Specter Of Drought Is Raised

By The Associated Press
More water shortages and power outages cropped up as the south-central states sweltered under 100-degree temperatures that have become a part of everyday life, and one weather forecaster warned against "the ugly specter of drought."

Two weeks of blistering heat has been blamed in the deaths of at least 74 people. The only prospect for cooling was in Missouri and in Kansas, where 13 communities, led by Hutchinson's 112, recorded temperatures Tuesday above the 100-degree mark. Fred Ostby, director of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., said the heat wave was caused by an unusually stationary high-pressure ridge over the South. "We're getting kind of nervous," said Ostby. "Certainly the ugly specter of drought has raised its head." Highs in the Dallas area reached 108 on Tuesday after several days of temperatures over 110. Temperatures above 100 are not unusual in Texas in July, but the streak has been remarkable. The mercury in El Paso had hit 100 or more for 25 days in June — 21 of those scorching days in a row. Wichita Falls and the Fort Worth-Dallas area had 13 days of 100-degree weather. Weather officials in the Dallas area had to go back to 1911 to find a June with 13 or more days of 100-plus readings. The 113-degree readings on the 26th and 27th were the hottest ever recorded in the area.

In Arkansas, temperatures Tuesday surged to a record 104 in Little Rock as residents used a record amount of energy in their efforts to beat the heat. Jonesboro and Blytheville recorded highs of 102 and Pine Bluff reached 101, and weather officials said more could be expected today.

THIRSTY CRACKS — Thirsty cracks in parched earth of what once was a stock tank on a farm near Creedmore, Texas testifies to the prolonged heat wave that has plagued Texas farmers. More than twenty Texas cities recorded 100 degrees or more Monday. Farmers say their crops literally are burning on the ground. (AP Laserphoto)

Hunt Ways To Resume In Palestinian Negotiations

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for Egypt, Israel and the United States met this morning in a Washington hotel, looking for ways to get the foundering Palestinian autonomy negotiations back on course.

Jordan River and in Gaza. The negotiations are aimed at setting up elections and at defining the powers of the Palestinian council. Monday, Egypt joined with 38 members of the Islamic Conference to sponsor a resolution in the U.N. Security Council deploring Israeli policies in Jerusalem. The United States abstained as the resolution was adopted 14-0. Afterward, Secretary of state Edmund S. Muskie said it and past resolutions prejudged issues under negotiations.

— maybe," Burg said. The Israeli interior minister reminded reporters that Al Fatah, a principal section of the PLO, committed itself recently in Damascus to the liquidation of the Jewish state and to an alliance with the Soviet Union.

In Missouri, the mercury climbed to 110 at Columbia, erasing the former July 1 high of 101 set in 1931. It was the community's highest temperature for any date since a reading of 111 on July 18, 1954.

Kansas City recorded 109, surpassing the 103 of July 1, 1933. A 105 was reported at Lambert St. Louis International Airport, a record for the date and the first 100-plus reading there in nearly five years.

The National Weather Service, however, forecast cooler weather through Thursday. The extended outlook called for a high in the mid 90s and a low in the mid 70s through Sunday.

A top Egyptian official has already declared there is no point in negotiating if Israel does not change its policy on new settlements on the West Bank.

Burg said Israel was not about to change its position on retaining all of Jerusalem, which was reunited in the 1967 Mideast war after 19 years of Jordanian control over the old part of the city. "We said many, many times we could discuss every issue," he said. "But it doesn't mean we will change our attitude."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, unwilling to wait on the Carter administration, voted today to order development of a new strategic bomber to be in the air by 1987.

Oklahoma community because of high water use and lack of pumping facilities. He asked that water use be restricted to household and livestock necessities until new pumps are installed later in the month.

Tulsa Water Commissioner Patty Eaton was expected today to ask residents to cut back on water consumption or face rationing.

And Yosef Burg, head of the Israeli delegation, said Tuesday that while he came here "open-minded and open-hearted" for a resumption of talks today, there was no need for Israel to change its stand.

He said he would not be surprised if Egypt tried to impose its view of Israel's capital during the negotiations. "But I would be very much surprised if we gave in," Burg said.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, opposed the bomber development as "a very serious and a very costly mistake." He said a new bomber developed so fast would cost $7 billion to $8 billion would probably be shot down by the Soviets by 1988.

It would raise auto liability premiums by about $6 a year for a driver with a clean driving record and minimum coverage.

Paul L. Mize, general manager of the rate bureau, said the 22.3 percent figure is based on a review of the latest experience and upon the trend factor for the near future. This is figured for a three-year period.

The talks were suspended in early May by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, a development Burg stressed in a news conference.

On another ticklish issue, he said Israel was unwilling to discuss with Egypt the specific security measures to be taken on the West Bank after the council is set up unless the information is not given to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

When he canceled the B-1 bomber, Carter ordered development instead of a workhorse plane to carry and deliver cruise missiles in the future. But as a hedge, he ordered continued study of the B-1, a stretch version of the FB-111 and other alternatives in case the military finds it needs a new manned bomber after all to replace aging B-52s.

DISCONTINUED

Is there even one grocery store in Greenville that carries the eight-quart size packages of powdered Gatorade? I've checked with several that say they've discontinued it because it isn't a good seller. I really like it, though, and would like to continue to buy it. B. M.

Parker Overton checked with wholesalers for us and found that all in this area have discontinued stocking this product, because it just doesn't sell. If Hotline hears from any grocer who still has some in stock, we'll let you know.

TUBS NEEDED
The Pitt County Humane Society is in need of at least eight large galvanized washtubs and a number of large sponges to be used during its "Doggy Dip" to be held at Carolina East Mall Saturday, July 12.

The tubs will be promptly returned after the dip, President Elizabeth Savage and Vice President Charlotte Price said. Mrs. Savage may be contacted at 756-4867 and Mrs. Price, 752-3290.

Achievement Test Scores Announced

Results of the achievement tests given to students of the first, second, third, sixth and ninth grades in North Carolina schools last April have been revealed. In these tests, given in reading and in math, North Carolina students in grades one, three and six scored above the national median. Ninth grade students again scored below the national median — the third straight year they have done so.

Systems used were the standardized California Achievement tests. This test is used extensively in testing students throughout the nation.

Commenting on the test results, Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. said "for the first time, students in our first, second, third and sixth grades are scoring at the national average in reading and math."

The grade equivalent of the scores is correlated to the year and month when the average student in each grade is scored. Thus, the average student nationally would score: for the first grade, 1.7 (first grade, seventh month); second grade, 2.7; third grade, 3.7; sixth grade, 6.7; and ninth grade, 9.7.

Test scores in local school systems for students in the five grades taking the tests last April are:

- Greenville City Schools.
  - Reading test — first grade, 1.7; second grade, 3.2; third grade, 3.9; sixth grade, 7.0; and ninth grade, 9.6.
  - Math test — first grade, 1.8; second grade, 3.0; third grade, 3.9; sixth grade, 7.2; and ninth grade, 9.4.
  - Pitt County Schools.
    - Reading test — first grade, 1.8; second grade, 3.2; third grade, 3.7; sixth grade, 6.4; and ninth grade, 8.8.
    - Math test — first grade, 2.3; second grade, 3.3; third grade, 3.9; sixth grade, 6.7; and ninth grade, 9.0.

At the ninth grade level statewide, a total of 14 school systems had students scoring a level of grade 10.0 and higher on the reading test. The Chapel Hill city school system achieved the highest score for ninth graders, at 12.9. Four school systems in the state had students in the ninth grade scoring below 8.0 in reading.

Also on the ninth grade level in the math test, a total of 16 schools in the state had students scoring 10.0 and higher, with the Chapel Hill school being the top scorer at 12.5. Four school systems had students scoring below 8.0 in the math category.

To Publish On July 4 Holiday

Early deadlines will be observed by the news department and all items for publication should be in by 10 a.m.

Ask The Limit In Insurance Rates

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Rate Bureau has filed for a 6 percent rate hike in personal automobile insurance premiums, the highest increase allowed by law.

The hike would affect premiums on all liability, collision and comprehensive insurance policies.

It would raise auto liability premiums by about $6 a year for a driver with a clean driving record and minimum coverage.

If approved by state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, the increase would go into effect Dec. 1. Under state law, if the proposed rate hike is denied, the increases can be placed in effect and the higher premiums collected while the commissioner's action is on appeal. The money would be refunded if the court upholds the commissioner's ruling.

Rate bureau chairman Thomas S. Carpenter said in a release announcing the filing, "State law permits only a 6 percent increase, but claims costs and other data collected for this rate filing indicate the need for a 22.3 percent increase."

Paul L. Mize, general manager of the rate bureau, said the 22.3 percent figure is based on a review of the latest experience and upon the trend factor for the near future. This is figured for a three-year period.

The last insurance rate increase went into effect April 15. The rate bureau had filed for the six percent hike in November 1979. That increase meant $30 million in new revenue for the insurance industry and a $5 a year increase for drivers with the minimum required automobile liability insurance.

The state rate bureau is required by state law to formulate standard rates on behalf of all companies offering private passenger auto insurance in the state. The state also requires all companies to be members of the bureau and provide statistical data so the bureau can compile industry-wide standards.

Man Of Many Talents, C.P. Snow, Dies At 74

LONDON (AP) — C. P. Snow, the writer, physicist and government official who wrote the 11 "Strangers and Brothers" novels about 20th century British academic and government life, is dead at the age of 74.

Snow, who was made a life peer in 1964 and took the name of Lord Snow of Leicester, died Tuesday at his home in London's Chelsea district. The cause of death was not announced.

He survived his wife, novelist Pamela Hansford Johnson, whom he married in 1950, and their son, Philip, 28.

His last book, "A Coat of Varnish," was published last year. Like his first, "Death Under Sail," published in 1932, it was a murder mystery.

Snow turned away from science after the success of his second novel, "The Search," in 1934 and published the first volume in what became the "Strangers and Brothers" series in 1940. His literary career was interrupted by government service during World War II, but he returned to his fictional hero, Lewis Eliot, and his friends and associates after peace returned.

Snow was born Oct. 15, 1905, in the industrial town of Leicester. His father was a clerk in a shoe factory and a talented musician who became a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists and was playing up to age 84.

Snow attended the local grammar school and was its first pupil to go on to a university, attending Leicester University College on scholarships. He graduated with honors in chemistry in 1927 and in physics from Cambridge in 1930.

He became a Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge, where he worked for a decade, began publishing scientific papers and preparing for what he later called "my ultimate vocation — writing." He said later he left physics because he felt he was not good enough to excel in the field and thought he could be successful as a writer.

Few peers created by Labor governments bothered to take out coats of arms. But Snow did, with characteristic humor and without the customary lions, eagles, bears or ringing mottoes.

On his coat of arms, he put snow crystals, a telescope between crossed pens and his wife's school motto: "If You Don't Find A Way, Make One."

The board acknowledged the work of the Farmville Economic Council for its efforts to promote the community through economic growth. The award will be presented at a state Economic Development Conference to be held Oct. 29.

Farmville received the same award last year. "If they give us two more signs this year, we'll soon have enough for all our entrances to town," Mayor Linwood Mercer said.

It was announced that a new town administrator has been hired and will begin work Aug. 1. He is Robert Morgan, now employed by the City of Durham.

Mayor Mercer announced that he has appointed Joy Joyner-Poe and Marion Allen Stowe to the Library Board. Librarian John Barker appeared saying that the Library Board recommends approval of a recently re-drafted library ordinance. Consideration of the ordinance was set for the August commissioners' meeting.

Consideration of reimbursement of W. A. Allen Jr. for drainage work in Middle Swamp, through which the southern part of town is drained, was sent to committee. Allen spoke to the board and copies of his bill from Summerlin Dragline and Dozer Works for $3,150 were circulated.

Miss Tripp, Mr. Tyson Speak Vows Sunday

AYDEN — The Ayden Christian Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Trudy Gay Tripp and Thomas Anthony Tyson. The double ring ceremony was performed at 3 p.m. Sunday by Victor Wilson.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Kenneth Branch Mrs. Curtis Barfield, aunt of the bride, sang "The Wedding Song," "Longer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tripp Jr. of Ayden, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Mrs. Phillip A. Daniels of Memphis, Tenn., was honor attendant. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Bobby Wilson, Miss Jackie Dudley and Miss Kim Phillips, all of Ayden.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis T. Tyson of Rt. 3, Ayden. His father was best man and ushers included Micheal and Steve Tyson, brothers of the bridegroom of Rt. 3, Ayden, and Alton Cannon of Grifton, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a formal gown of white bridal satin over crepe. The gown was designed with a high scalloped neckline with a sheer yoke of English net. The gown featured an empire waist, long fitted sleeves of English net, which were decorated with appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace. Matching appliques decorated the A-line skirt and scallops of alencon lace edged the hemline. The gown extended into a chapel length train. She wore a white chapel length veil of imported silk illusion attached to a Camelot cap of matching lace. The mantilla was bordered with alencon lace. The bride carried a cascade of white roses, daisies and baby's breath with satin ribbons.

The honor attendant wore a formal gown of maize hand-painted chiffon print of blue, rose, apricot and green on a maize background. The scoop neckline was edged in piping and formed miniature shoulder straps and a blouson bodice. The elasticized waistline was encircled with a rolled tie sash. A sheer jacket with ruffled edging complemented the gown. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies and peach miniature carnations tied with silk ribbon and wore a yellow daisy and baby's breath in her hair.

Bridesmaids were dressed like the honor attendant.

Miss Cindy Barfield of Plymouth, cousin of the bride, presided at the bridal register.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C., the couple will live in Ayden.

The bride is a graduate of ECU with a degree in early childhood education. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School and is a tobacco farmer.

The church sanctuary was decorated with brass candelabra holding 30 candles and flanked with 24 branched candelabra and Boston ferns. Honor pews were marked with carnations, baby's breath and satin ribbons. The bridal couple lighted the unity candle and presented long-stemmed red roses to their mothers.

The bride's parents entertained out-of-town guests at an informal open house at their home.

The refreshment table was decorated with mixed summer flowers.

A cake cutting was given by the parents of the bride in the church fellowship hall after the rehearsal.

APRICOT SPARERIBS

4½ pounds fresh pork spareribs, cut in 1-rib portions

17-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves in heavy syrup, undrained

3 tablespoons Dijon mustard

1-3rd cup honey

1-3rd cup white rice wine vinegar

1-3rd cup soy sauce

Thinly sliced scallion

Fresh apricot halves

Bake the ribs on a rack over a roasting pan, covered tightly with foil, in a preheated 400-degree oven until tender — about 1½ hours; leave oven control at 400 degrees. In an electric blender whirl together until pureed the canned apricots with their syrup, mustard, honey, vinegar and soy sauce. Lift rack with ribs from pan; pour off fat in pan; return ribs without rack to pan; pour apricot mixture over them. Return, uncovered, to oven; bake, basting several times, until browned — about ½ hour longer. Skim excess fat from sauce; pour sauce over ribs. Sprinkle with the scallion and garnish with the fresh apricots.

Dear Abby

Neat Kid Didn't Show

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago I met a real neat kid. We hit it off swell together. He asked me for my telephone number and I gave it to him.

The next day he called and we made a date for that Friday night. He never showed up and never called. Yesterday I bumped into him by accident, and he said he was sorry about what happened last Friday, but something unexpected came up and he couldn't make it.

He asked if he could see me that night and I said yes. Well, he didn't show up and didn't call. Next Saturday night my girlfriend is having a party, and she told me to bring my own guy. Do you think I should give this kid another chance? I still like him.

HOLES IN MY HEAD

DEAR HOLES: If you do, you should borrow the rocks in his head to fill up the holes in yours.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I married a beautiful woman. She had the kind of beauty that most men can only dream about. She was cuddly and loving before we were married and until about a month after, then Bobby, her 9-year-old son, took over.

She prepares only Bobby's favorite food (mainly hamburgers) and never asks me what I want. When I suggest something, I'm told, "We aren't used to eating that!"

She speaks of her rights and Bobby's rights. Never mine. She buys him any toy he wants. He already has more than 100 in cartons and tires of them quickly.

She allows Bobby to hold and touch her, but I am told it's not "proper" for a husband and wife to show physical affection in front of children. She's 43, I'm 46, but a 9-year-old rules our house. We have to watch his favorite TV shows, and when we eat out, we go where Bobby wants to go.

Abby, I was willing to accept her son; he's part of her. But I feel like an outsider looking in. Until he was 7, he slept with her. (He had no bed of his own.)

How can I get Bobby to share his mother with me? I'm not even allowed to correct him. If I try, she jumps all over me, so I just pay their bills and get nothing out of our marriage. What is your advice?

OUTSIDER IN CHICAGO

DEAR OUTSIDER: Tell your bride that you are dissatisfied with your marriage and will need her cooperation (and Bobby's) to improve it. Family counseling, involving all members of the family, will be required. If she refuses to cooperate, you can either dissolve the marriage or hang around while the lady "with the kind of beauty most men dream about" continues to use you.

DEAR ABBY: Would you care to speculate on why a man would lose three wedding rings in the first four years of his marriage?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He either consciously or unconsciously doesn't want to a) be married, b) look married, c) feel married. Or a combination of all three.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Couple Weds Saturday

Debra Louise Sturtevant and Billy Ray Harrelson Jr., both of Greenville, exchanged wedding vows Saturday at 11 a.m. The private family wedding took place in the parlor of Hooker Memorial Christian Church with the Rev. Ralph Messick performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Patricia Herring Sturtevant and the bridegroom is the son of Billy Harrelson Sr. The couple will make their home near Greenville.

Miss Mosley Is Officer

RALEIGH — Miss Gigi Mosley of Greenville was selected to serve as Grand Service at the 43rd Grand Assembly of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls.

The assembly was held at the Civic Center here.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mosley, Miss Mosley is a past worthy advisor of Greenville Assembly No. 67. She is also immediate past Grand Representative to Oklahoma.

The local assembly also received first place in the scrapbook competition. The scrapbook was designed and kept by Miss Connie Briley and Miss Rose Jackson. They are also past worthy advisors.

Others, attending from Greenville were Miss Joyce Riggan, Worthy Advisor, who participated in the Worthy Advisors drill and Miss Kathryn Kelley, who carried the scrapbook in the Parade of Scrapbooks. Miss Jackson also served as grand page and Miss Briley was a flag carrier in the opening ceremonies.

Dr. Betty Levey, Mother Advisor of the Greenville Assembly, and Mrs. Sarah Ashton, Advisory Board member, accompanied the delegates.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

An actor whose name I've forgotten once said on a talk show, "Husbands and wives see one another at the worst possible part of the day - a few minutes in the mornings when they're pressured and trying to get on with their day, and in the evenings when they have no more to give and are irritable and exhausted."

Talk Buying Publication

NEW YORK (AP) - A Chicago foundation has taken steps to acquire Harper's magazine, a 130-year-old publication that announced last month it was closing shop, the New York Times reported today.

The Times quoted sources among foundations and in publishing as saying that the John D. and Catherine MacArthur Foundation is considering the purchase of Harper's.

The Times said the foundation discussed the sale with Otto Siha, chairman of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, which owns the magazine.

J. Roderick MacArthur, an official of the foundation, said he had to "deny officially" that the foundation sought to buy the magazine.

The foundation has assets from the real estate fortune of John D. McArthur, an insurance and real estate man who died in 1978. The fortune is said to range from $500 million to $700 million.

A number of members of the MacArthur family have had an interest in journalism. McArthur's brother, Charles, was co-author with Ben Hecht of the play "The Front Page."

The foundation last year announced a $6.5 million program to provide grants to gifted artists to free them of financial burdens for at least five years.

The Times said the foundation's trustees are expected to meet in Chicago on Tuesday to decide whether to push for the purchase of Harper's.

Do you share with her the joy you reserve for the comic page or the office Christmas party?

Do you have the compassion for her pain that you do for the kid who parks your car and is going to have a root canal?

Do you have the patience with her that you have with your biggest client who puts you on "hold"?

Wives - do you have the honesty with your husband that you do with your gynecologist?

Are you as enthusiastic for his return as you are when your washer repairman arrives?

Are you as interested in his day as you are with the menu at Baskin-Robbins?

Do you make his children seem as wonderful to him as you did when you explained them to their teachers?

Do you feel his disappointments as deeply as you did with the cast of "Ryan's Hope"?

Do you have the same pride in his achievements as when you got the mold off the grouting in the hall shower?

Do you feel the same glow for him that you did when they validated your parking ticket at the dentist's office?

Do you fuss with your appearance with him as much as when you visit your safety deposit box?

It's something to think about.

Pitt Budget Reasonable

County commissioners last week approved a budget of $10.08 million and a tax rate of $1.03.

That means an increase in your taxes, of course — eight cents per $100 valuation over the rate for the 1979-80 fiscal year. But it could have been worse. Requests by department heads would have called for a tax rate of $1.32. As late as a week before the budget was finally approved the county commissioners were looking at a possible tax rate of $1.10. Thanks to some flexibility on the part of the Pitt County Board of Education in using part of its $963,200 surplus for capital improvements, the increase in tax rate was pared a bit.

Because the county schools were agreeable to using some of its surplus for capital outlay the county commissioners were able to cut $257,600 from the capital improvements budget and hold down the tax increase. The question immediately comes to mind, if the county schools can build a surplus, why then can't the city school system? But that is another topic.

The big increase in the budget funds, of course, was for personnel. There are funds for a ten percent increase in salaries for county employees, and that requires considerable money. Given the ravages of inflation, however, it would be difficult to argue against the increase.

Large increases were also needed to cover much higher energy costs. This is involved in many areas — transportation, heating and air conditioning of buildings and maintenance. It is a cost no governmental unit — nor individual can escape. At the same time it is one all of us can minimize somewhat by conserving. There should be many ways governments can do this with careful management.

The county budget is approved for the coming year and, despite the tax increase, we feel the county commissioners have done everything they can to trim the budget.

SOMETHING SEEMS RADICALLY WRONG!

Our Next Stop Will Be

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — So Delta Flight 604 out of Atlanta landed at MacDill Air Force Base instead of the Tampa, Fla., commercial airport.

And one of the passengers jumped up and yelled, "Hey, this guy's going to the wrong airport." But the stewardess told him to sit down and shut up and fasten his seat belt.

always had two or three carriers working Dixie Station, south of Saigon, and three or four up at Yankee Station, off Da Nang in the north, so mistakes were bound to happen. Down there, they all looked about the size of postage stamps and there was no telling them apart, except for the Enterprise, which was nuclear and had no smoke coming from its stack.

I've landed on carriers (as a nervous passenger) a dozen or more times and,

Well, those things can happen. In fact, I know from personal experience that they do happen. Probably another 49-cent computer component freaked out and blipped the wrong information, like that erroneous Russian missile alert a few weeks back.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

That Delta pilot is lucky he didn't land on the wrong aircraft carrier, as sometimes used to happen with the U.S. 7th fleet off Vietnam.

The Airport Authority took over the fuel and related operations of the Airport in 1973 in order to assure the public of proper service in these categories at the hours that it is needed, and to encourage growth and expansion of the Airport. The Authority saw the opportunity to offset part of the operating expenses of maintaining the Airport by selling fuel, and it has saved the taxpayers approximately $200,000 since that time. The personnel who maintain the grounds, buildings, landing and lighting systems on the field are also the same people who pump the fuel.

Then the plane pushers in the blue sweatshirts and the ammo handlers in the red sweatshirts and the mechanics in the green sweatshirts and all those other war-bored deckhands on Vultures Row, as they called the business side of the flight deck, would have rushed out with cans of paint and buckets of grease and scrawled obscenities and insults and all sorts of crude calling cards on the pristine aluminum cabin and fuselage of his 727 Jet.

On June 23 Mr. Fuchs inferred that the fuel sales operation was actually costing the Authority and the taxpayers money (It netted $39,500 after expenses in the fiscal year just ending). The question would have to be asked of Mr. Fuchs, if it is losing money, then why does he want it?

Then, aside from ignorant legislators and a powerful bureaucracy, there is the matter of the "professional governor" which has become the norm in North Carolina. You don't have a man coming to the mansion from the private sector anymore ... you have fulltime politicians who have never done anything but hold elective office and who plan to hold public office in the future. They have never met a payroll or produced anything.

The Authority did request an increase in the operational budget for next year due to expanded facilities and inflation over the past several years. The Authority cannot continue to draw as it did this year and does not believe it proper to operate on funds previously designated for capital improvements. The Authority received $37,000 in each of the past two years, as compared to $28,000 in 1974 and $44,000 in 1976.

Or was it Willie Fud? Anyhow, Willie was an ugly looking bird with a mushroom dome of radar stuff on its back that hovered up there somewhere during all air sorties and acted as an electronic marshaling yard, directing the bombers and the fighters back to their different carriers.

It is time for Mr. Fuchs and Alfa to live up to its lease (which was negotiated for one year prior to execution) in spirit, or to terminate if he does not intend to do so. It is also time for him to support the efforts of the Airport rather than trying to divide it, which hurts everyone.

And finally, there are the employee organizations. But it is not so much political pressure which wins for them, says Rauch. It is the fulltime lobbyists who represent the employees. They are, he says, skillful, intelligent, well-liked and professional. Some are former legislators and are "insiders". They develop

Would See Carter Lose

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Suspicion that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is continuing his future run for president only to insure President Carter's defeat against Ronald Reagan has been hardened into fact at the White House by pointed remarks attributed to a respected Kennedy lieutenant.

Another Kennedy backer, who has close connections to the senator's inner circle, told us he is convinced that Kennedy's advisers view 1984 as easier for Teddy if Reagan is elected in 1980. A Reagan victory would also help dispose of Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who is not beloved of Kennedy and his closest associates.

The acknowledged desire to see Carter lose was linked to Washington lawyer-lobbyist James O'Hara, a senior tactician in Kennedy's upcoming floor fight at Madison Square Garden. An account of his remarks was conveyed to presidential aides within hours. O'Hara has unequivocally denied it all, but the source is unimpeachable and totally believed by the White House.

This tends to lift the veil of mystery covering Kennedy's political activities since the last round of primary elections June 3. He attended none of the last state conventions picking delegates, has divulged no workable strategy for winning the nomination and has failed adequately to explain his motives for staying in.

The conversation in question concerned the overriding political puzzle in Washington today: Since he cannot be nominated himself and has only the most remote chance of stopping Carter, what makes Teddy run? That question is asked not only by Carterites but by many Kennedy backers.

The few Democrats in Congress who endorsed Kennedy for president now look for an end of fighting and a start on reconciliation. In telephone calls to the senator seeking explanations of his present conduct and future intentions, they have been getting Kennedy doubletalk.

In this instance, it was asked of O'Hara by a pro-Carter Democrat. O'Hara, a former Michigan congressman with close ties to the United Auto Workers, now practices law in Washington. Chairman of the party's rules commission in 1972 and one of the leading authorities on national convention rules, he will lead the Kennedy floor fight against proposed Rule 11 (h) binding pledged delegates to vote for Carter.

But those congressmen have had better luck than Carter's campaign chairman, Robert S. Strauss. Strauss has gone days on end trying unsuccessfully to reach Kennedy and Steve Smith, Kennedy's brother-in-law and campaign manager, on the telephone. That only confirms the Carter camp's belief in the account of O'Hara's indiscretion. The president's men are now in a mood to counterattack, heightening the prospect for a hot August in New York.

The Rule 11 (h) fight was raised by the Carter backer in questioning O'Hara. It was becoming the common perception, he said, that this persistent Kennedy effort was aimed at so weakening Carter that he would lose to Reagan in November. That would leave a clear field for Kennedy in 1984 when the political climate might be more in his favor.

Soviet Union Wants Iran

Iran has been engulfed in a frenzy of nationalism coupled with religious zeal.

It caused that nation to allow the national shame of a group seizing the United States' embassy and holding the Americans there hostage.

That these people could be allowed to do this in a so-called civilized nation, no doubt is linked to the wave of anti-American feeling which swept the country.

We have said previously, however, that Iran's greatest threat is from the Soviets on its border. Last weekend Iran expelled a Russian diplomat for exchanging what the government called "intelligence documents" with a foreigner.

We can't judge this particular case, but you can be sure that the Soviet Union has plans to grab Iran, and its oil, when the time is ripe.

THIS AFTERNOON Budget Pressures

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Why have members of the North Carolina General Assembly given endorsement to a new budget which is guaranteed to push state spending to new record levels in coming years, assuring that higher taxes will be required to maintain that level?

average," Rauch said, while pointing out that there are a number of underpaid people at the bottom of the heap, but the salaries paid at mid- and

BILL NOBLITT upper-management levels offset that differential and are typically higher in the private sector.

Rauch admits that he is "scared" of the direction the state is going, and so are many of his fellow businessmen in the state.

"But I know it won't stop until legislators realize the extreme danger of the precipice we are on" ... and he acknowledges that all too many legislators are totally ignorant of what is going on.

You come in here from the private world, and for the first year or two you are so proud to be a part of this great lawmaking machinery, Rauch recalls. And then you get frustrated, and you realize that you aren't making about doing what somebody else tells you to do or advises you to do.

And then, after a few years, you become a veteran — a part of the group which is really doing the work ... a legislative leader. After just a little while, though, you realize that you aren't a legislative leader at all ... you are still just doing what somebody else tells you to do or advises you to do. Only this time, it's the bureaucracy and the governor who are telling you what to do, Rauch points out. You are just a rubberstamp.

Professionals
The bureaucracy, Rauch explains, is staffed by extremely competent people who spend all their time planning and scheming how to get what they want ... and what they want is growth and higher salaries and power. Success in the bureaucracy is measured by how many people answer to a given individual.

Then, aside from ignorant legislators and a powerful bureaucracy, there is the matter of the "professional governor" which has become the norm in North Carolina. You don't have a man coming to the mansion from the private sector anymore ... you have fulltime politicians who have never done anything but hold elective office and who plan to hold public office in the future. # Strength For Today

THE MAGNET
On the desk on which this article is being written are two pen holders. One is always coming loose and allowing the pen to drop down; the other never comes loose because the pen holder is held by a powerful magnet.

All true virtue is voluntary virtue. We are not good when we are compelled to be good; we are good only when, confronted by a choice between good and evil, we choose the right and spurn the wrong. And it has long ago been discovered that it is not primarily a law or a code of laws which usually holds people to decency and honest living, but some powerful force within their own hearts.

We call this conscience — or heritage — or family upbringing — or good fortune — or the grace of God. It is probably all of these and yet more. For the Christian it is loyalty to Jesus Christ as Lord. This is the magnet which keeps a person a Christian, once he has met the requirements of becoming a Christian. —Elisha Douglass

Consumerism Finally Is Rule

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer
Not long ago, some of Atlanta's ritziest jewelry retailers were caught red-handed selling smoky quartz as semi-precious topaz.

other states. The available weapons are civil, not criminal, in most cases. The agency can use fines, subpoenas, injunctions and lawsuits.

Out-of-state vacationers peeling through Georgia on Interstate 75 routinely expected to be ripped off by auto mechanics.

But in Georgia, the obstacles to consumerism — namely, swarms of business-oriented lobbies and a relative lack of pro-consumer voices — have been more stubborn than in many other states, Ryles says.

And Georgia shoppers, as likely as not, would go to stores and find advertised specials not in stock, or being sold at prices 25 percent or more above the advertised prices.

But in Georgia, the obstacles to consumerism — namely, swarms of business-oriented lobbies and a relative lack of pro-consumer voices — have been more stubborn than in many other states, Ryles says.

"Let the buyer beware" seemingly was as Georgian as peaches and peanuts.

But in Georgia, the obstacles to consumerism — namely, swarms of business-oriented lobbies and a relative lack of pro-consumer voices — have been more stubborn than in many other states, Ryles says.

For the past five years, Tim Ryles has tried to change that. His efforts have begun to turn Georgia's relatively poor consumer image around — and have brought him some political attention besides.

During Jimmy Carter's term as governor in the early 1970s, Ryles says, there were three unsuccessful attempts to set up a state consumer agency. The attempts were blocked by then-Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, and by heavy business lobbying.

Since then, said Ryles in an interview, his office's caseload has gone from about 41,000 five years ago to about 90,000 today.

The complaints Ryles and his staff of 50 deal with are, in order of frequency, auto repairs, auto warranties and advertising, housing problems, energy fraud (including false claims about home insulation), and retail sales problems.

Complaints about auto repair ripoffs on Interstate 75 — exposed last year on national television with Ryles' cooperation on CBS' "60 Minutes" — have fallen from about 350 a year to less than 20 this year.

Most recently, says Ryles, there has been an upswing in complaints about bankers and other mortgage lenders who insist on a "due on sale clause," where the home seller has to pay off the balance of his mortgage before the sale is closed. That means the potential homebuyer cannot assume the old mortgage at a low interest rate.

Above all, Ryles' vocal "go-public" style has brought consumerism forcefully onto Georgia's political landscape — including, for instance, his agency's public exposure of retail jewelry fraud in Atlanta.

Ryles, who enjoys the political limelight and writes a weekly consumer column that appears in a number of Georgia newspapers, says in response to frequent speculation about his future ambitions, "I want to stay in government for a good while, whether it's appointive or elective."

He says "public exposure of consumer fraud is often more feared than enforcement," adding with a chuckle: "We're not what you'd call the shrinking violets in state government."

In 1974, Ryles served on the successful gubernatorial campaign of George Busbee. Busbee, says Ryles, campaigned on the promise to foster consumerism and after a final tough lobbying struggle, the agency was created in 1975 with Ryles placed immediately at the helm.

In Georgia, yes, Washington, no.

Alford Honored At Library Meet

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Four people from Pitt County are here this week for the annual convention of the American Library Association, being held June 28-July 4, where Superintendent of Pitt County Schools Ott Alford was recognized by the American Association of School Librarians at the Awards Luncheon July 1 at the New York Hilton Hotel.

As recipient of the Distinguished Service Award he is accompanied by Mrs. Alford, Jamie Manning, principal of Bethel Elementary and Jean Averette, supervisor of Library/Media Programs in the Pitt County Schools. Mrs. Elsa Brumback, director of educational media for the State Department of Public Instruction, whose office recommended Alford for the national recognition, is also in attendance.

The American Library Association represents Library/Media activities from the public and private sectors. Pitt County Schools and Charlotte-Mecklenburg were recognized this year at the state level as having the best statewide programs. The Pitt County program began under the supervision of Mrs. Manning and has been continued by Mrs. Averette. According to Superintendent Alford, the leadership of these two women is instrumental in the state recognition of the libraries in Pitt County Schools and in his national recognition. "I was recognized today as a result of their work along with that of local school library/media coordinators' support and leadership by the principals of these 20 schools and with the assistance and cooperation of teachers, students and parents," commented Alford. "The school system is appreciative of support given at the county level making possible these facilities and materials for the ongoing improvement of education for young people."

coming in that fast even on the slower OOD (carrier on board delivery?) planes, I never kept my eyes open long enough to figure out how they did it at speeds of 100 or more miles an hour. I knew the tail hook of the plane grabbed some kind of cable on the deck, because your stomach usually landed about five seconds before the rest of you. I never cared which carrier we were on as long as we weren't in the drink. Night landings were the scariest.

I was even on a plane once that landed at the wrong dry land airport in Vietnam. We were flying up to Tay Ninh in the rubber plantation country near the Cambodian border in a Caribou, a Canadian-built minitroop transport built for short runways. The pilot set her down on a gravel strip in the middle of what appeared to be a cemetery. At least there were tombstones and Buddhist shrines on both sides. As we taxied to a stop in front of a bamboo shack where a rather pudgy American sergeant lay sprawled in an aluminum chaise lounge with a walkie-talkie radio in one hand and a beer can in the other.

"Sergeant," the pilot

barked brisly, "where's the turn around apron on this field?"

"I don't know, sir," he drawled disinterestedly, thumbing open another flip top. "This here is the MAAG helicopter pad. We don't ordinarily get real planes."

An elephant, so help me, watched us with a boredom to match the sergeant's from a thicket of mangroves. The province chief's elephant, so I was told later although I never got to check this information.

"O.K. folks, we'll all deplane right here and get you some ground transport," the pilot announced cheerfully, as if this sort of thing happened fairly often in a war. Maybe it did. The sergeant did say "ordinarily," but that just might have been an enlisted man's cool way of saying he never was surprised at anything officers did. And no one came out and painted nasty things on that already camouflaged Caribou.

For all I know, that plane is still there, rusting away in the jungles watched over by that privately owned elephant, unless they got a whole tribe of Montagnards to turn it around, the way President Johnson was always going to turn the war around.

And, of course, there was wrong-way Corrigan, who set out for California and landed in Ireland. Or have I got it the wrong way around?

Anyhow, the moral of the story is: don't bother jumping up to tell your Delta (or whatever) stewardess that the plane is landing at the wrong field. Leave the problems of the flight deck up to those who are better qualified to handle them.

Just order another drink, and the hell with it.

Token U.S. Support Of Thailand Being Instituted

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON AP — In a token show of U.S. support, President Carter has ordered an immediate airlift of 1,000 rifles, some artillery and anti-tank guns to the Thailand army facing powerful Vietnamese forces along the Thai-Cambodian border.

Carter also ordered artillery and machine gun ammunition shipped as soon as possible. But it will have to go by sea because of its weight and bulk and is unlikely to reach Thailand for weeks.

In a related action, Carter said Tuesday that the seaborne shipment of 35 improved M-48A5 tanks, with bigger guns and better engines than present models, will be "expedited" after a 30-day congressional review of the tank sale is completed July 24.

Originally, the Defense Department had planned to start sending the tanks to Thailand in September under a deal negotiated before the recent outbreak of Thai-Vietnamese fighting.

All the items covered by Carter's hurry-up action — valued at about $27 million — have already been bought and paid for by the Thais. They are a tiny part of a backlog of nearly $600 million in a long shopping list of military equipment, spare parts and other items the Thais have submitted to Washington over a period of years but which have yet to be delivered.

Pentagon officials said "we are continuing to examine the availability of additional items of equipment from U.S. service stocks which Thailand already has ordered, and indicated further shipments may be lined up in a matter of days."

The airlift of the M-16 rifles, 18 105-millimeter howitzers and 38 anti-tank recoilless guns will be carried out by six or seven U.S. Air Force C-141 transport planes which will collect them from U.S. arsenals and fly them directly to Bangkok.

Officials said the first flight may leave today — with howitzers from the Rock Island arsenal at Moline, Ill.

The 106-millimeter anti-tank guns are being drawn from Army supplies at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and the 1,000 rifles are coming from Anniston Army Depot in Alabama.

Unless the United States follows up these relatively small shipments with massive supplies, it appears the small arms, artillery pieces and anti-tank guns and ammunition, by themselves, will add only slightly to the military power of the 145,000-member Thai army, which is heavily outnumbered by the Vietnamese.

Vietnam's army in Cambodia is estimated to total about 200,000 men, with an additional 300,000 behind them in North and South Vietnam.

Where the Thais have about 170 tanks, the Vietnamese are credited with having about 1,400 to 1,500, although only a relatively few of these are in positions to threaten the Thais at the present time.

The symbolic nature of the president's action ordering the immediate airlift was underscored by statements by Pentagon officials that the U.S. government will pay the $1 million airlift cost "as a measure of our support for Thailand in the wake of Vietnam's attack on her border area."

The Pentagon also said, "We will try to meet as many of their (Thai) requests as we can without jeopardizing the combat readiness of the U.S. armed forces."

The U.S. security relationship with Thailand has gone up and down with the changing fortunes of both countries in southeast Asia.

During the Vietnam war, Thailand provided bases for some 600 U.S. warplanes which bombed North Vietnam and North Vietnamese supply lines through Laos. At the war's peak, there were 49,000 U.S. military personnel in Thailand.

As it became clear in 1975 that Vietnam was going to fall, the Thais ordered U.S. forces out of their country and sought a live-and-let-live arrangement with the communist Vietnamese. Cambodians and Laos along the meandering Thai border.

The Vietnamese forays into Thailand have once again compelled the Bangkok government to turn to the United States, although the War Powers Act enacted by an anti-Vietnam Congress and the mood of the U.S. population makes it highly unlikely the United States will offer anything but material aid. U.S. officials cited a 1954 pact signed by the United States and Thailand, along with other countries, as the basis of what they still regard as a U.S. alliance with Thailand.

President Signing Draft Registration Law Today

By RÁNDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is making it official: American men aged 19 and 20 are being told to sign-up later this month so the government will have potential conscripts waiting if the draft is revived. The president was signing a proclamation at a White House ceremony today ordering the young men to sign up at post offices between July 21 and Aug. 1. Despite its limited scope, registration, the first since 1975, has proven controversial. Congress approved money to run the system only after a Senate filibuster; opponents have threatened demonstrations, and the American Civil Liberties Union has filed suit to block it.

But the director of Selective Service, Bernard Rostker, emphasized Tuesday that only standby registration is involved for now, and that action by Congress would be necessary before conscription could take place.

Registration is necessary, he added, because there would not be enough time in the event of a national emergency to conduct registration. But opponents of registration have noted a Selective Service report, which officials later disavowed, that said the standby program would save only seven days. Twenty-year-old men, those born in 1960, will register the week of July 21. To avoid crowding, men born in January, February and March are asked to register that Monday, those born April through June on Tuesday, July through September on Wednesday and those born in October, November and December on Thursday. The week of July 28 will follow the same pattern for men born in 1961. Officials said these day-by-day schedules are intended only as a guideline and that individuals can register anytime during the period. People who don't register can be subject to five years in prison or a $10,000 fine and officials say they will enforce the law.

Carter originally proposed registering both men and women, but Congress rejected that idea, limiting it to men. That action formed the basis for the ACLU suit, which contends the program discriminates against men.

While youths aged 19 and 20 will be registered this year, starting in January, men born in 1962 will register, and from then on registration will be required on or near the date men turn 18.

There won't be any draft cards to carry in wallets — or burn in protest. Instead, young men will be asked to go to their nearest post office — not including contract offices in stores — to fill out a form. Those forms will be sent to Selective Service, which will use them to form a master list, eventually intended to include all men aged 18 to 26.

Physical exams, claims for conscientious objector status and other deterrents would follow only if a draft is reinstated. The current program seeks only to compile a list of names.

Some form of identification will be requested at the post offices and the form must be filled out at the post office and handed to a clerk.

Brochures will be available in English and Spanish, but postal clerks are not Selective Service officials and likely will not be able to answer most questions. Queries should be sent to Selective Service headquarters in Washington.

Rostker said youths who sign up should receive a letter confirming their registration within 90 days and should check the information on this letter for accuracy. Two copies will be sent. One can be used to correct mistakes or notify Selective Service of any change of address; the other copy is for the individual to keep.

Opponents of the plan, led by the Committee Against Registration and the Draft, have vowed to conduct demonstrations tying up business at post offices during the registration period.

And officials of the ACLU, while holding out little hope that their suit would be acted upon in time to prevent registration from beginning, predicted last month that the matter would be before the Supreme Court "before long."

N.C. Delegates To White House

RÁLEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina delegates to the Democratic National Convention who are pledged to support President Carter have been invited to a White House briefing Aug. 1.

The 36 Tar Heel delegates will be among 650 people from 12 states invited to the White House that day. Visits by delegates from other states will be spread over two days.

Longed For Job Serving Britain

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Windsor, who abdicated the British throne in the name of love more than 40 years ago, spoke on his deathbed of "the waste, the waste" and said he had longed for a job serving his country, his former nurse says.

In an intimate account of the duke's last hours before his death in Paris on May 28, 1972, nurse Oonagh Shanley was quoted in Woman Magazine Tuesday as saying the duke became semi-delirious, his eyes brimming with tears.

"In all the conversations he had with me in the previous deteriorating days, he'd said several times how much he'd longed to be given a worthwhile job for his own country."

But at the very end, the duke — who as King Edward VIII gave up his throne in 1936 to marry American divorcee Wallis Simpson — seemed, at peace again, the nurse said.

Predict Southeast To Escape Brunt Of Recession

ATLANTA (AP) — The Southeast will escape the full brunt of the current recession, according to the annual regional economic forecast released Wednesday by the Conference Board.

W. Bethel Minter, a member of the Conference Board's Forum who is chief economist for the Trust Company of Georgia in Atlanta, said the Southeast is more fortunate than much of the rest of the nation for the moment, and probably for the remainder of the recession.

At worst, he said, the recession is expected to hit this region no harder than it will the nation as a whole, and certainly much less severely than the recessionary upheavals of 1973-1975.

Minter said there is no serious overbuilding here now, as there was in 1973, to help bring the region to its knees. However, the 1980 housing collapse has adversely affected the furniture and lumber industries, which are relatively important to the economic well-being of the region.

"The recession has hit the nation with a vengeance, and it is now clear that the Southeast will not be spared its effects," Minter said. "Until 1974, the popular mythology had it that the Southeast was largely immune from the effects of national recession. However, that myth was largely based on the experience of the 1960 and 1970 downturns."

"These were the two mildest postwar setbacks," he said. "The 1974-75 recession, the most severe postwar recession, impacted the Southeast more severely than the rest of the nation. This experience will probably not be repeated during 1980."

But every state in the Southeast is expected to have fewer workers on non-agricultural payrolls by December 1980, even though the severity of its impact is likely to vary as much among the states of the region, depending on their industrial mix, as it does among the regions themselves, the forecast said.

For instance, Alabama and Mississippi will likely suffer more than Georgia and the other states of the region in this recession, the forecast said. And Florida, with its legions of retired persons on pensions and social security, will be hurt least of the Southeastern states, it said.

"The thing that's really most striking about what's going on currently has been the big boost in initial claims for unemployment in the Southeast, except for Florida," said Lewis Jones, assistant to Minter at Trust Co. "Florida is still lagging in terms of going into the recession. But Georgia's unemployment claims are over 200 percent higher this May than they were in May of 1979.

Minter predicts that the Southeast, which had been doing relatively well in terms of growth and employment over the last several years, will continue to do so during 1980 and 1981, but he says some erosion of the progress is almost certain.

The region, which enjoyed growth rates in personal income of more than 12 percent for the past two years, will register only an 11 percent increase during 1980, he said. This includes Florida and North Carolina, the only two of the seven Southeastern states which enjoyed growth in total employment during the first four months of the year.

But the 11 percent rise will be better than the rest of the country, which will see an actual decrease in real personal income this year and a relatively weak recovery in 1981, he said.

"For Georgia, it is expected that wage and salary income will pick up very strongly in 1981," Minter said. "Georgia is probably the most underbuilt of the Southeast states in terms of housing, and the state's three auto assembly plants should return to more normal levels of production."

The most disturbing area in Georgia's economic picture is its vulnerability in retail sales, Minter said.

"Based on its high sales in relation to state personal income, Georgia appears to be the most vulnerable of the region's states to weakening sales

Prince Adds Skill To Many

CUMBERNAULD, Scotland (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles is a pilot, polo player, skier and sailor, and now he's added another skill — hydraulic cradle-lift driver.

The latest exploit of the heir to the British throne came Tuesday at the American-owned Capital Development Corp. factory in Cumbernauld, where the prince took the controls of the huge crane-like construction vehicle, sending its 60-foot extending arm through maneuvers.

A company spokesman said later: "He is a born lift driver. With all his experience with helicopters, what else can you expect?"

Mass Parachute Jump Scheduled

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A mass parachute assault by about 2,500 Fort Bragg soldiers is scheduled at a joint Army-Air Force training exercise at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida July 7-11.

Paratroopers participating in the operation will be under the command of Lt. Gen. Thomas H. Tackaberry, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps and Fort Bragg.

The program will include personnel from the 18th Airborne Corps and the Air Force's Military Airlift Command and Tactical Air Command.

Garwood Asserts Masked Witness Can Clear Him

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood claims he watched the execution of prisoners by the Vietnamese communists and that the man who supervised those deaths was a refugee who testified anonymously before a congressional committee last week.

That announcement came Tuesday at a hearing leading to Garwood's court-martial in a few weeks on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam. John Lowe, one of Garwood's lawyers, told the military judge he wants a confrontation between Garwood and the refugee for positive identification. Garwood, based on newspaper photos of the masked man at the congressional hearing, last Friday, tentatively identified the man as the former head of North Vietnam's secret police and the vice chief of security for that country.

Lowe said Garwood had face-to-face meetings with the man and "pleaded to be sent home" but remained a captive until he returned to the United States last year after nearly 14 years in Vietnam.

The refugee, unnamed by congressional investigators or Garwood's lawyers, "will exonerate Pfc. Garwood on desertion charges and other charges rising out of this case and give credence to other things Pfc. Garwood has been saying all along," Lowe declared.

Col. R.E. Switzer, the presiding judge, refused to issue a subpoena but he ordered Defense Department officials to hold the refugee in the United States and to allow Garwood to fully identify the man, "either through a lineup or personal confrontation."

There were no indications that the man would be brought to Camp Lejeune in the near future.

The pre-trial hearing was to resume at 9 a.m. today with arguments on separate defense motions scheduled.
The refugee, his face shielded by a mask, told a congressional subcommittee last Friday that he knew of two or three sightings of Americans still alive in Vietnam in recent years.
The refugee, identified only as a mortician, also was quoted as telling investigators he knew that the remains of some 400 American servicemen were still in Vietnam.

Garwood, according to Lowe, was told by the Vietnamese official before Garwood's release that American bodies "were going to be held for ransom by the North Vietnamese."
Garwood did not speak publicly during Tuesday's proceedings but he frequently whispered to his attorneys as Lowe quoted his remembrances about the Vietnamese official.
The defense wants to put the refugee on the witness stand, if it is the man Garwood thinks it is.
The man could exonerate Garwood, Lowe said, and he also would "know of other live American prisoners in Vietnam, if there are other live Americans as we think there are."
Garwood's lawyers were unavailable after court to elaborate on their claim. Defense attorneys and prosecutors are under a judge's order not to talk to newsmen outside of court proceedings.
The defense hopes to show during the trial that Garwood was not the only American left in Vietnam when most prisoners of war came home in 1973.
Military prosecutors contend Garwood was staying in Vietnam on his own, and they point to his status as the only American to be proven alive in Vietnam since 1973 as support for their argument.
In a separate motion, the defense asked for classified reports of alleged sightings of Americans in Vietnam in recent years, with most of those reports coming from Vietnamese "boat people."
But Switzer denied that motion after prosecutors argued that the reports are classified and that no sightings can be substantiated.
Lowe countered by saying, "I emphasize that while none of these reports can be substantiated, none can be refuted."

Lillian Knows Role: To Charm

CHRISTIANSTED, U.S. Virgin Islands (AP) — President Carter's mother says she know what she's supposed to do and what she isn't.

"My job is to charm," said 81-year-old Lillian Carter. "I stay out of politics."

Mrs. Carter is in the Virgin Islands this week for two hospital ground-breaking ceremonies. The first was here on St. Croix Tuesday and the other will be today on St. Thomas. Currently the Virgin Islands is without an accredited hospital. The two government-run facilities lost their accreditation last year. The new ones will be built at a total cost of $32 million, with 90 per cent of the funding provided by the federal government.

Met by hundreds of islanders in the U.S. territory, a vacation playground, Mrs. Carter said, "I've brought plenty of money. Where shall I spend it?"

Guest Preacher Will Be Heard

The Rev. Gayla Estes will be the guest preacher at Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday at 10 a.m.

He is associate minister at First United Methodist Church, Washington, N.C.

Dr. Glenn Holm, minister at Holy Trinity, announced a time change for the Sunday morning worship hour. Services will be held at 10 a.m. until after Labor Day. There is also a children's church for younger children during the same hour.
Holy Trinity is located at 1400 Red Banks Rd.

With The Armed Services

Yeoman 3.C. Ruthie Ayasha Muhammad, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams of Ayden, has been selected for entry on July 19 into the Officer Candidate School at the Naval Education and Training Center, Newport, R.I. She is currently serving as an administrative assistant at the Naval Military Personnel Command in Washington, D.C. Before enlisting in the Navy last June, she graduated from South Ayden High School and North Carolina A&T State University, Greensboro.

Henry Clifton Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Harris Sr. of Rt. 6, Greenville, enlisted in the Air Force under the delayed enlistment program which allowed him to accumulate time in the Reserve until he entered active duty on June 14. Harris, a 1980 graduate of North Pitt High School, qualified for the general field of training.

Wayne H. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis of Robersonville, was commissioned a second lieutenant through the Air Force ROTC program at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Davis, who earned a bachelor's degree, has been assigned at MacDill AFB, Fla. He is a 1976 graduate of Roanoke High School.

Gregory T. Pickler, an aviation boatswain's mate airman recruit, reported for duty with the USS Independence, Norfolk, Va. Pickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Garris of Greenville, joined the Navy last August.

Leslie Roberson, an electronic warfare technician third class, participated in the rescue of 44 Vietnamese refugees at sea as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Worden, operating from Yokosuka, Japan as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Roberson Sr. of Greenville, he is a 1976 graduate of Rose High School. Roberson joined the Navy in 1976.

Sgt. I.C. Phillip R. Jenkins, son of Mrs. Emma Jenkins of Williamston, received the Meritorious Service Medal at Ft. Devens, Mass. Jenkins, who earned the award during his last assignment with the 36th Medical Battalion, is a medical supply specialist with the Army Medical Department Activity. He entered the Army in 1966.

Pfc. Ricky Reaves, son of Mrs. Beatrice Reaves of Greenville, was named Cook of the Month while serving as a food service specialist with the 28th Transportation Battalion in Germany. Reaves was also selected to appear before the board that will decide cook of the quarter honors for battalion headquarters. A graduate of Rose High School, he entered the Army last June.

Spec.4 Jeffrey A. Moore, whose grandmother, Mrs. Retha Moore, lives in Ayden, completed the primary leadership course at Ft. Bragg, Moore, a tactical wire specialist with the 82nd Airborne Division, entered the Army in 1978. He is a 1978 graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School.

Pfc. Rochelle O. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton O. Taylor of Farmville, participated in an Army training and evaluation program in Germany. Taylor, who entered the Army in 1978, is a clerk with the 37th Field Artillery in Germany.

Cpl. Lawrence K. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Cox of Rt. 7, Greenville, reported for duty at the Marine Corps Base, Camp

Lejeune. He joined the Marines in 1976.

Spec.4 Burley R. Gardner, son of Richard B. Gardner of Ayden, completed the primary leadership course at Ft. Bragg, Gardner, an administrative specialist with the 82nd Airborne Division, entered the Army in 1978. He is a 1975 graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School.

Michael K. Allen, machinery technician second class, returned from a law enforcement patrol in the Caribbean as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Reliance, homeported in Yorktown, Va. Hamlin, husband of the former Joanne Gregory of Williamston, is a 1975 graduate of Williamston High School. He joined the Coast Guard in 1975.

Airman I.C. Douglas E. Coggins, son of Nathan Coggins of Greenville, graduated from the 21-week Air Force Morse systems operator course at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss. Coggins, a 1976 graduate of Rose High School, is now serving at RAF Chicksands, England.

Victory Garden Contest Set

BOSTON, MASS. — Gardeners all across the nation are being invited to enter photos and details of their gardens in The Second Annual Victory Garden Contest.

The contest is being held in conjunction with Bob Thomson's public television show, "The Victory Garden," broadcast over UNC-TV, Channel 25, Greenville each Sunday at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesdays at 7 p.m.

Judges for the contest are looking for the best amateur vegetable gardeners in the United States. Quality, not size, is the basic criteria for the contest.

Six semi-finalists will be chosen, and from that group, the winner will be selected and invited to come to Boston to accept the Victory Garden award and to have his or her garden viewed on national television.

The contest is open to all amateur gardeners — professional and commercial growers are not eligible. Entry rules are: Contestants must submit a color picture (slide or print, no larger than 5 by 7 inches) of their vegetable garden; a diagram of the garden; and a list of crops grown.

Entries are to be submitted to: "Contest," Box 296, Boston, Mass. 02134. These must be postmarked no later than midnight, August 31.

2Lt. Stephen C. Tyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Tyson of Greenville, graduated from the basic school located at the Marine Corps Development and Education Command in Quantico, Va. A 1970 graduate of Rose High School and 1979 graduate of East Carolina University, he joined the Marine Corps last October. He is married to the former Deborah Spain of Greenville.

Pvt. Michael E. Jackson, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie R. Cogdell Jr. of Greenville, reported for duty at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune. A 1979 graduate of Rose High School, he entered the Marine Corps last September.

Barry K. Hamlin, machinery technician third class, returned from a law enforcement patrol in the Caribbean as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Reliance, homeported in Yorktown, Va. Hamlin, husband of the former Joanne Gregory of Williamston, is a 1975 graduate of Williamston High School. He joined the Coast Guard in 1975.

Airman I.C. Douglas E. Coggins, son of Nathan Coggins of Greenville, graduated from the 21-week Air Force Morse systems operator course at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss. Coggins, a 1976 graduate of Rose High School, is now serving at RAF Chicksands, England.

Marion T. Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion D. Barnes of Rt. 10, Greenville, was promoted to the rank of senior airman while serving as an operating room specialist at Dyess AFB, Abilene, Texas. The airman is a 1975 graduate of North Pitt High School.

Manufacturer Back To Scratch

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Home cooks often try to imitate commercial products. Now a major food manufacturer has done the reverse. It has developed cake mixes based on a "scratch" recipe that won a second prize for a homemaker at the company's annual cooking contest in 1966.

The lemon and chocolate mixes are designed for baking in a Bundt pan. Each comes with a batter mix and a filling mix. Combined as the label directs, a soft, frosting-like tunnel forms in

Hints For A Heat Wave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is sweltering and other areas can also expect heat waves, which can tax the body and even be deadly. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has these suggestions for coping with the heat:

—Slow down. Your body can't do its best in high temperatures and humidities, and might do its worst.

—Heed your body's early warnings that heat syndrome is on the way. Reduce your level of activity immediately and get to a cooler environment.

These warnings include easy fatigue, mental and physical inefficiency, poor appetite, insomnia, heavy sweating, high pulse rate, shallow breathing, muscle spasms and weakness.

—Dress for summer. Lightweight, light colored clothing reflects heat and sunlight and helps your body maintain its normal temperature.

—Put less fuel on your inner fire. Foods like proteins, which increase metabolic heat production, also increase water loss.

—Don't dry out. Heat-wave weather can wring you out before you know it; drink plenty of water while the hot spell lasts.

—Stay salty. Unless you're on a salt-restricted diet, increase your salt intake when you work up a heavy sweat. But remember, the American diet tends to be heavy in salt and many people can get adequate salt from their normal diet even in hot weather.

—Avoid thermal shock. Acclimatize yourself gradually to warmer weather. Treat yourself extra gently in the critical first two or three hot days.

—Get out of the heat for at least a few hours each day. Physical stress increases with exposure in heat-wave weather. If your home or business isn't air conditioned, drop in on a cool store, restaurant or theater.

—Don't get too much sun. Sunburn makes the job of heat dissipation that much more difficult for your body.

the center as the cake bakes. The manufacturer estimates the cost of preparing its mix cake is about $2, compared with nearly $5 for the prize-winning "scratch" recipe. The latter is more expensive because the recipe calls for 2 cups of nuts, and the mix does not.

Auto Unions Ask Curb On Car Imports

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven unions in auto component industries are joining calls by the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. for curbs on Japanese car imports to help an estimated one million laid-off American workers regain their jobs.

A coalition of AFL-CIO unions appealed to President Carter Tuesday to take immediate, strong steps to restrict Japanese imports into this country, but most of the president's top advisers on trade matters are showing no enthusiasm for such action.

The coalition, representing workers in steel, rubber, plastics, glass, aluminum and other auto-related fields, announced its formation at a news conference Tuesday and then met with Special Trade Representative Reubin Askew to press its case for import protection.

Askew, who is known to oppose import restrictions, "listened and was non-committal," said one source who was at the meeting.

In a report that was to go to the president this week, most of Carter's top economic advisers are recommending that he take either no action against the Japanese or only a timid first step toward possible restrictions in the future, administration sources said.

The advisers, who developed an auto industry aid plan at Carter's request, were divided over the critical question of import relief, according to the sources.

Those favoring some action on the trade front suggested that the president urge the International Trade Commission to speed up its investigation of the UAW's complaint that imports are seriously injuring the domestic industry. The ITC investigation currently is due to be completed in December.

According to the sources, Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt is among the few top Carter administration officials favoring stronger trade actions.

Spokesmen for the coalition of unions, all members of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, said the layout of 325,000 UAW members at the big car makers has been well publicized. But the union leaders complained that little attention has been paid to the estimated 650,000 workers laid off in supplier industries because of the severe domestic auto sales slump. And unlike UAW members, many jobless workers in supplier plants are ineligible for company or federal benefits that supplement regular unemployment compensation, union leaders said.

"It's a damn shame that workers have to come to Washington and beg our legislators to save our jobs," said George M. Parker, president of the American Flint Glass Workers Union. The UAW, which does not belong to the AFL-CIO, and Ford already have appealed to Carter for relief from fuel-efficient imports, which captured a record 28 percent of the U.S. market in May and which have been blamed by union leaders as a chief cause of worker layoffs.

The unions want a five-year quota holding Japanese imports to 1975-76 levels — less than half of last year's U.S. sales of 2.1 million cars and trucks. Japanese sales this year are projected to hit

2.5 million. The unions also called for increasing import duties from 2 percent per car to 20 percent.

Short of that, the unions urged Carter to try to persuade the Japanese to voluntarily restrain their exports to this country.

Carter is going to Tokyo next week to attend a memorial service for the late Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira. White House press Secretary Jody Powell announced Tuesday. The president may use that opportunity to discuss the auto trade problem with Japanese officials.

Unions in the coalition announced Tuesday include the United Rubber Workers, Machinists, Allied Industrial Workers, Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, United Glass and Ceramic Workers, Aluminum Workers, Flint Glass Workers, United Steelworkers, Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers, Sheet Metal Workers, and United Furniture Workers.

Reconsider Iran Student

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — College officials at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson are reconsidering a soccer scholarship offer made to an Iranian student because of anti-American remarks the student made last week.

The student, Massoud Bonyanian, made the remarks last Friday in an interview with the Goldsboro News Argus. He criticized United States policy in Iran and said the American hostages should be put on trial.

Officials at Mount Olive College, where Bonyanian was a student for two semesters, said Tuesday they were surprised by Bonyanian's anti-American sentiments.

And officials at Atlantic Christian said they are studying Bonyanian's status.

Dr. Harold Doster, president of Atlantic Christian, said, "There are a lot of questions about his future here." He said Bonyanian will be asked to meet with college officials regarding "his character" before his admission and scholarship are confirmed.

Bonyanian said the purpose of his remarks was "to let the people know that the mass media has not revealed the true involvement of the United States government in the internal affairs of Iran and crimes committed during the reign of the shah."

He said trying the hostages would bring the crimes to light.

City Recovers Electric Chair

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The only city in Oklahoma with its own electric chair apparently doesn't want it to be on display. James Earl Tannehill, owner of the museum that bears his name, said a city crew was quickly dispatched Tuesday to take back the electric chair that once belonged to the nearby state prison and had been lent to him.

He said he wasn't sure why the executioner's chair was whisked away, but he thinks it's because he put it on display last weekend.

Saturday Mail Delivery Appears Safe, After All

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Saturday mail, once considered a prime target of congressional budget-cutters, appears to have escaped the ax and may end up even more secure than before.

The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee refused Tuesday to comply with a House Budget Committee plan to scrap money for Saturday mail as a way to save the government $500 million.

The Post Office Committee then went even further, voting to require the U.S. Postal Service, a quasi-independent agency, to continue six-day-a-week deliveries.

That order was attached to a $947 million savings bill the committee approved in response to a congressional mandate that it cut programs under its jurisdiction by $1 billion.

The $1 billion was the Post Office Committee's share of $6.4 billion in spending cuts that Congress directed congressional committees to make as part of the now-ratifying drive to balance the fiscal 1981 federal budget.

Although the Post Office

Committee's refusal to halt Saturday mail could be challenged by House budget-writers when the savings bill reaches the floor late this month, key Budget Committee members said.

Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., a member of the Budget Committee, praised the Post Office Committee and other House panels for coming within $100 million of the $6.4 billion that the budget resolution instructed them to save.

"We ought to be satisfied with what the committees have done," Panetta said.

The Post Office Committee has staunchly opposed curtailing mail deliveries and in its savings bill agreed to trim only $250 million from the Postal Service's $736 million government subsidy.

The committee's chairman, Rep. James M. Hanley, D-N.Y., said that size cut would require no significant reduction in postal operations.

However, to make certain the Postal Service did not eliminate Saturday deliveries anyway, the committee added specific wording requiring that six-day-a-week deliveries be continued.

The Post Office Committee approved other cuts to largely make up for the money that would have been saved by eliminating Saturday mail. However, the panel still fell $53 million short of its instructions to save $1 billion in programs under its jurisdiction. Hanley said he considered the spending cuts "reasonably close" to the mandate in the 1981 budget. On Monday, the Senate approved a $6.4 billion savings package that did not include cuts in the Postal Service subsidy. However, Senate budget-writers had agreed to seek the $500 million cut in the subsidy when that issue goes before the Senate Appropriations Committee later in the year. The House Post Office Committee achieved its savings through a number of relatively technical changes, the most significant being a one-time shift in the way cost-of-living benefits are computed for congressional and civil service pensions. The panel voted to save $356 million in fiscal 1981 by adjusting the pensions for inflation only once a year, instead of twice.

Worst AMC Losses; Borrow More Money

DETROIT (AP) — Amid the overall gloomy automobile industry picture, American Motors Corp. has revealed that its losses will be the worst ever and it is borrowing more money.

The smallest U.S.-owned automaker said Tuesday it had arranged a revolving credit of up to $90 million from the finance subsidiary of its French affiliate and part owner, Renault, to be used for working capital.

The company also has won new bank terms that a spokesman said will enable it to avoid defaults on its current loans. But the new terms hold bank loans to $90 million, what they are now, instead of permitting AMC to borrow up to $150 million. AMC's banks will get collateral in which Renault's subsidiary will have a subordinate interest, AMC said.

The collateral will be a mortgage on some producing assets and a pledge of stock in some subsidiaries, said spokesman James Tolley.

"Business conditions have changed since the credit agreement was reached. This recognizes that fact," he said.

AMC had not defaulted on its loans, Tolley said. Asked if the new terms would enable AMC to avoid default, he replied, "Oh, certainly."

AMC Chairman Gerald C. Meyers said in a statement the company would seek more financing to enable it to accelerate its plans for fuel-efficient cars and Jeeps.

After completing its studies and before Oct. 31, when the bank and Renault agreements expire, AMC expects "that it will renegotiate these credits with Renault and the banks," the statement said.

The losses, Meyers said, would be "substantially more than for any previous quarter or fiscal year."

The worst quarterly loss up to now was $51.1 million for July-September 1976. The record yearly loss was $75.8 million in the 1967 fiscal year. AMC earned $14.1 million in the first half of the current fiscal year.

Last month, AMC announced it was omitting its 7-cent quarterly dividend.

"The current economic situation is difficult, but it will be transient," Meyers said.

AMC's small cars have done well in the current slump, but sales of its highly profitable but relatively inefficient Jeeps have been hard hit. Car sales are up 3.5 percent for 1980 to June 21, but Jeep sales for the first five months trailed 1979 by 46 percent.

Renault last year put $150 million into AMC debentures and stock that could give it 22 percent ownership of the U.S. firm. The French company also agreed to extend $50 million to AMC in supplier credits or other "trade working capital" for AMC to tool up for production of a new Renault model at Kenosha, Wis.

Boy Scouts Learn To Tap Energy From Sun

NEW YORK (AP) - While energy czars juggle world resources, New York City Boy Scouts have been investigating some practical uses for the free energy from the sun.

The Solar Energy Workshop has given thousands of youngsters the opportunity to build and experiment with an array of sun-powered devices to cook meals, heat water and power electrical equipment.

The program, which started in Troop 70 under the direction of volunteer Jesse Slome, who originated it seven years ago, has spread and is now run during the summer for Scouts attending Ten Mile River Scout camps in upstate New York.

Slome, who has trained the leaders, including youngsters who started in the original group and now run workshops, got interested in the field when he did research for a college term paper on solar energy.

"Developing tomorrow's energy sources is everyone's concern, but it is particularly vital for our nation's young people whose world will depend on new and alternative forms of energy," Slome, 27, said.

The Solar Workshop was conceived during the 1973 energy crisis to stimulate the minds of its young participants. "We wanted to look beyond energy conservation," Slome explained, "for a long-term solution which would be meaningful, yet fun for kids to learn."

With an initial investment of $50, the workshop's creator began to build and test an assortment of solar cookers, as well as unusual solar devices such as sun-powered flashlights and radios, in an effort to interest the young audience.

Slome points out that one of the current problems facing acceptance of solar energy by adults is the belief that its use is limited to a few Southern states.

"Convincing a doubting young mind is even more difficult," Slome acknowledged. "A simple explanation of how the sun heats a home is inadequate. When someone actually feels the tremendous heat generated by a small solar oven then the concept, on a larger scale, becomes reality."

Part of the program's persuasive approach involves urban youngsters' cooking hot dogs with the sun in the snow. It is a point dramatically made.

Since its inception, a growing number of schools, summer camps and youth organizations nationwide have adopted many of the workshop's activities. The New York Scout Troop 70, which operates the program year-round, has produced several solar energy booklets and a kit of solar projects which youngsters can build.

Each summer, however, the program shifts into full gear as thousands of youngsters at Scout camps gather to fry eggs sunny-side up.

"The most gratifying experience is knowing that what we're doing will have an impact on our country's future," Slome says.

Militancy In S. Africa Labor Ranks

By CYNTHIA A. STEVENS
Associated Press Writer
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — In the midst of an economic boom and political uncertainty, gold-rich South Africa is faced with a chronic shortage of skilled workers and increasing solidarity among striking black laborers.

A recent walkout by nearly 8,000 workers in the nation's automotive center follows race riots in mixed-race townships near Cape Town that officials said left 32 dead. Newspapers reported the death toll at 42.

Employees of the Volkswagen plant at Uitenhage in Cape Province went on strike to enforce their demand that the hourly minimum wage be raised from $1.22 an hour to $2.40, triggering strikes at a least a dozen other factories.

The industrial unrest adds to the problems of the white-minority government, already concerned that the economy will be unable to sustain the momentum created by last year's $6 billion gold earnings.

A study by the Volkskas Bank found that 114,000 jobs now stand empty because industry and commerce cannot find qualified workers to fill them.

Professor Martin Nasser of the University of South Africa's School of Business Leadership predicted that by December there will be five jobs for every applicant in engineering, computers and certain artisan trades.

The government, meanwhile, said national unemployment was running at about 10 percent and forecast it would rise to 22 percent in seven years. Unofficial estimates, taking underemployment into account, said it had already reached that level.

Despite protests from black leaders, the governing National Party has launched recruitment campaigns abroad to attract skilled workers and in April, eased immigration restrictions so that the government would pay 80 percent of a newcomer's passage.

Allister Sparks, editor of the liberal Rand Daily Mail, wrote that the economy would feel an even greater pinch if the military commitment escalates against the anticipated build-up of black guerrilla activities.

"Already our two-year call-up has caused the annual expansion of the white labor force to drop by nearly half — from 41,000 in 1975 to 26,000 in 1979 — and we are feeling the shortage of skilled blacks," he said.

Labor unrest in isolated industries has been simmering in South Africa for more than six months.

About 1,500 workers at Ford's Cortina plant, General Tire and Adams Paper Mill walked off the job for six weeks at the end of last year in a protest that stemmed from black employees' support for a community political organization in a factory floor dispute and alleged racist remarks by white supervisors.

The strikers were fired, but eventually reinstated in what labor observers considered a victory for the workers.

"Black workers have shown that they are determined to stick together to demand a better deal — and they are doing so more successfully than at any time in the past," one observer said.

Union officials argued that Volkswagen would be unable to find replacement labor because of rising black solidarity and would be forced to give in to workers' demands.

Brian Fredericks, national organizer of the National Union of Motor Assembly Workers, was quoted as saying that a message circulated in the black townships "instructs people not employed not to look for work at Volkswagen."

Ford and General Motors in nearby Port Elizabeth appealed to their employees to remain calm after their representative committees expressed support for union members striking at Uitenhage, and said the $2.40 wage minimum should be pursued.

The Ford assembly plant was forced to close when it couldn't obtain parts from another factory on strike.

Deliberating On Warren's Trial

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Pitt County Superior Court jury began deliberations late this morning in the case of Alton Warren - head of the City of Greenville's Inspections Department - charged with driving under the influence, careless and reckless driving, and transporting liquor with the seal broken in the passenger compartment of a city-owned vehicle, in connection with a December 1, 1979 incident here.

Greenville police officers testified yesterday that they stopped Warren's city car about 2 a.m., after seeing the vehicle being operated in an erratic manner, and found a whiskey bottle on the floor of the passenger side of the auto.

A breathalyzer test was administered and a reading of 13 per cent blood alcohol content was registered. (Under North Carolina law, a reading of 10 percent is considered legally under the influence.)

Warren, who testified that he had had two or three drinks in the eight hours prior to his arrest, said he did not know the bottle of liquor was in the car.

Inspections Department employee Lester Brown told the court that he and Warren had been together on Brown's car prior to the incident, and that they had had three drinks over a period of several hours.

He said he took Warren back to the municipal building after visiting a local nightclub and that while Warren went inside the building to get his briefcase, he, Brown, put the liquor bottle in Warren's car and left.

Warren, 60, was suspended for five days without pay following his arrest.

CETA Director Is Fired

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - William W. Calhoun was fired Tuesday as director of the state agency that administers North Carolina's $100 million a year federal job training program.

Calhoun, 51, had headed the Division of Community Employment since January 1979.

N. Wayne Daves, executive director of employment and training programs for the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, said Calhoun was "not providing the leadership that the department feels is necessary."

Daves would not discuss specific reasons for the dismissal.

Calhoun's division has been criticized in recent weeks by auditors for its handling of some contracts under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

His was the second high-level personnel change in eight days in the Ceta program. Charles B. Parker, director of the Employment and Training Council, earlier was forced to take another job within the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.

Bishops Batter Pirates, 14-5

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

It started like this: two batters, two runs for N.C. Wesleyan. The crew at Harrington Field should have turned the lights out then and there. They didn't, but even that might not have even stopped the Bishops' hitting.

N.C. Wesleyan laced out 12 hits, including five doubles, to crush East Carolina, 14-5, Tuesday night in a Summer League baseball game.

"The one thing in this league that I think a lot of people underestimate is that Wesleyan is a good hitting ballclub," ECU coach Gary Overton said. "They've been losing games, 14-11, 15-12, because of their pitching. They've got a good offense."

The Bishops also had good pitching Tuesday — as they did last Friday night against the Pirates. With Mike Micene on the mound last week the Bishops whipped ECU, 11-1. Micene was again on the mound Tuesday night and the Wesleyan right-hander scattered six hits — as he did in last week's victory — while walking seven, to win his fifth game of the season without a loss.

"He's tough. He's got a good fastball — you could see how the ball was coming off the bat, it didn't have much tenacity so to speak," Overton said. "I don't think it's so much a discredit to our hitters as it is a credit to their pitcher that we didn't get any more hits than we did."

ECU could have taken a lesson from N.C. Wesleyan in hitting this night. The Bishops, now 7-10, wasted little time getting batting practice into full swing Tuesday evening. Tweetie Thorbes ripped Charlie Smith's first pitch down the left field line for a double. Three pitches later Cary Griffin sent the ball over the rightfield fence and Wesleyan led, 2-0.

ECU, now 10-7, narrowed the deficit to 2-1 with a single run in the fourth, but that was as close as the Pirates would get.

With one gone, John Hallow laced a line shot into center and when Bishop centerfielder Dale Richter was slow in getting the ball back into the infield Hallow raced to second with a double. The ECU leftfielder went to third when an attempted pickoff throw was missed by the second baseman and then scored on Mike Sage's ground out.

Two innings later — in the sixth — the Bishops sent 10 men to the plate and came away with five runs to pull ahead, 7-1. Richter doubled to lead off the inning and, after Earl Roberson walked, scored on Dan Hilling's single. Kenny Villines reached on an error and, after a infield pop out, Tony Voight singled, scoring Roberson.

Thorbes' sacrifice fly brought home Hilling before Griffin singled home Voight. It was Griffin's second of three hits and the third of four RBIs for the evening.

After a scoreless seventh, Wesleyan again sent 10 men to the plate in the eighth and again came away with five runs, putting the Bishops up, 12-1. Voight led off with a double and Thorbes followed with a bunt single. Voight scored on Griffin's double and Thorbes came home when catcher Jay Carraway bobbled shortstop Kelly Robinette's throw home on Moochie Medley's grounder.

Richter followed with a run-scoring single and, after a single by Roberson, both Hilling and Villines came up with sacrifice flies to score Wesleyan's final two runs of the inning.

ECU pushed across its second run of the game in the bottom of the eighth. With one gone, the Pirates loaded the bases, sandwiching walks to Robinette and Hallow around a single by Todd Hendley. Sage's single brought home Robinette, but the threat ended when Smith flied to short centerfield and Pete Persico grounded out.

Wesleyan's final two runs came in the ninth. Thorbes was hit by a pitch to lead off the inning, after which he began arguing with both ECU pitcher Brian Felton and catcher Carraway. A few members of both teams came out of their dugouts but the umpires stepped in and, with the help of both coaches, restored order.

Following this, Griffin reached on an error when Robinette missed a pop fly. However, the ECU shortstop did force Thorbes at second. It didn't matter, though. Medley quickly brought Griffin home with a double. Medley scored moments later when Hendley failed to handle a sharp grounder by Richter.

With the stands nearly cleared, the Pirates' came up with their biggest inning of the night in the ninth. With one gone, Robert Wells walked, moved to second on a wild pitch and then scored on Mike Sorrell's double. Sorrell subsequently scored on an error on Thorbes, which allowed Robinette to reach first. Hendley then walked before Robinette came home on John Hallow's fielder's choice.

Navratilova Rallies To Beat King 7-6, 1-6, 10-8

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Martina Navratilova clawed her way back from the brink of defeat to beat veteran Billie Jean King 7-6, 1-6, 10-8 in the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships today.

Navratilova, bidding for her third successive Wimbledon title, seldom approached her peak, and King, 35, gave one of the bravest performances of her long career.

King, winner of a record 20 Wimbledon titles including six singles, trailed by one set to love when play resumed this morning, but dropped only seven points in taking the second set 6-1 in just 17 minutes.

Navratilova was unable to get her first serve working and missed a number of volleys. She hit back to lead 2-0 in the third set but King came back again to tie, then had her big chance when serving for the match at 6-5.

Navratilova broke back to love, however, and King then saved eight match points in three different games before the 23-year-old champion finally took the match.

The Czech-born left hander now meets Chris Evert Lloyd in the semifinals. That match will be a repeat of last year's final.

DRIVE UP YOUR NET WORTH IN A RABBIT.

Part of Rabbit appreciation is its depreciation. Take the 78 Rabbit. It's actually increased in book value through the years. That's performance unmatched by the 78 Toyota Corona, Peugeot 504 and Cadillac El Dorado. Of course, you don't have to get rid of your Rabbit to appreciate its value. While you own it you can enjoy surprising spaciousness, perky acceleration (0 to 50 mph in 8.3 seconds), and remarkable braking (50 to 0 mph in under 4 seconds). And when the day finally comes to take your Rabbit to market, if you've taken good care of it, chances are it will take good care of you. That's why many people think the Rabbit isn't just a car but an excellent investment vehicle.

Wadkins In Slam Victory

CHASKA, Minn. (AP)—Lanny Wadkins labored to a 1-under par two-stroke victory over Hale Irwin in Tuesday's second annual PGA Grand Slam at Hazeltine National Golf Club, a course which drew considerable criticism in 1979 during the U.S. Open.

The Grand Slam, matching winners of four major tournaments from 1979 in an 18-hole benefit for the PGA Junior Golf Foundation, also featured Fuzzy Zoeller, 1979 Masters champ, and David Graham, last year's PGA champion. Irwin was the 1979 Open titlist.

"I was happy just to break par," said Wadkins, the Tournament Players' champion who shot a 71 over the difficult, 7,300-yard course.

"I'm glad one of us did," he said. "We didn't want the course to beat us down. I think we got a little piece of it."

Graham was the only one of the four who played in the 1970 Open, won by Tony Jacklin and branded a farce by David Hill, who branded Hazeltine a "cow pasture" and unfit for the PGA tour.

Although the course has seen changes to five holes in the past ten years, Graham admitted that more will probably be needed before another PGA event might be scheduled at Hazeltine.

"There's two ways to look at it," said Graham, a diplomatic yet forthright Australian with career earnings in excess of $700,000. "The political way and what is the absolute truth."

"I feel I am a golf politician. I wouldn't go to any course in the world and say exactly what I felt. You can't criticize the hand that feeds you."

"But," he added, "I still feel the course has a long way to go. That's not to say I don't like the course, that I don't think it's a good course, or that I don't think it can be a great course."

"It has several very, very good holes. And there's some that I don't like."

"What impressed me is that they've made an honest, genuine effort to improve the golf course. They are prepared to accept the fact that the course does need some work and are going to do something about it."

Last Of 4 Candidates Seen

ECU Close To AD Pick?

East Carolina University's search for a new athletic director is believed to be drawing toward a conclusion.

The last of four candidates to be interviewed for the job was in Greenville yesterday, Dr. Howard Hohman, formerly athletic director of the University of Louisville.

Dick Blake, assistant to Chancellor Tom Brewer, said that the committee would not meet again until next week, and he did not know how quickly the decision would be made.

The other three candidates to visit here included Max Urick, associate athletic director at Iowa State, James West, associate athletic director at Virginia, and Dr. Kenneth Karr, former athletic director at San Diego State.

"The committee is very pleased with the way things went," Blake continued. "They are optimistic that they will be able to come to a conclusion in the near future."

Blake, however, would not speculate as to whether the four would be the final candidates, nor whether the committee would pick the final man or trim the list further before allowing the chancellor, who heads the selection committee, and the trustees to make the final choice.

"The committee does feel that great progress has been made. But as to what it will do in its next meeting next week, I could not say."

Urick is a former assistant coach at Duke University, while West has headed the Virginia baseball program for the past 20 years. Karr currently is serving as chairman of the department of athletics after having served for a number of years as AD at San Diego. Hohman recently resigned from his position at Louisville for personal reasons.

Error Gives Padres Win

By The Associated Press
Last week, Bill Russell's error cost Jerry Reuss a perfect game. Last night, it cost the Dodgers a victory.

Russell, voted the National League's starting shortstop for the July 8 All-Star Game, committed a throwing error to account for the only baserunner in Reuss' 8-0 no-hitter against San Francisco last Friday.

Reuss was on the mound again Tuesday night, and this time Russell's throwing error led to three unearned runs that helped the San Diego Padres beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1.

Reuss pitched seven innings and allowed just four hits, and all four San Diego runs were unearned.

An error by Pedro Guerrero helped San Diego score in the first inning without benefit of a hit, Russell's error with two out in the third let in the second run, and Dave Winfield followed it up with a two-run homer.

"That was more than enough to beat the Dodgers, whose only scoring came on Joe Ferguson's home run in the ninth."

"Jerry pitched a good game," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda. "That error (by Russell) cost us three runs and we gave them all four. Outside of the home run, it looked like he had good stuff."

"My stuff was all right," said Reuss, who was well aware that only one other player in baseball history had pitched consecutive no-hitters — Johnny VanderMeer of Cincinnati in 1938. Reuss said he wanted to put it out of his mind, but it was a futile task.

"I tried to downplay it," said Reuss. "It had no bearing. Still, I thought about it, only because I was reminded of it so much. When I was out there pitching, no, I didn't think about anything but the next batter."

Phillies 5, Expos 4

Philadelphia pulled within one-game of first-place Montreal in the National League East by beating the Expos with a pair of runs in the top of the 11th inning. Pete Rose drove in Greg Gross with a single and Bob Boone also scored on the play when third baseman Larry Parrish could not handle a throw.

Randy Lerch got the victory, the first by a left-hander against Montreal since April 27, snapping a string of 14 losses. He was relieved in the 11th by Lerrin LaGrow, who gave up a leadoff homer to Warren Cromartie but held on for his third save of the season.

"If I had lost this one, I don't know what I would have done," said Lerch, 3-10, who pitched a five-hitter but lost a 1-0 decision to Montreal and Scott Sanderson last Thursday, when Sanderson hurled a two-hitter.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 2

Phil Garner singled in the 10th, went to third on Steve Nicosia's single and came around to score when Mike Easley beat the throw to first as St. Louis tried to turn his grounder into a double play.

The victory moved Pittsburgh to within 1½ games of front-running Montreal.

Braves 13, Astros 4

Bob Horner hit two-run single and Jeff Burroughs belted a three-run homer in the fifth inning, then the Braves put together seven hits for six more runs in the sixth in routing the Astros.

The 13 runs, all scored after two were out, were the most by the Braves this season and also the most scored against the Astros.

Cubs 4, Mets 3

Lenny Randle hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning to give the Cubs the victory. Dennis Lamp, 8-6, was the winner with relief help from Bill Caudill and Bruce Sutter, who came on in the seventh and recorded his 18th save.

Giants 4, Reds 1

Ed Whitson pitched a six-hitter for his fifth straight victory and rookie Rich Murray broke an 0-for-29 slump with a two-run homer in the fifth inning for the Giants.

Whitson, who evened his record at 7-7 following an 0-5 start, allowed only an unearned run in the first inning.

"I was in a deep hole early in the season and I was struggling to get even," said Whitson.

All-Star Game Set Thursday

The annual N.C. Collegiate Summer League All-Star game will be played at Harrington Field on the East Carolina University campus Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

The league-leader as of June 30, UNC-Wilmington, will take on the top players from the other five teams, as chosen by the coaches of the league. Included in the group are seven from East Carolina. They are Todd Hendley, Kelly Robinette, Mike Sorrell, Mike Sage, Jay Caraway, Bill Wilder and Kirk Parsons.

In addition, Gary Overton, who is handling the head coaching duties for the summer league team, will serve as coach of the all-stars.

Youth Ball Results

Sr. Babe Ruth League

Winterville 8, Clifton Ins. 7

Winterville slipped past Bill Clifton Insurance Co. last night, 8-7, in Senior Babe Ruth League, and in doing so, knocked Clifton out of sole possession of first place in the South Division.

Winterville closed out its divisional record at 5-5, while Clifton fell to 7-2, tied with Farmville. The two teams are scheduled to meet Saturday in the fateful game that will decide the title.

Winterville jumped ahead early, scoring six runs in the first inning of play. Clifton came back with two in the third and added a third in the fourth. Clifton picked up three more in the fifth to tie it at 6-6, then took the lead with one in the sixth.

But Winterville came back with two in the seventh to win it. Pony Credle singled with one down, and stole second. With two away, Sammy Tucker doubled Credle in with the tying run. Jeff Cox then singled, scoring Tucker with the game-winning run. Credle led Winterville with two hits, while Mitch Brann had three and Keith Phillips had two for Clifton.

Snow Hill Loses In Ninth, 4-3

TARBORO — Ted Reese's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth drove home two runs and gave Rocky Mount a pulsating, 4-3, come-from-behind victory over Snow Hill Tuesday night in the first round of the Area I East playoffs.

Rocky Mount now faces Pitt County in the next round of the playoffs. The best two-out-of-three series begins Friday night in Greenville with the second game set for Saturday in Rocky Mount. A third game, if necessary, will be held Sunday in Greenville.

With Rocky Mount behind, 3-2, going into the ninth, Resse drag bunted for a single to lead off. With one gone Kevin Bunn walked and then Bill Merrifield hit a 2-2 pitch into right-center for a double to score both runners and give Rocky Mount the win.

It was all Snow Hill during

Williamston Nips Goldsboro

DUDLEY — Williamston's American Legion baseball team outlasted Goldsboro in the final game of the Area I East first round playoffs, gaining a ten-inning, 13-11 victory last night.

The win gave Williamston a two-to-one victory in the best-of-three opening round series, and sends the team into another best-of-three playoff with Wilson. That playoff begins on Friday at Wilson. The winner there will face the winner of the Pitt County-Rocky Mount series, which also starts Friday, in the league finals next week.

Williamston scored first, getting three runs in the opening frame. Steve Wallace singled and scored on a double by Glen Cargile. Trent Ange tripled in Cargile, and Robbie Baker singled, scoring Ange. Goldsboro rallied for six in the second, however, taking the lead. But Williamston came back with one in the fifth and three in the sixth, including a two-run homer by Barber, gaining a 7-6 lead. Williamston pushed over two more in the seventh, but Goldsboro picked up two in its half of the inning. In the eighth, Williamston added one, but Goldsboro got three to move ahead, 11-10. Williamston then tied it up with one in the ninth.

In the tenth, Williamston pushed over two and gained the win. Randy Ellis reached on a two-base error and scored when Eldred McQueen singled. McQueen later scored on a passed ball for an insurance run.

Britons Coe, Ovett Set World Marks

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Sebastian Coe won one and lost one — much to the delight of Steve Ovett.

The two Britons turned an international track and field meet into something more memorable Tuesday as Coe

Navratilova...

Connors, a round behind because of the rain that has disrupted the program, overcame Hank Pfister 6-4, 6-7, 6-1, 7-6.

Brian Gottfried, who was unseeded, upset Wojtek Fibak of Poland, the 13th seed, 6-4, 7-6, 6-2 and was the first man to reach the semifinals. Gottfried has not dropped a set in the whole tournament.

In play yesterday, Wojtek Fibak advanced to the quarterfinals at Wimbledon for the first time in his life and was as surprised as anybody by his success.

Bjorn Borg did nothing surprising in making the quarterfinals by defeating Balazs Taroczy 6-1, 7-5, 6-2 Tuesday for a record 32nd straight singles triumph. The victory broke the mark of 31 straight set by Australian Rod Laver.

"It's satisfying for me to break Laver's record," Borg said. "That was my practical aim when I came here. I decided I would first go for the record and after that think about winning the title again."

Winning the title wasn't even on Fibak's mind after the first two sets against Vitas Gerulaitis.

The Polish doubles expert staged a remarkable recovery to upset fourth-seeded Gerulaitis 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6 before rain interrupted the day's program.

"I feel nervous talking to the press for only the second time in five years at Wimbledon and I suppose that sums up my lack of success in the big tournaments," said Fibak.

Fibak now meets another American, unseeded Brian Gottfried, in the last eight. Gottfried has not dropped a set in his four matches.

Borg plays sixth-seeded American Gene Mayer, who is in the last eight for the first time, while last year's beaten finalist Roscoe Tanner meets either Connors or Pfister.

Tracy Austin won 6-3, 6-3 against Greer Stevens, a South African.

E'vonne Goolagong defeated Australian Wendy Turnbull, 6-3, 6-2.

shattered the world record in the 1,000-meter race and then stood by helplessly as Ovett broke Coe's year-old standard in the mile.

"It tastes terrific," said Ovett after covering the mile on the lightning-fast Bislett track in 3 minutes, 48.8 seconds — two tenths of a second faster than the mark Coe set on this same track last year. "One of the big goals this year was to take the record from Coe," Ovett added.

Coe wasn't thinking the same thing about Rick Wohlhuter or the record the American set in 1976.

"I had no plans of trying to beat the world record," said Coe. "My aim was to beat (Willi) Wuhlbeck."

But those thoughts changed about 200 meters from the finish line.

"When I passed the 800-meter mark in 1:44.4 (2.4 seconds ahead of Wohlhuter's pace in 1976) I realized I could do it," the 22-year-old student explained.

And he did, crossing the finish line in 2:13.40 to better Wohlhuter's standard of 2:13.90.

Wuhlbeck of West Germany finished second in 2:14.53, a national record, while Olympic 1,500-meter champion John Walker of New Zealand was third in 2:16.57, also a national standard.

As the crowd of 22,500 stood to applaud Coe, Ovett began his quest in the mile.

The 24-year-old native of Brighton passed the 800-meter mark in 1:52.8, the 1,000-meter mark in 2:22.8 and turned the 1,500 in 3:32.7.

The victory in the 1-2-3 British sweep was Ovett's 42nd straight. Stephen Cram finished second in 3:53.8 and Graham Williamson was third in 3:56.4.

Coe and Ovett are not considered the best of friends, and have consciously avoided facing each other before the Moscow Olympic Games, which are just three weeks away.

Their meeting in Moscow may well have been worth the wait.

In other major events, Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan captured the 3,000-meter event in 7:37.6. American Renaldo Nehemiah edged countryman Rod Milburn in the 110-meter hurdles and Mac Wilkins of the United States won the discus with a toss of 220-feet.

CART, USAC At It Once Again

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Championship Auto Racing Teams will continue to sanction its own Indy-car series this year, but the U.S. Auto Club's bid to hold onto the Indianapolis 500 may jeopardize the rest of the USAC schedule.

The tentative lineup of CART events this year "basically gobbles up most of the remaining schedule," a USAC spokesman said Tuesday.

"Probably we won't have anything firm for a couple of days. We can't speculate yet what will happen," said USAC's Dick Jordan.

"We have the race in Lexington, Ohio, on July 13, where we have 34 or so entries, and I assume everybody will honor that commitment," he continued. "But from then on, everything else is in limbo."

The latest turn of events followed USAC's withdrawal from the Championship Racing League on Monday and CART's announcement on Tuesday it would go ahead with its own races as originally scheduled. CART and USAC had united under the CRL banner this spring, ending what had been a long and bitter struggle for control of champ car racing in the United States.

The rift opened again after Indianapolis Motor Speedway President John Cooper hinted the 1981 Indy 500 might be under different sanction because he felt the CRL was dominated by a select group of car owners.

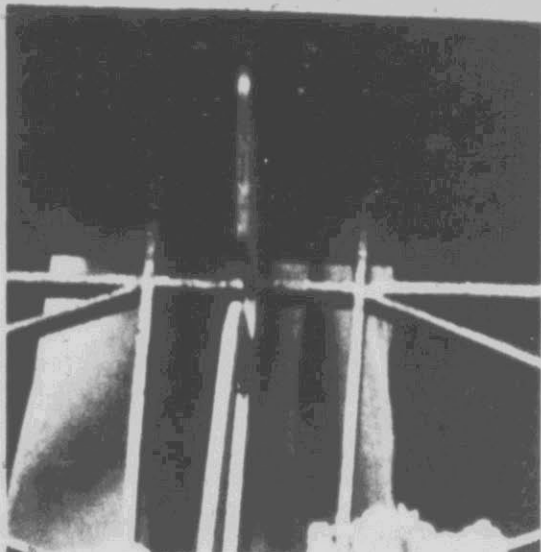

Monday's decision by USAC to break with the CRL was a move to satisfy Cooper's objections. But at the same time, it has apparently destroyed the delicate truce that had halted the CART-USAC battle.

The CRL merger produced a six-man board of governors, but five of them were car owners, and three of those five were original directors of CART. Cooper, who instigated the cease-fire last March, wanted a seven-man board with no more than three car owners represented.

"We tried everything imaginable to get all the groups together," said USAC President Dick King. "We had no other alternative. We either had to get the USAC organization back to where it had non-vested interests or lose our sanction (at Indianapolis)."

Cooper has been out of town and unavailable for comment whether that would meet his requirements for an independent organization. USAC hasn't heard from him either.

As for the possibility of a renewed conflict with CART, King said, "Things weren't done with any thought of a war. They were done because it was necessary to keep things rolling. If we hadn't done something, we would have lost our sanction."

Ice Princess

Chris Evert Lloyd gazes at the damp scene at Wimbledon from the members' balcony Tuesday. Mrs. Lloyd, now a housewife at 25, who for nine years has been known as "The Ice Princess" and "Miss Metronome" of tennis is actually a sensitive, thoughtful individual who relaxes opponents with wisecracks during the changeovers. It took 15-year-old Andrea Jaeger to clear up that misconception after losing to Mrs. Lloyd in the women's quarterfinals 6-1, 6-1. (AP Laserphoto)

John Heads AL Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy John, no stranger to the crowds at Dodger Stadium, heads an eight-man All-Star pitching staff named by American League President Lee MacPhail Wednesday after weekend consultations with Baltimore Orioles and AL All-Star Manager Earl Weaver.

John, the bionic arm left-hander who helped the Dodgers to pennants in 1977 and 1978 only to sign as a free agent with the New York Yankees following the 1978 season, is the only repeater from last year's squad.

And he'll probably be the most well known on the AL staff for next Tuesday's mid-season classic in Los Angeles.

Joining John on the staff are his New York teammate Rich Gossage, Tom Burgmeier of the Boston Red Sox; Ed Farmer of the Chicago White Sox; Larry Gura of the Kansas City Royals; Rick Honeycutt of the Seattle Mariners; Dave Stieb of the Toronto Blue Jays and Steve Stone of the Baltimore Orioles.

With the exception of John and Gossage, the AL staff has no All-Star experience.

But in John and Farmer they have the makings of an incredible comeback story. Both men have undergone arm surgery with John's truly amazing.

In 1974, he ruptured a ligament in his pitching arm and underwent a delicate tendon transplant to reconstruct his elbow.

In the following four seasons he was 68-36 and this year is 11-3; leading the AL in shutouts with four and tied with Stone for the league lead in victories. Farmer, who underwent surgery in 1977, has a league-leading 17 saves for the White Sox and has won five of eight decisions.

"I heard about it today and I think it's just great," Farmer said. "This is a second career for me after my arm surgery. This is something you dream about and look forward to. You don't think they'll start me, do you?"

No, Weaver will probably select his starter from among the five chosen to the team — John, Stone, 11-3, Gura, 10-3, and Honeycutt and Stieb, both 7-5. The Baltimore manager added the selection would probably not come until Monday morning at the media press conference.

The National League pitching staff will be announced later today with reserves for both teams be named Thursday.

Corbett Stops Royal Rally

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

For Gene Mauch, there's nothing better than an iron-tough relief pitcher.

The Minnesota manager has never won a pennant or division title in 19 years as a major league skipper, but many regard him as one of the best strategists and students of baseball. One of his secrets is having a reliever who can come into games in the late innings and hold a lead.

"People who know how to pitch the eighth and ninth inning — you can't play without them," Mauch says.

In the past, he has relied on firemen like Mike Marshall with the Twins and Montreal Expos and Bill Campbell, who had 17 victories and 20 saves for Mauch's Twins in 1976.

This year Mauch's stopper is Doug Corbett, who on Tuesday night cut off a Kansas City rally in the eighth inning and shook off a pulled leg muscle in the ninth to get a 2-1 victory over the Royals.

Despite Minnesota's mediocre record, Corbett is now 5-2 with a 2.28 earned run average.

Corbett relieved starter Geoff Zahn with the score tied 1-1, one out and runners at first and third in the eighth. He immediately coaxed a double play grounder by Hal McRae, who earlier had two doubles, to end the inning.

"It was my only slider," said Corbett. "All I wanted was a ground ball by McRae. I wanted to get him to hit the ball to (third baseman) John Castino and he did."

In the top of the ninth the Twins went ahead as Jose Morales doubled off loser Paul Splittorf, 5-5, and pinch-runner Ken Landreaux scored the winning run on a single by Rick Sofield.

Mariners 6, Rangers 5
While Corbett was saving the Twins, Texas used three relievers trying to hold a one-run lead in the ninth before losing to Seattle.

Bruce Bochte's two-run, bases-loaded single off Sparky Lyle followed a walk to Bob Stinson and a single by Julio Cruz off Jim Kern, who is 2-10 after winning a fireman's award in 1979, and a walk to Juan Beniquez by Danny Darwin.

Yankees 3, Red Sox 2

Reggie Jackson homered and Bucky Dent hit a two-run single barely onto the outfield grass over a drawn-in infield to give New York its 11th victory in the last 13 decisions at Fenway Park.

Ed Figueroa, recently demoted to the bullpen for the second time this season, was the winner as a substitute starter after Luis Tiant aggravated a thigh injury.

Orioles 2, Blue Jays 0
Ken Singleton hit a homer and Jim Palmer got all but the last batter of a four-hit shutout as Baltimore beat Toronto for the 21st time in their last 23 meetings. Palmer gave up a triple to Damaso Garcia with two outs in the ninth, but he said it was a twisted back that he suffered on a ninth-inning pitch that forced him to leave the game.

Tippy Martinez relieved Palmer to get the final out.

Angels 5, White Sox 2

Ed Halicki, acquired June 20 in a trade with San Francisco, lifted California's injury-plagued pitching staff with seven innings of four-hit pitching against Chicago, giving him his first major league victory in over a year.

Indians 8, Tigers 7

Bo Diaz got Cleveland close with a grand slam homer in the sixth inning after it fell behind 7-2 and then Joe Charboneau and Toby Harrah beat Detroit with run-scoring singles in the seventh.

Brewers 5, A's 2

Robin Yount hit two homers and Gorman Thomas and Mark Brouhard also hit solo shots to power Milwaukee over Oakland. Yount also scored on a sacrifice fly by Thomas, while Moose Haas won his ninth game in 15 decisions by scattering nine hits.

The Junior Aces bounced back from two losses last Wednesday to beat both the Squirrels and the Seals in Junior Putting League action yesterday.

Paced by Carl White's 65, the Junior Aces edged the Squirrels, 223-225, and defeated the Seals, 223-247.

Dusty Carter, with a 69, led the Squirrels to their split as they defeated the Seals, 225-245. Paul Williams had the low score for the Seals, with a 79.

With two wins, the Aces are in first place with a 10-4 record, while the Seals are 6-8 and the Squirrels, 5-9.

In Church League action, Farmville Presbyterian Church easily beat Salem Methodist and Mt. Pleasant Christian Tuesday night.

Farmville Presbyterian (11-1) was led by Kenny Patterson with a 67 and Stuart Gordon with a 70. Salem Methodist, 7-5, was topped by Jeff Taft with a 68 and Ray Taft with a 71. Mt. Pleasant was led by Jerry Simpson, low for the night with a 65, and Michael Taylor with a 79. Mt. Pleasant is now 0-12.

What to expect when you install a Solar Hot Water System now...and the IRS and Utility Company find out about it.

Expect to get about $2000

$150 SAVINGS A YEAR IN ELECTRIC BILLS.

In addition, a typical Solar Water Heater for a family of four can save you 50% of yearly utility bills for hot water. That can amount to more than $150 the first year on your electric bill. Add that to the available tax credits and you could save more than $1970 for the first year. And that's only the beginning. Because you'll continue to save even more year after year on your utility bills as the cost of energy continues to rise.

Humane Society Budget Adopted By Martin County Bd. Holds Meeting

The Pitt County Humane Society held its first meeting in over a year Tuesday night at the Woman's Club, taking in ten new members and finalizing plans for its fund-raising drive.

President Elizabeth Savage presided over the meeting and Vice President Charlotte Price explained to the crowd of 20 the details of the society's "Doggy Dip," scheduled for July 12 at Carolina East Mall. "What we will be doing," said Price, "is dipping dogs for fleas and ticks. We will mix the dip in large drums and then dip the dogs in tin tubs. We will also bathe the dogs," she added.

Price emphasized that the dip is only for dogs, and members agreed that cats could not be included in this fund-raiser. The hours for the dip were set from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the place was set for the parking lot near Sears at the mall. Drinks will also be on sale, Price reported.

The dates for two other fund-raising activities were set also. The society decided on August 2 as the date for its pet show, to be held at Elm Street Park. This show would include all types of animals, with prizes for the best, prettiest, most unusual, etc. Price reported that the ribbons have already been donated.

The society also discussed the possibility of holding a barbecued chicken dinner sometime in the next month. Plans for the dinner were not finalized. A yard sale in Ayden is tentatively scheduled for this coming Saturday.

"We will be having several bake sales and yard sales in between all these other fund-raisers," said the vice-president. "We need money badly, that's why we're having this membership and fund drive." Membership in the society has been $1 for children, $2.50 for adults, and $5 for a family. "Now we are giving memberships for any donation, hoping to involve more people and improve our bank account at the same time," said Price.

Farmville Bd.....

The Board approved the promotion of Police Lt. Wilbur Barber to the rank of captain, with accompanying pay increase.

Consideration of the dilemma of when to turn off lights at Bennett Park was sent to the Recreation Committee. Users of the park want long hours while neighbors of the park want shorter ones.

Assistant Town Administrator Edwin J. Thorne said the final drafts of Farmville's Community Development application were hand delivered yesterday to HUD. "We should hear within about 75 days," he said. Mayor Mercer said a Community Development director has been hired and his salary for the interim, $2,082, has been budgeted. "Our performance the first year is very important," he said, "in determining whether we receive funds for the two following years, so we want to get started early and do the best job we can."

The Board approved that no change be made in Excess BOD and Suspended Sewer Use Surcharge. According to a recommendation from the Utilities Department, the rates are deemed fair and equitable and the town presently does not charge anyone for excess BOD and suspended solids.

Action on whether to begin interviewing for architects for the new Town Hall was tabled until the new town administrator is on board.

Approval was given to a contract with Vance B. Taylor, CPA, Inc. for audit work for this fiscal year. His maximum charge would be $5,945. Finance Committee Chairman Joe Kue said.

The Board adopted the Water and Light Committee's recommendation that Collins and Aikman Company's water charge be $12,000 per month (cost plus five percent). It was decided that the cost of Downtown Revitalization Project water system improvements would not be included in the costs figured for C & A, since in the board's view, C & A does not benefit from these improvements.

Approval was given to the roster of active Farmville Fire Department members. This approval makes those firemen eligible for membership in the North Carolina Pension Fund.

Consideration of a municipal maintenance agreement for traffic control devices with the N. C. Department of Transportation was sent to committee.

A resolution was adopted approving the application of Power Agency No. 2 cities and towns (14 of them) for membership in Power Agency No. 3.

A public hearing on the rezoning of two and a half blocks in the Marlboro area was set for the Aug. 5 commissioners' meeting. A recommendation from the Planning Board calls for realignment of some boundaries to follow property lines and the changing of some lots too small for light industrial use to R-5 residential.

Consideration of paving Moore Street was postponed per a request by Jack Cobb that it be delayed.

WILLIAMSTON — In a special session, members of the Martin County Board of Commissioners approved the tax rate and budget for Martin County for fiscal year 1980-81.

The rate set by commissioners is 85 cents per $100 evaluation of property, for a total budget of $12,000,394.

The new tax rate equates to an increase of 13 percent over the 75 cents per $100 rate effective in the current 1979-80 budget year.

The General Fund portion of the budget — increased from the current $8,509,732 to the new budget of $9,533,544, accounts for an increase of ten percent in that category.

In the budget approval, the county commissioners also agreed to increase the tax rate proposed in earlier hearings by one cent. Further, it allotted the Martin County Board of Education $50,000 in addition to funds already allotted for the education budget. This increases the Board of Education's budget to $1,857,022 in current expense. The capital outlay portion of the education budget is $400,000.

Other portions of the county's budget includes: debt service, $619,375; local sales tax, $797,375; revenue sharing, $690,000; anti-recession, $110,000; reevaluation, $25,000; and capital reserve fund, $255,100.

The General Fund total includes $1,000,000 earmarked for the building of a new county courthouse. This allocation brings to $3,000,000 total funds set aside for the building. In a non-budget item, Martin County commissioners are now taking applications for the position of sheriff. The county's current sheriff, Raymond Rawls, has tendered his resignation effective September 1. Applications will be accepted until July 14, the date the board of commissioners has set to begin processing applicants to select a new sheriff.

GUCO CLOSING FRIDAY — Greenville Utilities will be closed Friday for Independence Day. The emergency phone number is 752-5627.

Students PCC Program Participants

Twenty high school and college students are participating in an eight week summer program co-sponsored by Pitt Community College and the Pitt County Office of the Martin Community Action Agency. This is a landscaping class and is conducted 40 hours per week which includes classroom sessions and practical work experience on the college campus.

Ten students have been assigned to landscaping projects near the Humber Building and Whichard Buildings on campus.

A similar project, also involving ten students, is being sponsored by PCC at Farmville Central High School where the students are receiving training in light construction.

Andy McLawhorn serves as instructor of this class, which began June 16.

Billy Stokes, director of Occupational Extension at PCC noted, "Students receive several benefits while participating in these classes. They receive job experience along with classroom study."

When it's an emergency, know the way to go.

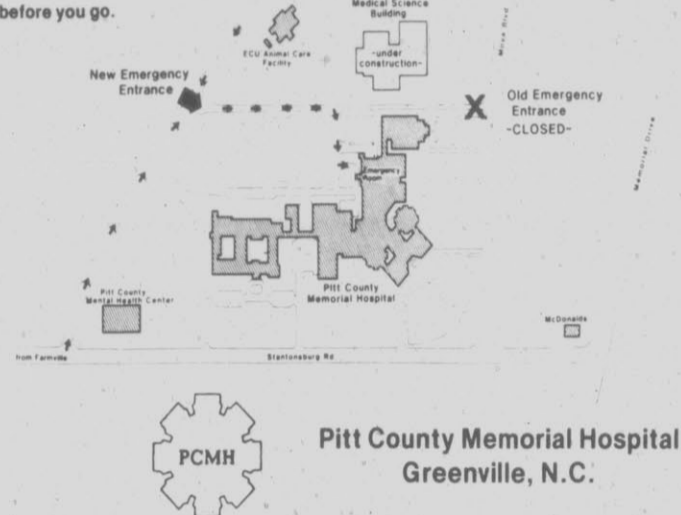

The emergency room entrance at Pitt County Memorial Hospital will change effective July 7, 1980.

The old emergency entrance from Moye Blvd. will be closed permanently because of construction of the educational facility for the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The new emergency entrance is located at the rear of the medical center. We encourage our patients to make a note of the new route.

In an emergency, saving time may mean saving a life.

Greenville, N.C.

Budget Adopted For Winterville

WINTERVILLE — The Town Board approved the 1981 budget Monday night, which calls for no increase in water, sewer and tax rates. The new budget, which totals $1,614,936, emphasizes street paving and does not allow for new equipment or vehicles.

The only increases over last year's budget were a 10 percent increase in salaries and a 30 percent increase in the fuel account. The mayor's salary was raised from $75 per month to $100 per month and the aldermen's salaries were raised from $35 per month to $50 per month.

The budget includes $96,000 in taxes from 1980; $30,000 from the Powell Bill; $55,000 from local option sales tax; $67,750 from water income; $94,000 from sewer income, $33,000 comes from revenue sharing; and $230,404 from electric income.

Winterville's total debt service stands at $63,622. Budgeted for salaries, and upkeep for police, streets and sanitation from the general fund is $356,160; water department, $67,750; sewer fund, $94,000 owed to CSMD; electric fund, $800,000 for purchase of electricity for resale; salaries and materials, $77,000.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles calls the 1981 budget "A tight budget aimed at street paving with no increases in taxes or service fees."

Nobles reminds residents that town employees will have July 4 as a holiday and that garbage will be picked up instead on Thursday, July 3.

Approval was given to a contract with Vance B. Taylor, CPA, Inc. for audit work for this fiscal year. His maximum charge would be $5,945. Finance Committee Chairman Joe Kue said.

The Board adopted the Water and Light Committee's recommendation that Collins and Aikman Company's water charge be $12,000 per month (cost plus five percent). It was decided that the cost of Downtown Revitalization Project water system improvements would not be included in the costs

Erik Estrada In Divorce Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After seven months of marriage, television star Erik Estrada and his wife, Joyce, are in the process of getting a divorce.

"We were convinced that our marriage would survive, but it just didn't work out," said Estrada, who plays a California highway patrolman on TV's "CHiPs."

He cited tensions stemming from life in the public eye as contributing to the breakup.

The couple, who eloped to Las Vegas on Nov. 25, 1979, separated June 27 with Mrs. Estrada moving from their Studio City home to an undisclosed location.

How Tar Heel Congressmen And Senators Voted

ROLL CALL REPORT SERVICE
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 19 through June 25.

HOUSE
JERUSALEM — The House rejected, 80 for and 252 against, an amendment requiring the U.S. to move the American Embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem. Such a move is called for by the Democratic Party's 1976 platform, which recognizes "Jerusalem as the capital of Israel..." The amendment, offered as a surprise by conservative Republicans, sought to use a State Department money bill to force the move. The bill (HR 7584) later was passed and sent to the Senate.

 Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., the sponsor, said that while he is "not in the habit of encouraging compliance with the Democratic Platform," he wants the U.S. to do more to strengthen its ties with and reinforce the security of Israel.
 One opponent was Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., whose congressional district has more Jews than any other district. He said that he favored U.S. recognition of Jerusalem as the Israeli capital, but sees the GOP amendment as "one of the most incredibly irresponsible approaches to an extraordinary complex problem which has ever been put before this House."

 Members voting "yea" wanted to require the move of the U.S. Embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.
 Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L.H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.C. Hefner, D-8, James Martin, R-9, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "nay."
 Rep. James Broyhill, R-10, did not vote.

SENATE
STUDENT LOANS — The Senate adopted, 56 for and 41 against, an amendment making the student loan program slightly more costly to borrowers. The measure ends the policy of excusing interest payments for the years the student is in school; after leaving college, the borrower will have to retroactively pay the nine percent interest. The student who borrows $4,000 thus would have his monthly payment increase from $46 to $58. The amendment, which would save the Treasury an estimated $3.1 billion over five years, was included in a higher education bill (HR 5192) later passed and sent to conference with the House.
 Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, the sponsor, said his amendment deserves enactment "as a matter of fairness to the blue collar family and the general taxpayers" who subsidize student loans.
 Sen. Robert Morgan, R-Vt., an opponent, said "the financially weakest would be the hardest hit" by the amendment.
 Sens. Robert Morgan, D, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."
DAVIS-BACON ACT — By a vote of 48 for and 34 against, the Senate killed an amendment aimed at exempting some federal construction project from the Davis-Bacon Act. The act, a favorite of organized labor, requires builders under federal contract to pay the prevailing wages of the area. The amendment sought to remove from Davis-Bacon jurisdiction ten percent of the projects undertaken by the General Services Administration (GSA). It was proposed to a bill (S 2080); later passed and sent to the House) to upgrade the way the GSA provides office space for federal workers.

 Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., a supporter of killing the amendment, defended Davis-Bacon as "a basic affirmation" that federal construction is "not undertaken at the expense of the workers."
 Sen. Roger Jenson, R-Iowa, an opponent of killing the amendment which he sponsored, said Davis-Bacon inflates federal construction costs and "is totally unnecessary because we have all manner of unions and minimum wage laws in effect already."
 Senators voting "nay" wanted to make the Davis-Bacon Act less applicable to federal construction.
 Morgan and Helms voted "nay."
HOUSING FUNDS — The Senate rejected, 47 for and 23 against, a plan to use $2.4 billion in federal housing funds to subsidize rental housing for 124,000 middle-income families.
 The vote occurred during debate on a $47 billion housing and community development bill (S 2719) later passed and sent to the House. It removed from the authorization bill a new mortgage subsidy for builders who agree to rent apartments at controlled rates to tenants with incomes of up to about $24,700. Currently, federal housing subsidies are limited to families making no more than about $15,000. The new plan intended to make more housing available for low-income families by partially relieving the current shortage of rental housing.
 Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who favored killing the new program, said diverting funds from low-income housing is "totally inconsistent, unfair and unwise."
 Sen. William Proxmire,

D-Wis., an opponent, said that because the middle-income subsidy would produce housing with less federal aid per unit is an "innovative approach to efficient use of subsidy dollars."
 Senators voting "yea" opposed the middle-income housing subsidy.
 Helms voted "yea."

COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLANS UNDER TITLE XX STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

I. FINAL AMENDMENT TO THE FINAL COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLAN: PROGRAM YEAR OCTOBER 1, 1979-SEPTEMBER 30, 1980.

The final plan is amended as follows:

- 1) Several county departments of social services have amended their service plans as a result of a reassessment of available resources. Revised client and expenditure estimates are included in the final amendment.
- 2) Services provided in conjunction with Protective Services for Adults or Children may be provided without a fee and without regard to income for the first twelve months after initiation of protective services.
- 3) The Division of Services for the Blind corrected errors in the definitions of Adjustment Services for the Blind and Visually Handicapped and Chore Services for the Blind.

EFFECTIVE DATE of these changes is July 2, 1980.

II. PROPOSED COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLAN: PROGRAM YEAR OCTOBER 1, 1980-SEPTEMBER 30, 1981.

In the social services program funded under Title XX, twelve services are required to be available in all 100 counties, i.e., Adoption, Day Care for Children, Family Planning, Foster Care for Adults and Children, Health Support, In-Home Services (either Chore or Homemaker Services), Individual and Family Adjustment Services, Protective Services for Adults and Children, Adjustment Services for the Blind or Visually Handicapped, and Chore Services for the Blind. The remaining services are considered optional and are provided based on identified need and the availability of funds.

INDIVIDUALS ELIGIBLE TO BE SERVED include the following persons:

- 1) Recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments, and those persons whose needs are taken into account in determining the needs of AFDC recipients; and recipients of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program benefits and of regular payments made by the State in supplementation of such benefits.
- 2) Individuals whose family's yearly gross income is less than the adjusted established income for a family of four, and
- 3) Individuals in need of Information and Referral, Protective Services for Adults and Children and services provided in conjunction with Protective Services (no income requirements).

The plan includes information on standards for non-medical and medical residential facilities for SSI recipients, a system for enforcing standards, and names and addresses of standard-setting authorities who will respond to requests for information on standards, enforcement, waivers, and identity of deficient facilities.

INCOME ELIGIBILITY LEVELS for each service are described in the proposed plan. Maximum income eligibility levels are adjusted by family size based on the maximum amount of income allowable for a family of four ($16,252 per year).

WRITTEN COMMENTS on the proposed plan will be accepted during the public comment period beginning July 2, 1980, and ending August 15, 1980, at the address listed below. The public may review the proposed plan at any county department of social services.

COPIES OF THE FINAL AMENDMENT AND THE PROPOSED PLAN MAY BE ordered without charge by calling 1-800-662-7030 (Toll Free) or by writing to the following office:

Dynamite Job Can Be A Real Blast

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — You could say Benny Koske's job is a real blast. Hundreds of times a year, he climbs into a wooden crate which is then blown up with enough dynamite to crack a 1-ton safe.
 The 40-year-old Palm Bay, Fla., stuntman performs the trick hundreds of times a year at county fairs, shopping malls and racetracks.
 "I blow myself up because that's the breed of person I am," Koske said after a recent show in Grand Rapids.
 Koske works for two hours before each performance, strategically placing five sticks of dynamite in a wooden crate. The stage is then set for the former stunt-car driver.

He's never been seriously injured, but his body bears many scars from explosions that have bounced him around.
 "It's a dangerous job, no doubt about that," said Koske, also known as "Boom Boom," "Captain Dynamite" or "The Human Bomb."
 His first exposure to the life of a daredevil came early, as he traveled through the South with his father, a stunt-car driver. He followed in his father's footsteps nearly 20 years ago, but later switched to the dynamite act.
 He says the tension begins to set in about an hour before each show, shortly before he squeezes into his fire-resistant, white leather suit.
 "I've blown myself to bits thousands of times," he said. "But each one is different. Each could be my last."
 When the time comes, Koske walks to his waiting box and straps on a crash helmet. He lies on his stomach and listens to the announcer's countdown.
 At the end of the countdown, Koske flips a switch and the dynamite explodes. When the smoke clears and the rubble has hit the ground, "Boom Boom" is still lying on his stomach.
 "This one felt good to me," he said. "Sometimes the blast knocks me right off the ground and tears the boots from my feet.
 "I'm not sure why I do it. If I did, I'd give it up."

Ask Funds For Resettlement

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's four major Lutheran bodies have been asked for $275,000 to cover projected resettlement costs for Lutheran participation in the Cuban and Haitian resettlement programs.
 The Rev. John Houck, general secretary of the Lutheran Council in the USA, said the funds would be used to cover costs for which government reimbursement is not available.

Members voting "yea" favored the $100 million outlay for Cuban and Haitian refugees.
 Jones, Neal, Preyer and Rose voted "yea."
 Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."
THE DRAFT — The House passed, 234 for and 168 against, and sent to President Carter a bill providing $13.3 million to register young men for possible draft into the military. Some four million men born in 1960 and 1961 soon will be required to go to local post offices to fill out Selective Service forms.

Eskimos Bid For Voice On Resources

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

GODTHAAB, Greenland (AP) - Eskimo leaders from the United States, Canada and Greenland made their first concerted bid early today to use the vast oil and gas and mineral resources of their Arctic homelands to pressure their national governments to make more political, financial and territorial concessions to them.

Leaders of the 100,000 Eskimos in the three countries wound up a four-day convention early today with traditional singing and demands for:

1. A moratorium on offshore oil and gas concessions off the North Slope of Alaska until the U.S. government agrees that the Eskimos have title to the offshore area. The North Slope Eskimos already control billions of dollars of oil money in royalties or taxes from production there.

2. A ban on oil, gas and mineral production in Canada's Northwest Territories until they and the Canadian government agree on a settlement of their land claims. The Canadian Eskimos are scheduled to reopen negotiations with the Canadian government in August. They are seeking their own Eskimo-run province embracing about 75 percent of the vast, largely unsettled Northwest Territories, which covers nearly a third of Canada.

3. A moratorium on new concessions and renegotiation of old ones, including uranium, in Greenland until the huge North Atlantic island's 41,000 Eskimos and the Danish government agree on control of Greenland's natural resources.

The pressure the Alaskan and Canadian Eskimos will be able to exert is questionable since they are tiny minorities. But Greenland's Eskimos are self-governing under the Danish crown and like the Danish government have a veto over the use of the resources of the 840,000-square-mile island.

A Danish government outfit is scheduled to complete uranium prospecting near Narsaq, in southern Greenland, this summer. The Narsaq deposit is estimated to be the largest in the nine nations of the European Economic Community outside France, and Finn Lyng, Greenland's EEC representative, said his government would oppose any exploitation of the Narsaq deposit because of the pollution that would result.

The meeting established the first permanent international Eskimo organization, the Inuit Circumpolar Conference, with a $12-million budget for its first two years of operation. An urbane, Danish-educated Greenlandic, Hans-Pavia Rosing, 32, was elected to the $45,000-a-year job of president, heading an executive dominated by young, well-educated Eskimos, or Inuits, the name which they call themselves.

Rosing conceded that Eskimo power is limited but said he believes the Godthaab conference has given the scattered Arctic peoples a new political voice.

"Until now the majority (national) governments have set the guidelines," he said. "From now we will be putting the guidelines to them."

Inmates Protest: Injured Selves

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Prison officials said Tuesday 15 inmates at Central Prison cut themselves with ballpoint pens or razor blades last week to protest conditions at the penitentiary.

Prison spokesman Stuart Shadbolt said all of those involved were maximum security inmates. They were treated for superficial injuries and released from the prison hospital, he said.

Shadbolt said Warden Sam P. Garrison met with the inmates during the weekend to hear their grievances, which involved living conditions at the prison. Shadbolt said Garrison has started an investigation to determine the validity of the complaints.

Songs In Sign Language Presented At Session

ECU News Bureau
Sign language interpreters from East Carolina University are being featured at the centennial convention of the National Association of the Deaf which opened in Cincinnati, Ohio June 29 and will continue through July 5.

The ECU group is comprised of four of the five members of "Fantasy," a touring ensemble which interprets the lyrics of popular songs through sign language, bodily movement and facial expression.

"Fantasy" is scheduled to give its "Evening of Music and Signs" program three times during the convention. Among selections included are well-known songs from such musical dramas as "South Pacific" and "A Chorus Line" and a variety of songs by popular recording artists.

Director of the "Fantasy" ensemble is James Haslup, a Baltimore, Md. native who has been using sign language since the age of nine. He is lead interpreter in ECU's Program for Hearing-Impaired Students.

Also attending the convention from ECU are staff

The fifth member of "Fantasy" is Teresa Dixon, sign language interpreter for the Greenville office of the Social Security Administration.

Porpoise Let Loose In Sea

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) — A porpoise that washed up sick on a New Jersey beach 3 1/2 months ago has been returned, healthy, to the sea.

The 4-foot-long male harbor porpoise was being pecked by hungry seagulls when it was found near Atlantic City on March 14. After recovering on a steady diet of squid, herring, antibiotics and vitamins, the mammal was flown to Provincetown Tuesday and released.

"He didn't do what we expected, which was circling around," said Dr. Charles Mayo, director of the Cetacean Research Program.

"He was dropped in the water and with about two kicks was gone. That's the most positive sign of all."

SAC Brass Keep Jobs

OFFUTT AIR FORCE BASE, Neb. (AP) — The Strategic Air Command says two of its generals who were arrested in Hawaii last month will be retained in their present posts.

But SAC refused Tuesday to disclose the findings resulting from an inquiry into accusations by security police at Hickam Air Force Base in Honolulu that Maj. Gen. Earl Peck and Brig. Gen. Stanford E. Brown had been intoxicated in an automobile.

Security police had alleged that Peck, SAC chief of staff, and Brown, assistant general chief of staff for plans, had acted in a manner unbecoming an officer. Both are on the staff at SAC headquarters here.

A command spokesman said the findings could not be made public under provisions of the Privacy Act and the Freedom of Information Act.

In a brief statement, SAC said, "The inquiry conducted into the alleged misconduct of two general officers assigned to headquarters SAC and on temporary duty in Hawaii has been completed and appropriate action taken.

Water Ski Events Planned

Water Ski events on the Tar River along the Town Common area will be one of the major attractions for Greenville's Fourth of July celebration. The show begins at 11 a.m.

The multi-faceted show, under the auspices of the Greenville Jaycees, is being coordinated by Parker Overton of Overton Skis.

The Water Ski show opens with a run down the river by Reggie Fountain, world champion holder of the unlimited outdoor category of racing. This will be followed by the appearance of three ski nautique boats. These will be operated by Jack Rollins, N.C. senior men's state champion, Boogie Norris, and Parker Overton. These are the boats that will be towing skiers.

Another featured act is that of jet skis, and the two in this act are Lindsay Henry of Greenville and Freddie Manning of Williamston.

The extravaganza of the water show is to be a water ballet with about 15 performers, male and female, taking part. Ten-year old Kristi Overton, who holds the junior All-American trick skiing title, will be featured in the ballet.

Daredevil acts scheduled include brothers Bill and Gary Leitch. Bill is Mid-Western Regional Barefoot Jumping Champion. They will attempt to perform backwards skiing while barefoot. Two others, Judson

Police Hunting Silver Exhibit

MERIDEN, Conn. (AP) — Police are looking for 191 patterned silver teaspoons reported stolen from a museum exhibit at one of the nation's oldest silverware companies.

The spoons, representing each of the designs made by International Silver Co. since 1897, were reported missing Monday afternoon. The museum had been locked since June 24, officials said.

Police Detective Anthony Cebrelli estimated that the silver might be worth about $3,000 if the spoons were melted down. But their historic value is far in excess of their raw market value, he said Tuesday.

Whitehurst and Washington's Wayne Willard, will join in the tumble-turn act.

Other events in the water ski show will include a kite act and a pyramid act which will have Gary and Bill Leitch, Dawn Henderson of Bath, Beth Turnage of Farmville and Freddie Manning creating the pyramid. One act will be a family one with Parker and Becky Overton joined by their daughter Kristi. Comedy acts include a skier as a conservationist Indian making runs to pick up litter from the river. Henry Hinton of WNCT-TV will be master of ceremonies, assisted by Jimmy Wynne.

Parker Overton emphasizes that individuals who may be thinking of skiing in the Tar River should take extreme caution. He noted the river is very shallow and that skiing in it can be hazardous. Overton said he and several others have studied the water area very closely to determine what they can and cannot attempt to do safely.

Life Term For Cyanide Death

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Barbara Hoffman, a former massage parlor employee convicted of first-degree murder in the cyanide poisoning of a 52-year-old man, has been sentenced to life in prison.

A jury Saturday convicted Miss Hoffman of the December 1977 murder of Harry Berge, but acquitted her of first-degree murder in the March 1978 death of Gerald Davies, 31, of Madison. Both men died of cyanide poisoning. Miss Hoffman was sentenced Tuesday.

The prosecution contended the former honors student at the University of Wisconsin killed both men to get life insurance benefits. Both men had named her beneficiary of life insurance policies they held.

Western News Edition Idea

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last summer, CBS News brought to realization a long-fostered, noble little notion: that the news should still be news by the time it reaches the West.

On Aug. 27, 1979, the Western edition of the "CBS Evening News" was born, high promises, satellite technology and Terry Drinkwater its inheritance. Of those, the technology and Drinkwater remain. The promises were spent fast.

At the beginning, CBS gave the Western edition a commitment for space on "Evening News" every night. It made imminent good sense.

The "Evening News" broadcast with Walter Cronkite is fed from New York at 6:30 p.m., which is mid-afternoon on the Pacific Coast. Before the Western edition, the Cronkite broadcast was simply taped in the afternoon and replayed in the evening; thus, Los Angeles viewers heard Walter's "That's the way it 3 1/2 hours late. That's the way it was."

The idea behind Western edition was that every day, the status of at least one story reported by Cronkite would have changed by airtime in the West. The Western edition unit, with its satellites and electronic newsgathering devices, would be able to quickly update any story, even if it was just Terry Drinkwater reading from an updated script.

The stale portions of Cronkite's broadcast were to be cut. Indeed, Drinkwater made an appearance every night in the early going, sometimes with legitimate updates of breaking stories, sometimes just to "establish a presence," as one CBS News staffer characterized it.

Within two months, though, the eye of the news turned outward, and the dominant stories came from overseas. The crisis in Iran demanded larger and larger chunks of the newscast, and that was one story that the Western edition couldn't update.

"When we went on the air with the Western edition," says David Browning, then producer of the show and now CBS' L.A. bureau chief, "it was 4 a.m. in Tehran..."

"It would be nice to be up there waving the flag every night, but you don't want to go on just for the sake of form. When we started the Western edition, it was an unknown quantity. We went in figuring there would be enough to carry us five nights a week. But after the shakedown period, three or four months, we realized there just wasn't enough (news)."

Four months ago, the commitment to a nightly Western edition was rescinded. Except for Mount St. Helens, the West hasn't really provided any great news shakes recently.

Although the Western edition unit is still operating at CBS Television City in Hollywood (at the cost of $1 million a year), Drinkwater only makes it to the "Evening News" an average of 2 1/2 times a week. It seems less than that.

What CBS is left with amounts to a glorified, expensive version of something it (and the other two networks) already had — the capacity to break into network news with local updates for the West. The chief difference is that CBS has a separate news unit specifically for that purpose.

Still, CBS plans to maintain the Western edition unit, and, given the cyclical nature of news, Browning predicts the experiment may yet prove worthwhile. Another story of Patty Hearst-SLA dimensions could validate the whole effort.

Roger Mudd To Work For NBC

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The reconstruction of NBC's struggling "Nightly News" has taken its most significant turn with the appointment of Roger Mudd, one of CBS' best-known reporters for nearly two decades, as chief Washington correspondent.

Mudd, whose decision to join his former boss, NBC News President William J. Small, was announced Tuesday, is the second prominent CBS correspondent to make the switch in two weeks. Marvin Kalb joined NBC News June 19 as diplomatic correspondent, after 23 years at CBS.

Small, who took over NBC's flagging news division in August, is a former CBS News bureau chief in Washington. He had pursued the veteran correspondent for months, and clearly was delighted with Mudd's decision.

"I consider him the premier broadcast journalist in Washington," Small said in a statement. "Indeed, he is the leading correspondent in that city, known nationwide for his perceptive reporting of national events."

Mudd, in a statement of his own, called the move to NBC "exciting and reassuring." "It means that we share certain principles of journalism — that news should be paramount, that nothing and no one should get in the way of the news and that the news should not be trifled with," he said.

Mudd for years was considered heir apparent to Walter Cronkite as "CBS Evening News" anchorman. His decision to leave the network after 19 years was due in large measure to CBS' selection of Dan Rather to succeed the veteran anchorman early next year.

It is not clear when Mudd will report to work at NBC. His contract with CBS expires early next year, and presumably NBC will try to arrange for the transfer before then. Mudd has not been at work for some time.

Mudd's switch to NBC comes with the network third in the ratings behind CBS and ABC. For the first time ever, ABC's "World News Tonight" finished a quarter — March 24-June 29 — in second place. Though last week, ABC had been runner-up to CBS in the weekly ratings nine times in a row.

Terms of Mudd's contract with NBC News were not disclosed, although the competition for his services appeared as intense as that for Rather, who signed a new pact with CBS in February, when the network named him to replace Cronkite.

West led the king, ace and another club. Declarer drew trumps in two rounds, and the rest of the hand seemed routine. Apparently, the contract hinged on the success or failure of the diamond finesse. But before tackling diamonds, declarer led a heart to the king and a heart back to the queen and ace. West shifted to a low diamond and, after only a moment's thought, declarer hopped up with the ace. The king came tumbling down and the contract was home.

No, declarer was not a disciple of The Rabbi. And, no, his play was not a shot in the dark, nor did he have the benefit of a peek at his opponent's cards. He had simply paid attention to what had transpired in the auction and the play.

West had passed initially, but he had already shown up with 11 points in high cards — the ace-king of clubs and the ace of hearts. Had he held the king of diamonds as well, he would surely have opened the bidding. Therefore, the only chance for the contract lay in the slim hope that East's king of diamonds was singleton.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1 Pass 1 ♦
Pass 2 Pass 4 ♦
Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♠.

Some years ago, there used to be a kibitzer at New York bridge clubs who would pontificate on the results of hands after he had the benefit of seeing all the cards. As a result, he became known as "The Rabbi," and soon there was the Rabbi's Rule: If the king is singleton, play the ace.

North-South reached four spades in fine style. Note North's sensible decision to raise his partner's suit even though he held only three trumps. However, they were good trumps and he had a ruffing value, so the raise was preferable to a one-no trump rebid without a club stopper. That allowed South to revalue his hand to a near opening bid, and since he had a secondary fit for his partner's diamond suit, he wasted no time in getting to game.

Colonial Music At Historic Inn

NEW YORK (UPI) — A free concert of traditional American country music from the Revolutionary and Colonial periods will mark the Fourth of July holiday at Fraunces Tavern, the historic inn where George Washington bade farewell to his officers at the end of the American Revolution. The concert by string band musicians Jay Ungar and Lyn Hardy will be held in the Flag Gallery of the tavern museum starting at noon on the holiday.

Luciano Making Debut Via MGM

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Beely Italian opera star Luciano Pavarotti, often called the world's greatest tenor, will make his Hollywood movie debut at MGM starring in "Yes, Giorgio."

It was MGM which made millions of dollars with extravagant musicals starring another operatic tenor, the late Mario Lanza.

David Begelman, studio president, said that although Pavarotti will sing in "Yes, Giorgio," his role will be more dramatic than musical.

Evening At Pops Opens July 6

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Pops, with new conductor John Williams, will be back on the nation's TV screens this summer with a large measure of 20th century American music.

The 11th season of "Evening at Pops," presented by WGBH-Boston on the PBS network, will premiere Sunday, July 6, with a program of selections by Richard Rodgers in a tribute to the late composer. The series, funded by Honeywell Inc., will run weekly through Sept. 11 with guest stars including jazz pianist Oscar Peterson, Ray Charles, and an old timers night with the Mills Brothers.

Niven Sues Over Studio Failure

NEW YORK (AP) — Oscar-winning actor David Niven is getting some publicity over not getting enough publicity for his latest movie.

The 70-year-old Niven has filed a breach-of-contract suit against producer David Merrick and Paramount Pictures, Inc., claiming he was short-changed on salary and publicity in the movie "Rough Cut."

Niven, in asking for $1,791,667, charges that as distributor of "Rough Cut" Paramount failed to live up to an agreement to give Niven as much space as Burt Reynolds in the movie's advertisements.

Most ads for the movie, which opened recently, shows Reynolds more prominently than Niven.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — INEPT ARTIST REPAIRS STIFF STILL LIFE.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Soviet Moslem Society Treads Very Thin Line

By STEVEN R. HURST
Associated Press Writer
BAKU, U.S.S.R. (AP) - Soviet Moslem leaders voice support for the Islamic revolution in neighboring Iran. But they claim they have no fears that the unsettled conditions there will spread north and arouse the estimated 50 million Moslems living in the Soviet Union.

Soviet Moslems in general appear to live a far more comfortable life than their brothers in Iran and Afghanistan. Nevertheless, Soviet Moslems tread a thin line between their faith and the restrictions imposed by the Soviet government.

To hear Ismail Akhmedov and other Moslem leaders in Soviet Azerbaijan have these days is making sure that the rural faithful don't return to what he calls the fanatical practices of Islam's past.

Akhmedov, vice president of the Moslem Board of Soviet Transcaucasus, asserts that the Islamic upheaval in Iran, about 100 miles south of here, has had no effect on the Shiite and Sunni Moslems, under the jurisdiction of the Moslem Board. About 60 miles south of the Soviet border is the Iranian city of Tabriz where ethnic Iranian Azerbaijanis object to the policies of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"The attraction of the revolution in Iran for the Moslems there does not affect us because we have had the great October revolution behind us for 60 years now," Akhmedov says in reference to the 1917 Communist revolution in Russia.

Turbaned, bearded and berobed, Akhmedov sat at the head of a long table heaped high with expensive fresh strawberries, cherries, apples and tiny glasses of tea, all evidence of the good life Soviet Moslems live compared with their religious brethren in Iran or Afghanistan. While there still are some crumbling shams in Baku, most residents live in apartments on a par with those in Moscow. Women have equal rights. Illiteracy is dropping rapidly.

A Soviet publication on Islam claims: "The republics of the Soviet East have moved far ahead of their foreign neighbors which were at a similar stage of Turkmenia and Azerbaijan have four to six times more students and doctors per 10,000 of the population than neighboring Iran."

But Akhmedov preferred to avoid continuously comparing the Moslems of Azerbaijan to the Moslems of Iran. He was more interested in talking about local problems.

"We fight against displays of superstition and fanaticism which are not approved by the religion," he said in the dining room of a residence adjacent to the Taza-Pir Mosque - the second largest in the Soviet Union.

A Volatile Market Is Anticipated

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP.

Which way the stock market will move from here is a subject widely discussed today. Some view the recent strong rally as the beginning of a bull market which will take the Dow Jones Industrial Average well beyond the 1000 level. Other analysts caution that this could be a bear market rally with the recession not yet discontinued.

All market analysts seem to agree on one point, and that is the market is likely to be volatile in the future. Individual stocks and the market in general have displayed an increasing tendency to move rapidly up and down.

With increased volatility likely, what chance does an investor have to avoid too-high prices? A dollar-cost averaging program offers a good approach for long term investors.

Dollar-cost averaging is nothing more than investing a constant amount of money in a given stock, or in several stocks, over a long period of time, regardless of the price of the stock. The timing of the purchase is predetermined; it can be quarterly, monthly, semi-annually, or annually, and prices paid will vary during the course of the buying program.

Because you are investing a set amount of money, the amount of stock you buy will depend on the stock price. You will buy fewer shares when prices are high and more shares when the price is low.

For example, if you make three semiannual $600 purchases of stock at $25, $20, and $30 a share, you would have accumulated 74 shares at an average cost of $24.32 a share (excluding commissions). If you had invested $1800 at one time in that stock when the stock was $25, you would have bought only 72 shares at $25 a share.

The key to making this work is to pick good solid stocks which have potential to rise in price over the period of your buying program.

This can also be applied with larger amounts of money. If you were to inherit a large sum, for instance, you might invest in quarterly installments over a two year period of time. This would enable you to avoid buying all your stock at the top price and your purchases will closely reflect market movements over the period.

Market "timing" is a fine thing in theory, but it is very difficult, if not impossible, to time investments perfectly.

1.5 Million In Members' Goal

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - The Southern Baptist Convention, already the nation's largest Protestant denomination, has set a goal of adding 1.5 million - new baptized believers to the church by 1985.

The goal, part of the 134 million member denomination's Bold Mission Thrust, also calls for organization of 1,500 new congregations and the involvement in Bible study of 8.5 million people. The program has as its ultimate goal to confront every person in the world with the Gospel by the year 2000.

COLD WAVE JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - At least 16 people have died as a result of a cold wave which has plunged temperatures in parts of South Africa to below freezing, newspapers report.

Life Of Frontier Prevails In China's Wild West

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
SIZIWANG, Inner Mongolia (AP) — Mongolian "cowboys" in mule carts, and Chinese peasants on tractors ride along the dusty streets of this frontier town where billboards warn against brawling, prostitution and sorcery.

Siziwang, population 10,000, is a collection of mud huts and concrete boxes huddled on the edge of the grasslands.

It lies about 70 miles by jeep from Hohot, capital of China's Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region, which has been open to foreign visitors for only a year.

This "wild west" settlement is the Chinese equivalent of an American trading post or a Klondike settlement — but without the romance of gold or the lure of saloons and dance halls.

Here the gold is in animals: horses, sheep, cattle and camels. This is the crossroads where herdsmen from the grasslands stock up on provisions, and peasants from the rock-hard prairie buy or barter their supplies.

For many, the lights of Siziwang are the brightest they will see in their lives.

"Siziwang" literally means "king of four sons" and refers to the brother of Mongol chieftan Genghis Khan. The brother had four sons and ruled this region of nomadic tribes.

Just down the street from the popular and necessary public baths, "The 405 Murder Case," a B-grade political thriller, is playing at the only movie house in town.

In the muddy theater courtyard a cartoon billboard warns against the vices of frontier life: gang fights, rape, prostitution, pornography and superstitious practices.

"Don't molest women in public places," it warns. The punishment is seven years in prison.

"Don't engage in prostitution for profit," it orders. The cartoon shows a curvaceous woman in a green polka-dot dress. A man by her side holds up two fingers to passersby as if to say, "Two yuan."

The billboard also warns against engaging in superstitious practices. The penalties are stiff — up to five years in prison for the most serious cases — in an effort to protect gullible grassland rubes from being bilked by visitors taking advantage of their folk ways and ignorance.

At the bustling main intersection, buckboards of mules with jingling bells splash through the mud. Here and there a mule stands at a hitching post. The herdsmen don't come into town on prancing horses; more than likely they slump wearily in their mule carts or sleep against sacks of grain.

They stop at the local department store to buy anything from bedrolls to carved Mongolian pipes. The daily necessities resemble those in any Chinese department store.

At one corner of the intersection an entrepreneur spreads his wares on a red cloth in the dirt: more than 100 yellowed, rotted teeth. For a price between 75 cents and $1, he pulls teeth at a nearby clinic. He also sells veterinary potions.

Nearby a man sells embroidery samplers. Across the street, workers, farmers and herdsmen line up to have a local practitioner remove ear wax.

At the bus station, a notice of execution is posted on the wall, something routine in many parts of China.

The notice from the Supreme Court of Inner Mongolia describes the case of Sung, Chuen Guang, 22, a railroad construction worker who was executed May 15.

Sung was convicted of a series of robberies and brutal assaults — one of them fatal — dating back years. Although he was arrested before and sentenced to reeducation through labor, he never reformed or curbed

NO SPITTIN' OR SWEARIN' — Billboard in the town of Siziwang, Inner Mongolia, warns against spitting, swearing, prostitution, brawling and sorcery. Siziwang is the last community of any consequence before entering Mongolia's "Big Sky" country. (AP Laserphoto)

Motorcycling A Way Of Life

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Mary Truckey has no trouble remembering the day she became a motorcyclist.

It was Mother's Day, 1973, and her husband, Bob, had just presented her with her present, a new cycle.

"If you want your Mother's Day present, ride it home," he said after showing her how the accelerator and brakes worked.

Now Mrs. Truckey, like the other members of the Truckey family, is a genuine devotee.

"I think it's a very relaxing thing if you just take an easy ride," she said.

Her cycle is just one of nine owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Truckey and their children. Her 49-year-old husband, a Green Bay fireman, has been a cyclist since the days when, as a 15-year-old, he equipped an ordinary bicycle with an engine.

Four of the couple's five children still live at home and are cyclists, while their married daughter, Judy Kloehn of Green Bay, has former-cyclist status.

"She had a motorcycle before she had her children, but then she sold it," Mrs. Truckey explained.

The Truckeys' eldest son, Dan, 21, drives a 1,000-cubic-centimeter machine that is the largest of the family's motorcycles. Their youngest son, 15-year-old Dave, is a year short of the legal age for driving on roadways but rides a dirt bike on trails.

The other two riders are son Bob, 19, and daughter Jean, 17.

In addition to the cycles, the family has several more conventional vehicles such as a station wagon and three trucks, but Mrs. Truckey said they liked to use the cycles for transportation rather than merely for recreation.

"The older ones use them to go back and forth to work and to school," she said.

"I use my bike a lot for going back and forth to the store," making use of saddlebags on the cycle, she said.

One motivation to use the cycles is the fuel savings, with the cycles commonly getting 50, 60 or more miles per gallon compared with the 15 to 18 miles per gallon for the other vehicles, she said.

Helmets are worn most of the time by the family members although they are optional under Wisconsin law.

"The ones under 18 wear them all the time," Mrs. Truckey said.

The family has avoided serious accidents or injuries, but family members remain wary of the dangers of riding.

"You have to be on the defensive all the time when you're riding a bike," Dan said. "Cars will not give you a lane on the highway. They just don't watch for you."

Mrs. Truckey said it wasn't common for the entire family to ride together.

"A lot of the time, the kids are going one way and we're going the other," she said. "We do ride together sometimes, though."

"We go to church together. You ought to see that."

Striving For A Togetherness

CHICAGO (UPI) — Major superiors from Anglican and Roman Catholic religious organizations have met together for the first time in history and opened a dialogue aimed at "making us people who can't stay apart."

The historic meeting of the heads of religious orders of the two denominations also proposed establishment of an Ecumenical Consultation of Religious to maintain and continue the joint efforts of Anglican and Roman Catholic religious orders.

He was arrested for robbery Dec. 31, 1979. The intermediate Mongolian People's Court found that in eight months the culprit had stolen the equivalent of $206 in cash, coupons for 1,700 pounds of rice, two wrist watches, 30 articles of clothing, three transistor radios, one donkey cart and many cartons of "high class" cigarettes.

The court notice said that last December, Sung hit a shopkeeper on the head with a brick. The blow was fatal. Sung took the man's watch.

Last November he attacked a railway station attendant with an iron door knob. When the man would not give up his watch, Sung chopped off the man's right hand and tossed it into a boiling pot, says the notice.

Mistakes By Mao Viewed As Harmful

By PHIL BROWN
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — The late Mao Tse-tung, once worshipped as China's "Great Helmsman," made mistakes that brought misfortune to the Communist Party and people of China, a high Chinese official is quoted by Yugoslav journalists as saying.

The three resident correspondents, representing the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug and the newspapers Politika and Vjesnik, said they were told by the Communist Party's general secretary, Hu Yaobang, during a recent five-hour interview that China's policy now toward Mao, who died in 1976 at age 82, is not to negate his contributions to the party and people but also not to cover up his mistakes.

He also said Mao should be held responsible for the Cultural Revolution, and that preparations are under way for a special party Central Committee meeting to discuss Mao's role in it, the journalists added.

That 1966-76 period of purges and factional strife now is officially blamed on the "Gang of Four" radical leaders, headed by Mao's wife, Jiang Qing, who were arrested after Mao's death. The journalists said Hu told them the four would go on trial by September before the Supreme Court.

The journalists quoted Hu as adding that as the Cultural Revolution spread, it became worse, with tortures and persecution, but that most Central Committee members had no responsibility for that.

They said they met with Hu on June 13, but at his request the interview was not reported until this week.

The Yugoslavs said Hu told them Mao lost energy in his later years and his written works on socialist construction and economy are not so good. The fifth volume of his works, rushed out soon after his death, is to be revised, Hu was quoted as saying.

He added that Mao's thought still is a guiding principle for China but many of his thoughts are not suitable for today's stage of the Chinese revolution, the Yugoslavs said.

Mao's works already have been downgraded on the basis of being partly outdated. Those still promoted are described as a summing up of the collective wisdom of China's pioneering Communist leaders. Mao's emphasis on ideological purity above all else has been set aside and a massive campaign to modernize China and raise living standards is under way using incentives and encouragements that Mao no doubt would have denounced.

But Mao still is revered, especially in China's countryside, and many middle-level officials owe their positions to rapid rises during his Cultural Revolution.

The Yugoslav journalists gave this account of other parts of the interview:

Hu said 100 million people wrongfully or mistakenly charged during the Cultural Revolution have been rehabilitated. This, he added, is 80 to 90 percent of the Cultural Revolution's victims.

He also said China now wants collective leadership and that if one man decides everything, that is feudalism.

(Hu, 67, is among the new generation of leaders moving up to form this collective, although they are only slightly younger than the generation of Senior Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, 76, who has said he intends to shed some of his government, but not party, duties this summer.)

On foreign policy, Hu described China's propaganda on the inevitability of a third world war as bad. Since that made China sound warlike, he added, it was being re-stated to say that China wants and needs peace and stability but has to prepare in case of war.

He said China had made mistakes in foreign policy, including earlier criticism of Yugoslavia, sacking the British Embassy during the Cultural Revolution and wrong estimations of the Social Democratic Parties in the West.

An Authority On Bites Of A Mosquito

PRICES EFFECTIVE THRU SAT., JULY 5, AT A&P IN GREENVILLE, N.C. ITEMS OFFERED FOR SALE NOT AVAILABLE TO OTHER RETAIL DEALERS OR WHOLESALERS.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — There are only two sure-fire solutions to the scourge of spring — and summer — in New Hampshire: the swarming mosquitoes that have the whole state slapping and swearing.

The first solution is to use a chemical — the kind nine towns in the seacoast region that have mosquito control programs spray on unsuspecting larvae. But a permit is needed, and the programs costs as much as $12,000 a year.

The second solution is to stay inside, which is just no fun at all.

Fortunately, there are a few other — less effective — methods for dealing with these vampires of the insect world. Foremost are the repellent sprays and ointments that drug and sporting-goods stores say they are selling almost as fast as they can stock them.

Some people are bothered enough to invest in so-called "screen-houses" to put on their lawns.

Murray McKay, state pesticide-control supervisor, said the state had no spraying program, but homeowners could buy chemicals to spray around their property.

The culprits behind all these defense expenditures come in 43 varieties, 18 of which munch on man. Though they serve a minor role in nature's food chain, said state entomologist Siegfried Thewke, "as far as humans are concerned, they don't serve much purpose — except to bite."

Thewke said mosquitoes were attracted to some people more than others. Some people have no reaction to bites, he added, while others end up with itchy, swollen lumps that may require a doctor's attention. "It all depends on the chemistry of the person," he said.

Perhaps the state's most qualified authority on mosquito bites is Doug Lake, a university of New Hampshire graduate student in entomology. He is, to a mosquito, nothing more than a free lunch.

One of the few accurate ways to determine the mosquito population, Lake said, is by a "bite count." A researcher strips to the waist, exposes himself to mosquitoes for five minutes, then counts the bites to get an index figure. He returns a week later and repeats the process to see if there are more or fewer mosquitoes.

Lake is one of those researchers, and he says he's been bitten as many as 75 to 100 times in a five-minute session.

"It's like your whole body is on fire," Lake said. "But if you don't scratch, it'll go away."

Lake's dedication has given him a world of knowledge on how to avoid and treat bites. He thinks a Canadian repellent sold in two-ounce bottles is about the best available. It costs more than $5 a bottle, compared to about $1.50 for other brands. But in some cases, the smell also repels humans.

Once the victim is bitten, Lake said, dabbing cider vinegar or baking soda and water on the bite will take the sting away. Pressing a wet teabag to the wound also helps, he said. Others recommended witch hazel, alcohol or ointments.

Besides using repellent, Lake suggested staying indoors around dawn and dusk, when mosquitoes are the most active. But, he said, "Whatever you do is going to be temporary. They'll just come right back in."

Dancer Lost Kidneys; Works

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Julie Fraser lost the use of her kidneys at birth. Today she has to rely on an artificial kidney machine three times a week to stay alive. But she is far from being a recluse.

Mrs. Fraser is a professional belly dancer and teaches other physically handicapped people that ancient art.

"For a physically handicapped person, dancing is more than a form of recreation," she says. "It's physical and spiritual therapy. Dancing has always been a vital part of my life."

Bank Gifts Middlemen In Uproar Over Ban Order

By ANDREW M. NIBLEY
 United Press International
 B.T. Babbitt started it back in 1851 by offering his customers coupons which, when accumulated in sufficient numbers, could be traded in for soap bars.

One hundred and twenty-nine years later, on a spring afternoon, five of the most powerful men in America decided the whole thing had gotten out of hand, this business of trying to drum up more business with the promise of gifts.

So, the secretary of the treasury, the head of the nation's central bank and the chairmen of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the National Credit Union Administration voted to forever banish the descendants of Babbitt's soap from U.S. banks and thrift institutions.

In other words, no longer can Americans look forward to getting barbecue grills, pocket calculators, earthenware, color televisions, electric blankets and even Rolls Royces in exchange for opening a new account or enticing a friend to come to their bank.

Instead, the regulators dictated, only cash will be used as bait and it will have to be counted as interest paid on the customer's account. The new policy was to begin June 9, allowing one month for comment.

"To put it mildly," one high ranking Federal Reserve official said, "There's been an uproar."

The uproar began almost instantly on that May 6 afternoon when the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee, created last winter by Congress, voted to prevent financial institutions from enticing customers with merchandise.

The seemingly innocent act has prompted an outpouring of both rage and congratulation from bankers, premium salesmen, legislators, trade organizations and manufacurers.

So overwhelming has been the response that the deadline for comment has been pushed back to July 16.

"We've had over a thousand letters," said one secretary at the Federal Reserve, which serves as home for the infant DIDC.

"They've been getting a lot of mail up on the Hill, too," said DIDC legal counsel Daniel Rhoads. "One aide told me the comments the congressmen have been received are coming over — in a truck."

It is an issue wrought with emotion and high finance.

Roughly half of the financial institutions in this country want to keep giving gifts. They point to millions in new assets brought in, they swear, by customers enamored with the prospect of getting a cuddly Teddy Bear, a shiny omelet maker or a snazzy new set of luggage.

But for the other half of the nation's financial community, premiums are a curse, a time-consuming gimmick beneath the dignity of their profession.

For hundreds of American firms that manufacture premium gifts for banks, the new regulation, if finally adopted, could prove devastating.

"We estimate that if the regulation is passed there could be job losses of 50,000 to 60,000 nationwide," said Jack Diamond of the Incentive Manufacturers Representatives Association in Danbury, Conn.

And there are some big names involved — Timex, Sunbeam, Regal Ware, Westbend, National Semiconductor, Astoria Crystal, all giants in the premium business, which annually grosses $200 million to $300 million depending on who you talk to.

Sales representatives for these companies refuse to talk about how much premium business they do or how many workers they'll have to lay off if the regulation becomes rule.

"But it doesn't take a genius to figure that when you're talking about millions of dollars in business, and we are talking about millions of dollars of business, it will translate into a lot of lost jobs," said Gene Knapp of Timex.

If the manufacturers will be hurt, their pain will be nothing compared to that of the premium middle men who work out merchandise deals between the banks and giftmakers.

"The big boys stand to lose millions," said Mark Hodder, administrative coordinator for the Washington-based trade association of Manufacturers Premium Representatives. "We stand to go out of business."

The acknowledged kingpin of middle men, John Connelly of Pittsburgh, has spent 30 years building his premium business up into a 50 million a year venture.

Connelly boils to think that his livelihood may soon evaporate. He thinks he knows why and he thinks it's a stupid reason.

"It's those New York people. They've always been crazy. One of them got carried away and went outside the law," he said. "Now they're going to punish all of us."

A number of federal regulators, who did not wish to be identified, agreed with Connelly's contention, if not his wording.

Under existing federal law, a financial institution can offer no more than $5 off the price of a gift for deposits under $5,000 and no more than $10 for larger deposits.

In other words, a bank can give a new customer who opens a $5,500 account a $30 toaster for only $20.

For a long time, New York had a different set of tighter rules for its institutions.

But a few months back, state regulators decided it was time to let their banks play by the federal rules.

"When they took the lid off in New York, they went bananas," said a representative of Westbend Corp., which markets all manner of cookware and electric appliances which end up as premiums in financial institutions.

One New York regulator explained what happened.

Product suppliers and promotion officials at big money banks began "averaging," a practice of undervaluing some gifts, while overstating the worth of others.

In addition, the true value of some merchandise was being disguised in bloated freight and handling charges. In other words, the banks were giving the $30 toaster away for free, saying it was really only a $10 toaster that cost $20 to be delivered.

All of this made it difficult, if not impossible, for federal regulators to determine whether various institutions were staying within the law, especially when the banks were dealing in thousands of dollars worth of merchandise.

"It was a headache. There were just not enough examiners to keep up with what was going on," said one attorney at the DIDC. "So the committee decided who needs it, let's just get rid of them."

This logic has infuriated some.

"When you've got a mosquito problem, you don't go out and buy an elephant gun," said the Westbend executive. "Why punish everyone for the sins of New York?"

Apparently unable to sway the regulators, premium manufacturers and middle men, along with sympathetic members of the banking community, have mounted a high pressure campaign on Capitol Hill.

And there are signs some congressmen are responding, particularly those in industrial states where factories churn out bank gifts with abandon.

"Maybe we can get the feds to soften the regulation to get at the real problem, the handful of banks going outside the law. But I'm not sure we can get them to rescind the ban altogether," Henry said.

"It's frustrating," he said. "It seems like we're chopping a lot of wood, but I don't see any trees falling."

Women Adding To Work Force

GENEVA (AP) — Working primarily on farms, in industry and the service sector, women are joining the world's labor force in increasing numbers and now make up more than a third of the world's workers, according to the U.N.'s International Labor Organization.

From 344 million in 1950, their numbers had risen to 600 million by 1975 and by the end of the century should approach 900 million. According to the ILO study, China alone accounted for one-fourth of the world's working women with three other countries — India with 77 million, the Soviet Union with 63 million, and the United States with 36 million — accounting for more than 30 percent of the total.

The study indicated the lowest proportion of working women was in Latin America, where only 14 percent of the female population was economically active.

Cleaning Bricks For 12 Years

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — When it comes to making money, Bill Bess is just a chip off the old brick. That's what he does for a living: chip off the old brick. And it's not bad, he says.

"Twenty-five dollars a thousand," he says. "I run about 12, 13-hundred to 2,000 a day."

Bess has been chipping old mortar off and cleaning bricks for the past 12 years. All it takes is a small hatchet, heavy cotton work gloves and time, he says.

Women Get The Hang Of Wallpapering

By BETTY SUE MORRIS
The Portland Oregonian
VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Shirley Peak is mixing colored paper and paste and coming up with greenbacks — greenbacks that stuff her pocketbook but don't compromise her independence.

The 35-year-old mother has started her own wallpapering business, an endeavor a growing number of enterprising women in Clark County are trying.

Closing the door at the end of a day's work on walls suddenly alive with stripes or checks is "fun, creative and satisfying. I make money, but I can still control my own work schedule," said Mrs. Peak, owner of The Paper Chase.

The ability to control their work schedules is the factor apparently enticing many women into the locally burgeoning wallcovering service industry.

Their involvement ranges from Mrs. Peak's two days a week — "I'm strictly labor. I'll pick up sample books from the paint store and help a customer select one if they want me to, but mostly I just hang what they already have" — to Vi Tiniakos' "26 hours a day" of consulting, buying and hanging what she calls an endless variety of wallcoverings that are flooding today's market.

"If you go to work part time for someone else, pretty soon you find it's not part time. Your days aren't your own any more, and I need the time for my family," commented Mrs. Peak, adding, "With my own business where there's just me and my customer, I can work on the days I want to and still be able to do the things I like to do at home."

"We could probably make more working for someone else, and we wouldn't have all the headaches and tax forms to fill out. But then we wouldn't have our freedom either," observed Virginia Kern, business partner with Billie Jean Woolf in Paper Dolls.

Mrs. Kern and Mrs. Woolf, like Mrs. Peak, began their business after taking a practical look at the financial possibilities of a skill they had been giving away for years.

"I've hung so much paper for free," said Mrs. Woolf. "A friend would say, 'Come over and help me paper my wall,' so I'd go and wind up doing the whole thing."

"I finally decided I might as well make money at it. With two kids in college, every little bit helps," she said.

Their capital investment was small: some razor blades for cutting, a straight edge, a couple of ladders, the fees for bonding and a required state subcontractor's license.

"We're just labor. We don't carry any sample books," said Mrs. Woolf.

Vi Tiniakos, however, is not "just labor." Seven years in the wallcovering business has made Tiniakos Interiors a respected and well known local decorating award winner.

Sales from the 200 wallpaper sample books that jam Mrs. Tiniakos' den closet gross annual revenues near the six-digit mark, and pay the salaries for two nearly full-time employees.

Though the small but decisive originator of the firm that bears her name has expanded her service to include window treatments and some selected furniture, wallcoverings remain her first love and first decorating option.

"Wallcoverings are the cheapest and best way a woman can redecorate her entire home on a budget," she says.

NAVY WORK
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The Navy last year maintained its position as the largest single employer in Newport County and as the second largest employer in Rhode Island, with combined civilian and military payrolls of about $150 million.

That represents a $16 million increase over the 1978 payroll, according to the Navy.

Lowe's Pricing Policy

Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail prices do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at a regular selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices. (Delivery charges not included.)
