

Agreement By Allies On Economic, Energy Issues

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
VENICE, Italy (AP) — The summit of Allied leaders ended today with agreement on energy and economic issues, but the meeting of President Carter and leaders of six other industrialized nations was overshadowed by more urgent political issues, especially the military situation in Afghanistan. The allied leaders developed new goals to reduce oil imports, double coal production by 1990, and expand use of nuclear power and other alternate fuels, according to a draft of the joint accord that ended the two-day meeting. The participants also declared combating inflation to be their No. 1 priority and ranked energy concerns second. The economic and energy agreements amounted to ratification of almost identical goals set last month by the 20-nation International Energy Agency. There was little debate on the goals and agreement was so perfunctory the conference ended 2½ hours early.

The economic summit was dominated more by politics than economy. On Sunday, as the Allied leaders met for the first time in a year, the Soviet Union announced it was making a partial withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan.

Carter and his colleagues had planned all along to issue a fresh condemnation here of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, but they speeded their timetable by 24 hours and issued their declaration Sunday. The Allies were cautious in discussing the Soviet move.

Carter said the Soviet announcement would have "very little significance" unless it signified a permanent and complete withdrawal of Soviet troops.

On Monday, the economic issues were made final.

The leaders of the United States, Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Canada and Japan estimated that over the next decade they could increase energy sources other than oil at the equivalent of 15 to 20 million barrels of oil a day.

They pledged to make "a coordinated, vigorous effort to realize this potential" by increasing use of coal, nuclear power and synthetic fuels.

A doubling of the production and use of coal, long a neglected energy resource, would mean boom times for the coal mining sections of the United States, which have a significant export trade.

In addition, the leaders agreed that oil conservation goals set a year ago at the last economic summit in Tokyo will be made obsolete because of an anticipated reduction in world oil output in the years ahead.

As a consequence, the leaders decided to call for a further oil import cutback of 4 million barrels a day, to about 22 million barrels, by 1985. Individual targets for each country were not set.

If all the goals are met, the seven nations expect that oil will be reduced from 53 percent of their energy demand to 40 percent.

Carter had personally assured his summit colleagues on Sunday that the United States will resist pressures for "premature or excessive stimulation of the American economy."

White House press secretary Jody Powell reported that Carter's pledge was welcomed by the other leaders.

The American president ate a breakfast of bread, milk and cheese with 12 monks at a Benedictine monastery today and then held individual, private meetings with Prime Ministers Pierre Trudeau of Canada and Margaret Thatcher of England before attending the final summit sessions.

Other summit objectives were to include:

—Reducing health and safety hazards associated with nuclear power and minimizing risks of secret nuclear weapons production.

—Ending construction of oil-fired generating plants to conserve oil, and converting currently operating oil-fired plants to other fuels.

The summit schedule was derailed a bit Sunday by the Soviet announcement on its claimed withdrawal of troops from Afghanistan.

With the economic agenda routine, the leaders moved to discuss the Afghan situation. As Carter put it in chatting with American reporters, "this Soviet announcement (Continued on Page 8)

Soviet Division Said Pulling Out Of Afghanistan

MOSCOW (AP) — Radio Moscow announced today one Soviet troop division and 108 tanks were being withdrawn from Afghanistan and returned home. There are typically between 7,000 and 11,000 men in a Soviet division.

It was the first time the Kremlin has said how many of its troops were being pulled from the war-torn country at its southern border, where an estimated 85,000 Soviet troops were sent last Christmas.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said today that tanks, armored personnel carriers and infantry already had begun withdrawing in keeping with the Kremlin's announced partial pullout from Afghanistan — a withdrawal that has been greeted with heavy skepticism in the West.

The official Tass news agency reported from the Afghan capital of Kabul on Sunday that "according to information from the command of Soviet military contingents now staying in Afghanistan, some army units whose stay in Afghanistan is not necessary at present are being withdrawn these days to the territory of the Soviet Union on agreement with the Afghan government."

In a followup labeled an eyewitness account from the Afghan capital, Pravda correspondent L. Mironov described sun-tanned Russian soldiers saying goodbye to grizzled Afghan villagers after battling anti-communist Moslem rebels for six months and "fulfilling their international duty."

"Early this morning from the city's outskirts a long line of tanks and infantry began to stretch out. The residents of the villages and towns came out to see them off. The Soviet and Afghan friends made their parting handshakes and embraces," Mironov said in a dispatch dated Sunday.

He said after all the farewells were said the Soviet troops and war machines began their 300-mile journey home by road.

President Carter said he and the other Western heads of state meeting in Venice believed the Soviet announcement "can only be judged as significant if it's accurate, if it's permanent and if it's the first step toward total withdrawal." He suggested it was designed to increase participation in the Olympic Games next month in Moscow but said the U.S. boycott was "irrevocable."

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, told reporters, "It is much too early to label this as the beginning of a peace offensive." Secretary of State Edmund Muskie added: "Don't believe anything you don't see."

And the seven Western leaders attending the two-day summit in Venice called the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan "unacceptable" and demanded the complete withdrawal of Soviet forces.

Some 85,000 Soviet troops have been in Afghanistan since December helping the Marxist government battle anti-communist Moslem rebels.

Tass responded to the American statements in Venice with scorn, labeling them "slandorous" and an attempt to "camouflage with verbiage U.S. actions aimed at heightening tension..."

Without specifically mentioning Muskie by name, Tass said: "A spokesman for the U.S. State Department commented on the report from Kabul in a slanderous tone characteristic of him, concerning the policy of the Soviet Union in Southwest Asia."

Leading diplomats here speculated the partial pullback announcement was timed to cause dissension among Western leaders meeting in Venice and might be more cosmetic than real.

Five People Are Dead In Shooting At Church

DAINGERFIELD, Texas (AP) — Alvin King III was supposed to go on trial today. His daughter had filed a charge of incest, and King needed some character witnesses. But several members of the First Baptist Church, where he used to go to services, had turned him down.

On Sunday, police say, King kicked open the doors of the church as the congregation sang "More About Jesus." People in the back rows turned around and saw a man in steel helmet and flak jacket, carrying two rifles and two handguns.

He shouted, "This is war!" and opened fire.

In the next few moments five people, including a 7-year-old girl, were killed or fatally shot. Ten others were wounded. King was wrestled outside by two ushers who were killed in the struggle, police said, and then he ended it by shooting himself in the head.

He was in critical condition early today, but expected to survive.

King, 45, a former high school math teacher with a Ph.D. in psychology who had quit teaching seven years ago and become a farmer, was charged with capital murder.

The tragedy in this east Texas town of 2,600 began at about 11:20 a.m. with the gunman's abrupt entrance into the church. Police said he carried M-1 and AR-15 rifles and .38-caliber and .22-caliber revolvers.

He fired first with an M-1 rifle.

"Those bullets were flying," said Arthur Greaves, 39, who was shot in the shoulder. "Some of the congregation started falling in between the pews and some started jumping up and down. People were screaming and crying and taking on. Boy, was it pitiful!"

The sounds of the shooting were broadcast live on radio station KEGG, which normally carries Sunday services.

"Everybody started screaming and they saw it was for real," Greaves said. "Then I saw this poor little girl lying in a puddle of blood. The little girl was sitting next to us in the back row. I'll never forget that. There she lay."

Police said the gunman fired at random, hitting 13 people in the first fusillade. Of those, Gina Linam, 7, and Thelma Richardson, 78, were killed immediately. Both were shot in the head. Gene Gandy, 50, died of a gunshot wound to the stomach about 11 hours later in a nearby hospital.

The toll could have been much higher, officials said, but for three men's heroics.

'Claim' Murder Credit

ROME (AP) — A young terrorist got off a motorcycle and fired three bullets into the back of the head of an assistant state prosecutor standing at a crowded bus stop in a residential area north of Rome today, killing him instantly, police reported. Rightist and leftist groups claimed responsibility.

Police said the gunman, wearing a helmet with a dark shield covering his face, stepped from a powerful motorcycle driven by an accomplice, approached Mario Amato, a 43-year-old anti-terrorist investigator, and calmly fired.

In separate telephone calls to newspapers callers claimed the killing for both the far-right Armed Revolutionary Nuclei and the far-left Red Brigades.

Police said they tended to believe the rightist organization was responsible because Amato had been one of the most active investigators of rightist terrorist groups.

An anonymous male caller told the pro-Communist Rome newspaper Paese Sera he represented the Armed Revolutionary Nuclei and said, "We claim the attack against Judge Mario Amato."

Another anonymous male caller told the Genoa newspaper Secolo XIX said Amato's killing was the work of the Red Brigades, Italy's most feared ultra-leftist urban guerrilla group. "This is the Red Brigades. We have killed Magistrate Amato."

Police quoted numerous witnesses as saying that after his attack the gunman walked on foot a few yards on a street in the Montesacro area where his accomplice was waiting and both sped away.

Police said they found the motorcycle used by the two abandoned on a street in the Montesacro area.

Concern Over N.C. Electric Reserves

another big power plant goes out, there goes your reserve for the region."

Spokemen for power companies operating in North Carolina and for the Utilities Commission say they expect the supply of electricity will be sufficient this summer, but they indicate reserves will be tighter than they've been in recent years.

Robert B. Koger, chairman of the commission, said he believed the situation would improve as plants now out of service are returned to use.

"We hope it won't be a problem. It's certainly a situation we'll be watching closely," Koger said.

Electric companies prefer to have about 20 percent more generating capacity available than the expected highest demand. A minimum margin would be 5 percent to 10 percent.

A survey of utilities indicates that reserves are on the low side.

Duke Power Co. has its 1.1 million kilowatt Belews Creek plant out of service for repairs during most of the summer. The utility expects to have no reserves in July and only 5 percent in August when its projected summer peak occurs. The August figure is based on the assumption that Duke Power will be able to return to service two power units now shut down at its Oconee nuclear plant.

Carolina Power & Light Co. will have about 5 percent reserve for its peak demand in late July and August.

"This doesn't take into consideration the loss of a major unit," said Lynn W. Eury, CP&L vice president for power supply. Two of CP&L's three generating units at the Brunswick nuclear plant are now out of service. Both units are expected to be operationable by July 4, but CP&L's Robinson plant in South Carolina is scheduled for refueling — and will be out of operation — in late July and August.

Virginia Electric & Power Co. reports it will have a 20 percent excess generating capacity, but the company in June reduced its voltage by 5 percent and appealed to customers for conservation. On that date, Vepco had a peak demand of 6.2 million kilowatts but could generate only 3.3 million kilowatts. The utility had to buy power from other utilities to meet the demand.

Vepco officials said the shortages in June stemmed from unexpected outages coinciding with the end of spring maintenance work at several plants. "We don't expect it to happen again," said Jack H. Ferguson, Vepco's vice president for power supply.

Indira's Son In Fatal Accident

By GENE KRAMER

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Sanjay Gandhi, heir-

apparent to an Indian political dynasty ruled by his mother, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, was killed today along with his flight instructor in the crash of their light stunt plane. Witnesses said the plane stalled during a series of acrobatic loops and plummeted into a clump of trees.

India's vice president said the nation was "thunderstruck" by the death.

Numerous shops in the bustling capital closed their doors as news of the crash spread and people gathered in groups to discuss it.

The 33-year-old Sanjay, who leaves a wife and infant son, is to be cremated Tuesday after a funeral service.

The grandson of Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first prime minister, Sanjay was one of his mother's closest advisers and following his election to Parliament in January appeared to be preparing to follow in the family's political footsteps.

"I thought each and every bone of that young man is fractured," said an Indian police officer who saw Sanjay's body at the scene of the crash.

Sanjay was pronounced dead at a hospital along with Capt. Subash Saxena, chief instructor of the Delhi Flying Club.

The two men had been doing loops in a U.S.-built Pitt SA-2 biplane when the craft stalled and crashed near the Safdarjung Airport, a small field in southern New Delhi.

The plane fell near the official residence of the prime minister. Mrs. Gandhi sped to the scene, which was cordoned off by hundreds of police, and later went to the hospital where she was seen trying to comfort the mother of instructor Saxena.

It was not immediately known who had control of the high-performance single-engine biplane when it crashed. The plane, specially designed for aerobatics, had arrived in India earlier this month, airport sources said.

The government ordered an immediate investigation of the crash.

'TRUE COMPASSION'

My mother, Reatha Holliday, 65, fell Friday morning in front of Overton's Supermarket and hurt her arm. It was a busy time, yet Charles Overton went out and helped her up and made her comfortable. Then, because she could not drive herself home, he sent two of his employees, Sam Davis and Fannie Perry, to take her and her car home. They couldn't have been nicer, either. I am so impressed to find a businessman concerned about something besides the running of his business. My mother was shown true compassion. N. H.

Dear Abby

Stripped-Down Gander Is Sauce for Goose

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: One night after bowling, three of us women (all married) on an impulse to stop at a club that features male striptease dancers.

We were amazed to find it packed with screaming women of all ages having the time of their lives. The male strippers had gorgeous bodies; their dancing was rather suggestive, but they were all talented singers and dancers. They stripped down to practically nothing, but you could see as much at any public beach.

The evening turned out to be a lot of fun, and we thought we'd probably go again and maybe even take our husbands.

But when we told our husbands about our little adventure, one said he was shocked and disappointed to learn that his wife had such cheap, vulgar, low-down taste!

Another husband took it personally, saying it was a putdown to him, that a wife who was satisfied with her own husband wouldn't go out of her way to look at another man's body.

My husband said if I got a kick out of it, it was OK with him, and it might even improve our marriage to have a few new fantasies to draw on.

Abby, how do you feel about women who go to see male strippers?

BEV IN PENN.

DEAR BEV: If a woman gets goosebumps from taking a gander at a good-looking guy, I say what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been employed at the same place for a number of years. He enjoys his work and earns a good living there.

Recently a new man became his boss. The first time this man came to our home I thought he was a nice person, but the next time he made a pass at me. I told him I wasn't interested in him in that way and to please leave me alone, but he didn't seem to get the message. Now every time he sees me he starts up again.

I know my husband would quit his job if he knew about this, so I haven't told him. I don't want him to leave his job as long as he's happy there. What should I do?

CONFUSED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR CONFUSED: Assume a polite but clearly impersonal attitude toward this man. And keep your distance. You don't need your husband's help to protect you from unwanted attention.

Little Reaction To Pitt Budget Plans

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

There was very little reaction from the public on the proposed 1980-1981 Pitt County budget at a hearing held Thursday by the Board of County Commissioners.

Greenville city school superintendent Glenn Cox was the first of five people to appear at the hearing, saying, "We're aware of the demands placed on the commissioners," and asking that the board, "continue to give us your consideration."

Pat Dunn, representing the League of Women Voters, asked a number of questions, including what effects a reduction in funding for the city schools from the amount the Board of Education requested initially, would have on programs and personnel.

She was told that since the budget has not been finalized, the effect on programs is not certain. However, budget deletions will necessitate, "salary cuts from what we had proposed," Cox said.

County Manager Reginald

Gray explained that county funds for schools are allocated on a per capita basis, according to the student population in the city and county systems.

A decrease in the student population in the city system, he said, has resulted in the city receiving a smaller percentage of county money this year. It has also resulted in the loss of several state-allocated positions.

Les Fuchs, president of ALPHA Aviation, the fixed base operator at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, took issue with the proposed Airport Authority budget for the coming fiscal year.

Fuchs, whose firm has been trying to take over fuel sales at the airport from the Airport Authority for the past several years, told commissioners that by selling fuel, the Authority is placed in the position of competing with private enterprise.

Presenting an alternate budget for consideration by commissioners, Fuchs said that the recommended 10 percent increase in expenditures for airport operations could be reduced to six percent, "if the fuel concession were given back to private enterprise."

Airport Authority chairman Jim Little countered Fuchs' contention by saying that the prime purpose for the Authority maintaining the fuel concession is, "reducing the required subsidy," provided by the county and city.

"We'd like to see it (ALPHA) make a profit... to succeed," Little emphasized.

However, he said it would be, "a very uneconomical move," for the Authority to give up the fuel sales. "We believe the income derived from the sale of that fuel... (is) a very important savings to the taxpayers."

He explained that the people who sell the fuel are the same ones who operate and maintain the flight facility. The money derived from the sale of fuel, he explained, helps to defray the costs in maintaining and operating the airport.

"It would cost the taxpayers $20,000 more (a year) if gas sales were cut out," Little contended.

The county appropriation for the airport authority's operating budget for the current year was $18,500, while total expenditures through June 30 have been estimated at $20,800. The authority has requested $36,855 for the coming year, while some $20,350 has been recommended by the county manager.

Continuing their review of the budget for the coming year, following the public hearing, commissioners heard Little renew a request from the authority for capital outlay money to help fund expansion of the terminal building.

Little said the expansion is needed to meet Federal Aviation Administration security requirements and provide additional space for the 12,000 passengers a year that use the facility.

termining the security problem, "very serious," as far as commuter airline operations at the airport are concerned, Little noted that Pitt-Greenville is the only airport in the state, "that doesn't have security clearance," for passengers. He added that the problem will be expanded if a second commuter airline begins service at Pitt-Greenville as expected. The present 1,400 square foot terminal building is inadequate, he said. The present 723 acre airport, Little noted, would cost some $10 million to replace.

Commissioners scheduled another budget review session for Tuesday.

Suspect Canned Meat To Blame

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Canned meat that was reheated may have caused the apparent food poisoning of about 500 soldiers at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, a military spokesman says.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Ed Darrow said Sunday there was speculation that when the meat was reheated, it may not have been warmed enough to kill bacteria.

Some 127 recruits were admitted to Balboa Park Naval Hospital on Saturday after eating breakfast. They were being treated Sunday for dehydration, nausea and stomach cramps, a Marine spokesman said.

Miss Hill, Mr. Boyd Say Vows On Sunday

Carolyn Jean Hill and William Ralph Boyd, both of Greenville, were united in marriage Sunday at three o'clock during a double ring ceremony at Hooker Memorial Christian Church here.

The Rev. Ralph Messick officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Rosemary Fisher was organist and Mrs. Todd Pair sang "Devoted To You," "Wedding Song" and "A Wedding Benediction."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winton Lee Hill and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roy Boyd, all of Greenville.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor length white gown with a chapel train of organza and Venise lace. The empire bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline and full length lace trimmed organza sleeves cuffed at the wrist. Venise lace adorned with seed pearls outlined the neckline and bordered the hemline. She chose a layered chapel mantilla bordered with lace flowing from a lace cap etched with seed pearls.

The bride carried a formal cascade of white cattleya and phalaenopsis, orchids and cascades of miniature carnations entwined with spingerii tied with white velvet.

Lou Ormond of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of maize organza over taffeta. The gown was designed with an open off the shoulder neckline with self-fabric shoulder straps and a ruffled organza collar. The A-line skirt was enhanced by a ruffled flounce at the hemline which extended up the back of the gown to form a bustle. She wore a maize garden hat adorned with a ribbon and flowers and carried a white wicker princess basket filled with yellow and white daisies and baby's breath tied with a yellow satin bow with streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jed Leazer, Lynn Boyd, Lee Boyd, sisters of the bridegroom of Greenville, and Kimberley Alexander, cousin of the bride of Chesapeake, Va. The bridesmaids wore gowns and carried baskets fashioned like that of the honor attendant.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Tommy Dail, Phyllis Jones and Susan Haynie, all of Greenville. They wore formal gowns and carried a long-stemmed yellow rose.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers included Lee and Howard Hill, brothers of the bride, Jed Leazer, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Tommy Dail, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of strawberry chiffon fashioned with a fitted waist and a rosette at the waistline. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of blue chiffon over peau de soie. Her gown was fashioned with a blouson bodice. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Grandmothers Mrs. Howard Alexander, Mrs. Alex Hill and Mrs. Ralph Tarkington were remembered with white carnation corsages.

Mrs. Marie Cox directed the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony the reception, given by the bride's parents, was held in the church fellowship building. Mr. and Mrs. Durward Harris greeted guests. Mrs. Myrtle Younce attended the guest register while Mrs. Gilbert Alexander poured punch and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson served cake. All are aunts of the bride. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Coy Avery.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Greenville. The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and Pitt Community College. She is employed at Tar Heel Service Industries, Inc. The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and is currently attending East Carolina University. He is employed at Cox Floral Service, Inc.

Terri Lynne Avery Is Bride

AYDEN — Terri Lynne Avery and Randy Gentry McLawhon were united in marriage Sunday at the Liberty Free Will Baptist Church here. The double ring ceremony was conducted by Raymond Gaskins.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hilda L. Martins of Washington, and the late Mr. Herman Hoover Avery. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gentry V. McLawhon of Bethel.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Sue Edwards, organist, and

Kenneth Cobb sang "Evergreen," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her stepfather, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with cluny and miniature silk Venise lace. The empire bodice was enhanced by a sheer yoke of English net featuring embroidered motifs beaded with pearls. The yoke was outlined in miniature floral Venise lace, crystal pleating and ruffled cluny lace. Applied lace centered the waistline back and the full bishop sleeves featured lace and pleating at the cuffs. The modified A-line skirt had an inserted panel of accordion pleats outlined in lace with an attached chapel train. She wore a fingertip length veil of illusion bordered in cluny lace attached to a lace Juliet cap and carried a bouquet of crimson roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Lou Tugwell of Farmville was her sister's honor attendant. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Elaine Boyette of Grimesland, and Kecia McLawhon of Bethel, sisters of the bridegroom.

When sun and brightness are bothersome, many people hold the mistaken belief that eyes must be protected from the sun. It simply is not true. Eyes are light receivers. Light stimulates the retina in order for it to register shadow. Bright light may have an exaggerated impact if one is tense. Eye muscles will tighten and thus cut off circulation. However, as any sun bather knows, the natural light of the sun does wonders to relax muscles. Sunshine also stimulates the optic nerve and aids in visual purple replacement by the retina. Good vision takes place in light and not in darkness.

Unity Show Important

Make no mistake about it. It is a serious mission that will have lasting effects on the western world.

Carter's aim will be the restoration of unity among our allies. The alliance is strained by differences over Iran, Afghanistan and the Middle East peace talks.

In leaving the president said, "We are not motivated by hostility or by any desire for reckless confrontation or a return to the Cold War. But we must sustain world opposition to Soviet aggression and not allow the Soviets to derive any permanent benefits from their invasion of the neutral nation of Afghanistan."

He saw the alliance as founded on understanding.

The president is to meet with leaders of France, Germany, Great Britain, Japan, Canada and Italy in Venice.

The Soviet dominated communist block is, indeed, controlled by military might, and it understand one thing — power. If they see the Western alliance as arguing and disorganized, if they picture us as militarily weak, then the Soviet leaders are certain to make other military moves as they have in Afghanistan.

That is why a show of unity is so important to the Western nations.

Now Congress Is Concerned

Amazing things happen in election years. Just last week, for instance the U.S. Senate approved a bill to authorize $20 billion for development of synthetic fuel.

Congress has hardly moved on the energy crisis, but as elections approach, the congressmen begin to catch up with national concern over the energy problem. It is known that we have various forms of energy which, if properly developed, can be used to end our dependence on imported oil. We only hope the enthusiasm for developing the sources will continue after November.

THIS AFTERNOON

Age Of Electronics

By BILL NOBLITT
ROCKINGHAM — The Age of Electronics has dawned in North Carolina textile mills.

Those who will remember, fondly or otherwise, the steamy, cluttered, lint-filled, ear-busting old brick buildings which have long dominated the state's hundreds of mill hills would think they're watching a space fantasy movie to see Burlington's newest and the world's most modern plant here.

The loom's need yarn? A tiny computer signals the main computer which radios Prontow. The electric cart trundles along the floor tracking a signal from a tiny groove. Doors glide open and shut.

In the warehouse, conveyors move racks of yarn to the proper place where they are automatically lowered to the loading point.

Beeping and blinking, Prontow starts...loads...u stops...delivers the yarn to the proper loom. Takes off the empties and puts new material in place.

Water
In the looms which click along at a dizzy pace, no shuttle flies back and forth picking and sticking and slowing things down. A jet stream of water flies the yarn through, and other Prontows run around gathering up the big rolls of finished cloth and loading them for delivery.

All this in air-conditioned comfort in surroundings which prompted the Rev. William Leathers, president of the Richmond County Ministerial Association, to thank the Lord in his invocation at opening ceremonies the other day for the quiet, efficient, and clean work center which will mean so much to so many textile employees.

This is high technology come to mill hill, and the kind of thing which government officials and textile executives agree must be done in the mills to assure that this foundation of North Carolina's economy will survive.

The industry has entered a capital intensive age, says Burlington chief executive Bill Klopman. This plant cost $40 million. Last year Burlington spent $400 million in North Carolina, modernizing and updating plants and equipment.

Right now, Burlington and this new plant are on the cutting edge of the future. "But this is one of the few brand new plants built in our country in recent years, and whether more facilities like this will be built in the United States and, specifically, North Carolina depends on if our government does something soon to encourage capital investment," Klopman says.

Will North Carolina see more plants like this in coming years?

High Cost
What does capital intensive mean? It used to cost something like $18,000 per employee to build and equip a textile mill. With highspeed water looms and computer equipment, that figure has zoomed to nearly $90,000. A machine costing a quarter of a million is not unusual. Looms costing $30,000 apiece are routine.

Yet government tax rules spread the cost of new equipment over 20 years.

Hunting The Jewish Vote

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — At a private meeting June 10 in Manhattan's plush Harmonie Club, 18 prominent Jewish leaders whose common bond is Ronald Reagan speeded up the mad chase for the Jewish vote by all parties in 1980, a pursuit menacing U.S. policy in the Mideast that could lead to drastic breakaway action by Israel.

The meeting, presided over by Los Angeles businessman and longtime Reaganite Albert A. Spiegel, pored over data and intelligence for eight hours. Their conclusion: Reagan could win over 40 percent of the Jewish vote, enough to elect him president. Jewish trust in President Carter has been destroyed, said Spiegel.

Those blue sky prospects mean there is slight chance that either Reagan or independent candidate John Anderson would seriously protest any adventurous excesses by Menahem Begin's Israeli government between now and Nov. 4. Furthermore, it is Begin's alienation from President Carter that makes the rush for the strategically-placed Jewish vote so frenetic by all three candidates.

The early stage of this rush has damaged U.S. efforts to solve the Arab-Israeli struggle. Some officials believe it may stimulate dangerous Israeli action — perhaps another military invasion of Lebanon — before the election.

Paying court to the Jewish vote during presidential campaign seasons has never before reached the peak of these early 1980 maneuverings — including the liberties Carter has given Vice President Walter Mondale, his chief political surrogate. In a recent New York speech to the National Council of Young Israel, Mondale said that "We support the right of Jews ... to live anywhere they choose to live, including the West Bank."

That might seem to collide with Carter's much-advertised opposition to Jewish settlements on the West Bank, which he calls illegal and an obstacle to peace. Mondale avoided the word "settlements," but to the foreign ministries of Saudi Arabia, Egypt and other moderate Arab states, the distinction is a blur that raises questions about Carter's credibility.

Saying that Jews could live anywhere on the West Bank they wanted brought sustained applause for Mondale, but the anti-Carter animus of the American Jewish community is not about to dissipate because of such political ploys. The upbeat mood at Spiegel's pro-Reagan planning session stems from the belief that Carter is perceived by many Jewish voters as a threat to Israel's future.

Cashing in on this distrust, Reagan has gone to ludicrous lengths to defend his own integrity with American Jews. He denied he had told Egyptian Ambassador Ashraf Ghorbal that if elected he would seek "a comprehensive peace settlement" — which to many American Jews connotes giving up the West Bank.

Public opinion polls show Anderson's standing with Jews to be extremely high, and he aims to keep it that way. He has directed his agents to tell Jewish leaders that ex-Under Secretary of State George Ball, Anderson's earliest foreign policy adviser, will not be allowed to advise him on the Mideast. Within the American Jewish community, Ball is despised for alleged bias against Israel.

U.S. officials think this political climate spurs Israel into making new demands and contemplating new military ventures. Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, one of Begin's closest confidants and chief strategist for Israel's settlements policy, last month publicly recruited Orthodox Jewish youth in New York to come to Israel and help settle the West Bank.

Speaking to the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, Gen. Sharon called on his audience to "send groups to Judea and Samaria, even temporarily, as a symbol." One Carter political adviser told us that recruiting Americans to fulfill an Israeli policy that President Carter calls "illegal" could not have happened in a non-election year.

The Jewish vote is too valuable for any presidential

All Saving The Country

WASHINGTON — The Democratic National Committee (read the Carter campaign) is pouring thousands of dollars into an effort to keep John Anderson off state ballots in his independent bid for President.

Some people may think this is dirty pool, but a Democratic friend of mine believes it is the only way to save the country.

"All we're trying to do," he told me, "is preserve the two-party system, which could be irretrievably harmed if we allowed the American people a third choice."

"It is rumored that you are not as much concerned about the two-party system as you are that Anderson will take votes away from President Carter," I said.

"That's Republican hogwash," he said indignantly. "We're not only fighting for ourselves but for them as well. What kind of democracy would we have if we permitted every John, Dick and Harry to run for the Presidency? If Anderson gets on the ballot he'll only confuse the electorate. It's hard enough for the people to choose between Carter and Reagan in November, without throwing in a nobody who could siphon off electoral

"It's obvious that you don't understand the political process in this country," my friend said angrily. "There is a lot more to it than just electing a President."

"Such as what?"
"Political patronage for one thing. If an independent was elected, he wouldn't know how to reward the people who worked for him during a campaign. The Republicans and the Democrats have a system for patronage and are able to fill all the jobs that it takes to run a government."

"Couldn't Anderson learn how to reward his campaign workers?"

"It would be very messy," my friend replied. "Independents have no loyalty to anybody. Besides how can a two-party Congress work with a President that doesn't owe any debt to them?"

"But the only reason you people are taking Anderson seriously is because the public seems to be very unhappy with their choices this year. If neither party can come up with an acceptable candidate, don't you believe that Americans should be able to pull the lever for a third person?"

"Anderson is a spoiler. He knows he has no chance of winning. He's hoping he can get enough votes to throw the election into the House so he can look good."

"What's wrong with that?" I asked.
"It's messy. What the country needs right now is a clean-cut victory for its next President, so we can show the world we've given our leader votes."

"If he's a nobody, why are you going to so much trouble to keep him off the ballots?"

"Because we're fighting for a principle. If we allowed Anderson to run as an independent this time, we'd have to open the election to anyone in this country who gets it in his head he should be President. The Democratic and Republican parties ought to be the ones who provide the candidates. We have the machinery to do it, and also the know-how. No one can tell what an independent would do if he became President."

"Maybe that's why so many people want to vote for one," I suggested.

Other Editors Say Strong Solution

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

A bill introduced by Senator Henson Barnes of Wayne County is moving through the General Assembly with unaccustomed speed for any measure before the Legislature.

There have been a few howls from those who say the Legislature is acting hastily; but we read the priority being given a measure making mandatory and lengthening prison sentences for big-time drug dealers as a response to widespread public concern over the illicit dope traffic.

Under the bill, mandatory penalties for having marijuana would range from five years and $50,000 for 50 to 100 pounds to 16 years and $200,000 fine for five tons or more.

Persons caught with as much as four grams of heroin could draw mandatory fines of $10,000 and spend six years behind bars.

Second degree murder charges could be brought against a person selling drugs that cause the death of a user.

One opponent of such strong punishment lamented that dope dealers, faced with such dismal prospects, might not hesitate to have witnesses killed.

That could well be. And it would not be the first time that witnesses planned for dope trials never made it to court. But there are measures that can be taken to protect witnesses.

Above all the strong penalties should serve as a deterrent to those who today have such a cavalier attitude about engaging in marijuana, heroin or other drug enterprises.

When those making fortunes off the misery of others by promoting and selling dope see some of their friends and coworkers being packed off to jail for longer periods, and others who might have been tempted, will seek safer enterprises.

North Carolina today is regarded as one of the leading dope smuggling states in the nation, second, perhaps, only to Florida.

Such a problem demands serious and strong solutions. Senator Barnes' bill promises to be one of the solutions.

Strength For Today

LEADS TO TRIUMPH

King Nebuchadnezzar in a dream saw a great image, the head of which was fine gold. The breast and arms were silver; the legs were brass and the feet were modeled out of clay.

This figure symbolizes some of our undertakings and purposes. Very often our preliminary plans are like the head of this image — made of fine gold. But once we get started on our projects we begin to slacken. The gold blends into silver and later into brass. Finally we give up some of our best projects altogether, because we are tired, disillusioned, or discouraged. Then what started out with a head of gold turns out to have feet of clay.

Paul, writing to the Galatians, said, "Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." With King Nebuchadnezzar's image in our minds, we need to remind ourselves that we were made for triumph if we put steel in our determination. — Elisha Douglass

McNeil Corp.: Super Landlord

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)

One hundred million dollars a year in rents from 31,000 tenants pour into one office here. It is the headquarters of one of the country's superlandlords, the Robert A. McNeil Corp.

The McNeil Corp. manages real estate worth about $1 billion, made up of apartment houses, office buildings, and shopping malls and centers. It is almost always in the market — to sell as well as buy.

Together with its many partners, it is perhaps the country's largest owner of garden-style apartment buildings, which it customarily sells at 6 to 8 years of ownership, when it has used up the larger portion of the tax benefits that accrue to owners.

The McNeil company is a type of landlord that many Americans are only vaguely aware of, a syndicator who sells limited partnerships to investors, just as stock brokers sell shares in a manufacturing concern.

Investors become partners in the ventures, of which more than 20 are now active, by putting up a minimum of $5,000 through their brokers. Most have done well. Two ventures, now liquidated, returned 24 percent.

"We believe real estate to be a truly capitalistic form of business," says Allen Cymrot, president.

By that, he said, he meant that "prices and costs should be determined by supply-demand, with reasonable (tenant) protection restraints." The Robert McNeil Corp. avoids rent-control areas.

Not that tenants are to be viewed solely as rent-producers. A well managed building, says Cymrot, serves tenants well, and he laments that "landlords have permitted themselves to have a bad image."

"Many of the good things that landlords do don't get publicity," he said. "Such as providing a better way to live, and providing transportation to shops and care of children."

Real estate, said Cymrot is a business and it must be operated as a business. His point became clear before he reached his conclusion: If the landlord doesn't make a profit, he can't provide housing.

The Robert A. McNeil Corp., founded in 1949 as a single-office home mortgage company by its current chairman of that name, is run as a business. (Should it not be, it would run afoul of regulators.)

Central to the headquarters operation is its library, over which Cymrot puts no budgetary limit. It includes any items that might affect investments in 114 cities. His goal is 200.

"We study all the state capitals carefully," he says. "Capitals generally have good interstate highways, railroads, airports, good schools and hospitals."

The presence of these is important to industry, and industry means jobs. Government mean jobs too, and stability as well. "It tends not to lay off," says Cymrot.

Among the more interesting areas to investor Cymrot, a former securities executive, are Tulsa, Tucson, Denver, Seattle and vicinity, Austin, Nashville, Raleigh-Durham, Charlotte, and Stamford, Conn.

"The future is reasonably predictable if you have sufficient information," he says, pulling maps and files from the library shelves. He hopes eventually to have the information available on video display terminals so senior executives will have instant access.

Since Cymrot's regional executives size up properties all over the nation, he pays particular attention to population shifts. "Tremendous changes are taking place," he says. What, for example?

"Well," he said, "prior to the latest census less than 50 percent of the Americans lived west of the Mississippi. Now we'll discover that more than 50 percent of the country live to the West of it."

He attaches great significance to the shift — changed attitudes, a different House of Representatives, a younger population to the west, less union power, which he associates with the industrial Northeast.

Whatever trends Cymrot and his staff are studying, one will never be out of mind. Rent control is anathema. It destroys investments, and because it does it leads to housing shortages and decay, he said.

To the editor:
A letter in a recent issue of "The Daily Reflector" by a Mr. Raz Autry is so ridiculous it hardly is worthy of a response. However, I must take issue with the statement in which Mr. Autry implies that the Ayatollah Khomeini is not a religious man. Indeed, the Ayatollah is probably one of the most religious men on earth. And judging from the harsh and radical tone of Mr. Autry's voice to the people, one wonders if he and Mr. Khomeini might not share the same sacred principles.

Combine The Old And New In Energy Sources

ATLANTA (AP) — A mixture of old and new energy sources combined with technology can produce a fuel that could supply the United States with enough oil to avert drastic shortages, according to Georgia Tech researchers.

The project involves syngas, a mixture of carbon monoxide and hydrogen produced by combining two old energy forms — steam and coal. If Tech scientists are successful, solar energy also will be used in the process.

Tech researcher Steve Bomar Jr. said the Germans used liquefied syngas to power warplanes during World War II, when the Allies cut off most of their petroleum supplies.

"It is possible to see political situations in the world where we might have to use syngas like the Germans did," Bomar said.

He said that while the Germans burned part of their coal to make syngas, Tech scientists propose to force solar-heated steam through a bed of unburned coal to make them.

The researchers then will increase the energy content by raising the temperature in the "syngas reactor" to 1,800 degrees with intense sunlight beamed from a field of solar mirrors.

Bomar said the abundant coal reserves in the United States, combined with the sun's rays to produce steam and supply direct heat to the gas-making process, would eliminate dependence on foreign sources for fuel.

He estimated that the liquefied syngas, used as a replacement for gasoline, would cost about $5 per gallon. He added, however, that gasoline is estimated to cost about that within a decade.

"In that case, syngas would be competitive," said Bomar. "Of course, it may be that cost will become secondary if it becomes a national defense kind of problem."

He added that coal supplies would be stretched by not having to burn coal in the process and said waste paper or sawdust might be used in place of coal, solving some waste-disposal problems.

The raw syngas could serve as a replacement for natural gas, liquefied forms could replace gasoline and compounds from syngas could take the place of petroleum in fertilizer and plastics, he said.

Bomar said his research team plans to submit a proposal to the U.S. Department of Energy to build a syngas reactor at Georgia Tech.

Two Arrested For Radio Theft

Greenville police Sunday arrested two men on breaking, entering and larceny charges after they allegedly attempted to take a radio from a truck parked in a lot at the intersection of Fourth and Washington Streets.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Eugene McKinley Webb, 30 of Route 5, Washington, and Bobby Ray Webb, 26 of Route 4, Washington, were placed under $1,500 bond each in connection with the case.

He reported that the Webbs allegedly entered a truck owned by Mark Todd Baur of Route 1, Plymouth and caused an estimated $50 damage to the vehicle while removing the $150 radio.

a mandate. By going into court and keeping Anderson off the ballot, we're trying to give the people a clear choice between an experienced President, who knows how to deal with inflation, energy and the Soviet threat, as opposed to an ex-movie actor who could get us into World War III."

"If you feel that way about it," I said, "why don't you spend your money to keep Reagan off the ballot?"

"Because he has won his party's primaries and happens to be the Republicans' choice. We have to respect it even if we don't agree with it. On the other hand, Anderson was nobody's choice. He just stayed in the race out of spite when he was rejected by his own party. We can't let him get away with that."

"But," I said, "since he's a Republican don't you think they should be the ones to try to stop him from getting on the ballot?"

"We wish they would. We think it would be in everybody's interest if this was a non-partisan effort. But they don't seem to worry as much as we do about the two-party system."

"I imagine from what you've said that you're not worried about a backlash from the electorate for your party's efforts to deep-six Anderson?"

"Why should we be worried? Carter has the election in the bag."

candidate to rise above, and that is particularly true for Reagan. Concentrated in a few large states, it could swing the balance.

With such a glittering target, Carter, Reagan and Anderson will not limit their promises to Israel. However much that tempts Israel between now and the election, it will not make any easier the hard decisions concerning the Mideast required of the man who takes the oath next Jan. 20.

Plan Dedicating Of Burn Center

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The $12 million North Carolina Burn Center, which has come before the public eye during the recent controversy over Jaycee funds raised for the facility, will be dedicated this fall, according to one of its prime sponsors.

Goldsboro businessman John W. Stackhouse said the first patients probably will be admitted in December to the center, which will be housed in a wing under construction at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

Dedication is scheduled for November. Ground was broken for the center in 1977 but delays caused by weather and changes in the building design have stretched out the timetable and slowed the over-all construction program.

Stackhouse said funding has come from several sources in addition to the Jaycees, who have acknowledged that an estimated $191,000 in money raised for the center through the sale of jelly had been diverted to other Jaycee purposes. Jaycee spokesmen say the money will be repaid.

Stackhouse, cochairman of the center's board of trustees, said the Jaycee controversy was "a small obstacle compared to some we've had" in bringing along the burn center to completion.

He launched the idea for the burn center after employees of his contracting firm received severe electrical burns in the late 1960s. His efforts to find treatment for the workers led Stackhouse to seek additional treatment in this state for burn victims, whose treatment costs often range as high as $200,000.

North Carolina Memorial Hospital currently has only five beds for burn cases. With the new center, the bed capacity will go to 23. Stackhouse said that, in addition to the physical facilities, treatment of burn victims includes psychologists and other clinical personnel to work with parents, teachers, neighbors and others in the patient's environment to help them understand the special problems of a burn victim.

"Your Energy Saving Headquarters"

What do you get for your money at BB&T?

Sure, you get checking and savings here. And all kinds of special services. So what sets Branch Banking and Trust Company apart?

Simple. The kind of service we give—and the hard work we put behind that service.

A friendly smile is great. But a commitment has to be something more.

In your day-in-and-day-out dealings with a bank—ours or anybody else's—you rarely get beyond the teller's window. So if our tellers keep smiling, we've made your banking more pleasant. And that's what personal service is all about, right?

We don't think so. We think it has to go deeper than that.

For example, you probably don't care if the person in charge of putting together your checking statement has a friendly smile. But you do want that person to do the job right.

You want a loan officer who'll answer your questions. A branch manager who'll listen. And a bank president who'll inspire his people to develop and offer better products and services.

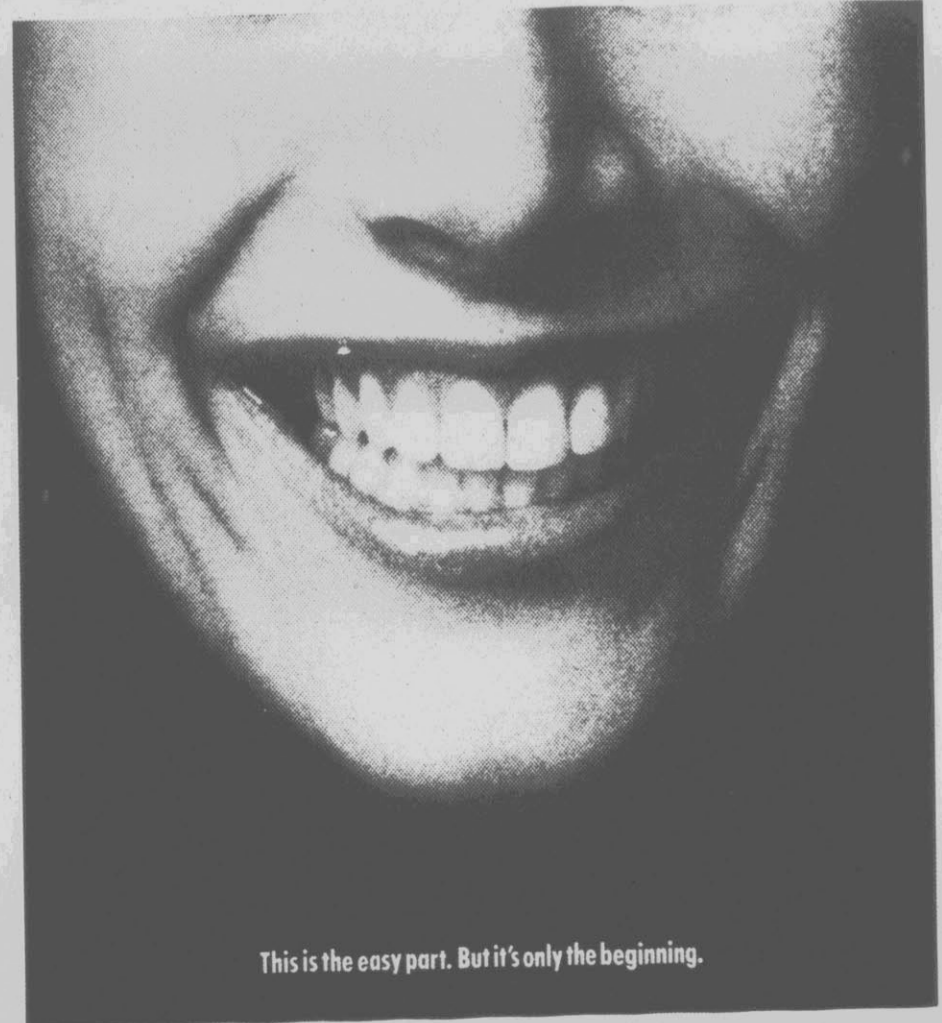

Finally, you want that smiling teller to do his or her job quickly and accurately. So personal service is more than a smile and a handshake.

How can you be sure BB&T's commitment to hard work isn't just a lot of talk?

We don't blame you for asking the question. A lot of companies run a lot of advertising promising good service.

How can you be sure we mean it? We'd like to point out first that we've been serving the people of North Carolina longer than any other bank in the state. We're not about to forget the formula that's kept us in business for so long.

We'd like to point out, too, that the typical BB&T customer has more than just one or two accounts at our bank. People come back for more because they know we're working hard to make their banking easier.

This is the easy part. But it's only the beginning.

Finally, we'd like to issue an invitation. We invite you to put us to the test. Give us a try. See if we don't work very hard to make your banking easier, more pleasant and, most important, more productive for you.

Because when you're talking about personal service, that's the bottom line: does it help you do the things you want to do?

That's the kind of service we believe in very strongly at BB&T.

Nobody works harder for your money than BB&T.

To the Editor:

In a letter to the editor that appeared in the June 18th edition, Mr. John Howard charged that ALFA wishes to take over the entire operation of the Airport, and yet in a television interview on June 9th, Jimmy Little, Chairman of the Airport Authority, charged that ALFA only wants the fuel and is not willing to take over the complete operation. Neither of these opposite statements is correct. Since the first lease negotiation session with the Authority, ALFA has consistently asked for the right to conduct all of the traditional airport service (not physical plant) functions. We have never asked for any more nor any less, and we are asking for nothing that is not granted to every other aviation organization of ALFA's type in the state.

I am sure that Mr. Howard is aware of the fact that the Airport Authority is asking for a 99% increase in their operating loss subsidy from the city and county and that this is nearly a five-fold increase over the subsidy required before they took the fuel business away from private enterprise.

In making the charge that the expenses incurred by the Airport Authority would remain the same without the fuel and that the fuel thereby helps to cover the overhead, he ignores reality. His statement that "The Airport Authority has actually reduced the cost to the taxpayers of operating the Airport by the amount of income received from the sale of fuel and related services", is absurd. The Authority projects fuel income to be $357,750 for 1980-81, so Mr. Howard is claiming that it would cost this much more to operate the Airport if the Authority was out of the fuel business. Obviously, where there is income there are also expenses, but Mr. Howard ignores that fact of life. When expenses exceed income, as they often do, you go out of business...unless you are a governmental body. Then all you do is stick your hand deeper into the taxpayers' pockets.

By way of comparison, it is interesting to note that our Airport Authority finds it necessary to budget $69,000 in salaries next year while the New Bern Airport, which does not sell fuel, has budgeted only $46,800. The two airports are similar in size and activity and both are served by a commuter airline.

ALFA Aviation has submitted a suggested alternative budget to both the City Council and the County Commissioners based on the Authority turning the fuel operation over to the full-service fixed base operator (ALFA) and contenting themselves with the physical upkeep of the airport as is the usual practice at almost every other airport. This budget showed a need for only a 6% increase over the subsidy received by the Authority last year rather than the 99% increase they requested.

Mr. Howard seems to feel that a good reason for the taxpayers to continue to be ripped-off is that ALFA signed a lease four years ago. He knows full well that the major terms of this lease were dictated to ALFA by Mr. Little and could hardly be called negotiated. The options enjoyed by ALFA at the time were two - signing or not signing. If that is the "spirit" Mr. Howard is referring to then it would be better if it were not lived up to. In addition, anybody who has even a smattering of business knowledge knows that leases can be and are modified every day with the consent of both parties. In fact, the Chairman amended his own lease with the Authority in October 1976.

He is very reckless about suggesting that ALFA leave Greenville. He seems to forget what this airport was like before ALFA arrived. We are the only aircraft maintenance facility there, we provide an important air ambulance service to the community, we are the headquarters for the Civil Air Patrol, we are the oldest and largest of the two FAA Certified charter companies in Pitt County, and we have built a costly maintenance and office hangar that will become the property of the city and county in another sixteen years. Greenville would never be able to attract another operator of the caliber of ALFA without also giving them the fuel concession. This is standard industry practice and it is almost impossible for a company to survive without it. If we are forced to back to the bad old days at the airport as Mr. Howard seems to desire, the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County would be the worse off for it.

TOP MARATHON FUND RAISERS — The Hamilton Beach team, pictured here at Evans Park during its play time Sunday afternoon, received a trophy as the top fund raising team in the two day Softball Marathon held Saturday and Sunday to benefit the Easter Seals campaign. The Washington based team raised $1,000 for its entry fee. Holding the trophy are Mark Smith (left), team captain, and Paul Daughton, coach. Daughton alone raised $300 of the team's contribution. The woman with the team is Barbara Peyton, one of the coordinators of the event. Special activities at Evans Park Sunday included parachute jumps by Lonnie Willer, Kathy Sorg and Perry Risley — all landed right within the ball field. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor).

Continuing Search In Kidnappings, Slayings

MONCK'S CORNER, S.C. (AP) — The search for three attendants abducted from low country gas stations last week is over, but the manhunt for whoever killed them continued.

The body of the third attendant, Lewis Cakley of Moncks Corner, was found Sunday morning in a sparsely populated, wooded area of Berkeley County, about 10 miles north of this county seat.

Cakley, like Bill Spain and Kenneth C. Krause of North Charleston, had been shot to death, authorities said.

The three were abducted early Thursday from two filling stations 20 miles apart on U.S. 52 in a manner which led investigators to theorize that the two cases were related.

The circumstances of the men's deaths were also similar.

Krause's and Spain's bodies were found Saturday about 10 miles north of the Port Oil Co. station in North Charleston from which the men were abducted.

The bodies were off a dirt road on wooded property owned by Standard Warehouse Co.

Cakley's body was spotted at 11 a.m. by a passing motorist in thin vegetation just off Candy Branch Road, according to Berkeley County Sheriff James W. Rogers.

Nearby were several bullets or bullet fragments but authorities were reluctant to speculate on the type of weapon used to fire them.

Rogers identified the body of Cakley, a part-time attendant at Dempsey's Texaco. "I knew him," said Rogers. "He has been a friend of mine since 1963."

Cakley, a full-time funeral home employee, was well known and well liked in the community, the sheriff said. Spain and Krause were abducted shortly after midnight. Authorities believe they were taken alive to the site where their bodies were found and were shot there.

Investigators believe the assailants kidnapped Cakley between 4:10 and 4:50 a.m.

Cakley's body was taken to the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston for an autopsy.

Autopsies were performed at MUSC Sunday on the bodies of Krause, 23, and Spain, 25, both North Charleston residents.

Authorities said $400 was taken in the Moncks Corner holdup and an undetermined amount of money was taken from the North Charleston filling station.

Residents near where Spain's and Krause's bodies were found said they heard several shots fired at about 3:30 a.m. Thursday but did not report the gunfire, thinking it was probably vandals shooting at traffic signs.

Staggered Tag Plan To Begin

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's staggered vehicle registration plan will become effective July 1, marking the start of a program aimed at eliminating long lines of motorists seeking new license tags.

Under the plan, license tags will be issued so that the expiration dates will be spread throughout the year rather than at one time. Most North Carolinians will see the change for the first time when they apply for their 1981 tags.

Most registrations have been processed in the past between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15, resulting in long delays at tag agencies. About 5 million vehicles were registered last year.

BIBLE SCHOOL BEGINS
WINTERVILLE — Vacation Bible School will begin tonight at 7:30 at Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church. Everyone is invited.

More Schools Turn To Single Textbook Series

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State officials oppose the use of a single series of reading textbooks for North Carolina's public school systems but more and more local systems are switching to one series of books.

Forty-four school systems will use a single textbook series — usually progressing from grades one through eight — next year. Five years ago, only 15 systems ordered a single series.

And even those systems that haven't gone all the way are cutting back from multiple readers. Of the state's 144 systems, 120 will have three or fewer reading series for the 1980-81 school year. That compares to 53 in 1975.

One prime reason for the change is that so many children now are transient, even within the local school system, and local educators say the use of a single series of reading textbooks makes it easier to test them and for the children to pick up where they left off.

The State Department of Public Instruction recommends that local systems adopt several reading textbooks.

"If I have three basal readers (the first book in the series), I can have more tools, and I want the widest variety of tools for my kids because their levels are so different," explained J. W. Jenkins, director of operations with the department's division of reading.

"It is difficult to find a series that will meet the needs of all the children," said Mary N. Purnell, director of programs for the same agency.

"If they stay with one series, the textbook gets to be the reading program and we don't want that ... The text is the core but not the whole program."

Officials at some schools using the single series say they use newspapers, magazines, other books and other materials to supplement the textbook.

"We are using one main series, but our shelves are filled with supplementary materials. No teacher holds to the basic text," said Mamie Lou Johnson, general supervisor of Johnston County schools.

Pitt County's assistant superintendent of schools, Kathryn L. Lewis, said that school system found that the use of several series of reading textbooks could cause problems.

"For example, you might use one text that teaches the long 'a' sound in second grade. Then, in second grade, the child might go to another school that teaches long 'a' in the first grade. He misses the long 'a' altogether," she said.

Gaston County officials noted that the use of one series makes it easier to keep track of progress made by students, even those who transfer from one school to another. The reading progress would be the same in each school.

Cutting corners on sucker control is no way to grow quality tobacco. That's why more and more growers are using Off-Shoot-T in their sucker control program. It's dependable, it's consistent and it's "top of the stalk" in quality. Because our quality control team makes sure that everything on the label is in the container.

And we don't just test it once, but all the way from raw material stages to shipping. We'd rather stop a whole shipment than risk a single tobacco plant. And that's a fact.

So, this season get America's favorite contact sucker control agent. Get Off-Shoot-T. You'll get the quality you pay for, and you'll never have to worry about chemical inconsistency. Because every shipment of Off-Shoot-T has to pass our tests, before it passes yours.

NEW GULF SUPER UNLEADED MAKES ENGINES SING INSTEAD OF PING.

New Gulf Super Unleaded was created for cars that perform best on premium-grade gasoline.

Many of today's regular unleaded gasolines make cars ping and knock. Gulf Super Unleaded helps eliminate pings and knocks because it's one of the highest-octane unleaded gasolines you can buy.

The extra octane not only gives you improved performance to pass and climb without knocking or pinging—it could also help your automobile engine to run more efficiently.

And finally, most people who had been using Gulf No Nox premium leaded gasoline, or any other premium leaded, will find new Super Unleaded gives about the same performance.

So look for new Gulf Super Unleaded gasoline at your neighborhood Gulf Service Station—along with our regular unleaded gasoline.

New Gulf Super Unleaded makes engines sing instead of ping—and that should be music to your ears.

DRIVE WITH EXPERIENCE.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices showed some scattered gains today as the bank prime lending rate continued its steady descent.

Gainers held a 7-6 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.01 at 873.72 by noon.

Stock prices slipped a bit last week, losing some of the momentum of the rally that lasted through most of the spring. At Friday's close the Dow Jones industrial average showed a 6.66 loss from a week earlier.

A mood of increased caution among investors was still evident with the start of the new trading week today.

But the market began moving up after New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust cut its prime rate from 12 to 11 1/2 percent, and the much smaller Southwest Bank of St. Louis trimmed its rate to 11.

Earlier this year the nominal basic charge on blue-chip loans stood as high as 20 percent.

Point-plus gainers on the active list included Mobil, up 1 1/2 at 73 1/4, and International Business Machines, up 1 1/4 at 59.

City Investing was the volume leader, up 1/4 at 28 1/4. A 225,000-share block traded at 28.

The NYSE's composite index rose 25 to 65.45. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.79 at 286.91.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 14.59 million shares at noon, down from 17.87 million at the same point Friday.

Five Die In N.C. Traffic

Five persons were killed on North Carolina's highways during the weekend, raising the state's traffic toll for the year to 616.

The Highway Patrol said 673 persons had died at this time last year in traffic accidents.

A Charlotte man, Vance Tyrone Stanback, 42, was killed in Charlotte when his motorcycle and a car collided on a city street.

A pedestrian, Katrina Dawn Rollins, 4, of Route 1, Randleman, was killed when officers said she ran into the path of an oncoming car near her home.

Kathy Lindsey Barkley, 28, of Belmont was killed in a two-car collision in Gaston County near Belmont.

A Jameston youth, Steven Robert Jones, 17, was killed when his car struck a tree on a rural road four miles north of Greensboro.

A Raleigh woman, Lisa Colleen Pearce, 19, perished when a car ran off a rural road five miles west of Raleigh, struck a culvert and overturned.

National Guard Has New Head

Guilford Leggett of Tarboro has assumed command of the Greenville National Guard 514th Military Police Company.

Transferring from the command of the 213th MP Company, Capt. Leggett returns to lead the same unit where his National Guard career began as an officer eight years ago.

Guilford grew up in Beaufort County and attended Washington High School where he graduated in 1968. He earned the B.S. degree at East Carolina University in social work and corrections in 1973.

Leggett is currently a state parole and probation officer in Edgecombe County.

The Leggett family are members of the First Baptist Church in Tarboro. Justin, a son, is four, and Jena, a daughter, is one and one-half. His wife, Chris, teaches second grade at Tarboro Elementary School.

Prayer Month Plans Prepared

The Pitt County Branch of the NAACP and a number of county ministers are sponsoring a month of prayer for the community, the nation and the world.

According to Branch President D. D. Garrett, the sole purpose of the month of prayer is to encourage prayer and devotion among Pitt County individuals, families and other groups.

The kickoff will be held at the Pitt County Courthouse Thursday, he said.

A prayer breakfast for pastors and ministers of the county was held Friday. Garrett said the Rev. B. B. Felder commented during this breakfast, "The condition this world is in is caused by lack of prayer. And, if it is to be saved, it will be only through prayer."

Find Escapee's Abandoned Car

NEW YORK (AP) — Police have found the car that convicted murderer Howard "Buddy" Jacobson used when he fled a Brooklyn jail more than three weeks ago, authorities say.

A Port Authority police officer discovered the vehicle, which had been rented by Jacobson's fiancée, at LaGuardia Airport on Sunday.

can only be judged as significant if it's accurate, if it's permanent, and if it's a first step toward total withdrawal. A partial withdrawal of Soviet forces, of carefully selected units, would have very little significance.

Reading a statement on behalf of all summit participants, Italian Prime Minister Francesco Cossiga said that "the Soviet military occupation of Afghanistan is unacceptable now and that we are determined not to accept it in the future."

The summit statement said that Soviet intervention was incompatible with detente, "undermines the very foundations of peace," and that "we are resolved to do everything in our power" to bring about permanent and complete troop withdrawal.

The Soviets have an estimated 85,000 troops in the Southwest Asian country.

Asked about the timing of the Soviet announcement, Carter said: "My belief is that it's much more associated with a desire to get Olympic participation than it is to modify the wording of the communique to be issued here in Venice. The Soviets want very much to have athletes come to Moscow. The Olympic boycott has hurt them very badly in world opinion and also within their own country."

Cossiga also read a joint statement that, without directly referring to Iran, promised that the summit participants are determined to combat "the taking of hostages and attacks on diplomatic and consular premises and personnel." The leaders said they would adopt policies "to deny terrorists any benefits from such criminal acts."

The summit participants also deplored the "ever increasing number of refugees throughout the world" and said the problem must be "attacked at its roots" by appealing to "the governments responsible ... to remove the causes of this widespread human tragedy and not to pursue policies which drive large numbers of their people from their own countries."

with a portrait neckline edged with ruffled organza with a bertha collar edged in chantilly lace. The waistline of the empire bodice was encircled with white satin ribbon with a Dior bow and streamers in back. The sleeveless gown was complemented by a southern belle overskirt edged in lace with raised draps at each side caught up by white satin bows. She wore a halo of silk flowers with satin streamers and carried a bouquet identical to that of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Danny McLawhorn of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom; Alan Avery of Atlanta, Ga., brother of the bride, Wayne Boyette of Grimesland, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Ronald Gurganus of Tarboro. Chad Spencer of Swan Quarter was ring bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a formal two-tone polyester chiffon gown with a wine topping and a pink skirt. The mother of the bridegroom selected a floor length gown of blue chiffon over taffeta. Both wore corsages of crimson roses and baby's breath.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C., the couple will live in Greenville.

A reception was held at the Ayden Community Building. Punch was poured by Mrs. Joyce Gladson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Judy Stines. Cake was served by Mrs. Kathy Spencer, Mrs. Betsy McLaine and Miss Ruth Gaskins, all cousins of the bride. The refreshment table was decorated with an arrangement of mixed flowers, daisies and baby's breath. The bridal couple cut the traditional first slice of wedding cake.

Mrs. Lorraine McLawhorn presided at the guest register.

A Saturday bridal luncheon honoring the bride was held at the home of Mrs. Pauline Tugwell, assisted by Mrs. Lou Tugwell and Mrs. Betsy Tugwell.

The bridal party was honored at a dinner at the Three Steers Saturday given by the parents of the bridegroom.

REPATRIATIONS
LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — About 5,000 Zimbabwian refugees have been repatriated over the past five weeks from Zambia, bringing to 9,000 the total of refugees returned since the February elections.

Lutheran-Catholic Joint Service Held

NEW YORK (AP) — In a sight rarely seen since the Protestant Reformation 450 years ago, Roman Catholics and Lutherans have worshipped together — in a standing-room-only crowd at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"It's a minor miracle," the Rev. William H. Lazareth of the Lutheran Church in America exclaimed Sunday from the ornately carved pulpit, "and doesn't it feel great!"

Applause from the overflow crowd of worshippers appeared to affirm Lazareth's exuberance.

Monsignor James Rigney, rector of the cathedral, estimated that 5,000 worshippers were jammed into the cathedral which seats about 2,500.

The occasion of the ecumenical celebration, which included Gospel readings as well as hymns written by Martin Luther and Samuel S. Wesley, was the 450th anniversary of the Augsburg Confession, "the principal Lutheran doctrine of faith," according to the Rev. Joel Kuznik of the Lutherans Cooperating in Metropolitan New York.

The Confession, which lists 21 "chief articles of faith" and seven longer "articles about matter in dispute," has in the past been viewed as a document outlining the differences between Catholics and Lutherans.

It was written in 1530, more than a decade after Martin Luther declared a schism within the church. The Lutheran Church today has more than 10 million members in the United States.

But scholars are re-evaluating the Confession to emphasize its unifying "intent," rather than its more divisive "content," according to a background sheet prepared by the Catholic Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs.

Three Wrecks Are Reported

An estimated $3,600 damage resulted from three collisions investigated by Greenville police Thursday.

Heaviest damage, investigators reported, resulted from a 12:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Ward and Contentnea Streets, involving a car driven by Moses Douglas Joyner of 405B Roundtree Dr. and a truck operated by Jimmy Rogers Stallings Jr. of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $2,000 to the Joyner car and $700 to the Stallings vehicle.

Cars driven by James Michael Hendricks of Fairfield and Walter Jerome Evans of Rocky Mount, collided about 11:45 a.m. at the intersection of Reade Circle and Cotanche Street, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Hendricks car and $200 damage to the Evans auto.

Police reported Edward Pacha of Jacksonville, Fla., was injured when the motorcycle he was riding overturned on Greenville Boulevard at the 14th Street intersection when he attempting to avoid colliding with a car which made a turn in front of him.

Investigators estimated damage to the motorcycle at $400.

Break-In At Home Of Shah's Sister

NEW YORK (AP) — Assassination has been ruled out as the motive for the break-in at the East Side townhouse occupied by relatives of the deposed Shah of Iran because the gunmen had an opportunity to carry out such a plan, detectives say.

The two intruders, disguised as deliverymen, may have wanted to burglarize the exclusive Beekman Place townhouse Saturday or the break-in may have been a "harassment move," Detective Dennis Caufield said.

The incident was foiled by private security guard who struggled with the gunmen after they entered the foyer entrance of the five-story building.

"They were amateurs," said Caufield. "If they wanted to assassinate anyone, they had all the opportunity to do it. The only obstacle was the guard. So why didn't they continue?"

Caufield said Sunday that detectives also were discounting an anonymous call made in Beirut to the French news agency, Agence France-Presse, that the break-in was the work of Red June, an Iranian group said to work against opponents of the Islamic revolution.

He said detectives had no information about such a group and believed "someone got wind of the incident and took responsibility for it."

The caller said the bungled intrusion was an attempt to murder the deposed shah's twin sister, Ashraf Pahlavi. The call was made about five hours after the 9:05 a.m. incident.

The townhouse at 29 Beekman Place is now the home of Princess Chafik, widow of the shah's nephew, who was assassinated Dec. 7 outside his mother's Paris home.

Princess Ashraf moved to a Park Avenue apartment last Wednesday.

Princess Chafik told police she was in the building with her two sons at the time of the incident, but said she was unaware of the scuffle in the foyer below.

Pitt County Whips Goldsboro

By LARRY SULLIVAN
Reflector Sports Writer

Pitt County American Legion Post 39 looked a gift game in the mouth Sunday afternoon. Leading by only a run heading into the bottom of the seventh inning, coach Pat Smith's batters could only watch as Wayne County hurler Ron Winbush walked the first five batters to force in two runs before the visitors from Goldsboro committed a two-run error. Six Pitt County runs crossed the plate during the inning as the locals went on to post their tenth win against a pair of losses, 10-6.

"We did make quite a few mistakes," Smith said of his unit's five errors, "but we did a good job. I can't complain about the win."

Wayne County struck first off of Post 39 pitcher Roger Williams with three runs in the third. PC came back to tally a run in the bottom of the frame before scoring three runs in the fourth. The six-run seventh gave Williams a 10-3 cushion until the eighth when WC pushed across its final three runs. Williams, a Rose High product, upped his legion slate to 3-0 on the year as he tolled for nine innings in the Sunday afternoon heat. He gave up the six runs on seven hits while striking out nine and walking three.

Rusty Talton absorbed the loss as he pitched through six innings and gave up four runs on seven hits. He walked three and fanned three before Winbush came on in the seventh. After facing five batters, and walking them all, Winbush was relieved by Bond, who worked an inning while allowing four runs on one hit. Craig Brown came on in the eighth and finished the game.

Williams, Will Barrett, Sammy Hodges and Skip Hill all collected two hits for Post 39. Mark Douglas drove home three runs while Mark Shank and Williams knocked home two each.

Dave Thomas and Byron Sasser paced the Wayne County attack with two hits. Sasser and Dave Frederick each knocked in a two Goldsboro runs. The visitors struck first with three-run outburst in the top of the second, aided by a couple of Pitt errors. Wes Satterfield walked and Sasser followed with a double, allowing Satterfield to score. Sasser scored when Mark Campbell's relay throw was wild to home. Williams then walked Brogden and Talton, sandwiching a strikeout between the two, before Thomas lofted a bloop single, allowing Brogden to cross the plate.

The home team answered with a run of its own in the bottom of the third. Barrett and Williams laced back-to-back singles, and both runners advanced on Douglas's sacrifice bunt. Barrett then scored on Hodges' sacrifice fly. Skip Hill followed with a single to right but Williams was nailed at the plate on a perfect throw from Sasser.

Pitt County tallied all three fourth-inning scores after two were gone. Campbell walked and Spencer reached on an error before Barrett loaded the bases with an infield single.

Williams followed with an infield safety to bring home Campbell. Douglas then stroked a two-run single, scoring Spencer and Barrett.

Neither team threatened through the next three innings but the home team put the game out of reach with its six-run seventh. Pitt managed only one hit in the inning but took advantage of Winbush's wildness and an error to push across the runs.

Campbell, Spencer and Barrett walked to load the bases before Williams walked to score Campbell and Douglas walked to force in Spencer. After an infield fly, Hill rapped a two-run single, bringing in Barrett and Williams. With two gone, Shank reached base on an error by the WC third baseman which allowed Douglas and Hill to score.

Goldsboro put three hits and a couple of Pitt errors to good use in WC's three-run eighth. Craig Brown led off with a double and Satterfield reached on Campbell's error, scoring Brown. Sasser then singled to right but the ball got past Barret, moving the runners to second and third. Dave Frederick answered with a two-run single, driving home Satterfield and Sasser before Thomas' fly ball ended the inning.

The win leaves Post 39 with a 10-2 American Legion slate, tops in the eight-team loop.

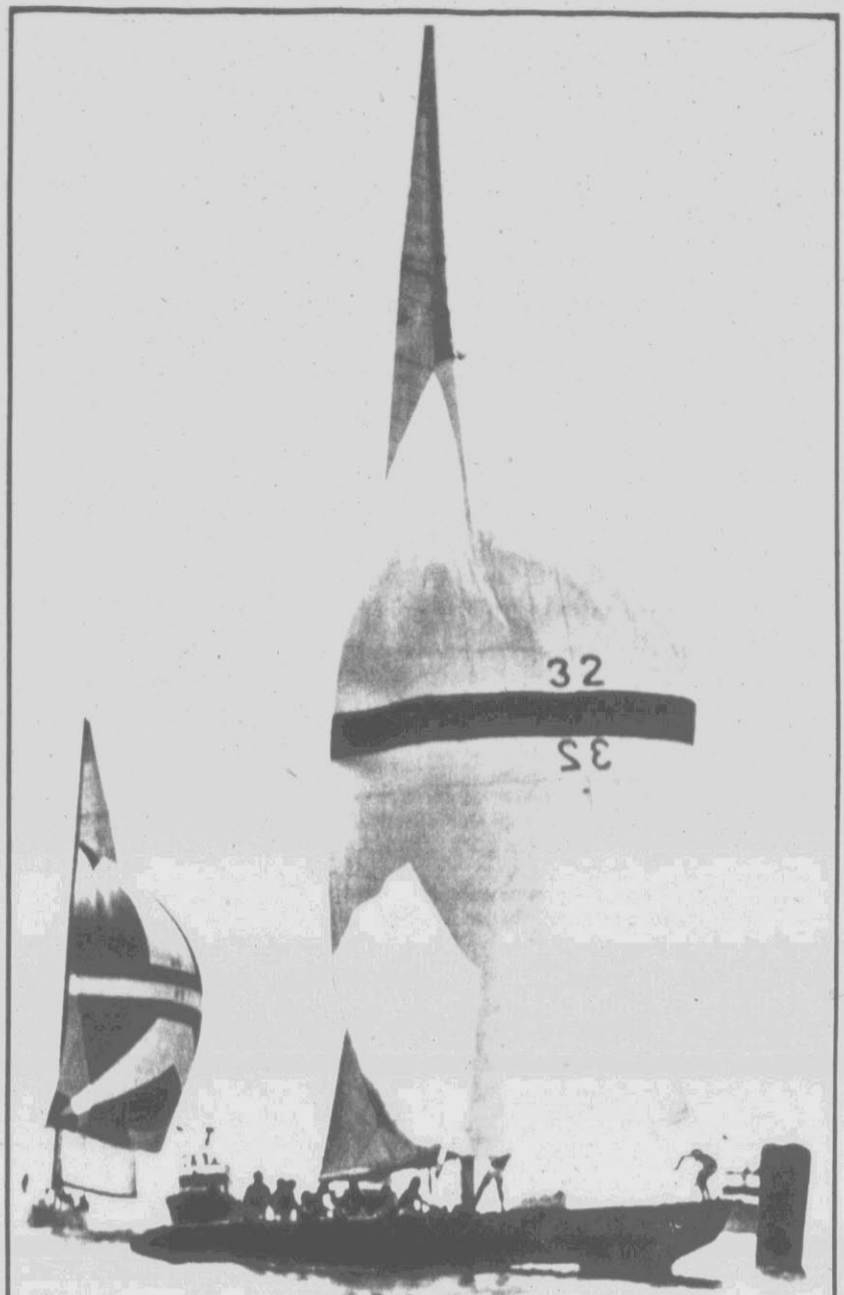

Greenville faces Rocky Mount tonight at 8 p.m.

Ends Frustration Of Eight Losses

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Bobby Unser says he never had a worried moment as he sped through the last miles of an amazingly easy victory Sunday in the Pocono 500.

Unser, a two-time Indianapolis 500 and three-time California 500 champion, finally ended the frustration of eight losing efforts at Pocono, winning the third leg of championship racing's triple crown for the first time.

"It feels good to win here — finally," the tall, rugged veteran said with a tired smile. "I've won just about every race there is, but I guess I was wondering if I'd ever win this one."

Unser, driving for racing entrepreneur Roger Penske, put his metallic blue Cosworth-powered PC-9 in victory lane for the second straight time.

It was also the second time in a row he has outdriven Johnny Rutherford and his yellow Chaparral, the revolutionary ground effects car that easily captured the first two races this season.

"Johnny did a heckuva job of driving out there, but I just had the faster car," the 46-year-old Albuquerque, N.M., driver said.

"I went out ahead of him by 10 or 12 seconds late in the race and I just tried to stay there. No sense being a pig about it."

"Then I came in and the crew gave me another 10 or 12 seconds (by turning up the boost)," Unser added.

Asked if he thought much about the car breaking down during those last lonely laps, with Rutherford nearly a mile behind on the 2½ mile tri-oval, the winner smiled and said: "I never worry about that because there's nothing you can do about it."

"Besides, I don't drop out of

Turner's Errors Help Long Win Yacht Races

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Young Russell Long combined a fast boat with veteran Ted Turner's errors to sweep both yachting races in the second day of preliminary trials for America's Cup defense candidates this weekend.

It was the first sailing duel in official competition between Long, a newcomer to Cup campaigning, and Turner, successful defender of yachting's most coveted prize three years ago.

"We're just as surprised as everyone else," said the 24-year-old Long. "Our expectation was to win three out of nine (races) in the June trials and we've already gotten two of them."

Long's 12-meter boat, Clipper, won the first race by 1:33 minutes, and the second by 14 seconds on Sunday.

"Turner really blew the first start badly. He made a couple of foolish moves, I thought," Long said.

Turner won two practice starts handily, but goofed as

Easy-Going Gilder Captures Open

ILE BIZARD, Quebec (AP) — Although he's a winner again, that burning desire for success, the all-consuming drive for perfection that dominates the lives of many athletes, does not afflict Bob Gilder.

"I may have different goals from some of your superstars," Gilder said after completing a front-running, two-stroke victory in the Canadian Open Golf championship Sunday.

"First of all, I'm not a superstar," he said.

"I'm not sure I even want to be."

"I want to win, but if I don't, it's not the end of the world. Mainly, I just love to play the game. My object is to make a living without too much publicity. And I've made a heck of a living."

He has, indeed. The $63,000 he collected from the total purse of $350,000 pushed his earnings for the year to $134,650. The quiet, low-key Gilder, who is 29, also won $134,000 last year and has collected almost one-half million dollars in his five years of PGA Tour activity.

Borg After A 'Very Important' Wimbledon Mark

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — "This is a very important Wimbledon for me," said Bjorn Borg as he prepared to meet Ismail El Shafai of Egypt in Monday's first round of the world's major tennis tournament.

"If I reach the quarterfinals I will beat Rod Laver's record. Winning the tournament itself is the most important thing, that's for sure," he added shyly. "If I win the title for the fifth year in succession, that will be amazing."

Laver's record was winning 31 matches at Wimbledon in a row — though it was a row stretched over nine years. The red-haired Australian won the Wimbledon title in 1961 and 1962. He was locked out as a professional for six years. Then, when tennis went open, he came back to win again in 1968 and 1969 and finally lost to Britain's Roger Taylor in the fourth round in 1970.

Borg, 24 earlier this month, has won Wimbledon for the last four years and has had a run of 28 victories. He is a heavy favorite to take the title again.

Four Americans were expected to present the strongest challenge to the athletic, muscular Swede. In order of seeding, they were John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, Vitas Gerulaitis and Roscoe Tanner.

Tanner took Borg to five close sets in last year's final. Among the unseeded players, Brian Gottfried came to Wimbledon looking good. After a patch of indifferent form, he bounced back Saturday to beat Sandy Mayer 6-3, 6-3 in the final of the Surrey Grass Courts Championships at Surbiton.

Even though Wimbledon's top five were not competing, Gottfried's success was impressive.

"I haven't seen Brian play like that for three or four years," Mayer said.

Tracy Austin won the last warmup women's event, at Eastbourne, by overcoming Wendy Turnbull 7-6, 6-2 in a troublesome wind.

She faltered in each set, losing a 5-1 lead in the first and missing a match point at 5-0 in the second.

Austin, 17, hopes to be the youngest Wimbledon champion since Lottie Dod, who was 15½ when she won the title nearly 100 years ago.

Martina Navratilova, seeking her third straight Wimbledon crown, is seeded

No.1 with Austin No.2. The women's singles begin Tuesday.

Borg's ruthlessness and punishing topspin forehand looked more menacing than

McCovey Set To Retire

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey, hitting .198 and stuck in a pinch-hitting role because of two younger first basemen, has decided it's time to stop playing baseball.

"How many guys were able to play this long and accomplish so many things?" the 42-year-old McCovey asked Sunday while announcing that he'll retire effective July 10.

The answer: not many. The Alabama native who joined the San Francisco Giants in 1959 has hit 521 home runs, most ever by a National League left-handed hitter, including 18 grand slams, another league record.

His last appearance as a player could be at the July 8 All-Star game in Los Angeles, should he be placed on the National League squad in recognition of his accomplishments.

"He's easily the most feared left-handed hitter of my time," the Philadelphia Phillies' Pete Rose said after Sunday's game with the Giants.

McCovey talked with Rose, breaking the news to the man he's competed against since 1963, during pre-game batting practice. Just before a game on two occasions when he played for the New York Giants.

ever as he won the French Open on slow clay in Paris two weeks ago.

In switching to the faster English turf he believes in avoiding the warmup tournaments and concentrating on practice. For ten days he has been hitting tennis balls for four hours a day in private and getting used to the tricks played by the grass.

Like most of the 128 men going into Monday's first round, Borg has not played on grass courts for almost a year.

His four top challengers have spent the last week in the same way, practicing and not competing. But McEnroe won the London Grass Courts Championships at Queen's Club a week ago and looked ready to serve and volley his way to the heights.

El Shafai is one of only three men who have ever beaten Borg at Wimbledon. That was in 1974 when the Swede was only 18. El Shafai is now 32. It would be a major sensation if he won again.

One of Wimbledon's many long-standing traditions is that the defending champion opens the championships on the Center Court. So Borg and El Shafai were assured of a sellout crowd of 16,000 who had their seat reservations firmed up four months ago.

McEnroe and Gerulaitis were both assigned to the neighboring No.1 court — McEnroe against American Butch Walts and Gerulaitis against Stefan Simonsson of Sweden. Connors had to push his way through the crowds to No.2 court to tangle with Britain's Richard Lewis, Great Britain's fourth-ranked player.

Winterville 2, Tarboro 1

Winterville, behind Sammy Tucker's five-hit, 10-strike out pitching performance, handed Tarboro only its second loss of the season, 2-1, in a Babe Ruth game Saturday night.

Winterville's two runs came on Miccah Dixon's double which drove in Doug Branch, who had reached on an error. Dixon scored on the play on a throwing error.

Dixon led the winners at the plate with three hits. Glenn Shaw had three hits for Tarboro, now 10-2. Winterville is 7-4 overall.

Robersonville 8, Kiwanis 6

Robersonville, scoring four runs in the third and adding two more in both the fourth and fifth, defeated Kiwanis, 8-6, Saturday night in a Babe Ruth game.

Kiwanis led 1-0 after two innings but Robersonville rallied with four runs in the third to take the lead, 4-1. Kiwanis trailed 6-3 after three before Robersonville scored twice in the fifth, which proved to be the winning runs.

Cargile had three hits for Robersonville while McMillan had two for Kiwanis.

Bill Clifton 10, Greene County 5

Bill Clifton tallied five runs in the third and added two runs in the fifth and sixth to defeat Greene County, 10-5, Saturday in a Babe Ruth game.

The game was scoreless until Greene County took the lead with two in the third. Bill Clifton quickly countered with five in the fourth before adding two runs in the next two innings.

Clifton got his final run in the seventh. Greene County scored twice in the fifth and once in the sixth.

Brann, S. Galloway, T. Galloway and Phillips all had two hits for the winners. David Shirley and Barrow had two hits for Greene County.

Bill Clifton 9, Greene County 3

B.C. Insurance rapped out nine hits to score nine times as it defeated Greene County, 9-3, Sunday in a second game of a Babe Ruth doubleheader.

B.C. Insurance took the lead with five runs in the second and added a single run in the fourth and three more in the sixth to win going away. Greene County did not score until the sixth, pushing across one run then and two more in the seventh.

S. Galloway had two hits for the winners while Braswell had two hits for Greene County.

Post 94 Drops 3

It was the worst of weekends for Snow Hill's American Legion team.

Post 94 dropped three games — two to Wilson on Sunday — to drop to 3-6 in the league.

Snow Hill fell to Rocky Mount, 11-4, Saturday night and then dropped a doubleheader to Wilson Sunday, 6-5 and 4-2.

"I would say it was a bad weekend," Snow Hill coach Jim Fulghum said. "We played well at times in all the games but just weren't able to get people home when we needed to."

In Sunday's first game, Snow Hill fell trailed 6-3 going into the seventh only to see its rally fall short when it left the bases loaded with only one out.

Walt Tyndall doubled to lead off the seventh and after one was out and Jeff Scott walked Kevin Battle doubled to score Tyndall. Alan Corbett then walked before Robin Bowen singled home Scott and lead the bases with but one gone. Wilson pitcher Jeff Davis entered and quickly got his club out of the inning without further damage as Wilson held on to win.

In the second game Sunday, Snow Hill led, 1-0, after the first inning but saw Wilson come back to tie the score in the second and then go ahead in the sixth with two runs. Snow Hill cut it to one with a single run in the bottom of the inning but Wilson added an insurance run in the seventh to win by two.

Saturday's Game

Snow Hill 010 200 100—4 10 5

Sunday's Games
First Game
Snow Hill 120 000 200—5 11 2
Wilson 130 101 00x—6 10 1

Second Game
Wilson 010 002 100—4 7 2
Snow Hill 100 001 000—2 6 1

Doug Godwin and Hugh Smith; Kevin Korpi and Jabo Fulghum.

Billy McLawhorn, Jabo Fulghum and Tyndall led off the first with back-to-back singles to give Post 94 its first run. Then in the sixth Scott singled and Battle doubled to score Scott with no outs. Battle was left stranded at second.

Tyndall had three hits for Snow Hill in the first game while Battle had two. Battle also had two hits in the second game.

In Saturday night's battle Rocky Mount took a 4-1 lead after two and continued to increase it throughout the contest to win easily.

McLawhorn, Tyndall and Corbett all had two hits for Snow Hill.

Post 94 travels to Robersonville tonight to face Williamston to begin what will be five straight nights of baseball for the Snow Hill team.

Washington (4-for-5) Breaks Out Of Slump

By The Associated Press
It had been a dreadful slump for a man who brought a .280 career batting average with him when he joined the New York Mets.

Claudell Washington had not had a hit since he singled in the ninth inning of a five-run Mets rally that beat the San Francisco Giants 7-6 a week ago Saturday.

Traded to the Mets from the Chicago White Sox on June 7 for a minor league pitcher, Washington had gone 1-for-17 as a National Leaguer.

"I don't know the pitchers in this league very well, so I've been struggling," Washington said. His struggle ended Sunday when he slammed three home runs, driving in five runs, to help beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-6 and end a seven-game Mets losing streak.

"It feels good to finally get into a groove," Washington said. "Once I play more and feel more comfortable, I'll swing the bat like this."

Washington also had a single in the game to go 4-for-5, and he called it the greatest day of his seven-year major league career.

"For sure it's my best ever as a National Leaguer. Last year, I had three homers and five RBI in a game against Detroit, but today I had four hits, not just three," Washington said.

Washington hit a two-run homer in the first, another two-run shot in the fifth, and his solo homer in the seventh gave the Mets a 9-3 lead as the Dodgers saw a four-game winning streak come to an end.

Washington became only the third player in Mets history to hit three homers in one game. Jim Hickman did it in 1965, and Dave Kingman in 1976.

Expos 2, Padres 0
Right-hander Steve Rogers, 9-5, battled a balky arm and scattered eight hits for his second shutout of the season and 22nd of his career. The victory was Rogers' eighth in nine starts against only one loss.

Warren Cromartie and Bob Pate drove in the Montreal runs with singles. Tony Bernazard doubled and scored on Cromartie's single off Gary Lucas, 3-4, in the sixth, and Pate singled home Gary Carter in the eighth.

Gilder...

Canadian national championship — a title that has yet to be won by such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tom Watson — may produce more publicity than is welcomed by the shy man from Corvallis, Ore. Among other things, the triumph puts him in such showcase events as the 1980 World Series of Golf and the 1981 Masters and Tournament of Champions.

Gilder, an Arizona State product, had a relatively easy time picking up his second tour title. The other came in the Phoenix Open in his rookie season of 1976.

This time he started the final round with a 2-stroke lead, birdied three of the first six holes, led by 3-4 shots most of the warm, sunny day and eventually finished two strokes in front with a 274 total, six shots under par on the 6,628 yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course. He matched par 70 over the last 18 holes.

Jerry Pate, who had the last real chance of catching Gilder, and Leonard Thompson, who came out of the pack with a 67, tied for second at 276.

Pate shot a 70 and bogeyed two of his last four holes. The critical one was on the 15th, where he drove poorly. That gave Gilder a 3-stroke lead with three holes to play and he brought it home.

"That killed me," said Pate, now a two-time runnerup this year. "I absolutely threw it away. I knew I had to shoot 68 or better to win, and I just hit bad shots at the wrong time."

Ben Crenshaw, who felt from contention with a double bogey on the third hole, was fourth at 70-277.

Lee Trevino, the defending titleholder and a three-time Canadian Open winner, bogeyed the fourth and fifth holes to fall out of contention. He finished with a 70 and was tied at 278 with George Burns and Danny Edwards, each of whom closed with a 69.

Nicklaus, who won his fourth U.S. Open title a week ago, bogeyed his first hole Sunday and was not in the title chase again. He closed with a 73 and was tied at 282 with Watson, whose closing 69 was too late to put him in contention.

Player had a 69-285.

NBA Gives Team Some Consolation

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't make up for the disappointment of not being able to compete in the Moscow Olympics, not by a long shot. But the current Gold Medal series against pickup teams of National Basketball Association stars is at least providing some consolation.

"These kids have been just terrific. I can't say enough about them," said Larry Brown, the former pro coach who now guides UCLA and is an assistant coach of the U.S. Olympic team. "They've made a great sacrifice. It's asking a lot of them not to go to Moscow, so to come to New York and win a great game like this is fabulous."

And a great game it was Sunday night, the Olympians pulling out a thrilling 77-75 victory on a 20-foot jumper from the left corner by Al Wood that sailed through the net as the final buzzer sounded. The Olympians have a 3-1 record in the series that concludes tonight in Indianapolis.

"We're Americans and we wanted to show the Russians we could beat them on their own turf," said Wood, a 6-foot-5 forward from North Carolina. "But I don't think we're disappointed any longer. Going to the Olympics, I understand, is something special. But we've had an opportunity to travel here and we've gotten a lot of exposure."

"I played here before, but I'll tell you, one of my life's highlights and thrills was playing against the NBA in the Garden."

The collegians, who were led by LaSalle forward Michael Brooks' 20 points and 9 rebounds, showed tremendous enthusiasm, leaping off the bench and cheering on almost every play. When Wood's winning basket cleared the net, the players from the bench raced onto the floor and staged an impromptu victory celebration at midcourt.

"Buck Williams got me the ball with five seconds left and set a screen," recalled Wood. "I dribbled to the corner. I knew I was in range and I let go. I didn't know how much time remained, but then I saw them all running toward me."

Wood's basket climaxed a hectic finish which saw the game tied eight times and the lead change hands five times in the final nine minutes.

The pros, playing for free in the series organized by the NBA Players Association to honor the Olympians who won't be defending the gold medal because of the U.S. led boycott of the Moscow Games following the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan, looked disorganized in the early going but picked up the pace as the game wore on.

They led 34-30 at halftime and by eight early in the second half before two free throws by Utah forward Danny Vranes tied the score at 56-56 with two throws with 8:53 to play. It was nip and tuck from there until the end, which came after Michael Ray Richardson of the New York Knicks — who led the pros with 18 points — had driven the length of the court to tie the score at 75-75 with 14 seconds to play.

Rather than call a timeout to set up a play, the Olympians hustled the ball upcourt and worked it around to Wood for the winning basket.

K.C. To Hold Tryout Camp

The Kansas City Royals will hold a tryout camp Tuesday beginning at 9:30 at East Carolina's Harrington Field for area baseball players 17 years and older.

Kansas City Royal scout E.E. "Red" Whitsett will be on hand to oversee the tryout.

American Legion players must have permission of their coach to tryout. All others do not need any permission.

Saturday's Cryptiquip — THE GENTLE AROMA OF NEWMOWN LAWNS IS REFRESHING.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: R equals L.

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Hope Recalls 2 Friends

BOONE, Iowa (AP) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife Mamie may have lived in the White House for eight years, but their long-time friend, comedian Bob Hope, says they were "middle class America to the core, right out of a Norman Rockwell painting."

Hope told a crowd of about 5,000 at the dedication of Mrs. Eisenhower's birthplace Sunday that the former first lady was "the most down-to-earth person I ever met."

He recalled how she once chided her husband. "Ike was complaining about autograph hounds, how they always were after them. She said to Ike, 'Suppose they never asked you,'" said

Hope. The comedian, who first met Gen. Eisenhower while entertaining troops in Algiers in 1943, later became the president's golfing buddy in Palm Springs, Calif.

He described Mrs. Eisenhower as "the most charming, gracious, dedicated lady I've ever met. She was a simple gal from Boone, Iowa, who fell in love with a military man.... To the rest of the world, she may have been our first lady, but to all Americans, she was simply Mamie. She was everyone's mother, everyone's grandmother, everyone's idol."

'Romantic Film' Cast Announced

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jill Clayburgh, Michael Douglas and Charles Grodin star in the romantic movie "It's My Turn."

The movie from Columbia Pictures was previously titled "The Perfect Circle." Claudia Weil directed from an original script by Eleanor Bergstein.

Disorderly At A Rock Concert

DALLAS (AP) — Four people were arrested and two police officers overcome by tear gas after gate crashers toppled a chain-link fence and threw bottles and rocks during a Cotton Bowl rock concert.

Police said the Saturday night melee lasted about 10 minutes as authorities, using tear gas, pushed the crowd into the nearby Texas State Fairgrounds.

Some 60,000 to 70,000 people were on hand to hear Sammy Hagar, Foreigner, the Eagles and other rock groups. Most of the crowd was unaware of the disturbance, police said.

RETREAD SALES
 NEW YORK (AP) — There has been an increase in the sale of retreads for light trucks and recreational vehicles, according to the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

"Many consumers can't afford to purchase new tires for pickups and campers, and are turning to retreads," said Bill Thomas, a West Coast retreader.

Retreaded tires for light trucks and RV's are approximately one-half the cost of new tires.

Help For NBC Wizard Silverman

THE NEW CHAMP — Dennis Hammons, from Cosby, Tenn., shows his form as he wins the 12th annual National Hollerin' contest held Saturday at Spivey's Corner, N.C. Hammons outshouted 19 rivals to win the championship. (AP Laserphoto)

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — There is always a wiser wizard. From them, young wizards learn their craft. And to them, young wizards turn when their wizardry backfires.

Thus did Fred Silverman cry out to Bob Wood for help when his magic wand ran out of juice in the midst of trying a miracle at NBC.

Wood was Silverman's boss at CBS when Silverman was an apprentice wizard just beginning to build a reputation. Silverman watched Wood do wondrous things at CBS, most notably, transform the network schedule from home of the lowbrow farce to a place of innovation and class.

Wood risked his neck by axing the popular red-neck capers "Beverly Hillsbillies" and "Green Acres" in favor of the revolutionary "All in the Family," and class acts such as "Mary Tyler Moore Show," "M-A-S-H" and "The Waltons."

The daring ploy was spectacularly successful, keeping CBS in the No. 1 spot until Wood left the network in 1976 (and some of those shows were instrumental in CBS' resurgence this past season.) As success draws crowds of proud fathers, some of the magic was credited to Silverman, and his career was off and flying.

By last year, though, Silverman needed help. He was being paid $1 million a year for his magic act, but none of the tricks was coming off. NBC under his presidency was still drowning.

Silverman asked Bob Wood, his former boss, to come to work for him. The wiser wizard declined the offer.

"I said, 'Fred, you're a dear guy and I love you, but for me to come back into a network is for me to return to something I left by my own volition,'" Wood recalls.

"He was serious, but I never permitted the conversation to become very substantive. The fact that Freddy had once worked for me and now I'd be working for him, the fact that we'd be reverse role-playing, I don't get hung up on those kinds of things."

"But, I will not go back to New York and I'd prefer to do something other than what I've already done. I was at CBS for 28 years, the last seven of which I was president. I've ridden that big wave."

Rebuffed by his mentor, Silverman went in the other direction. He called on his own apprentice wizard, young Brandon Tartikoff, to take over programming.

Wood, who has been producing television movies since leaving CBS ("Gauguin The Savage" was a recent Wood production), has become president of Met Angeles, he gets to keep interest in some of the TV projects he worked on before the Metromedia deal, and he'll be able to develop programming without the monster headaches of the network world.

For Silverman, things are less rosy. The fall schedule that he and Tartikoff assembled shows promise, but there are persistent rumors that the curtain may soon fall on Silverman's NBC act. One story holds that Silverman offered his resignation some weeks ago, but RCA, the network's parent company, declined it. The RCA board would not do so again, the story goes.

And, it is generally believed that Silverman will almost certainly leave NBC when his contract is up next year.

Wood, as NBC programmer, might have been able to smooth things for Silverman had he been willing to jump back into the maelstrom. Instead, he said no.

A wiser wizard, indeed.

Cagney Comeback To 'Keep Him Busy'

NEW YORK (AP) — He won't be swinging fists as a gangster or hoofing as a "Yankee Doodle Dandy," but James Cagney says the reason he's going back into films is "to keep me busy."

Cagney has a role in "Ragtime," his first film in 19 years.

"The doctors said I should do something to keep me busy, to stay healthy. So I'm doing 'Ragtime' for Milos Forman," Cagney told the Daily News in a copyright story today.

Fighting the effects of a stroke and diabetes, Cagney, at 80, is pleased with his farm life in Stanfordsville in upstate New York, but looks forward to filming in September.

"What the hell else could a man ask for? Look at the land. What else is there in life? This is it. I've got 90 head of cattle, nine horses and we grow and sell hay. I've got it all."

Burt And Niven In Comedy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Burt Reynolds, Lesley-Anne Down and David Niven star in "Rough Cut," a comedy caper movie.

Reynolds is currently filming "Cannonball Run," a comedy based on the free-for-all crosscountry automobile race. It also stars Roger Moore, Dom DeLuise, Farrah Fawcett, Jack Elan, George Furth and Adrienne Barbeau.

Eikenberry In Another Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jill Eikenberry will play Dudley Moore's fiancée in "Arthur," a contemporary comedy now filming in New York.

She most recently was in "Hide in Plain Sight" with James Caan and in the television movie "Orphan Train."

Hams Await A Field Day

On the weekend of June 28-29, from 2 p.m. Saturday to 2 p.m. Sunday, members of the Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club will participate in the 47th Annual American Radio Relay League Field Day emergency preparedness test. It will be the thirteenth such event for the club.

On that weekend amateur radio operators (hams) in the U.S. and Canada set up their stations in the open, using only emergency power and portable antennas. They contact as many operators as possible in the 24-hour period. The tests are designed to help hams refine operating skills necessary during disasters and times of emergency when normal channels of communication are disrupted or unavailable.

In recognition of this event, Greenville Mayor Don McGlohon has proclaimed June 23-29 as Amateur Radio Week.

The operating site this year will be on the grounds of the old Pitt Memorial Hospital and the club call, W4AMC, will be used. Members of the club will be on hand to answer any questions about equipment, procedures and public service role that amateur radio plays in the community.

Field Day is sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, a membership society of U.S. and Canadian Amateur Radio operators with headquarters in Newington, Conn.

Coppola Plans An Adult Fable

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠J74 ♥KJ6 ♦AK83 ♣A106
 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?
 A.—You are in the happy position of having available a bid that describes your holding to a tee. A jump to three no trump shows a hand of 16-18 points with precisely 4-3-3-3 distribution. Since that is what you have, why not make the bid?

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AK73 ♥82 ♦A105 ♣KQ98
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♥ Pass 1♣ Pass
 2NT Pass ?
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Since you have the equivalent of a full opening bid facing a partner who opened and then jumped, you are in slam territory. Your hand is also improved by the fact that you appear to have a double fit. If you aren't off two fast tricks in diamonds, slam is quite likely. The sensible way to start the investigation is by telling partner of your club fit. Bid four clubs.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AK73 ♥82 ♦A105 ♣KQ98
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♥ Pass 1♣ Pass
 2NT Pass ?
 What do you bid now?
 A.—There is no question about making a small slam—it is simply a matter of investigating the possibility of a grand slam. If you can uncover a 4-4 suit fit, it is quite possible that a ruff in either your hand or your partner's could produce the thirteenth trick. Therefore, we would probe with a bid of three clubs. If partner has four clubs and raises, we would begin to think in terms of higher things. If he bids anything else, we would settle for six no trump.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

French Weigh Briefer Draft Service

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — While Americans talk about bringing back the draft, the French Parliament is talking about shortening conscription — and perhaps even abolishing it.

Pacifists want the draft abolished on moral grounds, while some generals and civilian defense experts are saying it should be eliminated because it nets far more recruits than France needs.

The most concrete proposal before the parliamentary committee probing France's military readiness is to shorten the period of conscription from 12 months to four.

The proposal was made by committee head Yves Lancien, a Gaullist and veteran of France's Indochina wars. Lancien complains that the army that made Napoleon great is today "half-motivated, half-trained, half-equipped for half-clear missions."

In testimony before Lancien's committee, Defense Minister Yvon Bourges said he was in favor of keeping the year-long period. "It shows the enemy that the will to resist him will go as far and last as long as is needed," he said.

France has the biggest armed force in Western Europe. Britain, Ireland and Luxembourg are the only Western European countries that have no draft. The rest conscript their young men for periods ranging from up to 32 months in Greece to as little as six months in Austria and three in Finland.

The Lancien committee's work ties in with other critical military choices facing this country, such as whether to build the neutron weapon. A decision is expected next month.

French military generals are sharply divided on the draft issue. Those who believe France's security depends on its nuclear power think the government is drafting far more youths than it needs. Those who expect another European war to be fought on the ground see conscription as a vital factor.

Former Defense Minister Pierre Messmer proposed to the Lancien committee that it abolish the draft and depend wholly on volunteers.

Lancien believes the elite strike forces used to protect France's overseas interests can be manned by paid volunteers. A four-month conscription period, he says, would give recruits ample basic training without disrupting their studies or work prospects. He even suggests that recruits choose their own date for being drafted.

The most recent opinion poll finds that 64 percent of Frenchmen favor a draft. But the same poll shows that 50 percent think the system is inefficient.

The 500,000-man French military machine will call up 274,000 18-year-olds this year, but will exempt 40 percent from a full year's service on health or compassionate grounds, or give them a student deferral.

The army is reportedly concerned about an increase in the number of French youngsters who are refusing to be drafted on moral grounds. Last year 934 were recognized by a special tribunal of public figures and military men as conscientious objectors "on philosophical or religious grounds."

Another 200 were refused this status. Like most Western European countries, France makes its conscientious objectors give the state alternative service. In France, most of them work as forest rangers.

The 1963 law that exempts pacifists contains a clause forbidding publicity for the cause of conscientious objection.

Nonetheless, four conscientious objectors suspended themselves by ropes from the Eiffel Tower last December. In a separate incident, 20 others rushed into the Belgian Embassy seeking asylum. They were turned away.

Amnesty International, the London-based human rights organization, says France, Greece, Switzerland and Sweden are the only Western European countries with conscientious objectors behind bars.

About 30 are in prison in France, Amnesty says, and the courts have proven lenient, usually imposing fines or light suspended sentences even on repeat offenders.

The Art of Carpeting & Decor

by Larry C.
Whitlow

No well-trained, professional decorator or designer would plan a home or an apartment without first considering the floors and the ceilings. Faults in these areas should be corrected first. Cracked plaster and dull ceiling paint can always be refreshed. It is also possible to consider fabrics, paint, wood, vinyl, wallpaper and even window shades to work magic in blank surroundings. Ceiling treatments can range from simple elaborate skylights to an elaborately simple, single chandelier. There are also many vinyl wall coverings that are suitable for ceilings that are easy to apply as well.

When you're looking for decorating advice be sure to talk to us at LARRY'S CARPETLAND INC., 3010 E. 10th St., 756-2300. We carry a fine selection of wall coverings, custom draperies and carpeting. The help of our interior designer, Sandra Thomas, is free when you make a purchase. Hours: 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon. thru Fri., Closed Sat. thru August.

DECORATING TIP: Wall art can add dash to a room and divert the eye from a low ceiling.

Phony Citizenship Sale Sees Arrest

ATLANTA (AP) — Authorities have arrested two Atlantans in connection with an alleged scheme to sell bogus citizenship papers to an Iranian man.

"With the influx of Cubans and Iranians coming into this country, I would feel there would be more schemes of this type being perpetrated on them," said Sgt. J.F. Paschall of the Atlanta Police Department.

"As far as we know now, we haven't come up with any other victims, but it's a pretty good scheme — it probably has been worked and just not reported to us," he said.

The two arrests were made after the Iranian paid $800 of a requested $1,600 to a woman, police said. The man went to the police, however, after being denied political asylum by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"It dawned on him that something wasn't right, and he ran to the bank, but the check was already cashed," said Paschall. "He then called us."

Investigator Steve Benton said 30-year-old Hassanaali Dashtpeyma had been in America at least six years. After graduation from the University of Alabama, he came to Atlanta and got a job as a taxicab driver.

In mid-May Dashtpeyma, after an interview with the INS, feared he would be deported because his student visa had expired, police said.

According to Paschall, Dashtpeyma then met the woman who said she could arrange citizenship papers for him with the aid of another man.

After making the $800 payment, "The Iranian had his interview (with INS authorities), and was turned down," according to Benton.

FOCUS

City On the Sea

President Carter and other Western leaders are scheduled to meet again today in one of the world's most unusual cities. Venice, Italy, is made up of about 120 small islands in the Adriatic Sea. It also includes part of the Italian mainland. Instead of streets, Venice has canals, and people travel from place to place in boats. Venice is an important center for art and architecture, and attracts millions of tourists each year. But Venice also has problems. Factories on the mainland are a serious source of air pollution, and because Venice has no sewage system, there is pollution in the canals. The islands themselves are very slowly sinking into the sea.

DO YOU KNOW — What French ruler conquered Venice in 1797?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — The weight limit for welterweight boxers is 147 pounds.
