Orlando's Streets Quiet After Night Of Troubles

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Streets were quiet again today in a troubled neighborhood after the second straight night in which flames shot from firebombed buildings, looters raced through stores and rocks and bottles kept police at bay.

Police late Wednesday cordoned off a 16- to 20-square-block section of this tourist-oriented city, the third Florida city since May to suffer racial disturbances.

Two businesses were burned to the ground and firemen extinguished blazes at three other buildings. Several stores were looted, police said.

Officers in riot gear swept through the area and arrested about 30 people in an effort to clear the streets. Calm was restored about 1 a.m., officials said.

"The situation is quiet and being reasonably controlled," said Howard McClain, city public safety director. "There are no fires at the present time, no rescue situations. No shots were fired, to our knowledge."

Officials discussed imposing a curfew and other restrictions in the troubled area, but decided against the idea.

But police officials said they would be alert to further trouble.

"We will be prepared for whatever might happen," Police Chief James Nursey said today. "We have to be, because we've had two nights of disturbances now."

The city, 17 miles east of Disney World, became the third in Florida to experience race-related violence this year. Rioting in Tampa and Miami in May killed 18 people in Miami, and rioting hit Miami again two weeks ago.

Rocks and bottles smashed into cars after Orlando Twins baseball fans left a downtown sports stadium Wednesday night, blocks away from the black neighborhood. Four hundred officers were called in to help quell the disturbance.

Firebombs set blazes in at least five buildings, including a hotel and a fish market. A grocery and television store were "total losses," said fire department spokeswoman Leslie Fagundo. Sporadic looting was reported.

At least four people, including two television reporters, received minor injuries when attacked by roving gangs of blacks, Wylie said.

No Rush In Senate To Quiz President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate panel investigating Billy Carter's ties with Libya probably will not be ready to call President Carter to testify until after the Democratic National Convention ends in two weeks, leaders of the inquiry said today.

"I would prefer to talk with him after we've had a chance to get more information," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the special judiciary subcommittee.

And the panel's ranking Republican, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, added: "I doubt if he can be called before this convention

... He's going to be such a key witness I feel that we must do all the preparations necessary so that when he does come, the right questions can be propounded...."

The senators were interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

The president said earlier this week that he was willing to testify before the Senate panel — "the sooner the better."

Thurmond said he would favor placing Carter under oath for his testimony

"because he's a very important witness and there have been contradictions."

Bayh said he wanted to ask the president "why it was not possible to stress at an earlier date to Billy what kind of trouble he was getting in and he was getting his brother in in the kind of associations he had with the Libyans."

"I would like to make certain there was not any effort made to influence him ... (and) make certain the Justice Department proceeded without any provocation to get moving and not get moving to provide favoritism," Bayh added.

As to what he would ask the president, Thurmond said:

"I would like to know why he permitted his brother to even deal with a foreign country and if he knew about it, which he evidently did, then why he didn't keep abreast of what his brother was doing and reveal it to the public because a man has got to appear right in a public office as well as be right."

Ration Plans Okayed

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter now has the authority he has long sought from Congress to order gasoline rationing in an emergency. But it could take months, 20,000 employees and $464 million to actually put the standby plan into motion.

The plan became law at 12:01 a.m. EDT today after surviving last-minute challenges Wednesday by margins of 60-31 in the Senate and 209-205 in the House.

That does not necessarily mean the nation will have gas rationing, only that the president now has the power to order it if gasoline supplies drop by 20 percent over a 30-day period.

And even then, such an order could later be vetoed by either house of Congress.

But an Energy Department report submitted to Congress during deliberations on the legislation claimed that if rationing is invoked by the president, it would take three months to get it going.

Running the plan would require an estimated 5,000 federal and 15,000 state and local employees and cost $464 million for the three-month start-up period.

If rationing went beyond three months, it would cost another $474 million for every additional three months of operation, energy officials told Congress.

The law allows the government to recoup some of the cost by imposing a two-cent-a-gallon gasoline fee.

And that's not all. Before the president can even make use of his new rationing powers, some 5 billion rationing coupons must be printed and a national vehicle registration file compiled. The preparatory work could take up to a year and cost $103 million, according to the Energy Department estimate.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., an opponent of the plan, said these and other complications suggest that it might take 14 months to implement a rationing plan instead of the three claimed by the administration.

Execute Eleven In Iran For Plotting

By The Associated Press
Iran's revolutionary regime executed 11 more men at dawn today for taking part in the big military plot to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Tehran Radio announced. Fifteen other executions for other crimes also were announced.

This brought to 36 the number of alleged plotters executed since the conspiracy was disclosed three weeks ago. The government said air force officers with the support of members of the other armed forces planned to bomb Khomeini's home in northern Iran and incite other soldiers to rebel against the republican government.

About 500 persons have been reported arrested in connection with the plot. The first 25 men executed were reported to be military men, but the announcement today indicated the 11 were civilians.

The government charged earlier that the plot was hatched with help from the United States, and the speaker of the Iranian Majlis (parliament) renewed this charge on Wednesday in connection with an appeal from 187 members of the U.S. House of Representatives for the parliament to expedite its decision on the fate of the 52 American hostages.

Accusing the U.S. government of "telling lies by claiming it is making an effort to end the crisis," Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said Washington was trying to intensify it by freezing Iranian assets in U.S. banks pressuring its allies to apply economic sanctions against Iran, the abortive attempt to rescue the hostages and fomenting the plot against Khomeini.

But Tehran Radio said Rafsanjani read to the Majlis the letter from the U.S. congressmen asking that it give its "earliest and highest priority" to the hostage issue.

The letter was delivered by the Swiss Embassy, which has represented U.S. interests in Iran since President Carter broke diplomatic relations with the revolutionary government three months ago.

There was no indication the Majlis would heed the congressional appeal. It is bogged down in political maneuvering attendant on the selection of a prime minister and cabinet.

Computerized Data Awaited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-sponsored computer analysis of funding, student enrollment and hiring patterns by the University of North Carolina was to be introduced today at a hearing to determine if the university will lose nearly $90 million in federal monies.

The computer study was done by DBS Corp. of Alexandria, Va., and is considered key evidence for the government's allegation that UNC has failed to desegregate its 16 campuses adequately.

Joseph Levin, chief attorney for UNC at the hearing, said the university has studied the $500,000 computer analysis and concluded it contained several errors.

A decision in the case, which was begun in 1970, is not expected until December or January, opposing lawyers agreed Wednesday.

Some political leaders in North Carolina said that might ease any backlash against President Carter's re-election campaign in the state if the decision is against UNC.

Wallace Hyde, Carter's state campaign chairman, acknowledged that an adverse decision might affect the president's chances in North Carolina.

"I think it would hurt, but you have to eat what your dog trees," Hyde said.

Hyde also acknowledged that testimony at the hearing, which has been critical of UNC, might cause some loss of support for Carter. "It doesn't help because everything that happens with the federal government rubs off on him," Hyde said.

NO REFUND FOR CONTACT LENSES

In January of this year I went to an area eye doctor and asked him if he thought I could wear contact lenses. He examined me and said he didn't see why I couldn't and recommended the semi-soft lenses. It is now July and I haven't gotten a pair of lenses that fit me yet. He has suggested that I go to another type of lens, but he wants me to pay for them. I've already paid him $200 for the first pair. Is there an association of ophthalmologists that can tell me if its usual procedure to charge a patient for a pair of lenses that cannot be used? He refuses to give me a refund on the first pair and he refuses to pay for my semisoft lenses. J.M.

The Greenville Eye Clinic, a local ophthalmologist clinic here, says there are so many circumstances involving contact lenses that your question concerning a refund would be hard to answer. They do say that with hard lenses you would be given a flat fee in the beginning, and they would keep ordering you lenses until a suitable pair is found. With semi-soft or soft lenses, they say a trial period of two weeks is usually given to see how your eyes adjust to the lenses — and at this particular clinic, during the trial period if you decide the lenses do not work, you will only be required to pay for the doctor's fee and the fitter's fee. They stressed that in different offices different rules are made, but according to this clinic, they make clear in the beginning what the patient is embarking on financially.

Another, the East Carolina Eye Clinic, says that if the doctor ordered the contact lenses and they did not fit or work out, he would reimburse the patient for one of the pairs of lenses.

If you want to find out more, you can write the American Association of Ophthalmology, 1100-17 St., N.W. Suite 901, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Plan Expanding Farmville Plant

DEMONSTRATES NEW DEVICE... Collins & Aikman plant manager, Bob Findley, demonstrates a new stop action device being installed on the Farmville plant's new high speed knitting equipment. C & A is investing more than $6 million on the plant.

Collins & Aikman announced further expansion plans are being developed for its Bangor Division's Farmville facility.

The plant, which is completely integrated, is capable of yarn preparation, warp knitting, and dyeing and finishing.

As part of an overall program of capital improvement totalling approximately $6 million, a major expansion in productive capacity at Farmville is presently nearing completion.

Leon C. Frederick, division president, who made the announcement, noted that the division's Cowpens, S.C. plant will be phased out and the production consolidated into the Farmville facility. A number of the employees from the Cowpens facility will be relocated to Farmville.

"This is part of our ongoing restructuring effort to streamline the division's output and improve overall productivity," he noted. In addition, a new Product Development Center for the division will also be established at Farmville.

"We anticipate no disruption in customer servicing during the changeover and we continue to have the utmost confidence in the future growth of the warp knit market and our commitment to it," Frederick emphasized.

Sue To Retain Bilingualism

MIAMI (AP) — A newly formed Cuban-American group has filed suit to block the efforts of a group seeking to eliminate such country bilingual services as traffic signs written in both English and Spanish.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court on Wednesday by United Cuban-Americans of Dade, is an attempt to block an effort by a group called Citizens of United Dade. That group hopes to put a referendum on the ballot to end the county's official commitment to bilingualism.

Nonswimmers In Lifeguards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Recreation Department is testing all its lifeguards following reports that some had purchased phony lifesaving certificates to get their jobs.

Seven of 208 lifeguards tested Wednesday flunked. The Bulletin reported today. Another 150 did not show up for the tests.

The seven who failed, and those who did not report for the test, have been ordered to prove their lifesaving ability tonight, officials said.

Those who failed were described as "nonswimmers" by Nathaniel Washington, a deputy recreation commissioner.

Greenville Mart Prices Better

Improvements in grading as well as leaf quality resulted in an increase in the overall average Wednesday on the Greenville Tobacco Market, which completed its second sales day.

On the heels of the market's disappointing opening day average of $110.21 per hundred pounds, yesterday's figure of $117.71 represented a step in the right direction and brought the local market a little closer to the overall belt average.

The Market News Service in Raleigh reported that Greenville sold 859,993 pounds Wednesday for $1,012,276 in posting its $117.71 average.

J. N. Bryan, sales

supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade in Greenville, reported this morning that second day offerings consisted of approximately 86 percent primings, 12 percent lugs, and some two percent in scattered leaf.

Top price paid here yesterday was $1.59 per pound and several government grades brought $1.64 per pound, Bryan noted. Stabilization receipts Wednesday amounted to 28.62 percent of total sales.

"The grades and quality of tobacco looked better than the first day," the sales supervisor commented.

Twelve markets operated on the Eastern Belt yesterday and sold 6,284,759 pounds for $7,461,809, an average of $118.73 per hundred pounds.

Took Hostages In Fisher Plant

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A veteran autoworker possibly upset about company benefits for laid-off employees took 18 hostages at gunpoint in the Fisher Body plant this morning, police said. He later released 10 of them unharmed.

"We still don't know what his demands are," police Lt. John Bridgewater at headquarters said about two hours after the incident began around 6:30 a.m. in this city 30 miles north of Detroit. "Even the people released don't know what he wants."

The hostages in the paint shop office of the General Motors Corp. plant included the shop superintendent and two foremen, said witnesses. Bridgewater said a foreman was among those released.

Police said the man was armed with a revolver. Witnesses said it appeared to be a .45-caliber weapon.

Bridgewater said the hostage-taker was believed to be talking to a union official and the conversation possibly was about a mix-up in company benefits for laid-off auto workers. It was unclear whether the talks were face-to-face or by telephone.

At Local 596 of the United Auto Workers union, a man describing himself as "just a janitor" who declined to give his name said, "The union people are all in there. Apparently he has a gripe of some kind or the officers (of the local) wouldn't be in the plant."

Robert King, a supervisor in the plant's security department, said the hostage-taker, whom he did not identify, was an employee who never had caused trouble before.

A special team of officers was at the paint shop, "but we can't reach in the plant by radio," said Bridgewater. "We're doing everything we can."

Production of the first 1981-model bodies for the nearby Pontiac Motor division plant had been scheduled to start later today, but Fisher officials said painting operations had been shut down and it was not known what could be turned out today.

"Everybody is just sort of wandering around," said a lady who answered the telephone in the plant benefits office.

Fisher Body is one of five GM plants in Pontiac, a city of about 85,000 persons.

Some 2,500 employees work at the 56-acre body plant, which sends its car bodies to Pontiac Motor through a covered bridge several hundred yards long.

City Manager Kabul Soviet Embassy Assaulted By Rebels

City Manager Ed Wyatt was recently elected chairman of the N.C. Code Officials Qualification Board, a 20-member group responsible for the establishment of certification programs for building, electrical, energy, plumbing and heating inspectors in the state.

Wyatt, who served during the past year as vice chairman, was elected to the chairmanship at the board's quarterly meeting in Raleigh.

Appointments to the board, which was established by 1977 legislation, are made by category and Wyatt was appointed in 1978 to fill the spot designated for a city or county manager.

In addition to Wyatt, W. P. Watson of Charlotte was elected vice chairman and Kern Church, deputy insurance commissioner, was elected secretary.

Lee Ball of Blount & Ball Realty Co. here is a charter member of the board, having served since its inception.

Some 750 inspectors in North Carolina are affected by the certification programs.

Leaf Prices Slightly Up

NEW YORK (AP) — A Florida man has arrived in New York after running from Los Angeles in what he said was a record 71 days, 22 hours and 59 minutes.

Jay Birmingham of Jacksonville arrived at City Hall on Wednesday after beginning the last day of his trip in Perth Amboy, N.J. He said he got lost looking for the Brooklyn Bridge, but was aided by a jogger.

Birmingham, 35, said he averaged seven to nine hours a day of running. He said his best day came when he covered 59 miles while running through Pennsylvania.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Anti-communist Afghan rebels recently attacked the Soviet Embassy in Kabul, causing some light damage in what was said to be the fourth such assault since the Kremlin's intervention in Afghanistan last December, a traveller arriving here today reported.

The traveller, an Indian citizen who lives in Kabul and declined to be identified by name, said he had not seen the attack himself and had no details on the reported fighting, when it occurred, or how the embassy was defended.

He said other residents of the Afghan capital informed him it was the fourth attack to protest the presence of some 85,000 Red Army troops in the country helping Afghanistan's army battle the rebels. His report could not be independently confirmed.

The Indian and other arriving air passengers, including a Westerner who asked to remain unidentified, said heavy movements of Soviet MiG jet fighters and helicopter gunships were continuing at Kabul airport amid reports of a mutiny by an Afghan division. The Afghan army is said to be plagued with defections and it is estimated that some 35,000 troops remain of what two years ago was a force of 85,000.

"Soviet planes are coming and going every minute," the Indian said.

The Westerner said he saw the MiGs and gunships flying off in the direction of Ghazni, 80 miles southwest of Kabul, and that he counted scores of helicopter gunships returning with empty rocket launchers after apparent sorties. Diplomatic and other sources have said the mutiny of the 14th Afghan armored division occurred in Ghazni.

The Indian said Kabul is full of rumors about the trouble at Ghazni, which reportedly followed a move by the Soviet-backed government of Afghan President Babrak Karmal to replace the division commander.

The Indian said that he had watched large military convoys rumble through Kabul every night from his apartment. "We don't know where they are heading but there are at least 30 tanks, trucks and armored personnel carriers in those convoys every night."

Meanwhile, the Islamic Front group of Moslem rebels released a statement in Peshawar, 100 miles west of Islamabad, Pakistan, claiming that more than 160 Soviets were killed in continued skirmishes throughout Afghanistan.

The claims by the Islamic Front group of rebel fighters, which could not be independently confirmed, included:

— A rebel attack in which 150 Soviet troops were killed and three others captured at Asmad, in Kunar province near the Pakistan border.

— Five-days of fighting against a Soviet convoy travelling in the southeastern province of Kandahar in which 10 Soviets were killed.

— Two separate clashes, one in the Gallag region of Helmand province in southwest Afghanistan and another in the southeast town of Zabul, in which rebels killed "a number" of Soviets and destroyed seven tanks.

— Liberation by the rebels of the Alinagar and Ningaraj districts of Lagham province, located northeast of Kabul.

Leaf Prices Slightly Up

By The Associated Press
Flue-cured tobacco prices climbed slightly on South Carolina-Border North Carolina markets and on the North Carolina Eastern Belt Wednesday as volume declined.

Producers again expressed disappointment over prices being offered for their leaf, and some growers kept tobacco off the floor to await an anticipated upward trend.

The best showing Wednesday was posted on the North Carolina Middle Belt, where the average climbed $5.57 per hundred pounds from opening day Monday. The Federal-State Market News Service reported the belt sold 794,930 pounds for an average of $126.19.

On the Eastern Belt sales were reported at 5.3 million pounds for an average of $117.71, up 53 cents from first-day sales Tuesday.

Border Belt markets sold 2.7 million pounds Wednesday for an average of $122.88, up $1.32 from Monday's opening prices.

Failed To Fake Her Own Death

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A Florida bookkeeper who tried to fake her own death to cover up a plan to embezzle $10,000 has been sentenced to 60 days in jail on a conviction for attempted grand larceny.

Authorities said that Billie Lee Zinsmeyer, who worked for a doctor, feared auditors would discover the money was missing, so she sent the doctor a Mailgram announcing her death and saying her body would be shipped to Kansas for burial.

When she was arrested at her home, police said, she had an obituary she was about to send to newspapers. The sentencing was Tuesday.

Fashions Vary In Lengths

PARIS (AP) — Couture is in confusion. Early sketches released from the major designers show that lengths and shapes for next winter will vary from house to house, if not from knee to knee.

Opening with a buffet and show by the house of Nina Ricci on Sunday, the haute couture collections will be presented in a mad rush during the following four days.

The handful of women who can afford couture clothes do not often have the legs of Shirley MacLaine or Marlene Dietrich, so the mini probably won't make news this time.

But there will be plenty of knee-revealing skirt lengths, as well as more dignified looks inches below.

Paris expects to see some shaped, strongly profiled shoulders, but they'll be generally softer and some will have puffed sleeves. There will undoubtedly be clever tailoring — but also a contrasting return to folklore with embroidered details and dirndl skirts.

There may be bias-cut dresses straight out of the 1930s. But another show on the same day might be strong with fullish skirts under crisp jackets. The waist may be waxy and nipped — or relaxed like a flapper.

So what's a girl to do?

Choose what looks good is the answer.

Fashion has changed since barely a decade ago when Paris practically dictated how a woman should look. But the world is in a state of flux now, and so is fashion. Women can no longer afford time or money to change wardrobes every time a designer decides to lengthen or shorten skirt lengths.

Paris designers also have had to bow to a certain individuality, and so they're offering just about everything.

During a cloudy, chill European summer, these winter couture shows are more welcome than they would be in the parched United States. They are a showcase for the very best French couture talent. Standards are so high that only the best designers are allowed to show in the group — 24 this time — with a minimum of 75 models each.

The shows cost a lot of money to mount, and are worth it only because the houses use their prestigious names to sell ready-to-wear, accessories, perfume and other products all over the world.

The French garment industry is worried that, because of heavy government social security charges on manual labor, France may be getting priced out of the market.

“Soon American ready-to-wear may cost a lot less to manufacture than French ready-to-wear — maybe up to 30 percent,” said a spokesman for the French garment industry.

Meanwhile, couture goes on as the figurehead. Marc Bohan at Dior plans to show an elegant line for women tired of jeans. It is rumored he will soon leave the house of Dior where he has been the official designer since 1960 (Christian Dior died in 1957). Bohan has been reported as feeling shackled by a new management,

Auxiliary Receives State Awards

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 7032 held its meeting last week. Reports on the 50th VFW Convention held in Asheville were given by President Alice Moseley, Myrtle Meeks, Rosalie Boyd and Carrie West.

The auxiliary received a trophy for first runner-up to the Governor James B. Hunt cup for the largest amount donated to Cancer Aid and Research. They also received a silver tray for the best all around work in cancer in Group II and a silver tray for the most outstanding work in the state at the VFW National Home for widows and orphans.

Other awards included a citation for hospital work at Fayetteville Hospital, Buddy Poppy sales, Americanism and first place in auxiliaries over 80 members for two VFW Scholarship Funds and for work done at O'Berry Center.

President Moseley made the following appointments: Cancer Aid and Research, Myrtle Meeks, chairman; Rehabilitation, Merle Austin and Marlene Jones, co-chairmen; Americanism, Reba Cannon; Gold Star, Rosalie Boyd; National Home, Ruth Evans; O'Berry, Verna Mizelle; and Buddy Poppy, Carrie West.

A picnic supper will be held at the Post Home Aug. 21 for post and auxiliary members.

Meeting hostesses were Mrs. West, Mrs. Marjorie Angstadt and Mrs. Margaret Bogan.

production and distribution headaches.

The Dior board of directors put out a statement expressing “stupefaction” at published statements of discontent by Bohan.

Elsewhere, couturiers probably will elaborate on themes from their earlybird April ready-to-wear collections, plus new ideas.

Ungaro mixes outrageously, and usually successfully. Givenchy is expected to head straight into romanticism, with a nod to the films of Visconti — concentrating on rich evening wear.

Pierre Cardin will keep on with his odd, blocky shoulders, plus skirts above the knee to be worn with dark, patterned tights. He's reportedly going through a Lolita syndrome and wants to design mainly for teenagers.

Crahay at Lanvin will refine his “expensive Peruvian” line for the couture, a mode with which he obviously feels very much at home. Jean-Louis Scherrer will go out for embroidery on dresses with folklore influence. And as always, at good old Chanel, they plan to concentrate on kilts and “le style Anglais.”

The fabrics will be soft, elegant and tempting to touch, with cashmere, mohair, wool challis, velvet and silks leading off. Expect to see lots of black, but also some siren-bright colors to touch up the usual autumnal palette.

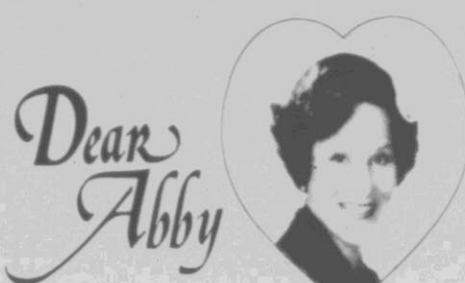

Bridal Couple Entertained

Miss Lynne Fowler and Gene Hathaway, who will be married Aug. 17, were honored at a pig pickin' and shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pope of Greenville.

Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, Tom Byrd and Sid Hawkins, all of Greenville.

The bride-elect was honored by 13 hostesses from Erwin with a floating miscellaneous shower.

The couple was also honored at another pig pickin' at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Fowler of Erwin, parents of the bride-elect.

Bad-Neighbor Policy Needs Cancelling

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: We are a couple in our mid-50s who have lived in this home for 25 years. Last fall the house next door was sold to a couple in their mid-20s. This spring, my husband, who is quiet and shy, tried to be friendly with the young man, with very little luck.

Last Sunday, the young couple went away for about three hours, leaving their dog tied up in their backyard. The dog barked constantly, which was very annoying.

When they returned, my husband asked them (nicely) if they would mind not leaving their dog outside again while they were gone because it barked constantly. The young man became very angry and said he'd appreciate it if we didn't cut our grass on Sunday morning, because it annoyed him! My husband just shook his head and walked away.

A few minutes later, the neighbor opened his car doors and turned the car radio up to full volume. We had an ear-splitting rock concert for 40 minutes! Then the neighbors on the other side asked them to turn the volume down. Some loud dialogue was exchanged and the young couple stormed into their house.

We are all afraid that they will start playing kids' tricks with loud radios or noisy, late parties around the pool. We don't want to be forced to keep our windows closed the rest of the summer. We have always been friendly with our neighbors until now. What shall we do?

TOO OLD FOR KIDS' GAMES

DEAR TOO OLD: It seems you are off to a bad start with your new neighbors, but it doesn't have to go from bad to worse. Abort this mutual bad-neighbor policy by clearing the air with them. (“If my lawn mower bothered you on Sunday mornings, you should have said so instead of burying your anger and letting it fester.”)

We all need the good will of our neighbors — particularly in these scary times, so make the first move to bury the hatchet.

Parents. When you call your children to go visit your friends with you, do they hide under the car and refuse to come out? Do they make excuses for not going like they have to stay home and rotate the tires on their tricycle? Do they exude all the enthusiasm of a child invited to a fire drill in December in the middle of showers?

Then these words are for you. Suppose — just suppose — the situation was reversed and you were being dragged along to visit their friends. It might go something like this.

“Look, Mom, would you and Dad stop dawdling or we're going to be late at Debbie and Mike's house. And I'm telling you before we go, I don't want you whining around about when are we coming home and running in and out every two minutes to ‘tell.’ And for crying out loud take something to do — some of your favorite toys. Mom, why don't you take your needlepoint? That would keep you occupied for awhile. Your home workshop is out of the question, Dad. It's too big. Take something small — like maybe your key ring to play with.”

At the house, the introductions are brief. “This is Mom and Dad, but you'll forget their names anyway. Say hello. And would you look at your parents. I swear they've grown a foot since we last saw them. How are things at work? And where did you get that pretty dress? I want you to meet my parents. Mom is 34 and Dad is 36. You should have a lot in common. Now run along and get acquainted. Maybe their Mom will show you her new microwave oven and their Dad his new power mower. Keep it down now.”

Later, as the children are really having a good time, the four parents approach the children. “Kids, when are we going home? All the parents are sleepy. Besides, Dad has to be in court early tomorrow and he has a brief to write tonight.”

The kids look at one another. “Isn't that just like a parent? Putting everything off until Sunday night. How long have you known about the brief?”

“Since last Friday,” says their father.

Wedding Invitation

Ms. Mary Battle Worthington requests the honor of your presence at her marriage to Clarence Earl Baker Sr. on Saturday, Aug. 2, at 6 p.m. at Green Spring Park, East Fifth Street. A reception follows. No invitations were mailed.

“A likely story! Don't they drive you crazy? I swear you can't take parents anywhere and have a good time. What say we get together sometime soon without the A-D-U-L-T-S?”

In the car on the way home, you hear the kids say, “I love Debbie and Mike, but their parents are really spoiled brats. I hope you two didn't drink a lot of liquids or you'll be up all night. And don't you dare fall asleep on the way home or we'll leave you in the car all night. Tell me, did you have a good time?”

A Big Disappointment

Eastern North Carolina tobacco farmers have to be bitterly disappointed with the prices that were paid on opening day of the Eastern Market.

It was not a question of less profit for the farmers; rather it was a question of how much money they would lose at the prevailing prices on opening day.

The opening day average wasn't even up to that of last year's. It was, in fact, some $7 per 100 below the opening day average of 1979. Farmers and tobacco observers feel this year's crop is better than last. In addition, it is expected fewer pounds of tobacco will be available for market this year.

It was an exasperating day for the hard working tobacco grower. Even an average comparable to last year's would have been considered poor. Inflation has hit the tobacco farmer as hard as any industry. Much fuel, fertilizer and chemicals are needed to grow and harvest a crop of tobacco. As we all know, the prices of these commodities have skyrocketed during the past 12 months. Clearly higher prices than last year's were needed just to cover expenses.

There were a number of reasons offered for the disappointing opening. Primarily it was argued that the opening was too close to the Border Belt's and the buying competition was not present on the Eastern Belt.

Whatever the reason, we desperately hope that prices quickly improve for this year's high quality crop. Perhaps they already will have by the time this is read. The farmers have worked too hard to attain the quality asked of them to face low prices at this stage.

TODAY'S PHILOSOPHICAL NOTE!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The 'Billygate' Affair

WASHINGTON — Reporters are prowling about the White House these days like so many hungry catamounts. They smell a crippled rabbit inside. The "Billygate Scandal" dominates our headlines, and everywhere in town the same question is asked: How badly has Jimmy Carter been hurt?

Let me try, if I may, to draw a few distinctions and to fix a fair perspective. The business of Billy Carter, the president's black sheep brother, does not yet approach the level of the Watergate scandals of eight years ago. In the Watergate affair, we were dealing with criminal conduct with breaking and entering, with patent obstruction of justice. In the matter of Billy Carter, we are dealing mostly with misjudgments, with good intentions gone awry.

At the outset, we ought to separate the actions of Billy Carter, private citizen, from the actions of his brother Jimmy, president of the United States. Brother Billy's wrongdoing, by Watergate standards, is trivial. Whatever may be said of Billy's judgment in dealing with the contemptible regime of a Libyan dictator, the only allegation of illegal conduct against him is that Billy failed timely to register as an agent of the Libyan government.

Brother Billy is not the issue. He is a hustler. If he hustled the Libyans for $220,000, with another $200,000 promised, that truly is his business. Billy was peddling influence he didn't have, but hustlers have been selling snake oil, gold bricks and Brooklyn bridges from time immemorial. Let us put Brother Billy to one side.

The catamounts of the press are after Brother Jimmy, and their self-righteous rectitude is showing. There is a conscious or subconscious desire to demonstrate that the press can be just as rough on Democrat Jimmy Carter as it was rough on Republican Richard Nixon. Summer of 1974, we were examining ever possible discrepancy in the statements of the president and his White House aides. Well, then, let us dissect every sentence in the statements of the president, his press secretary and his attorney general to see if contradictions and omissions can be found.

What has emerged, thus far, is wholly in keeping with the well-intentioned ineptitude that has characterized the whole of the Carter administration. It was clearly an error in judgment on the part of the president and his wife to call upon Brother Billy last November, a few weeks after the prisoners had been taken in Tehran. Their pathetic thought was that maybe Billy could persuade Muammar Khadafy to in-

Zoning By Washington

By Sen. ORRIN HATCH Without much attention from the press or the public, legislation has been slowly wending its way through the Congressional process that would sharply expand federal authority over local zoning and land-use policies. At least partially responsible for this turn of events is that this measure masquerades as a "civil rights" measure. President Carter, in fact, has described the legislation as "the most important civil rights measure in a generation."

The proposed Fair Housing Act is an effort to enhance the effectiveness of the Open Housing Act of 1968. One of the most highly controversial pieces of legislation of its time, the Open Housing Act established the authority of the federal government to limit race discrimination in housing transactions. The present Act would strengthen the ability of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to bring actions against alleged violators.

While there is little opposition to the concept of providing effective enforcement authority in HUD, there is a great deal of opposition to the manner in which this is to be achieved. In particular, heated opposition has been generated against the incredible notion that HUD can bring anti-discrimination actions against individuals or communities intended to discriminate.

Increasingly, HUD has been suing communities on the basis of local zoning or land-use policies that have the effect, in HUD's view, of establishing "inadequate" protection of racial or ethnic minorities within communities, whether or not there has been any actual discrimination by these communities.

Already HUD and the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department have brought suits against communities on the basis of minimum lot size requirements, restrictions upon multi-family unit dwellings, and restrictions upon group homes in residential neighborhoods. One such community has even been sued because it refused to participate in a federal grant program that would have required the construction of large numbers of low income housing units.

HUD's procedure is not to look at discriminatory motivation, but at statistics. If a community, for example, has 10 percent minority population, while the surrounding metropolitan area has 20 percent minority population, HUD presumes discrimination. Any one who doubts that HUD will soon be employing the same methodology for subdivisions and even individual apartment buildings simply does not know HUD. The Open Housing Act is rapidly being transformed from discriminatory outlawing policies into one of mandating that individuals and communities undertake affirmative efforts to establish a "proper" racial balance.

Unless Congress modifies the proposed legislation, HUD will soon be issuing rules and regulations defining what are and what are not appropriate local zoning practices. HUD recently announced, in the Federal Register, its intention to do this. Such rules and regulations would effect a radical transformation of the scope of federal versus local responsibilities in this area.

Perhaps the greatest threat to individual liberties and to the integrity of local governments is that, under the proposed Fair Housing Act, the validity of these rules, as well as whether or not they have been breached, would be determined by administrative law judges appointed by HUD.

THIS AFTERNOON

A 'Popular' Field

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH — Not even the experts can agree on one very important point: just how much actual child abuse is there in North Carolina?

The figures show a substantial increase in numbers of cases reported around the state during the past 11 months. Part of that increase is due to recently changed state law which makes it easier for people to report suspected cases, and fixes responsibility on the county social services departments to investigate complaints.

But insiders privately acknowledge that much of the increased activity results, to a large degree, to "promotion" of child abuse by social services agencies.

"It's the popular thing these days. You see a lot about child abuse on television and in newspapers," one veteran social worker confided. "But very few so-called abuse cases are genuine."

Find One

Certainly there are instances in which a child is brutalized by a parent or another adult, injured seriously requiring medical attention. But if you go down to the local police station or social services office and try to get a line on just how many reported child abuse cases would really rank as serious, in most cases you would find slim pickings. Take those figures recently compiled by the unit designed to provide protective services for children within the Division of Social Services of the N.C. Department of Human Resources.

During the first 11 months of last fiscal year there were 23,593 suspected cases of child abuse or neglect reported to county social services departments in North Carolina.

There are two important elements in that statement.

1. Child abuse and child neglect have been lumped together. One is serious, say social workers; the other not so serious. What is one family's neglect may be another's building self-reliance.

2. Of the 23,593 suspected cases reported, 9,915 were substantiated. That means only 42 percent of cases investigated had merit. No breakdown is provided between abuse and neglect. In fact, at some points the state report describes the cases simply as "maltreated."

At a recent gathering of social workers and others concerned with the welfare of children, the conversation about abuse and neglect was openly derisive, with the overwhelming majority of cases involve neglect, not abuse, but that many social services agencies are riding the crest of public concern over child abuse to keep support for budgets and personnel levels.

Family

Most reports are filed by friends, neighbors, relatives, and school personnel. It is acknowledged by social workers that there is a sizable element of malicious reporting in the system, involving parental spats, neighborhood feuds, and family arguments.

If not for substantial impact on abuse and neglect cases from promotion by local social workers, how else can the sharp differences in figures from one county to the next be explained?

Things are terrible for kids in Catawba County where cases reported and substantiated are highest in the state; more than five cases reported per 1,000 population; and nearly three of those substantiated. But in Alleghany, Clay, Pamlico, and Hude counties there is simply no abuse nor neglect. The average number of substantiated cases runs less than one per 1,000 population statewide.

No clear pattern emerges from the county-by-county breakdown. Rutherford County had 12 substantiated cases, figuring out 23 per 1,000 population. Next door, Cleveland County had 70 substantiated cases which is .90 per 1,000 population. Lincoln County, just to the north, had 63 cases which is 1.67 per 1,000.

Other Editors Say The Great Fake

(The Raleigh Times)

That humans have learned to fake genes — and thus invent new species (a power earlier reserved exclusively to Nature and God) hardly seems to bother most of us at all.

But let somebody fake JEANS — designer jeans — and we really get upset.

We have a magnificent apparel industry, much of it in North Carolina, that can and often does turn out copies of anything.

But the sacred, costly, magic-laden scrap of cloth called the designer label is forbidden ground to the copiers. So the state consumer protection people are out for blood after the suppliers of Calvin Klein fakes.

It's not easy to spot the ringer jeans. One dead giveaway you can find without too many gymnastics at the pants-rack is a label inside that says "Made in Jamaica." Calvin Klein and Puritan, his manufacturer, know not Jamaica; they favor Mexico and El Paso, Texas.

So that's easy. But to make absolutely sure you're a properly alert consumer who gets what she pays for — and pays and pays — you must do more. You must squat down and peer closely at the metal fly button, which must say "Calvin Klein" if it's real.

Never mind what sort of treatment this gets you from the grand-dame sort of salesperson in the sort of place that sells designer jeans. Do it anyway, or you may be throwing away $24 on what only LOOK like designer jeans instead of paying $32 to $40 for the REAL THING.

The faking is fraud, make no mistake. There is no excuse for it. To the people on Rufus Edmisten's consumer staff who vow to cease not in their vigilance till they've put the fake-jeans suppliers out of business, we say "right on!"

But to all of us who've helped make the market for designer labels what it is — those who can afford it and those who really can't, the young ones and the old enough to know better, the ones who buy generic groceries so they can splurge on name label clothes — we repeat Alice's old refrain: "Curiouser and curiouser."

Strength For Today

FIRST IMPRESSIONS AND LATER ONES

Popular books on personality-building are always telling us how important is the first impression we make on people. Our clothes should be in good taste, clean and well-pressed. Books on etiquette stress the necessity of poise, good manners, a well-modulated voice on all occasions. Educators impress on students the value of neat, properly prepared business letters upon which may depend the entire cess or failure of one's approach to the prospective employer or customer.

First impressions are of course important, but they can often be deceiving. We have all been charmed by the flashing smile and the firm handshake of a new acquaintance only to discover in time that the man has serious defects of character.

More important than the good first impression is living up to it. It is not just what we are today that counts, but what we continue to be to the

Ominous Future For Housing

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Housing Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the ingredients of an astounding national problem in the making:

—The number of new housing units needed annually over the next 10 years is nearly 1 million units more than the average number begun between 1970 and 1978.

—The number of starts has instead been declining. The industry averaged 1.8 million units during the 1970s. The current rate, although temporary, is down around 1 million units.

—According to the U.S. League of Savings Associations, more Americans will become age 30 in this decade than ever before in our history. Typically, ages 25 to 34 are homebuyer ages.

—Prices are rising as median price of resale homes now exceeds $61,000, or about three times the median family income. Because of demand, median prices may continue to rise.

The result: Millions of would-be buyers cannot afford to own, and probably never will own, despite their belief that home-ownership is the birthright of all prudent, hard-working Americans. They must rent.

—The number of rentals units is shrinking, perhaps by 2 percent a year, according to an economist with the National Association of Home Builders. Financing costs, and rent controls, are generally blamed.

—Rents are rising. And, because of the housing shortage, they are likely to rise faster than they have been.

The Robert A. McNeil Corp., which syndicates and which is one of the nation's largest landlords, says rental costs have been "a bargain by comparison with costs of ownership."

—The future? McNeil observes that "the increase in utilities has led most landlords to move to individually metered units with tenants responsible for all utility payments." In addition, it says, the costs of taxes, insurance and maintenance will be passed on to renters.

—Families already are cutting certain routine expenditures, such as entertainment, in order to meet housing bills. And this is in spite of the fact that two incomes are often needed to support a household.

Homebuyers on average must budget $550 for monthly housing expenses, up 37 percent from the median says the U.S. League of Savings Associations. Rental expenses aren't much lower.

—Housing authorities see costs exerting severe pressures on family size and lifestyle (one child, both parents working, less entertainment and travel, for example).

—The job-making ability of some communities is likely to be lessened by the lack of or high cost of housing. It has already occurred in some areas of California.

—The possibilities add up ominously:

—An entire, huge, generation of Americans denied housing they had come to expect, made to forgo family activities because of high price, perhaps forced to radically limit family size and even job choice.

The question is: Will they stand for it? Or in some

Noon Rotary Gets Charter

The Greenville Noon Rotary Club was presented its charter last night by District Governor Bob Howard of Morehead City.

Sponsor of the new club is the Greenville Rotary Club, which was chartered December 1, 1919.

Charter night was attended by 140 Rotarians and their wives from nine Eastern Carolina communities. Prior to presenting the charter, the wives of the members of the new club pinned the Rotary badge on their husbands.

District governor Howard presented Paul Harris scholarship awards, named for Rotary's founder, to Tommy Edwards, Larkin Little, D.H. Taylor, Howard Dawkins, and Don Edwards.

Officers of the new club are Tommy Edwards, president; Larkin Little, vice-president; Ed Wyatt, secretary; Tim Dale, treasurer; and Don Edwards, sergeant-at-arms.

SHIP MISSING

Kilpatrick Col. ...

It was the charge of "cover-up" that felled Nixon in 1974. The cover-up then was massive. In the affair of Brother Billy, by contrast, we so far have no reason to believe that anything of significance has been covered up. To say that the president and Attorney General Civiletti "lied" about their conversation of June 17 is to give an ugly word to an incident that may have been quite harmless. To be sure, if the president in that meeting begged Civiletti not to indict Brother Billy, we would have obstruction of justice, an impeachable offense. I don't see it.

Yes, the president is in trouble. He is in for two months of televised hearings before a Senate subcommittee, five of whose members are running for reelection. The overwhelming tendency of the American public, sad to say, is to assume guilt before innocence is proved. In my own view, Jimmy Carter is a disaster. I hope to see him dumped in November. But in simple fairness, he deserves something better than the drubbing that lies ahead.

Appeals Firing Over Shooting

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former city police detective has appealed his dismissal for shooting an unarmed youth who he thought was about to rob a pizza shop.

The former detective, Stephen McCown, has said he thought at the time of the shooting that Ja-Wan McGee was pulling a weapon from his shirt. The object turned out to be a cigarette lighter, and McGee, who was shot in the spine, was paralyzed.

A police hearing board ruled last month that McCown had used his gun improperly and Police Commissioner Donald Pomerleau then dismissed McCown.

$31,000 Is Announced For Groups

Parents Anonymous of North Carolina, Inc. has recently announced the receipt of a $31,000 grant from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation of Winston-Salem. The grant will be used to continue the development of Parents Anonymous and to establish Children's Support Groups in conjunction with local Parents Anonymous chapters.

During the year 1978-79, there were 20,204 cases of child abuse and neglect reported to authorities across the state. Estimates are that reports reflect only a small percentage of child abuse and neglect actually occurring.

Parents Anonymous is an organization for parents who physically, sexually or emotionally abuse their children or who fear that they might become abusive. The primary objective is to help prevent damaging relationships between parents and their children. There are 18 local chapters of Parents Anonymous active in North Carolina.

Parents Anonymous Children's Support Groups will focus on the needs of the children of P.A. members. It is a widely accepted concept that abused children often have a lasting problem of low self-esteem which can result in behavior problems. The primary objective of the Children's Support Group project is to help prevent further abuse and to interrupt the generation cycle of child abuse by decreasing the likelihood that these children will become abusive parents.

The Zinnias Are Missing

PERRY, Iowa (AP) — The cops are baffled and the crooks are bold. They've hit all over town, striking even in a daring daylight raid.

The zinnias are missing. "We don't have any idea who did it," said Cathy Pekrul, president of the Perry Jayceettes who planted the flowers as a community betterment project.

"The thieves are taking everything," she said Wednesday. "They're digging them up and transplanting them somewhere."

Blooming zinnias have been stolen from the Chamber of Commerce office, Pattee Park, the Perry State Bank, the Bar-Jac mobile home court and radio station KDLS.

Although his officers haven't had a break in the case, Police Chief Jim Smith is confident.

"I would assume it's some people in town. So if this keeps up, someone around town's going to see it happen," he said. "To be honest, I haven't exactly got my entire force working on it. I don't know if I could tell a zinnia if I saw it."

The missing plants are special Pulcino zinnias, a variety unique to Perry that the Jayceettes received from a seed company.

"We're having a zinnia contest for the most beautiful garden," Ms. Pekrul said. "Who knows? We just might find somebody with a few extras."

Metrics Switch Still A Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although 6 percent of sales by the nation's top industrial firms involve products made to metric dimensions, the U.S. Metric Board says a survey it commissioned found little evidence that industry has any broad-scale plans to switch to the metric system.

The survey also found that 5 percent of sales involved products with both metric and customary components. It said more than 20 percent of sales are in products labeled in metric units. The board is an independent federal agency created by Congress to coordinate voluntary conversion to the metric system in the United States.

Auto Plant Loan Asked By Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The city may build a new 500-acre assembly plant for General Motors Corp. if it can obtain a federal loan to finance the project, Mayor Coleman Young says.

Emmett Moten, Detroit's top development official, was meeting federal officials in Washington today to discuss financial arrangements for the plant, which would have an estimated price tag of at least $500 million.

Site acquisition and preparation would cost another $120 million to $150 million, city officials estimate.

Under the plan, the city would build the plant and lease it to GM to recover construction costs.

But federal officials are pessimistic about the city's chances of obtaining such a large loan.

GM wants to build its new plant on the site of the old Dodge Main plant in Hamtramck, a city within Detroit, to replace its aging Cadillac and Fleetwood Fisher Body facilities.

Young said the city would seek most of the money from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development under a program that lends cities money at low interest rates.

But a HUD official said Wednesday the cost of the project lessens Detroit's chance of getting a federal loan. Current federal law limits the size of the loan Detroit wants to about $180 million.

Young said the city also could seek other federal funds, including grants from the Economic Development Administration, the Urban Mass Transportation Administration and HUD's urban development action grant program.

Third Refusal To OK Parole

FRONTERA, Calif. (AP) — A parole board, saying Patricia Krenwinkel was "extremely callous" to human suffering, has refused for a third time to free the convicted murderer, a disciple of Charles Manson.

The board Wednesday rejected Miss Krenwinkel's contention that she was a confused product of the 1960s. She said her crimes were not unique and asked for psychological studies on how to prevent similar "atrocities."

"I was a child of the '60s," Miss Krenwinkel told the Board of Prison Terms. "There are thousands of people out there not much different from myself."

Deputy District Attorney Stephen Kay challenged Miss Krenwinkel's assertion that she was typical of her generation.

"All of the flower children did not commit murder," Kay said.

Miss Krenwinkel, who is housed at a state women's prison at Frontera, has served nine years on a life sentence for a conviction in the 1969 Tate-LaBianca slayings committed by the Manson "family." Miss Krenwinkel was convicted of stabbing coffee heiress Abigail Folger 28 times and mutilating the bodies of grocery store owners Leno and Rosemary LaBianca. Actress Sharon Tate also died in the murder spree.

Under California law, Miss Krenwinkel became eligible for an annual parole review after serving seven years.

In a two-hour hearing, Miss Krenwinkel never mentioned Manson's name but spoke of the feelings that led her to follow the cult leader.

"There was dissatisfaction everywhere ... I couldn't seem to find my bearing in the world."

"I was so unsure. I wanted to latch onto anyone who was self-assured," she said.

But, she said, "Now, I am definitely an adult. I am 32. I have grown up in this institution over a decade."

She said she has an A average in college courses she takes in prison and is working towards a bachelor's degree. Later, she said, she plans to try for a master's and wants to do psychological counseling.

On Tuesday, the board refused to grant parole to another Manson disciple, Susan Atkins. Miss Atkins wept at her hearing and said she was sorry for the murders she committed.

Famine Program Will Begin

With such staggering figures of starvation and diseases related to malnutrition all over the world, a group of Greenville area youth have decided to do something about it.

On Tuesday, some 25 youth of the Memorial and Winterville Baptist Churches will begin a Planned Famine. Hal Melton, famine coordinator, explained that the 30-hour fast will have a two-fold purpose.

"We plan for the youth participating in the program to stay together during the fast so that while we share the experience of feeling hungry, we can also learn why hunger exists in the world, and what we can do about it," he said.

The Planned Famine hunger program also has a practical side, Melton pointed out. The youth will each contribute $6 of their own money — $2 for each meal missed. Plus they will seek famine supporters to contribute $6 donations.

"We hope to be able to raise $1,000," said Melton. "The money we raise may help feed many families, or even an entire village, for a month or longer."

Sixty percent of the money will go toward hunger relief programs sponsored by The Southern Baptist Convention and 40 percent will be channeled through World Vision International to help hungry people.

Individuals interested in learning more about the Planned Famine program can call Hal Melton, 756-5314, or Mike Williams, 756-5955.

Collisions Occurred In The City

An estimated $4,050 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers reported $1,200 damage resulted to a car driven by Tapley Orman Johnson III of 500 Elizabeth St. when the vehicle collided with a tree about 3:30 p.m. at the intersection of Elizabeth and Ward Streets.

Johnson was charged by investigators with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Vehicles driven by Robert Vernon Briley of Route 1, Winterville, and Velma Louise Johnson of Route 4, Greenville, collided about 4:43 p.m. at the intersection of Washington and Tenth Streets, causing $500 damage to the Briley truck and $700 damage to the Johnson auto.

Briley was charged by officers with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

A 2:10 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive near the Moore Street intersection involved cars driven by Bobby H. Perkins of 1005 Taylor St. and Charlotte Carr of Baltimore, Md., causing an estimated $550 damage to the Perkins car and $300 damage to the Carr auto.

According to investigators, cars driven by Myrtle Horton Tripp of Branches Estates and Asa Glenn Branch Jr. of Route 2, Greenville, collided about 9:10 p.m. yesterday on Charles Street near the Brook Road intersection, resulting in an estimated $100 damage to the Tripp car and $400 damage to the Branch vehicle.

Cars driven by Patricia Lynn Allen of 1400 Ragsdale Rd. and David Lee Sanderson of Route 1, Grimesland, collided about 8:55 p.m. at the intersection of 14th Street and Dickinson Avenue, police reported.

Damage was estimated at $200 to the Allen car and $100 to the Sanderson vehicle.

Convict Eight With Weapons

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight suspected members of the Puerto Rican terrorist group FALN, after presenting no defense, were convicted of conspiracy and weapons charges stemming from their arrest in April.

A Cook County Circuit Court jury of seven men and five women deliberated three hours Wednesday before convicting the eight, who had refused to cooperate with public defenders or to question prosecution witnesses.

The eight were among 11 suspected FALN members arrested in Evanston on April 4. Earlier that day, police alleged, they stole a van from an Evanston car-rental agency. Police found a rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, several handguns and ammunition in the van.

The FALN — its name is Spanish for "Armed Forces of National Liberation" — advocates independence for Puerto Rico. It has claimed responsibility for bombings in Chicago and New York.

Convicted were Freddie Mendez, Adolpho Matos, Elixian Escobar, Dickie Jimenez, Carmen Valentine, Ida Luz Rodriguez, Dylcia Pagan and Carlos Alberto Torres.

Judge Francis J. Mahon barred the defendants from the courtroom after they repeatedly disrupted pretrial hearings by shouting slogans. They listened to court proceedings over a loudspeaker in another room, and spectators in the courtroom could hear the defendants shouting as the verdict was read.

Sentencing for the eight was set for Aug. 26. Convictions on the conspiracy charges carry prison sentences of up to 30 years, while the weapons convictions carry sentences of up to five years.

Two of the 11 arrested, Luis Rosa and Mary

Rodriguez, were convicted in Cook County Circuit Court on July 9 on charges of armed robbery, armed violence and possession of a stolen vehicle.

Another of the 11, Marie Haydee Torres, was extradited to New York, where she was convicted in a 1977 bombing that killed one person.

Weighs Art In Caligula

BOSTON (AP) — A Boston judge was studying today whether "Caligula," a $17 million motion picture about sex and violence in ancient Rome, is art or smut.

Municipal Judge Harry Elam promised a ruling Friday in the obscenity trial of Penthouse International, which produced the movie, and the Sack theater chain, where it was shown.

During the eight-day trial, Elam heard testimony from 14 experts on sex, history, politics and philosophy.

In final arguments Wednesday, Penthouse lawyer Roy Grutman argued that the prosecution was "an attempt to stifle and stamp out ideas."

Assistant District Attorney Timothy O'Neill disagreed.

"I wish you to recall the manner in which the camera focused on sexual acts," he argued. "Can there be any question that this film depicts sex in a patently offensive manner and appeals to a prurient interest?"

If convicted, Penthouse, its Massachusetts subsidiary and the theater chain each face maximum fines of $5,000. One defense lawyer said Penthouse is spending more than $100,000 to try to win acquittal.

"Caligula, for whatever its shortcomings, is not a stag film," said Grutman. "It is not a blue movie. If it had been the intent of Penthouse to make a porno film, that could have been done for $100,000."

Treasure Is A Beginning

BERWICK, La. (AP) — Vast treasures may still be lodged aboard a sunken 18th-century cargo ship that has already been tapped by a salvage team for 40 pounds of gold and priceless Aztec artifacts, state officials say.

"Man, they haven't even touched it yet," said Steve Perry, assistant secretary of the Louisiana Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism.

The ship was found buried in mud and silt in a murky section of the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast. Water there is 15 to 18 feet deep, but the visibility is only eight inches.

Salvagers led by Stephen Smith of Cameron have been exploring the sunken ship and on Wednesday, Smith, Perry and Gov. Dave Treen held a news conference to announce the find.

Besides the gold, which is worth about $350,000 on today's market, divers recovered 30 pounds of silver and five tons of copper.

Treen called it "the most exciting archeological find in Louisiana and maybe one of the most significant in the Gulf region."

Among artifacts pulled up so far have been cured turtle shells for European hair combs, rouge used for 18th century make-up, parts of figures and other ceramic Aztec wares, leather hides, olive jars, several nine-foot cannons, a 10-foot anchor and copper artifacts.

A state archeologist said the ship appeared to be Spanish, but authorities have no idea of its name, its route, why it sank or even when it went down.

Curtis Blume, a shrimper from Port Bolivar, Texas, found the wreck about 1 1/2 miles off Cameron Parish in western Louisiana when his nets pulled up copper ingots. He contacted Smith.

Smith said the wreckage is scattered over an area 200 feet by 120 feet and is broken up into several large pieces buried beneath mud and silt.

"It's not a hull just sitting there where you can go inside it," Smith said.

He said he didn't know he had found gold until he got back on deck of his shrimp boat with what he had picked up in the dark water.

Under an agreement with Blume and the salvagers, the state will get 25 percent of the find. The company formed by Blume and Smith, Free Enterprise Salvage, will get the rest but will have to pay for recovering the treasure.

"It could be a very expensive proposition, maybe a losing one," Treen said. "We don't know."

The state will control how the excavation is handled and what happens to the artifacts.

Treen praised the finders for contacting the state.

"There is a natural tendency of the finder to grab it, and in the process to destroy its archeological value," he said.

GOLD INSPECTION — Louisiana Gov. Dave Treen (right) and Richard Drude hold part of 40 pounds of gold ingots that was found along with other artifacts on a sunken 18th century ship off the Louisiana coast during a news conference in Berwick, La. yesterday. The gold alone is valued at more than $350,000 and officials say they have just scratched the surface in the hunt for additional treasures. (AP Laserphoto)

Probe Policy By VEPCO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Regulatory Commission staff members are investigating Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s decision to delay completing its Bath County pumped-storage generating plant, Rep. M. Caldwell Butler, R-16th, has been told.

After Butler complained about Veeco's decision to slow the project, utility officials "detailed the declining load growth and financial conditions that led Veeco to its decision to substantially curtail construction activity at the project," FERC congressional affairs director Kenneth S. Levine wrote Butler.

The details supplied by Veeco are being studied by FERC staff members, Levine continued, with particular attention going to the circumstances surrounding the decision and the compatibility of the decision with Veeco's license from the FERC for the plant.

The study Levine wrote about is separate from an overall Veeco management study being conducted by another section of the FERC staff, a Levine aide said. No one can say whether the management still also look at the Bath County project decision, the assistant said.

The management study is considered a private investigation conducted for the FERC members. That study grew out of North Carolina complaints about Veeco's wholesale rates in that state.

Earlier this month, Butler asked FERC members to order Veeco to resume regular construction on the Bath County project to other utilities to provide the needed financial backing and demand for the generating plants.

Butler said the largely depressed, rural area had geared up for the boom Veeco's project would bring and that the slowdown required area people to shoulder unfair burdens.

In his letter, Levine said that the FERC staff studying the Bath County project had started trying to determine whether other utilities might be interested in buying into Veeco's facility before getting Butler's letter.

Angered By MacDonald Ruling

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Alfred Kassab, saying he's enraged that an appeals court used a "technicality" to overturn his son-in-law's murder conviction, wants to fight the latest decision in the deaths of his step-daughter and grandchildren.

"It's infuriating when anybody stops to think of the sad state this country's coming to when a convicted triple murderer is turned loose," Kassab said from his home in Cranbury, N.J., after learning that the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here had overturned the conviction of former Green Beret Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, 36.

The court said, in a 2-1 decision Wednesday, that MacDonald's right to a speedy trial had been violated because of the nine-year interval between the slayings and the conviction.

MacDonald was convicted in August 1979 of the February 1970 beating and stabbing deaths of his pregnant wife, Colette, 26, and their daughters, Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2, at their home in Fort Bragg, N.C. He was sentenced to three consecutive life terms.

MacDonald contended the slayings were committed by a group of drug-crazed intruders who chanted, "Acid is groovy. Kill the pigs."

Kassab and his wife, Mildred, who was Colette's mother, had been among their son-in-law's strongest supporters until they became convinced of his guilt. Kassab said he did not accept the court's reasoning and hoped for an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"Nobody has said he's not guilty, all they're saying is he wasn't tried fast enough," Kassab said.

Bernard Segal, a San Francisco attorney who has represented MacDonald for 10 years, said he would file a motion for bail to be set for MacDonald pending possible appeal by federal prosecutors.

Segal said MacDonald was feeling an "exhausted sense of relief" while waiting in his cell in a prison at Terminal Island, Calif., for word on whether he would be freed soon.

U.S. Attorney James Blackburn said no decision had been made on whether to appeal.

MacDonald worked in the emergency room at St. Mary's Hospital in Long Beach, Calif., before his conviction, and some doctors there said they had believed all along that MacDonald was innocent.

"Here is a man who was wrongly convicted and is finally free," said Dr. Stephen Shea, director of emergency services at St. Mary's. "We would welcome him back into our emergency hospital group." However, St. Mary's spokeswoman Teddy Brickner would say only that the hospital had "an open mind" about whether allowing MacDonald to practice.

Wednesday's decision was the second time the appeals court had ruled that MacDonald's right to a speedy trial was violated.

In 1976, it threw out an indictment against MacDonald on that ground, but the U.S. Supreme Court said the ruling was premature.

In Wednesday's decision, the court said the delays resulted from "sheer bureaucratic indifference" on the part of the Justice Department and tended to hurt the ability of witnesses to remember what happened.

"We cannot and do not assess the correctness of the jury's verdict," Judges Francis D. Murnaghan Jr. and James M. Sprouse said in their majority opinion.

"Regardless of that, we certainly cannot let such considerations condone or establish a prosecutorial method of obtaining convictions in violation of the constitutional rights of future generations," the judges said.

$400 Hidden In Old Billfold

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Nine-year-old Mike Eng had been carrying the billfold for two years, never dreaming $400 was folded into a secret compartment.

The boy's aunt gave him the billfold after his uncle, Bixby funeral home owner Jim Nease, died.

The hidden treasure came to light this week with the unwitting help of Mike's friend, Ted Harris, who ventured a trade between the money in Mike's wallet and the money in his own.

Mike declined the gamble, since he knew his wallet contained a wealth of $4.

Ted examined the tattered purse to see whether the leather was real and pulled four $100 bills out of the secret compartment.

"I don't know what to do with it," Mike said. "I've never been rich before."

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was weaker. Supply moderate. Demand moderate. Weights desirable to light. The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 48.13 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,775,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices dropped sharply today, stalling a rally that had moved prices to their highest levels in three years. Chrysler Corp. reported it lost $536.1 million in the second quarter. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 7.85 to 928.33 in the first two hours of trading, as declines outnumbered advances by a 1-1 margin in New York Stock Exchange trading. Chrysler's loss, which was larger than its first quarter loss, was in line with predictions and the stock was unchanged at 7 1/8. As expected, the government authorized another $300 million in loan guarantees for the automaker. But many other stocks were sharply lower, including oil stocks that had been among the strongest in the rally. Gulf fell 1 to 40 despite President Carter's decision to approve a company plan for a plant to turn coal into oil. Mobil was down 1 1/8 to 73 3/4, Exxon lost 1 1/8 to 69 1/2 and Phillips Petroleum dropped 1 1/4 to 40 3/4. Tosco, an independent refiner, fell 1 1/8 to 27.

The drop came despite more tentative signs the recession may be nearing an end. Those indications came from reports that residential building contracts rose in June for the first time in nine months, and that the volume of help wanted advertising rose that month for the first time since January. But many economists think the downturn will continue for at least several months. The oil stocks had weakened on Wednesday after it was reported that some companies had reduced crude oil prices as a result of weak demand. A number of companies have also cut gasoline prices. The declines in stock prices continued virtually across the board. Allied Chemical fell 3/4 to 50 1/4 despite reporting higher earnings. But UAL rose 1/2 to 22. Big Board volume totaled 24.96 million shares in the first two hours, compared with 25.01 million at the same time Wednesday. The NYSE's composite index dropped 81 to 69.14. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 4.48 to 311.56.

Farmville Prices Better

FARMVILLE — Several grades of primings were stronger on Wednesday than on opening day here and less quality grades were purchased by Stabilization as the Farmville Tobacco Market completed its second sales day of the 1980 season. Louis Williams, supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here, reported that a majority of the grades remained steady on the warehouse floors compared with the previous sales day. Prices paid by the buying companies, Williams said, ranged from 65 cents to $1.59 per pound.

The supervisor observed that the company prices for the first two days indicate that it will pay all growers to bring up their tobacco before cleaning it to market. Stabilization receipts here Wednesday accounted for 16.94 percent of gross sales, compared to 23.44 percent on opening day. The market sold 838,771 pounds for $1,020,296, an average of $121.64 per hundred pounds. To date, Farmville warehouses have sold 1,239,575 pounds for $1,483,667, an average of $119.69 per hundred pounds.

Winterville Mails Notices

WINTERVILLE — Tax notices for the town for 1980 will go into the mail today, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles. A total of 13,079 accounts will be mailed. The tax evaluation is $15,925,970 as compared to $13,575,108 last year. Old age exemptions total $357,989 and regular person exemptions are $189,340. Nobles added that there is a two percent discount if taxes are paid in August. Winterville's tax rate is 70 cents per one hundred dollars of value. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Crash Kills Two At Picketline

GILROY, Calif. (AP) — Two farmworkers in a truck that was about to cross a picket line at a garlic farm were killed in a collision between their truck and another, officials said. There was no indication that the Wednesday accident was related to the strike, which began last week and has idled about 2,000 workers in a farming area about 75 miles south of San Francisco. About 90 percent of the nation's garlic crop is produced in the region.

Obituaries

Egbert
SIERRA VISTA, ARIZ. — Mrs. Margaret Wyatt Egbert died Tuesday in Arizona. Memorial services will be held Friday August 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Hatfield Funeral Home there. The body will be cremated. Survivors include her husband, Herbert Seaton Egbert; two sons, Herbert Jr. of Falston, Md. and John of Loveland, Colo.; two brothers, Dr. Walter J. Wyatt of Hendersonville and John C. Wyatt of Candor.

Gilbertson
Mrs. Mary Louise Turnage Gilbertson died at her home, 106 Lindenwood Drive, Wednesday. The funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel by Rev. Joanne Verburg, associate pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Mrs. Gilbertson, a native of Pitt County, had lived most of her life in Greenville and was a representative of Luzier Cosmetics. She was a member of the First Christian Church in Greenville.

She is survived by two sons, Robert Ward of Greenville and Joseph Ward of the home; two brothers, John Turnage of the home and W. J. (Bill) Turnage of Capistrano Beach, California; two sisters, Mrs. Joe Shurn of Guthrie, Oklahoma and Mrs. William H. Sugg of Snow Hill; and a grandson. The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday and at other times will be at the home. The family suggests that those desiring to make memorial contributions consider the First Christian Church of Greenville.

Jones
BETHEL — Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie B. Jones of Route 1, Bethel, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Cherry Hill Baptist Church, with the Rev. E. Williams of Goldsboro officiating. Burial will follow in the Community Cemetery at Princeville. She was a native of Pitt County and a member of Cherry Hill Church. She is survived by her husband, James L. Jones of the home; two daughters, Miss Dorothy Jones of the home and Miss Jessie Mae Jones of New York City; five sons, Leroy, Bobby Earl, and William Curtis Jones all of Baltimore, Md.; Alfonza Jones of the home and James Robert Jones of New York; 15 grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Mary Whitehead of Newark, N.J. The body will be at the Hemby Willoughby Mortuary in Tarboro from 5:30 p.m. Friday until one hour prior to the time of the funeral. Family visitation will be Friday from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m. at the chapel.

Taft
Funeral services for Mr. Lefender Taft, brother of James (Champ) Brewington of Greenville, will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Walter J. Manning Funeral Home, 700 N. Twenty-fifth St., Richmond, Va. The family will meet at the home of Ardel Langley, 5119 Boscobell Ave. in Richmond.

Venters
Mr. Edward Allen Venters Sr., 82, died in Pitt County Memorial Hospital Wednesday. His funeral service will be held Friday at 3:30 p.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Steve Hinkle, his pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Mr. Venters, a retired farmer, was a native of Pitt County who spent most of his life in the Calico Crossroads community. He was a member of Chapman's United Methodist Church and the Woodmen of the World, Shelmerdine. Surviving him are a son, Edward Allen Venters Jr. of Rt. 4, Wake Forest; two daughters, Mrs. Melvin Buck of Greenville and Mrs. Hudson Miller of Ayden; a sister, Mrs. Annie Lassiter of Rt. 2, Ayden; and six grandchildren. The family will receive friends at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Receives Grant For Research Into TLC

DURHAM — Dr. Saul M. Schanberg, a Duke University Medical Center faculty member who is studying the critical relationship between physical growth and the "tender loving care" a mother provides, has received a $175,440 Research Scientist Award from the National Institute of Mental Health. The professor of pharmacology earned the five-year award for a project titled "Neurotrophic Drugs, Hormones and Brain Function."

Schanberg's research is directed toward understanding how and why touching and other external stresses can have such a profound effect on the biochemistry of growth in the young.

They have also demonstrated that organs like the brain and liver of baby rats lose their ability to respond to injected growth hormone when the pups have been deprived of contact with their mothers. The animal studies are relevant to humans, Schanberg said, because of a condition called psychosocial dwarfism in which some otherwise healthy infants lacking adequate tender loving care have either died or failed to develop properly for no apparent reason. Schanberg, who holds a Ph.D. degree in neuropharmacology and an M.D., both from Yale University, joined the Duke faculty as assistant professor in 1967.

Pitt County All-Stars Off To Regionals

Pitt County's 16-year-old Senior Babe Ruth League All-Stars open play Friday evening in Butler, Ala., in the Southeastern Regional Tournament. The Pitt County team, which represents Eastern North Carolina, will play the Georgia State Champions in the first round of the double elimination event.

The winner of the tournament will advance to the National Tournament, representing the South. Pitt and Georgia will meet in the third game of the day, scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. CDT.

A preliminary game has Virginia meeting the host team, Butler, Ala., with the winner moving on to face Alabama in a first-round game. The winner there goes on to meet the Pitt-Georgia winner on Saturday.

In the other bracket of the tournament, Tennessee will meet Mississippi and Western North Carolina takes on Florida. Game times beyond the first round were not available.

Pole Sets New Vault Record

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Wladyslaw Kozakiewicz of Poland overcame the distractions of unruly Soviet fans in the stands to break the world record in the pole vault and almost become history's first 19-foot vertical jumper.

Kozakiewicz soared 18 feet, 11 1/2 inches Wednesday to elevate the world mark of France's Philippe Houvion by one-quarter of an inch. Then, with the rest of the field eliminated, he took off after pole vaulting's latest psychological barrier — 19 feet.

He lost badly to the bar on his first try at 19-1/4, then vaulted over the bar, only to graze it with his arm coming down. On the third try, he brushed the bar on the way up.

The 26-year-old Pole, whose sore ankle kept him from training until a month ago, admitted the hometown crowd's attempts to unnervise any non-Soviet vaulter had affected the tense competition, in which the first six finishers all smashed the Olympic record of 18-0 1/2.

"I tried not to pay attention, but it hampered everybody's performances," Kozakiewicz said of the Soviet fans' tactics of whistling, screaming and coughing while any vaulter, except their own Konstantin Volkov, was on the runway.

"I have trained myself to concentrate in such a way that I have no idea what the other athletes are doing, or what is happening in the stadium. But the whistling hampered us. We all wanted to win, but not at any price."

Helping the Soviet judges measure the vaults was Adriaan Paulen of the Netherlands, one of the international track officials who came down to the track for the first time Wednesday to oversee the competition. Their appearance was prompted by charges of irregularities leveled against the all-Soviet judges who had been measuring and marking the athletes' heights and distances.

The "Red Jackets," so-labeled for the color of their windbreakers, were officials of the International Track and Field Federation (IAAF). They overruled their president, Paulen, and voted to come down on the field to look over the Soviets' shoulders and serve as an on-sight appeals board.

IAAF sources, including Francis Amadeo, the executive board member from Puerto Rico, said there had been widespread criticism of the work of Soviet judging teams, particularly in the javelin, discus and triple jump — events all won by Soviets.

Paulen had lobbied for keeping the "Red Jackets" at the request of the Russian Olympic officials who were concerned about humiliating the Soviets judges, but he was voted down Tuesday by a near-unanimous executive board count.

"Finally, we were fed up and we told him about it," Amadeo said.

Competitors in several other Olympic competitions have lodged various complaints about the officiating, which is not unusual for major international meets. Except for track and field, the judging here has been done by international panels.

After he won the gold medal over co-silver medalists, Volkov and defending Olympic champion Tadeusz Slusarski of Poland, Kozakiewicz made an obscene gesture directed at the crowd, slapping the palm of one hand over the raised forearm of the other.

The Soviet fans' behavior at other venues was also noteworthy.

—While the twice-beaten Soviet basketball team was playing for the bronze medal, a relatively small crowd hooted and whistled (the European form of booing) at its team, which had been favored to take the gold in the absence of the boycotting Americans.

—The Soviet basketball team was also jeered by a crowd of about 10,000 at the medals ceremony, in which the Soviets picked up the bronze for trouncing Spain 117-94 and Yugoslavia won the gold for beating second-place Italy 86-77.

—Vasily Alexeev, the gold medal weightlifter from the Montreal Olympics and, for years, one of the Soviets' most treasured athletes, lost his super heavyweight crown to teammate Sultan Rahkmanov. After failing the third time to lift 396 pounds, Alexeev, the world record holder, left the podium with a stunned crowd totally silent. He later asked team officials to announce his retirement.

The Soviet athletes, however, have shown their competitive class, adding to their record-breaking total of gold medals and overall medals in a single Olympics. With only three full days of competition left in the Games, the Soviet Union had 61 gold and 150 total medals. East Germany had 37 golds and 99 medals in all.

Viktor Markin of the Soviet Union won the men's 400-meter dash in 44.60 — this year's fastest time — and dethroned Cuba's Alberto Juantorena, double gold medalist in the 400 and 800 at Montreal. Juantorena had not raced all year, until the Olympics, because of an Achilles heel operation. He finished fourth.

Vladimir Kiselyov of the Soviet Union won the men's shot put with a toss of 70 feet, one-half inch, an Olympic record.

East Germany's Barbel Wockel became the first track repeater from the Montreal Games, winning the 200 with a Games-record clocking of 22.03.

The Soviet women's basketball team, unbeaten since the sport was added at Montreal, won the gold medal with an easy 104-73 triumph over Bulgaria.

Steve Ovett and Sebastian Coe both qualified in their heats for today's semifinals in the 1,500 meters, in which they share the world record of 3:32.1. Other events of interest today were the finals in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and the semifinal boxing match of two-time defending heavyweight champion Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba.

Kozakiewicz' world record was the 30th set in the Games, which are being boycotted by the United States and 35 other nations in protest of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. In Montreal four years ago, when 27 countries walked out over New Zealand's sporting ties with apartheid South Africa, 38 world marks were set.

The boycott didn't prevent one athlete with dual American-Italian citizenship from becoming the first U.S. citizen to win a medal. Mike Sylvester, who lived in Cincinnati before attending the University of Dayton, was on Italy's silver-medal basketball team that gamely lost to the taller Yugoslavs.

Texas Loses On Controversial Play

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Nobody's perfect. Not Oakland pitcher Rick Langford, who missed by nine outs, nor umpire Dale Ford, who, according to the irate Texas Rangers, called one out too many.

Langford finished with a two-hitter after pitching six perfect innings while Wayne Gross hit a pair of two-run homers and Dave Revering and Jeff Newman also homered as the A's bombed the Toronto Blue Jays 11-1 Wednesday night.

Langford who hurled his 14th consecutive complete game and won his sixth straight decision, came within nine outs of a perfect game when Alfredo Griffin led off the Toronto seventh by driving the first pitch over the right field fence for his second home run of the year.

"I threw Alfredo a fast ball and he was looking for it," Langford said. "I got it up a little bit and Alfredo got all of it. I don't like to second-guess myself, but the pitch was a little up and over the plate."

Ford's imperfection, the Rangers claimed, came when he called a controversial double play, wiping out a potential run that would have put them ahead in the sixth inning. Instead, they dropped a 3-2 decision to the Baltimore Orioles when Al Bumbry doubled to give Baltimore its fourth consecutive triumph and left the Orioles only 6½ games behind New York in the American League East when the Yankees suffered their seventh setback in 11 games, a 2-1 10-inning loss to the Minnesota Twins.

Elsewhere, the Chicago

White Sox nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5, the California Angels edged the Detroit Tigers 6-3, the Boston Red Sox downed the Kansas City Royals 7-1 and the Cleveland Indians beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2.

Trailing 2-1, Texas tied the game in the sixth when John Grubb singled and scored on Jim Sundberg's double. Jim Palmer then walked Jim Norris and Mickey Rivers, to load the bases. Bump Wills, who hit an inside-the-park homer in the fifth inning, then hit a line drive that Baltimore shortstop Kiko Garcia dove for, stabbed and then dropped. He threw to second to force Rivers, who had held up, and Wills was called out at first on Rich Dauer's relay.

Television replays showed that first base umpire Ford blew the call and Texas Manager Pat Corrales, who was ejected after a heated argument, told him so on the phone after the game.

"Listen, buddy, you lied," newsmen heard Corrales tell Ford. "That one inning cost us the game. How can you call Rivers safe if he's already out at second?"

Second base umpire Jim Evans signaled "out" when he thought that Garcia had caught the ball, changed it to "safe" when the shortstop dropped it and signaled "out" once again when Garcia threw to second to force Rivers. Ford, who said he only saw Evans' original "out" call, was signaling the re-treating Rivers safe at first. But after hearing that Garcia didn't hold onto the line drive, he ruled it a rally-killing double play.

"I thought Wills quit running," Ford said. "I don't even know if he got to the bag. Like everybody else, I thought it was a line drive and I was watching Rivers come back."

"Dale Ford lied," Corrales said. "It shows on the replay that he called Wills safe and now he's trying to change it to say he was calling Rivers safe instead of Wills. He's a liar. He blew it. There can't be a protest because it's a judgment call, but the TV shows he's a liar."

"Evans was right there," said Norris, who was on second base, "and he went like this (the out sign), so I hustled back to the bag and I see him going 'safe.' Then I see him go 'out' again on the force. I'm watching him go out, safe, out, and trying to figure out what the heck he's doing."

Twins 2, Yankees 1
John Castino's run-scoring bad-hop double off New York relief ace Rich Gossage with two out in the bottom of the 10th gave the Twins the triumph behind Jerry Koosman's three-hit pitching. Ken Landreaux singled with two out and Castino's smash hopped over first baseman Bob Watson's glove and down the right field line as Landreaux scored all the way from first base. Koosman did not allow a hit over the last seven innings.

The Yankees' lead shrank to 6½ games for the first time since July 3.

White Sox 6, Brewers 5
Rookie Randy Johnson's pinch sacrifice fly following Wayne Nordhagen's run-scoring double capped a two-run Chicago rally in the eighth inning. The Brewers had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the eighth on Ben Oglivie's 26th home run. Milwaukee scored three times in the sixth for a 4-1 lead but Chicago came right back in the bottom of the inning on Jim Morrison's three-run homer.

Angels 6, Tigers 5
Pinch hitter Larry Harlow laced a double to snap a 3-3 tie in a four-run eighth-inning rally and Don Baylor contributed a two-run homer for the deciding runs. Fred Patek started the comeback with a triple and pinch-hitter Rod Carew singled to tie the score 3-3 before the key hits by Harlow and Baylor.

Red Sox 7, Royals 1
Garry Hancock, Rick Burleson, Dave Stapleton and Fred Lynn stroked RBI singles with one out in Boston's six-run ninth inning and Jim Rice capped the burst with a two-run triple. Starter Steve Busby was relieved by Dan Quisenberry after Dwight Evans and Dave Rader hit one-out singles. Quisenberry gave up RBI singles to the first four batters he faced and Rice connected off Rawly Eastwick.

Indians 5, Mariners 2
Ross Grimsley scattered five hits and retired the last 15 batters in his first AL complete game in almost three years and Rick Manning doubled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as Cleveland won its eighth game in a row.

Zachry, Fulgham Toss Zeros

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Last year, Pat Zachry's right elbow was shot. Last month, so was John Fulgham's right shoulder. On Wednesday they were shooting blanks.

Zachry, completely healed from surgery last August, tossed his second successive shutout, baffling Atlanta on four hits as the New York Mets blanked the Braves 3-0.

And Fulgham, who spent some time in the minors last June and altered his pitching motion to adjust for a sore shoulder, stifled San Francisco on five hits as the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Giants 4-0.

Elsewhere Wednesday in the National League, Los Angeles silenced Pittsburgh 3-0 on Jerry Reuss' four-hitter, Philadelphia beat Houston 6-4, Montreal edged Cincinnati 2-1 and San Diego downed Chicago 5-2.

"My fastball and my slider were my main pitches," said Zachry, who stretched his own scoreless-inning streak to 20. "My slider was good, especially later in the game when I got a little tired."

"I was about as comfortable watching him as I have been," said Mets Manager Joe Torre. "He's getting more and more confidence. He's got great ability because he can throw so many pitches for strikes."

"Zachry is the kind of pitcher who can have success against us because he changes speeds and 'blacks' the corners," said Manager Bobby Cox of the Braves. "If his arm is right, he's going to have success against everybody."

Zachry, who underwent surgery for the removal of the ulnar nerve in his right elbow 11 months ago, didn't come off the disabled list until this May 3.

Doug Flynn's second-inning single gave Zachry the only run he needed. In the eighth the Mets got two runs on Mike Jorgensen's RBI single and Gary Matthews' wild throw from the outfield on the hit.

Cardinals 4, Giants 0
"I just wish we'd had him all season," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said of Fulgham. Then he thought for a moment and added, "but if we did, I guess I might not be here now."

On June 7, Fulgham went on the disabled list. On June 8 Ken Boyer was fired and on June 9 Herzog replaced him as the manager of the Cards.

"Whitey and Claude Osteen, our pitching coach, were very patient with me," said Fulgham. "This was the first time all year I've pitched without some pain... That injury is all behind me now."

Dodgers 3, Pirates 0
Jerry Reuss used to look forward to beating the Pirates, the team which had traded him away after the 1978 season. Now, though revenge is sweet, it is no longer meaningful.

"I've kind of lost track of all of that," Reuss said after stopping the Bucs on a four-hitter. "That's because so many good things have happened this year... being the winning pitcher in the All-Star game, pitching five shutouts and the no-hitter. Besides that's negative thinking."

Los Angeles edged within 1½ games of first-place Houston in the West while Pittsburgh's lead in the East was shaved to one game over Montreal.

Phillies 6, Astros 4
Rookie Keith Moreland knew exactly what to look for from Houston fireballer Nolan Ryan. And he got it. "In that situation, with the bases loaded, he doesn't want to walk me," Moreland said, "so I've got to look for the ball over the plate."

He found it and ripped it to right for a two-run single in the fifth inning that put Philadelphia on top. Moments later, Garry Maddox also rapped a two-run single that produced what proved to be the winning run.

Expos 2, Reds 1
Like Moreland, Montreal pinch-hitter Tony Bernazard knew what he wanted when he came to bat with the score tied and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth inning.

"I figured the first pitch was as good a pitch to hit as any," he said after pounding Dave Tomlin's offering over left fielder George Foster's head. "I didn't care where I hit it as long as it went somewhere."

Woody Fryman got the victory after replacing Steve Rogers with two runners on and no one out in the top of the ninth and keeping them from getting home. "It was another superb effort by the old man," said Expos Manager Dick Williams.

Padres 5, Cubs 2
Willie Montanez crashed two home runs, a game-tying shot in the fifth inning and a two-run blast to climax a three-run eighth that propelled Padres past the Cubs.

Ozzie Smith was safe on an error and stole second before Dave Winfield's single snapped a 2-2 tie.

WASHINGTON (AP) — They wore the official U.S. Olympic team uniform, the red shirts and blue jeans of western garb. They received a gold medal. They were praised by the president of the United States and had dinner at the White House.

Still, it wasn't even close to competing in the Summer Games for the 500 athletes, coaches and managers who ended five days in the nation's capital Wednesday after gaining praise from President Carter for the sacrifices they made in boycotting the Olympics in Moscow.

"There just is no substitute for the Olympics," said F. Don Miller, USOC executive director, during a reception on the South Lawn of the White House. "But I think the athletes appreciate this week."

In fact, Miller said there is talk of bringing all the Olympi-

Quick Surgery For J. R. Richard

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard was listed in good condition early today after emergency surgery to remove a blood clot from his neck.

Richard, whose fast ball is among the fastest in the major leagues, collapsed during a workout Wednesday at the Astrodome and was rushed to Houston's Methodist Hospital.

"Richard was found to have a blocked artery in his neck. The surgery was successfully accomplished to remove the blockage and he was moved to the intensive care unit," a hospital spokesman said late Wednesday night.

The operation could have been a "life or death situation" for the Astros' million dollar pitcher, said a hospital spokesman who asked not to be identified.

Dr. George Noon and Dr. Charles McCollum III finished operating about 11 p.m., CDT, Wednesday. Neither could be reached for comment after the operation.

The clot formed behind the right collarbone in the subclavian artery, the main artery for circulation to the upper arms.

Richard had complained several weeks ago of fatigue in his right arm and was hospitalized last week while a team of physicians ran tests to identify the problem.

Dr. Harold Breisford, the team physician, said recently that doctors diagnosed the ailment as a blockage of an artery in his right shoulder area. But he said the All-Star pitcher would "be able to resume throwing as tolerated."

Richard was throwing to former Astro catcher Wilbur Howard when he collapsed Wednesday. Richard never lost consciousness, a team official said.

Tal Smith, president and general manager of the Astros, was contacted in Philadelphia, where the Astros played the Phillies Wednesday. He said hospital officials told him Richard was "awake, alert and cooperative" before the operation began.

Family members, including Richard's wife Carmlyn, huddled before the surgery with Dr. Michael J. Felovich, one of a team of doctors who examined Richard last week.

Richard, 30, was placed on the 21-day disabled list on July 16.

par 57's, while Danny Harris was tops for the Hot Shots with a 63 and a 55. Johnny Carrow's 63 and 66 led the Untouchables and Robert Beacham was the best for the Aces with a 77 and a 62.

The top five players in the league were named as the All-Star team following play. Eddie Robinson paced the team with a 31.50 average. Others named were Harris, Manning, John Lowe and Mike Brown.

Teams Claim Putting Titles

The Squirrels, behind the hot putting of Dusty Carter and Cliff Deanhardt, won both of their matches against the Junior Aces and the Seals to finish in second place yesterday in Junior League action at the Greenville Putt-Putt.

Carter and Deanhardt shot 69 and 71, respectively, as the Squirrels finished the season with a 15-15-2 record.

The Junior Aces defeated the Seals with Carl White's 67 leading the way. The Aces won the league title with their 19-11-2 mark. The Seals, who finished last with a 12-20 record, were led by Paul Williams' 75.

The Junior League All-Stars were announced yesterday at the completion of league play.

Carl White led the team with a 33.43 average. Other Members include Dusty Carter, Paul Williams, Mike Sturtevant and Cliff Deanhardt.

The City League standings ended up seeing a three-way tie for the title as the Untouchables, Hot Shots and Hustlers all ended up with identical records. They will play off the title next Wednesday night.

The Hustlers (5-4) had the best night, beating the Hot Shots (5-4) by five strokes and the Aces (3-6) by 11. The Untouchables beat the Aces by 17, but lost to the Hot Shots by 14.

David Manning led the Hustlers with a pair of 15-unders

NAACP Entering Case Of 3 Fugitive Murderers

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)
— In an unusual legal twist,

Antibodies Are Raised

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)— Researchers say they have achieved a scientific breakthrough by successfully growing cells that produce pure human antibodies, the body's first line of defense against disease.

The development at Stanford University Medical School could have far-reaching implications for the diagnosis, treatment and study of human viral and bacterial infections and cancer, the scientists said Tuesday.

"In principle, this method should permit generation of human monoclonal (pure) antibodies against a broad spectrum of predefined antigens," said Dr. Henry Kaplan, who along with Dr. Lennart Olsson developed the technique.

Antibodies are highly specific proteins produced in the body in response to specific foreign substances. Previously, scientists had succeeded in artificially producing only mouse antibodies.

Kaplan, director of the school's Cancer Biology Laboratory, and Olsson, a Danish Medical Research Council Fellow working at Stanford, used human bone-marrow cancer cells fused with human spleen cells to produce the human antibodies. The fusion creates a hybrid cell line that both produces antibodies and grows rapidly.

"They become tiny little factories," Kaplan said.

But Kaplan said considerable work remains for researchers before practical applications become widespread. "There are 200 to 300 different types of cancer, and an antibody that will work for one will not work for another," he said.

the NAACP Legal Defense Fund has entered the case of three white convicted murderers who were captured near Charlotte Wednesday after they walked out of a Georgia prison two days earlier.

A fourth escapee from Georgia was found dead shortly before the three others were recaptured.

The three fugitives, who escaped from death row at the Georgia State Prison at Reidsville with a fourth convicted murder, made brief court appearances in Charlotte Wednesday. They were represented by James Fuller of Charlotte, a widely known civil rights lawyer.

Fuller, who is white, said he represented the three at the request of NAACP Legal Defense Fund officials in New York because the organization has been involved in all three cases at various levels in connection with the death penalty facing each man.

The three — Timothy W. McCorquodale, 27, of Alma, Ga.; David A. Jerrell, 25, of Greensboro; and Johnnie Johnson, 26, of Logan, Utah — gave no indication whether they plan to fight extradition back to Georgia. Local officials in Greensboro said they had no record of Jerrell having lived there, but Georgia prison officials said records showed he was a native of the city.

Asked if the three planned to fight extradition, Fuller told reporters, "I really can't answer that now. I just don't know."

For the time being, the three will stay at the Mecklenburg County Jail, where they have been since police used tear gas to flush them from a house early Wednesday.

An extradition hearing tentatively was scheduled for Aug. 27 but Fuller said that might be moved up if the three decide whether to go back to Georgia voluntarily or fight.

Meanwhile, authorities continued investigating the death of the fourth escapee, Troy Leon Gregg, 32, of York, S.C.

Gregg's body, clad in blue jeans, was pulled from Mountain Island Lake on the Catawba River Tuesday night, about 12 miles from the house occupied by the other three.

Swimmers found Gregg's body in about seven feet of water.

An autopsy determined that he had been beaten. Gregg and the other three convicted murderers walked out of prison Monday, sporting makeshift guard uniforms fashioned from prison issued blue pajamas.

They vanished, but local authorities set up the capture after getting a tip.

Police would not say exactly how they found out where the men were but agent Cecil Moses of the Charlotte office of the FBI said local police and North Carolina Bureau of Investigation agents worked for more than a day before surrounding the four-room brick house where the men were hiding about 15 miles southwest of Charlotte. Police were around the house for nearly six hours and used bullhorns repeatedly to call for the men to surrender.

There was no response from the darkened house until about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday when police lobbed tear gas into the building, forcing the men out.

"We made every possible effort to get those people out of there without a shot being fired. No shots were fired other than the tear gas," said Capt. Mitchell Barnes of the Mecklenburg County Police Department.

No guns were found on the men or in the house, Barnes said.

Police also arrested the man renting the house, William Flamont, and charged him with three counts of harboring a fugitive.

Flamont, nicknamed "Chains," gained notoriety last year as the leader of the local chapter of the Outlaws motorcycle gang.

Flamont was the first person on the scene of the mass murder of five Outlaws at their Charlotte clubhouse last July 4.

Flamont was originally jailed on the harboring fugitive charges on $200,000 bond but that was lowered to $40,000 during his hearing Wednesday.

Elbert Foster, Flamont's lawyer, said Flamont was old friends with one of the three fugitives and the men appeared at Flamont's house only two hours before police moved in.

Flamont left the house to go to the store and was arrested shortly before police surrounded the house.

"He knew one of the fugitives as an old friend but he hadn't seen him for nine or ten years," Foster said of Flamont.

Cancer Funds Distributed

NEW YORK (AP) — Cancer research funds totaling $27.5 million have been awarded to 422 individuals and institutions in 39 states, the American Cancer Society has announced.

The awards ranged from $9,250 to $200,000 and brought the total of awards this fiscal year to a $49.8 million, not including $6.8 million earmarked for interferon research, the society said Wednesday.

Dr. Edward Reich of Rockefeller University in New York received the largest one-year award, $129,776, to study the possibility of using an enzyme to identify chemicals that cause cancer.

NOTICE OF HEARING BEFORE THE GREENVILLE UTILITIES COMMISSION

In the Matter of Consideration of Adoption of Standards and Policies Under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act

NOTICE OF HEARING PURSUANT TO PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATORY POLICY ACT

1. On Monday, August 4, 1980, at 7:30 P.M., a public hearing will commence in the Council Room at the City Hall Building (Third Floor), to consider standards and policies under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act as follows:

- A. Cost of Service - Rates are to reflect cost of providing electric service to various classes of customers.
- B. Declining Block Rates - The Energy component of a rate for any class of customer may not decrease as kilowatt-hour consumption increases unless it is demonstrated that such charges track cost of service.
- C. Time-of-Day Rates - Rates are to reflect costs of providing electric service at different times of day unless such rates are not cost-effective.
- D. Seasonal Rates - Rates shall be on a seasonal basis reflecting costs of providing service at different seasons to the extent that such costs vary seasonally.
- E. Interruptible Rates - Industrial and commercial consumers shall be offered interruptible rates reflecting costs of providing interruptible service to the class of which the consumer is a member.
- F. Load Management Techniques - Load management techniques are to be offered to consumers where it is determined that such techniques are practicable and cost effective, reliable, and provide useful energy or capacity management advantages to the electric utility.
- G. Master Metering - Where appropriate, master metering in new buildings is prohibited or restricted as necessary to carry out the purposes of the Title.
- H. Automatic Adjustment Clauses - Such clauses must be considered in an evidentiary hearing not less often than every four years to determine whether such clauses provide incentives for efficient use of resources. Such clauses must be reviewed not less often than every two years.

I. Information to Consumers - Utilities are to provide to each consumer a clear and concise explanation of existing rate schedules, proposed schedules and, upon request, information of individual consumption.

J. Procedures for Termination of Electric Service - Service may not be terminated unless reasonable notice is given and an opportunity is provided to the consumer to dispute the reasons for termination. Also, service may not be terminated when to do so would be dangerous to health as determined by the regulatory authority and the consumer shows that he is unable to pay in accordance with the requirements of the utility's billing or he is able to pay only in installments.

K. Advertising - Promotional and political advertising expenses must be charged to shareholders, not ratepayers, and to provide public comment pertinent thereto.

2. Information concerning such standards and policies is being prepared by the Commission staff and is on file at the offices of the Commission Staff for review during the hours of eight a.m. to five p.m., Monday through Friday.
3. During the hearing, the Commission staff will give its report and testimony will be taken concerning the standards and policies.

Anderson Group To Fight For Spot On N.C. Ballot

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Its candidate isn't on the state ballot any more, but independent presidential hopeful John B. Anderson's North Carolina organization has not begun a retreat yet.

Although their national pride was tarnished and their chances of making inroads in North Carolina damaged, Anderson's followers in the state are continuing in the face of this week's decision by the state Board of Elections to bump Anderson from the general election ballot.

While attorneys ponder an appeal, Anderson's state headquarters is undergoing an expansion next week from its office in a small Durham house into a storefront on Main Street. And Anderson's cadre of youthful workers — nearly all volunteers and most college students — keeps a stiff upper lip.

"I think things are going to pick up. We're moving to the new headquarters because we need more space and exposure," said Jonathan Wood, one of two paid Anderson staffers in North Carolina. "We think all this publicity is good for us," he added. "We do think this is a temporary situation and we will be back on the ballot."

While the independent presidential campaign is banking on the courts to reverse the elections panel's decision, Anderson's supporters are also taking an optimistic view of the dispute over ballot access.

The decision came in a challenge filed by the Democratic National Committee and paid for by the national party organization. The victory was the first such setback for Anderson nationally in his bid to get on the ballot in all the states.

Swim Day Will Mark Closing

Friday, August 1 is the official closing date for the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department summer playground program, and is also Super Summer Swim Day. The swim event will be held at the city pool (behind Guy Smith Stadium) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Activities scheduled are diving for pennies, races and relays, greased watermelon race, water basketball and others.

Children of all ages are invited and there is no admission charge. Staff members will be on hand. (Fun wagons will not be going to Third Street School and Red Oak neighborhoods on this day).

For more information, call 752-4137, extension 262.

But some Anderson supporters say the heavy involvement in the suit by the national Democratic Party will backfire — that it will generate sympathy for Anderson nationally and make some wavering voters angry at the Democrats' for pressing the issue.

"The public recognizes the unfairness of what the Democratic National Committee and Jimmy Carter are trying to do," said Wood. "I think people are angry and do not support what the Democrats are doing. We think public opinion is on our side."

Some Democratic leaders in the state acknowledge that their legal challenge is not without risk.

Wallace Hyde of Asheville, chairman of President Carter's re-election campaign in the state, expects some negative reaction and hopes to minimize it.

"Every move you make in politics costs you some and gains you some," he said.

"It was a national (party) decision on the premise that John Anderson is going to hurt President Carter more than he's going to hurt (GOP nominee) Ronald Reagan. You don't see any Republicans trying to keep him off the ballot, do you?"

Hyde makes a point of telling newsmen that it was a "national decision" to challenge Anderson, and that the state Democratic Party wasn't involved.

Some state party leaders were involved, however. But keeping the state party's name out of it was in part an attempt to limit any political fallout from touching the state ticket, including Gov. Jim Hunt.

"It's just the political facts of life that he's hurting us more than Reagan, and we don't think he's entitled to run," Hyde said.

But all Democrats, including Carter and Hunt, are already under fire for the Anderson case — and not just from Anderson supporters.

State Republican Chairman Jack Lee — who never was a friend of Anderson when he was a GOP presidential candidate — took up the independent's side in a blast at Democrats this week.

"This is just another effort by the Hunt-controlled Board of Elections to work against the voters by knocking Anderson out," he said.

"I only hope this is going to bring to the attention of the voters of North Carolina that the Democrats are completely ruthless in their operation of the electoral system," he added. "They are depriving a segment of the voters of the state the chance to vote for a candidate of their choice."

The Anderson campaign is planning an appeal, even though their North Carolina effort is modest in size — a campaign budget of only about $40,000 — and is given little real chance of carrying the state. The determination is in part because of the ruling's effect outside this state.

"He is a national candidate and should be on the ballot in every state," said Mitchell Rogovin, counsel for the Anderson campaign in Washington. "It's a matter of pride, of being on the ballot in every state."

But while they may be smarting, Anderson supporters are getting plenty of ammunition from the dispute.

"President Carter has been complaining about countries that have kept other parties off the ballot, denied access to people who oppose the government, accused them of violating human rights," said Wood. "Now Jimmy Carter is in-

involved in exactly what he's criticized them for."

Controversial Rule Proposal Could Become Battleground

WASHINGTON (AP) — What started as an attempt to reform Democratic convention procedures has turned into a battleground that could determine who is the party's next presidential nominee.

Rule F(3)c appears innocuous on its face. But for delegates to the upcoming Democratic National Convention, it spells nothing but trouble.

For they are the ones that will decide whether the rule, which would guarantee President Carter the nomination, is adopted.

Or whether the rule is rejected, opening up the convention and allowing an alternative candidate to be selected.

At present, there are no rules — only recommendations — for the convention, which begins Aug. 11. The convention itself decides whether to accept the recommendations of its rules committee, which met earlier this month to propose rules.

Rule F(3)c was formulated more than two years ago by a special commission set up to look at Democratic delegate selection rules. The rule subsequently was adopted by the Democratic National Committee.

Earlier this month, the convention's rules committee, dominated by Carter supporters, recommended that the convention adopt rule F(3)c.

This will be the first Democratic convention to consider whether to adopt the rule.

The rule states that "All delegates to the National Convention shall be bound to vote for the presidential candidate whom they were elected to support for at least the first convention ballot, unless released in writing by the presidential candidate. Delegates who seek to violate this rule may be replaced with an alternate of the same presidential preference by the presidential candidate."

The actual battle will be fought not on the rule but on the substitute offered by supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Because it is a substitute, it must be voted on before the actual rule is considered.

The substitute would reinstate the rules that governed the 1976 convention. Those rules did not force delegates to vote for the candidate on whose slate they were chosen.

If the Kennedy-sponsored minority report is adopted, the battle is over. If it is rejected, a vote will occur on whether to adopt rule F(3)c. That vote, however, should be a formality with little, if any, change from the first vote.

Complicating the issue is that numerous states have laws requiring delegates to vote for the candidate on whose slate they are chosen.

Carter supporters contend these state laws could create a legal problem if an open convention occurs and delegates do not vote for their candidate. Kennedy supporters contend state laws never have been applied and do not apply to a national convention.

Shot At Pair Sounding Alarm

DETROIT (AP) — Two men who pounded on the front door of a home to alert the occupants to a nearby fire were wounded by shots fired through the door, city police said.

One of the injured men, Roy Gonzales, 36, was leaving a bar Tuesday when Jack Boyle, 52, came in and said he had spotted a garage on fire, according to Walter Michno, owner of the bar.

Gonzales and Boyle then went to the home and were shot, police said. Police Lt. Harry Nakoneczny said no charges had been filed against the man who fired the shots, who said he thought Gonzales and Boyle were burglars. The man's name was not released.

FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM GRIMESLAND — The Ladies Auxiliary of the White Oak Baptist Church in Grimesland will celebrate its Annual Fellowship Program on August 3 with the business session beginning at 11 a.m.

At 3 p.m. the Rev. Arlee Griffin and the congregation of the Cornerstone Baptist Church of Greenville will be in charge of the services. The public is invited to attend.

Funny Money in Bank Machine

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — Phony money isn't supposed to pop out of those automatic bank teller machines, but a Crocker National Bank patron says one machine gave her a bogus $20 bill.

Betty Lattie, a spokeswoman for Crocker, said Wednesday the bank is investigating the bill, a $1 bill with $20 markers pasted on the corners.

Cathy Curtis, 29, of San Leandro said she ordered $30 in cash from a branch machine Tuesday, using her instant cash card. Out popped a $10 and the bogus $20, she said.

"It's the first time time this has happened to my knowledge," Ms. Lattie said.

The automatic machines have been in operation for three years. Bank employees are supposed to check money before it is placed in the machines, Ms. Lattie said.

From Owens-Corning... a Fiberglas™ roofing shingle so tough that it's guaranteed into the 21st century.

When the warranty on most ordinary shingles has expired, the warranty on Owens-Corning's Fiberglas shingles still has years to run.

The reason? They're Fiberglas shingles. They won't absorb moisture. So they won't curl. Won't blister. Won't buckle.

And they've got 20 percent more weatherproofing material.

That's why they'll still be keeping your house dry, even when the 21st century has arrived. It says so right in Owens-Corning's remarkable limited warranty, which is prorated for the original owner on the basis of age and replacement cost. It also comes with a U.L. Class A rating—the very highest rating in the industry.

It's your house. It's your money. So speak up and ask for the shingle that lasts. And lasts. And then lasts some more.

China Population Growth Cut

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
PEKING (AP) — China's population growth rate was cut in half over an eight-year period, partly because of the availability of sterilizations and abortions, and some abortions were forced by over-zealous local authorities, a state family planning official says.

"State policy is opposed to forced abortions," Wang Liancheng, deputy secretary general of the China Family Planning Association, said in an interview.

"Our country is so big that it is not unusual that there are some forced abortions, but they are only isolated cases."

China with more than a billion people is the most populous country on earth. The communist regime has introduced a rigorous birth-control policy and set a goal of zero population growth by the year 2000.

In contrast to the old tradition of several sons per family so that aged parents would be taken care of, the government for the past year has emphasized the desirability of no more than one child to a family.

Wang said the population growth in 1979 was 11.7 per thousand, compared with 23.4 per thousand in 1971. About 17 million babies were born in China in 1979 he said, and in the same year 5 million abortions and an estimated 6 million to 7 million male and female sterilizations were performed. He would not estimate how many of the abortions were forced.

In the United States, which has a population of 220 million, an estimated 1.4 million abortions were performed in 1979. This was a rate of 6.5 per thousand, compared to about 5 per thousand in China.

Reports of coerced operations are not published in the controlled Chinese press but are in Hong Kong newspapers. In May, the independent Oriental Daily News there reported that 30 pregnant women in Shiqi province were hauled onto a truck and taken to a hospital for abortions.

Recent visitors to the southern province of Guangdong reported women with more than three children were forced to undergo abortions.

Penalties have also been reported in cases where women refused "persuasion" to have abortions. Officials at a horse commune in Sichuan said recently a peasant woman was fined $208 for refusing to abort her second child.

"That is not good," Wang said, but he added that some penalties are necessary "A person should not be fined for having a second child, only for having a third child."

Ga. Fla. Leaf Quality Better

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — The quality of offerings showed considerable improvement on Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets Wednesday, but grade prices changed little, market officials reported.

Sales at Georgia markets Wednesday totaled 2,487,347 pounds of tobacco for an price of $129.98 per hundred pounds, bringing the season totals to 22,219,134 pounds sold for $129.72 per hundredweight.

At Florida markets, 288,430 pounds sold Wednesday for $136.21 per hundred pounds. That brings the season total at Florida markets to 4,920,659 pounds at an average of $133.08 per hundredweight.

For the total market, 2,775,777 pounds sold Wednesday for an average of $130.63 per hundredweight, bringing the season total to 27,139,793 pounds and an average of $130.33.

Prices on most grades varied $1 to $4 per hundred pounds from Tuesday's sales, the federal-state Tobacco Market News Service said. However, a few grades of lower quality primings and nondescript tobacco suffered declines of $12 to $17.

Bids on some better quality tobacco topped out at $165 per hundred pounds, the news service said.

Offerings of better quality leaf and cutter grades increased, while lugs, primings and nondescript grades declined. Leaf (B) tobacco comprised a little more than 20 percent of auctions.

Volume continued to range from light to heavy.

On Tuesday, sales on the two-state belt totaled 3,942,909 pounds at an average of $134.11 per hundred. The average slipped $2.43 from Monday. Season sales rose to 24,364,016 pounds, averaging $130.29.

Stabilization Corp. receipts amounted to 13.6 percent of gross sales Tuesday and 12.8 percent of sales for the season.

Auction bid averages per hundred pounds on several U.S. grades Wednesday: B4F, $163, unchanged from Tuesday; B4KM, $155, down $3; C4KM, $155, up $2; X4F, $150, down $4; X4KM, $144, up $1; P4L, $120, up $1; P5F, $110, up $1; NIL, $87, down $13.

Denies Giving 'Wrong Blood'

By CAROL PHETHEAN
Associated Press Writer
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A nurse who allegedly administered the wrong type of blood to a cardiac patient has pleaded innocent to a charge of aggravated manslaughter in the patient's death.

Laura Winter, 31, was charged in the April death of Anna Murdryj, 52, at Beth Israel Hospital. Authorities contend Mrs. Murdryj, who had Type B blood, died two days after Ms. Winter allegedly gave her a transfusion of Type A blood.

An indictment issued Tuesday also alleged that Ms. Winter tried to hide or destroy used blood bags and other evidence.

Ms. Winter pleaded innocent on Wednesday before Superior Court Judge Nicholas Scalera. She was released on $5,000 bond.

"Our position is that she didn't do it. The state will have to prove that she did," said Thomas P. Ford, the nurse's lawyer.

Mrs. Murdryj, a divorced mother of two, had undergone open-heart surgery and had received a new heart valve in two earlier operations, court papers said.

After a third operation, on April 22, she was placed in a room in the cardiac care unit that had been occupied by a patient scheduled to receive a Type A blood transfusion, according to a hospital spokeswoman who asked not to be identified.

The indictment said that instead of giving Mrs. Murdryj the blood plasma she was supposed to receive, Ms. Winter allegedly gave her the blood already in the room.

Within hours of the alleged transfusion, Mrs. Murdryj became ill. She died shortly after midnight on April 24, the hospital spokeswoman said.

An autopsy showed Type A blood in the patient's body. The state contends that she died as a result of her body's reaction to the transfusion.

The former occupant of Mrs. Murdryj's room did receive the proper Type A transfusion from the hospital's blood bank, the spokeswoman said.

Ms. Winter was suspended immediately after hospital officials began investigating the incident and was fired in May, said the spokeswoman.

No trial date has been set, but Essex County Prosecutor Donald Coburn said proceedings will probably begin in the fall.

If convicted, Ms. Winter faces a maximum 20-year prison term and a $100,000 fine.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

No one will dispute the soundness of the doctrine that the place for an ace is on the king. It is our experience that too many players pointlessly refuse to win tricks while the taking is good. Unless there is a clear-cut reason why you shouldn't win a trick, our advice is to take your tricks where you find them, and keep taking them in rapid succession.

However, there are a number of occasions when it isn't right to win a trick, even at the cost of a trick! That might involve saving your ace to capture a deuce rather than a king. Consider today's hand.

South chose to open three no trump even though, technically, he is a point short of the requirements for that action. But we are not inclined to quibble with a player who, when the spirit moves him, exercises poetic license to the extent of one jack. In addition, he had considerable safety, for his wealth of controls would mesh quite nicely with any stray values he might find in partner's hand.

West made his normal opening lead of the queen of clubs. Since there was no good reason to hold up, declarer won the king. To come to nine tricks, he obviously had to develop the diamond suit, so at trick two he banged down the king of diamonds.

There was a great temptation on West's part to win the ace—after all, that way he would certainly have assured himself of two tricks in the suit. Fortunately, West was thinking in terms of the whole hand, rather than just one trick. He was unsporting enough to try to defeat the contract!

He realized that, if he won the first diamond trick, declarer would be able to duck the second diamond and thus be able to score, in all, three diamond tricks. So West sacrificed a trick by ducking the first diamond, holding up the ace until the third round of the suit. Now dummy was dead and the sacrificed trick returned with interest when declarer was held to eight tricks.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Can Sue Husband For Chore Neglect BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court says a woman can sue her husband if he slips and falls on an icy sidewalk that he has failed to shovel and sand.

The unanimous ruling Wednesday sent the case of Shirley Brown vs. William P. Brown back for trial in a lower court where it was dismissed last year.

At that time, Superior Court Judge George J. Hayer had dismissed the suit on grounds that the old common law rule prohibiting husbands and wives from suing each other applied in Mrs. Brown's claim.

But the high court said it was time to change the "antediluvian assumptions concerning the role and status of women in marriage" which led to the development of the legal principle that husband and wife were one person and could not sue each other.

The court said its own 1976 decision allowing a woman to sue her husband for injuries suffered in an auto accident had opened the way for the first time in Massachusetts for lawsuits between spouses.

Noting that other states allow spouses to sue each other in certain types of accident claims, the court said Mrs. Brown should at least get a chance to prove her case in court.

Mrs. Brown slipped and broke two pelvic bones while walking from her Wakefield home to a driveway, according to court papers. Her husband had left home an hour earlier, 7 a.m., to go to his construction job in Boston.

Her $35,000 suit claimed Brown was "careless and negligent in his maintenance" of the walks and failed to leave them in a safe condition for his wife.

Brown's lawyers said it was unreasonable to expect a husband leaving for work that early to stop and take care of the sidewalks.

They said the state's equal rights amendment made the wife equally liable for the care of the property, and it would be "sex-based" and illegal to make the husband solely responsible.

ABC Close To Dismantling One New Success In Series Dispute

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC has come close to dismantling one of its few new successes, "Benson," in a dispute with series star Robert Guillaume.

Guillaume has refused to show up for work on the series, which is now idled anyway by the Screen Actors Guild and American Federation of TV and Radio Artists strike. He is angry, his agent says, because of the "treatment he has been getting" from ABC and Wilt-Thomas-Harris Productions, which makes "Benson."

Although money is part of the dispute, says agent Phil Margo, "it is largely a question of treatment. All we are after is parity and what's fair. We aren't asking for something other people don't get ... just certain things that a man who's reached the point Robert has should have."

Margo would not elaborate. But it is said that Guillaume asked ABC for a movie package, a benefit often given by grateful networks to stars of successful series.

"But they (ABC) would like you to think it's just a marginal show," says Margo.

Indeed, "Benson" was not a Top 10 show for ABC last season, but few of that network's series were. In a season in which ABC saw its prime time dominance evaporate, "Benson" was a solid performer, finishing in the top one-third of the Nielsen ratings.

Only two of the series introduced by ABC last fall are on the 1980-81 schedule — "Hart to Hart" and "Benson."

Neither ABC nor Wilt-Thomas-Harris would comment on the Guillaume situation.

There is supposedly a search for a new "Benson" being conducted, with Ben Vereen and Louis Gossett Jr. being mentioned as possible replacements for Guillaume. But it's not likely that Guillaume will be replaced.

ABC can't afford to lose any more successes. Just two weeks ago, Ron Howard announced that he was leaving ABC and "Happy Days" for NBC, where he was promised the chance (that ABC wouldn't give him) to direct and produce movies.

Then last week, Hollywood reporter Rona Barrett, who has helped ABC's "Good Morning America" make it, announced that she was leaving ABC for NBC.

And now "Benson." The show couldn't survive Guillaume's loss, and ABC needs the show.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUG. 1, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may want to make some startling changes now but take a few moments out to think deeply and decide whether or not the changes will be beneficial in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study every angle of a new project you have in mind and then act carefully. Take no risks where your reputation is concerned.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy at those chores ahead of you early in the day so you'll have more time for pleasant activities later. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of an overly dynamic acquaintance and seek company of persons who have more poise. Use common sense.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take it easy if confronted with an annoying situation and use diplomacy instead of forcefulness for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may want to run off to new interests, but it's best to complete current tasks. Be more encouraging to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It's to your interest to keep promises you have made. Avoid a co-worker who is confused and could get you in trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to have greater income in the days ahead. Concentrate on how you can be more productive in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at regular routines and complete what you have started. Make practical plans for the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Others could be pressuring you to do things you don't like, so be more resolute in carrying out your wishes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do nothing that could upset conditions at home. Not a good day to start a new project. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know your true position in a financial matter before going ahead with future plans. Use care in motion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make constructive plans that could give you added income in the days ahead. Take steps to improve your health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be very ambitious, so give the best education you can afford in preparation for a most successful life. Religious training is important early in life. Teach to work with hands. One who will be fine in sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Settling Mideast Disputes With Bullet In Brain

By JEFFREY ULBRICH
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Men with hazy Mideast connections are prowling the streets of Western capitals settling political disputes on behalf of their employers with the ultimate argument — a bullet in the brain.

Three assassination attempts this month, two of them successful, have focused world attention on bloody internal conflicts in two major Middle Eastern regimes, Iran and Syria.

And French officials are enraged because their nation's tradition as a land of asylum is being used to make it a base for violent reprisals — including last week's shooting of former Syrian Premier Salah Eddin al-Bitar, an opponent of the Damascus government, and the attempt two weeks ago to kill former Iranian Premier Shapur Bakhtiar, an opponent of the late shah and Iran's revolutionary regime.

The battle is not confined to France. Ali Tabatabai, a vocal opponent of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, died from an assassin's bullet in a Washington suburb July 22. Earlier, opponents of the Libyan regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy were slain in London, Bonn and Rome.

Palestinians, Israelis, Armenians, Iraqis and others also have settled political differences with guns and bombs in European streets. "France must be and continue to be a land of asylum," President Valery Giscard d'Estaing said after the attacks in July. "On the other hand, France will not serve as a base for foreign citizens seeking to organize or undertake actions of violence."

Khadafy and officials in Iran and Syria have made no secret of their desire to eliminate exiled opponents, but no government or group has claimed responsibility for the most recent violence. In the growing dispute between Iran and Iraq, both nations have exchanged charges of assassination attempts.

French police and Interior Ministry officials greet questioners with stony silence when asked about the possibility of more assassination teams in France and what action is being taken by French authorities.

Britain, its Arab population of 100,000 swollen by tens of thousands of Iranians, has indicated a willingness to get tough — sending crack commandos to end the takeover in April at the Iranian Embassy in London, and expelling Libya's chief representative.

Police and intelligence sources in Britain now believe there are "some" assassins sent by Khadafy in London, but say the level of intimidation by Libyans has declined.

Officials in other European capitals and in the United States either deny knowledge of political assassins in their nations or refuse comment. But there is fear in the exile communities that the wave of retribution is far from over.

A leading Syrian opposition figure claimed this week he had information that secret Syrian agents are in Paris, Geneva, London, Berlin and Vienna "to liquidate opponents of the Damascus regime." Bakhtiar has consistently claimed that the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's government has hired professional killers worldwide to silence opponents.

In Paris, an Iranian source who opposes Khomeini's rule estimated that of the 60,000 to 90,000 people believed to have been working for Savak — the Iranian secret police under the late shah — at least 40,000 are operating for the revolutionary regime.

The source, who asked anonymity, said each embassy under the shah had a team of toughs and killers who harassed dissident exiles — saying the teams are now at work on different targets.

There was no way to independently confirm his statements. Many of the top leaders of Savak were executed after the Iranian revolution.

At least three of the five men arrested in the attempt on Bakhtiar have claimed to be Palestinians. The Iranian source, noting Savak once had headquarters in Amman, Jordan and Beirut, Lebanon, speculated the killers were hired in Beirut or Amman.

French press reports have quoted police sources as saying the leader of the attack on Bakhtiar claimed to be a member of the Palestinian organization Al Fatah, and was hired by Iranian officials.

The Palestine Liberation Organization has denied it had anything to do with the assassination attempt. Relations between the PLO and the revolutionary regime have always been close.

Iran's Islamic Judge Sheikh Sadegh Khalkhali, who has said assassins had been hired to kill opponents of the Khomeini regime, has denied his agents tried to kill Bakhtiar. Iranian opposition sources are inclined to believe Ayatollah Mohammed Behesti is behind the latest attempts to stifle opposition.

No arrests have been made in the killing of Bitar. But Arab sources point to a statement by Lt. Col. Rifaat Assad, brother of the Syrian president: "We know where they are locally, in the Arab world and internationally. We shall hunt them out to kill opponents, calling them 'thieves, corrupt businessmen, spies for the enemies. That is why our revolutionary committees persecute them.'"

In Washington, two men were arrested after Tabatabai's killing, and a third man was being sought.

Meanwhile, officials in Britain and France vowed violence would be quelled.

"If we don't get tough — and stay tough — these people will keep using London as a battlefield for their blood feuds," said one top official at Scotland Yard who asked not to be identified.

And said French Interior Minister Christian Bonnet: "I say it without anger, but with resolution: France, land of asylum for true refugees who vow to stay, will not become a land welcome for murderers."

TARGETS FOR ASSASSINS — These three were targets of assassins this month, only the attempt on former Iran Premier Shapur Bakhtiar (at right) failed.

Former Syrian Premier Salah Eddin al-Bitar (left) was shot fatally Monday, and Ali Tabatabai (center) was killed July 22. (AP Lasserphoto)

Propose Step To Broaden View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visitors may soon find it easier to view the nation's capital from its best vantage point — the top of the Washington Monument.

After a $22,000 study, the National Park Service has proposed doubling the monument's window area to make it easier for children and handicapped persons to see. The monument's existing eight windows, two on each side, are designed for the sight line of adults, and viewing for many of the 1.6 million tourists who visit the 555-foot-high obelisk each year is difficult. The Park Service, in a plan presented to the federal Fine Arts Commission on Tuesday, would double the height of the windows to 3 feet, 3 inches. The Park Service said it has not yet estimated the total cost of the project.
