Unemployment Edged Up Slightly In December

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged up slightly in December to 5.9 percent, as a still-strong economy continued to produce job opportunities for American workers, the government reported today.

Last month's rate, up from November's 5.8 percent figure, stayed within the range of 5.7 percent to 5.9 percent unemployment that has prevailed since August 1978, the Labor Department said.

At the same time, the number of persons with jobs rose by 300,000 in December to 97.9 million. Over the course of 1979, some 2.1 million new jobs were created, the report said.

The strength of the job market has surprised Carter administration officials, who had expected a slowing economy to boost unemployment to 6.6 percent by the end of last year.

"I think the administration, like everyone else, has been paying a lot of attention to what the economic model builders have been saying about the possibility of a recession," said Jack Bregger, chief of the Labor Department's employment analysis division. "Clearly, the economy hasn't taken a nose-dive, at least as yet."

Bregger added that the figures for December are amazingly strong, particularly on the employment side" but said that recent layoffs in the automobile industry could be "reflective of things in the future."

Analysts say that sluggish car sales will have resulted in the temporary or permanent layoff of some 200,000 autoworkers by next week. The figure includes employees on strike at Volkswagen operations in Pennsylvania.

Statistics in the December report incorporate revisions through 1975 that reflect new seasonal adjustment data. Bregger pointed out. The most noticeable elements were downward revisions of unemployment rates for August and October from 6 percent to 5.9 percent.

The report said that just over 6 million persons were unemployed in December, about the same number as had been jobless a year earlier.

Public Hearings Held On 10 Items By City Council

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The newly installed City Council got off to a busy start Thursday evening, conducting public hearings on ten items, including four requests for rezoning and four annexation petitions.

Approval was given, following a public hearing, to a request by Mrs. W. D. Barbre Sr. for rezoning, from Downtown Commercial Fringe to Highway Commercial, of approximately 1.95 acres located south of Dickinson Avenue, between Hooker Road and Truman Street.

Planning Director Bobby Roberson told the Council that the planning staff feels the CDF zone could be used within the downtown area and the Barbre property does not meet that aspect. Roberson said that the staff recommended the rezoning to Highway Commercial.

The Council gave its approval to a request by Harvey D. Bradshaw for rezoning, from R-15 to R-6, of some 6.6 acres in Fairlane Farms across from Cambridge Subdivision.

Roberson explained that the Bradshaw tract proposed for rezoning does about two existing R-6 zones. The planning official mentioned that initial concern regarding development of the property involved the number of curb cuts and access points on Hooker Road and Bradshaw's proposal would now lend itself to an internal street development and subsequent reduction in street cuts.

Dick Farris, a resident of Cambridge, asked if the city had considered the request in the light that it might foster more and more high density development in the area. Farris said that a lot of vehicular traffic is funneled onto Hooker Road from Arlington Boulevard. The resident also expressed concern with drainage problems in a section of the Fairlane development.

Roberson pointed out that the planning staff feels that Sedgefield Drive offers a natural dividing line between zones and the staff would not recommend any additional R-6 zoning at this time if the Bradshaw request is approved. Drainage is a major problem, he said, regardless of how the property is developed.

Hooker Road, which is now on the city street system, will have to be upgraded at some future date. Roberson contended. He said that Hooker Road now connects two major corridors and traffic density will necessitate eventual widening.

Approval was given to a major rezoning request by Marvin K. Blount Jr., involving some 150 acres on the east side of the Tar Road (Evans Street Extension) south of Grayleigh Subdivision. Blount sought rezoning of the property from RA-20 to Office and Institutional, R-6 and R-9.

City Manager Ed Wyatt mentioned that Blount plans to provide a buffer between proposed residential properties and the Office and Institutional zoning. Wyatt added that the city hoped recreational development would be part of the overall consideration.

Roberson pointed out that Evans Street will also need eventual upgrading as the street is reclassified as a major collector. Roberson said that the front section of the property on Evans would be Office and Institutional, with R-6 residential development phased in with a one-lot depth buffer, followed by R-9 zoning on the remaining rear portion of the tract.

Roberson said that the city does not have an ordinance that addresses this type of development and he pointed to the need for an ordinance dealing with planned unit development.

A request by Leroy Cherry and Associates for rezoning, from R-9 to R-6, of approximately 6.7 acres on the east side of 14th Street Extension south of Southern Railroad, gained the approval of the Council.

Roberson said that the property lends itself to R-6 development and the staff feels that R-6 offers the best development possibilities. The R-6 zoning will allow a transition to other residential development toward the rear of the Cherry property, away from the busy 14th Street corridor.

Afghans Storm Prison

PUL-I-CHARKHI, Afghanistan (AP) — More than 800 Afghans, shouting slogans against the Soviet Union and Afghanistan's Marxist regime, stormed through the main gate of a prison here today and freed at least 12 inmates from two cell blocks. Two persons were killed when authorities quelled the riot.

It was not immediately clear whether Russian or Afghan troops fired what sounded like short bursts of automatic weapons to end the uprising about 15 miles east of the capital city.

Later, an Afghan officer stood over the two bodies just outside the main gate of the prison and shook a fist in the direction of a Russian tank crew. Western reporters were led away at gunpoint.

The incident apparently stemmed from the crowd's disappointment about the number of political prisoners set free.

About 3,000 Afghans gathered outside the high-walled prison compound to receive relatives they thought were being released. But only about 125 prisoners were freed, causing an uproar in the crowd.

A teenaged boy grabbed the jacket of an Afghan officer and with tears streaming down his face, shouted: "Where's my father, my brother?"

The government-controlled media in the capital city of Kabul had issued numerous announcements in recent days declaring that all persons arrested for political offenses during the previous regime of Hafizullah Amin would be freed by today. The new government, led by Babrak Karmal, took control in a Soviet-backed coup Dec. 27.

Soviet Defended By New Afghan Regime Before UN

By JOHN BAUSMAN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP)

Japan, China and Colombia attacked the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan in the U.N. General Assembly emergency debate, while the new Afghan government installed by the Russians defended them.

The United States and the Soviet Union were scheduled to speak today.

Speaking in the first session of the debate Thursday, Japanese Ambassador Masahiro Nisibori called on the Soviet Union to withdraw its troops immediately from its Central Asian neighbor and let the people of Afghanistan "solve their internal problems by themselves."

"The present crisis bears tremendous political implications, jeopardizing international peace and security and threatening the stability of the region," said Nisibori. "The Soviet actions in Afghanistan contravene international law and justice, and we find the use of force in these actions particularly deplorable."

Chief among the "internal problems" to which he referred is a rebellion by Moslem tribesmen which broke out after the Afghan communists seized control of the government in Kabul in April 1978. Despite a change of government last September, the rebels were reported to control at least half the country, and last month the Soviet government sent thousands of its troops into Afghanistan, engineered another change of government and deployed its forces around the country to help the new government put down the rebellion.

Chinese Ambassador Chen Chu accused the Soviet Union of "flagrant and massive military aggression and intervention against Afghanistan" and charged that "Soviet social-imperialism is the most dangerous source of a new world war."

Colombian delegate Indalecio Lievano charged the Russians with an "arrogant abuse of power" that threatens other small nations with "a return to the law of the jungle in this era of nuclear weapons."

FOAM DANGEROUS?

I've been hearing that blown in foam insulation is dangerous to your health while it's curing. I'd like more information. B. H.

Hotline referred your question to the Pitt County Extension Service. Mrs. Sue May sent you and us a fact sheet printed by the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The statements in it which seem to apply are as follows:

"Urea formaldehyde foam (which is generally 'foamed' in between studs in the walls) should not be used in attics and ceilings because of its tendency to degrade under high temperature and high humidity conditions. The foam also shrinks and may cause odor problems.

Urea formaldehyde foam does not need to be treated with fire retardants. Its flammability properties are ultimately determined by the skill of the mixer, the proper amount of reactants, and the proper curing time. Formaldehyde vapors could be released into the home if urea formaldehyde is improperly installed and could reach toxic levels. Even lower levels of vapor concentrations can irritate the eyes, nose or throat."

For more complete information, one may request this same Home Insulation Safety Sheet No. 91 from the County Extension Office, 203 W. Third Street, Greenville, N. C. 27834 phone, 758-1196.

Gene Cannon, owner and operator of Four Seasons Foam Insulation Inc. here, agreed with the statements made in the consumer report.

He said urea formaldehyde foam is "probably the best" insulation material, but that the fumes given off have to be prevented or kept to a minimum "by checking and rechecking" by a skilled applicator. He said applicators should be certified users who are recertified on a regular basis. Both he and his assistant are, he indicated.

He agreed that foam should never be used in ceilings, because, he said, of the fact that formaldehyde gas is lighter than air and thus tends to settle beneath where the foam is installed.

Anyone considering having foamed-in insulation installed would be wise to call the firm being considered and ask for references — names of past customers — he indicated.

Former Labor Leader George Meany Is Dead

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigar-chomping George Meany, the indomitable leader and sharp-tongued symbol of the American labor movement since the 1950s, is dead at 85.

Death came late Thursday at George Washington University Hospital, barely two months after deteriorating health forced his retirement as the only president in the AFL-CIO's 24-year existence.

The former Bronx plumber, who became one of the nation's most influential private citizens during his 57-year labor career, had been hospitalized on Sunday for treatment of a painful buildup of fluid in his legs.

His condition worsened Thursday afternoon and he was transferred to the hospital's intensive care unit, according to Meany's spokesman, Albert Zack.

Meany's three daughters were with him when he died at 9:55 p.m. EST. Death was attributed to cardiac arrest, said Zack.

President Carter called Meany "an American institution" and "a patriot."

"He changed the shape of our nation for the better in hundreds of ways, great and small, through the force of his character and the integrity of his beliefs," said Carter, who had clashed often with Meany over economic policies.

"A giant has fallen," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said. "He leaves a legacy to all of us of a better, more decent and equitable society."

CT Scanner Provides Diagnostic Information

By DOUG HINSON
ECU Medical Writer

A fast, safe and painless procedure that provides detailed diagnostic information and reduces the need for exploratory surgery is now available at Pitt County Memorial Hospital in conjunction with the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The computed tomographic scanner, or CT Scanner, is a sophisticated device which produces cross-sectional images of the body to detect diseases, tumors, blood vessel damage and other disorders.

The CT Scanner not only produces detailed pictures of organs, but replaces many painful and risky diagnostic methods previously used, according to Dr. William Trought, ECU clinical assistant professor of radiology.

"Ordinary x-rays give us only a two-dimensional view and do not reproduce subtle variations in tissue density,"

Abby Becomes Sitting Duck

By Abigail Van Buren
1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your non-answer to the grandmother who refused to babysit for free except in cases of emergency. She asked how YOU handled the babysitting problem, and you said, "I have no sitting problems because my grandchildren live 2,000 miles away. But if they lived in the same town, I'd have to draw straws with the other grandmother because she loves to sit. Bless her." That's easy for you to say, Abby. Living 2,000 miles away, you're not likely to be called upon to babysit. Instead of making her feel guilty, you should have told NO SITTER that she had every right to refuse to be an unpaid sitter.

LET DOWN IN DENVER

DEAR LET DOWN: I plead not guilty to laying a guilt trip on NO SITTER, but judging from the hate mail I received, you weren't the only one who misunderstood me. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Nuts to you with your answer to the grandmother who told her daughter-in-law not to count on her to sit for free while Mom and Dad went off gallivanting. I raised my children, and I expect them to raise theirs. Oh, I'd help out in an emergency, but they know they can't just ring me up to come over and mind the kids, or dump them on me anytime they have a notion to.

When my children were little, my husband and I went only to places we could take the kids or we stayed home. My children were MY responsibility to raise — not my mother's. JUNE IN STRONGSVILLE, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Who are you trying to kid? You say you would love to babysit with your grandchildren but they live 2,000 miles away. Boy, are you ever safe! Somehow you just don't strike me as a babysitting kind of grandmother. With all the work you have to do writing your column and running around the country making speeches, when would you have time?

CYNICAL IN SENECA, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I'm the mother of four children under 10, and here's the way I feel about asking my mother to babysit. I think she owes it to me. Yes, that's what I said. I was the oldest of seven kids, and I missed out on plenty of fun because my mother made me stay home and take care of my little brothers and sisters. (She used to tell everybody she had a "free, built-in babysitter.") My mother was hardly ever home when I was in my teens. She didn't have to be gone, she was mostly just out having a good time. Mom has arthritis now and can't dance anymore. It's hard for her to get around, so she's available for sitting when I need her, which makes it nice for me. I really don't feel one bit guilty asking Mom to stay with my kids. I sure stayed with hers enough.

MY TURN IN MEMPHIS

DEAR ABBY: I raised my five children without any sitters because we couldn't afford them. Now that they have children of their own and can afford to hire sitters, that's what they do.

I don't want a babysitting job, with or without pay. I've tended enough babies for a lifetime and I've earned a rest. I sympathize with NO SITTER for refusing to be dumped on.

TIRED OF KIDS IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: I have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren, and if any of their parents ever offered me money to stay with them I'd be insulted. I consider it an honor and a privilege to look after the little ones. I feel complimented that their parents trust me with their most precious possessions!

HONORED IN OXNARD

DEAR ABBY: The grandmothers of today did not have it so easy when they were raising their children. I say, leave the grandmothers alone—hire a babysitter. And if they can't pay a babysitter, stay home like THEIR grandmothers did.

One of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's favorite dishes and requested by an admirer of F.D.R.

"Mash a 3-ounce package of cream cheese with a fork in a frying pan. Add 1/2 cup cream or top milk, and heat until cheese has melted and cream is bubbling. Break 6 eggs into a bowl and beat lightly with a fork. Add 1 teaspoon of salt and a few grains of pepper and mix all ingredients with the cream cheese mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly and scraping bottom of pan, using long, folding strokes. Remove from heat when the consistency is creamy and serve at once. Do not overcook. Serves 4." No Sportsmanship In Realities Of Children

Since Christmas Phillip and I have been initiated into the brutal realities of children's games.

Because of the nature of the games we had played until then, we had never really confronted our child's unsportsmanlike behavior.

Sextuplets

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Rosanna Cavigli gave birth to sextuplets today in a Florence hospital and doctors said the four boys and two girls had a good chance of surviving.

The infants were in good health and weighed between 2.2 and 4.4 pounds each at birth, the hospital announced.

Mrs. Cavigli gave birth in the 35th week of pregnancy, doctors said. It was not immediately known if she had taken fertility drugs.

No other details were available.

Durham Told Spend Funds

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Housing and Urban Development officials have warned the City of Durham to improve some of its social service programs that receive $2.3 million a year in federal aid.

A federal audit report by the department says the city has not held some social service agencies to their contracts under a city community development program. Among the agencies are the Edgemont Community Center and the Coordinating Council for Senior Citizens.

In a separate and severe letter to City Manager Dean Hunter, the area director of HUD warned that unless the program is "improved substantially, we must conclude that Durham lacks the capacity to carry (it) out."

The HUD money is aimed at saving deteriorating neighborhoods. Betsy Stafford, HUD area director in Greensboro, said Durham has spent barely half of the $12.4 million it has received since 1974.

She said Durham has the lowest spending rate of any city in North Carolina and has been designated by HUD as the state's only "poor performer."

Ms. Stafford said she recommended filling eight vacancies in the city's community development office immediately and revamping the program's planning process.

Ask Peanut Support Boost

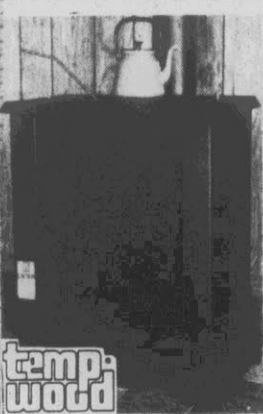

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Walter Jones said that he has urged Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland to increase peanut support prices for the 1980 crop year.

Noting that the basic support price has stayed at $420 a ton in 1977 and 1978, Jones pointed out that prices paid by growers during this time have increased 31 percent, while income to farmers has not increased at all.

The congressman asserted that if the support price had been raised to offset inflationary pressure during this period, it would now stand at $502 a ton.

Jones said that he made his recommendation in a letter to Bergland and also in telephone conversations with other high USDA officials.

WE LOVE THE TEMPWOOD

This efficient, trouble free downdraft stove is the one that heats our house.

Come see us and ask why.

TAR ROAD ANTIQUES & WOOD STOVES Winterville, N.C. 756-9123

When Meg was found during the game of hide-and-seek and commanded imperiously, "You didn't take long enough, go back and find me again," we usually acceded. And when playing a game of Old Maid, we usually took the card that she, amid sly grins and knowing looks, thrust toward us. We even reacted with appropriate dismay to the helpless giggling that always followed.

But this Christmas Meg received two games in which the parents held no advantage, and we decided that it was time she learned what the world of game-playing was all about. At first, we thought we would let her find out on her own by playing with other children. So we encouraged her and her friend Heidi to play Candy Land all by themselves.

In the game the player advances her gingerbread man to the color indicated on the card she has just drawn. If she draws a card bearing the picture of a particular piece of candy, she must move her gingerbread man to the matching picture, no matter where it is on the playing board. This continues until one player reaches "Home Sweet Home."

The game progressed without incident until Meg drew a candy cane and fell far behind her opponent. "Nyah nyeh-nyeh-nyeh nyeh," sang Heidi. "You had to go backwards and now I'm gonna beat you!"

Meg scowled ferociously until something similar happened to Heidi. "Now I'm gonna beat you, you turkey!" she crowed.

But Heidi refused to move her gingerbread man. So Meg moved it for her. Heidi moved it back.

"If you don't go back to that gumdrop, I'm not going to play with you any more!" screamed Meg.

Adult intervention became necessary when the two participants seemed ready to shove their playing pieces through the gaps in each other's teeth. They then proceeded neck-in-neck until Heidi crossed the finish line. "I won! I won!" she chortled.

Meg drew another card and moved her player across the finish line. "I won, too!"

Heidi flung the pieces across the board. "You did not. You can't do that!"

"Well, I can and I did! So there!"

By the time we had dragged the two of them to opposite corners, I had decided that I needed to sit down with Meg and provide an example of how adults play a game.

I picked Hi-Ho! Cherry-O, the object of which is to get all the cherries off the tree and into a bucket without getting spilled.

Before I could even put my finger on the spinner for my first turn, Meg began: "I hope you get spilled."

"That isn't nice, sweetheart. You have to be good sport when you play a game."

"I still hope you get spilled."

"Well then, I hope you get spilled, too," I said, thinking that perhaps my response would help her to put herself in her opponent's place.

Instead, she said, "You're not supposed to say that." "Why not?"

"Because you're a mother."

I did not feel like a mother. In fact, my feelings were becoming distinctly un-motherly. Every time I got spilled, Meg rolled around the floor and hee-hee-hee. And I began secretly to take greater and greater delight in her setbacks.

Finally, she absolutely refused to spill her cherries.

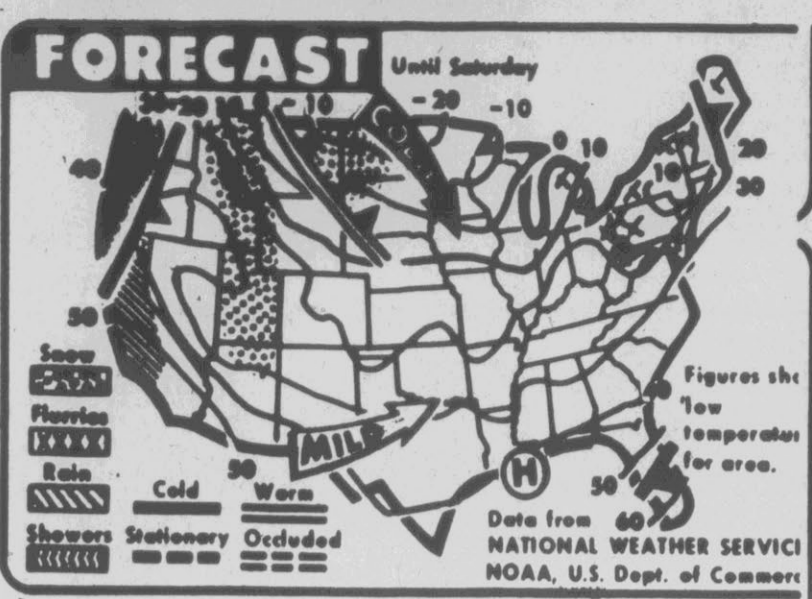

"Come on, you little twerp," I said impatiently. "Spill the cherries and quit trying to cheat."

She folded her arms and sat back on her heels.

"Meg Michaels," I snapped, "if you don't spill those cherries I'm not going to play with you any more!"

Oh well, so much for sportsmanship.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period until Saturday morning for most of the Pacific coast. Snow is due for the eastern Rockies and adjacent Plains and for most of the northern Plains. Snow flurries are forecast for western New York and New England. Milder weather is indicated from Texas to Florida, but most of the nation will be cold. (AP Laserphoto Map)

A large storm system over the upper Midwestern states began pulling a large amount of moisture into the mid-Atlantic states today, winds to become more southeast and increase during the day.

Clouds and rainfall will be part of the weather scene through today and over the central and eastern counties tonight. By Saturday, as a cold front moves along the coastal waters, the rainfall will only linger along the outer banks and the south coast.

Temperatures Thursday were mostly in the 40s to the mid 50s. This morning ranged in the mid to upper 30s inland and into the 40s in the coastal areas.

Tonight's lows will be in the 20s over the west, ranging to around 30 eastward to near 40 along the coast. A few lingering showers along the coast Saturday will turn into fair weather by Sunday.

No Reason For Rivalry

There have been news reports about dissatisfaction at the UNC-Chapel Hill Medical School which has been caught in the state hiring freeze, while the developing ECU School of Medicine has been exempted from that freeze.

James W. Piner, assistant state budget officer explained the ECU exemption was necessary because of its newness. "Any reasonable person can distinguish between the needs of a new, developing school and an established one," he said.

Stuart Bondurant, dean of the Chapel Hill medical school, feels some of his programs have been compromised due to the freeze. Particularly cited was the maintenance of the research animal facility. We would certainly hope, and can see no reason why, the freeze situation should be a cause of any rivalry between the two state-supported medical schools. No doubt the Chapel Hill school is hampered some by the order, but so, too, are dozens of other state agencies. The ECU school is still building toward graduating its first class and clearly would have to add the personnel to reach that potential if it is to function at all.

In the final analysis government freezes don't last forever and we would expect that in the foreseeable future the reins will be loosened. Then the question will become moot.

Indiscriminate Giveaway

The government rushed into a fuel assistance aid program and the result seems to be that many people are getting checks who don't even have heating bills.

Checks were sent to most everyone who receives Supplemental Security Income payments, including some in foster care homes, nursing homes, and apparently some in public housing where fuel costs are figured in the rent.

Recipients of the funds obviously should have been more carefully screened.

THIS AFTERNOON

Don't Push Them

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Now is not a good time for North Carolina cities and towns to push the General Assembly for more money. In fact, they will do well just to hold onto what they now get.

That is essentially the message delivered to a study committee of the General Assembly reviewing local revenues.

Leigh Wilson, executive director of the N.C. League of Municipalities, put it this way: "In today's uncertain economic climate and with the leveling off or actual decline in state government revenues, it is a time when fiscal constraints are necessary at all levels of government."

"Therefore, we request that you give consideration to continuing current state revenue sharing with municipalities at current levels and to the prospect of providing modest increases in shared revenues for municipal functions or services that directly contribute to the economic growth and development of the entire state."

Opposition
Local property taxes, principally real estate taxes, are the foundation of income for cities and towns. The recurring resistance to increased property taxes has caused local government officials to ponder alternatives including local payroll or income taxes, hotel and motel taxes, and increased fees for vehicle registration in the city.

Legislative proposals to secure such alternative income sources have in the past run into stiff opposition.

In the meantime, the General Assembly has been chipping away at the property tax base itself through special exemptions for the elderly and handicapped and through erosion of the intangibles tax on stocks, bonds, money in the bank and other financial holdings. "We are well aware of the fact that the intangibles tax is a controversial levy and there is strong support in the General Assembly for repeal," Wilson told legislators. That tax is viewed as a stumbling block to business contemplating a North Carolina location, and a discouragement to retirees who might move to the state but risk a major tax on their savings.

BILL NOBLITT

Revision of the intangibles tax last session cost local governments about $600,000 annually. The League "will resist repeal or reduction... unless it can be justified on broad public policy grounds and unless it is accompanied by a replacement of the present and future revenue loss to municipal governments," Wilson said.

To offset local losses due to tax breaks for the elderly, disabled and poor, Wilson called for some "circuit breaker" formula similar to those now in use in 35 states. The state makes up the loss to the local government, then recovers the money when the property changes hands in future years.

Erosion
Wilson said "it is difficult to quarrel with this type of tax relief. However, municipalities are compelled to resist further erosion of the municipal tax base."

Of the present local share from taxes such as those on general sales, alcoholic beverages, and gasoline, Wilson said municipalities are pleased, but that if any increases are installed, the local governments should share in the added income.

A recurring theme in Wilson's remarks was local endorsement of state balanced growth efforts. Municipalities feel that such dispersal of economic development across the state will benefit the communities.

The recommendations on revenue sharing from the cities "would enhance the capacity of municipal governments to provide needed services and facilities that will directly contribute to the sound growth and development of the entire state," Wilson concluded.

Other Editors Say Patriotism Upheld

(Henderson Dispatch)

Patriotism very nearly became a dirty word in the United States in the 1960s, thanks to those who were vocally anti-establishment, anti-government, and anti-American.

The spirit of loyalty to one's country, however, began to show signs of rallying during the nation's Bicentennial celebration four years ago and, we are pleased to note, has surged during the U.S.-Iranian crisis which developed in early November.

A United States Supreme Court ruling announced Monday was another plus for patriotism and the inherent right to express it.

In the ruling, the court left intact a decision allowing public schools to fire teachers who refuse to teach the pledge of allegiance and patriotic songs.

The court refused to hear the appeal of a Chicago elementary teacher who was fired after allegedly telling officials that her religious beliefs prohibit such instruction. She had charged school authorities with violating her right to religious freedom.

The teacher was quoted as informing her principal that her religious beliefs barred teaching "anything having to do with love of country, the flag and other patriotic matters."

We have no quarrel with anyone's right to a choice of religious beliefs, and separation of church and state is a fundamental principle of American government.

However, we cannot justify a religious stance that precludes devotion to one's country, concern for fellow citizens and mutual support for representation and protection in the national interest.

We respect the rights of the individual to adhere to such options. At the same time, we'll stand up and be counted for the rights of a school system to divorce itself from one who chooses that course.

The Supreme Court's action was encouraging and proper.

Strength For Today

JUDGE NOT

Human nature is an enigma. We think we have people all figured out, and behold, we find our judgment was entirely wrong. We look at some people and call them bad. They stand for everything in life which we abhor. Then suddenly they perform an unselfish or even heroic act, and we know that beneath that revolting exterior is the soul of a real person. Other people whom we regard highly sometimes disappoint us. We recall with sadness that the gods always have feet of clay.

Because we know so little about the motives of our fellows and because we are so ignorant of the background of their behavior, we should refrain from judging them. But let us judge evil acts on every occasion. The Bible does not expect us to stand about with a vacant look on our faces pretending that we do not know the difference between good and evil. We know enough to denounce evil when we see it and praise good. But we do not know enough to denounce the evildoer.

Have A Miserable Day

WASHINGTON — The people who speculate on the price of gold are a weird lot. They're actually betting on disaster. Any bad news which drives up the price of gold is good news to them, and whether they want to or not, they have to root for wars, pestilence, droughts and revolution.

It's a miserable way of life to keep hoping things will get worse before they get better but you get used to anything.

When news of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan first broke, I had a call from Doomsday. "I told you that you should have brought gold months ago," he shouted over the phone. "With Afghanistan and Iran in turmoil, the price could now go through the roof."

"I guess you made a killing," I said.

"I'm not complaining. I made 300 percent on my investment and it's just the beginning. If anything happens to Middle East oil, I'll be in clover."

Investment and it's just the beginning. If anything happens to Middle East oil, I'll be in clover.

ART BUCHWALD

"You may be in clover," I said, "but you won't be able to drive through it. Has it ever occurred to you, Doomsday, that the more disasters there are in the world, the harder life is going to be for all of us?"

"Not if you've invested in gold. Everyone knows gold is disaster-proof."

"What are you going to do with the gold if the bottom drops out of everything?"

"I'll take a flyer in silver."

"But wouldn't you rather have a strong dollar and a healthy economy?"

"Are you crazy? You don't know anything about people who invest in precious metals. We never say to anyone, 'Have a nice day.' We want them to have a miserable day. That's the only way you can drive up the price of gold. Every time someone predicts there is going to be a recession I feel great. But when the recession doesn't come, I get sick. You must understand that gold bugs have to march to a different drummer."

"I do understand it, and I envy you. Your fortune depends on chaos. The more calamities there are in the world, the more secure you feel. But isn't there some point when things could get so out of hand that even gold won't save you?"

"When you're into bullion, you can't think that way. You have to be an optimist. You have to believe that no matter how bad the situation gets, there will always be a market for gold. I didn't plan the invasion of Afghanistan, and I had nothing to do with oil prices going out of sight. But as long as it happened, somebody had to profit from it."

"Let me ask you something. Don't you feel the WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt looks with favor on a 10 percent "super-tax" on the income tax to pay emergency national defense costs, administrative officials said today, but he wants congressional leaders to take the initiative in framing proposals.

RALEIGH — Like Gulliver in Lilliput, the automobile industry in America has become giant-sized and the dawn of a new decade finds a nation on wheels.

Carolina Motor Club statistics show one for every four persons in the United States — enough to make a bumper-to-bumper string extending three and a half times around the world. More than three million of these models are new vehicles, sold in 1939.

Popularity Level High

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — President Jimmy Carter's popularity remains at a high level, with 56 percent of Americans now saying they approve of his performance in office, as determined by a national in-person survey completed Sunday. In an early-December survey his rating was virtually the same, 61 percent.

That figure (61 percent), recorded in a telephone survey for Newsweek by the Gallup Organization, Inc., represented the largest increase in presidential popularity in the four decades the Gallup Poll has made these measurements, exceeding those which accompanied Pearl Harbor and the signing of the Vietnamese peace treaty.

The current survey also shows Carter continuing to lead Sen. Edward Kennedy as the choice of Democratic voters nationwide for the 1980 presidential nomination. Carter's 51 to 37 percent margin represents his best showing to date. In the previous survey, the president led Kennedy 48 to 40 percent.

Here is the question asked of all respondents to measure Carter's popularity:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Carter is handling his job as president?"

Here are the latest results and the recent trend:

	Approve	Disapprove	No opinion
LATEST (Jan. 4-6)	58%	33%	9%
Dec. 7-9	61	30	9
Nov. 16-19	58	49	13
Nov. 2-5	55	55	13
Oct. 12-15	51	55	14
Oct. 5-8	29	58	13

This question was asked to determine Carter's and Kennedy's relative strength as candidates for the Democratic nomination.

"Suppose the choice for president in the Democratic convention in 1980 narrows down to Jimmy Carter and Edward Kennedy. Which one would you prefer to have the Democratic convention select?"

Following is the trend, based on the choices of Democrats:

	Carter	Kennedy	Undecided
LATEST (Jan. 4-6)	51%	37%	12%
Dec. 7-9	48	40	12
Nov. 16-19	56	55	9
Oct. 12-15	30	60	10

The situation, however, looks somewhat better now for Kennedy among independents. Carter's December lead of 56-31 percent has been reduced slightly to 52-38 percent.

Following is the recent trend in the choices of independents:

	Carter	Kennedy	Undecided
LATEST (Jan. 4-6)	52%	38%	10%
Dec. 7-9	56	31	13
Nov. 16-19	37	50	13

The results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,300 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in scientifically-selected localities across the nation during the period Jan. 4-6. The nomination showdown tests are based on interviews with 584 Democrats and 407 independents.

No Abstract Issue

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
KELLEY, Iowa (AP) — In the gnawing cold outside Dan Frowning's grain warehouse, there is nothing abstract about the issues raised by President Carter's embargo of shipments to the Soviet Union.

They are as real as the snowdrifted mounds of corn heaped on the pavement because the grain elevator is full; as real as the 30 railroad cars waiting to be loaded with corn that may go nowhere.

To the presidential candidates seeking support in Iowa's leadoff contest of the 1980 campaign, the embargo is a subject for one-sided debate: Almost to a man, they have assailed the president's action.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is telling crowds of farmers that all Carter has done is penalize them and the taxpayers, without really hurting the Russians.

Campaigning for Carter, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland counters that it had to be done, that Soviet troops might not have stopped with Afghanistan had the United States failed to take a firm stand against Russian expansionism.

Bergland says that would have been a catastrophe, and tells the farmers the government will cushion the blow. He insists government grain purchases will keep corn prices at about the level the crop would have brought without the embargo.

He never calls it an embargo, he calls it a suspension.

Whatever it's called, Dan Frowning doesn't like it.

"We're sick," he said.

He has about 300,000 bushels of corn in his elevator and in makeshift bins by the railroad tracks, 30 miles north of Des Moines. He figures much of it would have wound up in the Soviet Union. "We started loading railroad cars and then we quit," he said. "We've got the supply, but the demand is gone."

Bergland said prices may drop for a while, as they did when grain markets reopened Wednesday, but maintains that administration purchase programs will get the price back to where it would have been without the embargo.

Haste Was Top Consideration

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The government insists there is nothing illegal or even improper about a new energy program that makes fuel aid payments to thousands of poor people who don't have heating bills.

Most Supplemental Security Income recipients — the aged, blind and disabled — are eligible automatically for the onetime fuel aid checks, which range up to $250.

But some of them live under conditions — such as nursing homes or adult foster care homes — in which they are not required to pay fuel bills.

Joyce Sylvester, who operates a home for mentally handicapped men in Antrim County, Mich., said the checks should be recalled. "This is a huge boo-boo on the part of the federal government," she said. "These checks are supposed to be for heating bills, not an allowance for them to spend on candy and pop."

But officials maintained that Congress was aware of the potential for payments to people without fuel bills. They say the SSI mailing list was used because it presented a quick way of getting the money to those who did need it.

"Those persons who are not experiencing direct costs related to energy may use the special allowance for other things such as warm clothing," said Jim Brown, a spokesman for the Social Security Administration, which administered the SSI part of the program. "The intent of Congress and the president was to get these payments out as quickly as possible this winter. The important thing was to help needy people."

Cell Frank, another Social Security Administration official, said the checks were mailed deliberately without regard for the recipients' living arrangements.

"The work it would take to distinguish between SSI recipients would be so time-consuming that the funds might not get to people in time to do any good," said Ms. Frank.

There are 3.9 million SSI recipients and all are eligible for the fuel assistance unless they live in institutions where money from another poverty program, Medicaid, is used to pay for most of their living and medical expenses.

This means residents in certain nursing homes won't receive checks, while those in other nursing homes and other custodial facilities will.

No estimates were available on the number of persons receiving checks who do not actually incur heating expenses of their own.

Payments vary from state to state because of a formula based in part on the severity of each state's winter. Maximum payments of $250 are being made to eligible SSI recipients in Alaska, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming. Recipients in Hawaii, by contrast, will receive only $34.

Brown said the emphasis on speed has paid off. Checks were being mailed to SSI recipients 42 days after the program was enacted.

The entire fuel assistance program will cost $1.35 billion. Of that, $400 million is allotted to SSI recipients. The rest of the money is being distributed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to other poor people.

Talk Train Service With Amtrak Representative

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The first step has been taken to look into the possibility of future train passenger service in Greenville on an east-west route that would run from Norfolk, Va. to Memphis, Tenn.

On Wednesday, three persons representing the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce — Bob Martin, W. C. Cobb and Ms. Lynne Olmsted, took an early train from Rocky Mount to Washington, D.C.

In Washington the three met with Allan F. Edelman, Director of State and Local Services for Amtrak to discuss the feasibility of working toward a passenger train goal for this area. The three represented the Chamber's Railroad Task Force, of which former Mayor Percy Cox is chairman.

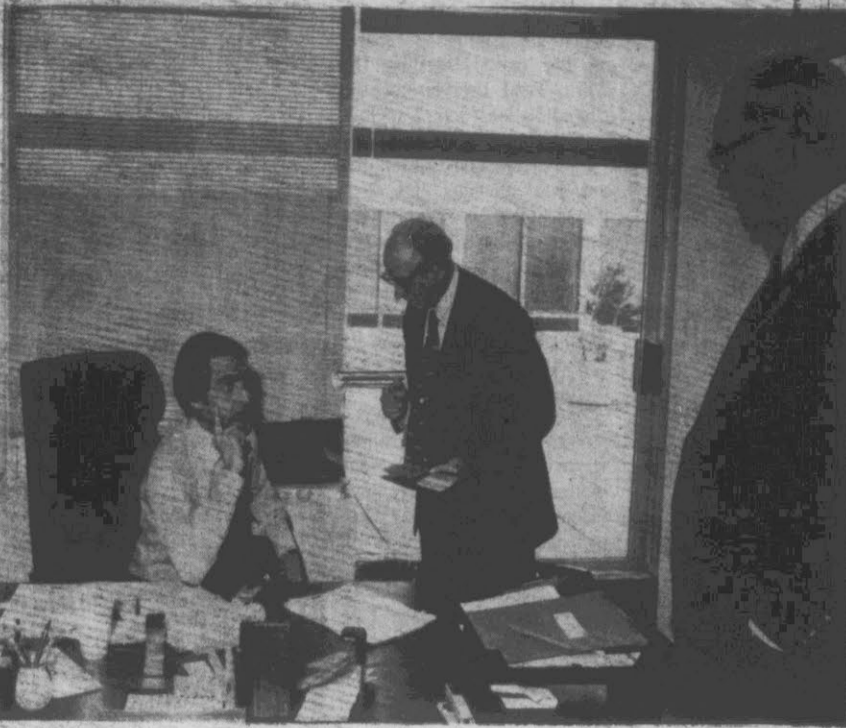

"We discussed the feasibility of a future east-west passenger train service that would include Greenville as a stop on the Norfolk to Memphis route," Ms. Olmsted, director of the Chamber's Community Development Division, said.

"Such a route would utilize the present Seaboard Coast Line and the Norfolk & Southern Railway tracks."

Ms. Olmsted noted that in their discussions towns mentioned as possible passenger stops on a Norfolk-Memphis route would include Elizabeth City, Edenton, Washington, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, and Charlotte before going west into Tennessee.

"One of the considerations talked about is that of planning for passenger stops in college towns, towns near resort areas and other places that would likely draw large number of passengers," Ms. Olmsted said.

Ms. Olmsted stressed that at the best the establishment of a passenger service for this route would take considerable time. "For one thing, the route will require additional equipment, diesel engines and passenger cars. There's only one company in the U.S. currently manufacturing equipment, and we were told that the company is already 18 months behind in filling orders for equipment."

TALKING IT OVER . . . Allen F. Edelman, seated, Director of State and Local Services for Amtrak, discusses ideas for a passenger train route from Norfolk to Memphis with two Greenville men, W. C. Cobb (center) and Bob Martin in Washington, D. C. on Wednesday. (Photo by Lynne Olmsted)

"But because of the tracks being in existence, the route we discussed is the one that would require the least amount of money to put into operation."

No estimate of the cost of the proposal is available at this early stage. Also, deadline for application of new programs for 1980 has passed, and new projects will not be considered until 1981.

"At whatever time a decision might be made to ask for funds to establish this route, it will be up to Congress to approve its establishment and to provide funding," Ms. Olmsted said.

In the meantime, the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce and other groups in both states will be studying the proposal, getting input from public sources to determine interest in the idea of passenger service for their areas.

"Here in Greenville Mr. Cox will soon be appointing members to the task force. This task force will be making contact with Tom Bradshaw of the N. C. Department of Transportation and with officials in other communities to determine their feelings about the feasibility of working toward establishing this passenger service route."

Ms. Olmsted noted that both Martin and Cobb had been long-time railroad employees. "They are retired now, and they said that new techniques in railroading with computerized equipment were quite different from the days in which they were active railroad men."

Make A Deal On 9-Ton Boulder

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Bob Clearwater hated it, the city of Newton loved it, so they worked out a deal — a big deal. For years, Clearwater wanted to get rid of a 9-ton rock in his yard. And Newton, 100 miles southwest of Topeka, needed a huge rock for a statue base. So on Thursday, trucks from Newton's park department picked it up, along with a smaller boulder.

One boulder will probably go in Newton's Centennial Park.

The other will be the base for "Skipper," a near-life-size bronze statue of a small boy in a sailor suit holding a toy sailboat. The statue is to be placed in front of the city's public library.

CLUB TO MEET

The 20th Century Club will meet Sunday at 5 p.m. at the home of Douglas Barnhill, 1009 W. Fifth Street.

All members are urged to attend.

Tass Report

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency said today that George Meany was a "rabid anti-Communist."

In its report on the American labor leader's death, Tass said:

"G. Meany was known as an advocate of the concept of 'peace among classes' and an apologist of the capitalist system, a rabid anti-communist who was against the establishment of contacts between the trade unions of the U.S.S.R. and the United States."

Meany was frequently criticized during his lifetime by the Soviet news media for his hard line toward the Soviet Union and communism.

The embargo certainly is a liability for Carter in the first contest of the 1980 presidential campaign, although Bergland says farmers will understand the action and won't oppose him for it.

Iowa is the No. 1 corn state, and most of the embargoed grain is corn. That crop is grown on 108,000 Iowa farms. And 7 in 10 Iowans have farm-related jobs.

But it is not clear just how the embargo will affect the Jan. 21 presidential contest which is not, after all, an election. The Democratic decisions will be made at 2,531 neighborhood political meetings, and organization will be more telling than issues in determining who does best.

The process is less volatile than an ordinary election, and less likely to be altered by protest votes.

You can't talk to a person when he has gold fever, so I decided to end the conversation. "Goodbye, Domsday — and, peace."

He yelled, "That's a lousy thing for you to say."

Church Relief Is Distributed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Contrary to reports that Cambodia is blocking intergovernmental aid to its war-ravaged populace, religious agencies assert their relief is being distributed and they've verified it on the spot.

He says that instead of the Vietnam-backed government of Cambodia hindering deliveries, as some U.S. authorities have claimed, "we've found just the opposite. The government at Phnom Penh is helping us get the supplies in."

Similar statements came from numerous church relief officials amid considerable confusion and conflicting reports on the matter, leading the World Food Program of the United Nations Jan. 2 to halt food shipments to Cambodia.

Church officials insisted the aid was reaching the decimated, often starving people despite major transportation difficulties. "The food is getting to the people who most need it," says Ove R. Nielsen of Lutheran World Relief, citing information from an on-the-scene team.

Cross-international officials and religious agencies is that the latter seem to have the trust of President Samrin, and have staff members in Phnom Penh to expedite relief distribution.

Big Clothing Appeal By Church Service

The Church World Service has issued a recent request for 1,124,035 lbs. of clothing and clothing-appeal items.

E. Sixth St., Greenville, the second week in February

North Carolina donated more used clothing in 1979 than in any previous year with a total of 205,230 pounds. The CWS trucks will return to North Carolina clothing depots during the third week of February. Donations should be taken to St. James United Methodist Church, 2000

All donations should be boxed, labeled, and securely tied with a cord. They should not weigh more than 40 pounds. To defray costs of sorting, baling, and transport, donors are requested to contribute 15 cents per pound for all donations.

A Joint Appeal In Marketplace

NEW YORK (AP) — Posters proclaiming "Help Feed Cambodian Victims" and canisters for contributed coins were set up on check-out lines in 231 "Stop & Shop" supermarkets and clothing stores across the northeast Jan. 9 in an unusual ecumenical drive to aid starvation-threatened Cambodia.

For more information call St. James United Methodist Church at 752-6154 or the regional CWS office in Durham at 919-688-3843, 1006 Lamond Ave., Durham, N.C.

A Non-Existent 'Issue' Fading

WASHINGTON (AP) — That prolonged flood of mail to the Federal Communications Commission about a religious issue that never existed has finally subsided.

It ebbed to a mere trickle of protesting letters in late 1979, reports the United Methodist news service, after previously running as high as 25,000 letters a day—a total of 12 million since mid-1975.

SINGING SESSION

A singing session will be held at Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Feature performers will be the Nelms-Family from Rocky Mount. The pastor, Rev. Bobby Howard, invites the public to attend.

They were protesting a supposed petition by atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair to abolish religious broadcasting from the airwaves, although no such petition was ever filed.

Building Fund Service Sunday

The Rev. John Chance and his congregation of Wynn Chapel F.W.B. Church will render services at St. Matthew F.W.B. Church Sunday at 2 p.m. on behalf of the building fund.

What apparently has stemmed the tide of letters, says FCC consumer assistance specialist Zora Brown, was answering some of them plus a special informational mailing to some 30,000 religious leaders.

A NEW WORLD

One hears complaint about the secularism and materialism of our day. The world as we know it seems enshrined in a web of selfish concern.

In our lifetime scientific exploration into space has opened the door to the Universe... a world that is far more than "the world as we know it." This newest world doesn't have to be like its predecessor. Some earnest astronauts have felt it to be a religious environment.

We ought to be preparing our children spiritually for this newest world. Whatever may be its dimensions, whatever excursions it may offer adventurous souls... the need for faith and commitment will be greater than ever.

Today in Christian churches and Christian homes there are men and women being trained who will make theirs a better world than we have known.

Garwood's Attorney Is Not Surprised

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Testimony against Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood continues to stack up from a lengthening parade of witnesses at a military hearing on Garwood's actions in Vietnam.

But Dermot Foley, civilian attorney for the 33-year-old Marine who faces charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy, said Thursday the 10th witness left the stand that he was unimpressed with the evidence so far.

"The biggest surprise in this thing so far, as far as I'm concerned, is the absence of surprises," Foley said.

The hearing is underway at Camp Lejeune to determine if there is enough evidence to court-martial Garwood, who returned to the United States last year after nearly 14 years in Vietnam.

Some of the strongest testimony so far came Thursday as former prisoner of war David Harker testified about Garwood's actions in Vietnam during the late 1960s.

"He was a collaborator with the enemy. He accepted favors by living with (communists)," Harker, who was an Army private, said tersely.

Many POWs signed anti-American statements because of threats from their communist captors, but Harker said Garwood's actions went beyond that.

"I never greeted my captors with hugs. He did," Harker said, gesturing across the small courtroom to the uniformed defendant.

Harker, now a 34-year-old parole officer in Lynchburg, Va., also said Garwood once punched him in the ribs without provocation.

The incident occurred after American POWs, desperate for meat, killed a cat belonging to the communist guards.

The punching incident is one of seven specific charges against Garwood.

Testimony at the hearing was not scheduled to resume until late today because prosecutors were having apparent transportation problems in getting a witness to Camp Lejeune.

The witness, a Vietnamese refugee named Le Dinh Quy, reportedly lives in Florida.

Quy, a South Vietnamese soldier who was captured by the communists, encountered Garwood at the prison camp.

Harker testified that Garwood was free to move about the camp and even left it on occasion.

Garwood carried a gun on one occasion, and he bragged about using a bulldog to tell American troops to lay down their arms.

Capt. Dennis Storm, a Marine who saw combat in the area of the prison camp, testified Thursday that he heard amplified broadcasts telling Americans to refuse to fight.

But Storm, who flew from his duty station in Hawaii for about 10 minutes of testimony, said the American-sounding voice identified itself only as "one who has seen the light," and he had no idea who it was.

Garwood's attorneys contend his actions were the result of death threats from the communists. Under cross-examination, Harker said Garwood occasionally allowed Americans to listen to snatches of Voice of America broadcasts on a radio and made headstones for American prisoners who died in the camp.

But Harker stuck to his belief that Garwood was a collaborator.

Harker quoted an American who subsequently died in the camp as calling Garwood a "damn traitor," but Harker said Garwood showed no reaction to the insult.

Harker said he last saw Garwood in 1969 but heard his name in 1971 when Harker and other prisoners were on a forced march to North Vietnam.

Harker said communists along the route would tell the POWs, "You must be progressive like the person who preceded you — Mr. Garwood — and you will be released."

Harker was released with several hundred other Americans in 1973.

Health Systems Body Disapproves Conversion

The Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency governing body Wednesday recommended disapproval of an application submitted by the Caswell Center in Kinston to convert an existing complex at the center to provide an increased level of intermediate care and mental retardation services.

ECHSA spokesmen said the governing body recommended disapproval of the certificate of need because of an apparent shift of increased medicare/medicaid costs from state government to county governments.

The governing body also registered concern that the conversion and resulting reduction in bed numbers, would cause an influx of patients into Eastern North Carolina communities, thus creating an increased shortage of intermediate care/skilled nursing beds.

The final decision on the certificate of need will be made by the N.C. Department of Human Resources' Certificate of Need Section.

In other action, the planning committee approved the draft of the 1980 Health Systems Plan for Eastern North Carolina, and issued a call for citizen volunteers to serve on the ECHSA task force which will help refine and expand future Health Systems Plans.

Specific areas of interest in the plans include mental health, primary, secondary and tertiary care, rehabilitation, emergency medical services, and services to the aging.

Persons interested in any of these areas may contact the ECHSA director of planning at P. O. Box 7306, Greenville, or call 758-1372.

Tucker Finishes Term As Prexy

Ralph C. Tucker of Greenville completed his one-year term as president of the North Carolina Association of Conservation Districts by presiding over the group's annual meeting in Pinehurst Jan. 6-9.

The meeting featured speeches by Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham and Dr. Carlton Blalock, director of the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service. State Representative Sam Bundy of Farmville gave the keynote address Tuesday night.

Tucker will remain on the N.C. State Soil and Conservation Commission through 1980. He was succeeded by Wade Carrington of Statesville as president of the state association.

Highlights of the meeting included awards for outstanding achievement for a district presented by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. The Johnston District received first place and the Onslow District received second.

The Allis-Chalmers Company presented awards to Davie Soil and Conservation District for outstanding work and to Ms. Ruby Birmingham of Gastonia as the outstanding conservation educator of the year.

Robert G. Little of Grimesland gave a presentation on state watershed objectives.

Booklet Said Not Official

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Criticism of a booklet that outlines a plan for child health-care has come from misinformed people, one of the health professionals who prepared the guidelines says.

"Our best intentions have been so misunderstood. The plan speaks very strongly and identifies things that upset people. But because they upset people doesn't mean they don't exist," said Minta Saunders, a Reidsville psychologist now serving as an assistant to the state human resources secretary.

Ms. Saunders, a specialist in child development and family relations, said she was responsible for the name of the booklet — "A Child Health Plan for Raising A New Generation."

Some critics have tried to link the booklet with the New Generation Act approved by the Legislature last year. The act sets up the machinery for child-care programs in North Carolina.

But, Ms. Saunders said the booklet was designed only as a guideline for local efforts to provide health care and it has no official status.

"We are raising a new generation. The term was used after the fact. There is no connection with the bill," she said.

Some of the criticism is based on terminology used in the booklet. One example is the phrase "health care homes" for children. Some critics contend the plan would remove the family's role in raising a child.

Ms. Saunders said the phrase "health care home" is comparable to a "spiritual home" in a church. Both, she said, are places "you can count on being there ... when a mother has a sick child, she needs to know where she can take that child and get some care."

Finally Roped Runaway Steer

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — A runaway steer led police and would-be cowboys on an hour-long chase through Fort Collins before a Colorado State University researcher roped him.

The 1,100-pound steer escaped Thursday through a gate left open at the CSU stock pavilion.

"We had all kinds of guys chasing him," said Keith Reese, a CSU police officer.

The steer jumped a 3-foot-high cycle rack and took off down the street.

Rick Myers, a CSU research technician, finally got a rope on the steer about an hour after it got loose.

Lasser Enjoyed "M-H" Re-Run

NEW YORK (AP) — The first television rerun of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" did wonders for the show's star. "I liked it better this time than the first time around," said Louise Lasser. "It made me feel young and innocent again."

Shorn of her familiar Mary pigtailed, Miss Lasser joined friends Wednesday night at the Public Theater to watch the CBS rerun, after a preview performance of "Marie and Bruce," a new play in which she stars.

Alford Nominated As Superintendent Of Year

Arthur (Ott) Alford, Superintendent of Pitt County Schools, has been nominated by the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction as North Carolina's candidate for the Superintendent of the Year Award for the American Association of School Librarians.

The nomination has been submitted to the American Association of School Librarians Distinguished Library Service Award chairperson, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stephens, in Clearwater, Florida.

In the letter nominating Alford for the award, Elsie L. Brumback, Director, Division of Educational Media, N. C. Department of Public Instruction, wrote: "Our staff took a very critical look at principals and superintendents across the State and unanimously agreed on a superintendent who stands head and shoulders above all others when it comes to both long-range and continuing commitment to quality library/media programs for all pupils in his administration unit. He is Arthur S. Alford, affectionately known as 'Ott.'"

Alford has been Superintendent of the county schools for 14 years, and has been in education for the past 27 years, since 1952. All his service has been in the same school district — Pitt County.

He spent three years as an elementary principal and seventh grade teacher, and after that, as elementary supervisor of instruction for a period of five years.

Alford was an assistant superintendent from 1961-65, and was appointed superintendent on July 1, 1965.

Check Zoning ...

Prior to opening any business, fraternity or sorority house, boarding house or other enterprise within Greenville or its one-mile extraterritorial jurisdiction area, determination needs to be made as to whether the intended use is a permitted one in the zoning district being considered.

One should contact the Greenville Inspections Department, 752-4137, Ext. 221, Chief Building Inspector Alton Warren suggested.

Rescue Two In The Wilderness

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)

A Coast Guard helicopter rescued two gold miners stranded 18 days with no food in the wilderness after their kayak was crushed during a storm.

Roger Lewis, 31, and Denise Harris, 20, his fiancée, said they survived by wrapping a wolf Lewis shot around their feet for warmth. They shot their dog for food but were unable to bring themselves to eat the raw carcass.

They were picked up about 5 p.m. Wednesday near Gore Point, 15 miles south of Anchorage, after a pilot spotted an SOS signal Lewis made of spruce boughs in the snow.

Appointment of Christopher Mansfield to the Greenville Citizens Bikeway Committee to fill the term of Hal Smith Jr. (June of 1982) who submitted his resignation.

City Council....

Road was approved by the Council following a public hearing. The city property is located across the highway from the Greenville Utilities operations center and runs all the way back to the Tar River, Wyatt explained.

Approval was also given to a petition by James T. Cheatham for annexation of a portion of the Carriage House Apartment complex on NC 43. The voluntary annexation involves some 2.6 acres and 44 apartment units in the second phase of Carriage House, it was added, and Wyatt said that no problems are foreseen in providing city services. A May 1 effective date was approved.

The satellite annexation petition submitted by Leroy Cherry and W. H. Clark involving the Quail Ridge Subdivision located east of and abutting 14th Street, across from Windy Ridge, was approved.

Wyatt said that at least 104 units are planned for the 17-acre development.

The final annexation petition, submitted by People's Baptist Temple, also gained the approval of the Council with an immediate effective date. The church property is located south of US 264 Bypass, west of Red Oak Subdivision and east of the John Moye property.

People's Baptist Temple, according to Wyatt, involves some 15 acres for annexation and he said that church officials were "very patient" in waiting for the annexation process to take place. The recent annexation of Red Oak Subdivision and nearby properties afforded People's Baptist Temple the opportunity to meet the requirement of being contiguous to present city property.

The public hearing, involving an application by Carlton Leon Edwards for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity (taxicab franchise) resulted in no public opposition and the Council granted Edwards' request.

The Council continued a public hearing until the regular Feb. 14 meeting on an application by Claudie E. Roache and Ralph Swain Sr. for a special use permit to operate a private club in the structure located on the Pacotus Highway, behind the Department of Transportation facility.

City Attorney Louis Singleton said that he had "serious reservations" about whether the city had the legal authority to grant the permit, considering the special uses stipulated for property zoned Unoffensive Industry.

The petitioners indicated plans to operate the facility as a private club, offering country and western entertainment. Mrs. Ralph Swain said that the owners did not plan to have a disco operation and would not have loud music.

Singleton said that he would like to get a legal opinion from Raleigh before going further with the application request.

The Council, in considering several budget matters, adopted an ordinance establishing a capital project fund for the purposes of administering the Section 18 Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA) capital grant.

Wyatt explained that some $782,347 in funds are represented in the program, including $625,878 in federal funds and $78,234 in state funds. The city's cash-services contribution amounts to some $56,135.

Under the ordinance, the appropriations made in the transit fund include $360,000 for the purchase of four $1-35 passenger transit buses and $223,500 for the construction of a transit maintenance garage, among a variety of transit oriented funding needs.

Community Development coordinator Ben Shivar said that a delivery time of a year or more is expected for the new transit vehicles. He added that an audit is necessary as part of the funding phase and that could be a delay in view of the fact that only one state auditor is available. The delay could result in not being able to easily schedule the auditor for a visit.

The Council also adopted an ordinance amending the 1979-80 Public Transportation Fund budget and an ordinance amending the 1979-80 General Fund budget.

In a transit related matter, approval was given to a resolution authorizing the execution of a contract with the N.C. Department of Transportation for transit operating assistance. It was noted that the city has been informed that its application for mass transit operating assistance has been approved.

Wyatt explained that the funds were requested to reimburse the city for one-half of its net operating expenses of the Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) system for Nov. 6, 1978 to Sept. 30, 1979. The contract between the city and D.O.T. is necessary in order for the funds to be received.

In other business, the Council scheduled a public hearing for March 13 to consider the adoption of a resolution defining a municipal service district as requested by the Downtown Greenville Association. The board of directors of the DGA requested that the Council consider establishing a special

FOCUS

Protecting the Candidates

It's a familiar scene in every presidential campaign: candidates wading into crowds, talking to voters and shaking hands. But because personal campaigning can be risky, Secret Service agents are assigned to protect the candidates from possible harm. The men who guard the candidates earn about $30,000 a year. Most of them are college graduates, and all have been trained to use various weapons as well as hand-to-hand combat. Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy and former California Governor Ronald Reagan have been under Secret Service protection since last fall. Protection for other candidates who want it officially starts today.

DO YOU KNOW — Which Cabinet department directs the activities of the Secret Service?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Woodrow Wilson campaigned for U.S. membership in the League of Nations.

Suspects MIA's Still In Vietnam's Custody

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)

A number of missing Americans are still alive in Vietnam, says an attorney representing Robert Garwood, the Marine accused of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam.

The lawyer, Dermot Foley, said Thursday that the Department of Defense has reports from Vietnamese refugees that more than 200 Americans were alive and still being held prisoner in Vietnam as late as October 1978.

Foley also represents the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Action in Southeast Asia. His brother is an Air Force pilot missing in Vietnam.

"There is one report of a (Vietnamese) doctor who treated 230 Americans in October 1978. In other reports, the number 49 (men) keeps coming up," Foley said.

Foley said he bases that on Department of Defense reports of interviews with refugees. He said he obtained the reports under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

Foley is in Jacksonville to represent Garwood at a hearing that will determine if Garwood will be court-martialed on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam.

Garwood has never said publicly if he knows about Americans missing in Vietnam.

When Foley received the refugee reports last summer, the Pentagon's official position on MIAs was: "We have no credible evidence to indicate that any American serviceman are alive and being held against their will in Southeast Asia."

In July, 87 servicemen were listed by the Pentagon as still missing. Some have been declared dead since then.

The Vietnamese released more than 650 Americans in 1973, after an agreement between the U.S. and North Vietnam ended U.S. involvement there.

Foley said some of the refugees' statements included detailed descriptions of Americans, but they did not make clear exactly where Americans were being held in Vietnam. Foley said "these are not deserters. These are guys who are in prison environments."

He said the National League of Families had sought information from refugees about sightings of Americans in Vietnam, and about a third of the reports were based on interviews with refugees referred by the league.

VEPCO Should Leave N.C., Asserts Hunt

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday that Virginia Electric and Power Co. "should get out of North Carolina."

In a speech to the Elizabeth City Chamber of Commerce, Hunt called the Richmond-based utility "one of the causes of inflation in northeastern North Carolina, and a leading barrier to economic development."

He said Employment Security Commission figures show that the growth in employment has been slower in the 14 counties served exclusively by Vepco than anywhere else in the state.

"From 1975 to 1978, manufacturing jobs statewide grew by 12 percent. In these 14 counties, those jobs grew by only 5 percent. That's intolerable, and it must change," Hunt said.

Vepco serves areas in 22 northeastern counties.

Hunt said the utility should leave the state because of those effects on customers.

He said the company has launched a public relations campaign to improve its image, but it cannot hide the fact that its North Carolina customers are paying from 40 to 60 percent more than those served by Carolina Power & Light Co.

The governor said last August that the utility should consider selling its North Carolina territory to CP&L, but Vepco officials say they have no intention of doing so.

Vepco spokesman Doug F. Cochran of Richmond said Thursday that the utility expects its rates to be comparable to other North Carolina electric rates by the early 1980s.

He said a major reason for the higher rates is the fact that two of the utility's nuclear units, which are less expensive to operate, have been out of service.

Squirreled Away 900 Candy Bars

CORONA DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Something set off the burglar alarm at Bruce Olson's liquor store three times in the past six weeks, and hundreds of candy bars and nut packs had disappeared. But there were no signs of a break-in.

On Thursday, Olson solved the mystery: A squirrel was building a nest under some shelves, and hoarding Pay Day bars, Milky Way and Three Musketeers.

"As near as I can tell there were between 900 and 950 candy bars squirreled away in there," said Olson.

"I guess he was just hoarding them for the winter," Olson said.

Olson said the alarms probably went off when the squirrel chewed on wires.

Olson isn't vindictive, but the squirrel has cost him $75 in fines from the police department because of the false alarms, so he's decided to catch it and set it loose in a field.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices opened higher today as news that unemployment rose hardly at all in December followed a report that wholesale price inflation had slackened.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up by 8.87 points Thursday, was ahead by 4.27 at 863.23 at 10:30 a.m. Gainers outnumbered losers by two to one on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Labor Department said December's unemployment rate was 5.9 percent, against 5.8 percent in November. The report came on top of an estimate earlier in the week that the U.S. economy was stronger than expected in late 1979.

Wholesale prices, meanwhile, gained .8 percent last month, against 1.3 percent in November.

U.S. Steel was up 1/4 at 20 1/2 in early trading, while Chrysler was unchanged at 8 1/2 after The Wall Street Journal reported the troubled automaker is preparing to pay for repairs on up to 1 million of its cars suffering from rust damage.

Boeing was ahead by 3/4 at 57 1/2. American Telephone & Telegraph gained 1/4 to 52. Thursday's Big Board volume came to an active 55.98 million shares, off from 65.26 million

Soon Finishing Mental Checkup

WASHINGTON (AP) - A mental hospital report on a woman who allegedly burst into Sen. Edward Kennedy's reception room last November should be completed within a few days, a U.S. magistrate says.

The woman, Suzanne Osgood, has been held in a hospital since the Nov. 28 incident. Magistrate Lawrence Margolis said Thursday the report is due shortly and ruled that a grand jury may consider charges against the woman, Kennedy, a Massachusetts Democrat, was not involved in the incident, but a Secret Service agent was struck in the hand by the knife as he tried to wrestle it away from the woman.

Four Accidents Here Thursday

CT Scanner...

 said Trought. "In some cases, a lesion may be missed or overshadowed by another structure."

"But with a CT Scanner, we're able to get marvelously precise pictures of the internal organs. They are highly accurate and efficient, and the non-invasive technique makes it more attractive to patients because there is no pain."

One risky and painful test eliminated, in some cases, by the CT Scanner is the pneumoencephalogram, an x-ray method in which cerebral spinal fluid is replaced with air to provide contrast density.

Another appealing feature is the low, safe level of radiation, about the same as an x-ray series of the kidneys or stomach, Trought said. And he added that the new technology in some cases eliminates long and expensive hospital stays for diagnostic testing.

The procedure, which employs principles from physics, mathematics and computer science, takes less than an hour to perform, with the actual scanning process lasting only five to 10 seconds. A circular scanner that sends and detects x-ray beams revolves around the body and takes multiple "looks" at the anatomy from 270 angles.

The information is transmitted to a computer which integrates the data and reproduces it as a picture, or "slice" of the area. The image is usually very clear and helps physicians distinguish between healthy and diseased tissues.

"It's very much like getting a picture from Mars," said Trought. "The computer is the key. It determines a math formula, then solves it and puts it on a screen similar to television. It can also store information for later use."

According to Trought, the CT Scanner is particularly useful for diagnosing brain abnormalities. It can accurately identify and locate tumors, blood clots, birth defects and other brain diseases. Trought said such accuracy is important because symptoms of some diseases are the same, but treatment is different.

He also noted that because of its fast efficiency, the scanner is extremely valuable in emergencies when doctors must make a quick and accurate diagnosis.

The CT Scanner may pay off in other ways, too. "I think it's important for ECU and Pitt Hospital to have the newest and most modern radiologic methods available," Trought said.

"It means people here in Eastern North Carolina don't have to travel so far for the most sophisticated care. And it will probably help bring in more doctors, ones who rely

An estimated $2,025 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 9:10 a.m. mishap on Johnston Street, 20 feet west of the Billmore Street intersection, involving cars driven by Martin John Lutz Jr. of 104 South Woodlawn Ave. and Jan C. Thordson of Sparta, N.J.

Damage from the mishap was set at $600 to the Lutz car and $25 to the Thordson auto.

Police charged Ellen Williams Moye of Ayden with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, and making a U-turn following investigation of a 5:05 p.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Club Pines Road.

Investigators reported the Moye car made a u-turn in the path of a vehicle driven by Romalce Barrett of Route 8, Greenville, resulting in the Barrett car going out of control and striking a utility pole guy wire.

Damage to the Barrett car was set at $500 while damage to the guy wire was set at $65.

Cars driven by Carole Laurence Crumpton of Chapel Hill, and Jimmy Trent Whitehurst of Shady Knoll Trailer Pk. collided about 1:05 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Crumpton car and $100 damage to the Whitehurst vehicle.

An 8 a.m. mishap on Fleming Street, 200 feet west of the Contentnea Street intersection involved cars operated by Brenda Jones of 818 Fleming St., and Celestine Bernett Carmon of 1804 Battle St.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $100 to the Jones car and $300 to the Carmon auto.

Include Aliens In Census Count

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department says that "the plain language of the Constitution" requires census-takers to count illegal aliens as well as citizens in this year's census.

The government's position came Thursday during arguments over a federal court suit that seeks to prevent the counting of illegal aliens in the census. Department lawyers argued that the case should be dismissed because "the plain language of the Constitution, as well as the intent of its framers, establishes that all inhabitants including illegal aliens must be enumerated."

The group that filed the suit contends that counting illegal aliens violates the one-man, one-vote doctrine in political representation.

East Carolina Dunks Baptist, 99-77

CHARLESTON, S.C. — East Carolina University bounced back after its one-point final second loss to Oral Roberts with a 99-77 romp over hapless Baptist College of Charleston last night. The Pirates, down by five in the early going, took the lead for good near the midway point of the first half and steadily built a lead that climbed to as many as 28 points before Baptist froze the ball for the final 30 seconds to prevent the Pirates from cracking the century mark for the first time this year. The victory evened the East Carolina record at 7-7 on the year, while Baptist fell to 0-9. The Buccaneers are in the midst of a 23-game losing streak, one of the longest, if not the longest current losing skein in the country. Seniors George Maynor and Herb Krusen led the victory parade, scoring 22 points each, while Herb Gray added 18 and both Frank Hobson and Tom Szymanski had ten each.

Krusen, who played only 18 minutes, was nine for ten from the floor and four for four from the line for his points. He now has a career total of 948 points, and should become the 14th member of the ECU 1,000-Point Club shortly.

The Pirates, hardly pushed after the first ten minutes, shot a fine 57 per cent for the game, and held a 44-19 rebounding edge. Gray led the rebounding with eight, while Hobson and Szymanski each had seven.

Baptist shot only 41 per cent. A relaxed Coach Dave Odom pointed out that the Pirates hadn't had any breathers on the schedule up to this point. "We've probably been in as many close games as anyone in the country," he said.

"But we played a lot of people tonight and I'm glad we did. It's been a long trip and the kids are tired," he added.

"I've got a lot of respect for Baptist and I know what they're going through. I knew how badly they wanted to win and I told the players before the game that we had better players because we could run, jump and shoot better, and if we wanted it as much as they did, then we would win it."

Odom felt that the Pirates did show that desire to win and be committed. "I think we matured somewhat tonight in that respect," he said.

Odom said he believed that Baptist played on emotion, but that would carry them only so far. "We got the tempo going our way. But this was not a coaching, but a players' victory."

The coach said that over the last few days, with the long trip from Greenville to Tulsa, Oklahoma, and on to Charleston, East Carolina's basketball Pirates return home Saturday to face Atlantic Christian, one of its oldest rivals.

Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum as the Pirates try to climb back above the .500 mark on the year. ECU is currently 7-7.

he had spent a lot of extra time with the players, and he felt that he had learned some new things about them, and them about him. "I hope they learned about each other, too. We are not world beaters, but I think we can play with anyone on our schedule."

He added that in the game the Pirates tried to play everyone and that ECU never pressed. "This was our best team effort of the year."

Clarence Miles missed the trip due to family problems, but is expected to rejoin the team for Saturday's next game, a home encounter against Atlantic Christian in Minges Coliseum at 7:30 p.m.

After the Pirates grabbed the initial lead, Baptist gained control and took a five-point lead on a three-point play by Don Hilton at 9:4 with 16:50 showing.

The Pirates fought back and tied it at 15-15 and 17-17 before taking a 19-17 lead on a goal-tending call on a shot by Hobson.

Baptist tied it up once more, but in the next minute and a half, the Pirates pushed through seven straight points to take a 26-19 lead. Maynor led it off with a three-point play, and Krusen hit a jumper followed by another basket by Maynor around the midpoint of the half.

After a free throw by Baptist, the Pirates added four more points, and when Baptist answered with two more free throws, the Pirates got six more to take a 36-22 lead with 6:30 left.

Baptist put on a rally, cutting the lead back to six, 36-30, but the Pirates pulled away again to take their biggest lead of the half at the end, 49-34.

An early three-point play by Maynor ran the lead to 54-36, and after a Buccaneer score, ECU added six more for a 60-38 lead. Minutes later, a spurt led by Gray ran it out to 69-42. The lead reached its apex at 79-51 at the midpoint of the half.

As it developed, the only real question was whether the Pirates would be able to crack the century mark, but after Szymanski stuffed one for 99 points, Baptist held the ball for the final 30 seconds to prevent it.

Eric Tennille led Baptist with 21 points, while Eddie Talley had 18, Hilton had 12 and Mark Henslee had 10.

Brew Is Captain

East Carolina University senior linebacker Mike Brewington has been elected defensive captain for the South team in the Senior Bowl, to be played Saturday.

The game, held in Mobile, Ala., will pit top players from the South against stars from the North.

Brewington, a former Rose High School star, will start and be the defensive signal caller for the South team.

Tar Heels Top Buc Grapplers

CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina dominated the lower weight classes and gained a 28-21 wrestling victory over East Carolina last night. The Pirates won the final four weights, winning one on a pin and two on forfeits, but by then it was too late against the 17th-ranked Tar Heels, who had won the first six weights. The Heels wins included two pins and a default by injury.

"It was early to wrestle a team of this caliber," Coach Ed Steers of ECU said. "Their forfeiting of the final two weights was a coaching ploy, since they wrestle Navy today, but I feel we would have won those weights anyway, so the score is pretty indicative."

Steers said the key matches were the 142 and 150 weights, where the match could have gone either way. "We were in there right to the end in those."

The Pirates return to action on Saturday, playing host to West Chester at 2 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Rein Missing After Mysterious Crash

CAPE CHARLES, Va. (AP) — Robert E. "Bo" Rein, Louisiana State University's new football coach, was presumed killed today in the crash of a private plane, which was caught in a violent thunderstorm over Louisiana, wandered 1,000 miles off course and plunged into the Atlantic Ocean, officials said.

An Air Force jet pilot, who was following the plane on its bizarre flight, reported he saw it dive 41,000 feet straight into the dark water off the Virginia coast about midnight. He said an oil slick formed in the water.

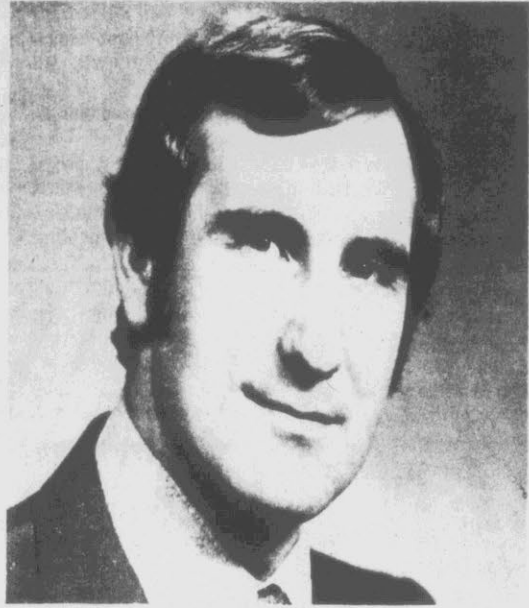

At LSU, officials said the Coast Guard reported no signs of life at the site.

"He is presumed dead," said Paul Manasseh, the school's sports information director.

There was no explanation for the long flight so far from the route requested by the pilot — a direct flight from Shreveport, La., to Baton Rouge, La. The flight left Shreveport about 9:10 p.m. CST Thursday and was to arrive in Baton Rouge at 10:07 p.m.

Edmond Johnson at the Air Force Rescue Center in Fort Worth, Texas, said the pilot radioed that he had run into bad weather and asked for a routing to the east. The shift was approved at 21,000 feet, but radar showed the plane stayed above 25,000, Johnson said.

He said further attempts to raise the plane on radio failed, but it was tracked by radar from station-to-station over the 1,000-mile flight to the sea.

Maj. Bob Walton of the Air Force Rescue Center at Scott Air Force Base in St. Louis said rescue operations were following the plane on radar when it made an unscheduled turn to the northeast toward Memphis, Tenn., and began climbing. By the time the plane reached Memphis it had reached 28,000 feet and was still climbing, Walton said.

Walton said two F-4 planes made visual contact with the plane west of Raleigh, N.C. By this time the plane had reached 30,000 feet and was still climbing, he said.

Walton said the rescue pilots could see no lights on the plane and could not make radio contact. He said the planes followed it until it presumably ran out of gas, went into a vertical dive and crashed into the Atlantic Ocean.

"Our planes followed it right up until the moment it crashed," Walton said.

He said the Coast Guard has planes conducting a search and a Coast Guard ship was en route to the site.

Manasseh said the plane was piloted by Lou Benescotter and the plane was owned by Nichols Construction Co. of Baton Rouge.

Rein was named head coach at LSU Nov. 30, 1979, replacing Coach Charlie McClendon who retired. He had been head coach at North Carolina State.

Goldsboro Pilots Tailed Rein's Plane

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Two Air National Guard pilots based at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base said today they followed a private plane carrying Louisiana State football coach Robert "Bo" Rein on its early morning flight across North Carolina.

Rein's plane subsequently crashed into the Atlantic about 120 miles east of Cape Charles, Va., presumably after running out of fuel.

Capt. Jim Schmeltzer said his F-4 aircraft was the first to approach Rein's plane, which had its running lights on but was flying with a darkened cabin.

Schmeltzer said he made a pass by Rein's plane, rocking his wings in the standard intercept signal, but received no response. He was followed by the other F-4, piloted by Capt. Jack Kelly.

The two pilots said they intercepted the Rein plane over Raleigh shortly after midnight, and followed it to the Virginia coast where aircraft from Langley Air Force Base took over the pursuit.

Kelly and Schmeltzer said the plane remained steady at 250 mph and an altitude of 40,000 feet during the time they were with it. Both expressed the opinion it was an auto-pilot.

Repeated efforts to communicate were not acknowledged, they said.

The pilots said it was too dark to determine if there was any physical damage to the Rein plane, but they expressed surprise that the aircraft was flying at that altitude.

The pilots are on assignment to Seymour Johnson from the Michigan Air National Guard.

Malone, who ran 98 yards for a touchdown against Utah State, threw for just under 1,900 yards in his senior season and Bradley passed for just over 1,000 yards at Arkansas State last fall.

The North team also features two other All-Americans, linebacker George Cumby of Oklahoma and cornerback Mark Haynes of Colorado.

The North also had All-American and former Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims of Oklahoma on the roster, but he withdrew from the game and was replaced by Utah State's Rick Terros.

The South squad has only two first team All-Americans — offensive guard Greg Kolenda of Arkansas and defensive end Jim Stuckey of Clemson.

The South, which leads the series 15-12-3, features a pair of 1,000-yard runners, Joe Cribbs of Auburn and James Hadnot of Texas Tech.

Hadnot probably will see more action at tight end and will serve in a backup role as a runner to Cribbs and Steve Whitman, who scored top-ranked Alabama's clinching touchdown against Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl.

Perkins said he hopes the game will be a high-scoring affair and "it has potential to be high scoring because we'll throw more than we'll run it."

Wolfpack Wins Tenth Straight As Maryland Falls To State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The North Carolina State Wolfpack extended its basketball winning streak to 10 games - the longest since 1974 - with a 67-62 win Thursday night over Maryland.

The victory had Wolfpack coach Norm Sloan passing out the compliments.

"Clyde might have played his best game ever at State," Sloan said of Clyde Austin, whose 16 points matched those of Hawkeye Whitney.

Meanwhile, Maryland coach Lefty Driesell chalked the loss up to some smart playing on the part of the Wolfpack during the last five minutes. North Carolina State scored 10 straight points during that time.

"I thought we played good enough to win but we lost our composure and took some bad shots at the end," Driesell said. "The last couple of minutes they played smarter than we did."

The victory knocked Maryland out of a first-place tie in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race.

Albert King led the Terrapins with 19 points while Ernest Graham scored 17 and Buck Williams threw in 15.

The lead changed hands five times in the first half, with Maryland going ahead 29-27 on a pair of free throws by King, Greg Manning, who had six points in the closing minutes of the half, scored with four seconds remaining to give the Terrapins a 39-35 lead.

The victory gave N.C. State a 10-1 record and improved its ACC mark to 2-0. Maryland's record is now 10-2 overall and 3-1 in the conference.

In other games involving North Carolina teams, East Carolina defeated Baptist, 99-77, and Florida A&M defeated North Carolina A&T, 79-72.

Baptist led briefly by five points, but East Carolina tied the score at 15-15 with seven minutes gone and never trailed again.

East Carolina capitalized on Baptist's bad passes and turnovers to take a 49-34 lead at the half.

The Pirates, now 5-5, were led by George Maynor and Herb Krusen who scored 22 points each.

Baptist's leading scorers were Eric Tennille with 21 and Eddie Talley with 18. It was the school's ninth loss this season and 22nd loss in a row.

Sophomore forward Darryl Spence scored six points in the last 1:12 to help preserve Florida A&M's victory over North Carolina A&T.

Spence led all scorers with 22 points as FAMU improved its overall record to 2-12.

More Selective Shooting Aids Ohio State In Win Over Iowa

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Iowa had four more field goals and 15 more rebounds than Ohio State, but the Buckeyes had six more points.

So what happened?

"We were more selective in our shooting in the second half," said Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller, "and that was the difference."

Thus it was quality, not quantity, that resulted in a 77-71 college basketball victory for the third-ranked Buckeyes over the 12th-ranked Hawkeyes Thursday night.

It was also free throws. Ohio State had 17 while Iowa only managed three.

"We were coming down the floor and taking the shot at the first opportunity and not getting any chances for free throws," Miller said of the first half. "We did take better shots in the second half and the free throws came."

It was a hard-earned victory for the Buckeyes, considering that the Hawkeyes held a 48-33 rebounding advantage.

"When you have a team that plays that hard," said Miller of Iowa, "you always feel fortunate to beat them. You know game for us," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said of Salinas. "We had to do some things with our bench tonight because of a lack of offense early in the game. Tonight our bench came through."

Ray Blume scored 22 points and Steve Johnson had 19 to lead Oregon State past Arizona. The teams battled on even terms most of the way, with the lead changing hands 31 times. The Beavers finally took the lead for good with 3:46 remaining on a Johnson stuff shot.

Drake Morris hit nine free throws in the final three minutes and Joe Barry Carroll chalked up 27 points to pace Purdue over Illinois. The Boilermakers took the lead for good at 57-55 on a Carroll hook shot with 4:53 remaining.

"The difference in the game was on the boards," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson. "I thought we played good defense in the first half on Carroll, but not in the second half. It's almost impossible to stop him unless your zone holds up."

The Boilermakers helped their cause by shooting nearly 52 percent from the field (29-of-56). And Purdue had only three turnovers in the second half after recording 12 in the first.

"It was not necessarily a great game," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose. "But, we also had to prepare for the weekend during the game."

Purdue hosts Michigan in Big Ten action Saturday and then goes against undefeated Syracuse in a nationally televised game Sunday.

Steve Bouchie scored a career-high 20 points and Ray Tolbert added 18 to pacee Indiana over Michigan. Tolbert's tip-in shot put the Hoosiers on top to stay in the overtime period and the 6-9 junior guard widened the margin to four points a half minute later on a pair of free throws.

Elsewhere, Mark Hall scored 22 points, including five in overtime, to spark Minnesota past Wisconsin 82-76; Brian Gibson scored six of his 14 points in the final two minutes to help Northwestern defeat Michigan State 65-61; Lewis Lloyd collected 38 points and 10 rebounds as Drake walloped Southern Illinois 116-91; Mickey Dillard and Larry Brown combined for 46 points to trigger pointed out that the school's women's teams are not involved in any way with the current battle.

"There could be some confusion, since four of our women's teams participate on the Division I level and four others on the Division II level. These are AIAW and not NCAA levels of competition," Cain said.

While things haven't looked good for the formation of a new conference, which might involve East Carolina in at least basketball, if not several other sports, action taken at the NCAA convention could change that.

The NCAA has implemented a rule which now provides for conferences which wish an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament to play to a full double-round-robin schedule. The Atlantic Coast Conference has, for years, had this, but some other conferences, notably the Big Ten and Southeastern, haven't. They have started, this year, with such schedules.

The bulk of the teams mentioned as possible members of a new conference involving East Carolina are members of the East Coast Athletic Conference (ECAC), and play in one of its three divisions.

However, these divisions are large, having 12 or 13 members each. Requiring these divisions to play a double round-robin would cut non-conference play to almost a minimum under the current 27 (or 26 and a conference tourney) game rules.

A proposal was introduced at the NCAA meeting to avoid such a rule, thus allowing the ECAC teams to keep their current status, but it failed.

So, if those teams wish to retain their automatic berth, they will have to 1) play a double round-robin; 2) further divide into several more divisions; or 3) form new conferences.

If either of the latter come about, East Carolina stands an outstanding chance of being included.

Our 1979 panel of experts finally finished up its balloting, and it's all over but the shouting.

By some wild quirk of fate (and a ton of good luck) this writer managed to hold onto first place with a 107-49 record. Fellow sports writer Rick Scoppe, the rookie of the bunch, finished second with a 103-53 mark, followed by our guests, who posted a 100-56 record. New East Carolina coach Em Emory had a 9-6 record for the bowls to help the guests along.

Tom Baines, last year's champ, finished fourth with a 99-57 mark, followed by the previous two years' champ, Joe Jenkins, 97-59. Our distaff picker, Etha Allen, was last, at 96-60.

We start again in September.

It appears that the battle lines will soon be drawn for the forthcoming battle between the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) over future control of women's sports on the college level.

The AIAW, just beginning to come to the fore as a national force, is fighting to prevent the women's sports from being overcome by the NCAA, the far older men's organization.

At the recently concluded NCAA meeting in New Orleans, the organization decided to challenge the women's organization by sponsoring championships in several women's sports on the Division II and III levels. No Division I-A or I-AA schools will be involved.

However, there will be a close watch on the outcome by the upper bracket schools, of which East Carolina is a member, to see what develops. Already, the AIAW is threatening a suit against the NCAA for trying to infringe on its territory.

The battle for control of women's athletics could become one of the dominate issues during the 1980's, since Title IX seems to have finally been settled—at least the interpretation of the rules. The implementation of those rules still has to be fought out.

Win Is Last Thing On Rookie's Mind

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Realistically, rookie Bob Proben isn't even thinking about winning the $304,500 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

But Jerry Pate is. "I just want to have a good time and see where it takes me," said Proben, 25, whose 4-under-par 68 Thursday gave him a share of the rain-delayed first-round lead with the dangerous Pate and Keith Ferguson.

"I'd certainly like to win. It would start the year off right," said Pate, "I didn't win a tournament last year. It's the first year since I've been a pro that I've gone through a year without winning. I had 10 chances to win. I think it's about time I started winning and winning consistently."

Pate, who won his first title in the 1976 U.S. Open, birdied his last two holes at Indian Wells, while the longshot Proben, who has cashed only two checks in his brief career, made three-putt bogeys on his last two holes at La Quinta. Ferguson played at Eldorado.

The group at 69 included Gil Morgan, Tim Simpson, Mark Hayes, Lee Elder, Lindy Miller, Lon Nielsen and Craig Stadler. Stadler was at Eldorado, Nielsen at Eldorado and the others at Indian Wells.

Howard Twitty's 70 was the best score at tough Bermuda Dunes. Johnny Miller, on a comeback from a long, puzzling slump, shot 73 there but withdrew with the recurrence of a chronic neck problem.

"I just scraped it around with a funky, manufactured swing," Miller said. "I'm so pleased with my game right now. I don't want to ungroove it."

Defending champion John Mahaffey finished off a 70 at Indian Wells with host Hope and former President Gerald Ford among his amateur partners.

Five-time Hope winner Arnold Palmer, now 50, scored a hole in one. Boston Red Sox outfielder Jim Rice was among the amateurs who watched Arnold hole a 150-yard shot with an 8-iron on the sixth hole at Indian Wells. He had a 70.

The five-day, 90-hole event, the kickoff tournament for the 1980 season, was thrown a day off schedule by heavy rains, which interrupted Wednesday's play. The first round was completed Thursday. The tournament now is scheduled to end on Monday — weather permitting. The forecast, however, called for heavy rains today.

Willie Stargell Is AP's Top Male Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Stargell, named Male Athlete of the Year for 1979 by The Associated Press, says the honor would not have been possible without his "Family," the rest of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I'm really grateful and very pleased," Stargell said, "but if it was not for the other 24 guys who I break bread with and do so many things with all summer, this wouldn't be possible."

Stargell said the magnitude of the award was especially important to him.

"Any time you talk about picking one guy out of the literally thousands of fine athletes from all over the world, well, I'd be lying to tell you I don't get goose bumps to hear this," he said.

Stargell received 48½ votes in nationwide balloting by more than 200 sports writers and broadcasters. Sugar Ray Leonard, who won the World Boxing Council welterweight championship in November, finished second with 28 votes and English track star Sebastian Coe, who set three world distance records in 42 days last summer, was third with 24.

Earlier, tennis star Tracy Austin was named Female Athlete of the Year.

Stargell learned of the AP award Thursday at a press conference at which he was named sales manager for a new line of shavers for blacks. "I said I wouldn't blush today, but you're making me blush," he said.

For Stargell, the honor capped a list of awards that he won after he led the Pirates to baseball's world championship. During the regular season, it was Stargell who became the leader of the team, on the field and off. At age 38, he enjoyed one of his most productive seasons, batting .281 with a club-high 32 home runs and 81 runs batted in.

Just as important as his production on the field was his leadership off it. As the club's captain and senior citizen, Stargell supplied the Pirates with a father figure, a man they could rally around. He provided the team with the togetherness that carried Pittsburgh to the top of the National League East Division.

First, he introduced Stargell's stars, tiny gold paste-ons that he awarded to teammates at appropriate moments. They became proud symbols on the club and players wore them on their caps like medals.

Then he and some of the other disco-fans on the club adopted the popular Sister Sledge tune, "We Are Family," as the team's theme song. They felt it fit the relationship the players felt for each other.

Stargell's bat led Pittsburgh down the stretch as the Pirates battled Montreal for the NL East title. His regular season performance earned him a share of the Most Valuable Player title with first baseman Keith Hernandez of St. Louis.

Stargell was the unanimous choice as MVP in the National League playoffs when he batted .455 in Pittsburgh's three-game sweep of Cincinnati. Then he swept the World Series MVP award, again as a unanimous choice, after batting .400 with 12 hits, seven of them for extra bases, as the Pirates defeated Baltimore in seven games.

See Big Loss In Games' Boycott

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Peacock meets The Bear.

It is possible, I suppose, that the Kremlin did not consider NBC's 1980-81 prime time schedule when drawing plans for the Afghanistan intervention. In any event, the march of Red army onto Afghan turf could well ruin Fred Silverman & Co.'s neat plans for a happy future.

The linchpin of NBC's recovery plan was a successful 1980 Moscow Olympics. The design, like television itself, was simple, with a beginning, middle and end: NBC would spend lots of money to buy the Olympics, use the event as a promotional tool for its 1980 fall schedule, and parlay its investment to the No. 1 position in the ratings race. It worked for ABC in 1976 and, given Fred Silverman's record, figured to work for NBC in 1980.

Unfortunately for NBC, Russia's historical imperatives were not figured into the scenario. Russia gets this occasional urge to visit the sea, Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan sit between the Soviet Union and the Arabian Sea. Russia went into Afghanistan.

This complicates things for NBC. President Carter has threatened to boycott the Moscow Olympics and has urged other nations to follow suit. Saudi Arabia, which likely isn't happy over the prospect of Russians in the Persian Gulf (also easier to get to from Afghanistan than from Russia), has already announced its intention to boycott the Games and is asking its friends to join in.

The British Commonwealth may boycott, and other nations, as well. This bodes ill for the Moscow Olympics, and, thus, for NBC. If President Carter calls for a boycott it's quite likely that the U.S. Olympic Committee would oblige. And without U.S. participation, NBC is left with damaged goods.

If the U.S. drops out, NBC might drop its plans to cover the Games. The network has insurance that would cover most of its financial loss (the Moscow Olympics cost is estimated at more than $150 million right now), and the 152 hours of planned Olympic coverage from July 18 to Aug. 5 could be filled with regular programming. But the value of the Moscow Olympics as a promotional tool is incalculable. Under Silverman, the network has learned to appreciate the value of on-air promotion. The hope was that viewers glued to Summer Games would become familiar with the NBC prime time lineup after a barrage of promotion spots.

Rumor Cagney Ready For Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rumor has it James Cagney may end his long retirement from motion pictures to appear in the movie version of "Ragtime" which Milos Forman will direct for Dino De Laurentiis. Director Forman said Cagney, 80, volunteered his services to play a New York police commissioner in the film.

FIEDLER'S SUCCESSOR — Oscar-winning film composer John Williams, Arthur Fiedler's successor as conductor of the Boston Pops, conducts his press conference at the Savoy Hotel in London Thursday night and tells newsmen "I had no hesitation at all about accepting the job and the change of musical direction. "It's always difficult for anyone to follow a myth," the 47-year-old composer of "Star Wars" score told his news conference. (AP/Lasch/Photo)

Opening lead: Jack of ♣.
Whether declaring or defending, it is important to remember who holds what. This hand from a side game at the ACBL Fall North American Championships in Cincinnati proves just how important it can be.

Seven clubs is the optimum contract, and it is cold against any defense. But the vagaries of duplicate scoring led many pairs to try the grand slam in no trump. Against that contract the jack of hearts was the normal lead, and with careful play that contract should have rolled home. R. L. Graham and R. E. L. Bailey of Charleston, W. Va., not only bid the grand slam in no trump, but proceeded to justify their auction in the play.

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy, discarding a diamond, and immediately cashed three rounds of diamonds, discarding two spades from dummy. Had that suit behaved in a friendly manner, declarer would have been able to claim. Unfortunately, the 4-2 split was expected, and declarer mentally tucked away the fact that West held the last diamond.

Next came five rounds of clubs. West could not afford to sluff more than two hearts, and he had to keep a diamond, so he was forced to discard the queen of spades. East was under no pressure, parting with three spades, and declarer also let go a spade. The two high hearts were cashed. Both defenders followed as declarer discarded his remaining two diamonds.

Declarer led a spade from dummy. Should he finesse or play to drop the king in the West hand? If you remember little things, you can't go wrong. From the opening lead, West is marked with the ten of hearts as one of his remaining two cards. And you know that he holds a diamond for the other—your sequence of plays did not give him a chance to discard that card. So do what declarer did—finesse the jack of spades and score your grand slam!

At Least 13 Persons Dead In Pacific Northwest Blizzard

By DEBORAH WOOD
Associated Press Writer

Lights were out in thousands of homes today after a howling snowstorm blitzed much of the Pacific and Rocky Mountain West. Schools and businesses were shut, and in some states, nearly all major highways were closed. In Oregon, a lone Amtrak train was the only vehicle of escape for some stranded motorists.

The storm, now in its fourth day in some states, has left at least 13 persons dead, unloaded enough snow to force closure of some ski areas and yanked the temperature to 17 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont.

In Wyoming, thunder and lightning accompanied the storm and winds gusting to 50 mph broke car windows in Medicine Bow.

Cites Shift In N.C. Industry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State officials say they believe a record $2.4 billion in new industrial investment during 1979 may make North Carolina second in new investment in the Southeast.

Gov. Jim Hunt released the investment figures Thursday and said new industry will create more than 37,000 jobs in the state when all the plants are in full operation.

"This has been a period of unprecedented growth in our employment and in our industrial economy," Hunt said. "The capital investment was a 20-percent increase over the figure invested during 1978. During the past three years, there has been nearly a 150-percent increase in investment in the state, state commerce officials said."

Commerce Secretary D.M. "Lunch" Faircloth said that according to 1978 figures, the largest moving Arctic front bumped into a moist front heading north from Southern California.

Portland General Electric Co. reported 51,000 customers without electricity and Pacific Power & Light said 1,500 of its customers were without service.

Power flashed out in downtown Salt Lake City and in several other intermountain communities Thursday and schools and roads were closed. Up to 1/2 feet of new snow fell on the upper slopes of the Sawtooth and Targhee mountains.

Idaho Power Co. spokesman Bob Brown said as many as 15,000 Idaho customers were without power at one time Thursday.

Oregon state officials said snowload alerts were issued for buildings, where some accumulations reached load limits. They said recent improvements in insulation were causing larger snow buildups due to lack of building heat loss to help melt the snow.

Many businesses and homeowners reported collapsed roofs.

A foot of new snow fell on the western slope of the Colorado Rockies Thursday as the storm moved into that state, packing winds gusting to nearly 90 mph near Fort Collins. Winds as high as 70 mph downed power lines and forced closure of ski areas at Steamboat Springs.

Colorado officials said travel advisories and avalanche warnings had been posted in many areas. Heavy rains and gale force winds whalloped central and northern California as the second storm in a week blew in from Hawaii, which also was hard-hit with high winds and rain.

More than a foot of new snow was reported in western Wyoming. Authorities said the storm closed nearly every major road in the state and posed a continuing avalanche threat to Snake River Canyon.

Oregon Gov. Vic Atiyeh on Thursday declared Multnomah and Hood River counties, the state's most populous, to be disaster areas as the damage tallied. The Columbia River Gorge was the hardest hit, with areas of Hood River County reporting a foot of snow.

An Amtrak train chugged from Hood River westward to Portland on Thursday evening, picking up motorists and truckers stranded along roads made impassable by snowdrifts or fallen trees and power lines. In Colorado, National Weather Service forecaster Gary Frazer said the snowstorm was spawned when a southeast available, North Carolina is the leading state in the Southeast in new jobs resulting from capital investment and was second in dollars of new investment.

Steve Meehan, a spokesman for the Commerce Department, said state officials have checked informally with other states in the Southeast, and believe 1979 investment figures will also show North Carolina as the second leading state in the region.

Hunt said the new industries reflect a shift away from the state's traditional industries such as furniture and textiles.

The five leading categories in 1979 were petroleum refining, machinery, automobile and truck-related, electronics and lumber industries, he said.

"It's not only important that we are growing, but how we are growing. And we are growing with quality and diversity," Hunt said.

You Have Insomnia? Don't Lose Sleep Over It

DR. JASPER SHEALY, an industrial engineering professor, says skiing is not as dangerous as people believe, and the majority of ski injuries are not severe. Shealy advises caution on the slopes, "but caution can be overdone", he adds. (UPI Photo)

Ski Safety Researcher Debunks Injury Myths

By MARK D. FRANK
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — A skilled skier barrels downhill at breakneck speed. He encounters a knotty spot of terrain, flies through the air and plunges to earth with jarring impact.

At another area of a ski center is another skier just learning the ropes. Skiing along at a leisurely, relaxed pace, he attempts to make a short turn. Instead, he skids on ice and gently falls in the snow.

The proficient skier could be expected to break his leg or ankle, while the second simply would walk away none the worse for wear?

Wrong, says Dr. Jasper Shealy, a ski safety expert and one of few ski safety researchers in the country.

"The little old lady skiing cautiously has a better chance of getting seriously hurt than the hot-shot skier," said Shealy. "If the hot-shot falls, he'll probably walk away."

Shealy, an industrial engineering professor at the Rochester Institute of Technology, frequently is called to testify in ski injury lawsuits and now is conducting injury studies on downhill and cross-country skiing. He is a member of a subcommittee on ski safety for the American Society for Testing Materials.

One of his favorite topics is debunking myths connected with ski safety and injuries.

Shealy said his research shows that ski lessons do not lower the accident rate because instructors usually emphasize technique, not safety.

"If you take lessons it will make you somewhat safer earlier on, but it has no long-term effect on making you ultimately safer," he said. "Lessons are of no significance as far as safety goes."

Although learning how to fall properly is covered in most ski lessons, Shealy said most things not covered are learned "through the school of hard knocks."

"Most instructors don't go over how to maintain equipment properly or how to avoid accidents when encountering ice," he said. "How to ski on ice should be included."

"We haven't gone as far as we can in the analysis of skiing to see what we can teach people to make it safer."

In one of his more surprising findings, Shealy said the severity of an injury is inversely related to speed. In other words, the slower someone is skiing, an injury is more likely to be severe.

"If you look at the strength of tissue — legs and bones for example — you'll find the bone is literally stronger on impact than with slowly applied force," he said.

"Imagine that you have a bucket of molasses and that you put a plastic spoon in the bucket and stir. If you stir slowly, the spoon won't break. But if you stir it fast, the spoon will break," he said. "The molasses is like the leg in that the faster you try to stir, the stronger it becomes."

And, ski bindings release more readily on sharp impact, Shealy said.

Skiing is not as dangerous as people believe and the majority of ski injuries are not severe, he said.

"It's a question of perception," the 40-year-old professor said. "The reported injury rate for downhill skiing is about one per 1,000 skier days. Of course there are many more than what is reported, probably twice as many. But even then, that's not too bad."

"About half of downhill ski injuries are bruises and sprains," he added. "There are just a small number of fractures. Most injuries are relatively non-serious."

"But people have a perception that it's riskier than it really is," Shealy contended. "The injury rate 10 years ago was two times as much as it is now."

He said the reduced injury rate is due to improvements in equipment and snow-making apparatus, making for smoother terrain.

Shealy urged skiers to use caution on the slopes, but not too much caution.

"I'm not advocating people fly through the air, but caution can be overdone," he said.

By STEPHEN J. MORGAN
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — If you're one of the millions of Americans who suffer insomnia, don't lose too much sleep over it.

Dr. Ralph B. Little, associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the Medical College of Pennsylvania, says worrying about insomnia is one thing that aggravates the problem.

Statistics are hard to come by, but Little said surveys have shown that 30 percent of Americans are insomniacs.

Even though "there is an awful lack of information about sleep disorders," Little said enough is known to offer help.

First, people must recognize that loss of a few hours sleep here and there is not insomnia. Nor are people who can get by on as little as four or five hours a night insomniacs.

"Insomnia is not really how much sleep you get but how it affects you. It's when the person feels upset and tired the next day, that's what makes the condition called insomnia," Little said in an interview.

Second, everyone has his own "individual time clock" that establishes a sleep pattern.

This clock can be disrupted if a person "goes on shift work or takes a jet flight," Little said.

In addition, people should be wary of using drugs to alleviate insomnia. Little said some doctors prescribe sleeping pills for insomniacs without understanding the nature of sleep.

"They feel that the only way to cure insomnia is to increase the time of sleep. But that's not what it's all about," he said. "(Insomniacs) may get the full amount of sleep but they have a hard time getting the right kind of sleep."

So, what can insomniacs do?

"People should have a definite routine about preparing themselves (for bed)," Little said. "The bedroom should be a quiet place of sleep, and the bed should only be used for two things: sleeping and sex. It should not be used for studying or watching TV or bookwork or anything like that."

"Go to bed at a definite time every night. And you must get up at the same time (each day), and there should be no naps."

Little also suggested "trying to rid your mind of worries from during the day. Any time you catch yourself thinking of an unfinished problem, think of something else. Get away from stressful and upsetting subjects."

Heavy meals should be eaten not less than four hours before going to bed. "And you should not have any tea, coffee or chocolate at least six hours before," he said.

There are three common types of insomnia, prompted by psychological rather than physical causes.

One, Little said, "is the person who is tired and can't wait to hit the bed but as soon as he hits it, he's up."

For this, Little advised, try to "relax the muscles of the forehead, eyes and nose and get a certain word to think about while you are doing that."

The second type is a person who arises in the middle of the night feeling wide awake, but worries that if he doesn't get a few more hours he won't be able to make it through the day.

Little suggests staying up. If a person feels refreshed, he probably has had enough sleep.

The third type is the sleeper who awakens at 3 a.m., feels dead tired and can't drop off again.

Little advised "trying not to disturb (yourself). Try not to get the senses fully awake. Try to get a little something to eat, not too much though."

Little said there are two kinds of sleepers — the short sleeper and long sleeper.
