Poland's Strikers Seek Big Changes

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — The strike in a three-city industrial area on Poland's Baltic coast blocked shipping in the nation's largest seaports today, and a special government commission arrived to begin negotiations with strike leaders demanding sweeping changes.

"Many enterprises in the tri-city are on strike, including the ports of Gdansk and Gdynia," the official Gdansk Radio said. "There is, therefore, no movement of ships. There will be no arrivals or departures of ships with the white and red (Polish) flag."

Nevertheless, a Polish ferry sailed as usual from Karlskrona, Sweden, to Gdynia, with no plans of limiting service, a company spokesman said.

Edward Gierke, the Polish Communist Party leader, made a nationally televised speech promising general pay raises but ruling out any compromise on the workers' political demands.

"There are limits that must not be overstepped by anyone. These limits are marked by Poland's reason for being," he said in his 20-minute address. He also said pay increases "must be spread out over a period of time" to avoid further damaging the country's struggling economy.

Gierke postponed a trip to West Germany, where he had been expected to ask for economic aid, as the crisis deepened.

A commission headed by Deputy Prime Minister Tadeusz Pyka was expected to meet with a 13-member negotiating committee representing all the strikers in Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot, dissident sources said.

They said the workers' committee was headquartered in the giant V.I. Lenin Shipyard here, occupied by as many as 16,000 workers since Thursday, and that it issued 16 demands in the name of all strikers in the area. They said 30 enterprises had joined the strike.

The demands included an increase in average monthly wage from the current $170 to $236 to compensate for meat price hikes, meat rationing to stabilize the market, liquidation of special shops for the police and Communist Party officials, guarantees of the right to strike and establish free trade unions, freedom of expression, abolition of censorship, and release of all political prisoners.

The strike-bound region 200 miles north of Warsaw has a population of 700,000, including some 200,000 workers. Although the actual number of strikers was not known, at least 80,000 workers were reported affected.

In addition to shutting down the ports and the Lenin Shipyard, Poland's biggest, whose workers average $267 a month in wages, the walkouts idled most refinery operations and transportation in Gdansk, a factory in Gdynia that manufactures electric equipment for ships and other plants in the area.

Gdansk Radio said the provincial government banned the sale of fuel for private vehicles because of stoppages at the Gdansk refinery.

Nearly 'Worst In History'

Economy Sees Gloomy Quarter

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's economy plunged at an annual rate of 9 percent from April through June, nearly the worst quarterly drop in history, the government said today.

The Commerce Department also reported that corporate profits fell precipitously during the second quarter, as the nation's economy felt the full force of the recession.

The 9 percent decline in inflation-adjusted Gross National Product — the total value of goods and services — was only slightly better than the 9.1 preliminary figure released last month.

The worst quarterly fall ever occurred during the depths of the last recession when GNP plummeted a record 9.1 percent.

A Commerce Department economist called Tuesday's revision "insignificant."

Last month, when the preliminary figures were announced, the department's chief economist Courtney Slater said: "The 1980 recession struck with full force during the second quarter, causing large declines in production and employment."

On Monday, the government reported that housing starts rose 4.8 percent to an annual rate of 1.266 million units in July. That follows a revised 33 percent jump in June.

Before then, housing starts had fallen to a 906,000 annual pace, just about half the rate for all of last year.

Despite the improvement, last month's pace was 28 percent below the annual rate in July 1979. For the first seven months of 1980, starts are off 36 percent from the same period last year, the Commerce Department said.

Moreover, the housing recovery is "built on a flimsy foundation," said Kenneth Thygeson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

Added Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders: "The upturn will be nipped in the bud if mortgage rates don't stop rising."

Those rates have jumped from as low as 11.5 percent to about 13.5 percent in some housing markets. That means about $90 more a month on a $60,000, 30-year mortgage.

"And over the next several months, interest rates are more likely to go up than down," added Eckstein.

This will be caused by sharp increases in the supply of money; new fears of inflation due to an upsurge in wholesale prices; and evidence that while the recession is not over, the steepest economic decline is past.

"We anticipate a slow, arduous recovery — far different from the housing upturn after the last recession," said Ken Kerin, an economist for the National Association of Realtors.

Sumichrast estimated the high rates could cut housing starts by 50,000 for the remainder of this year and another 100,000 in 1981.

Pitt Board, Hospital Trustees Meet

Hospital Administrative Pay Talked

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners

yesterday met with members of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital to resolve differences in the medical facility's proposed budget, adopted three new ordinances dealing with multi-family dwellings, flood damage prevention and soil erosion and sedimentation control, and approved the purchase of more than $17,500 worth of equipment to set up a shop to handle routine printing needs of county departments and agencies.

Commissioners scheduled yesterday's meeting with members of the hospital's board of trustees after failing to approve the medical facility's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year. The prime concern about the budget involved salary increases proposed for administrative personnel.

Commissioner Charles Gaskins set the tone of the meeting by saying the board wanted to know, "how you arrived at the salaries of the administrative group?"

Trustee chairman Harry Leslie explained that salaries for administrative personnel represented the mid-point of the range of salaries paid by other 400 to 500 bed hospitals in the two Carolinas. It was, "on this basis," that the salaries of the senior people were set, he noted.

Commissioner R. L. "Bob" Martin noted that, "for the last three years," trustees have increased the salaries of administrative employees at the hospital a greater percentage than county employees have been increased. In fact, Martin noted, "since 1976," commissioners, and some hospital board members, "have not been advised of increases for administrative personnel."

It's a matter of cooperation," Martin added.

Trustee Glen Strickland asked, "What do you want us to do?"

Commission chairman Ed Warren responded, "Stay in line. Stay in line with what the county is doing."

Martin pointed out that some administrative salaries in the proposed budget would increase 14 percent, as compared with a 10 percent pay hike granted county employees.

Martin also said another concern is the feeling of some commissioners and some hospital board members that attempts have been made to cover up increases in administrative salaries.

"I've just told you my two concerns," Martin emphasized.

Leslie explained that, "anything taken before the executive committee (which along with the finance committee usually sets the pay of administrative employees), goes before the full board for approval."

However, he added that, "administrative salaries are not discussed in open session," but rather in meetings closed to the press and the public.

"It would allay some of the fears," Martin suggested, if all business were conducted in open meetings.

Following the discussion, trustees agreed to hold the total administrative salary increases to 10 percent for the coming year, with the understanding that some administrative staff members might receive more than 10 percent and others less than 10 percent.

Leslie noted that in the future, trustees will, "review with commissioners," administrative staff salaries before the final budget is proposed.

The multi-family dwelling ordinance adopted yesterday is designed to regulate and guide the development of

PLO Base In Lebanon Attacked By Israeli On Large-Scale Raid

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Helicopter-borne Israeli commandos struck into southern Lebanon overnight in their biggest attack against Palestinian bases in 2½ years, and as many as 50 guerrillas were reported killed. Israel reported three dead among its soldiers.

The large-scale raid against four Palestinian strongholds set off an artillery duel between Israeli-backed Lebanese Christian militiamen and Palestinian defenders at an 11th-century Crusader castle just north of the Israeli border. That fighting was reported still continuing at mid-day.

Both Israeli Prime

Minister Menachem Begin and Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat inspected opposite sides of the border battlefield, coming within a few miles of each other.

Israeli officials said troops and warplanes from three commands were used in the attack, launched Monday night. It was the third raid on guerrilla bases in Lebanon within one week.

Officials in Tel Aviv said between 40 and 50 Palestinian fighters were killed. The PLO reported only 12 dead and 14 wounded, and Lebanese provincial authorities put the PLO death toll at 20, with 25 others wounded.

The PLO claimed two Israeli commandos were killed and at least 28 wounded. The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv later said three of its men were killed and 12 wounded.

Authorities said the raids touched off an artillery battle between Lebanese Christian forces and PLO guerrillas at Beaufort Castle, an ancient fort built by French Crusaders about five miles north of the Israeli border.

The cliff-top fortress has been used as a Palestinian artillery platform.

Lebanese officials said the Christian forces advanced on the castle after four Israeli warplanes attacked the ancient fortification with rockets and bombs. Lebanese radio said Israeli fighter jets flew over Beirut, 50 miles north of the border.

Anderson Bidding For Support In Washington

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Seeking to pick up the support of disaffected Democrats and worried that he will be excluded from the first presidential debates this fall, John B. Anderson abruptly canceled part of his campaign schedule today and was to return to Washington.

The independent presidential candidate scheduled meetings in Washington with two prominent congressional Democrats, Les Aspin of Wisconsin and Shirley Chisholm of New York.

It was not clear if either would announce their support for Anderson's sagging independent effort to challenge President Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Aspin was a firm supporter of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and served as Wisconsin state coordinator for the senator's unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In addition, campaign sources said Anderson and Mitchell Rogovin, the campaign lawyer, and strategist David Garth would seek new ways to assure Anderson's admission to the first televised debate, tentatively set for Sept. 18 in Baltimore. His participation is considered critical by senior campaign aides.

The League of Women Voters, which is sponsoring the debate, has said Anderson must have a 15 percent average among the major public opinion polls to be invited. Sources said the campaign would propose that the average date back to include polls taken during the early summer and spring. Anderson began running as an independent April 24, and his standing in the polls first rose to as high as about 23 percent.

Crossed Center Line, Collided

ACCIDENT INJURES SEVEN — A Monday afternoon accident on Evans Street, 274 feet south of the Deck Street intersection left seven persons injured. According to Greenville police investigators, a car driven by Rosa Murchison, of Rt. 10, Greenville was headed south on Evans Street, when it collided with a northbound car driven by Linda Parham, of 1210 Oakview Rd. Officers said the Murchison vehicle then traveled on to collide with another auto driven by Annie Barnes of 210 Woodside Rd. Officers said Ms. Murchison apparently fell asleep at the wheel, crossed the center line and collided head-on with the Parham vehicle. Six persons in the Parham auto including the driver were reported injured, as well as Ms. Murchison. Mrs. Parham was listed in satisfactory condition at Pitt County Memorial Hospital this morning, and the others injured were reported treated and released. Damage was estimated at $2,000 to the Murchison vehicle, $3,000 to the Parham auto and $1,500 to the Barnes auto. Mrs. Murchison, according to investigators, was charged with traveling left of center. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Pat's Pointers The Jiffy- Quick Afghan For You

SCULPTURED. . . '80s afghan recalls a classic pattern going back to the 17th century.

Knit a jiffy-quick afghan in an updated version of an ancient Diamond Brocade stitch. For the bold sculptured look of the '80s, it is worked with large (size 35) knitting needles using four strands of knitting worsted weight yarn. The stitch is a simple combination of knits and purls.

In earlier days, it was one of the patterns used in a vest, knitted in blue silk threads, for King Charles I of England, who wore it on the day of his execution in 1649. The original vest is now in a London museum.

To obtain the directions for making the Diamond Brocade Afghan, send your request for Leaflet No. JY-20 with $1.00 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Pat Trexler, "The Jaily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582. Or, you may order Kit No. JY-20, by sending check or money order for $25.00 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Kit contains instruction leaflet plus 15 skeins of yarn in your choice of off-white, beige, rust, light gold, avocado, soft yellow, light or medium blue. If you need the size 35 needles, send an additional $3.50.

DEAR PAT: As one becomes experienced in anything, one usually finds short cuts for the more tedious jobs. This, of course, is true of knitting and crocheting.

When you are knitting a long, straight piece for a specific number of inches before beginning armhole or other shaping, it is a nuisance to keep measuring the piece frequently.

So, with a yarn needle threaded with contrasting yarn, I make a row of running stitches every five inches from the hemline. Then, I can estimate at a glance how much farther I have to work before starting the shaping. This has been a real time saver for me. — Naomi R.,

Denver, Colo.

DEAR PAT: As an ardent reader of your column, I keep hoping to see an explanation of the duplicate stitch in knitting, but so far, no luck. — VICKY G., Pittsburgh, Pa.

DEAR VICKY: In looking back in my files, I find that it has been years since I have explained this, so you are probably not alone in wanting this information.

The duplicate stitch is actually an embroidery stitch, worked with contrasting yarn over a knitted stitch, giving the appearance of a knitted-in design. To achieve this effect, use a tapestry needle threaded with the contrasting yarn. Bring the needle up through the base of a knitted stitch from the wrong side.

Then, with the right side of the work facing you, pass the needle under the bottom of the loops of the stitch just above and, finally, insert the needle back into the base of the stitch where you started, this time going in from the right side and coming out on the wrong side.

If you are doing it correctly, the embroidered stitch will look just like the knitted stitch just below it.

If you like the elaborate look of Scandinavian ski sweaters or Fair Isle sweaters, but do not care to knit with more than one color at a time, duplicate stitch is a good solution. You can use any Scandinavian, Fair Isle or argyle chart with this stitch to brighten up any solid color sweater.

Or, use needlepoint and cross-stitch charts and embroider butterflies, roses, monograms or almost any design at all on a basic sweater to make it uniquely your own. You can even make duplicate stitch designs on a ready-made sweater if you can find a similar weight yarn.

For Shoplifters

ASTON, Pa. (AP) — As back-to-school shopping begins to pick up, so does back-to-school shoplifting. And shoplifters who are caught here may land in Lawrence A. Conner's special school, Shoplifters Anonymous, where they learn "shoplifting is stupid."

Founded three years ago in conjunction with Delaware County courts, the school is designed to give nonviolent first offenders an alternative to court fines or prison.

Conner, 53, started the program after a friend's son was caught stealing an eight-track tape and faced the prospect of going to jail.

"With all the back-to-school sales the stores are running now, the rate of shoplifting does pick up," Conner said. People arrested now could be scheduled for Conner's class in the fall and winter.

Anyone arrested in the county for stealing items valued at less than $150 has the option of enrolling for the six-hour course on the impact of shoplifting.

Shoplifters Anonymous has handled 835 people, and only five were caught shoplifting again after completing the course.

The "students" range from "executives to janitors; they are schoolteachers; they work in banks; some are wealthy, and others on welfare," Conner said.

Why did they do it? The typical answer, Conner says, is: "The little bit I'm taking won't hurt the store," or "the store made plenty of money off me in the past."

At Shoplifters Anonymous, Conner explains that shoplifting means increased prices for everyone since retailers recoup losses through higher markups.

And students participate in "role-reversal" sessions in which each of them assumes the role of manager of a store that is losing merchandise to shoplifters.

"We steal from them and keep stealing from them until they get angry," Conner said. "They get so wrapped up in it they forget where they are and why they're there."

"I think the program is successful because you can reason with these people and show them the error of their ways."

"When we get through, they don't leave here necessarily saying that shoplifting is dishonest or illegal; they leave here reaching the conclusion that shoplifting is stupid," Conner said.

Storyteller To Be At Picnic Program

Sheppard Memorial Library will present the storyteller, Louise Anderson, on Wednesday from 6:30-7:30 p.m. at Jaycee Park. Anderson will be the center of a picnic planned for 6-8 p.m.

Anderson's repertoire includes African folk tales, black poetry, history, ghost stories and many stories from her own imagination. Her original stories are tales like Annosi, Sammy Racer, Garden Eden Slick and Kareem J. MacAdoo. The storyteller is from Jacksonville, where she has worked for the Onslow County Library in the children's outreach program. She learned the art of satorytelling when she was growing up, and began public speaking by writing and reading poetry in churches and in civic groups. For many years she directed the pageant "It Is Time To Tell The Children."

The picnic and the performance are sponsored by Sheppard Memorial Library and the city and county Community Schools Program. There is no admission fee, but families are to bring their own food and drinks. In case of rain, the picnic will be held inside the East Branch Library building.

Rule Suicide In Death Of Man

Suicide has been ruled in the Monday death of a 58-year-old Rt. 3, Ayden man whose body was found in a tobacco barn on his farm by his wife.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Dr. David H. Hollander, medical examiner on call Monday, ruled that Marvin Ray Williams died of a self inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

Sheriff Tyson noted that a .22 caliber rifle was apparently used in the suicide. He added that the barn where Williams was found is located approximately 100 yards from the family residence.

The incident was reported to the Sheriff's Department at 7:08 p.m.

Williams farmed in the Rt. 3, Ayden area.

BICYCLIST INJURED — Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad give emergency care to a bicyclist injured yesterday when he collided with a car about 300 feet east of Jarvis and E. First Street. According to officers, the bicyclist was listed as 11 year old Anthony Tony English, of 801 E. Third St., who was headed west on First Street, when he attempted to cross the street, and collided with a car driven by Sandra Jean Lewis, of 1311A Willow St. Officers said the youngster, who is a carrier for "The Daily Reflector", was injured and transported to Pitt Memorial Hospital. There were no charges made in the 2:45 p.m. accident. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Moeller Is Named Pres-Elect

H.G. "Gus" Moeller, professor of corrections at East Carolina University, was recently elected to the position of president-elect of the American Correctional Association.

The association is the national professional association representing correctional professionals and persons interested in correctional problems. The ten thousand member organization based in College Park, Md. created standards, does research, demonstrates new programs, and takes part in the legislative process throughout the nation where it affects correctional programs.

Moeller, who retired as deputy director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons in 1970, becomes a member of the executive committee and the board of governors of the association this month at its annual meeting.

He has been a member of the ACA since 1939. He served as Congress program chairman in 1963 and is currently a member of the delegate assembly and vice-chairman of the ACA Publications Board. He is on the executive committee of the Commission on Accreditation for Corrections and was chairman of the group from 1976-78.

Moeller was a 1976 recipient of the E.R. Cass Award, which is considered the highest tribute the ACA can bestow upon a member.

WINS POETRY AWARD

RALEIGH — Jane Frisell of Greenville won the first place award for poetry at the recent Tar Heel Writers Roundtable competition. She received a silver trophy for her poem, "Sons of Janus."

Frisell has had articles published in such publications as the Christian Science Monitor, Aim, and The Churchman. She is a member of the creative writing class at Pitt Community College.

Over 150 poems had been submitted in the competition.

Court Refuses To Extend Closing Ban

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has refused to extend a temporary injunction that had prevented the Sampson County Board of Education from closing down three schools.

Three school patrons have sued the board, contending that shutting down the schools would result in "irreparable harm."

The board has announced plans to close Turkey Elementary School, Garland High School and Clement High School.

The board contended that the Turkey and Garland schools are in a poor state of repair and noted that the two high schools are small. They noted that the Garland school had only 17 graduates this year and the Clement school less than 50.

The board also argued that the two high schools offered less than half the number of courses offered by the county's four other public high schools, each of which has an enrollment of about 500 students.

But opponents of the school closings packed three public hearings which the board held on the issue. Every speaker at each hearing opposed the closings.

Judge Bradford Tillery heard arguments in the case last Monday and announced his decision Friday afternoon.

Plaintiffs in the case have 10 days in which to appeal the decision to the state

Court of Appeals. However, the board said it would proceed with the closing of the schools.

It was the second injunction to be filed this summer against the board in the battle to prevent the three schools from being closed.

The first injunction was issued when school patrons complained that a public hearing on the issue had not been properly advertised. That round in the battle ended when the board agreed to advertise the hearings.

Fieldcrest Scholarship For Six Local Students

Six Greenville area students are among the 175 children of Fieldcrest Mills employees who have been awarded educational grants-in-aid from the Fieldcrest Foundation this year.

James Daniel Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Manning, received a four-year scholarship for $6,000. He plans to attend East Carolina University.

Grant recipients are Vickie Lynn Cannon, daughter of Mrs. Bettie Cannon of Greenville, who will attend the University of North Carolina at Greensboro; Dalton Earl Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ellis Jr. of Ayden, who will attend Pitt Community College; Lynette Harris, daughter of Mrs. Ida M. Harris of Farmville, who will attend East Carolina University; Carrie Lynn Hemby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prince Edward Hemby of Greenville, who will attend Pitt Community College; Renee A. Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rodgers of Farmville, who will attend East Carolina University; and Teresa Ann Williams, daughter of Mrs. Martha Williams of Greenville, who will attend Winston-Salem State University. The grants are given on a yearly basis and must be renewed annually.

Each of these students has at least one parent working in Fieldcrest's Greenville plants. All the North Carolina and Virginia recipients and their parents were honored at one of two luncheons held in Eden Aug. 4 and 11.

Since its beginning in 1960, through the calendar year 1979, the Fieldcrest Foundation has contributed $5,006,000 for aid to education and various charitable causes. The total to be contributed this calendar year is $221,125.

Some 14 scholarships and 92 new grants were awarded this year. Eighty-three grants were renewed.

Vows Solemnized In Garden Ceremony

Miss Sandra Kay Williams became the bride of Paul Thomas LoCastro at 11 a.m. Saturday in a garden ceremony held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rogers, Greenville.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Earl Heath of Farmville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor LoCastro of Snow Hill.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bill Leary of Wilson. A program of nuptial music was presented by Alane LoCastro, pianist of Snow Hill, sister of the bridegroom, and John Benson of Greenville, guitarist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of organza over satin fashioned with a sheer scoop neckline, bishop sleeves ending in a cuff and empire bodice. The dress had embroidered lace around the neckline, sleeves and skirt. The chapel length train was of organza with embroidered lace around the edge and was attached at the empire waist. Her illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of lace daisies. The three tiered veil was edged in embroidered lace. The veil was made by her aunt, Mrs. Corrinne Beddard of Winterville. The bride wore a diamond ring which belonged to her late great grandmother, Mrs. Hubert Horton of Williamston. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and blue carnations with yellow daisies and baby's breath interspersed over a white open Bible. The bible was a gift of the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Chris Schlotterback of Snow Hill.

MRS. PAUL THOMAS LOCASTRO

The bridegroom's sister, Alyssia LoCastro of Snow Hill, was honor attendant. She wore a full length empire gown of light blue dotted swiss. The neckline was enhanced with a ruffle which formed cape-like sleeves. The dress was accented with white and blue lace with blue ribbon entwined at the waist and the top of the ruffle at the hemline. The dress was created by her mother. She wore a light blue wide brim hat with bow and streamers and carried a nosegay of silk mixed flowers like the bride's.

Angie Cannon of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore a light blue dotted swiss full length dress which was enhanced with a ruffled neckline, short puff sleeves and a ruffle at the bottom. A white satin sash tied at the waistline. She carried a spring basket of mixed flowers. The dress was made by her great grandmother, Mrs. Russell L. Tripp.

The bridegroom's father was man and ushers were John Ard of Greenville and Charles Little of Winterville.

Mrs. Heath chose a street length dress of dark blue with a corsage of blue and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother selected a street length wrap styled orchid dress with a side ruffle. She wore pink and white carnations. Grandmothers, Mrs. Russell L. Tripp and Mrs. Chris Schlotterback, were given white carnation corsages.

Mrs. Jerry Cox presided at the guest register and Mrs. Beddard directed the wedding. Both are aunts of the bride.

A reception was given following the ceremony by the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Tripp of Greenville.

Evening Wedding Performed

WHITNEL — Robin Renee Hollar and Eric Conrad Loy were united in marriage Saturday at seven o'clock at the Central Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Kincaid.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marilyn Wallace Hollar of Hudson and Mr. Ned Albert Hollar of Lenoir. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ursula Loy of Washington, N. C. and the late Mr. William H. Loy Jr.

A program of wedding music was provided by Melvin Hines, organist, of Lenoir, Kim Hawkins, soloist, James K. Flynn, guitarist and soloist, and Mary Jo White, flutist.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace over taffeta. The bodice was designed with a Queen Anne neckline fashioned with re-embroidered chantilly lace and seed pearls. The full skirt had a large flounce ruffle in the front that extended into a chapel length train. The back of the gown had four grand tiers of lace layers. The long lace sleeves ended in lace cuffs. The bride wore a two-tiered fingertip veil of matching lace attached to a caplet of lace and baby's breath accented with a white feather and white streamers.

Penny Hollar, sister of the bride from Hudson, was maid of honor. She wore a wine formal length gown. The bodice was designed with spaghetti straps and off the shoulder blousy sleeves that ended at the elbows. The skirt was complemented with a tie bow with a wrap around skirt on the top layer. She carried an arm bouquet containing a single pink rose accented with a pink bow and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Del Hunt of Estes Park, Colo., and Mary Jo White of Greenville. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried single pink roses.

William H. Loy III of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jimmy Rutledge of Tryon, Neal Vann of Cary, James K. Flynn of Raleigh and Michael Wallace, cousin of the bride, of Lenoir.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Albert P. Hollar and her aunts, Mrs. Gary Winkler and Mrs. Wayne Parson in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. William Loy III assisted with the cake-cutting. Cousins of the bride, Vicky and Kim Parson, poured punch. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Earl Rountree of Sunbury, attended the guest register.

After a wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains, the couple will reside in Jekyll Island, Ga.

The bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Appalachian State University and is employed with WPIQ Radio Station, Brunswick, Ga. The bride is a recent graduate of East Carolina University. She has a bachelor of music degree in music education and music therapy.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's mother at the Holiday Inn in Lenoir prior to the rehearsal.

BPW Club Has Program

The Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club held its meeting at the Ramada Inn Thursday. A program on "Leadership" was presented by Vice President Dena Harrell.

The new budget was adopted and plans were made for attending the area meeting in Goldsboro.

The trouble with me is I've never had a lifetime goal. My goals last for about 15 minutes/whenever I get hungry ... whichever comes first.

A few years ago, I promised myself that every September I would enroll in something to improve myself. Last year it was Bread Baking I and Slim-nastics. (Which proved counter-productive.)

However, my interest in informal classes brought to my mailbox an avalanche of brochures and schedules guaranteed to "challenge my interests, sharpen my skills and make me a legend in my own time."

SEX AND NUTRITION: Is it true what they say about oysters? A frank look at male/female relationships with emphasis on energies. Bring a notebook, pen and floor cushion. Six weeks: $8.

LIGHTING A TORCH FOR BURNED-OUT PARENTS: Children driving you up the wall? Learn how to deal with feelings and pressures. Includes lectures, group interaction and stress release. Babysitting provided. Six Thursdays: $20.

VENTRILLOQUISM FOR THE BEGINNER: It's easier than you think. Learn the basics from handling your dummy to developing material, stage presence and projection. Dummy or hand puppet provided. Classes by arrangement. $20.

SUCCESS FOR THE NON-SENSE WOMAN: Do you panic in a social situation?

Maybe it's because you are insecure about your speech, your dress, makeup, hairstyle, conversation, or personality. Learn how to handle important meetings, parties and interviews. The first session will be on walking. Wear comfortable shoes. Mondays: $15.

FIGHT STRESS WITH BATON-TWIRLING: A basic course for beginners that teaches eye, hand and body coordination. Relaxation for the entire family. Tennis shoes, stretch shorts or leotard required. Hair should be tied back. Six sessions: $20.

READING THE FINE PRINT CAN SAVE YOU MONEY: A common-sense approach to stocks, bonds and annuities. Instructor offers imaginative tax shelters. Your outdated insurance program reviewed without charge. Fee: $200.

GOURMET COOKING AU NATUREL: Discover an exciting world of foods, herbs and spices. Learn what foods have medicinal value (see Sex and Nutrition). At the end of each class, enjoy your creation. Wear loose-fitting clothes. Fee: $30.

I don't know. After looking through a couple of hundred of these courses, maybe I'll go back to my original goals: World peace and five pounds lighter by Christmas.

Wedding Invitation

Mrs. Jessie W. Whitfield and Frederick Maye request the honor of your presence at the wedding of their daughter, Janet Maye, and Michael Paul Black. The wedding will be held Saturday, Aug. 30, at St. James Church of Christ, Vanceboro. Friends and relatives are invited to the wedding and the reception immediately following.

Committee Can Help

Mayor Don McGlohon last week announced the formation of a Mayor's advisory committee which will study all services which the city now provides to its citizens.

The mayor appointed Dr. Wallace R. Wooles, dean of the Department of Pharmacology in the ECU Medical School, to be chairman of the advisory body. An executive committee of 12 to 14 citizens will be named to work with Dr. Wooles and then approximately 100 committee members will be named. That group will be broken down into six subcommittees which will focus on various areas of services.

In making the announcement Mayor McGlohon said the city enjoys services at a level, or better than, most communities, and at a comparable cost. However, he said.

a citizens team "can assist us in properly studying, analyzing and assessing various aspects of the functions of Greenville city government."

The mayor said he expected the work of the committee to "emcompass most all of our existing boards, commission, agencies and city departments."

The committee which the mayor is forming can serve a good purpose, not only in assessing the quality of services now being delivered by city government, but also in determining what directions the city will move in the future in providing new services.

An outstanding man, in Dr. Wooles, has agreed to head the committee. We would expect some positive ideas to come out of the effort.

Complicated Help

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Late last year, as winter's harsh bite deepened across the nation and the poor suffered from the bitter winds and rising fuel costs, the federal government rushed to the rescue.

Millions were poured into emergency fuel programs — even for those living in sunny climes, or those who didn't even live in their own homes but were in resthomes or other institutions.

Many people were helped. A goodly number, however, simply enjoyed a windfall boost to income which they spent on non-fuel consumer goods such as televisions.

Closing that barn door this summer, federal regulations have been handed down and local and state officials are, during these summer doldrum months, trying to develop a plan to again next winter dole out the federal dollars to the people who need help.

But a review of the complicated rules and regulations shows clearly how the federal government often hurts most as it tries to help the needy.

Off The Top
Simply devising the plan and administering it will cost as much as $14 million in North Carolina alone, while approximately $40 million will be allocated to help provide fuel to the needy this winter. Incidentally, the plan must be submitted by mid-September with federal approval coming 30 days later, followed by the administrative work which pushes fuel money availability into November when the weather is already getting chilly.

Additionally, while setting up the complicated administrative and regulatory structure in an effort to undo its own mismanagement of last year, the federal government decided not to pay all of the administrative costs, but rather to require that local and state governments pick up half that tab.

BILL NOBLITT

Just how complicated will the machinery be?

Payments are authorized for "eligible households" which are those containing any person eligible for welfare, food stamps, certain Veterans Administration benefits, supplemental income, or households with incomes at or below the Bureau of Labor Statistics Lower Living Standard, which is $11,960 in North Carolina.

The state must determine eligibility, and determine whether payments will be made directly to eligible households; to fuel suppliers; or to a combination of the two; and whether payments will be made in cash, by delivery of fuel; by prepaying utility bills; or by use of coupons, stamps, vouchers or other certificates.

Priority must be given to households with lowest incomes, and the most assistance must go to households with lowest income and highest energy costs in relation to income. The elderly and handicapped must be given preference.

Confusion
And to avoid the situation last year in which people who didn't need fuel got money for fuel, the regulations require that amounts to recipients must vary according to differences in circumstances and the amount of benefits must take into account the average home energy expenditure, the burden of energy costs in relation to income, and the extent to which the household is vulnerable to rising energy

REMINDS US OF AN OLD SICK-COMEDY ROUTINE!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

In The Heart Of Dixie?

SCRABBLE, VA. — The canyons of New York offer one perspective on the political perils of Jimmy Carter. The mountains of Virginia offer another. This one is better. Off to the south, dark thunderclouds are rolling up, and they promise rainy weather all the way.

The Democratic National Convention gave Mr. Carter its highest honor: renomination. He had earned it. But the convention gave the president some severe political headaches that may have seemed no more than minor aches and pains in last Thursday's happy hour. In certain respects, the platform finally adopted may prove to be a Mickey Finn in the president's champagne. Now the hangover starts.

Let me revert to a theme I have sounded before. Presidential elections are not won nationally. They are won state by state. It is not the popular vote that matters; it is the electoral vote. In Mr. Carter's case, the electoral votes of the Southern states are vital. He has no realistic hope of carrying any of the states out West. No matter how well he does in the upper Midwest and the Northeast, without the Deep South his cause is lost. And deep in the heart of Dixie, thanks to the convention, he's in deep trouble.

Party platforms, as I may have remarked before, ordinarily are scrapped with the TV anchor booths. Once a convention adjourns, platforms tend to get discarded with the paper cups, busted balloons and torn posters. But the planks of a platform have one unintended purpose: They can be used during the subsequent campaign to club the opposition. The Republicans at Detroit handed the Democrats a few such shilleaghs, and the Democrats in New York lustily laid on the wood.

But the Democrats royally returned the favor. They wrote into their platform this dictatorial direction to their own party officials: "The Democratic Party, shall withhold financial support and technical campaign assistance from candidates who do not support the ERA (Equal Rights Amendment)."

As Davy Crockett might have observed, that is a sockdolager. The language cannot be misunderstood; it might even be enforceable in court against some rebellious local committee. But for all practical purposes, the directive is aimed at Democratic candidates in 15 states only — the 15 states that so far have refused to ratify the amendment. In the other 35 states a candidate's position on ERA hardly matters.

The effect in the 15 critical states is to threaten a kind of excommunication to Democratic heretics who fall into the mortal sin of opposing ERA. Such candidates would be denied the sacrament of money. And where would this threat apply? The 15 states include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina. All eight of them went for Mr. Carter in 1976. Together they gave him 82 electoral votes —

Dilemma Is Unresolved

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOWAK

NEW YORK — Having accommodated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's economic program to avert a bloodbath at Madison Square Garden, President Carter remains in the grip of his persistent dilemma, typified by the challenge of Philadelphia District Attorney Edward Rendell.

"For once," active Kennedy backer Rendell told us, "we'll be able to test whether the platform means anything. We'll see whether Carter does anything about it." Rendell and other Kennedy Democrats are, in effect, giving the president an ultimatum: Go to Congress with a big-spending anti-recession package before the election and really push it, or we'll sit on our hands.

Carter's dilemma, therefore, is not confined to the limits of the Democratic National Convention or the fantasies of platform writing. It is a deadly practical problem of harmonizing the passions of party activists with the desires of most Americans.

That dilemma was formulated convention eve by a veteran Southern leader, a Carter whip here. The future of the Democratic Party depends on a move toward centrist economic doctrines and away from big government, a move hesitantly begun by Carter as president. Yet, that move could not be so obvious at the convention that it would risk the total alienation of Teddy Kennedy.

Total alienation would be costly — a delay of at least six weeks in activating liberal party workers, particularly in the crucial industrial states, to work for the president's re-election. Accordingly, throughout this convention, the president's men were torn over whether to play for delegates here or voters across the nation.

In the end, they had no choice. "This convention is incredibly more liberal than the president," one senior White House aide told us. The overwhelming majority favored a New Deal-McGovern economic program unrelated to the business-oriented reindustrialization plan that Carter will soon unveil. The celebrated $12 billion anti-recession package would exceed $30 billion if all the platform promises were followed, say Carter economic advisers.

Thanks to the new rule requiring candidates to submit a written statement on the platform, the dilemma intensified rather than diminished once the Kennedy plank was adopted. The president's problem was not made easier by the attitude of such Kennedy activists as Paul Tully, one of the senator's best state coordinators. Tully contended that "a typical Carter waffle" on the plank "would be horrible" — worse than outright rejection.

Outright rejection was in fact counselled by Lt. Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York, a devoted Carter loyalist. Cuomo would have used the word "demagogic" if he had been writing Carter's reaction to the platform. The Carter administration's economic policy-makers, led by budget director James McIntyre, wanted economic objections clearly stated.

They failed. The president's letter was written mainly by White House policy aide Stuart Eizenstat with advice from top Kennedy labor backer Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers president. Eizenstat "sweated blood" over its wording. It is a minor masterpiece in avoiding confrontation, but may have inadvertently won the worst of two worlds.

While sufficient to win Kennedy's endorsement, it did not win the hearts and minds of his followers (save in Michigan where state chairman Morley Winograd led 33 Kennedy delegates to Carter). "A fudge!" snarled State Attorney General Robert Abrams of New York. Other Kennedy delegates contended the evasiveness buttressed their conception of the president as a trimmer.

But more cautious Democrats were concerned that Republicans would capitalize on a high-spending, (Continued on page 5)

To the editor:

To all boatowners, remember watch and warning are key words in Weather Bureau bulletins concerning severe weather. A hurricane watch means just that. Watch for further developments and be prepared to take action. A hurricane warning means that a storm is imminent and the first effects of the storm may be felt rather soon.

Decide now what you should do in the event of a hurricane. The following are a few precautions which can prevent great property losses. Discuss your concern with a competent marina and have a plan prepared well in advance. If you are going to be away during the hurricane season, make sure you have anticipated bad weather and properly protected your boat or have asked someone to be responsible in looking after it. Make arrangements to have the boat moved inland or to a protected cove. All loose gear should be secured and unnecessary items removed from the boat; better yet, get the boat out of the water and away from abnormal high tides. Boats are built to handle rough weather — but in these unusual circumstances involving hurricanes, we must take extra precautions.

To the editor:

Regarding the Harris-Garrett letter — quoting from the third paragraph, last sentence: "It's not the project that's responsible for the massive failure of the Pitt County Schools; it's the attitudes towards the children who come out of the projects." With one small preposition change, I would strongly agree with this statement. That change would be from "toward" to "of." Furthermore, I believe the attitudes come from black leaders such as Mr. Harris and Mr. Garrett. Children who come to school with a chip on their shoulders are difficult to teach. Parents who spend time criticizing rather than working with teachers are hurting their child, not the teacher. Parents who are not willing to spend some quality time with their child each day cannot expect a six-year-old to attain a year's progress in a year's time.

I wonder what statistics would show concerning the number of black parents who ask for and show up for conferences with teachers concerning their child's progress. What statistics can they show for the amount of time black parents spend daily or weekly working with their child? Point No. Four of the NAACP demands read "that testing be on what the schools are required to teach." Pitt County uses the test issued by the state of North Carolina. I cannot speak for all grade levels; however, the test at the level I teach tests what is taught at that level. The concept behind every item on the test that was administered in my classroom last year had been taught.

Why are these men only interested in helping "blacks attain a meaningful diploma"? Why not use the test results to help all students attain a meaningful education?

Mr. Harris, Mr. Garrett, volunteer your time and energy. Become involved in the classrooms of your schools. See what they are really like, not what statistics can be made to look like they show.

Savings Bond Promotion Ends

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "We don't feel we've been misleading in the past," said a Treasury Department official in announcing that U.S. Savings Bonds no longer will be promoted as a good investment.

Is that so? So it wasn't misleading to tell people that "Savings Bonds make a comfortable retirement almost a certainty." And it wasn't misleading to assure parents that bonds would buy a college education?

Or to recruit some of the most successful businessmen in the country to encourage workers to buy Savings Bonds when, if they had any financial sense at all, those businessmen scorned bonds for themselves?

Apparently it wasn't misleading either to advertise that bonds paid interest of 6.5 percent or 7 percent when, in order to obtain that measly rate, the buyer had to hold the bonds for 11 long years ...

... during which time the same federal government ran up enormous debts that helped spread an inflation that, at current rates, would halve the buying power of those bonds, even after payment of dividends.

In August 1978, when Savings Bonds were paying 6 percent, a Treasury official was asked to defend the program. If $75 were put into Savings Bonds, he responded, the owner would have $100.80 after five years.

In reality, of course, the buyer won't have $100.80 or anything close to it in comparable dollars, a consequence of raging inflation. He'll be lucky if he has half that much in purchasing power. But Uncle Sam didn't let that dampen his enthusiasm — only his sense of fair play.

The same sort of reasoning was used in projections that claimed to show how you could save for retirement or the education of a child. Nothing whatever was said about the erosion of inflation.

An oversight? It requires great naivete to believe that a department that handles the world's biggest financing job simply forgot about inflation when making projections of school and retirement expenses.

No, it wasn't an oversight. Not when the subject so consistently was left unmentioned at a time when inflation was on everyone's mind. Not when in the "Build for the Future" brochure the word wasn't mentioned once, although any projection of buying power must deal with it.

Instead, the suggestion throughout was that "they'll continue to increase in value," and they'll put "personal savings goals within reach," and "here's how your dollars for education grow."

Many people saw through the promotion and sold their bonds, some of them to go into bank certificates that offered them higher annual rates for six months than the Treasury offered over an 11 year period.

Among the angriest were retirees who believed Uncle Sam's promise that bonds "can make the difference between retirement that's barely adequate and an old age with dignity." They know what dignity is.

The Gray Panthers, an organization of older Americans, complained to the Federal Trade Commission last year that the government's promotions were misleading investors by claiming bonds were a good investment.

The FTC disagreed, saving that private institutions, such as banks, do not warn of the hazards of inflation. Maybe so, but that only confirms a deceit rather than raises it to an ethical standard. Besides, doesn't one expect more from Uncle Sam, the nation's father figure?

The Treasury Department got the point, however, and announced last week it will emphasize Savings Bonds as a good method of forced savings rather than "one sure way to make your dreams come true."

Said a spokesman: "We don't want to mislead anybody." That's good to hear, but it doesn't help those who believed Uncle Sam would never mar their sacred dreams about such things as education and retirement.

Stockdale Resigns His Post With The Citadel

CHARLESTON (AP) — Members of a committee meeting to discuss Vice Adm. James B. Stockdale's inauguration as the 15th president of The Citadel Monday got a bit of a surprise.

Stockdale, who was to have been formally inducted the first weekend in October, announced his resignation almost a year after he took office as the head of "the West Point of the South."

"I've resigned and the reason is very simple," the 57-year-old former prisoner of war and Medal of Honor winner told the Charleston News and Courier in an interview. "I'm just tired of hassling with the board of visitors over every change in the status quo."

Stockdale, who took over as president Aug. 22, 1979, said he resigned because the board Friday failed to approve his plan for reorganizing the college's staff.

"I had a choice between being a ceremonial figure and resigning," the admiral said. "I can't be president unless I can run the place."

"A president of a college has got to have hiring and firing rights over his staff," he said.

Stockdale told the board of visitors Monday he was resigning effective 4 p.m. that day over lunch at Columbia's exclusive Palmetto Club. The chairman, Col. William F. Prioleau Jr., said the board was surprised by the admiral's decision.

"It's a terrific loss," Prioleau said in Columbia. "He's a great American, a true hero. We were all sorry and wish that he would reconsider but we respect his decision."

Prioleau said the school's second in command, Brig. Gen. George F. Meenaghan, would act as The Citadel's president until a replacement for Stockdale is selected. He said the board will meet Saturday morning to begin discussing the selection process.

"I'm not bitter," Stockdale said, adding that he had no immediate plans. He said he would vacate his residence as soon as possible, and may put his possessions in storage and take a trip.

"There weren't any real hard feelings or anything," Prioleau said.

Stockdale said his relationship with board soured noticeably in March and had been on the decline ever since then. The admiral was the prime force behind a controversial plan to relax the plebe system, which the board approved only after he threatened to resign.

Stockdale was concerned about the system, under which freshmen sat at attention during meals, had close-shave haircuts and were hazed by upperclassmen.

The last straw apparently was the board's decision not to approve a reorganization plan Prioleau said was formulated by a private consulting firm. The chairman said the board did not reject the plan, but postponed it.

"The forces of the status quo were marshalled and they won," Stockdale said.

Prioleau said the admiral is "a man of deep principles, which he proved in the torturous years in prison."

A Navy fighter pilot, Stockdale was shot down over North Vietnam in 1965 and spent more than seven years there as a prisoner of war. He was held in solitary confinement or isolation for four years and was subjected to 15 major acts of torture, including a broken leg and a broken shoulder.

Once, to prevent the North Vietnamese from using him in a propaganda film, he battered his own face with a stool so he would be unrecognizable.

He was president of the Navy War College in Newport, R.I., when he was — A $1.5 million damage suit has been filed in U.S. District Court by members of an Asheboro family who contend that property confiscated by officers in 1978 has not been returned to the family.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)

The suit lists as defendants former Randolph County Sheriff Carl Moore, one of his deputies and two agents of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Clifford Eugene Sheppard, who is seeking damages totaling $510,000; his brother, J.A. Sheppard, who lists damages of $507,000, and his mother, Jewel Sheppard, who is seeking $503,000. Each plaintiff is asking for $500,000 in punitive damages plus their estimated value of the property.

Actual value of the property was reported to be $20,000.

The suit alleges that the property was confiscated during a 1978 criminal investigation and that Moore and the other officers later conspired to avoid returning the property to the family.

According to the suit, in the spring of 1978, local and state agents raided two Asheboro homes occupied or owned by Sheppard family members. At the time of the raids, Clifford Eugene Sheppard was among defendants indicted during an investigation into larceny and safecracking cases.

FARMVILLE — Prices on practically all grades on the Farmville Tobacco Market were better yesterday than on Thursday. Top price continues at $1.65 per pound. Volume of sales was heavy with primings and lugs accounting for most of the volume. Only a few sheets of leaf grades have appeared on the floors this season.

Stabilization accounted for only 3.71 percent of gross sales. The Farmville market sold 426,960 pounds, with monies at $670,270 for an average of $156.99 per hundred pounds, one of the best averages on record, according to Sales Supervisor Louis Williams.

To date the market has sold 7,327,453 pounds for $9,842,535, with a season average of $134.32. Yesterday's average was $9 more per hundred pounds than last year's average on the same sale date.

nearly one-third of the 270 it takes to win.

The feminist warriors at New York did nothing to advance their own cause of ratification. They managed mainly to offend Democratic chieftains whose help Mr. Carter sorely needs. It is a small work of imagination to envision the resentment that will explode in the Democratic-controlled legislatures of Jackson, Montgomery, Columbia, and the others at the next ratification bid.

"Mistuh Speaker! Ah have been a Democrat all my life, and mah daddy and gran'daddy befoh me, but Mistuh Speaker, Ah will not sell my birthright—mah conscience, and mah principles—foh a mess of filthy potage! They cannot buy mah vote with campaign funds!"

And so on. Anyone who ever has attended a Southern legislative session could write the script. The plank is certain to set blood boiling in the breast of every true Dixie Democrat. The Amazons may have won their battle and lost Mr. Carter's war.

These eight states, it will be recalled, went Republican in 1972. Politically speaking, they have known that sin. Some of them went very Republican. Mississippi in 1972, with 78.2 percent for Nixon; was the most Republican state in the nation. In 1976, eager to support a "Southern boy," they flipped dramatically to the Democratic column.

The Democrats, in their masochistic way, handed the Republicans other clubs to beat them with. The platform embraces homosexual rights, abortion on demand, and a dozen other planks that will antagonize Southern fundamentalists and states-rights. These political consequences may have been obscured in the smoky haze of Madison Square Garden. Back home in Virginia, they look as clear as the steep slopes of Old Rag Mountain.

Lake Declares Poll Shows He's Gaining

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Republican I. Beverly Lake Jr. said Monday his polls show that he has gained 10 percent points on Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt in their race for the governor's office.

Hunt campaign spokesmen said their polls show Lake was wrong pro-abortion, anti-nuclear platform embodying Kennedy's philosophy. After Kennedy's flawlessly delivered reiteration of his old campaign themes, one of his floor whips—former Lt. Gov. Bill Toherly of South Dakota—told pro-Carter state chairman Ed Campbell of Iowa: "This is what the Democratic Party is all about."

Fighting Kennedy's economic plank, Gov. Jim Hunt of North Carolina told the convention what the polls reflect and Carter strategists believe: Inflation, not unemployment, is still the No. 1 issue. "Don't doubt what our people are feeling. Do we want to try to tell them that fighting inflation isn't so important anymore?" The response was a few boos.

Late Tuesday evening after Kennedy's emotionally draining performance, New York's Cuomo talked to a half-deserted Garden about the plight of the middle class. Two young delegates from Kentucky cheered, marooned in a sea of inattention. "It's about time," one said to the other.

The $25,000-a-year worker, angry at losing to inflation, received almost no attention in one of the century's longest conventions that lavished thousands of words on the unemployed, blacks, Hispanics, Indians, homosexuals, poor mothers with illegitimate babies and women's rights. The platform is theirs. Jimmy Carter would like to turn to battling Ronald Reagan for the middle class, but to do so he must first satisfy Ed Rendell and his ultimatum.

"He (Lake) is fooling himself and trying to fool a lot of other people, too," said Gary Pearce, press secretary to Hunt.

Lake, who opened his Wake County campaign headquarters Monday, did not give specific statewide percentages or details of his polls. He did give figures for four counties:

— Scotland County, where Lake said he had 45 percent of the vote to Hunt's 47 percent.

— Cumberland County, where Lake said he holds 44 percent of the vote to Hunt's 45 percent.

— Bladen County, where Lake said he has 43 percent and Hunt has 46 percent of the vote.

— Robeson County, where Lake contended he has 38 percent of the vote to Hunt's 52 percent.

Campaign representative Mary H. Michaux said the polls were taken by campaign workers.

A professional poll taken for the Hunt campaign in mid-June gave the governor more than 70 percent of the vote and Lake about 15 percent, with the remainder undecided.

Pearce declined to say whether there have been more recent Hunt polls.

costs. All of which means reams of complicated forms filled with complicated formulas requiring hours of work to complete and verify.

Then, as if this were not bureaucratically complicated enough, if eligible recipients live in subsidized housing or in public housing, the payments must go to the building owners or operators.

And then, if a household is denied help, or given less money than the people think they should get, or if 30 days go by without the application either getting approved or rejected, a hearing must be held, directed by an official North Carolina State Government Hearing Officer, accompanied by a stenographer who must record the proceedings.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved lower today amid gloomy economic news and continued signs interest rates are turning higher.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.36 at 947.27. New York Stock Exchange volume came to 19.23 million shares, against 19.31 million at noon Monday. Losers outnumbered gainers 2-1 on the NYSE.

Oils were mixed in active trading, with Tesoro Petroleum up 1½ at 27½ and Phillips Petroleum off ¾ at 41. Chrysler, which said its 1981 car fleet would average 25.5 miles per gallon, up 4.2 mpg from 1980, was up ¼ at 9.

Consolidated Edison was unchanged at 23½, with a 150,000-sharelock trading at that price, while Southern California Edison led the NYSE most-actives, off ¾ at 24½.

The government said U.S. corporate profits tumbled 18.2 percent in the second quarter as the Federal Reserve's March credit-tightening rippled through the economy.

Short-term interest rates later ebbed from record levels, but short-term money-market interest rates now have risen sharply following a record $8.2 billion increase in the basic money supply. The gain has touched off speculation commercial banks' prime lending rate soon may rise a quarter-point to 11.25 percent.

The NYSE's composite index fell 0.10 to 70.65; the American Stock Exchange the market value index was down 0.03 at 318.68.

Fire Truck Could Answer Rescue Call

Jenness Allen, chief of the city's Fire/Rescue Department, advised local citizens that under special circumstances, a call to the department for emergency medical assistance may be answered by personnel using a fire truck rather than a rescue vehicle.

Allen reported that when a life threatening situation is apparently involved, the first priority of the department is to get trained specialists on the scene to stabilize the patient by providing emergency treatment as needed.

The chief noted that seconds are critical to heart attack victims, for example, and trained personnel to administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) can be a deciding factor. He explained that sending personnel in a fire truck may be the fastest way to get them to the patient if the fire truck is located closer to the call than the available rescue vehicle.

"We have equipped three fire trucks with emergency trauma kits and our fire/rescue personnel have been trained as emergency medical technicians in order to provide back-up service by trained cadre," Allen said.

"In addition," he mentioned, "we have assigned a rescue vehicle to the Memorial Drive station as well as the main station in order to cut down on our response time."

The chief predicted that the arrival of a fire truck in response to a call for emergency medical assistance at a residence or business will be an accepted practice when the public begins to understand the advantages of the policy.

Today's American League headlines again deal with the New York-Baltimore East Division pennant chase and the assault of Kansas City's sizzling George Brett on the .400 mark. But something new has been added — the Milwaukee Brewers.

While the Baltimore Orioles edged New York 6-5 and pulled within 2½ games of the Yankees in the AL East, and while Brett went 3-for-5 in Kansas City's 6-3 triumph over the Texas Rangers, boosting his average to .404 and giving him a 30-game hitting streak, the Brewers quietly sneaked to within 6½ games of the top with a noisy 12-5 rout of the Detroit Tigers.

"I think it has been on the verge of happening for a long time and now it is kind of snowballing. The momentum is there. The more it rolls, the more it's going to gather," said Gorman Thomas, who crashed a grand-slam homer to help the Brewers to their seventh consecutive victory.

Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins downed the California Angels 8-3 while the Cleveland Indians took the opener of a two-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 4-2 but dropped the nightcap 7-2. Boston, Oakland, Seattle and Toronto were not scheduled.

In the only National League contest, the St. Louis Cardinals mauled the Cincinnati Reds 10-1.

Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie hit a bases-empty homer, his 30th, one pitch after Thomas' sixth-inning grand slam. That put the game out of reach after Milwaukee converted three Detroit errors into a five-run fourth inning.

"Six-and-a-half out with a month-and-a-half to play — that's plenty of time. We're right back in it," said Brewers Manager George Bamberger. "All year long we have not had a big winning streak. It looks like maybe we've got something going now."

Royals 6, Rangers 3
Brett singled his first three times up, running his string to seven straight hits over two days as he became the 28th player in major league history to hit safely in 30 consecutive games.

"I'm not worried about the hitting streak," he said. "There's enough pressure just in the pennant race without putting extra pressure on myself."

Over his 30-game streak, Brett has 57 hits in 122 at-bats for a .467 average with six homers and 42 RBI.

"I'm busting my rear to get every hit I can, but not because of the streak," he said. "I want Kansas City to have the best record in baseball and win the World Series and be able to walk down the street wearing a big diamond ring with green emeralds in it."

Meanwhile, Willie Aikens drove in four runs with a two-run homer in the third inning and a two-run single in the fourth while Rich Gale won his 10th game in a row with help from Jeff Twitty and Dan Quisenberry, who picked up his 26th save.

Orioles 6, Yankees 5
Al Bumbry, Rich Dauer and Mark Belanger drove in two runs apiece and the Orioles held off an eighth-inning rally to tighten the race in the East Division. The victory enabled the defending AL champs to take the five-game series 3-2 and register their sixth victory in eight games against the Yankees in the last 11 days.

Oscar Gamble's homer gave the Yankees a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning but Baltimore came right back and took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the fourth on Doug DeCinces' double, a walk, Belanger's RBI-single, Bumbry's double and Dauer's sacrifice fly. The Orioles added three more in the fifth on Belanger's double, Bumbry's single and Dauer's infield out.

"I felt that if we came out of this stretch — playing in New York, then in Kansas City and then coming home against New York — four, five or six games out, we'd have a shot said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "We're 2½ out, but I'd rather be zero."

The crowd of 51,528 pushed the total for the five games to 253,636, the largest single-series attendance ever recorded for in the major leagues.

Twins 8, Angels 3
Jose Morales had three hits and John Castano and Bombo Rivera homered to lead Minnesota's 15-hit attack. That made it easy for Fernando Arroyo, who scattered eight hits. Castano hit a two-run homer off Don Aase in the seventh inning and Rivera connected off Dave Lemanczyk in the eighth.

Indians 4-2, White Sox 2-7
Kevin Bell ripped a three-run homer during a six-run fourth inning that powered Chicago in the nightcap behind Steve Trout's nine-hit pitching. In the opener, Cleveland's Len Barker yielded just three hits and struck out 12, a career high, while Toby Harrah homered for the Indians.

Cardinals 10, Reds 1
Ted Simmons rapped out four hits, including two home runs, as the Cardinals buried Cincinnati on the strength of an eight-run second inning. The game was called by rain after 6½ innings. Bob Forsch pitched a four-hitter and doubled home two runs to key the second-inning outburst, which started with singles by Simmons and George Hendrick. Jay Howell, making his second major league appearance, surrendered six consecutive singles to Bobby Bonds, Garry Templeton, Keith Hernandez, Simmons, Hendrick and Ken Reitz. Simmons added solo homers in the fourth and sixth innings.

Stewart Lost For Two Weeks

East Carolina University's football team, which went into heavy drills for the first time this morning, finds itself without the services of its number two quarterback.

Greg Stewart, a sophomore who saw very little action last year, but who had taken over the number two slot and was pressing number one Carlton Nelson for the starting position, suffered a severe sprain of the ankle in practice, and will be sidelined for two to three weeks—the remainder of pre-season fall drills.

The injury left, as the lone quarterback in camp with any collegiate experience. Backing him up right now are two freshmen, Bob Miller and Larry Brobst. The former was on campus for spring drills, while the latter is a pure freshman.

Two other quarterback candidates when they reported last week, Chuck Bishop and Roger Barnett, have been switched to the defensive backfield by Coach Ed Emory.

The Pirates went into pads for the first time today, to begin hitting as they prepare for their season opener against Duke on September 3 in Durham.

The Pirates will be appearing on the Evans Street Mall on Thursday from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. The entire team and staff will be on hand for pictures with anyone wishing them, and will also sign autographs. There will also be free prizes and souvenirs.

Coach Ed Emory's comments on how practice is going can be heard daily on Dial-A-Pirate, 757-6900.

Registration Comes Early

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will be holding registration for the following fall programs on August 26-28 at the Jaycee Park from 3 to 6 p.m.:

Flag football, cheerleading, soccer and gymnastics.

For more information concerning ages and fees, contact the Greenville Rec department at 752-4137, ext. 220.

Vets Are Cut In NFL Trimming

By TOM CANAVAN
AP Sports Writer

John Mendenhall and Gordon Gravelle knew the New York Giants didn't want them. But they learned something else Monday: neither do the Green Bay Packers nor the Los Angeles Rams.

Mendenhall and Gravelle were two of the most notable veterans released Monday as National Football League teams began the process of reducing their rosters to the 60-man limit by 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

The releases could spell the end of the line for the veteran linemen.

Mendenhall, released by the Giants earlier this year, was one of seven players waived as the Packers pared their roster to 67.

"For a nine-year veteran, John Mendenhall gave us a great effort while he was here," Packers Coach Bart Starr said. "It would have been easy for him to pace himself through camp and try to make it with us on gule, but he didn't."

"I guess having to part with anyone like that is as tough as anything in the business."

Green Bay also cut punter Rick Engles, a free agent who played with Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Seattle, and third-year running back Walt Landers.

Gravelle, let go by the Giants last year, started three games for the Rams last season because of injuries to regulars. The seven-year veteran of offensive tackle was among seven players dropped by Los Angeles.

Atlanta also gave The Turk, the NFL's version of the Grim Reaper, a head start, axing 10 players, including journeyman place kicker Rich Szaro, veteran guard Bill Ellenbogen and second-year tight end Lewis Gilbert.

The New Orleans Saints placed three players on the injured reserve list and also learned that second-string quarterback Bobby Scott may be sidelined for as many as five weeks with a knee injury.

Scott, a 10-year veteran whose only injury occurred in 1975 when he tripped over a television cable on the sidelines, tore a tendon in last week's game against Houston.

"This is my 10th year, and it's the first time I've had anything this serious happen to me," Scott said. "It's kind of demoralizing."

That might be debated by Ross Browner of the Cincinnati Bengals and Al Chesley of the Philadelphia Eagles, who found another meaning for demoralization — losing their brothers in a manner of speaking.

The Bengals released Ross's brother, Jim, and five other players while Al's brother, Francis, was listed among the six players axed by the Eagles.

Chicago did a little addition and subtraction, acquiring second-year defensive back Henry Williams from the Oakland Raiders for a future draft choice and waiving five rookie free agents.

Pittsburgh put third-year pro Rick Moser, a reserve running back and special teams star, on injured reserve and said he would miss the entire season. He broke his collar bone Aug. 9 in a 13-0 exhibition victory over the Giants.

The Giants also got in the act, cutting 11 players including former starting fullback Ken Johnson and kick returner Steve Odom, who they picked up on waivers from the Packers in 1979.

Another kick returner also will be looking for work — former All-Pro Tony Green, who headed a list of seven player waived by Tampa Bay.

"I think Tony could play in the league," Buccaneers Coach John McKay said. "His college record would indicate that, but he is not in very good shape right now."

Neither were 18 people who entered the Jets training camp earlier this summer looking for work and ended up being released Monday.

Miami Quarterbacks All Look Good As Dolphins Win Second

By The Associated Press

Miami Coach Don Shula said the Dolphins' quarterback job was wide open and, after Monday night's 24-7 National Football League exhibition victory over the Seattle Seahawks, it probably still is.

Fourteen-year veteran Bob Griese, rookie Dave Woodley and third-year man Guy Benjamin all guided the Dolphins to touchdowns as Miami improved its preseason record to 2-0.

"When I called Bob (Griese) in the off-season and told him we'd be going to camp with the quarterback job up for competition, he told me, 'I don't feel it's any different from any other year. I always felt I had to win the job,'" Shula recalled.

But Griese is really being pressed this year.

Benjamin, who scored on a 1-yard rollout to snap a 7-7 tie early in the fourth quarter, is rounding into his own. Woodley, from LSU, was impressive in the Dolphins preseason opener and set up the insurance touchdown and a 39-field goal by Uwe von Schamann against Seattle.

Griese marched the Dolphins 88 yards in 14 plays in the first quarter, capping the drive with a 3-yard scoring pass to Bruce Hardy.

Don Strock, considered Griese's No. 1 rival for the Dolphins quarterbacking job, did not play.

"There's no way I'd keep four quarterbacks," said Shula, adding one may be used as trade bait.

And the way they're all playing, one of them could bring Miami a nice return.

Jim Zorn and Steve Myer, Seattle's top two quarterbacks, were out with injuries.

Tony Benjamin tallied for Seattle on a 2-yard run.

In other NFL action, Kansas City mauled Minnesota 24-10 and Washington edged Cleveland 12-3.

Chiefs 24, Vikings 10
Reserve quarterback Bill Kenney tossed two third-quarter touchdown passes as Kansas City held Minnesota to 49 yards rushing and rolled to its second straight exhibition triumph.

Ted Brown's 1-yard touchdown run gave Minnesota a 7-0 lead in the first quarter before Steve Fuller knotted the game with a 5-yard scoring pass to J.T. Smith in the second period. The Vikings' Rick Danmeier kicked a 44-yard field goal and the Chiefs' Nick Lowery had a 33-yard boot also in the second quarter.

Redskins 12, Browns 3
Mark Moseley kicked four field goals as the Washington beat Cleveland. Moseley's three-pointers of 21, 32, 28 and 39 yards boosted the Redskins preseason record to 2-0.

The Browns, 0-2, turned the ball over eight times on three interceptions and five fumbles. Don Cockroft booted a 30-yard field goal for Cleveland in the second quarter.

Can't Hold On

Cleveland Brown's tight end Curtis Weathers (in white) fumbles the football in second half action Monday night against the Washington Redskins. Making the tackle are Washington strong safety Don

Ohio State Out To Dominate Its Area

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State's defending champion Buckeyes will be out to destroy the theory that there is balance developing in the Big Ten and, if successful, they might just wait away with the national championship to boot.

Before the Buckeyes lay any claims to a national title, they have to establish supremacy in the Midwest over other Big Ten rivals and Notre Dame.

Led by quarterback Art Schlichter, whom Coach Earle Bruce calls "a most exciting player, mentally and physically tough," the Buckeyes appear to be headed for another undefeated season in the Big Ten.

Once again, the Buckeyes do not face Purdue and talented quarterback Mark Herrmann, and their serious tests figure to be Indiana and Michigan, both of whom they catch at home. Their three nonconference games also are at home against Syracuse, Arizona State and UCLA.

Notre Dame, blanked in last season's bowl parade, could become a national title contender if Dan Devine can get stability at the quarterbacking position and if the Irish can get by their first two games against Purdue and Michigan.

For the first time since Bo Schembechler took over the reigns at Michigan in 1969, the Wolverines did not finish among the top 10 in the Associated Press poll.

One shortcoming was the kicking game, and Schembechler vowed, "I can say without reservation the kicking game will be improved. It couldn't be worse."

Purdue and Notre Dame will test each other early when they meet Sept. 6 in a nationally televised contest. Two weeks later, Notre Dame takes on Michigan.

Indiana, like Ohio State and Purdue, is set at quarterback with Tim Clifford. Such is not the case at Notre Dame and Michigan.

At Notre Dame, Mike Courey, Tim Koegel and Gary Knafelc are battling for the No. 1 position. At Michigan, John Wampler is making a remarkable comeback from knee surgery, but if freshman Steve Smith lives up to his billing, he could be the man.

"I have not yet seen a freshman quarterback win a Big Ten championship," Schembechler said, "not Art Schlichter, not Rick Leach."

Purdue will be awesome with an offense led by Herrmann, but defense is another matter where the Boilermakers lost a lot of talent.

"We're bigger and faster," Coach Jim Young said, "but not better."

Indiana also figures to be a title contender. The Hoosiers keep edging closer to the top each year, and Coach Lee Corso is looking for improvement in his defenses.

"You win with defense, a kicking game and your offensive line," Corso said. "If you win without them, you're lucky and luck goes only so far."

Iowa could take the darkhorse role in the Big Ten, but the others don't appear to be ready for title contention.

In the unpredictable Mid-American Conference, Toledo appears ready to dethrone Central Michigan.

Iowa won its last five in Hayden Fry's first season. As a result, for the first time in Hawkeye history, all home game tickets have been sold in advance.

"We've made progress. The youngsters know they can win," Fry said. "Our offensive line is two deep. We made progress on defense, but we're still weak."

Smokey Joe Salem will be rebuilding at Minnesota. The Gophers opened things up and caused some excitement last season but, as Salem put it, "We promised wide-open football, but we didn't mean on both ends of the field." The defenses totally collapsed as the Gophers lost three of their last four.

Illinois and Michigan State will be operating under new regimes. Mike White took over at Illinois and Frank "Muddy" Waters at Michigan State.

White was surprised to find some talent at Illinois.

"There are good players, but they are not aware of it," White said. "There is potential at Illinois but there has been turmoil, controversy and negative thinking. We'll go to a pro style offense with multiple formations. The forward pass is a great equalizer."

Waters also has inherited some talent, especially among the running backs and in the kicking game. Steve Smith and Derek Hughes will run out of the same backfield, and punter Ray Stachowicz and place kicker Morten Andersen are among the best.

"Our strength is our kicking game and we're going to need it," Waters said. "There is more talent and spirit at Michigan State than I expected."

Wisconsin will have John Josten, who broke an ankle in the first game last season, returning at quarterback. Coach Dave McClain promises: "If John is healthy, we'll be strong. He's smart, intelligent and a real leader."

Northwestern had one victory last season, but the Wildcats played very tough in losing to Ohio State 13-7 and Purdue 20-16.

"We played 60 minutes against Ohio State and Purdue," Coach Rick Venturi said, "and that is our impetus for 1980." In the Mid-American Conference, Central Michigan lost the services of quarterback Gary Hogeboom, but the Chippewas still figure to be a factor in the race.

Toledo's Rockets, who finished second last year, are favored to win. Coach Chuck Stobart said: "If things go right, we can win the league this year. A year ago, we were hopeful, this year we are confident. Now we know we can win."

Ball State, Western Michigan, Ohio and Miami all finished with 6-5 records and are looking ahead. Northern Illinois will have a new coach in Bill Mallory, formerly at Miami and Colorado.

Yesterday's Cryptogram — PAUCITY OF AFFLUENT PEOPLE CAN INCAPACITATE CITY.

Today's Cryptogram clue: G equals R

The Cryptogram is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

would have realized that he could gain nothing from the diamond finesse. There was a much simpler way to insure two diamond tricks and, since the defenders could not collect more than three heart tricks, the line carried no risk.

After winning the ace of hearts declarer should simply bang down the ace and queen of diamonds. It makes no difference which defender wins the trick. Dummy's jack of diamonds is set up as the ninth trick, and declarer can get to the dummy either with the queen of clubs or the ace of spades to assure his contract.

Gilda Radner Is Broadway-Bound

NEW YORK (AP) — Gilda Radner, who created a series of wacky comedy characters on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live," has taken a role in a play bound for Broadway.

Miss Radner begins rehearsals Friday on "Lunch Hour," a new comedy by Jean Kerr that will be directed by Mike Nichols. Sam Waterston will star as a famous marriage counselor whose own marriage is disrupted by Miss Radner. It will try out in Delaware and Washington before beginning here Nov. 4.

"Mike Nichols told me they were looking for a Gilda Radner type to play the part," said the young comedian, who appeared last year in a Broadway revue centered on her television characters, including Emily Litella and Lisa Looper.

"On television, I never had a chance to repeat a part. On television, I had a whole series of opening nights," she was quoted as saying in today's New York Times. "But now I'll have a chance to open and then keep making the part better. The difficult thing will be keeping it fresh."

Charlie Daniels Band: 5 Nominations

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The 4,900-member Country Music Association has singled out The Charlie Daniels Band as a finalist in five categories of its annual awards competition.

Also selected Monday as finalists in four categories were Kenny Rogers and Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band.

The winners will be announced Oct. 13 in ceremonies televised from the Grand Ole Opry.

The association named The Charlie Daniels Band as a finalist for its top award, entertainer of the year. In addition, the band will compete for the organization's awards as group of the year and top instrumental group, while its hit song "In America" puts the band in contention for the association's awards for single of the year and best written song.

"I'm honored, flabbergasted, overwhelmed and extremely happy," Daniels said.

Rogers was voted a finalist as entertainer of the year and top male vocalist. His "Coward of the County" made him a finalist for single of the year and his album "Kenny" is up for album of the year honors.

Gatlin and his brothers were finalists for entertainer of the year, group of the year, instrumental group of the year and for the top single award with "All the Gold in California."

The finalists by category: —Entertainer of the year: The Charlie Daniels Band, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band, Barbara Mandrell, Willie Nelson and Kenny Rogers.

—Male vocalist of the year: John Conlee, George Jones, Willie Nelson, Kenny Rogers, Don Williams.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Negotiations between the film and television industry and two unions representing 67,000 striking actors will resume Thursday, the first talks in more than two weeks, officials say.

Members of the Motion Picture and Television Producers Negotiating Committee agreed to a resumption of negotiations Monday. The Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, —Top female vocalist: Crystal Gayle, Emmylou Harris, Loretta Lynn, Barbara Mandrell, Anne Murray.

—Single of the Year: "All the Gold in California," Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band; "Coward of the County," Kenny Rogers; "Good Ole Boys Like Me," Don Williams; "He Stopped Loving Her Today," George Jones; "In America," Charlie Daniels Band.

—Album of the Year:

"Coal Miner's Daughter," original soundtrack from the movie; "Just Good Ol' Boys," Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley; "Kenny," Kenny Rogers; "Roses in the Snow," Emmylou Harris; "There's a Little Bit of Hank in Me," Charley Pride.

—Song of the Year, honoring songwriter: "Coward of the County," Roger Bowling and Billy Edd Wheeler; "Good Ole Boys Like Me," Bob McDill; "He Stopped Loving Her Today," Bobby

Braddock and Curly Putman; "In America," Charles Hayward, William Digregorio, Charlie Daniels, John Thomas Crain, Fred Edwards and James Marshall; "You Decorated

My Life," Debbie Hupp and Bob Morrison.

—Group of the Year: Alabama, The Charlie Daniels Band, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band, the Oak Ridge Boys and the Statler Brothers.

—Duo of the Year: Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn, George Jones and Tammy Wynette, Jim Ed Brown and Helen Cornelius, Johnny Duncan and Janie Fricke, Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley.

—Instrumental group: Alabama, Asleep at the Wheel, The Charlie Daniels Band, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band, the Oak Ridge Boys Band.

—Instrumentalist of the year: Chet Atkins, Roy Clark, Floyd Cramer, Johnny Gimble and Charlie McCoy.

Actors, Industry Will Meet Again Thursday

representing the actors, already had agreed to the talks.

Meanwhile, as the strike entered its fifth week, SAG issued an "open invitation" to individual producers to sign permanent three-year contracts instead of the interim agreements awarded earlier in the strike.

SAG spokeswoman Kim Fellner called it a "divide-and-conquer" tactic and said it was intended to "defectors" from the producers' ranks.

SAG had already signed interim agreements allowing production to continue on 35 feature films and 18 TV movies despite the strike. But most were for individual projects produced by independent companies and provide for the acceptance of whatever terms are eventually worked out with the producers' committee.

The contracts now being offered apply to all studio feature film projects and would not be affected by a settlement with the producers' committee. They satisfy SAG and AFTRA contract demands, including salary and home video compensation provisions.

On Friday, Goldwyn Studios signed a new three-year contract providing for an immediate 35 percent raise in pay scales, previously $225 a day and $785 a week.

On original programs sold to pay TV, videocassette and videocassette, the actors will receive 6 percent of the producers' gross receipts from the sale, to be divided proportionate to the size of each role. However, an actor's daily or weekly salary for the project — up to $10,000 — will be deducted from his or her share of the gross.
