Iran Militants Assailed By President Bani Sadr

By The Associated Press
Iranian President Abolhasan Bani Sadr today angrily denounced the Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran as "dictators who have created a government within a government."

Bani Sadr's attack, his strongest yet on the embassy militants, came after they broadcast allegations that the minister of information and national guidance, Nasser Minachi, had "close links with the CIA." Minachi was arrested by revolutionary guards without government authorization at about midnight Tuesday.

The minister had denied the allegations before being seized at his home.

The new tension between Bani Sadr and the militants arose as Iranian officials gave conflicting signals on whether the establishment of a U.N. investigation of the ex-shah's regime would lead to the release of the approximately 50 embassy hostages.

It was announced Tuesday night that Bani Sadr had been chosen chairman of Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council, strengthening his position and raising hopes among those who expect him to try to get the American hostages released.

The new president, stung by the arbitrary arrest of Minachi, told the Tehran daily newspaper Kayhan that although the militants may not realize it they are paving the way for lawlessness in the country.

"How could you expect a government employee to go to work feeling secure," he said. "When there is no legal or judicial security in the country, that will undoubtedly lead to disorder."

Bani Sadr also attacked the state-owned television network for acting without prior government approval in giving the embassy militants air time Tuesday night to broadcast their allegations.

The militants found documents in the embassy files "proving the existence of close links between Nasser Minachi... and both the U.S. Embassy and the CIA," Tehran Radio reported in a broadcast monitored in Kuwait.

Until today, Bani Sadr's criticism of the militants had been confined to statements to the effect that the new government alone must make decisions for the country.

Council spokesman Hassan Habibi announced Bani Sadr's selection Tuesday night and said it was subject to approval by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

But this seemed merely a formality since Iran's 79-year-old revolutionary leader endorsed Bani Sadr when he swore him in as president Monday in the hospital where the ayatollah is recuperating from a heart attack.

Habibi said parliamentary elections would begin March 7. Bani Sadr is expected to name his cabinet after the elections.

Bani Sadr's foes in the council lost their first round against him when they failed in an attempt to delay his swearing-in as president until after the elections. They lost again with his selection as council chairman.

Problems With Textbook Policy And HEW Studied

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
Problems with HEW and a new textbook adoption policy were the major items on the agenda when the Pitt County Board of Education met yesterday in their regular session.

Superintendent Ott Alford reported on the status of the charges filed by HEW against Pitt County Schools alleging discrimination in grouping procedure and in vocational education programs. The board sought help from the University of Tennessee's Desegregation Specialist Staff and this staff referred them to a center out of Hillsborough. Brenda Redfern of the General Assistance Company in Raleigh and Dr. George Noblitt of Educational Development and Studies at the University of North Carolina were introduced at the meeting. They have been working with the board of education to alleviate the difficulties with HEW.

Superintendent Alford said, "There will be no disruption of schedules now. Any regrouping will be done next fall." Alford also said he believes there needs to be a clarification of language. "We group by achievement and not abilities," he stressed.

The Board asked for a March 1 delay for compliance with HEW's demands but Superintendent Alford reported that they had not yet been notified whether a delay had been granted.

The board also approved a new textbook adoption policy that calls for the same publisher's series of books to be adopted in each subject where feasible. According to Kathryn Lewis, Assistant Superintendent, a single adoption policy will provide consistency and continuity in the curriculum.

Superintendent Alford said that the multiple adoption policy was "difficult for inventory" and that the single adoption would make it much easier to know precisely what was available. Both Lewis and Alford added that the new policy would not make it easier to determine if a book will be available on time.

Lewis also said that the new adoption procedures cut down on the number of teachers involved in textbook adoptions. "The new policy will give them more time to do what needs to be done," she explained.

Lewis also called for adoption of a standard approach to the teaching of reading to accompany a standard textbook. She recommended that a single reading text be used at least through the level that basic skills are taught, that this text have a strong phonics approach, and that the phonics be taught first. Asserts Justice Dept. Plans Withhold Data On Eight Lawmakers

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department will withhold from congressional ethics committees evidence the FBI has amassed on eight congressmen allegedly implicated in the bureau's political corruption inquiry, the chairman of one of the panels said today.

"That was the indication given to me" at a meeting Tuesday night with Assistant Attorney General Philip Heymann, Sen. Howell Heflin, Senate Ethics Committee chairman, said in a CBS-TV interview.

Heflin, D-Ala., noted that his full committee planned to meet with Heymann and other Justice Department officials later today.

"Unless they (the officials) change their mind, I think they will tell (the committee) that they don't think it would be proper to turn over the evidence and the information that they have," Heflin said.

A source close to Heflin said earlier that the Justice Department was concerned with protecting "the integrity of its own investigation."

Heymann, who runs the department's Criminal Division, also planned an appearance before the House ethics committee today.

Heflin, a former appeals court judge, said he was "torn between a lot of responsibilities and obligations."

"There is an obligation to clear this matter up... immediately if we can," he said. "We've got to protect individual rights. But I think the American people need to have their faith restored in the American political process."

Heflin said his committee might go to court to force the Justice Department's cooperation in its inquiry, but he said he hoped some settlement could be reached without legal action.

Dollar Day

"Dollar Day," one of Greenville's oldest trade events, will be held Thursday, sponsored by the Downtown Greenville Association.

Tomorrow's activities mark the 34th year of "Dollar Day" sales in Greenville, according to John Shannonhouse, president of the DGA.

Shannonhouse said that Greenville merchants will be participating in the final clearance of winter merchandise and he noted that, "Hundreds of bargains will be offered and local merchants have invited everyone to take part."

Free parking will be available all day in the downtown area for the convenience of shoppers taking advantage of the traditional winter sale, the spokesman said.

Roy Taylor, chairman of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce Merchants Committee, said that historically, "Dollar Day" is one of the busiest shopping days in the Greenville area.

Taylor said that Chamber of Commerce members will display "Dollar Day" banners in their store windows.

SECOND TIME AROUND... This is a typical street scene in Greenville at mid-morning as the second snow of the season fell on Greenville. Motorists have been advised to travel only when necessary, and to drive with extreme caution. Street crews are on duty, and schools in Greenville and Pitt County have been let out early. (Reflector photo by Tommy Forrest)

New Snow Brings Special Measures

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The old saying that a snow that stays is waiting for another proved to be true as snow began falling in Greenville this morning on top of last week's snow that survived several days of sunshine.

And with the first fall of flakes shortly after sunrise this morning, various agencies and offices began taking measures to meet snow conditions.

At the Public Works

Department, director Mayo Allen said "all our divisions are operating under normal conditions except for the street division, which has been put on full-time clearing operations."

"The street division crew has been divided into two sections. One section is already at work, spreading sand on bridges, which is one of the first steps any time we have snow and ice. They are also reporting to any area where we find ice on the road. Right now," (10 a.m.) Allen said, "the snow is not sticking. The real problem may come later today if the snow that is melting now begins to freeze, creating slick roads. We have the second crew due to go on duty at two this afternoon, and if it gets real bad, we have people from other sections to call in to help."

Allen said that if conditions are right, "we will be blocking off a few streets with hills to give a place for people to use for sledding."

Allen said that anyone having a problem spot that needs attention is asked to call the Public Works Department and report it.

Sgt. R. B. Miller of the State Highway Patrol Office said that early reports indicated some of the secondary roads in the county are already becoming snow covered, but that no especially hazardous conditions had been spotted or reported. "I advise travelers to drive carefully and to drive only when necessary," Miller said.

A report from Greenville Utilities shows that at 11 a.m. one and one-half inches of

Farmville Board Asked Name Square For Family

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners last night heard a request from the Tyson-May family to name the square block on which the town may eventually build a town hall complex Tyson Square.

A letter from William Howard Hooker of Marietta, Ga. was acknowledged. Hooker, a Tyson descendant, has offered to fund through the Greenville Foundation an annual legacy of between $1,000 and $1,200 for use by the Town of Farmville to beautify, improve and maintain Tyson Square, if it is so named. The gift would become active upon Hooker's death.

The board took no action on the request. Persons in the audience who indicated that they are Tyson family members and are in favor of the move included Flanagan Tyson, Henry Tyson Smith, Robert May, Van Lewis, and Town Attorney Jack Lewis.

A public hearing was held on the FY81 budget, but there was no citizen input.

A resolution was adopted seeking designation as a "Community Employment Center" under the classification system of the North Carolina Balanced Growth Policy. It was noted in the resolution that the town "serves as an important center of urban services and economic activity to the immediate community and to nearby small communities and rural areas." Also, it was noted that "the Town has carefully prepared itself for growth in population, commerce, industry and delivery of services through comprehensive planning and installation of community facilities."

A petition from residents of Bynum Drive for speed bumps on the street was referred to the Street Committee.

The board approved a suggestion by Police Chief Ron Cooper that the service revolver used by Former Police Chief Carl Tanner during his tenure be given to Tanner. The General Statutes require that guns owned by the town be sold, so the Police Department offered to use its "Pepsi money" to buy the gun for Tanner. The board set the amount of sale at $1. The gun is to be presented to Tanner, conditional upon his obtaining the required firearms permit.

An ordinance was adopted ordering the repair or demolition of a residence at 209 Williams Street.

April 14 was set as the date for the sale of liens on 1979 real estate taxes.

Commissioners Charles Joyner and John Turner Walston and Town Administrator Patrick Thomas reported on their visit to Apex, Garner and Wendell yesterday to look at roll-out garbage collection in action. (Continued on page 18)

Experts Tell How To Fight Back And Win

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Attorney Stephen A. Newman says automotive, television and appliance repairs and home improvements "represent probably the most significant consumer problem in America today."

"They cause the most grief and often are expensive. They're repeat purchases. The consumer has the least amount of knowledge and the seller, the most."

Newman, a professor at the New York Law School and a specialist in consumer law, says a lot of how-to-do-it manuals grew out of the frustrations consumers suffer in dealing with repair people and companies.

Now Newman and Nancy Kramer, another New York City lawyer, have written a manual themselves.

"Getting What You Deserve" (Doubleday-Dolphin, $8.95 paper) is based on the federally-funded pilot project they conducted at New York Law School from 1975-78. He and Ms. Kramer were co-directors of the Consumer Law Training Center. At the time, she was senior attorney for the New York Public Interest Research Group, Inc., one of the nation's largest private consumer advocacy organizations. Ms. Kramer has since become director of the Committee for Public Justice, a national civil liberties organization.

The center was a joint consumer education program of the law school, NYPIRG and Brooklyn Legal Services Corp. B, which provides free neighborhood legal services to the poor as part of a city-wide program. Funding came from the U.S. Office of Education, Community Service and Continuing Education Program.

The center's students were about 120 community leaders from organizations and schools in the New York City metropolitan area.

"I'm not confident all the work we did will reach the right people," Newman said in an interview. "Consumer education has to be done on a very local level."

But he is encouraged by the response starting to come in from settlement houses and adult education programs using the center's materials.

"Some have used consumer rights curriculum to teach English as a second language. Some use it for individual counseling."

Both represent the sort of creative use Newman would like to see more of.

He said the training manual tells how to teach teachers, who can then go into their communities and teach consumers how to avoid rip-offs and what to do if they think they have been ripped off.

The introduction to the training manual spells out the advantages and disadvantages of educating consumers directly versus advocacy training or teacher training:

—Direct consumer education reaches relatively few persons. Small classes are inefficient, but large ones allow little or no time for discussion or feedback from students. It becomes difficult to determine if they've learned anything or if they can apply their knowledge and skills outside the classroom.

—Advocacy training is partly aimed at resolving existing problems, and learning to cope with bureaucrats.

—Teacher training reaches more consumers and can tailor programs to each group's special needs and wishes.

Their trade book covers the same ground in even greater detail. Among other things it tells how to:

—Buy new and used cars;

—Complain effectively;

—Recognize and avoid frauds and con games;

—Choose a contractor for home improvements;

—Evaluate health clubs and other lesson-giving organizations, moving companies, mail order businesses, repair shops, travel and vacation services;

—Establish credit and examine your credit file.

Other subjects include health care, legal matters — from choosing a lawyer to using a small claims court, and how to qualify for the latter. The last part of the book tells how to form consumer groups and cooperatives and how to use picketing, leaflets and boycotts effectively. There's even a directory of federal consumer offices arranged alphabetically by subject, from advertising to warranties.

The book is available through bookstores and book departments nationwide. The teacher training manual is $15 a copy from: Consumer Law Training Center, New York Law School, 57 Worth St., New York, N.Y. 10013.

Dr. Wilkerson To Speak

Dr. Jack Wilkerson will be guest speaker at this month's meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of American Association of Medical Assistants. He will discuss "Hypertension — the Silent Killer."

Dr. Wilkerson was honored by the Association of Medical Assistants recently as one of their first and loyal supporters.

Members are reminded that monthly meeting are now being held at the new offices of Pitt Surgical Associates in Doctors Park, Building No. 10, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Visitors are welcome to attend the meeting.

Students To Give Program

The meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club, Arts and Home Life Departments will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the club building.

The program will be presented by the music students, who will represent the club in the District Arts Festival March 1 in Windsor.

Her Husband Is Mac The Strife

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for 30 years. We have a great marriage, except for the resentment he shows when I go out every Monday evening to play canasta with the girls, and bingo on Friday evenings in the basement of our church.

I've asked Mac to come along and play bingo, but he refused. He didn't mind my going out for four years because he was working second shift. But now that he's back on first shift, he wants me to sit home and listen to him snore in a chair after supper.

Abby, I never worked when my kids were growing up, so I think I have earned two nights a week out.

Am I wrong or selfish? Should I give up my canasta and bingo, or put up with Mac's complaints?

WILLING TO PLEASE

DEAR WILLING: Offer Mac a compromise. Tell him you will spend only one night each week away from him provided he spends the other night doing something with you. (Playing honeymoon bridge, Scrabble, or going to a movie.) He is being selfish to expect you to sit home and listen to him snore.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl. Last year my Mom and Dad split up. I live with Mom, and Dad lives in an apartment with Marge, his girlfriend. When Dad and Marge started living together, they didn't hide it. They had me over their apartment as if they were married. When I said, "Dad, does this mean that Ricky (he's my 17-year-old boyfriend) and I can live together when we're of age?"

Then Dad said, "No! If you can support yourself totally when you are of age, then you can live any way you like, but as long as I'm expected to kick in with money for your support, I will have something to say about it."

Abby, how come it's OK for Dad to live with somebody outside of marriage, but not for me?

DON'T GET IT

DEAR DON'T: With your Dad it's a matter of money, not morals. As long as he's providing the roof over your head, he wants a say about who's sleeping under it.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked, "How long should a hostess hold up a meal for a tardy guest?"

You replied, "15 minutes is long enough."

I agree. The question and your reply reminded me of the rule I always had when I was in the corporate entertaining world: "NEVER EARLY, AND NOT MORE THAN 15 MINUTES LATE."

It was such a steadfast rule that, one evening, in order not to arrive 15 minutes early at the home of friends who had invited us to dinner, my wife and I proceeded to drive around to kill time. We got lost, and drove around for 45 minutes before finding our way back! I spent the entire evening apologizing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO KNOW BUT HATES TO LOOK STUPID": Ask anyway. There is no such thing as a "stupid" question if it's sincere. Better to ask and risk appearing "stupid" than to continue on your ignorant way and make a stupid mistake.

Teens: Are there some questions you just can't ask anyone about sex, drugs, your own feelings? Get Abby's new booklet, WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW. Send $2 to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.

Address comments and questions to Abby, c/o Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Cutting Down On Energy Usage

If you're attempting to cut down on your home energy use, remember that only five appliances account for the majority of electricity used in the home — the range/oven, refrigerator, water heater, air conditioner and clothes dryer.

According to specialists with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, all the energy used by your blender, dishwasher, electric frypan, toaster, iron, washing machine, vacuum cleaner, hair dryer, tv set (black and white) and electric toothbrush amounts to less than one-third of the electricity consumed by your water heater over a year's time.

92 Pints
Of Blood
Given

Tuesday's Bloodmobile visit at Ayden-Grifton High School resulted in the collection of 92 pints of blood, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross.

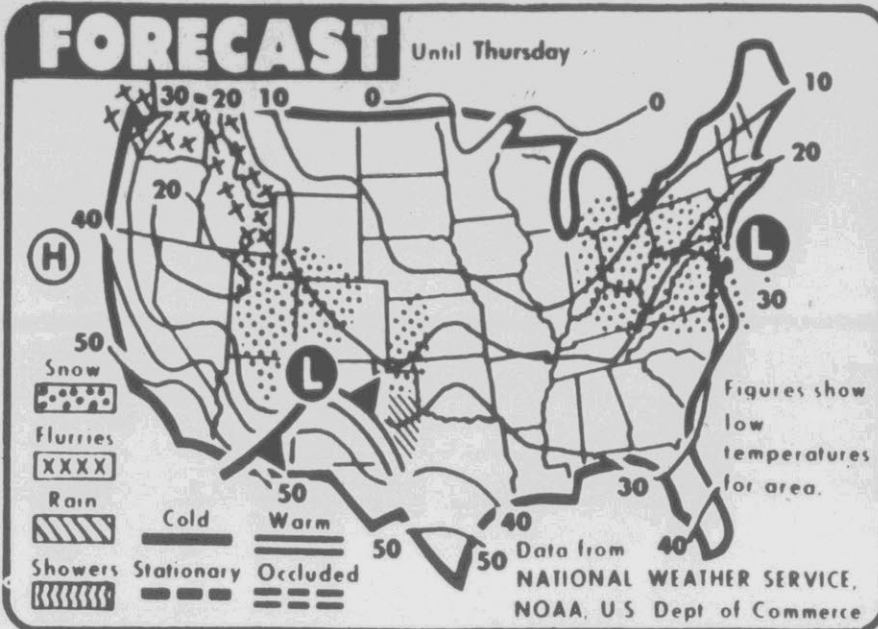

Mrs. Taylor said that the school drive was sponsored by the Ayden-Grifton Task Force, under the direction of Mrs. Sue Noble. Students of the task force helped organize and conduct the drive, she added.

In addition to the 92 persons who donated blood, there were 29 persons deferred for various reasons, Mrs. Taylor noted.

She reported that the turnout involved mostly students, although a few members of the faculty and staff donated. She thanked Bill Wiggins, school principal, for his assistance and support, and also the volunteer nurses who took part in the drive.

The next Bloodmobile visit is scheduled for March 4 at Rose High School.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is expected in the forecast period until Thursday morning from the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes to North Carolina and Pennsylvania. Snow, with some areas of rain, is also forecast for the Southwest. Snow flurries are due for Washington state and the northern intermountain region. Cool to cold weather is forecast for most of the nation. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
The second winter storm within a week dumped more than five inches of snow in North Carolina's mountain areas today and heavy snow warnings were posted for most of the eastern half of the state.

Accumulations of four inches or more were forecast for the Piedmont and the Coastal Plain. Snow covered virtually all of North Carolina by 9 a.m. today, and travelers' advisories were in effect on all highways. Many school systems closed for the day.

As the snow spread eastward, the Sampson County sheriff's department reported a 10-car pileup early today. No injuries were reported.

The Weather Service said the snow was produced by a combination of an upper level air system over Central Illinois and a developing low pressure system off the Georgia coast.

Today's snow, coming before remnants of last week's snowfall had cleared, was expected to end by nightfall. But forecasters said some flurries, especially in the mountains, were likely tonight.

Snow moved into the mountains early Tuesday night and began falling in the Piedmont by midnight. It moved rapidly eastward after daybreak, spreading into all sections of the state.

Forecasts called for clearing later tonight, with at least partially clear skies predicted for Thursday.

Temperatures Tuesday were well into the 30s and low 40s in some areas. Overnight readings were mostly in the 20s.

'UPSET' BY DELAYS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is described by congressional leaders as being "quite upset" over the slow pace of major pieces of energy legislation tied up in disagreements between the House and Senate.

No Response

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — More than 120 Europeans and Americans, including several celebrities, marched to a bridge leading from Thailand into Cambodia today — but their plea to enter the war-ravaged country with relief supplies was met with silence.

Using a microphone, three march organizers issued an appeal "to those who've been standing on the other side of the border" to allow the entry of 20 truckloads of relief supplies and a medical team to help "survivors of a too-long tragedy."

More than a dozen guards — either Vietnamese or Cambodians loyal to the government of Heng Samrin — had been sighted earlier on the other side of the narrow metal span marking the frontier between the two countries, but there was no response to the marchers' request.

Police List
2 Accidents

An estimated $3,050 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police here yesterday.

Investigators reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4 p.m. collision on Arlington Boulevard, 200 feet west of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, involving cars driven by Cora McCafferty Evans of Ayden,

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, February 6, 1980—3 and Martha Copton Edwards of 104 Chipaway Dr.

Officers, who charged Ms. Evans with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $450 to the Evans car and $2,000 to the Edwards auto.

A car driven by Horace Glenn Scott of 206 Azelea Dr. collided with a truck operated by Michael Charles Hays of Winterville, about 4:55 p.m. on Airport Road, just west of the Greene Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the car and $100 damage to the truck.

Disharmony In 'New Harmony'

By DAVID HULEN
Evansville, Ind., Courier
NEW HARMONY, Ind. (AP)
— It was billed as utopia, the communal settlement founded on the banks of the Wabash River 165 years ago. The town was named Harmonie and its residents Harmonists.

Evans-Novak ...

considers Reagan, Sen. Howard Baker and John B. Connally as the three most serious presidential contenders. The notable omission: Rumsfeld's colleague in the Ford Cabinet, George Bush.

Sears' Ex-Friend

Harsh words by key Bush political operative David Keene against his former friend and colleague, Reagan campaign manager John Sears, surprised many politicians but in fact climaxed a steady deterioration of their formerly close relationship.

During Ronald Reagan's 1976 bid for the presidency, Keene was Sears' trusted lieutenant. But ever since Keene accepted a top spot in George Bush's campaign last year, Sears has referred to him privately in condescending terms.

At the Southern Republican Conference in New Orleans recently, Sears greeted Keene coolly without a word of congratulation for Bush's victory in the Iowa caucuses less than two weeks earlier. It was shortly thereafter that the Washington Post quoted Keene as saying: "I sometimes think that George Bush and those of us who work for him have far more respect for Ronald Reagan than Sears does."

Bush's Climb

George Bush's quick climb in the polls after his smashing win in Iowa was evident even in the Deep South state of South Carolina, where the transplanted New Englander has never been strong.

A telephone bank installed by Reagan forces in the 2nd congressional district showed Bush tripling his strength after the Iowa caucuses from 6 percent just before the caucuses to 18 percent right after.

Reagan declined only marginally, which demonstrates his grass roots appeal. John B. Connally, who has made special efforts to win the March 11 South Carolina primary, stayed level — just under 18 percent. Most of Bush's growth came from the undecided vote, which diminished from 35 percent to 22 percent. Reagan phone banks in other South Carolina congressional districts showed similar results.

But prosperity triggered dissension, the experiment collapsed, and the settlers abandoned their homes 10 years later.

It wasn't utopia then, and it isn't utopia now, contend modern-day residents, who say history could be repeating itself in a town that's once again complaining of too much prosperity — not enough harmony.

The debate over the community's fate was rekindled in 1973, when Historic New Harmony Inc. was created as a non-profit corporation to reconstruct historic buildings and boost a sagging economy.

Six years and $30 million later, the restoration process is almost complete. Camille Fife, vice president of Historic New Harmony, says it has led to better streets, parks and other services for residents.

Some townspeople, like those who sold property to Historic

New Harmony at inflated prices, have reaped economic rewards.

Others complain that the high prices paid by the corporation have pushed property values sky-high and tripled local tax rates.

And historian Don Blair, the corporation's most outspoken critic, blames Historic New Harmony for "destroying what has been done here in 150 years" and turning his town into "a carnival."

Some say the current debate is not unlike the dissension that plagued New Harmony's famous utopian settlements in the early 1800s.

The first was founded in 1814 by George Rapp, a German religious prophet who saw the banks of the Wabash as an ideal setting in which to peddle produce and manufactured goods in rapidly expanding western markets.

Rapp's followers practiced celibacy, placed communal values above family and worked diligently in the fields, manufacturing everything from clothing to whiskey.

But prosperity gave way to dissension, and the western markets began to shrink, prompting the Harmonists to abandon the commune in 1825.

Rapp sold the town to two agnostics, who hoped to transform it into a center for science and learning. But three years later, the second experiment ended in a stormy split between the two leaders.

During its brief life, the settlement developed one of the nation's first public school systems and libraries, the country's first public kindergarten and the first trade school, women's club and civic dramatic club.

From the Civil War until a few years ago, New Harmony remained just another sleepy Indiana river town. In the early 1970s, that began to change.

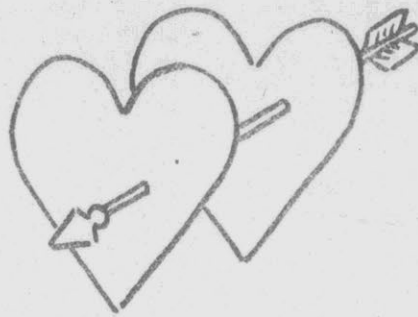

Historic New Harmony Inc. was established as an offshoot of a state historic commission studying the town's future. Although the state already had restored several Harmonist buildings, it was decided that a corporation should attempt to restore the town on a larger scale.

Since it was founded, Historic New Harmony has coordinated the spending of $30 million in state, federal, private, local and foundation money in an area that had one of the lowest per capita incomes in the state.

Construction recently was completed on a $1.8 million Athenaeum, a gleaming white visitor center and gallery.

AT&T Has Huge Profit

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which saw long-distance telephone calling rise 10.8 percent last year despite increased competition, announced a record $5.67 billion profit for 1979.

The earnings announced Tuesday represented the largest annual profit ever reported by a company. AT&T is the biggest corporation in the world based on assets of more than $100 billion.

It said earnings rose 7.6 percent from the $5.27 billion it reported for 1978. Earnings per share increased from $7.74 to $8.04.

However, Chairman Charles L. Brown said revenues increased at a slower rate than expenses. He again called for congressional action to redefine the competitive boundaries of the nation's communications industries.

AT&T once had a monopoly on nationwide long-distance service but has seen several companies make limited entries in the field. It also faces competition in the sale of telephones and other equipment.

"Clearly," Brown said, "the ground rules for our industry require updating." A bill on the subject has been approved by a House subcommittee.

Brown said operating revenues in 1979 rose 10.8 percent from $41 billion to $45.4 billion, while operating expenses rose 14.0 percent to $30.1 billion.

AT&T reports annual earnings on a calendar-year basis, but does not release quarterly earnings on the same basis. It previously reported quarterly earnings for the period ended last Nov. 30.

Brown said the growth in demand for Bell services continued strong throughout the year. Long-distance calling rose 10.8 percent, outpacing the 9.7 percent increase in the volume of overall business. The number of phones in service rose 3.5 percent to 138.2 million.

The largest amount ever made in one year by any company other than AT&T was the $4.3 billion earned by Exxon last year on revenues of $84.4 billion.

Crowd Attends Officer's Rites

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Law enforcement officers from across North Carolina listened Tuesday as the minister at the funeral of a slain Raleigh police officer urged them to continue protecting the community.

"Men, he would not want you to do anything else than to carry on," the Rev. Marvin R. Whitfield, pastor of Capital Pentecostal Holiness Church, said in a eulogy for Officer Delma Devon "Jimmy" Adams, 33.

"You can be a light in a dark world. Do not give up; do not give in; but stand firm and continue to give your service of protection to this community. You will be pleasing Jim Adams."

Adams, a 10-year-veteran of the Raleigh Police Department, was shot in the back of the head while sitting in his patrol car by a woman he had just arrested for drunken driving.

The woman, Cassie Scott Johnson, has been charged with first-degree murder.

Between 650 and 1,000 persons, including top state officials and law enforcement officers, packed the church's sanctuary, hallways and several other assembly rooms Tuesday, while others stood outside.

Adams was buried in Montlawn Memorial Cemetery as seven members of the department's Selective Enforcement

Unit fired a 21-gun salute and a National Guardsman played taps.

In the eulogy, Whitfield said as a teen-ager Adams "came in contact with Jesus Christ in a chapel in Johnston County and embarked upon a road of righteousness ...

"Jim was a good husband and a good father," Whitfield said. "Jim loved his children, and they loved him."

Adams is survived by his wife, Sandra, and two sons, aged 4 and 14.

LaVerne Tripp, The Happy Hour Singers, and The Song Revival Band are singing the good news of Jesus Christ all across America on radio, television and in personal appearances. They want to help make your life a little brighter with music that will stir your soul and lift your spirit. Plan now to attend this exciting program, and bring your friends.

Hunt Okays JC Debate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Both major Democratic candidates for governor have agreed to participate in a debate sponsored next week by the North Carolina Jaycees.

Gov. Jim Hunt has accepted the invitation to debate under the format outlined by the Jaycees.

But Julian Mann III, Scott's campaign manager, said, "We've agreed to a time and date. All we're saying is there are at least 12 or 15 details that must be worked out."

Mann said he would like more time to be allowed during the debate period for questions and wants to see limits placed on the length of answers.

The Jaycees have proposed that each candidate would be given 10 minutes for an opening statement and 10 for a closing statement with 20 minutes for questions.

The questions will be asked by a moderator from those submitted in writing from the audience. Abraham Holtzman, professor of political science at North Carolina State University, will serve as the moderator.

Mann said the Scott campaign wants a committee of representatives from both his and Hunt's campaigns to meet with representatives of the Scott campaign to work out details.

Live television and radio broadcasts will be permitted during the one-hour debate.

The debate is to be held Saturday, Feb. 9, at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Four Seasons in Greenville in conjunction with a Jaycee banquet.

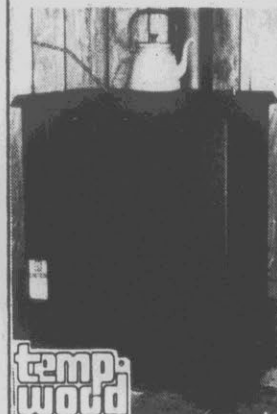

Molasses Very Versatile Item

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Molasses, a sugar by-product created from heat crystallization of sucrose (commercial sugar) in the refining process, is a versatile sweetener.

The better grades of molasses, made from sugarcane, are used in cooking and confectionery and can also be used in the production of rum, says Beth Tartan, cookbook author and consultant for Brer Rabbit Molasses. Molasses is called treacle in Great Britain, she adds.

Other sugar plants, such as sugar beets, yield a different type of molasses, which is mainly mixed in cattle feed and used in the manufacture of industrial alcohol.

Turmoil Continues In State Insurance Dept.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The turmoil in the state Insurance Department after both Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and his former chief deputy filed to run for the commissioner's job continues to affect both the department and the campaign.

Ingram insisted Tuesday that chief deputy commissioner Kenneth Brown resigned voluntarily after both men filed to run as Democratic candidates for commissioner in the primary on May 6.

Brown told reporters Ingram fired him after the commissioner filed as a candidate for re-election. Brown, who until then was Ingram's close friend and associate, said he had expected Ingram to file as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Meanwhile, former state Rep. Charlie Webb of Greensboro said Tuesday that he had become disenchanted with the commissioner and had resigned from his campaign staff.

Webb, who managed Ingram's 1978 bid for the U.S. Senate, has served as Ingram's campaign treasurer for the past two years. He declined to discuss his reasons but said he had "been wanting out for quite a while."

Brown, who could not be reached for comment Tuesday, has said he will wait several days before deciding whether to remain in the race. Two other former Ingram deputies are entered in the Democratic primary — Jim Long of Burlington and Ray Rabon of Raleigh. State Sen. Carolyn Mathis of Charlotte is also a Democratic candidate.

Rabon said Tuesday he would talk to Brown and the others before deciding this weekend whether he will stay in the race. He described Brown as Ingram's "closest friend and most loyal supporter," and said he was stunned by the turn of events.

"I don't know why anybody would do anything like that. It makes you think somebody's sick to do something like that," said Rabon, who left the department a year ago.

"It would have been easy enough for Ingram to tell him at 8 o'clock he wasn't going to run for some other office ... if he'd do that to Ken it makes you wonder what he'd do to someone else," Rabon added.

Ingram declined to comment on reports that another deputy commissioner, Byron Tatum, was leaving the department because of the incident. Tatum also declined comment.

Brown left the department and his $37,000-a-year job Monday. Ingram declined to say whether he would allow Brown to have his job back if he wanted it, saying he wanted to discuss that with Brown.

"He resigned," Ingram said. "I don't know where the confusion was and that's one thing I want to look at."

Ingram said his family had urged him to run for re-election rather than another office, and Brown knew how they felt.

Hunt Points To 3-Year Growth

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Tuesday night that North Carolina has enjoyed its greatest economic and industrial growth during the last three years of his administration and said the state needs more of the same.

"I believe that this election will determine the course of our state for the rest of the century," Hunt said. "We can't rest, and we can't relax. The challenge is before us, and the outcome is in our hands."

During his administration, Hunt told the Wake County Democratic Men's Club, "We have begun to use energy more efficiently and to develop alternative sources that will provide a secure energy future. We have begun a statewide fight against crime.

"We haven't increased taxes, and have even provided a tax cut. I'm proud of that record, and I'm especially proud of our record in education," he said. Hunt praised the primary reading program and the minimum competency test as examples of the state's improved education program.

Winning the 1980 election, Hunt said, is the Democratic Party's responsibility.

"This election is too important for us to stand aside and let the Republicans and the Congressional Club win," he said. "It is our responsibility."

Hunt predicted a tough primary campaign. "We'll have a chance to look at the candidates and chance to debate the issues. I'm looking forward to that."

"And then, I'm looking forward to all of us closing ranks and uniting and winning a big victory in November," Hunt said.

Held Guilty In 3 Killings

WINNEMUCCA, Nev. (AP) — Ronald Bristlewolf, a Black Rock Desert hermit, was found guilty today of three counts of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of three persons who strayed too close to his dugout home.

The 10 women and two men on the jury deliberated nine hours before returning the verdict at 4 a.m.

Bristlewolf sat stern-faced, as he had throughout the two-week trial, when the judge polled each member of the panel on each count. He was returned to Humboldt County Jail to await a penalty hearing before the same jury on Thursday.

He faces a possible death sentence. Nevada executed inmate Jesse Bishop in the gas chamber late last year.

Defense attorney Marty Wiener said he will appeal the convictions.

Bristlewolf, 44, who had his last name legally changed from Gress in 1973, had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the June 1978 shootings of a prospecting Longmont, Colo., couple and a fellow desert recluse, trapper-pro prospector Pete Cachena, 75.

The partly decayed bodies of the three victims were found about 150 yards from Bristlewolf's remote dugout home, 120 miles north of Reno.

FARE FLEXIBILITY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board is considering granting more fare flexibility to the nation's airlines to help them offset the soaring cost of jet fuel.

Record Sales By Home Builder

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Spiraling inflation that has pushed the price of the average new home above the $55,000 mark may have slowed the sales of many homes, but it has meant increased sales to one home manufacturer.

Oakwood Homes Corp. of Greensboro recorded record sales and profits for fiscal 1979. The company saw sales surge 37 percent to $42.2 million. Profits totaled $2.7 million, a 35 percent gain from 1978.

Oakwood President Nicholas St. George predicted the high performance will continue into the 1980s because of "economic fundamentals."

"There will be 21 million new family formations by 1990 and the statistics say 85 percent of the nation's families can't afford a conventional home," St. George said. "A lot of those people are going to have to turn to us."

One-Man Truck Collects Refuse

DETROIT (UPI) — The City of Detroit is introducing one-man garbage trucks in a move to save money on the cost of collecting refuse.

The new trucks have a lifting mechanism on the side, just behind the cab. The truck operator uses a set of levers inside the cab to control mechanical arms which grab the container, lift it, and dump it into the truck, and then return it to its original location. James Watts, director of Public Works, says the trucks will replace three-person trucks.

Spanking Is Still Argued

By JAMES PELTZ
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A line of thinking running through many American school districts holds that when a student creates havoc in class, three good swats on the behind might set him straight.

But others, including some child psychologists, think spanking is not only ineffective, but also counterproductive. In Massachusetts, the District of Columbia and New Orleans, for example, such discipline is against the law and likened to child abuse.

"Most scientists would argue that it's likely to facilitate the very delinquent or anti-social behavior that you're trying to punish or repress," said Seymour Feshbach, chairman of the psychology department at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Regardless, school districts from California to North Carolina permit paddlings. Los Angeles' district, the second largest in the nation with 545,000 pupils, voted Monday to implement corporal punishment following a four-year absence of the practice.

Los Angeles abolished spanking in 1975. Since then, classroom disruptions have steadily increased, according to teachers' testimony in public hearings prior to Monday's vote.

Where spanking is permitted, school district officials note, it may be administered only when parents give their written consent and under stringent guidelines to guard against possible abuse.

For example, the guidelines in Los Angeles require not only parental consent, but also that only school principals, assistant principals and deans be allowed — in front of witnesses — to administer the paddlings of students from kindergarten through ninth grade.

The guidelines also include a review of the student's health card to ensure that spanking would not aggravate any health problems; a check to see if other remedial measures might be taken before using corporal punishment; and a provision that a "reasonable" alternative be applied if a student absolutely refuses corporal punishment.

Shortly before Los Angeles abolished spankings, the California Legislature passed a law requiring public schools to get parental consent to paddle pupils. That rule applies only to public schools.

But Feshbach said consent is not the issue. Based on available data, spankings are "very hard to apply on an institutional basis," he said. Officials "cannot tell very well what kinds of children it's going to be effective for...If ordered on a blanket basis, it could be misapplied."

"I see a reflection of feelings of incompetence and ability on the part of the school system to enforce adequate discipline, so they're acting in an almost reflex, desperate manner," he added.

Katherine Behrman, spokeswoman for New Orleans' school board, also questioned the practice.

"It would be the little kids who would get spanked," she said. "Who's going to spank a 200-pound senior and risk getting thrown out a window?"

An Associated Press nationwide spot survey reflected the split opinion on whether to use corporal punishment.

In Thibodaux, La., where the principal at St. Joseph Elementary School spanked 52 pupils with a paddle last week, school board president Calvin Viator said one lawsuit was threatened but he reported fewer parental protests than he had expected.

In the 91,000-pupil Cleveland public school system, paddlings are used "only after other corrective actions have been tried," said Leo Clayton, directing principal for the city's secondary schools.

CITY DIRECTORY CENSUS TO BEGIN

Attention Greenville Residents

We are beginning to take a census to update information for a new Greenville City Directory. Local people have been hired to survey all residents. In most cases, the census will be conducted by telephone. However, some residents will be contacted in person. You will be asked to provide the husband and wife's name and occupation, address, telephone number, home ownership and names and birth dates of minor children. Business will be asked to provide the correct firm name, owner's name, address, telephone number, and business classification. You will not be asked to buy anything.

Information gathered in the census is to be published in the annual Greenville City Directory, which is used by local businesses, governmental agencies and emergency services to improve products and services to area residents.

Denies Asking Data In Writing

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The chairwoman of Gov. Jim Hunt's re-election campaign says she asked a state law-enforcement agent to pass along information about county sheriffs, but that she didn't ask for "political information" and she didn't want it written down.

Betty McCain also said Tuesday that Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary Burley Mitchell was incorrect when he told reporters last Friday that Mrs. McCain had requested the agent pass political information about sheriffs to her.

Mrs. McCain, of Wilson, former chairwoman of the state Democratic Party, made the comments in an interview with The Associated Press.

While acknowledging she asked agent Mather Slaughter for information about the sheriffs, Mrs. McCain drew a distinction between the wording of her request and the words used by Mitchell in a statement released for the Hunt administration last Friday.

"I did not request information of a political nature," Mrs.

McCain said. "I asked Mather, 'let me know what you're hearing.'"

Mitchell referred to Mrs. McCain's request as the apparent origin of a series of confidential memorandums written by Slaughter that surfaced last week. The memos, which were sent to Mrs. McCain and to Hunt's office in 1979, included assessments of sheriffs' loyalty or opposition to Hunt's re-election campaign.

Mitchell said he ordered the memos destroyed when he learned of their existence after taking office last August.

Mrs. McCain said she had been hurt personally by news stories published about the memos, and she referred to stories comparing Mitchell's report with her own earlier comments.

In her first interview on the subject last week Mrs. McCain had said she received the memos "totally unsolicited."

In addition to saying she did not ask for "political information," Mrs. McCain also said she never asked Slaughter to write down the requested information or to pass it to her in the form of a written memo — a distinction Mrs. McCain said was important.

"What I asked him to do is let me know what he's hearing ... and if Mather Slaughter got overzealous, that's not my problem," Mrs. McCain said.

"I said, 'Mather, let me know what you're hearing.' If that means write a political profile of a county sheriff, we're in bad trouble," she added.

Slaughter's memos were written in the course of his job as liaison between the Crime Control and Public Safety Department and county sheriffs.

Slaughter, of Carteret County, declined comment.

Mrs. McCain said she had told the truth "absolutely, without fail and totally" when she said to a reporter on Jan. 28 that the memos were unsolicited.

Mitchell, contacted Tuesday, said he drew no conclusions in his statement, which had been requested by Hunt. Mitchell said he could only recount explanations given to him by Slaughter and past department secretaries.

"I stated to you those things that have been related to me," Mitchell said. "I can't determine which is correct or exact. That's something the public will have to pass judgment on."

N.C. Lions To Stage Tribute

A tribute to North Carolina Lions and their leader, Past International Pres. John L. "Jack" Stickley of Charlotte will take place at the Duke Indoor Stadium in Durham Sunday, Feb. 24, at 6 p. m., according to Mrs. Dorothy Talbot, president of the N. C. Society to Prevent Blindness.

An award to Stickley will be presented in recognition of more than 50 years of service to the blind and the sight-handicapped, sponsored by the N. C. Lions Clubs. He will accept the honor on behalf of Lions across the state and will respond briefly. He is a former director of the Society to Prevent Blindness and has gained world-wide fame as North Carolina's No. 1 Lion during the past 30 years. He served as International President in 1956-57 and was a Republican candidate for Governor of North Carolina in 1964.

The Duke dinner has been arranged to also honor two other state leaders in voluntary work to prevent blindness, Mrs. Talbot said. They are State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, Sight-Saving Chairman for the Society and State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, Sight Support Chairman (fund-raiser).

Tickets for the dinner, priced at $50 each and tax-deductible, are being made available through Lions Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, the Society's directors and banks across the state. Big Four basketball teams have been invited to attend and be presented to the group. Cleland Baker, vice-president of the Burroughs-Wellcome Company, is general chairman working on the arrangements.

Vote Invite Candidates

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina board of elections voted Tuesday to invite the candidates for president to appear on the state's May 6th primary ballot.

The board's decision guarantees six Republicans and four Democrats spots on the ballot if they want them. Three more candidates can get on the ballot if they can demonstrate they are eligible for matching federal campaign financing.

The conditions were set for Republicans John Anderson and Benjamin Fernandez and Democrat Cliff Finch, since North Carolina law sets eligibility for federal funds as a requirement for entering the presidential primary.

Republicans accepted without conditions were: Tennessee Sen. Howard Baker, George Bush, former Texas Gov. John Connally, Illinois Rep. Philip Crane, Kansas Sen. Robert Dole and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Democrats accepted without conditions were: California Gov. Jerry Brown, President Carter, Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy and Lyndon LaRouche Jr. of New Hampshire.

To have their names placed on the ballot, all the candidates who were invited must accept in writing within 15 days.

State Republican Party Chairman Jack Lee told the board he had received telegrams from Anderson and Fernandez asking that they be allowed to enter the primary.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said he received several calls at home over the weekend from Finch, former governor of Mississippi, asking that his name be placed on the ballot. Brock said Finch told him he expected to be eligible for federal financing within 15 days.

Honor Pupils At Grifton School

The following students at Grifton School made the honor roll or Principal's List for the second marking period:

Honor Roll: Fifth Grade, Alex McLawhorn, Sixth Grade, Reggie Barrow, Seventh Grade, Andy Garris, David Wiggins, Marc Davis, Eighth Grade, Jeffrey Gentry.

FRIENDLY REWARD

LONDON (AP) — A housewife's years of kindness to an elderly neighbor have been rewarded with a gift of $110,000.

Retired factory worker Jim Wilkinson, who died in August at the age of 98, made the bequest to Marjorie Kennedy, who gave up her job to look after him when his wife died four years ago.

Reagan Plans Campaign Debates

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
HOOKSETT, N.H. (AP) — Ronald Reagan, having decided to debate his rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, is likely to make it a doubleheader by also meeting George Bush one-on-one before New Hampshire's primary election.

Reagan, the preseason favorite who lost his first 1980 outing, said he is now ready to face the other six Republican candidates because he has decided it will not divide the party after all. That was his excuse for shunning a debate last month in Iowa: debates divide the party.

He also has decided a role in New Hampshire's debates is essential to refuel his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

"I think it became necessary," Reagan said Tuesday. The former California governor wound up a 10-stop, round-the-clock campaign burst at a birthday party with about 200 supporters at a Chinese restaurant Tuesday night in Hooksett. He is 69 today.

Reagan said his years should not be an issue, that he has his health and his faculties, along with the experience age brings.

"Someone asked me how I felt about my birthday and I said, 'Considering the alternative...' The rest was drowned out in applause and laughter.

Reagan's opponents are not making an overt issue of his age, but they don't miss a chance to draw attention to it. Bush, who beat Reagan in the GOP's leadoff competition Jan. 21 in Iowa, makes the point by emphasizing his own vigor, his 54 years, and his dedication to jogging.

But debating was the exercise of the day Tuesday in New Hampshire. All the candidates save Reagan had agreed earlier to meet as they did in Iowa and the former California governor said Tuesday he'll be there, too.

The 90-minute debate is sponsored by the League of Women Voters and is to be televised nationally by the Public Broadcasting System.

It will match Reagan, Bush, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally, Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas.

In addition, two more debate proposals are awaiting answers. Foster's Daily Democrat of Dover, N.H., wants all the GOP candidates to debate and The Nashua Telegraph has invited Bush and Reagan to a two-candidate meeting Feb. 23, three days before the presidential primary.

Baker renewed his New Hampshire campaign today in Nashua, gaining the endorsements of two Republican governors — Richard Snelling of Vermont and Robert Ray of Iowa. Ray's endorsement in New Hampshire was curious since the Iowa governor maintained a facade of neutrality during the campaign in his own state.

Bush, campaigning in Boston, gained the endorsements of former Attorney General Elliott Richardson and former Assistant Attorney General William Ruckelshaus.

Anderson, campaigning in Hanover, said he was glad Reagan "has finally come out of the closet." Anderson said he thought Reagan would have won in Iowa if he hadn't skipped the debate there.

Here's how Chiropractic treats Arthritis

Arthritis is an acute or chronic inflammation of one or more of the joints of the body. The inflammation may involve some or all of the structures entering in the formation of the joint—the bones, the cartilage, the membranes, muscles, etc.

Chiropractic approaches arthritis from a cause standpoint. It is directed to the restoration of normal nerve function, allowing the natural healing processes of the body to operate, by means of spinal adjustments.

Your doctor of chiropractic has the training and experience to treat arthritis and relieve the discomforts of the condition. Under chiropractic care, many conditions can be relieved.

Committee Convinced School Bonds Needed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A legislative study committee says it's become convinced of the need for a $600 million statewide school construction bond issue and is recommending the issue to the Legislature.

Commission members said Tuesday that after visiting schools and hearing educators back the issue they became convinced the bond issue was needed.

"I saw many classrooms in former clothes closets, restrooms, hallways — a lot of fire-trap situations, almost," said state Sen. Helen Marvin, D-Gastonia. "I saw a lot of mobile units built back in the '40s and '50s."

The committee's recommendation goes to the Legislature, which will decide this spring whether to put the issue on the November ballot.

While Gov. Jim Hunt supports the issue, he may not want to share ballot space with it, according to Gary Pearce, Hunt's press secretary.

"He has some concerns about whether it would be wise to put it on the ballot at the same time you have a general election going on," Pearce said. "In the past, all the bond issues have been held during a special election and haven't gotten mixed up in all the politics of a governor's race or other races."

His opponent in the Democratic primary, former Gov. Bob Scott, has serious reservations about the issue, said Bryant A. Haskins, Scott's press secretary.

"He doesn't particularly agree with the formula that's set up for distribution of the money because it will benefit the larger communities and sort of leave smaller counties high and dry."

The commission, which voted unanimously to recommend the bond issue to the Legislature, split 4-2 over the distribution formula.

State Sen. Vernon E. White, D-Winterville, who proposed the formula, said it would provide additional help to the small, rural districts, which have some of the most run-down buildings.

Rep. Laura S. Tally, D-Fayetteville, said the formula might undercut vital urban support of the bond issue.

The game is played on a board divided into numbered squares, some of which are marked "D" for distress. Markers are moved around the board on the roll of a pair of dice. When a player lands on a "D," he is penalized by returning to the previous "D" marker — and so on.

Murphy said it took his daughters, aged 11 and 9, only a few minutes to become fed up with the game.

His Game Is Just Boring

LONDON (AP) — An Irish engineer says he has invented what may well be the most boring game in the world — on purpose.

"My game is dull, tedious and depressing," said 37-year-old Denis Murphy. "It is designed to drive players right up the wall."

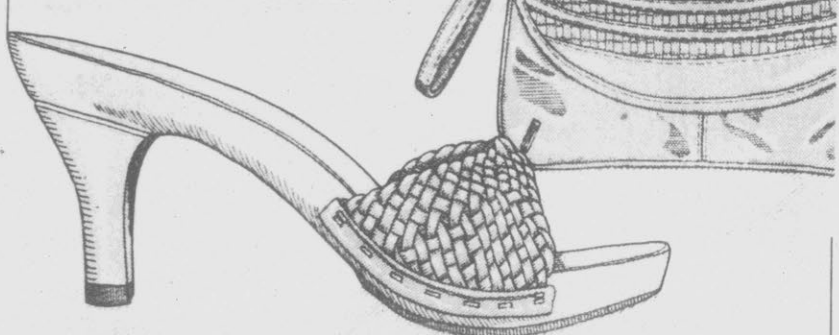

Murphy thinks the game, called "It's a Bore," has commercial possibilities. Unlike games designed to spur excitement and competitive spirit, Murphy's is aimed at giving hypochondriacs something more to complain about. Or making auto workers happier with their jobs.

"If every car worker had a 30-minute spell (with the game) before clocking on, they would be screaming to get at those production lines," he says.

Murphy said it took his daughters, aged 11 and 9, only a few minutes to become fed up with the game.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEB. 7, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Decide early just what you want your relations with others to be and the trend for your future activities. You'll then be able to plan a campaign of action for the future. Evening is the best time to find new interesting ideas.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Confer with associates early and then carry through with your part of any agreements reached. Strive for more harmony at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle that work you have to early in the day, later, you can confer with new allies and plan a more prosperous future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your talents more carefully and put them to work with greater efficiency. Enjoy company of good friends in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A project you have in mind will work best if you first find out what family wishes and you gain their cooperation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan communications early so that you can later carry through with them efficiently. Invite a bigwig to your home and make a good impression.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your ideas are practical but they need further study and data before you can make them work successfully. Take time to see good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more practical in the handling of personal affairs and you get good results. Be more sensible with property and monetary matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think over what is best to do to improve interests and formulate a good plan, get it working. Evening is best for making new contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Seek the advice of a higherup in a plan that could improve your financial setup. Clear up any misunderstandings with a loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get more involved in community affairs. Take in amusements you like in the evening. Be happy with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure to approach the right bigwigs for support in a plan you have for the future. Conditions are right for making travel plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Consider the best way to close the rift that may be developing between you and a close friend. Avoid any big expenditures of money.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will appeal to almost everyone because of a sweet nature and will be able to understand others easily early in life. Later in life the nature will become a very dynamic one.

Every circle of bridge players has its "card rack"—a player the others accuse of holding more than his fair share of high cards. While we would like to think that we are among those who get the worst of it, logic tells us that "there ain't no such animal." With due allowance for lucky streaks that might last days, months or even years, the law of averages is relentless and over a length of time the goddess of chance will distribute her favors almost equally.

We say this despite the fact that we have seen charts compiled by the unlucky to "prove" that their opponents always hold the better cards. But it is not just the number of high cards that is important—the timeliness when they are held and the distribution of the hands are equally relevant. For instance, on today's hand East found himself with an overabundance of blessings.

After a straightforward auction, South found himself in three no trump, against which West led a low spade. Declarer captured the queen of spades with the king, and could see only eight fast tricks. Obviously, the diamond suit could be developed for at least one additional trick, but if declarer gave up a diamond there was the danger that the opponents could cash four spade tricks to defeat the hand.

Rather than take that risk, declarer opted to let the defenders have their spade tricks. He hoped that East would find it difficult to discard on his partner's spades, so he exited with the ten of spades and West ran his four spades.

On the third spade East could safely stuff a diamond, but the fourth spade posed a problem. No matter what suit he discarded, he would set up an extra trick for declarer in that suit.

East fell victim to a "suicide squeeze." But observe that no defense would help. If West shifts after winning the second spade, declarer wins and leads a third spade, and East's only safe discard is a diamond. However, if West again refrains from cashing his spades, declarer can give up a diamond to make his contract.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — INSIDIOUS INSIDER PLOTS TO PURLOIN PRECIOUS SECRETS.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals D
The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

New Use For Old Schools

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Recycled school buildings could make more than a $30 billion rehabilitation market in the 1980s, according to projections made by a multinational hardware and machinery producer here.
Some 10,000 school buildings will be abandoned in the next 10 years as high-school enrollments drop off by 2½ million in this period, the Emhart Corp. study indicated. A panel of experts assembled by the company to peer ahead into the next decade believed these unused facilities could be converted into community centers, offices, adult and cultural centers, and apartment buildings. The panel saw the projected 20 percent increase in white-collar over blue-collar employees — managers, office staff, professional people — largely single, being attracted to the diversity of city life. The conversion of old school buildings into facilities needed by this urban trend would represent an immediate cost-effective solution, the panel concluded.

Mondale Campaigns In Maine

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — St. Hyacinth's Church, Westbrook, L.L. Bean, Freeport. The Bath Iron Works (at dawn). Warren's Lobster House, Kittery. All were on Vice President Walter F. Mondale's itinerary in Maine Monday and Tuesday. You go such places when you're running for office. Or, more exactly, when you're running Jimmy Carter for office. That is what the vice president is doing — and if he is successful, the people will get Mondale in the bargain.

"If you re-elect Jimmy Carter, you also get someone I'm quite proud of — Fritz Mondale," the vice president is fond of saying. The campaign stops give birth to a raft of political cliches. The list is a typical Mondale agenda these days as he travels the primary election circuit — first Iowa, now Maine and New Hampshire — leading the Carter-Mondale campaign. President Carter has not left Washington, except for visits to Camp David, since Oct. 29. He and his aides have said he will not engage in partisan politics under the "present circumstances," referring to the crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

On a day-to-day basis, the vice president's campaign trips are easy-going affairs, not the two-plane extravaganzas that accompany a presidential campaign.

"He doesn't go in and escape notice," said press secretary Albert Eisele. "But he doesn't create the excitement of a president. He does not get the attention the president does, or maybe even a Kennedy."

Still, he turned some heads Monday evening at L.L. Bean. He signed autographs, discussed fishing, bought two pairs of boots, and confided that the visit to the huge camping outfitter fulfilled a lifelong dream.

"I've been reading L.L. Bean catalogues for years," the vice president said. "My drawers are full of L.L. Bean catalogues. I hope Carter doesn't catch me reading them during business hours."

The campaign days are a 14-hour mix of visits to factories — at a Biddeford, Maine, textile mill he toured every nook and cranny, his words of chit-chat with the workers drowned out by clacking looms — and press conferences and political receptions.

There is a stock speech in which he says Carter is showing his leadership qualities in the foreign crises, taking positions that might not be politically popular.

Carter's leading challenger, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, has lately sought to portray the president as a conservative following Republican economic policies.

The vice president disagreed with that and noted that under the Carter administration, 9 million jobs have been created. Then, localizing that figure, he said in Bath that the local shipyard employment has been climbing.

"We've put America back to work," he said.

Future Eyed By Cronkite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Cronkite, who for years has been telling Americans "that's the way it is" as anchorman of the CBS Evening News, says he wants to move to other assignments for the network.

Cronkite, in an interview with The Washington Post published today, said he plans to leave the Evening News program no later than November 1981, when his contract expires.

"I have no intention of leaving the air," he said. "It's just my intention to slow down a little and not be frozen to the daily grind."

Cronkite, 63, said he wants to take on other assignments for CBS. "It's just not in my plans to continue with the Evening News," he explained. "I'd like to do some deeper things."

Cronkite helped put — and keep — the CBS news program at the top of the ratings a decade ago. He first took the anchorman position in 1962 when CBS expanded its evening news show to a half hour.

In addition to his weeknight appearances on the Evening News, Cronkite interviewed leading figures of the times, traveled with presidents on major foreign trips and covered the major events of America's space program.

Cronkite said network officials asked him several weeks ago about his Evening News plans. "I told them that I'd like to be able to step out right now, but they won't let me do it right away," he said.

Speculation over who would replace Cronkite as anchorman and managing editor of the newscast has centered on two other CBS newsmen — Dan Rather and Roger Mudd. Both reportedly have been courted by ABC and NBC.

FOREIGN AID PLEA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is pressing Congress to authorize spending of $10.4 billion on foreign aid during fiscal 1981, saying the money is needed to help balance the scales of power with the Soviet Union.

Band Leader Ends Career

MUSIC MASTER—Merle Evans, who led the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus band for 50 years, is shown at a performance in New York's Madison Square Garden in 1961. Now 87, Evans recently announced his retirement after 77 years in the music field.

By GENE PLOWDEN
For AP Newsfeatures
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Merle Evans, who led the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus band for 50 years and became a legend of the entertainment world, announced his retirement recently as he turned 87.

"I've decided to give it up," Evans said at his home here. "So I won't be guest conductor of the Sarasota Concert Band any more. I guess 77 years in music is long enough for anybody."

Born in Columbus, Kan., December 26, 1892, Evans began playing cornet when he was 6 years old. None of his three sisters or three brothers took up music, but Merle made up for it.

He was always busy and by the time he was 6 he was shining shoes and selling newspapers in his hometown. He had a paper route.

"I was a great guy to work," he says. "My folks were poor and lived on the edge of town. We didn't have a lot of luxuries but we worked and always managed."

His father bought Evans' first musical instrument, a John Slater cornet, for $16.95. It was the youngster's proudest possession and he was first in line when Bill Bowers, the town band director, organized the Columbus Children's Band. The young musician was 10 years old.

"I was no good in school," he recalls. "Oh, how I hated school — every day of it. I was the shyest, most timid guy you ever laid eyes on; couldn't even speak a piece in class."

His first public appearance was at the Methodist Church in Columbus, when his Sunday School teacher asked him to play. He led the class of nine children around and into the church playing "Onward Christian Soldiers" on his cornet.

He worked at various jobs around Columbus, including washing dishes at the town's only hotel, which he later owned; working in a greenhouse and on a farm. He sold his John Slater cornet when he was 12 and bought a Boston Three-Star for $30.

From the children's band, Evans graduated to the town band and when he was 13 he ran away with Mohair's Minstrels. That lasted only one night, for when Charles Van Dyke Mohair heard his parents' story and learned his age, he was fired.

In 1909 he signed on with the S. W. Brundage Carnival Company, which had a seven-piece band, at $10 a week. The next season his salary was $12 a week. He became a musician on the Cotton Blossom, a showboat plying the Mississippi.

The Cotton Blossom ended its tour in Baton Rouge and Evans joined the National Stock Company, giving dramatic shows. When the season ended, Evans and a friend, Cleve Pullen, formed the Clifton Comedy Company, a medicine show with a cast of four.

After stints with Murphy's Comedians, Armetta & Pullen Comedians and Uncle Josh Spruceby's Melodrama, he led the town band at Campbell, Mo., at $50 a week plus room and board. Another season with S. W. Brundage ended with him playing in a Salvation Army band.

Evans organized an 18-piece band for the Miller Bros. 101 Ranch and played for Buffalo Bill's last show in 1916. After that he toured with several carnivals and rep shows, among them the Archie Clark Carnival, Joe Berry's band, Gus Hill's Minstrels, Walter Savage Stock Company and Brunk's Comedians.

When the Ringling Bros. Circus and Barnum & Bailey Circus combined after the 1918 seasons, Charles Ringling hired Evans to lead the band of 31 musicians, for $60 a week.

Evans had a Besson cornet he bought for $50 and used it for 28 years, leading the band with his left hand and fingering the cornet with his right. He wrote a great deal of circus music, but played little of it.

"We didn't use many pieces I wrote on the show," he says, "because I didn't want people to say I just played my own stuff."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed higher today, following through on Tuesday's strong close.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial rose 3.67 to 880.29 in the first half hour.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said investing institutions appeared to be continuing to switch some of their funds out of bonds and into stocks.

The bond market took a severe beating on Tuesday, and prices declined further today.

In the news, there were reports from Washington that U.S. officials were increasingly optimistic about the prospects for eventual release of the hostages in Iran.

Today's early volume leaders included Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, up 1/4 at 50; Norton Co., down 1/4 at 38; and IU International, up 1/4 at 13.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.53 to 876.62.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 7-6 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 41.88 million shares, against 43.07 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .14 to 65.83.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.61 at 278.65.

Found Millions In Cult Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Peoples Temple receiver says he thinks he's found $10 million cash and property from the Jim Jones cult, but it may take years to divide it among creditors and survivors.

Robert Fabian also said Tuesday that it appears those who filed about 700 claims against the Temple will likely receive only a small part of their claims, now estimated to total $1.8 billion.

More than 900 members of the Peoples Temple, including Jones, died in November 1978 in a mass murder-suicide at their commune in Guyana. That followed the slaying of five people, including U.S. Rep. Leo Ryan of California, who was investigating complaints about the cult.

Renewable Trial Marriage Eyed

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A bill introduced in the Alaska Legislature would make that state the first to allow renewable trial marriages.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Mike Beime, R-Anchorage, was introduced Tuesday and would allow couples to marry for a specific period agreed upon in advance. The "marriage contract" would automatically expire when the period is up unless renewed.

Couples would be required to write an agreement outlining the disposition of assets and custody arrangements for any children. Beime said he introduced the measure in recognition of unmarried Alaskans living together outside traditional marriage.

Nikita Khrushchev, former Soviet premier and party chief, died at the age of 77 in 1970.

Second Record In Five Days

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. customers set their second record in five days for winter demand for electricity between 7 and 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Usage peaked at 5,809,000 kilowatts, breaking the winter record set Feb. 1 when CP&L customer usage hit 5,664,000 kilowatts.

"Our three nuclear units on the CP&L system are operating at near top capacity," said Jerry W. Kirk, manager of systems operations and maintenance for CP&L. "These units can supply a significant part of the customer demand while generating relatively low-cost electricity."

Prayer Meeting Thursday Night

Prayer meeting will be held at the home of Eldress Shirley Atkinson Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Eldress Petronia Phillips of Winterville is to be the speaker.

The Rev. Holmes of Grifton will speak Friday night at 7:30. A Bible discussion has been set for Sunday night at 7:30.

School Board....

ding phonics was also suggested by Lewis.

Annette McKee, president of the Pitt Chapter of the N.C. Association of Educators' voiced concern that if the board agreed to a single method of teaching reading, then teachers would not be free to deal with students' individual needs.

The Board carried the motion for a phonics approach unanimously, and agreed to be concerned with major subjects first.

They agreed, however, that a teacher must be flexible enough to fulfill individual needs.

School Finance Officer Dan Thomas and School Food Services Manager Donna Ware gave a mid-year school food service financial report. "We are financially sound," said Ware. "Our labor costs have run more than anticipated this year and that's why we came up with the cafeteria worker substitute program."

Cafeteria workers must be absent three days before a substitute is procured because due to increased labor costs, the budget does not allow for a substitute. Ware explained, however, that this policy only applies to schools with over four cafeteria workers and that if as many as two workers are out, then substitutes can be called immediately.

The Board also called for a resolution to be written by the next meeting dealing with the proposed four-laning of highway 11 and 13 toward Bethel. The board recognized the need for the improvement but recommended that it be done with the least amount of disruption and with a median no wider than 20 feet, as opposed to the 60 feet suggested by the Department of Transportation. They also proposed that the Highway pass on the east side of North Pitt High School instead of the west side.

Board member William House expressed the board's position on the reduction of the median to 20 feet. "There is a great deal of prime farmland in Pitt County and in North Carolina. If we continue to use our farmland for other things, then we will run out very near in the future."

Associate Superintendent Thomas Craft reported that the demolition work at Stokes-Pactolus School is complete except for removing debris and compacting the basement area.

The Board went into one executive session in yesterday's meeting.

New Snow...

snow had fallen up until that time. The river level at 8 a.m. was 5.1 feet, which is a normal level. Yesterday's high was 40 degrees, with a low of 16 degrees.

Supt. of City Schools Glenn Cox reported at 10:15 that a decision had been made to close elementary schools and to begin transporting students home at 11 a.m., with high school students to be taken home at about 12:30. "We decided on the early closing after talking to Police Chief Glenn Cannon who said the streets were becoming hazardous," Cox commented. "We'll have the buses rolling as near those planned times as possible."

County schools began closing shortly after 10 a.m. with plans to have all students and staff members away from schools by 11 a.m. Supt. of County Schools Ott Alford said that at that time he could not predict what the picture would be for Thursday, that a decision on reopening of schools would be made public as soon as a decision had been made.

Obituaries

Manning

Mrs. Mary Frances Edwards Manning, 41, died in Pitt County Memorial Hospital Tuesday.

Her funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Lotis Joyner. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Manning was born in Beaufort County and spent most of her life in the Stokes-Pactolus community, attending the Stokes School. She was a member of Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Surviving her are four sons, Marshall G. Manning Jr. of Greenville, and William "Billy" Williams, Frank Clyde Smith and Walter Lee Edwards, all of Chowchilla; a daughter, Mrs. Caddie Williams Baker of Washington; three brothers, George Edwards of Greenville, Howard Edwards of Stokes and Robert Lee Edwards of Robersonville; and a sister, Miss Doris M. Edwards of Greenville.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Patrick

WINTERVILLE — Ms. Ollie Patrick, of 311 Railroad St., died this morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. She is the sister of Ms. Geneva Patrick of the home and Thomas Patrick of Winterville. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Flanagan's Funeral Home.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Tired of odd-even and maximum purchase gasoline rationing, a motorist has devised a way to turn the tables on the oil companies.

Seven Dead In Separate Fires

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Seven persons were killed in two separate early morning fires in this coastal city, authorities said.

A mother, her four children and a teen-age friend were killed when a fire swept through a small home in a housing project early Tuesday, they said. In another part of the city, about 4 1/2 hours later, one person died, 13 were injured and 100 were evacuated after a fire raced through an apartment for the elderly.

Causes of the fires were undetermined, fire officials said.

"Dear sirs, I have received your latest bills for my gas credit cards.

"Due to increased demands for my funds and depleted money allocations this month, I will not be able to furnish you with the requested payments..."

That was the beginning of an anonymous letter published in the February issue of Spotlite, a magazine of the Associated Licensed Detectives of New York State Inc.

"Moreover, because of limited supplies," the letter went on, "I am forced to adopt an odd-even method of payment....Creditors with even numbered ZIP codes will receive payments this month, those with odd-numbered ZIP codes will receive funds the following month."

The writer concluded: "I will be forced to limit checks to only $5 per payment to each creditor."

ECU Women Fall To UNC; Men Face USC Tonight

Tar Heels Whip Pirates, 85-71

By Jimmy Dupree
Special Correspondent
CHAPEL HILL — After having led by one at the half, East Carolina's women fell to North Carolina 85-71 Tuesday afternoon at Carmichael Auditorium.

The lead changed hands twelve times in the action-packed first half, with neither team able to mount more than a three-point advantage.

April Schaffer opened the second half with a bucket to regain the lead for the Heels, but ECU forward Kathy Riley quickly answered with a drive once again shifting the narrow edge. Center Marcia Girven added a field goal to put the Pirates up by three.

Then, the poised Tar Heels combined a pair of field goals from leading scorer Kathy Crawford, another from Schaffer and a follow shot by team captain Bernie McGlade to post a 39-34 advantage, apparently taking command of the game.

The teams exchanged field goals before Girven added a three-point play and Lydia Rountree chipped in a 15-footer to knot the score at 41-41.

Crawford drilled home three straight for UNC, countered by a pair from Rosie Thompson to set the score 47-45 in favor of the hosts. But then the nightmare began for the visiting Pirates.

UNC capitalized on four Pirate turnovers and blitzed to a 63-45 gap on 16 unanswered points to silence East Carolina's hopes of victory.

Riley posted 12 of her 19 points on the evening in the final eight minutes of play, as the Lady Pirates made one final run for the money. Heidi Owen's jumper with 1:40 on the clock cut the score to 79-67, but it was too little, too late, as ECU suffered its eighth loss with 16 wins.

Crawford established a new UNC women's record of 30 points with her victory-icing performance. Joni Berry added 20 points from the perimeter and Schaffer, 18.

Thompson, recovering from a recent scoring slump, led the Pirates with 25 and 10 rebounds, while Riley drove in 19 and Laurie Sikes, 12.

"They certainly deserved to win," commented ECU coach Cathy Andruzzi, whose team owns a 1-3 NCAIAW mark. "We just weren't intense."

"We don't have the depth Chapel Hill has. You need experienced ball players."

Gamecocks Look To Avenge Last Season's 56-55 Loss

East Carolina's Pirates travel to Columbia, S.C., to take on the Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina in one of Frank McGuire's last home games as head coach of the hosts.

McGuire, one of the country's winningest coaches, has only four home dates left in his career at the school, having been told to step down at the end of this season.

Currently the Gamecock mentor boasts a collegiate career record of 547 wins against just 239 losses in a history of 30 years covering three schools. He has spent the last 16, counting this year at South Carolina.

The Gamecocks come into the game with a seasonal record of 13-7, having downed Rhode Island in their latest outing, earlier this week.

"They'll have the most imposing front line we have faced since Duke," Coach Dave Odom of East Carolina said. "With (Jim) Strickland (6-11), Cedrick Hordges (6-8) and (Tom) Wimbush (6-6), they have all muscle men in addition to their height. Strickland had 25 points and 11 rebounds against Rhode Island, and if he has another same like that, we are in trouble."

"We have to hope to catch him on a night when he's not playing as well," Odom added.

"We're fighting several things. One: we're on the road. Two: this is one of Frank's last home games, and we know they want to win them all for him. Three: they have a revenge factor. They want to make up for the (56-55) loss up here last year. I know that Frank considers that an embarrassment, maybe one of his most embarrassing losses. They'll probably try to lay it on us for that."

However, Odom doesn't feel that it's a lost cause. "We're playing very good defense right now. As long as we continue to do so, we have a chance in every game. Anything can happen."

"But we have an unusual situation. We have to have people in the game who can rebound against their strong front line, and we have to have people in who can come up with good outside shooting against their excellent zone defense. It's an unusual mixture for us, but we were fairly successful with it against Detroit, where we killed them on the boards (42-25)."

Odom said the Pirates couldn't think about McGuire and his history. "We just have to concentrate on the game at hand and in doing what we do best."

Odom also bemoaned the upcoming schedule. "You know we have to play South Carolina on Thursday, then we have one day to get ready for Illinois State, a team that may be the best since the Artis Gilmore-Pembroke Burroughs team of Jacksonville, to come into Minges Coliseum. They are a super team. Then, we've got only one day to get ready for Delaware State, another team that isn't well known but is strong with a good record. Then, we've got just one more day to prepare for the number seven team in the country, Maryland, and we have to travel on that day. It's murder!"

Hordges is the leading scorer for the Gamecocks in the latest statistics available. He is hitting at a 20.9 clip, while Mike Doyle is the only other Gamecock in double figures at 12.2. Strickland isn't far out at 9.6, followed by Kenny Reynolds at 8.8, Zam Frederick at 7.9 and Wimbush at 6.1. Strickland is the leading rebounder at 8.9, while Hordges is pulling off 8.6 per game.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m. Thursday in Carolina Coliseum.

Rampants Hold Off Bertie, 60-52

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
WINDSOR — Rose High School bounced back from their first defeat in eight games to take a 60-52 win over Bertie High School last night and keep in the thick of the Division I Conference race.

Earlier, the Rose girls bowed to Bertie in a late flurry, 47-42.

The Rampants never trailed during the game, but several times had to fight off rallies by the Falcons, who threatened to trim their lead away on a number of occasions.

But each time, the Rampants proved up to the task, pulling away and regaining control of the ball game. Behind the scoring of Wallace Brown, and the scoring, shot blocking and rebounding of Tyrone Tucker, Rose led by as much as 12 points on several occasions.

While overall Rose was outscored, 31-25, Tucker's board work when the rebounds were absolutely necessary was outstanding. He blocked six shots during the game.

"We needed this one after Beddingfield (a two-point overtime loss, 77-75 Saturday night)," coach Jim Brewington said. "I don't think we ever really lost control of the game tonight. Bertie plays well at home, but we did what had to be done."

Brewington felt the play of his guards, Brown and Calvin Whichard, was a key factor in the game. "We had some turnovers, but I don't think we had as many as in the past." Turnovers actually hurt Bertie more, many of them coming on steals by the two guards.

"Tucker played a very good game, and Wallace had one of his better games. Overall, we played good defense, one of the few times we haven't gotten in to foul trouble with it."

Rose took the initial lead and although Bertie twice tied it, the Falcons never took the lead. Rose finally went ahead for good on a rebounding shot by Tucker, 6-4, and the Rampants ran off nine more points before Bertie broke a six and a half minute scoring drought with just 21 seconds left in the quarter.

By then, however, Rose had rolled up a 15-6 advantage for the period.

Bertie began to control the boards in the second quarter and came back on the Rampants, cutting their lead to as little as six, 22-16 before Rose pulled back out by nine and held that lead the rest of the way. Donald Johnson hit with a jumper with one second left for a 29-20 halftime Rose lead.

Rose struck first in the second half and quickly upped its lead to 12, 33-21. Bertie, however, again using the boards, came back and cut it to eight, 35-27, and then ran off six straight to trim it to four, 39-35, before Brown canned a shot from the baseline at the horn for a 41-35 advantage.

Rose, after again leading by only four, 43-49, outscored the Falcons, 10-2 over the next three and a half minutes to run back out to a 53-41 lead with 2:47 left. But Bertie wouldn't die and struggled back to within five, 53-48 before Rose, hitting from the foul line, made five in a row at the stripe for another ten point lead with just 36 seconds left.

That did it.

Overall, Rose shot 55.8 per cent from the floor, while Bertie was just under 50 per cent, 48.9.

Brown led the Rampants with 23 points, while Tucker had 13 and Donald House added 11. Bertie had five players in double figures, as Maurice Bunch

Jaguars Whip Greene Central, 56-39

Farmville Central Clinches Tie For First

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
FARMVILLE — Greene Central, fresh off a 65-53 upset of D.H. Conley Monday night, was looking for more of the same Tuesday night when it traveled to league-leading Farmville Central.

The Rams, however, found something entirely different. Confronted by an avalanche of turnovers and a fiery 2-3 Jaguar zone, Greene Central suffered through an embarrassing 56-39 loss to Farmville.

The win left Farmville at 16-5 overall and 12-3 in the Eastern Carolina Conference and guaranteed the Jaguars at least a tie for the league crown. To clinch the title Farmville must either beat Conley Friday night or have Southern Nash defeat North Pitt, which clinched at least second place Tuesday night with a 66-38 win over North Lenoir. If the two teams tie for the title North Pitt will have first seed in the league tournament, scheduled for February 11-16, because it outscored Farmville in the team's two meetings.

In the girls game Tuesday night, Farmville Central rallied after being down by as many as six to defeat Greene Central, 50-44.

"This was one of the worst exhibitions of basketball we've ever made," Greene Central's boys' coach Lewis Godwin said. "You have to work at it, playing like this after playing like we did last night against Conley."

"I don't know it we were scared or what," he said. "I know we didn't play well, but I don't know why. At this time of the season to play like that, there's no reason."

"We never did get in our offense, though. And I'm sure their defense had something to do with that."

Farmville Central coach Mike Terrell could not have agreed more.

"We beat them on the boards and our defense was just outstanding," Terrell said. "Our offense was not spectacular tonight, and in fact we forced the ball some when we shouldn't have, but the defense was just outstanding."

"It's been like that all season, especially the last few weeks. Tonight our players were quick in the zone and forced them into turnovers. It might have been a combination of their poor play and our defense, but all year long we've forced teams into turnovers."

Which is exactly what the Jaguars did to the Rams in the early going. In its first 17 possessions Greene Central turned the ball over 11 times, allowing Farmville to spurt ahead early, 8-0, and take a 16-7 first-period lead, mainly on the shooting of Donald Reid. Reid scored eight of his game-high 20 points in the stretch.

Farmville led at the half, 22-16, before a 17-6 spurt in the third period left the Jaguars ahead, 45-24, and all but sealed the victory.

"We missed a lot of shots, especially at the end that might have helped us get closer," Godwin said. The Rams hit only 5-of-13 free throws on the night. "But, still, there shouldn't be that much difference in the way we play two consecutive nights this late in the season."

Terrell, on the other hand, while pleased his team had clinched at least a tie for the conference title, had little time to savor the victory.

"We've played good ball the last two weeks and we really appear to be reaching our peak now," he said. "But we've got Conley Friday night. They're a good team, when I saw them over Christmas I thought they were the best in the conference, and they've been in a slump. But if they could beat us that would help them get out of it real quick."

In the girls' game, Farmville Central, after trailing throughout the first half, rallied in the third quarter to take the lead and held off a late charge by Greene Central to capture its 12th win of the season against seven losses.

The Rams, now 3-12 in the ECC and 6-15 overall, grabbed the early lead, moving ahead 10-6 at the end of the first period and 25-20 at the break behind Letha Taylor. Taylor hit 11 of her game-high 19 points in the first two quarters to lead the Rams to the lead.

"We didn't do anything right in the first half," Farmville

Central coach Hilda Worthington said. "I don't know why. We had worked hard on shooting all Monday and here we come out and couldn't hit a thing."

"We weren't getting any offensive rebounds and we weren't getting an offense," she said. "That had to cease. I told the girls at halftime that this was it, that they could go out and play or forget it."

What the Jaguars forgot was how they played in the first half. Farmville, behind its quarterback, Diana Gordan, who scored all nine of her points in the third period, outscored the Rams, 17-8, to take a 37-33 lead at the close of the quarter.

Cortney Lancaster had four of her team-high 14 points during the spurt to aid the Jaguar cause.

Greene Central battled back to within two, 44-42, with just under five minutes left, but could score only two more points the rest of the way while Farmville hit for six points to seal its ninth conference win of the year in 15 starts.

"We were active defensively in the first half and not very active in the second half," Greene Central coach Jim Fulghum said. "I told them before the game that if we could keep them off the boards we'd have a chance to win. We did that in the first half, but not in the second."

Panthers Whip Hawks

BETHEL — North Pitt's Panthers, still trying to catch Eastern Carolina Conference leader Farmville Central, rolled to a 66-38 victory over North Lenoir last night, and clinched no worse than a second place finish in the conference.

North Lenoir's girls downed North Pitt, 64-47, in their meeting.

The Panthers, now 11-4, have only Friday's game with Southern Nash remaining. A victory, coupled with a Farmville loss, would give the North Pitt five first seedings in the conference tournament which begins next Monday. Any other outcome would send the Panthers into the tournament in second place.

North Pitt edged out to a 10-6 lead in the first period of the game, then extended that to 24-16 during the second quarter.

The Panthers began to widen the gap in the third outscoring the Hawks, 15-9, to lead 39-25. They wrapped it up with a 27-13 final period blitz, winning handily.

Reginald Knight led the scoring for North Pitt with 19, while Milton Hardy added 10. No one hit in double figures for the Hawks.

North Lenoir's girls jumped off to a 16-6 lead in the opening period. North Pitt, however, rallied, 21-11, in the second quarter, deadlocking it at the intermission, 27-27.

But the Lady Hawks regain the momentum in the third period, 19-8, rolling out to a 46-35 lead. They polished off the Panthers, 18-12, in the last quarter.

Deacon AD Foresees No Future Wake-ECU Football Games

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

About a year prior to his death, former athletic director Clarence Stasavich and Wake Forest AD Gene Hooks reached an agreement to play four football games between the two schools in the early 1980's.

However, that agreement apparently died with Stasavich, Hooks reported to the Greenville Sports Club yesterday.

In response to a question about the projected series, Hooks said that the agreement had been made through the personal friendship of the two athletic directors. "We really have never had a football coach who wanted to play East Carolina," Hooks added.

Since Stasavich's death, the agreement has quietly been forgotten on the Wake Forest end of the deal, although there are rumors, unconfirmed by ECU authorities, that legal efforts may be made against Wake Forest. The game played this year was contracted for by present ECU athletic director Bill Cain.

Hooks said he did not foresee

East Carolina and Wake Forest entering into any future football contracts.

"We have worked Georgia Tech (a new Atlantic Coast Conference member) onto our schedule starting in 1982. That gives us seven conference games from then on. In addition, we have traditional games with Virginia Tech and South Carolina, and we like to play Appalachian State due to its proximity to Winston-Salem and the fact that we can play them at home every year. Then, for our 11th game, we look for a school like our own, or a military academy. The ideal game would be with someone that would draw well and still be a good bet to give us a victory."

While complimenting East

Carolina on the growth of its program, Hooks said that he did not feel that the two schools really had anything to offer each other.

The Wake leader added that the two schools had much in common in being small fish in a large pond, and trying to get bigger themselves each year. "Both are striving for excellence. We have one advantage by having been in the right place at the right time to get in the ACC when it was founded. We have derived many benefits from that."

Hooks said that it was difficult for Wake to have successful programs because it had a small student body and a small alumni. "Take student fees for example. If each of our students pays $50 a year, that's $200,000. If each of Maryland's pays $50, that's $2 million. That makes a lot of difference."

"So we have to cultivate the Winston-Salem area as much as possible to have a chance," he said. "Our best thing financially is being in the ACC. The basketball tournament raises a great deal of money for us. Then, this year's football successes have helped us a lot, too."

Asked if he had advice for East Carolina, Hooks said he hated to give another school advice. But, he added, the best advice he could give would be to get into a conference. "This will aid in scheduling, and will give more opportunity for television receipts, plus the exposure of television helps recruiting."

The next speaker for the Sports Club will be Willie Mays, baseball Hall of Famer, on Feb. 28. Former ECU griddier, currently with the Pittsburgh Steelers, Zack Valentine, will speak on March 4.

Mays Visit Reset

Because of business commitments which make travel connections impossible, the date of Willie Mays visit to the Greenville area, including a talk at the Greenville Sports Club has been moved back two weeks.

Mays will now speak on February 28.

The meeting has also been switched to the Greenville Moose Lodge, because of additional seating capacity.

W.M. "Booger" Scales, in charge of the project, emphasized that anyone unable to go at the new date would have their money refunded by returning the tickets to him.

Additional tickets are on sale from most Sports Club members, or from Scales or Phil Dixon, club president.

Tickets are $6 each, and include a buffet dinner served by Parkers' Barbecue. The buffet line will open at 11:30 a.m., with the program starting at 12:30 p.m.

Conley Falls Again

PIKEVILLE — Two weeks ago, D.H. Conley's Vikings were in the thick of the race for the Eastern Carolina Conference championship.

Last night, they were beaten for the fourth straight time in league play, as Charles B. Aycock High School took a 51-46 win over the Vikings.

Aycock's girls also came up with a win, 53-40.

The Aycock victory allowed the Falcons to pull even with the Vikings, both with 8-7 league records. Southern Nash is also 8-7, and was idle last night.

Both teams pushed in 14 points during the first period of play. Aycock came back with 14 more in the second period, while holding Conley to just five. That gave the Falcons a 28-19 halftime lead.

Conley rallied in the third quarter, 20-13, and trimmed the Aycock lead to 41-39. But a 10-7 advantage by Aycock in the final period was just enough to win it.

Barry Uzzell led Aycock with 20, while Jeff Best added 13 and Alex Speight had 12. O'Hara Parker was Conley's lone scorer in double figures with 12.

In the girls' game, Conley gained a 15-10 lead in the opening quarter, but Aycock reversed that in the second to make it 25-25 at the half. Aycock again outthit the Valkyries, 10-5, for a 35-30 lead. Aycock then outscored Conley, 12-10, in the final quarter.

Debra Proctor led Aycock with 21, while Glenda Green paced Conley with 24.

Conley closes out the regular season rallyed, hosting Farmville Central.

and Dwayne Gillam each had 11, and Archie Wesson, Tony Lee and Clarence Hayes had 10 each.

In the girls' contest, the two teams swapped the lead three times during the first period before Rose moved out by four, only to drop back to a 12-10 lead at the end of the frame.

In the second, the lead changed hands three more times with Bertie gaining as much as a five-point lead, 19-14, before Rose came back to regain the lead. It was deadlocked, however, 24-24, at the end of the half.

Rose, handicapped by having its tallest player, Donna Cullipher on the bench all but for a few seconds of the third period with four fouls, still managed to regain the lead, and held a 32-30 lead as the horn sounded.

But in the final period, the Rampants, hurt by turnovers and fouls saw Bertie regain the lead at 33-32, and moved out by four before the Rampettes tied it at 38-38 with 4:44 left.

But Bertie then ran off nine straight points for a 47-38 lead with 1:29 left, and Rose was unable to make a valid threat after that.

"It's still probably the most constant we've played this year," Coach Dennis Gibson said afterwards. "Except for the last five minutes, we did well. There were a few questionable calls there at the end, but turnovers hurt us too."

"Having both Donna and Kim (Waller) on the bench with foul trouble in the third period hurt us. We were also missing Mary Gay (recovering from the flu). The Haselrig girls (Bernestine and Belinda) played one of their better games tonight, too."

Sharon Williams led Rose with 20 points, while Cullipher added 12. Valerie Capehart and Irma Holley each had 16 to pace Bertie.

Rose is now 8-3 in league play and 14-5 overall (boys) while the girls are 3-8 and 4-12. The Rampants return home on Thursday to face Wilson Pike in a game that could decide first place in the Division.

"Having to play on Thursday is no great problem, since both us (of Rose and Pike) get the same time off. They had a tough game Tuesday night (against Beddingfield), so it should be quite a game," Brewington said.

Southwest Defeats Ayden-Grifton, 51-44

PINETOPS — Southwest Edgecombe gained a pair of Eastern Carolina Conference victories over Ayden-Grifton last night. The boys took a 51-44 win, while the league-leading and undefeated girls came away with a 51-32 win.

In the boys' game, Southwest moved to a 16-12 lead after one period. Ayden-Grifton stuck close, and trailed only 26-23 at intermission. In the third frame, Southwest pulled away again, building up a 43-35 lead. Ayden-Grifton was able to cut only one point off the lead in the final quarter.

Bullets Nip Mattamuskeet

SWAN QUARTER — Jamesville, with two steals for baskets and a free throw, nipped Mattamuskeet, 61-40, in the final seconds of a night in a basketball game.

Jamesville's Chris took a steal in the first quarter.

Jamesville led 10-0 in the first quarter and trailed 20-18 at halftime. The Bullets took a 30-23 lead in the third quarter and led 40-18 in the final period. The Bullets closed to 40-23 on a steal in the final minutes and a half. Trent Ange and Allen Frazier, the other Bullets, led to baskets.

Then, Keith Modlin drew a change in the last seconds, hitting the first of a one-and-one for the 61-40 lead. Mattamuskeet got the rebound on the missed second shot, but a hurried shot at the horn missed.

Modlin led the Bullets with 20, while Ange and Gerald Keys each had 12. William Mackey and Vincent Whitfield each had 22 for Mattamuskeet.

The Mattamuskeet girls jumped out to a 10-7 lead and upped that to 23-13 by halftime. They ran that to 33-18 in the third period and finished off the Lady Bullets, 15-12, in the last quarter.

Jamesville finishes up the regular season Friday, hosting Bear Grass.

Williamston Whips Edenton Aces, 59-48

EDENTON — Williamston High School's Tigers stayed close to the leader in the Northeastern Conference with a 59-48 victory over Edenton last night. Williamston's girls also came up with a victory, 70-46.

Williamston is now 9-4 in league play with one game left to go, while the girls are 10-3, and both are no worse than tied for second.

In the boys' game, Williamston edged ahead, 12-10, during the first period of play. The Tigers then pulled out, 15-9, in the second quarter, building up a 27-19 half-time advantage.

Both teams pushed through 15 points in the third, but Williamston outlasted the Aces, 17-14, in the final period for the victory.

Edward Williams led the winners with 29 while Percy Harris had 11. Chris Simmons had 10 and Thomas White had 13 for Edenton.

Jim Hopson damped in an amazing 41 points on 14 field goals and 13 free throws to lead the Tigerettes. Ginger Edwards added 12. Kathy Blount hit 28 to lead Edenton.

The Tigers close out the regular season on Friday, hosting Roanoke.

Rogers Leads Bears To Win

BELHAVEN — Watson Rogers poured in 25 points and Bear Grass held off a late rally by Belhaven to nip the Bulldogs, 32-28, in a basketball game Tuesday night.

Earlier, in the girls' game, conference leader Belhaven ran past Bear Grass, 32-28.

In the boys' game, Jesse Bullock's steal and subsequent free throw gave the Bears a 10-point lead with seconds left to seal the Bears' 14th win of the season against six losses. Bear Grass is 8-4 in the conference.

The Bears led all the way, moving ahead 12-10 at the end of the first period and 24-18 at the half. The Bulldogs, 4-9 in the league and 6-12 overall, inched back to within three, 33-30, at the close of the third period, but could not overcome the Bears in the final quarter.

The Bulldogs were led by Richard Windley's 12 points and Gary Robinson's 10. William Robinson had 10 for the Bears. In the girls' game, Belhaven grabbed the early lead and were never headed in winning its 12th conference game of the season in 13 starts. The Bears, despite a sparkling performance by Joette Rogers, who had 25 points, fall to 1-11 in the league.

Syrian Withdrawal In Lebanon Has Been Delayed

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian President Hafez Assad delayed the withdrawal of most of his troops from tense Beirut after snipers wounded four persons. Moslem militiamen clashed among themselves and Lebanese, Palestinian and Saudi Arabian leaders appealed to him to wait.

An elderly nun and three Moslem gunmen were reported wounded.

Assad said he told former President Suleiman Franjeh that he would postpone the pull-out "for some time," until the Lebanese Army could enforce the 38-month-old armistice that ended the 1975-76 civil war between Christian rightists and an alliance of leftist Lebanese Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas.

Franjeh, the leader of one of the three biggest Christian factions and a staunch supporter of the Syrian military presence in Lebanon, rushed to Damascus after the Syrian government without prior warning announced it was withdrawing the 5,000 troops policing Beirut to the Bekaa Valley, 40 miles to the east.

Others who pleaded with Assad to reverse the order were Lebanon's Moslem premier, Salim el Hoss; Yasser Arafat, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, and Saudi Arabia's second deputy prime minister, Prince Abdulla Bin Abdul Aziz.

Lebanese government sources said Assad told Hoss that when his army went ahead with the withdrawal, it would not be a total pullout. He said Syrian troops would continue to maintain their positions near the international airport and at the Lebanese Army's three main garrisons in the Moslem sector of the city, the sources said.

Assad said it was time for the Lebanese to police themselves and let the 20,000 Syrian troops in the country withdraw to the sidelines where their presence would deter resumption of the civil war.

"We do not want to see our troops playing the role of police in the streets," he said. "We only want to be a deterrent force."

He called on the leaders of the various rival Lebanese factions to "move a little if not a lot toward national entente," and added, "we have helped stop the fighting; others should agree to dislodge the roots of tension and combat in Lebanon."

Since the civil war, however, there has been no progress toward establishment of a new political system solving the basic Moslem-Christian differences that caused the civil war or uniting the various factions on each side. The country is now a patchwork of districts controlled by individual parties or factions, with the Syrian army maintaining a precarious peace. And it was apparent that no one believed the Lebanese Army, which disintegrated during the civil war, was sufficiently rebuilt to do more than a token job even in Beirut.

Blocks Ban Of 'Caligula'

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge has turned back an attempt by a Georgia lawyer and a morality group to prevent the showing of "Caligula." Penthouse International's $17 million movie that purports to depict the violent and sexual excesses of ancient Rome.

Hinson McAuliffe, solicitor general of Fulton County, Ga., had filed a joint suit in Manhattan's U.S. District Court last Friday with Morality In Media, seeking to force the Justice Department to block screening of the film in this country.

Plaintiffs claimed the movie is obscene and contended that Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti and other justice officials were mandated by law to take court action to have it seized and destroyed when copies were delivered from London for distribution in the United States.

Civiletti reviewed the movie after it arrived from London last April and declined to move against it, court papers said.

Before dismissing the suit Friday, U.S. District Judge Vincent L. Broderick listened to two hours of arguments.

Broderick ruled the plaintiffs' suit to compel Civiletti to prosecute had "no standing."

"I find no mandatory duty on the part of the U.S. attorney or the attorney general to proceed judicially against 'Caligula,'" the judge ruled.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph Pope, defending Civiletti's action, found himself siding with Penthouse lawyer Roy Grutman.

The ruling drew a smile from Penthouse chief Bob Guccione and aides who sat watching the court proceeding.

Guccione said later that although the 2½-hour movie contained about six minutes of "explicit sexuality," it wasn't obscene under standards set by the U.S. Supreme Court.

"It's an accurate representation of what happened under the Caesars of ancient Rome," said Guccione.

Pledges Role

In State Govm't

CARY, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Tuesday he would create an advisory committee for travel and tourism to provide formal representation for the industry in state government.

Hunt told the North Carolina Travel Council he would appoint between 15 and 20 members, "all of whom will have promotional blood in their veins," to serve on the committee. The new committee is to represent all major segments of the travel industry and all geographical areas of the state.

"I know the severe problems you face," Hunt said. "I know what inflation is doing to you. I know what the price and supply of gasoline can do."

CORRECTION

In the story in Tuesday's paper of the city school board meeting, the reference to the audit report should have read "An audit report presented by Mike Joyner of John C. Proctor & Co."

KROGER FILM FOR CLUBS AND CLASSES

HOW TO BUY FRESH PRODUCE

There is growing interest in fresh, natural foods and increasing concern with nutritious eating and wise food shopping. More and more families are discovering how enjoyable it can be to add nutrition to the diet with fresh fruit and vegetables. As a part of Kroger's continuing efforts to help shoppers get full value for their food dollar, a consumer information film on how to buy and prepare fresh produce is available for showings to classes, clubs and groups. Your Kroger store manager or local Kroger office can make arrangements to schedule a showing of the film for your group. "Enjoying Fresh Fruits and Vegetables" tells how to select a number of produce items which are growing in popularity (Tropical fruits, green salads, melons, Oriental vegetables, and cooking vegetables). In addition to shopping information, the film talks about such things as how to prepare an avocado or a papaya... steaming vegetables to preserve flavor and nutrients... or Oriental stir-fry cookery.

KROGER SAV-ON...A WHOLE LOT MORE THAN JUST ONE STORE!

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes January 24 through January 30.

HOUSE
CHINA TRADE — The House adopted, 294 for and 88 against, a resolution giving "Most Favored Nation" trade status to China. The name implies special treatment, but means that China will have the same trade access to the U.S. that most other nations have. Already passed by the Senate, the resolution, (H Con Res 204) put the new trade status immediately into effect.

Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., said normal trade with China "will be good for us and good for them."

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., criticized the legislation on ideological grounds, saying the U.S. is now going "from the embrace of the Russian bear to the embrace of the Chinese dragon."

Members voting "yea" favored normal trade with China.

Reps. L.H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.G. Hefner, D-8, and Lamar Gudgeon, D-11, voted "yea."

Reps. James Martin, R-9, and James Broyhill, R-10, voted "nay."

Rep. Walter Jones, D-1, did not vote.

PORK BARREL — The House refused, 117 for and 263 against, to shelve eight water projects included in a public works bill.

The eight were singled out by critics wanting to dent the $4.4 billion bill, which provides "pork" for about 70 per cent of the congressional districts. They are among 200 projects in the bill (HR 4788), which was headed for final passage and the Senate.

Rep. Robert Edgar, D-Pa., a supporter, said the eight projects need to be "analyzed and reviewed. I am not prejudicing these projects. I simply say they have not cut the mustard yet."

Rep. Robert Duncan, D-Ore., an opponent, said the key question was whether Congress would pay for floods after they hit "or whether we are going to pay for them ahead of time by building dams."

Members voting "yea" wanted to trim the public works bill.

Neal voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Gudgeon voted "nay."

Martin did not vote.

FEDERAL AID — The House rejected, 185 for and 207 against, an amendment stipulating that some $200 million in anti-recession aid to cities could not be released until the national jobless rate hit 7.5 per cent. This would have made it tougher for certain cities — those hardest hit by recession — to get the "targeted fiscal assistance." Defeat of the amendment left five per cent as the trigger for release of the aid. The amendment was offered to a bill (HR 5980) headed for final passage and the Senate.

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, the sponsor, said the 7.5 per cent trigger would benefit non-urban constituencies such as his own, whose "hard-earned money" supplies much of the aid to large cities.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., an opponent, said that if it raised the threshold from five to 7.5 per cent the House would bring about defeat of the entire "targeted fiscal assistance" section.

Members voting "yea" wanted to make it more difficult for some of the nation's cities to get the special federal aid.

Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Broyhill and Gudgeon voted "yea."

Jones voted "nay."

Rose did not vote.

SENATE

AGENT ORANGE — By a vote of 28 for and 59 against, the Senate refused to kill an amendment to speed up federal research into any health damage inflicted on Vietnam veterans by Agent Orange. The herbicide was used as a defoliant in Vietnam, and there is evidence that it can severely harm persons who come into contact with it and their offspring.

This vote okayed the softer of two legislative approaches before the Senate. It shelved a proposal to give the VA one year to set up a benefits program for veterans who are at least ten per cent disabled by Agent Orange. It came during debate on a Veterans Administration bill (HR 5288), passed and sent to conference with the House.

Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., who voted yes, said the more extreme approach was needed to force the VA "to the point where they can and will respond to the needs of Vietnam veterans who have been disabled by Agent Orange."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who voted no and favored more research into Agent Orange, said "we must legislate responsibly and on the basis of valid findings — which we do not at present have."

Senators voting "nay" want Agent Orange to undergo more research before the VA starts paying benefits to those disabled by it.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

Sen. Robert Morgan, D, voted "nay."

DISABILITY BENEFITS — On a 47-47 tie vote, the Senate failed to prevent a cut in Social Security disability benefits. Left intact was legislation preventing a person getting benefits in excess of 85 per cent of his or her pre-disability pay. Combined with incentives to put the disabled back on a payroll, the limit would apply to persons coming on disability rolls after Jan. 1, 1980. The overall bill (HR 3236) was headed for final passage and conference with the House.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who favored leaving benefits at 100 per cent of salary, said the cut to 85 per cent would amount to Congress "breaking its word" to the American worker.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who favored the 85 per cent ceiling, called it "foolhardy" for Congress to "make it so generous that people make more money by being disabled or being declared disabled than they are working on a job."

Senators voting "nay" favored the 85 per cent ceiling.

Morgan voted "yea."

Helms voted "nay."

THE TERMINALLY ILL — The Senate adopted, 70 for and 23 against, an amendment enabling the terminally ill to immediately receive Social Security disability payments. The amendment, which eliminates the present five-month waiting period, would increase Social Security payments by an estimated $711 million over five years.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., a supporter, said it is unjust that the terminally ill "often die before they get a chance to use the Social Security benefits they paid for all those years."

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., an opponent, called the amendment budget-busting and said: "When we tell people with cancer, 'You are going to die, you are disabled, you cannot do anything,' it tends to make those people give up."

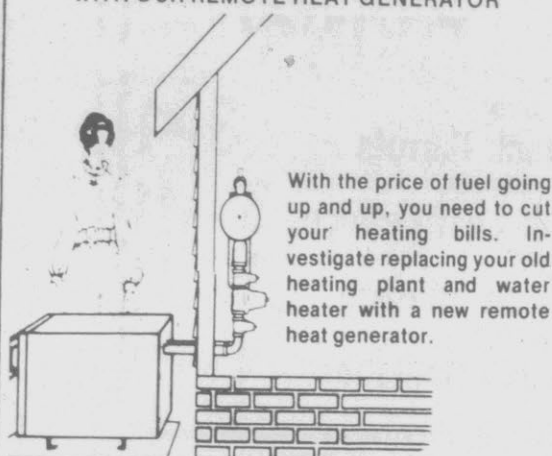

Senators voting "yea" favored the amendment.

Morgan voted "yea."

Helms did not vote.

Citizen Task Force For 'Participation'

Mayor Don McGlohon announced the appointment of 18 local citizens to serve on a "Task Force for Citizen Participation" for the city.

McGlohon said the appointments include Max Ray Joyner as chairman, and members Andy Warren, Anne Whitehurst, Tyson Bilbro, Edith Rand, Elizabeth Savage, Mildred Council, James W. Grimes, Janice Faulkner, Dr. W. S. Bost, William E. Jones, Dr. Charles Coble, Warren Stroud, Maggie Brown, Dr. Don Ensley, Jean Darden, Ellen Mayer and John Shannhouse. The committee will be assisted by Lois Worthington, city clerk, the mayor said.

McGlohon noted in making the appointments that "much interest and concern has been expressed by citizens to serve on various boards and commissions appointed by the City Council."

He said the purpose of the committee will be to encourage, recruit, and develop a resource list of people interested in becoming involved on boards and commissions of the city. Anyone interested, he added, may contact a committee member or write to the city clerk at Post Office Box 1905, or call 752-4137, Ext. 216.

"We hope that through this committee, each citizen will indicate his desire so they may be afforded an opportunity to contribute their time, talent, knowledge, and expertise to the city government which is so vitally needed," the mayor observed.

Testing His Theories On Intelligence

By MONTE HAYES
Associated Press Writer
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Luis Alberto Machado believes that every normal child is born with the potential for becoming a genius and that any person — no matter how old — can expand his intelligence.

"I don't believe in super-gifted children. Every human being, from the day he is born, is potentially a genius," he says. "We all have the same capacity for developing our intelligence."

Machado should know. He's the world's only minister for the development of intelligence. And in that role he is turning this tropical nation on the northern rim of South America into a laboratory to prove his ideas.

Scientists and experts from the United States, England, France and Israel are preparing pilot projects using different techniques aimed at multiplying the brainpower of the Venezuelan population.

The intelligence minister has received a spattering of praise from fellow Venezuelans for his plans to make them the world's smartest people.

On the other hand, criticism and outright scorn have rained down on him in torrents. Doubters complain, for instance, that he is wasting money which would do far more for increasing the national IQ if spent on improving the nutrition of the country's children.

"None of this criticism has bothered me because I believe in what I am doing," says the 47-year-old Machado, by training a lawyer and sociologist.

Although he has endured scorn at home, Machado has been swamped by praise from foreign scientists and governments keenly interested in oil-rich Venezuela's decision to create an intelligence ministry.

Before becoming minister in March 1979, Machado had visited 25 countries to promote both his theories and his two books, "The Revolution of Intelligence" and "The Right to Be Intelligent."

In Machado's first highly publicized project, 35 Indian children from the Amazon jungle learned to play the violin by the Suzuki method in just 10 weeks of study with a Japanese master violinist brought to Caracas. The Suzuki method places emphasis on getting young children to handle instruments before learning theory — just the opposite of traditional music teaching.

In September the Indian children performed with the National Youth Orchestra in a widely acclaimed concert, playing pieces from Haydn and Beethoven. Since then, skeptics have been quiet.

"I'm not a scientist," the former congressman says. "What I do is simply draw out the consequences if it is true, as scientists say in ever growing numbers, that intelligence can be learned and taught."

"I believe educational systems worldwide are criminal," he exclaims. "Instead of making man more creative, they make him less creative. It is necessary to make radical changes in them."

In one pilot project already under way to increase thinking skills, 40 teachers from slum schools are putting to use what they learned in a one-week intensive course given by Edward De Bono, head of the Center for the Study of Thinking in Cambridge, England. Two hundred factory workers are also receiving classes in creative and analytical thinking from teachers trained by De Bono.

Among projects soon to begin:

—One hundred fourth-graders from poor homes will participate in a one-year course to learn to compose music, write poetry and paint.

—University professors are designing courses to teach new mothers at maternity hospitals what they should and should not do to stimulate the intelligence of their newborn children. TV ads will also be used to reinforce the message.

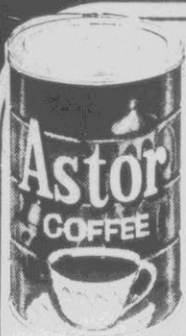

—School children throughout Venezuela will be taught chess as another way of honing their thinking skills.

—A speaker's corner akin to Hyde Park in London and a Hall of Creativity will be set up, "where people can bring any creative, imaginative project they have," the intelligence minister says.

Steve Martin To Write, Star

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Steve Martin, on the heels of his unexpected box office bonanza, "The Jerk," has signed with Warner Brothers to write and star in an original comedy.

The movie, scheduled to go before the cameras this year, will be produced by Martin's Aspen Film Society for the studio.

Said Warners vice president Robert W. Shapiro, "Steve Martin is a brilliant comedian. We at Warners are proud to be associated with him ... a wild and crazy guy."

Seniors Share The Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — It was "Some Enchanted Evening" for a group of octogenarians at The Jewish Home and Hospital for Aged when they presented a musical adaptation of "South Pacific" recently.

It was the fourth annual show offered by the Kittay House Chorus and Players, whose average age is 86. Kittay House is an apartment residence for 300 self-reliant elderly.

Grass skirts, sailor suits and other costumes were designed by Esther Bialo, 89, who supervised their construction by others in the elderly group.

Nellie Forbush was played by Kittay Hoenig, making her stage debut at the age of 81, and Morris Weiss at 89 resumed his career as a leading man, singing the role of Emile De Becque.

WARNING SYSTEM
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina agriculture extension officials, who expect another blue mold outbreak among tobacco crops this year, say a blue-mold warning system is being established to provide information on the control of the disease.

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you tune in to "CBS Reports" tonight, you can hear that one million American teen-agers girls are pregnant. If you stay tuned for the CBS movie that follows, you can hear that teenage alcoholism is at the epidemic level.

If you stay tuned later than that, you are probably troubled yourself.

Sorry, I know these are serious subjects here. It's just that CBS' Wednesday evening strikes me as a sort of black parody of a good news-bad news joke.

The bad news is, America's teen-agers are going to hell in a fast taxi. And there is no good news.

I don't mean to suggest that good news be created if none exists. I just can't shake the feeling that the Demon Teen-ager theme makes for good ratings, always has and always will, even under the venerable "CBS Reports" banner; especially when packaged with the title, "Boys and Girls Together."

You expect a sleazy, smokechafed voice to come on and say, "Rated R ... at a theater or drive-in near you."

Instead, you get Harry Reasoner, surrounded by a group of beer-swilling and pot-smoking teen-agers, claiming that half of them will end up in bed together tonight. Reasoner lets forth with a series of depressing statistics, such as: One in five teen-agers have had sex by the age of 13; one million teen-agers are pregnant; their unwanted babies will cost taxpayers $5 billion in welfare bills.

Reasoner takes us to a South New Jersey joint where teen-agers drink and dance in bikinis, and to a "Rocky Horror Show" theater, where teenyboppers monkey the movie's characters by dressing up like transvestites and leather lovers; occasionally, Reasoner tells us how things weren't like this in his day.

Of America's 26,817,000 teen-agers who aren't pregnant, Reasoner managed to find four, who make moral rectitude seem like a disease not worth catching. "Sex is filth," one of them says. "It's just of the flesh," says another. "We try to abstain from it, and, Lord willing, we never will (do it)."

Okay, there are your choices, America. Religious fanatics or a bunch of lusty tramps, "people who do not value themselves or others."

The thing does make a few good points, such as the reluctance of most states to mandate sex education, and the confusion among some teen-agers between freedom and recklessness.

But the show has a titillating shade to it, a sort of sensational flavor that suggests the attitude of a 1950s switchblade-and-leather documentary. The little monsters have run amok, where have we failed?

Mailed 3,600 Oscar Ballots

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has mailed 3,600 ballots to members for Oscar nominations involving 225 eligible feature length films of 1979. Nominees will be announced Feb. 25.

The 52nd annual awards presentations ceremonies will be held April 14 at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium with Johnny Carson as master of ceremonies.

First presenters named for the Oscar awards were last year's best actor and actress winners, Jon Voight and Jane Fonda who costarred in "Coming Home."

John Denver To Host Ski Event

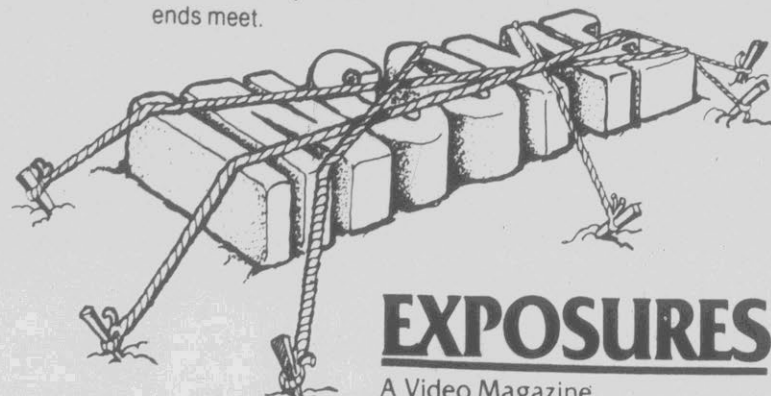

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Movie, TV and music personalities are waxing their skis for the third annual John Denver celebrity pro-am skiing competition March 7-9 at Lake Tahoe.

Joining some 20 celebrities in the tournament will be 60 world professional skiers at the Heavenly Valley winter sports complex.

Last year Bruce Jenner, Cheryl Tiegs, Don Meredith, Sonny Bono and John Davidson were among the stars competing in the events for ABC's "Wide World of Sports."

Don't Look Up; Pigeons Pose Problem In Tokyo

TOO MANY BIRDS—Aggressive pigeons are more than this Japanese youngster bargained for when he visited Tokyo's Asakusa Sensoji Temple to see the temple's famed feathered residents.

By KAY TATEISHI

TOKYO (AP)—Many people come to Tokyo's Asakusa Sensoji Temple to offer prayers to Kannon, the goddess of mercy, to protect them from untoward mishaps.

But with an estimated 5,000 pigeons making their abodes in the eaves and rafters of the ornate old building, mishaps are common. Even encouraged, some say, by the many children who bring crackers and roasted beans to feed the friendly, fluttering birds.

The popularity of the pigeons, plus the fact that under Japanese law they are a protected species, poses a dilemma for the government, which would like to reduce their numbers before the treasured landmarks of old Japan are buried in bird droppings.

Sensoji is a special case because it has been a sanctuary for the doves for half a century, ever since a noted songwriter, Rentaro Taki, composed a song to the birds that became a national favorite. He was honored with a memorial monument on the temple grounds.

Every year, officials say, workmen scrape and haul about three tons of pigeon refuse from the Sensoji Temple. In all, the temples and shrines of Tokyo, Kyoto and other cities collect some 50 to 60 tons a year.

Special screens have had to be erected around prized sections of buildings, statues and other outdoor works of art. And recently, housewives in some danchi, or housing complexes, have put up large nets to protect their drying laundry from the feathered bombers.

Yoshimaro Yamashina, director of the Yamashina Bird Institute, attributes the pigeon population increase to several factors — one being the country's growing affluence, which means more leftover food for the birds.

At the same time, he says, vultures and other birds that are natural enemies of the pigeon have been exterminated.

Wilkerson professes a "pretty good" knowledge of arithmetic — necessary for some of the intricate jobs he's called on to perform — even though his formal education is limited.

"We lived seven miles from Harrison School and they came by in a mule-drawn wagon to get us," he said. "When the roads were bad, they didn't come, and those old wagons really tore up the roads. Then they got a T-model truck and half the time they didn't come at all after that."

And what does Wilkerson do with his spare time? Tinker, of course, and his favorite pastime is working on a 1946 automobile.

At the urging of his son, Wilkerson replaced the car's original engine years ago. Even then, he used an engine he found in a junk yard and rebuilt.

"Really wasn't much wrong with the first engine," he said. "It didn't have but about 350,000 miles on it, but it was leaking a little oil out of the back bearing."

The machinist said he had just about gotten the "new" engine broken in.

"I guess there's a little more than 200,000 miles on it," he said.

In May, "or thereabouts," Wilkerson plans to retire.

"If I was 25 years younger," he said, "I'd work another 25 years."

PAINLESS ASSAULT?
MILAN, Italy (AP) — When Gregorio Reccia went to have a tooth pulled, his dentist assured him the operation would be painless, but he was wrong.

After the tooth was out, the patient leaped from the chair and punched the dentist in the eye, saying "Hi! Your tooth-pulling doesn't hurt, then neither does this."

Reccia now is being sued for assault.

Protected by law, the pigeons are causing problems for authorities seeking to preserve the ancient temple, as well as for housewives who hesitate to hang washed laundry to dry.

gions are diminishing in number as the nation becomes more urbanized.

And he said the pigeon population had been further increased by the "dobato," or "outlaw" pigeons — tame birds that have escaped their cages, and homing pigeons that didn't go home.

Homing pigeons were once used by all of Japan's major newspapers to carry messages from reporters in the field to the home offices. They were phased out in 1961, but many remained alive to reproduce.

Japanese officials have tried in the past to control the pigeon population by removing some from areas where they are too numerous to new homes, and by scattering contraceptive pills in their feed. Nothing has seemed to work very well.

The situation became so serious last August that the government's environmental agency drafted an ordinance that would have allowed a brief but unlimited hunting season on the dobatos in November.

To even consider such a drastic measure, officials asked for, and got, the endorsement of the Homing Pigeon Association, the Wild Bird Society, the Buddhist monks who oppose any kind of killing — nine groups in all.

But before it could iron out such details as who would do the hunting, and exactly where, and how they would distinguish between the outlaw birds and the regular ones, those same groups received a storm of objections from their own members, and withdrew support for the ordinance.

Officials said it would remain "pigeonholed" at least until next year.

His Ancient Rifle Still Bags Deer

By BUD IWEN

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, Mont. (UPI) — Every once in a while, Verle Rademacher takes out his old .50-caliber muzzle-loaded rifle to go hunting.

He's been successful enough with the single-shot weapon to bring home deer and antelope for the family table here in the cattle and logging country of central Montana.

Rademacher, 42, publisher of the weekly Meagher County News which he and his wife Pat purchased in 1967, explains:

"I've raised a family on a lot of wild meat. When the freezer is full, then I go "fun hunting" — with the muzzleloader."

Filling the freezer with venison, antelope and elk meat usually requires that Rademacher first do some "serious hunting" using a modern rifle equipped with a high-power scope.

Rademacher and a half-dozen or so of his friends — all using muzzleloaders — did some "fun" hunting one weekend this fall.

"We had a blast," said Rademacher on the Sunday evening at the end of the deer hunt.

Only one hunter shot a deer. Rademacher himself missed a whitetail buck about 125 yards away: "I shot over him."

The intent of the "special hunt," as Rademacher called it, was to help out a rancher who reported "the whitetail chewing up his haystacks pretty bad."

Rademacher figured the weekend exercise would provide sport for the hunters while perhaps ridding the rancher of some of the deer that were eating the hay he had cut for his cattle.

Rademacher became interested in antique guns in the mid-1950s when a Colt cap and ball pistol in a catalog caught his eye. He bought it.

"I was bit then by the black-powder bug."

A little more than 10 years later, in 1966, as a member of the Beartooth Mountain Menuzzleloaders club in Helena,

He won the Montana state championship for muzzleloader shooters. He was state champion again in 1968 and won further recognition in 1969 by outshooting 80-100 others at the Golden Spike Match for muzzleloaders in Ogden, Utah.

He builds muzzleloaders, but progress these days is slow. He takes credit for making "about half-dozen" muzzleloaders. But he has been working on a pistol for five years and he has no idea when he will finish it.

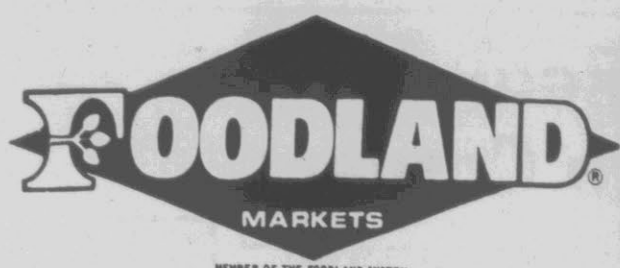

"The biggest problem" is that "my work interferes with my pleasure," says Rademacher.

Cheers From Wheelchair

By BARBARA McMAHON
Associated Press Writer
NORTH KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gail Spotts lay in a hospital bed a year ago after an automobile accident that crushed her spine and nearly ended a dream.

Now the pretty high-school senior has returned to class, undaunted by her wheelchair or the fact that she is paralyzed below the waist.

Gail, 18, is maintaining her honor-roll grades while balancing the demands of being a student council officer — and a member of the award-winning Winnetonka High School cheerleading squad, a dream she had as a little girl.

She can't perform the fancy footwork, but her voice rings clearly through the gym and her enthusiastic arm gestures set her wheelchair rocking.

Gail and her comrades on the cheerleading squad — six girls and seven boys — have incorporated her wheelchair into their elaborate routines. In one, Gail scoots the wheelchair to center court and cheerleaders form a pyramid around it.

Other pyramid cheers use the wheelchair as a support, with cheerleaders bracing their legs against the wheels.

After the accident, Gail spent nine weeks in a hospital and missed one quarter of school. Faced with the obstacles, she considered giving up her role as cheerleader at the suburban Kansas City school of 1,600. But not for long.

"I was going to run for Pep Club president," she said. "But I really wanted to be a cheerleader. I thought I could promote spirit just as well as everyone else, and I knew how important it was," said Gail, who won cheers herself as a volleyball and basketball player her sophomore year.

"I always wanted to be a cheerleader. When I was little and my older brothers were out there wrestling, if they'd win a victory, the cheerleaders would let me come out and do a victory cheer. And I just loved it," said Gail, whose first year as a varsity cheerleader was cut short by the accident.

It wasn't known at first what she could do, said the cheerleading sponsor, Linda Spotts, an accounting teacher at the high school and Gail's sister.

"But as we got more involved — and she showed up to practice just like every other cheerleader at 6 a.m. every day — we found she could do much, much more than anyone expected," said Miss Spotts. "It's something she had wanted so badly all her life. And Gail is not a quitter; she never has given up easily."

Last summer, she traveled with the squad to the International Cheerleading Foundation Camp at Iowa State University. She received two awards, one given daily for the most spirit and another given at the end of the week to the girl with the best attitude, spirit and skill. The cheerleading squad also received top honors.

Gail plans to go to college next year and wants to become a kindergarten teacher. She also hopes to get out of the wheelchair, although her doctors say she will never walk again.

"There are a lot of cases where people have this type of injury and walk again," Gail says.

"I believe only God knows; he's the top doctor. I know the doctors have to say you won't walk again because they don't want to build your hopes up. But I believe I'll walk again if I'm meant to walk again."

Gail has leg braces and has taken a few halting steps with a walker.

One of her happiest moments recently came when she went down the aisle at a school assembly last fall using her walker — to accept the crown of Homecoming Queen.

IN CHINESE WATERS
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in more than 30 years, an American research ship will visit and work in Chinese waters next May, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration says.
