Warns Khomeini Faces Civil War In Azerbaijan

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today international observers will see the American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, the spiritual leader of the Azerbaijani Turks who are rebelling against government authority in the northwest, said in an interview today that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini would face civil war if he did not liberalize his policies toward Azerbaijan.

Today the dispute between Iran's two highest-ranking holy men intensified when ShariatMadari, second most senior religious leader, said in an interview with Associated Press Correspondent Maureen Johnson at his home in the holy city of Qom, "If the executive makes mistakes again, the disturbances will continue in Azerbaijan, tension will increase, people will start to kill each other, civil war will take place."

Ghotbzadeh said attempts were being made by Iranian officials to assemble an international grand jury as soon as possible to investigate Iran's grievances, including crimes charged against the deposed shah.

Meanwhile, the official Pars news agency reported today that a revolutionary guard was shot dead behind the embassy last Sunday morning and said the "martyred" guard was buried in his home town in the Sennan central province. Pars said only that the man was killed by "an unknown person" during a change of guard.

ABC News reported the Carter administration had "signaled" that if the hostages were not released within seven to 10 days, the United States would launch an economic campaign to bring down Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. But a spokesman for the State Department's task force on Iran denied the report.

Khomeini on Monday defied the United States to blockade Iran and made a personal attack on President Carter as the outcome of the rebellion in northwest Iran against his authority remained uncertain.

Auto Chase Covered 3 Counties

FARMVILLE — A high speed chase which lasted for 45 minutes and covered about 100 miles ended here this morning with the arrest of Ronald Lee Richards, 32 of Bradenton, Fla.

Highway Patrolman John W. Brooks said Richards was charged with speeding 110 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone, exceeding 55 miles per hour to elude arrest, two counts of careless and reckless driving, possession of a stolen vehicle, auto larceny, and driving while his license was suspended...all in Pitt County.

Deputy Secretary Of Human Resources Tells Agency's Broad Role

Tom Gilmore, deputy secretary of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources visited the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center here yesterday afternoon and was guest speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club last night.

"Our programs," Gilmore told the Rotarians, "are living, breathing, people-oriented programs that make a difference in people's lives. They range from pre-natal care, to assistance for the elderly, and from radiation protection, to mental health."

According to Gilmore, Human Resources is, "working to make our citizens with mental or physical limitations strong and whole through programs designed to give them the opportunities they are entitled to."

Communications Satellite 'Lost'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Satcom III, a one-ton, $20 million RCA Corp. communications satellite, is lost in space after technicians fired an engine meant to send the craft into permanent orbit.

"We lost the satellite and haven't found it yet," said John Williamson, a spokesman for Americom, an RCA subsidiary, in New Jersey.

The television relay satellite disappeared from Americom's New Jersey tracking screens shortly after a kick motor switched on Monday afternoon, Williamson said.

HOUSE BURNED

The house occupied by Mrs. Lois Godley and her daughters, Deborah and Rebecca, 17 and 15, in Bell Arthur burned last Tuesday. It was a total loss.

Mrs. Godley, who works in the Juvenile Court Program of Pitt County, is the widow of the Rev. Tommy Godley, who died in October. Members of Beacon FWB Church, which Rev. Godley founded, near Farmville have asked Hotline to appeal for donations of household goods and clothing for the family. Mrs. Godley wears size 12; her daughters, both size seven.

The church members and other friends are holding a shower for the family Sunday from 2 to 5 p. m. at the Farmville Recreation Center. Gifts may be brought there or delivered at other times to the home of Mike and Shirley Gardner, 205 Bynum Drive, Farmville. Inquiries may be made by calling the Gardners, 753-4246; the Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Condit (He's the Beacon Church pastor), 752-9079; or John James, Bell Arthur, 758-5600.

Ayden Mayor, Town Board Formally Sworn

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer
Judge Robert Wheeler conducted the installment ceremony for the board of commissioners and the town mayor of Ayden Monday during the board's regular meeting.

Mayor Ross Persinger and Commissioners Carl Speight, Elliott Dixon, Robert Harris and J. J. Brown retained their seats, with Aaron Hines as the sole new member.

Hines won in the November elections over veteran commissioner Harry Mumford.

The board approved a policy concerning standards for use of the town-owned cemeteries, following lengthy discussion among board members and Grantz Norcott, manager of Norcott and Company Funeral Home, Ayden. Under the new policy, the funeral directors in Ayden will be billed on a monthly basis for the purchases of town-owned graves and their openings. Deeds will be issued for each lot, made out in the deceased party's or his family's name.

Town Clerk Ralph Ford noted that the issuance of deeds would help to identify the location of persons in the cemeteries.

Two Winterville Aldermen Sworn In Yesterday

WINTERVILLE — E. C. Hines and Leland Tucker Jr. were sworn in Monday for four-year terms on the Winterville Town Board of Aldermen. Tucker will serve his first term, with Hines a veteran alderman.

The board voted to send a certificate of appreciation to former alderman Danny Martin for his faithful service and devotion to the improvement of the community. Bobby Crawford and Leland Tucker Jr. were appointed for terms on the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District. The board approved the audit report from Farley, Prescott and Mizelle, noting that the town was in sound financial shape. The auditors pointed out that Winterville's finances were being better handled since beginning the use of computers. Approval was given to a New Horizon Fair Housing Ordinance, in conjunction with an application for a $498,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for 1980.

The board passed a conflict of interest resolution allowing the town to do business with Hine's Amoco Station, owned by board member E. C. Hines. Another resolution was passed, stating the board's feelings against the North Carolina League of Municipalities holdings its annual meeting in Myrtle Beach, S. C. The board agreed that the meeting should be held in North Carolina.

December 24 and 25 were set by the board as Christmas holidays for the town office.

Federal Govm't Plans To Acquire 'Soul City'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement has been reached between Soul City and the federal government that would allow the government to acquire the project Jan. 8, a federal official said Monday.

Albert R. Diehl, special assistant to the deputy general manager of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's New Community Development Corp., said the department had paid off $10 million in loans for Soul City.

Diehl said another $167,000 would be paid by the department to settle outstanding debts of the Soul City project.

The deal, if approved, would end the saga of Soul

City, a "new town" experiment started in 1974. The project, which has received about $29 million in federal grants and loans, was declared a failure by HUD last summer.

Soul City spokesman were not available for comment on the agreement.

Soul City filed suit in federal court in Washington in an effort to block HUD from abandoning the project.

Diehl said he expected the suit to be dropped if the settlement is concluded.

Diehl said the $167,000 payment still to be made to pay off Soul City's debts would be made to "third parties" and not to project developer Floyd B. McKissick or any of Soul City's other partners.

He said North Carolina had agreed to consult with HUD on how Soul City's lands could best be used in the future. The land has been zoned for industrial use, OAT AN ESTIMATED $860,000.

While there has been talk that North Carolina might purchase part or all of the land from the government, state Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development Howard N. Lee indicated in a statement issued through a spokesman that the "state at this time is not interested in acquiring the property."

Warren County, where Soul City was built, has agreed to provide water, sewer, fire protection and recreation services to Soul City.

A City That Grew

Old-fashioned cable cars clanging up steep hills are still a familiar sight in San Francisco, one of America's most colorful cities. In 1848, San Francisco had only 200 houses and a population of 820. But the California Gold Rush, the completion of the transcontinental railroad, and trade flowing into the city's large natural harbor, all contributed to San Francisco's rapid growth to a city of more than 700,000. Despite a severe earthquake that destroyed much of the city in 1906, San Francisco has remained an important center for shipping, finance and the arts. Today, citizens of San Francisco go to the polls to vote in an important mayoral election.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the incumbent mayor of San Francisco?

Named Winners In Santa Parade

Marching bands, floats, a drill team and a horse were winners in the annual Christmas parade held in Greenville Saturday sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees.

Four awards — consisting of trophies and cash prizes, went to the marching bands judged to be the best top four of those taking part.

First place went to the West Craven High School Band, which received a cash prize of $275. Second place was the Washington High School Band, $225; third place North Pitt High School Band, $175; and fourth place, the D. H. Conley Band, $125. Trophies were given to the top three.

The award for drill team and color guard was won by the D. H. Conley High School Junior ROTC.

Awards for floats were given in two categories — the basic and the creative. The basic float was made by participating groups and businesses, and the creative float was made by professional floats which were rented.

In the home-made or amateur group, first place went to Pizza Inn, second place to the Farmville Jaycees, and third place was won by Girl Scout Troop 89, Greenville. The professional float award was given to First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

An award sponsored by the Greenville Saddle Club for the best parade horse was won by Janna Weir. In addition to the awards, all participating groups received a certificate of participation. Jaycee member Mack Simpson noted that some of the participants left early before these were given out but that in such cases efforts will be made to get the certificates to a representative.

Toastmasters Plan A Christmas Party

The Greenville Toastmasters will hold their annual Christmas Party, Friday, Dec. 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sherwood.

There will be a regularly scheduled meeting of the club Wednesday, Dec. 12, at the Western Steer Restaurant. Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m., with the business and educational portion beginning at 7:30 p.m. Guests are welcome.

Joe Sherwood served as Toastmaster of the Evening for the last meeting with Table Topics given by Ed Morris. Betty Topper won the Best Table Topic Speaker award, as well as the Best Evaluator award. Luis Acevedo won the Best Host Speaker award.

Toastmasters is a club dedicated to the improvement of the individual's speaking and listening abilities, as well as his or her leadership capabilities. Meetings are held every second and fourth Wednesdays at the Western Steer. However, the club will not meet Dec. 26.

For more information, call Pat or Charlotte Flanagan, 756-7192.

Young Hostage Says Treatment Good

By S.J. GUFFEY
Associated Press Writer
DENVER (AP) — A 21-year-old Marine, one of 50 Americans being held hostage in Iran at the embassy he once guarded, says he has "no idea" where 20 of the hostages are being held or how they are faring.

His own treatment has been good, said Cpl. Billy Gallegos in an NBC-TV interview Monday, but he said he does not believe the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is worth dying for. "We're not ready to hold out here forever," he said. White House press secretary Jody Powell said the Iranians' filming of the interview was "a cruel and very cynical attempt to divert public attention from international demands" that independent observers be permitted to visit the hostages. Powell said Gallegos' statements "were made under duress and have no validity."

Gallegos, of Pueblo, Colo., and the other Americans have been held hostage since Nov. 4, when students stormed the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The students say that all the hostages will be tried as spies unless the shah is returned for trial in Iran. "I don't know what would happen then," Gallegos said. NBC said Gallegos' 22-minute interview, beamed by satellite from Tehran for prime-time network viewing, was the first on-camera report from inside the embassy since it was stormed five weeks ago. The network said it was allowed to interview the hostage on the condition that the entire interview — and a statement from an Iranian student — be telecast. The statement, read by a woman identified only as "Mary," vilified the shah for "the largest thefts and exploitations of history" and repeated the Iranians' insistence that the shah must be returned before the hostages will be released.

CBS News had turned down the opportunity for a similar "so-called" interview, said anchorman Walter Cronkite on the CBS Evening News. ABC had no comment Monday night. At KOA-TV in Denver, Dick and Theresa Gallegos watched anxiously Monday night as Billy, the oldest of their four children, answered questions. They said he seemed nervous and looked pale and thin. "I'd give my life for any American," the corporal said as he sat in front of a huge poster of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. "I can't see it now. In some ways, I don't see this as a good cause."

The students here have been really good to us," Gallegos said of his captors. "It's hard to believe, I know, but we haven't been asked any questions about what really our job was." Asked whether he was worried, the corporal at first replied, "I imagine we'll be OK ... Nobody's been mistreated." Later, he acknowledged that only 30 of the hostages are kept together in "little cubicles" where they could see one another. The other 20 hostages, including senior embassy officials, were separated from the others a week after the embassy was captured, he said. As a Marine, Gallegos said, he would "have to" accept whatever action President Carter decides to take toward the hostages. "We're relying on his decision," the young American said. "No matter what."

Other Networks Said 'No' To Iranian Terms

NEW YORK (AP) — While NBC News broadcast a question-and-answer session with a hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Iran, CBS News said it had turned down the opportunity for a similar "so-called interview."

"Two of the three U.S. networks, including this one, flatly rejected the proposition," said anchorman Walter Cronkite on the CBS Evening News. ABC had no comment Monday night. It was not known whether CBS had rejected the exact conditions accepted by NBC. NBC said it did not have to submit its questions in advance. CBS said "questions would have to be cleared by a student censor."

"The students holding the embassy are stepping up the use of the hostages to promote their cause," Cronkite said. "Over the weekend, they offered to the American networks a so-called interview with one of the hostages with some stringent conditions assuring their control of the presentation. 'The questions would have to be cleared by a student censor, a statement by one of the students must precede the interview, the broadcast would be packaged entirely by the Iranian television station,' Cronkite said, describing the conditions rejected by CBS. 'It could not be edited by the network and the recording had to be in prime time.'"

In a news release about the broadcast from Iran, NBC said "arrangements for this interview were concluded over the weekend in discussions between NBC News and the students at the embassy."

NBC said all three networks — NBC, CBS and ABC — had rejected two proposals from the students by last Sunday and said at that point, "NBC News went back to the students with its own proposal, which resulted in the interview to be seen tonight (Monday)."

NBC agreed to carry the session in its entirety, to include a statement from the students, and to telecast it in prime time. It was taped in the embassy by Iranian cameramen, NBC said, at about 7 a.m. Monday EST.

NBC aired part of the interview on its Nightly News, and the entire session beginning at about 9:45 p.m. EST.

Kucinich A Plot Target

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich was to be the target of an assassination plot, according to a Cleveland television station report quoting a convicted killer who said he was approached about the killing.

WKYC-TV on Monday quoted an unidentified man as saying he had been contacted by organized crime figures about killing Kucinich in October 1977, but was arrested in another case before he could plan the slaying.

In the report, the man, who is in the federal protective custody program for witnesses, said he would tell only police who offered him the job.

No attempts on Kucinich's life were ever reported, but Edwin Nagorski, Cleveland's acting police chief, told the station that police had indications in the fall of 1978 "that there would be a professional attempt on the mayor's life...and we started taking immediate steps to ensure that could not happen."

The television station quoted the man as saying the reason for the plot was: "We can't buy Kucinich, that is what I was told. He was cut from a different cloth."

Kucinich, elected mayor in November 1977, was defeated last month in his bid for reelection.

PWP Chapter Plans Dinner

Anyone interested in attending may learn the details while attending a special PWP Open House Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. Babysitting is provided.

N.C. Art Museum Gets $5 Million In Campaign

RALEIGH — Calling it "a Christmas gift to the people of North Carolina," Louis C. Stephens, chairman of the campaign fund for the new North Carolina Museum of Art building, on Monday presented a check for $5 million to Governor James B. Hunt, Jr.

Gov. Hunt accepted the check at a special ceremony in the museum. The $5 million is the result of a private fund-raising campaign to help build the new $15 million museum facility, which is now under construction on Blue Ridge Road in Raleigh.

Stephens, who is also president of Pilot Life Insurance Company, noted in the ceremony that "this new building to house the art treasures of this State has been a dream of many of our citizens." He expressed appreciation to Gov. Hunt for his involvement in the campaign.

Stephens also thanked the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation for its challenge gift of $1.5 million, and expressed his appreciation to Thomas Kenan of Chapel Hill, who he said "has not only been generous with his funds, and an effective fund raiser, but has given hundreds of man hours working on various programs to get this museum building construction underway."

Another sector which Stephens said was most instrumental is that of foundations, individuals, corporations and school children, who all together showed "the splendid way the public and private sectors of this state work together to get big jobs done."

Two years ago the N. C. General Assembly appropriated $10.75 million for the building.

Reports Heard By Redevelopment Bd.

In a brief meeting held Monday night, members of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission heard monthly reports from Real Estate Officer Faye Brewington and from Rehabilitation Officer Ed Cobb. Mrs. Brewington reported that during November, the commission acquired three new parcels of land in the South Evans community and one new parcel in West Meadowbrook. One demolition took place in West Meadowbrook, there was one disposition in the South Side area, and three relocations were completed during the month.

Cobb reported that three rehabilitation loans and grants were made in the West Greenville area, and in addition he reported that five new Community and Development grants and loans were made in November.

Okay Requests For Soliciting

Two requests for permission to conduct public solicitations have been approved by City Manager Edward A. Wyatt.

One is for students of D. H. Conley High School to conduct a sidewalk sale in front of Brody's at Pitt Plaza on Saturday, Dec. 15.

The other is for the Greenville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association to conduct a sidewalk and merchant solicitation at various locations in Greenville.

She's Staying Home During Christmas

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, and around holiday time someone always asks, "Should we go to HIS mother's or to MY mother's for Christmas dinner? And your answer is always, "Why not alternate?"

Abby, my husband and I struggled with that problem for years, and we resolved it according to your suggestion. Both sets of parents lived nearby, and it seemed the only fair thing to do. So for 22 years, we spent Thanksgiving and Christmas in parents' homes instead of our own.

It never dawned on us until this year—as our children are ready to strike out on their own—that we never developed our own holiday traditions. We always went to Grandma's for the holidays. She insisted on doing all the cooking herself—and then complained for months about how much work it was and how tired she got. When we, her daughters and daughters-in-law, asked if we could bring something for dinner, she wouldn't hear of it. When we brought food without asking her, she refused to serve it, so we finally gave up.

I realize now what a high price I've paid over the years for peace in the family. I wish I hadn't. Abby, please urge young marrieds to have their own holiday celebrations in their own homes. Suggest that they invite their parents and grandparents, who might even be relieved to be finally free of the burden of entertaining three generations.

Sign me...

"DOING MY OWN THING"

DEAR DOING: You make an excellent point. Your answer was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas Eve, during my busy preparations for 18 dinner guests (and also during our meal, I was called to the phone three times and kept there from 20 to 30 minutes while the callers wished me a "Merry Christmas." Each said, "I decided to phone rather than send cards this year," then proceeded to bring me up to date on their health, families and activities!

I appreciate their thoughts, and realize that by placing such calls they probably filled an otherwise lonely Christmas Eve, but if they must save the expense of sending Christmas cards, why can't they wait until the holiday is over, and then phone with their annual accounts of joys and sorrows?

Am I the only one who feels such phone calls are impositions?

UNAPPRECIATIVE IN OREGON

DEAR UNAPPRECIATIVE: Probably not. But if it's inconvenient for you to take the call, say so. And ask if you may return the call when you're able to visit longer.

DEAR ABBY: Our employer used to give Christmas bonuses to all employees, based on their length of service.

In the last couple of years, he eliminated the holiday bonuses in favor of a Christmas party. Well, the only ones who attended these parties are the young, or those who want to act young. Most people drink too much, the music is deafening, and there is more food wasted than eaten.

Many of us here are not party-minded because of finances and inability to get sitters, and we would much rather have the money instead—whatever the amount.

So how about running this letter to ask the boss people—foremen, administrators, managers, etc.—to let the employees have a choice.

JOPLIN, MO.

DEAR JOPLIN: It seems fair to me. Bosses?

MR. AND MRS. OTTIS MILLS

25th Anniversary Reception Held

WASHINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Mills, of Rt. 3, Washington, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary yesterday. They were honored at a reception Saturday evening at AAA Glass Co. here.

Hosting the reception were their son, Randy, and sisters of Mrs. Mills, Marjorie Grizzard of Washington and Patsy Neal of Chesapeake, Va. Iris Mobley presented corsages to the honorees.

Guests were greeted by members of the family and directed to the guest register by Beverly Perry.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of carnations, chrysanthemums and white candles. Hazel Harris served the three tiered wedding cake and punch was poured by Brenda Mills.

The honored couple was remembered with gifts of silver.

We got to talking the other day about optimism and it occurred to me that the only ones in the world who are actively practicing optimism today are dogs.

In fact, I'll go one step farther and suggest that dogs probably invented optimism.

We have a small Yorkshire terrier (who should be owned by a good trial lawyer) who has sat by my chair at the dinner table every night for nine years waiting for something to drop.

He knows we have a family history of never feeding a dog at the table.

He knows we have children who have the ability to grab for a cookie in mid-air and catch it in their teeth a good three seconds before it hits the floor.

He knows I've never been decorated for cooking, tongues in their heads. ("You never know where that tongue has been!")

For eight years my mother has knocked on the door, then (PBCU) Tuesday, Dec. 18.

The announcement was made by PBCU Chairman Steven P. Rader.

Rep. Pegg will speak on "Family Issues and the General Assembly." She will give particular emphasis to Governor Hunt's "New Generation" plan, the ERA and tax-funding of abortions, Rader said.

Rep. Pegg was elected to the General Assembly in 1978. She is a former chairman of the North Carolina I.W.U. Citizens Review Committee, which monitored and exposed some of the abuses of the International Women's Year (IWY) and has testified before several committees of the U. S. Congress studying family-related issues.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Old Court House, Washington. All interested persons are invited.

yelled, "Put that beast in the utility room or I'm not coming in." Yet for eight years Murray has greeted her happily at the door like she was covered with chicken fat.

Personally, I don't know how Murray does it.

He runs to the door with an enthusiasm reserved only for a victory at the polls at least 30 times a day. There's never anyone at the door for him.

When you put him in the car to take him for a ride, he goes crazy with anticipation. Yet he has never gone anywhere but to the vet for shots.

I have watched him in the yard chasing lizards. For nine years he has stalked and pounced until dehydration and exhaustion set in. Yet he has never admitted that the last time a dog caught a lizard, the lizard was on a leash.

Last night a sad thing happened. I dropped one of my cheese biscuits to the floor. Murray had been waiting all of his life for such a moment. He pounced on it, sniffed it, and then walked away from it.

My husband said, "Welcome to the real world, Murray."

GINGER PRUNES

The fruit remains chewy and the combination is flavorful.

12-ounce package (2 cups)

pitted prunes

1 cup sugar

1 1/2 cups dry white wine

1/4 cup silvered candied ginger (about 6 round pieces)

Plain yogurt

In a 1 1/2-quart saucepan over moderate heat stir together the sugar and white wine until sugar dissolves and mixture boils. Add prunes and ginger; simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. With a slotted spoon remove prunes to a shallow container (about 1 quart). Boil sugar-ginger mixture until syrupy — about 5 minutes; pour over prunes. Cool. Serve as dessert topped with yogurt. Ed Emory Is Welcomed 'Home'

Ed Emory made it clear last weekend. He is coming home to East Carolina University. The East Carolina football star of 20 years ago was obviously quite proud to be the new head football coach. He follows in some large steps made by former coach Pat Dye, who has gone on to Wyoming. Emory also comes into a situation rocked by controversy, following the departure of an unhappy Coach Dye. He comes to the position knowing full well that East Carolina fans want — nay demand — a big time football program, and that the administration is pledged to such a program, also. Emory has been around football a long time, long enough to know that he can be the toast of Eastern North Carolina, if he wins; and a villain if he loses. There will be plenty of hard work ahead for the new coach, starting with immediate recruiting of potential players and the assembling of a competent coaching staff. Ed Emory comes as well recommended as anyone by some of the knowledgeable observers of college football. We welcome him home.

Mock 'Disaster' Is A Good Reminder

There was a "disaster" on the Chiquapin Road near Farmville last week. Area rescue squads rushed to the scene of a "bus-train accident." Fortunately this was a mock accident, a drill. Pitt Community College nursing students were made up as the injured. The rescue squads took the "injured" to Pitt Memorial County Memorial Hospital. This particular "disaster" was a training exercise, but it is a fact that such an event can occur. It is comforting to know that emergency personnel are training for the possibility.

Wage-Pattern Change?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Why does North Carolina continue to drag bottom in manufacturing wages, and what is being done to change that dismal condition? A group of economists at North Carolina State University has been digging into that dilemma, and reaches some conclusions: 1. A lower level of education is the single most significant factor in determining lower wages, and North Carolina's older population — particularly among minorities — ranks low. 2. The gap is being closed steadily between this state and the nation in educational level, and tremendous gains are being made in locating higher paying and higher technology industry here. 3. Absence of specific information makes it impossible to judge whether education and job-training efforts are aimed in the right direction. Using 1977 figures, the economists found the average hourly manufacturing wage in North Carolina was $4.10 compared to $5.63 as a national average.

The Difference Various approaches were used to explain that $1.53 per hour difference. The conclusion is that education is the major factor, representing 64 cents. The next most important factor is the cost-of-living differential between this state and the more congested, industrialized regions of the nation. That represents 61 cents. Labor unions are another major factor, representing 10 cents of the difference since unionization in North Carolina is about seven percent compared to a national average of 27 percent. Another 18 cents of the $1.53 gap is described as "unexplained" difference, and consists of such factors as an urbanization differential, age or health differences, quality of skills or education, etc. The difference between educational levels in this state compared to the nation is closing. Among young people, black or white, the gap is now only 0.2 years. For the over-25 group, the gap is 1.3 years of schooling. Economists characterize this as a "vintage phenomenon" tracing back to racial discrimination of the past. But even closing the years-of-schooling gap leaves a big questionmark dangling over the quality of schooling, and whether the skills are those which will bring higher pay. In a report published by the Agricultural Extension Service at State University, Robert M. Fearn says education and training efforts "have the potential to influence earning levels and increase the welfare of North Carolinians..." but notes that "at the present time, however, we do not know much about the quality of these programs." The move from the farm continues strong with farm workers down from 13 percent of the work force in 1960 to 4.1 percent in 1978. Employment in services and government, banking, real estate and insurance, and wholesale or retail trade is climbing, and as education improves, the economists see growth in professional, managerial, and skilled technical fields.

Mr. Griswold's Stamps

WASHINGTON — Early in 1913, at the tender age of 8, Erwin Griswold began to collect stamps. He had gone to a hospital to have his appendix removed, and while he was recovering from the operation friends brought him a beginner's album to play with. Today the former dean of Harvard Law has well over 10,000 items in his collection, and the dean is deeply troubled. If Congress fails to repeal or drastically to amend the "carry-over basis" tax, the investment of Griswold's lifetime — an investment intended to care for his invalid in the event of his death — could be virtually destroyed. Hundreds of thousands of other American families face a similar cruel prospect. The "carry-over" provision is a sleeper in the Tax Code. If you yourself are likely to leave an estate of at least $60,000 — not much in these inflationary times — you had better wake up in a hurry.

By way of background: Three years ago, in its rush to adjournment before the presidential election, Congress enacted a tax reform bill. At the last minute, without floor debate in either chamber, conferees agreed upon a long and complicated amendment. This was the "carry-over basis" provision. In a recent editorial, the Washington Post argued that "Congress knew exactly what it was doing" in 1976. Nonsense. Not a dozen members in either chamber had the foggiest notion of the pernicious change they were writing into law.

This exercise in irresponsibility was effectively confessed when Congress subsequently voted to suspend the provision until January 1, 1980. At this writing, Senators Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Robert Dole of Kansas have a repeal amendment firmly attached to the so-called "windfall profits" bill. President Carter is pledged to veto a repeal measure if he has the chance, but Mr. Carter yearns for his windfall bill like Faust yearned for Helen of Troy. The Byrd-Dole strategy will work. How did Congress botch things up? The carry-over scheme is beloved of such liberals as Kennedy of Massachusetts, who dreams of redistributing other people's wealth. In a recent Senate test, Kennedy was paired against the Byrd-Dole repeal amendment; the only other senators to vote against repeal were Biden of Delaware, Metzenbaum of Ohio, Proxmire of Wisconsin and Tsongas of Massachusetts. Eighty-four senators voted to wipe the

To the editor: Why is it when proponents spring to defend Hunt's New Generation concept that key parts of the Plan are left unquoted? Interestingly, when directing the attack, every effort is made to make it a personal one — a psychological maneuver to divert the uninformed from the facts. Hunt's initial legislative step to put his concept into practice was to get the General Assembly to enact a law establishing interagency committees and declaring that the family alone cannot meet all essential needs of each new generation. In the introduction, "A Child Health Plan for Raising A New Generation," Hunt endorses it as North Carolina's ACTION PLAN. So, we now have law and an action plan. The plan is an initiative to "regionalize child health care" to "embrace all children." (p. 1) Not some children, but ALL! "The child and his family will accept one principle source of primary care. They will make contact with that source... the child and his parents will arrange for examination..." (p. 19) Not MAY but WILL! "In some cases aggressive outreach and even governmental intervention may be appropriate to safeguard the child's well being." (p. 48) WHO is to decide what constitutes your child's well being? Parents in N. C. are becoming informed. And the more information received, the more questions — the more questions, the more opposition to a plan we do not want nor need. Note Plan Exhibit II-2 where, by their own admission, no need exists for such an all-inclusive program. Yes, our new generation deserves better. Contrary to what some may think, North Carolinians are not ignorant of the situation. We are concerned, interested and do care about our most precious resource — our children. And that, dear friend, is a force you will have to recognize.

To the editor: In response to Mr. Smith's letter Thursday, I would like to point out that there is a leash law in Greenville. I regret the loss of his dog. I, too, own a dog and I fully understand his feelings! The driver of that car should have stopped to help. My small dog is on a leash every time he goes out, but we are often intimidated by large dogs running free. If the city is going to have a leash law, can it not be more strictly enforced? If the law were strictly enforced, it would help to prevent tragic deaths like this!

WASHINGTON — You might as well be posted on the nick-names attached to political stars and starlets because the campaigns are coming and both sides will want to humanize their proteges by "that familiar touch". President Roosevelt was called "The Boss" by the late Louise Howe, his wise No. 1 secretary. He is called "Mr. Big" fondly by his friends, furiously by his foes. Vice-President Garner called him "The Captain". Everybody knows him by his initials FDR, just like this — Ef-Dee-Are. The runner-up presidential candidates haven't generated pet names for themselves yet. When Hoover was president, he was referred to as "The Chief". Friends still use the title. General Hugh Johnson referred to Secretary Ickes as "Honest Harold". It didn't displace Washington's "Icky the Ick", but when Ickes, in return, called the General "Old Iron Pants," that stuck.

INSIDE REPORT

Gentle Media Campaign

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The sudden transformation of President Carter from sure loser to possible winner against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination transformed a Dec. 5 meeting of Carter's top media advisers, turning them from anti-Teddy hawks to pro-Jimmy doves. The media prescription according to the gospel of the hawks called for disembodied voices to come purring over the television tube on purchased time giving lurid details of Teddy Kennedy's failures as a politician: his loss of his post as Senate Democratic whip after a mere two years, when he lost it to Sen. Robert Byrd; his unimpressive won-lost record on bills that have come out of his Senate Judiciary Committee; and many others. But Carter's political ascent — partly based on national unity behind his policy in the Iranian crisis and partly on Kennedy's campaign mistakes — changed all that. With media whizz Gerald Rafshoon in the lead, Carter's advisers who huddled Wednesday decided the situation was ripe for Carter to take the high road. For now, at least, that's the way it is. No direct attacks against Kennedy, anonymous or otherwise; Carter instead will show himself in the role of grand statesman with steady hand on the helm. Haranguing The Hostages Although the Carter administration is deliberately downplaying it to protect the hostages, the fact is that high officials are furious over increasing indications that the captive Americans are being badly treated. At least one hostage is known to have been told by his captors that no one in the U.S. was interested any longer in his fate and that efforts back home to free him had dwindled to near zero. Another was told that his family would never know what had happened to him, because no word was allowed to filter out of the U.S. Embassy compound to the U.S. What bothers officials who know something of what is happening behind the student-curtain is that the hostages may eventually emerge brainwashed, praising their captors and demanding that the shah be sent back to Tehran for a political trial. The so-called "students" who took the embassy were not, as originally thought, placid allies of the Ayatollah Khomeini but radical well-trained partisans of Sadeh Ghotbzadeh. Carter's Vatican Tie The most intimate tie ever between an American president and the vatican is now being formed, leading to speculation that full-scale diplomatic relations may actually be established between Washington and the Roman Catholic Church — a potential asset in President Carter's wooing of the Catholic vote. One of the reasons for this is a double coincidence of neighbors: Vice President Walter F. Mondale's official residence is just across the street from the residence of Archbishop Jean Jadot, the apostolic delegate in the U.S.; and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance lives next door to Cardinal William Baum of the archdiocese of Washington, in fashionable Spring Valley. The apostolic delegate has been invited to the White House on several occasions, most recently for the reception President Carter gave Pope John Paul II. The pope's unprecedented world travel

THE SWEETS OF LIFE
A little boy complained recently that two things bother him about the candy situation. The first is that he cannot afford to try all the kinds of candy he would like, and second, that much of the candy that looks the nicest is hollow inside. This little boy has unwittingly discovered one of life's great realities. The problems which he now finds related to candy will in his future years be expanded to cover most of life's sweets. There are many varieties to be bought, we have very little to buy them with, and when at last we get them we find that there is not much to them after all. Such an observation on life is not cynical, but merely realistic. We will enjoy the sweets of life more thoroughly if we recognize their limited ability to give pleasure and if we never try to substitute them for more substantial food.

Once Again He Sees Sunshine

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In the year's final days the economic assessment of the General Motors chairman is awaited by those who seek reassurance about the months ahead. They are seldom disappointed; he rarely fails them. Once again Thomas A. Murphy sees the sunshine behind the shadowing clouds, the vision of big sales and economic success in spite of oil, Iran, and inflation. Despite the "continuing problems of inflation and some current signs of sluggishness," says Murphy the optimist, "the United States' economy remains fundamentally strong." Barring more "adverse developments in the Middle East, and assuming continued responsible price action by the OPEC countries," he states, car sales should "stabilize and strengthen as the year progresses." Murphy, and his predecessors, accentuate the positive. Over and over again. —While the automotive year might not begin strongly "deliveries for the year as a whole could approximate the 1979 total, with the selling rate in the latter part of the year at substantially higher levels." —An advance in electric battery technology, announced last September, "is only one of the developments that hold promise for the future in our efforts to improve the utilization of petroleum resources." —A drop in housing starts will to some extent "be cushioned by recent innovations that have made it easier for savings institutions to compete for funds in periods of high interest rates." Why does GM so consistently stress the positive? Interpreted cynically, some claim GM can take no other approach to an economy in which its view plays so big a role. It must be upbeat, they say, or see sales suffer. Why, then, is so much attention focused on GM's forecasts? For several reasons, among them: 1. Some of those optimistic assessments have been rather accurate in recent years. 2. GM puts its money on the line, a practice that impresses hardnosed investors. This year its worldwide capital expenditures will total $5.3 billion, "and well over $6 billion annually in the early 1980s." Murphy concludes GM's forecast for 1980 with the acknowledgement that "more than the usual amount of risk is associated with the outlook, given the uncertainties surrounding energy availability and price." Conditions in the Middle East, particularly in Iran, "must moderate before the full potential of the U.S. economy can be realized," Murphy concedes. "However," he says in the fashion of GM year-end statements, "based on the currently discernible economic factors in the outlook for 1980, there is reason for cautious optimism."

posed it at the time, the amendment now allows Green to repeat a term, and Stewart becomes the first to challenge a sitting lieutenant governor.

Because they come from divergent elements of the Democratic Party and were rivals for years in the General Assembly, the Stewart-Green fight may well prove bitter.

Stewart signaled that in his announcement speech Oct. 30, when he said people want a lieutenant governor "who is competent and fair, not one who is vindictive and arrogant."

That was simply a response, says Stewart campaign director Dave Bumgardner, to an earlier speech in which Green called Stewart a "wide-eyed liberal."

But Stewart also accused Green of planning a campaign run by Republicans, spending more money for re-election than any three candidates for that office in the past and being one who "seems always to take the low road."

If that is to be the tenor of the campaign, both candidates are liable to get muddy. But such a campaign often is riskier for a challenger than an incumbent, and that prospect is only one of several high-risk elements in the Stewart campaign.

For another, Stewart plans a campaign designed to focus on the differences of personality and style with Green reasoning that the urbane Stewart, from the Piedmont, is a more attractive figure alongside the crusty, older Green, from the East.

Stewart, for example, can be expected to point out Green's repeated run-ins with Hunt, arguing that the lieutenant governor should be more than just a naysayer to everything that comes from the governor's mansion. He will invite debates, figuring their differences are apparent when they share a stage.

But exploiting those differences is a two-way street and could make it easier for the conservative Green to pin on Stewart that liberal tag — usually a condemning epithet in statewide races in North Carolina.

"That's ridiculous," Stewart's friend and lawyer, Sidney Eagles, says of Green's accusation of liberalism. "But that's the risk you run when you base a campaign on the contrast of styles."

Thirdly, some in the Stewart campaign are a bit concerned that the candidate himself is doing the political strategy work — at a time when statewide candidates waging a modern, media campaign turn such over to a campaign manager.

The Stewart campaign has no manager and may not, says Bumgardner, also a state representative from Gastonia. Bumgardner is working three days a week on the campaign, but is concerned primarily with finances and has his own reelection to worry about.

The lack of a campaign manager is a sore point among some key supporters, he said, and Bumgardner is hoping one will be hired.

"It puts more demand on him (Stewart) than probably he should have, but that's the way he wants it to be," Bumgardner said. "The basic strategy decisions are his. He may take suggestions from others, but I think he'll be making decisions on his own."

Friends of Stewart also say they expect a whisper campaign against him. That in part was the reason Stewart himself disclosed earlier this year that he accompanied Raleigh lawyer John McConnell on vacation to the Cayman Islands, before McConnell was sent to prison as bag-man for a heroin ring that stretched to those islands.

Stewart said he knew nothing of McConnell's involvement. "I expect probably there will be a great deal of effort made to point out the personal weaknesses inherent in any person," Bumgardner says diplomatically. "There will be no failure to capitalize on any mistake that's made or been made. It's going to be a tough campaign."

and diplomacy and his high popularity, particularly in the U.S., has helped make full diplomatic relations with the U.S. more possible than ever before.

Blame Science, Technology

WASHINGTON (AP) — Science and technology are to blame for at least some of society's problems, says a majority of the young adults and 17-year-olds questioned in a government-sponsored study.

The survey by the National Assessment of Educational Progress found that nearly 60 percent of the young adults and 17-year-olds polled blamed science and technology for most or some of society's problems. But a majority also expects science and technology to overcome pollution, disease and drug abuse. Results of the 1976-77 survey of 80,000 children and adults up to age 35 were released here Monday by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Changed To Life Term

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The death penalty imposed last year on a Kernersville woman should be changed to a life sentence, according to a ruling by the N.C. Supreme Court.

The court ruled that the death penalty imposed last year on Rebecca Case Dettler of Kernersville should be changed to a life-imprisonment sentence because the death penalty was not in effect at the time Mrs. Dettler committed the acts for which she was convicted.

Mrs. Dettler was convicted of first-degree murder in the arsenic poisoning of her husband, Don Gene Dettler. According to testimony at her trial, Mrs. Dettler seasoned her husband's food and drink with ant killer over a period of months.

The supreme court ruled that the death penalty was not in effect at the time Mrs. Dettler committed the acts that caused the death although Dettler died after June 1, 1977, when the death penalty was reactivated in the state.

Mrs. Dettler was believed to have administered the poison in January, February and March 1977. Dettler died on June 9, 1977.

John J. Schramm Jr. of Winston-Salem, the attorney who represented Mrs. Dettler at the trial and on appeal, contended that the death penalty was "designed to punish acts, not results."

Mrs. Dettler had been one of 11 prisoners awaiting death in the gas chamber at Central Prison in Raleigh.

The supreme court will return the case to Forsyth Superior Court for a mandatory sentencing.

Changed By Kennedy's Campaign Is Using Drugs Richer, But Bad News

GEORGETOWN, S.C. (AP) — Johnny Eugene Hamilton was transformed after he started using drugs, witnesses in his trial testified.

His mother called him a "zombie."

And a psychiatrist, Dr. Harold Morgan of Columbia, said the personality of the accused "hit man" steadily deteriorated because of a dependence on drugs.

Hamilton, 31, of Mooresville, N.C., is accused of shooting a Myrtle Beach businessman to death the morning of May 11 in exchange for $5,000.

Standing trial with him is John Hoffman, 45, of Myrtle Beach, who is accused of ordering the alleged murder contract on 37-year-old Roy Lowry.

However, before the defense rested its case Monday afternoon, Morgan admitted under cross-examination, "In my opinion Johnny Hamilton knew legal right from wrong on the day Roy Lowry was shot."

Closing arguments were scheduled this morning.

Hamilton's mother, Edna Hamilton, told a jury of eight men and four women in Georgetown County General Sessions Court that her son was a good, church-going child who never gave her any trouble.

But she said he changed after he began taking drugs in 1977.

Hoffman contradicted prosecution testimony from two men charged with being intermediaries between himself and Hamilton. Hoffman said he ordered the contract in 1978 but had canceled it in February.

CHICAGO (AP) — After a festive night in Chicago, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign is $250,000 richer but is seeing troubling signs in two public opinion polls.

Christina To Ask Divorce

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Christina Onassis's lawyer said today the shipping heiress is planning to begin divorce proceedings against her Soviet husband Sergei Kauzov on grounds of irreconcilable differences. Informed sources said the settlement includes a 60,000-ton ship for him.

The lawyer, Stelios Papadimitriou, said that the country where the divorce suit is to be filed "is the matter of certain considerations," and that it will be several weeks before a decision is made public.

Christina, 28-year-old daughter of the late shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, married Kauzov in a civil ceremony in Moscow 16 months ago. It was her third marriage and his second.

Chicago was the first stop on a fund-raising tour for the Massachusetts senator. From there, he was heading today for Florida, where his wife, Joan, planned to spend a day campaigning with him.

Monday night, with Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne at his side, Kennedy attracted between 3,500 and 4,000 people to the Conrad Hilton Hotel for a $100-a-plate dinner.

Kennedy, reciting his now-familiar litany of what he considers leadership failures by the Carter administration, expressed his gratitude to the mayor for her endorsement.

That endorsement has drawn an angry reaction from the Carter administration, where there had been high hopes of winning her support. Administration officials led by Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt have hinted pointedly that the city could lose federal grants.

"That's our money and they'd better remember that," the mayor said to the cheers of the Kennedy supporters. "No threats will frighten me and I hope they won't frighten you."

While the dinner was a success, two polls published Monday indicated potential problems for the Kennedy campaign in Chicago and nationally.

ANGERED — Chicago Public Defender James Doherty said Monday that he was incensed by reading in a new book on the U.S. Supreme Court that internal court politics caused a 5-4 decision upholding his client's conviction for murder. (AP Laserphoto)

A survey conducted by the Gallup organization for Newsweek magazine showed approval of President Carter's job performance jumping from 30 percent to 61 percent since the start of the Iranian crisis five weeks ago. The Gallup organization said it was the largest increase recorded in one month's time in its 40 years of polling.

And a survey done for the Chicago Tribune showed only 31 percent of people polled in Chicago rated Mayor Byrne's performance in office as good or excellent.

SMOKEY SUNSET — Haze from a combination of air stagnation and pollutants gave a brownish tinge to Arizona's usually blue skies the past week. The situation began Dec. 3, obscuring the mountain view from the Phoenix suburb of Sun City in this sunset and leading to an air pollution alert issued Dec. 7. Officials said carbon monoxide from vehicle exhausts was the major problem. A portion of the alert was cancelled Monday, and a change in the weather was expected to break up the rest of the inversion by today. (AP Laserphoto)

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

It's the holiday season when you will be having parties and family get-togethers. Wouldn't it be nice to go to social functions and not gain weight? Here are a few helpful hints: If you are having a party, prepare fruit kabobs. They're attractive, delicious and low in calories. Prepare a vegetable plate with celery fans, carrot curls, radish roses and cauliflowerettes. And to top it off, a shrimp or crab dip. Try Wasa Brod crackers, Finn Crisps, Melba rounds, or bread sticks attractively arranged on a platter. Also, fruit and protein powder dip is always satisfying. Be sure to offer no-calorie party drinks for your dieter friends. Those who aren't dieting will enjoy the delicious treats also. Your party will be successful and you will be admired for your thoughtfulness. You will be amazed, the fruit and vegetable platters will be the first to go.

Inauguration For Governor

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — John Y. Brown Jr., 45, took over the reins of Kentucky state government today, climaxing his meteoric nine-month rise to the top of state politics.

The multi-millionaire businessman became the state's 55th governor about 12:30 a.m. EST today when he was sworn in at private ceremonies at a Louisville residence by Chief Justice John Palmer of the Kentucky Supreme Court.

About 50 persons were on hand for the event, including Brown's wife, former Miss America Phyllis George, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert George of Denton, Texas. Also in attendance were former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, comedian Foster Brooks and singer Andy Williams, the grand marshal of today's inaugural parade.

Papadimitriou said that as yet he was unaware what the divorce settlement would be.

Informed sources, however, said that besides the 18,000-ton bulk carrier Danila, which Christina gave Kauzov to mark their first wedding anniversary four months ago, negotiations are also proceeding for the purchase of a 60,000-ton vessel for him.

The sources said that Christina "wants Sergei to be well taken care of."

DAMAGED BY FIRE — Members of the Winterville fire department look over a house south of Winterville yesterday after a fire swept through the wood frame dwelling. According to Pitt County Assistant Fire Marshal Terry Payne, the occupant of the house was listed as J. J. Jones, and the owner was listed as Fenner Allen. Payne said Jones was not at home at the time of the fire, but was returning from work and found the house on fire.

Firemen arriving on the scene found the front portion of the house fully involved with fire. The investigator said the fire apparently started in the front room of the house, and the cause had not been determined. There was no estimate of damage available. The were no injuries reported, and some kittens under the house at the time of the fire were rescued by firemen. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Approval was given to the appointment of Al Gorrod, Monte Little and Sue Moody to the Ayden Recreation Commission. Gorrod and Little will both serve three-year terms, with Sue Moody serving a one-year term, filling the unexpired term of Billy Odham, who resigned. Commissioner Carl Speight suggested that the commissioners send certificates of appreciation to Odham, Ralph Riggs and Paul Settle for their work on the Commission.

Thomas Mann was appointed to serve a four-year term on the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District. Carl Speight was approved to serve on the Firemen's Relief Fund, taking the seat held by former commissioner Harry Mumford. Commissioner J. J. Brown was re-appointed to serve as mayor pro tem.

Approval was given to a maintenance agreement between the Ayden Housing Authority and Briarcliff Manor, as well as the certification of a $10,000 MICA contract for a cash management study. Mayor Ross Persinger stated that MICA had done a good job in aiding the town in its financial handlings.

The board approved Dec. 24 and 25 as Christmas holidays for the Ayden Town Office.

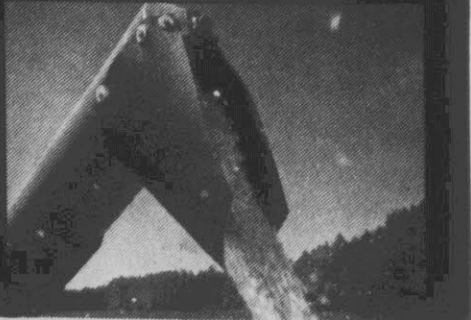

Big Success For Bloodmobile

Four Accidents New Bus Holiday Schedule

An estimated $3,300 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damage, officers reported, resulted from a 4:40 p.m. mishap on the Stanfordsburg Road, 250 feet West of the Memorial Drive intersection, involving a truck driven by Robert Leslie Kirk of 116 North Eastern St., and a car driven by Joney Earl Taylor Jr. of 1306B East 14th St.

Police, who charged Kirk with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, set damage to the truck at $400 and estimated damage to the Taylor car at $1,200.

Cars driven by Kenneth McArthur Ivey of Rocky Mount, and Sudie King Petway of 1206 Van Dyke St. collided about 5:14 p.m. at the intersection of Howell and Beatty Streets, resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the Ivey car and $200 damage to the Petway vehicle.

A 12:35 p.m. collision on Cotanche Street, 140 feet North of the Fifth Street intersection involved cars driven by Frances Katherine VanDorp of Route 1, Pantego and Dorothy Jean Miller of Route 2, Ayden.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the VanDorp car and $200 to the Miller auto.

A 1:05 p.m. collision on Sixth Street, 50 feet West of the Memorial Drive intersection involved cars operated by Hugh Jackson Sawyer of 121 North Harding St., and Joyce Leggett Rogers of Winterville.

Police estimated damage at $150 to the Sawyer car and $350 to the Rogers auto.

independent lives. Their handicaps can be reduced to mere inconveniences," he emphasized, "with assistance from concerned people..."

Nationwide, the speaker pointed out, one in every 11 persons is handicapped in some way, while in North Carolina, nearly 12 1/2 percent of the working population, have a work disability that lasts six months or longer.

Gilmore, outlining various programs available to handicapped persons in North Carolina, noted that there are 50 sheltered workshops, similar to the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, which provide evaluation and training leading to productive employment outside the workshop or within the workshop itself for those who are unable to handle the demands of competitive employment.

"The best place to treat people with problems is in the local community," Gilmore emphasized, adding that, "our communities are beginning to accept more responsibility for the severely handicapped."

Suggesting ways in which people on the local level can help, Gilmore suggested, "visit your local sheltered workshop and give it your support. Find out as much as you can about the handicapped people in your community. Find out what kinds of jobs they can handle, and search out jobs for them.

Farmville Fireman Is Award Recipient

FARMVILLE — Ed Meeks, a member of the Farmville Fire Department since 1971, received the Fireman of the Year Award last night at the annual fire department ladies night banquet.

Meeks is a member of the board of directors of the rural fire association and a member of various fire department committees.

The award was presented by fire chief H. P. Norman, who presided at the banquet.

Carl E. Whitfield, field representative of the Governor's Highway Safety Program was guest speaker for the program.

Speaking on traffic safety, Whitfield cautioned that December is one of the most dangerous months of the year, with children out of school for the holidays and the heavy shopper traffic on the streets and highways.

Whitfield also discussed safety at highway-railroad grade crossings, pointing out that it takes a train traveling 50 miles per hour about 1 1/2 miles to stop in an emergency.

The speaker noted that the only way accidents can be reduced is for drivers and pedestrians to be more cautious.

Life Term For Killing

SNOW HILL, N.C. (AP) — A Maury woman was sentenced to prison for 60 to 70 years Monday in a plea bargaining agreement after she pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the death of her husband.

Superior Court Judge Charles Lamm imposed the sentence on Lucille Jones Pate, 34. He ordered life sentences for two Greene County men accused of the actual murder, James Harper Schawab, 51, and Ronald Walker Entzminger, 18.

Schawab and Entzminger also pleaded guilty to second-degree murder. The two men and Mrs. Pate originally were charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder. Officers had accused Mrs. Pate of paying the two men $500 to kill her husband, Melvin Bryant Pate, 35.

Pate, who operated a soda shop in Maury, disappeared in April. Officers acting on a tip found his decomposed body Aug. 29 in a wooded area one mile west of Hookerton.

Court officials said Mrs. Pate would be eligible for parole consideration in 14 years and the men in 20 years.

N.C. Sells An 'Unsafe' Plane

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state of North Carolina sold its 18-year-old Grumman Gulfstream airplane Monday for $800,000 to James E. Kelly of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Consolidated Airways.

The plane had been grounded since Sept. 25 because its engines could not generate sufficient power to keep it safely in the air.

Pirate Men, Women Sweep Twinbill

Men Romp Past Aiken, 96-64

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's men's basketball team grabbed the lead five seconds into the game last night and never relinquished it as they romped to a 96-64 victory over South Carolina-Aiken.

The win boosted the Pirate record to 4-2 on the year and gave rookie coach Dave Odom his biggest victory of the season.

It was not much of a contest. The Pacers never even tied it up, and were down ten after just five and a half minutes. They continued to fall behind the stronger Pirates, who upped their lead to as much as 22 in the first half and took a 49-29 lead into intermission.

The second half saw it get worse, but not before the Pirates suffered a small slump. Odom, who platooned his team, sending in five-man units all at one time, made a switch after Aiken had cut the lead to as little as 13, and the new group, Clarence Miles, George Maynor, David Underwood, Frank Hobson and Mark McLaurin ran away with it again, running it out to as much as 34 points before the final buzzer.

"This was a good game for us," Odom said afterwards. "a game we needed. After we got started, the pressure was off us, and it gave us a chance to use our athletic ability and still stay within the confines of a team game."

"I think we had good intensity just about all the way, except for the brief period at the start of the second half," he added.

The Aiken club, while not having the talent level of East Carolina's previous opponent, Duke, plays the same sort of wild and wide open game. Odom pointed out.

"I was pleased with the way we handled their scramble defense," the coach added. "We shot well too early, and it was good to see (Herb) Krusen and (Kyle) Powers end their brief shooting slumps." Krusen hit on five of seven shots, while Powers made good on five of six.

"All in all, I think we had an excellent night. We did everything we wanted to do, and it was a must game if we wanted to have any kind of record at the end of the season."

Odom started a different starting group than he had in the past, with the notable absence of George Maynor, the team's leading scorer.

"We've started a different lineup in five of the six games so far," Odom responded when asked about Maynor's absence. "People would notice Maynor more than any one else being out. But nobody asked me why we started (David) Underwood at Duke. There is a reason for every change."

"We are working hard in getting our kids to do what we want. We are still coming up with small things that crop up that make you wonder if we're as far along as we want to be. There

Opposite Starts For AG Teams

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD — Going into this season, Ayden-Grifton coach Bob Murphrey had two major problems: how to fill the void left by the graduation of his five starters from last year's team and how to combat his squad's lack of height. Ayden-Grifton's tallest starter is 6'1".

So far, the problems persist, and the result is a disappointing 0-4 start going into tonight's battle with D.H. Conley.

"We feel like we are getting better with every game," Murphrey said. "But with only one letterman back (forward John McCotter) and the rest of the players up from the JVs, we don't have any experience."

"Experience is a mighty important factor," he added. "It's taking our players some time to learn the system and they have got to learn how to give a 100 percent. We were having trouble early in the season getting that."

"Also, they weren't winners on the JVs," Murphrey said. "I think they won six games in two years there. As a result, they're used to losing and we have to change that."

Against Greene Central last week, Murphrey feels he saw a glimmer of hope, despite losing to the Rams.

"That game was our best effort to date," he said. "We were leading by 11 and felt we should have won."

Although still not settled on his starting lineup, Murphrey lists his starters as Harvey Bell and Tim Edwards at the guards, Allan Haseley and John McCotter, who played but did not start last year for Murphrey, at the forwards, and Clarence Baker at center.

The rest of the Chargers are Terry Cannon, Tim Roberts, Curtis Wallace, Jesse Anderson, who is out with a broken hand, Andre Rasberry, Chris Phillips, Thomas Anderson and Donald Holland.

"We're beginning to settle down a bit now," Murphrey said. "We're working real hard during practice and trying to get the young players the experience they need."

Murphrey feels the conference race may turn out to be a three-way scrap between Farmville, C.B. Aycock and North Pitt.

"C.B. Aycock has got the two best frontline players in the league," he said. "Farmville's going to be good and North Pitt should be also."

Girls' Basketball

Kathy Purvis' Ayden-Grifton Chargers are taking up where they left off late last season: winning. The Chargers, 23-5 a year ago, have won their first four games of the season and face a tough struggle against county-rival D. H. Conley tonight.

"I'm a little surprised by the start, yes," said Purvis, who guided her Chargers to a second-place finish in the conference last year before losing in the district playoffs.

"We lost two seniors off last year's club and we don't have much height and I thought we'd be hurt on rebounding," she said.

But tight man-to-man press hasn't given Charger opponents time to think about hitting the boards.

"It's been working fairly well," Purvis said of her team's press. "And so far we haven't run up against anyone that is that much taller than we are."

The starting five for Ayden-Grifton this year are Marie and Irene Lewis, Sarah and Iretha Cannon and Joan Albritton. The top reserve is Edna Brown. Other players include Linda Brown, Debbie Ellis, Angela Smith, Ann Stong, Angela Cox, Frieda Cox and Danielle Elk.

"I think in this group our strength is going to be our shooting," Purvis said. "Like I said, we aren't going to be very

Devils Just Miss Poll Lead

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Indiana, which drubbed Xavier of Ohio and Texas El-Paso in winning the Hoosier Classic last weekend, maintained the top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll although its lead over runnerup Duke dwindled some.

The Hoosiers, 3-0, received 29 first-place votes and 1,146 points out of a possible 1,200 in the balloting by the poll's 60 sports writers and broadcasters. The Blue Devils, 5-0 following easy triumphs over Princeton and East Carolina, collected 20 first-place votes and 1,132 points.

Just a week ago, Indiana held a 28-18 advantage over Duke in first-place votes and a 20-point edge in total points.

The remainder of the Top 10 is a carbon copy of last week's poll with the exception of the No. 9 and 10 positions, which are now occupied by Purdue and Syracuse respectively.

Ohio State, with seven first-place votes and 1,051 points, remained in the No. 3 position, followed by Notre Dame, which picked up two No. 1 votes and 942 points. Kentucky grabbed the final two first-place votes and 902 points while staying in the No. 5 position.

Louisiana State, which edged intrastate rival Tulane 80-79, was sixth with 848 points followed by UCLA, 777 points, and North Carolina, 723.

Denkler Paces Surge As Women Win Sixth

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Freshman Mary Denkler came off the bench in the final nine minutes and paced the East Carolina women's basketball team to a 73-63 victory over East Tennessee State last night.

The Pirates had been struggling with the Buccaneers until that time, and the two teams were knotted at 51-all, when Denkler emerged from the pack and took charge.

Over the final eight and a half minutes, she scored 17 points, out of 22 hit by the Pirates, pulled off eight rebounds and generally made her presence on the court felt by the Buccaneers.

She scored with 8:31 left to put East Carolina ahead for good, 53-51, then after Rosie Thompson had hit off a fast break, Denkler hit one of two free throws, added another basket off a rebound, and after ETSU had finally gotten back on the board, Denkler added three more baskets, the first off a lob pass from Laurie Sikes, for a 64-53 lead with 3:05 left.

Her three-point play with 52 seconds left in the game stretched the Pirate lead to its largest, 15 at 72-57.

Overall, Denkler was eight for nine in the game from the floor, adding four of five free throws and the eight rebounds.

"Denkler is a great offensive player, and she provided the spark when we needed it," Coach Cathy Andruzzi said. "We knew that Mary is good off the ball, and that if they continued to collapse on Rosie, that would open up Mary."

Andruzzi had praise for all of the team, saying they played a good game in coming back like they did. Although East Tennessee never took the lead after the opening minute of the game, they were constantly close to the Pirates, clawing their way back from an eight point first half deficit.

"Sikes was really the key to this one," Andruzzi added. "Her ball control really helped us. She

Oilers Win, But Do Not Rub Victory In

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Oilers, following sage advice, declined to spit into the wind or step on Superman's cape Monday night.

Having come within one second of defeating the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers, Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini politely fell on the ball for the final play of the game at the Steelers' yard line and the Oilers trotted into the dressing room with a 20-17 National Football League victory.

The Oilers had better sense and sportsmanship than to rub the Steelers' noses in the Astro turf.

"Pittsburgh is too good a team to rub their noses in a loss," Oilers Coach Bum Phillips said.

"If the touchdown would have made a difference in the division championship, we could have scored," Pastorini said. "We weren't trying to rub their faces in it."

The Oilers had accomplished their goal. They kept the Steelers from clinching their sixth straight American Football Conference Central Division championship and kept alive their own chances of claiming a title for the first time since 1967.

"After the way we lost to them the first time we played this year we had to be a little psyched up," Pastorini said. "So we just went out and got a little sweet revenge."

The Oilers, who lost to the Steelers 34-5 in last season's AFC championship game and 38-7 in their first meeting this season, clearly were ready for the challenge this time.

Houston held the Steelers to four first downs in the opening half and took a 7-0 halftime lead on a 25-yard pass from Pastorini to Ken Burroughs. They went ahead 13-3 on field goals of 24 yards and 34 yards by Toni Fritsch in the third and fourth quarters.

The record crowd of 55,293 in the Astro dome, and a national television audience kept waiting for the sleeping giant Steelers to wake up and they finally did. Matt Rahn kicked a 37-yard field goal in the third quarter and Lynn Swann ran 9 yards for a touchdown on an end-around play that narrowed the Oilers lead to 13-10.

But the Oilers didn't fold. Rob Carpenter ran 4 yards with 2:10 to play to boost the lead to 20-10 for what proved to be the winning margin.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw whipped the Steelers

They Want Him Back

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Woody Hayes, a legendary football coach while at Ohio State, says there is a movement underway to reinstate him.

He made the tongue-in-cheek comment to more than 400 persons at Monday's Pro Football Hall of Fame Club luncheon meeting here, where he was invited as the featured speaker.

"I hear there is a movement to get me back at Ohio State," he said. He paused for a few seconds, then added, "The only trouble with that movement is that it's all in Michigan."

Hayes noted that his successor at Ohio State, Earle Bruce, coached in 1964 and 1965 at nearby Madison and that his team last season records both years.

Although she feels her team will be in the lead on the conference title, Parvis said Southwest Edgewood is the team to beat.

"They're probably the best team, but I think Greene Central, Conley and North Lenoir will also be tough," she said. "I think everyone's going to have a good team this year and it's going to be tough."

to the game's final touchdown with a 34-yard bomb to John Stallworth with 1:18 left in the game. But the Steelers tried an onside kick that found its way to Houston tight end Mike Barber.

"They took that damn football and ran it down our throats for five minutes and scored a touchdown," Steeler defensive tackle Joe Greene said of Carpenter's touchdown. "That was as disappointing as anything that happened and they did it the way they weren't supposed to."

The Oilers weren't supposed to be able to run on the Steelers but that's where Oilers running back Earl Campbell came into the picture with 109 yards on 33 carries, his first 100-yard performance ever against the Steelers.

The Oilers performance brought words of praise from Steelers Coach Chuck Noll.

"I thought the Houston Oilers played the best game I have ever seen them play," Noll said. "I'd like to play Houston every week of the season. That would be interesting, wouldn't it?"

Following Bradshaw's 34-yard touchdown to Stallworth, the quarterback said:

"We had them right where we wanted them. They couldn't play us tight. I had it all planned. We were going to go for the field goal."

Bradshaw took the blame for the loss. "I haven't been playing as well in the big games as I should," he said.

Bradshaw was intercepted twice by the Oilers. Art Stringer returned the first 21 yards in the second quarter and linebacker Robert Brazile's 26-yard return in the second quarter set up Houston's first touchdown.

It was suggested to Brazile that Bradshaw, recovering from a sprained wrist, was not throwing as well as usual.

"I don't know," Brazile quipped. "He threw me a perfect strike."

Pirates Top Aiken

have been no big problems, but we just have to get some little individual problems. Our player are gradually learning that these won't be tolerated."

Did that mean Maynor was being disciplined? "You said it, I didn't," Odom replied.

Odom also added that Raymond Tyson, who has missed the last three games with a stress fracture of the foot, may return to practice later this week.

For the first time this year, the Pirates got away to a rapid start against their opponents, and Odom said he felt that the switch in pre-game talks had done the trick.

"We've probably been doing too much," he had said earlier. But last night, Odom said, "I told them, 'Frankly, we're supposed to beat this team. Now it's up to you to do it.' Apparently, they took me at my word. I can tell them what they are supposed to do, but it's up to them to do it."

Odom said he was pleased with the play of just about everyone who played in the game, but warned that the next opponents, James Madison, here Saturday afternoon, would be a different type of team.

"They will probably come in here undefeated. They are excellently coached and have excellent talent. It will be a real test for us," he said.

Herb Gray led the Pirate scoring in the game, knocking through 17 points. Four other Pirates hit double figures, including Underwood with 14, McLaurin with 11 and Krusen and Powers with ten each.

Aiken was led by Don Hayes with 12, well below his 20-point average. Keefe Walker added 11 and Billy Morris had 10.

The Pirates fired through 59.7 per cent of their shots from the floor, including 58.3 per cent in the first half, and 61.3 per cent in the second. They outrebounded Aiken, 42-35, with Gray pulling away 11 to lead the way.

East Carolina has two home contests remaining prior to the holiday break. They host James Madison on Saturday at 2 p.m., then entertain Old Dominion on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

had eight assists, and just did the kind of things we wanted. We didn't have as good an offensive attack as we wanted, but I think part of that was due to East Tennessee's defense."

Another who drew Andruzzi's praise was another freshman, Donna Brayboy. "She gave us a little lift when we needed it to, with her defense. She was just itching to get into the game, and she did a good job too."

It turned out to be another fine game for Thompson, who led the Pirate scoring with 23 points and pulled off 11 rebounds. Marcia Girven, however, topped the rebounding, snatching away 14 loose balls.

While East Tennessee scored the opening basket, the Pirates came back and took the lead off a jumper in the lane by Sikes at 6-4. Thompson then added a three-pointer for a 9-4 lead, and the Pirates stretched that out to seven at 13-6 on jumpers by Thompson and Lydia Rountree.

East Tennessee refused to die, however, and fought back, cutting the lead to two on several occasions. The Pirates finally gained their biggest lead, 33-25, when Sikes and Denkler hit in the final two minutes of the half.

East Tennessee fought back in the second half, again coming within two on a number of occasions, then finally knotting it at 51-51 on a jumper by Sharon Allen with 9:04 left.

It was then that Denkler put on her heroics. The victory moved the Pirates out to a 6-1 record, while East Tennessee fell to 2-6.

"I really didn't think we'd have this kind of record right now," Andruzzi admitted. "We've beaten some good teams. East Tennessee was bigger than us and they set good picks to get their people free in the lane for good shots. I do think Rosie and Marcia did a good job of cutting them off inside and did a good job on the boards offensively and defensively."

In addition to the points of Thompson and Denkler, Sikes added 11 for the Pirates. Allen led East Tennessee with 22, while Marcia Coward added 15 and Jackie Phillips had 10.

The contest was the final home game for the Lady Pirates until January 16. They will return to action on the road this Saturday, traveling to Campbell College for a 4 p.m. contest.

Seniors Agreed To Work For Title

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story, the second part of a five part series on life after college, chronicles the national championship season of the 1966 Notre Dame football team.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

On Feb. 8, nearly eight months before the opening game of the 1966 football season, Notre Dame captain Jim Lynch called a team meeting that set the tone for the rest of the year.

The informal gathering in the science building was attended by many of the seniors on the squad. Two years before, as sophomores on Ara Parseghian's first Notre Dame team, they had watched the Irish lose the national championship. In the final game of the '64 season, the undefeated Irish built a 17-0 lead over Southern California, but lost 20-17 when the Trojans scored with 1:33 remaining.

"We agreed we had the horses and it was going to be the seniors' last chance at a national title," says Kevin Raszas, an end on that team who now is a top aide for a pharmaceutical company in the Chicago area. "From that point on, we worked out six days a week running and conditioning."

Lynch, square-jawed and all business, called his captaincy "the singular most important honor I've gotten in athletics." After that season he played for more than 10 years with the Kansas City Chiefs with whom he won a Super Bowl ring in 1970. He now is a vice president of a food brokerage company in Kansas City.

He says the ghost of '64 haunted the '66 Irish and he constantly reminded the team about devotion to duty.

"If guys weren't working together, it was up to me to gently remind them that the season went for 10 weeks, and then I didn't care what they did," Lynch says. "I only remember one disciplinary meeting. It had to do with drinking and breaking training rules."

"We were 6-0 at the time. I told them I would be going to all the parties and I didn't want anybody drinking. I don't think I was very popular on campus then. I didn't like having to do it, but somebody had to."

Nearly every team member interviewed recently by The Associated Press said he looked up to Lynch and considered him the hard-rock player foundation to this hard-driven team.

George Goeddeke, the team center and the center of team hijinks, was a leader in his own way. "I was just a hell-raiser. I was known to have a few pops," he says. "Lynch had to say a few things a number of times. I realized there was some merit to what he was saying. I always respected Jim Lynch."

Goeddeke, now an investment appraiser in Detroit, and defensive tackle Pete Duranko, who works for a Pennsylvania company that makes railroad products, were the major cut-ups on the team. Parseghian let them have a free reign because they kept the team loose, were an important counter-balance to Parseghian's intensity and excelled on the field.

End Jim Seymour and quarterback Terry Hanratty, both sophomores, were called the "Baby Bombers." This passing duo gave the Irish an offensive dimension the team had lacked the previous year. Hanratty had beaten fellow sophomore Coley O'Brien, but both quarterbacks made important contributions to the championship campaign.

"The keys were Hanratty, O'Brien and Seymour," says Lynch.

The opening game of the season was against Purdue and quarterback Bob Griese, who had beaten the Irish 25-21 the previous year. All eyes were on Hanratty and Seymour, starting their first game in the South Bend pressure cooker.

Notre Dame won the coin flip, but Parseghian elected to kick to give Hanratty and Seymour a chance to get accustomed to the awesome noise of the crowd.

With Hanratty directing the attack, Seymour set a single-game Notre Dame record for receptions (13 and three touchdowns) and yards (276). The records for receptions and yardage still stand 13 seasons later. Notre Dame won 26-14, one of Purdue's touchdowns coming on Leroy Keyes' run with a fumble recovery. The other was one of only two the first-team defense gave up all season.

After Purdue, Notre Dame beat Northwestern 35-7, with the second team surrendering the TD. Then the Irish blanked Army, North Carolina and Oklahoma on successive Saturdays. The 38-0 drubbing of the then-unbeaten Sooners in Norman, Okla., was the most satisfying.

"It was a wild place to go for northern Catholics," says halfback Dan Harshman. "Their fans were awfully hard on us."

After the Oklahoma game, Hanratty and Seymour made the cover of Time magazine. "It didn't go to their heads because we wouldn't let it happen," says linebacker John Pergine.

The second-string defense gave up the touchdown in a 31-7 victory over Navy, then the top-ranked Irish strung together three more shutouts, including a 64-0 rout of Duke the week before the historic showdown against No. 2 Michigan State that ended in the 10-10 tie. That bruising game knocked out Hanratty, Goeddeke and halfbacks Rocky Bleier and Bob Gladieux.

Still unbeaten and certainly unbowed, the 8-0-1 Irish traveled to Los Angeles to play Rose Bowl-bound Southern California. Harshman, regularly a defensive halfback, filled in for Bleier and caught a TD pass. "We were so physically beaten, we were holding each other up in the huddle," says Eddy.

But the Irish raised their record to 9-0-1 clinched the national championship by smashing the Trojans 51-0.

But the '66 team is best remembered for the one that almost got away — the 10-10 tie against Michigan State.

NEXT: The Michigan State game.

Three On All-Loop

Three members of the Rose High School girls' tennis team have been named to the Division I All-Conference team.

The three are Lisa Grant, Laurie Smith and Martha West. All three advanced to the sectionals, held in late October, while West and Grant, teamed as a doubles unit, moved into the regionals, held in November.

The team was selected by the coaches of the conference.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

no idea what North was doing, but South's slam bid was not an unreasonable gamble. It seemed likely that his partner was void in diamonds, so a slam would have a chance. Also, there was the possibility that the opponents would not allow six hearts to play, and that they might be talked into a phantom sacrifice. East did what you and we would have done—he expected to defeat six hearts, regardless of the lead.

If West had led a trump, a diamond or a club, this article would never have been written. But West "knew" that his partner wasn't doubling just to increase the penalty. The double had to be of the Lightner variety, requesting the lead of dummy's first-bid suit. So he dutifully led a spade.

Declarer called for the ten of spades from dummy, and ruffed away East's ace. Since there was no quick entry to dummy to take the trump finesse, declarer had no trouble guessing that suit—he banged down the ace, felling the king.

The rest was easy. Declarer entered dummy with a trump and discarded two clubs on the king-queen of spades. He was delighted to concede a diamond trick and score 1,210 for making six hearts doubled.

Viewer Reaction Via 'Voxbox'

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In Seattle, Joe Tubejock is home after a long and trying day. He flops on the couch, kicks his shoes and flips on his TV set. Junk. He switches channels. Garbage everywhere.

A smile comes to Joe's face. He reaches to a mysterious box and punches a button. "Zap!" The offensive program — sound and picture — disappears from Joe's set.

Roger Percy, son of Illinois Sen. Charles Percy, has developed a sophisticated television ratings operation that goes far beyond Nielsen ratings. It records not only how many people watched a program, which is as far as Nielsen carries the matter, but viewer attitudes, as well.

A top-rated Nielsen program, for example, has earned that status because more people had their sets tuned into that show than to other shows. Nielsen ratings do not say whether viewers thought the thing was a piece of junk, or whether viewers were even paying attention.

Percy's system can do what Nielsen does, plus more. It works this way:

About 200 homes in the Seattle area are equipped with the R.D. Percy Co.'s VoxBox, which automatically records what program viewers are watching as soon as they turn on their sets, much the way the Nielsen meters do. But the VoxBox is quipped with 10 buttons, which carry such labels as, "Excellent," "Informative," "Credible," "Funny," "Unbelievable," "Dumb" and "Zap."

The information is fed to the Percy Co.'s computers, where it is compiled and deciphered.

Percy's 13 clients, who are charged from $1,000 to $10,000 a month for the service, include mostly advertising accounts, such as Sears and Weyerhaeuser, and several ad agencies. Only recently has Percy approached the networks with his programming by-product.

The networks are understandably reluctant to accept a qualitative ratings system such as Percy's. The Nielsen system has served networks well the networks' only concern for ratings is letting an advertiser know how many homes his commercial will reach with a particular program, from which advertising rates are set. Thus was born the "least objectionable product" school of television programming. If your program is less crummy than the other guy's, viewers will escape to your show. A network doesn't want to know that viewers hate a particular show but are watching it anyway because it's less objectionable than the stuff on the other networks.

By contrast, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting was most eager to subscribe to Percy's system, and has already made some programming decisions based on VoxBox data. "They (CPB) have been waiting for a qualitative ratings service for 10 years," says Percy. "They want to know about quality because that's their agenda, that's what they're supposed to be doing."

STARS OF THE YEAR — Television and film stars Alan Alda and Jill Clayburgh share a laugh following presentation of the 1979 Golden Apple Awards as the male and female stars of the year by the Hollywood Women's Press Club

Radio Revenues Liza Minelli Are Sharply Up Is Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total revenues for the nation's nearly 6,000 radio stations climbed 15.9 percent to $2.6 billion last year, the Federal Communications Commission says.

The FCC said Monday that pre-tax income for the radio industry was up 26.4 percent to $311 million in 1978. The FCC said that based on annual reports submitted by the nation's radio stations, 67 percent of the AM and AM-FM operations made a profit in 1978, about the same as in the past few years. The percentage of independent FM stations in the black rose from 52 percent to 57 percent. The reports show the most profitable radio market in 1978 was Los Angeles-Long Beach. New York City ranked second.

NEW YORK (AP) — Liza Minnelli, recently married to long-time beau Mark Gero, was rushed to New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, the New York Daily News reported today.

Sources close to the singer-actress, who is two months pregnant, said she was in danger of losing her baby, the News said.

"She has been having trouble for more than a week," a source told the newspaper. "Over the weekend, the pains became intolerable and she was rushed to the hospital."

The hospital reported her condition as satisfactory. She was listed in the maternity section under the name of her manager, Deanna Wenble, who said Miss Minnelli went in for a checkup. "It has nothing to do with her pregnancy."

Record Opening For 'Star Trek'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" has set a new box office record, Paramount Pictures executives say.

A studio spokesman said the movie grossed $11,815,203 at 859 theaters in the first three days it was shown. The previous record was credited to "Superman," with a three-day total last year of $10,363,384 in about the same number of theaters.

Early reviews of "Star Trek," however, have been less than stellar. Time Magazine flatly panned the picture, and reviews in both the Los Angeles Times and Herald Examiner were critical of the $42 million film.

BILLY GRAHAM PRESENTS A Christmas Gift of Love

Tonight on television you and your family can begin making this the most special Christmas of your lives. Billy Graham invites you to discover that the real joy of Christmas is not in getting, but in giving. Come to Children's Hospital in Philadelphia where you'll share a live Christmas concert with beautiful kids who will celebrate Christmas in wheelchairs and in bed. Come to Memphis and meet men who will spend the birthday of the Prince of Peace in the bitterness of a federal prison. Tonight get into the real spirit of Christmas. Then tomorrow reach out to those forgotten people in your own community who need you to remember.

Surviving Twin Feels Alone

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Life for Benny McCrary, who once traveled the country as one half of the world's largest twins, can never be the same without his brother.

"It's been tough, very tough to adjust," McCrary said recently. "We were inseparable. We did everything together. Never were we more than 200 miles from each other."

Benny and Billy McCrary's travels for "Ripley's Believe It or Not" came to an end July 14 when Billy died as a result of complications following a motorcycle accident near Niagara Falls.

To honor his brother, Benny, 33, has erected a mannoth-sized monument at Crab Creek Cemetery near the McCrary home in Hendersonville.

The granite marker weighs more than 12,000 pounds and contains two wings, one for each twin.

"Doing things in a big way has always been a part of our lifestyle," McCrary said.

When they were together, Benny was the smaller twin at 727 pounds while Billy weighed 747 pounds. Benny reached a career high of 814 pounds, but has shed more than 160 pounds on a 2,000-calorie-a-day diet imposed by his wife Tammy.

McCrary plans to undergo a stomach bypass operation in which a large portion of his stomach will be sealed off, allowing his stomach to hold only small amounts of food at a time.

Until he has the operation, he plans to continue as a professional wrestler in the South-eastern U.S. and in Puerto Rico. His wife, who tips the scales at 120 pounds, also is a wrestler.

The most difficult part of learning to live without his twin, McCrary says, is when he is traveling.

"We've been so many places together that it seems strange not having him with me," he said. "But, it's something I've got to accept. I've got to keep on living."

George Dickel Tennessee sippin' whisky. Smooth as moonbeams.

From George Dickel folklore.

"Tastin' is believin'."

—Merle Beatty, Store Owner, 1871

"I remember we were tryin' to tell this city feller that George Dickel's whisky tastes smooth 'cause it's made with clear, sweet springwater.

"And it's mellowed good and proper 'cause Ol' George gives his sour mash extra time to get into the flavor.

"Well, I could see this city feller wasn't much impressed with our jawin', so I stopped talkin' and started pourin'.

"One sip was all it took. Said he'd never tasted a finer Tennessee Sour Mash. Didn't surprise us none. 'Cause when it comes to George Dickel's whisky, tastin' is believin'."

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Facial Pain During Flight Descent

I flew in from Europe about five days ago. The flight was smooth, but a number of people near me had terrible pains in their ears on the descent. I had no pain in my ears. Instead I had excruciating pain over my face. I have no trouble with my sinuses. I wonder why I would have had such pain at a time like that. — Mrs. S.S. Mass. Dear Mrs. S.:

Pain in the sinus area, over the face and forehead, is not nearly as common as pain and fullness over the ears during a descent in a plane. Yet, it is not unusual. The same mechanism at work for ear problems exists with the sinuses. Changes in atmospheric pressure are known to create inflammation of the sinuses and the middle ear cavities.

Some people may complain of extreme discomfort over the teeth. All of these unpleasant reactions are due to interference with the free flow of air into the tubes that run from the back of the nose into the ear, and the tubes that run from the nose into the sinuses. When there is blockage of the Eustachian tubes to the ears and when there is blockage of the tiny ducts, a partial vacuum is responsible for the sensation of pain.

I have found that many people with marked discomfort in the ears or the sinuses can find enormous relief with the application of very warm, moist towels to the area that pains. The stewardess can provide this.

I've tried everything to get my 11-year-old daughter to stop biting her nails. I've even tried, with her consent, to apply bitter aloe, a recommendation of my grandmother.

Is there anything else I can do? She bites constantly. — Mrs. B.J., Ohio. Dear Mrs. J.:

The application of bitter aloe, or any other unpleasant-tasting substance, is obviously not the proper approach to this problem. For nail-biting, in children and in adults, is but one outward evidence of some inner tension and nervousness. Unless the basic cause of the tension is found and eliminated, even if the nail-biting does stop, other symptoms of emotional stress will manifest themselves.

The application of any distasteful oil is actually a form of punishment. And punishment is entirely contrary to all better concepts of treating nail-biting.

Exasperated Judge Orders 'Find Drug Defendant'

MIAMI (AP) — Exasperated at the disappearance of a third defendant in the "Black Tuna" drug-smuggling trial, a federal judge has asked federal authorities to concentrate on finding the man.

"This is bizarre," U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King said Monday when the bungle was revealed. "If the U.S. State Department is handling the Iranian situation like it handled this one, then God help us all."

Justice Department attorney Dana Biehl told King defendant Carl Jerry London vanished from the Caribbean island of Aruba a week ago when he completed a jail sentence and was turned loose with a passport and a plane ticket to Miami.

King said he'd asked the State Department to watch for London's release so the FBI could pick him up and return him to Miami, where the trial has been going on for three months. Prosecutors say the eight defendants smuggled more than 500 tons of Colombian marijuana into the United States.

Biehl said officials in Aruba apparently told the State Department London's sentence was longer than it really was, so no one was there to pick him up when he was released.

"I am very concerned about this and I intend to pursue the investigation into this matter," King said, adding later that he'd say more about the investigation today.

Meanwhile, cross-examination of the government's key

3 Lawmen Are Indicted

EDEN, N.C. (AP) — Three current or former Eden police officers were indicted Monday on felony charges growing out of an investigation of alleged corruption in the town's police department.

Misdemeanor charges were filed earlier against an Eden police detective and a former Rockingham County sheriff's deputy.

Those indicted Monday were Eugene Moretz, 35, an Eden police detective; George W. Priddy, 46, a Rockingham County sheriff's deputy and former Eden policeman; and Harold W. Anderson Jr., 28, a Caswell County sheriff's deputy and former Eden officer.

A private citizen, Paul J. Cassell, 56, of Eden, also was indicted on a charge of offering a bribe.

Moretz was charged with conspiracy, solicitation to commit felonious larceny and accessory before the fact of larceny of a tractor. Moretz, who has been on the Eden force six years, was released under $2,500 bond.

Priddy was charged with larceny and receiving in connection with the alleged theft of a .45 caliber Thompson submachine gun from the police department. He was released under $1,500 bond.

Anderson was charged on three counts of embezzlement and two counts of the sale of a weapon without a permit.

District Attorney Franklin E. Freeman Jr. said two other cases of alleged misconduct remain under investigation.

witness, George Purvis of Fayetteville, N.C., continued. Under questioning, Purvis described his $1,000-a-week cocaine habit and the "black tuna" medallions he said were worn by members of the smuggling ring.

Dubbed "black tuna" for its radio password, the gang had golden medallions minted to signify membership, Purvis said. He added he didn't have one, but had seen them many times.

Purvis told defense lawyer Arnold Stream that he quit using cocaine after "I woke up one day wondering what I was doing to myself and I stopped...just like that.

"I'd heard about cocaine and wondered what would happen to me, but nothing happened," he said.

London, 40, ended up in Aruba after violating King's orders earlier in the trial, prosecutors say. During a trial recess seven weeks ago, King said London could visit his home in Gainesville, Ga. Instead, prosecutors say, he found an accomplice and tried to make a smuggling flight to Colombia.

Prosecutors say the pair left Colombia empty-handed and were arrested on the island off the Venezuelan coast when they stopped for fuel. They were taken in for failure to have proper airplane documents.

London's disappearance means that three defendants are now missing. Mark Steven Phillips, 30, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fled after being indicted. He and London are among eight defendants in the current trial.

The other fugitive is Colombian businessman Raul Davila-Jimenol, 32. He has never been caught.

The original indictments returned by a U.S. grand jury in Miami last May accused 14 persons of violating a dozen federal statutes.

Besides London and Phillips, those now on trial are Robert Jay Meinster, 37, and Robert Elliot Platshorn, 36, Miami Beach businessmen accused of being the Black Tuna ringleaders; Eugene Arter Myers, 39, Tampa, Fla.; Randall Gene Fisher, 21, Fort Lauderdale; Modesto Echezarreta-Cruz, 43, Key Biscayne, Fla.; Richard Elliott Grant Jr., 23, Hollywood, Fla.

Four defendants have negotiated pleas to reduced charges: Platshorn's wife, Lynn, 34; Dr. Morris Frederick Keller, 41, a chiroprapist; Ronald Benton, Elliott, 41, of Winter Haven, and Roy Roscoe Walker Jr. 35, of Winston-Salem, N.C.

Gregory Francis Poulos, 32, of Fort Lauderdale, is to be tried separately. The new indictments last week named the Platshorns, along with Meinster, Fisher, two New Jersey men and a New York man. All were accused of plotting to obstruct the trial.
