Workers Win Key Points Back-To-Work In Poland

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer
GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Strikers returned to work all over Poland today following an agreement with their Communist government promising independent labor unions, the right to strike, the release of jailed dissidents and other reforms unprecedented for a Soviet Bloc country.

Buses and trolleys packed with workers moved through the streets of Gdansk for the first time in more than two weeks. At the giant Lenin Shipyards, the headquarters for the strike, workers poured through the iron gates, and the portrait of Polish-born Pope John Paul II that the strikers had put on a fence was gone.

"We got everything that could be obtained in the present situation," said strike leader Lech Walesa.

But the strike leaders recognized the continued supremacy of the Communist Party, leaving in doubt the ultimate effect of the concessions to them. And the impact on other countries of the Soviet Bloc was unclear.

The transport strike in Lodz, Poland's second largest city, was reported over, and radio stations in the cities of Wroclaw and Szczecin reported transport and all other enterprises operating normally there.

The Gdansk oil refinery was operating again, but Radio Gdansk said gasoline rationing for private motorists would continue for the time being.

In Warsaw, the government released five of the 25 political dissidents who were arrested for support of the strikers. More releases were expected later today.

The Soviet Union ignored the agreement for more than 12 hours; then the first Moscow Radio report gave no details of the settlement or its political significance, and it was not immediately broadcast over Soviet domestic stations.

Moscow Radio's international service said the accord "regulates various social and economic questions raised by the workers' representatives." Under the agreement reached, workers in Gdansk and Szczecin resumed work today.

Workers at the Lenin Shipyards were jubilant at the 21-point agreement signed Sunday by Walesa and Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski.

The agreement promised a new law on trade unions guaranteeing workers in a communist country the right to strike for the first time and the creation of "new, independent, self-governing trade unions" to operate alongside the present official unions controlled by the Communist Party, a new law limiting censorship, access to the mass media by religious groups and radio broadcasts of Sunday Mass, release of political dissidents arrested for their support of the strike and official review within two weeks of the cases of all political prisoners.

But the strike leaders agreed that the new trade unions would "recognize that the Communist Party is the leading force in Poland and do not question the existing system of international alliances."

"They do not intend to become a political party. They stand on the principle of the social ownership of the means of production which is the basis for the socialist system existing in Poland," the agreement said.

The workers shelved their demand for an immediate pay raise to offset the rise in meat prices that started the strike wave. But the government promised to "give raises in keeping with inflation," to try to improve the supply of consumer goods and food and to try to introduce rationing in times of shortages.

The strikes began after the government on July 1 cut off subsidies that had been keeping the price of meat down, and prices soared. For six weeks, the strikes were sporadic and scattered and quickly settled by individual agreements granting wage increases.

Then on Aug. 14 a strike at the Lenin Shipyards spread quickly throughout the key Gdansk industrial area, and the demand for higher pay was expanded to include free and independent trade unions and other reforms. Polish Communist Party chief Edward Gierek broadcast a veiled warning of Soviet intervention if Poland's adherence to communism was threatened. But the strikes mushroomed across the country.

At the peak of the unrest Friday, an estimated 600,000 workers were off the job in more than 20 cities and industrial centers. Public transport was paralyzed in a dozen cities. The country lost millions of dollars daily in production and exports, but no reliable estimate of the total amount was available.

"We will see to it that the new unions will always be independent for the sake of Poland," said Walesa as he and Jagielski signed the agreement. "And now I declare the strike over."

East Bloc Is Told Little

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow Radio broadcast the first Soviet report today of the strike settlement in Poland but made no mention of the political gains won by workers in the neighboring communist nation.

After ignoring the agreement signed in Gdansk Sunday for more than 12 hours, the official Soviet radio's international service said the accord and a companion one reached in Szczecin "regulate various social and economic questions raised by the workers' representatives."

"Under the agreement reached, workers in Gdansk and Szczecin resumed work today," Moscow radio said.

The report was not immediately broadcast over Soviet domestic stations.

Other East European Communist governments were no more informative. ADN, the East German news agency, on Saturday reported preliminary agreements on "questions raised in recent weeks" and the return to work. But the agency said nothing about the final agreement in Gdansk Sunday.

Hungary's Communist Party newspaper Nepszabadsag reported the agreements, crediting "the supreme efforts of party and government." But it did not report their provisions.

Nepszabadsag also castigated "anti-socialist forces" it said were active in Poland but implied distinctions between striking workers and dissident intellectuals arrested for their support of the strikers.

"The dividing line must be drawn more distinctly in order to separate the genuine workers' stands from those taken by anti-socialist forces," the paper said. "All the more so because the preponderant majority of the workers are quite uninformed about what lies hidden behind the stands taken by the opposition forces."

"Poland is a firm component of the world socialist system," said a Czechoslovak radio commentator from Warsaw. "On the basis of historical experiences, any attempts of anti-socialist forces and their Western inspirers are, from the beginning, condemned to failure."

The commentator did not use the word "strike" or mention how the crisis was settled. The report enumerated factories where work was resuming, and quoted an employee pledging to work overtime to help fulfill all contracts.

Romania's Communist Party newspaper Scinteia carried a short report on the agreement from PAP, the Polish news agency, but the account gave no details.

Monitors in Western Europe heard no official comment from Bulgaria.

Pope To Visit Britain

LONDON (AP) — Militant Protestant leaders protested plans for Pope John Paul II to visit Britain in two years. But the Archbishop of Canterbury expressed "great joy," and Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth II would receive the pontiff if she was not out of the country.

The Roman Catholic information service announced Sunday that Pope John Paul accepted an invitation from Cardinal Basil Hume to make the first papal visit to Britain in history in the summer of 1982. A Catholic spokesman said Northern Ireland would not be on the itinerary.

"The blood of the martyrs cries out against this visit," said Presbyterian Rev. Ian Paisley, a member of the House of Commons for Northern Ireland. He said he had complained to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's office about the visit.

Thomas Orr, grandmaster of the Protestant Orange Lodge of Scotland, predicted "many demonstrations" against the pope because he has not excommunicated Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army fighting British rule in Northern Ireland.

Presidential Campaigns Swing Into Gear Today

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

President Carter courted the heart of the old Confederacy and the power of the union today as both he and Republican challenger Ronald Reagan literally made picnics of their Labor Day kickoff for the fall campaign.

Reagan, for his part, promised "a bigger pie, with bigger slices, for everyone." The GOP nominee, whose bandwagon has bogged down recently while venturing into foreign policy, put himself back on the domestic offensive with broadsides aimed at Carter's "litany of despair, of broken promises" for the American worker.

But Reagan, in remarks prepared for a gathering on the shores of New Jersey — and with the Statue of Liberty as his backdrop — also took the occasion to salute "those brave workers in Poland... under Communist domination."

Thus Reagan, who has been severely criticized for his own remarks on China and Vietnam, made it clear to the state's many residents of Eastern European heritage that there will be no repetition of the monumental gaffe by the previous Republican nominee, Gerald R. Ford.

It was Ford, remember, who insisted in a debate with Carter in 1976 that Poland did not suffer Soviet domination. He later retracted the remark, but only after allowing it to fester for some time.

Carter, launching a week-long series of forays outside the White House, made his first stop a return to the Deep South, the bedrock of his 1976 election and a region he almost certainly must hold if he is to win again.

After an afternoon picnic in Tuscumbia, Ala., an annual affair which attracts visitors from Tennessee and Mississippi as well as several Alabama communities, Carter was headed back to the White House to play host to an outdoor gathering of 1,000 labor leaders.

Though Reagan clearly has cut into the Carter's grip upon the South, most union leaders are returning to the president's fold after many had bolted in favor of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

One, United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser, declared Sunday that "When our membership gets to know and understand Reagan... our membership will support Carter with enthusiasm."

But Reagan, in New Jersey, took his case directly to the blue-collar voter.

"Eight million out of work!" he declared. "Inflation running at 18 percent in the first quarter. Black unemployment at about 14 percent... four straight major deficits run up by Carter and his friends in Congress. The highest interest rates since the Civil War...."

"This human tragedy is Jimmy Carter's. He caused it. He tolerates it. And he is going to answer to the American people for it," Reagan said.

Reagan said that in his proposal for a 30 percent tax cut over three years, "we are talking about a way to bring labor and management together for America. We are talking about jobs, and productivity and wages. We are talking about doing away with Jimmy Carter's view of a no-growth policy."

"That's no answer," he said. "We can have a bigger pie with bigger slices for everyone. I believe that together you and I can bake that bigger pie."

Reagan originally was scheduled to appear at Ellis Island, N.Y., but decided instead on the stop in New Jersey, a state whose 17 electoral votes are considered up for grabs by both his and the president's own pollsters. After the speech at Liberty State Park, in Jersey City, the GOP nominee was headed for Detroit, and a backyard barbecue with unemployed workers from Michigan, where the jobless rate has hit 14.4 percent. Reagan and Gov. William Milliken paid for the food.

Independent challenger John B. Anderson, his campaign is serious financial straits, stumped his home state of Illinois with Labor Day rallies in the Chicago suburbs of Calumet City and Park Forest. Anderson had hoped to launch an ambitious whistlestop tour of the industrial Midwest today, but canceled the train ride for lack of money.

On Sunday, Anderson and his running mate, former Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, attended church led by Anderson's father Alvin, who will celebrate his 95th birthday Sept. 9.

Korea Promised 1981 Elections

By TERRY A. ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's new president, Gen. Chun Doo-hwan, took office today with a pledge of free elections next year and an end to martial law "once the political situation has stabilized and there is no longer any danger of disturbances."

The 49-year-old military strongman, who was elected in a rubber-stamp electoral college vote last Wednesday, also warned in his nationally televised inaugural address that he will not tolerate corruption. He said he wants a democracy "suited to our political climate."

Despite American coolness toward Chun's government, U.S. Ambassador William Gleysteen attended the inauguration along with 9,000 Korean and foreign dignitaries.

Today was declared a national holiday, and 1,139 prisoners were released from various jails. The midnight-to-4 a.m. curfew was lifted for tonight only, and fireworks and an inaugural ball were scheduled in the evening. But there was no parade.

Chun, the country's third president since President Park Chung-hee was assassinated last October, is expected to name his new cabinet soon. Most of the members will reportedly be civilians although martial law has been in force since December and the military is running the country.

Chun, who resigned from the army because the constitution requires the president to be a civilian, touched only briefly on foreign relations in his inaugural address. He said he would avidly pursue contacts with communist North Korea and would expand relations with the United States and "all other friendly nations."

The U.S. government, South Korea's chief ally since World War II, has sharply criticized Chun's arrest of scores of political opponents. The new president proposed "free and fair" elections sometime in the first half of 1981 but indicated many political figures will be barred from them. He added that "unproductive, overheated campaigning" will be prohibited.

He hailed the economic progress made under Park but said the rapid changes brought such problems as "abuse of official power, the inequitable distribution of wealth, the worship of money, degenerating morality, extremism in political differences and pervasive indolence among public servants."

Open Tuesday

Pitt County Schools will open their doors to students for the 1980-81 school year Tuesday. According to Superintendent Ott Alford, tomorrow will be a regular school day, in contrast to years past.

"For the past several years on the first day of school the sophomores and juniors did not come and we held a sort of orientation day," explained Alford. "Tomorrow all students K-12 are to report and regular school hours will be observed. We will have no orientation day this year."

Schedules vary according to schools, but all schools will have a full day. Lunch will be served and buses will be running.

SPECIFIC FEAR RELIEF?

Is there someone in Greenville who can help me get rid of a specific phobia? I am an adult who holds a responsible job and place in the community, but I'm deathly afraid of needles. Getting a shot or having a blood test is something I dread to the point of panic and tears.

Sam Williams, M. D., Director of Adult Services at the Pitt County Mental Health Center, said that any licensed psychologist in the area can probably help you or anyone with a specific phobia. (Phobia, he said, is a fancy word for fear.) It's not unusual, he said, for individuals to operate very well in most areas of their lives, but have extreme fear of one special thing or situation. You are smart, he said, to seek help. Chances are excellent for your getting over what is probably a learned fear that has been deepened by avoidance of the very thing you fear. Systematic desensitization would probably be used, he said, to help you. He asked that you call him for further guidance to just the right person to help you. Anyone else needing help in eliminating a specific fear may also call Dr. Williams, he indicated. The MHC phone number is 752-7151.

Excursion Into The Past

A TOUCH OF YESTERYEAR... A 1904 steam engine owned by Southern Railway made a trip through Greenville yesterday as part of a round trip from Chocowinity to Raleigh sponsored by the East Carolina Historical Society. This engine was used by Southern from the time it was built in 1904 as a freight engine running from Asheville, N.C. to Knoxville, Tenn. until 1950, when it was sold to the Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina Rail Road. Southern bought the engine back in 1967 for excursion service, and it is one of six the railroad maintains for that purpose. Southern's excursion trains make approximately 80 trips each year, for a total of about 15,000 miles. This engine was used in the movie "Pretty Baby" starring Brooke Shields, and one of its sister engines was used in the film "Coal Miner's Daughter." (Reflector Photo by Larry Zicherman)

FOCUS

Labor Day

Today's holiday honors our nation's workers, millions of whom are enjoying a well-earned day of rest. Labor Day has also become a symbol of seasonal change and of the dwindling days of late summer. For many Americans, today signals the beginning of another school year, and a farewell to family vacation fun for another season. The idea of celebrating a worker's holiday in the United States began in the late 1800s. A New Jersey machinist and a New York carpenter are credited with proposing the holiday and organizing the first Labor Day parade in New York City in 1882. In 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed a bill making the day a national holiday.

Dear Abby

Girl's Past Is Not Prologue

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: As the parents of a recently married boy, do you think we have the right to ask questions about the girl's past? (I'll call her Lisa.)

We tried to get some dialogue going with Lisa's mother several months before the wedding, but she told us practically nothing. We have heard a lot of stories about Lisa and don't know what to believe.

Even though our son is 24, he has led a rather sheltered life, and is very naive, immature, unsophisticated and glib.

We suspect that Lisa has caused her mother a lot of grief, and now she is only too happy to wash her hands of her daughter and pass the problems on to our son and his family. Your opinion is needed.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Your son at 24 is a man, not a boy, regardless of how sheltered his life has been. Lisa's past concerns no one but her, and those with whom she chooses to share it. Don't pry. If you love your son, concern yourself only with his happiness. And a good place to begin is in accepting Lisa without doubts or reservations.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the advice you gave a reader who observed her co-worker in a retail store put a $15 item in her pocket; she didn't know what to do about it.

You advised her to confront the co-worker and encourage her to either pay for the item or return it. That was not bad advice. However, you didn't go far enough. If the individual did not return the item or pay for it, she should be reported to her immediate supervisor and/or the security department immediately!

Abby, according to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, each year retail employees steal between $5 and $10 billion from their employers! This form of theft is the single largest threat to retailers.

Naturally, this loss is passed on to the consumer—that's you and me, and all of your readers.

You will do all retailers a tremendous favor if you consider this important enough to publish.

DIRECTOR OF SECURITY, NAME OF STORE WITHHELD, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

DEAR DIRECTOR: I do and I will.

DEAR ABBY: What is a diplomatic way to ask guests to please go home when they have overstayed their welcome in the evening?

NAMELESS, OF COURSE

DEAR NAMELESS: For maximum effectiveness, I recommend the direct approach and less concern about diplomacy—unless you're running for office. Simply say, "Well, it's been a lovely evening, but I have to be up early tomorrow morning, so let's call it a night." And stand up—and smile—when you say it.

Auto Repairs Booming; So Do Cost

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

The speedometer on the family's 1977 Pontiac went dead. It cost $645.09 to get it working again.

Mechanics at the nearby Pontiac dealership said the speedometer gear inside the automatic transmission was shot. They also said the transmission was shot. The car has been driven 43,000 miles.

"The seals inside the transmission are leaking," the shop foreman said. "Coolant from the radiator is getting inside the transmission, and the transmission oil is getting into the radiator. Never saw such a mess. You're lucky we caught it."

Labor alone was $402. A sign prominently displayed in the shop reminds customers that there is an hourly labor rate of $33.50.

A survey by The Associated Press shows that this rate—a major factor in high repair costs—varies across the country from about $25 to more than $40.

Despite staggering costs, business is booming at most service departments. Dealers say motorists are keeping their cars longer and it takes repairs to do so.

But the price of a new car has been rising about as fast as the cost of repairs to keep an old car running. For instance, an Oldsmobile Delta 88, normally equipped, was $7,100 in 1975. This year it's $9,500.

Service appointment backlogs of two weeks or so are common. Many dealers won't even make appointments, preferring a first-come-first served arrangement. Some work out a combination of appointments and first-come. Sometimes as many as a dozen cars are lined up when the service entrance opens at 7:30 a.m.

In the last five years, the cost of replacement parts has jumped at least 35 percent and as much as 50 percent, the survey shows. A mechanic's hourly wage has also risen, generally, from about $6 to around $10 not including fringe benefits.

The wage scale, varying by level of skill, can be set by union contract, by the dealer himself on a competitive basis in his area or from a manual provided by the manufacturer.

But only about one-third of the customer's hourly charge at many dealerships goes for labor.

"Our charge is $30," said Ed Merk, general manager of a Chicago Buick agency. "Out of this comes salary for the mechanics as well as other employees, workman's compensation, uniforms, bookkeeping, heat and lights—the overhead is boundless."

"On major repairs, like a transmission overhaul, we prefer to charge a flat rate rather than by the hour. Some mechanics could do the job in maybe six hours while others would take twice as long."

Tony Piet has a $32 hourly rate at his Pontiac dealership. "We work it out on a General Motors formula that takes in many things, and such a rate varies from dealer to dealer," he said. "Our mechanics are getting $10.35 per hour. Five years ago they were getting $6. We also guarantee them $340 per week, even if they do nothing but sit around drinking coffee."

The survey showed that some dealers are getting more revenue from their service departments than from car sales.

For instance, a Volvo agency in Washington, D.C., reported 75 percent of its income was from service. A Cadillac dealer in New York said service and repairs now account for 50 percent of revenue. It was 25 percent in 1975.

Albert Armetta, service manager at Potomkin Cadillac in New York, said that in his shop, a customer is charged for a set number of labor hours for a given repair. "The mechanic, who is paid by the job, is encouraged to finish the work in less time. Many receive up to 60 hours of pay for 40 hours of work," Armetta said.

Gene Fondren, executive director of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association, said there is evidence that people are holding on to their cars longer and "much of this in the last six months has been caused by the high rate of credit turn-downs of would-be car buyers... The rejections have amounted to three out of four in some areas," he said.

In Richmond, Va., Richard Sanderson, service manager of Boulevard Import (Datsun and Saab), said: "People are doing more repairing and less trading. We're doing more work on older cars. We had a guy in here the other day who spent $1,300 on repairs to a car that wasn't worth that much, but he couldn't afford a new one."

A typical example of the rising cost of parts and labor is the price of installing a water pump.

"Parts are more expensive these days... Oh, sure they're no different than anything," says Jerry Harmon, owner of a Los Angeles Buick agency.

"We have three, four raises a year. For example, to have a water pump installed in 1975 cost $65. Now it runs $110."

Jerome Junk, service manager for Riviera Motors Inc. (Volkswagen) in Portland, Ore., notes that the sophistication of newer cars requires more specialized equipment to detect flaws and make repairs, and this contributes to rising costs.

"You can't run down to your neighborhood store and buy this kind of equipment," he said. "For instance, an infra-red unit used to detect emission control problems cost $1,300 several years ago. Now it costs from $3,000 to $4,000."

Service manager Bob Gilmore of Joe Conti Toyota Inc. in New Orleans says the increase in repair work "is because people are spending more to fix their cars, to keep them on the road longer. They definitely are keeping them longer."

He said his company is doing from 30 percent to 40 percent more repair work than it did in 1975.

Panel Projects Future Crimes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Criminals in the year 2005 will be business-oriented white-collar workers with skills in accounting or computers, predicts a governor's committee studying future crime.

The panel, a subsidiary of the Governor's Crime Commission, went into operation in the spring of 1979, collecting opinions from criminologists, sociologists, historians, psychologists and other specialists.

The committee's report is in the early drafting stages, according to Southern Pines lawyer James R. Van Camp, chairman of both the crime commission and the Committee on Future Directions.

"We probably will have some politically sensitive recommendations. We have not thought in terms of what is expedient, but what the ideal ought to be," said Van Camp.

"Our main concern is how to protect individual freedoms," he said. "Our main thrust is reduction of crime. People who seek simplistic answers won't like what we have to say."

Crime in the year 2005 will pose far greater challenges to law enforcement, the judiciary and correction systems, the committee predicted.

"We believe crime will be much more sophisticated, much more white-collar, business-oriented. There will be much greater demands put on the system to fight this kind of crime," said Van Camp.

Laws will have to be changed. "We will need extensive upgrading of prosecutorial and apprehension skills. We expect the criminal to be older and smarter."

The majority of the population also may take a less hardened attitude toward criminals, Van Camp said.

"If it is mainly white-collar crime, people will tend to be more concerned if it's their father or brother or friend who's facing prison," he said.

For that and other reasons, the state will be forced to re-evaluate its policies on corrections in the next 25 years, Van Camp said.

"We can see that the state, because of the financial burdens of the correction system, will attempt in the future to re-evaluate people who should be incarcerated and those who can be better served through non-incarceration," he said.

The cost of running the prison system is $8,000 per inmate per year and rising. "How long can we tolerate such a cost?" Van Camp said.

Topsail Beach Mayor Is Dead

By The Associated Press
TOPSAIL BEACH, N.C. (AP) — A funeral was scheduled this afternoon for Topsail Beach Mayor Michael Andrew Boryk, 67, who died Saturday night.

Boryk also was a member of the North Carolina Parks and Recreation Council. He had served as the town's mayor for 11 years.

Thatcher Target Of Union Meet

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — The Trades Union Congress, the British counterpart of the AFL-CIO and the financial mainstay of the Labor Party, opened its annual five-day convention today with attacks on Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government the chief theme for speakers.

Union leaders blame Mrs. Thatcher's money policies for the 2 million unemployed, 8.3 percent of the labor force and Britain's worst since the mid-1930s. The unions say high interest rates intended to curb inflation are not working and are swelling the ranks of the jobless. But Moss Evans, whose Transport and General Workers are Britain's biggest union, conceded that the speeches at the convention would have little or no effect on the government.

The TUC is made up of 109 unions with 12,172,508 members, an increase of nearly 45,000 in the past year. But Mrs. Thatcher has a majority of 43 in the House of Commons.

Theologians On A Picket Line

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Theologians prepared picket signs in Hebrew and Greek and went on strike at Dubuque Theological Seminary today, one day before their students were to return to campus.

"We're prepared to go out indefinitely," said Dr. C. Howard Wallace, a professor of biblical theology and a spokesman for the 13 teachers who are demanding a 12 percent raise. The school has offered an 8 percent increase.

Wallace said several picket signs were prepared in Hebrew and Greek — required languages at the seminary — that read "Justice" and "Take This Job and Sanctify It," a reference to the movie "Take This Job and Shove It" which is being filmed in Dubuque.

Registration was scheduled for Tuesday for the 140 divinity students and classes were supposed to begin Thursday.

The theologians' contract expired at midnight and there has been no move to reopen negotiations, which were last held Wednesday.

In a letter to the theologians, university President Walter Peterson said the school wasn't going to budge from its offer. He said the university "expects" the teachers will show up as scheduled and that the university plans to start paying an 8 percent pay increase whether or not a new contract is signed.

Since the theologians organized as an affiliate of the National Education Association in 1975, the purchasing power of salaries has fallen 15 percent, Wallace said.

The average salary at the university is $19,000, Wallace said.

School administrators, he added, are "not the bad guys."

"It's just that in the past, the administration has been rather, well, paternalistic — taking unilateral action which (spurred) our organization in the first place," he said.

The reason the university is strapped for cash, Peterson's letter explained, is that another seminary that shares facilities and costs with the school — the Aquinas Institute of Theology — is leaving next year. The budget is already in the red, he said.

SWEET NOTE — Songstress Karen Carpenter exchanged wedding vows with industrialist Tom Burris Sunday at the Beverly Hills Hotel. During the ceremony the bride sang an original composition "Because We're In Love" written by the bride's brother Richard Carpenter and writing partner John Bettis. Brooks Urges A Dedication

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Labor Commissioner John C. Brooks urged North Carolinians Sunday to rededicate themselves "to the proposition of becoming the most talented and skilled workers possible."

In a Labor Day message, Brooks said too "many North Carolinians are out of work and too many of those employed, because of inadequate skill training, are able to earn a wage which is insufficient to permit their desired quality of life."

Brooks said the state was in a "serious recessionary period" and called unemployment levels "exceedingly high."

Allen-Tyson Vows Said At Red Oak Church

Pamela Sue Tyson and Heber Robert Allen III were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. at Red Oak Christian Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Harold Dietch.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Amos J. Tyson of Rt. 2, Farmville, and Mr. and Mrs. Heber Robert Allen of Rt. 8, Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by organist Pam Walker and soloist Emerson Hobgood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white poly knit and Venise lace. Her sleeveless gown was fashioned with a fitted empire bodice and a Queen Anne neckline trimmed with appliques of Venise lace. The A-line skirt flowed into a chapel length train. She wore a bridal hat adorned with Venise lace accented with bridal pearls and two tiers of imported silk illusion. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of white roses, snowflake pom poms, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Deborah Lynn Mazingo of Greenville. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Kathy Allen, sister of the bridegroom of Winterville, Mrs. Eric Pierce of Greenville and Mrs. Roger Eason of Greenville, Miss Teresa Griffin of Ayden and Mrs. Raymond Kassouf, aunt of the bride of Texas.

The attendants wore formal gowns of sky hand-painted matte jersey print in shades of apricot, shrimp, blue and green on a blue background with open V-necklines, criss-crossed empire bodices with a cowl drape extending to waist length in back. A rolled self-tie encircled the waistline from which fell the full flared skirt. They carried long-stemmed mums with

Miss House, Mr. Radford Wed Sunday

Miss Vickie Gale House became the bride of James Kenneth Radford Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville. The Rev. Frank Gentry performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ashley House and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Orville Radford, all of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Daneel leRoux, organist, of Greenville, a brass ensemble consisting of H. L. Austin Jr., Glenn Buck, Randy Gentry, Mike Pollard and Ken Kearney, and the Rev. Maurice Phelps, soloist, all of Greenville. Rev. Phelps sang "God Given Love," "Can Two Walk Together" and "In The Quiet Hour."

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a high neckline trimmed in scalloped silk Venise lace. The empire bodice was enhanced by a sheer yoke of imported English net embroidered in a floral design and outlined in scalloped silk Venise lace with panels of floral lace extending over the bodice, shoulders and full bishop sleeves, cuffed in the floral lace. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel length train were bordered at the hemline with scalloped schiffli embroidered lace topped by a row of floral Venise lace. She wore a circular veil of illusion, pencil edged, designed to form a fingertip length and a shorter elbow length tier. Motifs of silk floral Venise lace were scattered over the veil which was held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in lace beaded with pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses and daisies accented with blue and pink starburst poms and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Shirley Bowen, sister of the bride, Greenville, was honor attendant. She wore a formal gown of ivory hand-painted chiffon in blue, dusty rose, apricot and green print on an ivory background designed with a scoop neckline edged in piping that formed the narrow shoulder straps and blouson bodice. A self-fabric, rolled tie sash encircled the elasticized waistline from which fell the flared skirt. A short bolero jacket complemented the gown. She wore a circled halo of silk flowers in shades of blue with blue satin ribbon streamers in her hair and silk starburst poms in tones of blue, pink and white pinned to a lace fan with cascading streamers.

Mrs. Loretta Lewellyn and Mrs. Judy Radford, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, and Mrs. Kay Denning, sister of the bridegroom, Clinton, served as bridesmaids. They wore dresses and halos identical to the honor attendant in shades of pink with pink streamers. They also carried lace fans.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were John C. Radford, brother of the bridegroom, Greenville, Wayne Denning, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Clinton, and Tommy Williams of Greenville.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink magic knit gown. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue polyester knit gown. Each wore a white cymbidium orchid. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Carl Oakley, Greenville, was remembered with a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Carol Whitaker, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register, and Mrs. David Wiseman served as mistress of ceremonies. Immediately following the ceremony, parents of the bride entertained the wedding party, family and out-of-town guests with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. J.

Melvin Moore and introduced to the receiving line. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. William Highsmith.

Prior to the wedding rehearsal on Saturday night, the Radford family entertained the wedding party at the Westler Sizzlin Steak House. The honored couple remembered their wedding party with gifts.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School, Bethel, and is employed with Wachovia Computer Center, Greenville. Radford is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and Pitt Community College, Greenville. He is a dairyman with Radford's Dairy Farm, Greenville.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The first glimpse of a home is usually the entrance or foyer. This is also what is often remembered by visitors. Entryways tell a lot about a home. For example, if one is hustled through a dim slice of the hallway, interest tends to be lost along the way. A dark entryway with pale colors and low lights suggests a colorless life beyond. Plain walls are a symptom of monotony. Where there is nothing to arrest the eye, to startle, please or comfort the visitor in the way of colors, sights and textures, the house becomes inhospitable. An entryway should be colorful, touchable and well lighted to greet and welcome every visitor.

Insurance Women Cooked Out

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women held its meeting Wednesday at the home of Sophia Sumner, Ahoskie.

After a cookout, plans were made for the upcoming "Kiss Your Baby Week" for cystic fibrosis to be held Sept. 21-27.

Audrey Stillwell was named publicity chairman for the event. The bazaar to be held in October at Carolina East Mall was also discussed.

Deborah Johnson of Greenville was a guest for the meeting. Hostesses for the evening were Ms. Sumner and Nancy White.

The September meeting will take place at the Ramada Inn. Dr. Henry Aldridge will be guest speaker.

Chicod Class Held Reunion

The Graduating Class of 1960 of Chicod High School held a reunion Saturday night at Brentwood Lodge near Washington.

Those attending were Murdene Buck Bailey, Eleanor Gray Mills, Judy Hardee Hudson, Geraldine Hudson Fornes, Evonne Keeter Boyd, Janice Mills Gray, Linda Mills Stroud, Virginia Mills Gurkins, Shirley Riggs Smith, Brenda Taylor Adams, Janice Taylor Clark, Bruce Adams, Doug Gurkins, McBryde Haddock, George Holland, AJ Manning, Don Mills, Duiguit Mills, James Mills, Philip Mills, William Wall and Marion Wilson.

Doug and Virginia Gurkins invited everyone to their home in Black Jack for an early Sunday morning breakfast of country ham, eggs and biscuits.

The next reunion was scheduled for 1985.

Most injuries which occur at work or in the home are usually wholly preventable. Safety goggles, or glasses, can generally stop an injury before it happens. Being a delicate, finely organized part of the body, the eye needs only a relatively small injury to endure tragic damage. Always wear protective eye gear when using a motor driven tool. When handling chemicals, such as battery acid, paint thinners, bleaches or lye for drain blockage, wear eye protection to insure against the splattering of highly acid or alkaline substances. You need only to think of life without sight to motivate you to employ good safety habits.

Sight is a precious possession and one should take proper care of this valuable asset. Periodic eye exams are essential. Likewise, a reliable optician who will professionally prepare lenses in accordance with your prescription, tend to the proper fitting, and even concern himself with style and color tone is important. CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 5th, Physicians Quadrangle, Building A, is just such a place. Come see us today. Your sight is precious to us also.

Dixon-Haddock Wedding Held At Black Jack

Miss Rita Jean Haddock became the bride of Leaky Lamur Dixon Jr. in a formal candlelight ceremony at the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Haddock of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leaky Lamur Dixon Sr., also of Greenville.

The Rev. R. M. Stewart of Dunn officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Randy Buck, pianist, who also sang, "You Decorated My Life," "Love the World Away" and "Wedding Prayer."

The chancel of the church was centered with an arch candelabra with spiral candelabras on either side interspersed with jade greenery backed with stands of wedding palms. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the bridal couple knelt for the benediction. Family pews were marked with bridal satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of polyester sheer and Venise floral lace featuring an empire waist, high sheer neckline bordered with a lace ring collar and ruffled capulet sleeves. Matching lace accented the bodice. A full A-line skirt with floral Venise lace trim was bordered with a nylon flounce which flowed into a chapel length train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap trimmed in lace and seed pearls.

She carried a colonial nosegay of white daisies with pink roses interspersed with baby's breath tied with pink and satin streamers.

Mrs. Claudia Baker, aunt of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of blue polyester silesta. She carried a single mum with matching satin streamers. The bridesmaids were Lisa Cox, Cindy Gaskins and Robbie Riggs, all of Greenville. Christy Boyd was junior bridesmaid. All wore gowns styled like the honor attendant in rainbow colors and carried matching flowers. Sherry Curtis, cousin of the bride, of Robersonville, served as flower girl. She wore a blue dotted swiss dress and carried a summer basket of flower petals. Bradley Smith, cousin of the bride, of Norfolk, Va., was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Haddock chose a formal gown of blue qiana with a matching cape of silk illusion. The bridegroom's mother selected a formal gown of pink polyester with a sheer matching cape. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

The grandmothers, Mrs. Jim Haddock, Mrs. Lester Ward and Mrs. Claude Fornes, were remembered with white mum corsages.

Angela Smith and Brenda Adams presided at the bridal register. Monica Fornes and Sharon Haddock passed out wedding programs.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. The refreshment table was covered with an ecru lace cloth over yellow and centered with an epergne holding burning tapers and greenery. After the bridal couple cut the first traditional slice of cake, Mrs. Connie Dixon served cake and Mrs. Bobby Guy poured punch. Mrs. Mack Dixon Jr. and Mrs. Dalton Mills, Mrs. Donald Fornes, Mrs. Jimmy Haddock and Mrs. Jeffrey Riggs assisted in serving. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Fornes, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained the wedding party and friends with a pig picking Saturday night at the church.

The bride was entertained at a luncheon Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Boyd given by Miss Christy Boyd and her mother.

The bride and the bridegroom are both graduates of D. H. Conley High School. The bride is employed at Atlantic Credit Corp. and the bridegroom is employed by Fieldcrest Mills. After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Hike Needs Justifying

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. has filed a request with the North Carolina Utilities Commission for a local service rate increase and customer charges which would bring in $25 million annually.

The increase averages about 13 percent. In some instances, however, it will be much higher. Greenville's one party residential rate would increase from $8.05 per month to $9.95, or 23.6 percent. A business line would increase from $19.60 to $24.95 or 27 percent.

A Farmville residential line would go from $8.35 per month to $10.65 or 27.5 percent. Ayden's would rise from $8.30 to $10.55 or 30.7 percent.

These are stiff increases by any standard and if they are allowed they will cost Carolina Tel customers large additional amounts of money each year.

There is no way we can say here whether the increases are justified. There are too many factors involved. Inflation is certainly one, but also efficiency in the past has brought down the cost of telephone service.

We would expect the N. C. Utilities Commission to dig in to these figures and not simply take them at face value. We would hope local groups will raise questions about the figures before the Utilities Commission. Before all or part of these increases are granted they should be completely justified.

Industrial Golden Age?

Labor Day honors the working people of our nation, those who have helped build this country to the point where it is today.

There has been much concern about productivity in recent years; it is in a decline and the nation's economy can't keep growing with declining productivity.

At the same time there is growing evidence that a new alliance is forming between industry and labor which, combined with new technology, can give this nation renewed productive vigor.

We don't view America's industrial future with gloom. We have always met our problems head-on before and we think the groundwork even today is being laid for an industrial golden age.

Take My House, Please

LOS ANGELES — Everyone knows that Californians are different from the rest of us. They were the pioneers of pyramid games, they invented the candlelight dinner and hot tubs, and they were the first to put Gucci shoes on their roller skates.

Californians are into something new now. It's called "real estate." It isn't who you are or who you know that counts anymore. It's how much you're asking for your house.

I didn't realize how much real estate values mattered in people's lives out here until a very nice lady took me to a lunch in the Malibu colony at a $2 million shack which resembled the stockade in "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

The guests were all gathered around the small swimming pool and my hostess introduced me to the people. "This is Ted and

Jane, who are asking $950,000 for their villa in Ventura; Bob and Alice, whose English Tudor is now on the market for $1 million five; Don and Phyllis, who turned down $2 million one for their Spanish hacienda in Brentwood; and Mildred, who just split with

"Someone told me the Saudi Arabians are moving into Culver City."
"I can't believe it. They haven't gobbled up Bel Air yet."

"Do you know the mobile home on the highway near Trancas?"

"You mean the one that was set up after the waves washed away the seven-figure Cape Cod on the dunes?"

"The mobile went for $1 million six."
"I thought it had been condemned by the zoning people."

"It had. That's why it sold so cheap."
I tried to get into the conversation.

"What's Johnny Carson really like?"
"Six million for his home in Beverly Hills, and one million eight for his house on the beach."

"How about Candice Bergen?" I asked.

There was dead silence at the table. Finally, someone said quietly, "Off the record?"

"It won't leave this patio."
"Candice subtleties."

Sam and is showing her $850,000 redwood contemporary by appointment only."

They seemed like really nice people.

The hostess apologized because lunch was late. "We're still waiting on Henry and Roz, who have just listed their Tarzana colonial for $2 million six, and Allen and Marjorie, who won't take less than $1 million seven for their place in Laurel Canyon."

"They're worth waiting for," I said.

Most of the people were in the movie and television business so I expected some hot gossip about the stars which I could take back East with me. But it was not to be.

The table conversation went like this. "Rhonda left Johnny's fabulous $2 million panoramic hillside retreat with four bathrooms and an indoor jacuzzi and moved in with Herb in his $600,000 condominium with a wet bar on Wilshire Blvd."

"What a fool. Rhonda is always trading down."
"When Rhonda falls in love you can't talk any real estate sense into her at all."

Why All The Flap?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Ever since Gov. Jim Hunt almost impudently mentioned infiltrating "wild and crazy" groups to keep an eye on their plans which might endanger the public, he has been periodically bombarded with hostile questions on that subject.

It seems some critics fear more some imagined invasion of "civil liberties" than they fear a real invasion of the public safety by the guns, torches, bombs, and other criminal activities of non-law abiding gangs.

Recently, for example, Hunt fielded a host of questions having to do with when such infiltration would start, what groups would be infiltrated, how Constitutional rights would be protected for those infiltrated, and so on, and so on.

The governor is standing firm on his intentions, and dismissed the grillings with a cutting comment: "We're not gonna do anything to them... we just want to find out what they're going to do to us."

That's the nut of infiltration. It has been going on; it's still going on; and will continue to go on in one form or another.

Public Info

Those who question and fear government intrusion into the private affairs of groups prone to violence seem to want a press release from the State Bureau of Investigation or the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety — complete with pictures — announcing what law enforcement agents will be assigned which lawless group, when, and where.

What groups already are infiltrated, or would be? Obviously no common sense can answer this. Those which condone violence. The Ladies Missionary Society meetings at Fanny Broadbottom's house on Oak Street every Tuesday are safe from government scrutiny; even if some rum occasionally finds its way into the punchbowl. So, too, political party meetings, sessions of the UNC

Most inside information comes from long-time members of the group. Historically that is where law enforcement has gotten its information about all sorts of activities: moonshining, dope-smuggling, marijuana-growing, cigarette smugglers, theft rings....

So it is, and will continue to be, as government tries harder to keep tabs on the Klan and Nazi and Communist and other clandestine gangsters bent on hurting others.

Rams Club, and Wednesday night gatherings of certain Pentecostal-Evangelical religious organizations, as much as Hunt would like to keep up with what those various folk are up to.

Some who continually reject infiltration seem to think that one of those fresh-faced SBI types in the blue suits and close-shaven chops will simply wander into the rural filling station meeting place of the local Klavern one night and say, Hey, I want to join up with you fellows; tell me everything that's going on.

Not likely. Seldom do full-time professional lawmen do the undercover work themselves. And when they do, it usually is some agent from another governmental entity who has become established in the local ac-

To the editor:

The recent trend among conservative Christian evangelists to try to have elected only politicians of their own persuasion has become a real source of worry. Should their influence and monetary means continue to grow at the present rate, and could, in the next generation or two, see a modern day resurgence of the most shameful event in Christian history, the Inquisition.

The idea seems to be that we should make their interpretation of Christian ideals the basis for our lawmaking, making an offense against the church a punishable offense against the state. It was an identical premise that led to the execution of thousands of persons during the Inquisition.

Forcing citizens to abide by "Christian" principles out of a fear of retribution does not make them Christian or help to create a Christian society. It may indeed create more resentment than converts. Instead, it is our responsibility to teach our children morality at home, not by misusing prayer in the school, to teach our neighbors by example, not through legislation.

I would like to close by drawing one more dangerous parallel to the Inquisition. Tomas de Torquemada, Inquisitor General of the Spanish Inquisition for 15 years, used the Inquisition as a tool to unify Spain politically. In these confusing times, let us not be misled by those who would like to see us politically united, and try to use Christianity toward this end.

This end must necessarily be achieved at the expense of some people who will find themselves excluded, as Torquemada punished the "heretics." Let us put an end to a tradition of exclusion that began with Torquemada and has continued through Hitler, McCarthy and Khomeini.

Strength For Today

WHAT MAKES RELIGION GENUINE?

Many people have all the appurtenances of religion without having any real religion in their hearts. In the last analysis, religion is primarily a trust in God. If we have that trust, the door is open to everything else religion has to offer. We have belief, confidence, kindness, and right conduct. Yet, on the other hand, we may have belief but no trust — even good conduct but no trust in God.

Some people can be religious in the sense of the outward observances. They go to church, read their Bible, pray — but they do not trust. At the basis of all satisfactory human relationships lies the trust that persons have in one another. All satisfactory relationships between God and man reside in our being able to trust in Him who, by His very creation of us, indicates that He trusts us. Trust is so important that it should be in the forefront of religious life. — Elisha Douglass

Education For Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
COLUMBUS, Ohio — An important new chapter in the education of Ronald Reagan as presidential candidate unfolded here Wednesday when he zeroed in on the "Carter depression" at the urgent advice of old pro, four-term Ohio Gov. Jim Rhodes.

Deleting a quotation on military strength from the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Reagan cleaned his text for the Ohio Teamsters union of virtually everything not directly tied to the nation's economic crisis.

To evoke MacArthur would have backtracked Reagan into the same quicksand of Vietnam and China he has spent two weeks trying to escape. The "Carter depression" moved him for the first time since the Republican presidential convention to promising dry ground for waging a successful campaign against the president.

One lesson to be drawn from the intervention of Rhodes is this: Access to Reagan by canny, vote-hunters of Rhodes' caliber in the all-important hunting ground of the industrial Midwest can be decisive on Reagan and his often-awed advisers. That lesson is embroidered by the fact that some of Reagan's top economic aides were not even consulted before Reagan decided to go with the eye-catching "Carter depression."

Even to consider invoking Gen. MacArthur's name in this recession-torn state with a 10 percent jobless rate would seem to defy common sense. Yet, just such lack of common sense has dogged the early innings of Reagan's campaign. His toughly-worded attack on Carter economics has now given him the offensive on an issue ripe for exploitation.

Signs of party discomfiture have been coming in loud and clear demanding that offensive. At a closed-door meeting of Reagan surrogates in Washington on Tuesday, Maryland Rep. Bob Bauman, a conservative hard-hitter, demanded of Reagan campaign manager William J. Casey: "If we're supposed to be speaking for Gov. Reagan, you have to let us in on the takeoff."

A similar complaint was voiced by Rep. Sam Devine, Reagan's Ohio campaign chairman. He told an applauding House Republican Policy Committee this week that Reagan's path to the White House has only one direction: through the "disasters" of high inflation, interest rates and unemployment. After Reagan's Teamsters speech here, Devine confided: "I think they're waking up."

Republican strategists in Ohio, a state Carter barely carried in 1976, and in recession-rocked Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Pennsylvania are convinced the election will be won or lost in the steel and auto mills of the industrial heartland. As Rhodes told Reagan: "Everything is unsettled today. It's all out there to be had."

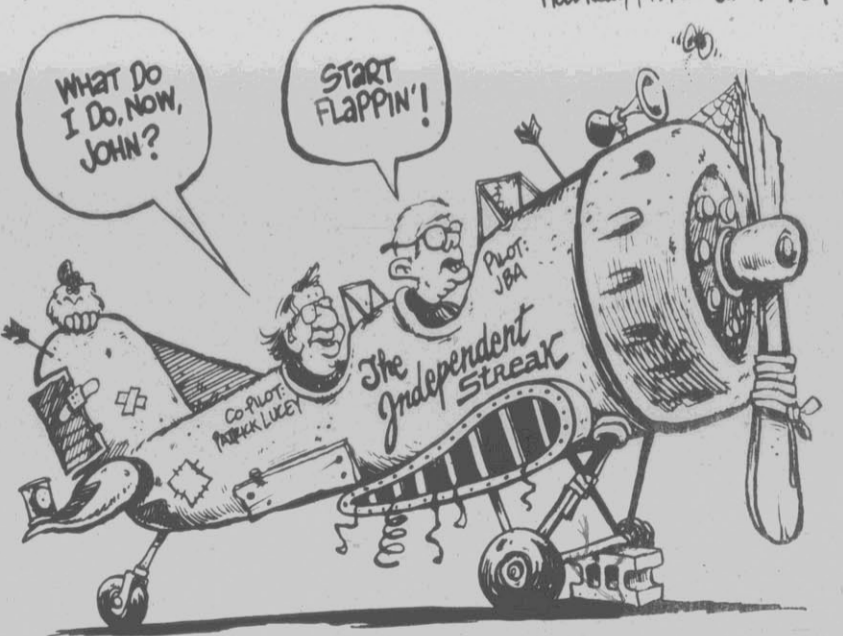

Following Rhodes' earlier lead, the governors of these five states elaborated the message for Reagan here Wednesday evening.

They warned that the Carter strategy of painting Reagan as a dangerous cold warrior has been more successful since the Democratic convention at Madison Square Garden than Carter could have hoped for. This August setback, when voters' minds are on Labor Day vacations, not the presidential campaign, can be erased — but Reagan was told only if he attacks, attacks and attacks again on inflation, unemployment and high interest rates. "Our people are angry and they are going to gang up on someone in this election," one governor told us. "Reagan has to make Carter the target."

The unanswered question is: Does Reagan have the fortitude to follow this prescription? The major changes he agreed to write into his Teamsters speech cheered even skeptical Jim Rhodes. In addition to hanging "Carter depression" on the president, Reagan for the first time tried to personalize the economic issue. "After four years of Carter's little pills," he told the Teamsters, "ask the steel workers in Youngstown if they like the way things have changed; ask the unemployed autoworkers in Cleveland and the rubber workers in Akron."

Getting voters to ask those questions, and demanding answers from Jimmy Carter, could relieve him of that excess baggage accumulated in China, Taiwan, Vietnam and other areas far from the minds of the Ohio Teamsters and their blue-collar buddies.

Could Prove Elusive Victory

By JAMES F. SMITH
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) — On paper, the Polish strike settlement promises the workers a broad range of economic and political reforms. But they may prove elusive.

Following riots in 1956 at a locomotive factory in Poznan, thousands of worker councils similar to the strike committees sprang up across Poland and helped set the stage for Wladyslaw Gomułka's rise to power. Within a few years the councils had been merged with the official unions, and the more militant activists were silenced.

That a Soviet Bloc regime sat down with strikers at all and then signed an agreement was in itself a dramatic and unprecedented concession.

Communist parties maintain they are the true representatives of the working class and their "dictatorships of the proletariat" serve the interests of workers. The agreement Sunday conceded that "the activities of the trade unions in Poland have not fulfilled the hopes and expectations of the workers."

But the pact signed by strike leader Lech Walesa said the new unions will "stand on the principle of the social ownership of the means of production" and will "recognize that the Communist Party is the leading force in Poland and do not question the existing system of international alliances."

"I should stress that the independent trade unions have declared they will stand on the fundamentals of socialism and the leading role of the party in this country," said the director of the government information service, Miroslaw Wojciechowski.

The possibility of Soviet intervention, as in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, was never far from the thoughts of history-minded Poles. The government stressed repeatedly that its alliance with the Soviet Union was unshakable. It noted that the Soviet Bloc's defense pact bears the name of the Polish capital, Warsaw, and dismissed "the illusions which link the latest events in Poland with a possibility of loosening our country's ties with the whole Socialist Commonwealth."

If history is a guide, Communist Party chief Edward Gierek's survival in the aftermath of the strike crisis is uncertain. He replaced Gomułka in 1970 after price riots in Gdansk resulted in the death of more than 50 persons.

Gierek's concessions to the strikers may have been necessary to end the crisis. But they may be considered too costly to accept quietly. Although the Soviet Union has jammed Western radio broadcasts for the first time since the early 1970s and Soviet Bloc radio broadcasts have not discussed the settlement, the Communist leaders of the other countries may fear it could prove contagious.

In Gdansk, strikers tempered jubilation over the agreement with skepticism about what it will mean for them.

"Sure I'm glad," said one worker. "I think Walesa could not have achieved more than we got. But I don't think we earned a total victory. And we have to wait and see if the deal materializes."

THREE INJURED IN EARLY MORNING COLLISION...An early morning wreck on Reade Circle between Cotanche Street and East Fifth Street resulted in injuries to the drivers of both vehicles and to a passenger. A 1978 Ford driven by Donald Wayne Smith reportedly crossed the center line, heading west, and struck a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Carlton Otis Tripp, Jr. of Chadwick Lane, Greenville. An estimated $2,000 damages were done to each vehicle and Smith was charged with reckless driving and driving left of center. The accident occurred around 2:45 a.m. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest)

Chip Carter Was Alerted To Raid Plan

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Chip Carter, the president's son, received an urgent call from his father telling him to leave a Florida vacation cottage because a drug raid was about to take place nearby, the White House has confirmed.

A presidential spokesman, who asked not to be identified, emphasized that Chip Carter, now 30, was not involved in the drug smuggling ring. Customs agents arrested 18 people and seized three tons of marijuana in the July 21, 1977, raid in Mexico Beach.

The Panama City News-Herald later reported it was the Secret Service that got Carter out of the area two days before the raid.

However, recent interviews with White House sources say it was a phone call from the president that caused the younger Carter to head for Plains, Ga.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said Larry Chambers, then agent-in-charge of the Panama City Customs office, called the Secret Service office in Pensacola after learning that Chip Carter was vacationing with his family in nearby Mexico Beach. The resort had come under suspicion as a popular entry point for drugs into the U.S.

The sources said Chambers' concern was twofold: that Chip Carter's Secret Service guards would tip off the smugglers, and that the president's son might be hurt in the raid.

Three days before the planned raid, Chip Carter had chartered a fishing boat, not knowing that it was to be used in the raid, the sources said. That boat's skipper was a Customs informant who later was paid $15,000 for his services.

It was from the informant that Customs learned Chip Carter was in the area, the sources said.

The sources said President Carter was called in from the tennis courts to listen to a conversation between Chambers and Robert Dickerson, then acting commissioner of customs. The president then decided to telephone his son to get him out of the area, the sources added.

Four of those arrested in the raid were later released. Fourteen others pleaded guilty to drug charges and were sentenced to prison.

Defend Board's Ballot Position

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The names of candidates running for the U.S. Senate this year have been moved to the bottom of the North Carolina ballot, and Republicans want them put back at the top where they have been listed for the past 20 years.

On the 1980 ballot, the names of Senate candidates are listed below candidates for president, governor, lieutenant governor and eight Council of State slots.

State Republicans have gone to court to try to get the Senate names moved up.

Republican Senate candidate John P. East called the move "a shabby political performance, blatantly and flagrantly political."

Jack Lee, GOP state chairman, agreed, saying, "An attempt to deny the people of this state and this country the services of John East in the U.S. Senate."

The Republicans challenged the ballot placement in U.S. District Court in Fayetteville, but federal Judge Earl Britt dismissed the case, saying the state Elections Board had the authority to set up the ballot any way it wanted to.

Republicans have appealed the decision to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

What disturbs the Republicans most, they say, is that East could lose votes because of the ballot placement — possibly enough to cost him the election.

If the Senate race were listed in the usual place, East says, with the Republican nominee being Ronald Reagan, he would be better off and far more likely to get the benefit of ticket-splitting votes.

But if his name is at the bottom, listed behind some lesser state races where Republicans have no candidates, East contends he is likely to lose some votes.

The Republicans believe ballot position is crucial to East's chances for unseating Morgan. The East campaign and another group organized

Many Killed In Indian Floods

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — At least 62 persons were reported killed in floods in northern and central India during the weekend.

Forty-nine deaths were reported in the state of Uttar Pradesh, raising the death toll there to 940 since the floods began in June. The nationwide toll passed 1,100.

Hopeful News in Medicine

An interesting approach to the problem of male infertility has recently been released by Dr. Ali A. Abdasi from the Allen Park Veterans Administration in Michigan. He had found that a mild deficiency of zinc can, in some instances, be responsible for male infertility.

One of his colleagues, Dr. A.S. Prasad, had been studying the effects of zinc deprivation among Egyptians and Iranians. In the course of his work in the Middle East, this idea of replenishing zinc occurred to him.

Using 240 mg. of zinc sulfate daily for six months markedly increased the sperm count in the men they were studying.

Ongoing research is concentrated on repairing both an inadequate number of sperm and weakened sperm. The problem is being attacked from many angles. It is believed that zinc may yet be an important factor in returning fertility to some men.

Diabetes in children presents many special problems. Wide swings in the level of blood sugar in children complicate diabetic control. At Yale University Medical School, Dr. William V. Tamborlane and his co-workers reported that with a portable pump they were better able to control blood sugar levels in children. The device pours out round-the-clock doses of insulin through a needle inserted beneath the skin.

The device being tested is now being used in patients who are in the hospital. It is believed, however, that before long juvenile diabetics may be treated in this way, even when they are living on the outside.

The doctors refer to the pump as an artificial pancreas which can stabilize and control blood sugar levels. At the present time, the needle beneath the skin is left in place for a maximum of two weeks. It is believed that this approach opens up a great many avenues to benefit the childhood diabetic.

Poisoned By Red Tide

PHILLIPSTON, Mass. (AP) — Red tide poisoning has struck 11 people who ate clams at a family reunion here, authorities said.

The Sunday outbreak, which sent all 11 to the hospital, was traced from a store in Orange, Mass., to clams dug in Maine, according to George Michael, of the state Public Health Department.

Officials have been checking bushels of clams coming into the state because some clam beds in Maine have been closed by red tide, which is caused by an invasion of microscopic animals. It causes a discoloration of sea water.

Farm Bureau In Policy Meeting

RALEIGH — Over 150 members of Farm Bureau commodity advisory committees from throughout North Carolina will meet here Sept. 5 to begin the organization's policy development process.

Atlas Wooten, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, said representatives in nine commodity areas will meet for the purpose of pinpointing some of the issues and problems that farmers will be facing in farm commodities during 1981 and future years.

Representing the Pitt County Farm Bureau at the meeting will be John Radford, dairy; James Galloway, field crops; Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, law and order; Ben Gardner, Jr., livestock; Eugene James, peanuts; Gene Paramore, poultry; Atlas Wooten, tobacco.

Wooten said that after issues are raised and discussed by commodity committees they are submitted to the individual county farm bureaus for consideration by resolutions committees prior to the county annual meetings.

Wooten pointed out that the Raleigh meeting will begin at 10 a.m. with a report on the current agriculture situation and general problem areas that will be confronting agriculture in the future. Committees will later begin their individual discussions.

Wooten suggested that Farm Bureau members who have questions that need to be considered, or ideas that may solve current problems, bring them to the attention of local committee members.

"This policy development process assures Farm Bureau members that the organization at county, state, and national levels will work for those objectives which members themselves have initiated and decided," he commented.

Connors Plays Like Old Self

NEW YORK (AP) — The new Jimmy Connors plays remarkably like the old Jimmy Connors, and in an even year especially, that should strike fear into the rest of the field at the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Citing the maturity and added stability of being married and a new father, Connors seems to have found peace of mind. Still, he's the same warrior he's always been on the court.

Terry Moor discovered that Sunday when the third-seeded Connors ripped through the unseeded American 6-4, 6-1, 6-1 to move into the fourth round.

"I tried to play my game, but he kept getting stronger and stronger and hitting the ball deeper and deeper," said Moor.

"After the first five or six games, I started hitting the ball more solidly and with better timing," said Connors, the U.S. Open king in 1974, 1976 and 1978. "Once I did that, my whole game picked up."

"I'm pleased with the way

I'm playing," he said. "I'm sure not afraid. I've always played with reckless abandon. Greed and fear are not part of my game. I'm just strolling along, playing my own game. I'm relaxed out there."

But Connors warned that if it's to his advantage to get angry on the court, he won't hesitate to throw a tantrum or two. "When it's time to get upset, I'll get upset. Don't worry."

"They've taken away a linesman on each side, and that's too bad. If that's the way it's going to be, then the linesmen are bound to make mistakes; they're human. If it's an unintentional mistake and they're trying, it doesn't do any good to get upset. I won't waste the energy. I might need it for the fifth set."

There's also a new look that Connors has added to his new outlook. He's sporting a week's growth of stubble around his face, which he likes and claims his 1-year-old son, Brett, likes, too. "It's filling in pretty good, for me," said Connors, stealing

The top-seeded Swedish ace won't shave during a tournament. The superstition has paid off with five consecutive Wimbledon titles, but not in this tournament. The U.S. Open is the only major tourney that has eluded Borg.

Borg, with triumphs at Wimbledon and the French Open this year, continued his quest for the Grand Slam today with a fourth-round match against Yannick Noah, the No. 15 seed from France.

Other featured matches today in the men's fourth-round were No. 11 Roscoe Tanner against Brian Teacher and Guillermo Vilas, the fourth seed from Argentina, against 14th-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland.

The women's draw has also reached the fourth round. Today No. 3 Chris Evert Lloyd, the four-time champion, was to meet unseeded Joanne Russell; Martina Navratilova, the No. 2 seed, played Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia, No. 9; and 13th-seeded Pam Shriver played Australian Dianne Fromholtz, the No. 6 seed. Tonight, top-seeded Tracy Austin will play No. 10 Virginia Ruzici of Romania.

New Yorker John McEnroe, last year's Open champion, kept pace with Connors, overcoming another New Yorker, Rick Meyer, 6-1, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. When Meyer won the third set, a roar of approval went up from the crowd, which generally backs the underdog and always roots against the feisty McEnroe.

"I just think it's wrong for people, when I double fault or something, I just don't think people should be clapping and stuff," said McEnroe, the No. 2 seed. "There's always people rooting. I mean, this is New York and they're always like that."

They haven't warmed to McEnroe, who's playing on a sprained right ankle that he says gets stronger with each outing.

"When you come back after being hurt, you don't run and jump as much as you should.

It's laziness," McEnroe said. "I'm in good shape. I just have to stretch out more. But I'm still in the tournament and that's the important thing."

The more matches I play the more confident I get because I'm moving around more."

In other major matches Sunday, No. 13 Brian Gottfried downed Ross Case of Australia 6-0, 6-7, 6-2, 6-4; Harold Solomon, the seventh seed, outlasted Russell Simpson of New Zealand 6-7, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2; and Ivan Lendl, the 10th seed from Czechoslovakia who won the Canadian Open two weeks ago when Borg defaulted with a bad knee, breezed by Thierry Tulasne of France 6-2, 6-0, 6-1.

Victor Amaya, the 16th seed, was upset by Pascal Portes of France 6-3, 2-6, 7-6, 6-3.

The Open continued its record-breaking attendance pace. A paid crowd of 17,823 attended the day matches, the third consecutive sellout. A crowd of 9,495 turned out for the night session.

At Darlington

Cale, Darrell, Not Chip, Bush Favored

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — President Carter's son Chip is here today, and somewhere out in the crowd, Republican vice presidential candidate George Bush will be campaigning for his party.

But most of the people at the Darlington International Raceway could care less. They're far more interested in how drivers like Darrell Waltrip and Cale Yarborough do in the Southern 500.

The two drivers and 39 others are vying for a $265,000 purse in the 31st running of "the Granddaddy of Stock Car Races."

Waltrip had the pole position in today's race, which began at noon. But he is facing stiff competition from Yarborough, the driver with a record four first-place finishes in the Southern 500.

Waltrip edged out Yarborough for the pole with a speed of 153.838 mph in qualifying Thursday. Yarborough's best time was 153.766 mph.

Benny Parsons took third place followed by Buddy Baker and Neil Bonnett. Qualifying continued Friday while the rest of the field was completed Saturday.

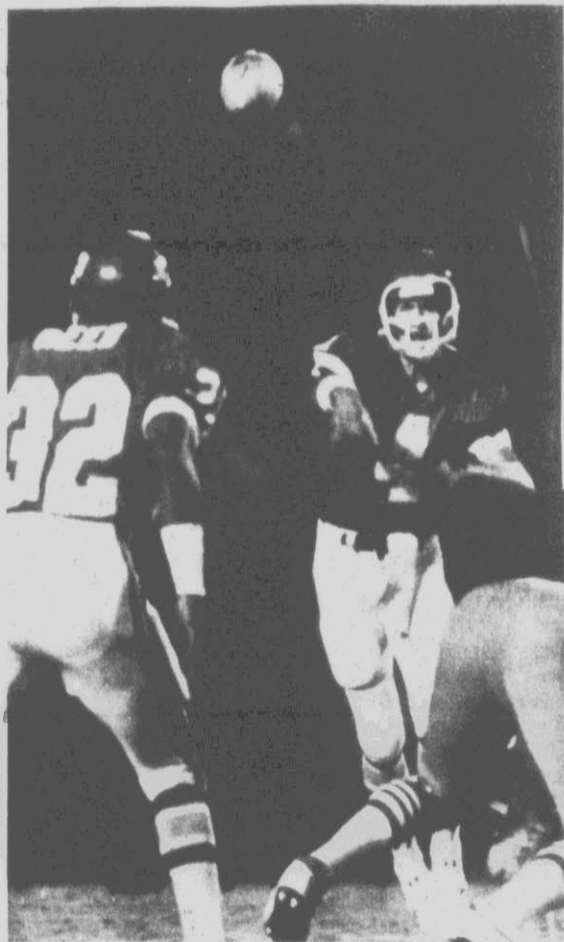

Yarborough has been riding high lately, coming off consecutive victories at Michigan and Bristol, Tenn., the last two weeks.

"I'd like to keep my streak going and it just happens to be Darlington this week," Yarborough said, adding that his Junior Johnson team is having "the best season of anybody on the circuit."

The Timmonsville, S.C., native has won ten poles and trails Dale Earnhardt by only 23 points in the driving championship. Earnhardt qualified in eighth position.

Yarborough's second starting position was no deterrent — he knew more Southern 500s (12) have been won from second place than any other spot in the field.

Yarborough's first NASCAR Grand National race was the 1957 Southern 500. He earned the 44th starting spot and finished 42nd.

'Ifs' Fill NFL Preseason

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Exhibition games don't count. Everyone knows that. Still, it's got to make you wonder...

...if Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White really is ready to fill Roger Staubach's shoes.

...if Los Angeles Rams quarterback Pat Haden has won back his job the same way he lost it — through an injury.

...if anyone's going to be able to stop the New York Jets' passing game.

...if the Green Bay Packers will win a game and if General Manager Coach Bart Starr will still be around when they do.

If entire seasons are built on that word. If Ken Stabler makes a difference in Houston... If the Detroit Lions' Billy Sims becomes the latest "franchise," a la Earl Campbell and Ottis Anderson... If anyone can figure out how to keep the Pittsburgh Steelers out of the Super Bowl...

"Preseason doesn't make a hill of beans," said Terry Bradshaw, who played Saturday night's National Football League exhibition game as though the title were on the line.

Bradshaw completed 13 of 29 passes for 211 yards, including a 24-yard touchdown pass to tight end Randy Grossman the Steelers warmed up for next Sunday's regular-season opener against Houston by mauling White and the Cowboys 31-10.

"Stabler is going to make a difference," Bradshaw said of the Oilers' new quarterback. "I don't know what he will do but I know what he can do. He's so heady, so accurate, so dangerous. Houston always gave us a tough game—even eight years ago when they were 1-13."

The absence of Staubach may make a difference, too. White, excellent in his first three exhibitions, was dismal against the Steelers, hitting just 10 of 29 passes for 150 yards and throwing three interceptions. The boos swirled through Texas Stadium.

"They've got the right to boo," White said of the Cowboys' disgruntled fans. "This is just one of those rough spots I knew was going to come. Fortunately it came this week and not next week," when Dallas visits Washington for the Monday night opener against the Redskins.

Haden, who lost his job last year when he broke a finger in midseason, then watched Vince Ferragamo quarterback Los Angeles into the Super Bowl, may have regained his job thanks to Ferragamo's pulled hamstring—not to mention his own performance against the Chargers. He completed 17 of 29 passes for 188 yards and three TDs.

"It was very encouraging," Haden said. "I don't know if there was any less pressure, though, without Vince. My role is just to go out there and be aggressive. I can throw three or four touchdowns or interceptions."

The Jets' Richard Todd had a fun night at the Giants' expense, throwing for four touchdowns, one of them covering 90 yards to top draft choice Johnny "Lam" Jones. "He's so smooth, so easy to read, so much speed," Todd said of Jones. "He's fun to throw to."

The Packers played five exhibitions and didn't win any of them. In fact, they scored only 17 points in that span, by far the fewest in the league. The Giants were next with 36 in four games. The Rams and Kansas City, conversely, scored 107 apiece, also in four games.

Quarterback Matt Robinson, traded by the Jets to Denver, tore up the Packers' defense by completing 12 of 17 passes for 186 yards and two touchdowns. One of them went to Jon Keyworth, who also ran in for a score.

Sims, the NFL's No. 1 draft pick who is supposed to get Detroit untracked this year after the Lions' horrendous 2-14 mark in 1979, didn't get untracked against Cincinnati, rushing for just 16 yards on nine carries. It was Ed Murray who beat the Bengals with his five field goals, one of them a 52-yarder.

network. And the SWC reaps the publicity of opening the decade of the 1980s for the NCAA plus thousands of dollars for each of the nine schools in the league from TV.

Texas was a 1½-point favorite — largely because it hasn't lost to Arkansas in Memorial Stadium in 14 years. A near capacity 80,000 fans were expected as the two bitter rivals collide for the 62nd time. Texas has won 46 games and there have been no ties.

"It's like playing Notre Dame in Rome," said Holtz, a line which compares favorably to former Coach Darrell Royal's quip that playing Arkansas at Fayetteville is "like parachuting into Russia."

Sixteen of the last 21 Arkansas-Texas games have had a direct bearing on the outcome of the SWC race.

Arkansas beat Texas 17-14 in Little Rock last year and finished 10-1 for the regular season, tying Houston for the SWC title. The Razorbacks lost to national champion Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

The playoff figured considerably in the plans of the two schools.

Both Arkansas and Texas will each realize some $200,000 from the ABC Television

Bosox Sneak Into Race

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The month of August was a masterpiece for the Boston Red Sox... and Bob Stanley was the one who put the finishing touches on it.

Transformed from a starter into a reliever midway through the season, Stanley gave the Red Sox some spectacular bullpen work during the month that has boosted them into the American League East race.

"I'm doing the same thing every time I get the call — just throwing the sinker," the big right-hander said after earning his 13th save and preserving a 5-1 victory over the Oakland A's.

"There's really not much else I can say. I'm strong enough to pitch often and I won't hurt my arm throwing a lot of breaking pitches because the sinker is my bread and butter, particularly in relief."

Mariners 1, Yankees 0
Larry Milbourne's grounder scored Reggie Walton from third with the game's only run in the ninth inning to give Seattle its victory over New York.

Walton opened the inning with a double off reliever Ron Guidry, 13-10. Guidry had entered the game in the ninth replacing Luis Tiant, who had scattered five hits over the first eight innings.

Mario Mendoza's sacrifice advanced Walton to third, and Milbourne then hit a slow chopper towards second baseman Willie Randolph. Randolph was unable to field the ball cleanly, allowing Walton to score and Milbourne to reach first on the error.

Shane Rawley, 7-6, who gave up only one hit and struck out six in 32-3 innings of relief, was the winner.

Orioles 5, Angels 0

Scott McGregor pitched a three-hitter to lead Baltimore over California and cut the Yankees' lead in the East to 1½ games. It was the sixth straight victory over California for McGregor, 16-7, who has won seven of his last nine decisions.

Ken Singleton's leadoff homer in the fourth inning, his 18th, launched a three-run Oriole rally. Their final runs scored in the sixth on a balk by Dave Lemanczyk and in the seventh on a passed ball by catcher Tom Donohue.

McGregor was unable to explain his success against the Angels.

"I just go out every time and the past really doesn't matter," he said. "I try not to think, just react."

Royals 4, Rangers 3
Frank White singled to drive in Clint Hurdle from second base with one out in the ninth inning and lead Kansas City over Texas. White, who earlier scored two runs, followed Hurdle's double and an intentional walk to Jamie Quirk by drilling reliever Danny Darwin's first pitch into left-center field to end the game.

The Royals' George Brett was held hitless in three at bats with a pair of walks as his major-league leading batting average slipped to .403.

Brewers 11, Tigers 6
Cecil Cooper, Don Money, Dick Davis and Gorman Thomas each belted home runs to power Milwaukee over Detroit.

Mike Caldwell and Reggie Cleveland, 9-8, combined on an eight-hitter as the Brewers won their second straight game following a seven-game losing streak.

Loser Dan Schatzeder, 8-10, was shelled in the fourth when Milwaukee scored five runs to take an 8-3 lead and break the game open.

Blue Jays 7, Twins 1

Lloyd Moseby and Alfredo Griffin hit two-run doubles in a five-run sixth inning as Toronto defeated Minnesota.

Jim Clancy, 13-10, hurled a five-hitter to tie a club pitching record for most victories in a season. The right-hander struck out three and walked eight in registering his 11th complete game of the year.

White Sox 10-8, Indians 8-7

Chet Lemon capped a five-run eighth inning with a three-run homer to lead Chicago over Cleveland in the first game of their doubleheader. Chicago trailed 5-2 entering the eighth before rallying and making a winner of Lamarr Hoyt.

Covering football at Duke University this year is going to be something a little different. We'll personally find out about it this weekend when the Pirates play the Blue Devils.

Wallace Wade Stadium has been refurbished during the past year. For the fans, it will be a much better situation.

For the press, at least this year, it will be a make-shift affair. A new press box is being built, replacing the horribly outdated one that served for so many years. But construction of that project is not anywhere near complete, and there will be no press facilities—for writers at least—on the sidelines until next year.

Instead, the press will be housed in an area at the top of the stands at the enclosed end of the stadium. Radio and tv people, along with film crews, will be in makeshift areas along the sidelines, as will the stat crews.

So spotting of the ball by the press itself will be next to impossible.

All in all, it will be an entirely different view than most of us have ever had. I'm just as glad, however, that it's a one-time trip only.

While Rose High School's opener Friday night certainly was a brilliant one, there remain some questions, and even Coach Dave Bumgarner was at a loss to answer the most important one. Is Rose really as good as it looked, or is Kinston that bad? The answer may lie somewhere in between, but it may take a while to sort it out.

Rose plays Washington this Friday, then takes a week off before playing Enloe of Raleigh in its final non-conference game. Washington is a young team that got off to a poor start last week. Enloe, open this past weekend, opens the season Friday, and unless they have had a big turnaround, they are usually one of the weaker teams in the Cap-Eight Conference.

Rose opens its conference slate against Northern Nash, and it could be then, in the final game of September, before Rose really gets a test of how good the Rampants really are.

For sure, if they don't get it then, they will the following week, when the Rampants play host to Rocky Mount, their chief rival for the championship.

One thing is certain, the Rampants cannot afford to let down at any time. They bear the mark of the favorite, and everyone will be out to get them.

With only one conference berth in the postseason playoffs at stake, a mistake could prove fatal.

A glance at the pre-season Associated Press poll shows that the Pirates will be playing two teams, Florida State and North Carolina, picked for the Top Twenty. Another Pirate foe, N.C. State, was among those getting votes for the elite group. Add to that the fact that Southern Mississippi and Miami of Florida are both tagged by many as possible breakthroughs into the Top Twenty this year, and you have all the makings of a very tough schedule.

Before the year is over, the Pirates could have played as many as five teams that may be ranked in the poll.

It doesn't make Ed Emory's job any easier. Hopefully, too, the controversy over the eligibility of Theodore Sutton and Willie Holley will be settled early in the week. Having to go through the week with that question mark on their shoulders is more than a youngster needs to have.

We remember an instance of some years back involving former Wake Forest basketballer Dave Budd. Always one of a quick temper, Budd was on probation for fisticuffs. In the semifinals of the ACC Tournament, the Deacons, regular season champs, were playing N.C. State, when Budd and another player became entangled on a rebound. The State player emerged with a bleeding scalp. Immediately, there was a hue and cry for Budd's probation to be revoked and that he be banned from the finals—oddly enough against Duke.

Then ACC commissioner Jim Weaver did not come to a decision until nearly 24 hours later, just an hour before game time, that the incident was accidental and that Budd would be eligible. Budd, of course, had spent the night and the next day in such a state that even with the news, he was in no state to play ball that night, and Duke upset the Deacons.

We wouldn't like to see these Pirates subjected to the same treatment. It's already been too long.

Blackwell Talks Cubs To Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Knowing the Chicago Cubs have won only two of 14 extra-inning games, Tim Blackwell did a lot of talking to the ball after he slapped a grounder between first and second in the bottom of the ninth inning Sunday.

"I was watching the ball all the way and I was talking to it, trying to get it to go through," said the Chicago catcher. "I didn't want extra innings. Our record in extra innings isn't very good."

The ball glanced off Astros second baseman Joe Morgan's glove for a single, driving in Scott Thompson from third base with the winning run.

Blackwell said he had only one thing on his mind as the Cubs bounced back with three runs in the bottom of the ninth to edge Houston 8-7 and halt an ignominious record that Chicago was on the verge of setting.

"I was just thinking of winning the game," Blackwell said.

If the Cubs had lost, they would have been the first National League team in modern league history to have been swept in a season series. They had lost their first 11 games of the year to the Astros.

There have been two previous season sweeps in the major leagues, both by Baltimore in the American League. The Orioles swept Kansas City 12-0 in 1970 and Oakland 11-0 in 1978.

The Chicago victory also was only the third in the last 17 games between the two teams and stopped Houston's victory string over the Cubs at 13 straight.

Morgan said he thought he had a chance to make the play but, "I was playing him up the middle because Blackwell hasn't pulled a ball all series."

"I went to my left and when it hit the grass it came up funny," Morgan said. "Still, I could have got him if I controlled the ball."

In other National League games Sunday, Pittsburgh moved into first place in the East Division despite losing to Cincinnati 5-4; Los Angeles took a pair from Montreal, 2-0 and 7-0; San Francisco crushed the New York Mets twice, 11-4 and 9-4; Atlanta stopped St. Louis 6-2 and San Diego clobbered Philadelphia 10-3.

Ivan DeJesus and Bill Buckner singled to open Chicago's ninth-inning rally and Cliff Johnson singled, scoring DeJesus, before Larry Bittner tied the game with a base hit that tallied Buckner.

With runners on first and third and two out, Blackwell singled off loser Frank LaCorte, 8-4, scoring pinch-runner Thompson from third.

Dodgers 2-7, Expos 0-2
Consecutive home runs by Ron Cey, Rick Monday and Joe Ferguson powered Los Angeles to its second-game victory after Jerry Reuss hurled the Dodgers to a first-game win.

Mayo Wins Putt Putt

LaVern Mayo shot a 14-under-par 94 to win the 54-hole Labor Day Open Sunday night at the Greenville Putt Putt Golf Course.

Mayo started the final round in fourth place, five shots back of Henry Beacham, who was at 62. But a final round 27 moved Mayo into first, while Beacham slid to fourth, shooting a 36 for total of 98.

Carl White finished second with a 97 and Mike Brown took third after winning a sudden-death playoff with Beacham.

Allen Elder won Player-of-the-Year honors with 54 points. White was second with 44 points.

over the Montreal Expos. Ferguson added another homer in the nightcap.

The victories were the Dodgers' 10th and 11th straight over Montreal and moved them to within one game of Houston in the NL West. Montreal dropped to third place in the East, percentage points behind Philadelphia.

Ron LeFlore and Warren Cromartie hit bases-empty homers for Montreal in the second game.

Braves 6, Cardinals 2
An RBI double in the sixth inning by Chris Chambliss snapped a 2-2 tie and the first baseman doubled home an insurance run during a three-run rally in the eighth, leading Atlanta over St. Louis.

Pitcher Phil Niekro, 12-14, hurled his 10th complete game, weathering George Hendrick's two-run homer for the Cards.

Dale Murphy blasted his 25th homer of the year in the second inning.

Giants 11-9, Mets 4-4
A run-scoring bloop single by Terry Whitfield in the sixth inning snapped a 4-4 tie and the Giants exploded for four more runs in the eighth to crush the New York Mets in the second game as San Francisco swept a doubleheader.

In the first game, Whitfield belted a two-run single as a pinch hitter, proving the key blow in the Giants' five-run sixth-inning rally that powered San Francisco's victory.

Whitfield had six hits in the doubleheader.

Reds 5, Pirates 4
George Foster blasted his third home run in his last three games, triggering a four-run sixth-inning rally and boosting Cincinnati over Pittsburgh and extending the Pirates' losing streak to seven games.

Foster went 3-for-4 in the game, including a triple in the second inning.

Despite the loss, Pittsburgh took over first place in the NL East. The Pirates had started Sunday in a virtual tie with Montreal for the division lead.

Padres 10, Phillies 3
An error by outfielder Garry Maddox and Ozzie Smith's run-scoring double highlighted a five-run sixth inning which allowed San Diego to come from behind and beat Philadelphia.

Reliever Gary Lucas, 5-7, worked just one inning to pick up the victory while Rollie Fingers hurled hitless ball over the final three innings, earning his 18th save.

Steve Jepson, a junior soccer player for North Carolina Wesleyan, was picked to the team. The honor requires that the student-athlete maintain at least a B average for the two preceding semesters to be eligible for the team.

Jepson is the son of Melvin and Teresa Jepson of Greenville.

Pooley Takes B. C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Standing on the 18th green at the En-Joie Golf Club, Don Pooley asked Lee Trevino who should putt first.

"Go ahead. You've waited long enough," said Trevino, summing up Pooley's rags to riches story before the 29-year-old Pooley put the finishing touches on his first Professional Golfers' Association tour triumph in the $250,000 B.C. Open.

"I didn't press at all to win," said Pooley, who was tied with Trevino entering the final round. "I wasn't obsessed with winning — but I sure wanted it bad."

In a stretch run which belied his inexperience at leadership, Pooley shot a 3-under-par 68 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 271 — 13 under par. He beat Trevino head-to-head, runner-up Peter Jacobsen, and others who teed up earlier with a shot at first.

The $49,500 first prize pushed his 1980 winnings near $150,000 — nearly tripling what Pooley had won before. He needed a PGA commissioner's exemption last winter to keep his tour card after making only $6,932 in 1979.

He also needed a two-shot lead on the 18th hole to beat Jacobsen, who had won his first tournament last week. Jacobsen fired a hot 67 for a four-day total of 272.

Trevino shot 70 Sunday, joining defending champion Howard Twitty and Bob Murphy in a three-way tie for third at 273.

Terry Diehl, another hot finisher with a 67, wound up sixth at 10-under-par 274, southpaw Doug Johnson was seventh at 275, Brad Bryant, just a shot off the lead on the final day, stumbled to a 72 and eighth place-276, and Mike Sullivan, Tom Jenkins and Gary Hallberg were another shot back at 277.

Pooley had to get a "performance extension" from PGA Commissioner Deane Beaman last winter because he failed to win $12,000 on the tour. He said he also was in dire financial straits — owing about $12,000 as the result of one-third each sponsorship by his father, a Riverside, Calif., businesswoman and himself. He went to work in December, winning a pair of mini-tour events in Phoenix.

"I needed a good year to stay on the tour," he said. "I needed a decent year, but I didn't set a money figure. This is far beyond any dream I ever had."

He shot a steady round, taking 33 putts to Jacobsen's 29, paring four holes in the first 17 and missing only the 18th fairway.

Pooley landed in a trap on the last hole, hit his second shot into rough and finally pitched to about 12 feet from the pin, where he two-putted for his only bogey of the round.

"I wanted a high efficiency wood heater..."

"I wanted a fireplace..."

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —
"Beulah Land," the troubled NBC miniseries about love and life on an antebellum cotton plantation, has been billed by its critics as television's "Birth of a Nation" —
a loathsome conscience balm, portraying blacks happily shuffling through slavery.

The criticism was part of the reason NBC delayed showing the film as scheduled last May, and entirely the reason that NBC ordered certain changes in the film and is now in the process of
"selling" it to the press.

For the past few weeks,
NBC has arranged special press screenings of the six-hour miniseries, followed by discussions with the network's "Beulah Land" consultant, Dr. James Blasingame.

And the press, for the most part, has left these sessions muttering "tempest in a teapot," just as NBC had hoped.

Indeed, "Beulah Land" doesn't seem especially racist or derogatory to an eye accustomed to such abominable historical romances as ABC's recently
rerun "Love's Savage Fury." And NBC's point that the institution of slavery is not the focus of "Beulah Land," but the background, seems borne out by the film.

For the most part, the black slaves in "Beulah Land" go about their dreary tasks obligingly. They do not appear to be overly joyous, nor especially reluctant. Resigned.

This is what irks some blacks, who insist that the white-controlled movies and television have for so long sought to ease white guilt

over slavery by portraying it as essentially humane, the media owe some sort of balancing consideration, that is, the black point of view.

For example, in one seemingly benign scene from the movie, a slave woman is shown suckling two children
— one white, one black — at her breast. It's generally accepted that this arrangement was fairly common in the slave-owning South, and the scene would seem not inappropriate in a romantic period fiction.

But Robert Price, a black writer and member of the Coalition to Stop the Airing of "Beulah Land," says, "That scene was conceived of,
written and shot as a thing of joy, from a white man's point of view."

"I would have liked to have seen how the man who slept with that slave woman felt about it, and how she felt about it. Did she do it willingly? If so, why? There is no black point of view in this movie."

Ah, but that is what
"Roots" did, and "Beulah Land," it can be argued, is not trying to be "Roots."
"Beulah Land" is, on its bottom line, a soap opera, nicely photographed but not especially probing.

Or, as one woman opposed to "Beulah Land" said, "It is not revolutionary television."

NBC, at last check, was not in the revolution business.

There were scenes in the script, approved by NBC, that might have been considered blatantly racist. One scene, changed in the airing version, had four slaves being freed in their mistress's will, then asking, "Does this mean we have to leave Beulah Land?"

The implication was that Beulah Land's slaves were so happy, Massah, that they just didn't want their freedom. NBC recognized the objection, and changed the scene.

And the Coalition does have a point in maintaining that in "Beulah Land," slavery is not portrayed as the brutish and dehumanizing institution that it was. NBC would suggest that's not the theme of "Beulah Land."

"There's a feeling among some blacks that there has always been an attempt to justify slavery by showing slaves as being happy," says
Dr. James Comer, a professor of psychiatry at Yale and a descendant of Alabama slaves. "So there's a reaction now that you ought to go the other way, to suggest there was nothing but unhappiness.
My feeling is that there should be a balance, that you should do both, since both conditions did exist."

That, NBC contends, is precisely what "Beulah Land" does.

"It is still derogatory and detrimental," says Robert Price.

You can decide that.
As a soap opera, though,
"Beulah Land" succeeds, employing over its six hours
all the devices (sex, greed, love and deception) one expects of epic romances.
Not uplifting, but nicely
diverting.

More Aides In School

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
North Carolina public schools will have 12,652
teacher aides on duty this fall, enough to place an adult aide in nearly every classroom from kindergarten through the third grade.

The aides are part of Gov.
Jim Hunt's primary reading program, which has cost about $190 million since 1975.

Standardized test results show that North Carolina children have scored better on reading tests since the primary reading program began.

In 1977-78, when about 30 percent of all K-3 classrooms had aides, the state's first, second and third-graders scored slightly below the national average on reading on a test given throughout the nation.

Last school year, when 75 percent of all K-3 classes had aides, and some third-graders had been in two-adult classrooms for three years, the state's first, second and third-graders exceeded the national average.

The state Department of Public Instruction credits the primary reading program
for those results.

"We say there's no doubt about it," said Tom I. Davis, a spokesman for Craig
Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 2, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning can bring some problems you do not need, but the afternoon finds you able to overcome obstacles easily. Listen closely to suggestions made by close ties.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid calling on a difficult person early in the day. Be alert to carelessness on the part of others. Keep safe and sane.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A financial matter needs more study before making a definite decision. Make this a most worthwhile day.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show others that you have poise if some unusual situation comes up today. Be sure not to lose your temper with anyone.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A private matter could be upsetting early in the day, but later everything works out to your advantage.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get rid of whatever is not practical in the morning and later you can be happy with your friends. Relax at home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can take care of an important home matter early in the day and later expand where your career is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Avoid changing present arrangement at work until you have first studied it well. Plan how to gain your finest aims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find a much better way of carrying through with agreements you have made with others. Strive to be more successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Steer clear of an irate associate in the morning and later all will straighten out. Safeguard your reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use extreme care in handling all work ahead of you and avoid possible trouble. Plan how to gain your finest aims.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Doing something special for persons you really like brings excellent results at this time. Express happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Avoid arguments at home early in the day and later there will be real harmony. Make long-range plans for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those capable young persons who can get at the core of a situation and then know how best to handle it. Be sure to give chores early in life that could pave the way to success later. Give fine spiritual training. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Fieldcrest Observes Textile Week

Fieldcrest Mills, Inc. will highlight "Beautiful - Tar Heel Textiles" as the theme for the state's first North Carolina Textile Week this fall, according to J. Melvin Moore, division vice-president of the Karastan Spinning Division in Greenville. The event is scheduled September 29 through October 3.

"Textiles and textile employees are important to our community," Moore said, "and we want to point out the employees' conscientious pride of workmanship and their dedication of time and energy to their churches, schools, civic and community activities."

Moore added that "Fieldcrest wants to show the modernization of the firm's facilities that includes new textile technology, updated health and safety programs, and job opportunities in the textile industry."

Events planned for the observance of the N. C. Textile Week include:

- September 11 - A 25-year club dinner for all Fieldcrest employees in the Greenville plants with 25 or more years service.
- September 25 - A luncheon for City Council members and plant managers of several industries in Greenville to review the progress of textiles in North Carolina. A tour will follow the luncheon at both Fieldcrest locations - Karastan Spinning Plant and Karastan Worsted Plant.
- September 26 - An appearance by Melvin Moore on the "Carolina Today" show.
- October 5 - An open house for employees' families and the public to permit an inside look at manufacturing processes; and
- September 29 - October 5 - Presentations will be given for local civic groups to emphasize the impact that textiles have on the state and community level.

Saturday's Cryptokuip — NO OUTS; BASES LOADED;
 FIRST BASEMAN HITS BEAUTIFUL HOMER.

Today's Cryptokuip clue: T equals H

The Cryptokuip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
 AND OMAR SHARIF
 1980 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AJ94 ♥AQ104 ♦KJ93 ♣8
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♠ Dble. Pass 1 ♥
 Pass ?
 What do you bid now?

A.—You have a useful hand, but remember that partner's response to your takeout double was forced and his strength is limited—with 9-10 points, he would have jumped, and he could have a complete bust. Therefore, you can do no more now than raise to two hearts. That tells partner you have a better than minimum takeout double, and invites him to bid again if he is maximum.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J104 ♥K876 ♠A ♣98532
 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—This is a reasonably good hand. However, it is a whit light for a response at the two-level in clubs, but too good—and too unbalanced—to make the discouraging bid of one no-trump. The obvious choice is a raise to two spades—and that applies whether you play four- or five-card majors.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J6 ♥AKJ72 ♦AJ62 ♣95
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
 What do you bid now?

A.—When you have a two-suited hand, it is usually more important to tell partner about your shape than to let him know that you have a five-card major suit. Therefore, you should choose two diamonds as your bid.

If the diamond suit were unbidable and your hand were weaker, we would consider rebidding two hearts.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKQ6 ♥K98 ♦6 ♣J10872
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South
 1 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
 What action do you take?

A.—East has made matters awkward with his preempt—but then, that's what he set out to do. There is no question that your side belongs in game, perhaps even in slam. Three hearts is an underbid, and either three spades, four clubs or four hearts could lead to an inferior contract. Probably the most versatile bid available to you is a cue-bid of four diamonds. That should, at least, get you to the best strain even if the level might not be high enough.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ10973 ♥AQ82 ♦KJ7
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?
 What action do you take?

A.—Even though partner did not cooperate with your slam effort, you should not abandon hope—he might still have the right cards to enable you to fulfill a small slam. Cue-bid five clubs. If partner shows some signs of life by cue-bidding either five hearts or five diamonds, we would venture six spades.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK6 ♥AK95 ♦J92 ♠A74
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♥ Dble. Pass 1 ♠ 1 NT Pass Pass 2 ♠ ?
 What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Quite likely you

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Fundamentalists are looking to 1984 and conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms to give them an impact on state politics.

Fundamentalists say they plan to sell Helms on the idea of running for governor four years from now.

Political observers say that plan is farfetched at best, and Helms agrees, saying, "No sir, I've got the only public job I ever wanted. If the filing deadline (for 1984) were today, my filing fee (for the Senate) would be right there."

"Our main hope is 1984," says the Rev. Kent Kelly of Southern Pines, one of the state's top fundamentalists. "And you heard it here first...I think Helms can be sold on the idea of governor."

The fact that Kelly and some of his colleagues would like to see Helms run for governor reinforces what some politicians are saying about fundamentalists' political notions. The politicians say the fundamentalists are politically naive and remain tied to the political star of Helms and that they have yet to demonstrate major influence on the state's 1980 politics.

Fundamentalist leaders admit they may have made some mistakes in this year's primaries by attempting to involve themselves in too many races.

They hope to do better this fall, backing Republican presidential candidate

Martin CC Schedule Announced

WILLIAMSTON — Fall quarter orientation and registration for new day students who plan to enroll at Martin Community College has been scheduled for Wednesday, September 3 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Orientation and registration for new evening students will be held from 6 until 9 p.m. on the same day.

Returning day students should report for registration on Thursday, September 4 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Registration for returning evening students will also be held on September 4 from 6 until 9 p.m.

Classes will begin on Monday, September 8. The last day to register, pay fees and enroll for the fall quarter will be Wednesday, September 10.

Students may enroll in a variety of programs for the fall quarter. The college transfer division offers programs in pre-business administration, pre-business education, pre-liberal arts, pre-social work, pre-teaching (elementary and special education), pre-teaching (secondary) and general education.

Programs offered in the technical division include architectural drafting technology, business administration, criminal justice technology, industrial maintenance technology and secretarial-executive.

One-year vocational course offerings include automotive mechanics, carpentry, cosmetology, electrical installation, industrial maintenance mechanics, medical office assistant and welding. Most of the above programs are offered both day and evening.

Persons interested in enrolling for the fall quarter at Martin Community College should contact the Student Affairs Office immediately but not later than September 4. Telephone, 792-1521.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy Wednesday through Friday. Highs mostly in 80s with lows in the 60s except low 70s near the coast.

can defeat two spades because you have book in your own hand. However, you won't get rich by doubling two spades and, if either opponent has a singleton heart, you might rue a penalty double even if your partner contributes a trick to the defense—a possibility which is by no means certain.

Ronald Reagan, I. Beverly Lake Jr., the GOP gubernatorial nominee, and John P. East, the GOP nominee for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Robert B. Morgan.

The fundamentalists are expected to have little impact on state races, despite the fact that they have a champion in Lake. Gov. Jim Hunt's win over former Gov. Bob Scott has taken away some of their optimism for a Lake victory over Hunt.

"I'm not deluded into thinking that Lake will win," Kelly said. "I think his best hope is to make a good showing."

Kelly, administrator of Calvary Christian School in Southern Pines, has been a chief spokesman for the fundamentalists since they emerged as a political force in the state in 1979. It was then that the group, with the help of Lake, won a legislative battle freeing their church schools from state regulations.

Kelly and the Rev. Daniel Carr of Louisburg have set up a statewide fundamentalist organization.

Carr is director of both the Churches of Life and Liberty and its political action committee, Friends of Life and Liberty.

Carr, until recently, worked out of Helms' Congressional Club offices in Raleigh but now works out of an office in his home.

Carr and Kelly have denied that moving the office indicated friction between them and club officials. Republican sources have said that club officials were displeased by the decision of Carr and Kelly to back Democrat Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green over William Cöbey, the club-sponsored GOP nominee. Green won a close victory over House Speaker Carl Stewart Jr. in the Democratic primary. Kelly said fundamentalists had an effect on that race. "I don't think there is any doubt that Carl Stewart would have won if we hadn't been as active for Green," he said.
