Carter Convenes Iran Crisis Advisers

By ROBERT B. CULLEN Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter met with his top military and foreign policy advisers for more than two hours today and warned Iran's leader that harming a single American hostage would produce "extremely grave" retaliation.

report but that the United States is keeping diplomatic channels open and "there may be some encouragement from the fact that they are still active." In response to reporters' questions, Powell said the administration remains firm in its refusal to turn over the former shah, who is undergoing cancer treatment in New York.

in Iran would kill their hostages and blow up the building if the United States attacks Iran. Powell noted that the militants themselves had said the same thing earlier. "It really makes no difference who says it or how many times it is said," he said, adding that U.S. policy is unchanged.

They arrived at Carter's mountaintop retreat by helicopter and after the meeting returned to Washington. Also present at Camp David were White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan and Press Secretary Powell. Powell would not give a list of all those who took part in the meeting.

Khomeini Asks Common Front Against 'Infidel'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has fired a new salvo at the United States, calling on all Moslems and American blacks to rise and "join us in this struggle between the infidel and Islam."

if the United States attempts to rescue them by force. The Carter administration said earlier this week that it hoped to end the standoff peacefully but had "other remedies" available.

Moslem armies, all Islamic security forces and all Moslem countries' presidents to co-operate with our nation," Khomeini said. "This is not a struggle between us and America. It is between Islam and the infidel."

Khomeini also welcomed the wave of anti-Americanism in Pakistan and urged the Pakistani army to "rise against the oppression inflicted on their brothers" in Iran.

If an attack occurs, Khomeini said, "Our young men have announced... they would blow up the embassy with everything in it. Should this happen, we cannot restrain those who have lived under oppression for 50 years."

"They must not be afraid," Khomeini added, "thinking that America is a big power that it is a satanic power which can destroy everything in a single day. This is propaganda. America cannot use its power against Moslems."

Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr announced Iran will not pay its foreign debts, which he put at $15 billion, CBS News reported. CBS quoted the minister as saying Iran was planning to totally change its banking system.

In his speech, Khomeini said he read in a newspaper that "all the people of Pakistan are reported to have risen against America. This is good news for our oppressed people, for they realize they are not alone. Moslems must become a single hand."

Khomeini added that "American blacks who have been subject to U.S. oppression are now in accord with us. Even they might rise. At such a sensitive time, when we are standing up against America and its satanic plots, they must agree with us and cooperate with us."

The commander of Iran's navy, ordered put his forces on full alert to counter the approach of American warships, dispatched to the Indian Ocean, south of Iran, by President Carter.

A Moslem mob sacked the U.S. Embassy in the Pakistani capital of Islamabad on Wednesday. The attack was fueled by rumor that the United States was behind the seizure of Islam's holiest shrine, the Grand Mosque of Mecca in Saudi Arabia.

Meanwhile, a secret document obtained by The Associated Press suggested that the United States planned to grant permanent residence to deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now receiving cancer treatment in New York, as early as last summer, while admitting Iranian officials "may not like" the idea.

JURY DUTY PAY If you're required to be on jury duty for a week and you work for a company on an hourly basis, is that company obligated to pay you for your time off work? I realize you get $8 a day for jury duty, but that hardly even pays for your meal in town and doesn't cover your day care if you have children. Since it is a duty you can't get out of, why shouldn't your employer be required to pay you? L. S.

Many employers do, but according to the State Attorney General's Office, there is no state law which requires it. Some states do require it by law, we understand. Anyone who has strong feelings on the subject either way should contact his or her legislators. Rep. Sam D. Bundy tells Hotline that there has been some discussion in the General Assembly of this very thing, "but it has not come into fruition."

PLEASE CALL Would the person who called the Hotline recorder commenting on "the media's attempt to classify and join the Black civil rights movement with the Communist movement" please call back. We'd like a name and phone number (at home and at work) so we can contact him.

Saudis Regain Mecca Shrine From Gunmen

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Saudi troops regained full control of the Grand Mosque of Mecca today and were in hot pursuit of the last of the Moslem extremists who besieged the building for three days, the Saudi information minister announced.

gunmen unsuccessfully tried to occupy the Prophet's Mosque in Medina at the same time as the occupation of the Mecca mosque at dawn Tuesday.

Mohammad Abdo Yamani said in a statement broadcast by Riyadh state radio that "security at the Grand Mosque has been re-established...and security forces now are in complete control of the entire mosque and are pursuing the remaining criminal elements to arrest them."

In what appeared to be an exaggerated report, a Kuwaiti newspaper said 600 persons were killed in fighting between the gunmen and Saudi troops. Several Egyptian pilgrims reported there were "scores of dead and wounded".

Earlier, officials vowed harsh punishment for the gunmen who seized Islam's holiest shrine.

Other mandatory measures to reduce oil consumption could include lighting and temperature controls, he told reporters during an airborne news conference.

Saudi Arabia "will not tolerate any seditious act, and will not be lenient with any group provoking such acts, whatever its color or the color of those hiding behind it," Saudi Information Minister Mohammad Abdo Yamani said Thursday after the government announced it had regained "complete control" of the situation.

The gift was announced by ECU Vice Chancellor for Institutional Advancement and Planning, Donald L. Lemish. Lemish lauded the generosity of the donor, Edgar Quinton Davis and his wife, Joyce, of Wichita, Kans.

The 200 gunmen who stormed the mosque Tuesday, when it was filled with pilgrims celebrating the eve of the 15th Islamic century, "will face Islamic justice, which is against corruption on earth," said Foreign Minister Prince Saud AlFaisal. Saudi Arabia takes the Islamic holy book, the Koran, as law.

Davis, a native of Martin County, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Edgar Davis of Hamilton, and received his bachelor's and master's degrees in chemistry at East Carolina. Davis now is president of Koch Industries Inc., of Wichita.

Authorities said two civilians died and eight others were wounded in the Tuesday attack, but there was no overall official casualty count. Egyptian newspapers, meanwhile, quoted a report by Radio Monte Carlo, attributed to Western diplomats in Jidda, as saying

Lemish and Davis indicated that an additional portion of the Davis gem collection may be donated to ECU at some later date. "I am pleased to be able to do this," Davis said. "It is always satisfying to be able

Mandatory Oil Controls Said A Possible Measure

LONDON (AP) - U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said today that President Carter may propose mandatory measures to reduce American oil consumption next year.

Miller, en route to the Middle East on a six-day trip, said the mandatory measures could include ones aimed at curtailing the use of cars by rationing gasoline, increasing gasoline taxes or other steps he did not specify.

control inflation, including efforts to support the dollar, will be frustrated." The Associated Press learned a week ago that an inter-agency task force was working on options for conserving oil for the president to look at, but Miller's statement was the strongest yet by a high official that mandatory measures are being seriously considered.

Miller plans to spend three days in Saudi Arabia, his first stop, and then continue to Abu Dhabi and Kuwait. All three nations are considered moderates in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. His plane stopped here to refuel. The OPEC nations will meet in Caracas, Venezuela, on Dec. 17 to consider another increase in oil prices which already have gone up more than 60 percent this year.

Gem Collection Donated To ECU By '65 Grad

ECU News Bureau A 1965 graduate who now heads a multi-billion dollar international chemicals company has given his alma mater, East Carolina University, a collection of gems with an estimated market value of $60,000.

The collection consists of both precious and semi-precious stones including amethysts, blue sapphires, blue topaz, topaz, gray and white opals, tourmaline, peridot, labradorite and others. It will be used at least for a number of years for instructional purposes in the Department of Geology, ECU officials said.

Scholarship at ECU to aid a junior or senior majoring in science, in honor of Davis' former professor and close friend in the chemistry department here.

Miller said it would be unrealistic not to expect OPEC to vote some additional increase in oil prices.

Updating Volume

The task for updating the 1980 edition of the Greenville area City Directory has begun and local canvassers are calling area residents and businesses to obtain information for it. There is no charge for this listing.

The new directory will have five sections — the preface of which contains historical and civic information; the classified business section containing display information about leading business firms of the area; the telephone locator with numbers arranged in numerical sequence; a street guide with names of all householders arranged by house numbers; and an alphabetical listing of residents who work and live in the Greenville area.

The City Directory is updated every two years by Johnson Publishing Company, second largest publisher of city directories in the United States. Betty Mize, Rt. 4, is coordinator.

$7,195 Pledge To United Way

The Staton Plant of TRW, Inc. has pledged a total of $7,195.08 to the Pitt County United Way following its first campaign drive.

The Greenville facility, having established its offices here in April, 1979, had some 87 of its 95 employees participate in the United Way drive.

The drive was conducted by Staton Plant Manager R. J.

"Dick" Hybil. Hybil has been very active in United Way drives, having worked with campaigns at the TRW Rogersville, Tenn. site.

"We're deeply gratified at third generous participation by TRW," said 1979 campaign chairman Thomas Brewer. "The management and employees deserve everyone's appreciation and congratulations for achieving almost 100 per cent participation."

The Staton Plant is a member of TRW's Michigan Division, headquartered in Sterling Heights, Mich. The Michigan Division is responsible for supplying automotive steering and chassis components. The Staton facility is a major component supplier for rack and pinion steering gears. Both Michigan Division and the Staton Plant are members of Automotive Worldwide, a large operating unit of TRW Inc.

Life Sentence For One In Mountbatten's Death

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrilla Thomas McMahon, 31, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the assassination of Lord Louis Mountbatten, a cousin of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, in the Irish Republic three months ago.

Another defendant, 24-year-old Francis McGill, was found innocent of the slaying. But the three judges at the Special Criminal Court ordered him to stand trial Jan. 21 on charges of belonging to the outlawed IRA's Provisional wing. He was freed on bail of 1,000 pounds, or $2,160.

Presiding Judge Ian Hamilton refused to allow McMahon, a longtime Provisional IRA explosives specialist, to appeal the life sentence. Both men had denied they killed 79-year-old soldier-statesman Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the most prominent Briton to be slain by Irish terrorists in this century. He was blown up in his boat.

Detectives said they are still hunting for at least five other men involved in the killing.

The Mountbatten assassination was the most sensational attack staged by the IRA and has led to a major tightening of security in Ireland as well as increased cooperation between the British and Irish governments to curb the guerrillas.

The IRA, an almost exclusively Roman Catholic movement, is fighting to end British rule in largely Protestant Northern Ireland and to reunite it with the overwhelmingly Catholic Republic. Ireland was partitioned in 1922.

Mountbatten was killed

Aug. 27 when IRA terrorists blew up his 27-foot lobster boat, Shadow V, in Donegal Bay where the British peer and his family were vacationing.

Also slain were: Mountbatten's 15-year-old grandson, Nicholas Knatchbull; Lady Brabourne, Mountbatten's daughter's mother-in-law; and a 15-year-old boatboy. The Provisional IRA claimed responsibility.

McMahon and McGill were arrested by chance at a police roadblock several hours before the radio-detonated bomb exploded. Police said the pair planted the powerful bomb, leaving it for other IRA men to detonate.

Judge Hamilton said McMahon was convicted on forensic evidence that proved he had been aboard Mountbatten's boat.

Dark Horse

Franklin Pierce, who was born 175 years ago today, was considered a "dark horse" when the Democratic Party nominated him for president in 1852. A dark horse is a candidate who is not expected to win, but who picks up unexpected support. When the 1852 Democratic convention began, the strongest presidential candidates were Illinois Senator Stephen Douglas and three former Cabinet officials. But none of them could get enough votes to win the nomination. Pierce, a former U.S. senator and army officer, started getting votes on the 35th ballot. On the 49th ballot, the delegates nominated Pierce almost unanimously. Pierce went on to win the election, becoming the country's 14th president.

Her Children At Gunpoint

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police maintained a vigil today outside an apartment in a north Philadelphia housing project where an armed woman was holding two of her six children at gunpoint.

Sandra Spicer, 35, had taken the children hostage shortly after 2:30 p.m. Thursday during a dispute with her father, police said. The hostages were identified as Renette Johnson, 19, and Donald Johnson, 12, children by a previous marriage.

Police, who were negotiating with the woman by telephone, said she was armed with a .32-caliber revolver and was demanding to see President Carter or Mayor Frank Rizzo.

The standoff began when Mrs. Spicer barricaded herself and the two children in her father's third-floor apartment at Harrison Plaza, a 15-story high-rise public housing project, police said.

Apple Juice Is Popular Drink

Nearly 42 million gallons of apple juice, made from about 12 million bushels of apples, make their way into American homes each year. Apple juice is the same product as sweet cider but is often clarified, say specialists with the NC Agricultural Extension Service. Most of the suspended apple solids, which give sweet apple cider its cloudy, opaque appearance, have been removed and the juice is pasteurized to destroy fermentation and spoilage microorganisms. It is then hermetically sealed or vacuum packed for preservation. Unopened, apple juice needs no refrigeration and will keep well for a year or longer. Once opened, it should be refrigerated or it will lose flavor and spoil.

An Available Building Helps

A local construction firm is building a speculative industrial building here.

The 40,000 square foot facility, which can be expanded up to 200,000 square feet, is an important tool in the Pitt County efforts to bring in desirable industry and thus create jobs.

One such building has been constructed in the past and is now occupied by a thriving industry. In addition at least three other industries have come to the county to occupy buildings vacated by manufacturing concerns.

Frequently industries are ready to move when the decision is made to locate in a community. If a building is available the industry can get into production quickly.

We would not be surprised if the building to be constructed by J. H. Hudson, Inc. is not sold before it is completed.

Gasoline; At Least For This Holiday

News reports indicated that adequate gasoline was available in the nation over the Thanksgiving holidays.

That was fortunate, for Thanksgiving is a time of travel as hundreds of thousands return to their original homes for family reunions.

There are clouds hanging over the tradition, however, as gas supplies become steadily more threatened. With the troubles in the Middle East severe shortages may be in the future.

For this holiday, traveling by car is possible and many Americans are taking advantage of the opportunity.

THIS AFTERNOON

Opportunities Available

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — When researchers recently interviewed more than 1,400 young North Carolinians about school and making a living later in life, the most shocking finding was that so many are ignorant of the opportunities already available.

tion; a corps of counselors in the schools, local employment offices, and governmental job-training programs; and constant public attention to the subject.

Unemployed

Doing the survey for the North Carolina Employment and Training Council, Research Triangle surveyors concentrated on young people between ages 14 and 21. Among those out of school and trying to make a living, unemployment is at least twice as high as in the general population, said Alvin Cruze, survey director.

The problem is especially severe with non-white youths. Unemployment among out-of-school white males is just over seven percent, and is above 10 percent for white females. For non-whites, however, the rate is more than 23 percent for both male and female.

Nancy Paulson, who designed the data analysis and wrote the report, says the most serious step toward easing the problem is to keep young people from dropping out of high school.

One of the questions explored was why students quit school. About half of the dropouts said they left because they simply disliked school.

BILL NOBLITT

But even disliking high school and the traditional courses of study overlooks the numerous alternatives already in place, and others being devised.

Good skill training through the community college system, Cruze suggests, is an important way to ease the transition of students from school to work. This calls for matching programs at community colleges to skills needed in the state's labor market.

The survey found that the community colleges and technical institutes — and other training programs — apparently are failing to inform the young people of the educational opportunities that are available.

Among the recommendations to resolve this problem are outreach programs and counseling to inform young people of the opportunities, and a public information campaign to stress the relationship between training and better jobs.... to help young people see the connection between better schooling and higher pay.

School Work

The survey also disclosed that nearly half of the young people who are students also hold jobs, either part-time during the school term, or during summer holidays.

Asked why they worked, more than 95 percent said it was to have extra spending money. Almost two-thirds said a major reason to work while still in school was to gain job experience. The study also demonstrated that those who got such work experience had better success getting another job and received higher pay later on. Many students considered their job an investment for the future.

Only 10 percent of the students holding jobs while enrolled in school said they worked to help support their families.

The Thanksgiving Story

Cher Monsieur, I am a little French girl named Virginie. My assignment is to explain your Thanksgiving Day to my quatrieme class. Au secours, s'il vous plait!

One of our most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day, known in France as le Jour de Merci Donnant.

Le Jour de Merci Donnant was first started by a group of Pilgrims (Pelerins) who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the New World (le Nouveau Monde), where they could shoot Indians (les Peaux-Rouges) and eat turkey (dinde) to their heart's content.

They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous voiture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower or Fleur de Mai in 1620. But while the Pelerins were killing the dinde, the Peaux-Rouges were killing the Pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the Peaux-Rouges helped the Pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn (mais). The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their Pelerins.

In 1623, after another harsh year, the Pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more mais was raised by the Pelerins than Peaux-Rouges.

Every year on le Jour de Merci Donnant, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.

It concerns a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres Deboutish) and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation). The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant:

Ire Of Sister Kane

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 AP Special Correspondent
 RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Sister Teresa Kane, the mod nun in mufti who told off the pope during his visit to our shores, has announced she will not attend Mass or receive Communion at any service retaining sexist language in the liturgy.

Her ire is aimed at the masculine ring to rubrics like the Apostles Creed: "for us men and for our salvation, He came down from heaven" and the Eucharistic prayers at Mass repeating Christ's words that the cup of His blood "will be shed for you and for all men so that sins may be forgiven."

Citizen Kane inaugurated her liturgical boycott after the Catholic bishops of America at their semi-annual meeting declined to substitute people or persons or some such noun in the traditional prayers.

Her stand must have brought a fervent "A-person" from the more militant members of the sisterhood who were miffed when the pope suggested they get back into uniform and forget about becoming priests, at least during his tenure in the Apostolic Palace.

Sister Kane, whom the media invariably identify "as the highest ranking nun in the land," an eminence that does not exist, probably will also be tuning out the various versions of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" on the tube this season for the same reason. The sexually degrading morale here is revealed early in the first stave, as Dickens called his chapters, when Jacob Marley, dead seven years, rattles his chains of greed forged of old cash boxes, padlocks, ledgers and the like.

"But you were always a good man of business," protests Scrooge.

"Mankind was my business," replies the ghost. Marley did not say "personkind" was his business, or the ghosts of Chaucer, Marlowe, Milton and Shakespeare might have rattled their chains too.

John Steinbeck likewise must

To the editor:

I think I understand "The Daily Reflector's" need to write eye-catching headlines. But I do not understand why the headline above the School Board article in Tuesday's paper (City School Food Service Reported Suffering Deficit) had to be misleading.

The headline suggests that some kind of economic tragedy is about to take place in the Food Service budget, that is suffering a "deficit" much in the same way that someone might be reported as suffering from a terminal illness. Yet my impression at the meeting was quite the opposite. I understood that the Food Service budget was in fair shape, with the only "problem" being a lag in the receipt of USDA funds. In fact, I recall Glenn Cox emphasizing that the problem was one of "cash flow," not "deficit." But I suppose that "deficit" is more effective in raising something of this nature to headline status.

The article itself reflects a basic misunderstanding of the Food Service figures. Mr. Raynor reports a total "deficit" of $1,279.41, but fails to note the offsetting inventory assets of over $46,000. He also lists $17,000 as a separate "debt" when, according to Linda Tingle (the Food Service supervisor), that amount is actually accounted for in the total expenditures.

Consequently, the article makes it difficult for operating in a cost-effective manner this year, but that it has also $30,000. And the food isn't bad either.

"The Daily Reflector" seems to have missed an opportunity to report on the careful and responsible handling of public money by the Greenville City Schools. I think we have a right to ask that the newspaper be equally careful and responsible in its reporting.

Half of U.S. Ate Turkey

Families in 25 states sat down yesterday at the "first table" of the nation's dual Thanksgiving joining in President Roosevelt's expressed hope that the world soon would be at peace.

The "second table" will not be served until next Thursday in states where governors declined to follow the president's decision to advance the holiday a week.

Despite the confusion over the dates, there was unanimity in pulpits and in quiet households in echoing Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation: "Let us give thanks to the ruler of the universe — for the hope that lives within us of the coming day when peace and the protective activities of peace shall reign on every continent."

Mr. Roosevelt carved a big turkey at the Warm Springs, Ga. infantile paralysis foundation.

INSIDE REPORT

Carter Needs A Strategy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — When presidential anger over outrageous anti-American diatribes pouring from clandestine transmitters in Baku to Iran boiled over, Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, traveled three blocks up 16th street for a nonsensical luncheon with Anatoly Dobrynin at the Soviet Embassy.

That Brzezinski's unannounced Nov. 12 complaint to the Russian envoy was clearly needed is beyond debate. It was essential to warn Moscow about its "Voice of Iran" campaign to incite Iranian radicals against the U.S. — with its contemptuous reference to "the conspiratorial Brzezinski."

But Brzezinski's complaint is stamped with the same brand that has distinguished so many of Carter's actions in the Iranian crisis. That is the brand of reaction and response, as contrasted to what so clearly seems needed: a new Carter strategy to deal with a new kind of crisis unprecedented in world history — the virtual hijacking of the American Embassy in Tehran.

Indeed, the transition of Carter from the hand-wringing phase that marked the first few days of the crisis (during which he made the spurned offering of Ramsey Clark to the radicals running Iran), to the decisive action on Iranian oil, Iranian students and Iranian assets was not the result of any careful new strategy. It was born instead directly out of the torrent of political complaints that poured into Carter's White House demanding that the flag be shown.

"Once he felt that heat," a White House insider told us, "he knew he had to get tougher, if not really tough."

The "tougher" Carter amazed officials both in and outside the White House. For example, when the question first arose of action against the Iranian students — a natural result of the anti-American demonstrations in the streets of American cities — Carter quickly overruled cautious legal advisers.

The president was told that precious legal precedents were involved in dealing too quickly or harshly with the Iranian students. He brushed that aside, insisting that Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti root out all students who had violated the terms of the entry visas and start deportation proceedings against them.

Likewise, when Carter raised the question of ending U.S. purchases of Iranian oil, some State Department officials sought delay, asking serious questions not about legality but about the impact on other oil producers. Brushing aside all such caution, Carter told one aide: "I want it done."

Such gestures as these were praised by politicians of both parties. They marked a clear departure from the hand-wringing phase. What the politicians do not know, however, is that Carter is still reacting and responding, escalating his reactions somewhat each day as the hijackers continue to hold their hostages and the tension rises. But if the president has decided to adopt a true strategy, as opposed to the tactics of minor daily escalation, it is the best-kept secret in Washington.

For example, a strong proposal privately submitted to the administration two weeks ago by Sen. Richard Stone of Florida, the chairman of the Mideast-subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, seems to have disappeared without notice in the suggestion box at the State Department. Stone's

Strength For Today

NOT BY ITSELF

According to the great Italian poet, Dante, just outside the boundaries of hell is a region for people who did nothing good enough to get them into heaven, and nothing evil enough to send them to hell. As Dante describes it, this region is very heavily populated.

The crowded condition of this mythical territory reflects the frequency with which we meet the sort of person whom Dante would put there: the person who will never commit himself. What is left of his conscience can keep him away from the most reprehensible kind of evil actions, but is not strong enough to impel him toward good actions.

People of this kind often delude themselves into believing that they are ready to do good deeds whenever the opportunity presents itself. But somehow, it never does.

There is an old English proverb which would help this type of person if he would only take it to heart. "The good can ne'er conquer by itself!"

Women Slave In The Kitchen

By GAIL MICHAELS
 When the word "Thanksgiving" is said, a sentimental picture usually comes to mind, of Pilgrim and Indian men and women preparing a feast together in recognition of God's bounty and of the unity of all mankind.

Of course, that Thanksgiving occurred before the establishment of the Department of the Interior and the advent of television.

Thanks to television, men have all but abdicated their role in Thanksgiving. Yesterday, millions of American families acted out a modern Thanksgiving scenario in which the women slaved in the kitchen all day while the men sat like goalposts in front of the TV set.

Far be it from me to criticize such a venerated custom, but I can see why some women are less than thankful during this holiday season. Undoubtedly, there are a few who would even pass Howard Cosell off as the turkey if they could.

No one who has never tried it can appreciate the difficulty of preparing a feast of Thanksgiving proportions, particularly when the chef has to compete for compliments with the Dallas Cowgirls. The most difficult item on the menu is the turkey. Fortunately, the supermarkets have saved women from having to go out and shoot their own. Still, the Pilgrim method of impaling the turkey on a stick and roasting it over an open fire seems easier than the method the cookbook outlines.

I cooked my first turkey a couple of weeks ago. But before I could start, I had to take a few steps not covered in the cookbooks. I had to buy a new broiler pan because the one in which I broil hot dogs was not big enough. I also had to clean out my oven. For a month it had caught fire every time I had cooked in it, and I figured I had better not chance a conflagration with a four hour bird.

When I finally got around to the cookbook, it sounded more like a sewing project than a recipe. I had to stuff two cavities, sew an opening together, attach the tail to the neck, and tie the legs together.

I have always been one for shortcuts. Having noticed that a metal clasp provided by the packer seemed to be doing all this and more, I just left it in. Next, I began a search for the giblets I was supposed to remove. Although I found a long, red skinny thing that looked like a Hartz Mountain chewy, I couldn't find the liver and all that other good stuff. I concluded that the packer must have left the innards out.

Then, because I could only find one cavity, I concluded that perhaps this turkey was merely of lower anatomical complexity than the ordinary bird. So I stuffed that one cavity and shoved in a whole onion to secure the opening.

Four hours later the turkey was a beautiful golden brown. And I was feeling pretty proud of myself until Phillip, who was doing the carving, said, "I think I found that wishbone cavity you were looking for. It's the one that's stuffed with the paper packet of giblets."

Yesterday, the entire family had at least one thing to be thankful for. I watched television while Phillip's mother cooked the turkey.

New Professor For Med School

Dr. David H. Hollander has been appointed professor of pathology and laboratory medicine at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Formerly associate professor of pathology and medicine at The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Hollander is internationally recognized for his research on venereal disease, particularly syphilis. He has conducted extensive studies on the various forms of venereal disease and the microorganisms responsible for the infections.

The results of his research have been widely published in professional journals.

Hollander will be developing a cytopathology section for the medical school's Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine. For the past 15 years, he has specialized in cytopathology and been associate chief of cytopathology and associate director of the School of Cytopathology at Johns Hopkins.

Hollander has served as pathologist for The Johns Hopkins Hospital and was responsible for the development of a pathology lab for the state chronic disease hospitals in Maryland. He also has held a faculty appointment at the University of Maryland.

He received his undergraduate and medical degrees from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

He completed his internship and residency at Baltimore City Hospitals.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 24, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is best for constructive activity. You would be wise not to discard a carefully laid plan of the past. Keep cheerful despite some depressing thoughts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day for personal aims but fine for handling public duties. Try not to argue with family members or you could regret it later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your ideas are good in the morning but guard against possible quarrel with a friend later in the day. Be poised.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle regular chores early in the day so you'll have more time for social activities later. Relax in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure not to react bitterly to remarks of a careless person and upset present harmony. Establish more order around you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Don't lose your temper over a situation that you can do little about.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal morning to plan the amusements that appeal to you for the future, and then handle tasks ahead of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study what can be done to improve a situation at home. A wiser attitude toward mate beings excellent results now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle personal chores early in the day, and then you can devote your time to being with family and friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Financial affairs require your undivided attention in the morning. Later engage in recreational activities you enjoy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of personal matters in the morning, then figure out how to improve your surroundings. Express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make concrete plans to gain your most cherished wishes. Later take time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look to a very serious friend for help you need in the morning, then rid yourself of stumbling blocks in your path.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one with a brilliant mind and who can pick a vocation that is most suitable. Begin religious training early and permit to participate in healthful sports. Education should be directed along lines of helping others.

elegant language, he blurted out his mission. Priscilla was muted with amazement and sorrow (rendue muette par l'etonnement et la tristesse).

At length she exclaimed, interrupting the ominous silence: "If the great captain of Plymouth is so very eager to wed me, why does he not come himself and take the trouble to woo me?" (Ou est-il, le vieux Kilometre Pourquoi ne vient-il pas aupres de moi pour tenter sa chance?)

Jean said that Kilometres Deboutish was very busy and didn't have time for those things. He staggered on, telling her what a wonderful husband Kilometres would make. Finally Priscilla arched her eyebrows and said in a tremulous voice: "Why don't you speak for yourself, Jean?" (Chacun a son gout.)

And so, on the fourth Thursday in November, American families sit down at a large table brimming with tasty dishes, and for the only time during the year eat better than the French do.

No one can deny that le Jour de Mercei Donnant is a grand fete and no matter how well fed American families are, they never forget to give thanks to Kilometres Deboutish, who made this great day possible.

be on the good nun's index of male chauvinist publications, along with the authors of the Douay Bible, the Baltimore Catechism or whoever promulgated those prayers that begin "remember, man, that thou art dust..." Steinbeck was born too soon and became famous too fast to realize that his touching tale of Lennie asking George to tell him about the rabbits should have been entitled "Of Mice and Persons."

At the risk of being barbeducued alive in a revamped edition of Charles Lamb's "Dissertation on a Roast Male Chauvinist Pig," I am boldly belaboring the point for Sister Kane and her strident sisterhood that their rejection of a phrase like "Christ died for all men" in liturgy of the Catholic Church and indeed in all but the most extravagantly modern vulgarizations of the New Testament is a complete misreading of the Queen's English, or, to avoid sexist language, the House of Mountbatten-Windsor's English.

Man, men, mankind are generic terms for all God's creatures with souls or all Darwinian anthropoid mutations showing exceptional intelligence, depending on your frame of orthodoxy.

proposal: Move the U.S. immediately into a new, closer pattern of cooperation with Arab states around Iran's borders — including militant Iraq.

Iraq and the smaller Arab emirates that lie across the Persian Gulf from Iran have always feared Iranian power. Stone told State Department officials that despite the unconnected problem of the Arab-Israeli dispute, in which Iraq is an anti-Israel leader, the U.S. could find a new relationship with the Persian Gulf Arab world built on a common policy toward Iran.

Nor has Carter come to grips with the shrill, dangerous anti-American Soviet campaign being waged by the clandestine "Voice of Iran" radio broadcasts from Baku, near the Soviet border with Iran. Using an ugly invective to incite public opinion against Uncle Sam, these broadcasts are part and parcel of Soviet foreign policy.

On Nov. 12, "Voice of Iran" trumpeted that to "induce" the U.S. to accept Iranian demands, "even potentialities and means more effective than the present measures (that is, occupation of the American Embassy) must be used."

Such crude invitations to violence against the U.S. would seem to require more than an informal protest, even by Brzezinski and even if harmful to Carter's hopes for Senate approval of the new strategic arms treaty (SALT II).

Yet, nothing that looks like a new strategy to deal with new international crimes is visible. It would start with a buildup of the nation's fallen military powers, but the word at high White House levels points just the opposite direction: business as usual.

70-pound pig for nearly an hour before bagging him. "I brought forth on his feet a little bit, you know, like an elephant does in him home, but then I didn't a circus. I guess you would call it a pig jig."

He said he still has no idea where the pig came from. Meanwhile, the porker, now named "Hamlet," is the hit of the Murphy home.

"Everyone in the neighborhood knows we've got him and they have all come to call. But we still don't know where Hamlet belongs," Murphy said. "I know he has to go, but we are getting kind of attached. A while ago, he danced back and

Surprised In The Way His Son Died

SPRING LAKE, N.C. (AP) — Edmond Polinski was not surprised when he learned his son, Bryan Ellis, an Army warrant officer, had been killed. But the retired Army master sergeant says he was surprised at the way in which his son died.

Ellis was a soldier — like his father. So Polinski, who now lives in Spring Lake, knew that death in the service of the United States was a possibility.

But he had not expected to be told that his son's charred body had been found in his fire-gutted apartment in the compound of the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan. Ellis was one of two American servicemen killed during a mob attack on the embassy earlier this week.

Ellis, 29, was a veteran combat pilot with 11 year military service. He left Fort Bragg in April to serve as a flying chauffeur for the embassy crew.

"We had an understanding. We knew about the job of being a soldier," Polinski said. "But who would ever figure that a guy who flies airplanes would die like that over there?"

Polinski learned of his son's death at 7 a.m. Thanksgiving Day when a call came from the State Department.

Ellis' wife, Brenda, and his 6-year-old son, Chris, were rescued before the mob attacked the family quarters.

In Mobile, Ala., another career soldier also received an early-morning phone call from the State Department. Erwin H. Ellis, formerly of Swansboro, said he could find no meaning in the death of the stepson he adopted at age 9.

"We have lost respect," said Ellis, a Marine veteran of World War II, Korea and Vietnam. "I'd like to go back to Teddy Roosevelt — walk softly, but carry a big stick. When something gets out of hand, this country should take the stick and rap it on their shins to get their attention."

Bryan Ellis was not at the embassy when his family was removed. Polinski said he still doesn't know where his son was when the family was evacuated.

He said that is just one example of the lack of information he has received. After the early-morning call, Polinski said he called the State Department twice and talked to a Pentagon general.

But, he said, "I still don't know anything. I found out more through the news media than I learned from the State Department."

He said someone in Pakistan tried to call him twice Thursday, but communications broke down both times.

"I imagine it was about Brenda and Chris coming home," he said.

Polinski is to fly to Washington today with an escort officer from Fort Bragg to meet his son's wife and child.

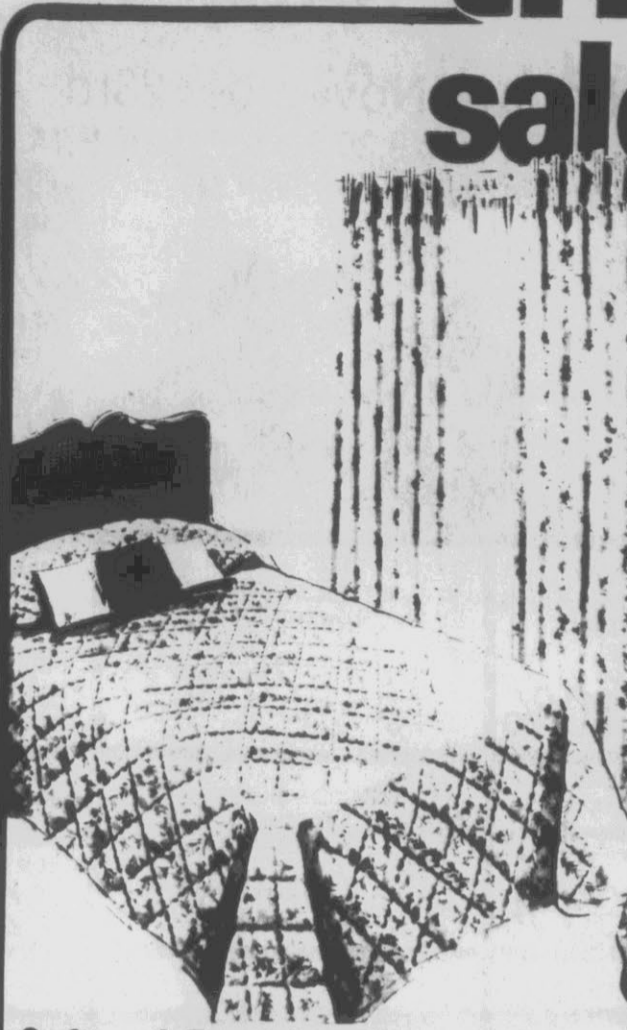

Ellis and his wife were high school sweethearts in Swansboro, where he was born and raised. After he graduated 11 years ago, he joined the Army like his father before him.

Mild Winter Is Forecast By Goose Bone

ROCK HALL, Md. (AP) — Preston Shallcross says his Thanksgiving Day goose tells him it's going to be a mild winter.

Shallcross, 97, predicts the weather by examining the breastbone of his holiday feast. The lighter the color of the bone, the warmer the winter will be, he says.

This year's goose, carved Wednesday night, was "one of the lightest I've ever seen, except toward the end where it gets very dark," said Shallcross. That dark splotch could be a blemish on the forecast. Shallcross said the mild weather might last into February, when it will turn colder.

The family technique may draw chuckles from meteorologists who are predicting another harsh winter for Maryland, but those who know Shallcross say his forecast is generally a good bet.

"He has come pretty close the last couple of years," said W. James Milliken, a local agricultural extension agent.

Researcher Will Speak

Dr. Richard E. Wilson, professor of surgery at Harvard Medical School, will speak at a meeting of Sigma Xi chapter at East Carolina University Thursday, Nov. 29.

Dr. Wilson is internationally recognized for his research in cancer and transplantation surgery. His presentation, "Endocrine Manipulation of the Cancer Cell," will deal with the latest findings on how hormones can be used to halt the progress of cancer.

Sigma Xi is a national honorary scientific society. The meeting will be held from 8 to 9 p. m. in the School of Nursing auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

CETA Funds Train Students

The Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) provides funds to train and educate financially disadvantaged students attending the Pitt County Extended Day School.

Extended Day students attend classes from 4-7:30 p.m. each day, and are available to work in private employment during daytime hours. Private employers provide a supervised training position paying minimum wages, with CETA reimbursing half of the student's wages for a period up to 44 weeks.

Employers interested in participating in this program should contact the School, 758-2085, and ask for Irene Hanifer, principal, or Bob Fuller, job counselor.

Evangelist Will Speak Federal Funds Diverted To Desegregating North

REV. RICHARD CORDELL

The Rev. Roger Tripp, pastor of Grace F. W. B. Church, invites the public to attend a revival Nov. 25-30, featuring the Rev. Richard Cordell of Guin, Ala. as evangelist.

A graduate of the Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tenn., the Rev. Cordell serves as president of the Liberty Christian Academy, and pastor of the Guin F. W. B. Church. He is the founder of the Alabama Bible Institute.

Grace Church is located on the corner of Watauga and Halifax Streets. There will be nightly special singing, and a nursery provided for children. Services begin each night at 7:30 p.m.

By The Associated Press
The federal government has decided that the South is further along in public school desegregation than the North so its diverting federal funds used as incentives for furthering desegregation to the north.

And North Carolina school officials say this could mean an end to some programs begun with the money and a setback for public school desegregation. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has allocated money to North Carolina and other Southern states under the Emergency School Aid Act since the early 1970s. It is used for remedial programs, high school dropout services, alternative programs and problems caused as a result of desegregation.

But beginning next year, those funds will be cut in half. And Dudley Flood, assistant state superintendent for student services, says some existing services will be cut, eliminated or local funds will have to be found.

The federal attitude is that Southern public schools no longer need financial incentives to desegregate, he said. "I think second generation desegregation is just as severe as first generation desegregation," Flood said. "All the signs are not favorable. If we do nothing, I anticipate we may be back where we were in 1970."

There are no new ESAA funds, so existing ones are being redistributed. "We are low in priority on the list of funds because we are so far along in desegregation when compared to the Northern cities," he said. More ESAA funds are needed so schools with immediate desegregation problems as well as schools with desegregation programs already under way can benefit, he said.

Until recently 11 Southern states received most of the money under the Emergency School Aid Act, which was passed by Congress in 1973.

New Role For Travel Chief

RALEIGH - Pitt County native William Arnold, Director of North Carolina Travel and Tourism Division of the N. C. Department of Commerce, will take on new duties January 1 when he becomes a specialist in recruiting and assisting motion picture and television commercial productions in North Carolina.

Secretary of Commerce D. M. (Lauch) Faircloth has announced the planned change for Arnold, and has also announced that Daniel P. Roth will become the new Director of N. C. Travel and Tourism to succeed Arnold.

Arnold, a graduate of East Carolina University, has been travel and tourism director since 1975. Prior to being named director, he was with the Virginia State Travel Service for 10 years and was a newspaperman and editor in North Carolina and Virginia for eight years.

"Bill Arnold has done an outstanding job as travel director," Faircloth remarked. "The program has won national and international awards. Travel revenues have doubled while he was director, from under $1 billion to about $2 billion. He knows North Carolina and he knows the people."

Faircloth added, "that motion picture and commercial production companies have told us they want in state government to work with them."

The new director, Roth, was president of the Holiday Travel Agency in Wilmington, Delaware from 1974 until earlier this year. For the past four months Roth has been president of RIPA, Inc., in Wilmington, N.C.

Youth Service Slated Sunday Two Injured In Accidents

Youth services will be held at Rock Spring Church Sunday, Nov. 25, 11 a.m. Elder James Smith and the No. 2 choir and ushers will be in charge.

An appreciation service will be held for Elder Smith at 7:30 p.m.

No. 2 choir members are asked to meet for rehearsal Saturday at 3 p.m.

Two persons were reported injured in separate accidents that occurred on Wednesday and Thursday nights, according to Greenville Police.

Investigating officers said that Cynthia Lea Howard of 118 W. 11th Street reported an injury but was not transported for treatment after the vehicle she was operating struck a telephone pole around 9:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Police, who said the accident occurred near the intersection of Elm and Tenth Streets, charged the driver with careless and reckless driving and with driving after drinking.

Damage to the Howard vehicle was estimated at $800, while the telephone pole owned by Carolina Telephone sustained damages estimated at $75, it was reported.

Lawrence Warren Jones of 1104 E. Rock Springs Road was reported injured and taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital after the vehicle he was driving struck a parked car Thursday around 11:30 p.m.

Officers, who said the parked car was owned by Charles Edgar Stevens of 1401 Greenville Boulevard, said the accident took place on Fairview Way north from Greenville Boulevard.

Damage was estimated at $2,500 to the Jones vehicle and at $300 to the parked car.

Ladies Chorale Sings Monday

The Tennessee Temple Ladies Chorale of Tennessee Temple University will give a performance Monday, Nov. 26, 7:30 p.m., at the People's Baptist Temple, Greenville.

The 41-voice chorale will perform choral selections including hymns and gospel songs. The group is directed by Mrs. L. W. Nichols, a graduate of Tennessee Temple. A special handbell choir will also be featured.

The Rev. J. M. Bragg, pastor, invites the public to attend. The church is located at 2001 Greenville Blvd.

HOLDING SERVICES hold services at the St. John Missionary Baptist Church in Falkland Sunday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The Well-Rounded Life

There are times we want to paint, and times we want to study. Who says a fellow can't wear his work clothes while enriching his mind? And relax with his shoes off, too!

Indeed all of us need to be cultivating the well-rounded life. We need to make provision in our busy weeks for work and play and learning and worship.

Much of the pressure under which we live may not be so much the result of life's unreasonable demands upon us as the result of our inadequate preparation for meeting life's demands.

Time spent with God . . . learning of His purposes, His power and His love . . . is one of the essentials for the well-rounded life. And while custom has long prompted folks to express reverence by donning their best clothes, in the church today the important thing is not what you wear - but that you're there.

Back To Iran? 'Not That Stupid' Says Shah

NEW YORK (AP) — Mohamad Reza Pahlavi, the deposed shah of Iran, says he has completed radiation treatments for cancer and hopes to leave here for Mexico within two weeks, according to ABC News.

In an interview Thursday with the network's Barbara Walters, the former Iranian leader said he was "very anxious to leave" the United States and, in fact, never wanted to make the trip in the first place. Miss Walters quoted the shah as saying he needs "semi-surgery" to remove another gallstone, a procedure which will involve insertion of a small basket-like device into a bladder tube to trap the stone and pull it out. "The shah doesn't know exactly when the surgery will begin," Miss Walters said. "It depends how he reacts to the radiation. But he's very anxious to go, and hopes it will be within two weeks." The shah's surgeon, Dr. Bjorn Thorbjarnarson, reached at his home Thursday night, said he could not comment on the report. Other doctors attending the shah have said privately they would not oppose his leaving once the radiation treatments were finished and the gallstone was out.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., meanwhile, said he had information from a "good source" that Pahlavi would undergo surgery today for the gallstone.

"Up to this time the shah has needed treatment that could be done only in this country, but after tomorrow that will no longer be the case," Schweiker said Thursday.

The shah came to New York from his exile in Mexico on Oct. 22, and gallbladder surgery confirmed the presence of cancer in his lymph system. Miss Walters said he told her that his wife, Empress Farah, his doctors and other advisors insisted that he come.

Miss Walters quoted the shah as saying, "I did not want to come here" and as saying he had to come for a sophisticated diagnosing instrument called the body scanner.

Although he has remained current by watching television, Pahlavi did not discuss the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran where militants continue to hold Americans hostage. The Iranians have demanded that the United States return the shah to Iran so he can be tried and punished for his alleged crimes.

"He is very aware of what the media and people around the world feel about him and he is aware of the tremendous anger towards him," she said.

Miss Walters said Pahlavi told her he had not expected the revolution in Iran and did not know what had sparked it. Asked during the interview whether he planned to return to his homeland, the shah answered, "Going back to Iran? I may be many things, but I am not stupid."

Sees No Conflict Over Bank Deposit Decision

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Budget Officer John A. Williams says he sees no conflict of interest in his ordering a multi-million dollar federal payroll tax deposit moved to a bank where he is on the board of directors.

Williams ordered the deposit moved from North Carolina National Bank to First Union National Bank last year. He says he moved the money because First Union officials asked for the business.

"There's no possibility that I could gain as a result of it," Williams said this week. "That's why I don't see any conflict."

"I think what I did was all right. But somebody else may put a different interpretation on it."

Williams is Gov. Jim Hunt's executive assistant. The funds in question are the monthly deposits of federal withholding taxes withheld from state employees' paychecks by the state disbursing office.

The deposit now stands at $8.1 million. It totaled $5.9 million when Williams ordered the move in February 1978.

Banks are able to make money with such tax deposits by loaning the money at a profit until they have to turn it over to the federal government, usually a matter of a few days.

Until November 1978, banks could use the money without paying the federal government any interest. A spokesman for the U.S. Treasury Department said banks the size of First Union had the interest-free use of such money for an average of 2.2 days per month until the regulations changed.

W. Earl Bardin of Raleigh, senior vice president and area administrator of First Union, would not say how much profit his bank makes on the deposit.

"That's privileged information," he said.

But he said all banks seek

Comic Book Session Set

The Greenville Comic Book Convention will begin Sunday at 10 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Attic Night Club and admission is free.

Anyone with old comic books, comic strips, pulp magazines, radio premiums or any nostalgic items may buy, sell, or trade them.

Latecomers are encouraged to bring their own tables, for there may be a shortage of table space.

Dealers from all over the state will be here with thousands of collectors items. Also, fanzine publishers will be selling and trading their comic-related magazines.

A new feature has been added to the convention — a public viewing of comic and science fiction related videotapes.

Past supporters of the convention are encouraged to come and bring a friend. For more information, write, call or go by Nostalgia Newstand, 919 Dickinson Ave. (telephone 758-6909). After 7 p.m., call Charles Lawrence at 752-6389.

Club Sponsoring Program Tonight

The Christian Women Fellowship Club of Phillip Church of Christ is sponsoring "An Evening in Review" Friday, Nov. 23, 8 p.m.

The program will deal with the recent annual banquet of the Goldsboro-Raleigh Assembly held at the Goldsboro Moose Lodge. The annual address, given by Nell Williams, president of the Goldsboro-Raleigh Ministers' Wives Council, will be played on tape. Special music will also be presented.

The Rev. E. B. Williams, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Secretaries To Gather Monday

The Greenville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association will hold its monthly dinner meeting on Monday, Nov. 26 at 6:15 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

Dr. Clinton Prewett from East Carolina University's Psychology Department will speak on "Human Relations in Business."

Weigand Book Recommended

ECU News Bureau

A study skills book by an ECU faculty member is recommended in the October issue of "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine.

"How to Succeed in High School" by George R. J. Weigand, director of ECU's Counseling Center, is one of five books mentioned as helpful aids to better study habits by author Margaret Daly at the end of her article, "Does Your Child Know How to Study?"

The Weigand book is one of two cited as especially useful for junior and senior high school students.

EPPES CLASS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the 1965 class of Eppes High School Sunday, Nov. 25, 4 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Hattie Staton. All class members are asked to attend.

the state's business, regardless of the limited value of the federal tax deposits.

"You've got to take a thin (profit) margin, but then you get a lot of volume," he said. "The account that you're talking about has a lot of dollars in it. Ever since it left here, I've been chasing after it."

The federal withholding taxes were deposited with First Union during the term of former Gov. Bob Scott. But they were moved to NCNB during the administration of Gov. James Holshouser.

State disbursing officer George S. Lambert says there is no written policy on how the taxes should be deposited.

"You could carry it to a different bank every month if you wanted to. It doesn't make any difference as far as the feds are concerned."

Stock And Market Reports

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices advanced slightly today in sluggish post-Thanksgiving trading.
 Gainers outnumbered losers by a 7-6 margin in the early taily of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
 The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials edged up .94 to 808.36 in the first half hour.
 Wall Streeters were expecting a quiet session, with many investors taking a four-day holiday weekend.
 Brokers said those traders who were active today generally were still wary over the continuing confrontation between the United States and Iran.
 But they also noted some favorable response to the latest evidence of a slowing economy, which is widely regarded as a necessary precursor to reductions in inflation and interest rates.
 The government reported Wednesday that new orders for durable goods dropped 4.2 percent in October.
 Today's early prices included McDonnell Douglas, up 1/4 at 30; Boeing, unchanged at 44 1/2; and General Motors, down 1/8 at 50 1/2.
 On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 1.80 to 807.42.
 Declining issues outnumbered gainers by a 7-6 margin on the NYSE.
 Big Board volume totaled 37.02 million shares, against 35.10 million the day before.
 The NYSE's composite index rose .09 to 59.18.
 At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .57 at 220.06.

Holiday Storm Strands Many

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
 Dozens of stranded travelers had their Thanksgiving dinner in a Nebraska National Guard armory as a blizzard that paralyzed much of the Midwest moved east, dumping up to a foot of snow in southwestern Minnesota.
 The storm, which killed 10 persons earlier in the week as it roared out of the Rockies, also dropped 4 inches of snow in northern Iowa and sent temperatures plummeting to the teens in parts of Minnesota.
 Dozens of motorists were forced to abandon their cars as Interstate 90 in Minnesota was nearly closed. Travelers advisories were posted Thursday night for southern Minnesota and southeastern South Dakota.
 About 60 travelers at the National Guard armory in Sidney, Neb., feasted on a turkey dinner with trimmings Thursday with the help of members of Christ Episcopal Church.
 "The people that worked on that project really put themselves out," said Marvin Gunderson, administrative supply technician for the armory.
 "We've had a lovely Thanksgiving dinner," said Mary Young of Fairbury, who with her daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren were forced to stay at the armory when snow made Interstate 80 impassable. "I think everybody got along beautifully."
 She said the family did "a little of everything — meeting

Attention On Church, Sailing

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Church and sailing were in the forefront as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy faced the 16th anniversary of his brother John's assassination.
 The third Kennedy to seek the White House spent Thanksgiving at his Cape Cod home, joined by his wife and children and several friends.
 On Nov. 22, 1963, President Kennedy was slain in Dallas. Kennedy paid formal tribute, taking part in a private family Mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church.
 Later, Kennedy joined his children in a soccer game followed by some sailing. Kennedy will stay in Hyannis through at least Saturday night, according to his staff.

Resort To Lie Detector Tests

LINCOLNTON, N.C. (AP) — Lie detector tests will be employed next week in an attempt to determine who caused more than $90,000 in damages to 13 knitting machines at Edmos Corp. textile plant, the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department said.
 The machines were damaged shortly after company officials announced the plant would be closed early next month.
 Detective Jim Ingle said Wednesday he will ask about 15 employees to submit to lie detector tests. He also said he will ask Edmos to hire a private firm to conduct the tests.

Pirates Close Season Against Indians

By WOODY PEELE
 Reflector Sports Editor
 East Carolina University's football team remembers the last time it went into Virginia to face William & Mary with a possible bowl bid hanging in the balance.

That year, two seasons ago, the Pirates faced the Indians in the Oyster Bowl in Norfolk. It was almost a certainty that a Pirate victory would bring them a bid to play in the Peach Bowl later that year.

But the Indians had a different idea. Instead of rolling over and playing dead for the Pirates, they gave the Pirates a bowl of their own, stinging the Bucs, 21-17. Down the drain went the Peach Bowl bid.

This year, while the chances may be slim, East Carolina still has a chance at a bid to the Hall of Fame Bowl against South Carolina. Kentucky has been given a conditional bid to the game: they must beat Tennessee this Saturday. It could be that the Pirates might be watching for a report of that game out of the corner of their eyes.

But, reminds the coaching staff—and those seniors and juniors who were part of the team that lost two years ago—the Indians will bear watching a great deal more. They have been a thorn in the Pirate side for some time, despite having won only one of the last seven contests. Few of those games have been walkaways for East Carolina.

"Anyone expecting an easy game has never been to Williamsburg," Coach Pat Dye warned.

By comparing statistics, the Indians probably shouldn't be in the ball park with the Pirates. But when these two get together, the statistics usually go out the door.

"Their defense has always given us a lot of trouble," ECU aide Ken Hutcherson said. "They have only two starters back from last year's team, but still, they are not a young team. They've been playing two and three people at each position, so they are deep in experience."

Hutcherson listed tackle Fred Wallach (6-4, 235) and linebacker Steve Shull (6-1, 210) as the top defensive people. "They have a good defensive backfield, and they are big up front. They stunt a lot and that is the key to their defense. They try to keep you off balance and give you the bad play."

Offensively, the story isn't much different. "They give us trouble every year," assistant coach Frank Orgel said. "They give you a lot of formations, motion, and they spread you out on defense. They've always had an excellent game plan for us."

Calling the Indian players extremely intelligent, Orgel noted that against the Pirates, William & Mary calls about 90 per cent of its plays at the line.

Quarterback Chris Garrity, a 6-1, 180-pound sophomore, is the offensive leader. Orgel said that he likes to run, but has a strong arm too. "He has excellent wide receivers, but he'll throw to any one eligible to make a catch. They have four people who've caught more than ten passes."

Of the linemen, Orgel believes Bill Scott is the best. "Their running backs are like those we've played all year."

The game will be the 12th meeting for the two teams, with the Pirates holding a 7-3-1 edge in it. Last year, East Carolina won, 20-3.

William & Mary brings a 4-6 record into the game, while the Pirates are 6-3-1. The two teams have played three common opponents. William & Mary beat VMI, 7-3, downed Appalachian State, 9-0, and beat Richmond, 24-10. East Carolina topped VMI, 45-10, rolled over Appalachian, 38-21, and took a 52-10 win over Richmond.

"None of that matters," Dye said. "They've proven tough against us in the past, and I don't think they'll be any different this weekend."

Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. at Cary Stadium in Williamsburg.

Cowboy Troubles Continue; One Man Too Many Lets Oilers Win

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The famed Dallas Cowboys computer blew a fuse Thursday when it couldn't count to 11.

The monumental mistake, courtesy of Dallas' specialty teams, gave the Houston Oilers a second chance, and they cashed in the boner for the game-winning touchdown and a wild, 30-24 National Football League victory.

It all happened like this: On fourth-and-4 from the Dallas 37, Cliff Parsley punted. However, Dallas, thinking Houston was going to try a field goal, was confused.

The referees counted 12 Cowboys on the field and David Stalls was the odd man out. The 5-yard penalty moved the ball to the Cowboys 32, and on the next down, quarterback Dan Pastorini rifled a touchdown pass to Ken Burrough for Houston's winning score.

In the other NFL game on Thanksgiving Day, the Detroit Lions blanked the Chicago Bears 20-0.

While Pastorini was applying the coup de grace with 7:54 to play, Cowboys specialty team coach Mike Ditka was spiking his clipboard on the sidelines and shouting at Stalls.

Then he shouted at Coach Tom Landry in an exchange along the troubled Cowboy bench.

"It was a critical error," Landry said later. "You'll have to ask Mike Ditka just what happened." However, Ditka was a no-show in the Cowboys dressing room after the game and couldn't be questioned about the matter.

"It would have been a tough go without that," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips. "It was the critical play of the game."

The victory put Houston a half-game ahead of Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central Division with a 10-3 record, while the Cowboys dropped a half-game behind Philadelphia and Washington, with an 8-5 ledger.

"They (the Cowboys) may be America's team, but we're Texas' team," said Phillips. "I wouldn't have it any other way. This was probably the most emotional game I've ever been involved in."

It was a game of Roger Staubach versus Earl Campbell. Campbell dashed for touchdowns on runs of 61 and 27 yards and finished the day with 195 yards on 33 carries.

Staubach completed touchdown passes of 56 yards to Drew Pearson and 21 yards to Robert Newhouse and had statistics of 21 of 30 for 287 yards.

Dallas built a 21-17 halftime lead before young Mike Renfro, who was a Cowboy waterboy when his father served as an assistant coach in the 1960s, shagged a 47-yard touchdown pass from Pastorini.

Rafael Septien's 44-yard field goal set the stage for the fourth-quarter faux pas by the Cowboys and the game-winning touchdown pass by Pastorini.

It was the first time Houston had beaten Dallas in the regular season in three tries, and gave them five victories in a row for the first time since 1962.

Campbell said, "To me, this game is like Oklahoma and Texas. But I'll never forget this stadium because it is where I made my debut as a rookie."

Defensive end Elvin Bethea said, "The biggest thing that happened was them having 12 men on the field. Our defense sputtered some the last three quarters, but we proved again, though I hate to keep saying it, we're a pressure team."

"If we play this good the rest of the way, we'll do all right," said Landry. "We played very well offensively, and we had a chance to win at the last."

Pastorini said of the Oiler effort, "I won't jump for joy because we beat Dallas. It's just another win on the way to the Super Bowl."

Lion Victory Sounds Like TV Show Script

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Memo to CBS-TV: If you're looking for a prime-time show about a struggling young professional football team with a patient, understanding coach, Monte Clark and the Detroit Lions would like to volunteer.

It would be a real grabber. The team would lose its quarterback to injuries and start the season with a raw rookie calling signals. The club would be 1-11, taking an eight-game losing streak into a nationally televised Thanksgiving Day game against the rough, tough Chicago Bears, who would be riding a four-game winning string and talking about the playoffs.

The rest is elementary. In the Big Game, with the whole nation glued to its television sets, the quarterback — a blond matinee idol — and the fun-loving defensive end — who wears an earring in one ear off the field — lead the team to a 20-0 victory and everyone agrees it's the best Thanksgiving ever. And listen. The Lions could go into production immediately because they rehearsed the whole show Thursday and pulled it off with a letter-perfect dress rehearsal. They played it before a house of 66,219 National Football League fans in the Silverdome and drew rave reviews. Even the Chicago critics said it was a good show.

"We talked about the fact that the whole country was watching today," Clark said after the game. "This was our chance to show the nation what we're made of."

Clark said game balls were given to quarterback Jeff Komlo and defensive end Al "Bubba" Baker.

Komlo, a 6-foot-2, 205-pounder out of Delaware, hit on 16 of 30 pass attempts for 244 yards and one touchdown, despite throwing three interceptions. Baker, the second-year giant who was All-Pro as a rookie, had four sacks as the Lions' defense held Walter Payton and the potent Bears offense to just 220 total yards — only 54 of them by Payton, who was the league's No. 2 rusher going into the game.

It was the first time all season the Lions had appeared on national television; their other games have been regional telecasts. Clark and Komlo said it made the team play harder. Baker said the cameras made no difference.

"The national television means nothing, to tell you the truth," Baker said. "It just adds pressure.

"You have to be man enough when you're losing to keep your shirt on. Then, when your number comes up on a day like today, you're ready."

Chicago Coach Neil Armstrong said he felt the Bears beat themselves.

"Just like when we won, we won as a team," Armstrong said. "Today we lost the same way. Neither our offense nor our special teams executed very well."

"Our defense gave us the ball three times on pass interceptions in good field positions but we couldn't take advantage of them," added Armstrong.

The Bears slipped to 7-6 with the defeat, but still retain a slim hope of making the playoffs. The Lions are 2-11.

"Monte's believed in us," Komlo said. "He hasn't criticized us. That's the thing that's been so valuable to us."

Bowl-Bound ACC Teams Hope For Wins

By Tom Foreman Jr., Associated Press Writer
Two Atlantic Coast Conference teams, assured that their holiday breaks won't be spent at home, take the field for the last time in traditional rivalries Saturday afternoon.

In Durham, the Tar Heels of North Carolina, set to face

Michigan in the Gator Bowl, will meet Duke in the season finale for both teams. The Tar Heels will hope to gain momentum going into Jacksonville on Dec. 28 and to improve on a 3-1 record.

Coach Dick Crum will also hope that the feud between him and starting quarterback Matt

Kupec will have faded into memory by game time. Kupec publicly criticized Crum after the Tar Heels whipped Virginia. After being replaced by second-stringer Chuck Sharpe, Kupec accused the team of being "stinking conservative," adding that he was being made the scapegoat for UNC's troubles.

The Gamecocks themselves are bound for Birmingham next month to meet any one of three teams in the Hall of Fame Classic.
Coach Danny Ford's team can take a 9-2 record into Atlanta by whipping the Gamecocks in the contest they like to refer to in Clemson as the "Chicken Kickin'." After their 16-10 defeat of Notre Dame in South Bend last weekend, there is little reason for them not to be optimistic.

But Coach Jim Carlen's bunch has been anything but chicken this year. After opening with a humiliating loss to North Carolina, the team took seven of its next nine ballgames and came within seconds of making it eight against the Fighting Irish.
South Carolina goes into the game after having turned a close fight with Wake Forest into a runaway with 21 third quarter points and a 35-14 win.

In the only other game involving conference opponents, Maryland and Virginia will end their years in Charlottesville. Maryland will not visit a bowl game this year, but it's just as well with Jerry Claiborne's luck. In five of their last six post-season visits, the Terrapins have faced opponents playing in their home state. Four of the games have resulted in losses.

The end now appears in sight for our "Panel of Experts," for this season. We have only two more weeks to go.

This week, we have the final regular season picks, then, in a couple of weeks, we'll return with our choices for the bowl games.

That leaves 27 games — and a chance, for those trailing to make up some ground.

We continue to be shocked at holding the lead, currently with a 93-36 record. Fellow sportswriter Rick Scoppe is second, at 85-44, eight games back. However, he hopes to make up half of that this week.

Tom Baines and our guests are in third place with an 82-47 record, followed by Joe Jenkins at 80-49 and Etha Allen at 79-50. Etha promises that she is going to pass Joe this week, and put him in the cellar. With three differences between them, there is a chance of that.

Our guest last week, Marvin Jarman, came in with an 8-4 record. He did hit the Farmville-Ahoskie game on the nose, and can be proud (however, unhappy) for that. "I really didn't want to see Farmville lose," he told us.

This week, since the Deacons of Wake Forest weren't playing, we decided to give East Carolina's new basketball coach Dave Odom a chance. He reportedly did quite well picking in "The East Carolinian" a few weeks back.

Rose High School continues its quest in the State 4-A playoffs, our last area team left in the playoffs. The Ramparts will be playing host to Fayetteville's Terry Sanford High School, the alma mater of former "Daily Reflector" sports-staffer Jim Kyle.

Last week, our panel split down the middle on this one, but the 32-13 win over Millbrook apparently converted a few. This week, there is a 6-0 vote in favor of the Ramparts.

The Pirates of East Carolina will be traveling to Williamsburg, Va., to take on William & Mary. The Indians have been a trouble spot for the Pirates in the past. Two years ago they knocked East Carolina from bowl consideration. They have a chance to do it again this year.

The panel, however, doesn't believe the Indians can get their uprising off the reservation. It's a solid 6-0 vote for the Pirates.

Our other consensus picks include: Clemson over South Carolina; Maryland over Virginia; Penn State over Pittsburgh; Notre Dame over Miami, Fla.; Louisiana State over Tulane; North Carolina over Duke; Oklahoma over Nebraska; Tennessee over Kentucky; Mississippi over Mississippi State; and Southern Cal over UCLA.

Sooners, Huskers Battle

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Oklahoma and Nebraska are clearly the Big Two in the Big Eight.

Since the World War II, those two college football super-powers have won or shared the conference championship 32 times.

And Saturday, one of them will make it 33. "The game will be a great one, probably a classic," says Oklahoma halfback Dave Overstreet as the Sooners prepare to meet the Cornhuskers in Oklahoma once more for the Big Eight championship. "The teams are pretty evenly matched, and at the end the one that makes the fewest mistakes will be victorious. I am very confident that we will be that team." The winner will get a trip to the Orange Bowl to meet No. 5 Florida State. The loser won't do too badly, either, gaining a spot in the Cotton Bowl against the Southwest Conference champion.

The Sooners, who have lost only to Texas in 10 games thus far and are ranked No. 8 nationally, have won 17 Big Eight titles outright and shared six others. Nebraska, 10-0 heading into this big showdown and ranked No. 3, has been undisputed conference champions six times and shared it on three other occasions.

"If the defense plays to its potential, I don't think we will have any problems," says Oklahoma tackle Keith Gary. "But the offense will have to move the ball well to insure a victory for us. It all comes down to a defensive struggle in the end, though, because both teams have excellent offensive units and it will be up to the defenses to contain their opponents." Halfback Billy Sims, last year's Heisman Trophy winner, is the big gun for Oklahoma, while Jarvis Redwine is Nebraska's star in two of the nation's most awesome running attacks.

In another traditional and meaningful game Saturday, fourth-ranked Southern Cal will play UCLA in the Los Angeles Coliseum. If the Trojans win as expected, they will make another of their perennial trips to the Rose Bowl, where they'll meet Ohio State. The Trojans are led by one of the nation's classiest tailbacks, Charles White, and quarterback Paul McDonald.

Starting with ninth-ranked Houston, which played Texas Tech today, the four teams still in contention for the SWC title will be in action this weekend. Sixth-ranked Texas will host No. 17 Baylor and No. 7 Arkansas will meet SMU in a night game Saturday.

Elsewhere, 10th-ranked Brigham Young plays San Diego State for the Western Athletic Conference title and a berth in the Holiday Bowl Dec. 21 in San Diego.

The Cougars are led by passing sensation Marc Wilson, who can close out his spectacular season with a 10th straight 300-yard passing day.

"We have to get pressure on Wilson or he's going to eat you alive," said San Diego State Coach Claude Gilbert.

Wilson, who already holds or shares seven NCAA records, has thrown for 25 touchdown passes and a remarkable 3,442 yards. By comparison, Dan Fouts of the San Diego Chargers — pro football's passingest team — has 2,911 yards in 12 games.

Clemson, the nation's 13th-ranked team, plays No. 19 South Carolina and No. 18 Tulane takes on LSU in other games Saturday involving the nation's Top Twenty teams. In another game today, Florida State plays arch-rival Florida.

Among other games Saturday between long-standing rivals: Georgia-Georgia Tech; North Carolina-Duke; Mississippi-Mississippi State; Kansas-Missouri; Oregon-Oregon State and Arizona-Arizona State.

WCU Drops Cager

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP) — Western Carolina University starting forward Eric Taylor has been suspended from the basketball team permanently.

Coach Steve Cottrell, who announced the suspension Wednesday, said it was permanent and the result of a disciplinary measure.

Taylor, from Lenox, Mass., was a heavily recruited prep star and was named to several prep All American teams. As a freshman last season he started in all 28 games for WCU and averaged 10 points and 8 rebounds per game.

"This was not an easy decision, but it was something that had to be done," Cottrell said.

No details were given for the reason for the disciplinary action.

Over a three-season span, 1968-69-70, Bill Burnett of Arkansas scored at least one touchdown in 23 straight games.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — TRUE LINGUIST LINGERS LONG ON LINGUINI.
Today's Cryptquip clue: B equals O

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Opening lead: Ace of ♦.

It is improper, according to the proprieties of contract bridge, to hesitate deliberately to try to fool an opponent. However, it is quite proper to try to read your opponent's hesitation, even though you do so at your own risk.

When this hand was dealt at a recent club game, the South hand was held by Dr. George Rosenkranz of Mexico City. He and his partner were playing Standard International, the system devised by Dr. Rosenkranz and described in his book, "Bid Your Way to the Top." Over South's one no trump opening, West hesitated for a couple of seconds before passing. North's jump to four diamonds was a Texas transfer bid to four hearts.

From West's hesitation, Dr. Rosenkranz concluded that he held most of the missing values. West led the ace of diamonds and continued with the three, a suit preference signal for clubs. East ruffed the second diamond with the ten of trumps and duly shifted to the jack of clubs. Dr. Rosenkranz decided to back his hunch. He rose with the ace of clubs and guessed correctly when he led a trump to the ace, felling the king—East's ten of trumps had been a giveaway. Declarer returned to his hand with the jack of trumps, cashed the king and queen of diamonds, discarding two clubs from dummy, then ruffed a club on the table. After drawing the last trump, Dr. Rosenkranz announced that, if West held the king of spades and the king of clubs, he could claim the rest. This was the position:

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" ## Brokaw Is Staving Off Hartman Encroachment

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can "Sheriff Lobo" save the "Today" show?

When we last checked in on the morning war between ABC and NBC, the "Today" show (NBC) was about to be routed by "Good Morning America" (ABC).

Employing a soft style and a folksy actor, "Good Morning America" made a strong run at "Today" during the spring, and figured to overtake NBC's prototype morning show by summer. "Good Morning America" had the force of trend behind it. But as of last week, "Today," the show with the newsmaster-host, was still ahead of "Good Morning America," the show with the actor-host, in the morning Nielsen ratings. This cheers "Today's" newsmaster-host, Tom Brokaw.

"I've been reading for two years now that ABC and 'Good Morning America' are on the move, but damn it, we're still winning. Maybe they will get us at some point. But we're still winning."

Yes, but ABC has made a dramatic encroachment on what has traditionally been NBC territory, improving its morning ratings in October by 26 percent over last year, while "Today" has gone down by 11 percent.

"Good Morning America" epitomizes the trend in communications of the last five years toward softer, personality news; and to some extent, host David Hartman, the actor, personifies the soft-news newsmaster. While "Today" has made changes in that direction in the last year, the NBC show still exudes a more sophisticated, harder-edged air.

NBC, for example, has changed Brokaw's title from "host" to "correspondent" and has had him reading the news himself for several weeks ("I've always hated 'hosts,'" Brokaw says. "I felt like I was either presiding over a lunch or a game show.") — not just cheapies, either — and "Today" could easily repel "Good Morning America." It could happen, you know.
