January Surge In Consumer Prices Highest In Years

By EILEEN ALT POWELL, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new surge in gasoline and heating oil costs helped push consumer prices 1.4 percent higher in January, the largest monthly increase in more than 6½ years, the government reported today.

The rise in the Consumer Price Index was the biggest since a 1.8 percent jump in August 1973, when then-President Richard M. Nixon lifted price controls and beef prices shot up dramatically.

The culprit last month was not food, which rose a modest 0.1 percent from December, the Labor Department reported.

"Rising fuel prices were responsible for more than a quarter of the change," said department analyst Patrick Jackman. "Basically, it's the recent increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries starting to work their way through the system."

A number of OPEC nations — including Saudi Arabia, the United States' largest crude oil supplier — raised prices last month. In recent days, several of them have announced cutbacks in production, which could increase prices further.

Gasoline prices rose 7.4 percent in January, the biggest increase in the more than four decades the Labor Department has kept statistics, officials said. Fuel oil prices shot up 5.3 percent, more than in recent months but not a record.

Major price increases also were reported for housing, which rose 1.4 percent from December because of higher fuel oil costs and higher mortgage rates. Medical care costs also rose substantially, up 1.3 percent because of new year price adjustments at hospitals and in doctors' fees.

Consumer prices had risen 1.2 percent in December after increases of 1 percent in each of the preceding two months.

If prices rise for 11 more months at January's 1.4 percent pace, the year would end with an inflation rate of more than 18 percent.

By contrast, prices last year rose 13.3 percent — the worst inflation rate since World War II price controls were lifted in 1946.

The Carter administration predicts prices will rise 10.4 percent this year, but that would require monthly increases in the range of 0.8 percent or less — a phenomenon that has not occurred since 1978.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department reported that wage increases did not keep pace with soaring prices.

Average weekly earnings fell 1.1 percent from December to January. A 0.3 percent increase in average hourly earnings was more than offset by the 1.4 percent surge in prices.

Moreover, spendable earnings — what a married worker with three dependents has to spend after Social Security and federal income tax deductions — fell 1.1 percent last month.

"Over the year, real spendable earnings were down 6.9 percent," the report said.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 233.2 in January, or 13.9 percent higher than in January 1978. The figure means that goods that cost consumers $100 in the base year of 1967 cost $233.20 last month.

Brezhnev: Troops To Stay In Afghanistan

MOSCOW (AP) —

President Leonid I. Brezhnev denied that he has carried out any military intervention in Afghanistan and said today Soviet troops there would be withdrawn as soon as "outside interference" in that nation ends.

Referring to President Carter, who has pushed for a Moscow Olympics boycott in retaliation for Soviet moves in Afghanistan, Brezhnev said:

"Mr. Carter and his people know that there was no and is no Russian intervention in Afghanistan."

The Soviet leader said, "The United States loudly demands the withdrawal of Soviet troops but in fact is doing everything to put off this possibility; it is continuing and building up its interference in the affairs of Afghanistan."

In a political campaign speech before a capacity audience of 6,000 at the Kremlin's huge Palace of Congresses, Brezhnev repeated Moscow's position that Soviet troops were invited into Afghanistan by the Marxist Kabul government under terms of a Soviet-Afghan treaty.

Brezhnev spoke as massive street demonstrations in Kabul against the Soviet military presence in Afghanistan left at least three persons dead in the capital, according to foreign reports from there.

The 73-year-old Soviet leader appeared puffy-faced and tired, but he delivered his toughly worded 40-minute speech in a strong voice.

He accused the United States of increasing tension in the Middle East and Asia and said the Carter administration's reaction to

"events in Afghanistan" was forcing Soviet troops to remain in the Moslem country.

Brezhnev contended that since the Soviet troops had been requested, "why then is Washington going into hysterics on a global scale? What are the aims of Washington in spreading lies about a Soviet war against Afghanistan?"

"Washington is only looking for a pretext for broadening its presence in Asia," he said.

"The main thing is that the United States has decided to create a network of military bases in the countries of the Indian Ocean, the countries of the Middle East and the countries of Africa. The United States wants to pump out unimpeded those countries' national wealth" and use military bases there for attacks against socialist countries, Brezhnev said.

"We will be ready to commence withdrawal of troops as soon as all forms of outside interference against the people and government of Afghanistan are permanently terminated," he declared.

Thousands Flee California Storms

By C.W. MIRANKER, Associated Press Writer

Caskets floated out of rainsodden graves as levees crumbled and dams overflowed in Southern California, forcing thousands of persons to flee before the rain subsided today. A sewer line ruptured in Phoenix, Ariz., dumping 35 million gallons of raw waste daily into swirling flood waters.

Drier weather was expected today in Southern California, as a high pressure system pushed the path of a Pacific storm further north. "This is great! The storm we were looking for (No. 7) has weakened to practically nothing. The tail end is moving north of us," National Weather Service forecaster Eleanor Vostee said today.

But 9 days of rainstorms pummeling the West have left at least 31 persons dead. Damage estimates have hit nearly $425 million, and officials predict "it will go much, much higher."

The rains have destroyed much of California's strawberry crop, with losses likely to exceed $10 million. Also threatened is the almond harvest, which represents the entire U.S. output.

Six California counties — from Ventura just north of Los Angeles to San Diego on the Mexican border — were declared national disaster areas Thursday by President Carter. About 500 National Guardsmen were helping with evacuations and disaster work.

More than 7,000 people — some plucked from the water by helicopter — fled their homes Thursday in Riverside County, which stretches from Riverside, about 60 miles east of Los Angeles, to the Arizona border.

Los Angeles has received 12.75 inches of rain in a nine-day period. And the season total so far — more than 21 inches — is nearly a foot above normal for this time of year. The rain season runs from November through April.

Meanwhile, the Northern California coast braced for more rain, and heavy snow fell in the mountains. In Idaho and Utah, the threat to brimming dams abated.

At least 10 caskets were unearthed by floodwaters at the Verdugo Hills Cemetery just north of Los Angeles, and others bulged just below the topsoil. The area was declared a health hazard, and crews were removing the coffins as they slid toward a roadway.

In Phoenix, Ariz., officials said there was no immediate health hazard from the sewage spilling from a broken 66-inch pipe into the raging Salt River. The waste was being diluted by floodwaters, but it could pose a hazard when the flow eases, officials said.

Travel across the Salt, which cuts through Phoenix, remained snarled and authorities said the Interstate 10 bridge over the river would be closed until next month because of erosion around its support piers.

Gov. Bruce Babbitt has called for congressional action to help with the state's perennial flooding. Damage in Arizona is now estimated at $90 million.

In California's Riverside County, the entire town of San Jacinto was awash, and its 6,500 residents fled after a levee along the raging San Jacinto River burst.

In Palm Springs, water poured from a breached levee, inundating three foothill communities and sending more than a thousand people to evacuation centers.

In a desert area in the southwest part of the county, homes were reported under water and about 5,000 residents were isolated by floodwaters. The Air National Guard and Marines were lifting people out by helicopter and ferrying in supplies to other residents.

In San Diego's fashionable Mission Valley, hotels, shopping centers and homes were flooded. Six major San Diego reservoirs reached their highest levels since 1941, and the El Capitan was threatening to spill more water into the Mission Valley area. But officials said none of the dams had been weakened or was in danger of breaking.

In Northern California, emergency crews were racing to shore up eroding levees in the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta before another storm hit the area. Two islands in the delta were inundated by water Thursday, and several others were evacuated. "It's a very nervous situation," said Bill Ward of the Office of Emergency Services.

Heavy snow fell in the Sierra Nevada on Thursday, closing a 40-mile stretch of U.S. 50 because of mudslides and danger of avalanches.

In Malad, Idaho, 60 people returned home after the water level in a reservoir dropped. State officials continue to monitor the stability of a 30-year-old earthen dam.

In Utah, the flow of water cascading over a dam near the town of Enterprise is slowing, and officials said deterioration had stabilized. Damage in the state stood at more than $3 million.

Tax Collections Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina state tax collections have increased 15.2 percent during the first seven months of this fiscal year as compared to the same period last year, said Mark Lynch, state revenue secretary.

But, Lynch said today, most of that increase is due to inflation rather than economic growth.

Lynch said that state tax collections for the month of January were up 19.24 percent over January a year ago.

"Inflation is boosting our revenues," Lynch said. "Even though it looks good now, I can't say if it'll go on much longer."

Gasoline tax receipts for the seven months of the current year declined 4.75 percent while total Highway Fund tax collections declined nearly 2 percent.

Protests Permissive Materials

By CAROL TYER, Reflector Staff Writer

A number of Pitt County citizens last night questioned and commented to the County Board of Health about their feelings that health department programs and materials are encouraging immorality among teenagers and estrangement between teenagers and their parents.

T. R. Jones, one spokesman for the group, which had arranged in advance to appear before the board, said the tone of materials disseminated by the health department is permissive — that there is blatant encouragement to adolescents and teenagers to develop sexual lifestyles that do not violate their own values. There is no mention, he said, of the need for discussion of values with parents or ministers.

He said his group showed Health Board members a "blue sheet" which stated in black and white that parental permission is needed for immunizations, but not for pregnancy testing, free contraceptives, and abortions in less than 12 weeks after conception.

He said board members indicated that most of the decisions concerning programs are not made by them, but on a state level, since more than half of the funding for Pitt County's "model health department" comes from state and federal sources. "We feel pretty sure," he said, "that something will have to be done in the State Department of Human Resources in Raleigh to effect any real change."

"We've accomplished something already, though —" Jones said, "we've hopefully helped make the general public aware that such policies and programs exist. Individual parents and other concerned citizens can then inquire more thoroughly and hopefully communicate more with their children."

"It was a good meeting," Board of Health Chairman

Ed N. Warren said. "We got some good input. We like for people to express themselves. The board is going to review all that was said."

Health Department Director Dr. Robert Ehinger agreed with Warren that it was a helpful meeting. He said everything will be taken under advisement, including a plan for the restructuring of the family planning program presented by Rev. William Shumaker.

The plan basically calls for the health department to set up a program to train parents to counsel their own children about sex, to have a parents' advisory council review all information materials made available to teenagers about sex by the

---Price Increase---

Subscription rates for "The Daily Reflector" will increase from $3.50 to $4 per month beginning March 1.

Single copy prices will increase from 15 cents to 25 cents on weekdays and from 35 cents to 50 cents on Sundays.

The price increases have become necessary because of rapidly rising costs of newsprint, gasoline and other costs involved in producing and delivering a daily newspaper.

The new home delivery rate represents an increase of approximately two cents per issue.

A large portion of the increase will go to the independent delivery people who daily deliver the paper.

Subscription rates have not been increased since Oct. 1, 1978. The last single copy weekday price change was in July, 1974 and the last Sunday single copy price change was made in October, 1978.

GOT WATCH

I bought a Timex watch Aug. 28, 1979, which never kept accurate time. I returned it in September to the Timex Corporation in Little Rock, Ark. There was then considerable correspondence about whether I had to pay for the repair and that they were doing extensive testing on it to get it working to their satisfaction. I wrote again Nov. 26 to ask about my watch and they wrote that it had been mailed Nov. 19. I wrote once again Dec. 19 — nothing. Mrs. M. J.

Hotline called Mrs. Watkins in Customer Service at the Timex Corporation Jan. 22. She said your watch was mailed Nov. 19, but that since you had not received it, she would authorize that a replacement one be sent. Lost in the mail seems the only explanation, she said, and she gave no explanation of why your letters were not answered. This mailing would be insured, she indicated.

You report that this morning you had to sign for an insured package from Timex and that inside was a watch identical to and hopefully more accurate than your first.

Book Offers Guide To Sources Of Help

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - At age 31, Janet L. Barkas has written five books, but her latest, and lengthiest, actually started as an appendix to an earlier book and "grew and grew" until it took on a life of its own.

It's "The Help Book," a volume of nearly 700 pages that tells where to get answers and assistance in areas ranging from alcoholism to volunteerism. In between, it gives information on more than 5,000 programs, organizations and agencies that deal with legal, medical, financial, psychological, governmental and educational problems.

Miss Barkas, who has a master's degree in criminal justice, was working on a crime hotline in Brooklyn when she began to be aware of how many other problems were related to crime.

"When victims or their relatives called, I realized they wanted answers to questions on so many other problems," she recalls. "For instance, 50 percent of all homicides are alcohol-related."

"I had initially started to do an appendix to my book, 'Victims,' giving sources of help, but it literally grew and grew and became a book in itself."

To get leads on available resources Miss Barkas ran notices in specialized newsletters, and one contact led to another. She sent questionnaires to hundreds of services, such as groups for the elderly, and a second questionnaire to state and national agencies.

"As I was researching I became aware of a proliferation of directories that were little more than computer printouts," she said. "But no one had done a distillation and checking out. What I wanted to do was not just list things, but screen films and attend meeting to make sure of their effectiveness."

Working on "The Help Book" off and on for four years, she did a great deal of traveling in connection with the research, trying to coordinate it with her trips for lectures on crime and violence. She also did "a lot of phone interviewing and wrote thousands and thousands of letters," ending up with 250 red looseleaf notebooks.

"Then I reduced every notebook to 5-by-7 index cards, filed in a huge filing case. I kept sifting, sorting and rechecking. Once I had my core of information, I would go to authorities in that field to ask what they thought of the material and to ask them to suggest deletions or additions."

Though she tried to keep each of the 52 chapters as similar as possible in length, she found some areas more productive than others.

Mrs. Lewis Is Credit Women's Speaker

Greenville Credit Women International members, sponsors and special guests met at Parker's Restaurant Tuesday. Mrs. Kathryn Lewis conducted the program on "Successful Supervision."

She discussed managing, teaching and relating to those working under supervision. Mrs. Lewis is assistant superintendent of Pitt County Schools.

President Linda Westbrook welcomed Mrs. Ginger Hackett as a new member. Ms. Judy Brook of First Federal, winner of the Coastal Plains Speech Contest, gave a presentation "Road to Financial Supervision." She will be competing in the national contest in Atlanta, Ga.

Sponsors attending the meeting were Edward Hackett, Frank Lawrence, Joanne White, Roscoe King and Jessie Laughinghouse. Doris Hendricks, state corresponding secretary, and Lucille Sublett were special guests.

A recently married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Barnes, were honored with a pouncing. Myrtle Fields announced plans for the March 25 meeting to be held jointly with Goldsboro, Kinston, Rocky Mount and Greenville at the Holiday Inn here.

President Westbrook announced the 42nd annual Dixie Council Conference to be held April 11-16 in Columbia, S. C., and the state conference will be held June 1-2 in Winston-Salem.

"It was hard to get a handle on information resources," she says. "The libraries and newspapers, which used to be a good source, don't have the funds now. And financial assistance was also a difficult chapter to research."

She estimates that about 90 percent of the help available is free, much of it from government sources.

"I think people have to rethink their whole orientation that the government is an organization that is hard to penetrate," she says. "I found it easy to get answers. You just have to know what to ask for - the right question."

Miss Barkas has taught juvenile justice, roots of violence and history of vegetarianism courses at Temple University and The New School and is a Ph.D. candidate in sociology at the Graduate Center of the City University of New York.

She has had a one-person art show of her paintings, collages and drawings, but hasn't much time for her art now. "But when I have people over for meals I do original menu cards I design myself," she says.

The author, who writes under the name of J.L. Barkas - "first names are personal" - has written two books on vegetarianism. She lives in a Manhattan apartment, surrounded by varicolored notebooks: black for "Victims," red for "The Help Book," blue for "Single in America," her fifth book, to be published this spring.

Abby Is No Face-Saver

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I have a bet on. She says you have had a face lift. I say you haven't. I have $10 riding on your answer.

JOHNNY G. IN PHILLY

DEAR JOHNNY: You win. (Would I lie to you on George Washington's birthday?) Besides, if I were to have something lifted, it wouldn't be my face.

DEAR ABBY: May I add to your advice to READY TO SCREAM—the lady apartment manager who complained about a divorced, retired gentleman who lived across the hall. She said he would ring her doorbell at least 10 times a day to find out if she "needed" anything; he would ask her stupid questions and try to engage her in conversation, and he was a bore and a pest.

You said he was probably just lonely, and needed some "friendly understanding." He needs more than that, Abby. He needs something to do.

After all, since she's managing the apartment, she could find some odd jobs to keep him busy. Sweeping the sidewalk, vacuuming the hallway, polishing the brass, carrying in groceries for tenants—anything to make him feel useful.

Too many retired people are made to feel useless and "in the way." They desperately need to be treated as contributing, respected human beings. If they're treated that way, instead of merely tolerated or humored, they will be happier, more productive and healthier.

HARTLAND, MICHIGAN

DEAR HARTLAND: (Heartland would be more appropriate.) Your answer was better than mine. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for Allen, the soldier stationed in South Korea, for asking you to encourage the folks back home to write to their servicemen overseas.

He said, "When there's mail call, you should see those young soldiers run to see if they got anything. It's sad to see so much repeated disappointment as they hang their heads and slowly walk away empty-handed. Some of those guys are only 17 or 18 and have never been away from home before."

Abby, I would love to correspond with a lonesome soldier, and so would some of my friends. I would even send a batch of homemade cookies if I knew where to send them.

Can't you please tell us how to get a correspondence going with one of those young men?

RED, WHITE AND SOMETIMES BLUE

DEAR RED: All right, you asked for it, and you got it. (And I am not sending you a Toyota.) Those who wish to correspond with a man in the U.S. Armed Forces may send letters to:

COMMANDING GENERAL
EIGHTH ARMY
SEOUL, KOREA
APO SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF. 96301
I was assured that your letters will be distributed to those soldiers who get very little (or no) mail.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend of two years (I'll call him Al) has been seeing a divorced woman for the last six months (sleeping with her) on a regular basis.

When I found out about it, I confronted him with it and he admitted it. I should tell you that he and I have never been intimate because I have moral convictions concerning premarital sex.

He sees me about three nights a week, and we have a very enjoyable, lovable relationship.

What bothers me the most is that he was dishonest with me all along. He says he loves me and not her, which I believe. He told me he would like to marry me some day, and the liaison with this other woman is only temporary.

Do you think he could really love me and sleep with her? I value your opinion.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Yes it's possible that Al has been enjoying a physical (non-love) relationship with the other woman, which is all right with me provided it's all right with her. She's filling one of his needs, and he's obviously filling one of hers. I'm not asking you to condone it—just understand it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WASHINGTON STAR READER: You can either earn it or marry it. But if you marry it, you will more than earn it.

Honey Nut Granola Is A Favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There are all kinds of granola in this world, but of the many versions I have tried, the following recipe for Honey Nut Granola is my favorite. It's a basic formula that, served as is with sliced bananas or other fresh fruit plus milk, makes a delicious and nutritious breakfast or snack. And added to a batter, it produces some of the best muffins I have ever tasted.

Another plus: You can vary this Honey Nut Granola. After you have baked and cooled it, you may stir in some of the ingredients granola addicts often enjoy adding: raisins, chopped sugared dates or dried banana chips; sunflower, sesame or toasted pumpkin seeds; wheat germ.

HONEY NUT GRANOLA
3 cups quick-cooking oats
1 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
2-3rds cup butter, melted
1/2 cup honey
1/4 teaspoon salt

In a large bowl thoroughly stir together the oats, walnuts, butter, honey and salt. Spread evenly in an ungreased 15 by 10-inch jellyroll pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven, stirring occasionally, until light golden brown - 25 minutes. At once spread mixture onto an ungreased cookie sheet or foil to keep granola from browning further; cool completely. Makes about 4 cups - enough for 4 batches of Honey Nut Granola Muffins.

HONEY NUT GRANOLA MUFFINS
1 cup Honey Nut Granola (see recipe)
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup butter, soft
1-3rd cup honey
1 large egg
1/2 cup plain yogurt

Prepare Honey Nut Granola; set aside 1 cup of it for use in this recipe; store the rest in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in the 1 cup Honey Nut Granola. In a medium bowl beat together until blended the butter, honey, egg and yogurt; add the flour-granola mixture; with a spoon stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill muffin-pan cups (each 2 1/2 by 1 inch and 1-3rd cup capacity) 2-3rds full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean - 15 to 18 minutes. Makes 1 dozen.

Life, As It's Lived Words Are There, But Concepts Still Vague

By GAIL MICHAELS
Recently, one of the many people whom Meg engages in conversation during our waits in check-out lines commented on the gap in Meg's mouth. "Oh, that was just a baby tooth," she answered importantly. "But up in my gums there's a pregnant tooth."

It's not surprising that Meg stumbles over a concept that ultimately mystifies adults, but she keeps trying to understand. Most of her waking hours are now spent investigating the process of creating and sustaining new life. Her aunt has been the focus of the investigation into sustenance. During every family get-together, the two of them eventually end up in a back bedroom seated side by side, Meg's aunt nursing her infant son and Meg nursing her doll. Not only does Meg have the mechanics down pat, she's even got the placid expression.

I, on the hand, am the unwilling focus of the investigation into creation. As if I weren't uncomfortable enough already, I have been forced to provide such information as a blow-by-blow account of the birth process, after which Meg's favorite game became labor and delivery. Now every time she and a friend play doctor, I have to keep sneaking by her room to make sure she doesn't get too graphic.

Her visit to my obstetrician has only intensified her interest. She listened to the baby's heartbeat, protested vigorously in the interest of personal hygiene when the nurse midwife drew an ink outline of the baby on my abdomen, and embarked on a line of questioning that would make Masters and Johnson blush.

I have, of course, fielded questions on reproduction before my present predicament, but I was never comfortable while doing so. Phillip and I gave up our membership in the enlightened generation long ago when Meg first discovered the difference between boys and girls and Phillip started dressing in the closet. Now that the questions are even more embarrassing, I find myself resorting to half-truths. For instance, when Meg asked, "How did the baby get there?", I answered, "It grew from an egg. How would you like an ice cream cone?"

And when she asked, "If I grew inside you, why do I look like Daddy?", I said, "Because he gave you half your genes." I was far too busy praying that there wouldn't be a follow-up question and thanking the appropriate powers when there wasn't to notice the actual effect my answer had.

"But that night Meg asked her father, 'What did I look like when I was born?'"

"Well, you were very small, and you were screaming so hard that you were red from the tip of your nose to the tip of your toes—"

"But could you see all of me?"

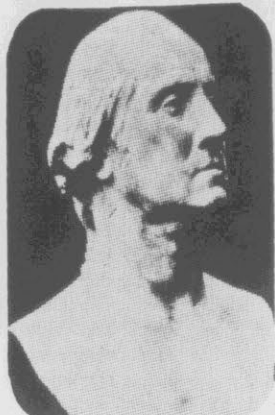

"Yes, you were naked."

"Are you sure?"

"Of course."

"Well then why," Meg said, shaking her head and sighing as if overwhelmed at the task of dealing with ignorant adults, "did Mommy say I was wearing jeans?"

Washington's First Election

February 22 traditionally marks the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the country's first president. Washington was the only U.S. president to be elected unanimously. To select the first president, each state chose electors, either by popular vote, or by a vote of the state legislature. The electors then met in New York City to vote for a president. Each elector voted for two persons. The candidate receiving the most votes became president. The candidate with the next highest number was elected vice president. Each of the 69 electors cast one vote for Washington. John Adams was named on 34 ballots, and became the country's first vice president.

Pig Capital Of Nation

Pigs may be reaching their full glory in North Carolina. Don't laugh.

There are farm experts who see our state as the pig capital of the nation, and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham says pigs is where the action is.

Our state is seventh in the nation in swine production and an N. C. swine specialist says pork production can be key in new farm income to take up slack in tobacco production.

Pig production approximately doubled from 1965 to 1978. Swine specialist David Spruill says this growth is brought about by the producers themselves... "typically young, aggressive, progressive."

Breeding and raising hogs on the farm may not be particularly glamorous, but there is a great demand for pork products in the super markets and throughout the world.

North Carolina farmers have been steadily gearing up to meet this demand, and there is every reason to expect that the trend will continue. It is another way we can keep the farm segment of our economy solvent.

Beating On George Bush

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK MANCHESTER, N.H. — The newfound political magic of George Bush has spread so persistently since his Iowa triumph that Ronald Reagan's managers privately conclude they face disaster in the Feb. 26 New Hampshire primary unless Bush is effectively portrayed as an upper-class front man for the old Nixon gang.

The question is: Who will do it? Reagan himself believes in the 11th commandment, forbidding one Republican to speak ill of another. William Loeb's Manchester Union-Leader onslaught on Bush evokes yawns. Sen. Howard Baker has begun to assault Bush but pulls punches after 13 years of senatorial politesse.

If nobody draws blood before then, Reagan must overpower Bush in the two-man debate his managers engineered. That is his last chance to avoid a defeat here that would make Bush the commanding favorite for the Republican nomination.

The conventional wisdom that Bush and Reagan are neck-and-neck is distrusted by neutral Republican politicians, who suspect steady leakage of Reagan voters. The reason: George Bush is a political phenomenon. While taking conventional conservative positions in conventional Republican prose, his enthusiasm infects his overflow audiences.

The rapport was obvious last week at a Lebanon town hall and even more intense that night before a Dartmouth College town-and-gown crowd of 1,500. When his call for a strengthened CIA produced the evening's most protracted applause, it showed how quickly students have changed. But more than rising conservatism, Bush gains from coming over as the happiest warrior since Hubert Humphrey.

Reagan's first post-Iowa response was to point up his superior conservative credentials on opposing the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), abortion and gun control. This and ringing rhetoric on pro-defense, anti-Soviet policies titillated Reagan's own hard core. But it did not stem Bush's tide.

Rep. Jack Kemp, Reagan's economic spokesman, insists the answer is to emphasize economic questions. While Reagan has embraced the Kemp-Roth tax cut, Bush distrusts current Republican tax reduction philosophy.

Reagan sounds more like Kemp than Reagan on new 30-second television spots written for him by Jeff Bell, New Jersey Senate candidate in 1978 and a Kemp acolyte. But how comfortable Reagan is in this stance is doubtful. Campaigning in New Hampshire last week, he fell back on relating details of his triumphs as governor of California. In a 15-minute luncheon speech in Merrimack, he devoted 15 seconds to tax reduction.

Nor is Jerry Carmien, the rough-and-tumble Manchester Republican who runs Reagan's campaign, enamored with Kempenomics. He had campaign staffers searching the record for anti-Bush material. They found a tiny nugget in Jules Witcover's "Marathon," a 1976 campaign book: "Everyone knowledgeable in Republican politics considered Bush incompetent to be president."

Carmien wants to brand Bush as a country club candidate whose backers went to Ivy League colleges, worked in the CIA and joined the Trilateral Commission. Most of all, he wants identification of Bush with Richard M. Nixon. Reagan operatives have tried to keep alive the decade-old story of Nixon "slush fund" contributions to him, but nobody except the Union-Leader pays

At Best, Usual Confusion

As this is written there is a little concern that the plan for freeing American hostages held in Iran is not going smoothly.

At best there is the usual confusion swirling about the negotiations.

We hope with all our hearts that things go well and the hostages will regain their rightful freedom soon.

We have to wonder, though, if the American politicians who were so anxious to take credit for getting the negotiations will take the blame if they fail.

THIS AFTERNOON How Long A Lid?

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH — The key question in the minds of economists now is whether President Jimmy Carter can keep the lid on the nation's economy long enough for inflation to feel the impact.

In this election year, pushing a federal tight money policy is not likely to be a popular political decision. Inevitably, higher interest rates and more unemployment result, and that is a recession.

No general wants to be known as the leader who deliberately set up conditions in which soldiers were sacrificed and suffering imposed. Yet no general wants to lose the war, and if in order to win the war some setbacks must be suffered first, then some leaders will make that sacrifice.

There is to monetary economists a direct link between the supply of money in circulation and the rate of inflation. It is simply the old law of supply and demand at work. If there is a lot of money and it is cheap, then there is a lot of it around and it is being spent freely; prices, therefore, soar.

Supply

The Federal Reserve Board determines the supply of money. It can, with a stroke, pour billions into circulation. Taking money out of circulation is not, however, that simple.

The action last week by the Federal Reserve Board in raising the prime rate to 13 percent is an integral part of controlling the supply of money, and the most visible one which can be widely understood by the public at large.

Already, there is considerable wailing from various sectors of the economy — principally the housing industry — that they are being hurt by the squeeze. Indeed, if the squeeze persists it will hit more than the construction industry; suppliers to that industry will be affected, automakers and sellers will be impacted, big-ticket retail items will go into a stall. The economy will begin to cool. Manufacturers, distributors, and sellers will cut back, and that means jobs lost up and down the line.

In the face of widespread dissatisfaction, then, can the Federal Reserve Board withstand the political pressure in an election year? Contrary to the popular myth, that board is not above and beyond politics. Members are part of the political process and have a vested interest in Carter's presidency, and in the Democratic Congress.

In 1979, the Fed tightened the money supply, and sure enough interest rates climbed, as did unemployment. A recession was predicted, which developed into the "Phantom Recession of 1979."

What happened? John S. Lapp, an economist at N.C. State University, put it this way: "At this point the resolve of the Federal Reserve Board... to maintain stringent monetary conditions faded away."

Weakened

The tight credit policy was not kept in effect long enough to affect the economy either way — either to create the slowdown, or to slow inflation.

By ART BUCHWALD The Talent Olympics

WASHINGTON — There is a lot more at stake in the Winter Olympics than winning gold medals for one's self and one's country. The real reason for holding the Olympics is to find new champions to do TV commercials.

While most of the world is watching the athletes for their skill and grace under pressure, there is a small group of men and women who are studying them to see if they have what it takes to do a 60-second commercial.

J. Walter Batten, who represents one of the largest advertising agencies in the United States, made me aware of this as we watched a downhill racing event on the super television screen in his den. "To me there is nothing as stirring in the world as a beautiful woman, dressed in a form-fitting stretch fabric, bent forward, plunging down a treacherous mountain, racing against the wind, risking her gorgeous neck to find the invisible red line and, finally, after getting to the bottom of the hill, ripping off her goggles, looking into the camera and saying, 'The thing we skiers worry about the most is chapped lips. Thanks to Crackproof, we don't have to worry any more.'"

"It's sheer poetry," I told Batten. "What's your favorite Winter Olympic sport?"

"It's hard to say," he replied. "There are so many of them, and they each have something to offer. For sheer danger, I guess I'm partial to the bobsled. I can never get enough of the four-man teams who, without any regard for their own safety, take the dangerous curves and straightaways at 90 miles an hour, knowing that just one mistake could send them flying off the edge in a jumble of broken bones and concussions."

"That really turns you on?" I asked.

"No. Not that part of it. What excites me is the thought of putting a camera on their sled and filming the run. Then once they reach the bottom, they all go into the ski lodge and order four steins of beer. I want them laughing and pounding each other on the shoulders and having a good time, while the music comes up and a voice-over says, 'When the race with death is done, it's nice to know the thrill is still there in a Mogen's beer.'"

"I think I'm going to cry," I told Batten. "How do you feel about figure skating?"

"It has its place, if you've got the right client. I have to monitor the figure skating this year because I want to find a couple who have grace and dazzle. What we want to do is put a Quartex watch on the woman skater, and then have her partner swing her around by her legs in an arc, force her into a flying sit-spin, then have her do a double loop and, finally, fling her across the length of the ice-rink, and have her land on her wrist. Then we'll zoom in on the watch to prove it is still working and hasn't lost a second."

ART BUCHWALD

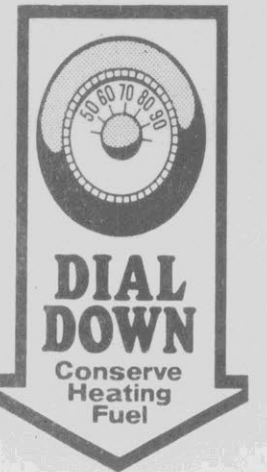

"No wonder everyone tries so hard to win a gold medal in figure skating," I said. "Do you have any interest in cross-country skiing?"

"Not really. Cross-country skiers don't sell anything for you. I don't know why the Winter Olympic Committee even bothers with them."

40 Years Ago Today

Friday, February 22, 1940 WASHINGTON — George Washington's 144-year-old "Farewell Address" read to the House today in the traditional observance of the first president's birthday, touched on at least three topics currently before the nation — trade, foreign alliances and the third term.

Public galleries were well filled, but the diplomatic gallery was vacant, although Rep. Sweeney, (D-Ohio) had invited Lord Lothian, the British ambassador to attend. Sweeney said that in view of the presence of British agents in this country "seeking to embroil our nation in the European war," it might be timely for the ambassador to hear Washington's view on foreign alliances.

Other Editors Say Planning Helps

(Henderson Dispatch)

There are those who have a serious aversion to giving thought to dying. It is a matter, of course, that no one relishes. But when an individual turns away from the thought to the extent of refusing to make plans for handling of personal affairs, the results can be doubly tragic for those left behind.

Fortunately for their families, most Americans think first about the effect of their death on their families. According to a recent survey, most are more concerned about their survivors than they are about themselves.

The concern is justified because many families are unprepared for the death of a head of household.

Fewer families would encounter problems if family members knew more about family finances, the location of important papers, properties owned and debts owed, among other things.

Both husband and wife should be able to answer the following questions, says the American Council of Life Insurance, and if they cannot they should begin now:

Can you both locate copies of last year's income tax returns?

Do you both know the kinds and amounts of life insurance your family has?

Do you both know the names of the beneficiaries and contingent beneficiaries of your life insurance policies?

Do you both have up-to-date wills? Can you both locate them, along with the name and address of your attorney?

Do you have records of each other's Social Security number?

Can you both locate important documents, such as your marriage certificate, family birth certificates?

Those are some of the basic facts needed. There are others.

The important thing is to face up to the realities, plan ahead and make the effort to keep affairs in order.

Strength For Today

THEOLOGY AND RELIGION

There is a difference between theology and religion. Theology operates from the eyebrows up; religion from the eyebrows down. They way we look upon life, the things we say, the tasks to which we set ourselves, the errands upon which our feet carry us — these are the essence of religion.

The most important factor in religion, therefore, is our daily conduct. Christianity is primarily a way of life. Jesus Christ referred to himself as "the way, and the truth, and the life." A sound theology and a daily way of life marked by unkindness, self-indulgence, and a moral compromise do not add up to true religion. It was of such people that Jesus said, "Not everyone that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven."

Christianity operates both above the eyebrows and below — but its most important area is below.

A No-Win Issue For Challenger

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy would like to change the subject — and for good reason.

A foreign policy argument with the White House at a time of international stress is, almost invariably, a no-win argument for the challenger.

President Carter demonstrated that when he rolled out all the White House artillery to rebut, and denounce, Kennedy's criticism of the way the administration has handled the Iranian hostage situation.

Later on, that issue may be one Kennedy can use to advantage; the Carter people acknowledge that once the hostages are free, the president may face criticism for letting them be seized. But not now.

Not while Carter is in a position to say that negotiations too delicate to be discussed may point to a way out for the hostages, held in Tehran since Nov. 4.

Those are the kinds of circumstances in which the White House pulpit works best and in which campaigning — which is, after all, what Carter is doing — can be cloaked in all the power of the presidency.

So at a White House news conference Feb. 14, Carter accused Kennedy of making foreign policy statements "very damaging to our country" by criticizing the way the president is dealing with Iran and Afghanistan.

Kennedy retorted that Carter policies "have deserved the national interest," and said the administration spurned an international commission as a

To the editor:

My fellow citizens, many of you have had to call on the Greenville Rescue Squad to help someone you love. Now, as a former member of the squad, I am calling on each respectable citizen to help us. We, the volunteers, see a need to help our fellow men, no matter what the cost. We all know the dangers involved, but we care enough to go that extra mile to save a life. Now the honorable mayor, city manager and fire chief have said we are no longer needed.

How I wish I had a tape recorder a few days ago when a person drowned in the Tar River. Personnel called for extra manpower, but the Fire Department dispatcher came back with, "There's no one else we can send." So now tell us we are no longer needed.

As a registered Emergency Medical Technician with the State of North Carolina, let me present some facts: According to the American Trauma Society, more than 100,000 Americans die each year from trauma — injury or injuries. More people lose their lives to trauma each year than soldiers were killed in Vietnam. It's America's third-leading killer, following cardiovascular disease and cancer. Trauma causes more deaths of Americans under 45. These are sad numbers, because numbers represent people. But the sadder fact is that half could have been prevented. The first 60 minutes after a serious injury often determines if the victim lives or dies.

It's sad knowing a few people with power can wipe out a group of concerned citizens. We are talking about saving lives. Some of the paid personnel have put their jobs on the line talking to news media. They're more concerned about you than their jobs. I urge everyone to unite to try to save the Rescue Squad. Our elected officials have let us down. It's time to stand and fight. Remember, your life may depend on it one day.

Big N.C. Windmill Doesn't Work

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — At first, the skeptics grimly predicted the $3.5-million-windmill atop Howard's Knob wouldn't work.

And, now, much to the glee of the non-believers, the 2,000-kilowatt, 200-foot-diameter electricity-generating wind machine is living up to the expectations.

The fact of the matter is that the pet wind project of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hasn't worked much since it was inaugurated last July.

But, insists John Collins, who is overseeing the project for NASA, the project does work. It is simply a matter of tracking down various and sundry problems within the system.

"It's like when you buy a new car from a dealer," Collins said. "You have 18 to 20 complaints about it in the first 6,000 miles."

The machine is controlled by computer both at the site and by remote control from Blue Ridge Electric Membership Corp.'s headquarters in Lenoir. A computer is also used to extract data about the performance and power output of the machine.

Collins said a faulty computer system was at the heart of the windmill's problems, but tracking down each thing that was wrong was like "hunting for ghosts." He said engineers have found poorly soldered joints, bad cables and so many other flaws, the search would take "untold time and money."

NASA plans to begin "utility training" of Blue Ridge operators next week on how to operate the windmill by remote computer control, with hopes of turning the entire operation over to the company in April or May.

Meanwhile, if the windmill hasn't generated any electricity for Boone residents, it has churned up an abundance of emotion, much of which has been channeled into the formation of a new cult. The cult is the Pangalactic Unification Church and Restaurant, and its members are the Wooshies — so named because of the "woosh, woosh, woosh" of the windmill when it turns.

Wooshies came into being through a film, made by Kenn Hochstetler and John Fairweather of Boone, that was a spoof on the windmill. The videotape includes man-on-the-street interviews and footage of Wooshies worshipping the windmill.

The film gave rise to Wooshie bumper stickers and windmill buttons, all of which reveal in a lighthearted way how the residents of Boone feel about the windmill, the films' producers say.

"Most people in Boone feel that the windmill is a white elephant," they said. "The Wooshies is a way of poking fun at the windmill in the same way that the mountaineer makes fun of the flatlander."

WISHFUL THINKING — Now that the United States is officially boycotting the 1980 summer olympics in Moscow, some people in this country have ideas of their own. Perhaps the advertising company that had this billboard put up in Wilmington, N.C. was just doing some wishful thinking and dreaming of gold. The tongue-in-cheek message is on Oleander Drive in the port city of Wilmington. (AP Laserphoto)

Two Ways To Listen

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's campaign chief Joe Grimsley has advised state employees that if they listen to Hunt, they can do it on their own time.

But Grimsley says that if employees listen to Bob Scott, who is challenging Hunt for the Democratic nomination for governor, they must do it on their own time.

Grimsley delivered the message by telephone Wednesday afternoon to Arch Laney, executive director of the N.C. State Government Employees Association Inc.

The group has invited candidates to speak to its legislative committee today.

Laney said Grimsley explained that since Scott was appearing as a candidate, any state employees who took time to hear him would have to take annual leave.

Warns On Tax Protest

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The president of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners warned Thursday that taxpayers are organizing in about 20 counties to protest rising property taxes.

Albert R. McMillan of Scotland County told the Legislature's social services study commission that such concern is becoming a "citizen revolt."

He said state government must foot more of the bill for public assistance programs, especially Medicaid, which he said is the biggest burden on county governments.

McMillan also urged the commission to investigate ways the state's budgeting schedule could be moved to give counties more advance notice of programs they would be required to fund.

Rejects Motion On Insurance

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has rejected a motion by North Carolina officials to block car insurance surcharges that are scheduled to take effect March 1.

The action, according to state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, means that drivers will pay an additional $35 million a year.

The action came as part of a still-pending lawsuit in which the state is challenging the legality of the surcharges.

In his ruling, Judge E. Maurice Braswell of Fayetteville rejected the state's request for a preliminary injunction to block the surcharges, pending resolution of the suit.

Braswell said he had serious doubts that the state would succeed in its suit and agreed with industry attorneys that surcharges were not rates as defined by state law.

In its suit, the state attorney general's office contended the surcharges were rates and could not take effect without first being reviewed by the insurance commissioner.

The surcharges amount to 18.6 percent for drivers assigned to the N.C. Reinsurance Facility and 1.1 percent for all drivers.

Expects To Appeal Ruling

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The city of Asheville is expected to appeal a ruling by the state Court of Appeals that proceeds from parking fines collected in the city must be used to maintain the county's public schools.

The ruling, handed down Tuesday, is expected to affect cities across the state. However, city officials say they are confident the N.C. Supreme Court will be asked to review the decision.

A class-action suit filed in 1977 charged that the city "misapplied" money received from parking fines. The suit contended that under the state constitution, all fines for parking violations are to be turned over to public schools for their maintenance.

threatens to cause any economic disruption ... the Federal Reserve is accused of going too far and is encouraged to reverse itself.

"Unfortunately, an economic system suffers the negative effects of tight money before it begins to enjoy the benefits ... In short, the policy must force the economy into or near to a recession before inflation is affected to any significant degree," Lapp explains.

Does last week's action establish the pattern of keeping the lid on long enough to affect inflation, or will the resolve of the Federal Reserve Board weaken once again?

Lapp sets forth this scenario for 1980: slightly tighter credit will cause some slowdown which will eventually lessen inflation. The accompanying recession is not expected to be deep or severe. Inflation will continue through the year, but may slow toward the end of the year. The outlook isn't pleasant, Lapp says, but if the lid remains on, there is hope of eventual progress in the fight against inflation.

Cigarette Tax Hike May Eliminate Jobs

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A group representing the tobacco industry warned Thursday that a proposed increase in North Carolina's cigarette tax would jeopardize thousands of jobs and result ultimately in higher taxes.

Billy Yeargin, director of the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee Inc., said many of the 270,000 workers involved in tobacco production in North Carolina would be affected by the proposal.

Earlier this week, the Raleigh-based North Carolina Consumer Council proposed the tax hike of at least 5 cents per pack of cigarettes. The current tax is 2 cents a pack.

The measure would be an effort to offset other excise taxes.

"For every 10 percent decrease in tobacco consumption nationwide," Yeargin said, "North Carolina suffers a loss of about $1 billion in taxes, land values, sales of farm equipment, fertilizer, chemicals, manufacturing, warehouse sales and main street downtown."

He said that when cigarette taxes were raised in 1969, there were 19 other states and the District of Columbia who followed suit.

"It cost our farmers about 38 million pounds of tobacco demand over the following year," he said. "That is the precedent set in this issue, and we feel that it's quite obvious that if North Carolina, the flagship state for tobacco, sees fit to raise its taxes, then other states will follow through with their own tax increases."

Yeargin also denounced a resolution by the consumer council's board of directors calling for an extensive education program by the state Department of Agriculture to induce farmers to plant crops other than tobacco.

"There are no other crops that North Carolina could grow that would compete with the dollar value of tobacco," Yeargin said. "It would take 40 to 42 million acres of peanuts to return the dollar value that tobacco returns in this state."

Fired Nurses File $2.56 Million Suit

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A $2.56 million damage suit has been filed against Wake Medical Center by two nurses who were fired because they allegedly failed to treat the wife of a utility company executive.

Arlene Lulavage, 27, and Jayne M. Bryant, 31, filed the suit Thursday, contending their "reputations for integrity and patient care as nurses have been impaired, affecting their standing in their professions."

The two nurses were dismissed from their jobs at Wake Medical Center Jan. 21 for allegedly refusing to give medical treatment to Helen Harris wife of W. Shearon Harris, chairman of the board of Carolina Power and Light Co.

Hospital officials said the women refused to give treatment because of their opposition to nuclear power. Both women live near the Wake County construction site of CP&L's Shearon Harris nuclear-generating plant.

The two nurses denied the accusations and said comments they made before Mrs. Harris arrived at the hospital's emergency room for treatment of a bruised elbow were misunderstood.

The women have asked for $750,000 each in exemplary and punitive damages. In addition, the suit seeks $475,000 for Mrs. Lulavage, based on her annual salary of $12,500 over an estimated working lifetime of 38-years. Mrs. Bryant seeks $382,500 for 31 years as a salary of $11,250.

Each of the women also asks an additional $100,000 in other damages.

The lawsuit charges that Mrs. Lulavage and Ms. Bryant "were punished for the exercise of their First Amendment rights of free speech, that they were terminated without a hearing in violation of their right to the due process of law under the N.C. and U.S. Constitutions."

"The plaintiffs have suffered great embarrassment, humiliation and mental anguish," the suit said.

The suit maintains that the women were concerned about their treating Mrs. Harris because of their well-known opposition to the CP&L nuclear plant. It said Mrs. Lulavage, who was in charge of assigning patients to nurses, gave Mrs. Harris' medical charts to another nurse.

William F. Andrews, president of the hospital, said in a prepared statement, "In these times all hospitals must be concerned about professional conduct of all employees. We are disappointed that these two women did not exhibit professional conduct in their professional duties."

FOREST CITY, N.C. (AP) — Siamese twin girls Fonda Michelle and Shannon Elaine Beaver, born nearly two weeks ago to a Rutherford County couple, have gone home with their parents.

The infant twins left Mission Memorial Hospital in Asheville Thursday and went to the home of their parents, Kim and Arlin Beaver of Forest City.

The infant girls had been undergoing tests since being transferred to the Asheville hospital following their birth in Rutherfordton on Feb. 9.

Palestinian, Israeli Exchange Of Prisoners Carried Out

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two Palestinians and an Israeli woman were exchanged today on Cyprus and flown to undisclosed destinations in a tightly-guarded prisoner swap monitored by the International Red Cross, a Cypriot government statement said.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli government said two Palestinian guerrillas had been swapped for a woman doctor who had been accused of working for Israeli intelligence by Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon.

The Israelis refused to give details of the exchange and would not say whether the woman, who had been held in Lebanon, was an Israeli. The statement said the freed Palestistinians had "almost completed" prison terms, but did not say what they were charged with.

The exchange took place at the Mediterranean island's Larnaca Airport, which was guarded by Greek Cypriot troops and police. Reporters were alerted to it by the unusual security at the airport. They were barred from the area by armed security men.

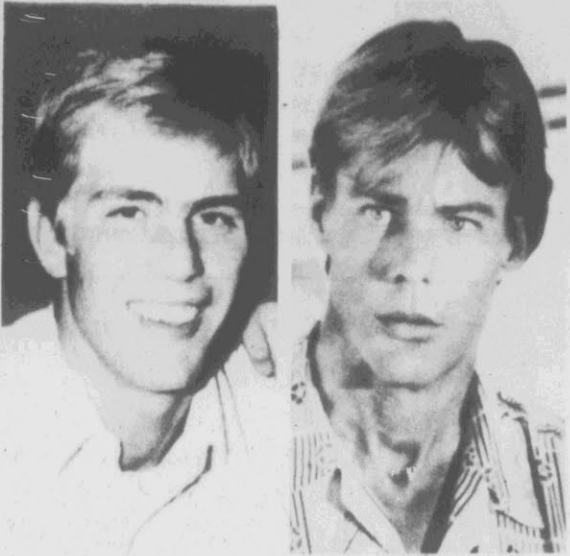

The Cypriot announcement gave no other details. The first official Israeli-Palestinian prisoner exchange took place last March 14 in Geneva, Switzerland when 66 Palestinian guerrillas were traded for an Israeli army reservist. At the same time, 10 other Palestinians were released by Israeli authorities in the occupied territories, bringing the total number of Arabs freed to 76.

At that time, Israel said it agreed to the unusual swap with the Palestinians because the Israeli, 34-year-old Avraham Amram, was captured by guerrillas while on an unauthorized sightseeing jaunt in southern Lebanon during the Israeli occupation of the region in 1978.

Amram was returned to Tel Aviv and the 66 Palestinians were flown to Libya.

PROBLEMS FOR TWO — Steve Ford (left) son of former President Gerald Ford, has been named in a paternity suit in Orange County, Calif. Superior Court. A spokesman read a statement Thursday for the former president that if "fatherhood is determined by tests, Steve is fully and willingly prepared to assume his parental responsibilities. Jan-Michael Vicent, actor (right), has had charges of growing marijuana dismissed but pleaded guilty to a charge of possession. (AP Laserphoto)

Group Wants 200 Whales

TOKYO (AP) — The director of the Greenpeace Foundation conservationist group has offered to pay $850 for some 200 whales caught by Japanese fishermen who don't know what to do with them.

The fishermen in the village of Taiji in central Japan, 270 miles southwest of Tokyo, rounded up the whales Wednesday because they were encroaching on nearby fishing grounds.

Normally the whales would be butchered since their meat is considered a delicacy here. But the fishermen refuse to touch them, saying they have never before seen this species of whale. Each mammal measures about 10 feet.

Greenpeace director John Frizell said he made an offer as a "goodwill gesture." He said he was trying to save the whales from being "ground up into fertilizer or killed for their oil."

Japan's semi-government broadcast network, NHK, reported they would be killed and used to feed zoo animals. A spokesman for the fishermen declined comment.

Three Accidents Listed

An estimated $5,100 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:50 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, at the Belvoir Highway intersection, involving cars driven by Theodore Thomas Taylor of Tarboro, and William Joseph Powell of 1222 Battle St., and a truck operated by Robert Franklin Pollard of Route 1, Pinetops.

Damage from the mishap was set at $1,000 to the Taylor car, $1,500 to the Powell auto, and $100 to the truck.

Investigators reported a car driven by Charles James Daniels and a truck operated by Luther Lee Barrett of 413B Hudson St. collided about 5:05 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Ford Streets, causing $1,200 damage to the Daniels car and $500 damage to the Barrett truck.

An estimated $400 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 3:08 p.m. collision on N.C. 11 at the entrance to Carolina East Mall.

Police identified the drivers involved as Kenneth Keys of Ayden, and Teresa White of Farmville.

ECU AFROTC Unit Hosting Convention

The General Chennault Squadron of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corp Unit at ECU is host this weekend to 150 people from ten universities in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C.

The event is an area convention for Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight members who are gathering here Friday night and Saturday to support AFROTC through an open exchange of ideas. Members will also discuss the year's activities and events and plan for the coming year.

The conclave includes business meetings, presentations of awards for the most active and professional unit, a disco, a Dining In and a Military Ball. Guest speaker at the formal Dining In this year is Capt. Mary E. Donahue of Goldsboro who was among the first group of female pilots trained in the Air Force. She was named as an outstanding young woman of North Carolina in 1979.

Music for the Military Ball will be provided by a seven-piece combo from the Air Force Stage Band from Langley Air Force Base in Hampton, Va.

Will Trace Black History

Program Director for Mendenhall Student Center Kenneth Hammond will trace the history of the black man during the afternoon session of the Black Arts Festival at Carver Branch Library on Saturday.

The program is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will feature activities for children during the morning and for adults during the afternoon. Other highlights of the program include storytelling, films, music, poetry selections and a black art exhibit.

The public is invited to attend this festival.

Charged On Three Counts

James Terry Jackson, 30 of Fitzgerald, Ga., was arrested early today on charges of assault on a female, damage to real property, and trespassing, in connection with a 12:20 a.m. incident on Pitt Street.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Jackson allegedly assaulted Gloria Brown of 1211A South Pitt St.

He explained that Ms. Brown, earlier in the night, had ordered Jackson from her home. Jackson, the chief said, allegedly returned, and broke down a door, causing Ms. Brown to run from the dwelling.

Cannon said Jackson allegedly chased Ms. Brown across a porch at 406 West 13th St., breaking down a post supporting the porch, then allegedly assaulted her near the Pitt Street-13th Street intersection.

Pogo-For-President Platform Outlined

SPIVEY'S CORNER, N. C. (AP) — Presidential candidate Pogo says Possums have been second-class citizens long enough.

"If elected, one of the first things I intend to do is to ask Congress to go to work on my proposed PRA (Possums' Rights Amendment)," Pogo said during a whirlwind nine-state campaign tour this week.

The candidate, who is unchallenged for the Possum Party's presidential nomination, was accompanied on the tour by his campaign director, O'P, of Spivey's Corner.

Pogo told audiences in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana that during his travels throughout the country, he saw plenty of cattle and deer-crossing signs.

"But, how many possum crossing signs did I see? Not the first," Pogo said, hastening to point out that he is not a special-interest candidate.

Pogo became a formidable contender in the presidential race earlier this month when Spivey's Corner — home of the National Hollerin' Contest, self-proclaimed possum capital of the country and would-be site of the Summer Olympic games — threw its weight behind Pogo's campaign.

O'P had earlier announced the first plank of Pogo's platform as "black-eyed peas and a pot in every kitchen." The full platform will be officially outlined at the national convention in Spivey's Corner this summer, O'P said.

"There were numerous reasons we feel Jerry deserves the honor," states Superintendent Glenn Cox. "Among them is the excellent and prompt coverage of all board meetings: informational, regular and called meetings in such a manner that reflects an interest over and above that ordinarily associated with a newspaper."

The School Bell Awards Committee, comprised of representatives of business, industry, education, and public relations practitioners will select the state winners.

Winners will be notified immediately following the judging and awards will be presented at the North Carolina Association of Educators' annual meeting to be held in Greensboro on March 28.

Heiden Set To Try For Fifth Gold

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — It's four gold medals down and one to go for speed skating superstar Eric Heiden, who continues to rewrite the Olympic record book with bold, broad strokes that have turned these Winter Games into a salute to his individual brilliance.

They have become the Heiden Olympics, unquestionably dominated by the long, lean 21-year-old from Madison, Wis., the first man in history to win four golds in a single Winter Games.

By himself, Eric has matched the best gold medal production any entire American team has managed in the Winter Olympics since the United States won six events in the 1932 Games — the last time Lake Placid served as host. Only once since then — in 1952 at Oslo — has America won as many as four winter golds and now Heiden has done that all alone.

And he still has one more race to go.

Heiden's latest gold came in Thursday's 1,500 meter race when he was timed in a record

1 minute, 55.44 seconds. That followed victories at 500, 1,000 and 5,000 meters. All that remains is the 10,000 meter race on Saturday and you know who the favorite is in that one.

Two Norwegians, Kai Arne Stenshjemmet and Terje Andersen, finished 2-3 behind Heiden in the 1,500, timed in 1:56.81 and 1:56.92 respectively. That silver and bronze combined with a third place bronze medal in women's 4 x 5 kilometer cross country relay race gave Norway nine medals for the Games and third place in the overall standings.

East Germany took the gold in the cross country race and added a silver from Jan Hoffmann in the men's figure skating and moved in front of the Soviet Union in the medal race 19-18. The Russians, second in the cross country, still lead in golds 8-7.

Heiden's gold was the seventh speed skating medal won by the United States and Charlie Tickner's figure skating bronze gave the United States a total of eight medals for the Games. America won 11 medals at the 1976 Games at Innsbruck, but only three of them were gold.

Tiny Liechtenstein claimed its first Olympic gold ever and third skiing medal of these Games when Hanni Wenzel won the women's giant slalom. The silver went to Irene Epple of West Germany and France's Perrine Pelen claimed the bronze by the narrowest of margins — one one-hundredth of a second ahead of teammate Fabienne Serrat.

The men's figure skating crown was won by Robin Cousins of Britain who overtook Hoffman in the Thursday night's free skating portion of his program. Tickner, third after the compulsories and short program, remained third for the bronze.

Earlier, world champion Linda Fratianne of the United States put on a dazzling short free style program to take over second place in the ladies figure skating competition. She trails East Germany's Annet Potzsch halfway through the event with Dagmar Lurz of West Germany third. The gold medal will be decided in the long freestyle program Saturday night.

Tonight, the ambitious, unbeaten United States hockey team moves into the medal showdown portion of its tournament, facing the defending champion Soviet Union. Finland plays Sweden in the other medal round game.

The Americans are seeking their first hockey medal since 1972 and with four victories and a tie so far, they have done almost as well on their ice as Heiden has on his in these Games. For the United States, it has been all hockey and Heiden at Lake Placid.

"It was not as hard as I thought it would be," Heiden said of his latest gold. "To tell you the truth, I feel pretty good."

And he looked good, too, despite a near-slip on the third turn that sent a gasp through the crowd. His right hand touched the ice, but he regained his balance in an instant and zoomed on to the victory.

"I think there is a rut in the ice and I really didn't step in it, but just the pressure from my left foot going around the turn broke the ice and I fell into it," he said. "I came pretty close to falling and I had to put my arm down, but it didn't sit in my mind too long after that. It passed pretty quick and I was able to concentrate on the race again."

The fourth gold tied him for the individual Winter Olympic record set by Russian speed skater Lydia Skoblikova in 1964. No athlete has ever won five. Will that mean extra pressure Saturday when he goes for No. 5?

"If I skate well, I'll be happy," he said. "If I skate poorly, I'll be upset. It really doesn't matter whether I win or lose, just as long as I do my best."

Wenzel, who had won a silver medal in the downhill, captured Liechtenstein's first-ever gold with a 1:27.33 second run, third fastest of the day, for a two-hour total of 2:41.66. Epple's two-run total was 2:42.12 for the silver and Pelen took the bronze in 2:42.14, a bare one-hundredth of a second ahead of Serrat. Christin Cooper was the top American finisher, seventh in 2:44.71.

Serrat was bitter about her medal near-miss.

"This is the fourth time in big races I have been behind her (Pelen) by hundredths of a second, and I don't like it," said Serrat, the frustration spilling over into tears. "We're always together and I'm always second."

Second was where the Soviet Union found itself in the women's 4 x 5 kilometer cross country ski relay, beaten convincingly by the young East German unit, which was timed in 1:02:11.10. The Russians were timed in 1:03:18.20 and Norway clocked 1:04:13.50 for the bronze.

The United States team of Alison Owen-Spencer, Beth Paxson, Leslie Bancroft and Lynn Spencer finished seventh in 1:06:55.41.

Meanwhile, American Vice President Walter Mondale, speaking in St. Paul, Minn. said the United States shortly would announce a site for an alternate Summer Olympics for countries to choose not to participate in the Moscow Games because of Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Tech Gets A Victory

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech counts heavily on the dynamic duo of Brook Stepe and Lenny Horton, and when the two play well, the Yellow Jackets can win.

Steppe and Horton combined for 45 points and 22 rebounds Thursday night to lead Georgia Tech to a 67-52 college basketball victory over West Virginia Tech.

The nonconference victory, Georgia Tech's last regular season game before the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, boosted the Jackets' record to 8-17. Tech is last in the ACC with a 1-13 record.

The game was the only one involving an ACC team Thursday night.

Steppe led all players with 24 points and 12 rebounds, while Horton scored 21 and pulled down 10 rebounds.

West Virginia Tech, now 14-12, was led by Jack McClinton and freshman Sedale Threatt, each of whom scored 10 points.

Kerry O'Brien's layup with 11:11 remaining in the first half gave the Yellow Jackets an 18-16 lead which they never relinquished.

The Jackets led the Golden Bears 35-30 at halftime and Tech Coach Dwayne Morrison pulled all five starters with three minutes left to play.

Woody Peeler

The average rookie in the National Football team seldom gets to see action. Fewer become the top Specialty Team Player, and even fewer get to play in the Super Bowl.

But for East Carolina's Zack Valentine, it all came together this past year.

The former defensive end from Edenton not only made the World Champion Pittsburgh Steeler lineup as a reserve linebacker, he became the specialty team's top tackler and was named the top player on that unit at season's end. Then, he got to play in the Super Bowl and collect that extra playoff money, not to mention a World Championship ring.

"I was really fortunate to be on the type of team that could get to the Super Bowl," Valentine said.

Valentine, who saw some action occasionally on defense, looks for more playing time in the 1980 season. "I think I'll play a more. I'll probably be the fourth linebacker when they get to a blitzing defense. I'll have more chance to play since I've got a year's experience now."

Generally, the rookies get cold stares from the vets in training camp, but once the newcomer makes the team he gets help from those veterans, and Valentine says the Steeler veterans were a big help to him. "About the only ones who don't give you help in preseason are the ones you are competing against," Zack said, "but since this is more of a business than a sport, they help when you make it."

One of the more visible Steelers of late has been "Mean" Joe Green thanks to an award-winning soft drink commercial. Valentine admits that Green's real character is just like that shown in the ad. "It tells everything about him. He'll help anybody. He's been up there long enough to know what's going on. In fact, sometimes he can call out what play the offense is going to run against us. L.C. (Greenwood) can do it too."

Valentine said that the most difficult thing he had to do was to learn the technique of playing linebacker in the Steeler scheme. "We don't step toward the tight end or blocker, but move laterally. That was my biggest problem in switching to linebacker from defensive end. Then, too, you have to learn to drop back on passing downs.

"You learn two to four defenses a day during practice, and you've got to be able to use them when you hit the field. It's how quickly you learn and apply what you learn that determines whether you stick."

Valentine said he was happy with his playing time this past year. "I might have played more with another team, but at Pittsburgh, and with the caliber of linebackers they have, I guess I was fortunate."

And Valentine did make a good impression on Coach Chuck Noll. "He coaches the specialty teams and he praised me a number of times. They feel like if you can play on the specialty teams and do well, you can play anywhere. Everyone on the team has played on the specialty team before moving up."

There, Zack did well. As the leading tackler, he was awarded the game ball following a Steeler win over Buffalo. That came as his award for being selected as Specialty Team Player of the Year.

Valentine recently became engaged to Rosie Thompson, the star of the ECU women's basketball team, but the couple haven't set a date as yet.

Rosie is thinking of trying a pro basketball career in the women's league next season, and the two want to wait and see what happens there.

Could be this time next year, both could be in the pro ranks.

Iona Stuns Louisville In 77-60 Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — The Louisville Cardinals have been pressing teams into submission all season, but they weren't such tough birds against the Iona Gaels.

In fact, the Gaels turned the usually troublesome defensive maneuver to their own advantage Thursday night in upsetting the nation's second-ranked college basketball team 77-60.

"We worked on their press a long time and it paid off," said Kevin Hamilton, who scored 20 points for Iona. "The coaches did a great job preparing us.

We weren't afraid of their press. We attacked it well. We tried to score on it where other teams haven't. We knew we could score on them."

Piercing the Cardinal defense with elan, the Gaels got the ball inside to center Jeff Ruland enough times to offset a marvelous 32-point performance by Louisville guard Darrell Griffith. Ruland scored 30 points and grabbed 21 rebounds, thoroughly dominating inside play.

The upset followed a predictable 105-89 victory for top-ranked DePaul over Wagner in the first game of a double-header at Madison Square Garden.

"Our strategy was to control the tempo," said Iona Coach Jim Valvano, "and we did that well enough. We didn't give them transition baskets. We can't play a transition game with Louisville. They have super quickness."

The New York-area team led the Metro Conference regular-season champions most of the way, holding a 39-36 advantage at the half and then pulling away shortly after intermission with Hamilton and Ruland the dominating figures.

Hamilton scored eight of his points with outside shots to lead Iona to a 53-42 lead after five minutes of the second half. The rest of the night belonged to Ruland, who scored 14 of his points in the final 15 minutes as the Gaels pulled away to their biggest lead of the night at the buzzer.

The loss, incidentally, stopped an 18-game winning streak for Louisville, 25-3. The Gaels, 24-4, extended their current winning streak to 12.

The opener held few surprises, once DePaul got untracked against Wagner, 14-11, midway through the first half with an 11-point spurt keyed by Mark Aguirre's seven points. The Blue Demons led 53-37 at the half and rolled up their lead to as many as 24 points with 12:15 left.

Skip Dillard and Terry Cummings had 25 points each and Aguirre finished with 24 as unbeaten DePaul won its 24th game this season and 25th in a row over two years.

"It was kind of tough getting up for this game," admitted Aguirre. "But we adjusted to it. We play tougher against the tougher teams. But playing in the Garden helped."

Added the DePaul swingman, "Man for man, we match up with anybody in the country. It's a matter of pride now to win."

DeWayne Scates capped a 32-point performance with two free throws with 15 seconds remaining to help LSU beat Mississippi. Kelvin Ransey scored 20 points, triggering Ohio State past Northwestern.

Devin Durrant's 31 points paced BYU's runaway triumph over Colorado State. Michigan's Keith Smith scored all 13 of his points in the second half to spark the Wolverines' upset of Purdue.

Martin Joins Finley As Oakland Manager

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Martin, dismayed at the prospect of sitting on the sidelines "even for a couple of months," has accepted the managerial reins of the Oakland A's.

"I don't want to watch my baseball over a television set or from the stands," said Martin, fired as New York Yankees manager by club owner George Steinbrenner last October after Billy was involved in a fight with a marshall salesman.

"I want to be on the field," Martin added. "I love baseball. I wouldn't enjoy the summer without baseball."

"I could have waited, maybe a couple of months, and other jobs would open. But Charlie Finley has given me a great opportunity. It's a young club, and I enjoy working with kids."

Martin, 51, has had success both as a player and a manager, but the main question now is whether he will get along with A's owner Charles O. Finley.

Finley put together five division and three World Series championship teams at Oakland before the free-agent draft stripped him of his stars.

What if the volatile Finley decides to dictate to the quicktempered Martin as he has with former managers?

"As owner and general manager of the club, Charlie has a voice in everything," said Martin. "On the field, it's my ballgame, my cup of tea."

"If he calls on the phone to the dugout, I'll rip the phone out," said Martin. "That's what I did when George Steinbrenner called."

Martin, who had two years remaining on his contract with the Yankees, said he agreed to a settlement with the Yankees and signed a new, two-year contract with the A's. Terms were not revealed.

Martin and Finley appeared together Thursday at a news conference.

Finley said that he had hired Martin because "he's the best man available. Billy has knowledge of the game. He plays aggressively. He expects his players to put out 100 percent. When you have knowledge and use it aggressively, you turn out to be a winner."

"He's been there as a successful player and he's been there as a successful manager."

Martin will be Finley's 11th field boss in 13 seasons. It will be the sixth tour of duty as a manager for Martin, who has piloted the Minnesota Twins, Tigers, Rangers and Yankees.

He resigned as manager of the Yankees during the 1978 season after calling Steinbrenner a "convicted liar." He was replaced by Bob Lemon who guided the club to its second consecutive World Series triumph.

Steinbrenner later agreed to bring Martin back as manager after the 1980 season, but discarded the timetable last summer and brought Martin back to replace Lemon, who had watched the team get off to a bad start. The Yankees eventually finished 13½ games off the pace set by American League East champion Baltimore.

Martin's yearly salary with the A's reportedly will be $125,000. He reportedly also received a settlement from Steinbrenner on the remaining portion of his Yankees' contract.

Weiskopf Looks For New Advice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the pressure increasing from the young lions of the professional golfing tour, Tom Weiskopf decided the time had come to seek advice.

He looked up Ken Venturi, who had helped him before, and the former U.S. Open champion made several suggestions, including one that the 6-foot-3 Weiskopf take a lower stance.

"Sometimes you forget your faults unless you have someone as a mirror to reflect them," said the 37-year-old Weiskopf, a veteran of 15 years on the PGA tour, after taking the first round lead in the $250,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

Weiskopf, who hasn't won since March, 1978, fired a 4-under-par 67 over the Riviera Country Club course. Right on his heels at 68 came Bobby Walzel and Stan Lee.

At 69 were Tom Watson, Calvin Peete, Johnny Miller, Allen Tapie, Bobby Wadkins, Don January and Danny Edwards.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 2-22

W M E E I V S U M H T R W M Y T - S V R T W
I V S U M J Y I M S T H M E

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — STICKY PANCAKES STAINED DAINTY NAPKINS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: V equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury:
"The facts of the case are not at issue. No one quibbles about the bidding of my client, Mr. South. His double was eminently correct, since a balancing bid of one no trump can be made on as few as 11-15 points. And the final contract was sound!"

"The facts of the play are also not in dispute. My client was nothing but the victim of bad luck. He won the ace of spades, cashed the king of clubs and the ace and king of diamonds. Both defenders followed to these tricks.

Team Prepares Climb Everest

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese climbing team, that will make the first assault on Mount Everest by foreigners from the Chinese side since it was closed in 1949, hopes also to recover a body sighted on the slopes which may be that of a Briton who vanished during an unsuccessful climb in 1924.

Yoshinori Hasegawa, a member of the expedition, said the body may be that of famed British mountaineer Herbert Mallory, who was lost during his third attempt to climb the world's highest peak.

Hasegawa said he was told by a Chinese climber last year that the "body of an Englishman" had been spotted by a Chinese team, which was unable to recover it. The communists barred foreigners from the Chinese approach to Everest after they seized power in 1949.

Tito On Kidney Machine

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito's doctors said today that an artificial kidney machine was being used to keep Yugoslavia's 87-year-old leader alive. "Owing to the weakened function of the kidneys, hemodialysis has been successfully implemented in the past few days," the medical bulletin said.

Flue-Cured Tobacco Agency in Top Shape

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Downstalk is tobacco from the lower part of the stalk, used primarily as filler material in cigarettes because it has little flavor or aroma. While there is always a demand for the leaf, downstalk production in the late 1970s was about twice as much as the market could stand, Bond said. A large unsold inventory of downstalk could force the cooperative to default on its government loans, thus threatening the program. Bond said one of the major problems with downstalk was that as tobacco prices go up each year, it becomes increasingly harder to sell supplies on hand at competitive rates. But, because little downstalk was marketed in 1979, he said, companies were unable to fill their orders and the cooperative was able to sell substantial amounts of that leaf. At the beginning of 1980, downstalk accounted for 26.5 percent of the 547 million pounds of tobacco in the cooperative's inventory.

Animal Control Is Goal

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that "it is our goal to provide the best animal control services available. However, in order to effectively handle this responsibility, public support will be needed." According to the chief, the city's animal control operation was placed under the supervision of the Police Department on February 4. "This operation transfer is still in the transition period, and patience, understanding and support will be most appreciated," he added. Cannon explained, "all calls or complaints regarding animal control should be routed through the Police Department's non-emergency telephone, 752-3342. "Operating hours for the Animal Shelter, and the city's animal control officers, are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Animal control officers," Cannon noted, "will answer all calls during these times." In the event, "you have a complaint at any other time of the day, or on weekends," the chief said, "the police department will take the information and give the report to an animal control officer for investigation." In the event of an emergency call, such as a vicious or mad dog, or a person being bitten by a dog, Cannon said, "an animal control officer will be called to immediately investigate the complaint." The city's animal control ordinance specifically governs the control of animals and regulates the entire animal control operation, the official explained. Cannon emphasized that among other things, the ordinance requires that, "dogs be...restrained by a chain or leash...," when off an owner's premises. "Enforcement of this ordinance is the responsibility of the animal control officers, as well as the Police Department," according to the chief.

function smoothly without the president if necessary. A government spokesman said Thursday that Tito's condition had become so grave he could not even sign messages he had earlier approved for transmission to foreign leaders. Spokesman Mirko Kalezic told the national news agency Tanjug that Koliševski, who is vice president of the nine-man collective state presidency, had relayed messages of his own along with some from Tito to the ambassadors of the United States, the Soviet Union, Cuba and Guinea. Tanjug said the Tito messages expressed the Yugoslav leaders' concern about world problems and the decline of détente. Their wording reflected official Yugoslav concern over the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan and East-West tensions over European arms arrangements, it said without elaboration. Another message from Tito to Indian leader Indira Gandhi was to be delivered by Yugoslav Foreign Minister Josip Vrhovec on a visit to her country. But his trip to India and three other Asian countries was canceled last week because of Tito's illness and no new date for the trip has been disclosed.

May Try To Close Major Power Plant

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Members of the United Mine Workers say they may try to close one of the Tennessee Valley Authority's largest power plants because TVA canceled a contract with the mine where they work. TVA officials said here Thursday night they will seek bids within the next two months from small, primarily non-union operators to supply a portion of the coal supply for the government, utility's Paradise power plant in Muhlenberg County in western Kentucky. The bid invitations to the non-union producers will go out just four months after TVA canceled one of its contracts with a unionized Peabody Coal Co. underground mine adjacent to the power plant. UMW District 23 President Tom Gaston said Peabody already has laid off 55 of the mine's 328 miners because the company has not been able to find another market for the polluting high-sulfur coal. Gaston was among about 50 UMW District 23 members who attended a meeting Thursday night of the three-member TVA Board of Directors at Hopkinsville Community College. Bob Hendrix, financial secretary for UMW Local 1178, accused TVA of canceling the contract to buy nonunion coal. "Why is an agency of the federal government engaging in union-busting tactics?" he asked. TVA Chairman S. David Freeman said seeking coal from small producers had nothing to do with canceling the Peabody contract. He accused Peabody officials of falsely claiming the two actions are related. "We would have canceled the Peabody contract regardless, simply because their price was too high," Freeman said. "It might occur to you that your problem is with Peabody and its management." Peabody, one of the nation's largest coal producers and a company that TVA briefly tried to buy six years ago, operates two mines, one on the surface and the other underground in Muhlenberg County. Both supply Paradise. Under a provision allowing such actions, TVA canceled its contract with the underground mine in December when Peabody said it was using an escalation clause to raise the price from $20 to $26 a ton. "There is no scab coal in Muhlenberg County," UMW member Leroy Patterson said. "I don't want to see anyone injured, but you're talking about bringing blood to the coalfields." "The day they start trying to haul scab coal through there is the day a TVA plant will be shut down," said Joe Gregory, a Peabody miner and a councilman in Drakesboro, a town of 800 next to the Paradise plant. As the nation's second largest coal buyer, TVA gets from UMW mines about half the 40 million tons it burns each year in producing electricity for portions of seven states. "It's not a matter of choice," Freeman said. "We have no right to give a preference to union mines. Exercising the right to protect our consumers, we have a duty to buy the coal that's available at the lowest price we can get it."

Major Demonstrations In Afghanistan

By The Associated Press
Protests against the Soviet military presence spread throughout Afghanistan today, with massive street demonstrations in Kabul leaving at least three persons dead, according to foreign reports from the Afghan capital.

"The city appeared in the grips of crisis," said one report received in New Delhi. Another report, whose source also asked not to be identified, said there was a "fair amount" of shooting. Foreign residents in Kabul were quoted as saying they saw Soviet troops and armored personnel carriers rushed into the capital and deployed outside government buildings. Soviet MiG-21 jetfighters flew low over the city, buzzing rooftops, the reports said.

Merchants in the mile-high capital shuttered their stores for the second straight day to protest the two-month-old Soviet intervention. Most of the stores would have been closed in any case for the Moslem sabbath. Reports reaching New Delhi said the strike had spread to several provincial cities.

The strike and demonstrations in Kabul were the first outbreaks of disobedience in the capital since the Soviets poured tens of thousands of troops into Afghanistan in late December.

The Afghan Moslem rebels were reported today to be threatening major attacks on the capital. The Kabul correspondent of the Japanese newspaper Asahi Shimbun said the rebels have been distributing handbills warning of a March 10 attack on the capital to be followed by a "Tet-style offensive on March 21," New Year's Day for Afghanistan's Moslems.

The massive North Vietnamese Tet lunar new year's offensive of March 1968 was considered the turning point against American and South Vietnamese forces in the Vietnam war.

So far, the anti-communist Afghan rebels have confined their 22-month-old war against a string of pro-Soviet governments to the countryside, where their forces can mount sniper attacks and then slip away to mountain hideouts.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's effort to get the Russians out of Afghanistan with a mass boycott of the Moscow Olympics appeared to be foundering and he flew home from London.

Vance said he found agreement among America's European allies on the "general objectives" of protests against the Soviet moves in Afghanistan, but "there are differences of opinion on how to carry them out."

Vance said West Germany and Italy promised to consider joining a U.S.-sponsored Olympic boycott, but he was unable to shake French opposition to such a move. The French were said to feel a boycott would disrupt East-West detente in Europe.

Vance ended the European leg of his tour Thursday in London, where Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government vowed to back America to the hilt. Mrs. Thatcher said the sending of athletes to Moscow would be tantamount to "condoning an international crime."

Firefighters Leader Jailed

By PAULINE JELINEK
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) - Firefighters walked picket lines in front of fire stations today as their union president was jailed and the vice president urged a general strike of all organized labor in Chicago.

The picketing began Thursday after a judge sentenced

Chicago Fire Fighters Union President Frank Muscare to five months in jail for criminal contempt and allowed the city to withdraw from a strike-ending agreement with the 4,350-member union.

"Frank Muscare, you did this all by yourself," Circuit Judge John Hechinger said as he accused Muscare of not acting in good faith after the truce was reached Wednesday night.

"You, with your big mouth. You showed a total disregard for the agreement. You don't have integrity and your men are the losers," said Hechinger.

Hechinger reimposed $40,000-a-day fines against the union and its officers that had been suspended during the truce. He ordered new civil contempt fines of $1,000 to $5,000 for nine union officers.

Muscare was taken to the Cook County Jail immediately after the hearing, authorities said.

Meanwhile, William Reddy, first vice president of the local, requested meetings with the Chicago Federation of Labor and the police officer's union to set the groundwork for a general shutdown. There was no immediate comment from other union leaders.

Reddy called the breakdown of the strike-ending agreement "part of a scenario to bust this union and all labor in this city."

The executive board of the Chicago Fire Fighters Union voted in a meeting after the court session Thursday to resume picketing of firehouses, according to a spokesman. Picketing in the eight-day strike was stopped earlier in the day after the judge said a halt had been part of Wednesday's agreement.

The agreement called for firefighters to report back to work under a plan to be devised by the city, for 24 hours of round-the-clock contract negotiations and for provisions that the union not retaliate against non-strikers and the city not retaliate against strikers.

Hechinger said at a hearing Thursday night that the city had kept its end of the bargain.

Union Attorney J. Dale Berry said there was confusion over how the firefighters should report back to work and said the agreement didn't prohibit them from picketing. But Hechinger said Muscare understood Wednesday that under the agreement there would be no picketing and that Fire Commissioner Richard Albrecht would have authority to design and implement the back-to-work plan.

Langston Honored For Service

The Coastal Plains Law Enforcement Association honored Greenville native Guy C. Langston with the presentation of a gold plaque during the winter graduation services for twenty-three eastern North Carolina law enforcement officers held in Wilson yesterday.

Langston was cited for distinguished and outstanding service to the Coastal Plains Law Enforcement Association since its beginnings in 1962.

Outgoing president Chief Robert C. Key commended Langston for his highly valuable service as a law enforcement training specialist for the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges.

Based in Greenville at Pitt Community College, his territory covers thirteen community colleges and technical institutes over an area of twenty-six counties.

Langston has served in the field of law enforcement for twenty-eight years. He was with the Highway Patrol and was Greenville police chief for eight years.

Along with five other eastern North Carolina Police Chiefs he helped create the Coastal Plains Law Enforcement Academy. He has been active with this group since its inception, serving two terms as president.

A retired colonel with the North Carolina National Guard, he saw thirty-three years regular of duty and five years of active duty with the military. In 1970 he was awarded the North Carolina Distinguished Service Award by Governor Robert Scott. In 1962 Langston graduated from the Commanding General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Ka. He is a thirty-third degree Scottish Rite Mason of Greenville Lodge No. 284.

New officers for the Coastal Plains Law Enforcement Association were elected. They are: Chief Floyd W. Lucas, Jr. of Tarboro, president; Sheriff Ralph L. Tyson of Greenville, vicepresident; Chief Robert C. Key of Wilson, treasurer; and

TUITION GOING UP
CHICAGO (AP) - The University of Chicago says tuition is going up for the academic year beginning in September to offset higher costs. The increase will be 13 percent for most students.
