they have allowed 3259.

The Spiders also lead the series between the two schools, having won 11 of the 20 games. East Carolina, however, has won the last three, and five of the last seven games. Richmond's last win was in 1975, 17-14.

The two teams have played two common opponents. Richmond fell to VMI, 17-7, while the Pirates topped the Keydets, 45-10. Duke downed Richmond, 34-7, and upset the Pirates, 21-14.

Richmond's other losses have come against Virginia, 31-0; Wyoming, 9-7; West Virginia, 20-18; Arkansas State, 24-3; Virginia Tech, 34-0; and Villanova, 9-3.

Following the Pirate game, they travel to William & Mary to close the season.

East Carolina, now 4-3-1, closes its home season next Saturday in the Tobacco Festival Game against North Texas State, then travels to William & Mary to end the year.

Rampant Cubs Capture Title

Rose High School's junior varsity football team rolled to a 22-6 victory over Northeastern of Elizabeth City yesterday, clinching at least a share of the Division I JV championship.

The Rampant Cubs finished the year with a 9-1 overall record and a 6-1 Division I mark. Rocky Mount was the only team with a chance to tie Rose for the title, and lost in their earlier meeting to the Cubs.

Rose got its first score in the opening period when Barry Smith pitched over the line from the one yard line. The PAT kick was blocked, leaving it at 6-0, a score that held up until the third period.

In the second half, Marty Tyson got the scoring started by causing a safety. He blocked a Northeastern punt that rolled out the back of the end zone for the two points.

Rose followed that up with a one-yard run by Gary Jenkins, raising the score to 14-0 after another PAT try was blocked.

In the final quarter, Robert Brown scored on an 11-yard sprint, and when a bad snap negated the kick try, Mike Thurber picked up the ball and passed to Jenkins for a two-point conversion.

Northeastern's score followed that, coming on a short run.

The "small world" quotation came back to us this past weekend as we headed toward Boone for the East Carolina-ASU game. My wife and I stopped in a fast-food restaurant in Wilson for a meal and ran head-on into Joe Jenkins.

As we sat eating our meal, our talk wandered to our panel of experts. "Humph," my wife Linda said. "He's never asked me to be his guest, and I think he should."

Before she had a chance to withdraw her foot from her mouth, Joe and I had met eyeballs, nodded and so, her chance has come.

"I was hoping that you'd forget that," she told me when I brought the pick sheet home earlier this week.

No luck in that instance. She asked for it...she got it.

We still (by some miracle) sit atop the standings, holding down a 76-29 record. Rick Scoppe is still second, but dropping, holding a 70-35 mark, followed by Tom Baines at 68-37. Jenkins (who threatens not to wait until next year) is fourth at 66-39, followed by our guests and Etha Allen at 65-40.

Last week's guest, Lee Moore, of WCTI-TV turned in only a 5-7 record, poorest of the three TV personalities. Jim Woods wins the prize with a 9-3 mark, followed by Dick Jones' 5-6-1.

Only four high school games are available for us this week, and hopefully another near-perfect record. We were 5-0-1 last week, bringing us to 44-18 on the year.

Games include Williamston at Roanoke, Conley at North Pitt, Farmville Central at Southwest Edgecombe and North Lenoir at Greene Central.

Conley's Vikings go after their first ever winning season against the Panthers, who got their first ever winner last year by beating Conley. It only seems fair that the Panthers return the favor this season. Conley is the choice.

Farmville, already assured of the post-season playoffs again, has only one thing to go after this week. That's its first unbeaten season. Southwest shouldn't prove to be any stumbling block. It's on to the playoffs for Farmville, still number one.

The other two will find Williamston beating Roanoke, and Greene Central topping North Lenoir.

Rose High School's Rampants travel to Northeastern looking for a victory and a chance to sew up a playoff berth of their own. This is a key game since Northeastern has a chance left of its own if it can win.

The panel is split on this one, giving Rose a 4-2 nod.

East Carolina takes on winless Richmond in a traditional scrap Saturday evening. The Pirates hope to fan the spark of their bowl hopes into a flame here, and our panel goes down the line with the Bucs, 6-0.

Our other concensus picks: North Carolina over Clemson; Georgia Tech over Air Force; Virginia over Virginia Tech; Notre Dame over Tennessee; Florida State over South Carolina; Wake Forest over Duke; N.C. State over Penn State; Houston over Texas; Auburn over Mississippi State; and Navy over Syracuse.

Pirate Club Honoring Top Givers Saturday

During the past two decades, East Carolina University has experienced spectacular growth as the student body mushroomed from 1,600 in 1957 to more than 12,000 today.

During this time an exciting rallying point, according to Pirate Club Director Gus Andrews, has been the athletic program of the school, highlighted by football.

"The Pirate athletic budget has increased over $700,000 in just over two years," Andrews pointed out. "The major force behind this program is the loyal band of supporters in the Pirate Club. In the past two years, the Pirate Club has grown from a small booster club to a strong viable Athletic Scholarship Foundation raising over one-half million dollars annually."

Andrews said that the level of "Plank Owner" or Life Member has been one of the areas that has shown great growth recently. Plank Owners pledge $20,000 to the club to be paid in one lump sum, or over a maximum of ten years.

"In just two years, the number of Plank Owners has increased from nine to 54. These 54 assure the Athletic Foundation of $108,000 each year and constitute an overall pledge of $1,080,000," Andrews said. "Considering the Pirate Club was raising only $200,000 two years ago, these members have established a very solid foundation to build upon."

At halftime Saturday of the East Carolina-Richmond football game, the plank owners will be recognized for their support of the program.

Bucks Capture First Meeting Of Western Conference Leaders

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers came to town with statistically the best defense in the National Basketball Association, but they couldn't stop Brian Winters.

Their fast break slowed to a crawl by the towering and hustling Blazers, the Milwaukee Bucks instead waited for Winters to work free amidst a maze of picks around the key Thursday night.

The bearded guard sank 10 of 19 field goal attempts and scored all but six of his 24 points in the second half, leading the Bucks to a 98-89 victory in a showdown of the NBA's Western Conference divisional leaders.

Denver beat Utah 96-92 in the only other NBA game Thursday night.

Marques Johnson added 22 points for the Bucks, Midwest Division leaders at 11-3. Portland leads the Pacific Division at 11-4.

The Bucks didn't care for the slowdown style forced on them by Portland, but they beat the Blazers at their own game. Milwaukee, which had lost its previous two games following a 10-game winning streak, forced 28 turnovers and limited the visitors to 40.2 percent shooting.

The lead changed hands five times early in the fourth quarter until a long basket by Junior Bridgeman started a run of eight successive Milwaukee points as the Bucks opened a 79-72 lead with 7:46 to play.

The Blazers failed to muster a serious challenge after that.

"I couldn't be more pleased," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson, who has been careful not to oversell his fast starting young team. "We took advantage of the break when we had it, but I was really pleased with our patience when we didn't."

"We like a faster tempo, but if you're going to be a good team you have to play both styles because you won't play a breaking team every night," Nelson said.

Nuggets 96, Jazz 92

Johnny Roche scored five points in the final minute, including three straight free throws with 30 seconds to go after Utah had closed to 93-92, to boost Denver over the Jazz.

Andruzzi Sets Weekly Show

Few, if any, women's basketball coaches can hold a light to East Carolina's Cathy Andruzzi, a stage light that is.

The second-year head coach of the Pirates begins her own television show Saturday at 11:30 a.m. on WCNC-TV in Greenville.

The Cathy Andruzzi Show, with host Jim Woods, is scheduled as a regular Saturday program to be aired prior to the Dave Odom Show, which is aired immediately before the basketball games shown weekly on Channel Nine.

A 30-minute program, it will feature highlights of previous games, a look at the upcoming competition, player features and interviews, and a look at the growth of the women's basketball program both at East Carolina and across the nation.

"As much as this is a step for East Carolina, this is a big step for women's basketball in North Carolina," said Andruzzi. "WCNC has a large viewing audience in the Eastern part of the state. It will give high school girls, coaches and administrators a chance to see where women's basketball is going."

Kush's Attorneys Nix Hearing With ASU Head

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Saying "it simply is too late...short of litigation" to resolve the controversy over Frank Kush's removal as Arizona State football coach, Kush's attorneys have rejected a Nov. 30 hearing to discuss the ouster.

In addition, the state Board of Regents declined Thursday to intervene in the Kush controversy, saying it believes the university administration is capable of settling the matter.

The hearing was scheduled last Friday by Dr. John Schwada, ASU president. Schwada said it was doubtful Kush had a legal right to a hearing but said he was scheduling one with the thought in mind that Kush has served with the university for 25 years.

But Kush's lawyers delivered a letter Thursday to Schwada, stating that "there can be no practical effect or benefit to a hearing conducted by, before and for the benefit of persons who have already conducted a defamatory media campaign in an effort to justify their prior actions."

They also noted that by the time a final decision was made, the football season would be over for all practical purposes. ASU closes out its season Dec. 1 at the University of Hawaii.

"On behalf of our client, Frank Kush, please be advised that we cannot and do not accept your directive of Nov. 2, 1979, as a 'fair, equitable and just manner' to bring this controversy to a conclusion," the attorneys said in the letter.

The attorneys characterized the scheduling of the hearing three weeks after Kush's suspension as an attempt "to provide a cloak of legitimacy to an illegal and irresponsible act."

However, the lawyers said they would be willing to meet to discuss the issue, giving Schwada a Monday deadline for his reply.

Kush was suspended Oct. 13 by ASU Athletic Director Fred Miller, who charged that Kush punched a former player and then attempted to cover it up. The player, punter Kevin Rutledge, has sued Kush, Miller and ASU for $1.1 million.

Last week Kush filed a $40 million lawsuit against Schwada, Miller, the regents, Phoenix drag strip operator Rich Lynch and 25 others, charging that there was a conspiracy to oust him and that it was orchestrated by Lynch.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

East's hand does not appear to be the sort of material for dramatic doings, nor God's gift to bridge columnists. Indeed, it is the type of hand we all claim we pick up regularly at the rubber bridge table. Nevertheless, when this hand was played at a recent New York pairs tournament, East was quite often cast in the role of hero.

The final contract varied around the room, but six no trump was fairly popular. One pair, who obviously enjoy living dangerously, bid all the way to a grand slam. The bidding shown is certainly reasonable and occurred at the table we were monitoring. Note that North's raise to four no trump was natural, not ace-asking.

West led the king of diamonds—a doubtful choice, in our opinion. We would have selected a club despite South's opening bid—but in that case this column would never have been written.

Where the East players manifested no interest in the proceedings and allowed their gaze to wander around the room instead of concentrating on the matter at hand, inevitably a club or two was discarded when declarer ran his major suits. After five spades, four hearts and the diamond ace were in the bank, West was then caught in a squeeze. Declarer's last cards were the ace-king-nine of clubs, and West could not hold three clubs without letting go of his queen of diamonds, setting up dummy's nine as the thirteenth trick.

At those tables where East decided that he still had a task to perform, despite the fact that he had been short-changed, he felt that he might as well hang on to the only feature in his hand—the three clubs to the ten. Now, West could afford to hold on to the queen of diamonds and bare his club honors. Thus, South could not make more than twelve tricks, for East took the last trick with the ten of clubs.

An overtrick doesn't matter much at rubber bridge, but in a duplicate pairs tournament, limiting declarer twelve tricks earned East-West a respectable score.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Act of Violence," Friday on CBS, behaves very much like a drama that has something to say. It warms up for two hours, setting the scene for its message, but when the moment arrives, the movie stammers.

That would be just a harmless flaw in a run-of-the-mill TV yarn about a roller coaster or the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders. But "Act of Violence" concerns itself with serious, inflammatory subjects — street crime, racism and social justice. Its lack of a cogent resolution leaves the viewer with only the implications presented in the rest of the movie, and they are disturbing.

"Act of Violence" is about street crime, the violent urban wars of porch stoops and alleys. The movie is very definite about the two sides in this war: "Us," being white and middle-class, "Them" being poor, and black or Latin.

This attitude emerges at the beginning of the film, when a TV news team is assigned a story on street crime because a station executive is mugged, and, by mid-movie, it has hardened into a statement.

The central characters are tough reporter Tony Benelli, played by James Sloyan, and associate news producer Catherine McSweeney, played by Elizabeth Montgomery. They are assigned the crime story together, and the battle of social thought begins.

In this corner, representing "Us," is Sloyan's character, street-smart and razor-sharp, a cynical realist who's tired of the abstract whimpers of namby-pamby liberals; in that corner, representing "Them," is Montgomery's character, a namby-pamby liberal.

You know from the very beginning that Montgomery's going to take a dive. Talk about setups.

Montgomery and Sloyan argue about street crime. Montgomery's arguments consist of unattractive, party-line nonsense about the victims being unconscious partners of the crime, and like that. Sloyan's dialogue, on the other hand, is very reasonable-sounding.

"You know what your problem is?" he asks her, impassioned. "Your heart lies with the criminal. You BELIEVE he's the product of the slums, and should be loved because he's orphaned, addicted and maladjusted."

She just frowns a flustered "Bewitched" frown, looks at her shoes and mumbles, "Nazi." Good comeback. Anyway, the inevitable happens. Miss Montgomery is assaulted in her apartment building by three Chicano kids, and left brutally beaten. Of course this smartens her up in short order, and she becomes a paranoïd, screaming bigot. She goes on TV to tell the world:

"I've learned to hate — those bastards that attacked me taught me to fear and hate.

They turned me into a bigot..." You keep waiting for some calmer head to emerge and remind everyone that reality resides somewhere in the gray middle ground, that the minority poor are individuals, some rotten, some good. You wait vainly.

Report Protective Ozone Layer Being Destroyed

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Academy of Sciences says fluorocarbon chemicals are destroying the Earth's atmospheric layer of protective ozone at a rate twice as fast as earlier predicted.

The report released Thursday renewed concerns that depletion of the ozone layer could result in increases in skin cancer and changes in the Earth's climate.

The academy's National Research Council said new calculations indicate atmospheric ozone could be reduced 16.5 percent because of worldwide use of fluorocarbon chemicals. Half of this depletion will occur in the next 30 years, it said.

Three years ago, the council predicted an eventual 7.5 percent ozone reduction. But new atmospheric measurements and mathematical estimates revised the prediction upward, it said in a report to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ozone is a form of oxygen made in the stratosphere and concentrated in a layer about 20 miles above the Earth. It is the planet's main defense against deadly ultraviolet light from the sun.

If more ultraviolet light reaches the Earth, some scientists fear widespread increases in skin cancer, possible unpredictable effects on plant life and changes in climate that could have many repercussions.

For example, scientists at Temple University have predicted that a 5 percent drop in ozone could cause a 10 percent increase in new skin cancer cases each year among fair-skinned persons. The American Cancer Society estimates there are 400,000 new skin cancer cases a year in the United States, most of them curable.

The principal culprits in ozone depletion appear to be fluorocarbons. Fluorocarbon gases rise and accumulate in the upper atmosphere. Once there, sunlight breaks them down and releases chlorine or chlorine compounds that destroy ozone, scientists say.

Fluorocarbons are used principally as refrigerants in cooling systems, in industrial solvents and as propellants in aerosol spray cans.

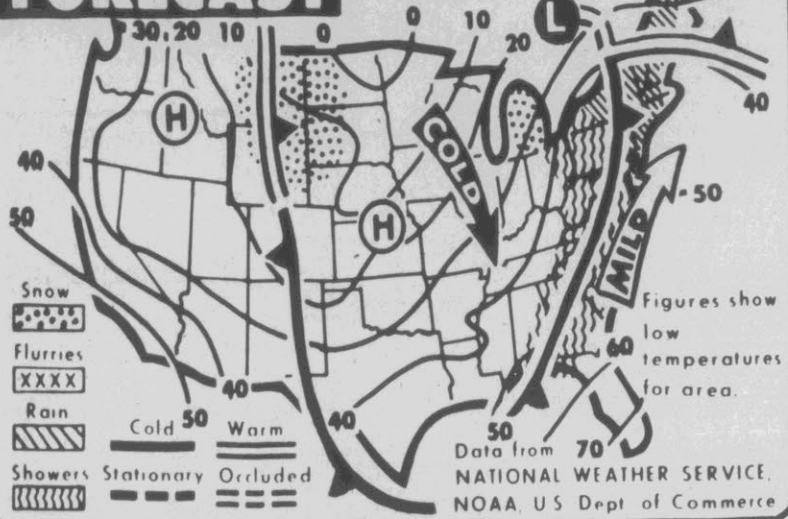

In April, the United States banned almost all fluorocarbon use in aerosols, which previously accounted for more than half the fluorocarbons produced in this country.

However, worldwide use of fluorocarbons has been increasing despite warnings of ozone damage.

How's The Weather?

FORECAST

Until Saturday

WEATHER FORECAST — Precipitation is forecast from Friday to Saturday for most of the eastern portion of the nation, with rain expected in the Northeast, changing to showers over Pennsylvania and extending south to the Gulf Coast. Snow is anticipated for the western Plains states. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A large storm brewing in the Midwest will bring a period of unsettled weather to North Carolina this weekend.

The high pressure that brought the fair, autumn weather this past week has moved over the Atlantic. Clouds and scattered, light rain are moving in rapidly ahead of the storm from the Midwest.

The showers and isolated thundershowers will spread from west to east tonight and Saturday. Rain may be especially heavy tonight in the mountains. The storm also will bring sharply colder temperatures in the mountains Saturday and in the Piedmont Saturday night. The cold front may stall near the coast Saturday night and keep the state in cold, wet weather Sunday and Monday.

Lows tonight should be mostly in the 50s. Highs Saturday will be in the 50s in the mountains to the 70s in the east.

Thursday, temperatures ranged from 59 at Charlotte to 68 at New Bern and Cherry Point.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It may take special effort but is worthwhile to be helpful to a loyal friend today. Take time to make long-range plans that could give you added abundance in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Bring your finest talents to the attention of associates who can help you to commercialize on them. Show your gratitude to others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Join with others in making your surroundings more charming and comfortable. Take no risks with your reputation today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to be more encouraging instead of critical of others today and everything works out better for you. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you don't let down those who are depending on you in monetary affairs. Improve your appearance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on personal affairs and go after them in a positive manner. Take time to engage in your favorite hobby.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Confer with the people you like and formulate good plans for the future. The evening can be very happy with the one you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to be in the company of friends and relatives and express happiness. Avoid one who is pessimistic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what family members have to suggest and try to cooperate more with them. Engage in recreational activities you enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be alert to ideas of others and make the most of today's fine aspects. Avoid a tendency to spend too much money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you delve into your subconscious now, you could come up with the right answers to solving a difficult problem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what it is that associates expect of you and then cooperate for greater success. Establish more order around you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to complete your chores earlier so you will have more time for recreation and leisure. Be more tolerant of others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those charming young persons who can easily comprehend the problems of others and should have as fine an education as possible in order to make the most of the fine qualities in this chart.

Societies Hold Annual Sessions

RALEIGH — The N. C. Art Society and the N. C. Genealogical Society were the organizations holding annual meetings in Raleigh Wednesday, on the second day of North Carolina's Annual Culture Week.

Dr. Joseph Curtis Sloane, chairman of the N. C. Museum of Art Commission and a professor emeritus of art at UNC-Chapel Hill, was guest speaker at the society's 53rd annual meeting.

Other events included a discussion of recent acquisitions of the N. C. Museum of Art, made by director Moussa M. Domit, and tours of current exhibitions in the museum.

At the Genealogical Society meeting, Dr. Maurice Stirewalt, training specialist for local history for the N. C. Community College System, was the recipient of a new award, the "Award of Honor."

He was honored for his book on N. C. Records, which will be used for genealogy classes in community colleges.

John B. Flowers, III, administrator of Stagville Preservation Center, spoke on the subject "Researching Your Old House."

The Historical Preservation Society of North Carolina is holding its annual meeting today.

Martin School Change Studied

WILLIAMSTON — Early dismissal of schools in Martin County on Friday, holidays and paydays received partial approval at the November meeting of the Martin County Board of Education.

The three-fold schedule of early dismissal times was submitted by the Martin County Chapter of the Association of Classroom Teachers (ACT). The ACT request sought the cut in time as a substitute for teacher supplement pay which was not approved for the current school year.

In its action, the board decided to alter the present policy to let teachers leave at 3:30 p.m. on Fridays instead of at 3:45 p.m. Teachers will also be permitted to leave at 3:15 p.m. on days prior to holidays.

The request for early dismissal on paydays was denied. Superintendent Eugene Rogers reported that contact has been made with owners of about five acres of land adjacent to the Edna Andrews School site in Hamilton, and that word is being awaited from the owners on whether they will be willing to sell the property.

ward Casper. Former member Jimmy Rogers did not seek ofice again, and the only incumbent candidate defeated was Gerald Hardee.

WILLIAMSTON — In elections marked by a generally substantial turn out of voters, only two candidates for elections in Williamston and Robersonville were defeated and Williamston gained its first woman member of the Town Board.

In the Williamston elections, incumbent Mayor Robert Cowan ran unopposed.

In Robersonville, L. Wilson Wynne, a former mayor, was returned to the mayor's office after defeating incumbent J. R. Crandell.

The four members of the Williamston Town Board seeking reelection all won — Taylor Slade, Thurman Perry, W. E. Honeyblue, and David Tripp.

Mrs. Grey Manning, who ran for the seat former board member Jack Haden did not refile for, became Williamston's first woman board member.

Three incumbent members of the Robersonville Town Board were reelected — R.B. Nelson, Claude Wilson and William Cherry. Two new members were elected, Mike Kilpatrick and Ed-

Physician's Life Filled With Violence, Agitation

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Paul Bermanzohn lies in a Greensboro hospital bed, bullet holes in his head and arm and barely able to speak. His wife calls him a "full-time revolutionary."

Bermanzohn, 30, a physician, was an organizer for the ill-fated Communist Workers Party's rally last Saturday to protest Ku Klux Klan activities. He had baited the Klan, calling its members cowards who "must be physically beaten back, eradicated, exterminated and wiped off the face of the earth."

Fourteen persons, some of them Klansmen and some Nazis, have been charged in connection with the shooting at the rally site that left four men and one woman dead and nine others injured, including Bermanzohn.

His path to the rally site and the hospital has been filled with violence and socio-political agitation that conflicted with his role as a doctor.

Colleagues in the emergency room at Memorial Hospital of Alamance, in Burlington, knew Bermanzohn as "very calm, soft-spoken and quiet."

A member of the CWP in Durham described Bermanzohn as "a militant, outspoken fighter in the tradition of a Malcolm X."

Bermanzohn was born in Poland to Jewish parents who escaped from Nazi concentration camps during World War II.

The parents' war experiences profoundly influenced the younger Bermanzohn, said Charles Finch of Durham, a fellow CWP member who has known Bermanzohn for about nine years.

"He learned a lot about the extent governments will go to in order to maintain their rule," Finch said.

The Bermanzohns moved to eastern Europe in the early 1950s, then came to the United States, settling in Brooklyn, N.Y., where the elder Bermanzohn worked as a tailor.

Young Bermanzohn was politically active, fighting for open admission to City College of New York. He entered CCNY in 1965, where he majored in literature, joined the wrestling team and was elected president of the student body.

Bermanzohn graduated from CCNY in 1969 and entered the Duke University School of Medicine in Durham.

Dr. Johnnie Gallemore, formerly associate dean of the Duke school, described Bermanzohn as being "socially sensitive" from the beginning.

Gallemore said Bermanzohn joined other Vietnam-era students in handing out leaflets, protesting the apparent influence large drug companies exerted on medical schools and even helped form a "shadow cabinet" to present different viewpoints from those of the established student government's at Duke. He also supported attempts by the university hospital workers to unionize.

His personality did not match the activities, Gallemore said.

"I always found him to be sort of quiet. He was not loud or abusive. At the same time, he was ... not as inclined to compromise as one would hope ... (and) thoroughly convinced and determined in his views," Gallemore said.

"He was not like a lot of medical students who pick something up for six months and then let it drop," Gallemore said.

Bermanzohn joined, founded or helped a host of activist organizations after his graduation from Duke in 1974.

Among the objectives those organizations sought were youth recreation programs in Durham, better health care for Durham's poor, elimination of textile mill conditions leading to brown lung disease and help for victims of the disease, and elimination of North Carolina's required competency test for a high school diploma.

Bermanzohn finished a one-year residency at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill in 1975, but medicine was taking less and less of his time.

"He's always had an orientation to help people. But he realized medicine is a Band-Aid solution — that it only helps one person temporarily," said his wife, Sally.

His medical work brings in just enough for the family, which includes a 2-year-old daughter, Linda, to survive on, Mrs. Bermanzohn said. They lived in a small, wood-frame duplex in a working class Durham neighborhood.

A neighbor in the duplex, Katie Satterwhite, said she "never dreamed he was messed up with some mess like this" after the Greensboro shootings.

Mrs. Satterwhite said she sat up all night last Saturday with a loaded gun, fearing an attack by Klansmen. A box of .38-caliber shells sits on her coffee table.

Bermanzohn was reported in satisfactory condition at Greensboro Hospital.

Two Collisions In Greenville Thursday

An estimated $3,450 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 12:11 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Red Banks Road.

Investigators reported a car driven by Cynthia Ann Barefoot of 500 Kirkland Dr. collided with a car operated by Nora Carla Davis of 301 Eastbrook Apts., resulting in an estimated $200 damage to the Barefoot car.

Police said following that collision, a car driven by Joseph Hester Whitaker of Ayden, collided with the Davis car, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Whitaker vehicle.

Damage to the Davis car was estimated at $2,000.

Officers, following investigation of the collisions, charged Ms. Davis with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, and charged Whitaker with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Cars driven by Carolyn Blackburn Morgan of Riverview Estates Trailer Pk., and Debra J. Grissom of Circleville, Ohio, collided about 5:20 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets.

Damage from the mishap was set at $350 to the Morgan car and $500 to the Grissom vehicle.
