STILL DIGGING — Greenville still feels the effects of the large snow storm of the past weekend. Public works department employees using heavy equipment were continuing their efforts this morning on Third Street. The white fluffy flakes have now turned to a dirty gray, and to most of the Greenville citizens are becoming old. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Most Pitt Roads Said Cleared

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Relatively warm temperatures yesterday combined with continued efforts by Department of Transportation workers and city Public Works Department crews to make most paved roadways in the county passable, following the weekend's 16-inch snowfall.

Division II Highway Engineer Charles Snell said this morning that all primary and most paved secondary roads in Pitt were passable today. He added that Highway Department crews were beginning work on unpaved secondary roads this morning.

Snell noted that state workers have been working around-the-clock to clear snow from the 1,044 miles of state-maintained roadways in the county.

Mayo Allen, director of Public Works for the City of Greenville, said most city streets were passable this morning, adding that those streets that had not been cleared by this morning would be scraped today.

Allen also noted that refuse collection resumed this morning and that all households in the city, as well as businesses, would receive at least one trash collection by Friday afternoon. He added, however, that if anyone is having a particular sanitation problem, they should report that fact to the Public Works Department.

The Greenville Utilities Commission weather station reported that the high temperature yesterday reached 51 degrees, while the low for the day was 15 degrees.

The temperature at 8 o'clock this morning stood at 42 degrees. At 10:30 a.m. the temperature was reported at 47 degrees.

In addition to the problem of moving from one place to another, the snow caused other inconvenience, and damage.

About 25 percent of the roof of the Piggly-Wiggly supermarket in Gritton collapsed because of the weight of the snow.

Company officials this morning said that although a portion of the roof caved in, the store has been opened since Monday, giving as good a service as possible under the circumstances.

Sunshine Garden Center on the old Tar Road, South of Greenville, lost 16 of their 31 greenhouses to the snow.

Eddie Harrington said the greenhouses, about 100 feet long and 17 feet wide, were flattened by the heavy weight. He set damages at more than $150,000.

He noted that 13,000 hanging baskets ready for shipment and thousands of young plants were contained in the destroyed structures.

Both city and county schools, as well as Pitt Community College, remained closed.

Efforts to contact PCC and Greenville city school officials this morning to determine if the schools would reopen tomorrow, were unsuccessful.

However, Pitt County School superintendent Ott Alford said county schools would remain closed Thursday.

As for Friday, Alford said that decision would be made later. "If we operate Friday, we will operate Saturday," the school official emphasized, adding that, "at this point, operation looks questionable the rest of the week."

ECU Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer said classes at the university were being held today, and encouraged people to park at Belk, Minges and Regional Development Institute park. (Cont'd on Page 10)

'Help Wanted'

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A thousand Army reserve captains and lieutenants will be asked to return to active duty, the Winston-Salem Journal reported today.

The 1,000 Army Reserve and Army National Guard officers will be used to remedy a severe shortage of Army officers. The Army said it is seeking officers commissioned from 1973 through 1980.

But one Pentagon spokesman told the newspaper that the Army hopes to handle the callup "on a purely voluntary basis."

The call-up has received little public attention. One officer explained saying,

"There is no need to scare anyone and that there usually are enough young reserve and guard officers around to fill any voluntary call-up."

Pentagon officials declined to elaborate on why the officers are being called.

"It is obvious that any realignment of personnel in the U.S. Army is part of a strengthening process which is now going on and what probably will continue for some time to come," the official said.

A military observer in Washington told the Journal, "Obviously, the Army is strengthening itself for whatever lies ahead. Getting these officers into service and on the job is part of a plan."

The move is unprecedented in America's peacetime history.

The Army will convene special boards March 15, June 15 and July 31 to select the officers for active duty. Those chosen, and who accept, would face three years of active duty.

The Journal also reported that officers who had been overlooked for promotions to either major or lieutenant colonel will be allowed to remain on active duty. It had been customary to release such officers from service.

The Army said the program was designed "to meet special requirements" at this time.

Standoffs In New England

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

BOSTON (AP) —

Republicans George Bush and John B. Anderson were locked in a dramatic Massachusetts standoff today after Ronald Reagan inched to victory in Vermont. The two tight New England contests point to the kind of stalemate that might entice former President Gerald Ford into the GOP presidential race.

Sen. Edward Kennedy got a lift for his Democratic challenge with a landslide victory over President Carter in homestate Massachusetts. Carter buried Kennedy by an even more lopsided margin in Vermont.

Kennedy won by better than 2-to-1 in the campaign year's first big-state primary, winning enough nominating delegates to offset the lead Carter built up earlier. Carter took Vermont by 3-to-1.

As the final votes were tallied early today, Anderson trailed by margins so tiny that they represented virtual dead heats.

Bush led by little more than 600 votes out of more than 373,000 cast in the Republican primary in Massachusetts with 96 percent of the precincts reporting. Reagan's margin was 616 votes with 99 percent counted in a Vermont primary that drew more than 62,000 GOP ballots.

Reagan ran third in Massachusetts, close behind Bush and Anderson.

The results were so close that unofficial morning-after recounts were scheduled by News Election Service, which tallies the ballots for news agencies and networks.

Tuesday's big surprise was the tandem challenges by Anderson, the white-thatched liberal congressman from Illinois. Anderson said that by coming so close, he had established himself as a major competitor for the GOP nomination.

Both Bush and Reagan said Anderson was a one-day wonder who couldn't last. The competition shifts on Saturday to the conservative South, with a Republican primary in South Carolina, and contests to follow on Tuesday in Florida, Georgia and Alabama.

While Anderson said he had proven his national campaign credentials, he is bypassing those states to concentrate next on the March 18 primary in his Illinois home.

With Reagan and Bush unable to take clear cut leadership of the GOP campaign, Gerald Ford loomed as an imponderable factor. He wasn't saying much.

Kennedy gained almost two-thirds of the Democratic vote in Massachusetts, and said that was an important lift for "the campaign and the issues we're concerned about," inflation chief among them.

The Massachusetts victory gained Kennedy 77 votes for the Democratic nomination, while Carter got 34.

That put Kennedy ahead nationally, for the moment, with 113 votes to Carter's 89. It will take 1,666 to win the nomination.

Iran Militants Refuse Again Allow Meeting

By The Associated Press

The young militants holding the American hostages in Tehran refused again today to let the U.N. investigating commission meet with their captives even though Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini gave his implied approval to the meeting.

"Our position has not changed. We will not let the meeting take place," a spokesman for the militants occupying the U.S. Embassy told a reporter by telephone.

The spokesman said Khomeini's agreement to the meeting had not been confirmed.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who favors the visit, accused "communists and Zionists" of trying to foil the commission's mission, an apparent reference to leftists among the captors. The foreign minister's comment was in an interview with the Tehran newspaper Azadegan.

Khomeini's son, Ahmad, who in the past has acted as a liaison between the embassy militants and his father, was quoted as saying he believed the meeting would be "useful."

"It doesn't hurt anybody and this was part of their (the commission's) work," he was quoted as saying in an interview with the official Pars news agency.

The five members of the U.N. commission met with Ghotbzadeh to try to nail down arrangements for the meeting with the hostages. They returned to their hotel an hour later, and a spokesman said they still expected to see the Americans.

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr told reporters Tuesday night that Khomeini had given him and the Revolutionary Council, which Bani-Sadr heads, jurisdiction over the matter of the proposed meeting between the U.N. group and the captives. He said the council decided the meeting should take place, and it would be held.

But Khomeini, the 79-year-old religious leader of Iran's revolutionary regime, apparently did not issue a direct order to the young militants to permit the meeting on Bani-Sadr's terms. This apparently emboldened them to defy the president and the council, as they have successfully done in the past.

Set Public Hearing On Farmville Thoroughfare

FARMVILLE — The Department of Transportation will hold a public hearing here March 13, on the proposed Farmville East

Thoroughfare, from US 264 to the Stantonburg Road (Secondary Road 1200).

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Farmville Central High School auditorium, located on US 264 Business.

DOT officials will be present to explain the proposed thoroughfare — a three-mile long, two lane highway on a 100 foot right of way — and other requirements.

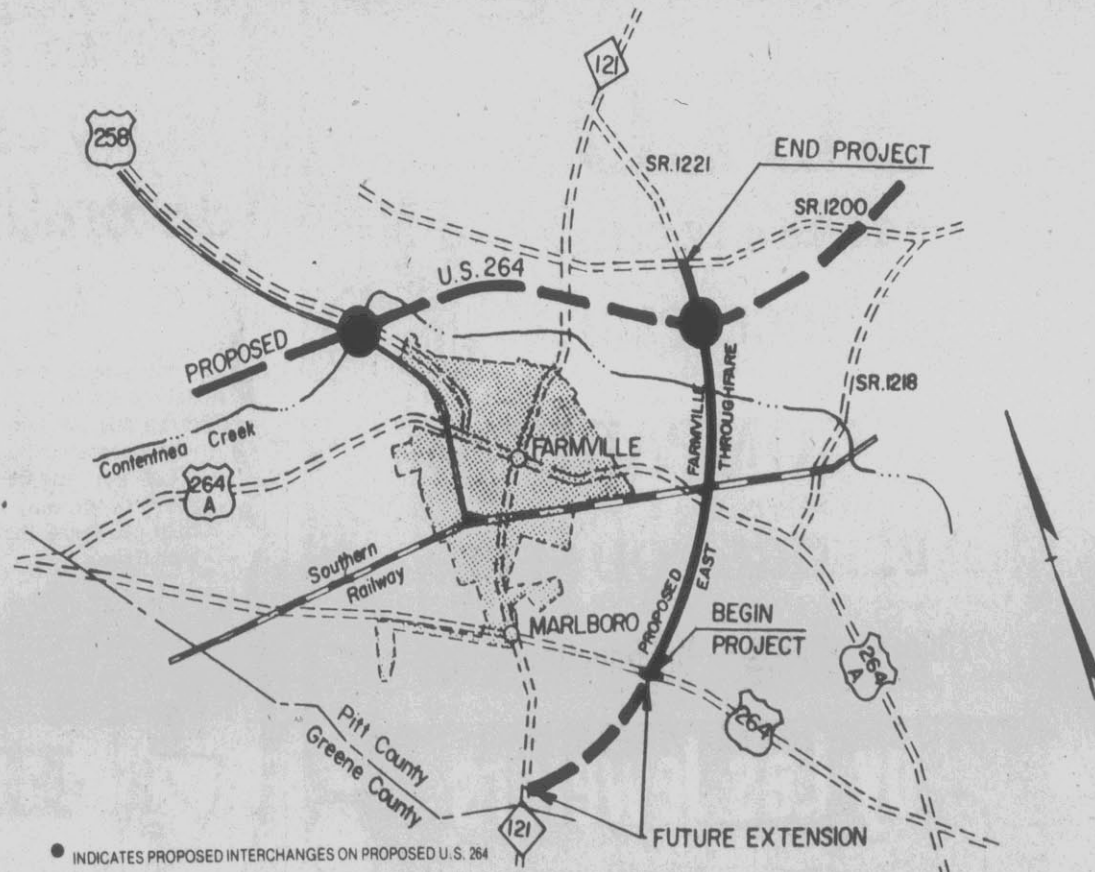

Interested citizens are encouraged to attend the session, ask questions, make comments, or submit material pertaining to the project. Additional material may be submitted to George E. Wells, Manager of Highway Design, NCDOT, Division of Highways, P.O. Box 25201, Raleigh, N.C. 27611, until March 23.

More information about the hearing may be had by contacting W. A. Garrett Jr., Public Hearing Officer with the Department of Transportation in Raleigh, by writing or calling 733-3244.

The proposed Farmville East Thoroughfare will connect the existing US 264 bypass South of Farmville, with the proposed four-lane US 264 North of the municipality.

FARMERS HELPED

This morning I heard a motor in my front yard and looked out to see a fellow on a tractor clearing my driveway. I'm a widow and couldn't have possibly done the job myself. "BEYOND THE CALL"

Yesterday I called my wife's physician and he said he'd call in a prescription for her — if I could find anybody in town to fill it. Our pharmacist, Ernie Hargett, graciously went to his place of business just to help me and a neighbor, Tommy Gaylor, transported me through nearly impassable streets to the drug store. I feel both of these men went way beyond the call of duty to help me and my wife and they should be praised publicly. J. M.

ECU Music Majors Entertain Snowbound

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Nine weather-stranded music majors from East Carolina University earned their suppers and delighted other snowbound patrons of the Holiday Inn Restaurant in Statesville with impromptu entertainment Sunday evening.

"We just asked for permission to use the piano in the restaurant during off-hours to practice," Deborah Lambeth said, "because several of the voice majors among us felt they had to spend their time preparing for a National Association of Teachers of Singing competition that's to be held soon. Before we knew it, we were putting on what turned out to be a rollicking three-hour show."

The students — Miss Lambeth, Donald Greene, Sonny Jacobs, Sandi Thomas, Ellen Heidenreich, Susan Gillis, Angie Boone, Sheila Brooks, and Alysa Smith — were returning from a meeting of the American Choral Directors Association in Knoxville, Tenn. They pulled into the lot of another motel in Statesville about 5 p. m. Saturday and found the next morning that they could not leave. Sunday they moved to the Holiday Inn.

Miss Lambeth, who plays dinner music at the King and Queen Restaurant here as a part-time job, said she was the primary pianist for the show and that all the members of the group, most of whom are voice majors, sang and played everything from old favorites to medleys of show tunes.

In addition to entertaining, some members of the Greenville group filled in as waiters and waitresses during the busiest times, since some of the regular restaurant staff had been unable to get to work because of the weather.

"The manager and her staff acted so appreciative," Miss Lambeth said. "They said they didn't know what they'd have done without us. And they gave us, not only our supper that night, but also our breakfast Monday morning."

"The guests — the place was jam-packed with snow-bound people — couldn't say enough nice things. Many of them gave us tips. One couple said we'd renewed their faith in young people."

We all agreed that the restaurant management and the other nice people we met there renewed our faith in people of all ages. What could have been a boring, if not downright disagreeable stay in a strange town, turned into a meaningful and pleasurable experience for us all."

Fred Astaire To Wed Again

NEW YORK (AP) — As in one of his movies where the dashing dancer marries the gorgeous girl, Fred Astaire says that after 26 years as a bachelor he will waltz down the aisle with jockey Robyn Smith.

The 80-year-old song and dance man and Miss Smith, 35, met in 1972 through their mutual interest in horses. At the time, she raced them and he raised them.

Astaire revealed his marriage plans in an interview with ABC-TV's Barbara Walters on Tuesday but said no date had been set.

The entertainer said the 45-year age difference between him and his betrothed "never occurs to me." He added, "I don't even think about it that way. It has nothing whatsoever to do with it."

When Astaire and Miss Smith met and became what he called, "very, very, very good friends," they had more than a mutual interest in horses in common.

Miss Smith had studied acting before she began her successful career as a jockey in 1969.

By 1973, the 5-foot-7, 104-pound Miss Smith was dubbed the world's leading female jockey, with five triumphs in 17 win, place or show finishes.

Astaire, who was married to Phyllis Potter in 1933, has two children from that marriage, Fred Jr. and Ava, a stepson Peter, and seven grandchildren. His wife died in 1954 at age 46 from lung cancer.

The ex-hooper hung up his dancing shoes in 1976, after one last duet with his good friend Gene Kelly in MGM's musical cavalcade "That's Entertainment, Part 2."

Astaire crooned romantic songs to some of Hollywood's loveliest leading ladies during his multi-decade career including, Ginger Rogers, Joan Crawford, Rita Hayworth, Joan Fontaine, Audrey Hepburn, Leslie Caron and Cyd Charisse.

Between dancing assignments, he has played straight acting roles with skill in several TV movies and series including, "It Takes A Thief."

Conference Here For Family Nurses

Family nurse practitioners from throughout the state will gather at the Ramada Inn here today through Friday for a winter conference sponsored by the East Carolina University School of Nursing and the Eastern Area Health Education Center.

Held in cooperation with the North Carolina Nursing Association, the program is funded in part by the Nurse Practitioner Training Program Grant awarded by the Division of Nursing to the ECU School of Nursing.

Care and treatment of breast disease, stress and depression and screening for asymptomatic disease will be the major topics addressed during the three-day conference. Speakers will include physicians, Dr. Robert Rhyne, Dr. Michael Magill, Dr. Walter Pories, Dr. Andre Van Rij, and Dr. Charles Ravaris; Family nurse practitioners Diane Meelheim, Jennifer Lang and Mary Ann Browning; psychologist Lou Gilbert; social worker Mary Louis; and attorney Patricia Hunt.

Thursday evening a "down east pig pickin'" will be held.

Persons interested in any of the program topics or in learning more about family nurse practitioner as a nursing specialty are invited to attend.

Conference Chairman Audrey Scott and East Carolina Family Practice Center Nurse Practitioner Tommie Pratt will talk about nurse practitioner as a profession on "Carolina Today," Channel 9, tomorrow at 7:40 a. m.

Demanded Ransom In Gold Fear Outbreaks Dengue Fever

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Police raided an apartment near Venice and set free a 19-year-old woman whose kidnappers demanded a ransom of 440 pounds of gold valued at $3.3 million, officials said today. But authorities said the ransom was never paid, contrary to what they had reported earlier.

Acting on information from six arrested suspects, police agents found Giancarlo Balestra, daughter of a wealthy goldsmith, chained, gagged and under heavy sedation.

Police said it was the first time in modern history that Italian kidnapping gangs had asked for a ransom in gold, the equivalent of nearly four times Miss Balestra's weight.

She was kidnapped 20 days ago from the family villa near here. Four men seized her after tying up her two sisters and both parents.

ATLANTA (AP) — Outbreaks of dengue fever, an illness carried by mosquitoes, are expected in the United States this spring, the national Center for Disease Control says.

An epidemic now is moving through Mexico, with 3,000 to 4,000 cases reported last year, said Dr. Jack Woodall of the CDC. The fever causes chills, aches and a rash, but no deaths have been reported in the Western Hemisphere, he said.

The Aedes aegypti mosquito that spreads the fever is abundant from Texas to Florida and as far north as North Carolina.

Foul-Up Laid To White House

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance took responsibility for the "foul-up," the fault for a controversial U.S. vote criticizing Israel in the United Nations rests with the White House, according to two administration officials.

Their account, to The Associated Press, is that President Carter's objections to any criticism of Israel's control of east Jerusalem were not adequately transmitted to the State Department before the Security Council vote.

The result was unanimous adoption of a resolution condemning Israel's settlements in former Arab territories — which had Carter's approval — but also condemning Israel's control of east Jerusalem.

which did not have his approval.

This caused a political and diplomatic furor. The Israeli cabinet deplored the resolution and Carter's principal Democratic challenger, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, called the U.S. vote "shameful." Even Carter's campaign manager, Robert S. Strauss, termed the vote "a terrible mistake" and said he was "rather shocked by it."

The White House issued a remarkable statement Monday night admitting a voting mixup.

Then on Tuesday, with the controversy still raging, Vance took responsibility for what his spokesman, Hodding Carter, called a "foul-up" in transmitting Carter's instructions to U.N. Ambassador Donald McHenry.

However, the account supplied by two insiders, who asked not to be named, was substantially different.

These officials said the White House had not made clear to the State Department, and consequently to McHenry, whether all references to Jerusalem were to be deleted or whether the United States could register its reservations in a separate statement.

As a result, the State Department assumed it would be sufficient to delete one specific provision in the resolution particularly offensive to Israel. Designed to assure all religions access to holy places in east Jerusalem, that section was viewed by the Israeli government as implicitly challenging its right to hold that part of the city.

The provision was dropped and McHenry cast his vote for the resolution. Untouched were other provisions that termed Jerusalem occupied territory — a characterization that also raised Israel's hackles.

Carter was surprised by the U.S. vote, the officials said, and decided to have a statement issued explaining it.

According to a third official, who also asked not to be identified, Vance, Zbigniew Brzezinski, the national security adviser, and other top aides tried over a period of several hours Monday to talk the president out of the statement acknowledging error.

But Carter felt the United States had made a mistake and he wanted it acknowledged, the official said. The statement was issued late Monday night at the White House.

Arrest Second Suspect For 7-Year Kidnapping

MERCED, Calif. (AP) — A second suspect has been arrested on suspicion of kidnapping in the abduction of 14-year-old Steven Stayner, who for seven years lived with one of the men as his son, police said.

Lt. Bill Bailey of the Merced Police Department identified the new suspect in the 1972 abduction as Ervin Edward Murphy, 38, a night janitor at a lodge in Yosemite National Park.

Authorities said Murphy was taken into custody at the park, and was then returned to jail in Merced, some 80 miles away, for booking.

Meanwhile, Kenneth Parnell, the quiet ex-convict once described by a psychiatrist as a "sexual psychopath," pleaded innocent Tuesday in Ukiah, about 200 miles from here, to kidnapping a 5-year-old boy, Timmy White.

Authorities here said they were preparing charges against Parnell in connection with Stayner's abduction in December 1972.

"At this time, we have nothing to tie him (Murphy) in with the White case. Needless to day, we will be pursuing this further," Bailey said.

Stayner told police someone name "Murray or Murphy" was involved in his abduction, the officer said, and police had a photograph of the suspect. Bailey said Murphy revealed during interviews with police that he had once worked with Parnell at the lodge.

White also contended a second man took part in his kidnapping as he walked to his babysitter's house after school Feb. 14. Police said they planned to hypnotize the youth in a bid to verify his story.

No sooner had Parnell pleaded innocent Tuesday in Ukiah Justice Court to the kidnapping of White than his attorney said he would move to close a preliminary hearing and request a change of venue.

"I am worried about the preliminary publicity this case has generated," Mendocino County Public Defender Scott LeStrange told a crowd of reporters outside the tiny courtroom.

LeStrange said Parnell probably could not get a fair trial in Ukiah because the boy he allegedly abducted has become "a very popular young man. Timothy White is a household word."

The preliminary hearing in the White case was set for March 13.

Ukiah Justice Court Judge James W. Luther imposed a gag order barring attorneys, investigators and court officers from discussing the case with the media.

Stayner has been besieged with movie and tabloid newspaper offers for the exclusive rights to his story and Delbert Stayner, the boy's father, said the family has hired a lawyer to represent the family in negotiations.

Tighter Procedures For Jail Inspection

NEWTON, N.C. (AP) — State inspection procedures for North Carolina jails will be tightened in the wake of a dispute over Catawba County's jail, where inspectors say they received misleading information.

Catawba's chief jailer, Lt. Kenneth Elliott, 45, resigned Jan. 21 after he was charged with having sex with a female prisoner.

State inspectors for the last two years that a matron was on duty when women were detained. However, Sheriff Dale Johnson has said publicly he never employed matrons.

Hall said he was seeking clarification of his duties to report suspected violations of state laws to local officials. But he said that if he had the authority, he would report any findings on the Catawba situation to District Attorney Donald Greene.

Hall has accused the Catawba jail officials of telling

Angry Farmers

JERUSALEM (AP) — Police turned water cannons on thousands of irate farmers trying to storm the gates of Israel's Parliament today to protest farm policies they say are ruining Israel's small farms.

The farmers hurled dead chickens, tomatoes, eggs and snowballs at police defending the Knesset, or Parliament building in full riot gear.

A police spokesman estimated the crowd at 10,000 but the state radio said more than 20,000 turned out for one of the largest demonstrations seen outside the legislature. "It was the most violent demonstration I've ever seen," said one veteran photographer.

A police spokesman said there were no injuries, and the state radio reported only one person hurt. Police said they did not make any arrests.

Miss Smith, Mr. Berry Exchange Vows Sunday

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. of Betsy Karen Smith and Thomas LeGrande Berry II.

Dr. James H. Bailey performed the double ring ceremony. A program of organ music was presented by Mickey Terry of Greenville.

Daughter of Mrs. John Bertram Smith of Greenville, and the late Mr. Smith, the bride was given in marriage by her mother and escorted by her brother Jeffrey Kenneth Smith.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James B. Berry Jr. of Marion, S.C.

The maid of honor was Kimberly E. Smith of Greenville, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included Miss Jane E. Rouse of Ayden, and Miss Gail Hall of Wilmington, cousins of the bride, Miss Susan Hall and Miss Mary Nell Edmondson, both of Greenville, Mrs. Johnnie DeLoatch of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Mrs. Sharon Martin of Southport. The flower girl was Miss Tracey Hall of Kinston, cousin of the bride.

Jonathan Carr Smith of Kinston, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. The father of the bridegroom was best man while ushers included James B. Berry III of Marion, S.C., brother of the bridegroom, Michael Patrick of Garden City, S.C., Jeffrey Boger of Irmo, S.C., Robert Redfern of Clemson, S.C., Louis DeBruhl Jr. of Lexington, S.C., and Rodney Richards of Columbia, S.C.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Melinda Behr of Greenville.

The bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over white peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with clusters of seed pearls. Matching beaded lace continued over the empire bodice and encircled the waistline. Covered buttons were featured at the sheer closure at center back. The fitted sleeves of lace featured seed pearls at the wrist and the A-line skirt and attached chapel length train were edged at the hemline with scalloped silk floral Venice lace with beaded alencon lace appliques scattered over the skirt and train.

Her walking length veil of illusion was accented with motifs of beaded alencon lace held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace. She carried a nosegay of white roses, pom-pom daisies and baby's breath centered with a white orchid with white satin streamers.

MRS. THOMAS LEGRANDE BERRY II

The honor attendant wore a gown of light blue polyester fashioned with a shirred bodice, V-neckline and a self-fabric string belt. The formal length skirt featured crystal pleats from the fitted waistline. She wore baby's breath in her hair and carried a single long-stemmed pom-pom chrysanthemum white tied with blue streamers.

The bridesmaids were dressed like the honor attendant in cotton blue and wore baby's breath in their hair. Their flowers were identical.

The flower girl was attired in a formal white organza over peau de soie gown which featured long full sleeves, ruffled yoke and fitted bodice. The double ruffled skirt featured an apron effect. She carried a white basket filled with white pom-pom daisies tied with blue streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of imported georgette in mango with flowing three-quarter length sleeves and petal skirt. She wore a white orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of ecru qiana and a yellow-throated orchid. The grandmothers of the bride couple were remembered with corsages of white carnations.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will live in Mt. Pleasant, S.C.

The bride couple are both students at the College of Charleston, Charleston, S.C. A reception was held at the Greenville Moose Lodge following the wedding. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Ard, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Earl Rouse, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Assisting at the punch bowl was Mrs. David M. Phillips of Kinston. After the traditional first slice was cut by the bride couple, cake was served by Mrs. William A. Smith, aunt of the bride. Assisting were Kenneth Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pinkston, Miss Sandee Hall, Mrs. Fred B. David, Mrs. Ray Hamilton, Mrs. Jesse Smith, Ms. Diane Clark and Miss Cindy Durham. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hall of Wilmington, aunt and uncle of the bride.

On Saturday evening, the rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at the Ramada Inn honoring the bride couple' out-of-town guests and members of the wedding party.

On Friday evening, a pig pickin' was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kenneth Hall of Hookerton, grandparents of the bride, given by Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie L. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Rickie Pearson, aunts and uncles of the bride, and her grandparents for out-of-town guests, friends and the wedding party.

Reader Sends Abby A Day Brightener

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Remember me? I'm Abe Puchkoff (age 83) from Brooklyn. Ever since my name appeared in your column last summer, I've had letters and phone calls from all over the country.

How's this for a story? When I was a 27-year-old bachelor, a pretty girl caught my eye. I called her for a date, but she played hard to get, so that ended that.

Well, last Saturday my phone rang, and this very same lady (only 56 years later) said, "Is this Abe Puchkoff?" I said, "Yes, that's me."

When she told me who she was, I nearly fainted. Then she said, "I say your name in Dear Abby's column. I've been a widow for 20 years. How would you like to take me out to lunch?"

I very politely said, "It's not good for us to see each other so often." Then I added, "Besides, with God's help, my wife and I will celebrate our 50th this June."

ABE PUCHKOFF

DEAR ABE: Thanks for another day-brightener. And mazeltov!

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those "unusual cases" of a woman being a pregnant virgin. I conceived with my hymen intact.

When I went to the doctor, suspecting that I might be pregnant, he examined me and said I most certainly was. When it came time for me to have the baby, the doctor had to deflower me surgically. I never would have believed it, but I am living proof that a girl can become pregnant without going all the way.

MRS. W., TORRINGTON, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: I was very happy to see the item in your column about the girl who got pregnant and had a baby though she was still a virgin. The same thing happened to me when I was 17. He married me, and we have five children. The oldest is now 48.

People never believed me when I told them that that is what really happened. My doctor confirmed it.

B.P.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old mother of four, and I was just as innocent as that 55-year-old grandmother who asked you to explain how a girl could get pregnant and still be a virgin.

It's a shame how people can go through life half-ignorant because they're too embarrassed to ask questions.

I sent for your booklet, WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW, for my two sons, 12 and 14, and they thought it was terrific. So did I. And my husband agreed with me. I never could have told them about drugs and sex the way you did.

Thank you for having the courage to write something so straight and easy to understand. All parents want their kids to know how to keep from getting VD, and how to avoid getting pregnant, but nobody wants to tell them.

The chapter on drugs and what they can do to you was great. I'm sorry I didn't have something like that to read when I was a teenager.

MRS. R.J.L. IN ORLANDO, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a girl could become pregnant without going all the way. Thanks for printing it. That is what happened to me.

Before we were married, my fiancé and I had gone together for 2½ years. We were very much in love, and just like the kids do today, we did a lot of hugging, kissing and cuddling, but I swear we did not go "all the way!" Nevertheless I found myself very much pregnant.

I couldn't believe it, but the doctor explained it to me exactly the way you explained it: "All that is necessary is for the sperm of the male to meet the ovum of the female, and this can be accomplished without actual penetration."

Even though WE knew how it happened, it was hard to explain to others. We are now in our 60s, and we still kid about it, and call each other...

To Plan A Wedding, Here's A Checklist For The Bride

NEW YORK (UPI) — Planning a wedding?

Here, abridged with permission from the Bride's Magazine Wedding Planner, is a calendar checklist for the bride.

If it's going to be formal, begin, if possible, at least six months in advance. Bride's advises. You'll need 10 months to a year if you live in a big city or are planning to be married in a popular wedding month or during the holiday season.

Six months before

—Select a date and time.
—Discuss the budget with your parents. If you'll share expenses, include fiancé and his parents.

—Decide on the size and degree of formality.

—Decide how many guests.

Let your fiancé's mother know how many she may invite; when you need her list.

—Choose your location.

—Plan your reception.

Make the reservations. If at home, choose a caterer. If club or hotel, check their catering. Decide on music. If necessary, book musicians.

—Plan the menu. Ask if cake is included in catering fee.

—Notify the photographer of the location.

—Make arrangements to visit the clergy member or ceremony official with your fiancé.

—Choose and order wedding dress, veil, accessories.

—With your fiancé, shop for and pick your engagement ring.

—Discuss ideas for your new home with your fiancé.

Begin household shopping.

—Select your china, crystal, silver, linens.

Register preferences with your favorite store's bridal gift registry.

—Choose your bridesmaids, honor attendants.

—Choose, order their dresses, accessories.

Three months before

—Complete your guest list plus a list of those to receive announcements. Check for duplication with fiancé's list.

—Order invitations and announcements. Have envelopes sent to you right away so they can be addressed.

—Order personal stationary for thank-you notes.

—Choose and order flowers.

—Plan a trousseau. Start to shop.

—Let your mother and your fiancé's mother know the wedding color scheme so they may choose harmonizing dresses in identical lengths.

—Make appointment for bridal portrait for when wedding dress is delivered.

—Arrange with family doctor or gynecologist for physical exam and blood test needed for marriage license in most states, to choose birth control method, get inoculations for wedding trip abroad.

—Discuss details of your wedding ceremony — flowers, music photos, canopies, carpets, etc. — with proper authorities.

—Discuss all aspects of your reception with the person in charge — hotel manager, caterer. Reserve now any equipment to be rented.

One month before

—Mail your invitations.

—Order your wedding cake if it is not included in the catering.

—Have final fitting of wedding dress, veil, accessories. Confirm bridal portrait date.

—Choose and order gifts for your attendants.

—Select your wedding ring.

If double ring ceremony — his, too.

—Arrange lodging for out-of-town attendants.

—Arrange bridesmaids' luncheon or dinner.

—Arrange rehearsal dinner if your family are giving it.

—Keep up with your thank-you notes. Begin to address announcements to mail after the wedding.

—Choose wedding present for your groom if you will exchange gifts — it's optional.

Two weeks before

—Go with your fiancé to fill out forms for your marriage license.

—Phone society editor of your local newspaper to find out what information is required for your wedding announcement. Compile and write the announcement in a style as close as possible to that of the society page.

—Arrange transportation for the wedding party to and from the ceremony and reception.

—Complete your trousseau shopping. Make sure delivery will be on time.

—Plan wedding hairdo with your hairdresser. Take headpiece and veil. Book appointment if it is to be done the day of the wedding.

—Wrap gifts for attendants. They may be distributed at bridesmaids' party or rehearsal dinner.

—Arrange to change your name and address (if you will be) on bank and charge accounts, personnel records, social security, insurance or health policies, driver's

CAROLINA EAST MALL

To Mutual Advantage

Pitt commissioners and the Greenville City Council have been holding joint meetings to consider mutual problems.

Last week, for instance, questions of library service, the Pitt-Greenville Airport and rescue service were discussed. All the services involve financing from both bodies.

The airport has become increasingly important to our county as a facility for private aircraft. It is also served by Wheeler Airlines a commuter service, and commuter air service is becoming increasingly important to Eastern North Carolina.

The city has been heavily involved in emergency medical service for many years, and the county has become increasingly involved through financial support to Greenville rescue and to county volunteer rescue squads.

As emergency service becomes more sophisticated, perhaps involving para-medics and helicopter rescue, there will be an increasing need for further coordination and financing on a county-wide basis. These things will have to be worked out over a period of time.

There is the possibility of joint inspections program, joint tax collecting and concerted industrial development. Other municipalities might be brought in on many of these services.

The important thing is we need to streamline where ever we can. Any thing that will offer the services more efficiently should be tried.

Joint consideration of Greenville and county problems through these meetings is a positive approach.

More May See College Need

Some North Carolina higher education officials believe there won't be any drop in college enrollments during the next decade.

That opinion is held despite the fact that numbers of persons in the college age sector of our population are projected to decline.

In our state, however, a larger percentage of young people may conclude that it will be in their interest to attend college.

North Carolina will be better off if it can interest more qualified young people in obtaining college educations.

THIS AFTERNOON

Spending Spurred

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The biggest chunk of all state dollars spent in North Carolina is for the public schools. Last year for the first time, the budget topped a billion dollars.

At the rate things are going, school spending will hit the two billion dollar mark in not too many years.

Already several different high-priority budget items are being prepared for the 1980 budget session of the General Assembly which will put public school spending at the state level well over $1.5 billion-per-year level, if legislators can see their way clear to approve all of those increases.

Essentially four separate activities are underway:

1. The State Board of Education at the urging of Supt. Craig Phillips and staff have put their priority stamp on a package of new proposals to battle high school dropouts. The price tag is $102.7 million for 1981-82 school year; $112.7 million the next.

Bonds
2. The State Board of Education and a legislative committee on school building needs are pushing a $600 million statewide construction bond issue, and whether the vote comes this year or next is still debatable. Education officials concede that when the bonds are sold and distributed, though, it will mean either that existing school programs will have to be trimmed, or more dollars appropriated by the General Assembly, to meet the principal and interest payments. Total payback over 20 years will be more than a billion dollars.

BILL NOBLITT

portunities across the state; standards for allotting school personnel; and a uniform revised salary schedule giving higher brackets and progression.

4. Major political candidates are aggressively wooing support from teachers as well as other state employees, vowing big pay raises and other benefit increases.

Altogether, then Tar Heel taxpayers and their representatives in the General Assembly are looking at budget requests in 1980 totaling $600 million or more for increased public school programs and personnel, in addition to the prospects of a $600 million bond issue.

Gov. Jim Hunt has already demonstrated his commitment to increased spending for education, and is already staked out as favoring a "double-digit" salary hike for all state employees.

Hunt is lukewarm, at best, toward a bond issue at this time; but will likely endorse that proposition if the election is not held in this key presidential and gubernatorial election year.

Support

Hunt came out strongly in favor of reduction of classroom size and teaching load in grades four through six to a ratio of one teacher to 26 pupils. The price tag on that is $22.6 million, and this is only one small part of the total School Board package to combat dropouts. Hunt has hinted in public remarks that he also favors most of the other proposals in that $102.7 million package.

Among the other proposals is also reduction of class size in reading, language arts, and mathematics in middle and high schools at a cost of $24.7 million if the reduction is one teacher per 25 students, or $62.8 million if the reduction is to 20 pupils per class. The extended day programs giving flexible school hours would cost another $14.5 million; additional high school guidance personnel costing $9 million; increased vocational education programs costing $24 million; a teacher supplement of $5 per pupil to teachers spending extra time leading activities such as drama, school newspapers, band, sports, etc., costing $2.5 million; increased textbook funds totaling $2.3 million; and a fund to help students who wish to participate in various activities programs such as band, drama, clubs, debating, etc., totaling more than one million dollars.

A Richness In America

CHICAGO (AP) — "There is no poverty in America," observed Avrim Petal, guiding his cab along North Michigan Avenue in the glitter of afternoon sunshine from the lakefront skyscrapers. "No difference between the rich man and the poor man."

Avrim had to come to Chicago by way of Houston from Karachi. This was his third day driving a cab, and he wasn't quite sure where O'Hare Airport was.

"I go there two, maybe three times, if you count coming back," he laughed. "Get lost sometimes. Passengers not very understanding. Always in a hurry. It is the way here in America. In Pakistan, no one is in a hurry. There is no place to go."

Avrim seemed to be headed in the wrong direction, although I do not know Chicago well. "I am a Sind," he continued, lost, but not for words. "I speak Sindhi. My name is Avrim, like Avrim Lincoln, your first president."

I told him George Washington was our first president; Abraham Lincoln had freed the slaves. "Oh, yes," said Avrim, turning left at a sign that said no left turn. "My father is a slave in Karachi, a slave in the bazaar. We lived in the back of the shop, seven of us. He made brass candlesticks and lamps for the tourists. When I came home from school, I polished the brass until it became too dark. There was no electricity after 8 o'clock in the bazaar."

Avrim told me there were many Petals in Pakistan. "They are like Smiths in America. More Petals than in a rose garden. This is a pun. Do you know what is a pun?"

I said I did. He said his English teacher gave him a gold star, "like a proper schoolboy," for writing in his exercise book: "Tere are many puns in the Punjab." It was a joke, he pointed out. "My teacher likes jokes. She is a woman. I pay her to learn English."

A lady cop dressed him down for taking his time going through a yellow light when she was trying to hurry traffic along. Lifting his hand from the wheel in a gesture of religious guidance from others, too self-sufficient to need help and reassurance, too enlightened to bother with such old-fashioned stuff as religion.

benediction, he rolled his eyes far back in his head. As I could see from the rearview mirror, his swarthy face projected an expression of saintly innocence. By way of apology, he asked directions to the airport.

She allowed him to make a U-turn, and we headed back the other way.

At the departure area, Petal neatly lined up the bags on the sidewalk, bowed ceremoniously in accepting the money without counting it and said: "Thank you very much. Have a pleasant journey. I have told you good jokes so you would not be mad if we became lost. Americans love jokes. In Pakistan life is a joke but no one laughs."

I waved farewell, as he turned into the wrong lane and headed into the longterm parking area, beaming his smile that would never be lost.

Other Editors Say Cure Will Hurt

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

In this first half of 1980, one question stands out: What, if anything will the United States be doing in coming years to eliminate the inflation that now grips our economy so firmly?

If one starts with the assumption that nothing effective will be done to curb inflation, then we must conclude that there will be further deterioration of the economy.

The end of productivity growth in recent years shows the inefficiencies inherent in an inflationary economy. Also we have to reckon with the fact that inflation, untreated, tends to get worse.

Even if we assume that what needs to be done to stop inflation will be done, we must recognize that our economic troubles are likely to be worse for a while before they get better.

As in the case of an alcoholic binge, the worst effects of inflation are felt, not while one is indulging, but after one stops.

The double-digit inflation last year was bad enough, but for several weeks in September and early October we were teetering on the edge of something much worse. Inflation seemed about to enter its most lethal phase — the phase when it becomes self-accelerating.

The drastic monetary measures taken by the Federal Reserve System, as announced in October, may have pulled us back from the brink at the last possible moment. But this is strong medicine and, as we have already seen, it has distressing side effects.

Even if we make the optimistic assumption that the U.S. is finally ready to get a grip on its inflation problem, and will carry through until inflation is ended, we should not conclude that a new golden age of economic stability and prosperity will dawn immediately.

On the contrary, we will have to get used to the idea that curbing inflation is going to hurt — a lot, and over an extended period of time.

The fact that we have avoided a downturn to date cannot be taken as evidence that the economy is strongly-based and can continue in the same pattern indefinitely.

There Is Money In Terrorism

By SANDRA BALMER

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — There's big money to be made in international terrorism. And insurance companies are out to capitalize on that premise by selling kidnap and ransom insurance — or K & R insurance, as it's known in the business.

International terrorism mushroomed in the politically volatile 1960s and 1970s and ransom demands have grown too — easily into millions of dollars.

And the K & R insurance business has burgeoned along with demand. The industry writes an estimated $55 million in premiums annually.

Businessmen are prime candidates for political terrorism because their firms can and will pay huge ransom demands, said Roy Tucker, president of Risk, International. The Alexandria, Va.-based computer firm compiles information on political terrorism worldwide.

"Those in biggest danger of being kidnapped are expatriate employees of American corporations — those who have lived in a country for two or three years," Tucker said. "They are prime targets because their habits are established and easily put under surveillance by terrorists groups."

Kidnap insurance is not a new idea, but its existence has been kept quiet for a number of reasons. Some executives cite ethical reasons.

Trying New Budget Cuts

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter may have trouble justifying to the American people why he is rewriting his 1981 budget only a little more than a month after he publicly unveiled it with great fanfare.

"By continuing a clear and consistent policy of restraint, the 1981 budget insures that the federal budget will not be an inflationary force in the economy," the president said when he sent the budget to Congress Jan. 28.

But by disclosing they are now searching for ways to cut up to $20 billion from the original budget as part of a new anti-inflation strategy, Carter's advisers are as much as saying that the president was wrong the first time around.

The push to cut the budget was launched after government cost of living figures released less than two weeks ago showed the largest monthly jump in more than six years. Those figures — for January — show inflation running at an annual rate of about 18 percent.

W. Bowman Cutter, an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget, told the House Ways and Means Committee Monday that Carter will send a revised budget to Congress in about two weeks.

One of Carter's top advisers admitted Monday that the budget is being changed because the public doesn't believe the administration imposed sufficient restraints on government spending in the original.

"However difficult it is, we have to face the fact that the budget we submitted a month ago is inadequate in the public view," said Lyle E. Gramley, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

"The American people are saying we haven't done enough; some say we haven't done anything," Gramley said in an interview. "I don't agree with them, but it's almost a unanimous view we haven't done enough. We have to accept that view and do something about it."

Several private economists attending a conference here last week suggested Carter may lose more in credibility by revising the budget so soon than he will gain in substance in the fight against inflation.

"I think it's a risk one has to take," Gramley said. "I don't think we have any alternative."

One of the economists attending last week's conference, Allan H. Meltzer of Carnegie-Mellon University, criticized Carter's advisers.

"I don't think there's anyone in the White House who pays any attention to substance," he said, arguing that administration decisions are made on the basis of public opinion alone.

In the original 1981 budget, which provided for federal spending of $616 billion in the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1, Carter and his advisers said a deficit of $15.8 billion was the best they could do without plunging the country into a serious recession.

Now they say it may be possible to balance the budget after all, although they have not yet publicly committed the administration to do this.

The administration is known to be considering heavy cuts in Labor Department jobs programs, which could raise questions about Carter's pledge in his original budget that "the unemployed should not bear the costs of our anti-inflation efforts."

Carter's budget-cutting exercise is being encouraged by Congress, with one after another of the Democratic leadership climbing on the bandwagon for spending cuts. Most Republicans were already there.

Among the latest to get on was Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. He said Monday the 1981 budget is "unacceptable" and called on Carter to submit a balanced budget. Speaking of inflation, he said, "This thing is virtually out of control."

But a top congressional economist, who asked not to be identified, said deciding on a balanced budget and then deciding where the cuts should be made are two entirely different matters. He said it is unlikely Congress would be able to agree on where cuts should be made since a powerful interest group would rise to oppose each and every one.

For example, he cited talk in the administration of cutting back on the formula used to raise Social Security benefits to keep up with inflation. "Can you imagine Congress really cutting programs for the elderly in an election year?" he asked.

By leaving the Defense Department out of the budget-cutting exercise, Carter is inviting repudiation of cutbacks in other programs, said a key member of an important congressional committee. "Will people sit still for Social Security cuts while allowing for defense increases, in their present frame of mind? I can't imagine it."

The member asked to remain anonymous.

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., indicated Monday he doubts the administration and Congress could balance the budget. "If we are going to make a balanced budget a national goal for 1981, we are going to have to do it with mirrors," he said.

Gramley said the major impact would be in reducing inflationary expectations. But he said there was no way of measuring how much of a reduction that would bring in the actual inflation rate.

Nonetheless, he said, "We are dealing with important expectational problems. If we do what's necessary, that will have beneficial effects even in the short run."

Letters

Welcome

Letters to the editor are welcome. They should be limited to 300 words. All letters must carry the name and address of the writer. If a letter is written for a group of people or an organization, the name of at least one member of the group must be signed.

The editors reserve the right to reject any letter deemed inflammatory or libelous.

"The more emphasis you place on kidnap and ransom insurance, the more you incite people to act on it," said John R. Cox, executive vice president of Insurance Company of North America. American International Group, Inc., which has offered K & R coverage for eight years, also closely guards the names of its clients, but for practical reasons — kidnappers are far more likely to collect ransom money from an insured victim, and it's the insurance firm that pays, of course.

Firms in this fiercely competitive industry also refuse to disclose premium rates, although representatives will discuss their services.

"We can insure a corporation for any ransom demands or any extortion monies, for any type of reward which might be offered," said Claude Gallelo, Midwest regional manager for American International Group. He said his coverage can also provide money for expenses for consultants who advise how to negotiate the safe return of executives and when to pay the ransom demands.

Gallelo said ransom insurance of up to $20 million is probably readily available to most corporations. Ransom demands have ranged much higher than that, however. For example in 1977, political terrorists in Argentina asked $61 million in ransom when they kidnapped directors of an Argentine corporation, Gallelo said.

Winberry Rejected For Judgeship By Senate Panel

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently for the first time in history, a Senate panel has rejected a nominee for a federal district judgeship because he was considered unqualified for the job.

The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 8-6 Tuesday to reject the nomination of Charles Winberry, a Rocky Mount, N.C., lawyer rated "unqualified" by the American Bar Association.

The ABA based its assessment in large part on allegations Winberry had once "fixed" a criminal case in exchange for cash.

Winberry, who has denied the accusation, was not immediately available for comment on the committee vote.

CHARLES WINBERRY

It was the first time in 42 years that the judiciary panel had rejected a federal district court nomination for any reason. In 1938, the panel sent the nomination of Floyd B. Roberts of Virginia to the floor with an adverse recommendation based on opposition from his state's senators. The full Senate accepted the recommendation and rejected Roberts' nomination.

But committee records do not indicate when, if ever, a federal district court nomination was previously rejected on its merits.

Six committee Democrats voted to send the nomination to the full Senate without recommendation. Five Republicans and three Democrats voted not to send it to the floor at all.

The most devastating blow to Winberry's nomination came from a former Postal Service informant, James McTigue, who testified during confirmation hearings last week that a convicted cigarette smuggler told him Winberry had agreed to "fix" a criminal case in return for cash.

The smuggler, Gordon Dildy, refused to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., who recommended Winberry, said he was "very disappointed" by the vote against the political ally who managed his 1974 campaign for the Senate.

"My confidence in Mr. Winberry's ability, integrity and judicial temperament remain as strong as when I recommended him for the judgeship," Morgan said. "They have not been shaken by rumor or innuendo." But an aide said Morgan had no plans for a fight to overturn the committee vote.

"I guess what is going to happen is that the president will have to withdraw the nomination and the senator will have to recommend someone else," said Gib Prather, Morgan's press secretary.

A Justice Department spokesman declined comment on the Winberry vote.

The judiciary committee says it has been taking a tougher stance on judicial nominations since Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., became chairman last year. Kennedy, who voted by proxy, was among those opposed to Winberry's nomination.

Kennedy hired a staff of investigators and persuaded the committee to require nominees to answer a detailed questionnaire. Previously, the panel had depended largely on the findings of the FBI and the American Bar Association.

The ABA's Committee on the Federal Judiciary originally rated Winberry "qualified." But before the vote, a member of the ABA committee reported a shift in that assessment. He said the panel was "unanimously convinced" Winberry was unqualified.

ABA spokesman James C. Parham Jr. of Greenville, S.C., said he asked dozens of legal authorities about Winberry. "No one I talked to put him in the top 10, 20 or 100 lawyers" in eastern North Carolina, he said.

Parham also said the ABA committee considered Winberry's testimony about the alleged "fix" to be "inconsistent and evasive and contradictory and exhibited a definite lack of the candor required for a federal judge."

And he said Winberry made "inconsistent statements" about an out-of-court letter he wrote to a judge's clerk in another case.

$620 Million Goal Offered

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips presented the state Board of Education a $620 million wish-list Tuesday, with money for reducing class size at the top of the list.

Gov. Jim Hunt proposed last month that class sizes be reduced in grades four through six. The price tag for the reduction is $22.7 million in 1981 to add enough teachers to bring the average class size in those grades down from 30 students to 26 students. The cost in subsequent years would be slightly less.

The list, compiled by Phillips and the department staff, is certain to be trimmed by the board before the final 1981-83 biennial budget goes before the 1981 General Assembly.

Among the items Phillips included on the list were large amounts to fund establishment of programs for exceptional children, provision of teacher aides in upper grades and establishment of small classes for low achievers in grades nine through 12.

Phillips' report proposed several other plans to improve instruction in the upper grades. One would add teacher aides in grades four and five.

Board chairman David Bruton said he favored adding teachers rather than teachers' aides in those grades.

Although Phillips did not propose any salary increase for teachers, he included a summary of recommendations made by 1,500 parents, teachers and school officials who endorsed a 12 percent salary increase. The comments from the persons came during public hearings held across the state.

Phillips also provided figures that show inflation is eating away the schools' budget. He said fuel for heating schools will cost an additional $21 million over the two years of the budget and gasoline costs for school buses will consume an additional $56 million of the budget.

COMMENTS — Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., says he is still confident of Charles Winberry's ability and integrity. (AP Laserphoto)

Senate Tightens Benefit Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted 89-3 in favor of legislation that would make it more difficult to get long-term unemployment benefits in hard economic times.

The measure approved Tuesday would do away with an "automatic trigger" that now requires extension of benefits for 13 weeks beyond the normal 26 weeks for America's unemployed when national insured unemployment rises above 4.5 percent. Sponsors said it would save more than $300 million a year. The measure now goes back to the House for consideration of changes made by the Senate.

What do you get when you put Mocap[®] and Di-Syston[®] together? Nematodes, wireworms and flea beetles. That's what you get.

You already know how effective Mocap[®] nematicide-insecticide is in controlling nematodes and wireworms in tobacco. But did you know there are two Mocap products that can help you get flea beetles as well. Mocap Plus 10-5G and Mocap Plus 4-2EC contain Di-Syston[®] for systemic control of flea beetles. And that means even better protection for your valuable tobacco crop.

When you come to buy Mocap for this year's crop, ask about Mocap Plus. Because when it comes to Mocap, there's more than one good way to put it together.

Mocap[®] is a registered trademark of Mobil Chemical Company, Richmond, Va. 23261. Mocap Plus 4-2EC is a restricted use pesticide. Use only as directed on the label and observe all use precautions fully.

Aussie Branch

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)

—Some Australian residents will be able to bank at North Carolina National Bank by mid April.

The bank will be the first in the Southeastern United States to open a branch in that country. The branch is expected to be in operation April 15 in Sydney, New South Wales.

About 25 other American banks already have offices in Australia.

Hugh McColl, president of Charlotte-based NCNB, said the Sydney office "will be the key to our providing much better financial service to our U.S. customers and prospective customers who have commerce with Australia."

J. Michael Brown of Charlotte will head the new office.

Favor Bogue Sound Work

EMERALD ISLE, N. C. (AP)

—The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has released a study recommending the dredging of an eight-foot channel through Bogue Inlet at the island's western end.

At the same time, the corps recommended against construction of jetties or a shoreline protection measure, saying they would be too expensive.

David W. Hewitt, public information officer for the corps district office in Wilmington, said Tuesday the cost for construction of jetties would range from $24.5 for a single jetty to $41.5 million for dual jetties.

He said a stone revetment considered as an erosion prevention measure was ruled out because of its estimated $2.4 million cost.

The projects were included in a corps study of Bogue Banks and a navigation study of the inlet.

A final report on the study will be prepared in the next few months, after which congressional authorization for recommended projects will be sought.

Although the corps has done emergency dredging on the channel, the proposed eight-foot control depth would be the first authorized navigation link through the inlet between Bogue Banks and Hammocks Beach State Park.

The proposal calls for deepening the existing five-foot channel to eight feet and widening it to 150 feet.

Hewitt said the initial cost would be $136,000 with an annual maintenance cost of $134,000. The corps estimates that benefits to commercial and recreational vessels would amount to $450,000 a year.

Battleships Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four

huge battleships built during World War II and later consigned to mothballs would go to sea again under a $2 billion proposal being considered by the Defense Department.

The Navy is proposing that the four 54,000-ton battlewagons and an old aircraft carrier be modernized as part of an effort to reinforce the thinly-stretched fleet.

"It's worth looking into," one top official said Tuesday. "There is a good deal of enthusiasm for it."

If approved, the plan would give the Navy four more powerful warships, armed with 16-inch guns and missiles, and an additional aircraft carrier to meet its growing responsibilities in the Indian Ocean and elsewhere.

The ships could be made ready for service in two or three years, less time than it takes to build major new war vessels, Navy officials said.

The 54,000-ton battleships, commissioned in 1943 and 1944, are the Iowa, New Jersey, Missouri, and Wisconsin. All were retired in 1957, but the New Jersey was put back in service for 16 months during the Vietnam War when it bombarded shore targets. The Iowa and Wisconsin are at Philadelphia, the Missouri and New Jersey at Bremerton, Wash.

The 45,000-ton carrier Oriskany joined the fleet during the Korean War and saw extensive duty in the air war against North Vietnam before being retired to Bremerton in late 1976.

Despite their age, Navy officials said the ships still have years left in them if their communications, weapons and other equipment are brought up to date.

"For instance, you can grab an 8-ounce glass of milk and obtain 16 percent of your daily protein requirement and 36 percent of your calcium need without a single pan hitting the burner and only a minute taken from your busy day," she says. "Nature provided us with plenty of 'convenience' foods, long before the frozen food industry adopted the term. Milk and other dairy foods, such as cheese and yogurt, as well as nuts, seeds and crackers, are good examples of nutritious convenience foods."

The dietician says it's important to keep such foods on hand "so you don't fall into the coffee and doughnut trap, or even worse, the habit of eating nothing at all on a hectic day."

Says Others Unconcerned Over Plight

By MOHAMMED AFTAB
Associated Press Writer
ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — An Afghan rebel leader accused the Western and Moslem worlds of "being unconcerned spectators...while our people are floating in their own blood because of Russian atrocities." He denied the rebels are receiving aid from the United States or China.

Professor Burhanuddin Rabbani, head of a coalition of five rebel groups fighting the communist government in Afghanistan, told a news conference here Tuesday that hundreds of his men had been killed in the past four days as Soviet warplanes bombed rebel strongholds in eastern Afghan provinces near the Pakistani border.

The rebels also claimed to have inflicted heavy casualties on Afghan army troops during the fighting, which Western diplomats have said appears to be the start of a major offensive against the rebels by Afghan and Soviet troops.

Rabbani denied the rebels were receiving arms or other assistance from the United States, China or any Moslem nation that pledged support during a foreign ministers conference here in January.

But the Soviet ambassador to Japan, Dmitri Polyanski, charged today that the U.S. and Chinese governments were training "tens of thousands of well-trained guerrillas" and in effect, waging war on Afghanistan.

"The imperialists and their accomplices in Peking, disregarding the protests of the Afghan government, are in reality waging war against Afghanistan without a declaration of war," he said in a speech to Japan's National Press Club in Tokyo.

The Kremlin, which sent an estimated 70,000 troops into Afghanistan in late December, has said it will not withdraw from the neighboring Central Asian nation until what it calls outside interference stops.

Moslem Afghan rebels, who have been fighting a succession of three Marxist governments in Kabul for the past 23 months, are believed strongest in eastern Afghanistan, near the Pakistan border.

Gorilla Blood A 'Problem'

CINCINNATI (AP) — You can't be too careful when you test a gorilla for his blood type. You have to knock him out first.

The University of Cincinnati's Hoxworth Blood Center is conducting blood grouping studies on the 13 gorillas at the Cincinnati Zoo in case they ever need a transfusion.

The zoo, which claims a world record 11 gorilla births in captivity since 1970, has had a series of medical problems with the animals.

Mkubwa and Alice died in the past five months after being infected by a parasite. Another gorilla, Lash, was hospitalized when he showed symptoms of the same infection.

Marsha Stout Rohl, a donor service consultant at the blood bank, thought that the idea of taking blood samples from gorillas was amusing.

"I was sitting around thinking the other day, 'Hey, what happens if they ever need blood?'"

She said that the procedure for taking gorilla blood samples doesn't vary much from the method used with humans, except that the gorillas are knocked out with an injection fired from a dart gun.

Zoo officials said the gorillas are also getting several types of vaccinations while their blood is being grouped.

Rohl explained that gorilla and monkey blood types are similar to those humans but not interchangeable.

Designers Involved In 'Career Day'

ECU News Bureau
 Ninety-eight student and professional interior designers from the Carolinas participated in a recent "Career Day" workshop hosted by the East Carolina University School of Art and the ECU student chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers.

Special guests at the event were interior design students from UNC-Greensboro; Randolph Technical Institute, Asheville; and Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C. where other student ASID chapters are located.

Featured speaker at the event was lighting designer Raymond Grenald of Philadelphia, whose career has included architectural lighting for Carlsbad Caverns, the Atlanta Subway and the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C.

He is noted as an expert on the effects of interior lighting and architectural design upon human behavior and response.

Career Day included informal meetings between participating students and professional designers and a session on the qualifying examination administered by the National Council on Interior Design.

Student ASID chapters also met for a regional board meeting and were guests at an afternoon reception given by ECU Chancellor and Mrs. Thomas Brewer.

Names of Career Day participants include:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville — Alan Cain, Nancy Meyer, Carolyn Meyers Baker, Richard Laing, Toni Dooley, Troy Harrison, Kathi Williford, Leslie Jerrett, Dorothy Horner, Christine Phillips, Patti Caine, Sheila Morgan, Ann Flowers, Michele Arrowood, Louise Moye, Loretta Morgan, Lou Neal, Linda Austerlode, Cynthia Brewer, Rhonda Swaim, Baxter Wingfield, Sandy Monteith, Molly Jordan, Debbie Seay, Kathy Pace, Lary Wilder, Donna Potter, Debra Skut, William Owen, Becky Matthews, Stephany Honeycutt, Nancy Bolen, Harry Baxley, Darwin Huffman and Debbie Hall.

Med School Gets Grant

The East Carolina University School of Medicine has received $5,000 for cancer research from the N.C. Chapter of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The presentation was made at the group's recent state meeting in Fayetteville. Dr. Spencer Raab, chief of hematology-oncology, accepted the donation for the medical school.

"We are very grateful to this concerned group of women for their contribution to our cancer research fund," said Raab. "It certainly will benefit Eastern North Carolina by helping us strengthen our efforts in the fight against this disease."

The presentation was made by Belle Boyles of Kinston, immediate past president of the state organization. "The Cancer Aid and Research Program is one of our main projects," she said. "We were very pleased to offer this year's grant to further research that is being conducted in the eastern part of the state."

Derailment At The Same Site

WARSAW, N.C. (AP) — Several cars of a Seaboard Coast-line train tipped over Tuesday night at the site where a Seaboard engine derailed Sunday.

The train was on its way from Rocky Mount to Wilmington at the time of the 10:15 p.m. accident. Authorities said a rail snapped as the train was moving from a side track on to the main line.

No one was injured and there was little damage to the cars that tipped over. The cars affected were carrying coal and some of the cargo spilled out.

Railroad crews were traveling from Wilmington to clean up the accident.

Sunday, a train derailed while switching to the side track.

Review Plans On Status Of Women

A proposed plan of work for the Pitt County Council on the Status of Women was reviewed by council members at its meeting last week.

The plan of work was presented by Sylvia Wheelless, vice chairman. Jane Tripp and Juanita Barnhill were members of the committee. The schedule, for the remainder of the year, was approved by the group.

Chairman Jean Darden gave a report on the forthcoming Pitt County Leadership Conference scheduled for Saturday, March 29, at the Allied Health Building, East Carolina University campus. The conference will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Darden further announced a meeting of the Leadership Conference Steering Committee which was held last week.

The possibility of organizing women's civic clubs throughout the county was discussed. Mrs. Helen Simpson, region coordinator, N.C. Council on the Status of Women, distributed literature. Serving on a planning committee are Mrs. Darden, Mrs. Tripp, Mrs. Susan Nobles and Mrs. Rosalie Trotman.

The next meeting of the council will be held March 26.

Promises No Confiscation

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's new Marxist leader, Robert Mugabe, promised no confiscation of private property, a neutral foreign policy and fair treatment for the white minority.

The prime minister-designate told the nation in a TV-radio address after his landslide election victory was announced Tuesday there would be "no expropriation of property," and his government would not be aligned with the Soviet bloc or NATO.

"I urge you, whether you are white or black, to join me in a new pledge to forget the grim past," said the co-leader of the seven-year guerrilla rebellion against white rule in which some 20,000 persons were killed.

Mugabe said he would seek the cooperation of his chief political rival and co-leader of the guerrilla armies, Joshua Nkomo, and former Prime Minister Ian D. Smith, the leader of the white minority.

Nkomo, whose party won 20 of the 100 seats in the lower house of Parliament to 57 for Mugabe's party, said he welcomed the renewal of their wartime alliance. There was no comment from Smith, whose Rhodesian Front won all 20 of the seats reserved for whites.

The other three black seats were won by Bishop Abel Muzorewa's party.

"There is no intention on our part to use the advantage of the majority to victimize the minority," Mugabe told.

ing lots and ride shuttle buses.

"We don't anticipate any more problems," the chancellor noted.

As for make-up days, he said, "I'll have to discuss the matter with the academic deans and some decision will be made later."

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray said county offices will reopen tomorrow, and the meeting of the Board of Commissioners, scheduled for Monday, will be held tomorrow.

He said efforts to clear the parking lot at the court house yesterday prevented opening the county offices today as he had hoped.

Gray also noted that the Pitt County Landfill reopened this morning. He said the landfill will remain open Saturday afternoon for the convenience of county residents.

Big E's 42 Leads Bullets To Rout

By The Associated Press

The Big E has rarely been bigger — or better — than he was Tuesday night.

The Big E, also known as Elvin Hayes, connected on 18 of 27 shots — including 12 straight at one stretch — and scored a season-high 42 points to lead the surging Washington Bullets to a 135-107 rout of the Detroit Pistons. For good measure, Hayes grabbed 10 rebounds and handed out three assists.

The Bullets have won six of their last seven games to move into the Eastern Conference playoff picture. The triumph moved them ahead of Indiana in the race for the final playoff spot.

The Pistons, meanwhile, have lost 15 of their last 16 games and have a road record of 3-31.

Celtics 137, Spurs 106

Larry Bird scored 2 points and Cedric Maxwell added 23 as the Celtics routed the slumping Spurs for their seventh consecutive victory. It was the sixth consecutive loss for the Spurs — worst losing streak since they joined the NBA in 1976 — who fired Coach Doug Moe two games ago.

Rockets 93, Hawks 83

Moses Malone scored 28 points, including a 10-foot jumper that gave Houston the lead, as Atlanta's magic number to clinch the Central Division crown remained at eight. The Rockets built a 66-53 lead before the Hawks scored 13 straight points, eight by John Drew, for a tie.

Lakers 127, Bucks 124

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar hit two crucial free throws in the final seconds and combined with Jamaal Wilkes for 52 points as the Lakers snapped Milwaukee's five-game winning streak. Milwaukee pulled within 125-124 with nine seconds to go but Dave Meyers fouled Abdul-Jabbar, who made the final two of his 28 points. Wilkes had 24.

SuperSonics 98, Trail Blazers 97

Seattle guards Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams outscored Portland guards Dave Twardzik and Ron Brewer 46-10. The loss dropped the Blazers into a virtual tie with San Diego for the last Western Conference playoff berth.

Nets 114, Pacers 109

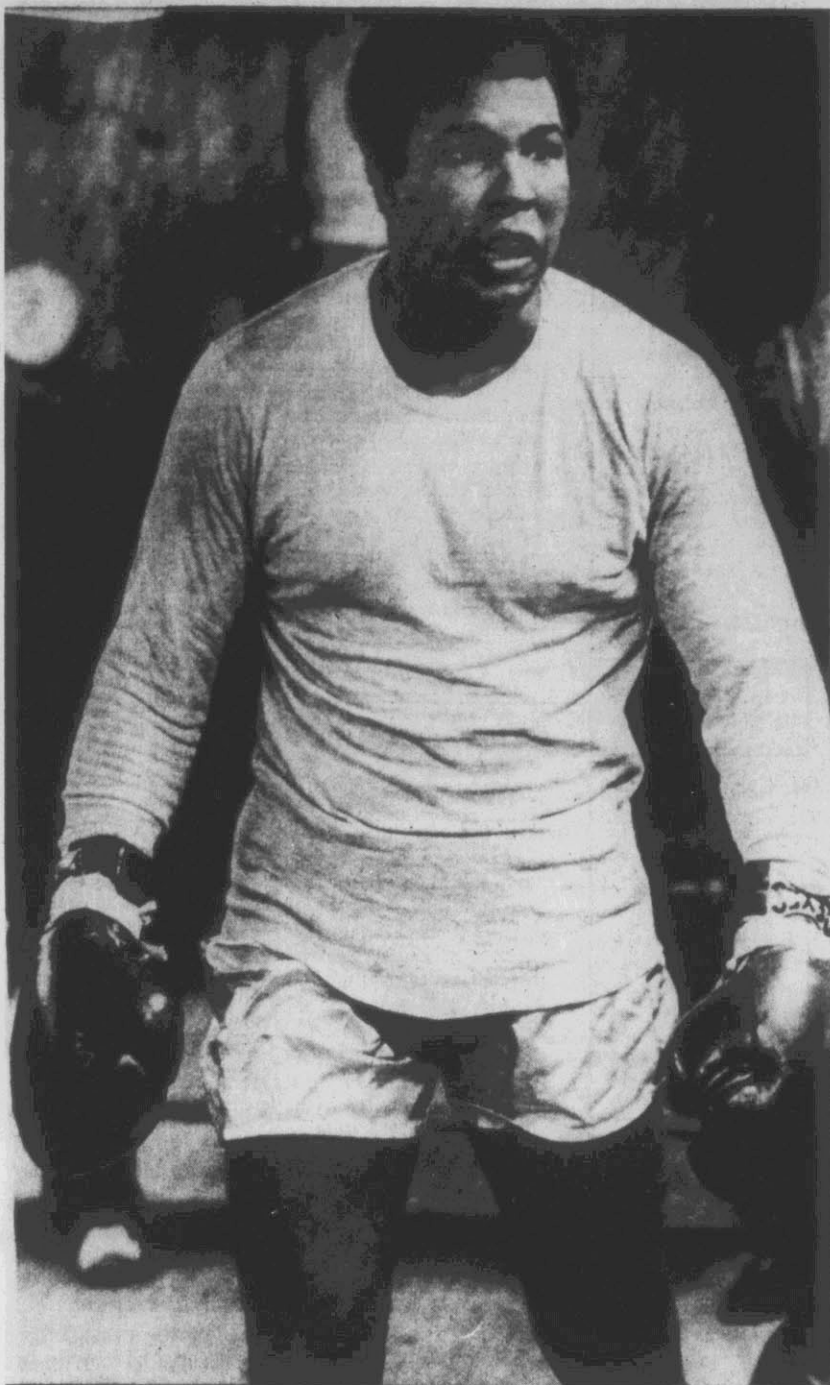

Maurice Lucas scored 25 points as New Jersey handed the Pacers their fifth straight loss, severely hurting their playoff hopes. The setback dropped the Pacers behind Washington in the playoff race. Indiana now has the eighth-best record in the Eastern Conference, three games out of the sixth and final playoff spot.

Clippers 116, Cavaliers 105

Lloyd Free scored 10 points in the third quarter and Brian Taylor added nine to rally San Diego. Sven Nater hauled in 19 rebounds and scored 13 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter to preserve the Clippers' fifth victory in their last 20 games.

Warriors 111, Jazz 105

Robert Parish paced the Warriors with 26 points, Sonny Park added 24 and John Lucas scored five key points in 15 seconds. Utah was ahead 105-102 with 1½ minutes left but Lucas hit a three-point basket, then stole the ball for a layup that put the Warriors on top.

Comeback Trail

hopes will lead to his regaining the heavyweight crown for an unprecedented fourth time. Ali weighed in at his workout at all-time high 248 pounds. (AP Laserphoto)

Ali's Returning

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm gonna shock the world." It sounds like an echo.

But it was a statement made in the present that hinted at the future.

It was Muhammad Ali talking by telephone from his training camp in Deer Lake, Pa.

On Feb. 14, Ali told The Associated Press there was a 75 percent chance of his fighting again.

Tuesday, Ali said he would spend three months at his camp to get ready to try and win the heavyweight championship of the world for the fourth time.

Today, promoter Bob Arum was to meet with Ali's manager, Jabir Muhammad (formerly Herbert Muhammad) and attorney Charles Lomax to work out a contract.

Here we go again. Arum wants to match Ali against John Tate, the World Boxing Association champion, in late June in the New Orleans Superdome for an unnamed (dream up one and it might be too low) purse.

Of course, Arum must reach an agreement with Tate and Tate must dispatch Mike Weaver March 31, the same night Larry Holmes defends the World Boxing Council title against Leroy Jones.

Ali says he's not worried about Weaver or Jones upsetting his plans.

"I'm going to be a quintuple champion," said Ali, who on his first day in camp, already was looking past Tate to Holmes. The man who retired last year after becoming the first three-time heavyweight champ by outpointing Leon Spinks Sept. 15, 1978 then explained that he would consider himself a five-time champion by beating both Tate and Holmes.

Money? Some say Ali needs money, not because he's broke but because it costs to maintain the lifestyle to which he has grown accustomed. There is also his Muslim faith. "Some of our mosques are in trouble and some of our schools are closing. I would return to keep houses of religion and schools open."

exchanged proposals and ideas...I think there is no need for any concern at this time."

Miller said his group remains hopeful that an agreement can be worked out.

The union chief pointed to record attendance levels and television income enjoyed by baseball since the last basic agreement was signed in July, 1976.

"Against this background, it is not appropriate for management to try and turn back the clock and cut," he said.

Among the cuts from Miller's point of view is the owners' attempt to impose a salary scale for the first six years of a player's major league career. It was learned that the management scale proposal starts at $40,600 for a player with less than one year of service and increased through the next five years to $53,000, $69,200, $90,300, $117,700 and $153,600.

anything. It's almost like the first week."

That was the essence of his report to the union's executive board and the result was the authorization for possible strike action.

The players board will convene another meeting April 1 in Dallas to consider further action. Miller said that if the action is ratified by the players on the 26 major league teams, but would be taken after April 1. The season is scheduled to begin April 9.

Grebeby said he had no immediate comment on the action of the players, but he disagreed with Miller's assessment of lack of progress.

"I think the bargaining sessions have been very productive," he said. "Both sides have hours. They were no nickel-and-dime ballplayers. Reggie Jackson and Tommy John of the Yankees were there, also Phil Garner of the Pirates, Bob Boone of the Phillies, the pitching Niekro brothers, and others.

"Baseball has been good to me," said Jackson. "I have to pay my dues by helping the new guys."

The last time the players struck was 1972. They missed 13 days. Eighty-six games were lost, resulting in an abbreviated season.

"It was different four years ago," Miller said. "The players were locked out in spring training."

There were more than a score of players at the Tampa meeting, which lasted 4½ board of the players association, briefing them on what he considers a lack of progress through 23 negotiating sessions over a period of 16 weeks.

"In that period of time, you should have narrowed the issues," said Miller. "Normally, it is not a difficult matter to say, 'Here is where we are.' I can't do that at this point. There are no agreements on hours Tuesday with the execu-

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Armed with a resolution directing him to seek strike authorization if a new contract is not reached by the start of the season, Marvin Miller, executive director of baseball's Players Association, today resumed talks with Ray Grebeby, chief negotiator for management.

Miller met for nearly five hours Tuesday with the execu-players' executive committee passed a resolution calling for a strike vote if an agreement is not reached by April 1.

Miller today launched a tour of the various camps to get approval. "The players are 100 percent solid behind this action," Miller said. "We have had 23 negotiating sessions in 16 weeks with no significant progress."

Right now, it's about 60-40 that there will be a strike.

Snow Brings Cancellations

The heavy snowfall of the weekend continued to have its effect on area sports Tuesday, forcing the postponement of three scheduled activities.

For the second straight time, Ayden-Grifton had a home date with Kinston delay because of the snow as the Chargers attempted to open their baseball season. Farmville Central's scheduled baseball opener at Southern Wayne was also whited out.

A tennis match sending Greene Central to Northern Nash was also forced to wait for a better day.

No new dates have been set as yet for the rescheduling of the events.

Baseball Strike On Horizon?

Marvin Miller: Stakes High

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "The stakes are big," said a haggard, disheveled Marvin Miller, sending a puff of cigarette smoke drifting lazily toward the ceiling.

Miller is a labor negotiator, one of the best. Once he took on U.S. Steel. Now he is wielding the cudgel for the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Across the table is Ray Grebeby. He's no novice in this fierce give-and-take business himself. Once he represented another industrial giant, General Electric. Now his client is baseball.

It's not nuts and bolts, boiling cauldrons and kitchen appliances they're haggling over. It's peanuts, popcorn and "get your cold beer here," not to mention the distribution of tens of millions of dollars in salaries.

It's a question of whether America's favorite pastime starts on schedule the second week of April, or never.

The situation is grim.

"They want to take away the gains players have made since free agency," says Miller, referring to the club owners. "They figure on saving $11 million or $12 million a year if they could push through their wage schedule. The money they could save changing the compensation rule would be enormous."

Put Mocap to work on nematodes before they go to work on your corn.

You've probably seen the damage nematodes can do to your corn crop. Stunted corn. Yellowed plants. Pruned roots. It can really make a difference in the return you get on your corn acres. That's why you need Mocap — nematocide-insecticide.

There's no better nematocide for corn than Mocap. And in addition to the effective nematode control it offers, Mocap provides protection against wireworms, rootworms and cutworms.

Mocap nematocide-insecticide. It works. And we've got all the Mocap you need in stock right now.

Rampants Seek Swimming Title

Rose High School's swimming teams travel to Greensboro tomorrow to take part in the State High School Championships.

And Coach Billy Thorne is hoping that the boys, unit might come back with the championship trophy.

"I think we have a real good chance to win," Thorne said. "It will take a good effort by everyone, but we do have the chance."

The Rampants completed the season with a 12-0 record in dual meets, and have several swimmers ranked right at the top in the state. Kevin Richards is ranked first in the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard backstroke, and is considered the favorite to capture those individual titles. "He's already made All-America consideration time in the butterfly," Thorne pointed out.

Mark Schmidt is ranked second in the 200-yard individual medley and is also in the top five in the 100-yard butterfly.

Other swimmers who have a chance to place highly for the boys include Jim Piephoff, in the 200 freestyle and 100 breaststroke; Eric Downs in the 200 and 500 freestyles; Steve Woodard in the 500 free and 100 backstrokes; Kevin O'Neal in the 50 freestyle; Roger Clemens in the 50 free and 100 butterfly; and David Johnson in the 100 backstroke. The 200-yard medley relay team of Richards, Piephoff, Schmidt and O'Neal are ranked first going into the meet in that event. The 400-yard freestyle relay team will consist of Clemens, O'Neal, Downs and Gary Churchill.

Kevin Coyle is a possibility to place in the diving event, which will get the meet underway on Thursday night.

The balance of the meet will be Friday.

"The girls are a question mark," Thorne said. "They lost a lot of people off last year's team, but have a few individuals who could do well."

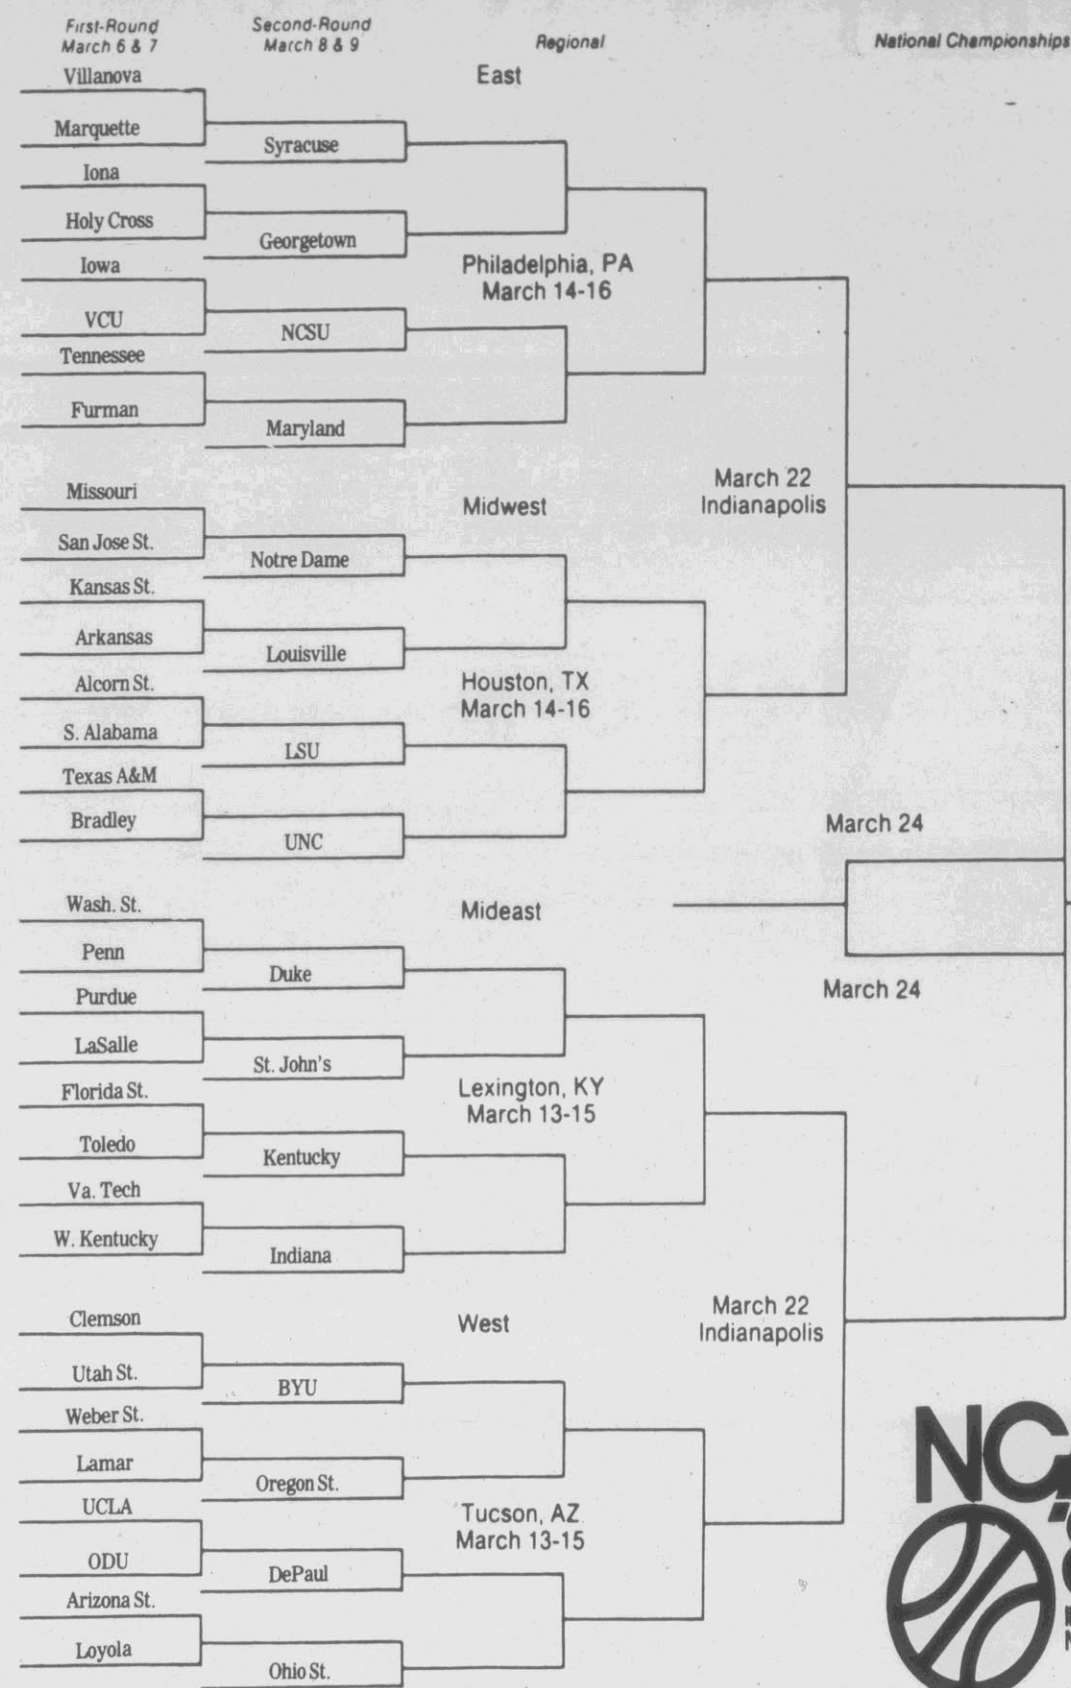

Those include Sheila Collie, coming off surgery, in the 50 and 100 freestyles, Ann Richards in the 200 and 500 freestyle and Pattie Lucido in the diving.

The girls finished third last year, up from 17th place two seasons ago, but are not expected to do as well this year.

The boys, fourth for the past two years, are expected to improve, and, Thorne hopes, maybe even come back with the state title.

NIT Continues Tonight

Penn In NCAAs

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The University of Pennsylvania became the last team into the NCAA tournament and Pepperdine became the first team out of the National Invitation Tournament. And tonight, the postseason action begins in earnest.

Penn edged Princeton 50-49 on James Salters' bucket with 10 seconds left to win a playoff for the Ivy League title at Easton, Pa. The Quakers, who made it to the Final Four last year but lost their other four starters from that team to graduation, thus completed the NCAA tourney field. Penn travels to West Lafayette, Ind., on Thursday to play Washington State in the Midwest Regional.

The NIT opened with Michael Wiley connecting for 31 points in leading Long Beach State to a 104-87 rout of Pepperdine. All five Long Beach starters hit for double figures.

The NIT continues tonight with eight first-round games. St. Peter's visits Connecticut; West Texas State is at Illinois State; Lafayette travels to Virginia; Loyola, Chicago is at Illinois; Penn State takes on the University of Alabama in a game at Birmingham, Ala.; St. Joseph's, Pa., visits Texas; Murray State goes to Jacksonville and Bowling Green is at Minnesota.

There are six more NIT openers Thursday and one more on Friday.

Other NCAA tournament sites Thursday include Greensboro, N.C., Lincoln, Neb., and Ogden, Utah. On Friday, opening round contests will take place at Providence, R.I., Bowling Green, Ky., Denton, Texas and Tempe, Ariz.

Salters is the lone starter left from Penn's surprising finalists.

"I was in that rhythm," said the captain of the 16-11 Quakers. "Last year we had something to prove; we knew how good we were. This year we don't know how good we are ourselves."

"I was really proud the way the kids hung in," said Penn Coach Bob Weinbauer. "With one senior guard — and we lost three possible starters to injuries — they just kept hanging in all year."

Salters led Penn with 15 points and impressed Pete Carril, coach of the 15-15 Tigers. "The whole thing came down to a tough shot and he's been making tough shots all year."

Long Beach State's Wiley added 12 rebounds to his 31 points and Francois Wise had 15 points and 18 rebounds.

"We played the first 10 minutes about as well as we could play," said 49ers Coach Tex Winter. "In our last five or six games teams held the ball on us and kept us on defense. We were foaming at the mouth to get in a running game, like a racehorse that is trying to get out and run."

"I guess as long as you are in the game, these things are going to happen," noted Pepperdine Coach Jim Harrick. "Long Beach played exceptionally well. We missed some shots we normally should have made, but you cannot take anything away from Long Beach."

The 49ers, second place finishers in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, are 22-11. Pepperdine, 17-11, were third in the West Coast Athletic Conference and had beaten Long Beach 95-94 earlier this year.

Valentine Speaks At Sports Club

Zack Valentine, former East Carolina University defensive end, now a linebacker with the Pittsburgh Steelers, will be the speaker for the Greenville Sports Club's regular meeting to be held Thursday at the Greenville Country Club.

The buffet luncheon line will open at 12 noon, with the program starting at 12:30 p.m.

Valentine, who was an outstanding player for the Pirates for four years, was signed by the Steelers last spring, and went on to become an outstanding member of this year's specialty team on the World Champions, earning "Player of the Year" honors on that unit for the team.

The meeting will be the next-to-last regular meeting for the club. Dr. Thomas Brewer, chancellor of East Carolina University, will be the speaker for the final regular meeting, set for March 18.

Banquet Postponed

East Carolina University's annual Football Banquet, scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Building, has been postponed.

The banquet will be held at a later date, to be decided.

Officials said that the heavy snows would create a parking problem at the Legion building tonight, and felt that a later date would be advisable.

The banquet annually honors members of the team, as trophies are presented to outstanding players.

Nicklaus Out To Prove Himself

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus will be attempting to prove something to his toughest, most severe critic this week in the $300,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Golf Classic.

"I'm not worried about proving myself to anyone else," Nicklaus said after a practice round over the 7,127 yard, par 72 Inverrary Golf Club course.

"But I always have to prove myself to me."

So far, he hasn't done it. He knows it. He's the first to admit it.

And, with the single-minded determination that helped make him the greatest player golf has ever known, the Golden Bear is concentrating all his formidable talents and energies on an attempt at changing that situation.

"Every two or three years, someone wants to write me off," he said.

"I don't intend to be written off."

He's been practicing at home about six hours a day for several weeks now, something he's rarely done before. His long-time teacher, Jack Grout, has spent countless hours with him. He's working as hard or harder than ever before.

Generally, Nicklaus said he is hitting the ball very well, at age 40 he's physically sound, and he's again eager to play. His comeback from the first non-winning year of his matchless career is going pretty well according to schedule.

Although he has been less than overwhelming in two previous starts this year, he has to be considered the man to beat in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday. The Inverrary course, within commuting distance from his home at North Palm Beach, is one of his favorite playgrounds. He's won here three times and has finished fourth or better in six of eight previous appearances.

While Tom Watson, a two-time winner this season, is among the missing, the 144-man field is a strong one. It includes all of the current Big Four title-holders, Seve Ballesteros of Spain (British Open), Hale Irwin (U.S. Open), David Graham of Australia (PGA), and Fuzzy Zoeller (Masters).

Other leading players include defending champion Larry Nelson, Hubert Green, Jerry Pate, Johnny Miller, Lou Graham, Lee Trevino and Dave Eichelberger, a winner last Sunday in the Bay Hill Classic.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Melton Looks For More Wins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The two previous Ladies Professional Golf Association tournaments at Rancho Park have been a microcosm of the Nancy Lopez Melton success story. She hopes to relive that part of her past this week.

The 23-year-old superstar of women's golf has been the dominant force on the LPGA tour the past two years, but wasn't so recognized when she won the first tournament here in 1978.

However, it didn't take long for Melton to be acknowledged as the premiere woman in her sport as she cut a formidable swath through the spring and summer months.

Last year, her victory at Rancho Park was no surprise — it was one of eight tournament triumphs and by that time, she was No. 1.

Melton set an all-time single-year earnings record in 1979 of $197,488 in official earnings in 19 tournaments and $215,987 in 22 total events, eclipsing the high monetary marks she established in her rookie year.

In 2½ seasons, she's earned nearly $420,000 and ranks 11th on the all-time LPGA money-winning list.

But now, although it sounds difficult to believe, she's attempting a comeback of sorts. And what better a place to begin than Rancho Park?

This year's event has a gross purse of $125,000 as compared to the $100,000 of the past two years. About 100 women will shoot for the $18,750 first prize in the 72-hole event which runs Thursday through Sunday at the par-72, 6,250-yard Rancho course.

Melton hasn't enjoyed much success this year, finishing in a tie for 24th in the first event of 1980 and a tie for fourth in the second event after shooting 77 in the first round.

She took two weeks off before returning to action at the first Sun City, Ariz., Classic, last week, where she wound up tied for 11th.

How's The Weather? UFO-Hunting Hobby Growing

WEATHER MAP — Snow flurries are expected in the forecast period until Thursday morning for the Northeast. Showers are in store for the central Pacific coast and warmer temperatures are expected in the southern states from California to Florida. (AP Laserphoto Map)

The prospect of wet, windy weather hung over North Carolina today as the state continued to dig and melt its way out of one of its worst winter snows. A cold front in western Tennessee this morning was tracking eastward and was expected to be off the North Carolina coast by tonight. Strong southwesterly winds bringing moisture into the state combined with the cold front to spread showers from the mountains to the coast. Locally heavy rain was expected to develop in some of the showers and there also was the prospect of some thunderstorms as temperatures warmed during the afternoon. Considerable melting occurred Tuesday helping to clear snow-covered streets and roads and the rains were expected to lend additional help in washing away snow today.

At the same time, the National Weather Service warned against possible flooding from the combination of rain and melting snow. On the coast, the increasing southwesterly winds prompted the posting of small craft advisories for winds from 15 to 25 mph. The advisories also were in effect for sounds. Temperatures today were expected to climb to around 50 over the northwest and range to the upper 60s in the southeast. The forecast called for lows tonight from around 20 in the northwest to the low 40s on the coast.

Thursday is expected to be mostly sunny with highs in the 40s in the mountains and the 50s elsewhere.

Less Aid For Local Govm't

WASHINGTON (AP) — A balanced budget will mean less federal aid for local governments, the chairman of the Senate Budget Committee warns.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, told more than 1,200 county officials Tuesday: "I must tell you as a friend that local government will not be immune from a share of the burden nor should it be." He cautioned that officials will only impair their credibility if they refuse to accept any cuts and "insist that every line item is vital to the welfare of every local community."

APPEAL FOR FOOD
KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Ugandan President Godfrey Binaisa has made an urgent appeal to the international community for aid to help feed about 200,000 people he says are facing starvation in northeastern Uganda.

By LINDA DUFFIELD
Associated Press Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — On a cold, crisp night last December, the phone rang at a suburban police station. The caller told officers he had just seen something strange in the sky.

The man said the thing was a dullish red color when he first spotted it, then it changed to blue. About the time the object changed color, he said, his car started running funny.

Twenty minutes later, a second man called Baltimore-Washington International Airport. Traveling in the same area of Baltimore County as the first caller, he said he had seen something that looked like a rocket sitting in a field. As he watched, the thing rose from the ground and took off, he said.

The callers were referred to John Lutz, Maryland director of Odyssey Research, a non-profit organization that also operates in Delaware, southern Pennsylvania, eastern West Virginia and northern Virginia. The callers became sources of two of the many reports of sightings of unidentified flying objects Lutz receives each year. He describes his interest in UFOs as a "hobby that has mushroomed."

Lutz and the other 15 Maryland members interview people who claim to have seen UFOs or other unexplained phenomena. When warranted, they make field trips to check areas where the sightings occurred. And Lutz is a believer.

"UFOs, I think, are one of the greatest mysteries of our time, and I think nobody really wants to pursue it," he says. "I am not out to convince anyone UFOs exist, or anything exists," he says. "That is one thing I have learned over the years."

He also feels earthlings are not in any danger from extraterrestrial creatures who may drop in for a visit now and then.

"I don't think we have anything really to fear from them," he says. "I think they are here for experimentation. They are seeing how we live."

As an investigator, Lutz contacts people who have reported any type of strange occurrence, preferably soon after the sighting.

"The faster you get back to people, the more accurate the story is going to be," he says, "because if they think about for 24, 48 or 72 hours, they tend to exaggerate a little bit more." Lutz says Odyssey Research has checked about 480 claims of sightings in Maryland since 1970. The December incident was one of about 90 reported sightings the group investigated in 1979. Lutz went to the field where the second caller had reported seeing the rocket. He went over the area but found no evidence of a rocket takeoff. "We left that as an unknown," Lutz says.

It wasn't the first unexplained occurrence in the state. In February 1976 a man reported seeing a small triangular cloud of dull white moving along the bottom of the cloud cover at about 5,100 feet. Lutz went to the scene near Baltimore and saw it himself, and at about the same time airport radar picked up an "unidentified blip."

Lutz also recalls a day when about 1,000 dead ducks dropped out of the sky in St. Marys City. He says he's unconvinced by theories that the ducks flew into an airplane or a high building before dropping to the ground.

He remembers an incident in February 1978 when a pilot contacted the airport control tower in Hagerstown, saying he had just seen an unidentified object and had been blinded. Before help could be summoned, Lutz says, the plane crashed into a mountain and the pilot was killed.

Of the reports of aerial phenomena referred to him by police, fire and other agencies, Lutz says, about 75 percent can be identified. The rest, he says, remain mysteries — true UFOs.

Since he became interested in the study of unexplained phenomena in 1970, Lutz has devoted a good deal of his spare time to investigating reports of the unexplained — not just aerial phenomena, but geological phenomena, strange animals and "Big Foot," the legendary apeman of the Pacific Northwest.

The rest of the time, he works as a dispatcher in Baltimore city's Transit and Traffic division and, since he works different shifts, is able to spend some daylight hours and his days off checking locations where different phenomena have been reported.

Lutz and his cohort often encounter difficulties when trying to investigate UFO reports.

Lutz says he feels the government covers up a lot of information it has about aerial sightings. And movies and television shows dealing with subjects such as UFOs "hurt true investigators more than they help."

But perhaps the biggest obstacle, according to Lutz, is the attitude of the people first reporting the sightings. They are embarrassed, he says, "afraid of being ridiculed."

Job Protection For Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several thousand employees of the bankrupt Milwaukee Road and Rock Island railroads will be given job protection under an agreement between 17 railroads and 15 unions.

The labor and management forces agreed to the protection Tuesday. But protection for as many as 5,400 Rock Island employees who may not be hired must await congressional action on bills submitted to Congress by the Transportation Department. Those bills call for the same protection guaranteed unhired Milwaukee Road workers by earlier congressional action.

'White Mama' Carries Its Implausible Turns

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A movie that begins by bringing together a sweet little old lady and a wild street kid is already knee-deep in hokum. The only question is, how long will the thing fight before it sinks?

"White Mama," tonight's CBS movie with Bette Davis, is still on its feet at the end. That this movie doesn't go under is no fault of the material — it's loaded with implausible turns from start to finish.

It is saved by sheer force of will, exerted by Miss Davis and her co-star, Ernest Harden Jr. They reach into the story and extract a relationship you wouldn't think possible from reading the storyline.

Miss Davis (in her 50th year in the movie biz, by the way) plays a penniless widow who intends to make it through her remaining years on stubborn pride and a heavy dose of the work ethic morality. She takes in a troubled kid in exchange for $100 bucks weekly paid by county authorities.

"If you ask me, you've lost your mind," her neighbor tells her. "I'd go on welfare first."

Even at this early juncture, Miss Davis has so strongly established her character, you know that the dole is beyond question. Not only will she take in a troubled youngster, she'll earn her money. She will help him make something of himself.

Enter the kid. Big, surly and possessed of a manner that suggests Mrs. Malone's good intentions will soon be severely tested. In a prolonged sizing-up gaze, Miss Davis and young Mr. Harden say more than the next 10 pages of the script — mutual apprehension, regret and challenge.

She is soon to learn that the "nice building, with nice people" where her daughter once went to school has become a ghetto prison of sorts, a place where troubled kids are dealt with by being sentenced to "the tank" — a wild, detention hall where semi-literate do time until graduation.

She resolves to teach him herself, and he is willing. The bond is set.

One of the dictates of the plot is that white mama and black street-kid recognize sub-surface needs and develop a mutual dependency. Unfortunately, subtlety was not called into service.

Instead of letting their needs be just of the emotional sort (which is plenty enough), his need takes the form of a stab wound, which requires her constant attention. Her concrete need is her sudden eviction, which forces her to become a street-prowling "bag-lady," a quick and utter transformation that is in the least a considerable distraction.

But things work out, as you knew they would from the beginning, and the effect of the whole thing is uplifting. It works, this nice-old-lady-and-wild-street-kid story, in spite of itself.

Souvenir Of '78 Blizzard

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Following the great blizzard of 1978, an Ottawa Lake, Mich., man stored a couple of truckloads of snow in his basement.

Now, in the American tradition of gimmick souvenirs, 40 gallons of the melted snow are on the market — canned, crocked and ready to go. It may never achieve the popularity of pet rocks, but then there's only a limited supply.

"It may be the last 40 gallons of 1978 blizzard water in the world," said owner Ken Dressel, who is selling the water at no set price but is willing to accept any good offer.

Dressel, a former electronic technician at the Toledo Express Airport, placed an advertisement in the Toledo Blade for the now-murky water. It brought a flurry of responses, but most callers seemed to consider the sale some kind of a snow job.

"I'm having trouble getting people to take me seriously," he said.

Former Television Tarzan Said Tapped To Be Miss America MC

By PETER MATTIAE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Former television Tarzan Ron Ely is going to succeed popular Bert Parks as emcee of the Miss America Pageant, sources say, but he won't be crooning his predecessor's trademark "There She Is" to tearful beauties.

The 42-year-old Ely, now host of "Face the Music," a syndicated TV game show, was to be named as the pageant's new master of ceremonies at a news conference today, the sources said.

Pageant chairman Albert A. Marks Jr., who fired Parks after 25 years as pageant host and took a heap of abuse for doing so, refused Tuesday to discuss the identity of the new emcee.

Sources close to the pageant that has launched the careers of such beauties as Phyllis George Brown and Bess Myer-son said Ely will not sing the traditional theme song, and instead a beefed-up orchestra will play the tune as the winner is announced.

At 6-foot-4, Ely was the 14th Tarzan and the first actor to play the role on television, from 1966 until 1969. He did most of his own stunts for the program, but the jungleman's famous yell was the recorded voice of best-known movie Tarzan, Johnny Weissmuller.

Ely played Mike Madison in the CBS-TV series "Aquanauts," later called "Malibu Run," in 1961. He first appeared on television in "Father Knows Best" in the 1950s. He has also performed in several movies.

Born in Hereford, Tex., and a former oilfield roughneck, Ely now lives in Pacific Palisades, Calif.

Parks had no immediate comment, but his wife, Annette, said Tuesday, "We wish he has 25 years of lovely joy the way Bert did — but higher pay, of course."

Parks, who called his firing "a shabby trick," had claimed to have only a passing interest in the identity of his successor. At 65, he's enjoying the sun at his Hollywood, Fla., winter home and the publicity his dismissal triggered.

"I feel great, man. I've never felt better in my life and I've never worked harder in my life," Parks said in a telephone interview.

"Have you seen all the specials I've been doing? And it's going to get better and better."

Parks, 67, was let go because the 59-year-old pageant wanted a new image, Marks said. It was erroneously reported that the reason was age.

Pageant officials were known to be considering three other candidates recently: actor Gary Collins, husband of Mary Ann Mobley, Miss America 1959; actor Gavin MacLeod, star of television's "Love Boat" series; and actor Ken Howard, star of TV's "White Shadow" series.

Others considered were actor Chad Everett, star of the new "Hagen" series, and entertainer John Davidson, who is to take over Westinghouse's "Mike Douglas" program.

Turned Out For Loretta's Film

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Who's Who of country music went to the movies to celebrate the opening of Loretta Lynn's life story "Coal Miner's Daughter."

The film, based on Miss Lynn's autobiography, opens Friday around the country. But Tuesday night it was an invitation-only gala at the Belle Meade Theater.

Among the 900 on the guest list were country music entertainers Minnie Pearl, Ernest Tubbs, Tom T. Hall, Hank Snow and Faron Young.

Also on hand were Sissy Spacek, who portrays Miss Lynn in the movie; Tommy Lee Jones, who plays her husband; Phyllis Boyens, who plays her mother, and Levon Helm, who plays her father.

The film opens with Miss Lynn as a 13-year-old bride and impoverished coal miner's daughter in Kentucky and runs through her country music career in the early 1970s.

CBS Surges Back Into Front Of The Nielsens

NEW YORK (AP) — After struggling for two weeks in the face of ABC's Winter Olympics coverage, CBS surged back in the week ending March 2, and renewed its challenge to the front-runner for season-long supremacy.

With eight of the week's 10 top-rated programs, CBS finished No. 1 in the prime-time ratings race by more than four ratings points over ABC, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

CBS finished behind both ABC and NBC the previous week, making the rebound that much more significant. It was CBS' widest winning margin over ABC this season.

For the season, ABC's edge over CBS is two-tenths of a ratings point — though there is some disagreement among the networks over the averages for that competition.

The difference in the week for CBS was the three-part miniseries, "Scrupes," and the network's broadcast of the 22nd Grammy Awards program.

The week's No. 1 show was CBS' "Alice," with "60 Minutes" second, but "Scrupes," based on Judith Krantz's best-seller, was stronger each evening in its three-part run. Part III was fourth in the ratings, with Part II in 10th place and Part I ranked 16th.

CBS' rating for the week was 22.4, to 18.3 for ABC and 17 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 22.4 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

The rating for "Alice," meanwhile, was 30.8. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 30.8 percent saw at least part of the program.

A good part of CBS' ratings strength for the week was concentrated on a single evening — Sunday night. Of the six CBS shows that night, five were in the Top 10 for the week, and the sixth, "Archie Bunker's Place," finished 13th in the ratings.

The big loser that night was ABC's Sunday night movie, "Attica," which finished 33rd. NBC and ABC each had a single show among the 10 highest-rated; NBC, "Little House on the Prairie" in fifth place, ABC, "Three's Company" ninth.

The week's Top 10: "Alice," with a rating of 30.8 representing 23.5 million homes, "60 Minutes," 30.5 or 23.3 million, "The Jeffersons," 30.2 or 23 million, and "Scrupes," Part III, 29.1 or 22.2 million, all CBS; "Little House on the Prairie," 28.3 or

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

In this third and final night of the Halifax series, Billy Graham turns to the subject of the signs that point to the final days of the world. This revealing sermon examines these signs and tells how we can be better prepared for the second coming by committing our lives now to Jesus. All that is happening in the world—the famines, pestilence, the Anti-Christian movements, the violence has been prophesied in the Bible. The only hope of redemption that we have is through Jesus Christ.

They were television's "golden years." The days of experimentation and daring. Bright hopes and live performances. See film clips from the early programs, when television was a new thrill. Hosted by Lucille Ball, Red Skelton, David Janssen, Dinah Shore, and more.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have all kinds of opportunities to attend to matters that require resourcefulness and ingenuity now. Make plans early to carry them out.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study every angle of your financial affairs and set up a sensible plan for the days ahead. Think of loved ones, especially the children.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Enjoy the company of old friends and make new ones who can help to make your life richer. Be wide awake to new opportunities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show your finest talents at the work you are doing and get excellent benefits from it. Don't spend money faster than it comes in.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be with good friends and relieve tensions you have been under for a long time. Be careful not to exploit friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan more time for home improvements and bring more happiness there. Study a plan well before you put it in operation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have talks with partners that bring more accord, respect and benefits today. Handle any communications matters wisely and quickly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to add appreciably to present income if you take advantage of opportunities as they present themselves.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't waste time on a project that doesn't have the approval of higher-ups. Be careful not to embarrass an associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Meet problems as they arise and stop worrying needlessly. You have the support of friends and kin.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good friends will help you to gain a desired wish, even if they are temperamental. Entertain them later, but spend within your means.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have a lot of enthusiasm now and are able to accomplish much. Be sure to handle all credit affairs wisely.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) New situations arise that could help you advance since you understand them well. You learn a good deal you had not known before.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be able to study puzzling situations and conditions and come up with the right answers. Many brilliant new ideas occur to your progeny which can result in success. Sports are fine here.

Advises Against 'Closed Courts'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A legal researcher has advised North Carolina judges and prosecutors that in light of recent state court rulings the public may have a right to require that court proceedings be open to them.

Robert L. Farb of the University of North Carolina's Institute of Government stated the opinion in a paper mailed this week to appellate judges, trial judges, district attorneys and other court officers.

Farb, in a detailed analysis that carries no legal authority, said the state's Supreme Court has never squarely addressed what is meant by a provision of the state constitution that says, "All courts shall be open."

The question of closed courtrooms was raised in North Carolina last year when pretrial hearings in a McDowell County murder case were closed.

Farb's opinion differs from one issued recently by the North Carolina Center for Public Policy Research, a non-profit public-interest group. The center said the state constitution requires that trials and pre-trial hearings be conducted in public session.

"From my research it's not clear that the 'open courts' provision definitely provides public access," Farb said.

Last year the U.S. Supreme Court said, in its Gannett v. DePasquale decision, that the Sixth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution doesn't give the public a right to attend pretrial hearings in a criminal case.

Farb said two North Carolina Supreme Court decisions in 1957 and 1976 provide "a possible recognition of a public right of access" to any court proceeding.

"It indicates the court has an inclination and very well may decide there is a public right of access," Farb said in an interview. "But there is tension between earlier North Carolina cases and recent ones about public right to access."

The state's constitution will remain unclear until a test case is taken before the North Carolina Supreme Court, Farb concluded.

College Faces Foreclosure

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Foreclosure proceedings have started against the administration building at financially strapped Durham College.

In January, trustees of the predominantly black, two-year institution decided to close the school's doors until September when it will reopen if fund-raising efforts are successful.

A trial on the foreclosure of the administration building was to have been held Monday, but was cancelled because of snow.

More proceedings will begin about the middle of this month on the men's dormitory, said William Marsh, an attorney for North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co.

And the college must pay $47,000 by the end of March on its women's dormitory or that building will be sold at auction, said Irvin P. Breedlove Jr., attorney for Central Carolina Bank.

Officials of N.C. Mutual, Mechanics and Farmers Bank and Durham College refused to say how much the college owes on bond issues for the administration building and men's dormitory.

Breedlove said CCB is trustee of a $700,000 bond issue raised in 1973 to buy and renovate the women's residence hall.

Creditors have filed about $120,000 in liens against the college.

Navy Says A-6 Aircraft Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it has checked its A-6 family of aircraft and found them safe, despite a series of crashes.

The planes were grounded Feb. 27 after the crash of an EA-6B plane near Whidbey Island, Wash., which killed three persons. But the Navy said Tuesday that the planes can resume flights "with a continued emphasis on safety."

It said that a survey during the grounding period "indicated that safety procedures were sufficient to warrant resumption of flight operations."

Don't Take the Common Cold Too Casually

It looks as if the upper respiratory infections that seem to plague all of us are going to be around for a while. To some people it may be the "common cold," to others the "flu," and still others may call it the "grippe."

Fortunately, most of these upper respiratory infections subside with a moderate amount of medical attention. Yet, the misery associated with them can be alleviated with some specific measures.

I think it was George Bernard Shaw who once said that the ideal way to treat the common cold was "with contempt." Implicit in this typical Shavian jest may lie the possibility of neglect.

No upper respiratory infection should be neglected. Some of them are caused by viruses, such as the flu. Others are caused by bacteria.

Doctors sometimes take throat cultures to determine if the streptococcus germ is the offender. Then specific antibiotics are prescribed.

Viral infections are not affected by the antibiotics. Nevertheless, some doctors use antibiotics in the hope that they will ward off a secondary infection by bacterial invasion.

In the early stage of an infection, people should indulge themselves with bedrest. The aches in the joints and muscles, and the general feeling of exhaustion, can be eased by restriction of activity.

If fever is present, aspirin — taken regularly at four- to six-hour intervals around the clock — can be helpful.

If nasal drops are used, they should be used with great care and only for a few days, in order to avoid their habit-forming tendency. Prolonged use of nose drops may lead to persistent congestion of the nose and the so-called "rebound" phenomenon. Then, more and more drops are required to make breathing possible.

The use of steam inhalation is probably the single most important contribution to soothing the irritated lining of the entire bronchial tree. Every family should have a good, stable, non-tippable steam inhaler. It is of extreme value for cases of laryngitis, bronchitis, and chest congestion.

The application of hot compresses to the neck can relieve swollen glands and help make swallowing easier.

The cough that is so often associated with these upper respiratory infections very often persists for a long time. They may present a difficult problem. The question always arises as to whether a cough should be suppressed or encouraged. That decision should rest with the doctor.

After an infection is controlled and the fever has subsided, there is a tendency to return to school or to work too quickly. An extra day or two of rest will hasten a full recovery. The debilitation and weakness that follows these infections can be modified with a nutritious, high protein diet. Don't take these infections too casually. They deserve your indulgence.

Talent Program Sunday Night

A talent program will be held at Mount Calvary F.W.B. Church Sunday at 7 p.m., with the Senior Choir as sponsor.

Featured will be the Gospelaires, the Echos of Calvary and the Phillips Sisters. Proceeds will be used for a bus fund. The public is invited, says the Choir Pres. Rachel Williams.

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — CONSCIENTIOUS COP PROVIDED TRUE EVIDENCE.
Today's Cryptiquip clue: D equals A

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding:

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT 3 ♦
Pass Pass 3 NT Pass

Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

The pass is one of the most overlooked calls in bridge. It has fallen into disrepute as a sign of weakness, despite the fact that, in some sequences, it is a strong, forcing action. For instance, in many competitive auctions, a pass, far from saying, "I do not have enough to continue," says, "I am too strong to double and want you to bid unless you think it is better to double!"

Today we illustrate a competitive situation where a forcing pass can be used effectively. Study this hand and the auction—it will earn you dividends. Few will quarrel with North's decision to open with a demand bid or with South's negative response. When West competes freely, what should North do?

Instinctively, most players would rebid four hearts, but is that correct? First and foremost, North has no guarantee that he can make ten tricks at a heart contract opposite a bust—which partner might have. But that is not the major objection. Since North's opening bid was forcing-to-game, there is no need for him to act now—the force is still on! South must either bid or double the opponents for penalties, and North will then have a better idea of the hand's potential, no matter what his partner chooses.

When South announced a spade stopper with his bid of three no trump, North realized that a no trump contract might prove safer than a suit game. And slam was not out of the question if his partner had the right values. He invited with four no trump and South accepted on the strength of his diamonds.

West chose the safe lead of the jack of hearts. Declarer ran his tricks, squeezing both defenders down to two clubs. After taking the club finesse, he ended up with all the tricks.

We would not have enjoyed being declarer had West chanced upon a club lead. Not being clairvoyant, we would have eschewed the finesse in the hope of cashing eleven red suit tricks. Now the 5-0 diamond break would have doomed the slam.

N.C. Banks To Follow Trend

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Four of North Carolina's largest banks announced Tuesday they would increase their prime lending rates by a half point to 17½ percent.

The banks followed a trend by some of the nation's largest financial institutions. North Carolina National Bank of Charlotte, Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. of Winston-Salem and First Union National Bank of Charlotte said they had raised their prime rates to 17½ effective Tuesday.

ECU Hosts Industrial Workshop

A workshop on academic preparation for physical science graduates planning industrial careers will be presented at East Carolina University Friday, March 7.

The program, "The University-Industry Interface: The Preparation and Role of the Physical Scientist in Industry," will begin at 9:30 a.m. in ECU's Wilts Building and run to 1:30 p.m. All interested persons, particularly industrial personnel, are invited to attend.

Speaking on aspects of the role of the industrial scientist will be representatives from Burroughs Wellcome Co., E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., Procter and Gamble Paper Products Co., Union Carbide Corp. and several educators.

A detailed description of a National Science Foundation project to develop an undergraduate program in applied physical sciences will be also presented.

The workshop is sponsored by the ECU Departments of Chemistry and Physics, and the Physical Sciences Departments of Elizabeth City State and Pembroke State Universities, with support of a grant from the National Science Foundation.

According to Dr. Angelo Volpe of the ECU chemistry department, the workshop is the first in a series of such events seeking to foster cooperative interactions between universities and industries.

Three persons were rescued from a grocery store Tuesday, after a beam supporting the roof buckled, apparently under the weight of melting snow, and the roof collapsed about 6 p.m.

Authorities said there were a number of shoppers in the Piggy Wiggly store at the time of the accident, but they managed to escape on their own.

The three trapped persons were rescued within an hour of the collapse. One of them, a man, was transferred from Duplin General Hospital to New Hanover Memorial Hospital for treatment of possible back injuries and nerve damage, a hospital spokesman said.

The other two were treated in the Duplin hospital's emergency room for bruises and lacerations, said Richard Harrell, hospital administrator.

Rescue officials identified the three as Norma Brock, J.D. Harper and Ira Melton. Harrell declined to say which of the men was suffering from possible back injuries.

Fire Department Capt. Hampton Hobbs said about half a dozen persons, including employees, were inside the store.

"I think what helped them was that they had the carts lined up at the front of the store. They took the impact of the beam and gave the people room to get out," Hobbs said.

About a foot of snow fell in Faison during the weekend and Hobbs said water from melting snow may have saturated the roof, adding to the weight of the remaining snow.

Churchman Eyes Trip To Africa

LONDON (AP) — The new Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, will go to Africa in May for his first foreign visit as spiritual leader of the Church of England and head of the world's 65 million Anglicans.

"The trip is for the inauguration of a new Anglican province of Burundi, Rwanda and Zaire on May 11," the prime's press secretary, John Miles, said Tuesday.

Your Choice!

Say it all with terry! It's a spring turn-on and the season's sure fire hit. Start with our basic little tee top, pared to perfection, in softest spun polyester terry. Underscore the tee look with zingy shorts to make it a team play. The shorts come in polyester or polyester/cotton terry. We have the colors and you're in charge of the look. Mix to your heart's content and your fashion look is in focus for now through summer. You'll be delighted, not only with our price and selection, but also with the quality of the terry and the careful workmanship that went into the finishing. Try us, you'll like us. Misses' sizes.
