Boycott Of Iranian Oil Was Weighed

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration considered but decided against asking for a consuming countries' boycott of Iranian oil, administration officials said today.

"We haven't asked them to do anything," said a State Department official who declined to be identified.

Thus, at an International Energy Agency meeting of consuming nations in Paris today, the officials said the U.S. goal was to continue to press for the overall 5 percent reduction in oil imports that the industrialized nations agreed to work toward in Tokyo last June.

Meanwhile today, Carter told reporters he had heard of no encouraging developments that might lead to the release of some 60 Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4. He was questioned after speaking to a White House conference on libraries.

The officials said the possibility of organizing a boycott of Iran in the future will depend on the steps the administration decides it can take to reduce domestic consumption.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Thursday that several U.S.

allies, whom he would not identify, have said they plan to cut back on purchases of Iranian oil, although "we have not asked people to limit their imports of Iranian oil."

A significant decline in the American demand for oil on the world market would make it easier to ask for reduced Iranian purchases by nations like Japan, France, and West Germany, which are much more heavily dependent on Iranian oil than the United States.

The officials said another reason the administration has hesitated thus far has been its desire not to take a confrontational stance against Iran.

That policy may be changing, however. Carter used his strongest rhetoric to date Thursday, saying he will hold the Iranian government accountable for the safety of the embassy hostages.

"This is an act of terrorism totally outside the bounds of international law and diplomatic tradition," the president said.

Carter's strong statement, made Thursday in a speech to an AFL-CIO convention here, marked a shift toward a blunt public approach to the regime of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

FAREWELL AFTER 17 YEARS . . . Lawrence Ricks, current president of the Coastal Plain Development Association, tells a large audience that the annual banquet and awards meeting at the Moose Lodge Thursday night marked the end of the association. The 17-year old association was comprised of ten northeastern North Carolina counties.

Coastal Plain Association Disbands After 17th Year

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

After 17 years of leadership and a record of economic, cultural, industrial, agricultural and community development successes, the ten-county Coastal Plain Development Association has ceased to exist.

The decision to disband effective with the conclusion of the 17th Annual Meeting and Awards Banquet of the association Thursday night was announced by Lawrence Ricks, current president.

Ricks explained the decision was taken "with reluctance, but we can view our record with pride." He added that "from the start, the association has been the main thing" behind progress in the ten counties it served.

The banquet also served as an occasion to honor the 16 individuals who have served as president beginning with the founding of the association in 1962. In addition to Ricks, those who have been presidents are: Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Greenville

(deceased), 1962-1963; Dr. J. W. Pou, Greenville, 1964-1965; J. E. Paschall, Wilson (deceased), 1966; Norfleet Sugg, Pinetops, 1967; John W. Sledge, Oak City, 1968; J. A. Hackney, III, Washington, 1969; Mrs. Mayo Cherry, Rocky Mount, 1970; James B. Hunt, Jr., Wilson, 1971; Arthur T. Edmondson, Tarboro, 1972; Hilton Carlton, Wilson, 1973; Mrs. Sylvia Wheelless, Greenville, 1974; J. B. Barnhill, Hobgood, 1975; Charles Harvey, Rocky Mount, 1976; Arthur Lee Wiggins, Ahoskie, 1977; and Lloyd Tippet, Washington, 1978. Seven past presidents were on hand for the final banquet.

Coastal Plain Development Association (CPDA), at the time of its formation in 1963, consisted of six counties — Beaufort, Edgecombe, Martin, Nash, Pitt and Wilson. In 1968 the area was expanded to add four additional counties — Bertie, Halifax, Hertford and Northampton.

Massive March Includes Threats For Hostages

By The Associated Press

An estimated 80,000 demonstrators marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran today and Moslem militants threatened to take harsh action against their hostages inside the mission if the United States forced the shah to go to any country but Iran.

NBC-TV news in Tehran said the march on the embassy was the biggest since the hostages were seized Nov. 4. After Moslem Sabbath prayers, loudspeakers broadcasting from minibuses led the demonstrators in anti-American chants.

The protest took on a carnival atmosphere, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported, with families and vendors mixing with the demonstrators. A long line of Tehran taxis drove past the embassy carrying stuffed animal effigies of wood and straw which people in the crowd struck while shouting anti-American slogans. It was not clear what the animals signified.

A spokesman for the militants inside the embassy told Tehran Radio: "We announce the message of the Iranian people to the world that if America expels the shah, it will be committing an offense even greater than its previous ones. The shah should be delivered to the Iranian nation with his hands tied. If America expels the shah, it must be certain that harsher decisions will be taken against the hostages."

The Associated Press in Bonn, West Germany reached the embassy in Tehran by telephone and spoke with a student who said, "So far those hostages are safe here and in a comfortable condition."

"But I'm not sure what would happen if the United States lets the shah leave. I'm not sure what action the people will take."

The broadcast, monitored in London, also said the militants would boycott American goods and that they urged other Iranians to ban U.S. products in any way possible during the coming week.

So far the U.S. government has refused to meet the militants' demand for the shah's extradition, and has given no indication it planned to expel him.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's 79-year-old revolutionary leader, has canceled all appointments for the next three weeks because of "slight fatigue and illness," the state radio said, and foreign diplomats in Tehran predicted a long siege for the hostages.

As the crisis entered its 13th day today, the United States mounted a new initiative to win increased domestic and international pressure for release of the captives, said by the State Department to number 60 to 62 Americans and eight non-Americans.

The number of hostages previously had been estimated at nearly 100, but the State Department said Thursday night that about 30 Iranian employees were freed shortly after the embassy takeover Nov. 4.

Andrew Best Is Cleared By Pitt County Jurors

Dr. ANDREW BEST

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Pitt County Superior Court jury yesterday, after deliberating for three hours and 22 minutes, found Dr. Andrew Best not guilty of conspiracy and embezzlement charges in connection with the alleged misuse of funds from the Eastern Tar River Credit Union here.

The all-white jury, including seven men and five women, returned to the courtroom at 6:09 p.m., saying Best, a former member of the credit union's board of directors, was not guilty of diverting some $11,400 to his own use as the State had contended during the three-day trial.

"There just wasn't enough evidence...not without reasonable doubt," one of the jurors said as he left the courtroom at the conclusion of the trial.

As he was being congratulated by friends outside the courthouse, Best said, "We hope justice will always triumph."

In prosecuting the cases, the State attempted to show that $2,500 for deposit to the Delta Sigma Theta sorority account at the credit union, had been diverted to Best's loan account in April 1973; that $3,900 from the credit

Visitors From Distant Points

Farmers and agribusinessmen from as far away as France, Brazil, Spain, Argentina and Canada were among the visitors at Thursday's second day activities of the Tobacco Farmer Show here.

A spokesman for the fourth annual event, underway at Farmers Warehouse, said that some 10,000 to 12,000 persons were on hand for the show yesterday.

The spokesman noted that a bus load of visitors from Canada made the Tobacco Farmer Show one of their tour stops and two Spanish farmers, accompanied by their interpreters, were among the visitors who made the rounds yesterday.

Every state that grows flue-cured tobacco has been represented at the show, it was pointed out.

This year's three-day event, which was scheduled to close today at 5 p.m., attracted some 175 exhibitors from across the Southeast.

Special Attention With God's Help

What is the secret for producing the most perfect leaves of tobacco for two years in a row? David Gregory of Java, Va., says that it is "giving it a lot of special attention and God's help."

Gregory, 24, is the winner of the Second Annual Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival's Most Perfect Leaf of Tobacco Contest. The Gregory farm has produced the winning leaves in the contest for two years, first by his father, Lewis Gregory, as the winner in 1978, and now, David.

Young Gregory explained that only 18 acres of tobacco are grown on the farm, but a lot of special family attention is given to each step of the production and harvest. "My father and I work side by side every day and I have learned a lot from him about producing a top dollar crop," said Gregory.

The Gregory farm still utilizes wooden barns and tobacco sticks, but because of labor costs and efficiency, the family will be purchasing bulk barns this year.

Gregory noted that last year, his father's leaves were judged "Most Perfect," with his being selected as second place. This year, the role was reversed, with young Gregory claiming the top honors, followed by his father in second place.

Whatever, first or second, the Gregory family is proud to be the winners of the contest, held among tobacco farmers of the five southern flue-cured tobacco states.

David Gregory, 24, of Java, Va., was presented the "Most Perfect Leaf of Tobacco" award at the second annual Southern Flue Cured Tobacco Festival Agriculture Commissioners' Luncheon Thursday.

Greenville tobacco specialists are saying that there must be something special happening in Java, Va., for the Gregory family has claimed the top honors for the past two years. David's father, Lewis Gregory, won the top award in 1978.

Leonard J. Boyette of Rt. 2, Lucama, placed second in the contest and Jim Miller of Rt. 2, Wilson won third place honors.

The leaf growers each entered their leaves in state competition in the five southern flue-cured tobacco growing states: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Three leaves from each state were then entered in the festival contest.

Contest winners were presented tobacco festival plaques and prizes. Agriculture Commissioners from each state were also presented awards.

Big Parade On Saturday

The Tobacco Festival Parade will include an estimated 100 units and will be held Saturday in downtown Greenville.

"Scooby Doo," the cartoon character from King's Dominion and Gaylord Perry will serve as the Grand Marshal of the parade.

Other special entries will include 13 bands, floats, clowns, queens, dignitaries, and the Tobacco Festival Queen Jeri Bullock.

The parade will begin at 10:30 a. m. at the corner of First and Reade streets. It will go down Reade Street and turn left onto Cotanche Street, ending at 14th Street.

FOCUS

The Zenger Case

245 years ago tomorrow, British soldiers arrested a New York newspaper publisher named John Peter Zenger. In his paper, Zenger had published articles criticizing the policies of the British governor. The British jailed Zenger for libel, or publishing material damaging to the governor's reputation. The soldiers burned Zenger's newspapers outside city hall. When Zenger went to trial the next year, the government argued that he should be found guilty simply for printing the articles. But Zenger's lawyer said the charge of libel did not apply, because Zenger had printed the truth. The jury's verdict of not guilty was considered an important victory for freedom of the press.

Iran Could Cut World's Oil

By OTTO C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran, once regarded as the United States' policeman in the Persian Gulf but now as America's foe, is in a position to cut off the flow of 60 percent of the world's oil — by blockading the narrow Strait of Hormuz, the outlet from gulf oil nations to the world's sea lanes.

But, despite the crisis provoked by the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Western diplomatic sources in the Iranian capital rule out such drastic Iranian action.

"Arab gulf states, particularly Iraq, would consider that a very aggressive act. So I don't think the Iranians would dare do it," commented one diplomatic source reached by telephone from Nicosia. He added that the United States probably would deploy its Middle East and carrier-led Indian Ocean naval forces to break any blockade.

Iran's heavy dependence on foreign food and other imports from the West also militates against a sea blockade.

At its narrowest, the Strait of Hormuz forms a 24-mile water gap between southwestern Iran and the pro-Western sultanate of Oman.

But the strait's shipping lane actually is only about two miles wide and snakes through dangerous shoals. Tankers pass through the strait at the rate of one every 12 minutes.

An AP correspondent who recently visited Oman reported that leaders there say they regard mining of the channel as the biggest potential threat. The strait is about 200 feet deep most of the way across and this should enable vessels to pass around any ship purposely sunk in an effort to block the channel.

Some Arab states would like to see some American military presence in the area, but not necessarily in the gulf itself. Conservative Arab oil states much prefer to have U.S. naval forces "over the horizon" in the Indian Ocean as a deterrent to Soviet penetration. They fear a U.S. presence in the gulf would invite a U.S.-Soviet confrontation in the area.

Mock Crisis

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Department of Crime Control and Public Safety has announced the state will conduct its first full-scale mock evacuation around a nuclear plant in December.

Officials said residents living near Carolina Power & Light Co.'s Brunswick nuclear plant near Southport will be encouraged to leave their homes after a mock accidental release of radiation.

Gov. Jim Hunt is expected to observe the exercise which will be either Dec. 6 or Dec. 7.

The residents will be moved to shelters for three or four hours.

The plant is the state's only operating nuclear station. Similar emergency plans will be drawn for Duke Power's McGuire plant near Charlotte and CP&L's Shearon Harris plant in Wake County. Both are still under construction.

Agriculture Commissioners Hosted

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

Approximately 130 persons attended the Agriculture Commissioners' luncheon Thursday at the Greenville Ramada Inn. The luncheon was a highlight of the Second Annual Southern Flue Cured Tobacco Festival.

Luncheon chairman Ed Warren, recognized Robert Martin, Pitt County Board of Commissioners Chairman, and Greenville Mayor Percy Cox. Both Martin and Cox expressed their appreciation to all involved with the Festival and the Tobacco Farmer Show for the promotion of tobacco, Pitt County's number one crop.

"Despite our efforts to promote industry and education, tobacco is still our number one industry," said Cox. "Congratulations are in order for those who've worked so hard to make this a success," said Martin.

North Carolina Lieutenant Governor Jimmy Green voiced his pride of the tobacco farmer and the tobacco industry, before yielding the speakers' platform to Congressman Walter B. Jones.

"I thank those who have had the foresight to start these kinds of programs," said Jones. The congressman, who serves as chairman of the U. S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Tobacco, pledged his support to the tobacco program and vowed to continue the fight against those who want to do away with tobacco's use.

According to Jones, following a study by the General Accounting Office, the Customs Service has misclassified what has been previously known as "scrap" or "finished" tobacco imported into the United States. The GAO study has concluded that some $188 million has been lost to the U.S. Treasury Department as a result of the Customs Service's misclassification.

North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham urged tobacco farmers and agribusinessmen to "work hard, sell hard, and don't back up on nothing" prior to the presentation of the "Most Perfect Leaf" awards.

He recognized D. Stan Duffer, representing Virginia's Agriculture Commissioner Mason Carbaugh; Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Thomas Irvin; and Susan Johnson, representing South Carolina's Agriculture Commissioner G. Bryan Patrick.

Ingram Views Insurer Accord A Breakthrough

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

North Carolina Insurance Commissioner John Ingram termed a seven-point plan outlined in a memorandum of understanding with a new group of insurers as a "breakthrough" Thursday.

"The good news is that doors that were previously shut by the First Insurance Company have now been opened through a memorandum of understanding of new claims procedures established with a new group of insurers, including Lloyd's of London," said Ingram, who attended the agriculture commissioners' luncheon of the Southern Flue Cured Tobacco Festival here.

The Insurance Commission has been working throughout the past summer with tobacco farmers whose crops were either affected or destroyed by use of a Smith-Douglas fertilizer containing picloram, a potent herbicide.

Ingram noted that priority will be given in the new settlement cases to some 300 farmers who have been denied damage claims through the prior settlements.

Supplemental payments will be made to some 900 claims already settled, in the case where a farmer feels the settlement was unfair.

Claims will be reopened for soil contamination in other crops if a farmer finds in the next growing season he cannot rotate his crops to untainted land.

Carryover pounds not controlled by a producer that were affected by the fertilizer will receive immediate payment. For those pounds of tobacco not grown or sold by the ASCS deadline, full compensation will be made through the new agreements.

Ingram noted that insurance adjusters will be required to consider the economic standards of each farmer to provide fairness in each case.

Ingram stressed that a panel, consisting of two farmers and an insurance representative, will review those cases of farmers who are still not satisfied with the new agreements. Ingram also pointed out that if a farmer chooses to use the new claims system, no release or settlement made before or after the agreement will be considered.

"We've been told these moves are unprecedented," said Ingram. "We've entered into the memorandum of understanding with the new insurance groups, and the previous claims have been aborted."

Book Week Is Observed

FARMVILLE — Children's Book Week has been observed this week at Farmville Middle School.

Today Pitt Co. Schools Superintendent Arthur S. Alford held a story hour for the sixth grade students. Teachers were dressed as story book characters and prizes were given to the students who could guess the identity of the largest number of characters. At the end of the day, each student received a book from the RIF program.

The theme for the week was "Reading Jogs the Mind." This theme was carried out on bulletin boards, in the classrooms and in the Media Center. Tuesday morning the students were greeted with the song, "Reading Jogs the Mind" played over the intercom system. During each day time was set aside for a 15-minute "read-in" for everyone. Special book marks were presented to those students who, on request, could show that they had their books ready for reading.

PWP Chapter Meets Tonight

The Greenville chapter of Parents Without Partners will have a discussion on family relations led by Dr. Mel Markowski tonight at 7:30 at Jarvis United Methodist Church.

Saturday there will be a gathering for adults. For further information, one may call 752-4309.

Garner Named Chairman Of Annual Appeal

Les Garner of Greenville has been appointed chairman of the Salvation Army's annual Christmas appeal, which will open Nov. 23 and continue through Christmas Eve, according to Maj. Arnold Williford, Salvation Army Commanding Officer here.

Garner announced that his committee will consist of the following members: Teresa Brown, the Rev. Harold Deitch; Jim Goes, Durward Harris, Hilda Laughinghouse, Reynolds May, Lyman Ormond Jr., Charles M. Vincent, and Linda Whorton.

The committee has set a goal of $25,000 to be raised through the familiar Christmas kettles and mail appeal. Funds will be used to help the needy during the holiday season and for the Salvation Army's year-round programs.

'Makeup Emphasis On Eyes And Mouth' Says Company Expert

STAFF SUPERVISOR... Cheryl Sher of St. Louis, Mo., discusses her company product with a new customer.

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Woman's Editor

"Makeup colors do change with fashions, but basic skin care remains the same," said Cheryl Sher, staff supervisor with Clinique.

"Emphasis now is on the eyes and mouth. In order to balance out the red lip look, one has to stress more color in the cheek and eye areas by adding more color. The very vivid colors are more popular now than in the past."

"Women are outlining their lips in order to have a more distinct lip line and it also helps lipstick stay on longer," Mrs. Sher continued.

As one of 10 staff supervisors for the United States, Mrs. Sher's position involves training girls behind the counter, explaining what Clinique is and helping our cosmetic consultants have good rapport with their customers in establishing a file card system to keep in touch with their customers.

We do a little bit of everything — cleaning or setting up new counters, selling and public relations. Whatever our store account needs, we try to supply," she added.

"Skin care can be very simple and basic. We believe in using three basic steps, soap, clarifying lotion which removes surface dead cells — this enables the surface of the skin to be clean as possible. The next step is the dramatically different moisturizer, to be used in the areas only where the skin needs it. Our company's computer helps us determine skin strength and condition to what skin type the individual would be."

"My special advice is starting with clean skin through proper care. I further recommend careful exposure to the sun by using a good sun block," she continued.

"Since shimmery, vibrant colors seem to be for the holiday season, you must be able to balance facial colors to that of what you are wearing. Eye shadowing pencils will create more emphasis on the eyes. Shadows must be well blended to keep a soft look

Sounds Like Poor Husband Material

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old divorcee in love with a charming, well-to-do 55-year-old widower I'll call Frank. He is delightful company and wants to marry me. Now for the problem.

Frank has two married daughters (whom I have never met) who want to run his life. They are so afraid that someone is going to take advantage of their father that they can't stand it. (His wife died two years ago and he's afraid to tell his daughters that he has been dating!)

When Frank takes me out, we have to go where his daughters will not find out about it. Also, when he comes to my home he takes a taxi so no one will see his car parked in front of my house!

How can I convince Frank that it's time he lived his own life and quit worrying about what his daughters think?

BACK STREET BONNIE

DEAR BONNIE: If you could meet his daughters and win them over it would be ideal. But a grown man who hides his lady friend from his daughters sounds like poor husband material to me.

DEAR ABBY: I'm an 18-year-old girl with a problem I can't talk to anybody about. I am very shy, and just don't know how to say no to people.

About three months ago I want to bed with a guy I baby-sit for—I'll call him "Mr. M." He's divorced and has two little kids. Even though I knew it was wrong for me to go to bed with him, I didn't know how to turn him down without hurting his feelings.

"Mr. M." is a nice person, but he doesn't consider me in his class, or care about me as a person. He's dating a woman his age (35) who sometimes sleeps over.

Now that I've gone to bed with "Mr. M." five or six times, I don't know how to refuse him. I don't feel anything special for him, like I did for the guy I went steady with last year.

I want to quit baby-sitting for this man, but I really like his kids and they are crazy about me. Also, I'm too shy to tell him what's on my mind. What should I do?

around the eye," she concluded.

Mrs. Sher worked as a consultant for three years prior to becoming a supervisor. Her training included special schooling conducted by Joan Cortesi in Chicago. She has been a supervisor for 15 months.

She combines a traveling career with marriage and maintaining a home with her husband in St. Louis, Mo.

She spent this week here in the Belk Tyler store, Carolina East Mall, training and introducing the company's line.

'Better Than Store-Bought' Reflects Authoritative Work

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

About a dozen years ago I began including in my columns an occasional feature on "Copycat Cooking."

Each such column offered a homemade version of a food usually bought in markets. Sometimes I duplicated a packaged food that could be improved in a home kitchen by including the highest quality ingredients and by excluding artificial flavors and coloring. Occasionally I featured packaged foods — such as English Mint Caramels — that were excellent but unavailable in the United States.

Now comes good news for cookbook collectors. Helen Witty and Elizabeth Schneider Colchie, two superlative cooks, have written a book on "making at home — and making better — some of the mass-produced foods that seem to have been born on market shelves." Both women have done extensive and authoritative work in the field of food writing, editing and researching, and their book "Better Than Store-Bought" (Harper & Row) reflects their experience.

The two met when they were working on the innovative "The Cook's Catalogue." Discovering that they were both fascinated by the idea of developing home recipes for foods usually purchased, they decided to write "Better Than Store-Bought." They worked on their cookbook for three years — testing alone, tasting together, then cross-testing. And discussing their results endlessly, determined to make their recipes extra-special.

When I asked Helen Witty about the problems of collaboration, she said "Nit picking! One day Elizabeth and I sat in my kitchen facing four different batches of bagels we had baked. While we eyed them, broke off pieces to taste and generally made a mess, a visiting artist friend quietly sketched us. When we saw how he pictured us we broke up laughing — we couldn't have looked more solemn had we been discussing a world-shaking event."

To give you a taste of "Better Than Store-Bought," here's Helen and Elizabeth's recipe for Marinated Artichoke Hearts. Compared to the bought product, it's thrifty to make at home.

MARINATED ARTICHOKE HEARTS

1 package (10 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts, thawed
5 cups boiling water
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1/4 cup water
1 clove garlic, peeled but left whole
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1 1/2 teaspoons coarse (kosher) salt

1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/4 teaspoon dried red pepper flakes
1/4 cup olive oil, or as needed
1/4 cup vegetable oil, or as needed

Drop the artichoke hearts into the boiling water. Boil them gently for 5 minutes, then drain them and dry them well on paper towels. Pack them into a pint jar.

In an enameled or stainless-steel saucepan, bring to a boil the vinegar, water, garlic, sugar, thyme, salt, basil, oregano, and pepper flakes. Pour the hot mixture over the artichokes, then add the olive and vegetable oils, pouring in enough to come almost to the rim of the jar. Seal tightly. Refrigerate the artichokes for 1 week before serving, turning the jar upside down occasionally to mix the seasonings. The artichokes will keep for about 2 weeks longer.

Makes 1 pint.

DEAR CANT: You CAN say no, and you MUST! Your problem is not "shyness," it's a very low self-esteem and lack of confidence. You need more help than I can give you in a letter. Please see a professional at your local mental health clinic. You must learn to assert yourself, and put an end to allowing yourself to be used.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor across the way keeps standing in front of his window stark naked!

I do not catch accidental glimpses of him in this state. He actually stands by the window that way hoping to be noticed. I have reported him to the police, but they say he is in his own home and there is nothing they can do about it. He has a wife and children, but he does this while they are not at home.

Should I tell his wife? I don't know her very well, but I will speak to her if you think it will do some good.

NEW NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEW: The man needs help. Present the bare facts to his wife.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is thinking about buying a "hot" color television set and also a "hot" movie projector. The man who wants to sell them got them from someone who steals to support his drug habit.

I told my husband I thought it would be wrong for us to buy these items even though we can get them way below cost, but my husband says if we don't buy them someone else will.

Abby, I don't want any part of a deal like this, but how can I convince my husband that it's wrong?

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLS.

DEAR NO: He KNOWS it's wrong. Just tell him that anyone who knowingly buys "hot" merchandise stands to share in the guilt of the theft—if caught.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Struggle For Public Opinion

Attorneys for the University of North Carolina have charged that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "has peppered the newspapers with public statements conclusively condemning the university."

It is a "ruthless effort to 'get' the University of North Carolina," the attorneys charged in papers filed concerning hearings on a cutoff of federal funding for UNC.

It does seem that HEW officials are doing a lot of talking and hurling all sorts of accusations about the UNC desegregation case.

Most recently the new director of the Office of Civil Rights, Roma J. Stewart said of the UNC proposal "my impression is that I didn't like it." A snap judgement? Possibly.

It is a fact that some of the most thoughtful and influential publications in the nation have raised serious questions about the HEW attack on the UNC system.

We can assume the HEW enforcers don't appreciate being in a losing stance in any battle for public opinion. That seems to be where they stand now.

Perhaps it is time for HEW to follow proper administrative procedures and attempt to work out a just settlement of this matter.

Reagan To Prove A Formidable Rival

Ronald Reagan, former California governor and former film star, has announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

No one can say the 68-year-old candidate is not a formidable one, even given the crowded field for the GOP nomination.

It's a long way to the Republican convention, however, and the large number of candidates will be cut down through state primaries, and the failure of various campaigns to generate enthusiasm.

Ronald Reagan is almost certain to be a dominant figure in that process.

THIS AFTERNOON

Local Showdowns Brew

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The most innovative and hopeful changes in the way things are done in North Carolina may be pushed by the governor and endorsed by the General Assembly. But unless local people embrace those reforms, little if anything will happen.

Such is the case with one of the central themes in the administration of Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. His New Generation program is embroiled in local battles across the state.

There is strong resistance from several quarters, but most especially from the same people who have fought so long and hard to remove state regulation and supervision of private schools.

The theme of the opposition is the same: it is the responsibility of parents, not the state, to raise up children; and the state doesn't necessarily raise up and teach youngsters in a manner approved by organizers and supporters of the private schools operated by Fundamentalists Christians.

Under Fire
Gov. Hunt recognizes that his New Generation program in which he places great faith is under fire on the local scene, and has insisted that the local committees being formed to implement the measures be composed of top civic and political leaders.

He wants the county commissioners themselves, not some political appointee, and the county managers, not some lower level bureaucratic functionary, actively involved in the day-to-day planning and implementation of the New Generation programs across the state.

Hunt is also outspoken in his rejection of complaints from opponents that the government is trying to take babies away from the family. The goal is to help children who don't have good homes, loving parents, plenty of food, and all the advancement opportunities which go along with such raisings, he argues.

At a recent meeting of more than 150 county commissioners, county managers, and others involved in county roles in Raleigh, the governor met headon the arguments against his New Generation plan.

The state-local partnership "doesn't mean spending more tax money, but making wiser use of existing programs and money already being spent.

"Instead of paying for welfare, and jails, and Medicaid, we should be investing our money in raising children who are healthy, strong, alert, able to learn and get a good job and make a good living and raise a good family," Hunt told the gathering.

BILL
NOBLITT

Together

There are a host of both public and private programs already at work in health care, schools, welfare, mental health, nutrition, delinquency, etc. But there is a lot of duplication and wasted effort and bureaucratic turf-fighting and gaps through which children fall without any help while others enjoy too much attention.

The aim of the New Generation program is to pull those efforts together and see to it that such aid programs work in all areas of the state to benefit all children in need; to break what Hunt terms a "vicious cycle ... babies born to mothers who haven't seen a doctor and who don't know good health and nutrition habits, children who grow up with very little affection and stimulation, students who don't learn to read and write and do math in school, young people who don't have the skills and work habits they need to get and keep a good job."

But it is becoming clear that support for the New Generation approach will mostly come from those special interest groups already involved in such endeavors, while numerous citizens who are cynical of welfare, bitter at tax increases, and fear state intrusions on personal liberties will organize local opposition to the local councils now being formed.

WASHINGTON TODAY

Reagan Has Same Script

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the era of political fine tuning, but the Ronald Reagan show hasn't changed.

The Reagan campaign is the longest running program in Republican presidential politics, unless you count perennial candidate Harold E. Stassen.

The former California governor began the active phase of his 1980 bid for the White House with themes, and words, which could have been lifted intact from his 1976 campaign.

So much for the advance suggestions that the new

Reagan would tone down his conservatism and shift toward the GOP center. Indeed, the center may have shifted toward him as politicians in both parties try to cope with a public mood that is down on big government and big spending.

That accounts for some of the tuning of images as the 1980 campaign begins. Liberals would rather be called progressives. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy often cites his alliances with congressional conservatives on such matters as law enforcement and airline deregulation.

Reagan's image is firmly set, and he probably couldn't change it if he wanted to. His conservative philosophy has been spelled out in hundreds of speeches and papers over the past 15 years.

While the platform is the same, the strategy is different in this Reagan campaign. In 1976, he was the challenger, tackling an incumbent Republican president. In 1980, Reagan is the challenged — acknowledged by his rival candidates to be leading the field.

Last time, one of Reagan's problems was to dispel the suggestion that he was too far right, too extreme a conservative, for the nomination or the presidency. When that came up, as it often did, Reagan would recite his record as a candidate and as governor of California. When President Gerald Ford called him too far right, Reagan replied that the president twice had tried to recruit him for Cabinet positions.

That issue is almost certainly behind him. In its place, Reagan will have to deal with the suggestion that at 68, he's too old for the job. He will be 70 shortly after the next president is inaugurated.

He says his age is not a problem, and his managers are planning a campaign pace designed to demonstrate health and vigor.

Defending a lead beats playing catch-up. But it means that every rival will be looking for an opening, a misstep or a misstatement. He walked into some in 1976. He can't afford many in 1980.

His strategy this time has no place for face-to-face appearances with other GOP candidates. Reagan says he's not going to debate them, and sees no point in joint appearances that create the impression of a contest.

Last time, Reagan wanted to debate Ford. The president wasn't interested.

That's the difference between being the challenger and the target.

Strength For Today

OUR WALL

"My beloved ... standeth behind our wall" (Song of Solomon, 2:9).

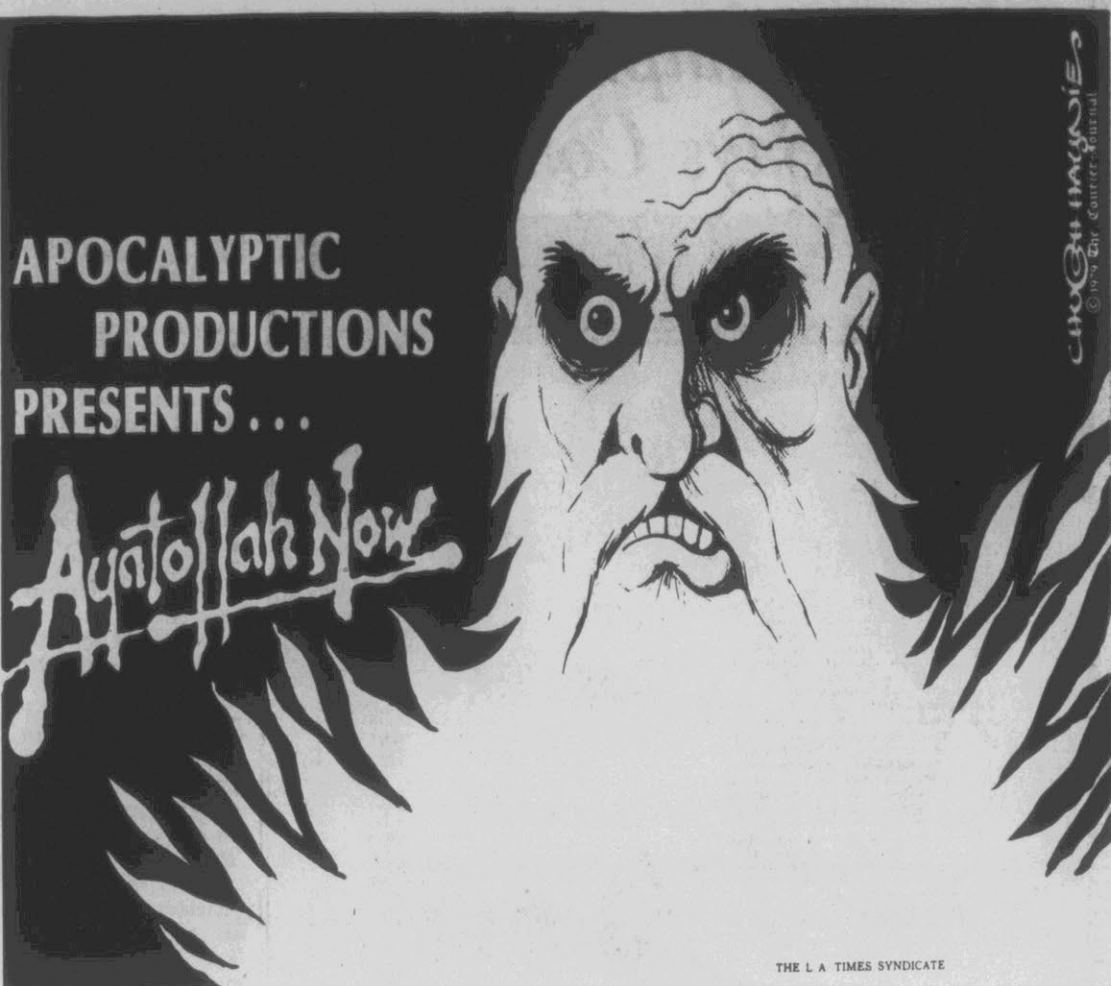

Here is a picture of life's difficulties constituting a roadblock for us, and here also is the assurance that behind the roadblock, or wall, stands God. Perhaps as He stands there, He is trying to tell us that we are on the wrong road. We have come to a dead end, and we should turn back and try something else. Or perhaps His presence there is to assure us that we can surmount the wall. "With God all things are possible."

We all have walls in our lives, thrown across our pathways. But if we really have faith, then we can believe that behind every wall stands God. He is never there to taunt us or to scold us. He is there for only one reason — to help us.

And so as we stand before some wall which has been thrown across our lives, we should remember, "My beloved standeth behind my wall."

This Is Plea Bargaining

WASHINGTON — "Hello, is this the federal prosecutor's office? This is Roy Bone. I'm representing the two owners of Studio 53 who are up on tax fraud charges. I'd like to make a plea bargaining deal with you."

"We have an airtight case against your two boys. We're not interested in making a deal."

"Wait until you hear me out. I can deliver the mother of one of the highest officials in the United States government."

"What did she do?"

"She committed monomania."

"Are you sure?"

"She did it in the basement of the disco. We have witnesses to prove it."

"What kind of witnesses?"

"One of them said he didn't think her son had a chance of beating Teddy Kennedy and she flew into a rage and said he was a pseudologue."

"How good is your witness?"

"He's done time for perjury, arson, fraud and embezzlement and is now out on bail for a Brink's robbery. I can personally vouch for him."

"I don't think you have a good enough deal."

"If you don't play ball I'll give it to the New York Times. Then they'll start asking what you people are trying to cover up."

"Don't blackmail us, Bone. You wouldn't be making this call if we didn't have you by the short pants. We're going to court with all the counts."

"All right, I'll tell you what I'll do. My clients are willing to give you solid evidence that one of Carter's closest relatives deals in gasohol."

"You have to be more specific."

"If you don't want it, I'll give it to the New York Times."

"Look, Roy, I'm very busy preparing my case. We're always willing to plea-bargain if it will lead us somewhere. But you're offering us garbage."

"Did you know that all the illegal Mexicans coming into the United States are smuggled through Camp David?"

"Where did you dig up that one?"

"A client of mine doing time at Atlanta heard it from his cellmate. It would be a big feather in your cap if you could close down Camp David."

"Sorry, Roy. We're not interested."

"Okay, you want something really heavy? The mob is now jogging in Las Vegas."

"So?"

"Who do you know in the White House that jogs?"

"You're desperate, Bone. Why don't you just go to trial and let your people take what's coming to them?"

"Listen, my boys run a nice clean disco. People come there to relax and have a good time. If they're not having a good time they snort cocaine through a straw and that relaxes them. My guys made a slight mistake and forgot to pay their income taxes. People do it every day. But the difference between my clients and others is that we're willing to sell out anybody to get off the hook. Tell me who you want to get and we'll blow the whistle on him."

"Roy, we're always happy to do business with you. But we need more evidence if you're going to destroy somebody else's reputation."

"Knock the indictment down to two counts, and we'll give the names of the guys who supply No-Doz to Howard Cosell."

If You Can't Take The Heat

By GAIL MICHAELS

Soon after the birth of her second child, a friend of mine was visited by a new neighbor. The friend's 3-year-old son welcomed the neighbor warmly, entertained her during the visit, and escorted her to the door with these parting words: "Next time you come, you can bring the baby's present."

After enduring a number of similar episodes, I have concluded that child-rearing is not for those of us who are easily embarrassed. Children say anything that comes to mind, and most of it would be better left unsaid. What's more, they are all notorious tattlers.

Living with a child is like entertaining the KGB.

Nothing a parent does escapes the notice of a higher authority. If you stay home from church one Sunday, your child will tell the minister, "Mommy couldn't come today. She had to stay home and clean up for bridge club."

If after forgetting your father's birthday, you fib, "I tried to call you that night," your kid will say, "No you didn't."

Meg has been embarrassing me ever since she learned to talk, and she gets worse as she gets older. Somewhere along the line she learned that embarrassing parents in front of strangers is infinitely less painful than embarrassing them in front of friends and family. She has made a steady progression from pointing out fat people in the supermarket to discussing publicly her number one preoccupation, anatomy, to concentrating her energies on the family circle.

I just wish I could predict her outbursts so that I could gag her or something. Recently, we visited my sister-in-law, who is also Meg's guardian. After reading several stories about orphans, Meg had been worried about what would happen to her if Phillip and I died. We had explained that she would have a loving home with her aunt and uncle but that we both expected to live long enough to take care of her ourselves. The minute she saw her aunt, she said, "I sure hope I never have to live with you!"

Several weeks later, we were in a crowded restaurant with another close relative and her boyfriend, with whom she has been going steadily for quite some time. "I hate to complain," Meg said loudly, "but I wish you two would hurry up and have a baby and get married."

The boyfriend turned pale. The relative sank two feet into her seat.

"Why do you say things like that?" I asked Meg in desperation.

She shrugged her shoulder. "You didn't tell me not to."

Mixed Views Of Big Smokeout

By The Associated Press
Perhaps North Carolina was not the best place in the world for the Great American Smokeout to be the great American success, but what more could be expected from a tobacco state where official support hardly could be anticipated?

On a day devoted to kicking the habit state Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham said he wasn't about to, and Billy Yeargin, managing director of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, challenged the sponsoring American Cancer Society to find another method. He suggested they return to the laboratories for further research on the subject.

"I sincerely hope the American Cancer Society will accept my challenge to them to close the case on smoking and health with research and not prematurely announce the case as being closed," said Yeargin.

"No promotion or pressure group is going to intimidate me into denying myself one of the pleasures of my life," said Graham.

"As strongly as I believe in tobacco, I'm not going to set myself up as a committee of one to try to force people to smoke. I simply say leave people alone and let them make a few decisions for themselves."

But the state division of the ACS saw some encouraging signs, although most of those came from its own membership. About two dozen of the state's 104 chapters participated in the third annual anti-smoking event. Last year only two took part.

Dr. William Trier of Chapel Hill, chairman of the state's Smokeout activities, confirmed that the event was low-key in North Carolina, the nation's largest tobacco-producing state.

"I would say there has been a good deal of interest in it, but I don't really know how much," Trier said.

A telephone survey of 106 persons over the age of 18 also was encouraging according to Trier, who gave up cigarettes 18 years ago but admits to an occasional cigar.

"Thirty-four of them smoked and 10 were not going to smoke today. That's one-third anyway," Trier said, but "28 people were aware of the Great Smokeout, and 34 were not aware of it. We've still got some work ahead of us."

Asked about his efforts to discourage smoking in a major tobacco-producing state, Trier said, "I'm a fulltime teacher in medical school. Education is what I do. I think it's a responsibility of people who are concerned about fellow man to educate them to the dangers of smoking."

"When they are adults they have the right to make a decision. I think it's pretty important to get to the youngsters and dispel this idea that smoking is romantic, that it's adult..."

Much of the anti-smoking activity was concentrated in the Charlotte's Graham Junior High School read "Stomp your stogie."

Multinationals Choice Target Of Terrorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Multinational corporations, which have paid out $150 million to terrorists in the past 10 years, have become increasingly attractive targets because they tend to "cave in" to demands, says a report by a business-oriented research group.

Attacks against corporations and their employees are on the rise and "are now almost as certain as rainfall," said the Conference Board report released Thursday.

When executives are kidnapped, multinational corporations face multi-million-dollar ransom payments. Ransom demands in excess of $1 million were asked for each of 12 business executives kidnapped last year and the norm is now $5 million to $10 million, said the report by the non-profit group.

"Corporations can and do cave in to demands by terrorists," said E. Patrick McGuire, who headed the year-long research project, in explaining why business has become a prime terrorist target.

Government and military personnel were popular targets earlier in the decade but "could not, and did not, cave into demands," while corporations have paid out $150 million to terrorists in the past 10 years, McGuire said.

And the Conference Board report says one result of the trend is a boom in sales of ransom insurance.

McGuire said corporations now make hotel, airline and restaurant reservations for their employees under pseudonyms and remove identification from cars, trucks and airplanes.

But terrorist attacks — including assassinations and bombings — numbered 572 in 1975, 728 in 1976 and 1,256 in 1977.

There were 2,662 reported acts of terrorism worldwide in the first nine months of this year, according to the report, compared with 1,511 for all of 1978.

The five countries accounting for the most terrorist activities, according to the 22-page report, were the United States, Argentina, Italy, Columbia and Puerto Rico.

There were 120 reported terrorist attacks in the United States last year, McGuire said, but most of these were bombings because "Americans don't take kindly to kidnapping" and there is a "94 or 95 percent arrest rate." In Italy, however, kidnapping is the "major terrorist tactic," he said.

The Conference Board report was based on data from the U.S. State Department, the CIA and the Rand Corporation.

Boards Act On Five Requests

The Joint City-County and Greenville Boards of Adjustments took action on five items of business at Thursday night's meeting.

The joint board, acting on a request by Minnie B. Gardner for an administrative review in seeking to appeal the building inspector's decision to deny the placement of a mobile home on State Road 1203, changed the request to a variance and denied the variance on the basis that more than one principal use can not be placed on a lot.

The city board approved a request by the East Carolina University Alumni Association Inc. for a special use permit in order to allow a school at 901 E. Fifth Street.

A request by Larry Early for a variance in order to enlarge a non-conforming structure at 1900 S. Pitt Street was tabled.

A request by John Causey Jr. for a variance from the front setback requirements in order to construct a multi-family dwelling at 118 River Bluff Road was granted.

The board also granted a request by Sam and Dave's Snack Bar for a variance from side setback requirements in order to construct a new building on combined lots at 1200 N. Green Street.

The date for the December meeting was changed for both boards from Dec. 27 to Jan. 3.

Invited By VEPCO To Richmond Talks

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina state senators and representatives from the 22 counties served by Virginia Electric Co. have been invited by utility to a joint meeting in Richmond next month.

Letters had been sent to the lawmakers, inviting them to the briefing session Dec. 6, Hap Chalmers, staff administrator for VEPCO's southern division, said Thursday.

Chalmers said the meeting would be to brief Tar Heel officials on VEPCO operations. Transportation and hotel accommodations will be provided at the company's expense, he said.

The lawmakers will be told about VEPCO's nuclear program, plans to convert oil-fired plants to coal and about the company's Bath County pump storage project.

"By 1980 — cross your fingers — with the Bath project and coal conversion, all our generation will be coal, nuclear or hydro. By then, we'll need no foreign oil," Chalmers said.

He predicted that rates could be lowered, if the projects were completed on schedule. "I'm looking forward to being on the other side of the fence," he said, referring to recent criticism leveled at VEPCO for its high utility rates.

Old-Fashioned Sunday Planned

WINTERVILLE — Members of the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate an Old-Fashioned Day Sunday.

The congregation will dress like their great great grandparents and sing with a pitch pipe by lamplight. An old-fashioned dinner will be served at the Winterville Fire Station featuring black-eyed peas, ham, baked sweet potatoes, baked cornbread, collards, chicken pastry, fried chicken, cakes and pies.

Worship services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. with Bobby Futrell, pastor, speaking. Guyla C. Evans and her dummy, Danny, will speak to the children during Sunday School.

The public is invited.

Speaking At Sunday Service

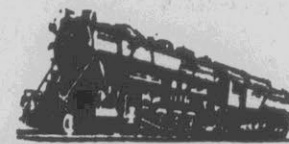

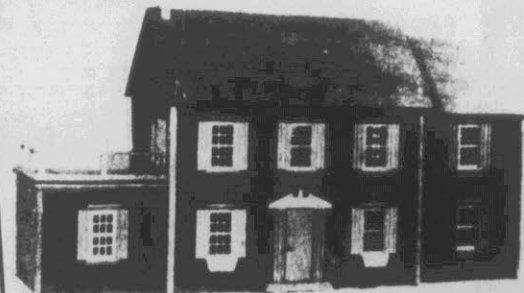

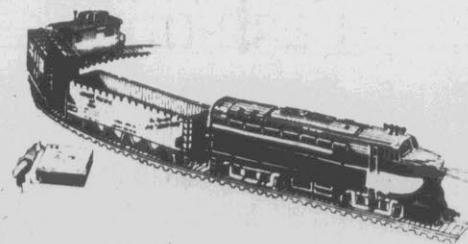

Pastor Roberta Prayer will speak at Christ's Temple Church on the Bethel Highway Sunday at 6 p.m.

Donations will go to the church building fund. The service is sponsored by Mother Catherine P. Langley. The public is invited, she said.

Charles Harvey, 1976 president, was the keynote speaker for this final meeting. "For 17 years, the CPDA has cooperated in activities, fostered new ideas, supported many programs in communities," Harvey said. "We have seen the communities grow, and have been part of it."

"New programs, economic growth, new agencies to serve our people are all a fulfillment of objectives of 1962," Harvey remarked.

He cited numerous programs and agencies in all fields of endeavor that have grown from or been augmented by ideas first advocated by CPDA.

"One of the most important things we have seen is that the migration out of the area has become stabilized due to industrial growth.

"Our leadership," he added, "has kept our area moving in most positive ways."

"CPDA has not died," Harvey concluded. "It has reached full maturity, producing a bumper crop of leaders and providing a strong force to community growth and progress."

Six divisions were structured into CPDA — Agriculture, Community Development, Home Economics, Industrial Relations, Travel and Recreation, and Youth, Educational and Culture. Each of these was charged with developing programs within their specific sphere of interest for the ten county area.

This year, awards were presented to communities in two basic areas, community development and beautification. Towns and communities receiving Community Awards were:

— Small community, Swift's Creek, first place, and Dunbar, second place.

— Large rural community, Little Easonburg, first place, and Rogers Community, second place.

— Town and village, Jamesville, first place, Simpson, second place, and Aurora, third place.

Anti-litter and beautification awards were presented to four counties. Pitt County received a county wide award; the Edgecombe County award went to Dunbar Community; the Beaufort County awards were to Belhaven and to the county at large; and for Wilson County, awards were given to St. Mary and Lucama communities.

Tanker Fire Still Fought

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Tugboats poured water into the burning tanker Burma Agate today while Navy officials and representatives of the ship's owners studied the possibility of additional firefighting efforts in the two-week-old blaze.

The vessel, loaded with oil, caught fire when it collided with the freighter, Mimosa, 16 days ago, killing at least 14 crewmen.

Tugboats have been pouring water on the forward section of the ship to contain the fire in the after section while it is allowed to burn itself out.

"They would like to be able to put it out rather than allow it to continue burning," said Coast Guard spokesman Richard Griggs after the survey Thursday. "But they decided that the present action is the best way to go because further firefighting efforts would mean the possibility of more pollution and a greater hazard to personnel."

Griggs said he has no further reports of oil from the tanker hitting Texas beaches. The Coast Guard still had 21,000 feet of containment boom deployed on Bolivar Peninsula, Pelican Island, San Luis Pass, in the entrance to Galveston Bay, and offshore near the tanker.

Med School Professor

G.E. TREVATHAN

Dr. G. Earl Trevathan has been appointed professor of pediatrics at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, according to Dr. John B. Tingelstad, chairman of pediatrics.

Trevathan has been in private practice in Greenville for the past 25 years. He opened his first office in 1954 and in 1960 started a group practice, Greenville Pediatric Services. He has a special interest in pediatric neurology.

A native of Pitt County, Trevathan has been active in many community organizations, include the Pitt County Medical Society, the Pitt Co. Tuberculosis Association, the Pitt County Mental Health Association, the Greenville Rotary Club and the Sierra Club. He has served as chief of staff of Pitt County Memorial Hospital and chairman of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee. He currently is a member of the N. C. Commission on Health Services.

He received his undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and his M. D. degree from the University of Colorado.

Home Again

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A Marine Corps unit sent to Quantanamo Bay last month in a show of military strength ordered by President Carter returned to the United States today.

A Marine spokesman said unloading of two ships carrying about 2,000 troops began at 7 a.m. and was to be completed by mid-day. They were to make the short trip to Camp Lejeune by land vehicles.

Their quiet return to the United States was in sharp contrast to the departure, a widely publicized expedition that drew international attention.

Carter ordered the Marines to the Quantanamo Bay base for field exercises during a period of concern over the presence of Soviet combat troops in Cuba.

JUST SHOOT 'EM

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A local newspaper reported that the top military commander in the southern Philippines says policemen should shoot dead any drunken soldier to keep civilians from being hurt. There was no immediate confirmation from the government.

The One And Only "Little Richard"

It has been said that the Greatest Sermon is a SERMON THAT'S LIVED. The Kinston District Jr. Academy presents in Goldsboro, Kinston, and Greenville, N.C., one of the Outstanding Sermons that's Alive today. This Sermon is found in the Greatest Rock 'N Roll Singer that has ever lived. A Singer who once popularized such hits as "Good Golly Miss Molly", "Long Tall Sally", "Loudy Mrs. Claudy", but NOW sings "AMAZING GRACE", and "THE OLD RUGGED CROSS". You will want to hear Little Richard tell how fun, dope, men and women dragged him through a living hell, but you'll thrill in your seats to hear how God delivered him. Hear Richard Preach, Pray, and Sing to the Glory of God.

Little Richard will appear in Goldsboro Friday night, November 16th, 7:30 at the Branch Memorial Tabernacle, 500 Guley Street.
and
Kinston, Saturday night, November 17th, 7:30 at the Lenoir Community College Gymnasium, Hwy. 70.

Little Richard will appear in Greenville, Sunday afternoon, November 18th, 4:00 at Rose High School.

A large capacity crowd is expected to see and hear Little Richard in Greenville. All local churches will have special envelopes which will serve as admission fees. Every family should plan to attend and see what true conversion is all about. Call these numbers for more information: 752-9484, 752-5084, or 756-5415.

Come Early To Get A Good Seat

Thanksgiving Is the light of Faith shining in the eyes of a child.

Thanksgiving Is a world pausing to consider its dependence on the goodness of God.

Thanksgiving Is a family remembering prayers that have been answered.

Thanksgiving Is a nation knowing its destiny must rise or fall in the spiritual vitality of its people.

Thanksgiving Is a visit to Grandma's, a happy day with aunts and uncles and cousins, Grandpa saying grace.

Thanksgiving Is Pilgrims at peace with their Indian neighbors, not dreading their first New England winter.

Thanksgiving Is realizing on ONE day what life should be EVERY day.

Plan Another Greensboro Demonstration Sunday

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A second demonstration to protest the slaying of five Communist Workers Party members is planned for this Sunday, as 100 of the men charged in connection with the shootings were released on bond.

City officials appealed to the citizens of Greensboro to help maintain peace and tranquility in the face of a demonstration planned by the Greensboro Coalition for Human Dignity on Sunday.

The group, which obtained a parade permit for 2,000 to 3,000 people, planned to march from an intersection near downtown to the Governmental Plaza several blocks away.

Mayor Jim Melvin said.

More than 600 National Guardsmen, 175 police officers and 250 state highway patrolmen were on duty last Sunday for a rain-soaked funeral march held by CWP for the five slain activists.

The demonstration protested the shootings at a "Death to the Klan" rally the communist group staged in a black public housing neighborhood Nov. 3. Five party members were killed in the spray of gunfire, and another was seriously injured.

Released on bond Thursday were Roy C. Toney, 32, of Gastonia; Michael E. Clinton, 24, and Billy Joe Franklin, 33, both of Lincoln; and Claude McBride, 16, of Winston-Salem, county authorities said. Toney, Clinton and Franklin were charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder. McBride was charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Toney was released on $50,000 bond, Clinton and Franklin on $25,000 bond and McBride on $4,000 bond.

The FBI reported Thursday that a final person charged with murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the case had turned himself in to authorities in a suburb of Chicago.

He is Jack Wilson Fowler Jr., 28, of Winston-Salem, identified as a Nazi party member. His arrest brings to 13 the number charged with murder and conspiracy in the attack, which has been linked to both the Ku Klux Klan and Nazis.

Two were charged only with one count of conspiracy.

Fowler was taken into custody after arranging for his surrender through intermediaries in Winston-Salem, said Andrew Pelczar, supervisor of the FBI's Greensboro office.

FBI agents in North Carolina also completed their initial report on the violence and said it was being forwarded to the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Justice Department, where a decision on federal charges will be made.

U.S. Attorney Mickey Michaux told The Associated Press that he was withholding a recommendation on whether federal charges should be brought.

Michaux said the charges may still be filed, however. Charges of federal civil rights violations in cases where death resulted carry a maximum penalty of life in prison, he said.

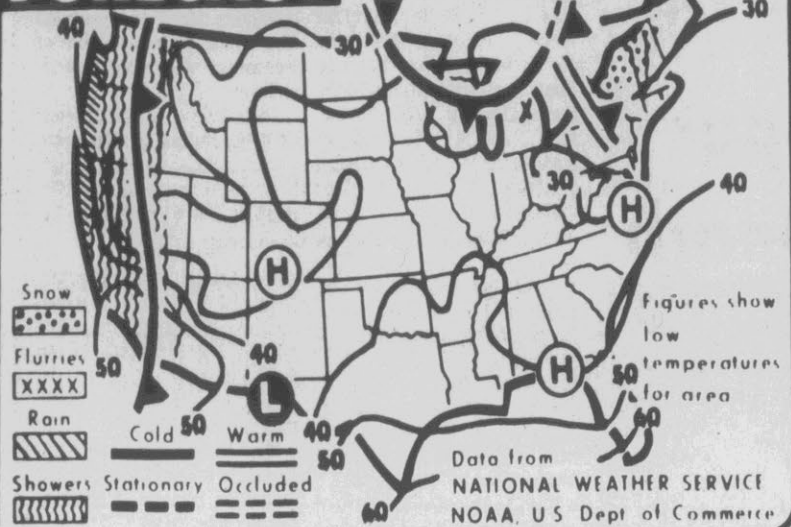

The report does not indicate, the federal investigation has completed, Pelczar said.

The shooting occurred as a caravan of cars passed through the Communist Workers Party's rally. Police say seven cars in the caravan had left the scene when the shooting erupted from occupants of the final two vehicles.

How's The Weather?

FORECAST

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period until Saturday morning for the Rockies and the west coast.

Scattered light snow is predicted for northern New England. Most areas will be cool. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Another cold front pushed through North Carolina today, bringing a little light weather that is forecast to fade away as the front moves eastward.

Temperatures will be a little cooler tonight, but moderating temperatures are expected over the weekend.

One weather oddity occurred as the front made its way across the state. The temperature in the Asheville-Hendersonville area at 4 a.m. today was 31 degrees, but that zoomed to 47 degrees when gusty winds mixed the cool air near the earth's surface with warmer air aloft.

New Bern and Cherry Point had the warmest readings Thursday, with 57 degrees. Cloudiness kept overnight temperatures warmer than those of the previous night. Lows ranged from the 30s to the mid to upper 40s.

Clear skies will again be the rule tonight with temperatures dropping to the 20s in the mountains and mostly 30s elsewhere.

Saturday's weather will be dominated by high pressure with sunny skies and seasonably mild temperatures. Highs will range from the mid 50s to the lower 60s.

New Role For Rob't Bolonde

Robert D. Bolonde, assistant director of the ECU Computing Center, has resigned his position effective Nov. 30 to assume new duties at the Pentagon in Washington, D. C. beginning Dec. 3.

Bolonde will work with the Dept. of Defense as a management specialist, and his duties will involve medium and long range planning for future computerized applications pertaining to defense projects.

The Pennsylvania native came to East Carolina University in 1969 as director of the administrative Computer Center. In 1972 when the two centers (academic and administrative) were consolidated, Bolonde was appointed assistant director.

He became involved with computer work during the time he served in the Navy — Civil Services at Norfolk Naval Air Station. He also worked for NASA at Green Belt, Md., and the Goodard Space Flight Center. Bolonde was employed at a mortgage corporation before coming to ECU.

Bolonde and his wife, Carol, have three children — Richard, who is in the Navy stationed at the Great Lakes, Dawn, a Pitt Community College student, and Robbin, a Rose High student.

Pupils Earned Honor Listing

FALKLAND — Dean Lawrence and Scott Strickland were named to the Falkland Elementary School Honor Roll for the first marking period.

Brenda Barnes, Diane Kornegay, Terry Randolph, Nicole Beaman, Sandra Had-dock, Niki Vandiford and Karen Witherington were named to the Principal's List.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a broad loss today amid a barrage of negative news on interest rates and the dollar.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 5.97 to 815.36 in the first half hour. Losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers in the mid-morning rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Federal Reserve statistics issued late Thursday showed a sharp rise in the money supply, dealing a setback to hopes that the Fed could pursue its anti-inflation plan without further credit-tightening.

Today New York's Citibank raised its prime lending rate from 15 1/2 to 15 3/4 percent.

The confrontation between Iran and the United States continued, meanwhile, with reports that Iran would no longer accept dollars in payment for its oil, but would require payment in a "basket" of other currencies instead.

The news sent the dollar into a slide in foreign-exchange trading.

Today's early prices included Bucyrus-Erie, unchanged at 19; Warner-Lambert, off 3/4 at 18 1/2; and Conoco, down 1/2 at 45 1/2.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 4.78 to 821.33.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 32.38 million shares, against 30.97 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .42 to 59.27.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.92 at 218.14.

Investigating Armed Robbery

Greenville Police are continuing their investigation of a reported armed robbery at the Rathskeller at 109 East Fifth St. about 9 p.m. yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said employees of the firm told investigators that a man came to the door of the business, was told that admission would be $1, then took about $30 from the cash box at the door after displaying a small pistol.

Citibank Boosts 'Prime'

NEW YORK (AP) — Citibank, the nation's second-largest bank, raised its prime lending rate today from 15 1/2 percent to a record 15 3/4 percent.

Citibank said its formula for determining the prime called for a 16 percent rate, but that it had decided on the smaller increase.

The prime rate, charged by banks to their best corporate customers, has no direct effect on consumer loan rates, but is seen as an indicator of where other rates may be headed. Banks use the prime to set rates on nearly all commercial-industrial loans, with all but the most credit-worthy businesses paying rates several percentage points above the base rate.

The prime has been rising rapidly in recent months, the result of credit-tightening steps being taken by the Federal Reserve in an attempt to stem inflation.

Andrew Best...

union account of Annie Boyd had been diverted to Best's use in August 1975; and that $2,500, treated as a credit union loan to Georgia Corey, was given to Best in December 1975.

The chief witness for the State was former credit union secretary-treasurer Ruth Marie Staton — described as a close friend of Best's — who has pled guilty to five counts of embezzlement in connection with alleged thefts from the credit union.

Best, on the other hand, testified that he had no knowledge that the $2,500 from the sorority account was applied to his loan account; that the $3,900 from the Boyd account was, "a check I cashed for Ms. Staton...I honored her request...the money was given to her"; and that the $2,500 Corey loan was a loan arranged by Ms. Staton, along with a loan made to Best's housekeeper Bessie Mosley, for the physician.

In addition, Best testified that he and other credit union directors had taken, "heroic" steps to insure that the credit union, which had been plagued with problems of past-due loan accounts, did not fold. He said he had used $10,000 of his own money to catch up delinquent accounts of others so the credit union would not be suspended when state examiners checked the union's records.

During final arguments to the jury, chief assistant district attorney Tom Haigwood said the alleged actions amounted to, "stealing," and said, "the books and records don't lie. That's what it is, it's just stealing."

Of the $2,500 allegedly credited to Best's loan account from the sorority funds, Haigwood said, "that defies human experience." to believe Best knew nothing of it. "I don't understand it, and I don't believe you believe it. If you believe that," he told the jury, "you believe it's snowing outside."

Defense attorney Donald Pollock of Kinston, in his closing argument, portrayed Ms. Staton as a person testifying for the State in an effort to gain a lighter sentence for herself, and as a "liar."

"This case is built on someone who lied," Pollock emphasized, referring to Ms. Staton. He added that, "the person who prepared those records lied."

Pollock contended there was no evidence of a conspiracy between Best and Ms. Staton, as the State contended. Rather, he said, Best had been used by other people including Ms. Staton, and he told the jury that the physician was a poor businessman.

Describing Best's involvement in community affairs, Pollock said, "when you try to do all these things, something goes lacking."

Some Iranians Said Trying Avoid Identity

By CHARLOTTE PORTER
Associated Press Writer

While President Carter and diplomats prayed for Americans being held in Tehran, some Iranian students in Southern California reportedly were dying their hair to evade detection and a wave of anti-Iran sentiment prompted new protests across the country.

Meanwhile, FBI agents and Tennessee officials were searching Thursday for a man who told a Nashville television station his organization might kidnap and possibly execute Iranians unless the siege at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran ends.

And in Chicago, a man telephoned newspapers and television stations to claim an Iranian students group was responsible for a bomb that exploded aboard an American Airlines flight from Chicago. No one was injured in the explosion Thursday and the plane landed safely in Washington, D.C.

The man, who did not identify himself but said he was a member of the group, threatened more bombings if actions such as deportation were taken against Iranians in the Chicago area. The FBI had no comment but was investigating the report.

The tensions began last week when Iranians seized the U.S. embassy, taking 62 Americans hostage to demand the return of the shah, who is in New York for cancer and gallbladder treatment. The United States has refused to send the shah back to Iran for trial.

Guest Speaker On Saturday

GRIFTON — The Rev. Thomas Stewart of Faith Tabernacle, Kinston, will be guest speaker at New Covenant Holy Church here Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

This is a special service sponsored by the New Bern District. The public is invited.

Youth Will Be Church Speaker

Dexter Tucker will be the speaker at a Youth Day Program to be held at Ebenezer Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 119 Redman Avenue, here Saturday at 11 a. m.

Tucker is a student at Aycock Junior High School, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Tucker. The public is invited.

Inmates To Get Prayer Rugs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Inmates in North Carolina prisons who follow the Islamic faith have won the right to possess prayer rugs, which they say are necessary for the practice of their religion.

Prison officials notified the State Inmate Grievance Committee Thursday that they have decided to change prison policy to allow use of the rugs.

Authorities said they initially refused to allow the rugs because they felt the rugs would pose a threat to security and provide a means of concealing contraband.

Best still faces four additional charges in connection with the credit union case. Assistant Attorney General Donald Stephens, who prosecuted the cases along with Haigwood, said prosecutors would have to consider the verdict rendered by the jury in the three cases tried this week before deciding what action to take in the other cases.

Bucs, Mean Green In Clash

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor

St. Patrick's Day may come some months earlier in the year, but Saturday afternoon in Ficklen Stadium, "Green" just might be a magic color.

East Carolina's Pirates entertain North Texas State in the first annual Tobacco Festival Game, with a kickoff slated for 1:30 p.m., but in many ways, it's going to be Green against Green.

East Carolina's Green, naturally, is quarterback Leander Green, called by Pat Dye the best at his position in the state and one of the best in the country. Last week, the speedy Jacksonville senior dashed for 178 yards, including an 87-yard touchdown ramble, while passing for an additional 46 yards. He has been the keystone to the Pirates' offense, ranked among the best in the country, and within striking distance Saturday of the total offense and rushing school records, with still one more game left to play after this weekend.

North Texas' Green, however, is a little more numerous. It's the whole team, known down Denton, Texas, way as the "Mean Green."

And which Green will prove brightest is why the game is played.

North Texas comes into the game with a 5-5 record, having had the week off last Saturday. That worries Pat Dye since it gave them an extra week to prepare for the wishbone. "Add to that the fact that they've already played one wishbone team, Texas-Arlington, and won, 19-14, and you can see why I'm worried," Dye said.

The Mean Green attacks from an I formation that has proved potent. Behind the solid passing of senior quarterback Jordan Case, the Texans have done well despite a lot of handicaps.

"(Bernard) Jackson was the number six rusher in the country last year," ECU aide Bobby Wallace pointed out about the Green. "But he missed much of the early going with an injury. He's back now and healthy. He's a great tailback."

"You know, they were 9-2 last year, but they had a coaching change, then they had a lot of early injuries. They are over most of those now, and have won four of their last five games."

Jackson is the leading rusher on the team, having piled up 639 yards in 145 carries. He's also among the leading scorers on the team with 30 points. Malcolm Jones, who played in Jackson's place when he was hurt, is second in rushing with 357 yards, and is the leading scorer with 32 points.

"They have two good fullbacks who split the time," Wallace added. One, Lee English, has rushed for 202 yards, while the other, Milton Collins, has picked up 251 yards.

But the key man is Case. A throwing quarterback, he ranks 21st in pass efficiency in the country. This season, he's lofted the ball into the air 152 times, completing 96, for an outstanding 63.2 per cent. Those passes have gone for 1,056 yards and three touchdowns.

The most amazing statistic is that he's had only four picked off this year, and just eight in his career, about once every 41 throws.

"They have great people overall," Wallace said. "They have outstanding speed and good receivers. They are going to throw about half the time. I'd have to call them a good, dangerous offensive team."

Top receiver is wingback Pete Harvey, who has caught 37 for 424 yards. Next comes tight end Ron Battle with 15 for 139, while split end Steve Dieb and Jackson each had 11, and tight end Mark Witte and Jones each have grabbed ten.

Defensively, 16 of the top 22 players from last year's team returned this season. "They've played a tough schedule," ECU assistant Dick Kupec said. "They got off to a bad start, but they have a number of fine athletes, and I'd say more quality athletes than any team we've played this year. They will be playing at least two people at every position throughout the game. That's the kind of depth they have."

Kupec listed middle guard Ralph Henderson, injured recently, but expected back, as one of the top people in the Texas line, along with tackle Marvin Hagan.

"Going into the year, they thought their linebacking position was the weakest, but they've shifted two ends, Mike Oliphant and Louis Haynes, there, and they are the team's leading tacklers," Kupec said.

Kupec added that three starters return from last year's secondary, but one of them has been beaten out by a newcomer. "They list four freshmen among their starters, but one of them was a red-shirt from last year, so they really have more experience than they show on paper."

Kupec said the Green didn't do a lot of stunting, but are "simple and sound in their defensive scheme."

While North Texas will be closing out the season, the Pirates, 5-3-1, will have one game left following their home finale.

Both teams will be seeking a winning season in the game. For North Texas, of course, it will be their final try for their fifth straight winning mark. The Pirates, meanwhile, will be seeking winner number six in a row.

The game is the first between the two teams.

Ryan Appears Houston-Bound

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros will own two of the strongest right arms in the major leagues if Nolan Ryan joins the Glasshouse Gang, a possibility that seems to have become a probability.

Houston, which already owns the intimidating fastball of last year's major league strikeout king, J.R. Richard, was one of 12 clubs to select Ryan in the recent free agent draft.

Other serious contenders reportedly were the New York Yankees, Texas Rangers and Milwaukee Brewers.

Although no one on either side was saying much Thursday, all indications were that the 32-year-old pitcher plans to sign a four-year Astros contract for $4 million-plus.

And Ryan, who grew up on schoolboy diamonds 26 miles from the Astrodome, said from his hometown of Alvin that he had chosen the team he would join. But he wouldn't say which one.

"I'll let the club make its own announcement," he said. "But I've made up my mind, you can say that."

When Ryan's agent, Dick Moss, was asked in New York if the fireballing free agent had signed with the Astros, however, he said, "I can't deny the obvious."

But Moss also said he and Ryan felt a "duty to let the club involved make its announcement the way it wants to make it, and when it wants to make it."

When Ryan declared his free-agent status, he said the nearness of the Astrodome to Alvin was an important consideration for him.

"Houston has everything in its power to sign me," he said.

The Houston Post reported Thursday that the formal contract signing would be held Monday, but Astros owner John McMullen and Manager Bill Virdon, said they knew of no such plans.

McMullen, a New York shipbuilder, said no deal had been made with Ryan, but he planned to fly to Houston Monday for an afternoon meeting with his partners on the matter.

Virdon said from his home in Springfield, Mo., that he knew nothing definite about a contract. He said Ryan would make an outstanding attraction for the Houston area.

When asked if Ryan's previous team, the California Angels, had made a serious attempt to retain the pitcher, Moss only said, "I'd rather not comment on that right now. Maybe in a couple of weeks Nolan and I will have something to say about that."

Ryan was 16-14 in 1979 while leading the American League in strikeouts with 223. He will be joining a pitching staff that includes Richard, who hurled 313 strikeouts while going 18-13 last year, and Joe Niekro, who was the only National League pitcher to win 21 games.

HOMER A "HOMER"

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengal Coach Homer Rice is enthusiastic about the city where he coaches.

"First of all," Rice said, "I'm a rooter for all things Cincinnati. I like to see the baseball Reds, the colleges, all areas of athletics do well. I think that when good things are happening in sports, good things also happen in the community. About the Bengals, we are improved and on the upswing."

Blue Devils Has Incentive, But Is It Enough To Halt Wolfpack?

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State will be looking for sole claim to the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown Saturday, but first-year Duke Coach Red Wilson has different ideas.

"On paper we shouldn't be in the same park with them," acknowledged Wilson. "But we have a little incentive, too. We're playing with a lot of pride and our young team wants to make a good account of itself."

On paper, indeed, the Blue Devils, 2-6-1, don't look like a match for the Wolfpack, N.C. State, 6-4 overall and 4-1 in the conference, is a heavy favorite in Saturday's game at Duke.

The Wolfpack incentive is that a victory will capture the league crown. But if Duke pulls off an upset, as many as four teams could wind up in a tie for first place at the end of the season.

Besides the Wolfpack, ACC teams still hoping for bowl bids include Wake Forest, which faces South Carolina at Columbia and is hoping for a Tangerine Bowl bid; Clemson, facing Notre Dame at South Bend; Maryland, a favorite over Louisville; and North Carolina and Virginia, which meet in Charlottesville.

In the only other game involving an ACC team, Georgia Tech hosts Navy.

N.C. State also has a bowl incentive. The Wolfpack is reported to be under consideration for the Garden State Bowl in New Jersey.

But the Wolfpack has lost four of its last six games, and Wilson would like to add to that decline.

"We have to get the ball on sustained drives, something we haven't done too much of," Wilson said. "And we need 60 minutes of concerted effort, then take advantage of whatever we can get."

Another team with added incentive Saturday is Virginia. The Cavaliers, previously the league's weak sister, are flashing a 6-3 record, talking about bowls and still looking for respect.

"I feel badly for my youngsters who've held up against ridicule and scorn and who've managed to Virginia its second winning season in 27 years," said Coach Dick Bestwick. "They've been constantly reminded that they can't win, but they've hung together. Wake Forest is getting all the recognition because they're doing it so well."

Coach Dick Crum's Tar Heels haven't won since last month's victory over N.C. State, and are still struggling. But quarterback Matt Kupec has thrown for 16 touchdowns this fall, and needs only one more to tie an ACC record.

If Duke manages to upset N.C. State, Clemson, 7-2, and Wake Forest, 8-2, would be tied for first place with N.C. State. Either Virginia or Maryland, 5-4, could then pull into a tie for the top spot by winning its remaining game.

Mackovic Sends Word To Oregon State: He'll Remain With Deacs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It's been a Cadillac year for John Mackovic but he doesn't intend to become greedy, so if the powers that be at Oregon State University were seriously considering him as their next football coach they can forget it.

"I'm staying at Wake Forest. University right here in Winston-Salem," Mackovic said by telephone early today after an Oregon newspaper reported Thursday that he was one of 44 applicants to replace deposed Beaver Coach Craig Fertig.

"I was contacted by them (Oregon State)," said the man who has guided Wake Forest to an 8-2 record and firmly into the bowl picture after a 1-10 finish last season. "They asked if they could talk to me and follow the normal equal opportunity procedures."

But Mackovic, who prior to the Oregon State report, was rewarded with a gold Cadillac by Deacon supporters, said he has no interest in the Oregon State job. At this point it seems a solid gold Rolls Royce couldn't tear them apart.

"It (the Cadillac Seville) was a gift from the fans and friends in Winston-Salem," he explained. "I'm not used to things like this."

But it goes beyond the new car. Mackovic revealed that the same group of supporters has given him and his staff and their wives an all-expenses-paid trip to the Bahamas.

"These are just great people, and I have no intention of leaving here," he said. "I really believe this is the advent of a great future for Wake Forest University and Winston-Salem."

Mackovic said he was unable Thursday to reach Oregon State Athletic Director Dee Andros. The newspaper story attributed the candidates' list to Andros.

"I tried to call Dee and tell him I'm not interested in the job," Mackovic explained. "I don't know how this got started but I want to put an end to it. I'm not going."

Mackovic said an unofficial member of his staff, his wife Arlene, who is a radio spotter at Deacon games, already has designs on the car.

"You don't think I'm going to let her drive it though, do you?"

The 1979 season comes rushing to an end. Just two weeks of the regular season remain for most schools, plus the bowl games for those lucky enough to make it.

For our panel, too, those three weeks remain, and it's time for those who wish to make their move.

This writer continues, by some fluke, to hold the lead, with an 84-33 record. Rick Scoppe continues in second place at 78-39, but there are four differences this week, and he can close up over half of the deficit by hitting them all right.

Joe Jenkins has vaulted into a tie for third place with Tom Baines and our guests at 74-43, while Etha Allen is in the basement with a 71-46 mark.

Last week's guest, my wife Linda, turned in a fine 9-3 mark, as good as any guest has done. She also topped the rest of us, to our undieing shame. Rick, Joe and I each carded 8-4 marks. Linda, of course, was tickled pink.

This week, we've invited "Mr. Sport" of Greenville to be our guest picker—Marvin Jarman. "Coach" Jarman is a familiar figure at all Rose High School sports activities, and is perhaps the greatest sports fan in the area.

Peele	Jenkins	Jarman
Rose over Millbrook	Millbrook	Rose
Princeton over Jamesville	Princeton	Princeton
N. Dame over Clemson	N. Dame	Clemson
Ga. Tech over Navy	Ga. Tech	Navy
Virginia over Carolina	Virginia	Virginia
Auburn over Georgia	Georgia	Auburn
Farmville over Ahoskie	Farmville	Ahoskie
ECU over N. Texas	ECU	ECU
State over Duke	State	State
Maryland over Louisville	Maryland	Maryland
South Carolina over Wake	USC	Wake
Purdue over Indiana	Indiana	Purdue

Since the high school regular season is over now, we've turned all three of the playoff games involving area teams over to the panel. Our regular season mark, after a 3-1 week, ended at 47-19.

In the 4-A ranks, Rose High School travels to Raleigh to face aerial-minded Millbrook. The Wildcats are ranked seventh in the AP poll, while the Rampants are 13th. Will that number prove unlucky? Who knows? The panel doesn't, splitting on it 3-3.

In the 3-A competition, Farmville Central is host to Ahoskie. The Cougars feel they are under-ranked at tenth. But can they upset the number one ranked Jaguars. This one looks like a real dog...er, cat fight. The panel is sticking with Farmville, 5-1. Does Marvin have the answer?

Finally, in 1-A competition, Jamesville travels to face Princeton. Princeton jumped onto the 2-A-1-A poll this week in ninth place, while Jamesville, ranked earlier, is now unranked. This one could be a battle royal, but a lot hinges on whether Bullet QB Trent Ange is healthy. The panel goes with Princeton by only by 4-2.

Turning to the college ranks, East Carolina's Pirates will be entertaining North Texas State in the Tobacco Festival Game Saturday afternoon. While some folks are making the Bucs big favorites, it shapes up as a much tougher game. The panel goes with the Pirates in the first solid vote, 6-0.

Our other concensus picks: Notre Dame over Clemson; Georgia Tech and Navy, a toss-up; Virginia over North Carolina; Auburn over Georgia; N.C. State over Duke; Maryland over Louisville; South Carolina over Wake Forest; and Purdue over Indiana.

The full poll:

Scoppe	Baines	Allen
Millbrook	Millbrook	Rose
Jamesville	Princeton	Jamesville
N. Dame	N. Dame	Clemson
Navy	Ga. Tech	Navy
UNC	Virginia	UNC
Auburn	Auburn	Auburn
Farmville	Farmville	Farmville
ECU	ECU	ECU

Purdue	Purdue	Purdue

King, Ford Provide Sparks As Kansas City Slips Past Lakers

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Kansas City Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, who had a Rookie of the Year last season in Phil Ford, thinks he's got another fine freshman this year in Reggie King.

"Someday we'll be able to send him out bear-hunting with a switch," Fitzsimmons said of the muscular young forward. "I think we got us a good one. I can't believe he was still available on the 18th pick."

Even though they didn't get to pick until late in the first round, Kansas City was still able to get the rebounding forward it was hoping for in the 6-foot-6 King, from Alabama. And he's already paying dividends.

King hauled down four defensive rebounds in the last two minutes Thursday night to help Kansas City defeat the Los Angeles Lakers 114-108. Ford provided the offense, scoring 34 points for the second game in a row.

Tampa, Giants Battle Again

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It was about six weeks ago when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers were cooled off and the words began heating up. Now it's the time of reckoning.

On Oct. 7, the Bucs carried a 5-0 record into Giants Stadium, where their hosts owned an 0-5 record. But with Phil Simms making his first start as a pro quarterback and New York's defense disrupting Tampa Bay's attack, the Giants emerged with a 17-14 victory.

Since then, the Giants have turned things around to the point that they're 5-6 (their only loss since then by a 16-14 score to Dallas in the final seconds). The Bucs have improved their record to 8-3 and lead the National Conference's Central Division by two games.

All the while, though, they've been thinking about each other. "Phil Simms is nothing but a cocky rookie," Bucs linebacker Dave Lewis said after Tampa Bay's upset loss. "I can't wait to get him down in Tampa."

On Sunday he'll get him there.

When we went up to New York undefeated, I guess we felt we were hot stuff," Lewis recalled. "But a loss sure cools you down fast. The Giants play a physically hard game, that's no doubt, but I don't think we should have been beaten by them."

day night, the San Antonio Spurs outscored the New York Knicks 136-132 and the Golden State Warriors beat the Denver Nuggets 120-102.

The Lakers, who had a three-game winning streak snapped and lost for just the third time in 13 starts, led throughout the first half and held a 61-52 advantage at intermission.

But the Kings closed the gap in the third period and played the Lakers even for most of the fourth quarter before going ahead to stay 107-106 on a free throw by King. Baskets by Ford and Scott Wedman, one free throw by King and two foul shots by Ford kept the Kings on top.

"The second half we went out and started playing aggressive defense," said Ford. "And Reggie did a good job on the boards."

"In college I scored a lot of points but I was mostly a rebounder," said King. "This was my best game rebounding as a pro."

Kansas City has now beaten

Philadelphia and Los Angeles, following a six-game losing streak. "I think this gives us a lift, beating two of the top teams in the league," said King.

Spurs 136, Knicks 132

George Gervin scored 33 points and Larry Kenon broke out of a slump with 29 points and 12 rebounds as San Antonio handed New York its fourth consecutive loss.

The Spurs, who hit 52 percent of their field goal attempts, outscored the Knicks 18-5 to build a 103-90 lead and coasted home. The Knicks made the final score close by scoring the game's last eight points after the outcome was decided.

Warriors 120, Nuggets 102
Guard John Lucas scored a season-high 27 points and backcourtmate JoJo White added 18 as the Warriors handed Denver its eighth loss in nine road games. Golden State led 56-44 at halftime after outscoring the Nuggets 23-16 in the second period and stayed comfortably ahead in the second half.

Petty, Waltrip Deny Pressure On Eve Of Title Race's Finale

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip and Richard Petty are fender-to-fender as the 1979 stock car points championship goes down to the final race, but who's under the most pressure depends on who's talking.

"The pressure is coming from the other teams, not this one," claimed Waltrip, who holds a two-point edge, 4,672 to 4,670, on Petty heading into Sunday's Los Angeles Times 500 mile race at Ontario Motor Speedway.

"If you don't think there is a lot of pressure on Richard Petty," Waltrip said Thursday during a joint press conference with Petty, "just think about where he is in his career and how important this championship is."

"I think the pressure is more on Darrell for the championship than it is on me," countered Petty, who has won the 30-race Winston Cup Grand National series six times. "We plan on running this race pretty much like we've been doing all season. We'll run it hard as we can without taking any foolish chances, which is what we've always done."

"We finished second six times too," Petty recalled, "and we didn't do anything different those years than we did when we won the championships."

Qualifying was scheduled to begin today and be completed Saturday, when the Warner Hogdon 200 for Grand American cars also will be run.

There is $180,000 prize money for Sunday's race with $22,000 to the winner, but the year's driving championship is the big interest.

Waltrip, of Franklin, Tenn., said, "The fact that points are tight is good for the sport. But I get tired of everybody criticizing us for what we have been doing (in the last half of the season)."

Waltrip won seven of the first 21 races, but gave up most of his huge lead in the point standings by three finishes out of the top 10 in the next eight tries. Petty of Randleman, N.C. came on strong, winning twice and never being worst than sixth in the last seven races.

"We've done some things wrong in the second half and we've made some mistakes, but you do that in racing," Waltrip said. "I'm not conceding anything ... we think we're going to win here Sunday."

Benny Parsons, driving a 1977 Chevrolet, had the fastest practice lap Wednesday over the 2 1/2-mile Ontario oval, averaging 153.846 mph. Petty's best of 152.557 was third fastest lap of the day behind Buddy Baker, but Petty was fastest of the morning practice times.

Waltrip was a flick slower with 152.272 in the afternoon. The stock car track record of 156.190 was set a year ago by Cale Yarborough in qualifying for this race.

"We know what we've got to do. Right now it's not gettin' done," Yarborough said.

Uncertain Bowl Sponsors Find They Have Georgia On Mind

By The Associated Press
A lot of people connected with college football's bowl games will have Georgia on their minds Saturday.

The unranked Bulldogs, with an untidy 5-4 overall record — but a tidy 5-0 in the Southeastern Conference — can clinch a berth in the Sugar Bowl by defeating 15th-ranked Auburn.

If Georgia wins, and top-ranked Alabama beats Auburn Dec. 1, the Bulldogs and Crimson Tide would finish in a tie for the SEC title with 6-0 records. But Georgia would get the coveted Sugar Bowl spot because Alabama went last season as the league representative.

However, if Auburn beats Georgia, then the Sugar Bowl would have to wait for the Alabama-Auburn result. If Alabama wins or ties that game, then the Tide would go to New Orleans for the New Year's Day bowl game.

But if Auburn — which is on NCAA probation and ineligible for bowl participation — also beats Alabama, then Georgia would back into the Sugar Bowl, and the Crimson Tide might get shut out of a bowl altogether because by that late date, all the major pairings would be completed.

Alabama, sporting the nation's longest winning streak (18 games) and winners of 47 in a row at home, faces non-conference opponent Miami of Florida Saturday at Tuscaloosa.

"It is the opportunity of a lifetime," Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger said about playing the nation's No. 1 team and trying to beat Bear Bryant, his former coach in college and the man he once served under as an assistant.

Bryant said he was wary of the Hurricanes despite their 4-4 record, including a 26-10 upset over Penn State two weeks ago.

"Any time you win at Penn State, and they won going away, you have done something," Bryant said.

Saturday at 6 p.m. is the time when bowl invitations can be extended officially, and many of the choice spots will be filled then.

One bowl not worried about its matchup is the Rose. No. 4 Southern California, idle Saturday, will be the host team for the 10th time in the past 14 years if it beats UCLA next week. The other Rose Bowl participant will be either second-ranked Ohio State or No. 13 Michigan. The two Big Ten powerhouses meet Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Both coaches, Earle Bruce of Ohio State and Bo Schembecher of Michigan, agree that the game will hinge on defense.

"The defenses will be strong on both teams," said Schembecher.

"It's been three years since we've beaten Michigan," noted Bruce, in his first year as Ohio State coach after succeeding the controversial Woody Hayes, "three years since we scored a touchdown on them."

The other games involving Top Ten teams Saturday include Iowa State at No. 3 Nebraska, Memphis State at No. 5

Florida State, Texas Christian at No. 6 Texas, No. 7 Oklahoma at Missouri, No. 8 Arkansas at Texas A&M, and Utah at No. 10 Brigham Young. No. 9 Houston is idle.

In the Second Ten, it will No. 11 Pitt at Army, No. 12 Purdue at Indiana, No. 14 Clemson at Notre Dame, Washington State at No. 16 Washington, No. 17 Wake Forest at South Carolina, No. 18 Temple at Penn State, No. 19 Tennessee at Mississippi and Rice at No. 20 Baylor.

Arizona State Has More Woes; Ineligible Players Mean Forfeits

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Pacific-10 Conference ordered Arizona State to forfeit all of this season's league football victories in which eight ineligible players participated.

ASU, which had been 3-3 in Pac-10 play and 5-4 overall, now drops to 0-6 and 2-7, respectively.

One of ASU's conference victories was over Washington. But with the league ruling, the Huskies' 4-2 conference mark goes to 5-1, keeping Washington in the Rose Bowl race with the University of Southern California, which is 5-0-1.

An hour or so before the conference ruling Thursday night, ASU declared the eight players academically ineligible.

The players involved are line-backer Ben Apuna; defensive lineman Tony Baker; line-backer Louis Campitelli; offensive linemen Brad Igou and Kani Kauahi; running backs Arthur Lane and Alvin Moore; and wingback Ron Washington.

Apuna, Kauahi, and Washington were starters.

Jim Muldoon, Pac-10 spokesman, said the decision was reached in a conference telephone call between Pac-10 members and league officials.

Dr. Fred Miller, ASU athletic director, had announced earlier that Rocky Mountain College of Billings, Mont., had withdrawn transfer degree credit awarded to the eight players for an extension course taken last summer in Gardena, Calif.

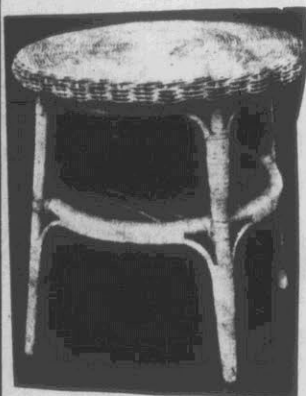

Miller said the credits were withdrawn because the players "voluntarily informed Rocky Mountain College that they failed to complete any of the requirements necessary to receive credit in the course or courses involved."

"The withdrawal of this credit renders the student athletes ineligible to participate in football contests for the remainder of the season unless and until eligibility is restored by the Pac-10 Conference," said Miller.

Miller said the ineligibility stemmed from the failure of each of the players to meet the conference progress rule, which requires 24 hours of degree credit to be earned in the preceding 12 calendar months.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

Dear Charlie:

In many ways, I am conservative in my approach to bridge. It seems to me that many of the newfangled conventions give away more than they gain. That is especially true in the play of the cards. Consider this hand from one of my team's matches in the Deauville event we won.

Our bidding needs some explanation. My response of one no trump to partner's major-suit opening bid was forcing for one round. North's rebid of two clubs might have been made on a three-card suit, and my rebid of two no trump described a balanced hand of 11-12 points. Out of respect for his excellent spade suit, partner now judged that his hand was worth a raise to game. The same contract was reached at the other table.

At both tables West led the jack of hearts. A glance at my opponents' convention card revealed that they were playing a modern system of opening leads. One feature of their methods was that against no trump, the lead of a jack denied a higher honor.

I had no problem. Since the king of hearts had to be with East, I played low from dummy and allowed the jack to win. West continued with the ten of hearts. I again played low from dummy, and captured East's king with the ace. It was a simple matter to force out the ace of clubs, and I ended up making ten tricks even though the spades did not run.

At the other table our partners did not have the "advantage" of being able to use such sophisticated opening lead methods. Here, too, West led the heart jack, but this could have been from either a suit headed by K-J-10 or simply J-10. Declarer delayed making a decision by ducking the first heart, but he faced the problem again when West continued with the ten. After some moments of agonized thought, declarer elected to put up dummy's queen. East covered with the king, and the contract could no longer be made.

If declarer won the ace, West would be able to run the hearts after getting in with the ace of clubs. Declarer made a valiant try by allowing the king of hearts to win, but East had no trouble finding the diamond shift, which defeated the hand two tricks.

Regards,
Omar

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Really good scary movies are constructed like roller coasters: Slow and uphill at the beginning, to set you up, then fast and terrifying the rest of the way.

This is the technique used in CBS' version of Stephen King's best-selling shocker, "Salem's Lot," except for one bothersome departure — the network bisected the movie for airing in two parts. Not just on separate nights, but on separate weeks.

Now that seems a little unfair. It's like getting on a giant coaster, enduring the long, slow ride up to that first peak, and then some guy stops the ride and tells you to come back next week for the rest.

Splitting "Salem's Lot" into two weeks isn't entirely fair to the movie, either. The first two-hour segment is very slow going, with at least 45 minutes of exposition before it gets close to the scary stuff. In fact, the first really scary part — the kind of scene that makes you pull your feet off the floor — doesn't come until the final few minutes of the first two hours.

That's no way to treat a horror movie, especially one with potential such as this. King's story is simple and classic horror: A writer, fascinated by childhood memories of the local haunted house, returns home to find that the place really is haunted.

The story employs the stock tools of the terror trade — vampires, crosses and the like — but takes such care in constructing a believable background and in developing the characters that the horror is all the more horrific once it starts.

In fact, the vampire chooses the tiny Maine village of Salem's Lot partly because of its wholesome insularity. The place is stocked with plenty of good red New England blood.

The good stuff starts when James Mason, the chief ghoul's advance man, hires a couple of trucker types to pick up a mysterious crate in nearby Bangor. The box transudes an eerie chill and moves by itself in the back of the truck. Guess what's in the box...

Anyway, as soon as the box arrives in Salem's Lot, folks start acting funny. Some become very active at night, while others rediscover religion.

Eventually comes the inevitable confrontation between good and evil, and the whole thing comes to a heartwarming conclusion. Actually, two conclusions.

There is one more ending, conjured up for the movie. See, the hero's girlfriend gets this wild, come-on look in her eyes, and the hero, his life at stake (so to speak) is faced with killing his true love or allowing her evil to be unleashed on the world.

David Soul, last seen frolicking as half of "Starsky and Hutch," turns in a solid, convincing performance as Ben Mears, the writer; and Mason is superbly sinister as the chief ghoul's human pal.

'Could Not' Be 'Deepthroat'

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — John Dean, once personal counsel to Richard Nixon, says the latest nominee for "Deep Throat" could not have been The Washington Post's source of information during the Watergate scandal.

Dean made the assertion Thursday when asked about a report that CIA agent Richard Ober provided information to reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein. Deborah Davis, in an unauthorized biography of Post owner Katharine Graham, says Ober — a classmate of Post editor Benjamin Bradlee — supplied the information that helped bring down the Nixon White House.

OPEN HOUSE

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Greenville Fire and Rescue will sponsor an open house Sunday 2-4 p.m. at the main station, Fifth and Greene Streets. The public is invited.

GAVE UP — Actress Farah Fawcett walked away from an appearance at a shopping center opening in Beaverton, Ore. after she was unable to make her way through the crowd. Escorts were unable to keep people from grabbing her, and as she left, a few people in the crowd held the door handles and tried to jump on the car. (AP Laserphoto)

Feud Over For Dolly, Porter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The feudin' and fussin' between Dolly Parton and Porter Wagoner is over — and they may even harmonize once more, their lawyers say.

Wagoner, who gave the blonde star her break in the business, sued Miss Parton for $3 million this year for alleged breach of contract, charging she owed him royalties on songs published by a house they own. Miss Parton said Wagoner intimidated her into making the agreement.

Wednesday afternoon they met, talked for three hours and settled their legal differences.

"After the proposals were reviewed and finally signed, both Porter and Dolly were obviously relieved," said Wagoner lawyer Tom White.

The lawyers issued a statement saying Wagoner dropped his suit and the county and western stars may record a duet album within the next year.

Diary Hints A Nixon Payoff

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — million in slot machine profits, according to the diary, were allegedly diverted from the (Las Vegas, Nev.) casinos during a 15-month period in 1972-73 to certain individuals, including Nixon, and used in various covert activities."

The Republic said the diary was turned over to authorities by Gerald Denono, who it described as "a Mafia hit man who currently is under federal protective custody following his conviction for slaying a former crime partner."

The Republic report could not be independently confirmed late Thursday.

FBI spokesman Otis Cox, contacted in Washington by The Associated Press, said, "I don't know anything about it. At this point, it would be handled by the local office."

Nixon was not available for comment.

MKHFFR-OEF MSEUR AHUZA O NHTFKSAU HZO HIINH TMA

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — YOUNG TURKS GORGE ON TOUGH HEN TURKEY.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: S equals T

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Economically, Bullish On N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Economically speaking, Gov. Jim Hunt is bullish on North Carolina, and he figures the prospects for increased foreign investment in the rest of the Southeast aren't bad either.

That was the picture Hunt, who returned last weekend from a three-week trip to the Far East, painted Thursday for participants in the Governor's Conference on Economic Development.

He labeled as "fantastic" the potential for North Carolina to benefit from heavy industrial investment by Japanese manufacturing companies. And he said the state should aggressively seek Japanese investment.

"The Southeast is the most attractive region in the world for the Japanese. And North Carolina has more to offer than any other state," he added.

Hunt also said there has been $5.6 billion invested by industry in the state since he took office in January 1977. He said the investments will create 87,000 new jobs.

He said much of that amount, $2.2 billion, has come during the first 10 months of this year, he said.

The governor could not help but return to the Japanese theme, however. He said Japanese investments in the United States will increase dramatically, and that North Carolina stands a good chance to receive much of that investment.

"Today, Japanese companies have about $4 billion invested in our nation. That should increase to $20 billion by 1985," Hunt said.

The governor said he has recommended North Carolina establish an office in Japan to help recruit business, similar to one already established in Germany.

"In the long run, I believe that our economic relations with Japan are far more important to us than any other single country in the world," he said.

The governor did not mention prospects for establishing trade with China, which he also visited. Hunt said before he left that the China trip was to establish contacts, and that no financial arrangements were in sight with that country.

INTRODUCING THE LOWEST PRICED FRONT WHEEL DRIVE.

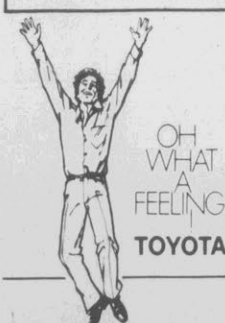

Corolla Tercel 2-Door Sedan. Lowest in price... and Toyota's highest in EPA mileage ratings. And there's plenty of room in this small car — as much front leg room as any other front wheel drive car of any size! Come see for yourself. You'll like the price and the long list of standard features that won't cost you extra.

Corolla Tercel 2-Door Sedan

33 EPA Estimated MPG
43 EPA Estimated Highway MPG

Remember: Compare this estimate to the EPA Estimated MPG of other vehicles. You may get different mileage depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and the length. Actual highway mileage will probably be less than the EPA Highway Estimate.

Corolla Tercel Standard features that don't cost you extra:

- Front wheel drive 1.5 liter 4-cylinder SOHC engine
- 4-speed synchromesh transmission
- Power-assisted front disc/rear drum brakes
- Steel-belted radial ply tires
- Side window defoggers
- Reclining hi-back front bucket seats
- Fully transistorized ignition system
- MacPherson strut front suspension
- Welded unitized body construction
- Power-assisted Flo-thru ventilation
- And more... and more...
