Hostage Negotiation At Sensitive Stage

By The Associated Press

Iran's Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today he hoped the hostage crisis will end soon, adding that Iran will cooperate with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, Tehran radio reported.

There was no elaboration on Ghotbzadeh's statement. A U.N. spokesman in New York said Monday that negotiations over the hostages' release are at a "very sensitive stage" and that Waldheim is in constant touch with U.S. and Iranian officials.

Waldheim has attempted to arrange freedom for the 50 Americans since they were seized at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran 101 days ago. He has also proposed an international commission be set up to investigate Iranian charges against the deposed shah.

The radio said Ghotbzadeh declined to give a timetable for the Americans' release. But in what could be a related development, the radio quoted Ghotbzadeh as telling ABC News that an international commission being set up to investigate deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi will "probably" meet in Tehran within a week.

Ghotbzadeh said he was leaving for Athens tonight to begin a five-day European tour, the radio said. A broadcast monitored in London said Ghotbzadeh will also visit Italy and France. It was not known if his trip was connected to the arrival in Tehran of an international commission.

The radio reported that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, meanwhile, repeated his offer to free the hostages within a few days if America would admit its "crimes" in Iran since it helped the deposed monarch regain his throne in 1953. "If America agrees to our view this may be possible," it quoted him as saying in an interview with French radio and television.

When his offer was first made public in an interview published Monday in the French newspaper Le Monde, the State Department said there will be no profession of guilt from the U.S. government.

Iran's revolutionary patriarch, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, leveled a strong warning to the Soviet Union to refrain from aggression against Islamic countries, the radio reported in a broadcast monitored in London. It said the warning came in a message sent to Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev and quoted him in part as saying:

"Any aggression against Third World countries and Islamic countries, particularly in this region, is against the norms which should constitute a proper basis and foundation between nations."

The portion of Khomeini's message broadcast by the radio, monitored in London, did not mention by name the Soviet armed intervention in Afghanistan, an overwhelmingly Moslem nation to the east of Iran and, like Iran, to the south of the Soviet Union.

In the Le Monde interview, Bani-Sadr said the revolutionary government no longer demands the return of the shah before the Americans are released.

The president said the hostages would be released if the U.S. government:

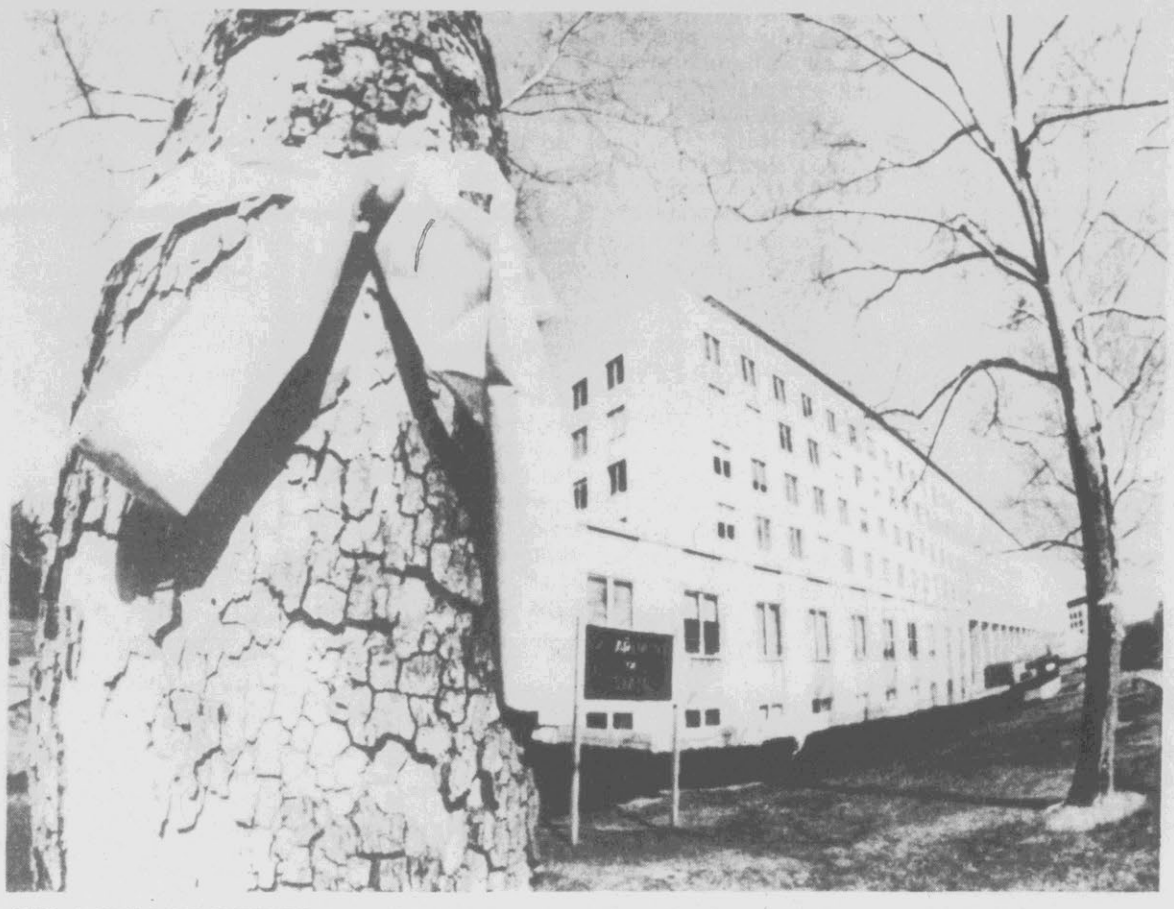

1. Acknowledged U.S. "crimes" against the Iranian people since the CIA helped overthrow leftist Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh and restored the shah to power.

2. Recognized the right of the revolutionary regime "to obtain the extradition of the shah and the restitution of his fortune;"

3. Pledged to "no longer interfere in our affairs."

Bani-Sadr told correspondent Eric Rouleau of Le Monde that his proposals were the result of a consensus of the Revolutionary Council, which he now heads, and was submitted to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the 79-year-old leader of the revolutionary regime.

"If he accepts them, it would be up to President Carter to respond in turn," said Bani-Sadr.

AMERICANS HELD FOR RANSOM

How many Americans were held by the Barbary pirates a couple of hundred years ago for ransom? Is it more than they're holding over there now? F. D.

Dr. Al Fahrner of the East Carolina University History Department told Hotline that the Barbary pirates captured literally thousands of persons of different nationalities over a period of several centuries. Between the American Revolution and the end of the War of 1812, they captured more Americans than are being held in Iran now.

According to Dr. Fahrner, the Barbary pirates captured several hundred American Merchant Seamen. The most noteworthy incident of Americans seized was when U. S. Naval personnel were taken from the U. S. Frigate Philadelphia during the war with Tripoly about 1803. Dr. Fahrner cited from one source that 307 persons were captured from the frigate which had run ashore. "They (the Barbary pirates) captured the entire crew and held them for 19 months. Tripoly had declared war on the United States, but the U. S. Congress never declared war, though Pres. Thomas Jefferson did take what he considered to be defensive action. A treaty was signed in 1805 and the United States paid a ransom of $60,000. The Pasha had at one time threatened to slaughter the whole group. Six persons died before the ransom was paid. Treatment was severe, Dr. Fahrner said.

Unlike the present Iranian hostage situation, a war was in progress. "Naturally Tripoly would seize them (U. S. Naval officers) during time of war as they recognized it," said Fahrner.

Dr. Fahrner consulted with his colleague, Dr. William Still, who specializes in naval history. Fahrner said it is difficult to assess the exact number of Americans captured during the entire period because the pirates captured a vast number of people from all over, not just Americans. The one incident he cited aims to stress the major difference in the Barbary pirates' seizures of Americans and the Iranian hostages situation — 50 Americans in more than three months of captivity so far.

Ingram Lost Yet Another

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram's troubles mounted today with a pledge by former chief deputy commissioner Roy Rabon that he will wage an active campaign against Ingram in the May 6 Democratic primary.

Rabon's decision followed the resignation on Monday of chief deuty commissioner W. Byron Tatum, the second high-ranking department official to leave Ingram's office within a week.

Rabon had originally planned not to run for commissioner of insurance if Ingram decided to seek re-election. However, he said today that "erratic behavior" by Ingram had led him to change his mind.

"During the years I worked with Ingram, it saddened me to see his behavior grow more and more erratic to the point I could no longer remain in conscience as his chief deputy," said Rabon, who left Ingram's department a year ago.

"I sadly came to realize that his arrogance and insensitivity, which have become more prevalent in recent years, now make him unsuitable for public office."

Rabon said Ingram's behavior "often reminded me of Howard Hughes ...he tells people he's not interested in this job and then he files for it."

Rabon also said recent turmoil in the Insurance Department has led him to believe Ingram will not gain more than 30 percent of the vote in the Democratic primary.

He also said Ingram has spent little time actually serving as commissioner while pursuing other interests.

Tatum, 33, resigned effective Monday, saying indecision and procrastination by Ingram had made him unable to do his job.

"I'm just tired of this mess. The inefficiency of operation is a waste of taxpayers' money," Tatum added.

Kenneth Brown, who shared with Tatum the title of chief deputy commissioner, said he was fired a week ago when, thinking Ingram planned to seek a higher office, he filed as a candidate for commissioner.

Given Soviet Armor

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Soviet Union has given about 60 medium tanks and other armored equipment to the Palestinian forces in Lebanon, Israeli military sources said today.

The sources said it was unusual for the Soviets to pass this type of weapon directly to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

They said it was not clear whether the equipment had gone into operation and claimed it was kept in the Sidon area, about 40 miles north of the Israel-Lebanon border.

In southern Lebanon, meanwhile, harassing artillery fire from Palestinian positions was reported falling on the town of Marjayoun, the headquarters of the Israeli-backed Christian militias just north of the Israeli border. Military sources said about one shell an hour struck Marjayoun, but no casualties were reported.

On Monday four Christian Lebanese died when explosive charges blew up a number of houses in Deir Memas, a village near Marjayoun, and heavy artillery duels followed during the day.

The addition of tanks and other armored weaponry to Palestinian forces in southern Lebanon will give the Palestinians additional firepower to use against the Christian militias, an Israel Radio commentator said.

Nine Acquisitions Closed In Month By Redevelopers

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

January was a busy month for Community Development activity in Greenville, according to Faye Brewington, real estate officer for the Redevelopment Commission.

Mrs. Brewington, in her report to commissioners Monday night, said that nine acquisitions were closed during the month in the various CD areas, involving three severances and six total purchases. Four of the acquisitions were in the West Meadowbrook area, she said, while the others were in Southside, South Evans and West Greenville areas.

Demolition activity took place on four structures in the Central Business District, Southside, West Meadowbrook and South Evans areas, she reported, while one parcel at Clark and 14th Streets was sold to Hallow Distributing Co.

Three relocations were handled, including two residents from the South Evans area and one from West Meadowbrook, it was pointed out. Mrs. Brewington said that four rehabilitation projects, involving two loans and two grants, were completed in the West Greenville section.

According to the staff member, options were obtained during January on three parcels in South Evans and on single parcels in West Meadowbrook and West Greenville.

Ed Cobb, staff rehabilitation officer, reported that rehabilitation projects were completed on houses located at 305 Cadillac Street, 602 Contentnea Street, 720 Vanderbilt Street, and 1406 Colonial Avenue. Contractors are working on four loans now and one grant, he said.

Joe Laney, commission executive director, brought the commissioners up to date on the status of acquisition activity in the 14th Street throughfare area.

Laney said that the 14th Street segment from Charles Boulevard to the railroad involves some 30 parcels designated for acquisition. So far, ten have been purchased for the widening project, options have been obtained on five other parcels, and active negotiations are underway on eight more parcels, he reported.

From Broad Street to Farmville Boulevard, he reported, some 25 parcels along 14th Street are on the acquisition list. Six of them have been purchased so far, he said, and options have been secured on three others. Condemnation proceedings are underway on another parcel and paperwork is being prepared on still another parcel where condemnation proceedings are expected. Laney said that negotiations are underway with the others of four parcels.

The staff hopes to finish both segments by mid year, Laney said, pointing out that contracts for the widening of the corridor can not be executed by the city until the acquisitions are made.

The executive director mentioned that a CD representative from the Department of Housing and Urban Development was in town recently and Laney said that the visitor was generally pleased with the local rehabilitation loan and grant program. Laney added that the HUD representative felt that the commission should address some of its efforts toward tenants or renters in the rehabilitation program. Most of the programs are now aimed at homeowners, it was noted.

Laney said that the commission does have 50 units of existing housing allocated, with 15 houses already under lease. HUD is advertising for 45 units in Pitt County involving moderate rehabilitation, he said, and the commission plans to apply for those units.

The moderate rehabilitation program allows owners to receive a higher fair market rent, Laney said, and should be attractive from that standpoint.

Ayden Bd. Hikes Charge Due Fossil Fuel Cost

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Board of Commissioners last night discussed the problems that the high cost of fossil fuel has caused their utilities commission, as well as street improvement and a budget amendment.

Town Manager Don Russell reported at the monthly meeting that a minimum of $22 would be charged for each 1000 KW of electricity used because of the high cost of fossil fuel charges. According to Russell, Ayden paid Greenville Utilities around $274,000 for fuel charges but billed their Ayden residents only $240,000. "The difference," said Russell, "came from unknown costs at the time of billing and from the difference in kilowatts used and billed out."

"If VEPCO's high costs continue, our charges could be forced to be as high as $25 or $30 per 1000 KW to make up for the difference," explained Russell. "I really don't see any light at the end of the tunnel," he added. "The light is May 25." On May 25 of this year Carolina Power and Light Company will begin supplying power to Ayden.

The Town Board also passed a resolution to pave Boulevard Avenue after a public hearing at which Lucy Smith concerning spoke the problems the large ditch along Boulevard caused on her property.

"I'm not opposed to paving the street but my property goes right by there and the ditch, as wide as it is, takes up about one-third of my property," said Smith. Mayor Ross Persinger said that the Board would look into the situation.

"I don't have an answer for you now but we will get back with you later," he replied. Town Manager Russell said the ditch in question is the main storm drain from East Avenue down to Blount Street.

"We've never had a situation where a ditch was so close to the pavement," said Russell.

Japan Auto Makers Urged Curb Exports To U.S.

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — UAW President Douglas A. Fraser told Japanese auto makers today that "Americans tend to become emotional in an election year" and urged them to curb exports to the United States to help lift the threat of unemployment from the members of his union.

Fraser said in meetings with Nissan Motor Co., makers of Datsun, and Mitsubishi Motors Corp. that with 220,000 American auto workers now laid off it is time for the Japanese to exercise voluntary orderly market policies regarding exports to the United States and set up American manufacturing plants.

However, Nissan President Takashi Ishihara told Fraser that Japanese imports were not responsible for the current layoffs of United Auto Workers members, a Nissan spokesman said. Ishihara said Nissan, Japan's second biggest automaker after Toyota Motor Co., is still undecided on whether to invest in U.S. assembly plants, he said.

Fraser, in a meeting with Ishihara, warned that with Japanese small car imports into the United States rising sharply in the past year, "there are those who say that imports should be restricted."

He said that while the 1.5-million member UAW still supports free market concepts, Japan can best keep economic bilateral ties with the United States running smoothly by voluntarily slowing down exports until Americans can catch up in the small, fuel-efficient car market.

Ishihara in turn blamed the United States for not being quick enough in shifting into small car production when the Iran crisis blew the lid off petroleum prices last year.

Ishihara also said that because General Motors and Ford will introduce new economy models in the future, "we do not have full confidence in Datsun competitiveness in the United States and therefore we are still unable to decide on U.S. investment."

Fraser carried the same message earlier in the day to Mitsubishi Motors President Yoshitoshi Sone.

February Snow Didn't Stop The Meter-Reader

Donnie Paramore, supervisor of Greenville Utilities Commission's Meter Department, reported that the reading of electric and gas meters has continued through February in spite of the snow.

Paramore said that, "Access to electric and gas meters has been difficult with the snow and ice conditions, but readings will be recorded."

According to Paramore, some reading dates may be extended because of weather conditions, meaning that the February bills could have more or less than the normal 30-day period.

The supervisor added, "Many water meters that were covered with snow simply could not be located and read. Water usage for these meters will be billed at the same usage for the prior month. When these meters are read in March, any overbillings, or underbillings, will be corrected automatically since meters are the continuous recording type."

George Reel, customer service representative, said that his department has responded to many questions concerning usage in the January period. He added, "We are working as closely as possible with our customers to assure them that their usage during the billing period is correct, but if we find that the usage is not correct, then billing adjustments are made."

Reel pointed out that, "Colder weather and higher fuel charges will automatically mean higher utility bills in February."

Reese Helms, manager of GUCO's Energy Conservation Department, said that the department is also working full time to answer questions about conservation practices and ways of reducing energy consumption.

Helms commented, "We are cooperating with the Customer Service Department to answer high use complaints and to conduct audits of energy use as time and personnel permit."

Open Saturday

In order to meet a time restriction on the usage of blood platelets as a result of the holiday Monday for some agencies, the Tar River Blood Center will be open for a period on Saturday.

Dick Carney of the Blood Center explained that platelets, which will be drawn from blood donated Saturday, only last or keep for 72 hours and since the center will be closed on Monday for the federally designated Washington's Birthday observance, there is a need to be open Saturday.

Ordinarily, he noted, platelets collected on Friday will keep until Monday but since the federal holiday means closing on Monday, the additional 24 hours would cause a problem on platelet usage.

The hours on Saturday will be from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., Carney said, and he asked that the center's regular donors call for an appointment as soon as possible.

Note Supports Murder-Suicide

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A former schoolteacher apparently smothered her 3-year-old son with a pillow and then stabbed herself to death Monday night, according to police.

Janet Simons, a former teacher in her early 30s, was found lying fully clothed on her back in a pool of blood at the foot of a bed in the large two-story home she shared with her husband and son.

The body of her son, John Peyton Simons, was found lying across the bed in the same room.

The bodies were discovered by Claude Ernest Simons, 35, a Raleigh attorney, who was the husband of Janet Simons and father of the boy.

Det. Lt. C.G. Diedrich, who is heading the Raleigh Police Department's investigation, said a suicide note was found with the bodies. Its contents were not disclosed.

Dr. Arthur E. Davis, assistant Wake County medical examiner, said the boy apparently died of suffocation and Mrs. Simons died of one of many stab wounds in her chest. There were no marks on the child's body, Davis said.

Multiple slash wounds were found on Mrs. Simons' wrists, but these were superficial and did not cause her death, Davis said. Authorities believe Mrs. Simons used a kitchen knife to inflict the stab wounds in her left chest.

A pillow was believed to have been used to suffocate the boy.

"It's a complicated case, but it appears to be murder and suicide," Davis said.

Mrs. Simons, a former elementary schoolteacher at St. Timothy's School and Ravenscroft School, taught French to children in kindergarten through fifth grade.

About four years ago, according to teachers at Ravenscroft, she quit her teaching career to raise her son.

"They had no problems," said Davis, who knew the family. "There were no problems with the child, with the relationship at all."

N.C. Siamese Twins 'Stable'

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP) — Siamese twin girls are listed in stable condition in Memorial Mission Hospital in Asheville today, three days after they were born to a Rutherford County couple.

The girls, who weighed 12 pounds when they were born to a 14-year-old girl at Rutherford Hospital Saturday, were immediately transferred to Memorial Mission.

Doctors at the Rutherfordton Hospital said the girls were joined at the abdomen.

The parents were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Beaver. They could not be reached for comment Monday night.

Mrs. Beaver was under the care of Drs. Bob England and Joe Godfrey of Forest City. England delivered the twins early Saturday by Caesarean section.

Mrs. Beaver, who was still at Rutherford Hospital Monday, was in good condition after the birth. Godfrey said in a telephone interview.

William Moore, administrator of Memorial Mission, said doctors are still evaluating the twins. "We're not at this time confirming any specific information about their condition," he said.

Godfrey said doctors didn't suspect until late Friday night that Mrs. Beaver was carrying Siamese twins.

"We were highly suspicious that this was what it was going to be," he said.

Three People Charged In Money Bag 'Snatch'

Three Greenville residents have been charged with robbery in connection with a 9:44 a.m. incident in the 300 block of Evans Mall yesterday, Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today.

Cannon identified the three as Charles L. Bell Jr., 27 of 1710 South Pitt St., Hubert Lee Arthur Jr., 25 of 1923B Norcott Cir., and Inez Brown Bell, 20 of 307 Paige Dr.

The chief said the three allegedly accosted Mrs. Floyd G. Robinson as she walked along the mall, pushed her down and took a money bag she was carrying. They then ran to a car parked near-by and drove away.

Officers, Cannon said, began chasing the car North on Greene Street, at the Tar River Bridge. After the fleeing car turned off of Greene Street, the vehicle collided with a parked car in the 1200 block of Vandyke Street, then came to a halt when the vehicle collided with a tree on Mumford Road, 50 feet East of the Vandyke Street intersection.

Cannon said Arthur and Mrs. Bell were taken into custody at the car. He noted that Bell, who ran from the scene, was taken into custody after he allegedly broke into a house at 1308A Vandyke St.

Damage to the parked car, owned by William Dalton Evans of 207 Columbia Ave. was set at $350, while damage to the Arthur car from the collision with the Evans auto, was set at $200. Damage to the Arthur car in the collision with the tree was placed at $100.

In addition to the robbery charges, Bell was charged with assault. His bond was set at $15,000. Arthur was charged with seven traffic violations, including speeding, careless and reckless driving, and hit and run, and placed under $17,500 bond.

Mrs. Bell's bond was placed at $10,000.

New Medical Aid For WWI Veterans

Public Law 96-151, approved December 20, provides for outpatient medical treatment for all World War I veterans at Veterans Administration expense, for all disabilities. It also provides that the VA may furnish prescription medicines and medical supplies from VA pharmacies.

Veterans with 90 days service during the Mexican Border period are also entitled under this law; however, service must have been on the Mexican Border or waters adjacent to Mexico, in order to qualify.

The Veterans Administration has not yet issued complete instructions to implement the law; however, the Greenville office of the N.C. Division of Veterans Affairs, advises veterans should not delay submitting their application in order to prevent any loss in benefits.

Eligible veterans should contact the Veterans Affairs office in the Tipton Annex (Greenville Blvd.) to make their application for this service. They should carry a copy of their discharge in order to establish entitlement.

$5 Good Price For Valentine's Candy

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Chocolate candy prices aren't rising as fast or as high as gold — it only seems that way.

Boxed chocolates for $12-$30 a pound this Valentine's Day are no longer unusual.

One chocolatier, Thomas Kron, calls his plain one-and three-pound bricks "chocolate bullion" — with good reason. They are $9 and $25 apiece — plus postage, if you order by mail instead of visiting one of the company's shops in New York City or posh suburbs such as Beverly Hills, Calif.; Bal Harbour, Fla.; Lakewood, Ohio, or Birmingham, Mich.

More such luxury chocolates have been sold during the past few months than ever before in the industry's history, says Don Gussow, chairman and editor in chief of Magazines for Industry.

Candy sales, including chocolates, are rising steadily, he said. He expects retail sales to reach $10 billion within a few years. Preliminary reports suggest they may have reached $8 billion last year.

"All of a sudden the new generation has discovered candy as part of their lifestyle," said Gussow.

"The young will do what they want. They dress and eat as they wish. They have their own lifestyle."

The fitness trend could explain how the younger generation is burning up all those calories from chocolate and other candies.

Like some other old-timers in the industry, Gussow sounds somewhat shocked by the retail prices some companies get for their products.

"Five dollars a pound is absolutely right," he said. "You can't make better (chocolates) for any price."

"Anything beyond $5 a pound and you're paying for the name and fancy packaging," said Thomas J. Sullivan in a telephone interview from Glenview, Ill., where he is secretary and legal counsel for Retail Confectioners International. The group's 400 member companies operate a total of 15,000 directly owned retail candy shops worldwide. Some also distribute through drug and department stores.

"The average price in the United States of $4.50-$4.75 a pound (for boxed chocolates) is really good value as a gift," Sullivan said.

The most expensive chocolates to date, from the buyers' point of view, may well have been two 50-pound bars made by a Chicago company specializing in chocolates for fund-raising. They brought a total of $13,275 for the New York Cocoa Exchange's 50th anniversary auction, which benefitted a nearby hospital.

Edmond Opler, board chairman of World's Finest Chocolate, Inc., said the fund-raising business is better every year. "Every school, every church needs money."

Lots of consumers apparently have enough to buy from such companies as Kron Chocolatier, the New York City-based manufacturer with nine shops nationwide. Kron gets $16-$25 a pound for boxed chocolates, hundreds of dollars for special orders such as a 15-pound, tabletop-sized birthday "eating card" the company made for a dress designer. It cost $870 — mostly because of the hand-carved message and names.

Kron said another popular item was made originally for the opening night cast party for "Chorus Line," the long-running Broadway musical. It's a woman's leg with a ribbon garter. Price, $60.

Churchgoer Stood Up For Number One

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The item about widows who bragged about their deceased husbands reminded me of the minister who announced to his congregation: "If anyone out there is perfect, please stand up."

One gentleman stood up. The minister asked, "Are you perfect?"

"No, sir," the gentleman replied. "I'm standing for my wife's first husband."

JACKSONVILLE READER

DEAR ABBY: When a person turns his empty wine glass upside down at the table, it does not mean he doesn't want any wine. It's and old Australian soldiers' custom which means, "I can lick any man in the house!"

I learned this the hard way. If you print this, omit my name. I'm a retired sergeant, living in San Diego now, and I don't want all my old Army cronies writing to me.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old woman who recently was hired for a civil service job at a local Air Force base. They gave me a physical, and a few days later I received a call from the medical center asking me to come back since they had something to talk to me about. I went, and was shocked when a nurse told me that my test for syphilis had come back positive!

I immediately called my boyfriend (I'll call him J.) with whom I had been living for nine months, and it really shook him up. I was a virgin when I met J. and have been 100 percent faithful to him, so I figured I must have gotten it from him. He swore he had not been with anyone since we started living together, so if he had syphilis, he must have gotten it before he met me. I believe him, but was very upset anyway.

J. took a blood test, and I took another one just to be sure. J.'s came back negative and mine was positive! We couldn't believe it, so we went to another lab and took the tests over again. Mine was positive again and J.'s was negative. We talked to the head doctor and he said there are only two ways to get syphilis; one is through birth, and the other is by having sexual intercourse with someone who has it. Abby, if I had had it since birth it would have shown up before this, and I swear to God I was a virgin when I met J. and I haven't even kissed another man since. How can this be?

If I do have syphilis, how come I didn't give it to J.? We've been sleeping together for nine months. Now he's beginning to doubt that I was really a virgin when we met. The doctor thinks I'm lying too. Nobody believes me, Abby. Please tell me what to do.

ALL TORN UP

DEAR TORN: I believe you. It is entirely possible that you do not have syphilis, but that other factors are causing your tests to show a false positive reaction. Your experience is not unique. Don't panic.

Call your City Department of Public Health and ask them to recommend a physician (most probably a dermotologist) who specializes in veneral diseases.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I can't remember when housework became "home management efficiency," but I could swear there's no difference.

All my life, I've been searching for a way to achieve Phyllis Diller's lifelong dream: a stove that flushes.

In my catch-all drawer, I've got a collection of household hints, beauty and time savers so weird they're guaranteed to get you committed to the ha-ha home of your choice.

In fact, I have just gone through all of them and would like to initiate my annual Bombeck Clean-off. Mrs. America Beauty and Efficiency Pageant and Self-Righteous Spit-Up Bowl. Here are the favored entries wearing their "original" quotes.

ILLINOIS: "For formal affairs, weddings or just ordinary dress-up occasions, here's a hint. If you're wearing a long dress on a rainy or sloshy day, cut two holes in an extra large garbage bag and step inside. Pull it up to your waist and you'll have no problem with splash marks."

NEW JERSEY: "Home repair jobs are made easy. Did you know that you can substitute pancake mix for plaster to fill nail holes in a wall before it's painted and revive old Christmas decorations by coating them with clear nail polish?"

GEORGIA: "Smart hostesses are going 'all out' these days by wearing an outfit to match the walls of their homes. You'll be a real show stopper and receive prolonged 'bravos' for your originality and creativity." (Don't forget to smile so people can find you.)

OREGON: "Children with busy social lives prefer a little privacy when on the telephone. A family in Portland installed a phone in a walk-in closet. Now talkers aren't heard by the rest of the family and the unsightly telephone message board is easy to hide."

OHIO: "You've certainly heard of the wondrous things a compost does for your soil, but suppose you live in an apartment and have no place for one. Ah, but you do. You can make your own compost in a window box handy to the sink where you dump in your coffee grounds, vegetable peelings and egg shells. The odor is like a lush jungle rain forest."

ARKANSAS: "Once a week, we plan an international meal for the whole family. We plan the entire menu to reflect foreign countries. We then make a map of the area, research its interesting facts and appear at dinner in the costume of the country. It's fun, educational and rewarding."

Nominations close April 1. The winner will be given a scholarship to a baking soda factory and will be crowned in Atlantic City. Bert Parks willing.

Another Farm Squeeze

The farmer, beset by skyrocketing costs, now faces another one — fertilizer prices are reported soaring.

Everything that affects farm costs has increased in recent years, from machinery to interest rates. Fertilizer prices, however, had remained fairly stable.

No more, according to the U. S. Agriculture Department. Chemical fertilizer prices are expected to jump 16 to 20 percent this spring over the previous year.

Producing the bumper crops that American farmers are noted for requires fertilizer. It is not just desirable; it is essential.

Thus the farmer can do nothing but pay the higher costs for fertilizer while at the same time absorbing the crushing increases in energy prices that affect all of us.

Farmers are expected to be more careful in their use of fertilizer, being certain that they don't use too much. Nevertheless certain crops call for large amounts.

In the end, of course, it is bound to mean higher consumer prices for farm products. Crops simply can't be produced at a loss — at least not for long. In the shortrun, however, the increased cost of fertilizer and other farm needs are virtually certain to squeeze farm profits.

Congress Unlikely To Agree

President Carter made it official last week that he would recommend registration of women for the draft, but for non-combat situations.

Even in this time of equal rights for women, it is questionable whether the president will get that proposal through Congress.

Even though the resumption of the draft is not eminent, there is still a major objection built into national thinking to drafting of women.

There is a good chance that dropping of the women registration recommendation may be the key to the administration's getting Congressional approval for resumption of registration.

Duplicative Work

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Practically every North Carolina community has at least three major welfare programs serving essentially the same clientele.

That is not to mention the dozens of sub-agencies operating under the major bureaucratic umbrellas; nor the repetitious private groups dedicated to the same people and the same problems.

The aim is to provide through public assistance a measure of comfort to the unfortunate. The recipients suffer almost uniformly a common human frailty: they are poor, and they are ignorant.

A study committee of the General Assembly is taking a close look at social services in North Carolina with a view to improving the administration and delivery of help to the needy.

For a generation, now, state and federal study commissions have gone through this same, futile exercise, and more than one president or governor of North Carolina has proclaimed that welfare reform is essential and will be done.

Splintered

Yet the poor and ignorant continue to make the rounds of governmental agencies splintered in several different directions while none address the basic condition: the poor don't have much money, and many of them wouldn't know how to use it well if they

Governmental programs continue to be hatched, devoted to treating specific, isolated human woes as nutrition, alcoholism, joblessness, child or spouse abuse, an array of health problems from venereal disease to pregnancy to old age, mental health, etc.

So agencies are born and funded and staffed, then begin competing with one another for the clients because more clients mean more money, that means bigger budgets which mean more jobs created, and jobs and money are where power is in the governmental bureaucracy.

BILL NOBLITT

Meanshile — the clients continue to make a day's work of going from one agency to another, filling out forms and getting help. Nowhere does one trained specialist sit the family down and review from top to bottom the problems, and the best solutions. Food stamps are down the hall; legal aid is up the street; health care is across town; the courts are next door; the alcoholism treatment center is out in the country.....

Essentially three state agencies are involved in the competition for clients to whom they provide duplicating services: the division of health services with a batch of public health nurses, home helpers, clinics, mental health activities; the social services division where special assistance, aid to families and children, foster care, food stamps, work incentive, and Medicaid are established; and the courts and police.

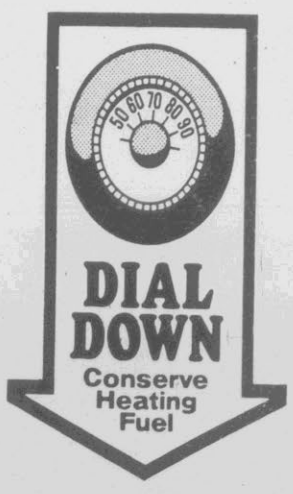

And More

Scattered about are other programs such as the several competing job training efforts, assistance for fuel, school lunches, and so on. Two of the major efforts are within one state department (health and social services) but without central direction. The courts and police deal with the same clients in a variety of ways from drunkenness, theft, and assault to paternity and child support cases.

Governors past and present admit the condition. Elected officials regularly denounce it. Professionals and bureaucrats caught up in the system confess, in candid moments, the futility of it all.

To illustrate the dilemma, legislators studying detailed figures which make up the $1.3 billion Human Resources budget for the coming fiscal year; dollars dedicated to the departmental goal of "helping them achieve physical, social, and economic well being."

A Vendetta That Failed

WASHINGTON — In a free society, where theoretically the people are masters and government is their servant, agencies of government ought not to engage in vendettas. But the Internal Revenue Service has been waging one, and thereby hangs this tale.

Twelve years ago a group of men and women, deeply concerned at the abuse of an individual worker's rights by the excesses of trade unionism, created the National Right to Work Legal Foundation. Thanks to aggressive leadership and a popular cause, the foundation soon gained a reputation as a redoubtable defender of the little guy — the worker who gets ground down by the union shop.

The foundation went to court in behalf of a teacher in Michigan, a telephone worker in Maryland. It fought legal battles for airline employees in California and college professors in Michigan. Its clients came to include truck drivers, electricians and construction workers. These were people whose elementary right to work was imperiled by the brute power of Big Unionism. And little by little, thefoundation racked up an impressive string of victories.

As you can imagine, these successive gnat-stings eventually began to penetrate the elephant hide of the AFL-CIO. The foundation operates on a total budget of $3.6 million a year; it has only 14 full-time staff attorneys. There is no way even to estimate the combined resources of the great unions, but we are dealing here with a very small David and a very large Goliath. And Goliath began to get mad.

So it came to pass that the giants of organized labor waxed wroth, and being wroth, they conveyed their displeasure to the Internal Revenue Service. The giants of labor complained that they were being impertinently trod upon by this pesky outfit, and they demanded that the IRS put an end to it.

Specifically, they demanded that the IRS revoke the foundation's certificate of tax exemption.

In the field of private philanthrophy, such a certificate is more precious than diamonds. It is the absolutely essential condition for survival. Without an exemption under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Tax Code, contributions swiftly diminish from a flood to a trickle.

In 1977, out of a clear sky, the IRS suddenly, inexplicably revoked the foundation's certificate — a cer-

CAVENDISH, Vt. (AP) — Stopping by Solzhenitsyn's woods on a snowless evening ...

Just happened to be passing by, Aleksandr Solshenitsyn, chasing after one of the candidates in our quadrennial Presidential go-around.

I have no intention of intruding or even ringing the bell. I know you're deeply immersed in your work behind the fence there and don't have time for visitors, especially nosey newspaper reporters.

I remember your commencement speech at Harvard defending "the right not to know," about leading a meaningful life without the media's "excessive burdening flow of information."

But with Lincoln's birthday approaching, a very recent incident in the news made me think of you, exiled here in Vermont, and what freedom basically is all about in terms of everyday living.

The incident took place on a snowy street in Moscow.

It brought to mind a quotation from Lincoln that we had to memorize back in high school: "As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy."

Mr. Solzhenitsyn, your friend Andrei Sakharov was picked up by an official government car outside his apartment house in Moscow to attend his weekly seminar at the Physical Institute of the Academy of sciences. The car came promptly at 2 p.m., just like any other Tuesday.

Only this time it stopped short of the corner on Leninsky Prospect, the broad boulevard where the academy is located, and Sakharov, who as you know won the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1975, was transferred to another vehicle.

He was taken to the state prosecutor's office and shown a document signed by Leonid I. Brezhnev,among others, stripping him of all state

Weizman In Risky Game

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Enthusiastic, overt backing for Jimmy Carter's re-election by Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, a highly possible future prime minister, has infuriated other presidential candidates, particularly Sen. Edward M. Kennedy whose ardent wooing of American Jewish voters is exceeded by no other aspirant.

At issue here is a dubious political interlocking: American presidential candidates avowing superior love of Israel to extract maximum Jewish support at the U.S. polls; and Israel seeking maximum leverage over the candidates' Mideast policies by playing favorites.

The warmth of Weizman's support for Carter, however, has carried the 1980 game to dangerous heights, far above the last overt Israeli intrusion into presidential politics when then-Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin blessed the re-election of Richard M. Nixon in 1972. Weizman's emotional blessing of Carter has not only roused the anger of Prime Minister Menahem Begin, who fears a re-elected Carter would start to turn the screws on Israel for genuine West Bank autonomy; it has invited retaliation against Israel by political forces backing all the other candidates.

The most surprising mash note the irrepressible Weizman has sent Jimmy Carter came over Israeli television last week. Asked whether, in view of his public support for Carter, he was aware that Teddy Kennedy was also a candidate for president, Weizman replied: "I am aware that he will not be president of the United States."

That matched his mocking of Kennedy and all the Republican candidates in his interview with Mike Wallace on CBS' "60 Minutes" Feb. 2. Asked by Wallace if he was "willing to bet" on Carter's re-election, Weizman said he had "already laid a bet" and that his wager is "usually a bottle of whiskey."

Such blunt banter is poison in the hard-boiled world of presidential politics, where the potent Jewish vote often means rich financial contributions for a favored candidate. Antidotes to counteract the poison are now pouring out in unprecedented — but still clandestine — volume from the anguished camps of Carter's competitors.

The day after Weizman's message over Israeli television, Theodore Mann, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations accused him in a statement incorporated in a private message to Prime Minister Begin of having "denigrated those other aspirants for America's highest office, Republican as well as Democrats."

Weizman's intrusion into the presidential election brought a rare rebuke from Israeli President Yitzhak Navon, whose honorary post is supposed to be above partisan politics. Confronted by a furious anti-Carter American Jewish leader at an Israel Bonds rally in Jerusalem last week, Navon blurted out: "Unlike our minister of defense, I do not meddle in American politics. I'm sorry, but it (Weitzman's anti-Kennedy crack) was a grievous mistake."

Except for his 18-year voting record against raising U.S. defense spending, consistent until late last year, Kennedy would seem to be an unlikely target for Weizman. Kennedy has been telling American Jewish groups from New York to Beverly Hills that Carter has short-changed Israel in U.S. aid (despite Carter's request for $2 billion for the 1981 fiscal year).

Kennedy sent a confidential emissary to Jerusalem with a private letter to the prime minister two weeks ago, presumably hardening his public argument that his support of Israel and its place in American strategic planning is beyond questioning.

Other candidates have also quietly complained to the Israeli Embassy here and to the prime minister, demanding that Weizman be silenced. The top Jewish aide of one Republican candidate, speaking privately, described Weizman to us as "impudent, indiscreet and stupid," using Carter "to further his own ambition." Gordon Zacks, a key fund raiser for Geroge Bush, told us Weizman is "ill-advised" to intrude in a presidential election.

Indeed, there is a mystery in the game of interlocking U.S.-Israeli politics that Weizman is playing, exploiting his top position in Begin's ruling coalition.

Strength For Today

SCULPTOR AT WORK

We learn best by experience. The wise man can learn many things from the experience of others, to be sure; but even the wisest person must learn many things in the school of hard knocks.

Knowledge of this fact should be a great compensation for many of the disconcerting reverses we suffer through life because of bad judgment. If we emerge stronger from our difficulties, we have gained and not lost. The boxer must face many sparring partners before he is ready for the championship match, and the harder blows he can stand in practice, the better his chances of winning the main event.

Perhaps some of us are made of the stuff that requires hard blows to impress it. Modeling clay is more easily shaped than marble, but once shaped, marble will hold its form forever. The thudding blows of adversity may become the means by which God shapes our lives into works of great strength and beauty.

To the editor:

This is Black History Month! During February the notable achievements of Blacks will be discussed, highlighted and reviewed.

Often when accomplishments for any individual or organization are accorded attention, less publicized people are ignored, forgotten or neglected. With the annual salutations to Black excellence, this fact is repeated. The significant contributions of kind-hearted, fearless Christian white people are overlooked.

When Harriett Tubman is honored as "Black Moses" for her mass Underground Railroad, we sometimes ignore that good white people provided the funds and the rest stations for the Blacks journeying to the Northern States and to freedom.

When Jackie Robinson is honored as the first Black man to compete in Major League Baseball, we sometimes forget to credit Branch Rickey for having the courage to allow all men to participate in the "great American pastime."

When Alex Haley's grandfather or many other Blacks have attended colleges and universities to enhance their educational training and employable skills, we sometimes neglect the fact that many of these Black graduates had their tuition and funding paid for and bequeathed by loving, caring white people.

The realities of Black History provide the credence that the history of mankind is inexorably bound; the history of our civilization and these United States is, in essence, a common kinship.

It is time for Americans to realize Black achievements and accomplishments of any other ethnic group. It is time for us educators to realize and incorporate Black contributions into the curriculum daily.

Let us recognize now we are one people, with a divergent past, and yet with a joint and mutual future.

Small Claims Courts Busier

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A growing number of consumers are taking their complaints to small claims courts and efforts are under way to improve the system.

Legislation recently approved by Congress is designed to help state and local governments establish or upgrade dispute-settlement programs, including small claims courts. The bill, called the Dispute Resolution Act, includes a provision for grants and research contracts and sets up an information clearinghouse in the Department of Justice.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has been urging an overhaul of the small claims system for several years. In 1976, the chamber proposed a Oodel Consumer Justice Act designed to simplify court procedures and make it easier for individuals to sue for damages and to collect judgements.

Critics of the small claims system charge that court hours are often inflexible and locations inconvenient. They also say that individuals who win their cases have a hard time collecting; one study showed that more than four of 10 judgments were never received.

Small claims courts handle everything from tenant-landlord arguments to disputes between customers and stores over goods or services. The atmosphere is informal. You can present your own case to the judge. You do not need a lawyer and, in some areas, may be prohibited from using one. There is no jury.

Esther Peterson, special assistant to the president for consumer affairs, notes that "small claims courts are not for everyone."

First, she says, "the amounts involved must be relatively small, sometimes as low as $100...In addition, only money is at stake, not property or merchandise."

The Chamber of Commerce has recommended that small claims cases be limited to a maximum of $1,000. The same limit would apply to counterclaims filed by defendants.

The chamber also says that regular judges should be assigned to small claims courts, on either a temporary or permanent basis. Courts should be open during normal court hours, plus as least one evening a week and one Saturday morning a month.

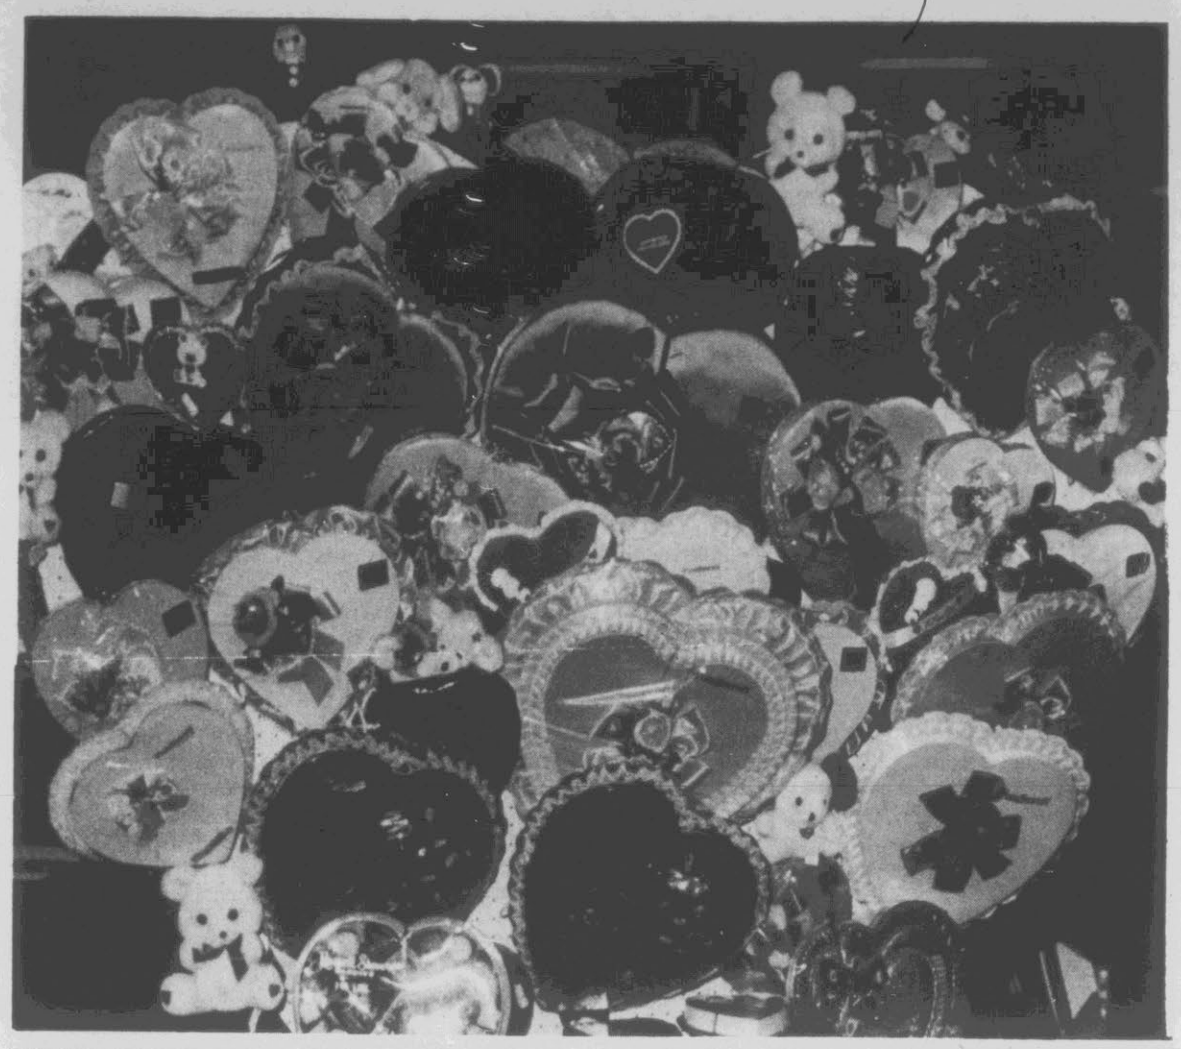

Mrs. Peterson has some advice for consumers planning to use small claims courts. Among her suggestions:

—Find out what the court is like by visiting it during a session. Check the phone book under city, county or state government for listings under "small claims" or "people's courts."

—While you're at the court, ask for the necessary forms to fill out. Usually your case will be heard within two weeks after you indicate you intend to sue.

—Be ready to state your case clearly and briefly. Rehearse your remarks ahead of time. You will have only a short time in which to explain your problem and it's important to make the most of it.

—Be sure you appear in court on the day scheduled unless you have made arrangements to have the date changed.

Valentine's Day Getting Bigger And Costlier; But Who Cares?

BY JOYCE EVANS
Reflector Staff Writer

"I love you" can be said in millions of ways, and Valentine's Day is causing a sentimental fuss, getting bigger every year, and costing a little more. But who can put a price on his affection?

Roses, candy, and cards are still favorites, but Valentine's Day is not just for lovers anymore. Cards can be found to send anyone, and they range from simple to elaborate with prices from 40 cents to $5. They are quite popular, and by Valentine's day the display looks simply bare.

Candy ranges from a plain box without flowers or decorations to fancy with decorations and sometimes stuffed animals. Boxes are priced from $1.75 and up with the highest priced one at $34.95 for a five pound box.

A dozen roses range from $35 to $40, and they are the most popular choice of flowers, according to Jef Glenn of Jefferson's florist. "Valentine's Day is the biggest single holiday of the year for our business," she said. The rose is important, but when none are left they make other selections, she said.

The main thing to remember is "order early" to avoid disappointment, said Peggy Karsnak of Cox Florist. "We have six vehicles on the road, and they deliver all day and night." Wire orders through FTD are the real problems, she said. Some florists don't fill them until the next day, and circuits are so busy that sometimes it takes about four hours to get through, according to Karsnak. "Some shops in other cities take their phones off the hook because they just can't fill the order, and people get disappointed," she said. Persons waiting until the 14th risk not getting their arrangements delivered through this system.

FTD specials are $15, $20 and up, but a person can get something in a florist for anything he wants to pay within his price range, Karsnak said. Arrangements are more depending on the type of vase. Is there anything for the person with a lot of affection but not much money? Yes...a phone call, long distance or local, the words "I love you", valentine cookies at $5 a box, individual boxes of coconut macaroons at $1 per box, stuffed animals at $3.50 and up. "We don't pick up the candies like the drugstores because we feel that's their market," she said.

Last year was the biggest Valentine's Day ever, according to local merchants who expect a bigger year this year. "It's becoming more and more popular, and it seems to be the thing to do now...kind of like Christmas," said Faye Langley of Hollowell's Drugstore. The store sold the entire selection of candy, and Langley said it may be because "we gift wrap and some stores don't. Whatever the reason, a few customers found themselves scanning the city for candy. Some settled for other tokens of their affection.

What causes all the fuss about hearts and other gifts? Advertising has contributed greatly to the rising interest in this sentimental day, but there's more to it — Times are difficult and people are busy. Maybe that's the answer. "It's not just candy. It's colognes, jewelry, cosmetics, stuffed animals. People are becoming more conscientious," said Joyce Adams.

February is a gloomy month and Valentine is a way to lift spirits — A way of remembering people at a time of year when they're not ordinarily thought about, said Glenn. "Anyone who wants to say something is doing it," she said.

The idea of having something to keep after the flowers die is important to many people, according to Glenn. "The longer lasting daisies, miniature carnations are quite popular. We're working up a combination of a living arrangement with stuffed animals and a touch of silk violet," she said. It's something to keep even after the plant is gone because people are real sentimental, Glenn said.

Prices of flowers have risen considerably in the last few years, and 25 years ago, roses were $5 a dozen. They've probably increased the most in price, and during the mid-70's 12 long-stemmed roses cost $25 in New York. Today, they range from $42 in New York to $35 and $40 here.

Dining out for Valentine's Day could be a good choice, but don't forget to make reservations or you might not get a table.

For men, shirts and ties are popular still but costing more too. Bargain gifts, but not romantic, include hand calculators, digital watches and ball point pens, all of which sell at only a fraction of their price tags ten years ago.

In brief, a walk in the park is just about the only thing left that hasn't escalated pricewise — free a few years ago, free today if you can find a park.

Valentine's Day — "an opportunity to show affection on a day that's put aside for that, and it's not just reserved for lovers anymore," said Glenn.

tificate that had been effective since 1968. The IRS said the original exemption had been granted in "error." In the government's view, little David never had been entitled to exemption in the first place.

Why was this? Under IRS regulations, a foundation is entitled to exe tion if it promotes social welfare by defending "human and civil rights secured by law." The IRS astonishingly took the view that a right to work is not a human or civil right secured by law. Yes, admitted the IRS, the individual worker may have certain statutory rights, but he has no "fundamental" right that might be deemed essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men. Therefore, exemption denied.

The foundation challenged this tyrannical decree in court and on Dec. 21 won a resounding victory. A text of the opinion by U.S. District Judge F. T. Dupree Jr. of North Carolina has just come to hand. He ruled in the foundation's favor on every essential point. A man's right to work, said Judge Dupree, is "liberty's cornerstone." Indeed, "the courts have rarely articulated a fundamental right with more sweeping eloquence and affection than they have the right to work." And the right is most certainly a right "secured by law."

The IRS has not decided whether to appeal the Dupree decision. The probabilities are strong that the decree will be left to stand. But we still ought to inquire what motive of vendetta led the IRS to undertake this costly harassment, and we ought to reflect anew upon a dictum from John Marshall. It provides a moral to this tale: The power to tax involves the power to destroy. This is what the IRS set out to do to the Right to Work Legal Foundation. Little fellows across the land may be grateful that the effort failed.

honors and exiling him to the city of Gorky.

The same thing happened to you, Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn in 1974, only you were also stripped of your citizenship and had to leave the country.

Dr. Ladislav Radiminsky, a former Czechoslovakian representative to the United Nations, penned an unforgettable letter on freedom a number of years ago when Communist President Novotny offered him "amnesty for his crimes" if he returned from exile in the U.S.

Radminsky rejected the offer saying he had committed no crimes. He said:

"A true exile should cherish the sentence from the glorious letter Dante wrote rejecting the chance of a dishonorable return to his beloved Florence: 'Can I not, anywhere, look into the face of the sun and stars? Can I not, under any sky, dream about eternal truth?'"

Some prominent Jewish leaders here — all of whom decry Wiezman's intervention — think it could boomerang on Weizman and undermine the intimate U.S.-Israel connection.

This concern holds that Carter showed more courage than any recent president in risking American Jewish wrath to pressure Israel for a Mideast settlement. Once re-elected, he will be far freer to push the American case.

Both American Jewish leaders and most Israeli politicians understand this, if Weizman does not. As one of the latter said privately: "Carter said he would whip Teddy's ass. After he does that, he will ship Israel's."

FOCUS

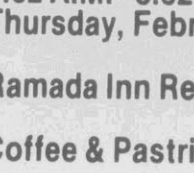

Return To the Draft?

In his State of the Union message, President Carter said he wants the government again to register young people for a possible military draft. The United States has used the draft before, to provide the military with troops during times of crisis. In colonial times, the colonies drafted men into their militias, and sent militia troops to fight in the Revolutionary War. In 1790, President George Washington proposed that all men serve at least some time in the military. Congress rejected Washington's plan, but the government later drafted men during the Civil War, World War I, World War II, and from 1950 through 1972.

DO YOU KNOW — What federal agency administers draft registration?

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost more ground today as the selling that set in on Monday continued.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 4.18 to 885.41 in the first half hour.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the observance of Lincoln's birthday might slow the pace of activity a bit from its recent record-breaking clip.

Some banks and commodities markets were closed for the day.

Those traders who were active seemed to be concentrating on cashing in on some of the market's early-1980 gains, particularly after the weakness that showed up in stock prices on Monday.

Today's early prices included Gulf Oil, unchanged at 46; El Paso Co., off ¼ at 26¾, and Phillips Petroleum, down ⅞ at 59¼.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.14 to 889.59.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 58.66 million shares, against 57.86 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index lost .49 to 67.08.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 2.14 at 286.65.

Tobacco Co-Op To Hold Annual Meet

The Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. will hold its annual district meeting for North Carolina district six at the Redman Hall on East Third Street in Washington, February 18, at 2 p.m.

The Cooperative Stabilization Corp. is the grower organization which administers the price support program for flue-cured tobacco. District six includes Pitt, Beaufort, Bertie, Carteret, Craven, Dare, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Terrell, and Washington Counties.

Atlas Wooten of Greenville, director from District six, said the co-op's operational report for the calendar year will be presented, as well as reports by representatives of Tobacco Associates Inc., the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Tobacco Division agricultural marketing service, and other organizations.

According to Wooten, a brief business session will be held to elect Stabilization's advisory committee members from each of the flue-cured tobacco producing counties for the coming year.

Wooten added, "flue-cured growers are urged to make every effort to attend the meeting in order to gain a better understanding of the cooperative's operations."

Kidnapper Sentenced

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge today sentenced 19-year-old James Keith Tucker to 13 years in prison for the kidnapping of a 5-year-old girl in Daytona Beach last year and stealing her father's car.

U.S. District Judge George C. Young said he would recommend that Tucker, of High Point, N.C., be sent to the federal correctional institution at Butner, N.C., where he can undergo psychiatric treatment and rehabilitation.

Tucker was convicted last December 18 of kidnapping Caroline Thompson, daughter of Russell and Rachel Thompson of Dunwoody, Ga., last July from a motel parking lot in Daytona Beach.

Jurors rejected a defense argument of insanity.

The judge sentenced Tucker to eight years on the kidnapping charge and five years on the charge of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Tucker told the judge after the sentence "I would like to thank you for sending me to Butner."

The judge responded that he hoped "it will do you good... you do need some help."

Caroline was sitting in her father's station wagon with her mother outside a Daytona Beach motel while her father checked in. Tucker forced his way into the car and drove off. Mrs. Thompson managed to leap out before the car sped away and ran after the car yelling at the youth to let her little girl out.

Tucker was arrested in Mytle Beach, S. C., July 30, and Caroline was released unharmed.

School Bus Led SHP On Chase

HAMLET, N.C. (AP) — The driver of a Richmond County public school bus struck a parked car Friday night and then led officers on a chase that covered several miles, the Highway Patrol reported Monday.

The patrol said Edward Lewis Tender, 28, was charged with driving under the influence, hit-and-run and failing to stop for an officer's blue light. The patrol said it was the second time Tender had been charged with driving under the influence.

Funds Urged For Bail-Out

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Additional federal funds should help bail out a state program designed to get welfare recipients into jobs, a state official said Monday.

Robert E. Ward, director of the social services division of the state Human Resources Department, said the division expected to be short $1.1 million before the end of the federal fiscal year on Sept. 30.

Now, however, the state's Work Incentive Program will receive an additional $639,000 in federal funds.

"We are working closely with the Employment Security Commission and feel reasonably sure that the remaining funds can be provided through the CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) program," Ward said.

The $639,000 in federal funds represents a re-allocation of funds that weren't used by other states, Ward said. The state's performance in running the program was one of the factors in the additional allocation, he said.

The state's WIN program has been named the top cost-effective program in the nation for the third year in a row, Ward said. Forty-six of the state's 100 counties participate in the program.

Ayden Bd. ...

Commissioner Carl Speight agreed that the "street needs paving badly. We're tired of eating dust and there's a lot of traffic on it."

The board set a public hearing for March 10 to discuss improvements to Turnage and Watermelon Streets. March 10 is the next regular meeting. The proposed width for pavement on these streets was 20 feet instead of 22 feet because of the proximity of several houses to the streets' edges.

An amendment to the electric budget to cover land costs for the new substation was approved. The acquisition involved around $24,000 and the land was purchased prior to sale of bonds with electric funds.

Consent was given by board members to write a letter to the Labor Department protesting the fact that local governments were not consulted in the department's decision to classify electric transmission and distribution systems as non-traditional functions.

This classification makes workers in these departments subject to the federal minimum wage. Said Town Manager Russell, "We first found out about this through a visit by the Labor Department to High Point. They walked into High Point and informed them the classification had changed. We need to write just a short letter to let them know we want to be heard. North Carolina is more traditional."

Dr. Elliott Dixon agreed, saying "I think it's a very worthwhile project."

The Board also discussed the merits of the governor's Balance Growth Policy and the Governor's Community of Excellence Award Program as possible town projects. Russell said "A lot of administrative work will be involved. It will take a great deal of citizen input."

"I just wonder," replied Dr. Dixon, "is it really going to be worth the work?" The board agreed to attempt to get an individual from Raleigh to come to Ayden to talk about the projects with them.

A resolution was passed agreeing that Ayden become a member of Power Agency No. Three. The town has until the present belonged to Power Agency No. Two. Mike Finney, director of utilities, was appointed commissioner to the power agency and Ralph Ford, town clerk, was appointed as alternate.

The board also heard a request from Kay Allen of the Pitt Community College Adult Basic Education Program to hold ABE classes at community sites and to recruit local persons to teach these classes. "Our goals include assistance and support of the community," she said.

Bucs Top Hornets For Winning Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Nearly 11 months ago, Dave Odom was hired as the new basketball coach at East Carolina University, and it was hoped that he could turn a program that had suffered through four straight years of losing into a winner.

"It seems like just about every night since last March that I've lain awake at night and thought about getting that 14th victory that would insure us of having a winning season," Odom revealed last night.

Perhaps now, he can sleep a little better.

Last night in Minges Coliseum, the Pirates knocked off Delaware State College, 89-79, and won their 14th game of the year, thus insuring the 1979-80 version of the Pirates of a winning season. They have lost only eight times and have just five games to play.

The score really is not indicative of how the game went as the Pirates soared out to a 21-point bulge six and a half minutes into the second half.

After that, the Pirates, despite a hot-handed 74.2 percent field goal shooting in the half, eased off in their intensity and allowed Delaware State to come back within eight before pulling away again to as much as 14 before the horn.

"Our ineffectiveness on offense and defense was not unexpected," Odom said. "But the thing that I'm proudest about, something that hasn't been here in the past, was that the effort was there. There is no way we could have played picture-perfect basketball tonight. It was just not in the books, but I do think that we got the same type effort we got Saturday night (in the upset victory over Illinois State).

"Our defense in the first half was super, but in the second half, it was unintelligent. We fouled too many times (14 times). That kept them in the game. I'd guess they shot 20 foul shots in the second half (hitting 14 of 20), and that's far too many," Odom added.

"But we were still able to get the points when we needed them and play defense when we had to."

The Pirates were hampered by turnovers, committing 23 of them in the game against the quick, small Hornets. Odom noted that it was not too surprising.

"(Tony) Byles didn't have a real good game, and he always has trouble with small, quick guards working against him. He's taller and more wirey."

Odom did single out George Maynor for his play, and noted Herb Krusen and Herb Gray both played well. "(David) Underwood showed spots of effective play tonight too."

For Maynor, the performance he gave, scoring a game high 27 points on 12 of 16 field goals and three of five free throws, was made even more courageous. The senior guard received word Sunday that his older brother had died, but he stayed with the team and played despite that.

"(Tom) Szymanski showed he could play some too, and we want to get more and more out of him," Odom added.

About the 14th victory, Odom added that the players were very happy about it. "I'm really happy for our seniors. Now they'll be going out as winners. I just hope that this is not our last win."

After the Pirates scored the first four points, the Hornets came back to take a 6-5 lead. After that, the two teams swapped baskets until the Pirates took the lead on a Krusen tap-in with 6:51 left, making it 21-20. Gray slammed through a dunk and Krusen hit another shot off a rebound. Gray agained dunked it and Maynor stole the ball to power the Pirates out to a 29-20 margin with 4:43 left.

Two free throws on a technical foul against Hornet coach Ajac Triplett by Underwood upped the lead to 33-22, and the Pirates settled for a 37-27 halftime lead.

After Gray opened the second half with a jumper in the lane, Maynor added two quick baskets. The Hornets got a free throw from Robert Hunter, but Underwood made a jumper for a 45-38 lead after a minute and a half.

Two minutes later, Gray hit from underneath to up the lead to 19, 51-32, and a pair of baskets by Krusen finally upped it to 61-40 with 13:26 to go.

In addition to Maynor's 27, Krusen finished with 24, raising his career total to 1,061. That moved him past Tom Miller with 1,048, into tenth place. His next challenge is the 1,098 of Billy Brogden.

Gray, with 17, upped his total to 981, leaving his just 19 points shy of becoming the 15th 1,000-point ECU scorer.

Hunter had 17, Wesley Townsend, 15, Jeffrey Gumbs, 14, and Joel Coppadge, 10, for the Hornets.

Delaware State began a comeback after that, slowly cutting away at the lead as the Pirates made several turnovers. It fell to as little as eight, 81-73, with 2:38 left before the Pirates the margin to 14, 89-75 with 31 seconds to play.

Delaware State played the game without three of its top four scorers, benched by Triplett for disciplinary reasons. "I'm not going to say that we would have won," the coach said afterwards, but I think they might have made a difference."

East Carolina begins a three-game road trip Wednesday at the University of Maryland, facing the eighth-ranked Terps in an 8 p.m. game in Cole Field House. They travel to UNC-Wilmington on Saturday, then visit Old Dominion next Wednesday, closing out their road games. They have home dates left with Campbell and Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Williamston Wins; Roanoke Knocked Off

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School got a tap-in with just four seconds left to nip Edenton, 50-49, in the first round of the Northeastern Conference 3-A Tournament last night.

The second-seeded Tigers advance into the Wednesday night semifinals, playing host to number three Washington, which beat Ahoskie last night. Ahoskie was sixth seeded, while Edenton had the seventh place seeding.

Williamston jumped off to an 8-1 lead in the first period of the game, but Edenton stuck with them in the second quarter, 16-15, and trailed, 24-16, at halftime. The Tigers pulled further in front, 36-25, during the third quarter, then had to withstand a furious 24-14 rally by the Aces.

Edenton finally gained the lead, 49-48, with just seconds to go, but after a try by the Tigers was missed, Williams went up to tap it back through for the victory.

Williams led the Williamston scoring with 14, while Woody Sadler and James Woolard each had 10. Thomas White and Steve Holley each had 12, and Frank Hardy and Chris Simmons each had 10 for the Aces.

TARBORO — Tarboro, fourth seeded in the Northeastern Conference Tournament field, nipped Roanoke, 54-52, in overtime last night, gaining a Wednesday night semifinal berth.

Tarboro will travel to meet top-seeded Plymouth, a winner over Roanoke Rapids on Wednesday.

Roanoke slipped into a 14-12 lead in the first period, but Tarboro came back to knot it at 29-29 at the half. Roanoke again inched ahead, 37-35, during the third period, but couldn't hold onto it.

In the final frame, Roanoke pushed through two inside the final minute for a 50-48 lead, but Tarboro, using the clock, finally got the ball inside to Curtis Battle, who hit with five seconds left. Following a Redskin timeout, Roanoke was unable to get the ball downcourt in time for a decent shot.

In the overtime, Roanoke could manage only two points, while Tarboro hit four to take the win.

Tony Hyman led Tarboro with 17, while Battle had 11. Ricky Highsmith led Roanoke with 10.

State Takes Sixth In Row As Wake Falls; Terps, Heels Win

By The Associated Press

Eighth-ranked Maryland, the rising star of the Atlantic Coast conference, improved its record to 18-4 Monday night in a 99-76 win over Boston University.

Albert King scored 32 points to help the Terps to the non-conference victory. King scored 12 of Maryland's last 20 points, eight of them from the foul line, in the final 4:43 of the game.

Ernest Graham had 19 for Maryland and Buck Williams chipped in 16. Steve Wright led Boston, now 17-4, with 24.

Maryland opened up a comfortable 38-20 lead in the first half and Coach Lefty Driesell, who has been using only seven players in the most recent games, was able to use 10. The Maryland substitutions continued into the second half, until the Terriers closed to within 14.

In conference action Monday night, Hawkeye Whitney led North Carolina State to its sixth win in a row, scoring a game-high 16 points in the Wolfpack's 52-40 victory over Wake Forest.

Wake Forest was led by Jim Johnstone and Benny McKaig with 10 each.

N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan said after the game that Whitney "keeps playing with intensity and goes all-out. He's a great, great player."

Whitney was the only Wolfpack player to score in double figures in the game, which saw deliberate play by both teams.

"I figured there would be a lot more scoring, but after the tempo was established, both teams seemed content to wait each other out," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy.

North Carolina's Mike O'Koren scored 17 points as the 11th-ranked Tar Heels downed Georgia Tech 60-50 in conference action.

North Carolina, 17-5 overall and 7-4 in the ACC, used free throws to defeat the Yellow Jackets, connecting on 36 of 44 during the game.

Georgia Tech's Lenny Horton was game-high scorer with 20. The Yellow Jackets fell to 6-16 for the season and 1-12 in the conference.

"We didn't shoot well in the first half," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, "but we were working hard to get open shots. They just wouldn't fall."

"We were not ready mentally tonight," said Georgia Tech Coach Dwayne Morrison. "We were still reliving the Virginia game."

The Yellow Jackets defeated Virginia Saturday for their only conference victory since joining the ACC this season.

Louisville Nips VPI In Overtime, 56-54

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It was a long shot.

Well, not as long as Les Henson's — but just long enough for Louisville.

"The play was just to get it to Darrell Griffith and let him do what he could with it," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum.

Spinning around at the baseline, Griffith went high in the air and hit a 20-footer with one second left in overtime to give the nation's third-ranked college basketball team a 56-54 victory over stubborn Virginia Tech Monday night.

"Griffith hit it with two hands in his face," said Virginia Tech Coach Charlie Moir. "I thought Dexter (Reid) did a good job on him."

After Griffith's shot, Henson launched a 40-footer from just beyond the half-court mark for Virginia Tech. But the ball just missed — hitting the rim inside the basket and bounced out at the buzzer. Henson, of course, was the player who beat Florida State earlier this season with a record 89-foot, 6-inch shot at the final second.

"That's the most patient I've ever seen a Louisville team play," said Moir. "They showed a lot of patience and poise."

In other action Monday night involving the nation's Top Twenty teams, eighth-ranked Maryland walloped Boston University 99-76; 11th-ranked North Carolina defeated Georgia Tech 60-50; and No. 12 Notre Dame turned back San Francisco 78-66.

Griffith's game-winning shot came after the Cardinals had run 43 seconds off the clock following a basket by Jeff Schneider that tied the score at 54-54 with 44 seconds remaining.

"There aren't too many guards that can block one of my jumpers," said Griffith. "I just concentrated on getting good elevation. I wasn't having what you would call a hot night (7-of-19), but that's basketball. You can't let that bother you."

Griffith wound up with 14 points for Cardinals, one behind team leader Wiley Brown, who scored 15. Virginia Tech's Dale Solomon led all scorers with 27 points.

Albert King scored 32 points, including 16 of 17 free throws, to lead Maryland's victory over Boston University. King's first free throw of the game gave him 30 in a row, then he missed his next attempt before dropping in the next 15.

Michael O'Koren scored 17 points to lead North Carolina past Georgia Tech. The Tar Heels scored only two field goals in the last 10 minutes, but hit 20 free throws in that time.

"We got a lot of practice shooting foul shots," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "But, that's the way they chose to play it."

Georgia Tech Coach Dwane Morrison: "We were not ready mentally tonight. We were still reliving the Virginia game. That's just human, but that's not the way to win ball games."

Jaguars, Lady Cougars Win Openers

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

PINETOPS — After an embarrassing loss to Farmville Central last week, Greene Central figured to give the Jaguars a tougher game Monday night in the first round of the Eastern Carolina Conference Tournament.

The Rams did just that for awhile, but two spurts by Farmville — at the end of the first half and at the beginning of the second half — allowed the Jaguars to defeat Greene Central, 70-57.

The win moves top-seeded Farmville Central, now 18-5, into Wednesday night's semi-final match (switched from 9 p.m. to 5:30) against the winner of tonight's Southern Nash-D.H. Conley battle. Greene Central ends the year at 7-15.

In other first-round games, Ayden-Grifton's girls whipped Farmville Central, 51-39, and Southwest Edgecombe blasted Greene Central, 60-33.

"I don't think we were intimidated as much tonight as we were over there at Farmville," Greene Central coach Lewis Godwin said. "But we turned the ball over so much, we had 14 turnovers in the first half, and nine of those came in the second quarter."

The Rams came out in the early going as if they were intimidated, turning the ball over four times in their first five possessions before righting themselves and tying the score at 12-12 after the first eight minutes.

Greene Central took its only lead midway through the second period, 21-20, but then missed two one-and-one opportunities and turned the ball over two more times. Farmville took advatage of the breaks to outscore the Rams 9-0 in the final four minutes and take a 29-21 lead at intermission.

"I think we got them thinking in the first period," Godwin said. "But we had those turnovers at the end of the half. If we just could have kept from having those, and then that little spurt in the second half they had, we might have made it interesting.

"I told them at the half not to let Farmville get that spurt coming out in the second half, but they got it anyway."

Coming out in the second half, Farmville forced the Rams into three turnovers and three missed shots in their first nine possessions to grab a 40-27 advantage. During the stretch, Donald Reid hit four of his game-high 21 points on two inside moves and Jeff Tyson hit two foul line jumpers. Tyson finished with 16 points while Dennis Pitt added 14 for the winners. Greene Central was led by David Joyner's 14 points.

The Jaguars led at the close of the quarter, 48-33, and had all but sealed the victory.

"I thought going into this game it could go two ways. Either they'd come out flat or they'd come out fired up after last week," Farmville Central coach Mike Terrell said. "They came out fired up. I thought they did a good job. They didn't back off like they did at our place.

"Had they been able to get control of the tempo like they wanted to, it might have been a different ballgame.

"This was definitely a good win for us. This team made some good passes tonight. They're beginning to really look for each other," Terrell said. "To beat the same team three times in a season...well, it's just a good win."

Ayden-Grifton 51
Farmville Central 39

Farmville Central could score but two points in the last two minutes while Ayden-Grifton hit for 16, all but two of which came at the free throw line, as the Chargers upended the Jaguars, 52-39.

The win moves Ayden-Grifton, now 15-8, into Wednesday night's (9 p.m.) semi-finals against top-seeded Southwest Edgecombe. Farmville Central ends the season at 13-8.

Trailing by one, 36-35, with nearly three minutes remaining, Farmville Central saw its point guard and leader, Diana Gordan, foul out. From there, Farmville Central could score but four points and turned the ball over four times in its next six possessions.

The Chargers, meanwhile, hit 14-of-19 free throws during the last two minute stretch, including 8-of-10 by Irene Lewis, who finished with 10 points. Marie Lewis led Ayden-Grifton with 12 points while Aretha and Sara Cannon each had 10.

Farmville Central was led by Pam Moye's game-high 21 points.

"We played Farmville Central three times and to be able to beat them all three is just great," Charger coach Kathy Purvis said. "We seemed to be more up for the ballgame than they were tonight out there on the court."

Farmville Central coach Hilda Worthington agreed.

"We just didn't play well. We just didn't want it bad enough," Worthington said. "I thought they were ready and they seemed to play harder. They just wanted it more."

Farmville Central, after trailing early 6-0, pulled ahead, 10-8, at the close of the first period.

The Jaguars, on two long jumpers by Moye and a free throw by Gordan moved up 19-17 midway thought the second period but did not score again in the last three minutes, allowing Ayden-Grifton to go up, 22-19, at the half.

The Chargers maintained a three-to-four point bulge for most of the third period, although Farmville did cut it to one twice (30-29 and 32-31). Ayden-Grifton led at the end of the quarter, 34-31.

Going into the final period, the game was still in doubt, but after Farmville closed to within one, 36-35 on two free throws by Moye, Ayden-Grifton rattled off its 16-4 spurt to seal the win.

"Yes, I expected them to play well tonight," Purvis said. "We had a good practice Saturday and if we hadn't played well I don't know what I would have done."

Southwest Edgecombe 60
Greene Central 33

Southwest Edgecombe, forced into a slow-down game by Greene Central in the first half, erupted for a 26-4 spurt in the third quarter and went on to defeat the Rams, 60-33.

Southwest Edgecombe now advances to the semi-finals of the ECC tournament Wednesday at 9 p.m. against Ayden-Grifton, a 52-39 winner over Farmville Central Monday night.

Greene Central ends the season at 6-17.

"We didn't play so hot," Greene Central coach Jim Fulghum said. "But they had a lot to do with that. We came out in the first half and did what we wanted to, slow the ball down and look for the good shot.

"But we weren't patient enough, especially in the second half," he said. "I thought our defense played well in the first half. We forced them into 11 turnovers while we had only six."

After inching ahead 6-3 in the opening period, the Cougars hit the first three buckets of the second quarter to up 12-3 before cruising to a 16-7 halftime advantage.

Coming out in the second half, the Cougars began to work the ball inside and force the ball up court. Center Alphelia Jenkins and forward Cornelia Howard each had eight points in the period. Jenkins finished with 20 points while Howard knocked in 14.

Greene Central was led by Letha Taylor's 21 points.

"They got up 15-16 points in the second half and it was just a matter of time before it got larger," Fulghum said. "We hoped to stay within eight or so and cut their lead in half going into the final period, but we couldn't do it. We just didn't have any direction out there when we needed it."

Winter Olympiad Opening

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Hounded by continuing political problems and haunted by logistical nightmares, the Games of the XIII Winter Olympiad began on schedule today in this picturesque map-dot village nestled in the Adirondack Mountains.

The official opening of the Games, complete with the ceremonial parade of nearly 1,300 athletes, is scheduled for Wednesday. But the hockey competition got a jump on the other sports with six games on today's schedule.

For American athletes the 1980 Games could yield a record winter medal haul. The United States won 10 medals in the 1976 Winter Games at Innsbruck and never has captured more than the dozen it won the last time Lake Placid hosted these Games in 1932.

But stars like champion speed skaters Eric and Beth Heiden, cross country skier Bill Koch, figure skaters Linda Fratianne and Charlie Tickner and skiers Phil Mahre and Cindy Nelson could make this a memorable Olympiad for the United States.

Most of the hockey interest centered on the awesome Soviet Union team, considered almost certain to win the hockey gold. The Russians opened against Japan tonight. In other games, Norway met Czechoslovakia, Canada played Holland, the United States faced Sweden, West Germany opposed Romania and Poland took on Finland.

The young American team, composed largely of college players, got a close look at the Soviets in a 10-3 thrashing last Saturday in New York. Coach Herb Brooks thought he detected some extra verve in the play of the Russians, brought on, perhaps, by the current world political situation.

"The Russians have always been subtle physically before," said Brooks. "I've never seen them quite as physical as they were against us. When Khrushchev said that they'd bury us, I didn't think he meant the American hockey team of 1980. They vented a lot that seemed to be inside them in that game."

The Soviet squad includes many of the stars such as goalie Vladislav Tretiak and forward Boris Mikhailov, who have become familiar to North American fans in the last eight years in games against National Hockey League teams. Brooks smiles at matching them up against his young American team.

"Eight years ago, they were playing against Team Canada," the coach said. "I've got six or eight kids on my team who were playing peewee hockey eight years ago."

With the opening ceremonies just 24 hours away, the Taiwan issue remained clouded. Athletes from that nation, demanding to compete as the Republic of China under their own flag and with their own anthem, planned to carry their suit against the International Olympic Committee into the New York State Court of Appeals today. On Monday in a middle-level court, Olympic officials got reversed an original ruling supporting the Taiwanese position.

The IOC had ordered the changes to clear the way for participation in these Games by athletes from mainland China. That triggered the original suit by the Taiwanese. If the higher court also supports the IOC, it could send the Taiwan team home.

While the Taiwan question weaved its way through the judicial network, American Olympic officials presented to the IOC President Carter's case for moving, postponing or cancelling the 1980 Moscow Games because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

"I couldn't say if we won any points or lost any," said Robert Kane, president of the United States Olympic Committee. "I was pleased, however, that their questions indicated at least that our points were being understood."

DePaul Again Tops On College Listing

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Ray Meyer and DePaul may have received a scare last weekend, but this week's Associated Press college basketball poll was just another cakewalk.

Meyer's Blue Demons were the unanimous choice Monday for the top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll for the fourth straight week. DePaul was tabbed No.1 on all 58 ballots and received a perfect score of 1,160 in the voting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

But that was the easy part. DePaul faced a tougher challenge in upping its record to 20-0 last Saturday — Dayton. It took a basket by Clyde Bradshaw with three seconds left before DePaul emerged with a 65-63 triumph.

"We got the scare of our lives," said Coach Meyer after the game.

DePaul wasn't the only team to find a niche to its liking — the next five teams in the poll also remained unchanged.

Second-ranked Syracuse collected collected 1,047 points in outdistancing Louisville for the runnerup slot. The Cardinals, who posted victories over Cincinnati and Providence last week, were third with 1,012 points.

Oregon State, which nipped Arizona State in overtime last week, was fourth with 959 points, followed by Kentucky, 898, and Louisiana State, 874.

St. John's moved up one spot this week and took over the No.7 position from Maryland with 774 points. The Terps were next with 749 points while Ohio State and Clemson rounded out the Top 10.

The Buckeyes, ranked 13th last week, collected 628 points following triumphs over Michigan and Michigan State. Clemson, which jumped from No.16 to the Top 10 after upsetting Maryland last week, got 462 points in edging North Carolina for the No.10 spot.

North Carolina headed the Second 10 for the third consecutive week. Notre Dame, No.9 last week but upset by North Carolina State, was 12th followed by Brigham Young, Missouri, Purdue, Duke, Weber State, Arizona State, Kansas State and Iowa.

for the first time this season, broke a string of 11 conference losses last Saturday with a victory over Virginia.

Tracy Jackson scored a career-high 23 points and Kelly Tripucka added 20 in Notre Dame's victory over San Francisco. The Irish took a 20-point lead, then held off a second-half rally by the Dons.

"Our offensive execution was excellent, especially in the first half," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps. "Tracy really played well, and we rotated people to give everybody the necessary rest. The game got physical in the second half, but that's just part of the game."

In other games, Greg White scored 20 points to lead Marshall over Tennessee-Chattanooga 67-55; Kenneth Lyons scored 23 points as North Texas trimmed the University of San Diego 83-73; an 18-point performance by Greg Nance led West Virginia past Massachusetts 73-68; DeBoyd Johnson's 20 points paced Southeastern Louisiana to a 62-54 triumph over Centenary and Temple beat Rider 80-64 as Jim McLoughlin came off the bench to score 20 points.

Also, Ronald Frazier scored 17 points to lead Northeast Louisiana to a 72-61 decision over Houston Baptist; Mitchell Anderson's 32 points paced Bradley over Indiana State 82-60; Robert Scott's 19 points helped Alabama nip Georgia 66-64 in overtime; North Carolina State defeated Wake Forest 52-40 as Hawkeye Whitney contributed 16 points; Mickey Dillard scored a game-high 27 points as Florida State snapped Florida Southern's 13-game winning streak with an 85-78 victory over the Moccasins; Jeff Ruland had 24 points and 13 rebounds as Iona beat St. Francis (Pa.) 72-62; and Dan McLaughlin's jump shot at the buzzer lifted Fairleigh Dickinson over Manhattan 60-58.

Richards Is A-A

Kevin Richards, a member of the Rose High School swimming team, reached All-America standards during this past weekend's Atlantic Seaboard Swimming and Diving competition held at East Carolina University.

Richards completed the 100-yard butterfly in 52.37 seconds, good enough for a second place finish in the event. He just missed out on reaching the standard in another event, the 100-yard backstroke, finishing just four-tenths behind the standard with his fourth place finish.

Jr. High Results

Wellcome Middle School's boys and girls and Farmville Middle Schools' boys won junior high playoff games Monday afternoon.

Wellcome's boys defeated Grifton, 38-30, behind Rodney Dudley's 13 points. Doug Coley led Grifton with eight points.

Farmville's boys whipped Ayden, 68-37, behind Kenneth Hardy's 22 points and Troy Hopkins 16.

Wellcome's girls, led by Phyllis Daniels and Peggy Latham, both of whom had eight points, defeated Farmville, 44-18. Cynthia Hart led Farmville with 11 points.

SAVE $40 on Your Summer Electric Bills
By Joining BEAT THE PEAK
BEAT THE PEAK is a program designed to help reduce the high "peak" periods of demand for electric energy which typically occur on hot summer days when all electricity users combined are using the most electricity—at the same time. These "peaks" are very expensive and they cost You, the electric consumer, extra money.
If you are a residential customer of Greenville Utilities and you have either an electric water heater or central air conditioning, then you can help BEAT THE PEAK. As a BEAT THE PEAK Volunteer, you receive a direct credit reduction of either $5.00 or $10.00 on each of your June, July, August, and September electric bills. That can add up to a $40 savings.
It costs you nothing to join BEAT THE PEAK, but it can save you a lot. It also helps save precious, expensive oil that must be used to generate the electric energy needed during peak periods.
To apply for BEAT THE PEAK, or for more information, call the Energy Conservation Office of Greenville Utilities at 752-7166. Only several hundred applications remain for 1980, so call Today so you can start saving money this summer.

ABC's Programming Strategy Backfired In At Least One Case

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Aggressive scheduling," it was called, a programming strategy aimed at exploiting a wealth of popular shows and, perhaps, setting the course of a prime time television dynasty.

ABC's plan backfired, or at least, sputtered, and the result is that ABC is engaged in a ratings battle with CBS that is closer than most TV observers imagined possible at the beginning of the season.

Interestingly, the man responsible for ABC's 1979-80 schedule says he would do it again, that the shifting of popular shows — most notably, "Mork and Mindy," "Fantasy Island," "Laverne and Shirley" — was sound strategy subverted by unpredictable circumstaces.

Tony Thomopoulos, President of ABC Entertainment, considers the mixed reviews accorded his strategy:

"I think you can look at it from the marvelous perspective called 'hindsight.' But given the same set of circumstances — knowing what we knew then, not what we know now — we'd probably make the same changes with some minor adjustments.

"The moves we made were not totally successful, but they did accomplish certain things. They did allow us to establish a hit with a show called 'Benson' and they did allow us to build another hit with 'Hart to Hart,' which has had some very positive effects for the network."

Actually, that is a matter open to question. "Laverne and Shirley" was moved from its very successful Tuesday night slot to lead the way for "Benson" on Thursdays. But "Laverne and Shirley" lost a substantial portion of its audience in the move, and has shown no signs of fully recovering in its new Monday night slot.

And "Fantasy Island" was moved from its Saturday night slot to give "Hart to Hart" the advantage of "Fantasy Island's" former "Love Boat" lead-in, but "Fantasy Island" couldn't maintain itself on Fridays, and "Hart to Hart" became a hit not in that Saturday slot, but in its new Tuesday night time period.

"The 'Mork and Mindy' move from Thursday to Sunday was, as far as I'm concerned, and even in hindsight, a positive move for us. Even though it sat there as an 8 o'clock island by itself, it averaged a 22 rating. If we didn't have 'Mork and Mindy' in that time period, I wonder what would have happened."

What did happen was that "Mork" left the realm of 38 and 40 ratings scores for a man to man encounter with CBS' Archie Bunker, and Bunker prevailed.

N.C. Ski Resorts Now Seeing Business Rise

By The Associated Press

North Carolina's ski resorts, suffering through a slow season up until this weekend, saw business pick up as the snow came down for the third time in two weeks.

"Conditions at all the slopes in western North Carolina were excellent over the weekend," said Louis Nixon of the Southeastern Ski Association in Blowing Rock.

"By Friday, all the slopes were reporting tremendously increased bases. This will probably help them out for the rest of the season because it means they can blow snow at night for the rest of the winter. This has to be the best weekend of the winter," Nixon said.

The state's third snowstorm Saturday night left 3 to 6 inches on the already snowy slopes and attracted the season's largest crowds so far.

Beech Mountain was booked solid this past weekend, according to a spokesman for the resort.

"We had the Southern Star races this weekend, so that plus the good weather really brought in the skiers," said Tim Worley, manager of Beech Mountain Rentals Inc. "We have 6 to 8 inches of new natural snow, and the conditions are excellent. This weekend was great."

Worley said January was a slow month because there was little snow in the mountains, "but when the snow finally came, boom — they (skiers) started coming in."

Bob Kunhardt, assistant general manager at Sugar Mountain, said the largest crowds so far this season showed up over the past weekend.

"It was definitely one of our better weekends," Kunhardt said. "We had excellent conditions, and it was the best it had been all year.

"If the weather cooperates, we'll be pretty well off for the rest of the winter," Kunhardt said. "And it looks like the crowds are here to stay."

If the cold weather continues, he said, Sugar Mountain will be able to add man-made snow to its base every night.

At Hound Ears in Blowing Rock, it was the same story, with Saturday marking the biggest ski day of the year.

"We had a real busy weekend. We were full Saturday and had a good crowd Sunday," said spokesman Steve Moore. Both slopes at the resort were open Monday with a 10- to 35-inch base, he said. Temperatures were in the 20s.

"If the weather stays like this, it'll be great," he said.

At Appalachian ski resort in Boone, a large number of skiers arrived during the past two weekends, according to Catherine Morton.

"We have a 40- to 60-inch base now," she said. Among the skiers on the slopes Monday were a lot of school children, she said, because schools in Watagua County are closed due to snow.

AILING — Actor Jay Silverheels, 62, who started as the masked man's faithful Indian sidekick, Tonto, in the "Lone Ranger" television series, was bedridden Monday according to Los Angeles spokesmen for the Motion Picture and Television Country Hospital. (AP Laserphoto)

Seniors Club To Meet Thursday

The Town and Country Senior Citizens Club will meet Thursday at 10:15 a. m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The meeting was postponed last week because of snow. Members are reminded to bring their valentines and also their bus fare if they plan to go on the Feb. 26 trip to Charlotte.

NBC Reworks Its Scheduling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC, still a distant third in the season-long ratings competition, has extensively reworked its prime-time schedule, adding eight series to begin in March.

All but one of the new series are in the comedy-variety vein. The midseason moves constitute a bigger schedule shakeup for NBC than the one undertaken at the beginning of the season, when NBC added only six new series to its lineup.

The network announced Monday that the acclaimed dramatic series "Skag," the family drama "Shirley" and sundry movies and specials will be dropped to make room for the new shows. "Skag" will likely return to NBC in the fall, the network said.

NBC will move its successful "CHiPs" series from Saturday, where it has become one of the network's few hits, to Sunday nights. The network also announced that "The Rockford Files," which ceased production two months ago, will return to the schedule as reruns on Thursday night.

The emphasis in the new NBC schedule was comedy. "We have always believed that for a network to be No. 1, you have to be No. 1 in comedy," said Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC Entertainment. "A year ago today, NBC had two hours of comedy and no variety on the schedule. The schedule we've announced today, nearly half of which is comedy-variety, reinforces the fact that we are moving in the right direction and ahead of schedule."

NBC's new series are:

—"Boomer," Fridays 8-8:30 p.m., a comedy about a mutt who wanders into and out of the lives of different people.

—"Pink Lady and Jeff," Fridays 9-10 p.m., a variety hour starring the Japanese singing duo, Pink Lady, and comic Jeff Altman.

—"Me and Maxx," Saturdays 9:30-10 p.m., about a divorced New Yorker whose daughter unexpectedly comes to live with him.

—"The Big Show," Tuesdays 9-10:30 p.m., a showcase for comedy and variety.

—"United States," Tuesdays 10:30-11 p.m., Larry Gelbart's look at contemporary marriage.

—"From Here to Eternity," Wednesdays 10-11 p.m., based on James Jones' bestselling novel of World War II.

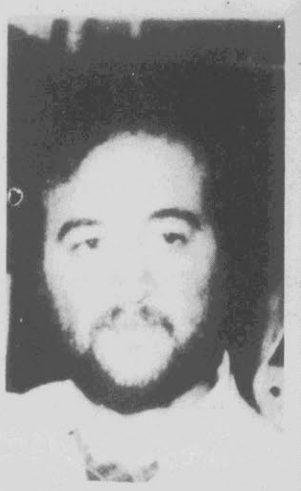

—"The Facts of Life," Fridays 8:30-9 p.m., the housekeeper from "Diff'rent Strokes" becomes a housemother in a private school for teen-age girls.

—"Sanford," Saturdays 9-9:30 p.m., Redd Foxx returns as a junkyard dealer.

Other changes include:

"BJ and the Bear" moves into "CHiPs" Saturday night slot; "The Best of Saturday Night Live" moves to Fridays in "Rockford's" old slot; "Rockford" moves into "Skag's" former time period on Thursday.

NBC has trailed ABC and CBS in the ratings race since October, after a strong start.

COMEDY AWARD — "I'm moved by this, but not a lot", John Belushi told an audience at UCLA Monday as he accepted the annual Jack Benny Award for excellence in comedy. He said he would not return to the television show where he gained fame. (AP Laserphoto)

Our good friend Richard L. Frey, chairman of the Goren Editorial Board and president of the International Bridge Press Association, is 75 years young today. He is well known as a prolific writer and editor. However, because of his journalistic activities, he seldom has had time to play in tournaments since World War II. Thus, people tend to forget that he was a member of the Four Aces, the first powerhouse team in contract bridge, and was Life Master No. 8 selected by the American Contract Bridge League when the title was first instituted.

His play has much in common with his writing. It is clear, logical and cuts straight to the heart of the matter. Watch his technique at a four heart contract reached through no fault of his own. North's jump to three hearts with a balanced hand, no ruffing value and only three trumps leave something to be desired — three no trump was the standout bid.

West led a low diamond, and when dummy appeared it seemed that Frey would have to lose three tricks in the minor suits and, barring a miracle, a trump. But over the years, Frey has specialized in doing the impossible.

He won the ace of diamonds, cashed the two top spades and ruffed a spade. He crossed to dummy with the king of diamonds and led the last spade. Since it would not help East to ruff, he discarded a diamond and declarer was able to ruff safely. He then cashed the ace of clubs and exited with a club.

The defenders could take two club tricks and a diamond, and arrange for either East or West to be on lead at trick ten. But by simply playing for the queen and jack of trumps to be in different hands, declarer was able to avoid a trump loser. Actually, West won the third defensive trick and cleverly led the queen of hearts. But Frey wasn't taken in. He won with the king in dummy, then finessed East for the jack to fulfill his contract.

Wood Stoves Please Many

By Sam Uzzell
Assistant County Agricultural Extension Agent

Using wood as a source of home and industrial heat is becoming more and more attractive to eastern North Carolinians. As fuel oil becomes more and more costly, and the price of electricity soars, people are forced to either turn thermostats down or pay the price. From a conservation point of view, it makes sense to add an extra layer of clothing rather than keep thermostats high.

There are many people who have supplemented or replaced their furnaces with wood burning stoves. Most people are pleasantly suprised at the heating ability of today's well-engineered woodstoves. In fact, most wood stoves can recover a substantial amount of the energy contained in wood.

Wood varies in its ability to produce energy. Usually the more dense a wood is, the higher the energy potential it contains. Energy content of wood is measured by heat value per cord, in million BTU's. The energy content for various species of wood are as follows: hickory, 31.0; white oak, pecan, 28.0; red oak, beech, 27.0; sugar maple, birch, 27.0; longleaf, slash pine, 25.0; ash, 25.0; red maple, 23.0; pitch pine, sweet gum, 22.0; loblolly, shortleaf pine, 22.0; elm, magnolia, sycamore, tupelo, 21.0; Virginia pine, 21.0; eastern red cedar, 20.

A BTU is a British Thermal Unit and is the amount of energy required to innercase the temperature of one pound of water (a pint) one degree Fahrenheit. Therefore, to increase the temperature of a pint of water from the top to boiling would require 212 degrees to 40 degrees F to 172 BTU. Similarly, it takes about 75 BTU to heat a 60 degree F cup of water to boiling.

A cord of wood is equivalent to 128 cubic feet. A cord of wood stacked would measure four feet wide, four feet high, and eight feet long. Incidentally, never buy firewood by the pickup truck load. Always buy wood on the basis of cords. Pickup truck loads vary considerably, but a cord is always 128 cubic feet.

So, how does a cord of white oak stack up against fossil fuels as far as heating energy is concerned? A cord of white oak costs about $80 in the Greenville area and should contain about 28 million BTU's. If a wood stove is 50 percent efficient in converting the wood to heat, then wood heat costs around $5.71 per million BTU. In contrast, fuel oil costing 83 cents per gallon burned in a 65 percent efficient furnace, with the heat content of the furnace based on 139,000 BTU per gallon, then a million BTU cost $9.22. Obviously there are other considerations. Capital investments on the wood stove must be balanced against the furnace, stove pipe, availability of wood, quality of the fuel and effort it takes to stoke and care for the fire.

Wood stoves make sense to many people. There are many advantages to wood stoves and likewise there are some disadvantages. Tomorrow's column will discuss disadvantages of woodstoves and proper stove maintenance and installation.

PARK VISITORS UP

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (UPI) — Visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park increased a whopping 59 percent in January over 1979 figures, officials said Saturday.

RECOVERING — Comedian Jerry Colonna, whose career was launched after Bob Hope signed him on for his radio show, is "recovering slowly", but in good condition after a series of heart problems, hospital officials in Los Angeles say. 'Bad Peanut' Back In Jail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — William Carter Spann, the president's nephew, has been jailed for violating his parole and may have to return to prison, his parole officer says.

Parole Officer Dick Bandettini placed Spann in San Francisco County Jail Monday night because he failed to appear at a scheduled meeting to discuss his wife's claims that he beat her.

Spann, 33, whose mother, Gloria, is President Carter's sister, was released Christmas Day from the California Medical Facility after serving 3½ years for armed robbery.

Bandettini said Jane Frey Spann, 41, a San Francisco real estate broker who married Spann in a prison ceremony, has said she won't file charges against Spann concerning the alleged beating.

Spann was given an orange jail jump suit and placed alone in a two-man cell at the Hall of Justice, police said.

Bandettini said Spann will remain in jail until a parole board hearing can be scheduled, which could be up to 30 days. He then faces a return to prison for one to six months for parole violation.

Spann, who once described himself as the "bad peanut" of the Carter family, has been in and out of California jails and prisons since 1969.

He was convicted in June 1976 of robbing two San Francisco bars and sentenced to 10 years to life in prison.

Informant Says He Lied About Bribe Paid To U.S. Attorney

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Attorney George Anderson was never offered, nor did he accept, a $50,000 bribe, a government informant says. But Wade Bailey says he made up the story about Anderson to protect himself from cohorts in a drug smuggling ring.

"I never figured it would get in the damn newspaper," said the Wrightsville Beach fisherman. "Anderson was hurt politically, mentally and physically. He never knew anything about it."

Anderson denied the charge repeatedly after the bribery report was published in 1979. The U.S. Justice Department later cleared him of any wrongdoing.

Bailey, an informant in two highly publicized drug cases, said he concocted the story because he was afraid of the people running the smuggling operation, identified in court as Robert Meinster and Robert Platshorn. Both were convicted in Miami earlier this month as leaders of the so-called "Black Tuna" smuggling operation.

"The most paranoid I had been in the whole of the deal was when it snowballed as much as it did," Bailey said. "If there was any way that Meinster and Platshorn figured I was an enemy, I wanted to buy some time.

"So I made up the bribe, and with the alleged bribe I figured if I could hurt the U.S. attorney's office up here, I would look like an ally to them."

Bailey who worked as an undercover agent for federal authorities in 1977 and 1978 in cases that involved the seizure of marijuana. He had told federal investigators he gave Anderson a bribe while he was visiting Bailey's home in July 1978.

Bailey was a prosecution witness at trials in both cases, testifying under immunity from prosecution. Court records show that during one delivery Bailey diverted 10 bales of marijuana to his own use.

Bailey has become one of the most unpopular people in Wrightsville Beach since he was labeled an informant. He has received repeated threats against his life; his marriage has broken up; pranksters have left dead birds on his porch and strangled cats tied to his truck.

Bars in Wrightsville Beach ran lotteries on what day he would be assassinated.

Bailey said the government had offered to give him a new identity aand relocate him in the Midwest, but he refused.

"I figure I did what I did in New Hanover County and if they blow me away, let them do that in New Hanover County. At least I'll be assured of good press coverage," Bailey said.

Homes with two bedrooms or four. Homes with sun decks, patios, fireplaces and front porches. Ranging in price from $11,500 to $40,500.
And some of these homes are designed for adding-on at a later date, so you don't have to buy more house than you need right now. You can start out slowly and add on as your need for extra space increases (new arrivals, for example).

And That's Not All
In addition, each of these homes can be built two ways: in conventional fashion (with 2 x 4 studs and normal insulation) or as a Low-E energy efficient structure (with 2 x 6 studs for extra insulation).
