Pitt Bd. Votes Apply Freeze On Hiring

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners yesterday voted to freeze hiring by county departments and agencies because of concern over a possible decline in revenues from the projected income levels used in the preparation of the 1980-1981 budget.

Gray explained that last year's budget was based on sales tax revenues of $1.85 million, while the county actually received $1.95 million. "I projected we would receive $2.13 million this year. We received $447,891 for the first quarter — $40,000 less than last year and $84,699 less than I had projected." Based on the first quarter payment, Gray projected that the sales tax revenue for the current year might total only $1.79 million. "Bill Smith (county tax collector) just told you he collected $336,000 more last year," than he had to date this year, Gray added. "The third thing, the intangible tax allotment for this year was projected at $419,000. Only $364,000 was collected.

"I just wanted to bring this to your attention. I hate to say this but it looks like a hiring freeze is the best thing." The recommended hiring freeze was not a complete surprise to commissioners. Gray, in his budget message to the board in June, said, "the revenue estimates are very disappointing...much of which has to do with the economy and factors beyond local control. Our total revenue estimates and our actual collections for the fiscal year 1979-1980 will be too close for comfort." When the 1980-1981 budget was approved on June 27, Gray told commissioners the budget included a projected nine percent growth in sales tax revenues for the coming fiscal year. "If we start having drops in revenue, then we're going to have to freeze some positions. We're going to have to watch it." In approving the hiring freeze, commissioners indicated that in emergency situations, requests for new personnel could be brought to the board for approval. In other business yesterday the board approved the acceptance of $52,165 in state and federal Day Care funds for the Department of Social Services, and approved a request for $8,914 in surplus Social Service funds to match an $85,085 grant in State Home Service funds for the CHORE service program. Commissioners also approved minor renovations to the tax supervisor's office; designated the week of September 8-12 as "Clean Up Litter in Pitt County Week;" and approved an easement across Pitt Memorial Hospital property as requested by the Greenville Utilities Commission. The board also appointed Mrs. Lawrence Lewis to the Juvenile Task Force to replace Eunice Clemmons who has resigned; named Darrell Williams as a member of the Greenville Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Board to replace William Tingen who has resigned; reappointed Earl Keel from Farmville Township as a member of the county planning board and appointed Billy Elks of Chicod and Bill Bilbro of Greenville Township to the planning board; and appointed Maxine Brown and Ms. Pam Michael as members of the Pitt County Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped.

Award Bids On Water Treatment Plant

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Bids totaling some $8,837,021 and representing nine of the ten contract segments of the city's proposed new water treatment facility were awarded Tuesday by the Greenville Utilities Commission. The commissioners, meeting in a special noon call session, discussed the water treatment package with GUC director Charles Horne and representatives from the commission's consulting engineering firm of Olsen Associates Inc. before approving the project bids. The overall bid package, evaluated by Olsen Associates, totaled $10,299,021, but commissioners agreed to delay action until next week's regular GUC meeting on a $1,462,000 proposal submitted by S. T. Wooten Construction Co. of Wilson for the facility's presettling impoundment. Commissioners agreed that the length of the warranty on a polyethylene liner for the impoundment should be discussed further before the bid is approved. Horne explained that the treatment plant bids were highly competitive and low offers came in "close to what the engineers had estimated." Included in the contracts awarded Tuesday were: $5,075,200 for general construction, Lee Construction Co. of Charlotte; $1,844,000 for filter equipment for the water filtration plant, Roberts Filter Manufacturing Co., Darby, Pa.; $86,750 for plumbing, Jessup Co. of Greensboro; $124,000 for heating, ventilation and air conditioning, Southern Piping Co., Wilson;

To Move Pitt County Landfill

The Pitt County sanitary landfill, located behind Greenwood Cemetery off East Fifth Street in Greenville, will close and will not accept wastes after 4 p.m. Friday, Don Davenport, administrative assistant to the county manager said today.

According to Davenport, landfill operations will be moved to the county landfill site off secondary road 1203 (the Allen Road), which will open September 6 — Saturday. The Allen Road landfill will be open for business Saturday at 7 a.m. The hours of operation for the landfill will continue to be Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m. and on Saturday from 7 a.m. until 12 noon. The Allen Road landfill, Davenport said, will accept all solid waste from Pitt County citizens. There is no fee charged for use of the landfill, he noted. The county took over the operations of the former City of Greenville landfill July 1, 1978. "It's full now," County manager Reginald Gray said. The landfill, "filled up quicker than we anticipated," because there was, "just more garbage...than we anticipated." He noted that the old Greenville landfill site might have lasted another year, except for the fact that a 100-foot-wide strip was left unfilled through the middle of the site. He explained that, "the utilities (Greenville Utilities Commission) have a sewer line 20 feet underground," through the site and, "didn't want 20 feet of garbage on top of that."

Salary Supplement And Teacher Evaluation Is Before School Board

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
A salary supplement for vocational teachers and a revised teacher evaluation plan were the major topics when the Pitt County Board of Education met Tuesday for its monthly meeting.

The board approved, for one year, a salary supplement for vocational teachers and a set of requirements that must be met by the teachers who receive the supplement. The state will provide 70 percent of the money, which amounts to $35, and the county will provide 30 percent. The supplements will cost the school system around $6,000 per year. To receive the supplement, vocational teachers must as part of their contract agree to be involved with youth groups and activities in the community as well as the school, in addition to several other requirements.

Director of Vocational Education Carl Toot explained the purpose of the state-county supplement, saying, "Many of these teachers find themselves spending time after school and on weekends involved with student activities as well as student problems. This supplement was an effort on the state's part to recognize this time spent and reward it."

The requirements set by the board will differ with each school and individual. All vocational teachers will be granted the supplement this year with future supplements dependent upon meeting requirements. The board also discussed adoption of a revised teacher evaluation plan. The original plan called for a written self-evaluation from both tenured and non-tenured teachers and ran into severe criticism from teachers last spring before adoption. The plan presented yesterday retains the written self-evaluation as well as several other tenets of the first plan, including a five-point rating system that goes from outstanding to incompetent for non-tenured teachers.

Two significant differences in the plans include the fact that in the new plan, the supervisor will not be routinely sent a copy of the evaluation and that tenured teachers, after three consecutive years of satisfactory or outstanding ratings, will only be evaluated every three years.

Having the supervisor receive a copy of the evaluation was one of the teachers' strongest objections to the plan. According to Superintendent Ott Alford, "With the new plan, the principal will be totally in charge of the evaluation rather than the supervisor, unless it is requested for some reason that the supervisor receive a copy of the evaluation."

President of the Pitt County chapter of the North Carolina Association of Educators Annette McRae asked the board to delay a vote on the plan until teachers had a chance to see the plan and comment on it. "Teachers expressed several grievances last year with the plan and from what I have seen of it, these grievances have not been met with the new plan," she explained. "I think we need time to look it over and have some input from the

($518,000 for the electrical work, Electricon Inc., Kinston; $157,381 for service water pumps, Byron Jackson Inc. of Charlotte; $98,405 for the raw water pumping station and intake structure, Robert Bossow Inc., Garrettsville, Ohio; and $33,285 for the electrical segment of the pumping station work.)

Horne explained that the construction contract for the new plant, to be located on a site of approximately 100 acres north of the Tar River and west of the airport, will call for the facility to be completed within two years.

Commissioners questioned the construction coordination involving the various contractors and Jim Brown, P.E., of Olsen Associates pointed that his firm would have an on-site or resident observer on hand throughout the development of the plant project. Brown emphasized, however, that from a legal standpoint, the observer could not dictate the construction schedule.

The Olsen representative said that contractors on such a job have a track record of coordinating their functions as much as possible in meeting the overall timetable and generally welcomed comments from the engineer observer.

In other business on the call agenda, commissioners awarded the contract on the White Road water system extension project to S. T. Wooten Construction Co. of Wilson in the amount of $171,867.50.

Horne said that he was amazed at the number of bids (13) received on the extension project and he observed that the competition among bidders helped to keep the price offers on a lower cost level. The bids ranged from the Wooten offer up to $243,550.

The White Road project completes the southern loop of the water system, he reported, and opens up future development possibilities.

Bidding competition was also cited as a factor in the level of proposals received on the sanitary sewer extensions for the newly annexed areas involving Red Oak, Oakdale and vicinities. Commissioners approved the low bid of T. A. Loving Co. of Goldsboro amounting to $577,796.50. The Loving Co. bid was one of nine received on the sewer extension project, scheduled for completion in 12 months or less.

Horne said that the White Road and sanitary sewer extension projects both were below budget estimates for the respective work.

Hope University Towers Will Be Fully Occupied In Mid-September

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The housing authority hopes to have all 60 units in the new University Towers mid-rise for the elderly here leased by the middle of September, it was reported at Tuesday night's meeting. Joe Laney, the authority's executive director, said that 46 of the apartments are now leased and nine more are in the process of being rented. The remaining five should be occupied soon, Laney reported. The executive director pointed out that a 75 percent to 25 percent ratio of white to black residents will probably be realized in the mid-rise, located between E. Third and E. Fourth Streets, upon total occupancy. Laney said that operations at University Towers are going "very well" now with minor problems normally found in a new structure being discovered and corrected. He said that he has heard some complaints concerning landscaping at the site and he pointed out that the work will be completed later in the fall when conditions are more favorable for planting. Money is included in the project budget for landscaping and the work will be done, Laney emphasized. Commissioners last night approved a new schedule of low rent public housing income limits, as recommended by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under the schedule, the income limit for a single tenant in order to be eligible for public housing occupancy will be $6,900 per year, as opposed to the present limit of $6,100, while the limit for two persons in a unit will be $7,900, up from the present $6,950.

The other limits under the new schedule, compared with the present limits, include: three member family, $8,850 (new), $7,850 (old schedule); four members, $9,850, $8,700; five members, $10,450, $9,250; six members, $11,100, $9,800; seven members, $11,700, $10,350; and eight or more members, $12,300, $10,900. The new limits will be effective Oct. 1, Laney said. Commissioners also authorized the execution of an annual contributions contract with HUD for 75 units of Section Eight existing housing under the moderate rehabilitation program. The Authority had applied for 45 units under the program, Laney noted, but HUD asked if Greenville would be interested in 75 units.

He mentioned that the units involved in the program require modest repairs on the part of the owner in order to qualify. Most of the units are targeted for the Community Development project areas of the city. (Please turn to Page 16)

STUDENT ABSENCES

DUE TO TOBACCO HARVEST

This year the late harvest of tobacco has placed many Pitt County farmers in a dilemma on whether to keep older children home to provide needed help for the last harvest days. I would like to know if there is any way the county school administration can give special consideration for time lost from school where it is necessary to keep children home to help in the harvest. In my case keeping a child home for work is not something done without serious misgivings, but at the same time getting the final harvesting done on time can result in the difference between no profit and a small margin of profit for our family. What can be done? C. T.

The Pitt County Board of Educated voted Tuesday that county school students who are needed to harvest tobacco by their families will be allowed to miss school days during the next two weeks.

"Youngsters who are actually involved in harvest of tobacco and need to be absent," said Superintendent Ott Alford, "will not have these absences go against them during the next week or two."

Students absent for any other reason will have the absence count as one of the 30 per student allowed by the board.

Empty Barn Burned

BARN LOST — An empty tobacco barn on the Thigpen Farm on N.C. 33-U.S. 264 East, one mile from the Greenville city limits, was destroyed by a fire discovered shortly after 4 p.m. Tuesday. Staton-House Fire Department responded to the call and was able to save two nearby barns — one of which received some outside damage. Owners of the property, Ed and Thelma Switzer, said the barns had not been used for curing tobacco and that they had just spent several hundred dollars having them repaired to prevent deterioration. Both Switzers praised the prompt response by Staton-House personnel and their success in saving the two nearby structures. "They really did a great job," Switzer said. Estimate of the value of the loss incurred and origin of the fire had not been determined. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Begin Says No Relaxing Hold

JERUSALEM (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Sol Linowitz flew to Cairo today with proposals he said should "improve the atmosphere" between Israel and Egypt.

But Prime Minister Menachem Begin ruled out any relaxation of Israel's hold on East Jerusalem and said he would accept President Anwar Sadat's proposal for another summit meeting with President Carter only after Egypt resumes negotiations with Israel on Palestinian autonomy.

Linowitz, Carter's special envoy for the Middle East, expressed hope that his meetings Monday and Tuesday with Begin produced some progress toward a resumption of the stalled autonomy talks. He said they "agreed certain things will be done to improve the atmosphere" and he was taking "some suggestions" to Cairo.

Begin, without providing details, told reporters they "agreed on a certain document" which Linowitz would deliver to Sadat, "and we worked on another document which I believe can be acceptable to all partners."

But he again rejected any Israeli concessions on East Jerusalem, the predominantly Arab sector which Israel annexed after taking it from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

"We are not obliged to make concessions and we did not make them," said Begin. Sadat broke off the deadlocked autonomy talks after the Israeli Parliament adopted a law in late July formally declaring all of Jerusalem the eternal, indivisible capital of the Jewish state. Sadat then suggested that he, Begin and Carter meet after the U.S. presidential elections to get the talks going again.

"We agree to both resumption of the autonomy talks and consultation with President Carter about the possibility and place of summit talks," said Begin. "Any time, we don't object. But first of all we must resume our talks."

Linowitz also was cool to the summit proposal. He said Carter was prepared to meet with Begin and Sadat any time he believed it would be helpful, but "a summit without adequate preparation, without groundwork to assure maximum prospects for success, would not be a well-advised move."

In Cairo, Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly predicted failure for Linowitz's mission unless Israel repealed the Jerusalem law. He told the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram Israel must assure Egypt that the future of East Jerusalem can be negotiated within the framework of the Camp David accords.

The goal of the negotiations is a plan for self-rule for the 1.2 million Palestinians living on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, which Israel captured in the 1967 war along with East Jerusalem. But Israel rejects the Arab contention that East Jerusalem is part of the West Bank, saying that its annexation reunited Israel's ancient capital and it is going to stay that way.

Harassment Can Work Both Ways

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Numerous organizations have been formed to protect women against sexual harassment by their supervisors, but to my knowledge none has been formed to protect us men.

As president of a large corporation and formerly holding numerous executive positions, I know that women are equally aggressive in offering their favors, but more subtle in their approach, i.e.:

"My husband is out of town, so why don't you come over and swim with me in our pool?"

Or, "I'm so tired. Will you buy me a drink after work?"

Or, "My car has broken down. I'll pour you a cool one if you'll drive me home."

I've had female employees lean down and brush my arm with their breasts, or sit unnecessarily close while taking dictation, exposing a leg up to the thigh through a slit skirt. I've had them tell me they admire my body. Some have even come right out and said they'd like to go to bed with me! Of course, a man who turns down a lady's favors hurls the ultimate insult.

I seriously question that any woman must submit to sexual overtures to hold her job. I suspect if she gets involved with her boss, it was her idea.

So how about an organization to protect men from aggressive female employees? This letter will never see print, but at least I got it off my chest.

HARRASSED IN GARLAND, TEXAS

DEAR HARRASSED: I'm all for equality. Why don't you round up other men who need protection against female harassment and form a protective society?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying in your column that doctors can treat kids for VD without telling the kids' parents. I never knew that. I am a 16-year-old boy who has been worried about having VD for the past three months, but I was afraid to do anything about it.

After I read your column, I called our family doctor and asked him if he would see me without telling my folks. He said to come right down and everything would be confidential. I went and found out I had gonorrhea. That wonderful doctor treated me for it and didn't charge me anything. I'm saving my money, and come Christmas he's going to get a very fine present from me. Thank you, too, Abby.

WINNETKA READER

DEAR READER: If there are any other young readers out there who are afraid to see a doctor, telephone your county public health department (the number is in your telephone directory), level with them, and they will provide a confidential examination and treatment if necessary. If they refuse, write to me immediately, and I will tell you where you can get help.

Only Time Will Tell

It would not be difficult to envision sitting in on one of history's great events in watching the developments in Poland whereby workers have won important freedom concessions from the communist government.

We could compare the event with the signing of the Magna Carta, or the American revolution, or the French revolution.

Alas, while the Polish worker's strike may eventually prove to be that important in shaping the course of history, it is too soon to judge it so.

This is not to underestimate the magnitude of what the Polish workers have achieved. What they did was extremely brave. They risked the ire of their own government and the possibility of being crushed by the Soviet armies.

It was a gamble they won. They have, on paper at least, the right to free trade unions and other important concessions to individual freedoms.

But, will their government live up to the agreement? Will the Soviets pressure the Polish communist party to negate the hard won gains?

And, equally important, will this be the spark which strikes the fires of freedom in other communist lands?

Only time will provide the answers to these questions and with the answers we will learn whether the world has taken a new direction in human rights.

Communist Myth Has Fallen

If the Polish workers' victory of the weekend accomplishes nothing else it puts to rest a myth. That is the myth of the communist world being a worker's paradise.

It is no such thing. The communist party is supreme in such a society and few of the workers ever get the chance to participate in party activities. The workers become slaves to the party, which, whether headed by an individual or a collective group, is the real dictator of the country and its peoples.

This is what the Polish workers were rising against, and their winning represents immense danger to the little groups which rule the communist worker.

Karl Marx represented an alternative to workers who were already oppressed.

His philosophy was a ruse, however. It was only another route to gaining absolute power.

The communist doctrine fell as a believable alternative with the Polish workers uprising. Communism truthfully offers the worker nothing.

PARTICULARLY IN HIS OWN CASE!

MORRIS

Simply Nobody Told Him

BY ART BUCHWALD

"OK, Ronnie, can we go over it once again? This is the People's Republic of China. It has one billion people and because it is scared silly of the Soviet Union it is tilting toward the United States." "And what about the real China?" "It's not called China. It's called Taiwan. It's this little island on the map over here. There can't be two Chinas." "There were two when I was on 'Death Valley Days.'" "Well, all that has changed."

"Who changed it?" "Nixon and Kissinger. They decided that recognizing a China with a billion people would upset the Russians a lot more than pretending this island over here was the real China." "What about Chiang Kai-shek's plans to invade the mainland and take Peking back?" "Ronnie, Chiang Kai-shek is dead." "What a pity. I better send George Bush to his funeral." "He died some time ago. Besides, George is now in the People's Republic of China—that's this big area here—talking to the Chinese leaders who run the country."

"What's he doing there?" "He's trying to explain to them that you didn't mean what you said about two Chinas."

"He has some nerve. Has anyone done the security check on him?" "Ronnie, I know you like to live in the past. But if you become president you have to think of the future. Nixon would have never recognized the People's Republic of China if it hadn't been in the United States' national interest."

"But what will I tell all my friends? They were all hoping that when I became president I would free mainland China from communism."

"Your friends will understand if you just show them this map. Explain to them that even Taiwan has faced up to the fact that there can't be two Chinas and is willing to go along with the status quo, providing the People's Republic doesn't move in on them."

"I don't trust Mao Tse-tung and never have." "Mao Yse-tung is dead, Ronnie."

"We'll send word to George Bush not to go to the funeral." "Mao died a long while back. We don't have to deal with that problem."

"Why didn't someone inform me? This could be a golden opportunity to attack the mainland. We could send our Marines up there through Vietnam and surprise them." "We're not in Vietnam anymore, Ronnie. We've been out of there since 1974." "How can I be president of the United States if nobody tells me these things?"

"That's why we're having this briefing. We want you to be up on things. We want you to be up on everything. A lot has happened around the globe since World War II."

"I don't like it one bit. The next thing you know mainland China will want to send over a ping pong team. What do I tell the other China then?"

"You'll think of something, Ronnie. We're not making you America's greatest statesman for nothing."

report in the publication American Demographics that "back-to-the-city is the demographic misnomer of the decade."

For everyone who moved into a central city during the 1970s, nearly two left, he states, adding his opinion that rates of movement from the cities may continue to increase during the decade of the 1980s.

What actually occurred, he contends, is that people did move back into certain neighborhoods of downtown areas, refurbishing and revitalizing them and generating a lot of attention, and praise and damnation too.

They were praised, of course, for cleaning up, for adding to the tax base, for creating what many perceived to be a desirable way of life. They were sometimes damned for displacing the local residents.

Whatever, they and their efforts attracted much attention and led to a spate of newspaper and magazine articles, such as the report in the 1978 Saturday Review about the "monumental re-

Following In Bella's Steps

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BUFFALO, N.Y. — It was the wonderful world of New York Democratic politics here when Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, who has spent her four terms in Congress following the trail blazed by Bella Abzug in trashing the defense program, concluded a debate by declaring: "I stand for a strong defense."

Holtzman was clever enough to save this remarkable declaration for the final moments of a televised one-hour debate of candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for the Senate, thereby preventing rebuttal. But that she was able to make the claim at all means her opponents have flinched at hammering away against her record, either in debate sponsored by the Buffalo Courier-Express or before it.

Since four-term, 76-year-old liberal Republican Sen. Jacob Javits is vulnerable, a U.S. Senate seat may well be at stake. But transcending New York, Holtzman's candidacy represents Democratic activists who seek and often win nomination from rank-and-file Democrats with antithetical views on defense and the world communist menace.

Holtzman is Abzug's political goddaughter in more ways than one. She has followed Abzug's trail in voting no to every single defense appropriations or authorization bill since the day she was sworn in. She has also followed Bella's campaign tactic of keeping covered her exotic views on national security and instead campaigning as a bread-and-butter liberal. She goes her role model one better, however, by claiming to "stand for a strong national defense."

To the ordinary voter watching the Buffalo debate over statewide television, there seemed no fundamental disagreement between Holtzman and her principal opponent in the Sept. 16 primary, former Miss America Bess Myerson. Holtzman just came over as smarter, better organized and not quite so nice.

The reason is that Myerson's managers have not fully digested the lesson courageously taught by Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan when he defeated Abzug, then a member of Congress, in their classic 1976 battle for the Senate nomination: There is no reason why a liberal Democrat cannot be pro-defense and anti-communist.

Myerson, vigorously supported by Moynihan, started off last March as his apt pupil. For the first time, Holtzman was not painted as the fearless young lady from Brooklyn who starred in the Nixon impeachment hearings but as an anti-defense trasher.

That was before Myerson prevailed on David Garth, the Manhattan-based media wizard, to run her campaign. Garth's theme is her claimed ability to get more federal dollars for New York. She has been advised not to engage in a "cat fight" with Holtzman while former Mayor John V. Lindsay, running a poor third in the polls, smiles indulgently.

Such advice often runs counter to Myerson's instinct that Holtzman's defense record could alienate Holtzman's heavy Jewish support. How is it possible to support Israel while voting against production of the weapons it needs? Yet, when Lindsay (no cold warrior) opened the Buffalo debate by criticizing Holtzman's defense record, Myerson kept off that subject in fear of starting a "cat fight."

At the New York Times debate, Myerson did get in the first licks on defense. But she is no Pat Moynihan, fresh from the floor of the United Nations hurling thunderbolts at the totalitarian left. Her argument in private, that Holtzman's defense record is a menace to the nation's survival in public comes over as complaints that it impedes logrolling for federal dollars to New York.

Myerson is under wraps. She has been advised that Moynihan started declining in the polls when he attacked Abzug in 1976. Actually in late August that year Moynihan was dead in the water; he revived by opening up Abzug's invitingly vulnerable record on defense.

Holtzman's record is no less inviting. She has voted for only two military bills: to increase the number of racial counselors (1973) and for extra pay to doctors (1974). She has voted against every new weapons system and for every cut in spending, except for one on aircraft engines destined for Israel.

She has opposed President Carter's modest increases in defense spending, talked about cutting $20 billion from the defense budget and inserted in the Congressional Record a "thought-provoking" analysis of how to cut $50 billion. While fighting foreign aid to friendly authoritarian regimes, she battles for money to Marxist dictatorships.

N.C. Comparisons

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Inevitably, people like to compare themselves to others; whether the comparison means anything important or not.

In government, statistical comparisons are particularly important. Reams and reams of paper are consumed in periodical production of statistical analyses and comparisons. The public latches onto these comparisons, selectively, and it is not at all unusual to hear people all across North Carolina from time to time reciting where this state stands in relation to neighbors and states elsewhere.

Usually, the reference is to "below national average" and efforts to catch up, as in income, student achievement, and such. Thus the popular coinage of "Thank God for Mississippi" whenever North Carolina falls, as she does at times next to the bottom nationally in some currently worrisome category.

Charles W. Creech, a statistical research specialist with the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction has undertaken production of the most recent edition of "How North Carolina Ranks Educationally Among the 50 States", and with schools re-opening at this time, a review of some of those rankings seems in order.

Changing Creech cautions of the numerous variables which can affect statistical outcomes. "The status of education in North Carolina changes from year to year. When compared to other states and the Nation as a whole, North Carolina may be making great strides in some areas while falling behind in others," he notes. Nonetheless, the data is important to those who keep close tabs on education, not only because of its importance to future generations of Tar Heels, but because it is the biggest and most expensive enterprise undertaken by state and local governments.

Underlining all comparisons, it is important to remember that North Carolina ranks 11th in the nation in population. That is, there are 10 more states with more people.

Total population is more than 5.5 million; and there are more than 1.2 million children enrolled in the public elementary and secondary schools. Nine states have more children enrolled in the public schools, and North Carolina drops down to 14th place in terms of school-age population enrolled in public schools. That signals higher-than-average private school enrollment.

When it comes to those enrolled who attend classes, North Carolina drops far below the national average, signalling a significant tru-

Other Editors Say Preventing Turmoil

(Carteret News-Times)

No one wins when public actions are kept secret or even partially under wraps.

Take the current uproar over a possible change in Emerald Isle's burglar alarm monitoring system as an example. At the last town board meeting, one commissioner urged that a new monitoring system be purchased. The old system has caused problems, he said, especially with false alarms. The potential for a burglar to sabotage the old system is also there, the commissioner said.

All that is fine and good. But then it got out of hand. This same commissioner said he had a new system in mind, one which he urged the town board to approve immediately.

Hold it, another commissioner said. Shouldn't the board conduct a public meeting first before deciding so that all those interested residents could be told about the system and all their questions be answered? Shouldn't the residents be allowed to have a say in something they will have to purchase?

No, said the commissioner proposing the change. No, said the rest of the town board.

Because of that decision, residents of Emerald Isle now lack an understanding of what is going to happen to their burglar alarm systems. Some feel they will have to replace their entire system at a large cost. Others say they will just turn elsewhere for protection. Few, if any, openly support the town in its decision.

How much simpler it would have been for the board to wait one month and to conduct a public information session on burglar alarms. How much better it would have been for the image of the town board. How much better it would have been for those residents now completely misinformed about the issue.

Maybe this current uproar will ring a little alarm in the commissioner's thoughts and prevent future actions that would keep the public's business out of the public's eyes.

Urban Immigration Said Myth

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — According to mayors of some of the nation's biggest and oldest cities, one of the greatest population shifts in recent years has been the return of families and individuals to the city.

The mayors sought and received a lot of attention in promoting this notion, and many of them truly believed it themselves, even when the Census Bureau came up with some disagreeably negative information.

The census people found that population decreased in many of these major cities, bringing immediate condemnation from the mayors and creating a furor that may be decided as much by courts as calculators.

Meanwhile, John Goodman, Jr., a researcher with the Urban Institute, had been doing his own studies, for which he received no publicity from the mayors. According to him, the urban immigration is a myth.

No issue straddling for Goodman. He found out enough about the subject to report in the publication American Demographics that "back-to-the-city is the demographic misnomer of the decade."

For everyone who moved into a central city during the 1970s, nearly two left, he states, adding his opinion that rates of movement from the cities may continue to increase during the decade of the 1980s.

What actually occurred, he contends, is that people did move back into certain neighborhoods of downtown areas, refurbishing and revitalizing them and generating a lot of attention, and praise and damnation too.

They were praised, of course, for cleaning up, for adding to the tax base, for creating what many perceived to be a desirable way of life. They were sometimes damned for displacing the local residents.

Whatever, they and their efforts attracted much attention and led to a spate of newspaper and magazine articles, such as the report in the 1978 Saturday Review about the "monumental renaissance" of Atlanta, Birmingham, Cincinnati, Detroit, Hartford and Minneapolis.

Goodman argues that a misimpression was created because "a back-to-the-city article has the attraction of a man-bites-dog story."

You could speculate, he says, that for every case of a white, middle-class, childless couple moving from the suburbs to an inner-city neighborhood and renovating an older house there has been an article.

Yes, but many people did move into older neighborhoods and renovate them, and the evidence is there for all to see. True, says Goodman, but many of those people came not from without the city but from within.

And why does he suspect a continuation of the trend out from the cities? For one thing, he says, those who have the money usually want to own a home, and most opportunities are still in the suburbs.

Some special characteristics of the population also lend credence to his thesis. We now have, for example, the coming of age of the post-World War II baby boom. They are now into the homebuying age categories.

In addition, he suggests, many women have remained childless to an older age than in previous generations. But, if they finally do become parents, "as most will, if current indications hold true," the suburbs may become more attractive to them than the urban neighborhood.

Goodman's contentions won't end the argument, but they do offer some enlightenment about the perplexing problem of where all the people went. They never were, he says. The migration just wasn't so.

True, there was a lot of shifting about, but according to Goodman a good part of it was from one section of the city to the other. And true, the shifts were very visible and created a lot of attention.

But, he concludes, in terms of numbers of people it just didn't add up to what we thought it was.

Giving blood is easy.
Needing it is hard.
We're counting on you.

Back to the Capital

The nation's 100 senators and 435 representatives are due to be back in Washington, D.C., today, as Congress is scheduled to reconvene. The federal government had no permanent capital from 1776, when patriots signed the Declaration of Independence, until 1800, when the government moved to Washington, D.C. The Continental Congress, and later the Congress set up by the Articles of Confederation, met in a number of different cities, including Philadelphia, Baltimore, and New York City. After long disagreement about where the permanent capital should be located, George Washington personally chose the present site. In the autumn of 1800, the government moved to the nation's new capital.

DO YOU KNOW - By what river is Washington, D.C., located?

Two Abandoned Babies Share Hospital Ward

By PAUL RAE BURN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Somebody left tiny John Doe 1 in a hospital nursery when he was less than 2 hours old. Baby John Doe 2 was found in a cardboard tomato crate on a grocery doorstep.

Nameless and homeless, they share the same ward at San Francisco General Hospital.

"They'll probably stay here a couple of weeks, and then be placed in foster homes," said nursing supervisor Leonard Jones.

The fair, blue-eyed baby found early Tuesday outside the grocery is so undernourished that although he is at least 5 months old, he weighs only seven pounds and is scarcely larger than the newborn, hospital officials said.

Doctors estimate he is 5 to 7 months old because he has two small teeth. They are worried he may have suffered brain damage as a result of the malnutrition, but they say he is alert and in good condition.

John Doe 2, as the hospital identifies him, was found wearing a blue suit and wool poncho, police said. A purple plastic heart the size of a 50-cent piece was pinned to the poncho.

Police have only one clue to the child's identity. A utility company worker provided a description of a woman carrying a bundle near the store in downtown San Francisco where the baby was discovered by a passerby shortly after 3 a.m.

Police have no leads in the case of John Doe 1, the newborn who was discovered in the hospital nursery Thursday night.

Jones said that child developed pneumonia Friday, but he is now in good condition and off antibiotics.

"You'd think that someone would have to know the hospital to find the nursery," Jones said, adding that it was "probably the best place in the city" to leave a child. The blond, blue-eyed diaper-clad newborn was left in a crib in a sixth-floor nursery storage room with a window - a place where he was likely to be found quickly.

Jones said the child apparently had not received medical attention, because its lungs had not been suctioned, as is common at birth. He said many newborns develop pneumonia shortly after birth, and that it is not generally a serious problem. Abandoned babies are brought to the Mission Emergency Hospital - San Francisco General's emergency ward - three or four times a year, Jones said. But he said the baby left in the nursery is believed to be the first ever abandoned inside the hospital.

Big Prices For Segovia Recital

VENICE, Italy (AP) - Music-lovers paid up to 200,000 lire - $240 - for a ticket to hear a one-hour recital by Andres Segovia, the 86-year-old virtuoso guitarist.

Segovia, who performed at the ornate La Fenice theater Tuesday night, was given a royal welcome. Mayor Mario Rigo and government dignitaries headed by Senate President Amintore Fanfani waited outside the theater to greet Segovia.

Segovia, a Spaniard, was given the Grand Cross of Cavalry, one of Italy's highest civilian honors.

Kinston Jewelry Store Is Robbed

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) - Police said burglars cut a hole in the roof of Foxman's Jewelry early Tuesday and escaped with jewelry and silverware valued at $100,000.

Officers said an alarm was triggered at the store at 2:17 a.m., but the burglary was not discovered until after the store opened at 9 a.m.

China Changing Its Leadership

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
PEKING (AP) - Communist Party Chairman Hua Guofeng has resigned as he promised from his second post as premier, and the National People's Congress will vote on the nomination of Vice Premier Zhao Ziyang to succeed him in the next week. Hua told visiting Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ito of Japan today.

Hua and Senior Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping, the architect of the party's ambitious modernization drive, told Western interviewers earlier this summer that they would transfer direction of day-to-day government operations during the session of the rubber-stamp congress, which began last weekend and ends on Sept. 10. But they are retaining their more powerful posts of party chairman and first vice chairman.

Hua's conversation with Ito, reported by members of the foreign minister's party, confirmed that there had been no change in plans.

Approval by the Congress of the changes is a certainty. The sources said Hua, who is 59, described his 61-year-old successor as a "very talented man." He also repeated previous reports that Deng, 76, and four other vice premiers will resign. The others are Li Xiannian, Chen Yu, Xu Xianian and Wang Zhen.

The Japanese said Hua told Ito he was informing him of the impending changes because China and Japan are "old friends."

Zhao, a Deng protege, is the party's former first secretary in Sichuan, China's most populous province.

He is known as a pragmatic, creative economist who has experimented with capitalist methods in industry and agriculture and is credited with engineering the Sichuan "miracle," restoring production in the province after the 10 tumultuous years of the Cultural Revolution.

"He is a very able man and accomplished many feats in Sichuan and the central government," the sources quoted Hua as saying.

ancy and dropout situation. More than 76,000 instructional personnel staff the schools, with 10 states employing more. Salaries of public school teachers, once a major concern because of their low ranking, are now right at the middle line nationally, averaging around $15,000.

Bottom
Despite some recent gains in male teachers working in the junior and senior high schools, women still are dominant. Only 20 percent of the teachers are men, and that puts North Carolina dead last in the nation, despite the fact that salaries have grown nearly 100 percent in the last 10 years; a track record which ranks among the best in the nation. Per-pupil spending, during those 10 years, has grown from $510 to $1,500; but still below the national average of $1,751. The rate of increase has been nearly 200 percent; among the best in the nation.

North Carolina has one of the nation's largest school bus fleets, and is in third place for total state dollars committed to public schools in relation to local financing.

SHP Safety Program For Youngsters

The North Carolina Highway Patrol has announced a program designed to improve safe travel for children commuting to and from school.

Highway Patrol Commander Col. John T. Jenkins, in announcing the program, said, "the safety of these children is everyone's responsibility and we're hopeful that parents will assist us in implementing the program."

Capt. Carl Gilchrist, commander of Highway Patrol Troop A, said the program will involve members of the Patrol's Traffic Safety Information Unit meeting with as many elementary school children as possible and discussing pedestrian, bicycle and school bus safety.

"Hopefully we'll be able to reach all students in grades 3 and 4 during the school year," Gilchrist said.

In addition to the safety meetings, students are to receive a letter for their parents requesting they discuss with their children the safety rules included in the letter.

"This is a different approach, but it's an effective way to request and receive the assistance of every parent," the Troop A commander suggested.

Sgt. Glenn Swanson, traffic safety information officer assigned to the Troop A headquarters in Greenville, pointed out that many students will be walking or riding their bicycles to and from school, while, "about three-quarters of a million children will be transported to and from school on school buses," across the state. "Approximately one-half of the bicyclists killed each year in the state are boys and girls under the age of 14. One third are less than nine years old."

He suggested that parents, "not only will be contributing to their child's safety and welfare, but will be making an invaluable contribution to traffic safety," by discussing the information contained in the correspondence.

In reviewing the safety rules contained in the letters that will be distributed, Swanson said bicycle riders should ride on the right side of the street and as close as practicable to the right hand curb or edge, ride with traffic, and ride in the proper direction on one-way streets.

Bicycle riders should stop at stop signs and remain stopped for red traffic lights until the light turns green (unless making a right turn on red), and should yield the right-of-way to other vehicles which approach an intersection at approximately the same time, or when entering a street from an alley, building entrance, private roadway or driveway.

According to the officer, bicycle riders should give proper hand signals before stopping or turning, stop at all railway grade crossings when a train is approaching, and give the right-of-way to an overtaking vehicle from the rear, giving an audible signal of intention to pass.

Swanson added that at night, bicycles must be equipped with a light on the front, visible for at least 300 feet, and a red light or reflector on the rear visible for 200 feet.

Swanson noted that the Patrol's public information officers provide free lecture service for civic groups, clubs and schools, and concerned citizens.

"We feel that by effectively communicating with local residents, we can improve public support for the patrol's chief objective - preventing accidents on the streets and highways of North Carolina."

Farmville Has Highest Average

FARMVILLE - Due to an increase in the volume of quality cutters and leaf grades, the Farmville Tobacco Market had its highest average of the season on Tuesday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade here.

Williams said that top practical price paid was $1.66 per pound and several sheets of choice leaf and cutter grades sold for as high as $1.75 per pound. Quality grades accounted for practically all of the increases in prices, he said.

The spokesman reported that demand in Farmville is strong for "good clean, ripe tobacco," with prices on lower grades remaining steady for the past several sales days.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only 86 percent of gross sales yesterday.

The market sold 426,439 pounds for $690,568 in averaging $1.61.94 per hundred pounds Tuesday. To date, the market has sold 12,582,480 pounds for $18,008,640, an average of $143.12 for the season.

Williams said the average yesterday was approximately $11 per hundred pounds above last year's comparable sales day and the season average is some $4 per hundred pounds above last year's totals at this point in the season.

The Way House Has Activities

This weekend approximately 200 people, including guests from Ohio, Wisconsin and South Carolina, were entertained at The Way House, 2007 E. Fifth St.

On Friday night about 150 people gathered for an outdoor concert featuring a male quartet, The Victors, from western Ohio. On Saturday, a women's softball team, Sport Haus, from Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, came to the Greenville house for an outdoor picnic and concert after winning its first game against the Kinston home team.

Ninety-two teams competed in Kinston over the Labor Day weekend for the USSSA world championship title in women's softball. Several members of the Sport Haus team are involved with The Way in Wisconsin.

The Way International is a biblical research and teaching ministry based near Dayton, Ohio. This weekend, guests at the Way Home in Greenville included the president and founder of The Way International, Dr. V.P. Wierville and his wife.

Three Wrecks Result In Damages

An estimated $8,400 property damage resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a 10 p.m. mishap in the 500 block of Darden Drive, where a truck driven by Amos Jason Tripp of Route 1, Greenville, collided with parked cars owned by William Atkinson of 503A Darden Dr. and Bobby Howard of 1901B Norcott Cir.

Damage was estimated at $5,000 to the truck, $1,000 to the Atkinson car and $1,500 to the Howard auto.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

Cars driven by Kenneth Lee Smith of 2923 Rose St. and Joseph Sheridan Gaddie of 133 Antler Dr., collided about 5:10 p.m. at the intersection of Elm Street and Brookgreen Drive, causing $200 damage to the Smith car and $300 damage to the Gaddie vehicle.

An estimated $400 damage was done to a car driven by Francis Walker Cousins of 105 Shady Knoll Trailer Pk. when the vehicle collided with a truck driven by Ronnie Tayloe Cox of 124 Chipaway Dr., about 4:15 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 50 feet east of the Memorial Drive intersection.

Police said no damage resulted to the truck.

Court Finds Error In VEPCO Refund Order

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An appellate court has ruled that the state Utilities Commission erred in ordering the Virginia Electric and Power Co. to cut its rates and to refund $1.6 million to customers in northeastern North Carolina.

The state Court of Appeals said the regulatory agency improperly acted under a law that enabled the Utilities Commission to act speedily in making a utility's rates reflect the "uncontrollable prices" of fossil fuels.

In making its ruling, the court set aside a Utilities Commission order that concluded Vepco had overcharged customers by $31 million in fuel costs and overturned the refund order. The court also ruled that the commission had erred in holding that if Vepco fails to convert five oil-fired generating plants to coal by the end of 1980, it would further reduce Vepco rates in North Carolina by $500,000 a year. Parker said the commission "lacked the authority to make the determination 17 months in advance."

In an opinion written by Judge Frank M. Parker, the court said the commission improperly considered such factors as "heat rate" and "plant availability."

These factors, Parker wrote, would be both proper and necessary for the commission to consider in a general rate case, but they were not before the commission in the case on which it acted.

Vepco serves residents in 18 northeastern counties. The utility has been criticized publicly by Gov. Jim Hunt because its rates are about 25 percent higher than those charged by other utilities serving North Carolina.

Vepco President William W. Berry said Tuesday that "it is important for our customers in North Carolina to understand that Vepco is addressing the problems that were before the commission."

He said Vepco is committed to continued efforts to hold down costs of electricity "by improving the efficiency of its generating units with continued conversion of units that burn expensive oil to coal, and through operating and maintenance improvement programs at both fossil and nuclear power stations."

"I am confident that these programs will contribute to the economic vitality of northeastern North Carolina by providing adequate energy supplies at reasonable costs. This unquestionably remains the goal of both Vepco and state officials," Berry added.

Farmville Adopts New Electric Rate Schedule

By LARRY ZICHERMAN
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — The Farmville board of commissioners last night adopted a new electric rate schedule for all classes of service.

The board approved an increase of approximately 23.07 percent for all users because of an August 18 Carolina Power & Light Company rate increase to the town of approximately 34.04 percent. CP&L projected a credit for fuel charges which would make the net increase approximately 20 percent for the town; however, the fuel charges are actually approximately one cent per kilowatt-hour. For this reason, the board approved the higher rate, to allow the town to make up the deficit from the higher-than-anticipated fuel charge. If the fuel charge had actually been a credit, the net increase to the consumers would have been about 15 percent.

The board also accepted a bid of $45,037.00 for a new fire truck from the Jack Coker Company. Other bidders included the FMC Corp., $42,968.45; Howe Fire Apparatus Co., $45,413.00; Tom Bailey Motors (Mack Trucks), $79,925.00 and W.S. Darlev and Co., $70,990.00.

Bids for 70 high pressure sodium street light fixtures were also taken, and the bid was awarded to Westinghouse Supply Co., with a bid of $112.90 each for a total of $7,903.00. Also submitting proposals were General Electric Supply, $137.10 each and $9,597.00 total and Rigby Electric Supply, $162.00 each and $11,340.00 total.

Commissioners passed a motion requiring owners of property on U.S. 264 west, which was annexed July 1, 1979, to connect with city sewer services within 60 days or be assessed the sewer charge as a penalty. All homes in the area are connected to city water, but only a few homes are connected to sewer, the board was told. An ordinance to allow sidewalk sales was approved on a four-month trial basis. Previously, no sidewalk sales were allowed, but the new ordinance would allow them if a group of downtown merchants were to request one from the board for a promotion to bring shoppers downtown. The ordinance stipulates that no sidewalk displays may protrude from a building more than three feet and that all displays must be at least 28 inches above the sidewalk surface. The board approved a petition received by the chief of police for traffic control at the intersection of Wright Drive and Perry Street. The following recommendations were approved: no parking zones on the west side of Wright Drive extending 100 feet south from the northern curb line of Perry Street, the north side of Perry Street extending 100 feet east from the western curb line of Wright Drive, and on the east side of Wright Drive extending 30 feet south from the southern curb line of Perry Street; and a stop sign on Wright Drive at the intersection of Perry Street. A budget ordinance was passed last night which provided for the expenditure of funds for the community development project. A community development grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development of $984,000 will be used for building rehabilitation and demolition, relocation, drainage, administrative expenses, equipment and pest control. The board also adopted a community development plan, a residential improvement policy and a citizen participation plan. In other business, the board approved tax releases totaling $249.88 and accepted the appointments of Robert W. Morgan as alternate commissioner to the North Carolina Municipal Power Agency Number 3 to replace the former town administrator, and Rex Hodges to a three-year term on the tree board to replace R.E. Deans, whose term expired August 1.

Buffeted Reagan 'Meant No Harm'

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
Ronald Reagan, buffeted by outraged southern governors, says he meant no harm by his wrongful claim that President Carter visited the birthplace of the Ku Klux Klan. But Reagan insists that it is the president, rather than himself, who should apologize "for using this issue."

Indeed, Reagan and other Republican leaders took the offensive Tuesday over his Labor Day gaffe, in which he chided the President, who appeared at a huge picnic in Tusculum, Ala., for "opening his campaign down in the city that gave birth to and is the parent body of the Ku Klux Klan."

Reagan found himself apologizing to the South, the state of Alabama, and to Tusculum. But not to Carter, who said in Missouri that "I resent very deeply what Ronald Reagan said...when he pointed out erroneously that I opened my campaign in the home of the Ku Klux Klan."

Carter declared that "anybody who resorts to slurs and innuendo against a whole region of the country, based on a false statement...is not doing the South or our nation good service."

With that, Reagan was back on the attack, saying Carter had "deliberately distorted the intent of my remarks," even though those remarks were false on their face and he has yet to spell out what his real purpose otherwise was in making specific reference to the Klan.

The flap cast a shadow over debate of the issues, though the president, while in Harry S. Truman's hometown of Independence, Mo., said he and Reagan differ "in almost every basic element of commitment and experience and promise to the American people."

Carter said Reagan is un-

Husband Seeks Divorce Goldie

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Goldie Hawn has been sued for divorce by her husband of four years, singer Bill Hudson.

The Superior Court suit was filed Aug. 15, court records show. Representatives of Miss Hawn or Hudson could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

The couple has two children. Miss Hawn, 34, rose to fame as the non-stop giggler on the 1960s television series "Laugh In" and won an Academy Award as best supporting actress in the 1969 film "Cactus Flower."

She makes her debut as executive producer in the forthcoming film "Private Benjamin," in which she also stars.

like other Republican leaders dating back to Dwight D. Eisenhower, in that they were committed to controlling nuclear weapons, and "not launching a nuclear arms race against the Soviet Union which no one could win."

Reagan, in Detroit, blamed Carter for allowing a huge deluge of foreign cars into the country. "The government has a responsibility it has shirked so far," he said. "That is to convince the Japanese that in one way or another...that deluge of their cars into the United States must be slowed while our industry gets back on its feet."

Independent challenger John B. Anderson also courted the Detroit area, but he, too, took Reagan to task for the Klan remark, saying it was typical of the "flip, off-hand" statements which have gotten Reagan into trouble.

At mid-afternoon, Reagan issued a two-page statement in which he said that the "Klan is not an issue in this campaign, although President Carter is attempting to make it one regardless of the embarrassment it causes the people of Tusculum."

CANDID LETTER WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has written South Korea's new president a "candid" letter urging him to abide by previous pledges to liberalize Korean society, U.S. officials said Tuesday.

Smog Inspection Threat Pends

By STEVE LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative leaders debated the merits of a special session Tuesday as the federal government moved to cut off $850 million in aid because of California's failure to implement an annual vehicle smog inspection program.

Gray Davis, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s chief of staff, said he had been told by White House aide Eugene Eidenberg that the Environmental Protection Agency was moving ahead with the lengthy bureaucratic process required to withhold the money.

Davis said calling a special legislative session was one of the options being considered by Brown to avoid loss of the federal sewage treatment and highway funding. Other options include a court suit and a request to the EPA for more time, Davis added.

"I think an inspection program is part of California's future," he said. "On the other hand, we don't want to see California lose funds for which it is entitled."

The EPA announced last June that the federal government would withhold the money from state and local governments unless the Legislature approved a bill implementing an inspection program.

The agency says such a program is needed in California's five largest metropolitan areas to meet requirements of the Clean Air Act. The inspections are intended to ensure that smog devices and other emissions-related equipment on light trucks and cars work properly.

Bill after bill implementing such a program went down to defeat this year, including a measure that died in the Senate on Sunday, the last day of the Legislature's regular 1980 session.

Currently, smog control devices must be inspected only when a vehicle is sold or registered in California for the first time.

An EPA spokeswoman, Jo Ann Semones, said it would take about 90 days to formally cut off the funds. The money would then be held in escrow for a year.

"After that, it's gone," she said, adding there was a "possibility" the state could get the money if it enacted an inspection program before the year was up.

Bill Sessa, a spokesman for the state Air Resources Board, said it was his "understanding" the state would get the money if an inspection bill was passed within the next 90 days.

Lawmakers are not scheduled to return to the Capitol until December, but Brown could call a special session or legislative leaders could reconvene the regular session to consider an inspection bill.

Senate President Pro Tem James Mills said a special session would be "perfectly reasonable" and blamed Senate Republicans for failure of the "last gasp" bill.

But GOP leaders in the Senate and Assembly criticized the idea.

"It would be a waste of taxpayers' money and we will fight any effort by the governor to ramrod through a program that kowtows to the federal government," said Assembly GOP leader Carol Hallett.

The $850 million in sewage treatment construction funds, $457 million in transportation funds and $5.2 million in grants for administration of clean air programs.

Most of the funds, $376.7 million, were earmarked for projects in the Los Angeles-Ventura area. The San Francisco area was to receive $324.7 million; Sacramento, $26.1 million; San Diego, $111.5 million and Fresno County, $10.2 million.

Hang-Gliders Are Competing

GRANDFATHER MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — Hang-gliding pilots representing the best from the United States, Australia, Great Britain and Canada are competing this week in the 5th annual Masters of Hang-Gliding Championship at Grandfather Mountain.

Competition for the 27 pilots began Tuesday and will continue through Sunday. Elimination events will be held through Friday. On Saturday and Sunday, the finalists will compete for the title.

On Tuesday, pilots competed in the 10-minute time task, an event that tests a pilot's ability to end his flight as close to the 10-minute mark as possible. They also competed in the altitude gain event, a timed contest in which the pilot must cross a mountain peak that is 700 feet higher than the launching pad. He must then turn and cross another designated cliff about a mile away.

Leaders after first-round competition in the 10-minute event were Steve Moyes of Sydney, Australia, the defending champion, with a time of exactly 10 minutes; Joe Grebo of Van Nuys, Calif., the former U.S. cross-country and Canadian National hang-gliding champion, with a time of 9:59:8; and Robert Bailey of Leeds, Yorkshire, England, the British cross-country champion and two-time Scottish champion, with a time of 9:59:7.

In the altitude event, the leaders were Jeff Scott of North Ridge, Calif., a finalist in last year's masters, with a time of 4:47:7; and Moyes with a time of 5:1:9

Police Seeking An Intruder

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of a burglary and attempted rape which occurred early Sunday morning in an apartment complex south of Tenth Street, near the East Carolina University campus.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a young woman reported that she was awakened about 5 a.m. by a subject sitting on top of her in her bed and kissing and fondling her.

He said the woman threw the intruder off her bed. He then ran out of the apartment.

The chief, who said there were two other persons in the apartment at the time, said the intruder apparently gained entrance to the home through a set of sliding glass patio doors which had been left unlocked.

The incident was reported at 5:08 a.m.

Waterslide Electrified

SALISBURY, Mass. (AP) — Inspectors from the state Department of Public Safety will try to determine how a teen-ager got a heart-stopping electrical shock as he went down a water slide at Shaheen's Fun Park, police say.

Lifeguard Charles Fiend also received a shock Tuesday when he tried to save the youth, identified as Jeffrey Faber, 14, of Atkinson, N.H.

The two were revived at the scene as several off-duty state and town police rushed to their rescue.

Faber was reported "awake" and "alert" a few hours later at the Anna Jaques Hospital in Newburyport. Fiend, 20, of Salisbury, also was reported recovering from the shock.

"Their bodies received electrical currents and they suffered cardiac arrests," said Mary Mullholland, an administrative supervisor at the hospital.

Arrest Made On Charges

Greenville police Sunday arrested Kemberly Van Wolfe, 22 of 800 Heath St. on charges of possession of methaqualone, carrying a concealed weapon and resisting arrest.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the charges resulted from a 1:40 a.m. incident in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Evans Streets, where a small quantity of methaqualone was allegedly found in Wolfe's possession.

Anti-Shoptlifting Drive Underway

ATLANTA (AP) - The National Coalition To Prevent Shoplifting, with headquarters in Atlanta, is patterning after a Georgia anti-shoplifting program begun in 1976 and is the largest citizen-based crime-prevention program in the United States.

Organized in 1979, it is funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Department of Justice for the purpose of helping other states organize shoplifting prevention programs, for the production of educational materials and for research and training.

"Education, particularly of young people to the point that shoplifting is a crime, is one of our big jobs," says Judi Rogers, director. "But we've also got a long way to go to get retailers, law enforcement agencies and the judiciary working together under uniform standards that will have a preventive effect."

Six-Year-Old On Appalachian Trail

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - When Michael Cogswell finishes a 2,100-mile trek along the Appalachian Trail - making meals, drinking spring water, hiking as far as 28 miles a day - he intends to start first grade.

Michael, 6, is halfway to becoming the youngest person ever to walk the entire trail, from Maine to Georgia.

His mother and stepfather, Reina and Jeff Cogswell, are also looking beyond their Appalachian journey: they hope for a lifetime of romantic adventures.

Jeff Cogswell is 33, a beefy former yacht deliverer whose mustache serves as a lid for a broad smile. He says he's always had a penchant for adventure - bicycling cross-country, floating on a flatboat down the Mississippi, crossing the Pacific on a Polynesian canoe without food, water or navigational aids.

He settled down to deliver yachts last year, and met Reina, 23, a cashier at a Miami sandwich shop. They married a month later.

"Everybody wants to meet someone and fall in love and live happily ever after," said Cogswell. "I had met a lot of girls, but none who would want to pick up and just seek adventure."

Reina is different. "I like the idea of escaping from the hustle and bustle and the crime, and going out and doing things. And this way, we can all be together as a family all the time," she said.

They sold everything they owned - their car, their home in Miami, all their belongings - and set out on the trail April 1.

The Cogswells are making their journey in two parts. First, they hiked from the trail's southern terminus to its midpoint in Harper's Ferry, W.Va., arriving there Aug. 10.

To avoid New England's capricious autumn weather, they plan to drive to Maine in a van, then hike the rest of the trail south to Harper's Ferry, arriving at Thanksgiving.

The hike, they said, was to be a tune-up for other adventures. The question was whether to take Michael, Reina's son by a previous marriage, or send him to stay with his grandmother in California.

Michael made the decision: he wanted to go. Officials for the Appalachian Trail Conference say they believe the youngest "through-hiker" (one who hikes the whole trail) to have made the journey in one trip so far was 12.

"One day," said Cogswell, "Reina asked me how to spell 'relief.' Before I could say anything, Michael said, 'R-O-L-A-I-D-S.' I couldn't find a rope to string him up with, so I decided to take him along, where there would be no more TV.

"At first, I didn't know if Michael would be able to do it or not. I fully expected to have to send him home after a week," he said.

And at first, Michael did have his problems. He tired easily and fell a lot - "584 times so far," said his mother. "We've been counting."

But then, Cogswell said, came a "transformation." The 40-pound, blond youngster now carries his 8½-pound pack without a whimper. He's learned the names of 20 wildflowers and how to cook the dehydrated camp meals. He says he likes watching the "Peter Cottontail" rabbits, but still misses television.

One day, in the Smoky Mountains, Cogswell heard his son screaming so loud he thought "he'd been bitten by a snake or caught by a bear. He wouldn't stop screaming, and I thought about what you see in the movies and I slapped him. It worked."

Michael pointed in the direction of "big black thing." It was the first wild boar he'd ever seen.

"It scared me half to death," said the boy.

For only the third time in his life, Michael saw snow and threw snowballs. He slept in a firehouse-hostel in Waynesboro, Va., and climbed on the trucks, quite an occasion for a boy who wants to be a fireman when he grows up.

He lost a baby tooth along the trail, and the "tooth fairy" put a toy truck and two quarters under his sleeping bag.

"Even the Easter Bunny found him along the trail," Cogswell said.

Right now, the family is surviving on money from the sale of their home and car. They hope to sell books and photos of their exploits and give lectures to make "enough money to survive. We don't want to be rich."

Cogswell said he hopes to take Michael along when on as many of the adventures as possible, teaching him with correspondence courses. He said he has met with some hostility from those who believe it is wrong to take a child along on a journey such as the trail hike.

He said this hostility gives way when they get to know the family.

"They learn to respect him," Cogswell said. "I know I've learned to respect him, not only as my son but as a fellow through-hiker. And that's saying a lot."

Abandons Bid To Get Communists Testify In Trial

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The chief prosecutor in the murder trial of six Nazis and Ku Klux Klansmen says he has abandoned any effort to have members of the Communist Workers Party testify about the Nov. 3, 1979, shooting deaths of five communist demonstrators.

"In plain language, the CWP can put up or shut up," said District Attorney Michael Schlosser.

CWP members have labeled the trial a sham and refused to cooperate with prosecutors. Some CWP leaders have charged that the slayings were the result of a conspiracy between the Klan and federal and state governments.

Schlosser said his office has given the communists opportunities to testify but "conduct of the CWP has been tailored to impede and interrupt the prosecution of the case."

Although several members of the CWP have been included on the state's witness list, only one member is known to have been actively sought. Thomas Clark, who was called as a witness and failed to appear, subsequently was brought before the court and was sentenced to 30 days in jail for contempt.

Asked if he denied the contempt charge, Clark told Superior Court Judge James M. Long, "I have nothing but contempt."

"Clark in effect denied the existence of the five victims," Schlosser said.

The communist demonstrators were killed at a rally advertised in advance by the CWP as a "Death to the Klan" event. CWP leaders publicly challenged Klansmen to attend, calling the rally a sequel to an armed confrontation several weeks earlier at Union Grove.

Gunfire broke out several seconds after a motorcade of Klansmen and Nazis drove into the area where the rally was being assembled.

In all 22 people have been indicted on charges stemming from the rally violence. The six Klansmen-Nazis on trial now are the first to face prosecution.

In court Tuesday, Judge Long ruled that three photographs taken at the scene of the shootings may be used as primary evidence — evidence that can stand by itself. Defense attorneys objected to Long's ruling, arguing that rulings by the state Supreme Court prohibit use of photographs as primary evidence in North Carolina courts.

The pictures were taken by photographer Don Davis of the Greensboro Record shortly after the demonstrators were shot.

Long said he was aware of the Supreme Court rulings, but said, "It is unbelievable to me that the high court would rule that a photo cannot be used to show the license number of a car, especially when the witness, a qualified photographer, is available to testify."

The three photos show a 1962 blue car at the scene of the shootings. Testimony has linked the car to Raeford Milano Caudle of Winston-Salem, a professed Nazi member who was charged Nov. 3 with conspiracy to commit murder but was freed in mid-December when prosecutors said they had insufficient evidence to seek a bill of indictment against him.

Other witnesses have testified they saw weapons being taken from the car as the violence erupted at the Nov. 3 rally.

Long's ruling on the photos was made out of the presence of the jury. The ruling is considered important because it could be used as one basis for an appeal should the Klansmen and Nazis be convicted.

Schlosser said during a court recess that an important factor in the ruling is that "the Supreme Court will have to consider that these photos were made at the time a crime was actually being committed. That is something the Supreme Court has not ruled upon before."

Asks 'Addiction' Alert On Cigarette Packages

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A research member of the government's advisory committee on drug abuse says the group recommended the inclusion of the word "addictive" on cigarette packages because it was "sort of a dirty word."

Dr. Morris A. Lipton of Chapel Hill, one of 17 scientists that studied cigarette smoking for the National Advisory Council on Drug Abuse, said the argument for labeling cigarettes as addictive was persuasive.

He added, "While there is no single line of evidence that one could call absolutely conclusive, there are lots of lines of evidence that point in the same direction."

Lipton, a smoker of 40 years, said the recommendation that cigarettes be labeled addictive was targeted toward young people.

"It was selected because it's sort of a dirty word," Lipton said. "There was the feeling there ought to be a language addressed to them."

The council made the recommendation in May and it was forwarded to U.S. Surgeon General Julius Richmond in July, but was only recently made public in a federal agency newsletter.

Richmond has the recommendation under review.

The scientists concluded that "cigarette smoking behavior should be considered a form of addiction, and tobacco in the form of cigarettes, an addicting substance."

"The probability of relapse over time to cigarette smoking shows remarkable similarity to that observed with alcohol and heroin use," the scientists said.

Their report also contended that, "given that cigarette smoking is considered an addiction, it should be viewed as a disease."

William D. Toohy, a spokesman for The Tobacco Institute, shrugged off the scientists' report, saying: "We feel that the (council) is entitled to their opinion, although it should be recognized their opinion is not accepted by everyone in the scientific community who has been researching smoking behavior."

The institute is a lobbying arm of the tobacco industry.

In Raleigh, North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham was more blunt in his response.

"It is another attempt by do-gooders or no-gooders trying to disrupt ... the industry," Graham said.

"I'm not going to deny it's difficult to stop smoking. It's a habit just like eating too much, drinking too much, chewing gum or eating too much sugar," Graham said.

But, he said, "putting (the recommended warning) on a pack isn't going to stop people from smoking."

Congress voted in 1965 to place a warning on cigarette packs that read: "Caution: Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Your Health." In 1970, Congress banned broadcast commercials for cigarettes and changed the package label to read: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined that Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, extending Tuesday's gain.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 5.30 to 946.08 in the first half hour.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market got a lift Tuesday when interest rates declined in the bond and short-term money markets.

Another apparent plus was the government's report of a 5.7 percent jump in factory orders during July.

The increase was the first since last January and the largest in almost 10 years.

Today's early volume leaders included Sony, up 1/8 at 12 1/2; American Home Products, up 1/4 at 31 1/4; and American Telephone & Telegraph, 1/4 higher at 54 1/4.

Stone Police In Shooting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A crowd of 300 to 400 young blacks surrounded a police car and pelted officers with rocks and bottles as police tried to make an arrest in a housing project here, authorities said.

Two unidentified people were reported slightly injured Tuesday night before the crowd dispersed about an hour after the disturbance began, officials said.

The incident occurred not far from where an armed black man was shot to death Monday when he reportedly disarmed two officers — one white and one black — who stopped him for questioning.

The officers have been suspended pending an investigation by the police department and the FBI into the shooting of Lawrence Louis Jr., 25.

Earlier, a group of project residents demonstrated outside a police district station to protest the shooting.

Police said Tuesday's confrontation with "an unruly crowd" occurred when Urban Squad officers chased into the Desire Housing Project a man suspected of driving into four parked cars.

The man was arrested at a street corner and a crowd began gathering, said a police spokesman. The officers requested help, but other squad cars sent to the area had to turn back because of a barrage of rocks and bottles, police said.

"The problem here was that it was mostly a young crowd," said Urban Squad Sgt. Frank Ben. "There were no older, cooler heads to calm things down."

Strike Won By Polish Miners

JASTRZEBIE, Poland (AP) — Polish coal miners won their strike today and prepared to return to work Thursday, promising the end of the nationwide labor rebellion that wrung unprecedented concessions from a Soviet Bloc government.

Deputy Premier Aleksander Kopec and the miners' strike committee signed an agreement before dawn today promising the miners an end to weekend work shifts, other safety improvements and better pay as well as the social and political rights won last weekend by the strikers in northern Poland.

"It is an act of historical importance...Go with God," said Kopec after the pact was signed just before dawn in a smoky auditorium in this mining town near the Czechoslovak border.

"I declare the strike over," said Mirosław Siemewill, chairman of the strike committee. "We will resume work on the fourth of September and make up for losses suffered by the national economy."

Other members of the strike committee said some men would return to the mines this afternoon to resume maintenance work.

There were cheers and applause from the 500 members of the strike committee, and many hugged and kissed each other. On the wall a map showing the 17 countries to which Poland exports coal was draped with a black banner and red carnations, honoring eight miners killed in an underground accident on Monday.

The miners, Poland's most favored workers because their output is the country's chief export, did not strike until last Thursday, when the vast strike wave that began

Connors Advances Despite Elements, Opponent

NEW YORK (AP)— Jimmy Connors didn't let thunder, lightning, rain, low-flying bats or some fine tennis by South African Bernie Mitton bother him Tuesday night.

The third-seeded Connors advanced to the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open with a 7-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Mitton under the lights at the National Tennis Center. The match also was played with lightning flashing above, strong winds whipping through the stadium, thunder and, with the second set tied 4-4, a drenching rainstorm that forced a 50-minute suspension of play.

"Considering the conditions, I thought we played some good tennis," said Connors. "It started to get so windy we couldn't time the balls well. Then at 4-4, I asked Mike (Blanchard, the tournament referee) to keep his eyes on the lightning, make sure it didn't get too close. With my (steel) racket, I'd get sizzled."

Instead, Connors sizzled after the rain delay, running out the set. Then, early in the third set, came another interruption.

Two objects swooped down to court level, then began flying around the stands.

Were they bats, Connors was asked?

"I don't know," he quipped. "I didn't get close enough to see."

In today's feature match, Roscoe Tanner was hoping to repeat his quarterfinal upset of top-seed Bjorn Borg of Sweden. Tanner scored a four-set triumph over Borg last year in a night match, but they were scheduled for an afternoon appearance this time.

The women's top seed and defending champion, Tracy Austin, opened today's proceedings against No.13 Pam Shriver, providing a matchup of the teenage sensations of the last two Opens. Shriver, 18, reached the finals here two years ago, falling to Chris Evert Lloyd. Then Austin beat Lloyd for the title last year.

Lloyd, seeded third, battled Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and, in a night contest, No.14 Wojtek Fibak of Poland played Johan Kriek of South Africa in the only other matches involving seeded players.

Connors felt he had fallen into some bad habits this week but, overall, was playing up to par.

"I shouldn't be in a position where I have to bear down for breaks, but I have been," he said. "I want to grind it out on my serve and make the other guy feel like he's playing catchup."

"I've played well but I want to play better in the next round and the next."

No.10 Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia scored the biggest upset Tuesday by blasting No.7 Harold Solomon 6-1, 6-0, 6-0. Lendl was joined in the quarterfinals by Eliot Teltscher, who simply overwhelmed No.13 Brian Gottfried with his passing shots, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, and defending champion John McEnroe, an easy 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 winner over France's Pascal Portes.

Among the women, No.8 Andrea Jaeger stopped Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-0; No.14 Ivanna Madruga bested Candy Reynolds 5-7, 6-3, 6-3, and unseeded Barbara Hallquist beat Lucia Romanov of Romania 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

"I played everything right," said Lendl, a 20-year-old two-time winner this year. "He beat me in Las Vegas 6-1, 6-1 but I didn't let him do anything today. I didn't have to do anything special to win. I just got to the balls."

Solomon agreed: "After about the second game, I couldn't move my feet. I didn't have any get-up-and-go so I got up and left."

Gottfried left the tournament mainly because Teltscher was plastering the lines with passing shots and serving bullets.

"The heat didn't bother me, only Eliot's passing shots did," said Gottfried, who could only shake his head each time Teltscher sent another blur past him.

'The Bird' Flies Again

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych says he now can look forward to a future that many thought didn't exist as recently as one month ago.

Fidrych, the American League's top rookie in 1976, won his first game for Detroit in nearly 2½ years Tuesday night, seven-hitting the Chicago White Sox for an 11-2 victory in the first game of a doubleheader. The Tigers swept the twinbill, 6-1, behind Milt Wilcox's eight-hitter in the nightcap.

"People were writing that I was finished, but I don't read the papers that much," Fidrych said. "I don't hold anything against those guys. That's part of life. They don't know what I was doing down in Evansville."

"This one moment just makes my year happier," Fidrych said. "I can't think about the past, now. I can only look to the future."

The 26-year-old Fidrych was with Evansville of the American Association when the 1980 season began, starting his fourth year on one of the longest comeback trails in baseball. He finally returned to the Tigers on Aug. 12, losing two decisions before the long drought came to an end.

"It now seems like it never happened, like it went fast," Fidrych said, "but when it was happening, it seemed slow."

The Bird's problems have been many and varied. After going 19-9 in 1976 with a league-leading 24 complete games, Fidrych's frustrations began with a knee injury.

He underwent surgery in March 1977 for cartilage damage and did not return until May 27. He went 6-4 before he had to leave a game in Tiger Stadium against Toronto with a

The Rebuilding Has Begun For ECC Champions

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE — The building continues and rebuilding has only just begun at Farmville Central.

While Farmville continues work on its field house, Jaguar head coach Gene Brewer continues trying to piece together a football team wiped out by graduation.

Many a coach talks about rebuilding years to throw the opposition off his trail. Such is not the case with Brewer.

"We are definitely in a rebuilding stage — the coaches, the players and the building," Brewer said with a wry smile.

Going into the 1980 season, the Jaguars have won 30 straight Eastern Carolina Conference games en route to capturing the ECC title four years in a row. Last year, the Jaguars were 10-0 during the regular season before losing to Ahsokie, 17-14, in the opening-round of the 3-A playoffs.

That, however, was last year. Farmville lost some 20 players to graduation after last season, five of whom were all-conference, and will be hard-pressed to repeat the performances of the past four years.

The most devastating loss was, of course, that of Donald and Ronald Reid. Offensive backs on the Jaguars' schedule can breathe a bit easier now that the Reids, both of whom were all-conference and all-east the past two seasons, no longer are around.

"There's no question they were the heart of the team," Brewer said. "But there are plenty of other people we're going to miss who made things click for us."

One of those players was David Dunn, one of the most versatile athletes at Farmville the past few years. Dunn played both linebacker and halfback while also handling all of the kicking duties, where his absence may be felt most.

Others Brewer must replace this season are three-year starters and all-conference performers Jeff Tyson and Mike King, and wide receiver Tony Eason, another three-year starter.

Because of the losses, Brewer will depend heavily on unseasoned players.

"We're definitely very inexperienced," Brewer said. "We show some signs of having talent in some areas. But practice has been such a learning experience that it's hard to really evaluate that."

Only three starters return for Brewer. Tops among the trio is all-conference lineman Ronnie Locust, who at 5-11, 285 pounds is one of the largest players in the league. Back also are halfback/defensive back Roger Joyner (5-7, 167) and offensive guard/linebacker Chris Sutton (5-11, 173).

The Jaguars also must replace quarterback Eugene Joyner. That job falls to junior Jeff Cutler, who saw limited action last year.

Cutler will have at flanker sophomore Andrew Edwards (5-11, 164) and at wide receiver either seniors James Newsome (6-0, 161), Jonathan Joyner (6-1, 146) or sophomore Mike Owens (5-11, 150).

Sophomore Wesley Carmon joins Joyner in the backfield.

Joining Locust at offensive tackle will be senior Arthur Wooten (5-11, 182) while at the guards will be Sutton and junior Raymond May (5-10, 170). Junior Charles Sutton (5-9, 182) will play center.

Defensively, Brewer will have May and Newsome at end, Locust and Wooten at tackle and Charles Sutton and senior Kenneth Joyner (5-8, 211) at guard.

At linebacker will be Chris Sutton and junior Robert Barnes (5-10, 150) while in the defensive backfield with Joyner and Wesley Carmon will be junior Willie Foreman (5-7, 145).

"The kids couldn't have worked any harder," Brewer said. "They've pretty much done what we've asked of them. Depth is going to be a problem, though. I don't know us ever being real deep but we're very thin this season."

Farmville, following an open date last week, opens the 1980 season at Clinton, a team the Jaguars defeated, 19-0, a year ago.

"They're suppose to be loaded," Brewer said. "We'll probably be putting five or six kids on the field Friday night who are playing football for the

Jaguars, Panthers Open Season Friday On Road

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

The high school football season gets underway in earnest this week after a sparse opening night schedule last Friday which left two of three area Eastern Carolina Conference teams with losses.

Ayden-Grifton's new wide-open offense did not control the ball as Coach Dixon Sauls wished and the result was a 20-6 loss to Williamston. D.H. Conley, meanwhile, recovered two fumbles inside the West Craven 30 in the last quarter but failed to score either time in losing to the Eagles for the first time, 14-9.

Greene Central, the only other area ECC team in action Friday night, showed why it is among the favorites to capture the league crown with an easy 28-7 win over South Lenoir.

In other area games Roanoke romped past 1-A Belhaven, 47-6, while Jamesville saw Mike Atkinson rush for 236 yards and four touchdowns as Princeton whipped the Bullets, 38-6.

This week Farmville Central, winners of the ECC championship the past four seasons, and North Pitt open their 1980 seasons while Ayden-Grifton seeks to rebound from its opening-night loss. Conley has an open date.

The Jaguars, without star linebackers Donald and Ronald Reid, travel to Clinton in their season opener while the Panthers travel to Enfield, a team they beat last season, 27-0. The Chargers play host to Roanoke in their home opener.

In other area battles, Greene Central entertains Beddingfield, Williamston travels to Gaston and Jamesville returns home to face Columbia.

Ayden-Grifton

As Charger coach Dixon Sauls promised, the fans saw the football Friday in his club's 20-6 loss to Williamston. Trouble is, according to Sauls they didn't get to see it enough, mainly because his offense had trouble controlling the ball.

"We need to have the ball more to explore our options with the new offense," Sauls said. "But we had an outstanding effort but had far too many mistakes, too many missed assignments."

"But you've got to give Williamston credit, they executed better and played very aggressive," Sauls said. "We need to be more aggressive, but I am proud of our two goaline stands. Twice, we rose to the occasion."

"We just need to be that aggressive all the time and I think we will be once we learn more football. I'm sure we learned some things from the Williamston game," Sauls said. "Some of the time they were dropping off as many as seven players to cover the pass and we need to adjust to that. We'll learn."

To learn, however, the Chargers must control the ball more than they did against the Tigers. Williamston had the ball for some 60 plays while Ayden-Grifton ran off just 40.

"We're looking to have the ball 70 times a game," Sauls said. "We need to complete 50 percent of our passes if we hope to do this. We'll continue to work with this offense. We're committed to it, we just need to execute better."

The home fans will get their chance to see the new Charger attack, which features two wide receivers, two slot backs and only one halfback, this Friday when Ayden-Grifton faces Roanoke.

Last year the Chargers, after trailing at half, came on to nip the Redskins, 21-20. "They're a different team this year and it's a different year," said Sauls when asked whether Roanoke might be looking to avenge last season's defeat. "I don't think it'll be a real factor."

D.H. Conley

Coach Jimbo Walker knew his club had its chances against West Craven Friday night. The Vikings just didn't take advantage of them.

In the first half, Conley had a 65-yard touchdown pass called back because of a holding penalty. Then, in the fourth period, the Vikings twice recovered fumbles inside the Eagles' 30-yard line but both times failed to score.

"We had fourth and two both times," Walker said. "We had our chances."

It didn't help that a number of starters, including quarterback Sammy Tucker, were on the bench because of missed practices earlier in the week. Instead, a 10th grader, Leon Cox, started at quarterback. "Sammy should be back for Washington (in two weeks) and that'll enable us to bring Leon along a little slower," Walker said.

"West Craven has a right good football team," he continued. "They had a great big line but we had did have few things working against us. Sammy didn't play and we had a couple of other players out. That's still no excuse, though. We had our chances."

Defensively, Walker said his troops were not aggressive enough but the Vikings were able to recover two West Craven fumbles in the final period after the Eagles had driven inside the Conley five.

"We didn't stop them up the middle, though," Walker said. "We didn't let them fly out there like I'd want."

The Vikings have an open date before meeting Washington in their home opener Sept. 19. "In our situation, I'm glad we have this (open date) now. We've got some kids in tobacco and it'll give us a chance to refine some things we've been working on."

North Pitt

North Pitt scrimmaged Roanoke on Aug. 22 but since then the Panthers have not hit anyone except each other. This Friday, after an open date last week, North Pitt gets its chance to hit someone else as the Panthers open their 1980 season against Enfield.

"We have been hitting on each other since we scrimmaged," Coach Pat Smith said. "We were rolling like a ball of fire up until then. We played extremely well defensively and although offensively we didn't move the ball much, we hope that will come around."

The Panthers will get their chance against Enfield, a team they have beaten two out of the last three seasons, including a 27-0 victory last season en route to a disappointing 3-6-1 record.

"Every game with them has been close," Smith said. "The games have been a lot closer than the scores have indicated. I don't think this one'll be any different."

"They're suppose to be in what they've termed a rebuilding year but I think it'll be a fairly tough game, especially with the way we've been practicing. I think some of our players are underestimating them."

Last year, the Panthers were coming off their first winning season in the school's history. Internal problems, however, ended any thoughts the Panthers had of having a second straight winning season. Smith does not foresee any similar problems this year.

"We're pretty satisfied with the way things have gone so far," Smith said. "Every team's going to have their problems but the kids seem to be playing together better this year."

NCAA Decision Expected Soon

Sutton-Holley Conflict Harmful

From Staff Report

Duke University's questioning of the eligibility of fullback Theodore Sutton and defensive halfback Willie Holley has had its effect on the Pirate football team, regardless of the outcome of a requested ruling on their eligibility by East Carolina University, the Pirate football staff feels.

The Pirates have been forced into working extra hard to have to fill up the holes left by the two, should they be declared ineligible for the Duke game.

"It has been a disruptive influence on our practices," one ECU spokesman said. "So it's affected us, regardless of whether they (Sutton and Holley) play or not."

East Carolina has asked the NCAA to rule on the eligibility of the two players. The situation revolves around Sutton's request for a hardship year of eligibility following his injury in a junior varsity game his freshman year, and Holley's request based on his misidentification as having played in that same game.

Injuries could also be of key importance in the game. Of eight returning running backs, the Pirates could be reduced to three. Should Sutton be ruled out, he would join several injured players on the sidelines. These include Warren Brookings, Willie Swinson and Marvin Cobb. Anthony Collins hasn't practiced in 11 days, and his status is still up in the air.

Backfield coach Jim Bengala said that freshman Ernest Byner would see a lot of action in the opener, should the situation continue. Fullback Roy Wiley, behind Sutton, would move up, should the veteran be declared ineligible for the game.

Defensively, of the four starters, Holley, James Freer, Marvin Elliott and Freddie Jones, only Holley has much starting experience. Jones started in three games last year, and the others have none. If Holley is put out of the game, freshman Chuck Bishop would move in, leaving a very inexperienced backfield to go up against a Duke passing game that secondary coach Ricky Bustle expects to throw around 40 times on Saturday.

The Pirates continue to work towards their opener on Saturday, set for 1:30 p.m. in Duke's Wallace Wade Stadium.

An answer from the NCAA is expected at any time, but at least by sometime Friday.

Mariners' Beniquez Suspended

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Mariners' Manager Maury Wills says he tried to talk to center fielder Juan Beniquez as "his manager, big brother, father and friend."

But Wills and Beniquez parted company — at least for five days — Tuesday after a Monday night incident in Baltimore.

Wills said he wanted Beniquez suspended without pay for the remainder of the season for ignoring a request to pinch hit against the Orioles.

Mariners president Dan O'Brien didn't go along with Wills for the remainder of the season, though. Beniquez was given a five-day suspension.

Bruce Bochte, the Mariners' player representative, said if Beniquez feels he has been mistreated Beniquez can file a grievance with the Major League Players Association and go before a board of inquiry.

Asked what his personal feelings were on the Beniquez affair, Bochte replied, "I have no problems with what Maury did. I feel as Maury does."

"I can't understand why Beniquez is doing these things," added shortstop Mario Mendoza. "He's hurting himself. He plans to go into the re-entry draft. This situation won't help him."

"I don't feel I should be suspended because of last night," Beniquez said Tuesday. "I come to the ballpark expecting to play and I don't play. He no tell me why."

Wills retorted, "He said he didn't know. Isn't that weak?"

Catcher Marc Hill remarked, "I am glad to see Maury took some action. As far as I'm concerned, I don't want to talk to him (Beniquez) or be on a ballclub with a guy like that."

Wills said he talked to Beniquez "as one who has had to work against so many different and difficult obstacles."

"If he can't recognize what I tried to do for him as something a friend would try to do, he doesn't want to be anyone's friend," Wills said.

Beniquez, 30, a seven-year major league veteran who was acquired during the offseason in a six-player deal with the New York Yankees involving Ruppert Jones, reportedly returned to Seattle after the suspension. He was checked out of his Baltimore hotel room Tuesday night.

Lee Pelekoudas, director of team travel for the Mariners, said, "We offered him transportation back to Seattle and he refused it."

The Mariners, without Beniquez, were bombed by the Orioles 10-4 Tuesday night.

"I'm willing to do anything to help Juan have a successful career, but not at the expense of wrecking the team," Wills said before Tuesday night's game.

"I don't even have fines on the club. I don't want to take their money but when they do something like this in front of other players, how much can I take and still have the respect of the rest of the team?"

Wills said he explained the suspension to Beniquez "at the hotel and even gave him a written statement."

"I'm supposed to play every day but I make one mistake and I don't play," Beniquez said. "He (Wills) is trying to make me look like a troublemaker."

Wills and Beniquez have had several run-ins during the Mariners' road trip that began last Thursday in New York. Twice after being taken out of games, he left the dugout and dressed in the clubhouse.

On Sunday in New York, Beniquez was 30 minutes late arriving to Yankee Stadium.

Beniquez is hitting 230 with six home runs and 20 RBI this season. This is the option year of his contract and he has said he will become a free agent at the end of the season.

When Beniquez comes off suspension Sunday, the Mariners will be in Boston.

first time, other than our scrimmage (against Northern Nash in mid-August).

"A lot of bad things can happen when you have that," he added. "This season's going to be a struggle, though. We're just going to have to improve week-by-week, and fast."

Having won for so many years, however, can only help the Jaguars this season. "They know what it is to win and know what it takes," Brewer said. "That's bound to have an effect but we're going to have to prove ourselves every game. We're not going to be ruled the favorite just because we show up."

Giants' Vida Grinded Blue By Philadelphia

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Vida Blue was tough — the Philadelphia Phillies were tougher. "It took some grinding, but we did it," said Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green after his Phillies scored a hard-earned 2-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants in 13 innings Tuesday night. Philadelphia managed to win despite a strong pitching performance by Blue, who allowed but two hits and one run to the Phillies over 10 innings. "It was our best team effort of the year, by far," said Phillies reliever Warren Brusstar. "It took everybody to win it." Brusstar created the most perilous situation of the game for the Phillies and pitched out of it in the 11th inning. The Giants loaded the bases with none out on a single, walk and bunt single. The next two batters, Milt May and Rennie Stennett, hit ground balls and the Phillies threw home for forceouts.

Brusstar fell behind 3-1 to pinch hitter Joe Strain. Strain took a pitch for a strike and fouled off three pitches before grounding out. "I knew I couldn't go to my breaking ball," said Brusstar. "I had to throw the fastball, my 'out pitch', and that's what got him." The victory kept the Phillies in first place in the National League East by percentage points over the Montreal Expos, 2-1 winners over San Diego. In other NL action, Los Angeles beat New York 6-5; Atlanta whipped Chicago 10-5; and St. Louis stopped Cincinnati 12-4. Manny Trillo started the Phillies' 13th with a double and later scored the winning run on Keith Moreland's sacrifice fly. Blue retired 18 straight batters before Bob Boone, leading off the Philadelphia ninth, reached base on a throwing error by third baseman Darrell Evans. A sacrifice by Ramon Aviles, pinch hitting for Phillies starter Larry Christenson, sent pinch runner Jay Loviglio to second, and Lonnie Smith drove in the game's first run with a one-out single.

Dodgers 6, Mets 5
Dwight Gooden singled home the decisive run as Los Angeles scored three times in the sixth and held on to beat New York. The victory was the Dodgers' sixth straight and 13th in their last 15 games as they moved into a tie with idle Houston for first place in the NL West. Dave Goltz, 7-7, Bobby Castillo and Don Stanhouse permitted only four New York hits. Stanhouse hurled the final two innings for his fourth save.

Braves 10, Cubs 5
Dale Murphy tripled with the bases loaded and Jerry Royster hit a pair of triples, leading Atlanta over Chicago for the surging Braves' 13th victory in 16 games. Doyle Alexander, 13-7, was the winner, with Gene Garber working the last few innings. Mike Krukow, 8-14, was the loser. "We knew all along we had a good ballclub but we weren't winning," said Murphy, who boosted his season RBI total to 72. "Now we're hitting and winning. The key to our club is hitting. Fortunately, the pitching has held up."

Cardinals 12, Reds 4
Keith Hernandez smashed three hits, drove in three runs and scored four times and Ted Simmons collected two hits and knocked in four runs to lead St. Louis over Cincinnati. Winner Bob Forsch, 11-7, scattered 11 hits in 71-3 innings before needing John Littlefield's relief help. The reliever gained his eighth save of the season. The Cards totaled a major league record-tying four sacrifice flies. Previous major league teams to total four sacrifice flies in one game were the New York Mets in 1967 and 1973 and the Boston Red Sox in 1913.

Expos 2, Padres 1
Andre Dawson scored one run and drove in another and rookie right-hander Charlie Lea hurled seven innings of four-hit ball as Montreal defeated San Diego. Lea improved his record to 5-5 with relief help in the eighth from Woodie Fryman, who posted his 16th save. Dawson's RBI-groundout in the fifth snapped a 1-1 tie and pinned the loss on Eric Rasmussen, 3-10.

Ramblin' Wreck's Curry Debuts Against 'Bama

ATLANTA (AP) — Bear Bryant and Bill Curry, the rival coaches in Saturday's Alabama-Georgia Tech game, have 296 victories between them...and they all belong to Bryant. "In terms of experience, it means he's going to make an awful lot of proper decisions," says Curry, who spent the last three seasons as offensive line coach of the Green Bay Packers but whose only coaching stint at the college level came as a Georgia Tech assistant in 1976. Bryant, on the other hand, was an assistant for six years — all before Curry was born — and has been a head coach for 35 seasons, the last 22 of them at Alabama. Not only does Curry have to make his head coaching debut against the third winningest coach of all time, but Bryant and the Alabama Crimson Tide have captured the last two national championships and would like nothing better than to become the first team to win three in a row.

ment of everything a Georgia Tech man should be by any stretch of the imagination. Neither do I flaunt tradition. I'm just me." This is a man who played three years at Georgia Tech — he captained the 1964 squad — and 10 years with four National Football League teams, an all-pro center who played in three Super Bowls, who played for Vince Lombardi at Green Bay and Don Shula in Baltimore, who headed the NFL Players' Association during the bitter 1974 strike. Yet he is anything but a rough, tough ex-pro when talking about his alma mater. "I really believe in what Georgia Tech stands for — mixing academics with a good football program," Curry says. "I know Joe Paterno gets a lot of flak for talking like that, but, dad-gummit, if it doesn't work then we shouldn't have it." "Georgia Tech has an opportunity to have a real student-athlete environment. I'm committed to that and I know it will work. After four or five years, if it doesn't work, I won't stay in this business. It's not worth it."

As only the seventh head coach in Georgia Tech's long football history, the 37-year-old Curry — "I'm 37 chronologically, but I've aged a lot in the last few months" — succeeds his former boss, the ousted Pepper Rodgers, and resumes a long-standing love affair with the South's oldest technological institution. Although Rodgers was a quarterback and place-kicker for Georgia Tech in the early 1950s, his coaching style, on and off the field, never really endeared him to the school's old-guard alumni. When Tech lured him away from UCLA in 1974, Rodgers returned from Hollywood with a perm hairdo and mod clothes, far from the conservative posture desired. Although he toned things down after a while, Rodgers' "image" had been fatally carved into the hearts of the contributing alumni. And, as one Techster puts it, "The alumni here never seem to die." Curry, who could easily pass for a successful young businessman, appears to be as low-key as Pepper was — well — peppery. But he also is very much his own man. "I know they're happier if I wear a coat and tie, so I do," Curry says. "But I stopped a long time ago trying to be what people want me to be. I don't see myself as being the embodi-

When spoken by Curry, who comes across as a realistic idealist, the term "student-athlete" doesn't even sound hypocritical. "I played with too many people in the NFL who didn't have a degree, who couldn't write a complete sentence, who couldn't express a thought," he says sadly. "When I was with Baltimore, I once asked a rookie what he had majored in. He said football. I said I was serious and he said he was serious, too — he 'majored' in football, changing majors periodically, never taking anything but elective courses like the philosophy of basketball. "When I asked if he had a degree he just laughed and said it would take him 3 1/2 more years because he didn't have any required courses. I asked him what he planned to do with his life and he said he'd play pro football. He didn't make it. I don't know what he's doing now. "Did his school educate him? Is that something to be proud of? A coach has to help a young man realize his potential in the classroom and on the field, socially and morally. A coach is everything to a young man away from home for the first time — mother, father, brother, sister, teacher, clergyman — and it's an awesome responsibility.

Booters Buoyed By Improved Attitude

By SUE FERNALD
Reflector Staff Writer

A year ago team discord hampered the Pirates' ability to win soccer matches. This year improved team attitude and more depth marks this season as potentially the most promising ever.

The conditioning and attitude has greatly improved from last year, said team members Brad Winchell, Duane Degaetano and Kris Solt. Because of this they predict ECU should win matches that were lost by one goal or tied in 1979. Last season the Pirates lost four games by one goal and tied two.

The caliber of the players has improved, in part, because of the influx of out of state players, especially from the New Jersey area where soccer is big, and also has been a factor in the rising team spirit, commented Degaetano.

"Everyone is capable of being put in and playing well," Winchell said. The team consists of 23 players this season, four of whom are freshmen. The rest are returning players with a year or more of eligibility. With this talent Coach Brad Smith hopes to make this ECU's winningest soccer team ever.

"Perhaps one of the most outstanding parts of the soccer team this year lies in the ability of the goalies," Smith said. Steve Brown and Brian Winchell are both battling for starting goalie and it should be a tough decision.

Another of the teams' strengths this year lies in midfield, because, according to Smith, "of improved ball control and experience of the returning half backs." Returning at half back are juniors Andy Roman and Solt and sophomores Chip Baker and Steve Brody. Promising freshmen include Andy Cross and Scott Moser.

In the past ECU's scoring ability has not been strong. According to Smith "The only ingredient, if any, that is missing is solid-punch scoring." The booters return only one player with more than one goal scored.

Junior Brad Winchell could be the leading scorer this year. In the past two seasons Winchell has scored 15 goals and had six assists.

Other potential starters on the front line include sophomore David Hays, who when teamed with Winchell could be the answer to ECU's goal-scoring problem. Smith also said he is looking for other team members to score who haven't been proven scorers in the past.

The major asset of the defense will be ball control. The defense's ability to dribble the ball out of danger could prove the key to its success. Smith cited Degaetano as one of the Pirates' best fullbacks.

The Pirate's 1979-80 record was 6-11-2 and 10-1-1 during the spring season. The improvement in the spring season was due largely to improved team attitude and spirit, according to some team members.

The Pirates will kick off their season in Virginia this Saturday. ECU will then travel to Chapel Hill the following weekend for the Mayor's Cup Tournament, which features teams from N.C. State, UNC, Duke and ECU. Smith said the Wolfpack will probably be nationally ranked this year and UNC and Duke will be ranked in the South. "The Pirates are much improved and will probably be ranked in the South this year if we can beat any of the traditionally tough teams," Smith said, adding the tournament should be a test of how much the team has improved.

The Pirate's first home game will be against Guilford College, Sept. 10, at 3:30 p.m.

It was tendinitis. He did not pitch again in the majors until 1978, when he won his first two decisions before the shoulder problem recurred. His last major league victory was April 12, 1978 when he beat the Texas Rangers 3-2 in Arlington.

Fidrych pitched in only four games last year. He saw an orthopedic specialist in San Diego last summer and underwent hyposis this year to overcome his fear of throwing.

"It really felt good to finally get a win. The guys have been working hard and scoring runs for me, but I haven't been doing my job," Fidrych said. "I haven't had any consistency at all. I don't know why. All I know is I like the way it came out tonight."

"It's been a long time since I've been able to satisfy the fans in Detroit," Fidrych said.

New York, meanwhile, defeated Oakland 6-1 and maintained a 1 1/2-game lead over Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles thumped Seattle 10-4, Boston clobbered California 10-2, Texas edged Toronto 3-2 and Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-3.

The only well-hit ball off Fidrych was Harold Baines' two-run homer.

Tigers Manager Sparky Anderson said he was "extremely pleased for the boy. He's been through a lot in the past three years, and we can never know what that did to him. Maybe this win will ease the tension."

Champ Summers, Alan Trammell and Tim Lincecum hit homers for Detroit in the first game. The Tigers won the nightcap with four runs in the fifth inning, ignited by John Wockenfuss' two-run single.

NFL Cuts: 'These Things Happen In Football'

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Guard Mel Mitchell felt he finally had made the National Football League. Today, he's on the outside looking for a job. I was shocked, but then these things happen in football. The former Tennessee State guard said Tuesday after being cut by the Minnesota Vikings.

Only last Saturday, following Minnesota's 38-16 preseason victory over Cleveland, he was awarded the game ball for his play.

"I didn't think I had done anything wrong," Mitchell said. "I thought I had contributed. But the coaches have to keep the guys they think will be best for the team. And I'm sure Coach Bud Grant did what he thought was best for the team."

Mitchell, reportedly from a large family, sent home all of his money except $5 each week while in training camp. He was a fourth-round draft choice of the Miami Dolphins in 1976, was released in 1977 and signed by the Detroit Lions, who released him in 1978.

He signed again with the Dolphins last year and was cut again.

This time, though, was different. Or so he thought.

4 Pirates, Paschal Survive NFL's Turk

Four former East Carolina Pirates, along with a former Rose High School star, have apparently made it through the final cuts of the National Football League's teams, although one of them has been placed on the injured reserve list.

Doug Paschal, a former star fullback at Rose High School and the University of North Carolina, was one of two fullbacks retained on the Minnesota Vikings roster when the team cut to 45 players yesterday. He is running in the second team position behind former N.C. State great Ted Brown.

Sam Harrell of East Carolina, who was in the running for the second team spot with Paschal, was placed on the injured reserve list after suffering a hip injury in the final exhibition game. According to a local source, Harrell's status will be much like that of a college "redshirt." He will be ineligible to play this year, unless brought back and placed on waivers.

Eddie Hicks, a second year player with the New York Giants, is expected to be one of the starting halfbacks for the team this Sunday in its opening game with the St. Louis Cardinals. Hicks had been hampered by injuries earlier in the season, but has come back to advance in the Giant backfield.

Zack Valentine, another two-year veteran, made the list of 45 with the Pittsburgh Steelers for the second year. The former Pirate is a linebacker.

Reggie Pinkney, in his second year with the Baltimore Colts, following several years with the Detroit Lions, was retained in the defensive backfield.

Grant had called Mitchell "the hardest working player I've ever had."

"Behind his quiet exterior, Mel is a very intense, very bright young man," Grant said after telling Mitchell he had been cut. "He didn't cry. He understood. He's disappointed."

"It means a lot to anyone who gets cut. The only difference is that he comes from a little tighter straits than some other people."

But the acquisition of veteran tackle Nick Bebout from Seattle on Monday made Mitchell expendable as the Vikings got down to the NFL's 45-player limit.

"I'm not going to give up," said Mitchell. "I hope I can play somewhere. I know I can play. I know I'll keep trying until they say, 'Mel, don't try anymore.'"

Defensive lineman Ryan Mullaney and receiver Steve Gauntly were also released and the Vikings placed three players on injured reserve — linebacker Dennis Johnson, defensive lineman Ray Yakovonis and running back Sam Harrell.

Like Mitchell, guard Tyrone McGriff is also stunned. The difference is that McGriff, the last player picked in the 1980 NFL draft, made the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

McGriff, a former Florida A&M standout, was even a longer shot since he had been cut by the Hamilton Tiger Cats of the Canadian Football League before he showed up at the Steelers' training camp.

"I felt good about the way I had played, but you still never know," McGriff said.

The Los Angeles Rams announced Tuesday that their four star defensive holdouts — end Jack Youngblood, tackle Larry Brooks, guard Dennis Harrah and linebacker Jim Youngblood — will rejoin the team. However, linebacker Bob Brudzinski, who also has expressed unhappiness with his contract, left the team.

In other camps, the Oakland Raiders picked up place-kicker Chris Bahr, who had been cut by the Cincinnati Bengals, and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers signed place-kicker Garo Yepremian, cut by the New Orleans Saints last week.

The Pittsburgh Steelers placed veteran defensive end Dwight White on waivers. When no other team claimed him, the Steelers returned him to the roster after putting rookie defensive end John Goodman on the injured reserve list.

Several other veterans were put on the injured reserve list, including center Jack Rudny and tackle Charlie Getty of the Kansas City Chiefs, running back Bubba Bean of the Atlanta Falcons, fullback Roland Harper and tight end Greg Latta of the Chicago Bears, and offensive tackle Jon Giesler of the Miami Dolphins.

The Washington Redskins reduced their roster to the 45-player limit by cutting wide receiver Morris Owens, a five-year NFL veteran who was obtained from Tampa Bay during the off-season.

The New Orleans Saints placed halfback Mike Strachan on injured reserve and filled the spot with Larry Coombs, a rookie from the University of Idaho.

The Philadelphia Eagles claimed safety Zak Henderson after the defensive back was waived by Cincinnati.

Court Order Gives Illini Starting QB

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — It took a court order, but Dave Wilson will make his debut Saturday as starting quarterback for the University of Illinois.

Wilson, who sat solemnly through eight hours of testimony last week, smiled broadly and shook hands with his attorney, Robert Auler, when a judge ruled Tuesday he could play this year.

"I feel great," Wilson said. "Now I can get ready for the game. I was pretty optimistic but it did affect me at practice time."

Illinois Coach Mike White was relieved but has little time to prepare Wilson for the Northwestern game on Saturday.

"Obviously, we now have a starting quarterback in Dave Wilson," said White. "But, we have not been able to give him the practice time he needs. There is no question that this has not been an easy thing for Dave Wilson."

Judge Harry Clem of Circuit Court set aside a Big Ten Conference ruling that Wilson was academically ineligible and could not play until 1981.

Clem said Wilson's potential as a professional player would be damaged if he sat out this season. He also said the Big Ten broke its own administrative rules in the Wilson case and that Wilson had a good chance to win his lawsuit.

The preliminary injunction will be in effect until Wilson's suit against the Big Ten and the National Collegiate Athletic Association is heard.

The Big Ten said Wilson, a 21-year-old transfer student from California, did not have enough academic hours to play this year.

Auler said the lawsuit probably would not be heard until the football season is over.

Big Ten attorney Byron Gregory said he was not sure whether he would appeal Clem's ruling.

Ultimately, the case hinges on whether Wilson is a junior, as he contends, or senior, as the Big Ten says he is, and how that determination was made.

Clem agreed that the Big Ten broke its own rules when it found the junior college transfer student eligible to play this fall, then changed its mind.

With the suit, Wilson also hopes to win the right to play football at Illinois again next year, something the NCAA and the Big Ten prohibited him from doing.

Women's Golf World Series Set To Begin

CLEVELAND (AP) — A previous format flopped. The players were against it. The PGA threatened court action over the use of its name.

Despite those obstacles, the $150,000 World Series of Women's Golf begins Thursday with a select international field of 12 led by Donna Caponi Young, Amy Alcott and Nancy Lopez-Melton.

A similar Ladies World Series of Golf, with six players, fizzled after only two years in 1966 and 1967 in Springfield, Ohio.

But LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe believes this event, carrying the largest purse ever of $150,000 for women's golfers, will succeed.

Starr Safe ...For Now

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Dominic Olejniczak, president of the Green Bay Packers, says he doubts the National Football League club's fortunes are so miserable that Bart Starr will be fired, at least this week.

"I wouldn't think so," Olejniczak remarked Tuesday to an interviewer.

He was asked to predict the mood of the club's seven-man executive committee, which holds its monthly meeting Thursday amid rumors that the Packers are ready for a new coach and general manager, a tandem job for which Starr still has two years on his contract.

"I'm only one of seven members, but I'd say probably not," Olejniczak said when asked if a replacement coach might be an agenda topic at Thursday's meeting.

No prospective coaches have been contacted by the committee, he insisted.

Rumors have included George Allen, lately of the Washington Redskins, as one of those being considered.

Starr, who retired as a player in 1972 after being the premier quarterback of Green Bay's glory days of the 1960s, became coach five years ago.

As if it weren't bad enough to have ended the 1979 season with a 5-11 record and a defense that ranked 28th in the NFL against the rush, Starr was questioned during a Board of Directors meeting earlier this year about the wisdom of his draft choices, the first two of whom came with built-in knee injuries and one of whom preferred to sign with another team anyway.

By the time the Packers ended their exhibition season Saturday without a victory for the first time since they began keeping such preseason records in 1955, talk was prevalent that Starr would soon be unloaded.

The preseason's final game at Lambeau Field was serenaded by booing from the Packers' usually obsequious fans, who exacerbated the insult by cheering the visiting team when it intercepted a Green Bay pass.

Nevertheless, Olejniczak, looked upon as the dominant Packer influence since the departure of hallowed Coach Vince Lombardi, insisted Tuesday that Starr is getting no bum's rush.

"I think Bart is the type of gentleman who has stated that anytime he thought that he couldn't do the job, he would step down," Olejniczak said. "The season hasn't even started. He should be given a chance."

Indeed, much of the Packers' problems involve injuries over which Starr has no real control.

Starr acknowledged after Saturday's humiliating 38-0 loss to Denver that injuries represent a "reasonable explanation for our deterioration."

But he gamely insisted that none of his comments "about all the injuries should be construed as excuses."

Sportswriters grilled him Monday about his job security.

"I am really not concerned about that," he replied. "I am concerned about team morale."

"I don't think an early loss is going to jeopardize my chances of staying here," he said.

The Milwaukee Sentinel quoted another member of the committee as saying: "I have no suspicion of Starr being fired. I think it is going to get better. Good Lord, it can't get worse."

French Racer To End Chase

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — French Baron Marcel Bich says he won't be back in 1983 for another America's Cup challenge campaign.

The Bic Pen founder has invested hundreds of thousands of dollars and no doubt a few tears in four losing America's Cup challenge campaigns — and that's enough, he says.

"Ten years is a long time," the baron's son Bruno said. "The cup competition is a grand thing. But it is not everything, you know?"

He is unswayed by the fact a Bich yacht this year finally made it into final challenge in 1970.

Barring the unexpected, the baron's sleek France 3 faces elimination in the final trials against Australia, having lost the first three races of a best-of-seven series on Rhode Island Sound.

Jokes From A Dropout Attorney

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The woods (read "hot tubs") in these parts are filled with guys who quit their high-pressure, high-yield white collar jobs in pursuit of more "meaningful" work. They open toy shops that serve white wine to browsers, or they make natural furniture. Bob Mills is one of them. He worked hard as a young man, endured the grind of law school and joined a law firm in San Francisco. He got married, bought a house in nearby Palo Alto and settled into a life that made his mother proud. Unfortunately, the life made Bob a little nervous. He didn't like the responsibility of mucking around with other people's lives. Law is serious stuff.

Boring, too, Bob thought. You spend weeks researching a case, add to the file, research some more, add to the file some more. You end up with a fat file, "And what's a file?" Bob asks. "Nothing."

Bob wanted to do something meaningful. So, like so many others, he quit his three-piece job, sold his house and moved down to Southern California. Unlike so many others, Bob found meaningful work in Hollywood. He writes jokes. Gets paid for it.

He started writing gags when he was a lawyer, "just as a hobby, to keep my sanity," he says. He sent a few to a San Francisco radio disc jockey, Don Sherwood, who liked them and used them in his show. Sherwood encouraged Mills to send some of his jokes to Hollywood, which Mills did, with some uncertainty. He was lucky to choose as his correspondent (and eventually, his mentor), one Gene Peret, who was then head writer on "The Carol Burnett Show."

"He told me, 'I have no doubt that you can make it in this town,'" Mills recalls. "I encourage you to keep it up." Well, that was his big mistake, because I kept writing back.

Turns out that Peret was himself a white-collar escapee, a former engineer who used to send three-dollar-a-gag jokes to Phyllis Diller before making the trip West and hitting the big time.

With Peret's encouragement Mills and his wife moved here in 1975. "I wrote like crazy and knocked on a lot of doors. Everybody was nice, and encouraging, but it's hard to get started if you don't have a track record."

"I was so new, that for my first interview — 'The Rich Little Show' — I showed up in a suit. Big mistake. Comedy writers never wear a tie or jacket."

But Gene Peret came through. He tipped Mills about an opening on the "Dean Martin Show." Mills wrote a few pages of jokes, turned them in, and he was in the joke-writing business.

Bob Hope hired Mills away from Martin in 1977, and Mills has been one of Hope's two full-time joke writers since then (the other is veteran gagster Gig Henry). They fill Hope's bags with Opening lead: King of ♣.

Minor suits are all but forgotten at duplicate pairs competitions. The scoring is to blame — the rewards for a successful contract in a major suit or no trump are considerably higher than for minor suits.

That explains the bidding on today's hand, played at the recent ACBL Summer North American Championships in Chicago. South felt obligated to rebid his good five-major suit and North elected to play in the 5-2 fit. Note that a slam in clubs depends on little more than the spade finesse.

At the table we watched, declarer showed exemplary technique. West attacked with two high hearts, and declarer ruffed the second round with the ten. He realized that many pairs would reach six clubs, and if the spade finesse succeeded, all would outscore him. So South decided to base his play on the fact that the spade finesse was destined to lose. If that were the case, declarer would do better than all the pairs who played in a club contract, even if he collected only ten tricks at spades. And if the spade king was favorably located, South's efforts to secure his contract would match all those players who languished in a club game, since scoring twelve tricks in clubs yields the same 120 points as netting ten tricks at spades.

At trick three, declarer led a low spade to dummy's nine. West played low, setting a subtle trap. If declarer now ran the spade eight, West would win and force declarer with a heart. That would leave West with a long trump and declarer would fail by several tricks. But South was not to be deflected.

He continued with a trump to the ace. Leaving two trumps outstanding, he started to run the clubs. West could ruff any time he desired, but declarer retained trump control. The defenders could score no more than two trump tricks and a heart, and declarer received an excellent score for a well-played hand.

Few In Town Listening To Gospel Of Pritikin Diet

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Want to improve your sex life? Live longer? Feel better? Think clearer? Save money?

the claim that it does all those good things for you. "If those five things won't fly, nothing will," he said. But thus far, "Project Life" — a state-supported program — has done more fizzling than flying. Too many folks here are like Lonnie Casey, a supermarket manager who is astounded when anybody buys either of the two Pritikin diet items he stocks — bread and a smelly cheese. "If I got to eat something that chokes me, I'd just as soon stay fat," he said, slapping his ample paunch. The food they like in these parts is totally immoral — jambalaya, spicy meat pies, fried chicken, thick steaks, gravy, dumplings, dirty rice, cornbread, chitlins, strawberry shortcake, Cane River pie adrip with whipped cream and chocolate.

Ellis says that stuff clogs the arteries with cholesterol, fills the blood with triglycerides and sooner or later — zap! He started preaching the Pritikin gospel seven months ago, when Natchitoches — pronounced Nak-a-tush — became an experiment in the controversial Pritikin diet.

At the time, Ellis was fresh from a losing, and expensive, campaign for state superintendent of education and his main interest was $40,000 put up by then-governor Edwin Edwards to start a Pritikin program. Now he's a true believer, with his beloved mayonnaise and bologna sandwiches far behind him.

On the diet, which Californian Nathan Pritikin claims can reverse heart disease or diabetes, you get no fats, no oils, no salt, no sugar, no caffeine or alcohol, no egg yolks, not more than 3½ ounces of lean meat a day.

At the "Pritikin Longevity Center" in Santa Monica, the well-heeled but unhealthy pay $4,300 for 26 days of long walks and austere meals heavy on vegetables, grains and fruits.

"If it is good enough for corporation executives and movie stars, you would think anybody would be interested," says Ellis. "But the hardest people to convince are the poor and uneducated."

The stubborn — rich or poor — say Pritikin food tastes, uh, different. They don't like it, Ellis contends it's all in their mind.

"You are not born liking anything," he argues. "You learned to like whatever you like. Food properly cooked on this diet is delicious."

"Project Life" came about because Edwards was impressed by what the diet did for a friend. Natchitoches was deemed a good test, since it has an annual death rate of 9.8 per 1,000 compared to the overall state rate of 8.9.

The kickoff banquet last Jan. 21 drew about 250 people to a Northwestern State University dining hall, where Ellis used to be director of special projects.

Though he dutifully cleaned his plate, the governor later said, "A Cajun raised on gumbo and crawfish would just as soon die 10 years early as eat that stuff." Ellis looks back on the banquet as a bad move. Unaccustomed to the recipes, the university food service scorched the first dish prepared, a broccoli bisque. An aghast gourmand said it tasted like boiled cigarettes.

"That daggummed 'boiled cigarettes' crack must have got into every newspaper in the country," mourns Ellis.

Edwards first described the project as an effort to put the entire city on the diet.

Ellis has backed off that ambitious goal. Nobody knows how many people are actually on the diet. Estimates range from 100 to 2,000.

"I lost some friends over this," he says. "But I am tired of the economics of this society deciding what you eat, though I can understand how it is for the guy who has 1,000 head of beef cattle."

Tender toes hereabouts include those of the Natchitoches Parish Cattlemen's Association. Beef is a $10 million a year business in the parish.

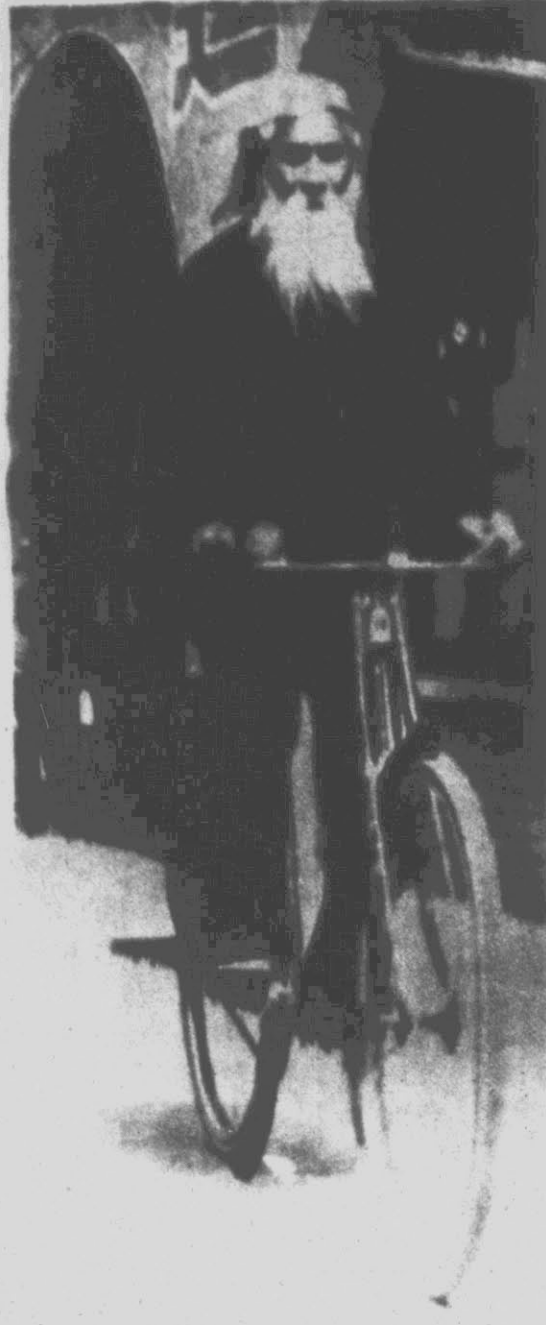

"We believe that the Pritikin diet project is a way to sell his book and an ad campaign to lead to other Pritikin projects, perhaps in New Orleans," says Ed Hunter, association president.

Hunter says the association tried to block the $40,000 state grant for the diet, arguing the contract between

Ellis and the state was illegal because "he is not a nutritionist and there aren't enough people on the diet for it to be a research project."

In fact, Hunter adds, "A lot of people feel the diet is a joke." Politicians straddle the issue.

"I made a talk before the cattlemen during the campaign and this was a hot issue with them," says Joe Sampite, the new mayor. "So I told them I was 25 percent diet, 25 percent beef and 50 percent everything else."

OLDEST MAN? — Wu Xunging is seen riding his tricycle at the age of 142 at his village in northwest China, according to the Chinese magazine New Physical Culture which interviewed him. Wu, a native of Qinghuabian Village in Shaanxi Province, says the secret of his longevity lays in optimism, physical exercise and a moderate life — which in his case means sleeping four to five hours a day, mostly in a sitting posture. Fishing Record Rests On Site

FLAMING GORGE, Utah (AP) — Frank Twitchell of Manila, Utah, landed a 37-pound mackinaw while fishing near the Utah-Wyoming border. It was 41 inches long and 29 inches around.

Utah Division of Wildlife Resources officials are checking out reports as to where the fish was taken. If the fish was taken on the Utah side, it would break a 20-year record as the largest mackinaw caught in Utah.

The catch breaks the Flaming Gorge record of 32 pounds for a mackinaw set by Richard Reinwald of Manila, Utah, last year.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mia Farrow will star in the title role in a contemporary retelling of Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray."

Panty Hose Aid Fruit Fly Hunt

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — You say you're wondering how to funnel fruit flies from gallon jars to the mouths of hungry poison arrow frogs?

Try extra-large white panty hose.

That's what the folks at the Jimmy Morgan Zoo here use. Director Bob Truett says white panty hose work best. The waistband is stretched over the rim of a jar containing thousands of tiny flies bred on mashed bananas.

One leg is tied off and the other stretches into the frog aquarium.

The white hose, Truett explains, looks more sanitary and makes it easier to see the flies. He nixes used hose with runs or holes, saying, "We'd be in trouble if we had to run over the city catching fruit flies."

The Tar Heel Vote In Congress

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 21 through Aug. 27.

HOUSE
RECESS — The House voted, 241 for and 155 against, to take a five-day Labor Day recess.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., a supporter, said "this is a long-announced recess, since the beginning of the year, and members from both sides of the aisle expect to be home, of course, and in their district through Labor Day."

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., an opponent, said: "I urge a vote against this recess so that we can stay here and finish our business and avoid a lame-duck session."

Members voting "nay" said they were opposed to the recess. However, none of them decided to stay in Washington during that period.

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L.H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.G. Hefner, D-8, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "yea."

Reps. James Martin, R-9, and James Broyhill, R-10, voted "nay."

SUN BELT vs. FROST BELT — The House rejected, 199 for and 215 against, an amendment to provide Sun Belt states with a larger slice of federal aid to help the poor pay their energy bills. The increased Sun Belt share would have come at the expense of the Frost Belt. The aid in question is $1.8 billion to be distributed to the poor in fiscal 1981 primarily to help them pay home heating costs. The vote came during debate on an appropriations bill (HR 7998) later passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., a supporter, said the federal aid should go as much for air-conditioning costs as for heating bills. "I am advised that more people died in this nation during the June-July heat wave than died from cold in the past half century," he said.

Rep. Edward Beard, D-R.I., an opponent, told Sun Belt members: "I understand your air-conditioning and the need for it. But understand what it is to be old and poor in a northern climate trying to survive."

Members voting "nay" wanted to preserve a formula giving Frost Belt states priority over Sun Belt states in the distribution of energy money to the poor.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."

BI-LINGUAL EDUCATION — The House voted, 213 for and 194 against, to prevent the Department of Education from requiring schools to teach in two languages to many students whose main language is not English. The department has proposed regulations which would require many schools to greatly expand bi-lingual education, so as to comply with the 1974 U.S. Supreme Court decision in Lau vs. Nichols. The amendment adopted by this vote prohibits the Education Department from spending any of its fiscal 1981 budget to implement the regulations. The vote came during debate on an appropriations bill (HR 7998) later passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, the sponsor, said: "If we believe in local control of education... and if we oppose the deliberate distortion of the requirements of Supreme Court decisions, we shall adopt this amendment."

Opponent Baltasar Corrada, Puerto Rico's representative in Congress, said: "This is not really an amendment against bi-lingual education programs. It is even worse. It is an amendment against equal educational opportunity and civil rights..."

Members voting "yea" were expressing animosity toward proposed federal regulations to greatly expand bi-lingual education in the nation's schools.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "yea."

SENATE
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE — The Senate rejected 36 for and 46 against, an amendment to fund a new domestic violence program by means of block grants to states rather than by categorical grants to state and local governments and community groups. Fewer federal strings are attached to block grants than to categorical grants. Had the amendment prevailed, domestic violence money would have been sent to states through an existing channel in the Social Security Act, Section XX. Defeat of the amendment leaves intact a plan to set up a new federal mechanism for administering programs to combat domestic violence. A final vote on the bill (HR 2977) was delayed until after the Labor Day recess.

Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., the sponsor, said the question before the Senate was whether "there should be yet another categorical grant program, yet another bureaucracy, yet more restraints and restrictions and red tape on local government, or do we believe in the block grant concept?"

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said that by making the domestic violence program a part of the Social Security bureaucracy the amendment "would place these victims at the bottom of the long list of groups seeking funding from the already hard-pressed, reduced Title XX program."

Senators voting "nay" wanted a new federal mechanism to administer the domestic violence program.

Sens. Robert Morgan, D-

and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

STRIP MINING — By a vote of 54 for and 31 against the Senate approved language that weakens federal regulation of strip mining in the states. The legislation makes it easier for a state to get Department of Interior approval of its plan for reclaiming scarred land. The measure was passed as part of HR 1197, a ship-tonnage bill that was sent back to the House.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the sponsor, said the law needs to be softened because of the "unfair, unreasonable, and unworkable mining and reclamation policies" of the Interior Department.

Opponent Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said the law was being changed "for the benefit of a limited few... the coal mine operators and, indirectly, the oil companies, many of which own those very coal mines."

Senators voting "yea" wanted to weaken the 1977 Surface Mining Act.

Morgan and Helms voted "yea."

Green Light To Joint Services

ROSLINDALE, Mass. (UPI) — Occasional joint Holy Communion services between Lutheran and Episcopal parishes in Massachusetts have been approved by regional church authorities for both religious bodies.

But the joint services, at which members will be able to receive communion in churches of the other denomination, will be limited to "special ecumenical" occasions according to the terms of the understanding entered into by churches in the Newton and Roslindale, Mass., areas.

More Retreads On Radial Tires

NEW YORK (AP) — Retreading of passenger car radial tires in 1979 increased 100 percent over the previous year, according to the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

The 4.5 million radials retreaded in 1979 accounted for 15 percent of all passenger retread sales.

Industry experts predict further increases in radial retreading in 1980. More than 60 percent of the nation's retreaders are showing double-digit increases in sales of mud and snow radials, while sales of other passenger tires have increased 8 to 10 percent.

Campaigning To Clean Up Soiled Cairo

By TOM BALDWIN
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Egyptian government is mounting a campaign to tidy up this ancient but soiled city. Few Cairenes view the effort as more than a once-a-year dusting, however.

"My city is as clean as it was centuries ago," said Ahmed Aly, a 24-year-old Cairene who is finishing studies in hotel management in the United States.

"The problem is with them," he adds, pointing to swarms of people and cars in the street. "This is why Cairo has become so dirty."

Cairo, once the genteel center of travel and trade in the Middle East, is a city built for three million people, but today has more than three times that number.

Indeed, by U.S. standards, Cairo is dirty to the point businessmen wear two shirts a day, backed-up sewage flows in the streets, fly swatters are common in modern office buildings and dust is so thick that it coats eyeglass lenses.

The latest clean-up campaign is being described in the local newspapers as a "face lift" in which architects, archaeologists and artists are being invited to suggest improvements to the city's streets and parks.

Said the English-language newspaper Egyptian Gazette: "It sounds extremely ambitious, and should be worthwhile if even a fraction gets done."

Street sweepers brush the gutters with bound-straw brooms. Government officials might interrupt a business conference to chase guests out of the room until a worker sprays it with an insecticide.

No Cairene would think of purchasing a new car without also buying a form-fitted cover to protect it from dust.

But the facts of Cairo, not unlike the elements of any overcrowded city, point to losing the war against decay.

Most utilities here were built at about the time of World War I, and since then have received only emergency upgrading. At the same time, according to data provided by the authoritative Middle East Economic Digest, there are neighborhoods in mostly low-rise Cairo with a greater population density than high-rise Manhattan.

Entire families, sometimes three generations from a grandmother to an armload of toddlers, spread a thin, reed mat in a shaded alleyway and call the spot their home. In the ancient City of the Dead, a sprawling cemetery, migrants from the countryside live inside mausoleums. The families of Nile River fishermen can spend a lifetime cooking, eating, sleeping and socializing on their small boats.

Another contribution to dirt here is the desert. Each spring windstorms bring clouds of desert sand into the city and there's little rain to wash it away. Cairo gets about three inches of rain a year — less than half what falls on Phoenix, Ariz.

ARTISTS GET GRANTS WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 300 visual artists have received 1980 fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The 318 artists work in the fields of painting, sculpture, drawing and printmaking as well as in conceptual, performance and video art. They received grants totaling $1.8 million in fiscal 1980.

Anniversary Of Spanish Raid In N.C.

By Dr. H.G. JONES
For The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)
— Thursday marks the 232nd anniversary of the capture of a North Carolina town by the Spanish.

It was on that Sunday in 1748 that Spanish privateers landed at the unfinished Fort Johnston with the intention of capturing the slaves assigned to build the fort.

To their dismay, the invaders found that the slaves had been given the Sunday off and had been taken to the town of Brunswick for recreation. Audaciously, the Spanish decided to surprise the whole village.

This was not the first time that the Spaniards had briefly occupied North Carolina soil.

Throughout the curiously named War of Jenkin's Ear and King George's War, Spanish privateers operated along the coast, darting back to safety in Florida. They were a threat to the defenseless residents of the Outer Banks, and as early as 1741 they had established a shore station on Ocracoke Island. Smaller vessels sailed into the shallow sounds, capturing and intimidating colonial vessels.

By 1747, in the words of Gov. Gabriel Johnston, the Spanish boldly "landed at Ocracoke, Core sound, Bear Inlet, and Cape Fear, where they killed several of his Majesty's subjects, burned some ships and several small vessels, carried off some Negroes, and slaughtered a vast number of Black Cattle and Hogs..."

During that same summer the Spanish captured the town of Beaufort and held it for three days. The danger of Spanish occupation of North Carolina began to appear real to residents of the seaboard.

The climax to these threats came the following year when, at dawn on Sept. 4, 1748, citizens of the town of Brunswick on the Cape Fear River awoke to the sound of guns from two Spanish ships and one that had been captured.

Simultaneously, armed Spaniards who had landed downstream invaded the village. In panic the residents fled, leaving the foreigners in possession of Brunswick.

While the invaders plundered the homes and shops, carrying their booty to waiting ships, Capt. William Dry sought to organize the militiamen. However, in their flight from the Spaniards, many of them had left their firearms behind.

Still, a few armed men sneaked back into town and surprised the plunderers who, assuming the American force to be larger than it was, sought to retreat to one of the ships. Nearly a dozen of them were killed and about 30 were taken prisoner.

The Spaniards who reached the ship opened fire on the town, but suddenly and inexplicably, the ship "Fortuna" blew up, killing most of the men aboard. Only a few escaped to become prisoners, and most of them were wounded.

The remaining Spaniards aboard the captured American ship began shelling Brunswick and might have obliterated the town had they not realized that their own men, now prisoners, might also be killed.

So they sailed off, taking with them that portion of the plunder that had not gone down with the sunken ship, but leaving behind about 100 dead comrades and 30 or so prisoners.

Strangely, little documentation remains of the "Spanish Alarm," as the period of Spanish depredation is called in history. There is no good contemporary narrative account of substance, and much of what we know comes from claims for compensation.

Joseph Blake, for instance, itemized his claim for "Sundry ferrriages of Men & Horses over & back again by Ferry, on account of the Spaniards landing and plundering Brunswick, and ferrying sundry Messengers backwards & forwards..."

William Dry's claim for nearly 700 English pounds listed such items as pork, beef, rice, rum, powder, balls, burying of dead Spaniards, and "for assisting to gett the Guns & anchors, &c., on shoar out of the wreck."

Enjoys His Scrap Pile In Backyard

JUGVILLE, N.D. (AP) — This thriving little town has everything in a row of white buildings — a general store, clinic, church, telephone office and school. But don't look on a map for Jugville.

It's got a population of two, plus a dog and lots of birds. And it's built on Sig and Josie Jagielski's backyard — and imagination.

Jagielski is familiar to Grafton, N.D., radio listeners as Uncle Sig, a genial Sunday disc jockey who has regaled his audience with old-time music and jokes for almost 20 years. He also is a compulsive collector.

He started 25 years ago with pencils, pens and bottles, but soon found his basement filling up with old farm equipment and other odds and ends.

It got worse when he married Josie. She too, is a passionate collector, with a kitchen full of cups and salt and pepper shakers. But she had something more potent — ideas.

"You put one horse on a wagon and he can't pull it, but two can work in harness," Jagielski said. "She comes up with the ideas to brighten this up or make that better. Twelve years ago, we decided to make something of it."

And so Jugville began. Instead of having people traipse downstairs to see his treasures, Jagielski built his town and put everything in its proper place.

Now he escorts visitors with a flourish through his yard, full of flowers and benches and chairs made of old tractor seats — and bedsteads, to the neat little town with the hitching posts up front.

"Fifteen and 20 years ago, all this stuff was in scrap piles," Jagielski said. "Me, like a goof, I like it."

Jugville holds an incredible array of business and farm machinery, antiques and long forgotten objects. An old phone switchboard, yellowed altar, and statues crts.

Taped music comes from behind the altar, and statues crowd the tiny white interior. Bookshelves behind the altar, and statues crowd the tiny white interior. Books and Bibles are placed near the colored windows.

Jagielski playfully dons a black clerical cap and pulls the bell rope, but he's very serious about the chapel's contents.

"It just seems (the churches) are going to modern times, and they're throwing all this out," he said, pointing to delicate plaster angels holding candles. "What would've happened if they'd been thrown out now?"

Jugville was christened by Mrs. Jagielski. "Jug" stands for the first syllable of their last name, "ville" for village.

Jagielski also has re-created rooms such as the portable cook shack used by threshing crews. And he makes workable models of vehicles like a stagecoach, horse-drawn hearse and covered wagon. The three-quarter scale models are built from pictures and the ideas in Uncle Sig's head.

Owl Attacked A Fisherman

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — George Thomas went fishing with a friend, Gary Wood, recently and was attacked by an owl.

Wood had a big bream on his line and was bringing it in when an owl on a nearby tree flew down to the side of the boat and tried to grab the fish.

A considerable struggle resulted, Thomas said. Wood threatened to hit the owl with a paddle but the bird ignored it.

Perseverance prevailed, however, and the owl flew away empty-clawed to resume its perch on the tree where it sat watching for another chance. Thomas said it stayed there for about 15 minutes, then gave up and flew away.

'Broadway' In Beirut Is Reflection

By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The kidnapping of a girl with a name that means "Patriotism" in Arabic is the theme of a hit play in Beirut's Hamra district, where the movie houses and restaurants have all the flashy allure of New York's Broadway.

The historical allegory entitled "Barbar Agha" is itself a demonstration of national unity in a country torn by unrelenting sectarian strife. The author and leading actors are Christians playing to a mostly Moslem audience.

Public yearning for reconciliation of the divided Christian and Moslem, rightist and leftist communities was reflected at a recent matinee performance even before the curtain was raised: the more than 500 patrons gave the national anthem a standing ovation.

The play is set in Tripoli, a city in northern Lebanon, in the early 19th century when Ottoman Turks ruled the land. Barbar Agha, a mustachioed mountaineer who rises to a position of power, launches a search for "Wataniya," an illegitimate orphan whose name means "Patriotism."

Wataniya is eventually found wounded and Barbar Agha tries to round up supporters to save her. But the public is apathetic and the play ends with her fate still unknown.

"Naturally, our artistic creation is mainly the outgrowth of painful events that have gripped the country since April 1975," said the portly playwright, Antoine Ghandour, in an interview backstage at the Picadilly Theater.

"The play is an outcry against oppression from within and without caused by ruthless leaders and conspiring neighbors," said Ghandour in response to a questioner who asked if the Turks in his play represented the modern-day Syrians, who are keeping the peace between warring Lebanese factions with 20,000 troops.

The play is spiced with topical allusions and speeches by Barbar Agha against the Turks and the British, the superpower of the day portrayed by a prostitute in a red dress who tries to seduce the Ottomans.

At one point, in an allusion to Lebanon's oil-rich Arab neighbors, an actor pulls back a white sheet and reveals the portrait of a wounded man.

"Who is this?" asks a bystander.

"It is my country," says the actor.

"Is he bleeding?"

"Yes, he's bleeding. If he was bleeding oil, though, maybe someone would pay attention."

The audience responded with vigorous applause.

At another point, Barbar Agha announces that Wataniya is bleeding and needs a transfusion. A Turkish gendarme, the modern-day equivalent of the militiaman, offers to shoot people in the street and bring back enough blood to save her.

A hashish smokers offers another solution. Round up all the mosquitoes in Lebanon and send them to devour the populace to find the blood.

Explains leading actor Antoine Kirbaj, who plays Barbar Agha: "The play tries to tell the nation that the only hope for survival rests in transcending sectarian differences and laying down the solid bases of national unity irrespective of religion or political leanings."

But the real-life tensions of modern Lebanon are never far away: ushers at the Picadilly wear 45-caliber pistols, the patrons are frisked and their bags searched. It is a house rule that nobody leaves until the play is over to prevent bombs being left behind.

Lebanon's civil war in 1975-76 and subsequent bloodletting forced an exodus of actors, playwrights, painters, poets and other artists to Europe and the United States.

Those who have remained behind often face intimidation or remain "paralyzed," by the strife, says writer Tewfiq Yusef Awad.

SPRAGUE, MO. (AP) — Dan and Nellie Daugherty worked hard all their lives but they don't have much to show for it. They didn't retire, they just quit laboring when they got too played out to go on.

Now, a devoted daughter and granddaughter are trying desperately to keep them from dying in an institution.

Dan is 85. Nellie is 10 years younger. They live in a big old white house with peeling paint that needs a lot of repair. They are two of only 11 people who still inhabit this ruin of a town that once supported three stores, two churches, a college, a bank, a grain elevator and a dairy.

Their grocery is six miles east, their doctor 35 miles south. Social Security gives them $500 a month and Medicaid and Medicare help out with the multitude of medicines and the wheelchair. They spend $200-plus a month for propane gas, lights, a telephone and the car. They eat a lot of eggs from their neighbors' chickens. And they try to keep going, one day at a time.

"When I needed money, it used to not make any difference what I did to get the money," says Daugherty, hiking up the trousers of his blue overalls. "But now my legs is so bad I can't do anything any more, can't even walk down to the pond to go fishing."

"I guess we'll just stay with it here till we die," he says, rubbing his two-day beard. "If we decide to kick the ball, this is as good a place as any to do it in."

Daugherty worked for the street department in nearby Rich Hill until about 20 years ago, when a tree limb he was sawing fell on him and pinned his hip to a car. There was no pension.

Nellie worked 19½ years at the Missouri State mental facility in Nevada, 35 miles south of Sprague, until her arthritis got so bad a decade ago that doctors there advised her she simply couldn't go on doing the hard physical labor of cleaning and carrying anymore. There was no pension for Nellie, either.

Dan and Nellie had 14 children by previous marriages. Now only three of Nellie's and five of Dan's are still living. Together the old couple also raised two of Nellie's granddaughters when their mother died.

For a few years, after Pat went off to college and Jenni went to nurses training, the elderly couple lived alone in the country house they bought 14 years ago to get away from the towns that seemed to stifle them.

But now they can't manage by themselves. Dan has swollen feet, the crushed hip that never healed, and a bad heart. Nellie has crippling arthritis, diabetes, and a progressing paralysis doctors think may have come from undetected strokes.

"If we put them in a nursing home they'd die in a month," says Nellie's only living daughter, Myrtle Ayres. "We want them to sell the house and move to Rich Hill where they can walk to the store and we can take better care of them. But they don't want to go. The house is the only thing they've got and they don't want to leave it."

Myrtle and her husband Chuck work all day in their auto parts store in Butler, 18 miles northeast of Sprague, then drive down every evening to check on the old couple and make sure they have supper. They haul groceries, take them to the doctor in Nevada, handle their finances, and try to repair the house too. They keep the same close watch on Chuck's mother, who lives with them in Butler. They have no children of their own.

"It is a labor of love for us," says Myrtle, tears welling in her eyes. "When people get old and sick you can't abandon them. We love them and they are our responsibility. Sometimes we feel worn out, but we try to do the best we can."

Like the old couple who live in its biggest house, Sprague is withered now. As with Dan and Nellie, it was strong and robust and full of life during the early part of this century, when the prosperity of its shaft and strip mining supported more than 500 people.
