Lake Wants More Debates With Hunt

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt declared himself the winner while Republican I. Beverly Lake Jr., after launching a fiery offensive, called on the governor to meet him in a series of three more debates following their televised confrontation Monday night.

appearance with the challenge to further debates. He opened the debate by accusing Hunt of making a "political payoff" in the state's awarding of job-training contracts to labor leader Wilbur Hobby and briefly displayed a chart labeled "Hunt's Political Machine."

was "like being against cancer. It's hard to see how that can be perceived as negative." Although Lake said he wants more debates, their lively meeting on the Meredith College campus is likely to be the only gubernatorial debate of the campaign. Hunt has steadfastly maintained he has time for only one session with his opponent.

Resources and Community Development Secretary Howard Lee and assistant secretary Eva Clayton. "Jim Hunt and Wilbur Hobby met in 1976 to build a political coalition," charged Lake, a state senator from Raleigh who was a Democrat until last year. "Then Mr. Hobby bragged that he would have access to CETA funds. He was right."

Reagan Tax Plan Assault By Miller

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, renewing the administration's assault on Ronald Reagan's tax cut plan, said today the Republican proposal would put the nation "back in the soup" of large federal deficits.

Miller's reference to potentially huge deficits under Reagan's plan comes at a time when the administration is raising its estimate of the 1980 budget deficit to more than $60 billion, one of the highest levels in history.

al government's share of the gross national product back to its 1976 level of about 18.5 percent. It is now about 22 percent.

Recycled

For the first time yesterday, "The Daily Reflector" was printed on recycled newspaper. Today's edition of the newspaper is also printed on recycled paper.

The use of the recycled newspaper yesterday and today represents a trial run for "The Daily Reflector," which expects to use some 240 tons of the recycled newspaper next year.

The recycled newspaper is a product of Southeast Paper Manufacturing Co. of Dublin, Georgia — a joint venture of three newspaper companies, Cox, Knight-Ridder, and Media General.

The Southeast Paper Manufacturing Co. mill is geared to produce approximately 160,000 tons of newspaper a year from a combination of Southern waste newsprint and thermo-mechanical pulp made from Southern pine wood chips. The end product is comparable in color, brightness, printability, and runability to "new" newspaper paper.

By using reclaimed and recycled waste newsprint, newspaper publishers provide fuller utilization of increasingly scarce resources with a minimum of depletion of natural fiber supplies and a maximum utilization of energy.

The 240 tons of recycled newspaper to be used by "The Daily Reflector" during 1981 represents about 20 percent of the newspaper's newsprint needs for the year.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

FRAUD AND CORRUPTION HOTLINE

Hotline has been asked to make its readers aware of a new telephone "hotline" to be used by the public for reporting fraud and public corruption.

Bob Pence, Special Agent in Charge of the FBI in North Carolina, said the number 704-372-5488 (not toll-free) will be manned 24 hours seven days a week at the Charlotte headquarters of the FBI and will allow citizens to call in information which will help the FBI cut down on the enormous amount of "white collar crime" being experienced in our country, crime that is costing taxpayers more than $40 billion a year nationally. It can involve such crimes as payment of bribes to public officials, misuse of funds in federal programs, Medicare/Medicaid frauds, embezzlement, bank frauds and confidence schemes.

Pence said that, in the last two years, the number of public corruption cases investigated by the FBI has dramatically increased from a few more than 500 to more than 1,200. During 1979 FBI efforts resulted in 3,000 convictions of white collar criminals, recovery of $52 million and $795 million in economic loss prevented. Currently more than 700 cases involving bank fraud of more than $100,000 each are pending. Computer frauds being detected are costing an average of $600,000 loss per instance uncovered.

Pence said detection of this kind of crime is difficult, so the support and cooperation of every citizen is needed. He said that "hopefully arrangements can be made by FBI agents to work with the callers, but anyone who wishes to can call anonymously will have the request honored."

RETURN OF PAPERS REQUESTED

Dr. M. W. Aldridge has asked Hotline to appeal for the return of his personal papers taken in the theft of a safe from his office this past weekend. "There was nothing in the safe of any possible value to anyone but me," he said. "It held things like letters from my sons. I didn't even have the thing locked, yet they loaded it up and moved it out," he said.

In other business, Laney brought the commissioners up to date on the status of the commission-owned Jones-Lee House on Evans Street, which has been nominated for inclusion on the National Registry for Historic Places. He said that it is anticipated that actual acceptance by the Federal Advisory Council, a national advisory body to the president that oversees historical matters, is some months away.

The director noted that the commission is trying to close out the Central Business District project at the direction of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The commission, he said, recognizes at the same time that the house has been nominated and therefore is protected during the nominating period by certain Laney said that in order to move along with the CBD program, it is proposed that the commission advertise, in accordance with regulations and procedures approved by the advisory council, to encourage a private, semi-private or public agency to purchase the house, relocate it and bring it up to standards set by the advisory board. The advertisement procedure, he asserted, will help to get an idea as to whether there is interest in buying, relocating and renovating the structure.

He said that HUD is cooperating in the matter and has offered to assist in the process and to bring the matter to the attention of the advisory council. The next step, he mentioned, is to forward the proposal to the Greensboro area office of HUD. William J. Davenport, who handles environmental and historical affairs for the director of HUD's area office, will work with the commission.

Laney added that HUD has

Morgan Here, Girding For A Tough Campaign

"It's going to be a tough campaign," U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan said yesterday. But he was quick to add, "I think we'll win. I think we've got a good record...through the years in local, state and now national government."

Morgan, the Democratic candidate for re-election in the Nov. 4 election, was in Greenville yesterday to meet with key workers in his campaign. "I'll be telling our keys tonight that they are going to have to help carry the burden for me," until the current session of Congress ends in October.

"We've got 50 budgets to adopt between now and the first of October." After about

Oct. 4, Morgan noted, "I'll be sweeping back and fourth across the state."

Morgan, completing his first six-year term in the U.S. Senate, faces Republican hopeful John East in the general election.

According to the senator, "the biggest issue in the country is inflation. It keeps eating away at everyone's pocketbook."

However, Morgan said, the problem of inflation, "is not going to be cured overnight. It was created over two decades, by both parties (the Democrats and Republicans)" and will take time to solve because of the many things that effect the economy.

Morgan suggested that national defense is also an issue. "With the Soviet Union continuing to move at every opportunity it gets," and continuing to, "build a war machine," he emphasized the need for the United States to keep pace.

He noted that President Carter has, "reversed the War Games Begun In East, West Germany

BONN, West Germany (AP) — U.S. Army units headed for maneuvers with the NATO allies in northern West Germany today, while Warsaw Pact forces began war games on the Communist side of the border in East Germany, according to official reports.

The American forces included 275 members of the 2-34 Armored Battalion of the 4th Infantry Division from Ft. Carson, Colo. They arrived today at Ramstein Air Force Base, near Kaiserslautern, in a surprise callup, an Army spokesman said.

The Army has said it is flying a total of 17,000 troops to West Germany for a series of mock battles, river crossings and support operations intended to train its troops and to show that the United States could quickly reinforce its allies and U.S. forces here in case of attack. The U.S. effort is called "Autumn Forge."

Most of them are already in West Germany, according to Army spokesmen.

The latest arrivals from

Ft. Carson followed an advance party of 230 who got their orders Saturday. They flew in Monday, picked up tanks, trucks and field equipment and set up a tent city near Gernersheim, a Rhine River city about 20 miles south of Mannheim, an Army spokesman said.

The U.S. troops were preparing to move out in a few days to join British-run war games near Hannover.

British spokesmen say about 63,000 soldiers — not counting observers, referees and control personnel — will take part in the mock tank and artillery battle called "Spearpoint," beginning Sept. 15.

"Spearpoint" is the main part of Britain's "Crusader 80" maneuvers, the largest British exercise of its kind since the formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, according to official spokesmen. More than 4,000 troops are involved in "Crusader 80," the British say.

In East Germany, meanwhile, Czechoslovak and East German land and air forces practiced battle tactics under the leadership of Soviet Marshal Viktor Kulikov, supreme commander of Warsaw Pact forces, as dignitaries from several Communist countries looked on, the official East German news agency ADN said.

East German Communist Party Chief Erich Honecker, Cuban Gen. Raul Castro and Hoang Van Thai, deputy Vietnamese defense minister, were among the observers, ADN said.

East German and Czechoslovak "soldiers of the land and air forces demonstrated in the very first exercise the battle readiness and determination of the socialist defense coalition," ADN said.

The agency said the exercise was staged in southeastern East Germany, but did not say how many troops were involved.

The Warsaw Pact has said 40,000 troops were participating in its "Brothers in Arms 80" maneuvers, with main exercises believed planned for northern East Germany.

Furnishings Program Set

Fashion trends in carpets, wall coverings, fabrics and window treatments will be discussed in a Thursday, Sept. 25, home furnishings program for consumers at East Carolina University.

Instructors will include Larry Whitlow, Larry's Carpetland, Greenville, Ned Rhame of Olneys, Greensboro distributors of wall coverings, Jay Klutz Fisher, of Norman's, Salisbury, designers of window treatments, and Marie Sharpe Ham, Raleigh interior designer.

Samples of textiles and carpets will be shown with tips on using home furnishings to create desirable effects. In addition to consumers planning decorating projects, interior designers, teachers and home furnishings retailers will find the program useful.

It consists of a 9-11:50 a.m. session and a 1:10-3:40 p.m. session, both in ECU's Willis Bldg. Further information about the program is available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, ECU, Greenville. Telephone 757-6143.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I had never heard the expression "gridlock" before until the deputy commissioner of transportation used it recently in New York. It's a term used to describe a condition where traffic comes to a complete standstill, becomes totally paralyzed and is unable to move anywhere.

He said he has been close to it but has never really seen it. I have. Lots of times.

The last time I encountered "gridlock" was when I was picking my children up at a rock concert. It was a terrifying experience. Nothing was moving in the entire parking lot. Everywhere you looked, car lights burned... their beams frozen as if they had been abandoned. No one spoke. We just sat there in silence, each one harboring his own private fears. Finally, I beat on the steering wheel and shouted, "I don't believe this! I'm going to die and I still have a half a tank of gas! It's not fair!"

It was hours before the nightmare ended, but it gave me a chance to observe people during a traffic snarl.

A good 48 percent of drivers in a traffic jam subscribe to the theory, "Don't just sit there. Honk your horn." Some people have never heard what their horn sounds like. Not these drivers. They use it every time a light turns green... every time they pull into a driveway... every time a 97-year-old woman gets caught in the intersection.

A good 38 percent of the honk-honkers are also hood-viewers and trailblazers. They can't wait until "film at 11." In their impatience to know what in the Sam Hill is going on and why they are inconvenienced, they will climb on top of the car hood. When their curiosity is not satisfied, they will pull out into the oncoming lane, thus blocking all emergency vehicle routes.

Probably the most intriguing character at a "gridlock" are the less than 1/2 percent who slip into a phone booth, change into a T-shirt with a red S on it and start directing traffic. I'm convinced it's a fantasy for someone who always wanted the challenge of being a social director on the Titanic.

I read recently where there was a near gridlock condition at a large office building each morning when husbands dropped their wives off at work and snarled traffic with prolonged goodbye kisses. It's not that I don't believe the story. Let us just say I've seen husbands kiss their wives and most of them could plant one on from a moving commuter train.

But what the heck — if you have to die in snarled traffic, you might as well go with your motor running.

It took a good many requests for the recipe, plus a visit to Louisiana, to make me aware that Lemon Squares may be — next to brownies — America's favorite bar cookie.

At a large buffet brunch in Shreveport, catered by Mrs. Felix Rhymes of nearby Bossier City, these delectable lemon cookies were served as one of the desserts. Mrs. Rhymes told me they are always in demand and generously gave me her recipe for them.

Rose Rhymes is a petite, quiet, attractive woman who looks too slight to do the hard work fine catering requires — preparing delicious food and presenting it beautifully. When I asked her how she managed it all with only one regular helper for the preparation, she said, "You have to organize and stick to a schedule." She takes pride in the fact that she has always arrived on the party scene at the time her client and she agreed on.

Mrs. Rhymes started catering 15 years ago, after her husband had a heart attack and had to slow down. She has never had to do any commercial advertising. The first party she catered was so successful that it led to others; from then on her business grew.

"When a mother asks you to cater the wedding of one daughter and then do the same for the next two daughters, you feel good," she told me.

Rose Rhymes had no formal training in catering. When she was about 5 years old she discovered that she loved to sing, by the time she was 13 she sang on radio shows. In the 1940s, an uncle who owned a night club let her open his shows. "That began my professional career as a torch singer," Mrs. Rhymes said with amusement. (A torch singer, according to Webster, sings popular songs of unrequited love.)

She ended her singing career when she married and settled down to bringing up four girls (one a step-daughter) and a son. For a good many years she did extensive entertaining in connection with her husband's business. Having 200 guests at a time for an outdoor supper was nothing to Rose Rhymes.

"My mother was always a wonderful cook, and from the time I was knee-high, I learned from her," she told me. "I'm so proud of her because although she's now 81, she still bakes and sells cakes on order."

The Rhymes children are now grown — one in Europe, the others in various parts of the United States. "Catering keeps me so busy that I haven't time to miss them, but I love visiting them. This summer I'm going to be with my daughter in Copenhagen and then we're touring Ireland. Maybe I'll find some good dishes. I love to taste a dish that's new to me, come home and duplicate it. I never ask for recipes."

MRS. RHYMES' LEMON SQUARES

1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 cups fork-stirred

all-purpose flour
Lemon Filling, recipe follows

Confectioners' sugar
In a medium bowl with an electric beater at medium speed, cream the butter and granulated sugar; gradually beat in the flour until blended. Spread over the bottom of an ungreased 15 by 10 by 1-inch jelly roll pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until crust begins to brown around edges — 15 minutes; remove from oven; leave the oven control turned to 350 degrees.

Shortly before crust is baked, make the Lemon Filling; pour over the hot crust. Continue baking until golden brown and set — 18 to 20 minutes longer. Place on wire rack. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Cool completely. Sprinkle with more confectioners' sugar if some has been absorbed. Cut in small squares and remove with a spatula.

Lemon Filling: On wax paper stir together 5 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 2 cups granulated sugar. In a medium bowl with an electric beater at medium speed slightly beat 4 extra-large eggs; add the flour mixture; beat until blended; add 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1/2 cup lemon juice; beat until blended.

Cross-Dressing Could Embrass

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: About the letter from the married couple who were very self-conscious because she was about six inches taller than her husband, so they started going to restaurants together — she dressed as the man, and he the woman. They asked you if it was against the law, and you wisely suggested that they check their local laws.

Abby, they clearly have a legal right to dress as they wish as a part of their constitutional right to privacy.

However, should they use the public restrooms, they might run into trouble. A man caught in a women's restroom, even if he's dressed as a woman, risks being charged with violating laws against peeping toms and indecent exposure. Similarly, a woman caught dressed as a man in a women's restroom, or a man caught dressed as a woman in a men's room, may be detained to prove correct sexual identity.

Also, a man who is jailed dressed as a woman may have to fight off indecent assaults from other inmates.

So perhaps they should consider these risks when weighing whether to do something they have a legal right to do.

ARLINGTON, VA., ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: You make several good points. Even though cross-dressing in restaurants may be legal, it's not advisable.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been tempted to write a Dear Abby letter, and now I must! Nothing provoked me as much as your answer to the girl whose mother insisted on washing the dishes when staying in a motel. Your answer just blew my socks off. (You said, "Leave 'em; the motel owner doesn't expect the guests to wash the dishes.")

Abby, I own and operate a small motel on the Oregon coast, and I expect my guests to leave my rooms clean — and that includes doing their own dirty dishes! Those who don't receive a very polite letter asking them not to return.

You'd be surprised at the number of letters I get from people who apologize, and ask if they may return to prove that they are not really messy slobs.

Payment of room rent does not give motel guests the right to leave anything dirty, as you suggest.

JACKIE

DEAR JACKIE: Sorry I blew your socks off. Buy some garters and send me the bill. A motel that has customers begging to stay there must be great!

Primaries Being Held Today In Thirteen States

By The Associated Press
Four incumbent senators — two Democrats and two Republicans — face challenges for renomination today as voters in 13 states choose candidates for Congress and state offices. Among the top contests in a battle for the Republican senatorial nomination in New York where Jacob Javits, 76, is seeking a fifth term. He is challenged by Alfonse D'Amato, a town official from Long Island, who has built his campaign around Javits' age, health and liberal record. Both men will be on the November ballot, no matter who wins today. Javits is the nominee of the Liberal Party; D'Amato has the Conservative Party endorsement.

Another incumbent facing a tough fight is U.S. Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla. Stone is the leader in the race, but there are six candidates for the nomination and unless the senator gets a majority, he faces a runoff on Oct. 7.

Two senators — Paul Laxalt, a Republican from Nevada, and John Durkin, a Democrat from New Hampshire — are opposed on the primary ballot, but are expected to win renomination easily.

Today's election calendar includes primaries in almost every area of the country — Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Minnesota, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming. Senatorial nominations are at stake everywhere except Minnesota, Rhode Island and Wyoming.

Four Democrats are fighting for the right to oppose Javits in New York. Leading in the polls are Bess Myerson, a former Miss America and one-time consumer affairs commissioner of New York City, and U.S. Rep. Elizabeth Holzman. Former New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay and Queens District Attorney John Santucci trail far behind.

Former U.S. Sen. James Buckley, who used to represent New York, is trying to return to the Senate from Connecticut. Buckley has the endorsement of the state's Republican party, but is being challenged by Richard Bozzuto, the minority leader of the Connecticut Senate. U.S. Rep. Christopher Dodd has no opposition for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

A second former officeholder who wants to return to politics in New England is Meldrim Thomson, who was defeated for re-election as governor of New Hampshire two years ago. Thomson is in a three-way race for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. The man who beat him — Democrat Hugh Gallen — has only token opposition in his bid for renomination.

Among the representatives seeking renomination are two who are under indictment in the Abscam case — John Murphy, a Democrat from New York's Staten Island, and Richard Kelly, a Republican from Florida. Both face challenges.

Here, is a look at other major contests:

ARIZONA: A three-man battle for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The winner will oppose U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, who has no challenge for the Republican nomination.

COLORADO: A four-way race for the right to oppose Democratic Sen. Gary Hart. Among the candidates is former Army Secretary Bo Callaway.

CONNECTICUT: Rep. Christopher Dodd is unopposed for the Democratic nomination. But there are contests for nominations in five congressional districts.

FLORIDA: A six-candidate battle for the Republican senatorial nomination. No candidate is expected to get a majority and an Oct. 7 runoff seems assured.

MINNESOTA: Seven incumbent congressmen are seeking re-election and five are unopposed. The race in the 8th District is the only one of consequence, with Democrat James Oberstar seeking a fourth term. Oberstar is favored over Thomas Dougherty, a Duluth City councilman.

NEVADA: Former state Sen. Mary Gojack has no opposition for the Democratic senatorial nomination. U.S. Reps. Jim Santini, Democrat, and Vince Saunders, Republican, are expected to win renomination easily.

RHODE ISLAND: The most heated congressional race is between Rep. Edward P. Beard, who is seeking renomination by the Democratic Party, and state Sen. Stephen J. Fortunato.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: There are 11 candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination. Former Gov. Wesley Powell and former state Attorney General Warren Rudman are the front-runners. There are battles in two congressional districts, but the only incumbent seeking re-election — Democrat Norman D'Amours — has no opposition in the primary.

UTAH: A two-man race for Democratic nomination Dan Berman, a Salt Lake City attorney, opposes A. Stephen Dirks, the mayor of Ogden, for the right to face Republican Sen. Jake Garn in November.

VERMONT: Six Republicans are vying for the senatorial nomination to oppose Democratic incumbent Patrick Leahy, one of a number of senators targeted for defeat by conservative groups and the Republican National Committee. Republican Gov. Richard Snelling faces token opposition in his renomination bid.

WISCONSIN: Four Republicans are seeking to oppose Sen. Gaylord Nelson, who is unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Two incumbent Democratic congressmen are challenged, Henry J. Reuss and Clement J. Zablocki.

WYOMING: Four Democrats are seeking the right to challenge Rep. Dick Cheney, former White House chief of staff. Cheney is unopposed on the Republican side and is expected to win in November.

Clarification

According to Mrs. Ruth Whichard, some of the information given in a story published in Sunday's "Daily Reflector" on the Jones-Lee house was incorrect.

Mrs. Whichard said the house was never owned by Sheppard Andrews and that he was her and Mary McKeithan's brother, not their father. Mary bought the house herself, Mrs. Whichard said, from whom, she is not sure. Mrs. Whichard lived there a while with her sister and brother-in-law, she said, prior to her marriage, but not after her marriage to Walter Whichard as the story says.

Information for the story was provided by the N. C. Department of Archives and History.

Chasing a Magic Number

As the end of the major league baseball season approaches, fans usually turn their attention to the races for the division titles. This year, fans are paying just as much attention to the performance of a single player. Kansas City Royals third baseman George Brett. The reason? George Brett is chasing a magic number. Because of his solid hitting this year, Brett has a chance to become the first player since 1941 to finish the season with a .400 batting average. Baseball experts disagree about Brett's chances, but many feel that if anybody now playing can hit .400, it's Brett. And Brett freely admits he'd like to see himself do it.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the last player to bat over .400?

Work Is Underway

The mayor's advisory committee has gotten its work underway with an initial meeting last week.

Chairman Dr. Wallace R. Wooles indicated he did not intend to allow the work to drag.

The committee will identify the current service base and "decide where we should be and how to get there over the next ten years," Wooles said.

And he said, "Anything is fair game."

Wooles said the committee's work will be a citizens' effort and will operate with six sub-committees. He expects the committees to be operational by the first of October and hopes to conclude the studies by February. March 1 could end the work of the advisory group.

Mayor Don McGlohn, who developed the committee concept, said the city needs "a fresh look from without."

He continued, "We are confident that this fresh perspective can be provided through the eyes of a volunteer citizens committee."

The advisory committee is a unique approach to identifying the city's problems and needs. It appears that the committee is off to a good start with definite goals and a timetable for accomplishing its work.

HE'S NOT EVEN SECOND, BUT HE'S TRYING HARD!

Resurgent, Hard-Nosed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
PHILADELPHIA — While opening his 1980 campaign with familiar hard-nosed tactics, Jimmy Carter visited this city where past admirers have been few to find his status magically elevated by the 17 days of Ronald Reagan's ordeal.

Those same Philadelphia Democrats who had buried President Carter are now rushing to embrace his resurrected person. It is not that they have any greater love for him or any greater respect for his ability. It is merely that they now consider Carter a winner, thanks to Ronald Reagan's blunder-a-day indiscipline.

Carter himself has remorselessly sought to hasten Reagan's decline. Addressing a predominantly black audience at the Zion Baptist church here, he contented himself with one blast at Reagan, attacking him for "suggesting" that the Social Security system be made "voluntary." Although the charge is dubious, it pales before what the president did a day earlier in Independence, Mo.; he branded Reagan an enemy of peace, the working man and the South, incorrectly claiming that he had announced a "massive" nuclear arms race.

At Independence, Carter reached into his bag of gothic Southern hyperbole and said of Reagan: "He has announced that if he's elected president, that he will initiate a massive nuclear arms race against the Soviet Union." Of course, no such announcement was made. Carter presumably was enlarging on the Republican Party's pledge of "military superiority."

This is an old political tactic, particularly identified with Carter: caricature of the opponent's position comes to be the common perception if repeated often enough. While attacking his foe, Carter deflects any issue where a firm, unequivocal position would hurt him.

Thus, at the Independence "town meeting," Carter dodged when asked about school prayer — a vital matter for millions of born-again Christians. "The thing that I'm against, as president and as a Baptist, coincidentally," he said, "is the government telling people they have to worship at a certain time and in a certain way." But that is not the issue. The Supreme Court has prohibited voluntary, non-denominational prayer which Carter says he approves of. As with abortion in 1976, Carter straddles the school prayer question.

The Carter method left the Independence "town meeting" participants less than inspired. Although the black audience in Philadelphia was spirited, the president's mid-day visit to the Italian Market here generated a small, unresponsive crowd.

Nor are Democratic politicians here truly enthusiastic. "In all seriousness," one prominent Democrat, who reluctantly supports the president, confided to us, "I can think of 100 men and women right here in Philadelphia better equipped to be president." That was the judgment by Philadelphia voters who favored Sen. Edward M. Kennedy nearly 2-to-1 against the president in this year's primary.

Water Facility To Be Asset

Greenville Utilities Commission has awarded bids for construction of the city's new water treatment facility.

It will be expensive — over $10 million — and it will take some two years to build. The bidding was done at a time with construction is slow, however, and officials feel they got good competitive prices.

The project is important to the economic development of our area. It will provide adequate capacity for growth and modern equipment for water treatment which should serve the Greenville area for many years.

Annexation Issue

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A lot of people in North Carolina want the best of two worlds:

— They want to live near a city and enjoy the cultural, recreational, educational, health, shopping and work benefits that proximity offers;

— But, they don't want to pay the substantially higher city taxes and assume the other obligations which urban citizenship entails.

Attacks on North Carolina's extremely liberal law which allows municipalities to grow without the obstructions which are placed in the way of municipal annexation in some other states have increased in number and intensity lately.

measure, and the half-dozen local proposals were beaten down by opponents, largely as a result of the entry into the fray by the North Carolina League of Municipalities which had historically remained aloof from local hassles. But the threat of local exemptions slowly eroding the state's annexation law prompted leaders of the League to change its non-interference policy.

Attacks on the annexation law have become so frequent and intense, now, that a joint committee of the League of Municipalities and the Association of County Commissioners has been established to review the ran nearly 40 percent, and numerous annexations were simply abandoned without a vote when it became clear that defeat was at hand.

A legislative study commission called for new law which, in effect, says a city can annex an area without a vote of the residents when it is clearly developing as urban, and when the city can provide required services within a reasonable period of time.

The U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has recommended this North Carolina procedure as a model for the nation since 1967.

The legislative study group, in its report to the General Assembly, took pains to spell out the underlying policy: "We do not

Makes Stand In Dixie...

ATLANTA — President Carter launched his re-election campaign last week from a spot deep in the heart of Dixie. It was sound strategy. The South is Mr. Carter's only political base. If it crumbles, down he goes.

Here in Georgia, one hears a vast deal of grumbling about the president, but few observers doubt that he will carry his home state again in November — though not by another 67 percent landslide. It seems to be generally conceded that the Democratic ticket also will win handily in Arkansas and Alabama. But it is a measure of the president's political problems that after those three states have been entered in his column, question marks begin to crowd the page.

Four years ago Mr. Carter carried 10 states in the late Confederacy — Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. Together they gave him 118 of the 270 electoral votes he needed for victory. He won the 10 states largely upon his appeal to Southern pride. He appealed to a century-old mystique, to a regional inheritance of ostracism and humiliation, to the desire of many Southerners, five generations after Appomattox, to demonstrate that "one of us" could make it to the White House. Last week he sounded those identical bugle calls anew.

Certainly his appeals worked in 1976. The 10 states went through one of the most astonishing flip-flops in our political history. Take a moment, if you will, and look back.

For more than 60 years, through the presidential election of 1944, the solid South had remained precisely that — a solid, unshakeable bastion of the Democratic Party. Tennessee defected to Harding in 1920, and four of the 10 went for Hoover in 1928. Otherwise no blemish marred a record of fealty that began with Reconstruction's end in 1880. Throughout the region, scarcely a respectable Republican could be found. Victory in a Democratic primary always was "tantamount to election." To vote against the party's presidential nominee was heresy.

But in 1948, the perfect pattern began to dissolve. Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina rumped off to States' Righter Strom Thurmond; Florida and Tennessee barely kept the faith. In 1952, Florida, Tennessee and Texas went for Eisenhower. In 1956 Louisiana joined them for Ike's second term.

In 1960, John F. Kennedy

This all adds up to a resurgent Carter who is remarkably similar to the Carter who beat down Carl Sanders in 1970 and Teddy Kennedy in 1980. While avoiding clear ideological identification, the president engages in hyperbole when attacking his opponent that has been his political trademark.

Carter's Philadelphia trip was supposed to be an off-day from pummeling Reagan. But the one blow gives a good idea of the president's technique. Reagan's most recent clear statement that Social Security ought to be "voluntary" was made by him in the mid-1960s. His February 1976 implication that he would consider the change was immediately regarded by his advisers as a blunder and has not been repeated.

BILL NOBLITT

An even more disturbing trend is now apparent: county commissioners in some instances have joined annexation opponents in their battles against city growth, and the state's General Assembly has become a battleground for various maneuverings seeking to thwart annexations.

Opposition
Last year a flurry of local proposals were dumped into the legislative hopper seeking to limit annexation powers, and since the state's model law was adopted 20 years ago, 60 of the state's 460 municipalities have been exempted from the statutes. Also, there are recurring instances of communities seeking to incorporate as municipalities despite boundaries already touching, or close to, existing cities; obviously a maneuver designed to frustrate growth by the adjoining city.

situation, analyze problems, and suggest changes which will be up for consideration in the 1981 General Assembly. That committee work has now been completed.

The state law under fire is one adopted in 1959 after it became apparent that city growth was effectively blocked by one major technique then in effect: prospective city residents were allowed to vote whether they wanted to join the city or not.

To the editor:

A common paraphrase of the Tenth Amendment is that powers not expressly granted to the federal government are "reserved to the states." It is surprising that this bob-tailed version is accepted at a time when the public is disenchanted with government on all levels.

The constitution actually reserves certain powers "to the states respectively, OR TO THE PEOPLE." State government, however good, is NOT synonymous with the people.

To the editor:

Integrity is a foolproof formula for success. It's foolproof, regardless of fame, money, power or any of the conventional yardsticks. If you seek and find it, you are a success.

Integrity means having a certain built-in set of attitudes. Some examples: Living up to the best in yourself; having a highly developed sense of honor, not just honesty, mind you — honor — truth to your own standards; having a conscience and listening to it, having the courage of your convictions. This includes the capacity to cling to what you think is right, to go it alone when necessary, and to speak against what you know is wrong. Integrity also means obedience to the unenforceable. Certainly, this is the heart of it. No one can force you to live up to the best in yourself nor compel you to get involved nor make you obey your conscience.

A person of integrity does these things anyway. Consider a few of the dividends that integrity pays: Boldness — Integrity gives a person the strength to take chances, welcome challenge, reject the unsatisfactory. Persistence — Integrity often shows up as an unshakable singleness of purpose. Serenity — These individuals have a kind of built-in equanimity that enables them to accept setbacks or even injustices.

Yes, if you seek and find integrity, you are a success.

Strength For Today

WHEN TROUBLES COME
If you are in trouble, there are three things that anyone who knows anything about life would want to say to you. First, face your trouble. Don't try to explain it away; don't try to blame it on other people. Face it for what it is. Second, take your trouble to God. All things in the universe are in His hands, even the mistakes we make and the sins we commit. You may not be equal to life, but He is, because He made life. Last of all, believe that this commitment will produce a solution — or even better, believe that it has produced a solution. Jesus said, "What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." (Mark 11:24). Go on your way confident that all will be well.

This procedure assumes, of course, that you have done everything that needs to be done right or wrong, and that you are sincere. — Elisha Douglass

BOB ROMANO'S PAPER FOR THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 8, 1980

A Sobering GMC Assessment

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The most sobering economic news of the past week wasn't the rise in food prices or the rise in interest rates. Nor was it the disappointing level of sales reported by the major retailers.

It was the annual assessment of the economy by Thomas A. Murphy, the General Motors Corp. chairman and normally one of the country's more high-spirited industrialists, a man who generally takes the high road.

"Since taking charge of the biggest automaker in 1974, Murphy has annually delivered a booster shot to waning confidence. If the economy had you down, Murphy's forecast of record sales would pick you up.

This year Murphy forecasts no records. "Although the year ahead is expected to see a recovery of the economy and the auto industry, it is unlikely that sales records will be set."

That's the message. Murphy hasn't lost his optimism altogether, even after losing more than $400 million in the second quarter and having been forced to cut the quarterly dividend. But very clearly he has braked his enthusiasm.

He expects economic recovery "is likely to starty shortly after the auto industry's 1981 model years gets under way this autumn," but he sees inflation forcing restrictive fiscal and monetary policies on us.

He foresees "some reduction" in the market share held by imports — it exceeds 25 percent, against what used to be America's strongest industry — but the matter, he feels, is "of continuing concern."

He expects sales in the new model year to be "in the neighborhood of 13 million units," but that's hardly a boom when compared to 12.1 million units last year, one of the worst year's in industry history.

The chairman does expect the sales pace will accelerate over the course of the model year, and reach a rate of 14 million units by next summer, but the heart of his optimism seems to be in the years beyond.

He sees the automotive industry as emerging from "one of the most turbulent and difficult periods in its history," a revamped industry with new products geared to economy, efficiency and practicality.

He announced that "vehicles will be reduced in size, new power trains will become available, the four-cylinder engine will become the corporation's dominant power plant and diesel engine availability will continue to increase." And he promised:

"In the effort to meet the demand for fuel economy and utility, at the best possible price, virtually the entire car fleet will be converted to front-wheel drive," and that

"plans are also under way to bring an electric powered vehicle to market by the mid-1980s."

That adds up to more than a style change or an appeal to the senses, but Murphy sees even larger changes taking place in the country, and it pleases him and, it seems, fuels his latent optimism.

"Business leaders," he says, "have come to realize that the public good is not the sole responsibility of government."

"Government has awakened to the problems besetting business and has promised to help develop solutions.

"Labor has publicly recognized that its goals and those of industry have more in common than contention."

Difficulties confronting the industry shouldn't be minimized, he said, but GM "is optimistic that a revised and rejuvenated industrial environment will nurture effective responses to the challenges."

'Escort' Prices To Be Above The Pinto

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — The cheapest sticker price on Ford Motor Co.'s new front-wheel drive subcompact Escort will be $5,158, the automaker says — $1,041 more than the least expensive model of the car it replaces.

Ford also said its new Granada, a larger car in the compact class, would list for at least $6,280. The price for the cheapest 1980 model Granada is $5,541.

Ford, like the rest of the U.S. automaking industry, is trying to get more profit on its small cars. Chrysler Corp. set the initial 1981 price of its "K-car" compact at $6,192, also $1,041 more than the final 1980 list price of the model being replaced.

The cheapest Ford Pinto, which is being dropped for Escort, lists for $4,117. It started the 1980 model year at $3,910. The cheapest Dodge Aspen or Plymouth Cougar will list for $6,341.

Four-door versions will have stickers of $6,437 for the Granada and $6,498 for the Cougar.

Ford has not announced 1981 prices for the rest of its cars.

(Continued from page 4) switch in the black vote that produced this phenomenon; the black vote for Carter in 1976 was not significantly greater than the black vote for McGovern in 1972. It was the Southern white vote that after 28 years of wandering returned to the Democratic fold.

Looking at the trend that Mr. Carter so rudely interrupted, Republican strategists see prizes to be captured — Texas with 26 electoral votes, Louisiana with 10, Mississippi with seven. Four others are up for grabs — Florida (17), North Carolina (13), South Carolina (8) and Tennessee (10). The prospects in Florida and Tennessee seem especially attractive, but both Carolinas now have a Republican U.S. senator and both recently have had Republican governors. Mr. Carter, as I say, has his problems.

How important is this business of Southern pride the second time around? My guess is that its significance is much diminished. We have witnessed such a rise and fall before: Once Catholics had proved with John Kennedy that "one of us" could make it, Catholic solidarity broke apart. Mr. Carter's difficult task is to keep the same thing from happening to him.

who endorsed Kennedy in the primary, was at Carter's side all day campaigning in Philadelphia. The president reported at the Zion Baptist church that he had just talked to Kennedy himself on the telephone. Delayed federal grants are miraculously unblocked; a federal agency destined for transfer to Americus, Ga., will stay after all.

The lone seeming holdout is popular young District Attorney Edward Rendell, an ardent Kennedy backer. He skipped the president's visit here. But one small sign of Carter's commitment to urban America will bring in Rendell. That probably will be restoration of a canceled drug enforcement task force for Philadelphia.

In truth, Rendell and many other Kennedy Democrats had the wits scared out of them during 17 days of exotic Reagan remarks ranging from Taiwan to evolution to the Ku Klux Klan. That explains both Carter's resurgence and his ability to misrepresent Reagan's and cloud his own positions without undue scrutiny. The presidential campaign so far boils down to whether Ronald Reagan can discipline himself sufficiently to make the president share the unwanted spotlight of critical attention.

Raps Action Against Garwood

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A military judge has accused civilian authorities in Jacksonville of deliberately attempting to "muddy up" the court-martial of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood to gain publicity for themselves.

Col. R.E. Switzer, presiding judge for Garwood's trial on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam, made the accusation Monday after an initial court hearing for Garwood on civilian charges alleging he assaulted a young girl last month.

Switzer said he believed the civilian authorities handled the case poorly, and did so to gain public attention.

"I am rather displeased with the way they handled it. One of the protections in the judicial system is the grand jury. But now Garwood no longer has the protection of the grand jury," Switzer said.

He said he thought local authorities "wanted publicity and chose this route to either muddy up our case or get publicity for themselves, and I have every reason to believe it was done intentionally."

Switzer did not elaborate. Onslow County Sheriff William Woodward said later that normal procedure was used in Garwood's case.

"We don't normally go through the grand jury for a bill of indictment against a resident of the county," Woodward said. "We saw no reason to do anything different for Private Garwood."

Garwood was arrested last Friday on the basis of allegations contained in two warrants alleging he attempted to commit a sexual offense and that he attempted to commit "a lewd and lascivious act upon the body" of the 7-year-old girl. The alleged offenses were said to have occurred in August.

A civilian judge Monday set Sept. 29 as the date for a probable cause hearing to determine if Garwood will be tried.

Meanwhile, Switzer rescheduled the resumption of Garwood's court-martial for at least a week because of the illness of chief defense counsel John Lowe. The trial had been scheduled to resume Sept. 17.

Switzer said the defense will present its list of witnesses on Sept. 15 and that he will meet with jurors for the court-martial on Sept. 22 to determine whether the sex charges have influenced their ability to render an impartial decision.

If convicted of the sexual offenses, Garwood could get up to 10 years in prison on each count. Garwood did not attend the court hearing Monday.

Sweatbox Death Is Basis Of Big Suit

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A $14 million suit filed against prison farm officials claims conditions in a tiny outdoor cell that allegedly resulted in the deaths of two young men were "so base, inhuman and barbaric that they violate the 8th Amendment to the Constitution."

The 8th Amendment prohibits cruel and unusual punishment.

The U.S. District Court suit was filed Monday by survivors of Leroy Harrison, 18, and Randy Moore, 17, both of Tallulah, who died Aug. 25 after being taken from a metal outdoor cell measuring 6 feet high, 5 feet long and 4½ feet wide.

The two teen-agers had spent 15 hours in the cell.

At the time, prison officials said they were put in special confinement because of suspected drug-induced misbehavior after returning from a weekend pass.

Each was serving two years for simple burglary at the minimum security prison that serves Tensas, Madison and East Carroll parishes in northeastern Louisiana.

"The truth will be known after the investigation and the autopsy and the grand jury gets all the information together. I have no comment to make," said Prison Superintendent Ray Fortenberry.

The incident is being investigated by the FBI, state police, East Carroll Parish Sheriff's Department, coroner, a tri-parish grand jury and others.

A preliminary coroner's report last Friday said each died of heart failure due to heat stroke, and that a strong depressant drug also contributed to Harrison's death.

Alumnae Body Holds Meeting

The Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority held its first meeting of the year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Toney Forbes Saturday.

Hostesses were Selina Forbes, Julia Davis and Becky Norcott.

The calendar was discussed. Committees reporting were Evaluation for Miss College Bound by Becky Norcott; Teen Life by Argie Cannon; Valentine by Kathy Kea and Kappa Sigma Undergraduate Chapter by Paulette Dove. Connie Boyd, a visitor from the Aoshkie chapter, made remarks.

Hostesses for the next meeting will be Jean Darden, Argie Cannon and Evelyn Sanders.

Peanut Group Holds Meet

LEWISTON — The North Carolina Peanut Growers Association will hold its annual membership meeting and research field day at the Peanut Belt Research Station on September 1 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All peanut growers and persons interested in the peanut industry in North Carolina are urged to attend. The program is designed to be of special interest and benefit to peanut growers, especially in view of weather problems existing at this time. Growers will receive information on what to do about this year's drought-stricken crop, as well as what to do in their way of irrigation and irrigation equipment under future similar circumstances.

Dinner will be served at 6:15 and the program will begin at 7:15. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Toastmasters is an organization to help one learn to build skills for putting ideas across to a group or an individual. For more information, one may call Pat or Charlotte Flanagan, 756-7192.

Census Bureau Survey Set

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey in this area during the week of Sept. 15-19 to determine the extent people have been immunized against selected diseases.

Joseph R. Norwood, director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte, said today.

The survey is done throughout the U.S. each year to provide information on immunization against measles, influenza, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, rubella and mumps needed for administration of health programs geared to disease prevention. These questions are in addition to the usual ones on employment asked nationwide each month by the U.S. Department of Labor. Information supplied is kept confidential by law.

The interviewer for this area is Mrs. Janet P. Conway.

Hunt-Lake Debate... Seminar On Sales Skills

Walley Ausley objected to its use. Ausley said it violated the rules of the debate, and Lake, after arguing that it did not, acceded to his ruling. "I'm really disappointed that Senator Lake is using these kinds of tactics here in this debate tonight," said Hunt. "I think we ought to get down to the real issues in this campaign."

Lake continued his assault on other issues, even questioning Hunt's stated support for the approved Panama Canal treaties, a surprising issue in a governor's race. He also noted that Hunt had used the term "fantastic" in describing liberal Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy's speech at the Democratic National Convention, and asked if he believed he was speaking for conservative Tar Heel Democrats.

The debate, held at Meredith College, was surrounded by the tight security that has become customary for Hunt in recent weeks because of threats on his life.

Twice in the hour before the debate, State Bureau of Investigation agents said they spotted a man they identified as a leader of the Communist Workers Party. But the only appearance by CWP activists, whose members have disrupted previous appearances by Hunt, came when five people carrying placards were turned back by campus police.

One of them was Nelson Johnson, the CWP's write-in candidate for governor.

Lake's charges about federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act contracts were essentially the same ones he used in television commercials aired earlier this year.

They involved the contracts awarded by Lee's department to a printing firm headed by Hobby, the state AFL-CIO president. The state auditor's office has questioned $260,000 in expenses by Hobby's company. He said the administration's CETA program has been marked by "one failure, one fraud... right after another," and accused Hunt of doing nothing to recover the questioned money.

Hunt acknowledged past problems in the state's CETA program but defended its overall record.

"Of all the millions of (CETA) dollars that have come in, the record is less than 1 percent of all those funds have been proved to have been misspent," the governor said.

Hunt ignored most other charges by Lake, and said his administration has stimulated one-third of a million new jobs in business and industry by encouraging new investment in the state.

While Lake vowed to oppose any increase in state gasoline taxes, Hunt said such a flat statement was "irresponsible" and warned that a "reasonable" gas tax increase may be needed in the future.

The two differed on the Equal Rights Amendment, which Hunt supported and Lake opposed, and on the use of tax money for abortions, which Lake opposed and Hunt has backed.

The event was carried live by the University of North Carolina public television network, and also carried live or by video-tape delay by commercial stations across the state.

Two minor party candidates whose names will appear on the ballot were not invited to appear. They were Libertarian Bobby Emory and Socialist Workers Party nominee Douglas Cooper.

Jewish Services Are Scheduled

Congregation Bayt Shalom, a conservative Jewish congregation now starting its fourth year, announces its schedule for Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur. Rabbi Marc Raphael of the Jewish Theological Seminary will conduct services for the congregation, East Carolina University students and others interested in attending.

Services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church on Elm and 14th Sts. until the purchase details of the Synagogue are finalized.

Rosh Hashonah services are as follows:
Wed. Sept. 10: 7-30 p.m.
Thurs. Sept. 11: 9:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Commissioners authorized Laney to work with the advisory board and HUD on the advertisement proposal. The structure would be advertised for 60 days.

HUD has strongly urged that all of the urban renewal programs be closed out early in 1981.

Faye Brewington, Southside project manager and staff real estate officer, reported that one acquisition was handled by the staff since the August meeting, involving a parcel severance in the West Greenville area on Farmville Boulevard. She added that one demolition took place, involving a parcel on W. 14th Street in the South Evans area.

According to Mrs. Brewington, the staff disposed of four parcels during the month, all located in the Southside area. Three relocations were handled, including two in West Meadowbrook and one in the West Greenville section. An option was obtained on a parcel at the northeast corner of 14th and Evans Streets.

ECU News Bureau
Twenty-three sales personnel and sales supervisors from eastern North Carolina businesses completed a recent seminar in sales skills development at East Carolina University.

The program was directed by Edward Leader of Birmingham, Ala., originator of the "Blueprint Method" of effective use of sales techniques, who teaches at the University of Alabama.

Topics covered during the program included prospecting and referrals, handling objections and complaints, recognition of buying signals, development of self-confidence, and improvement of personality and telephone image.

The seminar was coordinated by the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Local seminar participants included Jim Craft, president, and Gerald Lovette, salesman, from Craft Steel Industries in Farmville; Brayom Anderson, district manager, from The Conklin Co., Inc. and James Chandler, assistant manager, Ramada Inn.

Dog Problems On Increase

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that since the new school year has begun, the incidents of dogs running at large has increased.

He cautioned new Greenville residents that the city's animal control ordinance provides for a 24-hour leash law in the city, which makes it illegal for dogs to run at large.

He noted that the city code provides a $15 fine for violations of the law.

Cannon also reminded dog owners that the city code provides that rabies vaccination and license tags be worn by dogs at all times. The code, he noted, provides for a fine for the dog owner if such tags are not worn by dogs.

The animal control ordinance also provides for penalties for barking dogs and vicious animals.

Cannon said residents may call 752-3342, Extension 22 for help on animal control matters. If extension 22 does not answer, Cannon said persons needing assistance may call 752-3342, Extension 25.

Charge Girl Abandoned Baby

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Durham County authorities issued a warrant Monday charging Belinda Denise Holman, 18, with abandonment after identifying her as the mother of an infant girl found covered in leaves and dirt.

The child apparently had been born only a few hours earlier at the spot where she was found Sunday. The child's crying attracted the attention of a woman who lives near the thickly wooded area south of Durham.

The baby was reported in good condition at Duke Hospital Monday.

Say Child Shot By Grandmother

CHERRYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Four-year-old Chad Hamrick was reported in stable condition Monday after being shot by his grandmother, the Gaston County sheriff's department said.

Officers said the grandmother, Shirley Mauney, 44, shot and killed herself after wounding the youngster. No motive for the shootings has been found, officers said.

Adopt Solid Waste Ordinance

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — A solid waste ordinance, sewer connections for the Pines residents, and discussion of the re-districting study were the major topics when the Board of Commissioners held their monthly meeting Monday night.

The solid waste ordinance, which was adopted last night, defines the responsibilities of town residents when the 80-gallon mobile refuse containers are put into use. The ordinance also clarifies the penalties for non-compliance with these regulations.

The ordinance states that once the 80-gallon containers are issued to the resident, the resident is responsible for them. Residents are liable for cleaning, storage of garbage, and neglect or abuse of the containers. These containers must be stored behind the residence and pushed to the street on days of collection. Trash will be collected twice weekly. Wastes such as hot ashes, glass, cement, oil, automotive wastes and building wastes are prohibited. "Anything that would damage the containers is not to be used in them," stated Town Clerk Ralph Ford.

According to the ordinance, persons who get a doctor's certificate stating that they are not able to push the containers to the curb, and no one else in the household can push the containers, will not be forced to push them.

The second part of the ordinance deals with collection of trash and debris, which will be picked up once a week. All debris must be pushed out next to the curb. Branches must not exceed six inches in diameter, and must be no longer than four feet. If trash is tied in a bundle, the weight of this bundle is not to exceed 50 pounds. Leaves, during the leaf season, do not have to be bagged, but any other time must be placed in bags, burlap wrappings, or other containers.

Any large loads of household trash must be placed out only after contacting the Public Works Department. This includes items such as furniture and refrigerators. The ordinance states that trash dumped on the ground will not be picked up.

Non-compliance with this ordinance is a misdemeanor, and each day is a new violation.

The board passed a resolution requiring residents of the Pines subdivision to tie in to town sewer connections by November 9. The lift station for the area will be tested today, and residents must tie in in 60 days.

The town, in order to undertake a redistricting study, will begin a head count of their own. Town Clerk Ford reported, since the census bureau will have no information for the town until January. The town will use maps and enumerator districts to conduct a survey of households.

The maximum income for new residents eligible for town public housing was raised as well as the amount for security deposits. The maximum income for a one-person family is now $6,900; a two-person family $7,900; a three-person family $8,450; a four-person family $9,800; and a five-person family $10,450. A security deposit of $50, or one month's rent, whichever is greater, will now be required. These figures will go into effect 30 days from the adoption of the resolution, or October 8.

In other business, the board voted to add 6 mills to the base rate charge for electricity until the town recovers from $29,000 worth of losses from Carolina Power & Light's recently increased charges.

A library status report given by Town Manager Don Russell indicated the number of hardback books in the library is 7,814 and the number of softbacks is about 4,000. Around 10,066 persons used the facility from July of 1979 to July of 1980. The number of children using the children's program during the past year was 2,163.

Progress Report Given To Winterville's Board

By TOMMY FORREST
Reflector Staff Writer
WINTERVILLE — During a meeting of the Winterville Town Board last night, Alderman Bobby Crawford reported on the progress of the ditch project between the Robinson Heights and Weathington Heights subdivisions.

Crawford said that a possible solution to the problem was to create a water way between the two divisions and fill in a portion of the ditch running north and south in the Robinson Heights subdivision.

The alderman said a catch basin was planned at the south side of Canal Street.

"There's a 15 inch tile under Canal Street and that's where a problem is, causing the water to back up in the ditch that runs along Robinson Heights," Crawford stated.

"A catch basin would divide the water up, sending it two ways," he added.

As Crawford pointed to a map of the areas affected, he said the order of business now is to dig the ditch out with a 'V' bucket dragline and remove the dirt as soon as the corn crop in the adjacent field is harvested.

No action was taken on the proposal.

In further business discussed by the board, Mayor Walter Dail said Pitt County has paid the first $100 for a year's lease on the town property behind the Winterville Cemetery to be used for a 40 cubic yard trash container.

The site is to be constructed in the near future Mayor Dail added.

Mayor Dail also reported that Power Agency No. 2 will have a meeting Wednesday in Wilson to discuss the change from VEPCO to CP&L. The change is scheduled to begin in March, 1981 for Winterville.

In new business before the board, Mayor Dail reported that in-rem procedures would begin against the Lydia Edwards heirs, for collection of $103.47 in taxes, and the Lovenia Clark property now owned by Barbara Ross, for $143.26 in taxes due the town. The action was approved by the board.

Rules and regulations for the Winterville Fire department were read and approved by the board. The new rules contained some changes of age requirements and equal membership between male and female.

A public hearing was set for October 20, for the revising of the planning and zoning ordinance. The board in other business reappointed Fran Wheelham, J. H. Weathington, and Calvin Henderson to a three year term on the Board of Adjustments.

A letter of request was read from Mary Outerbridge of the Pitt Community College, adult services, requesting banners be placed over two streets in the town beginning December 1, in honor of adult services month. The board approved the banners over a town maintained street, but stated that permission would have to be from the state if they were to be placed over a state maintained street.

Mass. Univ. Is 'Normal' Again

By ELAINE HOOKER
Associated Press Writer
AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Campus activities have returned to normal after a long weekend brought on by a critical water shortage, but water is still in short supply at the University of Massachusetts, officials say.

"People are getting back on schedule. The attitude is that this is unfortunate and not too keen, but they understand. Clearly everyone has it in their heads that they are going to have to do something about the crisis," said Richard T. Moran, student government co-president.

Town Manager A. Louis Hayward said the water level was strong Monday and would remain so if townspeople and university residents conserved water. He said selectmen asked Amherst residents to cut water use by 25 percent.

Monday night, public works superintendent Stanley Ziomek warned at a meeting of town selectmen that any break in the present "patchwork" water system — a system of town wells, reservoirs and a tie-in from the supply at nearby Hadley — could cause problems.

Town and university officials were still wondering how they were caught off guard and how to prevent a recurrence of the shortage, which resulted in the closing of the university Thursday after students in 41 dormitories and many Amherst residents were without water overnight. More than 10,000 students were sent home.

A meeting between students, town and university officials was set for Wednesday, and Moran said he had asked Chancellor Henry Koffler for a progress report by Thursday.

The water system failed after an unusually hot and dry summer.

However, "we go through this every year," said Carl A. Carozzi, an associate professor of resource planning. "The town has a long history of marginal dependability in supply. It should have been more attentive."

Amherst, a town of 17,000, excluding students, is taking water from Hadley and from a previously unused well to help fill storage tanks until a new well capable of producing 1.5 million gallons of water daily is completed at the end of this month.

HOUSE PRICES SOAR
CHICAGO (AP) — The average price of a suburban Chicago house has soared by about 15 percent in the last year to more than $100,000.

Correction

According to the U.S. Census District Office Director Bill Hodges, in excess of one million dollars, rather than one billion dollars as was reported yesterday, was spent to conduct the census in the 21-county district which includes Greenville and Pitt County. The office employed over 1200 persons during the months it was open.

Farmville Mkt. Enjoys Record

FARMVILLE — The marketing of more light leaf grades sent the Farmville Tobacco Market average soaring to an all-time high of $163.28 per hundred pounds yesterday, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Better quality tobacco was responsible for the high average, he said. Very little of nondescript grades were on the floors. Top practical price was $1.66 a pound. Several sheets of quality leaf and cutter grades sold for as much as $1.75. Stabilization receipts continue small — less than one percent of gross sales.

The market sold 778,328 pounds for $1,270,833, for an average of $163.28 per hundred pounds yesterday. To date, the market has sold 14,577,468 pounds for $21,152,692, for a season's average of 145.11. Yesterday's average was approximately $13 per hundred higher than on the same sale day last year, Williams said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined in fairly active trading today with some of the biggest losses among the metals stocks which had posted sharp gains on Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down by more than 5 points in the early going, was off 2.98 at 925.60 by midday.

The blue chip average tumbled 12 points Monday amid heavy buying of gold and silver stocks. The speculative nature of the market prompted selloffs of blue chips, analysts said.

Overall losing issues outnumbered gainers by about 8-to-5 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume was a fairly active 19.49 million shares at midday compared with 18.05 million in the previous session.

Engelhard Minerals fell 1 1/2 to 54 1/2 as the most active NYSE issue at midday A 300,000-share block traded at 54 1/2.

Among other precious metals stocks, ASA fell 5 to 72 after jumping 11 1/2 in the previous session. Dome Mines declined 3/8 to 128 1/2. Homestake fell 4 1/2 to 91 1/4 and Asarco lost 1 1/8 to 48 1/4.

Nonferrous metals also gave up part of their big gains from the previous session. Alcoa fell 1 1/4 to 66 and Kennecott declined 7/8 to 32 1/4. Phelps Dodge, however, rose 1/4 to 38.

Computer stocks were a bit stronger. International Business Machines gained 1/2 to 64 1/4. Control Data rose 1/2 to 70 1/4 and Burroughs added 1/2 to 67 1/2.

The noon NYSE composite index slipped 0.24 to 71.03. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 0.83 to 327.41.

Black Forum Withholds Endorsement

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
 Leaders of the newly formed North Carolina Black Political Forum said in Greenville today that the Forum will endorse no political candidate, opposes endorsement of Jim Hunt already made by some Black leaders, and will focus on issues, instead, through election time.

The Rev. Leon White, co-chairperson of the Forum, said he is disappointed that neither Hunt nor I. Beverly Lake Jr. responded during their debate last night to questions on black issues raised by the Forum. These questions, he said, were as follows: What are the proposals for full employment and for promoting fair policies in state government? What is your proposal to desegregate the University of North Carolina? What efforts will you make to eliminate the dual justice system in North Carolina which results in Black people being unjustly convicted and receiving unequal harsh sentences in court? Will you support a law that will allow druggists to write prescriptions for minor ailments such as colds and sore throats?

Black people's votes have long been taken for granted by the Democratic Party on every level of politics, White said. "No more," he vowed, "if the Forum does its job. We won't endorse or in any way tell our people how to vote. Our people have sense. They can decide for themselves or they can stay away from the polls if they cannot choose between the lesser of two evils. We aren't on the side of evil."

By seeing that support is withheld, the Forum hopes to force the candidates to state where each stands on the issues, to court Black people's votes instead of taking them for granted. White held a newspaper with the headline, "Jewish Presidential Vote Still Up In The Air." He said candidates need to feel the same coyness on the part of Blacks.

White said he was disturbed to hear about a fund-raiser of thousands of dollars held recently at St. Augustine's College for Gov. Hunt. Asked who the Black leaders are who are supporting Hunt, he said, "You know, in most cases, they're the appointees."

Another disturbing fact, he said, is that black organizations have received thousands of dollars from candidates for "Get Out the Vote" efforts. "I call this downright vote-buying," he said. "Any Black organization, including the NAACP, that cannot get the vote out on election day without candidates' money does not represent Black people, but the candidates that buy that service."

White was joined in the news conference held at the Holiday Inn here by Thomas Hedgebeth of Plymouth and the Rev. W. G. Hickman of New Bern. Hedgebeth said that, in his opinion, Lake is too far to the right and Hunt has not lived up to his promises and to Black people's needs.

Referring to the presidential campaign, White said, "We hear a lot about fear of a racist's becoming president, but what can be worse than what we've got?"

He said he believes Anderson's opposing Carter in this state could be a good thing, but said this statement

'Aqua Sleep Man' Barred

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Whoever he is, Aqua Sleep Man won't be on the November ballot as an independent candidate for the U.S. Senate.

A special panel of elected state officials Monday disqualified the man as a candidate after he appeared at a hearing dressed in a top hat, tights and cape and announced he was "Aqua Sleep Man." The man refused to identify himself in any other way.

"We agree this candidate's identity is not that of Aqua Sleep Man and further agree that the oath (of candidacy is falsely executed," said the unanimous ruling by Secretary of State Melvir Synhorst, Attorney General Tom Miller and State Auditor Richard Johnson.

The panel was convened to rule on the qualifications of Aqua Sleep Man as one of six candidates who had filed for the post now held by Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa.

The panel was called after two protests were received. Synhorst said the panel was the first to rule on a candidacy since he first took office in 1946.

At the hearing, independent Senate candidate Garry DeYoung said the man was mocking the office of senator and merely represented a commercial promotion. Aqua Sleep Man is the mascot of a Des Moines waterbed store called Aqua Sleep World.

downward trend" in defense spending, is an advocate of the Cruise missile and the Trident submarines and missiles, as well as the MX missile.

"There is no question but what we have strategic balance with the Soviet Union, and will continue to have," Morgan emphasized.

The senator also noted that the draft registration, "has strengthened our position," by giving an inventory of manpower.

"In North Carolina," according to Morgan, "farm issues," will also be a part of the campaign.

"Tobacco programs are more and more endangered," with each new study, such as the recent study saying smoking is habit-forming, "giving more impetus to the anti-smoking people."

According to Morgan, "Carter says there will be farm and tobacco support programs as long as he is president. Without adequate support programs," he suggested, small farmers will give way to big farm corporations.

"We're beginning to make some progress in the field of energy," Morgan continued. Decontrolling oil, he said, has, "given incentive for oil companies to drill for oil in this country."

He said that there is more exploration in the U.S. now than at any time since 1956.

Conservation and the synthetic fuel program are also contributing to the nation's move toward energy self-sufficiency, Morgan said, adding that the de-control of natural gas has increased the supply.

"I think we've made some substantial progress in meeting the needs of the people," Morgan said, adding that the availability of housing has improved, and the Social Security system has been stabilized.

"We haven't solved all the problems. We're not ever going to solve all the problems. But we are alert to them."

Morgan attended a breakfast in Rocky Mount this morning and is scheduled to appear at the Collard Festival in Ayden Saturday. He is also scheduled to attend a fund raiser in Fuquay, Saturday night.

Morgan Backed Dr. Tice Will Be Keynoter

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Democratic candidates opened their fall unity campaign Monday with a strong showing of support for incumbent U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan.

"They (the Republicans) are trying to spend all of the money in the world against him," said Gov. Jim Hunt during a ceremony at the party's headquarters.

"They might have the money, but we've got the people, and we are going to re-elect Robert Morgan by an outstanding margin," Hunt said.

Morgan's opponent, Republican John East of Greenville, said Sunday he has raised $500,000 — enough to cover his basic campaign expenses — and hopes to raise an additional $750,000 before the November election.

Most of the state Democratic candidates attended the ceremony.

CORRECTION
 In the article "Picasso's Art: A Vision to Remember" by Linda Underwood, which appeared in the Sunday, September 7 edition of "The Daily Reflector," it was stated that the "Museum of Modern Art in New York City celebrates its 50th anniversary... one year before the 100th anniversary of the death of Pablo Picasso."

This should have of course been "one year before the 100th anniversary of the birth of Pablo Picasso."

The error was the newspaper's, not Miss Underwood's.

AT HOME FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

OUR WELCOME FEELING HASN'T CHANGED. JUST OUR NAME.

Home Savings and Loan first opened its doors in 1906. Home Savings was a state chartered mutual association and has now changed to a federally chartered mutual association. In doing so, our name has changed, too. But that's all. Your accounts will still be insured by FSIC as they have been since 1948. You will see the same faces, friendly smiles and have that welcome feeling when you walk through our door. So, come by and see us. Let us help put your money to work for you. After all, we are the kind of people who make you feel at home.

Alabama Narrows Buckeye's Poll Lead

By The Associated Press Ohio State and Alabama have maintained the top two positions in The Associated Press college football poll as two traditional powerhouse — Texas and Notre Dame — edged closer to the summit.

nationwide panel of 59 sport writers and broadcasters. But their lead over Alabama, seeking an unprecedented third straight national championship, dwindled.

Alabama, a 26-3 victor over Georgia Tech last Saturday, was tabbed No.1 on 22 ballots and got 1,121 points. In the preseason poll, Ohio State led the Tide 36-24 in first-place votes and 1,253,127 in points. The major upward movements in the first regular-season poll, which contains the same 20 teams as the preseason poll, came from Texas and Notre Dame.

quarterback — Mike Courey — who had never started a game, whipped then ninth-ranked Purdue 31-10 last Saturday.

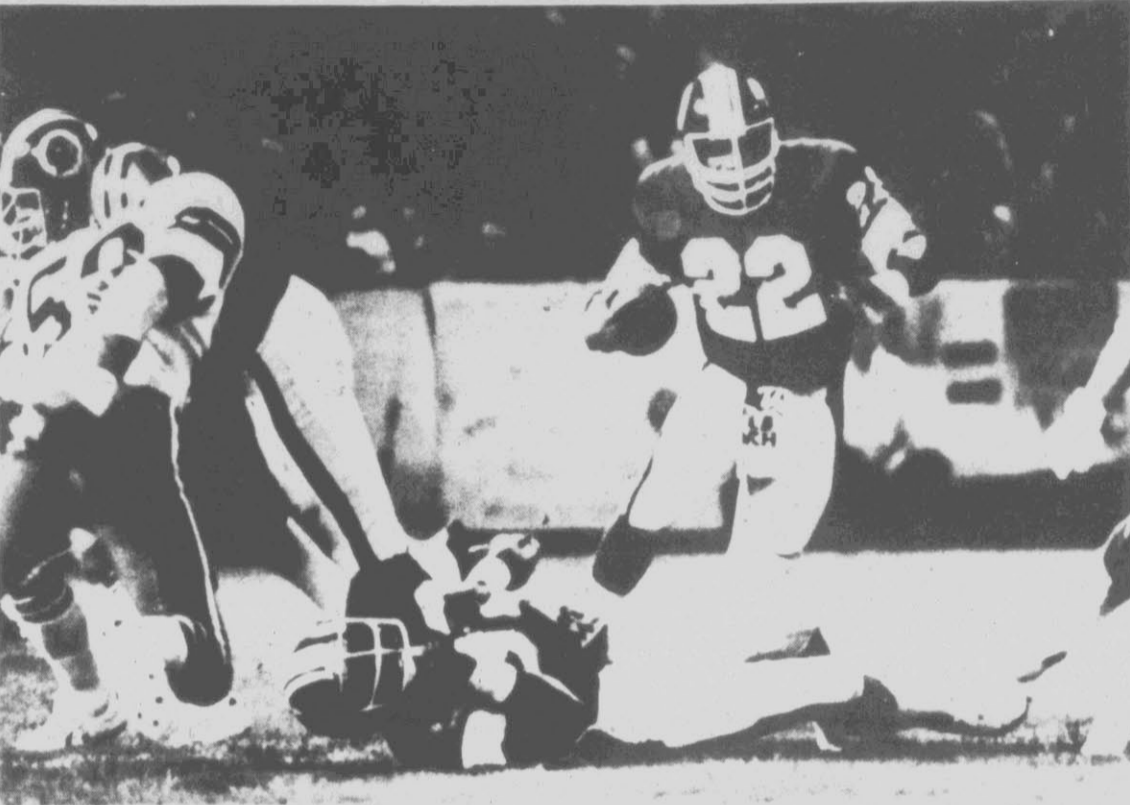

“I waited three years for this and it was worth it,” said Courey, whose 10-of-13 performance helped the Irish jump four places in the poll, from No.11 to No.7. The loss dropped the Boilermakers, who played

Herrmann, to No.20. Pittsburgh remained in the No.3 position, collecting three first-place votes and 1,009 points. Oklahoma, 928, and Southern Cal, 920, flip flopped the fourth and fifth positions. The Sooners, who got the final No.1 vote, moved into fourth while the Trojans slipped to fifth. All three teams were idle last week.

Nebraska dropped from seventh to eighth with 726 points while Houston fell from eighth to ninth with 723. Neither team has played a game yet.

Nervous White Leads Cowboys To 17-13 Victory Over Redskins

By TOM SEPPY AP Sports Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Danny White, by his own admission, was a near basket-case before making his debut as the replacement for retired superstar Roger Staubach as the Dallas Cowboys quarterback.

White, a five-year veteran who spent one year in the World Football League, said the nervousness began to leave him during the warmups and he settled down to normal after the opening Dallas drive.

“After that first drive, I was excited to get back into the game,” he said with a smile. Much of the Cowboys fortunes rest on White, who is taking over from Staubach. Staubach is working in a television broadcast booth this season.

White said he was unaware that Staubach was shown on national television, watching the contest from his home. “That’s interesting,” he said with a smile. “I would have liked to have heard what he said.”

power. Persuasive, emphatic, perhaps. But not bombastic. “This is the way we wanted to play it, to play it down,” said Rooney. “We don’t like to get carried away and use words like, say, ‘dynasty.’ We leave that to everyone else. It’s not our style. Never has been.”

Wilson Joins ACC's Drop The Pirates Club

By TOM FOREMAN JR. Associated Press Writer

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Red Wilson has now joined the Atlantic Coast Conference's "I-don't-want-to-play-East Carolina" club and it took him just one hot afternoon in Wallace Wade Stadium to make up his mind.

“Frankly, the only thing the East Carolina game means to us is a ‘W’ or an ‘L,’ Wilson said Saturday after a 35-10 pasting in the season opener for both teams.

doesn't mean Wilson won't be working his troops hard. “We need an open date more than any other school in the world,” he said of the team judged to have the second toughest schedule in the nation.

Although Wilson adopted the “everything to lose and nothing to gain” attitude toward the meeting with the Pirates, the previous week's events did little to sway ECU feelings for the Blue Devils.

But, Bennett didn't see where many of the 23 passes went. He spent most of his day under attack from a savage Pirate rush that sacked him seven times for losses totaling 55 yards.

At his news conference, Wilson expressed confidence in Bennett, enough to indicate that the Californian will take the snaps as long as he is able.

Duke officials charged that Pirate running back Theodore Sutton and defensive back Willie Holley were ineligible for the year because they participated in a 1976 junior varsity game.

“He has a great deal of leadership capabilities. He has a lot of poise and he's very, very intelligent,” Wilson said. “Whether or not we can protect him remains to be seen.

McGraw Sees Win As Omen Of Philly Pennant

By MIKE HARRIS AP Sports Writer

Tug McGraw, never a shrinking violet, has decided to take his first victory in nearly a year as an omen that the Philadelphia Phillies are going to be the next champions of baseball.

Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green said, “Pittsburgh has dominated us this year, so it was an especially good victory. We want to beat the teams we have to beat, and they're one of them.”

McGlothen, 10-11, since Aug. 15. Bill Buckner had a double and a pair of singles and drove in the first run of a four-run third inning to pace the Chicago attack.

McGraw, who also has 17 saves, earned his first win in five decisions this season — and his first triumph since last Sept. 18 in St. Louis — Monday night with 22-3 innings of scoreless, two-hit relief as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single broke a 2-2 tie and ignited a four-run eighth-inning rally against Enrique Romo, 5-5, and Kent Tekulve. That outburst also featured a two-run double by Larry Bowa and a successful squeeze bunt by McGraw.

Rampants Race To Pair Of Wins Rose High School's cross-country team gained a pair of victories yesterday in their first dual meets of the year, downing Ahoskie and Hunt.

McGraw recalled that in 1973, when his outstanding relief pitching helped the New York Mets win the National League pennant, he didn't get his first triumph until August.

Chicago got the benefit of four St. Louis errors and Lynn McGlothen and Willie Hernandez combined for an eight-hitter. It was only the Cubs' fifth victory in its last 20 games and the first victory for of Rose, 17:30; Jim Eason of Ahoskie, 17:33; Mike Tyson of Hunt, 17:54; and Paul Soomsawasei of Ahoskie, 17:56. Other Rose finishers included David Steffensen, 13th in 18:04; Robert Stancil, 15th in 18:46; Larry Talbert, 17th in 18:53; Max Parker, 18th in 19:02; Tim Harris, 19th in 19:29; Bobby Nichols, 24th in 22:05; Irving Bennett, 25th in 23:04; and Steve Byrum, 26th in 23:08.

“This year I didn't get it until September,” McGraw said. “In '73 we lost the World Series. Maybe there's an omen there somewhere, even if I have to make it up. It means we'll win the pennant and the World Series.”

Cubs 6, Cardinals 2 Chicago got the benefit of four St. Louis errors and Lynn McGlothen and Willie Hernandez combined for an eight-hitter. It was only the Cubs' fifth victory in its last 20 games and the first victory for

HUNTER ORIGINAL OLDE TYME CEILING FANS

This was the fan that went 'round the world. These Hunter ceiling fans, the 1903 originals, swirled away heat in the steamy jungles of Africa, in the deserts of Morocco, on the shores of India and in the plantation homes of the South. A lot of people who remember those days still refer to all ceiling fans as "Hunter Fans". Johnny-come-lately's can't fool them—they know Hunter is the original.

Gossage's Arm Pacing Yankee Streak

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees have been beating teams left and right this September, thanks to Tommy John and Rich Gossage.

Especially thanks to Gossage. New York's strong-arm reliever put the Arm again on the opposition Monday night as the Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 7-4 for their eighth straight victory.

"I didn't want to have to pitch him (Gossage) tonight," said Yankees Manager Dick Howser. "He had pitched the last three nights and I wanted to give him a rest. But when you get that far to the end, you've got to go with your best and he's the best relief pitcher there is in baseball."

The Yankees were losing 4-3 going into the ninth inning before rallying for four runs. Then, when John, New York's illustrious southpaw, loaded the bases with two out, Howser brought in Gossage and the power-throwing right-hander struck out Ernie Whitt on three pitches.

"I had never faced him before," said Whitt. "He threw three fastballs. They (the Blue Jays) staff armed with a radar gun) told me the first was 95 miles per hour, the second one 96 and the third 98."

That was good enough to earn John his 20th victory of the season and Gossage his 25th save.

"You're not trying to trick anybody when you come into that situation," said Gossage. "I had popped one (a fastball) in the bullpen and I knew I was ready. I didn't want to waste anything in the bullpen. After I pop that first one I know I have it."

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore took a doubleheader from Detroit 9-2, 8-6; Boston trimmed Seattle 10-4; Chicago edged Seattle 3-2 in 12 innings; California defeated Kansas City 7-4 and Texas turned back Oakland 6-2.

Bob Watson's pinch RBI-single and Rick Cerone's two-run homer capped New York's ninth-inning rally.

John, 20-7, registered his second consecutive 20-victory season since coming to New York as a free agent. He allowed seven hits, struck out three and walked one in 82-3 innings before Gossage came on.

Orioles 9-8, Tigers 2-6
Eddie Murray belted a three-run homer and Al

Bumby hit a solo shot to back the combined five-hit pitching of Dennis Martinez and Sammy Stewart, pacing Baltimore's first-game victory over Detroit.

Gary Roenicke hit a home run and Murray drove in two runs to back the eight-hit pitching of Mike Flanagan and two relievers as the Orioles won the second game.

"I was struggling at the plate a little bit and I still am," said Murray, who raised his average four points to .291 by going 4-for-8 in the twinbill. "One night won't do it. But it's a nice start."

Red Sox 10, Indians 4

Jim Dwyer hit two homers and Carlton Fisk knocked in four runs to highlight an 18-hit attack as Boston defeated Cleveland.

Dwyer had his eighth and ninth home runs, consecutive solo shots in the fourth and sixth innings off Indians starter Dan Spillner, 14-10.

Mike Torrez worked the first 61-3 innings for Boston, surrendering all four runs on eight hits before Bob Stanley came on to pitch the final 22-3 innings.

"He hung a curve ball on the first one, but the second came on a pretty good pitch — up and in — but I got around on it," said Dwyer of his homers off Spillner.

White Sox 3, Mariners 2

Wayne Nordhagen singled home Chet Lemon from second with the winning run in the 12th inning as Chicago edged Seattle. Seattle reliever Dave Heaverlo, 5-3, started the 12th by getting Kevin Bell on a groundout. But he hit Lemon with a pitch, and after Mike Squires fled out, Lemon stole second. Nordhagen then singled up the middle on a 1-1 pitch.

Ed Farmer came on in the 10th and improved his record to 7-8 with 22-3 innings of relief.

The White Sox had tied the game 2-2 with a run in the eighth on an RBI-single by pinch hitter Ron Pruitt.

Angels 7, Royals 4
Carney Lansford had three hits, including a home run and a double, knocked in three runs and Don Aase and Andy Hassler provided strong relief to lead California over Kansas City.

Lansford also scored three runs as the Angels snapped a four-game losing streak against the West Division leaders, who played their second game without George Brett, baseball's leading hitter at .396 who is out with an injured hand.

Texas a 3-2 lead and Rusty Staub homered leading off the sixth off A's Brian Kingman, 7-17.

Butcher, a 23-year-old right-hander promoted from the minor leagues a week ago, learned just a few hours before game time that he would pitch. Jenkins was informed by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn at midday that he would not be allowed to play while questions concerning his arrest on drug possession charges remained unanswered.

Rams Find Nice Things To Say About Billy Sims

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Generally, the winning club provides the accolades for the star, but this time the Los Angeles Rams had a lot of good things to say about Detroit rookie running back Billy Sims.

He had just scored three touchdowns and set up a fourth as the Lions upset the Rams 41-20 and ruined the regular National Football League debut of the erstwhile Los Angeles Coliseum-based club in their new stadium.

Sims, the 210-pound Heisman Trophy winner from Oklahoma, had tallied on runs of 10, 1 and 41 yards. He gained 153 yards rushing and 64 on passes.

"He is as good as any back in the league," commented Jack Reynolds, the veteran middle linebacker of the Rams.

"That man can do some running, spinning and turning and breaking tackles," said linebacker Bob Brudzinski.

"He has good speed, excellent balance and is a strong, all-around back," commented free safety Nolan Cromwell.

All of those commenting were members of the stellar Los Angeles defense that has been among the best in the National Football League in past seasons.

"He gets to the hole real quick," added Mike Fanning, the Rams' defensive left tackle. "He's a pretty good back."

That was the understatement of opening day.

Sims rattled the Rams' defense regardless of the fact that four members of the alignment had been holdouts during a good part of the preseason.

Detroit Coach Monte Clark said, "Sims adds a whole new dimension to the offense."

The newcomer, the first-round draft pick of Detroit after a 2-14 season in 1979, isn't the speed-burning type who goes to the outside all the time. He can go over guard or off tackle. He did the latter on his long touchdown run, and when in the open it was a wivelip action through the secondary.

His threat also kept the defense ultra-honest for Dexter Bussey, who gained 111 yards rushing. You have to go back to the Lions' inaugural NFL season of 1934 to find a game where two of their running backs went over 100 yards each.

Refreshing memories, it was Dutch Clark with 110 yards and Ernie Caddell with 132 against Pittsburgh on Nov. 4, 1934, who did it before.

Sims had 40 yards on eight carries in the first quarter, 82 on 14 by halftime and 143 on 20 after his 41-yard burst at the outset of the fourth. After that he didn't see much action.

Sims said despite his heralded credentials as a two-time All-American and the Heisman Trophy winner in 1978, he didn't feel undue pressure in his NFL regular season debut.

"I didn't feel any pressure whatsoever," he said. "I was pleased with the game, but my pass routes need a lot more improvement."

Asked about the Rams fans booing their own team, Sims said, "It wasn't for me, it was for the other team and that made me feel good. You've got to remember, I didn't do all this myself. I had a lot of help."

Oakland, where the Rangers beat the Oakland A's 6-2. "I guess I'll fly back to Arlington (Texas), spend a few days packing, then drive to my farm in Canada. There's plenty I can do up there."

Jenkins said he was unable to reach Marvin Miller with the players' association, but talked with Miller's assistant Donald Fehr in New York.

"He (Fehr) told me I'll just have to go along with it for now," Jenkins told the Times Herald. "He (Kuhn) is right, I guess. He's the commissioner. He just put down some of his authority."

Fehr said Monday afternoon, "We could possibly file a grievance, but the only problem is the season would be over before it would be heard."

Sutton Named To VCU Staff

RICHMOND, Va. — Mike Sutton, a former D.H. Conley

basketball player and coach, has been named to round out the coaching staff at Virginia Commonwealth University, head coach J.D. Barnett has announced.

Sutton, a native of Greenville, earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Health and Physical Education at East Carolina University in 1978 and a Master of Arts degree from Appalachian State University in 1979.

Before that, Sutton played basketball at D.H. Conley and was named as a co-captain during the 1972-73 season, when the Vikings went 21-2. Following the season, Sutton worked as an assistant coach until 1978, when he became an assistant coach at Lees McRae College.

Sutton then taught and coached at Hoke County High School in Raeford in 1979-80 before being named to as a VCU coach.

Sutton was recreation director in Winterville in 1975, and worked as instructor at ECU's summer basketball camp and as a field coordinator for the Pitt County Community Summer Schools Program in 1978.

Jenkins Isn't Angry; In Limbo

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Texas Rangers pitcher Ferguson Jenkins says he's not angry about having his name unceremoniously yanked, but he is "in limbo" because of the suspension by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"I can't say anything about it," Jenkins told a Dallas Times Herald reporter here before leaving for Texas Monday night. "I'm just in limbo."

Kuhn suspended Jenkins with pay Monday until the veteran pitcher cooperates with baseball security personnel who want to conduct a private investigation into his narcotics possession arrest in Canada.

"I can't pitch, so I'm not doing anybody any good here," Jenkins said Monday night in Oakland, where the Rangers beat the Oakland A's 6-2.

"I guess I'll fly back to Arlington (Texas), spend a few days packing, then drive to my farm in Canada. There's plenty I can do up there."

Jenkins said he was unable to reach Marvin Miller with the players' association, but talked with Miller's assistant Donald Fehr in New York.

Putt-Putt Results

Farmville Presbyterian jumped off to the early lead in Church League by winning the first round at the Putt-Putt Golf Course last night.

Salem Methodist was 15 strokes back for second while Faith Pentecostal Holiness and Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness tied for third with 351's, 27 strokes back of the winners. Mt. Pleasant Christian slid into last place with a 364.

Medalist Jeff Taft shot a 60 in the two round event for Salem Methodist. Stuart Gordon led Farmville Presbyterian with a 75, while Allen Spain was the best for Mt. Pleasant with a 78. George Mayo topped Hopewell with an 83, and Faith was led by Lynn Cherry with an 84.

'Today' Show Audience Is Big

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's venerable "Today" has been maligned in recent months for falling behind "Good Morning America" on ABC in their competition to attract the early morning TV viewer.

A lot of the criticism is deserved, says Steve Friedman, who took over as executive producer of "Today" in May. But the fact is, he says, the audience for the news and information program that premiered Jan. 14, 1952, is bigger than ever.

NBC's research department estimates the audience for "Today" at about 5.7 million viewers in the average minute, a 25 percent increase over the 4.6 million average for 1975.

"Good Morning America" has created a whole new audience," Friedman says. "They've made the pie bigger."

"And it's not a surprise that this has happened. Five million people watch 'Today,'" he says, not counting "Good Morning America" and CBS' hour-long "Morning" news program in the calculation, "and that means more than 200 million don't watch anything at all at that time."

Through the first quarter of 1980, "Good Morning America" had 28 percent of the audience to 27 percent for "Today," with CBS' "Morning" third by a good margin. "Today" and "Good Morning America" compete head-to-head, 7-9 a.m. EDT, each weekday, with CBS' news program in the race only for the first hour.

Friedman is out to go "Good Morning America" one better by creating new audience for his own show. His approach amounts to a kick in the pants for "Today."

"Our job," he says, "is to convince people it's not the same old 'Today' show. It's a fast-moving, contemporary news and information program, and I can see the results already. We're beating the hell out of 'Good Morning America' in every area — newsmakers, showbiz people, stories."

What may prove to be Friedman's biggest coup came several weeks ago, when "Today" announced Rona Barrett would leave "Good Morning America" for the NBC program. Ms. Barrett, among the most prominent and controversial Hollywood columnists, will join "Today" sometime after the first of the year.

Friedman has reworked the "Today" format, adding Mike Jensen to report regularly on economics, Bob Bazelle on science, Nancy Foreman on lifestyle and Bryant Gumbel on sports.

They'll joint co-anchors Tom Brokaw and Jane Pauley, weatherman Willard Scott and regulars Gene Shalit, Phil Donahue, Betty Furness, Richard Valeriani and Dr. Art Ulene.

"Hopefully," Friedman says, "each of the elements we're adding will come up at the same time on the same days each week. That kind of schedule won't be inflexible, but we do want a framework for the show."

Friedman says the new "Today" won't be a copy of "Good Morning America." In fact, he says, ABC's entry into the early morning sweepstakes in November 1975 was a response to the enduring success of "Today."

He does credit ABC with recognizing the untapped audience and going after it.

"Good Morning America" was new, aggressive, and they weren't afraid to try new things. 'Today' was older, more established, and they really didn't want to innovate."

"Good Morning America," for instance, assembled a regular cast, and, says Friedman, "My feeling is that Tom and Jane never had a fighting chance. 'Good Morning America' always had a better supporting team, and part of our idea now is to build up our own special family."

The easy way out might be to blame Brokaw and Miss Pauley for contributing to the fact that "Good Morning America" has built its audience at a quicker pace than "Today" has, but Friedman says he's convinced he's got the best team for meeting the "Today" objective.

"David Hartman does his thing well for 'Good Morning America,' but he and Tom Brokaw are not the same person. Tom Brokaw is a journalist, and I don't think there is anyone better at what he does."

"And I don't think there's a better woman in television doing what Jane does," the producer says.

Friedman says he wants to change the "Today" set, to get away from the heavy emphasis on New York City, and to that end, he's added a

Margo Fights 'Adult Theater'

By NAOMI KAUFMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prostitute organizer Margo St. James says she doesn't object to sex for sale — so long as it's not in her own neighborhood.

She's conducting a petition drive to try to lift the license of a nude-model theater near her home. The theater's attorney said her attempt would be resisted.

It was required to seek a permit to operate, and the permit was issued by the chief of police recently under the ordinance's grandfather clause.

Chesney said the issue is one of law, not whether neighbors like or dislike the business. "As a matter of law, it (the permit) had to be granted," he said.

Ms. Frank could not be reached for comment.

Ms. St. James said she had no problems with promoting legal prostitution but opposing the theater. "It's not contradictory. I would fight long and hard to keep a real sex parlor open somewhere else," she said. "I don't want it on that block."

The permit appeal board meets Wednesday, and Ms. St. James said she would seek a delay in the hearing because she understood not all members would be there.

"To walk by there and see this, it's just disgusting to see," said Ms. St. James, organizer of the pro-hooker group COYOTE, or Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics, which promotes the legalization of prostitution.

The object of Ms. St. James' ire is the Erotic Theater on Columbus Avenue, in the heart of the city's North Beach neighborhood. The theater features looks at nude models: "25 cents, Live Nude Girl," proclaims its sign.

One street in the neighborhood, Broadway, boasts a strip of topless, bottomless and sex-show clubs, but Columbus has largely been spared. "They're sleazing around the corner," Ms. St. James said of the sex shows.

Ms. St. James, who said she hasn't been a prostitute for a number of years and is now a licensed private detective, said Monday she gathered 400 signatures in three days to support her request to the city permit appeal board to repeal the Erotic's license.

"This is third-party pimping in the worst sense," said Ms. St. James, adding that she wasn't contending that prostitution was going on in the theater. "If these girls were to walk up to men on the street and say, 'Come up to my room and you can look at my nude body,' they would be arrested in a minute."

She argued that women who walk by the theater are subjected to verbal abuse by customers "denied sex after the come-on of the signs."

The Erotic has been an adult theater for some years, said attorney Richard Chesney. He represents Patricia Frank, who holds the license for the Erotic. Under the city's adult-theater licensing ordinance, it was required to seek a permit to operate, and the permit was issued by the chief of police recently under the ordinance's grandfather clause.

Chesney said the issue is one of law, not whether neighbors like or dislike the business. "As a matter of law, it (the permit) had to be granted," he said.

About 500 At Seller Service

LONDON (AP) — If Peter Sellers ever harbored a needless fear, it was that no one would show up at his memorial service.

An estimated 500 mourners, many of them entertainers, did show up Monday at St. Martin-in-the-Field to pay tribute to their friend who died of a heart attack here July 24. Monday would have been Sellers' 55th birthday.

Prince Charles, a special fan of Sellers, was represented by British comedian Michael Bentine. Lord Snowdon, ex-husband of Princess Margaret, read the 23rd Psalm, and friend, fellow jester and singer Harry Secombe sang "Bread of Heaven."

Actor David Niven recalled that he and Sellers attended a memorial service for Noel Coward several years ago. As they left the church, Sellers said he hoped there would be no such service for him "because I don't think anyone will show up."

Niven added: "I just hope that he knows that Laurence Olivier described him as a genius."

Michelle Now Accused Of Shoplifting

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Michelle Triola Marvin, whose "palimony" property suit against actor Lee Marvin gave new meaning to the term "living together," has been arrested for investigation of shoplifting.

Police Lt. Russ Olson said Monday that Ms. Marvin, 47, was arrested Friday by private security officers at Robinson's Department Store in Beverly Hills and accused of trying to shoplift three sweaters and two bras valued at $208.

She was ordered to appear in court on Sept. 30 for arraignment. Olson said the case probably would be prosecuted as a misdemeanor.

Ms. Marvin, who sued Marvin for half his fortune after their six-year love affair ended, was awarded $104,000 in April 1979, but an appeal is still pending and she has not received any money.

The bidding:
West North East South
3 ♣ Pass 3NT 4 ♣
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

The bridge expert can accomplish the seemingly impossible in two shakes of a lamb's tail; miracles take a bit longer! Can you see how South fulfilled his contract of four spades?

Even at this vulnerability, we would hesitate about opening the West hand with three clubs. There is too much chance that we might be missing a game, or even slam, in hearts. East's three no trump bid was an attempt to throw dust in the eyes of his opponents, but nothing could blind South to his powerhouse. Indeed, there are those who would consider his bid to be ultraconservative.

Against four spades, West led the king of clubs and continued with the ace. Declarer made his first fine play when he ruffed with the seven, preserving the three in his hand. He laid down the ace of spades and received the bad news about the trump break. It seemed that declarer would have to concede down one, but South was not yet ready to lower the flag.

He cashed his high diamonds, and was delighted when East had to follow.

West led a heart. Declarer ruffed in dummy. East overruffed with the jack and declarer undertruffed with the eight! If East returned a trump, declarer would make the rest of the tricks, so he led a club. Declarer ruffed with his carefully preserved three, and overruffed in dummy. A diamond from the table allowed declarer to trump coup East for the last two tricks and his contract!

Cugat Enters Barcelona Clinic

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Spanish band leader Xavier Cugat, who will be 80 soon, has been admitted to a Barcelona clinic suffering from a coronary ailment, according to his doctors.

A violinist who created a style called "tropical," Cugat won great success in the United States, where he worked as musical director in many Hollywood films.

'Blondie's 50, Still No Anachronism

By JERRY SCHWARTZ Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — She was a flapper and he was a playboy, but like most other Americans after 50 years, Dagwood and Blondie Bumstead have long since settled down.

Now they have a couple of kids and a dog and they fight over the bathroom. Their antics in the comic strip "Blondie," which first appeared on Sept. 8, 1930, now are read in 1,800 newspapers around the world.

Blondie was nowhere in sight on Monday, the day of the strip's 50th anniversary, but Dagwood observed the day by getting a cigar butt planted in his ear by his irascible boss, Mr. Dithers.

The strip, syndicated by King Features, is written by Dean Young, who inherited it from his father, Chic, creator of the strip and its writer until his death in 1973.

The strip, which centers on Dagwood's home and office life, was far different when it first appeared. "Blondie was a flapper — her maiden name was Blondie Boopadoop," said Young, 42.

"Blondie" revolves around four concepts: eating, sleeping, raising children and making money," said Young. "I really think 'Blondie' has left the realm of the comic strip. It's an institution."

During all of 1979, there were 30 bank heists. One police theory is that many of the 300 banking offices here are small, drive-in structures, in suburbs and near freeways, that are convenient not only for customers, but for robbers as well.

CRYPTOQUIP 9-9

X G X O S P K J R S G X O R P D I H I P H -
J D Y K A S W H Y R Y D R G K A W K G K A H

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — INTRACTABLE OLD TRACTOR
INFLAMED BOLD FARMER.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals R

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Galileo Missed An Opportunity

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
The famous astronomer Galileo apparently did not recognize a major planet when he saw it and thus missed out on adding the discovery to his list of credits.

The 17th century genius, using one of his early telescopes, saw the planet Neptune without knowing what it was. This left actual discovery to scientists hundreds of years later, an astronomer said Monday.

Charles T. Kowal of the California Institute of Technology said he reexamined records of Galileo's observations and calculated that the Italian physicist saw the planet at least two times while working in Florence.

Galileo saw Neptune on Dec. 28, 1612, and Jan. 28, 1613, but erroneously thought it was a "fixed star" even though he noted that it moved in relation to another star, Kowal reported to the National Science Foundation, which finances part of his work. This is 234 years before the distant planet formally was discovered.

Galileo, the first to put the telescope to practical use, discovered that the moon was marked by valleys and mountains, and reflected light instead of generating its own. In also discovered the four major moons of Jupiter and noted the peculiar form of Saturn, which was later recognized as being caused by its rings.

"When he saw Neptune, he actually was looking for satellites of Jupiter," Kowal said in a telephone interview. "It's also somewhat surprising that there are only two observations. Neptune should have been seen for the entire month of January."

Neptune, second only to Pluto as the solar system's most outer planet, is 15 times more massive than the Earth. Very little is known about this cold, gaseous planet because of its distance from the sun — 2.8 billion miles — and the fact that no spacecraft has ever visited it.

LWV Mired In Data Of Political Polls

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As League of Women Voters officials meet today to decide whether to invite John Anderson to take part in the league's presidential debates, they find themselves mired in the arcane intricacies of national political polls.

At the same time, there seems to be confusion on independent candidate Anderson's part as to whether the White House has shifted position on its insistence that only President Carter and Ronald Reagan participate in the first presidential debate. Word from the White House was "no change."

Carter has said all along he would debate Anderson along with Reagan, but only if he faces Reagan alone first. Anderson wants in on the first match, which is regarded as having the most influence on voters.

The league, in an effort to avoid legal hassles, set what seemed like a simple standard for invitations to third-party candidates: the candidate had to reach the 15-percent level in national polls.

But the fact that the league officials meeting today have invited along a corps of polling experts and academics suggests that the formula may be a good deal more complicated than imagined — and only partly because polls taken over the last three weeks put Anderson's national standing at anywhere from 13 percent to 17 percent.

At any rate, as the debate question is debated, the rest of the campaign goes on. Both Anderson and Carter will be on the stump in New Jersey today, and Reagan will be in Chicago.

The president was taking part in the dedication of a new steel plant in Perth Amboy, N.J., giving him an opportunity to defend his own economic policies and attack those of Reagan.

Carter said at the ceremony that his economic recovery plan would create a million jobs over two years while Republican promises of tax cuts would only bring "massive tax breaks for the wealthy and massive increases in inflation to working people."

Reagan, speaking in Kokomo, Ind., on Monday before heading for Chicago, called Carter's plan "cynical" and "political."

Former President Gerald R. Ford met with Reagan in Chicago, renewed his promise to campaign hard for the GOP ticket, and hit Carter's administration for revealing a program to develop a radar-evading aircraft. He said the disclosure of the "Stealth" program was "unwise and potentially dangerous to our national security."

Anderson, harping on the debate question, said Monday that a Carter refusal to meet him in the first debate could become "one of the major issues of the 1980 campaign."

Later, after hearing apparently incomplete news reports of a statement by Carter spokesman Jody Powell, Anderson said he understood that "the presidential press secretary has now allowed that perhaps the president would deign to see a third person seated on the platform" for the first debate.

Powell did say, "We're perfectly willing to participate in multi-candidate debates, but we feel there's got to be an assurance there will also be one-on-one debates" — suggesting the two-man debates could come later.

But he went on to say of the two-man contest, "There's a feeling that debate ought to be first, a feeling strengthened by the growing conclusion here that if we agreed to a multi-candidate debate there would be no one-on-one."

The question of whether Anderson will be invited to the first debate, tentatively scheduled Sept. 21 in Baltimore, likely will be decided today after a meeting of the executive committee of the league's education fund, the actual sponsor of the debates.

The committee's members will consult with the league board, then possibly inform the candidates later today. The decision will be made public Wednesday.

The major question revolves around the 15 percent standard, which sources say the league set on the advice of its lawyers, who argued such a guide would stand up under a court test.

But the latest polls, taken between Aug. 15 and Aug. 28, measure Anderson's support at various levels. To wit: The Associated Press 13 percent, Gallup 14 percent, ABC News-Harris 17 percent, Roper 17 percent also, and Time 15 percent.

League officials have not made clear what they would do if the polls seemed in conflict. There has been discussion of averaging the results or somehow merging all the poll results through what is called "weighting the results."

But a number of professional pollsters say the league doesn't understand the limitations of polling. They say the use of a single cutoff figure — like 15 percent — implies a precision to survey techniques that does not exist. "The use of survey research to determine who should participate in the 1980 presidential debates is a perfect example of the misuse of the tool of survey research," says political pollster Peter Hart.

The National Council on Public Polls, a group of pollsters and media organizations, criticized the league's choice of a 15 percent standard several weeks ago. Sources say Albert Cantril, president of the group, is a member of the technical panel advising the league on such matters.

Sampling error is one of the problems on which the league will ask the experts for guidance. Based on samples of perhaps 1,000-2,000 Americans, the polls have margins of error of three or four percentage points. That means a 13 percent finding could actually be anywhere from 9 percent to 17 percent.

Thus, there is no statistically valid difference between the AP finding of 13 percent and the league's 15 percent cutoff.

But the League has not made clear if sampling error will be taken into account. And while it has also said it may look at other recent polls, it has declined to say which ones.

The Los Angeles Times, in a story on its own poll released in the paper's editions today, said its poll was being considered by the league. That poll gave Anderson an 18 percent rating and it, too, has a 3 to 4 percentage point margin of error.

For the looks that get the looks™

Good looking hair. That gets noticed. That's a Command Performance haircut.
A haircut that will hold its shape more than just a few days.

A haircut that won't try to force your hair into a style that's not right for it. We'll start with a careful study of your hair's natural inclinations. Our precision haircutters notice everything that's right (as well as everything that's wrong) with the way your hair has always grown. Then they'll give you our precision cut. One that adapts the style you want to the hair you have. So, our precision haircut not only looks great the first day. It'll help to hold your hair in shape, even as your hair continues to grow. And you'll continue to get all the looks you're looking for.

No appointments necessary, ever. Just $14 for guys and gals.
