

Abscam Tapes Open To Public Viewing

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today cleared the way for millions of television viewers to see the Abscam videotapes that led to Rep. Michael J. Myers' criminal conviction and expulsion from Congress.

The justices turned down an emergency request by lawyers for the Pennsylvania Democrat aimed at blocking access to the tapes by the three television networks.

There were no recorded dissents. A federal appeals court in New York ruled on Oct. 1 that tapes of Myers' conversations with FBI undercover agents could be copied and broadcast, but it postponed the ruling's effect to allow Myers to seek help from the nation's highest court.

The ex-congressman's emergency request was submitted to Justice Thurgood Marshall, who last week postponed the effect of the lower court rulings until some final determination by all nine justices.

Myers, of Philadelphia, was convicted of taking a $50,000 bribe from undercover agents posing as Arab businessmen seeking political favors.

The FBI's "sting" operation led to the indictments of six congressmen. Myers was the first to stand trial.

Myers was convicted Aug. 30 along with New Jersey state Sen. Angelo Errichetti, who is also mayor of Camden, Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson and Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden.

In ruling that the tapes could be made available to the networks, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said: "There is a significant public interest in affording that opportunity contemporaneously with the introduction of tapes into evidence in the courtroom, when public attention is alerted to the ongoing trial."

Baghdad Raided By Iran's Jets; Kurd Revolt Ended

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iranian Phantom jets raided Baghdad today and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime in Tehran said it crushed an Iraqi-backed breakaway Kurdish rebellion in northwestern Iran.

Iraqi forces threatening Abadan moved more armor and artillery across the Karun River but appeared to be preparing for a siege rather than an assault to overrun the Iranian oil city and its giant refinery.

New mediation efforts to end the war reportedly were under way as the Iraqi effort to win complete control of the Shatt al-Arab estuary went into its 23rd day.

An Iraqi communique said three Iranian fighter-bombers struck at residential neighborhoods in Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, wounding 12 civilians. The communique said Iraqi air defenses drove off the attacking jets in the first air raid on Baghdad in eight days.

Iran claimed it shot down six Iraqi MiG jets in raids on Abadan and Kharg Island, off Iran's southwestern Persian Gulf coast. It claimed six other Iraqi jets were downed in raids Monday over the same area. Iraq said all its planes returned safely from both raids.

Iran said it had crushed the rebellion by autonomy-seeking Kurdish insurgents in northwestern Iran near the border with Turkey in two days of fighting. The Pars news agency said 80 rebels and 20 Iranian security forces had been killed.

Habib Chatti, secretary general of the 40-nation Islamic Conference organization, prepared to begin a fresh mediation effort with visits to Baghdad and Tehran. Both Iraq and Iran have ignored past appeals by the United Nations for an to the fighting.

A Kuwaiti newspaper, Al-Wattan, quoted Salsah Khalaf, a leader in the Palestine Liberation Organization, as saying the PLO is about to propose a new formula for ending the war. Under the proposal, Iraq would agree to return to its border and Iran would agree to negotiate with Iraq in another country under the auspices of a third party, he was quoted as saying.

Iran's official Pars news agency said the Iraqi invaders put two more pontoon bridges across the Karun northwest of Abadan, giving them three crossing points on the approaches to the threatened city.

A British reporter who visited the Abadan area said he saw tanks, amphibious vehicles and artillery moving across one of the bridges "in a leisurely manner" and that the Iraqi troops were relaxed and confident. He said the Iraqis were shelling Abadan and the Iraqis were replying with "inaccurate" fire but were getting no air support.

Iraqi officials claimed their forces advanced three to five miles toward Abadan, but the Western reporter said it appeared that the Iraqis were planning a siege of Abadan and Iranian-held parts of the port city of Khorramshahr, on the west side of Karun River's juncture with the Shatt al-Arab.

"I wouldn't be surprised if they just sat back," said the reporter, a military specialist for a British newspaper. "They don't really have to 'take' anything."

Khorramshahr and Abadan are the two big cities on the Iranian side of the Shatt al-Arab, Iraq's waterway to the Persian Gulf and a major territorial issue for centuries between the Arabs.

Some Still Alive Under Rubble Of Algerian City

By MARTINE ROSSARD
Associated Press Writer
AL ASNAM, Algeria (AP) — The rescuers knocked on a steel girder and listened. Moments later, they heard a feeble scratching, proof that someone was still alive nearly four days after Al Asnam's killer earthquake buried him beneath the wreckage of the office building.

Suddenly, the rescuers dropped their tools and ran into the street. The ruins had been shaken by another of the dozens of daily aftershocks. A concrete wall directly overhead, leaning at a 30-degree angle, threatened to bury the diggers.

The aftershocks Monday, some measuring up to 5 on the Richter scale, caused a panic among the tens of thousands of homeless survivors receiving food and medical aid in temporary tent cities. Terrified men, women and children poured into the open air.

The official Algerian news agency said there was no further damage or casualties Monday in Al Asnam, where 1,600 bodies have been recovered and the Red Crescent relief organization estimated 5,000 to 20,000 people were killed, 80 percent of the city of 125,000 people were destroyed, and 250,000 of the province's 1 million people were made homeless.

As each aftershock subsided, the thousands of Algerian searchers and French and Swiss alpine rescue teams with trained search dogs returned to the rubble. More victims were brought out, alive but badly injured.

The scratching was believed to be coming from the watchman at the building's underground parking lot.

"Last night, we heard him crying for help," said one of the searchers. "This morning one of our avalanche dogs confirmed his presence, but now his cries have stopped."

Then they heard the faint scratching from below.

"Every day there is less and less hope for those buried in the ruins," said a doctor standing by.

"But I think this man down here is getting enough air to survive long enough for us to reach him. It's a matter of time. ... I am waiting in case I have to give an anesthetic and perform an emergency amputation of a limb trapped in the ruins."

He said on Sunday he had to amputate both legs of a trapped man to save his life.

A week after the 1954 quake which killed 1,600 people in Al Asnam, survivors were still being found alive in the ruins, according to a police officer.

"With that precedent in mind, we do not intend to give up hope of finding survivors for a long time yet," he said.

Nearby in the ruins of the courthouse, which had a wing where judges and prosecutors lived with their families, rescue came too late for a 4-year-old girl who cried for help for three days. When the diggers reached her, she was dead.

Small children who lost their parents in the disaster wandered aimlessly through the streets. Rescue teams organized by a women's group gathered them up. Those whose relatives could be found were turned over to them. Volunteer families cared for others.

At one tent camp, 12-year-old Fadila complained of the cold at night — "I have only a single blanket and no mattress, could you help me get another blanket?" But she said her parents and all eight of their children escaped from their house seconds before the walls came crashing down.

"My eldest brother was carrying little Mohamed, aged two, and Mama clutched the new baby. Thank God we are all safe," she said.

"But I don't think I want to live in Al Asnam any more. I am afraid."

Study Possible Farmers' Mart For Downtown

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Redevelopment Commission authorized its executive director to look into a possible lease agreement for temporary use of a downtown tract owned by the commission as a site for a farmers' market.

It was pointed out Monday night that, at a meeting Monday of the Agri-Business Committee of the Chamber of Commerce with various officials, interest was expressed in exploring the possibility of having a farmers' market here, possibly in the downtown area.

Commission member Gene Taylor, who is also vice president for the chamber's economic and industrial development area, said that the matter has been discussed with the Downtown Greenville Association and the merchants concur with the market idea.

The chamber committee agreed to ask the Redevelopment Commission if it would lease on a temporary basis a suitable site to see if there is enough interest in having a farmers' market on a more permanent arrangement. Specifically, the lease was suggested for a tract of some two acres on Reade Circle between the Western Auto business and the Marathon Restaurant. In the meantime, a search committee will look at other site possibilities.

According to Taylor, and commission executive director Joe Laney, who attended the chamber committee's meeting, it is anticipated that a farmers group will form a private, non-profit organization and the lease will be negotiated with that organization. The lease would involve a nominal fee for use of the land for a one-year trial period.

Taylor said that the site used last year for a farmers' (Please Turn To Page 6)

Israel Offers Voice To Palestinian Populace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel has offered to give Palestinians a voice in determining land policy in the West Bank of the Jordan river and in Gaza in a move described by U.S. officials today as constructive.

Diplomatic sources said Israel has also reaffirmed that it plans no further settlements in the occupied territories beyond the four it previously announced, but the issue of whether existing settlements may be "thickened" has not been resolved.

The Israeli position was outlined in a document brought here from Jerusalem by an Interior Ministry official, Chaim Kubersky. According to the sources, who refused to be identified, it reiterates the Israeli stance that only four more settlements will be built on the West Bank.

The settlements issue is considered one of the major stumbling blocks to an agreement on the future of more than 1 million Palestinian Arabs living in Israeli-held territory.

Formal talks were scheduled to begin later today.

Meanwhile, American mediators met with Egyptian negotiators to try to work out an Egyptian position. The original draft apparently reflected no substantive change in policy.

U.S. officials appeared encouraged by Israel's views, but sources suggested the settlements question was far from resolved because expansion of existing outposts was left open.

Prospects for progress seemed limited until a summit meeting is held following next month's U.S. presidential elections.

Today's session hosted by U.S. mediator Sol M. Linowitz opens two days of talks that seem intended mainly to keep alive hopes for an eventual agreement.

Although the Israeli position might reduce differences with Egypt, U.S. officials said it seems highly improbable that all of them can be resolved in two days.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

DIFFERING OPINION

I would like to question whether Hotline should have dealt with the display of nudes at Kroger's. In my opinion, the nudes were well-framed and not in poor taste. The persons who objected may have their own problems. If someone wants to complain, let them do it about the remarkably pornographic material on the covers of magazines displayed in some stores. D. Ayden Hearing Planned Over Cable TV Rates

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — The board of commissioners met Monday night to hear a request for a rate increase from Cable TV and to consider reserving parking spaces for fire, rescue, law enforcement personnel and other town employees.

No action was taken on the cable TV rate increase request made by Tar River Communications. A public hearing was set for November 10, the next regular meeting, to have public input on the matter. The company asked for an 85 cent increase in the mini-service rate, from $7.50 to $8.35 a month. The change would not affect the superservice rates.

"I would like to see the company come prepared in November to show the number of people who subscribe to cable," said Commissioner Dixon. "I would also like to see them come prepared to show more justification also for a nearly 12 percent rate increase." Dixon added that the public hearing next month would provide citizens a chance to ask questions about their cable service.

The board passed an ordinance reserving parking places for town employees and emergency personnel. According to the ordinance, three spaces will be reserved for law enforcement vehicles, nine for the town employees, two for the handicapped, and two spaces for the judge and clerk of court on court days only. Signs indicating reserved parking will be put up. The implementation of two 15-minute parking only spaces was also discussed, but no action was taken.

A new easement for a ten-inch water line going across the old South Ayden School property was approved. The old easement, obtained from the Board of Education in 1972, was released. According to Town Manager Don Russell, the town ran into problems when it ran the pipe through there and had to shift the water line. The new easement marks the correct course of (Please turn to Page 6)

Tearful Wife Testifies In Trial For Kickbacks

MIAMI (AP) — The wife of fired Dade County School Superintendent Johnny Jones broke into tears as she reluctantly testified during her husband's trial on kickback charges.

"I know this is a most difficult matter for you. Do you feel like you can go ahead?" Dade Circuit Judge Thomas E. Scott asked Mattye Jones after she cried silently on the witness stand.

Mrs. Jones was called in as a court's witness — one subject to cross-examination by both sides — in the trial. Jones is accused of accepting more than $700,000 in kickbacks from Baltimore education consultant David E. Rouen, who sold a $1.3 million At-Home reading program to Dade schools.

Rouen, who has cooperated with the prosecution, is expected to testify this week that he gave money and merchandise to Jones.

Monday, Mrs. Jones broke into tears when prosecutor William Richey asked her to identify some deposit slips to her joint bank account with her husband.

The prosecution contends that those deposits included some of the alleged kickback money. Before that, Mrs. Jones had said she accepted delivery at her home of about seven boxes the state says contained stereo equipment and other items paid for by Rouen.

Mrs. Jones said she didn't see any of the items.

Judge Thomas Scott immediately sent the jury out of the courtroom as Mrs. Jones began crying.

Mrs. Jones also testified that money the state contends came from Rouen actually came from the Mississippi living room fireplace of her late great-uncle John Henry McGee.

Mrs. Jones said she and her brother found $40,000 in the chimney behind an unused wall. She said she kept $26,000 and her brother took the remaining $14,000.

Mrs. Jones, who gave 20 minutes of testimony, was the second member of Jones' family to testify.

During court proceedings Saturday, Jones' mother, Lucy D. Jones of Greenville, N.C., testified Jones gave her some $30,000 in bond coupons and cashier's checks to deposit for him in a bank near her North Carolina home.

In April, Jones was convicted in the so-called "Gold Plumbing Caper" trial of trying to use school funds to buy $9,000 in luxury plumbing fixtures — some gold-plated — for his vacation home.

Fire Statistics Are Cause for Alarm

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures:

First the bad news: In 1979, 8,893 Americans died, and nearly 34,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firemen, were seriously injured in 2,845,500 fires. And now for the "good news": We've improved. In 1978, 10,500 Americans perished in over 3,500,000 fires.

A large percentage of the dead were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimney and flues
9. Lightning
10. Spontaneous ignition

The total fire loss last year totaled $5,750,000,000 in the U.S.

Now for some tips that could save your life: Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

Some excellent smoke-, heat- and fire-detection systems are available to homeowners. Shop around and buy the one that suits your needs.

Now, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so.

Seminar Planned By Schools

Pitt County Schools will conduct a two-day seminar for high school students who have the desire to learn about the functions of Pitt County government. The program, entitled Pitt County Closeup, is part of the state and national Closeup Foundation; however, Pitt county has the distinction of sponsoring the only county-wide Closeup in the United States.

On Friday, October 17 the students will meet at the Willis Bldg. to hear a keynote address by Kenneth Vidato, community coordinator of the Closeup Foundation of Washington, D.C. After the meeting, informational sessions will be held with Keith Knox of the sheriff's department; Ray Joyner, state parole and probation officer; Larry Parker, deputy sheriff at the Pitt County jail; and Robert Wheeler, judge of District Court.

After lunch, rotating sessions will be conducted by Edward Garrison, director of social services; Mark Owens and Thomas J. Patterson of the Pitt County school board; Jimmy Hardee, tax supervisor; and H. Reginald Gray, county manager.

The October 18 sessions will be held at D.H. Conley High School. During the morning, a panel discussion will be led by Mayor Ross Persinger of Ayden, Mayor Robert J. Whitehurst Jr. of Bethel, Mayor Linwood Mercer of Farmville, Mayor Dave Bosley of Grifton, Mayor Zelda Galloway of Grimesland and Carl Dean, town advisor of Winterville and Fountain.

Additional meetings will be conducted by County Commissioners Alton Gardner, Bob Martin, Bruce Strickland and Ed Warren. Finally, a luncheon will be held with special guest speakers George Saleeby of the Pitt County Democratic Party and James McIntyre of the Pitt County Republican Party.

Local Coordinators for Pitt County Closeup are Tina Drye of the Pitt County Schools Central Office and county social studies teachers Sarah Hunt, Helen McClanahan, Delano Wilson and Gigi Guice.

In Private A Patriarch

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip may always walk a few steps behind his wife in public life, but at home he is a Victorian — albeit benevolent — patriarch, according to a biography of Queen Elizabeth II's husband published today.

"The Duke of Edinburgh, though he is unwilling or unable to bully his wife, presides over his home as an old-fashioned 'pater familias.' Generally speaking his word goes," writes historian Denis Judd.

Of the royal couple's relationship, Judd says, "They love each other, while being acutely aware of their partner's inadequacies and foibles."

As part of what Judd calls a "certain separateness," the marriage "has had to accommodate." The couple "do not share the same bedroom, let alone the same bed."

"When they moved into their first home, Clarence House, they decided to sleep in neighboring bedrooms, and have kept up the arrangement ever since."

The couple was married on Nov. 20, 1947, and Elizabeth ascended the throne five years later. They have four children — Charles, 31, Anne, 30, Andrew, 20, and Edward, 16.

Judd, head of the history department at the North London Polytechnic, was not allowed to interview the 59-year-old prince, but he said he tried to overcome that problem by talking with people "close" to him, as well as through documentary research.

Task Force To Have Meets

The Pitt County Community-Based Alternatives Task Force will meet on the fourth Monday of each month, with the exception of December, July, and August. The purpose of the Task Force is to assess the needs of youth in the county with particular attention to status offenders and to assist the county in planning and administering community-based alternatives to training schools and delinquency prevention programs.

The next meeting of the task force is October 27, at 3 p.m. at the Pitt County School's administrative office, third floor conference room. The meetings are open to the public.

OPEN HOUSE

Open House was held at both Fieldcrest plants in Greenville on Sunday, Oct. 5 to celebrate Textile Week in North Carolina. Several hundred guests toured the Karastan Spinning plant and Karastan Worsted plant to observe the process of manufacturing carpet yarns. Refreshments were served.

6-Month Wait Before Marriage Being Pushed

By RON DZWONKOWSKI Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sermons on the next two Sundays will spell out new pre-marital guidelines for Michigan's 2 million Roman Catholics, including a six-month wait between engagement and the wedding.

The pre-marital guidelines, already in effect in other parts of the country, are aimed at increasing the success of marriages, church officials said.

The new rules include a six-month wait between the time a priest is told of a couple's engagement and the date he will officiate at their wedding. And the guidelines do not make an exception in the case of pregnancy.

"The intent is not to make it more difficult to enter marriage," said Cardinal John Dearden, head of the Archdiocese of Detroit, who announced the guidelines at a news conference Monday.

The intent is to "strengthen those who are entering into the marriage state," he said, citing statistics indicating that one in four marriages ends in divorce, that 50 percent of marriages involving teenagers fail and that there is only a 10 percent success rate for teen-age marriages prompted by pregnancy.

The guidelines, effective Jan. 1, will be the subject of sermons in the state's 750 parishes on the next two Sundays, Dearden said.

The rules include a period of "assessment" under a priest's guidance before the wedding date is set and instruction in communication, sexuality and the practical aspects of married life.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE — Sylvia Barnhill of Bethel recently attended conferences on farmworkers' rights in Washington, D.C.

Ms. Barnhill is chairperson for the Target Area Council of the Migrant and Seasonal Farmworkers Association and a board member of the same organization. The conferences were held in the old executive office of the White House.

If either the man or woman is not Catholic, a cleric of the other faith will be invited to the instructional program, under the guidelines. And if either is a minor, "every effort should be made to dissuade" them from marrying "until they are properly prepared and motivated," the guidelines state.

The rules will not be waived because of pregnancy and "every effort should be made to discourage the marriage before the birth of the child" even if the pregnancy followed the decision to wed, the guidelines say.

Couples told to delay marriage may appeal to a diocesan board.

A couple married in a civil ceremony or in a church other than the Catholic Church without an exemption "are not members in good standing" of the Catholic Church until they have complied with the rules, Dearden said.

Similar guidelines are in use elsewhere and "generally people have looked upon them as the church saying 'we really care about you and we're going to take the time to help you,'" said the Rev. Tom Sutton, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church in Midland.

"We are simply reasserting as a Christian community what marriage should mean to our people," Sutton said.

Amy's Making Short Trips After Being Housebound

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Amy M. went to visit a neighbor one afternoon nearly four years ago and said she practically drove through flowerbeds of neighbors trying to beat it home once a panic attack started. "I pulled into my driveway literally panting and it was more than three years before I ever left home again," she recalls.

It was the kindly concern of Greenville psychiatrist Dr. C. Lewis Ravaris who took the time to drive three hours to her home and visit her that has brought her out of her house for short trial runs and back to hope for a normal happy future, she said.

"Dr. Ravaris was a godsend," Amy (a fictitious name) said. "I'd been praying for someone to help me, someone who could tell me how to get out of this trap. I can't tell you how wonderful it is to be getting out and getting over my fear. Maybe you'll understand the extreme state I was in when I tell you that my mother, whom I love dearly and have a wonderful relationship with, lives two doors away. I welcomed her at my house and depended on her to run many of the errands I couldn't bring myself to do, but I never once darkened her door during that three years. Now I'm going to her house. I'm going downtown. Pretty soon I'm going with my husband and sons on a camping trip. And I'm even considering traveling all the way to Greenville to see Dr. Ravaris. I know I'll be tense on the trips, but I think I'll get along all right. I've made so much progress since the first of the year."

Amy's agoraphobia manifested itself in a feeling that her one security was being at home. "On my own turf I functioned reasonably well," she said. "I have a wonderful husband and fine sons and a nice house and yard and garden. There were many things to do here and I attended to all my duties as a wife and mother and homemaker very well. I could do anything that didn't call on me to leave home. Friends and relatives soon learned they could come see me, but I wouldn't repay their visits. Many of them were very nice about doing things for me like shopping with the children and letting me bum rides for the boys home from Scouts and ball practice. My husband gave up on my ever going anywhere with him. He knew I wasn't refusing to go on purpose, that I really felt I couldn't. On one of the last camping trips we ever took, I spent the trip back in a bunk with my eyes closed tight scared to death and dying to be home."

Like most agoraphobics, Ann can remember in great detail her first agoraphobic attack, which occurred 14 years ago. A college-educated former public school teacher, she said she was the proud mama of a second son and was in the grocery store bending over to pick up a book she was considering buying for her older son.

Suddenly panic hit her. "I felt like I was in a dark tunnel and couldn't get out," she said. "I thought my heart would beat out of my chest. My legs went weak. I was terrified. I was trembling. I couldn't breathe. I dropped everything and ran — literally ran — out of the store. A neighbor saw me, white as a sheet and looking terrified, and offered to take me home. I let her. There was no way I could have driven my car."

"It got harder and harder to go uptown after that. I was so afraid one of those attacks would hit me again, plus I was embarrassed. I'd acted like a fool right downtown, I felt like."

"I started feeling panicky everywhere I went. The only place I felt reasonably okay was at home."

"I went to the doctor. I went to a major medical center for consultation. I even entered group therapy there for a while, but nothing worked. Nobody ever said the word agoraphobia to me or told me anything helpful. They put me on tranquilizers which didn't help. And the talk didn't help. The group therapy was awful. I was in a group with people probably no more chronically anxious than I was, but a lot more sophisticated. I was a country girl with a good family life and a loving husband and beautiful children who had panic attacks she couldn't explain. They were into all kinds of deviant behavior."

"The doctors tried tranquilizers on me. They tried a lot of different things and I think they gave up on me. I know I gave up on myself."

"I went along for a long time (11 years), gradually getting worse, till three years ago when I got to the point I wouldn't leave the house."

I read in the May, 1978 issue of a Good Housekeeping an article called 'Agoraphobia: The Housewife's Disease.' I knew the writer was describing me. But I still didn't know where to turn for help."

"But help came when the time was right, in the form of Dr. Ravaris, who reminds me a lot of the kind and gentle captain of the 'Love Boat.' My life is turning around, getting better and better because of his help."

In Part 4, Dr. Ravaris will tell how he dealt with Mrs. M. and how he hopes to help other Eastern North Carolina agoraphobics.

Hospital Volunteers Program Held

Adele Moos conducted a hospital tour through slides at the luncheon meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club of Greenville Wednesday. She is director of volunteer services at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Volunteers, working two or more hours a week, perform a variety of services including nursing assistance, personal patient services, escort duties, physical therapy and rehabilitation, home care, staff assistant and hospital beautification. Volunteers now work in the nursery she said. Arts and crafts people are needed. Tour guides are also needed for groups interested in the new hospital.

Guests present were Debi Hilton, Claudette Lynch, April Moore and Lois Warner. Jane G. McDougall and Linda Tyner are new members. Other recent new members are Phyllis Caruso, Mary Fischer, Sylvia Jones, Lillian McCurdy, Mary Lynn Thompson and Eve Utterback.

Harvest Ball tickets should be purchased by Nov. 3 from Dee Schaff, 756-1665, Teresa Jepsen, Arlene Kraus or Bev Spivey. The ball will be held Nov. 8 at the Greenville Country Club.

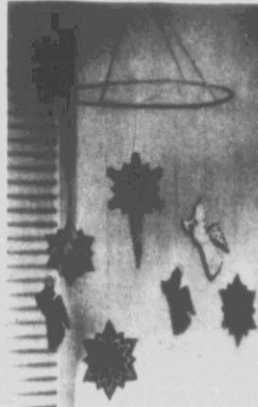

President Kraus announced members are needed to manage a booth for the American Lung Association Dec. 8 and 9 at Carolina East Mall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Jet Jefferson of Jefferson Florist will present the annual holiday decorating program at the Nov. 12 meeting.

Sparkling stars and snowy angels made from bits of felt, beads, sequins and crocheted motifs will make your Christmas tree the talk of the town. Use the stars and angels also as package decorations or let them swing airily from a lampshade ring as a mobile. Crochet directions are written without abbreviations for ease in following.

To obtain instructions for making the Christmas ornaments, send your request for Leaflet No. P.C. 5373 with $1.00 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-5363 by sending check or money order for $14.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains materials for making 12 to 14 ornaments; shipping charges are included. Be sure to include your name, full street address, city, state and zip code.

DEAR READERS: It has become a tradition for me to give you directions every October for making little knit or crochet Christmas bells. These make delightful tree ornaments, lapel pins or package decorations. They are quick and easy and can be made from bits of leftover yarn.

For the knit bells, using a

Miss Williams Is Speaker

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons held its meeting last week at the home of Miss Annie Turner. Louise Williams was guest speaker.

Mrs. Clara Shackell introduced the speaker. Mrs. Ed Rawl gave the devotional and the meeting was conducted Mrs. R. E. Corbett Jr., president.

It was decided to give Miss Cathy Brewington, an American Indian Scholarship recipient, a year's membership in the Patient Circle.

Mrs. Polly Dail gave a report on the North Carolina Branch Convention held in Southport last month. She also represented the local circle with several members and gave several awards at a luncheon.

For Round Two: Make two single crochets in each stitch. For the next six rounds, make one single crochet in each stitch around. Round Nine: (Single crochet in the first stitch, make two single crochets in the next stitch.) Repeat the steps within parentheses around.

For Round 10: (Make two single crochets in first stitch, then one single crochet in each of next two stitches.) Repeat as before to the last three stitches of this round. Work a slip stitch in each of these three stitches to even up the edge. To finish, slip stitch in the front loop of each stitch. Fasten off and cut yarn, weaving in loose end on wrong side.

With the beginning two-inch end of yarn left when making first chain, make a knot and attach a jingle bell to it on the wrong side. Turn bell to right side.

Two thirds of the island of St. John is designated as a U.S. National Park. The island shows the world what nature is like when it takes care of itself. St. John can be explored by jeep and local guides are available to explain ancient folklore and authentic knowledge of the island. The Cinamon Bay area in St. John has a very famous camp ground. In fact, the camp ground is so popular that reservations must be made far in advance. Want to see kappoks, petroglyphs, jumbies or 18th century sugar plantations? Port Needs Business Plans were announced last week for construction of a $3 million coal exporting facility at the Morehead City port. It could handle up to three million tons of coal annually, and attract 50 ships a year. It could also make Morehead City a possible location for commodity shipments all over the world.

The announcement was generally good news for the port, but it brought some adverse reaction in Cartaret County. The long trains and crossing delays could affect tourism, it was felt.

That's possible. The railroad extends the length of Morehead City, crossing 32 streets.

At the same time the port badly needs the shot in the arm if it is to show a profit and become competitive with other ports on the east coast.

Trains carrying hopper cars loaded with coal are invariably long, but with some efficient scheduling they can be arranged to clear the Morehead City streets during rush hours. That is the approach that needs to be taken to solve the traffic problem. The Morehead City port needs the business.

Regulation Change May Help

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration last week raised the level of aflatoxin to be allowed in corn for interstate shipment and agreed that clean corn can be mixed with infested corn to meet the levels.

The corn is to be monitored and the user is to agree that it will be fed only to non-lactating animals.

The change will be helpful to corn growers who have had trouble with the fungus in this year's crop. And considering corn may be in short supply this year it will help in the nation's efforts to hold down food price increases.

THIS AFTERNOON

Cheap Solar Heat

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There's nothing all that new about passive solar heat. Snakes have been stretching out on a sun-warmed rock for millions of years.

The trick is to control the sun's warmth: maximize it in winter when it's needed; eliminate it in summertime.

A team of innovative planners with the North Carolina office of the Farmers Home Administration have made what they and their bosses on the national level consider a major breakthrough.

The plans for low-cost houses and apartments now being built in North Carolina are being picked up by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and distributed across the nation.

Architect Bob Andron and State Director James T. Johnsons figure they just managed to hit the right combination of simple operation, low cost, but above all, a solar system which works without making the house look like an invader from another planet.

Indeed, the houses and apartment buildings look alike, just that, houses and apartments which blend right into any rural North Carolina landscape.

Hot Rock

The secret is simple: windows facing south are big to capture the warming rays of winter sun. A roof overhang screens the summer sun which is more directly overhead. Inside, just inches away from the insulated glass, is — a warm rock. In this case, though, it may be brick or concrete block from eight to 12 inches thick.

The side facing the window is painted black. The inside surface is decorated and becomes a decorative focal point of each room. The wall can stand on either a concrete slab floor or a wooden floor.

All of this, for a cost of about $1,000 per house, can cut heating bills from 40 to 60 percent, the architect says. All day the sun heats the rock, and for hours, that evening, the family is warmed by the heat retained. Standard electric baseboard heat is also installed because it is cheaper, lasts longer, is easier to maintain, and allows thermostats in each room of the house. In summer, the overhanging roof along with insulated blinds keep the hot sun out. An attic fan in the well-insulated houses usually means comfort without airconditioning, although some may find window units desirable.

The plans and an education process pushing the design to builders and loan officers who handle Farmers Home Administration transactions across the state has resulted in 66 single-family houses already in place, and a major apartment complex being built at Beulaville.

The Goal

Why should this federal agency take the lead in pushing solar heat of the passive sort? First, it means that low-income rural residents can buy a home without as much fear of what energy costs in future years will do to their budgets. Secondly, it is a way to prove that simple, inexpensive solar power is practical and can be put into use by even the most unsophisticated resident. Active solar power equipment is quite expensive, complicated, and difficult to operate and maintain properly.

"This is just the beginning," says Johnson. "and we will have many more solar units in place in coming months. The next move will be to retrofit passive solar systems." That means designs for putting the rock walls into existing homes built before the plans were finished.

The apartment complex, says Architect Ed Moore who planned it, will be truly unique. The thermal wall (called a Trombe wall) will be solid block 12 inches thick and two stories tall. Rooms in the apartment are situated so all adjoin. A blue-tint plexiglass overplate will trap solar heat which will feed into the rooms from openings above while cool air is siphoned into the heat chamber at the bottom.

Other Editors Say Worth Watching

(Kannapolis Independent)

North Carolina's law that permits cities to absorb areas without a voice of the people being annexed is attacked often and bitterly.

This is understandable. The law should be scrutinized. We're not certain that it's good and fair.

The law was passed by the General Assembly in 1959 in answer to the need for municipalities to expand their tax bases by annexing growing areas on their fringes — and in answer to a heavy record of rejection of annexation by the people in those growing areas who didn't want to join the cities.

The law provides that if a city wants to gobble up a fringe area that is becoming urbanized and can provide city services to that community within a reasonable period of time it may do so on its own initiative — and the people being annexed have no say about it.

Cities throughout North Carolina and across the nation are getting into trouble because the aldermen and managers and mayors running them are trying to do all things for all people. There's not enough money in the world to give everybody every service he wants right at his front door.

The cities' problems are becoming more worrisome year by year because the census counted fewer people in the cities. Fewer people mean decreases in federal revenue sharing grants and, quite often, decreases in tax bases.

Our sympathies are with the cities. We also sympathize with people who build plants, open stores and establish homes outside the cities because they don't want any part of city taxes and city problems.

These people have a right to some say in any move that will affect their lifestyles and their pocketbooks.

We suspect this law will continue to be attacked every time a city comes up with an annexation proposal.

TARGET FOR TONIGHT--TOMORROW--NEXT WEEK--

MORRIS

By JOHN J. KILPATRICK

Apres Moi, Le Deluge

CHICAGO — It is a curious thing. The Carter campaign, which once seemed so smooth and professional, suddenly has begun to unravel. An air of desperation has replaced the earlier air of confidence. Not much now remains in the Carter camp of high principle or simple decency. Our president has lost his cool.

How else is one to explain the series of wild charges and extravagant boasts by Mr. Carter and his aides? Only a desperate candidate could have delivered himself of the president's hysterical appeal at a rally here at the Palmer House last week.

"You'll determine whether or not this America will be unified," Mr. Carter said. Then he posed the alternative: "Or, if I lose this election, whether America might be separate — black from white, Jew and Christian, North from South, rural from urban." That alternative, he added, is "too bleak to contemplate."

Apres moi, le deluge! Who in the world does Jimmy Carter think he is? And what does this tell us about the president's contemptuous view of the intelligence of the American people? "If I lose this election," indeed! Are we to understand that without his healing ministry from the White House, the republic may degenerate into race riots, religious jihads, civil war and domestic rebellion? This is the language, may we assume, of a statesman who would produce a "unified America"?

If his Chicago demagoguery were an isolated slip from the rules of fair campaigning, doubtless it could be forgiven. Politics is a body-contact sport, and an occasional roughing of the quarterback is part of the game. But Mr. Carter's apocalyptic vision of the ruin that would follow "if I lose this election" is entirely typical of the emerging pattern of his shrill campaign.

Earlier in the day, for another example, the president was in Milwaukee. There he sought to terrify the voters with a breathtaking distortion of Ronald Reagan's position on the administration of education and public welfare. Mr. Reagan's position — a position at least as old as the Eisenhower presidency — is that responsibility for these programs should be returned to the states and localities.

But the essence of Mr. Reagan's proposal is that tax sources simultaneously be returned from the national government to the localities. The proposal may fairly be criticized as idealistic, or merely theoretical, or politically impossible, but at least in the conservative view there is nothing inherently wrong with it. Indeed, this was how we managed education and welfare for 150 years before we began to drown in floods of federal aid.

If the Reagan plan were adopted, Mr. Carter cried, abandoning any pretense of intellectual honesty, local property owners would be crushed by new tax burdens. The White House helpfully spelled out these awful specters — a tax increase of $870 for the typical Wisconsin family, a jump of $740 for the Illinois family. This is balderdash — worse than balderdash. It reflects the panic of a man so obsessed with "if I lose this election" that he has jettisoned those characteristics for which he once was so widely admired.

There is much more. The Carter campaign has developed the sour taste of an acid stomach. Instead of defending the Carter record, the president has set out simply to demolish his Republican opponent by half truths, whole lies and plain slander. Thus Mr. Reagan, it is supposed, may be made to appear a saber-rattling warmonger who slavers to lead us into nuclear war. Mr. Reagan, in this caricature, "has said he wants to get rid of all federal educational programs." Mr. Reagan is a racist sowing hatred. Mr. Reagan wants the presidency because Mr. Carter has appointed blacks to the federal bench. Mr. Reagan would destroy Social Security, promote inflation, oppress minorities, and so on, and so on. All this, "if I lose this election."

Upon what meat does this our Caesar feed that he has grown so great? Mr. Carter has had moments in which he looked big — in defending human rights, in achieving

Opportunity For Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — The friendly reception for Ronald Reagan by this beleaguered city's angry steel workers, causing Reagan aides to sigh in relief, points to what his campaign could have had had not caution prevailed.

"We were scared to death about the treatment the governor (Reagan) was going to get here," an adviser confided. In fact, workers at the Campbell Works of Jones and Laughlin Steel greeted Reagan with unusual warmth. A threatened wildcat strike protesting Reagan's appearance came to nothing; an anti-Reagan demonstration fizzled. Although aides had decided against a Reagan speech to a potentially hostile audience, the men were so friendly that he gave one anyway.

That confirmed the wisdom of sending Reagan into diehard Democratic areas, such as Youngstown, which rivaled Georgia in 1976 support of Jimmy Carter. The appearance here was, therefore, a test. Had labor leaders disrupted his visit, Reagan's jumpy advisers might have been frightened into scheduling him only in safe Republican strongholds.

Even so, Reagan in Youngstown was essentially playing on President Carter's unpopularity. Coached by aides to avoid blunders, he hazarded no specific proposals — not even his own tax cut program. No vision of a resurgent America was put before the workers, starved for hope and fearful of losing their jobs.

That a trip into erstwhile enemy territory was risked means the Reagan campaign is not sitting on a lead as did Thomas E. Dewey in 1948 and Richard M. Nixon in 1968. But hesitancy about coming to the steel mill and reluctance to take bold positions suggest no effort to build a new majority coalition.

Reagan's organized effort to penetrate rank-and-file union members did not begin until early September when Michael Balzano, a Nixon White House emissary to the labor movement, was brought aboard. Balzano's first mission: Refute leaflets distributed by the AFL-CIO's Committee On Political Education (COPE) depicting Reagan as anti-labor.

Reagan immediately agreed to sign off on a labor policy statement that put him on record as opposing a national "right to work" law, opposing repeal of the minimum wage and Davis-Bacon labor law and opposing application of antitrust laws to labor unions. Millions of leaflets reporting those stands are being distributed.

Balzano next scheduled Reagan himself in areas of maximum blue-collar distress — Youngstown, Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Ohio — followed by the National Maritime Union convention in St. Louis. Youngstown worried Reagan aides most. Its United Steel Workers (USW) members are among the most radical in the nation.

Those fears were fanned when Harry Mayfield, the union's district director in Canton, started recruiting USW members to protest the Reagan visit. It was not clear whether they would be strikers threatening a wildcat strike to close the Campbell Works or just demonstrators. Reagan's high command decided to cross no picket line and not court trouble by scheduling a speech for the candidate.

But Mayfield could enlist no more than 100 well-behaved, sign-carrying protesters. Workers inside the factory shouted friendly greetings to Reagan. Random interviewing of them showed overwhelming hostility to Carter and surprisingly large numbers willing to desert Democratic loyalties for Reagan.

In an area where some 13,000 steel workers have lost their jobs since August 1977, these men feel the antiquated Campbell Works may be next to close. "We're fed up and we're scared in this (Mahoning) valley," one middle-aged worker told us. "Why not give Reagan a chance?"

After Reagan's tour, hundreds of workers spontaneously followed him outside. He abandoned the no-speech decision to board a flatbed truck, speaking without loudspeaker or even bullhorn. Would he forget the misery of Youngstown if elected? "It will be an awful long time before I forget what I saw here," he responded, referring to decaying closed steel mills he toured that day.

The blame was Jimmy Carter's, Reagan stressed. When a worker shouted that Reagan looked "10 years younger" than the president, Reagan yelled back: "That's 'cause I don't have anything on my conscience like he does." But while Rep. Jack Kemp would have used tax reduction to conjure up a new world of growth and incen-

'Kicking The Habit' Will Hurt

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation is such a bad habit, it has been observed, that it's got people worried sick. And they may get even sicker when they think about the consequences of kicking the habit.

Almost all students of the economic disease are agreed that a period of severe withdrawal is likely to accompany the cure, and a good many wonder if Americans will be able to cope with it.

They point to the vested interest Americans have in a continuation of rising prices: the value of privately owned homes, the big personal debts, the regular cost-of-living wage increases, and even the jobs.

Consider some of the fears, if not the proven consequences, of a return to price stability:

HOMES: To many people it is the source of their financing. Inflation has added enormously to home values, and millions of Americans have plans to tap those values for the kids' tuitions and their retirements.

Should inflation be restrained to 2 percent a year it might mean the growth in housing prices would be curtailed. Interest rates might fall. More homes might be built. Demand-supply ratios might change.

If houses fail to continue appreciating at 10 percent to 14 percent a year, as many single-family dwellings have for several years, it might produce a situation more critical than is immediately apparent.

The reason is that for many owners houses have been cash cows. An owner might have put only $10,000 into a $50,000 house, but he enjoys the double-digit inflation rise on the full amount. That is, a $10,000 rise in market price represents a 100 percent return on his money.

Meanwhile, he has a fixed-rate mortgage well below the inflation rate, which means in effect that he earns money on his loan. And interest on the loan, of course, is almost always split with generous Uncle Sam.

Therefore, many families whose work income is insufficient to provide their children with tuition and themselves with a stylish retirement might be less than enthusiastic about a restraint on inflation.

INCOME INCREASES: Millions of Americans, including Social Security beneficiaries, enjoy annual cost-of-living adjustments, most commonly based on the consumer price index. The index is a faulty measure.

As many recipients of such increases understand fully, major factors in the annual increases are housing prices and mortgage rates, which affect only a small percentage of people.

Those who already own houses and have fixed mortgage rates receive, in effect, a bonus. Will they be happy about giving up their bonuses?

DEBTS: There has been much negative criticism about the propensity of Americans to take on debt, though many people have done so only in self defense. To have debt is to have tax deductions and an inflation hedge.

Will those who have been paying back in cheaper money — in many instances just 50 cents or 60 cents on the dollar — be happy when they have to pay back in full measure?

EMPLOYMENT: For every 100 private sector employees, there are 25 employees of federal, state or local government, according to the Tax Foundation, which also notes that public employees are also paid more.

Much blame for inflation is directed at the growth of government. With almost every private sector American having a friend or close relative receiving government income, will they be happy if government shrinks?

And if it does shrink, will Americans be happy at the prospect of a possible, though not inevitable, reduction in government services? Like the fellow at the bar, many Americans might be inclined to have another drink and think it over before taking the pledge.

Safeguarding Freedom

America's 1,763 daily newspapers are marking National Newspaper Week by emphasizing the theme "our freedom safeguards your freedom." In many countries, governments strictly control the information newspapers publish. In the United States, the First Amendment to the Constitution guarantees freedom of the press. American newspapers use this freedom every day to keep people informed about events and ideas. Newspapers also have a responsibility to use press freedom wisely, to make sure the information they print is fair and accurate. In this way, newspapers help provide people with the tools they need to make intelligent decisions about matters that affect their lives.

Study Loosens Crime And Alcohol Link

By TOM FOREMAN JR.
Associated Press Writer
RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Research on the relationship between alcohol and crime has pinned too much blame on drinking and not enough blame on other factors, according to a study at the Research Triangle Institute.

A report to be submitted to the National Institute of Justice by RTI's Center for the Study of Social Behavior concludes that further research is necessary on the alcohol-crime connection in different types of subcultures and on the relationship between drinking and spouse abuse.

RTI's final report also proposed a study on the relationship between alcohol and crime among young adult males as well as the relationship among situational factors and the alcohol-crime connection.

Project leader Dr. James Collins said in an interview that alcohol does cause some crimes, but that drinking cannot be deemed as the sole cause for criminal actions.

"In nearly all cases, it's unwarranted to take the position that alcohol was a simple direct cause of the crime," Collins said. "Alcohol is more likely to be one of many factors."

Collins said current research in the alcohol-crime relationship involves assault on police officers. The study has shown that such an offense may involve drinking in 80 percent of the cases. He added that many of the incidents involve young adult males, a group found to rate high in the categories of drinking and violent behavior.

Dr. Stephanie Greenberg assisted in the study, focusing on methods used in prior studies in alcohol and crime.

Dr. Greenberg divided the literature into three categories: the role of drinking in the criminal event, studies concerning the prevalence of alcohol among criminals and crimes among identified alcoholics.

Among her conclusions was that many of the studies did not provide information on the effect of alcohol on the crime.

"Most of the studies were not adequate to answer questions like incidents where alcohol was merely present as compared to if alcohol was involved involved in the crime," Greenberg said.

She said the major source of samples for those studies was people identified as alcoholics.

"When you're dealing with those kinds of populations, such as prison populations, you're biasing the results toward more serious crimes," Greenberg said. Greenberg also added that the inclusion of alcohol in society is such that "you can't really tell if it was just there or played an active role."

She said most of the studies don't differentiate between drinking and drunkenness and only measure just one of the two parties involved in a crime instead of both. "It's important to get that interplay."

Greenberg said one of the reasons NJ sponsored the study was that much research had been done on drinking and violent crime, but few conclusions had been drawn.

"There were a lot of questions that had not been answered by existing literature," she said.

tive, Reagan asked for "our chance" now that the Democrats "had their chance" and failed.

Reagan last spring might have been more venturesome, but take-no-chances is today's theme. "I think we've reached the point of no return for Carter," one senior Reagan staffer told us. That prophecy may prove accurate, but it scarcely justifies passivity in responding to the greatest Republican opportunity of a generation.

Event Finances Are Studied

GRIFTON — A look at the Grifton Shad Festival finances and possibilities of changing directions is one of the topics currently being discussed at a series of Shad Festival planning meetings being held this month.

The financial report for 1980 shows an income of $16,569.24 and expenses of $15,326.95, leaving a surplus of $1,242.29. However, it was pointed out that if the Grassroots Art grant from the North Carolina Arts Council for 1980 were subtracted from the income column, the Shad Festival would have shown a profit of only $27.29 after expenses, certainly carrying out its "non-profit" commitment.

"As we never know whether or not we will break even, the art grants have assured us of being able to offer free of charge the very popular clogging classes and demonstrations, dancing, and high quality art shows that have drawn enthusiastic praise from spectators and artists each year," Shad Festival publicity coordinator Janet Hasley said today. "These are especially significant for 1981 because the Shad Festival will be the opening event in a month-long celebration of the arts in Pitt County during April, and we will coordinate activities and publicity with the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council and East Carolina University."

The art grant for 1981 is less than half the amount received in 1980, Hasley said, and there is no assurance that this will continue. This means that alternative financing or budgeting must be planned now for both 1981 and the future, she added.

The suggestion of profit-sharing with civic, charitable and church groups has been raised in the past, and is seriously being evaluated now in an attempt to encourage greater participation in the financial plans for the Shad Festival's future. During the October 6 planning meeting, several possibilities were raised, and it is hoped that more representatives of more groups and interested individuals will attend the October 13 meeting at 8 p.m. at the Grifton Historical Museum.

Public Smoking Ban In Miami Back On Ballot

MIAMI (AP) — The David-and-Goliath battle between a grassroots group determined to ban smoking in most public places and a tobacco company-backed campaign to prevent that is being replayed in Dade County.

An anti-smoking referendum was narrowly defeated by county voters last year but supporters gathered enough voters' signatures to force the issue back on the ballot Nov. 4.

"All we're asking for is a situation in an enclosed space where a person who has a real problem can breathe and get by without choking and without going into a spasm of coughing," said Dr. Charles Tate, a University of Miami lung specialist and a leader of Group Against Smokers' Pollution, or GASP.

Counters Walker Merrymann, a vice president of the Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C.: "It's a shame the people of Dade County will have to go through the exercise again. Even though it was by a small margin, the people have already said they are not interested."

Floridians Against Increased Regulation (FAIR), the local group opposing the proposal on the Nov. 4 ballot, has received $270,000 from tobacco companies, a spokeswoman said.

GASP says it has less than $1,000 and is struggling for funding.

The ordinance voters rejected in May 1979 by just 820 votes out of 192,000 cast would have banned smoking — with limited exceptions — in work places, schools, health facilities and most other enclosed public places. Similar ordinances also were rejected last year in California and the community of Zephyrhills, Fla.

The proposal facing Dade voters this November is essentially the same, but the maximum fine for violations has been reduced from $500 to $200.

Restaurants would be required to set aside half their eating areas for non-smokers, prompting restaurant owners to oppose the proposal. Exempted are private offices, tobacco stores, hotel and motel rooms, smoking lounges, bars and pool halls.

Last year the pro-smoking group pumped $1 million into its barely successful campaign, largely from tobacco companies, while the GASP pro-ordinance campaign spent about $11,000.

The tobacco companies, including R.J. Reynolds, Philip Morris Inc., Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp. and Loew's Clearing Corp. of New York, won the right to contribute as much as they wished when U.S. District Judge William Stafford of Tallahassee removed a $1,000 donation limit in March 1979.

"Our purpose is really to protect the public safety by defeating the no-smoking ordinance," said Elaine Goldman, co-manager of the FAIR campaign. "We believe that enforcing the regulation will mean fewer police officers on the streets and less protection from serious crime."

The anti-ordinance group is using its money primarily to buy newspaper ads.

Said GASP President Charles Freefield, "We can't even afford to put an ad in the paper to request money from our supporters."

Redevelopment

market here was less than desirable in that no shelter or shade trees were available. There are shade trees on the Reade Circle tract but no shelter and the possibility of tents to house the market was mentioned.

Laney emphasized that the tract is for sale by the commission and if it gets a chance to sell for property for development, the market would have to be moved.

In other business, Laney said that the Department of Interior, as part of the nomination process for the Jones-Lee House on Evans Street for inclusion in the National Register, is advertising for comments concerning the property. Laney said that a letter will be written from the commission, pointing out some errors on the part of the state in the nomination form data.

According to Laney, the wrong address was included on the form, 805 E. Evans St. rather than the correct address of 805 S. Evans St., the house was inaccurately listed as occupied, and the city, rather than the Redevelopment Commission, was listed as owner of the property. In addition, Laney said that significant errors were contained in the historical chronology regarding the structure compiled by the state and it would be suggested in the letter that the data be checked prior to publication.

Laney added that nothing is mentioned in the nomination data regarding the physical status of the house and the letter will point out that the city and Redevelopment Commission feel that the physical condition of the structure is a problem. The executive director said that the commission will not comment in the letter regarding the nomination of the house for National Register inclusion.

Faye Brewington, staff real estate officer and Southside project manager, reported that two acquisitions took place during September, both involving property in the South Evans area. Two demolitions took place in West Meadowbrook, she said, and options were obtained on two parcels in South Evans and the West Greenville thoroughfare project area.

Mike Lord spoke to the board and presented bids to them for seven of the 44 houses the town intends to rehabilitate with a federal grant. The bids averaged around $8,000 per house, too high for the $264,000 ceiling for all houses. No action was taken and Town Manager Russell agreed to look at the houses and see if the specifications could be reduced.

Mrs. Leolia Dixon and Mrs. Carolyn Rouse were re-appointed to the library board of trustees for a three-year term. Odell McLawhorn was appointed as an extra-territorial representative to the planning board for a three-year term, pending approval by the county commissioners.

In other business, the board passed a resolution of intent to close portions of Hart Street between East Avenue and West Avenue so that repairs can be made to the Seaboard Railroad Tracks.

It was noted that the Pitt County landfill has not yet made arrangements for large piles of limbs to be dumped there, as was specified in last month's refuse ordinance, so citizens are asked to use the Ayden landfill until further notice.

Commissioner Hines reported that the road going to the North Cemetery was badly in need of rocking or paving, and that he had a low bid on the job. The board took no action but Town Manager Russell said he would look into the possibility of using available funds to improve the condition of the road. "The bid Hines had calls for only one inch of rock, which I don't think would do any good," he said. "We need at least three inches to be effective and it needs grading." The board tabled any action until a later meeting.

Detected Two Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seismic signals, presumed to be from two Soviet underground nuclear explosions, were recorded by the U.S. atomic energy detection system on Saturday, the Department of Energy reported today.

The first set of signals originated at 3:10 a.m. EDT at Novaya Zemlya in the Arctic, the second at 11:34 p.m. EDT at the Semipalatinsk nuclear test site in Siberia, the department said.

Interim Chancellor For NCA&T Is Announced

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A University of North Carolina vice president, Cleon F. Thompson, was named Monday as interim chancellor of North Carolina A&T University despite faculty requests that the job be filled from within the Greensboro campus.

Thompson, UNC vice president for student services and special programs, said his first priority would be to correct the financial problems that have plagued the predominantly black university for several years.

Thompson, who is black, has served as liaison between the UNC system's five traditionally black campuses and the system's general administration since 1975.

UNC President William Friday, who announced Thompson's appointment, said he had given Thompson no specific goals.

"But he will be the chancellor and will carry all the responsibilities of a chancellor outlined in the university code," Friday said.

Thompson will assume his new duty Nov. 1, on his 49th birthday. He will succeed Dr. Lewis Dowdy, who was granted a voluntary leave of absence last week until his retirement next June 30.

Friday held a closed meeting with North Carolina A&T's four vice chancellors and six deans to tell them of Thompson's appointment.

The university's faculty senate last week urged Friday to name someone from within the campus administration to serve as acting chancellor.

But A.P. Bell, chairman of the faculty senate, said Monday that the "naming of Dr. Thompson does not parallel the wishes and the requests of the faculty forum. But I am quite sure the faculty will do and support whatever is in the best interest of the university."

Thompson said he had no plans to seek appointment as the university's permanent chancellor.

In Raleigh, John R. Jordan, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors, said, "The board was extremely pleased about Cleon. I don't think there was any way we could have gotten a better man. He's going to get into this thing. I believe the situation at A&T has worked itself out the best way it can."

Sunspot Activity 'Unsurpassed'

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A surge in the sun's energy has raised sunspot activity to a level unsurpassed since it was first monitored nearly 400 years ago, says a government scientist.

Gary Heckman of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Monday that the sunspots, which normally follow an 11-year cycle of maximum and minimum activity, are now at a peak period unmatched since they were first recorded in 1609.

Sunspot are areas of darker and cooler gas on the sun's surface caused by extra-strong magnetic fields. They have no direct effect on the Earth, Heckman said, but the energy they emit interferes with short-wave radio transmissions and poses problems for ship and airplane communications.

Embassy Is Attacked

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — About 25 Iranian students stormed the Iranian Embassy here today and assaulted a diplomat, an embassy source reported. They left peacefully after about two hours.

An informed source said the students were protesting a diplomat's refusal to help a young Iranian enter a Pakistani university.

Consular official Mahsoud Ziraxaz was punched in the face but was not seriously injured, the embassy source said. Scores of riot police were quickly dispatched to the scene but did not intervene.

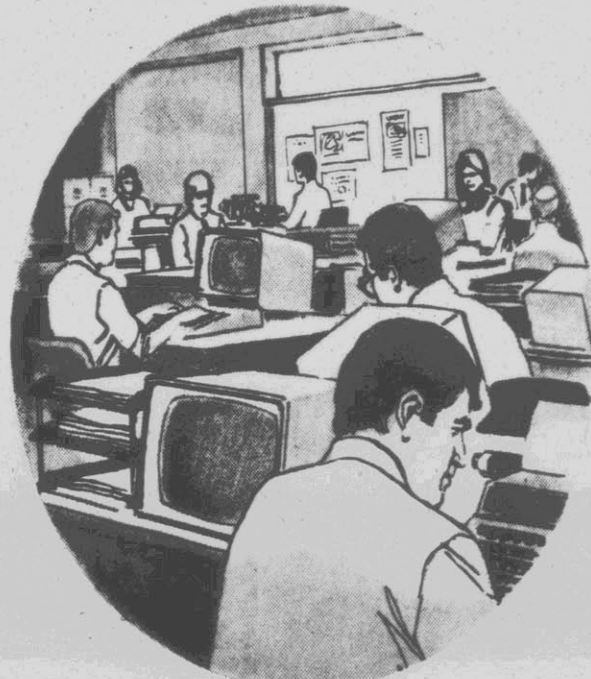

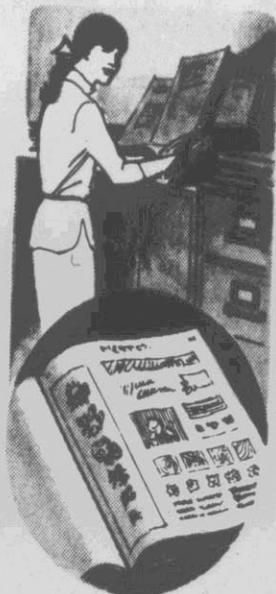

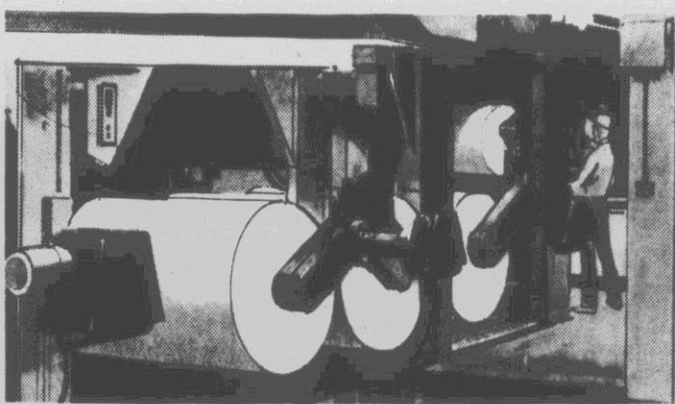

The students, shouting "Allah is great!" and carrying portraits of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, left the building after two hours in a bus provided by the embassy. They told reporters it was an "internal" matter.

Iranians studying abroad have staged protests against other Iranian diplomatic missions as well, in some cases because of changes in the Tehran government's sponsorship of foreign studies, and in other cases because militant students have considered Iranian diplomats to be insufficiently revolutionary.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 15, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is splendid for getting things done, but later some deceptive influences are in effect. Maintain a cheerful manner and be more thoughtful of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can impress one in power in the morning with your abilities. But don't rest on your laurels. Be more encouraging.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use your intuition, which is accurate now, in handling financial affairs. Think along optimistic lines. Be logical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your intuition is working fine early in the day, but don't trust it later. Don't take any risks when dealing with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to have more children in the future. The planets are most favorable for getting ahead in career matters.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to complete any work left undone before taking on new work. Discuss important business matters with financial experts.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan early for whatever you want to do, then carry through intelligently. This can be a particularly fine day for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to put your business affairs in better order. Await a better time for looking into new outlets. Use care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Support persons who have been loyal to you in the past. Show increased devotion to loved one. Plan for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your money situation and make plans to have more financial security. Strive to be more efficient in your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have conferences with higher-ups early and gain their support and goodwill. Take time to improve your appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Obtain the information you need from the right sources. A financial expert can give advice for a plan you have in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep busy at tasks that can bring you added income in the days ahead. Handle important business matters wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can solve difficult problems, so direct education along lines of investigations for best results. Give as fine a religious training as you can in order to maintain an optimistic manner. Sports are a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

grabbed the ace and found the fatal shift to a low spade. No matter what declarer did, he could not avoid losing three spade tricks and the two red aces for down one.

We presume that our readers are, as usual, on the ball. They will have realized that declarer blew a vulnerable game that was ice cold. And it would not have taken any play of great genius to fulfill the contract — declarer simply had a blind spot.

South should play a low diamond from dummy at the first trick! If East rises with the ace to shift to a spade, declarer will make a spade trick, three diamonds and five clubs for a total of nine tricks. So East must play the eight of diamonds.

Declarer wins the first diamond trick and immediately attacks hearts. He continues the suit until he has driven out the ace, and now there is no way that he can be stopped from scoring at least nine tricks.

Which goes to prove just one thing—even at the highest levels of bridge, elementary mistakes are made more regularly than might be expected.

Young Women Said Lured To Smoking

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Low-tar, low-nicotine cigarettes have become for young girls the "pharmacologic equivalent of a training bra," leading women into tobacco addiction, a Harvard University researcher says.

Dr. William Bennett said new studies show women are more sensitive than males to the effects of nicotine overdose, and in the past the high nicotine in regular cigarettes deterred women from smoking.

"The new, low-tar brands have removed that deterrent," Bennett wrote in the current issue of Harvard Magazine.

Bennett, editor of the Harvard Medical School health newsletter, said the relative hazards of the low-tar, low-nicotine cigarettes are unclear, adding researchers have noted an increasing number of young women of childbearing age are addicted to smoking.

"It's reasonable to assume that smokers who reduce their intake of tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide will reduce the damage from their habit," he said. "But it is not reasonable to assume the new brands are, in fact, lowering smokers' intake of these substances."

"By puffing faster than the 'standard' smoker, inhaling more deeply and lighting up more often, one can receive more of everything," he said.

An estimated 30 million people quit smoking in the past 15 years, Bennett said, adding those wanting to quit should go "cold turkey" instead of tapering off with milder brands "which are still addictive."

Rebuttal Evidence In Klan Trial Today

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Prosecutors were scheduled to begin presenting rebuttal evidence today in the murder trial of six Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis.

Court was scheduled to meet only half a day because of medical appointments for a member of the prosecution team and a family member of a juror.

Attorneys for the six defendants rested their case Monday after a friend of one of the slain Communist Workers Party members testified the group was ready for violence at any time.

Five CWP members and sympathizers were killed when shooting erupted last Nov. 3 at a CWP-sponsored "Death to the Klan" rally in Greensboro.

Rex W. Stephenson of Greensboro, who said he worked for six months at a sewage treatment plant with slain CWP member James Waller, said Waller told him the group had guns and was ready to use them.

Under cross-examination, however, Stephenson said Waller never discussed plans for the Nov. 3 rally. Stephenson also told Assistant District Attorney Jim Coman that he didn't consider Waller to be a violent person.

Stephenson speculated that if Waller had a gun, he might have used violence to carry out his political objectives. Waller, he said, was "trying to pattern himself after Lenin by organizing labor parties to take over the country."

Waller said the CWP needed a martyr, Stephenson said, adding that Waller told him the group "was not getting enough attention" and it needed "national TV coverage so they could organize the party for one members."

Waller often talked about the CWP, Stephenson said, adding that he is not a communist himself.

In other testimony Monday, a resident of the area in which the shootings occurred testified that he heard two gunshots.

Try our new money machine. It can make you $100 richer.

Now at the new NCNB 24 locations: Every time you use the new machines, you get a chance at an Eisenhower Dollar. Every day you use them, you can enter the Sweepstakes for 100 Eisenhower Dollars.

But we think that, once you meet the machine that treats you like a human being, you'll want it to handle all your banking.

So, if you're already banking with NCNB 24, you can use the card and code you're using now.

If you're not, this is a good time to start. So come by, open an account, tell us the code number you want, and we'll get a card to you right away.

After all, we want everyone to get a chance to win. But, even without the Sweepstakes, you'll like dealing with the new NCNB 24.

The same people who introduced the first banking machines in North Carolina now introduce the most advanced banking machines in America.

And right now, we're celebrating by inviting you to enter the New NCNB 24 Silver Dollar Sweepstakes.

All you have to do is go through a demonstration, and you get a chance at a Silver-Dollar-On-The-Spot.

Plus a chance at the Grand Prize of 100 Silver Dollars.

It doesn't waste time; it handles your banking in as little as 30 seconds.

Instead of just $25 or $50, it gives you cash in $5 amounts up to $100.

It talks "people talk," not "machine talk," so it's easy to understand.

In short, it makes all your routine banking easier than ever.

The new NCNB 24. Now at the bank that wants to be the best in the neighborhood.

The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 47.25 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,668,000.

Genetech, a small company involved in genetic engineering, leaped 5 1/4 to 86 1/4 bid about midday. On the New York Stock Exchange, gaining issues outnumbered losers about 2-to-1. Big Board volume came to 22.67 million shares by noon. Among oil stocks, Getty Oil gained 1 1/4 to 94 1/4; Exxon rose 3/4 to 77 1/4; Standard Oil California jumped 2 1/4 to 90. Occidental Petroleum which reported sharply lower third quarter earnings today, fell 1 1/4 to 32 1/4 as the most actively traded NYSE issue as of midday. The NYSE composite index rose 0.38 to 76.66 on the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.36 to 354.67.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices rose in fairly active trading today extending gains of the previous session. Analysts cited no specific news behind the rise. But hopes that interest rates may soon decline have been cited as one factor. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks which gained more than 9 points Monday, was up 6.31 to 966.21 as of midday. Oil and high technology stocks were generally higher for the second consecutive session. One of the most dramatic examples of bidding for high technology stocks came in the over-the-counter market where a new offering of one million shares of Genetech more than doubled from its initial 35 a share price.

Three Wrecks Investigated By Police

An estimated $2,700 property damage resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday by Greenville police. Heaviest damage reported resulted from an unattended car, owned by Brown-Wood Inc., 1205 Dickinson Ave., backed from a parking place at the U.S. Post Office on First Street, about 7:53 p.m., circled, and collided with the building. Investigators estimated damage to the car at $200 and placed damage to the building at $1,000. Cars driven by Mira Dail Lanier of Grimesland and William Fountain Avera of Route 1, Smithfield, collided about 1:55 p.m. on Evans Street, 200 feet south of the 14th Street intersection, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Lanier car and $600 to the Avera vehicle. An estimated $800 damage resulted to a car driven by Charles Redd of Baltimore, Md., when a disk, being pulled by a farm tractor driven by Milton Earl Stator of Route 3, Greenville, collided with the side of the car. Police said no damage resulted to the farm implement or tractor, in the 4:15 p.m. incident on Tenth Street, 84 feet east of the 14th Street Boulevard intersection.

Betty Topper Wins Division Contest

NEW BERN - Toastmaster Betty Topper, representing the Greenville Toastmasters, won first place in the Toastmasters Northeastern Division Speech Contest on October 11. Mrs. Topper will now represent the division at the state-wide district contest in Greensboro on November 1. Mrs. Topper teaches speech and drama at Rose High School. She has been a member of Toastmasters for two years, holding the offices of sergeant-at-arms and educational vice president. The speech contest is the culminating event of the District No. 37 annual spring conference. In addition to the contest, there will be educational programs, business meetings and the election of district officers. Toastmasters is an organization devoted to the development of communication and leadership skills. Interested persons may call Pat or Charlotte Flanagan, 756-7192, for additional information. Guests are welcome at the club meetings held on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at the Western Sizzlin' Steak House. Dinner is at 6:15 and meetings begin at 7:15.

Pork Workshop Is Conducted

Extension Agricultural Engineer Bynum Driggers conducted a swine building workshop at the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office Tuesday morning, discussing various methods of utilizing pork buildings. According to Extension Agent Mike Regans, Driggers is considered a leading authority on swine and poultry houses. He spoke on the subjects of ventilation, design, flooring, waste management and trends in hog buildings. "This is something we do twice a year," explained Regans. "In the spring and in the fall just before producers are getting ready to do repairs, remodel, etc., we sponsor a special speaker, someone considered knowledgeable in his area." Driggers was available throughout the day at the Pitt County Extension Office to answer questions and talk with producers. He will speak tonight to the swine management class at Pitt Community College at 7 p.m.

Trading Halted By Breakdown

NEW YORK (AP) - A computer breakdown halted trading on the New York and American stock exchanges for nearly an hour, NYSE officials said. The 54-minute delay Monday, when trading was much lighter than normal because of the Columbus Day holiday, was the longest stoppage since a power blackout kept the exchanges from opening on July 14, 1977. A spokesman for the NYSE said the market data system, which operates the tickers and disseminates trading information, broke down at 10:58 a.m. EDT. A backup system also failed to function and trading at the two exchanges was halted at 11:11 a.m. Trading resumed at 12:05 p.m.

Leonard, Walk On Hill As Series Opens

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City Royals' All-Star catcher, Darrell Porter, the Kansas contends he is not much of a baseball fan, but he knows what makes a pitching rotation go around.

A consummate handler of pitchers, Porter believes the bulk of the work in the 1980 World Series against Philadelphia will have to be assumed by right-hander Dennis Leonard and lefty Larry Gura.

"We've got to rely on Gura and Leonard simply because of what they have done for us all year long," Porter said.

Leonard, the Royals' only 20-game winner, will oppose

Philadelphia rookie Bob Walk, 11-7 during the season, in the opening game of the best-of-seven World Series here tonight (starting time 8:30 p.m., EDT).

Royals Manager Jim Frey tabbed Leonard in an effort to negate the Phillies right-handed swinging power of Mike Schmidt, Greg Luzinski, Garry Maddox and Bob Boone. "Dennis is probably the hardest thrower consistently on the club," Porter said. "His fastball is the key. He throws a hard slider, a curveball and a changeup. His slider and curve are both good pitches when he's on."

Porter said Leonard gets into trouble if he gets in a groove, spotting his fastball in the same place all the time.

Gura, 18-10 with a key victory in Game One of the American League Championship Series against the New York Yankees, probably will start Game Two of the Series, with Rich Gale starting the third game, Frey said. Paul Splitter, Kansas City's fourth starter, will be used as an emergency starter.

"Gura is not an overpowering pitcher," Porter said.

"He relies more on finesse, control and mixing speeds. Gale is a power pitcher with good movement on his fastball. It moves either way, and it's not straight too often."

Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green more or less was forced to go with the 23-year-old Walk in Game One.

"You people asked me last night if I was going to start, and I thought, 'Why me?'" said Walk, who did not learn he would start today until Monday afternoon. "Then, all of a sudden, it dawned on me. We had used all our other starting pitchers in the last game of the playoffs."

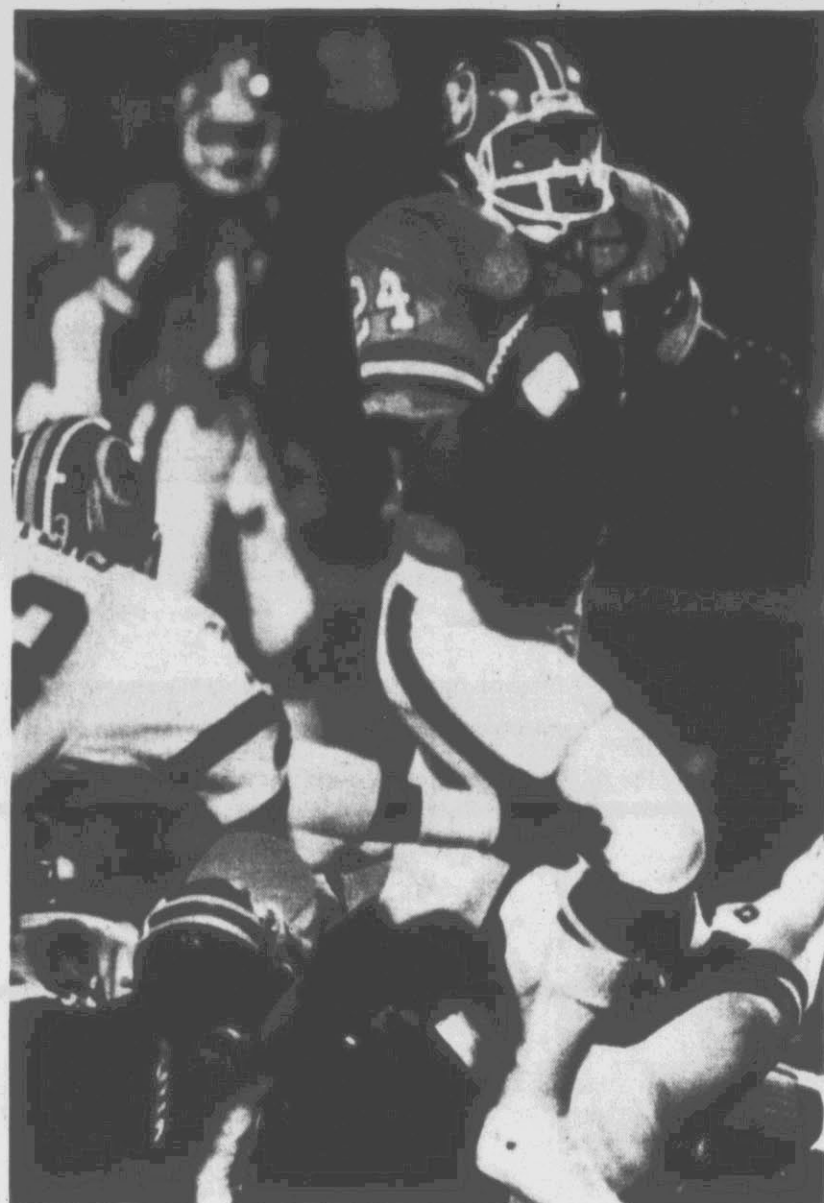

In order to win Sunday night's game in Houston 8-7 in 10 innings, Green had to use starters Marty Bystrom, a rookie, Larry Christenson and Dick Ruthven. Only left-hander Steve Carlton, who pitched the night before, and Walk were unused. Carlton will start Game Two of the Series here Wednesday.

Walk also is a power pitcher with a slider, curveball and straight changeup, which he says he probably does not throw often enough. Walk got off to an 8-1 start this season before control problems sent him to the bullpen.

"Sometimes I try to overpower the hitters — I try to pitch them too fine, and that's

Three Named To ECU's Hall

Three former outstanding athletes at East Carolina University have been voted into the school's Sports Hall of Fame.

Cecil A. Heath, star in baseball and basketball; Carlester Crumpler, star in football; and Danny Kepler, star in football, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame on Homecoming, Saturday, during a special luncheon and at halftime of the Pirates game against Western Carolina.

With the induction of these three, the East Carolina Sports Hall of Fame will reach a membership of 30. The Hall of Fame was initiated in 1974.

Heath, now an educator at Rose High in Greenville, was a two-sport star at East Carolina College from 1951-55. Participating in both basketball and baseball, Heath won seven letters. He was named all-state in both sports in 1954-55, was all-conference in baseball as a junior and senior, was all-conference in basketball as a junior, was captain of the baseball and basketball team in 1954 and 1955 and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in 1955.

In baseball, Heath played second base, starting all four years of his career, hitting at a .320 average. In basketball, Heath was a three-year starter at guard. During those three years, East Carolina attained its finest record ever and its best stretch of winning seasons ever. The Pirates were 18-5 in 1952-53, 23-2 in 1953-54, and 16-8 in 1954-55. The 1953-54 team won 16 consecutive games, the North State Conference regular season and tournament championship and the District 26 NAAIA tournament and played in the national NAAIA tournament. The 1952-53 team won a district title and advanced to national tournament play, marking the first time

Youthful Pirates Set To Open Cage Practice

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The sports fans who attend East Carolina University basketball games this winter will definitely be in need of a program.

Only five names from last year's roster appear on this year's, and one of those players was a walk-on last time around.

Only one of the returning players, forward-center Michael Gibson, 6-8, saw as much as 500 minutes of play last year. He played 532 minutes, appearing in 27 games, averaging 5.9 points and 5.6 rebounds.

Next in experience comes David Underwood, with 392 minutes. The 6-6 forward was in 26 games, averaging 5.0 points and 1.8 rebounds.

Joining them are Mark McLaurin, 6-6, forward-guard, with 155 minutes; Tom Szymanski, 6-11 center, with 73 minutes, and walk-on Greg Batson, a 6-2 guard, who played just 34 minutes.

"We are obviously going to be one of the youngest, if not the youngest Division I basketball team in the country," Odom says of the 1980-81 Pirates. "But that has some pluses and minuses."

"I think a few years ago, I would have been more worried about it than I am right now," Odom said as the Pirates set to begin practice on Wednesday.

"A lot of things have happened over the past few years to make me not worry about it, mainly Louisville winning the national championship last year with a freshman center. The runnerup team was UCLA

LITTLEFIELD — D.H. Conley's volleyball team clinched at least a tie for the Eastern Carolina Conference championship with a 2-0 victory over Ayden-Grifton Monday afternoon.

The victory left the Valkyries at 13-1, one game ahead of Southwest Edgecombe, which is 11-1. The Cougars face Southern Nash today and a loss in either of the two matches with the Firebirds would give the Valkyries the title.

If Southwest wins both matches a one-match playoff will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. at North Pitt, a neutral site decided upon by the two teams for the playoff.

Monday afternoon, the Valkyries whipped Ayden-Grifton, which ends the season at 6-8, by 15-3, 15-9 scores, in the first match behind Sherri Waters, who scored five straight points.

In the second match, the Chargers, led by Sarah Cannon's seven points and Evelyn Artis' six, beat Conley, 15-9, in the first game. But the Valkyries rallied to win the last two, 16-14, 15-11, to win.

Cannon had six points in the second game while Conley was led by Jackie Daniels' six points. DHC's Tammy Streeter had six points in the third game.

Greene C. 2
North Pitt 0

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's volleyball team ended its season on a winning note Monday afternoon with a 2-0 victory over North Pitt.

The Rams, who finish with a 4-10 mark, whipped the Pant-HERS, 14-16, 15-6, 15-10, in the first match and then took the second, 15-5, 16-14. North Pitt ends the season at 3-11.

Greene Central was led by Lisa Radford's 19 points and Pam Shackelford's 17 points.

Arp Takes Contest

Odus Arp of 1311 E. Second St., Greenville, is the winner in last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Arp correctly picked the winners in 29 of the 32 games listed in the contest for the week.

He won, however, on the basis of his point total guess. His guess of 70 was one off the total of 69 scored in Brigham Young's 52-17 victory over Wyoming.

Second place went to H. Dean Whitehurst of Rt. 2, Robersonville, who also had 29 correct picks. His point total guess, however, was further off, with a guess of 79.

One other person also had 29 right, but was further off on the point total guess.

The next contest appears on the following pages

Broncos Ease Past Skins, 20-17

DENVER (AP) — On a day commemorating Columbus' discovery of America, the Denver Broncos rediscovered Rick Upchurch, their game-breaking wide receiver who has been strangely silent this season. The speedy Upchurch worked behind the Washington secondary Monday night and hauled in a 32-yard touchdown pass from veteran Craig Morton with 3:08 remaining, lifting the Broncos to a 20-17 National Football League victory over the Redskins.

The triumph was the Broncos' second in a row and squared their record at 3-3, leaving them just one game behind AFC Western Division leader San Diego, Washington, meanwhile, slumped to 1-5, four games behind NFC East co-leaders Dallas and Philadelphia.

Upchurch had only 12 receptions entering Monday night's contest, and in some games hardly worked up a sweat as Denver used a two-tight-end alignment which kept him on the bench.

But he was a key performer against the Redskins, catching two passes on Denver's first touchdown drive and hauling in a 35-yarder on a march which produced a field goal, in addition to the clincher.

"It was a picture-perfect pass," said Upchurch of the game-winner. "The safety clamped on me as I was coming across. When I saw Craig coming out to the side I took it up the field." He said he felt Morton sensed the touchdown coming. "When he's feeling it, you've got to feel it with him," Upchurch said.

Morton, who came off the bench in relief of starter Matt Robinson for the third time this season, said the route was "a crossing pattern against a man-to-man defense, and I knew exactly where Rick was going to be."

Washington never led until midway through the final quarter after a bizarre exchange of fumbles. The Redskins had driven deep into Denver territory when fullback Clarence Harmon took a short pass from Theismann and fumbled the ball away at the Denver 7-yard line. But two plays later, Denver running back Lawrence McCutcheon coughed up the ball at the 5.

Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann capitalized this time, hitting a leaping Art Monk in the corner of the end zone for a 1-yard scoring pass and a 17-13 lead with 7:30 to play.

"I told him, 'It's your ball, I'm going to throw it to you so be ready,'" said Theismann.

"Art Monk is going to be a great receiver. He's got moxie."

But Denver countered with a seven-play, 79-yard drive highlighted by Morton's 13-yard pass to Riley Odoms and Otis Armstrong's 19 yards on the ground. Upchurch beat Redskins safety Mark Murphy near the goal line and hauled in the pass for the winning TD.

A subsequent desperation drive by the Redskins was hampered by holding and clipping penalties, and Mark Moseley's 52-yard field goal attempt with 13 seconds left was wide.

"We played as hard as we can," said Redskins Coach Jack Pardee. "We gave it our best shot but it got away from us."

Of the final Washington drive, Pardee said, "We were moving the ball, and we get one penalty after another. The penalties killed us. Morton scrambles around all night and the officials don't call a thing."

Denver Coach Red Miller called it "a whale of a football game. Our offense came to play, and played hard. Craig threw the ball well and Rick played well. Our defense was a little disappointing, but they made some key plays. Fred Steinfort proved his worth again, and we'll call on him confidently any time we're in his range."

Steinfort was successful on both of his field goal attempts — a team-record 57-yarder and a 23-yarder — and now is 12-for-14 for the season.

Otis Armstrong led all rushers with 107 yards on 22 carries and a touchdown, while Washington's Wilbur Jackson had 104 yards on 12 carries, including a 55-yard jaunt which pulled the Redskins into a 10-10 tie early in the second half.

Miller said Robinson, who engineered a Denver touchdown on the opening series of the game but failed to generate much offense in the later stages of the first half, remains his No. 1 quarterback.

"I just had a feel for bringing Craig in," said Miller. "I wanted to give Robinson a little help. Matt is going to be good, but it's going to take a little time for him to develop."

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Va.'s Corrigan Takes Irish Post

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Eugene F. Corrigan, athletic director since 1971 at the University of Virginia, is leaving at the end of the year to take the same position at Notre Dame. "Notre Dame is very fortunate to get him because I don't think there is a better athletic director in the country," University of Virginia President

Frank L. Hereford said Monday night in confirming reports that Corrigan was leaving. The 52-year-old Corrigan came to his office Monday morning and told him, "I'm sorry, but I'm going." Hereford told the student newspaper, The Cavalier Daily.

An unnamed source at the university said "there is no question about it. It's just up to Notre Dame to make some kind of long-term announcement."

Corrigan and Notre Dame officials were not available for comment Monday night, but the university source said Corrigan would leave Virginia late this year and assume his new duties Jan. 1.

The Notre Dame job became available when Edward "Moose" Krause announced last Friday he was resigning, effective Jan. 1, the post he's held the last 31 years.

Corrigan, a Duke University graduate, coached soccer, basketball and lacrosse and was sports information director for nine years at Virginia before leaving to become assistant commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

He left that job to become athletic director at Washington & Lee University, then returned to Virginia nine years ago.

Sources reported Corrigan visited the Notre Dame campus twice before reaching a decision. He attended Notre Dame's football opener Sept. 6 against Purdue, then returned last Monday and Tuesday for another visit.

Notre Dame officials reportedly were impressed with Corrigan's upgrading of the women's athletic program at Virginia to comply with federal guidelines and with his attention to other non-revenue sports.

Also in Corrigan's favor were his Catholic background and his proven ability as a fundraiser.

Tide Holds To First, FSU 7th

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Despite a narrow 17-13 victory over unranked Rutgers, Alabama held onto the top spot in The Associated Press college football ratings today but Southern California, Texas and UCLA all pried some first-place votes away from the Crimson Tide.

Alabama, No. 1 for the fifth week in a row, received 52 of 68 first-place ballots and 1,327 of a possible 1,360 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Southern Cal, a 27-10 winner over Arizona, remained in second place with eight first-place votes and 1,224 points while Texas, which defeated Oklahoma 20-13, retained the No. 3 position and received four first-place votes and 1,201 points.

However, UCLA received the other first-place votes and moved up from fifth to fourth with 1,186 points following a 35-21 triumph over Stanford. The Bruins replaced Pitt, which slipped to 11th after losing to Florida State 30-22.

Last week, Alabama led Southern Cal 60-1 in first-place votes and 1,252-1,127 in total points.

Notre Dame handed Miami (Fla.) its first setback and jumped from seventh to fifth with 1,052 points. The Fighting Irish passed Georgia, which held onto sixth place with a 28-21 decision over Mississippi.

Florida State's trouncing of Pitt boosted the Seminoles from 11th place to seventh with 921 points. North Carolina was eighth for the second week in a row with 856 points after downing Wake Forest 27-9.

Ohio State and Nebraska remained in the 9-10 spots. Ohio State earned 819 points for crushing Northwestern 63-0 while Nebraska had 811 points for thumping Kansas 54-0.

The Second Ten consists of Pitt, Penn State, Baylor, Arkansas, South Carolina, Missouri, Oklahoma, Miami, Iowa State and Stanford. Last week, it was Florida State, Oklahoma, Miami, Penn State, Arkansas, Stanford, South Carolina, Baylor, Missouri and Southern Methodist.

Iowa State, 5-0, cracked the rankings for the first time this season by whipping Kansas State 31-7. The Cyclones replaced SMU, which dropped out after losing to Baylor 32-28.

1. Alabama (52)	5-0	1,327
2. So. California (6)	5-0	1,254

An East Carolina basketball team had earned a national tournament berth.

Crumpler is considered the finest running back ever at East Carolina, still holding school records in eight categories. The Wilson native came to East Carolina in 1970, deciding to play as a Pirate after being highly sought by schools throughout the country.

Honors awarded Crumpler included: honorable mention all-American by Associated Press, 1972, 1973; Southern Conference Athlete of the Year, 1972; Southern Conference Football Player of the Year, 1972; all-Southern Conference, 1972, 1973; Outstanding East Carolina Player award, 1972, 1973; being selected to play in the Blue-Gray Classic, 1973.

School records set by Crumpler that still stand today for a single season are: most rushing yardage, 1,309 yards in 1972; most carries, 340 in 1972; most touchdowns, 17 in 1972, and most points, 102 in 1972.

Career records set by Crumpler that still stand today are: most rushing yardage, 2,889 yards; most carries, 658; most touchdowns, 37; and most points, 222.

In the same era with Crumpler came a player that many consider the finest defensive player ever at East Carolina, Danny Kepley. The Goldsboro native had continued his defensive exploits with the Edmonton Eskimo Football Club in Canada, having starred there since leaving East Carolina in 1974.

Kepley earned the name "Captain Crunch" in leading the "Wild Dogs" defensive unit. His play earned him third team all-American honors by the Associated Press in 1974, marking the first East Carolina player to receive All-American status after the school began NCAA Division I play in 1964. He also earned honorable mention All-America in 1972 and 1973.

Other honors awarded Kepley were: national defensive player of the week by the Associated Press vs. University of Richmond, Nov. 10, 1973; all-Southern Conference three years; Most Valuable Player award, 1974; Outstanding Senior award, 1974; Outstanding Player award, 1974; Outstanding Defensive Player award, 1974; team co-captain, 1974; all-state, 1973, 1974; honorary defensive captain of the all-state team, 1974.

The East Carolina Sports Hall of Fame was initiated in 1974 as an organization to honor those individuals who have, by their direct participation in East Carolina University intercollegiate athletics, brought outstanding recognition to themselves and to the University.

Ten members were inducted in 1974, but no more than four members may now be inducted in any one year. To be eligible for selection, a person must not have been connected with the university in the capacity to which the nominee is being selected for a minimum of five academic years.

Cook Gives Second Thoughts To Pistons After Helping Nets

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Darwin Cook, the rookie free agent who became the New Jersey Nets' early surprise of the season, could have been humming "Hey, Look Me Over" after each of the 14 points he scored against the Detroit Pistons.

Cook was Detroit's fourth-round draft choice and was cut just a week after reporting to the Pistons' rookie camp last summer. Monday night, Cook said he felt vindicated by his intense performance and the Nets' 108-92 victory over Detroit.

The contest at the Rutgers Athletic Center was the only National Basketball Association game played Monday.

"It's a plus for me to show the team that maybe they should have looked at me a little more," Cook said. "I played about eight minutes with Detroit for two games. They had two guards in front of me, and I didn't get a chance to show what I could do."

If the Pistons were overlooking Cook, the Nets surely were not. Al Menendez, Nets director of player personnel, said the Nets had been watching Cook for years and were impressed by his collegiate record at Portland.

When Menendez found that Cook disappeared from Detroit's roster, he sent for him.

"We always liked him," Menendez said. "We had been seeing him for three years. He was on our list, but Detroit drafted him ahead of us."

"I just told Darwin you have to come and play like you did in college. He seemed awed. But I knew Darwin could take the rigors of a Kevin Loughery-run camp," said Menendez, referring to the sometimes hot-tempered Nets' head coach.

At the Nets camp, Cook found himself competing with almost a dozen other guards.

"I was like a mystery player to them," Cook said.

Cook wasn't the leading scorer Monday night — Cliff Robinson was with 26 points — but he appeared satisfied with 14 points and four assists.

"You always want to beat the team that let you go, and I came out to try to get the team moving," he said.

Revenge wasn't the only thing motivating Cook. "When I came to the East Coast not too many people knew me, probably nobody, and when you come in the underdog, you work harder."

One Net who didn't work at all Monday night was Eddie Jordan, last season's starting guard who has been bumped in favor of Clarence "Foots" Walker, acquired from Cleveland in a preseason trade for Roger Phegley.

Zorn Backed By His Coach

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks scored only three points in their last game, a loss to the Cleveland Browns, but Coach Jack Patera praised quarterback Jim Zorn anyway.

Zorn completed 23 of 29 passes for 222 yards but couldn't produce a touchdown in the 27-3 defeat Sunday. He hit 13 consecutive passes, two short of the National Football League record set by Bert Jones of Baltimore six years ago.

"He was excellent," Patera said Monday of Zorn.

Of the Seahawks, he said, "I thought we made some big plays on defense and the offense played with confidence. The problem was, we didn't do anything to turn the game around on defense and the offense didn't put the ball in the end zone."

The Seahawks, 0-3 at home but 3-0 on the road, are on the road against the New York Jets next weekend.

with two freshmen guards." Odom added that he wasn't trying to say that the Pirates have that capability, but "I do believe that youth is not as important a factor in basketball as it is in some other sports, like football."

The Pirate losses include George Maynor, a Chicago Bull draftee; Herb Krusen and Herb Gray, now both playing in the European pro leagues; Frank Hobson, Kyle Powers, and Tony Byles. They accounted to 56.8 points and 22.7 rebounds a game last year.

Szymanski is the lone senior on this year's squad, while Batson is a sophomore. The other three returning players are juniors.

"Although we have only those four upperclassmen, they still must be the heart of our team. I think all four of those players are going to play on a fulltime basis," Odom said.

"I don't know that they'll all start. They might. They might not. They're going to have to show unusual leadership with all of the freshmen on the team. They're going to have to take them aside and show them the ropes, both on and off the court."

"I'm pleased with the composition of the team. I think we have a chance to be a good team. At the beginning, I don't know if it's going to be that productive. We may take out lumps early and come on strong in late January and February."

Last year, the Pirates posted their first winning season in the last six years, but the youth of the team may make it difficult for this to be repeated. However, one basketball tabloid rated Odom's recruiting effort as one of the best in the country.

Valencia Junior College point guard Mike Bledsoe, who originally came out of Cary High School, may be the playmaker the Pirates need. The 6-1 sophomore will share ballhandling duties with freshman Herb Gilchrist, an East-West All-Star performer from Western Harnett High School.

At swing guard, the Pirates have brought in three prize candidates to fill Krusen's shoes. Willie McNair, another East-West participant from Dunn High School, can score and rebound with his 6-5, 197-pound frame.

Frederick Military Academy product Barry Wright is a gifted outside shooter with approximately the same build as McNair. Raleigh Sanderson's 6-3 Mike Fox is another zone buster who can also handle point guard duty.

The sleeper among the recruits may be 6-6 power forward Morris Hargrove out of Pincrest High School. The powerful 215-pounder loves to play around the basket and could solve some of the rebounding problems.

Rounding out the group is center Jeff Best, a 6-9 product of Charles B. Aycock High School in Pikeville.

East Carolina opens the season against Marathon Oil in an exhibition game in Minges Coliseum on November 24 at 7:30 p.m. Their first official game will be at Ohio University on November 29.

when I get into trouble," said Walk, who saw no playoff action. "I'm nervous and excited about starting the World Series, but no more than games I've started before. I don't know how I'll feel tomorrow, though."

The Royals arrived in Philadelphia from New York early Monday morning after taking a day off from travel and then awaiting the outcome of the Phillies-Astros game at Newark Airport. Porter said he had not seen the scouting reports on Philadelphia and didn't know too much about the team.

"I'm not really a baseball fan. I like to play the game, but I don't know much about the National League," Porter said. "I have to rely on the television and scouting reports."

Frey did not want to watch Sunday night's NL finale at the airport, so he played cards. "I played hearts with a bunch of cowboys — Jamie Quirk, Dave Chalk and the two Bretts (Ken and George)," the Royals manager said. "I didn't want to root for either team. I'm too superstitious. I thought it might come back and bite me."

Kansas City went through a full workout at Veteran's Stadium here Monday afternoon. The Phillies, meanwhile, didn't get back into town until about 3 p.m. Monday, came straight to the ballpark and worked out for only about a half hour after Kansas City.

A sparse but boisterous group of fans gathered at the stadium to greet their Phillies, who are participating in their first World Series since losing in four games to New York in 1950.

The Royals, born in 1969, are in their first-ever World Series. "It's going to be a good one," said the Royals' AL batting champion, George Brett. "I can tell you that."

A Review 'Somewhere In Time'- Engrossing & Nagging

Some years back, folk singer Burl Ives had a hit song about "A Little Bit of Tear Ruined It All"—his act as a clown. In the Universal film, "Somewhere In Time," a little 1979 copper Lincoln penny ruins it all—the return from 1980 in time to 1912 for a Chicago playwright, Richard Collier (Christopher Reeve) enamored of a beautiful actress Elise McKenna (Jane Seymour).

When the film opens in 1972, young Collier is receiving backstage accolades for his first play. In the midst of the congratulations an ancient lady approaches him, murmurs "come back to me" and places in his hand a fine gold pocket watch.

Eight years pass, and it is the year 1980. Collier has to his credit other plays, and is working hard to meet the deadline for an expected new play. Something, some call from somewhere, stirs him to restlessness. He abandons the feverish pace of work, flees the city—and fate (or whatever force is at work, we're never quite sure in this film) leads him to a grand old hotel not far from the city (still very much in use) which of course turns out to be where the once-upon-a-star actress performed in a theater on the lake, in the month of June, in the year 1912.

In the hotel's hall of fame, a sepia photograph of the young McKenna mesmerizes the playwright. Several frantic days of research draws Collier deeper and deeper into being spellbound—the clincher comes when he calls on the caretaker (veteran actress Teresa Wright) to question her about the life of the actress. At first reluctant, she opens up when Collier shows her the watch the aged woman (McKenna in her 80s) gave him the night of her death. Comparisons of dates reveal she died after coming home from the performance of Collier's 1972 premiere play. From here the desire on Collier's part to return to 1912 and Elise McKenna grows from first consciousness into an obsession. A university professor, philosopher and author of a book on travel through time assures it's possible to go back somewhere in time—however, its essential conditions be right.

So, Collier carefully makes all the preparations to suit the time, mood, place, including purchasing a suit of that period and removing all traces of the present from his hotel room before attempting self-hypnosis. He even discovers in the hotel's attic a dusty old guest book with his name signed on a page for the June 1912 date.

The sweating, tossing on the bed indulgence in self-hypnosis works—and after an unduly long time of waiting to see the lovely Jane Seymour as the talented actress, we're finally on the scene. On the scene too is Christopher Plummer as William Fawcett Robinson, Elise McKenna's slightly sinister manager, who is vaguely a dabbler in unclear prophecy. On their first encounter, the lovely lady asks the handsome youth "are you the one?" Manager Robinson makes several veiled illusions that Collier "might be the one."

This hinted out mystery, like other ambiguities in this film, are distressingly unresolved.

Nonetheless, true love finds its beginning and begins to blossom as true love should in all romance films, amid delightful June days in the luxurious surroundings of a grand resort hotel of the period. Horse-drawn carriages, huge ladies hats, formal attire for dining, an occasional early auto or two, an unpolluted lake shore, are beautifully photographed. Not even the over watchful manager can stay the course of true love through attempted trickery.

Now, back to that 1979 penny. That single little copper penny turns out to be the instrument of the great downfall. Collier, closeted in Miss McKenna's hotel suite after a night of tender discovery of each other, is boasting about the virtues of his suit (ironically, he had purchased a suit for the time journey that was outdated by ten years). Playfully exhibiting all the things its many pockets can hold, he pulls out a 1979 penny, suffers a seizure—and from what can be determined in one more ambiguous scene, apparently dies on the spot. (Obviously, though not even effectively hinted at, this is the time that the actress takes his watch from his vest pocket as a keepsake.

After the penny episode, it's a return to 1980 to discover the contemporary Collier suffering incurable despair. Modern medical care arrives too late, and the final fade out reveals Collier joining a young McKenna in a misty place somewhere in space.

This could have been a satisfying venture into romance via the space and time route. But, the ambiguities, like Ives' little bit of tear, somehow spoils it all, making it difficult to accept the plot either as romantic fantasy, or as a "different kind of adventure into time past. Reeve valiantly does his sad-smiling best with a wooden script—Miss Seymour and Plummer have slightly better lines to work with.

One nice touch—the unobtrusive music played at the hotel in 1912—old favorites like "You Made Me Love You," "Melancholy Baby," "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," etc. But even these songs raise a nagging question of authenticity—weren't some of them first popular in the years soon following 1912 rather than that year or earlier?

Angie Helps Crack Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles police have been getting help from a "celebrity squad" lately.

First it was Mayor Tom Bradley. Then Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. And last weekend, former TV "Policewoman" Angie Dickinson helped real-life officers crack a vandalism case.

Awakened by the sound of crashing furniture at the home of her Bel Air neighbor Herbert Sterns, Miss Dickinson called police early Saturday, then helped them track down a scantily clad man she saw running from the house.

What's more, said detective Jerry Winkle, "she turned in a top performance as a witness."

Clad only in his shorts, William Tennant, a 39-year-old film director, was booked for investigation of felony vandalism. He was released after posting $1,000 bail.

Sterns said he was awakened by noise and went downstairs to find a man throwing chairs, lamps, small tables, bric-a-brac and kitchen appliances at a bay window in his living room. He estimated the damage at about $5,000.

Last week, the governor helped chase down an allegedly drunk driver who sideswiped a car. About two weeks earlier, Bradley assisted in the arrest of a motorist who sideswiped a bus.

Johnny Cash In 'Hall Of Fame'

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Barbara Mandrell said she was only 13 when she first heard Johnny Cash sing.

Monday night, 18 years after she heard Cash's distinctive deep voice, they capped off their illustrious country music careers.

Miss Mandrell won the prestigious entertainer of the year award at the nationally televised Country Music Association awards show and Cash was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"It's hard to explain how I feel," a joyous Miss Mandrell, 31, said afterwards. "I'm afraid I'm going to 'fall out.'"

The pint-sized Miss Mandrell, who plays five instruments, had a hit this past year with "You Can Eat Crackers in My Bed Any Time."

Cash, who overcame pill addiction in the late 1960s and went on to become a superstar with hits like "A Boy Named Sue," capped his 25-year career by winning enshrinement in the hall of fame.

"This was the big one, mamma," he said after the show. "This was the one I've hoped for, dreamed for and prayed for. It was every country boy's dream."

It was not his only award of the evening. His wife, June Carter, presented him with a shiny, silver Mercedes Benz after the show.

The association's 5,000 singers, musicians and other members chose George Jones for two awards—male vocalist of the year and single of the year for "He Stopped Loving Her Today." Jones, who overcame a drinking problem during the past year, was the only double winner.

"You can never realize how much this means to me," he said from Sparks, Nev., where he was performing. "I have the boost I needed. It put me right on the top." Former folk singer Emmylou Harris was voted female vocalist of the year.

Other winners were: "Coal Miner's Daughter," the soundtrack from the movie about the life of country singer Loretta Lynn, album of the year; "He Stopped Loving Her Today," song of the year for writers Bobby Braddock and Curly Putman; the Statler Brothers, vocal group of the year; the Charlie Daniels Band, instrumental group of the year; Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley, vocal duo of the year, and Roy Clark, instrumentalist of the year.

Two others were elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame. They are Connie B. Gay, who pioneered commercial country radio and helped launch the careers of Clark and Jimmy Dean, and the Original Sons of the Pioneers, best known for their Western-style songs like "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" and "Cool Water."

Among those in the crowd at the Grand Ole Opry House was Amy Carter, the presi-

Allen Ludden Off Critical List

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—Allen Ludden, longtime host of the television game show "Password," has been removed from the critical list but was reported in serious condition after a stroke.

Ludden's doctors were encouraged by his emergence Sunday from a six-day coma, officials of Monterey Community Hospital said.

"He is talking," said Marilyn Johnson, a hospital spokeswoman.

clude several articles in "Facing South" and a sonnet published by the North Carolina Poetry Society. She has won several awards for her newspaper column and her poetry, personal journal, and inspirational writing.

Johnson Is Named Chairman

John W. Johnson of Greenville has been appointed Pitt County chairman of North Carolina State University Alumni Association's 1980-81 loyalty fund campaign.

Johnson, a 1973 graduate of N.C. State's School of Engineering, said at a recent alumni meeting: "There are 490 N.C. State alumni in Pitt County, and we're counting on them to help sustain and expand our first true merit scholarship program."

The alumni association established NCSU's first unrestricted merit scholarship program, the John T. Caldwell Scholars Program, in 1975 and commits a large percentage of its annual loyalty fund revenues to the program. The association's major thrust is to enhance the academic posture of N.C. State through programs designed to attract top scholars and recognize outstanding teaching.

Johnson will work with Dr. Charles E. Russell, the association's coordinator of an eight-county area that includes Pitt. Russell is a 1961 graduate employed by Pitt Community College.

Support of alumni in Pitt County and the surrounding area will be a key in the association's efforts to raise over $400,000 during its current fund year. Statewide fund-raising efforts are under the direction of mayor Smedes York of Raleigh, chairman of the 1980-81 Alumni Loyalty Fund Campaign, and S. Scott Ferebee Jr. of Charlotte, association president.

High Tars Finish Second To Merit!

MERIT low tar/good taste combination scores convincing 3 to 1 victory over high tar leaders.

There's a low tar cigarette that's challenging high tar smoking—and winning.

The cigarette: MERIT.

High Tars Finish Second

Latest research proves smokers prefer MERIT.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

© Philip Morris Inc. 1980
Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine—100's Reg: 10 mg "tar," 0.7 mg nicotine—100's Men: 11 mg "tar," 0.8 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. 79

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.
