According to Winterville Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, lightning struck a transformer outside the house of Ervin Spain, 913 Main St., knocking out the power all night and destroying his television. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Foes Win A Round In Fighting Inclusion In Thoroughfare Plan

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Residents of Sedgfield Park won round one of their effort to have a portion of the proposed Sedgfield Drive deleted from the Thoroughfare Plan as the Joint City-County Planning & Zoning Commission voted to recommend the move to the City Council.

The planning board vote, which saw Wes Hankins dissenting, followed a rather lengthy discussion with the residents on their request to delete the Sedgfield segment proposed from Hooker Road to St. Andrews Drive.

Kelly Adams, a resident of St. Andrews Drive, presented a petition from the neighborhood supporting the request to delete the corridor and stating opposition to the development of Sedgfield Drive through the residential area. Adams said that residents have been attending city board meetings for two years in an effort to protect their neighborhood. He mentioned that buffer problems existed first and now residents are faced with prospects of having a thoroughfare through the subdivision.

It was pointed out that the council had already amended the Thoroughfare Plan by deleting Sedgfield Drive from Evans Street westward to the railroad in response to expansion plans by Union Carbide. Adams said that the plan is not irrevocable as evidenced by the amendment involving the Union Carbide section.

Harvey Bradshaw, who owns property off Hooker

Road that Sedgfield Drive is proposed to cross, said that he believes the segment should be taken off the thoroughfare proposal. Bradshaw said that if Sedgfield is deleted, he would redesign Fairlane Farms and put two access points on Hooker Road to handle the traffic.

Other residents also expressed objections to the future development of Sedgfield Drive through their neighborhood, citing traffic dangers with regard to their children and objecting to dividing the residential area into two parts.

The city's director of engineering, Ron Sewell, mentioned that the council had approved a reduction in the right-of-way of the proposed corridor from 80 to 60 feet. Sewell suggested that if and when the segment is developed, it would not be a major thoroughfare but more of a residential collector street such as Belvedere Drive.

The city official said that a representative of the state highway department has stated that he does not think the state will recommend to delete the segment from the plan.

Bradshaw argued that the city, not the state, initiated the deletion of the section involving Union Carbide and he said the citizens were asking the city to take the Hooker Road to St. Andrews Drive segment off the plan.

Planning Director Bobby Roberson said that amendments to the thoroughfare plan require a joint resolution from the city and state. He added that the state agreed to removal of the section involving Union Carbide expansion.

A motion by commissioner J. T. Manning to continue action on the matter for further study died for lack of a second. The vote to recommend that the Council amend the plan passed by a six-to-one margin.

In other business on the joint board's agenda, commissioners voted to approve the modification of design standards for parking facilities.

Iraq Lists Objectives In Four-Day War With Iran

By STEVE K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer
BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq announced its territorial objectives today in the four-day-old war in which its forces claimed the capture of 115 square miles of Iranian border territory. Iran said invading Iraqi forces had been pushed back in one area and reported for the first time the capture of a border post inside Iraq.

Iranian jets made their deepest penetration yet into Iraq, bombing a gas refinery at Ayn Zala, 280 miles northeast of Baghdad and 400 miles from the nearest Iranian air base, the Iraqis reported.

In Beirut, Iraqi Defense Minister Adnan Khairallah listed the goals of his country as: Redefinition of parts of the Iraq-Iran border; protection of the Arabic-speaking minority in southern Iran, and the return to Arab sovereignty of the islands of Abu Mousa and the Greater and Lesser Tunbs. The islands were seized by Iran in 1971.

At U.S. government urging, 53 American civilians — 46 businessmen and their families and seven dependents of members of the U.S. Embassy staff — left Baghdad by bus for Amman, Jordan, a trip that normally takes 15-18 hours. U.S. diplomats were not being advised to leave Iraq for the time being.

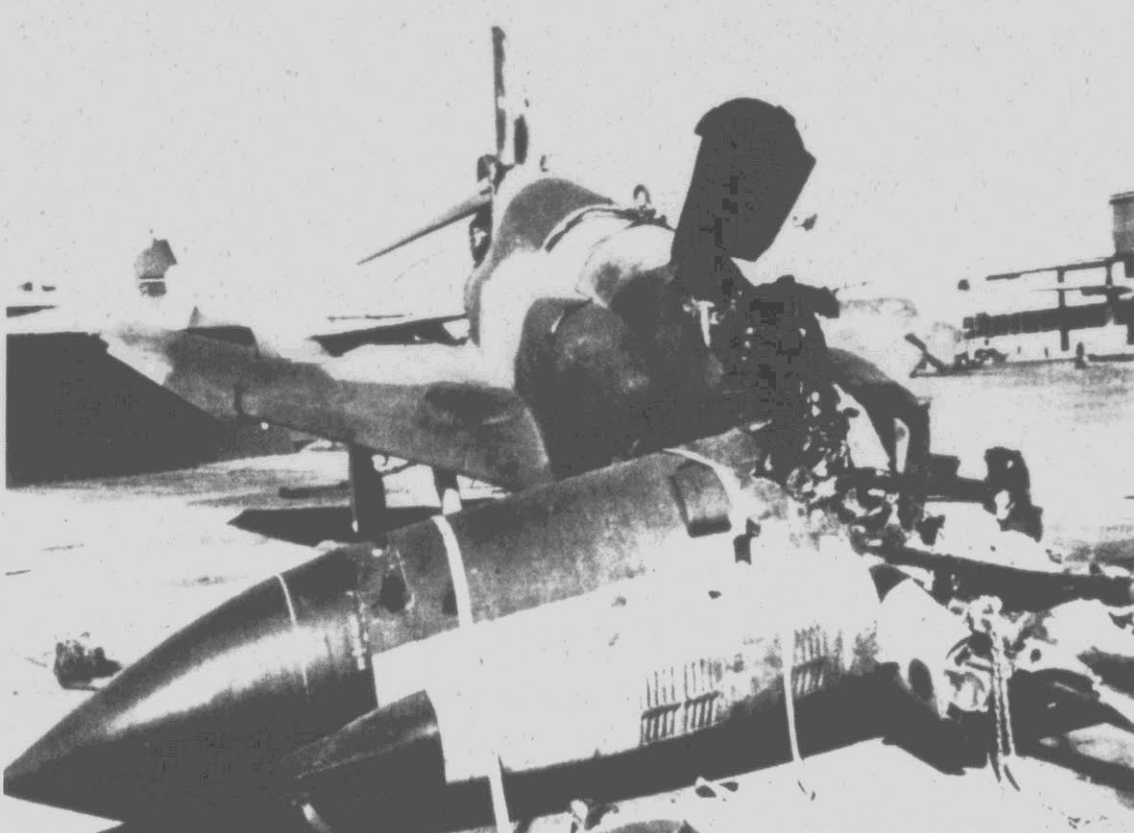

A chartered plane arrived in Amsterdam, Netherlands, with other American evacuees from Iraq. They included 241 employees of a New Jersey construction company and their families.

Foreign diplomats said they were making plans to evacuate European, Japanese, Korean and Filipino civilians working in Iraq.

Military communiques issued here and in Tehran indicated ground and air activity had not let up. Both Iran and Iraq have halted shipments of oil, not a major worry to the world for the present, but the war threatens to halt shipments from other oil-producing countries in the Persian Gulf.

But oil tankers were reported moving normally today through the Strait of Hormuz, the gulf's outlet to the sea and the world's main oil artery. Saudi Arabia and other Gulf countries have put their armed forces on alert as a self-defense precaution, highly placed sources reported.

The Iraqi command said its troops and tanks seized the Iranian border town of Naftshah today while other Iraqi forces raised the flag over Mehran, 90 miles to the south.

IRANIAN PLANE DESTROYED — The wreckage of an Iranian Phantom F4 jet littered the tarmac at Mehrabad airport in Tehran. The plane's nose was blown off during an Iraqi air raid on the airport. A number of aircraft were destroyed but the airport itself was not seriously damaged. (AP Laserphoto)

Iraq said its troops took Mehran Wednesday after completing the capture of the major Iranian border town of Qasr-e-Shirin, 350 miles southwest of Tehran, taking 351 prisoners and pursuing fleeing Iranian soldiers to Sar-e-Pol-Zahab, about 20 miles inside the border.

Iran conceded its troops retreated in the Mehran area and said the Iraqis also seized nearby Salehabad. An Iranian communique said fighting was continuing in the Qasr-e-Shirin area and claimed the invading Iraqi forces had been forced to retreat.

The Iranian news agency Pars quoted a communique saying Iranian forces had captured the Iraqi border post of Chalamche. Pars did not specify the location of this post and Chalamche does not appear on major maps. This is the first position inside Iraq that Iran has claimed to overrun since the war erupted.

In the air war, an Iraqi communique said Iranian jets hit the Ayn Zala refinery, only 15 miles from the Syrian border; Doura oil refinery on the outskirts of Baghdad; oil installations and airports in the northern cities of Kirkuk and Mosul and residential areas and economic installations in the northern Kurdish town of Irbil.

The Iraqi air force retaliated by attacking and heavily damaging six airports and military installations inside Iran, the Baghdad command said. The communique claimed Iraqi ground-to-air missiles and anti-aircraft guns downed 18 Iranian American-made planes, bringing the toll reported by the Iraqis since Monday to 139, almost a third of Iran's air force.

No Government-In-Exile, Yet

PARIS (AP) — Shahpour Bakhtiar, Iran's last prime minister before the Khomeini regime took power, has not formed a government-in-exile and has no immediate plans to do so in light of the Iran-Iraq border war, a spokeswoman for Bakhtiar said today.

An American newspaper, the Atlanta Constitution, today reported that Iranian exiles bent on overthrowing Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini expect Iraq to recognize Bakhtiar as leader of a provisional Iranian government.

The newspaper, quoting unidentified Iranian opposition sources in the West, said the coalition of exiles would be led by Bakhtiar and Gen. Gholam Oveissi, with Ayatollah Khomeini, an Iranian living in Iraq, serving as leader of the clergy.

But Bakhtiar's secretary said today that the report was not true. She added that Bakhtiar is in Paris, not Baghdad.

Other Iranian sources close to Bakhtiar acknowledge that both he and Oveissi have close relations with Iraq and said it would not be surprising that if such a government-in-exile ever formed Iraq would recognize it.

"But somebody first must form this government," the source, who declined to be identified, said. "I know that Bakhtiar has not produced any government-in-exile."

In its report, the Constitution said prominent Iranian anti-Khomeini ayatollahs in both battling countries intend to denounce Khomeini as a false holy man and call on the Shiite Islamic people of Iran to renounce their allegiance to him.

Iraq has permitted both Bakhtiar and Oveissi to broadcast daily messages from radio transmitters located in Baghdad, Iraq's capital, the newspaper said.

Iraqi officials in Washington declined comment on the report.

Since last spring, Iraqis have assisted Kurdish tribesmen who have been fighting, with the blessings of Bakhtiar and Oveissi, against Iranian forces, the newspaper said.

Other Iranian sources said thousands of Iranian officers and men who have fled persecution from Khomeini's frequent military purges are gathering throughout the West to invade Iran under the direction of Oveissi and other exiled Iranian generals, the Constitution said.

"We are just waiting for the call," a former Iranian Air Force squadron commander was quoted as saying. "We expect it to come soon." The Constitution did not identify the commander.

Bakhtiar and Oveissi, along with other exiled Iranian politicians and military figures, have been plotting for months to stage a coup that would restore a pro-Western government in Iran, the report said.

SANDBAG SOURCE?

Is there any place in this area that a private property owner can purchase government issue sandbags that can be used as retaining walls around drainage canals to protect topsoil from being washed away during high water? Mrs. R. M.

Albert Coffey of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service said he's never heard of government issue sandbags. He said he believes that contractors for the SCS fill burlap bags with a mixture of cement and sand, but he's not sure of the proportions.

The Agriculture Extension Service could not tell us the proportions or a source either. If any of our readers can help, we'll be glad to pass along the information.

ATTENDS MEMORIAL SERVICE — Governor Jim Hunt and Mrs. Robert Morgan arrive this morning to attend memorial services for

Mrs. Lillian Jenkins, wife of Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor emeritus for ECU. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Rites Held For Mrs. Jenkins

"Faith and hope were her constant companions...love was her essence," the Rev. Dewey Tyson, pastor of St. James United Methodist Church said as he eulogized the late Mrs. Lillian Olga Jenkins during a memorial service this morning.

Mrs. Jenkins, 64, the wife of East Carolina University Chancellor Emeritus Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday. She and Dr. Jenkins had made their home at Pine Knoll Shores since Dr. Jenkins retired as chancellor of ECU in 1978.

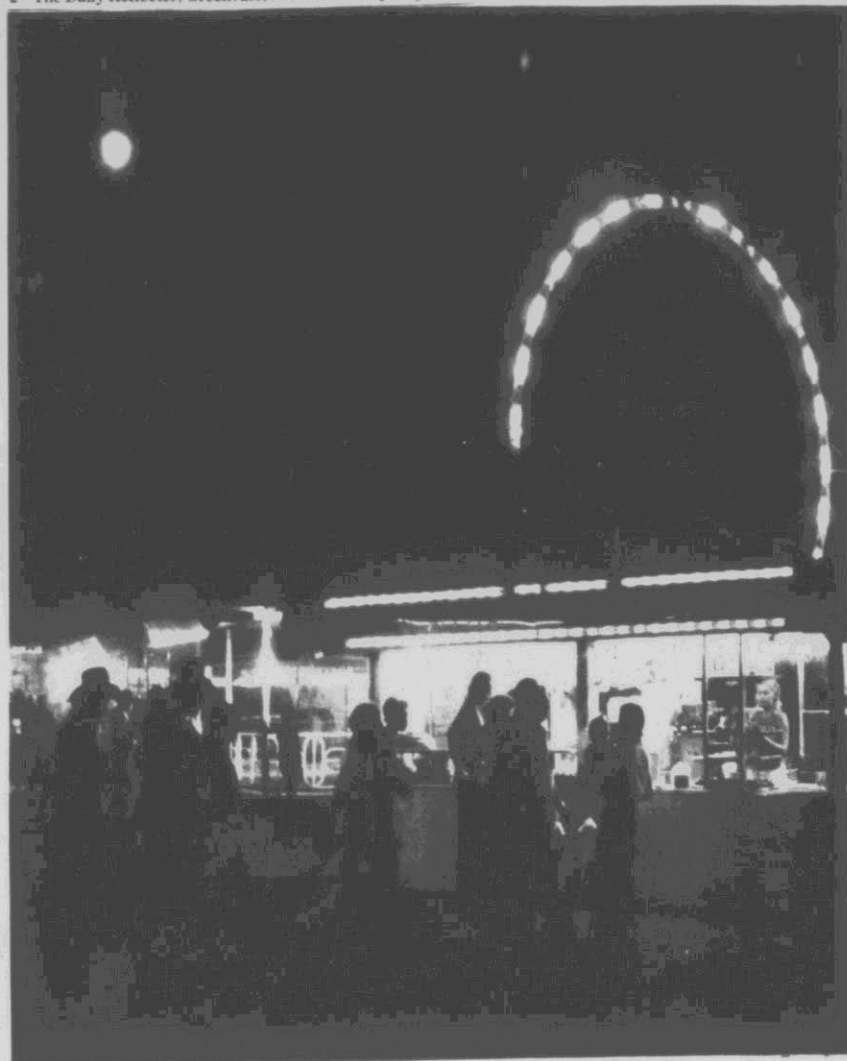

An estimated 550 persons attended the memorial service at St. James. Among those attending the service were Gov. Jim Hunt, members of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina, past and present members of the faculty, staff and administration of the university, several members of the North Carolina General Assembly, and friends of the Jenkins family.

"Your presence here speaks highly," Rev. Tyson said, of what people who knew Mrs. Jenkins thought of her.

He continued the simple ceremony by saying Mrs. Jenkins was, "a Christian who loved God...her family...her fellow man." As mother to six children, Mrs. Jenkins was, "content to be of assistance in the home, working with these children," a "quiet spirit content to stay in the background, but you always knew she was there. There was a quietness and warmth in her presence."

Rev. Tyson noted that, "in death, she kept giving of herself," by donating her body to the ECU School of Medicine.

Mrs. Jenkins, "possessed a quality of love seldom seen. Live and let live was her philosophy..." believing that people should be, "free to live, grow and accomplish."

Rescue Truck, Car Collide Wednesday

An estimated $2,700 property damage resulted from a 9:52 p.m. collision here yesterday involving a Greenville Fire/Rescue Department rescue truck and a car.

Investigators said the collision occurred on West Fifth Street at the intersection of the access road leading to Pitt Memorial Hospital's emergency room, some 70 feet east of the city limits.

Police identified the driver of the rescue vehicle as Peter Crawford Eure Jr. of 100 South Summit St., and listed the driver of the car involved as Stanley O'Neal Grimsley Jr. of 1048 East Rocksprings Road. According to officers, who made no charges in connection with the collision, the rescue vehicle was headed north along the access road, responding to an emergency call with its warning devices operating. As it neared the intersection, the vehicle skidded on the wet pavement, ran through the intersection, and collided with the Grimsley car which was traveling along West Fifth Street.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $700 to the Grimsley car and $2,000 to the city-owned rescue truck.

Five Savings & Loan Associations To Consider Consolidation Move

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Directors of five North Carolina state-chartered savings and loan associations have agreed to consider consolidation into one unit that would offer combined assets of about $100 million.

Associations involved are Appalachian Savings and Loan of Asheville, Century Savings and Loan of Hendersonville, First Capital Savings and Loan of Durham, First Carolina Savings and Loan of Winston-Salem and Scottish Savings and Loan of Greensboro.

Combined capitalization of the proposed consolidated association would be more than $10 million.

The plan is subject to approval by the directors and shareholders of each association, the administrator of the Savings and Loan Division of the state Department of Commerce, and the North Carolina Savings Guarantee Corp., which insures deposits in the associations.

Take With Grain Of Aspirin

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister died a few years back after a lengthy illness. Her husband (I'll call him Ed) promised her on her deathbed that he would never marry again.
Our close-knit group always paired Ed off with a widow in our group, and we still feel that she was sufficient company for him. Lately we've heard that Ed has been seeing another widow. In fact, she hadn't been a widow very long when their friendship began. We are all very upset because we heard that she is the type who won't let go until she marries him. That wouldn't be fair to the memory of his dear, departed wife, nor to his relatives and close friends. What should we say to Ed about this?

MIDWEST HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: Don't say anything. Most deathbed promises are made under severe emotional stress, and should be taken with a grain of aspirin. The memory of Ed's dear, departed wife will in no way be desecrated should Ed find happiness in another marriage. And those who truly love him will rejoice.

DEAR ABBY: I started to go to a new young dentist who shares an office with another dentist. I am pleased with his work, but here's the problem.
The first time I was in the dentist's chair, the other dentist came in a couple of times and started a conversation with my dentist that had nothing to do with dentistry.
The next time I was in the chair, this other dentist was not working, but he came in attired in tennis shorts and had his young son with him, and they both made small talk with my dentist while he was working on me.
But yesterday was very upsetting when the other dentist and his wife, both (in shorts) came in, and the wife carried on a long conversation in a very loud voice with the dental assistant who was helping my dentist.
Abby, when I am in the dentist's chair, I think I deserve my dentist's total attention as well as complete privacy.
Am I expecting too much? And how should this be handled? No names please, as this is a small town and we are in business.

UNHAPPY PATIENT

DEAR PATIENT: You are not expecting too much. It would be a kindness to tell this young, inexperienced dentist that you resent the intrusions and lack of privacy. If he's wise, he'll be grateful for the criticism and do something about it. If not, find a dentist who runs a more professional office.

DEAR ABBY: There was a very important message in the letter from a woman who turned up pregnant after her husband had a vasectomy but failed to go back to his doctor for a final check.
Couples should continue using birth control methods until the seminal fluid is completely free from all those little baby-making bugs. This may take several months following a vasectomy.
I personally know of one divorce because two months after the husband had a vasectomy, his wife turned up pregnant, and he just "knew" he couldn't have fathered a child. (He could.)

SPERM COUNTER

DEAR ABBY: The last three times we have been invited to a wedding, I have called the bride's mother and asked if her daughter was registered, or if she had some suggestions on what the bride could use.
All three times, the mother has hemmed and hawed, and ended up saying, "They have so many things already," or, "She's been on her own for some time and has everything she needs, so why don't you just give them the cash instead? I'm sure they can use it."
Abby, I have never given money for a wedding gift, and I don't intend to start now.
I plan to send a gift, and I don't care if it's the only gift they receive. Am I wrong?
DISGUSTED IN WISCONSIN
DEAR DISGUSTED: No. You asked the bride's mother for some "suggestions." She offered one. But you are not obligated to accept it.

How To Please An Assassin

Sirhan Sirhan, who assassinated Robert F. Kennedy, has had two months knocked off his prison sentence for good behavior. With further reductions he could be released as soon as February, 1984.

Maybe that won't happen, but the fact that it could doesn't speak well for our parole system.

The man committed a cold blooded murder and, in the process, deprived the people of the United States from deciding if Robert F. Kennedy would be president.

If we want to encourage some other malcontent to do something similar, we can release Sirhan Sirhan and other political assassins. To the twisted mind, that would be the ultimate in glory.

Evaluation Plan Laid to Rest

The State Highway Patrol has ended an evaluation plan based partially on the number of summons written the troopers.

Officials said they received critical calls about the plan and also there was the possibility of the patrol's credibility being questioned in traffic cases taken to trial.

The original evaluation plan was not soundly thought out. Now the plan has been laid to rest and that is best for the Highway Patrol and the public.

THIS AFTERNOON

Law Hits Elderly

RALEIGH — Thousands of North Carolinians have lost their homestead exemption breaks on local property taxes this year because of a change in procedure.

The deadline for filing with local tax offices in the 100 counties application for the homestead exemption for the elderly or disabled came on April 15 this year for the first time. The date had been December 21.

There is no way to tell how many elderly lost their property tax break as a result of the change, but judging from preliminary information from around the state, the number is substantial.

Complicating the matter for the elderly who have lost their exemption this year is the bureaucratic interpretation of the law changing the deadline. Local tax supervisors are apparently flatly refusing to consider an application received late.

The General Assembly last year changed the deadline at the request of tax supervisors and county commissioners who complained that they needed financial information in time to make up their budgets. Waiting until December 21 threw their budget plans into confusion.

BILL NOBLITT

have information to make up their budgets, etc.

Blame

Local tax officials are broadly placing the blame on the law change adopted by the General Assembly; not mentioning that they were the ones who pushed for the change. Local officials are adopting the position that the law will not allow them to make an adjustment if that deadline was missed.

State Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, chairman of the Council on Aging and chief architect of the homestead exemption law in this state, said one of the problems is that local officials took no pain to see that affected taxpayers were notified of the date change.

And this foulup is not the only problem with the homestead exemption, says Messer. The study council is now looking into other problems: exemption of $7,500 in property valuation is too small in such inflationary times; local revaluations are pushing taxes out of sight for the elderly on fixed incomes; and the $9,000 income ceiling to qualify for an exemption can be exceeded even by increased Social Security benefits.

Other Editors Say The Right To Worry

(Washington Daily News)

With the U.S. congress still in session and a national election coming up on November 4 this is the time in our lives when we have a right to be real worried about government itself.

With a president to be elected, with all members of the U.S. House to be elected, and with 34 U.S. senators to be elected, politics rules the roost; and if we would like to think or say that reason or wisdom or right is the order of the day, we could be ever so wrong.

Every vote the congress takes now is with an eye on politics and the national election. And with the concept of being reelected outweighing service to mankind, we as everyday Americans living out in the hustings of the land can be in trouble.

The congress itself talks ever so kindly about a tax cut. It is always good politics to talk about cutting taxes just before an election. And both presidential candidates have tax cutting plans of their own which they are proclaiming long and loudly.

When the new congress comes into being in January, we hardly will hear a whisper about some of the very legislative proposals being given top billing now. With the election over, why worry?

Of course not all will take that attitude. But many will, and today, some six weeks before the election, a majority of congress is against any bill or any move that might lose a vote even if the move is necessary.

The battlerey ought to be "wait until next year". There'll be a big difference, and the big difference could spell deep trouble for the average fellow on the farms, in the stores or factories, or in the offices of America.

We do have a right to worry right now. What the politicians do right now might well tell a big story in the months and years ahead. We've even put the release of the hostages on the back burner until after November 4.

What we are perhaps saying is that government itself is out of true focus for the time being. We hear the loud rantings of politicians but seldom do we hear the calm assurance of the statesmen. The fight right now is not really for what the country needs but for what the candidates need — votes.

Strength For Today

HONOR THY BODY

In reading the Bible we often miss the point that the body is very important in the spiritual life.

Often we get and hold firm to the idea that the body is the enemy of the soul. We quote the statement, "The flesh lusteth against the spirit and the spirit against the flesh," and conclude that the body is bad — the antithesis to the soul.

The body is sometimes indeed the enemy of the soul — very often, in fact — but it is not intended to be so. The Bible tells us that the body is the temple of the Holy Spirit. Jesus was raised from the grave with the same body in which he suffered, and the Bible unmistakably seems to teach that the physical body with which Christ arose from the grave was not forsaken but glorified in his ascension into heaven.

If we grasp the teachings of the New Testament in their fullness, we come to regard the body as a divine instrument, something beloved and honored by God. — Elisha Douglass

Washington Dateline Interpretations Count

By WERNER KALTEFLEITER

A decisive change in Western political strategy took place in the 1960s. The West mis-read the character of the real conflict with the Soviet Union. The Western perception of detente "seemed" to correspond to the Soviet concept of peaceful co-existence. In reality, it turns out that these are completely contrary concepts.

1. The concept of detente basically accepts the distribution of influence around the world. Peaceful co-existence has the strategic purpose of assuring favorable conditions for the world-wide victory of socialism.

2. The concept of detente wants to avoid the use of military forces. Peaceful co-existence is directed toward creating and maintaining military superiority of the socialist countries which can be used for a variety of purposes.

3. The concept of detente wants to create a permanent status quo situation whereas peaceful co-existence does not seek the preservation of the social or political status quo but is an expansionist strategy associated with the prospect of further deepening and extending the so-called inevitable development of the world revolutionary process.

4. The Western concept of detente reduces the readiness and willingness for further defense efforts and the perception of the systemic conflict via western trade, technology and credits while Soviet-style peaceful co-existence allows for an even higher defense budget and new weapon systems.

5. The concept of detente assumes that the leadership on both sides adheres to the same strategic concepts, e.g., the concept of mutual assured destruction. But the Soviet Union does not believe in this western concept. Therefore peaceful co-existence does not represent any fundamental reconciliation between the rival camps.

6. The concept of detente postulates avoidance of all-out nuclear war as the goal of highest priority; but even under the concept of peaceful coexistence and in the nuclear era weapons — in the Soviet strategy — does not lose their utility as an instrument of politics.

7. The concept of detente believes in a common responsibility of the superpowers; peaceful coexistence does not.

8. The concept of detente believes in an independent third world beyond the western and the communist world. This multi-polar world is a concept denied by the Soviet Union, because under peaceful coexistence it is the duty of the Soviet regime to support so-called national liberation movements to give the historic process of communist world rule a push on every possible occasion.

9. The concept of detente accepts the communist system as a reality; peaceful coexistence is the political instrument in the struggle for world dominion and the tool to prepare the transformation from capitalism to communism. Peaceful coexistence is a specific type of class struggle in the international arena.

10. The concept of detente was designed to create voter support and has done so. It therefore gained its own dynamics which make it difficult for western leaders to change their foreign policy concepts even in times of crises. Peaceful coexistence is at permanent disposal of the Soviet leadership in case another strategy seems to be more appropriate.

Books For A Dread Time

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, Conn.
(AP) — War clouds gathered swiftly over the placid French Riviera in that early autumn of 1939.

When Senegalese troops set up road blocks along the Corniche, William Somerset Maugham knew that the end of his inflexible well-ordered life at Villa Mauresque was at hand (Breakfast tray with newspapers at 8, bathe, go over menus with cook, write in den until 12:45, cold dry martini followed by lunch, nap at 2:30, then golf, tennis or correspondence depending on the weather, dinner at 8, preceded by another cold, dry martini...)

On Sept. 1, Germany invaded Poland. Jean, the chauffeur, was called up by the French army. Ernest, the butler, returned to Switzerland for mobilization. The harbor master at Villefranche ordered all foreign yachts to leave, as air raid wardens patrolled the docks, blowing their whistles if a light shone through a porthole. One day Maugham saw an anti-aircraft battery nestled in the rocks at Cape Ferrat, and soon after soldiers were bivouaced on the golf course at Nice.

There were rumors all winter long and stronger still by spring that the Italians would occupy the Riviera. On June 4, the evacuation at Dunkirk was completed. Two days later, Francois, the gardener, wept as Premier Paul Reynaud announced on the radio that France had accepted defeat.

Maugham wept too. He went to see John Taylor, the British consul at Nice, and was told all 1,300 British residents on the Riviera were to be evacuated. Two coal barges, the Saltersgate and the Ashcrest, entered the harbor at Cannes to receive the expatriate refugees.

Maugham took one last look at his art collection, locked the door to the writing room, packed the one suitcase he was allowed to take on board and chose three books from his library. What were the three books?

Ted Morgan, who gives this fascinating vignette (and many others) of a famous author at a crisis time in history in his splendid "Maugham, a Biography" tells us Maugham chose:

Plato's "Trial and Death of Socrates."

William Thackeray's "Henry Esmond"

Charlotte Brontë's "Villette."

Ever since reading this anecdote, I have been wondering what books I would choose from the rickety bookcases here at Hardscrabble House (a Dickensian name for what essentially is a winterized lake bungalow), if the time ever came for me to board a coal barge in Norwalk Harbor and head for the hills or a refugee camp or a nuclear shelter or whatever the crisis situation ordained.

I think I would leave Plato behind. He gave me enough trouble in second year Greek back in Cathedral College in Brooklyn and could not become at this late date a boosom buddy in exile. "Henry Esmond" is among the missing. He was borrowed one day by a neighbor's daughter who came to pick weeds and never returned the garden shears either. And, winding up Maugham's list, refugee life no doubt will have terrors enough in store for me without inviting any of the Brontë sisters along.

My first choice among books to salvage from the sudden wreckage of life's well-ordered routine, to begin a new life with, to carry off to war or exile or wherever would be my old college edition of Shakespeare, the one put out by Scribner's and edited by Thomas Marc Parrot of Princeton University. It not only contains all 23 plays (which confinement in a camp or nuclear shelter will finally provide time to read in toto) and all the sonnets

To the editor:

In response to the article in the Hotline column Sept. 16, I agree that there should be more concern taken about the safety of our children on school buses.

I was a professional school bus driver in Virginia Beach and safety was our main concern. There were rules and regulations which were expected to be followed to assure the safety of the children. Our record of safe driving enabled the parents to have the satisfaction that their children were being well taken care of.

The foremost concern of the parents and the school board should be the well-being of our children riding the buses.

Spot Oil Market Heating Up

By WILLIAM GLASGALL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting between Iran and Iraq, oil-rich neighbors at the Persian Gulf's northern end, has pushed the price of gasoline and heating oil up 8 cents a gallon in a week on spot markets in the United States.

The war has removed more than 2 million barrels a day from world crude oil supplies, which of late had exceeded demand. However, the United States obtains no oil from Iran and very little oil from Iraq.

Iraqi and Iranian Persian Gulf oil ports have been reported closed by the fighting. And Iraq claims to have inflicted heavy damage on Iranian oil refineries and harbors.

Iraq had been exporting 2 million barrels of oil a day from its Persian Gulf ports and sends another million barrels a day by pipeline to Mediterranean ports, said Gary Ross, an economist at the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation. Iran's exports are said to be a million barrels a day or less.

But traders say supplies are so large that the prices consumers pay for gasoline and heating oil aren't likely to rise — unless the fighting should spread and cut off oil shipments from Saudi Arabia and other Persian Gulf exporters for an extended period.

Wednesday's spot market trading on the Gulf Coast saw cargoes of regular gasoline at 93.75 to 94 cents a gallon, up as much as 3.75 cents from Tuesday, and heating oil at 84.35 cents, up about 3.8 cents, said senior editor Tom Kloza of the Oil Buyers' Guide.

"It's clearly a speculative market," said J. Bruce Chalfant, editor-in-chief of the trade newspaper Platt's Oilgram Price Report. "These people are gambling on something that may be a long time in happening."

The American Petroleum Institute said Wednesday that U.S. crude oil inventories were at a near-record 388.6 million barrels last week, while gasoline and heating oil stocks totaled nearly 500 million barrels. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

The Persian Gulf area supplies 10 percent of the oil used in the United States, more than 50 percent of Western Europe's oil and about 75 percent of Japan's oil needs.

Even if the fighting should force the closing of the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow entrance to the gulf through which 40 percent of the non-communist world's oil passes, the West is "well-prepared," said Lloyds Register of Shipping.

Since world oil stocks are at record 5 billion barrels following more than 18 months of sharp price increases, the West would be able to draw on inventories in order to withstand "a short-term cut-off of exports" through the strait, Lloyds said.

But President Carter said that closing the Strait of Hormuz "would create a serious threat."

Some of the oil usually sent by the waterway could be pumped through pipelines to the Mediterranean Sea, Lloyds said, adding that even if the pipelines' capacity were fully used, closure of the strait would cause a shortfall in world oil supply of about 14 million barrels a day — twice as much oil as the United States imports daily.

The United States imports about half its oil needs.

Trading was said to be at a near-standstill in the spot crude oil market, where buyers last year bid feverishly for supplies following the Iranian revolution and subsequent sharp drop in oil output.

"No one has anything for sale," even though oil companies have been using tankers as floating storage tanks because onshore facilities are full, a trader said.

"People are reluctant to let go of barrels" of oil out of fear they will be caught short if the Persian Gulf fighting spreads, said Marshall Thomas, markets editor of Petroleum Intelligence Weekly.

The spot market is an informal worldwide telephone and telex network in which companies and traders needing extra supplies meet those attempting to dispose of surplus cargoes, sometimes at a loss.

In normal times, the market serves as an efficient method of dealing with quick swings in oil demand. However, in last year's scramble for supplies, spot crude prices soared past $40 a barrel only to fall below $30 this summer as surplus production mounted.

According to Kloza, the spot market price on the Gulf Coast for regular gasoline peaked in May 1979 at $1.32 a gallon, and a gallon of heating oil reached $1.15 as lines were forming at filling stations.

but has excellent, informative, delightfully readable notes, asides and dissertations on Shakespeare's London, Shakespeare's theater, acting companies of the day, etc.

Next, for pure escape in a place where there probably will be no other means of escape, I would tuck the Complete Sherlock Holmes into my single allotted suitcase. Life had gifted me with a poor memory where plots are concerned, so even though I've probably read all the stories a half dozen times or more I approach each as if for the first time, never knowing in advance what singular thing the dog did or said in the night time in "Silverblaze" or what dastardly fate befell the Norwood builder. The great detective has seen me through many a long plane ride, boring weekend, bout of insomnia and similar crisis, and he will be most welcome fellow passenger on that coal barge to destiny. What better way to face a new adventure, to turn the key and lock up the past than in excited contemplation of the problem of Thor Bridge or the disappearance of Lady Frances Carfax?

Finally, to let me know that things could be worse, to help me find the courage to endure whatever is to come at the end of that uncertain journey, to remind me what depths of repression and heights of heroism man is capable of, I would reverently lift from the shelf the entire series or as much as my carryall could carry of Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago."

Plots from fiction I don't remember but the scenes of real life horror he describes can never be forgotten. Although I must have read it fully five years ago, I remember still the incident at the district party conference when tribute to Stalin was called for and everyone stood up to clap. They kept clapping until palms were burning and arms aching because no one wanted to be seen by the NKVD to be the first to stop clapping. On and on went the ridiculous ovation until after 11 tense, torturous minutes, the manager of the papermill factory dared to sit down. Everyone else stopped too, right then. I remember Solzhenitsyn's words of delivery: "They had been saved. The squirrel had been smart enough to jump off his revolving wheel."

And the dread sequel. That same night the factory director was arrested and sentenced to 10 years in the Gulag. "Don't ever be the first to stop applauding," his interrogator told him.

No book written in this century tells us as much about what liberty really means and warns so graphically what is in store for us if those coal barges arrive for freedom's final evacuation. I have left the Bible out of my trio, because someone surely will smuggle a copy aboard. With the great Good Book excepted, I would be interested in hearing what choices the readers would make it allowed but three books when dark clouds ominously gather.

Career In Government

According to House Speaker Tip O'Neill, Edmund Muskie is "capable of doing any job that comes along in the government." Muskie's long career in government service shows that O'Neill may be right. After three terms as a member of the Maine House of Representatives, Muskie was elected Maine's governor in 1954. Four years later, he became the first Maine Democrat ever elected to the U.S. Senate. Muskie remained in the Senate until last April, when President Carter appointed him secretary of state. Today in New York, Secretary of State Muskie is scheduled to discuss ways to reduce nuclear weapons with the foreign minister of the Soviet Union.

Greenville Fifth In Construction

Greenville ranked fifth among 44 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population in the value of construction permits authorized in June, according to a report by John Brooks, state Labor Commissioner.

Brooks said that permits valued at $6,980,344 were issued in Greenville during the month as construction activity continued on an upswing in North Carolina. The June report for Greenville compared with the May permit total of $1,819,589.

The commissioner reported that Greenville was sixth among the cities in permit totals for the first six months of 1980, recording a figure of $14,657,066.

Totals in several neighboring cities for June and for the first six months of the year included: Elizabeth City, $262,700; $3,948,976; Goldsboro, $1,479,000; $4,076,780; Jacksonville, $10,785,395; $12,926,035; Winston, $959,000; $4,598,023; New Bern, $880,289; $2,150,088; Roanoke Rapids, $1,410,634; $2,777,115; Rocky Mount, $1,616,646; $7,577,515; Tarboro, $989,800; $1,748,975; and Wilson, $1,645,605; $18,559,249.

According to Brooks, Raleigh led all reporting cities in June with a total value in authorized construction of $28,930,312, followed by Charlotte with $19,881,125, Jacksonville with $10,785,395, and Fayetteville with $7,446,787.

Total construction authorized in Pitt County during June amounted to $7,105,773 and included $1,214,637 for 33 single-family units, $2,155,000 for 102 multi-family units, $3,484,153 for 19 non-residential units, and $251,983 for 70 additions and alterations.

"When statistics for the first six months of 1979 and 1980 are compared," Brooks explained, "construction in the 38 cities which reported both years is down 9.9 percent, from 19,735 to 17,790 units. Value declined 1.4 percent, from $423,968,614 to $418,267,322.

"However, compared to the same month in 1979, June building activity in the 38 cities was up 2.4 percent, from 3,744 to 3,833 units," he said. "There was a 33.4 percent increase in value, from $85,197,115 to $113,640,784, although such a year-to-year comparison must be adjusted for inflation."

The 44 currently reporting cities authorized a total of 4,052 units in June, he added, up 6.9 percent from the 3,790 reported for May. At $118,832,081, total value increased 66.6 percent from May's $71,329,423.

Court Temporarily Blocks Enrollment

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has blocked temporarily a lower court order directing Wake County to enroll a handicapped teen-ager in a $45,000-a-year private school in Texas.

The ruling will remain in effect until the appeals court can decide on Wake County's appeal of the order by District Court Judge George F. Bason, who said the state had no facilities adequate to handle the youth.

Under North Carolina law, the state has responsibility for providing long-term care for people who cannot afford to pay for it themselves. However, state judges are empowered only to order counties, not the state, to pay for such care.

Wake County's Commissioners appealed the ruling by Bason, but earlier this week authorized the expenditure of $16,000 for three months' tuition, travel and incidental expenses for the 16-year-old boy.

Authorities said Wednesday the boy will remain in the custody of the Wake County Social Services Department until a final ruling in the case is made.

The teen-ager has been staying at the Wake Detention Center until his scheduled admission to the Texas school on Oct. 1.

Steven J. Williams, chief juvenile court counselor for Wake County, expressed disappointment over the appeals court's ruling.

"I don't think (the order) is in the boy's best interest,"

Shot, Killed In Shop's Robbery

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Police said a Jacksonville pawnshop operator was shot repeatedly and killed during a robbery Wednesday afternoon.

Authorities identified the dead man as Clarence Olds, operator of the Carolina Pawn Shop.

A pickup truck used by the gunman was found abandoned Wednesday night in the parking lot of a Jacksonville shopping center.

and that's the interest that is being overlooked right now," he said.

Williams had recommended that the youth be sent to the Brown Schools in Austin for treatment of an emotional disorder.

Edmund Aycock, chairman of the Wake County Commission, said the county would hold up the money until "the court makes its final decision on our appeal."

ties, addressed in Article VII of the Zoning Ordinance.

Sewell said that the modification would not change the interpretation of the ordinance but put specific requirements as to parking in the ordinance and require that specific information from applicants. Plot plans would have to be submitted upon applying for a building permit for a multi-family, commercial, industrial, fraternal, religious, public, or similar structure showing the required space reserved for off-street parking and service purposes.

Commissioners voted to recommend that the council approve the request of Derek P. Dunn for rezoning Section IV of Westhaven Subdivision, located just south of Westhaven III and east of Club Pines, from RA-20 to R-15. Ten lots could be developed according to R-15 standards on the property, which involves some 4.4 acres.

Approval was also given to a recommendation that the council approve a request by Dunn to annex the Section IV section of Westhaven into the corporate limits.

Commissioners voted to recommend that a request by Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, Inc., to amend the Zoning Ordinance to permit a vocational rehabilitation center and related activities in the Industrial zoning district, be approved.

Roberson presented for the board's consideration copies of the new definitions for the proposed zoning ordinance. He said that the new ordinance will be reviewed over the next six months.

The Greenville planning board, acting on a matter that was continued at the August meeting, voted to accept the final subdivision plat of Section IV of Patrick's Plaza, located at the intersection of Red Banks Road and Arlington Boulevard. The engineering department had recommended last month that the plat be denied because no provisions had been made to improve Red Banks Road from Arlington Boulevard westerly.

Sewell suggested last night that the developers put up a surety in the form of a deed of trust representing one-half of the cost of building the Red Banks Road section. He said the deed of trust would run for five years.

Mickey Herrin, attorney representing the developers of Patrick's Plaza, said that it did not seem fair that the developers would be liable for costs in five years at escalating construction figures. He said that the developers should be able to put up a surety for half the street at present costs or for a "reasonable" time such as one year.

Sewell said that if at any time during the surety period the developers decided to put half the street in, the planning board could consider approval. Herrin acknowledged that the stipulation would allow the developers to cut off their liability if the street is constructed.

According to Sewell, three stipulations could apply: the developers would put up a surety for up to five years for half the street at today's costs; at any point the city decided to build the street, the property developer would be liable for only one-half of the costs; and if the developers wished during the period to develop half of the street, the planning board could approve or disapprove the measure.

The engineering official also noted that plat approval should contain a stipulation that if half of the street is built, some conformance would be necessary at the intersection with Arlington Boulevard.

Commissioners also gave their approval to the final plat of Section V of Patrick's Plaza at the same Red Banks Road-Arlington Boulevard intersection.

The preliminary plat of Cannon Court Apartments, located west of and adjacent to Eastbrook Apartments between Eastbrook Drive and the proposed Devonshire Road, was approved. It was pointed out that 47 units are indicated for the 3.9-acre tract.

Approval was given to the preliminary and final plats, as well as the Sedimentation Control Plan, for Wedgewood Arms Apartments, located at the southeast quadrant of the intersection of Red Banks Road and Arlington Boulevard. Some 100 units of multi-family housing are proposed for development.

Pitt Council Is Formed

A Pitt County Education Council has recently been formed with E.B. Bright as acting chairman. Persons serving on the council represent industry, business and educational institutions.

According to Pitt County Superintendent Ott Alford, the purpose of the council is to correlate with business, industry and education to insure a ready supply of labor to meet the job needs of the county.

"The funding for this council and its work comes through the state government and from the National Institute of Education," explained the superintendent. The program is under the general administration of the North Carolina government. Participation in this program was prompted by Governor Hunt. "Pitt County is among three other counties in the state to participate in this work-council program," added Alford.

The program is presently seeking an executive administrator. Persons interested in this position should send a letter of application to the Pitt County Education-Work Council, 1717 W. Fifth St. Prior work experience, administrative experience and professional and community involvement should be included.

Funding at this time for the position has been secured through December 31, 1980. "The office of administration has made a move to continue the funding," said Alford.

Price Resigns Position In Martin

WILLIAMSTON — Percy A. Price, the executive director of the Industrial Development Commission for Martin County, has resigned his position, effective October 31.

Price, a native of New Bern, has been the commission's director for the past 15 years. In announcing his resignation, Price said he plans to continue to live in Martin County.

He first came to Martin County in 1964 as manager of the Beunitt Mills facility in Hamilton. He was appointed executive director of the Industrial Development Commission in the spring of 1965, succeeding R. W. Bonduant.

Active in many organizations, Price has been chairman of the Martin County Airport Commission and the Tri-County Manpower Development Training Program; a trustee on the Martin Technical Institute Board; president of the Martin County Historical Society; director of the Roanoke River Project; president of the Martin County Agri-Business Association, and vice president of the Southern Albemarle Association.

One Day Gold Show

RALEIGH — The N. C. Museum of History's entire collection of 154 Bechtler gold coins dating from 1831-1849 will be on display this week for one day only, on Friday, September 26.

As part of Friday's opening of the new dual exhibit "Bechtler Gold" and "N.C. Currency," from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, visitors may see the collection purchased in 1975 from Dr. Walter L. Crouch of Wilmington.

The new permanent exhibit "Bechtler Gold" contains 23 of the coins housed in specially built cases. "The other 113 are duplicates of these 23," John Ellington, museum administrator said.

"Unfortunately, for security reasons, we cannot keep the duplicates on permanent display," Ellington said, "but we wanted North Carolinians to have this opportunity to see the entire collection of 154 coins at one time."

The "N. C. Currency" exhibit, which also contains some of the Crouch collection of mid-19th century North Carolina bank notes, and the gold coin "Bechtler Gold" segment of the exhibit will both be on view through May 1981.

The museum is located at 109 East Jones Street and is open daily Tuesday through Saturdays 9 to 5 and on Sundays from 1 to 6. Admission is free.

'Tentative' Agreement In Long Actors' Strike

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Negotiators today reached a tentative agreement on ending a two-month strike by 67,000 television and film actors that has delayed the start of the fall TV season.

But even if the pact is ratified by the membership of the unions who walked off the job July 21, it will be weeks before new television shows are on the air, industry sources said.

The tentative agreement on a three-year contract came early this morning after a bargaining session of nearly 19 hours, according to Kim Fellner, a spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild.

"At 5 a.m. (PDT) a tentative agreement was reached between the actors and the producers and that followed a final 18½-hour bargaining session," said Phil Myers, a spokesman for the producers.

Myers said the boards of the American Federation of Television Radio Artists and Screen Actors Guild will meet starting this weekend to approve it the contract.

"After that," he said, "there will be a ratification process by both of those groups. And each board will decide when the actors can go back to work pending ratification. So in terms of when the producers go back into production, we would have to wait and see what their decision is."

However, Ms. Fellner said the unions could send the actors back to work pending ratification.

"It'll take two-and-a-half or three weeks for the whole (ratification) process," she said, since the actors would vote on the pact by mail.

The contract includes a 15 percent increase in minimum salaries for the first 18 months, and 15 percent for the second 18 months, for a compounded increase of 32.25 percent over the life of the contract, Myers said. Actors currently earn a minimum of $235 a day or $785 a week.

Fellner said the tentative agreement also included increased pension and welfare benefits, a strong non-discrimination program, improved working conditions for minors and an overhaul of working schedules.

Another key area in the settlement involved what actors are paid for prime-time television reruns. Myers said the agreement included wage increases for such shows ranging from 14 to 37.5 percent over the contract for hour-long programs.

The unions' directors in Los Angeles were expected to meet Saturday afternoon here to discuss the proposal, while their boards in New York were scheduled to meet Monday in New York, said AFTRA spokesman Dick Moore.

Negotiations had progressed more rapidly since actors and producers agreed a week ago on a complex formula that would give actors a share of the lucrative home video market. That issue had been a major stumbling block in negotiations.

Work would resume almost immediately after the strike on new prime-time series for the ABC, CBS and NBC television networks. But network spokesmen have said it would take at least three to four weeks before any new half-hour series episodes could be broadcast and six to eight weeks before any hour-long show could go on the air.

On Alert In Persian Gulf

BAHRAIN (AP) — Saudi Arabia and other Persian Gulf nations have put their armed forces on alert, a defense precaution in case the war between Iran and Iraq spills over into neighboring territory, highly placed sources said today.

The Saudis moved an unspecified number of anti-aircraft missile units to their Eastern Province, site of the Persian Gulf oil terminal of Ras Tanura and of Damam, the world's largest oil field, the sources said.

"It is merely a defense precaution, a partial alert to protect our interests and not in any way to take sides in the conflict," said a Gulf official who asked not to be identified.

"The aerial combat is so close to our country that we have to take some precautionary action," he added. "A swing by a jetfighter in air combat can easily bring it within a mile of our territory. The nearer the fighting the more worried we are."

Armed forces in Kuwait, which as Iraq's southern neighbor is near the combat zone, were on maximum alert this morning, according to sources in Bahrain. The Kuwait government has avoided making any public comments on the war between its oil-rich neighbors, but the Kuwaiti news media have been supporting Iraq strongly.

Kings Mountain March Is Begun For Anniversary

ABINGDON, Va. (AP) — About 30 men and women planned to resume a 219-mile hike today to celebrate the bicentennial anniversary of a Revolutionary War battle that proved a turning point in the fight for American independence.

Virginia Gov. John Dalton spoke to some 200 people at Abingdon High School Wednesday night on the march now being re-enacted that ended 200 years ago in the Battle of Kings Mountain in South Carolina. The march began Wednesday morning in Abingdon, although some participants drove back that night to take part in the ceremony with Dalton.

The marchers plan eventually to link up with other marchers from Tennessee, North and South Carolina and Georgia, all scheduled to arrive at Kings Mountain on Oct. 7, the 200th anniversary of the battle.

Dalton drew applause from the audience — some of whom were wearing bonnets and long dresses, buckskins or Indian headbands — when he said the Historic Landmarks Commission has designated Aspenvale Cemetery a historic landmark. Aspenvale is where William Campbell, one of the heroes of the battle who was killed later in the war, is buried.

"Today we recognize, as historians have, that the Battle of Kings Mountain turned the tide of the Revolution, blunting the British invasion of the south, lifting the spirits of a despondent George Washington and leading eventually to Yorktown," Dalton said. He recalled how British Lt. Col. Patrick Ferguson sent word from the Carolinas that if colonial harassment of British troops did not stop, he would hang the opposition leaders and lay waste to their country.

"He should have known better than to send a threat like that to the men of southwest Virginia," said Dalton, who is from Radford.

"They didn't wait for a call to arms, or for reinforcements from the Continentals," he said. "They mounted up with their rifles and ammunition and their own provisions, elected their own leader and took up Ferguson's trail."

Dalton said they found Ferguson with 1,000 Tories and 125 British regulars "declaring that he was king of the mountain and God Almighty could not drive him from it." Three charges and 50 minutes later, Ferguson was dead with 456 of his troops killed or wounded, as compared with some 90 patriot casualties, he said, "and the road to Yorktown lay open."

Today, Dalton said, Virginians are not being called on to arm themselves and fight — "although I have entertained some pretty well-armed delegations from southwest Virginia in Richmond" — and face no threat of invasion. "But we do face our own test of will to provide for the defense of this country and of our own freedom in our own way, and to supply our own provisions rather than ask government to provide them for us," he said.

"We have the same opportunity to choose our leaders by our votes that our ancestors did before Kings Mountain," he said.

Key Issue?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Elections Director Alex Brock says he expects the 1981 Legislature to devote much of its time to redistricting because of population shifts reflected in the 1980 Census.

"It will be, in my opinion, the key issue of this General Assembly," Brock said.

Brock noted that North Carolina could gain a 12th seat in Congress, requiring a shuffling of all congressional districts.

New district boundaries also may need to be drawn in 44 of the state's 100 counties and 44 municipalities where commissioners or other officials are elected on an at-large basis.

Under the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" ruling, such districts must be as nearly equal as possible in population.

Seek Twice As Much State Aid

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's private colleges and universities are seeking twice as much state financial aid for 1981-83 as they received during the last two years.

The North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities has requested an appropriation of $52 million to finance student aid programs during the next biennium.

The Legislature only appropriated $22.9 million for the last two years.

Rampants Open League Play

Center Stuart Ward

By WOODY PEELE

Rose High School, still ranked number three in the state by the Associated Press, gets down to serious football Friday night, traveling to Northern Nash for its first Division I challenge of the year.

Rose will be seeking its fourth straight win while the Knights, 0-2-1 so far, will be looking to launch their conference campaign on a winning note.

Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Rose is coming off a 28-0 victory over Raleigh Enloe last Friday night — a contest that was not one of the prettiest for the Rampants. During the game, Rose was plagued with fumbles, committing eight and losing five.

"It's never pretty when you fumble. They always hurt," coach Dave Bumgarner said. "In this case, they were twice as hard to take since they were simply mechanical rather than the result of a hard hit." Bumgarner felt the Rampants ran well and blocked well on offense. "We blew some pass plays. We always seem to be going to the long people, when we have the short men open. On every long pass we threw last week, we had two short receivers wide open. We've got to begin to look for the short gain people too."

One of the brightest plays of the game was a 53-yard touchdown run by Alonza Taylor. "You draw plays out on the blackboard, and every now and then you see one on the field that comes out just like it is supposed to," the coach said. "This was one of them."

"Donald Johnson, Roger Williams and John Lloyd Jackson all got their blocks off perfectly. Alonza ran right behind the blocks and made all the proper cuts. Jackson's block was also great in that he came across the field to make it."

Bumgarner didn't feel that the Rampant offense was an intense as it should have been. "The defenses have been trying to stop our inside game, so we're able to go outside easier. Still, we'd like to get our inside game going."

On defense, the play was much better, Bumgarner said.

"I'm very pleased with the intensity the defense showed," Bumgarner said. "Enloe never really put things together, but they did get some good plays. But we have an excellent rush on the passer (three interceptions and four quarterback sacks), and that really kept them off-balance."

Friday night, the Rampants will be going up against a team a lot like the Enloe Eagles in Northern Nash. "They have some good people, but they have not been able to put it together yet," Bumgarner said. "They made a lot of mistakes in their first three games, and haven't gotten off to a good start."

Following a 6-6 tie with Southern Nash, the Knights lost on successive weeks to Vance County and Tarboro.

"They have a good passer in (Steve) Smith, and they've got a couple of good backs. The tailback (George Battle) is the better runner, and he's a good receiver also."

Bumgarner isn't really sure what to expect from the Knights offensively, however. "Last week, they ran from the I in the first half, then switched to the wishbone in the second."

Smith, in three games, has put the ball up 32 times, hitting 17 of them for 123 yards. Most of the passes have been screens or into the flats. They will occasionally go over the middle, too. Three of Smith's aeriels have been picked off.

Battle is the leading rusher with 249 yards. He's joined in the backfield by fullback Johnny Nicholson, who alternates with Linwood Harper, who is primarily a blocker.

Last year, Rose had to struggle past Northern, 18-17, and Bumgarner said he wouldn't be surprised if this

Opportunity There, But Pirates Couldn't Take Advantage Of It

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

"Everything I said about the game turned out to be true," East Carolina Coach Ed Emory said of the ECU-Florida State game played last Saturday. "I said we had the opportunity for us to play a ranked team outside North Carolina."

Speaking at his weekly press conference, Emory added that opportunities can go either pro or con, and this opportunity turned out to be against the Pirates, who wound up on the short end of a 63-7 score.

"We did go up against one of the best teams in the country, in a big stadium, with a very partial crowd. I don't know if that had anything to do with the outcome."

Emory said that the Pirates didn't get good acceleration off the line defensively, and that the strong safety didn't come up well on the runs. "Our defense played very poorly," he concluded.

"But you've got to remember that of the people we carried down there, only two of them were starters on defense last year at the same position, with one other who was a sometime starter playing another position. Nearly everyone else was either a sub in the past or a newcomer."

Against Florida State's experienced line, it was no contest.

"We were tight too. I don't know why. We had good practices all week and I didn't think we would be like that. Our game plan was no different than it was against Duke. We weren't like that at Duke, and that was the opening game," Emory added.

Offensively, the Pirates moved the ball well the first time they had the ball. "But after we finally punted, they got over on the sidelines and changed their defense. They had started out using the same defense they used in the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma (in a losing effort) last year, but they saw that it wasn't going to work."

Instead, Florida State pulled out a lineman and put in an extra back. "This was to cut off the pass and the sweep," Emory said. "They were willing to give us the rush up the middle, but we again just didn't have the talent to do it. All of our offensive linemen are newcomers or otherwise inexperienced."

"That just never gave (Theodore) Sutton or (Anthony) Collins a chance."

As to the score, Emory noted that with 10 minutes left in the game, and the Pirates down 35-7, he decided that it was over for the Pirates, and that he would commit himself to using his younger defensive players the rest of the way.

"I figured that we were out of it, and that they were probably satisfied," Emory said.

"But with just under six minutes left (Rick) Stockstill (the starting quarterback) was still in there. And they were still throwing the ball and running reverses with 30 seconds left to go in the game."

Emory said there were still some pluses from the game. "Losing by that margin will probably help us sometime in the future. And if it had to come, I'm glad it came when it did."

"We also found some players in Ronald Reid, Clint Harris and Chuck Bishop." Reid and Harris are both listed as starters for Saturday's game against Southern Mississippi. That is set for 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

"Our people also saw what a big time program looked like. Not only our players, but others, too. And they were ready to give up football in 1975 (after going 0-11). But they made a commitment to make it work, and they have."

Emory pointed out that the school has pumped a great deal of money into the program, and it has paid off for them. "I think seeing where we want to go was important for all of us," he added.

"One thing, too: we didn't lose our guts. We have a plan and we're going to stick to it. It would be easy to panic and try to change everything around, but we are not going to do that. We believe in our plan."

"We knew on paper that we shouldn't beat Florida State, but you can win with enthusiasm, dedication and by playing better than you should. That's the way we approached it."

"Unfortunately, we didn't follow through," Emory said.

"But all we want is a chance to be equal."

Yankee Depth Is Paying Off

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The bench, merely a hard place to sit for some teams, has been a springboard to success for the Yankees. And it's as good a reason as any why the Baltimore Orioles, 17-7 in September, have still lost 3-1 games in the standings to New York this month.

"It's like going with rifles against bazookas," said Cleveland Manager Dave Garcia in deference to the Yankee's depth. "That's a tough job to win a battle like that."

The Yankees beat the Indians 7-3 Wednesday night for their fourth consecutive victory.

ry and 20th in 23 games this month. The second-place Orioles kept pace with a 12-9 come-from-behind victory over Boston, but time is running out for last year's American League champions.

The Yankees are five games up and their magic number is six (any combination of New York wins and Baltimore losses will clinch the Yankees' fourth division title. Both clubs have 10 games left.

In other AL games, George Brett went 0-for-3 as his average dropped to .389 and his Kansas City Royals lost to Seattle 4-2. Minnesota beat Texas 9-5. Oakland downed the Chicago White Sox 7-1. Mark Fidrych failed in another start but Detroit still rallied to edge Toronto 9-8 in 10 innings, and Milwaukee's Larry Sorensen blanked California 6-0.

"They have a veteran ballclub and all the guys have some pennant experience," said Garcia. "Yankee Manager Dick Howser has the people to make moves with. Their depth in the bullpen helped them win games against us they might not have won. That's the difference."

"They lose a Ruppert Jones and they have a (Bobby) Brown to come in, and he's no slouch either. They're tough to pitch to in every instance because of the strong bench and lefty-righty switches."

The strong bench keyed Tuesday night's ninth-inning rally when pinch hitter Eric Soderholm smacked a two-out, two-run single for a 5-4 victory. Then on Wednesday night, Bob Watson, the right-handed half of the two-headed first base platoon with Jim Spencer, delivered the game-winning hit.

"This year has been gratifying because I'm doing as well as I'm doing while not playing every day," said Watson. "But I knew when I came here it would be that way."

Watson, who had two singles and a double for three RBI, now has 11 game-winning RBI, three in the last four games. He's batting .366 with 27 RBI in his last 29 games.

Some full-timers chipped in, too. Bucky Dent snapped an 0-for-17 slump with an RBI-single. Reggie Jackson collected his 100th RBI and Luis Tiant, 8-9, allowed two runs and three hits in five innings.

Orioles 12, Red Sox 9
The Orioles rallied from a 7-1

deficit to stay within five games of the Yankees. "There's no letting up," said Doug DeCinces. "Each loss takes its toll. We'd rather have them win it than us lose it. We want to finish the season winning every game."

Decinces belted a three-run homer in the seventh to key the winning seventh-inning rally. Terry Crowley had a pair of homers and drove in five runs for the Orioles.

Tony Perez clubbed two homers and Jim Rice hit in his 20th straight game for the Red Sox.

Mariners 4, Royals 2
Kansas City and George Brett are heading into the playoffs in slumps. The Royals, who have won just two of eight games since clinching the AL West last Wednesday, have now dropped five straight games. Brett, 0-for-3, grounded out to second and shortstop, walked and flew out.

Larry Milbourne's squeeze bunt scored Reggie Walton with the go-ahead run for the Mariners, whose manager, Maury Wills, has stressed a running and bunting game since taking over Aug. 4.

A's 7, White Sox 1
Steve McCatty tossed a two-hitter and Tony Armas slammed a two-run homer as the Oakland A's, who finished last in the AL West in 1979, moved closer to locking up second place. They now lead third-place Texas by 6½ games with only nine remaining.

McCatty, 13-14, allowed only an RBI-double by Mike Squires in the third and a bunt single by Bob Molinaro in the fourth. He struck out five and walked three.

Twins 9, Rangers 5
The Twins aren't in a pennant race, but they're gaining respect. They downed Texas for their sixth straight victory, moving to within one-half game of third-place Texas in the AL West.

"We're loose," said third baseman John Castino. "What means more to us than the third-place money is the respectability. We started believing in ourselves again."

Tigers 9, Blue Jays 8
Fidrych walked five of the first seven batters in the game as the Tigers fell behind 6-0 in the first. They eventually tied it 7-7 with six runs in the sixth and won it in the 10th on Ricky Peters' bases-loaded single.

Rookie Dan Petry, 10-9, picked up the win, retiring all six batters he faced.

Brewers 6, Angels 0
Ben Oglivie drilled a two-run double and his 37th homer to back Sorensen's seven-hit pitching. Sorensen, 12-9, who was relegated to the bullpen earlier this season, posted his second straight shutout, snapping the Angels' five-game winning streak.

Women In Tennis Win

KINSTON — Greenville's East Carolina Tennis Association women's team took a 6-3 victory over Kinston yesterday.

The win was the third straight of the fall season for the Greenville ladies, who are undefeated. Kinston and Greenville tied for the league title during the spring season, with Kinston winning a 5-4 playoff match.

Both teams took three singles victories in the match yesterday, but Greenville came back with a sweep in the doubles to win going away. In the singles, play was hard fought, with three matches going three sets, and give games going extra points.

Watson Is Highlight

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — The annual Napa stop on the pro golf tour, a starting point for Tom Watson nine years ago, is providing $300,000 worth of opportunity for many newcomers.

Watson was the undisputed headliner as the tournament, his last of the season, began today on the Silverado Country Club's two par-72 courses.

He already had established a single season record for tournament earnings, and a victory this weekend would push him over $600,000 including the $59,250 he brought home after winning his third British Open.

Watson earned his Tournament Players' Card in the fall of 1971 and played the next week in the Napa event, thanks to a sponsor's exemption offered by Vern Peak, chairman of the tournament.

Hicks Is Cut By N.Y. Giants

Former East Carolina University running back Eddie Hicks was cut yesterday by the New York Giants.

Hicks, who completed his career at East Carolina in 1978, was one of the top rushers in Pirate history, currently standing sixth on the all-time career list with 2,101 yards. He was drafted by the Giants and played with them throughout last season.

He suffered an injury early in this season, and was felt to be in jeopardy with the Giants earlier when he returned to the team, but picked up, and started in the New York backfield against St. Louis the first week of the season, and against Washington in the second game, where he lost a couple of fumbles. In this past Monday's game, however, he did not see offensive action.

According to sources, Hicks name had not been placed on the waiver list as of this morning, a procedure the Giants must go through before releasing him.

That, according to the source, could mean that the Giants might reactivate Hicks, or were simply waiting for the full legal limit on waivers. Several other teams are reportedly interested in Hicks, but as to how soon he might be picked up, that would depend on the injury situation on those teams.

Bob Devaney, who built the Nebraska Cornhuskers into a national football power and moved from his coaching seat to that of athletic director, does a little moonlighting in Lincoln with a TV show each week in which he picks college football games.

He could easily make a career out of predicting: "Pickus."

"For obvious reasons I don't include our own games," Devaney said from his campus headquarters, "but, if I did, I would have to go with the Huskers. On size, speed and experience, I think it's one of the best teams we've ever had, maybe as good as that 1971 team that won the national championship and beat Alabama in the Orange Bowl. Coach Tom Osborne has done a fine coaching job."

Bad news for Penn State, host to Nebraska's point-a-minute legions this week, in the TV headline.

Last week's score: 41-12, 77-4. Season: 104-33, 759.

Nebraska 33, Penn State 12: No. 3 vs. No. 11. Jarvis Redwine & Co. are itching to get a crack at Alabama in a major bowl.

Alabama 38, Vanderbilt 7: Career victory No. 299 for the grizzly Bear Bryant, who pushed presidential candidates off the Time cover.

year's game is as tough.

"We have to go up there and score first. We can't afford to have to play catch-up ball up there. We can't make the kind of mistakes we made last week and have a chance to win."

"We can't look ahead, either. But I really don't think that we will be. We're got to beat Northern to get off to a good start in the conference. It might not be a game against one of the top contenders, but it is a very important game, nevertheless."

Rose has five backs with 100 or more yards. Taylor leads the way with 172 yards, and with four touchdowns, is tied with Kenny Barnes for the scoring lead. Barnes has rushed to 132 yards, while Roger Williams has 134. Also over 100 are Robert Brown, at 112, and Jeff Porter, with 118.

Barnes has hit on 7 of 21 passes for 150 yards, with no interceptions. Top receiver is Chris McLawhorn, with five catches for 127 yards. McLawhorn, on two end-arounds, has rushed for 59 yards.

Rose Hit Snaps Slump, Wins For Phillies

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The end of an 0-for-15 slump by Pete Rose had the Philadelphia Phillies smelling like a rose Wednesday night.

Rose, in what he said was his worst streak since he was 0-for-22 four years ago in Cincinnati, bounced a single up the middle in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the Phillies a 1-0 victory over the New York Mets. The victory kept Philadelphia only one-half game behind the first-place Montreal Expos in the National League East.

In other NL games, the Expos stopped the Chicago Cubs 8-4. Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 6-3. Cincinnati outlasted San Diego 7-6 in 10 innings and Atlanta defeated Houston 4-2 to drop the Astros back into a tie for first in the West with Los Angeles, which beat San Francisco 5-4 in 12 innings.

"Before the game, I came in and got a heavier bat," said Rose. "It makes you wait longer. A light bat makes you swing too quick, especially if the pitcher is throwing changeups."

Although New York has the second-worst record in the league, Rose said he would rather be playing the Expos or Pirates than a team like the Mets.

"I don't like to play non-competitors this time of year," he said. "They're loose, they're experimenting. I'd rather play teams battling for the championship."

Rose's game-winning hit came after pinch hitter Del Unser singled to open the 10th and pinch runner Jay Loviglio went to second on pinch hitter Tim McCarver's sacrifice.

Some believed it was just a gimmick for Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green to take the 38-year-old McCarver out of the broadcast booth this month so that he could become one of the few players in baseball history to play in four different decades.

"That's exactly what Tim McCarver can do for a team," said Green of the substitute catcher's bunt. "You need a bunt and he gives it to you. It's not as easy to bunt as it looks."

Another oldtimer, Tug McGraw, 36, won his third game in seven decisions with two innings of shutout relief.

Despite his modest won-loss record, McGraw has 18 saves and all three of his victories since coming off the disabled list July 17. He has allowed only three runs in his last 41 innings.

Ed Lynch, making only his third major league start, held the Phillies to two hits for seven innings before Neil Allen, 7-9, worked the eighth and ninth and suffered the loss in the 10th. Larry Christenson, who hadn't pitched since Sept. 6 because of a groin muscle pull, allowed four hits through eight innings before McGraw came in.

Dodgers 5, Giants 4

Manny Mota, the all-time leading pinch hitter in the majors, collected his 149th pinch-hit, a single with two out in the 12th inning, to break a 4-4 tie after San Francisco appeared on the verge of getting out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam.

After Bobby Mitchell flied out to short left for the first out, Dusty Baker was caught off third on Mota's missed squeeze bunt. But Mota singled home Steve Garvey to win the game.

Expos 8, Cubs 4

Andre Dawson, Gary Carter and Larry Parrish combined for 10 hits and five RBI as Montreal maintained its half-game lead in the East.

"Me, Gary and Larry are the big guns on this club. This is the kind of day we have to have," said Dawson, who had four hits and three runs scored.

Carter drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and Parrish had four hits and drove in two runs in support of Charlie Lea, 6-5, who got the victory although he was knocked out in the sixth inning after Jerry Martin's two-run homer. Stan Bahnsen pitched the last 32.3 innings without allowing a run.

Braves 4, Astros 2

Biff Pocoroba delivered two-run double to go with home runs by Bob Horner and Dale Murphy as Atlanta downed Houston and surpassed the million mark in home attendance in 1980, the first time that all 12 NL clubs reached that mark in one year.

Pocoroba's liner to left-center field broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning after two walks, the seventh and eighth free passes issued by Houston starter Joaquin Andujar, 3-7.

The Braves had taken a 2-0 lead on solo homers by Dale Murphy, his 31st, and Bob Horner, his 35th. Houston's runs scored on Alan Ashby's two-run homer.

Pirates 6, Cardinals 3

Pitcher Rick Rhoden and Omar Moreno both drove in two runs during a six-run fourth-inning that let Pittsburgh keep pace in the East with a victory over St. Louis.

The triumph kept the third-place Pirates four games behind the first-place Expos.

Rhoden, 7-5, who pitched six innings and got relief help the last three from Grant Jackson, singled with the bases loaded in the fourth and Moreno followed with a triple.

Reds 7, Padres 6

Dave Concepcion went 0-for-4, but he knocked in three runs, including the game-winner with a sacrifice fly, in the 10th inning as Cincinnati closed to within 2½ games of the lead in the West.

Ken Griffey tripled with one out in the 10th off reliever

Rollie Fingers, 10-9, for his third extra-base hit of the game. Concepcion followed with his fly to Gene Richards in shallow left field. Cincinnati took 6-5 and 5-2 leads late in the game, but a three-run homer by Gene Tenace and a passed ball and wild throw by Reds catcher Vic Correll let the Padres tie the score both times.

Big Ten Questions

CHICAGO (AP) — University of Illinois Chancellor John

Cribbet has been questioned by Big Ten officials on the university's challenge to a ruling that quarterback Dave Wilson is academically ineligible, according to broadcast reports.

Arlington Heights radio station WMM-FM reported Wednesday that Cribbet was summoned to Chicago on Monday by Big Ten officials and was questioned for more than three hours in a secret meeting on the implications of the Wilson case.

Big Ten faculty representatives at the meeting said its purpose was to discuss the university's stance toward Big Ten academic rules, the radio station reported.

Illinois Athletic Director Neale Stoner did not attend the meeting, the radio station reported.

WMM quoted one of the faculty representatives as saying the meeting was "only exploratory in nature," but "not necessarily cordial."

Cribbet and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke would not comment on the meeting.

Look To Tourism With Foreign Flavor

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's travel industry, after finishing a reasonably successful vacation season, is looking for more improvement in tourism with a foreign flavor.

Dan Roth, North Carolina travel and tourism director, plans to aim the state's already heavy promotion campaign at attracting a greater number of tourists from other countries.

"We're beginning to get a trickle of foreign visitors into the state, and next year if the dollar continues to sink against European currency, we'll see even more visitors coming here," Roth said in an interview Wednesday.

Foreign tour groups, bringing travelers from England, Europe and Japan, have become a boon to travel-dependent areas throughout the country. Changing economic conditions have made this country a bargain to those tourists, and Roth said competition is fierce among Southeastern states to get a share of the new market.

To attract them, Roth is bringing a group of 14 tour-group operators from England into North Carolina for 10 days next month. Other groups of travel executives from France and Germany are coming later, and travel writers from 11 other countries have already visited the state this season.

"We're going to get them into every area of the state, show them our resorts and hope we can get them to include different parts of the state in their tour packages for next summer," he said.

The biggest attraction for the foreign travelers is the beach, but golfing areas are also being promoted among the British and the mountaineers, with outdoors activities like hang gliding, white-water rafting and others, are pushed with the Germans.

Some foreign tour groups are already stopping in the state, to visit the mountains and the Tryon Palace in New Bern.

But why should North Carolina expect to become a foreign attraction? Frequently, it's the second-time visitor to the United States that is interested.

"They have already seen the big cities, and on their second trip they want to get out and see the country," Roth said.

North Carolina's travel industry will probably report its biggest year ever, over $2 billion in business, when final figures are available later this fall. The increase may be more apparent than real, however, because of the effects of inflation.

Of that business, only a small amount — 2 percent at most — is now by travelers from abroad.

"In two or three years, and provided we have some new hotels built because we're really short of resort-type complexes, it could amount to 15, 16, 17 percent," he said. "It's happening that quickly."

Even without much of the hoped-for foreign currency, most areas of the state did well in the season ending with Labor Day. Resort operators in both the mountains and beaches report being "reasonably pleased," and were probably aided by the long, hot, dry spell in most of the state.

There were some exceptional cases: Biltmore Estates, Grandfather Mountain and several outdoor dramas reported record attendance, and the Blue Ridge Parkway had a dramatic increase in visitors.

The Outer Banks generally had a good year, but motel operators in some remote areas — like Hatteras — complained of vacancies.

The reason, industry leaders say, may be gasoline prices.

"The price apparently has not stopped people from traveling, but the indications are they're going to one place and staying there all week. And they are not venturing off the beaten track," Roth said.

State historic sites and state parks not near interstate or other major highways, for example, suffered in attendance, he said.

North Carolina is among the top states in the country in spending on promotional advertising, with a budget this year of $1.4 million. All of that goes into magazine and newspaper advertising outside the state.

The same amount in state revenues has been appropriated for advertising this year, but Roth is hoping private tourism industry leaders in the state will convince legislators to spend twice that much on advertising next year.

The need, he said, is to expand the ads to overseas publications.

"The foreign travel market is big business, big dollars," Roth said. "We've got to do more than just scratch the surface. We've got to go after it. And it's like ringing doorbells. It just takes a selling job."

Teachers Met

The Greenville-Pitt County Chapter of North Carolina Retired School Personnel met this week at St. James United Methodist Fellowship Hall for its first 1980-81 session.

Officers of the chapter are Erma S. Carr, president; Carmen Dawkins, vice-president; Dorothy Johnson, secretary; Lawrence Brewster, treasurer; and Sue Howell, parliamentarian.

A social period and a covered dish luncheon preceded the business meeting conducted by Ms. Carr, with chairpersons of the seven committees giving reports and introducing members of their committees.

Fifteen new retirees who have become members of the chapter were introduced and gave a brief resume of their careers.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Dr. Henry Aldridge, a candidate for the N. C. House of Representatives.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held November 19 at Holiday Inn.

What a pity the Lord saw fit to give us only 10 fingers! With only two more on each hand, all bridge players would be able to count up to 13, and many more contracts would be fulfilled. Today's hand is a simple exercise in arithmetic.

After his partner opened one no trump, North wheeled out the Gerber convention to check on aces and kings. When he found that all were present and accounted for, he bid the grand slam in the expectation of running his five-card suit.

West led the jack of spades, and declarer thought he could count fourteen tricks. He won the ace of spades and cashed the ace and king of clubs. When West sluffed a spade on the second club, declarer's boodle had shrunk to twelve. When hearts failed to divide evenly, declarer had to concede down one.

Declarer was somewhat precipitate in tackling clubs at trick two. If the clubs were going to behave, the contract would be a pianola. Instead, declarer should see what he can learn about the hands before committing himself in clubs.

Watch what happens if declarer starts out by cashing his three spades, discarding a club from the dummy. East discards a diamond on the third round. Next, declarer takes three rounds of hearts. The fourth heart does not set up, but declarer learns considerably more about the hand when East discards another diamond.

Now, declarer cashes the ace and king of diamonds. Both defenders follow suit, and the hand becomes an open book. West is known to have started with six spades, four hearts and at least two diamonds. Therefore, he cannot have room for more than one club.

So it is a simple matter to lead to the ace of clubs and, when both defenders follow

'Reality' Becomes TV Franchised Production

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reality, heaven help us, has come to afternoon television. Not real reality, but television's reality. Reality that substitutes contrivance for human drama, weird for poignance.

"Reality" with quotes around it. "Real People" reality.

As network prime-time is already thick with the stuff, it figured that someone would franchise the "Real People" product for off-network syndication. Someone has. "World of People" is the result.

"World of People" was devised by Bill Hillier, an expert at making synthetic "news-people" programs. While at Westinghouse Broadcasting, he invented those one-size-fits-all information magazine shows, "PM Magazine" and "Evening Magazine," which gave smaller independents the same empty-headed fluff the big boys were selling.

"World of People" is produced in Marin County, Calif. It is different from the long, gray line of network reality shows, Hillier maintains, because it doesn't utilize a studio audience, film segments or a laugh track. And the show's six "presenters" are based in three regional production centers.

He quibbles. "World of People" bears the family traits of its prime-time cousins — froth and frolic, an inclination to caricature and an aversion to substance. For light, hit-and-run amusement, though, "World of People" is on par with its contemporaries.

The daily 30-minute show, syndicated in 44 markets, including Boston, Los Angeles and San Francisco, began this week. The show's publicity sheet promised to "take viewers into the dramatic moments of people's lives and show the fascinating things people do for fun, for fame, for love, or the challenge of just doing it!"

Where have we heard that spiel before?

Some of the fun and challenge offered in the first week included a Bill Blass fashion show (or was it a long commercial?) and a trip to Gillie's bar in Pasadena, Texas (of "Urban Cowboy" fame), a trek I fear all television talk-variety-information-people shows will feel bound to make.

There was a Frisbee contest for dogs and a feature on women who wrestle in mud. The subject of this latter segment was a former homecoming queen named Tanya who grew up to work in a bank and lead a nice, normal life — except for her mud-wrestling.

In the dark streets of the mud-wrestling world, she is known as Terrible Tanya, and she sports a tattoo on her arm. Oh, the irony of it all.

The segment's presenter, Jan D'Attri, asks Terrible Tanya the obvious question: "Jan: 'Tanya, what is it about mud that appeals to you?'"

Chuck Barris Back In A New Contest

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chuck Barris, father of "The Gong Show" and "The $1.98 Beauty Contest," will begin a talent show next fall with a top prize of $1 million cash.

Barris said he would be the host of the new variety contest series, "The Million-Dollar Talent Show," which will be syndicated to stations for one hour a week beginning in fall 1981.

Barris, noted for his casual attire and sometimes caustic remarks on "The Gong Show," said, "I'll have a tuxedo, combed hair and black tie — and a warm, friendly and ingratiating manner."

Budd Granoff, executive vice president of Chuck Barris Productions, said the new show was inspired in a way by "The Gong Show," where amateurs show acts that are sometimes smooth and often outrageous.

"We saw so much exceptional talent during our auditions for the 'Gong Show' that we couldn't put on," Granoff said. "They'd come around, but 'The Gong Show' was the wrong place for them."

Barris said Tuesday the competitors for the new show would be drawn both from amateur and professional ranks and that each weekly winner would receive a prize of $10,000. At the end of 25 weeks, a panel of celebrity judges would select an overall winner for a prize of $1 million in cash.

He said he realized that variety shows have not done well in recent years.

"I feel if we do this in the old style of Ed Sullivan, let them perform without a lot of hullabaloo or window dressing, we will succeed," said Barris. "There's also the competition aspect. People will be rooting for a particular act."

Six months ago, Barris suspended production on all his programs and said he was temporarily withdrawing from the business because of the low return paid for syndicated shows, short term contracts and poor time slots. He said he would stay out until the market for syndicated shows improved.

Barris said the pilot program for "The Million-Dollar Talent Show" would be taped Nov. 19 at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

Another new Barris show, "Leave it to the Women," will have its pilot taped on Oct. 15.

TT: "I've been quoted as saying we're ladies, but we're animals in the mud." Shows such as "The World of People" do no harm to anyone, any more than a little comic book reading stunts the mind. My complaint is that television's library is already crammed with comic books. And the presses roll on.

EAST CAROLINA

Tar Heel Was Involved In Dramatic Confrontation

By Dr. H.G. JONES
For The Associated Press

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's John Hill Wheeler, United States

White House Assistant Will Speak

A White House staff assistant will speak at the North Carolina Cooperative Council's Co-op Month breakfast scheduled for the Ramada Inn here September 30.

Larry Newlin, staff assistant to Pres. Carter in the area of intergovernmental affairs will discuss current national issues affecting rural development, at the session, designed to bring together representatives of the state's cooperatives and other business and community leaders in hopes of fostering a better understanding of how co-ops operate.

The N.C. Co-op Council represents 93 cooperatives which collectively serve about 500,000 families across North Carolina. The co-ops range from lending institutions serving farmers, and commodity marketing organizations, to electric and telephone cooperatives.

Charles Colvard, executive vice president of the co-op council said a score of cooperatives will be directly involved in the Greenville breakfast, expected to draw participants from a 10-county area in the East.

Local planning for the event is being coordinated by the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce and officials of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association and the Pitt-Greene Electric Membership Corporation.

Additional information about the breakfast may be secured by contacting the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce or officials of the cooperatives.

Solicitations Are Approved

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of two requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Wyatt said the requests were submitted by: Ayden Middle School yearbook committee for permission to conduct a merchant solicitation in order to sell ads for the publication of the school yearbook for September, October and November; and by E. B. Aycock Junior High School for permission to conduct its annual magazine sale Oct. 1-15 in order to raise funds for school projects.

minister to Nicaragua, became involved in a dramatic confrontation with anti-slavery forces in Philadelphia in 1855.

The legal proceedings that followed indicated the complexities of traveling in a country where slavery was legal in some states and outlawed in others.

The minister was traveling with three slaves to New York after delivering treaties to the State Department in Washington. From New York they would go by ship to Nicaragua where the blacks would be house servants for his wife, Ellen.

With him upon arrival in Philadelphia by train on July 18, 1855, were a slave woman, Jane, about 35, and her sons, Daniel, about 11, and Isaiah, about 9. Jane had been born in Washington, and Wheeler had purchased her and her boys in Richmond in 1853 from a Mr. Crew.

The entourage visited Wheeler's father-in-law, the famous artist Thomas Sully, then proceeded to Bloodgood's Hotel in Philadelphia, where the minister had dinner.

The party boarded a ship at the wharf for the remainder of the trip to New York, but as the vessel was about to get under way, a group of abolitionists, mostly black, rushed aboard.

A leader of the party, Passmore Williamson, approached Jane and told her that when she and her sons stepped on the soil of Pennsylvania, they were no longer slaves.

Just what happened in the next few minutes was disputed later by the two sides. Williamson claimed that Jane said she wanted to be free; Wheeler said that she expressed an unwillingness to leave her master.

Whatever her wishes, Jane and the boys were conducted off the ship into a waiting carriage, and Wheeler was forcibly restrained by the anti-slavery men.

The minister hurried to the United States District Court and petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus requiring Williamson to produce the three slaves.

Judge John K. Kane issued the writ, but Williamson denied having the slaves in his possession or control. The judge thereupon cited Williamson for contempt and threw him into Moyamensing Prison where he remained for more than two months.

Williamson's lawyers began a series of efforts to overturn the writ which led to their client's imprisonment.

One issue was whether Jane and her boys remained slaves after they entered Pennsylvania en route with their master from one state to another.

There were two other issues: whether the minister's diplomatic immunity extended to his presence in a state of the Union, and whether the federal court could legally issue the writ of habeas corpus in this case.

Judge Kane gave no opinion on the issue of diplomatic immunity, but he defended Wheeler's right to transport his slaves through Pennsylvania without interference. He said:

"I know of no statute of Pennsylvania which affects to divest the rights of property of a citizen of North Carolina, acquired and asserted under the laws of that State, because he has found it needful or convenient to pass through the territory of Pennsylvania."

Unsuccessful in federal court, Williamson's attorneys petitioned the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

The state's highest court ruled that it had no jurisdiction to interfere with a contempt citation issued by a federal court. Furthermore, the majority decision said, Williamson carried "the key of his prison in his own pocket," for to be released from prison he had only to obey the order of the court by producing Jane, Daniel and Isaiah.

Meanwhile, Wheeler's attorneys brought charges against seven persons who, he alleged, conducted a riot, assaulted him, and forcibly abducted his three slaves.

Two of the accused — John Ballard and William Curtis — were convicted of assault and battery against Wheeler, and they were fined and sentenced to a week's imprisonment.

Eventually Williamson was released by Judge Kane on the ground that he purged himself of contempt when he showed that, though he had been a party to the abduction of the slaves, he no longer had them under his control when the writ was issued.

John Hill Wheeler failed to reclaim his slaves. Thus Jane, Daniel and Isaiah won their freedom a decade before the Union victory in the Civil War would have cut their bonds of slavery.

NO MEAL SERVED

HIS BANNER OVER US IS LOVE . . . Bill Suttles was born in Durham, N.C. and grew up in Fayetteville, Rocky Mount, Raleigh with two years in Dunn. He graduated a National Honor Society student from Broughton High School and UNC in Chapel Hill. A Dean's List student for every semester.

Following graduation from college Bill spent brief periods in the Teachers Corps in New York City and in an Anti-Poverty program in Vermont. Searching for answers in his life, he enrolled in Church Divinity School of the Pacific (an Episcopal Seminary in Berkeley, California) and had been there one month when he was arrested for his pacifist beliefs and subsequent refusal to cooperate with the U.S. Selective Service. In March, 1967 Bill was convicted of two violations of the Selective Service Act and sentenced to 6 years in Federal Prison.

It was IN PRISON that Bill began to read the Bible and in June, 1971 he met Jesus as Savior. Three months later Jesus baptized him in the Holy Spirit in his prison cell, and for the next year taught him to walk day by day. Out of prison Bill worked as a counselor in the Nicky Cruz Boys Home in Fayetteville and has completed his Master of Divinity degree in Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary. In 1974 Bill met and married Carolyn Gaskins of Norfolk, Va. and they have two children, Rebecca and Joseph.

Bill is presently Vice-President and General Manager of WPIL, a Full-Time Christian Radio Station in Raleigh. He produces a daily devotion heard over eight radio stations in Va., N.C., S.C. and Fla.

We are looking forward to a mighty move of the Holy Spirit as Bill shares with us at this meeting. We encourage you to bring your friends, particularly those with needs. There is no admission charge.

The machine age has not been altogether kind to human beings. From time to time, machines have been known to resist, even thwart, humans who try to use them.

But now humans can look forward to a much more pleasant relationship at NCNB.

The people who introduced the first banking machines in North Carolina now introduce the most advanced banking machines in America. The new NCNB 24 talks your language. It says "Hello, what can I do for you?" instead of "Enter your desired transaction." It understands your needs. So it gives you a choice of cash in $5 amounts up to $100, instead of just $25 or $50. It knows that everybody can make mistakes. So it doesn't take your card away just because you hit the wrong button. It knows you don't like to wait. So it handles your banking in as little as 30 seconds.

It knows that you expect full service. So it lets you do everything from getting money to checking out your balances.

In short, the new NCNB 24 makes all of your routine banking easier.

So, if you're not banking with NCNB 24 now, this is a good time to start.

For the details, stop in at the bank that wants to be the best in the neighborhood.

Finally, a machine that treats you like a human being.
