Bani-Sadr Claims His Terms Not Met

By The Associated Press
President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said President Carter has not met his terms for removal of the American hostages from the control of the militants holding them, and the Revolutionary Council won't take custody of the captives until he does. A top White House official said the Carter administration is not sure what the Iranian leader wants.

"It is not important to us what opinion President Carter has expressed. What is important is whether or not he takes the measures we have specified," Bani-Sadr said in a statement distributed by Pars, the official Iranian news agency. "If he does, the Revolutionary Council will undertake responsibility for the hostages until the Majlis (Parliament) gives its opinion on the matter. Otherwise it will not."

On Tuesday night, the White House aide said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had spoken by telephone with Bani-Sadr and then advised Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that Iran was waiting for a new statement of U.S. intentions.

The aide, who requested anonymity, said, "We don't know specifically what they're looking for. We would like to be as helpful as we can. Obviously there are limitations beyond which the president cannot go."

Earlier Tuesday, Bani-Sadr told a rally the council had agreed to take control of the hostages until the new Iranian parliament decided their fate if the U.S. government pledged to abstain from all hostile action and propaganda against Iran until their fate was decided by the new Parliament.

In the first round of parliamentary voting, the clergy-dominated Islamic Republican Party won 49 seats, supporters of Bani-Sadr captured 18, independents won 21, and several minor parties won a total of 13, it was reported today. The other 169 seats will be filled in a second round of parliamentary voting expected to be held in about a month. A government-appointed commission is now investigating claims of vote-rigging in the first round of voting.

Bani-Sadr's apparent determination to end the embassy standoff likely will be made more difficult if the Islamic Republican Party wins a parliamentary majority. Party members, mostly Moslem clergymen, have backed Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the American hostages in their demands for the return of the shah in exchange for release of the hostages.

Amtrak Passenger Train In Head-On Crash

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
LAKEVIEW, N.C. (AP) — Amtrak's Silver Star, en route from Florida to New York with about 300 passengers aboard, collided head-on today with a Seaboard Coast Line freight train, injuring an estimated 100 persons.

There were no immediate reports of fatalities. The train crews jumped free, but apparently had no time to warn passengers of the impending crash.

SCL officials said the accident happened after a warning signal to the Amtrak train failed or the crew failed to see it.

Debby Marciniak, for Amtrak in Washington, said, "The Amtrak train went through a red signal. It should have stopped, but for some reason it didn't."

Derry Walker, public-relations director for Moore Memorial Hospital at nearby Pinehurst, said 52 persons had been brought there by ambulance and helicopter by 10 a.m. and that others were on their way. He said most of the injured did not appear to be seriously hurt.

Moore County Administrator Larry Moubry said some people were pinned in the wreckage and that rescue workers were trying to free them. He said he had no other details.

Three helicopters and crews were sent from Fort Bragg near Fayetteville to take the injured to hospitals. Ambulances also were sent from the Moore hospital and a hospital at Sanford.

Owen Pride, a spokesman for SCL at Jacksonville, Fla., said the northbound Amtrak train should have been given a warning signal that another train was approaching. He said there was a second signal for the Amtrak train to stop while the freight train entered a side track and allowed the passenger train to go by.

Pride said that by the time the Amtrak engineer saw a red stop signal, it was too late to avoid a collision even though he applied emergency brakes. Pride said the SCL train was moving very slowly and was preparing to enter a side track.

He said both crews jumped from the trains before they collided but there apparently was not enough time to alert passengers.

The Silver Star was going north toward Raleigh when it collided with the SCL freight train about 7:30 a.m. on one of the main railroad lines through the area. The accident happened about 50 miles south of Raleigh.

R.L. Wood, general diesel supervisor for SCL, said 10 cars on the Amtrak train were derailed, 11 hoppers on the freight train went off the track and four engines, three on the freight train and one on the passenger train, left the tracks. The two lead engines were considered total losses, he said.

An Amtrak spokesman in Washington said the Silver Star formed at Auburndale, Fla., from two northbound trains originating at Miami and St. Petersburg.

Pride said the trains were traveling on a track operated by SCL and used by Amtrak.

He said traffic along the track is controlled by an SCL operator in Raleigh and that switches are electronically controlled. When two trains are going in opposite directions, Pride said, electronic switches should route one of them onto a second track until they have passed.

Brown Is 'Through'

Carter, Reagan Tighten Grips

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
MILWAUKEE (AP) — President Carter crushed Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign comeback with a double-landslide in Wisconsin and Kansas, gaining the votes that put him more than halfway to renomination in what is now a two-man Democratic contest.

Ronald Reagan strengthened his virtually unbreakable grip on the Republican nomination and stands as the candidate the Democrats almost certainly would have to defeat to hold the White House. He captured Wisconsin's primary election on Tuesday, ran away with Kansas, and said that while he wasn't claiming to have the nomination clinched, "it does make for a substantial lead."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a distant third to Carter and Kennedy, said he was through as a candidate.

"This will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he said.

Rep. John Anderson's Republican campaign hit the skids in Wisconsin. The Illinois congressman had campaigned diligently through the state and hoped Democratic crossover would fortify his showing. But he placed third, behind George Bush, raising questions about his ability to build a third-party candidacy, as some supporters urged.

The midwestern primary victories strengthened Carter and Reagan as they head for a Saturday election in Louisiana. Southerner Carter and conservative Reagan are strong there, and virtually certain to add to their towering leads in nominating delegates.

Carter emerged from the Tuesday primaries with a national total of 852 delegates, more than half the 1,666-vote majority he'll need to win at the Democratic National Convention. Kennedy has 427.

Reagan's victories swelled his total to 343 of the 998 it will take to gain the GOP nomination. Bush, the former U.N. ambassador who ran second in Wisconsin and third in Kansas, has 72. Anderson has 57.

Bush and Anderson said they would press their campaigns to overtake Reagan, but that will become ever more difficult as the competition moves to southwestern and western states in which the former California governor looms strong.

Kennedy's next target is the April 22 primary in Pennsylvania; he went campaigning there, today after gaining the endorsement of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Carter let the numbers do the talking. Spokesman Jody Powell said the president termed his victories evidence of "very important and very strong support." Wisconsin campaign manager Curtis Wiley said Carter "was elated at the spread" by which he defeated Kennedy. It was 56 percent to 30 percent in Wisconsin, 57 percent to 32 percent in Kansas.

Brown had concentrated on Wisconsin for a month, but he got only 12 percent of the vote. He needed 20 percent to avoid losing federal subsidies for a campaign that already was running out of money.

So he conceded the election and the campaign. "The voters have spoken and have given their verdict on my 1980 campaign, and that means that this will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he told supporters in Milwaukee.

Carter's midwestern victories undid the short-lived comeback Kennedy gained by capturing the New York and Connecticut primaries one Tuesday earlier. The president now has won nine primaries; Kennedy three.

OCR Plan Discussed At County Schools Meet; Budget Adopted

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Around 50 principals and teachers of grades K-3 in Pitt County Schools met yesterday with the Board of Education to voice their opinions on the Office of Civil Rights Compliance Plan for the primary grades.

The board also approved the 1980-81 budget at its regular meeting. The budget calls for a total of $1,056,000 in capital outlay funds and $6,054,000 in current expenses.

The principals of primary schools were divided concerning the method of grouping most advantageous for their respective schools. The compliance plan currently calls for a combination of homogeneous grouping and random heterogeneous assignments. This method involves grouping students in grades 1-3 in language arts and mathematics based 75 percent on non-biased testing and 25 percent on teacher judgement. If this plan is implemented, it would involve children changing classes.

Several schools, including Grifton and W.H. Robinson, voiced objection to this plan saying that changing classes would create confusion and detract from the education of the student. They stated that they would support a plan of stratified heterogeneous grouping similar to the grouping now done at Grifton School over the proposed method.

Other schools, such as Bethel and Sam Bundy, supported the present plan because of the number of different levels within a stratified heterogeneous grouping would create within a class.

Janie E. Manning, principal of Bethel Elementary, reported that when her students were stratified heterogeneously, each class had at least five groups within that class. "I question how a teacher can find instructional time in a day to deal with this many groups," she commented.

Principal of Grifton School Ike Baldree spoke at a March 25 meeting of the board expressing his dislike of the submitted plan. Baldree said he felt primary instruction was not designed for schedules and bells.

All the principals and teachers agreed that a single uniform plan, which is what OCR requires, would not be beneficial for all of Pitt County.

The board asked for thirty days to study the matter and come up with a proposal. The alternatives include submitting the present plan, submitting a plan calling for stratified heterogeneous grouping, or asking OCR to accept a non-uniform method of grouping for grades K-3. According to John McKnight, assistant superintendent of testing and Kathryn Lewis, assistant superintendent of instruction, it is doubtful whether OCR will accept a dual plan. "The county was cited in the first place because we had no standard method of grouping," explained McKnight.

The capital outlay budget for 1980-81 includes expenditures of $4,000 in non-food assistance funds; $35,000 for vehicle replacement for purchase of a handicapped van, an activity bus, and two administrative vehicle replacements; $12,000 for renovation of classroom space at W.H. Robinson School; $130,000 for renovation of classroom space and rest rooms at Belvoir Elementary; $575,000 for replacement at Ayden Middle School; and $300,000 for lunchroom and classroom addition at Chicod.

The board also heard a request from the chairman of the advisory council at Belvoir Elementary for addition or renovation to the lunchroom facilities there. According to the chairman, the school has grown disproportionately in the last years and the lunchroom has overcrowding problems as well as structural inadequacies such as moisture in ceilings and walls. Storage area for dry goods was also said to be too small and only half of the stove in the kitchen area is reportedly working.

The board made a motion to study inclusion of the cost of renovating the lunchroom. The chairman and other members of the advisory council emphasized that they did not want the gymnasium area used for lunchroom space, even temporarily, because it is the only site for PTA meetings. PE, hallo-

A Hint Of Lava Coming

COUGAR, Wash. (AP) — The ground around Mount St. Helens has "tilted" upward, and scientists said if the swelling increases the awakening volcano might spew lava.

Meanwhile, volcanic ash fell in Vancouver, Wash., and Portland, Ore., areas, about 50 miles southwest of Mount St. Helens, after the smoldering mountain issued its most dramatic steam and ash plumes since it started erupting last week.

Loggers outside Cougar, 15 miles southwest of the peak, reported heavy ash falling in the area "like snow."

One good indication of whether a lava eruption is likely is a phenomenon known as tilting, which occurs when a mountain swells under the pressure of magma — molten rock — moving beneath the surface.

The ground near Spirit Lake just north of the mountain bulged upward about a half-inch Tuesday.

The tilting on St. Helens so far has been "insignificant," said Don Mullineaux of the U.S. Geological Survey, but if it intensifies, it is a "good sign" that a lava eruption might be on the way.

An outcropping of rock at the summit appeared to sink at least 200 feet Tuesday as the rock wall separating two craters collapsed, forming one jagged, 1,500-foot wide crater. Mullineaux said it was another indication of "a lot of activity" beneath the mountain.

Mullineaux, who co-authored a 1978 report about the hazards of a Mount St. Helens eruption, repeated his assessment that a full-scale "pyroclastic" explosion — one which would hurl rock and lava from the mountain — was the least likely possibility.

"A series of small eruptions would be more likely than a large, cataclysmic event," he said.

Volcanic ash, already reported in several towns around the mountain, was sent into the air in its heaviest quantities Tuesday.

Bomb Threat

LITTLEFIELD — The Pitt County Sheriff's Department was called to investigate a bomb threat received at Ayden-Grifton High School this morning.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies responded to the school after the department was notified of the telephone threat at 10:48 a.m.

Sheriff Tyson, who said that the school was evacuated as deputies and school personnel searched the facility, noted that investigation of the incident was continuing this morning.

The sheriff said that authorities were in the process of searching the school at 11 a.m. and the results of the search were not known by the department.

Ayden-Grifton High School is located off NC 11 south of Ayden.

82nd Airborne Division Is Checking Parachutes

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The Army says it is checking thousands of parachutes after a parachute rigger was charged with murder in the death of an officer who was killed when his chute failed to open.

The rigger, 20-year-old Pfc. Alvin Williams was charged Tuesday. He was being held in the Cumberland County Jail.

Williams is accused of sabotaging the parachute used by Capt. Lawrence D. Hill, killed last Wednesday when his main parachute failed to open during a routine proficiency jump at Fort Bragg.

Maj. Tom Woods, public affairs officer at Fort Bragg, said the 82nd Airborne Division is rechecking several thousand parachutes to see if the alleged sabotage is more widespread.

Army officials say parachutes used in the division since the death have been checked prior to use and commanders have been told to advise their troops of the checks to ease fears.

Parachute riggers in Williams' unit are responsible for packing all chutes used by the division.

Woods, who said others were being questioned about the case, confirmed reports that the "static line" in Hill's main parachute had been cut and that the Criminal Investigative Division suspected the cutting was a deliberate act.

"Focus of the initial investigation is on a severed static line which, if intact, would have automatically deployed Capt. Hill's parachute after he exited the aircraft," Woods said, adding that Hill's reserve parachute partially deployed after the main failed.

Army officials will not comment on whether the defective parachute was meant specifically for Hill, but The Fayetteville Observer quoted sources familiar with the incident as saying it is more likely Hill picked up the bad parachute as a coincidence.

One source told the newspaper the portion of the static line that had been cut was so far underneath the flaps of the main chute it would have been difficult for anyone to have seen the problem with a routine check.

Army officials say the riggers have no way of knowing who will wear the parachutes they have packed, which are transported in bulk loads to a storage facility at Pope Air Force Base and issued randomly to the troops prior to jumps.

Woods said there were no reports of other parachutes having been found with problems similar to Hill's.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Boy, I thought I knew what optimism was all about until the presidential primaries got underway.

No one loses.

I call it "depressive winning."

If a Republican candidate gets only 3 percent of the vote, he grins broadly and says, "Those votes represent a real breakthrough. They came from a predominantly Democratic area. I have obviously made inroads."

On the other hand, if a Democrat does poorly at the polls he makes the victory sign, douses himself in champagne, and says, "That is a 5 percent increase in the number of votes I got four years ago. I think there's a momentum going."

All this optimism leaves us with eight candidates all building log cabins — and carriers of depressive winning that could cause an epidemic of optimism.

Depressive winning gets on my nerves. When I am wallowing in self-pity and have no reason to believe that things will get better, just let me alone. I do not want to be cheered up!

I play tennis with a woman who invented depressive winning. Brenda is never depressed over a dead tree, a CLOSED ON MONDAY or OUT OF GAS sign. She always finds goodness somehow in a tax audit, a call from school, or black smoke coming out of her exhaust.

It's tacky, but the rest of us can't resist trying to trap her in a situation for which she has no optimism.

"My washer went out yesterday."

Brenda: "Thank goodness it wasn't on a weekend."

"My son just brought his roommate home."

Brenda: "Thank goodness, it's a boy."

"His roommate is a girl."

Brenda: "You must have a great relationship for him to be so open."

"My husband went out for pizza Saturday and never came back."

Brenda: "At least he didn't ruin your week."

"The rabbit died."

Brenda: "He probably had no family."

"I saw a pregnant moth in my closet."

Brenda: "She's probably dieting."

Believe me, the first presidential candidate who stands and sobs, "I lost and I'm depressed as heck about it" . . . gets my vote!

Sen. Kennedy Planning Another Comeback Try

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's "comeback" lasted exactly one week. Now, like all losers, he's plotting a new one.

No sooner were votes counted in President Carter's landslide victories in the Wisconsin and Kansas Democratic presidential primaries Tuesday night than Kennedy's campaign chief was predicting success in the next big showdown.

"I think we will have a strong win in Pennsylvania," which holds its primary on April 22, said Stephen Smith, Kennedy's campaign manager and brother-in-law.

Smith promised Kennedy would "wage a vigorous campaign there," and Carter's challenger arranged to begin a three-day campaign swing through the delegate-rich state today.

Before leaving Washington, Kennedy expected to pick up the formal support of the million-member American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees. Union president Jerry Wurf was scheduled to deliver the endorsement at a mid-morning news conference in Washington.

Despite Smith's optimism about Pennsylvania, other aides said their private polls show Carter with a lead of between 5 and 10 percentage points in the state they have said previously Kennedy must win to keep his chances for the nomination alive. Pennsylvania will send 185 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Kennedy had been a consistent loser to the president until a week ago, when he notched surprising upset wins in New York and Connecticut.

His aides heralded the victories as evidence that Carter's standing was plummeting throughout the country and that Kennedy finally had begun the comeback that would carry him to the nomination.

But the voters said otherwise, giving the president victory margins of nearly 2-1 in both Wisconsin and Kansas.

Dreading Trip To Bank For Needed Farm Loan

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — While David Wilson was trying to get his corn and soybeans to grow last year, interest rates were shooting up like weeds.

Now Wilson, like thousands of American farmers, is heading for the bank to borrow money for his spring crop. He dreads the trip.

The cost of money farmers need to borrow to operate has jumped 50 percent in the past year. And farmers are borrowing more — fuel and fertilizer costs have risen 30 percent to 50 percent while crop and cattle prices remain low.

From now until fall, Wilson will borrow $13,000 a month for seed, fertilizer, fuel, machinery repairs and food for his table.

Will he make any money? No way.

"All we're hoping for now is to hold our losses down enough to borrow money for next year and hope for better prices then," Wilson says. "We'll have to have better prices just to get back where we started."

Interest rates at banks in rural America have risen to about 17 percent, a spot check indicates. That's less than the 19-plus percent prime rate but still a hefty jump from the 10 and 11 percent available just a year ago.

"Farmers are not just crying wolf," says Roy Frederick, an extension economist at Kansas State University. "There really is a serious problem out there. This is the time of year when requests for operating money is at its zenith."

"The average farmer will have to borrow way, way more than, say, a hardware store owner," says Bruce Frost of the Production Credit Association in Salina. "And the farmer can't raise the price he gets for his product."

Wilson's loan, from a PCA, contains an escalator clause based on the prime rate and the interest he pays has risen from 10 percent to about 14 percent. He already owes the bank a third more than he did last year at the start of planting. He borrowed $27,000 for fertilizer and chemicals in December, hoping to escape price increases.

Wilson farms about 900 acres near Osawatomie and grazes 300 head of cattle on 700 acres. For nearly 20 of his 39 years, he said he has fought to get ahead to avoid the constant borrowing, but his profit margins have been so slim that he's been forced to enlarge and increase his volume so those margins will pay him a living.

The U.S. Agriculture Department says preliminary figures for Jan. 1, 1980, indicated farm indebtedness rose 18 percent from a year before to $161 billion. Farmers have relied more on borrowed money to operate their farms as production costs have outpaced market prices.

The USDA announced Tuesday that about half of a $2 billion federal loan program to help farmers is being made available by the Farmers Home Administration. Under a law signed by President Carter on Sunday, the program ceiling in the Emergency Agriculture Credit Act was raised $2 billion to $6 billion. The rest of the new funds will be held for emergencies and future needs.

Nominate Ervin For Court Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has nominated Superior Court Judge Sam J. Ervin III of Morganton for a $57,500-a-year, lifetime seat on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The nomination, made Tuesday, must now go to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which recently rejected the nomination of Rocky Mount lawyer Charles B. Winberry Jr. for a U.S. District Court judgeship.

The nomination had been pending since June, when Sen. Robert B. Morgan, D-N.C., recommended Ervin from among five candidates for the position selected by a judicial nominating committee.

Ervin, 54, has been a state Superior Court judge for 13 years. His father, Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., earned recognition for his role as chairman of the Senate Watergate committee.

He was nominated for one of 152 new judgeships created by Congress two years ago.

He is a graduate of Davidson College and Harvard Law School. After practicing law 15 years, he was appointed a Superior Court judge by former Gov. Dan Moore in 1967.

Ervin represented Burke County in the North Carolina House for two terms and served two years as a prosecuting attorney in Burke County Recorder's Court.

He has been praised by lawyers for his skill, fairness and courtesy on the bench and is considered a favorite of both prosecutors and defense attorneys.

The other four candidates selected by the presidential commission for the appeals court judgeship were U.S. District Judge James McMillan of Charlotte, U.S. District Judge Hiram Ward of Winston-Salem, state Supreme Court Justice James Exum of Raleigh and Greensboro lawyer McNeill Smith, a former state senator.

Couple Speaks Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

BOWIE, Md. — Sylvia Dawn House and George Hamilton Houchens were united in a double ring ceremony Saturday at 3 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Saul, sister of the bridegroom, by the Rev. David Price, minister of Grace Baptist Church here.

A program of guitar music was presented by Jonathan, who sang "The Wedding Song," "Longer," "Feelings" and "Just the Way You Are."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jones P. Moss of Greenville, and the late Mr. George L. House Sr. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Houchens Sr. of Hyattsville, Md.

Given in marriage by her brother, George L. House Jr. of Greenville, N.C., the bride wore a formal gown of white silk and organza. Italian lace trimmed the V-yoke attached to a high collar. The open neckline, fitted bodice, full bishop sleeves and full skirt were trimmed with lace. She wore a band of daisies and pink sweetheart roses in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, daisies and lily of the valley with satin streamers.

James Logan of New Carrollton, Md., was best man. Carol Houchens of Silver Springs, Md., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was honor attendant. She wore a formal gown of light beige with a full skirt featuring lace trim at the waist with full sleeves. She carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and carnations with matching ribbons.

The bride's mother wore a formal dress of peach crepe de chine fashioned with a fitted waistline, full bishop sleeves and round neckline. She wore a corsage of white miniature roses and baby's breath with matching lace ribbon. The mother of the bridegroom selected a street length dress of light blue silesta knit styled with a sleeveless fitted bodice with crocheted trim around the neckline and sleeves. She wore a corsage like the bride's mother.

A reception followed the ceremony given by Mr. and Mrs. Saul. Assisting were Mary and Josephine Houchens, sisters of the bridegroom.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of daisies, lily of the valley, pink sweetheart roses with miniature wedding bells. The house was decorated with arrangements of silk flowers.

The first slice of cake was cut by the bridal couple. Cake was served by Mrs. Saul and Mrs. John Houchens poured punch.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and attended ECU, Old Dominion, Norfolk, Va., and Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. The bridegroom attended the University of Maryland and is a graduate of IUOE Engineering Technical Institute. They both work in Washington, D. C., where they will live after a wedding trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones P. Moss

MRS. GEORGE HAMILTON HOUCHEMS

honored the bridal couple at a dinner at Valle's Restaurant, Springfield, Va., Friday evening.

The bridal couple was honored at several showers including a floating shower at the home of Mrs. Bobby Joe Dixon, cousin of the bride, given by her aunts, another party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sauls. The bride received gifts at Cushman Darby and Cushman, where she is employed.

Dear Abby

Obeying The Law Isn't News Worthy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and pregnant by a married man. (I'll call him Donny.) When we fell in love, Donny said he was separated from his wife but his divorce was coming through "any day," and then we'd be married, so I really wanted to have his baby.

I just found out that Donny is still living with his wife, and there is no divorce in the works. Abby, I never knew love could turn to hate so fast. I'm five months along and now it's too late for an abortion. I don't want to keep this baby now, and I never want to see Donny again.

Donny's wife called me and said she was sorry I was in such a mess. Then she asked if I would let her and Donny have my baby. She said they would pay all my expenses and I could go on with my life like nothing happened.

What do you think of the idea, Abby? No way will I keep this baby, and I don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. Please tell me what to do.

MESSED UP AT 16

DEAR MESSED: You say you don't want to keep the baby and you don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. A wise decision. Feeling as you do, contact a licensed adoption agency. If you give your child to Donny and his wife, you can expect to be involved with Donny forever.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago a co-worker fixed me up with her brother (I'll call him Sam), who lost his wife about a year before. I'm a 56-year-old divorcee. Well, Sam and I hit it off beautifully. He's 62, very attractive and has no financial worries.

We have a wonderful time together. I especially appreciate Sam's patient, gentlemanly behavior. Almost every other man I've dated since my divorce has tried to rush me into bed after the first date. Sam never tried to go beyond a good-night kiss.

Sam's sister told me yesterday that Sam is really crazy about me and would ask me to marry him tomorrow, but surgery he had six years ago ended his sex life.

How can I let Sam know that I don't give a hoot about that?

CAPRICORN

DEAR CAP: Tell Sam's sister.

DEAR ABBY: A minister wrote to say how easy it was for him to get into the homes of total strangers and urged you to warn readers to be more careful. His letter prompts this response:

Ten years ago we invited the public to purchase paper products directly from our company, which is a wholesale distribution concern.

We accepted personal and company checks with no demand to verify identifications. Over a 10-year period, we processed over 150,000 checks of which only 14 were no good! (Our total loss was less than $300.)

We are convinced that 99.9 percent of the people are honest and law-abiding, and our experience proved us correct.

What a shame that the news media report only on this small percentage of unethical and dishonest people.

MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: It's not "news" when people obey the law, love one another and live happily ever after. Crime, corruption, violence and misfortune ARE news.

I, like you, am inclined to expect the best from people, but when you leave your warehouse I'll bet you not only lock the door, you turn on the alarm.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went to a lovely wedding that was perfect — with one exception. The bride and groom did not open their wedding gifts at the reception. They said they plan to open them after they return from their honeymoon. Well, what good will that do the guests take place in early December.

The board approved a donation of $500 to be given to the roofing fund of the church.

who wanted to see their gifts opened as well as all the other gifts?

This was a big disappointment to us, and we know others felt the same way. What is proper?

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: While some couples do open their gifts at the reception, those who don't shouldn't be criticized. After an already long and exhausting day, opening each gift, reading every card and thanking the giver could make an already long and exhausting day longer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MS. W. IN LITTLE FALLS, N.Y.: Yes, it would be in poor taste to specify "Money Gifts" on your wedding invitations.

A Delicate Situation

Is something positive going on in Iran in regards to the hostages? Possibly. There was the weekend development about the alleged letter from President Carter to Khomeini admitting mistakes in dealing with Iran.

The White House denied the letter, although over the weekend the White House did admit to sending messages through the Swiss government, but said they went to President Bani-Sadr, and did not admit to mistakes.

Then on Tuesday Bani-Sadr said control of the hostages would be shifted to the government, and the White House delayed further punitive moves against Iran.

The alleged presidential statement was widely distributed in Iran, and some interpreted this to mean that public opinion was being prepared for the transfer.

In the meantime, President Carter was having to walk a thin line in Washington. To appear humbled by the Iranians might be disastrous for him during this election year. After all, the capturing of the American hostages is an Iranian crime, not ours. On the other hand, to protest too vehemently the thrust of the alleged message which is being fed to the Iranian people might destroy chances of the hostage transfer being made.

It's the kind of situation which can make or break the president in his quest of re-nomination, and obviously the administration is proceeding very carefully.

Owens Became A Symbol

Life came to an end for Jesse Owens, who won four gold medals in the Olympics held in Berlin in 1936.

The performance was a blow to Adolf Hitler's theories of racial superiority. Perhaps that could have foretold the ultimate result of the terrible war which the world was about to face.

Jesse Owens was to be a symbol for the rest of his life. In our society he became an example that a black man could succeed at business, as well as sports. We owe him a lot.

Govm't Jobs Soar

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — This decade of the 80s opened with a new record on the scoreboard for governmental employment; there are now more than 400,000 individuals employed by local, state and federal governments in North Carolina (not counting the military).

local taxpayers. Total local jobs is 237,800.

The January report is causing state officials to take a cautious stance on current economic conditions.

The summary records "a significant jump of 28,500" in total unemployment, pushing the jobless rate to 5.9 percent, a full percentage point in-contributing the most claimants are structural and construction, and benchwork. More than half the claimants had been in manufacturing jobs.

Soaring interest rates and inflated prices are giving builders the jitters, and declining auto sales are hurting not only those directly engaged in that industry, but are beginning to spill over into firms serving the auto trade, such as tires, accessories, textiles.

BILL NOBLITT

January figures compiled by the Employment Security Commission put total government employment at 403,400. Total non-agricultural employment in the state stands at 1.4 million. Nearly one out of five wage earners in North Carolina is on a governmental payroll.

It took only five years for government jobs to reach the new high-water mark. In 1975, the total topped 300,000 for the first time. It took 10 years for the total to climb from more than 200,000 in 1965 to the 300,000 mark. It was all the way back in 1949 that government jobs passed the 100,000 mark.

increase from January, 1979; and slightly more than a one point change from the December rate of 4.8 percent.

On the national scene, unemployment was at 6.2 percent in January.

Other Editors Say Example Of Waste

(Laurinburg Exchange)

The City of Laurinburg has finally taken possession of the old Laurinburg post office building. For the sum of $60,000 the city seemingly got a bargain. It will be interesting to see what develops in this location with the influence of the municipality at work.

The transaction would have been completed months earlier except for that mural in the old post office lobby. A third-rate piece of art work, it had been disapproved by local black residents for misrepresentation of their race and by whites for other reasons. But the federal government, or some bureaucratic agency, decided at a late moment that it was a prize.

Instead of leaving it for the city to dismantle and accommodate in the county landfill, Uncle Sam spent thousands of dollars carefully removing the mural and transporting it to another federal storage place in Atlanta. Their plans are to restore it and hopefully deposit it in the Smithsonian or in some other place, all with the expenditure of additional thousands of taxpayers' dollars.

While congressmen mull over where to make cuts in order to balance the federal budget, this incident provides a distinct suggestion.

In her Washington column, UPI commentator Helen Thomas cited a number of obvious areas where government waste borders on the scandalous. Her recommendations for cuts ranged from hundreds of millions a year to subsidize food and goods for federal retirees, half a billion a year on unnecessary government travel, $33,000 for a study of why people make political contributions, to $4.3 billion of Revenue Sharing Act money that goes to well-heeled state governments.

Thomas said James McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget, had told President Carter that he can't find places to cut the budget. She has sought to stimulate McIntyre's memory as well as that of our elected people up there.

We at home should do what we can to point out the gross waste of money in such projects as the one aimed at saving a worthless piece of 1939 WPA art.

SUFFICIENT CLEANSING

Some time ago a firm discovered that someone was continually helping himself to small sums of money that belonged to the employees. How would they catch the thief?

Campaign Trail Humor

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a year which, so far, has given Americans very little to applaud or laugh about, presidential candidates are coming up with lines that are drawing cheers and getting a few guffaws.

Audience reaction to one-liners is a tenuous test of the mood of the nation, and studying it is more fun than public opinion polling.

Is President Carter in political trouble? He ought to hear voters splitting their sides laughing at jokes told at his expense.

GOP front-runner Ronald Reagan refers to the Republican campaign debates and wonders what it would be like if the Democrats got together:

"There'd be Jerry Brown, who's on both sides of every issue," a line that draws a few snickers. "There'd be Teddy Kennedy, who's on the wrong side of every issue." Loud laughter and cheers. "And there'd be Jimmy Carter, who doesn't know what the issues are." At that, audiences invariably explode with laughter and cheers.

Another sure-fire line used by Reagan is his reference to President Carter's first fireside chat: "You remember, he wore a sweater, which prompted someone to observe that he was the first president to begin his term by pulling the wool over his own eyes." In farm communities and in big cities, they love it.

The Kennedys always have preferred jokes aimed at themselves and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy likes to tell union audiences about a debate during his first Senate race, when his opponent said to him, "Kennedy, you've never worked a day in your life." Kennedy didn't have time to reply. The next day he was campaigning at a plant gate when a worker approached him and said, "I heard what they said about you last night and let me tell you, you haven't missed a thing."

What are the issues that excite audiences? One of the best applause lines is a strong statement in support of the Equal Rights Amendment. No matter what the region, whether he is in a state that has ratified the amendment or not, a politician knows he can get a big cheer by declaring his support for ERA.

The draft draws a big cheer no matter what position a candidate takes. Audiences applaud when Reagan or Kennedy declare opposition to Carter's registration proposal. The reaction is just as favorable when Vice President Walter F. Mondale or George Bush speaks in favor of registration.

Reagan is a master of the line that lacks details which could bring disagreement but which leaves them where he stands:

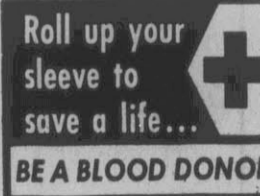

"The government causes inflation and the government can make it go away." Explosive cheers follow.

"It's time to get government off the back of the energy industry" brings people to their feet every time.

Practicality On Tax Cuts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — A preview of the probable 1980 presidential economic debate was staged inside the White House when Ronald Reagan's chief economic spokesman, Rep. Jack Kemp, challenged President Carter on tax policy — and managed to rile him up.

Kemp was among senior House Republicans invited to the White House by the president in hopes that they would rubberstamp his budget-balancing plans. Instead, Kemp needled Carter about lack of tax reduction. Finally, the president shed his customary cool and responded in words to this effect: Jack, you know we can't cut taxes, balance the budget and increase defense spending all at the same time.

A footnote: Many Republicans at the briefing were shocked when Carter told them that although he was greatly concerned about the bond market's deterioration, stock market declines were of no concern to him. Actually, that was nothing new. Throughout his presidency, Carter has privately downgraded the stock market as an economic indicator.

Crocodile vs. Zbig
 Elder statesman Averell Harriman, a public defender of Jimmy Carter's foreign policy, has privately passed the word that the president might do well to sack Zbigniew Brzezinski as his national security adviser.

The remarkable suggestion came in a telephone call to Mayor Edward Koch of New York. Harriman called the mayor to upbraid him for his statement that a "gang of five" led by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is leading Carter astray on Mideast policy.

Harriman scolded Koch for wanting to fire Vance. The mayor protested he never had made any such statement, but the hard-of-hearing Harriman ignored that and told Koch: If you want to fire somebody, come out for firing Brzezinski! These comments by Harriman, once known as the crocodile for his skill as an fighter, reflect rising anti-Brzezinski feeling among promoters of U.S.-Soviet detente, now forced on the defensive by Afghanistan.

Olympic Flasco?
 Top White House aides are fearful President Carter's anti-Soviet ban of the Moscow Summer Olympics will boomerang to further humiliate the U.S.

In public, European leaders say the U.S. ban is acceptable to them, even though not pleasurable. Actually the non-government Olympics committees are being given a free hand to send their athletes to Moscow over official objections.

The most conspicuous example is Great Britain, by far the strongest European supporter of anti-Soviet actions by the U.S.: in reaction to the Russian takeover of Afghanistan. British athletes are now expected to attend the Moscow games, with the Soviets picking up some of the bills.

France is expected to use the British example to let their athletes also attend. Even West Germany, under harsh Soviet pressure, may not be able to withstand domestic political pressure to follow suit. That would leave only Scandinavian and a few Moslem states joining the U.S. boycott.

Carter's Isolation
 President Carter's preoccupation with his falling fortunes has made the Oval Office off bounds to all but his most intimate aides and top-level officials. Other officials have found themselves barred from discussing their business with the president for weeks on end.

One conspicuous example: Former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida, now the president's trade negotiator. Askew had to wait more than one month to see Carter on a matter of vital concern: how to deal with the latest onslaught of foreign competition, especially from Japan.

Askew finally got in to see Carter on March 17, after which he was able to inform Congress that administration policy opposes a bill giving Carter new powers to limit steel and auto imports. The long delay in reaching Carter to discuss that explosive political question has embittered Askew.

To St. Benedict

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — All over the civilized world this year, men and women of learning, culture, grace, art, music, piety, wit and self-discipline tempered with a love of life are celebrating the 1,500th anniversary of the birth of one of the rarest creatures who ever lived.

In benediction, I raise a glass of Benedictine to say: "Happy Birthday to you, St. Benedict the Confessor, patron of Europe, patriarch of Western monasticism, a man for all ages who let there be light during the Dark Ages."

In this country, the birth of the founder of the Benedictine Order is being observed with book fairs, art exhibitions, music recitals and learned seminars in dozens of universities, libraries, monasteries, museums and other institutions of higher learning.

Benedict was born in 480 at Norcia in Umbria near Spoleto, but it was from the orgies, perversions and drunken carousings in Rome that he fled to live in a cave on the grounds of Nero's villa.

Three years later, he joined a community of monks as their abbot, but fled when his high standards led a monk to try poisoning him.

Benedict organized monasteries in various places, then in 529 established the great monastery at Monte Cassino southeast of Rome, where a World War II battle would destroy one of history's architectural gems.

In Benedict's time, the monastery was a more humble edifice, but self-sufficient in its farms, cellars and kitchens, and influential (Cont'd on Page 5)

'Full Employment' Attacked

By JOHN CUNNIFF
 AP Business Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP) — To one degree or another, all political candidates support full employment. They feel it is good politics, good economics, good common sense, and a worthy, achievable goal.

To Robert Theobald, economist and futurist, it is dangerous nonsense that could drive America into the poorhouse and ruin the lives of the people whose votes the politicians solicit.

Full employment, he says, "is both unfeasible and undesirable." It is an effort that "must be abandoned if we are not to experience increasing economic breakdown." He calls it a recipe for disaster.

We're seeing the results now, he states. Our insistence on jobs for all wastes energy, worsens inflation, lowers productivity, creates bureaucracy, encourages costly programs ... He could go on.

Theobald is an independent mind, a maverick perhaps, an intellectual, a long-range thinker — even a dreamer, some would say, but a practical man. He can upset and depress, exhilarate and irritate. He can also jar thinking from its ruts, and that keeps him in demand as a lecturer.

Now, in the midst of the Presidential election campaign, he is concerned about candidates offering "extremely dusty answers" to economic challenges, especially the challenge of jobs. The country is in a crisis and all it is offered by candidates is a self-serving palliative, he says.

"Full employment was proposed as a means to an end (in the 1930s) by John Maynard Keynes," he observes, then adds unpopularity: "But full employment as defined by his disciples doesn't work now."

Keynes, he maintains, was seen as totally crazy by economists at one time. Then, says Theobald, Keynes was accepted. And now, he says, "you're crazy if you challenge him."

He reminds audiences that even Keynes conceded his job-stimulation theories were valid only when there was no change in the quantity or quality of the labor force or machines, and no change in technology.

But great changes have occurred, says Theobald. He names just two: An inability to find meaningful jobs for young people; and a swift rise in work-force participation by women.

What politicians and even economists insist upon, says Theobald, is that we continue to think in the old mold. That is, that life and jobs aren't changing, and that our approaches need not either.

In the future, he believes, we must answer three challenges:

—To continue to achieve the greatest production while recognizing natural resource and environmental limitations.

—To enable people to choose challenging work, and insure that unwanted toil is equitably shared.

—To create a socially just distribution of income based on a person's contribution." (Next: Theobald's answer: Basic economic security for all.)

Name Math Contest Winners

ECU News Bureau
Greenville's Rose High School was first place winner in overall school competition for senior division in ECU's third annual High School mathematics contest.

Individual and school winners from 14 eastern counties received awards.

Nearly 1,300 students from 98 junior and senior high schools participated in the competition.

Contests were held for junior and senior students in Algebra I, Algebra II and Geometry. The Comprehensive Mathematics competition served as the required first stage of competition for the second annual statewide mathematics contest to be held in May at the Research Triangle Park.

Students who placed in the top five percent of Comprehensive Mathematics contestants qualified for entry in the statewide event.

All contestants received certificates of participation. Individual winners, in first through fifth place, received certificates of merit.

Award-winning schools were given trophies or certificates.

Speakers and award presenters at the contest included Dr. John Daniels of the ECU Department of Mathematics, contest chairman; James Mallory, associate dean in the ECU Division of Student Life; Dr. Robert Jones, director of the N. C. Department of Public Instruction's mathematics division; Christine Gantt, president of the N. C. Council of Teachers of Mathematics; and Rebecca Oates, Region I coordinator of mathematics for the Department of Public Instruction.

The purpose of the annual contest, a project of the ECU Department of Mathematics, is to reward outstanding performance in high school mathematics and to stimulate interest in mathematics study.

Area award winners included: Algebra I, Second place, Donna Costner, Farmville Central and Lloyd Flanagan, Conley. Third place, Wade Corbett, Farmville Central.

Algebra II, First place, Alison Keel, Rose. Second place, Jonathan McGee, Rose. Fourth place, Jeff Prescotte, Rose. Fifth place, Alumna Keller and Trina Logan, Rose and Fran Lunsford, North Pitt.

Comprehensive mathematics, First place, Fred Parham, Rose. Fourth place, Frank Hollander, Rose. Fifth place, Eric Downes, Rose.

Qualifying for statewide mathematics contest in May: Rose, Fred Parham, Frank Hollander, Eric Downes, Bert Singleton, Sarah Hester and Michael Tucker, Farmville Central, Jeff Johnson, Conley, Doug Mautz.

School winners of subject competition: Algebra I, Second place, Farmville Central. Fifth place, D. H. Conley. Algebra II, First place, Rose. Comprehensive mathematics, First place, Rose. Fifth place, D. H. Conley. Overall school competition: Senior division, First place, Rose.

enough to be visited by Totila, king of the Goths, who had just sacked Rome and was in need of a blessing.

At Monte Cassino, Benedict wrote his famous rule for community life that sped the flow of monasticism across Western Europe and art almost the entire sum of human knowledge. His rule tempered strict observance with a tolerance for human weakness and failure. The rule was "clear in language and outstanding in discretion," wrote Pope Gregory the Great, who 50 years after Benedict's death wrote most of what we know about him from first person interviews with four of his surviving disciples.

The Rule of Benedict, still followed in monasteries around the world, required vows of poverty, chastity, obedience and stability of all members of his monastic communities, virtues that were later emulated by the aristocratic orders of medieval knights.

In 1510 a French Benedictine named Dom

Bernardo Vincelli went down to the cellar and with herbs and rare plants from the monastery garden brewed up a liqueur "to fortify and restore weary monks."

Today the secret formula for Benedictine D.O.M. is still entrusted to only three monks.

The initials stand for "Deo Optimo Maxima" — to God, most high, most great. It was a minor masterpiece among marvelous many, but a cup worthy of raising to the founder of the Benedictine order who was proclaimed Patron of Europe by Pope Paul VI in 1964.

Testing Force At Fort Bragg

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Fort Bragg will be the site of a six-day exercise to test the nation's new Rapid Deployment Force, a unit that is designed to react to military emergencies around the globe.

About 10,000 troops from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will participate in the drill. Only 3,000 troops, however, actually will be at Fort Bragg, base officials say.

The exercise is scheduled to get under way April 9. It will be the first for the RDF, which President Carter designated as the country's answer to the need for a quick-reaction force around the globe, in a six-day exercise at Fort Bragg, Army officials said.

command group is based at MacDill.

"The imaginary situation behind the exercise is that a friendly country has asked for military support. We'll be working on a scenario on how we will support this country," Beady said.

"We will be testing communications and coordination," he said. "There will be no real moving of troops except those that will be at Fort Bragg."

Elements of the 82nd Airborne Division and the XVIII Airborne Corps, both based at Fort Bragg, have been chosen as part of the Army element of RDF and will play a role in the exercise.

Lt. Col. Dick Beady, deputy public-affairs officer for U.S. Readiness Command Headquarters at McDill Air Force Base, Fla., said the exercise's main purpose was to try out the RDF command section, which will work from Fort Bragg. The

Gen. Volney F. Warner, commander of the readiness command, will be in charge of the operation. He will be assisted by Marine Lt. Gen. Paul X. Kelley, commander of RDF, which began operation March 1.

Martin Sheriff Awaiting Trial

WILLIAMSTON — The trial dates for the Sheriff of Martin County and two deputies have not been set, although all three cases have been placed on the docket for the next Superior Court session.

True bills of indictments were returned Monday by a Martin County grand jury.

W. Raymond Rawls, Martin County Sheriff for more than 25 years, has been charged with fraudulently obtaining the drug Demerol from several physicians by claiming false symptoms. Rawls has pleaded innocent to the indictment.

Mark Pastor's Anniversary

Services are underway this week at Warren Chapel Church in honor of the ninth anniversary of its pastor, Elder A. L. Miller.

James Teel and David Whitehurst, both deputies in the Martin County Sheriff department, are charged with embezzlement of public property for their own private use.

The three appeared Monday before Superior Court Judge Napoleon Barefoot.

As of this morning, Sheriff Rawls has not been relieved of any of his duties. Members of the Martin County Board of Commissioners were meeting with the county attorney to consider legal points in making a decision on action to be taken under the circumstances.

Tonight Senior Bishop R. E. Pridden and the Shady Grove congregation of Snow Hill will lead the service; Thursday — Vice Bishop Stephen Jones and the Zion Chapel congregation; Friday — Elder J. L. Wilson and the New Deliverance congregation of Grifton; and Saturday — Bishop J. E. Reddick and the Maury's Chapel congregation.

Sunday at 6 a. m. a sunrise service will be led by Elder Willie Joyner and the Warren Chapel Gospel Chorus. Dr. W. L. Jones and the congregation of Mount Calvary FWB Church will lead a Sunday 7:30 p. m. service. The public is invited to all the services.

Zoo Aware Of April Fool's Day

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Zoo director Ernest Hagler didn't need to look at the calendar when the caller offered to donate a pet boa constrictor named "Julius Squeezer."

He knew it was April Fool's Day.

There were more than 300 such calls to the zoo Tuesday, beginning with an early morning call at home offering a gorilla.

"I was pretty sleepy, but I finally caught on and I told him if he brought it in, we'd accept it," Hagler mused.

Then there was the rash of calls at the zoo for A.L. Gator or L.E. Phant.

Hagler says he tries to keep a good perspective on the annual foolishness, even to the point of tolerating calls April 2 when some unsuspecting persons finally get around to returning the hoax calls to Mr. Gator or Mr. Phant.

Postal Service Ponders Ending Saturday Delivery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, choosing to hit customers at the mailbox instead of the pocketbook, now is considering elimination of Saturday deliveries as the only practical way to meet proposed budget cuts.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger told the agency's governing board Tuesday there appears to be no way to maintain six-day mail service, despite President Carter's recommendation for a much milder budget cut than what Congress is considering, unless postage rates are increased sooner than anticipated.

Bolger said he has ordered task forces to study the effects of reducing mail deliveries from six to five days a week and the impact of that on labor relations.

Just a week ago, Bolger told the House Budget Committee that cuts aimed at balancing the federal budget to help tame inflation would mean either elimination of Saturday mail or faster rate increases.

President Carter's proposal to trim just $250 million from the Post Office budget for fiscal 1981 — instead of the $836 million recommended by the House Budget Committee — was widely viewed in Congress as an effort to maintain Saturday deliveries. The Budget Committee suggested ending them.

Nevertheless, Bolger told the Postal Service's governing board at a Baltimore meeting, in remarks released in Washington, that higher rates would be inflationary in themselves and that cutting service appears to be the only feasible way to make up for the loss of federal money.

"And the only service cut that could possibly achieve savings at the level being discussed is elimination of a sixth day of delivery," he said. "As undesirable as this may be, the Postal Service may have no other choice."

Bolger did not specifically mention Saturday deliveries, but that has been the day considered more likely to be cut if the Post Office goes to five-day delivery.

Ending Saturday mail deliveries probably would affect Americans more directly than any other budget cut proposal. Representatives of rural areas have opposed it because weekly newspapers frequently are delivered then.

Bolger said last week that eliminating Saturday mail, but continuing six-day window service, would save about $588 million in the first year and more than $1 billion a year by 1987. It also would cost about 15,000 to 20,000 jobs, mainly among urban letter carriers, he said.

Regardless of the budget cut, the Postal Service already plans to raise rates next year to cover higher operating costs, and Bolger said additional increases to make up for reduced federal subsidies would defeat the purpose of the Carter administration's budget-balancing program.

No Pay For Diversions

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced recently that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will not institute a paid land diversion program for the 1980 crops of wheat, corn and other feed grains.

He said the decision was based on prospects for continued growth in the world consumption requirement for these crops. "Our grain exports will be at record levels this year and will continue to grow in the future," Bergland said.

"While U.S. producers enjoyed record large production in 1979-80, world production of grain actually declined. This has boosted demand for U.S. crops," Bergland said. "According to our estimates, we are expecting U.S. feed grain exports to reach a record 68 million tons — also a record amount."

"Obviously, we cannot make any precise estimates of what 1980 world feed grain production will be, but we know world grain demand will continue to grow. As long as we have adequate supplies, we can expect our exports to continue to increase. World grain stocks are declining this year and prices are higher than a year ago," Bergland said. "Stocks are likely to decline again in 1980-81," he added.

Maine Wins The Pothole Honors

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Neither Kate nor Alice seemed really impressed with the plans to honor them and all mulekind as they stood in front of the state Capitol in their Easter harness finery.

Hitched behind them was a red cart, trimmed in gold, which they had pulled 50 miles, during three days, from the Santa Fe community south of Nashville.

John Robert Skillington drove the cart to the Capitol to deliver a personal, hand-lettered invitation to Gov. Lamar Alexander to attend April 12 Mule Day festivities in Columbia, near Santa Fe.

The annual event commemorates the heyday of the mule, dating back to the 1840s when Columbia became the nation's largest mule market and as many as 20,000 mules changed hands on its streets each year.

Alexander accepted the invitation, but his office said he won't enter the liar's contest the night before.

State Drops Its Interest Rate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Tuesday dropped to 17 percent the interest rate it charges banks and savings and loan associations for state funds invested in savings accounts and certificates of deposit.

The rate had been 17 1/4. It was the first time this year the state has lowered the interest rate. The change reflected a decrease in the market for U.S. government and agency securities.

Brown 'Tarnished' For Liberals, Conservatives

MILWAUKEE (AP) — As he conducted his poor-boy campaign for president, Edmund G. Brown Jr. told his following he was "standing on the existential edge" to see whether the dream begun four years ago would finally take form in Wisconsin's 1980 primary.

He was, said the California governor, aiming for a new kind of world, in which "We will build for the future, not steal from it." Edward M. Kennedy, he said, wouldn't do that, leaving him — Jerry Brown — as the only Democratic alternative to President Carter.

"I'm the last person standing between him and renomination and I would like you to have that choice," Brown would say. But what he offered the voters of Wisconsin was more a different brand of politics based on visions of a conserving earth, an emerging Third World, a future that would include exploring the universe. "I believe in this country and we can rebuild it," he told audience after audience. "I'm offering alternatives to mobilize for peace, for prosperity, for putting America first instead of having Uncle Sam be the sucker for the rest of the countries of the world." But it would take that victory in Wisconsin, he said, to send him on his way. "I forecast this," he told reporters on election eve. "I've got my best chance right here." But Tuesday night, Brown fell over the edge, existential or not. He came in third in a field of three. "It is obvious that the voters have spoken and have given their verdict on my 1980 campaign and that means that this will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," Brown said. Brown had gotten off to an earlier start this year, hoping to repeat his stunning showing in 1976 when he burst, belatedly, onto the political scene as an ABC candidate — "Anybody but Carter." He managed to slow the Georgian's march to the White House, winning five primaries, but too late. But Brown's political space-ship virtually burned out on the launching pad this time. In New Hampshire, he got less than 10 percent of the vote. In New York, he failed to get on the ballot. He ignored the other primaries to make his big stand in Wisconsin.

But although the California governor promised to campaign "as long as there is a dollar in my pocket and a breath in my body," Wisconsin did him in.

Foes say his flip-flopping on issues such as California's Proposition 13 tax cuts finally caught up with him, tagging him with the image of an opportunist. His appeal to liberals was tarnished by his swing to the right on fiscal issues; conservatives were put off by his alliance with liberal folk heroes like Cesar Chavez and Jane Fonda. He spoke of a "new coalition" embracing both left and right, but he wound up, really with neither group.

In Wisconsin, the crowds weren't there, and neither was the press.

For two days last week, Brown's press entourage consisted of three reporters riding in a van behind his station wagon — a lonely caravan of two cars. While other candidates and their staffs stayed in the best hotels in town, the money-short Brown was put up in private homes.

And today, Jerry Brown went back to his own home.

Referendum On Soybeans

A referendum among soybean producers will be held on April 8 to determine whether farmers want to continue the self-help assessment on soybeans marketed in North Carolina.

The referendum will seek approval for assessment of one cent per bushel on all soybeans marketed in the state from 1981 through 1986. Voting will take place in key communities of each soybean producing county and anyone who derives income directly from soybean production is eligible to vote.

Article 50, Chapter 106 of the General Statutes of North Carolina requires a two-thirds favorable vote to carry the referendum. If farmers approve, any producer could get a refund of assessments by giving 30 days' written notice to the North Carolina Soybean Producers Association.

Revenues generated by the increase would be used to beef up funding at North Carolina State University and for market development activities through the American Soybean Association Market Development Foundation, according to Thurman Burleson, president of NCSPPA.

Co-Chairman Of Bonds Campaign

Les Fuchs of Greenville has been named Co-chairman for Greenville of the 1980 Eastern North Carolina State of Israel Bond Campaign.

Norman L. Sloan, former N. C. Assistant Attorney General, is General Chairman.

The drive will culminate in a reception honoring the State of Israel Thursday, Apr. 17, at the Raleigh Civic Center. Guest speaker will be Israeli journalist, Daniel Bloch, head of the Jerusalem Bureau of the daily newspaper, Davar, and past president of the National Federation of Israeli Journalists. His mother, Dora Bloch, perished in Uganda during the Entebbe hijacking, believed to have been killed by the forces of Idi Amin.

Will Be Talking On Child Abuse

Dr. Robert P. Nenko, psychiatrist at Pitt County Mental Health Center, will answer questions about child abuse and neglect on weekly radio segments during April.

"What's on Your Mind" is aired at 12:55 p. m. each Monday on WOOW radio as a public service. Dr. Nenko will explain what is meant by abuse and neglect, what a citizen who suspects abuse or neglect should do and what will be done when a report is made. Causes of abuse and neglect will be discussed and how both children and their families may be helped with the problem will be suggested.

Farmville Board Heard Complaints About Canines

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — According to comments made during the Farmville Commissioners' public hearing on a proposed ordinance amending the town code provisions relating to dogs, the animals in Farmville:

- bark at night and keep citizens awake;
- make cultivation of flowers and shrubs in yards impossible;
- make raising vegetable gardens impossible;
- tear up newspapers;
- tear clothes off clotheslines;
- kill domestic rabbits;
- must have their excrement removed from lawns each morning;
- are numerous and increasing as wild packs in woods adjacent to town.

The citizens who spoke were Bill Dudley, the Rev. Richard Calhoun, Richard Dupree, Rex Hodges, G. Ray Bailey, Howard Harris, Manly Liles, Jack Allen, Tuck Braxton, Paul Tripp, James Allen, Bill Frost, Robert May and Milton C. Spruill.

The consensus seemed to be that the town does need to do something about its dog problems. Some of the speakers expressed favor at the proposed ordinance which would provide town personnel and equipment for removal of stray dogs to the county pound via a holding pen in or near the town. Others said this is not enough — that a 24-hour leash law is needed. Several said they feel that the fee system $10 for each unspayed female; $3 for every other dog over three months old) is penalizing responsible dog owners. The problem, they said, is strays and dogs allowed to run free by irresponsible owners.

Comments were listened to by the board. No action was taken, but was promised.

In other action, the board:

- adopted a policy of allowing employees to use all sick leave days (accumulation of up to 30 possible) before payment of workmen's compensation would begin;
- decided not to submit a grant application to FHA and the 701 Planning Program for a community economic study.

They agreed with a Farmville Economic Council recommendation that the cost ($1,250 to the town) is not warranted.

- Set public hearings for Tuesday, May 6 on the paving of East Moore Street from S. Main Street to S. Contentnea Street and of the 200 block of Mandarin Drive.

— Heard a report from Town Administrator Patrick Thomas that the roll-out refuse collection program is being well-received in the neighborhoods in which it has been used on a trial basis;

- Passed an ordinance on the franchising of cable television in the town, saying that proposals may be submitted next month.

- Gave official support to the Little Contentnea Creek Watershed Project, noting that "the Town of Farmville and its citizens have experienced substantial adverse effects from the deteriorating drainage capabilities of the Little Contentnea Creek, Middle Swamp and tributary branches";

- Referred a request for annexation of the Farmville Central High School campus to the Planning Board;

- Approved the extension of water service to six homes on State Road 1144, conditioned upon receipt of $100 deposits from petitioners (to be applied against tap fees) prior to construction;

- Approved a grant of $750 cash and $1,143 in in-kind services to the Farmville Senior

Council program:

- Authorized the sale of several pieces of town equipment, mostly by sealed bid; and
- Authorized early bid and order of a police patrol vehicle.

High Speed Chase Seen 'Losing Game'

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — Calling high-speed chases a "losing game," Randolph County Sheriff Robert Mason has issued stringent guidelines governing pursuit and roadblocks for officers in his department.

Mason's action comes in the wake of an accident last month that damaged three patrol cars, including two new vehicles.

The memo to his officers "spells out my long-held belief that vehicle pursuit is a losing game," Mason said. In the memo, he said high-speed chases should be "carried out in such a manner as to eliminate danger to the motoring public as well as the pursuing deputy and county equipment."

Mason said ramming would not be permitted and that roadblocks were prohibited unless authorized by a superior officer. Then, he said, "it must be a felony involving a very serious crime."

The sheriff said deputies involved in high-speed chases must stop at a red traffic light or stop sign, entering the intersection only after the driver has determined that it can be done safely.

He also said deputies must use both blue lights and sirens when in pursuit.

The new guidelines stem from an incident March 19 when a deputy, pursuing a motorcyclist, crashed into two other deputies' cars that had been set up as a roadblock. The motorcyclist skirted the two cars.

Mason said a recent fatal accident in Charlotte also had some bearing on his decision to issue a new policy.

Three members of the same family were killed when their car was hit in an intersection by a Charlotte policeman who allegedly was speeding to the assistance of another officer involved in a high-speed chase.

MOPED MEDICS — Two paramedics halt in traffic along one of Manhattan's cross streets Tuesday. They were among a force of moped riding paramedics sent out by the New York City Health and Hospitals department with emergency equipment. They circulated throughout the city while the biggest rapid transit strike in the nation's history shut down all bus and subway lines in New York as well as commuter rail service to Long Island. stitute, Hendersonville, and Roanoke Bible College, Elizabeth City.

The Rev. Watson is pastor of four churches, St. Elmo Baptist, Windsor, Peterson Chapel Baptist, Marry Hill, First Baptist of Severn and the Pleasant Hill Baptist, Enfield.

Annual Men's Day will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. at the church. The speaker will be William Archie Dudley of Raleigh. He is an administrative staff aide to the special assistant to the governor for minority affairs.

Dudley is a member of the N. C. Bar, N. C. Association of Black Lawyers and American Bar Association.

Others participating on the program will be Joe Dawson and Sam Smith Jr.

The Rev. David Hammond, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Nation's Attic Is Displaying Vintage Americana

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's the ultimate collection of useless objects too appealing to throw away. And it's on display, this vintage Americana, in a make-believe attic at the Smithsonian Institution.

There's an illuminated 19th Century clock that sounds a wakeup alarm and strikes a match to light a lamp.

There's a silk purse made of sows' ears. There's a pillbox with a small spike inside to impale a half-chewed wad of gum for future use.

There's a pair of scissors that has 18 functions. There's a stereoscope and 13 pictures of Paris to view through it.

Then the thousands of dust-covered items had to be sorted through to pick what would go on display. One that didn't make it was a complete set of Army VD posters.

PART OF ATTIC EXHIBIT — This is part of a silver coffee service supported by replicas of chicken legs which belonged to Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, part of an exhibit comprised of objects that are of little use but which are too appealing to throw away. (AP Laserphoto)

In all, 100 items of glorious junk went on display this week at the National Museum of History and Technology. They will remain in their attic setting for six months.

Several of the objects are associated with famous people: A stone from the French dungeon where Joan of Arc was imprisoned; hair snippets of presidents from Washington to Pierce; trimmings from President Lincoln's hearse; Mrs. Lincoln's silver coffee service, supported on replicas of chicken legs; a napkin used by Napoleon; and tile from the floor of the Washington railroad station where President Garfield fell when assassinated.

Most of the items in the exhibit were gathered at random by government curators in the mid-19th Century and kept by the U.S. Patent Office. When the original Smithsonian Institution Castle was completed in 1855, the patent commissioner eagerly transferred all but patent models to Smithsonian Secretary Joseph Henry, who became known as the keeper of "The Nation's Attic."

Although some items from the collection were displayed, most were "relegated to study collections in back rooms," said Benjamin W. Lawless, project manager of the new exhibit.

Finally, although "some people always worried it would make the museum look silly," the decision was made to mount an exhibition of the material.

Among the other items that made it are a colossal American flag, 235 feet long and 104 feet high, packed in a box; a 30,000-watt light bulb billed in 1925 as the largest in the world; collections of safety pins, paper clips, poison bottles and whiskey barrel labels. And Victorian flytraps and an eyeball massager and a finger gymnasium for limbering piano players' hands.

And the amputated foot of a firehorse.

Some women think wife-beating is justified under certain circumstances, say researchers at the University of North Carolina.

According to a survey conducted by the UNC Institute in Research in Social Sciences, one out of every five North Carolina women believes that men are sometimes justified in beating their wives.

The study showed that the less educated the woman, the more likely she is to condone wife-beating.

In analyzing the findings, research associate Karen M. Gentemann said women over 40 years old and non-whites also are more likely to accept wife-beating.

She said more than 20 percent of those questioned believe the woman causes the beatings she receives.

The study also showed that women tend to rationalize the behavior of men who beat their wives by blaming outside causes such as drunkenness or unemployment for their actions. Because so many women believe men are justified in beating them, they are less likely to report the beatings or seek legal action, Ms. Gentemann said.

Ms. Gentemann said that 67 percent of the women surveyed think that a wife-beater was probably beaten as a child, while 51 percent believe lack of money could be a cause and 47 percent see unemployment as a possible contributing factor.

Forty percent of the women also said they approved of men swearing at their wives from time to time.

The government maintained that the refund was owed because eligibility records of nearly 100 students in a CETA summer youth program conducted six years ago had been lost.

Eight months of work and deliberations between school and labor officials, including a meeting before an administrative law judge, brought the money down to "a reasonable amount," Superintendent John Lawrence said.

Order Schools Refund $5,169

ASHEBORO, N. C. (AP) — The Randolph County school system will have to refund $5,169 in a negotiated settlement with the U.S. Department of Labor. The sum is far less than the $47,836 in federal grant money the federal agency originally had order the schools to refund.

Extended weather outlook for N.C. Rain ending Friday with fair skies through Sunday. Highs in the period will be in 60s, cooling into 50s to middle 50s by Sunday. Lows in 40s and low 50s Friday, cooling to 40s on Sunday.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period, Wednesday until Thursday, from the central Gulf to the Midwest and changing to snow over the northern and central Plains. Warm weather is due for the Southeast, cold weather for the western Plains. Mild temperatures are predicted on the west coast and in the Northeast. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A high pressure system responsible for the beautiful spring weather today is moving off shore to make room for a cold front that promises to bring showers with it.

The clouds are expected to move into the mountains tonight, where there is a chance of showers. Lows tonight will be in the 40s west, to the 50s in the east.

By Thursday, the clouds should spread across the state with a widespread chance of showers. Highs that day should be in the 60s west to the 70s east.

The showers are expected to end on Friday, leaving fair weather for the Easter weekend.

Tuesday was a fine spring day across the state. Afternoon temperature readings were in the 50s in the northeast and 60s elsewhere. The warmest areas were Asheville, Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh with readings of 67 degrees.

Bank Robbed At Kings Mountain

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — Kings Mountain police, the State Bureau of Investigation and FBI agents today are investigating a bank robbery Tuesday in Kings Mountain.

Police said two armed men entered the Independence National Bank about 3:28 p.m. Tuesday and demanded money.

They said the pair escaped in a blue vehicle with an undetermined amount of money.

Merchants Seek Interest Boost

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Merchants Association, citing rising costs of its own, plans to seek authority to charge higher interests rates on consumer credit purchases.

Thompson Greenwood, executive vice president of the merchants' group, said the association's members have been caught between state laws that prohibit usury and soaring interest rates. He said some merchants are paying interest rates as high as 24 percent to finance their inventories.

Under North Carolina law, merchants may not exceed 18

School Fees System Is Upheld

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — In a move that could affect the collection of school fees across the state, the North Carolina Supreme Court has upheld the Greensboro school system's right to require students to pay instructional and course fees.

The court, in a decision filed Tuesday, reversed a March 19, 1979, decision by Guilford County Superior Court Judge Charles Kivett, who found the fees to be unconstitutional.

The Greensboro schools have been unable to collect the fees since that time.

Linda Faye Sneed, Margie Demastus and Janifar Williamson brought the lawsuit June 12, 1978, against the Greensboro City Board of Education and others on behalf of their children.

The suit sought declaratory and injunctive relief from the Greensboro schools' requirement that students pay course and instructional fees and supply their own gym uniforms and some of their own instructional materials.

"We find no constitutional bar to the collecting by our public schools of modest, reasonable fees for the purpose of enhancing the quality of their educational effort," the court said in its decision.

At stake was an estimated $15 million received annually by local school systems. The court said in its decision that percent interest on revolving credit plans and 22 percent on single-purchase charges. Interest rates elsewhere have continued to climb. Chase Manhattan Bank in New York announced Tuesday it was raising its prime rate to 19 1/2 percent.

about 80 percent of the state's 145 school units require students to pay some kind of fees.

Across the state, the fees range from $1 to $20. If the fees are not paid, schools often threaten to withhold diplomas or grade reports or deny the student the right to enroll or register for a certain course.

Had the Supreme Court found the fees unconstitutional, educators would have been forced to seek financial support elsewhere.

The Supreme Court did agree with Kivett that the Greensboro school system's procedure for waiving the fees for indigent students is unconstitutional.

Attorneys for the Greensboro parents argued the North Carolina Constitution guarantees students "a general and uniform system of free public schools."

But the Supreme Court decided the "state's provision of 'free' schools has never been understood to require the absence of modest, supplementary support given by those able to pay it."

In its decision, the court traced the history of free public schools in North Carolina, beginning in 1840. The court said it was not until 1969 that the General Assembly required the schools to provide basic textbooks free.

The court continued to say fees may be collected as "long as public funds are used to provide the physical plant and personnel salaries necessary for the maintenance of a 'general and uniform' system of basic public education."

But the court said the Greensboro school system must inform parents the instructional and course fees may be waived if the parents cannot afford to pay them. The court also said a confidential system for waiving the fees should be established.

In Greensboro, students who might not be able to pay the fees were referred to the school principal who decided if they would have to pay the fees. Otherwise, the court said, the students "must first risk the stigma of being picked out from their peers on the basis of their economic status and then somehow 'referred' to the principal."

Revival Of Lost Skills May Result

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR
ATLANTA (UPI) — Elliot Wigginton, the country school teacher who inspired the famed Foxfire books about the once self-sufficient culture of the Appalachian Mountain people, says a change may be coming for the publications.

Since 1966, the Foxfire quarterly magazines and books documented step-by-step many nearly-forgotten skills such as blacksmithing, planting by the signs of the Zodiac, log cabin building, cooking on a fireplace, hide tanning and spinning and weaving.

There were articles about how to make items in the home — coffins, shoes, banjos, flintlock rifles, fiddles, soap and home-made remedies.

Everything in Foxfire is researched and written by Wigginton's 9th and 10th grade students at the 250-pupil Nacoochee School in Rabun County, Ga.

Looking to the future, Wigginton sees the time coming when Foxfire may change. Future Foxfire articles may tell about historical events and how they affected the mountain people of North Georgia, he said, particularly the Great Depression of the 1930s, the Civilian Conservation Corps of those days and the building of the Tennessee Valley Authority dams and lakes.

"There are incredible stories about those early industrial days," he said. Stories about the building of the Fontana (TVA) dam and early road building.

"There were no OSHA (government) safeguards in those days. People remember some of the incredible things that happened to them back then."

Foxfire has been so successful that a national publishing house, Doubleday, prints a selection of articles from the magazine in book form. The Foxfire book is now well on its way to passing two million copies.

The first Foxfire book was followed by additional volumes and Wigginton says the Foxfire Fund has earned several million dollars from the sales. The money is used to support the teaching activities of the school.

Recently, says Wigginton, the National Endowment for the Humanities in Washington, D.C., offered a grant of $300,000 to Foxfire with the stipulation that it be matched by $300,000 from other sources. If the money is raised, Wigginton said it will be used to "perpetuate the teaching philosophy and teaching techniques of the school after the books stop."

Meanwhile, Foxfire Six will be published in September. It will have articles about shoe-making, the step-by-step construction of a banjo made out of a gourd, and how hand-made wooden locks were fashioned.

There also will be a 70-80 page piece on a sawmill and its electric generating system that runs on water power.

The biggest feature of the sixth edition of Foxfire will be an article on children's toys and games "when people had to make their own," Wigginton said.

"We're not advocating that people go back to the old ways," he said. Rather, the Foxfire books "are a vehicle for getting students into composition skills."

Wigginton says there is a lot of talk now about the desire of people to become more self-sufficient and the need to be happy with fewer material possessions.

He believes a combination of aspects of the present American life-style and a way of life that emphasizes conservation is workable. "We don't have to have a total electric home to be comfortable."

Some people are returning to wood heat, said Wigginton, but "there are a lot of mountain people who never left it. I know one man, Kenny Rumion, who kept telling people they were crazy to be giving up their woodburning stoves. They think this whole mania (for wood heat) is really funny."

Lots of food-raising practices of the past, according to Wigginton, are practical today, such as raising crops organically.

"I know farmers in Rabun County who were able to keep their land fertile and productive without the use of commercial fertilizers and pesticides.

"People can make do with less and still be happy and comfortable. We don't need electric hair dryers and toothbrushes, 15 pairs of shoes and 300 neckties."

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes March 20 thru March 26.

HOUSE
ENERGY JURISDICTION — The House rejected, 125 for and 282 against, an attempt to create an Energy Committee to assume an energy jurisdiction now spread among more than 80 House committees and subcommittees. The vote came during debate on H Res 549, later adopted in a form that gives the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee broader jurisdiction over energy matters.

Rep. Jerry Patterson, D-Calif., a supporter, said: "The U.S. today is the only industrialized nation without a comprehensive energy policy. The fault, in part, is the fault of this House. We cannot, any longer, avoid our responsibility."

Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., an opponent, said "a truly comprehensive Energy Committee is an impossible idea," in part because "if we divide up jurisdiction on taxes, then we are going to have a totally confused situation with respect to our tax laws."

Members voting "yea" want a single House committee to handle virtually all energy legislation.

Reps. Charles Whitley, D-3, and James Martin, R-9, voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L. H. Fountain, D-2, Ike Andrews, D-4, Charles Rose, D-7, W. C. Hefner, D-8, James Broyhill, R-10, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "nay."

Reps. Stephen Neal, D-5, and Richardson Preyer, D-6, did not vote.

BUYING A HOME — The House voted, 238 for and 178 against, to severely restrict the practice of states and localities issuing tax-exempt bonds for home mortgage purposes. A growing number of states and cities issue "mortgage subsidy" bonds to raise money which they, in turn, use to subsidize home-mortgage interest rates at private lending institutions. This stimulates home-buying.

State and municipal bonds are tax-exempt in that their purchasers do not pay federal income tax on the interest received. The bill (HR 5741), sent to the Senate, ends the tax-exempt status of mortgage-subsidy bonds after 1982, except when they subsidize home purchases by veterans and low-income persons.

Rep. Barbara Conable, R-N.Y., a supporter, said: "Everyone is a winner with mortgage-subsidy bonds, except the U.S. Treasury and 220 million taxpayers."

Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., an opponent, said that in his district home-mortgage bonds have yielded benefits "felt not only by the individuals buying houses, but by the area's entire economy."

Members voting "yea" want to curb the issuance of tax-exempt home-mortgage bonds.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Rose and Gudger voted "nay."

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION — The House adopted, 216 for and 201 against, a resolution (HJ Res 514) providing a stopgap appropriation of $9.8 million to keep the Federal Trade Commission in operation for another 45 days. A separate bill, providing regular, long-term funding for the embattled agency, is expected to be enacted before the 45-day period runs out.

Rep. John LaFalce, D-N.Y., a supporter, said "the FTC is not perfect, but it often is the consumer's only protection from victimization by special-interest groups."

Rep. James Quillen, R-Tenn., an opponent of funding the FTC, said: "Back home, the way to kill a rattlesnake is to cut its head off."

Members voting "yea" favor stopgap funding to keep the FTC from closing its doors.

Jones, Whitley, Neal, Preyer and Broyhill voted "yea."

Fountain, Rose, Hefner, Martin and Gudger voted "nay."

Andrews did not vote.

SENATE

MONEY FOR FTC — Following the lead of the House (see preceding vote), the Senate voted 79 for and 13 against to provide interim funding to keep the Federal Trade Commission open for business. The resolution (HJ Res 514) thus became law.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., a supporter, said: "My immediate concern is with some 1,700 employees of the FTC whose paychecks once again have been put in jeopardy." No senator spoke against the legislation. Senators voting "yea" support interim FTC funding.

Sen. Robert Morgan, D, voted "yea."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R, voted "nay."

FEDERAL SPENDING — The Senate rejected, 45 for and 52 against, a Republican move to table the Democrats' non-binding "sense of the Senate" language in favor of a balanced federal budget for the fiscal year that begins in October (FY 1981). The GOP wanted, instead, even more drastic spending cuts coupled with tax relief. The vote came during debate on S Res 390, later passed, which put the Senate on record as endorsing a balanced 1981 budget and using any surplus revenue to cut taxes.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., a supporter of substituting the tougher GOP language, said: "The best way to get more out of our country is to get less out of our government... The best way to stop inflation is to put a lid on federal spending."

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., an opponent of the GOP move, said: "Mr. Roth talks about guts, courage. Ah, wait until we start balancing the budget... That is where the men will be separated from the boys."

Senators voting "yea" want to limit federal spending in FY 1981 to 21 per cent of the Gross National Product, and senators voting "nay" favor the austere but less severe approach of balancing the FY 1981 budget. Helms voted "yea." Morgan voted "nay."

Dr. Chapman's Medical Training Adds Dimensions

By GEORGETTE HEDRICK
ECU Medical Writer

Dr. John Chapman spent the first 12 months of his residency at East Carolina University in obstetrics and gynecology at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. He learned his way around the facility, got to know the ECU clinical faculty and nursing staff, and treated a variety of patients with a variety of problems.

But a widely accepted premise of medical education today maintains that residents and medical students should receive a portion of their training outside the walls of the medical center and away from the academic atmosphere of the teaching hospital. Excellence in medical education requires a variety of medical experiences.

So after a year on the first floor of Pitt Memorial, Chapman found himself on the road to health departments and clinics in Beaufort and Wayne counties, including the Seymour Johnson Air Force Base Clinic in Goldsboro. Accompanying him on his rotations - which often required traveling up to three days a week - were third-year medical students whom he taught routine gynecological problems and prenatal care. Chapman's learning and teaching experience was strengthened by the guidance of local preceptors.

"We are developing a significant program in medical education outside the city limits of Greenville," Dr. Edwin W. Monroe, associate dean for external affairs at the medical school, said during a recent interview. Although Monroe explained that the ECU program is still in the growth-and-development stage, he said the medical school has been successful in laying a solid foundation for future expansion.

He cited the establishment of residency rotations as a good example. Postgraduate training in the clinical specialties (OB/GYN, medicine, surgery, family practice, psychiatry and pediatrics) has been accredited for less than two years, yet some rotations already are operating successfully. And it takes a lot of coordination and cooperation to set up rotations out in the communities, he said.

Currently, residents in OB/GYN and family practice are visiting hospitals in the region for up to two months to supplement their educational experiences at the medical school and its teaching affiliate, Pitt Memorial. These programs were developed by clinical chairmen in conjunction with hospital administrators and community physicians in Beaufort, Lenoir, Carteret, Wayne and Onslow counties. (In Greenville, the Pitt County Health Department also sponsors a rotation.)

Next year, for example, OB/GYN residents will spend a one month rotation on internal medicine at Beaufort County Hospital in Washington. Monroe said the support has been excellent from the hospital director and the four internists who will supervise the residents.

"This is the sort of thing that will be happening more," he said. "People understand that our residents are new and so are our programs, and as we get more students and residents, the number of community-based rotations will grow. It's also highly probable that more and more clinical exposure outside of Greenville will be necessary because of the increasing load on the faculty and facilities here."

But Monroe's efforts in external affairs are directed at more than establishing residency rotations in Eastern North Carolina hospitals. He is also working on educational programs that will place students in other health care settings, such as White Oak Medical Center in Maysville and the Outer Banks Health Center in Nags Head. Both are rural health initiatives far removed from the typical hospital setting.

Students and some residents also have the benefit of clinical experiences in the offices of private practitioners throughout the region and in health departments in Pitt, Wayne, Lenoir and Beaufort counties. Psychiatry students and residents receive some of their training at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and the Pitt County Mental Health Center in Greenville.

"We are working very hard to establish productive relationships with hospitals, physicians and other health care providers," said Monroe. "It's a mutual communication process. We need to know their concerns and needs, and they need to know what the medical school plans for the next few years."

"We need their input on how to utilize their resources for programs that help meet their needs while educating our students. And we need to know how to make the expertise of our faculty available to community hospitals and physicians."

Next year, Monroe hopes to implement plans for establishing clinical education offices in hospitals throughout the region to provide better coordination and expansion. This approach, he said, would help assure appropriate and effective utilization of available resources.

"Right now, we have the nucleus of clinical education. Our first priority was to get the clinical departments operating soundly. With that goal nearly accomplished, we can now begin an organized effort in the communities that have supported us so loyally throughout the medical school's establishment and growth."

Chitlins Good Protein Source

By MARY ELLEN HASKETT
BALTIMORE (UPI) - Southerners have been eating chitlins - cooked pigs' intestines - for generations.

According to folklore, they are cheap and nutritious. Now a Maryland college professor's research shows the folklorists are right.

"When I was growing up in the South (Rock Hill, S.C.), I was told to eat chitlins because they were nutritious," said Moses W. Vaughn of the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore in Princess Anne, Md.

"I liked some of them, but there was very little information to support what I was told."

Vaughn was given a $114,067 research grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to investigate the nutritional value of chitterlings - popularly called chitlins - and other pork by-products.

So far he has found cooked chitlins compare favorably with commercially available meat patties with textured vegetable protein added, or with a mixture of about 60 percent lean beef and 40 percent soy protein concentrate.

They have a protein efficiency ratio - an evaluation of a food's protein content for nutrition - of about 1.9. Most meats range from 2.3 to 2.9, Vaughn said in an interview.

"They're not as good as pork chops or steak in nutritional value, but they're better than I expected," he said.

He also cautioned that chitlins are high in saturated fats and cholesterol.

"I wouldn't mind eating a big bowl of chitlins, but I wouldn't do it every day," said the 66-year-old professor. "I'm not advocating that you go out and buy them every day."

Maryland Department of Agriculture statistics show each American consumed an average of 65 pounds of pork last year, an increase of eight pounds from 1978.

Vaughn said many dietitians and welfare and public health workers making surveys have asked for data on the composition and nutritive values of pork by-products.

He said Southerners may have first recognized chitlins as food, but that they are sold everywhere in the country now.

"There was a time when you could get them for almost nothing, but they're not as cheap anymore," he added.

Vaughn also refuted the common belief that chitlins are eaten mainly by blacks.

"Every year they have a Chitlin Strut in Sally, S.C., where they cook 500 pounds of chitlins and all kinds of people come, not just blacks," Vaughn said.

He estimated up to 10 percent of all Americans eat pork by-products.

While he found chitlins nutritionally acceptable, pigs' ears are not, he said.

"With a protein efficiency ratio of only 0.8 percent, they do not make an adequate source of protein when eaten alone, he said.

Vaughn is still trying to determine the nutritional value of pigs' feet, knuckles, tails, neck bones and hog maws.

You Too Can Guard Portland

POTLAND, Maine (AP) - For sale: World War II artillery bunker. No shell holes. Great ocean view.

For those who never quite got tired of pulling sentry duty, the Casco Bay Islands Development Association is accepting bids for Battery Steele, a massive bunker on Peaks Island designed to protect Portland Harbor. The bunker, about the size of a two-story house, was completed in October 1945 after the war ended and its big guns were removed a few years later.

The association set $20,000 as the minimum bid for the bunker and 12 acres of ocean-front land. But officials reserved the right to turn down offers from bidders whose intended use would disrupt island life. Association officials say that means no condominiums or the like.

They have a protein efficiency ratio - an evaluation of a food's protein content for nutrition - of about 1.9. Most meats range from 2.3 to 2.9, Vaughn said in an interview.

New Yorkers Feel The Double Strike Impact

By RICHARD T. PIENCHIAK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — New Yorkers hit by the "double whammy" of a transit system shutdown and a commuter railroad strike felt the crunch today when rush hour traffic stacked up bumper-to-bumper at gateways to Manhattan.

Unlike Tuesday, when traffic was light, there was a half-mile backup as early as 5:30 a.m. at the Queens Midtown Tunnel, a major artery to the island. Police reported there were twice as many cars on the expressways as on Tuesday. Long caravans of cyclists and pedestrians streamed across the Brooklyn Bridge and other walkways to the city. "We're packed to the gills," said a trainman at a Conrail train station in suburban Westchester County. Many commuters who stayed home Tuesday only to hear reports of light traffic and few travel problems tried to return to work today. On the first day of the simultaneous strikes over wages by the subway and bus systems and the Long Island Railroad, about 80 percent of the city's workers managed to get to their jobs, according to a survey of Manhattan businesses. While the traffic was worsening, so was the outlook for a quick settlement. Negotiators for the Metropolitan Transportation Authority and the Transport Workers Union planned to meet later in the day, not to resume talks but to try to figure out how to get them going again. "Let them stay out — we can do it!" one commuter shouted to Mayor Edward Koch as the city's chief executive greeted Staten Island ferry passengers Tuesday with gestures of encouragement. "Even the criminals are co-operating," Koch quipped later after police reported declines in every major crime category as New York coped with its first transit collapse in 14 years. But there were reports of price-gouging as hustling entrepreneurs found city dwellers desperate enough to pay double for a rental bicycle or midtown hotel room.

The impact of the first day of the strike was difficult for many businesses and city officials to assess because it came amid the two-day celebration of Passover for New York's 2 million Jews.

Environmentalist Opposes Island Bill

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's top environmental official says he is opposed to a bill now in Congress that would make all undeveloped barrier islands part of the national park system. Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development Howard N. Lee told Brunswick County officials Tuesday they should put pressure on their congressional representative, Charles G. Rose III, to lobby against the bill. Lee also said he was concerned about a plan being considered by the U.S. Department of Interior to eliminate federal subsidies for development of the nation's barrier islands. Developers and local governments along North Carolina's 23 barrier islands are worried about the bill and the Interior Department plan, which some see as a threat to coastal communities.

"As presently constituted, the bill's negative portions outweigh the positive," said Natural Resources spokesman Jim Sheppard. Sheppard also said the department planned to contact the Environmental Protection Agency in an effort to determine why it already has cut off funding for a sewer line in Brunswick County. The EPA recently notified Brunswick County officials that "unplanned development of barrier island communities will increasingly become a public liability, therefore EPA funding participation for these islands is not being recommended."

"This may be too much too soon," Sheppard said. Gary Pearce, press aide to Gov. Jim Hunt, said neither the state nor the governor has taken a stand on the so-called Burton Bill, which is being sponsored by Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., and 20 other congressmen. However, Pearce said the state's Washington liaison office was monitoring the bill's progress in the House of Representatives.

Six islands in Brunswick County and nine others in southeastern North Carolina could be affected by the bill.

O.L. Buck On Hunt Committee

Gov. Jim Hunt has named Oscar L. Buck of Grimesland to his statewide campaign steering committee for veterans. Buck will work with key veterans in the area and with others in the Hunt campaign group.

"North Carolina's veterans are one of our state's most valuable assets," Hunt said. "Their contributions abroad and in civic affairs at home have helped to make our country what it is today. I'm proud to have Oscar helping me to keep North Carolina moving forward."

Deaths Laid To Singapore Flu

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — B-Singapore flu appears to have been responsible for the deaths of 13 patients at three nursing homes here, state health officials say. At least 83 elderly people in area homes currently are believed to be suffering from the illness. One facility recently was quarantined during an outbreak of the virus. State health officials said their diagnosis of the deaths was tentative but the outbreak appears to be receding. The latest victim died Sunday.

Excessive Force Complaint

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Lumberton Police Chief H. C. Britt said Tuesday two policemen have been suspended pending an investigation into complaints they used excessive force in arresting a teen-ager.

Britt said officers Jerry Windom and Ricky Speights were suspended Monday following a complaint by the father of Randy Keith Branch, 17, of Lumberton, accusing the officers of assaulting and shooting at the teen-ager during and after a high-speed chase Saturday.

The officers denied they had struck Branch. However, Windom said he fired three shots into the air as a warning signal while the officers were pursuing Branch's car at speeds close to 80 mph.

SUSPENDED
TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A new political magazine run by an opposition legislator has been suspended for one year by the Taipei Information Department two months after its first issue on charges of "spreading confusion and hurting public morale."

Ex-Presidential Yacht Now Sold

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The luxury yacht Sequoia, which served the nation's presidents for some 50 years, has been auctioned to a scientific group that wants to use it to entertain potential donors.

The Ocean Learning Institute here paid "substantially above" a recently rejected $500,000 bid for the 105-foot craft, said a spokeswoman for auctioneers Sotheby Park Bernet. The value of the craft has been appraised at $800,000 to $1 million. John Grant, president of the non-profit marine research group said the boat will be open to the public and used to help raise money. The vessel was ordered sold by President Carter in 1977.

Announces Decision

Marvin Miller, Executive Director of the Baseball Player's Association, makes announcement to media Tuesday at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. Miller said the player-representatives agreed to cancel the remainder of the exhibition season, effective Wednesday, but open the regular season as scheduled. If no settlement is reached by May 22, a player-strike will follow. (AP Laserphoto)

Players Call 2 Strikes

DALLAS (AP) — Taking dead aim at management's wallet, the Major League Players Association has called not one, but two strikes against baseball.

And the surprising part is that neither of them is coming on Opening Day, which had seemed to be the logical target. Instead of endangering the start of the regular season, the players chose a two-pronged attack that they hope will do the greatest possible economic damage to the owners.

The owners, however, struck back at the players' pocketbooks, saying they would leave training camps open but refusing to pay meal money, allowances and hotel costs.

The players said Tuesday they would cancel the final 92 games of the spring training exhibition schedule and then they promised that unless a new Basic Agreement is negotiated by midnight on May 22, they not play games starting the following day.

The canceled exhibitions include lucrative intrastate series in California between the Angels and the Los Angeles Dodgers, and in Texas between the Rangers and Houston Astros. And, for their second strike date, the players chose the weekend before Memorial Day, traditionally one of baseball's largest revenue periods.

"We're trying to hurt them in the pocketbook as deeply as we can," said Mike Marshall, who doubles as player rep for the Minnesota Twins and the American League. "We refuse to allow them to generate any more money before Opening Day."

The players were prepared to stay in training camps and continue working out, even playing intrasquad games to stay in shape if management wants that. But they will not play exhibition games where admissions would be charged.

In return, a spokesman for the owners said camps will remain open to those players who wish to work out for the remainder of the spring training period. But, "since the individual player contract requires that players will appear in scheduled exhibition games and since the players have announced they will not appear in such games, meal money, allowances and hotel costs will not be paid."

time was altered. "I came here with the feeling that doing something early would be in our best interest," said Jon Matlack, player rep of the Texas Rangers. "I was not totally convinced but I was leaning in that direction. After listening to the thoughts in the meeting, though, I think this is the better route to take."

One advantage to delaying any regular season strike action is that the players will receive three paychecks between Opening Day and May 22. That could go a long way to withstanding the economic pressures that a walkout might bring.

Some observers questioned whether the players would be as unified to take a strike action once the season is under way as they might be before Opening Day. Suppose, for example, a player is on a hitting streak when the strike date arrives.

"I don't care if I'm hitting .040 or .840," said Larry Bowa, player rep of the Philadelphia Phillies. "If nothing is worked out by May 22, we're gone."

Ray Grebey, management's chief representative, who has negotiated for 20 weeks with Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, said Tuesday night:

"It is encouraging to note that the championship season will start as scheduled. It is the continued objective of major league baseball to achieve a negotiated settlement without interruption of the championship season."

But Miller said: "It has been the owners' strategy throughout the talks to provoke a strike and portray themselves as the wounded parties.

"Owner demands, not player proposals, have bogged down the meetings so far. We are taking this action in one last good faith effort to try and reach an agreement. The players have decided they are willing to open the season and will continue to negotiate in good faith to reach an agreement."

Ken Moffett, the federal mediator who joined the talks Sunday, summoned both sides to a negotiating session in New York Thursday.

The vote by the union's 28-member executive board was unanimous, although it was clear that some representatives had come to the meeting favoring an immediate strike that would include Opening Day.

"I think it shows how unified we really are, when we can go on strike now, come back Opening Day, and then go out again," said Marshall.

Then the Twins' pitcher was asked if he believed the players could hang together once the season is six weeks old.

"We are so together," he said, "that if after the second strike in the third inning of a game, the player reps got up and said, 'Let's go,' everybody would leave."

Rocky Mount Nips Rose, 3-2

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School flirted with a victory in Rocky Mount—a rare event—yesterday, but with a win within grasp, that Gryphon jinx reared up its head and snatched away a 3-2 victory for the home team.

Two unearned runs crossed the plate in the bottom of the eighth inning, giving Rocky Mount the victory and moving it into sole possession of first place in Division I. It was the first loss in three league starts for the Rampants.

"I just don't understand it," Coach Ronald Vincent said. "We just didn't deserve to lose this one. We played well and got an outstanding pitching effort from Scott Galloway.

"But you've got to wonder what's going on when you have officiating like we had today. There were two different strike zones out there. That guy had to call some strikes against them, but they weren't the same strikes he was calling for their pitchers."

Rocky Mount's John Kennedy was able to record only three strikeouts, but he didn't walk anyone, whereas starting hurler Roger Williams walked five and struck out one in an inning and two thirds. Galloway, who had over six innings of no-hit ball, walked five and struck out seven.

In fact, but for an error, the Rampants could have gotten out of the game with the win. They were within one out when Galloway fumbled a ball hit back to the mound and allowed a runner to reach base.

He walked the next batter, despite Vincent's feeling that the pitches had been in there, and the bottom fell in after that.

Rose threatened in the first with a baserunner left on third, but took a brief lead in the second.

Emmett Walsh cracked out a one-out double to get the second going. Mike Campbell then brought in courtesy runner Paul McMillan with a single up the middle.

Mitch Brann followed with a single, but he was the last Rose baserunner until the eighth.

Rocky Mount, which left a man on second in the opening frame, tied it up in the bottom of the inning without a hit.

Paul Bauer reached on a fielder's choice and Steve Barnes and Ricky Jones both walked. With two away, Bill Wilkes also drew a walk, forcing in the tying run.

Galloway came on in relief at that point and retired the next nine batters in order, until an outfield error put a man on

Ali To Fight Weaver First

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The question is who Muhammad Ali will come back against. The fact is Larry Holmes is the No. 1 heavyweight in the world today.

Holmes rules the World Boxing Council share of the planet as heavyweight champion. He has won all 34 of his fights and has scored knockouts in all six of his defenses, the last being an eight-round battering of big Leroy Jones Monday night at Caesars Palace.

The World Boxing Association part of the globe is ruled by Mike Weaver, who ascended to that position with a crashing left hook that left John Tate out cold with 45 seconds left in the fight Monday night at Knoxville, Tenn.

Weaver's record is 21-9. He has lost a 12-round decision to Jones and he was stopped in the 12th round last June 23 after a tough effort against Holmes.

Ali says he will come out of retirement against Weaver and then fight Holmes.

"Bob Arum was prepared to go to Weaver if he wants and negotiate — the same as he would have gone to negotiate with Tate," Bill Curl, a spokesman for Hyatt Management Corp., operator of the New Orleans Superdome, said Monday night. "It's entirely possible we're looking at an Ali-Weaver fight."

Arum claims such a fight will take place in the Superdome in late June. The price mentioned is $10 million.

Promoter Don King said

Tuesday he has $10 million — he wouldn't say from where — for Ali to fight Holmes.

"I was talking to Ali this morning (by telephone)," said King. "He wants a package deal. First he wants to fight Weaver and then Holmes. I said, 'Let's cut jivin' each other. You got to fight Larry Holmes. He's the only heavyweight champion.'"

But it's likely Holmes' next opponent won't be Ali.

Saying, "I don't need Ali, he needs me," Holmes looked at Scott LeDoux, who was present at the Tuesday morning news conference, and said: "In a week Scott LeDoux and I'll sign a contract if Ali doesn't sign to fight me."

King said a Holmes-LeDoux fight would be in late May or early June.

Holmes was skeptical that the 38-year-old Ali, who retired last May, would fight him, at least first.

"Ali don't want no part of me," said Holmes. "He told me that when he fought Leon Spinks in New Orleans."

Jaguars Edge Panthers

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
It was a recall that quelled what might have been an embarrassing finish. Farmville Central's Tony Eason had nothing to do with the disturbance North Pitt was causing. He had done his best through five scoreless innings to avoid any disruption at all. But there was Eason in right field, having been lifted at the start of the sixth with the Jaguars up 7-0, looking on as the Panthers had crept within two with no-outs in the seventh. Then came the recall, administered with the beckoning of an arm by Farmville coach Linwood Woodard. Six pitches later the Jaguars had won, 7-5, as Eason forced the Panthers into a double play and then a game-ending strikeout. "I learned a lesson today," Woodard said. "You win 'em one at a time."

With Eason safely in right the Panthers rallied. Three straight walks in the sixth by two Farmville relievers loaded the bases. Two straight strikeouts left the bases still full before pitcher Bob Hemingway fought off an inside fast ball and poked a single to right, scoring Ken Whitehurst. Carl Knight later scored on a wild pitch, narrowing the gap to 7-2. In the seventh the Panthers were back for more. Gregory Briley walked and scored on a double by Robert Bunn. Ken Whitehurst walked and then Bunn, who had moved to third earlier, scored when a throw to second went into centerfield. Another walk brought Eason back to the mound. Almost immediately Greg Briley hit a tapper back to Eason who turned it into a double play. Eason then struck out William Beacham to end the game. "That double play killed us," North Pitt coach Pat Smith said. "He's a good pitcher. We hadn't faced a curve ball pitcher this year and he made us look weak. "We're a free swinging ballclub but they couldn't connect today against him."

Alan Corbett's sacrifice. An error put Eason on before Michael James' sacrifice fly scored Hardison. Back-to-back doubles by Lewis Yelverton and Jeff Joyner moved across two more runs. Joyner later scored after two wild pitches by North Pitt's Bob Hemingway. "I thought when they came out and got up 4-0 in the first inning we went dead for awhile," North Pitt coach Pat Smith said. "We've been trying to tell them that four or five runs ain't nothin' and that you can come back from that. But they put their heads down for awhile." The Panthers must have also been shaking their heads at Eason's pitching. North Pitt did not get its first hit until after one was out in the fourth. The Panthers did not get a man past second until the sixth. Meanwhile, the Jaguars were adding three runs — one in the third and two in the fifth — to go up 7-0 with only two innings to go. Alan Corbett started the third off innocently enough dribbling an infield single down the third base line. Corbett advanced to second on a wild pitch and moved to third on Eason's bloop single over shortstop Greg Briley. Corbett scored on Michael James ground out moments later, putting the Jaguars up 5-0. After retiring the side in order in the fifth, Eason opened the Jaguars half of the inning with a double. He moved to

Rams Nip Cougars

PINETOPS — Greene Central struck for three runs in the sixth inning and went on to defeat Southwest Edgecombe, 3-0, in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game Tuesday afternoon. Donald Shaw walked to start off the sixth and then scored on an error following an attempted sacrifice by Walt Tyndall, who moved to second on the error. A single brought Tyndall home and an error and a single gave the Rams their final run. Greene Central 000 003 0-3 5 1 SW Edgecombe 000 000 0-0 3 0 Corbett and Lewis; Korpi and Fulghum.

The Rams, who had three double plays during the game, went up 2-1 after the first inning and then moved ahead 6-1 with four in the second and were never headed in winning their seventh game of the season without a defeat. Greene Central was led by Melody Ham, who was four for four, including two doubles, Letha Taylor, two for three with a home run and three RBIs, and Clara Speight, two for four. ## Softball Roundup

Rocky Mount 16, Rose 5
ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's winless Rampettes went down to a 16-5 defeat at the hands of Rocky Mount yesterday in girls' softball. The Rampettes took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first, but Rocky Mount came back with three in the bottom of the frame to go ahead for good, moving out to an 11-2 lead by the end of the third. Shelley Evans led the Rose hitting with three, while Faith Lee and Neely Harrell each had two. Nancy Bass led Rocky Mount with three, while March and Barnes each had two.

Rocky Mt. . . .
Both runners moved up on another sacrifice, but Barnes grounded to shortstop Mark Douglas, who cut down Ted Reece, who had replaced Arrington, at home. A double steal attempt was then killed when Downs was nailed at the plate.

Now 0-4, the Rampettes travel to Northeastern today. Rocky Mount 110 010 2-5 10 Rocky Mount 236 410 x-16 7 WP—Kerri Kolehna.

Washington 11, Williamston 10
WILLIAMSTON — Washington High School outlasted Williamston, 11-10, in a Northeastern Conference girls' softball game yesterday. Washington pushed over seven first inning runs, added three in the second and one in the fourth for its 11 run total. Williamston fought back to score three in each of the first three innings, but fell short with a seventh inning rally.

Theresa Wooden and Carol Jansen led the Washington hitting with three each, while Lynn Hodges, Juanita Bockwell, Tammy Peele and Twilie Peele each had two. Williamston was led by Theresa Duffy, Carolyn Hudgins, Betty Davis and Celestine Perkins, each with two. Now 1-2, Williamston travels to Plymouth on Friday. Washington 730 100 0-11 15 Williamston 333 000 1-10 13 WP—Jane McCall.

Jamesville 4, Aurora 1
JAMESVILLE — Jamesville gained a 4-1 softball victory over Aurora yesterday, moving into sole possession of first place in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference standings. Jamesville got all it needed in the first frame, scoring three times. It added the other run in the fourth. Aurora got its only run in the third. Suzanne Spence had a two-run double in the first inning to spark the drive. Kim Floyd also had a double and Terri Bell had two hits, including a double. Aurora 001 000 0-1 5 Jamesville 300 100 x-4 6 WP—Mika Ellis.

Farmville C. 2, North Pitt 0
FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's girls gained a 2-0 softball victory over North Pitt yesterday. The game was scoreless until the sixth inning, when Farmville finally pushed over two runs to win it. J. Harrington led the North Pitt hitting with two, while Carolyn Best had a triple. Courtney Lancaster, Debbie Gowen, Diana Gordon, Gwen Dupree, Evette Anderson and Angie O'Brien each had two hits for Farmville. Lancaster and Hope Strickland each had doubles. Farmville is now 4-2 overall and 2-2 in league play, while North Pitt is winless on the year. North Pitt 000 000 0-0 8 Farmville C. 000 002 x-2 15 WP—Angie O'Brien.

McIntyre Qualifies For NCAAs
East Carolina University's Herman McIntyre has already qualified for the NCAA Outdoor Nationals in the triple jump—after just two meets. McIntyre soared 53 feet, 3 1/2 inches during the Florida Relays last weekend, finishing fourth in the event, which drew 11 of the country's top triple jumpers to the invitational. "He went off about six inches behind the board, which is seven inches wide," Coach Bill Carson said. "So that means that his leap was actually well over 54 feet."

Pirate Netters Beat Edinboro
East Carolina's men's tennis team, in a hastily arranged match, defeated Edinboro State College, 7-2, Tuesday afternoon to even its record at 3-3 on the season. The Pirates won four of six singles matches and won all three doubles matches to win. The Pirates took four of six singles and all three doubles matches to win. "This was a good win for us," ECU tennis coach Jon Rose said. "Edinboro has been the State College champion in Pennsylvania the last few years, so they've been a powerhouse in their State College system." ECU plays host to Atlantic Christian College Thursday. Rose In Golf Win
 Rose High School's golfers had little trouble in rolling up a victory in the first full meeting of the Division I teams for the season.
 The Rampants, finishing with a 302 total, were 18 strokes ahead of their nearest competition. Hunt finished second with 320, while Northeastern was 26 further back at 346.
 They were followed by Beddingfield with 370, Fike with 379, Rocky Mount, 389, and Northern Nash, 395. Bertie did not field a team.
 Jack Mann paced the Rampants and captured medalist honors with a 72. Greg House added a 74, while Pat Dye and Steve Woodward each had 78's. J. Pittman of Hunt was the lowest non-Rose scorer with a 77.
 Rose is now 10-0, and plays host to Hunt and Kinston on Thursday.

ECU, Tar Heels Battle To Split

CHAPEL HILL — East Carolina's women's softball team, after losing the opener 8-0, came back to whip the University of North Carolina at Carolina, 11-3, in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday afternoon.
 In the first game the Pirates did little right, managing only five hits in dropping their second game of the season.
 In the second game, however, ECU blasted out 18 hits, led by Mitzi Davis, Kathy Riley, Mary Powell and Mary Bryan Carlyle.
 Davis banged out three hits in four at bats, including a two run home run. She had three RBIs.

Riley was two for three with a home run and an RBI, while Powell was four for four, all singles.
 Carlyle, who pitched both games to move her record to 7-2, was three for four with two RBIs. Cynthia Sheperd had a two-run homer.
 East Carolina is now 9-2 on the season, both of its losses shutouts.
 East Carolina is now 9-2 on the season. The Pirates play host to N.C. State Thursday.

Bears Fall To Bath
BATH — Bath High School pushed over single runs in the first two innings and went on to gain a 4-1 Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference win over Bear Grass yesterday.
 The Pirates scored first, getting a run in the bottom of the first. Boyd walked and stole both second and third. He scored on Lee's single.
 In the top of the second, the Bears tied it up. Jody Peaks walked and Edward Rogers reached on an error. Craig Gardner also was safe on a misplay, loading the bases. A sacrifice by Joey Leggett brought in Peaks.
 But Bath regained the lead in the second, scoring a run. Tankard singled and stole second and third. He scored when Sullivan reached on an error.
 Bear Grass got only one hit off the hitting of Haddock, a single by Craig Gardner in the fourth. Lee had two hits to lead Bath, which added two insurance runs in the fourth.
 Now 4-2, the Bears host Aurora on Thursday in a makeup game.

Celtics Have First Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk about the luck of the Irish. The Boston Celtics don't wear shamrocks on their sleeves for nothing.
 The Celtics, the team with the best record in the National Basketball Association this season, have the first selection in the league's draft June 10 because of a series of exceptionally lucky — and crafty — occurrences.
 With the No.1 pick, won in a coin flip with the Utah Jazz Tuesday, the Celtics are in a position to take any senior or hardship entry they want.
 The team with the best record normally picks last, when All-American centers like Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll are rarely around. But the Celtics have Detroit's first-round picks because Red Auerbach, Boston's shrewd president and general manager, pulled a fast one on the Pistons.
 Ex-Piston M.L. Carr signed as a free agent with Boston. As compensation, Auerbach unloaded high-scoring Bob McAdoo, a gifted player but a round peg in Boston's square scheme of things. Red additionally demanded Detroit's two first-round draft choices, its own and the one it received from Washington.
 Red gets what he wants.
 "Everyone in the league thought Red pulled a real steal," said an NBA source.
 If the Pistons and Celtics hadn't agreed on compensation, NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien would have stepped in. "The normal procedure is for the commissioner to send something from Boston to Detroit but not two draft picks going the other way. There was no likelihood of O'Brien ruling like that," the source said. "Right now, you couldn't trade McAdoo for Carr."
 Then the Pistons finished with the worst record in the Eastern Conference, making the Celtics' pick one of the two most valuable in the league.
 Just how valuable depended on the coin toss, which annually determines which of the worst two teams gets first crack at the best college players.
 The toss was held in O'Brien's midtown office. Frank Layden, general manager of the Jazz, was on a phone hookup and called "heads."
 It came up tails. Boston had lucked out again.
 A smiling Auerbach, a stogie in his mouth, whispered to the commissioner: "I was gonna take heads."
 With 6-foot-8 center Dave Cowens nearing 32, Auerbach needs a dominating center. Carroll is 7-1 and Virginia's Ralph Sampson 7-4. Auerbach will speak to Sampson, who has said he plans to return for his sophomore year in Virginia but is willing to listen to any offer.

 On Tuesday, Sampson said: "I just don't want to say anything about it right now."

Softball Teams Look To Challenge For Title

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

Greene Central softball coach Tim Corbett was set to face a rebuilding year this season, his Rams having lost seven starters off a team that finished seventh in the state. Corbett just wanted to be respectable.

His team had another thought, the major part being to go out and win its first seven games of the season. The Rams have done just that and find themselves atop the Eastern Carolina Conference.

"We started out knowing it was going to be a rebuilding year for us and we knew we had a lot of work to do," Corbett said. "We wanted a 500 season, anything more would be icing on the cake."

By the end of the season the icing may be more than Corbett can swallow. Consider:

• His team not only comes to practice every day, but comes early and stays late. And they never miss.

• Of the Rams starters only one is a senior, left fielder Melody Ham. There are seven sophomores and two freshmen in the starting lineup.

• Of the Rams' last eight games seven are at home.

Still, Corbett isn't predicting a repeat of last year, when his squad won the ECC crown.

"I still anticipate Ayden-Grifton taking the title," Corbett said. "Had you asked me two weeks ago I would have said Conley would, but they've lost two conference games and I don't think a team with two conference losses can win it."

The Rams, of course, have yet to lose a league game, in part because of their defense.

"We feel like we need to keep teams from scoring more than five or six runs, and we've been able to do that so far," Corbett said. "If our defense holds up like it has in the first six games we can be up there."

Among those trying to keep the Rams atop the ECC are starters Sharon Suggs (first base), Letha Taylor (second), Renee Speight (shortstop) and Clara Speight (third).

Pam Shackelford will catch this season while Cindy Meadows will pitch.

Besides Ham, the Rams will have in the outfield Lisa Radford (shortfield), Amy Kearney (center) and Wanda Atkinson (right).

Reserves include Gladys Suggs, Saraphenia Cox, Pat Woodard, Patricia Nash and Connie Sutton.

"Most of these girls are young and I anticipated them cracking under pressure," Corbett said. "They haven't. I don't know why. Don't ask me."

Jamesville

During the preseason, Jamesville softball coach Jerry Godley believed Aurora and Bath would be the teams his club would have to contend with in the race for the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin title.

The Bullets opened the season by beating Bath, 3-0, and then Tuesday defeated Aurora, 4-1, and are alone atop the league.

A major part of the Bullets' success this season can be traced to one player: shortstop Tammy Williams, who is hitting nearly .650 and has already clouted four home runs.

But perhaps Williams' best game this year came in Jamesville's 4-2 win over Chocowinity last week.

Against the Indians Williams made three double plays while also going three for three at the plate, including a single, a double and a home run.

"She's been the key this season," Godley said. "As a team we're not hitting the ball quite as well as I thought we would, but she's helping a lot."

Although lukewarm in his praise of his club's hitting, Godley is proud of his team's defense, which has committed only four errors in five games.

"We're tough defensively. The girls have been working hard on it."

Besides Williams, the Bullets infield consists of Donna Hardison (first), Wendi Perry (second) and Deanne Spence (third). Susan Spence will catch while Mika Ellis will pitch.

Reserves include four freshmen: Donna Coburn, Portia Moore, Lori Hardison and Anita Kite.

"Beating Bath (and Aurora) I think puts us up there with the top teams," Godley said. "When we started the season we realized we could go somewhere if we got that little added effort. And so far we've got it."

Karen Bailey (first), Amy Corley (second), Glori Wynn (shortstop) and Gwen Wynn (third).

Catching is Amy Perry while pitching is Sandy Harrell. Gloria Wynn will also pitch this season for the Pioneers.

Perry is also grooming two sixth graders — girls cannot play high school softball until the seventh grade — for next year, Cindy Bullock and Melinda Green.

"I feel like Lawrence and Ridgeway will be the teams to beat in the conference," Perry said. "But I feel like we can be third. We can beat Pungo and Albemarle and Chowan. "I just feel like it'll be a good year for us."

Coach's Wife Is Paralyzed

Ginger Parker, wife of ECU defensive coordinator Norm Parker, continues in serious condition at Toledo Hospital in Toledo, Ohio, following a Sunday morning accident that has left her paralyzed from the neck down.

Mrs. Parker suffered a broken neck in the accident and it is not known at this time whether her paralysis will be permanent.

Besides Williams, the Bullets infield consists of Donna Hardison (first), Wendi Perry (second) and Deanne Spence (third).

Coach's Wife Is Paralyzed

Parker told Greenville sources that any recovery possible would require a long rehabilitation.

Mrs. Parker and his two children and parents were on their way to Greenville to visit Parker when the accident occurred. The Parker family had deferred moving to Greenville until the end of the school year.

Parker noted that his wife is in the intensive care unit and flowers are not allowed. Those wishing to send cards or other messages may address them to Toledo Hospital, North Cone Blvd., Toledo, Ohio.

Head football coach Ed Emory and assistant Wright Anderson are expected to visit the Parkers in Toledo this weekend.

NBA Mini-Series Playoffs Begin Tonight

By The Associated Press
The Seattle SuperSonics did everything but win their division title this season.
Now they're going to have to do everything to win the National Basketball Association playoffs again.
Despite a better record than last year, when they won the Pacific Division title, the defending NBA champions finished behind the red-hot Los Angeles Lakers this time.
As a result, they won't have the advantage of a first-round bye when the NBA playoffs open tonight.
The Sonics are one of eight teams in first-round action, hosting Portland in the opener of a three-game series in the Western Conference playoffs. In the other Western Conference opener, Kansas City visits Phoenix. In Eastern Conference action, Washington visits Philadelphia and San Antonio is at Houston.

This year's division winners, Los Angeles (Pacific), Boston (Atlantic), Atlanta (Central) and Milwaukee (Midwest) all received first-round byes.
The Sonics had their best season ever this year, posting a 56-26 record, including a 5-1 mark against the Trail Blazers. But the Lakers, the generally acknowledged team to beat in the West, were division champions with a stately 60-22 record.
The extra playoff round will make it tougher for Seattle to become the first team to win successive titles since Boston did it in 1968 and 1969.
The Sonics are expected to have starting power forward

Lonnie Shelton back for the playoffs. Shelton missed the club's last five regular-season games because of a knee injury suffered March 22 against Los Angeles. Shelton worked out with the team Monday, his first practice since suffering the injury.
The Trail Blazers dropped a 134-104 decision to the Sonics in their last regular-season game, prompting Portland Coach Jack Ramsay to say:

"Obviously, we have to do something better by the next time we play. We need a complete turnaround by Wednesday. We can play better and we must play better if we are to take advantage of making the playoffs. We didn't get here playing that kind of basketball."

The Trail Blazers won the NBA playoffs just three seasons ago, but have since lost the heart of that team, including Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas. The Suns plan on doing better this year than last, when they lost in the Western Conference finals to the Sonics.

San Antonio and Houston, two Texas teams who have developed a heated rivalry in recent years, split their six games this season. Both finished with 41-41 records, but Houston will get the extra home game because of a better conference record. Washington, the NBA champion two years ago, slipped into the playoffs on the final day of the season.

Chargers, Tigers Win

Williamston 4
Washington 2

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School pushed over three runs in the first inning and went on to top

Washington, 4-2, in a Northeastern Conference baseball game yesterday.
Williamston, in winning, captured its first league win in three starts. The Tigers are 2-3 overall.

Keith Clark opened the first with a double and Randy Ellis reached on an error. Tim Hines was safe on another error, which allowed the first run to score. Victor Thomas then doubled in both Ellis and Hines. Washington came back with two in the top of the second. Victor Walls walked and Doug Paine reached on an error. Ty Crooks singled in Walls, and after Mike Askew walked, Mike Hooks sacrificed Paine in.

The Tigers got their insurance run on a homer by Hines in the sixth.
Ted Eubanks led Washington with two hits. No one had more than one for Williamston.
The Tigers travel to Plymouth on Friday.

Ayden-Grifton 8

WHEAT SWAMP — Tyrone Gay's no hitter ended in the seventh but the Ayden-Grifton pitcher went on to record a one-hitter as the Chargers whipped North Lenoir, 8-0, Tuesday afternoon in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

Gay, who was also three for four at the plate with a double and an RBI, pitched six hitless innings before a single with one out in the seventh ended his bid for a no hitter.

The Chargers scored twice in the fourth when Gay doubled to knock in Clayton McLawhorn, who had walked. After McLawhorn was sacrificed to third Brant Allen put down a bunt that brought Gay home.

Ayden-Grifton added two more runs in the sixth. Gay singled and scored on a throwing error after David Taylor had walked.

Taylor then scored on a sacrifice fly by Melvin Artis.

Tewell To Face Pate At GGO

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Doug Tewell and Jerry Pate, the winner and loser in a play-off showdown for the Heritage title, will try it again this week in the $250,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

"I'm still in a state of shock," the 30-year-old Tewell said after scoring his first career victory in a one-hole play-off Monday in the rain-delayed final at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

"I don't feel like I got beat. I feel like I beat myself," said Pate, who hit one in the water and bogeyed the playoff hole.

Those two head a surprisingly strong field for the Greensboro event that starts Thursday on the 6,984-yard, par-72 Forest Oaks Country Club course.

The old event often is bypassed by golf's more illustrious performers, who take the time to put the final touches on their preparations for next week's Masters.

Higher Prices Have Moved Into Higher Education

EDITOR'S NOTE — The cost of going to college is going up again and the latest increases — like the rate of inflation in general — are in double digits in many areas. Here, in the first of two articles, is a look at what's happening to campus budgets.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The same inflation that is squeezing family budgets is boosting the cost of going to college, with prices at some schools nearing the $10,000-a-year mark for the coming academic season.

The Chronicle of Higher Education recently reported that double-digit increases in prices for tuition, room and board will be common this fall. The average boost will be about 13 percent — about equal to the increase in the Consumer Price Index in 1979.

"We've been hit with inflation like everybody else," said Steve Kezerian of Yale University. "That, and higher energy costs and faculty salary increases."

A student at Yale during the 1980-81 academic year will face bills totaling a minimum of $9,110 — up 12 percent from this year's $8,140. The biggest chunk of the money — $6,120 — will go for tuition.

Prices generally are lower at public universities than they are at private ones, but the state schools are not immune from rising costs.

Officials at Florida State University in Tallahassee estimate that a student will spend an average of $3,990 next year on tuition, room and board, transportation, books and supplies and miscellaneous expenses. That's an increase of about 6 percent from this year. Dormitory rents alone are rising an average of $50 because of utility costs, the school said.

Ed Marsh, the financial aid director at the university, said the amount of money available to help students pay the bills has increased sharply. In 1978-79, he said, FSU provided $13.5 million in aid; this year, the school gave out $20 million, an increase of almost 50 percent. Marsh said he expected up to $23 million in aid would be available for the 1980-81 year.

"Forty-five percent to 55 percent of the students get financial aid now," said Marsh. "If you take a look at the cost of ... school, for the average family, it's got to present some kind of problem. Financial aid is not just for poor folks anymore."

The situation at Yale and Florida State is typical, according to an Associated Press spot check.

Robert H. Strotz, president of Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., announced recently that tuition for the 1980-81 year will be $5,985 — a 10.5 percent boost from this year. It is the 13th straight year of tuition increases. Strotz also said that room charges would increase by 14.5 percent and food bills would go up 11.2 percent.

William C. Tempelmeyer, Northwestern's housing director, said the increase in room and board charges was "the largest that I can recall." He blamed the rise on an assessment to pay for new dormitories and on higher utility rates, adding that water cost alone increased 67 percent this year.

Richard Conklin, a spokesman for the University of Notre Dame, said the school plans a 14 percent increase in tuition, although the amount of the boost must be approved by the board of trustees in May. The cost for room and board will increase about 17 percent. Overall, next year's students will pay $6,490 for tuition, room and board, compared to $5,630 this year.

"The main pressure point on us ... is that we're labor intensive," said Conklin. "It's all faculty salaries. Of course food and energy costs were a factor too. We're very successful in conserving energy, but we're paying more for it than we used to."

Conklin added: "Our student aid allocations are not really keeping pace with the percentage increase in tuition and fees and room and board ... We are trying to parcel out our existing funds to more people. "Our market here has always primarily been a Catholic, middle-class market. We're concerned that we not price ourselves out of that market. But quality education is expensive."

Slippery Rock State College in Pennsylvania now charges $950 a year for tuition and $1,210 for room and board. "We were told by the (Pennsylvania) secretary of education there would be a $150 increase in tuition (next year), but there is a move by some legislators to keep it where it is," said Pam Shingler, a spokeswoman for the state school. Ms. Shingler said the money the school gets from the state "is just not enough to cover the increase in expenses" for things like salaries, maintenance and the coal-fueled heating system.

C. Lee Winder, provost at Michigan State University, said the school is waiting to find out how much money it will get from the Legislature before it determines 1980-81 fees. Winder added, however: "The economic indicators for this state are not very encouraging ... It does seem fair to assume there will be an increase in tuition."

Winder said that tuition has risen by about 7.5 percent to 10 percent every year since 1976-77. It is now $1,250 for a full-time, undergraduate who is a resident of Michigan and about double that much for a non-resident.

The increased costs of college have forced families to change their thinking about paying the bills. Joe Paul Case of the College Scholarship Service of the said, the money comes "from current income and accumulated future debt."

Flagger's Job In Crop-Dusting

By ANNE HOLLIDAY-ABBOTT
The Arizona Star

STANFIELD, Ariz. (AP) — Even though he is not much taller than the rows of cotton he stands beside, Jimmy Garcia hits the ground each time the airplane swoops down toward him.

Then he gets up, walks a few rows down the field and gets ready to hit the ground again as the plane roars over and defoliant falls around him like rain.

Garcia, energetically waving a red flag that is almost as big as he is, works as a ground man for the cropdusting firm of Custom Farm Services Inc. of Stanfield.

His job as one of the firm's eight flaggers is to assist the pilots by showing them where to drop their loads. It is seasonal work that Garcia says he has enjoyed for the past four years.

"But I don't enjoy going up with them. It does terrible things to my stomach," Garcia says.

So he stays among the various crops, measuring off specific distances to guide the pilot's next path. He pushes a converted bicycle wheel to mark off the 50-foot span that is covered by each swoop of the plane.

Garcia says that when an airplane buzzes him he ducks more out of instinct than necessity. The plane usually comes only within 10 feet of the ground and Garcia stands about 4-foot-4.

The planes, which drop defoliants, pesticides, nutrients and even seeds, whiz overhead at about 105 miles an hour. So when two airplanes are spraying the same field, Garcia no sooner ducks one plane than the other is ready to make its swoop.

He says the working hours are "crazy for flaggers and pilots." Much spraying is done at night when there is no wind, so he often trades his red flag for a flashlight and works from 10 p.m. until dawn.

"You have to watch yourself so you don't trip," he says.

Declarer has an advantage in the play of the cards because he can see which suits are protected and which are wide open. To counteract this edge, defenders must be accurate in their carding. Consider this hand from a recent tournament.

Three no trump was reached at most tables. After North's Stayman inquiry elicited the information that his side had no 4-4 major fit, the jump to the no trump game was automatic.

West let his fourth-best diamond, and the only correct play is the queen from dummy. First of all, you want to be in dummy to take the club finesse. Secondly, winning with the king in your hand strands the queen like a modern Lady Godiva, stripped of protection with nothing left to the imagination.

After clearing this hurdle, declarer ran the queen of clubs at trick two. West won the king and the fate of the contract hinged on his next

TV Log CBS, ABC Tied In Nielsen Ratings Race

NEW YORK (AP) — With the World Series and the Winter Olympics down and the Academy Awards show to come, CBS has pulled even with ABC in the race for first place in the prime-time ratings.

Both networks have an average rating of 19.5 after CBS won the competition for the week ending March 30 with a rating of 20.3. CBS has managed to hang on despite ABC's broadcast of the two major sports programs.

ABC is expected to score, however, with the upcoming Oscars show, which begins at 9 p.m. EST this year instead of 10 as in the past.

CBS's most recent weekly triumph came with plenty of help from the premiere episode of "Flo," the spinoff from "Alice," which tied for first with another CBS series, "M-A-S-H."

The rating for "Flo" and "M-A-S-H," two of seven CBS series in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s Top 10, was 30.3. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 30.3 percent saw at least part of each of the two top-rated shows.

CBS' rating for the week was 20.3, with ABC second at 18.5, and NBC third at 15.8.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.3 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

ABC's highest-rated program for the week was "That's Incredible," in fourth place, while NBC's best, "CHiPs," was 10th.

NBC's broadcast of the NCAA basketball championship game between Louisville and UCLA was something of a ratings disappointment, finishing No. 23 for the week.

Movies in general did not fare particularly well during the week. "City in Fear" on ABC was 22nd, "The Ordeal of

Some Envision 'Brave New World' At Norfolk Lab

By R.D. GERSH
Associated Press Writer
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — There are no babies and few test tubes in the 10-by-12-foot room known as the test-tube baby laboratory at Norfolk General Hospital.

The lab does contain an incubator, a microscope and a stack of half a dozen small plastic petri dishes, in which human eggs are fertilized by human sperm.

It also holds the hopes of many women and men who want to be mothers and fathers, and the fears of some who envision the coming of a "Brave New World."

The hospital won state approval to build the lab Jan. 8.

Two months later, a spokesman for Eastern Virginia Medical School, whose doctors run the clinic, acknowledged, "The lab is in operation."

The lab is the first of its kind in the United States and has already earned Norfolk a certain notoriety. On the door to the office of the hospital's public relations director is a bumper sticker reading: "Norfolkians Do It in a Dish."

An original seven couples were accepted for the program, out of thousands who applied. There were 2,500 couples on the initial waiting list; the day after the lab got state approval, 300 more called in.

An unspecified number of women have gone through the process of in vitro fertilization, in which an egg is surgically removed from a woman's ovary, fertilized with her husband's sperm in the petri dish and transferred to the woman's uterus.

The hospital has not said, and will not say, if successful pregnancies have been achieved.

EVMS spokesman Vernon Jones said the clinic's doctors, led by the husband-and-wife team of Howard and Geanna Jones, want to "shield the ladies" from disturbances that could disrupt the hormone levels crucial for successful implantations.

The patients are women whose Fallopian tubes, the conduits from ovary to uterus, are missing or irreparably blocked. Jones described the process as sort of a "Fallopian tube bypass. We're providing the passage. It's sort of like a helicopter picking up cargo — the egg — in one place and putting it in another."

He said the clinic should be able to treat about 50 women a year. The procedure costs about $4,000. Blue-Cross of Virginia has said it will not pay the costs.

The women see in vitro fertilization as their last chance to bear children. But others see it as the first step toward something unsafe and immoral.

Opponents of the procedure have three main complaints: that it has not been tested enough; that fertilized eggs, which some consider the beginning of life, will be destroyed if not developing properly; and that defective embryos will be aborted.

They say they also fear that in vitro fertilization will lead to production — out of the womb — of genetically controlled babies, as described in Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World." The Tidewater Chapter of the anti-abortion Virginia Society for Human Life failed in its attempt to get state Attorney General Marshall Coleman to seek an injunction against the clinic.

Norfolk businessman Charles Dean, chapter president, said the group plans further legal action, partly on the grounds the state review was not done properly.

But doctors involved with the clinic claim the fears are unfounded.

They said that the procedure has been carried out safely in England — where Louise Brown, the world's first "test-tube baby" was born in 1978 — and Australia, that abortions will be neither more nor less available to clinic patients than to other pregnant women, and that they have no intention of mass producing human beings.

Dr. Jack Rary, the EVMS scientist who runs the lab, said fertilization is attempted on only one egg at a time.

Rary is responsible for checking to see if an egg is contained in the fluid removed from the woman, for setting up the egg for fertilization and for determining if fertilization has taken place.

But he noted that doctors do not make the final determination whether the egg is good — able to be fertilized.

"The sperm know which eggs are good," he said. "We don't have to make that decision."

If fertilization does take place in a petri dish, usually within 12 hours, the fertilized egg is incubated for another 36 hours and then transferred to the uterus.

That's about the same time span an egg fertilized naturally would take to travel down to the uterus and implant itself, Rary said.

Rary said he knew the clinic wouldn't receive unanimous approval, "but I had no idea there would be that much opposition."

"I guess I'm looking at it differently, that we'd truly be helping people who couldn't have babies," he said.

Rary said he has invited some opponents to visit the lab but none has accepted so far. "I'd be willing to show them," he said. "I've got nothing to hide."

Winners In Science Fair

Awards for energy-related projects were presented by the Greenville Utilities Commission and the Greenville Energy Commission to students at the Eastern Regional Science Fair.

Sharing the Local Energy Applications Award in the senior division were Mark Davis and Joe Melvin of E. E. Smith Senior High School in Fayetteville. Their plans and model of a solar home showed how the sun's energy could be collected and stored for residential heating.

Winner of the junior division Local Energy Applications Award was Curtis Fisher, a seventh grader at St. Mary's School in Goldsboro. Fisher's exhibit featured the use of solar and wind power to replace conventional energy sources in a community setting.

In addition to the energy award, Fisher received second place in the technological junior division. Davis and Melvin were also given honorable mention in the physical science division.

Reese Helms, manager of GUC's Office of Energy Conservation and Management, said that many of the approximately 350 entries in the science fair featured energy-related themes. In addition to solar and wind, wood, gasohol, and water as energy sources and energy conservation practices were shown.

OLDEST FOSSILS EVER FOUND — Paleontologist J. William Schopf examines thin section of cabbage-shaped rock from Australia in his lab at the University of California at Los Angeles. The rock apparently holds the oldest fossils ever found — remains of bacteria that lived 3.5 billion years ago, says Malcolm R. Walter of the Australian Bureau of Mineral Resources. (AP Laserphoto)

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APR. 3, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly no day to take chances. But make sure that you organize your life so that you can make rapid progress and have greater abundance and happiness in the days ahead. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't waste time arguing about unimportant matters. A pesky situation arises, but take time and think before you handle it. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may feel that the plans you have are right and associates should agree with them, but you have to be tactful to gain your wishes. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to use much care in regular routines now or you could invite trouble. Take care of a health matter now. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be kind and generous to those who mean a great deal to you. Save your money so you'll have it when you need it. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid arguing at home so that no serious trouble ensues. Forget that new interest could prove too costly to be worthwhile. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are tempted to argue with an ally, but this would be wrong and could cause a greater misunderstanding. Be wise. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You must be more careful with your money now or you could lose it easily. A yearning for something unworthy should be curbed.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D. It is rare that any doctor sees a patient who, in addition to physical symptoms, does not also have some overtones of anxiety. This combination of fear and illness can be severely debilitating. Too often, the anxiety is far more destructive than the disease that brings the patient to the doctor's office. Physicians everywhere know that the art of medicine is to recognize fears and anxiety and to stimulate their patients to reveal them. When these fears are openly expressed, and when patients can be given the added assurance they need, then it is easier to concentrate on their physical symptoms and illnesses. Even many mature people consider it a sign of weakness if they give vent to their emotional problems. There is no shame, in this hectic world of ours, in being burdened by neurotic tendencies. In fact, it is remarkable that so many people are able to cope with their problems, produce a good day's work and carry on their family and social obligations. Many people are unable to be serviceable to themselves and to their community because they continue to allow fear to luxuriate in darkness. A frank expression of anxiety to a doctor or a religious counselor can open new horizons for personal happiness, and for emancipation from the burdens of fear. Fear is an illness itself. It is not transmitted by germs or by viruses. It seems to flourish in epidemic form in this harassed twentieth century. Fear of cancer, fear of heart disease, fear of cataclysmic destruction by atomic bombs, fear of economic upheaval and fear of the consequences of smoking have all become a never-ending bombardment against our inner security. Far too often fear seems to submerge hope. For many people the remarkable accomplishments in modern medicine are overshadowed by their sense of helplessness and by the fears that envelop them. The productivity of a human being is the best yardstick of physical health and emotional well-being. It matters little if a person's productivity is destroyed by a real heart attack or by the fear of developing such a condition. Those who spend their lives dying of a cancer that doesn't exist are just as devitalized as those who truly have this dread condition. There is a constant cry in the wilderness for emotional support and psychological guidance. There is an answer to unreasoning fear. Since fear thrives in darkness, bringing it out into the open minimizes its impact. "Face fear frankly" is an important axiom in the control of unrealistic fears. The family doctor, the psychological counselor, the psychoanalyst and the religious advisor can offer relief from the burden of fears and anxiety. Fear thrives on ignorance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Strive to gain the benefits that should be yours, but be tactful in approaching others. Express happiness. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't fret about not being able to handle outside affairs. Don't jeopardize your position with higher-ups. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to use diplomacy with others today and not expect any favors. Forget the personal and work on new business plans. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't irk a higher-up in any way now or you could regret it later. Show others that you are an excellent citizen. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go to the right sources for the information you need. The planets are most favorable for making progress in career matters. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those gifted young persons with much imagination and can make a big success of life if you give the best education you can afford. Be sure to give ethical training that will set the life on the right course.

FIREBIRD OFFERS BETTER RANGE. With its larger 21 gallon fuel tank capacity, Firebird can go an estimated 420 miles per tankful, 186 miles more than the Mazda.
FIREBIRD HAS LOWER ANNUAL FUEL COSTS. According to that government sticker, Firebird saves you approximately $206 a year in gas over the Mazda.
FIREBIRD HAS A LOWER INITIAL PRICE. According to the government required price sticker, Firebird with automatic transmission is priced at $8132. The Mazda with automatic? $7880... a difference of $178.

Add up the price difference and the costs of one year's fuel. The difference between Firebird and the Mazda is $1954. You'll go a lot farther in a new Pontiac Firebird.

Retirement, Day Care Is Combined

By PEG MEIER
Minneapolis Tribune

BUFFALO, Minn. (AP) — Five toddlers pounding on a piano are bound to get attention.

But the elderly get their share, too, when children from the Generations Day Care Center descend on the activity room of the Wright County Retirement Center in Buffalo.

"It's such a natural arrangement," said administrator John Thompson. "As hard as we try to keep our residents active and alert, these kids do a better job than we do, just doing what kids do."

Both operations are housed in the same building and the children visit their elders regularly.

Most of the time, Generations is a regular child-care center, with a staff trained in pre-school education and separate rooms for children's activities.

Old people are not required to spend time with the children, nor are the children considered little social workers. But Thompson says the kids have had an effect that sometimes borders on the miraculous.

"We have some confused residents with a lot of disabilities," he said. "They're pretty well out of it. They don't recognize their own families and are completely disoriented as to day and time and place."

"But the kids come down here and the residents are smiling and urging them to come to them. It's their most alert time. It's fine for the kids, too. The more attention they congregate up, the more people who smile at them, the better."

Twenty-one children from 9 weeks to 7 years of age are enrolled at the day-care center.

Several times a week, the children and those old people who are interested get together in planned activities such as baking cookies, eating popcorn or listening to music.

Staff members for both the retirement home and the day-care center supervise the activities.

Even more valuable than the planned activities are the spontaneous ones, Thompson said, citing several examples:

—Some parents have built an extra 10 minutes into their schedules to allow the kids to say goodbye to every old person they meet along the way from the day-care center to the parking lot.

—An unattended wheelchair is not likely to stay that way when the kids are around. Some residents even get out of their chairs to offer rides.

—The toddlers don't understand that one stroke victim can't talk. Day after day, they approach her and talk. Now the woman laughs and claps when she sees the children.

Some people had worried that the children would be upset by the physical disabilities of the older residents. Thompson doesn't think that has happened.

"By the time people have to go to a nursing home, they recognize that they're not going to get a whole lot better," Thompson said. "They don't mind blunt questions."

The old people who participate in the program are quick to praise it.

"Young people make me think I'm not as old as I thought," said Rose Pandy.

Ann Bergstrom, who was helping Tommy Guilfoile cut out cookies, said, "He didn't make this rabbit cookie just right. But anyway, he made it... It makes me happy to have him here."

Custody Childnapping: Crime That Lacks A Law

By SUE WHITE
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Betty Bennett stopped believing in the wisdom of the law when her 11-year-old daughter was taken screaming from her arms in a court of law.

Her story spans two years and four states. It is unusual but not unique in a crime the courts don't want to handle.

The crime is one against nature — the theft of a child by a parent.

Driven by love and thwarted by law, normally law-abiding adults stoop to criminal methods to regain the natural rights they once had.

Police call it child-snatching. Others call it desperation.

The crime is one created by a lack of law. Because there is no federal law dealing with the abduction of children by their natural parents, custody decisions are left up to the states, resulting in 50 different interpretations of parental rights.

There is an attempt under way to pass federal legislation on parental kidnapping. Until that can be accomplished, states have been urged to adopt a uniform child custody act, which grants jurisdiction in custody cases to the state where the child has permanent residence. But not all states have passed that law.

Meanwhile, the legal ambiguities result in dilemmas that would have thwarted even the wisdom of King Solomon.

Betty Bennett's is one such case.

The mother of two children went to the courts to seek custody of her daughters during a bitter divorce from her husband in Florida. A Circuit Court judge ruled that she — not her husband — should be awarded custody.

Mrs. Bennett's ex-husband complied with the court order and visited his children without incident, even after her marriage to another man.

After their older daughter moved away from home, the Bennetts left Florida for Memphis. Mrs. Bennett's ex-husband returned to his home in Nebraska.

Because things had gone so well, Mrs. Bennett agreed that Jonnie Anne could visit her father in Nebraska for two weeks.

"Betty let Jonnie Anne go with him reluctantly," Mrs. Bennett's husband, Bill, said. "But she was so happy about getting to go that we were pleased. When she asked to stay an extra week, we agreed."

Then came the realization that Jonnie Anne's father was not going to let her come home.

Mrs. Bennett flew to Lincoln, Neb., but her husband refused to give up his daughter. Rather than just taking her daughter, Mrs. Bennett agreed to attend a court hearing, where her husband accused the Bennetts of providing an unhealthy environment for the child.

Based on his word and a questioning of the child, the Nebraska judge awarded custody to the father until another hearing could be scheduled six months later.

Thinking she still had custody according to the courts in Florida, Mrs. Bennett took Jonnie Anne and returned there.

But in Florida, she said, "They told me that everything would have been fine if I had taken Jonnie Anne before the hearing. But because I tried to do the right thing by going to court, I gave up the custody I had won in Florida."

"If I had gone up there and grabbed her out of the front yard, no matter how violent it had been, it would have been legal if I had done it before the hearing."

Mrs. Bennett returned to her home in Memphis — only to be arrested on a warrant sought by her husband, who accused her of kidnapping under Nebraska law.

Jonnie Anne was taken by Juvenile Court officials in Memphis. At a hearing on the Florida vs Nebraska custody dilemma, a circuit court judge refused to listen to any pleadings on which parent provided the best care. He said the case belonged in the jurisdiction of Nebraska. He ruled the father retained custody.

"It was heartbreaking," said attorney Bill Mitchell, who represented Mrs. Bennett. "The child was taken kicking and screaming to the father."

Attorney Joseph Tagg, who had been appointed to represent the child by Juvenile Court, said he was astounded by the court proceedings.

"My findings would have been that the child should be placed with the mother," said Tagg, who concluded in an investigation into both the mother and father that allegations made by Mrs. Bennett's ex-husband were false.

Tagg, however, was never allowed to testify.

Mrs. Bennett returned to the courtroom this spring, this time on felony charges of child-stealing.

But she decided she could not drag her daughter into another courtroom and pleaded no contest. She was sentenced to one year on probation. She could have gotten one to 20 years.

Now living in Fairfax, Va., Mrs. Bennett cannot visit her daughter without her ex-husband's permission. She can't afford attorneys for more legal battles. She doesn't think she will ever get Jonnie Anne back.

"I can take anything that's dished out except for not getting to see her," she said. "But she cannot accept the injustices of the law."

"Everybody — every mother, every father and every parent — should know what is going on in the courts. I don't call what happened to me justice of any kind. I was damned everywhere I turned."

The Bennetts are not alone in their legal battles.

Although there are official reports of about 25,000 child snatches a year, authorities say the actual figure probably averages 100,000 annually in the United States.

No one expects the figures to go down.

One reason is the lack of punishment in a number of states. Although professional child-snatchers are sometimes employed and the children are taken screaming from the front yards of their homes, some states treat the matter as a domestic issue. Others regard it as a misdemeanor.

A few states simply have no law to cover the abduction of a child by a parent. Some states do not recognize custody decrees from another state where the child had residence.

The federal government offers no help. Although children are often transported across state lines by parents, the crime is not covered by the Federal Kidnapping Act. The current law, known as the Lindbergh Act, was specifically written to exclude parents from prosecution.

"There is not anybody who would want to send a parent to the penitentiary for taking possession of his or her own child, even though the order of the court was violated and it was a technical kidnaping," Rep. L.C. Dyer was quoted as saying on June 17, 1932.

Many congressmen do not hold the same view today.

Introduced by Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., and co-sponsored by 8 other senators, including Alan Cranston, D-Calif., is the Parental Kidnaping Prevention Act. It would establish federal penalties for taking abducted children across state lines; expand the authorized uses of the Federal Parent Locator Service and require states to follow more uniform custody regulations.

The bill would set criminal penalties by creating a section in the U.S. Code entitled "Parental Kidnaping." That would impose a possible fine of $10,000 and a jail term for any parent who "conceals the child without good cause and holds him in a place where he is not likely to be found for more than seven days."

This section would make child snatching a crime even in some cases where there has been no state custody decree, covering those kidnappings which take place before a parent can seek custody in court.

The bill would also require states to enforce custody orders consistent with the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act. Backers hope this provision would eliminate a parent's motivation for taking the child to another state where custody might come easier to him or her.

The bill proposes the expansion of the usage of the Parent Locator Service now run by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, ultimately bringing in the FBI to track down parents who have snatched their children. The PLS has been used in the past to locate parents in child support cases.

Opening a joint hearing Jan. 30 before the Subcommittee on Child and Human Development and the Committee on Labor and Human Resources, Cranston said he learned about the tremendous social costs of parental kidnapping from testimony given at a public hearing in Los Angeles last year.

"What was most dramatically portrayed ... was the tremendous heartache and anguish child snatching," he said.

caused by these incidents of "That hearing convinced me a subtle and serious form of child abuse."

Mother Urges Changed Laws

By LANCE J. HERDEGEN
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The last time Maxine Lautenbach saw her daughter, Deliah, was in 1975. It was the day before the girl's father was to appear in court for a custodial hearing. He never showed.

Now, Miss Lautenbach says, she doesn't know where Deliah is — or even if she is alive or dead.

She says she is just one of "hundreds of thousands" of single parents in such a dilemma.

She blames a tangle of laws and enforcement procedures, refusal of some jurisdictions to consider seizure of children by either parent as a crime, and many police and prosecutors' preference not to get involved in a family matter.

Miss Lautenbach says she spent $3,000 on attorney fees and discussed her case with federal and state prosecutors and even a congressman. All told her the same thing — nothing could be done until federal law is changed.

"I was constantly depressed for a time," she said. "I was cheated so badly and the law wouldn't help me."

"Everybody had beaten me. The government had beaten me. The legal system had beaten me. Nobody was out there to help me."

"The laws should be changed to help people like me. I want to see national attention brought to this problem — men stealing their kids."

Miss Lautenbach said her daughter was born in 1972 in New York City while she was living with a man who was separated, but still legally married.

"I was receiving welfare for the child and myself and to receive welfare, I was told that a paternity suit would take place," she said. "This suit gave my child her father's last name. If the child had retained my last name, he would have no rights to her. I was told that in order to receive welfare I would have to pursue the paternity suit."

The couple broke up. Miss Lautenbach and her daughter returned to her native Milwaukee. Later, when she went to New York to pick up her daughter after a summer-long visit, the father refused to turn her over.

Then, before a custody hearing, she found him moving and called police and her attorney.

"They said possession was nine points of the law and that if he had possession there was no legal way for them to pursue him if he left the state."

Church Honors George Creech

Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church celebrated "George Creech Day" on March 30. Creech was honored for his years of service to the church as treasurer for the last 19 years.

A plaque of appreciation and gift certificates for gas were presented to Creech by the officers of the church. The guests and congregation enjoyed a pig picking after the morning services.

Must Have Been Jolted By China's Trade Status

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. trade sanctions against the Soviet Union for its invasion of Afghanistan were bound to have jolted Moscow.

But what must have been more embittering than the sanctions announced by President Carter Jan. 4 was overwhelming Congressional approval 20 days later of a Most-Favored-Nation (MFN) trade status for China.

It means Peking now enjoys a reduction in U.S. tariffs on Chinese goods from 20 to 10 percent and other benefits denied the Soviets.

Moscow has been trying for Congressional approval of an MFN treaty since 1972 following final settlement of the World War II Soviet Lend-Lease debt of $722 million.

But as the Human Rights issue gained prominence, and when it was learned the Soviets were restricting and charging heavy exit fees to would-be emigrants — mostly Jewish — a coalition of Congressional members led by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., held up approval of MFN.

The Soviets protested the "linkage" and U.S. "interference" in Soviet internal affairs, but off-and-on began increasing the number of emigrants allowed to leave. It has not been enough for Congressional critics.

The Trade Act of 1974 added more restrictions, including a ceiling of $300 million on any export credit to the Soviet Union by any U.S. government agency without prior Congressional approval.

This inhibited credits for the purchase of goods the Soviets wanted to buy from the United States in hard currency.

Trade as a political weapon, however, should be nothing new to the Soviets where commerce is a government monopoly.

Soviet trade expert A. P. Chevynkov was quoted in 1973 as saying in Moscow:

"Due to the basic antagonism between communism and capitalism, trade between the East and West will always be influenced, if not dominated, by political considerations and motivations. The U.S.S.R.'s foreign trade policy is an integral part of its foreign policy."

Robert Loring Allen, an American scholar on Soviet affairs, concluded in a 1960 study, "The Soviet Union uses all of its foreign economic policies and relations consistently and exclusively to promote the interests of the Soviet state and the philosophy on which it is founded."

What must particularly irk Moscow, aside from China's new trade status, is that the United States has granted MFN facilities to such other communist-ruled states as Romania, Yugoslavia and Hungary — some with more relaxed views of the linkage between ideology and commerce.

A comprehensive study on MFN last year by the Heritage Foundation, an independent research group, showed the first U.S. MFN trade agreement was signed with Louis XVI of France in 1778. He lost his head during the French revolution, but MFN lived on.

"The Most Christian King and the United States engage mutually not to grant any particular favor to other nations, in respect of commerce and navigation, which shall not immediately become common to the other party," the agreement read.

LOUIS XVI of France, figured in the first Most Favored Nation trade agreement with the United States in 1778. He lost his head in the French Revolution 15 years later, but MFN lives on. (UPI Photo)

The first Franco-American MFN treaty was followed by agreements with Prussia in 1785 and Sweden in 1793. Each party agreed not to grant any exclusive favors to a third party.

"It is important to note," said the Heritage study, "that MFN treatment does not imply a status synonymous with its name. In other words, most favored nation treatment affords a third party the same privileges that the benefactor shares with all other trading partners receiving MFN status."

It was not until 1923, prompted by the growing competition American exports faced on the world market, that the United States adopted a policy of unconditional MFN treatment to contracting partners — except in time of war.

But with the emergence of the Soviet Union and its East European bloc and China after World War II, new policies had to be worked out on how to deal with communist countries.

The Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951 directed the President to "suspend, withdraw, or prevent the application" of any tariff, customs or other concessions for imports from the Soviet Union and "any nation or area dominated or controlled by the foreign government or foreign organization controlling the world communist movement."

The Trade Expansion Act of 1962 tightened the noose, withholding MFN from "any country or area dominated or controlled by Communism," with exemptions granted any nation already accorded MFN status. The president was also given leverage to grant MFN treatment, if he felt it would promote the independence of a nation or further U.S. interests.

In 1972 in the early days of detente, the first real test came when the Soviet Union settled its Lend-Lease debt. But the Russians' hope for an MFN agreement fell through on the Human Rights issues.

After the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan last December, a chance for MFN is not likely to come up again soon for Moscow.

Elsewhere, MFN is a key principle in the General Agreements of Tariffs and Trade (GATT) governing the trading relations of most Free World nations.

Use Tunnels For Storage

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Bulldozers and fork lifts have replaced the mules. Tunnels are lined with cases of exotic seafood instead of mine cars.

But things are just as busy as they were earlier in the century when men and mules hauled gypsum out of the Alabastine Mine in Grand Rapids.

Workers make their way through the 6-mile network of tunnels, but they're either clearing more tunnel space or shuffling some of the thousands of cases of food stored at Michigan Natural Storage Co.

Modern technology never made it down the 85 feet to the tunnels of the Alabastine. The mine owners simply could not continue to use mules and hand labor and compete with other mines, so the Alabastine closed in 1943.

Bert Kragt bought the property in 1946 to use the buildings for warehouses. It wasn't until several years later that Kragt decided to use the tunnels for cold storage.

"It was a natural," said his son, Paul, a vice president of the company. "The steady temperature is 50 degrees and in the areas we refrigerate, we only need to run the units once a week to maintain the temperature."

Wild Flour Offer

Save 20¢

You won't find a better flour than Martha White for fluffy, light biscuits, moist and tender cakes, or flaky pie crusts. And now you can get 20¢ off a 5-lb. or larger bag of Martha White Plain or Self-Rising Flour when you use this coupon. That's a flour offer you can't refuse! All your recipes bake up just right with Martha White. Try my favorite buttermilk pancakes and see!

Jennette Ericson

You Can Trust Martha White For Better Baking

Buttermilk Pancakes

- 1 1/4 cup sifted Martha White Self-Rising Flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 1/4 cup buttermilk
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening

Heat skillet or griddle. Sift together flour, soda and sugar. Beat egg in another bowl and add buttermilk and shortening. Add liquid ingredients to dry and stir just until blended; batter will be a bit lumpy. Let skillet or griddle heat until a drop of water will dance about; if it goes up in steam immediately surface is too hot. Pour batter, 1/4 cup for each pancake, on hot skillet. Bake on one side until cake is full of bubbles that have not popped, turn and bake on other side. If batter gets too thick, thin with a little water.

NOTE: If using Martha White Plain Flour sift 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt with dry ingredients.

Big Breeder Reactor Is Now Target

By BRIAN MOTTAZ
 RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Johnny had four truckloads of plutonium. He used four of them to light New York for one year. How much plutonium did Johnny have left? Answer: Five truckloads.

So reads the introduction to a brochure produced several years ago by the old Atomic Energy Commission on the subject of liquid metal fast breeder reactors.

The breeder was heralded at the time as the answer to the nation's future energy problems, producing more fissionable fuel than it consumed.

But much has changed in the years since, including the election of a president opposed to breeder development because of the threat of nuclear proliferation from increased production of plutonium. Since the accident at Three Mile Island, there has also been new concern about nuclear energy in general.

Through it all, work has progressed in the sagebrush-covered desert of the Hanford Atomic Reservation on the world's largest test breeder reactor, the Fast Flux Test Facility.

FFTF achieved initial "criticality" Feb. 9, meaning the reactor's first chain reaction occurred deep within its core. There was some back-slapping and a lot of smiles among the technicians and scientists. They have labored for more than 10 years on the project.

This milestone also seemed to signal the start of protests against the low-profile effort at Hanford.

A group known as the Hanford Conversion Project wants the FFTF investigated for safety reasons. It cites purported flaws in Fast Flux emergency shutdown and cooling systems.

Until now, FFTF administrators have never been in the same spotlight as their counterparts at the nearby site of Washington Public Power's controversial nuclear projects. Suddenly, they find themselves having to defend their $647 million project.

"I believe personally the one real hope the U.S. has is the FFTF plant," said John Nolan, project manager for Westinghouse, the firm building the reactor complex for the Department of Energy.

"If this country is to maintain a viable option to use uranium as a source of energy over the longer term, a breeder reactor is necessary."

"One of the things the FFTF will do is demonstrate the safe operation of fast reactors," said Dan Simpson, manager of FFTF safety and one of those involved with the project from the start. "Safety has been one of the elements of the design throughout, with the intention that fast reactors can and should be as safe as thermal reactors."

To some critics, the breeder intensifies already strong concerns about an already troubled nuclear industry.

The basic principle of breeder operation is the same as that of conventional light water reactors, which are the type generally depended on for generating electricity. Neutrons emanating from uranium atoms bombard other uranium atoms, causing them to split, giving off yet other neutrons and a host of fission by-products.

A large amount of heat is generated and can be used to drive turbines, thereby producing electricity. But the breeder would operate much "faster" than a conventional reactor. Neutrons within a breeder core would travel at a speed of more than 30 million miles per hour, compared to the 5,000 to 10,000 mph speed of neutrons in conventional reactors. Because water tends to slow the speed of neutrons, liquid sodium is used to cool the core of FFTF, which would be more than 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit during normal operation. But liquid sodium is a volatile substance, igniting on contact with air or water. The breeder is designed to produce large amounts of plutonium, a deadly substance that remains radioactive for several hundred thousand years.

Breeder critics express concern about the possibility of creating a black market for plutonium, which is valued at more than $100 per gram. They also contend that technological advances in the last few years have already answered many of the questions about breeder generated and can be used to drive turbines, thereby producing electricity.

Breeder critics express concern about the possibility of creating a black market for plutonium, which is valued at more than $100 per gram. They also contend that technological advances in the last few years have already answered many of the questions about breeder techniques that FFTF was designed to examine. Nolan, who was involved in administration of the stalled Clinch River breeder project until January, believes FFTF is still essential to the nation's energy program. He said the reactor is already committed to six years of testing once it becomes fully operational this summer.

"I think this country is going to need electrical power, and not having a viable option to develop a breeder reactor is a mistake," Nolan said.

The entire project represents nearly $1 billion in facilities which will test reactor components under actual fast breeder conditions.

The FFTF was to serve as the main proving ground for components to be used in the proposed Clinch River Breeder Reactor in Tennessee, but work on that project has been stalled by President Carter's opposition to breeder programs.

Even so, Westinghouse officials say they will proceed as scheduled over the next several years with tests to fine tune the fast breeder process.

Lowe's Pricing Policy

Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail price does not appreciably exceed the highest retail price at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at regular selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price or a regular price is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices.
