Iran Finds A Friend; N. Korea Sends Aid

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran, at last, has found a friend: North Korea.

Isolated until now in its war with Iraq, Iran has begun to get ammunition and medical supplies from the Koreans via an Iranian airlift using American-built Boeing 747 jumbo jets, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Wednesday.

"How long its will last, how many flights, we don't know," he told reporters.

Another administration official, requesting anonymity, told the Associated Press that the planes are carefully avoiding Soviet airspace, flying instead over China.

But the Chinese have denied the Iranians permission to refuel, meaning the returning planes are less than fully loaded.

Only Monday night, Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr deplored his country's "total isolation" in the fight.

"This is the first time in history that a country is being attacked and is supported by no one in the world," he said in an address on Iranian television. "It's total isolation and it should make us think. We have to realize that our words and our slogans satisfy no one but us."

North Korea is the only nation known to be resupplying the dwindling Iranian stocks, Miller told reporters.

Other administration officials are puzzled that the North Koreans would become involved, even indirectly, in the conflict.

One, requesting anonymity, said that while North Korea needs the money from its Iranian sales, the government wants to be friends with Iraq and other Arab nations. North Korea has aspirations of playing a leading role among non-aligned nations, a group in which Iraq is prominent.

Most of the Koreans' arms come from the Soviet Union and China, although North Korea makes some ammunition of its own.

While Iran may have some Soviet-made weapons, most of its military strength is in its air force, which consists of F-4, F-5 and F-14 jets obtained from the United States when the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was in power.

That pipeline was broken after the seizure of American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran 11 months ago. Miller said parts for the planes are extremely difficult to buy on the world arms market.

Meanwhile, the United States has offered to provide surveillance information to friendly countries in the Persian Gulf region to lessen the threat of air attacks resulting from the war between Iraq and Iran.

The offer involves data gathered by four sophisticated American planes jammed with radar that were sent to Saudi Arabia last week to aid in protecting oil fields and other installations from any spillover from the war.

Iran Reports A Heavy Toll Taken By Iraqi Missiles

By STEVE K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iran claimed today the Iraqis used ground-to-ground missiles for the first time in the war, killing as many as 180 Iranian civilians and wounding hundreds more in attacks on two Iranian cities. Iraq's president, apparently extending attempts to get outside help or mediation to settle the conflict, sent top envoys to four nations.

But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini predicted Iran would win the war and said his goal was to take Islamic government to Iraq, Tehran Radio said. Iranian planes bombed the outskirts of Baghdad.

Iran said Iraqi invaders threatening Qahwaz, capital of Khuzistan Province, were thrown back 13 miles, but Iraq said its planes severely damaged a large factory there. Iraq also reported Iranian attacks on the northeastern city of Kirkuk wounded 18 civilians and that Iraqi anti-aircraft fire drove Iranian warplanes away from the northern cities of Erbil and Mosul.

Iraq claimed its forces "continued to destroy enemy installations and to strike at military and economic targets deep in Iranian territory, inflicting heavy losses in life and equipment." But there was no comment on the missile claim or word on the progress of its key offensive to complete the conquest of the Iranian port of Khorramshahr and move on to the neighboring refinery city of Abadan.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein sent Cabinet ministers to the leaders of Turkey, India, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, and Radio Baghdad said they carried messages which "explained Iraq's peaceful attitude before and during the war."

In Ankara, Turkey, Hussein's envoy met with Turkey's top leaders and Western diplomats said they believed he asked for Turkish mediation in the war.

Baghdad Radio said Iraqi Oil Minister Rayeh Abdul Karim visited Kuwait's ruler Sheikh Jabel al Ahmad al Sabah, then flew by jet to Saudi Arabia for meetings with King Khaled and Prince Fahd.

King Hussein of Jordan, brushing aside American and British warnings following his declaration of support for Iraq, said he would send Jordanian troops to fight alongside the Iraqis if they were needed. But he said that was not imminent yet.

The Jordanian port of Aqaba was crowded with about 40 ships, three times the normal number, as supplies for Iraq were diverted there to be moved overland to Baghdad.

The Arab nations of the Mideast have been uneasy about threats from Khomeini, leader of a non-Arab but Moslem nation, to export his brand of fundamentalist Islamic revolution to his Arab neighbors. This threat is one of the issues in the fight with Iraq, where the minority Sunni sect rules a nation whose majority belongs to the Shiite sect. Most Iranians, although Persian, are Shiites.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller reported that North Korea's communist government was selling ammunition and medical supplies to Iran, but he said spare parts and other equipment needed for Iran's U.S.-equipped military machine are unavailable on the world market.

The State Department said information gathered by the four U.S. electronic observation planes sent to Saudi Arabia last week was being made available to friendly countries in the war zone to lessen the threat of air attacks on them. The information was reported going to Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, both major oil producers, and Oman, as well as Saudi Arabia.

In Moscow, President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Syrian President Hafez Assad signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation that sources in Damascus said gave Syria, a longtime foe of Iraq, the status of virtual membership in the Warsaw Pact. But Brezhnev said the Soviet Union is not going to intervene in the Persian Gulf war and warned the West to stay out also.

Ground Broken Today For Water Treatment Plant

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Ground was broken this morning for the city's new $11.6 million water treatment plant to be constructed on a 100-acre site off the Old

River Road, north of the Tar River and west of the Pitt-Greenville Airport.

Mayor Don McGlohn, who welcomed those attending the ceremony, termed the new water treatment plant, "a real great forward step for us."

Greenville Utilities Commission chairman Tom Shea said Greenville's first water plant was constructed in 1905 and included chemical treatment and pressure sand filters, with a plant capacity of, "probably less than one million gallons per day. The plant was converted in 1919 to gravity type rapid sand filters, with a capacity of about two million gallons per day."

Shea continued by pointing out that new sand filters and settling basins in 1949 increased the treatment capacity to three million gallons of water per day, while changes in the filter system in 1972 upped the plant's capacity to six million gallons per day.

"Today," according to

Shea, "with eight existing deep wells pumping directly into the distribution system, the total supply capacity is nine million gallons per day."

"The new plant to be constructed on this site will have a treatment capacity of 12 million gallons per day," and will include a raw water pump station designed and constructed for 24 million gallons per day, and "a pre-settling impoundment basin holding some 60 million gallons of water — the size of nearly 20 football fields," which will hold a five day's supply of raw water and provide a more uniform and better supply of water to the treatment plant.

The plant itself, Shea explained, will consist of chemical treatment facilities, settling basins and rapid sand filters. "The plant will be fully automated with a computer system controlling and monitoring the various stages of treatment," and will include space and piping connections for additional treatment stages that may be required in the future.

The treated or finished water from the plant will be pumped into ground level reservoirs holding six million gallons, then pumped from the reservoirs into the distribution system as needed.

According to Shea, nine major contractors or suppliers and even more subcontractors will be involved in the construction of the new facility.

Completion is set for October 1982.

"At that time," Shea emphasized, Greenville will have, "a total water supply capacity of 16 million gallons per day, which could readily be expanded to 30 million gallons per day, and the existing plant facilities now in use will be abandoned."

GUC director Charles Horne termed the new plant, "a community effort," made possible, "by a vote of the people," who passed a bond issue in 1979 to finance the new facility. In addition to local bond funds, $1.7 million in state clean water bond money will go toward the construction of the plant.

Shea noted that the new water plant, "will provide for Greenville's orderly growth and development well into the 21st century, truly a project of the people, for the people, and by the people."

Prize To Polish Exile

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1980 Nobel Prize in literature was awarded today to Czeslaw Milosz, an exiled Polish poet, novelist and outspoken anti-Soviet who has become a U.S. citizen.

Calling him a writer who "with uncompromising clear-sightedness voices man's exposed condition in the world of severe conflicts," the Swedish Academy of Letters said: "His writing is many-voiced and dramatic, insistent and provocative. This is true not only of his poetry but also of his prose — the novels, the analyses and . . . essays, which perhaps have been overlooked in favor of his poetry."

Milosz, 69, was cultural affairs attache at the Polish Embassy in Paris in 1951 when he ignored a recall by communist Poland. At the time, he said he would remain in France "because I knew perfectly well that my country was becoming the province of an empire."

"I have rejected the Stalinists' new faith," he added, "because the practice of lying is one of its principal commandments. The Soviet religion is only another name for lying."

Milosz, born in Lithuania, has been living in the United States since 1960. He became a naturalized U.S. citizen in 1970. He is professor of Slavic languages at the University of California at Berkeley.

ECU Blood Drive Is Successful

A highly successful two-day Bloodmobile drive concluded Wednesday on the East Carolina University campus under the sponsorship of the Air Force ROTC.

Ott Alford, county Blood Program chairman, said that the 797 pints of blood collected during the two-day effort topped by some 30 pints last year's top AFROTC drive.

According to Alford, Tuesday's effort saw 352 pints of blood collected and ECU students, staff and faculty members turned out Wednesday in even greater numbers to donate 445 pints.

The chairman offered his thanks to the members of the Corps of Cadets, commanded by Col. J. C. Thomas, for their work, and to Corps Capt. Steve Bienstock who coordinated the visit. Thomas assumed AFROTC duties at ECU when Col. Ed Tadlock, who is now on the staff at D. H. Conley High School, retired.

Alford also thanked the women of the Greenville Service League for their part in the drive and other volunteers who assisted.

"This was just a super visit at East Carolina," he commented, noting that the campus drive follows last week's successful one-day visit at Rose High School. He added, "It's all very encouraging."

The Bloodmobile will be at Ayden-Grifton High School next Wednesday.

Defends Trying Gene-Implant

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first scientist known to use genetic engineering to directly attack a human ailment now finds himself embroiled in controversy over whether he tried the technique too quickly.

"Sufficient information from our animal studies to feel it was appropriate (to replace a defective gene in a human patient). This research is aimed at correcting a disease which is lethal."

Cline, a researcher at the University of California at Los Angeles, went to Israel and Italy to try the experimental procedure on two patients with an untreatable, hereditary blood disease that usually kills its victims in their teens or 20s.

The technique is an attempt to insert into the patients' bone marrow cells a normal human gene to take over for the defective genes.

Preliminary results of the therapy won't be in for several months, Cline told a news conference, but the two young women "are as well as they were before."

to avoid American guidelines but to find patients with the disease, beta thalassemia major, which is rare in this country but relatively common in the Mediterranean area.

Albert Barber, a biologist and UCLA's vice chancellor for research, said the rejection "was not because of risk. It was because the committee felt there was a need for doing a bit more (animal research for) validation of the scientific basis of the experiment."

Barber stressed the experimental procedure's potential for treating currently incurable genetic diseases.

"I feel the possibilities for alleviating human suffering by these techniques, when they are worked out, is enormous," Barber said.

The National Institutes of Health had sent an inquiry to UCLA on Sept. 8 to determine "whether he (Cline) may have done work in humans that may not have fully met the requirements of our regulations," said Charles R. McCarthy, director of the agency's Office of Protection from Research Risks.

"We are making no judgment," McCarthy said. "This is a fairly routine inquiry and most of these inquiries turn out to be false alarms."

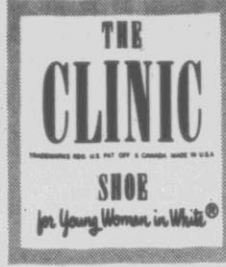

Cline said he believes he met all applicable NIH standards and used no federal money for the foreign work.

Thalassemia victims are unable to produce normal hemoglobin, the blood molecule that supplies body tissues with oxygen.

Visiting N.C.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — President Carter was to return to North Carolina today, on his first trip to the state since 1978, to make a three-hour stopover in the Winston-Salem area.

Carter, who is not expected to campaign in the state again before the Nov. 4 general election, scheduled a speech this afternoon at the Dixie Classic Fair and then was to attend a $500-a-couple fundraising reception at Forsyth County's Tanglewood Park.

Campaign aides predicted the fundraiser would produce about $100,000 for Carter's re-election effort.

The president's trip to North Carolina was part of a two-day campaign swing that also included stops in Tennessee earlier today and in Florida tonight and Friday.

Tentative plans called for Carter to arrive at Smith-Reynolds Airport at 4:40 p.m. and then join a motorcade for the ride to the fairgrounds. The airport arrival was to be closed to the public.

Carter was to be joined at the fairgrounds by Gov. Jim Hunt and other leaders of the state Democratic Party.

Wallace Hyde, who heads Carter's campaign program in North Carolina, said this was the only trip scheduled to the state by the president. A second trip, he said, would depend on how the campaign looks in the final week or two before the election.

Hyde said the Carter campaign considers the president to be leading in North Carolina and is making this visit "because of his commitment to North Carolina."

"I think he wants to offset any idea he's taking North Carolina for granted," Hyde said. "He could spend time a lot better in Ohio or somewhere like that."

Carter was last in North Carolina during the 1978 political campaigns, when he appeared on behalf of Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, who unsuccessfully tried to unseat Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Independent candidate John Anderson visited Chapel Hill last month. Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan tentatively had been scheduled to campaign in North Carolina Friday, but his staff announced earlier that Reagan would go to the western United States instead.

Complete data are not expected for a year or so, and he does not plan to try the procedure on any other people until that information is evaluated.

UCLA's human subjects committee on July 22 rejected Cline's application to do similar work with victims of sickle cell anemia, another inherited blood disease, which primarily affects blacks.

Cline said he performed the procedure at Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem and University Poly Clinic in Naples a week or so before the rejection, and "if I had known the university would turn that down, I probably wouldn't have undertaken the studies in the Mediterranean."

He said he went abroad not

The Vikings In America

In the year 986, more than 500 years before Columbus crossed the Atlantic, a Norse navigator named Herjulfson spotted the coast of eastern Canada when a storm drove his ship off course. 14 years later, Norsemen led by Leif Erickson set out from Greenland to explore the new land Herjulfson had seen. Erickson and his crew became the first Europeans to set foot in the Western Hemisphere. The Viking settlements in North America did not last, and for centuries the adventures of Erickson and later Norse explorers lived on only in Icelandic poems and folk tales. Today, October 9, is Leif Erickson Day.

Dear Abby

First-Class Brat Needs Lots Of Love

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old son recently married a girl who was previously married and has a 4-year-old girl. Abby, the little girl is a first-class brat!

We realize that part of the reason for the child's behavior stems from the fact that she has been dumped here, there and everywhere and has had no consistent discipline. Since she is only 4, we hope that with some effort this can be remedied.

Now comes the problem: Our son has asked us what we want this little girl to call us. To be honest with you, because of her actions we are embarrassed to have her call us "Grandma and Grandpa."

Meanwhile we are trying to think of something she can call us for the present. Our son suggested we consult Dear Abby.

LOOKING FOR A NAME

DEAR LOOKING: Please have her call you "Grandma and Grandpa." A child who has been dumped here, there and everywhere must be starved for love, acceptance, kindness and understanding.

You have a perfect opportunity to make her feel loved and wanted. Please don't blow it by labeling her a "brat" and conditioning your love on her behavior. Smother her with love and kindness, and you will never have to worry about being "embarrassed."

DEAR ABBY: Last May you printed the poem titled, "Heaven's Very Special Child," stating that it had been sent to you by a Tucson reader, and the author was unknown.

Abby, my wife is the author of that poem. She had it copyrighted in 1956. I feel that a correction is in order as several people are now claiming ownership.

We are the parents of five daughters — one is retarded. We will be pleased to send a copy of the poem to anyone who requests it and sends return postage to us at Box 21, Hatboro, Pa. 19040.

Thank you.

THE REV. JOHN A. MASSIMILLA

DEAR REV. MASSIMILLA: It is with apologies and pleasure that I reprint the lovely poem together with your kind letter:

Heaven's Very Special Child
By Edna Massimilla

A meeting was held quite far from earth
"It's time again for another birth,"
Said the Angels to the Lord above,
"This special child will need much love."
His progress may seem very slow
Accomplishments he may not show
And he'll require extra care
From the folks he meets way down there.
He may not run or laugh or play
His thoughts may seem quite far away
In many ways he won't adapt
And he'll be known as handicapped.
So let's be careful where he's sent
We want his life to be content
Please, Lord, find the parents who Will do a special job for You.
They will not realize right away
The leading role they're asked to play
But with this child sent from above
Come stronger faith and richer love.
And soon they'll know the privilege given
In caring for this gift from heaven
Their precious charge, so meek and mild,
Is heaven's very special child.

Lesser Known Melons

If you go shopping for melons at this time of year, you may find the Persian, the Honeydew and the Casaba. All of these are members of the muskmelon family — but since they may be new to you, let's talk a bit about each one.

We'll start with the Persian, because it's much like the cantaloupe — it's similar in shape and is covered with a fine gray netting. But Persians are larger — they weigh two to eight pounds. They have a dark green rind, their flesh is a deep orange-pink, very thick and mildly sweet. Persian melons have a distinctly pleasant aroma. As they ripen, the rind under the netting turns a lighter green and the melons give under slight pressure.

Perhaps the most familiar of the lesser known melons is the honeydew. It has a whitish green, tough rind, with a very smooth surface. The flesh is a delicate green, sweet and juicy.

The Casaba is a later variety of melon, plentiful in September and October. It's large, almost globe-shaped and has a rough and wrinkled rind. There is no netting. As the melon matures, the rind becomes buttery-yellow. A ripe Casaba has a soft, creamy white, juicy flesh. In comparison with other melons it has little fragrance. Its flavor is mild and sweet.

If you feel the price is high on these lesser-known melons — remember this. Most of these melons weigh seven or eight pounds — that's about twice what most canteloupes weigh. So it figures that if they weigh twice as much — maybe they ought to cost twice as much.

Cure Gourds To Last For Years
Colorful gourds can spark fall centerpieces. And if you cure them right, they'll last for years.

So here's something you might try. As soon as you pick gourds, give them a good bath. Add a disinfectant, such as a household bleach, to the water to get rid of mold spores. Next, put the gourds on open shelves in a well-ventilated area for at least a month. Don't let them touch each other or sit close to a heat source. Turn them daily.

Before you use gourds, coat them with furniture polish. This preserves colors and helps protect against mold growth. If you keep gourds stored in a well-ventilated place, you can continue to use them in fall centerpieces for years.

Civic Involvement Helps

The City Board of Education must have been dumbfounded at its meeting Tuesday night.

Representatives of the Athletics Booster Club appeared before them to request the installation of toilets at the Aycock Junior High athletic field. But the club wasn't asking for any money. This was to be their principal project and the Booster Club would pay for the improvements.

The plan is to locate the facilities north of the present bleachers and design them to fit any future improvements to the area. It is to be the principal project this year of the Rose-Aycock Foundation. The work would, of course, meet all local building codes.

The attitude is one we like to see. There are some things government has to furnish in education and other fields. Other things are desirable, but not essential. It is good to see that an organization such as the Athletics Booster Club is willing to take on this project. All our civic organizations could accept challenges to provide needed public facilities. The result would be a lot more pride in our community and some abatement of steadily rising tax rates.

Funds Help Municipalities

Greenville will receive $414,963 from the N. C. Department of Transportation as its share of Powell Bill (street improvement) funds.

For Farmville the amount will be $67,373, Ayden, $58,466, Grifton, $32,466 and Winterville $29,978.

Other area communities will receive proportionate shares.

The money is important to municipalities in providing street improvements. With careful budgeting it can be stretched a long way and provide for better streets and more attractive communities.

Little Value Seen

RALEIGH — It is widely held that once firmly entrenched, governmental programs are rarely scaled down, and almost never eliminated.

There is an equally prevalent, though less well-known propensity for governmental programs to overprotect the public.

Whether this results from a genuine desire of enlightened bureaucrats to take an ignorant public by the hand, or from the more likely scheming of bureaucrats to protect and enlarge their domains is not all that relevant. The result remains a profusion of protective, regulatory, and enforcement activities of government impinging upon almost every aspect of our daily lives.

When the North Carolina General Assembly endorsed the concept of experimentation with "sunset law" in this state and established the Governmental Evaluation Commission, the underlying motivation was to tackle all of these bureaucratic ills. The first step is to look closely at licensing and regulatory boards governing a variety of business and professional activities.

The staff of the commission continues to investigate and report upon the numerous agencies with faithfulness to the element of review which has given this activity its popular title: "sunset". That label derives from the notion that unless a particular endeavor can justify its continued existence, it should fade from existence as does daylight when the sun sets.

Having tested theory on the regulatory boards, authors of sunset legislation hope in coming years to turn similar studies to ongoing activities of major departments and agencies of state government.

The unknown factor remains: what will the General Assembly do with the stack of reports calling for terminations or major changes in boards and commissions being sent forward by the Governmental Evaluation Commission? Judging from limited experience with the process to date, the lawmakers show a decided inclination to side with those organized and political active practitioners who insist that continued licensing and regulation not only protects the public, but helps keep them in business.

In its most recent investigation the Sunset Commission staff examined what it found to be a prime example of overprotection of the public.

There is a North Carolina Water Treatment Facility Operators Board of Certification with seven board members required to meet twice each year, and staff within the health division of the state's Department of Human Resources assigned to the program. Before a person can be a water system operator he is supposed to pass the test and be licensed.

But of 13,000 public water supply systems in the state, certified operators have been required at only 400, and those are largely at

The Batting Practice

TORRANCE, CALIF. — The president of the United States came here the other day for his 26th "Town Meeting" — to be, in his words, "cross-examined in public." Before the questioning began, the crowd in the North High School gymnasium pledged allegiance to the flag, sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and stood respectfully as the school band — rehearsed by White House advance men — played "Hail to the Chief."

There he was, the president, standing in front of 50 — count 'em, 50 — American flags. Time for the "cross-examination" and here comes a tough question: "Mr. President, my name is Shirley Dezutti and I'm from Redondo Beach. You are known as one of the best friends of education and I would like you to think about that topic for a minute and ask you to share with us when it comes to education why you are the far better choice than the other two?"

The week before, at another Town Meeting, in Corpus Christi, Texas, Betty Godfrey had risen to ask: "I'm tired of hearing what you didn't do. I want to bring out some points that you did do and other people blundered...I'm tired of hearing you blamed as president...What about that, Mr. President? What about that?"

What about it? It's like batting practice. If you have ever been out to the ball park early and watched big leaguers belt one fat pitch after another into the stands, you have an idea of what presidential campaigning is like these days.

Jimmy Carter has created a fantastic political forum, for himself, with his Town Meetings. Out there with the real people, handling the tough ones straight from the grass roots. The fact is that real Americans are very polite after standing for "Hail to the Chief" — the trumpet-blasting introduction Carter once said would not be played during his presidency. You also wonder how "real" they are when, as in Corpus Christi, one questioner thanks the president for the birthday card and another says she sure enjoyed meeting the president at his nephew's wedding.

At least Carter talked to somebody. Traveling with Ronald Reagan, reporters and everybody else are constantly being shooed away by his press secretary, Lyn Nofziger. "No press conference. No questions, no questions," Nofziger chants as Reagan points to his left wrist. "They tell me I have no time," the candidate says at almost every stop.

No time for what? No time for questions. Certainly no time for follow-up questions — which was the story of the televised "debate" between Reagan and John Anderson and is the pattern of shows like "Meet the Press."

You have to be damned gutsy — or very unpleasant — to break through the politeness barrier in American politics. It's only happened a couple of times in this campaign. Lisa Myers, a reporter for the Washington Star, stared down the president at a news conference when he tried to ignore her assertion, which was true, that Carter's people had injected race and racism in the 1980 political dialogue. And a high school student named Steve Dulaney pressed the dodging president with six straight impolite questions about the quality of public education in Corpus Christi.

As for Reagan, forget it. The only people who are going to get a chance to stare at him are his wife and his dentist.

American politics needs hecklers, both as reporters and citizens. We should scrap polite formats like "Face the Nation" — let the candidate face Sam Donaldson of ABC

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To The Editor:

Let me take this opportunity to compliment the coaches of Rocky Mount High School and J.H. Rose High School of Greenville for their handling of a bad moment at a football game between these two schools.

These gentlemen, without thinking of their personal safety, broke up a potentially dangerous situation. It is a credit to the discipline of both teams that they responded after a few moments to their coaches.

Thank goodness the fans from Rocky Mount and Greenville had the good sense to keep from becoming involved. Thank goodness the Greenville Police Department did not react too hastily and allowed the coaches to exercise their control.

I wish that I could compliment the officials who appeared to be getting out of the situation as quickly as they could.

C.B. West

To the editor:

From time to time we hear of or read something that appears to put the Pitt County School System in a bad light. I find it distressing that the parents of children in the county school do not react to this.

I wish they would take the time to say "Hey, we have a good school system here, with teachers who spend a great deal of their time preparing for the next days or weeks classes, with everyone, from the volunteers to the superintendent of schools doing a darn good job of caring about and trying to educate our children".

As a parent with three children in school in the county I feel very confident that my children could not be in better hands. My experiences with the school personnel have been rewarding and my questions have been answered promptly and interest shown in acquainting all parents with the school system.

How much time would it take for a parent to say "Thank you" to a teacher or other system personnel for all they do to try to educate and/or help our child/children.

It only takes a minute!

And to all of those involved in the Pitt County School System I would like to publicly say...Thank you for all you do.

Strength For Today

THE LIMITATIONS OF PRACTICAL MEN

So-called "practical men" have a marked contempt for dreamers, artists, academicians, and saints. But a good case can be made from the scrolls of history demonstrating that the so-called practical men have often gotten us into serious trouble. Alexander the Great was practical; so were Julius Caesar, Napoleon, and Hitler.

The great British statesman Disraeli once declared that practical men are men who practice the blunders of their predecessors. Heaven preserve us from impractical dreamers who can lead us into every conceivable scheme to impoverish and enslave us. But heaven preserve us equally from the practical men who are quite sure that they could manage world affairs with great ease, if only society was wise enough to put them in power.

Men who consider themselves practical are often sadly lacking in imagination. They can be useful members of society; but like all of us they should be aware of their limitations. — Elisha Douglass

Kennedy To The Rescue

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Heeding pleas from President Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has agreed to cut five TV commercials for the Carter-Mondale ticket, but only under conditions that completely bypass Gerald Rafshoon, Carter's chief media adviser.

Kennedy will make the commercials in New York City soon. Political advertising expert David Sawyer will be in charge of production, and the ads will be written by Kennedy's speechwriter Bob Shrum. The new Kennedy series is tentatively scheduled to be aired in the major battleground states of the Northeast. Carter's recruitment of Kennedy to tout the president's re-election over TV suggests that the president may be running scared.

Almost all pro-Carter TV and radio commercials are under Rafshoon's direct control. Kennedy, however, blamed Rafshoon for systematic below-the-belt blows during the primaries, and wanted no association with him.

Reagan's TV Wars

Rep. Jack Kemp of New York has enjoyed at least some preliminary success in his uphill fight to restore substance to Ronald Reagan's presently issue-free television media campaign.

Kemp, who along with other Republican leaders has been deeply distressed by the flabby quality of Reagan's TV spots, offered a rough outline for six new commercials to Reagan media director Peter Dailey. After studying them, Dailey called back to say he liked three of the ideas and might produce them.

They would include spots showing Reagan talking about taxes, inflation and "people." These are similar to the hard-hitting commercials used by Reagan in the early primaries, which were shelved by Los Angeles advertising executive Dailey when he joined the campaign last summer. At this writing, however, only Dailey's lifeless spots are being seen on television screens in opposition to President Carter's lethal commercials assaulting Reagan.

Silencing CIA

Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), at the initiative of the White House has issued orders that there is to be no "finished" intelligence assessment of Soviet defense capabilities against missile or bomber attack until after the election.

That order is believed by CIA veterans to be unprecedented. It stymies any chance that the CIA can substantiate its suspicions that the Russians have been cheating on the U.S. by building anti-ballistic missile (ABM) or anti-aircraft defenses. Such weapon systems are banned by U.S.-Soviet treaties.

Spy-satellite pictures analyzed by the CIA have recently shown Soviet work on a giant radar near Moscow designed to repel incoming ballistic missiles. Now the "finished" intelligence estimates of the giant radar will have to await the post-election period.

Nixon Predicts

Not one dissent was made when former President Richard Nixon confided to old Republican friends at a private dinner party in Washington that Ronald Reagan would win the presidential election by cutting deeply into the normally Democratic blue-collar vote.

That lack of dissent shows how much Nixon's political analysis is still respected by politicians. Nixon made his forecast during dinner at California Rep. Bob Wilson's Capitol Hill home in late September. Other guests were members of the Chowder and Marching Society, a convivial group of Republican House members that Nixon helped found in 1947 when he was a congressman.

Nixon said that to win the presidency, a Republican candidate must cut deeply into normally Democratic constituencies. He recalled Dwight Eisenhower's and his own success with different parts of the Democratic constituency and then identified blue-collar Democrats as the voting bloc that would swing to Reagan and away from President Carter.

A footnote: Nixon praised Reagan but said his problem is that "he may be too nice a guy," particularly in contrast to what Nixon calls the "hardball" aides in Jimmy Carter's White House.

Clements Stays Home
Spiking rumors that he would go back to Washington to become secretary of defense in the event of a Republican victory Nov. 4, Gov. Bill Clements has informed Ronald Reagan he will stay in Texas to complete his four-year term.

Clements, who served eight years as deputy secretary of defense under Presidents Nixon and Ford, in 1978 was elected the first Republican governor of Texas since Reconstruction. He has told Reagan he will not leave Austin in mid-term. Clements says Texans traditionally leave senatorial chairs and Cabinet seats in Washington to come home and run for governor, not the other way around.

A footnote: A more likely Texan for the defense portfolio would be former Gov. John B. Connally. Friends disagree whether Connally would return to the Pentagon, where he was secretary of the Navy nearly 20 years ago; some say only an offer to become secretary of state would lure him back to Washington.

Keep Pace With Rising Prices

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Inflation has turned many homeowners into wealthy people — on paper at least. But consumers whose insurance has not kept pace with rising prices can lose a lot of money if trouble strikes.

Coveyage should be based on the replacement cost of your house — not the purchase price. The home you bought for $25,000 only a few years ago could easily be worth two or three times as much today.

The total destruction of a home is rare. According to the Insurance Information Institute, however, you must insure your home for at least 80 percent of its total replacement cost in order to receive full payment for any partial loss or damage. If you let your coverage drop below the 80 percent level — even unintentionally — you will not be completely protected.

Here's an example:

Suppose a tree falls on your roof, causing $1,000 worth of damage to your house, which you bought for $40,000 two years ago and which would cost $60,000 to replace. Unless you have $48,000 worth of insurance — 80 percent of the replacement cost of the whole house — you will get only a portion of the $1,000, even though your total coverage is more than enough to cover the damage.

Many companies offer policies including something called an "inflation guard adjustment." Coverage is increased regularly and automatically, either by a fixed sum or by an amount tied to local cost increases.

Note: Do not confuse market value and replacement cost. They are not the same thing. The market value is what you could get for the house if you sold it; the replacement cost is the amount you would have to pay to rebuild it.

There are several ways to cut insurance bills without letting your coverage fall below 80 percent of replacement cost. You can, for example, boost the deductible — the amount of any loss that you agree to pay. Increasing the deductible from $100 to $200, for example, can trim your premium by up to 10 percent. You can also get discounts for things like smoke detectors and burglar alarm systems; a combination of discounts can cut premium payments by 5 percent or more.

Homeowners policies cover the contents of a house as well as the building. Personal property usually is insured for half as much as the house itself. If you insure your house for $48,000, your personal property — furniture, etc. — will be covered for $24,000. Take an inventory of your possessions to make sure you are adequately protected. Again, base your estimate on the amount it would take to replace the items, not the amount you paid for them.

Jewelry poses a particular problem for many consumers. The value of precious metals and stones has soared; a gold watch alone may be worth well over $500. Most homeowners policies, however, limit losses from theft of jewelry, watches, gems and furs to only a few hundred dollars per incident. One robbery could wipe you out. You can get extra coverage with a "homeowner endorsement" or "personal article floater." Premiums vary, according to the type of property and the city in which you live.

There are several types of homeowners policies. The most common are the basic form (often described as HO-1), the broad form (HO-2) and the comprehensive or all-risks form (HO-3).

The basic and broad forms spell out the dangers that are covered by the policy; the comprehensive form lists only the ones that are not included.

The basic form protects you against 11 dangers, including fire or lightning, windstorm or hail, explosions, riots, smoke, vandalism and theft. It does not cover such common problems as falling objects or frozen pipes. For that type of coverage, you'll need the broad form which includes protection against 18 listed perils.

The comprehensive form offers the maximum protection. You are protected against all risks — except the ones specifically listed in the policy. Among the risks usually excluded are earthquakes, floods, nuclear radiation and landslides.

Carter Promises Try Avoid Future Name-Calling

By The Associated Press
President Carter is promising to "do my best" to avoid name calling in his campaign against Ronald Reagan, while the Republican candidate's efforts to gain the blue-collar vote are being aided by a major union endorsement.

Carter made his promise in an interview Wednesday after conceding he got "carried away on a couple of occasions" in the biting attacks in which he suggested Reagan could divide the country and plunge it into war.

Reagan, who won the endorsement of the 2 million-member Teamsters union, was told of Carter's promise and said he thought it was "nice... if he's decided to straighten up and fly right."

All that didn't banish name-calling from the campaign, however.

Former President Gerald Ford said in St. Louis — after Carter's promise to "try to make sure the tone of the campaign is better" — that the president was "getting arrogant and mean and... on the borderline of demeaning the presidency" in his earlier comments about Reagan.

Carter will have a chance to show the "more reticent" style he promised as he campaigns today in the South, visiting Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida. Reagan also will campaign in Tennessee and Florida, as well as Alabama, and independent candidate John Anderson will be in New York City.

Anderson attacked Carter on Wednesday for failing to live up to his promises on human rights. "Jimmy Carter, despite all the bold rhetoric that we have heard from him... has been content to let us slide still farther behind in our global responsibilities," Anderson told a rally in Columbus, Ohio.

"If there is going to be any leadership in the effort to ensure that disease, that hunger, that poverty, that overpopulation do not become the black plague of the 21st century... it ought to begin in the richest, most powerful nation on the face of the earth," he said.

The Teamsters' 20-member executive board voted unanimously while meeting in Carlsbad, Calif., to endorse Reagan. The nation's largest union became the nation's only national labor group to endorse Reagan, who has been assailed by other unions as an anti-worker candidate.

Teamsters spokesman Duke Zeller said union leaders were upset with Carter's record on inflation, unemployment and his efforts to deregulate the trucking industry. The union is also known to be angry at government charges of mismanagement in its Central States pension fund.

But Zeller said the "overriding consideration" was "that our membership seems to favor Reagan."

Reagan continued Wednesday in his efforts to pick up the blue-collar votes that have traditionally gone to the Democrats.

The former California governor started the day in Youngstown, Ohio, where nearly 10,000 steelworkers have lost their jobs since 1977, and he blamed the steel industry's decline on excessively stringent clean air regulations, punitive tax policies and cut-rate foreign steel imports.

One steelworker, Mike Rogich, asked Reagan if he would restore the lost jobs.

"You bet," Reagan said. "With federal money if possible?" Rogich persisted. "If that's what it takes," said Reagan, quickly adding that other ways were preferable — mainly by reducing federal regulations.

Later, Reagan said it would be impossible for the federal government to target aid to just the mostly shut-down steel plant he visited in Youngstown because it was the entire industry that ailing. He added, however: "Maybe I'll change my mind. It's something for me to look at."

The Republican presidential candidate also campaigned in Illinois and Wisconsin, where he said he doubted that he and Carter ever would debate because Carter refuses to first meet independent candidate John Anderson. He wound up in St. Louis, where he met briefly with former President Ford.

Carter, in his interview Wednesday night with ABC's Barbara Walters, was asked he he'd made mistakes in his sharp attacks on Reagan.

"Yes, I'll say that," he replied. But he added that Reagan, too, had probably made "ill-advised" comments about him.

"I'll do the best I can in the weeks ahead not to repeat that kind of personal involvement of the candidates in the race," he said.

"No more name calling?" he was asked.

"I'll do my best," he answered.

The committee said it got its figures from newspaper and magazine accounts of spending by state parties and independent committees. It said the $90 million includes the $29.4 million in federal funds and $4.6 million from national parties that each candidate is allowed and Carter also is spending.

Bob Carter, a Reagan campaign aide, said "we don't know what the independent expenditure groups are doing; what that

The $90-million figure prompted Vice President Walter F. Mondale to quip the Republicans "are spending so much, they're helping the economy."

Billed For His Loss In Holdup

JOHNSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Postal Service has billed grocer Calvin E. Atkins for $44 in stamps and money orders taken from his safe during a robbery in which three men handcuffed and pistol-whipped Atkins, tied up his wife and several customers and shot his son.

Atkins said the men fled from the store, which serves this Harnett County community as a post office, with $25,000.

Now, the Postal Service has submitted a bill for the $44 to Atkins, contending he did not safeguard postal property because he showed the robbers a safe and opened it for them.

"I could care less about the $44," Atkins said Wednesday. "I'll donate $500 to some of their favorite charities if they want, but I'll be damned if I pay that $44."

A spokesman for the Postal Service's Southern regional headquarters in Memphis, Tenn., read a statement to a reporter Wednesday saying that an effort to have the $44 written off "is disallowed."

"The employee (Atkins) failed to exercise reasonable care by not providing maximum security for postal accountability," the spokesman said.

Atkins said Wednesday he testified at the trial of one man convicted in the robbery that he had always advised his employees to show armed robbers to the postal safe because that would bring federal investigators into the case. But he said that, during the robbery last Dec. 26, he didn't think about federal investigators.

"I was just thinking about living," he said. "I think those 10 lives were worth more than $44."

A review of the records showed that in its nine years of existence the certification board has not investigated any licensed operator's competence, has not revoked a certificate for disciplinary purposes, and has not penalized a water system for operating without the required certification. "Once a facility's operators have been certified, the role of the certification law is completed even if the water provided by the facility is substandard," the report bluntly notes in calling for termination of the program.

The 1981 General Assembly will have in hand a number of such studies.

If we're really mad as hell, we might as well make the candidates mad, too. Then they might have to answer a real question or two before Nov. 4.

R. L. Martin Is Honored By Group

WILLIAMSTON — Robert L. Martin was presented an award of appreciation for his contributions to the Eastern Region Area Board Members' Association at the quarterly meeting in Williamston on Tuesday evening. Martin has served as president of the group for the past year.

Invocation for the dinner meeting was given by Dr. Stephen Creech, Area Director of Pitt County Mental Health Center. Following the business session conducted by Martin, Dr. Lenore Behar, chief, Child Mental Health Services, Division of Mental Health, Mental Retardation, and Substance Abuse Services, Raleigh, delivered the address. Her topic, "Current Problems in the Delivery of Mental Health Services to Children and Youth with Special Emphasis on the Recent Court Cases," stresses the need for inter-agency cooperation in delivering appropriate services to youth.

According to Behar, 30,000 children were served in North Carolina by mental health last year, of these 1,000 being inappropriately served. Planning and implementing new appropriate services is a present goal, she stated. Adding that "prevention and rehabilitation dollars are not wasted," she urged local boards to be aware of specific needs in their communities and seek ways to serve children with special needs while also offering prevention services.

Also attending the meeting from Pitt County was Ronald Rice, Pitt County Mental Health Center board member.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Rev. Hattie Mae Cobb will preach tonight at 7:30 at the Church on the Rock. She will be accompanied by the Senior Choir of St. Matthew Church. The public is invited. The church is located on the Pachtolus Highway.

Church Women Gather Oct. 16

WILLIAMSTON — The Church Women United (CWU) will hold their Area VI meeting at the First Christian Church in Williamston on Thursday, October 16. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m.

The Martin County CWU unit will host delegations from eastern North Carolina. Representatives from the state and national CWU Boards will be present. The Roanoke High School Chorus, under the direction of Benjamin Harrison, will furnish special music.

Mrs. Kathleen MacLean of Harkers Island, Area VI CWU president, has announced special features of the program, which has as its theme "The Spirit of the Lord is Upon Me." Catherine Vick of Gary, president of the N. C. Conference of United Methodist Women, will lead the opening devotional.

Says Dignity Undermined

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II says "lustful desires and adultery committed in one's heart" undermine human dignity. "Concupiscence...diminishes the richness of the perennial attraction of persons for interpersonal communion. Through such a reduction, the other person becomes the mere object for satisfying a sexual need," the pope said Wednesday in the latest of his weekly messages on sex and marriage.

Offering his views on Christ's Sermon on the Mount dealing with purity of heart, the pontiff said concupiscence, meaning strong or abnormal sexual desire, is "expressed through a lustful look."

"The moral evaluation of a lustful desire...depends above all on the very dignity of the human person, both man and woman, hence it is applicable to the unmarried and to husbands and wives," he told an audience of 10,000 gathered in St. Peter's Square to hear his weekly message.

Predicts New ZIP Accepted

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Postmaster General William F. Bolger says Americans will accept the post office's proposed nine-digit ZIP code although "nobody likes numbers."

Bolger, in Raleigh for a speech to a postal customers council, defended plans to start the longer code in February.

"The general public doesn't want another number in their lives," Bolger said, "but I think the public will accept it when they fully understand what we're trying to do."

Bolger said the longer ZIP code would reduce the time and labor spent in processing mail.

Game Is Based On Welfare System

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A game lampooning welfare cheaters and liberal government bureaucrats "comes close to bordering on racism," says NAACP official Carl Snowden.

The object of "Public Assistance," created by partners Ron Pramschufel and Bob Johnson, is for players labeled "able-bodied welfare recipients" to collect money while avoiding the "working person's rut."

They do this by snatching purses, stealing hubcaps, shooting craps and having illegitimate children, with profitable side trips into drug dealing, gambling and prostitution. Players who fall into the "working person's rut," on the other hand, have some opportunities to make money, but more likely wind up saddled with taxes, car repairs and dental bills.

"It's a really obnoxious game and comes close to bordering on racism," Snowden, who works with the poor and unemployed, said Wednesday.

Snowden said he will ask the Maryland branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to consider boycotting stores which carry the game, scheduled to go on sale here November 1.

Pramschufel and Johnson, the game's creators, are partners in two small business firms. They see the game, which will carry a price tag of $15.95, as a humorous look at the welfare system.

"We didn't invent this game, government liberals did," Johnson said. "We just put it in a box."

"We're not against welfare," he added. "There are a certain number of people we feel obligated to take care of. It's the able-bodied welfare recipient we're against."

Snowden said the game is not based on fact and could hurt efforts to improve programs for the poor.

"In Maryland, the subsidies from the Department of Social Services don't even meet the levels recommended by the governor's own welfare commission," he said.

Candidate's Fraud Cases Forum Prosecuted On Television

A Candidates' Forum for State Senate candidates held by the League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County will be televised on WNCT, Channel 9, Sunday at 1 p.m.

Candidates Julian Allsbrook, Vernon White, George Alton Grayiel and Herbert Lee will answer questions and give their views on a number of topics, including energy, ERA, education and hazardous waste disposal.

Patricia Dunn, League president, will moderate the panel and Carolyn Bowyer, Voters Service chairperson, will serve as questioner. The League presents this program in keeping with its endeavors to encourage an informed voting public, Ms. Bowyer said.

Four cases of fraud in receipt of employment security benefits in Pitt County have been prosecuted, with the individuals in each case found guilty of fraud, according to James Hamman, manager of the Greenville office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission.

In addition to the four convictions, there were three other cases investigated in Pitt County, two involving fraud and one non-fraud, in which overpayment was recovered.

Totally, the seven cases resulted in the recovery of $722 made in overpayment of benefits.

The Greenville office has a full time investigator, Henry Byrne, assigned to the Greenville Employment Security Commission office.

Hannan notes that any person who has valid information on the possibility of fraud or overpayment to an individual in benefits is encouraged to call the ESC office and to talk to him or Byrne. It is not necessary for anyone calling in to give their name. Any reports received will be investigated. The number to call is 756-2686.

Statewide, the N. C. Employment Security Commission has recovered $146,921 in unemployment insurance overpayments during the month of September.

The anti-fraud unit of the commission investigated 204 persons who have claimed or are currently claiming unemployment insurance benefits. The commission classified 67 cases as fraud, and 67 cases as non-fraud.

Also during September, 23 persons were tried in state courts for unemployment insurance fraud, and all were convicted.

California, not wishing to hold onto the money and pay the carrying costs, wants to give the money to its rightful owners.

Carter In Western N.C. Disappointment For East

By CINDY BOWERS
Area Democratic leaders Wednesday expressed disappointment that President Carter's only scheduled campaign stop in the state — set for Thursday afternoon in Winston-Salem — would be in Western rather than in Eastern N.C.

"We (Eastern N.C.) tend to be the swing vote in the state, yet we don't seem to get the attention other areas do," said Lee Walton, coordinator of the Carter-Mondale campaign for the first congressional district and for three counties in the second district.

But, Walton said Carter's Winston-Salem appearance is not a sign that his campaign strategists are writing off the importance of Eastern N.C. in the upcoming presidential election.

"I don't think the Carter Mondale campaign is disregarding us," said George Saleeby, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic party. "We are far from being overconfident — we're being cautious."

Walton discounted reports that the president re-election forces were cutting back campaign efforts in the state, and especially in Eastern N.C., because of Carter's recent rise of a poll of state voters. A Charlotte Observer poll this week showed Carter leading Republican candidate Ronald Reagan by 12 percent in the state.

"Those reports are greatly exaggerated," he said. "The only cutback is that Bill Albers will be spending part of his time between here and Virginia." Albers, coordinator of the Carter campaign in N.C., is now heading the campaign in the Washington, D.C. suburbs of Northern Virginia as well.

Walton said he expects Carter's Winston-Salem speech will target concerns of the states urban areas, since he will be speaking in one of them.

But Walton also hinted at some surprise announcements that might be made. "There are a couple of things planned that will be of benefit to Eastern N.C.," he said. "But, I don't know if that will be in Carter's speech or if they will wait for the District Rally down here," to be held October 16.

Saleeby said he thinks Carter will also include in his speech an appeal to the state's agricultural interests. "One of the strongest commitments of the Carter administration has been to agriculture," he said.

Both of the leaders said they felt independent presidential candidate John Anderson had hurt his own chances, and possibly helped Carter's, with negative statements he made about the state's tobacco industry during a Chapel Hill appearance last week.

"It sure didn't hurt," Saleeby said. "Reagan has never come out with strong support of agriculture so I don't think that would help him." Walton said he plans to be in Winston-Salem for Carter's visit there Thursday. Plans call for the President to make a public appearance at the fair grounds there and then attend a $500-a-couple private reception later.

Saleeby and Sam McLawhorn, coordinator of the Pitt County campaign for Governor James B. Hunt Jr.,

said they will be unable to attend.

"I think I'll just stay and keep on working on our campaign down here that day," McLawhorn said.

Naming Interim Chancellor

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — An interim chancellor for North Carolina A&T University will be named by Nov. 1, University of North Carolina president William Friday said Wednesday.

Friday, in Greensboro for a meeting of North Carolina A&T Trustees, said he expected the UNC Board of Governors to approve Chancellor Lewis Dowdy's request for a leave of absence this week.

Dowdy, saying it was personal health reasons, requested the leave last week in preparation for his retirement next year.

'Sedition'

SEOUL (AP) — Kim Tae-hong, former president of the Korean Journalists Association, will be tried by a military court on charges of sedition and violating martial law decrees, South Korea's military government says.

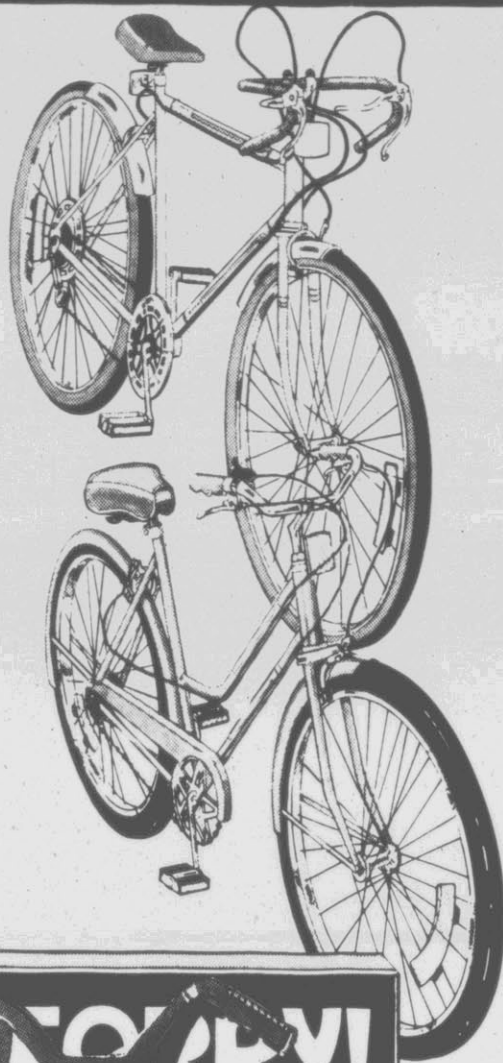

He is accused of holding illegal meetings to agitate against the government, demanding the abolition of censorship and calling for editorial independence.

N.C. Legislative Cost Average Is Among Lowest

By BOB SPRINGER
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The average American pays nearly $3 a year to support his state legislature, according to a study by the Illinois General Assembly.

Legislative costs average $2.82, but range from less than 66 cents per person a year in North Carolina to almost $20 a year in Alaska, the study shows. The six-month computer survey of 1978 costs of the 50 legislatures was conducted by the research arm of the Illinois General Assembly. It was prompted by a dispute in Illinois over a Nov. 4 ballot proposition to slash a third of the seats from the 177-member Illinois House.

Advocates of the so-called Cutback Proposition contend Illinois' Legislature wastes taxpayers' money and is inefficient, irresponsible and arrogant. They say slashing 59 House seats would save money and make lawmakers more responsive to voters.

The survey wasn't officially released until Monday. But lawmakers fighting the proposal already have been using its results, which show that Illinois' General Assembly costs only a little more than it should for a state of 11 million.

According to the survey, it cost Illinois taxpayers about $30 million in 1978 for 236 lawmakers representing 11 million people. Georgia has the same number of state lawmakers, but only 5 million people, and its legislature cost $9 million, the study showed.

Karen Fahrion, who conducted the study, said it showed the overall cost of operating a state legislature depends more on a state's population than on the number of legislators or other factors.

She said the survey doesn't explain why each state's costs may vary.

"States with large populations have higher state government and legislative costs than states with smaller populations," said the study. "The analysis also shows that the number of state legislators does not relate to legislative costs."

The study compared all 50 states to see which of 11 different factors most affected overall legislative costs in 1978, the latest year for which most federal figures were available.

California, the nation's most populous state with over 22 million people in 1978, had the most expensive Legislature at nearly $70 million, the study said.

New York, second in population with nearly 18 million, was No. 2 at $56.7 million. Illinois, ranked fifth in population, had the third costliest Legislature.

Soviet Said Attracted By Treasure

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Japanese divers have recovered platinum ingots valued at $2.4 million from the wreck of a Russian cruiser sunk in the 1904-5 Russo-Japanese war, hiking the stakes in what has become a diplomatic skirmish between Moscow and Tokyo.

A spokesman for the Nippon Marine Development Co. said today its divers salvaged 16 platinum bars of 70 percent purity worth about $150,000 apiece at current prices from the 8,524-ton Admiral Nakhimov, lying some 350 feet below the surface off Tsushima Island in southern Japan.

He said the divers also sighted boxes in the hold of the ship which could back up records obtained by the salvage company stating the Admiral Nakhimov carried 5,500 boxes of gold coin worth almost $4 billion at today's prices.

Ryoichi Sasagawa, multimillionaire sponsor of the salvage operation, speculated Wednesday that the sunken treasure could be worth 10 times that amount. He indicated the ship was carrying the treasures of Czar Nicholas II, then beleaguered by unrest in Moscow, to Vladivostok.

The Japanese fleet under Admiral Heihachiro Togo torpedoed the Admiral Nakhimov in the Battle of Tsushima on May 27-28, 1905. The battle gave the nearly exhausted Japanese force the edge it needed to end the war victoriously and fanned discontent in Moscow leading to the revolution of 1905.

The claims of billions of dollars in czarist gold have lured the Soviet government into the treasure hunt. On Friday, Boris M. Zinoviev, minister at the Soviet Embassy in Tokyo, went to the Foreign Ministry and claimed ownership of the ship and all its treasures for the Soviet government. Zinoviev said the salvaging of the ship and the search for treasure should not be carried out without the agreement of Moscow.

Sasagawa, a central figure in postwar rightist activities in Japan, then offered to exchange the treasure for four small islands off Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island, which the Soviet Union seized from Japan at the close of World War II.

The four "northern territory" islands have become a major stumbling block in relations between Moscow and Tokyo. Japan refused to negotiate a peace treaty proposed by Moscow until the islands are returned, and the Soviet Union insists that there is no territorial dispute between the two countries.

Relative Figures

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Following is a list showing relative costs of each state's legislature, according to a six-month computer study conducted by the Illinois Legislative Council, research arm of the Illinois General Assembly.

The list ranks states in order of their 1978 estimated populations (largest first). The number in parenthesis shows each state's rank according to the study's findings of overall costs of operating each's legislature. The final number shows the average cost in 1978 to each resident of the state to support the state's legislature.

Pet Python Is Escape Artist

ALGONQUIN, Ill. (AP) — Timothy Cole still can't figure how his 14-foot Burmese python escaped from the cage in his apartment.

"I've named him Houdini because he's an escape artist," said Cole. The 75-pound snake, which slithered away seven weeks ago, was found sunning itself in a grassy field.

"A woman walking her dog saw the snake Monday only a half-mile from my home," said the 22-year-old Cole, who has a collection of 10 serpents, mostly boa constrictors and pythons.

The woman notified police when she spotted the gray-and-brown python. Cole was called and the snake was taken to veterinarian Steve Barton for a checkup.

"It was in remarkably good condition to have been gone so long," said Barton.

He said such a snake can live without eating for up to a year, but he doubted a Burmese python could have lasted out the Chicago-area winter.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices lost ground after slight gains in early trading today. Volume was moderate.

There was little in the economic news early today to provide a strong direction to trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 3.75 to 960.24 as of midday on the New York Stock Exchange after showing gains of about a point in the early going.

The broad market showed almost an equal number of gaining and losing issues. The mid-day NYSE tally showed 637 issues were up and 614 issues down in price compared to Wednesday's close.

Big Board volume came to 21.6 million shares at noon compared with 19.2 million in the previous session.

Stock traders recently have shown little reaction to the war between Iran and Iraq although some analysts suggested developments in the oil-rich region may be adding a note of caution to the market.

Precious metals stocks, which often reflect political and economic uncertainties, rose sharply. Oil issues were widely mixed.

Among gold and silver mining stocks, ASA Ltd. gained 2% to 89 7/8; Campbell Red Lake Mines gained 2 1/4 to 77 1/2; Hecla added 2 1/4 to 49 and Homestake gained 3 1/2 to 78.

Among oil stocks, Atlantic Richfield gained 1 1/4 to 59 3/4; Exxon added 1/2 to 76 and Conoco rose 3/4 to 61 1/4. But Standard Oil of California lost 1 1/4 to 85 1/4; Getty fell 1 1/4 to 90 3/4 and Mobil declined 7/8 to 75 1/4.

The NYSE composite index of all listed common stocks was off 0.17 at 75.85. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index declined 0.52 to 346.15.

Rampants Put No. 1 Ranking On The Line

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
While Rocky Mount High School was predicted as the top team to stand in the way of the Rose High School Rampants on the way to a possible Division I championship, Rampant coach Dave Bumgarner feels that there are other stumbling blocks ahead.

Rose disposed of Rocky Mount, 36-22, Saturday night, and will travel to Stantonsburg this Friday to face Beddingfield's Bruins, one of the hottest teams in the league, having gotten off to a 4-1 start.

"I'm worried," Bumgarner admitted. "Beddingfield could be the best team we've played so far."
Also in the back of his mind might be the number one state ranking of the Rampants on the Associated Press poll. Since the poll started this year, no team has been on top two weeks running. The last two leaders fell from their perch by losing or being tied.

"Being number one is nothing big for us," the coach said. "I don't think it will affect the way we play. Certainly it will be an incentive for our opponents. I'd really rather be a little further down, fourth or fifth, and work up to one by the end."

Bumgarner felt that the Rampants did a lot right in their win over Rocky Mount on Saturday. "Our offense did what it was supposed to do. We rushed well and we made things happen. We had a good game plan.
"Defensively, we stopped their rush and made them pass. We didn't expect the shotgun, and we should have made some other adjustments to it. We should have done better in our coverage. We knew that Rocky Mount was a good passing team, and we expected some breakdowns, but not as many as we had."

Despite the fact that one Rampant punt was blocked, Bumgarner felt the kicking game went well.
"One thing that hurt them is that they weren't using up time passing. We were able to move the ball on the ground and use up some time. Also our rushing game helped to set up the passing game, and when we went to it, we were wide open."

Rose didn't go to the passing game often, hitting three of seven attempts. However, all three completions went for over 40 yards and two of the three were touchdowns. The other set up a score. "They (the passes) weren't really designed to be big gainers. They were 10 to 15-yards. But they weren't covered, so they kept on going and (Kenny) Barnes got the ball to them for the easy scores."

Still Bumgarner is not totally satisfied. "It seems like we do the things we know we have to do, and that's all. We knew that we had to get out early against Rocky Mount, and that's what we did. We controlled the line of scrimmage in the first quarter, but lost it in the second. Then, we knew we had to come back early in the third quarter and put them away. We did it, and then slacked off again.

"It's a question of mental letdowns. We're playing well physically, and I think our coaching staff has done a good job of preparing our players physically. Our offensive line is doing an outstanding job, but

Smith Suspended For Two Weeks As Bucs Prepare For Richmond

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Doug Smith, who shared starting duties at nose guard last year, and was a starting defensive tackle for the first three games this year, has been suspended for two weeks from the East Carolina University football team.

Smith, a star player at Pamlico Senior High School, was heavily recruited as a high school senior and signed with the Pirates. Last year, as a freshman, he shared the starting nose guard duties with John Hallow, who later gave up football to concentrate on baseball at ECU.

This year, under Coach Ed Emory, he was switched to a defensive tackle position, playing in a starting role in the first three Pirate games. He missed the last game, against Southern Mississippi with a knee injury.

Emory made the announcement of the suspension at his weekly press conference on Wednesday. "Doug has been temporarily suspended for two weeks until certain provisions are met," Emory said. "We have not asked him to do anything that is not good for him. There are team rights that outweigh individual rights, however, and he has to realize this."

"We feel that he will realize this, and be reinstated on October 17 (following the Western Carolina game)," Emory said.

The coach later explained that Smith had missed several practices and had been late to other practices and meetings. "He is also not fulfilling his primary reason for being here. He is a student first and an athlete second. He has some academic deficiencies that he has to take care of."

Emory added that he thought that Smith's injury may have caused some of his problems, but not all of them.

The move by the first year coach comes at a time when Smith's presence is needed on the field, too.

"As of today, we have 28 on the injury list. Of those, 15 are out for the rest of the season. Right now, we plan to take 66 players to Richmond: 12 seniors, 15 juniors, 19 sophomores and 20 freshmen. So you can see that nearly 40 of those 66 will be underclassmen," Emory said.

The Pirates, who had an open date last Saturday, had hoped to get some of the injured back for this Saturday's game against Richmond. However, it doesn't seem to be working out that way.

"We had several objectives during the off-week. One was to regroup as a coaching staff and as a team. We have made the statement that it's a whole new season. It's time to do things to become a better team from here on."

"We wanted to heal, but it's been slow coming," the coach added.

He said that practice had been revamped too. "We don't allow any hitting below the waist before Thursday to try and cut down on the rash of injuries," Emory added that he had no explanation for the injuries either. "We are in good condition. About the only thing I can think of is that we may not have the lower body strength we really need."

"We really don't have a senior class that can provide a lot of leadership. Of our seniors, true seniors, that is, we have only four who were recruited ball players: Anthony Collins, Rocky Butler, Jeffrey Warren and Nate Wigfall. That's not really enough."
Emory also talked about his recruiting hopes. "We know what we're after, and we hope to be able to succeed in getting them," he said. "We feel like we're in good shape on some of them, too."

Emory said that the priorities have the Pirates bringing in 12 to 14 "skill people," those who are running backs, defensive backs, quarterbacks and receivers.

"Next is the defensive line. We want to bring in four to six with the size, speed and quickness we need to play the kind of schedule we are going to have," Emory said. After that, he's looking for three or four linebackers, and three or four defensive ends.

"Finally, we'll probably only bring in about one or two offensive linemen. We have a lot of them and we're not losing anyone who is playing now." Wayne Inman, the only senior regular, was lost for the season to a knee injury two weeks ago.
Emory also said that several junior college players would be included in the Pirate list of players who may be signed.

East Carolina travels to Richmond, Va., on Saturday to meet the University of Richmond Spiders in a City Stadium game at 1:30 p.m.

Astros Stall Rally, Win In Tenth, 7-4

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Houston Astros nickel-and-dime attack looked like a million dollars in the 10th inning Wednesday night as they evened their best-of-five National League Championship Series against the Philadelphia Phillies at one game apiece.

Houston, recognized by many as the anonymous Astros, snapped a 3-3 tie with four 10th-inning runs for a 7-4 victory.

The Astros got what they came for, a split in the two games at Philadelphia, and now go home to their Astrodome where they were 55-26 in 1980. They'll have their best pitcher, Joe Niekro, 20-12, working the third game Friday.

But the home field advantage doesn't necessarily give the underdog Astros a big edge, since the Phillies this season were one of the best road clubs in baseball.

Philadelphia won 21 of its last 28 road games and posted a 48-33 away record enroute to the NL East Division title. They were 4-2 in the Dome while compiling a 9-3 regular-season record against Houston.

Larry Christenson, 5-1, is scheduled to pitch for the Phillies Friday in an effort to set up a potential pennant-winning situation for its 24-game winner, Steve Carlton, on Saturday.

The Astros had just five hits going to the 10th inning and still managed to hold tight in a 3-3 game. The Phillies had 12 hits at that point.

But in the 10th against reliever Ron Reed, Houston erupted for those four runs, and then turned back an abbreviated rally by the Phillies, who left 10 runners on base over the last four innings.

Terry Puhl, who drove in the first two Houston runs, opened the 10th with a single. He was sacrificed to second by Enos Cabell. Joe Morgan was intentionally walked loading the bases, bringing up Jose Cruz.

Cruz singled to right, scoring Puhl, and Morgan came home on a fielder's choice-grounder by Cesar Cedeno. Then Dave Bergman, who was inserted for defensive purposes in the eighth, drove a two-run triple in the right-center field gap for two more runs and it was all over.

The Phillies did throw a scare into Manager Bill Virdon and his Astros in the last of the 10th, scoring one run and bringing Mike Schmidt to the plate with two on and two out. The NL's home run-and RBI-leader, however, skied out to right field to end the game.

Asked if he considered it a must game, Virdon replied, "Not really. But it is a pleasure to go home with a victory."

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the third off Phillies starter Dick Ruthven, when the right-hander walked .226 hitter Craig

Reynolds, who was sacrificed to second by Houston starter

Nolan Ryan, and scored on Puhl's single.

The Phillies, however, went ahead 2-1 in the fourth when Schmidt opened with a double and scored on Greg Luzinski's two-bagger. Luzinski was sacrificed to third and raced home on Garry Maddox' single.

Houston tied it in the seventh on a walk to Ryan and Puhl's double, and went ahead 3-2 in the eighth as Morgan doubled and scored on Cruz' single.

Broadcaster's Charge Stirs Protest Storm

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — A Georgia broadcaster's recent allegation that Clemson University has been turned in to the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations has stirred up a storm of protest from major college athletic officials in the Carolinas.

Larry Munson, the voice of the University of Georgia football team, said during a Greenville Touchdown Club meeting last week that Clemson has been or will be reported to the NCAA for alleged violations in connection with efforts to recruit running back Herschel Walker, a freshman star at Georgia, the Greenville News reported in a copyrighted story Thursday.

Munson told the group that it wasn't Georgia that accused Clemson of the violations, but the University of South Carolina, North Carolina State and North Carolina universities were among the schools that did or will implicate the Tigers athletic program.

South Carolina Coach Jim Carlen told the newspaper Wednesday that Munson's comments had touched off a furor among Clemson supporters, who he said had a false impression that USC had somehow given the NCAA information.

"If he (Munson) made the statements, they are incorrect," Carlen said. "It's ridiculous that a man can make a statement like that and get away with it."

Forced At Second

Houston Astros' Joe Morgan is forced out at second as Cesar Cedeno hits into a fielder's choice Wednesday in the National League playoff game in Philadelphia. Phillies' Manny Trillo is waiting on second with the ball, but did not have time to try for a double play. The Astros won, 7-4, in ten innings to even the series at 1-1. (AP Laserphoto)

The Gamecocks coach said he personally called Munson to ask about the remarks. Carlen told the News that Munson confirmed making the comments as a joke and that "he didn't mean it."

Carlen said he had tried to sign Walker for South Carolina until last November, when the Georgia native made it clear he wanted to attend college in his home state.

The newspaper said it contacted the broadcaster in Atlanta late Tuesday about his remarks before the Greenville group, and that Munson said his comments "were made in jest, in humor," but that he was "being fairly serious" and had "hard information" to back up his comments.

"I have more information than I am giving you...there is some sort of background to it...but I can't go into it," Munson told the newspaper.

North Carolina and N.C. State officials contacted by the Greenville News denied any knowledge of Clemson recruiting violations.

Clemson Coach Danny Ford said Wednesday he hadn't heard of the allegation and that he knew of no investigation or complaints filed against the university.

Hale McManamin, assistant director of enforcement for the NCAA at its Kansas headquarters, declined comment on any possible investigation of Clemson.

State Comeback Downs Pirates

East Carolina jumped off to a 1-0 lead over N.C. State, only to see the Lady Wolfpack rally to win the next three games and take a NCAA Division I volleyball match, 3-1, last night in Minges Coliseum.

The Lady Pirates took the first game of the evening, 15-9, and pushed out to an 8-2 lead in the second game before N.C. State finally began to put things together.

Led by the all-around play of Joan Russo and the spiking of Carmon Macon, State rallied to win the second game, 15-10, then gained successive 15-5 and 15-1 wins to take the match.

East Carolina was led early by the play of Sharon Perry and Loretta Holden.

"The score speaks for itself," assistant coach Lynn Davidson said. "We were mentally ready and made few mistakes in the first game. But State got into its offense a little more in the second game. In the third and fourth games, we just lost our concentration, made a lot of mental mistakes and lost our game completely."

"The serve-reception passes were too tight to the net and as a result, the setter couldn't set. The serving effort hurt us terribly in the later games. You work so hard to get a serve, then lose it and it takes a lot out of you. We felt that if we passed the ball well and controlled it, we could win," Davidson said.

"But once your concentration goes, it's a struggle. Our fundamentals are not strong enough to play well in the match without the compliment of complete concentration."

Sherry Stout, playing in her first game, did well in coming off the bench. Lexanne Keeler also came in and played well, making a beautiful save that helped picked up some momentum.

East Carolina is now 2-13 overall and 0-4 in conference play. State is 17-6 overall and 3-1 in the conference.

The Lady Pirates travel to the Francis Marion Tournament which starts Friday for their next action.

Aycock In Third Win

E.B. Aycock Junior High School slipped past Wilson Fike, 23-20, yesterday.

Tyrone Smith led the Jaguar scoring, pulling in two touchdown passes from Todd Martin. The passes were for 38 and 18 yards. Martin also passed to David Lineberry on a 12-yard touchdown aerial.

Jay Wynne kicked one PAT, and Reggie Smith ran for two two-pointers.

The win left Aycock with a 3-1 record. The Jaguars travel to Washington next Wednesday.

overall we have to be more mentally ready to play and play an entire game."

That's one of the reasons Beddingfield worries the Rampant coach.

"They are probably one of the most consistent teams we've played. They are physical and consistent. They do the things they are supposed to do."

"They have two good running backs (Randy Emory and Karey Gee) and a quarterback (Al Hardison) who runs the team well and passes well, too. Overall, they have good balance in their attack, something we haven't seen so far this year from an opponent," Bumgarner said.

The Bruin defense may be the best the Rampants have seen, too, the coach notes. "It's going to be a real test of how well we can move the ball."

Bumgarner feels that the game will come down to control: which team can do the better job of controlling the ball. "The breaks, fumbles, penalties, and the like, will play a big role too," he said.

The defense is led by All-State candidate Dennis Barron, a 6-3, 215-pound tackle. Other top defensive personnel include linebackers John Bynum and Kenny Barnes, defensive end Richard Quintavalle and tackle Will Whitley.

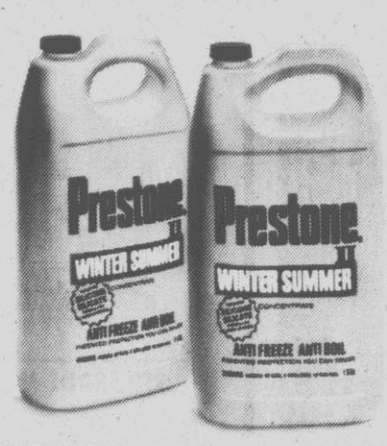

Rose will be led offensively by quarterback Kenny Barnes, who has rushed for 206 yards and passed for 388. He has passed for four touchdowns and rushed for five.

Alonza Taylor is the leading rusher with 280 yards, followed by Roger Williams with 253 and Jeff Porter with 222. The top receiver is Chris McLawhorn with eight catches for 239 yards, while Donald Johnson has caught five for 144.

Princeton (High) Mowing 'Em Over

By BILL WERONKA
Associated Press Writer

So what if Oklahoma beat Colorado, 82-42. The Sooners only won by 40 points.

Princeton has done them one better. Two weeks ago the school's football team won by 76 points. Of course it is not the well-known university in New Jersey. It is Princeton High School in North Carolina. The small 1A school is undefeated in five games this year, and two weeks ago Princeton beat 2A rival North Moore High School, 90-14.

In the game Princeton threw only one pass and called no timeouts, North Moore had only three turnovers, Princeton had a mere 517 yards rushing and the first string only played half the game.

"No," they weren't trying to run up the score said Princeton coach Harvey Brooks.

"It was just one of those things," Brooks said. "I don't know how you explain something like that."

Brooks may not know how to explain it completely, but he does know his team was capable of the feat. Princeton has a tailback that is nothing short of phenomenal — Mike Atkinson.

In that night of offensive madness, Atkinson scored six touchdowns on runs of 34, 41, 36, 58, 34 and 65 yards. In all he carried the ball 23 times for 366 yards. And he only played half the game.

Though the score was unusual, Atkinson's performance was not. Brooks and the people of Princeton have come to expect such accomplishments from the 5-foot-10, 170-pound senior.

Looking at his statistics over the past three and a half years explains why.

Up until now, he has rushed for 5,366 yards in high school and has scored 88 touchdowns, a state record. On top of that, last year he set a state record by rushing for 2,440 yards and 44 touchdowns. So far this year, he has 1,280 yards and 18 touchdowns.

So it is no wonder that the state's top colleges have their eye on this soft-spoken young man who is in the top 10 percent of his class. He also has been contacted by Penn State and Colorado.

His explanation of the lopsided score was simple.

"We just kept playing and kept scoring," Atkinson said. "We were doing everything right. Every play went off just like it was diagrammed."

Atkinson isn't one to lavish praise on himself. When asked how he has managed to gain more than 5,000 yards, he said, "It's nothing special. It's just an overall team effort. Our team works hours and hours every day on our offense."

But when pinned down, he sounds remarkably like one of his favorite runners — Billy Sims, now with the Detroit Lions.

"I definitely don't run over people unless I have to," he said. "Most of the time I just give them a fake and just go. I really don't know how I do it. I just do it."

Brooks said Atkinson "has his own style and just a lot of God-given natural ability. He's a good natural runner. He doesn't usually run over anyone, but he will if he has to."

"He runs for that daylight. He's just got a smell for where to go. And he's got a smell for that goal line. I would like to think he's the best runner in the state, but I'm a little prejudiced. I know he's the best I've ever coached,"

Brooks said.

Brooks and Atkinson agree his size may cause college coaches second thoughts, but they have an answer for that.

"I'm sure I can put on weight and not lose speed because I've put on 15 pounds this year and got quicker."

Brooks said Atkinson did that on his own initiative over the summer, working with weights and running. Last year, Brooks said, Atkinson weighed 155 and ran the 40 in 4.7 seconds. "This year he's 170 and running the 40 in 4.5."

The future is on his mind, but it is not dominating it.

"I'd like to stay in state but that might change," he said. "Really, I just want to go to college, get a degree and make a good showing in college ball. But I can't worry about that now."

Atkinson is getting his share of attention, accolades and publicity but he takes it all in without getting too excited, yet.

"I don't have time to sit around and think about it in the middle of a season," Atkinson said. "Records and publicity grandkids will give my prep performance in college, his grandkids may have even more to talk about."

Steelwheels Are Set To Open Cage Season

The Greenville Steelwheels, a wheelchair basketball team, will open its season Saturday at Elm Street Gym.

The Steelwheels will be playing host to the defending champion in the Carolinas Wheelchair Conference, the Palmette Spinners. Two games will be played, one at 5 p.m. and the other at 7 p.m.

Admission to the games is $1 for adults with children admitted free.

The team, which played last year as an independent, has rejoined the Carolinas Conference, and will host four other league members in doubleheaders during the season.

per game.

This year's team, in addition to those three, will include James Breeze, John Britt, Maurice Brown, Robert Hoggard and Miller Saunders.

Play on the team is not restricted to those with total disabilities, but to those with any type of leg injury which would prevent them from playing a normal game of basketball. Thus, one does not have to be confined to a wheelchair to play on the team.

Players are divided into three classes according to their degree of handicap, however.

Class I players are those with paralysis at or above the seventh thoracic vertebrae. Class II players are those with paralysis at or below the eighth thoracic down to and including the second lumbar vertebrae. Class III athletes are those with paralysis at or below the third lumbar vertebrae, and with all other disabilities, such as post-polio, amputees, etc.

Each class receives an equal number of points, and no team may field players totaling more than 12 points, and no more than three Class III players may play at one time.

As far as playing rules differences, players are allowed two pushes of their wheelchairs in succession, but they must dribble at least once before a third push. Players are allowed five seconds in the lane, instead of the usual three. The wheelchair is also considered a part of the player's body for fouling and contact calls.

No Drug Found

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — World Boxing Association featherweight champion Eusebio Pedroza apparently did not take any drugs or other chemicals while successfully defending his crown against Paterson's Rocky Lockridge, tests have shown.

All tests conducted on a urine sample taken immediately after Saturday's fight at the Playboy Club in Great Gorge have proved negative, said Robert W. Lee, the deputy state athletic commissioner.

The other home games, set for 2 and 4 p.m., except as noted, include Charlotte on December 13, Raleigh on January 10 and Winston-Salem on February 7. They will also host Asheville on February 1 with games at 12 noon and 2 p.m.

The Steelwheels, 12-3 last year, also will play in the East Carolina Wheelchair Tournament, set November 8-9 in Minges Coliseum.

Last year's team was led by Tim Harris, with a 13.7 average, while Richard Hudson canned 10.4 points a game. Theron Moye scored 9.5

Gura Hurls KC To Victory

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Reminded that the home team has never before won the opening game in previous Kansas City-New York American League playoff clashes, Royals pitcher Dennis Leonard smiled slyly and offered a prediction: "That just might not be the only 'first' you see this time," Leonard said. "You know, there's something else that's never happened — us winning." Leonard, a right-hander with a 20-11 record, will oppose the Yankees' Rudy May, 15-5, in the second AL championship match tonight in an effort to "push them to the edge." "If we win the second game,

I would say we've got a pretty good lock on them," Leonard said. "I'm just going to go out there and try to do that." Guttery Larry Gura, who had not won since Aug. 25, regrouped after Rick Cerone and Lou Piniella slugged successive home runs on bad pitches in the second inning to outduel Ron Guidry and pitch the Royals to a 7-2 victory Wednesday in the opener of the best-of-five showdown.

The Royals, who lost the playoffs to the hated Yankees in 1976, 1977 and 1978, got unexpected performances from the lower part of their batting order and played the aggressive, fast and loose style that has characterized the team for four years. May, whose ERA of 2.46 was tops among American League starters, said losing the opener puts no extra pressure on him to salvage the second game and send the New Yorkers back with a 1-1 split at Yankee Stadium Friday night.

"I was going to have to win anyway," said the veteran left-hander. "This doesn't put a burden on me. This doesn't intensify things any more. KC has a good club, we've gotta go after them." Amos Otis, who had a miserable regular season, opened the Kansas City second with a single off Guidry, who lasted only three innings. After Otis stole second and John Wathan walked, the runners moved up on a wild pitch and scored when Frank White hit a bloop double between shortstop Bucky Dent and Piniella in left field.

"I didn't think the shortstop could get it, so I just ran as hard as I could, hoping nobody would catch it," said White, who batted ninth and went three-for-four with a double and two singles. First baseman Willie Aikens, admittedly upset over pregame rumors that he would not start because he had not hit Guidry well, lashed a two-run single in the third to put the Royals on top 4-2.

Guidry, experiencing control problems, walked U.L. Washington to lead off the inning, but picked the Royals shortstop off first. Then George Brett walked and Otis lashed a ground rule double that bounced over the fence in left field. After Wathan was walked intentionally, Aikens delivered his hit. "Guidry got behind me in the count, and when I faced him before, I noticed that he doesn't give in to any hitter," Aikens said. "When the count got to three-and-two, I thought I'd get a fastball. Then I got a fastball in."

Yankee Manager Dick Howser replaced Guidry with right-hander Ron Davis starting the fourth inning. "Guidry had a good fastball, but he kept hanging his slider," Otis said. "He hung about 15 sliders and that's his out pitch. That's what I hit out of the park." Gura, handed a 4-2 lead, bore down with renewed confidence. "From the fourth inning on, I felt pretty good," he said. "I was getting my pitches where I wanted them."

Reggie Jackson, whose 41 home runs and 111 RBIs led the Yankees this year, stranded five baserunners and was hitless in four at-bats. Perhaps the best pitch Gura made was an easy groundout he coaxed from the Yankee slugger in the seventh after Dent and Bob Watson singled with two out. That turned out to be the Yankees' last threat. "If I didn't get Reggie out, I knew I'd be out of the game," Gura said. "That was the key pitch."

Howser agreed Gura made a gritty, key pitch to the Yankee slugger. "We had a good opportunity there, but he really did the job when he had to. All of our opportunities during the game seemed to come with two outs and we didn't get the key hits when we needed them," he said. Brett, whose .390 average this season was the best in the major leagues since 1941, doubled in the first inning and muscled an opposite field home run in the seventh. The Royals added two more in the eighth when Willie Wilson, known for his base-stealing and league record 183 singles, slammed a two-run double off the center field wall to score Darrell Porter, who had reached base on an error by Watson at first base, and White, who had singled.

Headed For A Win

visiting club on his way to a 7-2 victory. It was the first game in the American League playoff series. (AP Laserphoto)

Sooners Picked Over Texas; Bucs Get Nod

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
The real World Series for most Texans (and Oklahomans) takes place Saturday in Dallas. It's the 75th football meeting of Texas and Oklahoma, a fierce rivalry that was first played in 1900.

It's not just another football game. It's more than what purists call a college gridiron classic. It's a rite. It stirs a religious fervor on both sides and leaves rival partisans limp from exhaustion and virtual basket cases after a full night of wild celebration or saloon-drowning sorrow.

Always the day after, downtown Dallas looks like a disaster area. "Hook 'em, Horns!" "On, Oakies, on!" Bear Bryant hauls No. 1 Alabama to New Jersey's Meadowlands for a waltz with Rutgers. Michigan-Michigan State and Stanford-UCLA promise bone-rockers in other areas of the country.

Last week: 37-17, .687. Season: 180-65, .734. Oklahoma 27, Texas 20: The Sooners not as potent without Billy Sims but 82 points against Colorado last week ain't half-bad.

Alabama 44, Rutgers 14: Rutgers, which upset Tennessee a year, is reaching for high society. The Bear will give them a rude bump. UCLA 29, Stanford 20: The shutout of Ohio State should have whetted the Bruins' appetite for more red meat.

Michigan 23, Michigan St. 20: The Wolverines lost to Notre Dame by two, the Spartans by five but computers don't win football games. Southern California 37, Arizona 7: Marcus Allen, as USC's new ground threat, has some tough acts to follow — from O.J. to Charlie White. Pittsburgh 17, Florida St. 7: Pitt hasn't shown the offensive power expected of a title contender, but guys in the trenches are tough.

Georgia 30, Mississippi 14: Buck Belue is the hand you have to watch while Herschel Walker pulls rabbits out of the hat. Notre Dame 21, Miami, Fla. 18: Good chance for upset here, but the Fighting Irish spirit continues to prevail at home.

North Carolina 15, Wake Forest 7: The Tar Heel defense has given up an average of 4.8 points a game. You gotta score to win. Ohio St. 25, Northwestern 7: The Buckeyes are lucky to have this breather — their shutout by UCLA.

Nebraska 25, Kansas 10: Ditto for the Cornhuskers. When the balloon bursts, it's tough to get regenerated in seven days.

Penn St. 29, Maryland 13: The Nittany Lions should be fully recovered from consecutive defeats last month. South Carolina 42, Duke 18: They say South Carolina's 6-2, 220-pound George Rogers is a truck who runs smoothly as a Cadillac.

Baylor 34, Southern Methodist 27: Southwest matchup of the 18th and 20th ranked teams. Home advantage to the Bears. Louisiana St. 19, Auburn 15: Oh, those horn-blowing, shouting masses under the lights at Baton Rouge!

Actors Rethinking Vow Not To Cross Pickets

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As their strike against television and movie producers winds down, some actors say they are reconsidering their decision to honor picket lines set up by the American Federation of Musicians, a group that supported the actors in their strike.

"I'm still pondering it and have not made up my mind yet and am delaying making a concrete decision until the last minute because I'm absorbing all I can concerning the strike and the pluses and minuses (of crossing the musicians' picket lines)," said "Lou Grant" star Ed Asner. "I'm concentrating on those and hoping for an act of God."

The actors had pledged not to cross AFM picket lines because studio musicians had marched with them during the 11-week strike by Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

But thousands of film technicians and craftsman have suffered financial loss from layoffs that resulted from the actors' strike, and the actors say they don't want those workers harmed further.

"We are faced with a dilemma in which whatever course we choose, people will be hurt," said the cast of "M-A-S-H" — including Alan Alda, Mike Farrell and Loretta Swit — in a statement explaining their decision to return to the show's 20th Century-Fox set next week.

"We understand, but are disappointed," said AFM spokesman Bob Crothers of the actors' stand.

The musicians' contract expired Aug. 1 and they walked off the job over the producers' refusal to pay them residuals of television reruns of filmed shows and movies.

Producers say there will be no bargaining until the musicians drop the residual demand, but Crothers said that won't happen.

SAG and AFTRA issued a back-to-work order that took effect Monday and included the provision that no actors honoring musicians' pickets for the next two weeks would be punished.

Meanwhile, voting continued on the proposed three-year actors' contract reached 1½ weeks ago. The Screen Actors Guild is voting by mail, and AFTRA is holding local elections in major cities around the nation.

Most TV series were either back in production or preparing to get under way Wednesday. The cast of "WKRP in Cincinnati" — including Howard Hesseman, Loni Anderson and others — joined members of the "One Day at a Time" and "The Facts of Life" teams in returning to sets.

The musicians' strike does not affect videotaped TV shows, so a number of shows began production earlier this week, including "Barney Miller," "The Jeffersons," and "Archie Bunker's Place."

Filmed productions have longer start-up times, so such ratings leaders as "Lou Grant," "Dallas" and "M-A-S-H" are not scheduled to begin production until next week.

The Bee Gees — brothers Robin, Maurice and Barry Gibb — claim in the suit that Stigwood drew up inadequate recording contracts and delayed paying them thousands of dollars worth of royalties, according to the reports.

Stigwood refuted the Bee Gees' claims, the reports added. "These ridiculous allegations are false, baseless and without foundation," the Daily Mail quoted the 46-year-old Australian impresario as saying.

The Bee Gees achieved worldwide renown with the release of the album from the movie "Saturday Night Fever." The album sold over 30 million copies and reportedly grossed more than $333 million.

The writers appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to consider the case. The court's decision has the effect of leaving intact the family hour rule. And, presumably, that's the last we'll hear of the family hour.

It was all a paper battle, though, because in practice, the family hour policy vanished four years ago after it was originally considered

Bee Gees Sue Their Manager

LONDON (AP) — The Bee Gees are suing their longtime manager, Robert Stigwood, for $86.8 million, British newspapers reported today.

They said the group has filed a suit in New York State Supreme Court, charging Stigwood with fraud and conflict of interest.

Stigwood refuted the Bee Gees' claims, the reports added. "These ridiculous allegations are false, baseless and without foundation," the Daily Mail quoted the 46-year-old Australian impresario as saying.

Court Rescues 'Family Hour'

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Old and tired and in painfully ill health, television's "family hour" came very close to a peaceful, merciful death this week. But the U.S. Supreme Court refused to pull the plug, sending the family hour into the suspended existence of a living curiosity.

Perhaps an easy, simple death would have been inappropriate for so strange a creature as the family hour, broadcast television's rather inept attempt to placate the FCC and pressure groups by legislating undue restraints upon itself.

The family hour was invented by Arthur Taylor, president of CBS at the time, and codified by the National Association of Broadcasters in 1975. On the face of it, the family hour rule was nothing, really, just a policy demanding that violence and sex should be kept off of television from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

That was the working policy of the networks anyway, necessitated by the realities of sponsorship and viewing patterns. But in legislating the policy, the NAB seemed to be codifying prior restraint on the free speech of television creators.

So, for the sake of principle, a group of writers, producers and four writers' guilds went to court to challenge the rule.

In 1976, family hour was ruled unconstitutional by a federal judge in Los Angeles. But last November, a federal appeals court ruled that the matter was improperly brought to court, that it should have been taken before the FCC first.

The writers appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to consider the case. The court's decision has the effect of leaving intact the family hour rule. And, presumably, that's the last we'll hear of the family hour.

It was all a paper battle, though, because in practice, the family hour policy vanished four years ago after it was originally considered

Mixed Drinks Current Is Slow

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It's been almost two years since the first mixed drink was poured in a North Carolina restaurant, but liquor by the drink still is not available in 75 percent of the state's alcoholic beverage systems.

And spokesmen for the Christian Action League promise to seek the elimination of brown bagging in the 1981 General Assembly session, further lessening the number of North Carolinians who can sip mixed beverages in social establishments.

Of the 135 alcoholic beverage control systems in the state eligible to vote for mixed drinks, 34 have approved liquor by the drink, 10 have turned it down and another has a vote on the matter scheduled for Jan. 20, 1981.

In one other system, Blowing Rock, mixed drinks were approved, but opponents have filed suit seeking to void that election. They cite several alleged voting irregularities.

"I think that's about all we're going to see" approve mixed drinks, said Marvin Speight, head of the state ABC Board. State officials say mixed drink votes could come in Greenville, Gastonia and Emerald Isle.

In the past two years, 850 establishments have received licenses to sell mixed drinks. They are spread across the state in tourist areas like Asheville in the mountains and Nags Head on the coast, in furniture capitals like High Point and Hickory and in population centers like Charlotte, Raleigh and Greensboro.

But Speight said the liquor-by-the-drink system is running smoothly, with few violations. He said approximately 10 licenses have been revoked, most of them because owners were refilling bottles in an attempt to avoid paying the $10 tax on each four liters of alcohol.

He said about 20 other establishments have surrendered their licenses because they could not sell more food than alcohol. State law requires that an establishment offering mixed drinks make most of its money from the sale of food.

In the bitter debates over mixed-drink legislation in 1978, dry forces warned that liquor by the drink would boost the sale of alcohol.

Speight said that alcohol sales are up about 9 percent across the state, but he added that much of that increase is due to a boost in liquor prices ranging from 35 cents to 80 cents a bottle.

Bill Hester, an administrator for the state ABC Board, said he is in the process of compiling 1979-80 figures on liquor sales in North Carolina. He said preliminary figures show sales of more than $249 million in all ABC systems.

During the last fiscal year, Hester said 5 percent of the total sales went into mixed drinks. This year he said he expects that amount to climb to about 7 percent because of the increase in the number of mixed-drink licenses.

"So far the figures have been exactly what we predicted," Hester said. "The problems we've been told about we haven't experienced. There's certainly not a bar on every corner though."

But in Mecklenburg County, the state's largest ABC system, figures do not follow predictions. Of the 850 mixed-drink licenses in the state, 221 are issued to Mecklenburg County establishments.

Henry Severs, head of that county's ABC system, said that between November 1978 and June 1979, 87 establishments in that county sold 263,692 bottles of alcohol in mixed drinks. For the period July 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980, the county's 219 establishments sold 426,509 bottles.

But Severs said that the sale of alcohol for mixed drinks in August dropped sharply from August a year ago. In August 1979, there were 40,252 bottles of alcohol sold for mixed drinks compared to 37,209 bottles in August 1980.

Severs attributed the 7.56 percent drop to a leveling out in the number of new licenses. He said that when an establishment first begins selling mixed drinks, they must buy a large quantity of alcohol to stock their shelves.

Also in Mecklenburg County, alcohol for mixed drinks makes up more than 10 percent of the total liquor sales. Of the $26,288,076 of alcohol sold in the county, $3,768,012 went into mixed drinks. That figure is closer to 14 percent.

Those figures are something for the Rev. Coy Privette to rally behind. Privette, associate director of the Christian Action League and long a leader of the dry forces, said Wednesday that the increase in liquor sales in North Carolina exceeds national increases.

"We thought it would be five to 10 years before we would see this kind of change," Privette said. "This (increase in sales) is due to the liberality of the state law."

Privette said no other state in the nation, "no place, even Las Vegas," has both brown bagging and liquor by the drink and he promised to try to remedy that when the Legislature reconvenes in January.

State ABC officials could not confirm whether North Carolina's liquor laws are unique.

"You can't get more liberal than the law we've got in North Carolina," Privette said, adding that elimination of brown bagging is one goal of the Christian Action League's 1981 legislative program.

Privette said the elimination of brown bagging would add an element of control to state liquor laws and "perhaps would" decrease liquor consumption.

He said he did not believe that brown-bagging establishments would want to obtain liquor-by-the-drink licenses if the Legislature outlawed brown bagging.

Currently systems must choose between liquor by the drink or brown bagging.

Rep. Parks Helms, D-Charlotte, a proponent of mixed-drink sales, said he hoped the issue would not become a point of debate in the 1981 session.

"One of the most significant things about the approval of the legislation is that we have done away with it as an important political issue," Helms said. "It freed the legislators to pay more attention to things that really are important."

forced to follow. Then came a trump to the ace, followed by another heart, giving West the lead with his high trump. By now, West was stripped of everything but diamonds, and he was forced to concede the contract to declarer. If he led a low diamond, declarer would run it to his queen, cross to the ace of diamonds and discard his remaining diamond on the fifth club. It would be no better to lead the king of diamonds, for declarer would win in dummy and discard on the club immediately. Note that declarer could not afford to play the fifth club while West still held two trumps. West would ruff and exit with a trump, and declarer would be stranded with a diamond loser.

A preemptive bid often disrupts the smooth flow of the auction. But it can backfire. Sometimes it will drive opponents to heights they would not have reached under their own power, and then help declarer make his perilous contract by locating all the key cards for him.

Left to their own devices, it is unlikely that North-South would have gotten beyond four hearts. East's preemptive jump overall propelled the auction into slam, for after North raised to four hearts, South felt compelled to make another move because of his wealth of controls and because North's hand was not yet limited. Cue-bids in the pointed suits (spades and diamonds) led to a heart slam which, looking only at the North-South cards, was rather optimistic, but far from hopeless in view of the auction.

West led the ten of spades, taken by the ace. Since bidding made it likely that if anyone was long in hearts it would be West, South led the jack of hearts to the second trick in the hope of finding East with the singleton nine. West covered, declarer won the king and then continued with the ten, praying that the suit would split 3-2. But when East showed out, declarer had an unavoidable trump loser. Prospects looked bleak.

There was just one chance, and declarer went for it. He played off four rounds of clubs, discarding two spades from his hand as West was

Acknowledges Faculties Are Now Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — An education specialist who has called for major program changes to desegregate University of North Carolina campuses acknowledged Wednesday that the addition of white faculty members at traditionally black schools has helped improve black-white student ratios.

The acknowledgement by Robert Dentler, former dean of education at Boston University, came as UNC lawyers completed their cross-examination of Dentler at a hearing to determine if federal funding should be cut off to the North Carolina system.

Dentler's comment came in response to a question asked by UNC lawyer Joseph Levin, who said white instructors make up 34 percent of the faculty staffs at the five traditionally black UNC schools.

Levin also questioned Dentler on his reason for leaving Boston University. The university asked Dentler to resign, which he did in June 1979. Dentler said his role as a consultant in the Boston public schools desegregation case was a factor.

In testimony Wednesday, Dentler said that in the Boston case he acted as a paid consultant, to the court for an average of two days a week while working fulltime at Boston University in the late 1970s.

Levin asked whether Dentler's resignation was requested because of "the propriety or impropriety of the time you expended on the case" and what he described as Dentler's unwillingness to respond to questions from the administration about the matter.

"No," Dentler replied. He said the issue was that his role for the court took him "off the president's team." He said John Silber, university president, was close to the defendants in the case and that Silber had appointed the wife of Boston Mayor Kevin White as his special assistant.

Dentler also told the hearing that he was among 10 deans who called for Silber's resignation in 1976 because they disliked his performance. Nine of the 10 deans have left the university, Dentler said.
