MIGs Bomb 7 Airports In Iran

Iraq Charges 'Full-Scale War'

By The Associated Press
Iraqi MIGs bombed seven airports in Iran today, including Tehran's Mehrabad facility, an Iranian revolutionary guard commander said. He added that "some of the MIGs apparently were hit by Iranian warplanes."

A thick column of rose from the Tehran airport area.

At the same time, Iraq accused Iran of escalating air, ground and sea hostilities to a full-scale war level and ordered its armed forces to deal "deterrent blows to Iranian military targets."

The statement was issued in Baghdad by the ruling Revolutionary Command Council, signed by President Saddam Hussein and broadcast on state radio and television.

An earlier report from a witness to the Tehran airport bombing said an Iranian Phantom jet fighter bombed Mehrabad Airport and was shot down by other Iranian fighter planes. He quoted a friend at the airport as saying "many have been killed." There was no immediate explanation of how an Iranian Phantom jet could have been involved.

The guard commander said six MIGs bombed airports at Ahvaz, Hamadan, Tabriz, Dezful, Tolumbeh Sabz near Ahvaz, Boushehr, as well as Tehran. Another person called a Western reporter in Tehran and reported the airports in Tabriz, Ahvaz and Boushehr were bombed concurrently.

The sound of explosions rocked the capital, but Iranian Radio continued its ordinary programs.

A spokesman at the Mehrabad control tower said an Iranian Air Force Boeing 707 was damaged in the attack, as was housing under construction in the area.

A second witness said earlier there was a fire at the Mehrabad Airport, caused by careless workers.

There was no official government comment on either report.

All communications were functioning sporadically with the airport, four miles west of Tehran.

The statement from Baghdad accused Iran of attempting to obstruct navigation in the disputed Shatt el-Arab waterway by shelling Iraq and foreign vessels entering or leaving the estuary during the last two days and again today.

The statement also charged that Iranian air force jets staged intense air raids on Iraqi ground forces along the common border, closed Iran's air space to civilian traffic and declared general mobilization.

The statement ordered Iraqi troops to "show mercy to those who surrender and be tough with those who choose to resist."

Reports of the airport bombings came one day after Iraq and Iran each claimed heavy damage to the other in a naval and artillery battle at the head of the Persian Gulf. It was the heaviest fighting so far in the border war between the two oil giants.

Baghdad Radio said Iraqi forces destroyed eight Iranian gunboats in the Shatt al-Arab estuary and the Iranian naval base at Khosrowabad, 20 miles south of the Abadan oil refinery. It acknowledged the loss of one Iraqi patrol boat.

The Iraqi news agency said Iraqi forces attacked after Iranian gunboats opened fire on a British cargo ship sailing toward the Iraqi port of Basrah. The agency said the bridge of the British ship was hit, but the vessel continued its journey and the Iranian gunboats were repulsed.

The agency said Iraqi gunboats also drove off Iranian gunboats that approached a Kuwaiti ship and a Singapore ship sailing in the waterway.

Meanwhile, Tehran Radio said Iranian forces sank an Iraqi vessel and drove four others aground during the fighting. It said Iran lost a police boat and a number of crewmen were injured and that artillery, tanks, missiles and other "heavy machinery" took part in the battle.

An Iranian army communique reported heavy fighting all along the Shatt al-Arab's 60 miles and said the Khorramshahr oil terminal and Abadan Airport were affected. It reported the entire Iraqi border along the waterway was under heavy Iranian artillery fire.

The Iraqi news agency said "Arab youths of Arabistan" rocketed Abadan Airport and the port of Khorramshahr, destroying part of the airport and killing or wounding "several" people. It added that fire could be seen in Khorramshahr. It said "Arabistan militants" also attacked an Iranian army camp near Al Beemah, killing or wounding "several" soldiers.

Arabistan is the Arabs' name for Iran's oil-rich Khuzestan Province, facing the Shatt al-Arab, where the ethnic Arab majority has been agitating for autonomy from the non-Arab Persians who are Iran's largest and dominant ethnic community. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime has accused the Iraqi government for months of fomenting rebellion among the Khuzistan Arabs.

Six Judges Opine Anderson Proved A Better Debater

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Anderson, the outsider with nothing to lose, was clearly the superior debater in his nationally televised confrontation with Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan, according to a virtually unanimous panel of forensic experts.

The seven-member panel, scoring the bout for The Associated Press, based its conclusion on a standard point system used in scholastic debate competition. Anderson got 169 points, Reagan 154.

That does not mean, of course, that Anderson was or should be perceived as the victor by the public, since the scoring does not take into account the political preferences of the audience.

Public opinion polls taken prior to the Sunday night debate made Anderson a distant third against Reagan and President Carter, who sat out the Baltimore contest. Those polls doubtless will have much to say in the coming days as to whether any candidate, Carter included, won or lost anything.

Six judges ruled Anderson the better debater; one called the show a draw on points but said if he had to choose subjectively "I would have voted for Representative Anderson on a very narrow basis of superior content triumphing over superior style."

Only in the category of "presentation" did Reagan best Anderson, and then by only one point.

Reagan was cited by the judges for the professionalism expected of a former actor in his delivery, but Anderson was given credit for quicker thinking and more direct responses to the questions.

"I thought that what Representative Anderson had to say was more impressive than how Governor Reagan presented his material," said Dr. James J. Unger, director of forensics at Georgetown University and chairman of the panel.

Here is how the experts scored the debate on a scoring scale which allowed a maximum of 30 points over six categories.

—Unger: Anderson 20, Reagan 20.

—Professor Barbara O'Connor, California State at Sacramento: Anderson 27, Reagan 25.

—Professor James Copeland, Marquette University High School: Anderson 26, Reagan 25.

—Professor Jack Rhodes, University of Utah: Anderson 24, Reagan 23.

—Professor Donn Parson, University of Kansas: Anderson 25, Reagan 21.

—Professor Melissa Wade, Emory University, Atlanta: Anderson 22, Reagan 19.

—Professor William Southworth, University of Redlands (Calif.): Anderson 25, Reagan 21.

The debate was the first in a series planned by the League of Women Voters and patterned after the 1976 debates between then-President Gerald R. Ford and his Democratic challenger, Jimmy Carter.

Carter, however, refused to join this time around because of the presence of Anderson on stage, and Unger said the absence of the White House incumbent lowered the impact of the debate because "there was no presidential standard by which to judge."

But most of the debate specialists said because of his performance Anderson may have benefited from the exposure despite Carter's absence.

"In this particular debate, Anderson had to differentiate himself from both Reagan and Carter to be successful, and I think that he did that to a large degree," Professor Copeland said.

Anderson's ready command of evidence was his strongest suit, the judges felt.

"Anderson just used more evidence, brought more evidence to bear on the things he wanted to say," Parson said.

"I think the thing that made me pick Anderson over Reagan was the more ready use of evidence, 'the ability to call forth the information quickly, speak about it confidently and direct his remarks a little more directly to the question,' Rhodes said.

"Anderson had better evidence," agreed Professor Wade. "He used more independent sources. I thought he was more specific on various questions, gave more information."

"The more specific was more effective tonight," Professor Wade said. "I think the problem is that Reagan really does not answer the specific questions that are addressed," Parson said. "What happens is the question becomes a stimulus for saying some of the things he wants to say but not to answer the question."

At A Glance

BALTIMORE (AP) — Here are the highlights of the debate between Ronald Reagan and John Anderson.

ENERGY

REAGAN: "I think it is the government, and the government with its own restrictions and regulations, that is creating the energy crisis."

ANDERSON: "Mr. Reagan ... once again has demonstrated a total misunderstanding of the energy crisis that confronts not only this country but the world."

TAX CUTS

REAGAN: "Inflation today is caused by government simply spending more than government takes in. ... I don't see where it is inflationary for people to keep more of their earnings and spend it."

ANDERSON: "I oppose an election year tax cut, whether it is the 10 percent across-the-board tax cut promised to the taxpayers by (Reagan) or whether it is the $27.5 billion tax cut promised ... by President Carter."

ABORTION

ANDERSON: "Governor Reagan is running on a platform that calls for a constitutional amendment banning abortion. I think that is a moral issue that ought to be left to the freedom of conscience of the individual."

REAGAN: "With regard to the freedom of the individual for choice with regard to abortion, there's one individual who's not being considered at all. That's the one who's being aborted. And I've noticed that everybody that is for abortion has already been born."

MX Missile

ANDERSON: "I do not support a boondoggle like the MX missile. I've just gotten a report from the Air Force that indicates the 30-year lifecycle cost of that system is going to be $100 billion."

REAGAN: "We need the missile because we are so out of balance strategically that we lack a deterrent to a possible first assault."

THE ABSENT CANDIDATE

ANDERSON: "Governor Reagan is not responsible for what has happened over the past four years, nor am I. The man who should be here tonight to respond to those charges chose not to attend."

REAGAN: "We have criticized the failures of the Carter policy here rather considerably and there might be some feeling of unfairness about this because he was not here to respond. But I believe it would have been much more unfair to have John Anderson denied the right to participate in this debate."

Three Shot From Passing Vehicle

FOUNTAIN — An early Saturday morning incident here left three men with leg wounds after they were shot while standing in the parking lot of a local service station.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson, whose department is assisting Fountain police in investigating the incident, said that Megal Leimos, 17, of Rt. 1, Farmville, Bobby Taylor, 22, of Fountain, and Charlie Whitehead, 21, of Rt. 1, Macclesfield, were injured by shots from a moving vehicle on Highway 258 as they stood beside Taylor's car at Ellis Service Station.

All three men were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released, the sheriff said, adding that a .22 caliber weapon was apparently used in the incident.

He said that no arrests have been made yet in connection with the shooting, which was reported at 2:49 a.m. Saturday.

Warhead Is Taken Away

By STEVE BREWER
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Ark. (AP) — A convoy of eight military vehicles led by a security van left a Titan II missile site today, apparently transporting a nuclear warhead inside a canister labeled "Do Not Drop."

The convoy, escorted by two helicopters, arrived about 1½ hours later at Little Rock Air Force Base in Jacksonville, Ark.

The Air Force continued to maintain tight security over the operation, refusing to confirm the widely held belief that a warhead was blown hundreds of feet into the air from the silo in a fuel explosion last Friday. The blast, that occurred when a wrench was dropped in the silo, killed a sergeant and injuring 21 other men.

Despite the secrecy, an Air Force colonel directing the convoy smiled and gave a thumbs-up sign to an AP reporter who asked, "Is that what you wouldn't confirm or deny?"

The convoy was led by an Air Force pickup truck and a security van with flashing blue lights.

State police patrol cars escorted the convoy, and two helicopters flew ahead to report traffic conditions on U.S. 65 and Interstate 40. At one point, the convoy was ordered to slow from 55 mph to about 40 mph.

Members of the convoy could be heard on radio monitors asking for "security check."

There was a flurry of activity at the site shortly before the convoy left at 7:30 a.m. CDT. State police cruisers and patrol cars from the Van Buren County Sheriff's office gathered outside the gate and an Air Force helicopter arrived a short time later.

As television crews and reporters across U.S. Highway 65 from the gate prepared for the exit by the convoy, the helicopter took off and headed in the direction of Little Rock Air Force Base.

The tractor-trailer truck believed to have been carrying the warhead was loaded with two large canisters anchored to the trailer. One of the canisters was blue. The other was silver and green.

Both were labeled "Do Not Drop."

Secretary of Defense Harold Brown said Sunday that he had ordered an Air Force investigation of the nation's 18 Titan II missile installations with an eye toward safety improvements.

Gov. Bill Clinton had planned to tour the missile silo site today but changed plans and instead scheduled a meeting with Air Force officials in Little Rock, the state capital.

Air Force crews worked in secrecy Sunday to remove debris from the farmland where pieces of the Titan II missile scattered after an explosion.

The Rev. Tommy Hall assailed the official silence during his sermon at the First Baptist Church, saying Damascus residents have a right to know what risks they faced "because we are Americans, we are paying the bills."

"We don't want secrets revealed to us. All we want is the truth," he said in a 20-minute sermon.

Demand Shah's Wealth

By The Associated Press

The speaker of Iran's Parliament declared today the legislature will take a decision on the fate of the 52 U.S. hostages "only when demands are met by the U.S., especially our demand for the return of the shah's wealth which was put forward by Imam Khomeini, and the Majlis will insist on that."

The Majlis speaker, Hashemi Rafsanjani, added that "the Iraqi attack against Iran is a part of U.S. plot" and that "the Iranian-Iraqi war will not be without effect on the fate of the hostages," who spent their 324th day in captivity today.

Rafsanjani said he delivered 27 letters from the hostages' families, which he ordered to be handed to the captives, but he said 30 parliamentary deputies who visited the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for three hours today did not meet the Americans.

"We did not see the hostages and do not know how their health condition is," said one of the deputies to a group of reporters gathered outside the U.S. mission. Tehran Radio said the deputies inspected "espionage equipment."

Rafsanjani said before the deputies entered the embassy that they might talk to the to the hostages if they felt it was necessary "for getting more information."

The stated reason for the embassy visit, according to reports from Tehran, was to allow the deputies, who are empowered to decide the fate of the hostages, to see "espionage equipment and related documents" at the U.S. compound.

FOCUS

Driving 55

For the past few years, billboards and bumper stickers have been reminding highway motorists to obey the federal speed limit of 55 m.p.h. According to the Transportation Department, there are good reasons for driving 55. Transportation officials say the speed limit saves 3.4 billion gallons of fuel a year. Also, fewer people have died each year in highway accidents since the speed limit was introduced. But traffic studies show that in many states such as California and New Mexico, motorists regularly drive faster than the federal limit. Starting next week, the federal government could block some highway funds from reaching states where a majority of drivers are going faster than 55.

DO YOU KNOW — In what year did Congress lower the federal speed limit to 55 m.p.h.?

Dear Abby

Husband's Graveyard Shift Sets Off Wife's Siren

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a policeman, working the graveyard shift (from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.). I'm not very happy about this setup, but I've accepted it. What really bothers me is this. About three months ago a woman partner was assigned to work with him. (Squad car duty.) I've met her. She's cute, single, bright and funny, and I object strenuously.

I've asked my husband to request a male partner, explaining that I find it difficult to sleep nights knowing that he is riding around all night with another woman, but he refuses to put in a request without giving me any reasons for his refusal.

Abby, I admit I'm jealous, but how many other women would like their husbands riding around every night with another woman — just the two of them with a lot of boredom?

We have a good marriage otherwise, but I don't feel like lying awake nights for the rest of my life. What should I do?
JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Quit nagging your husband. And quit viewing that "cute, single, bright, funny" partner who works with your husband as a threat to your marriage. She's not. She's an intelligent, courageous, hard-working police officer who had to go through the same rigorous training as your husband in order to qualify for the job. And if you really believe there's a lot of boredom in police work, ask your husband if you can ride along one night, and you'll soon learn his job is no joyride.

DEAR ABBY: I am Jewish, 33, was raised in the Jewish faith and had the bar mitzvah when I was 13. However, I do not attend services except on the high holy days once a year. Last year I fell in love with a wonderful gentile girl. Connie is 29 and an atheist. I want to marry her, and out of respect to my parents I want to be married in our synagogue by the rabbi who has been a family friend for many years. The problem is, the rabbi can't marry us unless Connie converts to Judaism.

She is willing, and even agrees to raise our children in the Jewish faith providing I become a practicing Jew! She says if she takes the Jewish faith she will follow it, but she's not going to be the only Jew in the family. This means attending services every Friday night and observing all the holidays.

What do you think?
DAVID

DEAR DAVID: I think she's terrific. Grab her!

DEAR ABBY: You have printed letters from telephone operators, salespeople, secretaries, doctors, waitresses, etc., so how about one from postal branch managers and window clerks?

When someone calls us and says, "I am going on vacation, please hold my mail," please don't get mad if I ask for something in writing, as my station serves over 65,000 people, and I don't know everyone personally.

If there are two people ahead of you in line, please don't yell if I don't open another window. Chances are I don't have another clerk to wait on you, and my boss thinks I have too many employees as it is.

If you pound on the door after we're closed, please don't cuss me out if I don't let you in. Our business hours are posted, and you can't get into a bank after it is closed.

One more thing. If we have a blizzard this winter and nobody can get to work, please don't get mad if your delivery is late, or you don't get one. My mail carriers do not drive snowplows.

If the price of postage keeps going up, please don't blame me. I only work here. Be a pal, Abby, and print this.

Lee Fears Future Hurt By Problems

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Declaring himself ready to go on the offensive, Howard Lee says his political future may have been hurt because of problems associated with the CETA job-training program.

"I'm concerned about what all this CETA activity will do for me and my future," Lee, 46, acknowledged in a recent interview. As secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, Lee is administratively responsible for supervisor of the program, which is funded by the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

"The flames have been fanned by political fans. I am not going to let this whole CETA matter be the thing people remember me by," he said in discussing the program.

"I think it's unfortunate that CETA has been hung around my neck. I have not run the program on a day-to-day basis, but I have to be prepared to take the blame for any lack of follow-through.

"It's also unfortunate that the vision of CETA and what it means has simply been narrowed to focus on (state labor leader Wilbur) Hobby ... as an indication of how bad the program is...It (CETA) has gotten an awful lot of people off the welfare rolls," he said.

It was disclosed last year that Hobby, state AFL-CIO president and a past political supporter of both Gov. Jim Hunt and Lee, secured almost a million dollars worth of CETA contracts for his businesses.

More recently, questions have been raised about $260,000 in expenditures of CETA money by Hobby's businesses.

OPEC To Cut Oil Production

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — All 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries have agreed to cut their oil production by 10 percent. Iran's oil minister was quoted as saying today.

However, the authoritative Middle East Economic Survey, an oil industry newsletter that reflects the views of Saudi Arabia, OPEC's largest producer, said only six members of the cartel had agreed to the production cuts.

Pars, the official Iranian news agency, said Iranian Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar reported the agreement to cut production on his return from the OPEC meeting in Vienna last week. He said the reduction in output would dry up the current world oil glut.

But the Middle East Economic Survey said only Algeria, Indonesia, Iran, Libya, Nigeria and Venezuela agreed to the reduction. It said Iraq promised to consider a cut "very seriously" while the United Arab Emirates and Qatar "are understood to have rather vaguely undertaken to look into the matter."

Algeria announced a 10 percent production cut on Sunday.

The 13 OPEC countries are currently producing an estimated 27 million barrels a day, an estimated 2 million to 3 million more than current demand. According to the newsletter, the proposed cuts would total between 1 million and 1.5 million barrels of oil a day, and some OPEC experts believe such a reduction would "just about balance the market in the fourth quarter of the year."

During the Vienna OPEC conference, Saudi Arabia refused the demand of Iran and other militants that it cut its daily production of 9.5 million barrels by 1 million barrels a day.

The Saudis did agree to raise their price by $2 a barrel to $30 a barrel as a step toward re-establishment of price unity in the cartel. However, no other country made any commitment to lower their prices, which range from $34 to $37.

Turkish Cabinet Is Announced

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Seven retired generals are among the 27-member Cabinet approved by Turkey's military commanders.

The Cabinet also includes five professors and eight long-time bureaucrats. Its composition was announced Sunday by Prime Minister Bulent Ulusu, a former admiral.

Turkey's military commanders ousted Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel Sept. 12 in a bloodless coup aimed ending the political violence that has left 2,000 dead since January in this NATO country.

HOPE PLANTATION, near Windsor, the restored home of N. C. Governor David Stone, will be the site of a decorative arts symposium.

Hope Plantation Symposium Set

ECU News Bureau
 WINDSOR — "A Decorative Arts Affair," a public symposium on the art and lifestyle of colonial northeastern North Carolina, will be offered Oct. 8 by the Historic Hope Foundation, Inc. and the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education.

Speakers include Dr. Herbert Paschal, professor of history at ECU, whose topic is "Life in Northeastern North Carolina: Late Colonial and Early Republican Periods;" Whaley Batson, art researcher at the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts, Winston-Salem, who will speak on "Itinerant Southern Artists" and John Bivins, publications coordinator for MESDA, who will discuss "Northeastern North Carolina Furniture: 1700-1825."

Participants will also view a film presentation, meet for luncheon and dinner and tour the buildings at the Hope restoration site: the Hope Plantation house, an early 19th century Georgian-Federal mansion; the gambrel-roofed King-Bazemore House, built in 1763; and the circa 1800 Samuel Cox House, an example of "Carolina Coastal Cottage" architecture.

Hope Plantation was the Bertie County residence of David Stone (1770-1818), who served as North Carolina's governor from 1808 to 1810. The plantation house, acquired and restored by the Historic Hope Foundation, Inc., is furnished with important examples of 18th and 19th century North Carolina furniture, typical of items mentioned in Stone's estate inventory.

The symposium is coordinated by Betsy Overton.

DEAR PAT: I am sending you a tiny Christmas stocking which I use as a tree or package decoration. I also make them up in baby yarn for baby showers and gifts. Thought you might like to put this idea in your column. — MRS. CLARK, MT. HOLLY, N.C.

To make Mrs. Clark's Christmas stocking or boot, you need just a few yards of red, green and white yarn in knitting worsted weight. It is crocheted in much the same way as you would make granny squares.

With a size F or G crochet hook and the red yarn, chain four and join with a slip stitch to form a ring. Then chain three and work two double crochets in the ring. Next (work three double crochets in ring and chain one). Repeat the steps between parentheses three more times. You now have five shells consisting of three double crochets each, with a chain-1 space between each shell. Join with slip stitch to top of beginning chain. Fasten off red yarn.

Attach green yarn in any chain-1 space. Chain three and in space where yarn was attached, work two double crochets, chain one, then work three double crochets. In next space, work three double crochets, chain one and work three more double crochets (thus making a double shell). After the double shell, chain one. In each remaining chain-1 space around, work a double shell followed by chain one. You will have five double shells. Join as before and fasten off.

Attach white yarn in center space of a double shell, chain three and work five double crochets in this space. In next space between two shells, work eight double crochets (work six double crochets in center of next shell and three double crochets in space between two shells); repeat steps between parentheses once more, then work eight double crochets in center of next shell. These eight double crochets will become the "toe" of the stocking. Work three double crochets in next space and then repeat steps between parentheses once more. Join as before and fasten off.

The piece you now have is neither a square or a circle. Fold the piece in half so that the two short, straight edges are together. This will be the back seam of the stocking. The shorter slanted edge is the top or "cuff" of the stocking, while the longer slanted edge is the "sole."

Attach red yarn in center edge of "toe" and, working through both thicknesses of folded piece, work a row of single crochet along sole edge and up back seam. When you reach top edge, work single crochet around this edge going through single thickness only, thus leaving the top edge open. When you have worked back around to the back seam, make a chain of seven or eight stitches and join with slip stitch to form a hanging loop.

Inserting and removing contact lenses is a simple procedure that is done effortlessly by millions of people each day. As part of the fitting process, the wearer is entitled to a demonstration. For most people, one or two sessions are enough. However, it is essential that the wearer understands how to handle new contact lenses. Do not hesitate to ask questions. Do not feel self-conscious about asking a "dumb" question, or asking for repeat assistance. Practice lense insertion and removal in the presence of a professional until you have confidence.

New Oppression Ahead?

The former dictator of Nicaragua, Anastasio Somoza, met his death in deadly machine gun and bazooka fire as he rode in a Paraguayan city last week.

His chauffeur and a financial adviser died with him.

Somoza's body was so riddled that only a wrist watch could be used to identify him.

The Paraguayan government moved quickly to keep the attackers from leaving the country. It placed the blame on foreign terrorists equipped with American made weapons.

Washington, as usual, caught between seeming to support a dictator, or giving comfort to terrorist groups which will bring about communism, reacted with a statement deploring "assassination no matter where it occurs or who is affected."

In Nicaragua the news of the former dictator's death brought celebrating in the streets.

We hope the Nicaraguans' joy is not premature. We can recognize their relief in getting out from under a dictator. We only hope the country won't be caught up in the dictatorship of communism.

A Familiar Grading System

A, B, C, D, F grading will soon return to the Greenville city schools.

And if there is any doubt, A will mean a grade of 93-100; B, 85-92; C, 77-84; D, 70-76; and F below 70.

Charles Ross, director of secondary education, said the plan had been in development since September, 1979 and it was the one preferred by the majority of teachers and parents.

It is, of course, nothing new. It is, in fact, a return to the older method of grading.

To us, it looks pretty good. With such a grading system students and their parents will have a good idea of the kind of work the students have been doing.

THIS AFTERNOON

Reach The Young

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Girl Scouts as Crime Fighters?

The temptation is great to dismiss that notion as so much political or promotional balderdash. Reaction to announcement of that plan the other day indicates many people did just that.

Given a chance, however, top state officials are convinced they are moving in the right direction in the struggle to find a way to handle one of the most perplexing problems in crimefighting: how do you reach the young people?

Two substantial elements of youth involvement in crime are drawing sharp attention — children increasingly involved in drugs, shoplifting, vandalism, thievery at schools and in neighborhood homes; and the alarming incidence of young people tangling with the courts and going to prison for more serious crimes.

Trying to organize the Girl Scouts is only the first step in a master plan which ultimately will get more than a million youngsters involved.

Next will come Boy Scouts, then Future Farmers of America and the Four-H Clubs. Meantime, members of the Governors Crime Commission remain convinced that reaching today's youth and reversing the trend must happen in the schools.

As L.D. Hyde, chief of the crime prevention section of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety sees it, "We can't communicate with the kids. They can communicate with each other." When Hyde talks about "we" he is including most adults.

Time was, in the memories of most grownups, when the message at home, at school, at church, and on the streets was to behave properly and try to do good. Respect for law and other people was paramount. Peer pressure worked to keep kids out of trouble. Recent years have seen a reversal of this fundamental social response and the experts see a host of reasons: rapid urbanization, the loss of neighborhood, less parental supervision, declining church involvement, schools which put more stress on frills than on discipline and work and learning, and perhaps chief among these and others, a modern-day interpretation of freedom to mean totally free of restraint or responsibility.

What can be done to turn this situation around; in this generation? That is the dilemma facing local and state officials.

Burley Mitchell, formerly a district attorney and now head of the state's Crime Control and Public Safety agency, is quick to explain that the young people enrolled in the fight against crime will not be involved in detection and arrest of criminals.

They will learn how to protect themselves and their valuables; how to get involved in community crime watch programs; and other routine crimefighting measures.

Pressure But above all, they will become involved in identifying law enforcement as "the good guys" Mitchell says, and they will learn how to push the message in their own schools and communities — to their own peers — that crime is out. Many young people are, themselves, victims of assaults, threats and rip-off schemes at school and in neighborhoods. Organized, reaching out and bringing others into the group, these young people can not only protect themselves, but get the point across that doing right is the right way.

"They have tremendous entre into all communities and with all youngsters. They see their peers and are involved with them. These young people are more apt to reach those who are getting into trouble than any of us are," Mitchell thinks.

There will be no overnight miracles, Mitchell says. Success, if it comes, will take a

Other Editors Say Troopers, Tickets

(Greensboro Daily News)

Should the number of tickets a state highway patrolman writes be used by his superiors to evaluate that trooper's performance? Burley Mitchell, whose crime control and public safety department presides over the patrol, thinks so. A system listing the number of tickets as one of several criteria in granting promotions and salary increases to troopers has been in use now for several months.

But the new approach, which is designed to increase productivity in the patrol, has its critics, too. Sen. Craig Lawing of Charlotte, president pro tem of the Senate, is one of them. He plans to ask Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green to bring the matter up before the Senate Operations Committee, which Green chairs.

The new system deserves a close look. The fear is that troopers will interpret the ticket-writing yardstick as a license to ride the interstates in the hope of racking up extra points. Meanwhile, areas off the beaten path will suffer.

Perhaps more important, the use of such a system erodes public confidence in the Patrol. Citizens who know about the ticket-writing incentive will wonder whether they've been cited because they broke the law or because the trooper is in search of a higher rating this month. Such perceptions, nover misguiding they may be, demean the trooper's professionalism in the end.

The new evaluation procedure, which attempts to measure a trooper's "units of productivity" based on an average for his entire district, is no doubt an honest attempt to rid the salary and promotion procedures of traces of favoritism or subjectivism. But it is possible to go too far in the opposite direction. If one trooper's record indicates he is slower or less "productive" than his cohorts, it may mean he is lazy. But it may also indicate that he is more meticulous in his work, or that the cases he has handled were especially difficult. The trooper who chases plentiful tourists on the interstate may not be as valuable to the public as the one who spends half a day on a back road tagging the driver who passes stopped school buses.

Strength For Today

THE BIG IDEA

Men of big ideas have loomed large on the pages of history. Sometimes their contemporaries did not appreciate their greatness, but their descendants did.

Columbus was a man of one great idea. So also was Galileo. Centuries before either of these men, Socrates had been martyred because he insisted that truth is divine and that men must follow truth or perish.

In later centuries we find groups of individuals such as the Pilgrim Fathers, the Quakers, the Moravians — all committed to great ideals which they refused to relinquish.

In all probability certain people in the world today whom we regard as queer may be cherishing ideas and ideals which our descendants 500 years from today will have accepted.

So watch out for the people dominated by a single idea. Some, to be sure, belong in the insane asylum; but others may be the saviors of their generation. — Elisha Douglass

The Threat To Anderson

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ST. LOUIS — More than 200 contributors to independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson sipped cocktails patiently for two hours at the University Club here Tuesday night waiting for the congressman, but their patience exceeded their commitment to Anderson.

Delayed by a tornado that closed the airport, Anderson never did make it to the $100-a-head fund-raising event. In his absence, the basic weakness of Anderson's "National Unity Campaign" was ruthlessly exposed in conversations over cocktails and brownies.

"I love John Anderson," one key supporter who helped plan the event told us, "and I'll stick with him another two or three weeks, but then..." Then what? "Then, unless it looks as though he might win I'll go to Carter to make sure Ronald Reagan doesn't become president."

That theme was not universal in the crowded University Club living room, but it was repeated often enough to flash a warning to the 58-year-old maverick Republican. Unless he makes a dramatic breakthrough in his Sunday night debate with Reagan, his campaign may be headed for obsolescence, its impact limited to a very few states none of which he will actually carry.

When we asked Anderson about the political syndrome of voters who want Anderson but will accept Carter to stop Reagan, he was philosophical. He conceded the problem but did not advance a solution. What makes it such a problem for Anderson is that he is not an ideological magnet who transfuses his supporters as George Wallace did in 1968.

Wallaces had an allegiance to Wallace that nothing could break, but the appeal of Anderson is based on the unpopularity of Carter and Reagan and Anderson's promise that he can do better.

Moreover, there was no sign here that the Anderson camp views his debate with Reagan as a campaign watershed. He told us he would use the hour of nationally-televised prime time, a precious asset to a campaign hard pressed for money, to "distinguish" his policies from Reagan's, not to attack President Carter. "If I attack Carter, I begin to look like a pale image of Ronald Reagan and I'm not that, I'm not that," he told us in his car riding across Illinois' Madison County to a high school rally at Edwardsville on Wednesday.

"Distinguishing" his position on issues from Reagan may not be just the ticket for a dramatic lift-off from what one aide calls his present "plateau" of around 15 percent in the polls. In fact, on two of the major differences Anderson has with Reagan — tax cuts and defense — Reagan has by far the better political position according to public opinion polls and our own interviews with voters.

Reagan favors deep tax cuts and higher defense spending. Anderson opposes tax cuts without a balanced budget. On defense, his 39-page "Agenda For America" relegates military issues to page 35. The platform pledges only to "spend what we need" for defense, mentioning no figures.

Anderson's antipathy for the military made a bizarre appearance during a press conference at Edwardsville Senior High. Challenged to produce evidence in support of his charge that Carter has turned foreign policy over to the Pentagon generals, he suggested that the generals were to blame for leaking secret information on the Stealth aircraft. In fact, the generals were furious at the leak, which seemed to have been plotted by Carter aides seeking political capital from the Stealth breakthrough.

There were other signs of either fatigue or confusion in Anderson's last day of campaigning before Sunday's debate. He told the students at Edwardsville that Israel had "recovered" East Jerusalem from Jordan during the 1967 war, when in fact East Jerusalem never had been part of Israel. He misplaced Afghanistan in Southeast Asia.

Teaches Efficient Time-Use

By JOY STILLEY

AP Newsfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) — When Diana Silcox set up her office systems business seven years ago, she found she was working 15 to 18 hours a day. Now, not only has she learned to use her own time more efficiently but she is helping others do the same.

"Though I was an organized individual, I had no time for myself and I decided to find out what time management was all about," she recalled in an interview. "I found I was doing everything and more but not making effective use of my time."

As she began learning more about it and successfully applying the principles to her own life, she began to advise her clients on time management, speak about it before business organizations, run workshops and seminars. Eventually she became a professional time management consultant, specializing in women's needs.

"For instance, a working mother's life is different from a working father's life," she explains. "There's a psychological and cultural difference, and I'm concerned with breaking those cultural patterns. We try to become superwomen because that's how we were trained."

Now Ms. Silcox, 37, has written a book with Mary Ellen Moore, "Woman Time: Personal Time Management for Women Only!" For it she interviewed 30 women whose problems and solutions she presents.

"I wanted to use real people, not just espouse theory," she says. "I wanted it to be a book women can relate to, to reinforce them — 'hey, I'm doing it right' or reassure them — 'hey, I'm not alone; she has the same problem and has overcome it.'"

"I'm single, I have friends who have families," she continues. "Our activities may differ but the problems remain the same. We all as women have a tendency to do everything. We are the doers, the tenders, the housekeepers."

She says when men, who have always had support systems — mothers, wives, girlfriends — are in a time bind they are willing to buy time for themselves, paying for services, products, outside help. But women don't realize their time is worth money.

A single man will automatically take his laundry out to be done, she points out, but "we see the single woman in the laundry room on Saturday, doing her laundry. The woman says 'What's wrong with me, why can't I do it all?'"

She can't — and shouldn't — insists Ms. Silcox, who emphasizes that "priority" is the key word in time management, deciding what is important and acting on it.

The first step, she says, is to find out how you are spending your time by keeping a daily log for a week, "the most difficult and boring part. You think you know how you're spending time but when you see it written in little blocks you find you have spent a great deal of time on unimportant details and didn't do the one or two projects that absolutely had to be done."

"So," she continues, "you develop a new strategy. Each day decide what you want to do and write a 'to do' list so you'll have something in front of you at all times.

"Decide what has to be done and start with that. Otherwise the tendency is to do the things that just take two or three minutes first, when what really needs doing may be at the bottom of the list."

Be realistic as to how long things take, she warns. Leave space for things that might go wrong — interruptions, crises, things that you don't expect. If everything goes right the reward is extra time for yourself.

"But," she adds, "always include time for yourself. The tendency for women is to have time for their husbands, time for their children, time for their boss, time for their employees, but never time for themselves."

Along with establishing priorities, Ms. Silcox says learning to delegate is also important, and women have a problem in letting go. The office is a structured situation where delegation comes naturally, "but take that same woman and put her in her home and she has the feeling she should be doing everything herself."

Police Charge Three Persons

Greenville police Saturday arrested three persons on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of hashish, following a 10:50 p.m. incident in a parking lot at the intersection of Third and Cotanche Streets, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.
 According to Cannon, Angela Denise Rouse, 26, and William Averill Chaffins Jr.,

26, both of Winterville, and Michael Charles Hays, 28 of Ayden, were taken into custody after a small quantity of marijuana and hashish allegedly were found in a car in which the three had been seated.

Such minor slips of the tongue are excusable. Anderson's problem is not fatigue, momentary confusion or even lack of money, serious as that is. It is the threat of flight between now and Nov. 4 by his own backers growing more and more worried that their votes may be wasted.

Urge Issues Decide Vote

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Charlotte civil rights leader Reginald Hawkins has urged North Carolina blacks to look at political issues — and not the party — in deciding how to vote this year.
 "It is imperative that we look at the issues more so than the candidates and that we distribute our vote accordingly," Hawkins said in a speech to a two-day conference of the North Carolina Black Political Forum.
 "A lot of so-called black leaders are actually flacks for politicians and they do not reflect the mood and attitude of the black committee. However, they reflect their own political interest," Hawkins said.
 The forum is sponsored by the United Church of Christ's Commission on Racial Justice.
 Forum spokesman Travis Francis said the conference was intended to highlight the issues black voters need to consider in evaluating candidates. He said the conference itself did not support any particular candidates.
 Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, told the forum audience the issues of the 1980s will be both "in the streets and the suites. It's not an either-or situation."

Choral Group Hears Talk By Director

Dr. Armand Kitto, director of the Moore County Choral Society in Southern Pines, met here Saturday with the board of directors of the Greenville Choral Society.
 A spokesman for the local organization said that Kitto was invited to Greenville to tell the board of his experiences in enlisting community support for the 85-member Southern Pines group.
 Kitto emphasized the advantages Greenville has for building a community-based chorus, in being a regional cultural center with a large university. He outlined approaches to membership recruitment, special choral events to involve the community, and the importance of public relations.
 The visitor emphasized the importance of a definite closing date, to insure all singers have the opportunity for adequate rehearsal. Kitto discussed the need to enlist enough singers for all sections, especially basses, by Sept. 23, the closing date for new members.
 In response to questions from board members, Kitto advised an active communications campaign including community leaders who are not singers, but who will work with the Choral Society in other capacities.

While the debate goes on over an economic policy for the nation, BB&T offers a sound economic policy for your family.

At Branch Banking and Trust, we believe that saving money is sound economic policy.
 We've maintained that simple philosophy even through times of high inflation — when the popular wisdom said spend, not save. And today, we believe saving makes more sense than ever.
 Saving is the one way you can be sure of having the money you need for the things you want. And with some help from BB&T, you can protect your savings from inflation to a greater degree than you might have expected.

When it comes to saving money, not everyone's needs are equal.
 For some people, saving money means a savings account — and that's always a very good way to save.
 BB&T also offers a number of alternatives to regular savings accounts — alternatives that can earn you higher interest.
 Consider, for example, our Certificates of Deposit*, which allow you to choose a maturity from 30 days to 8 years and a corresponding interest rate on deposits as low as $500. Or high-yield Money Market Certificates for deposits of $10,000 and more.

 With these and other savings plans, BB&T can help you put together a comprehensive savings program that will give you the best rate of return on your money and the kind of flexibility you need.
Exercise your inalienable right to save for your own future.
 We can't predict what the state of the national economy is going to be. And the debate in Washington over such matters will go on and on.

What we do know, however, are the ways in which saving regularly has improved the lives of BB&T customers through the years. We want you to share in the security and the good life many of them have known.
 So while you're waiting to see where the economy is headed, take the future into your own hands. Start a savings plan at BB&T.

*Federal law requires a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal. Interest rate based on 6 month U.S. Treasury bills. Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest on Money Market Certificates.

Break-In Found At Grocery

GRIFTON — Three persons were arrested Sunday by Pitt County deputies and charged in connection with an early morning break-in at a grocery store southeast of here.

Charged in the breaking, entering and larceny at May's Grocery, located at St. John on Rt. 1, Grifton, were Charles Richard Manning, 32, of 1976 Chesapeake, Va., Kenneth Gurganus, 26, of Rt. 1, Box 185, Grifton, and David Lee Pittman, 23, of Rt. 1, Grifton, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The sheriff said that cigarettes and assorted meats, valued at $200, were reported stolen in the break-in. He added that 23 cartons of cigarettes were recovered.

Sheriff Tyson, noting that the incident was reported at 3:41 a.m. Sunday, said that entrance to the grocery was gained after a side door was forced open, apparently with the use of a crowbar. Damages estimated at $200 were sustained at other areas of the building as apparent attempts were made to gain entrance before the side door was forced, he said.

Bond for Manning was set at $1,000, while $500 bonds were set for Gurganus and Pittman. First appearance hearings were scheduled for today in District Court in Greenville.

Promotions Are Announced

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon today announced the promotion of four police officers to the rank of corporal.

The four officers receiving the promotions, authorized by the City Council with the adoption of the 1980-1981 budget, include John E. Ennis, C. B. Landreth, Kenneth E. Thompson and J. W. Corbett. The promotions will become effective Thursday.

According to Cannon, a corporal will be assigned to each of the four uniformed patrol division squads. "These officers will, in addition to general police duties, assume the responsibilities of the squad sergeant in the absence of this supervisor, and will act as squad training officer under the general supervision of the department training officer," the chief explained.

Ennis, a veteran of eight years with the department, is a 1966 graduate of Winterville High School and received the associate in applied science degree in police science from Pitt Community College in May 1978, and was chosen by the Greenville Jaycees as the Outstanding Young Law Officer in 1978.

A U.S. Army veteran, Ennis has attended numerous police training courses, including police-community relations, accident investigation, criminal investigation, and police supervision. He is a certified Breathalyzer operator and is currently field training officer on his squad.

Landreth, with eight-and-a-half of law enforcement experience, has been a member of the Greenville department for eight years. He has worked in a number of areas, developing expertise in criminal and narcotics investigation, Cannon said.

A 1970 graduate of Chicod High School, Landreth has attended Pitt Community College and received certification for successful completion of a number of police training courses, including police-community relations, narcotics and criminal investigation, and accident investigation.

Thompson, with seven-and-a-half years service with the Greenville department, began his service here in 1973 as a dispatcher, then was elevated to a patrol position.

A 1970 graduate of J. H. Rose High School, Thompson received the associate in applied science degree in police science from Pitt Community College in 1979.

He is a certified North Carolina Police Information Network computer operator and has completed other police training in such areas as introduction to police science, criminal and narcotics investigation, police traffic services, and police-community relations.

A 1971 graduate of North Pitt High School, Corbett is a veteran of five-and-a-half years with the police department.

He is a certified Breathalyzer and N.C. Police Information Network computer operator and has attended such police training courses as introduction to police science, accident investigation, police traffic services and firearms training.

Solicitations Are Approved

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of three requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Wyatt said the requests were submitted by: the Greenville Jaycees for permission to conduct a sidewalk solicitation on Oct. 4 from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. at Carolina East Mall in order to raise money for the Cerebral Palsy Foundation;

Church Women United for permission to conduct a door-to-door solicitation in order to collect for UNICEF on Oct. 26 from 2-6 p.m.; and by Circle K for permission to conduct its annual rock-a-thon beginning on Sept. 26 at 12 noon and ending on Sept. 27 at 10 p.m. in order to raise money for muscular dystrophy.

Polls Buoy Pro-Nuclear Forces In Maine Vote

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Pro-nuclear forces, buoyed by polls showing them far ahead and by renewed support from Gov. Joseph E. Brennan, appear confident of victory in Tuesday's referendum on the banning of nuclear power in Maine.

But the leader of the anti-nuclear Maine Nuclear Referendum Committee says he isn't discouraged.

"It's a horse race, no question about it," said Raymond Shadis.

Election officials have predicted that the unprecedented referendum, which also seeks to close the Maine Yankee plant in Wiscasset, will attract at least 50 percent of the registered voters in the biggest referendum turnout in a decade.

Brennan, in a statement issued over the weekend, urged Maine residents to vote "no," contending that closing Maine Yankee would result in a large increase in electric bills and would hurt the state's economic development.

The governor said "there are legitimate concerns about nuclear safety" and "it would be wrong to decide that a vote to keep Maine Yankee open would necessarily be a vote of confidence in nuclear power. It would be a vote in favor of our economic future, our family budgets and jobs."

Shadis called Brennan's position "an intellectual and moral cop-out." He said it appeared to oppose the construction of more nuclear plants while supporting Maine Yankee.

"If more nuclear plants are a hazard, than this plant is a hazard," Shadis said Sunday.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The trend on the North Carolina stock market today was mostly steady to $25 higher. Wilson 400-500 pounds $43.00.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was firm. Supply short. Demand good. Weights light to desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 49.12 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,513,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Precious-metals issues soared and the rest of the stock market retreated today on word of war between Iran and Iraq. Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The price of gold responded to that news by soaring above the $700-an-ounce level for the first time since February. Silver, meanwhile, traded above $23 an ounce, compared with a low of $10.80 early last spring.

Among precious-metals stocks, Homestake Mining jumped 12 1/4 to 109 3/4; ASA Ltd. 9 1/4 to 88 1/4; Dome Mines 7 1/4 to 128 1/4; Hecla Mining 3 1/2 to 51 1/4; Sunshine Mining 1 1/2 to 24 1/4; and Asarco 3 1/2 to 52.

Asarco raised its copper price by six cents a pound. Interest rates, meanwhile, continued their recent rise. And bond prices, which move inversely with interest rates, posted sizeable losses.

The NYSE's composite index, which closed Friday at a record high, slipped back .08 to 74.73. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .48 at 340.54.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 22.75 million shares at noontime, against 22.27 million at the same point Friday.

Marine Proud Of The Appreciation

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Marine Corps pilot who participated in the aborted Iranian rescue mission says he went on a national television talk show to discuss the mission because he was proud of the outpouring of appreciation from Americans.

Maj. Leslie B. Petty, defending himself against criticism from some of the other survivors of the ill-fated rescue mission, said he had permission from the Pentagon to appear on NBC's "Today" and "Tomorrow" shows last Thursday.

"I wanted to try and impart to the thousands of people that wrote us letters down there and get well cards from all over the nation, and some places elsewhere in the world, that I was very proud of them for coming out and saying that they were proud of us for being brave and courageous," he said.

Petty was one of two pilots on a helicopter that crashed into a C-130 refueling plane on the Iranian desert. Eight Delta team members died in the crash. Petty was severely burned, and he was the last of the team to be released from a hospital.

Plans will be made for a fish fry to be held Oct. 11.

CALL MEETING, HUMANE SOCIETY

There will be a call meeting of the Pitt County Humane Society Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Woman's Club Building on Heath Street.

Plans will be made for a fish fry to be held Oct. 11.

The television appearance made Petty the first of the team to speak out openly about the mission, and that has caused some misgivings among comrades.

"I was under the impression that no one was going to talk on camera until after the hostages were released," said another Marine pilot on the mission who asked not to be identified.

"Sure others have talked," said another, "but no one but Petty has been identified by name and face to the mission."

Petty, 35, said defense officials already had identified him and several other wounded officers.

Todd Sets Mark, But Jets Lose

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Records are, as we all know, made to be broken. But, on occasion, breaking them doesn't mean a thing. And, for that matter, not breaking them doesn't mean a thing, either.

In other words, consider Richard Todd and Billy Sims. Todd is the quarterback of the New York Jets, a team which was supposed to go into the season with one of the most withering passing games in the National Football League these days.

On Sunday, against San Francisco, Todd shattered George Blanda's 1964 pass-completion record for a single game, hitting 42 of his 59 attempts for 447 yards and three touchdowns. The only problem was the three TDs came in the fourth quarter with the 49ers' defenders just laying back and letting Todd throw all he wanted to.

By then, San Francisco had a whopping lead, one which stood up as the Jets went down in flames 37-27. The record couldn't have meant less to Todd.

Sims is the rookie running back for the Detroit Lions, the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft last April. He had a chance to become the first player to gain 100 yards in each of his first three pro games. He missed by five, settling for 95 yards, seven of them on a touchdown sprint. And with the Lions beating St. Louis 20-7, the record couldn't have meant less to Sims.

Elsewhere around the league, Cincinnati pulled off its second upset of visiting Pittsburgh in two years, edging the Steelers 30-28, Los Angeles demolished Green Bay 51-21, Minnesota mauled Chicago 34-14, Miami shaded Atlanta 17-14, Buffalo beat New Orleans 35-26, Cleveland tripped Kansas City 20-13, Houston defeated Baltimore 21-16, Dallas downed Tampa Bay 28-17, Oakland nosed out Washington 24-21, San Diego slammed Denver 30-13 and New England outlasted Seattle 37-31. Tonight, the New York Giants visit Philadelphia.

"The record? No, it's not very sweet, not when you lose," said Todd, whose Jets have done nothing but lose this year. Naturally, Todd has become the target of the fans' wrath, and naturally they were no more pleased than he was at the record. "First I heard the boos, then the announcement," he said.

Steve DeBerg and Joe Montana threw for two touchdowns apiece for San Francisco and Montana also ran 5 yards for a score. DeBerg, who broke Fran Tarkenton's NFL record for pass attempts and completions last year when the 49ers staggered to a 2-14 record, was sympathetic. "I know just how he must feel right now," he said of Todd.

Lions 20, Cardinals 7
Sims shrugged off all talk about the record he narrowly failed to achieve. "I'm used to winning," he said. "We won the game and that's the most important record as far as I'm concerned. The only record that counts is the number of W's in those weekly standings."

For Detroit, as for San Francisco, there's a 3 under the W. And for the Cardinals, as for the Jets, there's a 3 under the L that represents losses.

"We are trying, but there is no rational explanation why we are doing so poorly," said St. Louis tackle Dan Dierdorf. "I don't understand it... This team loves to squander scoring opportunities."

Bengals 30, Steelers 28
The Steelers' loss was almost a replay of their game in Cincinnati a year ago, when they coughed up the ball nine times in a 34-10 loss. This time they lost it only six times.

Jack Thompson threw two TD passes for the Bengals and Ian Sumter kicked 21-yard field goal with 2:25 for the winning points after Pittsburgh's Steve Pollard fumbled a kickoff at his 35-yard line.

"They made very few mistakes and we made a bundle of them," said Coach Chuck Noll of the Steelers. "It's as simple as that. You can't make the kind of mistakes we made

Eagles To Test Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Ron Jaworski says it's a little scary the way things have gone so far for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Jaworski, the leading passer in the young National Football League season, can't believe how well both the offense and defense have played.

"And our special teams haven't broken it open yet and we have some return guys who can lay the ball in the end zone," Jaworski said.

"I'll tell you, I don't know if the other teams were that bad or we're that good."

Jaworski leads the Eagles tonight against the New York Giants in the NFL's weekly Monday national television game. The Eagles are a 10-point favorite, and deservedly so, if you compute by statistics.

Jaworski tried to evaluate the Eagles realistically.

The quarterback noted that the Eagles beat Denver and Denver went on to trample Dallas. He pointed out that Atlanta beat New England after losing to Minnesota, and the Eagles blasted Minnesota.

Jaworski thinks the comparative scores indicate the Eagles are as good as their 27-6 triumph over Denver and 42-7 massacre of Minnesota. He adds, however, there is no reason to underestimate the Giants.

"That's when you get into trouble," Jaworski observed. Jaworski attended a civic luncheon in honor of the Eagles early last week. Afterwards he thought the Super Bowl was a mere formality.

"I think the words 'world championship' were mentioned 600 times," Jaworski recalled. "I think it's great. It's everyone's goal. You can tell the people in this town are excited. And we're excited too."

"We have our share of setbacks and adversity. You can never get too confident in this game, or it will catch up with you."

That's why Jaworski looks upon the Giants as an opponent, perhaps not blessed with the talent of the Eagles, but good enough to beat anybody on that proverbial given day.

The Giants have beaten St. Louis and lost to Washington. They appear a team without a competent ground gain, a fair passing attack, defensively weak against the run, and fair vs. the pass. It won't be easy against a team that has allowed just 13 points in two games and scored 69.

The Giants' offensive strength is in the arm of quarterback Phil Simms, ninth best in the league. Simms has thrown for 454 yards on 28 of 60 completions. He has seven touchdown passes. His prime receiver is Earnest Gray, tied with San Francisco's Paul Hofer and San Diego's John Jefferson in receptions with 16 apiece going into this week's games.

Jaworski has completed 38 of 54 for 515 yards and five TDs, while running back Wilbert Montgomery has carried for 240 yards on 39 carries.

Wins Texas Open

Trevino In Heaven

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Lee Trevino was in hog heaven, having just snared his first Texas Open Golf Tournament championship and the coveted Vardon Trophy for the year's lowest stroke average and fattened his purse by $45,000.

"I love it," he said, sipping a beer and savoring his third tournament crown of the year. "I love the competition. That's what I live for."

And competition was what he had Sunday. It was a high-pressure 25-foot birdie putt, perfectly curled home on the sloping, tricky 18th hole that gave Trevino the 1-stroke edge over Terry Diehl.

The win upped Trevino's 1980 earnings to $385,000 which, coupled with the $41,000 from the British Open and prospects from a European tour later this month, could drive his annual total to more than $500,000 for the first time.

"Super Mex" Trevino, who polished his style with 4 bets on a driving range, explained why he feels no more pressure on the professional circuit than he did as a youth learning the game.

"It makes no difference, in perspective, how much money you make," he said. "In perspective, $4 was like $1,000 because that's all I had. Anytime you play golf for whatever you've got, that's pressure. I'd like to see H.L. Hunt go out there and play for $3 billion."

Trevino stood by watching as Diehl tapped in a 2-foot birdie putt on the No. 17 hole that could have sent the $250,000 tournament into sudden-death. He then calmly dropped the birdie to pull himself back in front for victory at 15-under par 265.

"It wasn't a makeable putt," he said. "It was a guessing putt. It had to have perfect speed. You hit too hard, you hit it through the break. You hit it too soft, it's going to break short of the hole. So I just hit it up about three feet and just tried to feel the distance of it, and made it."

Trevino, who said he was writing an autobiography, shot a 65 Sunday to come from behind and overtake Diehl and several other golfers who had a chance to win.

Diehl finished at 14-under 266 to collect the $27,000 second prize, while Fuzzy Zoeller, the third-round leader, collected $17,000 for third place at 267.

Astros Win, Lead By 1

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Since J.R. Richard suffered a stroke in July and was lost to the Houston Astros, they have followed a Golden Rule: Do unto the rest of the National League as J.R. would have done. Vern Rühle, who started the year with a mediocre 30-38 major-league record, has been a key member of the Houston pitching staff that has been strong even without Richard. He now has a 10-4 record, including Sunday's three-hit, 5-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants in which he flirted with a no-hitter for 7-2/3 innings.

Coupled with Cincinnati's 7-2 victory over Los Angeles in 11 innings, the triumph gave the Astros a one-game lead in the NL West — one-half game better than they were after Richard's last appearance July 14. The Reds are 3½ behind Houston.

"I had good stuff — it seemed everything was working for me," said Rühle, who lost his no-hitter when pinch batter Jim Wohlford singled between third and short with two outs in the eighth.

"I was hoping for a no-hitter and I was thinking about it," added Rühle, who retired 16 straight batters before pinch batter Joe Strain walked with two down in the eighth. Then Wohlford got two strikes on Wohlford before the journeyman outfielder ended Rühle's no-hit bid.

"I jammed him with a slider," the right-hander said. "I threw it inside because I didn't want him punching the ball through the right side with Strain on first base."

Darrell Evans and Larry Herndon got the Giants' last two hits in the ninth, when their only run scored on a groundout.

Gary Woods knocked in two runs for the Astros with a single and a double and Art Howe hit his ninth homer, his third of the season off Vida Blue, 14-9, who was the opposing pitcher in 1980's only no-hitter, by Jerry Reuss.

Reds 7, Dodgers 2

Cincinnati had a 2-1 lead going into the ninth inning, but Tom Hune had to survive bases-loaded jams with less than two outs in both the ninth, and 10th innings before Ken Griffey, whose error helped Los Angeles tie the game, won it with a two-run single in the 11th.

"We knew we'd come back," said Griffey of the no-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth. "We got out of the inning and that was the important thing. We still were tied going into the 10th."

After Griffey's bases-loaded single, the Reds scored three more times en route to a sweep of their three-game series at Dodger Stadium, which offset a three-game sweep by the Dodgers in Cincinnati the previous week.

"We still gotta catch two teams," said Griffey. "They're (the Dodgers) still better off. They're only one game behind the leaders."

"But we've come this far...it may as well go down to the last games of the season."

Phillies 7, Cubs 3

Philadelphia drew to within one-half game of the first-place Expos in the East with a 15-hit attack against the Cubs, featuring home runs by Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, who has 41 for the major league lead.

Dick Ruthven won his 16th game in 26 decisions with relief help the last 31-3 innings by Ron Reed.

Cardinals 4, Expos 1

Andy Rincon, making only his second appearance in the major leagues, won his second straight game with a three-hitter through eight innings. Rincon, who also singled in the eighth to help St. Louis build its final run, lost his shutout in the seventh on Andre Dawson's solo homer.

"That guy did a job on us," Montreal Manager Dick Williams said. "It seemed like he was always ahead of us on the count. He looked like he knew how to pitch."

The Cardinals scored three runs in the second inning on RBI singles by Tony Scott, Tommy Herr and Ken Oberkfell.

Pirates 9, Mets 4

Omar Moreno and Phil Garner knocked in two runs apiece and Bill Madlock and Ed Ott homered as Pittsburgh moved closer in the East race by bombing New York.

John Candelaria, 11-14, got the victory with 81-3 innings of seven-hit pitching. He also contributed the first of his two doubles in the Pirates' four-run fifth inning that put them ahead to stay.

Padres 3, Braves 1

San Diego won its third straight and 10th in a row at home as Tom Tellman helped himself to his first major league victory with a run-scoring single and Randy Bass belted a home run.

"I'm probably the happiest man in the world," said Tellman. "I've been dreaming of this game since I was 8 years old. It was nice getting the base hit. That was almost as nice as getting the win."

The 26-year-old Tellman, making his first major-league start, limited Atlanta to seven hits.

Cosmos Capture NASL Soccer Bowl

WASHINGTON (AP) — Giorgio Chinaglia says, without hesitation, the current Cosmos team is the best he has played with in his five years in the United States.

"There is no doubt about it," Chinaglia said Sunday after the Cosmos defeated Fort Lauderdale 3-0 to win the North American Soccer League championship. "This is definitely the best Cosmos team I have played on."

Of course, Chinaglia had a lot to do in making the Cosmos the NASL champions, especially in the playoffs. The most prolific scorer in NASL history kicked in two goals and assisted on a third Sunday to make the Cosmos winners of Soccer Bowl 80.

Going into the championship game, Chinaglia had scored 16 goals in the playoffs to go with the 32 he had in the regular season.

The Cosmos controlled the ball most of the first half of the game, played in near 100 degree temperature before a crowd of 50,768 at RFK Stadium.

And they completely dominated the second half when the Strikers were without one of their foremost players, Gerd Mueller who left the game with an aggravated thigh injury with 5:33 remaining to the halfway break.

Both teams agreed that the turning point was the Cosmos goal by Julio Cesar Romero. Vladislav Bogicevic passed off to Chinaglia on a free kick but the Italian's 17-yard attempted goal was blocked by the defensive wall. The ball bounced toward Romero who easily beat Strikers goalie Jan van Beveren with 2:55 gone in the second half.

"After the first goal, the Strikers went flat," said

Chinaglia, who was named Most Valuable Player of the playoffs.

Van Beveren agreed. "The first goal made the difference. In a game like this, it gave them confidence."

"It was a lucky shot," the goalie contended, "but from there on out, they had the advantage."

Chinaglia's first score came from 18 yards out, off assists by Ricky Davis and Wim Rijsbergen, but he did most of the work alone in left-footing it past a diving van Beveren.

Soccer Club Triumphs, 4-1

Dean Lulseged scored twice to lead the Greenville Soccer Club past Elizabeth City, 4-1, in a soccer match Sunday afternoon.

Greenville, now 1-1, scored three goals in the first half, one each by Larry Penn, Lulseged and Mike Umfoot. Penn's goal, the first of the match, was assisted by Dennis O'Neal and John Carlson. Lulseged gave the locals a 2-0 lead with assists from Penn and Scott Andrski before Umfoot made it 3-0 on a penalty shot.

In the second half, Lulseged scored his second goal of the day with assists from Rob Hinger and Carlson.

Elizabeth City, now 1-1, scored an unassisted goal by Sandy Melvin.

Goalie John Jordan had nine saves for Greenville in the first half and Umfoot, in goal in the second half, had 11 saves.

Greenville faces area rival team Greenville High Life this Sunday at 2 p.m. on the ECU intramural field.

and win." Oilers 21, Colts 16

Rams 51, Packers 21
Million-dollar rookie Johnnie Johnson ran an interception 99 yards for a TD and veteran Rod Perry returned another theft 83 yards for a score in the Rams' 37-point second quarter that routed Green Bay. Vince Ferragamo threw three TD passes in the runaway that gave Los Angeles its first victory of the season.

Vikings 34, Bears 14
Minnesota rebounded from the 42-7 demolition administered by Philadelphia last Sunday. "Dick Vermeil said, 'We're probably not that good and they're probably not that bad.'" Vikings Coach Bud Grant said, recalling what the Eagles coach had said at the time. "I think the same thing can be said here. This happened to be one of those days. We got some big plays."

Among them was Tommy Kramer's 76-yard TD pass to Ahmad Rashad and Ted Brown's 113 yards rushing and two TDs.

Dolphins 17, Falcons 14
Miami's Bob Griese, who seems to be making a career of coming off the bench and rescuing Don Strock and the Dolphins, did it once more against Atlanta, throwing two TD passes in the fourth period and setting up Uwe Von Schamann's game-winning 27-yard field goal with 32 seconds remaining.

Bills 35, Saints 26
Joe Ferguson threw three TD passes, two of them to Frank Lewis covering 12 and 18 yards, and rookie Joe Cribbs scored Buffalo's other two touchdowns on runs of 12 and 7 yards. Archie Manning teamed with Ike Harris on scoring passes of 44 and 15 yards for the Saints.

Browns 20, Chiefs 13
Running back Charles White, the Heisman Trophy winner from Southern Cal, began paying dividends for the Browns as he caught seven passes for 100 yards and a TD and carried the ball 15 times for 59 yards and another score against the Chiefs.

Cowboys 28, Bucs 17
Danny White made a successful home debut as Dallas' new quarterback, throwing three scoring passes for the first time in his career to hand Tampa Bay its first defeat of the year. One of the passes covered 28 yards to Butch Johnson, the others were 9 yards apiece to Billy Joe DuPree. Doug Williams scored two of the Bucs' TDs on an 11-yard run and a 49-yard pass play to Jimmie Giles.

Oilers 21, Colts 16
Earl Campbell scored a first-period Houston touchdown, then left the game with a groin pull. But Rob Carpenter replaced him in fine style, gaining 114 yards and scoring a TD of his own. The Oilers' defense also had a hot day, sacking Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones five times and breaking his nose in the process.

Raiders 24, Redskins 21
Like White, Dan Pastorini made his home debut a pleasant one, passing for two TDs and getting help from Kenny King's 137 yards rushing in the Raiders' victory over Washington. The crowd of 45,163 was the Raiders' smallest for a regular-season game since 1973. Joe Theismann threw for two TDs and ran for one for the Redskins.

Chargers 30, Broncos 13
San Diego intercepted six Denver passes, with Glen Edwards returning one 68 yards for a TD in the Chargers' 24-point second period that broke open their game. Another interception, by Woodrow Lowe, preceded Dan Fouts' 22-yard TD pass to Charlie Joiner.

Patriots 37, Seahawks 31
Steve Grogan threw three TD passes, two to Stanley Morgan and a 16-yarder to Don Hasselbeck with 2:52 to play, enabling the Patriots to turn back Seattle.

'Pistol Pete' Retiring

BOSTON (AP) — Less than two weeks ago onetime super star Pete Maravich signed a new contract with the Boston Celtics, saying: "My big goal is to earn a championship ring, and this could be just the year to do it."

That goal probably never will be achieved. Maravich quit the club Saturday morning, apparently ending his 10-year National Basketball Association career.

"Pete told me he had had it," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "He just didn't feel he could get himself up for another season."

"At age 32, and after 10 seasons, he felt he simply didn't have the desire it takes to get over the hump and face another season of traveling, another season of not seeing his child grow up."

In New Orleans, Maravich's father, former Louisiana State coach Press, said Pete's loss of enthusiasm may have prompted him to retire. He likened the action to Dave Cowens quitting the Celtics for several weeks two years ago.

"He called me and just told me he's given it some thought," said Maravich, who coached his son at LSU. "I didn't really talk to him about it. He made a decision and I let it go at that."

Fitch said that Pistol Pete, one of the NBA's all-time great shooters and a two-time scoring champion, would be welcomed back, but added: "I doubt that'll happen. He probably has retired for good. I think his decision is irrevocable."

Before flying to New Orleans Saturday, Maravich called Fitch and said: "I think I've shot one basketball too many."

Maravich was scheduled for a reserve role as a shooting guard with the Celtics this season, even though veteran Tiny Archibald is holding out for a new contract. Veterans Chris Ford and Gerald Henderson were ahead of Maravich.

"I wasn't counting on Pete any more than last season, so it wasn't a situation of Pete letting us down," Fitch said.

Maravich signed with the Celtics last January after the Utah Jazz bought out his contract, reportedly for $1.8 million for 2½ years to go. At the time he said: "I've been trying to get here for 10 years. I've always wanted to be a Celtic."

After a few weeks of conditioning himself with punishing workouts, Maravich played in 26 games for Boston, averaging 11.5 points in helping the Celtics post the NBA's best regular season record.

After averaging 44.2 points a game in three years at LSU, Maravich signed with the Atlanta Hawks for $1.9 million, the highest salary paid a rookie at the time. He spent four years with Atlanta before going to the expansion New Orleans Jazz.

Allison Slips, Slides To Victory

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Allison slipped and slid to victory Sunday in a 400-lap NASCAR race at the North Wilkesboro Speedway.

Allison, who drove a Thunderbird, stole the lead from Darrell Waltrip with 19 laps remaining on the ¾-mile track. He finished 1.9 seconds ahead of Waltrip, who was followed by Dave Marcis' Chevrolet.

A record crowd of about 25,000 watched the cars slip around the track, which was so slick the pace car even spun and crashed. The Winston Cup circuit event was run under eight caution flags for 114 laps, mainly because of spins and wrecks resulting from treacherous track conditions.

"It was a disgrace to run a race on a track like this," said Allison, a 42-year-old from Hueytown, Ala. "It shows the general disregard NASCAR officials have for the competitors. The way the asphalt was breaking up they might as well have taken a truck load of marbles and dumped 'em out there."

Allison averaged only 75.510 mph in his Bud Moore-built car. He'll be leaving Moore after this season to join the Ranier Racing Team, whose current driver is Buddy Baker.

Allison's win is the slowest since 1960, when Lee Petty won the track's spring race at 66.350 mph. Allison started second after qualifying at 111.311 mph.

"Today was like the New York Yankees playing on a plowed field," said Cale Yarborough, who was involved in a fourth-turn crash with Richard Petty, one of two that Petty experienced.

"I've raced on smoother plowed fields," added Dale Earnhardt, who finished fifth behind Harry Gant. Both Chevrolet drivers were a lap down.

Earnhardt's showing helped put him 90 points ahead of Yarborough in the Grand National driving championship and 106 points over Petty. Five events remain in the season.

The pace car crash came on lap 352 as driver Bruce Altar attempted to swing onto pit road off the fourth turn as the field got the green. The car careened out of control and slammed into the parked Chevrolet of racer Bub Strickler.

An asphalt sealing solution was put down in an unsuccessful effort to improve track conditions. Resin was spread both Friday and Saturday nights, but to no avail.

Allison, winning at North Wilkesboro for the fourth time, led four times for 114 laps and collected $17,675 from the $114,815 purse.

"I was able to take the low groove, below the slick stuff, and that was the difference," Allison said.

How J. H. Hudson keeps your building from costing too much and taking too long:

Putting up a new building too often means paying more than you expected and taking longer than you thought.

The most frequent reason? No one person is clearly in control. That can cause a basic communication breakdown among all parties involved, resulting in confusion, cost overruns and missed deadlines.

But we offer you a team of construction professionals capable of controlling your entire project...concept to completion.

We can handle all the details — planning, rights-of-way, permits, construction, even landscaping. We'll make sure you get your building on-time and on-budget. And we'll do it using construction methods and building systems that can cut up to 40% off some conventional building timetables.

So if your next building has time and budget limitations, call us. We'll give you both the building and the control you need.

Guiry, Flanagan Return To Form

Woody Peele

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Both Ron Guiry and Mike Flanagan have been considerably off their Cy Young Award forms this season.

But both left-handers looked right Sunday. Guiry pitched seven strong innings to help the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox 3-0 and Flanagan hurled a solid eight as his Baltimore Orioles defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 2-1 and kept the American League East race viable.

"My slider is probably back where it should be," said Guiry after checking the Red Sox on three hits and recording a season-high nine strikeouts in his seven-inning stint. "It was the best one I've had in a while. That's what I worked on in the bullpen."

Guiry, who won the Cy Young Award in 1978, termed it "the best game I've thrown since the Milwaukee game," referring to a four-hit shutout of the Brewers on July 23.

"They didn't hit a lot of balls hard and I moved the ball around quite a bit. It was mostly because of my slider. I got a lot of strikeouts on it and it didn't matter if they guessed it was coming because it was breaking down in the dirt."

It was Guiry's second start since returning to the rotation after a stint as a relief pitcher during which he apparently found his missing slider.

Flanagan, the Cy Young winner last season, gave up but four hits to the Blue Jays in his eight innings of work. Flanagan made only 77 pitches, but didn't come out for the ninth inning because his shoulder tightened up.

"There was no sense in pushing it," he said. "I'd really like to contribute in making any charge at New York. If we can run out the rest of our games, we can force them to lose."

The Yankees lead the Orioles by four games with 13 left to play.

Flanagan, a 23-game winner last season, had posted a 6.02 earned run average in nine previous starts while lasting as long as the sixth inning only twice.

This time Flanagan, 15-12, gave up only one run on John Mayberry's 28th homer in the fourth before getting last-inning relief help from Tippy Martinez and Tim Stoddard, who gained his 24th save.

Wayne Gross drove in five runs with two homers to lead Oakland over Kansas City behind Mike Norris' six-hitter. Two of the runs off Norris, 21-8, came on a homer by George Brett, the only hit by the major league's leading hitter in four at-bats. Brett, who was hitting .400 after Friday night's game, dropped to .394.

Angels 9, Rangers 2
Jason Thompson drove in three runs with two singles and scored twice as California defeated Texas. Jim Barr, 1-3, scattered eight hits before reliever Don Aase came in to quell a Texas rally in the sixth.

Tigers 13, Indians 1
Steve Kemp stroked a pair of two-run doubles and Jack Morris, 15-14, and Pat Underwood combined on a six-hitter as Detroit defeated Cleveland. Tom Brookers' three-run homer capped a seven-run first inning and the Tigers added two more runs in the third off loser Dan Spillner, 15-11.

Mariners 7, Brewers 5
Willie Horton and Bruce Bochte hit two-run homers, powering Seattle over Milwaukee. Glenn Abbott, 11-11, and three relievers combined to scatter 11 hits as the Mariners beat Milwaukee after eight straight losses to the Brewers.

The Mariners scored their eventual winning run by tallying twice in the seventh on a single by Larry Milbourne and Bochte's 12th homer.

Twins 5-6, White Sox 4-4
Ken Landreaux's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning provided the tie-breaking run as Minnesota beat Chicago in the first game of their doubleheader.

It becomes obvious now that East Carolina University made a tactical mistake early in the season. Well, in fact, back before that.

It allowed Tommy Bowden to get away from the staff. Bowden, a graduate assistant here, and thus a part-time coach, was offered a full-time position at Auburn and accepted it.

Perhaps, Saturday night, it would have been better for the Pirates had Bowden still been on the staff.

Across the field, Bowden's father, Bobby, coached Florida State. And he had no mercy on the Pirates, running the score up and up long after the Pirates were obviously on their knees. Maybe if Tommy had still been around, he would have been a little kinder.

Nevertheless, the lopsidedness of the victory showed that the Pirate program still has a way to grow before it can approach that type of national caliber. Hopefully, it will get to that stature some day.

And hopefully when it does, the coaching staff will be a little more merciful to its opponents. A win is a win, and calling off the dogs a little earlier would have been better than rubbing noses in the dirt.

It's nothing new to either team, however. Just a few years ago, people were doing the same thing to Florida State, then one of the doormats of the south. Under Bowden, the program has grown, but it's taken hard work, lots of money from the boosters, and one other thing that East Carolina cannot compete against.

Florida has only two other natural rivals in the state, Florida and Miami. No other football schools in the state attain their stature or are among the Division I ranks.

Here in North Carolina, things are different. East Carolina must compete with North Carolina, N.C. State, Duke, Wake Forest, Appalachian State and Western Carolina. There are seven Division I schools in the state, making it one of the most populous for schools in that classification. Only the likes of states like Ohio and Texas can match North Carolina.

It makes it tougher to compete for the players, the dollars and the fans. And for a growing school like East Carolina, it is even tougher to win away the fans from other schools, especially those who have climbed higher earlier.

The loss to Florida State, while not unexpected, should not be a killer for the Pirates. There are still a number of games ahead, and there will be opportunities for wins and upsets along the way.

No one said this would be an easy year. The team is faced with the toughest schedule ever. And it is having to compete with a very inexperienced squad, and a young one in addition.

We can remember back a few years ago, during the Sonny Randle days. The Pirates went up to Raleigh to open the season, the very vocal Ulmo Shannon's third. The Wolfpack handed the Pirates the same sort of beating, taking a 57-8 triumph.

There were many then who said that it was all over for SR and his fellows. For they were going up against a stronger foe the next week, and they surely would be beaten soundly then too. Then would begin the slide to the bottom.

Randle and his charges went into that game and came out with a 13-0 victory, and went on to lose only one more game on the way to a 9-2 season.

The foe in that second game? A familiar one. They'll be here Saturday evening: Southern Mississippi.

Maybe history will repeat itself.

Freedom Leads, 2-1

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Through a full summer of America's Cup racing, Freedom skipper Dennis Conner has been able to rely on his well-prepared racing sloop and concentrate on the competition.

Not this time. Conner had to navigate a sea of troubles Sunday on his way to a 53-second win over Australia and a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven cup finals.

A lay day requested by Australia for today puts off the fourth race of the series until Tuesday.

Conner saw two sails lost to the wind on Rhode Island Sound and a third foul in the rigging long enough for the challenging Australians to whittle away his comfortable lead on the next-to-last leg of the 24.3-mile course.

Only some fast work by Conner's well-drilled crew and a freshening breeze on the final leg saved Freedom's efforts to protect the New York Yacht Club's hold on the top prize in sailing.

Young Only 2nd To Win $200,000

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — Donna Caponi Young is only the second person in the history of the Ladies Professional Golf Association to win $200,000 in a single season.

The first, Beth Daniel, did it just a week ago, and Young figures it will be a battle to keep her newly won No. 1 ranking on the LPGA money list.

"It's anybody's ballgame," Young said Sunday after firing a 4-under-par 69 for a 5-stroke victory in a $100,000 LPGA tournament. "It'll be the last tournament of the year that'll determine the leading money winner."

Young's victory — her second straight on the tour — at the Brookridge Golf and Country Club added $15,000 to her 1980 winnings, which now total $207,766.35 with five tournaments left.

Young, who sat out the Overland Park tournament, is in second place with $202,108.76.

Young, who has been on the tour since 1965, fired five birdies—including three straight to open the round—and had just one bogey Sunday for a tournament-record 9-under-par 283.

She entered the round tied for the lead with Shelley Hamlin at 5-under-par, but Hamlin bogeyed the first hole and Young was up by four after her trio of birdies.

"Shelley played really well, but she didn't make as many putts as she did earlier in the week," said Young, whose lead never was smaller than 2 strokes after the first hole. "I felt I was playing too strong not to win the tournament."

Young's 15-foot birdie and Hamlin's three-putt bogey on the par-3 15th hole put Young up by five with three holes left and ended any comeback hopes that Hamlin might have had.

"She just never made any dumb moves. She never let any shots get away. When she made birds, she kept them," said Hamlin, who had four birdies and five bogeys enroute to a 74.

Picketing By Musicians

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Striking members of the North Carolina Symphony set up picket lines Sunday outside Memorial Auditorium, where two scheduled concerts were canceled during the weekend by the musicians' walkout.

Symphony spokesmen said a performance scheduled for Winston-Salem Tuesday has been postponed, but the fate of concerts scheduled in Chapel Hill and High Point later this week remained uncertain.

The musicians struck Friday night in support of demands for a new contract that includes higher pay, a longer concert season, and more musicians.

The symphony management's last offer included a 35-percent pay raise spread over the next three years with a two-week extension of the concert season during the third year.

A 40-week concert schedule now is being used. A management spokesman said the addition of six weeks would cost $500,000 to $700,000.

Meanwhile, some of the striking musicians called Sunday for more business contributions to help finance the symphony.

Symphony president R. Max Abbott said business donations accounted for $150,000 of the orchestra's $2.6 million budget last year.

Bassoonist Gregory A. Vaught, a member of the strike committee, said that donation was not enough.

"There's a lot of money out there. Look at the concert in Pullen Park," Vaught said, referring to an outdoor concert in Raleigh that drew 7,000 people on Labor Day.

"There could have been a sign up there that said, 'IBM—or Burlington Industries—presents the North Carolina Symphony,'" Vaught said.

Absentees In Baltimore Debate Could Be 'Winners In Absentia'

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — One president and one television network failed to show up for the televised presidential debate Sunday night.

The two of them may be declared winners in absentia. ABC, which stayed away from the League of Women Voters event, broadcast the movie "Midnight Express." CBS and NBC were stuck with "Verbal Excess."

And President Carter's decision to dodge the thing, hitherto considered by many a bit unseemly, may prove a clever ploy after all.

If Sunday night's debate accomplished anything, it reminded us of what we may have forgotten about presidential TV debates; that is, they are not debates as much as they are campaign gauntlets, to be survived rather than won.

The televised presidential debate is an image test; to score points, you make sure your make-up man has taken care of your five o'clock shadow and you try to avoid saying anything exceptionally stupid.

In a sense, John Anderson and Ronald Reagan emerged on even terms, neither candidate having "shot himself in the foot" as they say in Washington.

But their mere presence for an hour on television had to hurt each man at least a little. Anderson was quick with answers, but he seemed a bit edgy, as if his shoes were too tight. Reagan appeared to be perfectly at ease but came across as a bit cornball.

It would be a bit too cynical, perhaps, to dismiss the debate as a beauty contest and nothing more.

But even the most generous observer would hesitate to classify it a meaningful encounter.

Each candidate lugged with him the heavy rhetorical baggage of his campaign, dipping in and out for fresh bromides as needed. When questioned about abortion, for example, Reagan paused dramatically, and with the air of a man about to be profound, uttered, "I notice that everyone who's for abortion has already been born."

And Anderson, when asked what he would do about the slack state of the armed forces, managed to ramble for nearly two minutes before answering the question. He would increase a soldier's pay to attract more volunteers.

For better or worse, a television debate is an occasion to observe a candidate's blemishes, a truth brought home to Richard Nixon in his famous 1960 debate with John F. Kennedy. To those who heard the debate on radio, Nixon seemed to have won. To those who saw the debate — and Nixon's shadowy, perspiring face on television, Kennedy was considered the winner.

It's possible, of course, that Carter's absence may be deemed a blemish as bothersome as Reagan's inclination to corn or Anderson's apparent discomfiture. The president is betting otherwise.

As for ABC, that network probably didn't enhance the image of its news division by skipping the debate to show "Midnight Express." ABC will however, be allowed to keep all the money made on the movie's commercials.

'Shogun' Audience Is Among Biggest

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC estimated Saturday that 125 million viewers saw all or part of its 12-hour "Shogun," a figure that would make it TV's second-highest-rated miniseries behind ABC's "Roots," which drew an audience of 130 million in 1977.

National ratings from the A.C. Nielsen Co. for the program's first four nights appeared to solidify the second-place position of "Shogun," which starred Richard Chamberlain and Toshirō Mifune and was adapted from James Clavell's novel about 17th century Japan.

Through Thursday night, "Shogun" had a rating of 33, which means it was watched at least in part by an average of 33 percent of the nation's TV-equipped home. That compared to a 45 rating for the eight-day run of "Roots."

NBC's "Holocaust" the previous runner-up miniseries had a rating of 31 in April 1978.

The national rating for Thursday night was 35, down slightly from 36.9 for Part III on Wednesday.

Overnight ratings for the concluding three-hour episode Friday night dipped slightly in three big cities, as they had for Part IV Thursday evening.

The decline Friday night was attributed to normally lower audiences for Friday night programming as well as to the start of Yom Kippur, the Jewish holiday.

National ratings for Friday night will be available Monday.

Here are the overnight ratings for three big cities, Monday through Friday:

New York — 34.1, 37, 40.2, 42, 36, for an average of 37.4.

Chicago — 32.2, 36.9, 40.5, 37.8, 37.2, for an average of 36.6.

Los Angeles — 33.3, 36.9, 40.9, 39.2, 37.7, for an average of 37.3.

In each of those cities, "Shogun" was seen in more than half the homes actually watching television each of the five nights.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ107 ♥AJ52 ♦AKQ73
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♦ 2 ♦ Dble. Pass

What action do you take?
A.—When you cue-bid the opponents' suit at your first turn, you announced an enormous hand and a desire to play in game. That condition still exists. Now, however, you don't know whether you want to play the hand or double the opponents for penalties. Let partner decide. Pass! This is a forcing pass and compels partner to either bid his best suit or double. You will, of course, abide by his decision.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ95 ♥A1093 ♦K7 ♠854
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♦ Pass Pass Dble.
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—You should insist on game, especially since your king of diamonds is well placed behind the preempter. However, you don't know which suit to select. A cue-bid of four diamonds will ask partner to name his better major suit. Since you passed over three diamonds, partner won't expect you to have more than you do, so don't worry about getting over-board.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠652 ♥K1083 ♦J7 ♠KQ107
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Dble.
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Partner's double of one no trump is equivalent to a takeout double of East's suit — hearts in this instance. However, he should have full values for his action because he is forcing you to bid at the two-level and he knows that the opponents have roughly half the deck in high cards. Considering the fact that you have hearts well stopped and are looking at 9 high card points opposite partner's probable 13 or 14, we would convert this double for penalties. The opponents have nowhere to go, and you can expect a sizable penalty.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠954 ♥A8752 ♦Q6 ♠KQ10
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♦ ?

What action do you take?
A.—It is not too often that we pose a question that cannot be answered with some degree of assurance. We have polled a number of experts, and most of them favored some sort of club raise. Surprisingly, a two heart response received little support. The feeling was that with such a weak suit opposite a partner who might have opened light in third seat, two hearts might end the auction — and prove to be a totally inferior contract.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK93 ♥A84 ♦A1073 ♠95
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
1 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Slipped in a real easy one, didn't we? You have a balanced minimum opening bid and partner was not inspired to do more than respond one no trump. There is no earthly reason why you should contemplate anything other than a pass.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠6 ♥KQ109652 ♦9852 ♠8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
5 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—They still pay a bonus for bidding a slam, don't they? Simply on the strength that your hearts were rebid-able, partner was prepared to contract for eleven tricks. Among other things, his three-suited auction guaranteed no more than a singleton diamond. It is inconceivable that, with such a fine trump suit, there should be the slightest problem raking in twelve tricks. Bid six hearts.

British Develop Better Missile

LONDON (AP) — Britain has developed a new, improved version of the Polaris nuclear missile undetectable by enemy radar, the country's domestic news agency, the Press Association, reported today.

Quoting "various sources," the agency said the new missile, named Chevaline, cost $2.38 billion to develop. Even the so-called "death ray" laser beams which the Soviet Union is reported building for its anti-ballistic missile defenses would be ineffective against the new British weapon, it added.

The agency said the key to the new missile is its ability to "blind" opposition radar systems. The aim is to make defenders either shoot at the wrong target or fail to see the missile at all.

It said test flights from Cape Kennedy, Fla., already have proved highly successful, but there have been a "normal share of failures" and further tests are needed.

Philadelphia Teachers Vote On New Contract

By The Associated Press
 Striking Philadelphia teachers and other school employees were voting today on a tentative agreement to end the nation's largest public school strike and clear the way for 220,000 students to end a prolonged summer vacation.

Tentative settlements also were being considered today in two other large strikes — in San Jose, Calif., and Bellevue, Wash.

The nine-member Philadelphia was also meeting today to ratify the two-year pact hammered out by district and union negotiators and Mayor William Green in two marathon sessions over the weekend.

The 22-day strike by 23,000 public school employees centered on wages, class size and job security. Details of the tentative agreement were not released.

"This is a tentative agreement, while not perfect, we can all live with," said Philadelphia Federation of Teachers President John Murray.

If approved, classes could begin as early as Tuesday, officials said.

The union's executive board approved the tentative pact by a 32-1 vote at a meeting shortly after the negotiators adjourned Sunday afternoon following a 20-hour bargaining session.

The PFT represents 11,000 teachers and 12,000 other employees, including teacher aides, child care workers and administrative personnel. The average annual salary for teachers currently is $23,300.

The strike began Sept. 1, and so far has caused students to miss 10 scheduled days of school.

Teacher strikes continued in 13 other districts across Pennsylvania, with about 71,000 students and 3,500 teachers affected.

Elsewhere, administrators and teachers reached a tentative agreement Sunday to end a three-week strike in the 19,000-student Bellevue School District in Washington. Teachers were returning to prepare their classrooms today, and were to vote on the accord tonight.

In California, the two sides reported a tentative agreement in the San Jose Unified School District, where 1,600 teachers walked out three weeks ago in a dispute over wages. Some 33,000 students were affected.

Officials said the teachers would vote on the proposal later today. Further details were not immediately available.

And in Michigan, 3,350 teachers were on strike in 13 districts, affecting 69,700 students. The 700 teachers in the 14,000-student Port Huron district said they again would ignore a judge's week-old back-to-work order today. St. Clair County Circuit Judge James Corden will consider jailing or fining the teachers at a hearing Tuesday.

GUERRILLA BATTLE SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — National guardsmen fought guerrillas in mountains near the Honduran border Sunday, killing many of them, a national guard source says.
