Polish Govm't Purge Is Said Not Enough

By SUSANNE SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Strike leaders said today the new purge in Poland's Communist leadership and promise of democratic union elections will not bring an immediate end to the walkouts by more than 150,000 workers on Poland's northern Baltic coast.

Gdansk radio reported that the strikes along the Gdansk coast continued today, and most plants and ports remained idle. Workers expressed a cautious degree of encouragement, and awaited the government's next move.

"It may not mean much progress, maybe like changing an old coat for a new coat," said striker Lech Badkowski. "But it's still a coat. We have to see what they offer us."

First Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski returned to Gdansk to arrange a second meeting with strike leaders, government sources said. Jagielski held an unprecedented meeting with the strike leaders Saturday.

In an effort to end the 12-day-old strike, Communist Party leader Edward Gierek announced the firing of Premier Edward Babiuch and eight other top officials Sunday, and promised that union officials would be elected from among candidates nominated by the workers.

But Gierek rejected the strikers' demands for free trade unions and political reforms such as the right to strike, an end to censorship and the release of all political prisoners.

"We cannot agree to demands striking at the very foundations of the existence of the nation and the state," he warned.

"We go on striking," Leszek Walesa, head of the central strike committee told 2,000 strikers at the Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk. "Only free trade unions can make us happy, can give us victory. The government will not be able to cheat us — we do not give it that opportunity."

Some of strike leaders, however, seemed to welcome the appointment of the new premier, Jozef Pinkowski, 51, a member of the Communist Party secretariat, and the restoration to Politburo membership of Stefan Olszowski, a former foreign minister. Both are regarded as economic experts.

In a purge last February, Olszowski, for reasons still unknown, lost his key party posts and was demoted to ambassador to East Berlin. Some political observers in Warsaw said Olszowski might become Gierek's successor if the party chief's attempts to end the strike fails.

Diplomats in Warsaw agreed that the purge removed some "hard-line" pro-Stalinists and indicated significant moderation by Gierek's regime. One diplomat said such changes would be unthinkable elsewhere in the Soviet bloc.

Most observers said it was too early to determine Gierek's chances for political survival, which hinged on a settlement of the strikes.

Rip Tides On Outer Banks Claim At Least 4 Lives

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (AP) — Strong riptides spawned by three days of steady northeast winds led to four drownings within 90 minutes off North Carolina's Outer Banks, the worst series of drownings here in five years, officials say.

The drownings occurred Sunday after officers with bullhorns urged swimmers to stay out of the waters, authorities said.

One other person is presumed to have drowned Saturday afternoon.

Dare County rescue workers answered dozens of calls from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday along the 25-mile beach from South Nags Head to Duck. At least 17 people received medical attention.

The riptides were augmented by the monthly lunar tides and steady northeast winds from Tropical Storm Charley. All the Sunday drownings occurred within an hour of low tide.

"You hate to see a weekend like that come. The beach was full with a lot of people who didn't know what was happening," said Lt. C.L. Hatchell of the Dare County sheriff's office.

Southern Shores policeman Jim Mulford said he almost drowned trying to rescue a victim near Duck.

"I almost panicked. I thought I couldn't get back," Mulford said.

Mulford tried twice to fight the current, only to be forced back to sea and north along the beach both times. After an hour, he made it to shore by swimming from sand bars close to the beach.

Dare County officials said the body of Wilton Howell Bunn, 61, of Newport News, Va., was washed ashore before Mulford could get out of the water.

Dare County authorities listed the other victims as John Moroney, 42, of Ellicott City, Md.; James Palsik, 36, of Raleigh, N.C.; and a 29-year-old man who was not identified immediately.

Officials said Paul Denne Jr., 28, of Port View, Pa., disappeared Saturday while swimming near Duck.

In addition, the Coast Guard suspended the search Sunday for a Virginia teenager who fell off a fishing boat Thursday night in Oregon Inlet.

Sheriff's deputies and police officers had urged swimmers to stay away from the waters.

"All we could do was ask them. We couldn't force them out of the water. You'd get them out for maybe 30 minutes and then they'd work themselves right back in," Hatchell said.

Officials said it was the worst series of drownings since Memorial Day 1975, when 11 people died along the Dare County beaches.

Chemical Spill Is Treated At Plant

Some 5,300 gallons of sodium hydroxide, caustic soda, were spilled at the Burroughs Wellcome Pharmaceutical Plant here Thursday night. Most of it was contained in ditches on the plant property, Lee Daniel of the State Division of Environmental Management said this morning.

The spill reportedly was the result of an overflow from a 5,000-gallon tank which caused the basic material to run off the plant's roof and into a ditch on the eastern side of the property. A gate to Parker's Creek, normally used to hold water for irrigation of plant grounds, was closed immediately and State environmental agents were called, Jan Tanner, community relations specialist with Burrough Wellcome said.

Daniel, who is regional engineer for enforcement and emergency response with the Division of Environmental Management, said company and state workers began immediately to neutralize the chemical by adding two kinds of acid to it, forming salts and water. The resulting solution was then sent to the city waste water treatment plant for further treatment, he said.

"We have been told that there is no health hazard resulting from the accident," Ms. Tanner said.

State Wildlife protectors could not be reached at press time, but according to Daniel, there were few, if any, fish killed as a result of the spill. Any small amount of the chemical that actually got into the creek and then into the river was greatly diluted, he said, and unlikely to do harm. Daniel said company personnel acted extremely responsibly in dealing with the results of the accidental spill.

ECU Student, Faculty Convocations Are Held

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The annual faculty convocation, and a convocation for new students and parents later in the morning, signaled the opening of the 1980-1981 school year at East Carolina University today.

ECU Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer spoke at both of the meetings, telling faculty, students and parents that the school will have the largest enrollment in its history this Fall, that East Carolina is among the best in the Southeastern United States, and that the university is dedicated to quality.

Brewer told the faculty that for the budget for the 1979-80 school year authorized 10,800 full-time equivelent students. Actually, he said, there were 11,085. He noted that the new budget authorizes 11,230 students this year.

He noted that the budget proposed for 1981-82 is based on 11,394 students, while the 1982-83 budget projects 11,542 students.

"Salaries," he told the faculty, "are always a major problem. We are a long way from the solution of that problem," but are continuing to work on it.

He added that, "inflation remains the greatest threat to higher education.

The chancellor outlined for the faculty the school's capital improvement requests for the 1981-83 bienium, saying an $18 million classroom building heads the list, along with renovations to a number of present facilities, including the addition of a third floor to the Home Economics-Nursing building.

"Each year, East Carolina University becomes a better place to teach and a better place to learn," the chancellor emphasized. "What we are totally committed to at East Carolina University is quality, not quantity.

"East Carolina is a fine, fine univeristy. I say this with pride."

According to Brewer, "this university has been through much change," in its 72-year history. Change, he emphasized, "must always be for the better."

He encouraged the faculty to, "challenge our students

DEFECTIVE FORMULA

Sylvia Moore of 1801 E. First Street, No. 3, Greenville, has asked Hotline to disseminate the following information: In August, 1979, two widely used infant formulas, Neo-Mull-Soy and Cho-Free, were recalled because they lacked a vital nutrient, chloride.

Many of the estimated 20,000 to 50,000 infants who were on these formulas suffered weight loss and dehydration, some during the first six months of life, the most critical period of growth and development when infant formula is often a baby's only source of nourishment.

Some infants were mistakenly diagnosed as having Bartter's Syndrome (a rare kidney disorder) or possibly cystic fibrosis. A number of infants were hospitalized.

No one is sure what the long-term effects may be. However, some parents now report that their children continue to have slow rates of physical development (for example, sitting up, crawling, walking, talking, etc.)' and below expected height, weight, and head circumference.

Two mothers of affected children, Carol Laskin and Lynne Pilot, have begun a national organization to help other parents whose children were on the defective formula.

For more information, one may write: FORMULA, Box 39051, Washington, D. C. 20016.

City Schools Open Doors For Session

Greenville City Schools opened their doors to student for the fall today, and according to Superintendent Glenn Cox, the day went smoothly.

"As far as we can tell, we've had a real good opening," said the superintendent. "I visited most of the schools this morning and things were going well." He estimated that around 5,000 students began school today.

Cox reported some school bus problems, mostly, he said, arising from new routes. "We used a little different scheme in some areas this years and this may have caused our difficulties. We hope to have the problems worked out in a day or two."

Today was orientation day for students, with the elementary schools opening from 8:15-10:30 a.m. The junior and senior highs went from 8:45-11:30 a.m.

Tomorrow the schools will follow their regular schedule, which is as follows: 8:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for Kindergarten; 8:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for grades 1-6; 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. for seventh grade; 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for grades 8-12.

XVM TVWYDST LSMWMLYLSC GVSM CNGVRRLT XLCGDCNLT MVGR

Saturday's Cryptoquip — ONE DULCET CONSOLATION ABOUT BALDNESS — IT'S NEAT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: W equals A

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Birchers Approve Of GOP Platform

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The national Republican platform is pleasing to members of The John Birch Society, the conservation organizations's state coordinator says.

The coordinator, Tom Hicks, says his society even contributed to the philosophy that produced the GOP document.

"It would be presumptious to take full credit, but I think we definitely had an effect on the overall trend," Hicks said, noting that Birchers have promoted increased defense spending, reduced taxes and laws prohibiting abortions since the group was founded 22 years ago.

The society reached its peak of publicikty in the 1960s, when billboards denouncing the United Nations and then-Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren were in vogue. It has maintained a low profile since that time, but Hicks says the organization is still healthy.

Hicks said small groups of Birchers have been working quietly, showing filmstrips on communism to church and civic groups, mailing Birch material to community leaders, writing letters expounding their belief to newspapers and vocally spreading the word about communists in government.

They're trying to instill in Americans the God-fearing decency they once had, he said.

The Birch Society is chartered as an educational organization, and local chapters don't endorse candidates or make public statements for or against issues. But individual members are free to say and do what they want, says Hicks.

Test Required For Course

Persons interested in taking the Bank Teller Training Course sponsored by Pitt Community College must take an aptitude test administered by the Employment Security Commission before being allowed to take the course.

There will be two testing dates, August 28 and September 4, at 6 p.m. Before an individual can take the aptitude test he must go by the Employment Security Commission and register. No one will be allowed to take the test on these two dates without first registering. The Employment Security Commission is located on Bismark Street.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

© 1980 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A6 ♡AKQJ7 ◇A83 ♣KQJ
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♡	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have as little as the law allows for a demand bid, and your first chore must be to advise partner of this. Either a bid of three no trump, to highlight the balanced nature of your hand, or four hearts should give him the picture. Despite the honors, three no trump is more descriptive of your bidding. If there is a slam, the move must come from partner.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1043 ♡A ◇QJ52 ♣KQJ93
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Although partner has made the rebid you least wanted to hear, you are still interested in game since you have a full opening bid. However, you do not have a really good rebid. Perhaps the easiest way to arrive at an answer is to eliminate the unsound choices. You certainly don't want to raise hearts, and a bid of two no trump without a spade stopper cannot be wise. A rebid of three clubs would suggest a subminimum two-over-one response, with a longer suit, so that leaves only three diamonds. Pass, however, if partner can do no more than bid three hearts over this strong action.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠873 ♡J765 ◇KJ9 ♣A62
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Dble.	Pass	1 ♡
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—No need to pussyfoot here. Partner should have about 17 points to make a takeout double and then bid a suit. Since you have 9, including two stoppers in diamonds, we suggest three no trump. This announces that you have the strength for game and that a good deal of your values are in the opponents' suit. Partner is free to correct to a major if he is highly distributional.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ965 ♡82 ◇63 ♣Q983
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—It is true that you don't have much, but consider what partner's bid means. He is showing a maximum no trump opening with a good fit for spades. Now your hand revalues to at least 8 points, and if you add that to his 18, you find you have 26—just enough to venture game. We would bid four spades.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J63 ♡A5 ◇QJ10 ♣AQ982
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner was unwilling to quit in one no trump, he must have a good spade suit, although the strength of his hand is still open to question. With two aces, three-card support headed by an honor and a ruffing value, we would raise to three spades. Indeed, we would have preferred a raise to two spades to the one no trump rebid chosen by South.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠5 ♡A1076 ◇K9872 ♣854
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	1 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—It is very tempting to do something with your hand, but sober reflection should point up the folly of any action. A new suit by you would be forcing. If partner's second suit is spades, you have no fit and you will surely propel the auction to a dangerous level. Pass. If partner has a good hand, he can reopen the bidding. If he does not, your prudence could avert disaster.

Two Wrecks Saturday Night

An estimated $7,600 property damage resulted from two Saturday night collisions investigated by Greenville police.

Investigators reported a car driven by John Barry Cox of Winterville, collided with a utility pole on 14th Street, 400 feet south of the York Road intersection, causing $5,800 damage to the car and $100 damage to the pole.

A 9:10 p.m. collision on Arlington Boulevard, 300 feet North of the Clifton Street intersection, involved cars driven by Melvin Lee Miller of Huron, S.D., and Robert Floyd Edwards of Route 1, Vanceboro.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $1,000 to the Miller car and $700 to the Edwards auto.

According to Program Director Mary Muzzarelli, the three year old class will meet from 10-11 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 28. Those enrolled in the four year old program will meet Friday, Aug. 29, from 10-11 a.m.

Parents are invited to stay with the children during this time. The church is located at 1801 S. Elm St.

The Art of Carpeting & Decor

by Larry C. Whitlow

Thinking of new carpeting? Begin by sketching out a floor plan. It must be measured correctly. To accomplish this a 6 to 12 foot folding wood carpenter's rule will be needed as well as a roll of flexible steel tape or a yardstick. Use the carpenter's rule for measuring the room and any large, straight elements and the yardstick for smaller areas under three feet. A steel tape is also compact to carry with you when starting your shopping. Never use a cloth tape measure as it tends to stretch. although it is faster and easier to make a rough sketch of the measurements of the floor, it is more accurate and much more sensible to do your floor plan "to scale" on graph paper. It is a good idea to call a professional for advice and help.

When you're through making your floor plans bring them to us at LARRY'S CARPETLAND INC., 3010 E. 10th St., 758-2300. We'll help you select the right carpeting for your needs. Lee, Milliken and Georgian carpets are handled by us exclusively in this area. Make us your complete flooring headquarters. Open: 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon. thru Fri. Enjoy the long holiday weekend.

HANDY HINT: The standard scale is ¼ inch equals 1 foot. On graph paper of this scale, each square is ¼ inch and represents 1 foot.

Chip-Throw Standouts

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — The chips were down in the show arena at the Du Quoin State Fair — and the participants rose to the occasion.

A Southern Illinois Univerty-Carbondale student, John Hertz, won the National Cow Chip Throwing Trophy with a chuck of 177 feet, 3 inches. Another SIU student, Paul Stokes, won the state fair trophy with a toss of 147 feet, eight inches.

But it was a former pro football star, a politician and a cocktail waitress who stole the show Friday.

SIUC Athletic director Gale Sayers, a member of the National Football League Hall of Fame for his years with the Chicago Bears, used a lefthanded overhand that was good for 131 feet, 9 inches. "I just wanted to get the thing out of my hand," he explained.

Murphysboro Rep. Bruce Richmond hurled a cow chip 148 feet, 3 inches in the national showdown, quipping that "legislators are experts at throwing this stuff around."

Waitress Pattie Weiss of Carbondale donned an elbow-length silver lame glove to win the women's division with a throw of 72 feet. "Everybody expects a cocktail waitress to be able to sling a lot of this stuff," Miss Weiss said. "Well, I guess they're right."

In-Service Training Given

Lou Gilbert, psychologist at the Pitt County Mental Health Center, recently presented a series of in-service training sessions for Social Security Administration personnel in Greenville.

Stress management techniques, relaxation techniques and strategies for interviewing clients were topics covered by Gilbert. Gilbert is Employee Assistance Program, referral contact and biofeedback specialist at Pitt County Mental Health Center.

Baptism Helped By Fire Dept.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Dale Parkhurst's baptism got an assist from the Grand Traverse County volunteer fire department.

Parkhurst, serving a prison sentence of up to 80 years for a 1979 bank robbery, was immersed in the department's 3-foot-deep, 1,400-gallon portable water tank Friday after it was brought behind the locked doors of the Sheriff's Department garage.

Sheriff Richard Wyler said he usually allows inmates to go to their own churches for such a ceremony, but that Parkhurst was considered a high security risk.

Commission Agenda Set

Some 14 items of business are scheduled for consideration by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning & Zoning Commissions at Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

Business on the joint agenda includes: request of Waddell A. Manning for rezoning 1.67 acres adjacent to Red Oak Plaza from RA-20 to R-6; request of Industrial Transmissions Inc. for rezoning seven tenths of an acre on N. Greene Street at its intersection with Industrial Boulevard from Highway Commercial to Unoffensive Industry; and

Planning Department reports concerning amendments to Article VII, entitled "Off Street Parking and Service Requirement," and to Article I, under Section 32-15, entitled "Street Access."

Business on the joint agenda includes: consideration of a request by Harvey Bradshaw to remove proposed Sedgefield Drive from the Thoroughfare Plan; request by Collice Moore and Max Ray Joyner for rezoning four acres located some 200 feet east of Greenville Boulevard between Eastbrook and Devonshire Drives from Shopping Center to R-6;

Preliminary plat of Section II of Orchard Hill, located west of Hooker Road; preliminary plat of Lexington Square Condominiums, located on Oakmont Drive, Oakmont Professional Plaza; consideration of a petition to close a portion of the cul-de-sac of Sara Lane located in Elizabeth Heights Subdivision; consideration of the Sedimentation and Erosion Control Plans for Village East Subdivision on Cedar Lane south of University Condominiums and for Arlington Boulevard Self-Storage, located on Arlington Boulevard east of Middle School; final subdivision plats of Section IV and V of Patrick's Plaza, located at the intersection of Arlington Boulevard and the proposed Red Banks Road; and

Discussion of a request and petition for amendment of the Rock Springs Subdivision area bound on the north and west by Green Mill Run, on the east by Norfolk-Southern Railroad Co., and on the south by 14th Street, containing approximately four acres. The property is owned by Eastern Realty Inc., but the surrounding property owners have requested that the zoning classification be changed from Office & Institutional to R-15.

Information Is Available

Couple Marries In Ceremony On Sunday

Rosemary Dail and Jeffrey Keith Bailey were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. at Arlington Street Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harold Greene.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton James Dail and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Wayne Bailey, all of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Eloise Jackson, organist, and Mrs. Susie Pair, who sang "Evergreen," "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal gowen of white chiffonella over white peau de soie, designed by Tito Maressa, styled with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in silk floral Venise lace beaded with pearls. The fitted empire bodice and cap sleeves, overlaid in sheer point d'esprit, were embellished with beaded silk floral Venise lace. The modified A-line skirt and attached watteau train were bordered at the hemline with scalloped silk Venise lace. She wore a chapel length mantilla edged in silk Venise lace attached to a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace. The bride carried a nosegay of white silk daisies, miniature carnations and rosebuds with baby's breath and satin picot ribbon.

Mrs. Kay Ellington of Greenville was honor attendant and wore a formal gown of tea rose silesta styled with an open neckline gathered shoulders, empire bodice featuring an overlay in front and a cowl drape extending to waist length. The dress had a layered wrap skirt accentuated with a side tie sash. She carried a silk nosegay of daisies, day lilies and baby's breath in apricot, yellow and green with matching ribbons.

Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Della Harrell, Mrs. Carlotta Utley and Mrs. Barbara Adams, all sisters of the bride, Mrs. Wanda Hardee, sister of the bridegroom, all of Greenville. Their gowns were styled identical to that of the honor attendant. Each carried a nosegay fashioned like that of the honor attendant.

Flower girl Monica Bailey wore a formal white gown and carried a white basket with silk daisies, day lilies and baby's breath.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Wayne Bailey, brother of the bridegroom, Sidney Hardee, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Sammy Adams and Sammy Harrell, both brothers-in-law of the bride, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal ensemble of slate blue trilobal and lace with an all lace bodice and complemented by a lace jacket. The mother of the bridegroom selected a champagne chiffon gown accented with silk Venise lace. Both wore corsages of white roses.

The bridegroom's grandmotrher, Mrs. Nell Brown, was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

MRS. JEFFREY KEITH BAILEY

Mrs. Mamie Smith served as director of ceremonies.

The bridegroom's parents held a cake cutting Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hardee.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given at the Greenville Country Club by Mrs. Leon L. Moore and Mrs. William T. Cannon.

The bridal couple are graduates of Rose High School. She is employed at Arlington Street Baptist Church and the bridegroom is self-employed.

After a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, the couple will live in Greenville.

HONEY PEACHES

Another easy-to-make and delicious recipe from my sister Phyllis.

¼ cup honey
2 cups sliced peeled fresh peaches (4 or 5 medium)

Into a container turn the honey; gently fold in a few peach slices at a time to coat. Chill, covered, for 2 to 3 hours. Honey and peaches will make their ow n sauce. Serve with heavy cream (plain or whipped). Makes 4 servings.

Dear Abby

Readers Not Too Tired To Write

DEAR READERS: TIRED IN LINCOLN, NEB., wrote: "At age 50, after 30 years of marriage, I would like to forget about sex altogether. Believe me, I've paid my dues. I suspect that many (if not most) women get very little physical satisfaction out of sex; they just go through the motions because they want to do something for the men they love. I can't believe I'm the only woman who feels this way. Please poll your readers, Abby, and if they're honest, I think you'll find I'm right."

Well, here's an update on my survey, and there are literally bushel baskets of mail that are yet to be tabulated:

TOTAL RESPONSES TO DATE: 106,448
Agreed with TIRED: 61,055
Disagreed: 45,393

Some sample comments:

"I'm 50, raised two children, married 29 years, cared for a semi-invalid mother, moved 14 times, worked almost my entire married life as a nurse, and believe it or not, it's my husband who's tired!"

RICHMOND, VA.

"I always took a couple of stiff drinks to face what was waiting for me in the bedroom. I'm 63, and still hate sex, but I sure love booze."

BALTIMORE

"There must be something wrong with TIRED. I'm 81, and when my husband was alive I thought sex was the most fun in the world, but now that I'm a widow, it's kind of hard to find someone to play with — especially in a small town where everyone knows your business."

HAVING FUN AT 81

"I'm 51, and now that our kids are out of the house we can make love in the afternoon, make all the noise we want, and I don't have to worry about getting pregnant. This is the best time of my life!"

HAPPY IN DENVER

"How can I enjoy sex when my husband comes to bed with his teeth out, needing a bath, and belching onions in my face? I'm 55 and agree with TIRED."

NO NAME IN CLEVELAND

"I'm pushing 85, and hope that the last healthy breath God gives me will be spent in an intimate embrace with my man."

M. IN SAN DIEGO

"I'm glad for the chance to express my feelings. I agree with TIRED. My husband is 62, a severe arthritic, and he's never tired. He claims that sex is beneficial to his health. The only place he doesn't have arthritis is you-know-where. Don't use my name. I'm 58 and have felt this way for the last 20 years."

A. IN SYRACUSE

"At 50 I got nothing out of sex. I thought I went frigid, but something happened somewhere around 53, and now we're more compatible sexually than we've ever been. Hard work and money worries make a man a poor lover."

N.Y.C.

"I've been a widow for 12 years. My husband and I both enjoyed sex until he died. He was 90. I could still enjoy it, but who would have me?"

Industries Improving

Every recession there is concern about major industries and business giants getting into financial trouble. This one's no exception. Chrysler has had to turn to government guaranteed loans and all the American auto manufacturers have shown deep losses this year.

Some other industries have been similarly affected, and it always brings prophesies of the demise of the free enterprise system.

Don't count on it. Industry snaps back from bad times, and this time there is particular opportunity for vast improvement in our industrial methods.

The auto industry, beset by foreign competition and government regulation, is not just riding this recession out, it is completely redesigning its plants, and closing some inefficient ones, preparing to produce cars for the rest of this century which will be far different from those we have known. Such radical changes will cost billions but more efficient production could result. Other industries are closing nonproductive plants and either designing new more efficient ones, or concentrating production in the more efficient facilities.

Technological developments come so rapidly now that often production lines can't be modified — rather entire new facilities have to be constructed. That is hugely expensive but the long range result can be increased productivity and healthy industries. That is essential to our society.

Divorce? What Divorce ?

Let's see, now. Gov. Hunt's campaign manager announced that he had information available on Sen. I. Beverly Lake, Jr.'s divorce and such for distribution on request.

The next day the governor announces that he opposed the distribution of such material about his opponent. "That is a personal matter and is not an issue in this campaign," the governor said.

Given the widespread publicity the entire matter received, isn't the information already out? Oh well. It's an election year.

THIS AFTERNOON

The REAL World

By BILL NOBLITT

SNOW CREEK— They came from all over; the cars with New York and California and Massachusetts plates. Cadillacs, pickups and beatup old Dodges settled down democratically in the grass beneath the towering old oaks.

There were hugs and kisses from all — whether toddler, teenager; going-to-paunch middle-ager or the grandly wrinkled and greying oldsters.

It was one of those glorious upper Piedmont days when the sultry dogdays of summer yield temporarily to what meteorologists describe as an influx of Canadian high pressure. The sun dazzled the eye and made white clapboard to sparkle in the cool, green grove.

Maple leaves turned and preened in the gentle breeze, each demanding the crown — as would a beauty contest entrant — as the loveliest of the lot.

First there was preaching in the starkly simple and overwhelmingly beautiful Snow Creek Methodist Church where two centuries of time and the loving hands of the congregation have melded dark woods and gleaming brass into a symphony for the eyes.

Dinner

Then, sun spotting the gleaming white cloths down through the mighty oaks, food for an army was spread, row upon row on tables in the churchyard.

Youngsters sprawled on the grass or on quilts or on one of the many available laps of aunts, uncles, cousins, grandmas or friends.

Between heaping plates, some little ones walked through the stone-walled cemetery finally to stand, shivering a little, just as their daddies and their daddies before them had done, at the grave of A. McArmon; a traveler in that land of north Iredell County in the days when a winding dirt road was the unmarked way.

The tombstone tells the story: he was bit by a rattlesnake and died. In August 1780, that was; and his burial in that place started the cemetery which now sprawls across the hillside and is the resting place for the Kings and the Rickerts and the Jurneys and the

BILL NOBLITT

Whites and the Webers and others who built this land.

On this Sunday, strangely, the accents grate not at all harshly upon the ear: that of the German wife of a local boy since gone to Pennsylvania; that of an Italian immigrant's son who has established himself as the Godfather of the community; that of a Boston-bred teenager who is vowing to "come home" and re-establish those Tar Heel roots one day; that of rural North Carolina mixing happily and in love with all the rest.

Even that is really not so strange when you consider that 200 years ago the accents were just as diverse: that of Scotsman or Englishman or German or Hollander only over the years finally merging into the soft drawl we know so well today.

No News

There were no big-city newspaper reporters or television cameras making the people act like something they aren't or pushing the participants into awkward comments. Afterward, no headlines recorded that a daughter of that soil who had traveled the world sang brilliantly for her homefolk, or that her daughter who at some future time will return from the concert stages of world capitals held an audience spellbound with a harp solo.

Indeed, while the world elsewhere reeled under screamings of hijackings, the dollar gone haywire, Kennedy upstaging Carter and so on and so on; generation upon generation whose roots

The 'In' Place To Be

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — There are certain people who, when they go on vacation, are never sure they're at the right place. It isn't a question of the facilities as much as whether it's the acceptable resort of the moment.

The "in" island at the present is Martha's Vineyard. Those of us who have been coming here over the years never planned it that way. As a matter of fact, many people fell in love with the island because it wasn't "in." We sailed, fished, clammed and tended our lobster pots oblivious to the goings-on in such Gucci-ridden places as Southampton, East Hampton, Newport, Bar Harbor, and Malibu.

How did this all change? It dates back three years ago when a violent storm blew up off Cape Cod. A ship was sunk and one of the passengers, a reporter from Women's Wear Daily, was thrown up on the beach off Edgartown wet, bedraggled and exhausted.

She was washed up on a private beach and at first the owner wanted to call the police and have her arrested. But when he saw her condition he carried her up to the house where he decided to nurse her back to health before he pressed charges.

In a few days the WWD reporter was fit and her only problem was that she faced a deadline and had to phone a story into her paper by six o'clock.

Desperate for anything, she decided to write a piece about Martha's Vineyard, declaring that it was the new resort for the nouveau beautiful people.

The following week the beautiful people all over America were in panic. No one had heard of the Vineyard or the people who spent their summers there, such as Walter Cronkite, Beverly Sills, Katherine Graham, Carly Simon, Lillian Hellman, James Reston, Mike Wallace, Bill Styron, Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon. But since the reporter put their names in the story, everyone assumed they were important.

WWD, who can make or ruin a person's summer vacation, declared that the Hamptons were finished and Newport was ready for urban redevelopment.

Then John Belushi, of "Saturday Night Live" and "Animal House," and the person whom the beautiful people look to, to set trends, purchased Robert McNamara's house. When Jackie Onassis heard Belushi has bought a place, she had no choice but to buy one of her own, to be near him.

In no time at all Martha's Vineyard became a household name and the "only" place to be in the summer. The National Enquirer, Town and Country, Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and People magazine all sent reporters to the island to keep the legend alive. It would be only a matter of time before the paperback publishers would discover the place.

They did this summer when Stan Hart, a local resident, wrote a book for Dell titled "The Martha's Vineyard Affair."

The copy on the cover displaying a nude man and woman clinched our reputation for us. It read "Scotch got them through the day ... sex got them through the

Other Editors Say Let Sunshine In

(Greensboro Daily News)

The law we know as the "Sunset Act" has scheduled 100 state statutes for possible tgermination. It's the job of the LGovernmental Evaluation Commission to decide which ones should get the ax and which of the 100-or-so licensing boards and commissions governed by the statutes cam be reformed.

The commission's work since its inception in 1978 has been slow. Only about one-third of these statutes — all of whilch have dealt with occupational licensing — have been reviewed.

Some public officials have apparently gotten impatient over this snail's pace. A few legislators are talking about doing away with the commission altogether. And now comes Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, up for re-election this fall, with a related proposal to "unleash our people and our economy by pushing back the stifling hand of government regulation."

Few people could disagree with the worthiness of Edmisten's intent. But understanding precisely what he has in mind — and how this work would differ from what the Government Evaluation Commission is already doing — isn't entirely clear.

Part of what Edmisten wants to do is simply to re-write state regulations to make them clearer. We can all agree with Edmisten's contention that "regulations should be written in plain, common-sense English," that "writing effective, tight, readable regulations is one of the toughest jobs in government." Edmisten quotes Justice Louis Brandeis who once said that "in a democracy, sunlight is the best disinfectant."

But the attorney general apparently contemplates not only re-writing regulations, but scrapping those that are useless or that stifle free market competition.That may overlap with the work the commission is already trying to do.

The impetus for Edmisten's initiative was a recent ruling by the N.C. Court of Appeals that the 18,000-page N..C. Administrative Code, which fattens by roughly 3,000 pages a year, could not be enforced unless the General Assembly appropriated more money for its publication. The lawmakers did so this year, but Edmisten has decided to capitalize on the occasion to try to slim the volume down and make it more readable.

Strength For Today

WORSHIP — OR CHURCH ATTENDANCE

There is a church in this country that was once used as a stable by British soldiers during the Revolution. The soldiers chopped up the pews and pulpit for firewood.

The British soldiers found stable space and firewood in this building, but of course, they did not find God. Worshipping congregations for over two centuries have been finding God in the fellowship of that church.

British soldiers, you and I — what do we find when we go into the house of God? Just what we are looking for, and no more. If we carry our sins to church, hold tight to them while the minister is preaching, and then bring them out with us again, that's that. But if we enter the sacred precincts conscious that we are sinners needing the forgiving mercy of God, and leave at the close of the service with the consciousness that we have looked into the far reaches of heaven and have heard the voice of God speaking to us, then we have really worshipped. — Elisha Douglass

Reagan Rose To The Bait

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The campaign has barely begun, but already put to rest is the notion that Ronald Reagan could adopt the strategy of Dwight Eisenhower — avoid controversy and ride a smile and winning personality into the White House.

Smart as Adlai Stevenson was, he could not draw the general out, or engage him in the kind of hand-to-hand political combat that leads to new insights for voters but also liabilities for the candidate. Eisenhower stood fast on generalities and trounced Stevenson twice.

Jimmy Carter, a canny campaigner, is succeeding where Stevenson failed. He is taking the fight to Reagan, portraying him, as Reagan says — as a combination of Ebenezer Scrooge and the Mad Bomber. The strategy seems to be working, at least to the extent of smoking Reagan out.

Rising to the bait and risking an early lead in the polls, Reagan is breaking down the generalized stump speech that carried him through the Republican primaries to expound on specific issues.

As a result, in the mined field of foreign policy, he is saying more about how he stands on arms control and U.S. relations with the Soviet Union and China.

Developing his peace-through-strength theme, for instance, Reagan itemized before the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago last Monday his understanding of Soviet strategy and designs.

He said the Soviets are trying to isolate the United States from its allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, gain new influence in the Arabian Gulf and Southern Asia, encircle and neutralize China and foment revolution in the Caribbean.

It was a classically conservative speech, reflecting deep suspicion of the Soviet Union and doubts about the wisdom of entering into arms control agreements with the Kremlin.

In dealing with arms control, Reagan ridiculed Secretary of State Edmund Muskie's warning that striving for military superiority would lead to an all-out arms race. "We're already in an arms race, but only the Soviets are racing," Reagan told the VFW conventioneers.

But later, at the American Legion convention in Boston on Wednesday, Reagan supported "essential equivalence" with the Soviet Union, an approach that is generally considered both more moderate and more realistic in this age of sophisticated nuclear weapons.

He even seemed a bit defensive about the GOP platform's call for military superiority. "Since when," he asked, "has it been wrong for America to aim to be finest in military strength? How is America military superiority dangerous?"

On China, meanwhile, Reagan could be reaching for trouble by spelling out his support for "official relations" with Taiwan.

He is trying both to reassure Peking that he does not propose to renounce President Carter's 1978 break with Taiwan and to clarify for the American voters his views on this important foreign policy issue.

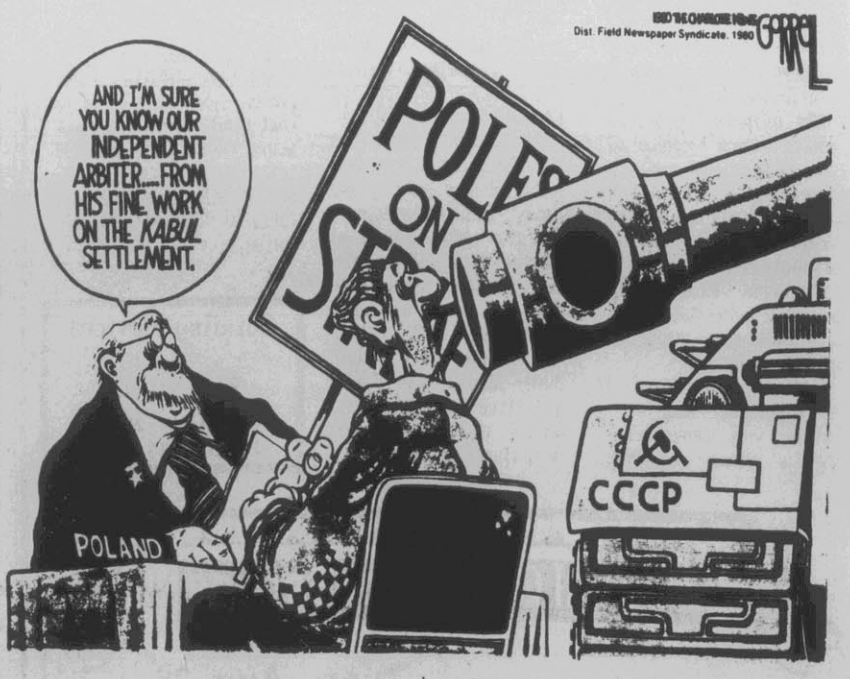
Running-mate George Bush was sent to China to explain, Reagan said, that "maintaining" an official relationship with Taiwan "does not mean in any way that we want to or intend to lessen the efforts to build a friendship with the People's Republic of China on the mainland."

But the "liaison office" Reagan seems to have in mind for Taiwan is evidently unacceptable to China. The communists have been willing to live with a so-called "institute" headed by American diplomats on leave and carrying out most of the routine functions of an embassy.

Reagan's "liaison office" is quite another thing to the Chinese. In a statement Tuesday they accused him of "sheer deception" and pursuing a "bankrupt" policy.

In establishing full relations with China as of Jan. 1, 1979, the United States said commercial, cultural and other relations would be maintained with Taiwan "without official government representation and without diplomatic relations."

By persisting now in his support for a U.S. "liaison office," Reagan could be exposing himself to charges of not grasping the subtleties of U.S. relations with China while, ironically, also losing favor with American voters who wanted to reverse the break with Taiwan.



Public Subsidizes Shoplifters

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Shoplifting now costs Americans $16 billion a year — or 5 cents on every dollar spent in stores, according to a new study presented here this week.

"Every household in America get a bill of $200 per year for shoplifting, in the form of higher prices in the store. We are subsidizing shoplifting," said Dan Robertson, director of marketing at Georgia State University.

He was among the speakers at the First National Shoplifting Prevention Conference, which opened Sunday and runs through Tuesday.

Robinson based his findings, which double the previous estimate of dollar losses to shoplifting, on a five-year study financed by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

"Our estimate is very conservative," including only losses, not the cost of preventing shoplifting, he said.

The study, Robertson said, was aimed primarily at juveniles, but he knows of cases involving children as young as 3 and others involving senior citizens.

The findings, he said in an interview Sunday night, are based on 49,000 interviews with juveniles and 3,500 interviews with owners and managers of retail stores.

"The majority told us that there has been a definite increase in shoplifting in the past two years," he said. The retailers and the public are getting fed up with it and getting tougher on shoplifters.

In Georgia, for example, there is a mandatory one-year jail term, without suspension or probation, for the third conviction. A major Southern retail chain has changed its policy within the past 60 days and now will prosecute every shoplifter caught, Robertson said.

Up to now, he said, his research indicates juveniles "believe most shoplifters are never caught."

"Almost half told us they have shoplifted, and confirming what they told us, six out of seven who told us they shoplifted indicated they were not caught."

Thirty-five percent of those interviewed who said they had shoplifted "said they did it because they did not have the money" to buy the goods, Richardson said.

Other reasons: 27 percent did it on a dare, 27 percent as a thrill, 24 percent on impulse, and "lastly, 9 percent said they did it to get even because of high prices." Some gave more than one reason for shoplifting.

He said the best bet to cut shoplifting is education. "That's our whole thrust."

"We're starting to get through to them," he said, noting various efforts, including TV and radio commercials. "This year, our data suggests that a majority of the students who responded are beginning to tell us that shoplifting is a crime. Previously they had told us it is not a crime, it's a prank, or it's a game. They did not see it as a crime."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUG. 26, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is advisable that you carefully consider the tasks facing you and that you make plans to gain your most cherished aims. Take positive steps to overcome obstacles.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) First consult with a trusted adviser and then come to a better agreement with associates. Strive for true rapport.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to good friends for the help you need to gain personal aims. Show that you have a cooperative spirit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listening to the recommendations of officials is wise today. Take no risks where your reputation is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have new ideas and plans in mind that require more study before putting them in operation. Be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have several ways of solving certain matters, so be sure to pick the right one. Try to please loved one more.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put your views across to associates and reach a better understanding. Strive to make the future brighter for all.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make definite plans to improve your environment since it has long been on your mind. Avoid the expenditure of too much money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more precise in the handling of an important financial matter and avoid possible trouble later. Safeguard your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Home and close ties need more attention now, so be willing to spend more time on just that. Be logical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good day to garner that data you need at the right sources, so get an early start. Think along optimistic lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal time to go after personal goals since you can gain them very easily now. Take time for pleasure tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Cultivate a friendship with one who can help you advance in career matters. Be sure not to lose your temper with anyone.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who is imaginative and inventive, so permit your progeny to work out ideas that could bring fame and fortune upon reaching maturity. Teach to live on the highest moral plane that is possible.

More Practical Stance Seen By 'Third World'

By OTTO C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The U.N. General Assembly opens a special economic session today, hoping to launch a new effort to ease the imbalance between the industrial and developing nations.

A senior U.N. official said he looked for the Third World countries to take a more pragmatic, less dogmatic approach than they displayed in past meetings and negotiations.

"There is a recognition that nothing is to be won by maintaining a climate of confrontation," he said.

The United States and the other industrialized countries were faced by Third World demands for greatly increased aid, cancellation of more than $360 billion in debts owed by developing countries, freer trade and guaranteed prices for raw materials.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie was to address the opening session. He was expected to urge creation of an international fund to help oil-poor developing countries find their own oil or alternative sources of energy; establishment of emergency food stockpiles in countries frequently threatened by famine and a global agreement to halt the rise of protective tariffs hampering Third World exports.

The special session is the assembly's third to deal exclusively with economics. Its main objective is to initiate in January nine months of global negotiations to implement a new deal for poor nations in trade, commodity prices, finance and development during the coming decade.

The U.N. official said the negotiations are complicated by the fact that the current recession focuses the attention of Western governments on shorter-term problems of unemployment, inflation and negative balances of payments rather than the long-range goal of a new world economic order sought by the Third World.

A high-ranking U.S. official stressed that his government opposes a proposal to commit the industrial nations to contribute 0.7 percent of their gross national product to development aid.

Noting resistance in the U.S. Congress to any increase beyond the present 0.2 percent, the American official said: "We will not commit ourselves to a target that we do not realistically think will be achieved."

A whittled-down version of the $7.6-billion foreign aid package requested by President Carter for fiscal 1981 is bottled up in Congress and may not emerge before the November election. The main beneficiaries would be Israel and Egypt.

Five Wrecks Investigated On Sunday

An estimated $4,700 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Sunday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 1:45 a.m. mishap at the intersection of 14th and Glen Arthur Streets involving a car driven by William Earl Harris of Glendale Court.

Officers reported an estimated $1,500 damage resulted to the Harris car when the vehicle collided with a utility pole. Damage to the pole was set at $700.

Harris was charged with careless and reckless driving after drinking.

Robert James Flanagan of 235 Churchill Dr. was charged with following too close after investigation of a 6:22 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth Street and Greenville Boulevard.

Drivers of the other two cars involved in the collision were identified as Edwin Loris Youmans of Route 2, Washington, and Bobby Ray Young Jr. of Wilmington.

Damage was estimated at $700 to the Flanagan car and $200 to the Youmans vehicle. No damage was done to the Youmans vehicle, officrs said.

An estimated $300 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in a 4:45 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, one-tenth of a mile west of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Drivers involved in the collision were listed as Marcus Gerald Conway of Ayden, and David Burnell Dickens of Scotland Neck.

David Michael Gargano of 1302 Cotten Rd. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 3:40 p.m. collision on Tenth Street, 120 feet east of the Cotanche Street intersection.

Investigators, who identified the drivers of the second car involved as Alice Heidt Finger of 120 Reade Cir., estimated damage at $100 to the Gargano car and $400 to the Finger auto.

Cars driven by Claude Swanson Ferguson Jr. of Goldsboro, and Sue Ellen Griffin of Route 3, Whiteville, collided about 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Evans Streets, causing $350 damage to the Ferguson vehicle and $150 damage to the Griffin car.

Expo Luring Foreigners

MOULTRIE, Ga. (AP) — Farmers and agricultural leaders from Europe and South America are among those expected to attend the third annual Sunbelt Agricultural Exposition this October.

The three-day fair, which attracted 175,000 last year, will be "the most concentrated collection of agricultural intellects and up-to-date farm machinery ever assembled in this part of the country," says Joe Burnside, chairman of the Sunbelt coordinating committee.

More than 80 acres of exhibits and 600 acres of demonstration cropland will be featured in the exhibition Oct. 14-16 at Spence Field, an abandoned Air Force base three miles southeast of Moultrie.

Twenty tractor-pulled "people movers," or trams, will transport visitors from the exhibit area to the field demonstrations, eliminating walks of up to two miles.

The field demonstrations will include a fully operational drip-trickle irrigation system covering five acres of blueberries, blackberries, grapes and pecans.

The cropland also includes 250 acres in corn, 200 in soybeans, 30 in cotton, 30 in peanuts and 50 in calle bermuda grass.

I am happy to report that, in spite of all the attention, those of us who have been coming here before Women's Wear Daily are the same simple people we always were. Of course, there is a lot more drinking and promiscuity, but we only do it when the tourists are in town.

We'd much rather go back to clamming and sailing than drinking and fooling around, but we have to think about real estate values first.

Rare White Lion Cubs Born At Zoo

MASARYKTOWN, Fla. (AP) — Three white lion cubs born in a zoo in this tiny Florida town may be the first of their color born in captivity in the United States, their proud foster father says.

The female cubs have a few tan hairs, but are mostly white, said Stanley Creighton, owner of the private King Kong Zoo about 40 miles north of Tampa. The cubs are about three months old but the zookeeper said he only recently discovered their unusual coloring.

Creighton said the only white cubs born in captivity he knows about are in South Africa. Other zookeepers agreed.

"If indeed this is so, it is quite rare," said a spokesman for the Bronx zoo in New York. "We'd have to go back and check the literature, but I'm quite sure that they're the first ones in the United States and perhaps Europe."

Creighton said the white color is caused by a wayward gene that dilutes the normal color into a pale cream-white but doesn't make the cubs albino.

"Albino is the total absence of color, and most, if not all, albinos have very pink skin and blue eyes," Creighton said. "These cubs have a normal skin and eye color, and some tan or beige hairs scattered along their feet and backs, which is a mark of the wayward gene."

The mother, Elsie, is a lighter beige than most lions, but Caesar, the father, is the typical golden-brown "lion-color lion," Creighton said.

The zookeeper in this tiny town about 40 miles north of Tampa said he knew Elsie had the cubs with her in the den but nobody knows the exact date of birth.

Snellen visual acuity charts are the familiar charts used in most eye examinations and for vision screening in school testing programs. The test requires the reading of letters or figures on a well-lighted chart at a distance of 20 feet. The letters are graduated in size according to optical principles established by research. Each line of letters is numbered to indicate the standard distance at which an individual with normal sight should be able to read. 20/20 vision indicates that a person can identify letters on the 20 foot line at 20 feet.

Are you seeing clearly? If you need corrective lenses to help you see better, CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 5th, Physicians Quandrangle, Building A, can help you. We have our own lab where your lenses will be professionally prepared in strict accordance with your prescription. At the same time our staff will assist in the selection and fitting of the frames that will provide you with comfort of wearing and compliments on styling. Eyeglasses are a custom made product, and at CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS we custom make our service for your individual needs.

The FARM SCENE

By LEROY JAMES
County Extension Chairman

Small corn earworms are usually brownish with small dark spots. Larger caterpillars may be green, brown, yellow or black. The body is stocky and the prominent head is usually pale brown or orange. Light and dark stripes run the length of the body. When disturbed, the insect will drop to the ground, curl up and remain motionless for a short period. The adult caterpillar has five pairs of ventral prolegs and may be up to one and one-half inches in length.

Corn Earworm Control In Soybeans

In 1979, the corn earworm (podworm) damaged soybeans throughout the state, causing an estimated decrease in soybean income of at least $7 million. Many fields were completely stripped of pods and foliage, and yields were significantly below the breakeven point. Although earworm populations were highest in the Coastal Plain, this insect also damaged Piedmont soybeans. Much of the loss, due to treatment costs and yield reductions, was unnecessary since the essential knowledge, techniques and tools necesary to successfully prevent or control earworms in soybeans were available to farmers. In 1979, this insect pest caught many growers with their guard down, and 1980 could be a repeat performance unless adequate steps are taken.

We grow a tremendous number of corn earworms in the state's nearly two million acre corn crop each year, causing this insect to be a serious threat to soybeans also. Therefore, growers should arrange for the timely detection and control of earworms in their soybeans. This article is an attempt to present (1) the more important points of scouting to determine if and when treatment is needed, and (2) to suggest helpful items for controlling this serious pest.

What Is Scouting?

Scouting is field sampling or an examination of a crop for the purpose of determining if or when pests are present. In this discussion, the pest is the corn earworm in soybeans, and the remaining remarks will be directed to this important soybean pest. The information gained from scouting is the basis for maiknng the decision if and when to chemically treat for the corn earworm. Therefore, the facts from the fields must be gathered in a way that will represent the condition of the whole field. This is why tried and proven sampling methods should be used.

How To Properly Scout Soybeans

Damaging populations of corn earworms occur at different places and sometimes even different locations in a field. To properly scout a soybean field for earworms, the scout needs a beat sheet (shaker sheet). This device is simply a 3-by-3 foot square piece of cloth with two sticks attached to opposite sides. An acreage estimate of the field should be obtained from ASCS records.

After each field has been located and an estimate of the field size obtained, the following procedure will provide an accurate estimate of the corn earworm numbers:

1. Walk into the field approximately 25 paces from the most accessible point (this minimizes the edge effect).
2. Lay the beat sheet between two rows while being careful not to disturb the plants directly over the sheet.
3. Lean the soybean plants and weeds, if present, from a three-foot section of one row over the sheet and beat vigorously six or seven times with hand and forearms.
4. Lift plants back and move to the rows on the opposite side of the beat sheet.
5. Push back the foliage, count and record the number of corn earworms on the sheet. There will be other worms in the sample, but they are foliage feeders and should not be counted.
6. Visually determine the size of the corn earworms. Ask yourself the following information: Are most of the earworms about one-half inch or larger?
7. Select one sample (6 feet of row) for every five acres, with a minimum of three samples per field. For fields 50-100 acres in size, 15 samples are enough.
8. Sample weekly unless heavy population warrents sampling every three days. Do not take the same field route each week.

The earworm moth prefers to lay eggs in fields that are blooming (late maturing) and have open canopies (you can see down the middles). For this reason, large growers should concentrate scouting in open canopy fields first and when earworms are found, expand scouting to include the closing and closed canopy fields.

When To Scout

Corn earworms prefer corn for food, but the insect damages several important field crops. Scouting for earworms when they are not present is a waste of time. Moths move to soybeans, cotton and peanuts when there is not enough suitable corn available. In North Carolina, this primarily occurs during late July and early August. The earworm moth flight from corn fields to soybeans varies as much as three weeks from year to year. Scouting for earworms in soybeans should begin when the moths are laying their eggs. Population trends of this pest and other field crop pests are determined weekly in the state using a network of trapping stations and field samples. This information is updated twice weekly and available through the toll-free teletip system (1-800-662-7301). Farmers and scouts can call this number Monday-Saturday in order to determine when moths are at high numbers. Another rule of thumb is to start scouting at peak bloom in the open canopy fields.

When To Treat

Most soybean fields contain some corn earworms which feed upon the plants. However, the soybean plant can make up for a lot of this feeding and not have a reduction in yield. In insect management, the trick is to determine when the value of the loss to insects is equal or greater than the cost of control. This point is called the threshold level.

The true threshold level is difficult to determine because of varying corn values, fuel, labor costs, etc. Therefore, entomologists have developed action thresholds which aid growers in determining with simple mathematical calculations when, on the average, the treatment costs will pay in beans saved from the insect damage.

Vines Family Holds Reunion

FARMVILLE — The Vines family will hold its second reunion here Saturday and Sunday.

Cleveland Vines, chairman of the planning committee, was assisted by Eva Vines Gregory and Douglas Vines, both of Farmville, Milton Vines of New York and Delores Vines of Baltimore, Md., in planning the weekend. The first reunion was held in Baltimore, Md.

Registration Saturday will take place at the Southside Community Center from 10:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Sunday activities will include attending St. John FWB Church at 11:30 a.m. with a member of the family, the Rev. Richard Baker, speaker. He is the son of Mrs. Molly Vines Baker. Most of the participants during the service will be members of the Vines family. The group will have dinner at Carraways Restaurant. The afternoon program will include greetings, speakers and gifts.

BUS TRIP

The Sycamore Chapel Baptist Church young adult ushers are sponsoring a trip to Busch Gardens September 13. The bus will leave Harris Supermarket on N. Greene St. at 6:30 a.m. and return at 10 p.m. Round trip fare is $22. For further details contact Gwen Daniels at 752-1290 from 5-8 p.m. daily.

BACK TO SCHOOL — Sharon Harris, left, a freshman from Greenville, and Kim Kuhens, a freshman from Fairfax, Va., roommates in Clement Dormitory, were among students moving into the dorms at ECU Saturday. Dormitory capacity of 5,500 will be exceeded by almost 200 students this fall, with most of them accomodated by placing an extra person in a double room, according to the Office of Housing Operations at ECU. Store Has Opening

Grand opening ceremonies were held at Moffit's Magnavox located at 2803-B South Evans Street Thursday.

According to Walter Moffitt, owner and manager of the new business, he will offer televisions, radios, cameras, stereos, video tapes and service of Magnavox televisions.

Moffitt has 12 years of sales and service experience with Magnavox products. Prior to his opening in Greenville, he owned and operated Moffitt's Magnavox in Farmville.

Moffitt said he will have a federally licensed technician available to service his products. The store hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday.

Participating in the ribbon cutting ceremonies were Mayor Don McGlohon, Tommy Edwards, chairman of the board of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, and Moffitt.

Experts See Deep Recession For Latin American

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Recessions in the United States and Western Europe are hitting Latin America hard, economic experts say. Some express fear it may eventually plunge the area into its worst crisis in decades.

Latin Americans face higher prices for imported goods and the possibility that industrialized countries will buy less coffee, sugar, cotton, bananas, copper, tin and the many other commodities they export. Also looming are inflation and smaller bank credits.

All this could mean loss of jobs and higher prices in Latin America, raising the prospect for more social unrest in the years ahead.

A third of the area's trade of $125.6 billion a year is with the United States. Most of the rest is with Western Europe and Japan.

A deepening recession means that as earnings from exports drop, the 26 countries of Latin America will have to pay out a bigger share of their total income or make do with less of the capital goods and machinery they now buy from industrialized nations.

These goods — from farm tractors, hydro-electric and steel plants and equipment to run their mines and oilfields — are vital to keeping Latin America's business alive. The area still does not produce all the highly technical manufactured products that it needs.

On top of that, Latin America's population of 337 million is growing at an annual rate of 2.8 percent, doubling every 25 to 30 years, so that an economic standstill can become a serious setback in a couple of years.

Governments in such major countries as Argentina and Mexico are quietly encouraging banks to keep interest rates above the U.S. prime rate, to discourage people from transferring their money to banks in the United States.

This is causing credit squeezes and fueling inflation.

Smaller nations are imposing foreign currency exchange controls or tightening old ones to husband dollar reserves. In effect, these governments now tell people what they can import and what they must do without until better times.

For instance, a Guatemalan can only buy up to $6,000 from the banks for traveling abroad. If he needs more, he must buy it privately at many more Guatemalan quetzales per dollar.

House-building is virtually paralyzed in Colombia because of a credit squeeze. Builders and buyers either cannot get the loans they need or interest rates are prohibitively high. This, in turn, has reduced iron and steel sales by a third. Textile sales are similarly down by about half.

Inflation this year is expected to remain at 25-30 percent while unemployment is expected to rise from 9 to 12 percent.

"The recession in Colombia has already started, as a consequence of the reduction in growth in the U.S. economy," said Alfonso Davila, president of the Colombian Bank Association. Forty percent of Colombia's combined foreign trade is with the United States.

Because of the recession in the Western economies, many Americans and Canadians are putting off that long-planned Mexican vacation, reducing the growth of Mexico's tourism industry — the biggest earner of dollars after oil — to a paltry 4 percent this year as compared to 20 percent in 1979.

The high cost of imported goods and the 21 to 28 percent interest banks charge for commercial loans significantly contributed in raising inflation in Mexico from 20 percent in 1979 to an estimated 30-35 percent in 1980.

Roughly two-thirds of Mexico's trade is with the United States and a recent report by Banamex, the country's No. 2 bank warned: "The impact of the U.S. recession is yet to come."

Argentina, which planned to reduce inflation from last year's 140 percent to 60 or 80 percent this year, will probably have to settle for 100 percent after the cost-of-living index jumped 41.8 percent during the first six months.

Similarly, Brazil had planned to balance the $2.7 billion trade deficit it incurred in 1979, but wound up $1.8 billion in the red during the first five months of this year. A major reason is the cost of importing oil. That charge ran to $7 billion in 1979 and was expected to reach $11 billion by the end of this year.

"Will Brazil be able to avoid a world recession? It can and it must," said Laerte Setubal Filho, president of the Brazilian Exporters Association, one of the country's most influential businessmen. "Some countries have the capacity to recover in the medium and long run. I hope this, because of its unmeasurable wealth, will be Brazil's case."

Even the oil-rich countries are being affected.

"It has been convincingly demonstrated that more dollars for our oil will not make us any richer," said Humberto Calderon Berti, Venezuela's Energy Minister of Venezuela. "But at least for now, the oil dollars should keep us from getting any poorer."

Venezuela is rolling up a $4 billion-a-year trade surplus from the sale of 2.2 million barrels of oil a day to the United States. But the oil-wealth has not helped development. The country has very little industry or agriculture and must import two-thirds of its food. The imported food now costs more, and this is largely blamed for a 22 percent inflation rate.

A Chevrolet Impala assembled in Venezuela with parts imported from the United States costs $19,160.

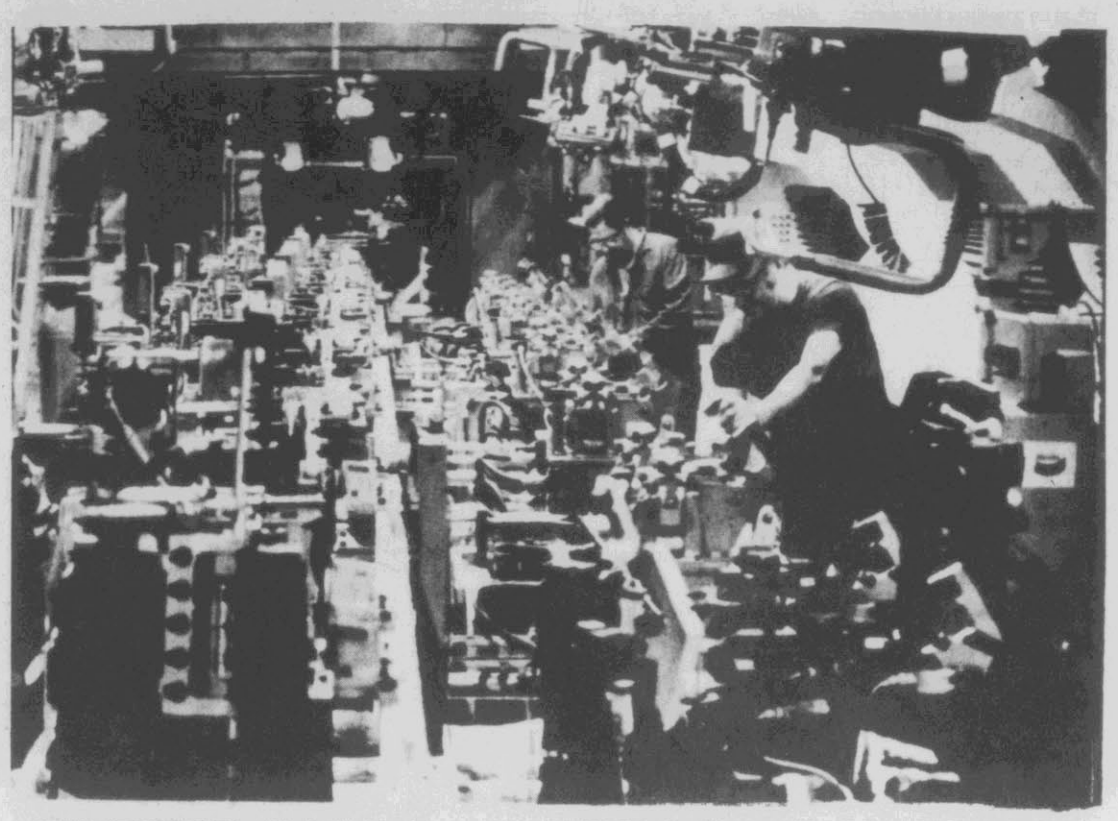
Mexico, the world's fifth richest nation in oil, is keeping down petroleum production to 2.2 million barrels a day and exports to 1.2 million barrels to reduce inflation. The influx of $12 billion in oil money this year threatens to swamp the economy.

Tiny Ecuador cannot absorb the $1.6 billion a year in new revenue from the export of 125,000 barrels of oil a day.

The recession is expected to eat into benefits Argentina, Chile, Colombia and Peru hoped to gain from recent oil finds but the four countries are currently using up all the oil they produce.

"A year ago, Latin America felt hopeful, having obtained one of the highest growth rates in the world, and lowered inflation with great success," said Jorge Gonzalez del Valle, director of the Latin American Monetary Studies Center, a think-tank set up in Mexico City by the central banks of the area.

Speaking at a recent meeting of Latin American central bankers in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, he predicted the recession could eventually reduce economic growth in industrialized countries from 4.5 to 1 percent a year. This, he said, will probably make the period between 1981 and 1983 "one of the most crucial (for Latin America) since the world depression of 1930-1935."



FINAL ADJUSTMENTS — Final adjustments are made on the installation of new fully-automated welding lines, or programmable universal transfer devices, sometimes called robots, at Ford's assembly plant in Edison, New Jersey. These fully automated welding machines resemble dinosaur forms as they slowly bob and weave in spot welding body components of 1981 Escort and Lynx models now being test assembled at the plant. About $65 million was spent to install the latest automated production equipment at the plant to insure high quality standards when regular production begins on September 2. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged lower today amid indications that interest rates are moving up and reports that President Carter's new economic program will include tax cuts and new spending measures designed to stimulate the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 1.11 to 957.08 in the first two hours of trading, as declines outnumbered advances by an 8-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange issues.

Oil issues were generally lower, with Mobil down ⅛ to 71½ and Union Oil of California losing ⅝ to 34⅜. Among steels, U.S. Steel was off ⅛ to 23 and Bethlehem was unchanged at 25⅞.

Big Board volume totaled 15.37 million shares in the first two hours of trading, compared to 28.26 million at the same point Friday. The NYSE's composite index, which had been at a record high, slipped .21 to 72.26.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index moved up .14 to 332.29, higher than any previous close.

Bike Rider Killed On Road

FARMVILLE — A 14-year-old bicycle rider was killed about a mile west of Joyner's Crossroads on State Road 1200 Saturday night when he was struck by a car which did not stop.

Witnesses told investigating Highway Patrolman A. G. Wright that Jimmie Avent, 14, who was deaf and mute, was riding eastward when he was hit by a car passing another vehicle. The driver was identified as Marion Lee Edwards, 30, of Rt. 2, Farmville.

According to Wright, the boy struck the car's windshield, was knocked through the air 107 feet, hit a tree and bounced another 15 feet. The bicycle then went another 100 feet into a field and landed 221 feet from the point of impact. Death for Avent appeared to have been instant, Trooper Wright said.

Wright said the witnesses knew both the victim and the driver, who were neighbors in this rural community.

Wright said Edwards was arrested about two hours after the accident. Charges, he said, include manslaughter, hit and run felony, driving under the influence, driving without an operator's license, careless and reckless driving, and exceeding stated speed limit.

In what appears to have been a related incident, Edward Avent, 19, brother of the accident victim, received an ax wound in the abdomen at the home of Marion Edwards about 9:40 p. m. According the Pitt County Sheriff Department, investigating is continuing, since Edward Avent's physical condition was not stable enough for him to be talked with during the remainder of the weekend. He reportedly underwent emergency surgery at Pitt County Memorial Hospital Saturday night.

Edwards has been held in the Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond. First appearance in court was set for this afternoon.

Pursued With Lawnmower

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It may have started when G. W. Harper, 68, dug up neighbor Pauline Dunwoody's gladiolas and blooming crabapple tree.

They were blocking his view of the street, Harper said.

But that didn't give Mrs. Dunwood, 74, the right to pursue Harper with an electric lawnmower, General Sessions Judge Robert Sutton said.

"It is just awful for a lady your age to be going after somebody with a running lawnmower," Sutton said Wednesday.

In hopes of maintaining peace, the judge declared a 15-square-foot, right-of-way plot adjoining their properties off limits to both of them.

Church Women Support Effort

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The National Assembly of Women Religious, made up of Roman Catholic nuns and sisters, has ended its three-day, 10th annual meeting voting to support Sister Theresa Kane and her efforts to meet with Pope John Paul II to press for more equal treatment of women in the church.

Sister Kane became the subject of considerable controversy when she greeted John Paul during his U.S. tour with a plea that the pope consider opening all vocations in the church, including the priesthood, to women.

Took Precious Metal, Jewelry

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Thieves have made off with jewelry and precious metals worth an estimated $250,000 from a Delaware County home, police said.

The theft occurred Friday night at the home of a man who sometimes kept as much as $1 million in jewelry, silver and antique coins at his home, state police officer Dave Keesling said.

Officials refused to identify the victim.

The intruders apparently used a screwdriver to open a sliding glass door at the home while the owner was away, police said.

19th CROSSING

DOVER, England (AP) — Des Renford of Australia completed his 19th crossing of the English Channel, briefly taking the Channel Swimming Association title for greatest nuimber of successful crossings from Mike Read of England. But later Sunday, Read completed his own 19th crossing.

Convocations...

and stretch their minds to the fullest potential."

Troy Pate, chairman of the university's Board of Trustees told the faculty, "your labor gives us all a sense of purpose, achievement and pride. It is a privilege to be associated with you.

"We know what you mean to our students. We know that students will forget about buildings, events, and activities, in the years following their graduation.

"However, they will never forget a dedicated member of the faculty who guided them and gave them a helping hand."

Saying, "you have the fullest appreciation and support of the trustees," Pate told the faculty, "I will stack what we have at East Carolina against any institution in the region — our superb leadership, our highly qualified and dedicated faculty, and some of the best students North Carolina and the nation can produce."

At the convocation of several hundred new students and their parents, Brewer said, "This occasion has the purpose of expressing our commitment to provide an educational environment which will offer a productive and pleasant college experience for our students.

"It is widely known that East Carolina is the third largest university in North Carolina. More than 13,000 students will be pursuing some 147 degree programs," here this Fall.

More important than size, according to the Chancellor, "we feel that East Carolina is among the very best..."

East Carolina and students' parents, "will do everything possible to help you succeed," Brewer said. "However, I will offer this piece of important advice.

"Academic success ultimately rests with the student. I urge you to understand and learn to deal with your weaknesses, build on your strengths, and share them with others. Seak those offices in the university which can assist you in achieving greater success. Do not hesitate to call upon your faculty advisor and teachers. Take full advantage of the counseling center, residence hall staffs and many others who stand ready to lend a helping hand.

"We are all joined in a single purpose — to take every measure possible to provide you a quality education."

According to Brewer, "We want you to do well at East Carolina, and you will,if you want it and are willing to work hard. You are about to embark on an exciting new adventure of living and learning."

Jarvis Service Continuing

"The Happening" at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church began Sunday night with Donna Stephenson providing special music and Albert Long delivering the message.

Stephenson, who made her debut in 1978 and sang at the Metropolitan Opera Guild in March of 1979, sang "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" Long's message was from the Sermon On The Mount. He stressed the importance the "the salt of the earth, the light of the earth and the city on top of a hill."

"The Happening" continues tonight at 7:30 p.m. with Donna Stephenson returning and Randy Atcheson as special guest.

Paving Of Streets Carried Out

WINTERVILLE — Paving has been completed on the town's first eight priorities of 1980-81. Work began August 11, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, and was completed last week on Liberty, Gaylord, Hammond, South Railroad and Blount streets and Bethana Court.

The entire cost of the project was around $40,000, and work was done by Barrus Construction Company. The town has four remaining priorities for the year. These are, curb and gutter Knox, pave Walter Circle, curb and gutter Tyson, and curb and gutter North Railroad from Tyson to Boyd Street.

Nobles said that it is the town's intention to pave and curb and gutter every street in the town. "The quicker the property owners pay their assessments, the sooner work will get done," he added.

Slain Refugee Is Buried In Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Rodriguez Jr., the person to die as a result of disturbances at the nation's four Cuban refugee resettlement camps, has been buried here, and his father has promised to find out who killed his 19-year-old son.

The teen-ager died Tuesday in Pennsylvania of head injuries he received during an Aug. 5 disturbance at the Fort Indiantown Gap refugee camp. "The government has to know who killed my son," his father Manuel Rodriguez, said Saturday.

The father arrived in the Freedom Flotilla May 17 and has a waiter's job. His son arrived six days later.

Lost Limbs In Train Accident

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A 13-year-old Michigan boy whose right arm and leg were severed in a train accident remained in critical condition after doctors at Jewish Hospital used tissue from the leg in reattaching the arm.

A second boy, who lost his right arm in the same incident, was in fair condition after an operation in Michigan, doctors said.

Richard Grinage, 13, lost his right arm and leg when he and 8-year-old Abdullah Frazier, both of Pontiac, were under a boxcar in a Grand Trunk Western Railroad yard Friday and the train began to move. Grinage's leg was too damaged to restore, so doctors used flesh from it to fill a gap in his arm to the point where it was severed.

Mild Quake For California

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — A mild earthquake registering 3.9 on the Richter scale wakened many residents here but caused no damage to the Lawrence Livermore nuclear weapons laboratory, officials said.

The University of California Seismographic Station at Berkeley said the tremor at 5:41 a.m. Sunday was centered about nine miles southeast of Livermore.

The laboratory sustained $15 million to $20 million in damage from a quake Jan. 24 that registered 5.5 on the Richter scale. A second quake, measuring 5.8, occurred two days later.

Computer Error Proves Costly

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Because of a computer mistake, the 12,000 large glass panels delivered to the nearly completed, 17-story Lutheran Brotherhood Building were 3 inches too long for their aluminum frames.

And the glass, made by Pittsburgh Plate Glass from a tempered mold, can't be cut, construction officials say.

Frank Pallilo, whose Glen Cove, N.Y., firm subcontracted for the glass and manufactured the frames, blamed a computer for the mistake.

New panels are being manufactured in Pittsburgh, and construction at the $30 million glass tower could be delayed four to five weeks, said Pallilo.

Strangled While Jumping Rope

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 6-year-old girl who was jumping rope with a clothesline was strangled when the rope became entangled on a wrought-iron railing outside her home, police said.

Dana Jones of southwest Philadelphia was pronounced dead Saturday.

Her mother, Edna Jones, had left her playing on the front steps and found her 15 minutes later dangling from the rope by her neck. Police said the rope apparently snagged on the railing atop a four-foot retaining wall leading down to a basement garage.

The Medical Examiner's office is investigating.

One Killed In Wreck

One person was killed in a collision on a rural road investigated by the Highway Patrol in Pitt County, Saturday.

Trooper C. R. Taylor reported that Gary Paul Holmes of Route 2, Walstonburg was killed when the vehicle he was driving ran off rural paved road 1206 about 1:05 a.m., skidded out of control and collided with a house owned by J. B. Nichols of Bell Arthur.

Damage to the house was estimated at $3,000.

Mauch: Time For New Words

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Moments after Gene Mauch announced his resignation as manager of the Minnesota Twins following Sunday's game, rookie outfielder Rick Sofield sat on a chair in the Twins' clubhouse and cried.

"We were all hoping it wouldn't happen," said Sofield, who said the players knew about a news conference called for 10 minutes after the game, a 3-2 loss to Detroit.

"I wish I could hit three thousand and make him stay. I would do anything for the man. But something made him quit and it's sad because we need him."

But Mauch, the dean of major league managers with 21 years of service, said that not only didn't the Twins need him, they would be better off without him.

"For a lot of years, I threw around a lot of words to a lot of players," said Mauch, 54. "They were words which meant a lot to me; words like pride, dedication and responsibility."

"It's time for these players to hear some new words from a new voice," he said. "I hate the word 'quit' and I don't think that's what I'm doing. I'm not satisfied that I'm making contribution enough to stay around and it irritated me to the point that I suggested to (owner) Calvin Griffith that it would probably be a good idea for the team to function in a new atmosphere.

"He agreed."

Third base coach Johnny Goryl was named interim coach. He will inherit a team which is 54-71 and more than more than 25 games behind Kansas City in the American League West.

Mauch, who also managed the Philadelphia Phillies for nine years and the Montreal Expos for seven, was on the second year of a three-year contract extension with the Twins.

He leaves behind a young team which, over the years, has been decimated by free agent defections from such stars as Larry Hisle, Bill Campbell, the late Lyman Bostock and Dave Goltz.

Gene Mauch

Many observers felt that Mauch could no longer stand Griffith's refusal to enter the bidding war for free agents and his reluctance to improve the team, which has drawn only 705,000 fans this year.

"I don't have anything to say about it," said Mauch's

First To Earn Over $500,000 In Season

It's Watson—Again

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ray Floyd glanced at the huge scoreboard showing Tom Watson a runaway winner of the World Series of Golf.

"He's doing some things that are phenomenal," Floyd said. "You can't explain why he's in a stretch like this. Go watch him play. You'll come away scratching your head too."

Indeed, Watson is phenomenal. Consider what his closing 5-under par 65 for a 72-hole total of 270 did for him Sunday at the Firestone Country Club:

—The $100,000 payday pushed his 1980 earning $510,258, making him the first golfer in history to surpass a half a million dollars in a single season.

—It all but locked up his fourth straight player of the year, money-winning and Vardon Trophy titles, unprecedented in the sport. Watson's current per-round average of 69.94 strokes is lower than any Vardon Trophy winner in the last 12 years.

—His seventh victory this year, counting the British Open, lifted his four year total to 22. During that stretch, Watson's earnings have been $1.6 million.

The superstar credits consistency and dedication for his streak of five victories each in 1977, 1978 and 1979 before his peak this season.

"I played more consistently this year," he said. "I'm getting older and wiser. I know I'm getting shorter off the tee. I haven't made many errors.

"I find the only way to improve is dedication to practice. I practice a lot in the off-season. I only get away from the game in November. If you get away from it too far, you find it's a long way back."

Watson grinner and added: "I feel I have a little bit more than mediocre ability."

Still, Watson doesn not believe he has reached his potential at 30. "I still have a lot of room for improvement in my golf swing, especially my manueverability at hitting half shots," he said.

Watson destroyed any would-be challengers Sunday by shooting six birdies before his lone bogey at 18, where he caught a pair of bunkers.

Floyd closed with a 65, too, but fnished three shots behind with an 8-under par 272. His second place check of $55,000 was more than he ever made as a winner in 18 Tour years.

"He (Watson) played well. I played well. I honestly felt if I shot 65 in the final round, I could win the tournament. I'm very proud of what I did," said Floyd.

Jerry Pate closed with a 67 for 273 and the third-place check of $34,500. Hale Irwin and Lee Trevino shared fourth at 274 for $19,600 payoffs. Irwin shot 66 and Trevino 69.

It was a frustrating day for Jack Nicklaus, who had to win this $421,900 event to stand a chance of challenging Watson for Player-of-the-Year.

The 40-year-old Nicklaus hurt his back hitting practice shots and was forced to withdraw during a tournament for only the second time in his 19 Tour years. However, he was six shots off the pace at 1-over par 211 after three rounds.

An Akron physician said Nicklaus' injury was a severe muscle spasm in the lumbar region of his back. He flew back to his Florida home for more examination.

Defending champion Lon Hinkle settled for a six-place tie with 69-275 — with Mike Reid and Ben Crenshaw. Reid had 68 and Crenshaw 69.

Depth Poses Problem For Panther's Smith

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

BETHEL — North Pitt High School entered the 1979 football season with high hopes. The Panthers had completed their first winning season the previous season, and were anxiously hoping for a second one.

But Pat Smith's charges were rudely disappointed as the North Pitt record fell to 3-6-1 overall and 2-6 in Eastern Carolina Conference play due to a number of problems and injuries.

Now, as Smith opens his seventh year at the Panther helm, things may look a little brighter.

A lot will depend on how healthy the Panthers can stay during the ten-game schedule.

"Size-wise, we are small and quick. And we have no depth whatsoever," Smith pointed out. "We only have 27 people on the varsity."

As far as size in concerned, the Panthers do have a problem. Only two members of the team are listed at 200 or better: tackle Eric Thomas (210) and sophomore tackle Johnny Stox (200).

Smith will be looking for the defense to carry the team, especially during the early going. "Our offense lacks speed and experience.

"We really don't have that much experience overall. Just seven people who started last year are back, and only 13 who were on the team return. That's going to mean that we'll probably have as many as five people going both ways," Smith said.

Most of those returning starters, however, will man the offensive line.

Quarterback Bob Hemingway returns to guide the split veer offense of the Panthers. A three-year veteran at the position, "he knows what he's supposed to do," the coach noted. "But he needs work on his passing. He's got to cut down on his interceptions, and his biggest handicap is a lack of speed."

Joining him in the backfield will be Tony Pittman and Ronnie House, with Derrick Smith seeing a lot of duty also. All three are seniors, but Pittman is the only returning starter.

"We have a sophomore, David Langley, who also is going to play a lot for us in the backfield," Smith said.

The flanker position will be shared by sophomore Mitchell Cox and junior Jerry Simpson.

Just about everyone in the line has some experience, Smith is happy to relate. "Our center, Mitchell Leggett, is back for his third year starting," the coach said. Joining him are guard Barry Gurkins, who played with the varsity for about four games last year, and tackle Eric Thomas who started last year. Gordon Dunn, a senior, returns to his tight end position.

On the other side of Leggett, Smith has James Clark, the only true newcomer to the varsity, at guard, and Mike

Putt Putt Roundup

Allen Elder fired a record 23 on the #2 course en route to a 42-under-par 174 to win the Greenville City Championship Sunday night at the local Putt Putt golf course.

Playing the first three rounds on the #1 course, Elder shot a 94 to trail David Manning by two strokes. But a fourth-round 27 moved Elder ahead by three strokes before sealing the win with his record-breaking fifth round.

Alan Parks passed Manning in with a fifth round 26 to finish in second place with a 182. Manning was third at 186 and Danny Pollard was fourth with a 188. Junior Knox had a 190 for fifth and Buddy Beacham had a 192 for sixth.

The Greenville City Bestball Championships will be held tonight at 7:30.

Saints Out To End Reign Of Rams

By The Associated Press

Last year was one of the best yet one of the worst seasons for the Los Angeles Rams, who a lackluster a 9-7 record during the regular season. But they glossed that over with playoff victories over Tampa Bay and Dallas and a creditable performance in the 31-19 Super Bowl loss to Pittsburgh.

Despite the late-season success, there's a lingering feeling around the National Football Conference West that 1980 might be the year the Rams — division champs for the past seven years — can be had.

The New Orleans Saints, 8-8 last season, would seem to have the best chance to end the Rams' long reign. The Atlanta Falcons, coming off a 6-10 campaign, would appear to have an outside shot, with the San Francisco 49ers, 2-14, having to wait a few years before they'll be competing for the title.

The Rams' fortunes will depend heavily on whether four disgruntled veterans — Jack Youngblood, Jim Youngblood, Larry Brooks and Dennis Harrah — decide to return to the fold. The four have asked to have their contracts renegotiated and haven't reported to camp.

Los Angeles Coach Ray Malavasi, who steered the Rams to their first Super Bowl last January, faces what seems an ever-present quarterback controversy — this time with Pat Haden and Vince Ferragamo the principals. Ferragamo took over after Haden was hurt late last season and guided the team to the NFL championship showdown with the Steelers.

The Rams' running game could be hurting early in the season, as Wendell Tyler — last year's leading rusher — is missing the preseason because of an off-season injury suffered in an automobile accident. Elvis Peacock and Eddie Hill figure to see a lot of duty at running back while Tyler works his way back into shape.

The 1980 campaign will be the first in Anaheim Stadium for the Rams, who moved from their longtime home in the Los Angeles Coliseum following last season.

At New Orleans, the main story is still quarterback Archie Manning, who would seem to deserve to be on a championship team by now. Running back Chuck Muncie, fullback Tony Galbreath, tight end Henry Childs and wide receivers Wes Chandler and Ike Harris combine with Manning to give the Saints a powerful offense.

New Orleans' offensive line is again in a state of flux after a year of relative stability. During that year, the Saints allowed just 17 sacks, second best in the NFL.

The left side of the line remains intact, but Conrad Dobler was traded away at right guard, with Fred Sturt the probable replacement. Veteran tackle Robert Woods has moved into the Saints' right guard slot, and first-round draft choice Stan Brock is at right tackle.

New Orleans' defensive unit that allowed 360 points last season will have no major personnel changes. Reggie Mathis takes over the weakside linebacker spot vacated by the retired Pat Hughes, and there's a three-way fight at one cornerback — otherwise, it's the same lineup that finished last season.

Competition has been stiffest, perhaps, for the Saints' kicking job. Punter-kicker Russell Erxleben, the 1979 first-round draft choice, is back after a season in which he suffered assorted health problems. Punter Rick Partridge and kicker Garo Yepremian are battling Erxleben for a job.

At Atlanta, the Falcons appear improved offensively with the addition of top draft choice Junior Miller, a tight end from Nebraska, a maturing offensive line and the return of starting halfback Lynn Cain, who missed more than half of his rookie season a year ago with a broken leg.

Steve Bartkowski, maturing as an NFL quarterback, will again be running the Falcons' offense, which features running back William Andrews, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards last season as a rookie.

Atlanta's defense had its problems last year and the Falcons didn't get much help in the draft. Coach Leeman Bennett has gone to a new defense, starting a 3-4 defensive alignment rather than a four-man front.

Second-year man Joel Williams and No. 2 draft choice Buddy Curry of North Carolina are expected to join Fulton Kuykendall and Robert Pennywell at the linebacker posts.

Defensive end Don Smith, the Falcons' top draft choice a year ago, has been switched to noseguard in the three-man front and will be flanked by veteran ends Jeff Merrow and Jeff Yeates.

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh, in his second year at the 49ers' helm, seems to be making progress in rebuilding, although he was unable to improve on the 2-14 record of 1978, his first campaign.

Cavs Have Pair Of 10s

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Greg Taylor and Bo Derek have something in common — they are both 10s. At least that is the way Virginia football coach Dick Bestwick sees it.

Taylor came to Virginia as a receiver but for the past two seasons he has been in the backfield as a running back. Last season, running alongside Tommy Vigorito out of the veer offense, Taylor picked up more than 900 yards.

Then came spring practice and Bestwick decided to try the I-formation and Taylor suddenly was a flanker. He wasn't too happy about it and let his feelings be known.

But when the Atlantic Coast Conference's Operation Football — a writers' tour of the eight conference schools — stopped at Virginia Saturday, Taylor seemed content with the change.

Bestwick put Taylor's discontent in perspective.

"Every team has heroes," he said. "They are like Bo Derek; they're 10s. Taylor and Vigorito are 10s. They were heroes last year. With the change, Greg worried that he might not have a chance to be a hero. He was a hero and wanted to stay a hero.

"We want him to be a hero. But with the new offense we couldn't have two tailbacks. But with his speed it would be a mistake if we didn't do something with him. He's a good receiver and with our offensive line this year, we should make him a hero.

A passing game was something the Cavaliers did not have last year and the defenses knew it. But with a senior offensive line averaging 260 pounds, quarterback Todd Kirtley should have time to get a pass off to Taylor. And that will take some pressure off Vigorito, who gained 1,044 yards last season and is considered one of the fastest tailbacks in the ACC.

Vigorito agreed with the move.

"It wasn't that we took Greg out of the backfield," he said. "It was just that we switched to the I. You don't take your two fastest players and play them 50 percent of the time. That would be ridiculous."

Taylor is content now because "I can understand the change." But he was disappointed and confused at first.

"They didn't show me how they planned on using me," the 5-foot-9, 177-pound senior said. "What I said then was just my immediate reaction. But now I'm excited and I really think I can help out there."

And Taylor feels the change will make a big difference for the team, especially the defense.

"Our defense gave us a lot of opportunities to score last year and we just couldn't take advantage of it. With the changes this year we can," he said.

The offensive line is one of the big pluses. Vigorito said that, "last year, they were huts and this year they are houses." Kirtley added to that, saying it was going to be a "pleasure" playing behind them this year.

The defense was in the nation's top 20 last year and Bestwick said it could be better this year.

With all these things going for Viriginia, the Cavs' predicted sixth-place finish in the ACC is not taken well. But it is understood since they had their first winning season since 1968 when they finished 6-5 last year. That has led to another improvement in attitude.

Tennis Tourney Set

The Greenville Tennis Club has announced its 1980 Tennis Tournament, and the schedule for it.

Entries for each event must be filed by the Saturday before the event begins. Match schedules will be posted by Tuesday night at both the Elm Street Courts and the River Birch Tennis Center.

Seedings will be made according to the current GTC ladders and the winners of last year's events. Consolation rounds will be held when there are 16 or more entrants.

Events will begin each round on Thursday or Friday nights at Elm Street, and finals will be held, weather permitting, on Sunday at River Birch.

The field is limted to club members. Dues are $7 for adults, $3.50 for juniors or $12 for a family. In addition, a $2 per event per person ($1 for juniors) is charged as tournament entry fee.

Further information can be obtained from Bob Turnage (752-7813) or Esther Warren (756-1366).

The tournament schedule:

September 11-14: Men's 35 doubles, Women's 35 doubles, Junior Boys' doubles, and Junior Girls' doubles.

September 18-21: Men's 35 singles, Women's 35 singles, Junior Boys' singles, and Junior Girls' singles.

September 25-28: Open Mixed doubles.

October 2-5: Men's Open doubles, and Women's Open Doubles.

October 9-12: Men's Open singles, and Women's Open singles.

nephew, shortstop Roy Smalley, who was on the verge of tears. "What I would have to say would be more than your editors could handle."

"It was a double loss," said pitcher Geoff Zahn, referring to the Twins' loss to the Tigers. "The second loss is much more important than the first."

"Our club and our play just wasn't a reflection of him," said infielder Mike Cubbage. "He has a great deal of class. A lot of guys on this club owe him a lot."

Mauch, whose career record as a manager is 1,524 victories and 1,705 losses, produced a 378-403 mark with Minnesota. Tiger skipper Sparky Anderson said Mauch's losing record was in no way indicative of Mauch's managerial ability.

"There's no way to prove it, but he might be the best manager who ever lived," said Anderson. "He's given 21 years of everything he's had and he never cheated this business for one minute. He's No.1 on my list."

Mauch, an intense baseball man who wanted desperately for his teams to at least play well, if not win, said there were numerous highlights from his stay in Minnesota, which began Nov. 24, 1975.

"There were many, many good times," he said. "The 1976 and 1977 seasons, when we had all those comebacks and the clubhouse was bedlam.

"The time Oakland came into town with something like 30 straight stolen bases and they left 0-for-5.

"Watching Carew operate in the month of June in 1977; the development of John Castino and Smalley.

"Watching (Jerry) Koosman winning 20 (in 1979) after being 11-35. That was fun."

Mauch was asked if he, an acknowledged teacher, could not instruct young players in the basics of baseball, who could?

"Maybe now you'll find out," Mauch replied. "I really hope so."

The Greenville Sports Club is currently gearing up for another year, and will open the 1980-81 season on Tuesday, September 9, according to Phil Dixon, the immediate past-president of the organization.

Currently a membership drive is underway. Dues are, as in the past, $25 for the year. Those wishing to join may sent their dues to the Greenville Sports Club, P.O. Box 8253, Greenville. The club this year has decided to restrict guests to only one visit per year without becoming a member.

The club will meet each second and fourth Tuesday of the month at the Western Sizzlin Steak House on E. Tenth St. Cost for the meals will be $4 for members and $6 for guests. As usual, the meals will be served starting at 12 noon, with the program getting underway at 12:30 p.m. Normal ending time will be around 1 p.m.

A number of programs have already been scheduled for the coming year, along with a few tentative dates.

Ed Emory, the new head football coach at East Carolina University, will be the opening speaker, on September 9, while Dr. Kenneth Karr, who became the new athletic director at East Carolina on August 1, will be the speaker for September 23.

Other upcoming speakers include Mike Krzyzewski, the new Duke University head basketball coach, October 14; Jim Valvano, the new N.C. State head basketball coach, November 11; Dave Odom, ECU basketball coach, November 25; Monte Kiffin, N.C. State football coach, January 13; Bill Dooley, head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech, January 27; Rich Brenner, WRAL-TV sportscaster, February 10; Jim Carlen, University of South Carolina football coach, February 24; Hal Baird, ECU baseball coach, March 10; and Johnny Swofford, the new athletic director at the University of North Carolina, on March 24.

Two others tentatively scheduled are "Bones" McKinney, former Wake Forest basketball coach, October 28; and Jimmy The Greek, professional oddsmaker, on December 9.

Rose High School football coach Dave Bumgarner says it doesn't bother him one bit that his fellow Division I coaches have put the "monkey" on his back.

The coaches, voting at their annual gettogether Friday in Wilson, gave the Rose High School Rampants six first place votes, while Rocky Mount and Northeastern each got one. (One of those non-Rose votes came from Bumgarner, since coaches were not allowed to vote for their own teams.)

Of course, the real proof will come over the next 11 weeks, as the Rampants go down the schedule. The top competiton, however, is expected to come from Rocky Mount and Northeastern. Fike also could prove to be a contender.

Oddly enough, this year's schedule finds all three of these opponents on the home slate for the Rampants.

In another oddity, Rose High School does not have a single conflict with the East Carolina schedule for Ficklen Stadium. All of the Rose home games come when the Pirates are either on the road or open.

Last year, conflicts and rain forced Rose to have to postpone three games, and that prospect is lessened this year. Hopefully, however, the rains, which wrecked schedules across the state last season, will not cause as many problems this time around.

The 1980 playoff schedule gives the Division I Conference only one entry this year. Rose got into the playoffs last year as the runner-up team in the conference, but the Rampants have to win it outright to go this time around.

The Division I winner will play host to the runner-up in the East Central Conference (the teams from Kinston-Goldsboro to Wilmington). After that, the winning team is on the road for the second round and third rounds, but would host the state finals.

In the 3-A ranks, the Eastern Carolina Conference winner would again play the Northeastern Conference champ, at the Northeastern's home field. The winner is the host for the second line, then would travel for the Eastern and State finals if it advances that far.

In the 1-A ranks, the Tobacco Belt Conference (Jamesville) has two chances. The number two team travels to the Carolina champion's home field. That includes the 1-A schools from Duplin to Wake County. The number one team in the Tobacco Belt hosts the runner-up in the Cape Fear loop. That conference covers the southeastern corner of the state.

Should a Tobacco Belt team make it to the finals (only three rounds in 1-A), it would be the host team.

It all begins Friday. It all ends on December 5.

Guidry, Not O's, Gives NY Relief

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles are providing no relief for the New York Yankees — that will have to be Ron Guidry's job.

While the streaking Orioles continue to be a headache for New York in the red-hot American League East race, the Yankees are utilizing the Cy Young winner in the unusual position of a bullpen pitcher.

The left-hander provided two scoreless innings of relief Sunday to help the Yankees post a 4-2 victory over the California Angels.

"I've had good success as a starter, but I'm just as happy relieving," said Guidry, who allowed three hits and struck out two in the seventh and eighth innings before Rich Gossage pitched the ninth for his 22nd save.

"I've just been tired," Guidry explained. "I've only been in the majors 3½ years and I only weigh 150 pounds, but I've already pitched 1,000 innings. I've got a right to be tired."

The victory maintained a tenuous half-game lead for the Yankees over the second-place Orioles, who stopped the Oakland A's 3-0 for their eighth straight victory.

"I'm satisfied with it," Yankee Manager Dick Howser said of the slight edge over the Orioles. "We'll take whatever we can get. It's going to go down to the last week of the season and I hope we are there."

Orioles 3, A's 0

Mike Flanagan pitched a seven-hitter to lead Baltimore over Oakland. Flanagan, 13-9, allowed only singles and struck out three while walking two in his second shutout of the season. The loser was Matt Keough, 13-12.

The Orioles scored on Eddie Murray's sacrifice fly in the first inning and on Doug DeCinces's two-run single in the fourth.

"This is the kind of baseball we're playing every day now—good pitching, and we win with one swing of the bat," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver.

Flanagan was aided by double plays in three straight innings as he beat the A's for the ninth straight time.

"I just made sure I kept the ball down. A pitcher would be crazy if he didn't take advantage of infielders like we have," said Flanagan.

Royals 7, Indians 5

Frank White tripled to key a six-run third inning and also doubled, drove in two runs and scored once as Kansas City held on to beat Cleveland.

Winner Dennis Leonard, 15-8, struck out four and walked one before needing relief help in the ninth from bullpen ace Dan Quisenberry, who posted his 29th save.

Kansas City got five of its six third-inning runs off loser Ross Grimsley, 4-3.

The victory, the 1,000th in Royals' history, improved their runaway lead in the AL West to a whopping 17½ games.

Tigers 3, Twins 2

John Wockenfuss hit a solo home run and Dan Schatzeder hurled a seven-hitter as Detroit beat Minnesota.

Wockenfuss opened the fourth with his 13th homer, off loser Geoff Zahn, 10-17. One out later, Al Cowens walked, stole second and scored on a single by Duffy Dyer. The Tigers picked up their eventual winning run in the seventh when Rick Peters scored from third on Zahn's wild pitch.

Schatzeder, who was acquired in the trade that sent Ron LeFlore to Montreal, raised his record to 8-9.

Blue Jays 7, White Sox 3

Damaso Garcia's solo home run triggered an extra-base barrage in a four-run second inning that carried Toronto past Chicago.

Garcia hit his fourth homer off loser Ross Baumgarten, 2-8, and two outs later, Lloyd Moseby doubled, Dan Ainge tripled and Bob Davis doubled and scored when shortstop Todd Cruz muffed Alfredo Griffin's pop fly for an error.

Winner Dave Stieb, 11-9, scattered nine hits, struck out five and walked three in 82-3 innings. He got last-out relief help from Mike Barlow.

Rangers 4, Brewers 3

Al Oliver's two-out single off the glove of second baseman Ed Romero scored Mickey Rivers from second base in the 11th inning as Texas beat Milwaukee.

Oliver's 14th game-winning RBI of the season gave the victory to John Henry Johnson, 1-2, who came in to pitch the 11th.

Texas left-hander Jon Matlack gave up seven hits over nine innings, but didn't figure in the decision. Reggie Cleveland, 8-8, was the loser.

Red Sox 10, Mariners 7

Boston built a 9-1 lead with five runs in the second inning and four in the third and then survived a Seattle homer barrage.

Gary Allenson knocked in three runs with a single and two-run double and Glenn Hoffman and Rick Burleson both had two RBI singles in the two-inning barrage, and Hoffman added a run-scoring triple for Boston's 10th run in the eighth. Dan Meyer had two homers and Jerry Narron one for the Mariners.

Bet On This Team At The U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Looking for a team to bet on in the U.S. Open tennis championships? Try Team Peugeot-Rossignol.

Tennis may be one of the most individual sports around but several players on the circuit are using the team concept to improve their court performances.

So while most observers are concentrating on Bjorn Borg's quest for his first Open title and John McEnroe's attempt to defend the title, it's possible that little attention will be paid to the six players at the Open who comprise Team Peugeot-Rossignol.

But several of those players, most notably Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina and Johan Kriek of South Africa, could cause problems for the better-known seeded stars.

"Every one of our players has improved significantly since we began the team," said Bob Brett, who coaches Clerc, Kriek, Ecuadorians Andres Gomez, Ricardo Ycaza and Raul Viver (who won't be at the National Tennis Center) and Americans Fritz Buehning and Tim Wilkison, the players who comprise Team Peugeot-Rossignol. Peugeot, the auto manufacturer, and Rossignol, which makes sporting goods, approached the 27-year-old Brett, an Australian who learned the game working for the legendary Harry Hopman, last year.

"They wanted to try something for 60 days with three players (Gomez, Ycaza and Viver) to see how they developed. The results were so good and the potential for the system so strong that we upped it to six players last January." Wilkison became No.7 two weeks ago.

"The problem for many young players today is that they have no guidance, they have to practice and travel by themselves and temptations break them," added Brett. "We chose players between 19 and 21 because we could do the most with youngsters who haven't had time to get bad habits from the tour."

Streaking Astros Take To Road

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Houston has won 10 games in a row and millionaire pitcher Nolan Ryan is on a hot streak, but there's hope for the rest of the National League West — the Astros are taking to the road.

Ryan's 17th two-hitter of his career Sunday night, a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs, gave the Astros a 43-21 record this year in the Astrodome, where their strong pitching, defense and speed pay them dividends.

On the road, where tonight they begin a 10-game trip in St. Louis, the Astros are a mediocre 27-32.

"This year is almost like being a basketball team," said third baseman Enos Cabell. "The home team has such an advantage. Our pitchers don't pitch as well on the road. That's just a fact."

Manager Bill Virdon says he doesn't believe the momentum his team has now will help it away from home.

"Every day is a different situation and we've always had trouble on the road," Virdon said. "We know we will probably lose some games on the road, but we just hope to stay in the lead."

The Astros have opened a three-game margin in the West over Los Angeles, which beat the New York Mets 3-2 Sunday, and a 4½-game lead over Cincinnati, which lost 5-2 to East leader Pittsburgh.

Phillies 7, Giants 1

Mike Schmidt hit his 35th homer with a man on to break a 1-1 tie in the third inning, and Greg Luzinski, playing his first game since July 5, followed with a solo shot to pace Philadelphia over San Francisco.

Dick Ruthven, 12-8, pitched a seven-hitter and Pete Rose had three hits to give him 3,513 for his career, one behind Tris Speaker in fourth place on the all-time list. Rose also tied Speaker for 10th place on the all-time list of games played with 2,789 and tied Frank Robinson for ninth place on the all-time list of runs scored.

Pirates 5, Reds 2

Steve Nicosia, Mike Easler and Lee Lacey slammed run-scoring doubles to power the Pittsburgh attack and left-hander John Candelaria pitched a five-hitter to complete a three-game series sweep over Cincinnati.

Candelaria, 9-13, surrendered a one-out single in the first to Junior Kennedy, then retired the next 12 batters in a row and finished with his seventh complete game.

Dodgers 3, Mets 2

Dusty Baker and Rick Monday hit homers in the first two innings and Burt Hooton and Steve Howe combined on a four-hitter as Los Angeles held on to beat New York.

Hooton had a no-hitter for six innings before a walk, the Mets' first hit on Joel Youngblood's single, a sacrifice fly by Jose Moreno, an infield out and Claudell Washington's RBI single brought New York back.

Expos 12, Padres 9

Montreal overcame a seven-run deficit with a seven-run sixth inning highlighted by Chris Speier's three-run double and then tallied three more times in the seventh as Warren Cromartie singled home the tie-breaking run.

Braves 10, Cardinals 5

Bruce Benedict keyed a six-run third inning with a two-run single and finished with four hits for the first time in his career as Atlanta won its sixth game in seven decisions by beating St. Louis.

Brown, a senior, returning at tackle.

"We have the experience in the line, and our only handicap, again, is a lack of speed."

Three people figure into the picture for the split end position, Barry Warren, Keith Murphy, and James Johnson.

Smith also looks to backup quarterback Ken Whitehurst and tackle Warren Atkinson to see a lot of action. "They are really the only others with any experience at all," he said.

Turning to the defense, Smith and his defensive coach, Gale Everett, will install a 5-3 defense fulltime this season. "We used it a little last year, and will go with it this year. In our scrimmage (against Roanoke) the defense looked tremendous."

The line finds Dennis Bradley, a sophomore, at nose guard; while three people are alternating at the two tackle slots, Eric Thomas, Mike Brown and Warren Atkinson. The same is true at the ends, where Randy Brummell, James Short, and Anthony Harris, a senior out for the first time, are getting playing time.

Ronnie House will be at the middle linebacker position, and Smith calls him the best all-around defensive player on the team. Tony Pittman, Mitchell Cox, Gordon Dunn and David Langley all will be manning the outside linebacker slots. The secondary will have Ken Whitehurst at safety, Barry Warren at the left corner and Jerry Simpson at the right corner.

Smith lists Keith Murphy, Derrick Smith and Bob Hemingway as backups in the secondary.

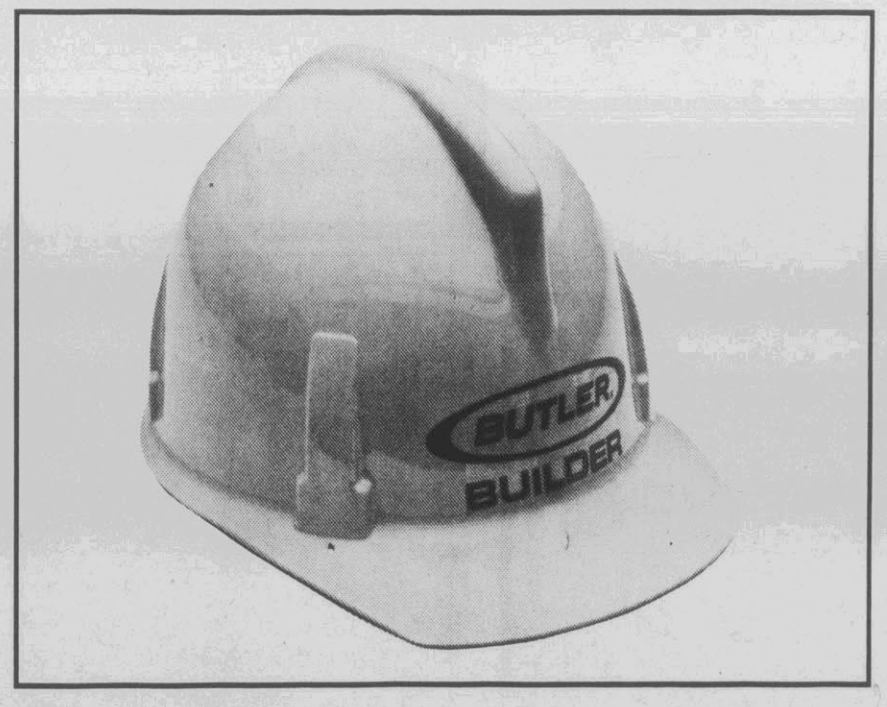
"Our kicking game should be in good shape. Hemingway returns to handle the punting, and he averaged 33.5 yards a kick last year. Tim Whitehurst will be backing him up, off the junior varisty last year. Dennis Bradley will handle the kickoffs and extra points."

Smith feels that the ECC is as balanced this year as it has been in a long time. "There are a number of teams who could win it. I guess you still have to go with Farmville since they've won it so often, but Greene Central and Southern Nash should both be strong, too, and North Lenoir probably has as good of talent as anybody.

"I don't know what to say about us. I don't know where we'll fit in. I'm hoping that we can have a winning conference season, but I'm making no predictions. For us to be competitive, we've got to stay healthy. We can't get people hurt....

"Because we can't replace them."

If you're thinking about building, we can help you with your 6 most critical considerations.



1. Energy conservation
We build Butler buildings—which have a proven track record of thermal efficiency. And can save you a substantial amount each year in energy costs.
2. Quick occupancy
Our fast track building methods can cut total construction time more than 40% over traditional methods.
3. Cost savings
You save now, due to less expensive pre-engineered materials and quicker construction. And you save later, due to a reduced need for long-term maintenance.
4. Distinctive beauty
You can have an attractive exterior with brick, glass, wood, masonry, concrete—you name it. Interior offerings are multi-faceted as well. Design possibilities are virtually unlimited.
5. Competent, professional assistance
We're an experienced, capable builder, with a solid reputation. And, we can draw from Butler's 75+ years of construction know-how.
6. Single-source responsibility
We're also a full-service construction firm. We can do it all—from the initial site selection to the final touches of landscaping.
If this is the kind of no-nonsense contractor you're looking for, give us a call. We'd like to do business with you.

Guest Stars In Variety Series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Irene Cara and Mickey Gilley will be guest stars on "Solid Gold," the new music-variety series for Operation Prime Time.

Miss Cara will sing her hit title song from the movie "Fame," in which she starred as Coco. Gilley, with seven No. 1 country hits to his record, will sing "True Loves Ways." He is also the proprietor of Gilley's, the club in Houston, Tex., which much of "Urban Cowboy" was filmed.

O'Toole Stars In 'Stunt Man'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter O'Toole stars in "The Stunt Man," which was first seen at the Dallas Film Festival.

The movie, based on the novel by Paul Brodeur, also stars Steve Railsback, Barbara Hershey, Allen Goorwitz, Alex Rocco, Adam Roarke, Sharon Farrell, Philip Bruns and Chuck Bail.

LAST CONCERT — Maestro Eugene Ormandy takes a bow after conducting his last concert as music director of The Philadelphia Orchestra at the Saratoga (N.Y.) Performing Arts Center Saturday night. The 81-year-old Ormandy has been conducting the orchestra for 44 years.

Witnesses Subpoenaed In Angels' Fraud Case

By JAY ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the stars of "Starsky and Hutch" subpoenaed as witnesses, officials were opening a grand jury session today to gather information on allegations that two actors were defrauded of more than $500,000 in profits from the "Charlie's Angels" television show.

David Soul and Paul Michael Glaser were among several people subpoenaed to testify at the informational proceeding conducted by Deputy District Attorney James Ferruzzo.

Feruzzo has headed the 10-month investigation into charges that ABC network payments intended for "Charlie's Angels" were diverted to "Starsky and Hutch."

"We'll be taking testimony for the purpose of gathering information. We will not at this time be asking the grand jury to return an indictment," said District Attorney's spokesman Al Albergate. He said no charges have been filed in the case.

The key prosecution witness in the case is former ABC lawyer Jennifer Martin. She has charged that ABC diverted license fees from one show to the other and also made "exclusivity payments" to "Charlie's Angels" as a means of defrauding actor Robert Wagner and his wife, actress Natalie Wood, owners of 43.75 percent of the hit series.

Ms. Martin said the show already was exclusive to ABC and did not warrant additional payments. She brought the situation to the attention of ABC officials in a series of memos beginning Sept. 25.

In the memos she alleged that an ABC official told her such payments were meant to defraud Miss Wood and Wagner of their returns from the show.

ABC said it conducted an independent investigation into the matter and found no wrongdoing.

Ms. Martin was fired Oct. 1, a move that ABC had decided on before the Sept. 25 memo and was based on absenteeism and sloppy work, the network said.

Others subpoenaed to appear before the session included George Reeves, former ABC-TV senior vice president for television and theatrical affairs, and Ronald Sunderland, ABC vice president for business affairs.

Aaron Spelling and Leonard Goldberg, who produce both of the hit TV shows, have previously spoken with Ferruzzo's investigators and were not subpoenaed for the session, Albergate said.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS
August 25, 1980
The Town of Ayden,
Board of Commissioners
Ayden Town Hall
P.O. Box 217
Ayden, N.C. 28513
TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS, AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
On or about September 11, 1980, the Town of Ayden will request the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project:
TITLE: Town of Ayden Housing Rehabilitation Project.
PURPOSE: To rehabilitate 43 substandard housing structures in the Town of Ayden, acquisition and demolition of 37 substandard/deteriorated dwellings and lots, and finally the relocation of seven families.
LOCATION: Town of Ayden - Ayden Township - Pitt Co., North Carolina
An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the Town of Ayden which documents the environmental review of the project. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request.
The Town of Ayden will undertake the project described above with Block Grant Funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Community Act of 1974. The Town of Ayden is certifying to HUD that the Town of Ayden and Mr. Ross S. Persinger, in his official capacity as Mayor of Ayden, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Town of Ayden may use the 3lock Grant Funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) that applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58.31d) and may be addressed to HUD at 415 N. Edgeworth Street, Greensboro, North Carolina 27401. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those dated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after September 29, 1980, will be considered by HUD.

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT
August 25, 1980
The Town of Ayden,
Board of Commissioners
Ayden Town Hall
P.O. Box 217
Ayden, N.C. 28513
919/746-4152
TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
The Town of Ayden proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:
TITLE: Town of Ayden Housing Rehabilitation Project.
PURPOSE: To rehabilitate 43 substandard housing structures in the Town of Ayden, acquisition and demolition of 37 substandard/deteriorated dwellings and lots, and finally the relocation of seven families.
LOCATION: Town of Ayden - Ayden Township - Pitt County, North Carolina
COST: $451,000
It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the Town of Ayden of Pitt County has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).
The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:
(1) The adverse impacts described within the environmental assessment are not intensive in nature, and are limited to only slight increase in noise pollution.
(2) The adverse impacts will involve only a small portion at any one period of the project.
(3) The project is scheduled for a duration of 12 months, so that any impacts will be short term.
An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the Town of Ayden which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, between the hours of 8:30 A.M. and 5:00 P.M.
No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal Funds.
All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the Town of Ayden Board of Commissioners. Such written comments should be received at Town of Ayden, Town Hall on or before September 11, 1980. All such comments so received will be considered and the Town of Ayden will not release of the Federal funds or take any administrative action on the written project prior to the date specified in the preceeding sentence.
