98TH YEAR NO. 305 GREENVILLE, N.C. THURSDAY AFTERNOON, DECEMBER 20, 1979 40 PAGES—3 SECTIONS PRICE 15 CENTS

CONTRACT SIGNED . . . Howard G. Dawkins, executive director of the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, Inc., and Wayne Daves, executive director of employment and training, sign contract for CETA funds to be used for vocational training.

$95,710 Contract For Job Training

RALEIGH — The Office of North Carolina Employment and Training Council has signed a $95,710 contract with the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, Inc., Greenville.

The contract, under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), will run from Dec. 18 to Sept. 30, 1980.

The vocational training project will serve approximately 16 persons in the following categories: mentally and physically handicapped, socially and culturally deprived, emotionally disturbed, alcoholics and ex-offenders.

The counties served under the contract are Hertford, Bertie, Martin, Pitt, Beaufort, Lenoir, Duplin, Onslow, Jones, Carteret, Pamlico, Craven, Green, Wayne, Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank, Dare, Tyrrell, Hyde, Gates, Perquimans, Washington and Chowan.

The 16 persons in the program will be placed in such areas as piano tuning, piano refinishing and repair, secretarial positions and other areas in need of skilled and semi-skilled workers.

Referrals for the project will come through the N.C. division of Vocational Rehabilitation, which also will provide vocation evaluation of each person entering the program.

The Governor's Special Grant is responsible for the funding of projects which provide supplemental vocational educational assistance, encourages coordination and establishment of linkages between CETA prime sponsors and appropriate educational agencies and institutions, conducts coordination and special services activities, promotes the Governor's Youth Employment and Training Program Activities, and supports the state Employment and Training Council activities.

A total of $6,112,332 will be administered by the council to fund approximately 60 projects during fiscal year 1980.

A QUESTION OF HEAT

I'm the parent of a child in the county schools. I feel very strongly that this government regulation of heating should not apply to schools. My child has always been prone to respiratory ailments and I do not like the idea that she's going to be in a cold room every cold day this winter. I'd like to know exactly what the heating regulations concerning schools are and whether there is any room for local discretion based on parent protest.

A. M.

Federal regulations require that the temperature used for heating not be above 65 degrees for rooms used by high schoolers, but kindergarten-through-sixth-grade rooms are exempted, according to George Laws, Energy Control Office of the Pitt County Schools.

Few schools are solely under federal policy, he said, because in most of the county schools, at one time or another during any day, K-6 students are in almost every room. County policy requires that no thermostat be set above 72 degrees and that the lowest temperatures be 68 degrees — slightly higher than federal guidelines call for.

Laws said he monitors the classrooms with a portable thermometer to give an accurate reading because some are colder than others.

Whether there is room for local discretion based on parent protest would depend on the school, Laws said. The school could make a request to the Department of Energy, he said, but he could not predict the outcome or the degree of red tape.

More Violence Between Rival Iranian Factions

By ALEXANDER S. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Fighting between rival groups in eastern Iran's troubled Baluchistan region left two persons dead and 36 others wounded, Tehran Radio reported today.

It was the latest outbreak of violence in areas of Iran where ethnic minorities have been agitating for greater autonomy from the central government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The 50 American Embassy hostages, meanwhile, were spending their 47th day in captivity. Iran's interior minister raised the possibility of Christmas visits by the American hostages' families but the militants holding the embassy said they have not yet decided on such a move.

The Tehran Radio broadcast gave few details of the fighting in Zahedan, capital of Baluchistan-Sistan province.

It said it broke out as "Dr. Yazdi" — presumably top Khomeini lieutenant Ibrahim Yazdi, a former foreign minister — was delivering a speech. The report did not identify the "groups" that fought each other.

It said the Sunni Moslem religious leader of the region, Mowlavi Abdolaziz, issued a message to Zahedan citizens saying the disturbances were engineered by "enemies of Islam."

Most of the 600,000 Iranian Baluchis are Sunnis — the rival sect to Khomeini's Shiite Moslem religion. The nomadic Baluchis have chafed under Tehran's control since first coming under Persian rule in the mid-19th century.

Several other ethnic groups in Iran — some of them Sunni — have sought greater self-rule under the revolutionary government. Most recently, the Turkish-speaking Azaris of Azerbaijan rebelled earlier this month. The violence has generally abated in Azerbaijan in recent days and the Khomeini regime is trying to restore good relations with the Azaris.

On the subject of Christmas visits to the hostages, Interior Minister Hojatolislam Hashemi Ransanjani told the newspaper Bamdad: "There is a possibility their families will be allowed to visit them and we would like such a thing to take place."

But a spokesman for the students who have been holding the embassy and hostages said Wednesday there has been "no decision. And such decisions are up to us."

The students again torpedoed another conciliatory expression by Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who told The Washington Post that the hostages could be freed if the U.S. government held an official investigation of Shah

OPEC Ministers Argue Deadlock Over Oil Unity

By WILLIAM GLASGALL
AP Business Writer
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — After three days of deadlock, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries began its fourth and probably final session today without an agreement on new prices for crude oil.

A. K. Hart, chairman of the Nigerian National Petroleum Co., said the session this morning might set loose limits within which each of the 13 countries could fix its own prices. But any upper limit would not be observed for long if a hard winter in Europe and the United States or a cut in production by a major producer resulted in as big increase in the demand for oil.

Saudi Arabia's Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, who called the oil ministers into more than 12 hours of secret talks Wednesday, said he did not expect any unified price structure to emerge from today's meeting.

If limits were set, the bottom basic price was expected to be $24 a barrel, $6 above OPEC's previous minimum set last June and the price Saudi Arabia said it would charge for the first quarter of 1980.

The upper limit was expected to be well above $30, the present maximum base price, which Libya is charging. The Libyans urged a minimum base price of $34 for a 42-gallon barrel. But any ceiling will be junked, just as the $23.50 top set in June was, if the demand for oil exceeds the supply or buyers begin anticipating shortages.

The meeting's host, Energy Minister Humberto Calderon of Venezuela, said OPEC would probably meet in March for another try at a price agreement.

"We have to wait two or three months and see how the market develops," he said late Wednesday night after more than 12 hours of wrangling.

Land Use-Zoning Plan Is Recommended For Area North Of Airport

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission adopted a land use-zoning study of the area north of the airport along NC 33 and recommended City Council approval of the suggested zoning changes.

Meeting last night, commissioners discussed the study and agreed with the suggestions offered by the city's planning staff regarding zoning action in the Belvoir Highway area.

Staff planner Skip Browder explained that the study area, containing some 65 parcels of land totaling approximately 175 acres, was zoned Unoffensive Industry and RA-20 (residential-agricultural) when the present zoning map was adopted in 1969.

Browder pointed out that since the zoning map was adopted, most activity in the area west of the North Carolina Department of Corrections property has involved residential uses. Of the 65 parcels in the study area, he said, 42 or 65 percent do not conform to all provisions of the zoning regulations and therefore are designated as non-conforming.

Within the study area there are 25 single-family units, 52 mobile homes, three commercial uses, a church, the corrections facility and some 35 acres under cultivation.

The study points out, "Based upon recent trends and development, the industrial zoning applied to this area originally is no longer applicable."

The staff, in studying the area, came up with a plan of recommendations to make as many of the existing uses in the area conform.

The staff recommended in the study that the corrections property, which is now used strictly for office facilities, be rezoned from Unoffensive Industry and Highway Commercial to Office and Institutional and therefore bring the facility into conformance.

It was also recommended that the area around the loop road on the north side of the highway be rezoned from Unoffensive Industry and RA-20 to R-6 Mobile Home, Browder said. He explained that the rezoning would minimize from 33 to 16 the number of non-conforming uses in the loop road area.

A third recommendation was that the area on the south side of Belvoir Highway across from the loop, involving seven parcels, be rezoned from Unoffensive Industry to R-6 Mobile Home.

The staff suggested that the area immediately north of the proposed R-6 Mobile Home area be rezoned from Unoffensive Industry to R-9 (residential), eliminating an island of IU zoning.

Also, the staff recommended rezoning of the area on the south side of the highway across from North River Estates, Section II, from RA-20 to R-9 as a "logical extension of the R-9 zoning to the north."

The sixth recommendation involved rezoning the area south of the proposed R-6 Mobile Home or R-9 across from the loop road (involves the Clemmie Tyson property) from Unoffensive Industry to RA-20. Browder said that the felling is that the land will remain under cultivation.

Browder said that a request of J. T. Manning Jr. for 1.23 acres on the north side of the highway just west of the prison facility was not addressed in the study, although commissioners could include

Dr. Wilkerson Named N.C. Physician Of Year

DR. JACK WILKERSON

Dr. Jack W. Wilkerson of Greenville has been named North Carolina Family Physician of the Year by the N. C. Academy of Family Practice.

Dr. Wilkerson practices family medicine here with Dr. Jack Koontz, Dr. Quentin Mewborn and Dr. Richard Vaughn. He has been a doctor since 1955 and has practiced in Greenville since 1967. He is a clinical professor of family medicine with the East Carolina University School of Medicine and is a member of the Medical School's Admissions Committee.

A past president of the N. C.

Academy of Family Practice, he is a delegate to both the American Academy of Family Practice and the North Carolina Academy.

An Asheville native, he and his wife, Liz, have four daughters.

As North Carolina Family Physician of the Year, he is in the running for designation as National Family Physician of the Year. The winner of the national designation will be announced in the spring.

Dr. Jack Boyette of Belhaven, last year's N. C. Family Physician of the year, was a finalist in the national competition.

Chrysler Aid Is Rushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House raced today to find compromise terms for giving Chrysler Corp. $1.5 billion in loan guarantees that will help the automaker escape imminent bankruptcy and let Congress start its holiday recess.

Senate and House conferees, acting with unaccustomed speed, arranged a meeting to work out their differences on a four-year, $3.4 billion-plus aid plan for Chrysler before Friday.

The Senate approved an aid bill Wednesday that requires $125 million more in wage concessions from Chrysler's 113,000 employees than does a House bill passed the day before. But Senate leaders said the prospects of quick compromise on the wage issue and congressional passage today were "excellent."

Avers Garwood Said He Fought U.S. Troops

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood wore a Ho Chi Minh pin, claimed to be a North Vietnamese officer and once said he had fought against Americans, a former prisoner of war has testified.

The allegations were made Wednesday at a hearing to determine whether Garwood should be court-martialed on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy. If convicted of either charge, the Adams, Ind., native could be sentenced to death.

The 33-year-old Marine, who contends he was captured in 1965 and held prisoner until last March, denies the charges, saying he was merely a prisoner.

His defense attorneys said earlier this week they will argue that anything Garwood did was done with one motive — survival. The defense has not cross-examined witnesses, but may do so when the hearing resumes Friday after a one-day break for out-of-court work.

Former POW Gustav A. Mehrer of Colorado Springs, Colo., on Wednesday described how Garwood looked on one occasion in 1969.

"He had on pajamas, a pith helmet, pack, an M-1 carbine, a pistol belt... and two or three Chinese hand grenades on that belt," Mehrer said.

Mehrer, who was a POW for nearly five years, said black pajamas were the standard dress of most prisoners, but Garwood's pajamas were adorned with a button showing the profile of North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh.

Garwood once spoke of being involved in "some combative action" against U.S. troops and said he was

Clayroot Watershed Report Ruled Valid By Judge

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Judge Henry Stevens, following a three-day hearing in Pitt County Superior Court, ruled yesterday that a Board of Viewers report, dealing with the questions of whether or not to include Clayroot Watershed in Clay County

Drainage District Number 3, and whether or not to improve the watershed, is valid.

The ruling, which was appealed by several respondents, paves the way for work to move forward on a drainage project involving Swift Creek, Indian Well and Clayroot watersheds, if the ruling is upheld by the Court of Appeals.

This week's hearing resulted from a petition filed with the court in February 1979, asking that Pitt County Drainage District Number 3 be expanded to include the Clayroot Watershed.

As a result of that petition, the court, in March 1979, ordered a report by a board of viewers appointed by the court. That report was filed with the court on August 31.

The report, in part, recommended that the Clayroot Watershed be included in the District Three project, and said landowners within the watershed would benefit from the planned drainage

Judge Stevens said that once he had established that there had been substantial compliance with the law, and that the benefits derived from the project are expected to exceed the costs, he had no choice under the law, other than to approve the board of viewers' report.

The Swift Creek-Clayroot-Indian Well watershed include some 120,000 acres of land, lying generally South of the U.S. 264 Bypass, West on N.C. 43, East of N.C. 11 and North of Atkinson's Fish Hole near the Pitt-Craven County line — the Southeast portion of Pitt County and a portion of Craven County.

FOCUS

Winter Begins

This Saturday, December 22, is the first day of winter in the Northern Hemisphere. In the Southern Hemisphere it's the first day of summer. Because of the slant of the Earth's axis, the amount of sunlight reaching different parts of the planet changes as the Earth revolves around the sun. In December, the North Pole tilts away from the sun, while the South Pole tilts toward it. The extra sunlight the Southern Hemisphere receives at this time marks the beginning of summer there, while the reduced sunlight in the north signals the start of another winter. In the Northern Hemisphere, this time is called the winter solstice.

DO YOU KNOW — In what month does summer begin in the Northern Hemisphere?

Faithless Father, Faithful Daughter

By Abigail Van Buren
1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 22-year-old married woman with a problem I'm sure is not unique in these times.

Three years ago my father walked out on my mother, leaving her with a mortgage, two children to feed and clothe, and a stack of bills to pay. Of course he had a girlfriend, to whom he is now happily married.

This scandal broke up two families, damaged six children and provided this town of 17,000 with gossip for a year.

Mother is understandably bitter. Her whole life has stopped since her divorce. She doesn't have any men friends, and refuses to make a new life for herself. Worse yet, she expects undivided loyalty from her children, which means not seeing or talking to our father and his wife.

Abby, I am not condoning Dad's actions, but I cannot write him off as though he were dead—which is what Mother wants me to do. He was good to me when I was growing up, and as long as he's living I want to keep in touch with him now and then. Some day he may not be around, and I want no regrets.

Mother keeps hassling me to promise never to talk to Dad again, and I just can't make that promise.

Am I wrong to insist on the right to make my own decision about this? My mother is irrational on the subject.

"A gift from Brody's means more!"

DEAR ABBY: I am 53, and thought I had all the answers, but I'm stumped on this one.

I was married for over 29 years. My wife passed away two years ago.

I have met a lady and we are thinking of marriage.

What I need to know is this: is it proper to have my late wife's rings made over, using the same diamonds but set in new mountings? Or should I buy new rings?

If I decide to use the same stones, should I tell the lady?
STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: It is not necessary to buy new rings. Use the same diamonds in new mountings. And there is no need to tell the lady—unless she asks.

DEAR ABBY: You are elected to settle a question about which our family disagrees.

Each Christmas I mail a gift to a friend in another state. She sends me one, too, and I always send her a prompt "thank you" to let her know I received and appreciated her gift.

Last year, she did not acknowledge my gift. I was going to ask in a letter to her (several months later) if she ever received my gift since I had paid to insure it and still had the receipt.

My family felt it would be putting my friend in an embarrassing position if she received the gift and forgot to acknowledge it. They also felt that one gives a gift out of love, not for the sake of getting a "thank you."

Abby, I did not want a "thank you." I honestly wondered if she ever received it.

Would it be wrong to ask if she ever got it?
ME IN OREGON

DEAR ME: Not in my book. A person who "forgets" to acknowledge a gift could use a little embarrassment. (P.S. Write and tell her that the gift was insured, so if it wasn't received it could be replaced without additional expense.)

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too, Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

MRS. PHILLIP RAY STARLING

Couple Speaks Vows Friday

FARMVILLE — Wesley United Methodist Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony Friday evening at seven o'clock of Betty June Andrews and Phillip Ray Starling. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Terry Shackelford. A program of nuptial music was presented by Susan Beaman of Farmville, organist, and Kenneth Cobb of Farmville sang "If," "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon W. Andrews Jr. of Rt. 1, Farmville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her honor attendant was her sister, Donna Evans of Tarboro. Bridesmaids included Rose Holloman and Linda Cobb, both of Farmville.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David G. Starling of Rt. 2, Farmville, and his father served as best man. Ushers included Bryan Andrews, brother of the bride, and Mark Starling, brother of the bridegroom, both of Farmville.

The bride wore a formal gown with a front pleated insert which extended into a chapel train of organza and Venise lace. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline with an illusion yoke outlined with matching lace motifs on the bodice. The bishop sleeves ended in cuffs of matching lace.

Her chapel length silk illusion veil was edged in scalloped lace attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a starburst of pom poms and white miniature carnations.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a dinner party Thursday evening in the fellowship hall after the wedding rehearsal.

The attendants wore formal length pleated gowns of wine polyester fashioned with a gathered scoop neckline with a blouson overlay over long sleeves. Each carried pink poinsettia with wine velvet ribbon bows.

The bride's mother was attired in a green floor length gown with a chanel jacket edged with Venise lace. The mother of the bridegroom wore an aqua polyester formal gown with an empire waistline with matching lace trim. Both mothers wore a corsage of white carnations.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live at Rt. 2, Farmville.

The bride works at Pierce Insurance Agency and attended Pitt Technical Institute. She graduated from Farmville Central High School. The bridegroom graduated from Farmville Central and is employed with his father.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

After the first slice of wedding cake was cut by the bridal couple, it was served by Miss Debra Strickland. Mrs. Gary Tyson poured punch. A silk flower ar-rangment centered the refreshment table flanked by silver candelabra.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cobb of Farmville. Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Starling of Farmville presided at the guest register.

Christmas Activities Finalized

Final plans were made for Christmas activities at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Post 7032 at its meeting last week.

President Mrs. Alice Moseley announced gifts have been sent to the VFW National Home for widows and orphans, VA Hospital in Fayetteville and O'Berry Center, Goldsboro. Mrs. Carrie West made a visit to the VA Medical Center, Fayetteville, taking a Christmas tree and ornaments to be used in a ward there.

Myrtle Meeks, rehabilitation chairman, reported a visit to University Nursing Home. Plans were made for a visit to Greenville Villa to disrib distribute Christmas gifts. Margaret Brown, Americanism chairman, reported pledge of allegiance cards and booklets on flag care have been received and will be presented to Pitt County Schools.

A covered-dish supper will be held at the Post Home Dec. 31 for

Holiday Wreath Demonstrated

The making of a Christmas wreath using natural foliage was demonstrated at the meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club held last week at the home of Ruth Bateman.

President Norma VanVeld gave the program and conducted the business meeting. Assisting hostess Pat Lowe conducted an auction which featured homemade holiday foods, jams, relishes and handmade crafts. The proceeds have been donated to Pitt County Social Services to be used to buy Christmas gifts for foster children.

Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Bateman served refreshments at a table decorated with a holiday motif.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

George Collins, a friend of mine, once accused me of having one of the greatest mathematical minds of the ninth century.

It was a sexist remark. He said it wasn't, but was based on women's inability to grasp the logic and the scope necessary to comprehend a reasonable solution to a problem.

Last week, George and I saw three of my friends, Judy, Maralee and Thelma, and they asked us to join them for lunch.

When the check came, George reached out to claim it, but it was too late. What ensued was to have a permanent effect on George's life.

Judy: "The bill comes to $35.17. Does anyone have a calculator? The battery in mine is dead. Great, let's see, Thelma had the BLT and was that a cup of soup at 85 cents or a bowl at a dollar?"

Thelma: "Cup, but that doesn't include the bar bill. I had the Tequila Gunslinger."

Judy: "And Erma had the omelette and the tossed salad."

Erma: "Don't forget the Roquefort was 10 cents extra and I had the Perrier Spritzer."

Judy: "Right. Since George is our guest we'll split his lunch which came to $6.42, divided by four which comes to 1.605 each, not counting tip or tax."

Erma: "Look, why don't I pay for the parking and you can take that out of my part of George's meal?"

Thelma: "I got a better idea. We'll go look at draperies and I'll take a shower curtain home on approval and get the ticket validated."

Judy: "Terrific idea, Maralee, what did you have?"

Judy: "It looks like SW with a question mark."

Maralee: "The waitress made a mistake. I said I'd have the sweetbreads if they didn't look gross, but she brought me a fruit cup so subtract $1.10."

Judy: "Let's see, Thelma and I split the dessert which is $1.35 divided by two."

Thelma: "I ate your crackers, so let me pay for all of it."

Maralee: "Let me pay for the dessert because I owe Judy for two raffle tickets."

We pushed away from the table. The tip was piled neatly under a glass. The entire transaction had taken place in less than 35 seconds.

George was numb. "Do you mean to tell me you go through that every time you have lunch?"

I smiled. "George, we're not financial giants for nothing."

Foundations Laid In Rhodesia

The long troubles in Rhodesia appear to be ending with the British-developed cease-fire. Patriotic Front guerrilla leaders accepted the cease-fire plan which is expected to end the seven-year war. The Rhodesian government has surrendered its powers to a British governor who will supervise the development of a black government for the country, which will now be known as Zimbabwe. At the same time the United States has announced the end of economic sanctions against Rhodesia, and presumably trade will resume between the two countries. No one should expect the formation of the new government, with accompanying elections, to go smoothly. There has been too much bloodshed and too much built-up hatred for that. But at least the foundations for a peaceful transition have been laid. It will be up to the people of that war-torn nation to make it work.

Essential Tobacco Program Approved

Once again it was overwhelming approval for the federal price support program for flue-cured tobacco in a referendum held Tuesday. Almost 98 percent of over 111,000 eligible voters in six states voiced their approval of the program.

The vote was for a three-year period. We couldn't be more pleased with the results. Like the tobacco growers, we recognize that the program is essential to our tobacco producing area.

If Someone Really Cared

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — If anyone really cared, a lot of people who die in jail could be saved. Beneath all the statistics is one simple combination of most jail deaths: alcohol, and nobody keeping a close watch on the prisoner.

Even more grimly impressive about the suicide situation is the fact that most were relatively young, white males who were drunk when locked up and drunk when they committed suicide in the cells.

life, leading to the obvious assumption that the attempt in jail resulted from the combination of liquor and arrest. Does anybody really care? "Our impression is that the community—the citizenry—is concerned about investigation of deaths in custody only when the deaths result from so-called police brutality. This is ironic since nearly all prison deaths occur in other ways, and in fairness the fault should be laid upon the community, the citizens, county officials and the medical profession rather than on custody officials," Hudson and Butts conclude.

ing the five-year study period, 102 were classified natural deaths. But 30 of those "natural deaths" involved middle-aged alcoholics suffering withdrawal syndrome — DTs. The medical examiners also discovered that several individuals who died in jail were not actually intoxicated at the time they were arrested on a liquor charge and placed in jail ... they were already undergoing alcohol withdrawal, instead.

BILL NOBLITT

"We strongly believe that the toll of avoidable and untimely deaths in North Carolina jails and prisons can be reduced significantly. Changes can be made that would be both humanitarian and cost effective," the state's chief medical examiner believes. Dr. Page Hudson, North Carolina's chief medical examiner, and his deputy, Dr. John Butts, have taken a close look at all deaths which occurred in jail or prison in the state between 1972 and 1976.

At one jail, there were five hangings in four years; four of which involved belts. Jailors started routinely taking the belts away from prisoners, and in two years since, not one death by suicide has occurred despite five attempts during which the prisoners took enough time and created enough commotion to attract attention. Following up, the medical examiners discovered another significant fact: not one of the would-be suicides subsequently took his or her

Additionally, five deaths were classified as falling accidents, but involved alcohol or a seizure shortly after admission to a county jail; and eight others died of alcohol poisoning as they continued to absorb recently ingested alcohol from their stomachs while their jailers and fellow prisoners assumed they were simply sleeping off a drunk.

A Very Private Affair

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — A card in the mail this morning invites me to a neighbor's house for a Christmas tree decorating party. I regret sending my regrets. As a keen observer of humankind, I would be truly interested in seeing how people can have a good time, laugh and drink and be civil to one another, while decorating a Christmas tree.

At our house in my youth, trimming the tree was necessarily a very private affair, the closest the family ever came to civil war. Because of the thinness of the walls, the neighbors may have shared in the event and even taken sides in the various skirmishes over tinsel vs. snow, colored bulbs over all-of-a-kind, blinking or regular lights, etc., but they never were invited in to join the hostilities.

These always took place on Christmas Eve. The tradition was more economic than sentimental. My father always waited until the last minute of closing time, certain that the merchants would drop their prices drastically rather than be stuck with a surplus of unsellable trees on the day after Christmas. We three boys — I was the middle one with a year's difference on each side — sweated out the Christmas countdown in fear that the best trees or perhaps even all of them would be gone by the time Father made his move.

Should we start at the top or the bottom? Do the lights go on first or the ornaments? Perhaps this year we should start with the tinsel "rain" or first hang those striped candy canes we got at school on the outer branches?

find a peaceful place within the family of nations. But let us keep fingers crossed for luck. The road ahead is as perilous as the road behind. There are good omens. With Lord Soames' arrival, economic sanctions against Rhodesia come to an effective end. The paper resolutions of the United Nations may remain on the books, but they will cease to have meaning. Britain and the United States are prepared to resume normal relationships. That is all that matters.

but the sanctions grandly imposed upon Rhodesia in 1965 amounted to folly on a monumental scale. The late Dean Acheson characterized them flatly as violative of the U.N. charter. International traders ignored the proscriptions. The sanctions merely pinched; they never strangled. If the U.N. can learn something from its mistakes — a doubtful proposition — it could learn some useful lessons from its blunders in Rhodesia.

Every friend of that lovely and beleaguered country will pray that it all works out — that a cease-fire agreement commands obedience, that elections go smoothly, and that by early spring a newly christened Zimbabwe will

A final word might be said about those U.N. sanctions. We expect a certain imbecility from the United Nations, Another hopeful sign: The 90-0 vote in parliament symbolized the willingness of Rhodesia's white minority to support the new constitution and to pull in harness on the road ahead. Doubtless it will be said that the white power structure had no choice, and this is true — but only to a point. A vast difference separates willing help from passive obstructionism. Without white skills, the fragile structure of Zimbabwe could collapse into the same ruins we observe in Mozambique and Angola.

40 Years Ago Today

Thursday, December 30, 1939
In the decade's parade of glamour, the "It" girl of the roaring 'Twenties became the Oomph girl of the Tempestuous 'Thirties. The late Jean Harlow led it, unloosing a tide of platinum blonde tresses. Marlene Dietrich legged it to Hollywood to give the perennially glamorous Garbo competition. Myrna Loy gave the decade its perfect glamour wife, Katharine Hepburn. Betty Davis proved that ability to act was no drawback. Carole Lombard demonstrated how a lady should act to grab off the decades' No. 1 glamour man, Clark Gable.

Carter Sours On Russia

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The sudden upsurge of formal but unpublished complaints about Soviet conduct now being conveyed by President Carter's top diplomatic officials to Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin reveals a startling change in Jimmy Carter's unimagineable brief months ago.

since World War II that Moscow has intervened in a Third World country with organized units under Soviet command, and Carter is demanding an explanation. Carter's growing disillusion with the Russians also expressed itself in a private complaint direct from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to Dobrynin on Dec. 6. Vance was angry over evidence of new Soviet nuclear test ban cheating.

popular acclaim for his handling of the Iranian crisis. These intimates believe the president's new show of relative realism toward Moscow's superpower rule-breaking has a psychological root in his spectacular climb in the polls. This reinforces his disenchantment over growing Soviet truculence in doing what it wants, whatever various treaties and rules of conduct say.

At least one additional 1979 underground test is known to have exceeded the 150 kiloton legal limit (by at least 50 percent). Three 1978 explosions also broke the ceiling. Yet, until Carter ordered Vance to lodge his formal complaint, nothing whatever had been said to the Russians. The American people have never been told.

The president is no longer a convinced partisan of the view that the Soviet Union, like his own U.S.A., plays politics by a set of loose but roughly definable superpower rules. The latest evidence of this change is a request for "clarification" of the Kremlin's stunning, still unannounced incursion into Afghanistan by at least one and probably two battalions of organized military units. These troops, belonging to a crack Soviet airborne division, mark the first time

Lumped with Carter's dismay over earlier Soviet rulebreaking, such as its outrageous radio campaign to incite violence against Americans in Iran and its interference with food supplies to starving Cambodians, these new signals of presidential anger hint that Carter might actually — and belatedly — be running out of patience. Carter is reported by White House insiders to have been mightily buoyed up by Vance's confrontation with Dobrynin on Dec. 6 was long overdue, considering unambiguous evidence of repeated Soviet violations of the 1974 Threshold Test Ban Treaty. This sets a 150 kiloton limit on underground nuclear tests. The U.S. has obtained "hard" information that the Soviets exploded two underground tests this year not yet reported by the Carter administration. It was those two tests — each with an explosive force of between 180 and 210 kilotons — that Vance wanted Dobrynin to explain. Dobrynin predictably denied there had been any violation. That failed to satisfy Cy Vance. He called on Dobrynin to supply U.S. scientists with the full geologic data on rock formations surrounding the test site and with geographic coordinates so they could more precisely measure the size of the two unannounced blasts.

The TTBT is only one of three treaties that U.S. intelligence agencies have told Carter the Russians have broken. One of these, as we have reported previously, is the 1963 Atmospheric Test Ban Treaty, systematically violated in 1978 and once again on Oct. 19 this year when an underground test "vented" its fallout into the atmosphere through carelessness. The third treaty that is now the target of a formal Carter administration charge of violation is the anti-ballistic missile agreement. Despite the specific proviso in Article 6 of this treaty, forbidding anti-aircraft radar to be used to track incoming ballistic missiles (rather than airplanes), the U.S. charged a possible violation by the Soviets last October, at the height of the crisis over Soviet combat troops in Cuba. The radars used were the most modern model associated with SAM-10 anti-

- To the editor:
In the recent Public Forum letter about the recently enacted federal fuel program, the writer seems to be blaming the current state administration for what he considers to be poor and unfair policies. Perhaps he could consider the following:
1. No one has yet designed a system of benevolence, welfare or charity which all of us agree is fair and equitable.
 2. The mother of two receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children can receive a maximum monthly check of $192. If she can find housing, buy groceries, purchase clothing and pay school expenses from this amount, it is doubtful that she has ANY money left over with which to pay for lights or heat.
 3. The State of North Carolina had to design the program within federal guidelines which call for some graduation in payment related to family size. They chose the simplest division, i. e. one child, $100, two children, $200. This was aimed toward decreasing the manpower costs to administer the program. Most citizens are opposed to enlarging the bureaucracy.
 4. The writer envisions a family of seven SSI recipients receiving seven fuel checks. To receive SSI, a person must be 65 years of age or permanently and totally disabled. Do any of us know many such families?
 5. Years ago churches and neighbors took care of our unfortunate citizens. Do any of us do our part today?
 6. Our program in Wilson to upgrade housing has in the past year caused rents to rise in low-income areas much beyond the reach of tenants who have nothing left to use to purchase fuel.
 7. This "fiasco," as the writer termed it, might not have been needed if all of us had worked hard to see that inflation was attacked, alternate sources of energy developed and officials were elected who were concerned about all our citizens, and if we'd followed the Golden Rule in our own communities. A few people may receive fuel money who don't need it, but many, many others will be closer to a decent standard of living.

Change In Attitude On Debt

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — America's attitude toward debt changed in the 1970s. Middleclass families became financial sophisticates. Taking their cues from government and big business, they learned to leverage. Not just with credit cards either. With sometimes enthusiastic support from lenders, Americans increased the total mortgage debt on single-family homes to $750 billion in 1979, more than triple the 1970 total. Lenders broke the 25 percent standard, a decades-old rule of thumb that theoretically measured the limit of a family's income that could be spent on housing. The new standard was closer to 35 percent.

Inflation and high interest costs forced the break, but they had less to do with other banking changes, such as the inclusion of a wife's income in determining creditworthiness, and mortgages to unmarried couples. Maturities tended to grow longer. The 30-year mortgage became common for keeping installments within a family's range. Mortgage insurance permitted families to borrow more than they otherwise could. With market values increasing at 17.2 percent from July 1978 to July 1979, many families built up enormous equities in their homes. At that rate, it takes only 4½ years for a home to double in value. The temptation to use that equity was great, especially since wages were higher than when the mortgage was originated, and thus the ability to repay was stronger. Banks accommodated. Why not, when they could trade an old 8 percent mortgage for a new one at 12? Lenders too were pressed by inflation and high interest. Savings and loan associations, which hold 55 percent of private home mortgages, found it difficult to compete for funds, or to make profitable loans. States began in 1979 to lift usury ceilings, some of which forbade mortgages higher than 10 percent, though mortgage rates generally were 11.5. Lifting the ceilings made mortgage money available, but in some instances people paid 15 percent for it. The variable rate mortgage, whose cost to the borrower rises or falls with rates in general, and the graduated-payment mortgage, payments on which begin low and rise with earning power, may resolve some problems. The relaxing of restraints by borrowers, lenders and regulators worries many people, and their concern is probably more financial than piratical. The lenders fear borrowers, and lenders too, are over-leveraged. Builders, borrowers, buyers, homeowners, landlords, Realtors all have asked themselves whether the boom of the '70s will become the bust of the '80s. Or will it, they wonder, be the prelude to more of the same?

Strength For Today

NOT BY FRONTAL ATTACK
It is part of the human condition that warfare is constantly going within us between the flesh and the spirit. St. Paul insists that there is a way to resolve this conflict. He says in effect, desist from all frontal attacks against sin, which so often end in defeat. Instead, win the victory by filling our lives with the spirit of Christ. To strive against evil thoughts and practices is to wage a battle in which Satan has the advantage. But to fill the heart with love, to dwell upon our devotion to Christ, means to crowd evil out of our lives and thus win our victory over the evil one by circumventing his designs. "Walk by the Spirit," concludes Paul. This means carrying the Spirit of Christ into our daily lives. Religion is not something to be practiced one day in the week and forgotten the rest of the time. Christian faith means continual loyalty to Christ in thought and deed. Elisha Douglass

Ready Change To Coal-Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, finishing work on its program to halve electric utilities' use of oil, plans to order 20 to 25 power plants to switch to coal, a government document suggests.

The orders are expected within the next nine months, but there is no indication how long actual fuel change-overs would take.

Subsequent phases of the plan eventually could force nearly 175 power plants around the country to switch from oil and natural gas to coal. The program is expected to offer utilities financial incentives to make the switch.

Congressmen from coal-producing states were to get the first look at the president's proposal at a late afternoon meeting today at the White House. Administration officials said, however, that the bill itself would not be ready to send to Congress until mid-January at the earliest.

A Department of Energy background document circulated on Capitol Hill lists 117 plants said to be capable of conversion to coal.

Of these, 42 are listed as the most likely candidates for an order to switch to coal.

"The Department of Energy considers converting all 42 stations worthwhile from the point of view of oil savings potential but has identified 20 of these as the best candidates for early action," the paper says.

"Twelve of these are being considered for proposed (oil-burning) prohibition orders in the very near future" under existing law, the document stated.

readily apparent — Mugabe and Nkomo may not be able to enforce an order to disarm. Mugabe is supposed to have 12,000 troops based in Mozambique, Nkomo perhaps 4,000 based in Zambia, but many of these "troops" are little more than roving bands of armed thugs. It is widely assumed that hundreds, if not thousands of these guerrillas quietly have infiltrated back into Rhodesia as negotiations proceeded in London. It is no easy undertaking to disarm a shadow.

During the bloody, brutal years of guerrilla warfare, an estimated 150,000 persons have fled to Zambia, Mozambique and Botswana. The repatriation of these refugees presents formidable problems. The ground rules for the forthcoming election will provide a severe test for every faction; if Mugabe and Nkomo refuse to commit themselves to a fair and free outcome, the whole delicate fabric swiftly could unravel.

Rhodesia is a small country, but as Daniel Webster supposedly said of Dartmouth College, there are those who love it. Under the generally benign rule of Prime Minister Ian Smith, Rhodesia's black people have gained the highest standards of literacy, health care and personal income in all of Africa. Free of sanctions, a soundly based economy could quickly recover. It is now pretty much up to Mugabe and Nkomo to say whether wounds fester, or whether the wounds heal.

our family. Mother often turned on-carols on the radio to drown out father's oaths.

Then came the sublime moment of truth. Father got down on all fours, crept beneath the lower branches, sorted out the ganglia of extension cords and triple sockets, and inserted the prongs into the outlets.

Let there be light. And there was, in some areas.

But at least four of the nine sets of lights were not on. In those days one dead bulb knocked out a whole set, and so began the irritating, exacting, at times jolting job of testing each light without blowing a fuse or falling off the ladder into the tree from a sudden shock.

But at last the job was done. Every light sparkled. Even the bulbs with chipped paint had been discarded and we had all played the game of making sure that two reds or two greens were not next to each other.

One Christmas morning, among the earliest in my memory, we arose with a clatter to the tumble of church bells and stamped into the front room.

And what to our wondering eyes should appear? Marcus Tullius Cicero, our cat, asleep in the branches halfway up in the tree amid a chaos of broken ornaments. That was some party, let me tell you.

Lawyer Terms Savings Bonds Rip-Off Of Poor

By DAVID EINHORN Associated Press Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Savings Bond, a time-honored way of showing patriotism while saving money, is under fire by a San Francisco lawyer who calls bonds a ripoff of the poor.

"To call them a ripoff would be modest," Robert L. Gnaizda of Public Advocates, a consumer advocate group, said Wednesday.

On Monday, Gnaizda filed an amendment to a class action complaint with the Federal Trade Commission, claiming the U.S. Treasury uses unfair, deceptive practices to peddle the new Energy Bonds, scheduled to replace Series E bonds in 1980.

The original action, filed in September, asks that all bond advertising be halted until every ad contains a clear statement advising consumers of the interest paid on savings bonds.

Treasury's ads use slogans like, "They'll put your financial worries to rest" and "U.S. Savings Bonds are one sure way to make your dreams come true."

Energy Bonds pay 6.5 percent interest, 7 percent if held 11 years, and Series E bonds pay 6 percent. The figures are well below current money market rates and far behind the rate of inflation.

Money market certificates currently pay up to nearly 12 percent on an minimum investment of $10,000 for six months. Inflation is running about 13 percent.

"Because of the difference in interest rates between the money market and what the government pays, small savers will lose $2.4 billion this year," said Gnaizda.

Carolyn Johnston, director of public affairs for the Treasury's Savings Bond division, said attacks such as Gnaizda's are unfounded, because the object of the bonds is to promote savings, not investment.

"We're talking about deductions of $10 or $20 a month, and aircraft missiles.

Yet, last July, when U.S. intelligence first reported Soviet testing of SAM-10 radars at Sary-Shagan in central U.S.S.R. to track incoming ballistic missiles, not a word about violations was said to the Russians. That failure infuriated defense-oriented senators who knew about the Soviet maneuver, including Republican Sens. John Tower, Gordon Humphrey and other members of the Armed Services Committee. They are now lobbying Carter to make a diplomatic issue of the violations and let the American people in on this secret: The Russians have been playing fast and loose with vital treaties on which the future security of both countries could depend.

Whether or not Carter takes that advice, his transformation from a believer in Soviet good intentions to a chastened skeptic, while leaving room for further growth, is a healthy sign of political maturity that fits well with his new showing in the polls.

Soaring Costs Cripple Coverage Of Campaign

HIGHEST PRICE PAID — The highest price ever paid at auction for a single photographic image was recorded Wednesday when an anonymous Pennsylvania collector paid $22,000 for a large print of Ansel Adams' "Moonrise, Hernandez, New Mexico." day even when the plane sits on the ground while the candidate tends to business in the Senate. Kennedy's people are quick to assert that what they collect from the press doesn't cover the costs, which amount to well over $85,000 a week. Some news organizations use a journalistic platoon to get the news. Networks need producers, camera crews and correspondents. News services send photographers and radio reporters as well as writers. So the costs mount sharply. As a result, the nation's two largest news services, The Associated Press and United Press International, say they may curtail the assignment of reporters to Kennedy's plane. In the 1976 campaign, the practice was established of charging reporters 150 percent of first-class fare for distances covered by campaign planes. The campaign organizations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of sending a reporter to accompany Sen. Edward Kennedy on his campaign plane has gone so high some news organizations may choose to cover Kennedy from the ground only. It would cost a news organization $10,852.79 to assign a reporter to ride along with Kennedy on his chartered Boeing 727 jet during the seven weeks between Dec. 13 and Jan. 31. And that covers only transportation, not the reporter's food and lodging. The Kennedy campaign acknowledges the costs are high, but says that is because Kennedy travels more than the other candidates and is alone among them in chartering a plane on a full-time basis. The campaign pays $5,000 a of Republicans Ronald Reagan, George Bush and Howard Baker charge that rate and John Connally, using a smaller, less expensive plane, charges 125 percent of first-class fare. The Carter White House divides the costs by the number of journalists who go along and charges each a proportional share. Since the president usually attracts a big press contingent, costs can be lower when covering Carter than when covering Kennedy.

Rosalynn Leads Blitz Of Iowa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter and her daughter-in-law are leading a group of women on a political blitz of Iowa in an effort to drum up political support for President Carter.

The first lady's third campaign visit to Iowa occurs just hours after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Carter's chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, left the state.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was there Tuesday.

The candidates are lavishing attention on Iowa because it conducts the first event of the 1980 election season: precinct caucuses in January.

Mrs. Carter was leaving the White House this morning for the 12-hour trip to six cities.

Her companions include Annette Carter, 27, who is married to the president's son Jeff; Pat Marshall, wife of the labor secretary; Edna Langford, a personal friend from Georgia; and Juanelle Edwards, treasurer of the National Federation of Democratic Women.

Lillian Carter, the president's mother, planned to join the party in Davenport this afternoon.

After landing at Cedar Rapids Airport, the first lady and her party will split up and attend coffees in different cities for the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee.

Mrs. Carter and members of her family did the same thing recently in New Hampshire.

The first lady's schedule included visits to Cedar Rapids, Marion, Olin, Maquoketa, Clinton and Davenport.

Tyson was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon, Cannon noted.

School PTA Honors Janitor

Milton Henderson, janitor at Third Street School, was honored by the Third Street School PTA at their recent meeting for outstanding service to the school. He was presented a plaque and a gift by Mrs. Shirley Morrison, who represented the PTA.

Henderson was cited for the pride he takes in the building and grounds at Third Street School.

almost captured by Americans. Mehrer said.

"He said he held the rank of lieutenant in the NVA (North Vietnamese Army). It was difficult to believe. I asked the (Vietnamese) camp commander and he said 'dung,' which means correct," Mehrer said.

While American POWs lived inside a fenced area in the prison camp, Garwood lived outside the fence with guards and soldiers, Mehrer said. Other witnesses said Garwood frequently carried North Vietnamese money and could leave the camp without a guard.

"He said he had been liberated and that he chose to live there," said Mehrer.

Garwood talked of going into the field and using a bullhorn to urge American soldiers to stop fighting, Mehrer said, adding that Garwood was a leader of "indoctrination classes" for POWs.

"He explained to me how bad we were, that is, the killing and the destruction and the defoliation and that we were wrong and shouldn't be there," Mehrer said.

One witness against Garwood, Army Chief Warrant Officer Francis Anton, told reporters Wednesday that he and other POWs signed anti-American statements but "I did it...with a .45 (caliber pistol) at my head."

Anton said he saw no comparison between such things as signing such statements under duress and the alleged actions of Garwood.

Reveal James Garner Ailing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Garner has been sick for nearly a month, and the star of NBC's "The Rockford Files" television series isn't sure what's wrong with him, his manager said.

"He is not well, not well enough to work," Meta Rosenberg said Wednesday. "We are shut down."

"My own feeling is that he's not in the throes of a terminal illness," she added.

The 52-year-old actor underwent a battery of tests at San Diego's Scripps Clinic last week and was waiting at his Los Angeles home for doctors to pinpoint his trouble.

He was ill before he went to Hawaii for location shooting in October and he caught a flu virus there, said Ms. Rosenberg.

"The Scripps doctors advised him to rest. His own physician and the studio physician told him to take it easy," she said.

Win Contests In Reading Classes

Mrs. Witherington's and Mrs. Venable's resource classes at South Greenville School have completed their Christmas reading contest. Winners are:

— Fourth grade: Kevin Cobbs, Dallas Fornville, Damon Smith, Vinson Johnson, Kathy Smith, and Michael House

— Fifth grade: Kelby Cox, Darrin Moore, Ricky Outlaw, Carolyn Phillips, Michael Sasser, and Curtis Perkins

— Sixth grade: Ryan Clark, Robert Joyner, Sheldon Cherry, Bonnie Bynum, Sandra Williams, and Lisa Greene

Welcome Cooled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo assured the shah of Iran that "Your home is always Mexico," when the ailing monarch left that country for medical treatment in the United States, the Los Angeles Times says in today's editions.

"This is your country," the Mexican president told Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, in a message, the Times said.

"You are always welcome. We are distressed and disturbed by your health. A king should have premier medical treatment," continued the message, which the newspaper said was reported to the White House in a secret State Department cable. "You should go to the United States and we will await your return."

Because the Carter Administration was aware of the assurances given the shah, U.S. officials were stunned when, on Nov. 29, Lopez Portillo decided against permitting the shah's return to Mexico, citing his nation's "vital interests," the newspaper said.

"U.S. officials knew of that message and that was a factor in our decision to have him come here for treatment," a Carter Administration official told the newspaper.

Another administration official said the assurances of asylum were reconfirmed right up until the day Portillo changed his mind, the paper reported.

Three Accidents In City On Wednesday

An estimated $4,000 property damage resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 5:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Charles Street and Red Banks Road, when a car driven by Tammy Lynn Hardee of Oakmont Apts., and Deborah Moore Daniels of Branche's Estates collided, causing $1,800 damage to the Hardee car and $950 damage to the Daniels vehicle.

Cars driven by Willie Roscoe Whitfield of Washington, D.C. and Katherine Hardee Braxton of Route 5, Greenville, collided about 4:10 p.m. at the intersection of Third Street and Memorial Drive, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Whitfield car and $500 damage to the Braxton vehicle.

Cars driven by Al Vester Moore of Route 1, Hookerton and Dorothy Garrison Fisher of 304 Glasgow Ln. were involved in a 8:18 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 500 feet West of the Belvedere Drive intersection.

Police set damage to the Moore car at $450 and reported no damage resulted to the Fisher vehicle.

Host Handicapped, Elderly At Dinner

The King and Queen Restaurant celebrated an old-fashioned Christmas dinner for about 150 elderly and handicapped persons from five nursing homes Wednesday at 12 p.m.

Patients from the University Nursing Home and Greenville Villa, Mrs. Rosa Bradley's Home for Adults, Gray's Pineview Family Care in Winterville, and The Baptist Home in Hamilton. Some elderly citizens from the Greenville community also attended the dinner.

Mrs. Dixie King, W. C. King, her husband, and Foy Rogers, her father sponsored the dinner. "It was just something they wanted to do," said Pat Burnett, administrative assistant at Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce. She coordinated the dinner and arranged transportation for the guests.

"The restaurant was decorated very pretty, and they had a Christmas tree," said Burnett. Santa Claus passed out treats to the guests, and they sang Christmas Carols to accompanying music. "It was the nicest thing," she said.

Service Club Held Meeting

The Cherry View Community Club met Sunday at the home of Mrs. C.K. Marshmond.

The club was re-organized nine years ago for the purpose of helping others. A prayer and a poem were given by Mrs. Marshmond.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Cherry View Community Club should contact Mrs. C.K. Marshmond, 752-5840 or Mrs. Bessie Spain, 758-3851.

'Law Of The Sea' Pact Discussed At Session

ECU News Bureau

Approximately 60 persons participated in a recent public seminar on the proposed international Law of the Sea at East Carolina University.

Keynote speaker at the event was John Temple Swing, vice president of the Council on Foreign Relations and an advisor to the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea.

U.S. interests in defense and commerce would be "best served by a speedy conclusion" to the conference and a negotiated treaty which covers such issues as deep-sea mining, Swing said.

He noted that negotiations have been successfully concluded on navigation, fisheries, marine science, the territorial sea and the 200-mile economic zone, but there is "still considerable difference" in positions taken by developed and developing countries on other issues.

Other speakers included Barbara Weaver of Washington, D.C., director of the Joint Law of the Sea Project, Board of Global Ministries and United Methodist Church Board of Church and Society; Dr. B.J. Copeland of Raleigh, director of the UNC Sea Grant Program; The Rev. Daniel Earnhardt, Methodist chaplain to ECU; Dr. Thomas Earnhardt, professor of law at N.C. Central University; Drs. Peter Fricke and William Queen of the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources; Dr. Hans Indorf, member of the ECU political science faculty and legislative director for Sen. Robert Morgan (D-NC);

Thomas Kane of Washington, D.C., consultant to the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council and the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries;

Peggy Stamey of Raleigh, vice chairman of the South Atlantic Fisheries Management Council; Dr. Thomas Van Loon of Nashville, Tenn., director of the Department of Hunger and Value Formation for the United Methodist Church's Board of Discipleship; and Dr. Tinsley Yarbrough, chairman of political science at ECU.

Sponsors of the conference were the United Methodist Law of the Sea Project and the ECU Law Society, in cooperation with the ECU Methodist Student Center, Department of Political Science and Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources.

Participants included:

Farmville: Mr. and Mrs. F. Earl Umphlett.

Greenville: ECU Chancellor Thomas Brewer, Diane Austin, Martha Blee, Richard Brantley, Told Repay Stolen Sums

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Former Wilson County Clerk of Superior Court W.A. "Billy" Boone Jr. was sentenced Wednesday to four to six years in prison, suspended for all but 90 days, and was ordered to make full restitution for funds he was convicted of embezzling.

Superior Court Judge Elbert S. Peel Jr. also recommended that Boone be considered for work release during the 90 days he is to serve in prison.

Boone was ordered to repay $57,085.46 to the Wilson County clerk's office by Jan. 7, 1980, the day he is to report for commitment to the Nash County prison unit.

Boone is also to repay some $9,205.73 worth of interest, as well as court costs.

The former clerk pleaded guilty Monday to a single charge of embezzlement. A State Bureau of Investigation agent testified that the money involved 75 trust accounts that were held by the clerk's office.

The embezzlement occurred during a period between 1970 and July, 1979, authorities said.

Boone could have been sentenced to as many as 10 years in prison.

Readers Ask About Hormones

Q. What roles do hormones play in the normal functioning of the body?

A. Hormones are very specialized substances manufactured in the endocrine glands. When hormones are released from the glands, they enter into the bloodstream and play an active role in every important mechanism of the body. Hormones are involved in the regulation of growth, sexual development, the onset and regulation of menstruation, in body metabolism and in the maintenance of the chemical balance in the blood. The elimination of fluids is another of the many and varied functions affected by hormones.

Q. Which hormone gland is considered most important?

A. No single gland can be considered "most" important. No one gland runs the whole endocrine show. No one gland can remain aloof from all the others. Each hormone-producing gland depends on all the other glands in the body. By their interaction, body functions are kept at a maximum of efficiency.

Q. What are the major hormone-producing glands?

The pituitary gland seems to be the "boss regulator" of the endocrine system. This tiny gland, located in the brain, has two parts. Each produces its own hormone. The pituitary acts as a switchboard, by sending messages to all the other hormone glands in the body when there is some deficiency or some urgency.

The thyroid gland in the neck, the parathyroid glands

(within the thyroid gland), the thymus gland in the chest, the pituitary gland in the brain, the adrenal gland near the kidney, the ovaries, the pancreas, the testicles and the pineal gland in the brain all function in coordination with each other, for maximum health.

Q. What is the function of these glands?

A. They affect growth, motor activity of the body and metabolism. Increased thyroid production races the body's motor. Decreased thyroid production slows it down.

The parathyroid gland is involved in regulating the level of calcium and phosphorus in the blood.

The adrenal gland affects the blood pressure, the sugar content of the blood and the fluid balance of the body.

The thymus is a gland present at birth, but which usually disappears by puberty. For years, the thymus gland was considered the "poor relative" in the endocrine system. It was casually overlooked. Today, many important functions are attributed to it, including immunity and resistance to infection.

The pancreas produces insulin, so important in the control of sugar metabolism.

The intricate network of hormones relays messages throughout the body, to sustain its balance and health.

Civil Liberties Groups Hit Infiltration Proposals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's suggestion that the State Bureau of Investigation should infiltrate "wild, crazy groups" drew sharp reaction from the N.C. Civil Liberties Union Wednesday, which labeled the comments contemptuous.

Hunt said he was prepared to push for infiltration activity by the SBI against groups such as the Ku Klux Klan, the Nazi Party and communist organizations to protect North Carolinians. NCCLU executive director George Gardner said Hunt was "contemptuous of constitutional freedoms of speech and association," and charged the call for infiltration was politically motivated.

"The governor has very evidently a right-wing opponent in the race and he's trying to move over to that side of the platform," Gardner said.

"Such infiltration would be an invasion of privacy. It would have a chilling effect on the right to free speech and it's absolutely unnecessary," Gardner said.

Hunt said he believed the infiltration could be done without violating constitutional rights of members of those groups. "I'm convinced it can be done successfully, and I'm convinced it must be done," he added.

Hunt's legal counsel Jack Cozort said later in the day that the administration still stood by Hunt's comments, but he suggested the governor was talking off the top of his head about the infiltration plan and didn't intend for SBI agents to become members of the KKK or other groups.

"I think he was just sort of thinking out loud, talking off the top of his head," Cozort said. He pointed out that Hunt's comments came in response to a question. "He was saying, 'this is what I think, we need to do something,'" Cozort said.

Cozort said he thought infiltration could be done through informants and other means of gathering information, rather than agents joining the extremist groups.

The governor's remarks came in reaction to a demonstration and rally in Greensboro last month that erupted into gunfire, leaving five members of the Communist Workers Party dead. The CWP sponsored the gathering, billed as a "Death to the Klan" rally.

Fourteen men have been charged with murder or rioting in the case. Many of them claim affiliation with the Klan or Nazis.

Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, who has control over the SBI, was silent on the governor's remarks.

Edmisten was at the press conference with Hunt to announce a new state program to combat arson. He refused to answer any questions concerning the infiltration plan.

Hunt said at the press conference that federal laws may now bar infiltration activities by investigators. And he said he was prepared to seek changes in those laws that have "tied our hands" in investigations of such groups.

"I would be prepared to see North Carolina push for those changes and challenge those laws, because we have to know what kind of violence the communists are up to, or the Ku Klux Klan or the Nazi groups or whatever else it may be," Hunt said.

"Maybe it's a drug cult like they have in California, or one of these other wild, crazy groups. We have to know in order to protect our people what they're up to."

Cozort said the governor had been misinformed when he said federal laws barred infiltration during criminal investigations.

Hunt's press secretary Gary Pearce said privacy law amendments passed by Congress in 1974 restrict such activities by the FBI and other federal agencies. He said the SBI has followed the spirit of that law, but is not legally bound by it.

He said the state may only have to draw up its own guidelines for investigations that would permit infiltration to allow the SBI to engage in such activities.

"He's not going to do anything precipitous," Pearce said. "We're not talking about running out and immediately starting infiltration."

The governor said he would make a formal statement on the infiltration proposal at a later time, but he did not say when that would be.

Beliefs Caused Teacher To Quit

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — A Northern Virginia public school teacher upset with a school system that places a greater emphasis on "heathen" Halloween than on Jesus Christ in Christmas has quit his job.

Gary Denton, a fifth-grade teacher at Annandale Elementary School in Fairfax County, resigned on Wednesday.

"Here we cannot praise the name of Jesus Christ...yet we are allowed to celebrate Halloween, a pagan observance of every evil and wicked thing in the world," Denton said.

William Tarbox, principal of Annandale Elementary, calls Denton a "fanatic" more interested in instructing his students to pray and on teaching them evolution according to Genesis. "I've been in school systems for 28 years and I have not run into a person as strong in his convictions as Mr. Denton," Tabox said. "There's no place in our curriculum for this type of thing."

"Jesus said 'Go and tell the world,'" Denton said. "As a Christian I believe it is very important to share what I believe."

Tarbox counters by noting that fifth-grade students would have a hard time distinguishing between "sharing" and "teaching."

Tarbox and Denton have argued in the past. Their most notable battles included Denton having his class boycott the school's Halloween observances and Denton instituting a two-minute period at the beginning of the day for "silent prayer and meditation." More recently, Denton played Christmas music for his class including "Good Christian Men," "O Come All Ye Faithful," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Report 2nd Fish Kill

EMERALD ISLE, N.C. (AP) — State fisheries authorities Wednesday reported the second fish kill in slightly more than a week.

About 1 million dead and dying menhaden began floating to the water's surface near Emerald Isle sometime Wednesday. An estimated 20 to 30 million of the tiny fish washed ashore Dec. 11.

Bob Pittman, assistant director of the state Division of Marine Fisheries, said the fish apparently died because of the large number of fish packed together in schools.

He said the cause of the earlier kill has not been determined because the fish were deteriorated too badly to be tested.

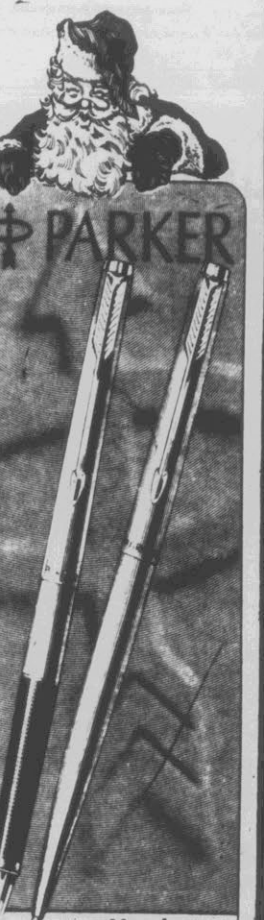

Emerald Isle Mayor Ronnie Wason said there are no plans now for a cleanup.

Pittman said officials are not alarmed by the fish kills. "Anytime we have kills it worries us. But with menhaden we're certainly not as concerned as we would be with, say, spotted trout," he said.

Denton, who has taught for just 18 months, is the choir director for the Christian Hope Center in Silver Spring, Md.

A bachelor, Denton was educated in his native North Carolina. His experience as a student teacher was also in a small community in North Carolina. "The kind of students I had were just ideal," Denton said. "I did not know what I was getting myself into coming to this county."

"We do not permit any effort at preaching or conversion in the schools," comments Fairfax County school official Joseph King. "It seems to me if a person wants that as part of his or her classroom activity, they might very well serve in a religious school where that is not only permitted but required and rewarded."

Volkswagen Van-Maker Must Pay Damages For Negligence

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The maker of Volkswagen vans must pay nearly $2 million in damages after finding the company guilty of negligence in connection with a car crash that left one man dead and three others permanently injured.

The six-member jury, after two days of deliberations, ruled Wednesday that negligence on the part of Volkswagen of America and its parent company in Germany caused the 1975 accident involving four marines stationed in North Carolina.

The four were leaving the U.S. Marine Corps Air Station in Cherry Point, N.C. and were traveling on a two-lane highway when the axle on a borrowed 1972 Volkswagen Micro-Bus broke.

The van rolled over several times on the highway and the four men were thrown from the vehicle. A fifth passenger, who was not tossed, was not hurt in the crash and not involved in the suit.

The jury awarded $1 million to Rinaldo Irizarry, then 19, of New York City, who is a quadriplegic as a result of the accident.

Barry Seese, then 18, of Coch-ranville, Pa., who suffered permanent brain damage, was awarded $600,000.

The vehicle's driver, Martin Ramos, then 26, suffered permanent damage to his wrists. A career officer in the Marines, the staff sergeant is a former paratrooper forced to take a desk job in Quantico, Va., as a result of the accident. He was found innocent of any negligence by the driver.

The estate of Jose Torres was awarded $150,000. The 22-year-old New York City resident died of a crushed skull, testimony at the trial indicated.

The jury award climaxed a 10½-week trial in which the Marines' attorney, Hank Wallace, argued that Volkswagen was guilty of gross negligence.

He argued that the men were seriously injured because they were thrown out of the vehicle when the windows popped out during the crash.

Volkswagen does not use any glue to keep the windows in place and the jury decided Wednesday that the windshield-retention problem constituted negligence on the company's behalf.

Wallace introduced a film to the jury in which he simulated a crash, but glued the windows. The windows did not pop out during the simulated crash.

Volkswagen maintained during the trial that federal safety laws do not require their van windows be sealed. The company showed a film of an auto with sealed windows which did pop out during a simulated accident.

The $1.95 million award compares to the $6.35 million in past, present and future medical costs Wallace argued were anticipated.

During the trial, more than 40 witnesses, including safety experts and doctors, were called to testify. The jury also watched a film describing the life of a quadriplegic and heard testimony from Irizarry about his life since the accident.

More than 450 exhibits also were shown during the trial.

The case was heard before U.S. District Court Judge Herbert J. Stern in New Jersey because Volkswagen's United States headquarters is located in Englewood Cliffs.

Energy-Saving Effort Fading

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The nine-month federal energy-saving program may expire before North Carolina officials implement the mandatory regulations designed to control temperatures in businesses.

Only four months are left in the program and none of the approximately 2,500 businesses affected by the regulations has been inspected.

The regulations require thermostats in specified businesses, shops, factories and other public buildings be set no higher than 65 degrees in the winter and no lower than 78 degrees in the summer.

But state officials say they have not been able to implement the regulations because they haven't received $158,600 from the federal government to train building owners to implement the rules and to pay local inspectors.

Doug Culbreth, director of the state's energy conservation section, says local inspectors were recruited and training sessions and workshops arranged shortly after the N.C. Energy Policy Council recommended on Aug. 22 that the state agree to enforce the limits.

He said 56 cities and 53 counties had agreed by the end of October to provide inspectors if the state would train and pay them.

Failure Rate Sharply Up

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tighter requirements for promotions and renewed emphasis on teaching the basic skills have resulted in a dramatic number of North Carolina students flunking their grades, according to figures released recently by the state Department of Public Instruction.

The number of students failing to be promoted increased 81 percent in three years, from 43,000 in 1975 to 78,000 in 1978. From 1976 to 1977, the statewide non-promotions jumped from 49,000 students to 62,000 students, an increase of 26 percent.

George Kahdy, assistant state superintendent for instructional services, says the higher failure rate is due to the state's concentration on teaching basic skills at each grade level. The new testing programs — competency testing for high school students and annual testing for grades 1, 2, 3, 6 and 9 — also played a part, he said.

Kahdy predicted the number of those failing will continue to increase.

"It will be coming down only because we are helping those students achieve better and more than they were before."

He added that even with the large number of non-promotions, "test scores are revealing improvement in student achievement levels."

"Our purpose is to help children learn, and if a large number of students are failing, I would want to know why," Kahdy said.

Educators are now pressing for better student instruction in light of more stringent graduation requirements and tighter standards for promotions, Kahdy said.

"I think that as teachers become more concerned with helping students master the goals, they will master the goals," he said. "I think we will see a change with good planning, good effort and involvement of parents."

But without the money from the U.S. Energy Department, the sessions were never held.

"We were all ready to go, and they kept saying the money would be here any day. In fact, it never did come," Culbreth said.

Jan Marfyak, program director of field operations in Washington, contends the state did not get its grant because state officials did not apply for it properly.

He said the state must formally accept responsibility for running an enforcement program and without the receipt of a "delegation of authority" form, no money will be sent to the state.

But Culbreth said the form has been submitted now and the state's full grant should be ready by Jan. 1. Then, he said, he'll reschedule six training sessions and workshops around the state.

Offer Tableau For 4 Nights

A Christmas Tableau, with musical narration, will be presented at 7 p.m. four nights beginning Thursday, Dec. 20 and running through Sunday, Dec. 23 at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The scene of Jesus' birth will be recreated with a rugged stable, live animals, and a rough-sided manger creating the stage for the characters Mary, Joseph, shepherds, wise men, and angels. Members of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Youth fellowship will portray the characters.

The presentation will last approximately 25 minutes. It will be held in the church parking lot, at the corners of Dickinson and Greene Streets.

Abandoned, Dead Baby Given Funeral Service

By DIANE OLLIS
Associated Press Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The death of an unnamed baby boy, abandoned naked in the chill Minnesota autumn, haunted Carol Hamline.

for the little grave, and someone anonymously bought a small white casket. On Wednesday, in a church filled with flowers, 35 people attended the funeral of the nearly forgotten child.

The Rev. Roger Mackey said about half the people who attended the service at the St. Paul-Reformation Church were strangers to him.

The service was simple: scriptures, hymns, a meditation. Mourners sang "Away in the Manger" and heard the Gospel reading of the nativity, about another child humbly born about 2,000 years ago.

After a prayer for the mother and father of the unknown infant, a single pallbearer lifted the tiny casket and carried it up the aisle. The Hamlines walked behind, standing in for the parents who were not there to mourn their son.

In the back pew, a woman clung to her bundled infant and cried.

Mrs. Hamline arranged the funeral after reading in a newspaper of the death of the child, left in a yard in Minneapolis Nov. 17.

"To some people, it may not seem like much," said the St. Paul nurse. "But it broke my heart. I couldn't get it out of my mind. He only lived for part of one day. But that was a life, and I felt that life should be celebrated and commemorated."

"I have an 18-month-old boy myself," she said. "Like other mothers, when I hold him and cuddle him, I have a special name for him. I call him my little baby boy."

"So that's what we're having put on the monument — 'Jesus Loves You, Baby Boy.'"

The monument will be erected over the tiny grave in the family plot of Rosalia Livingston.

"I've lived a long life," she said. "This little baby lived for just a few hours. I can't explain why it's important for me to do something for it. But it is."

Late Wednesday, Minneapolis police announced they had arrested a 16-year-old girl believed to be the mother of the baby. Authorities said she was being held in a hospital psy-

'Desperate'

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago School Board, which has $8.7 million in hand, needs $41.5 million to pay its employees Friday and up to $450 million to balance its books by Aug. 31.

"The situation is not serious," Jerome Van Gorkom, selected by Mayor Jane Byrne to head a committee overseeing the school's finances, told the school board Wednesday. "The situation is desperate."

Van Gorkom drew the clearest picture yet of the dimensions of the school system's problems.

He told the board the schools have an operating deficit of $94 million and money will have to be raised to repay various internal funds — accounts earmarked for other than operating expenses — in the amount of $131 million.

And unless it wants to risk being shut out of bond markets for years, the board must make bond repayments by Aug. 31 of $234 million, he said.

Group Heard Dr. R.E.C. Land

The Cedar Grove Missionary Baptist Church Youth Fellowship was honored with its first banquet Saturday.

Eurgia C. Land, M.D. was the keynote speaker. He emphasized that one's first commitment must be to Christ.

Christmas carols were sung by the Candlelight Singers and special musical selections were rendered by the Rev. Jasper Suggs and the Clemons Trio. The Rev. Kenneth Hammond closed the program with a prayer.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices were mixed today as year-end maneuvering for tax purposes continued at a brisk pace.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials rose .85 to 839.76 in the first half hour.

Gainers and losers were about evenly balanced in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Traders had only today and Friday left to take profits for 1979 tax profits under the exchanges' normal five-day settlement procedure. Losses may be taken through Dec. 31.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, meanwhile, remained deadlocked on pricing plans as it began the fourth day of its meeting in Caracas.

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development warned Wednesday that the 24 leading industrialized nations in its membership face a combination of more inflation and sluggish economic activity in 1980 because of the surge in oil prices this year.

Today's early volume leaders included United Technologies, up 1/4 at 43 1/2; Philip Morris, off 1/8 at 35 1/2; and Shearson Loeb Rhoades, up 1/4 at 19 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average edged up .26 to 838.91.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 7-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 41.78 million shares against 43.31 million the day before.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .06 to 62 even.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .33 at 241.85.

the matter in the recommendation to the Council if it so chose.

Manning, he said, requested rezoning of the tract from Unoffensive Industry to Neighborhood Commercial. The planning staff had no objections to the Neighborhood Commercial designation for the Manning property, Browder added.

Commissioner Wes Hankins pointed out that the Manning tract is bounded on four sides by other zones and he asked how the staff felt regarding the spot zoning nature of the request. Browder said that CN has traditionally adjoined residential areas as a transition for heavier commercial zoning.

No objections were expressed by area property owners to the Manning proposal.

Commissioners voted to include the Manning rezoning request in the zoning study recommended to the Council.

In another zoning matter, the planning board voted to recommend to the Council approval of the request of BCF-JKMW for rezoning 34 acres north of NC 43 across from the East Carolina University Medical School from Flood Plain to R-6 (residential). The tract is located beyond Moyewood on the north side of the highway.

Mickey Herrin, attorney representing the developers, explained that any development in the flood fringe area would have to be submitted to the city engineer for approval. Regulations would require that foundations be built up to flood frequency lines.

Browder said that the city hopes to have new maps ready soon that will be easier to read in terms of flood area designation. Confusion resulting from the use of different flood area terminology should be reduced with the reference to only one term on the new maps, he said.

Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's alleged crimes.

"The only thing that could free the hostages would be the return of the deposed shah," said a student spokesman.

The students have contradicted every intimation by Ghotbzadeh that the release of the hostages might be arranged even if the shah were not returned, and Khomeini has repeatedly given them his full backing. However, he has never voiced any support for any of his foreign minister's suggestions for a compromise.

In addition to the embassy hostages, Khomeini's men are holding U.S. Charges d'Affaires L. Bruce Laingen and two aides at the Foreign Ministry. All the captives are threatened with spy trials.

On the basis of Laingen's correspondence, Khomeini's regime said it recalled its ambassador to the Scandinavian countries from Stockholm last week and arrested him on charges of establishing ties with the CIA.

The embassy captors produced five documents they said Laingen wrote praising the envoy, Abbas Amir-Entezam, a former deputy prime minister and government spokesman.

"Amir-Entezam is indeed interested in and tries to establish good mutual relations between Iran and the United States," one document said, adding that Laingen was trying to cultivate the relationship with Amir-Entezam.

The accident occurred at 9:35 p.m. CST, about 10 minutes before the Amtrak train was scheduled to arrive in Houston from New Orleans. Amtrak sent buses to take the passengers to Houston today to resume the trip to Los Angeles.

Student Leader Held As Killer

BALTIMORE (AP) - Patapsco High School senior class president Michael Schindler, described by his principal as "one of the most successful student leaders that I've seen," was in jail today on charges that he was hired to commit the brutal slayings of two women.

Police said 23-year-old Mary Thompson and her 83-year-old grandmother, Maria Zisser, were stabbed repeatedly and bludgeoned to death in a "contract killing" over the Thanksgiving weekend.

Schindler, 17, was ordered held without bail Wednesday after arraignment on charges of two counts of first-degree murder, two counts of assault and robbery and one deadly weapon charge, police said.

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Tony E. Thompson, 27, was charged with conspiracy to commit murder and also was held without bond. Police alleged Thompson hired Schindler.

Assistant Principal Harold A. Hatton said he refused to believe the allegations against Schindler, saying the teen-ager had "done an outstanding job through the entire year."

"He was in the office yesterday and we talked. He seemed to be in good spirits," Hatton said. "I heard him give a speech to the entire senior class urging them to be responsible. I refuse to believe it unless I see conclusive evidence."

Schindler's principal, David Driver, said the youth was "one of the most successful student leaders that I've seen at this school ... It's unbelievable. Shocking and unbelievable."

Pirates Play In Reno Tournament

East Carolina University's men's basketball team travels across the country to Reno, Nev., for the Wolf Pack Classic Friday and Saturday.

It is the furthest away from home any Pirate basketball team has gone for competition, and new coach Dave Odom is referring to it as ECU's "NCAA Tournament."

"Since we're on probation this year (for which he has nothing to do with), we can't go to any post-season tournament. This is our last chance this year to win a tournament championship, and I'd love to be able to bring back a trophy," Odom said.

The Pirates will be facing Northern Arizona in the first round of the tournament, set for 10 p.m. Greenville time. Hosting Nevada-Reno will face Kent State in the second game, at 12:30 a.m. Saturday night consoling are set for 10 p.m., with the championship at 12:30 a.m.

Because of the late starting times, the East Carolina Sports Network will not be broadcasting the games for this trip only, it was announced.

Northern Arizona and Kent

State come into the tournament with the best records, both 5-2, while East Carolina is 5-3. Reno has yet to win in six starts.

The Pirates will be coming off a heartbreaking loss to Old Dominion Tuesday night, 70-65, a team they led by as many as 13 points in the first half.

"We really need to do well in our next three or four games," Odom said.

"I know we can be a good defensive team now. We have made great strides in that part of the game. We still have problems, but when I came in, I thought we were awful defensive players. We still don't look at situations like we should. A great defensive team would have known to put pressure on the opponents earlier than we did on Tuesday night, and they would have known who to foul."

"Still," Odom added, "we held two fine Virginia teams to 70 when they had been averaging 90."

Odom also said that the offense has taken a little dip. "We're taking more bad shots. They are beginning to learn what is and isn't a good shot for them, but that takes time too.

Especially in critical situations. It's just a lack of poise and patience that will develop."

As far as Northern Arizona is concerned, Odom feels that they are much like the Pirates in size. "They are capable of beating anyone, but they are also capable of being beat. While I've never seen any of their people play, I think they are a lot like us, except that they've got four people in double figures, where we have three."

The leading scorer is senior guard Larry Johnson, hitting 17.6 points per game. Forward Mark Stevens at 6-6 is the leading rebound with a 9.6 average, and is scoring at a 14.3 clip. Wayne Wharton, the other forward, is hitting 12.9, as is 6-5 guard Willie Young. The fifth starter, Mike Evans, has an 8.8 average.

"Our biggest job is to shake Tuesday night's loss to Old Dominion, get the cobwebs out, get back on track," Odom said. "I think with this field, anybody can win, and we're got just as much chance as anyone."

Odom was asked how he felt about the possible difference in officiating styles and how it would affect the game.

"I really don't think it will be that much of a problem. We're got to be concerned with things we can control. We'll learn how they are going to call it in the first ten minutes and make any adjustments we have to."

Following the tournament, the Pirates are off until Wednesday, January 4, when they travel to Raleigh for another Wolfpack date—this one with N.C. State.

Jaguars Stop Roanoke Five

ROBERSONVILLE — Farmville Central captured a pair of victories from Roanoke High School last night. The boys came home with a 63-54 victory, while the girls eked out a 43-41 win.

In the girls' game, Roanoke powered out to a 15-10 lead in the first period of the contest. Farmville came back strong in the second quarter, however, and outhit Roanoke, 15-4, to take a 25-19 halftime lead. Roanoke came back to cut the lead to 33-29, after three periods, but could never pull even during the final frame.

Diana Gordon and Pam Moye each had 13 to lead Farmville while Sylvia Parker had 19 and Carolyn Jones had 14 for Roanoke.

In the boys' contest, Farmville inched into a 14-11 lead after the first period, then stretched that into a 25-19 margin at intermission. The Redskins rallied to pull within 38-35 in the third period, but Farmville left them behind with a 25-19 margin in the final quarter.

Dennis Pitt led the Jaguars with 15, while Mike Horne and Donald Reid each had 10.

Roanoke was led by Anthony Latham with 15.

Roanoke returns to action next Thursday in the Martin County Tournament, while Farmville resumes action on Friday, December 28, in the Rose Classic.

Maryland Gains First ACC Win Of Year As Georgia Tech Falls

By The Associated Press
It was Maryland's first Atlantic Coast Conference basketball contest of the season Wednesday night, and the Terrapins beat league newcomer Georgia Tech 70-60.

But Terrapin Coach Lefty Driesell says it wasn't an easy win.

"They stayed in the game," Driesell said. "We were never able to put them away. When it got down to four points, I was concerned, but I felt we had pretty good control of the game."

In other action involving ACC teams Wednesday night, Wake Forest rolled over Richmond 92-75 and North Carolina State whaloped Campbell 100-71.

Ernest Graham and Greg Manning scored 26 of the Terrapins 40 second-half points for the victory in College Park.

Graham scored 14 of his 21 points in the second half and Manning 12 of his 17, giving Maryland its fifth triumph in six starts and a 1-0 ACC record.

Lenny Horton scored 24 points for Georgia Tech, including seven during a 24-second span in the final minute of play as the Yellow Jackets reduced a 15-point deficit.

"I think we came out frightened," said Georgia Tech Coach Dwane Morrison. "The players were afraid because it was an ACC team. All they've been reading about is that we shouldn't be in the league."

"But at the half we said, 'Hey we can play with them, and we made a run at them.'"

The loss dropped the Yellow Jackets to 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the league.

In the game in Raleigh, Hawkeye Whitney scored 32 points to help the Wolfpack double a 13-point half-time lead that resulted in the pounding of the Campbell Fighting Camels.

Coach Norm Sloan said the depth of his bench gave him the win.

"I think our depth made the difference in that we were able to wear them down. I'm pleased with the way we are playing, the way they (the players) were reaching down and pushing themselves."

Sloan said he regretted the fans in Raleigh didn't get a chance to see N.C. State at its best.

"We played so well on the road, and the people here tonight didn't get to see the improvements we made. Obviously we were leg weary. We traveled all day yesterday to get back from the west coast," Sloan said.

Campbell never caught the Wolfpack in the second half, although Fred Whitfield came out with two fast breaks. The Camels managed to gain only an 11-point spread with 15:40 left in the game.

Campbell's Tony Britto led scoring with 27 points.

The win boosted N.C. State's record to 5-1 and dropped the Camels to 1-4.

At Winston-Salem, it was the 26 points by Alvin Rogers that led Wake Forest to its victory over the Richmond Spiders. He was one of six Decons in double figures.

Coach Carl Tacy said use of the 3-2 zone in the second half was the key to victory for Wake Forest.

"It gave us control of the tempo and gave us momentum. Their game is to run a lot; we gave up a lot of easy baskets early on the fast break. Changing to the 3-2 helped tremendously."

Wake Forest moved to 4-3 with the win, while Richmond dropped to 4-3.

Boynes Sparks Nets Past Supersonics

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery may like to think that defense has turned Winford Boynes' game around in the National Basketball Association but Wednesday night it was something else — offense; and plenty of it.

Boynes, playing in his second season, scored a career-high 32 points as the Nets whipped the Seattle Supersonics 122-114 for their first victory over the defending NBA champions in over two seasons.

"Boynes played a fantastic games," said Loughery after watching his team snap the Sonics four-game winning streak. "He has been playing well for us the past month. And what has turned his game around is defense."

In other NBA action Wednesday night, Kansas City defeated Washington 107-97; Boston crushed Philadelphia 112-89; Atlanta held off Los Angeles 119-112; Chicago edged Houston 108-102; San Antonio nipped Indiana 127-123; Phoenix blasted Utah 117-99; Cleveland got by Golden State 128-125 in overtime and Denver downed Portland 114-106.

Boynes, a 6-foot-guard from San Francisco, hit on 12-of-18 shots from the field and eight of nine from the free throw line.

But Boynes scoring was only half the story in the Nets win. The other half was roughly 14-foot tall or the size of two seven-foot centers — George Johnson and Rich Kelley. They combined for 34 points and 22 rebounds as Loughery paired them in the front court after starting forward Jan van Breddra Kolff got into foul trouble.

Kings 107, Bullets 97
Otis Birdsong scored 29 points as Kansas City rolled to its eighth straight victory and moved into first place in the Midwest Division. The Kings have won 16 of their last 19 games.

Elvin Hayes paced the Bullets with 22 points, including 16 in the second half, as Washington lost for the sixth time in its last eight home games.

Celtics 112, 76ers 89
Larry Bird scored 24 points in pacing Boston to its sixth straight win and 15th in 16 games at home. Julius Erving and Steve Mix shared scoring honors for Philadelphia with 20 points each.

Hawks 119, Lakers 112
Eddie Johnson pumped in a career-high 31 points and John Drew added 23 more as Atlanta held off a late Los Angeles surge in winning for the fifth time in its last six games.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 29 points while Norm Nixon added 26 and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 22.

Bulls 108, Rockets 102
Reggie Theus scored six points in the final 32 seconds as Chicago handed Houston its fourth straight loss. Rookie David Greenwood led the Bulls' attack with 27 points while Theus finished the game with 20.

Moses Malone had a game-high 34 points and 21 rebounds while Calvin Murphy, who was 4-for-15 from the field in the first half, added 22.

Spurs 127, Pacers 123
George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer, tallied 38 points and five other San Antonio players scored in double figures as the Spurs beat Indiana, which got 25 points from Mickey Johnson and 22 from reserve Billy Knight.

Suns 117, Jazz 99
Phoenix limited Utah's high-scoring forward Adrian Dantley to a season-low 13 points and got 20 from Paul Westphal in rolling to its fourth consecutive win. Dantley, who scored 45 points Tuesday, had averaged 32.7 points over his last seven games.

Nuggets 114, Trail Blazers 106
Dan Issel scored 26 points and David Thompson added 23 as Denver defeated Portland for the first time in four games this season.

Kermit Washington tied Issel for game-high honors with 26 points for Portland, followed by Ron Brewer with 21 and Lionel Hollins with 18.

Cavaliers 128, Warriors 125, OT
Forward Mike Mitchell scored 35 points for Cleveland and Dave Robisch and Randy Smith combined for nine more in overtime as Cleveland handed Golden State its sixth straight loss.

Golden State's top scorer was guard John Lucas with 23 points.

Indiana Must Get To Wilson To Have Chance For Bowl Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach comedian Lee Corso, dead serious for once, has it figured out.

If Indiana's young defense can pressure Marc Wilson, Brigham Young University's All-America quarterback, "without blitzing him," the Hoosiers have a chance Friday night in the Holiday Bowl.

If not, Indiana's second bowl appearance could turn into a nightmare.

"If we can get to him with four men, we wouldn't have to use our linebackers," Corso said Wednesday.

He came to that conclusion after watching BYU decimate San Diego State 63-17 for the Western Athletic Conference title.

"I saw that and I headed for the nearest bar," quipped Corso, who turned Indiana around from a team that won five games in his first three years to a 7-4 club in 1979.

Indiana is listed as an eight-point underdog against the 11-0 Cougars, who led the nation in scoring and passing.

"Eight points?," said Corso. "We used to be 58-point underdogs, and I am serious. We were so bad we were everybody's homecoming."

Corso contends the Cougars are rich enough in talent "they could compete for the Big 10 championship. The only team I've seen that is better all-around is Ohio State."

The Hoosier defense that must contain Wilson is comprised of eight sophomores, two juniors and one senior. Because of that youth, Indiana was picked to finish eighth in the Big 10.

"We've got a great chance," said Corso. "We've got some things we can do against them. We've come to win."

A factor, some feel, could be the level of competition that Indiana faced all year.

Against Michigan, the Hoosiers had a 98-yard drive and nearly pulled off a stunning upset before losing in the final seconds.

But BYU, 0-3 in bowl appearances, wants to atone for last year's 23-16 upset loss to Navy in the first Holiday Bowl.

Wilson, who passed for 29 touchdowns and a record 3,720 yards, is backed by a stout defense that allowed only 11.4 points per game.

Indiana counters with junior quarterback Tim Clifford, who finished second in the Big 10 in passing and total offense. He completed 57 percent of his passes for 1,907 yards.

A sellout crowd of 52,000 is anticipated for the 6 p.m. PST nationally-televvised game.

Few Show Up For Awards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Because of the season's first major snowstorm, only about a dozen persons showed up at the Maxwell Club's annual award luncheon, but that didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the winners.

Charles White, who became the 43rd recipient of the Maxwell Award as the year's outstanding college football player, said in a telephone interview that he's looking forward to the pros.

And Earl Campbell, named the 21st winner of the Maxwell Football Club's Bert Bell Award as the top pro this year, said he's looking forward to the National Football League playoffs.

White, the hardy 5-foot-11, 183-pound All-American running back from the University of Southern California, won the Heisman Trophy. He said he's also looking forward to the Rose Bowl.

USC, 10-0-1, plays undefeated Ohio State New Year's Day, a game White feels will determine the national collegiate football champion.

Louisville Press Irons Out Buckeyes

By BARRY WILNER
Ap Sports Writer

Louisville found a way to impress and depress Ohio State, the Cardinals pressed the pants right off the Buckeyes.

Denny Crum's 11th-ranked Cardinals used a full-court press to spur streaks of 13 and 12 points to overcome the second-ranked Buckeyes 75-65 Wednesday. They also got nine assists and 19 points — eight in the final three minutes — from Darrell Griffith in boosting their record to 6-0. Ohio State is 5-1.

"We started shooting too quickly against the press," OSU Coach Eldon Miller said.

"We got out of our set pattern and we also got a little careless with our passes," Crum, who played and coached under the master of the press, John Wooden of UCLA, added. "I think that's a characteristic of the press."

Miller beached three of his starters, including freshman star Clark Kellogg and 6-foot-8 forward Jim Smith in the first half because they couldn't take the pace. Louisville took command with the Buckeye subs on the floor.

"I knew it was going to be a tough game and when you run up and down the court that hard, you have to rest some players," Crum said.

Needing little R&R for Louisville were Derek Smith, who scored 18 points, Jerry Eaves, who had 11, and Rodney McCray, 10 points. Kelvin Ransey, scoring in double figures for his 69th consecutive game, paced Ohio State with 21 points while Herb Williams added 20.

The only other Top 20 team in action was No. 6 DePaul, which squeaked past Eastern Michigan 57-55. Mark Aguirre put in 19 points for the 5-0 Blue Demons, who held a 15-point lead with 13 minutes to play and decided to play slowdown. Eastern Michigan scored the final seven points of the game and had a shot at extending De-Paul into overtime. But Anthony White's 28-footer missed at the buzzer.

Elsewhere, it was Tennessee 79, Alabama 78 in triple overtime; Southern California 82, New Mexico 79; Maryland 70, Georgia Tech 60; Cincinnati 61, Pittsburgh 60; Temple 74, Penn State 48; Jacksonville 62, Catholic 45; Mississippi 68, Southern Mississippi 65; North Carolina State 100, Campbell 71; Wake Forest 92, Richmond 75; Texas Christian 99, Georgia State 82; Colorado 98, Central State, Oklahoma 69; Pepperdine 87, Oklahoma 71; San Francisco 65, Cal-Santa Barbara 58; Utah State 96, Utah 88.

Tennessee, 6-1, got 33 points from Howard Wood and a game-winning basket from Reggie Johnson with four seconds left in the third extra period to beat Alabama, which was led by Eddie Phillips with 24.

"When it was all said and done," said Tennessee Coach

Don DeVoe, "I guess we did enough good things to win."

"We played just as hard as you could ask," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "I've been coaching 25 years and I don't know when I've been prouder of a team. I told our kids there wasn't a loser in this game."

Outmanned New Mexico, which has lost seven players due to academic problems, managed to stay close to the Trojans, who got 28 points from Purvis Miller. The game was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands 10 times in the second half.

Ernest Graham and Greg

Manning combined for 26 of Maryland's 40 points in the second half. Graham had 21 and Manning 17 in the game.

Bobby Austin's 35-footer at the buzzer stunned Pittsburgh and gave Cincinnati, which trailed by five with 1:15 to play, its victory.

"It was quite a finish," said Ed Badger, the Bearcats coach. "To win a game like that takes a lot of luck."

Temple held Penn State to a 28 percent shooting percentage while hitting 56 percent of its shots. Unbeaten Jacksonville romped to its sixth win thanks to James Ray's 17 points and 12 rebounds. John Stroud led Mississippi with 25 points.

Campbell Named Top Offensive Player

NEW YORK (AP) — Running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers was named The National Football League's Offensive Player of the Year today by The Associated Press for the second straight season.

It was his second postseason honor — on Tuesday he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player by The AP — and also gave Campbell consecutive seasons with double honors. Last year he was also chosen Offensive Rookie of the Year.

In balloting by a nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and sports broadcasters, three from each NFL city, Campbell edged San Diego Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts 39 votes to 34.

Brian Sipe, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, received three votes, quarterbacks Roger Staubach and Jim Zorn and rookie running back Otis Anderson of St. Louis received two apiece and wide receiver Steve Largent of Seattle and guard John Hannah of New England each received one vote.

"Every time I hear that he's won another award, I'm proud and pleased for the kid — but I'm damn sure not surprised," Coach Bum Phillips said of Campbell. "He has done for us everything you could ask him to do, whether it's carry the ball 35 times or be the decoy and carry it 10."

"He's as good an addition to this ball club as we've made since I've been here and I'd love to think we could get another like him. But I don't believe there are too many more in his class."

The figures bear out Phillips' lavish praise. Campbell erupted for 134 yards last Sunday to finish the season with 1,697 yards (he had 1,450 as a rookie) and became only the third player in NFL history to win the rushing title in each of his first two seasons, matching a feat by Jim Brown in 1957-58 and Bill Paschal in 1943-44.

Campbell finished 87 yards ahead of Chicago's Walter Payton for the 1979 rushing title. A year ago he beat out the Bears' star runner by 55 yards. And this year, Campbell carried the ball a record 368 times, 29 times more than Payton did two years ago when he was the NFL rushing champ with 1,852 yards.

Campbell gained 100 or more yards in seven successive games this year, breaking the record of six shared by Brown (1958) and Franco Harris (1972). Eleven times he rushed for at least 100 yards, matching Simpson's 1973 mark. And 19 times he scored a rushing touchdown, tying Jim Taylor's 1962 record.

Before Campbell emerged from the University of Texas in 1978, Heisman Trophy in hand, the Oilers had gone eight years without appearing in the playoffs. In his two years with them, they have returned to postseason action.

Oilers, Steelers Pace All-Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Oilers and Pittsburgh Steelers placed five players apiece on the American Conference-dominated Associated Press All-Pro team.

Tackle Leon Gray, running back Earl Campbell, outside linebacker Robert Brazile, free safety Mike Reinfeldt and place-kicker Toni Fritsch represent the Oilers. The Steelers on the squad are wide receiver John Stallworth, center Mike Webster, outside linebacker Jack Ham, middle linebacker Jack Lambert and strong safety Donnie Shell.

—On defense, end Lee Roy Selmon of Tampa Bay, tackle Randy White of Dallas and cornerbacks Lemar Parrish of Washington and Louis Wright of Denver, and —The specialists, punter Dave Jennings of the New York Giants and kick-returner Tony Nathan of Miami.

D.H. Conley's wrestling squad is ranked seventh in the state in the latest issue of Mat News, a North Carolina wrestling publication.

The Vikings are 6-0 as they head into this weekend's Bull Durham Tournament in Durham. High Point Andrews is rated as the No.1 team by Mat News.

Another basketball poll is out: "Basketball Weekly's" "World Top Twenty." BW says its new poll supersedes its own Fabulous 15 and all wire service polls because "it includes all amateur teams in the world, rather than just American teams."

And whose No. 1? According to the preseason poll, the USSR National team and Indiana are tied for the top spot.

Yugoslavia is rated third while Duke is fourth and North Carolina fifth. Notre Dame is sixth followed by Athletes in Action, LSU, Kentucky and Ohio State.

The second twenty has UCLA, DePaul, Syracuse, Louisville, Purdue, Brazil Nationals, Texas A&M, St. John's, Virginia and Italy Nationals.

The poll is headed by John Wooden and includes 18 NCAA coaches and 17 media representatives.

Maryland's Albert King, voted the ACC Player-of-the-Year last week, has taken over as the top scorer in the league. King, who was second a week ago behind UNC's Al Wood, is averaging 24.2 per game.

Duke's Mike Gminski moved to second this week and is averaging 23 a game. Wood dropped to third with a 22.2 point average.

Virginia's Lee Raker continues to be perfect from the foul line, having hit 20-of-20 from the stripe.

Wake Forest's Mike Helms leads the conference in field goal accuracy, hitting nearly 67 percent of his shots. Wood is second with a 64.5 percent and Gminski is third at 63 percent.

UNC rookie forward James Worthy is fourth, hitting just under 63 percent.

The Atlantic Coast Conference is 29-3 against non ACC teams so far.

With the exception of the post-season bowl games, the ACC has all but ended its fall sports schedule and Clemson and N.C. State are tied for first place in the race for the Carmichael Cup, symbolic of overall athletic supremacy in the league.

The Tigers, winners of the ACC soccer championship for the eighth straight year, and the Wolfpack, the ACC's football champion, are tied with 19 points.

Right behind them is North Carolina, which won the cross country title. The Tar Heels have 18.5 points. Maryland is fourth with 16 points, followed by Virginia with 13.5, Wake Forest with nine, Duke with eight and Georgia Tech with one.

Kush, ASU Agree To $200,000 Settlement

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State's ex-football coach Frank Kush has agreed to drop a $40 million suit in exchange for a reported $200,000 settlement from the university.

"All relationships between Kush and Arizona State University will be terminated," Joe Spring, school spokesman, said Wednesday night, reading from a prepared statement announcing the settlement.

Kush, 51, was removed as coach Oct. 13 by athletic director Fred Miller, who accused him of punching former punter Kevin Rutledge, and then pressuring assistant coaches to commit perjury if necessary when Rutledge sued Kush and the school for $1.1 million.

Denying that he threw a punch or attempted to cover it up, Kush sued Miller, Arizona State and others, charging that his rights were violated by the dismissal.

The settlement is subject to approval of the State Board of Regents. It was recommended by Arizona Attorney General Bob Corbin, who indicated that legal costs were mounting.

Corbin also had recommended that Kush be given a hearing on the assault and cover-up charges, and the university had scheduled one to begin today but it was cancelled as the settlement was announced.

Family members said Kush was not available for comment. Kush remained on contract as assistant professor of physical education after his removal as coach, but the settlement ended that nominal role.

The settlement clears the way for the Pac-10 school to look for a new football coach. Kush was replaced in October by Bob Owens, a former assistant, but the school's intercollegiate athletic board reportedly will consider other candidates.

The university statement wished Kush well and "acknowledges the 25 years of contributions that Kush has made to Arizona State University."

Staubach Top Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — A whirlwind finish by the Dallas Cowboys Sunday not only clinched their National Football Conference East title, but it gave Roger Staubach his second straight league passing championship.

Staubach, who led the Cowboys to two late touchdowns and a 35-34 victory over Washington Sunday that eliminated the Redskins from the NFL playoffs, hit 24 of 42 passes for 336 yards and three touchdowns in that game. That gave the veteran quarterback 267 completions in 461 passes for 3,586 yards and 27 touchdowns. His passing rating was 92.4.

Thanks in large part to Staubach, the Cowboys had the top offense in the NFC with 373 yards per game, second only to AFC-leader Pittsburgh's 391.1-yard average. The Steelers had 6,258 yards, the second highest total in NFL history, and paced league scoring with 416 points.

The top passing club was San Diego, thanks to Dan Fouts, the AFC passing leader, who threw for an all-time NFL one-season mark of 4,082 yards.

Other individual offensive leaders were Houston's Earl Campbell, who won the rushing title for the second straight year; Baltimore's Joe Washington, who was the leading receiver with 82 catches; Seattle's Steve Largent, the yardage leader among receivers with 1,237, and New England placekicker John Smith, who was the scoring leader with 115 points on 23 field goals and 46 extra points.

Campbell joined Jim Brown and Bill Paschal as the only players to lead the NFL in rushing in their first two seasons. The Oilers' star and The Associated Press' Most Valuable Player this season ran for 1,697 yards after going for 1,450 in his rookie season. He is the first player to total more than 3,000 rushing yards in his first two years.

Walter Payton of the Chicago Bears, who finished second to Campbell with 1,620 yards, led the NFC in rushing for the fourth straight year. St. Louis rookie Otis Anderson set a rookie rushing mark with 1,605 yards.

NFC Central titlist Tampa Bay had the league's top defense, allowing only 246.8 yards a game and 237 points. San Diego was tops in the AFC with 246 points-allowed. Pittsburgh gave up the least yardage, 266.9 per game.

Houston's Mike Reinfeldt led the NFL in interceptions with 12; Bob Grupp of Kansas City was the top punter with a 43.6 average; Oakland's Larry Brunson was first in kickoff returns with a 25.9 average and John Sciarra of Philadelphia was the punt return leader with an 11.4-yard per attempt.

Oregon Has Problems

By The Associated Press

University of Oregon President William Boyd said Wednesday someone may have posed as one of the university's freshman football recruits in three summer classes at Los Angeles Valley College.

Boyd also said at a news conference in Eugene that he had accepted the resignation of assistant football coach John Becker, who arranged for the player's enrollment in the courses.

The Oregon player, Paul Perez, received academic credit for the three courses without doing any work. Becker, who was not available for comment, once was the football coach at the college in Van Nuys, Calif.

Inability To Hold Players Plagues Martin Cage Program

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

EVERETT — Last year Martin Academy had four players on its basketball team in the 6'3" range. This year the Pioneers have none of those players and their tallest player is 6'0".

Two of those players were lost to graduation; the two others, including the team's leading scorer at 24 points a game, transferred to public schools. Therein lies the problem which Pioneer coach Henry Roberson must face every year: how to keep his good players from transferring from a small private school to the larger and supposedly more "prestigious" public schools.

"We have one of the smallest private schools in the area," Roberson said. "And we've been hurt the last couple of years with boys going back to the public schools."

"We had some good players last year, but we lost four of them," he continued. "If we hadn't, we'd be a lot better now."

Going into the holiday's, Martin Academy is a disheartening 0-8.

"We're small and inexperienced," Roberson said. "Part of that is we lost those players but also the boys I have are making little mistakes, like passing the ball over their heads when a bounce pass would be better."

"But I'm not discouraged. They don't give up. They give the best they can," he said. "I've had referees and other coaches come up after the game and tell me my boys didn't quit, not once."

The Pioneers may not quit, but they could not be blamed for getting at least a little tired near the end of the game, for there are only seven players on the squad, and one of them can play only in conference games.

"Most of the games we've lost have been by big scores," said Roberson, who was an assistant coach last year before becoming head coach this season. "But a lot of that is because the boys get tired near the end. They just give out."

"Mostly, though, in the first half we're able to stay close, but then the other team either presses us or just runs us to death," he said.

Starting this season for Roberson are Jerry Brannon (6'0") at center, Edwin Johnson (5'10") and William Knight (5'11") at the forwards, and Richard Wilson (5'5") and Allen Warren (5'10") at the guards.

Eddie Chesson (5'10") and Jack Perry (5'6") are the reserves.

Girls' Basketball

It has been a disappointing early season for Martin Academy's girls' basketball coach Roberson. He has had to sit back and watch his girls lose six of eight games, having defeated only Chowan (twice).

"Yes, it has been sort of disappointing," said Roberson, in his first year of coaching girls' basketball. "I thought we would have done better than we have."

"This is my first year coaching them and it might be that I'm going over things they've had and missing things they need to be taught."

Starting for the Pioneers are Gloria Wynne (5'6") and Penny Meeks (5'6") at the guards, Beth Perry (5'10") at center and Amy Perry (5'10") and Karen Bailey (5'9") at the forwards.

Janie Ayers (5'4"), Gwen Wynn (5'3") and Allison Perry (5'11") are the reserves.

"I thought our height would be a big asset this year, but so far we haven't rebounded all that well," Roberson said. "Our defense has been doing well, though. We've been switching a lot from a 2-1-2 to a 2-3 and the girls have been doing a good job with it."

One of Roberson's major worries is his team's inability to handle its opponents' press.

"The girls want to panic if they get pressed, but then they want to panic if they get behind. If things don't go like they do in practice they get worried and don't play their game."

Young Jesus Talked With Jerusalem's Scholars

EDITOR'S NOTE — This fourth installment in a five-part Christmas series, "The Secret Years," relates an incident in the boyhood of Jesus recorded in Scripture — his venture away from parental supervision to converse with the Jerusalem scholars.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

He had become increasingly independent, sometimes baffling Joseph and Mary. He was a warm, winsome lad, spontaneously attracting friends. But he often wandered off alone. That was the problem. They couldn't find him.

The 12-year-old Jesus was missing in the crowded, clangorous city of Jerusalem.

His family, accompanied by kintok and neighbors, had made the 90-mile trip there to celebrate the Passover, and after a week's stay the caravan already had traveled a full day on the way back to Galilee before his absence was noticed.

Considering his personal initiative of late, Joseph and Mary had not been concerned that he wasn't closely in tow when the homeward trek began, assuming him to be with others in the big company. That he was not came as a shock.

Alarmed, the couple hiked the approximately 25 miles back to the city.

It was a bewildering atmosphere for a rural youngster to be lost in Gaudiness and misery mingled in the babbling, polyglot traffic, the street dancers, the armed Roman legionaries, the bare-chested Greek wrestlers, the threadbare poor

Soothsayers and sellers of magic potions beckoned from their booths, and dealers in sour wine clashed their copper cups to lure buyers. Slaves bore the sedans of the rich, and mothers with shaved heads offered their hair in exchange for bread for their spindly, vacant-eyed children.

Joseph and Mary probably first searched the camp outside the eastern wall, where poor pilgrims stayed, threading among its cluttered tents and garbage heaps. Then, with rising anxiety, they began tramping the city streets and markets.

For three days, their search went on.

Although it was likely Jesus' first time in Jerusalem since infancy, Scripture notes that his parents made the pilgrimage regularly, indicating their orthodox piety. Adult Jewish males were supposed to make the trip each fall, for the harvest Feast of the Weeks, and each spring, for Passover. Wives often went along.

The seven-day Passover observance was a heart-stirring affair, and taking part in it the "City of God," with all the Temple pageantry, singing choirs and trumpet fanfares must have spurred keen reactions in the boy.

Throughout his growing up, as a member of a traditionally worshipping family, he had been prepared for assuming his adult religious duties, generally at the age of 13, as a "son of the Torah."

Regular school had begun at the age of 5. Although back-country Nazareth lacked a special "House of the Book," it doubtlessly had a synagogue school, its keneset, where youngsters sat in a semicircle around the teacher, the chazan.

Pupils were immersed in the Torah, the first five books of the Old Testament, and the law and the prophets, until it was stamped into the memory and woven into the conscience. Scripture was the only textbook until age 10.

Ancient legend relates that Jesus flustered two successive teachers with his comments. One of them flared at him. "Hast thou read books?" He replied that he had "read both books, and things which were not in books."

After Joseph took him to a third teacher, however, the accounts say "the young child followed him gladly."

At 10, instruction had begun in the oral traditions, the interpretive lore of the Talmud, the pointed stories (haggadah) and disciplines (halachah). Among these maxims, "Do not seek that which is beyond you."

The family probably went to synagogue thrice weekly when there were prayers and Scripture readings, especially on the Sabbath, when Joseph must have occasionally donned a prayer shawl to give the lesson — as all Jewish men were expected to do. By custom, Mary would have sat in a separate section for women. The congregation chorused the responses, "Praise be the Lord, to whom all praise is due." And while birds sang outside, Jesus would have joined in the "Amen's."

So he had reached the age of that many occasion, going up to Jerusalem. As was always necessary, someone in their big party had obtained a "room" for their Passover meal — the seder. Then, garbed in festive white, they had all gone to the Temple for sacrificing their lamb, and to worship there.

"Every knee shall bow to thee...O Lord." The people prostrated themselves as Levite choirs sang. Smoke and incense arose as blood was sprinkled on the altar. Then the ritually slain and dressed lamb was returned to them and they flocked to the rented room for their engrossing banquet.

Passover is the great festival of freedom, commemorating the exodus from slavery in Egypt, and, as in other Jewish celebrations, the emphasis is not just to recall history, but to relive its meaning in the present.

"Why is this night different from all other nights...?" the youngest child present asks, as Jesus likely did at some point. The head of the family answers, "We were bondsmen... and the Lord our God delivered us with a mighty hand."

Yet again, at that moment, Israel was under domination — this time, by Roman imperialism — and awaiting deliverance.

Between the intermittent courses of wine, lamb, bitter herbs and other symbolic foods, the story-telling and singing went on, melancholy, merry, confident.

"Let all who are hungry come and eat with us."

Divinity's presence is felt at that table as his people glory in the unfinished adventure of history, trusting his care. Always, the door is left ajar and an extra plate set at a vacant seat — for the prophet of God's messiah. Disappointment is voiced when he fails to come. But hope endures. Perhaps he would come next year... tomorrow... soon...

Jesus, after that haunting celebration was over and the crowds had started home, disappeared.

A tired and desperate Mary and Joseph hunted for him. Scripture relates:

"After three days they found him in the Temple, sitting among the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions." Eager, open-minded, a mutual give-and-take. "And all who heard him were amazed at his understanding and answers."

His mother interjected, "Son, why have you treated us so? Behold your father and I have been looking for you anxiously." Along with her relief, she was naturally upset.

But he said, "How is it that you sought me?" They should realize, he implied, that he must be getting started on his own particular way. "Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"

They "did not understand the saying," Scripture notes. Puzzled, they took him back to Nazareth. He was a child no more, but he remained obedient, the record says. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature, and in favor with God and man." That is to say, people liked the young man — "favored" him — as had the Jerusalem scholars, and so did his Father under whose direction he continued after Joseph died.

TOMORROW: The maturing of Jesus.

Electric Cars Not Yet Capturing Imagination

By EDWARD ROBY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Electric cars could be a partial answer to the gasoline crunch, urban noise and smog, but they have yet to capture the imagination of the modern American motorist.

Fritz Kalhammer, who directs the Electric Power Research Institute's electric vehicle program, believes limited cruising range is the main obstacle to public acceptance of electric cars.

Kalhammer, writing in a utility industry publication, EPRI Journal, said battery-powered vehicles can travel only 20 to 40 miles before stopping to recharge.

"Other drawbacks, like poor acceleration, sluggish performance in hilly terrain and cold weather, inadequate service life of the lead-acid batteries used exclusively in today's electric vehicles, and price tags generally higher than corresponding conventional models have limited the appeal of electric vehicles even further," he said.

Ironically, one big advantage of electric cars — their silence — may pose a safety problem for pedestrians accustomed to the roar of oncoming traffic.

A recent environmental assessment by the government's Argonne Laboratories concludes electric vehicles may have to be made noisier to warn of their approach.

Vehicle fires present another possible hazard, because common firefighting techniques are geared to dousing gasoline blazes, the Argonne study said.

The Energy Department, which has a $160 million congressional mandate to hasten development and marketing of electric cars, hopes to test some 10,000 such vehicles by 1986. About 800 are to be built and tested in the next two years.

bus driven by a 1½-ton, steel flywheel.

Spinning in a vacuum chamber at 10,000 revolutions, the flywheel has enough energy to move a fully loaded, 28,000-pound bus 3.5 miles in city driving.

When it slows to half speed, the bus will stop for 1.5 minutes at an electric recharging point on its route to build up the wheel's momentum again by means of an attached electric motor and alternator.

Besides curbing air and noise pollution, oil conservation will be the most important contribution of electric vehicles.

About 7 million barrels of gasoline a day are burned on the nation's roads, currently absorbing nearly half the nation's daily oil consumption of 17 million barrels.

If electric vehicles took over one-quarter of driving now done in petroleum-fueled cars, vans, trucks and buses, America would save 700 million barrels of oil a year — more than all the oil burned by electric utilities, Kalhammer said.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — WELL-BALANCED ICEBOAT RODE WITH THE NORTH WIND.
 Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals Y

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding above was a little crude in a two-spade opening might have led to the superior six-spade slam, but that is how the auction went in 1940, when this deal was reported in Bridge World magazine. South won the club lead with his ace, saving the entry to dummy in case one of the red tens could be established. Hopefully, he cashed ace-king-queen of diamonds — no luck — then the ace-king-queen of hearts — still no luck. Finally, ace-king-queen of spades. West pitched the ten of clubs, and declarer, after a heart-rending sigh of remorse, threw in his remaining cards, conceding down one.

This was the treasure that declarer threw away:

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Still, public TV and commercial TV go their separate ways. I don't know why the stark difference in approach continues to astound me, but it does.

It's not difficult to accept the fact that the brand of entertainment on ABC, CBS and NBC sells; it's just hard to understand why the offerings on PBS don't. It must have something to do with habit.

Anyway, here is some of what PBS will include in its second season, beginning in January:

—"3-2-1. Contact," a nifty series from the Children's Television Workshop aimed at making science interesting for youngsters. The producers are the folks who make "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company," which speaks well for this.

—A promising three-part series called "Every Four Years" will examine the U.S. presidency, a timely program that should serve as thoughtful counterpoint to the barrage of political noise about to begin. Former ABC News anchorman Howard K. Smith will host the series, which begins January 23.

Another Film For Sally Field

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sally Field, winner of the Cannes Film Festival award for best actress of the year for her performance in the title role of "Norma Rae," will star next in "Revelations" for Paramount Pictures.

Fields will play a spinster-like woman who falls in love with a traveling evangelist in the drama to be directed by Jack Clayton for Keith Barish Productions.

—The second season of "The Shakespeare Plays" will feature "The Tempest," "Twelfth Night," "Henry IV (I and II)" and "Henry V."

—"The Voyage of Charles Darwin," with Malcom Stoddard playing the 19th Century naturalist whose "Origin of the Species" shook man's notion of his own beginnings.

—Nobel laureate Milton Friedman will host a series examining the nation's economic crisis, "Free to Choose." The 10-parter begins January 11. And returning series — "MacNeil-Lehrer Report," "Washington Week in Review," "Wall Street Week" and "Another Voice" in the news area; "Masterpiece Theatre," "Great Performances," "The Dick Cavett Show," "Nova," "World," "Camera Three" and "Sneak Previews" in the entertainment area; and the kids stuff, "Sesame Street," "Electric Company," "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood." "Once Upon a Classic" and "Villa Allegre."

In the spring, PBS will launch seven more new shows, including a sitcom, "The Righteous Apples." Phil Donahue will host a series on parenting called, "Look at Me," and there'll be a suspense drama series called "Mystery." There's some good stuff here, accessible programs that people would like if they sample them. On ABC, NBC and CBS, there will be cops and robbers and detectives and westerns and, of course, innuendo-sopped sitcoms. Maybe this will be the year that commercial TV's infamous "lowest common denominator" will get up and switch the set to PBS.

New Windmill Models Ahead

Robert L. SHAFFER
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — A breakthrough in windmill design, to be tested next summer, may make possible the wind-powered generation of electric power at competitive rates, a space agency researcher says.

Darrell Baldwin of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland says the first cluster of the new Mod-2 windmills will be constructed and tested along the Columbia River near Goldendale, Wash.

The device will be built on flagpole-like "pipe towers" with blades spanning 300 feet — half again as large as on the Mod-1 now operating at Boone, N.C. Baldwin predicted the new windmill "will be able to produce electricity for less than four cents a kilowatt-hour, making it competitive."

"The best we could do with the Mod-1 . . . truss-tower system was 15 cents a kilowatt-hour."

The Mod-2 windmill will power a slightly larger generator than the one operating at North Carolina — 2,500 kilowatts.

"Because of the larger diameter it (Mod-2) will produce five times as much annual energy as the Boone machine, yet it doesn't weigh as much," said Baldwin, who is in charge of test operations in Lewis Center's Wind Energy Project Office.

NASA has been performing the technical work and has been contract manager for the Department of Energy windmill project for the past six years.

"As far as I am concerned, Mod-2 makes the Mod-1 an obsolete design," said Baldwin. He said the rigid truss-tower used in the Mod-1 is too expensive because "it uses too much steel."

The pipe tower is flexible and "there is considerable movement at the top . . . which used to concern us because of fears that the tower would get in resonant frequency with the rotor," Baldwin said.

That could set up vibrations that would destroy the entire structure.

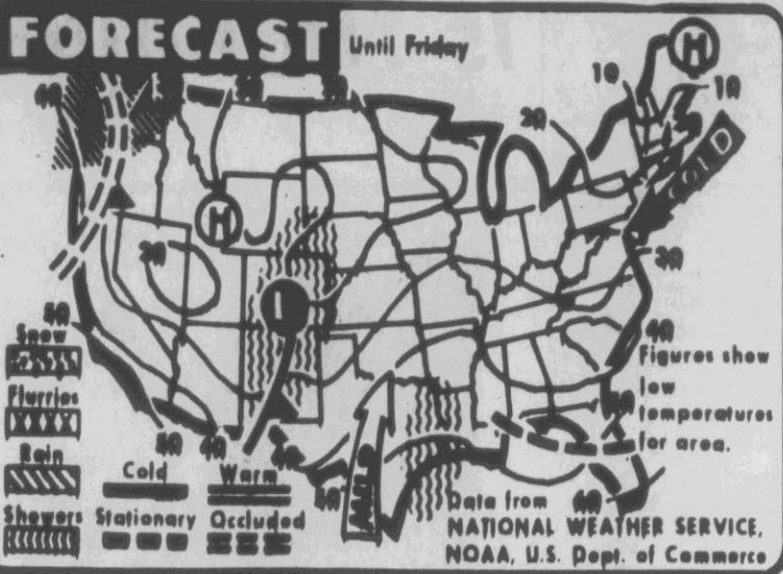

Through the use of the computer analysis and by modifying construction elements, "we now know how we can avoid that," he said.

The three Mod-2 windmills to be built "in a cluster," on the Columbia River are to feed their power into the Bonneville Power Co. network.

POSTAL HOLIDAY

There will be no postal service Christmas Day. Mail will be delivered and placed in post office boxes, Christmas Eve. The window at the main office and ECU station will close at 12:30 on Christmas Eve.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild weather is expected in the forecast period until Friday morning for south-central regions, but much of the country will continue cold. Rain is forecast in the Northwest and showers are expected for New Mexico and Colorado and for east Texas-Louisiana. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A cold front began slipping quietly south across North Carolina last night, bringing northeast winds and cooler air today.

The winds will end the brief warming that most sections of the state enjoyed on Wednesday.

Sunshine will prevail today over most of the state with the exception of the Northeast, where some cloudiness is expected to move in by afternoon as brisk winds bring moisture in off the Atlantic.

Winds will be increasing along the coast today, and small craft advisories may be issued by afternoon.

On Wednesday, sunshine was plentiful in most sections of the state — except the Northeast — and combined with south and southwest breezes.

Temperatures warmed into the 50's, with warmest readings in the southwest portion. Asheville reported a quite mild 60 degrees while Elizabeth City was cool at 48.

The night was mostly clear with the exception of some high cloudiness that developed over a portion of the mountains around midnight. Winds turned light and northeasterly across the state and temperatures chilled down into the upper 20s and low 30s with the exception of near 40 along the immediate coast.

Stolen Birds Case Solved

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Deputies in the Bonneville County's sheriff's department say they've solved the mystery of the purloined pigeons. In the best detective tradition, the case wasn't cracked until after a police lineup — of pigeons.

On Nov. 1, Holland Dredge of Idaho Falls reported five of his prized racing pigeons, valued at $500 each, had flown the coop. He suspected foul play because, after all, homing pigeons don't leave home.

Deputies, acting on a tip, swooped down on the Idaho Falls home of Raymond Roberts, where they turned up 100 pigeons. Dredge picked out two birds he said were his. Roberts said the birds were his.

So, under the watchful eyes of four Utah bird fanciers familiar with Dredge's fowl, the two disputed birds and eight others were lined up against a wall. Deputies say all four picked out one of the birds Dredge claimed as his. Three picked out the second one, although one woman said she wasn't sure.

And it was no easy task, said deputies. The birds of a feather all flocked together.

Roberts was arraigned Tuesday in Magistrate Court on a charge of receiving stolen property.

SUNDAY PROGRAM

The Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church will present a Christmas program, Sunday at 7 p.m. The title of the play is "Christmas is a Miracle." The pastor, Rev. Philip Bland, and congregation invite the public to attend.

Charge Drug Bust Bribe

BENNETTSVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Bribery charges have been filed against two women arrested in a drug raid at the Marlboro County, S.C., Airport. The women were among nine persons held on drug charges after authorities confiscated $1 million in marijuana. About 4,000 pounds of baled, low-grade marijuana were seized when state, federal and local authorities raided the small airstrip after a DC-6 landed Tuesday night.

Sheriff Jack Weatherly identified the women as Joey Adams Threatt, 33, and Sherry Cook, 19, both of Lancaster, S.C. Bond was set at $50,000 each on conspiracy and bribery charges.

Weatherly said the bribery charge stemmed from a payment made to a Marlboro County deputy. The deputy was offered a sum of money not to answer a call at the airstrip when the marijuana was flown in, the sheriff said.

The deputy notified the sheriff and pretended to go along with the arrangement. Weatherly said.

The seven men arrested were being held on $150,000 each on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Gun charges will also be filed against some of the men. Weatherly said.

Poet Marianne Moore was born in 1887.

Chicago's Top Cop Is No Kojak-Type

THIS IS JOE D — Boss of the Chicago Police Department is Joseph DiLeonardi, known as Joe D for years. His official title is acting superintendent, and whether he gets the job for good is up to Mayor Jane M. Byrne. (UPI Photo)

By DAVID SMOTHERS
UPI Senior Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) — Joe D is a tough cop who does not think it always pays to be tough. But he had better be. Joe D is Joseph DiLeonardi, for 24½ years a Chicago cop, for 21 years assigned to homicide, now boss of the whole Chicago Police Department — at least for the time being.

His official title is acting superintendent. Whether he gets the job for good, which he dearly wishes to do, is up to his mercurial boss, Mayor Jane M. Byrne.

She is tough and changeable. She flirted with President Carter through most of October, even having him to breakfast, and then decided she liked Sen. Edward M. Kennedy better as the Democratic presidential candidate.

Similarly, one of the first things she did upon taking office last spring was to kick out one police superintendent, give his deputy the acting title, then boot him sideways and install Joe D in his place.

DiLeonardi is a tall, taut man who squeezes a rubber ball as he talks to "tone the muscles and release the frustrations." He has been known as Joe D for years. With his bald pate and hawkish nose he looks a little bit (but not much) like Kojak.

As a crack chaser of killers, he has a theory on why Kojak never gets promoted from lieutenant to captain. Kojak, he said, is too tough.

"You can't be a hardened person in homicide," he said. "To work in homicide you must possess the compassion for the survivors of the homicide to get the story. To be a tough guy you're not going to get anything."

"I think every police officer must possess this. Otherwise you're going to flip your cookie as a police officer. You can't walk around being Mr. tough guy. You can't be Kojak. "This is a different kind of game. You must be a priest some times and show some compassion. You must be kind to people at times."

This may seem inappropriate, even pious, talk from the top cop of a city known throughout the world for its gang wars, lurid crimes and hardened cops.

The Chicago Police Department suffers dearly from that civic repute. It couldn't, or wouldn't, handle Al Capone back in the 1920s. Capone's old outfit still thrives in Chicago. Despite the claims of civic officials, DiLeonardi among them, that the old days of police corruption are past, top commanders were being carted off to jail just a few years ago on charges of running a tidy tavern shakedown racket.

"You can't run away from the stigma of Al Capone," Joe D conceded. "Our great concern is corruption. We're always on the alert for police officers not disciplined enough, who uses that badge to gain something for himself.

"There's two things — the narcotics enforcement and gang control in the city. "We're going after those (drug) dealers who are turning the minds of our youngsters in our schools. Yesterday we made a bust ... one million dollars in cold cash in Winnetka (a Chicago suburb). These two people who were arrested were carriers into the schools, the grammar schools and the high schools in our city.

"Their money was blood money. It made me nauseous just to look at it. "The crime syndicate — we'll keep them on the move, I'll tell you that. We're going to bury them in Chicago. They're only as strong as we think they are. We let them be strong. But they won't have any movement in Chicago, I can guarantee you that. Wait 'til we start rolling.

"The Latin (street) gangs are more active than the others. There are 205 active gangs working in Chicago today. Our job is to break them up. "We don't mind them belonging to gangs if they're not engaged in unlawful activity. When I was a youngster I belonged to a gang. Call it a gang or call it an athletic club; call them the Menard Hornets. Our efforts were directed towards playing baseball."

DiLeonardi has taken action. When he came to office he knew where the bodies were buried and proceeded to haul them out. On Aug. 15, he made 45 changes in the command structure of the department. He indicated he is still at the task.

"I did it because I knew some of the things that had been going on for years," he said. "We had a disease called Peter's Principle going on in some areas where people reach a certain level of productivity and for some odd reason they're promoted above that. "And the motor pool was a mess. It was run like a grammar school lemonade stand. "Standards ... it's the only way to go. I spent 37 hours with the most beautiful guy I've ever met in my life, our holy father (Pope John Paul II on his October visit to Chicago). He talked about three important things — church, family and community.

"And that's where I come from. There's only one way to come out of this chair and that's straight. Period."

He will have to keep that faith and hang on to his street savvy if he is to survive the changing fancies of Mayor Byrne, the vagaries of Chicago crime, and a cutback in police manpower from its authorized strength of 13,203 to about 12,450.

So far, Joe D believes he is making it. Of the manpower shortage, he said, "We've done it with the pope. Look what we've done with the holy father." And, indeed, the handling of the millions who pressed to get a glimpse of the pope in October was a model of police planning and discipline.

"Am I going to get this job? I'm optimistic," DiLeonardi said. "The mayor's been extremely supportive of every move I make. She said 'you're running the police department,' and I admire her for that. "Whoever gets the job, I'll be a Chicago cop until I retire. I'll work for whoever's in this chair but I'd like it to be an insider."

The last was an apparent reference to Byrne's indications early in her administration that she wanted to go outside of Chicago for a permanent superintendent. At the moment, she appears well satisfied with whom she's got.

DiLeonardi was born 47 years ago on Chicago's Northwest Side, the son of an insurance salesman. He has been here ever since, except for a stretch in the military police which gave him a taste for law enforcement. People who knew him when he was working his way through the ranks of the Chicago police remember the young Joe D as a smart, hard-working and ambitious officer who appeared to make discreet or little use of the political "clout" seemed essential to advancement in the department. He is very proud of being the first Italian — and practically the first non-Irishman — to head the Chicago police. He is more proud of his wife, Carole, and his son, Joe.

Take notice that a pleading seeking relief against you has been filed in the above-entitled action. The nature of the relief being sought is as follows:
Suit on note dated September 27, 1978 and given to plaintiff for money lent. You are required to make defense to such pleading not later than the 23rd day of January, 1980, said date being 40 days from the first publication of this notice, or from the date complaint is required to be filed, whichever is later; and upon your failure to do so, the party seeking service against you will apply to the court for the relief sought.
This is the 10th day of December, 1979.

Twin Gave Sister Her Baby; Future Is Clouded

By NIKKI FINKE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — For just a moment, Lynda Elson nuzzled her newborn daughter, stroking the baby's tiny fingers and toes.

Then, fighting back tears, she gave her child away — to her twin sister, who was despondent after nine years of childless marriage.

"There were not many people who understood what I was doing. But you can't blame them," Mrs. Elson said after she and her husband John — already the parents of two girls — decided to give the baby to Mrs. Elson's sister and brother-in-law, Jean and Roger Machin.

The story of the "Priceless Gift of Love" — the Oct. 5 birth was disclosed this month by the London Daily Mirror — is sparking controversy among British adoption officials and parents over whether the sacrifice will end in heartbreak.

"How is the real mother going to feel when she hears her child calling someone else Mummy?" asked Diane Dye, a social worker and chief of Britain's National Adoption Society. "It might work out well, but it could also lead to disaster."

Adoption officials told The Associated Press they are deeply worried about the case, although under Britain's 1975 Children's Act a woman may place her child for adoption with a member of her immediate family.

A woman in southern England who read the Mirror story revealed this week that 11 years ago she gave her week-old son to her childless sister.

The decision, she said, has caused her only "pain and embarrassment."

The child, now a tousled-haired schoolboy, still doesn't know that Aunty is really his mother. "It was very fulfilling to know I had given my sister such happiness, but the empty feeling I had when we went to her home to hand over our baby has never really gone away," the woman wrote. "Me and my husband wish we hadn't gone through with it."

As in the United States, adopting a child here is frustrating for many couples. Adoption agencies have waiting lists to get on waiting lists, even if parents are willing to take a crippled baby of any race — children once considered unadoptable.

"Many applicants will never get a baby," admitted Margaret Mawer of the Association of British Adoption and Fostering Agencies. "So some become desperate, and seize any opportunity."

The Machins tried everything from adoption to artificial insemination.

"We had reached the end of the trail. There was never going to be a baby in our house," said Machin, 34, who had been told by doctors that his sperm count was too low for him to father a child.

"What will be the emotional effect on the child when she finds out that her natural mother gave her away?" asked Mrs. Machin, who has been speaking out here against the case.

"What if the child becomes a scapegoat in a quarrel between the two sisters? Or the real mother doesn't like the way Jodie is being brought up? What then?"

It was over a pint of beer in the local pub last Christmas Eve that Elson broke the idea to his brother-in-law.

"I just said, 'Ridiculous!'" Machin recalled. "I thought it was utterly impossible: one, that any woman could give away her own baby and, two, that Jean would accept it."

Mrs. Machin said she was "stunned, speechless" at the idea.

"Not in my wildest dreams could I imagine anyone making this kind of sacrifice for my happiness," she said.

But she accepted and nine months later, little Jodie was in her arms.

"Now I regard the baby as mine, although I realize that Jodie is not mine biologically. I know that Lynda feels the same," said Mrs. Machin, 30.

As for the real mother, Mrs. Elson said her only "hurt" came right after giving birth when she saw the adoption papers that will legally make Jodie part of the Machin family.

'Leftovers' Pose A Risk

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Parents who party late during the holidays and sleep in the next morning shouldn't leave half-empty glasses and bottles of booze around for early-rising youngsters to sample.

Those leftovers could spell disaster for young children, doctors warn.

A few ounces of alcohol can cause serious, potentially fatal illness to small children, according to the Dec. 21 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Winston-Salem doctor Ronald B. Mack says such cases are often due to what he calls "the Sunday morning syndrome" when parents sleep late, but youngsters get up early and wander about drinking from half-empty glasses and bottles left out from the night before.

Since mixers mask the taste of alcohol, a child could end up ingesting a dangerous amount of alcohol, said Mack, a pediatrician and authority on toxicology at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest University.

"That's the part I think I would stress because there are more parties around Christmas," Mack said.

Little more than a teaspoon of alcohol per 2.2 pounds of body weight can be a fatal dose, Mack said. Symptoms of alcohol poisoning include coma and convulsions.

Dr. Michael R. Lawless, another pediatrician, says it's fairly common to see children who become tipsy or dizzy after just a sip of alcohol.

"It's worth a warning to the parents to make sure that the alcohol in their homes is out of reach, just like any other potentially toxic substance," he said.

"We had everything we wanted, a home of our own, and everything inside it paid for, and yet that special ingredient — a child — was still missing."

Seeing their anguish, Elson suggested to his wife that they have another baby and give it to her childless twin sister and her husband.

Amtrak announced the new plan Tuesday. Germans Objecting To Nazis In Wax Museum

By EDELGARD SIMON
HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Adolf Hitler and Germany's other Nazi leaders of World War II pose a problem for Hamburg's wax museum.

The bells of St. Peter's toll softly as visitors walk through the third floor displays of famous personalities in wax. Museum owner Heinz Hermann Faerber intended the bells to prepare visitors for the figures of Popes Pius XI and Pius XII, seated in one corner.

But on the way to the popes, visitors find themselves face to face with a slightly cross-eyed Hitler. Three paces behind him stands Eva Braun.

Nearby is a deviously smiling propaganda genius Josef Goebbels, hands folded behind his back, his mishapen foot discreetly camouflaged. Hefty Hermann Goering, the deputy fuhrer, hovers close by.

"Some people become very agitated," signs Faerber. "They call the display a scandal and accuse us of making propaganda for the Nazis. Of course, that is pure nonsense. We also show Stalin but that doesn't mean we make propaganda for him either."

"The Nazis are part of history and many visitors are interested." A number are interested enough to criticize the reproductions.

"Some complain that Hitler is too short or that his eyes ought to be brown," says Faerber. "We know they were blue."

"What really surprises us is that many who criticize these figures are too young to have seen or known any of these men personally. When we ask how they know the figure is wrong they usually say, 'Oh, my father told me exactly how Hitler looked.'"

"We were forbidden to display any of the Nazi leaders while they were still in power," Faerber says. "We had Hitler then, but had to keep him out of sight in the basement."

That first figure of the Fuhrer was destroyed along with most of the figures at the Panoptikum — Germany's only wax museum — when Allied bombs leveled it and much of the Reeperbahn, the city's famous red light district.

Faerber's uncle Hermann recreated the figures after the war.

"We were lucky to be able to buy the original blue cloth that Goering's airforce uniform was made of," Faerber said. Goering's girth and penchant for medals made him the most expensive figure at the museum.

Faerber said Goering cost around $5,500. The average figure runs about $1,500.

Many visitors to the Panoptikum must share Goering's love for medals.

"We had to install closed circuit television and special alarm systems to stop people stealing his decorations," Faerber said. "Today it is difficult and extremely costly to replace something like the German cross in gold."

Rockefeller In Cattle Business

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, is acquiring 1,000 acres of rich, Hudson Valley farm land with a reported price tag of more than $1 million, according to published reports.

Rockefeller and his wife Margaret recently purchased the 400-acre Stone House Farm owned by Stanley and Margaret Voorhees Sr. The farm is considered the focal point of the purchase.

Closings on three other adjacent farms are expected within the next several weeks, with the cost of the entire parcel expected to exceed $1 million, according to the Hudson Register-Star.

High Life For Bridge Repair Workers' Project

By BRUCE DALLAS
Associated Press Writer
OVER THE DELAWARE RIVER (AP) — Changing bridges in midstream is no easy task, but that's what's happening to the Benjamin Franklin Bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, N.J.

The ports on both shores of the river unload and load the freighters and tankers that tug through the Delaware's 40-foot-deep channel flowing beneath the seven-lane highway and high-speed train tracks.

Above the roadway, like industrious spiders repairing a giant steel web, 60 ironworkers toil at hauling up new suspender ropes, as long as some skyscrapers are tall.

"It's probably as high as I've ever been," said Robert Crouse, an ironworker from Swedesboro, N.J., who works on one of the five-man crews that replace the steel ropes.

"The towers are nearly 400 feet to the water, and I've never been over 40 stories," said Crouse, who has worked on buildings and bridges about five years.

"It (the height) doesn't bother you once you get used to what you're doing. You tie off, so if you do slip, you don't fall too far anyway," he said.

The three-year project replacing all 596 steel suspender ropes on the 1.8-mile bridge is about 35 percent complete, according to John Dobroski, the project supervisor for American Bridge Co. of Fairless Hills, Pa., a division of U.S. Steel.

The $6.8-million project is to be completed by November 1982, said William Lynch of the Delaware Port Authority, which operates the Ben Franklin and three other bridges as well as the Philadelphia and Camden ports.

The new ropes should last about half a century, nearly as long as the 53-year-old originals, Lynch added.

"It's all rigging work," Crouse explained.

Secured to the stiffening trusses beneath the road surface, the steel ropes rise like harp strings to the curving suspension cables that swing down from the twin 380-foot towers.

"We can change a set of

(two) ropes in three days with no problems," Crouse said. It doesn't make much difference in time whether the 2 1/4-inch thick ropes, which weigh 9.8 pounds per foot and stretch up to 240 feet in length, are short or long, he added.

"The technique is to attach huge clamps between the bridge and (main suspension) cables, tighten the clamp and loosen tension (on the ropes)," Lynch said.

"Then they simply disassemble it. They had to burn off some rivets and replace them with bolts. Then they replace them (the old ropes) with galvanized ropes," he said.

"Yes, it's dangerous, but it was a lot more dangerous for the guys who put it up in the first place," said Dobroski, adding that no serious injuries have occurred in changing the ropes so far.

Thirteen men died in the construction of the Ben Franklin between 1922 and 1926, Lynch said.

"You work up to a point. It's up to you to tell whether it's too windy," Crouse said. "You make your own decisions, as far as personal safety. No one can make you stay on the job if it's unsafe, especially in winter, with the ice and stuff."

Work is suspended during the winter months, picking up again in the early spring.

The crews have to wait each day until the morning rush-hour traffic has made its way to Philadelphia, then two lanes are closed on the side of the bridge on which the men will be working. Work has to stop around 3:30 p.m. so the lanes can reopen for the afternoon rush hour.

At lower levels, the ironworkers climb ladders to the 30-inch-diameter main suspension cables. The higher points require taking an elevator to the top of the towers and then walking down the main cables.

The Ben Franklin was the first major crossing of the Delaware River below Trenton, N.J., and the longest suspension bridge in the world at the time. In all, 61,700 tons of structural steel and 315,000 cubic yards of concrete went into its construction.

The bridge was opened July 1, 1926, and 100,000 people walked across it. Last year, 22.6 million vehicles traveled the Ben Franklin Bridge.

Although the Ben Franklin is the oldest suspension bridge to have its steel suspender ropes replaced, it is not the first.

Earlier this year, the replacement of all the ropes on the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco was completed, and some ropes on the George Washington Bridge in New York have been replaced.

Plan A Titanic Search In Spring

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A Texas oilman who tracked Big Foot across Canada and sought the Loch Ness Monster in Scotland now has charted a course for the icy depths of the Atlantic Ocean and the wreck of the Titanic.

Jack Grimm and his associates will begin their search in the spring, and expect to spend a year and a half locating and filming the hulk of the ill-fated luxury liner that went down on its maiden voyage in 1912 with 1,513 persons aboard.

"Everyone has been curious about it for years," Grimm said, "but no one's ever thought we could reach it."

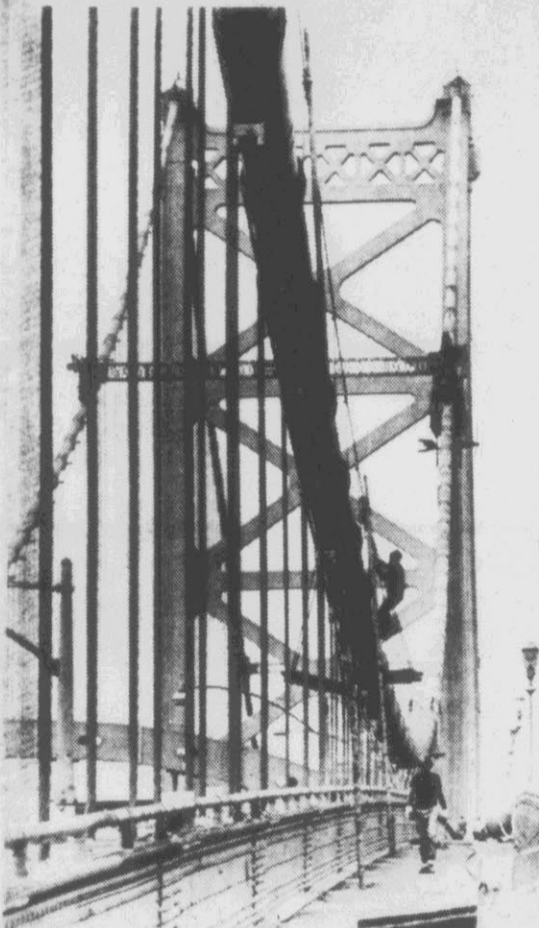

Grimm, 54, is a geologist and president of Grimm Oil Co., which he founded in 1951.

He has spent several years planning the Titanic project and says he is confident his crew can reach the ship resting 12,000 feet below the waves and 380 miles off Newfoundland's coast.

Rare Grizzly In Colorado Killed

PAGOSA SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The American Wilderness Alliance reports that a grizzly bear killed this fall after it had mauled one of a group of hunters was the first member of its species reported in the state of Colorado in 30 years.

The incident occurred in the 210,000-acre South San Juan area and Alliance executive director Clifton Merritt said the presence of the grizzly re-emphasizes the Alliance's campaign to give protected wilderness status to the area to protect the habitat of wilderness-associated wildlife.

Season Of Sharing, Giving - And For Depression

By DOUG HINSON
ECU Medical Writer

A time for giving. A time for sharing. And unfortunately, Christmas is a time for depression.

The holiday season is regarded by many people as the happiest time of the year. Children eagerly await gifts from Santa Claus, families come together for a happy reunion, and friends reminisce about their happy times of the past.

But it is also a depressing time for many people, according to Dr. James L. Mathis, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Mathis says Christmas is the number one season for depression, and he estimates the holiday period is merely a time to be endured, not enjoyed, by that three to four percent of the population with a depressive tendency.

"Even though Christmas is supposed to be a joyous time of the year for all, many people suffer through periods of despondency," Mathis said. "A better word for the condition would probably be the 'blues.'"

Being alone is a major cause of the seasonal blues. "Christmas is supposed to be a time for the family," Mathis pointed out, "but the cold facts are that many people cannot return to their families during Christmas, or these families have ceased to exist."

"The basic theme of Christmas is the family, closeness, the all-giving father — all missing elements for the person who is alone," he said. "The fact that we might face Christmas alone or in an unfamiliar environment can be very depressing, especially when we see others around us enjoying the season with their family and social groups."

Many people do not know how to cope with this loneliness, especially if they are not accustomed to being away from the family during the Christmas season. And the seasonal trappings and constant barrage of holiday messages tend to push the lonely person deeper into despondency.

For some people, however, the forced comradeship displayed during this time is depressing. Having to smile and be cheerful with the unpopular boss can create tension and uneasiness. Even people in good spirits may be cynical about the traditional "peace on earth, good will toward men" and resent the false happiness of those around them.

"The tradition of giving gifts upsets many people," says Mathis. "When a gift is a result of a business or social obligation, rather a genuine desire to share, then shopping for the gift may depress the giver. The same rule applies to sending cards as an obligation rather than a gesture of friendship."

The lack of money for buying gifts also may cause a normally cheerful person to fall into a "bah humbug" mood. Christmas also is the prime time for nostalgic depression. If there has been a major change in one's lifestyle during the past year, such as a death or divorce, then the fond memories of previous holidays may haunt one to the point of depression over what was but isn't anymore, according to Mathis.

Memories of childhood may throw a blanket over the holiday season. "We all become children again during the Christmas season, and for many people, childhood was not a pleasant experience," says Mathis. "Some bad event from childhood could be remembered and trigger the despondency."

He said "basic hypocrisy" is an important factor in holiday blues. "The Christmas season now is over two months long. People are sick of the thing by the time Christmas day comes around."

"It's becoming more and more a time for merchants, and the crass commercialization accents the hypocrisy," Mathis added.

Mathis says people should recognize the difference between true depression and despondency. True depression primarily is the result of a chemical imbalance which has an inherited component and which may be triggered by events the patient cannot identify. Despondency is a temporary state of lowered mood caused by a recent change or event which the individual can recognize, although it may not be obvious.

Though there is no single cure for these blues, Mathis says there are some things people can do to limit their despondency during this time.

"Try not to be alone during the holiday period," he said. "Be around people, or find an interesting hobby; find something to do."

One thing not to do, according to Mathis, is overindulge in alcohol. "Alcohol can be a very serious problem during this time," he says. "Some people get carried away with drinking over the holiday season, and it's not good for those who are despondent or depressed."

The main thing people can do to beat the blues is realize that holiday despondency is normal. "Perhaps the best thing to do during Christmas is have the intellectual realization that it will or can occur," says Mathis. "It probably won't change your feelings, but at least you know it's normal."

And most people still enjoy the holiday season, despite the sometimes alarming feeling of depression. "The despondency is offset by the holiday spirit in most people," he says. "The majority of people shrug off these feelings and enjoy themselves."

If you have friends or relatives who are depressed or have a history of depression, Mathis says it's a good time to show them you care. Make your company available to them.

"Do not, however, put on a show of warmth and happiness. There's nothing worse for depressed persons than being around people who are acting ecstatically happy in an effort to cheer them up. It merely magnifies their mood and convinces them of their lack of worth."
