Schultze Warns Of Inflation's Spread

WASHINGTON (AP) — Double-digit inflation, which was blamed mainly on soaring energy and housing costs last year, now appears to be spreading to the economy in general.

"It's a very, very dangerous development," Charles L. Schultze, chairman of President Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, said.

Speaking at a political action conference of the Communications Workers of America on Wednesday, Schultze said January and February consumer price reports showed that "for the first time, inflation began to spill out...into the economy more broadly."

In other economic developments:

—Carter was reported ready to propose even deeper budget cuts than those outlined in his new inflation-fighting program two weeks ago.

—New government figures indicated Americans are putting less money in savings accounts and withdrawing more. That could mean less money available in coming months for home mortgages.

Schultze said the administration has concentrated on limiting double-digit inflation to energy and housing areas. Government economists estimated that costs for items were well under 10 percent in 1979.

However, during the past three months, prices for medical care rose at an annual rate of about 17 percent and entertainment costs were up 10.3 percent on a yearly basis.

Inflation during the first two months of 1980 accelerated at an annual rate of 18 percent, up from 13.3 percent last year. If that rate continues, it would be the highest level since World War II price controls were lifted in 1946.

The administration's new anti-inflation program is keyed to a balanced federal budget, credit controls, a 10-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax and wage-price monitoring.

Carter is expected to unveil his revised 1981 budget next week, and his press secretary, Jody Powell, said the cuts from the budget recommendations submitted in January will be closer to $16 billion, instead of the $13 billion to $14 billion range announced earlier. The new figure would approximate spending cuts proposed by the House Budget Committee.

Meanwhile, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said savings deposits at federally insured savings and loan associations rose $1 billion last month — the poorest February showing since 1970. The growth in new net savings was down 61 percent from February 1979 and down from January's $1.2 billion increase.

Jay Janis, chairman of the bank board, said new savings in February came entirely in the first half of the month. "Associations actually lost funds after mid-February, strongly suggesting poorer savings flows in the months ahead."

The board, which oversees the nation's 4,700 federally insured savings and loan associations, also said interest credited to savings accounts in February was $700 million, "unusually large for a non-end-of-the-quarter month." That indicated more interest being credited on accounts when funds are withdrawn and on short-term certificates at maturity, the board said.

Disclaim Most Census Queries

By RANDOLPHE SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Census Bureau doesn't care what your religion is, who you sleep with or whether you have a pet. But it does have lots of other questions and the census forms arriving in tomorrow's mail may seem too probing for some people.

If that is your impression, please don't blame the Census Bureau, pleads director Vincent Barabba.

"These are not the Census Bureau's questions," he said. "They are what the American people brought forth in 70 public hearings or were suggested by Congress or federal agencies."

The questionnaires being delivered to 86 million homes Friday are the basis of the nation's 20th census. Bureau officials hope at least 80 percent will be filled out and mailed back by Tuesday.

For most people that will be a simple exercise, taking 15 minutes or less, to answer the 19 questions on the short form.

But for one family in six — more in rural areas — it will take about 45 minutes to handle the long form, which has an extra 20 personal and 26 housing questions.

Your answers and those of other Americans are compiled to develop a statistical profile of the nation and no information on any individual is made public. The count itself is required by the

Arrest 14th In Drugs Round-Up

By STUART SAVAGE

Timothy Wayne Gaye, 19 of Monroe, a resident of 212 Aycock Dorm on the East Carolina University campus, was arrested yesterday by Greenville Police on charges of possession and sale of cocaine.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Gaye was taken into custody about 10:15 a.m. and charged with two counts of possession and sale of cocaine and two counts of sale of cocaine. He was placed under a $5,000 bond pending a hearing in District Court.

Cannon said Gaye was the 14th person arrested in connection with a four-month-long undercover investigation by Greenville police and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Thirteen persons, including 11 ECU students and two Greenville residents, were arrested between 5:30 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. by Greenville officers and SBI agents in connection with the investigation.

One of those arrested earlier yesterday — Jeffery Warren, 21 of Route 4, Snow Hill (116D Belk Dorm), charged with sale and possession of marijuana and sale of cocaine — is a junior linebacker for ECU's football Pirates.

Bill Caine, director of athletics at the university said yesterday that, "no suspensions or actions will be taken," against Warren by the Athletic Department, "until further investigation into the case."

East Carolina's 1979 media guide for football said the Greene Central High School graduate, one of nine children, is, "a great tackler, strong and powerful," who, "hits like a wrecking ball."

Committee Cancels Vote For Funding Draft Plan

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The House Appropriations Committee today abruptly called off a planned vote on money for President Carter's draft registration program even though supporters and opponents had predicted the measure would be approved.

It was not clear when the proposal would be brought up again.

The delayed vote involved a bill to provide the Selective Service System $13.3 million to begin registering young men this summer. The president has legal authority to order registration for men but needs money to revive the machinery for getting it done.

Members of the panel were notified of the cancellation just 20 minutes before the start of a scheduled committee meeting.

Committee officials offered no explanation for its action, and said the vote was postponed indefinitely.

Several sources suggested that Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., the committee's chairman and a supporter of Carter's plan, was disturbed by the closeness of a House vote Wednesday on a resolution that had some similarity to the draft registration proposal.

By a 216-201 vote, the House approved a resolution providing stopgap funding for the Federal Trade Commission. The money was transferred to the FTC from another agency to get around the spending freeze imposed by the congressional budget ceiling.

The administration had planned to fund its Selective Service program by transferring money from a Pentagon account.

Rep. Lawrence Coughlin,

R-Pa., called the transfer scheme "an end run around the budget" and said the committee's postponement was "based on the question of making a travesty of the budget process."

Barry Lynn, head of a coalition of groups opposed to registration and the draft, said, "I don't think they know how to do it procedurally.

They can't be sure the votes are there."

Administration officials said earlier they had enough votes to win in the committee, and later in the full House. Opponents conceded they would lose in the committee, but claimed they still had a chance of killing the funding measure on the House floor.

Rezoning Tract Given Commission Approval

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission voted last night to recommend that the City Council rezone a tract off Beech Street from RA-20 to R-6.

The request for rezoning was submitted by C. J. Flanagan for 1.51 acres, located just north of Third Street. The zoning change would be from residential-agricultural to high density residential.

Staff planner Skip Browder pointed out that the proposed development area generally consists of single family and a few duplex structures. The major obstacle in the neighborhood development is the landfill, he said.

According to Browder, some 20 to 25 units would be the maximum number of apartments that could be constructed on the Flanagan tract under the high density zoning.

Browder noted that if the Flanagan request is approved by the Council, a small island of RA-20 zoning would be left in the area. Commissioners agreed that the planning staff should contact the owners of the small tract concerning a rezoning possibility.

In other business on a brief city agenda, commissioners approved the revised preliminary plat of Fairlane Farms, Block C, located on Hooker Road between Carolina Telephone property and Fairlane Road.

City Engineer Ron Sewell said the revisions involved minor changes, including alterations in lot patterns and a change checklist requirements.

The planning board gave its approval to both the

BEAUTIFICATION

I am a member of the Beautification Committee of Pitt County. Our county would be greatly enhanced by the demolition or burning of old dilapidated tobacco barns, houses and out-building. Would like for our people to consider giving consent for the various fire departments in the county to burn these eyesore structures no longer in use. This would help beautify our highways. M. K. Blount Sr.

According to the Pitt County Fire Marshal's Office, the rural fire departments welcome the opportunity to burn useless structures for training purposes. Anyone wishing to pursue this inexpensive way of getting rid of an unwanted building is encouraged to call the chief of his or her local fire department.

Promote A Dome Over Small City In Vermont

By MATTHEW VITA

WINOOSKI, Vt. (AP) —

To the strains of "Dome Over Winooski," members of the Golden Onion Dome Club and hundreds of other residents are boosting a proposal to construct a giant energy-saving bubble over their small Vermont town.

Nearly 1,000 people turned out Wednesday night for the first session of a two-day International Dome Symposium, where an array of alternative technology experts are discussing the latest in domes.

Top billing went to R. Buckminster Fuller, inventor of the geodesic dome, who flew in from Brazil to lend his support.

"It is a wonderful thing that your community has stood up and said, 'Let's make some sense,'" the 85-year-old inventor told the symposium sponsored by the city and St. Michael's College. "I couldn't be more encouraged."

Winooski hasn't been quite the same since its community development office came up with the dome idea last year. A dome, they figured, would save energy and free Winooski's 7,000 residents from the inconvenience of the harsh Vermont winter — and the idea has drawn national attention.

Brendan Keleher, assistant director of community development, said his office has asked the federal government for $55,000 to study the plan.

No one yet has a good idea of what a dome might cost.

"I like to think of Winooski as a place where new ideas are thought up all the time," said Ken Myers, president of the Golden Onion Dome Club.

"We've got to keep looking ahead," he said, as he played a tape recording of "Dome Over Winooski." Composed by a local English teacher, the song begins:

"Dome over Winooski,
"Nof far from the lake;
"Transparent and plastic,

"Still real and not fake."
Not everyone in Winooski is humming along, however.

"Who's going to clean it?" demanded resident Sandy King. A dome, she added, would make people feel "really closed in."

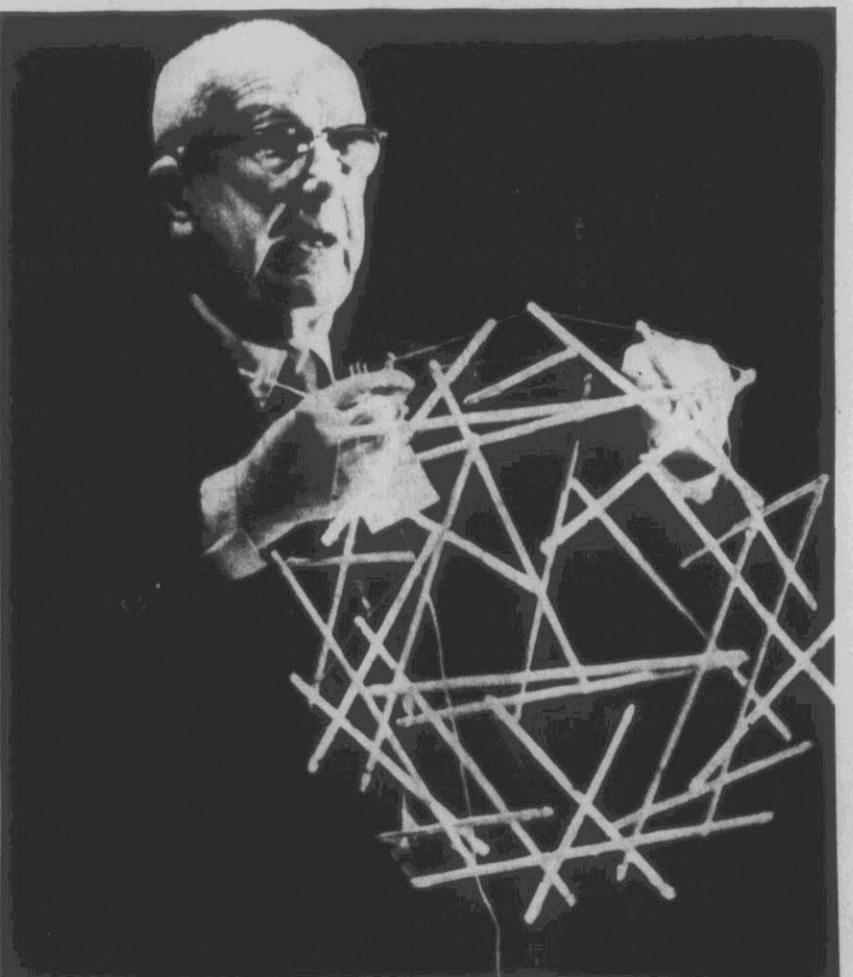

Bob Blow, manager of a beverage redemption center, agreed.

"What happens if a plane lands on it or if God sends a 50-inch snowstorm to crush it?" he asked.

Keleher said those questions would be addressed by a feasibility study. If the federal study grant comes through, planners will have to decide whether a single dome covering all of the city's 1.3 square miles would be better than a series of smaller domes.

In the meantime, Myers will keep handing out membership cards for the Golden Onion Dome Club.

The only membership requirement is that you have a card, he said.

Regional Award Received By Garden Club

The Greenville Garden Club has been honored by the South Atlantic Region of the National Council of Garden Clubs for its "garden therapy" project.

An award to the club for its ongoing garden therapy project conducted for educable mentally retarded students at Aycock Junior High School here was announced during a meeting of the regional group in Williamsburg, Va. recently. The club received a certificate and a check for $20.

Mrs. Keith Butson of Asheville, president of the Garden Club of North Carolina Inc., accepted for the local club. The Greenville club has worked with the Aycock students since 1975. In 1979 some 33 members of the club worked with 128 students in 16 workshops.

Mrs. H. C. Klingenschmitt is chairman of the project, leading a garden therapy committee comprised of Mrs. Thelma Harris, Mrs. M. G. Martin, Miss Maude Moore, Mrs. Robert Murphy and Mrs. Phoebe Owens.

Mrs. Klingenschmitt directed 30 students June 6 and 7 of last year in weeding, pruning and generally cleaning the courtyards of the school.

The Visual Aids Department of the school made a movie of one of the plant workshop for use with new students in the class. A private showing was given to club members.

All items used in the project are donated by club members. The South Atlantic Region includes garden clubs in Kentucky, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

Awards Given At Meeting Of Insurance Women

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women met Tuesday at the Ramada Inn.

Kurt Fickling, of Fickling Insurance Associates, was recognized as boss of the year and Sofia Sumner of Ahoskie was given a plaque as women of the year.

Paula Hill, a field representative for Kemper Insurance Co., spoke on motivation as a means of achieving one's goals.

Officers for the coming year were elected including: President, Joyce Mills; First Vice President, Nancy White; Second Vice President, Evelyn Stroud; Recording Secretary, Susan Shellenberger; Corresponding Secretary, Frances Blanchard; and Treasurer, Marian Smith.

It was announced the North Carolina Association of Insurance Women's annual convention will be held May 16-18 in Asheville.

Guests at the meeting were Evy Hughes and Beverly Harden of Ahoskie, Pat Sermons, Norma Whitaker and Laura Hardison of Greenville.

Spring flowers and Easter baskets decorated the tables.

White Shrine Installation Set

Officers of Greenville Shrine No. 7, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, will be installed in ceremonies at the Greenville Masonic Temple Saturday.

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting and will be installed with the appointed officers: Worthy High Priestess, Mrs. Jean K. Tharp; Watchman of Shepherds, Bryce W. Tharp; Noble Prophetess, Mrs. Olivera Garris; Associate Watchman of Shepherds, William S. Kiger; Worthy Scribe, Mrs. Mary Kiger; Worthy Treasurer, J. Edward Ricks; Worthy Chaplain, Mrs. Blanche Jackson; Worthy Shepherdess, Mrs. Alma Paramore; and Worthy Guide, Mrs. Lillian Hendrix.

Members of the White Shrine and their friends are invited.

Bridge Benefit Set For April

The Major Benjamin May Chapter DAR will have a bridge benefit and bazaar Thursday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m., and Friday afternoon, April 11, beginning at 2:30.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Fred Sauls and Mrs. Frank Bradham of Farmville, Mrs. Carl Betts of Grifton or any of the chapter members.

The cost per person will be $2.50. Players are asked to bring playing cards. Tea-type refreshments will be served. Proceeds will be used to help maintain the DAR Chapter House, Farmville.

If you have a can of baking powder that's been in your cupboard for a long time and wonder if it has kept its leavening power, you can test it by stirring 1 teaspoonful into 1/4 cup hot water. If the mixture bubbles within a few seconds, the baking powder will still be effective.

Dear Abby

She Set Her Own Trap

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago Gary (not his real name) and I were married. I was 17 and Gary was 22. We agreed that I would work for two years and then quit and start a family. Well, I've been working for six years and Gary won't let me quit. He keeps buying things we can't afford, and I have to work to keep up the payments.

Now he says he doesn't want kids because they get on his nerves. He has a mean temper, he's twisted my arm and punched me out a few times. Once, after stumbling over our dog, he got so mad he cracked the dog in the mouth and three teeth fell out!

I'm an only child, and Gary takes me to see my folks once a week for one hour. He keeps looking at his watch all the time we're there, which hurts my folks but they don't say anything. They have a little money saved and Gary curses them because they won't give us part of the money now that I will one day inherit.

I feel trapped. I know this marriage was a mistake, but I married him against the advice of so many people. I'm ashamed to admit it.

Please help me, but don't suggest counseling. Gary won't go.

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: What's "trapping" you? To spend the rest of your life in a hopeless marriage trying to prove you were "right," knowing you were wrong, is foolish. Take the dog (the four-legged one) and clear out while you're still childless.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas I bought a present for a male friend who is very special to me. When he came over I tried to give it to him, and he suggested I keep it under the tree until I take the tree down the day after New Year's.

Well, it's long after New Year's and he still refuses to open my gift or even take it with him! He says that doesn't mean he doesn't want it, he just wants to leave it until he is "ready" for it.

I leave his gift out in sight so that every time he comes here, it will remind him, but he still isn't ready to open it. What do you think?

CONFUSED AND HURT
DEAR CONFUSED: What appears to be very ungracious behavior could mean he feels that he doesn't deserve your gift. Or he finds "thank-you's" so difficult, he delays them as long as possible.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for letting your readers know that trained pigeons still perform a valuable service. During World War II, I was attached to the 9th Army as part of the Pigeon Signal Company, and when it was impossible to get messages through on radio, our pigeons carried messages across the Rhine.

Both sides used pigeons. Once near Brunswick, Germany, we captured about 2,000 German pigeons!

Pigeons are still used in London to deliver blood samples from the hospitals to the lab, as they are faster and cheaper than taxis.

(CPL.) HAROLD M. ROWLETTE
DEAR HAROLD: Thanks for writing. Though it was "for the birds," your letter was interesting.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Engagement Announced
Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fenner of Plymouth, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karla Jane, to Gherman Andrew Taylor III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gherman Andrew Taylor Jr. of Ahoskie. The wedding will take place April 12.

Yard, Bake Sale Is Announced
The women of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church will hold a yard and bake sale on the church grounds Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon. A variety of baked items will be available as well as typical yard sale items.

Reunion To Be Held
JASON — The annual Parrott Mewborn II family reunion will be held April 20 at the Mewborn Church near here in Greene County.

Luncheon will be served at 1 p.m. and family members are asked to bring a picnic basket. Greene County Commissioner and author of "History of Greene County," James M. Creech, will speak.

Old family items will be displayed. The reunion will be in honor of Parrott Mewborn I.

COME FOR DESSERT
Ginger Apples Gauffrettes

Coffee
GINGER APPLES
The addition of a spirit gives subtle flavor.

4 large golden Delicious apples (about 1 3/4 pounds)
Ginger marmalade, homemade or bought
1-3rd cup sugar
1-3rd cup hot water
Vodka
Vanilla ice cream

From the stem end, pare apples about 1-3rd way down; core without cutting through blossom end. Stuff apple core cavities with ginger marmalade — about 4 teaspoons in each. Place in a wide-bottom, deep casserole — usually 3-quart size. Stir together sugar and hot water; stir in 1-3rd cup vodka — sugar may not dissolve; pour over apples. Cover and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until apples are tender when pierced with a fork, but hold their shape — about 40 minutes. Remove each apple to a roomy individual serving dish. Pour liquid in casserole into a medium saucepan and boil rapidly until reduced to about 1/2 cup; stir in 2 tablespoons ginger marmalade and 2 tablespoons vodka. Pour over baked apples. Serve hot, warm or chilled topped with vanilla ice cream. Makes 4 large servings.

At Wit's End
By Erma Bombeck

I was watching a policeman being interviewed on the 10 o'clock news the other night.

Instead of saying, "I chased that sucker for three blocks before I finally nailed 'em," he stood erect, his eyes staring straight ahead, and recited, "I pursued the suspect for three blocks on foot before radioing a code five."

Even the newsman was a little unsure of what happened. "Does that mean you caught him?"

The policeman remained at attention and said mechanically, "That is correct. The subject, upon being apprehended, fired three shots before being restrained and remanded into custody."

It's happened so many times it makes one wonder if policemen are able to stop speaking in fluent law enforcement when they get home and take off their uniform.

Somehow I visualize a wife greeting her officer-husband at the door, smiling, "Hi, honey, dinner will be ready in a few minutes. Who was that I saw you waving to?"

"The white Caucasian adult, approximately 62 inches tall, weighing 119 pounds, green eyes, brown hair and no visible distinguishing mark?"

"That's the one."

"She has been identified tentatively as our new neighbor, but we'll have to check it out. By the way, where is 4517?"

"I wish you'd stop referring to our son as the code number for 'accident.' If you want to know, he's being punished for playing ball in the living room and nearly breaking a lamp."

"Where is the suspect?"
"Watching TV."
"I'll see if he's ready to make a statement yet."
"The last time you tried to interrogate him he took off on you."

"Yes, that is correct, and you remember I charged him with a moving violation."
The domestic scene ends with the father rushing into the television room, grabbing the TV remote and shouting, "Freeze!"
Things may get worse before they get better. In a sheriff's newsletter recently, I noted an English-Spanish lesson for policemen. It was clipped and to the point. "Buenos dias. Como se llama? Gracias. Suba al coche, por favor. Usted esta arrestado."

Life As It's Lived

Cutting The Sandwich Is A Matter Of Skill

One of the most crucial decisions a mother will ever make is how to cut a peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

Some children would rather starve than eat a rectangle. Others who aren't into shapes insist that the crust be removed with surgical precision.

Parents who ignore these preferences can permanently impair family harmony. In fact, one kid whose mother persisted in cutting triangles when he liked four small squares finally disowned her by telling anyone who would listen that he was an orphan.

The shape of bread is not the only thing a mother has to be careful about. She also has to pay attention to the consistency of the peanut butter and jelly. Most kids will not eat lumps. Preserves are regarded with the same suspicion as Dracula offering candy.

And the kid on the commercial is right. Kids are picky about peanut butter. Of those served crunchy for the first time, 80 percent will open the sandwich and pick the peanuts out.

Of course, kids are picky about everything concerning food. No meal in our house can start in peace unless Meg has her Superheroes mat and her Mickey Mouse cup. One without the other won't do. They match, she explains.

Then there's the plate. Every food item must be separated by at least 1½ inch, or enough room to let one Play People pass through unsoiled. No juices must be in evidence or the entire meal is considered contaminated.

The only acceptable food mix is butter and rice. An entree like lasagna will send Meg to the verge of hysteria. She has been known to sit for two hours trying to separate the cheese, noodles, and sauce into three different piles.

And we often have to wait 20 extra minutes at a fast food restaurant because we have to special order Meg's plain cheeseburger. A scrapped all-the-way won't do. Meg says that the bun looks like it's bleeding.

I'm sure some parents will consider me overindulgent for pandering to these food fetishes, but I just can't stomach the alternative, especially in a public place. The one night I really got fed up with Meg's finickiness was a minor disaster.

We were eating in a crowded restaurant, and Meg was already out of sorts because cheeseburgers weren't on the menu. But she really got upset when the waitress brought her plate. Three peas had rolled into the applesauce.

She stared at the plate, and her shoulders began to heave. "I'm not hungry," she whispered.

"Oh yes you are," I said. "Now eat."

The tears rolled down her face. "I don't want to!" "Too bad."

Meg was now sobbing loudly enough to drown out the conversations at the next three tables. "I can't eat this food!" she cried. "It's filthy!"

It was the first time in my life that a waitress has ever crossed "Come Again" off the bottom of our check.

Corrections Conference At ECU On April 10-11

ECU News Bureau
Several top-ranking officials of the American Correctional Association will speak at "Criminal Justice Issues and Concerns of the '80's," a conference scheduled by the N.C. chapter of the American Correctional Association and the N.C. Justice Academy in Greenville April 10-11.

Coordinating the conference is the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education. All interested citizens, volunteers, correctional workers, adult and juvenile service workers, students and educators are invited to attend.

Speakers include Jack McCall, president of the N.C. chapter of the American Correctional Association; ECU Chancellor Thomas Brewer; Norman Carlson, president of the American Correctional Association; and director of the Federal Prison Service;

Amos Reed, ACA president-elect and secretary of the N.C. Department of Correction; Anthony Trivisono, ACA executive director; Tom Parker, executive director of the National Criminal Justice, Washington, D.C.; and Phillip Lyons, assistant to the N.C. Attorney General for Criminal Justice Affairs.

Participants may elect to attend three group workshops on such topics as the needs of special offenders, developing a positive climate in correctional institutions, imaginative alternatives to incarceration, employee coping and survival, and the increasing role of women in criminal justice.

Further information and registration materials are available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University.

Pre-registration must be completed by April 3.

Unemployment Drops In N.C.

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The unemployment rate in North Carolina dropped from 5.9 percent in January to 5.5 percent in February, the state Employment Security Commission announced Tuesday.

The February rate showed an increase over February 1979 when the rate was 4.9 percent.

The North Carolina jobless rate was below the national rate of 6.8 percent.

FOCUS

Setting Standards

Centuries ago, the foot was a standard way to measure length. The trouble was, each person used his own foot as a measure, so the measurement varied according to the length of different feet. To set accurate measurements in the United States, Congress created the Bureau of Standards in 1901. The bureau employs thousands of scientists, who test and measure everything from metal fatigue in airplanes to the potential energy in garbage. Standards set by the bureau can apply to the strength of the electrical currents in our homes, the languages computers use, and even the sizes of the clothes we wear. The bureau has laboratories in Maryland and Colorado.

DO YOU KNOW — The Bureau of Standards is an agency of what Cabinet department?

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — Israel is the only country that drafts women.

Need Real Inspections

Greenville building inspector Alton Warren recently explained that a problem with exhaust vents was an exception, rather than the rule for the city inspections program.

"We have very few problems," he said.

Warren said the vents in the apartment complex were being corrected. The chance of something like that getting by an inspector are slim, he said, but it did happen.

Well, we hope this is an isolated incident, but the building inspector's office should re-double its efforts to see that nothing slips by which does not meet building, plumbing, electric and heating requirements.

A fee system is used to finance the inspections system. For the fee the public should be able to expect full service in return.

Most of us are not qualified, and don't have time, to go out and inspect any building project in which we may be involved, and that is why the public hires inspectors through the city.

We hope the building inspector's office will make it clear to all builders that every phase of the job will be properly inspected. There are good and practical reasons for the inspections program, not the least of which are safety and assuring the buyer of a properly constructed building.

The Push For Registration

March 28 and 29 have been proclaimed "Voter Registration Days" by Greenville Mayor Don McGlohon.

The days have been cited to encourage all citizens to be certain they are registered to vote prior to closing of the books on April 8 for the May 6 primary.

The extra push for voter registration is worthwhile, but any day is a good day to register in order to participate in our democratic form of government.

A Red-Taped Plan

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Turning water power into electricity is perhaps the cleanest, simplest and cheapest way of producing energy; especially in North Carolina where textile plants once concentrated to take advantage of the plentiful water supply and the "fall line" in the Piedmont.

But a study committee of the General Assembly is finding that in today's complex system, nothing is quite as simple as it seems.

Yes — the group has learned from a host of experts, there are plenty of sites, federal money and potential available to produce electricity from water power in North Carolina.

What can be done with that electricity, once generated, however, is another story.

There are public utilities regulations, environmental regulations, safety regulations, franchise districts awarded certain specific companies or agencies by law, rate regulations, distribution line regulations, licensing and application provisions... a maze of governmental trapdoors to be negotiated.

Savings

The study group evolved from a suggestion in the General Assembly that some textile mills still having small dams and the capability to produce some of their own power might want to put the turbines back into gear if encouraged to do so. Consolidated Knitting at Charlotte is an example of a plant using its own hydropower plant. It is saving about $50,000 yearly on heating and air conditioning costs.

The committee, chaired by State Senator Jack Childers, D-Davidson County, and State Rep. John Jordan, D-Alamance, have been told by experts from as far away as New Hampshire and New York that water power is making a comeback. The plants are cheaper to build, operate, and maintain; require minimal staffing; are environmentally safe and clean; and are catching on elsewhere.

In preliminary work for changes in the law designed to snip through the bureaucratic red tape, committee staff has been given the task of writing proposals which would make it possible for hydroplants to make a comeback.

First, those generators used entirely by private owners such as industrial firms or homeowners; and those operated by municipalities, would be exempted from regulation by the state utilities commission. Even that, is now simple however.

The big power companies warn that they would still have to maintain enough generating capacity to supply electricity to such private operators in the event of an emergency. Thus, rates would remain high for other electricity users in effect subsidizing the water power users.

Next, private generators might sell power to the big companies at wholesale rates. That runs into rate problems, rights-of-way for transmission lines, and reliability.

Also, the big power companies which are faced with escalating construction and operating costs, and with almost crippling environmental concerns at nuclear and coal-fired plants, might want to expand their own hydropower capacity. That is happening in New England. To encourage that, the legislative body is suggesting that the power companies be allowed a higher than normal rate of return on their investments in hydroplants.

Jordan and Childers feel that the stumbling blocks can be chopped down and the state can benefit from water power. Specialists at Research Triangle Institute agree. John Warren at RTI has been conducting an inventory of potential sites (there are some 3,000 in the state) and has come up with a list of about 300 which show promise for use. On contract with the state's energy division, Warren and the Research Institute are gearing up to help applicants through the federal regulatory maze in getting funds and clearances. The institute is also helping the

Seen In Bad Company

WASHINGTON — Believe me, it is a terrible prospect for this aging conservative to find himself, metaphorically speaking, in bed with Birch Bayh. And not merely abed with the senator from Indiana, but also with such bug-eyed liberals as Culver of Iowa, Leahy of Vermont and — urk! — Kennedy of Massachusetts.

What is a nice boy like me doing in their company? Alas, in casting key subcommittee votes to reject the proposed constitutional amendment to compel a balanced budget, they are right and my brother conservatives are wrong. The proposed amendment is simply not the proper way to restrain federal spending. The proper way to restrain federal spending is to defeat such senators as Bayh, Culver, Leahy and Kennedy at the polls.

A long time ago, in one of the most famous opinions ever to emerge from the Supreme Court, John Marshall gave his brothers a reminder for the centuries. "We must never forget," he said, "that it is a Constitution we are expounding." The amendment can be paraphrased: "We ought never to forget, in the context of the pending proposal, that it is a Constitution we are amending." The language of any amendment must have sufficient precision that men may know what it means; the terms must be enforceable; and the object must be to serve some fundamental purpose that cannot otherwise be attained.

This is the first sentence of the pending proposal: "The Congress shall adopt for each year a budget, which shall set forth the total receipts and expenditures of the United States." And we are in trouble before we proceed to the second sentence.

What is "a budget"? I have a shelf filled with federal budgets. I know what a budget is in fact. What is it in law? It is a will-o'-the-wisp, a fantasy, a sometime thing, a tinsel contrivance of maybe-things, and possibly that, and if-the-Congress-please.

What the first sentence refers to are the "anticipated" receipts and expenditures. Whose anticipations? The budget that goes to the Congress every January reflects the anticipations of the president, abetted by his astrologers, soothsayers, economists and readers of entrails. The figures are always queasy; they will not hold still. Give me a pencil: In 10 seconds I will jigger you up a budget in which expenditures do not exceed receipts. It is no trick at all.

The second sentence says that an imbalanced budget shall not be adopted unless three-fifths of each house of Congress approve. The third sentence says that no appropriation bill shall be passed "which would cause the total expenditures for any year to exceed the expenditures in the budget for such year." Again, we are in never-never land. How is such a provision to be enforced? Who would have standing to sue for its alleged violation?

The amendment continues: "The receipts collected in any year shall not exceed, as a proportion of the national income, that collected in the prior year..." What jargon have we here? What, constitutionally speaking, are receipts? What is the "national income"? The amendment goes on to say that the terms "shall be construed in accordance with their meanings on the date on which this article was submitted to the states for ratification." Let me assemble 10 economic statisticians: I will give you four meanings for receipts and six definitions of the national income.

No, sir. The intentions of the framers are admirable. It is imperative, to put the matter mildly, that Congress get

To the editor:

On Sunday, Mar. 23, there was an article on the front page of "The Daily Reflector." It concerned a stabbing incident on a Pitt County school bus. Had this story been printed three weeks ago, it would have been news. But, in fact, the episode occurred Feb. 29. Therefore, I feel the article was sensationalism, not good journalism.

This article wasn't even a reporting of the court's findings, since the case has not been heard yet.

Why?

Kathy Phillips
Greenville

To the editor:

I read with interest Mr. Savage's report on Senator Morgan's speech to the State Baptists assembled in Greenville last weekend.

The primary thrust of Sen. Morgan's speech was the importance of maintaining separation of church and state. This is a pet issue of mine and I found myself in complete accord with the senator. That was news in itself to me, as I rarely agree with his positions.

The motivation for this letter, however, was what was left unsaid by both the speaker and Mr. Savage. I found an overwhelming irony in the fact that Morgan's speech on separation of church and state was presented in a public school facility — Rose High School — a school fully bought and paid for with government funds. This kind of thing is fairly common, I understand.

I talked to Mr. Savage about this today. He said he felt there was no conflict and, hence, no story, because the Baptists rented the school. I do not believe the United States Constitution says or implies that the basic doctrine of separation of church and state may be abridged by the simple payment of rent. If that were true, what a flimsy document it would be.

Strength For Today

GOOD AND EVIL MIXED

We are often disconcerted by the fact that the secular, unregenerate world duplicates some of the good results of religious faith. Sometimes ungodly people do good things and carry them on even better than the godly.

For example, Richard Wagner, the great composer, lived a corrupt, licentious life. Yet he has written music which we can well believe is more like the music of heaven than anything else that ever came from the pen of a human being. Francis Bacon is sometimes considered the father of modern research, yet he was so corrupt in his public life that fines levied against him amounted to almost $150,000.

Only God knows why the ungodly sometimes do good and the godly, with mistaken zeal, do evil. All we can conclude is that everything, good and bad alike is in the hands of an omnipotent and omniscient Deity who sometimes makes evil serve his own good and wise purposes.

Failure For 4,000 Years

By ROBERT L. SCHUETTINGER

The call for wage and price controls is once again being heard in the land. A recent poll indicates that 57 percent of the public wants controls now. Senator Edward Kennedy has embraced controls as the most effective method of dealing with our rampant inflation — now rising at a 20 percent annual rate.

Last year Eamonn Butler and I wrote a book which we entitled Forty Centuries of Wage and Price Controls: Now NOT To Fight Inflation. We examined over 100 cases of wage and price controls which had been imposed on over 30 nations on six continents during a span of four thousand years.

We discovered that, while there have been some cases in which controls temporarily curtailed the effects of inflation, they always failed in the long run. This is because controls do not address the real cause of inflation, namely an increase in the money supply over and above the increase in productivity.

Rising prices are the result of inflation, not the cause; the root cause is a decline in the value of the currency. What we have in 1980 in the United States is too many dollars chasing too few goods.

Instead of announcing the monthly rise in prices of goods, the government would be more honest if it announced the monthly rate of the decline of the dollar.

Governments understandably do not like to accept the blame for inflation; they would much rather attribute it to the greed of sellers of labor and goods. That is why wage and price controls have always been popular with politicians. They place the blame, for the rising inflation on the public, and they try to force the public to pay (in the form of lower prices and wages) for the inflation that governments have caused.

Much of the Code of Hammurabi (written around 2000 B.C.) dealt with controls on wages and prices. The famous Edict of Diocletian (A.D. 301) attempted to list the prices of goods and labor throughout the Roman Empire; after a few years he was forced to abdicate and the law was repealed. Controls were imposed in ancient India and China with much the same result.

Governments in modern times have been no wiser. Washington's army nearly starved at Valley Forge largely because of a decision to impose price controls on those commodities needed by the army. The Continental Congress finally adopted a resolution declaring controls to be unworkable. When they were finally removed the repressed inflation broke out with a vengeance and prices rose astronomically.

Almost two centuries later, even the Nazis found they could not make controls work. After the war, Herman Goering (the Nazi's chief economic coordinator) declared that "no country can (control people's lives) part way. Nor can any country do it all the way, either. I tried that too and it failed. You are no better planners than we ... I should think your economists would read what happened here."

President Nixon's 1973 "freeze" program not only was completely ineffectual in controlling inflation, there is evidence it actually worsened the situation.

The same result can confidently be expected if President Carter, as a last desperate measure (that is what it would be!) attempts controls in 1980. Someday, forty centuries of the same lesson ... told again and again ... may finally convince us that wage and price controls are not the solution to the problem of inflation.

The solution is controls on government, especially on government over-spending and over-borrowing.

Inflation Impact Is Broadening

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Hardly the invisible enemy, as President Carter called it, inflation has now driven deep into consumer territory, inflicting many casualties and all but driving families out of house and home.

The consumer price index continues to rise at an 18 percent annual rate. Inflation-adjusted hourly earnings have fallen for seven straight months and now are 6.5 percent lower than a year ago. The savings rate is well under four percent, or about half what it was four years ago.

Taxes are up. The Tax Foundation estimates the tax take this year will rise to 35.8 percent of the average paycheck from 34.7 percent in 1979. Fifty years ago a worker toiled 42 days to pay taxes; now it's 131 days.

Credit outstanding is up, although at less than half the 13 percent rate of increase for 1979. Wasn't the increase bound to slow? Ten years ago households had $1,660 in installment loans; now it's $4,000.

Besides, the Carter administration and the Federal Reserve have clamped down on the ability of banks to make consumer loans. With real incomes falling, prices rising, savings shrinking and credit restricted, there is no choice but to retreat for millions of American households.

The job situation is holding up well. Unemployment, expected to rise during February, instead fell 0.2 percent from January's 6.2.

Improvements in productivity, or production efficiency, have all but evaporated from the American industrial scene, and without them no real improvement can be made in prices. Bankruptcies may rise.

In fact, many major American companies have ceased to make money on an inflation-adjusted basis. Others are failing to earn enough to cover dividends. They are living off their stored capital.

Some banks are in less than healthy condition. As far back as last October the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency, John G. Heimann, said the nation should prepare for failures of some large banks. Many savings and loan associations also have been losing money.

Home building, necessary to provide for a demographic bulge in the home-buying population, has been reduced to less than 1.5 million units a year, when the need is said to be closer to 2 million units.

It is unlikely that Americans, creative as they have shown themselves to be, can find a way around the anti-inflation restrictions now being imposed. The only obvious course is for them to retreat.

In retreat to a lower standard of living, it is argued, the victory will be won; inflation will be defeated and the groundwork set for the next economic advance. But critics disagree, saying the anticipated recession could destroy much of the desire to fight.

Cheyenne Toasts New Record Snow For Winter 1979-1980

FLAKEY ABOUT SNOW — Cheyenne, Wyoming residents raise a toast to the new seasonal snowfall record — 102.1 inches — during a happy hour

By ROCH THORNTON
Associated Press Writer
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — While a warm spring sun melted the latest accumulation of powder, Cheyenne residents toasted their success in weathering the worst winter of snow in the prairie city's history.

One bar doubled its Happy Hour to four hours to celebrate Cheyenne's new snowfall record — 102.1 inches this winter. The bar was soon full and patrons were jubilant when they learned of the two-drinks-for-one celebration.

"I plan on getting snowed under myself, right here" said one.

The old record, 100.8 inches in the winter of 1904-05, had been under attack since a record 26-inch snowfall before Thanksgiving blasted in from the surrounding rolling grassland.

A succession of heavy snows fell during December and the snow removal budget for the city of 60,000 was exhausted before Christmas, forcing officials to seek state aid and leave some streets unplowed.

On Wednesday, residents awoke to a 2-inch blanket of snow that broke the record. The total was twice the 51-inch average here.

"It's fantastic, but I don't want one more flake," said the Rev. Gary Ruzicka of St. Mary's Cathedral.

"I'm glad we broke the record so we don't have to do it again next year," said Dean Prosser of the Wyoming Stock Growers Association. "It's been a difficult winter for ranchers. We haven't lost that celebration at a local bar. Several bars extended their happy hours to mark Cheyenne's worst winter since 1904-1905. (AP Laserphoto) much stock but we've had to do a lot of extra feeding."

But he said the record snows have meant extra sub-soil moisture for southeastern Wyoming, and "ranching should be pretty good this summer."

Cheyenne Mayor Don Erickson said, however, he was disappointed the latest snowfall was so small. A lack of deep snow has wrecked plans for a city-sponsored contest to see who can build the biggest snowman, he said.

Ever since the idea came up, he said, Cheyenne hasn't had enough snow at one time for a very big snowman, or even a small one. Brief periods of balmy temperatures have kept snow from accumulating.

Meanwhile, over at the Downtowner Motor Inn, one patron greeted the news of the special Happy Hour with a whoop:

"Four hours! That's the rest of my life!"

A railroad worker was disgruntled. "I can't stay for four hours ... my wife wouldn't let me," he said.

And one tippler took an international view of the situation. "I think Iran oughta get the snowfall we got," he said.

But the thing is, it may not be over yet.

Cheyenne averages 12.4 inches of snow during April and May, and snow is predicted for the remaining days in March, too.

In the bad winter of 1905, 46.5 inches of snow fell in April.

District Rotary Meet Here During Weekend

Over 200 persons are expected in Greenville Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the annual conference of Rotary International District 773.

Jack Edwards of Greenville is Governor of the District.

The meeting will attract delegates from 45 Rotary Clubs from Southeastern N. C. It will be held at the Ramada Inn and will begin with a District Assembly Friday afternoon, followed by a fellowship banquet Friday night, an all-day session Saturday and the Governor's banquet Saturday night.

Sunday morning the convention delegates, as well as members of the Greenville Rotary Club, will be hosted by Rachel and Jack Edwards for breakfast at the Greenville Rotary Building.

Representing Rotary International Pres. Jim Bomar will be Past District Governor Ken Erdman of Jenkintown, Pa. Erdman is a member of the Board of Directors of Rotary International.

Keynote speaker for the Friday night banquet will be J. Ed Williams of Erwin, a trustee of Woodmen of the World.

Chairman of the conference is Bill Heymann, president of the Greenville club. Mrs. Marian Heymann is in charge of the ladies' activities for the weekend. Entertainment will be provided by the East Carolina University choir, under the direction of Brett Watson, and by Otto Dykstra of Greenville performing on the cordovox.

Indict Official In Job Program

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — George Alexander Miller Jr., the former coordinator of the Rowan County Emergency Job Program, has been indicted on three charges of obtaining more than $7,000 through false pretense.

Miller resigned as the program's director Feb. 15 after an investigation began. He had headed the job program for two years.

The indictments allege Miller falsified records and termination dates for some present and former employees and that he made the statements to deceive County Manager Seth Murdoch and to have checks written for the individuals.

The runaway inflation that now afflicts our country — the inflation that robs the aged and debases our currency — is the direct consequence of the reckless and irresponsible policies of recent years. Nothing on the domestic scene is more urgently needed than a return to sanity in taxing and spending.

But the answer, in my own view, is not to add vague, illusory and unenforceable sentences to the supreme law of the land. The answer is to turn out the senators and representatives who have brought us to this sorry fix, and to elect in their stead men and women who will do a better job. This is the way the political process is supposed to work. We ought to stick with it.

Gold, Silver Prices Drop

LONDON (AP) — Gold and silver prices slumped and the U.S. dollar hit a four-year high against the Italian lira and a 10-month peak against the West German mark on world financial markets today.

Bullion prices fell sharply in the morning and were still well below Wednesday's levels even after a slight recovery later in the day.

By mid-afternoon gold was selling in London and Zurich for $490.50 a Troy ounce, down from $505.50 and $504.50 respectively late Wednesday but a recovery from morning lows of $472.50 in London and $485.50 in the Swiss center.

Silver, which fell to $13.75 an ounce early in the day, traded in London at $16, down $1.50 from Wednesday.

"It's all part of the big clear-out, with holders tired of holding onto metal and waiting for the big rise, especially in view of the heavy cost due to high interest rates," said one London dealer.

The dollar, meanwhile, continued to benefit from investment-attracting U.S. interest rates.

It jumped nearly 10 lire at the afternoon fixing in Milan to a four-year high of 888.30 lire.

In Frankfurt the afternoon fixing was 1.9135 West German marks, highest for nearly 10 months, up from 1.8915 late Wednesday.

In Zurich, the dollar gained more than 3 centimes to 1.8235 Swiss francs from 1.7905 the night before, and in London, there was a gain of nearly 3 cents against the pound which was worth $2.1760, down from $2.2030.

After gold prices sank below $500 dollars an ounce in New York Wednesday night, the metal dropped $39.07 in Hong Kong early today to close at $488.88.

Held Wastewater Process Seminar

A two-day seminar attended by wastewater treatment plant operators, municipal and industrial officials and consulting engineers from throughout eastern North Carolina was completed today at Pitt Community College. The workshop covered the area of advanced wastewater treatment.

A panel of four headed the seminar, including Jon C. Dyer, president of Environmental Technology, Inc. of Springfield, Va.; Derek Hutchinson and Carl Dale of Church and Dwight Company, Inc. from Atlanta Ga.; and Preston Howard, environmental engineer from the North Carolina Division of Environmental Management.

Dyer presented a one-day session on the impacts and requirements of the federally mandated industrial pretreatment programs on industries and municipalities.

Hutchinson and Dale presented a short course on the role of bicarbonate alkalinity in water and wastewater treatment in aerobic and anaerobic processes.

Howard gave a presentation on innovative and alternative technology for wastewater treatment plants including a brief overview of innovative and alternative technology assessment procedures. He also discussed innovative and alternative technology projects which may affect operators.

Ray E. Shaw, Jr. of Greensboro and G. Edward Warren, Jr. of Washington were hosts for the program.

Dara Sedaka Has An Album

NEW YORK (AP) — With a wink, singer-songwriter Neil Sedaka says he's supported his daughter Dara for 16 years, "...so now, maybe she'll support me."

Actually, Sedaka doesn't need the help. It's Dara who is looking for the break.

The pair celebrated at a local disco Wednesday night to kick-off Dara's first album "In The Pocket."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period until Friday morning, from the Southeast into the Midwest and eastern

Plains. Milder weather is due for coastal states but cool temperatures are expected for inland areas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

Cloudy skies that prevailed over North Carolina this morning were expected to let some sunshine through by this afternoon but more rain is on the way.

The forecast calls for scattered rain developing later tonight over the mountains. The rain will spread over the state

Friday and may continue in some areas Saturday.

Temperatures were some cooler today, ranging in the 30s in some areas this morning. High readings during the day were expected to range from the 40s in the mountains to near 60 in southern sections of the state.

Low readings tonight were expected to be mostly in the 40s and highs Friday were expected to be in the 50s to mid 60s.

Temperatures were generally cool Wednesday under cloudy skies. Fayetteville had one of the warmest readings of the day and that was only 62 degrees.

Cape Hatteras was one of the coolest places with a high for the day of only 51 degrees.

Ass'n Honors 2 Tar Heels

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The N.C. Citizens Association on Wednesday presented its highest honors to retired N.C. Supreme Court Chief Justice Susie M. Sharp and Carolina Power & Light Co. board chairman Shearon Harris.

Miss Sharp accepted the association's Citation for Distinguished Public Service at a luncheon. Harris was awarded the group's Citation for Distinguished Citizenship at a dinner.

Both events were part of the association's 39th annual meeting. The group is a statewide organization of business and industry.

Harris' award was presented to his wife, Helen, because Harris has undergone surgery in recent years for a brain tumor and has suffered a heart attack.

Miss Sharp, who retired in August, was the first woman to sit as a Superior Court judge, the first woman on the state Supreme Court and the first woman in the nation to be elected chief justice of a state supreme court.

The citation said Miss Sharp "not only opened doors for other women, but also made a significant contribution to the fair and efficient administration of justice."

Harris served one term in the General Assembly and practiced law in Albemarle before joining CP&L as associate general counsel in 1957. He has served in a number of positions at the utility.

Harris served as a president of the N.C. Citizens Association in 1970-71 and now is a director of the organization.

The citation called him "a national leader in the public utility industry who has inspired respect and admiration throughout our state and nation."

Offer Course In Life-Saving

An advanced life saving course will begin Tuesday evening, April 1 from 8:30-9:30 p.m. at the Memorial Gymnasium pool.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt Red Cross said that the remainder of the course schedule will be announced Tuesday. Instructors will be Pat Cox and Sandy Skellie.

Mrs. Taylor said that participants should be prepared to swim the first night. Persons taking the course must be at least 15 years old and be good swimmers, she said.

District Union Meeting Friday

The North East A District No. 2 Union Meeting will convene at St. James F.W.B. Church, Farmville, beginning Friday at 7:30 p.m. and continuing through the week.

The president, Bishop Robert Gorham, invites the public to attend, as does the pastor of the host church, Elder C.R. Parker.

Her Conviction To Cost A Bequeathed $220,000

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — If Jean Struven Harris is convicted of killing "Scarsdale Diet" doctor Herman Tarnower, she will not be able to collect the $220,000 Tarnower left her in his will under New York law.

The 57-year-old Virginia schoolmistress was named in Tarnower's will along with Lynne Tryforos, a divorced 37-year-old nurse, and Mrs. Tryforos' two children.

Mrs. Harris is charged with second-degree murder in the shooting death of Tarnower on March 10 in his Purchase, N.Y., home. Westchester County District Attorney Carl Vergari says the suspect shot Tarnower, her companion of some 15 years, because he had recently turned his attentions to Mrs. Tryforos.

Under New York law, Mrs. Harris would not be entitled to a legacy from Tarnower if she is judged to have contributed to his death.

Tarnower, 69 and a life-long bachelor, left an estate valued at several million dollars. His book, "The Complete Scarsdale Diet Plus Dr. Tarnower's Life-Long Keep Slim Plan," has grossed $11 million. His specialty was cardiology.

A 13-page will filed Wednesday in Westchester Surrogate Court showed that Tarnower left $200,000 to Mrs. Tryforos and left $20,000 to each of her two children.

He willed his $500,000 Purchase estate to his sister, Billie Schwartz, and more than $500,000 in cash to nieces and nephews, a White Plains hospital and the Westchester Heart Association.

Tarnower's chauffeur, Henri Van Der Vreken, and his wife, Suzanne, were given $64,000, or $2,000 for each year they were employed by the doctor.

They heard shots and called police the night Tarnower died in an upstairs bedroom of his home.

Police, who found Mrs. Harris backing out of Tarnower's driveway, said she admitted the shooting, but told them the shots were fired during a struggle.

She also told police she drove to New York from her home in Greenway, Va. to have Tarnower kill her. She was headmistress of the fashionable Madeira private girls' school there.

Although her lawyer, former county judge Joel Aurnou, argued the killing was not intentional, a county grand jury on Tuesday indicted Mrs. Harris for second-degree murder, a charge that presupposes prior intent, rather than for a lesser crime such as manslaughter.

She is free on $40,000 bail and is undergoing psychiatric and medical care at an undisclosed Westchester County hospital.

She faces 25 years to life in prison if convicted on the murder charge, and the money bequeathed to her would remain in Tarnower's estate to be divided by his other heirs.

'Premature' On Pay Proposals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It's still too soon to tell what size pay increase will be recommended to the Legislature for teachers and state employees, Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday.

He called published reports saying the raise would amount to 10 percent "premature."

Hunt declined to say if the proposal would fall within the president's voluntary wage guidelines. Earlier, Hunt promised to propose a "double digit" increase.

Stately Rites For Reputed Mobster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Angelo Bruno, who reputedly ran the city's numbers and loan-sharking rackets, was given a stately funeral then buried at a family plot beneath a simple gravestone.

"Money, fame and power" could not protect Bruno

"against a fate that awaits every man and woman," said the Rev. John Dieckman in a brief eulogy during Wednesday's Mass of Christian Burial at the Epiphany of Our Lord Roman Catholic Church.

The 69-year-old Sicilian immigrant was killed Friday night by two shotgun blasts in the back of his head as he sat in an automobile in front of his south Philadelphia home talking to a friend. Police say there are no suspects.

"We tend to cast too many stones, too often trying to be judge, jury and executioner," Dieckman told some 250 friends and relatives, including Bruno's wife, Sue, and his two children at the 35-minute service.

"It is not for us to judge. We should show Angelo compassion as we commend him to the Lord. Let him be loved," he said.

Outside the church, more than 1,000 people jockeyed with reporters, photographers and TV cameramen for a view.

"We don't want any circus, we want this to be in good taste, a high class funeral," said Jerry Blavat, a nightclub operator who handled arrangements for the family and screened the crowd.

Many of those who stood there in the wind said they came to show respect for a neighbor they had liked.

"He was a nice man, a good man," said Amelia Rubolina. "I just feel badly about the whole thing."

PLO Gains Support By Its Oil Ties

By STEVE K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine Liberation Organization's success in winning the support of the Arab oil-producing nations is paying off with increasing recognition from oil-thirsty Western nations.

France, Britain and West Germany all in the past month recognized the right of the Palestinians to "self-determination," and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has declared the PLO should participate in Middle East peace talks.

Austria granted the PLO office in Vienna virtual full diplomatic status earlier this month. India, which has supported the Palestinian cause on many occasions, extended full diplomatic relations to the PLO on Wednesday.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat has met with a number of Western government leaders in recent years. Dozens of parliamentary delegations and other groups, including Americans, have flocked to Beirut for meetings with him.

Over the past decade, the influence of the 16-year-old organization has grown as rapidly as oil prices, despite its previous reputation among many as a terrorist organization.

"Everyone is beginning to see that without solving the Palestinian question justly, you will not have durable peace in the Middle East," said Khaled Fahoum, speaker of the Palestine National Council, the 301-member parliament-in-exile.

He said the West European states are not becoming more pro-Arab, just more "realistic." Both Europe and the Arabs want peace in the area, he said, and "the Europeans need Arab energy and the Arabs need European technology."

Arab influence in the West skyrocketed after the 1973 oil embargo. Arafat's influence on the Arabs was cemented the next year when the nations of the Arab League, most notably Saudi Arabia, recognized the PLO as the "sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people."

Also in 1974, 105 nations voted to invite Arafat to speak in the U.N. General Assembly debate on Palestine, and nine days after his appearance 95 nations voted to give the PLO observer status at the world organization.

Since then, envoys of the conservative Persian Gulf states as well as more radical Arab leaders have been pleading the case for the PLO. And the organization's financial support from Arab nations has grown from $29 million in 1974 to about $250 million a year now.

Seek Organize Alumni Ass'n

Efforts are being made to organize an alumni association on campus at Beaufort County Community College. Any graduate of any curriculum or any past or present student who has successfully completed either two full quarters or 24 credit hours is eligible to join. In order to cover expenses, there is a membership fee of $2 per year.

An organizational meeting is planned as soon as a sufficient number of responses are received. Fifty-four students have already signed up for membership. Anyone interested in joining the BCCC Alumni Association write to Carolyn S. Lilley, Alumni Coordinator, BCCC, P.O. Box 1069, Washington, N.C. 27889, or contact student services or Jack Chase, student activities coordinator.

Service Series Begins Tonight

District Union No. Two will begin tonight at 7:30 at Saint James FWB Church in Farmville. The women's department will be in charge.

On Saturday night Holy Communion will be held and on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock President Bishop Robert Gorham will be in charge. The Rev. Robert Phillips will conduct the 3 p.m. service Sunday. The president is asking all mothers and deacons to be present Saturday morning. The public is also invited.

EMERGENCY FUNDS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has narrowly approved emergency funds for the beleaguered Federal Trade Commission. Senate approval is also expected.

Iran's Run-Off Vote Delayed

By The Associated Press
Iran's foreign minister says the runoff elections for the new Parliament have been postponed as expected, indicating delay until the summer at least in the legislature's decision whether the American hostages should be released.

Meanwhile, Dr. Michael DeBaKey arrived in Cairo to operate on the shah and remove his cancerous spleen.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh announced after a meeting of the ruling Revolutionary Council Wednesday night that it delayed the second-round election, originally scheduled for April 4, to permit investigation of charges of vote fraud in the first round of balloting March 14. He said the investigating commission began work Tuesday and had a month, until April 25, to finish.

With this timetable, the voting for legislators not elected on the first ballot probably would not be held until some time in May. And this could be delayed more if the results of the first round were thrown out in some districts and new elections held.

In view of the slow counting of votes that followed the March election, the results of a

May ballot are not likely to be known before June. Leaders of the revolutionary regime said earlier that it would take some weeks for the Majlis, or Parliament, to get organized and dispose of pressing domestic matters before it got around to the hostages.

Expectations that the Majlis will determine what happens to the Americans are based on a statement by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolutionary regime, that it should decide their fate. But there is no assurance that Khomeini won't change his mind.

And at last report, about half the seats were being won by the hard-line Islamic Republican Party which opposes releasing the Americans unless the shah and his fortune are returned to Iran.

The leader of the IRP, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, who is Justice Minister and first secretary of the Revolutionary Council, said on Wednesday the majority of the council feels if the shah is not returned, the hostages should be tried. But Ghotbzadeh told reporters "no trial will be held." He said the same thing on Monday after another revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, said some of the captive Americans should be tried as spies because the shah was allowed to leave Panama and escape extradition proceedings.

Today is the 145th day of confinement for the 50 Americans held by militants in the U.S. Embassy and three in the Iranian Foreign Ministry.

DeBaKey, the noted American surgeon who was to operate on the shah in Panama until Panamanian doctors objected, arrived in Cairo Wednesday night with a full surgical team, seven boxes labeled human blood and several larger boxes believed to contain surgical equipment.

Robert Armao, the shah's spokesman, said a date for the operation would not be set until after DeBaKey examined the 60-year-old ex-monarch. Armao said the shah, who is in the Maadi Military Hospital overlooking the Nile, was "holding his own but still very, very weak. He is also very relaxed and comfortable."

Schedule Seminar On Grant Program

A seminar on the U.S. Department of Energy Appropriate Technology Small Grant Program will be held on Monday, March 31 from 7-10 p.m. in the auditorium of the Allied Health Building of East Carolina University.

The seminar is sponsored by the North Carolina Coalition for Renewable Energy Resources in cooperation with the North Carolina Energy Division and U.S. Department of Energy.

The grant program enables inventors, innovators, small businesses, and local non-profit groups to apply their skills to developing small scale energy technologies suitable to local needs and skills.

The purposes of the seminar are: to explain the grants program and offer information for completing the grant application forms; to provide information about other possible sources of funding; and to give seminar participants the opportunity to meet other people in the area who may share their interests.

Leading the local seminar will be Linda G. Hix, coordinator for the Greenville Energy Program, a pilot program for community energy planning, sponsored by the Department of Energy. Ms. Hix has experience in encouraging and channeling public participation in community action programs. Her background includes work with grant application processes.

The seminar is free and open to all interested individuals, Ms. Hix said. She urged those planning to attend to pre-register to assure that an adequate supply of seminar materials are available. To pre-register, participants should contact Ms. Hix at 752-7166 (day) or 756-2970 (night).

Arrest Woman In Forgery Case

Greenville Police have arrested Mary Sharp Oaks, 35 of Grifton for forgery and uttering charges in connection with a series of alleged check forgeries in the past few weeks.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the arrest followed 28 indictments against Ms. Oaks by the Pitt County Grand Jury.

According to the chief, Ms. Oaks allegedly forged and uttered some $13,000 worth of checks on the account of Dr. Sumiko Ts'Kamura, 523 South Evans St. Most of the checks, he noted, were made payable to Ms. Oaks, or to cash.

Cannon noted that Ms. Oaks was employed by Dr. Ts'Kamura at the time of the alleged forgeries.

Aldridge Will Address Meet

W. M. "Henry" Aldridge, a candidate for the State House of Representatives from Pitt and Greene Counties, will speak at the Pitt-Beaufort Conservative Union, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the District Courtroom at the Pitt County Court House, tonight.

A Republican, Aldridge has served two terms of the Greenville City Council. A Vanceboro native, he attended East Carolina University and the Medical College of Virginia.

All interested persons are invited to attend the session.

Investigate Two Shooting Cases

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of two shooting incidents at 1100A Brownlea Dr., Chief Glenn Cannon said today.

Cannon said the rear window of a car and a truck, and two panes of glass in the living room window of the dwelling were shot with a BB or pellet gun about 12:20 a.m. Saturday.

About 11:15 p.m. Tuesday, someone using a pellet or BB gun shot the glass in a front storm door and wooden shutters beside the living room window.

Damage from the two incidents was estimated at more than $250.

Gospel Singing

The Sunlight Singers of Greenville and the Gospel Tones I and II of Hookerton will participate in a gospel singing program Sunday night at Oak Grove Holiness Church, Bonner's Lane.

The pastor, Bishop Lucille Chancy, invited the public to attend the program, which begins at 7:30 p.m.

PTA MEETING

There will be a PTA meeting March 27 in the Elmhurst Elementary school auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Charles Crumpler, physical education teacher, and some of his students will present the program. The public is invited to attend.

Constitution.

"The questions have to have some relationship with an identifiable national interest," said Census Bureau spokesman Henry Smith.

"We don't ask your religion, or who you sleep with or whether you have a pet." Even though rejected by the Census Bureau, those are all questions one group or another sought to have included.

Ray Bancroft of the bureau recalled that other rejected suggestions included some dealing with sexual preference, what type of leisure activity is most enjoyed, whether a person is left-handed and whether he or she snores.

The bureau held hearings starting in 1974 to develop questions.

The first question on all forms asks the name of each person living in the house as of April 1.

Question No. 2 deals with how the people listed are related to one another and the next two questions ask the sex and racial background of the individuals.

Question No. 5 is on age, No. 6 on marital status and No. 7 on whether the individual is of Hispanic origin or descent.

The housing questions everyone will be asked cover such things as number of living quarters at the address, whether there are complete plumbing facilities, the number of rooms, whether you own or rent, the amount of rent and the size and value of the property.

On the long form, the more detailed housing questions include topics such as type of water and sewer service, the age of the building, the average cost of utilities, whether there is a telephone, the number of bedrooms and bathrooms, real estate taxes, mortgage and insurance.

Extra personal questions on the long form include place of birth, languages spoken, citizenship, ancestry, education, military service, health and means of traveling to work.

MASONIC NOTICE

The Queen of the South Lodge No. 778 will have a communication at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Work will be in the second degree. All master masons are invited.

Banks Tightening Credit Rules

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The squeeze on consumer borrowing has tightened once again with actions by Bank of America and Citibank — the nation's two biggest banks — to make credit card use more expensive and loans harder to get.

and other banks also are instituting stricter credit policies to meet new Federal Reserve requirements to hold down loan growth and President Carter's program to cool inflation by reducing consumer spending.

Beneficial Corp., the nation's largest finance company with $4.3 billion in loans outstanding, plans to reduce its loans by 5 percent this year. Sears, Roebuck and Co., with 23 million charge customers, has boosted its minimum monthly payment on charge accounts from $8 to $10.

As the largest bank issuer of credit cards with 8.3 million cardholders, the San Francisco-based Bank of America said Wednesday it will boost its minimum monthly payment requirements on Visa and MasterCard accounts and stiffen criteria for new card applicants.

Credit card customers with the country's largest bank will have to pay 6 percent of each month's unpaid balance or $25 — whichever is greater — instead of the current minimum of 4 percent or $10.

Meanwhile, Citicorp announced plans to move its credit card operations from New York to Sioux Falls, S.D., so it can charge a higher interest rate on its 5.8 million credit cards.

Citicorp, whose chief subsidiary Citibank is one of the country's biggest consumer lenders, said it is losing money under a New York usury limit prohibiting interest rates of greater than 18 percent on credit card balances of less than $500 and 12 percent on greater balances. Starting May 1, South Dakota's usury limits will be 18 percent on the first $500 charge balance and 24 percent on greater amounts.

The company has no specific target date for the move, although it could occur as soon as July, a spokesman said. He added the company still is hoping the New York usury limit will be lifted soon.

Citibank has not yet decided what rate it will charge when the move is completed, but a spokesman said it would be higher than its current rate.

A spokesman said most of the 2,500 jobs affected would be filled in Sioux Falls, and the move would add about $90 million in revenue to the South Dakota economy.

Earlier this week, No. 2-ranked Citibank announced it would issue no new MasterCard or Visa cards; minimum monthly payments of $15 up from $5.

limits of $300 on cash advances and no installment loans to new customers.

ed Chase Manhattan Bank said the bank also has been considering moving its credit card operations from New York.

Winners In Math Event

WILMINGTON — Students from J. H. Rose High School won first place in Division I team competition in the UNC-Wilmington High School Mathematics Contest held recently at the University.

Four of the team members also won honorable mention in Division I individual competition. They were: Christopher G. Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Browning; Teresa L. Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Little; Carlton D. Johnson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Johnson; and Bradley P. Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Griffin, all of Greenville.

Other members of the Rose High team were Karen Brame and Dorothy Wang.

The contest was sponsored by the UNC-W Department of Mathematical Sciences, and prizes were donated by the Foundation of UNC-Wilmington.

Kannapolis Police In Cattle Roundup

KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP) — City police officers faced an unusual challenge Wednesday — a cattle roundup in downtown Kannapolis.

The culprit was a 600-pound, brown and white heifer who escaped the slaughterhouse and ran for her life, snarling traffic and befuddling two police officers.

Moses White of Mount Ulla had taken the young cow to a slaughterhouse on West C Street in Rowan County.

"As I was unloading it, it like to run over me," said White, 68.

The three-mile chase began about 9:50 a.m., when the heifer was spotted making her way down West C Street.

With Kannapolis Police Officers M.D. Rowell and W.T. Morgan following in their patrol cars, the animal turned on South Main Street, tying up traffic.

Finally the heifer was knocked down by a car. But she got up and went on, while the car suffered $600 damage.

But the cow, perhaps suspecting its fate, struck out for a nearby What-A-Burger drive-in restaurant. There the policemen let volunteers Wayne Wilson and Fred Steele, service technicians with G&S Metal Co., take over.

The men cornered the heifer in a shed behind the restaurant, but the frightened animal charged out, striking Morgan and breaking his left middle finger.

"I ran," Rowell said. "When it charged out of the shed, it scared us pretty good."

After cornering the heifer again behind a bank next door, Wilson managed to get a rope around her neck and tie her up about 11 a.m.

"I just cornered the cow and lassoed it," said Wilson, 38. "I'm just proud I was able to help."

The heifer was eventually returned to the slaughterhouse.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell sharply today, resuming the slide that began six weeks ago. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which closed Wednesday at its lowest level in almost two years, lost another 7.17 to 754.95 in the first half hour today. Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 6-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The market made a bid to rally in early trading Wednesday, but the advance collapsed late in the session. Analysts said that showing prompted more selling today. Brokers said concerns over record-high interest rates, inflation and the prospect of a recession were still weighing down the market. "In this country we have never seen either inflation or interest rates as high as they are today," Heinz H. Biel at Janney Montgomery Scott observed in a market commentary issued this week. "It is a new experience. It requires a new evaluation of all investment media, of bonds, stocks, real estate, gold, etc." Today's early volume leaders included American Telephone, down ½ at 47; Eastman Kodak, down ¼ at 44½, and Gulf Oil, down ¼ at 35½. On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average, up more than 10 points at its mid-day peak, was off 5.71 at 762.12 by the close. That marked a new low for the average since it finished at 755.37 on April 4, 1978.

Hogs RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina hog market today was mostly 50 cents higher. Wilson, unreported; Kinston 31.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson, 32.00; Rocky Mount 31.50; Salisbury 30.00; Spivey's Corner unreported. Sows: Spivey's Corner (325-600 pounds) 23.00-27.00; Fayetteville (450 pounds) 36.50; Greenville (300-600 pounds) 22.00-26.00.

Poultry RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady with weak undertone for next week. Supply adequate. Demand moderate. Weights desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 41.33 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,694,000.

(Cont'd from Page 1) preliminary and final plats of Landmark East Subdivision, located on Verdant Street across from King's Row Apartments. Sewell said the development involves six lots. The joint city-county board approved the Sedimentation and Erosion Control Plan for Whichport Subdivision, located south of US 264 Bypass and east of Belvedere Subdivision. Sewell said the city and Soil Conservation Service reviewed the plan. Flooding problems plague the area south of the bypass and it was pointed out that water from the proposed development will go into the same problem area affected by a downstream culvert at the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad. Sewell said that something will hopefully be worked out with the railroad concerning improvement of the culvert. Commissioners voted unanimously to request that the City Council establish a committee, hopefully including Council members and planning board representatives, to meet with Seaboard Coast Line regarding the problem. Approval was given to the preliminary and final plats of the Mary A. Smith Mobile Home Park, located east of State Road 1204 and north of State Road 1202. The plats were approved subject to receipt of a letter from the county Health Department regarding septic tank authorization. Commissioners voted to table action on the preliminary plat of the Lillian Tyson Dail property, located on the east side of State Road 1447 some 150 feet north of the Belvoir Highway. Planning Director Bobby Roberson said that the planning staff would finish drawing up the commercial section of the zoning regulations in 60 to 90 days and then present it to the board for consideration. A workshop will be scheduled at that time for planning board members to discuss the zoning classification with the staff. Roberson said that the staff is completing its work on the extraterritorial zoning boundary (US 264 West area), as well as its study of the US 264 area. He suggested that the staff notify all property owners involved in the study area and discuss the 264 plans with them before the matter is presented at a board meeting. The planning director said that it is hopeful that the board will consider and adopt a set of Rules of Procedures at the April meeting. Board members were urged to consider attending the 23rd annual meeting of the North Carolina Planning Conference set for April 11-12 in Chapel Hill. Local planning board commissioner Wes Hankins is current president of the North Carolina Chapter of the American Planning Association.

Valvano Quits Iona; Said Headed To State

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Valvano, who built Iona into an Eastern power in his six seasons as head basketball coach, has resigned, reportedly to take a similar post at North Carolina State.

"I don't have a whole bunch to say about my future at this time," Valvano said following a dinner honoring the Iona team Wednesday night, at which he announced his resignation. "In another day, I'll talk all you want."

Peter Maneri, an assistant vice president at Iona, said the 33-year-old Valvano was scheduled to fly to Raleigh, N.C., Thursday morning. The New York Times and New York Daily News both reported Val-vano would be named coach of the Atlantic Coast Conference school.

Although both New York newspapers reported that Valvano's appointment would be announced today, N.C. State officials would not confirm it. Ed Seamon, sports information director at the school, said Wednesday night there was no indication when a new coach would be named. Another spokesman for the Wolfpack said, "I don't know what's going on. Your guess is as good as mine."

Norm Sloan resigned after 14 seasons as coach at N.C. State to take the Florida job.

Valvano took over a team that had been 4-19 and built steadily to this year's 29-5 record, which included a 77-60 triumph over NCAA champion Louisville, and a No. 19 national ranking in the final Associated Press poll. He recruited highly coveted schoolboy star Jeff Ruland in 1977 and the 6-foot-11 center helped Iona win the last two ECAC Metro Division titles.

Valvano, who played college ball at Rutgers, coached one season at Johns Hopkins and three at Bucknell before going to Iona, where he also served as athletic director.

In its report, the News said N.C. State officials had decided on Valvano after Morgan Wooten of DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C., had turned down a five-year, $700,000 offer. Others who have been mentioned for the N.C. State post include Tom Young of Rutgers, Bill Foster of Clemson, Jack Hartman of Kansas State and Abe Lemons of Texas.

Pat Kennedy, 27, who has been Valvano's assistant for the past three years, was named as the new head coach by Brother John Driscoll, president of the college.

The News also reported that Gary Springer, a highly sought 6-7 All-American at New York's Benjamin Franklin High School, has made a verbal commitment to Iona despite Valvano's departure. Kennedy is in Pittsburgh, where Springer will be playing in the Dapper Dan Classic this weekend.

Odom Reflects On First Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

In terms of won-lost record, East Carolina Coach Dave Odom feels that the 1979-80 basketball season at the school was very successful, as the team posted at 16-11 record, but it was also a good year in other ways too.

Odom was awarded an extension to his contract and a salary increase yesterday by the school, a reward for getting the program back in the right direction after four straight losing seasons.

"We were successful in changing some of the attitudes of some of the players," he said. "We weren't completely successful, but that's to be expected."

Odom feels that there was a definite change in the university's attitude toward the sport. "It's in a positive an 'enthusiastic way now. The administration's support has been total and complete. All-in-all, I think we're off to a very good start."

Odom said he would be remiss if he didn't point out that he had three excellent assistants. "They are totally dedicated, hard workers and honest."

The players too accepted the things that Odom wanted from them. "This is a reflection on their ability to accept what we wanted from them."

"There is also no way we could be 12-1 at home without the support of the fans. While the support was not as good as I'd hoped for at some of the games, it was vocal and enthusiastic. I look for a rise in attendance next year."

Odom said that efforts were going to be made to cater more to the students and the Pirate Club in the future. "We've really been cheered by the attitude of people we've met everywhere we go," Odom added.

"But," he said, "we're going to have to work hard not to get caught in a reversal."

Odom has two off-the-court objectives for the coming season. One involves some facelifting for Minges, the adding of addition seating and improved seating to encircle the floor.

"Then, we need some sort of conference affiliation. Our people know this and I feel an effort is being made in this direction. But only three teams in the field of 48 in the NCAA were independents, so you can see how hard it is to get into it."

Odom said he was supportive of Chancellor Tom Brewer's efforts to have a civic center built in Pitt County which would become the home court for the Pirates. "But that's down the line a ways," he said. "It would give us a good edifice to show recruits, and I'm sure that more people would come since they could be more comfortable."

As far as the team in concerned, Odom wants improved free throw shooting next year, seeking at least a 10 percent increase. "I'll be sorely disappointed if we don't get it."

He also wants to work on continued improvement on defense.

"We have to work on some intangibles too. This year, we were winning, but we had some slippage that we didn't notice. We stated losing and lost a few in a row, and wondered why. We just hadn't been putting the effort in because things were going well and we didn't realize that we were beginning to make little mistakes. One of our goals is not to allow this next year, but to continue to improve gradually throughout the season."

Odom also feels that the coaches have to continue to sell the students and the team on pride in East Carolina. "We want our people to know that wherever they go, they reflect on the university and never do anything that isn't a credit to the university. This will carry over onto the basketball court."

While this past season could be called a rebuilding year, the next one will be even more of one, since five seniors, including three starters depart. The three included the top three scorers and two of the top three rebounders on the team.

"We hope to be smart in recruiting and bring in the kind of people we can be proud of, who will reflect well on the university. We can bring in as many as seven, but I don't anticipate that."

"More than likely we'll bring in about five. We're going for front court people more than back court, but we still have to replace a guy like George Maynor."

Odom said that 90 percent of the recruiting effort has been put on high school seniors. "We still may bring in a couple of junior college players since they have more experience and we'll be lacking in a lot of experience next year.

"But we possibly will start one or more freshmen. I wouldn't be opposed to it. The freshman thing is overdone. If they can play, they can play."

Nobody is guaranteed a starting position for the coming season, Odom added.

Now, he's looking forward to April 9, the official signing date for the NCAA, when binding letters-of-intent are inked by players. "We hope to have some by then."

Hines Stars For U.S. Team

Two international records were set by Reggie Hines of Wilson, a sophomore at East Carolina University, as he paced the U. S. Soccer team to a second place finish in the World Games for the Deaf Qualifying Tournament in Mexico City.

Selected as one of the tournament's four outstanding players, Hines set the record for the most shots on a goal with a total of 17 shots including two goals. He also scored the first goal ever made by a U.S. player in soccer competition.

The matches were played to determine which nation will represent Group I in the 14th World Games for the Deaf (Deaf Olympics) in Cologne, West Germany, in August, 1981. Group I is comprised of the United States, Canada, Mexico and Australia.

In taking second place, Hines

and his teammates defeated Australia, 6-4, won by default against Canada and lost to Mexico, 4-0.

His participation in the tournament was sponsored by J.D. Little Construction Co. of Wilson.

A transfer student from Averett College, Danville, Va., Hines is pursuing a double major in physical education and social work at ECU. He also participates in the ECU Program for Hearing Impaired Students and plans to try out for the ECU soccer team when he becomes eligible next year.

He is a graduate of Rocky Point High School, Long Island, N.Y., and is the son of Benjamin Hines. He currently resides with his Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Handy of 108 Manchester St., Wilson.

Swofford Is Named

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — John D. Swofford said he realized an eight-year-old dream Wednesday when he was named athletic director at the University of North Carolina.

The 31-year-old former Tar Heel quarterback replaces William W. Cobey Jr., who resigned to seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

Swofford has been an assistant athletic director and business manager at UNC since 1976.

"John Swofford is a bright and energetic young administrator with an abundance of enthusiasm for Carolina athletics," Chancellor Christopher C. Fordham III said in a prepared news release. "He brings imagination, talent and experience into a position that is very important to the university."

Swofford said Wednesday he's been shooting for the job since he was a senior at UNC.

Rampettes Top Three-Way Meet

Rose High School's girls' track team slipped past Farmville Central and Hunt in a three-way meet here yesterday.

The Rampettes finished with 73 points, while Farmville was a close second with 64. Hunt finished a distant third with 30.

Rose had only one double winner during the day as Judy Daniels took the 100 and 200-yard dashes. Sharon Dupree of Farmville Central won both of the hurdle events.

Rose travels to Rocky Mount on Monday, while Farmville is in action at Beddingfield.

Riley Is Still In

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col. — East Carolina's Kathy Riley continues to make progress in the Olympic Basketball Trials, now underway here.

Riley, who was chosen one of the final 25 to try out for the team, reported this morning that no further cuts were made yesterday. Two additional workouts are planned for today, and she believes that the group will be cut to about 17 at that time.

Eventually 12 members will be picked for the team, along with three alternates.

Riley has been switched to the point guard position, and has been concentrating on her ball-handling and defense in the workouts.

Pacers Win To No Avail

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Indiana won but came up a loser; Milwaukee didn't play and came up a winner.

The Indiana Pacers beat the Detroit Pistons 124-114 Wednesday night but were eliminated from the National Basketball Association playoff chase anyway when the Houston Rockets topped the San Antonio Spurs 113-101.

The Milwaukee Bucks had the night off but gained a first-round playoff bye when the Kansas City Kings dropped a 106-100 decision to the Golden State Warriors.

The Kings can still tie Milwaukee for first place in the Midwest Division by sweeping their remaining games, including one against the Bucks Friday night. The two teams would then be 3-3 against each other, but Milwaukee has the better record within the conference and thus would get the bye through the best-of-three first-round series.

In other games, the Boston Celtics beat the New York Knicks 129-121, the Philadelphia 76ers edged the Atlanta Hawks 89-84, the Phoenix Suns defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 109-99 and the Chicago Bulls topped the Denver Nuggets 122-115.

Pacers 124, Pistons 114
Rookie guard Dudley Bradley scored all 13 of his points in the final period as the Pacers handed the Pistons their 12th straight loss.

Indiana trailed by as many as 13 points in the first half, moved ahead 86-84 just before the third quarter ended and pulled away in the fourth quarter.

Rockets 113, Spurs 101
Moses Malone and Robert Reid each scored 19 points for Houston, which led 65-49 at halftime and was never caught. The Spurs had clinched a playoff berth Tuesday night by beating the Rockets.

Of the three teams battling for the final two Eastern Conference playoff spots, Houston has the best record at 39-41. New York is 39-42 and Washington 37-42.

Warriors 106, Kings 100
Phil Smith's short jumper with two minutes remaining snapped a 100-100 tie and Sonny Parker added a basket and two free throws as the Warriors beat Kansas City.

Clifford Ray played nearly the entire game at center for Golden State because of an injury to Robert Parish and blocked a three-point field goal try by Phil Ford and grabbed several rebounds in the closing minutes.

Celtics 129, Knicks 121
Boston got a season-high 29 points and 17 assists from Nate Archibald in beating New York and raising its record to 60-20, best in the NBA.

The Celtics need one more victory or one Philadelphia loss to clinch the Atlantic Division title and a first-round bye. The Knicks, meanwhile, finish their season against the 76ers tonight.

Miles Apart On Differences

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The meeting that will determine if and when major league baseball players will go on strike is less than a week away, yet club owners and players remain miles apart on a new four-year basic agreement.

"I'm not optimistic until I see a reason to be," said Marvin Miller, the director of the Players Association, after negotiations between owners and players reopened Wednesday. Miller said no movement was made on any of several key issues during the session, which lasted just under two hours.

"The owners are not seeking a strike," said Ray Grebey, chief owners' negotiator. "But at the same time, they feel very strongly about their proposals."

"We've had very constructive negotiations so far," he added.

The two sides planned to meet again today and Friday.

Miller is also meeting this week with members of several teams to outline what is going on in the talks and to discuss the possibility of a strike. He met Wednesday with 40 members of the San Francisco Giants and 22 players from the Cleveland Indians, who voted unanimously to authorize a strike if no agreement is reached by April 1. Of the nearly 800 players to vote thus far only one, on the Kansas City Royals, has voted against strike authorization.

Barring a major breakthrough soon, "it's been pretty much decided we'll have to take some sort of strike action. The question is when," said Gary Lavelle, the Giants' player representative.

"We're so far apart that everything is questionable," said Indians' player representative Wayne Garland.

"The meetings have been pretty much at a standstill," said San Diego pitcher Randy Jones, who attended Wednesday's negotiations.

Player representatives' from all the major league teams plan to meet with Miller in Dallas April 1 to decide whether to strike, if an agreement is not reached by then.

Julius Erving, who missed the last three games because of a sprained foot, scored 20 of his 30 points in the final period as the 76ers kept pace with Boston. Center Darryl Dawkins scored seven points in the last three minutes for Philadelphia.

Suns 109, Sonics 99
Walter Davis scored 31 points and Paul Westphal added 25 as Phoenix pulled within one game of second-place Seattle in the Pacific Division. The Suns outscored Seattle 27-12 in a 7-18 span to lead by nine at halftime and stayed in front the rest of the way.

Bulls 122, Nuggets 115
Scott May scored 12 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter as the Bulls defeated Denver. The Nuggets trimmed a nine-point Chicago advantage to three with 47 seconds remaining on three-pointers by Gary Garland and Bobby Wilkerson, but Reggie Theus and Ricky Sobers converted two foul shots each to thwart the Nuggets' surge.

Roanoke Looks Toward Title; Martin Rebuilds

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

Roanoke baseball coach Nolan Respass was disappointed in his club's finish last year and is looking to make sure his Redskins do not meet a similar end this season.

"I'll be very disappointed if we aren't there with the leaders this season," said Respass, whose Redskins were 15-8 last season and third in the Northeastern Conference.

Already 4-1, the Redskins appear ready to erase Respass' disappointment.

"In a nutshell, if we can get pitching we can be a good ballclub," Respass said. "We can stroke the ball real well and if we can just get some good pitching and play defense well, we'll be up there."

Leading the Redskins this season is Anthony Latham.

whom Respass says is the best player in the area. "The pro scouts are looking at him," Respass said. "And I think I can say he'll be offered a scholarship somewhere. He's the best ballplayer around here. He was all-conference in football and all-conference in basketball. He's just a good athlete."

Latham starts in center field and will also pitch and try his hand at shortstop, where Respass has Jesse Matthews starting. Matthews, a two-year starter, also pitches.

Also back this season is four-year starter Glenn Cargile, the Redskins' cleanup hitter. Joey Ross will be behind the plate this season while Willie Keel will be in left field and Steve Wallace will man right field.

Wesley Johnson and Edward Grimes are fighting for first base while Angelo Spruill and Neal Cargile are battling for second base.

Reserves include Ricky Simpson, Tony Whitfield, Mutt Smith, Lee Briley, Davis Harris and Robert Smith.

Martin Academy
Last year Martin Academy won its conference baseball tournament. This season the Pioneers are just looking to survive.

With only nine players, four of whom have never played a day of organized baseball, on this year's squad, Coach Eddie Beach is looking for help anywhere he can find it.

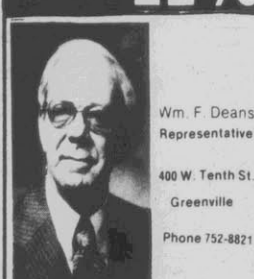

"I wanted to use sixth graders, but they wouldn't let me," Beach said. "There's a rule against it. You know, I think they made that rule just because of us. No one else has to worry about it."

Only last season Beach was grooming three pitchers he felt would give the Pioneers a good nucleus this year. But, as often happens to private schools, they left for public schools.

Norway Votes Not To Boycott

By The Associated Press
The Norwegian Olympic Committee voted Wednesday to send its athletes to the 1980 Summer Games in Moscow, following by one day a similar action by the British Olympic Association.

Meanwhile, in Washington, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell reiterated President Carter's opposition to U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics because of the Soviet Union's military presence in Afghanistan.

"As a matter of principle, Carter is not in favor of participation in the Moscow Games, period," Powell said.
Powell also said he had read a story about Afghan soccer players seeking asylum in Western Europe and added,

"Those who feel there is no, and should be no, relationship between what's happened in Afghanistan and Moscow may want to solicit the views of these Afghan sportsmen about whether they see a connection."
Norway's government had left it up to the national sports organizations and the Olympic committee as to whether the country would send teams to Moscow.

A proposal to boycott the Olympics was voted down 28-8 Wednesday, and another proposal to postpone a decision until after the Norwegian Sports Federation meets next month was also voted down 18-16 with two abstentions. The Norwegian Basketball Federation then put forward a proposal calling for participation, and it was passed 19-13 with four abstentions.

In London, a spokesman for the Department of the Environment, which has responsibility for sport, said the decision taken by the British Olympic Association on Tuesday to defy government pressure and send a full team to the Games "is not the end of the matter."
But sports officials warned against further government interference. "Let the athletes get on and make their own choice in their own time and without any sort of pressure," said David Shaw, secretary of the British Amateur Athletic Board.

Britain's Prince Philip, president of the International Equestrian Federation, said he will not attend the Olympics in accordance with the strong stand Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government has taken against participation.
In other Olympic developments, Hong Kong's government said it favors a boycott because it has "become clear that...participation in the Games would have very definite political implications." But Chief Secretary Sir Jack Carter said the final decision lay with its Amateur Sports Federation and Olympic Committee.
A 28-member Australian track and field team was named Thursday but a decision on whether that nation will send a team to Moscow will not be made until April 19 and 20 when the Australian Olympic Federation meets to consider a call by the government to boycott the Games. Earlier this week, the swimming and athletic associations had voted to tell the Australian Olympic Federation that they wanted to participate.

Allison Seeks Another Ride

HUEYTOWN, Ala. (AP) — NASCAR driver Donnie Allison of Hueytown and car builder Hoss Ellington have ended their association by mutual agreement.

"I'm sure something will come up for me," Allison said today on the possibility of him landing another ride.

Allison, brother to NASCAR's Bobby Allison, said his next ride is "not anything I can talk about now."

"Donnie has always been a good driver for us," Ellington said. "But sometimes a relationship just gets stale, and we felt some changes would be in the best interest of all of us."

Allison said the split was amicable. "We just decided we'd make a change. It's been coming on for awhile. Things just haven't been clicking right."

"It kinda compares to some baseball teams. All the ingredients were there, but it wasn't clicking for some reason or other."

"They're going to have to hunt pretty hard to find somebody to replace me who will run as hard as I ran every race," Allison said.

The team is sponsored by Hawaiian Tropic. It has run a limited schedule, competing in 17, 17 and 20 races in Allison's three years as driver.

"They cut back to 10 races this year," he said. Allison said he felt there would be no team next season.

The team won two Grand National races in 1977, one last year and none in 1979. It has no victories this season, though Allison was leading the Atlanta 500 March 16 when young Terry Labonte spun him out.

Ellington said several well-known drivers are being considered to replace Allison, but that no selection has been made.

Admit Garwood's Own Testimony Won't Suffice

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — The defense for Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood conceded on Wednesday that Garwood's testimony alone will probably not be enough to acquit him of desertion and collaboration with the enemy.

That admission came in a legal brief filed Wednesday as Garwood's court-martial resumed after a two-week recess.

The 33-year-old Indiana native is accused of deserting and collaborating with the enemy during 14 years he spent in Vietnam.

The legal brief was filed in conjunction with a defense motion seeking time and government transportation for an evidence-gathering excursion to Vietnam.

Garwood's lawyers said they wanted to examine Vietnamese documents and interview witnesses in hopes of proving that Garwood was held prisoner until he returned to the United States last March.

"It is logical for the court to think that the accused was not coerced in his actions (in Vietnam) and that his testimony at trial is insignificant and self-serving when compared with the testimony of the government witnesses," Garwood's lawyers wrote in the brief.

They added that only by gaining the evidence and interviews from a trip to Vietnam could they "overcome the court's natural inclination to attribute the accused's actions to his own free will and to prove that the accused was as much a prisoner of war as any of the government witnesses."

Col. Robert E. Switzer made no ruling on that motion Wednesday. Nor did he rule on two defense motions for dismissal of the charges.

Switzer said his decisions on the motions would come after he studied pertinent military law.

Garwood's lawyers planned to argue more motions, including one to move the trial from Camp Lejeune, when the court-martial resumed at 9 a.m. today.

In a legal brief, Garwood's lawyers asked for time and transportation to search for evidence in Vietnam.

Garwood contends he acted out of fear for his life in Vietnam, and his lawyers said in a legal brief that the trip was "essential to issues such as duress, coercion and voluntariness."

"It's so obvious that what we want is important that the point is not worth arguing," said Capt. Joseph Composto, one of Garwood's three lawyers.

Military prosecutors argued against the motion, saying it should have come earlier in the case and that Garwood had no evidence showing he and his lawyers would be admitted to Vietnam.

Battling a severe cough, Garwood sat through Wednesday's proceedings saying only a few words to his attorneys.

Garwood disappeared near Da Nang in 1965 while he was serving as a jeep driver. He returned to the United States last March to face accusations from American POWs who encountered him in jungle prison camps in the late 1960s.

One aspect of the Garwood case that remains a mystery is where he was from 1970, when last seen by American POWs, until his release.

Garwood's lawyers said they could find evidence in Vietnam showing he was a prisoner during those years.

The defense said it wants to look at documents and interview Vietnamese, including guards and supervisors at camps where American POWs encountered Garwood.

The motions for dismissal were based on contentions that Garwood has been denied a speedy trial and is no longer subject to military law.

The military announced last month — nine months after Garwood returned — that he would face trial. Prosecutors argued Wednesday that the nine months were filled with investigation and legal work, but his trial to begin," Capt. Dale Miller said.

Leak Has Again Idled Brunswick Nuke Plant

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. officials said Wednesday that a small amount of radioactivity has been measured in vegetation northeast of the utility's Brunswick nuclear plant.

Meanwhile, the No. 1 unit at the nuclear plant was shut down Wednesday, less than two days after it was restarted.

Ben Furr, CP&L vice president for nuclear operations, said the radioactive Cesium-137 was released Feb. 22 from the plant near Southport.

He said off-site monitoring equipment did not pick up the radioactivity, but vegetation sampling did reveal a "slight but measurable amount of radioactivity."

"The amounts of radiation measured on vegetation do not represent a health hazard and are detectable only with special laboratory equipment," Furr said in a prepared release.

The release resulted from the failure of a tube in an oil-fired auxiliary boiler at the plant.

Meanwhile, CP&L spokesman Mac Harris said the No. 1 unit at the plant was taken back off line before it had been completely restarted.

"During the start-up we developed, inside the containment area, some water leakage," Harris said. "There are technical specifications as to how much leakage you can operate with and, although this was below those specifications, we elected to bring the unit back down and do the repairs now."

Brunswick's No. 2 unit has been off line since March 1 for maintenance and refueling.

The No. 1 unit shut down automatically Sunday when a water-level indicator gave an incorrect reading, triggering a shutdown.

Dayne Brown, chief of the state radiation protection division, said his office will collect vegetative, biological and soil samples to confirm the radioactive leak.

"I am doubting very seriously that we'll see any biological traces at all," Brown said.

"The levels they quoted based on vegetation sampling are indeed quite low."

Brown said Cesium-137 is a byproduct of the fission process. He said it has a half-life of 30 years, meaning half the amount will be present in 30 years, and half that amount in 30 years more.

Warns Against Adoption Ads

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina women should be wary of using Adoption Hotline to place their children for adoption, warned State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow.

The officials said the agency, which operates in Miami and New York City, has been running advertisements in the classified sections of North Carolina newspapers.

"I want to urge women who have answered these ads to be extremely careful and avoid any future contact," Dr. Morrow said. "The Adoption Hotline is disreputable and a menace to both mothers and babies. We don't want this type of agency preying on innocent children and mothers in the State of North Carolina."

Edmisten said the ads soliciting children violate state criminal law as does the agency's practice of paying women for their expenses connected with the adoption and birth of their children.

The attorney general's office has taken steps to block the agency's activities in the state and has contacted the newspapers that ran the ads. Edmisten said all ads have been withdrawn.

Edmisten added that Agency Hotline has been notified that further activities in the state will lead to court action.

He said Lawrence and Harriett Lauer, the owners of Adoption Hotline Inc. which began operations in Miami, were enjoined by Florida courts in November 1979 from soliciting children for adoption.

The Lauers are appealing that ruling.

Edmisten said the Lauers moved the operation to New York after the Florida order.

He said the hotline advises women that their children can be placed for adoption without the knowledge or consent of the children's fathers which is contrary to the law.

Sees Taxes Reasonable

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Unlike his opponent in the race for North Carolina's Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday that most local governments have held down property tax levies.

"I think property taxes in this state are pretty reasonable," Hunt said. "Now, I think there are instances where they have jumped up too much, particularly after re-evaluations."

"But when you compare property taxes in North Carolina with other states, they compare very favorably," he said.

Former Gov. Bob Scott, challenging Hunt's re-election bid in the May 6 Democratic primary, has raised property taxes as a campaign issue and called for a legal limitation to be set on further increases.

Hunt said the state already has a legal limit on how high property taxes can be raised — $1.50 per $100 valuation on taxes used for all but some specifically exempted purposes.

Scott, campaigning in Statesville on Tuesday, repeated his promise to propose a legal limit on property tax increases if elected governor and said local governments need alternate sources of revenue.

"Something has got to be done about keeping property taxes from going through the ceiling," Scott said. "As property taxes increase, more and more people who are unable to absorb the increase are forced to sell their property."

Hunt Supports Federal Cuts

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday that he supports the decision to cut 154 federally funded social-services training positions pending Congressional budget cuts.

Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow announced the cuts Tuesday.

R. Brent Hackney, Hunt's deputy press secretary said Hunt was disappointed about the loss of personnel, but "these things are going to happen with the inflation-fighting efforts now under way...."

Ms. Morrow cancelled $3.5 million in contracts that provided the jobs. The cut is effective next week.

Prosecutor Says Klan Taunts Preceded Violence

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — that taunts from a Ku Klux Klan member preceded an attack on a caravan of demonstrators on a caravan of Nazis and Klansmen last Nov. 3.

He had a right to say what he did, but it was like throwing lighter fluid on a match," Green son said during closing arguments at a Superior Court hearing on defense motions to dismiss murder and rioting charges against 14 men who claim ties to the Klan or Nazi parties.

When gunfire erupted at the CWP-sponsored "Death to the Klan" rally, 5 communists were killed.

The other three are charged with rioting.

Attorneys for the defendants renewed criticism Wednesday of District Attorney Mike Schlosser for allegedly practicing "selective prosecution."

"The district attorney wants to proceed with a single purpose," said attorney Harold Greeson, who represents Ku Klux Klan member Coleman Pridmore. "He is of one mind. Get them Klansmen, prosecute them Klansmen." And he will not be deterred.

Schlosser voluntarily took the witness stand Monday afternoon to counter the charges. He repeatedly told the court that others, including some communists and perhaps another Klansman, probably will be indicted after all evidence is returned from the FBI lab in Washington.

Sue Schools On Pupil Transfer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The families of 19 students transferred against their will to Dudley High School have filed a suit against the Greensboro city school system, but many have remedied the situation by other means.

The suit, which is still pending in Guilford County Superior Court, charges that the students were used to raise the white ratio at the predominantly black Dudley High School.

Only four of the students remain at Dudley while the other 15 have won transfers to Page High School for "medical reasons."

Community spokesman Tom Hall said individual families have taken matters into their own hands. Some, he said, have asked for transfers for "medical reasons" supported by a doctor's signature.

Others have rented their homes and moved to apartments in the Page district or sent their children to live with relatives in other school zones.

The students living in the O. Henry Oaks area, a predominantly white neighborhood, were switched to Dudley last year.

The city school board denied a request by 13 of the students on Sept. 12 for reassignment to join Page's Navy ROTC program. Area residents sought a preliminary injunction to overturn the decision but a Superior Court judge denied their motion on March 11.

School Superintendent Kenneth Newbold said the students have followed guidelines for obtaining the transfers.

"I have categorically found no evidence of any collusion or any attempt of any professional in this town to lie about a student's medical or emotional health," Newbold said.

But two teachers have questioned the "medical reasons."

"We asked them (the students) why they were really leaving Dudley and they said most of their friends were at Page," said the teachers, who asked not to be identified. "And evidently they were getting a lot of pressure from people in their community."

Seek Grant

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Robeson County is expected to seek more than $5 million in federal funds for construction of 200 units of low-income housing, officials say.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded a grant of $494,848 to the Robeson County Housing Authority for administrative work and initial planning of the project, said County Housing Director Glenn Maynor. He said application will be made later for additional money.

Maynor said sites for the housing are still under consideration.

The Robeson and Lumberton housing authorities were competing for the grant. HUD rejected the Lumberton application earlier this year.

The grant will more than double the size of the county housing authority.

Maynor said he expects most of the projects will be built in two-apartment buildings.

Plan A New Rate Appeal

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. officials, dissatisfied with a 7.13 percent rate increase granted Tuesday, have announced they will propose a new rate increase sooner than planned.

The North Carolina Utilities Commission granted CP&L a $43.4 million annual increase Tuesday. The utility had proposed a 9.25 percent increase which would have brought in an additional $55.7 million.

William E. Graham, CP&L senior vice president and general counsel, said in a statement that "we simply must have a level of earnings that will allow us to attract capital and continue the construction that is necessary to provide adequate and dependable service to our customers."

Company officials earlier promised to ask for another rate increase this fall after CP&L begins using a new $205 million coal-fired plant in Roxboro.

A company spokesman refused to say when officials now plan to seek the increase.

Report Clues To Identification

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A skeleton found during the weekend in Pisgah National Forest may be that of a Franklin County woman who disappeared last April, the state medical examiner's office said Wednesday.

Dr. Larry R. Tate said it will be several more days before a positive identification is made, but the skeleton is believed to be that of Harriet Delaney Simmons, 42.

Mrs. Simmons left work at a Raleigh restaurant last April for a visit with a friend in Tennessee. Six days later her car was found on the exit ramp of an Interstate 40 rest stop near Statesville.

Tate said the skeleton, found Sunday in a wooded area just off N.C. 151 near Candler, appeared to have been there for at least six months.

He said the skeleton showed the woman had been stabbed at least four times.

Buncombe County authorities have identified car keys and jewelry found near the skeleton as belonging to Mrs. Simmons.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Seven of ♠.

It is not always game or slam hands that demand great skill. Even a lowly part score can require delicate handling, as this hand illustrates.

North-South were playing a 15-17 point no trump, but in no way does that condone North's decision to pass. With a good five-card major we would always take out into the suit, regardless of what form of bridge we were playing, duplicate or rubber.

Against South's one no trump, West led his fourth-best diamond. Declarer won the jack with the king and led a spade to the eight and ten. East returned a diamond to the ace, and declarer tried the spade finesse, which succeeded. When the ace of spades felled the king, declarer was able to cash out two long spades. He discarded two diamonds and a club from his hand.

Declarer now had six tricks, and it would seem that he could establish a seventh by leading a club and forcing out the ace. But watch what happens when West takes the ace of clubs and runs his three diamond tricks. West comes down to the ten of clubs and a heart, while East holds the ace-queen of hearts. Declarer is squeezed—he cannot both guard the king of hearts and also hold onto the king of clubs. No matter how he discards, the defenders can take the rest of the tricks.

When English star Martin Hoffman was declarer, he foresaw the end position. He worked out that he could not make the contract unless East had the ace of hearts. So instead of leading a club from dummy, he led a heart. Now, as long as he guessed what card West held at trick thirteen, he could not be prevented from making his contract.

A lot of hard work for very little, for if North had bid two spades instead of passing one no trump, he would have had no problem in coming to eight tricks as the cards lie.

Radio Guest On Sunday

Esther Davis, Pitt County Coordinator for the N. C. Association for the Emotionally Troubled, will be guest Sunday at 1:06 p. m. on "Mental Health Matters" on WNCT radio.

Pitt County Mental Health Center utilizes NCAET for contractual services offering apartment cluster living for mentally retarded adults.

According to Davis, apartment living offers independent living conditions to single- and multi-handicapped adults. Because of emphasis on deinstitutionalization and normalization for mentally retarded citizens, PCMHC has sought to expand its services through NCAET.

During March, Mental Retardation Month, PCMHC has made a concerted effort to make the public aware of the range of services being offered in the MR services area, according to MR Coordinator Deborah Conklin.

Persistence A Success Secret

NEW YORK (AP) — Stick with it, keep on auditioning, show up for casting calls and you'll make it, says actor Roy Scheider.

That's the advice he's planning to give to the 94th graduating class of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts at the Music Box Theater on Tuesday.

"It's the kind of business where you have to endure because it's so full of disappointments and frustrations," Scheider says. "If you do have the courage to keep showing up, you can make it."

Scheider, now appearing on Broadway in Harold Pinter's "Betrayal," has showed up in the movies "Jaws," "French Connection," "All That Jazz" and other films.

Yet Another Season For 'The Waltons'

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fried chicken, corn-on-the-cob, biscuits and honey. An apt farewell supper for the long-running homespun series, "The Waltons."

At least, last weekend's gathering had the air of a farewell supper until CBS vice president for programming Bud Grant took to the stage and said, "We're looking forward to another season with 'The Waltons.'"

Two of the few members of the "Waltons" cast in attendance, Ellen Corby (Grandma) and Jon Walmsley (Jason) seemed as surprised as everyone else. Miss Corby, still recovering from a stroke that has limited her appearances on the show in the past two seasons, laughed and gave Walmsley a congratulatory pat on the back.

So, it appears that writer Earl Hamner's enduring tale of family life in the Virginia mountains will be around for at least one more reel, despite some rather formidable hindrances.

Michael Learned, who appeared occasionally on "The Waltons," in its eighth season this year, has announced that she intends to move on to other things next fall. Ralph Waite, who plays John Walton, the patriarch of Walton's Mountain, has said he doesn't plan to carry his role into a ninth season.

With the departure of Waite and Miss Learned from the show, "The Waltons" would seem less the traditional ideal and more the modern American family — of the splintered sort — as the show moves through the World War II years. Of the original 11-member family, only six would still be with the show, although the cast has gradually grown with the addition of other characters through the years.

In an interview later in the week, though, Grant said nothing is certain about "The Waltons," including the departure of Waite and Miss Learned.

It would seem that the future of the series would be affected in part by the performance of the Norman Lear-Alex Haley series "Palmerstown," which is currently running in "The Waltons" Thursday night slot. If "Palmerstown" doesn't make it, CBS would be loathe to embark upon a new season without a steady family-oriented entry in that time slot.

Lee Rich, president of Lorimar Productions, which makes "The Waltons," seems more certain about the show's future. "Whoever we have, whatever we have, we will go," Rich said. "What they (CBS) have told us so far is that in all likelihood, it will be back. I suppose we'll be hearing in the next month or so."

What might happen is a re-naming of the show to "Walton's Mountain," and an expansion of its focus to include the activities of the growing cast as the series progresses through time.

Eventually, who knows? Perhaps they'll follow John-Boy Walton's model, creator Earl Hamner Jr., to Malibu and call it "Walton's Seaside Bungalow."

Closing Dallas Episode Had Largest Audience

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Millions of Americans tuned in to see nasty J.R. Ewing get his due in the season's closing episode of "Dallas," and the show helped push CBS to a hefty victory in the week's TV ratings race.

Ewing, the ruthless oil executive played by Larry Hagman, was gunned down in the Friday episode, which was the week's top-rated show, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

Fans of the exploits of the millionaire Texas Ewing family will have to wait until next season to find out whether the villainous J.R. Ewing lives or dies and whodunit.

Meanwhile, CBS moved closer to taking first place from front-running ABC in the television network ratings for the season. CBS was No. 1 in the week ending March 23 with a rating of 19.6, and won Monday, Thursday and Friday nights. ABC was second with a rating of 18.1, winning Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday nights.

NBC finished place at 17.9, but its shift of "CHiPs" from Saturday to Sunday helped it wrest Sunday away from CBS.

The networks say the ratings mean that in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.6 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS. ABC holds a narrow lead in the ratings for the season overall at 19.6, compared to CBS, at 19.5. NBC is a distant third at 17.8.

CBS' Friday night combination of "Dallas" and "Dukes of Hazzard" continued strong and took the first two places. The network's "60 Minutes" was third.

CBS' premiere of "Palmerstown, U.S.A." placed 17th. "United States," NBC's critically acclaimed new comedy, placed 64th, while CBS' "Beyond Westworld," which has already been canceled, was last in 69th place.

Report Nonsmokers Hurt By Smokers

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The first major study to link nonsmokers' lung problems to other people's smoke will give a boost to those who hope to ban cigarettes from offices, airplanes and other public places, doctors and activists say.

A study of 2,100 people, reported in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, says nonsmokers risk a lung condition called small airways disease if they breathe air filled with smoke from other people's cigarettes, pipes and cigars.

"We are very pleased to see it," Peter Georgiades, a lawyer for Action on Smoking and Health, said of the study. "It will certainly give added support to the hundreds of public smoking laws that are proposed around the country."

However, Thomas Howard, a spokesman for the Tobacco Institute, said the report should "obviously not" be used to promote smoking restrictions. "The evidence is unconvincing and is sparse and incomplete," he said.

The study was conducted on middle-aged men and women by the University of California at San Diego. It measured the effects of on-the-job passive smoking — the fumes people breathe from their neighbors' smoking material.

James R. White, a physiologist, and Dr. Herman F. Froeb, a physician, concluded that breathing other people's smoke damages the tiny air tubes and sacs in the lungs.

There is no evidence that small airways disease alone causes long-term problems, but it often precedes more dangerous lung diseases, such as emphysema.

"We know that if a person works around another smoker for a period of time, he will experience lung damage," White said in an interview. "Now whether it will impair him or cause emphysema, we don't know. But who wants it?"

The study found that nonsmokers who work with smokers had about the same degree of small airways impairment as people who smoke without inhaling or inhale less than 11 cigarettes a day.

Last year, two Boston hospitals found poorer lung function in the children of parents who smoke.

The Tobacco Institute said in a prepared statement that White led an unsuccessful drive in California two years ago to restrict smoking in public places. The U.S. Surgeon General, the institute said, reported that "healthy non-smokers exposed to cigarette smoke have little or no physiologic response."

But Dr. Claude Lenfant of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute predicted that the findings "will clearly have considerable impact."

Until now, he said, people who object to being around smokers have had no scientific evidence that their health was being jeopardized.

"Because of the inconclusive nature of the evidence, the case against smokers has not been especially strong, and the feelings and psychological reactions of smokers are as vehement as those of nonsmokers," he wrote in an editorial accompanying the article.

"But now, for the first time, we have a quantitative measurement of a physical change — a fact that may tip the scales in favor of the nonsmokers."

Scholarship Funds Given

The Session of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church has established an educational scholarship fund to be called the Lucille Randolph Lane Scholarship in memorial to Mrs. Lane.

Mrs. Lane was an active worker in the church for many years before her death last year. She was a charter member of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The funds for the scholarship were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newsome of Salisbury, N.C. Newsome is Mrs. Lane's son.

The scholarship will be awarded each June by the church session to a deserving citizen of Pitt County. Preference is to be given to members of the Boyd Memorial congregation, and then to residents of the community surrounding the church.

Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church is located on the Falkland Highway, N.C. Highway 43, approximately three miles from Greenville.

Reasons why SNAPPER owners wouldn't own any other:

1. Walk-behind models, with inexpensive accessories, will mow, discharge cuttings evenly, vacuum, bag, mulch cuttings and shred leaves.
2. Riders and walk-behind models deliver a smooth, professional cut, even during tough conditions. They also cut more, faster, because of the efficient transfer of power from their engines.
3. Large capacity grass catchers need emptying less frequently, especially those with the 30 bushel Bag-N-Wagon.
4. The floating cutting unit on riders minimizes scalping and damage to the mower.
5. A wide selection of mowing speeds gives flexibility for varying lawn conditions, without loss of cutting power.

Before you buy a mower, compare the quality and performance features of a SNAPPER. You'll find SNAPPER is worth more because it does more. And, its price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Any way you cut it... it's a snap with a SNAPPER!

Reagan Taking Sharper Aim At President Carter

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Ronald Reagan may be saying from morn to night that he is not assured of the Republican presidential nomination, but that's not stopping him from taking sharper aim at President Carter than at his GOP primary opponents.

From Milwaukee to Oklahoma City, from Buffalo to Dallas, and back to Milwaukee, his barbs are targeted at the incumbent Democrat whose jobs he wants.

And what of his chief opponents for the GOP nomination, John Anderson and George Bush? Reagan now mentions their names mostly when he is questioned about them.

The one liners are aimed at Carter, and the former movie actor delivers them with aplomb. His audiences — party contributors, high school students, Chamber of Commerce members — respond with the bursts of laughter accorded a polished performer.

The Republican party has been successful in recent elections, Reagan tells party members at a Lincoln Day dinner in Waukesha, Wis., the heart of Midwestern conservatism.

"We have to give credit where credit is due," he adds. In Jimmy Carter, "we have the best recruiter this party has ever had."

Laughter.

"Every time he talks to us, he talks as though someone was in charge for the past three years."

Laughter.

"A man who tells you he enjoys a cold shower every morning will lie about other things."

Never mind that observers can't recall when Carter said this, still they respond.

With laughter.

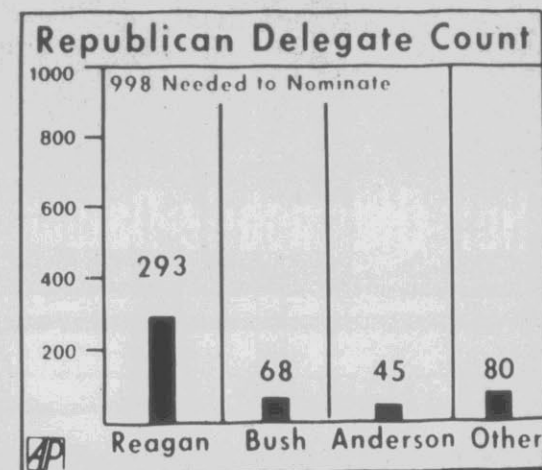

Reagan's wide lead in GOP national convention delegates — Reagan has 293 of the 998 needed for nomination and George Bush is next with 68 — give the former California governor plenty of reason to focus his campaign on Carter, his likely opponent.

It's not that his aim at Carter is new. Indeed, he started out saying he wouldn't criticize his Republican rivals.

Then of course came New Hampshire, and some unpleasant things were said about George Bush. And Reagan has repeatedly questioned John Anderson's loyalty to the Republican party.

Now, those names hardly come up in Reagan speeches. Still, he refuses to say publicly he has the nomination sewed up — "you can call it superstition," he explains.

But his campaign is aimed at Carter, and it's based on three issues: inflation, energy and what Reagan views as the nation's falling position in the rest of the world.

Told Killing A Gang's Ritual

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An informant has told authorities that a Harnett County teen-ager slain in 1973 was the victim of a motorcycle gang ritual in which prospective members had to kill people in order to join the club. The News and Observer of Raleigh reported today.

The newspaper quoted an unnamed source close to the investigation as saying that an informant reported the woman was dragged from a school bus by several members of the now-defunct Third Reich motorcycle gang.

formation while under hypnosis.

The newspaper quoted the source as saying, "He (the informant) just started talking about something he knew because he thought it would help him in something else."

The newspaper also quoted the source as saying Fliehler was questioned and released shortly after Miss Bradford's disappearance.

District Attorney John A. Twisdale was not available Wednesday night for comment on the newspaper report.

The woman, Phyllis Ann Bradford, disappeared Dec. 20, 1973, while driving her school bus route. Authorities said Miss Bradford, 18, was killed by a single gunshot wound to the head.

Roll-Out Plan Well-Received

Her skeletal remains were found more than 11 months after she disappeared.

Richard Wayne "Flea" Fliehler, 27, a former Fort Bragg soldier and member of the Third Reich motorcycle gang, was arrested earlier this week in Montana and charged with Miss Bradford's death.

FARMVILLE — Early reports from the Langdale neighborhood of Farmville indicate that its residents are favorably impressed with the town's trial use in the neighborhood of a roll-out refuse collection system. The first 30 responses were positive, the Farmville Town Office said.

He remained in the Ravalli County Jail in Hamilton, Mont., Wednesday without bond.

The News and Observer reported that Fliehler's arrest came as the result of information from a motorcyclist who was arrested in Fayetteville in January. The newspaper said the informant disclosed the in-
