Celebrations Mark The 4th

By CHARLOTTE PORTER
Associated Press Writer

There's a porcupine race in Council, Idaho, a picnic for 60,000 in Austin, Texas, and a dazzling display of fireworks over the Statue of Liberty today as Americans celebrate their independence.

But around the nation, the exuberant display of patriotism was tempered with the remembrance of Americans who were spending their 244th day in captivity in Iran.

For hundreds of thousands, the Fourth of July opens a three-day weekend of boat races, backyard barbecues, and fireworks in honor of the United States' 204th birthday.

For 7-year-old Michael Lee Owen, it's the day he realized a dream — leading his own parade through his neighborhood in Lumberton, N.C.

"For years, he's been talking about a parade," said his mother, Helen, after putting the finishing touches on her son's Uncle Sam costume. "We'd go out and Michael would disappear, only to return saying, 'Momma, so-and-so is going to be in my parade.'

"I'd say, 'What parade, Michael?' and he would say, 'The one I'm going to have.' I kept telling him to stop with a crazy parade and then I ask myself, 'Why not? Why not have a parade for Michael?'"

Michael and his sister Trudy — who was to twirl a baton and tote a tape recorder blaring "Yankee Doodle" — invited local residents of all ages to join them in the block-long march to their house.

Mrs. Owen made cake and punch for the celebrants. Michael invited Gov. Jim Hunt, who conveyed his regrets, and President Carter, who didn't reply.

Carter was spending the day making speeches and politicking in California and Florida before returning to his hometown of Plains, Ga.

Meanwhile, in Washington, 300,000 were expected for a fireworks spectacular and a concert by the Beach Boys, the National Symphony and the Marine Corps Band.

Another stirring show of fireworks was scheduled for dusk over the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

The first of the holiday's usual fireworks fatalities was the death of a man in Butte, Mont., who was killed when he investigated a display that didn't go off immediately, then ignited as he stood over it.

Vice President Walter Mondale gave a speech at Philadelphia's Independence Hall. Across the state, at Hermitage, Pa., residents were raising a 244th American flag to mark another day of captivity for 53 Americans held hostage in Iran.

The daughter of one of the hostages, Betsy Morefield, planned to be at Monticello, the Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independece, to hand out small cards bearing a yellow ribbon and a coin stamped with the number 53. Her father, Richard Morefield, was consul general in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran when the embassy was overrun by militants on Nov. 4.

In the Berkshire Hills town of Clarksburg, Mass., grade-school children made a four-foot drawing of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruholla Khomeini. It sat atop a woodpile awaiting a torch at midnight.

And there's food — a pie-eating contest in Natwick, Mass., a 375-foot hot dog at a boys camp in Casco, Maine, and the annual Nathan's Hot Dog Eating Contest at New York's Coney Island, a contest first judged in 1916 by Eddie Cantor and Sophie Tucker when one of the contestants was Jimmy Durante.

One of the biggest picnics may be Willie Nelson's party in Austin. Promoters expected 60,000 at the country singer's eighth all-day concert on the fairways of the Pedernales Country Club golf course.

Between 300,000 and 400,000 people were expected along the banks of Boston's Charles River for the year's first outdoor concert of the Boston Pops. And many public television stations across the country will broadcast a performance of Tschaikovsky's "1812 Overture," by the Baltimore Symphony, taped two days ago at the opening of the city's new inner harbor complex.

Then there's the unusual. Scituate, Mass., is holding a crab race. In Council, Idaho, porcupines are waiting underneath trash cans for a race down the streets of the town.

But it's all in commemoration of the signing of the document that proclaimed America's freedom from the British — even if some folks don't remember just what the document says.

"I'm not very educated, but its sounds communist to me," said a man at a Norfolk, Va., shopping mall when asked to sign a typed copy of the Declaration of Independence.

But Angel Figueroa, a native of Puerto Rico, knew it immediately. "If they were as proud to be an American as I am," he said, glancing at the people passing by, "they'd be celebrating the Fourth of July, too."

'Showdown' At African Summit

By TOM FEYER
Associated Press Writer

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — Moderate and radical African governments squared off for a showdown today at the annual summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity, and the 17-year-old organization of non-white African nations could break apart as a result.

Eight moderates, including Morocco, Egypt, Tunisia, and Sudan, said they would quit the 50-nation OAU if it granted the "Democratic Sahara Arab Republic" membership in the organization. The republic was proclaimed by the guerrillas of the Polisario Front who, sponsored by Algeria, are fighting to wrest the former Spanish Sahara from Morocco.

Cameroon, Ivory Coast, Senegal and Somalia were the others threatening to walk out. President Ahmadou Ahidjo of Cameroon, one of Africa's elder statesmen, warned the other side against "a fateful decision which could lead to the collapse of our organization."

Spokesmen for Algeria, Ethiopia and Angola said they were determined to get the Sahara Republic admitted to the OAU. This would bring the Polisario Front extensive material, financial and political aid from other members of the organization.

The Sahara issue was the only important matter still facing the four-day summit, which was scheduled to end today. The delegates argued heatedly for nearly seven hours at a closed-door session Thursday, but no decision was reached.

OAU Secretary-General Edem Kodjo announced that 26 of the African nations had recognized the Sahara Republic. But Moroccan Premier Maati Bouabid insisted that a two-thirds majority, or 34 votes, was needed to admit it to the OAU, and some of the 26 were reported reluctant to split the organization.

Safely Reach Austria

GRAZ, Austria (AP) — Twenty Romanians who escaped from their communist homeland in an old crop-dusting biplane waited in an Austrian refugee center today for official action on their application for political asylum.

Aurel Popescu, a 27-year-old Romanian crop duster, piloted the government Antonov-2 to a safe landing Thursday in an Austrian cornfield as his fuel ran out.

Skimming along at low altitude, Popescu apparently eluded radar detection during the flight from the Romanian border city of Arad through 240 miles of Hungarian airspace to land nine miles inside Austria.

The propeller-driven plane, built for 14 passengers, carried the pilot, nine other adults and 10 children. They told villagers who greeted them that they worked together on a collective farm near Arad and most of them were related.

Austrian officials said the escape apparently was very well planned, and they expressed admiration for Popescu's skill as a pilot. However, they said he faced legal action for taking the plane out of Romania illegally.

"The last minutes of the flight must have been the worst," said Mayor Johann Zach of the village of Pertlstein.

Home Rule Fades For West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Although Egypt and Israel agreed to resume the Palestinian autonomy talks, the chances for Arab home rule in the West Bank and Gaza Strip are increasingly poor.

"Even if we accept the Egyptian position as it is, the Palestinians won't accept it," said one high-ranking officer in the Israeli military government of the West Bank. "You can't elect a governing council if there are no candidates and no voters."

U.S. diplomats who once were optimistic that the Palestinians ultimately would play what they called "the only game in town" are now gloomy over the prospects.

Arab-Jewish violence in the West Bank has tapered off again, and Israel is relaxing the "tough-hand policy" it imposed after six Israelis were killed May 2 in an ambush of Jewish worshipers in Hebron, a town sacred to both Moslems and Jews.

The mayor of Hebron and two other Arab leaders were deported for alleged incitement, a 16-day curfew was slapped on Hebron, Arab houses were leveled and the movements of political leaders were restricted.

A month after the ambush, the Arab mayors of Ramallah and Nablus were seriously wounded in car-bomb explosions. It was assumed to be the first appearance of an underground organization of Jewish extremists.

"There is much less activity now," said the Israeli officer: "Everything is going back to what it was before — until the next explosion."

The Israelis expect trouble again after the Supreme Court rules Sunday on the appeal by the three Hebron Arab leaders against their deportation. No matter how the court decides, passions are likely to be aroused.

Guilty Plea In Abscam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York man has pleaded guilty to conspiring to bribe a congressman, becoming the first person convicted in the FBI's political corruption investigation known as Abscam.

In return for his guilty plea Thursday, William Rosenberg of Lynbrook, N.Y., will cooperate in the government's investigation of Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., who was named a co-conspirator in the charges filed by government attorneys. Kelly was not indicted.

The crime to which Rosenberg admitted has a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Rosenberg's guilty plea resulted from the government's political corruption investigation in which FBI agents posed as representatives of wealthy Arab businessmen willing to pay for legislative favors. Five members of Congress have been indicted and three others, including Kelly, are under investigation. All have denied wrongdoing.

Jobless Rate For Men Is Higher Than Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in two decades, the unemployment rate among adult men is higher than that for women.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that the jobless rate for men was 6.7 percent in June, while the rate for women was 6.5 percent, the result of sweeping layoffs in male-dominated industries in recent months because of the recession. In May, the unemployment rate was 6.6 percent for both groups.

Overall, the nation's unemployment rate edged down from 7.8 percent in May to 7.7 percent in June, but the dip appeared to be a statistical fluke that belied a sharp drop in jobs.

Total employment fell by 451,000 during the month, with large numbers of layoffs spreading beyond the auto and housing industries for the first time since the recession began earlier this year, the government said.

Only once before in the 33 years the department has been collecting seasonally adjusted employment data have women had a lower jobless rate, and that only lasted for one month.

STICKERS — PERSONAL USE?

I've heard that public-owned cars aren't to be used for personal use. Yet I saw one recently with clergy and bumper stickers all over it — along with a permanent license plate. Isn't that a violation of the non-personal use code? I am not reporting the license number. I'm not interested in getting a specific person in trouble, just in pointing out the policy, if there is one. W. P.

Ward Parker, assistant Pitt County finance officer, said, as far as he knows the problem has never arisen before. It's his opinion, he said, that a county-owned car should not have any personal religious or political beliefs touted on it.

Analysts Say China's Military Are Outdated

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — China's military forces are armed with outdated weapons copied from old Soviet designs, and even its new aircraft is modeled after Russian planes built in the 1950s. A report, released Thursday, said China is trying to modernize its forces, but not at the expense of other sectors of the economy.

"The current Chinese leadership, now more than ever, recognizes that fundamental weaknesses in the economy must be remedied before an extensive upgrading of defense capabilities can be undertaken," the study said.

The study, by CIA analysts Ronald G. Mitchell and Edward P. Parris, said China's military equipment and technology "are not nearly as advanced as in industrially developed countries."

Its weapons "are mostly copies or modifications of Soviet designs of the 1950s," the study said.

The Chinese are spending more on older types of equipment than on new materials. Indeed, more than 70 percent of China's spending for aircraft in 1978 went for planes designed in the Soviet Union in the 1950s, the study said.

While the Chinese are modernizing their forces, they are "unlikely to introduce large numbers of new weapon systems," it added.

The study said China's military research and development programs produced few new weapon systems ready for wide-scale deployment in the 1970s.

"We see little to suggest that this trend will change until the Chinese are able to overcome the limitations imposed by their weak technological base," the study said. "China has even failed to train replacements for its few aging scientists, most of whom were trained abroad in the early 1950s."

The study was released by the congressional Joint Economic subcommittee on priorities and economy in government in a volume of testimony from closed-door hearings last year.

The testimony, edited to delete secret data, also quoted Lt. Gen. Eugene F. Tighe Jr., head of the Defense Intelligence Agency, as saying China has virtually no chance of becoming a military power on a scale with the United States and the Soviet Union for the remainder of this century.

"What are the realistic prospects for China becoming a powerful military state at any time during the 1980s and 1990s?" Tighe was asked by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the subcommittee's chairman.

"Very, very slim, in my judgment. As a matter of fact, almost nonexistent, in terms of counter-United States or counter-Soviet," Tighe replied.

Referring to China's army, estimated at between 7.3 million and 8.3 million men, Tighe said, "Manpower alone, of course, is a frightening prospect for any invader of China. It can provide a long-time standoff."

The CIA study said China's military spending accounts for 8 percent to 10 percent of the country's gross national product. Soviet military spending amounts to 11 percent to 13 percent of its GNP, the study reported, while U.S. military spending totals about 5 percent of its GNP.

The study disputed China's own figures on what it spent for defense in 1979.

China said its 1979 military budget was the equivalent of $31.3 billion in U.S. currency.

The CIA study estimated the figure, including the cost of China's war with Vietnam, at more than $62 billion.

Carter Presses California Campaign

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — President Carter pressed his campaign in Northern California today after using a friendly platform in Los Angeles to lambast Republican challenger Ronald Reagan on his own turf for advancing a "free lunch" tax cut.

The president also engaged in some political fencemending within his own party. He was closeted Thursday evening with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who abandoned his own campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination after being beaten repeatedly by Carter in the early primaries.

Brown emerged from the meeting to say he had talked politics with Carter, but had no endorsement to announce — at least not yet. A Carter aide said that the two talked about a number of local issues and programs "and some politics."

Carter was to fly by helicopter today to the produce-rich San Joaquin Valley for a town hall meeting in Merced to answer local residents' questions. Then he was scheduled to attend a $500-a-plate Democratic fundraising brunch at the Modesto home of Frank Dambrell, whom White House aides identified as Brown's roommate when they attended a Roman Catholic seminary.

Late today, the president was to fly to Miami to address the 71st annual convention of the NAACP, marking his second appearance within a month in that city to speak to the concerns of Black America.

The Modesto gathering was Carter's second big fundraiser on the West Coast trip. He attended one Thursday night at the Portola Valley estate of Walter Shorenstein, the San Francisco real estate mogul who was Carter's biggest fundraiser in this state during the 1976 campaign.

At the fundraiser at Shorenstein's home, Carter told the 450 persons that if a Republican is elected in November, the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union will not be ratified by the Senate.

Carter and his wife spent the night at the home of Oakland mayor Lionel Wilson.

The money from the Shorenstein fundraiser, an estimated $500,000, is going to the Democratic National Committee, which White House press secretary Jody Powell described as particulary needy this year.

The lack of unity in the party has delayed a concerted effort to raise money for the general election campaign, Powell said.

On Thursday, the first day of a two-week journey away from Washington that will take him as far as Tokyo, Carter accused Reagan of offering the voters a political "free lunch" in the form of a three-year, $280-billion tax cut.

The tax cut plan, first offered by Republicans in Congress and endorsed last week by Reagan, was hasty, irresponsible and a "simplistic approach" to a serious issue, the president charged.

"It would reward the wealthy," Carter said of the Reagan-backed proposal. "It would mean a a wholesale retreat from the painful progress that we have made over the last seven months to reduce inflation and reduce interest rates...and we will not stand for it. It is a classic offer in a political year of a free lunch, something for nothing.

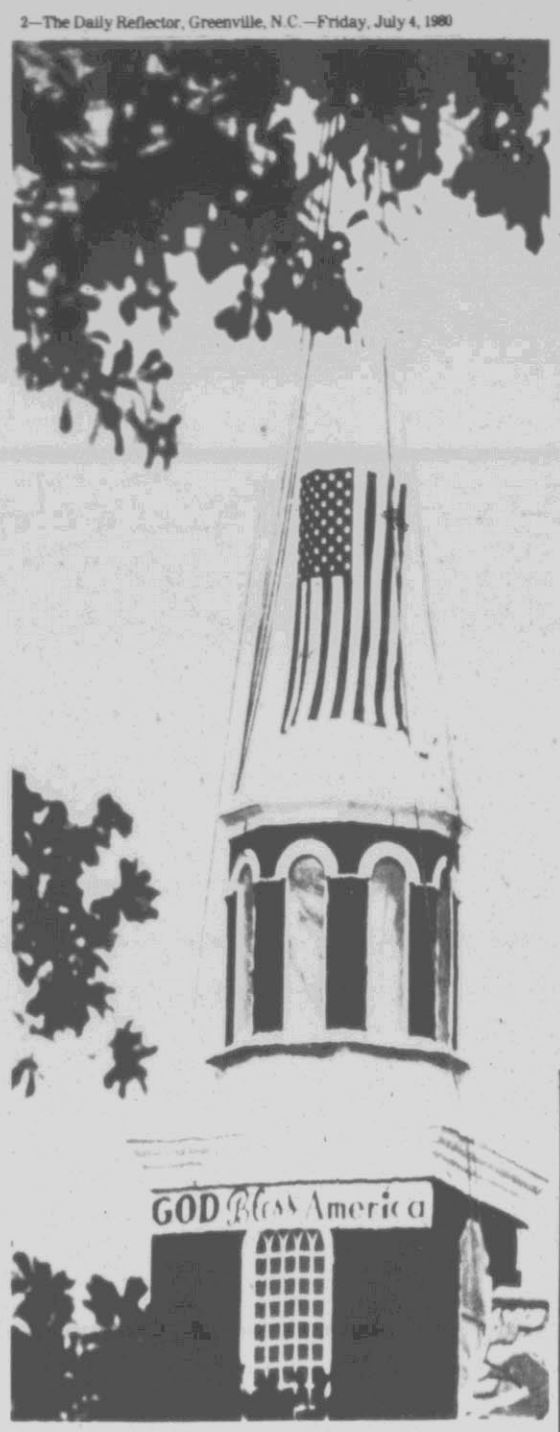
"The American people know better. They know, as Walter Lippmann reminded us, that there is nothing for nothing any longer," the president said.

Carter's attack was greated with enthusiastic applause at the National Education Association annual convention, which was certain to endorse the president for re-election today.

Carter flew from Los Anglees to Oakland, where he took a boat tour of the city's port across the bay from San Francisco, then spoke to community leaders at a harborside recreation hall before meeting Brown in a modest motel near the airport.

In contrast to the cheering, sign-waving crowd of about 7,000 that greeted at him at the teachers union convention, Carter ducked quickly into his limosine to avoid the taunts of a few hundred demonstrators outside the recreation hall. They represented a potpourri of Bay area causes.

There were anti-draft demonstrators demanding that Carter "Send Amy," his 12-year-old daughter. There were backers of the threatened Hamilton Air Force Base, supporters of women's right to abortion, those demanding "Death to the Klan," environmentalists hoping to "Save Our Coast."



SALUTE TO AMERICA — Steeple jacks who have been repairing the steeple of the First Baptist Church at Gulfport, Miss., exhibited their patriotism before taking a Fourth of July holiday by draping U.S. flags on three sides of the steeple in commemoration of America's 204th birthday anniversary today. The five-man crew also decorated the steeple base with eight small mountged flags and a sign, "God Bless America." (AP Laserphoto)

FOCUS

Something In Common

Although they often disagreed about political ideas, our country's second and third presidents had some unusual things in common. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were the only two presidents who had signed the Declaration of Independence. Both men served as vice president before being elected president. Jefferson and Adams both were candidates for president in 1796. Adams, who had been George Washington's vice president, won the election that year. Jefferson became Adams' vice president. Four years later, Jefferson was elected to the White House, replacing Adams. Finally, both Adams and Jefferson died on the same day — July 4, 1826 — exactly 50 years after Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

DO YOU KNOW — What other American president died on the Fourth of July?

Couple Marries In Candlelight Ceremony

AYDEN — Titina Lynn Cannon and Charles William Bell III of Ruston, La., were united in marriage Thursday in a seven o'clock candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church here. The Rev. Gilbert Mister performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas R. Cannon of Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mitsuko Yogi Bell of Owinawa, Japan.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist Mrs. Kenneth Branch and Tim Devinney of Greenville sang "If," "Longer" and "You Decorated My Life." "One Hand, One Heart" was sung during the lighting of the unity candle.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white lustreglo polyester and Venise lace fashioned with a high neckline encircled with floral Venise lace. The empire bodice was enhanced by a see-through embroidery insert outlined with Venise lace trim and seed pearls extending to the waist. Long straight sleeves were accented with embroidery inserts and motifs of matching beaded lace. An open back was detailed in matching lace trim. Her A-line skirt was bordered in matching floral lace and flowed into a chapel train. Her silk illusion mantilla of Venise lace flowed waltz length and was bordered with matching lace. She carried a white lace fan adorned with silk miniature yellow roses, lily of the valley, silk yellow and white baby's breath and fern tied with white bridal satin streamers in love knots with yellow flowers.

The maid of honor was Lisa Hart of Ayden, who wore a formal gown of blue floral flocked voile over blue taffeta designed with an open squared neckline and short puffed sleeves. The full tiered skirt, sleeves and neckline were trimmed in white eyelet beribboned lace. She carried a white lace fan with silk white daisies, yellow flowers, blue baby's breath tied witrh blue and yellow streamers.

Honorary bridesmaids included Miss Holly Dennis in absentia, Miss Kim Phillips, cousin of the bride, Miss Shirley Warren and Miss Cindy Avery, all of Ayden. They wore pastel gowns of blue and yellow and each carried a white lace fan accented with a spray of blue and yellow flowers tied with matching streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of sea green silesta knit fashioned with an empire waist. A sheer caplet was worn over the shoulders. She carried a clutch with a spray of silk yellow camellias.

The bride's grandmother was remembered with a corsage of silk pink camellias.

The bridegroom's brother, Christopher Bell of Louisiana served as best man while ushers were Jeff Cannon, brother of the bride, and Billy Phillips, cousin of the bride.

MRS. CHARLES WILLIAM BELL III

The wedding director and coordinator was Mrs. J. D. Langley of Greenville. Miss Denise Branch presided at the guest register.

The bride's parents entertained the wedding party and friends at a cake cutting following the rehearsal Wednesday night in the church fellowship hall.

The refreshment table was covered with a tricot cloth with a lace ruffle and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers in a five branch candelabra. The corners were accented with bows and bells. Mrs. Bill Phillips served wedding cake assisted by Miss Kim Phillips. Miss Denise Branch poured punch.

The bridal couple remembered members of the wedding party with gifts.

The couple will be living in Ruston, La.

Retirement Party Honors Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper L. Lewis were honored by their children at a retirement party Sunday afternoon at the American Legion Hut here.

Lewis, a Belvoir native who has been Superintendent of the Washington City Schools for the past 12 years and an educator for the past 40, officially retired Tuesday. Mrs. Lewis, a public schools teacher for almost as long, retired two years ago. The couple will live on a family farm near Saratoga.

The party for family, friends and education colleagues of the Lewises was given by Dr. and Mrs. Jasper L. Lewis Jr. of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sweet of Concord. Mrs. Sweet, the Lewises' daughter, is a high school principal.

A graduate of Wake Forest College, Lewis began teaching at Snow Hill in the early 1940's and there he met his wife, the former Louise Shackleford, also a teacher there. He served in the Air Force during both World War II and the Korean Conflict, attaining the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve. He later taught at Walstonburg, held principalships at Hookerton, Maury and La Grange, was an assistant superintendent in the Johnston County Schools, was superintendent of the Cherryville Schools, and went to Washington 12 years ago. Mrs. Lewis has been an elementary school teacher in all the same schools.

Marriage Announced

Mildred Cooper and John H. Boykin were married June 11.

They will be honored at a reception July 12 at 8 p.m. at the home of the bridal couple. The reception will be given by the bride's daughter and son-in-law. The couple will also take a wedding trip to Florida, a gift of the bride's daughter and son-in-law.

The couple will make their home in Greenville.

Cooking Is Fun

A feature in the current July issue of Redbook magazine has an amusing title: "Skinny Cooking." You may find the article helpful because it codifies some excellent procedures for cooks who want to cut calories in the kitchen.

To skinny-cook you "start by examining your recipes and learning the calorie count of their ingredients." Then you experiment with recipe substitutions that bring down that calorie count.

One of the chief procedures in skinny cooking is to cut down fat and sugar and still create a good-to-eat dish. As the food editors of Redbook say, "Many recipes contain more of both than are necessary for good taste. Gram for gram, fat has more than twice as many calories as protein or carbohydrate."

To demonstrate how to do this, the skinny-cooking feature includes all kinds of recipes — from main dishes to desserts — with explanatory notes on how the calories were cut in each.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE

1 cup evaporated skim milk, undiluted
1-3rd cup unsweetened cocoa
3 large eggs, yolks and whites separated
Few grains of salt
¼ cup plus 1 teaspoon granulated sugar

In a small saucepan mix milk, cocoa, egg yolks, salt and the ¼ cup sugar with a wire whisk. Cook 4 to 5 minutes over low heat, whisking constantly, until mixture is smooth, glossy and slightly thickened. Pour chocolate mixture into a large bowl and let cool about 1 hour. Beat egg whites with an electric mixer or rotary beater until soft peaks form when whites are lifted with a spatula. Add the remaining 1 teaspoon sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks hold when whites are lifted. Stir about ¼ cup of beaten whites into the cooled chocolate mixture. Fold in remaining whites and pour into 8 individual serving dishes. Chill 1 to 2 hours before serving. Mousse keeps well for several days in the refrigerator. Makes about eight ½-cup servings.

Per serving: 88 calories, 5 grams protein, 3 grams fat, 12 grams carbohydrate.

Family Dinner Held Recently

Mr. and Mrs. William Streeter, of Rt. 4, Greenville, were honored at a surprise dinner given by their children and their families Saturday.

The family was represented by four generations of the Streeter family. It was noted this was the first time in 30 years the couple's nine children had been home together.

The couple's children are Ervin, Kelly and John of Greenville, William Jr., Willie, Magdalene, Retha, Dora and Annie, all of suburban Maryland.

Dear Abby

Chronically Tired Condition Isn't Normal

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I ask my wife how she feels, she says, "I'm tired." Abby, I am so tired of hearing her say she's tired, I am at the end of my rope.

I help with the cooking and cleaning and make no special demands on her, so I can't for the life of me understand what she has to be so tired about. Is this normal?

Please don't suggest that I stop asking her how she feels, because if I do she will think I no longer care. We have been married almost 25 years.

CARING HUSBAND

DEAR CARING: Everyone gets tired occasionally, but to be chronically tired is not normal. I urge you to insist that your wife see her doctor for a thorough physical checkup before she gets too tired to go. Her chronic fatigue could be due to boredom, poor nutrition, insomnia, insufficient exercise, menopause or a symptom of a serious medical problem. Don't put it off.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old bachelor with a problem concerning my preference in women. I am not a weirdo or kook who goes in for kinky sex. I am a normal, fairly successful professional man.

To get to the point, normal-size women do nothing for me. It takes a fat woman to really turn me on. I don't mean one who is pleasingly plump. I mean a very obese woman — and the bigger the better.

The most satisfying sexual experience I've ever had was with a woman so fat that her belly practically hung down to her knees. (I never knew exactly how much she weighed, but she had to be at least 400 pounds.) Most men would probably have found her repulsive, but to me she was wonderfully exciting. Of course, I'd never be seen in public with such a woman.

I am not proud of the fact that I am ashamed to be seen with women whom I find fascinating in private. Should I see a psychiatrist about my unusual preference?

WITHHOLD NAME AND CITY

DEAR WITHHOLD: Yes, since you are ashamed of your preference and probably would be happier were you able to function as well with a "normal-size" woman. I see nothing wrong with your fascination for fat females, but there is something cruel and exploitive about using them only as sex objects.

DEAR ABBY: I think anyone who starts his lawn mower before 8 a.m. should be shot! Whatever happened to common courtesy? What if a neighbor was up all night with a sick child? What if a neighbor works the night shift? What if a neighbor has a long-awaited, well-earned day off, and wants to catch up on a few extra hours of sleep?

I've never heard of anyone getting a prize for the first lawn mowed in the morning, and I've been at it for 45 years.

"Love thy neighbor" includes consideration of this sort. Please print this; the offending neighbor never misses reading your column — nor do I.

SLEEPY TIME GAL

DEAR GAL: According to my mail, the early morning mowing problem is a chronic pain in the ear to many. I don't recommend shooting at sunrise anyone who mows at that hour, but your complaint is valid, so call on your neighbor and ask (civilly) for a little more consideration.

Spirit Of 1776 Is Still There

Today is the Fourth of July.

There is hardly a living American who is not aware of the sacrifice and courage exhibited by our colonial forefathers in concluding that living under the British rule was no longer possible. All of us know the story of the Revolution and how we won our independence from the most powerful nation on earth of that time.

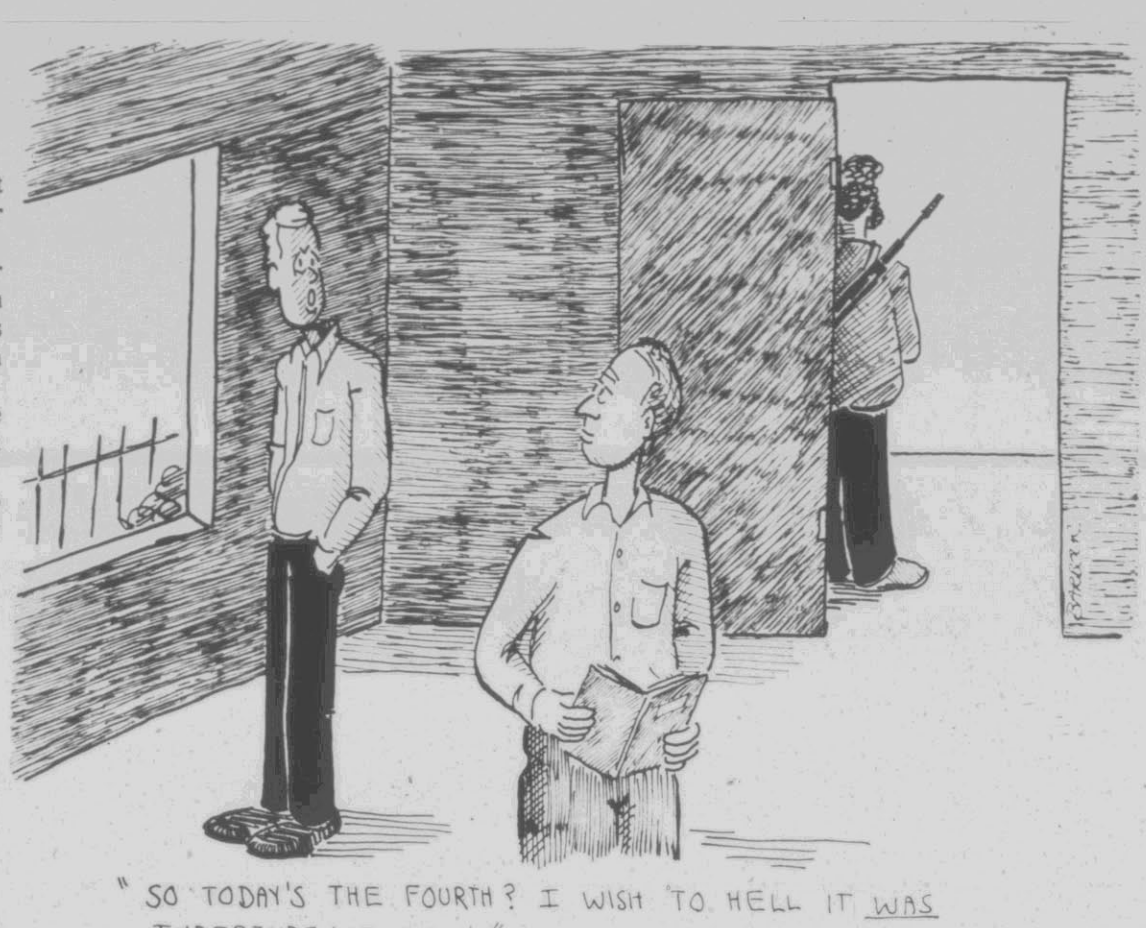
We have all been taught how our borders were pushed westward until the nation stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific; how agriculture and then an industrial revolution, both followed by great social change have built us into an affluent country.

Most of us are aware too, that all is not well with our country today. Militarily we have doubts about ourselves; the economy is ailing and many of our greatest industries face real crisis.

The analysts tell us we have either gone soft, or that we are not doing enough for our citizens in need. There are those who tell us the country is bankrupt financially and in spirit, and that only a complete collapse will set things aright.

We don't agree. We think America still has the spirit of 1776 and that our people are our greatest strength.

Americans have always done what they had to do to keep forging ahead. We believe that in this new and strange era we will find our way.



"SO TODAY'S THE FOURTH? I WISH TO HELL IT WAS INDEPENDENCE DAY!"

Foot Soldier Basic Factor In Armies

Congress is certain to approve the largest defense spending appropriation ever for the upcoming fiscal year.

The Senate has approved a $51.9 billion budget and the House-approved budget is $54 billion. There will be a compromise in between, and the spending will be the largest in history.

Much of the increase is due to inflation, of course, but it still is a huge amount of money for the military. Congress should make certain that the money goes for basics in our defense planning. We are relying so heavily on development of sophisticated weapons that we might lose sight of the fact that any future fighting could be in the fox holes, just as it has been in the past.

We can't afford to halt the development of futuristic weapons, but the foundation of our military must still be the foot soldier, or in other branches, his equivalent.

Pushing Medicaid Relief

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — County governments across North Carolina are planning a push for relief from local payments to the Medicaid program.

The reason has become obvious: that welfare activity has become the biggest uncontrollable drain on local budgets, and is growing by leaps and bounds.

Medicaid is different from Medicare. It is a social services program to provide health and medical care for the poor, and is supported by federal, state and local funds. Medicare is a Social Security health program for the elderly, costing nothing in state or local money.

North Carolina is now one of only 14 states in which county governments must pay part of the cost for Medicaid. Counties here put up seven percent of the total cost, placing that amount in use for residents of the counties who qualify for the aid.

This fiscal year that local share is about $32 million; up sharply from $26 million last year, and less than $14 million the year before.

Soaring

Total spending on Medicaid in North Carolina is now above $450 million annually and increasing rapidly.

The basic reason for upset local governments is the fact that federal and state regulations dictate who is eligible and what is covered, while the dollar figures are dictated by the rates charged for various health services. There is no local control over these figures which play havoc with other local budget considerations.

A review of North Carolina county spending for Medicaid illustrates the dilemma:

Payments for patients in hospitals jumped from less than $4 million in fiscal 1977-78 to more than $5 million in 1979-80. Drug costs went upnearly half a million in that period. Payments to physicians actually declined from $1.3 million to $1.2 million.

Dentgal care increased from $216 million to $591 million in the two-year period.

But the biggest problem of them all continues. Medicaid has become increasingly a long-term care program for the elderly who require special services in skilled nursing homes or rest homes.

More than half of all Medicaid money now goes to that portion of the program, while the elderly in numbers actually make up less than 15 percent of Medicaid recipients.

Skilled nursing care skyrocketed from $1.7 million (county share) in 1977-78 to more than $6 million in 1979-80; and intermediate care leaped from just over $2 million to $7.6 million.

Backfired

An example of the way in which state actions can hit local budgets without warning is the experiment of 1978 when the General Assembly increased the local participation rate for Medicaid patients in skilled or intermediate nursing facilities.

Thw object was to encourage transfer of those recipients to rest homes with lower levels of care, thereby saving money. But families and physicians often objected to such transfers, and the counties came up more than $2.5 million short because the action in Raleigh took place after local budgets were already adopted.

This year, the General Assembly came up with $5 million to help bail the counties out of trouble.

BILL NOBLITT

The Association of County Commissioners will begin to push for the state taking over from local governments the entire non-federal cost of Medicaid, and that group's Public Assistance Committee chaired by Guilford County Commissioner Forrest Campbell is suggesting a step-by-step transition toward that goal.

Justice Is 'Loused Up'

WASHINGTON — The justice system in this country seems as loused up as everything else. One of the reasons for this is that the law provides that anyone who has a legal dispute involving more than $50 is entitled to a jury. Most jurors can deal with personal injury and liability cases. But you have to have an MBA from Harvard, a law degree from Stanford, and an accounting diploma from the Wharton School to be able to follow the complicated suits that ordinary citizens are required to adjudicate these days.

How can the average jury understand the issues in a multi-billion dollar corporation lawsuit?

A well-known trial lawyer told me they can't. Most juries involved with any business litigation make their decisions based on things other than the thousands of pieces of evidence and months of testimony that neither they nor the judge understand.

This is how it goes in the jury room, he told me.

"I think we should find for the plaintiffs."

"Why?"

"Their chief lawyer always looks so fresh and neat no matter how hot it is in the courtroom."

"I'm for throwing out all the charges. The defense has a woman lawyer on the staff, and I think if we voted for the defendants, it would encourage large corporations to hire more women lawyers."

ART BUCHWALD

"That's the stupidest reason I ever heard for judging a case. If we're going to play those rules, we have to take into consideration that one of the plaintiffs' executives has a bad limp. Why not give the billion dollars to them for hiring the handicapped?"

"Wait, we're getting away from the evidence. Let's go over it again."

"Are you crazy? No one in this room knows what anyone out there was talking about."

"Okay. Let's NOT go over the evidence. How do we arrive at a decision?"

"I'm for giving the nod to the plaintiffs. Their backup lawyer always came over to us when he wanted to make a point. The defendants' lawyer preferred to address his remarks to the judge. If he wanted to win, the defense counsel should have paid more attention to us."

"You're too sensitive. Only the fat defendants' lawyer ig-

To the editor:

I have received a letter from the American Security Council which strongly presents views and understandings which I wish to pass to your readers. The letter follows in part:

"The losses of Iran and Afghanistan have been non-fatal defeats which have shocked and awakened the American people.

"Most Americans now realize that the U. S. military and foreign policies for the past 10 years have been so self-destructive that we have lost the capacity to slow Soviet advances around the world.

"They have seen the Soviets arrogantly reject U. S. demands that they get their combat troops out of Afghanistan and Cuba.

"They have seen that even a mad mullah like the Ayatollah Khomeini can thumb his nose at us.

"The failure of U. S. helicopters in the rescue mission to Iran has triggered a flood of stories about inadequate training and maintenance throughout our armed services.

"And, Americans are now hearing that the U. S. is entering a "window of vulnerability" to a Soviet first strike — and that no American has any protection against such an attack.

"This bad news can have a good effect because most Americans now realize that we are nearing the brink of disaster and must change course if our nation is to survive.

"However, the pro-defense majority is not organized.

"That is why we've launched a campaign for Peace Through Strength to provide an organized means for changing bankrupt U. S. policies."

The letter continues in presenting a resolution offered for consideration by organizations and by individuals.

Many others fear that for nearly two decades our country, the U. S. A., has been following a suicidal course which might well cause our demise during this decade. We must avoid this suicide.

World Knows Voice

By DIANA SMITH
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — You may not know Jane Barbe, but you'd recognize her voice. Every day she gives the time and temperature to 12 million people, including one woman in Texas who thinks the telephone company keeps her locked in a little room all day.

But the only room in which Mrs. Barbe is ever stuck is a recording studio, where that clear and silky voice purrs such information as, "I'm sorry, but the number you have dialed is no longer in service."

People in such countries as Saudi Arabia, Zambia, Canada, the Bahamas — as well as the United States — hear her voice each day when they call for the time or run into a problem with a telephone number.

"I get a tremendous kick out of telling people what I do," she said in a recent interview. "They say things like, 'Oh my God, you're the time lady.' And I get letters from people."

Mrs. Barbe says her telephone work is only part of her career. She is also an actress in television and radio commercials, which is how she got her part-time job 17 years ago at the Audichron Co., which manufactures public announcement equipment for Southern Bell.

Audichron Operations Manager Sam Medlin estimated that Mrs. Barbe's voice is used in 90 percent of "intercept messages," the recordings you reach when something is wrong with a telephone number, and her voice is used in about 60 percent of automated time and temperature services.

It would be extremely difficult, Medlin said, to find a female voice that records as well. "She has a frequency and timbre that records very

PERSPECTIVE

States Will 'Share' Less

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — After bracing for Congress to shut off their money pipeline, city and county leaders across North Carolina are now confident they will continue to receive their full amount of federal revenue sharing for the next year.

But for state government, the flow of millions of dollars is already being reduced and is expected to end this fall.

North Carolina receives some $167 million a year in revenue sharing, and two-thirds of that goes directly to cities or counties, according to the N.C. Association of County Governments.

The money is widely used by cities and counties for construction and to buy equipment. But in some cases, particularly among the state's biggest cities, much of it has gone to help pay for administering welfare and Medicaid and for other continuing costs of government that would suffer if the flow ended.

"A lot of the money is going into capital outlays," said Patrice C. Roesler, intergovernmental coordinator for the association. "But, some of the counties have been leaning toward putting it in their continuing operations budget, which is asking for trouble."

Actions by Congress as recently as this week have restored much of the revenue-sharing allocations after earlier proposed cuts.

"All the discussions we have seen and heard indicate there's no problem with keeping the local shares for the next year," said Mrs. Roesler. "We're counting on some small amount of change, but at this point we don't think it's going to be substantial."

The other roughly one-third, $54.5 million, goes directly to state government, and its future is less certain.

Pat Shore, who operates North Carolina's Washington office, said Senate action Tuesday night had the effect of reducing payments to state governments — immediately cutting North Carolina's share by $3.5 million.

The state uses that money to buy school buses and textbooks and for some university construction projects.

Marvin Dorman, deputy state budget officer, said the state will have to make up the difference from other budget items or reduce spending on those projects.

But because of earlier signals from Congress, North Carolina's state budget for the fiscal year that began Tuesday anticipates the loss of all federal revenue-sharing money after October, when the new federal fiscal year begins.

Congress has been more inclined to cut state money while maintaining local payments because of recent calls by many state legislatures demanding a balanced federal budget. The North Carolina Legislature adopted such a resolution

Strength For Today

MOSQUITO BITES

Before Louis Pasteur discovered his epoch-making treatment to prevent rabies, many people died every year after being bitten by mad dogs. But today mad dogs are a rarity, and paradoxically, insects are doing more to destroy modern civilization than did all of the mad dogs before Pasteur.

And in the field of morals, our characters stand in more danger of being destroyed by the continuity of little vices, like mosquitos, than by the attack of some great evil like a mad dog. Mad dogs and rabies get into the headlines; mosquito bites do not. Embezzlement, robbery, adultery, dope peddling get the front page. But the insect bites of selfishness, avarice, and self-indulgence never get newspaper coverage.

A combination of small evils is much more dangerous and damaging than one great evil. The latter can be recognized by everyone and steps can be taken to meet it. But the former becomes so much a matter of habit that it goes unnoticed. — Elisha Douglass

Egypt's Watermelon Shortage

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Watermelons are the latest popular commodity involved in a series of shortages that threaten to undermine President Anwar Sadat's efforts to bring prosperity to Egypt.

Watermelons, an important summer food for most Egyptians, follow cigarettes, soap, flour and vegetable oil on the list of shortages that have resulted in the last six months as merchants resist government price policies.

Sadat's government has pledged to cool off the 30 percent annual inflation rate so that all Egyptians may enjoy the benefits of peace and prosperity in a country where the annual per-capita income is only about $350.

The selection of consumer luxuries from designer dresses to lacquer and gold fountain pens has burgeoned in the freer peacetime atmosphere.

But Egypt's rapidly growing population is increasing demand for basic commodities, creating pressure to raise prices and undercut the average Egyptian's purchasing power. Egypt's population, now 42 million, is increasing at the rate of a million every 10 months.

Gone are the stacks of watermelons that usually are a fixture at every vegetable and fruit stand in Cairo as the temperatures rise with the onset of summer.

"Where has the watermelon disappeared to, sultan?" begins a poem in the opposition newspaper, Ahrar. The poem describes the problems of buying melons on the black market, where they are available at three times the official price of 9.5 piasters a kilogram — equivalent to seven cents a pound.

An editorial cartoon in Ahrar depicts a man telling a psychiatrist he plans to end it all because he cannot live without watermelon.

Egyptians are so crazy about watermelon that they have five verieties. The 1.2 million tons of watermelons produced last summer amounted to 32 percent of the vegetables grown during the season in Egypt. Watermelon is classed as a vegetable here.

Many Egyptians find the watermelon so essential to summer diets that they eat a slice for desert at lunch and again with feta cheese as a light evening meal.

Workmen at construction sites leave piles of rinds from their lunchbreaks, when they eat watermelon instead of sandwiches.

Dried, salted watermelon seeds are one of the most popular "munchies" in Egypt.

A poor harvest this year because of an excessively hot spring and late planting had driven the watermelon price as high as $1.43 a kilo (2.2 pounds) at the start of the season last month.

The Ministry of Supply, foreseeing the hardship that would be caused by the high prices in a country where the average monthly wage is about $65, imposed the price ceiling and banned melon exports.

Farmers said they couldn't afford to sell at the official price. Wholesalers and merchants also refused to take a loss.

The Ministry of Supply has sent trucks directly to farms and confiscated melons from farmers who refused to sell at the official price.

The newspaper Al Akhbar reported that police arrested a merchant in the Cairo suburb of Heliopolis and confiscated her supply of 4,080 watermelons, which she allegedly was selling above the official price.

She faces a maximum sentence of three to six months in jail and a fine of $715.

nored us. The cute one with the horn-rimmed glasses spent a lot of time leaning against the jury box. He had beautiful eyes."

"But he had a beard. I'd never trust a person who sports a beard."

"My son has a beard."

"I thought as much, and while we're on the subject — I don't trust you either."

"Hold it. We've been together five months. Let's get a decision so we can all go home. How do you vote?"

"How is she voting?"

"I'm voting for the plaintiffs."

"Then I'm voting for the defendants."

"We're never going to see our loved ones again. There has to be a compromise. I suggest we give the plaintiffs half of what they are asking."

"Why?"

"Do you remember when the president of the injured company testified? His entire family sat in the first row for five days. I thought that was very loyal of them. You don't see families that close any more."

"Are you planning to give the plaintiffs half a billion dollars because their chief executive officer has a nice family? How do we know what goes on behind closed doors?"

"I agree. Besides, the defendant company's chairman of the board wore his Shriner's pin when he took the stand. I happen to be a Shriner, and I'll take a lodge brother's word against anyone who drags his kids out of school to sit at a trial."

"We appear to be split on a verdict. Shall I report to the judge that we can't come to a decision?"

"Don't do that. He'll make us read the court transcript again. I say we flip a coin. Heads we find for the plaintiffs — tails for the defendants."

"Okay, as long as she takes back what she said about men with beards."

"I take it back, but only because I believe justice should be served."

French An Easy Second Language For Pamela

ECU News Bureau

French came quickly and easily as a second language for Pamela J. Diffee who spent two and a half years of her childhood in the city of Verdun in France.

"I was 10 years old," Miss Diffee says. "When you're that young, you develop an ear for it very quickly. My friends, my schoolmates were French. We spoke French on the playground and when we went shopping."

Now a senior at East Carolina University and winner of the first ECU Foreign Languages Department scholarship award, Miss Diffee plans to use her fluency in French in the future.

"I plan to go on to graduate school in elementary education," she says. "Then I want to get in on the ground floor in the foreign languages in an elementary school program."

She has had a taste of that by interrupting her undergraduate work to teach French in nursery school and in kindergarten in Raleigh for a couple of years. That did it. She was an art major when she enrolled at ECU, but changed and is now an award-winning major in French.

She is president of the International Language Organization and past president of the ECU French Club. She has been active in the Dionysia foreign language drama competition for college and university teams in which ECU has won first place each year an ECU team has entered.

Miss Diffee observes that study of a foreign language in high school and at the college level is "much more formal" and disciplined demanding. But she believes it is increasingly important in today's society to know and have use of a second or third language.

"Study of a foreign language makes one more appreciative of and proficient in his own language," she says. "And a second language is becoming important in so many fields — business, economics, research...everything." she believes many of today's U.S. diplomatic and foreign policy problems abroad as well as an increasing number of domestic troubles (among Spanish speaking people, for example) could have been averted or more easily solved by bi-lingual communication.

PAM DIFFEE

Miss Diffee has been honored with the ECU Foreign Languages Department's first $500 award "to encourage a student majoring in foreign language to achieve the highest standards of academic and personal growth of which they are capable." The award was made possible by a $5,000 gift by Prof. James L. Fleming, chairman of the ECU Foreign Languages Department for 25 years prior to his retirement in 1970.

Miss Diffee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Diffee of (2505 Peachtree Street) Goldsboro. Her father, retired after military service, was stationed in France and is now on the faculty at Wayne Community College, Goldsboro. The family formerly lived in Havelock.

well. Not husky, brass or shrill," he said.

Mrs. Barbe said a woman in Texas actually wrote a letter to a newspaper saying how sorry she felt for the poor woman who was stuck in a room all day answering time and temperature calls.

"There are a few people who really think I'm chained to a desk, a clock and a telephone," she said. "But it's gratifying to know I don't sound like a machine."

Mrs. Barbe, whose voice normally has a slight Southern lilt, said she tries hard to sound natural in the recordings.

"I conjure up a mental image of someone and concentrate very hard to sound pleasant and not like a machine," Mrs. Barbe said.

To tell you the time, or that the number you have dialed has been disconnected, Mrs. Barbe does not actually record all the possible combinations of numbers. Instead, her voice is taped saying "one," "two," "three" and so on.

The fragments she records are then put together by the Audichron machines to give the right message. If you dial the time and it's 7:32, the machine would pick out a "seven," a "thirty" and a "two" from her pre-recorded voice fragments.

"Everything is recorded out of context, so split-second timing is vital," she said. "We deal in tenths of seconds. A mistake could cut off a syllable or consonant."

But the mechanics don't make it all impersonal.

Mrs. Barbe said she received two letters from elderly women who were handicapped and had no families. They told her they called time and temperature every hour just for the human contact of her voice.

It's very sad, and it's terribly touching," Mrs. Barbe said.

She and her composer-husband, John Barbe, live in Atlanta with two children, an 18-year-old daughter and a 16-year-old son.

"What I like best about my life is that I can have a career and still be a mama," Mrs. Barbe said. "It's been wonderful because I have the best of both worlds. I haven't had to sacrifice anything."

last year, and this year enjoyed a $358 million budget surplus.

"The problem was they (in Congress) just got their noses out of joint when the states started passing those resolutions," said Mrs. Roesler.

Most counties and cities across North Carolina have just finished their budget-making process, and uncertainty about the federal money complicated that process.

"We budgeted not knowing whether we'd have that money or not. We sort of took a chance," said Margaret Bass, a finance officer in Chowan County.

Because of the uncertain prospects, the county government association studied how the money is being used and found that if the revenue flow should end, nearly every county in the state could be faced with a sizeable tax increase — or a major reduction in services.

An average tax increase of 9 cents per $100 valuation would have been needed statewide to recover the money, it estimated.

Chowan County in northeastern North Carolina, based on its 1978 rate, faced the largest increase in the state — a 38-cent rise in its 93-cents valuation, the association estimated.

Nearly half a million dollars goes into Chowan County in revenue sharing each year, according to the association.

It uses the money on typical items — new patrol cars for the sheriff's department, ambulance equipment and needs at the new jail. But it also spends some on continuing expenses that would be hit if the money ended — such as to help operate a landfill, airport and recreation program.

"It would have hurt," said Mrs. Bass. "I'm sure the tax rate would have been raised more if we hadn't been able to anticipate the revenue sharing."

Team Honored With Banquet

The First Federal Little League Team and their families were recently honored for their outstanding season with a banquet by their sponsor at Parkers Barbeque. Ervin Best, Ricky Outlaw, Stacey Pugh, Lee Lewis, and Keith Gaskins were recognized with special awards since this was their last year on the team. The other members of the team received savings accounts and other tokens of appreciation.

First Federal won the Tar Heel Little League Championship title with 13 wins and two losses in the regular season.

When it's an emergency, know the way to go.

The emergency room entrance at Pitt County Memorial Hospital will change effective July 7, 1980.

The old emergency entrance from Moye Blvd. will be closed permanently because of construction of the educational facility for the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The new emergency entrance is located at the rear of the medical center. We encourage our patients to make a note of the new route.

In an emergency, saving time may mean saving a life.

Know before you go.

Commission Meets Mon.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the Pitt County Court House.

Included on the agenda is a 10 a.m. bid opening for the purchase of office supplies and equipment, consideration of a request by the Village of Simpson for an easement on county property; consideration of a resolution for fox regulation to come under the control and supervision of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, and consideration of a uniform vending machine policy.

Other items on the agenda include: consideration of a request by Pitt Community College for a lot on which to build a solar house; a tour of the new ABC store in Bethel; a report on a proposed lease of the Robert Lee Humber House by the Division of Archives and History; and consideration of a petition requesting Circle Drive, Springhill Road and Ridge Road in Hardee Acres Subdivision be added to the state system.

Local Men Are Honored

The Outstanding Young Men of America program announced that 18 young men from the area have been selected for inclusion in the annual biographical compiliation, "Outstanding Young Men of America."

The program, which is endorsed by the U.S. Jaycees, recognizes the achievements and abilities of men between the ages of 21 and 36. The men are honored for their civic and professional contribution to their communities, their states, and their nation, it was mentioned.

Selected from this area were John Thomas Bray, James Madison Galloway Jr., Michael Verlon Joyner, Joe Van McDowell, Kenneth Wayne Smith, Stanford Tyson, George Howard Brett II, William Hulme Fleming, Michael Eric Gilstrap, Robert Radcliffe Gotwals Jr., John Bryant Kittrell III, Robert Wayne Sauter, David Michael Strickland, Phillip R. Dixon, David Bumgarner, and John Calvin Yeager, all of Greenville; Wilber Lee Loftin Jr. of Ayden; and Jefferson Franklin Dudley of Rt. 2, Walstonburg.

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion of the Moorings and the Flemings will start at 12 noon Saturday at Agnes Fullilove. Friends are also invited.

Church Plans For Summer

Super Summer 1980 is the name given to the fellowship program planned for the First Presbyterian Church. The summer events, sponsored by the Christian Education Committee, are planned for all ages.

The kick-off will be the Fourth of July picnic held July 6 on the church lawn following morning worship. Honorees will be the church school leaders of the 1979-80 year.

Breakfast will be served on two Sundays, July 13 and August 10, with games and fellowship to follow.

The "Growlympics" on July 23 will feature outdoor events for all ages followed by a watermelon feast.

July 30 a "Singspiration" in the fellowship hall will feature a hymn sing and ice cream supper.

The last special fellowship program will be an evening at the movies with popcorn, drinks, and a Walt Disney feature.

A nursery will be provided for the young for most of the activities. All members and friends of the church are invited to participate.

REVIVAL

Revival services will be held at the Church of God in Christ Jesus Monday through Friday. All services will start at 7:30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Pastor Nina Bonds of Stanford, Conn.

The public is invited to attend.

TALENT PROGRAM

A talent program, sponsored by Maggie Newton of the New Hope Tabernacle, will feature Barbara Rogers, The Mooring Singers of Baltimore, Md. and others Saturday at 8 p.m. at Agnes Fullilove. Performers can register at the door.

The public is invited to attend.

Biblical Play To Be Presented

A SCENE FROM . . . "David the King," a production of The Academy of Arts Christian Drama Team. The fully costumed play will be presented at People's Baptist Temple at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 8. The public is invited and there is no charge, however, an offering will be received.

"David the King," a Biblical play, is being presented by The Academy of Arts Christian Drama Team at People's Baptist Temple beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 8.

The hour-long production tells the story of the rejection of King Saul and the beginning of David's ascension to the throne of Judah.

Highlights of the drama include a warning by the prophet Samuel to King Saul and the Israelites, and a night scene when an evil spirit troubles Saul. The climax of Saul's rejection is seen in his battle tent, where David's faith and Saul's powerlessness are dramatically contrasted.

People's Baptist Temple is located next to the Red Oak Subdivsion on the 264- bypass. The public is invited and there is no admission charge, although an offering will be received.

Floral Club Sets Program

AYDEN — The Floral Club of Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church will celebrate its sixth anniversary Sunday at 7:30 p.m. A literary program will be given.

Little Creek Church Floral Club and Piney Grove Church Floral Club will be the special guests. Music will be rendered by the A.M.E. Zion Temple Senior Choir, Grifton with Mrs. Myra L. Braxton as organist.

The public is invited to attend.

FELLOWSHIP DINNER

A fellowship dinner will be held at Antioch Holiness Church of Bell Arthur on Sunday, July 6. Elder Willie Joyner and the choir of Moye Chapel will be in charge of the 3 p.m. service. Other choirs are asked to participate at the 4:30 p.m. service. Sponsor of the program is the junior choir of Antioch. The public is invited to attend.

Jarvis Holds Day Camp

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church is holding its annual Day Camp July 14-18.

Day Camp I, for grades 1-3, will meet on the church playground at 9 a.m. Monday and will be dismissed after lunch at 1 p.m. Activities include recreation, crafts and field trips. All children are to bring a bag lunch. The cost for the week is $5.00.

Day Camp II, for grades 4-6, is to meet at 8:45 a.m. in the church parking lot. From there the group will travel to Whichard's Beach for outdoor recreation, swimming, crafts and devotions. They will return at 3:30 p.m. All boys and girls are to bring a bag lunch. The cost for the entire week will be $18.

Pre-register by calling the church office, 752-3101.

It came roaring out of the northeast like a freight train. In a matter of minutes, it had changed the lives of hundreds of people and left a path of death and destruction that few would ever forget.

Why do twisters come? And why are some lives taken and property destroyed, while the lives and homes of others are spared without a scratch?

The laws of nature are mysterious. We can only marvel at the power revealed through violent storms and try to be as best prepared for them as possible. We have the promise of our Lord to be with us: "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

One day we will know the answers to many questions that have long troubled us. Until then we can only "trust in the Lord with all our hearts and lean not unto our own understanding."

Renew your own faith this week. Worship in the church or synagogue of your choice.

GERALD (Jerry) HANNAH
MONDAY, JULY 7, 1980

Our speaker for July, Jerry Hannah, lives in Clinton, N.C. and is Area Supervisor for Blue Cross & Blue Shield of North Carolina. After 21 years in the United States Air Force, he retired as a Senior Master Sergeant having served as operations superintendent of Air Force Recruiting for North and South Carolina as well as Officer for Research and Development Procurement. he has had extensive professional training in various Air Force schools.

Jerry was one of the two original purchasers of Gospel Television Goldsboro (GTG TV) which airs Christian programming from the local cable company offices. GTG-TV is a nonprofit organization under the direction of a local Board of Directors airing 24 hours a day. Henry Harrison, PTL, co-host, has assisted in telethons and is a friend and supporter of this ministry.

Jerry leads the music for the Goldsboro and Clinton Chapters of FGBMFI. He is a past minister of music for Hickory Road Baptist Church, Sumpter, South Carolina; First Baptist Church, Tabeville, South Carolina, and Trinity Baptist Church, Montgomery, Alabama. He has also been active in Little Theatre, Montgomery, Alabama, in the musical "South Pacific".

We covet your prayers and support this ministry and the advancement of the course of Jesus Christ.

The FGBMFI is not a church or denomination. We are a fellowship of business and lay people who hold the Lord Jesus Christ first in all phases of life. We are a service arm of the Body of Christ seeking first to bring people to a realistic, saving knowledge of Jesus Christ and second, to help Christians experience a deeper, more personal relationship with Jesus Christ. We believe that God, through Jesus Christ, is interested in every area of our life, mind, body and soul. With his wisdom and guidance, we are willing to minister to you His love, peace and joy.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to make sure you get the right information from various sources since some persons are likely to be careless in stating facts correctly. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to get much done that is personal in nature. Study your surroundings and make long-range plans for improvement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take steps to improve your environment. You are able to have more rapport with loved one. Think logically and act wisely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Let your friends spell out clearly what they desire of you where recreations are concerned and go along with them if feasible.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure you follow through with promises you've made and keep out of trouble. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is a good day to engage in new outlets, provided you have studied them well. Make this a most productive day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how to handle regular duties more efficiently. Avoid expensive mistakes by being more alert. Put your talents to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show more interest in civic affairs and gain more respect. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take extra time ironing out wrinkles in work at hand. Meet new persons who can help enrich your life in many ways.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal time to engage in favorite hobby with friends. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There are new interests you can look into that could be beneficial in the future. Don't neglect regular chores.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to make your routines work more efficiently so that you need not worry so much. Use care in travel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you study every detail of a new project before going ahead with it. Show more devotion to your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be very good at solving problems and should have as fine an education as possible in order to make the most of this talent. The pioneer spirit is definitely in this chart. Be sure to give good spiritual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Applications Being Taken

Applications are still being accepted for teenage volunteers to receive career experiences during summer months in Greenville and Pitt County.

The teens ae called volunteens and are assigned to public agencies and programs on part time schedules to learn about various careers and gain some valuable work experience. The no-profit agencies receive valuable assistance with special programs for various audiences.

The program begins June 30 and concludes August 29 following an awards program on August 28 when youth receive certificates for their volunteer time.

Career experiences are offered in four basic areas; medical, clerical, recreation, and special education. Agencies which have participated in the past and utilized volunteens are: Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville Parks and Recreation Dept., Earth, United Cerebral Palsey, and University Nursing Home.

Applications may be obtained by calling Dale Panaro, associate extension agent, 4-H at 758-1196, or by writing to her address at P.O. Box 1427, Greenville.

Applications will be accepted through July 11.

Volunteens vary their hours by working weekly from 4 to 16 hours for the two months. They contact the directors of the individual programs and arrange their working hours.

YARD, BAKE SALE

Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church will hold a yard and bake sale Saturday, beginning at 8 a. m. at the church.

The sale will be held on behalf of the Mother Board which is celebrating an anniversary Sunday night.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dble.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇.

It is not always easy to unearth a line that will give you an extra chance. See if you can spot the hidden alternative in today's hand.

South felt that, at this vulnerability, his hand was a trifle too strong for a three spade opening bid, so he chose four spades. East's double was for penalties — the takeout bid would be four no trump. Whether, in fact, East should have doubled is debatable.

West led the king of diamonds and declarer ruffed. It seemed that the fate of his contract hinged on the location of the jack of clubs. At trick two declarer led a trump to the ace and, when both defenders followed, he continued with a low club to the ten. West won the jack and shifted to a heart, and the defenders took two heart tricks and the ace of clubs for a one-trick set.

Declarer could have availed himself of an additional opportunity. If East had both the ace and king of hearts not at all unlikely in view of his double and the fact that West had shown up with the top diamonds), declarer can set up his queen of hearts for a club discard from dummy.

At trick two, declarer should lead a low heart to the jack. East wins the king, and let's suppose that he reverts to a diamond. Declarer ruffs, crosses to the ace of spades and leads a heart towards his queen. As the cards lie, that will guarantee his contract.

What if the heart honors are split? Declarer can still fall back on the club finesse. He can enter dummy with a heart ruff to lead a club to his ten.

It is a simple philosophy — two chances are better than one, especially if you can try both at no cost.

Italy Boosting Price Levels

ROME (AP) — The Italian government says it is raising the price of gasoline 23 cents to $3.42 a gallon, increasing taxes on liquor, medicine and the incomes of self-employed people and taking new measures against tax evaders to boost the sagging lira and curb the government's estimated deficit of $48.6 billion.

The Cabinet rejected a proposal to reduce the protection given workers by the cost-of-living escalator, which guarantees automatic wage hikes every three months to match the increase in the inflation rate. Union leaders said the escalator was "untouchable" and they would call major strikes if it was altered.

Tighten Hold On Iran Assets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration moved on Thursday to tighten its hold on an estimated $3.3 billion worth of Iranian assets in this country that were frozen after Americans were taken hostage in Tehran.

The Treasury Department proposed that banks, corporations and others holding those assets be required to credit interest earned on the assets. That would freeze the interest as well as the assets and prevent the holder from profiting by the freeze.

The Treasury invited public comment on the proposal for 30 days, after which it is likely to take effect.

An estimated $8 billion in Iranian assets were frozen by President Carter last Nov. 14, 10 days after the hostages were taken at the U.S. Embassy.

A senior Treasury official estimated about half the money is held in the United States and the remainder by U.S. firms outside this country.

The official, who declined to be identified, said between $600 million and $800 million of the total held in the United States is in gold at the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, on which no interest is earned. That amount is not subject to the order proposed Thursday. Most of the remaining $3.3 billion or so is said to be in large bank accounts.

In announcing the action, the Treasury said there is evidence that some holders of frozen Iranian assets are putting the interest to their own use.

Oppose Reader's Digest Fine Of $1.75 Million

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. (AP) — Reader's Digest has called "totally inappropriate" a judge's decision to levy a $1.75 million fine against the publisher for nearly 18 million violations of an agreement with the federal government.

U.S. District Judge James L. Latchum levied the minimum fine recommended by the government, the Justice Department said Thursday. The judge noted it could have been more.

In November 1978, Latchum ruled Reader's Digest had violated the terms of a 1972 consent agreement with the Federal Trade Commission requiring Reader's Digest to stop engaging in various practices connected with "sweepstakes," a promotional device used by the company in selling and distributing magazines, books and other products.

Among the practices prohibited were: "using or distributing simulated checks, currency, 'new car certificates,' or using or distributing any confusingly simulated item of value."

The government alleged that Reader's Digest violated the order in 1973 by mailing consumers more than $13.8 million in "Travel Checks" and more than $4 million in "Cash-Convertible Bonds" in connection with its sales efforts.

In doling out the fine, Latchum rejected Reader's Digest arguments that the maximum penalty allowable was $35,000 because the "checks" and "bonds" had been mailed in six mass batches — five violations punishable by a $5,000 fine and a sixth by a $10,000 fine.

Latchum said mailing even one of the promotional devices would constitute a violation so the fine could have been $89 billion, or $5,000 for each of the 17,940,521 violations.

He said Reader's Digest received gross subscription revenue of more than $2.7 million on the "Travel Check" promotion and more than $2.5 million on the "Cash Convertible Bond" promotion.

"There seems little doubt that Reader's Digest is able to pay a substantial civil penalty," he said. "After all, Reader's Digest was quite willing to put more than $1.4 million at risk on postage alone to distribute the violative material."

Charles Pintchman, a Reader's Digest spokesman, said that "not one person complained to either the FTC or to the Digest that he or she had been misled or confused" by the mailings, which he said the magazine discontinued more than five years ago.

He said the popular magazine would appeal both the decision and the fine.

City Counts 3 Accidents

An estimated $1220 worth of property damages occured Wednesday and Thursday in traffic accidents here, according to reports of the Greenville Police Department.

A vehicle driven by Hilda Gray Joyner, of 312 Oakgrove Dr., was struck by a vehicle driven by Walter Pierce Page, of P.O. Box 895 Elizabethtown, at 8:51 p.m on Memorial Dr., Wednesday. Estimated damage to the Joyner vehicle was $425 and $295 to the Page vehicle.

A vehicle driven by Jacqueline NMN Haddock, of 1407 S. Lee St., Ayden, collided with a vehicle driven Carol Oxendine Holly, of P.O. Box 359, Leland, at $4:42 p.m. on Memorial Dr., Thursday. Estimated damage to the Haddock vehicle was $300 and $100 to the Holly vehicle.

A vehicle driven by Elaine Clark Taylor, of P.O. Box 3275, collided with a vehicle driven by Annette Smith Wallace, of 1100 Hooker Rd., at 5:51 p.m. on E.1st St., Thursday. Estimated damage to the Taylor vehicle was $300 and $100 to the Wallace vehicle.

CHICAGO, Ill. — Mr. Jesse Ray Boyd Jr., 41, died Wednesday in Chicago, Ill. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Wilkerson Funeral Home.

Recreation Program

The Grifton Summer Recreation Program opened Monday with a full day of crafts, sports and games at the Grifton Town Park.

Among other activities, beginning tennis will be offered on a daily basis except when field trips or other special events are scheduled.

There is no age limit on participation, although most of the children who enrolled are between the ages of four and ten.

New children may join the program any time throughout the eight-weeks. The registration fee of $10 is the same whether a child attends each day or only occasionlly. One-half of this fee is being marked toward the purchase of playground equipment under a Grifton Parks Improvements grant from the federal government. Anyone who wishes to donate towards Grifton's share of the matching funds can receive a tax deduction. Interested persons should call Recreation Commission Janet Haseley, 524-4356 or Summer Program Director Mrs. Corah Darrah at the park or 524-4475.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Many North Carolina jails are inadequately prepared to check inmates properly for health problems, state authorities said Thursday.

"We're concerd about the adequacy of the medical screening procedure and the adequacy of the supervison to detect illness," said Charles F. Hall, head of jail and detention services for the state Department of Human Resources.

Dr. R. Page Hudson, the state's chief medical examiner, said closer supervision of inmates is needed during their first two or three days of confinement. During that period, he said, inmates are more likely to die from the two major causes of jail death: suicide and, for alcoholics, withdrawal from alcohol.

Hudson also said most jailers should be better trained. He recommended that they have the equivalent of the 81 hours of medical training given to emergency mdical technicians.

Their comments came one day after an inmate died in the Wake County jail from what was described as a bleeding ulcer. The inmate had not reported his illness, and it had not been detected, authorities said.

Work On Credit Card Regulation

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Federal and state regulations governing the issuance of credit cards by savings and loan associations should be completed by the end of the year, a state official said Thursday.

Goerge C. King, deputy administrator of the savings and loan division in the state Department of Commerce, indicated preliminary work has begun on the regulations.

The Legislature authorized state-chartered associations this year to begin issuing credit cards, subject to availability of the regulations. Similar action was taken Thursday for federally chartered associations bys the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

UNC-W Tops Stars In Eleventh, 11-10

By LARRY SULLIVAN
Reflector Sports Writer

It took two extra innings, but the best of the rest proved they were better than the rest of the best Thursday night.

University of North Carolina at Wilmington's Clyde Holley lined a sharp single to left field in the bottom of the 11th inning last night to drive home the winning run and complete his squad's comeback against the collective group of all-stars from the other five North Carolina Collegiate Summer Baseball League's teams, 11-10.

Holley, named the game's Most Valuable Player, collected four hits in seven trips for the Seahawks and drove in three runs as the loop-leading unit faced the rest of the league's best players at Harrington Field.

The Seahawks, down by as many as eight runs as late as the bottom of the seventh inning, rallied for two runs in the seventh, followed by five in the eighth and two in the ninth to knot the score before tallying the winning run in the 11th.

"We played hard, and we played to win," All-Star head coach Gary Overton of East Carolina said after the three-and-a-half hour game. "The difference between the talent on this club is next to none. Except for our mistakes in the eighth inning, we did a heck of a job. We wanted to win."

The visiting All-Stars made only one error in the five-run UNC-W eighth, but the Seahawks, 12-5 in Summer League action, banged out three hits including a double and a three-run homer as the home team came within two runs of the lead.

The All-Stars struck first in the top of the first with a pair of runs against ace Seahawk hurler Mike Antle. Louisburg's Mark Valazquez led off with a single, moved to second on Herbie Williams' base on balls and both runners advanced on Mike Sage's sacrifice bunt. Chris Cubbage then hit an opposite field double, driving home both Valazquez and Williams.

UNC-W plated a run in the bottom of the inning without garnering a hit but used a pair of All-Star errors. Tim Whitehead reached on Cubbage's error and Tom Jones walked. Catcher John Milkovits then hit into a fielder's choice, sending Whitehead to third but nailing Jones at second, before Valazquez misjudged Holley's fly ball to left, allowing Whitehead to score.

Borg Reaches Finals
Defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden grimaces as he returns a shot from Brian Gottfried of the United States during their men's singles semi-final match at Wimbledon Thursday. Borg went on to win the match, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0, to reach the finals of the tournament. (AP Laserphoto)

The All-Stars scored next with a single run in the fourth using a pair of hits and a Seahawk error. N.C Wesleyan's Earl Roberson doubled and moved to third on Valasquez' single before scoring on Williams' grounder to shortstop.

In the top of the fifth, the All-Stars seemed to put the game out of reach with a five-run outburst highlighted by a towering home run to dead center by Louisburg's Donnell Nixon. Campbells' Ron Brooks led off with a single and advanced to second on Tweetie Thorbs' base on balls. ECU's Kelly Robinette's grounder was then booted the third baseman Holley, thereby loading the bases. Roberson then hit into a fielder's choice, nailing Brooks at the plate, before ECU's Jay Carraway smashed a base-clearing double. Nixon followed with his 400-foot shot into the trees over the centerfield fence.

The Seahawks, meanwhile, were being held not only scoreless but hitless as well through the next three innings before Holley again appeared on the scene, this time slapping a fifth-inning double for his team's first hit of the game. He was left stranded on second as Pirate Kirk Parsons set down the side.

Overton's visitors gained their biggest lead of the game following a two-run seventh with both scores coming on Sage's two-run double. Nixon reached on a fielder's choice and Williams singled before ECU's designated hitter brought them both home with his double.

Coach Bobby Guthrie's home team began its comeback in the bottom of the seventh with a pair of runs on three hits. Robert Kirkpatrick led off with a single and Jones doubled, moving Kirkpatrick to third, before Milkovits' grounder plated the Seahawk second baseman. Holley's infield single brought home Jones, who moved to third on Milkovits' ground out.

Two extra-base hits, a double and an opposite-field three-run homer, enabled the home team to rally for five runs in the bottom of the eighth. Sam Hill walked and Paul Murr doubled to put men on second and third before Kirkpatrick's grounder to short was errored, plating Hill. Jones brought in Murr with his single, sending Kirkpatrick to third before Milkovits drove an outside pitch over the rightfield fence.

Borg, Lloyd, Goolagong Gain Wimbledon Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Brian Gottfried faced up to the facts with an air of resignation.

"Playing Bjorn Borg is like taking too many body punches," he said. "You have to work so hard against him, so many balls come back. That takes its toll."

Borg, bidding for a fifth straight Wimbledon title, defeated the unseeded American 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0 Thursday to move into the final with his 34th straight triumph on the grass as the All-England Club.

He meets the winner of today's "lefty" battle between No.3 Jimmy Connors and No. 2 John McEnroe.

Chris Evert Lloyd scored the big upset of the day, ousting an outclassed Martina Navratilova, the two-time defender, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 to earn a final meeting today with Evonne Goolagong.

At one set apiece, Gottfried looked cool and comfortable.

"He got better and I got worse," was the way the American summed up his slump. "That's the way a good player does it. He waits for an opportunity and takes it. Finish."

Borg himself was happy with his performance.

"I am feeling confident. That is the main thing," he said. "I'm happy I have a day off Friday while Jimmy plays McEnroe. I hope that they will be out there for several hours.

"I still want to win as much as ever, especially now I'm in the final again. You might enjoy it more the first time you reach the final, but it still means the same."

Connors clinched his semifinal place by winning a 2¾-hour duel with big-serving Roscoe Tanner, the No. 5 seed and last year's beaten finalist.

Connors won 1-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 and then said: "In the last two sets I played as well as I have all tournament."

Although his attitude off court has mellowed, Connors said he still maintains his desire to win.

"My attitude on court is exactly the same as it was 10, four or two years ago," he said. "My attitude off court and the way I relax may be a lot different, but I still want to win."

Evert Lloyd is unbeaten since April, having won the French and Italian Opens and the Chichester tournament.

The two-time Wimbledon champion (1974 and 1976), in the semis for the 10th time, said: "Martina and Tracy Austin were getting so much publicity about who was going to win Wimbledon that Evonne and myself had all the pressure taken off us.

"I knew this would happen, but nobody expected me to win. Two years ago this wouldn't have been an upset at all, but today I suppose it's a big upset."

Goolagong lost to Lloyd in the 1976 final in three sets. The smooth Australian, who ousted No.2 seed Austin in the semifinals, was seeded fourth to Lloyd's third.

The matchup also conjured up visions of the very first time these tennis stars met here.

Wimbledon had never seen such scenes as when a thousand fans camped out all night to see the Wimbledon champion play "Little Miss Iceberg" for the first time.

Goolagong, the bubbly champion from Australia, was 20 years old. Chris, the cool phenonomenon from Florida, was just 17. Goolagong won their semifinal meeting in three sets in an electric atmosphere on Center Court.

Eight years later, Evonne is Mrs. Roger Cawley with a 3-year-old daughter, Kelly. Chris is now Mrs. John Lloyd, 26, and talking of retiring to raise a family.

And Friday's women's singles final is a match all Britain wants to see.

Since that first meeting in 1972, they have met another 33 times. Lloyd has won 22 of their matches. That should make the American the favorite, but Chris is not so sure.

"If she plays as well as she did against Tracy Austin, Evonne is going to be awfully difficult to beat," she said. "The crowd cheers for Evonne every year and will probably do so in the final.

"She may know how to play me, but she never seems to do it. She is a moody player and I have not lost to her in our last four matches. But if she is going well, she is unbeatable."

They last played each other at Chichester, three weeks ago, Lloyd winning 7-5 in the third set.

On the men's side, Connors has a 10-4 record against McEnroe, the defending U.S. Open champion.

Borg picks McEnroe as the likely winner.

"John has started to play really well," said Borg. "It will be a long match, but I think he probably has the edge."

Little Leagues Name All-Stars

First Federal and the Jaycees, the champions of the two Greenville Little Leagues, along with the Kiwanis, dominate the All-Star selections for the league.

The teams, representing the North State and Tar Heel leagues, will be in action on July 21 and 22 in the first rounds of the Area II tournament, to be held in Greenville.

The Tar Heel team will face Roanoke Rapids at 5 p.m. on July 21, in first round action, while the North State team has a bye into the second round. On July 22, the North Staters will meet Northampton in one game, while the winner of the Roanoke Rapids-Tar Heel game will face Tarboro. The finals will be played on July 23.

The winner there will travel to Havelock on July 25 to face the Area I winner, with the victor there moving into State Tournament play in Asheville in August.

Selected to the Tar Heel team are: Ricky Outlaw, Ervin Best, Rodney Harris, Brian Joyner, Chris Meeks and Keith Gaskins, all of First Federal; Sterling Edwards, Eric Jarman, Mitchell Phillips, and Frankie Atkinson, all of Big Value Drugs; Clark Stallings, Fletcher Phillips and Robert Formville, all of Pepsi-Cola; Monty Atkinson, Mike Hathaway and Doug Bray, all of Exchange, and Terry Warren and Lark Wetherington, both of Wellcome. The Moose failed to land anyone on the team.

Named to the North State team are: Curtis Perkins, David Lee, Tyrone Jones, Michael Garris and Kelly Parrisher, all of the Jaycees; Van Alston, Robert Erhmann, William Smith, Robert Evans and Scott Davis, all of the Kiwanis; James Matthews, Mike Sasser, Chris Hilliard and Timmy Wood, all of Coca-Cola; Kelly Barnhill and Anthony Coward, both of the Optimists; and Devin Gatlin and Chris Stokes, both of Union Carbide. The Lions did not place anyone on the team.

Perez Aids Red Sox Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Tony Perez is starting out the 1980s the way he finished the 1970s — by driving in runs.

Perez ranked second in the majors to former Cincinnati teammate Johnny Bench by driving in 954 runs during the last decade, during which he spent seven years with the Reds and three with Montreal.

Perez came over to the American League this year, joining Boston after the re-entry draft. With the season less than half over, Perez boosted his total to 60 Thursday night with a pair of RBIs that helped the Red Sox snap a four-game losing streak by defeating the Baltimore Orioles 5-2.

"I've never seen a guy any more consistent over a 74-game stretch," said Manager Don Zimmer. "He hits .295 to .320 and just keeps knocking out the base hits with men on second. Of course, he's done it all his life."

In other games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 8-5, the Cleveland Indians blanked the New York Yankees 7-0, the Oakland A's downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-5, the Seattle Mariners flattened the Kansas City Royals 13-2, the Minnesota Twins shelled the Texas Rangers 10-3 and the California Angels defeated the Chicago White Sox 7-3.

Dave Stapleton, Carlton Fisk and Perez rapped consecutive RBI singles with two out in the fifth inning to rally the Red Sox. Boston collected 11 singles among its 12 hits — Carl Yastrzemski homered in the ninth — with five of the hits coming during the go-ahead rally against loser Scott McGregor.

"When I see there's a man on base, I try to meet the ball, hit the ball over the infield like I did tonight. I'm not trying to hit home runs and get three (RBIs) at one time," said Perez, who also had an RBI single in the first inning. "I concentrate more when there are runners in scoring position," added the 38-year-old first baseman. "I try to make the pitcher come to me."

Tigers 8, Blue Jays 5

Richie Hebner drove in three runs with a homer and single to help the Tigers rally to their 17th victory in their last 21 games. The Tigers trailed 5-3 when Champ Summers led off the sixth with a double and scored on Tom Brookens' single. Brookens went to second on the throw to the plate and scored on Lou Whitaker's single. Rick Peters followed with a double to center and Whitaker streaked home with the go-ahead run when center fielder Bob Bailor's foot slipped as he planted it to throw. Hebner, who hit a two-run homer in the first inning, then singled Peters home.

"It's not all just me," Hebner said. "We've got a smart manager. Sparky Anderson believes in playing everybody. As a result, a lot of guys on this club have played a role in our success lately. This is a happy club."

Indians 7, Yankees 0

Wayne Garland continued to battle back from 1978 shoulder surgery by firing a two-hitter for his first shutout in more than three years as a crowd of 73,096 looked on in Cleveland Stadium. Rookie Joe Charboneau drove in four runs as the Indians ended New York's five-game winning streak.

The crowd was the largest in the majors since 74,420 attended the Indians' home opener against Detroit on April 7, 1973. Garland walked three, struck out five and yielded singles to Reggie Jackson in the fourth inning and Joe Lefebvre in the ninth.

A's 7, Brewers 5

Oakland rapped seven consecutive singles in a six-run fifth inning and Jeff Newman brought in the final run with a suicide squeeze. With the A's trailing 5-0, Dave McKay got things started with a one-out single in the fifth. Mike Davis, Rob Picciolo and Jeff Cox followed with singles, with Picciolo's driving in two runs and Cox' driving in one. Dwayne Murphy followed with another single and Tony Armas chased Brewers starter Mike Caldwell with another single that scored Cox. Pinch hitter Wayne Gross greeted reliever Paul Mitchell with the A's seventh straight single.

Mariners 13, Royals 2

Light-hitting Larry Cox and Jim Anderson each homered and drove in two runs, Juan Beniquez drove in three and Jim Beattie and Shane Rawley combined on a seven-hitter. Seattle tied a club record with 18 hits and scored seven runs in the eighth inning, two on a double by Beniquez.

Twins 10, Rangers 3

Ken Landreaux tied a major league record with three triples and Rick Sofield homered. Landreaux, who put together a 31-game hitting streak earlier in the season, tripled off three different pitchers. His first came off Steve Comer in the third inning, when he knocked in Roy Smalley and then scored on a sacrifice fly by Glenn Adams. His second came off John Henry Johnson in the sixth and the third was off Jim Kern in the eighth.

Angels 7, White Sox 3

Don Baylor, who had four hits, and Jason Thompson delivered RBI singles to highlight a three-run third inning. Dave Lemanczyk was tagged for three runs on nine hits in five innings but got credit for the victory with help from three relievers. Chicago pitchers Richard Wortham and Mike Proly were struck by line drives on the left ear and the right hand, respectively, and taken to a hospital for X-rays.

Baker Proves Worth To L. A.

By The Associated Press

Dusty Baker didn't make the National League all-star team — a fact that seemed to bother his Los Angeles Dodgers teammates a lot more than it did the veteran outfielder.

"They're leaving the best clutch hitter in baseball off the all-star team," said the Dodgers' Reggie Smith after Baker's RBI single in the 10th inning gave Los Angeles a 5-4 triumph over the San Diego Padres Thursday.

"He's our MVP. He does it all," added shortstop Bill Russell, who — like Smith and four other Dodgers — will be on the NL team when it meets the American League next Tuesday in Los Angeles.

"It's not reason enough that there are too many Dodgers," argued Smith. "It rattles my cage. It stinks. If a guy is performing up to all-star caliber, he should be there."

The 31-year-old Baker is hitting .295, ranks fifth in the league in runs batted in with 51 and has seven game-winning hits — trailing only teammate Steve Garvey, who leads the NL in RBI with 65. Despite what his teammates think is a snub, Baker seemed nonchalant.

"I try to do that (drive in runs), all-star game or not," he said. "I was doing it in April and hopefully I'll keep on doing it."

He did it with two out Thursday. After Smith had walked and moved to second on a single by Garvey, Baker strode to the plate against Padres reliever Bob Shirley.

"If I was a betting man, and I'm not," said Baker, "I'd bet on me getting a hit in that situation."

He would have won the bet; instead he won the game with a single.

"Knowing the type of individual Dusty is, it's just going to make him play that much harder," said Smith. "He's disappointed, sure, but it's not going to stop him from doing his job."

In the other NL games, the San Francisco Giants beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-3, the New York Mets downed the Most of the area golf courses are involved in their Fourth of July activities this weekend, and the hot weather has kept many people off the courses, so the reports have been light this week.

In the meantime, "Daily Reflector" staffer Tom Baines visited a new course in the area, and has filed the following report on it, which we pass on to you.

WHITAKERS — A new 18-hole public golf course, located some five miles west of here just off Interstate 95, is open this summer with Richard "Red" Sapp serving as club pro.

Sapp, former head pro at Benvenue Country Club near Rocky Mount, said that the par 71 Hickory Meadows layout, which occupies a 125-acre site, is strictly public in operation with no memberships sold. He invites golfers from Pitt County and surrounding areas to play the course.

The new facilities, featuring a two-story clubhouse and pro shop, locker room, driving range, short order grill and snack bar, was opened last August by Sapp and Gene Watson, a Nash County farmer who owned the course site.

Hickory Meadows, offering $4 green fees throughout the week, also has a weekday electric cart and green fee package, after 4:30 p.m., for $6, according to Sapp. Bermuda greens and fairways are provided, with the layout measuring 6,440 yards from the blue tees, 6,034 from the whites, and 5,350 from the ladies' markers.

Sapp, who is rated a Class A pro, served as head pro at Kinston Country Club from 1961 until 1967 when he took the Benevenue position. While a student at Winston-Salem Reynolds High School, he won the North and South Carolina junior titles in 1952 and then played on ACC championship teams at Wake Forest University in 1956 and 1957.

Roscoe "Rock" Crum Jr. is the assistant pro at Hickory Meadows.

Babe Ruth League

Aaction Movers 10, Planters Bank 2

Aaction Movers scored seven runs in the bottom of the first inning and went on to record a 10-2 victory over Planters Bank last night, winning the post-season Babe Ruth League tournament.

Aaction finished the regular season in second place while Planters had won the championship. Planters then won the first meeting between the two in the double elimination tournament, but Aaction came back to win the last two contests to win the playoff championship.

Aaction spotted Planters a run in the top of the first, then stormed back to move ahead for good. Jeff Wilson singled and stole second, with Billy Godley getting a hit. Bill Owens grounded out, but Wilson scored on the play. Rudy Stalls reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Godley, and Keith Stocks reached on an error. Jessie Atkinson singled, scoring Stalls, and Daryl Pettis singled in Stocks, and an error on the play let Atkinson in. Mike Walsh singled, driving in Pettis, with an error moving Walsh to third. He scored the final run of the frame on Wilson's single.

Aaction added one in the third and two in the sixth to wind up its scoring. The other Planter run came in the fourth.

Wilson led the Aaction hitting with three, while Godley had two. Jamie Jones had three hits to lead Planters.

The game ended the season for the Babe Ruth League, with its All-Star team continuing in competition in district play starting Wednesday in Washington.

Little League

Jaycees 7, Big Value Drugs 2

The Jaycees reign today as City Champions of the Greenville Little League after having bounced Big Value Drugs, 7-2. The win gave the Jaycees, champions of the North State League, a two-game sweep of the best of three series for the title.

Big Value Drugs, the runner-up in the regular season of the Tar Heel League, topped champ First Federal in the league tournament finals to earn the right to represent the league in the City finals. The Jaycees won both the regular and post-season crowns in the North State League.

The Jaycees pushed over single runs in the second and third to take the lead. But they wrapped it up with four runs in the fourth, moving into a 6-0 lead.

Tommy Rosche led off the fourth with a walk and Brian Wille was hit by a pitch. Both advanced on a passed ball and Curtis Perkins walked, loading the bases. Tyrone Jones walked, forcing in Rosche. Michael Garris then singled, driving in both Wille and Perkins. An error on the play allowed Jones to score also.

The other Jaycee run came in the fifth, while Big Value scored both of its runs in the sixth.

The game was mainly a pitching duel between winner Tyrone Jones, who allowed Big Value only three hits, and loser Sterling Edwards, who gave up just two hits in the loss.

The game ended the season for the Greenville Little Leagues, except for All-Star action, which begins later this month.

SCIROCCO. A FAST ANSWER TO HIGH GAS PRICES.

If high gas prices are stopping you from buying a sportscar consider this.

A Volkswagen Scirocco gets an EPA estimated 24 MPG 38 MPG highway estimate (Compare these estimates to the estimated MPG of other cars. Actual mileage may vary with weather speed and trip length. Actual highway mileage will probably be less.)

What's more the Sciroccos 1.6-liter fuel-injected, overhead cam engine with front-wheel drive will send you hurtling from a dead stop to 50 mph in 7.5 very short seconds.

And its dual diagonally linked disc/drum brakes will bring you safely back to 0.

On top of it all, you can get one right now.

UNC-W Wins Game...

The Seahawks were able to tie the score in the ninth using a pair of hits and yet another All-Star error. David Pope was hit by a pitch, moved to second on Hills' booted grounder and both runners advanced a base on Greg Bartley's balk. Murr received a base on balls to load the bases and Kirpatrick singled to drive home Pope. Whitehead then lined a 3-2 pitch into left for a single, driving home Murr, but A-S Nixon's throw to home nailed Kirpatrick, thus preserving, for a time, the game for the All-Stars.

The tenth inning was a quiet one as was half of the eleventh before MVP Holley responded with his two-out single in the bottom of the frame.

Joining Holley in pacing the winner's attack was Jones and Kirkpatrick, each with a pair of hits. Milkovits drove home three UNC-W runs and Kirkpatrick plated a pair.

Valazquez collected three hits,and Mike Sage pounded out a pair of hits and drove in two runs to pace the losers. ECU's Carraway plated three runs with his bases loaded double and Nixon brought in two with his homer.

Righthander Johnny Conner picked up the win for the Seahawks, hurling six innnings while yielding four hits and two runs while fanning three and walking three. Mike Antle started for the home team, lasting two innings and surrendering five hits and a pair of runs while walking a batter. Carl Willis worked the middle three innings and allowed six runs on five hits while walking three.

The All-Stars used seven different hurlers in the game and Wesleyan's Mark Micene suffered the loss. He worked two early innings before coming back in to pitch the final frame for the visitors. Dan Crewe of Campbell started and worked one inning. He gave up a run and walked one. Louisburg's Tony Moody pitched one inning of shutout ball and did Kirk Parsons. Hurricane hurler Greg Bartley suffered through two innings of ball, giving up six runs on four hits while walking three. Matt Schiebner hurled one inning.

Baker Proves Worth...

Montreal Expos 7-2, the Houston Astros cooled off the Atlanta Braves 5-3, the Philadelphia Phillies swept the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 and 8-1, and the Pittsburgh Pirates bested the Chicago Cubs 5-3.

Los Angeles took a 3-0 lead in the first on successive singles by Dave Lopes, Russell, a run-scoring single Smith and a two-run single by Garvey. The Dodgers added a run in the fifth when a sacrifice fly by Lopes scored Joe Ferguson. The Padres tied it on a two-run homer by Jerry Mumphrey, an RBI-double by Dave Winfield and a run-scoring single by Willie Montanez.

Giants 4, Reds 3

Willie McCovey, a week from retirement and playing the final home game of his career, drove in a third-inning run before an appreciative crowd of 39,445 to help San Francisco beat Cincinnati.

"I was glad to be able to contribute," said the 42-year-old first baseman. "I was happy to provide the crowd with at least one thrill."

The RBI, the 1,554th of his 21-year career, gave the Giants a 3-1 lead. McCovey grounded to second in the first inning, struck out in the fifth and grounded to second in the seventh in his final at-bat.

He came on the field in the eighth, but only to shake hands with the rest of the fielders before leaving and embracing replacement Rich Murray to a standing ovation.

Mets 7, Expos 2

A three-run homer by Lee Mazzilli keyed a five-run second inning, lifted New York to victory over Montreal and pulled the Mets within five games of the first-place Expos — the closest they have been to the league lead since Sept. 2, 1975.

"We are in a pennant race," said Manager Joe Torre, "and I remember one Met team in 1973 won the pennant when they were almost under .500."

That team finished 83-79 but won the NL pennant before losing to Manager Dick Williams and the Oakland A's in the World Series.

Williams, who manages the Expos now, said: "I think this is going to be a good race."

Astros 5, Braves 3

J.R. Richard and three Houston relievers cooled Atlanta's red-hot bats to help the Astros beat the Braves.

In winning the first three games of the series, Atlanta had scored 32 runs on 45 hits. Thursday night, the Braves managed just seven hits and got their first two runs on consecutive homers by Dale Murphy and Chris Chambliss.

Murphy's homer was the first against Richard in 135 innings. His blast, and the one by Chambliss, came with two out.

Denny Walling and Terry Puhl homered for Houston.

Phillies 2-8, Cardinals 1-1

Lonnie Smith tripled, singled three times, stole two bases and scored three runs while powering Philadelphia to its runaway triumph in the nightcap. It was the second four-hit game of the season for Smith, who is batting .404 in his 57 trips to the plate.

Rookie Bob Walk, 4-0, pitched a five-hitter to win the nightcap after Dick Ruthven, 7-5, pitched a four-hitter in the opener.

The Phillies won the first game with the help of a pair of St. Louis errors that paved the way for two unearned runs in the seventh.

Pirates 5, Cubs 3

Jim Bibby recorded his 10th victory in 11 decisions this season and raised his league-leading winning percentage to .909 by combining with reliever Grant Jackson to pitch Pittsburgh past Chicago.

The 35-year-old Bibby, headed for the first All-Star game of his career, departed after giving up ninth-inning homers to Jerry Martin and Scott Thompson. Jackson got the last two outs for his fourth save.

RESEARCH PROGRAM . . .Science oriented high school students from North Carolina finished up a two week research program at the School of Textiles, North Carolina State University. Among the participants were Greenville students Bernestine Haselrig and Melanie Streeter.

Local Students In Program

RALEIGH — Bernestine Haselrig of 1100 Fairfax Ave., and Melanie Hope Streeter of 1112 W. 4th St., were two of 17 high school students from across North Carolina who participated in a High School Summer Research Program at North Carolina State University recently.

Haselrig is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.R. Haselrig and attends J.H. Rose High School. Streeter is the daughter of Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter and also attends Rose.

The NCSU School of Textiles and the state's textile industry joined hands to sponsor the program for the fifth year.

Students had an opportunity to work with sophisticated equipment and research techniques not readily available to them in their high schools.

While the students were on campus, the NCSU textiles faculty advised them of the broad range of activities available in textiles.

Several years from now, industry hopes to inherit these students as trained scientists and technologists.

The students worked with professors to learn about the intricate task of producing textiles.

Many Jails Unprepared

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Many North Carolina jails are inadequately prepared to check inmates properly for health problems, state authorities said Thursday.

"We're concerned about the adequacy of the medical screening procedure and the adequacy of the supervison to detect illness," said Charles F. Hall, head of jail and detention services for the state Department of Human Resources.

Dr. R. Page Hudson, the state's chief medical examiner, said closer supervision of inmates is needed during their first two or three days of confinement. During that period, he said, inmates are more likely to die from the two major causes of jail death: suicide and, for alcoholics, withdrawal from alcohol.

Hudson also said most jailers should be better trained. He recommended that they have the equivalent of the 81 hours of medical training given to emergency medical technicians.

Their comments came one day after an inmate died in the Wake County jail from what was described as a bleeding ulcer. The inmate had not reported his illness, and it had not been detected, authorities said.

PCC Redoing Building

Pitt Community College students are presently remodeling the Atmore Building (Fifth St., NW) which has been leased by the college for instructional purposes. The carpentry and electrical installation and maintenance students are doing the work.

When completed, the building will accommodate approximately 80 continuing education courses. Approximately 80 continuing education students can be served during the evening hours.

The new farm machinery mechanics program section of the building will be fully equipped with modern equipment which will be utilized in the students' study shop. Half of the building is being partitioned for this program.

The new five-quarter course in farm machinery mechanics will be offered by PCC beginning in September; such basics as diagnostic trouble shooting and repair and servicing of farm machinery will be covered.

PCC's James Brooks, chairman of the carpentry curriculum and Jarvis Tripp, chairman of the electrical installation and maintenance program, are supervising the remodeling of the building.

No End In Sight For Detroit Walkout

By DAVID LEWIS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The city that will welcome thousands of Republicans and reporters in 10 days has received little hope from its mayor that a strike by 9,000 city employees will end soon.

As buses remained parked in their garages and garbage piled higher, Mayor Coleman Young said Thursday that picnickers this Fourth of July weekend should be prepared to clean up after themselves.

"Let the strikers know that the people of Detroit can take care of themselves ... the eyes of the world are on Detroit," Young said.

He said that his impatient administration, which is trying to get the city in shape before the Republican National Convention starts July 14, would rely on bargaining and not seek a court injunction to get the workers back.

However, he said he would seek a court order forcing supervisory chemists back on the job at Detriot's sewage treatment plant. He said the treatment plant was "sabotaged" Thursday and some filtration lines and other equipment were damaged. He gave no other details.

Detroit is the nation's sixth-largest city with 1.3 million residents. The convention is expected to bring about 20,000 people, the first of them this weekend for several days of platform committee hearings.

Officials have said the strike should pose no threat to the convention, but would make the city less attractive and less convenient.

The walkout, which began Monday when Council 25 of the American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees voted to strike, has forced some 220,000 bus riders to look for other ways of getting around.

Council 25 represents 9,000 employees at the treatment plant, parks and recreation department and sanitation department in addition to bus mechanics and museum and clerical workers.

The 23,000 city employees are represented by 57 bargaining units, but an AFSCME settlement would establish a precedent for others.

Nightly bargaining sessions have brought some progress, both sides say, but differences remained over working conditions and economic and non-economic issues. Mark Ulicny, the city's chief negotiator, said there were 38 unsettled contract issues Thursday.

"We cleared the air on a lot of things that have been confusing," Ulicny said.

But Young, adding he felt confident a settlement could be reached over the weekend, said the city, which has an 18.4 percent unemployment rate linked to the auto slump, can't afford pay raises for its workers.

"Sure the city employees are hurting, but so is everyone else in Detroit," he said.

Starting salary for a clerk was $10,380 under the former contract with a $488 raise after one year, according to Personnel Department figures. Bus mechanics average $19,644 annually and sanitation workers, $15,854.

Young has said the city's $1.4 billion fiscal 1981 budget faces a $60 million deficit from previous increases granted police and firefighters, who remained on the job. Their contracts also expired June 30, but talks have moved into arbitration. Wages and benefits accounted for 52.8 percent of last year's $1.49 billion budget, administration figures say.

AFSCME orginally asked for a 7 percent wage increase in each of three years plus unlimited cost of living, but later trimmed the wage demand. Officials refused to disclose the city's latest offer.

Iranian Courts Execute Fourteen More People

Fourteen Iranians were executed in southern Iran after being sentenced to death by a special court headed by Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, Radio Tehran announced today.

The broadcast said eight of those executed Thursday night were convicted of trafficking in drugs. It said one of the eight was a Jew who was also charged with running a brothel and two others were also charged with homosexuality.

The trials and executions occurred in the town of Shiraz, in south central Iran 125 miles east of the Persian Gulf.

Five of the other six persons executed were military and police officers of the shah's regime who were convicted of such political crimes as torturing students, suppressing Moslems and suppression of prisoners, Radio Tehran said.

No details were given about the 14th person put to death.

Khalkhali is the director of the revolutionary regime's anti-drug campaign, and his court has been sentencing drug offenders to death all over the country. Pars, the official news agency, reported that he ordered all roads to Shiraz closed as an anti-smuggling measure, indicating a crackdown in that area.

Radio Tehran reported earlier that two men and two women were stoned to death early Thursday in Kerman, another southern town, for sexual crimes. Two were women convicted of prostitution; one man was convicted of homosexuality and another was convicted of rape.

Meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of Iranians marched through the main cities and massed at Friday prayer centers to demonstrate their allegiance to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolution.

The big turnout was ordered by Ayatollah Hosienali Montazari, Khomeini's heir apparent, to demonstrate support for Khomeini's current campaign for new revolutionary purges, destruction of signs, stationery and other visible items remaining from the royal regime, adherence to Islamic teachings in government offices and wearing of the all-enveloping black chador by women in accordance with Islamic teaching.

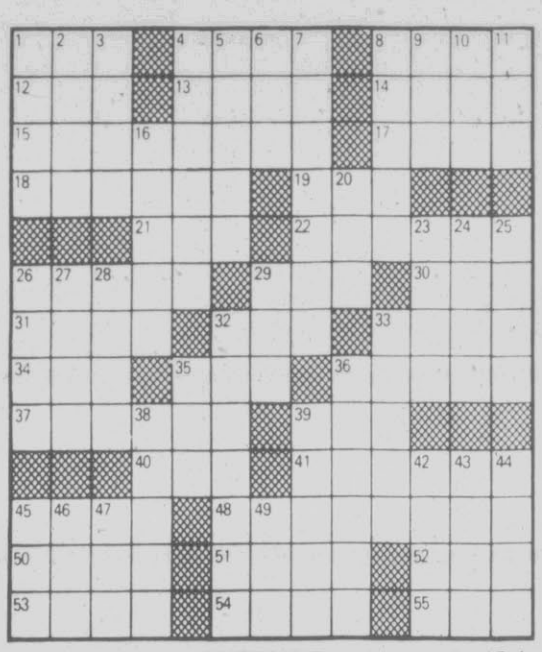
Answer to yesterday's puzzle.



CRYPTOQUIP 7-4

N E L T L C O E Z H B D E H C R Y O Y Y B D E Z H T C R N E H T

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — COURT JUSTICE ADJUDICATES SORDID CASE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals I

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

And Now, 'The Alamo' And 'The Music Man' Entrap The Viewers

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There is no joy greater than that of the vindicated spendthrift, his extravagance justified. And there is perverse pleasure in seeing a friend's cautions invalidated. Being a cautious friend, I know.

My pal Jake is a video buff and a huckster's dream. Not a sucker, exactly; an enthusiastic consumer. He recently bought one of those nine-foot television screens, the kind that employs a projector.

"Jake," I said at the time, "your living room is only 12 feet long."

"I don't care, I'll put my furniture in the street if I have to. This is something I need."

"Need? For what?"

"You'll see." Last Friday, Jake invited us to supper. His girlfriend cooked Chinese.

"Turn on the set," Jake said, "the Dodgers are on."

Of course, Jerry Reuss, a middling lefty with a modest career record, chose that particular evening to hurl a no-hitter against the Giants, the only one in the majors this year.

Jake beamed. "You know, they make 25-foot screens, too."

There is a circumstance tonight that will likely prompt another supper invitation from Jake. John Wayne's "The Alamo" and Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" are playing simultaneously on ABC and NBC.

See, Jake had asked me recently what I thought about those videotape recording machines. Before I could answer, he said, echoing the sales pitch, "I'll never have to choose between two good shows again. I can watch one and record the other."

"But Jake," I cautioned, "that's not the best reason to make a heavy-duty purchase like that. Good TV, the kind you'd want to record, isn't known to roam in pairs."

"Oh yeah? Suppose Pittsburgh and Houston are playing on Monday Night Football this fall, and there's a good 'M-A-S-H' on at the same time. I watch the game and record 'M-A-S-H.' Then after the game, I don't have to watch the news. I can see 'M-A-S-H.'"

"But you can just wait for the rerun of 'M-A-S-H' next spring," I said.

"The world may end by then." There's nothing you can say to that.

And now, "The Alamo" and "The Music Man" come on at the same time. On one channel, John Wayne and his band courageously clutching at the thread of hope against General Santa Ana. On another channel, Robert Preston flim-flamming River City, little Ronnie Howard singing "Gary, Indiana" and all those wonderful trombones.

But I'll get the last laugh. It's the Fourth of July, fireworks night at Dodger Stadium. I've got tickets. Jake can't record that.

Rooney Opening Fast Food Chain

NEW YORK (AP) — When Mickey Rooney talks about his new project, he speaks with relish.

Rooney plans to open within 90 days the first of an envisioned chain of fast-food stores specializing in circular hot dogs served on hamburger rolls. The stores, which will debut in Bergen County, N.J., will bear the name Weene Whirl.

WARNING: DO NOT WILLFULLY DISPOSE OF, REMOVE OR PERMIT THE REMOVAL FROM THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, OR CAUSE OR PERMIT WILLFUL DAMAGE OR DESTRUCTION OF THE PROPERTY DESCRIBED BELOW BECAUSE YOU MAY BE HELD IN CONTEMPT OF COURT AND MAY BE FINED OR IMPRISONED.

TO: Shawn Joseph Smith, defendant

If you want to present reasons why you should not have the property described below taken from you, then you should appear at a hearing to be held before the undersigned Clerk of Court at 10:00 o'clock A.M. on the 6th day of Aug., 1980, at the Pitt County Courthouse because First State Bank has sworn that you wrongfully hold the following property and that it is entitled to it:

1968 Coburn mobile home bearing serial #0869 located at Lot 8, Manning Trailer Park, Greenville, North Carolina.

At the hearing, plaintiff will present evidence, and you are allowed to present evidence. You may bring an attorney to this hearing. Upon the basis of the evidence presented, the Clerk will decide whether to issue an order directing the Sheriff to take the property until a trial on the merits is held. You are hereby ORDERED

a. Not to willfully dispose of the property.

b. Not to remove or permit its removal from the State of North Carolina, and

c. Not to cause or permit its damage or destruction.

If you fail to comply with this order, and it is finally determined that the plaintiff is entitled to the possession of the property, you may be guilty of contempt of court and may be fined or imprisoned as provided by law.

If you have any questions about the hearing, you may contact an attorney or the Clerk of Court prior to the hearing.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
WEST GREENVILLE
THOROUGHFARE
IMPROVEMENTS
SOUTH EVANS PROJECT
CITY OF GREENVILLE
NORTH CAROLINA

Sealed proposals will be received by the City of Greenville, North Carolina, in the First Floor Conference Room, Municipal Building, Greenville, North Carolina, until 2:00 P.M., EDST, July 22, 1980 and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read, for constructing the following project:

Fourteenth Street Improvements
Contract I
Consisting of the following:
18 Storm drainage structures
950 Linear feet of concrete pipe
4,820 Linear feet of concrete curb and gutter
1,580 Square yards of concrete sidewalks and ramps
1,580 Tons of bituminous concrete, Type HB
95 Tons of bituminous concrete, Type F-1
1,270 Tons of bituminous concrete, Type I-2
and related clearing, demolition, and earthwork.
Contract II

Proposals will not be received at this time. A separate Notice to Bidders for Contract II will be issued at a later date.

Proposals must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Mayor and City Council, City of Greenville, Post Office Box 1905, Greenville, North Carolina, 27834, and the outside of the envelope must be marked "Proposal For West Greenville Thoroughfare Improvements, South Evans Project, Fourteenth Street Improvements, Project No. BN-78-HN-37-0005". The name, address and North Carolina license number of the Bidder, the date and time of bid opening, and the Contract or Contracts bid upon shall be clearly indicated on the outside of the envelope. Two (2) unbound copies of the proposal form are furnished in the specifications in which one must be executed and submitted.

Each proposal must be accompanied by cash or a certified check, drawn on a bank or trust company authorized to do business in North Carolina, payable to the City of Greenville, in an amount at least equal to five percent (5%) of the total amount of the bid, as a guarantee that a contract will be entered into and that a satisfactory performance bond will be executed. In lieu of cash or a certified check, the Bidder may submit a bid bond in the form prescribed by G.S. 143-129, as amended by Chapter 1104 of the Public Laws of 1951. Contractors are notified that legislative acts relating to licensing of contractors will be observed in receiving bids and awarding contracts.

Plans and specifications are on file and may be examined at the offices of the Engineer in Greenville and Raleigh and at the office of the City Engineer, City of Greenville. They will also be on file at the Associated General Contractors offices in Raleigh, and at the Dodge Plan Room in Raleigh. Contractors and suppliers may obtain plans and specifications upon application to the Engineer accompanied by a deposit check in the amount of $50.00 made payable to the Engineer. The deposit will be refunded in full to all bona fide bidders and others provided plans and specifications are returned in good condition within ten (10) days after receipt of the bids.

Attention of Bidders is particularly called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract.

Bidders on this work will be required to comply with the President's Executive Orders No. 11246 and No. 11375, which prohibits discrimination in employment regarding race, creed, color, sex or national origin. The requirements for Bidders and Contractors under this order are explained in the specifications.

The City of Greenville reserves the right to reject any or all bids; to waive any informalities, and to award contract or contracts which appear to be in its best interest. The right is reserved to hold any or all proposals for a period of forty-five days from the opening thereof.

Rheem has a climate coordinator for you.

With a Rheem Heat Pump, one unit controls the "climate" inside your home, all year long. And in some cases, Rheem's Heat Pump does it more efficiently than your present heating and cooling systems combined. The heat pump keeps you warm in winter and cool in summer!

Check with us about Rheem Heat Pumps and we'll explain in detail how they work. We'll also give you a free estimate on installing one.
