

Announcing Spy Trials In 48 Hours

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime announced today that within 48 hours it will make a statement on a spy trial date for some of the 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy and that death sentences are possible.

Sadeq Ghotbzadeh, who also said those Americans not suspected of spying will be released "as soon as possible," and that arrangements were being made for all the captives to be visited.

Iranians had no business taking them hostage and they have no business putting them on trial.

Outrage At State Dept.

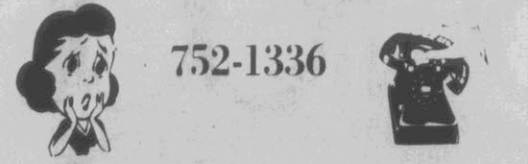

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today labeled as "absolutely outrageous" an Iranian announcement that some of the Americans held hostage in Tehran will soon be given dates for trial as spies.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and other officials.

Asked if he thought the hostages would be sentenced to death, Ghotbzadeh said: "I hope we don't reach that extent. But on the face of the earth anything is possible."

There have been persistent, but unconfirmed reports that about eight hostages have been under intensive interrogation during the past two weeks.

Unemployment Dipped Again In November

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 6 percent to 5.8 percent in November, a clear sign that the economy remains healthier than most forecasters have expected, the government reported today.

work force, while unemployment among full-time workers has remained steady since the summer.

The Labor Department said total employment rose by 350,000 jobs during the month, while the number of jobless persons in the labor market fell by 140,000 to just over 6 million.

Overall, the department said employment in November totaled 97.6 million out of a labor force of 103.7 million.

FOCUS

News Word: Illiteracy
 For most of this century, federal, state, and local governments have worked to end illiteracy. But a recent study shows that more than 60 million adult Americans may be considered illiterate. Literacy is usually defined as the ability to read and write. But people are often considered illiterate if they cannot read, write, or use numbers well enough to function adequately in society. People who are functionally illiterate are shut out from many kinds of jobs. Illiteracy is even more widespread in other parts of the world. In some African nations, as many as nine out of 10 people cannot read or write.

DO YOU KNOW — Which state has the country's lowest rate of illiteracy?

Denies He Korea DMZ Explosion Is Adversary Injures U.S. Soldiers

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Former University of North Carolina official G. Watts Hill Jr. says that even though he is listed as a government witness in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's suit against the university, he's not an adversary.

The former UNC board of governors member has written to UNC President William Friday and board chairman William Johnson that he "reluctantly" agreed to have his name placed on the HEW witness list.

The agency is gathering witnesses for its case against UNC in which it is trying to cut off some of the $89 million in federal aid the school receives for its failure to submit an acceptable desegregation plan.

Hill said he doubted he would be called. If he did appear, he said, he could testify about events prior to 1973, when he left the board of governors.

Hill was a member of the state House and was chairman of the state Board of Higher Education. That board was phased out when the board of governors was established in 1972. Hill also was a member of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"The relevancy of past facts to the current impasse escapes me at this time," Hill said in the letter mailed Thursday. "I therefore assume I will not be called to testify."

Hill is one of 89 prospective witnesses who could be called by HEW during proceedings scheduled to begin in Washington March 10.

Hill said he was reluctant to have his name on the witness list, "because I fear even the simple act of permitting one's name to be added to a list may be misunderstood to indicate my position, and that position will be seen as an adversary of the university."

"That, of course, is not the case," he said.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — An explosion in the demilitarized zone separating North and South Korea today injured five American soldiers who were on patrol and probably lost in heavy fog, a U.N. command spokesman said. A sixth soldier was listed as missing.

The injured soldiers were evacuated by a helicopter which had to enter the DMZ in an area normally prohibited to aircraft, the spokesman said. They were taken to U.S. Army medical facilities in Seoul where one was reported in serious condition and four in good condition.

The U.N. command asked North Korea for assistance in locating the missing soldier, said Col. John A.G. Klose, spokesman for the U.N. command.

The soldiers were on a routine patrol about a mile east of the truce village of Panmunjom about 2 p.m. local time when the explosion went off, the spokesman said. He said the origin of the blast was not immediately known, but that it was possible the soldiers stepped on a mine.

A team from the United Nations Command Military Armistice Commission is investigating circumstances surrounding the incident.

Col. Klose said names and units of those involved are being withheld pending notification of next of kin. The DMZ around Panmunjom is guarded by members of the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division.

The DMZ, which is 2.4 miles wide, stretches along the 151-mile border dividing North and South Korea. The U.N. command, which includes U.S. and South Korean soldiers, patrols the southern 1.2 miles and North Korea patrols the northern half.

When asked on which side of the DMZ the explosion took place, Col. Klose said he didn't know.

A few months ago, the U.N. command accused the communist North of laying mines along the military demarcation line in the center of the DMZ in violation of the Korean Armistice Agreement signed at the end of the Korean War in 1953.

The last major incident in the DMZ involving American soldiers was on Aug. 18, 1976 when axe-wielding North Korean guards killed two American officers who were part of a detail trying to prune trees in Panmunjom.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I don't know how I did it. My body hurts all over now," said 44-year-old Martha Weiss.

Police say the 5-foot-3, 118-pound woman helped rescue a child from beneath a 4,500-pound Cadillac Wednesday by lifting the front end.

"Things like this have happened before," said police spokesman Bill Robinson said, "but I can't recall it being done by anyone so small."

The Tijuana woman reacted after a car went out of control near an elementary school as parents dropped off their children. Eight-year-old Berta Luz Amaral of San Diego was struck by the car and dragged more than 20 feet.

Ms. Weiss said one of the wheels ran over the child and was resting partly atop her when the car came to a stop.

"The mother start screaming" and attempted to pull the child from under the wheel, Ms. Weiss said. At that point, she rushed to the front of the car and began lifting.

"I could feel the car moving when I was pulling up. I lifted it up enough for the lady to get the little girl out," she said.

Traffic investigators said the woman had grease "all over her from where she had picked up the car. She had tire marks on her slacks."

The child was taken to a nearby hospital, treated and released, police said.

said, is a former Williamston High School classmate of his, John G. Leggett. Fahrner pointed out that officially the Arizona is still a commissioned ship of the U.S. Navy since its crew is yet on board.

Of the 96 ships at Pearl Harbor that day, 18 were sunk or heavily damaged, Gurganus said. Some 2008 Navy men were killed; 710 wounded. Some 218 Army men were killed; 364 wounded. Some 109 Marines were killed; 69 wounded. Sixty-eight civilians were killed; 35 wounded. Some 91 Navy planes and 92 Army planes were destroyed and 31 Navy planes and 128 Army planes were damaged.

Gurganus was at Fort Kamehameha "in the back yard" of Hickam Air Force Base at the time.

J. C. Moore and B. E. Scott, both of Greenville, and Thad Lilley of Grifton, all Pearl Harbor survivors like Fahrner and Gurganus, were present at the Golden K meeting at which Fahrner spoke as a special guest of Gurganus.

Moore said he was able to escape the U. S. S. Utah, which was sunk, only to be removed to another ship which was blown in two — but again he escaped.

Scott said he was aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania which was bombed, but could not be sunk because it was drydocked at the time.

Lilley said he was just sitting down to a breakfast of hotcakes at Schofield Barracks near Wheeler Air Force Base when he heard the first explosion of the attack. He thought a boiler had blown, he said.

Gurganus said all of them and a number of other Greenville area residents are members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors' Association. The North Carolina chapter of this organization will meet Saturday to once again remember Pearl Harbor.

Church Plans To Dedicate Organ

An organ will be dedicated to the glory of God and the memory of James A. "Jimmy" Burroughs Sunday at 4 p. m. at Chapman's United Methodist Church.

The organ was purchased with funds given the church in memory of Burroughs, who died Dec. 8, 1978. An employee of Greenville TV and Appliance in Greenville, he was an active member of Chapman's Church and a member of its Chapman's Quartet which performs throughout this area.

The dedication service will be led by the Rev. Steve Hickie, pastor. There will be a concert, also, with special music by Ned Bradbury of Kinston.

The church is located on Highway 43 between Calico and Vanceboro. The public is invited.

Drug Counts Face Three

ATLANTIC BEACH — An investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation and the Greenville Police Department resulted in the arrest of three men here about 2:30 a.m. today on drug law violation charges.

SBI spokesmen identified the three as Michael S. Martin, 25 of Greenville, Joseph Gordon Goodman III, 28 of Wilmington, and Larry Earl Jones, 28 of Wrightsville Beach.

The three were charged with possession with intent to sell, and sale, of cocaine.

A quarter-pound of cocaine, with a wholesale value of $7,800, was confiscated at the time of the arrests, investigators reported.

Bond for the three was set at $10,000 each, pending a preliminary hearing in Carteret County District Court.

Dear Abby

Baldness Can Be Caused By Stress

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I don't know who else to talk to about this embarrassing problem. I am a 30-year-old woman who is going bald! It's on my mind (no pun intended) constantly, and I'm really depressed about it.

Two years ago, when I first started to notice that my hair was getting very thin, I went to a dermatologist. He said it must be a hereditary thing and there was nothing he could do about it. My father was bald at an early age, but my mother is 65 and has a full head of hair. As far as I know, there have been no bald women in my family.

Please tell me what to do before I lose my mind. I hate to go out of the house looking like this.

GOING BALD

DEAR GOING: See another dermatologist and get his opinion. If he can't help you, consult a therapist who is trained to treat emotional disorders. Baldness in women (as well as in men) is often caused by emotional stress. In the meantime, let me assure you that you are not alone. Get a pretty wig and some good-looking hats, and don't despair.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a 16-year-old high school sophomore who is very mature for his age. He's been steadily dating a 17-year-old senior for about a year. We've always had an excellent rapport with our son and have openly discussed sex, reproduction and contraception.

Last week his girlfriend happily informed him that she is six months pregnant, and she's delighted! She had already told her family, who she says are excited and happy and have given her baby gifts and almost completely furnished her nursery! She and her parents have talked with a school counselor and today she starts classes at an alternative school for school-aged mothers and mothers-to-be. She told all her friends at school before telling our son and he is now being approached with all sorts of questions and comments from his teachers and classmates.

The girl states she is happy about it and just hopes our son will be a good "Daddy." She's even asked him to participate in natural childbirth classes with her.

Our son is bewildered and dumbfounded about all this. He says he feels an obligation to her, but at his age marriage is out of the question. We agree, but how can we help him through this? All articles and programs are geared to help unwed mothers, but what about an unwed father? We want him to get on with a normal life without suffering any psychological scars. Are there groups or agencies to help boys in this predicament? Where can we turn?

PARENTS: HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR PARENTS: There are excellent counseling services in your area. Contact your Family Service Association. And see a lawyer about the obligations, rights and responsibilities of an unwed father.

DEAR ABBY: I see that many of our public figures are now getting hit in the face with pies and accepting it good naturedly. Have you ever had a pie in the face, Abby?

CURIOUS IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR CURIOUS: No. But if I ever do, I hope it's pecan. It might hurt a little more, but it will taste better.

Lee Kanipe Gives Program

Lee Kanipe was speaker at the Tea and Topics Book Club Monday night at the home of Mrs. Mary Stoneham. Anchor man with WITN-TV, Chanel Seven, Kanipe spoke on how the news affects today's economy.

Plans were made for members and guests to tour the Christmas open house at Tryon Palace Sunday.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Lee Barbour, Mrs. Nanci Kincaid, Mrs. Linda Fowler, Mrs. Mary Daughtery, Mrs. Doris Ballengee, Mrs. Lorraine Gaylor and Mrs. Beverly Browder.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Edna Wilson McLoyd of Dothan, Ala., and Mr. Walter Frank Mullins of Tusculumbis, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Gail, to Capt. Thomas Earl Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brown of Winterville. A Dec. 22 wedding is planned.

MR. AND MRS. LEAVY SMITH

50th Anniversary Reception Held

Mr. and Mrs. Leavy Smith of Greenville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception held Sunday afternoon.

Cleveland Smith, Mrs. Charles Ed Mayo, Mrs. Forrest Smith and Kenneth Smith honored their parents. The reception was held in the fellowship building of the Rose Hill FWB Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have seven grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Mrs. Smith was wearing a dusty rose dress complemented by an orchid corsage.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow roses and daisies. A prayer was said by their pastor, the Rev. Dan Beaman, prior to the reception.

Approximately 200 guests attended the event.

Decorations Program Given

Sheila Kupec discussed various types of door decorations available for use in Christmas decorating this year. She was speaking at the meeting of the Cherry Oaks Home and Garden Club.

Contemporary and novelty as well as traditional wreaths and brooms were discussed. The techniques of making a cornhusk wreath were illustrated. Different types of wreaths were displayed.

Faye Baker, Christmas project chairman, told of a needy family which the club will sponsor this year. Members were asked to donate clothing, linen, canned goods or household items. Bret Brown and Juanita Plueddemann will receive the items. Money will also be given the family.

June Dykstra and helpers were thanked for painting the entrance signs.

"When I turned eighty, Geneva, I said I would not be rushed. And I'll not."

"But two hours, Minerva, and nothing for Nora yet. Maybe Natalie here can help."

"Yes, Miss Geneva?"

"We're looking for a gift for sister Nora, Natalie. You know Nora."

"Indeed, I suggest these Foo Dogs."

"They won't do, Natalie."

"Then this Wedgwood jasper pendant. Or these silver pheasants. Or this China calico cat."

"No. She's enough jewelry. The pheasants? Not for her table. And the China calico cat is frivolous."

"Excuse me, ladies. The phone. Hello? Fine, Miss Nora. The Wedgwood pendant? Yes, ma'am. Yes, we still have the Foo Dogs. The silver pheasants? Yes, ma'am. Yes we'll deliver. Thank you, Miss Nora. Bye."

"Geneva! That's uncanny!"

"Well, whatever, Minerva, we'd better grab this calico cat before she . . . oh, oh, the phone's ringing. Don't answer it, Natalie. Wrap up this cat quick. Don't answer that phone just wrap this danged cat!"

"Yes, ma'am."

Check Savvy

Most of us write a lot of checks. Yet, there are probably some things we don't know about checks, because we've been treated to some facts and some folklore.

For example, it is legal to write a check in pencil. However, it's not very smart since it's too easy to erase the original amount and substitute a larger one.

It is permissible to date a check on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday. But since some people have doubts about accepting such a check, play it safe and date the check for a weekday.

A check is valid for six years. But most banks consult with a payer before honoring a check that is more than six months old. And many banks do this checking after only two or three months.

It's a good idea to treat a check as carefully as you would cash.

Don't write out a check until you're ready to turn it over for payment. Try to avoid signing a blank check. Anybody could fill in the blanks for some instant cash.

Endorsing a check by just signing your name also makes a check the same as cash. If the check got into the wrong hands, it would be your loss. So make special endorsements whenever possible. If you're depositing a check, use the endorsement "for deposit only." If you're turning the check over to John Doe, write "Pay to the order of John Doe."

Take care in writing out a check, too. Always use ink so the check isn't easy to alter. Don't erase or write over a mistake. A bank will not honor an altered check, and neither should you. Instead "void" the check and start over.

Avoid Check Overdrafts
It's easy to write a check. But if you write checks without money in the bank to back them, the consequences can be steep. Intentionally overdrawing your checking account is against the law. Depending on the value of the checks written, overdrawing can be classified as a misdemeanor or felony.

Your credit rating can be affected, too. If the bank decides you've abused your checking account privileges, it can drop you as a customer. That information will show up on your credit file at the local credit bureau.

Of course, some banks will cover the overdrawn check for a fee. Other banks will automatically draw from your savings account. But falling back on these conveniences can become habit forming. You're better off preventing overdrawn checks and keeping your checkbook balanced at all times.

Cutback Talk Not Surprising

It is not particularly surprising that there is talk of cutting back some highway projects in North Carolina in the months ahead. As the cost of gas rises people will drive less, which is as it should be. That means, however, that there will be a corresponding drop in highway fund collections since the tax is collected on gallons of gas sold. At the same time the cost of building highways is soaring. The inflationary process that hits everything else affects highway construction. The cost of fuel in itself is an important part of highway construction and that additional cost is reflected in highway project bids. So far there is no reason to believe that the U. S. 264 Greenville to Wilson project has been affected by any slow down in highway construction. We hope it stays that way. The freeway U. S. 264 from Greenville to Wilson is the number one economic project for Pitt County. If it isn't done, we will find ourselves losing out to other areas in the constant quest for industry. We in Pitt County must do all we can to see that this project is completed — even if it means paying our share of an increased gasoline tax.

Win Or Lose, They Deserve A Salute

The Rose High School football team and many supporters are in High Point tonight where the Rampants meet High Point Central for the state 4-A championship. This Rose football team has been remarkable in its quest of the state championship. Win or lose, the team members should be welcomed back to Greenville as the real competitors they are. This team is one we can all be proud of.

THIS AFTERNOON

Parable Of The Bad Dog

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — An innocent little pup once had the misfortune to happen upon a mean and ignorant family which determined to take it in. The dog was fed infrequently, if at all. He took to raiding garbage cans and stealing bits of food wherever he could. A barrage of kicks, sticks, and stones caused the animal to snarl from time to time in an effort to gain some measure of security and peace. To bring a halt to the thievery and snarling, the family chained the gangly hound to a tree out back. From time to time they would throw the dog a bone. Just as often, they would throw a stone. And occasionally, especially when the family had been nipping a mite heavily at the beer, kicks and sticks would rain upon the miserable fellow's head and back. One day, a neighbor angry with the dog for his barking, took a kick at it. The dog charged, and took a bite at the offending leg. "Bad Dog!" shouted the man of the house. "Beat him soundly, then take him to the dog pound where he may be forever removed from our midst as a menace." And that, say the caring specialists who try to work with young people in trouble, is what is happening to a lot of juveniles in North Carolina. Steve Williams, a juvenile court counselor in Wake County, put the matter in dramatic terms at a recent meeting of a committee of the General Assembly which is investigating the state's therapeutic wilderness camping program. "North Carolina has not accepted its moral obligation to provide treatment alternatives to its disturbed youngsters", Williams bluntly told the lawmakers. These are not criminals. But they are people who already are doing "bad things" which society doesn't approve. And they could easily graduate to acts which will lead to prison. The state's four camps now have 145 boys referred there by the courts, local welfare departments, mental health directors, or private sources. Intensive counseling and close relationships between

As special assistant to the Secretary General of the U.N., Lessiovski provides the KGB with a top-level listening post on the international political arena. Report Oil-Use Is Down

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the nation finally is making significant progress in reducing its consumption of oil. They hope it isn't too late. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller cites the following evidence that oil use is down: —Total consumption for the first 11 months of the year was off 2.5 percent from the same period last year, averaging about 18.4 million barrels a day. —Net imports are under 8 million barrels a day, well below President Carter's self-imposed limit of 8.2 million. —Consumption in the July-through-September period was 7.8 percent below the same period in 1978. —Gasoline consumption in October was 8 percent below a year earlier. Chase Econometric Associates, an economic forecasting firm, reports similar results in a late-November analysis. It said gasoline consumption for the year is down 4 percent from 1978. "Overall petroleum demand will be down by more than 2 percent this year, the first decline since the 1974-1975 recession, despite larger-than-normal inventory accumulation," it said. Chase attributed the decline to the increase in prices, the slowdown in economic growth and the substitution of other fuels, especially natural gas. Miller says the decline is partly due to the energy program enacted by Congress last year. Both Miller and Chase predicted a further decline in U.S. oil consumption in 1980. Something's Happening

WASHINGTON — One of the things I enjoy the most about the news shows on television is that you have to use your imagination when watching them. I don't seem to react much when the newspaper correspondent is actually talking to somebody. But I jump out of my seat when the reporter has failed to interview the subject he has been assigned to. More and more of this is going on now. You've probably seen it yourself but haven't paid any attention to it. Here's how it goes: "For the latest report on medical fraud in the United States, let's go to Michael Mindlin in Thyroid, Long Island." "Chester, I'm standing here in front of the $500,000 home of Dr. William Scalpel, who made $150 million from

Medicaid this year by advising all his patients to go to a different physician for a second opinion. Dr. Scalpel is now in the house, presumably on the second floor, but he has refused to come out to talk to me. He arrived home at seven o'clock and drove his Mercedes into these closed garage doors behind me. Then I knocked on the front door over here but no one answered. I went around to the back and rang the kitchen doorbell and he refused to respond to my rings. Neighbors have told me that Dr. Scalpel will probably stay in his house all evening. This is Michael Mindlin reporting from Thyroid, Long Island." "Good work Michael, and now let's go to our White House correspondent, Janet Blonde." "Chester, I'm standing here in front of the White House where Hamilton Jordan has yet to make an appearance. This is the fifth day that Jordan has not come out to talk to reporters. A White House spokesman said Jordan is very busy working on the crisis in Iran and the economy. Just before I went on the air a black limousine pulled up to the driveway behind me, and two people carrying briefcases stepped out and went into the side door. "Did you notice who they were, Janet?"

ART BUCHWALD

"No, I didn't, Chester, and the chauffeur refused to say who he worked for. Both men are still in the White House and have been there for more than an hour." "Thank you, Janet. We'll get back to you if they leave. Now let's go to an on-the-spot live report from Tom Stinch in front of New York Hospital." "Chester, it's all quiet at New York Hospital at this hour. The Shah of Iran has been gone for a week, and hospital officials, who wouldn't let our cameras inside, say that it is now business as usual. An hour ago an ambulance brought in a lady who had broken her hip in the bathroom. I tried to speak to a nurse who treated the shah, but she sent word down that she has been ordered not to talk to anybody about his stay here." "Tom, where are Henry Kissinger and David Rockefeller at this moment?" "That's the interesting thing, Chester. Kissinger is (Continued on page 6)

HELSINKI — Two hundred and thirty Finnish-Americans, some of whom never before have been in Finland arrived today to enlist in the Finnish army to fight against Russia. A spokesman for the group said they left New York as soon as they learned Finnish independence was threatened. They sailed for Norway and then journeyed by plane across Sweden to Helsinki. News of the Russian invasion reached them as they were waiting in a railroad station in Sweden. The group expects to be sent to the north central sector of the front. More Finnish-Americans will follow as soon as possible, they said. Women will be employed both as enumerators and as clerks in the compilation of the census of 1940 and the census bureau expects that numbers of them will apply for these positions. Women were first employed in this labor in 1880. In 1890 women again found occupations as clerks and as census-takers, though the fact that women were eligible for those positions was not widely known. —LEIGH COAKLEY

U.N. A Hotbed Of Spies

By L. McDonald (D-Ga.)
The United Nations headquarters complex in New York City is a free-fire zone for spies and secret agents. The heavy artillery in the international spy centre is wielded by the Soviet KGB and other Communist powers, while the Free World countries try to defend themselves with popguns. The FBI has estimated the total number of spies in New York City at some 3,000 — a figure that swamps the personnel of the FBI's foreign counterintelligence division who must monitor the activities of spies in the U.S. In absolute volume, the Soviet KGB (Committee for State Security) supplemented by the GRU (Soviet Military Intelligence) is the most active communist espionage agency. They operate from

To the editor:
The press and vocal ECU fans are seriously damaging the future of ECU's football program. Speculation and accusations of lack of support of Mr. Dye by Tom Brewer and Bill Cain may satisfy our desire for a whipping boy for the loss of Mr. Dye's service, but certainly ignore the best interest of the program for the future. Where do we go from here? Mr. Dye deserves ECU's thanks for a job well done, but let's face the fact that he will now be coaching somewhere else next fall. Let us, as ECU supporters, look at our present leadership as deserving of our support. They're the only game in town. If we want to support our program, then let's at least speak out in the support of it and stop giving lip service to those who are negative and have their ax to grind in opposition. We will tie it up in Ficklen next fall all right, and with ECU fans' support, instead of criticism, the program will be better than ever. Let us identify our friends and get together and support ECU's program. Criticism can only support ECU's opponents. Hats off to Dr. Brewer for his positive statement on Monday supporting strong athletics at ECU. Can you as a Pirate fan do less?

DO THINGS LOOK BAD?
Some years ago a young seminary graduate kept preaching a sermon which had a rather disquieting title, "Things Look Bad". It was a disquisition on man's sinful and hopeless state, unless rescued by the power of religion. It was a very good sermon, so good, in fact, that the young man had several offers from churches to serve as their pastor. We live in an age in which it certainly can be said that things look bad. But things have always looked bad. They looked bad in the world

One Seeks And Does Not Find

Someday, when Meg moves out, Phillip and I will pack up her things and find the Mickey Mouse bubble blower, the partially stuffed rabbit with one ear, the plastic fish with three pennies wedged in its gills, and the doll who became a secret agent when she lost one eye and thus made her stomach an accessible hiding place for paper messages. But worse than the underwear are the indispensable items that get lost, like her blanket. Meg cannot function without her blanket. Still, it never occurs to her that, when she stashes it in a blocks can or under the cushions on the living room sofa, she may have to do without it for several hours while the search is under way. These searches are maddening, especially because the culprit never offers any help. As soon as she disposes of something, her mind goes blank. We have grilled her like Inquisitors, but all we've ever pulled out of her is a puzzled smile. When she lost a shoe for the first time, her only response was, "I guess you'll have to buy me new ones." Now, I could hire a maid with what it costs to keep Meg in shoes under normal circumstances. So I was not about to give up the search for a shoe that was barely a month old. We looked through every closet and every drawer in the house. We looked under every piece of furniture. We tore apart everything in her room, then put everything back together again. After two hours, we found the shoe behind the dining room door. The second time she lost both shoes, and the search took an entire afternoon and evening. When asked where she might have put them, she volunteered this singular bit of information: "Probably they were magic and just flew away." By this time Phillip had been reduced to storming around the house, roaring, "It's about time you learned some responsibility, young lady!" and "Do you think your mother and I are made of money?" He had already taken a flashlight and searched the neighborhood on the possibility that she had stepped out of them on our morning walk and hadn't bothered to tell anyone. I had already taken the books off the bookshelves in case she had dropped the shoes behind them, and I had checked the freezer and cleaned out the basement. We finally found them tangled in Phillip's and my bedspread. Meg shrugged her shoulders. "You should have made up the bed, Mommy." I was about to put in my own two-cents worth about accepting responsibility for one's own actions when Phillip gave me a threatening look. "Don't tell me you agree with her!" I gasped. "If the shoe fits, wear it," operations. In many instances, these satellite spy groups carry out missions of no value to Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Poland, and so forth, but which do have real value to the USSR. Most recently the satellite spies have been collecting every scrap of information available on semiconductors. This information would be of great benefit to the Kremlin's computer, missile and space programs.

The most active of the satellite spy agencies is the Cuban General Directorate of Intelligence (DGI). Totally subservient to the interests of the Kremlin, the DGI agents work as "case officers" handling KGB spy rings composed of Latin Americans residing in the U.S., make contacts and carry out recruiting among Spanish-American groups, and direct Castro's agents who penetrate anti-Castro Cuban exile groups in order to act as agents provocateur to discredit them.

The Communist spy agencies at the United Nations act as "vacuum cleaners". In other words, no trivia is considered unimportant. Everything is grist for the mill particularly when it relates to the United States of America. Scientific journals, armed forces magazines, newspapers, academic journals, books, sales brochures — all are collected by the trunk-load and shipped back to Moscow every day. But the chief value of the U.N. to the KGB and its friends is the opportunity for recruiting new agents from among the Latin American, African, Middle Eastern and Asian members of the U.N. staff.

Those are the theaters in which active battles between the Soviet Communists and the Free World are taking place. Those are the countries in which the USSR plans to gain influence to cut off strategic minerals, oil and other raw materials to the United States.

The hands of the CIA and FBI have been effectively tied by politically motivated Presidential Orders and by sensation-seeking Congressional figures hoping to advance their political careers. This country should firstly free the FBI and CIA and provide the budgeting necessary so they can effectively meet this challenge; and secondly, the United Nations New York operations should be moved out of the United States to some other country such as Switzerland. Lessivsky had been identified some five years ago as a KGB operative in John Barron's book, KGB; and Deneprovsky had been named as a Kremlin spy in British newspapers almost a year ago. Both are still holding their jobs. It is high time we got the U.N. and its contingents of Communist spies out of the United States.

said consumption worldwide will drop 5 percent next year, a savings of between 2 million and 3 million barrels of oil a day.

These are positive results, whatever the cause. But the big question for U.S. officials is whether they have come in time.

The major oil-producing nations of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi are tiring of maintaining production at maximum levels, and all are considering cutbacks, although they haven't said when.

They argue that they are earning more from their oil production than they need to finance their own economies, and the extra oil should be left in the ground to meet future needs.

But the United States fears that substantial cutbacks in 1980 would push oil prices sharply higher and bring on a worldwide recession. Oil supply and demand are now balanced "on a knife's edge," one official said.

Officials are especially worried about Saudi Arabia, which has been producing 9.5 million barrels a day since the Iranian oil cutback last summer, but which would like to cut back to 8.5 million barrels a day.

RELIEF ACTION UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Forty-one countries have pledged $91 million in cash and relief supplies to fund next year's aid program for Palestinian refugees administered by the U.N. Relief and Works Agency.

HORIZONTAL ELEVATOR — Duke University Medical Center employees take an inaugural ride on the Center's new 5.9 million dollar transportation system, connecting Duke Hospital South with Duke Hospital North, which is expected to open next year. (AP Laserphoto)

Futuristic Transit At Duke Medical Center

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The walk isn't very long, only 1,200 feet, but Duke Medical Center thought the distance could get awfully tiring, especially for someone pushing a patient on a stretcher.

And, in the rain, it could get downright uncomfortable for everyone concerned.

So what they did was to come up with an innovative approach for moving people — a horizontal elevator that moves on a cushion of air. The system was inaugurated Thursday.

The $5.9-million system, called Personal Rapid Transit, links the hospital with the new $93-million, 600-bed Duke Hospital North, scheduled to open next year.

The futuristic little cars, painted white and Duke-Blue, cost about $4,900 for every foot they will travel between the two hospitals.

But, medical center chief executive officer, Dr. R.R. Robinson, thinks the transit system is worth its cost. The cost of the system, he said, will be more than made up by its efficiency and convenience.

He said at the inauguration of the new transit system Thursday that running the old hospital is akin to operating a "Concorde in a DC-3 chassis."

The transit cars each hold 18 people and can accommodate patients in hospital beds or on stretchers.

Each car travels on 12 air cushions, and the car emits a slight hum and hiss as it almost imperceptibly rises on air at the beginning of each trip.

The inaugural trips Thursday to show off the new system were a little bumpy. Engineers said that was because it was raining and that the ride normally was not as bouncy. Travel time between the two hospitals is about 90 seconds.

Robinson called the system a lifeline between the two hospitals.

The system will be used by patients, visitors and employees to get from one building to the other. A link will also go to a new parking deck.

Similar systems are in operation at Disney World in Florida and at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. The Duke system is the first installed at a hospital.

New Manager Is Named For Bank Offices Here

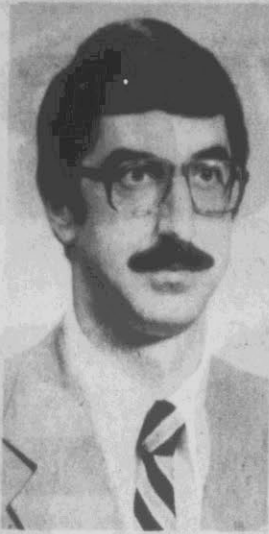

Timothy C. Dale has been named manager of the Greenville offices of Branch Banking & Trust Co., the bank announced.

Dale succeeds William D. Mitchell, who has left the bank, as head of BB&T's Greenville operations.

Before his transfer to Greenville, Dale was a member of the Business Loan Department in the bank's Wilson office. He joined BB&T's management development program in Wilson in 1976.

Prior to joining the bank, he was a business instructor at the College of the Albemarle where he was elected Outstanding Business Instructor. He was named manager of the credit analysis section of the training program and served until transferring to the main office in the Business Loan Department in May. He was named manager of the department in August of this year.

A graduate of Southern Wayne High School in Dudley and the University of North Carolina, Dale received a full graduate fellowship to East Carolina University where he was awarded a Master's degree in business administration and elected to Beta Gamma Sigma. He is an adjunct instructor in business at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. Dale is a member of the Breakfast Kiwanis Club and a volunteer for the United Way campaign and American Cancer Society.

The new manager is married to the former Carol Mangum of Faison and they have two young children.

The bank's third Greenville office, which opened Thursday at the corner of Greene and Third Streets, is now the main office here. Other offices are located on Arlington Boulevard and Memorial Drive.

Responsibility To East Cited

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The president of an oil company that wants to build a refinery in Brunswick County says East Coast states have a moral responsibility to supply their own consumption needs.

Leonard P. Steuart, president of Steuart Petroleum Corp., said his company — a member of a consortium known as Brunswick Energy Co. — has proposed a 150,000-barrel-a-day refinery on a 1,600-acre tract on the Cape Fear River's west bank.

Speaking at a conference on marine resources, Steuart said his company would make an initial investment of $750,000 to build the refinery.

The refinery shortage is particularly acute on the East Coast, which refines only 25 percent of the oil it produces, Steuart said. He maintained that the nation also is short of refining capabilities because it has the wrong type of refineries.

Most refineries, he said, are designed to process only light crude with low-sulfur content, while most oil resources are heavy, high-sulfur crude.

By allowing the company to build facilities capable of refining heavy crude, the East Coast would be able to supply its own needs, he said.

Steuart indicated the result would be a reduction on the dependence of foreign crude and would create an incentive for developing domestic heavy crude reserves.

He said it would be unfair for Brunswick residents to oppose the refinery without giving his company an opportunity to show that such a facility could be operated without endangering the environment.

Information Is Embassy Chore

WASHINGTON (AP) — Information is the stock-in-trade of any foreign embassy and the United States, like most of its major adversaries and allies, regularly uses a number of diplomatic posts as cover for spies.

But the bulk of information gathered in embassies is compiled and analyzed by diplomatic employees who defy the cloak-and-dagger image being bandied about by militants in Tehran. Rather, they work routinely and above-board to glean their material from such sources as the daily newspapers, local academic journals or from open contacts with officials of the host government.

For a diplomat, part of the job is to study local political, economic, military and cultural trends. Some sources are as obvious as a parade of Soviet tanks through Moscow's Red Square; foreign diplomats here elbow their way into congressional hearings on the Pentagon budget.

As U.S. hostages in Tehran face possible trial under "espionage" charges, U.S. officials scoff at the notion that the embassy was a "nest of espionage." While it has not been denied that there may be CIA presence among the hostages, U.S. officials stress that the question is irrelevant in the face of Iranian threats to put the hostages on trial. "It is not a legitimate issue" says White House press secretary Jody Powell.

Under international law, trials of embassy personnel would be "an outright violation of diplomatic relations and diplomatic protection," according to Hodding Carter, the State Department's chief spokesman.

White House spokesman Powell has cited a recent case in which the United States prosecuted two alleged Soviet spies. However, a Soviet diplomat accused of being part of the spy ring was allowed to return to Russia without being prosecuted.

With 50 Americans still held hostage in Tehran, U.S. officials refuse to discuss intelligence work at embassies. "You're dealing with a very dangerous and delicate subject," says former CIA Director William Colby.

Still, it is well known that the United States, the Soviet Union and other nations routinely plant intelligence agents in embassies for espionage, covert actions and counterintelligence operations.

Rose FHA Sets Plans

Plans for activities to be undertaken by members of the Rose High FHA were approved at a recent meeting.

The adopted plans include a visit to Tryon Royal Palace in New Bern before the Christmas holidays; a fashion show to be held in the spring for senior citizens; and a luncheon for custodians at Rose High.

Other plans include a Christmas party for FHA members, and arranging for a guest or resource person to attend the next six meetings of the FHA to lecture or give demonstrations.

A long-term plan applicable to each member is that of selecting an elderly person in the neighborhood, and to devote time each week in assisting that person.

Jackie Austin is president of the Rose FHA chapter, Debra Worthington is the reporter, and faculty advisor is Mrs. Marion Wilkes.

Planning Meet On Dec. 12

The Pitt County Planning Board will meet December 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Law Library at the Pitt County Court House.

Included on the agenda is the consideration of the Millbrook Subdivision, Section I, at Simpson, and the Alton Thomas Mobile Home Park in Belvoir Township.

Other business will include consideration of a drainage problem in Rosewood Subdivision and a proposed multi-family ordinance.

The public is invited to attend these services.

A NEW ERA? — Moammar Khadafy, iron-fisted fundamentalist Moslem ruler of Libya, believes anti-U.S. actions in Iran and his own country are the beginning of an international revolution against the United States, and that the world is coming around to what he has preached for a decade: "the era of the masses". UNHERO SAVED A BURGLAR — Alex Suarez doesn't feel like a hero even though he saved the life of a burglar he chased into the river after he discovered him rifling a bedroom in his Tampa, Florida home. Suarez' temper just flared, because he was the, second burglar to enter his house in the same day. (AP Laserphoto)

Trial Of 34 For Transporting Weapons At Rites Postponed

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Thirty four defendants, charged with illegal transportation of weapons during a funeral march for five radical leftists last month, had their trials postponed in Guilford District Court Thursday until January. The delay was requested by both the defense and the prosecution. The cases of 30 of the defendants charged with transporting weapons during the state of emergency were continued until Jan. 4. The other four were postponed until Jan. 11. The 34 were arrested and charged under extraordinary search and seizure powers granted to police by a state of emergency, imposed Nov. 10 and Nov. 11 on the City of Greensboro by Mayor Jim Melvin. The emergency was one of many security precautions taken by law enforcement officers for the funeral Nov. 11 for five members of the Communist Workers Party. They were shot to death the week before at an anti-Ku Klux Klan rally. Assistant District Attorney David Idol said defense attorneys requested more time so they could confirm arrangements with their clients. Prosecutors wanted more time because the FBI has not completed forensic tests on the weapons seized from the defendants. But Judge Frank Campbell would not accept a plea until the FBI's weapons tests are returned, Idol said. Ralph Clendenin of Greensboro, charged with displaying an offensive sign during the funeral march, was fined $50 and sentenced to six months in jail Thursday. Campbell suspended the sentence for two years and placed Clendenin on unsupervised probation. And Campbell issued an order to arrest Nathan Martin of Greensboro, who is charged with transporting weapons during the state of emergency, for failure to appear in court. Campbell set bond for Martin at $2,000.

Series Of Six Accidents Here

More than $10,300 property damage resulted from a series of six traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday. Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Greenville Boulevard, involving a car driven by Tammy Jo Johnson of 200E3 Kings Row Apts., and a truck operated by James Hartford Brown of Route 2, Macon. Officers said an estimated $2,000 damage resulted to each of the two vehicles.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Charles Rhodes Caraway of New Bern and Beverly Smith Savage of 103 Fairwood La.

A collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Arlington, about 6:15 p.m., involved cars driven by Teresa Ann Sandeford of Route 5, Greenville, and Phillip Ray Moore of Washington.

Police estimated damage at $1,100 to the Sandeford car and $300 to the Moore auto.

A 1:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of First and Jarvis Streets involved cars driven by Garland Herrington Dunston Jr. of Elizabeth City and Bratha Reagan Abee of 103 Dellwood Dr.

Officers set damage at $400 to the Dunston car and $475 to the Abee vehicle.

Cars driven by Grace Ayers Cox of Route 2, Winterville, and Larry Eugene Cox of 384 Aycokk Dorm, collided about 3:50 p.m. on Tenth Street, east of the Forest Hills Circle intersection, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Cox vehicle.

Investigators said no damage resulted to the Cox car.

A car driven by Henry Earl Downs Jr. of Winterville, collided with a city Public Works Department truck about 11:20 a.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 102 feet East of the Brownlea Drive intersection, police reported, causing an estimated $200 damage to the truck, and $2,000 damage to the car.

Investigators, who charged Downs with exceeding a safe speed, said the city truck was stopped while workers picked up trash nearby.

An estimated $800 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 10:04 a.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street.

Attorney Mike Schlosser says all weapons seized from the 34 defendants on Nov. 10 and Nov. 11 have been sent to the FBI for comparison with shells and casings found at the scene of the Nov. 3 shootout.

The FBI is scheduled to complete the forensic tests by Jan. 1.

At least six of the defendants indicated they wanted to plead guilty to the charge of transporting dangerous weapons.

National Parks Tourist Traffic Sharply Down

ATLANTA (AP) — There was a 14 percent drop in tourist visits to national parks in the Southeast this summer, the National Park Service said Thursday.

"Since park visitation usually goes up each year, the gas situation must have had an effect on vacation patterns, said Southeast Regional Director Joe Brown. "Our statistics indicate that many people stayed home this summer and most of those who did visit parks apparently avoided long-distance driving. Parks close to population centers generally showed less of a decline than out-of-the-way areas."

Here is a state-by-state breakdown for the three summer months, as compared with 1978:

ALABAMA: All parks showed a decrease in the number of visitors, led by a 33 percent decline at Horseshoe Bend National Military Park.

FLORIDA: Summer visitation increased by 22 percent at Fort Caroline National Memorial and 10 percent at Fort Jefferson in the Dry Tortugas and 4 percent at Biscayne National Monument. Six other parks showed decreases led by a 27 per cent drop at Castillo de San Marcos at St. Augustine, and 24 percent at the Everglades.

GEORGIA: Attendance increased at Cumberland Island, Fort Frederica on St. Simons Island and at Kennesaw Mountain near Atlanta, but was off significantly at Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park, the Andersonville historic site near Plains, Fort Pulaski and Ocmulgee National Monument.

KENTUCKY: Both Mammoth Cave and Abraham Lincoln's birthplace reported 28 percent declines while visitation at Cumberland Gap was down 5 percent.

MISSISSIPPI: Visitation increased at Brices Cross Roads and the Tupelo National Battlefield, but decreased at Natchez Trace Parkway and Vicksburg National Military Park.

NORTH CAROLINA: The Blue Ridge Parkway, which gets more visitors than any other park service area, showed a 16 percent decrease. Visitation also was down at Cape Hatteras, the Carl Sandburg home, Fort Raleigh, the Guilford Courthouse and Moores Creek National Military Park. New ferry service at Cape Lookout National Seashore boosted visitation by 20 percent.

SOUTH CAROLINA: Visitation was up at Cowpens battlefield, down at Kings Mountain and Fort Sumter.

TENNESSEE: There were 13 percent fewer visitors in the Great Smoky Mountains and declines were reported at Fort Donelson, Shiloh and Stones River. Andrew Jackson National Historic Site showed an increase in summer visitors.

Recovered 4 Dead Sailors

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The bodies of four crewmen of a Finnish freighter were recovered and 10 other sailors were missing and believed drowned when their ship capsized in stormy weather, the coast guard said today.

Rescue teams, hampered by winds and high waves, rescued 14 members of the 28-man crew, including the ship's captain following Thursday night's accident.

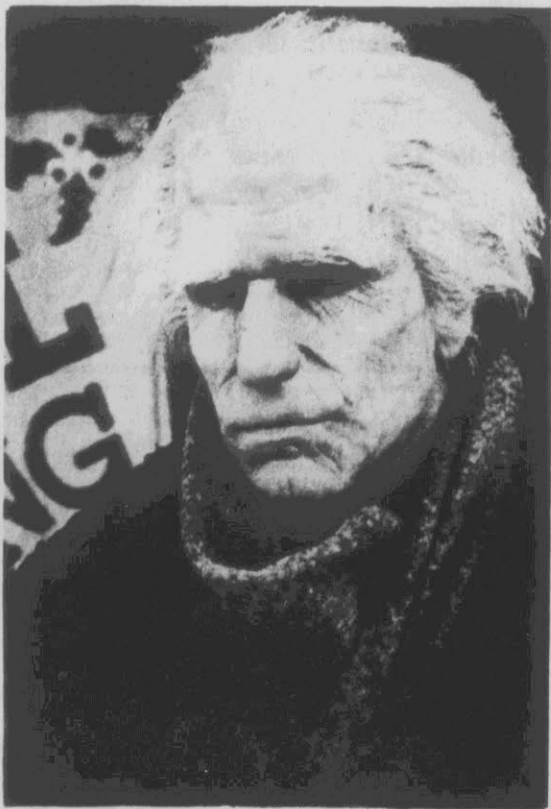

A coast guard spokesman said chances of finding more crewmen were slim. He said they wouldn't survive long because of the weather and a water temperature of 41 degrees.

The 6,800-ton coal-carrying Malmi was sailing from the Polish port of Gdynia to the port of Turku on Finland's west coast. The vessel went down only minutes after the crew reported it listed heavily.

The coast guard gave no immediate official explanation for the accident but there was speculation it might have been caused by a shifting of the cargo in the heavy seas.

"I had just told the crew to ready the life rafts when she turned over," said Captain Perttu Nurminen, 30, after being rescued by a Swedish navy helicopter from a sinking raft.

"It happened so fast that I hadn't time to jump into the sea. I was sucked away by a wave but managed to swim to a life raft not far away. The raft was filled with water but we managed to keep it afloat.

'Children Of God' Now Found In 70 Countries

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The latest summary of teachings circulated by the "Children of God" details its recommended use of sex to lure recruits. "Flirty fishing," it has been called by the leader of the widely dispersed group, David Berg, known to his followers as "Moses David," "Father David" or "Mo". "People today are terrifically desirous of sex and in need of sex, therefore if you don't satisfy their sexual appetite they have a hard time believing that you really love them," he writes. "So sometimes we have to satisfy that appetite to prove to them that we really care and we're concerned and that we love them."

The advice is part of a new compilation of Berg's "love letters" currently mailed to possible recruits, seeking to enlist them as members with pledges of a 10 percent tithe of income, a $10 monthly or other regular contribution.

The group, founded by Berg in California in 1968, is now scattered in 70 countries, according to a recent study by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and currently claims 8,000 young people belong.

Alternatively called the "Children of God" or "Love Family," it is one of numerous new religions that sprung up in this country about the start of the 1970's, some fading out, others still growing, usually more slowly.

They've undergone a sharp decline, according to findings of a survey of religion writers across the country, made by the Rev. Martin E. Marty, a church historian of the University of Chicago Divinity School. "Ninety-three percent saw these groups sliding at the decade's end," he reports in the current ecumenical weekly, Christian Century.

But the "Children of God" or "Love Family," with units and mailing addresses in many countries, still is actively pursuing members, as indicated in the new mailings, advocating sex as an evangelistic technique.

"Flesh can satisfy flesh, but only spirit can satisfy spirit, and we soon found that we had to give of both to 'satisfy all their needs according to His riches in glory,'" Berg writes, along with drawings of couples in close embrace.

The current mailings come from Zurich, Switzerland, where Berg now apparently resides.

The B'nai B'rith report says the group's materials are a mixture of biblical misquotations, sex, predictions of earthly doom and "anti-Israel.

pro-Arab propaganda steeped regularly denounces all historical in crude anti-Semitism." It also cally organized churches.

Bells Peal For Prayer

NEW YORK (AP) - Manhattan's Trinity Church, which faces the Wall Street financial district, has started pealing its bells for two minutes each day at noon in prayer vigil for the American hostages held in Iran.

The observance - also including noontime sermons devoted to the Iranian situation - is part of a spreading practice of special devotions in behalf of the Iranian-held Americans and prayers for peaceful resolution of the crisis.

The White House has issued a special appeal for such services, including the noon-time bell-ringing.

And calls for such prayers and support came from agencies of the United Methodist Church, from the Baptist World Alliance and from the United Church of Christ, among others.

The United Church's president, the Rev. Dr. Avery D. Post, urged the denomination's 6,000 local congregations to include in their Sunday services "public prayer" for the hostages, giving all church-goers an opportunity to "speak their individual prayers aloud."

Advising continued hospitable treatment of Iranians living in this country, he urged ministers to "remind our people that our conduct as Christians and Americans in this time of crisis will have far-reaching consequences for our future."

"We can best uphold our Christian principles and be of aid to the American captives in Iran by remaining calm and demonstrating our overriding concern for the welfare and dignity of every human being in our midst."

Sees Entry Into 'Me' Decade

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - "We are coming into the 'me decade' and worshipping at the 'shrine of selfism,'" the general secretary of the United Methodist General Council on Ministries told its annual meeting.

The Rev. Norman E. Dewire citing a "growing trend among our local churches to be places where we focus on just the human potential movement and body-building programs... all with a focus on the new narcissism."

There are "all kinds of pulls and tugs within this council to move us toward selfism," he said, adding that they "pull us away from being the church of Jesus Christ"

Installing New Pastor Sunday

ELDER TYRONE TURNAGE

Elder Tyrone Turnage will be installed as pastor of Little Creek F. W. B. Church Sunday, Dec. 9, 3 p.m., by Bishop C. C. Thomas, Bishop of the Northeast "B" Division, Free Will Baptist Annual Conference.

Pre-installation services will begin Sunday at 11 a.m., with Elder Turnage in charge of services. A fellowship dinner will be served at 2 p.m.

Bishop Thomas will be assisted by Wilson Chapel F. W. B. Church in the 3 p.m. installation services.

Elder Turnage was ordained as a minister in 1974. He serves as pastor of Best Chapel F. W. B. Seven Springs, St. Mark, Pamlico County, and Little Creek Churches. He also serves as associate pastor of Zion Chapel F. W. B. Church, Ayden.

Strong Vote Not To Reconsider

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of the First Baptist Church voted strongly by 217-to-110 not to reconsider the congregation's earlier action dismissing its senior minister, the Rev. Charles A. Trentham.

President Carter and his family belong to the church, but were not present either at the October session terminating Trentham's services, as of Feb. 15, or of the late-November meeting declining to reconsider.

Trentham, 60, was dismissed after some church deacons recommended it, citing his two divorces and what they called his "poor judgment" in dating Alice Gregg Bickerstaff, 28, daughter of Carter's Sunday school teacher.

The Episcopal Churches of Greenville welcome you!

Through cold, snow-covered fields, underneath ice-encrusted trees, the river runs its course.

This brings to mind the Christian Church. It was founded upon the teachings of Jesus who lived His life and did His work unperturbed by the coldness of many of His fellowmen and of the ruling officials. He knew that His work would stand because it was founded upon truth. It not only stood, but has flowed steadily on for centuries. It is still going on today in His churches.

If you do not attend church services why not go this coming Sunday, and identify yourself with this steady flow of the best for which life stands?

There is always room in the river for one more drop of water. There is always room in the Church for one more worshipper.

Members of the Pitt County group joined Epilepsy Foundation of America officials in calling for expanded prevention efforts during the observance. The organization of seeking to involve the public in the prevention of the consequences of epilepsy as well as the reduction of new cases that develop each year. "Solutions to many of the problems associated with epilepsy depend to a great extent upon the awareness and goodwill of the public. Diagnosis and medical treatment have improved dramatically in recent years. We are anxious to see similar progress on the social front," said Ms. Eastwood. Two new pamphlets "Epilepsy: You and Your Child" and "Medications for Epilepsy" are available to interested persons by contacting Ms. Eastwood. Ms. Eastwood said Christine Cortabartarte of Boise, Idaho, is the 1980 National Epilepsy Poster Child. She's an accomplished ice skater, skier and gymnast. The Pitt County group hold their meetings the fourth Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Willis Building. Ms. Eastwood announced the December meeting has been postponed due to the holidays.

Plans and projects for 1980 have been decided by the Pitt County Epilepsy Association. According to President Joyce Eastwood of Greenville, the group will soon purchase a film entitled "Epilepsy — Pass The Word." The film will be shown to local civic groups and other interested persons. An upcoming workshop is also planned. The group participated in the observance of National Epilepsy Month held during November. A

New Studies of Jaw Disease
 Disease of the jaw joint (temporo-mandibular joint) is now the focal point of study, diagnosis and treatment for various types of pain in and around the area of the ear and upper part of the jaw. Many kinds of neuralgic pains that spread to the ear, face, neck, head and even to the shoulders, formerly defied diagnosis and delayed treatment by many months. In recent years, the temporo-mandibular joint has been recognized as the culprit and new techniques have been developed for the early diagnosis of this distressing condition. At one time it was thought that a bad bite of the teeth (malocclusion) was the only reason for changes within the jaw joint. Today, more and more attention is being paid to the possibility that rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis may develop within the jaw joint and cause these distressing symptoms. With this greater understanding, many severe cases of neuralgia, pain in the ears, and pain in the jaw that were previously undiagnosed are now being actively pursued. Highly refined X-ray techniques of the temporo-mandibular joints can now distinguish between poor alignment of the teeth and arthritic changes within the jaw joint itself. These X-rays are not the routine ones that are taken by dentists in their periodic examinations. Once the jaw joint is suspected as the reason for diffuse, radiating pain, the specialized X-ray methods can reveal bony and cartilaginous changes within the joint itself. When there is gross evidence of the fact that a poor occlusion of the teeth is responsible, it is possible to realign the teeth to take pressure off the jaw joint. When arthritis, in one of its

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady. Supply adequate. Demand good. Weights desirable to heavy. The North Carolina dock weighted average price for next week is 42.18 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,686,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady to lower. Supply adequate. Demand moderate. The price paid per pound for hens over seven pounds, at farm, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter, 19-20 cents, mostly 20 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a strong gain today, reacting to some new declines in interest rates. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 6.40 to 841.47 in the first half hour. Gainers outnumbered losers by better than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

As the market opened several of the nation's largest banks lowered their prime lending rates from 15 1/4 to 15 1/8 percent, joining Chase Manhattan of New York at that level.

The reduction in the basic charge on business loans added fuel to speculation that interest rates might have passed a peak.

Also contributing to those hopes was the Federal Reserve's report late Thursday that the basic measure of the money supply declined $1.1 billion in the latest reporting week.

Connecticut General Insurance led the active list in early trading, up 1 1/4 at 36. A 141,500-share block traded at 35.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 6.66 to 835.07. Gainers outnumbered losers by a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 37.51 million shares against 39.30 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index up 45 at 61.80. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.89 at 233.47.

Skid Row Hotel Fire Kills Four

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — A fire started by a man trying to keep warm in his Skid Row hotel room spread through the three-story building early today, killing four persons and injuring 14, at least four of them critically, authorities said.

Robert Leatherman, described as in his 50s, was arrested on a police warrant of negligent homicide for allegedly starting the fire and booked in the Ogden jail. Police Lt. Charles Buzick said.

"He built it in his hotel room to get warm," said Buzick.

Fire chief J.W. Stevens said when he arrived, the second and third floors of the Reed Hotel three blocks west of the middle of town were in flames and a tenant was sitting on a ledge waiting to be rescued.

Stevens said Leatherman "has given us several different stories. I don't want to elaborate."

Stevens said the 28-room hotel "is an extremely old building. It's always been a cheaper type rooming house."

He said the fire started about 1:45 a.m. in Leatherman's second-floor room and spread to the third floor up the stairwell. The fire was under control within 15 minutes, said Stevens.

Two residents were dead on arrival at Ogden hospitals, Buzick said. Two more died at the University of Utah Medical Center's burn unit in Salt Lake City, said hospital spokesman John Dwan.

At least 14 others were injured, Buzick said. Dwan said four of them were in critical condition in Salt Lake, 35 miles south of Ogden. He said one more was on his way to the burn unit. Names of the dead and injured were not immediately available.

Nephew Of Shah Killed

PARIS (AP) — A nephew of the deposed Shah of Iran was shot and killed today as he left his mother's home in Paris' fashionable 16th district, police said.

Sources said the man was shot twice in the head with a pistol as he left the house. His mother is a twin sister of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Police said the victim, one of two sons of Princess Ashraf, was shot by a motorcyclist at about 1 p.m.

Princess Ashraf is not now in Paris, the sources said. The victim, whose name was not immediately available, was identified only by his relationship to Princess Ashraf. In New York, a spokeswoman for the shah confirmed the shooting, but did not know which of the two sons was the victim.

According to early reports, a witness to the shooting said the victim was walking in the Rue de la Villa Dupont when a man wearing a motorcycle helmet approached him and fired a shot point-blank into his neck.

The victim dropped to the ground, the gunman fired a second shot to the head and then walked briskly away without running, the witness said.

After Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi fled Iran ahead of the revolutionary forces of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini last January, a price was put on his head. Members of the family also were threatened with death.

Showed Up For Fonda Tribute

NEW YORK (AP) — Myrna Loy was there. Maureen O'Sullivan, Eli Wallach and Yul Brynner also showed up for what was billed as a tribute to Henry Fonda.

But the gala turned into an anniversary party for the 74-year-old actor, who is working on a film with his two children.

"Hank and I just celebrated our 14th wedding anniversary," Shirlee Fonda reported after the bash this week at disco New York, New York. "He flew back from Washington Monday and that night we had a quiet dinner, just the two of us. That rarely happens."

Fonda says he is negotiating to have his latest project, a Revolutionary War-era film also featuring son Peter and daughter Jane, presented as a television miniseries.

Police Chief's Wife Sentenced

DOBSON, N.C. (AP) — The wife of the Elkin police chief has been given a five-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty to embezzlement and false pretense charges.

Margie Creech Corder, 38, was accused of taking $4,000 from the Guardian Care nursing home in Elkin where she is an administrator.

Mrs. Corder was ordered to repay the $4,000 and in addition to pay $10,000 to residents at the facility.

Governor For Colony Named

LONDON (AP) — Despite a threat by Patriotic Front guerrillas to "tear up" the new accord for a Zimbabwe Rhodesian cease-fire, the British government today announced the name of its governor for the war-torn colony and published the bill that will give the African country independence next year.

Guerrilla leaders said Thursday they would not abide by the cease-fire unless Zimbabwe Rhodesian forces were forced to withdraw to the same type and number of camps as those set up for guerrilla troops. British officials took a calm view of the latest snag and said it would be discussed today.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government also announced it had selected Lord Soames as governor to take full control of the former British colony during a transition period leading to fresh elections. He is to arrive in Salisbury next week.

Soames, son-in-law of the late Sir Winston Churchill, is a member of Mrs. Thatcher's cabinet and leader of the House of Lords.

Pirates Challenge No. 2 Duke

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor For a young basketball coach in his first season in a head coaching position, one might think having to play second-ranked and powerful Duke University might be more than one could take. But East Carolina's rookie coach Dave Odom looks forward to Saturday night 7:30 p.m.

meeting in Cameron Indoor Stadium. The Blue Devils come into the game with a 4-0 record, and list among their victims Kentucky, Wake Forest, North Carolina and Princeton. In their last outing, on Wednesday, they romped to an 81-45 win over Princeton, leaving no doubt as to their high standing across the country.

The Pirates, for their part, lost a close game to Virginia Commonwealth in the opening round of the Spider Classic, and have pulled off three straight wins since then—but all by close margins. Their victims include West Virginia Tech, Lynchburg and the University of Maine, certainly not in the league with the Blue Devil opponents.

"Ideally, I'd like to approach this one as if it were just another game," Odom said, "but we know it's not. Their ranking does make it special, and the overriding thing is how bad they are beating people. It's just a joke how bad they are beating people."

Odom said that while saying he'd like to control the tempo of the game and the ball, it sounds clichish. Still, he admits, that's what the Pirates have to do to have a chance.

"We've got to be mentally prepared for the aura of being in Cameron. I think only two of our people have ever been there before. What you've got to do is go in with the singular idea of playing the best you can, concentrating totally on your game plan. You can't let the excitement and atmosphere and noise detract from your game or plans, and that's not an easy thing to do."

Odom said he and the Pirates should not have any pressure on them in the game, also. "We have to understand that people don't expect miracles. There is no pressure on us to beat Duke."

"Not that they can't be upset. Sometime this year, they probably will be beaten by someone who shouldn't beat them. Who's to say it can't be us? If the outcome is decided before we go, then why not say, 'Okay, you won!' and just stay home."

Odom said he and the Pirates would attempt to do what the coach feels is the best way to play Duke both offensively and defensively. "I don't think we are going to be physically embarrassed. They may beat us, but they are not going to physically beat us up and black our eyes. It's just a basketball game. What's the worst thing that could happen? I guess we could get shut out, but I don't really think something like that will happen."

Wolfpack Squeaks By ASU

By The Associated Press North Carolina State University squeaked by Appalachian State University, 59-53, Thursday night in a basketball game that had Wolfpack coach Norm Sloan on edge.

"Needless to say, it was a tough game for us," Sloan said of the six-point win over the Mountaineers. "If we had deliberately tried to figure a way to play poorly the first half, we couldn't have played it that well." Meanwhile, in Winston-Salem, Wake Forest University coach Carl Tacy offered praise for his team's performance in trouncing Florida Southern, 81-62.

"We had some good movement inside early," he said, adding a note of caution, however, that "our press offense needs to be a lot smoother." The Wolfpack and the Deacons were the only two Atlantic Coast Conference members in action Thursday night. In Raleigh, it was N.C. State junior Kenny Matthews who led the Wolfpack team to rally in the second half to beat Appalachian. Matthews chipped in 20 points to bring the Wolfpack from behind.

"That first half was a nightmare," Sloan said. "But, we couldn't be happier about the second half. The defense generated a lot of points and we started shooting the ball better."

Sloan had good marks for Matthews' second-half performance and called senior Clyde Austin's last-quarter playing "outstanding."

"I thought we had a chance to win but they applied too much pressure. They had too much shooting in the end," Cremins said. Cremins wasn't the only disappointed coach. Florida Southern coach Hall Wissel said his team, downed by Wake Forest, did not play to standard.

Emory Said To Be Top Choice

Ed Emory, an East Carolina graduate, is expected to be named the new head football coach at the school at a 9 a.m. press conference Saturday.

Officials at the university notified media of the conference this morning, saying they would make the announcement of Pat Dye's successor.

Dye, meanwhile, was at the University of Wyoming with three members of his former ECU staff, and an announcement was expected sometime today, naming him the new head coach at that institution.

The search committee of East Carolina, meeting yesterday, interviewed three other prospects for the job, Frank Orgel, one of the members of Dye's staff; Carl Reese, a former ECU aide, now with the University of Missouri; and Alex Gibbs of the Auburn staff.

Rampant Wrestlers Drop 3rd

NEW BERN — Forfeits again hurt Rose High School's wrestling team, still without several valuable members involved in the 4-A State Football Playoffs. The Rampants fell for the third time last night, bowing to New Bern, 36-25.

Rose had to forfeit three weight classes, and lost five of the remaining ten events. The Rampants get a second chance against the Bears on Tuesday, when the two meet in Greenville.

Summary: 98: Dennis Kilcoyne (R) pinned Anthony Scott, 0:25. 105: John Cheek (NB) won by forfeit.

112: Vincent Murphy (R) pinned Pat Crump, 2:00. 119: Jay Holley (R) decided Stacey Wright, 13:4. 126: Mike Weaver (NB) decided Jasper Howard, 6:2.

132: Carl Huddle (NB) pinned Donald Nobles, 3:52. 138: John Talton (NB) decided Jeff Atkinson, 14:10. 145: Allen Best (R) decided Harvey Case, 11:7.

155: Jeff Tyndall (NB) decided Eric Slaton, 9:4. 167: Reggie Eaton (R) pinned Dexter White, 0:38. 185: Vance Griffin (NB) decided Ben Smith, 4:1.

195: Tom McClay (NB) won by forfeit. Heavyweight: William Louts (NB) won by forfeit.

Robert Weaver, director of admissions, said Belin, Hubbard, Logan, Roby and Tarrance each received three credits for an extension course offered by Ottawa, Kan., University on the campus of Los Angeles Valley State College in Van Nuys, Calif., but had never taken the class.

Few Left, But Lobos Will Play

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — There's little left of the University of New Mexico basketball team, but the Lobos plan to continue playing games with the few players who remain and a handful of newcomers.

Athletic Director John Bridgers said Thursday that five players, including three starters, have been declared ineligible and another was suspended because of questions about his eligibility.

Another player, Craig Gilbert, had been declared ineligible last week. That leaves the Lobos with only five eligible players and one of them is out with an injury. Officials said the team will be filled out for Saturday night's game against arch-rival New Mexico State by two football players and three student walk-ons.

Bridgers said Wednesday, his first day on the job, that as a last resort the Lobos might have to fold for the season if too many players were declared ineligible. He said Thursday the Lobos would continue the season with its makeshift squad.

University officials declared the five players ineligible Thursday after they learned the students were credited with a course they never took.

The five were identified by Bridgers as Larry Belin, Larry Hubbard, Andre Logan, Paul Roby and Larry Tarrance. He said Jerome Henderson, who has told officials he took the course, was suspended "pending further investigation."

maker Nancy Lieberman started for the Lady Monarchs in their game with North Carolina State Thursday night. Mentally, she said, she was still in the Bahamas.

Lieberman had just finished competition in the women's version of television's "The Superstars" in the Bahamas. Having returned to the team only Wednesday, caused her to "miss" the first half of the game with the Wolfpack.

When she finally arrived, however, she helped propel her top-ranked and undefeated (7-0) team to a 74-61 win over the fifth-ranked Wolfpack.

"I just thank God that our teammates are as good as they are," she said in referring to her own sluggish play in the first half.

"Any player can pick up the slack on any given night," she said. When Lieberman geared up her own game, she finished the night with 14 points including a perfect eight-for-eight from the foul line. She also grabbed 14 rebounds, second only to Anne Donovan's 18. The 5-10 senior from Far Rockaway, N.Y., went scoreless in the first half.

Chris Critelli led the Lady Monarchs, now 7-0, with 15. It was her clutch long-range shooting that saved the team from having to rely solely on its big front line of Donovan and Inge Nissen. Nevertheless, Nissen scored 13 before fouling out with seven minutes left to play.

Dantley Leads Jazz Past Trail Blazers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Jazz Coach Tom Nissalke figured just right.

"We wanted to go to A.D. (Adrian Dantley) in the overtime. We figured he would either score or get fouled."

The 6-5 forward did both.

He scored and got fouled to the tune of 10 points in the overtime as the Jazz downed the Portland Trail Blazers 87-82 in National Basketball Association action Thursday night.

In the only other NBA game scheduled last night, San Diego nipped Golden State 105-103.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay acknowledged contributing to his team's difficulties with a technical foul.

"About my technical," Ramsay said, "These were my exact words when it was called. 'Call the foul, Bob (Rakel).' I think we would have won the game if I hadn't been called for that technical."

Dantley scored three field goals and four points from the foul line in the extra five-minute period.

He not only played hero during the overtime, he came through with 24 points in regulation play and wound up with 34 for the night.

Portland sent the game into overtime when Ron Brewer connected on a jumper from the top of the key with one second remaining.

But it was all Dantley in the overtime as the Jazz outscored the Blazers 11-6.

Kermit Washington led Portland scorers with 16 points before fouling out late in the game. Maurice Lucas, who was ejected in the closing minutes after drawing his second technical foul, added 14, as did Tom Owens.

After Dantley, it was Allan

Bristow with 13 for Utah.

Both teams shot poorly the first half, as Portland managed a 16-13 margin after one quarter and led 34-32 at the half.

Utah came back to go ahead 58-55 at the third quarter mark, and then nursed its lead down to the fourth quarter buzzer, when Brewer tied it up.

"We didn't execute well at all tonight," Ramsay said.

Clippers 105, Warriors 103

Lloyd Free scored 30 points and triggered a third-quarter spurt as San Diego broke a three-game losing streak with its victory over Golden State.

The Clippers were trailing 69-68 midway through the third quarter when Free, the NBA's leading scorer, connected on a layup to ignite a run of eight straight points, giving San Diego a lead it held the rest of the way.

Brian Taylor and Bingo Smith added 17 and 16 points, respectively, for the Clippers. Robert Parish led the Warriors with 21 points and 19 rebounds. Purvis Short and Wayne Cooper had 18 points apiece for Golden State.

We've heard a lot over the past week about this and that concerning the football situation at East Carolina University.

The most disturbing thing we've heard is from several supporters who, having backed Pat Dye to the hilt, now are threatening to withhold their support from whoever becomes the new coach.

"We don't like what was done to Pat Dye," we've been told, "and we won't support the new guy until he shows what he can do."

That, pure and simple, is nonsense.

Sonny Randle, seven and eight years ago, had East Carolina winning nine games a season. While Sonny might not have been the most personable guy to everyone, he did win for us, and that was what counted.

Midway through the following season, however, Pat Dye was having his troubles. And the rumblings among the alumni and fans was noisy. They didn't like him and his sorry wishbone one bit.

As late as last year, Dye was publicly challenged on his choice of Leander Green as quarterback.

Now, in a large measure, we face the same situation at East Carolina. A new coach is coming in, amid the grumblings of those who liked Pat Dye.

We liked Dye. That is evident. But at the same time, we are not looking for the world to come to an end.

We can remember Randle saying a short while before he left that East Carolina would never beat a UNC football team. So much for predictions of that kind.

Certainly Dye left saying some things he probably shouldn't have. He has acknowledged that. The fact that there were internal problems is really no big secret. All schools have these problems. Some are more serious than others.

Dr. Tom Brewer, ECU's chancellor, has assured us that the program will continue to grow. The schedule will improve. It can't be done overnight.

Dick Crum, in his talk to the Greenville Sports Club this week, made an important point that fits the East Carolina situation on scheduling. He said that UNC is booked solid through 1994. This is not atypical. Many schools have their schedule filled through 1990 at least.

With East Carolina unable to FIRMLY offer the type guarantees needed to attract name teams until the enlargement of Ficklen Stadium was underway (only two years ago), the Pirates have had to watch for shufflings that occur, and try to grab those.

It all boils down to this: the Pat Dye era at East Carolina is over. No amount of grumblings or bumper stickers are going to bring him back.

The alumni and fans must now gather behind whoever becomes the new head coach. We can only say this: are you East Carolina fans or Dye fans? If your support is strictly for Dye, then send your money to Wyoming.

If you are East Carolina fans, then support the program and its new leader. Otherwise, YOU are the ones who will make the program go backward.

Dawkins Told To See O'Brien

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Darryl Dawkins, the National Basketball Association's top backboard buster this season, and two of his bosses have been ordered to report to the league commissioner today in response to a stern summons.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien requested the meeting with the Philadelphia 76ers' center, Coach Billy Cunningham and General Manager Pat Williams on Thursday, one day after Dawkins shattered his second backboard in a month.

O'Brien had already warned that intentional destruction of backboards would not be tolerated. However, the 6-foot-11 1/2 Dawkins insists his destructiveness is purely accidental — the result of simply being more powerful than other players.

He calls it "Chocolate Thunder."

The commissioner's warning came after Dawkins destroyed a backboard Nov. 13 in a game against the Kings in Kansas City. He duplicated the feat Wednesday night in a game here against the San Antonio Spurs.

As a result, both games were delayed over an hour while workmen replaced the backboards.

"Out in the boondocks, Darryl is being viewed as some sort of wonder of nature," Williams said after the latest incident. "The legend of Darryl Dawkins grows around the country."

"Of course, if this gets to be a commonplace thing, it will be annoying," Williams added.

Dawkins said breaking backboards is dangerous.

Then, in the spirit of the old West, the 252-pound player added, "That glass comes down, it's time to get out of Dodge."

Williams said that the 22-year-old Dawkins was not busting up backboards intentionally, nor was he breaking any NBA rules.

"If he was doing something against the rules, then, yes, the league could step in," Williams said.

An NBA official said the league is considering a collapsible basket that would separate from the backboard under more than 260 pounds of pressure.

"The player would end up holding the rim," explained Joe Axelson, the NBA's director of operations. "The rim could then be re-attached quite simply so the game wouldn't be held up."

Dawkins destroyed the backboard Wednesday by cocking the ball between his shoulder blades, soaring into the air and ramming it through the hoop.

"It was the power, the chocolate thunder," Dawkins said of the dunk. "I could feel it surging through my body, fighting to get out. I had no control over it."

The company that made the glass for the backboard, Ronan Kunz Co. of Marshall, Mich., said the glass cannot be broken with a direct hit. Spokesmen said the glass is four times as strong as auto safety glass and could only break as a result of pressure on the rim.

Eagles Host Cowboys Saturday In Key NFC Battle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They both stumbled over three straight losses, but neither the Philadelphia Eagles nor the Dallas Cowboys fell flat.

The Eagles recovered from their tailspin to upset the Cowboys 31-21 in Dallas last month and have since won three straight to become the first National Football League team to earn a playoff berth.

The Monday night loss to the Eagles was the first of three games in 10 days for the Cowboys. Dallas lost all three to fall a full game behind Philadelphia in the National Football Conference Eastern Division.

With 10 days' rest after the Thanksgiving Day loss to the Houston Oilers, the Cowboys simplified their offense, got their running game going and took a 28-7 win from the New York Giants last Sunday to end their skid.

It all becomes academic Saturday, when the Eagles, 10-4, host the Cowboys, 9-5, in a nationally televised rematch.

In another game Saturday, Denver is at Seattle in a game that will help decide whether the Broncos or San Diego take AFC West Division honors. The Chargers face the Saints at New Orleans Sunday.

"The game against Dallas is for all the marbles," said Eagles tight end Keith Krepfle.

"If we win it, we have a good chance of winning the division," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And if we lose it, there's a chance we won't even be in it (the playoffs)."

Dallas is still one game behind the Eagles, tied with the Washington Redskins, who the Cowboys play at home to close out the regular season a week from Sunday.

"I don't even know all those tie-breaking things, but I know we're going to the playoffs," said Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil after Philadelphia guaranteed itself at least a wild-card playoff spot with a 44-7 win over the Detroit Lions last Sunday.

"A game like that helps us from a momentum standpoint going in against Dallas," Vermeil said. "Beating the Cowboys once in a season is tough enough, but beating them twice in the same year is next to impossible."

"Now we'll raise our sights a little and see if we can't win the conference championship," said Vermeil, who had set a goal of 10 wins in training camp, figuring last year's 9-7 record wouldn't be enough to get the Eagles to the playoffs again.

Landry said that wide receiver Drew Pearson, sixth in the conference in receptions and second in total yards, and defensive end John Dutton are both questionable with bad knees.

Pearson injured his left knee against the Giants after catching the second of three touchdown passes when he threw the football into the stands and landed off-balance.

"I'm depressed and disappointed that I did that to myself, particularly at such a critical point in the season," said Pearson.

On the Cowboys' bright side, defensive tackle Randy White appears completely recovered from the sprained foot suffered against the Eagles.

Philadelphia has replaced free safety Brenard Wilson, who broke his foot against the Lions, with veteran Deac Sanders. Sanders will back up John Sciarra.

In other NFL action Sunday with a bearing on the playoffs, the Chicago Bears are at Green Bay hoping to keep alive their playoff chances; the Redskins host the Bengals in a key game for Washington; the Rams and Falcons face off in Atlanta in a game that could help Los Angeles to an NFC West Conference championship; NFC Central leader Tampa Bay travels to San Francisco; and New York's Jets host the Patriots, who need a win to stay alive in the AFC East race with Miami, which is at Detroit.

In other games, the New York Giants are at St. Louis, Minnesota hosts Buffalo, Kansas City plays the Colts at Baltimore and Cleveland goes to Oakland.

Baseball Talks Near Deadline

TORONTO (AP) — With the minutes ticking away, baseball's major league brass, slow to act most of the week, talked feverishly today in an attempt to beat the interleague trading deadline at midnight in the windup of the annual winter meetings.

After just two deals in the first three days, the tempo picked up Thursday with four trades involving 15 players. Three of the agreements were reached during the evening dinner hour.

Slugging outfielder Jeff Burroughs, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1974, right-handed pitcher Doyle Alexander and outfielders Al Cowens and Willie Mays Aikens were the top figures in club exchanges.

"There's been a little action and there could be quite a flurry on the final day before everyone heads home," one West Coast club executive said. "You just can't predict anything. I think a lot of clubs are moving slowly because of the second interleague trading period (Feb. 15-March 15)."

The Atlanta Braves, determined to escape the National League West cellar in 1980, were No. 1 in the wheeling and dealing as the curtain lowered on what has been, so far, one of the duller winter meetings on record.

The Braves, who earlier had signed Al Hrabosky as a free agent and acquired Chris Chambliss and Bill Nahorodny in trades, went to it again Thursday, reaching agreement on a five-player transaction with the Texas Rangers.

However, there was one big catch in the deal, in which Burroughs and Alexander were the key players. It was subject to approval by Burroughs, who was traded to Atlanta two years after winning the MVP award with Texas stipulated in Burroughs' multi-year contract with the Braves he has the right to approve all trades.

Early today, General Manager John Mullen of the Braves said he had been unsuccessful in trying to call Burroughs at his homes in Atlanta and Long Beach, Calif.

In the deal, right-hander Adrian Devine, traded with Burroughs to Atlanta four years ago, and infielder Pepe Frias were scheduled to move to Texas.

The Rangers also threw in light-hitting reserve infielder Larvell Blanks, a journeyman who broke in with Atlanta in 1972.

In another major trade Thursday, the California Angels shipped Aikens and shortstop Rance Mulliniks to the Kansas City Royals for outfielder Al Cowens and shortstop Todd Cruz.

Despite High Scores, Coaches Not Filled With Happiness

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Michigan State, Detroit and Iowa all had pretty high scores in college basketball Thursday night, but none of them got an "A for Effort" from their coach.

After relatively easy victories, Jud Heathcote of Michigan State was unhappy with his defense, Willie McCarter of Detroit was unhappy with his offense and Iowa's Lute Olson was just plain unhappy, period.

"We looked very good on offense and just plain average, mediocre to poor, defensively," said Heathcote after his Spartans scored an 87-73 victory over Long Beach State.

Heathcote was particularly distressed with his team's lackluster second-half performance that allowed the 49ers to wipe out part of a mountaintop 22-point Spartan lead.

"We played well the first five to six minutes of the second half," said Heathcote. "Then it did not seem that anything we did went well. I was not pleased with the last seven-eight minutes."

Jay Vincent had 25 points and Ron Charles a career-high 21 to lead the Michigan State attack.

In Detroit, McCarter was "not pleased offensively," even though his Titans defeated Oregon 71-59 behind Earl Cureton's 19-point, 12-rebound performance.

Olson was similarly displeased after his 20th-ranked Hawkeyes whipped Northern Iowa 78-46.

Elsewhere in college basketball, North Carolina State defeated Appalachian State 59-53 as Kenny Matthews scored 20 points and led a second-half rally. The Wolfpack trailed 29-18 at the half before staging its comeback.

"The first half was a nightmare," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan. "But we couldn't be happier about the second half. The defense generated a lot of points, and we started moving the ball better."

Al Beal scored 23 points and 9 rebounds to lead Oklahoma past Louisiana Tech 84-69. The 6-foot-9 Beal hit nine of 11 field goals, leading a hot Sooner offense that shot 62 per cent.

Mike Helms scored 20 points to pace Wake Forest over Florida Southern 81-62. Florida State routed South Florida 89-71 as forward Murray Brown scored 25 points. Two free throws by Lewis Lloyd with five seconds left gave Drake an 82-81 victory over Oral Roberts.

Forward Eddie Johnson collected 16 points to pace Illinois to a 74-65 decision over Kent State. Jeff Malone sank two free throws with three seconds left to help Mississippi State lock up a 110-106 triumph over Vanderbilt. Vernon Smith

Commaneci Comes To The Rescue

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — In a little over a minute Thursday night, Nadia Comaneci's mystique endured.

Like Willie Stargell coming off the bench in the ninth inning to hit the game winning homer, it was Comaneci to the rescue, bad hand and all.

Romania's 18-year-old queen of the gymnastics world had been in All Saints Episcopal Hospital only five hours before the start of Thursday night's competition with a badly infected hand.

Her left hand was swollen so bad that doctors hooked her up to an intravenous antibiotic solution. While she munched on chocolate bars and drank exalts, the solution ran through her veins combating what doctors termed a "spontaneous infection."

Come show time, which was the women's optionals in the 20th World Gymnastics Championships, good trooper Comaneci gave it her best shot.

The Romanians, vying for their first team gold medal, got into trouble in the second event, the vault, after Commaneci graded a flat zero in the uneven bars when she couldn't continue because of the pain.

Emilia Eberle fell off the balance beam and scored an embarrassing 8.95. This meant Comaneci, the darling of the 1976 Olympics with her three gold medals and perfect 10s, HAD to compete. Teams can throw out the poorest score of their six competitors.

Comaneci's aerial cartwheel on the six-inch wide beam and a perfect dismount earned her a near-perfect 9.95 in the event. Her score hand was forced to touch the beam three times.

The Romanians, with Comaneci watching from the sidelines in the vault and floor exercises, earned that first gold medal by .625 over Russia, ending a 12-year domination by the Soviets. It was only their second defeat since the Soviets began competing in 1954. Without Nadia's performance, the Romanians would have been second again.

In the final team results Romania scored 389.50, Russia 388.925, East Germany, 388.075, China 384.600.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have the chance to handle important personal matters which you have been unable to do during the busy week. You would be wise not to discard plans of the past.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have fine creative ideas that can be expressed at this time. Devote more time to the one you love and show true devotion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Strive for more harmony with family members. Take time to study a project that could mean increased income in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Discuss routine affairs with associates and improve them by a more cooperative attitude. Establish more order around you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put new ideas across to allies and success could follow. You are able to get the backing you need now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go after whatever you desire in a positive fashion for best results. Seek the company of influential persons later in the day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to gain whatever is of importance to you at this time. Don't lose your temper over a situation that displeases you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact new acquaintances and plan to turn them into good friends. A good day to gain personal wishes that mean much to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make an effort to improve your position in the community. Don't do anything to jeopardize harmony at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study new interests that will help you to express talents you possess. Be more willing to listen to ideas of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make good use of your intuitive perceptions and you can improve your way of life. Engage in recreational activities you enjoy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to complete your regular chores so you will have more time for amusements. Make new friends in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you analyze a new plan more carefully you will know how to be more successful. Take treatments to improve your appearance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability to see everything in its largest scope, so be sure to educate well so that your progeny can become a most successful person. Be sure to give encouragement and praise early in life.

TV Christmas Film Denounced

By PETER J. BOYER

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This weekend, NBC will air a Christmas drama called "Mary and Joseph: A Story of Faith." Next year, the network may stick to "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

NBC's dramatization of the lives of Mary and Joseph and the birth of Christ has outraged some religious leaders, prompting a nationwide protest against the broadcast, which, in turn, has produced a mammoth headache for NBC. Controversy sometimes helps a program's ratings, but "when you put on a religious program over the holidays," one NBC executive said, "controversy is the last thing in the world you want."

At issue is a script that fills in some of the spaces in the New Testament telling of Christ's birth with screenwriters' suppositions. "Mary and Joseph" is, simply, docudrama. The film's writers attempt to flesh-out the rather sketchy biblical account of the lives of Mary and Joseph, drawing upon research and imagination. Joseph, for example, is portrayed as a sort of guerrilla type, fighting the forces of King Herod.

Mary's father is crucified in the film, an event which has no biblical foundation. And Mary, after telling the whole town of Nazareth she is pregnant with the Son of God, is tried for adultery and blasphemy and sentenced to death by stoning. This too, was invented by the film's writers.

The question is whether a telling of the birth of Christ can properly include fiction.

Father Andrew Marinak, a Catholic pastor in Chambersburg, Pa., clearly thinks not.

"I think it's an anti-Christian film, I really do," Marinak said after viewing the film. "The Scriptures aren't used in their proper sense. Mary is depicted as being ill-tempered and strong-willed, which is contrary to the biblical image, and Joseph is a man who tries to kill people."

Perhaps the most exciting event at the bridge table is watching an expert declarer match wits with one of the best defenders in the game. We were delighted to be at the table when this hand was dealt at a high-stake rubber bridge game.

There are those who might quibble at the way North and South reached three no trump, although the contract is not unreasonable. Obviously, South's decision to open one no trump with his balanced 18 points facing a partner who had passed, cannot be questioned. But some might raise their eyebrows at North's raise to two no trump—certainly he had nothing to spare. North felt that his five-card suit and useful intermediate cards more than compensated for the 1 point he might be lacking for his raise, and we heartily concur with his point of view.

West led the four spades, and East's ten forced out the king. Given time, declarer can drive out the aces of clubs and hearts and come to nine tricks. Unfortunately, by then the defenders will have set up and cashed their spades, and they will have at least five tricks to defeat the hand. There was only one way to make the contract—declarer had to sneak through a heart trick while he still held the ace of spades in dummy. If declarer plays on clubs first, the defenders will win and clear the spades while they still hold the ace of hearts.

In an attempt to catch the defenders off guard, declarer acted quickly. At trick two he led a low heart. West started to play low routinely—second-hand low, as the textbooks state—but caught himself in time.

Why was declarer leading a heart when that lovely five-card club suit was sitting in dummy? The answer could be only that he was indulging in a bit of thievery. West also reasoned that if he grabbed the ace of hearts and cleared the spades, declarer would have to come to nine tricks without a club trick, and that was unlikely. East naturally unblocked a spade honor under the ace, and the contract was doomed.

Court Told Judge Threatened In Smuggling Case

By RICK SPRATLING
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge who heard his own life threatened in a stunning plot to disrupt the drug-smuggling trial of the "Black Tuna" gang was to decide today whether to dismiss a juror mentioned in the plan.

FBI Special Agent Ronald E. Reese testified late Thursday that seven persons accused of plotting to disrupt the case considered arranging for "the involuntary removal of the judge." They also considered bribing jurors and killing a witness, Reese said.

Reese was asked what "involuntary removal" meant. "In my opinion, they were speaking about killing the judge," he said.

Nearly all the plotting was done in the presence of a government informant wearing electronic bugging gear, the FBI said. As a result of the bugging, seven persons were indicted Thursday on charges of attempting to influence and obstruct the trial. Included were three Black Tuna defendants, the wife of a defendant, a New York City man and two New Jersey men.

After hearing tapes of the plot, U.S. District Judge James L. King revoked bond for four Black Tuna defendants, including two who were charged with attempted obstruction of the trial and two who were not.

Bond had been $25,000 for each. King also ordered the 12 jurors and four alternates sequestered at a motel and guarded by federal marshals. He did not explain the action to jurors.

Justice Department lawyer Atlee Wampler asked that juror "No. 1" — identified in court records as bookkeeper Karen Youvas — be removed.

"There are reasonable grounds to believe that this juror has been approached," Wampler said. Prosecutors did not accuse any jurors of cooperating with the obstruction plot.

Arthur F. Nehrass, special agent in charge of the FBI in Miami, said one defendant claimed to have "corrupted a sitting juror." Another defendant said a murder contract was issued on the prosecution's star witness, George Purvis Jr. of Fayetteville, N.C., Nehrass added.

"To permit our courts to be destroyed by a gang of drug dealers is unthinkable," said Nehrass, calling the plot the worst interference case he'd seen in 26 years with the FBI.

In the tapes, a voice identified as Lynn Platshorn, wife of a defendant, said the juror had "done this before with her old boyfriend ... she (the juror) happened to mention to this guy that she was on the Black Tuna jury and this guy said, 'There is a friend of mine in it. Maybe we can work something out.'"

The man referred to in the conversation was not identified. The tape continued with the voice identified as that of Mrs. Platshorn saying: "First she wanted a half million. Then she wanted 50." As the tapes were played in court Thursday, Mrs. Platshorn listened closely and shook her head.

The Black Tuna gang — named after its radio password and medallions worn by members — netted $300 million in 1976 and 1977, prosecutors charge. Federal agents call the ring one of the most sophisticated they've seen.

The gang bought ships and planes with abandon and produced its international operations with a small army of well-armed guards, prosecutors claim.

Mrs. Platshorn, 34, was charged in the original indictment. She pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of marijuana possession. Out on bond, she was arrested again Thursday morning in a posh Miami Beach high-rise on the obstruction charge. Also indicted in the plot Thursday were:

—Robert Jay Meister, 37, and Robert Elliot Platshorn, 36, Miami Beach businessmen prosecutors call the Black Tuna ringleaders.

—Randall Gene Fisher, 21, a Fort Lauderdale boat captain and a Black Tuna defendant.

—Joseph Cataldo, 71, of New York; Ralph "Punchy" Stein, 45, of Livingston, N.J., and Archie Morris, 58, of Brigantine, N.J.

The judge revoked the bonds of Platshorn, Fisher and defendants Richard Elliott Grant and Eugene Myers. The government claimed Grant and Myers said they'd flee if it looked as if they'd be convicted. One defendant has fled the country and another was arrested in Aruba, but is expected to be returned.

In October, Nehrass said, Platshorn and Meister had

Mrs. Platshorn contact Morris and Stein, who went to Cataldo. Those three asked Charles Coveney for help, the agent said. Coveney became the FBI informant.

According to a search warrant affidavit, Coveney and the others met in New York and New Jersey during October and November. Coveney wore a hidden eavesdropping device.

Then, the indictment said, Morris visited the trial in Miami Nov. 20, posing as "Joe Morris," a fictitious uncle of Mrs. Platshorn's. He saw Platshorn and Meister that night at the Federal Correctional Institute south of Miami to discuss ways of forcing a mistrial, according to the indictment.

Later that week, the affidavit said, a member of the jury

"sent signals in the courtroom to Fisher to indicate the jurors agrees to cause a mistrial."

United Mine Workers' Structure Seen Crumbling

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer
DENVER (AP) — At the beginning of the decade, some 75 percent of the coal dug out of the ground in this country was produced by members of the United Mine Workers union. Today the figure is below 50 percent and sliding.

U.M.W. stronghold, more than 10,000 miners are out of work. The current bargaining structure — based on negotiations between the U.M.W. and an organization of coal and steel companies — appears to be crumbling.

These and other problems face the 1,000-plus coal miners from across the nation who will gather in Denver Monday for the U.M.W.'s constitutional convention.

"This will be the most important convention we've ever had," Kenny Crotty, a delegate from southern West Virginia's District 29, said recently. "I think the main question is survival," added Steve Shapiro, a local union president.

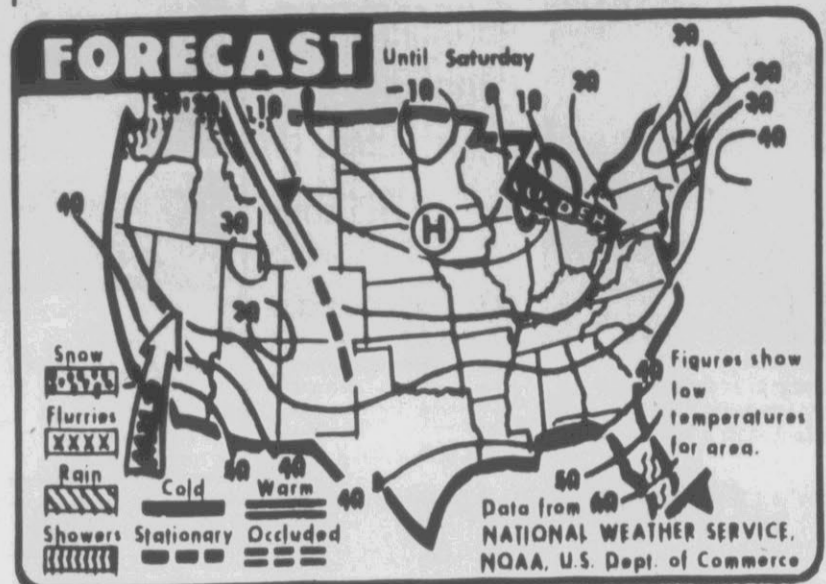

Most of the urgent problems confronting the miners cropped up during the seven-year reign of Arnold Miller.

Miller, a disabled West Virginia miner, was elected U.M.W. president in 1972 on the wave of a reform movement. But his rule was marked by political infighting, hundreds of wildcat walkouts and a 111-day nationwide contract strike, the longest in U.M.W. history.

Miller brought democracy to the U.M.W. and gave the rank-and-file miners the power to approve contracts. In 1978, during that 111-day strike, the miners took the unprecedented step of rejecting an industry offer endorsed by Miller and Church.

Church has been calling for convention unity. For several years, he has taken a generally conciliatory approach with coal company officials, who long ago gave up on Miller and began cultivating his vice president.

Sunshine should return to the Tar Heel state today and sunny, cool weather should remain through the weekend.

A strong cold front from central Canada will provide the cooler weather this weekend. But little precipitation is expected as the front moves into the state. There could be some snow flurries in the mountains.

By Saturday night, temperatures are expected to plunge into the teens and twenties across most of the state. Highs Sunday are expected to be in the 30s and low 40s in the East.

Suspicious Minister In A Heap Of Trouble

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. Benjamin F. Tandy of Winston-Salem was cruising down Interstate 40 toward Greensboro, minding his own business, when a yellow car with a blue light flashing from the dashboard zipped out of nowhere.

He rolled up the window and locked the door, and when the man began walking back toward his own car, Tandy took off. "I figured he was after a gun," he explained.

The stranger, however, turned out to be James Sims, a plainclothes sheriff's deputy, who said Tandy had been impeding the normal flow of traffic.

Some Stampede Survivors Begin Filing Lawsuits

By BILL VALE
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — As residents of this Ohio city began burying the young victims of a rock concert stampede, some of the survivors filed a lawsuit seeking more than $27 million from a British rock group and the promoters of the concert.

Thursday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, said he wants to go to trial as soon as possible.
"There are a lot of strong feelings about what happened. I want the case to be heard while the memory of the event is still fresh in everyone's mind," he said.
The accident occurred when fans of The Who surged into Riverfront Coliseum to get the best seats, trampling those in front. The victims died of suffocation, an autopsy showed.

The suit was filed on behalf of Todd Volkman, 18. He was among those hospitalized following the stampede, the suit said.
Named as defendants were

Who performers Roger Daltrey, Peter Townshend, John Entwistle and Kenny Jones; Cincinnati Riverfront Coliseum and Albert E. Heekin III, statutory agent; and Electric Factory Concerts Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., the promoters, and Cal Levy, their Cincinnati agent.
The suit asked damages of $100,000 each and compensatory damages of $1 million each, for a total of $27.5 million plus attorneys fees.

The suit alleged negligence in promotion, management and performance of the concert. It argued negligence in the sale of more than 15,000 general admission tickets and in the opening of two doors to the crowd when 75 were available.

Levy, on behalf of the promoters, has denied any negligence, saying the promoters were not responsible for providing ushers, ticket takers or other safety devices. Members of The Who have said they were not responsible and had no prior knowledge of any problems.
Meanwhile, several funeral or memorial services were held for victims, with more planned today.

The Wyoming High School senior class attended a memorial service for Peter Bowes, an honor student and volunteer worker at a hospital for the mentally retarded. Bowes, 18, attended the concert with several other students, including one who talked to him moments before the pushing escalated into a frantic fight for life.

"I was right up front where the people were killed. I talked with Peter just before it happened," said Doug Brown, 17.
"I helped carry three bodies inside. I'd never touched a dead person before. If I had seen Peter, I know I would have lost it. He was really special."

The first legal action stemming from the tragedy on Monday asks $1.1 million for each of the 11 killed and 14 injured. And attorney Arnold Morelli, who filed the class-action suit

Dismay Over Non-Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tobacco industry officials are not happy about the fact that two top U.S. Department of Agriculture officials refused to vote to continue tobacco price supports for 1980.

The abstention by the two in a recent vote is legally inconsequential but unprecedented, officials said.

Tobacco price supports are mandated by Congress. The Commodity Credit Corp. must finance the program if the Secretary of Agriculture votes to do so.

Secretary Bob S. Bergland, a CCC board member, voted in favor of the program Sept. 13, but assistant USDA secretaries Carol Tucker Foreman and M. Rupert Cutler, in their roles as two of eight directors of the Federal CCC, abstained when the question was put.

Their action had no effect on the tobacco program.

A majority — three of the five CCC board members present — voted "yes" when the question of financing tobacco price supports in 1980 arose.

In response to the action of Ms. Foreman and Cutler, Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., wrote President Carter saying he found it "hard to understand why two assistant secretaries of agriculture saw fit to abstain from voting for the program, contrary to your announced position."

Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., wrote letters to Ms. Foreman and Cutler asking them to explain their action. Carter was sent copies of the request.

The board of directors of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. in Raleigh, which borrows from the CCC to administer the price-support program, ordered a report on what would have happened if a majority of the CCC board voted against the program.
