No Overall Rise In July

Consumer Prices Stabilize

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Overall consumer prices did not rise at all in July, the first time that has happened in more than 13 years, the government said today. The sharp improvement was due almost exclusively to a rapid decline in home-financing costs.

Excluding mortgage costs and housing prices, consumer prices last month increased 0.6 percent, led by a 0.9 percent boost in the food and beverage category, the Labor Department said.

For the first seven months of this year, inflation at the consumer level has accelerated a 12.6 percent compound annual rate, the department said. July's stable rate followed a 1 percent jump in June, but private economists predicted that last month's increase in food and beverage costs is only the beginning of a dramatic rise in this category.

The Labor Department reported last week that wholesale prices rose 1.7 percent in July, while food prices at this level jumped about 9 percent. It usually takes a month or two for food prices at the producer stage to work their way to the consumer level.

The wide variation in the Consumer Price Index from a 1 percent rise in June to no movement in July was "almost unprecedented," said Labor Department economist Patrick Jackman. Not since March 1967 has the CPI remained unchanged, and the index has not declined since August 1965, he said.

Before July, consumer prices had risen at least 0.9 percent for 18 straight months.

The CPI in July stood at 247.8 before seasonal adjustment. That means that goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period cost $247.80 last month. The index was 13.2 percent higher last month than in July 1979.

Private economists cautioned that July's improvement on the inflation front was part illusion.

"Obviously, the increase in food prices is more significant than the decrease in housing costs," said Michael Evans, head of Evans Economics of Washington, D.C. "There's really no comparison.

"People go to the supermarket every week; they may buy a house once every seven or eight years," he said. "Less than a million people a year might be affected by mortgage costs; everyone feels the bite of higher food bills."

Allen Sinai, vice president of Data Resources Inc., of Lexington, Mass., said the Consumer Price Index for July "may show better results, but this is not indicative of inflation's true direction at this time."

The decline in home financing costs in July's report actually reflects conditions as far back as May, these economists say.

However, in recent weeks, both house prices and mortgage rates have begun to climb higher again. This won't be measured by the Consumer Price Index until the fall, they added.

Even July's rise in consumer food prices does not tell the full story, said Sinai. Wholesale food prices rose about 9 percent in July, but the full impact won't hit consumers for another month or two.

Rocketing food prices partly reflect the searing drought that has afflicted the Midwest and South this summer, killing off poultry and other animals while drying out corn and grain fields.

"Accelerating food prices already are evident at the supermarket," said Sinai. "Since food's a necessity, its effect on peoples' purchasing power is greater and more immediate than the impact of previous housing cost rises," he added.

Many economists now expect food prices to rise at a 20 percent annual rate through the last part of 1980.

This is in sharp contrast with past months when food prices moderated, thus off-

Polish Dissidents Shrug Off Offers

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Government negotiators met with worker committees across Poland's strike-paralyzed Baltic coast today in efforts to end nine days of walkouts by an estimated 130,000 workers.

Polish dissidents dismissed the government offers as "only small concessions" and insisted the strike is pro-democratic, not anti-socialist.

As Communist Party leader Edward Gierek's government sought a way out of the tense impasse, there still was no word on whether authorities would press charges against dissident leader Jacek Kuron and at least 23 other Polish activists detained by police.

In West Germany, it was announced that Chancellor Helmut Schmidt had canceled next week's scheduled summit with in East Germany with East German Communist Party leader Erich Honecker because of "recent events in Europe," a clear allusion to the Polish crisis.

The Roman Catholic bishop of this strike-bound seaport was quoted today as saying a prolonged work stoppage would be "against the good of the community."

In a statement released by church officials, Rt. Rev. Lech Kaczmarek expressed "understanding for the strikers who make efforts toward improving living conditions."

"The Gdansk bishop also made the point that prolonged laying down of work, eventual riots or the shedding of brotherly blood are against the good of the community," the statement said, "and he called on the workers for wise and reasonable action." Church officials said the bishop's comments came during a meeting with strikers Thursday.

It was the first public comment on the walkouts by a prominent religious leader inside this predominantly Catholic country. In a carefully worded statement earlier this week, Polish-born Pope John Paul II said at the Vatican, "We here in Rome are united with our fellow Poles."

The Polish government today denied a report by a

London newspaper that Gierek made a quick trip to Moscow to confer with Soviet leaders about the strikes. Some Western diplomats have expressed concern that Poland's Russian neighbors might use military force to end the walkouts.

In Warsaw, rumors circulated that the capital would be hit by a general strike, and worried motorists formed long lines at gas stations there.

Dissident sources reported the strikes in Gdansk, Gdynia and other Baltic coast cities had shut down 420 plants by Thursday night. A broadcast from Szczecin, on the border with East Germany, said a paper mill in Kozno and the Polmo auto equipment plant were among the new shutdowns.

Dissident sources reported the arrest of eight more of their leaders in Warsaw and one in Krakow, southern Poland. Those rounded up in the capital included Leszek Moczulski, president of the Committee of Independent Poland, and Wieslaw Keck, a leading member of the Committee for Social Self-Defense.

Kuron, the chief spokesman for the Committee for Social Self-Defense, and 15 other members were arrested in Warsaw Wednesday night, but one of them was released Thursday, the sources said.

There was speculation the crackdown was related to the widespread rumors about an impending general strike in the capital, where scattered transport strikes several weeks ago have been the only recent evidence of labor unrest.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said the U.S. government took note of the arrests of the dissidents "with concern" and urged the quick release of those seized. Previously the State Department refused to comment on the Polish crisis, saying it was a matter for the Polish government and people to resolve.

Sporadic strikes began around the country after Gierek's regime withdrew meat subsidies on July 1, and prices jumped. The current massive strike wave began Aug. 14 at the giant V.I. Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk and quickly spread through the Gdansk-Gdynia-Sopot industrial triangle on the central Baltic coast.

Gdansk was also the scene of anti-price strikes and riots in 1970 which resulted in the death of at least 50 people and the replacement of Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka by Gierek. But this time the strikers are demanding free trade unions and other radical political reforms as well as wage increases to offset the rise in meat prices.

Gierek in a broadcast earlier this week offered gradual wage hikes but rejected the demands for political changes threatening to the communist system.

Lucey Said Anderson's Top Choice

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —

Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson, a Republican, has chosen former Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, a liberal Democrat, to become his vice presidential running mate, according to campaign sources.

Lucey, 62, a senior official in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's unsuccessful presidential drive, was expected to accept Anderson's offer, which was to be made soon, probably today.

Lucey's matchup with Anderson was to be formally announced early next week in Washington, according to the sources.

Anderson, campaigning through the Midwest, declined to confirm the choice, saying, "the selection process is not over."

At a news conference in Minneapolis today, Anderson said he spoke with Lucey by telephone late Thursday night, but he declined to say what was discussed.

Asked hypothetically what contribution Lucey would make to his ticket, Anderson said Lucey is a competent former Democratic governor from a Midwestern state.

The congressman also denied that he tried and failed to find someone of greater stature than Lucey to run with him. Campaign sources, however, have said otherwise.

Lucey, reached at his vacation home near Jacksonport, Wis., said there had been no formal offer and if there is, he said, "I'm not prepared to say whether I will or will not accept."

Libyan Trade Discussion By Billy Related

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Carter says he once told President Carter there should be one U.S.-Libyan trade and once got a White House briefing on Libyan C-130 cargo planes. But he denies ever trying to influence U.S. policy for Libya.

The president's brother testified under oath Thursday that the Libyans never asked him to influence U.S. policy, he never asked the president to do anything for Libya and the president would not have done it if he had asked.

The brother was called back for more questioning today by the special Senate judiciary subcommittee investigating his Libya ties.

"I never tried to change U.S. policy," he told the senators. "I may have told Jimmy my opinion, but it was just shooting the bull."

Billy said he told the president in a brief conversation that "it makes no sense" for America to buy 900 tonnes as much in goods from Libya as it sells to Libya. He said the president "made no response at all."

The brother said he also had his associate, Henry "Randy" Coleman, call the White House and get a briefing on eight C-130 cargo planes Libya bought but the Carter administration won't allow delivery.

The administration is prohibiting export of the planes to Libya under a law that bans U.S. arms sales to "countries supporting international terrorists."

But Billy testified no Libyan official ever discussed the C-130s with him and said he had Coleman ask for the White House briefing only because he had read about the controversy over the planes in newspapers.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., asked the president's brother what he did with the White House information after he got it.

"I stored it along with a lot of other information I store in my mind," Carter said. "I didn't do anything with it."

Carter told the senators in his opening statement that when Libya invited him for his first visit to that country September 1978, "I had been invited because I was the brother of the president.

Christians Urged Get Into Politics

By SHARON HERBAUGH
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Political

conservatives and fundamentalist preachers trying to rally their flocks to the polls in November urged foot-stomping, hand-clapping Christians to "get a bar of soap, roll up their sleeves and make politics clean as it ought to be again."

Ten thousand yelling, whistling people from at least 45 states packed flag-draped Reunion Arena on Thursday for the opening session of a two-day non-partisan conference aimed at getting Christians involved in politics.

The predominantly white, middle-class crowd shouted chorus after chorus of

"amen," "hallelujah," and "praise the Lord" to a barrage of blasts against the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion, homosexuality and America's deteriorating military might.

"Christians have ignored for too long the lack of leadership in this country," said the Rev. Jerry Falwell of Lynchburg, Va. "But we can't blame the politicians for the condition of the country because it often reflects the spiritual condition of the church."

"People have got to get saved, get baptized and get registered to vote," said Falwell, founder of the weekly television program "Old Time Gospel Hour."

The conference, billed as the National Affairs Briefing, is sponsored by the Roundtable, a Washington, D.C.-based non-denominational organization that provides information on moral issues to church and business leaders.

Organizers of the conference have declined to publicly endorse any candidate, but have urged Christians to vote for conservative principles that would "turn the nation back to God."

However, Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., who delivered the keynote address at the Republican National Convention last month, took the chance to urge support for GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan.

He also challenged Christians to become involved in government.

"For too long Christians have been led to believe that politics is dirty. If that is the case then they should get a bar of soap, roll up their sleeves and make politics clean as it ought to be again," he said.

The Rev. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, attacked proposals that would give rights to homosexuals, while the Rev. E.V. Hill, pastor of a Baptist church in the Watts section of Los Angeles, brought the crowd roaring to its feet three times with a ringing call for Christians to speak out against moral decay.

"When a woman who is accused of lesbianism is given an honorable discharge (from the Navy), something should be said. In days when teachers look and smell worse than those they are teaching, something should be said. When we are told...it's time to get rid of unemployment and then they double it, something should be said," he told the cheering crowd.

Local Reservists Take Training

FT. DRUM, N.Y. — Some 120 army reserve members from eastern North Carolina are undergoing annual training here as the 398th Supply Co. of Greenville supports the Logistics Control Center exercise and the Ft. Drum Equipment Concentration Site (ECS).

The 398th Supply Co. and its members are joining army reservists from nine other units participating in the two-week exercise at the northern New York military facility. The exercise is designed as a field oriented supply and support mission.

During the first week of training at Ft. Drum, the local company provided maintenance support to other units in the field here, according to SFC Marshall Tripp of Greenville.

Tripp explained that, "While maintenance support is not the normal mission of the 398th, the maintenance specialists within the unit, with the assistance of other personnel in the unit, have combined together to accomplish the task. We have analyzed the skills of the members of the unit, and have made a field reorganization of the unit for this two-week period in order to meet this mission."

During the first week at Ft. Drum, the 398th members have operated in a tactical field environment for four days and nights, without returning to the main camp area, it was pointed out. During the second week at Ft. Drum, the unit will provide support to the ECS.

The main party of the local unit arrived by charter bus at Ft. Drum on Aug. 16 and will leave the military facility on Aug. 30.

The 398th is a depot level unit, with the capabilities of receiving, storing, and issuing heavy materials, supplies and equipment, such as tanks, portable bridge components, generator units, trucks and other larger related equipment.

WET NURSE FOR PUPPY

My dog recently had one puppy and she refuses to nurse him or have anything to do with him. I'm trying to feed the pup with a bottle, but it's practically impossible because he has to be fed all through my working hours. This morning I took him to the veterinarian who gave him glucose and put him in a heating pad. Can you put me in touch QUICKLY with someone with a mother dog nursing puppies just to see if the mother would accept this pup and nurse him, too? E. K.

Hotline contacted the Pitt County Humane Society, which does not know, at this time, of a nursing mama dog. It asked Hotline to appeal for such a situation for your puppy. Anyone who can help is asked to call you at 756-7031 or 756-8668 as quickly as possible. They should ask for Evelyn.

Husband Clams Up; Wife Digs In

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: They say "opposites attract." Well, my husband and I are the perfect example. I'm Irish and my husband is Swedish, and even though we love each other, we are miles apart when it comes to temperament.

We can't seem to settle our differences by talking things out as our counselor suggested. Whenever we disagree, we always end up in an argument, and he says, "All right, have it your way." Then he clams up and doesn't speak to me for days.

I finally have to tell him that he was right and I was wrong in order to coax him back into a good mood.

I would much rather have a good old Irish knock-down, drag-out argument than put up with his sulking and silent treatment.

So how do I get this stubborn Swede to blow his cork and get his resentment out in the open where he can deal with it?
LOUD-MOUTHED MICK

DEAR MICK: You can't, but the right therapist might be able to. Your husband needs to learn the importance of expressing his emotions and getting all that anger out of his system. Bottled-up resentment can cause stomach ulcers, high blood pressure, skin rashes and any number of physical ailments.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a 24-year-old fellow. Andy is a decent, likable, considerate person. There's only one thing wrong with him. He has an almost babyish attachment to his mother.

If he's going to be out after midnight, he always calls her to let her know, because he says she worries about him getting hurt in his car.

Andy will never make a date with me unless he checks with his mother first to be sure she has something to do. She's a widow, and he doesn't want her to be alone.

We can never make plans for Sunday afternoon because he reserves that time to take his mother to visit friends and relatives. (She's an invalid.)

Andy wants to marry me, but I'm afraid I will always play second fiddle to his mother. I need your advice.
RHONDA

DEAR RHONDA: Grab him. For a preview peek of how a man will treat his wife, take notice of the way he treats his mother.

DEAR ABBY: What is the difference between a wife and a mistress?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Night and day.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you have a wastepaper basket? If not, you surely need one for the crazy, asinine letter from that vulgar young man who proclaimed his love for fat ladies — and the fatter the better!

I am a 93-year-old woman, and never in all my life have I read anything so disgusting! I can't imagine anyone in his right mind writing such a foolish letter.

He said he was no weirdo, yet who but a weirdo would have described in such obscene detail the fat women whose bodies he "craved." That man was clearly out of his head. No wonder he asked you to withhold his name.

"Had I been Dear Abby, I would have replied, "Dear Withhold: You ought to hang your head in shame!"
DECENT IN SPOKANE

DEAR ABBY: The government keeps crying about the high cost of Social Security. The solution is so obvious I am surprised nobody has picked up on it:

Simply do not pay Social Security to people who are rich and do not need the money. Billions of dollars could be saved and nobody would be hurt.
SCOTTY IN CLAREMONT, N.H.

DEAR SCOTTY: Social Security is an earned right, not a gift based on need. Those who have worked long enough under Social Security are entitled to monthly benefits when they are eligible regardless of whether they are rich or poor. The government is paying back the money that workers have put into the system over the years. If the rich folks want to give it away, that's their business, but they should not be denied what is rightfully theirs.

DEAR ABBY: A very good friend of ours is in the real estate business. Several months ago we gave him a referral, and he got the listing and sold the house. He said when it closed escrow he would either give us a gift certificate for a department store, or he and his wife would take me and my wife out to dinner.

Last night we went out to dinner with them at a very nice restaurant. When the check came, you can imagine our shock when he said, "Well, let's split the bill."

He must have forgotten his offer, so I paid my half and didn't say anything.

Should this be ignored? Or is there a way I can mention his promise without causing embarrassment on either side?
JUST DON'T KNOW

DEAR JUST: He's probably forgotten his promise, so don't mention it. But if he reads this column, you may collect after all.

fsetting the sharp rise in mortgage rates. Consumer food prices rose only 0.5 percent in June and 0.3 percent in May.

Private economists, looking behind the Consumer Price Index, now expect inflation to pick up again in coming months.

As recently as July, they were predicting that the inflation rate, as measured by consumer prices, would rise at an annual rate of 8 percent to 10 percent for the rest of this year. That was far less than the 18 percent pace recorded earlier in 1980.

"Now, we envision an 11 percent to 12 percent rate for the rest of this year," said Evans.

For the entire year, consumer prices will rise between 12 percent and 14 percent — about the same as last year, said Sinai.

In other economic news Thursday, the government reported that new factory orders for durable goods rose a seasonally adjusted 8.4 percent, the first increase since January, when they increased 5.5 percent.

U.S. Will Get Somalia Bases

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The United States has initiated an agreement with Somalia providing a new launch pad for U.S. military power in the troubled Persian Gulf region.

Final terms, reached after three days of negotiations here, include $20 million a year in credits for Somalia to buy American weapons. In return, the U.S. Navy gets access to the Berbera port on the Horn of Africa, alongside strategic oil-shipping lanes.

The base was built initially for the Soviet navy, but Somalia switched its allegiance while its neighbor, Ethiopia, joined the Soviet camp.

The agreement, initialed Thursday, carries with it a potential for U.S. involvement in the bitter dispute between the two African countries over Ethiopia's Ogaden region.

Somalia is giving no written assurances that the arms it will buy through the United States will not be used in that conflict. But, State Department officials said, the weapons contracts will carry the customary provision restricting their use to self-defense.

"They know that if they use it (arms aid) for an invasion we'll cut it off," said one U.S. official, who asked not to be named.

The agreement completes a network of military facility arrangements in the Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf region begun by the Carter administration after the fall of the Shah of Iran.

With top-line American jets and other equipment worth billions of dollars, Iran had providing security for the western democracies in the troubled Persian Gulf-Indian Ocean region.

The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan last December, and the perceived threat the Red Army posed to the Arab oil fields, impelled the Carter administration to seek out friendly countries for military facilities.

The most important aspect of the Somali deal will be access to the port and airstrip at Berbera, on the Gulf of Aden. Similar agreements were reached earlier in the year with Oman and Kenya.

The Soviets were developing Berbera as a base until 1977, when the Somalis expelled them because of Soviet support for Ethiopia.

As in Kenya and Oman, the United States will not establish a base in Somalia. Instead, the Pentagon plans to help to improve ports and airstrips and to store fuel and equipment there. But the facilities will remain under the control of the host governments.

In making the deal with Somalia, the officials said the United States promised $20 million in military credits and $5 million in support funds in 1980 and 1981. Somalia is already getting $77 million in U.S. economic aid this year and is scheduled to receive $50 million next year.

Of the three deals, the one with Somalia was by far the most difficult to wrap up. At the outset, Somalia reportedly asked for $2 billion in military aid. Last week, Ethiopia reported that Somalia would receive $8 billion in arms.

The Ogaden province is claimed by Somalia. Ethnic Somalis there are in rebellion against Ethiopia. When Somali troops joined them in 1978, the Carter administration was forced to deplore the maneuver even though it was in the process of improving relations with Somalia.

Life As It's Lived

Real Problems Ignored By Decorating Experts

By GAIL MICHAELS

The two most persistent decorating problems in the modern American home are how to arrange the furniture around the television set and where to put the ironing board.

These are problems you never see treated in a decorating magazine. As far as their editors are concerned, the television ranks right up there with paperback books, fingerpaintings, and Rubbermaid trashcans as decorating no-nos.

I've learned to get around the TV's exclusion from the world of high-fashion decorating merely by choosing a floor plan with a focal point and substituting my set for the ivory chess board or the collection of priceless porcelains.

But the ironing board is a little more difficult. For awhile I left it behind the door in the utility room. This solution was workable as long as everything my family wore was either permanent press or tie-dyed gauze. Oxford cloth was grounds for divorce.

But like most families, numerous items that required ironing slowly crept into our wardrobes until now I find myself with a laundry basket full every two months or so. Naturally, with so little time between ironings I don't want to waste my energy by taking down the board.

Because the magazines choose to ignore this problem, I've had to rely on the advice of friends. One put a Formica top on her ironing board and converted it into a kitchen bar. Not only did this prove an excellent solution to the decorating problem, but it freed the counter space she had been using for the toaster. Now she just irons the bread on both sides. This arrangement also is a godsend on those occasions when she serves pressed duck.

Another friend covered hers with a lace tablecloth and used it in the dining room as a buffet. She claims that it has eliminated the need for trivets.

Of course, these aren't the only ways ironing boards can be disguised. Women's creativity really comes out when confronted with this furnishing. I've heard of ironing boards being used as tables for three-handed bridge, as exercise boards, and as lap desks.

I wanted to use mine as a coffee table, but Phillip objected. He claimed that it was too high to put his feet on and, besides, it blocked his view of the television set.

"But where am I going to put it?" I said.

"How about down?"

"I can't. I've got to iron in the near future."

"How near?"

"As soon as I get enough clothes to make it worth my while."

He pointed to the clothes basket. "What do you call that?"

"A conversation piece."

"I call it tacky. Why don't you go ahead and iron now?"

"I'm too pressed for time. If it bothers you so much, why don't you do the honors?"

He looked at the pile of clothes and then at the high-rise coffee table. "You know, this might work better as an end table. All it needs is a lamp."

I think we've just added a new wrinkle to the decorating scene.

Woman's Day

Education Workshop Planned

BOONE — The Center for Women in Educational Leadership at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, announces a workshop for women aspiring to positions in educational administration.

The workshop will be held Sept. 6-7 at the Continuing Education Center, Appalachian State University, Boone. It is open to women in the Asheville, Boone, Winston-Salem and Greensboro areas who are already in educational administration and who wish to move to higher administrative levels.

Following registration from 9-10 a.m., Lillian Woo, director of the Center for Women in Educational Leadership, will explain the center and its goals.

Topics to be covered include: Understanding the role of the educational administrator; Identifying the behaviors needed to become a successful administrator; Understanding the use of power in leadership roles; Learning how to plan for career advancement.

Among the participants will be Katherine Lewis, assistant superintendent of schools, Pitt County.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

In Sweden, a 12-year-old child divorced his parents on the grounds of incompatibility and irreconcilable differences.

In Chicago, another 12-year-old waved goodbye to his Russian parents, said he liked his new school, and was defecting to the United States.

It's part of a growing trend that focuses attention on the rights of children.

I remember when I was 12. Every Friday, my parents went to their friends' house to play cards. After I had teased their dog, slugged down 16 ounces of pop and listened to the radio, there was nothing left for me to do but fall asleep on the sofa. About one or two in the morning, they stood me on my feet and stuffed me into the car where I shivered myself to death all the way home.

I had been doing this for about four years when one night I suggested that they let me stay at home and sleep in my own bed. My mother wanted to know why I wanted her dead.

Most of us who are raised by intimidation and public humiliation have a difficult time relating to this new-found trend.

Looking back, there wasn't a day that went by that I did not have sufficient grounds for dissolving the relationship. A stepfather certainly constituted "alienation of affection." Whether or not they were going to let me stay out all night at the prom was "mental anguish" beyond belief. Telling me to spend my own money for a bicycle was definitely grounds for "non-support," and switching my legs for lying was "aggravated assault." I wrote the book on "coveting" and not returning anything.

If my parents had been any different, I would have had nothing to talk about to my friends. Our parents and their inhumanity to us was all we ever talked about... or bragged about.

They made us salute the flag, believe in God, say thank you, flush, eat everything on our plate, keep our feet on the floor and our knees together.

We couldn't swim after we ate, pick our noses, hang on the phone, put our elbows on the table, go to bed with dirty feet, drink milk out of a carton or smoke cigarettes.

They punished us for talking back to teachers, leaving the refrigerator door open, playing with our gum, losing our bicycle and stealing.

Babies have come a long way. I'm weak. I don't want to be the one to tell my mother.

Marriage Announced

MRS. DONALD YATES LEGGETT... is the former Nancy Porter Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Porter of Greenville, whose marriage to Mr. Leggett, son of Mrs. Ruby H. Lanier of Buies Creek, took place Sunday.

Alexander-Parker Vows Said Sunday

PIKEVILLE — Jennie M. Parker of Wilson and S. Rudolph Alexander of Greenville were married in a private ceremony at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in St. Joseph United Methodist Church here.

The Rev. Henry Hunnings and the Rev. Bess G. Hunnings officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bridegroom's sister and brother-in-law of Raleigh, niece of Buies Creek and daughter of Greenville attended. The bride's daughter of Richmond and son from Albemarle also attended.

A luncheon in honor of the couple was held following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

The bride is employed with the Wilson County Library, Wilson.

The bridegroom is the son of Alice Scott of Pikeville. He is associate dean of student affairs at East Carolina University, Greenville.

Allen Family Reunion Planned

Descendants of William and Louise Allen will have a reunion Sunday in the Red Oak Church fellowship hall, Greenville. A picnic dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. All family members are invited to attend.

DANGER SIGNALS

Guard against the danger signals of debt advises Dr. Justine Rozier, extension family resource management specialist, NCSU. You are over your head in debt when you are late with payments, occasionally skip payments to have money for regular expenses or take out loans to pay off old loans.

Leaders Human, Too

Too often, perhaps we expect our leaders to operate at top efficiency at all times. Since they, too, are human they are susceptible to all the failings that plague the rest of us.

Sen. Ted Kennedy delivered what was generally conceded to be a brilliant address to the Democratic National Convention. It probably restored him to a place of leadership nationally and makes him a top contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1984.

Remember, though, only a few months back, Sen. Kennedy was fumbling through an interview with Roger Mudd. His performance was so bad that it is credited with causing the remarkable slip in the polls and subsequent defeats in state primaries.

On the other hand President Carter delivered a speech before the Democratic National Convention which, while good in content, was considered to be poor in delivery. The president made mistakes in making the address and perspired profusely under the lights. It generally took the luster off his astounding come-back which resulted in his controlling the convention.

But recall that only a short while before, the president went through the press conference of his political life — the one in which he told all in the Billy Carter affair. Though it involved strong personal feelings, the president performed well and the nationally televised press conference may have saved his re-nomination. Consider, too, that the president also went on a one-on-one interview on national television with Dan Rather and got high marks for that one.

Our leaders can't psych themselves up for super performances all the time, just as star athletes can't. If they have what it takes to come through with clutch performances when the chips are down, then they have adequate courage and endurance to be considered true national leaders.

THE PAST IS PROLOGUE!

Ammunition For Carter

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Carter quietly but so far vainly signaled the Soviet Union in the early stages of the Polish workers' strike that Moscow must show progress in human rights or face an intensified diplomatic attack from the U.S.

That attack is now planned for the late-fall meeting in Madrid of the U.S., Canada and 33 European countries, including the Soviet Union, that signed the 1975 Helsinki agreements promising to uphold human rights. It gives Carter the best of two worlds: a chance to make political gains in his campaign against Ronald Reagan among large and potent ethnic groups; and a chance to show anti-Soviet muscle at a time Moscow is under attack around the world for its invasion of Afghanistan.

Although the strike by Polish shipyard workers was triggered by economic issues, mainly inflation and meat subsidies, it is fast taking on a hard political coloration: the lack of political freedoms in Communist Poland caused by the iron hand of Moscow.

If the workers' strike, now centered in the shipyards of Gdansk, leads to arrests, trials and new political repression — a 50-50 possibility as viewed by top Carter administration officials — Carter's envoys will go to the Madrid "Helsinki review" conference with potent new ammunition to use against Moscow.

As yet, there has not been the slightest response from the Kremlin to Carter's appeal for some demonstration of human rights concessions in the Soviet Union and its Eastern European satellites in this pre-Madrid period. The warning signal was sent by Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie in an unreported talk he had the morning of July 31 with Jewish, East European and other ethnic leaders called in to the State Department.

Warning of a tough American offensive at Madrid, Muskie said the U.S. would take "positive account of any significant progress on human rights" by Moscow before the Madrid meeting begins.

Those words were telegraphed on Carter's orders to all American ambassadors abroad for transmission to their counterparts to show the trend of Carter's thinking. Carter himself told the same ethnic leaders later that day in the White House that Moscow had "dishonored the principles of the Helsinki accords, both inside and outside its own borders" and praised the "courageous men and women now in prison or exile" for seeking enforcement of human rights.

When Poland's communist government forcibly repressed the last wave of workers' revolts in 1976, illegal Workers Self-defense Committees were formed that still operate in a Polish political climate measurably freer than inside the Soviet Union.

Reports spirited out of Poland by these human rights committees were used to bolster the human rights attack against the Soviet bloc led by the U.S. in the 1975 "Helsinki review" conference in Belgrade.

Failure of the Polish communist regime to settle the new and rising demands of workers without repression could produce far more evidence of human rights violations for the U.S. to brandish at Madrid. Carter intends to use it not only to put Moscow on the spot but to strengthen the U.S. position with Western allies who, despite Afghanistan, are fearful of antagonizing the Soviets at Madrid.

With the U.S. election 10 weeks off, there is no reluctance here to make political capital out of the human rights issue. As one White House aide told us: "Did you notice that the best spontaneous applause Carter got in his acceptance speech was when he trumpeted human rights?"

Max Kampelema, the defense-oriented Democrat who will be co-chairman of the U.S. delegation in Madrid, discovered that most European statesmen did not particularly like his message when Carter sent him to brief them on the hard-line U.S. stance being prepared for Madrid. But when Kampelema took the president's message to seven major U.S. cities recently in quiet talks with Jewish and East European ethnic leaders, his pledge that Carter would pull no punches at Madrid was emotionally applauded. Their only question: Does Carter really mean it?

Carter does. What is happening today in the Baltic ports of Poland plays into his hand, dramatizing his repeated appeals for Western solidarity to contain Soviet power and enhancing his standing at home.

THIS AFTERNOON

Costly Exposure

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The sets were flashy, the music toe-tapping, the scripts well written and rehearsed, and the actors attractive.

That's show biz. And that's what the two national conventions just finished were all about. As expected, little of drama or news emerged. On more than one occasion, well-known television star reporters spent more time interviewing one another than bothering with the workings of little-known politicians and their even less well known backstage managers and directors.

The tube has become the single most important element in political campaigning. Time was when stumping the arenas and shopping centers, talking from the front porch or from the back platform of a train, and pumping hands at private homes occupied most of a politician's attention.

Nowadays, any of that kind of campaigning which is done is orchestrated especially to provide "picture opportunities" for the lenses of the electronic communications folk.

Wooling
And time was that when a candidate came to town his first and most important calls were on the local party leaders and political power people. Today candidates bend their schedules and woo the media leaders in order to get on the tube.

This, say the political experts, is only a natural outcome of some dynamic social changes: population and geography are too big to cover in person; issues have taken a backseat to image in politics; individual voters no longer troop to the polls in party-loyal fashion, choosing to vote instead for the person and not the party.

The importance of television in a political campaign on the state level is just as real as that on the national. Says a chief political advisor to Gov. Jim Hunt: "If you don't get on television, you can't be a viable candidate for a major statewide office such as governor, lieutenant governor, or U.S. Senate."

So candidates scurry to get on the tube — both in free time on the news shows, and paid time with their campaign commercials.

It is commonly accepted in political circles that almost every individual watches television at some time during the day. No candidate can hope to be elected without television exposure.

This fact also leads directly to another phenomenon in political campaigns: the millions and millions of dollars now required to run a credible race. There are other expenses such as travel and mailings and printed materials such as brochures and bumper stickers and billboards. A few top-level campaign workers are well paid, but most either volunteer or get only minimal pay with promises of jobs if their candidate wins.

Dominant
But for every dollar spent in the campaign for, say newspaper advertising; another $15 is spent on television. Last year the 18 commercial television stations in North Carolina realized gross incomes in excess of $80 million. That's big business, and profits before taxes are reportedly in excess of $26 million.

So, the politicians must compete with soap and soft drinks and pantyhose to buy some of that time. Rates are up sharply as the viewer rating battles produce figures illustrating how many people watch which stations. Some urban stations have boosted advertising rates 50 percent in the past year, based on ratings reports.

This means that when you see a 30-second spot for a candidate flicker briefly across the screen, you can figure that if it's during a late movie or weekend morning, it is costing about $200. If it's during prime time, and especially during a ballgame or a news broadcast, the cost may be $750-plus.

At those rates, no wonder politicians spend so much time raising money.

BY ART BUCHWALD They Did A Great Job

NEW YORK — As a member of the print media, no one stands in as much awe as I do of the electronic media. It is not when they have a good story that they're at their best — it's when they have no story at all and have to stick with it that they really shine.

All three networks excelled last week at the Democratic convention. I guess the highlight was Wednesday evening. I was watching one of the major channels and there was absolutely nothing going on. The network team rose to the occasion.

"Let's go now to Tammy Dumbarton. Tammy, you had an earlier report that nothing was going to happen in the next hour. Can you confirm that for us?"

"Yes, Lester. I've been talking to the Rhode Island delegation and they have told me the don't plan to do anything."

"That's very interesting, Tammy, stay with it. Let's go to Carlton Finks who is talking to a lady delegate from Delaware."

"Lester, as you know, nothing has taken place here for the last two hours and

"Lester, the traffic on Eighth Avenue is moving very well. Three buses have passed by in the last half-hour going north, and about six minutes ago I saw a 1961 Buick. You don't see many of those around any more. There is something going on in Pennsylvania Station. I believe an Amtrak train is running late, but none of the Amtrak people will talk about it."

"Eldon, will you hold off on that Amtrak report? We've had a bulletin that they've run out of coffee in the Garden concession stand just below us. Ron Peterson is trying to get over there now. Ron, can you get to the stand and check it out?"

"I'm working my way over now, Lester. As you can see, the floor is jammed with people. Okay, here I am. Sir, is it true your concession has run out of coffee?"

"Yes, we have. Hi, Mom and Dad and Danny and Eddie and Sue and the guys at Feagan's Bar."

"What do you plan to do about it?"

"Nothing."

"I guess that clinches it, Lester. It could be the biggest nothing story we've had so far."

"What do you think it all means, Temp?"

"Lester, it's too early to say, but I've talked to one of the senator's campaign aides who was closeted in the suite and he said none of it means anything. I'm trying to get confirmation on this now."

"You do that, Temp, and we'll get back to you. Now let's go to Eldon Lloyd who has been standing out on Eighth Avenue and can give us an up-to-date report on the situation there."

with me now is Mrs. Cynthia Grogan, a Carter delegate from Delaware who says she has nothing to say. Mrs. Grogan, is this true?"

"That's correct. On behalf of the entire delegation from Delaware I have no news to report."

"I'm sorry, Carlton, I have to switch to the Waldorf where Temple Star has the latest news on what is going on at Kennedy headquarters."

"Lester, I'm standing in the empty lobby of the Waldorf Astoria and over to my right, out of camera range, is the cashier's window. Sen. Kennedy checked out of here sometime today. He came down the elevators and walked out the Park Avenue exit with his family and got into a car."

Other Editors Say Task Force-Happy

(Salisbury Evening Post)

Modern government seems afloat these days, steaming off over the waters toward the horizon. This fantasy we have is created by the fleets of "task forces" that our agencies are sending down their launching pads.

A task force, as far as we know, was a World War II creation. It consisted of a number of warships sent off as a unit on a specific mission of destruction or observation.

Because it was an effective description, the phrase hung around in peace-time. In recent years, it has been adapted as a description for a committee given a special assignment, usually of an investigate-and-report nature. It's not a bad figure of speech.

But we are getting more than slightly seasick. In reading The Post we find task forces crisscrossing in every direction. No one is safe from being run down by the determined prowls being poked into every human condition.

Governor Hunt has just announced the dispatch of a state-wide task force to find locations for the disposal of dangerous waste. The Rowan Council of Human Welfare recently launched a half dozen or more task forces, largely reconnaissance vessels, to explore obscure corners of the welfare seas. No doubt they will find them to be as stormy as the task forces from downtown merchants found the redevelopment seas.

The casualty rate among task forces is high. Many are sent out and some never return. Some of them start their missions with their compasses askew and drift into the Sargasso where they are trapped forever by the doldrums. Some venture into government offices from whence they will come back. Autopsies would reveal they were suffocated by gobbledygook and buried under mounds of red tape.

Task forces always seem to be worried lest some worthy citizen "falls through the cracks" of the social welfare system. We wish that would happen to the words "task forces", "buzz word", and "hopefully". But it would be to no avail. Someone would launch a task force to invent new cliches.

Strength For Today

REPLACING EVIL WITH GOOD
Mere abstinence from evil acts does not necessarily make a good person.

Sometimes in defending their characters, people say something like this: "I don't lie, I don't steal, I don't carouse; therefore I am a good person."

Not necessarily. A good person is one who has made a valiant attempt to cleanse his life of evil and fill it with good. Jesus once told of a man out of whom a demon had been cast, but since no good was put into his life, five demons came back and took up residence within him. His latter state was much worse than his former.

Puritanism may be good or it may be bad. Rigorous self-discipline — of which Puritanism is one form — is good if it is the first step in the cultivation of a life rich in good deeds, kindly impulses, loving words. But self-discipline as a negative process which does not go on to the positive cultivation of good, may be nothing more than mere pharisaical pride. — Elisha Douglass

Income Statistics Misleading

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Personal income rose $28.6 billion or 1.4 percent in July, but those who work for a living aren't likely to celebrate by going on a spending spree. They know they didn't get it.

They have learned that statistics mislead when taken out of context. And they know also that they should suspect signs of good news when their own senses tell them that we are in an economic predicament.

Suspicious aroused, they ask how personal income could go off so very sharply in its own direction while other economic measures fell?

When, for example, unemployment has been rising, and second-quarter economic output fell at a near-record rate of 9 percent, and corporate profits fell more sharply than in any quarter in 25 years.

When July's factory operating rate fell to 74.2 percent, the lowest since July 1975. When final sales were off. When some of the biggest and once most successful companies were struggling to survive.

But most perplexing, when wages and salaries in the very same month of July fell $1.7 billion, and the income of farmers didn't rise at all.

The confusion is cleared up — but not the problem — when a breakdown of the personal income figure shows that all but $4 billion of the increase resulted from what are called transfer payments.

Transfer payments are aptly named, being payments transferred to people other than those who produced the income. To beneficiaries of Social Security, to recipients of welfare, veterans benefits, unemployment.

Transfer payments leaped in July, mainly as a consequence of a 14.3 percent cost-of-living adjustment for Social Security recipients, an increase that wage-earners might be denied under wage-price guidelines. The situation, that of non-productive members of society retaining or improving their standards while economic life deteriorates for others, may be only temporary, but it generates some serious questioning.

How far, for example, can the country carry its propensity to prefer growing benefits on a growing population of retirees without raising economic production, and the efficiency with which it produces goods?

Isn't it futile to expect the latest increase in personal income to fuel greater sales and hoist the country out of recession? Especially when recipients of transfer payments generally have to use most of their payments for living expenses rather than discretionary purchases?

Should Social Security benefits be allowed to rise at such a rate, particularly since retirees are shielded from some of the increases — such as higher mortgage rates — included in the living cost index?

For the moment it is easy to put off such questions as not immediately relevant. It is more comfortable to dismiss them because the answers may involve a degree of pain. Almost every family gets some benefit.

Eventually, though, it seems that such questions will force their way into consideration because those who earn the money and produce the goods might find themselves without the means to continue.

It's been a long time brewing. It certainly dates back at least to the consumer revolution of the 1960s when, it seems to have been decided, the consumer deserved to be treated better than the producer.

Now, belatedly, it is realized that the nation cannot continue to consume unless it produces. And that if he doesn't produce it will have outrageous inflation.

The latest economic statistics suggest that if the lesson has been learned it isn't yet practiced. It isn't so much a matter of denying transfer payments as one of increasing production to pay for them.

Eel Salad And Sea Lettuce Soup Included On Menu

OCTOPUS ON THE GRILL — Charks Johnson of the N.C. Marine Resources center cooks up a batch of bite-sized octopus at the 4th annual Strange Seafood Spectacular. (AP Laserphoto)

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP) — If Judy Spitsbergen had her way, North Carolinians wouldn't find it unusual to sit down to a dinner of eel salad, sea lettuce soup, shark creole and a glass of Yaupon tea.

But there are those fishermen who catch an occasional eel or shark and throw them back into the water.

For those people, Mrs. Spitsbergen and the staff of the state Hampton Mariners Museum organized the 4th annual Strange Seafood Spectacular. With the help of local residents, they begged, borrowed and collected enough kinds of seafood to prepare 43 little-used recipes to serve to the public Thursday.

"This is to give the public a chance to taste seafood that's edible, found in North Carolina, but usually not eaten in North Carolina," Mrs. Spitsbergen said.

More than 1,000 daring tasters showed up for the event at the museum. Awaiting them was everything from batter-fried stingray to raw purple sea-urchin eggs.

David Cavett, a staff member at the museum, demonstrated how to prepare a leggy octopus, cutting it into bite-sized pieces. He said he often cooks octopus on the charcoal grill after marinating it in olive oil and wine.

"Folks really do like it," he said. "It's a delicacy in many parts of the world. The meat has a marvelous texture and consistency."

But some tasters called the grilled limbs chewy.

Other cooks prepared smaller creatures — coquina clams in a cocktail or periwinkle snails in garlic butter. The periwinkle snails are so small they must be pried from their shells with a straight pin. Both the creatures are commonly found along public beaches and in marshes.

For any swimmer with a fear of sharks, there were tasty recipes to do away with the meaty animal. There was smoked shark, shark chowder, shark salad and shark creole.

Shark is available from charter or trawling boats and by special order at seafood markets. Local fishermen also are a good source of squid.

A number of the cooks used traditional seafood recipes and substituted a less-used seafood. There was mullet row instead of caviar, mussel dressing instead of oyster dressing and mussel chowder instead of clam chowder.

Newspaper columnist Jerry Bledsoe of Charlotte brought his famous left-handed whelk chowder. When pressed, he admitted the left- and right-handed whelks cannot be distinguished by taste, but "the left-handed makes a more colorful title."

Bledsoe also admitted his batch of chowder may contain a few right-handers.

Many of the cooks used family recipes or concocted their own with the help of the N.C. State University seafood processing lab.

"They've really sold me," said Marion Lane of Silver Spring, Md. "I'm tired of seeing fishermen pulling things out of the water and throwing them back."

But Cavett and some of the other cooks expressed doubt that a large market for out-of-the-ordinary seafood will be developed. He said some of the seafood is exported and most of it goes to the Orient.

"This (fishing for unusual seafood) requires specialized knowledge and equipment," Cavett said. "The average fisherman knows absolutely nothing about exporting this seafood."

The local market, on the other hand, may offer brighter prospects.

"We started catching them and experimenting with recipes," said Charles Manoch of the National Marine Fisheries. "It's amazing how fast you can open up a market for it."

For example, Manoch said, a French chef at a Charleston, S.C., restaurant has some of the unusual fish trucked in to use in his special recipes.

Outcome In Poland Will Affect Others In Bloc

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA, Austria (AP) —

The outcome of the strike crisis in Poland is likely to have an effect on all five of the other smaller members of the Soviet Bloc, a group not nearly as monolithic as their propaganda suggests.

Poland's strikes come at a time of delicate politics and serious economic troubles in the other nations also. Their officials fear damage to cautious changes that have been made over the years.

Hungary underwent a traumatic attempt at revolution in 1956 and has been quietly working at loosening some of the orthodox Communist restraints on its economy.

While visibly trying not to worry the Soviet Union, Hungary has tinkered more than most East European countries with raising prices, firing unproductive workers and even accepting the idea of unemployment.

East Germany, Poland's neighbor to the west, is trying to improve its relations with West Germany, an economically vital partner with whom its trade this year is expected to reach more than $6 billion.

East German party leader Erich Honecker is preparing for an historic meeting with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany next week and has just disclosed plans for his first official visit to Western Europe, to Austria in November.

Success for the Polish strikers could encourage Honecker's critics at home who have long argued that their economy, too, is crippled by mismanagement and bureaucracy.

Poland's problems also could ripple southeast toward Romania in spite of the tighter social controls enforced there by President Nicolae Ceausescu.

Like Poland, Romania exports every product it can to raise badly needed convertible Western cash. Meat and other foods have been in unusually short supply this year.

Diplomats in Bucharest say there were reports, which they could not confirm, of strikes last month. At least one in the city of Tiroviste — was said to have been over meat supplies.

The Polish troubles may have been a factor in Ceausescu's decision to delay a trip to Jordan last weekend.

Prices Up At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Prices Thursday on the Farmville Tobacco Market were some higher than on the previous day.

Cutter grades accounted for most of the increases. The lower quality grades were steady and more leaf grades appeared on the floor yesterday than any day before this season. Cutter grades accounted for most of the increase in volume.

Top practical price continues at $1.65 per pound, but more sheets sold for $1.66 than on any day this season.

The market sold 822,661 pounds. Money was 1,236,567 for an average of $150.31 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 9,386,964 pounds. Money is $13,002,536 for a season average of $138.52 per hundred pounds. Stabilization receipts accounted for 4.51 percent of total sales.

CHAPTER TO MEET
Susanna Chapter No. 161 of Paoctolus will meet Friday night at 7:30. All members are asked to be present.

Migrant Crew Bosses 'Guilty'

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A federal jury Thursday found a migrant crew chief and two of his assistants guilty of kidnaping and enslaving two migrant workers at a Johnston County camp.

In sentencing crew leader Tony Booker Jr. to 10 years in prison, U.S. District Judge W.O. Britt said Booker "crossed the line of the law."

Booker's lieutenant, J.D. Rollins, was given a five-year sentence. Britt delayed sentencing of another assistant, Tony Gibson, until next week.

Earlier in the trial, Britt denied a defense motion to dismiss the charges against Gibson, saying he would give it more consideration. However, after the verdict was announced Thursday, Britt said he needed more time to consider the motion and told Gibson's lawyer to submit a written motion and supporting argument.

He denied motions to overturn the verdicts on Booker and Rollins.

Rollins and Gibson were convicted of attacking Joseph Romeo and Gary Lee Walters April 20, 1979, as Romeo and Walters tried to leave Booker's Johnston County migrant camp.

Prosecutors claimed the beatings were on instructions from Booker.

"I have no doubt in my mind who was in command at that camp," Britt said in sentencing Booker to a maximum punishment of 10 years. "Everyone knew he was in charge. There are degrees of guilt and in the court's view, Mr. Tony Booker was the primary actor in the drama" played out in court this week.

Britt told Rollins, "You were somewhat under the domination of the man for whom you worked. That excused you some, in my view, but you knew what was wrong."

Britt increased Booker's bond from $10,000 to $20,000, pending appeals. Bond on Gibson and Rollins remained at $10,000.

Witnesses had described Booker as a pistol-packing crew leader who maintained order in camp with violence and frequently threatened to kill migrants who left while in debt to him.

MEETING POSTPONED
Bright Star Chapter No. 313 will not have a meeting Saturday, Aug. 23, as scheduled. The announcement was made by Gertrude McCoy.

Amelia Earhart Awards Given

RALEIGH — Cadet Captain Sarah E. Baker of Greenville (formerly of Raleigh) and Cadet Major Robert D. Rhyne, Jr. of Raleigh were each presented the Amelia Earhart award in ceremonies held Thursday night at the annual family night and awards program of two area Civil Air Patrol (CAP) units. The presentation was made by Major General William E. Ingram, adjutant general for the state of North Carolina.

At the event, the Raleigh-Wake Composite Squadron and the Triangle Cadet Squadron presented awards to area cadets for various achievements during the year.

In addition to the Earhart awards, 11 cadets received the Billy Mitchell Award, and three cadets were presented squadron flight scholarships.

Air movement, as well as temperature, determine your comfort level. So a room with a Hunter ceiling fan at 78 degrees has the cool comfort of a room at 70 degrees. Set your air conditioner thermostat up 8 degrees and save, because a Hunter runs on the power for one light bulb. In winter, a Hunter recirculates hot air that rises to the ceiling and cuts heating costs. But all ceiling fans aren't alike. Hunter is the original. Since 1886. Cast iron housing. Permanent oil reservoir. Real wood blades. No short cuts. No cheap substitutes. Choice of models and finishes makes Hunter fit any decor.

Hunter, the oldest name in the business—what you get that your great grandfather didn't is a five year warranty and the assurance that comes with a reputation stretching back to 1886. Hunter is still the industry standard.

Hunter confidently predicts a fan life of well over 40 years. Less expensive fans have large lightweight motor cases with small capacitor motors inside—the extra weight of solid cast panacea cases contributes to smooth operation, stability, and long life expectancy.

Bethel Class Reunion Is Held

BETHEL — The Bethel High School class of 1950 held its 30th reunion Saturday at the Rotary Club here. Activities included registration, social hour, business session and dinner.

Helen Griffin Manning greeted guests and Peggy Batchelor James presented each a name tag which included a picture printed in the 1950 high school annual "The Hickory Stick."

Dr. Edward Brown was master of ceremonies and the welcome to class members, guests, teachers and school board members was given by Frank Hemingway. Special recognition was given Walter and Daisy Latham, Sam and Thadys Dewar, Mary Mills Weeks, Juanita Bass Riddick, Connie and Willard Whitehurst, Clifton Everett and Dr. Connell G. Garrenton, accompanied by his wife, represented the school board.

Class members introduced their guests and gave a resume of the past 30 years. Recognition was given the following: Dr. W. R. Bullock, Yukon, Okla., who traveled the greatest distance; Elsie Whitehurst Garland, Fairfax, Va., most children; Cecil Jones, Bethel, oldest child; and C. D. Anderson, Goldsboro, Pa., youngest child.

Humorous stories were told by Willard Whitehurst. Mrs. James of Bethel was chairman of the reunion committee and was assisted by Helen Griffin Manning, Danville, Va., and Hemingway.

Another reunion will be held by the group in five years.

Attending were C. D. Anderson and Leah, Goldsboro, Pa.; Dr. Brown and Anne, Louisburg; Dr. Bullock and Louise, Yukon, Okl.; Louise Butler Bailey and Jimmy, Williamston; Earl Griffin and Ann, Morehead City; Helen Griffin Manning and Vernon, Danville, Va.; Margaret Jones Kosowski and Louis, South Euclid, Ohio; James Knox and Louise, Raleigh; Margaret Manning Elder and Ed, Grant, Miss.; Ernest Scott and Beulah, Ahsoskie; Cecil Simmons and Vickie, Pogooson, Va.; Daisy Whitehurst Dail and Bill, Tarboro; Elsie Whitehurst Garland and Herb, Fairfax, Va.; Frank Hemingway and Jean; Mrs. James and C. X.; and Cecil Jones, Bethel.

Sharp Rise In Jobless

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Unemployment in North Carolina zoomed past the national level in July for the first time in five years, reaching a level of 8.1 percent compared to national unemployment of 7.9 percent.

The July rate represents an increase of 2.7 percentage points above the rate for the same month in 1979. North Carolina's rate in June 1980 was 7.4 percent.

The Employment Security Commission said the increase was due to fewer available jobs for students, plant layoffs in the furniture, textile and apparel industries, and reduced work schedules at large manufacturing plants across the state.

ESC Chairman J.B. Archer predicted that the jobless rate would drop and stabilize in August.

"The early August figures indicate that unemployment during the current recessionary period has peaked in North Carolina," Archer said.

The ESC said there were 229,100 people unemployed in July, up 20,300 from June's 208,800 mark. The number of unemployed in July a year ago was only 150,300.

Shah's Son May Be A Drop-Out

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The son of the late shah of Iran may drop out of Williams College, a family spokesman says.

Prince Reza Pahlavi, who will assume his father's title in October, has been attending Williams since last September.

TV's Reality Plague Gets Out Of Hand

CHILD STARS ON PICKET LINE - Child actress Missey Gold, of the TV series "Benson" and her sister Tracy (right) joined hundreds of pickets in front of Disney Studios Thursday as the Screen Actors Guild, and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists strike against film producers entered its fifth week. Negotiations between the actors and the film and television industry have resumed. (AP Laserphoto)

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Shut Up, America. Please. When a camera crew from ABC or CBS or NBC knocks on your door asking if there's anything bizarre you'd like to do on prime time, say no. Better, tell them that your family reads books and ask if they'd like to film that.

Do not, please, tell them that your daughter eats peanut butter-and-live-goldfish sandwiches. Do not tell them about Cousin Harry who hasn't bathed in six years, or about the cult of body odorists to which he belongs. You will only feed the rabid "reality television" beast, which already roams reckless over the airwaves in hordes.

If the television's "reality" plague has proven anything, it's that the premise of using real Americans for entertainment was better as an idea than as a fact.

The creatures go by many names. "Real People," the prototype, "That's Incredible," "That's My Line," "Games People Play." The most odious of them is this one called "Speak Up America" on NBC.

George Schlatter, one of television's most creative and original forces, thought it would be good to have a show allowing Americans to speak up about their troubled times. He'd use Columbus, Ohio's QUBE system to give viewers an immediate input to the show.

Okay. A little close to the edge, perhaps, somewhat reminiscent of the lunatic Howard Beale show in "Network," but if done with restraint, it could be entertaining and informational.

Restraint and good taste were fast chucked out the window. To host the show, Schlatter hired Marjoe Gortner, a child huckster preacher who has brought all the tools of his former trade with him into adulthood - the frenzied pitch, the hell-fire tone, the hand gestures that once framed exhortations to get right with the Lord.

To help Gortner in his mission, Schlatter provided co-hosts Rhonda Bates and Jayne Kennedy. Miss Bates, loud and corny, is prone to intermittent shrieks that could give dead men headaches.

Miss Kennedy, you'll recall, was once a sports journalist of sorts on CBS' "NFL Today" show. She was bad there. The company she's with now makes her seem a female Eric Sevareid.

I was only able to sit through one of these shows, and only with the help of two bottles of beer. (For each half-hour.)

The one I saw opened with a segment on the women sailors from the USS Norton Sound threatened with discharge from the Navy for alleged homosexuality.

"Speak Up America" managed to get all eight of the women on the show to give their views on their highly publicized hearings, something no TV news operation, to my knowledge, had been able to do.

But before I could mutter "Good job," Marjoe the preacher left the platform to work the crowd. He soon found a woman who said, "My husband's in the Navy. I wish all the women in the Navy were homosexuals."

If homosexuality didn't give you a few laughs, "Speak Up America" moved on to prostitution, a real barrel of yuks. They dressed Rhonda Bates up like a streetwalker and sent her on patrol with an LAPD "trick squad," to bust a few johns.

"You're a natural," the woman cop told Rhonda. Rhonda and her undercover partner were eventually solicited, on national television, and Rhonda reported "They picked him up and took him to central headquarters for pre-bookin'."

"Speak Up America's" cameras followed the suspect, Reggie, into the police station. They asked him how it felt to be arrested for trying to solicit Rhonda Bates on national television.

"I was pretty shocked," said Reggie with an embarrassed laugh. There was more. Back on stage, Rhonda told the preacher, "That was an adventure, Marjoe. Closest I ever came to leavin' show biz. By the way, did you ever drive a green Chevy?"

To which the preacher, noting Miss Bates' oversized mouth, responded, "I'll tell you one thing - you'd better not ever kiss any of those guys. You'd be arrested for assault with a deadly weapon."

By the end of the show, the QUBE audience had been asked whether Iranians in the U.S. should be allowed to demonstrate ("No"), who shot J.R. Ewing ("None of the above"), whether military spending should be increased ("Yes") and whether our presence in Korea is justified ("Yes").

That's really not a bad idea, giving national scope to Warner Communications' innovative QUBE system. Unfortunately, it is part of a package that comprises the lowest elements of television - exploitation of social frustrations, cheap laughs and tawdry journalism tactics.

So, please, when the network folks come to your door, hide your five-legged Airedale. Don't show them your wife's rubber suit. And never, no matter how lonely you are, try to pick up a woman with a big mouth and shrill voice.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Television and film producers have made a concession to striking actors to get contract negotiations rolling after a 2 1/2-week stalemate. But the actors say that won't change their plans to begin a week of picketing Tuesday at Paramount Studios.

Producers had said that they would not resume negotiating until the two actors' unions - the Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists - reduced their demands on royalties for programs or films used on pay television or in video cassettes. But the producers dropped that requirement and the talks resumed Thursday.

There had been no bargaining since Aug. 4, when each side accused the other of being immovable. The strike began July 21, halting production on most films and television programs.

During a break in the negotiations late Thursday, Kim Felner, a spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild, said, "It's probably going to be a long difficult road to a conclusion." But, she said, "there seems to be an inclination on both sides to talk."

Picketing by the actors at production studios has become one of the biggest tourist attractions in town.

Normally, stars don't congregate in groups in public places. But celebrity stalkers had a field day Thursday as 5,000 actors picketed outside Disney Studios.

Henry Winkler, James Garner, Bill Bixby, Charlene Tilton and Erik Estrada were among those on the picket line.

"We would normally be going to Beverly Hills," said a tourist, Judy Nazari of Rockville, Md. "but we had seen this on TV in Washington on the news and a business contact of my husband's said we should come down here."

While the actors said they planned to begin picketing at Paramount next week, cracks continued to appear among the producers' ranks as 30 more film and TV companies defected from the producers' bargaining unit.

Stewart Up And Walking

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - Actor James Stewart is "up and walking" in his hospital room and is doing "extremely well," according to a hospital spokeswoman. "He's in a regular private room and is expected to be released in the near future," Sandy Gimpelson, a spokeswoman at St. John's Hospital, said Thursday.

Stewart, 72, was admitted to the hospital Friday, complaining of an irregular pulse, and was placed in the coronary care unit.

But by Tuesday, hospital officials said his pulse was "well controlled" and he was taken off the coronary care list.

N.C. Ballot Disputes Seen Going To Appeals Court

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Disputes over North Carolina's general election ballot headed for federal appeals court following a pair of decisions Thursday that restored John Anderson to the presidential ballot but dismissed a Senate candidate's complaint.

Losers in both the suits vowed to take their case to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, and both hoped for speedy hearings.

"It would be my guess that they would hear both of these appeals on the same day and before the same panel of judges," said Lucy Everett, an Elkin lawyer representing Republican Senate candidate John East.

Both face a tight time schedule, as state election officials hope to have ballots printed and in the hands of county officials within two weeks.

East was a loser when U.S. District Court Judge Earl Britt rejected his bid for an injunction ordering the state Board of Elections to change the arrangement of candidates on its printed ballots and voting machines.

East contends the board deliberately placed the Senate race so far down the ballot — below all state offices — that many voters will overlook the race.

Mrs. Everett also charged that it was the result of a deliberate effort by board Chairman R. Kenneth Babb and elections Director Alex Brock to damage the GOP candidate's chances against Democratic Sen. Robert Morgan. The ballot arrangement set by the board — on a three-to-two vote with Republican members dissenting — places the Senate race after contests for governor, lieutenant governor and eight other state races.

It will immediately follow the uncontested race for superintendent of public instruction.

Babb said Mrs. Everett's charges "are not true or accurate." He said the ballot arrangement was the easiest way to allow changes for congressional races in each of the state's 11 districts.

Anderson's name was restored to the ballot when U.S. District Court Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. ruled in favor of his suit against the board, which had ruled the independent candidate ineligible for the ballot.

Dupree ruled that state elections law did not make Anderson unqualified as an independent merely because he ran briefly — and withdrew — as a candidate in the state's Republican presidential primary last May.

The Democratic National Committee, which is challenging Anderson across the country in ballot-access cases, asked for the board's original decision and defended it before Dupree. "It makes seven out of seven (states) where we've beaten the DNC," said Mitchell Rogovin, Washington counsel for the Anderson campaign. "I'd think they would run up the white flag."

He also predicted the Democrats' effort would backfire by creating sympathy for Anderson at the expense of support for President Carter's re-election.

"I didn't think there was that much interest in John Anderson (in North Carolina) until the DNC started screwing around, and now I think there's a good chance he could take the state,"

Rogovin said. Walter Dellinger, a Duke University law professor representing the Democrats, said the appeal would be filed in Richmond. And another attorney for the Democrats said it would be accompanied by a request for a rapid hearing.

"I'd say chances are pretty good we'll be in the 4th Circuit next week or the week after," said lawyer David Kirby.

Babb, the elections chairman, said the board would not appeal the Anderson decision because it originally heard the issue as a "judicial body." But he said the Democrats' appeal would be made "with our blessing."

Delays Hearing On Exhumation

By JOE STROOP
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A hearing on a suit to block exhumation of the body in accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald's grave has been indefinitely postponed by a state district judge.

Judge James Wright on Thursday delayed a hearing on the lawsuit filed by Oswald's brother, Robert, after Oswald's lawyer and the Dallas County medical examiner submitted motions. He set a hearing on the motions for Sept. 3.

The suit seeks to stop an exhumation requested by British author Michael Eddowes, who contends the body is not Lee Harvey Oswald's but that of a Soviet man who assumed Oswald's identity to kill President John F. Kennedy.

After the suit was filed last week, Wright issued an injunction blocking the attempt by Eddowes, who said he had "legal authority" to exhume the body and have an autopsy performed.

Medical examiner Dr. Charles Petty, a defendant in the suit, filed a motion asking the judge to move the hearing from Fort Worth to Dallas. He said last week he would perform an autopsy if Eddowes got the body.

But Robert Oswald's lawyer, Kenneth L. Campbell, said he would fight Petty's motion, contending the trial should be held where the body is buried.

Campbell's motion asked Wright to remove Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, as a defendant in the suit because she is in agreement with her former husband's brother.

Mrs. Porter earlier gave her consent for the exhumation of her late husband's body, but the lawyer said,

"she believes Lee is buried there."

Campbell also asked that County Judge Gary Webber, who signed the original exhumation order, be eliminated as a defendant because "it is no longer necessary."

In 1978, Eddowes tried to get a court order allowing the exhumation, but Wright turned down the request, ruling the Englishman did not have the same legal rights in this country as a United States citizen.

The British researcher says he has "persuasive" evidence to show the man in the grave is not Oswald.

He said he turned his findings over to medical examiners in Tarrant County, where the body is buried, and nearby Dallas County, where the killing took place Nov. 22, 1963.

MacDonald Is Allowed Bond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal appeals court which overturned the convictions of former Army Green Beret Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald on charges of murdering his wife and two daughters said Thursday he can be released on $100,000 bond — and that could be as early as today.

But San Francisco attorney Bernard Segal, who represents MacDonald, said Thursday "we're dealing with the government, so he could be released as late as Monday."

In Raleigh, N.C., where MacDonald was tried, attorney Wade Smith said he would ask U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree to sign the release order today. Smith said he notified MacDonald Thursday morning of the panel's decision to give him bond.

"When I told him he sounded really relieved," Smith said. "He said, 'Oh, great...terrific, terrific.'"

MacDonald, 36, has been held in the Terminal Island, Calif., federal prison while his attorneys sought to have him released on bond.

His convictions of killing his family were overturned July 30 by a three-member panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on grounds he had not been afforded a speedy trial.

The same panel said Thursday that "we are of the view that bail should be granted pending subsequent developments in the case."

The Justice Department has filed a petition seeking a rehearing of MacDonald's case by the full appeals court.

A federal court jury convicted MacDonald in August 1979 of the beating and stabbing deaths in the February 1970 deaths of his wife, Collette, 26, and their daughters Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2, at their home in Fort Bragg, N.C.

MacDonald, who has insisted his wife and daughters were killed and he was injured by four drug-crazed hippies who broke into his home, was sentenced to three consecutive life terms by U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree Jr. He denied him bail while an appeal was pending.

During MacDonald's trial, the government maintained he killed his wife and one daughter during a domestic squabble, then murdered the second daughter to cover up the crime.

Under conditions of his release on bond, the appeals court ordered MacDonald to surrender his U.S. passport, restrict his travel to California and report weekly to "an appropriate agency of the state or federal government in California."

The appeals court declined to say whether the jury verdicts were right or wrong when it overturned MacDonald's convictions. It said, instead, that "unwarranted bureaucratic delay" led to a violation of his constitutional right to a speedy trial.

Orioles Draw Closer To Yankee Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
If the New York Yankees

aren't hearing footsteps behind them, they certainly must be aware of the flapping of Oriole wings in the immediate vicinity of first place. Playing more like the Bad

News Bears, the Yankees handed Seattle four unearned runs in the first inning, then failed to score after loading the bases with none out in the ninth and dropped a 6-4 decision to the lowly Mariners.

Meanwhile, the high-flying Baltimore Orioles trounced California 7-1, giving them 11 consecutive regular-season victories over the Angels — 8-0 this year — plus a 3-1 edge in the 1979 AL playoffs.

New York's lead — on July 19 it was 9½ over Milwaukee, 10 over Baltimore — is down to a scant 1½-games for the first time since May 21 and George Steinbrenner's blood pressure must be boiling over.

In other action, the Cleveland Indians nipped the Kansas City Royals 4-3 — George Brett homered in four at-bats and is hitting .404 — the Detroit Tigers beat the Minnesota Twins 4-2 on Jack Morris' one-hitter after the Twins took the doubleheader opener 5-3, the Boston Red Sox downed the Oakland A's 5-1 and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3. Milwaukee and Texas were not scheduled.

Seattle's Bruce Bochte, who singled home the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning — Julio Cruz homered in the seventh for an insurance run — helped settle reliever Shane Rawley down after the Yankees loaded the bases in the ninth on a walk and two singles, one a bunt. "Bruce came over and told me not to worry about it," Rawley disclosed. "He said: 'You're going to get out of it. This is what you get paid for. Let's see what you're made of.'"

Rawley then struck out Eric Soderholm and Aurelio Rodriguez and retired Bucky Dent on a fly ball.

"I thought we had the right guys hitting," said Yankees Manager Dick Howser. "We had good swings at him. We know he has a good fastball."

In the first inning, Seattle used two New York errors, two walks, two fielder's choices on which runners were safe at the plate and Tom Paciorek's two-run single to score four times off loser Gaylord Perry.

Orioles 7, Angels 1

Rich Dauer collected four hits, including a pair of doubles, and John Lowenstein added a home run while Scott McGregor pitched a tidy seven-hitter for his 15th victory and the Orioles' fifth consecutive triumph.

California scored first on a double by Dan Ford and Don Baylor's single in the fourth inning but Dauer erased that lead with a two-run double in the fifth. Al Bumbry's sacrifice fly made it 3-1, Lowenstein homered in the sixth and the Orioles tacked on three more runs in the seventh, two on a double by Rick Dempsey.

The Angels, who have lost six in a row, get a crack at the fading Yankees this weekend while the Orioles are in Oakland.

"Maybe the Angels can knock off the Yankees," said Dauer. "We won six of eight from New York to close the gap, but now we need some help. When we do catch them in the loss column, I think our pitching staff will carry us right past them."

Indians 4, Royals 3

Ron Hassey belted a three-run homer in the first inning and Rick Waits and two relievers combined on a six-hitter as Cleveland ended Kansas City's eight-game winning streak. Hassey connected off Steve Busby after Miguel Dilone's checked-swing double and a walk to Mike Hargrove. Brett homered in the fourth inning for his only hit.

Twins 5-2, Tigers 3-4

Minnesota's only hit in the nightcap was a one-out single by Rob Wilfong in the very first inning.

"Pitching is a mind game," said Morris, who allowed only three baserunners, all on walks, the rest of the way. "I've been struggling lately and searching for some comfort and ease. I think I found it tonight."

"I've been throwing too many hittable pitches," said the St. Paul, Minn., native, who got home run support from Steve Kemp and Richie Hebner. "I had my best stuff of the year and it was a big thrill to have a good game in front of my friends and family."

In the opener, Pete Mackanin hit a tie-breaking two-run homer for the Twins in the seventh inning and rookie Doug Corbett recorded his 14th save.

Red Sox 5, A's 1

Jim Rice hit his 15th homer in the second inning and Boston scored four unearned runs in the fourth to snap Rick Langford's nine-game winning streak. Despite the loss, Langford pitched his 18th consecutive complete game and 21st of the season. Boston rookie John Tudor was the winner, giving up six hits. The big hit in the Red Sox' four-run fourth was Glenn Hoffman's two-run single.

White Sox 5, Blue Jays 3

Jim Morrison drove in three runs with a double and a two-run single and Kevin Bell contributed a key triple in Chicago's four-run fifth inning. Winner Lamarr Hoyt pitched five hitless innings but needed seventh-inning help from Ed Farmer, who notched his 21st save. Morrison singled home the tying run in the fourth inning and rapped a two-run single in the fifth.

Vikings Seek To Close Out ECC Slate With Winning Season

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings have never had a winning season in football, so naturally they have never won an Eastern Carolina Conference championship.

For the Vikings, this is their last chance in the ECC—next year they will be moved by the North Carolina High School Athletic Association into the Coastal Conference as part of the semiannual realignment.

Last time out of the gate, the Vikings had a chance for a winning season. They had won four games by the time the seventh game had been whistled to a close, and had three chances to break even or win.

However, they missed on all three of those opportunities.

Second year coach Jimbo Walker feels that the Vikings might just break the mold this time out, however. "We have some talent this year, and if we can get a few breaks and stay healthy, we have a chance to have a winning season. We might even be able to get into the thick of the title race.

"But it's no sure thing. We have the chance to have a good team, however," Walker said.

Walker said that for the past few years, there have been a lot of talented people at Conley who have not come out for football. "There have been people walking the halls who could have helped us, but they didn't choose to come out."

"This year, things are different. We have some of those talented people out. So we have the talent, but it is inexperienced. We're still trying to teach the basics. At least, now we have the potential to be a good team."

There are about 40 people out for the team, which held its preseason scrimmage with Havelock on Wednesday night.

On offense, the Vikings are still looking for a quarterback. "We still haven't decided on one. We have four people out, and all of them are doing well." Tops among the group prior to the Wednesday scrimmage was Sammy Tucker, while the other candidates are Leon Cox, Doug McRoy and Jeff Manning. "Tucker is ahead on his running ability," Walker noted.

Running from the veer formation, Walker plans for the Vikes to establish a running game first, then go to the air to add to it.

"We have two fine running backs in Tommy Joyner and Jesse Maye," Walker said. "Both have better than average speed, and good size. They just need to have an improved attitude."

That phase of the game, attitude, plays a big part in Walker's assessment of the Viking chances. "We don't have a winning attitude right now, and it's really about all we need to be successful."

In the line, Ray Crawford returns to the center position, and Walker rates him as one of the top linemen. At guard, Robert Sutton returns at one position. "He's not very big, but quick and with a lot of courage," the coach commented. "Our other tackle, David Johnson, is strong and fast, but I still don't know if he has the right attitude to win."

The tackles are relatively inexperienced. Kevin Ivey saw some action last year, and Walker feels he can be a good one if he toughens up. The other tackle, Kirk Shelley is inexperienced, but is one of the stronger Vikes with a 310 bench press.

Bobby Carmon returns to the tight end position, but could find pressure from Anthony Burney. Both have good height—Carmon is 6-2 and Burney, 6-3. Burney will also see play at flanker, along with Jimmy Jeanette, who returns from last year, while Chris McDaniels, who "catches the ball well" will be at split end.

"Our defense has been looking real good," Walker said. "But we still have a lot of people who are having to go both ways."

Willie Green has been looking good at nose guard, while Terry Nichols and Otis Pate anchor the tackles. Several people will be seeing action at the defensive end slot, including Crawford, Carmon, May and Troy Perkins.

At the linebacker slot, Sutton and Joyner will be working, with Burney as a backup. Mike Long, a sophomore, will be at middle linebacker.

James Boyd and Steven King will be at the corners, with Dennis Phillips adding depth. McDaniels and Manning will be at the safety slots.

Walker feels that the Conley kicking game will be improved this year. Troy Perkins return to handle the punting. "He led the league two years ago, but didn't have a good year last season. I think he'll be improved this year." Tony Joyner will handle the kickoffs and Doug McRoy, the placements.

"I think the Eastern Carolina Conference title will be up for grabs this year. Farmville

Pirates Work In The Dark

For the past few days, East Carolina University's football team has been in the dark—literally.

Last Tuesday, some electrical work caused the power on the campus to be shut down for a couple of hours. When the work, which included the installation of a new transformer was completed the power was restored.

But a new cable which had also been installed apparently proved faulty, and the power blew.

It left parts of the campus, including the athletic area, without power all day Wednesday. The power was turned back on Wednesday night, but went off again on Thursday morning, staying off until around 7:30 last night.

It's all served to hamper the Pirates' progress. "We're behind with film; we've had no way to answer the phone for the last three days, but we're still alive here," Coach Ed Emory said. "The secretaries haven't been able to work and type practice schedules. We had to cut out a practice today to provide some meeting times. It's something no one can help. We have to buckle up our belts and make up for lost time. We sure can't afford any more lost time so we have to have the power problem cleared up soon."

Sports medicine director Rod Compton was even more emphatic. "We haven't been able to give any treatment since the power has been off to the Sports Medicine Building. We can't even make any ice for use in therapy or for practice. It's just unreal."

At the time, Compton and his crew were taping players for practice on a rolling table under the stands in Ficklen Stadium, out in the open.

At least two people were trapped in the Ficklen Stadium elevator, one each day, during the power outages, which, except for Tuesday's shutdown, came without warning.

Sports Information Director Ken Smith noted that the shutdown also affected the Dial-A-Pirate system. "The phone will ring, but since the recorder operates on electrical power, it will not answer without power. We hope folks will be patient until the problem is resolved."

While the power was on first thing this morning, the athletic department was informed that there would be another black-out around 9 a.m. for an "unspecified time." The people on the athletic staffs crossed their fingers that it would not be a long time.

Meanwhile, on the practice field, Matt Jones was moved from defensive tackle to offensive tackle, while Jeff Autry was switched from defensive end to defensive tackle.

Tootie Robbins, after missing spring drills, is showing strong progress at the offensive tackle slot. Coach Emory appears to be finding some bright spots on the defensive line. "They're young and very inexperienced, but we've got some guys with talent to work with. Doug Smith and George Crump and Terry Long can run, but they've never lined up on those guys coming north and south on them."

Pirate Mat Coach Resigns

East Carolina University wrestling coach Ed Steers has announced his resignation, effective immediately. Steers has accepted the head wrestling job at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

Steers, in making his announcement, said, "My wife and I did not want to leave Greenville and East Carolina, but we felt this opportunity was just too great to turn down. The recruiting budget and operating budget at West Point is super. I feel East Carolina will continue to develop a strong program and has great potential."

Steers joined the Pirate program just one year ago following a very successful five years at William & Mary.

"We at East Carolina very much hate to see a coach of Ed Steers' calibre leave our program," said Dr. Ken Karr, Director of Athletics. "But at the same time, we give Ed a big pat on the back as he leaves to pursue yet another challenge in his career. The move to West Point is obviously a credit to Ed and a move forward. We wish him the best."

A successor for Steers is being sought with hopes that the position can be filled very shortly.

Most fireplace inserts depend heavily on the use of electric blowers. Without the blower running, you get little, if any, radiant heat. # Duke Has Plenty Of QBs

Earlier, we let you know how some former East Carolina baseball players were doing in the professional ranks.

This week, we have a little more for you. Kelly Heath, a former Rose High School star shortstop, who played with Louisburg prior to signing with the Kansas City Royals organization, has dropped down from the triple-A American Association, to the Jacksonville club of the double-A Southern League. He is hitting well, however, at well over .300 since joining that club, and hopes to be back up with the Omaha club in the near future. Kansas City wanted to look at another shortstop brought up from AA to AAA for that purpose, we understand.

Wallace Davis, a native of Williamston, was selected as the Gulf Coast Rookie League's most valuable player in the recent league All-Star game. A member of the Royals Blue team (along with ECU's Billy Best), he triggered an eight-run fourth inning with a triple and later in the frame hit a two-run single.

Wallace Davis? That's ECU's own Butch Davis by his real name.

The Sporting News, in its most recent edition, notes that basketball players are transferring from one school to another with increasing frequency.

Several of those players are those involved with East Carolina, or are from the area.

The publication lists Clarence Miles as transferring from ECU to Elon for the coming season. Al Tyson (of D.H. Conley) moved from ECU to Shaw (by way of Virginia Commonwealth). Former North Pitt star Donnie Perkins has moved from N.C. State to Presbyterian, where he'll be working with new head coach Butch Estes (former ECU assistant under Dave Patton). Rounding out the list is Quan Roseboro, who transferred from Florida to East Carolina—but has since left Greenville and will not be on the team.

Before the season starts, it may all change again.

In the pro ranks, several former East Carolina players are still around following the latest cuts. Sam Harrell appears to be in a head-to-head battle with former Rose High and UNC star Doug Paschal for the number two fullback job with the Minnesota Vikings. Zack Valentine is seeing plenty of action with the Pittsburgh Steelers, but there are rumors that he may possibly be trade bait.

Eddie Hicks, with the New York Giants, is currently on the injured reserve list, and there seems to be a possibility that he may be cut or placed on waivers when he comes off that list. Reportedly, the Miami Dolphins are interested in picking him up, should that occur.

Another former Pirate, Reggie Pinkney of the Baltimore Colts, appears to be in poor shape for being kept on the roster of that team.

Turning to basketball, former Pirate George Maynor did not make the grade with the Chicago Bulls. He may be back for the early part of camp, but unless there are some surprises, he is expected to be cut. Oliver Mack, also with the Bulls, appears solid, and could end up with a starting role this fall when the season opens.

Colts, Giants Battle Tonight

BALTIMORE (AP) — The "internal problem" between Baltimore Colts Coach Mike McCormack and wide receiver Roger Carr appears to have been resolved.

And that could mean a stronger Colts offense when they meet the New York Giants in a National Football League exhibition game tonight.

Also boosting the Baltimore offense is the presence of a healthy Bert Jones, who has been sidelined for most of the last two seasons because of a shoulder injury. Carr was Jones' favorite target as the Colts won the AFC East for three consecutive years before fading last season.

Jones and Carr, who has also been sidelined by injuries, have both looked strong in recent practices.

The Giants-Colts game starts a full weekend of exhibition games, including 12 Saturday night.

The Green Bay Packers are at the Buffalo Bulls, New York Jets at Pittsburgh Steelers, Cincinnati Bengals at Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Cleveland Browns at Chicago Bears, Kansas City Chiefs at St. Louis Cardinals and Oakland Raiders at Washington Redskins.

Also, the Minnesota Vikings play at the Miami Dolphins, "the Franchise" here, has called to throw for a touchdown pass Detroit Lions, the Atlanta Falcons at San Diego Chargers, the Houston Oilers at Dallas Cowboys, the Los Angeles Rams at the Denver Broncos and the Seattle Seahawks at the San Francisco 49ers.

The weekend's action concludes with an afternoon game Sunday, pitting the Philadelphia Eagles at the New England Patriots. After last season, Carr had announced he would "never play another down" for Baltimore, but pressure — including some from Jones — persuaded Carr to come to camp.

Once he returned, however, Carr was reluctant to go full-speed, hoping to avoid injuries. That's when the silent dispute started with McCormack.

On Monday, the two met on the field after practice and discussed what McCormack called an "internal problem." Since then, Carr has looked like a different player, sprinting through workouts and diving for passes.

"Roger looks like the Roger Carr we know and love," McCormack said after Wednesday's workout. "He's a heckuva threat when he runs that way."

Jones, who is often called "the Franchise" here, has called to throw for a touchdown pass in preseason play as the Colts have split two games.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The Duke football team has many problems. But it has one unique, enhanced by a recent development.

The Blue Devils have five quarterbacks, three who are competing for the starting job. That does not include Craig Browning, who started part of the time last year and was expected to compete for the top job this season.

On Wednesday, Browning was shifted to defensive back.

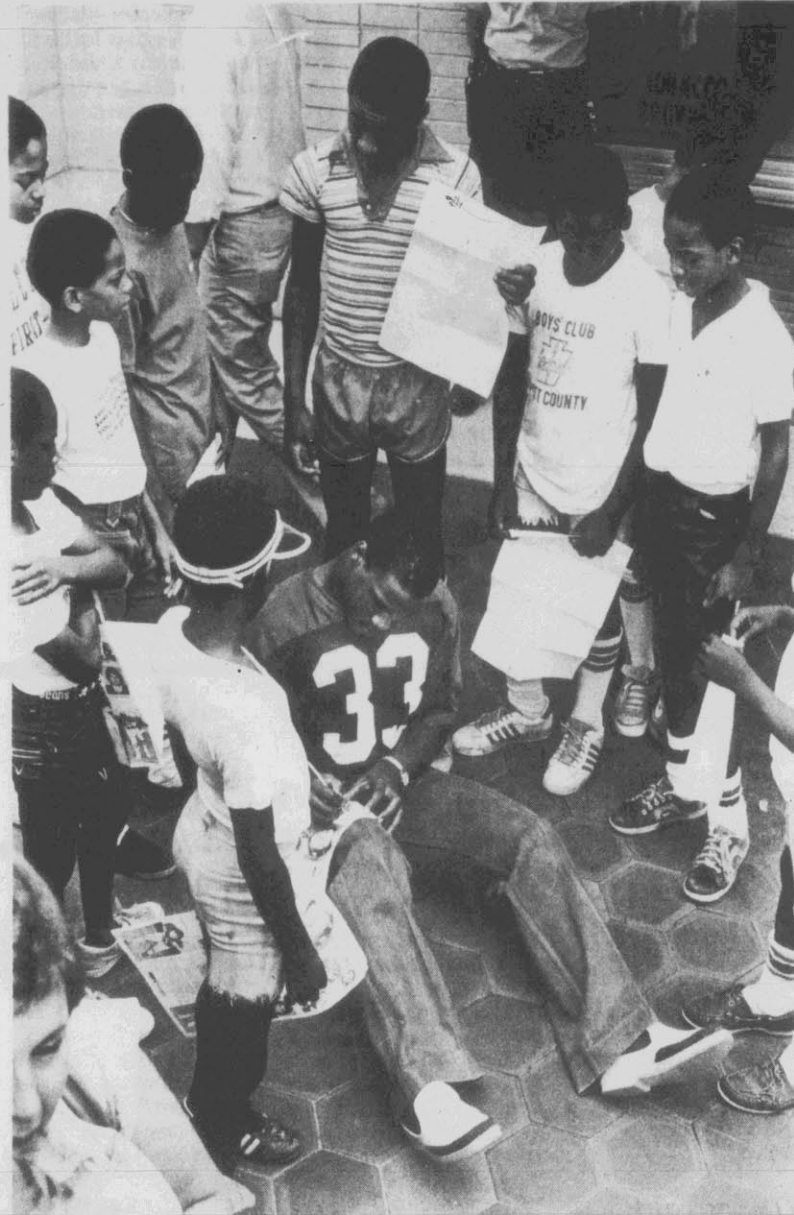

When the Atlantic Coast Conference's Operation Football — a writers' tour of the eight league schools — stopped at Duke Thursday, Browning seemed adjusted to the change. But he said the unexpected shift left him frustrated and he even thought of quitting football.

Whether the Blue Devils have a winning program in the works is a question mark, as are most of the starting spots on the team. Their last winning season was 1974, and after Coach Red Wilson took over the program last season they wound up 2-8-1.

The players are optimistic, but Wilson emphasized, despite improvements, the team has a long way to go. Not a hard statement to back up considering Duke is the preseason pick to finish last in the conference.

A lot of the seemingly unwarranted optimism of the team is because of new offensive coordinator Steve Spurrier — a former assistant at Georgia Tech, a former Heisman Trophy winner and a former pro quarterback.

Signing For The Fans

East Carolina's Anthony Collins signs autographs for a group of fans during the "Meet The Pirates" activities yesterday in downtown Greenville. During the activities, two autographed footballs were given away, to Ecla Heath of 320 Prince Rd., and to Diane Jackson of Rt. 1, Box 440B, Grimesland. Two sets of season tickets were also presented, to Emily Nobles of 106 Azalea Dr., and to Ruth Taft of 308 Granville Dr. Bissette's was named winner of the window decoration contest. Members of the ECU football team and coaching staff were on hand for the activities over the lunch hour. (Reflector Photo)

Houston Bangs Out Big Win In Sweep Of Bucs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Astros rained on the Pittsburgh Pirates' parade with a shower of runs Thursday night.

"They just beat our brains out," said Pirates shortstop Tim Foli after a 12-5 beating by the Astros in a battle of National League division leaders.

"We have been hitting better," said Houston manager Bill Virdon. "I wish I knew why. If I knew the answer I could solve it all. We like to play that way, but we're really not that kind of team. But we'll take them."

The victory improved Houston's lead in the West to 1 1/2 games over idle Cincinnati. Third-place Los Angeles defeated Montreal 5-4 in 10 innings and remained two games from the lead.

The Pirates' lead in the East, meanwhile, dropped to 1 1/2 games after the Philadelphia Phillies stopped the San Diego Padres 9-8 in 17 innings.

Dodgers 5, Expos 4

Steve Garvey's fourth hit of the game, a solo homer leading off the 10th, led Los Angeles over Montreal. Garvey, who had stroked three straight singles, belted the first pitch in the 10th from reliever Stan Bahnsen, 7-5, for his 22nd homer.

Steve Howe, 6-5, the third Dodger reliever, allowed one hit over three innings to earn the victory.

The Dodgers had taken a 4-2 lead in the eighth on Garvey's RBI-single and Steve Yeager's two-run single. But Montreal tied the game in the bottom of the inning on Rowland Office's homer and an RBI-grounder by Warren Cromartie.

Phillies 9, Padres 8

Bake McBride's second triple of the game drove in the tie-breaking run in the 17th inning as Philadelphia defeated San Diego despite 9-3 strong innings of relief pitching from the Padres' Dennis Kinney.

Mike Schmidt singled with one out in the 17th and McBride followed with his game-winning hit, a drive to the right-center field fence at Veterans Stadium.

Braves 6, Cubs 4

Dale Murphy drove in four runs, including three with his 21st homer of the season, as Atlanta defeated Chicago. Murphy put the Braves ahead with a run-scoring grounder in the second inning and sent a drive over the left field fence at Atlanta Stadium with two men on base in the fourth, leading the Braves to their fourth straight victory and 11th in 14 games.

Mets 5, Giants 1

Jerry Morales' two-run double keyed a four-run rally in the fifth as New York broke a seven-game losing streak by beating San Francisco. Left-hander Vida Blue, 11-7, was the victim of the Mets' rally.

Lee Mazzilli singled home the first run of the inning before Morales' key hit. Claudell Washington drove in the final run of the inning with a single that chased Blue.

"Coach Spurrier has given the offense a positive uplift," wide receiver Ron Frederick said. "We know he's a man that can do the job and he gives the quarterbacks an example to look up to."

According to Wilson, it is Spurrier's job to pick the quarterback and, it was his decision to move Browning, Wilson said Spurrier became concerned about Browning's passing when fall practice began.

"Craig admitted he had a shoulder problem and that it had changed his shoving motion," Wilson said. "With the type of offense we're installing, we need someone who can pass."

Wilson said Spurrier and Browning discussed the change and the decision was made.

So now the man with the best shot at the job is sophomore Brent Clinkscale. But two freshmen are giving him a run for his money — Ben Bennett and Ron Sally. Bennett, from Sunnyvale, Calif., seems the most likely contender, according to most of the players.

"We'll be the youngest quarterback team in the country, no matter what happens," Wilson said.

Despite the return of 14 starters, the Blue Devils are still young and inexperienced.

Many of the starters will not be starting this time around.

In the background are all new faces. Sophomore Greg Boone is the No. 1 fullback and junior Bobby Brower the top tailback, for now. But Wilson said that could change by the time the season rolls around.

Players like defensive end Charles Bower and defensive back Dennis Tabron, two returning starters, talked about the frustration of being pushed around last season by bigger and stronger teams. They are determined that won't happen again this season. Part of the reason why is the new weight program the team is on.

"Maybe we were weak last year," Bower said. "But with the weight program we are not going to get pushed around this year."

Wilson said the weight program would help but said the team still has a long way to go to catch up with the other teams in the ACC.

His optimism came in the fact that the offense and defense both are two-deep in every position, but "we're awfully young."

And, being picked last doesn't bother Wilson because, "Deep down, I feel we've got a chance in every game."

Watson Leads Series After First Round

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Golf's $8 million threesome played like it.

Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, going head to head for the first time in their careers, combined for one eagle, 12 birdies and a best-ball score of 11-under-par 59 Thursday in the first round of the $421,900 World Series of Golf.

"We inspire each other," said Watson. His six-birdie 65, five under par over Firestone South's muddy, soggy 7,713 yards, gave him a 2-shot lead.

Larry Nelson, Craig Stadler and Ben Crenshaw were second with 67s. Nicklaus was among four players at 68. Trevino matched three others at 69.

"My round was a lot better than theirs, guys," Trevino told the media afterward. "If they had to play the ball from where I did, I don't know if they could have shot my score."

Nicklaus, the sport's all-time money champion with nearly $3.6 million, said, "I enjoyed it. We had a good day. We all got it under par, which are good scores here."

Trevino ranks second on the all-time money list with $2.39 million and Watson is third with $2 million.

The select international field of 32 complained of the playing conditions under which they were forced to hit mud-covered balls from the soft fairways.

More of the same was in store today after an electrical storm, accompanied by heavy rain and 50 mph winds, raked the course moments after the "Big Three" finished.

Defending champion Lon Hinkle, one of the sport's long hitters, said he was at a disadvantage in the conditions.

"Every time I was in the fairway, I had a quarter-to-a-half-inch of mud on my ball. The harder you hit your irons, the more spin the ball has and the more off line it goes with the mud. I was hitting the ball everywhere."

"I had better luck out of the rough than the fairway," said Hinkle, tied at 68 with Mike Reid, Hale Irwin and Nicklaus.

Watson took a big step toward the $100,000 first prize that would push his earnings for the year past an unprecedented $510,000. His second Series victory would all but lock up the PGA Player of the Year Award, the money title and the Vardon Trophy for low stroke average for a record fourth straight season.

"I'd rather be in the lead of the tournament than chasing somebody," said the 30-year Watson, bidding for his seventh victory this year and 20th in less than four seasons.

He reeled off three straight birdies starting at the sixth hole, played the front nine in 32 and came within one shot of Andy Bean's tournament record.

Portions of the final rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised by CBS.

Last Year's Title Could Be Start Of Many For San Diego Chargers

By The Associated Press
The American Football Conference's West Division had a new champion in 1979, and the title could be the first of many for the pass-crazy San Diego Chargers.

The division, however, is anything but San Diego's for the taking. Denver would appear much improved with the acquisition of quarterback Matt Robinson, and the surging Seattle Seahawks could finally make it to the top.

The Oakland Raiders might make a run at the title they owned for so long if newly arrived quarterback Dan Pastorini has a good season. Kansas City, also improving, was last in the AFC West in 1979, but had a 7-9 record and can't completely be counted out of the race.

The Chargers' potent air attack, with Dan Fouts emerging as one of the finest passers in the NFL, and a good defense took them to a 12-4 record last season. In the playoffs, however, San Diego stumbled and lost a 17-14 decision to Houston.

Fouts made the Chargers the league's top passing team, as he broke Joe Namath's NFL passing yardage mark by throwing for 4,082 yards. Fouts completed 332 of 530 attempts and hit 24 touchdown passes.

Veteran Charlie Joiner and third-year man John Jefferson give Fouts a pair of extremely gifted receivers. Joiner had 72 receptions for 1,008 yards last season, while Jefferson caught 61 for 1,090. Tight end Bob Klein has retired, but young Kellen Winslow should prove a capable replacement.

Defensively, San Diego has three outstanding tackles in Wilbur Young, Louis Kelcher and Gary Johnson. Young played well after replacing the injured Kelcher last year. Cornerback is also a Charger strong suit, with Mike Williams and Willie Buchanan.

San Diego's weak spot again figures to be its rushing game, a category in which the Chargers finished next-to-last in the league in 1979. Newcomer John Cappelletti, a fullback acquired from the Los Angeles Rams, could help the ground attack, however.

At Denver, 10-6 last year, they're hoping Robinson can add spark to the team's plodding offense. Robinson, previously Richard Todd's backup with the New York Jets, will have Rick Upchurch and Haven Moses to throw to, as well as talented tight end Riley Odoms.

Defensively, the Broncos feature one of the league's best linebacking corps — Randy Gradishar, Tom Jackson, Joe Rizzo and Bob Swenson. All-Pro cornerback Louis Wright is the best of a good group in the secondary.

Among the Bronco draftees was defensive end Rulon Jones of Utah State, a second-round pick who might be able to help the team immediately.

Seattle, which won five of its last six games to finish 9-7 in 1979, resembles San Diego in its ability to generate offensive fireworks. But, unlike the Chargers, the Seahawks don't have a proven defense to go with it.

Quarterback Jim Zorn, coming off his best season, will again give defenses fits with his scrambling in the Seahawks' imaginative offense. He threw for 3,661 yards and 20 touchdowns last year.

Steve Largent, Sam McCullum and Steve Rabe head a group of fine Seattle receivers.

The Seahawks' ground game will depend on Sherman Smith and Al Hunter, both explosive runners who have played second fiddle to the passing attack.

Seattle's defense must show much improvement if the Seahawks are to be a championship-caliber club, with tackles Manu Tuasopopo and Robert Hardy standouts on what has been a mediocre unit. Coach Jack Patera will probably be doing a great deal of experimenting with defensive personnel even after the start of the season.

The Raiders, playing what could be their last season in Oakland before a possible move to Los Angeles, won't have quarterback Ken Stabler performing his late-game heroics this season, but they will have one of the NFL's better long passers, Pastorini, who came in the one-for-one trade that sent Stabler to Houston.

Even with Pastorini, though, the Raiders seem to be fading as a power in the AFC West.

Finishing 9-7 last season, their rushing game and defense were ranked 24th and 21st, respectively, among the NFL's 28 teams.

As usual, tight end is one of the Raiders' strongest positions, with Dave Casper and Raymond Chester sharing the position. But the Raiders appear somewhat weak at wide receiver, a longtime Oakland strong suit. Cliff Branch is the team's leading wide receiver, but he's 32 and appears to be slowing down.

Veterans John Matuszak and Ted Hendricks lead an aging Oakland defensive crew, with Lester Hayes a standout in the secondary.

Kansas City has been a changing team under Coach Marv Levy, and the change has been for the better. The Chiefs' defense was particularly effective last season and figures to be just as good this time around.

Volleyball At Rose

Rose High School will field a girls' volleyball team for the first time this fall.

Tryouts for the team will be held Tuesday at 4 p.m., Coach Delores Bunting has announced. The tryouts will be held in the school gymnasium.

Girls wishing to try out should bring their birth certificates and health certificates with them. Blank health forms can be obtained at the Rose principal's office.

'Bama Goes For 3rd AP Title

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

Since last year's final Associated Press Top Ten teams are expected to field strong units once again in 1980, what do the nine coaches who finished behind national champion Alabama think about their chances this season?

John Robinson, No. 2 Southern California: "If we're able to get off to a good start and keep improving, we could be a very good team by November."

Barry Switzer, No. 3 Oklahoma: "Oklahoma isn't as good as it's been in the past. I don't think we'll be as powerful. The defensive strength of our team won't allow it."

Earle Bruce, No. 4 Ohio State: "Our greatest asset will be our defense, but we have a number of other strengths. For example, we have great athletes at the skilled positions on offense, we have a very solid kicking game and we have excellent team speed."

Bill Yeoman, No. 5 Houston: "Just let us get out there three or four days into two-a-days and get it real warm and disagreeable, then I'll give you a better idea of just how desperately they want to be good. There never was any doubt in our minds that we could win, but now maybe there is less doubt in other people's minds."

Bobby Bowden, No. 6 Florida State: "Last year, we got great national exposure, so winning this year will be more difficult than ever. Last season, we were the No. 1 independent in the nation — I'm sure Pittsburgh will object to me saying that — and now we've got a lot to live up to. Our expectations will be higher after last year's record."

Jackie Sherrill, No. 7 Pitt: "The top five I'd pick right now would be Ohio State, Alabama, Oklahoma, Southern Cal and us... and not necessarily in that order."

Lou Holtz, No. 8 Arkansas: "We just have too many question marks going into the season to have any idea how good we can be. We have 15 starters back from last year but the headlines are gone. If everybody loses four or five games, we have a heck of a shot at the title."

Tom Osborne, No. 9 Nebraska: "We think we'll have a good football team. We have a lot of good athletes, probably as many as we've had in a long time. We've got a lot of guys with speed and strength, agility and good athletic talent. That doesn't guarantee anything, but it's sure a heck of a lot better than if you don't have it."

Jim Young, No. 10 Purdue: "Our offensive unit could be very, very productive. It could be the best group I've ever had a chance to coach. The defense is what concerns me. We lost five starters, including three-fifths of the line."

Finally, a word from Bear Bryant, whose Alabama team will be trying for an unprecedented third consecutive national championship:

"If our defense can hold up and our offense dedicates itself to getting better every day, then we'll have a chance to have a good football team. Otherwise, we won't have a chance to finish better than the bottom half of the conference."

Since The AP poll began in 1936, seven teams have tried for three in a row... and seven teams have failed — Minnesota in 1942, Army in 1946, Notre Dame in 1948, Oklahoma in 1957, Alabama in 1966, Nebraska in 1972 and Oklahoma in 1976.

"We've won two straight national championships, but right now it would take a miracle to win a third," says Bryant. "We finished spring practice and didn't have a single interior lineman on offense that played like a winner in the Southeastern Conference. When you have that situation, you better worry about winning the conference."

The Crimson Tide will rely on an outstanding defense led by end E.J. Junior, linebacker Thomas Boyd and strong safety Tommy Wilcox — provided he doesn't have to play quarterback. The offense lost every starter except running backs Major Ogilvie and Billy Jackson.

Alabama's challengers for national honors are expected to be Auburn, Georgia and Tennessee in the SEC; Pitt and Penn State in the East; Ohio State, Michigan, Purdue and Indiana in the Big Ten; Oklahoma and Nebraska in the Big Eight; Houston, Arkansas and Texas in the Southwest Conference; Southern California, Washington and Stanford in the Pacific-10; Brigham Young and Utah in the Western Athletic Conference; North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Notre Dame and Florida State among the non-Eastern independents.

Southern Cal will count on a solid defense to hold the fort until the offense overcomes the loss of Heisman Trophy tailback Charles White, Lombardi Award guard Brad Budde and quarterback Paul McDonald.

For the first time in almost a decade, Oklahoma don't have a super running back to spark its wishbone. In fact, not only could Nebraska unseat the Sooners in the Big Eight, but the Cornhuskers have the league's top runner in Jarvis Redwine.

Like Alabama, Ohio State has eight returning starters on defense but the offense usually gets the lion's share of the headlines, especially quarterback Art Schlichter.

Houston is seeking its fourth Cotton Bowl trip in five years thanks to a pair of 270-pound defensive tackles in Hosea Taylor and Leonard Mitchell.

At air-minded Florida State, Rick Stockstill must replace the Jimmy Jordan-Wally Woodham passing duo. All-American nose guard Ron Simmons is the defensive leader.

Pitt returns 16 starters, led by All-American defensive end Hugh Green, quarterback Dan Marino, tight end Benjie Pryor and offensive tackle Mark May.

The key to Arkansas' hopes rests on the throwing arm of Tom Jones, whose brother Bert works for the Baltimore Colts. Purdue is led by aproven quarterback. In fact, Mark Herrmann is closing in on the all-time NCAA passing mark.

Situation Critical; Advertising For More White Collar Workers

By DENISE BRAZIEL Associated Press Writer
 A bold billboard towers over a busy Miami intersection in Florida: "White Collar Workers Needed." This is no plea for briefcase-toting business types — the ad recruits priests.

Roman Catholic authorities in Florida say the state is in "desperate need" of holy men — with many fewer priests per person than the national average. The priest shortage is not confined to Florida, however, according to the Rev. Caesar Russo, vocational director of the Diocese of St. Augustine. He said it's a national and worldwide problem.

"There is no doubt that there is a (U.S.) shortage," concurred Bob Wonderly, spokesman for the U.S. Catholic Conference in Washington, D.C., "but the situation is turning around." Wonderly said there were 59,192 Roman Catholic priests in the United States in 1970, the most ever. By 1979, the figure had declined to 58,430, but this year the total number has risen to 58,621.

Congregation for the Clergy appealed to dioceses in America and Europe (where the rate is 93 priests per 100,000 people) to send more men to countries which sorely need priests. But the appeal comes at a time when bishops, even in priest-rich regions, feel they can barely cover their own parish needs. Reasons for the lack of priests are hard to define, priests say.

Wonderly noted the steady level of resignations from the priesthood that followed the controversial decisions of Vatican II in the mid-1960s and said interest in the priesthood is only now picking up again.

"It's not anything against the church," said the Rev. Thomas O'Dwyer, dean of students at the Archdiocese of Miami. "It's really an accumulation of things." Materialism and a lack of some sense of commitment by many men could be blamed in part, he said.

The shortage in Florida is putting a strain on those already in parishes. Russo said 75 priests serve 65,000 to 80,000 Roman Catholics in the St. Augustine diocese. That leaves roughly one priest per 1,000 Catholics to counsel, teach, administer sacraments and visit the sick, as well as study scriptures and carry out other ministerial duties.

"This deprives them of giving their full time in certain situations and creates some tensions," Russo said. "Many priests feel guilty that they are not doing enough." When counseling or other services are requested, priests now must "be selective as to the time you give to a response," and some people are left feeling cheated, he added.

Plan Memorialize Gifts For Church

Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church received seven gifts for the new Music Media Center and to honor and memorialize the gifts, a plaque hanging service will follow the 11 a.m. worship Sunday. The Rev. David Goehring, associate pastor, will officiate.

- The following gifts were received:
- A will-bequest to benefit the music building, given by the late Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick of Greenville; the Handbell Room in the Music Center in memory of Ernest L. Baker by his wife.
  - An easel in the media center in memory of Mrs. S.L. Bridges given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Mims of Greenville.
  - A filing cabinet in the new church library in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patrick, given by Mr. and Mrs. William Swindell of Greenville and granddaughters Slay Jackson, Pace Swindell, Greenville, Patrick Sullivan of Raleigh, and great-grandson Michael Jackson, Greenville.
  - The Hooker Library in honor of William Howard Hooker of Marietta, Georgia, and in memory of his wife, Barbara Porter Hooker, and his parents, Seth Hooker and Lillie Hooker.
  - The Brown Audiovisual Center in the Media Center in memory of Sybil Lewis Brown; and a card catalog file in memory of Edward Batchelor by his wife, Marian Lytle Batchelor of Raleigh and children, Ed

Batchelor of Port Smith, N.H.; William Batchelor of Winston-Salem; and Lytle Wooten of Raleigh. Presenting the gifts on behalf of the church will be Ed Glenn and accepting will be Dr. Henry C. Ferrell, Jr., and Mrs. Ralph C. Tucker. The service will begin in the music center. The public is invited to attend.

You never mistake the meaning of a Church spire.

Even to those who are cold to the ideals for which the Church stands, that finger of faith always points to something that is comforting, reassuring, safe.

The very presence of a Church, whether in a crowded city street or on a quiet country road, is a benediction to all, including those who are not conscious of worship.

Such an influence, with what it means to those who open their hearts to truth, is worthy of a second thought. It merits acceptance as a refuge. It commands confidence as a port in time of storm.

The Church deserves your support — your membership — because it affords real protection for the family whose welfare it is your duty to defend and whose proper upbringing is your solemn obligation.

How to see more of Greenville by moving to Wilson.

When you first look at Wilson Acres Apartments, what you'll notice are the windows. They are huge. Those big, thermalpane windows lend a beautiful, airy effect to every apartment at Wilson Acres. You'll enjoy something you'll enjoy on days when you look out over the surrounding quiet neighborhood. Or watch neighbors walking to the pool, or to the tennis courts, or to the baths. Or going to play tennis.

And, at Wilson Acres, you get a lot more than big windows. You get the convenience of 2 or 3 bedroom apartments with built-in vacuum, self-cleaning oven, dishwasher, and dryer hook-ups. Clubhouse privileges, sound insulation. And all the benefits of living in a quiet neighborhood that's convenient to almost everyplace in town. With a price that's convenient, too.

So get a look at more of Greenville. Move to Wilson Acres Apartments.

CRYPTOQUIP 8-22

SZVKWU IJFVK UPRSZUI XRP
KG JFGXGKU WRJJVPUII

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: MEDICAL STUDENT HAD MONUMENTAL HALLUCINATIONS.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: W equals H

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Clear Way For Garwood's Trial

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A military judge Thursday cleared the way for the beginning of the court martial of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood after denying final pretrial motions by the defense in the case.

Garwood's attorneys had asked for dismissal of the charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy, saying the government had not prosecuted other prisoners of war in the Vietnam conflict who were accused of misconduct.

"I have concluded that there was no amnesty declared by former President Nixon," Col. R.E. Switzer ruled in removing the last roadblock to selection of a military jury, now set for next Monday.

Switzer said his research showed Nixon authorized a case-by-case examination on whether charges filed against returning American POWs accused of misconduct should be dropped. The judge also discounted the defense's arguments that the amnesty had been spelled out by former defense secretaries Melvin Laird and Elliot Richardson during several news conferences.

"It is the view of this court that amnesty must be in the form of some sort of proclamation for official publication from the (president)," he said.

Switzer also said that the announcements by Richardson and Laird referred only to prosecution for possible propaganda statements made in Vietnam by prisoners. He pointed out that none of the charges against Garwood are merely for propaganda statements.

"It was a policy that was subject to change and there is no indication that, at this date, the policy is still in effect," Switzer said.

If you have to make an uncomfortable decision, don't postpone it as long as possible so that it's obvious to everyone at the table that you don't like what you are doing. By making your decision early and in tempo, your opponents will be unaware of your holding.

South's bidding hardly appeals to us. As you can see, six spades is impervious to the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. For South to persist with six no trump after he had been warned about the heart weakness was sheer folly.

Declarer won the opening heart lead, and it seemed as though the fate of the contract hinged on the club finesse. However, before trying that, he decided to cash his winners to see what developed. A spade to the ace and a spade back to the queen revealed the obvious finesse position when East discarded a low heart.

Declarer continued to clear the spades, and East had to find a total of four discards. A careless defender would discard three hearts and a club on the spades, and then another heart on the fourth diamond. By playing the percentages, South would now be able to make the contract. Since East was more likely to have started with six hearts than seven, East's last cards would have to be a heart and two clubs. So declarer would put East on lead with a heart, and East would have to lead into declarer's combined club tenace, conceding two tricks and the contract.

Fortunately, East foresaw this possibility. On the third and fourth spades he discarded two low clubs, blanking his king. On the fifth spade he discarded a low heart, and on the fourth diamond he parted with the ten of hearts, concealing the eight.

The one thing declarer was not going to do was lead a club to the ace. He had to decide between taking the club finesse (which would have lost) or the end play. Since hands made with the help of a finesse seldom make newspaper columns, he opted for the end play, and so led a heart.

East took his two heart tricks for a one-trick set, then graciously conceded the last trick to dummy's ace of clubs.

Plan Exams In Writing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Some 2,500 North Carolina high school students will take an experimental writing field test this fall that may become part of the state's high school competency test.

Students taking the exam will fill out an application and write a memorandum, business letter and paragraph.

The results will be used to determine the feasibility of including a writing section on the competency test, according to Robert C. Evans, director of statewide testing for the state Department of Public Instruction.

"Writing is a very difficult area," Evans said. "A lot of judgment is sometimes involved versus a multiple choice test that is either right or wrong."

Under a 1977 law, all students are required to pass the competency test, which includes a reading and math section, before they can graduate from high school.

The state Board of Education approved the writing field test in March.

The best reason to buy a new car could be at the gas pump.

Potential Annual Cash Savings*
Present MPG	11	13	15
21	$650	$440	$286
23	$712	$502	$348
25	$764	$554	$400

These days, MPG (miles per gallon) could be just as important as APR (annual percentage rate) when you're buying a new car.

Say your old car gets 10 MPG, and you trade for a new one that gets 25 MPG. If you average 12,000 miles a year, and gas costs $1.25 a gallon, you'll save $900 a year.

So if a car loan makes sense to you, come see us. Where more people borrow than any other place in North Carolina.
