PACKING IT UP . . . The U.S. Census District Office in Greenville will close its doors on September 10. According to Director Bill Hodges, work will probably be completed by Monday. Employees spent the past few days packing the forms in special cartons to be sent to New Orleans where they will be processed. Bureau employee

Ruby Mister separates forms and places them face up, as required, in the box. "Each form," explained Hodges, "has to have a serial number on it. We have to check each package and form to make sure everything is in order." (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

District Census Office Is Shutting Down Shop

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The District Office of the U.S. Census Bureau in Greenville is closing its doors this week. According to Director Bill Hodges, employees have been packing up since Friday and hope to be through by today.

"We are officially closing on the tenth," said Hodges, "which is Wednesday. We expect to be through and packed up by the end of Monday."

"We have been finalizing the population count this past week and this weekend we have been packing the questionnaires in special cartons to send them to the processing center in New Orleans," continued Hodges.

At New Orleans, he explained, the form will be verified by being run over a special machine that only picks up figures and tabulates them. After that, an announcement of the final figures will be made in December by the president.

"We completed follow-up II recently and since then we've been checking and verifying everything," said the director. "Follow-up II, which was two phases, involved checking the vacancies that appeared in the first follow-up, and simultaneously we re-canvassed, checking once again every house in the book," explained Hodges.

"The second phase of follow-up II was what we call the 'last resort.' We seek out those who did not answer the questionnaire and those who may have been out of the country," he continued. "We finished that August 19. That was our last day in the field."

According to Hodges, only two counties in the 21-county district, Hertford and Northampton, lost in population. "All of this is unofficial, but the cities that seemed to gain in population were only those of 10,000 or more, like Rocky Mount and Greenville. County populations rose, though, which indicates to me that folks are settling in rural areas more and spreading out."

Hodges feels that the population is leveling off also. "The baby boom is over and the count reflects this."

"The Pitt County area has been very cooperative in helping us make the count this year. We've had a high rate of acceptance, which I measure by the number of forms coming back in at the beginning," said the director. "We encountered a very positive attitude."

The bureau employed over 1,200 persons during the time it was open. According to the director, in excess of one billion dollars was spent to conduct the census in the 21-county district.

Polish Aircraft Plant Is Struck

By ROLF SODERLIND
Associated Press Writer

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Dissidents today reported workers have struck an airplane factory in southeastern Poland because a local Communist Party leader sought to keep them from forming an independent trade union, one of the key concessions granted strikers in this country's labor crisis.

The dissidents claimed Alojzy Kotarba, first secretary of the party committee for the Rzeszow region, told workers in Mielec that there was "no need for independent trade unions" in the area. He allegedly asked workers to sign petitions declaring they would not organize unions independent of party and government control in accordance with agreements made by the regime with strikers in Gdansk, Szczecin and Silesia. The agreements apply nationwide, according to the government.

Dissidents said workers at the Mielec airplane plant were in the fourth day of their walkout. It was not known how many workers were on strike at the plant, a major producer of airplanes, motorcycles and other transport products.

More scattered strikes brought a warning from Warsaw Radio that the new rights promised workers recently may be held up if the walkouts continue.

Poland's Council of Ministers, the senior government organization, has ratified increases in pay and allowances promised under agreements to end recent strikes, the party paper Trybuna Ludu reported.

The newspaper said the council set the minimum monthly wage at $80, an increase of about $13.50. In addition, retirement pay will be increased by $16.50 to a minimum of $70 a month, and allowances for families will be standardized, the paper said.

During last month's strikes, workers complained that party members, police and the military received higher family allowances than other people in a society that supposedly stresses equality.

The paper also reported that the new Communist Party chief, Stanislaw Kania, met with city party officials in Warsaw and said "the views of the working class" must be taken into consideration when forming policy.

Trybuna Ludu said Kania stressed the need for more democracy within the party and for solving Poland's present domestic crisis through political means.

The government radio said continuing labor unrest was "alarming, especially in the light of our difficult economic situation. Any further demands, however justified, even urgent and necessary, may place a question mark over the implementation of the undertakings already given."

Dissident sources reported that strikes were continuing in a number of small towns and cities throughout the country.

Poland's official news agency PAP confirmed strikes at a textile plant in Bialystok, 30 miles from the Soviet border, but said strikers at other factories in Bialystok, Bielsko Bala, Jelenia Gora and Suwalki province had returned to work.

In Tarnow, 33 miles north of the Czechoslovak border, public transport workers have gone on strike, shutting down the city's transit system.

Grimesland Man Drowns

GRIMESLAND — Rescue units recovered the body of a 20-year old Rt. 1, Grimesland man who drowned Sunday while swimming in the Tar River near here.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said this morning that investigation by his department indicated that no foul play was involved in the death of Rodney Lewis Mills.

He said that the drowning incident, which took place at the Seine Beach, was reported at 3:57 p.m.

Iranians Inch Nearer Debate On Hostages

By The Associated Press

In another step toward debate on the American hostages, Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr accepted two-thirds of Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai's proposed Cabinet and submitted the names to Parliament for approval. But the Bani-Sadr and Rajai remained at odds over the other seven ministers.

Tehran Radio reported Bani-Sadr accepted 14 of the 21 ministers nominated by Rajai, who was elected prime minister by the Majlis, or Parliament, after Bani-Sadr's first choice for the job was rejected. The broadcast said Rajai nominated seven other men for the vacant posts, but five of them were the same nominees Bani-Sadr refused to agree to earlier. Hossein Musavi, Rajai's pick for foreign minister, was among them.

In a letter to the Majlis, the prime minister said he hoped Bani-Sadr "will finalize the investigation of some cases and that I can take the necessary measures to introduce the rest of the members of the Cabinet."

The Majlis will begin consideration of the Cabinet nominations on Tuesday, Radio Tehran said. Approval of the lineup will advance the Parliament another step toward consideration of problems facing the country, including the fate of the 52 American hostages who today were spending their 310th day in captivity.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the Iranian revolution, has given the Majlis authority to determine the fate of the Americans taken prisoner when militant Islamic students occupied the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last Nov. 4.

The Foreign Relations Commission of the Majlis held preliminary discussions on the issue Saturday, but no date was announced for debate in the full parliament to begin. However, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Sunday, "There are signs that they're beginning to think of actually debating the hostage issue. There are signs of increasing awareness on the part of leaders of the various factions that the hostage issue ought to be settled in Iran's interest."

Appearing on CBS-TV's Face the Nation, Muskie predicted there would be a U.S. congressional inquiry after the hostages are released into the U.S. role in Iran during the reign of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

In other developments: —Eight people were executed this morning — seven in the city of Yazd after being convicted of espionage and one in Tabriz on conviction of adultery and prostitution — the official Pars news agency said.

—William Sullivan, the last American ambassador to Iran, wrote in the magazine Foreign Policy magazine article that the U.S. government made a serious mistake by refusing to recognize the inevitability of the Iranian revolution. He suggested that the crisis in relations between the United States and the revolutionary government could have been avoided by prudent moves in the weeks before the shah abandoned his throne. Chief among them, said Sullivan, would have been American discussions with Khomeini, then in exile in Paris.

Sullivan blamed National Security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski for the failure of the Carter administration to come to terms with Khomeini and said Brzezinski wanted to promote a military coup in Iran. A spokesman for Brzezinski called the article "self-serving and factually inaccurate."

—The Japanese, Dutch, and Spanish ambassadors to Iran met Bani-Sadr in Tehran to discuss promotion of friendly relations and to press for an early release of the hostages, Japan's Kyodo news service said.

—Tehran Radio said officials of Iran's revolutionary guards issued a statement warning that "individuals are planning to sabotage" this afternoon's ceremonies marking the Sept. 8, 1978 killing of hundreds of anti-government demonstrators by army troops loyal to the shah. It called on all Iranians to report any suspicious activity during the memorial ceremonies.

—Pars reported five Iranians were killed and 20 wounded in clashes with Iraqi or Iraqi-backed forces near Iran's western border late Sunday and early Monday. Tehran Radio claimed 50 Iraqis were killed and an Iraqi helicopter was shot down in a separate attack Sunday on the border town of Dehloran, and four civilians were killed in another Iraqi attack on the border town of Mehran.

Hearing Set On Garwood

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — District Court Judge Kenneth W. Turner today set Sept. 29 as the date for a hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to bring Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood to trial on charges of committing two sexual offenses against a 7-year-old girl.

Garwood, who is awaiting court-martial on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam, did not appear for a brief hearing on the civilian case this morning in Onslow County District Court.

But his attorney, Edward G. "Pete" Bailey, said in a brief statement to reporters after the hearing that Garwood maintains his innocence.

"As to each charge against Robert Garwood, he denies it," Bailey said. "He will plead not guilty and the preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 29. There is no further comment."

Garwood, a 34-year-old Indiana native, works as a mail clerk at Camp Lejeune and was on his job at the time of the hearing. He was represented by attorneys Bailey and Mark Raynor of Jacksonville.

Garwood's court-martial for desertion in Vietnam is tentatively scheduled to begin Sept. 17.

Garwood's attorneys in the civilian case are Raynor and his partner, Edward G. "Pete" Bailey. He has three other lawyers in the military case — civilians John Lowe and Vaughan Taylor and Capt. Lewis Olshin.

The acts of which Garwood was accused allegedly occurred Aug. 7, but warrants were not obtained until last week. They accused Garwood of attempting to commit sexual abuse by force and with committing and attempting to commit a "lewd and lascivious act."

Garwood has not been available for public comment on the sex charges. He was released Friday under $10,000 bond posted by Ms. Donna Long, a frequent companion since Garwood came to nearby Camp Lejeune last year soon after his return from Vietnam.

Ms. Long has proclaimed Garwood's innocence on the new charges. She said during the weekend that neither Garwood nor she knew details of the charges against him.

"The only thing I'm able to say is Bobby absolutely denies the charges. He is innocent," Ms. Long said.

She indicated that Garwood was shocked at the allegations.

"I think you can understand the position he's in," she said in an interview.

"He's got one court-martial for life in prison and now this comes up. As far as how he feels, you can just ask the question how would you feel. How would any man feel if somebody brought a charge like this against you?"

There was no immediate indication as to how, or if, the military court-martial would be affected by the civilian proceedings.

Garwood has been charged by the Marine Corps with desertion and collaboration with the enemy during nearly 14 years he spent in Vietnam. The maximum penalty for conviction would be life in prison.

His court-martial is in a two-week recess due to the illness of his chief attorney.

ALLEGEDLY DIDN'T SEEK WORK

In May I filed an unemployment claim in New York with North Carolina as the liable state. Then I went to Virginia to search for work and also filed there against North Carolina. At the end of July I came home to Greenville and filed another claim. They still haven't got straight to pay me after all this time. W. S.

Hotline asked Jim Hannan, manager of the N. C. Employment Security Commission office here, to check on your claims. He said he had a thorough investigation done and that, according to his office's finding, you are not eligible for benefits, not because you were not employed prior to the initial claim, but because the job searching you said you did in New York and Virginia was not documented.

Being able to work and actively seeking employment are two requirements for collection of unemployment insurance benefits, Hannan said. His office, he said, tries to verify all claims and employs a full-time fraud investigator for this purpose.

You are, of course, entitled to appeal.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Nothing can quite compare with the textured beauty of a handmade Irish fisherman knit, shown here as today's fashion favorite — the cardigan vest. Honeycomb cables and trellis diamonds highlight the vest, designed to be made for men and women.

Four ply knitting worsted weight yarn is used and directions are written for sizes 34 through 44; the sizes given denote finished chest measurements. The directions are written without abbreviations for your ease in following them.

To obtain directions for knitting this Pat Trexler Original, send your request for Leaflet No. PT-218 with $1.00 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-218 in Wintuk or wool by sending check or money order to Pat Trexler at the same address. The first price listed after each size is for Wintuk yarn, the second is for wool. For sizes 34 and 36, send $9 or $16.50; for sizes 38 and 40, the price is $11 or $20; for sizes 42 and 44 the price is $13 for Wintuk and $23 for wool yarn. Price includes instruction leaflet and shipping charges. Please specify your choice of fisherman white, gold, tan, light green or medium blue.

DEAR READERS: So many of you are capable of much more than you think when it comes to pattern stitchery. For example, the honeycomb cable looks quite intricate but can be mastered by anyone who can work a simple cable.

If Irish Fisherman or Aran Isle knitting is new to you, I suggest that you work one pattern stitch at a time on a sample swatch until you feel comfortable with that stitch and can see how it works out.

If you have never worked with cables, you will need to purchase a cable hook or cable holder. These items come in two different shapes, but both serve the same purpose and are used in the same way.

With either, you slip the stitches on one end and work them off of the opposite end. A double pointed needle or even a crochet hook can be used, but either of these is a little trickier to use than the cable hook or holder, so for the beginner I would not recommend this.

Would you like to try the honeycomb cable? For the purpose of practicing I would suggest that you work with either knitting worsted weight yarn and a size 8 or 9 needle or with sports weight yarn and a size 5 or 6 needle.

This pattern is worked on a multiple of eight stitches — that is, any number of stitches evenly divisible by eight. For your practice piece, cast on 24 stitches.

In the directions that follow, when you are told to make a back cable, you are to slip the next two stitches to the cable hook and hold them in back of your work; knit the next two stitches from the knitting needle and then knit the two stitches from the cable hook.

You make a front cable in exactly the same way except that you hold the cable hook in front of your work while you are knitting the two stitches from the knitting needle.

To get started, cast on 24 stitches and purl the first row. For the second row (make a back cable on the first four stitches and a front cable on the next four stitches). Repeat the steps between parentheses twice more.

On the third row, purl all stitches; on the fourth row, knit all stitches; on the fifth row, purl all stitches.

Work the sixth row as follows (make a front cable on first four stitches, make a back cable on next four stitches) repeating steps between parentheses as before. Purl all stitches for seventh row and knit all stitches for eighth row. Repeat these eight rows as often as needed to reach the desired length.

This stitch alone makes a beautiful all-over design or it is great as an accent panel.

Most knitters find such pattern stitchery fascinating but I have known a few who find it frustrating. If you are one of the latter, don't fight it — just keep your knitting plain and simple!

Dear Abby

Dating Average Improves With Right Pitch

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: What does a healthy, normal, 25-year-old girl do when no man will date her because she looks like she's "for girls"?

I'm tall, slim, athletic and a college graduate. I keep my hair short because it's more convenient for tennis, swimming and sailing. I wear very little makeup and prefer tailored clothes. Get the picture? I love fun, but I'm not asked for dates, so I do what other dateless girls do — I go out with the girls.

Several people have told me that guys think I prefer girls. Nothing could be further from the truth, but I can't wear a sign to that effect.

So tell me, Dear Abby, how can I let a man know I am a warm, loving female who would be thrilled to death to have a date, a love affair and eventually a husband, without throwing myself at a guy's feet?

FRUSTRATED IN SANTA MONICA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Don't throw yourself at a guy's feet, but do pitch a little. Come up with tickets to something or an invitation somewhere, and invite a man to be your escort. If you strike out, don't be discouraged; try again with another man. God helps those who help themselves.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the scenario: My wife and I are having dinner in a lovely restaurant. A friend of ours (a woman) spots us just as she is leaving, so she stops by our table to say hello. Naturally I stand up as soon as she approaches our table.

She says, "Please don't get up." I get up anyway. She continues to talk to my wife while I remain standing. Then she says, "Please, sit down," and she talks some more. I do not sit down because I would feel uncomfortable seated while a lady is standing by my table.

Meanwhile she is talking a mile a minute to my wife, so I interrupt with, "May I get you a chair?" She doesn't take the hint, but instead says, "No, I'll only be another minute." Abby, by that time I am really ticked off. Had you been in my shoes, what would you have done?

CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHICAGOAN: I'd have put my shoes under my table.

DEAR ABBY: Re: PROBLEM ROCKER: This may not help the lady with the 19-year-old son who still rocks in his bed, as this may have become some kind of habit. I had a "rocker" baby, and because I noticed that he panted when climbing a set of stairs, I took him to the doctor.

The doctor asked me if my child rocked in bed. The diagnosis was that he had enlarged adenoids, and the rocking moved these adenoids and allowed him to breathe better.

After having the adenoids removed (age 13 months), he never rocked in bed again. Maybe this will help some new mothers.

M.L.R. IN HOUSTON

DEAR M.L.R.: I heard from a surprising number of "rockers." Many claimed they were cured by meditation, vitamins, prayer, hypnosis and marriage. Readers of all ages, men and women, reported that they're still rocking, and other than an occasional poke in the ribs from a sleepy spouse, it hasn't hurt them.

***

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your multiple letters column on barking dogs, I suggest to all those frustrated readers, FIGHT BACK! Raise roosters! Sincerely, JONATHAN M. WILLIAMS, M.D.

Health Care Pros Adjusting

By BRYNA BRENNAN
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Hours before giving birth to a baby boy, a 20-year-old Greenbrier County woman cleaned her house, put up a pot of vegetables and prepared for what she called a "spiritual event."

Like a growing number of young women, she decided to have her child at home with the aid of a midwife, instead of going to a hospital.

The midwife was not licensed. The new mother asked that neither of their names be used.

"I would never want to have a baby in a hospital," she said. "During my pregnancy I went to a clinic. They'd give out a lot of drugs and see you for two minutes."

Her delivery was witnessed by her live-in boyfriend, the midwife, two female friends and an 11-year-old cousin.

"It's pretty much the norm here," she said as she nursed the child. "The old folks don't mind. They did it."

Health care professionals are adjusting slowly to the return of home delivery at the hands of midwives. But some doctors label the practice dangerous and irresponsible.

Only eight certified midwives practice in West Virginia, according to Freda Engle, executive secretary of the West Virginia Board of Examiners for Registered Nurses.

To become certified, Miss Engle explained, a person must be a registered nurse and graduate from a school of midwifery approved by the American College of Nurse Midwives in Washington. There are no such accredited schools in West Virginia, she said.

"There's a host of lay midwives in the state. It's so hard to get accredited," said Lin Bassett, a licensed midwife at the Beckley Appalachian Regional Hospital. "But I feel really good about most of them."

Ms. Bassett, 32, trained in Great Britain, has been practicing in the Beckley area for the past two years.

"Americans do things in extremes. Either we have babies in tepees or surrounded by medical paraphernalia. Medicine turned it into big business. It's much more convenient for the doctors now; going to a home to them is a real drag."

State law requires licensed midwives to consult with a doctor about each birth. Some doctors refuse to assist at home deliveries because "it's dangerous," said Dr. Patricia Dix, an obstetrician at University Hospital at Morgantown and medical consultant to the Maternal and Infant Care Clinic.

Dr. Dix said she supports delivery by licensed midwives, but she strongly opposes home births. "Until the baby's been delivered, the possibility of an unforeseen development is always possible," she said. "Just because technology can be abused it doesn't mean anything's wrong with the technology."

Before women routinely went to hospitals to bear their babies, she said, the neonatal and fetal mortality rates were much higher.

Perhaps so, said Ms. Bassett, but she believes it should be up to the expectant mothers to decide the manner of delivery.

"If it's home births, I screen them very closely," she said. "It's an incredible responsibility. It's possible you might lose your baby and have to live with that for the rest of your life."

"Women also can elect to have their babies at the increasing number of "birthing rooms" being set up at hospitals around the state. Birthing rooms provide a casual, intimate environment in which to have a baby, an alternative to the starkness of hospital delivery rooms, Ms. Bassett said.

"A lot are real cosmetic, but it can be a lot nicer in a room like that," she said.

"I believe birth is a social, spiritual and family thing, and that's hard to pull off at the hospital," she said. "A lot of obstetricians say they deliver babies. I don't say that. I catch babies. The mother delivers the baby."

Constitutional Talks

Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and the premiers of Canada's 10 provinces are scheduled to start meeting today for talks that could lead to a new constitution for the country. Canada's present constitution is the British North American Act, a document the British Parliament approved in 1867, when the Dominion of Canada was formed. Under this act, the British Parliament still must approve any changes in Canada's constitution. Trudeau wants Canada to have its own constitution and the power to amend it. But he and the premiers have not yet agreed on a plan for amending the constitution, once it comes under Canadian control.

♠AQ10954 ♥6 ♦AK93 ♣K7

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?

A.—Your hand is too strong for a simple overall of one spade, so your first move must be to double. Depending on partner's response, you will either content yourself with two spades at your next turn, or jump in spades if he has shown a smattering of values.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠872 ♥K105 ♦AKQ72 ♣J3

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has made a high reverse, showing a hand worth about 18 points. That puts you in the slam zone. How many tricks you can make probably depends on whether or not partner has a control in spades. For the moment, your first duty is to set the trump suit and advise partner that you are interested in slam. A jump to four hearts describes your hand perfectly—good diamonds and trump support, but no outside feature.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner must have a better-than-minimum hand, so slam prospects are bright. However, in the light of partner's no trump bid and your singleton in the opponents' suit, there is a danger that some of his values are wasted. A cuebid of three spades now leaves all possibilities open. It highlights your singleton heart, and puts partner in a position to make an educated appraisal of your side's potential.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

What action do you take?

A.—You have a very good hand opposite a partner who has opened the bidding, even though you do not particularly like spades. The opponents are in hot water. Advise partner of this by redoubling. Even if they let partner play in one spade, with your values he should have no trouble wrapping up seven tricks. And if they bid anything, wield the axe—you should collect plenty.

If you are wearing contact lenses for the first time, it is possible for the lens to float off the center of the eye (cornea). In fact, it is even possible for the lens to fall out completely. As a result it is sometimes a good idea not to wear the lenses outdoors for the first few days. Actually, even after fully adjusting to your lenses, it is still possible for a lens to float off center again and again. Also, for the first few days, vision may not appear clear. This condition is generally considered to be normal and is to be expected, in fact, due to increased wearing of contacts, vision through regular glasses may be blurred. Another phenomenon is that you may experience reflections of light from the edge of the lens and form tears around the edge of the lens.

Averting A Tragedy

There was a heavy rain storm in Greenville last Wednesday and, not surprisingly, the area under the Southern Railway overpass on Dickinson Avenue rapidly filled with water. Also not surprisingly, two cars drowned out and were shortly submerged under the rapidly rising waters.

It happens when there is an unusually heavy rainfall locally and, more often than not, one or more vehicles will be caught in the flooding waters.

We recognize that not enough storm drainage can be installed to completely eliminate this situation — at least not without going to inordinate expense.

But, we wonder, why couldn't something be worked out to quickly throw up barricades when a heavy rainfall develops? The responsibility could go to which ever department is best suited to do it, but knowing the underpass is going to flood it would make sense to stop traffic on that portion of the street before it occurs.

So far as we know only vehicles have been damaged in such situations, but it could arise that someone could be trapped in the rising waters who could not get out, perhaps a handicapped person or someone who simply froze in the emergency.

Possibly with some advance planning the route could be blocked off quickly to avoid something like that.

Amtrak Project Still Active

Amtrak from Norfolk to Memphis through Greenville?

Possibly. W. C. Cobb, chairman of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce committee studying the project says prospects are favorable based on an AMTRAC-N. C. Department of Transportation study. However, DOT officials say the project is still far away and millions of dollars in track repair would be needed.

It would be the first regular rail passenger service in Pitt County since the 1940s. We can only wait and see what happens.

Evangelical Front Split

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — A presidential candidate who seeks to win the support of evangelicals, who account for a solid one-fifth of the electorate, will find that, contrary to the prevailing view, their opinions are similar to those of non-evangelicals on a number of key voter issues.

The latest Gallup survey indicates that evangelicals are by no means monolithic in their views, as indicated by their opinions on nine voter issues.

For example, evangelicals and non-evangelicals have similar attitudes toward gun registration, building more nuclear power plants, the death penalty for murder, and government social programs.

Furthermore, the differences on other key issues are perhaps not so great as might be expected. For example, 66 percent of non-evangelicals favor the ERA, but so does a 53 percent majority of evangelicals. When it comes to increased defense spending, 68 percent of non-evangelicals and 78 percent of evangelicals are in favor of stepping up spending for the military.

In the case of issues related to personal morality and religion, major differences are found between evangelicals and non-evangelicals.

For example, half the proportion of evangelicals as nonevangelicals favor allowing homosexuals to teach in the public schools.

On the focal issue of banning abortions, 29 percent of non-evangelicals express support for such action while 41 percent of evangelicals do so — a pronounced difference but, again, perhaps less than one might expect.

The sharpest difference in views is found in regard to prayer in schools. Even when the issue is posed in terms of requiring prayer (the Supreme Court ruled that public schools may not sponsor prayers), the vast majority of evangelicals vote in support (81 percent) while 54 percent of non-evangelicals do so.

Following is the question asked: "This card lists various proposals being discussed in this country today. Would you tell me whether you generally favor or generally oppose each of these proposals?"

Who Are The Evangelicals?

Evangelicals, as defined in this survey, are likely to be women, living in the South, middle-aged, slightly downscale and more likely to live in rural areas.

In addition, as described in Part One of this series, evangelicals are slightly more Democratic in their political orientation than the rest of the nation and slightly more conservative.

The following table gives a profile of U.S. evangelicals, based on the combined results of two successive surveys:

N.C. 'Buzzwords'

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Two governmental buzzwords of growing significance recently are reindustrialization and productivity.

Those are the ingredients, our state and national leaders — and those who would hopefully unseat the incumbents and take their places — tell us which are essential to the future economic success of our society.

At the same time as the politicians are calling for spurs to the economy, highly successful business leaders are calling for the same things: reindustrialization and productivity.

But beyond a recognition in both government and industry that accomplishment of those two enormous goals are critical, the dialogue goes on as though neither side has ears; both are talking, but hardly anyone seems to be listening.

Government is saying worker productivity is on the skirts and product development and quality is such that foreign competitors are capturing the marketplace. The Gross National Product is at its lowest since World War II, and unemployment is up. Exportation of U.S. dollars, paced by oil bills, increases alarmingly, while the value of that dollar plummets.

Spends More
The answer, government says, is billions invested in governmental schemes to train workers, provide jobs, improve productivity and reindustrialize the economy.

That pre-supposes that government can successfully accomplish a goal which it had very little to do with in the first place. It was not government technological know-how, capital investments, imagination, guts, and willingness to risk all for a profit which built the nation's industrial complex to start with.

People like Jim Exum and his sons Ashe and Joe of Snow Hill built that economic foundation. With a 1935 washing machine in which drugs were mixed, the Exums founded a firm which makes and distributes dog remedies on an international scale.

It took them four years to get Happy Jack remedies approved for interstate commerce. Not long ago, the firm spent six years trying to get bureaucratic approval for an new animal drug.

Says Joe Exum: "That's the reason even huge companies shy away from original formulas. The cost of pursuing an application starts at about a quarter of a million dollars.

"We're living in a dark age. Regulations have hamstring us. For years, small business men and women have felt disenfranchised, frustrated, voiceless and powerless... Government has become so involved in business that I'm forced to become involved in government or see all we have worked so hard for disappear."

Multiply that by hundreds of thousands of voices across the country and you have business' complaint in a nutshell.

Recently, Burlington Industries opened a modern, highly computerized, technologically advanced plant in Richmond County at which the chief of that internationally important industrial giant warned of the real possibility that new plants and new jobs and new equipment will become relics of the past unless government not only stops interfering, but actively helps through less regulation and tax restructuring.

Definitions
Productivity — The amount of marketable goods turned out by a company's investment in labor and plants; and reindustrialization — putting America back in the lead as the world's producer of goods, must be given priority for the future.

U.S. Cheap To Tourists

WASHINGTON — It has just been announced that, for the first time, more foreign tourists visited the United States than American tourists went abroad. These foreign tourists know a bargain when they see one — and the U.S. is now one of the cheapest countries in the Western world.

This may be hard for Americans to swallow, but it's a fact of life, and since our economy depends on such hard currencies as the Japanese yen, the German Deutschmark, the French franc and the British pound, we all have to make a better effort to see that these tourists get their money's worth.

Here are some helpful hints to accommodate visitors from other countries.

Most of them have cameras, and they are dying to take pictures of the "natives" that they can show when they get back to Hamburg or wherever they came from. Don't get angry when they ask you to pose for a photo with your family on the front steps of your house, or when you're taking out your trash in the morning. Don't ask them for money before you agree to allow them to shoot your picture. If they offer you a few Danish kroner or a Swiss franc you may accept it, but be sure to say thank you.

Foreign tourists are great shoppers. If you are a store owner or salesperson, always wait on them first, because the more money they spend, the better our foreign balance of payments will be.

The exchange rate on the dollar changes every day, so there may be some delay in the transaction as you try to figure out what their traveler's checks are worth. Be patient and keep your temper, even when they call you a thief and complain that they could get a higher rate at their hotel.

People from abroad have their own conceptions as to what the United States is like, mostly based on our movies and television shows. They expect to get mugged in New York, mowed down in Chicago, gouged in Miami, and scalped by Indians in Phoenix, Ariz. They will be very disappointed if their fantasies are not fulfilled, and will go back home and say the U.S. is not what it is cracked up to be.

If we want Austrian schillings and South African rand, we must all play the roles expected of us. For example, if you see a foreign tourist in Central Park, and he hasn't been mugged yet, you owe it to your country to push him down and say "your money or your life." Something like this could make his whole trip.

Foreign tourists are very insecure when traveling in America. It does no good to remind a Japanese visitor that, if it wasn't for the Americans, they still might be making rice paper fans instead of Toyota cars.

Above all, don't mention Pearl Harbor unless they want to bring it up. But it's perfectly all right to ask them, "Is Tokyo Rose still very popular in Japan?"

European tourists are particularly sensitive about the Marshall Plan, so I wouldn't say anything about it. If you happened to be in the Air Force during World War II, don't tell a German tourist how you enjoyed clobbering Stuttgart. They don't want to hear about it, and it really has nothing to do with the bargains they can get here in blue jeans.

The important thing to remember is that America's main interest in tourists is how much money they leave behind. As the poor relations of the Western world, we have to swallow our pride and get on our feet so that in the distant future we all might be able to travel again. I know it's hard to imagine, but someday Americans may have the wherewithal to go abroad, and it will be our turn, once again, to say to a French taxi driver, "Here's a dollar. Buy your family a good meal."

Other Editors Say License Them!

(Hickory Daily Record)

With gem and jewelry thefts occurring day and night in the Unifour, and elsewhere, the law-abiding public is becoming not only fearful but deeply aroused and clamoring for corrective action either on the part of state Attorney General Rufus Edmisten or the State Legislature.

Unless such thefts are abated, even the gold in a person's mouth or in milady's pierced ears will become equally as unsafe as are now the precious stones and jewelry in one's home.

In many instances, the gold, silver and silverware stolen is of emotional as well as monetary value, having been handed down from one generation to another.

One of the apparent reasons for the wave of precious stone and jewelry thefts is that the thieves find the stolen items easy to dispose of, though not at their real value, of course.

Due to the rise in the demand for gold and silver, establishments have been set up offering to buy gold trinkets such as rings, watches and necklaces; silverware, and such; and reportedly are doing a thriving business.

If such establishments are not under strict rules and regulations, no time should be lost in this being done; otherwise some, though not all, could be, or could become, nothing more than fences for gem and jewelry thieves.

These establishments, even if of good repute and honesty, should be licensed and put under the same strict rules and regulations as bonafide jewelers.

And before making a questionable purchase, they should be required to have positive identification of the seller as well as positive proof of his legal possession.

In many instances, marketplaces for gold and silver are no more than pawnshops, be they honest or dishonest.

It is not our aim to accuse anyone, merely to point out possibilities of the cause for the alarming increase in thefts that include prized heirlooms that cannot be replaced.

Strength For Today

GUIDE FOR THE AGES
John Stuart Mill, one of the great political economists of the nineteenth century, was a skeptic in religious matters. But he did make one statement about religion which has often been quoted. "There can be," he declared, "no better rule with which to decide ethical questions than to ask, 'What would Jesus of Nazareth have done in such a case?'"

Through the ages the influence of Jesus has become one of the most remarkable circumstances in human history. The name of Jesus is revered in many, if not most parts of the world today. Muslims have little use for Christian theology and none for the Christian church and its leaders, but they consider Christ to be a prophet and a wise man. Mahatma Gandhi, always an adherent of the Hindu religion, read the New Testament every day and considered Jesus an infallible guide for human conduct.

Of course, this respect falls far short of Christian belief. The New Testament claims much more for Jesus than wisdom. — Elisha Douglass

'Generic Cigarettes' Cheaper

By DIANA INSOLIO

Associated Press Writer DENVER (AP) — Cigarette smokers unhappy that too much of their money is going up in smoke are stampeding a Colorado supermarket chain that sells generic cigarettes at 44 cents a pack — a savings of 11 cents.

The cigarettes hit the shelves of 53 King Soopers stores two months ago and promptly outsold every brand except Marlboro, a spokesman for the supermarket chain said. The cigarettes, king-size filtered lights, are packaged in plain white wrapping with black lettering, leaving smokers guessing about what brand lies beneath.

"I don't really like filter cigarettes, but I thought I'd try them," said Charles Mayo of Denver as he purchased a carton of the cigarettes recently. "They taste like Winston or Marlboro."

Mayo said he tried the generic cigarettes because of their low price and the need to change brands every once in a while.

Bill Boggess, vice president of merchandising and advertising for King Soopers, declined to say how many packs of generic cigarettes the supermarket chain was selling. He said Marlboro was the top seller, and King Soopers sells 9 million cartons of cigarettes a year.

Customers are attracted by the generic brand's low price, made possible because "there are no advertising, no salesmen and no marketing costs for it," said Boggess.

King Soopers purchases the generic cigarettes from Topco & Associates of Chicago, which distributes more than 200 generic food and household items to 36 grocery store chains in the United States.

The cigarettes are manufactured for Topco by a nationally known company and are exactly like cigarettes packaged under that company's own label, said Topco president Marcel Lussier. He would not identify the manufacturer.

Other chains selling the generic cigarettes, with varying degrees of success, include Shopping Bag stores in southeastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey; Tom Thumb stores in Dallas and other Texas cities; Big Bear stores in Columbus; and Western stores in Detroit and West Michigan.

At King Soopers, the generic cigarettes cost 44 cents a pack and $3.87 a carton, 11 cents less a pack and 93 less per carton than other king-size filter lights sold at the stores. The same cigarettes generally sell at 70 cents a pack in machines in the Denver area.

In Shopping Bag stores in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, generic cigarettes are being sold for about 9 cents a pack less than comparable brands. "The generic cigarettes have not done as well as we thought," said Vincent Mitchell, director of special programs for Frankfurt-Quaker Co. owner of the Shopping Bag chain.

At Tom Thumb stores, generic cigarettes cost 60 cents a pack, compared with 75 cents for other king-size light brands. Jack Garretson, Tom Thumb's vice president for grocery merchandising, said it was too early to tell how well they were selling.

The price difference is important, said Stephen Blake, 28, as he wheeled a supermarket basket through a King Soopers store in the Capitol Hill area of Denver.

"They taste as good as the brand I used to smoke and they're a dollar cheaper," he said.

Reagan Errors Give N.C. Demos Confidence

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's misstatements and Gov. Jim Hunt's political strength have given North Carolina Democratic leaders a surprising confidence about President Carter's chances of carrying the state in the Nov. 4 election.

Among Republicans there is optimism, too. But the buoyancy felt by Tar Heel GOP leaders after their national convention has given way to a realistic view that any election — even with Reagan as their presidential nominee — is an uphill struggle for their party in this state.

"If the election was held now it'd be real close," said Cass Ballenger, a state senator from Hickory and co-chairman of the Reagan campaign in North Carolina. "I'd say two weeks ago we'd have beat the hell out of them."

Interviews during the last few with veteran political observers of both parties found a narrow consensus that Carter probably still leads the GOP candidate in North Carolina.

Without any recent, generally accepted North Carolina polling results to go on, most political observers acknowledge theirs are seat-of-the-pants opinions based on conversations with voters, Hunt's perceived re-election strength, continuing regional pride in Carter and the three-to-one Democratic voter registration in the state.

Even some top Republicans, however, acknowledged that Reagan's series of controversial statements in the last two weeks — topped by his remark that Carter had begun his campaign in the home of the Ku Klux Klan — has had a damaging effect.

Tom Ellis of Raleigh, head of the Americans for Reagan independent campaign, said the KKK remark was "just stupid."

"I don't think in any way it reflects the man I know as Ronald Reagan," Ellis added.

But, he cautioned: "Those things can be cumulative. I think he's got to be very careful what he says and does."

Carter carried North Carolina as part of his southern base in 1976, and he must win the region if he is to be re-elected this year. Some Democratic political analysts agreed that if he can't retake North Carolina this year, there is little reason to think Carter could win enough electoral votes elsewhere to gain re-election.

But Reagan, too, has been popular in North Carolina, at least among Republicans. He won primaries here in 1976 and 1980.

One sign that Democrats are not as worried as before about Carter's chances is Hunt's public enthusiasm for the national ticket. While Hunt still does not plan to link his re-election campaign closely with Carter, administration officials in Raleigh say they are not receiving the warnings they once heard that Carter could hurt Hunt.

"As of today, Carter's in the lead in North Carolina, no doubt about it," said Joe Pell, Hunt's aide for political matters. "Reagan was riding well for a while ... But I can tell by the way people are talking the thing has switched around."

"Reagan is really helping us," said another Democrat close to Hunt. "He's doing exactly what we anticipated. He's destroying his credibility. He's not being presidential."

Also agreeing was Sidney Eagles, new campaign chairman for Democratic Sen. Robert Morgan, whose re-election opponent John East has closely tied himself to Reagan's fortunes.

"I feel like the president is pretty strong and if the other fellow keeps making loose comments about southerners in general, it's not going to help him," Eagles said.

Among Republicans, state chairman Jack Lee confidently predicts Reagan would win North Carolina if the election was held today.

But other party activists spoke more cautiously, and a "toss-up" was about the most optimistic view widely held. One main reason is the likelihood that Hunt may help Carter out by keeping disgruntled Democrats in the fold.

"You know and I know what a machine Hunt's got," said Ballenger. "If I was looking at North Carolina, I'd look at the efficiency of the Hunt machine and hope like hell it breaks a leg."

Ellis said he believes the Reagan-Carter race is even in North Carolina now, and state Reagan finance chairman John Hutchens of High Point predicted a "cliffhanger" in the state.

But several other active Republicans, asking not to be named, saw Reagan still trailing in the state.

"I think if the election was held today, he (Reagan) would get beat," said one. "I think it's going to be an uphill battle."

"He's got 60 days and it's going to come down to who gets better organized," said another. "If he keeps screwing up like he's doing for the next 60 days, he'll get beat — and not just in North Carolina."

More specific polling information can be expected to surface on the race soon. A poll commissioned by Hunt's campaign is currently being conducted by the Peter Hart polling firm, its first since before the national conventions.

The Republican campaign headed by Ellis has also commissioned polling in the state, and the University of North Carolina School of Journalism plans a mid-October poll.

Arriving For Special School

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Students began arriving Sunday at the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics.

The school, only one of its kind in the United States, will provide residential quarters as well as academic instruction to high school students chosen from across the state.

Enrollment is expected to reach about 900 within five years.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy and warm Wednesday with chance of showers. Highs near 90 and lows in 60s. Fair and not quite as warm Thursday and Friday.

realize that a slow, tedious, even painful process will be required.

Those who expect the promises of politicians and the spending of billions of tax dollars to produce an immediate miracle are fooling themselves.

Only by patient re-examination of the total structure of governmental-business relationships embracing the spectrum of taxation, labor law, minimum wages, environmental protection, consumer protection, safety and health measures — the list goes on and on — can the swamp be drained.

Definition of Evangelicals

Evangelicals in the current two-part series are defined as those with three basic characteristics:

1. They describe themselves as "born-again" evangelical Christians, or say they have had a "born-again" experience;
2. They have tried to encourage other people to believe in Jesus Christ;
3. They believe in a literal interpretation of the Bible (or the absolute authority of the Bible).

Nineteen percent of persons surveyed met all three of these criteria, which projects to about 30 million U.S. adults.

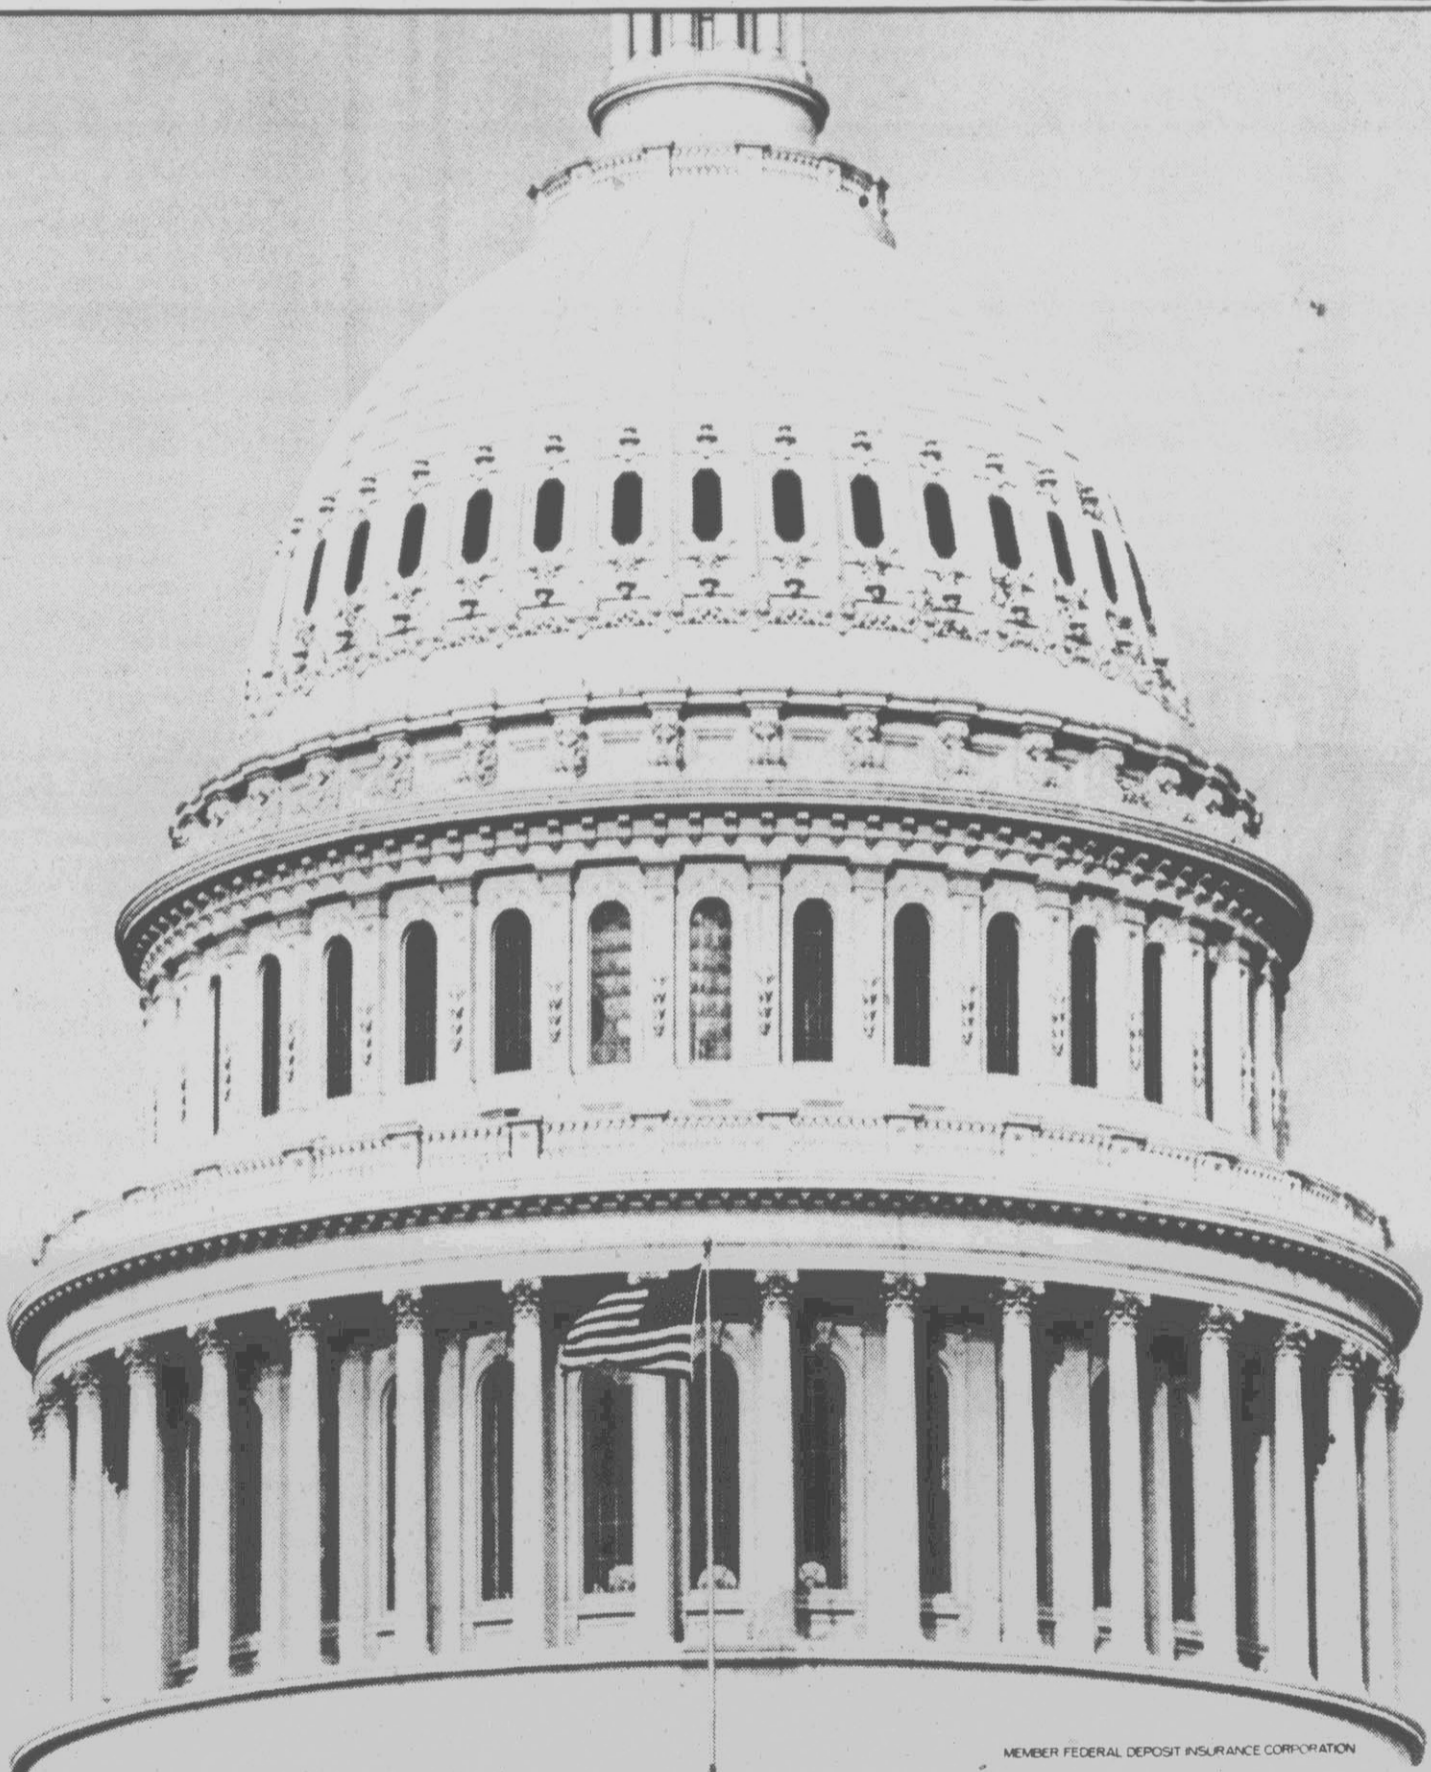

Part One of the series reported that while President Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan are in close contention nationally, the president is the overwhelming choice of evangelicals.

Being identified as a "born-again" evangelical Christian is on balance more a political asset than a liability. Although a 78 percent majority of non-evangelicals indicate that it would make no difference in their preference whether a presidential candidate was a born-again Christian, the nation's evangelicals are highly partisan toward an evangelical candidate.

The findings reported today are based on two in-person surveys, each with over 1,500 adults, 18 and older, conducted in more than 300 scientifically-selected localities across the nation during the periods Aug. 1-4 and Aug. 15-18.

For results based on samples of this size, one can say with 95 percent confidence that the error attributable to sampling and other random effects could be three percentage points in either direction.

At Branch Banking and Trust, we believe that saving money is sound economic policy.

We've maintained that simple philosophy even through times of high inflation — when the popular wisdom said spend, not save. And today, we believe saving makes more sense than ever.

Saving is the one way you can be sure of having the money you need for the things you want. And with some help from BB&T, you can protect your savings from inflation to a greater degree than you might have expected.

When it comes to saving money, not everyone's needs are equal.

For some people, saving money means a savings account — and that's always a very good way to save.

BB&T also offers a number of alternatives to regular savings accounts — alternatives that can earn you higher interest.

Consider, for example, our Certificates of Deposit*, which allow you to choose a maturity from 30 days to 8 years and a corresponding interest rate on deposits as low as $500. Or high-yield Money Market Certificates for deposits of $10,000 and more.**

With these and other savings plans, BB&T can help you put together a comprehensive savings program that will give you the best rate of return on your money and the kind of flexibility you need.

Exercise your inalienable right to save for your own future.

We can't predict what the state of the national economy is going to be. And the debate in Washington over such matters will go on and on.

What we do know, however, are the ways in which saving regularly has improved the lives of BB&T customers through the years. We want you to share in the security and the good life many of them have known.

So while you're waiting to see where the economy is headed, take the future into your own hands.

Book On Rosalynn Offers Glimpses Of First Lady

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter finds it almost impossible to forgive people who wrong her family, hoped against hope that son Chip's marriage would not end in divorce and so dislikes telling people what she's reading that she sometimes turns a book jacket wrong-side out.

So says the first lady's best friend, Edna Langford, in a glowing new biography: "Rosalynn — Friend and First Lady."

Mrs. Langford was Mrs. Carter's sole traveling companion during the early stages of Jimmy Carter's first presidential campaign and is still a frequent White House visitor.

While memories and anecdotes were provided by Mrs. Langford, the slim book was actually written by another longtime friend of the Carters, Linda Maddox, wife of the president's special assistant for religion, Robert L. Maddox.

Mrs. Carter was attending a party today to celebrate the book's publication. The first lady's press secretary, Mary Finch Hoyt, said Mrs. Langford interviewed Mrs. Carter twice for the book, although it is not an official biography.

Of Mrs. Carter's protective attitude toward her family, Mrs. Langford says that although the first lady has a deep religious faith, her "fierce loyalty and her protective instincts make it almost impossible to forget and very difficult to forgive violators when her family is involved. Sometimes, she's like the mama tiger with her cubs."

Mrs. Langford describes Chip Carter's separation from his wife, Caron, in November 1978, as being "like a death in the family. For a long time, Rosalynn hoped against hope the marriage could be saved. But, as in other times when her children had problems, she did not interfere."

"The day Caron and little James left the White House, no one wanted to be around. ... A waiter who had grown quite close to James became so emotional Rosalynn sympathetically suggested that he go home."

The couple later divorced and Caron Carter has since remarried.

To relax, the first lady reads novels, mysteries and other best-sellers, Mrs. Langford says. But Mrs. Carter sometimes "turns the jacket of the book wrong-side out to protect her reading privacy."

Besides reading, the first lady enjoys altering her own clothes and cooking, which her husband taught her. "Where he learned to cook I don't know," she is quoted as saying. "He probably got hungry."

Here are other glimpses from Mrs. Langford's volume, mainly a personal remembrance of their days together on the 1976 campaign trail:

—The National Security Council urged Mrs. Carter to observe the refugee crisis first hand last year by traveling to Cambodia, but the president vetoed the trip as too dangerous.

He agreed to let her go to Thailand instead, but told her, "Something specific must be accomplished." The refugee problem then became one of Mrs. Carter's projects.

—When Mrs. Carter determined to learn to play golf, she would take her young sons to the golf course while she played. But the presence of the three boys caused so much confusion that Mrs. Carter finally "left them at the movies in Dawson, Ga., and let them sit through several runs of the feature while she struggled with her game."

It was not until a hand injury forced her to give up the sport temporarily that Mrs. Carter decided she "was spending too much time playing golf — and her boys were spending too much time watching B movies." That was the end of golf.

—The first lady's personality remains basically the same as before she entered the White House, the book says, although she has "a greater knowledge of world affairs, more facility in public speaking, less time for herself."

Of that personality, the book says Mrs. Carter "can be friendly, cold, kind, resolute, sweet, cross, happy, sad, lonely, confused, grateful — but always Rosalynn."

Camp Out At College

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Jack Coughlin and Frank Smyth, starting their second week as juniors at Boston College, have gotten only as far as the parking lot.

"Keg corner," their temporary home while a new dormitory is being completed, consists of a pickup truck-camper, a van and a space in between.

"It's like a resort," says Coughlin, 19, of Middletown, Conn. "People really cannot believe we're doing this."

Coughlin and Smyth signed a residents' agreement with Boston College last spring, agreeing to find their own housing until a dorm — which was scheduled to be completed Sept. 1 — is ready for them.

Another 120 students in the same predicament have rented hotel rooms or are staying with friends.

Though he enjoys the attention, Smyth, 19, of Ridgewood, N.J., apparently is losing patience with the makeshift accommodations.

"The first four days were a lot of fun," he said. "Now the glory of it is kind of gone. We need a place to settle."

"We're not sure if we should cry and sulk, or laugh about it."

IDEALLY, THIS IS WHAT THE STALKS SHOULD LOOK LIKE . . . After tobacco stalks are stripped, farmers should disk them up completely, then two weeks later, disk them again. According to Pitt County Extension Agent Roger Cobb, the roots should ideally be completely out of the ground to halt growth of any insects or diseases. "Only after they are all the way out of the ground can we be sure of no more growth," explained Cobb. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

A Five-Year Streak Ends

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Macalester College has come a long way since the days students screamed "Orange Bowl, Orange Bowl" and tossed fruit on the field to cheer their team. The nation's longest college football losing streak has ended. The five-year, 50-game streak, longest in the history of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, snapped Saturday when the Scots defeated Wisconsin's Mount Senario 17-14 on a field goal.

The kick touched off a bench-clearing celebration by the Macalester players and coaches and sent 3,000 fans at Macalester Stadium into a frenzy.

It was Macalester's first victory since Oct. 11, 1974. The Scots passed the old NCAA record of 39 defeats in 1978.

"I'm very relieved," said President John B. Davis Jr. "There was a lot of tension. It was very tough on everyone, especially a college president."

Macalester celebrated after the game by drinking champagne, which Athletic Director Dennis Keihn said "we've had on ice for about five years."

Man Charged After Incident

A Grimesland man, Timothy Evans Corbett, 19, was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital in serious condition following a 2:05 a.m. incident in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Reade Streets Sunday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Phillip Bruce Edwards, 29 of New Bern allegedly struck Corbett in the head with a pistol during an affray.

Edwards was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, going about armed to the terror of the public, and possession of property with serial number destroyed, following investigation of the incident. Two other men involved in the same incident, Patrick Arthur Cannon, 18 of 408 Eastern St., and Gary Crawford Harris, 19 of Route 3, Greenville, were charged with affray.

Cannon said when officers arrived at the scene, Harris and Cannon were on the ground fighting, while Edwards was standing over them with the pistol in his hand.

Corbett, the chief said, had left the scene and was found at the intersection of Fourth and Evans Streets and taken to the hospital.

Once again it's time to cut those tobacco stalks. All growers are urged to cut or shred stalks immediately after harvest. The old root system should be destroyed along with burying crop refuse beneath the soil. A high quality job will help insure that the old stalks stand gives these nine pests: root-knot, brown spot, vein banding, horn worms, bud worms, flea beetles, weeds and grasses; another day to build up.

A high quality R-9-P, operation reduce nine pests, job will help result in higher net profits of future crops. Burying existing crop refuse, weeds and grasses helps to destroy the overwintering sites of diseases and insects. Fewer grass seeds will be available for next year's crop if it is destroyed. Some weeds are hosts for some tobacco diseases. Destroying these help to reduce the chance of disease for another year.

There are other advantages to following a good R-9-P program. This practice permits the use of the system plan for disease control, contributes to a total pest management program, reduces need for insecticides, lowers residue content in cured leaf, and improves leaf quality.

There are five simple steps in successfully carrying out R-9-P. Step one involves cutting or shredding stalks the same day that harvest is complete. Cutting stalks is followed by discing. This discing is followed by another two weeks later. The fourth step is to break with a moldboard plow within one week to finish the job of root kill and bury all crop refuse beneath the soil. Seeding a cover crop is the final step.

Fall breaking is an added but necessary job. Besides root kill and burying refuse it removes the first job of suggested land preparation in the busy spring. It improves soil conditions as a result of freezing and thawing during the winter months. A couple of trips across the field with a disc or chisel plow completes the job of land preparation next spring.

The cover crop is especially important where continuous culture or erosion is a problem. Seeding should be postponed until all steps are complete.

NEW YORK (AP) - Gold stocks jumped in active trading today as the price of bullion rose by about $20 a troy ounce on international bullion markets.

The broad stock market, however, was little changed in moderate trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 0.51 to 941.47 by midday.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by a thin 6-5 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume was a moderate 18.05 million shares by noon, up from 16.91 million in the previous session.

Gold prices jumped sharply in international bullion markets today in what dealers said partly reflected expectations that oil prices may go up again.

Saudi Arabia, the largest member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, reportedly plans to reduce its production and increase prices.

 In Zurich, gold was trading at slightly above $670 a troy ounce this afternoon, up from about $650 late Friday. Silver was also sharp, higher.

Prices of precious metals stocks included. Asarco up 2 1/2 to 48 3/4; Engelhard Minerals up 2 1/2 to 55; Inco Ltd. up 1 1/2 to 25 1/4; Sunshine Mining up 1 3/4 to 17 3/4; Homestake Mining jumped 6 to 93 1/4. All were actively traded.

The NYSE composite index at noon was up 0.03 to 72.16. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 0.95 to 332.31.

Eagle Scout Award Made

Evan J. Midgette received the Eagle Scout award Sunday in ceremonies at St. James Methodist Church. Presenting him with the award was his Scout Master Bill Plume.

Evan J. Midgette

Midgette is a member of Scout Troop 340. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Midgette of 203 Club Pines and a 17-year-old senior at Rose High School. For his Eagle Scout project Midgette built a playground at Sadie Sautter Elementary School. He has also earned the Order of the Arrow, 37 merit badges, Boy Scout life guard certificate and has swum the mile three times. He is active in many outside activities besides scouting including Key Club, French Club, VICA, the Rose High swim team and cross country track.

Theft Of Safe Is Investigated

Greenville police are investigating the theft of a safe from the office of Dr. M. W. Aldridge at 108 Oakmont Plaza, reported between 7 a.m. and 8 o'clock today.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the thieves forced open a rear door to gain entrance to the office.

According to the chief, the safe was unlocked and contained no money, only personal papers of no value to anyone other than the dentist.

Two Arrested On Charges

Greenville police, Saturday, arrested two local men on breaking, entering and larceny charges in connection with a September 3, break-in at Stereo Village at 317 Arlington Blvd.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified the men as Timothy Lynn Purvis, 19 of 1623 South Pitt St., and Larry Lee Hardy of 1612B Hopkins Dr.

Cannon said the two were charged with taking four radios from the business.

Evaluation For Prisoner

A prisoner at the Pitt County Jail was taken to Cherry Hospital for evaluation Sunday after he apparently attempted to commit suicide in his jail cell.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, the jailer on duty Sunday found John Thomas Dean, 26, of Box 1161, Grifton, lying on his bunk with a string tied around his neck. The sheriff said that Dean, who was conscious when found by the jailer, had apparently tied the string to a cell bar.

Sheriff Tyson noted that the jailer cut the string from Dean's neck and the prisoner was taken to the emergency room at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Dean was then taken to the Goldsboro facility, he added.

The time of the incident was placed at 6:22 p.m., the sheriff said.

THEFT CHARGED

NFL's 'Pitchers' Up On 'Hitters' As Year Begins

Associated Press

Pro football had its opening during baseball's summerfest, so it's fair to steal this basic from the national pastime: After the first week of the season, the pitchers (quarterbacks) are way ahead of the hitters (cornerbacks).

Translated into Xs and Os, that means quarterbacks, an endangered species that did a lot of limping around last season, easily won Sunday's battle with cornerbacks, those aggressive head-hunters who try to keep up with the Joneses of the National Football League by running backwards.

•Phil Simms, the second-year quarterback of the New York Giants, tossed five touchdown passes — four to Earnest Gray — in victimizing the St. Louis Cardinals 41-35.

•Dan Fouts, who set a single-season record with 4,082 passing yards in 1979, fired four TD strikes, two of them to John Jefferson, as the San Diego Chargers crushed the Seattle Seahawks 34-13.

•Tommy Kramer, emerging from Fran Tarkenton's long shadow, completed 30 of 42 passes for 395 yards and three touchdowns, rallying the Minnesota Vikings past the Atlanta Falcons 24-23.

•Terry Bradshaw ran for one touchdown and passed for two others in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers over the Houston Oilers 31-17.

•Ron Jaworski's three touchdown passes carried the Philadelphia Eagles past the Denver Broncos 27-6.

•Bert Jones, who missed all but seven games of the past two seasons with a damaged shoulder, ran for one touchdown and passed for 257 yards in leading the Baltimore Colts past the New York Jets 17-14.

•Dan Pastorini, playing his first regular season game for Oakland after being traded by Houston for Ken Stabler, tossed two TD passes to Bob Chandler and set up another score with a 52-yard bomb as the Raiders downed the Kansas City Chiefs 27-14.

•Steve Grogan of New England threw for three touchdowns in the Patriots' 34-17 triumph over the Cleveland Browns.

Giants 41, Cardinals 35

"I think I went to the right passes with the right coverage every play," said the Giants' Simms, who was an effective pass partner to Gray, who caught a club record four TD passes. Gray finished with nine receptions for 174 yards.

The Giants, who scored just 36 points in losing three of four preseason games, beat the Cardinals in St. Louis for the first time since 1972.

Chargers 34, Seahawks 13

San Diego, which rode Fouts' strong arm to the playoffs last year, bounced back from a losing preseason game against Seattle. "We showed a lot of our offense today, but we didn't show all of it," said Fouts. The pass-happy Chargers gained 224 yards in the air and ran for 197.

Vikings 24, Falcons 23

Rick Danmeier's 27-yard field goal with 25 seconds to play was the game-winner, but the Vikings' Kramer was the offensive hero, taking Minnesota 69 yards in less than three minutes in the final drive.

"That's Fran Tarkenton still playing," said Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski, who passed for 265 yards for the Falcons.

Steelers 31, Oilers 17

"Same Houston-Pittsburgh rivalry," said Bradshaw, who broke a 17-17 tie with a 1-yard TD dive. "No secrets. No surprises." The final score was no surprise, either. As good as the Oilers have been the past couple of seasons, the Steelers have been better, winning the last two Super Bowls and four of the last six.

The Oilers, whose quarterback, Stabler, was intercepted five times, rallied from a 17-0 first-quarter deficit. "Y'all caught me off guard," Houston Coach Bum Phillips said. "I didn't have my losing speech prepared."

Packers 12, Bears 6, OT

With some citizens in Green Bay howling for Coach Bart Starr's scalp after a winless preseason, placekicker Marcol came to the rescue with his first TD in nine NFL seasons. "It was the thrill of my life," said Marcol. "But I'm sure it won't sink in until tomorrow, because it was one we really needed to win."

Lions 41, Rams 20

For finishing last in 1979, the Lions picked Sims, from Oklahoma, as the NFL's first draft choice. He paid off immediately with TD runs of 10, 1 and 41 yards and two pass receptions for 64 yards, doing it all against a Ram defense that took Los Angeles to the Super Bowl last season but took the day off Sunday.

Most Happy Fella

John McEnroe throws his arms up as he screams following his victory in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at the National Tennis Center in New York Sunday night. McEnroe defeated Bjorn Borg 7-6, 6-1, 6-7, 5-7, 6-4. (AP Laserphoto)

McEnroe Captures Open

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1980 U.S. Open tennis championships came down to two simple facts: No one could hold back Chris Evert Lloyd from fulfilling her dreams, and a gritty left-handed virtuoso named John McEnroe could shatter those of Bjorn Borg.

Lloyd became Open champion for the fifth time Saturday by beating Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia 5-7, 6-1, 6-1 in what she called the most emotional victory of her distinguished career. She then yielded the spotlight to the men — and McEnroe and Borg filled it with a topsy-turvy five-set final.

McEnroe denied Borg his first American championship and a shot at tennis' Grand Slam with a 7-6, 6-1, 6-7, 5-7, 6-4 triumph Sunday that cemented a place in history for the 21-year-old from nearby Douglaston, N.Y.

The second seed became the first man to repeat as Open titlist since Neale Fraser of Australia in 1959-60 and the first American to do so since Pancho Gonzalez in 1948-49.

"It's great to win this tournament two years in a row," said McEnroe, who used a variety of slices, offspeed shots and blazing returns to reverse the five-set loss to Borg he suffered at Wimbledon in July. "After Wimbledon, I didn't know when I'd get my chance to beat him, but I figured my best chance would be here on my best surface (cement)."

"There wasn't as much intensity here as at Wimbledon. I don't think Bjorn played that well the whole match."

He certainly didn't serve well. The Swede who has won Wimbledon the last five years and also took the French Open for the fifth time earlier this year — he would have needed the U.S. and Australian Opens to complete the slam — connected on just 49 percent of his first serves and double faulted nine times.

"It was the worst I have ever served in a final," said Borg. "I had to work on my second serve the whole match. It was very tiring."

McEnroe began to tire in the fourth set. He played a 4½ hour semifinal match with Jimmy Connors that ended less than 20 hours before the start of Sunday's final.

"I figured I'd be pretty stiff but I woke up and didn't feel bad," said McEnroe.

"I felt real good the first couple of sets but began feeling it after the fourth set. After I lost the fourth, I thought my body was going to fall off. "But I felt better in the fifth set here than at Wimbledon."

He also felt lucky. "He had the upper hand in the first set," added McEnroe. "He was serving for it at 5-4. I think he got discouraged after losing the set."

The last four games of the first set went against service. McEnroe grabbed the last three points of the tiebreaker to win it.

Bjorn Borg

"In the second set, I was trying my best but had no feel for the ball," noted Borg, who lost his four service games in the set. "I didn't have timing on the returns."

Borg rediscovered his form in the third set although his serve still was on vacation. He broke in the seventh game and was serving once more for a set at 5-4, only to be broken back. But he rallied from 1-3 in the tiebreaker to win it 7-5.

The fourth set went with service until the 12th game.

when Borg broke with a pair of perfect returns on McEnroe's second serve. Just as at Wimbledon, they marched into the fifth set.

This time, however, the ending was different.

A's Set Mark As O's Fall

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's set a pitching record Sunday at the expense of the Baltimore Orioles.

It turned out to be pretty expensive, too. It may cost the Orioles the American League East title.

Throwing 150 pitches, including 73 in the first three innings, Steve McCatty hurled a record 78th complete game for Oakland as the A's defeated the Orioles 5-2 and seriously damaged their hopes for the East championship.

The loss coincided with New York's 4-1 victory over the California Angels and gave the Yankees a 4½-game lead over the second-place Orioles.

"It's ironic that I pitched the record-breaking game," said McCatty, "because I have the least amount of complete games on the staff. It would have been nice if Mike Norris or Rick Langford had done it."

but I feel I contributed, too."

The complete game was the fifth in his last seven starts and the ninth this season for McCatty.

It enabled Oakland to break a tie for a 162-game schedule they shared with the 1968 San Francisco Giants, and is the most in the major leagues since the 1953 Cleveland Indians recorded 81 for a 154-game schedule. The all-time mark is 106 by the 1941 Chicago White Sox.

Yankees 4, Angels 1
Jim Spencer slammed a three-run homer and left-hander Rudy May combined with two relievers on a seven-hitter to lead New York over California.

May, 13-5, pitched seven innings, allowing just four hits and lowering his earned run average to 2.29, best in the league. Doug Bird and Rich Gossage finished up, with Gossage earning his 24th save.

Held hitless by rookie Jim Dorsey, 0-2, through three innings, the Yankees took a 3-0 lead in the fourth on Spencer's shot.

Royals 6, Indians 4
Willie Aikens hit a home run and two singles and drove in three runs to pace Kansas City over Cleveland. Aikens' three RBI helped the Royals build a 5-1 lead through six innings, enough to withstand a late flurry by the Indians.

Winner Dennis Leonard, 17-9, survived a shaky first inning, then retired 15 men in a row before being driven from the mound in the seventh, when the Indians scored three times.

Ken Brett and Dan Quisenberry finished up, with Quisenberry gaining his 32nd save.

Mariners 12, Red Sox 6
Larry Milbourne, Leon Roberts and Rodney Craig each collected three hits and two RBI as Seattle routed Boston.

The Mariners struck for eight runs in the second inning, putting the game out of reach and completing the four-game series with a 3-1 edge.

Winner Byron McLaughlin, 2-6, pitched 51-3 innings in relief, giving up six hits and one run. He replaced Rick Anderson, who was pulled after giving up two singles and a walk in the first inning.

Rangers 7, Brewers 2
Mike Richard socked three singles and drove in three runs, leading Texas over Milwaukee to spoil George Bamberger's final game as the Brewers' manager.

Winner Doc Medich, 12-9, scattered 13 hits before needing last-out relief help from John Henry Johnson. The Rangers took a 2-1 lead in the second inning on Richard's two-run single off Bob McClure, 2-7, and were never headed.

Twins 3, Tigers 1
Roy Smalley belted a two-run homer to back the combined four-hit pitching of Darrell Jackson and Doug Corbett as Minnesota defeated Detroit. Jackson, 9-8, gave up all four Detroit hits and one unearned run over the first seven innings before Corbett finished up.

Mark Fidrych, 1-3, who Tuesday night won his first major league game in two years, had a four-hitter going until the Twins shelled him in the eighth inning.

Blue Jays 3-7, White Sox 1-6
John Mayberry hit a homer and Joey McLaughlin and Mike Barlow combined on an eight-hitter as Toronto beat Chicago in the first game of their doubleheader.

Damaso Garcia drove in four runs, three on a two-out, bases-loaded triple in the third inning, to lead the Blue Jays to their second-game victory.

Allison's 'Tough' Race Looked Easy

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Despite Bobby Allison's assertion that "it was a tough race," the veteran Ford driver made the Capital City 400 Grand National stock car event look easy.

Taking over on the 299th lap, the Hueytown, Ala., driver won the Richmond race for the second straight year by a 3-second margin over 13-time Fairgrounds Raceway winner Richard Petty. Lennie Pond, like Petty driving a Chevrolet, was third.

"Early on there was a lot of racing, with a lot of guys running good. Then it settled down. But it was a tough, hard race. Typical Richmond," Allison said.

Allison, who led five times for a total of 212 laps, appeared to get faster as the race progressed.

"Early I was second fastest, but later I was fastest. Darrell Waltrip was fastest early," said Allison.

At the finish, Waltrip was three laps back in sixth place. Dale Earnhardt was a lap down in fourth and Jody Ridley two laps behind in fifth.

Cale Yarborough, whose start on the pole was his 11th in that position this year, led the first 47 laps but never was ahead again and lasted only 145 laps because of overheating problems.

With Yarborough out of contention, it appeared a three-way race involving Allison, Earnhardt and Benny Parsons with Pond and Petty making strong bids.

But Earnhardt lost a lap in the pits and cut a tire just after he unlapped. Then Parsons cracked a cylinder head to put him out of contention.

Allison was left to run his own race when Parsons fell off the pace on the 271st lap.

Seven caution flags for 36 laps held Allison's average speed on the .542-mile track to 79.722 mph. There were 13 lead changes among seven drivers.

"This was one of the better races, being that I won it. Fortunately, I stayed out of trouble and the other guys had trouble," Allison said.

Petty said he was satisfied with his second-place finish. "Bobby outran me all day long, so I was really satisfied to run that close. He could get around traffic a little better than I could. My car would push whenever I tried to run high," Petty said.

Theismann: Redskins Have Advantage Against Cowboys

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quarterback Joe Theismann believes the Washington Redskins have an advantage in their 1980 National Football League season opener tonight against the Dallas Cowboys, the defending National Conference East champions.

"In any other year, it probably would be better to get a look at them for three or four games," said Theismann. "But this year, they have had many changes on defense. Harris is gone and you don't know how they others are going to play. You would like to see everything set but I'm not one to wait and see and we're playing in our park, on a Monday night, so it's to our advantage."

Theismann referred to the retirement of all-pro free safety Cliff Harris and the uncertainty of cornerbacks Benny Barnes and Aaron Kyle, both of whom are coming off surgery. Randy Hughes, who was to replace Harris, had shoulder surgery Aug. 25 and has been replaced by Dennis Thurman. However, Theismann was quick to add that the Cowboys aren't going to change much on defense from what they have been doing over the years.

"They have the four horses up front and they are going to send them at you," he said, referring to defensive ends Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Harvey Martin and tackles Larry Cole and Randy White. "If you are going to look at the strength of the Cowboys, it's their front four. They are among the best."

Theismann conceded that the Cowboys game is important to him as a test of how well he has performed.

"I use Dallas as a measure of how well I'm playing," he said. "They force you to be at your best."

He also said the game is important because "it is the opener, a Monday night game and against a conference opponent. We're hyped up and everyone is excited. Every game is always important against the Cowboys, whether it is the first or the last one of the year."

"For many of us, it is more than just a season opener," he said. "But for most of the veterans, it is also just the first of 16 games."

Despite Loss, Expos Still Atop East

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

Losing a baseball game Sunday couldn't get Dick Williams down. After all, his Montreal Expos were going home from an arduous West Coast trip still clinging to the lead in the National League East.

The Expos lost the first four games of the journey at Los Angeles and dropped briefly behind the Philadelphia Phillies into a second-place tie with Pittsburgh.

But even though they dropped a 6-3 decision to the San Francisco Giants Sunday, the Expos headed home with a one-game lead over the Phillies and two games on the Pirates after winding up their tough trek with a 5-6 record.

"We picked up ground on the two other clubs (Pittsburgh and Philadelphia) and we're going home in first place. That's not too bad," said Williams.

Expos' pitchers had registered 30 consecutive scoreless innings over the Giants before Darrell Evan's run-scoring double ignited a three-run fourth inning off Montreal starter Charlie Lea.

A pair of Andre Dawson homers off winner Vida Blue, 13-7, helped Montreal pull into a 3-3 tie. But the Giants scored a pair of unearned runs without a hit in the sixth to go ahead for good. Greg Minton preserved the lead for Blue and picked up his 18th save.

The Giants came up with the decisive runs off reliever John D'Acquisto, 2-5. Evans and Jim Wohlford opened the inning with walks, bringing on Fred Norman to replace D'Acquisto.

After a sacrifice bunt by Milt May, Evans scored the go-ahead run on a fielder's choice by Guy Sularz. Evans was trapped between third and home, but scored when third baseman Larry Parrish dropped a throw for an error. Pinch hitter Max Venable made it 5-3 with a sacrifice fly.

Braves 6, Pirates 5
Atlanta came from behind again, this time on a two-out, two-run homer in the eighth by Dale Murphy, to continue its mystifying mastery over the world champion Pirates. The victory ended the season series between the two with Atlanta holding an 11-1 edge.

The triumph also gave the Braves a 24-6 record over the past 30 games, which is the best in baseball. And some people think the once forlorn Braves, now 7½ games behind, have a real shot at catching NL West leader Los Angeles.

Dodgers 6, Phillies 0
Los Angeles starter Dave Goltz sprained an ankle and had to be removed after allowing just one hit through the first three innings, but Bobby Castillo, 6-6, came on to limit the Phillies to just two more hits over the last six frames. Meanwhile, Dave Lopes drove in two runs and the Dodgers collected 10 hits off five Philadelphia pitchers. Starter Dick Ruthven, 14-9, took the loss.

The victory was the 17th in the last 20 games for the Dodgers and ended their current homestand with a 10-1 mark.

Cardinals 2, Astros 0
Pete Vuckovich, 10-9, scattered eight hits for his third shutout of the season as the second-place Astros fell two games behind the Dodgers. Vuckovich struck out six and walked one, twice retiring Cesar Cedeño on groundouts after getting in jams by allowing two-out singles to Terry Puhl and Jose Cruz.

Ted Simmons and Vuckovich provided the runs with RBI singles off Houston starter Ken Forsch, 10-12, in the first two innings.

Cubs 6, Reds 4
Pinch-runner Carlos Lezcano raced home from first on Jerry Martin's two-out double in the eighth inning to break a 4-4 deadlock and send Chicago to its victory. Cliff Johnson started the rally with a single and Lezcano ran for him. Then, with one out, right fielder Ken Griffey tried for a shoestring catch on Martin's liner to right, but the ball bounded off his glove, enabling Lezcano to score.

Griffey recovered quickly and his throw went to second.

Dave Concepcion caught it and made a swipe at the sliding Martin, but just missed as Lezcano scored.

"I almost screwed it up," said Martin. "I figured Griffey would throw to the plate. I should have stopped, but as I went sliding into second, it flashed in my mind that if Concepcion tagged me, the run wouldn't count (because Lezcano had not yet scored)."

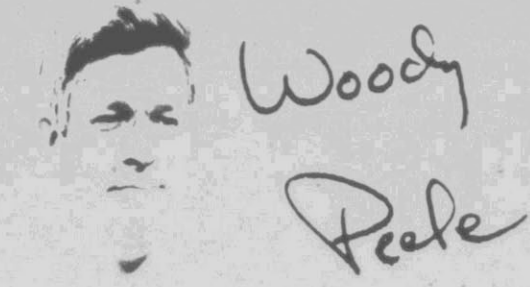

Instead of the inning being over with the score still tied, Steve Dillard followed with a single to score Martin with an insurance run as Bruce Sutter, 5-7, picked up the victory and Doug Bair, 1-6, took the loss.

Padres 5, Mets 2

Hot-hitting Broderick Perkins singled in one run and Gene Tenace doubled home two more to help Bob Shirley, 10-10, hand New York its ninth straight loss. He also became the first San Diego pitcher to win 10 games this season.

Perkins' RBI hit extended his hitting string to 11 games and Tenace's double gave him nine RBI in the four-game series with the Mets. Starter John Pacella, 3-4, took the loss.

Saturday afternoon, East Carolina's new coach, Ed Emory walked off the turf of Duke's Wallace Wade Stadium with a broad grin on his face.

Emory's Pirates had just beaten Duke, 35-10, completely dominating the second half of the contest.

Up in the stands above the tunnel leading to the dressing areas, the Pirate fans were still amassed. And their cheered their new hero.

Emory acknowledged the fans, smiling even more. He raised his arm aloft, two fingers spread in a "V."

Minutes later, before the gathered press, he acknowledged it as "the happiest day of my life."

He also acknowledged that a good start is not necessarily the key to the whole program. "Did Bear Bryant win his first game? I doubt if anyone here knows. It's not how you start but how you finish."

Emory was lavish in his praise of his staff, singling out offensive coordinator Wright Anderson and defensive coordinator Norm Parker for their special efforts. He also lauded the players, and took a moment to thank the man he had followed at the helm at ECU for his efforts in helping prepare the team.

All in all a fine day for Emory and his crew.

The Pirates also began to hear the same story they've heard from North Carolina and Wake Forest.

In his post-game comments, Duke's Red Wilson said that Duke really had nothing to gain by playing East Carolina.

"They come up here all fired up to play an ACC team," Wilson explained to the press. "For us, it is just another W or L."

Emory, speaking independently of Wilson, and prior to his comments, said that "ACC" had't been mentioned in the Pirate camp throughout practice.

"This was our opening game. It wasn't a game against an ACC team, but just Duke. We were emotional, but not because of the ACC name. We were trying to make up for the mistakes made last year that led to Duke's victory."

Wilson's statements sound like Duke is getting ready to cut the ties too, just like Wake Forest, which backed out of four other games, and North Carolina, which also will no longer play the Pirates after next year.

East Carolina does have at least one more shot at Duke, next year. And by the time the crowds thin out at Wallace Wade, Duke may want the Pirate fans back after all.

At least State can see the light.

Three veteran members of the Pirate team moved up on the all-time career list in the game.

Theodore Sutton, who got to play after all, moved up to the number nine spot in career total offense, with 2,192 yards, passing Kenny Strayhorn, who had 2,155. Sutton also took over third in rushing, also surpassing Strayhorn, with the same figures.

Anthony Collins moved to eighth in rushing with 1,764 yards, passing Willie Hawkins, who had 1,754. Collins is also now tied for seventh in scoring, moving past both Tom Michel with 133 and Bill Cline with 136.

Collins, along with teammate Bill Lamm, both are knotted for seventh with 138 points.

All three will be moving up during the year in their various categories.

By the way, Bear Bryant did win his opening game. His first year as a college head coach was at the University of Maryland, and the Terps took a 60-0 victory over Guilford College.

NFL's 'Pitchers' ...

Bills 17, Dolphins 7
"It's my greatest feeling," said veteran guard Reggie McKenzie after the Bills finally beat the Dolphins. Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson passed 4 yards to Roosevelt Leaks with 3:47 left in the game to give the Bills a 10-7 lead, prompting Ferguson to kiss the ground in appreciation.

Eagles 27, Broncos 6
Jaworski and the Philadelphia's stifling defense, which picked up five quarterback sacks, were too much for Denver and quarterback Matt Robinson, playing his first regular season game for the Broncos after being traded by the Jets.

Colts 17, Jets 14
The difference in the game was that, when the score was 14-14, Steve Mike-Mayer made a 46-yard field goal, and when it was 17-14, the Jets' Pat Leahy missed one from 32 yards out.

Raiders 27, Chiefs 14
Pastorini passed for 317 yards in Oakland's first game in the post-Stabler era, taking advantage of injured cornerback Gary Green's rookie replacement, Paul Dombroski. "We felt going in that we were going to work on him," said Raider Coach Tom Flores.

Patriots 34, Browns 17
Grogan's three TD passes allowed the Patriots to control the game and win only their third opener in the past nine seasons, ending the Browns' opening-game winning streak to four.

Bucs 17, Bengals 12
Giles victimized rookie defensive back Greg Bright on his two TD catches, getting free up the middle on the game-winner. "He didn't know what I was going to do," said Giles. "I just put a move on him. I guess he might have learned a lesson today."

49ers 26, Saints 23
The 49ers' winning march started on their 19 and stalled on the New Orleans 20. But it was enough for Werschling, who made good on a 37-yard field goal. Rookie fullback Earl Cooper accounted for two TDs and 80 yards on 17 carries for the 49ers.

Bullets Win, 20-13

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville's William Moore ran 55 yards on a reverse and Ricky Bell scored from one yard out to spark a 14-point fourth quarter and help lead the Bullets past Columbia, 20-13, Saturday night in a high school football game.

The Bullets scored first on an eight-yard pass from Tom Fortenberry to Greg Sullivan but Columbia countered that with a two-yard run by David Liverman late in the first period to knot the score at 6-6.

Columbia, after neither team scored in the second period, took the lead in the third quarter on a 12-yard pass. The Bullets, however, rallied in the fourth, scoring first on Moore's run, which made it 13-12, and then went ahead on Bell's run. Bell's run for the PAT put the Bullets up by seven and that's the way it ended as Jamesville evened its record at 1-1. Columbia is 0-2.

The Bullets travel to Chocowinity Friday.

'Lou Grant' Big Winner Of Strike-Bound Emmys

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The stars didn't come out for the 32nd annual Emmy Awards. Ed Asner watched from home as his "Lou Grant" chalked up the most wins, and more than 80 stars boycotted the presentation to support an actors' strike against movie studios and television networks.

The Television Academy Awards presentation on NBC was bereft of acceptance speeches, glamour and excitement as Emmy winners were announced Sunday.

A few variety stars — such as Steve Allen and Dick Clark, who stepped in as hosts at the last minute — showed up to keep the program going. Allen quipped, "We've got a star-studded audience — three stars and 14 studs."

The only actor who appeared to accept his award was Powers Boothe, named best lead actor in a limited series for CBS' "Guyana Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones."

"This is either the most courageous moment of my career or the stupidest," said Boothe. He said he supported both the Television Academy and the actors' stand.

The Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists walked off their jobs July 21 in a dispute over money for pay television and sales of video cassettes.

CBS was the night's numerical winner, with 13 Emmys, followed by ABC with 10 and NBC with five. The rest went to PBS or syndicated shows.

"Lou Grant," CBS's series on life at a Los Angeles newspaper, was named best dramatic series and picked up five additional awards — for Asner as best actor in a drama series, absent Nancy Marchand as best supporting actress, writer Seth Freeman, director Roger

Young and in the technical area of music composition.

ABC's "Baryshnikov on Broadway" got four awards. Three each went to ABC's "Taxi" and NBC's "Movieland" and "The Miracle Worker." Some of the awards, in technical categories, were announced Saturday.

It was the fifth Emmy for Asner, who plays the irascible city editor, and his second for best lead in "Lou Grant." The other three were supporting awards for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"I'm delighted with the success of the show," Asner said later. "I'm sorry we're not there, but hopefully we can contribute a little bit by not being there. It will call attention to the fact that we have a strike to take care of."

Johnny Carson, voted the academy's Governor's Award, also stayed home, sending John McMahon, president of his production company, to pick up the statuette.

Patty Duke Astin was named best lead actress in a limited series for her role as Anne Sullivan in NBC's "The Miracle Worker," which was named best drama or comedy special. She had won a supporting Oscar in 1962 for playing Helen Keller in the movie version.

Britain's "Edward & Mr. Simpson" was named the outstanding limited series.

Barbara Bel Geddes, Miss Ellie on CBS' "Dallas," was named best lead actress in a dramatic series. Richard Mulligan, the spaced-out Burt of ABC's "Soap," and Cathryn Damon, his suffering wife, were named best lead actor and actress in a comedy series.

Harry Morgan and Loretta Swit teamed up as best supporting actor and actress in "M-A-S-H."

ABC's "Taxi" was named the best comedy series, scoring something of an upset over the favored "M-A-S-H." James L.

Brooks, a "Taxi" executive producer, noting the show's crew had been laid off due to the strike, said, "We want them to know this is as much for them as anybody."

"Taxi" director James Burrows also picked up an award for best directing in a comedy series, and "Taxi" won an additional award in the technical area.

"Baryshnikov on Broadway" was named best variety or music program and its director, Dwight Hemion, won an Emmy. It also picked up two technical awards. Marvin Chomsky was named best director in a limited series or special for ABC's "Attica." David Chase won the writing category for ABC's "Off the Minnesota Strip."

ERA 'Not The Answer' To New Miss America

By JEAN CRICHTON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The new Miss America, Susan Powell, thinks the Equal Rights Amendment "is beautiful because it's got people talking about women's rights and about women" — but she does not support it.

"But I'm not sure that the ERA as an amendment is the answer," the 21-year-old Oklahoma City University senior said Sunday. "Women without the ERA will have their own rights. Women are very strong."

Miss Powell says she never has encountered discrimination in her own life.

She was appearing today on the "Today" show, and for the next 10 days will be flying between New York and Los Angeles for appearances on behalf of pageant sponsors.

But before she left the site of her Saturday triumph, Miss Powell answered a host of questions on sex, money, drugs, love and her professional ambitions.

"I am very competitive," said Elk City, Okla.'s first Miss America. "As a child, I used to watch Miss America on television, put a sheet around my neck with a pin and sing, 'There She Is.' It's been my dream."

A soprano who won district Metropolitan Opera auditions this year in Oklahoma, the 54th Miss America took the crown with a witty rendition of "Lucy's Aria" from the opera, "The Telephone."

She plans to use her $20,000 scholarship for voice lessons and hopes to sing with a major opera company someday.

She also hopes to earn "as much as possible. A hundred-thousand dollars? That sounds good. That would be really nice."

Her predecessor, Cheryl Prewitt, earned some $100,000 through appearances.

The green-eyed Miss Powell, who wears her dark hair in a chignon — a knot of hair worn at the back of the neck — says she's a "middle class" woman from a small town who relaxes by watching television.

When she's not at Oklahoma City University, she lives with her mother, Vinita, who is divorced from her father, Wendell Powell. She doesn't have a boyfriend and said premarital sex is "not right for me at this time in my life."

About marriage, she said: "I will marry only if I meet someone I can't live without."

The new Miss America says abortion should be a matter of choice for a woman and her doctor, but said she personally was against it.

She has never used illegal drugs and supports decriminalization, not legalization, of marijuana, she said.

Miss Powell said she would support a draft for women "if it meant living in a free country," but would not reveal her presidential choice. Asked if she could repre-

Bedlam At The 'Old Vic'

LONDON (AP) — The critics have branded it "Maclop" and "Macdeath," but that hasn't deterred fans from flocking to see Peter O'Toole's performance in Shakespeare's "Macbeth" at London's Old Vic theater.

"People were hammering at the doors, shouting for tickets. It was bedlam," said a theater security guard. "All the phones are ringing all day long and all through the night as well."

Timothy West, the theater's artistic director, publicly blamed O'Toole for the adverse critical reaction in which one critic decried the production as "the most ridiculous thing I have ever seen on the London stage." West said the 48-year-old Irishman had demanded total control over the production and ignored all advice.

The Old Vic box office staff said Saturday that 35,000 of the 38,000 seats available for advance booking have been sold. There also has been a rush for seats at theaters where the production will tour.

"Macbeth" marks O'Toole's return to the London stage after a 15-year absence during which he worked mostly in films. He is best known for his leading role in the 1962 film "Lawrence of Arabia."

sent all American women, the new titleholder said, "I'm representing people, but I'm representing Susan Powell first. I'm sharing my life with people, my views with people."

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Evaluating the 'Surgical Risk'

Before my mother was operated on for a growth in her stomach the doctor said she was "a good surgical risk." Despite this encouragement, she developed every kind of complication and is still in the hospital, after two months time. Would you say that she should have been called a "good surgical risk"? — Mr. H.T.E., Mich. Dear Mr. E.:

Your question is a fascinating one. It encompasses many of the elements in the equation of the doctor-patient relationship. Let us examine the initial statement that your mother was "a good surgical risk."

Every operation entails some detail of risk. Every general anesthesia carries with it an element of risk. The combination of the two, especially in a middle-aged person, makes physicians and surgeons utilize all the information they can gather in determining how well a patient is likely to fare, during and after surgery.

The general condition of the patient, the age, the condition of the heart, the lungs, the blood pressure, the blood circulation, the blood chemistry and the past medical history are taken into consideration in the evaluation of "risk."

Obviously, an older person with chronic heart or lung disease — or even moderately advanced arteriosclerosis — would be considered a greater risk than a young athlete in the full bloom of life.

When a surgeon says that a patient is a "good surgical risk" he cannot, in any conceivable way, anticipate the unexpected complications that sometimes do occur. When such emergencies arise, doctors meet the problems head on and devote themselves to those complications.

Apparently, that is what happened in your mother's case. She was, according to all standards, a good surgical risk and did, indeed, survive the operation and the anesthesia. I am certain that her doctor did not give you a blueprint of exactly what he would find during the operation. This aspect of surgery is not included in the phrase, "good surgical risk."

The slow recovery and long convalescence in no way reflects on the initial judgment of her doctor.

The advent of the antibiotics, newer and safer anesthetics, excellent pre-operative preparation (physical and emotional) and highly refined operative techniques have markedly reduced the dangers implicit in an operative procedure.

Damage Results From Wrecks

More than $4,100 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic mishaps investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 11 a.m. collision on Fleming Street, 150 feet east of the Hudson Street intersection, involving cars driven by Michael Anthony Gardner of 1222A Battle St. and James Russell Perkins of 606 Sheppard St.

Police, who charged Perkins with operating left of center, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Gardner car and $500 to the Perkins vehicle.

Gary Crawford Harris of Route 3, Greenville, was charged with improper passing following investigation of a 9:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Farmville Boulevard and Line Avenue.

Police, who identified the driver of the second vehicle involved as Martha Pratt Carr of 405 Arbor St., estimated damage at $400 to the Carr car and $800 to the Harris auto.

Ned Carlyle Smith of 1801 East Fifth St. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:35 p.m. collision on Cotanche Street, 95 feet north of the Tenth Street intersection.

The driver of the second car involved was listed as Richard Earl Hardee II of Route 3, Greenville, by officers, who set damage at $785 to the Hardee car and $135 to the Smith auto.

'Squeaky' Is Unrepentant

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Five years after threatening then-President Gerald R. Ford's life, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme says she "was not determined to kill the guy, obviously, because I didn't do it."

The member of the Charles Manson "family," imprisoned at the Federal Correctional Institute for Women at Alderson, W.Va., spoke about the 1975 incident in an interview with the Sacramento Bee, published Sunday.

"I was fed up. With lots and lots of things," Ms. Fromme said. "Here's this guy coming in an interview with the Sacramento Bee, published Sunday."

She said she was "checking things out" when she confronted the president. Officials said after the incident that the firing chamber in her gun was empty but there was live ammunition in the clip. Ms. Fromme, 31, said she ejected the top shell before she left home.

Also at the Alderson prison is Sandra Good, another follower of Manson, the convicted mastermind of the 1969 Tate-LaBianca slayings. Ms. Fromme said the two don't want to leave prison until Manson does.

"We just were not content out there without him ... if you look into yourself enough, you'll see Charlie there," Ms. Fromme said. "You'll see Manson because he's been there so long."

See $100 Million Loss For State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina agriculture may experience a $100 million loss in production because of the prolonged drought and high temperatures this summer, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said Sunday.

Graham said the loss to growers and poultry producers could be as great, or greater, than they experience during similar conditions in 1977. In addition to days-on-end of abnormally high temperatures, the state as a whole is running four inches behind its normal rainfall.

The heaviest and most dramatic losses have occurred in the poultry and hog losses, where dehydration has been a major problem.

Production losses also have been seen in row crops such as tobacco, corn and soybeans and in other field crops such as potatoes. Crop production estimates have been revised downward sharply as a result of unfavorable weather during the growing season.

For poultry producers, the worst period was June 23-July 21, when an estimated 250,000 broilers were lost because of unusually high temperatures. In the same period, the average weight for hens fell from 4.1 pounds to 3.8 pounds.

Poultry experts said the heat also caused thinner shells on eggs, resulting in more breakage during transportation. Hens also tended to lay fewer and smaller eggs.

One result there, and in the hog industry, probably will be higher prices for eggs and pork.

Charles I. Miller Jr., head of the livestock marketing section of the Agriculture Department, said the high temperatures tend to reduce fertility rates for both males and females in swine.

"The result will be that next year's production will be small and it will be late," Miller said.

Rain this month has helped some farm crops, especially such items as tobacco in the northern Piedmont. Pasture land also has shown improvement, easing the situation for farmers who might have been forced to use hay because their pastures dried up.

But the rain came too late for many crops, including much of the state's sweet potatoes and soybeans and virtually all corn.

As an example, Garland D. McCullen, chairman of the Columbus County extension service, said there was no help at this point for the county's 40,000 acres of soybeans.

"I doubt if we have half a crop. All the acreage has been hurt some, especially the later beans. They're looking poor," McCullen said.

Lower Ranks In Army Get Help

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Lower-ranking enlisted men and women, especially those with families, are receiving financial help from the Army in order to keep them in the service.

"Somehow, we have got to keep them in service if we make the volunteer Army a thing of reality," said one recruiting specialist at Fort Bragg.

Subsidized housing — the type usually made available to financially disadvantaged civilians — has been made available to enlisted personnel at Fort Bragg. In addition, the current issue of The Paraglide, the semi-official newspaper of Fort Bragg, devotes one-half page to telling soldiers how to qualify for food stamps.

Many units are also giving special advice to young soldiers about how to handle money.

However, the biggest break that has come to the young enlisted personnel recently has been the availability of 184 units of government-subsidized housing to enlisted personnel.

They must meet the same requirements as civilians as qualifying for the housing, which costs almost 25 percent on a family's income.

Fort Bragg has always been short of housing for lower-ranking enlisted personnel, forcing them into the civilian housing market when they are least able to afford it.

The Army pays $500.10 per month to its lowest ranking enlisted man, an E-2 with less than two years of service and no dependents. An E-2 with dependents receives an additional $160.80.

In subsidized housing, an E-2 with a wife and two children would pay as little as $96 for an apartment that might cost as much as $307 per month on the open market.

Of the 3,852 quarters available for enlisted personnel at Fort Bragg, only 308 are available to soldiers with less than two years in the active Army.

Singing Duo Shed Spouses

NEW YORK (AP) — In "Fools Never Learn," one of their newest songs, country and western duo Jim Ed Brown and Helen Cornelius croon that if "you play with fire, you're gonna get burned ... We played with love, and we're gonna get burned."

In the five years the two have sung together on the musical circuit, the love duets and gazes were limited to stage, says People magazine.

But in January, Mrs. Cornelius divorced her husband of 20 years, trucker Lewis Cornelius. In February, Brown's wife, Becky, filed for divorce from her husband, effectively ending their 19-year marriage.

Brown and Mrs. Cornelius, who admit they're more than just business partners, say they are undecided about their own wedding plans.

"If we reach the point where we wanted to tie the knot, there would have to be some giving on both sides," Mrs. Cornelius said recently. "I don't know if either of us is willing to do that."
