Deadline Defied

Carter Presses Iran Sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Iran officially in defiance of a United Nations deadline for freeing the 50 American hostages in Tehran, President Carter is seeking immediate Security Council action to punish Iran through adoption of economic sanctions.

Carter, brushing aside suggestions by U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim that sanctions won't be effective, said through a spokesman Sunday night that the council must take action against Iran "without delay.

Waldheim was due to report today to the Security Council on his three-day visit to Tehran last week. However, White House spokesman Jody Powell and diplomatic sources in New York said the timing of a public meeting on Iran was in doubt because the United Nations has been occupied with the question of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

U.N. observers indicated the council would do no more than adopt an agenda today concerning Iran, with work on the sanctions resolution beginning later in the week.

But with the hostage crisis now in its ninth week, and with the administration facing increasingly heavy pressure from Republican presidential candidates for decisive action, Carter apparently feels he can wait no longer.

"The United Nations should go forward and do what it said .. . it would do," Powell told reporters Sunday night.

Carter and his top advisers received a report Sunday from Waldheim on his Iran trip. Waldheim also told reporters that Iranian authorities believe they can count on outside support to overcome the effects of any U.N. move to apply sanctions.

On Dec. 31, the Security Council gave Iran until today to free the hostages. In the event of non-compliance, the council decided it should "adopt effective measures" under articles in the U.N. charter authorizing economic sanctions against nations found to be a threat to peace.

The resolution containing today's deadline was approved 11-0 with four countries abstaining, including the Soviet Union.

It was not clear, however, whether the United States would be able to muster similar support for the formal adoption of sanctions. A two-thirds vote of the 14-member Security Council is required.

And U.S. officials have acknowledged privately that the American campaign to denounce the Soviet Union for its intervention in Afghanistan could induce a Soviet veto on the Iran issue.

Also uncertain is the impact of Waldheim's view that sanctions would not be effective in inducing Iran to free the hostages.

Afghanistan Debate

Only Three Defend Soviet's Invasion

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Five non-aligned Security Council members circulated a draft resolution calling for the immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops from Afghanistan as the United States called the Soviet intervention a "dangerous breach of peace and security" and a "terrible miscalculation."

Sponsored by Bangladesh, Jamaica, Niger, Zambia and the Philippines, the resolution did not mention the Soviet Union by name but "deeply deplored" the armed intervention in Afghanistan.

Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky told reporters he would veto the resolution if it came to a vote. A majority of the council or of the U.N. membership then could get the General Assembly to take the matter up in an emergency session, which would prolong the publicized international condemnation of the Russians.

Eighteen U.N. members spoke in the council debate Sunday, the second day of the debate, and only three communist nations — East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Vietnam — defended the Soviet action.

U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry, the first speaker Sunday, said Soviets authorities made a "terrible miscalculation" in sending troops across their southern border into Afghanistan.

He rejected Soviet claims that they were invited in by the Afghan government and said the Kremlin had engineered the coup Dec. 27 in the Afghan capital that resulted in the overthrow and execution of President Hafizullah Amin and his replacement by Babrak Karmal, whom the Soviets brought back from exile in Czechoslovakia.

"Are we to believe that President Amin invited Soviet troops to come into Afghanistan in order to oversee his own downfall and his own execution?" McHenry asked.

He said radio transmitters inside the Soviet Union, purporting to be Radio Kabul, broadcast the first word of the coup, and "the real Radio Kabul continued normal transmissions for at least one and a half hours after these announcements were first heard. Nothing in these broadcasts from Kabul confirmed the content of the Soviet broadcast disseminated in Afghanistan's name."

County Commissioners Revoke Authority To Sell Subdivision Lots

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning, acting on the recommendation of the Planing Board, revoked the authority of the developers of Rosewood Subdivision in Winterville Township, to sell lots until drainage problems in the development are corrected.

County planner Craig Smith told the board that Pollard Construction Co. was notified several months ago that there was a problem with water standing on some lots in the subdivision. The planning board recommendation to revoke the authority to sell lots was made after no response came from the notification.

Smith said a one to two foot deep ditch would remedy the situation, and told the Board that the Pollard company has indicated that the problem would be corrected.

Commissioners, in other action this morning, approved the final plat for Millbrook Subdivision at Simpson, and awarded a contract to purchase 40 cubic-yard trash containers to Godwin Manufacturing Co. of Dunn.

The board approved an alternate bid by the Godwin company totaling $2,662 per container for five containers for use in the solid waste disposal program.

The containers will be of a heavier guage metal than containers presently in use in the county.

County Manager Reginald Gray pointed out that the heavier construction will solve several problems now faced with the present containers.

He explained that one of the main problems encountered with the present containers has been caused by fire within the containers causing them to warp. He said the heavier construction should correct the problem.

Gray pointed out to the board that fires occur in the containers, even though it is illegal to set fire to a container. He said one cause of fire is persons placing hot ashes inside the large boxes.

Most problems with container fires, the county manager said, have been at the county farm and Stantonsburg Road sites.

Tipton Seeking Seat In Senate

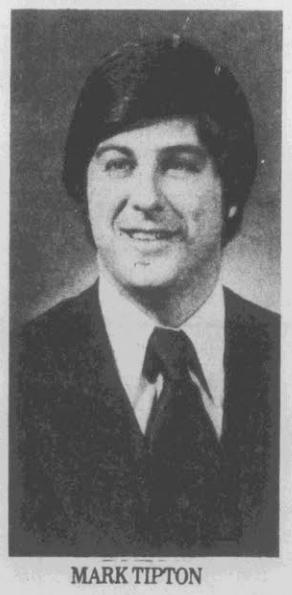

A young Pitt County businessman announced that he filed today for a seat in the Sixth Senatorial District of North Carolina.

Mark E. Tipton, vice president of Tipton Builders Inc., Greenville, said that he filed in hopes of furthering the goals and objectives of all the counties in the Sixth District.

Tipton said that he is concerned about the orderly industrial and rural development in each of the counties in the district because "Eastern North Carolina is earmarked for growth with its mass natural resources and its available labor supply."

The candidate observed,

Firing Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today left intact a decision allowing public schools to fire teachers who refuse to teach the pledge of allegiance and patriotic songs.

The court refused to hear the appeal of a Chicago elementary teacher fired after telling officials that her religious beliefs prohibit such instruction.

Only Justice William J. Brennan Jr. voted to hear arguments in the case. The votes of four justices are needed to grant such review.

Joethelia Palmer, who taught for one year in Chicago's Field Elementary School before being fired in 1977, charged school officials with violating her right to religious freedom.

Bundy To Seek Another Term

Rep. Sam D. Bundy announced today that he is a candidate to succeed himself in the Democratic Primary May 6. He will be seeking one of the two seats in the N. C. House of Representatives from the eighth district, composed of Pitt and Greene counties.

Bundy has served in five previous legislatures, having been in the same office he is seeking since 1971.

Bundy reminds that he has served on the committee of education, agriculture, mental health, state personnel, election laws, constitutional amendments, highway safety, base budget, and appropriations and finance. He has been vice-chairman of

RESPONSE GOOD

Response to the pre-Christmas Hotline appeals for gifts for foster children and boarding home residents of Pitt County was very good, Hotline is told.

Beverly Wheeler of the Pitt Co. Department of Social Services, reports that people came through when they knew the need and she believes that no one in any of the 20 boarding homes in the county was missed by Santa. Some individuals even took whole boarding homes to provide for, she said.

Sally Williamson said the Pitt County Foster Care Unit was running behind last year's contribution figure at the time the appeal was made, but "because of the appeal, we were able to provide Santa Claus for all our children."

Jim Graham First In Line For Election Filing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The long political season officially begins in North Carolina today, as candidates for state and local offices begin filing for the 1980 elections.

Agriculture commissioner Jim Graham, seeking re-election, was scheduled to lead a rush of candidates filing for statewide office when the filing period opened at noon.

Also scheduled to file early with the state Board of Elections were veteran Secretary of State Thad Eure, who is seeking another term, and former Gov. Bob Scott, who is a candidate for governor in the Democratic primary.

The filing period runs until noon, Feb. 4.

In addition to statewide races, candidates for county offices and the General Assembly will pay their filing fee to enter the race during that period.

Graham was assured of being the first in line when filing opened because he made a noon appointment more than a month ago, said state Elections Director Alex Brock.

Also with a noon appointment to file for office was George W. Breece of Fayetteville, who is making his second challenge for the secretary of state's office in the Democratic primary.

Scott scheduled a 1 p.m. filing and an afternoon news conference to officially open his campaign. Gov. Jim Hunt, the first North Carolina governor eligible to seek a second, consecutive four-year term, has not said when he plans to file for re-election.

Republican I. Beverly Lake Jr., a Raleigh state senator, has also announced as a candidate for governor.

In addition to those races, other offices for which candidates will be filing during the next month include the seat held by U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C. Morgan plans to seek re-election, and it is uncertain whether he will face any Democratic primary opposition.

All 11 of North Carolina's seats in Congress are up for election this year, as are the Council of State offices. Two state Supreme Court seats, including the one held by Chief Justice Joseph Branch, are up for election, as are two seats on the state Court of Appeals.

Crisis Over Iran Voted Top News Story Of '79

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Iranian revolution and the international crisis that began with the taking of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran has been voted the top story of 1979 by Associated Press editors and broadcasters.

More than 80 percent of the nearly 700 voters picked as their top choice the turbulence in the oil-rich, strategic Persian Gulf country. The revolution began in late 1978 with street demonstrations that led eventually to the downfall of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, the rise to power of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the eventual taking of the embassy and 50 American hostages.

International and national events which will continue to have their effects on the 1980s dominated the choice of the Top Ten stories of 1979, which included the energy crisis, inflation, the SALT treaty, events in the Mideast and Cambodia, the Three Mile Island nuclear accident and the grounding of the DC-10.

The AP editors and broadcasters also chose the Watergate crisis as the top story of the decade, in a separate ballot.

Here is the order of finish in voting for the Top Ten stories of 1979:

1. The Iranian Revolution and hostage crisis.

2. The accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant in Pennsylvania.

3. The continuing energy crisis, which led to gas lines at American service stations for the first time since the Arab oil embargo of 1973.

4. The American economy, marked by the decline of the dollar overseas and an inflation rate that rose 13 percent over 12 months.

5. The crash of an American Airlines DC-10 in Chicago that killed 273 and the subsequent worldwide grounding of that wide-bodied plane.

6. Mideast peace, as Israel and Egypt signed and put into effect the treaty that had been worked out at Camp David.

7. The visit of Pope John Paul II to the United States and Ireland.

8. Starvation in Cambodia after a decade of revolution, counter-revolution and invasion.

9. The signing of the second Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty — SALT II — and the debate over its ratification.

10. The challenge to President Carter by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

the committees on education, state personnel and constitutional amendments. He has served on the Study Commission for the State Textbook Commission and on the Study Commission for the Teachers' and State Employees' Retirement System.

From 1975 to 1977 he served on the Advisory Budget Commission on appointment by the Speaker of the House and, at the same time, was a member of the State Board of Awards. He has also served on study commissions dealing with state aid formulae for public libraries and ad valorem tax on automobiles. For the past six years, he has represented the House Education Committee on the N. C. Advisory Council on Teacher Education.

Bundy was a school administrator for 42 years, the last 24 in the native town, Farmville. He is a Mason and has served as Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Masons in North Carolina. He is a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason, and a Knight Commander of the Court of Honor and a York Rite Mason.

As a member of the Farmville Kiwanis Club, he has had a perfect attendance record for the past 36 years. In 1945 he was District Governor of the Carolinas District of Kiwanis International. He has been an elder and a member of the church board of Farmville Christian Church and has served as president of the N. C. Christian Men's Fellowship and president of the State Convention of the Disciples of Christ.

Since 1972 he has served on the Board of Trustees of Mount Olive College and now is chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee. He is a member of the Pitt County Farm Bureau and the Pitt County Agribusiness Association. He often serves as a after-dinner speaker and donates all honorariums to charity.

In making his announcement of his bid for reelection, Bundy said, "I have enjoyed representing the good people of Pitt and Greene counties. I have supported legislation which I thought was good and opposed legislation which I thought was not in the best interest of our people.

"I have supported appropriations for education, mental health, agriculture and in other area which I thought were reasonable in line with the resources in hand.

"I plan to conduct a vigorous campaign and, if nominated and elected, I plan to continue to give my full time and best efforts to representing all people and all segments of our society.

"The experience of serving on committees, commissions and board gives me an insight and knowledge of state government that cannot be attained otherwise. I believe that my background and training, plus five terms in the General Assembly, equip me to serve you again in 1981."

He pointed out that he will be 12th in seniority of the 120 members of the House, placing him in good position for appointments and influence. He said he has assurance that he will, if reelected, be returned to the Advisory Budget Commission and the State Board of Awards.

His filing fee was paid Jan 7 by friends and supporters, he said.

Plant In Wake

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Japanese food and chemical company announced plans today to build a $37 million manufacturing plant in Wake County.

Ajinomoto Co. Inc., one of Japan's largest food and chemical companies, said the plant will produce amino acids for use in pharmaceutical and food products.

The plant will be part of Ajinomoto U.S.A. Inc., a subsidiary of the food and chemical company, and will be the company's first U.S. production plant.

Company officials in New York said construction is expected to begin in two months. Completion was set for late next year.

Sam Shinohara, manager of public relations for the company, said Ajinomoto officials discussed the plant with Gov. Jim Hunt when the governor visited Japan last fall, but that the company had already planned location of the plant.

Amino acids are used in a wide range of applications for pharmaceuticals, foods and animal feeds, the company said. Amino acids produced at the Wake County plant will be used primarily in medicine and foods for intravenous solutions and nutrition supplements, the company said.

Company officials said they planned to use North Carolina industrial revenue bonds to help finance the plant.

Trial Of Ford Co. Underway

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — Jury selection begins today in a case that will decide whether Ford Motor Co. was guilty of reckless homicide in the deaths of three young women who burned to death in the crash of a Pinto model automobile.

Rooms at the local hotel have been jammed for weeks, and business is brisk in stores and cafes in this town of 2,400, site of a criminal trial that could have a major impact on the nation's business.

Ford is being defended by James F. Neal, a former Watergate prosecutor. Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino, who will present the apparently unprecedented case, concedes he lacks Neal's reputation and flair, and has voiced concern over the financial burden the trial has placed on his county.

But he argues the three women are dead because Ford decided to "sacrifice human life for private profit."

The indictment returned last fall by an Elkhart Superior Court grand jury charges Ford with three counts of reckless homicide, a felony that carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine on each count.

The charges, based on a 1977 Indiana law making corporations as well as individuals subject to criminal prosecution, were sought after the August 1978 deaths. Autopsies showed the women burned to death when their 1973 Pinto sedan exploded in flames after it was rammed from behind.

In May 1978, Ford recalled 1.5 million 1971-76 Pintos and 30,000 1975-76 Mercury Bobcats after the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration issued a preliminary finding that low-to-moderate rear-end collisions involving the models could lead to fuel leaks. The government contended the leaks posed the risk of explosive fires.

Workshop For Church Leaders

Drug Charges For Farmville Woman In Friday Night Raid

FARMVILLE — A Farmville woman has been charged with six felonies and one misdemeanor following a Friday night law enforcement raid on her home in which various unlawful drug substances were allegedly found.

Farmville Narcotics and Crime Prevention Officer Kenneth Godwin said Catherine Alexander Allen, 27, was the person charged following the raid on her apartment at 514 W. Church Street. He said the raid was planned following a buy from Miss Allen earlier in the evening by an undercover agent.

Found during a search of the premises, according to Godwin's report, were "a large quantity of marijuana, a large quantity of hashish, a large quantity of marijuana seeds, peyote, a variety of pills, and some weighing scales."

Miss Allen was placed in Pitt County Jail under $12,000 bond. Other warrants are pending the report of the FBI lab on several substances taken from the apartment, Godwin said. Preliminary hearing is set for Feb. 1 in Farmville District Court.

Assisting him in the raid, Godwin said, were Farmville Police Officers Sgt. John Ellis, Sgt. Jenny Childers and Ptl. Joe Pietro; Alcohol Law Enforcement Agents Danny Dilda, Warren Campbell and Ricky Batts and Pitt County Sheriff Department Deputy Deborah Godwin.

The search took place beginning at 9:10 p. m., he indicated.

Refuse To Rule On Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to hear arguments aimed at lowering postal rates for newspapers and magazines.

The justices left intact U.S. Postal Service rate-making procedures for second-class mail service. Newspaper and magazine publishers say the procedures are not what Congress intended, and result in billions of dollars of additional mailing expenses for them.

Had the publishers won, the 15-cent postage rate for first-class mail might have risen.

Only Justice Byron R. White voted to hear arguments in the case. The votes of four justices are needed to grant such review.

The controversy reaching the high court in three separate appeals stemmed from the most recent postal rate proceeding held by the Postal Rate Commission, which established the 15-cent rate.

The commission's 1978 rate recommendation was approved by the Postal Service governors, whose decision was upheld by a federal appeals court in Washington last June 8.

In seeking Supreme Court review, the newspaper and magazine publishers argued that the rates recommended and approved are not consistent with the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970.

Congress relinquished control over postal rates and fees when it passed that act. Instead it established the Postal Service and the commission, agencies independent of each other, to set future rates.

The two agencies do not have total rate-making discretion, however. The 1970 law specifies nine criteria that must guide the commission in its rate recommendations.

One is the cost factor of each type of mail delivery — charges based on the costs attributed to providing that service and that portion of all other Postal Service costs reasonably "assignable" to it.

Adhering to a 1976 federal appeals court ruling, the Postal Service placed heaviest emphasis on the cost factor. That held down the first-class postage rate and, conversely, escalated the rate for second-class postage.

In seeking Supreme Court review, publishing group lawyers argued that the appeals court's June 8 ruling "substantially affects the future willingness or even the financial ability of postal users, both individuals and businesses, to employ the mails."

In response, government lawyers said the publishers' real argument was with the 1976 appeals court ruling — a matter not before the justices.

Dow Jones & Co., the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Newspaper Association, the Association of American Publishers and the Recording Industry Association of America joined in filing a Supreme Court appeal.

Time Inc. and the Magazine Publishers Association joined in a second appeal, and a third was filed by the American Business Press Inc.

Care of the eyes is as important as care of any part of the body. Eyes, after all, are a major aid in the proper daily functioning of our lives. As a result, periodic eye examinations are very important. How and where to read, study or work is important too. Never try to read in glare and provide lighting for home and office with as little glare as possible. Rest eyes frequently when doing close work. Consult a specialist immediately if unusual eye symptoms develop.

Your eyes are important and deserve the very best you can give them. If you are as concerned with their well-being as you should be, then upon determination that your eyes need assistance, bring the prescription for corrective lenses to CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 5th, Physicians Quadrangle Building A. MRS. THOMAS EMMETTE STANCIL III

Couple Speaks Vows Sunday

AYDEN — The United Methodist Church here was the setting of a candlelight ceremony Sunday at 5 p.m. uniting Martha Ann Bright and Thomas Emmette Stancil III in holy matrimony.

The Rev. Travis Owen officiated at the double ring ceremony. The wedding was directed by Mrs. David H. Smith Jr., aunt of the bride.

A program of wedding music was presented by Tony Carraway, organist, of Chapel Hill. Diane Smith of Ayden sang "First Time Ever" and Quincy Harrison, cousin of the bride, sang "The Story of Ruth" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Bright of Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Thomas E. Stancil Jr. of Smithfield and Mrs. Mary Stancil of Greenville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory delustred knit over ivory peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline. The neckline was outlined in ivory silk floral Venise lace that extended over the fitted bodice and encircled the waistline from which fell the flared gathered skirt that extended to an attached chapel length train. The bishop sleeves featured fitted cuffs.

She wore a chapel length veil of illusion edged in floral Venise lace to complement her gown and was held in place by a Juliet cap overlaid in matching lace.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses, and baby's breath tied with satin ribbon.

The matron of honor was Patricia Williams of Ayden, sister of the bride. She wore a formal gown of frost rose silesta designed with an open neckline featuring miniature rolled shoulder straps. The fitted bodice was accented with an applique of frost rose silk floral Venise lace. The full flared skirt fell in a sunburst of knife pleats.

Bridesmaids were Alice Huggins of Ayden, sister of the bridegroom, Darlene Smith of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, Jean Wilson of Ayden, cousin of the bride, Patsy Sterrenberg of Ahoskie, and Sue Skinner of Ayden. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant in shades of wine silesta. They carried a nosegay of miniature pink carnations, daisies and baby's breath tied with satin ribbons.

Tracey Braxton of Ayden was flower girl. She wore a long sleeve formal gown of wine silesta highlighted by a Venise lace bodice. She carried a basket of carnations, daisies and baby's breath tied with satin ribbons.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers included Robert Oehrli of Ayden, Kenneth Smith of Raleigh, cousins of the bride, Marcus Williams and Ronnie Huggins of Ayden and Bill Carr of Washington.

The ring bearer was Matthew Carr of Washington.

The mother of the bride chose a formal gown of green knit highlighted with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of peach knit. The mothers were honored with a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church fellowship hall by Mrs. Margaret Oehrli, Mrs. Ruth Grayiel, Mrs. Selma Rogers, Mrs. Sandra Wooten, Mrs. Kay Wooten and Mrs. Mamie Smith, all aunts of the bride. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Stocks and good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Winston Wooten.

The refreshment table was covered with a white overlaid lace cloth centered with a silver epergne candelabra with white candles, miniature pink carnations, white daisies and baby's breath. Punch was poured by Mrs. Margaret Oehrli and a four-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Selma Rogers. Assisting with serving were Mrs. Ruth Grayiel, Mrs. Kay Wooten, Mrs. Sandra Wooten, and Mrs. Mamie Smith. Rice bags were given to the wedding guests by the attendants.

Presiding at the register was Mrs. Kathy McLawhorn of Ayden and programs were passed out by Mrs. Becky Whichard of Ayden.

An after-rehearsal party was given at the home of the bride by her parents.

A bridal luncheon was given by Mrs. David H. Smith Jr. at her home in Ayden. Mrs. Margaret Oehrli assisted.

Following a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, the couple will reside in Lakeland, Fla.

The bride attended East Carolina University where she graduated with a master's degree in speech pathology. She will be employed as a speech pathologist at the North Lakeland Elementary School in Lakeland.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University and is currently employed with the Richmond Engineering Company of Richmond, Va., based at a branch office in Lakeland.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Sure and begorrah, you'll fairly burst with pride when you wear your authentic Irish fisherman knit, made even more outstanding with the addition of charming crewel flowers. With or without the optional embroidery, the deeply sculptured cables and bobbles of this traditional raglan-sleeve Irish knit cardigan will make it a source of pride and joy for years to come.

Directions for sizes 10 through 18 are clearly written, without abbreviations. Knitting worsted weight yarn is used.

To obtain directions for making this Pat Trexler Original, send your request for Leaflet No. P-1980 with $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-1980, containing instructions, knitting yarn in fisherman white and crewel yarns in a variety of garden-bright colors, from Pat Trexler at the same address. For sizes 10 through 14, the price is $15.50 for acrylic yarns or $23.00 for wool yarns. For sizes 16 and 18, send $17.50 for acrylic yarns or $27.00 for wool yarns.

Did you know that every pattern stitch used by Irish knitters has a special symbolic meaning to it? The combinations of patterns tell a story understood by all who see it.

Diamonds and honeycombs are a wish for one's children to have a life of prosperity and plenty. A maze of center panels, all intertwined, might tell a story of many marriages and many relatives.

Trellis stitches, used in panels, represent the rough stone walls that climb the hills of Galway, while cables symbolize the ropes that hold the fishermen's small boats against the sea.

Irish women, like their menfolk, are famous for their love of storytelling, so it is only natural that they carry on this tradition in their knitting, which is as durable as it is beautiful.

Most of us, of course, are not as proficient as these women who create their designs as they knit. You can, however, knit sweaters just as beautiful by following step-by-step directions furnished to you by today's designers.

Don't be discouraged if at first the work seems to go slowly. Once the pattern stitches are established and you become familiar with them, you probably won't have to continually refer to the directions every few stitches.

It's best not to set a deadline for yourself for finishing a fisherman knit. Plan to do it at a leisurely pace, working on it only when you can be free of distractions.

I usually have several projects going at once — some which require my close attention and others which I can do almost without thinking.

Last week, I gave you some tips on pattern stitches in general and today I will close with a hint which may make Irish knitting easier for you: This type of stitchery always combines panels of different types of stitches.

Try putting a plastic marker on the needles at the beginning and end of each separate panel. At the same time, pencil in a slash mark on your directions at the beginning and end of each panel.

You might even want to "color code" the markers and slash marks. For example, you could use blue markers for a cable panel and use a blue pencil for the slashes, Use green markers for a popcorn panel and green marks on your instructions for the popcorn section. Instead of slashes before and after the separate sets of instructions, you could simply underline each set with the corresponding color pencil.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Angel Dust Is The Devil's Brew

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: I will be straight with you. I am 13 and smoke pot, but I am no pothead. A dude has been telling me about angel dust. He says it gives you a super-cool high. Some kids I hang out with who do drugs say angel dust can mess up your head worse than acid. What is the story? Please don't use my name.

CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO: I have just completed some extensive research on drugs for my new booklet," WHAT EVERY TEENAGER OUGHT TO KNOW," and I can tell you that angel dust is one of the most dangerous drugs on the street today. The following is a quote from my booklet:

PCP (OR ANGEL DUST)

"The boy woke up with a badly gashed hand. He found his mother in another room, stabbed to death. He had no memory of what had happened. But police said he had written on a wall with a red marking pen: 'I love my mother and didn't mean to kill her.'

That is from the files of the New York police.

They said the boy had smoked two 'nickel bags' of angel dust—phencylidine, or PCP, also known as peace pills, white powder, superjoint, busy bee, hog, elephant tranquilizer, crystal and green tea.

By any name, it's a mind-destroyer, one of the deadliest drugs on the street. And, alarmingly, the most widely used among teenagers, who mistakenly think it's just another form of pot. It's not!

'That's the tragedy of the drug,' says Dr. Mitchell Rosenthal, head of the Phoenix House drug rehabilitation program. 'The country has gone soft on grass, so kids think angel dust is not dangerous, that it's just a kind of superjoint.' It's readily available and cheap. Many who sell it aren't aware of how dangerous it is.

Angel dust brings on hallucinations, paranoia and violence. There is evidence that those who use it might suffer long-term brain damage."

The Art of Carpeting & Decor
by Larry C. Whitlow

Carpeting is a good investment for your home. It will not only help insulate the floors, but also add beauty to your decor. For a fine selection see us at LARRY'S CARPETLAND INC., 3010 E. 10th St., 758-2300. We are your exclusive Milliken and Georgian carpet headquarters and make sure that you are completely satisfied with purchase. Hours: 9am-5pm Mon. thru Fri., 9am-1pm Sat.

Oriental rugs are a great investment these days. They are not necessarily inexpensive, but if you can afford such a rug, you probably made a good investment. An Oriental rug bought in 1974 for $7000 could sell for $15,000 in 1979. That is a significant rise in price. Of course, this kind of appreciation does not happen on all Orientals. The rarer and more artistic the rug is, the more valuable it is. It requires expertise to select a good investment rug. However, for sheer beauty almost any oriental rug will be fine.

City Can't Rest On Laurels

The city of Greenville enters the decade of the 1980s with a new mayor, Don McGlohon, and several new faces on the City Council.

We can look back on the 1970s with considerable pride, for much has been accomplished during the decade. Greenville, one of the leaders in use of urban renewal for slum clearance and redevelopment, saw the Shore Drive project completed. The downtown project is near completion, and the Meadowbrook and South Greenville projects are moving nicely.

All of it has brought a revitalization of our city. Old streets have been replaced in many areas, and new thoroughfares, such as Reade Circle and Charles Boulevard have been opened.

The once decaying downtown, even if not the retail center, has definitely taken on a new look with impressive financial, office and institutional building standing where old homes once were. There is a good nucleus of stores and shops that keeps downtown moving as a shopping area.

Working with the county government, the city has seen an impressive group of industries move into areas near the city and they have provided jobs which keep the economy robust.

New shopping centers have developed in Greenville which provide unique shopping for area citizens and draw patrons from many miles away.

In sum it has been a golden era for Greenville.

We are entering the 1980s with new leadership which is as yet untested in meeting Greenville's needs and problems.

It is important that we maintain the commitment to continue building and shaping our city. Most of our slums have been eliminated, but it wouldn't take a very long period of indifference for new slums to develop. That must never happen again.

We have had the uncomfortable feeling in recent months that Greenville is resting on its laurels, that we are not exerting the energies needed to keep our community moving ahead. If that is so, and we coast, we can be certain our momentum will soon be lost.

We hope for some exciting and innovative municipal leadership during the 1980s. Greenville has a destiny which has yet to be fulfilled.

Bill Cobey Chose Long, Hard Road

William W. Cobey, Jr., the UNC-Chapel Hill athletic director, resigned last week with intentions of becoming a GOP candidate for the office of lieutenant governor.

It will, of course, be a long hard road for the Republican candidate. If he wins the GOP nomination he will face either incumbent Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, or his challenger House Speaker Carl J. Stewart, Jr. or whoever else who may wreste the Democratic nomination.

We are seeing, however, that the backgrounds of candidates we will have to choose from are as varied as can be — and that is what makes elections interesting.

Arabs Behind Surge

By MARY TOBIN
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Black gold" money has pushed up the price of yellow gold more than $200 an ounce to the $600 level in less than a month and could take the precious metal to $900 or more within a few months.

By consensus the impetus for the unprecedented surge in the price of gold has come from the Middle East: Oil money is being used to buy gold and that gold is going into vaults.

"This market is not a public market," said James Sinclair, head of the trading firm bearing his name. "The market is being manipulated by two forces: Arabs buying for keeps and wealthy speculators buying for profits."

"The Arabs are exchanging one commodity for another — black gold for yellow gold," said Louis Vigdor, vice president of Manfra Tordella Brookes bullion firm. "They are taking oil out of the ground, selling it for dollars, buying gold and putting it back into a vault."

The flight of capital from the Middle East began early in 1979 when the shah's regime was overthrown in Iran and accelerated with each new crisis — the taking of U.S. hostages in Tehran, the attack on Mecca in Saudi Arabia and radical uprisings in Pakistan, Turkey and other countries.

"But the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan turned a steady flow of funds from that area into a torrent," said R. Leslie Deak, vice president of the huge Deak-Perera bullion and currency firm.

"It's our belief that about $3 billion of the unaccounted-for Saudi Arabian official reserves was converted to private holdings and gotten out of the country because of concern by the royal family about the turmoil," Deak said.

"The Arabs don't want any more dollars because of dollar weakness and the U.S. inflation rate. Other currencies are vulnerable to any oil supply disruption. What's left is gold and other precious metals," Deak said.

Economy Looking Better

BY BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — For some time now North Carolina has been hustling to bring into the state different kinds of industries. The figures show that process is paying off.

At the same time, the standby foundations of the state's industrial economy — textiles, furniture, tobacco — have been shored up with improved technology and production techniques.

The beneficial result of this development will likely be seen in the shaky economic times just ahead. Jack Runnion, executive vice president of Wachovia Bank at WinstonSalem, foresees some slowing in the growth of the general economy in North Carolina during this year, but predicts that "successful industrial development efforts in recent years have brought new types of industry to the state and expanded employment opportunities for its people." The effect has been a further diversification of the state's industrial base away from its reliance on traditional employment concentrations, along with growing contributions to the state's economy by the trade and services sectors.

Changes

"As a result of this changing profile, North Carolina should experience a closer tracking with national economic trends, in contrast with 1974 and 1975 when the state's unemployment rate rose higher than the national average."

"The textile industry in particular has undergone production efficiencies since the 1974 recession, adding to the likelihood that the state should fare at least as well as the rest of the country," Runnion observes in the annual look ahead at the economy normally taken by financial specialists.

Runnion sees a mixture of good news and bad just ahead. There are stumbling blocks: high energy costs, and potential shortages, coupled with double-digit inflation "will probably have a dampening effect on the spending of consumers" who will concentrate on paying for the essential like fuel and food at the expense of cars or major appliances.

Then there are inflation rates and record peaks and gold prices and dollar instability causing both business and consumer anxiety

But in all of this, Runnion sees employment remaining up and personal income rising to meet inflation, so that "on the whole, the pace of activity and the outlook for the near term in the real business world seems somewhat better than in the theoretical worlds of many forecasters."

Whatever happened to the on-again, off-again recession of 1979? The old year ends and the new begins with the economy dominated by a mood of uncertainty and in a state of change Runnion finds.

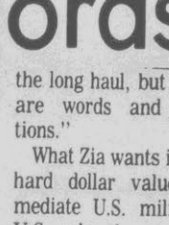

Up Or Down

"It is difficult to foresee whether the positive or negative forces will predominate in the year ahead."

"While it seems clear that the economy is in a slowing phase, a deep or long recession does not appear likely in the near future, given no catastrophic developments on the energy scene," Runnion concludes.

Most likely, the economy will move erratically from decline to flat for some months.

Much of the pattern will have to do with whether federal government policy makers truly intend to keep the money supply tightened and spending down despite the certain onset of unemployment and high borrowing costs inevitably resulting.

BILL NOBLITT

"The rhetoric about controlling government regulation, spending, and taxation sounds good and will contribute to a better economic life if followed through with meaningful actions," Runnion feels.

But with political waters coming to a boil for state and national elections in 1980, can the politicians do more than just talk a good game? "The existence or lack of a mandate by the voters on these issues at the polls in 1980 will have a profound effect on the shape of the next decade," Runnion believes.

Friends In Third World

WASHINGTON — The Third World Flea Market was a beehive of activity.

Bamgambi from Gambia went over to Ahmad, the oil merchant, with his tin can. "May I have a quart of oil?"

"Of course, my friend," said Ahmad, "that will be $10 in gold."

Bamgambi searched his pockets. "Last week it was $7."

"Ah," said Ahmad, "that was last week. But this week we have had to raise prices because the First World is trying to take advantage of us."

"But I am of the Third World," Bamgambi said. "I can't afford to pay even $7 a quart."

"Well, you can blame it on the greedy Western merchants who are driving up the price every day. We Third World merchants have to stick together or the imperialists will have us by the throat."

"Excuse me, Ahmad, I don't mean to be rude, but it seems to me that YOU have us by the throat. If you and I belong to the same world, why can't you sell me your oil at a more reasonable price?"

"Have you gone mad, Bamgambi? Do you realize that the colonialist power brokers would love that? If we charged you a lower price than we charged the West, they would look at you as a second-class citizen from the Third World. The only way you can get any respect is to pay the same price for oil as the major industrial dealers."

ART BUCHWALD

"I see your point, Ahmad, and forgive me for questioning your logic, but we are running out of gold very fast, and pretty soon we will be unable to buy even one cup of oil. Without oil won't the industrial dealers think even less of us?"

"Bamgambi, all the oil merchants are aware of the hardship our prices are causing to our brothers in the Third World. We have agonized over it at length."

"And what conclusion did you come to?"

"We shouldn't put a cut-rate price on our friendship. If we charged you less than we did a Swede, you would think we were patronizing you. The fact that we make everyone pay the same shows we respect you as much as we do a West German imperialist."

"You are very kind to think of us as equals. But that doesn't seem to solve the problem of how we can pay for your oil. Perhaps since we are of the same world you could give me credit until I can get on my feet."

"Now you have made me angry, Bamgambi. You think just because we're both brothers of the Third World that you can take advantage of our friendship? We have a

Dawning Dilemma

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Some disconcerting news is gradually breaking upon electric power consumers.

In face of the energy crunch, people have been conscientously making efforts to reduce consumption of electric power, fuel oil and natural gas.

But electric cooperatives around the state now have awakened to the dawning of a dilemma which they contend must be passed on to the conservation conscious consumer.

Projected power company revenues are based on rates and anticipated consumption.

Consumption has increased at fairly predictable rates over the years and power company operating needs and revenues have been geared to these predictions.

But some electric cooperatives now are reporting power demands of as much as five percent below anticipated levels. One cooperative, South River EMC at Dunn, said this would result in losses of more than half a million dollars in revenue expectations for the past year.

What happens?

The power companies insist they have no alternative but to charge more per kilowatt of electricity.

To the consumer, this means paying more for less— and perhaps realizing no real financial saving despite determined efforts to conserve fuel.

The only consolation could be the realization that as individuals and businesses we are disciplining ourselves to reduce our demand on non-renewable and oftentimes imported energy resources.

But that's more consolation than reward.

Power companies and those charged with regulating them should be required to see that consumers are given the fullest possible advantage of every successful effort to conserve.

The companies should be able to demonstrate that they also have exhausted every possible alternative before passing the buck.

40 Years Ago Today

Monday, January 7, 1949

BALTIMORE — Scarface Al Capone left his hospital bed today and moved into a house here still facing a long seige of medical treatment for the lingering brain malady he contracted in prison.

His physician, Dr. Joseph Moore, announced the ex-gang chieftain's departure and said it was "too early" to tell whether Capone would benefit from his hospitalization.

WASHINGTON — The House plunged into its first controversy of the new session today by voting to start debate tomorrow on the perennial anti-lynching bill.

The bill would provide up to five years imprisonment and $5,000 fine for a peace officer who permits a lynching through negligence or willfullness.

Need More Than Words

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Carter's strong talk in response to Moscow's conversion of Afghanistan into a Soviet satellite has fallen short, leading the government of Pakistan to question the wisdom of putting its fragile eggs in the American basket.

Skeptics in the Pakistani government are believed to include President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, a former army general with healthy respect for Soviet military might. To persuade him, Jimmy Carter must put teeth into his words. Tough talk followed by empty threats has characterized his foreign policy for three years, a fact well known by every country exposed to Soviet power.

Although the Soviet invasion started Dec. 24, Carter has been slow to announce concrete actions other than sending a diplomatic mission to Western Europe and complaining to the United Nations. "Zia is sitting in a country totally exposed to Soviet power," one foreign diplomat told us. "He needs proof that the U.S. will sustain him for the long haul, but all he has are words and consultations."

What Zia wants is deeds: a hard dollar value on immediate U.S. military aid; U.S. sale of arms to communist China, which more than anything else would signal the reality of Carter's professed fury at Moscow; U.S. aid to the nearly half-million Afghan patriots now in hiding across the Pakistani border. On top of this shopping list, an admission that this is no time to push SALT II would signal that Carter means business.

In the absence of such signals, Soviet propaganda

Strength For Today

MORAL COURAGE

A man who had been in an automobile accident suffered severe damage to his eyes. After a lengthy examination, the doctors said that while they could save the partial sight of one eye, it would be necessary to remove the other and replace it with a glass eye.

When the doctors broke this news to the patient they expected an outburst of anguish on his part. Instead, there was silence for a moment, and then, with a smile on his face, the injured man replied, "Well, Doctor, when you take out that eye and put in a glass eye, I want you to make sure that there is a twinkle in it."

Beautiful as physical courage is, there is nothing so beautiful as moral courage. A man can perform brilliantly on the battlefield knowing that, for good or evil, it will all be over in a short time. But the man who faces lifelong blindness and asks for a glass eye with a twinkle has a superior kind of heroism.

Choice: Cold, Or Go Broke?

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Brrr!

High fuel costs are making it harder to keep warm this winter, but you don't have to choose between shivering and going broke.

"In energy conservation, even little things mean a lot," says the trade and consumer protection division of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Among the "tested, no-risk, common-sense" measures the department suggests are controlling indoor temperatures, limiting air leaks and reducing heat loss through windows.

Here are some specific dos and don'ts:

—Don't heat unoccupied areas. If a particular room is seldom or never used in winter, turn off the radiator and keep the door closed. Bedrooms don't need to be kept warm during the day; turn the heat on an hour or so before you retire for the night.

—Do take advantage of the energy generated by the human body. Rooms where several people are gathered need less heat than areas occupied by only one or two individuals.

—Do turn down the setting on the thermostat if you haven't already done so. Temperatures of 65 degrees Fahrenheit during the day and 55 degrees at night are comfortable for most people, although the elderly should check with their doctors before lowering temperatures. The U.S. Department of Energy says even infants can cope with temperatures in the range of 60 to 70 degrees if they are dressed warmly and the humidity is relatively high. Each degree you lower your thermostat should cut your fuel bill by 3 percent.

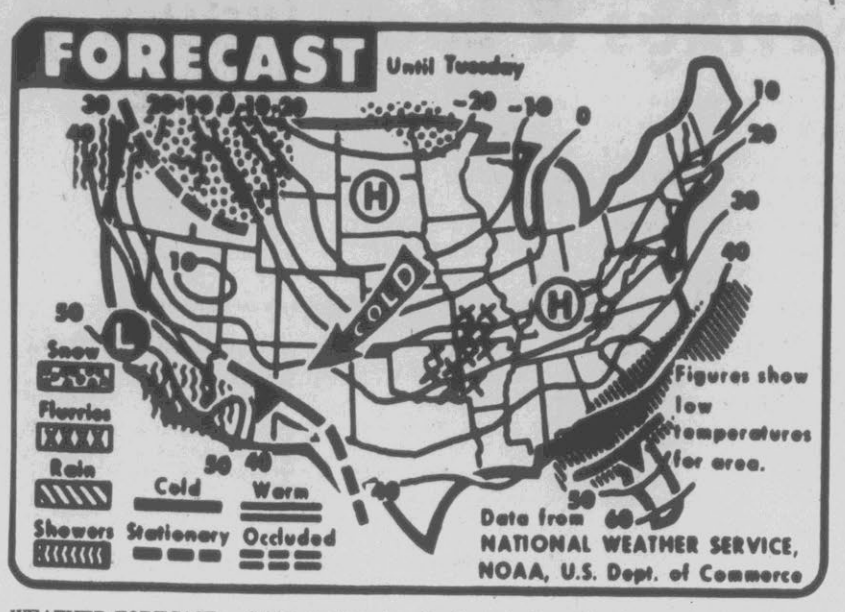

—Don't forget to turn the thermostat way down when you will be away from home. "Contrary to popular opinion, warming your house back up does not use more fuel than you have saved," says the Wisconsin consumer office.

—Do consider storm windows or inexpensive plastic taped over regular windows. The air pocket created by the extra layer of glass or plastic make sure that windows can be opened quickly if they are needed as an emergency exit.

—Do plug leaks. Cloth or newspaper can be used to seal attic doors and to fill cracks around windows on a temporary basis. If cold air still seeps through, get some tubular gasket weather-stripping at the hardware store and apply it around the edges of windows and doors.

—Do take steps to keep pipes froom freezing. Wrap them in specially designed insulation tape or in layers of old newspaper, overlapping the ends. Cover the newspaper with plastic film to keep out moisture. When it is very cold, let the faucets drip a little. You'll waste water, but you may prevent freezing damage. If the pipes do freeze, open faucets wide, remove any newspapers, rewrap the pipes with rags and pour hot water over them until they have thawed.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Colder weather is expected in the forecast period until Tuesday morning for all of the nation. Snow is expected for the Northwest; showers are due in the Southwest. Snow flurries are indicated for Oklahoma, Arkansas and southern Illinois with rain forecast for the Southeast. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

North Carolina's weather pattern will be unsettled for the next couple of days.

A strong cold front was moving into the mountains from Tennessee today, and was expected to advance rapidly across North Carolina. The cold front was expected to stall just south of North Carolina tonight.

A low pressure area will form along the front in northern Georgia and move slowly east on Tuesday. This will mean a mixture of precipitation across North Carolina Tuesday.

In the mountains, precipitation should fall as snow, mixing with or changing to rain during the day Tuesday. East of the mountains, rain is expected. But it could start as snow, sleet, or freezing rain in the north and northeast Piedmont and foothills.

Mostly sunny skies prevailed Sunday. No measureable precipitation occurred anywhere and highs ranged from 37 at Elizabeth City to 46 at Wilmington.

Lows tonight should range from the teens in the northwest mountains to the 30s in the east.

Frustrations In Iowa 'Debate'

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Sometimes, debater Bob Dole observed, politicians say things in the heat of battle and live to regret their words.

The senator from Kansas learned that from experience. His rivals for the Republican presidential nomination got the message.

It is a message of caution, and that is why their six-way debate was relatively restrained, with more agreement than argument.

Nobody wanted to play the heavy, and nobody wanted to make a damaging mistake.

As a result, the statements of the debating candidates sometimes were more tempered than those they have made as solo campaigners.

Ronald Reagan, the pollsters' favorite in Iowa's Republican precinct caucuses two weeks from today, skipped the debate on grounds it would be divisive.

It wasn't.

Because Reagan is the leader, his strategists figured he had nothing to gain by sharing a platform with the rest of the field. The other candidates said, predictably, that he would suffer politically for staying away.

He may, but the Iowa competition, in which Republicans will assemble to vote their preferences in neighborhood meetings, is primarily a test of organizational strength and old loyalties, and so is not likely to be markedly altered by Reagan's no-show at the debate.

The organizing efforts of the others, particularly former U.N. Ambassador George Bush, probably represent a more serious threat to Reagan than does any voter resentment at his limited personal campaign in Iowa. He is appearing in Davenport tonight, in Waterloo on Thursday, and in Des Moines on Jan. 19, and that apparently will be it.

The protests of the six candidates who debated Saturday night in a forum sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune reflect the frustration of the men who are trying to overtake Reagan and can't get at him.

With the exception of Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, the most liberal Republican of the lot, they don't have much to debate with each other — or, for that matter, with Reagan.

On most major issues, they agree. So when former Texas Gov. John B. Connally was asked to spell out his differences with Reagan, he said he couldn't answer because he had no inkling of Reagan's stand on the issues.

Anderson was the only candidate to condemn Reagan's positions, saying the front-runner hasn't said anything new in 15 years. The rest of the field joined Connally and concentrated on complaints about Reagan's refusal to debate.

Anderson also was the only candidate to risk sharp, direct criticism of his fellow debaters. He said his rivals think in terms of military solutions to world problems, while he thinks the answers lie in economic revival and tough energy conservation measures.

Anderson said the other candidates are playing "the same old politics."

'Restless' Over Counter-Actions

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolinians are generally supportive of President Carter's efforts to handle the Iranian crisis and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, but politicians across the state say citizens are gradually growing restless and impatient for harsher measures.

Ten chairmen from both the Republican and Democratic parties said in separate interviews that Carter's popularity has been boosted thanks to the holding of the American hostages in Tehran.

"Even my Republican friends agree with Carter's policy," said Ruth Helms, chairman of the Union County Democratic Party.

Sydnor Thompson, chairman of Mecklenburg County's Democrats, said people are "saying the same thing in Charlotte that they're saying in Greensboro and Michigan and Oregon." That is, Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis "is making him a more popular president."

Some chairmen, especially Republicans, don't think the popularity will last forever.

"I think people are getting pretty frustrated of the lack of decisive action on the part of the United States," said Cary Allred, Alamance County GOP chairman.

"People tended to go along with President Carter (regarding Iran) for some time," said Guilford County Republican chairman William T. Evans. But he said he is now hearing people describe Carter as timid, afraid and "in over his head."

Most of the party chairmen said it is difficult to tell whether the combination of the Iranian and Afghan situations will affect North Carolina's elections for U.S. representatives and senator.

"Folks are not too geared up toward the election yet," Mrs. Helms said.

W.T. Moore, Madison County Democratic chairman, said the next 30 days in the Iranian crisis could decide the fate of the state's elections.

Seminary Sells Papal Service

BOSTON (AP) — Folks who buy the recording of Pope John Paul II's Mass on Boston Common won't hear the sound of the rain that accompanied the service — or some of the original music.

Stormy weather while the pontiff celebrated Mass on Oct. 1 apparently marred the recorded performance of the Archdiocesan Papal Choir.

So, Vogt Quality Recordings of Needham redid musical portions of the service in St. Clement's Chapel of St. John's Seminary, a college for many New England-area priests.

Two-record souvenir editions of the Mass that blend the Pope's actual words and the rerecorded music are selling for $12 at the seminary.

TWO OF FIVE SURVIVE

TOKYO (AP) — Quintuplets were born today to the wife of a steelworker in Fukui, 210 miles west of Tokyo, and two of the babies survived and doctors reported them in good condition.

Opposes Ban On Deadly Cargoes

BOSTON (AP) — A new city ordinance has banned vehicles carrying many explosive and poisonous cargoes from traveling through the city, unless they have local business.

Mayor Kevin H. White signed the ordinance Saturday. The new law bans loads including liquefied natural gas, propane gas, dynamite and some poisonous gases.

But Robert Nash, vice president of the Massachusetts Motor Truck Association said he would appeal the ban to the federal Department of Transportation. "It's a horrendous law," he said.

um also have soared to record prices. Silver rose to near $40 an ounce from around $5 at the beginning of the year. Platinum climbed from $239 to around $800 an ounce.

David Mizrahi, editor of the MidEast Report, a New York-based newsletter, said, "The Arabs feel the real reason for the Russian presence in Afghanistan is access to the oil fields."

Russia has stated that sometime between 1983 and 1985 it will be a major importer of oil. Mizrahi said, "They have made a decision that now is the time to strike — while the U.S. is vulnerable."

Sinclair also thinks the Russian presence in the oil-rich Middle East is the fuel sparking the gold market. "Gold fell to under $570 an ounce early Friday morning, then soared to over $600 again after reports the Russians were deploying troops to the Pakistan border," he said.

Deak said the "poor U.S. showing in Afghanistan" has led other Middle Eastern countries to believe "there is nothing to stop the Russians."

Mizrahi says the Arabs believe the next Soviet move will be in Iran. "Why did the Soviets send 50,000 troops, sophisticated weapons, tanks and jets into Afghanistan?" Mizrahi asked. "They didn't need that kind of force.

"The next step is to foment sedition in Iran through the Tudeh — the Iranian Communist Party ... since the Communists are always more organized than other groups, they will topple (Ayatollah Ruhollah) Khomeini, take over in Iran and cross to the oil fields in Saudi Arabia. This is what is believed in the Middle East."

"Let's suppose the Russians do go into Iran," Deak said. "Even though the U.S. is upset at being pushed around there's not much we can do. Whatever we do, the supply of oil will be cut off."

Paul Sarnoff, director of research for Conti Commodity Service, commodity trading subsidiary of Continental Grain Co., has a minority opinion that gold's record price "has nothing to do with Afghanistan, nothing to do with Iran or with anywhere else."

Sarnoff said "gold is tied to oil ... As long as the price of oil goes up the price of gold will be firm or go up."

blasts at Pakistan have escalated. First came low-level complaints that the Paks were allowing Afghan rebels to use bases along the border to attack the pro-Soviet government in Kabul. Now there is a full-fledged charge of cross-border raids by "imperialist" agents in Pakistan trained by the CIA.

Begun by vagrant radio broadcasts this noxious accusation is now cloaked in the authority of Pravda and Izvestia, reflecting highest Soviet policy. The Kremlin, therefore, could be building a case for cross-border action into Pakistan.

To President Zia's government, this verbal escalation stems partly from the West's — especially Washington's — failure to react with specific deeds to the Soviet takeover of Afghanistan.

U.S. delay breeds more delay. Robert F. Goheen, the U.S. ambassador in India, has rushed home to counsel caution in helping Pakistan; to do so will cause terrible trouble with India, already in Moscow's embrace. With good cause, Pakistan credits India with immense influence in the Carter administration.

If Jimmy Carter had no three-year record open to inspection, Pakistan and other weak states within reach of the lengthening Soviet grasp might believe he means business. Why else would the president agree with ABC interviewer Frank Reynolds that Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev is a liar?

Carter's record suggests something different. During a spasm of anger last fall when a Soviet combat brigade was discovered in Cuba, Carter told congressional leaders he could not accept the Soviet explanation. "They're lying," he said. Six days earlier, he had used similar language inside the White House, claiming "they lied to us" in denying the existence of the brigade.

That tough talk was followed by quiet acceptance of the brigade. President Zia and leaders of other weak countries menaced by Moscow took note.

strict cash-and-carry policy. Now do you want a quart of oil or don't you?"

Bamgambi handed Ahmad his last $10 in gold. "What choice do I have?"

"Here is your oil. If you come back tomorrow bring $12 in gold."

"You're raising the price tomorrow?"

"We have to eat, too."

Bamgambi picked up his quart of oil and started to walk away from the stall.

Ahmad said, "Are you coming to the meeting tonight?"

"What meeting?" Bamgambi asked.

"We're having a rally to protest the exploitation of the Third World people by the racist, money-grubbing industrial merchants who are holding all of us in economic bondage. Your support means a lot to us."

After Carter's virtuoso performance obtained an IsraeliEgyptian peace agreement, he repeatedly informed the world that Israel had agreed to create no new settlements on the West Bank. Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin said the president was wrong. New settlements have continued ever since.

More recently, the Washington Post disclosed the Carter administration tried to bluff Chile into extraditing three intelligence officers wanted here for trial in a political assassination. The bluff failed. A high-ranking U.S. diplomat in Santiago was quoted by the Post: "They called our bluff and we lost."

It is no surprise, then, that Pakistan wants not only strong talk from Washington but the supply of arms against the Soviet advance.

OPPORTUNITY VS. INCONVENIENCE

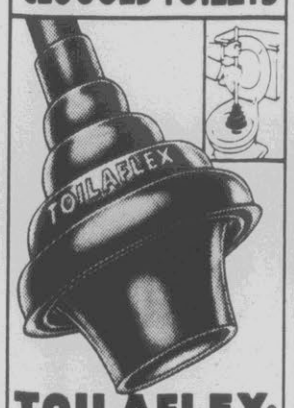

Once you list your home with a REALTOR, it's up to him or her find a buyer fast. Normally, the REALTOR will arrange appointments to view the home which are convenient to all parties. That's always nice.

Sometimes, however, prospects are on tight schedules, requiring your REALTOR to make last-minute appointments. Don't get annoyed. I'd like to have a dollar for every sale consummated on a last-minute appointment. Believe me, these are the best ones. Why?

Often, prospects who are transferring into your area are on short househunting visits. They don't have the luxury of time on their side. And they want and need a house now - not in a year. The busy prospect is also more apt to make an immediate purchase than one who has all the time in the world. So, if you really want to sell your house in a hurry, treat the last-minute appointment as an opportunity - not an inconvenience.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at BLOUNT & BALL REALTY CO. 201 E. Arlington Blvd., Greenville, Phone: 75o-3000. We're here to help!

Poultry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady. Supply adequate. Demand good. Weights desirable to heavy. The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 47.03 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,668,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Opening prices were steady on the stock exchange today, as investors seemed uncertain about how to react to the latest developments in foreign relations.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks fell .26 of a point to 828.58 as stocks listed in the New York Stock Exchange were nearly equally divided among gainers, losers and unchanged listings.

Analysts said investors were pondering President Carter's reponse to the Soviet Army's intervention in Afghanistan. The president cut back on grain exports to the Soviet Union, and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission closed the markets in grain futures today and Tuesday to head off massive selling expected in those markets.

The cut in grain exports could harm the farming industry and shippers, as well have repercussions throughout the economy, dragging it into a deeper recession, analysts said.

Carter also banned exports of high technology to the Soviets, which could affect several industrial firms that do business with Russia.

Active issues in early trading included Chrysler — whose federal aid package was to be signed today — up 1/8 at 7 1/2. Litton Industries gained 5/8 to 45 1/2; Textron rose 3/8 to 28 1/4, and U.S. Steel gained 1/4 to 18 1/4. All three could benefit from a U.S. arms buildup in reponse to the Soviet military moves and the shelving of the SALT II treaty.

On Friday, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 8.53 to 828.84.

Advances outnumbered declines by almost a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume totaled 39.13 million shares, against 50.48 million on Thursday, which was the 10th busiest trading day on the NYSE.

The NYSE's composite index rose .83 to 61.17.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 3.89 to 243.55.

Six Died In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press

The North Carolina Highway Patrol said Sunday at least six persons were killed in traffic accidents on the state's streets and highways during the first weekend of the new year.

The deaths raised the toll for 1980 to 17, compared to 21 during the same time last year.

The patrol said Jeffrey Preston Tart, 25, of Dunn died after an accident near Newton Grove Saturday afternoon. Authorities report the car in which Tart was riding ran off the road and struck a tree.

In Wake County Mack Arthur Fowler, 30, of Wake Forest was killed Saturday night while walking along a rural road near Rolesville.

Phillip Dane Wood, 31, of Creedmoor died Saturday night after an accident near that Granville County town. The patrol said the car in which he was riding ran off the road and struck a tree.

In an accident in Columbus County near Bolton, Zanny Graham, 27, was killed Saturday evening. The patrol said the vehicle in which Graham was riding ran off the road and overturned several times.

In separate accidents Friday, Patricia Milligan, 33, of Shallotte was killed while trying to get in the cab of a truck that was rolling away. Herbert Abram Brower, 72, of Siler City, died earlier the same day after a head-on collision in Randolph County.

Trial Is Set For Trooper

LILLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The trial of a state highway patrolman accused of murdering his wife on Oct. 18 was scheduled to begin today in Harnett County Superior Court, but the proceedings were also faced with the possibility of a delay.

An attorney for Patrolman Hollis Howard Britt has said prosecuting attorneys have not provided him with access to documentary evidence as required by state law.

District Attorney John W. Twisdale was not available for comment prior to the start of the trial.

Knox Jenkins, Britt's attorney, said he would ask the court today to order the evidence produced. If granted, the motion could delay the trial's beginning.

Britt, an eight-year veteran of the patrol, is charged with second-degree murder in the shooting death of his wife, Marian Stewart Britt. Mrs. Britt was found dead in her home by authorities shortly after midnight after Britt had called the sheriff's office to summon an ambulance.

If convicted, Britt faces imprisonment for not less than two years or more than life. A life sentence would make him eligible for parole in 20 years.

Britt has said his wife's death was accidental.

Sorority Sets Future Plans

The Greenville Alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority met Saturday at the home of Soror Lil Powell.

Annette Lloyd was co-hostess.

It was decided that a car pool of sorors will leave from Pitt Plaza Saturday, Jan. 12, at 9:30 a. m. for attendance at the annual Founders' Day of the sorority in New Bern.

Registration for Competency Test enrollers will be held Saturday, Jan. 26. at St. Gabriel Church from 3 to 5 p. m.

A schedule of events for the 1980 Miss College Bound Contest was presented by Soror Rebecca Norcott.

The next meeting will be held Saturday, Feb. 2, with Sorors Joan Eaton, Jean Mills and Naomi Moore as hostesses.

Guns Stolen From Store

FARMVILLE — A number of guns and some cash were stolen from the Western Auto Store here, apparently during daylight hours, Sunday morning.

Farmville Police Chief Ron Cooper said the Western Auto Store door was last checked at 7 a. m. and the break-in was reported at 10:22 a. m.

Entry apparently was gained by breaking in the glass of the front door, he said. Taken was one Remington semi-automatic shotgun valued at $69.95; two breach-load 12-guage shotguns valued at $84.95 each; three bb and pellet rifles valued at $44.99 altogether; four cross repeater pistols valued at $44.99 altogether; two boxes of 22 long-shot shotgun shells at $3.25 each; and $30 from the cash register.

Investigation is underway, Chief Cooper said, with Officer Kenneth Godwin in charge.

Sees More Changes In Savings & Loan Industry

W. D. Lee, Jr., chairman of the board of the N. C. Savings and Loan League, sees more changes in the savings and loan industry during the next ten years than in all its previous history.

He anticipates mergers of savings and loan institutions during the 1980s and the crossing of state lines by these institutions.

Lee also expects increases in passbook rates and increases in FSLIC insurance ceilings. It can also be anticipated that the era of the fixed rate mortgages will end and borrowers will see such options as variable rate mortgages, roll-over mortgages, pledged account mortgages and reverse annuity mortgages.

The chairman, who held a press conference at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, does expect the prime rate to drop below ten percent during the year, with an increase in availability of mortgage funds by the second half of the year. Mortgage interest rates may drop but they will never again be as they were in the '70s."

Lee said he didn't see an evaporation of home equity in North Carolina. "We have had no major slow-down in housing demand in North Carolina and no glutted markets with an abundance of unsold houses," he said.

"We think housing demand will continue to be strong and we see nothing but continued growth in the equity established through home ownership."

"In summation, it would appear that we have reached the crest in interest rates. Inflation problems in this country will most definitely be tied to OPEC price decisions. Don't look for rates to dramatically decline on anything. We feel that 1980 will be a year likened to a distance runner, slowing down his pace just long enough to catch his second win. Then the rest of the race . . . the rest of the decade . . . holds promise of record breaking achievement."

The Un-Touchdown

The ball hangs on the fingertips of Houston's Mike Renfro (right photo) with the Steelers' Ron Johnson (29) defending on the play in the end zone. In the left photo, Renfro is trying to get both feet down in bounds for the touchdown. Officials ruled that Renfro did not have possession of the ball as he fell out of bounds. Pittsburgh won the game, 27-12, and will meet Los Angeles in the Super Bowl. (AP Laserphoto)

Rams End Buc's Dream

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The battered Los Angeles Rams praised the Lord, passed the gauze and didn't stop until they had ended six years of frustration, leaving the Tampa Bay Buccaneers tending to their wounds at the end of a Cinderella season.

The upstart Bucs, who made it to their first National Football Conference title game with the same starting lineup that opened the season, lost all-Pro defensive end Lee Roy Selmon and linebacker Cecil Johnson to ankle injuries, quarterback Doug Williams with a torn bicep and defensive end Wally Chambers with a knee injury during a 9-0 loss to the Rams Sunday.

Severe injuries weren't enough to stop the inspired Rams.

"It's hard to conceive what we've accomplished here today," said end Jack Youngblood, who played despite a hairline fracture in his left leg.

"That's the most injuries we've had all year, but I would just say the Rams out-hit us," Bucs' Coach John Mckay said. "We tried to knock a couple of them out, but they'd limp out and limp back in."

Placekicker Frank Corral booted second-quarter field goals of 19 and 21 yards and a fourth-quarter clincher of 23 yards — despite a hamstring pull suffered in his kicking leg last week. Halfback Wendell Tyler, who gained 86 yards rushing on 28 carries, played despite twisting a knee that underwent surgery last year.

"All year, everybody's been playing injured on this team. We've got a lot of guys who are going to need operations when this is over," said linebacker Rich Saul, who climbed out of a hospital bed with a raging fever the previous week to play in the Rams' 21-19 uspet of Dallas.

The Rams, shedding themselves of a hard-luck chokers' image that dogged them through playoff losses the last six seasons, were subdued after the game.

"We've had so much frustration," Saul said. "We've had great teams who couldn't do it. Nobody thought this team had a chance, but we kept the faith in the Lord, and we feel he showed us what we should have realized before — that we couldn't do it on our own."

"The Lord wanted us to win," said wide receiver Preston Dennard. "In all those past years, he was just testing us. Today, he gave us our reward."

Youngblood sucked in breath sharply as he maneuvered through the locker room. Grimacing with pain, he said: "I think it's the type of thing where if you're strong enough you can block it out. I honestly believe the good Lord blessed me with some kind of healing power that let me play today."

"When you see Jack Youngblood making those big plays, it helps us. He just played as long and as hard as he could," defensive tackle Larry Brooks said as he watched Youngblood hobbling.

With 72,033 Buc fans chanting and roaring against them, the Rams put together offensive drive after drive, only to fall short.

Third-year quarterback Vince Ferragamo, displaying veteran poise, hit Dennard for a 35-yard gain to the Tampa Bay 4 to set up a first-and-goal late in the first quarter, but the Rams settled for Corral's 19-yard field goal.

Late in the second quarter, Ferragamo hit four straight passes to move to first down at the Bucs' 13, but again settled for a Corral field goal.

But while their offense struggled, the Rams defense bottled up the running of hard-charging Bucs' fullback Ricky Bell and kept up the pressure on Williams, who completed only two of 13 passes before leaving the game in the third quarter with his arm injury.

"We said, 'They are not going to run on us,'" said linebacker Jim Youngblood. "And you couldn't have a better exhibition of pass coverage."

"We just kept turning the screws, turning the screws, bearing down, stopping the one play at a time," said Jack Youngblood.

Early in the third quarter, an apparent 20-yard touchdown pass from Ferragamo to Dennard was wiped out by an official's ruling that Dennard was out of bounds, and Corral missed a 37-yard field goal attempt on the next play.

On the Bucs' next series, Williams was injured when tackle Mike Fanning hit him as he threw, and he joined Selmon, Chambers and Johnson on the Bucs' sideline.

McKay continued to defend Williams, who was under fire at several times during an up-and-down season.

"I don't think he was so ineffective," McKay said. "We had a couple guys who don't understand that if they blitz, you have to run a different pattern. He has to get rid of the football."

Willimas had his arm in a sling, and Chambers, Selmon and Johnson had their injured legs taped or packed in ice.

The Ram trainers were busy with Youngblood, Corral and Tyler, too.

"My operated knee was twisted during the game, but I had to hang in there because thre was no tomorrow," Tyler said.

"I figure that if I make it through two more weeks, then I'll have a whole year to nurse it along," Corral said of his hamstring injury. "I didn't want to start nursing quite yet."

"It's been a long six years," said defensive end Fred Dryer. "It's finally here."

Pastorini: Houston-Pittsburgh Battle WAS The Super Bowl

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The controversial call stands, the gutsy Houston Oilers have fallen, and maybe the Pittsburgh Steelers should just list the Super Bowl on their schedule.

"This WAS the Super Bowl as far as I'm concerned. Pittsburgh is going and they're going to win," Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini said Sunday after he had a potential touchdown pass erased by the officials and Pittsburgh won the American Football Conference title game, 27-13.

The actual Super Bowl comes Jan. 20 in Pasadena, Calif., when first-time-finalist Los Angeles meets a Pittsburgh team aiming for its fourth title in six years.

Can the Rams beat Pittsburgh? "Who knows? We haven't beaten them yet," said Terry Bradshaw, aware the Steelers are 0-3 against Los Angeles in the past decade.

Meanwhile, the question of whether Houston is the second best team in the game is a matter for debate — just like one of Pastorini's passes was until the referee settled things by way of the back judge, side judge and field judge.

"One thing for sure, the score stands," Steeler cornerback Ron Johnson said after the ruling that receiver Mike Renfro did not have control of the ball while inbounds on an apparent scoring pass.

The play came with Pittsburgh leading 17-10 in the third quarter of the title rematch between the two Central Division rivals.

"A TD would have changed the whole complexion of the game," said Renfro.

"There was clearly a lot of pressure on us at that point. They had gained the momentum," said Pittsburgh's Joe Greene.

Earlier, Bradshaw had a first-quarter pass stolen and returned 75 yards for a touchdown by safety Vernon Perry, who worked defensive magic in the Oilers' semifinal upset of San Diego.

Bradshaw countered with touchdown tosses to John Stallworth and Bennie Cunningham to give Pittsburgh a 17-10 halftime lead.

In the third quarter, Houston had first down at the Steeler six and a chance to tie.

Pastorini lofted the ball to Renfro in the corner of the end-zone. "We had you on that one," Pastorini later told Johnson.

Renfro leaped and grabbed. He had the ball as he tumbled beyond the endline. "I thought right away that he was out of bounds," said Johnson.

"I knew I was very close," said Renfro.

Line judge Donald Orr did not signal touchdown. Renfro jumped up to appeal. Orr signaled an incompletion.

After a conference among the officials, referee Jim Tunney upheld the ruling. He cited Orr's claim that Renfro was juggling the ball as he went out. Replays showed Renfro touched both feet inbounds, but they did not reveal whether he juggled the ball.

"He did not have possession," said Tunney.

The Oilers settled for a field goal, and Pittsburgh put the game away with a 10-point fourth quarter.

Bradshaw watched the Renfro play from the sideline.

"When I first saw it, I thought it was a touchdown," Bradshaw said."But I didn't care. If they scored, we were gonna score again. They had to stop us — and they didn't."

On their first drive of the fourth quarter, the Steelers moved 55 yards before Matt Bahr kicked a 39-yard field goal. After Guido Merkens fumbled on the next Oiler series, Pittsburgh went 45 yards for a touchdown that came on a 4yard run by Rocky Bleier with 54 seconds left.

The Oilers never threatened after the Renfro call.

"That was the key play right there," said Pastorini. "A touchdown there might have turned things around."

But Oiler Coach Bum Phillips didn't complain, just as he didn't here last year when Houston lost 34-5 to Pittsburgh in the same title game played in freezing rain.

"Even after I look at the films, I'm not going to blame the officials," he said. "They're human. We had 59 other minutes in the game to beat Pittsburgh and we didn't."

Pittsburgh held NFL-rushing leader Earl Campbell to 15 net yards on 17 rushes. He had just two net yards in the first half.

"I think the two best teams in the National Football League went at it today, no doubt about that," said Campbell, who sat out the previous week with a groin pull.

The Rams will have something to say about that.

"A lot of people have a tendency to say the Super Bowl was today," said Bleier. "That means there will be added pressure on the Steelers because we go in with a no-win situation. We're supposed to win."

Greene's view: "Getting there is not our goal ... if we're not successful in the Super Bowl — it was all for nothing."

Meanwhile, Greene admitted the taste of victory had been tainted by the controversial call.

"I was hoping it was a correct call, but I asked after the game and I was told ..."Greene said, his voice trailing off.

He didn't say who he asked but the inference was that he had been told the decision was in error.

"I can't take any satisfaction in that call. That's what I'm saying," said Greene. "What do we say? Do we say, 'Things like that happen.' I mean how do you explain that to the Oilers?

"Don't get me wrong. I feel damn good that we won. But I'm not in a celebrating mood yet. It'll come. I'll get happy — later."

Soviet Invasion Clouds Olympics

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Another Olympic year, and Russian tanks and troops cross a border to invade another nation.

What else is new?

It happened in 1956 in the case of Hungary while Olympic flags were fluttering in far-off Melbourne, Australia. It happened again in 1968 in Mexico City in the case of Czechoslovakia while Olympians were mouthing "international good will" in Mexico City.

This time the scene is Afghanistan, thousands of Russian soldiers fighting Afghan rebels, even as Moscow is preparing to host the 1980 Games.

The question again arises: Will there be a 1980 Olympics in Moscow?

The answer: Very likely. The stale refrain of the Olympic hierarchy never changes: "There is no place in the Olympics for politics. Let the Games go on."

Politics? Who said this is politics? It's war. It's invasion. Not that Uncle Sam or anyone else has been free of such a violation. We're still bleeding, physically and emotionally, from Vietnam.

Maybe the West German delegate to the recent NATO conference was correct when he suggested an international boycott of the Moscow Games, adding, "If countries had done

Pirates Face Oral Roberts

East Carolina's Pirates take to the road tonight to face Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Tipoff is set for 8:30 p.m. Eastern time.

The Pirates will be trying to climb back above the .500 mark after snapping a four-game losing skid with a 52-51 win over UNC-Asheville on Saturday night. For Oral Roberts, this will be the first game in nearly two weeks, following a long holiday layoff. They are 3-6 on the year.

"Despite their record, Oral Roberts has an outstanding team," Coach Dave Odom said. "They've played one of the toughest schedules in the country to date."

Odom expressed the opinion that the Pirates could win the ball-game, however. "It would be a good one for us to win. We can win it, but it will take a great effort on our part."

Oral Roberts is led by 6-7 senior forward Calvin Garrett, averaging 22.0 points per game, while senior guard Robert Griffin, 6-1, is hitting 13.1 points per game. Center Antonio Martin, a 6-8 senior, rounds out those in double figures with a 10.8 average, and is snatching away 10.4 rebounds per contest.

Following the game tonight, the Pirates will fly on to Charleston, S.C., to face Baptist College on Thursday night, then return home to Greenville for a Saturday night home game against Atlantic Christian College.

Lady Pirates Notch 11th Win

BLACKSBURG, VA. — Forward Kathy Riley fired in a game-high 25 points and guard Lydia Rountree added 16 as East Carolina's Lady Pirates downed Virginia Tech, 75-58, Sunday at Cassell Coliseum.

Point-guard Laurie Sikes pioneered the ECU fast break which allowed the Pirates to take a 43-20 halftime advantage. Riley, who had 15 at the half, was the recipient of repeated full-court tosses from Sikes.

The Gobblers' only lead came less than three minutes into the game as forward Sis Springs connected for a 4-3 lead.

After a dismal first half showing, Tech returned to the court to challenge the fiesty Pirates for control with guard Kathy Hanover providing outside shooting and 6'3" Julie Williams sustaining inside with 18 points and 16 rebounds.

East Carolina struggled on offense, but received help off the bench in the person of Mary Denkler who quickly notched eight points. Steady forward Rosie Thompson swished 11 while grabbing 13 rebounds.

"I think by far this is the best game we've played in a long time," ECU coach Cathy Andruzzi said, "especially the first half.

"We've missed a total balanced offense lately. I think even though Riley had 25 we had that balance today," she said.

"We ran a lot of variations on our zone defense — you're going to win games on defense. They made a tremendous comeback but our girls hung on and showed what we can do."

East Carolina, now 11-3, remains idle until they travel to South Carolina January 11 to participate in the Clemson Invitational. Virginia Tech slides to 4-6 with the loss.

East Carolina—Riley 10 5-10 25; Thompson 4 3-6 11; Girven 2 0-0 4; Sikes 3 3-6 9; Rountree 8 0-2 16; Denkler 4 0-0 8; Hooks 1 0-0 2; Owen 0 0-0 0; Moody 0 0-0 0; Totals 32 11-24 75.

Tar Heels Can't Find The Magic As They Drop 2

By NAOMI KAUFMAN
Associated Press Writer

Dean Smith is a model of restraint. The trait is serving him well these days, as North Carolina can't seem to find its magic.

Saturday night, the sixth-ranked Tar Heels dropped their second Atlantic Coast Conference game in a row, losing to No. 12 Virginia, 88-82.

The Heels lost in a most humiliating game at Clemson, 93-76, earlier in the week.

True, the team is tired. It went to London over New Year's and lost one of three games there. Then came the loss to Clemson after a tiring cross-Atlantic plane trip.

On Saturday, the Tar Heels found themselves wending their way to Charlottesville by bus, a six-hour trip, after snow cancelled their plane flight.

They found a red-hot Virginia team, probably playing its finest game of the year. The Cavaliers shot a blistering 38-59 from the field and 12-19 from the line. Jeff Lamp finally found his shot, scoring a game-high 25 points. And 7-4 Ralph Sampson, looming in the lanes on defense and shooting the lights out on offense, ended with 21 points.

Smith's boys found themselves down by 18, 70-52, with 12:40 remaining. But true to form, they fought back, cutting the gap to four twice within the last four minutes.

It wasn't enough. The Cavs connected on six of nine free throws down the stretch to ice the game.

Smith took the loss fairly calmly. "If we play that well, we'll beat a lot of teams this year. We're certainly not out of the race, I don't think," he said.

"I think we played very well with one exception. Coming from behind, I though we rushed our shots a little bit."

Said the Cavaliers Terry Holland, "I thought we controlled the basketball game. I was pleased from that standpoint."

The Cavaliers increased their record to 11-1 overall and 3-0 in the ACC. North Carolina, fell to 5-3 overall and 0-2 in the league. Dave Colescott was the leading scorer for the Tar Heels with 20, and Al Wood added 18.

In other games Saturday, No. 1 Duke took a 73-44 ride over Colgate, Clemson had a 56-48 win over Georgia Tech, North Carolina State breezed by Towson State, 95-63 and Maryland clinched an 84-76 decision over Wake Forest.

For Wake Forest's Carl Tacy, the loss was a disappointing one. The Deacons blew a 10-point lead and folded in the last six minutes. "I thought we were in very good shape ... but the momentum changed, and we were never able to get it back," he said.

The win gave Maryland coach Lefty Driesell reason to crow. "I thought we played a great game. I told you all along we would be a ball team," he said.

Ernest Graham scored 26 for the Terps, and Alvis Rogers led the Deacons with 22. Maryland bettered its record to 10-1 and 3-0, while Wake Forest dropped to 6-5 and 0-2.

Colgate tried to use a collapsing zone on Duke and managed to hold Mike Gminski to 16 points, well below his 23-plus point season average.

But that left Gene Banks free, and the junior forward finished with 21 points, seven rebounds and six steals. Gminski had 12 rebounds against the Red Raiders, whose tallest player is 6-6.

Duke, 11-0, led by as much as 35 points before Coach Bill Foster showed mercy and put in his bench for the remainder of the game. All but two players in the lineup scored. Duke also forced 30 Red Raider turnovers.

Kenny Dennard sat out the game with an injured hip. He is expected to resume play this week.

Clemson upped its record to 10-1 overall and 2-0 in the league with its win over Georgia Tech, now 3-7 and 0-5.

"The big difference was we missed free throws at crucial times," said Georgia Tech coach Dwane Morrison. At one point in the second half, the Yellow Jackets had a five-point lead.

"It took us all of the first half and part of the second half to realize we had a dogfight on our hands," said Clemson coach Bill Foster.

Guard Billy Williams scored 17 points to lead the Tiger roster, while Brook Steppe had 21 for Georgia Tech.

Seven Wolfpack scorers scored in double figures in N.C. State's romp over Towson State. Hawkeye Whitney had 17.

"The players were tired, but we finally got it going in the second half. I saw a lot of improvement out there," said N.C. State's Norm Sloan.

The Pack dominated the boards, 42-27, and shot 58 percent from the floor. The win brought their record to 9-1.

In games tonight, North Carolina is at Mercer, Duke faces its first league challenge as Georgia Tech visits and Delaware visits Virginia.

Baseball Players, Owners Locked In Cold War Battle

BOSTON (AP) — Spring training is only eight weeks away, but major league owners and the Players Association are locked in a cold war over a new basic agreement.

A memo outlining initial demands by the owners and the players, and made available to The Associated Press, indicates the two sides are about as far apart as the United States and Russia.

Imagine a player such as Claudell Washington earning the same pay as sluggers Jim Rice and Fred Lynn for their first five years in the major leagues?

That's one of the owners' proposals.

Imagine players with the right to demand to be traded after just three years with a club?

That's one of the players' demands.

Initial demands in labor negotiations often are exaggerated, but some by both club owners and the players this time around appear preposterous.

The owners have built a war chest, reportedly about $1.5 million. And the association, led by hard-nosed negotiator Marvin Miller, is showing no fear, determined to add to the many concessions obtained at the bargaining table in the 1970s.

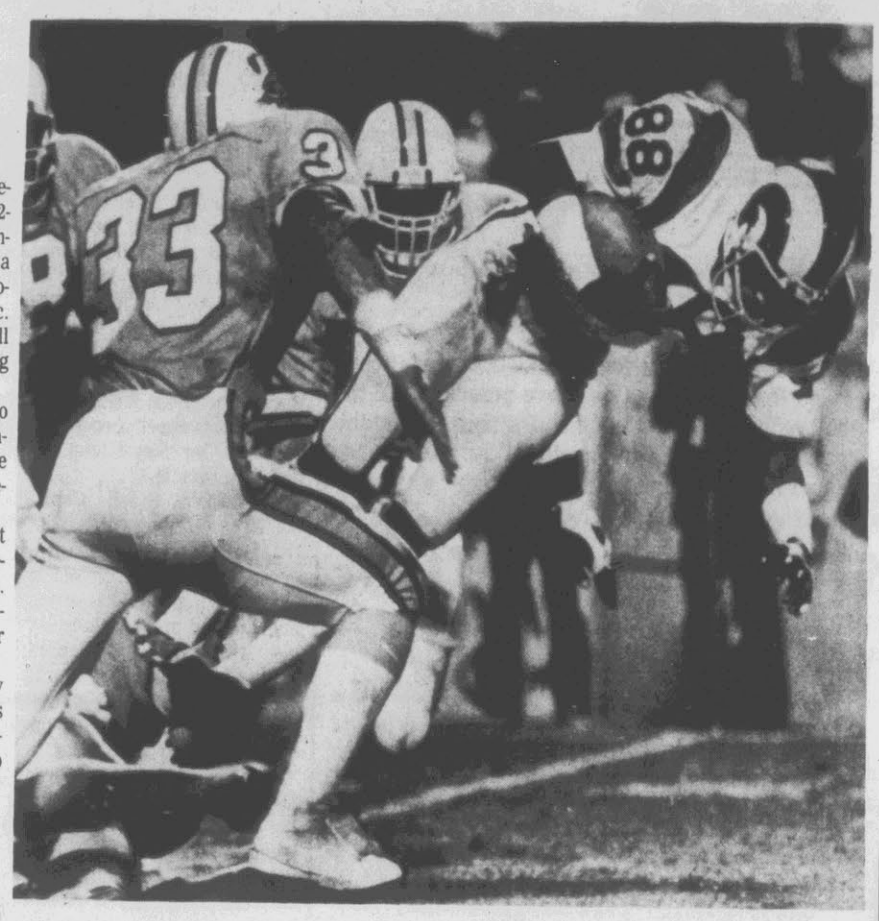

No one in baseball wants to talk about a strike, such as in 1972, or a lockout, but more than a few club executives are worried about a possible shutdown of spring training camps unless progress is made in negotiations.

Miller told The AP in a telephone interview that the 12-page memo he sent to the union's members, generally is a report on a meeting of the association's executive board Dec. 4-5 in New York while baseball held its annual winter meeting in Toronto.

"The minutes were mailed to about 1,000 association members, so they hardly can be considered confidential or secret," Miller said.

Miller said he didn't think it "appropriate" for him to release a copy of the memo. However, The AP gained access to a copy through another source.

Most of the memo, mailed by Miller's office Dec. 14, consists of a report on various discussions by individual club player representatives.

it in 1936 in Berlin we might have been spared World War II."

At that time, the Nazi madman, Adolf Hitler, had whipped the German people into a fanatical frenzy. His blackshirted disciples and goose-stepping legions were on the march. He already had begun his personal vendetta against German Jews, offending the sensitivity of the world.

Least of Hitler's offenses were his bleats about the superiority of the Aryan race and his official actions against Jewish athletes — throwing them by the thousands out of the German sporting clubs and depriving them of the chance to compete on the German team.

At a meeting of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union on Nov. 21, 1933, the delegates voted to boycott the Games unless Germany changed its attitude toward Jewish athletes. Avery Brundage, then president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, concurred.

Later Brundage made a trip to Germany. He was dazzled by German order, prosperity and hospitality. He returned with the announced conviction that Germany was observing the letter and spirit of the Games. He gave his okay.

Controversy in America continued on the subject, however. The president of the AAU, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, a Catholic deeply troubled by the paganism of the Nazis, formed the Committee on Fair Play in Sports to protest Nazi atrocities.

The Maccabi World Union joined the boycott fight. There was a move in America to withdraw all black athletes. But the campaign died. Judge Mahoney resigned. Brundage took over the AAU and fired all delegates who were "Anti-Olympics."

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 1-7

HRDQLSRA RWBSTGLHH RLWQLH RWBSTGA HDTTLS

Saturday's Cryptoquip — INDUSTRIOUS INDUSTRIALIST CHASTENS HIS INDOLENT DIRECTORS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 8, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to think of ways to please your associates more. Make arrangements now for future contacts and trend relationships, especially important ones, in such directions. You can make your surroundings more artistic, charming as well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget self for now and be more thoughtful of the needs of others, especially close ties. Get rid of any grudges you may have against others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to handle chores more efficiently and gain greater benefits from them. Come to a finer understanding with partners, co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Making plans for more pleasure in the future can be good for you, lighten your spirits. Think constructively, though you are under pressure, and then you win out.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to express a wish at home and get good response, results. Get into a new enterprise that looks promising.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Have the talks with partners that can bring more success, understanding in the future. Visit with others and get good ideas that are helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take advantage of every opportunity to improve your financial status. Get together with one who can give you good money advice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Give as much personal attention to your affairs as you can and get good results. Don't let anyone lead you around by the nose.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to be more thoughtful of allies and less of yourself for best results with them. A good time for solving problems.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to get the confidential information you need from good friends. Avoid one who is jealous of you and could do you harm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study just where you are going in regular activities and get support from bigwigs. Get that chip off your shoulder and be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into promising enterprises and cooperate with contacts made. Make arrangements now for a trip you want to take later on.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study every phase of your operations and make an over-all plan that brings greater efficiency, profit. Go along with plans of loved ones.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will literally have the uncanny ability of reading people's minds and can go far in life if it is used properly. One who will marry later in life and pick out the ideal mate.

FONDA FITNESS FOR ERA— Actress Jane Fonda does a stretching exercise to music during a reception to benefit the Equal Rights Amendment Sunday at her fitness studio in Beverly Hills. Celebrities including Ali McGraw, Kate Jackson and others were at the affair which included champaign and brunch. All attending were asked to cough up $100 donations to the ERA coffers of the National Organization for Women and the National Women's Political Caucus. (AP Laserphoto)

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
1980 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠9852 ♡7 ◇A854 ♣KJ62
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Dble.

What action do you take?

A.—East's raise to three hearts has actually made life easier for you. You have an excellent supporting hand opposite what should be quite a good hand, since partner forced you to bid at the two-level; had East passed, you might have been forced to jump to three spades on a very ragged suit. Now you can freely bid three spades to show a reasonable hand without overstating the quality of your trump suit.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠8 ♡J10 ◇AQJ852 ♣AJ94
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—In the light of partner's jump shift response, your hand offers good play for slam. Partner surely has a good six-card heart suit, so you should tell him you have some support by bidding five hearts. Partner won't expect more from you than you have—after all, you took two other bids before supporting his suit.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♡K93 ◇A109752 ♣AKJ4
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
4 ♣	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—This is a very tempting hand, but analysis will show that any action is fraught with danger. If partner's spades are solid, he cannot have the ace of hearts—remember, four spades is a preempt—so you could be off several fast heart tricks. And the fact that you are void in spades is a warning that partner might suffer an unexpected trump loser. Pass.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A1094 ◇K83 ♣J97642
Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—Right now you have no idea about the potential of this hand. You could easily make a slam, or there might be no game. It's even possible that the opponents could be cold for a slam in a red suit! The way to avoid making a painful decision is to temporize with one spade. Partner's rebid should help you decide what to do next.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q1073 ♡AKJ4 ◇K ♣KQ102
Partner opens the bidding with one diamond. What do you respond?

A.—You have a big hand—more than enough for a jump shift in terms of high cards. Unfortunately, your partial misfit makes it awkward for you to jump shift. For example, if you choose two hearts, you could easily miss a superior contract in a black suit. Therefore, we would respond with a simple one heart bid, saving the big "push" until partner has had the opportunity to make a rebid that will clarify his holdings.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A106 ♡95 ◇AKJ873 ♣63
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ◇	1 ♠
2 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—There is no question about proceeding to game, but which game? There is a temptation to bid three no trump in the hope that partner has the hearts stopped, but that is not necessarily the case. A cue-bid of two spades is a possibility, but partner might misinterpret that as asking for a stopper. Probably the most flexible rebid is a jump to three diamonds. If partner shows a heart stopper, you can now bid three no trump. And if he raises diamonds, you might even think in terms of a slam.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable with 90 on score, as South you hold:
♠A ♡AK83 ◇984 ♣107642
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with three clubs. What action do you take?

A.—There is nothing you can do. Certainly, it looks as if your chances of beating three clubs are excellent, and if you could double for penalties, we would choose that action. But a double would be for takeout and partner will almost certainly bid spades, leaving you in a spot. Pass, and wait to see what partner does. At this score he will stretch to do something.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ43 ♡93 ◇8752 ♣Q103
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	Dble.	2 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—Well, well—another humorist. At this vulnerability, partner almost surely guarantees a spade suit for his takeout double, so East must be taking advantage of the vulnerability to stir up a little dust. Don't let him get away with it. Double, to tell partner you have some values and spades. That will leave him well placed when the opponents try to wriggle out.

Actor Turns Director, And Has Carte Blanche

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a standard Hollywood story: Patrick O'Neal, actor, wanted to be Patrick O'Neal, director. Actors are always talking about becoming directors, alluding to "control" and "autonomy" and such.

It's expected of them, like aspirations to singing are expected of talk show hosts. Few, for better or worse, get the chance to fulfill the wish.

What happened to O'Neal and his fervent fantasy isn't standard; actually, it's rather strange. In less than two years, O'Neal went from an actor wanting to direct to a director with carte blanche. He can do what he wants, when he wants, where he wants with his movies, no questions asked.

And an insurance company picks up the tab. Yes, strange. It happened this way:

The Liberty Mutual Insurance Company decided a few years ago to try a few full-sponsorship television projects, buying into the production of a TV movie and filling the commercial time with understated "corporate messages," after the fashion of Mobil and Exxon.

Instead of going to ABC, NBC or CBS, where the network would have last word on content and scheduling, Liberty constructed its own network, selling its special TV projects to 100 independent stations covering the top 50 markets in the country.

The producers of Liberty's first TV movie, "Calloway's Climb," asked O'Neal to play the lead role. O'Neal said he would if they'd let him direct the next one. The deal was set, and O'Neal made his professional directorial debut in Liberty's "Oberndorf Revisited," a lovely dramatic hour that was a critical and ratings success.

"Oberndorf" led to "True Position," an original drama that airs over the Liberty network beginning tonight. "True Position" is an unusual story, based on fact, about a sailor who disappears in a round-the-world race. Broderick Crawford, Frank Converse and Lois Arena soar.

After "True Position," O'Neal went to work on another Liberty special, based on W. Somerset Maugham's South Pacific short story, "Vessel of Wrath." O'Neal just completed work on that project, and will start filming yet another Liberty special next March.

"I'm like a kid who's been given a wonderful toy," O'Neal says, "I've got this grand relationship with a sponsor who says, in effect, 'Go out and do what you want to do.'

"I'm just a beginner and I've got what the big boys don't even get — total autonomy. I take it from choosing the material right through to the audio mix."

O'Neal says that Liberty didn't even look at "True Position" until after the final edit, a rare freedom for a TV director.

"My agent told me he had a movie of the week job for me and I said, 'Thanks, but no thanks.' I've been so totally spoiled by it."

Kenyan Police Believe Naturalist Murdered

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The Kenyan police announced today they believe Joy Adamson, the conservationist-author of "Born Free," was murdered and are questioning three persons about her death last week.

Commissioner of Police Ben Gethi said in a statement that the death of Mrs. Adamsom is being treated as a murder case following new information on the circumstances surrounding the death. He gave no details.

The 69-year-old Austrian naturalist, a longtime resident of Kenya, was killed Thursday night in the Shaba Game Reserve about 175 miles north of Nairobi. She was taking a walk outside her tent camp, where she was conducting experiments on leopard behavior.

First reports from police and her co-workers indicated she was mauled and killed by a lion. But the Sunday Standard newspaper reported the police reopened their investigation after receiving reports that there was little blood at the site where Mrs. Adamson was reported killed, that there were no claw marks on her body and that her car had been stolen.

President Daniel Arap Moi ordered a full investigation into the death, and police officials returned to the isolated camp Saturday.

The body was brought to Nairobi, and a post-mortem examination was made on Saturday. The results were to be made public later today.

Mrs. Adamson and her husband George, a retired game warden, were best known for their work in the rehabilitation of wild animals by taking a tame female, gradually returning it to the wild, breeding it to produce a litter and observing the animal's relations with them and with wild animals.

The best known of their subjects was the first one, the lioness Elsa, who was the heroine of Mrs. Adamson's international best-seller "Born Free." She wrote many other books about her work, and all income from them, motion pictures made from them and the song "Born Free" went to the Elsa Wild Animal Fund, which financed conservation and education-in-conservation projects.

Iran

The 25-year reign of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi ended on Jan. 15. He was succeeded by the moderate, Western-educated Shapour Bakhtiar.

But the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini returned from Paris after 15 years in exile and proclaimed the creation of an Islamic republic on Feb. 1. The Bakhtiar government evaporated.

Ten days after, the shah entered the United States for cancer treatments, the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was seized. At year's end, the embassy and 50 hostages were still being held. The shah, refused a visa from Mexico, settled in Panama.

2. Three Mile Island

On March 28, the worst accident ever at a civilian nuclear power plant occurred when a series of mechanical failures and human errors resulted in a loss of cooling water and overheating of the reactor core at the Three Mile Island plant, located on an island in the Delaware River south of Harrisburg, Pa.

Nobody was seriously injured, but the accident led to a re-evaluation of the move toward nuclear power.

3. The Energy Crisis

In late April, gas stations in California began running short of fuel. Long lines appeared for the first time since the 1973 Arab oil embargo and within a month had spread to many other states. The price of gasoline broke the $1-a-gallon barrier.

But by midsummer, the lines had disappeared and the energy crunch again seemed like history, not reality.

4. The Economy, Inflation

Even with the Carter administration's 7.5 percent wage and price increase guidelines, everything was going up. Oil prices spearheaded the increase. Chopped meat averaged about $1.40 a pound a year ago, but went up to $2.

The dollar continued its decline, down 5 percent for the year against the German mark and declining also against the Japanese yen, the Swiss franc and the British pound.

5. The DC-10

On May 25, as an American Airlines wide-bodied DC-10 bound for Los Angeles lifted off from Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The engine on its left wing fell off. A total of 273 people died, making it the worst airplane crash in the United States.

On June 6, the FAA ordered all DC-10s grounded. The order, which applied to any plane flying to the United States, kept more than 200 planes out of service for six weeks as the summer tourist rush was starting and raised questions about aircraft licensing procedures.

6. Mideast Treaty

On March 26, Egypt and Israel signed a peace treaty worked out at Camp David in November 1978. Despite loud denunciations by the more militant Arab states, the treaty was holding at year's end. But Palestinians were still dissatisfied with provisions for a separate Palestinian state, militant Arabs were unhappy with Egypt in general and some Israelis were still anxious to resettle on the West Bank of the Jordan River.

7. The Pope's Visit

Pope John Paul II, first nonItalian pontiff in 400 years, set out from the Vatican in late September for Ireland and the United States. The Polish prelate visited Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Des Moines and Washington. Millions saw him and millions cheered, although some questioned his stands on some church issues, including his refusal to consider women for the priesthood.

8. Cambodian Refugees

For Cambodians, 1979 was the most turbulent year in a decade of turbulence. Vietnam invaded Cambodia and ousted the Pol Pot regime. The Vietnamese confirmed stories of resettlement and torture that had trickled out during the four years following Pol Pot's defeat of the U.S.-backed Lon Nol government.

When the refugees began straggling out of the Cambodian jungle to Thailand with stories of disease, famine and pestilence that had reduced a once-prosperous nation of 7 million people to perhaps 4 million.

9. SALT

After nearly seven years of negotiations, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed in May to SALT II, a new treaty aimed at regulating the strategic arms race. But by year's end, with the dispatch of Soviet troops to Afghanistan, the treaty was in abeyance on the floor of the Senate, which had to ratify it by a two-thirds majority.

10. Kennedy

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, as inheritor of his family's political heritage, entered the Democratic presidential race in November on a wave up popular support. But soon after his announcement, his standing in polls dropped, the result of a variety of circumstances ranging from the 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick to his criticism of President Carter's handling of the situation in Iran.

QUALIFIES FOR FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission has certified that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's presidential campaign qualifies for matching government funds.

Nuclear Power Costs Boosted

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Customers of Duke Power Co. and the Carolina Power & Light Co. in North Carolina and South Carolina paid an additional $45 million in power bills last year due to safety modifications resulting from the Three Mile Island nuclear accident in Pennsylvania.

The utilities were forced to use more expensive fuels, such as coal, oil and natural gas, when their nuclear reactors were shut down to make the required modifications. These costs were passed on to the customers.

Duke and CP&L spokesmen said the actual costs have not been estimated, but, using average fuel costs, the operations average out to $27 for each Duke customer and $18 for each of CP&L's customers.

Those figures do not include costs of additional equipment or labor resulting from the changes. For example, Duke spent $8.5 million at its Oconee plant near Seneca, S.C., mostly for backup water pumps.

Duke customers will pay for the pumps and other work at the plant over the next 25 years.

State regulatory agencies can require stockholders, rather than customers, to pay for such expenses if it is determined they are needed because of mistakes by management. A spokesman for the North Carolina Utilities Commission said, however, that the utilities were not responsible for the shutdowns and therefore the expenses could be passed on to consumers.

Heads Police In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — William J. Green, who takes office today as mayor of Philadelphia, has chosen Morton Solomon, a 29-year police veteran, as the city's new police commissioner.

Green appointed Solomon, 55, to the post Sunday. Solomon replaces Joseph O'Neill.

Solomon, who joined the department in 1950, was appointed deputy commissioner in 1966. He oversaw investigative and training forces and later was reassigned to command the uniformed police.

REMEMBER JANUARY 31st IS THE LAST DAY FOR LISTING TAXES. PENALTY OF 10% ADDED TO ALL LATE LISTINGS.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF PROPERTY IN PITT COUNTY

The listing of property for tax purposes in Pitt County will begin January 2, 1980, and will continue through January 31, 1980.

Any person, firm, corporation or organization owning property in this county as of January 1, 1980, whether real or personal, must list such property within the listing period or be subject to the penalties prescribed by North Carolina Law. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

Persons who requested to list by mail should receive their listing forms early in January. These forms must be completed and returned to the office of the Tax Supervisor before the deadline of January 31, 1980.

Bring your social security number and your motor vehicle registration cards with you when you come to list.

Application for the Age and Disability Exemption should be made at the time of listing, but no later than April 15th. This application is required to be made every year.

Owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space for three or more house trailers or mobile homes are required by law to furnish the Tax Supervisor of the county in which the lot is located, the name of the owner and a description of each trailer or mobile home situated thereon. This list must be submitted by January 15th of each year. Owners and operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of tax in addition to a penalty of $250.

Persons having custody of taxable tangible personal property belonging to another firm or individual that is held for storage, sale, rent or any other business purpose shall furnish the Tax Supervisor a report of such property by January 15th or will be liable for the tax on the property plus a penalty of $250.

FOR A COMPLETE LIST OF LOCATIONS AND DATES FOR LISTING TAXES IN JANUARY, SEE OTHER AD IN THIS PAPER.
