Simply 'Informed' President Civiletti Defends Disclosure

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti told Senate investigators today he raised the Billy Carter affair with President Carter not to give advice but to inform the president that this "was an investigation which I would not discuss with him."
"My conversation with President Carter needs no apology," Civiletti told a special Senate subcommittee investigating the ties between the president's brother and the radical North African nation of Libya.
"I wanted the president to understand that I considered Billy Carter's case different from those about which from time to time advise him, and that this was one which we should not discuss."

The attorney general said he did tell the president he understood Billy Carter would not be prosecuted if he registered as a foreign agent. But he said he divulged nothing about the Justice Department's investigation of the Billy.
"I did not consider and the president, I am confident, did not consider this to be a 'deal' or a 'commitment' of any kind and any suggestions to the contrary are unfair and baseless," Civiletti testified.
The attorney general said he does not recall telling his investigators six days earlier to wait 10 days before taking any action against the president's brother.
But Civiletti said that if he did make that statement the purpose would have been to give Billy Carter time to register voluntarily.

"I cannot state precisely what I said," Civiletti told the senators, "but I can state that I never directed or suggested that the investigation in any way be delayed or deferred, and it was not."
But Civiletti told the senators he did make a mistake by telling the press last July 24 that he had not discussed the Billy Carter affair with the president when he had.
Civiletti said he thought the question was whether he had discussed the investigation with the president and said he replied truthfully that he had not.
But he said he was wrong because the question had been whether he had discussed the matter with the president at all, which he had.

such information is so sensitive it should not be passed on to anyone unless the need for it is essential.
Civiletti said he did allow his investigators to see the information so that they could confirm information they had received from other sources that Billy Carter had received $220,000 from Libya.
Two Justice Department officials testified Thursday that Civiletti told them June 11, after a breakthrough in their investigation, "Let's wait 10 days or so and see what happens" before deciding whether to take criminal or civil action against Billy Carter for failing to register as a Libyan agent.
On June 17, Civiletti told President Carter "there would be no punishment" for his brother if he registered voluntarily. While Civiletti has acknowledged telling Carter his younger brother was "foolish" for failing to register, he says he did not discuss the department's investigation of Billy Carter with the president.

the order to wait came after he met with Civiletti to report that Billy Carter had acknowledged receiving $220,000 from Libya.
"The way I interpreted it was that we should give Billy Carter a chance to register before taking action," Lisker testified. "I did not interpret it as an order to abate the investigation or in any way slow it down."
Deputy Assistant Attorney General Mark Richard, who also was at the meeting, agreed with Lisker's interpretation.
Assistant Attorney General Philip R. Heymann said Civiletti's disclosure that he had discussed the matter at all with the president was surprising because the attorney general had told him sometime in June: "I shouldn't tell the president anything about the Billy Carter case."
But Heymann said "it is hard to figure out how what the attorney general said to the president could have messed up our investigation."
He noted it was public knowledge that the Justice Department was trying to get the younger Carter to register as an agent, and Civiletti did not disclose any secret strategy that the president could have reported to his brother.
In other testimony Thursday, both Heymann and Lisker said the fact that Billy Carter accepted $220,000 from Libya made him a foreign agent.

Unemployment Inches Down; Food Cost Up

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged down to 7.6 percent in August, signaling a slowing of the recession, but wholesale food prices surged upward for a second straight month to forewarn sharply higher supermarket costs, the government reported today.
In companion reports, the Labor Department said significant improvements in manufacturing for the first time this year helped lower the jobless rate from July's 7.8 percent rate.
Department analysts interpreted the unemployment dip as a positive sign that economic activity is improving following a sharp drop in output earlier this year. Unemployment has remained fairly stationary since May.
At the same time, however, the department said wholesale, or producer, food prices at the finished-goods level spurted 4.4 percent last month, the steepest increase in seven years. That jump followed a 3.8 percent rise in July. Government analysts attributed the large increase to the unusually hot and dry weather that has devastated crops and livestock throughout much of the country.

Overall, wholesale prices jumped 1.5 percent in August, following a 1.7 percent increase in July. Last month's increase, if compounded over 12 months, would equal an annual rate of 20.2 percent. That compares with an actual increase of 14.6 percent in wholesale prices for the past year.
Department analysts said the higher food prices would be passed on to consumers at the retail level quite soon.
And further increases may be coming later this year, the department said, because wholesale food prices at an intermediate level of production jumped 9.7 percent in August, the largest rise in nearly six years. That increase will take longer to work its way up to the consumer level.
If there were a good sign in the producer price report, it is that prices for non-food items continued to moderate, suggesting an easing of inflation outside of the food sector.

Producer prices for non-food goods rose 0.7 percent in August, compared with a 1.1 percent increase in July.
The Labor Department refers to its wholesale prices report as the Producer Price Index for finished goods, which surveys items ready for sale at retail, such as an assembled car. The department also measures prices for goods at an intermediate stage, such as rolled steel, and at a crude stage, such as iron ore.
The Producer Price Index stood at 249.0 in August, meaning that it cost $249 last month for a basket of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.
The number of unemployed people in the country dropped by nearly 200,000 in August to 8 million, while non-farm employment as reported by businesses rose by 200,000, the first increase since February.

Polish Premier Is Silent On Unions

By SUZANNE SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer
WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's new premier, in his first major public statement since the end of crippling strikes, promised today to "increase the role of the trade unions" as a partner with the communist government. He did not mention "independent self-governing trade unions," the key concession granted the strikers.
Appearing before a special session of parliament, Premier Jozef Pankowski pledged that his government would raise wages, freeze meat prices and increase consumer goods in hopes of improving living standards.
Pankowski said trade unions "play an important role, but the government is not to formulate their policy and their goals."
"What I want to stress is that we want to increase the trade unions' role as a government partner solving important social and economic problems of the working people."
His remarks came during a two-hour speech before the Sejm, or parliament, in which he outlined the government's plans for implementing the controversial settlements negotiated with striking workers in the Baltic region and the Silesian coalfields. The last of the strikers returned to work today.
The government information agency Interpress said Communist Party leader Edward Gierk, a member of the Sejm, did not attend the session but gave no reason for his absence. Gierk has made no public appearances since announcing on television Aug. 24 widespread dismissals within the party and government leadership and promised a new direction in dealing with the labor crisis.

In another development, Polish television said a special commission had been set up to investigate allegations that the former head of radio and television, Maciej Szczepanski, had stolen state funds. He was removed from his position in the government shakeup that also saw Premier Edward Babuch ousted from office.
Pankowski, named premier during that shakeup, told the legislators that "for the sake of social and national good" the government would implement agreements made with striking workers ending weeks of labor unrest.

"We expect from the crews of those factories and works (which struck) that they will also keep their promises, particularly, making up production losses," Pankowski said. His speech was reported by the official PAP news agency.
Pankowski said meat prices — whose doubling last July triggered the labor crisis — would be frozen until next fall, effective immediately. There was no indication at what level the prices would be frozen.
He said Poland would introduce five-day work weeks starting next year, and that the lowest monthly salaries would be raised by $13.50 to $80 by next January.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.
Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

SEVERED LIMB?
I've heard and read a lot lately about how possible it's getting to have cut off fingers, toes — even arms and legs — put back on surgically. What steps should be taken to save and protect the severed body part? J. F.

A local plastic surgeon told Hotline that the severed limb or digit (finger or toe) should be kept clean, cool and damp on the way to the very closest medical facility. Clean saline solution is excellent, he said, but most people don't have it readily available. Clean ice water is also good. Don't, he said, under any circumstances make an attempt to freeze it. Freezing would kill the tissue and, of course, make reattachment impossible.

Even if the victim needs to be sent on to a medical center that would have a reimplantation surgical team, it would be best to stop for medical care at the nearest medical facility, he said. That facility would then make arrangements for the emergency surgery while the patient is enroute.
Of as much concern as care of the detached part, he said, is the care of the traumatic amputation victim. Bleeding should be stopped by apply firm, gentle direct pressure he said. If this doesn't work, try a tourniquet as a last resort, the best and most easily available of which is probably an ordinary belt.
Community rescue units should be trained in traumatic amputation care procedures, he said.
Asked if any reimplantation is being done here in Greenville, he said, "Yes, some. Fortunately, no doctor is called on to do very much. These kinds of accidents don't happen very often."

"I was wrong in attempting to draw such a close, lawyer-like distinction in responding to a general public inquiry," Civiletti said.
On another matter, the attorney general said he withheld U.S. intelligence information on Libyan payments to Billy Carter from his own investigators for two reasons.
One, he said, was that the information could not be used in court without jeopardizing a U.S. intelligence source. The other, he said, was that he believed then and believes now that

Couple Being Held In Alleged Offer To Trade Baby For Sports Car

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP) — A New Jersey couple who allegedly tried to trade their 14-month-old son for a $8,800 used sports car were being held today in lieu of $100,000 bail each, authorities say.
James M. Green, 29, and Pamela Spencer Green, 21, of Frenchtown, a tiny community on the Delaware River across from Bucks County, Pa., were being held in Hunterdon County Jail in Flemington until they could post 10 percent of the bail, said Municipal Judge Jeffrey Martin.
The Greens, formerly from Arkansas, were officially charged with endangering the welfare of a child and selling a child, Martin said. If convicted, each could be sentenced to from three to five years in jail and fined $7,500 on each offense, said the judge.
Authorities alleged the two tried to trade the baby to a car dealer in exchange for a 1977 Corvette.
Officials said the Greens couldn't afford to pay $8,800 for the car, so they suggested trading their son to Italo Patinella, owner of Patinella's Auto Sales on Route 12.
Patinella notified the state Division of Youth and Family Services, which investigated the incident with the aid of the State Police and the Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office.
The Greens were arrested by State Police on Wednesday as they left the car dealership where Patinella had signed the car over to them.
The child, whose name has not been made public, was placed in a foster care facility.

A spokesman at the prosecutor's office said the Greens were "emotionless and docile" at the arrest and booking.
County Prosecutor William Palleria declined to comment on the case.
Green is a maintenance man for a pet food manufacturer in Frenchtown. The Greens, who have been married for 2½ years, have lived in the Hunterdon County community for three months since moving from Arkansas. Mrs. Green is unemployed.
State trooper Jerry Van Riper said Green told him the couple had another child, a daughter, who was in the custody of Arkansas authorities. The officer quoted Green as saying, "They took the kid, but we never hurt her."

Registration
Registration for the fall quarter at Pitt Community College will begin September 8 and continue through September 9. Day registration will start at 8 a.m. and end at 2 p.m. Night registration will begin at 6:15 p.m. on both days.
Classes will begin September 10 and the last day for late registration will be September 15.
The fall term will mark the beginning of PCC's 20th year of operation.

Governor Sees Security Need

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Thursday threats against his security have also included warnings that his family might be harmed.
"You don't worry so much about yourself. But when they start talking about your kids..." Hunt said at a news conference where he broke the administration's silence on the threats.
"You have to be concerned. We have no way of knowing whether they're true. That's one reason we have to have more information..."
Security for Hunt and his family was increased sharply during the Democratic National Convention in New York, where members of the Communist Workers Party interrupted one session and staged demonstrations, sometimes ending in violence, outside the convention center.
CWP members have also interrupted Hunt's news conference in Raleigh, and another CWP member threw eggs at Hunt and independent presidential candidate John Anderson during the National Governors Conference in Denver.

Brent Hackney, Hunt's deputy press secretary, said the threats did not end with Hunt's appearance at Democratic convention.
"There have been threats against me and all of my family," Hunt said in response to questions. "This has been going on for several weeks."
Hunt and Hackney both said some of the threats have been made by persons who identified themselves as linked with the CWP, but Hunt said there was no proof the CWP actually was responsible for the threats.
CWP members have publicly stated they believe state and federal officials conspired against the CWP when five of its followers were killed in a confrontation in Greensboro last Nov. with a group of Ku Klux Klansmen and American Nazis.
Hunt said the State Bureau of Investigation is looking into the threats in an effort to determine the identity of those responsible.

Life As It's Lived

Coffee Mug Raised To Joys Of Motherhood

By GAIL MICHAELS
My one rule for living is not to take yourself too seriously. It's too depressing. I'm just not worth it. Most people agree. Even my husband takes everything I say with a grain of salt. I had to have the results of my lab test notarized before he would believe that I was pregnant the last time. Naturally, then, I'm amazed when a reader commits this grievous error.

I was astounded when a lady wrote to accuse me of being the lowest kind of animal hater because I expressed minor irritation at the propensity of the neighborhood dogs to use my front yard as a public toilet.

I was equally surprised when a young man with a camping expertise acquired over 18 months pointed out my bad taste in criticizing that worthy avocation.

And just recently a reader took me to task for mixing coffee with breast-feeding.

I want to reassure my readers that I am not raising a caffeine-crazed baby. Zachary sleeps beautifully. It's his sister who prevents me from getting a reasonable stretch of sleeping time.

This child thinks 5:30 a.m. is a normal waking hour. I can't count the times she has loomed over me at 3 a.m. and announced, "I'm not tired anymore."

Her internal clock is one reason I'm hooked on coffee, but it's not the only one. I have one other reason for refusing to part with my coffee cup now that Zachary's here: I'm convinced that far from harming babies, a little caffeine, nursing and motherhood go a lot more smoothly.

I say this because Meg was a non-coffee baby. Frightened into submission by the new asceticism, I didn't touch the stuff during my pregnancy. Neither did I touch red meat, cat boxes, or alcohol. I wouldn't even use wine vinegar on my salads. I came to consider pregnancy and, later, nursing as disciplines, not pleasures.

Happily, Meg was born healthy. She was also born a night owl. Although caffeine was never once introduced into her system during 14 months of nursing, she fell asleep at 1 a.m. and nursed three times during the night with a 3 to 5 a.m. social hour. She wouldn't let us rock her back to sleep. We had to walk her or, better yet, dance. She had a marked preference for Nat King Cole.

This made me skeptical of asceticism to say the least. So I greeted the news of Zachary's impending arrival with a cup of coffee and I've been drinking one or two cups a day ever since.

And it has worked wonders. Not only am I more relaxed than I was with Meg, but since we recovered from the two month Johnny Carson colic (caused, according to Zachary's doctor, by gulping too much air, not caffeine), Zachary has been a model child. He takes a morning and afternoon nap and sleeps 12 hours at night with only one pre-dawn break for a little snack. When he's awake, he is alert, calm, and immensely entertaining.

Thus I raise my coffee cup to the joys of motherhood and say, "Cheers."

Screening Program Will Begin

Pitt County schools will begin their DIAL Screening, (Diagnostic Indicators for the Assessment of Learning) at the kindergarten level September 8-19.

This program is to identify exceptional children and their needs as early as possible in the school setting. All kindergarten students in Pitt County will be screened at their schools by the personnel at the schools.

The four areas to be screened include gross motor skills (throwing, catching), fine motor skills (cutting, drawing), concepts (identifying numbers, colors), and communication skills (naming objects, telling stories).

Parents will be sent letters describing their child's strengths, weaknesses and a list of possible activities to help enhance the strengths along with overcoming the weaknesses.

For further information on the DIAL Screening program contact Jenny Thigpen at the Pitt County Board of Education, 752-6106, ext. 226.

Football

Millions of sports fans will hear the familiar sounds of crashing helmets and thudding bodies this Sunday as the official 1980 pro football season begins. The simple word "football" is not a completely accurate label for the game that enralls so many Americans. Various games played around the world are also known as football. Outside of the U.S., our brand of the game is generally called American football, closely related to Canadian football. Both are spinoffs of England's rugby football. Also originating in England was a game that today, in most countries, is known as Association football, or simply football. We call it soccer.

Mark Birthday Of Col. Sanders

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. is celebrating the 90th birthday of founder Col. Harland Sanders with a three-day bluegrass festival beginning today. Officials expect upwards of 100,000 people will attend.

Bill Monroe and his Bluegrass Boys and Emmylou Harris will be among the 22 stars performing free outdoors at the Belvedere Plaza on the riverfront.

Sanders will be honored on his birthday Saturday with a concert by Miss Harris, which will be emceed by television personality Phyllis George Brown, wife of Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown Jr.

Sanders was hospitalized in early June for treatment of pneumonia and it was determined then that he was also suffering from acute leukemia.

He was released after a brief stay and began receiving chemotherapy. KFC spokesman John Cox said the leukemia appears to be in remission.

HOME COMING SERVICE

Coffee Cake Features Pears

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

If cookbook shelves can attest to Americans' interest in yogurt, an old-world specialty, mine can. Reposing on them now are almost a dozen cookbooks devoted to using yogurt. Their publication dates range from 1956 to 1980.

When I came across the following recipe for yogurt and fresh Bartlett pear coffee cake I looked through my yogurt cookbooks to see whether the recipe was in any of them. It was not. An enterprising cook seems to have devised something new.

Fresh Bartlett pears will be with us for some months. A medium-size pear (2½ inches in diameter and 3½ inches high) contains only about 100 calories. Other virtues? The fruit is high in fiber and low in sodium.

YOGURT AND FRESH PEAR COFFEECAKE

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 medium-size fresh Bartlett pears
1 large egg
2-3rds cup sugar
¼ cup butter, at room temperature
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup plain yogurt

Streusel, recipe follows
On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt.
Cut unpeeled pears in half and remove seeds and center membranes. Finely chop ½ pear (or as much as needed)

Therapy For Mama's Boy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I know you advise women to pay careful attention to how a man treats his mother if you want to know how he will treat his wife. But how about this?

I am a 34-year-old woman who is dating a man who is 36. He is twice divorced (no children) and lives with his 70-year-old widowed mother. This is my first big romance.

I can understand his feeling of obligation to his mother, but he can't be away from her for more than 30 minutes without phoning to tell her where he is and when he'll be back. We seldom go anywhere without her, but when we do, he's constantly phoning to keep in touch. Incidentally, she is not an invalid. She's in good health but has never tried to make a life of her own. Her son is her whole life.

I have deep feelings about this man, but his attachment to his mother bothers me. He says he loves me, but I can't cope with this mother-son relationship.

Does he have a problem, or do I?

DEAR DESPERATE: You both have. But unless he realizes that his attachment to his mother is hampering his relationship with you, and he wants to overcome it, don't plan on a future with him. His only hope is to get into therapy and learn how to be a loving and caring son without allowing his devotion to his mother to consume him.

DEAR ABBY: The letters from people who are hard of hearing interested me because my mother has had that problem for years.

I wonder how many of your readers know that there's a small piece of equipment that can be attached to the telephone receiver to amplify the sound? We put one on my mother's phone three years ago, and it has been a godsend.

She can push a little button with her thumb and raise the volume of the caller's voice. There is a small installation

Might As Well Snow

Coming up. Fall madness. It has already begun... college football, that is.

One of the major matchups of the season was held before, for most of us, the season even gets underway. The Texas Longhorns defeated the Arkansas Razorbacks in a Monday night football game on Labor Day. It has to be about as early as major college football ever begins.

Closer at home college football won't be far behind the Texas-Arkansas game.

Our own East Carolina meets Duke on Saturday. North Carolina hosts Furman, Wake Forest plays Virginia Tech and N. C. State plays William & Mary.

Thousands of excited fans are psyching themselves up to support their favorite teams and the long parades of autos, buses and what-have-you in the way of transportation will soon be winding toward the huge football stadiums.

We can be certain that Saturday won't include football weather — not if you are accustomed to thinking of football games being played in windy and cold stadiums. It almost certainly will be hot and the fans will be in shortsleeves. None of that will dampen the spirits of all those who go out to cheer their teams, however.

For many North Carolinians the thermometer still says its summer. There's time for another trip or two to the beaches, and there is still plenty of fishing and golfing weather ahead.

For the football fan, however, fall is here. The college teams will be teeing up the football Saturday afternoon, and for those who love football it might as well be snowing.

Offer Skyjacker Flight

WASHINGTON — There seems to be a rash of airplane hijackings to Cuba lately. One can only gather that the hijackers are disappointed refugees who are homesick for the old country and want to get back there as fast as possible.

This is understandable but very inconvenient for people who are on the same plane and have no interest in seeing Havana.

The U.S. government is doing everything to beef up security and weed out the would-be hijackers but with little success. It seems to me that they are overlooking the easiest and cheapest solution to the problem.

Instead of trying to stop hijacking, we should provide free air transportation back to any Cuban refugee who doesn't want to stay.

Major fields in Florida would have planes on a 24-hour standby basis, and all the disaffected Cuban would have to do is call a toll-free number and make a reservation.

The planes would be provided by the airlines, who would save thousands of dollars by giving this kind of service rather than deal with the re-routing of a hijacked plane and the irate passengers that are on board.

This is how the "Hijacker Money-Saving Plan" would work:

As each refugee disembarks in Key West or some other port of entry, he would

"You can still fly back to Havana after that. Just go to any airline office and tell them you're a potential hijacker and they will have you an airline ticket to connect you with one of our shuttle flights leaving on the hour from Miami."

"Do I have to change in Atlanta?"

"Everyone has to change in Atlanta. But one of our federal marshals will meet your plane and escort you to the right gate and help you with your baggage."

"I may want to see Disney World first."

"Be our guest. Air Florida has a red-eye special leaving Orlando at 11 o'clock in the evening. It will get you into Havana by 1 o'clock in the morning."

"Do I have to make a reservation in advance?"

"Of course not. Just show up at the airport and they'll leave whenever you're ready."

Having been informed that there is no need to hijack a plane to get home, Raoul and the people like him will have no desire to do anything illegal to return to their motherland.

It is only fair to mention that most Cuban refugees who have arrived on these shores do not have any desire to return to Mr. Castro's Socialist paradise, and no one should be given a free ride back against his will.

But there are a few such as Raoul who find the U.S. does not live up to their expectations, and we owe it to them to see that they get back to Cuba safe and sound.

To publicize the new U.S. to Cuba service, the airlines could buy billboard space all

Dismayed By Inept Team

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — On the afternoon of Aug. 25, Republican senators and House members, packed into a room in the Capitol's East Front so crowded that many stood and some sat on each other's laps, felt for the first time that Ronald Reagan will lose the election unless things change quickly.

The congressional "surrogates" who have agreed to travel the country on behalf of the Reagan-Bush ticket were summoned for a campaign briefing. It turned out to be more of what the congressmen described as a "fiasco" or a "disaster." Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, the surrogate in biggest demand, walked out in disgust.

To the lawmakers, the Reagan staff showed itself to be disorganized, pompous and unprepared for the heroic task of defeating a determined incumbent president. By dressing down an important Reagan supporter, William Casey also raised doubts about whether he is equipped to fill the campaign manager's post he has held since Feb. 26.

This is not merely the traditionally foul temper of Capitol Hill. The same things are being said by worried Reagan insiders. Nor is there much time to lose. One Reagan strategist expects the next crop of national polls will show a stunning Reagan decline. As panic sets in, Reagan will have to get organized.

Reagan's backers on Capitol Hill did not really understand the disarray in the Reagan campaign until that Aug. 25 briefing. "I thought it was just the usual liberal media gang trying to zing Reagan," one Southern lawmaker confided to us. "Boy, was I wrong. The press aren't telling half of it."

The sloppy physical arrangements were the tip-off. Room EF100 was not nearly big enough to accommodate the surrogates and their aides. To make matters worse, Reagan headquarters sent a platoon-sized briefing team ("It seemed like a hundred of them, but there must of been around 20," one congressman remembered.)

thin, Reagan's research chief, were present. But the briefing was done by two of Reagan's young right-wing staffers, Rich Williamson (who began the campaign of '80 managing Rep. Philip Crane's ill-fated presidential bid) and Terry Dolan. The surrogates had expected to be told exactly how they would fit into the Reagan campaign. They got nothing of the sort.

Instead, using flip charts, Williamson and Dolan dealt with "peripheral" issues, to use the word invoked most often by the listeners. Much time was spent describing the "vindictive" personality of Jimmy Carter, documenting how he was so terribly nasty to the late Hubert Humphrey. It was at this point that Kemp walked out.

Rep. Bob Bauman of Maryland, a rising conservative force in the House, took the floor (as we reported earlier) to plead for congressional consultation on decisions such as George Bush's dismal trip to China. What we did not report was Casey's reaction. When the meeting broke up, Casey sought out Bauman to upbraid him for speaking up.

"You're perfect, aren't you?" the tall, lanky Casey, a 67-year-old New York lawyer, snarled to the short, stocky 43-year-old congressman. "I suppose you never made a mistake." He then committed the unforgivable sin for a campaign manager, putting the blame on the candidates, Reagan and Bush, for the China trip. "I didn't make that decision," said Casey, "they did."

Casey and Co. neither want nor accept advice from the best minds on Capitol Hill. Rep. Thomas Evans of Delaware, a former Republican national chairman who is supposed to be a senior Reagan adviser, has found himself ignored. Innovative freshman Rep. Newt Gingrich has been trying to interest the Reagan staff in his insightful views into his fellow Georgian in the White House, to no avail so far.

The discussions between Reagan and the Hill on the announced Sept. 15 mass pledge by Republican congressmen, standing on the

Oil Spill Protection Needed

Oil in Eastern North Carolina has long been a dream.

Though none has ever been developed the U. S. Geological Survey now estimates that millions of gallons of oil and large amounts of natural gas lie off the North Carolina shores.

Hearings are being held concerning leasing rights for the potential energy source.

It is virtually certain that if oil reserves of large magnitude lay off the North Carolina coast they are going to be developed. The concern now is to make certain that every safeguard is taken to avoid oil spills which can be disastrous to the coastal areas of our state.

RALEIGH — Say it isn't so. There are those modern-day Tar Heels who never heard of Kings Mountain. Sooner forget the Alamo, or the Maine, or Pearl Harbor.

For without Kings Mountain and the overmountain march which set the stage for British defeat in North Carolina just 200 years ago this year, we might still have a Royal Governor in the palace at New Bern instead of Jim Hunt in Raleigh.

But judging from the puzzled stares and muttered comments at a recent gathering when Gov. Hunt mentioned the upcoming reenactment of the overmountain march, there are many in this state who don't know about Major Patrick Ferguson and Gen. Charles Cornwallis who set about crushing the Carolinas in the spring of 1780.

They did right well for the Crown after taking Charleston and sweeping South Carolina back into line. Ferguson, leading a large force of Whigs and Tories, themselves Carolinians for the most part, ran a hit-and-run campaign to the west as Cornwallis headed toward Charlotte with the main army, routing Continental opposition at Camden, S.C., along the way.

From Gilbert Town, near present-day Rutherfordton, Ferguson sent word to Col. Isaac Shelby, a leader of the revolutionaries, that unless the mountain people stopped fighting he would "march his army over the mountains, hang their leaders and lay their country waste with fire and sword."

The patriots swept on to Cowpens, S.C., picking up men from Georgia and South Carolina to swell the ranks to more than 1,800. From Cowpens, about half the force mounted for an all night push to tackle Ferguson on Kings Mountain; riding in a blinding rainstorm and struggling to keep their powder dry.

Removed Legend has it Ferguson declared profanely that not even God could move him from his high ground. The smaller army of mountain men, at 3 p.m. on October 7, swept onto the slopes and began picking away with their sharpshooting skills.

Ferguson died, along with (Continued on Page 6)

On September 25 they started gathering on the Watauga River, coming from Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina. The leaders read like a gazetteer of place names in the hills: McDowell, Shelby, Campbell, Sevier.

Wearing rude buckskins and carrying muzzle-loaders, the mountain men moved out a thousand strong to camp on Roan Mountain, pass Spruce Pine, and down to Quaker Meadows near Morganton on September 30.

To the editor:

The increase in trash on the streets and sidewalks in our city has increased immensely this past week. Granted, with a sudden increase of over 13,000 students at ECU, some littering is inevitable.

However, the number of glass bottles and drink cans found in parking lots, streets, sidewalks, and resident yards is deplorable. What of the barefooted child or the unsuspecting jogger or stroller in the dim lights of early morning or dusk? Not to mention what the cost must be to replace tires punctured by broken glass.

On Monday, the Greenville City School opened its doors to an estimated 4,900 children for the start of another school year. The Greenville Association of Educators, a unit of the North Carolina Association of Educators, wishes to express a desire for a good year and to say hello to the citizens who do not know the Association.

GAE members are looking forward to a good year for our schools. We want this year to be the best that it can possibly be for each child.

We hope that all parents will work with us to make this year a successful learning experience for each child. Each parent should visit his child's school early in the year.

A good working relationship between the parents and the school is one of the most important factors in determining whether a child does well in school. Educators want to work with parents.

For those of you who do not know, NCAE is the large professional association in the state with some 45,000 teachers, principals, supervisors, superintendents and other certified educators as members.

Was Credit Explosion Real?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Do Americans use credit irresponsibly? Have they been overextending themselves? Or did the alleged unbridled growth of credit during the 1970s contain myth as well as fact?

The answers no longer are as clearcut as they had appeared to be when we casually spoke of the credit explosion and wondered aloud when our neighbors would be declared financially dead by the bankruptcy court.

On re-examination, some of the figures don't add up in quite the way we thought they did. And because they do not, some questions now arise about whether the country has always followed correct credit policies.

On March 14, for example, a worried Federal Reserve suddenly clamped down on consumer borrowing, and in so doing perhaps pulled the rug from beneath an economy that already was tripping and falling over itself.

The Fed move, which helped produce one of the most abrupt economic declines ever experienced, was well fortified with statistics. During the 1970s, for example, consumer instalment credit rose 207 percent, from $101.2 billion early in 1970 to $311.3 billion in late 1979.

But after dissecting the figures for the AP, Professor William Dunkelberg, associate director of Purdue University's Credit Research Center, found "a somewhat different picture," which is to say a deflated picture.

In real (not inflated) dollars, he points out, consumer instalment credit rose 58 percent in 10 years. In the same period, disposable income increased 20 percent, and population rose 19 percent.

Considering this, and assuming a constant debt-to-income ratio during the period, credit growth comes to 2 percent a year, "a modest figure in light of the attention policymakers have given to consumer credit."

Besides, says Dunkelberg, we rely on statistical concepts that change. And we sometimes include as credit what really are more like cash purchases, even if credit cards are used. For example:

In 1970, outstanding bank credit card debt was $3.7 billion. By the end of 1979 it was $29.2 billion and rising. Over the same period, retail credit rose to $27.9 billion from $13.1 billion. Big figures.

But, says Dunkelberg, "over $20 billion of this credit was probably repaid within the 30-day grace period permitted by credit card issuers." In other words, the credit cards were used as cash.

Dunkelberg also observes that the credit burden sometimes was assumed to be heavier than it was. But the length of loans has grown, meaning repayment terms do not represent the monthly drain of 10 years ago.

In addition, he comments, the population has become younger, and a younger population means heavier credit use because of the need to buy furniture and other items. They add to the credit statistics, but they do not necessarily represent any change whatever in credit habits.

Dunkelberg finds another peculiarity in the figures for the 1970s: Most of the credit growth appears to have been among the top 20 percent of the income distribution. The lowest 20 percent showed little change.

"All these factors generated debt statistics that overstated the increase in credit use when compared to figures based on data for consumers 10 years ago," the professor declares. "Thus, the notion of a 'credit explosion' may have, in retrospect, overstated the case."

Said the professor in conclusion: "As has been true in the past, consumers continue to show that they are quite responsible managers of their own financial affairs."

"One wonders if the same statement can be made about government borrowing, especially once all the off-budget borrowing activities are examined."

EXODUS AT MASS. UNIV. — University of Mass. students crowd the campus center bus ticket to purchase tickets to go home due to the closing of school caused by a water shortage in the town of Amherst. (AP Laserphoto)

Mass. Univ. Is Shut Down By Critical Shortage Of Water

By TRUDY TYNAN
Associated Press Writer
AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Campus police patrolled empty dormitories at the University of Massachusetts today, guarding the possessions of students who went home or celebrated in apartments around town when a critical water shortage brought a halt to classes just one day after the new school year began.

Students weighted down with bags and backpacks stood in lines three blocks long Thursday waiting for buses to take them home to await the resumption of classes — probably Monday. By nightfall, fewer than 1,000 of the 11,000 resident students were left on the sprawling, high-rise campus.

The decision to close the school had come after the town of 11,500 virtually ran out of water Wednesday night, less than 48 hours after students reported for the new year. Amherst officials said supplies had been exhausted by too much heat, too little rain and too many users.

The scene on campus was "pretty crazy," said student Richard Woodlock. "You look out the window and everyone is running everywhere," he said. "You see them running one way, then you see them running back the other way. It's like nuclear fallout."

A few fraternity houses with water pressure threw "shower parties," and school officials said they received several calls from area residents willing to take in students with nowhere to go.

Water pressure was returning slowly today, and officials said they hoped the students could return Sunday for Monday classes.

Water shortages are not new for this town, where improvement of the water supply has been a political issue for more than 10 years. A new well designed to eliminate water shortages will be ready at the end of the month, said Public Works Superintendent Stanley Ziomek, but until then the town will pump water in from neighboring Hadley.

Ziomek admitted that there had been another, less severe, shortage in 1978, which had sent water pressure plunging in some dorms. "The town has talked about expanding its water supply for 10 or 12 years," he said.

UMass spokesman Daniel Melley said students were sent home because it would take several days before Amherst could tap the water from Hadley and restore pressure.

School officials said up to 70 percent of the school's 51 dormitories were without water when the decision was made to evacuate. Several smaller dorms were kept open for students unable to leave campus, and off-campus residents took in others for weekend parties.

Officials of nearby Amherst College and Hampshire College said they had no plans to send students home. Town residents were asked to cut back on water use.

Several thousand students left campus on more than 50 special buses headed for Boston, Natick or Worcester. Others departed in some of the 8,000 registered student cars. Still others, like freshman geology major David Rosen, wondered what to do next.

"I have no idea what I'm going to do," said Rosen. "I don't want to pay for a bus to go back home to New Jersey. I guess I'll try to go to the Grateful Dead concert in Providence."

Students without $8 for a Boston bus or $5 for one to Worcester gave their school identification numbers and were told they'd be billed later. Richard LaVoice, president of the student government, said he would try to get the school to reimburse the students for their bus fares, and for meals they would miss over the weekend.

Kate Smith's Relatives Patch Up Differences

NEW YORK (AP) — Relatives of Kate Smith have patched up their differences and agreed to a number of steps that will ensure financial security and peace of mind to the ailing, 73-year-old singer.

Two nieces of Miss Smith and an attorney who serve as co-conservators of her estate signed a complex consent agreement Thursday in Manhattan Supreme Court, ending a short but vicious court battle.

Miss Smith's niece, Kathryn Rodriguez, agreed to move her family out of the singer's home in Raleigh, N.C., where they moved in uninvited last January, according to the settlement.

The court battle was triggered by another niece, Suzanne Andron of Raleigh, who said Mrs. Rodriguez, who is her sister, was disrupting Miss Smith's life.

Mrs. Andron and the attorney, Richard S. Becker of New York, had contended that Kathryn and Guillermo Rodriguez were habitually drunk, played loud music, and tried to keep other family members from seeing Miss Smith.

Attorneys for the sisters said outside the court that family differences had been put aside because of Miss Smith's deteriorating condition and their desire to do what is best for her.

Mrs. Andron's attorney,

Charles Abuza, said that Miss Smith "has moments when she is fully aware of what is going on and is lucid. At other times, she is not."

Abuza said Miss Smith still had trouble walking as a result of insulin shock she suffered in 1979 which was a result of her diabetic condition. She was living in New York City at the time and the conservatorship to handle her affairs was appointed here.

She subsequently sold her co-op apartment on Manhattan's East Side and moved to Raleigh to be near her only family. Miss Smith's sister, Helena Steene, lives with Mrs. Rodriguez about one-quarter mile from Miss Smith's Raleigh home.

Mrs. Rodriguez had been living in Puerto Rico for 10 years before returning to the United States in August 1979 after marrying Guillermo, her fourth husband.

Justice Norman C. Ryp, who approved the settlement, said that three days of testimony before him had "just begun to nick" at family differences.

"It would have been a very messy procedure" if the hearings had continued, Ryp said.

over 300 of his soldiers. Another 716 were taken prisoner. Only 28 Overmountain Men were killed. Ferguson, by the way, was the only British regular who died. All the others were Americans fighting for the Crown; cousin against cousin and brother against brother.

This year, for the sixth time, the march will be re-enacted starting at Abingdon, Virginia on September 23 and following the historic path which is up for designation as a National Historic Trail.

Along the way, all are invited to join the march and there will be story tellings, historical recountings, and contests by the realistically equipped march participants. Special events are planned along the way, culminating in a major celebration at Kings Mountain October 7. One Dead, 23 Injured In Wash. Prison Disorders

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
MONROE, Wash. (AP) — Prisoners at the Washington State Reformatory were locked in their cells today after one inmate was killed and at least 23 others were injured in a riot that left four prison buildings in ruins, officials said.

Hundreds of inmates went on a rampage Thursday night, setting fires and knifing and beating each other, after Indian and black groups apparently tried to settle their differences with a variety of weapons, said prison Superintendent Don Look.

He said the lockdown at the prison, which houses about 1,000 men 20 miles northeast of Seattle, would continue at least through Saturday.

The riot ended shortly after midnight when officers rounded up 250 inmates in the prison's "big yard," said Dick Paulson, a Department of Social and Health Services spokesman.

None of the inmates was detained as a suspect, said Look. He said prison officials, who were surprised by the outbreak because there had been no hint of trouble, would make repair plans after assessing damages today.

The dead inmate, whose body lay in the yard for several hours as the disturbance raged, was identified as Lenny Alfson, 23, of Skagit County, a white inmate who entered the prison in 1979 on a conviction for auto theft.

He was bruised and may have been stabbed, said Look.

were visible a mile away. Firefighters dispatched to the prison were forced to wait outside and the fires largely died out by themselves.

Before the roundup began, about 250 inmates remained in the large recreation yard, 100 in a fieldhouse and 30 in a chapel.

Officers from the State Patrol and the Snohomish County sheriff's office and 40 tactical squad members assisted prison guards.

Authorities said fires burned in two mobile units that had been used as offices and two quonset huts used as workshops.

Another Darrow Is At The Bar

By WAYNE SLATER
Associated Press Writer
ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — If he had it to do over, Clarence Darrow would jump at the chance to repeat the famed Scopes monkey trial.

He said so, just the other day.

"Sure I would. That was the trial of the century," said Clarence Darrow, descendant and namesake of the celebrated Chicago lawyer who more than a half-century ago made history by defending a teacher's right to teach evolution in Tennessee.

Trials of the century come around infrequently, so the younger Darrow has not yet had his chance. He has had his moments, however.

Earlier this year, some fundamentalist preachers had a bill introduced in the Illinois General Assembly to require public schools to teach the biblical story of creation along with evolution. Darrow, a member of the House, prepared to lead the opposition.

"Sometimes somebody will say I even look like him," he said. "But we are different men and this is a different time. In no way do I have his speaking abilities or his wit."

But each has made his way to Dayton, Tenn., the older Darrow in 1925 for the trial, the younger last Christmas as a kind of pilgrimage.

to politics three years later. He has made a name for himself, battling the utilities unmercifully, championing labor, defending the poor and elderly.

Darrow stretched out his lanky frame and looked about his law office. He is a big-boned man with a firm chin, blue eyes and a thatch of dark hair curling around the ears.

As he grows older, he sees more similarities with his namesake.

"He was a lawyer and a Democrat, and he was in politics, a member of the Illinois General Assembly, in fact."

"He was a lawyer and a Democrat, and he was in politics, a member of the Illinois General Assembly, in fact."

Capitol steps, to cut taxes and rebuild the economy has been a shambles so far. Kemp, who initiated the idea years ago, is so disgusted he might not even participate.

A sign of hope emerged last week when the Reagan staff finally agreed to Rep. Evans' pleas for an advance look at the candidate's speeches. Evans received the Labor Day speech first draft, which like Reagan's other first drafts lately turned out to be woefully inadequate.

To many Reagan staffers who, like Alfred E. Newman, take a "What, me worry?" view, the flak from Capitol Hill is a nuisance that should be disregarded. But a campaign operation containing few veterans of elective politics and lacking fanatically-ruthless lieutenants of the type President Carter enjoys might well look to those congressmen who sniffed the fumes of defeat in Room EF100 Aug. 25.

Darrow the younger never met Darrow the elder, who died in 1938. His link is through his grandfather, a cousin of the famed lawyer.

Carrying the name likely has helped in politics, young Clarence is quick to admit, but it has had its drawbacks. Secretaries at Chicago law firms inevitably are flustered when Clarence Darrow calls. Some don't believe him. John Marshall Law School didn't even respond a few years ago when he requested an application.

"I later learned they thought it was a joke," he said.

Darrow went to Kent College instead, turning from social work to law in 1971 and

PRELIMINARY WINNERS — Shown back stage at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City late Thursday are the preliminary winners after two nights of competition. Miss America Pageant Advances To Big Finale

By JEAN CRICHTON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss Alabama's three voices and two marionettes — Dinkle and Darlene — carried the blonde teenager to victory in the second round of preliminary Miss America talent competition. Paige Phillips, 17, of Leeds, Ala., is the youngest contestant in the 1980 pageant and one of the most polished. She won a $2,500 scholarship Thursday with a double ventriloquism and vocal act in which she and her two puppet voices socked out versions of "Swanee," "Rock-a-Bye Your Baby" and "Mame."

"I was an only child for 11 years so I created my own playmates," she said of her skill. "My parents recognized my talent. And it is a talent."

Life-size marionette Dinkle, who "sings" in a throaty register, was a Christmas gift from her parents nine years ago. The pig-tailed puppet Darlene, who squeals out her parts, was added to the act last September, Miss Phillips says.

The freshman at Birmingham Southern College attributes her success to a high upper palate and breathing exercises.

Meanwhile, one of the older contestants, Miss Mississippi, won Thursday's swimsuit preliminary. Donna Pope, 24, was clad in a white tanksuit with a low-cut back as she stepped up the runway.

Last year's Miss Mississippi, Cheryl Prewitt, became Miss America 1980 after winning a swimsuit competition in the same style suit, Miss Pope said.

"I hope history will repeat itself," she said.

For the past five years, the graduate of Southeastern Louisiana University has operated her own dance school in Picayune, Miss.

The final preliminary will be held tonight in Convention Hall. By the end of the shows, actually a series of dress rehearsals for Saturday's televised pageant, the judges will have chosen three talent winners and three swimsuit winners.

These women often, but not always, are among the top 10 contestants chosen to perform on a nationwide television spectacular.

Evening gown competition is also on the program, but the winners in this category are never announced.

Oppose Use Of Addictive Drug

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials, fighting efforts by a group of physicians to make heroin use legal for terminally ill cancer patients, say the drug may be less effective and much more dangerous than others.

Stuart L. Nightingale, acting associate commissioner for health affairs at the Food and Drug Administration, told a congressional hearing Thursday that other, less addictive drugs are safer and just as potent — if not more so — than heroin.

He also warned of the "high attractiveness" of heroin as a drug of abuse.

Judith H. Quattlebaum, president of the National Committee on the Treatment of Intractable Pain, told the House Commerce health subcommittee that heroin "is a crucial missing tool in our attack on terminal pain. Without it, many are dying in agony."

Although heroin is not approved for marketing under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, it is being used in government-financed clinical tests to determine its usefulness in easing chronic pain in cancer patients.

Rep. Edward R. Madigan, R-Ill., the author of a bill permitting licensed doctors to use heroin on terminally ill cancer patients, said in testimony that "it is our responsibility to see that the dying don't suffer needlessly."

Madigan's bill, co-sponsored by 17 other members of Congress, would allow heroin treatment to be administered only in hospitals or similar institutions.

Heroin is used legally in hospitals in England to fight chronic cancer pain.

"Heroin is more rapid acting, causes less nausea and is more humane and efficient by injection than morphine," testified Dr. Allen Mondzac, a cancer specialist in Washington.

Morphine is often used to alleviate chronic pain in dying cancer patients, but Jane E. Henney, special assistant for clinical affairs at the National Cancer Institute, said while heroin may work more quickly, it doesn't last as long as a pain killer.

She said studies in England and at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York indicate that heroin is no more effective than morphine.

Nightingale added that the proposed legislation shouldn't be limited to terminally ill cancer patients. Should heroin be approved for marketing, it should be available to any patient suffering from chronic pain, he said.

Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., the subcommittee chairman, told reporters that passage of the heroin bill is unlikely this year but might be possible in 1981 if further study supports it.

Hunter. The Original Olde Tyme Ceiling Fan.
$149.95^{UP}

Air movement, as well as temperature, determine your comfort level. So a room with a Hunter ceiling fan at 78 degrees has the cool comfort of a room at 70 degrees. Set your air conditioner thermostat up 8 degrees and save, because a Hunter recirculates the power for one light bulb. In winter, a Hunter runs on the hot air that rises to the ceiling and cuts heating costs. But all ceiling fans aren't alike. Hunter is the original. Since 1886. Cast iron housing. Permanent oil reservoir. Real wood blades. No short cuts. No cheap substitutes. Choice of models and finishes makes Hunter fit any decor.

"Hunter, the oldest name in the business—what you get that your great grandfather didn't is a five year warranty and the assurance that comes with a reputation stretching back to 1886. Hunter is still the industry standard."

Hunter confidently predicts a fan life of well over 40 years. Less expensive fans have large lightweight motor cases with small capacitor motors inside—the extra weight of solid cast pancake cases contributes to smooth operation, stability and long life expectancy.

Sales Dip For Imported Cars

By GUY DARST
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales are still below last year's levels, but manufacturers say they are encouraged by a slight increase in sales and a puzzling drop in imported car sales.

The five major U.S. producers said Thursday they delivered 486,420 cars in August compared with 697,025 in the same month last year, a 28 percent drop. The percentage comparison is based on sales per day because the 1979 month had one more selling day.

Though it was the worst August, for domestic manufacturers since 1967 — daily sales of 18,708 against 19,157, with vans no longer counted as cars — the seasonally adjusted annual selling rate picked up to 6.6 million, compared with 6.4 million in July.

Import sales fell 1.6 percent to put total industry volume 21 percent below August 1979. The total daily sales rate of 26,285 was close to 1975's 26,342, which included vans.

Meanwhile, long-term layoffs among major U.S. automakers dropped this week for the fifth straight week, falling below 240,000 for the first time since June, according to company reports.

Ward's Automotive Reports, an industry publication, last week quoted forecasts from "major importers" that August import sales would exceed 210,000 cars, a record 30 percent share of the market.

But Toyota Motor Sales, the leading importer, reported a 2.5 percent decline and Nissan U.S.A., the Datsun importer in second place, said its sales fell 7.5 percent. If those companies had matched the average sales gain of 13 percent of the four other Japanese companies, total import sales would have reached the record level.

Toyota said it ran short of popular models and noted it posted a 4.7 percent price increase at the start of the month. Nissan said it had plenty of cars but thought its price increase of 4.5 percent and news of upcoming domestic small-car offerings held buyers back.

"I don't understand it, especially since Mazda, which also had a price increase, reported sales were up," said an industry analyst who asked not to be identified.

Ford's August sales fell 38 percent from 157,836 to 93,544, General Motors Corp. declined 24 percent from 434,231 to 316,142 and Chrysler Corp. was off 37 percent from 83,509 to 50,344 but got 10.3 percent of the market for domestic makes, only the second time this year it has exceeded 10 percent for a month.

American Motors Corp. fell 4.5 percent from 12,291 to 11,305 and Volkswagen of America jumped 71 percent from 9,158 to 15,085.

Vehicle Theft Is Charged

Greenville police yesterday arrested two persons in connection with the theft of a Jeep from a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Washington Streets about 1:15 p.m.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Kenneth Ray Jones, 25 of Chocowinity, was charged with possession of a stolen auto, while a 15-year-old South Carolina juvenile was charged with auto larceny.

He said the two were taken into custody in Winterville, while the vehicle was recovered from near the Ellis Woods subdivision north of Winterville.

The owner of the vehicle was listed as Pressure Cleaning Service Inc. of Greenville.

Caution Is Urged By Chief

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon today urged motorists to be especially watchful for children walking or riding bicycles to and from school, and for school buses, in an effort to prevent accidents.

The chief said an incident yesterday focused attention to the need for caution on the part of drivers in preventing mishaps involving school children.

According to Cannon, a Greenville woman was charged with failing to obey a traffic officer after she passed a line of cars stopped by an officer and drove through the intersection of Elm Street and Greenville Boulevard, narrowly missing a child crossing Greenville Boulevard.

Even in areas not protected by school crossing guards, Cannon said, children might be expected to cross a street, or dart into the street while playing on their way to and from school.

"An extra measure of caution on the part of drivers," the chief suggested, "might prevent the death or serious injury to a child."

The police official also reminded drivers to be watchful of school buses. "They make frequent stops to pick up and let off children," Cannon said, reminding motorists that it is illegal to pass stopped school buses from either direction.

Brother Seeking Block Exhumation Of Oswald

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The brother of Lee Harvey Oswald will ask a Texas judge today to block efforts to dig up the body in the grave of President John F. Kennedy's assassin.

Robert Oswald in a hearing today will ask District Judge James E. Wright for an injunction against a British author's effort to exhume the body. The author, Michael Eddowes, believes it was an impostor who shot Kennedy and was, in turn, slain by Jack Ruby.

Wright already has imposed a temporary restraining order against Eddowes and Rose Hill Cemetery, where the man believed to be Lee Harvey Oswald was buried.

Eddowes obtained an exhumation order from Dallas County Judge Garry Weber and got permission to dig up the body from Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, and the cemetery. That's when Robert Oswald filed his lawsuit.

The author contends Soviet agent Alex James Hidell assumed Oswald's identity after Oswald went to the Soviet Union in 1958 and that it was the agent who assassinated Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Eddowes says an examination of the body would show several physical discrepancies.

But the man who agreed to examine the body, Dallas County Medical Examiner

Charles Petty, has been warned by county commissioners not to become involved in the exhumation.

Use of county property for such a venture would have "adverse effects," Commissioner Jim Jackson said.

"We told him if there was a reasonable doubt about whom was buried there, it should be done," Jackson said. "But if it was a private matter between him and the family and not a matter of public necessity, we did not want him to do it."

Petty, also a defendant in the suit, said he told the commissioners he does not doubt Oswald is buried in the grave, but added that if the body is exhumed, it should be done by a qualified pathologist in a well-equipped setting.

Wright has granted Petty's motion to move his part of the case to Dallas County, where he resides.

The judge said his ruling on the exhumation would not affect Petty's hearing, since Petty only agreed to examine the body and was not involved in the actual exhumation. Wright said he did not know when Petty's portion of the lawsuit would put on the docket in Dallas.

CHARGES MADE

Greenville police early today arrested Marianne Williams, 20 of 2501 Madison Cir. on charges of possession of marijuana, Chief Glenn Cannon said.

According to Cannon, officers took Miss Williams into custody about 1:15 a.m. at a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Reade Streets, after finding a small quantity of marijuana in her possession.

UTILITIES TO MEET

The Greenville Utilities Commission will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in the board room of the Greenville Utilities building.

The utilities building is located at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Stabilization Receipts Low

FARMVILLE — Prices were steady the three selling days of this week on the Farmville Tobacco market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade. Top practical price was $1.66 per pound, with a few sheets of quality leaf and cutters selling as high as $1.75 a pound. Volume consisted of mostly cutters and lugs. Leaf grades appeared on the floors Thursday in larger quantity than on any day this year. Stabilization receipts accounted for only 31 percent of gross sales, the lowest of the season. The market sold 409,735 pounds for $657,872, for an average of $160.56 per hundred. To date the market has sold $13,802,070, for $19,976,359 for a season's average of $144.73.

Two Collisions In One Day

Yesterday was a bad day for LeAnn Edwards, 19 of 204 South Charles St.

At 8:25 a.m., according to Greenville police, Miss Edwards' car collided with a vehicle driven by Ernest Edward McDuffie of Route 6, New Bern, at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Center Street.

Investigators, who charged her with following too close, estimated damage at $300 to the McDuffie car and $100 to the Edwards vehicle.

Officers reported that at 10:20 p.m., the same car driven by Miss Edwards collided with a parked car owned by William Prentice West of 206 Kent Rd.

That mishap occurred on Kent Road, 57 feet south of the Valley Lane intersection.

Police, who quoted Miss Edwards as saying she blacked out prior to the collision, estimated damage to her car at $1,000 and set damage to the West vehicle at $200.

Viet Refugees Waved Off Rescue By Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve Vietnamese refugees adrift in the South China Sea had a rare choice of rescuers this week — the Russian or American navies.

The refugees waved off the Russians and beckoned the Americans, who picked them up, according to a report sent to the Pentagon.

The episode occurred two days ago, while U.S. naval and air units were shadowing the Soviet aircraft carrier Minsk, which left its Vladivostok base recently.

The report told this story: A helicopter from the U.S. destroyer Hewitt was patrolling a few miles from the Minsk when the Hewitt's crew spotted a small boat containing nine men and three women.

As the U.S. helicopter hovered over the drifting boat, a Soviet helicopter took off from the Minsk and approached. So did a Soviet Krivak-class frigate escorting the carrier.

At that point, the Vietnamese in the small boat were seen gesturing to the Russian helicopter to stay away while they signaled the American copter for aid.

The U.S. destroyer got to the boat ahead of the Soviet frigate and took aboard the 12 Vietnamese. The Soviet helicopter stayed around long enough to photograph the rescue and then returned to the carrier.

The report said the Vietnamese were without food but were found to be in relatively good shape, even after 15 days at sea. Their boat's motor had failed.

Although the Pentagon will not discuss specific U.S. surveillance operations, it is known that American warships and patrol aircraft have been watching the Minsk since the 40,000-ton carrier sailed south from the main Russian naval base on the Pacific.

Sources said the Russians normally do not react in a hostile way to such American surveillance but that, twice last week, sensors aboard U.S. P-3C patrol planes indicated the Minsk had trained its radar-controlled guns on the American aircraft. There was no firing, however, the sources said.

Meanwhile, a powerful Kara-class cruiser and an intelligence-gathering ship reportedly have joined the Minsk and the Krivak-class frigate since they were seen passing through the Sea of Japan last week.

Intelligence officials believe the Minsk, which they rate as one of the most heavily armed warships in the world, eventually will sail into the Indian Ocean with its escorts. At last report, the carrier had changed to a northwesterly course in the direction of Da Nang on the Vietnamese coast for a possible port call.

Stars Threaten Emmy Boycott

By JAY ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producers of Monday's scheduled Emmy Awards telecast have said their show will go on despite a threatened boycott by some of the television industry's biggest stars.

Ken Ehrlich, producer of the NBC-TV telecast of awards by the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, said Thursday the ceremonies will be shown with or without the actors.

Meanwhile, talks between negotiators for two striking actors' unions and television and film producers were recessed.

"Basically it will go along as it has been," Ehrlich said. The show's theme, "The TV Family," has been altered somewhat because of the strike to emphasize the behind-the-scenes portions of the TV industry, he said.

Ehrlich said there was "no indication" that any winners would refuse their awards.

Although the Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists have taken no position on the show, more than 50 stars, including Ed Asner of "Lou Grant," Alan Alda of "M-A-S-H" and Erik Estrada of "CHiPs," have said they will not appear on the show if the strike is continuing.

On Thursday, a federal mediator recessed talks until further notice, said Kim Fellner, spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild. Talks in the 46-day-old walkout, the longest on record, had been held for the past 15 days.

Negotiators for the actors had offered to accept a 5.4 percent of the producers' gross income on the home video market, a reduction from the 6 percent they had earlier sought, Ms. Fellner said. The producers are offering 4.25 percent, she said.

Phil Myers, a spokesman for the producers, said: "We rejected a SAG proposal yesterday morning. It's very difficult at this point to say what will happen."

Outside the building where negotiations were under way, employees who work behind the scenes on productions renewed a plea for a 60-day strike moratorium, a proposal rejected by the actors.

Also on Thursday, striking members of the American Federation of Musicians staged the first demonstration of their five-week strike outside Burbank Studios.

Some 5,000 AFM members who provide music for movies and filmed TV shows walked out July 30 after their talks for a new contract broke down.

NEW YORK (AP) — Abbie Hoffman, once the clown prince of the Yippies, emerged from an open but fugitive existence with one-liners, a commitment to "coalition politics" and a plea for Americans to "stick to your principles."

The former anti-war radical said he was "excited, exhausted and enthusiastically optimistic. ... I am not coming back cynical, disillusioned," he said.

Hoffman turned himself in Thursday to the state's special narcotics prosecutor after six years as a fugitive wanted on cocaine charges and bail jumping. Judge Milton Williams freed him without bail.

For the past four years, he had lived in upstate New York as Barry Freed, a free-lance writer and St. Lawrence River environmental activist who once took his cause before a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Hoffman, a Chicago Seven defendant and founder of the Youth International Party, or Yippies, whose antics made him one of the best-known protesters of the 1960s, dismissed suggestions that his reappearance was a publicity stunt to promote his new book, "Soon to be a Major Motion Picture."

Hoffman, 43, said he was simply tired of running.

"I was scared every day. I was a hunted animal. I never looked a policeman in the eye," he said.

Other reasons for his surrender, he said, were that his son America, also known as Allen, had visited him this summer and was back in school, that his lawyer was free to take his case and that attitudes had changed toward cocaine since his arrest.

rest. He had jumped bail in 1974 rather than face trial and possible life imprisonment on charges of selling cocaine to undercover officers.

Hoffman spent most of his fugitive years as Freed in Fineview, N.Y., a tiny community in the Thousand Islands area of the St. Lawrence River. He was publicity director of the "Save the River Committee" there, lived in a white frame cottage and grew tomatoes.

Those activities didn't represent a fundamental change in his political beliefs, he said: "Once a Yippie, always a Yippie."

Without renouncing the raucous tactics of the 1960s, which he said were times to turn people against each other, Hoffman said the '80s were times for "coalition politics" to bring people together. "Abbie Hoffman would not have disagreed or done anything different than Barry Freed did," he said. "And Barry Freed would not have disagreed with or done anything different than Abbie Hoffman did."

During his double life, Hoffman said he learned that people should "stick to your principles."

"There were too many people of the '60s turned sour in the '70s turned rich in the '80s ... I am well aware that I am entering an age of cynicism. I want to change that."

In an upcoming magazine article, Hoffman said he hated the "schizophrenia" of his double life. "I have visions of my tombstone with several names on it," he wrote in the October issue of Quest-80. He had several close calls, and once was arrested when he failed to pay a hotel bill.

He also missed the funeral of his father, who died three weeks after he went underground. "We never really made our peace, although we had tried. He was a conservative, Republican kind of businessman who worshipped the country."

The judicial proceeding Thursday was technically a return of the warrant issued for Hoffman and not an arraignment on any particular charge. His innocent plea to the 1973 cocaine charge stands and a formal bail-jumping complaint was not presented.

With Hoffman were his brother, Jack, sister, Phyllis, and Johanna Lawrenson, the woman he has lived with for the past 4½ years and jokingly called his "running mate."

She is the daughter of Helen Lawrenson, who wrote the Esquire magazine article "Latins Are Lousy Lovers."

Asked to pose with her, Hoffman quipped, "She's taller than me, and it was very convenient because I could hide behind her."

Injured By Explosion

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Greensboro man was injured Thursday when a dynamite explosion occurred in or near his car.

Carlton Deal, age and address unknown, was treated at Cone Hospital for cuts and abrasions on his head and both arms, and some hearing difficulty. He was not admitted to the hospital.

A spokesman for the Greensboro Police Department said the explosion blasted the windows, roof and hood from the car. The city police bomb squad was sent to the scene, along with county fire department equipment and Guilford County Sheriff's officers, to defuse live explosives in the car.

A neighbor said one stick of dynamite had exploded in the initial blast and that four unexploded sticks were "rigged to half a tank of gas" and were inside the trunk.

Another neighbor said the blast shook houses up to half a mile away.

Deal apparently had parked his car behind the house of his brother-in-law, James Williams, about a mile outside the southwest city limit, police said. Sheriff's deputies were investigating the incident early this morning.

SERVICES PLANNED
CONETOE — The Rev. Walter Cherry will be the guest speaker at Conetoe Missionary Baptist Church Monday through Friday of next week and homecoming will be held Sunday, Sept. 14. Choirs rendering music each night are as follows: Monday — Cherry Lane Senior; Tuesday — Mildred Chapel; Wednesday — Anderson Chapel; Thursday — Mayo's Chapel; and Friday — St. Matthew.

There will be 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. services Sunday, Sept. 14 and dinner will be served in between. The public is invited, according to the pastor, the Rev. T. R. Vines.

1959 would receive $1,050. Under the plan, estimated dividends from the fund during the next decade would have longterm residents receiving about $10,000 a year.

Court Scuttles Alaska Reward

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska Supreme Court has struck down a legislative plan that would have distributed the state's oil wealth among its citizens by reducing the state income tax.

The court ruled 3-2 on Thursday that a law reducing personal state income taxes, based on the number of years a person has filed returns, violates the Equal Protection clause of the state's Constitution.

The court is still considering a companion "share the wealth" law that would return part of the state's oil revenues to residents, with those living here since statehood getting the most.

State attorneys who have argued for that plan, already declared unconstitutional by a lower court, say it is unique to the nation.

In response to the high court's ruling, Gov. Jay Hammond ordered the legislature into special session Sept. 22 to devise a new tax reduction law.

This spring, the legislature passed both programs, designed to return more than $400 million in profits from northern Alaska oil production to state residents this year alone. Ron and Patricia Zobel, who moved to Anchorage from Washington state two years ago, challenged the laws, maintaining they discriminated against newcomers in violation of state and federal equal protection guarantees.

Chief Justice Jay Rabinowitz was joined by Justices Warren Matthews and John Dimond in the majority opinion, with Justices Roger Connor and Edmond W. Burke dissenting.

Under the tax relief program, a taxpayer's liability would be reduced by one-third for each year he filed a return, eliminating his tax completely if he has filed returns for three or more years. The law would have benefitted residents and non-residents earning income in Alaska.

The "share the wealth" program would distribute money from the Alaska Permanent Fund, a trust for oil revenues. The program calls for one-half the trust's earnings to be distributed to state citizens, based on length of residence in Alaska. This year the fund would give each resident $50 for each year he has resided in the state. Alaskans who have been here since statehood in

Ensemble Wins National Competition

The instrumental ensemble of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church here was awarded the winning trophy at the national talent finals held in Oklahoma City, Okla., recently.

The ensemble is composed of trumpeters H. L. Austin Jr., Randy Gentry and Glenn Buck; trombonist, Mike Pollard and pianist, Paula Alcock. Gentry, Pollard and Alcock are seniors at Rose High school while Buck is a sophomore at D. H. Conley High School and Austin is a sophomore at East Carolina University.

Scholarships from Southwestern College, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., were presented each member of the group. Five regions of the United States had entries competing in the instrumental ensemble category which is one of 10 categories of competition.

The national competition was sponsored by Lifelines International, the Youth Department of the International Pentecostal Holiness Church. Mrs. Betty leRoux and Ken Kearney are directors of the music department at the Greenville church.

Meets Resume Deny Harm Proven In Nativity Scene

After a summer break in activities, the Greenville Ministerial Association will again begin holding monthly meetings.

Rev. Stewart LaNeave, current president of the association, has announced that the September meeting will be held Monday, September 8 at Hooker Memorial Christian Church, 1111 Greenville Boulevard. Coffee will be served beginning at 9:45 and the meeting will begin at 10 a.m.

Ministers in the Greenville area of all denominations and of all races are encouraged and invited to attend.

The meetings will be held at Hooker at 10 a.m. the first Monday of each month through the remainder of the calendar year.

RALLY DAY
September 7 has been set aside as Rally Day for the First Presbyterian Church. The fall schedule of two worship services, one at 9 a.m. and one at 11 a.m., will resume with communion celebrated at the first service.

A special program at 9:45 a.m. will introduce the new church school year. Following the 11 a.m. worship a covered dish picnic will be held on the grounds with ECU students as special guests. The church is located at the corner of 14th and Elm streets.

ACLU
The city of Denver each year sets up the lighted display on the steps of the City and County Building, Last Dec. 17, U.S. District Judge Richard P. Matsch ordered the display taken down, but the city appealed and got a court order temporarily staying Matsch's order. The display was taken down early this year at the usual time.

The ACLU has contended that city support of the scene violated constitutional prohibitions against governments taking actions which favor one religion over another.

The appeals court said Thursday, however, that the ACLU failed to show there were members of the citizens' organization whose constitutional rights were abridged. As a result, the appeals court did not address the constitutional issue.

The decision cited a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that people or organizations raising constitutional challenges must show they have a "personal stake" in the issue being challenged.

The appeals court said that "under our Constitutional system, courts are not roving commissions assigned to pass judgment on the validity of the nation's laws."

"A party must clearly demonstrate by facts alleged that he himself is adversely affected or that those he represents have been injured in fact," the decision said.

Joey said that he was "profoundly disappointed" by the appeals court decision.

Church Pastor To Be Honored
The Rev. Phillip Bland, pastor of the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church, will be honored by his congregation Sunday.

The day has been designated by the congregation as Pastor Appreciation Day in recognition of Bland's contribution to the community.

The Rev. Bland has been living here since August, 1979.

The special Sunday morning service will feature church leaders who will speak. The ladies of the church will also honor the pastor and his family at a banquet in the church fellowship hall following morning worship.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. Friends of the Rev. Bland are invited to attend the recognition service.

HOLLYWOOD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH will have its annual Rally Day September 7 during the Sunday School hour. This year is the 200th anniversary of the Sunday school which began in England. Hollywood will celebrate this occasion during September and October.

In late October a birthday party with a touch of yesteryear will climax the celebration.

STOKES — Annual homecoming will be observed by members of Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Rt. 1, Stokes, Sunday.

Scheduled services during the morning will be Sunday School at 10 a.m., morning worship and memorial services at 11 a.m. followed by lunch at noon. A singspiration will be held at 1:30 p.m. featuring the Gospel Chargers. The public is invited.

Think Safety... Think Christianity

Boys and girls approaching maturely deserve the spiritual protection which Christian education provides.

Whenever you approach a school crossing, slow down! But, just don't think safety — think CHRISTIANITY.

We can't miss them — these signs along the intersections of our streets. They protect our school children from physical harm. We see the sign... and slow down.

Most of us are deeply concerned about the safety of our youngsters... and these signs can be a reminder of a further obligation our society has to its youth. There are dangers in life for which only religious training and faith can prepare us.

In Moscow, Black Market In Gold Thriving Today

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — On a streetcorner in the heart of downtown Moscow, middle-aged men and women stand in a huddled knot, keeping a wary eye out for police as they quietly intercept passers-by.

"Any gold to sell? Any gold? What do you have? What's the fineness? Let's take a little walk and talk about it. I'll give you a very good price."

The prices are good indeed. Black market gold in Moscow now brings prices equivalent to $2,400 an ounce — close to four times more than current world rates, according to sources familiar with the trade.

In other parts of the country, such as Soviet Central Asia, prices are reputed to be even higher.

Inflation also hits the black market. One source said a five-ruble Czarist gold coin that cost the equivalent of about $100 on the black market in the 1960s now goes for close to $400. Even gold tooth fillings can be unloaded at premium prices.

The official Soviet press has denounced what it calls a growing public fascination with gold, but sources differ about how to explain it.

A recent article in the communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda spoke of gold as simply a matter of fashion. The paper said no one could have guessed 10 or 15 years ago that queues to buy gold at official stores would be the size they are these days.

The article claimed that people are having perfectly good teeth ornamented with gold crowns and complained that modern girls want to wear gold earrings even with simple school uniforms.

Other sources, however, say gold has always been popular in the Soviet Union for reasons far beyond fashion.

People who have acquired money illegitimately are understandably reluctant to put large sums in state-controlled banks for fear of unpleasant questions.

Keeping huge stores of money at home is also dangerous. Since the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, the nation's currency has been changed several times — with the "old" money becoming worthless after every reform.

The reforms permit the official exchange of old money for new — but sometimes with limits on quantity, a factor that can wipe out fortunes squirreled away at home.

Extra Holiday In Philadelphia

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia youngsters got an extra day of vacation today when school officials, hoping to settle a contract dispute with teachers, delayed the start of classes until Monday.

Meanwhile, students in Rochester, N.Y., were attending only morning classes because of teacher strikes.

There were walkouts over pay disputes in more than 60 school districts in 9 states, canceling or curtailing classes for some 500,000 children, according to the National Education Association.

Closed-door, round-the-clock talks continued in Philadelphia, where summer vacation was to have ended today, as negotiators for the school board and 11,000 striking teachers sought to resolve a dispute over pay raises and the rehiring of 2,300 laid-off instructors.

Schools were rescheduled to open for 220,000 students on Monday, with bus transportation but no lunch if the strike still was in progress, said superintendent Michael Marcase.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, 67,000 pupils in 16 districts and one vocational school were idled in walkouts by 3,600 teachers.

Negotiations in Rochester, N.Y., were resuming later today.

Leaders of the 2,300-member Rochester Teachers' Association were ordered to appear Monday at a contempt of court hearing before state Supreme Court Justice David Boehm.

About 2,000 teachers paraded around the school board's offices and were joined by 100 students, carrying a banner reading, "Students support a fair shake for our teachers."

The striking teachers want a 22 percent pay increase in the next two years. The school board is offering 14 percent. Starting base salary was $11,700 under the contract that expired Monday.

Educators and city officials in Newark, N.J., planned to meet today in an effort to settle a strike by 4,321 teachers.

Despite the no-contract, no-work policy of the Newark Teachers Union, the city's 90 schools were opening for a second day today. More than 60,691 children are affected by the walkout, and attendance was light Thursday. The union is seeking a 10 percent salary increase plus a 15 percent cost of living increase. The board of education is offering no increases.

A strike by non-teaching employees in Columbus public schools entered its second day, but the school board planned no legal action as long as students and teachers were not prevented from entering buildings.

About two-thirds of the 2,500 members of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees, which represents bus drivers, janitors and cafeteria workers, stayed off the job Thursday.

The walkout has mainly affected busing. About 40,000 of the school system's 73,000 students are supposed to ride buses to class during the second year of court-ordered desegregation.

Strikes by teachers in 10 Illinois school districts kept 26,692 students away from classes today.

In Michigan, 99,000 students were affected by walkouts in 23 school districts. The Michigan Education Association said 4,900 teachers were on strike.

Four school districts in Washington state were struck by 1,600 teachers, and more than 30,000 students were affected.

About 15,700 Rhode Island youngsters were at home in Woonsocket and Cumberland, and in North Providence, where teachers honored a janitor's walkout.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, confronted with a prime rate increase and some bad inflation news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 2.48 to 946.33 by noontime. Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers, however, in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened, the government reported that producer prices of finished goods rose 1.5 percent in August.

Coming as it did on top of July's 1.7 percent rise, the news was taken as a sign that new upward pressure on consumer prices was likely before long. New York's Citibank and Chase Manhattan Bank, meanwhile, raised their prime lending rates from 11 1/2 to 12 percent.

Sony led the active list, up 1/4 at 12 1/2 on turnover of better than 576,000 shares.

Polaroid gained 3/4 to 28 3/4. On Thursday the company introduced a new line of products for the professional, industrial and medical markets.

Among actively traded oil issues, Mobil was up 1/8 at 68; Texaco was unchanged at 37 3/8, and Gulf lost 1/8 to 40 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index rose .02 to 72.43. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.29 at 333.19.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 16.91 million shares at noontime, down sharply from the 29.98 million total at the same point Thursday.

Autopsy Done After Death

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
 Greenville police are continuing their investigation into the death of a man tentatively identified as Larry Wayne Wallace, 30 of LaGrange, here last night. Chief Glenn Cannon said Wallace may have died from an overdose of drugs — possibly heroin. He said an autopsy was being performed this morning in an effort to determine the exact cause of death.

According to Cannon, Wallace was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital about 9:15 p.m. yesterday by a white female, described as being 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighing 110 pounds and having long blond hair. The woman, he said, went to the hospital emergency room and told nurses that there

Local Woman Is Crowned

Mrs. Mary Moore of Greenville was crowned "Miss Order of Eastern Star" for the State of North Carolina at the 79th annual Grand Chapter session of the order's Prince Hall Affiliates held at the Royal Villa Convention Center in Raleigh, Monday through Wednesday.

Mrs. Moore, a member of Ladies Delight Chapter #10, O.E.S. of Greenville, was selected to represent the local district from among 18 contestants at the District 6 meeting held in Lewiston, in June.

She was crowned "Miss O.E.S." by Grand Worthy Matron of N.C., Maggie L. Strong, Tuesday night, after competing with contestants from each of the State's 18 districts for the honor.

Mrs. Moore is treasurer and chairperson of the Hospitality Committee for her local Order of Eastern Star chapter. She is also a member of Wynn's Chapel Missionary Baptist Church, where she is secretary, youth advisor. She is also an officer of several other church and civic organizations.

Mrs. Moore is the wife of Willie Moore. They live at 1000 Tyson St. Jacqueline Jackson, Worthy Matron of Ladies Delight Chapter #10, praised Mrs. Moore, "and all Ladies Delight members...for their hard work."

Certificate Goes To Officer

William (Bill) R. Reichstein, Jr., an ECU police officer for the past two and a half years, received a special intermediate law enforcement certificate from the Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission, N.C. Department of Justice, in recognition of his experience and training.

Reichstein has been promoted to sergeant and assistant shift supervisor. He was a patrolman on the Washington, N.C. police force for two years before coming to ECU.

Craven To Hold Vote On Bonds

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Craven County has scheduled a referendum Tuesday on a $3.5 million bond issue to help replace some of the county's century-old office buildings.

If approved, the money would be added to $3 million already available to build a new downtown office structure and renovate the existing courthouse. The new structure would include facilities for the county jail and courts and offices for the sheriff, clerk of court, register deeds, tax lister and tax collector.

No organized opposition to the proposal has been announced. EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C. Partly cloudy Sunday through Tuesday with widely scattered showers each day. Highs in 80s except some 90s in east on Sunday.

Pirates Seek Revenge Against Duke

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Last year, East Carolina did just about what it wanted to against Duke, except score. The Pirates fumbled into the end zone once, losing it to Duke, and fumbled again in the shadow of their own goal, also losing it to the Blue Devils, who scored from inside the five. That was a 14-point turnaround, and Duke ended up taking a 28-14 victory.

It was the worst game of the year for the Pirates, with six turnovers, and one of the best, if not the best, for the Blue Devils. East Carolina went on to a 7-3-1 record, while Duke stumbled home, 2-8-1.

This year, Duke has been picked for the cellar in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Penthouse magazine has picked the team as one of the 20 worst in the country. Still, the betting money seems to be going to the Blue Devils. They have been made the favorites by most of the odds-makers.

One of the main reasons for the optimism of the Blue Devil supporters is the revived passing game of Duke under the guidance of offensive coordinator Steve Spurrier. He has fashioned a nifty attack, utilizing the catching abilities of former Pirate Ron Frederick, who transferred to Duke after his freshman year, and flanker Cedric Jones.

Frederick was the leading Blue Devil receiver last year, catching 28 passes for 395 yards and three touchdowns.

Bulletin

East Carolina University faculty athletic representative Dr. Ernest Schwarz announced this morning that through an institutional eligibility review, in conjunction with the NCAA, that both fullback Theodore Sutton and cornerback Willie Holley are eligible for the entire 1980 football season, including any NCAA post-season play.

Jones pulled in 18 passes for 382 yards, and also got three touchdowns.

Last year, East Carolina's secondary proved to be its weakest point in a strong defense, and Duke, along with a number of other opponents will be testing it.

Added to that is the still-questioned eligibility of Theodore Sutton, the starting fullback for the Pirates. In a question about Sutton's participation in junior varsity ball for one game during his initial year at East Carolina, the NCAA is expected to rule sometime today whether he is eligible for the contest. Willie Holley, also questioned by Duke as having played in that game, claimed he did not play and that someone else was mistaken for him, and apparently East Carolina is satisfied that this is the truth, making him eligible.

The Pirates are also crippled up as a result of a rash of injuries during the pre-season drills. Among the wounded are last year's leading groundgainer Anthony Collins, strong running back Marvin Cobb, reserve running back Warren Brookins, tight end Norwood Vann, and tight end Steve Hamilton. Several other players are hobbled by their injuries but are expected to play.

Collins' status won't be determined until game time, the others listed are definitely out of the game.

The whole thing leaves the Pirates thin in the backfield.

Chowan Tops Bucs

MURFREESBORO — Chowan Junior College rolled to a 16-0 victory over the East Carolina University junior varsity yesterday.

It was the opening game of the year for the Baby Bucs, who were unable to get much going during the contest. James Martin's 22 yard run, longest of the game for either team, was the highlight for the Pirates. East Carolina was out-rushed, 252 yards to 85, and outpassed, 66 yards to 26.

Chowan got its first score in the second period when Jerry Hedrick scored from two yards out. The other score came in the final period when Fred Banks went in from the six with just under three minutes left in the game. Keith Meyers kicked both extra points.

The final two points came when former Rose High School player Will Barrett tackled the Pirate quarterback, forcing a fumble which rolled out the back of the end zone for a safety.

The two teams meet again on September 25 at Ficklen Stadium in Greenville.

E. Carolina	0	0	0	0-0
Chowan	0	7	0	9-16

They were already thin in the offensive line and secondary. And the secondary is probably going to be thoroughly tested—not only this week, but in week's to come.

"We feel that Duke will be a great test for our pass rush and pass defense," ECU's new coach Ed Emory said. "We've improved our pass rush. We've spent hours and hours on this phase of the game. We have people on defense who can run, so we are hopeful that we may be able to get to the quarterback."

"Our secondary is short, but they have good speed too. But they are young, also, with two 'freshmen in the top eight,'" Emory added.

Not only is Duke a strapping team, but the next opponents, Southwest Louisiana and Florida State, have outstanding passing attacks.

The Pirates, who hope to hear sometime today on Sutton's status for the game, have been preparing to play without him. Roy Wiley is expected to step into his shoes, should the number four career rusher not be available.

The Pirates will be starting sophomore Carlton Nelso, a quarterback, while Duke will be going with freshman Ben Bennett, regarded as one of the top recruits in the country last spring.

The Blue Devils will hold a weight advantage in average in nearly every position.

The game is the third between the two schools. East Carolina won the first meeting, two years ago, 17-16, stopping a late two-point conversion effort. At least one other game between the two schools is scheduled, as the Pirates are to meet Duke in Durham next fall on October 3. They do not meet in 1982 or 1983, according to Duke's press guide.

Offensive Guard Wayne Inman

Inman Leading The Way In Buc Offensive Line

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

This fall, East Carolina University's offensive line might easily be called Wayne Inman and the Kiddie Korps.

Aside from the veteran all-America guard, there is little there in the way of experience. It was one of the big problems that faced new coach Ed Emory when he checked into camp last year.

During the past few months, during spring drills and practice so far this far, the Pirates hope that they have largely overcome the problems inherited there, but it won't really be known until Saturday when the Pirates take the field against Duke.

And for a while there, there was a little worry about whether Inman would even be among them. He suffered an infection in his knee earlier in practice and missed four days. But he's back now, and leading the way.

The 6-4, 250-pound senior from Hope Mills, has some special feelings about the Duke game too, along with a number of his teammates. They remember the embarrassing loss last year, largely caused by Pirate mistakes. And they want to make up for that.

"We're up a little more because of the situation with Theodore (Sutton)," Inman admitted. "But I don't think Duke can really gain on the situation. Roy Wiley (number two fullback) is just as good a runner as Theo. He doesn't have the break-away speed that Theo has, but he's just as good in getting through the line." Of course, he's hopeful that Sutton will be in the lineup for the contest.

The infection he suffered caused a few problems for him, he admits. "I was not as strong for the first couple of days after I got back." That, too, causes him some worries about star running back Anthony Collins. "A.C.'s missed 11 days now (as of Wednesday), and that's got to tell on your condition."

Since Wayne is the lone senior in the offensive line, he's been looked to for leadership, and that gave him some early-season worries. "I really didn't like the idea of being in that position. But it got easier as we started practice. I knew I had to go through all the (agility and speed) tests and do well, since people were looking up to me. In the past, all I've had to do was follow Matt (Mulholland, now graduated)."

Duke has reportedly worked up a good passing offense, but that doesn't worry Inman either. "I think we've got a heck of a defense this year."

The physical education major is hopeful of a shot at the pros next year, but plans to go into coaching if he doesn't make it. "I'll be graduating in the spring. My wife graduates (in chemistry) in December, and we are expecting our first child then, too. Should be quite a Christmas present."

Cubs Bop Pack, 44-0

Rose High School's junior varsity football team won its second straight game yesterday, blasting Washington High School, 44-0.

Ronnie Worsley led the way, scoring two of the seven touchdowns by the Rampant Cubs. He got the action started by returning the opening kickoff 70 yards for the first score. Later in the first period, Worsley scored again, going over from five yards out. Kenny Kirkland passed to David Sneed for the two-point conversion, the only conversion made by the Cubs during the game.

In the second period, Rose added two more scores. Rodney Harrell returned a punt 80 yards for the first, and Edward Frazier scored from the five yard line for the other. That made it 26-0 at the half.

Rose picked up two more in the third period. Kirkland and Rodney Smith each picked up 40-yard touchdown runs. The final score was in the fourth period, with Donnell Lee scoring from the five yard line.

The Cubs are now 2-0 and are idle next week before taking on Raleigh Enloe on Sept. 19 in their first road game.

McEnroe, Connors Gain Semifinals

The 1980 college football season is upon us. And there has already been one upset. That came Monday night when Texas beat Arkansas in a game moved up at the request of the television cameras. Both coaches have foresworn ever doing it again (moving the game for TV), but don't bet that they won't next time ABC asks.

At any rate, our panel returns this week, hoping to improve on its overall record from last year. We are intact from last year, including this writer, sports assistant Rick Scoppe, newsman Tom Baines, advertising salesman Joe Jenkins, and our female member, Etha Allen. Plus we'll be having a weekly guest.

Our guest for this week is Rick Gilstrap, executive director of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Last week's initial football guesses, just from us, resulted in a 5-1 week. The only miss came in the West Craven-Conley game, which we thought might be the toughest one to predict. West Craven took a 14-9 win in that one.

This week, we find six games on the non-panel selections, and this is how they look.

Williamston, a winner over Ayden-Grifton last week, goes up against Gaston, a victor over 4-A Bertie last week. Was that that much of an upset? We'll definitely know this weekend. The Tigers have to go on the road for it, but we still like their chances and will stick with Williamston.

Roanoke visits Ayden-Grifton. The Redskins won their opener, while Ayden-Grifton lost its. Last year, both had a similar start, and the Chargers managed to nip the 'Skins in their meeting. This year, it could be different. We'll pick Roanoke to win a close one.

North Pitt opens its season at Enfield. The Panthers downed Enfield last year, and we really can't see much difference in this year's outcome. North Pitt starts out with a victory.

Farmville Central travels to Clinton for its season opener. The Jaguars are missing a lot of players this year, and Clinton is expected to have a tough team. This has a tradition of being a good game, but Farmville is rebuilding, and that should be enough. Clinton must be the favorite.

Columbia visits Jamesville in the first Tobacco Belt game for the Bullets. Both teams got off to tough starts last week, and another loss could tailspin one of them if it's bad. We'll go with Jamesville strictly because of the home field advantage.

Finally, Beddingfield will visit Greene Central. The Rams have a game under their belts, and it is the opener for the Bruins. That could easily spell the difference. Greene Central is favored to win the Eastern Carolina Conference, and a victory over a 4-A team could really propel them forward. We'll go with the Rams to win it.

Turning to our panel, we find the two main games for the area in Rose-Washington and East Carolina-Duke.

Rose jumped off to a big win against Kinston, while Washington took it on the chin from West Carteret. The Pam Pack features a young team, while Rose is loaded with experience. That's enough. Our panel is solid here, picking Rose by a 6-0 ballot.

The East Carolina-Duke game isn't quite as clear-cut. The Pirates are battling injuries and possibly, other problems. Duke is trying to recover from a bad season, but they did beat the Pirates last year. East Carolina has a new coach, and Duke has a new offense. Something apparently, has to give. What? The panel is split, 4-2, with the odds given to the Pirates. Scoppe and Allen pick Duke.

Our other consensus picks have Alabama over Georgia Tech; North Carolina over Furman; Wake Forest over Virginia Tech; Tennessee over Georgia; Florida State over Louisiana State; Maryland over Villanova; N.C. State over William & Mary; Notre Dame over Purdue; Miami, Fla., over Louisville; and Oregon and Stanford, a toss-up.

The full poll:

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors each took catnaps during their quarterfinal matches at the U.S. Open Thursday but both woke up in time to dispose of their opponents and march on to a semifinal battle against each other.

McEnroe, the defending champion and No. 2 seed, had difficulties in the first set with Ivan Lendl before subduing the No. 10 seed from Czechoslovakia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5 in a night match. Earlier in the day, No. 3 seed Connors took a hike in the second set but recovered for a 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0 triumph over unseeded Eliot Teltscher.

Now the two American stars can look ahead to their match Saturday. The other men's semifinal will feature top-seed Bjorn Borg and unseeded Johan Kriek of South Africa.

No men's singles matches were scheduled for today but the women's semifinals and men's doubles final held center stage. Teenagers Hana Mandlikova, the ninth-seed from Czechoslovakia, and Andrea Jaeger advanced with victories Thursday and faced each other after top-seeded Tracy Austin, the defending champion, and No. 3 Chris Evert Lloyd opened the day's schedule.

The top two seeded men's doubles teams made it to the final. Top-seeds Peter Fleming and John McEnroe, the defenders, took on No. 2 Stan Smith and Bob Lutz, three-time Open doubles titlists.

Mandlikova scored a 6-2, 6-2 triumph in the quarterfinals over Barbara Hallquist while Jaeger became the Open's youngest semifinalist ever at 15 when she defeated No. 14 Ivanna Madruga of Argentina 6-1, 6-3.

"It was a combination of the lights and how hard he hits," said McEnroe of his slow start. "It was my first night match. It was cool and all my other matches were played when it was real hot."

"I was able to hang in with my serve and eventually get it turned around."

That turnaround occurred in the second set, when McEnroe began blasting wicked serves past the helpless Czech.

"At 23, all in second set, he hit four aces in a row to the ad court to my forehand," noted the 20-year-old Lendl, considered one of tennis' brightest young players. "If I can break then, I have a real good chance."

McEnroe looks forward to facing Connors, with whom he has split four matches this year.

"We always play in the semis or finals of big tournaments," noted McEnroe. "The adrenalin really gets going and we have good matches."

McEnroe mentioned how difficult it is to play both Connors and Borg in consecutive matches.

"By the time you get to Borg, all the matches you play takes something off your game," he said. "If I have to play Jimmy, then Borg ... it's doubly hard to beat both."

Connors got careless in the second set against Teltscher, who rode a hot streak into the match, not having lost a set in nine matches and he won a tournament in Atlanta prior to the Open.

"I can't afford to fall asleep anytime, especially in the U.S. Open," said the winner of this title in 1974, '76 and '78. "I started sawing a few logs in the second set."

Rampettes Fall, 5-4

NEW BERN — New Bern High School gained a close 5-4 tennis victory over the Rose High School girls' team yesterday. It was the opening match of the year for the Rampettes.

New Bern took four of the six singles matches, and then won the number one doubles match to insure its victory. Rose was able to gain singles wins from only Belinda Haselrig and Lisa Selby. Haselrig teamed with Lou Taft for one of the doubles wins, while Marsha Tart and Liza Taylor won the other doubles match for Rose.

The Rampettes travel to Northern Nash on Tuesday for their first Division I match-up.

Summary:
Katherine Tolson (NB) defeated Bernestine Haselrig, 6-2, 6-1.
Marie Skinner (NB) defeated Lou Taft, 6-4, 6-5.
Beth Rossi (NB) defeated Martha West, 7-6, 6-4.
Belinda Haselrig (R) defeated Tiena Gaskins, 7-5, 7-6.
Lib Hudson (NB) defeated Pauline Bearden, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.
Lisa Selby (R) defeated Susan Henderson, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.
Tolson-Skinner (NB) defeated West-Ber Haselrig, 8-4.
Bel Haselrig-Taft (R) defeated Gaskins-Hudson, 8-5.
Marsha Tart-Liza Taylor (R) defeated Genny Beck-Amy Morgan, 8-1.
Exhibition: Janet Spell (R) defeated Missy Spencer, 8-4; Tart (R) defeated Ronnie Jacobson, 8-1; Selby (R) defeated Beck, 8-2; Taylor (R) defeated Morgan, 8-3.

Perry, Yanks Win, Move Out

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Dan Quisenberry has put out a lot of fires for the Kansas City Royals this year.
But Thursday night, he personally fanned one into a roaring blaze.
Before it was over, the Milwaukee Brewers rallied for eight runs in the ninth inning to pull out a 9-5 decision over the American League West leaders.
"I can remember when Texas came in here and did the same thing against Quis," said Kansas City Manager Jim Frey. "After that, we went about three weeks without allowing a run. This was the type of situation in which we have gone to him all year."

Quisenberry, with a major league-leading 31 saves, was brought into Thursday night's game after starter Larry Gura — leading 5-1 — had given up singles to Don Money and Dick Davis at the start of the ninth.

Sal Bando and Charlie Moore followed with run-scoring base hits and then after Paul Molitor flied out, Robin Yount and Cecil Cooper each singled home a run to tie the game. Quisenberry intentionally walked Gorman Thomas to load the bases, but Ben Oglivie followed with a two-run single. Money and Davis each singled in another run before Ken Brett came in to finally stop the rally.
"We should have been doing this all year," said Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger. "I think we have a great come-from-behind club. We haven't done it much this year, but knew we could do it. After a couple of hits in the ninth you could feel something might happen. And, of course, something did happen."

Elsewhere in the American League, New York beat California 5-3; Oakland turned back Baltimore 7-1; Seattle trimmed Boston 7-4 and Toronto nipped Chicago 3-2.

Before Quisenberry lost it for the Royals, they had built a 5-1 lead with the help of a solo homer by Frank White in the fifth and a two-run blast by George Brett in the seventh.
Brett had a 1-for-3 night to drop his major league-leading average to .401.
Yankees 5, Angels 3
Gaylord Perry and Ron Guidry combined on an eight-hitter and Lou Piniella and Rick Cerone had RBI-singles during a three-run first inning to lead New York over California.
The victory, coupled with losses by Baltimore and Boston, put the Yankees 2½ games ahead of the Orioles and 8½ in front of the Red Sox in the AL East race.
Perry, 9-10, and the winner of 288 major league games, allowed three earned runs in six innings, giving up seven hits with two walks and two strikeouts. Guidry, relieving in the seventh, earned his first save of the season.
A's 7, Orioles 1
Tony Armas, Dwayne Murphy and Mike Edwards drove in two runs each and Matt Keough hurled a six-hitter to lead Oakland over Baltimore, snapping the Orioles' four-game winning streak.
Oakland pounded 15 hits off Baltimore starter Mike Flanagan, 13-11, and reliever Sammy Stewart as the A's snapped a seven-game losing streak. Keough, 14-12, struck out one and walked none and during one stretch, retired 11 straight batters.
"They were due to bust out," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "They had lost seven in a row and I knew we were going to have trouble."
Mariners 7, Red Sox 4
Bruce Bochte drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and a single and Dan Meyer cracked a two-run homer as Seattle stopped Boston. The loss was the second in a row for the Red Sox after a nine-game winning streak had brought them to within 6½ games of first place in the AL East.
Glenn Abbott, 10-10, was the winner with spotless relief help from Manny Sarmiento, who came up from the minors just Thursday afternoon to gain his first save this season. Dennis Eckersley, 9-12, took the loss.

Houston Stops Dodger Streak; L.A. Holds Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Once upon a time, Philadelphia rookie right-hander Bob Walk landed in jail for throwing at Houston's Cesar Cedeño — from the left-field pavilion at Dodger Stadium.
"Yeah, they hauled me off for throwing stuff," said Walk, a native of suburban Newhall. "We always sat out in left field. That's where the rowdies sit."
Thursday night at Dodger Stadium, the 23-year-old Walk did his pitching from the mound, and for seven innings was headed for his first major league shutout. He settled for his 10th win in 14 decisions, a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles as 36-year-old Tug McGraw preserved the triumph with his 17th save.
The loss ended the Dodgers' seven-game winning streak, but they remain atop the National League West, one-half game ahead of Houston. The Phillies have a one-game lead in the NL East over Pittsburgh and Montreal.
In the only other games scheduled in the National League Thursday, Montreal blanked San Francisco 4-0 and San Diego edged New York 3-2.
The Phillies took a 3-0 lead on home runs by Mike Schmidt (No. 36) and Greg Luzinski (No. 17), but when Walk gave up a leadoff single in the eighth to Dave Lopes, he was replaced by Warren Brusstar.
After Brusstar got the first out, Dusty Baker followed with his 27th homer, and the Dodgers were within a run.
Brusstar gave up two more singles before McGraw took the mound. He retired pinch hitter Joe Ferguson on a popup to shortstop and gave up a single in the ninth before getting 42-year-old pinch hitter Manny Mota, in his first at-bat all season, to ground to shortstop for the final out.

Shortstop Larry Bowa threw the ball into the dirt, but first baseman Pete Rose was able to dig it out.
"There's something about this game that still gets me excited," said McGraw. "I nearly had a seizure when Bowa threw that ball into the dirt. I could feel the tension and I'm sure it had to do with the donnybrook I caused."
McGraw and the Dodgers' Bill Russell were principals in a brawl on Aug. 25 in Philadelphia.
"Looking back, it was not a very proud moment in my life," said McGraw, who hit

Russell with a pitch just after Ferguson had singled home two runs on what was supposed to be an intentional walk. "In fact, I'm very embarrassed."
Los Angeles starter Jerry Reuss was in search of his seventh straight victory. But Schmidt tagged him for a two-run homer in the first, the eighth home run Schmidt has hit off the left-hander.
"It may have been the eighth, but it was the first one this year," said Schmidt. "He is trying to adjust, he's a student of the game. But I hit what I see."
Luzinski hit his homer in the seventh and Reuss, 16-5, left after seven innings. Bobby Castillo finished up for the Dodgers.

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Just over two years have passed since ABC News broke the mold with an evening news format featuring three anchor-men rather than the customary one. And now, another long-standing tradition seems to have fallen by the way: ABC's position as the No. 3 network in news.

It's been four months since ABC's "World News Tonight" slipped past "Nightly News" on NBC and into second place in the evening news sweepstakes. This summer, for the first time, "World News Tonight" ran ahead of a competitor — "Nightly News" — for a full quarter.

"World News Tonight" now has been runner-up to CBS' "Evening News" 17 of the last 18 weeks, the exception being the week of Aug. 18-22. The margin separating ABC from NBC in the evening news ratings is not a large one, though for July, ABC had 25 percent of the audience to 22 for NBC and 27 for CBS.

Ratings are important, but ABC News' ascent clearly means a good deal more to the man largely responsible for the only significant development in network news standings in a dozen years.

"We set out to build from the ground up, and not to go for the quick-fix gimmick," says Roone Arledge, who took charge of ABC News three summers ago after nearly a decade as president of ABC Sports.

"I think what we did has paid off, and not just in the ratings," says Arledge, who makes a reported $700,000 a year as president of news and sports at ABC. "I think the thing ABC News has now is consistency. You can watch now not feeling uncertain whether ABC is going to cover the news.

"It used to be when we wanted to interview somebody, and the other networks did too, we'd lose out. It's no mistake that the big, fine newspapers break the big stories. To that degree, public recognition that ABC News is fully competitive with the others is very helpful."

Arledge went to work at ABC in 1960 after six years in production at NBC. By 1961, he had established himself as an innovator with creation of "ABC's Wide World of Sports." His credits since then include "NFL Monday Night Football," begun in 1970, as well as ABC Sports coverage of major events, notably the summer and winter Olympic Games in 1976.

Arledge thrust ABC News into competition with CBS' "60 Minutes," from a critical standpoint, with the introduction June 6, 1978 of "20/20." The newsmagazine's premiere edition was a disaster, and by the second program, Arledge had replaced the original hosts, Harold Hayes and Robert Hughes, with TV veteran Hugh Downs.

The show now is competitive in its Thursday night timeslot.

While the early days of "20/20" may have been the most trying endured by Arledge as president of ABC News, the introduction of "The Iran Crisis: America Held Hostage," may have been his most triumphant moment.

The late-night news program premiered Nov. 8, 1979, within days of the takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. In late March, "The Iran Crisis" became "ABC News: Nightline," network television's first regularly scheduled late-night news program.

In 22 weeks on the air, 11:30-11:50 p.m. EDT, "Nightline" has finished No. 1 or tied for first in its time period. The competition includes Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show on NBC, and CBS' "Late Movie."

ABC attracted about 22 percent of the audience between 11:30 and midnight between April and July of 1979, largely with reruns, and in the same span this year, "Nightline" pulled a full quarter of the audience.

"I know how I set out to make it happen," Arledge says. "I started with the evening news because viewer habits are so entrenched there. Plus, we felt we could have quick impact by improving our special events coverage and documentaries, and by revitalizing the news operation on 'Good Morning America.'"

The turning point, for Arledge, came shortly after Iranian militants took over the U.S. Embassy.

"Three, four days into Iran," he recalls, "I was asking, 'What do we have?' The story had wound down a bit, but we had the only correspondent there."

"I called Fred Pierce, and suggested we do a special every night until the crisis was over. Nobody had any idea it would last as long as it has."

Pierce, president of ABC Television, agreed to the late-night news program, which would expand on "World News Tonight" coverage of events in Iran. "It was part of a desire we had," says Arledge, "to demonstrate wherever we could the ability we had to cover a major story."

There has been considerable speculation recently that Arledge might like to try his hand at prime-time entertainment programming.

"That's been suggested more or less officially a couple times in the past," Arledge says, "but I'm not interested. I wouldn't necessarily consider it a promotion."

"I really believe that the future of television is ultimately going to be in news and sports," he says. "As the audience becomes more sophisticated, the interest is going to be in those areas."

Red Skelton Agrees His Video Tapes Won't Be Destroyed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton and 13 of his former writers have agreed in a court order that Skelton will not destroy the 250 videotapes and kinescopes of his old television shows until a court can decide a suit against Skelton brought by the writers.

The suit was filed after Skelton was quoted as saying the tapes should be destroyed upon his death. Skelton later said the remarks grew out of his disenchantment with television, and were misinterpreted. He denied his will said anything about destroying his tapes.

"Would you burn the only monument you've built in over 20 years?" Skelton told a reporter in July.

Both sides may take syndication offers for the programs under the court order, attorney Ben Goldman said Thursday. Goldman, who represents the writers, said if they get an offer of syndication, it goes to Skelton, who must consider it and not reject it outright.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals A

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

'Hospitality House' Airing On Saturday

WASHINGTON — For this week's airing, Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" will be broadcast on Saturday instead of on its regular Sunday spot, over WITN-TV, Channel 7.

As a special this week, Ms. Currie will be featuring antique automobiles filmed on the lawn of WITN-TV Studios in Chocowinity.

Kenneth Stein of the little village of Salvo on the Outer Banks is showing three of the 22 cars in his collection of rare automobiles. The three he is displaying are a 1904 American Napier, a 1928 Bentley-Sports Torpedo Olympia Show car, and a 1938 Packard. The Napier owned by Stein has won more awards than any other car of that make in the country.

Originally from Long Island, New York, Napier has had a life-long love for vintage cars. He began tinkering on them when he was 13. His family too, shares his enthusiasm. A Lincoln Zepher belonging to his daughter was used in the movie "The Godfather."

Today's special "Hospitality Show" is being aired in conjunction with the Morehead City Antique Car Show to take place on Saturday, and also for the Car Jubilee to be held in New Bern on two days, Friday and Saturday, September 12 and 13.

World Mixed Pairs Champions Barry Crane and Kerry Shuman of Los Angeles teamed with Laura Mariscal, Elias Konstantinovsky and Jose Hamui all of Mexico, to win the Mixed Teams Championship at the recent Summer North American Championships in Chicago. The scoring was board-a-match, where you win a board whether you score 10 points more than your opponents do at the other table, or 2,000! Overtricks are vital.

Least our readers think that the world champions carried their partners to victory, watch Laura Mariscal in action as declarer on this deal from the championship final. The bidding at the tables was identical: a strong no trump opening by South, Stayman to probe for a major-suit fit (North intended signing off in two hearts if partner rebid two diamonds), and a final contract of two spades.

Carter Vows Continued Support Of Israeli State

AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a two-pronged appeal for the political support of American Jews, President Carter is emphasizing his personal role in the search for Middle East peace and portraying Ronald Reagan as a threat both to Israel and liberal causes.

In a speech Thursday night to a convention of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish Service organization, Carter said, "Our course in the Middle East has brought the first real peace that region has known in the 32 years of Israel's existence."

The president spoke 24 hours after Reagan told the same audience that the very existence of Israel is endangered by the foreign and domestic policies of the Carter administration.

And earlier on the same day Carter spoke, independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson told B'nai B'rith that the administration's announcement on Wednesday of the impending resumption of Middle East negotiations between Israel and Egypt "smacks of campaign rhetoric."

Carter drew frequent applause, particularly for his pledges of continued support for Israel. But the members of the audience never rose to their feet with stronger shows of support for the president whose decisions to sell arms to Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan have drawn criticism from the Jewish community. Carter also has been criticized for U.S. handling of two anti-Israel resolutions passed by the U.N. Security Council.

Reagan reminded his audience of the arms sales and the U.N. votes.

"Israel is being increasingly isolated by international terrorism and by U.N. resolutions designed to undermine Israel's position in the world, while Carter stands by and watches," said the Republican nominee.

Reagan also said that "President Carter refuses to brand the P.L.O. (Palestine Liberation Organization) as a terrorist organization."

Carter, obviously intent on replying to the Reagan criticisms, said he opposes creation of a Palestinian state unless the P.L.O. recognizes Israel's right to exist. "As I have repeatedly stated, it is long past time for an end to terrorism," said the president, to one of the loudest bursts of applause of the night.

He added that "we will make certain that the future of Jerusalem can only be determined through agreement — with the full concurrence of Israel."

Carter said he received a telephone call Thursday morning from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

"He called to express his personal gratitude" said Carter, for the resumption of peace talks.

Carter opened his speech by saying that "B'nai B'rith and the Democratic Party have stood together for progressive causes for almost 50 years."

He referred to the "shared goals, shared ideals and shared commitments" of the two organizations and described B'nai B'rith as part of "the old Democratic coalition."

Carter said the Republicans oppose many parts of his energy program and "as an alternative all they offer is the wan hope that if we just give the oil companies enough money they will solve the energy problem for us," adding in measured tones "and maybe help to shape our foreign policy at the same time. We must be very careful about this."

Then he re-emphasized the point, saying that "to abandon conservation, to abandon our energy program could be to take the destiny of our nation out of our own hands and put it in the hands of OPEC. We must not permit that.

"We should consider very carefully who might be secretary of energy and secretary of state in a different administration."

He lashed out at Reagan's tax proposals as "a gigantic election year tax cut scheme" and said it would set back urban programs "for a generation."

Hunt Drops Appeal For Federal CETA Review

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt rescinded a request Thursday calling for the federal government to resolve audit challenges over job-training contracts held by a company headed by labor leader Wilbur Hobby.

Hunt said he would use his power, if necessary, to subpoena the necessary records from Hobby's Precision Graphics Inc. to reconcile questions by the state auditor over $260,000 in expenditures under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program.

Hunt said some of the information needed to settle the issue was received Thursday afternoon but more information was needed.

"We've been told, as I understand it, that there are records around in shoe boxes and whatever. We've asked for them," Hunt said.

The state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, which awarded the contracts to Hobby's company, last week asked the U.S. Labor Department to take over the problem of resolving the audit, noting media and political challenges of the state's objectivity in handling the dispute.

State Auditor Henry Bridges' office had said either the state or Precision Graphics should repay the $260,000 to CETA. Hunt said Thursday the state would provide an answer.

"We can resolve this matter credibly, and we are going to resolve it. We can do this job ourselves," Hunt said.

Hunt, at his weekly news conference, had blamed the attempted transfer of responsibility on the inavailability of the records from Precision Graphics.

NRCD, however, had cited the objectivity complaints and said a federal review would give "the final determinations complete credibility."

Hunt disagreed with that view when he read the NRCD request Thursday, NRDC Secretary Howard Lee said.

"I take full blame for having approved this. It was not the smart thing to do," Lee said.

Lee said Hunt "vehemently disagreed with that ... He didn't make any bones about letting me know it."

Hang-Glider Field Thins

GRANDFATHER MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — After three days of competition at the fifth annual national hang-gliding championships, the field is narrowing for 27 of the world's top hang gliders.

Friday's round will be the final day of qualifying.

Leaders in the first group of contestants after Thursday's events were Jeff Burnett, 23, of Milford, N.H.; George Whitehill, 25, of San Francisco; David Ledford, 24, of Asheville, N.C.; and defending champion Steve Moyes, 27, of Sydney, Australia.

In the second group of contestants, the leaders are Peter Brown, 28, from Pacific Palms, Australia; Robert Bailey of Leeds, Yorkshire, England; and Malcolm Jones, 23, of Tampa, Fla.

Group three leaders are Joe Greblo, 28, of Van Nuys, Calif.; Dave Rodriguez, 32, of Draper, Utah; and Mike Arrambide, 32, of Ventura, Calif. Arrambide was last year's runner-up and the 1976 champion.

Sunday will be the final day of competition.

Pic 'n Pay Has Store Opening Here

The grand opening of Pic 'n Pay's second self-select shoe store in Greenville, located at Pitt Plaza on Highway 264 and Arlington Boulevard, was held Wednesday.

Pic 'n Pay said that the new store is slightly different from the company's family shoe store on Greenville Boulevard in that it will operate exclusively as a women's shoe store.

The women's store, it was pointed out, will have approximately 4,000 pairs of shoes on display, as well as accessories such as handbags and pantyhose.

The shoe chain reported that the new facility will be managed by Harold Vondervera and will be open daily and evenings.

Pic 'n Pay, organized in 1957, currently operates 466 units, of which three are exclusive women's shoe stores, in 13 states. The women's shoe store here has approximately 1,400 square feet of selling space.

The company said that it expects to open 50 to 60 family and exclusive women's units annually. To implement the expansion program and to supply support services, the company moved into a new 270,000 square-foot headquarters/warehouse complex in Matthews last June.

Garwood's Jury Now Selected

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Testimony has been scheduled to start Sept. 17 in the court-martial of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood on charges that he deserted and collaborated with the enemy in Vietnam.

Jury selection for the trial was completed Thursday when defense and prosecution attorneys agreed on six officers who will serve as jurors.

Col. R.E. Switzer scheduled a two-day session beginning Sept. 15 to work out final selection of witnesses. The trial will follow if chief defense attorney John Lowe has recovered from an eye infection.

Carter's Appointee Claims Upheld By Black Researcher

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Virtually every time he addresses a black audience, President Carter boasts that he has appointed more black federal judges than all other presidents combined.

He made that claim again Wednesday in a speech to about 2,000 blacks at Zion Baptist Church in North Philadelphia.

But in recent talks there, to the National Urban League, the NAACP, a national job training organization for needy blacks and to similar groups, Carter has never cited the statistics to back up his claim. Often he says he doesn't want to take the time.

Several efforts to obtain comprehensive statistics from the White House were unsuccessful, but a Carter administration official, who himself was among the first blacks on the federal appeals court bench, has assembled figures showing that Carter has, indeed, named nearly twice as many black federal judges as all previous presidents.

The records kept by Solicitor General Wade H. McCree Jr. show that Carter has nominated 36 blacks to federal judgeships, all but three of whom have won Senate confirmation. The other three nominations are pending.

Carter has had a somewhat greater opportunity than his predecessors because he has been able to fill a number of new judgeships created by Congress. But McCree's research nonetheless shows only 21 blacks had held such posts before Carter took office.

And the incumbent's record of putting women on the bench is one of even more dramatic increases when compared to earlier presidents.

Patricia Gunn in McCree's office said only eight women had been named to the bench by prior chief executives, and as of July 31, Carter had appointed 37. There is some overlap in the numbers of blacks and women because several of the appointees are black women.

And Carter has appointed 16 Hispanics, one of whom is awaiting Senate confirmation, whereas only four were on the bench when Carter took office.

According to McCree, who was appointed to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in 1966 and resigned ten years later to become the third highest officer in the Justice Department, President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed the first black federal judge, Herman E. Moore, who served four successive terms as a term judge for the Virgin Islands.

President Harry S. Truman named the first black to a lifetime position on the bench when he appointed the late William H. Hastie to the Circuit Court of Appeals in 1949.

Truman also named a black Customs Court judge, as did President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The late John F. Kennedy named only one black judge during his term, which was cut short by assassination, and Gerald R. Ford appointed two in his 2½ years as president.

Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon each named seven. Johnson's appointments included Thurgood Marshall, the first — and so far the only — black to sit on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Seattle Murder Rate Sets Pace

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The murder rate in Seattle has jumped 65 percent over last year, giving it the biggest per capita increase in homicides among the nation's 30 largest cities, according to a survey of police departments by the Kansas City Times.

The Times study said Seattle has had 43 homicides since the beginning of the year. The city is the nation's 25th largest, with a population of 490,000.

Also among the cities with the fastest growing homicide rates this year were Honolulu, up 58 percent with 47 homicides to date; Memphis, 56 percent with 120; Indianapolis, up 47 percent with 86; Denver, up 40 percent with 72; San Jose, Calif., up 38 percent with 43; Kansas City, up 33 percent with 101; Los Angeles, up 27 percent with 643; Phoenix, up 26 percent with 74 and Detroit up 23 percent with 389 homicides.

The newspaper said Detroit and St. Louis were the nation's traditional murder capitals, but St. Louis had 164 homicides to date, down 11 percent from last year.

In Detroit, the city ranked 10th by the newspaper, police reported slightly different figures with homicides soaring 25 percent since Jan. 1, mainly because of an increase in domestic violence stemming from high unemployment and increased alcohol and drug use.

The city has recorded 360 homicides in 1980 compared with 289 through the same period a year ago. Police said Thursday that 37 of the additional 71 homicides were domestic squabbles that ended in death.

"We're experiencing quite a few more shooting incidents of a non-fatal nature," said Detroit homicide Inspector Robert Hislop. "And when you've got an increase in shooting incidents generally, you're going to eventually record more homicides."

While some police officials said homicide rates have increased during times of prosperity, others agreed that the current economic recession is largely responsible for the increase in home violence.

The unemployment rate in Detroit, the center of the troubled auto industry, is about 18 percent, compared with Michigan's 14.1 percent jobless rate. The national rate is 7.8 percent.

"Historically, the evidence is inconsistent about the relationship between crime in general and economic conditions," said Deputy Police Chief James Bannon. "What isn't inconsistent, however, is the fact that domestic violence situations go right off the charts. Our domestic violence runs have increased to a very large degree and we expect them to continue to go up."

Bannon also said domestic violence increases when money becomes tight and tensions increase as people are kept from normal recreational activities and are saddled with excessive unoccupied time.

Police also pointed to alcohol and drug use as leading to Detroit's increased homicide rate in 1980.

"I've been up here quite a while," Hislop said. "And alcohol's always played a big part in a big majority of our cases."

World's Cities Said Facing Population Explosion

By CLARA HEMPHILL
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — By the year 2000, just 20 years from now, half the world's people will be living in cities that already are struggling to feed and house the populations they have, according to studies presented to a United Nations conference.

"There are already abandoned children living on the streets in many Latin American cities and it will be worse in the future if present fertility rates continue," said Philander Claxton, president of the World Population Society, a private organization with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

"The girls become prostitutes literally as soon as they are able and the boys are pimps or thieves," he told The Associated Press.

Claxton was among urban planners and mayors from 37 countries who attended the conference on cities sponsored by the U.N. Fund for Population Activities. The four-day meeting, which ended Thursday, focused on ways to make cities of the future more livable.

While discussions focused on urban problems in developing countries, Chicago Mayor Jane M. Byrne said she would like to make her city more like European cities with graceful fountains and sidewalk cafes.

About 650 million people will live in so-called supercities of more than 5 million in the year 2000, marking a migration to urban areas unprecedented in the history of mankind, according to studies prepared for the conference.

In 1950, 25 percent of the world's people lived in cities. By 1980 the percentage grew to 40 percent.

People crowded off farm land by growing population in rural areas go to cities in search of work and city governments increasingly are having trouble providing jobs, housing, schools and clean air for the newcomers, delegates said.

The conference was convened to help the new big cities learn from the old big cities how to cope with the coming population explosion.

"There are a few problems we have solved that other cities are just beginning to have to face," said Han Zheyi, vice mayor of Shanghai, a Chinese city that ranks as one of the world's largest with population of 11 million.

"Our planned parenthood program, for example, has scored remarkable successes," cutting the population growth rate in half in the past 10 years, Han said in an interview with The Associated Press.

The Shanghai growth rate — the number of births minus the numbers of deaths — is about six per thousand, compared to 12 per thousand ten years ago, Han said.

Some developed countries have a growth rate of zero or even a negative rate, but many undeveloped countries have growth rates of 30 per thousand, he said.

About 60 percent of the growth comes from births in the city while 40 percent comes from migration, delegates said.

Free contraception, free abortion and extensive education for everyone and financial incentives for couples who agree to have only one child have brought about the changes in Shanghai, Han said.

"If a couple pledges to have one child they receive benefits and rewards beginning from the time the child is born including a living allowance, free nursery and free schooling and free medicine," he said.

Rare Honesty In Constable Race

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — When Ernie Alloy decided to run for re-election as chief constable in Tucson's First precinct, he had to fill out a form listing his campaign expenses and receipts.

Since he hadn't received or spent any money, he decided to attach an explanation.

"Used my old campaign signs from last election — 1976," he wrote.

Pima County Treasurer Jim Kirk didn't have that problem. He spent $59.89. And he didn't get very specific, either. In the column labeled "purpose," to show what he spent the money on, he wrote, "To win the election."

Disabled Ranger Hopes To Open Yosemite To The Handicapped

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — Sitting in his wheelchair, talking about ways of opening wilderness areas to the disabled, Yosemite National Park Ranger Dennis Almay has a rare insight into the problem he's trying to eliminate.

In many respects, the challenges of Almay's job as the park's "access coordinator" are as high as the peaks around him. Almay says his dream is "to make the whole park accessible" to the disabled visitor.

The dream is closer to reality since the passage of Public Law 504 which requires public areas to be open to all people, including the blind, deaf and orthopedically disabled.

"The disabled person has the same desires, emotions and wants as an ordinary person," Almay explains. "The thing they don't have is the choice normal people do."

"The disabled person pays taxes and owns this park as much as anyone. If disabled people come here, they should at least have a choice as to what they can do as a park visitor."

Almay has produced a nine-page guide for the disabled which details all park facilities available for the handicapped.

Transportation is the central issue here. Right now, the only way for a disabled person to get to Yosemite is by private car. Even Almay commutes from the park's employee housing in nearby El Portal in his specially equipped van.

"Things are starting to happen," he says. "By 1982, the park's shuttle buses should be totally accessible. The Curry Co. (the park's concessionaire) has agreed to look into the feasibility of long-line buses to see if they can get that needed transportation into the park."

With long-range buses, the disabled could get to the park from Fresno Air Terminal or the Amtrak depot at Merced in the San Joaquin Valley, southwest of here.

Ultimately, Almay hopes to see access for the disabled to all buildings, trails, campgrounds and other natural areas.

"I would like to see some type of wilderness program for the disabled, perhaps a place where disabled groups could come as close to the wilderness as possible with a minimum of assistance," Almay says.

He wants park trails classified according to the level of difficulty they pose for the disabled. He already has marked his maps with the paved trails of Yosemite where the disabled can enjoy the same natural treasures most vacationers here take for granted.

Almay was afflicted by multiple sclerosis five years ago while in the Air Force. He joined the Park Service last year as a volunteer, working on a survey of trails for the disabled in the high country around Tuolumne Meadows.

"The satisfaction I have is worth more than any money I could ever get paid," he said. He's particularly pleased to be able to provide a positive image for disabled children coming to the park.

"They see me as a role model, I'm sure, and feel that this is something they might do."

Security Breaches At Nuclear Plants Are Detailed By NRC

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two maintenance men at a nuclear power plant in Northern Illinois climbed a fence and entered the facility's protected area without being detected by the security alarm system, says a long-suppressed report prepared by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The report, completed in 1977 but kept secret, adds that the alarm system failed repeatedly at other times.

Sometimes, plant guards acknowledged, they allowed visitors to identify themselves simply by presenting business cards at the gate, the report says. It says security sensors around the fence and closed-circuit television monitors didn't work for months at a time and some guards "dozed" on the job.

Doors to "vital areas" of the plant, operated by Commonwealth Edison, were routinely left unlocked and, even when locked, could be readily opened with a pocket knife, the report says, noting that an NRC inspector accomplished the trick with a piece of wire.

The report has been kept under wraps by the NRC and the Justice Department pending a conspiracy trial of Commonwealth Edison, one of its executives and a former employee. At the four-day trial last month in federal district court in Rock Island, Ill., all the defendants were acquitted of charges they allowed vital areas to remain unlocked and directed guards to conceal that fact from the NRC.

Aquitted, besides the company, were plant Superintendent Nicholas Kalivianakis and former plant security chief Walter Meehan.

The NRC plans to release this week a "synopsis" of the report, which paints a portrait of lax security going far beyond unlocked doors. The Associated Press obtained an unbridged copy of the report.

At the trial, Commonwealth Edison acknowledged the doors had been unlocked at times, mainly for convenience, and to keep air circulating for the comfort of employees.

The unbridged report says, however, that contrary to regulations on Feb. 5, 1977, "the vehicle gate entrance next to the gatehouse was not under the control of a guard or watchman." It quotes the shift officer's log as saying the gate was "left open as it is broke and won't open by itself."

Guards reportedly said in interviews that it was impossible for them to "adequately monitor protected area access" through the gate from inside the gatehouse. They said that because of other duties and a guard shortage "no one was posted at the gate to control access."

The report says Commonwealth Edison was fined $5,000 in a civil action by the NRC in 1975 for failing to control access to the gate.

In interviews on May 5, 1977, an investigation addendum to the report says, two maintenance men told of climbing a fence and getting into the security area without setting off alarms. They said they had gone outside a locked security area to repair a monitoring system and arranged to be readmitted by giving hand signals to a closed-circuit television camera.

The guard monitoring the television screen was supposed to watch for the signals and let the men in. Instead, the camera never turned toward them.

"They then decided to climb the fence and were able to enter the area undetected," the report says.

Although rules require that such fences be protected by an electronic alarm system, the report says "the intrusion alarm system was not capable of detecting five of 27 attempted penetrations on May 2, 1977, in that the NRC inspector circumvented the system ... by crawling under the ... beams."

Investigators also reported they had inspected the test taken by one Pinkerton guard after his training was completed. They said, "The test was not dated, no grade was assigned, no marks were made to indicate whether the answers were right or wrong and one complete section on first aid was not taken by the guard."

"In spite of this," the report says, "a written certification was made to Commonwealth Edison Co. by the guard contractor that the guard received a grade of 75 percent on the written test...."

Cite Low Income In Idaho Millionaires

By BOB LEERIGHT
Associated Press Writer
BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Idaho may have the highest concentration of millionaires in the country, but an economist here says many of them have a "pretty poor income."

A survey released Thursday by U.S. Trust Co. of New York City estimated the nation's millionaires — defined as those with more than $1 million in assets — grew 10.3 percent in 1980 to 574,342.

And it wasn't oil-rich Texas, steel-rich Pennsylvania, or movie star-rich California that had the greatest concentration of millionaires. It was Idaho, the land of potatoes and ski resorts.

Don Holley, an economist for Boise State University, said the figures could be deceiving because many "paper millionaires" in Idaho may have vast land holdings, "but they don't have the cash flow of a millionaire."

"There are a lot of farmers sitting on property which has appreciated in value in recent years. They have a farm which has been in the family for years and is paid off, but they don't have much annual income," he said.

U.S. Trust figures showed New York continues to have the greatest number of millionaires — 56,096 — but it ranks 13th on a per capita basis with 3.17 millionaires for every thousand residents.

Idaho has 24,738 millionaires and the highest per capita average of such individuals in the country. U.S. Trust said the state has 26.46 millionaires for every thousand residents, more

CAT Scanner: A Medical Marvel

I heard from my sister that she had a CAT scan. I've heard the term before, but am not sure what it means or how it works. My sister is confused, too. Does it imply something serious? — Mrs. G.R.D., Mass.

Dear Mrs. D.:

Most people who hear the term "CAT scan" are as confused as you. The letters CAT stand for "computerized axial tomography."

The CAT scanner represents one of the great advances in modern medicine and science. It is a brilliant marriage of engineering techniques and medical science. The combination of computers and X-ray techniques now makes it possible to learn details that formerly were hidden in the deep recesses of the body.

The CAT scan is a painless procedure which takes a short time to complete. The portion of the body that is being examined is subjected to X-rays. Detectors, placed on the outside of the body, are then able to show the amount of X-rays that has been absorbed by the body tissues that are being studied. These findings are then fed into a computer and the data that is collected serves to pinpoint hidden problems in the body and in the brain.

CAT scan is particularly useful in detecting growths, tumors, cysts and inflammation of various "hidden" organs of the body. It is accepted that the scanner has revolutionized the diagnostic capabilities of modern medicine.

The scanner has been able to elicit vital information from the lungs, kidneys, pancreas, liver, spleen and brain. It can even be of critical value to the eye surgeon because of its ability to locate tumors or other conditions in the back of the eye.

Prior to the development of the CAT scanner, complex — and sometimes distressing — techniques were used for the visualization of the brain. A procedure by which air was injected into the spinal canal and into the recesses of the brain has now been virtually eliminated.

The use of myelograms to study tumors in the spinal canal has also been almost totally replaced by the scanner.

There was a time when it was necessary to do an exploratory operation in order to find a hidden source of trouble. Many such exploratory procedures have now become unnecessary because of this great new diagnostic tool.

Many people to whom a CAT scan is suggested become unnecessarily frightened because they believe that it inevitably means that they are doomed by a dangerous illness.

Actually, the CAT scanner is a diagnostic marvel which should hold no more terror than any other routine examination that is essential for the diagnosis and eventual treatment of disease.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE GREENVILLE 201 WASTEWATER FACILITIES PLAN

The Greenville Utilities Commission will hold the above public hearing on October 8, 1980 at 8:00 P.M. in the City Council Room, City Hall Building in Greenville, North Carolina.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-500) has as its objective "restoration and maintenance of the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the Nation's waters." To assist municipalities in providing treatment works capable of treating wastewater to the degree mandated, the law provides for Federal financial assistance in planning and construction of such facilities. In order to qualify for this financial assistance, municipalities are required, under Section 201 of P.L. 92-500, to prepare a "Facilities Plan" which demonstrates the need for the proposed facilities and by a systematic analysis of alternatives, identifies the most cost effective means of providing those facilities, taking into consideration social and environmental factors.

The Greenville Utilities Commission is preparing such a 201 Facilities Plan for the Greenville 201 Planning Area. The hearing will consist of a presentation of the current draft of the Plan, and an explanatory account of the most viable alternatives contained therein. The plan has been significantly revised since the public hearing of January 23, 1978. The hearing will be open to those present for any statements, questions, comments and/or submission of material pertinent to the Plan. Copies of the current draft of the Facilities Plan together with a summary of the hearing for public examination and review no later than September 16, 1980 at Sheppard Memorial Library and at the Office of the Director of Utilities, Greenville, North Carolina.
