

Carter Offering 'Billions' For Hostages

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is offering Iran billions of dollars' worth of incentives for the release of the American hostages, an issue the Iranian parliament reportedly is moving closer to resolving. With the presidential election and the first anniversary of the taking of the 52 Americans both two weeks away today, Carter made this offer Monday while campaigning in Youngstown, Ohio: "If Iran should release the hostages, then I would unfreeze their assets, which are several billions of dollars... I would drop the embargo on trade with Iran and work toward a resumption of normal commerce with Iran in the future." The president said it is to the advantage of the United States "to have a strong Iran. It's to our advantage to have a united Iran."

Even before Carter spoke, the speaker of the 270-seat Iranian parliament, Ayatollah Hashemi Rafsanjani, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that a decision on the conditions for release of the hostages would be made "in the next two or three days." He said the conditions probably would be the same as those listed by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini last month. Those include return of the late shah's wealth, cancellation of U.S. financial claims against Iran, release of Iranian funds in the United States and guarantees of non-interference in Iranian affairs. Only a month ago Rafsanjani insisted that Iran had not dropped an earlier demand — that the United States apologize to Iran. But he made no mention of that demand Monday. Carter last month criticized his Republican opponent, Ronald Reagan, for saying publicly that he would accept Iran's demands that the frozen assets be freed, that financial claims against Iran should be withdrawn and that the United States should pledge not to interfere in Iran's internal affairs. He said at the time that Reagan shouldn't negotiate through the news media.

Reagan, campaigning in Louisville, Ky., made passing reference to the hostage situation Monday, saying only that, "I don't understand why 52 Americans have been held hostage for almost a year now." In an ABC-TV interview today, Carter said the fact that Iran now has an operating government "leads us to believe that we are closer to release than before, but we don't have any immediate prospect, no agreement with the Iranians. We still hope and pray (the hostages) will be safe and home."

Carter's conciliatory remarks Monday were echoed by public statements by Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie. Both expressed concern over Iran's situation in its war with neighboring Iraq. "We are opposed to the dismemberment of Iran," Muskie said in Chicago. "We believe that the cohesion of Iran is in the interest of the stability of the region as a whole. The integrity of Iran is threatened by the Iraqi invasion."

He did note that Iraq has said it has no claims to Iranian territory. Muskie also expressed concern about Soviet intentions in the volatile Persian Gulf region. "In light of Afghanistan, we must also be concerned about the possibility of new intervention presented by any instability in the region," Muskie said, without mentioning the Soviet Union by name. He said the war must be ended through settlement of disputes by peaceful means and with respect for the principles of non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries. "If Iran and Iraq are prepared to respect both of these principles... it should be possible to bring this needlessly prolonged conflict to an early end. It should be possible to do so in a way which does justice to the legitimate concerns of both sides," he said.

In another development Monday, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said the United States will not withhold arms shipments to Jordan, despite Iranian complaints that such shipments represent an obstacle to the release of the hostages. "So long as others do not join actively in the war we intend to go along with our relations to them," Brown said, referring in part to Jordan, which is scheduled to get 100 new M-60 tanks beginning in 1983. Although Jordan has helped deliver supplies to Iraq, it has not taken any overt action in the Iraq-Iran conflict.

Reagan On Defensive As Carter Hails 'Successes'

By The Associated Press
Ronald Reagan stopped harping on President Carter's economic policies to take up a defense against Carter's charges the Republican nominee could get the nation into war. Carter, all the while, was claiming his economic policies were working.

"So I think the severe recession that we anticipated... has not been nearly so severe as we thought. And we are well on the road back to recovery," Carter said Monday on a television program in Youngstown, Ohio. Carter also likened the problems of unemployment and inflation to "temporary inconveniences" and said he saw marked improvements in both areas.

Reagan, in neighboring Kentucky, told a crowd, "You know the president has decided that I'm busy starting a nuclear war, and I just want everybody to know that I absolutely refuse to do that."

It seemed likely that Carter and Reagan might face each other in debate, following a meeting Monday between their representatives. The format was agreed upon — but not announced — while a date and place were still being discussed. One Reagan aide said these were not big obstacles, however. Independent candidate John Anderson, meanwhile, took off after both his Democratic and Republican rivals. Referring to Carter's statement Sunday that he had a "passion for peace," Anderson said he would prefer more "competence" and less "passion."

He also criticized what he called Reagan's recent "ill-timed announcement to the people of Los Angeles, literally gasping after eight days of smog, that the problem of air pollution has been overcome."

All three candidates were on the campaign trail today with the election just two weeks away. Anderson was following a TV interview in New York with stops in New Jersey; Carter was on a two-day trip to Florida, Louisiana and Texas; and Reagan was traveling through Illinois, Missouri and Louisiana.

On Monday, Carter was asked on the Ohio television program why the nation can't solve its unemployment and inflation problems.

"You know, people tend to dwell on the temporary inconveniences and the transient problems that our nation faces," he said as he listed such "great challenges" the nation has faced as war and depression. Among the improvements Carter pronounced in the economy: an average of 4,000 laid off auto workers return to work each week, the new 1981 U.S. cars are "selling like hotcakes," and the index of leading economic indicators is up sharply.

Reagan, both in Louisville and in Ohio, defended himself also against Carter's charges he would dismantle Social Security and against continuing taunts from demonstrators protesting his opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment.

At a campaign rally in Louisville, he shouted back at two-dozen hecklers supporting the ERA and added: "They can continue hollering all they want to, but they can't do as well as this microphone can do."

He told the rally that he, not Carter, was the peace candidate in the 1980 election.

"The matter of fact is, I think his foreign policy, his vacillation, his weakness, his allowing our allies throughout the world to no longer trust us... there is far greater danger of that unwanted, inadvertent war through that kind of a weak policy," he said. "I will restore and maintain the integrity of the Social Security system," he also said.

Anderson, speaking in Schenectady, N.Y., referred to Carter's "passion for peace" statement and added: "We're not voting for the person who can profess the most passion, but for the person who can best put us on the path to world peace. The fact of the matter is, we could use a little less of Carter's passion and a little more competence."

Lot Bought By Schools

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville board of education, which met last night at South Greenville School, approved the purchase of a lot for the construction of a house by vocational education students at Rose High School, adopted a code of acceptable behavior for students in the city school system, and approved the transfer of a school bus to the city's Recreation and Parks Department.

The purchase of the 135-by-130 foot lot in the Cambridge subdivision was approved after Superintendent of Schools Glenn Cox told board members that the present live project home on Lakeview Drive in Lake Glenwood subdivision will be sold at auction at noon on Thursday.

The new live project house site will be purchased from Bowser Construction Co. for $10,000. The Lake Glenwood lot on which the present 2,200 square foot house was built, cost $5,000.

The code of acceptable student behavior was approved as an umbrella policy, under which specific guidelines will be set at each school.

The code notes that the board of education, "believes that student behavior should be based on respect and consideration for the rights of others," and that students,

"have the responsibility to conduct themselves in a manner that reflects good citizenship."

The standards of conduct provide, in part, that students: "are expected to show respect for law and order... and school rules and regulations," are "expected to attend school regularly," are expected to understand that, "school bus transportation is a privilege," are expected to show proper respect for school property and other people's property, and, "are expected to maintain a high standard of courtesy, decency, and honesty at all times."

Board members, upon a recommendation by Cox, declared a 1972 bus surplus and approved the transfer of the vehicle to the city recreation department for use in transporting handicapped persons to and from activities during the summer months.

Cox noted that the bus has been replaced by two smaller buses which will be used to transport handicapped children to and from school functions.

In other business last night, the board approved two resignations and adopted an addendum to the substitute teacher list, which included 30 substitutes.

Cox reminded board members of the October 28 merger study committee (Please turn to Page 2)

Third Contract

WATERSHED PROJECT AGREEMENT SIGNED FOR PITT COUNTY — A project agreement for the third contract on the Swift Creek Watershed Project has been signed by local sponsors and the Soil and Conservation Service, Congressman Walter B. Jones and County Commissioner Alton Gardner, chairman of Pitt County Drainage District No. 3, announced yesterday in a ceremony at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington. The work will include modification and restoration of original channels of Swift Creek laterals, Fork Swamp laterals and Back Swamp main stream and laterals to their original capacity. The agreement involves a total cost of $1,907,475, with local sponsors providing $522,226 and the USDA-Soil Conservation Service providing $1,385,249. According to SCS spokesmen, the last phase of work on this project is expected to begin in the next few months. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

Iraq Says Troops At Abadan Gates

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said its tanks hammered the main gates of the Iranian oil refining city of Abadan today and that Iraqi soldiers killed 38 Iranians in house-to-house fighting in the neighboring port of Khorramshahr.

Iran said its hard-pressed garrison in Abadan repulsed repeated enemy attacks at the city's main entrance at the Bahmanshir River bridge and claimed Iranian troops recaptured two districts at the northern edge of the town, killing 150 Iraqi troops.

According to an official communique issued by the Iranian news agency Pars, residential areas of Abadan along the Shatt al-Arab estuary, "came under intense Iraqi mortar fire" late Monday and early today. Iran said its troops were "still continuing their epic resistance," but admitted the defenders needed reinforcements.

Baghdad Radio said the commander of Iraq's forces at the southern end of the 300-mile invasion front told the Iraqi News Agency his forces were "tightening their control over the approaches to Abadan, while our artillery and air force continue to pound enemy positions and destroy armor and vehicles. The state of the enemy in Abadan is extremely bad, and our forces are tightening the noose."

The sector commander also reported his troops in Khorramshahr, 10 miles northwest of Abadan, "continued operations to purge al-Muhammarah (the Iraqi name for the city) and to completely eradicate pockets of resistance," the broadcast said.

There was no way to check the validity of the conflicting claims since Western reporters were barred from the battlefronts. It appeared the Iraqis were maintaining their pressure on Abadan and Khorramshahr but the Iranians still were able to keep the invading forces out of Abadan itself.

On the diplomatic front, Iran said it rejected a tentative U.S. offer to exchange spare military parts for a negotiated settlement on the 52 American hostages.

Tehran Radio reported Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai met with revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and stressed that "negotiations will not be considered even though they (the United States) might for example offer to provide us with spare parts." The broadcast quoted Rajai as saying Iraqis were willing "to risk whatever they have to defend their honor and revolution."

On Monday, President Carter said if the 52 hostages held by Iran since Nov. 4 are released, "I would unfreeze their (Iranian) assets, which are several billions of dollars... I would drop the embargo on trade with Iran and work toward a resumption of normal commerce with Iran in the future."

The president, campaigning in Ohio, said it is to the United States' advantage "to have a strong Iran. It's to our advantage to have a united Iran."

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, in a speech in Chicago, also appeared conciliatory, saying, "We are opposed to the dismemberment of Iran. We believe that the cohesion of Iran is in the interest of the stability of the region as a whole. The integrity of Iran is threatened by the Iraqi invasion."

The speaker of Iran's Parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said Monday that the legislature would decide in the "next two or three days" on conditions for release of the hostages.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834. Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

GAS HEATER NEEDED
Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church has asked Hotline for the donation or sale at a reasonable price of a vented gas heater they would like to provide a family who will need it to heat two rooms of their dwelling this winter. Anyone who can help is asked to call Charles Dudley at 756-3852.

SPINAL BIFIDA CHAPTER
Mrs. James (Kathy) Nelson of 100 Amy Circle, Greenville, has asked Hotline to appeal to others interested in establishing a chapter of the Spinal Bifida Association for Eastern North Carolina.

"My family recently moved from Jacksonville and we have found Greenville to be a delightful city and the community warm and caring," she writes. Spinal bifida (accent on the bif syllable), she explains, is a birth defect which affects more than 11,000 babies each year and involves damage to the spine and nervous system and requires surgery at birth. Generally children having this condition have paralysis problems in the lower extremities and bladder and bowel problems. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson's three-year-old son, Milton, is a spinal bifida child. They wish to make contact with other parents of spinal bifida children in the Greenville area and throughout the eastern part of the state. The nearest chapter of the organization now is in Winston-Salem, too far to go to attend meetings regularly, of course. The group will meet this coming Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. at Bill Fay Park in Kinston. Interested persons are urged to attend. For more information, call Kathy Nelson, 752-6833.

higher than they would be if markets were more competitive," the study said. The study by the consulting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. is due to be delivered to the Department of Housing and Urban Development within a week. A draft of the 25-page executive summary was obtained by The Associated Press. The study is expected to play a major role in the department's recommendations to Congress for tightening a law designed to protect consumers when they buy homes. The recommendations are due early next year.

The Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974 was aimed at giving consumers more information so that they can shop for the services required in buying homes. Drafters of the law felt the added information would stimulate competition and hold down prices. The consulting company studied records on 18,000 home sales and conducted interviews with a sample of home buyers, home sellers and providers of settlement services in Boston, Denver, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Seattle, Washington, Jacksonville, Fla., and San Antonio, Texas.

The study found that settlement charges, not including fees to real estate agents, averaged $2,030, or 3.7 percent of the average sales price of $54,864. When agents' fees were listed in the records, they were 5.8 percent of the sales price, or considerably more than all other settlement costs combined. The study also concluded, as have others, that real estate agents in a given area almost always charge the same percentage of the sales price, such as 6 percent of the price. This finding, when considered along with the long history of broker organizations seeking to maintain a single commission rate, strongly suggests that prevailing commission rates are not determined in a competitive market setting," it said. Those who sell title insurance, provide mortgage insurance and prepare legal documents usually are not chosen by the home buyers who pay their fees, the study said. Instead, they often obtain their business through referrals from real estate brokers, lenders and real estate lawyers. Their fees probably would be lower if they competed for customers' business, instead of relying on referrals, the study said. The study said the 1974 law could be improved by: —Having real estate agents distribute the HUD booklet for home buyers. It now is distributed by lenders, but the study found that by the time a consumer is shopping for a loan he already has made many choices, such as on an agent and on which house he wants to buy. —Including in the booklet information on regional real estate practices, which vary widely.

Fourth Abscam Trial Due Soon

NEW YORK (AP) — The fourth trial stemming from the FBI's Abscam investigation of political corruption was expected to begin soon in the case of a former Immigration and Naturalization Service investigator and a Nassau County Republican Party fundraiser.

A jury of six men and six women was chosen Monday for the trial of Alexander A. Alexandro Jr., 30, an INS official from Commack, N.Y., and Alfred Carpentier, 54, an East Meadow, N.Y., businessman, before Judge Mark A. Costantino in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn.

The start of the trial had been delayed by Carpentier's claim last Wednesday that he had suffered a heart attack.

Carpentier and Alexandro have been accused of conspiracy to commit bribery, receiving a bribe and conflict of interest.

Indict Former JC President

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — A grand jury Monday indicted former state Jaycee President Maurice H. Wilson on eight counts of embezzlement and one count of misapplying Jaycee funds.

Wilson, now an unemployed computer programmer living in Charlotte, was expected to surrender today for a bond hearing on the charges alleging he embezzled $38,961 and misapplied $39,813 in corporate Jaycee funds.

According to the indictments, the funds were diverted from four state Jaycee accounts at Planters National Bank in Asheboro, site of the service organization's state headquarters, during a two-year period ending in April.

The indictments stem from a State Bureau of Investigation study started earlier this year after several Jaycee members reported that money had been diverted from a Jaycee charity fund to pay for membership dues for phony members and bogus chapters. Wilson resigned as board chairman for the Jaycees after the investigation began.

Capital Stock Conversion Is Approved

In a special meeting recently, the members of East Federal Savings and Loan voted to convert to a capital stock association.

With total eligible votes of 1,263,085, a majority of 751,656 or 59.5 percent voted in favor of the conversion with 1.7 percent opposed, East Federal reported.

W. W. Whittington, president, said the purpose of the conversion is to attain more working capital for growth through the sale of stock. He said it will also provide an avenue for individuals to share in that growth.

The official pointed out that it is anticipated that stock will be available for purchase in early 1981. East Federal savings account holders will be given first opportunity to purchase stock and any unsold shares will be offered to the general public through an underwriting by Interstate Securities.

Customers of the association will have no change in their accounts and savings deposits will continue to be insured by FSLIC, Whittington reported.

East Federal has offices in 12 eastern North Carolina cities.

Much of the diverted money came from the sale of grape jelly and had been intended for charitable purposes, such as support of the North Carolina Burn Center at Chapel Hill. Jaycee leaders have pledged to restore the money to the charitable fund.

District Attorney Russell Walker said Monday other indictments may come out of the investigation. Walker's assistant, Tom Kastner, said the first indictments were based on "just what flagrantly jump out of the investigation as embezzlement."

Walker said the investigation, which is continuing, had expanded from the jelly account to cover the "range of Jaycee finances."

Wilson was accused of converting to his own use funds from several Jaycee bank accounts, including a "burn center account," "a muscular dystrophy account," and a Jaycees "Atlantic City account," according to Kastner.

One of the indictments charges that on Oct. 25, 1979, Wilson "did feloniously abstract and wilfully misapply" $39,813.70 in Jaycee funds by purchasing a certificate of deposit for that amount from Planters National Bank and making the certificate of deposit in his name and payable to him.

The certificate had an interest rate of 12.651 percent and matured April 24, 1980, according to the indictment.

Another indictment, alleging embezzlement, charged that on April 24, 1980, Wilson converted $12,325 in Jaycee money to his own use.

Reagan Not Endorsed By SCLC

The Pitt County Southern Christian Leadership Conference held a news conference at its 619 Albemarle Avenue office here this morning to make it clear that neither the national nor the local SCLC go along with Dr. Ralph D. Abernathy's endorsement of Ronald Reagan for president.

"Dr. Abernathy is no longer president of the SCLC," SCLC Women President Brenda Little said. "His presidency ended in 1977. The present presidential office is held by Dr. Joseph E. Lowery out of Atlanta."

"Dr. Abernathy's endorsement is a personal one," she added.

President Bennie Rountree said, "The Pitt County Southern Christian Leadership Conference has never endorsed a specific candidate for president. But under the serious conditions the nation is in, the SCLC is on the verge of breaking this policy by endorsing President Jimmy Carter. The SCLC feels that, with Ronald Reagan as president, the nation will not survive."

Alleged Drug Smuggler Has Big Income Tax Bill

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — If Stephen Louis Ruth could afford to buy a $75,000 airplane and the two tons of marijuana he is charged with smuggling, the Internal Revenue Service figures he made enough money last year to warrant a $146,901 tax bill.

In a legal wrangle that began while Ruth was a fugitive, his lawyer argued the IRS erred in counting the airplane as a business expense. Since the plane was confiscated by drug agents, it should be considered a deductible loss, the lawyer argued.

Ruth, 31, a Sarasota County restaurant owner, is jailed in lieu of $1.5 million bond in Charlotte County on drug smuggling and racketeering charges.

Since Ruth didn't file a 1979 income tax return, the IRS figured his taxes for him.

"The usual methods... could obviously not be used in this case since Ruth made every effort to conceal his activities and income," the agency said.

So IRS agents applied the "termination assessment" method, which bases taxes on spending rather than earnings.

According to IRS documents, the expenditures attributed to Ruth included:

—Marijuana valued by state authorities at $50 a pound or $200,000;

—A $75,000 DC-4 purchased in Arizona under another name;

—$6,000 allegedly paid to a

South Carolina sheriff's deputy to allow the pot-laden plane to land undetected;

—Assorted weapons valued at $4,300;

The first time around, the IRS estimated Ruth's 1979 expenditures at $412,447, and slapped him with a tax bill for $269,755.

Even though Ruth was on the run, he filed a complaint contesting the method and amount of his assessment.

Ruth has yet to be tried, but the IRS alleges he "was responsible for smuggling into the U.S. large quantities of marijuana from Colombia."

Authorities say Ruth escaped when the DC-4 and its cargo were seized near Bennettsville, S.C., on Dec. 18, 1979. He remained a fugitive until earlier this month when he was arrested in Las Vegas.

Based on a sworn statement from an alleged co-conspirator who said he and two others chipped in to buy the marijuana, the IRS offered to reduce Ruth's share of the pot purchase by $77,000. That cut the tax bill to $146,901.

Ruth's attorney, Jerome Richman, tried but failed to shave another $100,000 off the marijuana tab. He also was unsuccessful in convincing the IRS it should credit Ruth for cash "on hand" at the start of the year.

After hearing the case in Tampa, Federal Magistrate Paul Game Jr. issued a report saying Ruth "failed to prove that the IRS acted unreasonably in attributing the purchase of 4,000 pounds of marijuana" to him.

The report is to be reviewed by U.S. District Court Judge George C. Carr.

Richman says the case will probably wind up in U.S. Tax Court.

Richard Goodman having weight loss checked.

Dear P.D.C. staff,

I have finally come off a diet that works after 18 years. I will attempt to go over my life history of diets.

To begin with, every diet except P.D.C. I ended up weighing more afterwards than what I did when I started.

1961 - Diet No. 1. I took 12 to 14 pills a day under a doctor's care. Started at 265 lbs., went down to 173. I became to thin and got an ulcer. I gained weight until I reached 218 lbs.

1961-1969 took diet pills under a doctor. My weight went up and down like a yo-yo. Nerves went up to 1969-1973 again took pills under a doctor. I was nervous, but my weight did go from 222 to 195. I stayed around 190 lbs. for a few months.

1977. I hit a peak of 272 lbs. Blood pressure up, sugar count up. In hospital twice for plebitis.

1979 - January 2nd I started on Professional Diet Control. Your doctor examined me and told the nurses what to watch for. My doctor approved.

With much understanding and patience from both your nurse and office manager, your diet can work for anyone.

Between the daily counseling and weighing in, I really enjoyed losing weight. With the exception of the first week, there was no hunger pangs or lack of energy during the whole period. Cheating was done on my part, but your clinic put me back on the right track. From Jan. 2nd to the present, I have had a weight loss of 76 lbs and I am keeping the weight off, plus the meals allowed presently are terrific. Following the diet you provide is very reasonable and it really works.

My doctor will give me a clean bill of health, especially to insurance companies. Even a person that travels a lot can easily stay on this diet.

January 2nd 1979 - suit size 56, waist 48, shirt size large 17-17 1/2, weight 266 1/2.

May 15th 1979 - suit size 44, waist 38-36, shirt 16 large, weight 190.

My health today normal blood pressure, no sugar problem, temper has come down and my energy is up. Thank You P.D.C.

Richard J. Goodman

Blue Ribbon Won By Garden Club

A report on the annual meeting of District XII of the Garden Club of North Carolina was given at the meeting of the Greenville Garden Club by Mrs. Marshal Helms.

The local club received a blue ribbon for its yearbook. Mrs. Helms, Mrs. J. C. Galloway and Mrs. R. V. Keel received pins for enlisting a new member last year.

Mrs. R. A. Davis conducted the meeting and welcomed Ann Phillips, a former member, as a guest.

Mrs. H. C. Klingenschmitt gave the garden therapy report and members volunteered to help with the October workshop with Mrs. Nancy Walters classes at Aycock Junior High School.

The horticultural exhibit, columna chanticaera (gold fish plant), was explained by Miss Maude Moore, who said it would grow as a window sill plant or in a hanging basket. Mrs. Keel exhibited a preserved flower arrangement of luffa, hydrangea and carved wooden roses.

A program on "Preserving Flowers," was given by Mrs. Uran Cox. She told of three methods, sand drying, silica gel and hanging and said things to strive for are shape, color and form.

Mrs. Ernest Holt suggested letters be written in support of saving the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Forrest with Mrs. Thelma Harris, Mrs. Holt and Miss Moore as assisting hostesses.

Dear Abby

'Collecting' Without Asking Is Stealing

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: If a person slips an ashtray into his pocket while dining at a restaurant, would this be considered stealing? I started taking ashtrays from famous places as souvenirs and have a fine collection from all over the world.

I understand that most restaurateurs do not object; they expect it and consider it good advertising. Please comment.

COLLECTOR

DEAR COLECTOR: "Collecting" anything without permission is stealing. The kind of advertising you suggest costs the restaurateurs of the world millions! If you want a souvenir, offer to buy it, and it will probably be given to you.

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter from a woman who chastised you for failing to acknowledge female ministers. She stated that this is a result of discrimination and deep-rooted prejudices.

May I submit to you and your readers that, for many like myself, being opposed to the ordination of women into positions of leadership in the church, such as the eldership, the deaconship and the ministry, is neither a matter of discrimination nor prejudice, and certainly not mere preference. It is a matter of scripture-based conviction.

If Christ is to be the head of the church, then we must allow him to be the head, and to rule the church as Lord through his Word.

1 Timothy 2:12 states, "But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence."

1 Corinthians 14:34-35 says, "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church."

God's Word is truth and is eternal; therefore it cannot be outdated. (Matthew 24:35.)

I rest my case.

Homes Tour Is Planned

KINSTON — The Lenoir County Historical Association is sponsoring the Lenoir County Homes and Foliage Tour Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 25-26.

The tour will benefit the Harmony Hall Restoration. It is the only 18th century home remaining in Kinston and was the home of Richard Caswell, the first governor of North Carolina.

Other places on the tour are the Simon Jackson House, the Wilbur Tyndall farm house, the Croom Meeting House, the James Albert Williams Restored School and Kitchen and Southwood Church, the Henry Blizard home, James E. Watson home and the Reginald Stroud Home.

Tour hours Saturday are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 2-5 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any site on the tour and maps are printed in the brochure. Tickets and information are available at the CSS Nuse State Historic Site, Highway 70 Business.

Marlon Brando's role in the movie "On the Waterfront" was originally intended for Frank Sinatra.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It has been 20 years since children first entered my life, and in all that time, not once have our bodies been on the same time cycle.

When I was on wash, iron, shop, cook and run, they were on perma-sleep and off. When I was on sleep and exhaustion, they were on spin-around-the-crib, damp, dry and fill.

I have never understood that.

How can you live with someone all those years and never adapt to their days and nights? When I was awake, the baby was asleep. When I went to bed, the baby woke up. My husband never understood it either. He'd ask, "What's the matter with that kid?" and I'd explain, "Birth lag."

The other night, the phone rang at 10 o'clock. My husband and I had been asleep in our chairs since 7:30. (We always like a nap so we won't go to bed exhausted.) The call was for one of the children inquiring what the plans were for the evening. My blood sugar dropped just thinking about it. The only thing that could possibly have gotten me out of that chair would have been a fire or possibly a cab offering me a ride to the bedroom.

At that moment I looked at my husband and our eyes met in one of those rare moments of understanding.

"He is going out at this time of night? That's ridiculous! What can kids possibly do at this hour?"

"If you can't remember, you won't understand it when I tell you," I said.

"We never started out that late even when we were dating! Did we?"

"Are you kidding? I was 23 before I ever saw my mother dressed. She was in night clothes when I went to school and by the time I got home, she was in her bathrobe again."

"That's ridiculous. Why do we bother furnishing them with a bed? We could just get out of ours and they could crawl in."

"You want them to store their wet towels on the floor?"

"I'm serious. You can't tell me restaurants aren't open at four or six."

"Do you remember the last time you took me to dinner at six? They were still serving lunch. You know the trouble with us? We can't figure out how they stay awake."

Our son came through, showered, fresh, smelling wonderful, full of zip. "Don't get up," he motioned. "Catch you later. Bye, Mom, Dad." My husband signed, "How do YOU spell relief?" We recited in unison, "B-Y-E M-O-M and D-A-D!"

Easy To Clean

NEW YORK (UPI) — Broiler pans and grids are easier to clean if you get 'em while they're hot. A soap and detergent manufacturers' trade association suggests starting as soon as you've poured off the drippings. Fill the pan with hot water, put the grid in place, sprinkle it generously with detergent and cover the whole mess with wet paper towels. The heat will help loosen grease and burned-on particles, the association says, and stubborn stains can be removed later with a steel wool soap pad.

Easterners Are Needed

There was a time when North Carolina elections — certainly in the eastern part of the state — were over when the Democratic primary results were in.

Our state registration is still heavily Democratic, but no longer does the campaigning end after the primary. It is now a race right up to the general election in November and we can be certain that, if Democratic candidates ever took the eastern section for granted, they don't now.

Gov. Hunt was in the county for two appearances last Wednesday morning, one Wednesday evening and another Thursday night. Sen. Morgan was also here for several appearances. So were several members of the Council of State, some of them who have no opposition.

We think the Democratic leaders received an enthusiastic reception in this area, one we are certain is gratifying to them.

For us, it surely is nice to know that we are needed.

A Swap For Prisoners?

No one can be certain just how solid the rumors are of talks between the United States and Iran for a swap of spare military parts for the U.S. hostages.

The rumors have been rampant as Iran rapidly sees its military equipment becoming disabled due to lack of parts. No amount of aid from North Korea or Libya can restore this sophisticated equipment to efficiency as U. S. parts can do.

Such negotiations are tricky in that the exchange would put the U.S. on Iran's side in its conflict with Iraq. Still, given Iraq's ties to the Soviet Union, that position might not be so illogical at this time.

Govm't Sets Pace

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Government, more and more of late, sets the pace in the workplace.

Once hard pressed to get and keep employees, elected government officials yielded to the pleas of professional administrators to continually improve working conditions.

Since then, government employees have learned some political tricks of their own, and through intensive lobbying and strong organization are winning benefits which press the private sector to keep pace.

Studies have shown that governmental pay scales, particularly in middle and upper management jobs, are at or above prevailing wages in private industry. Retirement benefits, especially for federal employees, have moved far ahead of those available to most private citizens. Vacation, holiday, travel pay, and a variety of fringes generally outstrip those offered in private employment.

And now comes an array of new ideas pushed by organized government employees which those in the know predict will, as implemented, spread over into the private sector in years to come.

Dental Care

Organized state employees are pushing for a dental insurance plan which would cost somewhere between $12 million and $21 million per year. Candidates for top political office have agreed to back this fringe benefit.

Employee surveys have already been conducted and personnel specialists are at work devising various approaches to implementing more flexible work schedules so that individuals can better suit their work arrangements to their personal requirements. This will be especially useful for working mothers with small children so that they can handle the chores at home while still producing essential family income. For the man it can mean more — or at least better arranged — time for helping out at home, holding a second job, or enjoying leisure pursuits.

Flextime is already widespread in state government, and being implemented in some urban local governments. This innovation lets the employee choose whether to come in early or late, leaving the job at a correspondingly early or late hour so long as the proper number of hours are worked and the office is sufficiently staffed. Administrators say this allows them to also keep public offices open longer hours, thereby serving the public better.

The four-day work week is history in the Department of Transportation during summer months and the record shows getting men and equipment on the job for longer periods saves both money and time.

Split jobholding is an idea not yet tested, but gaining in notice and apt to be allowed, at least on a pilot basis, soon. This approach allows two individuals to hold one job. Family income can be supplemented without the commitment of a fulltime job, and the worker can enjoy either a half-day job or one which requires two or three days weekly rather than fulltime.

Health Plan

Some of the most far-reaching effects will be felt in the next few years from innovation in health care programs for government employees. Study commissions have been at work for several years devising a prepaid health plan for testing in at least two areas of the state: the Raleigh-Chapel Hill region with its concentration of university and state employees, and Charlotte.

If successful, the system would spread statewide. Simply described, a prepaid health program takes the money usually paid for health insurance and uses that to either operate a clinic or hospital staffed with professionals, or contract for services of health care professionals. Members of the plan get fulltime, full-service health care.

Other Editors Say Widespread Risk

(Forest City Daily Courier)

There was a great furor raised here about six months ago when a Lenoir businessman let drop the news that he was toying with the idea of setting up a storage site for low-level nuclear waste in Rutherford County.

The uproar gave the gentleman pause to reflect, and led the county commissioners to hustle through a hazardous waste dumping ordinance which would theoretically protect us from such problems in the future.

It would be nice to think that alleviated the problem here, but even if it does, the issue is still at large across North Carolina.

There has been much in the news on the subject in recent weeks. The chairman of a task force appointed by the governor said late last week the state must recognize the fact that the hazardous waste dilemma is a state problem and warrants state care. North Carolina is one of the states' major generators of low-level radioactive waste (the stuff the Lenoir man proposed to dump here) and is fast running out of sites to get rid of it. Dr. Bernard Greenberg said.

This week it was reported a state study showed North Carolina groundwater is in grave danger of contamination from chemicals seeping out of liquid industrial waste pits, ponds and lagoons. The threat to the underground drinking water reservoir seems to be even more serious than a critical congressional report claimed.

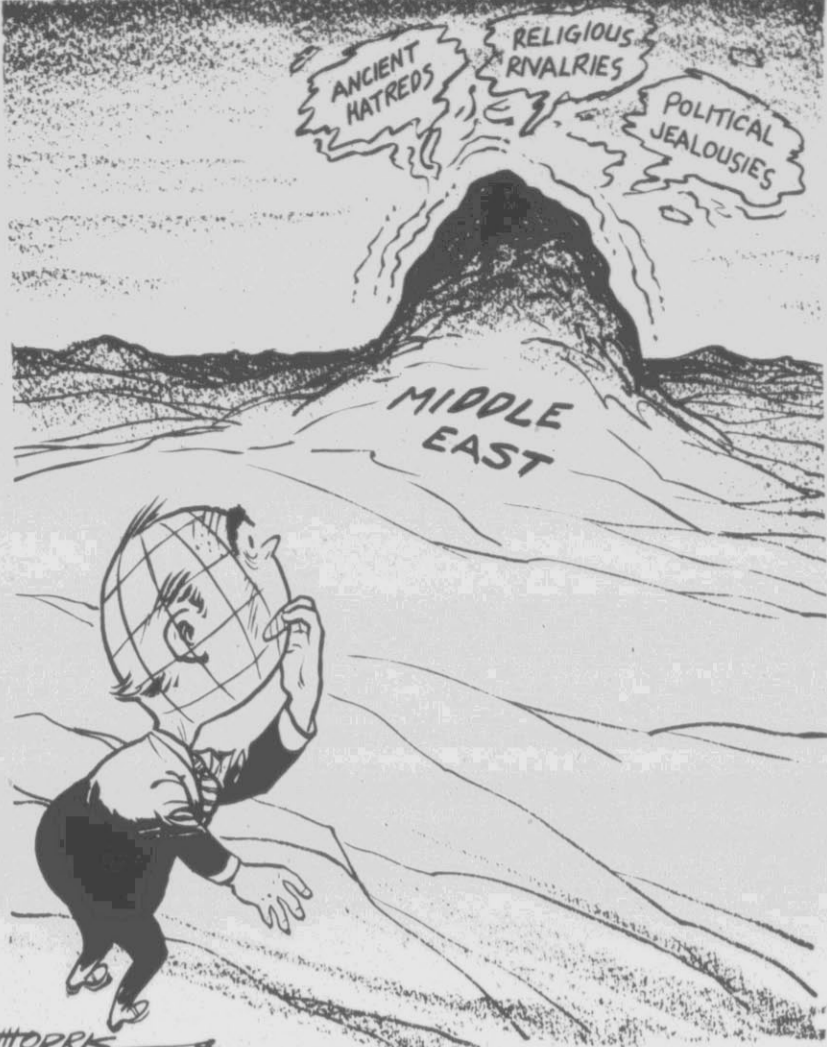

The state rated 197 of 683 impoundment sites (29%) as "severe" threats and another 431 sites (63%) as "moderate" threats.

The newly rated threats, added to the known threat of contamination from 470 existing or closed sanitary landfills and 164 hazardous waste dump sites, only compound hydrologists' worries about N.C. groundwater, the AP reported.

Sixty percent of the state's people rely on groundwater from public or private wells, and the figure rises to 99% in rural areas.

All this doesn't have the sensational impact of a Love Canal case, but the danger is clear and present, and widespread. The outburst of ire displayed here earlier this year over the waste issue needs to be repeated across the state. Hazardous waste and its implications for our future will be, or certainly should be, a topic of primary concern when the legislature meets next year.

Presidents & Judges

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan promised the other day that given a chance, he would name a woman among his first nominations to the U.S. Supreme Court. The pledge earned him no Brownie points with Eleanor Smeal, the starchy head of the National Organization for Women; she sniffed that Mr. Reagan is "anti-woman" anyhow. But the statement served to revive discussion of presidents and federal judges.

We ought to think realistically about these matters. Once upon a time the federal judiciary was perceived, in Hamilton's phrase, as "beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power." That innocent conception vanished long ago. In recent years our society has become ever more addicted to litigation, and in this same period the Congress has created even more issues to litigate about. Federal judges have assumed powers — and they have exercised those powers — in ways that Hamilton could never have foreseen.

Yet it is a curious thing, as Sen. Orrin Hatch remarks in The American Spectator, that so little attention ordinarily is paid to judicial nomination. Federal judges serve "during good behavior," which is to say that federal judges serve for life. In the whole history of the judiciary, only nine judges have been impeached and only four have been convicted. Virtually all of the judges nominated by President Carter in recent months will be sitting into the next century.

Who are these powerful individuals? We know far less about them than we know about the typical senator who serves for six years or the representative who serves for two. Nominations to the federal bench go to the Senate Judiciary Committee for confirmation hearings.

"There is usually no press and no audience," Senator Hatch remarks, "just a few bored staff members and one or two senators. A court stenographer records the desultory exchanges. Sometimes six or seven nominees are processed by the committee within an hour. Barring unforeseen developments, these nominations are approved by the committee without debate, by a voice vote, and reported to the full Senate where they are approved finally under similar circumstances."

The judges thus casually entrenched for life are the products of an essentially political process. It is an exercise in naivete to pretend otherwise. From the time George Washington set up the first Supreme Court to the present day, political considerations always have played a part — and this is especially true of nominations to the district courts and the circuit courts.

The political considerations come in two varieties: plain politics, and ideological politics. Judges are nominated to reward the faithful, to curry favor with influential senators, and to win the support of such voting blocs as blacks, Spanish-Americans, Jews and Catholics. But judges also are appointed to further the political philosophy of the ap-

Assault Not Yet Shelved

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Sublimely unaware of the rich vein to be mined on the defense issue, Ronald Reagan's political high command overruled his national security advisers last week and again vetoed an attack on this Achilles' heel of President Carter's four-year record as commander-in-chief.

"Put it down to overcaution because of the warmonger nonsense," one disappointed Reagan defense consultant told us. "The politicians around the governor are afraid it will only fuel the charge that he wants an arms race." A better explanation: campaign anemia.

The insiders' struggle over putting the defense issue on the firing line against Carter is by no means over. As polling evidence piles up showing that Carter's warmonger campaign is hitting home (despite disgust among some voters), Reagan has this choice: pretend it isn't happening or counterattack.

Having failed last week to bring Reagan out of the trenches for counterattack, his defense advisers are now putting final touches on a devastating critique of Carter's management of the nation's defenses while the Soviet Union rolls up one country after another in Africa, Asia and the Middle East. The heart of this critique is that Carter has deceived the American people about the true balance of military power — that, in the phrase of one Reagan defense consultant, he has engaged in "perfidy on the defense commitment."

An April 8 memorandum to Secretary of Defense Harold Brown from Assistant Secretary John R. Quetsch, the Pentagon comptroller, lays the foundation for Reagan's line of attack. Reporting to Brown that the White House wants to "show a 3.1 percent real growth" in defense spending for 1981, Quetsch said that "to accomplish this requires a further lowering of 1980 outlays of $83 million." Translated, that puts Carter on record as ordering a reduction in 1980 defense spending already voted by Congress so as to make 1981 spending appear that much greater. Quetsch continued: "Alternatively, we would have to claim inflation of only 8.91 percent rather than 9.05 percent in order to arrive at the 3.1 percent real growth."

Quetsch's transmittal of this extraordinary message to Brown followed by four days a confidential memorandum to Carter from Budget Director James T. McIntyre Jr. Since inflation was higher than expected, McIntyre reported, the new costs of weapons "will be absorbed" by the Pentagon, reducing Carter's public pledge from a 5 percent real growth to 4 percent real growth for the next five years.

Armed with these and similar internal administration revelations, Reagan's defense advisers see them as bedrock for a multi-pronged attack on the candidate who campaigned in 1976 on a pledge to cut defense spending by $5 to $7 billion.

The political message that these advisers want to send voters is that war cannot be prevented by weakness, but only by strength. "It is simply not acceptable that a president who has allowed our military strength to be weakened compared to our adversary can call Reagan a warmonger for trying to correct the balance," a senior aide told us.

Reagan's own imprecision has played into Carter's hands, but his defense team believes his inept and careless handling of the SALT II treaty is salvageable. Instead of treating SALT II as a worthless scrap of paper, Reagan is being pressed to make clear that his intent is to keep negotiating a better agreement, using the stick of expanding U.S. military strength to induce Soviet cooperation. This would parallel U.S. bargaining leading up to SALT I, when the threat of a superior anti-ballistic missile system (ABM) was used to induce

Confidence Factor Impresses

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Mind your F's and P's, young men and women of America — and political candidates, too — and you'll get ahead. But always remember that high F often impresses more than an abundance of P.

In this report, F is the code letter for confidence, and P stands for competence. Better to use the code, says the source of the report, than to risk any inadvertent mix-up in spelling or pronunciation.

In most situations wherein a person is chosen for a responsible job, says the source, Eugene A. Jennings, a psychologist and a professor at Michigan State University, F is likely to beat P. It's the law of F.

The law of F can be stated variously, but the simplest seems to be an expression used recently by Jennings: "In the shootout, F wins." Not always, he says, but enough to make the opposite the exception.

More precisely, he says, the law of F states that "the combination of high F and low or medium P is more often the winner than high P but poor F."

The law of P is simpler: "If you don't have high F then all the P in the world won't be sufficient."

Jennings, author of the book "Anatomy of Leadership" and adviser to corporate and occasionally political leaders, is irritated because, he says, Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan and John Anderson fail to understand.

"Because of the way the human mind works," he says, "if you exude F it is presumed you have P." Anderson, he says, has projected F better than the other two, but now he wonders if Anderson's F isn't falling.

Carter's problem, he says, is that he has failed to establish his P, a finding he says is documented by widespread criticism of the president's record.

Reagan has not established his P either, according to Jennings, and that means both he and Carter must "inordinately stress" their F in the final weeks of the campaign. Now comes the catch.

"Confidence cannot be faked," says Jennings. He believes cockiness, for example, will be seen as false confidence, especially this year. Undecided voters, he says, lack F; they can spot the lack in others.

It gets a little more complicated: Voters' lack of F probably can be traced to their lack of confidence in the choices before them. According to Jennings, when Carter in July 1979 suggested that people had lost their confidence, they perceived Carter as having lost his.

As he sees it, the public's lack of F resulted not from having little faith in themselves but from having little faith in leadership.

It is almost axiomatic, he says, that "if my leaders don't show high F in themselves, then I cannot show high F in them." High F, he says, means "I know what needs to be done. I can do it. I will do it."

Having sat on corporate selection committees, and having advised holders of top jobs and aspirants to the same, Jennings says he has seen the phenomenon at work time after time, year after year.

It is an intuitive reaction, he says, and can be documented through man's history. Jennings did just that in "Anatomy of Leadership," a study of political and business leadership since ancient times.

He has seen that people forgive a lack of competence — that is, a lack of skill in a job, as differentiated from incompetence, which suggests a lack of ability — but almost never forgive a lack of self-confidence.

"Almost every time we choose a new president we elect a person who lacks competence," believing, he says, "if he doesn't have P but does have lots of F he will learn on the job and become competent."

This year, he concludes, it seems we will be watching for and voting on the F factor. It means the candidates must show an inordinate amount of real F in themselves if they are to instill real F in voters.

Strength For Today

FEAR OF DEATH?
What is death?
Of one thing we can be sure — death is not the end of life. God is a living God, and quite certainly He does not create beings having personalities like His own, made in His image and in His likeness, only to destroy them...snuff them out of existence. Viewed entirely apart from religion, it appears certain that life lasts beyond the grave.

But probably in a spiritual rather than a material state.

There is no indication that we ever come back into this world again. What happens to the soul immediately after death is not clearly set forth in the Bible, but we are sure that God is love, that He has made us to be His, and that we and our loved ones are in His loving care.

Therefore death is not to be feared; particularly because our sins are forgiven through the grace of Jesus Christ. "Therefore let us not fear, though the earth be removed and mountains be cast into the sea." — Elisha Douglass

Another Extortion Plot Against Casino Disclosed

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — As authorities searched for the perpetrators of a $10 million extortion plot who left a cyanide "calling card" in a casino restroom, fear subsided and anger mounted in this gambling town struck just a few months ago by an extortionist's bomb.

Caesars Tahoe hotel-casino was the target of the plot, the latest in a series of threats plaguing casinos here, in Reno and in Las Vegas since a Stateline casino was bombed Aug. 27.

Officials of the scenic resort area were "absolutely" irate over the extortion plots and threats, Douglas County Commission Chairman Ken Kjer said Monday.

"You get tired of this stuff after a while," he said. "It seems to be never ending. It's like having a full moon every day around here. ... There's just a bunch of kooks running around."

Two extortion notes demanding $10 million and threatening to poison Caesars' water supply were found late Sunday, one at the hotel-casino and another at the Sahara-Tahoe across the street.

The notes led officials to a sample of poison sprayed on a bathroom ceiling at Caesars. It was analyzed as a mixture of a herbicide, possibly 2-4-D with Silvex and barium cyanide. No injuries were reported.

Testing Monday for cyanide in Caesars' drinking water was "negative," said Nevada Health Officer Dr. John Carr. He said he felt "the pressure's off" with regard to any health threat at the club, but protective measures were still in force.

The club's water tank was untouched, said Sheriff's Sgt. Ross Chichester. "There were still spiderwebs on the ladder of the tank," he added.

No casino operations were curtailed because of the threat, and Caesars spokesman Phil Weidinger said business was "the same."

Silvex is a herbicide containing a byproduct of Agent Orange, a defoliant used in Vietnam. The federal government had ordered Silvex off the market, but Carr said it was possible that amounts of the herbicide could be stored somewhere.

Douglas County Sheriff Jerry Maple said he wanted to question a man who reportedly was arrested in San Jose last year in connection with fish pond poisonings that involved herbicides. Charges against the man had been dropped because of insufficient evidence, Maple said.

The extortion note said the $10 million "is nothing against a billion lost to damage and decreased property values when the water supply is poisoned."

"Caesars' profits go to skimming and lining underworld pockets," the letter added. "My pockets are next."

Kjer warned that if extortionists "think we're an easy target, they better think twice." The job of protecting the clubs and their patrons from extortionists is "very costly and very nerve-racking — but we're doing it," he said.

Weekend gambling crowds often swell the local population of 5,000 residents to more than 200,000 people.

Carr said it would take 7,000 pounds of the compound found on the bathroom ceiling to contaminate Caesars' 1.5 million-gallon tank to the point that a quart of water would produce a lethal dose.

Authorities said the one-page Caesars' extortion notes did not resemble the three-page letter found at Harvey's, where a huge bomb exploded in August causing $3 million in damage. No arrests have been made in that case.

All the extortion threats since then against other casinos have proved false.

Soviet cooperation.

The non-warmonger Washington Post and New York Times are now warning in front-page displays about the dangerously weakened state of America's once-supreme military might. So, Reagan's defense team is telling him that a scrupulously honest, objective attack on Carter's defense shenanigans could score heavily with voters.

Reagan's political aides, exhibiting their customary blandness, still resist. If they continue, they burden Reagan with the worst of two worlds: no serious riposte to the warmonger brand burned on him by Carter; no exploitation of Carter's "perfidy" as commander-in-chief.

Adolescent Addicts Are Early Starters

By DAN EVEN

Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)

— Most adolescent drug addicts start young, with the first drink at age 12 and the first marijuana cigarette just months later, and use drugs at school, according to a study of teen-age drug use.

The study by Louisiana State University involved 250 patients at Baton Rouge General Hospital's Adolescent Chemical Dependency Unit.

Vern Ridgeway, the unit's director, said Monday that the study, in its first year, indicates "a definite pattern of use ... a classic addict profile, complete with a family history of addiction and specific behavioral problems."

The study is to continue for five years, and results from a two-year period were expected to indicate that teen-age drug use is on the rise, "up to 70 percent in our local high schools today," Ridgeway said.

From alcohol and marijuana, the average adolescent addict moved on to inhalants, downers and tranquilizers, speed, PCP, LSD, cocaine, opiates and heroin, the study found.

By age 12, 98 percent of those entering the unit had smoked marijuana and 96 percent had used alcohol. By age 16, the study found 16 percent had used opiates and 13 percent, heroin.

More than 90 percent of the adolescent drug users were classified as "being preoccupied with chemicals" to the extent that their lives revolved around "getting high."

The study also found more than 90 percent of the patients had experienced accidents, hangovers, "burn out," changes in sleep patterns and inability to work because of their addiction.

Family relationships suffered for more than 90 percent of the youngsters because of their drinking or drug use, and more than 60 percent had run away from home.

There were broken homes in about two-thirds of the cases, and some 60 percent of the addicts were from families where at least one other member was addicted to drugs or alcohol.

More than 90 percent of the adolescents told researchers they used drugs at school, sometimes skipping classes to get high.

And the study found that more than 80 percent of the teen-agers had thought about suicide, and 40 percent reported that they had tried to take their lives.

Evangelist Betty Rhinehardt, the pastor, invites the public.

Lions Governor Speaks To Club

John C. Thomas, governor of District 31-H of Lion Clubs International, spoke Monday to the Greenville Host Lions Club and recognized the work of the local organization on the district, state and international level.

Thomas suggested that the club work toward more community oriented projects, along with more emphasis on youth work.

The speaker urged continued support for the Lions' blind related projects, White Cane, Camp Dogwood for the Blind, Industries for the Blind in Kinston, and Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Mich. He also discussed Boys and Girls Home of North Carolina, youth exchange work, and North Carolina Eye and Human Tissue Bank activities.

George Clark, zone chairman, introduced Thomas, who is one of 615 district governors in the world. Thomas represents the more than 1,600 Lions located throughout southeastern North Carolina.

pointing president. Mr. Nixon wanted stout conservatives; Mr. Carter, by contrast, wants activist liberals.

To a degree not widely understood, Mr. Carter is having his way. Under the Omnibus Judgeship Act of 1978, Mr. Carter has been able to name 117 new district judges and 35 additional circuit judges. Before his term expires in January, the president will have nominated nearly half of all our federal judges. According to a study by the American Judicature Society, only 3 percent of his nominees view themselves as "conservative." Virtually all the rest are Democrats who identify their views as moderate, liberal or very liberal. They tend to regard the Constitution as a "flexible" document, to be stretched and shaped to accommodate "the evolving needs of society."

Toward the end of his life, Thomas Jefferson turned away from the idea of a judiciary with life tenure. He favored amendment to provide for specific terms on the bench. Considering the power now exercised by judges — power that is for most purposes unrestrained power — I am more and more persuaded that Jefferson's view is sound. Assuming the appointment of judges who are political in every sense, it makes sense to contrive political restraints upon them.

Couple Contends Lifestyle Really Is Not 'Harmful'

Millions Of Americans Lack Health Insurance

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of every four Americans see a doctor at least once a year and one in 10 is hospitalized, but millions of people have no form of health insurance to help with the costs, says a major government survey.

Preliminary results of the survey, termed the most comprehensive ever done on personal health care and expenses in this country, were to be released today at the American Public Health Association's annual meeting in Detroit.

The entire survey, which looked at the health-care habits of 37,000 persons in 14,000 households during 1977, will take years to analyze fully.

But the National Center for Health Services Research said early findings give some insight into how Americans tally up $200 billion in health expenditures each year.

"One surprise of this study was the large number of persons who reported being uninsured — 26.6 million persons or about 12.6 percent of the civilian population," said the agency, part of the Department of Health and Human Services.

There was no difference in insurance coverage between men and women, but there was a racial difference.

Eighteen percent of whites had no coverage, compared with 11.7 percent of all other races, the survey found. Medical assistance programs for low-income persons, such as Medicaid, accounted for some of this difference.

Persons with less formal education also were more likely to be uncovered. The survey found that among persons older than 17 years of age, 15.5 percent with less than 12 years of education had no insurance, compared with 8.9 percent of those with more than 13 years' schooling.

In other categories, more than 160 million persons — 75.9 percent of the 1977 population — had at least one physician contact that year.

Whites more than other races, females more than males and persons over 65 years of age more than those younger were more likely to see a doctor.

Doctors fees varied widely, but the mean figure was $23 per visit.

Families and individuals paid 65 percent of these costs themselves and private health insurance picked up 15 percent. Medicaid paid large proportions of doctors' fees for low-income persons and those other than whites, the survey found.

About 10.3 percent of the 1977 population, 21 million persons, had stays in hospitals that year, with the mean length of stay being 7.6 days.

"The overall mean charge for a hospital stay in 1977 was $1,127 for those where hospital charges were known," the survey said.

Private insurance paid 53 percent of these hospital charges and Medicaid paid 18 percent, it said.

When it came to getting dental services, about 43 percent of the population had their teeth checked at least once that year. Whites had more dental visits, being almost twice as likely to do so than all others.

The mean charge per dental visit was $48 and the number of visits per person increased with family income and education, the survey found.

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — Wayne L. Hammon wishes he and Jacqueline Jarrett could have the justices of the U.S. Supreme Court over to dinner to prove the unmarried couple can provide a fit home for her three children.

"I think that in effect they feel they are somewhat upholding family values by making us scapegoats, which is ludicrous," said Hammon, a quality controller for a paint company. "It's ridiculous that you think you can uphold a social concept by taking one couple and making an example of them."

Hammond's comments came Monday after the nation's highest court left intact an Illinois Supreme Court decision denying the divorced Mrs. Jarrett custody of her three daughters because Hammon lives with her out of wedlock.

By a 6-3 vote, the high court declined to review the case. Four votes are required to grant such a review.

"I don't think it is fair," said Mrs. Jarrett, her voice shaking, in a telephone interview. "I'm very unhappy with their decision."

In a dissenting opinion, two justices chastised the court for allowing the use of Illinois' fornication law to create a presumption of harm to the children. Fornication is a legal term to describe sexual relations between people not married to each other.

"Illinois seldom, if ever, enforces its fornication statute and therefore can hardly contend that there is a rational correlation between divorced parents who fornicate and divorced parents who impair the healthy development of their children," argued Justice William Brennan.

"I guess I would say I would just like to have them over to dinner," said Hammon, 29.

Hammon said he and Mrs. Jarrett would win custody of the daughters, now aged 16, 14 and 10, from her ex-husband if the children want to come back.

Mrs. Jarrett said she had no plans to ask Hammon to move out in an attempt to get the children back. And both said they had no plans to marry.

"People just say, 'why don't you get married,'" said Hammon. "It's pretty hard to explain that that isn't going to solve it all."

Mrs. Jarrett's former husband, Walter Jarrett, could not be reached for comment.

The Jarretts divorced in 1976 and Mrs. Jarrett originally obtained custody of her daughters. But Jarrett returned to court when he learned his ex-wife's boyfriend had moved into her home. A trial court ruled in 1977 that the live-in arrangement required the children's removal "for their moral and spiritual well-being."

Mrs. Jarrett argued that Illinois' fornication law violates her constitutional right of equal protection.

A state appeals court overturned the trial court's decision, saying there was no proof the children's well-being would be harmed. But the Illinois Supreme Court last Dec. 20 reinstated the order stripping Mrs. Jarrett of custody.

The Illinois Supreme Court said "potential future harmful effects" of Mrs. Jarrett's lifestyle had to be considered.

Mrs. Jarrett insists her way of life is not bad for the kids.

"If I thought it was, I wouldn't have done it," she said.

of Governors to drop or delay a deadline it set in February 1979 for improvements by the nursing schools at North Carolina Central University, North Carolina A&T University and Winston-Salem State University.

Alarmed by low scores on state licensing exams taken by graduates of the three schools, the board has warned that it will cut off funding to the nursing programs unless two-thirds of the graduates pass the exam on their first try in 1981 and three-fourths pass the first time in 1983.

A majority of the graduates from the three nursing schools has been flunking the exam. Admission requirements since have been raised at each of the schools.

Ms. Wicker contended Monday that the Board of Governors did not provide money for the schools to meet the deadline for improved performances.

"My view would be that resource allocation is very directly related to the success of students on the licensure exam," she said.

Ms. Wicker testified as a witness for the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, which has intervened in the case against UNC.

PRICES STRONGER
FARMVILLE — Prices Monday were much stronger than on the last sale date. Low grades of leaves showed the sharpest gain. Quality grades were steady. Volume was heavy consisting of mostly leaf, cutters and nondescript grades.

The market sold 702,858 pounds yesterday for $1,131,799 and an average of $161.03 per hundred pounds, one of the highest averages of the season. To date, the market has sold 26,702,291 pounds for $40,272,742 and a season of $150.82 per hundred pounds. Stabilization receipts accounted for only 2.31 percent of gross sales.

Says Deadline Unreasonable

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Durham nurse testified Monday that a deadline set by the University of North Carolina's Board of Governors for improvements in nursing schools at three traditionally black universities "is completely unreasonable."

Evelyn B. Wicker, a nursing director at Duke University Hospital, testified at an administrative law hearing on the government's effort to cut off federal funding to UNC. The government contends that UNC has failed to desegregate its 16 campuses properly.

Ms. Wicker heads a nursing task force created by the North Carolina Alumni and Friends Coalition, an organization representing alumni of the five historically black campuses.

Ms. Wicker, in 1½ hours of testimony, described in detail how her task force has tried to convince the Board

Japan Noting Soviet Buildup

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Defense Agency Director-General Joji Omura said today that a "long-term and consistent" military build-up by the Soviet Union in the Far East has heightened the potential military threat to Japan.

Speaking before the House of Representatives ad hoc Committee on Security, Omura expressed concern about the increased Soviet naval presence in the west Pacific and Indian Ocean, saying it "could seriously affect the security of Japanese sea lanes in event of an emergency."

He said the deployment of two U.S. task forces led by aircraft carriers in the Indian Ocean since last November posed the danger of affecting the military balance in the northeast Asian area around Japan.

"But we also consider this move essential in order to assure stable supply and transportation of oil resources," he added.

In the area around Japan, Omura said Soviet military activities had "increased conspicuously," with both qualitative and quantitative improvements in its forces.

The Kremlin had strengthened its Pacific fleet and built up its strategic nuclear capacity through the deployment of SS-20 medium-range missiles and Backfire bombers, he said.

He also noted that the Kremlin had stationed ground troops of the division level on four Soviet-occupied northern islands off Japan's northernmost main island of Hokkaido, which are claimed by Japan.

The use of naval and air bases in Vietnam following the China-Vietnam border clash last year had also improved Soviet military capabilities in the region, he said.

Omura's agency is requesting a 9.7 percent budget increase which would give it about $11 billion to operate its 250,000-member self-defense force.

Japan, which has constitutional restrictions on maintaining a military force, has been criticized by the United States and Europe for spending less than one percent of its gross national product on defense.

Honor Society Inducts Student

RALEIGH — Margaret Irene Yelverton, a Meredith College student and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Yelverton of 102 Davis Circle, Farmville, has been inducted into Kappa Nu Sigma recently at Meredith.

Miss Yelverton is a senior majoring in business administration and mathematics. She has been a member of Canady Math Club and Tomorrow's Business Women.

Kappa Nu Sigma, the honor society of the college, recognizes academic excellence by admitting students on the basis of scholastic standing.

Begin Basic Geography

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — University of Colorado professors say they have found some students don't know Canada is an independent country. So the state's largest university has added a new course to its curriculum — basic geography.

The course, called World and Regional Geography, takes a college-level approach stressing sociological and political concepts. But it also teaches that the United States and Canada are separate countries and Africa is not a nation, said teacher Hazel Morrow-Jones.

The class was added to the curriculum when it became apparent students had not soaked up those facts in elementary and high school, Ms. Morrow-Jones said.

"I don't think you can have a working knowledge of the world if you don't know where the countries are," she said.

Like all geography classes, the CU course involves a lot of memorization, but Ms. Morrow-Jones said she tries to make it more interesting by tying in news events and throwing in a dose of population, urbanization and development theory as well.

Gymnastics Clinic Offered

Pitt County Community School will be offering a gymnastics clinic at Chicod Elementary School from October 21-October 27 from 3:30-5 p.m. The one-week clinic will be for children ages 9-13 years old.

Basic instruction will be given in the areas of balance beam, floor exercises, vaulting, tumbling and the uneven parallel bars. Amy Carroll will be the head instructor for the clinic. Mrs. Carroll has been involved in the gymnastics program at Chicod for several years. Clinics similar to this one will be held throughout the year.

Local People Hurt In Wreck

WILSON — Patricia Phercio Rebolgar of Route 1, Wilson, was charged with driving without a license following an investigation of a 10:50 a.m. Sunday collision one mile west of Wilson on U.S. 264 that injured 12 persons, including six Greenville residents.

Highway Patrolman Charles R. Rogers reported that the Rebolgar car skidded on wet pavement and swerved into the path of a car driven by Donald Harold Bowen of Route 9, Greenville, causing an estimated $4,000 damage to the car he was driving and $600 damage to the Rebolgar vehicle.

Trooper Rogers reported that Bowen, his wife, Nadine Bowen (secretary to Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon), their daughter, Mrs. Bowen's mother and sister, and a friend, were injured, as were Ms. Rebolgar and five passengers in that car.

Bowen and Mrs. Bowen's sister, Sharlene Harper, were hospitalized for treatment of their injuries, the highway patrolman said, while the others were treated and released.

ROBERSONVILLE — Revival services are underway at Christ Temple Church here.

Dr. G. E. Brown will be the speaker for the week. The following churches and choirs are conducting the services: Tuesday, the Community Crusade Choir; Wednesday, the Cherry Lane Senior Choir; Thursday, the Conetoe Chapel Choir; and Friday, Brown's Chorus.

The pastor, the Rev. Hoyt Hammond, invites the public.

Realtors Choose New Officers

The Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors today announced the election of officers and directors for 1981.

Officers are David Nichols, president; Anne Duffus, vice president; and Mac Harris, secretary-treasurer.

Local directors are Les Turnage, Louise Moseley, Ed Meyer and Trish Byrum. State directors are Mavis Butts and Thelma Whitehurst.

Also, the board announced the induction of four new Realtor members and an affiliate member. They are Paul Cornwell, Carl Darden, D. D. Garrett and Gloria Schwidde, realtors, and Bobby James, affiliate. New officers and directors will be installed in December and will take office beginning in January.

Blames Fatigue In Campaigning

ATLANTA (AP) — Former United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young blames his recent hospitalization on fatigue brought about by vigorous campaigning for President Carter's re-election.

"They're not sure what it was," he said Monday after his release from the Crawford W. Long hospital here. "They're still trying to grow cultures and analyze the blood samples.

PSYCHIC — Frustrated in their investigations of the deaths and disappearances of 14 children, Atlanta police have turned to Dorothy Allison, shown in a 1979 photo. Mrs. Allison, a New Jersey psychic, says she knows the name of the killer. (AP Laserphoto)

"But the basic problem was that I had been in 27 cities in 10 different states over the past six weeks," he said.

Young, 48, said from his Atlanta home that rest and antibiotic treatments reduced the fever and flu-like symptoms he experienced when he entered the hospital last week.

"I'll probably be getting back (on the road) again soon," he said, adding that his physician had not ordered any period of bed rest at home.

Partisan In Series, Too

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Lillian Carter is as partisan in baseball as she is in politics. Her son says she's rooting for the Philadelphia Phillies to win the World Series.

"Since the Dodgers were eliminated, she's been a real strong Phillies fan," President Carter said Monday in response to a question from an elderly woman about his 82-year-old mother.

The president said his mother told him when he called recently that she was too busy watching the baseball championships to talk to him.

Carter said Miss Lillian, who is recovering from surgery for a fractured hip, probably wouldn't walk for two to three months. But he added, "She's in good spirits, just like a young person."

Doctors are still unsure when Mrs. Carter will be discharged from the hospital in Americus, Ga. She is healing at about the same rate as most people her age who break a bone, a nursing supervisor said.

Miss Lillian said Monday she is "feeling better every day" but added in a hospital statement, "I regret that I still can't campaign for Jimmy."

Ex-Spy Loses Chance To Sue

By PATRICK BRISLIN
Associated Press Writer
TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A former CIA agent who spied on her Cuban husband in the 1960s has lost her chance to press a $10 million lawsuit against the intelligence agency.

The spy, Carmen Mackowski, 44, now living somewhere in central New Jersey, claims the CIA failed to train her adequately for her assignment, leading to her arrest and nine-year imprisonment by Cuban authorities.

But U.S. District Court Judge Dickinson Debevoise ruled Monday that Mrs. Mackowski has no legal grounds for pursuing most of her suit.

Debevoise said Mrs. Mackowski would have to either go to the U.S. Court of Claims in Washington, where large claims can be heard, or limit the suit to less than $10,000.

The rulings were made on technical grounds.

Mrs. Mackowski's lawyer, Willie Shulman, said he didn't know what his client would do. Mrs. Mackowski did not attend Monday's hearing.

Debevoise gave Mrs. Mackowski one week to decide whether to reduce her claim to $10,000 or to pursue it instead at the Court of Claims.

Debevoise dismissed the rest of Mrs. Mackowski's suit, which charged the CIA with negligence for alleged poor training.

Debevoise said he dismissed the case because Mrs. Mackowski failed to make a formal complaint with the federal government's administrative agencies within two years of the incident, as required by federal law.

Shulman argued that Mrs. Mackowski had tried to get government compensation through letters and personal meetings.

Try our new money machine. It can make you $100 richer.

Now at the new NCNB 24 locations: Every time you use the new machines, you get a chance at an Eisenhower Dollar. Every day you use them, you can enter the Sweepstakes for 100 Eisenhower Dollars.

The same people who introduced the first banking machines in North Carolina now introduce the most advanced banking machines in America.

And right now, we're celebrating by inviting you to enter the New NCNB 24 Silver Dollar Sweepstakes.

All you have to do is go through a demonstration, and you get a chance at a Silver-Dollar-On-The-Spot.

Plus a chance at the Grand Prize of 100 Silver Dollars.

But we think that, once you meet the machine that treats you like a human being, you'll want it to handle all your banking.

So, if you're already banking with NCNB 24, you can use the card and code you're using now.

If you're not, this is a good time to start. So come by, open an account, tell us the code number you want, and we'll get a card to you right away.

After all, we want everyone to get a chance to win. But, even without the Sweepstakes, you'll like dealing with the new NCNB 24.

It doesn't waste time; it handles your banking in as little as 30 seconds.

Instead of just $25 or $50, it gives you cash in $5 amounts up to $100.

It talks "people talk," not "machine talk," so it's easy to understand.

In short, it makes all your routine banking easier than ever.

The new NCNB 24. Now at the bank that wants to be the best in the neighborhood.

Tobacco Group Has Meeting

The annual meeting of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee was held last week and was attended by tobacco producers and industry representatives from all tobacco producing states.

Atlas Wooten, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, was elected to serve as president of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, succeeding Adrian Hardin of Georgia. Wooten, a tobacco farmer from the Falkland Community, is also a member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, as well as being a member of the board of directors and the executive board of the Flue Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation.

ing the positive side of the tobacco industry.

Citing the importance of tobacco to the economy, Wooten said the tobacco industry last year contributed $58 billion to the gross national product of this country. According to Wooten, it also contributed $2.2 billion to farm income and had a $2 billion favorable trade balance.

First Federal Approves Conversion

C. B. Tugwell, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pitt County, announced that the members of First Federal approved recently a plan to convert the association to a federal capital stock association.

Tugwell said over 97 percent of the votes actually cast at the meet were in favor of the conversion plan.

He explained that the plan of conversion provides for an offering of 430,000 shares of capital stock by First Federal. The shares will first be offered to savings account holders of the association as of Sept. 30, 1978 and June 30, 1980, as well as to officers, directors, and employees in a subscription offering. Thereafter any shares which remain unsold are expected to be offered to the general public in an underwritten public offering.

"It is a certainty that tobacco usage will continue nationwide," he said. "The question we must resolve is to what extent we will share in the profits of the industry."

A new program called "America's Golden Leaf," termed more aggressive than last year's program, was announced for the coming year. Efforts will be made to have all tobacco information more readily available to producers. A speakers bureau comprised of representatives from all phases of the industry will attempt to fill engagements throughout the tobacco year. Monthly newsletters will be sent to all growers.

Big Board volume totaled 22.44 million shares in the first two hours, compared to 17.09 million by the same point on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .16 to 76.60. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.73 to 364.69.

He mentioned that as a capital stock association, First Federal will continue to operate as an FSILC-insured savings and loan association through its existing offices and under the same management and board of directors. No change in name or operations will be made as a result of the conversion, he added.

P.T.O. MEETING

$10 Million Suit Is Dismissed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $10 million libel suit against Hustler magazine and its publisher, Larry Flynt, has been dismissed by an Ohio judge.

Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Frederick Williams on Monday ruled that a suit filed by New Hampshire newspaper publisher William Loeb contained no new issues warranting a trial.

Attorneys for Flynt had argued that issues raised in the suit were identical to those in two suits which Loeb had filed and lost in other states.

Loeb called false and malicious a Hustler article depicting him as an ultra-conservative who used his influence with state legislators to make the New Hampshire primary the nation's earliest.

 Mr. Robert A. (Bob) Askew, 75, died this morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. A graveside service will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in Greenwood Cemetery conducted by the Rev. David Goehring, associate pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

A native of Halifax County, Mr. Askew spent most of his life here and operated Askew's Fruit Stand on Dickinson Avenue.

Survivors include a sister, Miss Annie Laurie Askew and a brother, John L. Askew, both of Greenville.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7-9 p.m.

Tuesday and at other times will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Askew, 1705 S. Elm St. The family suggests anyone desiring to make a memorial contribution consider the Music and Media Center, Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Christmas Role Not For Woman

MACCLESFIELD, England (AP) — Father Christmas is a man and cannot be played by a woman, Britain's Equal Opportunities Commission has ruled. So John Shelton can advertise for a male Santa at the department store he manages.

Shelton said Monday he asked the commission's advice when someone pointed out to him that if he advertised for a Father Christmas, he might have to advertise for a Mother Christmas also.

Smith
 BALTIMORE, Md. — Mr. Henry C. Smith died in John Hopkins University Hospital on Saturday.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Hattie Smith Bradley of Greenville; and two brothers, Alexander Smith of Virginia Beach, Va. and James Smith of New Haven, Conn.

Except in special cases, the Sex Discrimination Act bars employers from advertising for a man or a woman. Instead they advertise for a "person." But Shelton said an official of the Equal Opportunities Commission said the act is being waived for him because being male is a "genuine occupation qualification" for Santas.

Tyson
 NORFOLK, Va. — Mr. Albert Tyson Sr., 54, died Saturday in Leigh Memorial Hospital. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Hardee's Funeral Home in Greenville.

Worsley
 Mr. Robert C. Worsley, 90, died Saturday while visiting in San Francisco, Ca.

A memorial service will be held in Balboa, Republic of Panama, Friday, and burial will be in the Scottish Rite Cemetery, Balboa, with Masonic Rites.

Mr. Worsley, a native of Edgecombe County, lived in the Panama Canal Zone for the past 70 years. He was a 50-year member of and past Master of the Masonic Lodge and was a member of the Scottish Rite and New York Rite Masonic Bodies. Mr. Worsley was the founder of the Boy Scout movement in the Canal Zone and was still active in scouting. He was a charter member of the Union Church of Balboa and a 50-year member of the Rotary Club there.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Worsley; four daughters; Mrs. Marie W. Valpatrick of Porter, Ind.; Mrs. Helen Cooke of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Roberta Richardo of San Francisco, Ca.; Mrs. Jacque W. Williams of Los Angeles, Ca.; three sisters: Mrs. Floyd Turnage of Fountain, Mrs. Juanita Williams, Mrs. Lee Schmidt, both of Farmville; and three brothers: James R. Worsley, Guilford C. Worsley, Francis H. Worsley, all of Greenville.

A family memorial service will be held in Fountain October 24 at 10:30 a.m. at the AME Baptist Church.

Gov't To Offer Coal Leases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government will offer for sale next January coal leases to federal lands containing an estimated 450 million tons of coal, the Interior Department says.

The sales announced Monday will be the first involving federal lands since a moratorium was imposed in 1971.

The sales will cover four tracts of land in Wyoming and seven in Colorado. They're expected to yield a 13 million tons of annual coal production by 1987.

Plunkett, Raiders Bomb Steelers, 45-34

In A Rush
Oakland Raider quarterback Jim Plunkett (16) scrambles for the grasp of Pittsburgh Steelers' Robin Cole as Jack Ham (59) charges past a Raider lineman in the second quarter Monday night in Pittsburgh. Plunkett led the Raiders to a 45-34 upset victory over the Steelers. (AP Laserphoto)

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Oakland Raiders punted just twice. The Pittsburgh Steelers punted just twice.

But the scoreboard point totals jumped like the digits on a pinball machine as the Raiders beat the Steelers 45-34 in the highest scoring game in the history of Monday night football.

"This was just unusual. I don't know if it was playing on Monday night or what?" said Steelers cornerback Mel Blount.

"I don't know how much offense we had. I don't know if we had as much as they did. But we got the big plays," said

Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett, who threw three touchdown passes, including two bombs to Cliff Branch.

"I don't know whether to laugh or cry," said Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who threw for two touchdowns before he was finally knocked from the game for the third and final time with a pinched nerve in his shoulder and a jammed right thumb.

The Raiders, the team in the National Football League with the best Monday night record (14-1-1), took the lead to stay with a 21-point second quarter that gave them a 28-24 halftime lead. They finished with the most points ever by a visitor to Three Rivers Stadium.

"It was a great victory, a heck of a game," said Raiders Coach Tom Flores.

The 79 total points were the most in the 10½-years of Monday night games. The old high of 77 was matched in Oakland's 42-35 win over New Orleans last year and in Dallas' 42-35 victory over San Francisco in 1977.

"I'm proud of our football team because it played very, very well. Oakland just played a little bit better," Coach Chuck Noll said after Pittsburgh fell to 4-3 with its second loss in a row at home, something the Steelers hadn't done since 1971.

Pittsburgh began the game without injured All-Pro Lynn Swann, Franco Harris and John Stallworth. Then it lost linebacker Jack Lambert in the first-quarter with a knee injury.

Bradshaw said he expects to play next week at Cleveland, now tied with Houston and Pittsburgh atop the AFC Central. Lambert's status is uncertain.

Meanwhile, Oakland, 4-3, notched its fourth straight win over Pittsburgh in a rivalry that had been dormant since the Raiders won here in 1977.

Pittsburgh took a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on Bradshaw's 19-yard touchdown toss to Jim Smith and an 18-yard field goal by Matt Bahr. The Raiders countered with Kenny King's 27-yard touchdown run on their next series.

A total of 35 points came during a second quarter that ended with Bradshaw in the training room undergoing treatment for a pinched nerve in his left shoulder.

Bradshaw hurt his shoulder on a play which resulted in a 34-yard fumble return for a touchdown by linebacker Rod Martin, giving the Raiders the lead at 21-17 with 3:05 left in the second quarter.

Bradshaw was sacked by Cedrick Hardman, jarring the ball loose. Willie Jones recovered the ball and lateraled to Martin, who ran to the end zone.

"I didn't intentionally hurt Bradshaw," said Hardman. "We've been friends for a long time."

With Bradshaw headed to the locker room, backup quarterback Cliff Stoudt was intercepted by linebacker Ted Hendricks, who picked off an earlier Bradshaw pass.

Plunkett followed with a 45-yard bomb to Morris Bradshaw and the Raiders led 28-17.

But Stoudt led Pittsburgh on a 79-yard drive that ended with a 13-yard strike to Jim Smith just 10 seconds before the half. Smith made the grab at the 1. He was tackled by Odis McKinney but he extended the ball with one arm across the goal.

In the third quarter, Plunkett and Branch combined on a 56-yard bomb to put the Raiders up 35-24.

Bradshaw then threw a 36-yard TD pass to Theo Bell, and Matt Bahr added a 32-yard field goal that cut the Raiders' lead to one point at 35-34 through three periods.

But Plunkett teamed with Branch again on a 34-yard scoring pass in the last period, and Chris Bahr, Matt's brother, kicked a 35-yard field goal for Oakland.

Plunkett, who took over at quarterback after Dan

Pastorini suffered a broken leg, hit 13 of 21 passes for 247 yards.

"There's no question about it. I've matured," said Plunkett. "I don't throw the ball as hard as I used to, but I feel pretty good physically."

Bradshaw, sacked five times, hit 18 of 27 passes for 299 yards.

"We came back. We tried. We fought back. But it just wasn't enough," he said.

Later, a craggy-faced visitor to the Raiders locker room summed up the game for both sides.

"It was just like the old AFL," said ex-Raider George Blanda, remembering the days when teams like the New York Titans and Dallas Texans lit up the scoreboards of the American Football League.

What's Wrong With Steelers?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — What's wrong with the Pittsburgh Steelers, those rock-ribbed defending Super Bowl champions who have lost consecutive home games for the first time since 1971 — their last losing season?

"What's wrong with the Pittsburgh Steelers is injuries and the rest of the damn National Football League. It is a competitive business," said defensive tackle Joe Greene, the soul of the Steel Curtain defense.

"Half a dozen people in here have written our epitaph and we've only played seven ball games. We're very much aware of the adage of what have you done for me lately," he added.

The shock of a 45-34 loss to the Oakland Raiders had not yet worn off. Jim Plunkett burned the Steeler defense for 247 yards and threw a pair of touchdown bombs to Cliff Branch and another to Morris Bradshaw.

The banged-up Steelers — playing without All-Pro Franco Harris, Lynn Swann and John Stallworth — clawed back with 467 total yards. Another All-Pro, quarterback Terry Bradshaw, fought back twice from an injured left shoulder before he finally was knocked out with a jammed thumb on his throwing hand. And a knee sprain sent middle linebacker Jack Lambert to the bench early in the first period.

As Greene pointed out, the Steelers started just four of the 11 offensive players who lined up for the Super Bowl.

"That's not an excuse. That's a fact. We're not going to make excuses for ourselves. We got nine more ball games — nine more," said Greene, whose team is now tied for first place with Houston and Cleveland in the AFC's Central Division.

"I'm proud of the team I play on — win or lose. We're not out of this race by any stretch of the imagination. I'm proud to be a Steeler," he added.

"We had some outstanding performances. It just wasn't enough. They just played better. When you play football, there are some defeats. This was one of them."

Linebacker Jack Ham echoed Greene's comments in the somber dressing room.

"It's a tough loss. But this is over. We lost and that's it. There are peaks and valleys in a 16-game season. We just have to regroup," Ham said.

Coach Chuck Noll admonished himself for devising a poor defensive game plan, one which gambled with the blitz and unsuccessfully demanded that the secondary give single coverage to the speedy Branch and Morris Bradshaw.

"If there's any problem with some of the scores that they

Johnson Is The Winner

R.B. Johnson of P.O. Box 611, Bethel, is the winner of the Daily Reflector Football Contest for last week.

Johnson correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games listed in last Tuesday's contest listings. His victory came through his point total guess, however, as his guess of 69 was closest to the actual total of 65 scored in Mississippi State's 34-31 win over Miami, Fla.

Second place went to Ronnie Ellis of Rt. 5, Lot 6, Sand Dune Village, who also missed seven games. His point total guess was 70, one further off the guess of Johnson.

The next contest in the series appears on the following pages.

Southern Miss Makes The List; Carolina Advances To Seventh

By The Associated Press
Coach Bobby Collins of the undefeated Southern Mississippi football team says it's almost too much to believe.

Making The Associated Press college football poll for the first time ever. Being 6-0. And playing the No. 1 team in the country.

"It's quite a challenge. It's something you dream about. It could only happen in America," Collins said Monday.

Texas moved into second place behind Alabama in the poll Monday while Southern Mississippi, Alabama's next opponent, made the rankings for the first time.

"We are certainly pleased that we cracked the Top Twenty and I feel our team is very deserving," Collins said. "We have accomplished another of our goals and I hope our play this week justifies this recognition."

Collins said he felt neither Southern Mississippi's schedule nor the fact that his team was an independent had hindered it in the Eagles' quest for big time status.

"I think we've played the type schedule (in recent years) that would be in favor of our receiving national recognition, including the Southeastern Conference schools, Florida State and Tulane," he said. "And the major independents do get recognition. Just look at Notre Dame and Florida State."

Southern Mississippi, which has two victories and a tie in 19 games with Alabama, will not be traveling to Tuscaloosa simply to look good against the Crimson Tide, Collins said.

"That's just not the way we play. We're not going to play just to look respectable. We're preparing the best we can to win," he said.

Alabama, seeking an unprecedented third consecutive national championship, claimed the No. 1 position for the sixth week in a row after defeating Tennessee 27-0. The Tide received 57 of 63 first-place ballots and 1,250 of a possible 1,260 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Southern California's 7-7 tie with unranked Oregon allowed Texas to climb from third to second with two first-place ballots and 1,147 points. Southern Cal, which had been second, slipped to eighth.

UCLA was up from fourth to third with the other four first-place votes and 1,108 points. Both Texas and UCLA were idle last weekend.

Notre Dame, Georgia, Florida State and North Carolina all won Saturday and moved up one spot in the reshuffled Top Ten.

Nebraska went from 10th to ninth while Ohio State slipped from ninth to 10th behind Southern Cal with 728 points despite a 27-17 victory over Indiana.

The Second Ten consists of Baylor, Pittsburgh, Penn State, South Carolina, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Washington, Brigham Young and Southern Mississippi.

Last week, it was Pitt, Penn State, Baylor, Arkansas, South Carolina, Missouri, Oklahoma, Miami (Fla.), Iowa State and Stanford.

However, Miami lost to Mississippi State 34-31, Iowa State bowed to Kansas 28-17 and Stanford was beaten by Washington, which returned to the rankings after a three-week absence. Brigham Young made it for the first time this season by hammering Utah State 70-46 and Southern Mississippi boosted its record to 6-0 with a 35-0 rout of Arkansas State.

1. Alabama (57)	6-0	1,250
2. Texas (2)	5-0	1,147
3. UCLA (4)	5-0	1,108
4. Notre Dame	5-0	1,042
5. Georgia	6-0	990
6. Florida State	6-1	901
7. North Carolina	6-0	833

City Of Brotherly Love Loves Winning, Its Eagles And Phillies

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It's called the City of Brotherly Love — and, boy, does Philadelphia love winning!

A year ago, and again about nine months ago, Pittsburgh was hailed itself as the City of Champions. The Pirates, "the family," were baseball's World Series winners. The Steelers, not so much a family as a force, were pro football's Super Bowl champions.

About 300 miles to the east, the Phillies had pulled their el foldo much earlier than usual. The Eagles had made a run for the title, only to be ousted in the playoffs.

As Houston was to Dallas for so many years, sportwise, anyway, Philly was to Pittsburgh — second class.

Try saying something like that today. The citizens of the City of Brotherly Love will set you straight, probably with a nice left-right combination.

William J. Green is a little more subtle, as befits a mayor. "This is the only town in America with a chance to take it all," he says. "We're on the way to winning the World Series, we're on the way to the Super Bowl, we just won the Nobel Prize in economics, we've got the greatest orchestra in the world... we've got the 76ers and the Flyers hanging in the wings just to fill in springtime... We've got it all."

The Phillies are on the verge of their first world championship ever in their first World Series since 1950. And the Eagles... well, the National Football League season is less than half over, but they're beginning to look and act like champions. After beating the Dallas Cowboys 17-10 Sunday, they had the look of people who knew all along they could and would. None of the amazement of years past.

They haven't won a title of any kind since 1960, when the NFL was a cozy 13-team league, when the American Football League was a novelty, when the Cowboys were a brand-new and winless NFL franchise. The Eagles beat Dallas 27-25 that year (even then, the Cowboys played them tough), and won the league championship, beating Green Bay 17-13 when Vince Lombardi was only beginning to build his dynasty and his mystique.

Buck Shaw was the Eagles' head coach back then. He retired after the championship was secure. Norm Van Brocklin was their quarterback. He, too, called it quits after reaching the pinnacle.

Within a couple of years, the Eagles had plummeted to last place. Except for a couple of appearances in the Playoff Bowl (a short-lived NFL euphemism for a game played by runnerup losers,) the Eagles sort of muddled around until 1978.

That was Dick Vermeil's third year as their head coach and Ron Jaworski's second as their quarterback. Both came from winning Los Angeles backgrounds, Vermeil as coach of a UCLA team which beat favored Ohio State in a Rose Bowl, Jaworski as a three-year member of the Rams team which was just beginning to establish a divisional dominance which continues today.

Beating the Cowboys, it seems, had become a fixation, a passion, for Vermeil. Understandable, considering the Eagles had lost nine in a row to them before beating them in Dallas last year. Even that victory turned to ashes of a sort when the Cowboys came right back, beat the Eagles in Philadelphia, won the National Conference East title and, for the second consecutive season, consigned Philadelphia to the second-class ranking of a wild-card team.

"Beating them here, this is one of our two in-season goals," Vermeil said. He didn't mention the other one, wouldn't let anyone pry it out of him, but winning the division title couldn't be too far off the mark.

DHC Wins First Round

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's girls' volleyball team advanced to the second round of the State Volleyball Playoffs yesterday with a 2-0 victory over Camp Lejeune.

The Valkyries won the opening game, 13-10, when time ran out, then came back with a 15-12 win in the second game. The longest string of serves for the Conley girls came when Jackie Daniels dished up four in a row in the first game.

"Our serving wasn't that good, but the rest of our game was as good or better than it's been all season," coach Martha McCaskill said. "Our hitting was probably the best it's been all year."

Conley, in the playoffs for the second straight year, now moves into the second round, which must be played by Thursday. That match was still to be scheduled as of this morning.

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Phillies Seek To Wrap It Up Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies can wrap it all up tonight, and the man with the wrapping paper and ribbon in his hands is Steve Carlton.

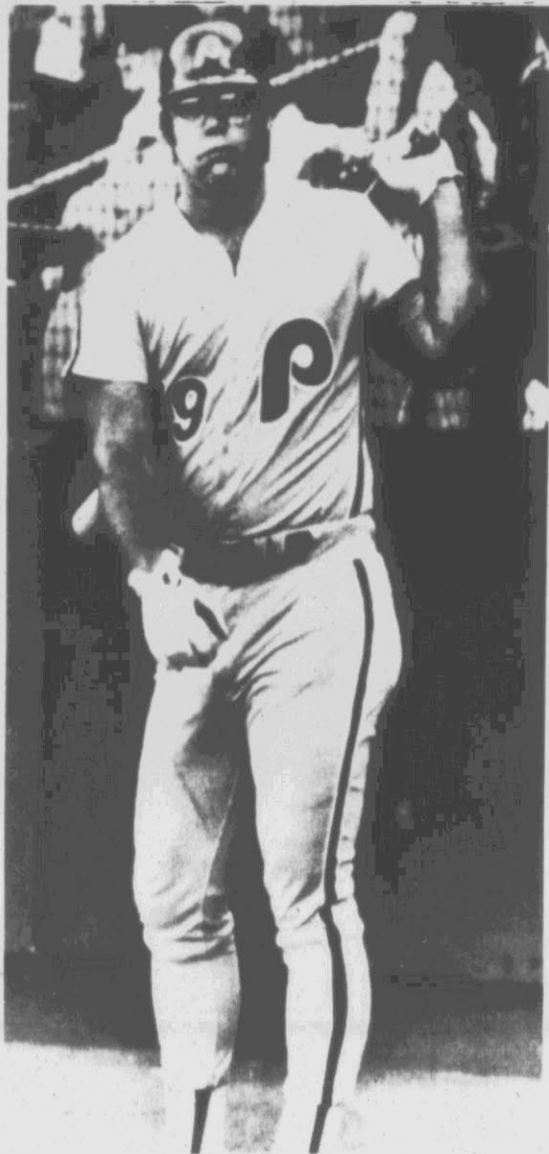

Philadelphia's left-handed pitching ace will take the mound at about 8:15 p.m. EDT in Game Six of the 1980 World Series with Kansas City. At that moment, he will be only 27 outs from giving the Phillies their first world championship in the 80 years the franchise has existed.

A man of ultimate achievement, he has won two Cy

Young awards and probably will claim his third for a 24-9 performance and 2.34 earned run average in 1980.

He went into a silent act about five years ago, and speaks only to a select group which includes his wife, Beverly, their two children and a few close friends. What he is feeling at this very moment is his secret, but he is known as a master of concentration.

He practices Eastern religions and the martial arts. He plugs his ears with cotton when pitching to shut out distractions. His expressions on the mound — twitching and stretching his facial muscles — are calculated and ritualized for a purpose only he fully knows.

His isolation is almost total, and his disregard for achievements is storied. He never did pick up his second Cy Young award; it still sits in the Phillies clubhouse.

"The one amazing capacity he has is to concentrate and adjust his game," says Phillies catcher Bob Boone. "He adjusts as well as any pitcher in the game. He can change completely from one inning to another."

"He might lose his ability to control his slider in one inning," Boone said, "but you stick with it because you know he'll make some adjustment, and it'll be back the next inning."

Right-hander Rich Gale, 13-9 this season, will be the man charged with keeping Kansas City in the game until the Royals hitters can fathom Carlton.

"I said before we're going to have to beat Steve Carlton to win this thing," Gale said. "Now we're at that point. You either beat Carlton; or we lose it in six."

In their 12 years, the Royals had not gotten past the American League playoffs before this year. They lost the first two games of the Series in Philadelphia, then took the first two of their three-game homestand. Philadelphia won 4-3 on Sunday, and now can put an early end to only their third World Series appearance since being born in 1900.

"I hope Lefty (Carlton) throws the way he can," said Del Unser, whose key pinch hits have kept Philadelphia in the forefront of this Series. "If he does, we can win."

Perhaps like no other pitcher in baseball today, Carlton has the power to completely dominate a ballgame.

He worked an incredible 304 innings during the regular season, another 121-3 in the playoffs and went eight innings in his winning start in Game Two of the Series. In his 38 regular-season starts, he never failed to go at least six innings, and he pitched 13 complete games with three shutouts.

"He is a pro in every sense of the word," Boone said. "He concentrates as well or better than any player along with his outstanding talent."

In his previous World Series start, Gale worked 41-3 innings without a decision Friday in Game Three, which the Royals won at home 4-3 in 10 innings. He gave up seven hits and two runs in his brief and ineffective stint.

"Friday was my first chance at post-season play of any kind," Gale said. "Hopefully, I'll be more relaxed. I'll just go about my business as usual on Monday and Tuesday. I'll go out to dinner with my wife and in-laws on Monday night, get a good night's sleep and be ready."

"The game's just not on my back. I've got 24 other guys to help out there, too," Gale said. "There's no question I'm going to be pumped up, but if I lose I think the sun still will come up on Wednesday."

If necessary, Phils Manager Dallas Green said he would go with Game Three starter Dick Ruthven Wednesday night, while Royals Manager Jim Frey will go back to Dennis Leonard, who started the first and fourth games.

Defense Sparks Sonic Victory

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens was lavish in his praise of John Johnson and Lonnie Shelton after the SuperSonics' 98-92 victory over the Utah Jazz.

The two Sonics forwards were outscored by six of their teammates, but their defensive play took the spotlight as they took turns blanketing high-scoring Utah forward Adrian Dantley in the only NBA game Monday night.

"J.J. (Johnson) played great on Dantley," Wilkens said. "He and Lonnie both did well, and they made him work hard for his points."

Dantley, who carried a 36.2 average into the game, had managed only nine points through the early minutes of the fourth period. By then, the Sonics, led by reserve guard Vinnie Johnson, had taken a commanding 85-71 lead.

Dantley scored eight points in the waning moments as he and Billy McKinney tried in vain to get the Jazz back in the game.

"We had one group of players that didn't execute at all tonight," lamented Utah Coach Tom Nissalke.

"We got very little point production out of our big forwards and that really killed us," he said.

Only Wayne Cooper, who alternated at forward and center, managed any offensive production for the Jazz on the front line. Cooper scored 10 points, but the other big forwards, Allen Bristow and James Hardy, went scoreless.

Cooper was the leading rebounder with 15.

McKinney was the leading Utah scorer with 21 points, hitting 10 of 13 from the field, and Darrell Griffith added 19, followed by Dantley's 17 and 13 from Ben Poquette.

Vinnie Johnson topped the Seattle offense with 19, Jack Sikma came through with 14, Paul Westphal 13 and Freddie Brown and James Bailey each contributed 12.

The score was tied at 23 after one quarter of play and it was 50-50 at the half.

Seattle broke it open in the third period and then fought off the late Utah surge at the end.

Both teams shot well from the charity stripe, with Utah hitting 16 of 18 and the Sonics 14 of 18.

Both teams are now 3-3 for the season. Utah is in second place in the Midwest, 1 1/2-games behind San Antonio. Seattle is in fourth place in the Pacific Division, 2 1/2-games behind Los Angeles.

Luzinski, Green Have Different Views Of Bull's Role In Series

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Greg Luzinski is hurt and embarrassed.

Dallas Green says Luzinski is overreacting.

Whichever, Luzinski, the husky outfielder, and Green, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, appear poles apart.

In short, Luzinski feels he has not been treated with the respect due a player who in nine years with Philadelphia has made a major contribution to the team.

Green's attitude is, "What have you done for me lately?"

Lately, Luzinski is a 228 hitter and often has been sidelined for younger talent. He has spent a lot of time on the bench. He has had little communication with Green.

The latest incident occurred last week. Luzinski played in the first two World Series games, then came down with the flu. He ran a 103-degree temperature and did not travel with the team to Kansas City. He came the following day.

Green chose not to use Luzinski in the first two games in Kansas City and "Bull," as Luzinski is known, burned.

He did play in Game 5 Sunday, but was removed for a pinch runner Sunday. He is 0 for 5 in the three games he has been in.

"I am ready to play now and I was ready to play when I got here (Kansas City)," said Luzinski. "Nobody even asked me how I felt."

Green's reply to that was, "I got a medical staff for that. I don't ask players how they feel."

"I'm hurt (his feelings)," said Luzinski before the fifth Series game. "I feel I've contributed a lot in Philadelphia in the last nine years. It has hurt not being in there."

Luzinski says he can't help but read between the lines, and believes his days with the Phillies are numbered.

"If that's strong, well..." and Luzinski didn't finish his thought.

Green is incensed at Luzinski's public attitude. "I think it's typical 'Bull' reaction. He jumps to conclusions. There are really no facts to back up what he thinks," says the manager.

"I'm not saying we're going to peddle Luzinski, but we have to be objective and realistic. We have to look at what he can contribute in the future."

"We have to ask ourselves if he can stay sound. Can he hit like he did in the first part of the season. Is he willing to play the price (for success)?"

"I have to tell (personnel director) Paul Owens these things. Nobody loves Greg Luzinski like I do. But we're not falling back into that old syndrome of the tail wags the dog that this organization has experienced the past five years."

Green asked, "Isn't it time we looked for production, looked for that type play 162 games? After all, he (Luzinski) hit .228, not me."

Subtle Changes For Today Show Has Improved Status In Ratings

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — More noise in the morning. This time, it's from NBC, crowding about ratings ground regained from ABC. The "Today" — "Good Morning America" war droned on. ABC's "Good Morning America," the snappy, entertainment-oriented program, apparently peaked over the summer after a remarkable five-year rise that reshaped network morning programming. NBC landed a damaging blow in hiring "Good Morning's" Hollywood reporter, Rona Barrett. Miss Rona hasn't yet reported to work for "Today" (she will in January), but her absence on "Good Morning America" has been felt. "Today" has beaten or tied "Good Morning America" in the Nielsen ratings in five of six weeks since Sept. 1. Part of the reason has to be attributed to the absence of Rona Barrett, an immensely popular celebrity reporter (and celebrity-reporter), whose spot on the program has been taken by "Good Morning" people reporter Pat Collins.

Miss Collins is quite capable but less flamboyant in style and background than Miss Rona, and that sort of thing has come to count heavily among viewers these days. But "Today" has helped itself as well. Executive Producer Steve Friedman installed a new format this fall, organizing and pacing what had sometimes seemed to be an unwieldy two hours.

"The problem with 'Today' has been that people haven't tried to program it," says Friedman. "Used to be, you never knew when something was coming on. The Phil Donahue (a mini-talk show) segment would be used in different times, for example."

"But I view the 'Today' program as two different shows — one between 7 and 8, and another between 8 and 9. People who are rushing out to catch a train for work aren't interested in sitting down for 15 minutes of Donahue at 7:45. So, now it's programmed at 8:15 every time, for people who can sit down with their coffee and watch it."

Friedman also fixed a "Today" peculiarity, the tradition of showing most of the country the second hour first, followed by the first hour (both being taped live in New York for later time zones). There may once have been some good reason for this, but it is long lost in TV antiquity.

One morning two years ago, viewers in the west learned from the first hour of "Today" that Pope John-Paul I had died. An hour later, "Today" reported the Pope was critically ill. "I knew they had miracles in the Vatican," Friedman says, "but that was ridiculous."

To the credit of "Today," the show has made gains without straining too hard to make itself an exact duplicate of "Good Morning America." That is, it has so far. Miss Rona joins the crew in January.

Anchor Tom Brokaw, one of TV's best reporters, lends a news presence to the show that has not been overwhelmed by non-news influences. He was not the most enthusiastic supporter of the Rona hiring.

"But my attitude now is, we'll just have to wait and see how it works," Brokaw says. "To be frank with you, I haven't seen her in a long time, but I've had people tell me she's been way ahead on Hollywood news. Not gossip. She's stuck with an old image, scandals and that sort of thing."

George Merlis, "Good Morning" producer, claims he hasn't been keeping up with "Today's" advances.

"I don't watch their show. Sure, they watch mine. They're learning. They're copying. But I've never watched their show." Sounds a bit as if George is feeling some pressure.

"Not really," he maintains. "They must have felt it a lot more than we are now, having a 27-year head start, and then losing it. Naturally, we want to regain first place and I think we can do it."

Meanwhile, over at CBS, life in the morning remains simple. They do news and not much more on CBS' "Morning" show. It occurs to me that that is the way morning should be.

Last week we presented an excellent defense by the young Polish pair, Kudla-Milde. Here's another example of their expertise.

North-South were a Swedish pair of European champions. They reached a slightly aggressive contract of three no trump. That contract was made at some tables, but not against the accurate defense of the Poles.

West led the king of spades and continued with the queen to declarer's ace. The jack of hearts was finessed, losing to Milde's queen. He now made the farsighted play of a low diamond. Declarer won in dummy, cashed the king of hearts and led a diamond. Reading the hand perfectly, Milde rose with the ace of diamonds and then made the brilliant shift to the king of clubs! That protected against the possibility that South had started with a bare jack. Declarer won in dummy, but now he could not get off the table without allowing West to gain the lead and reel off his remaining spade tricks. Down three!

Note that if Milde allows declarer to win the second round of diamonds, the contract can be made. Declarer cashes his heart tricks and then exits with his remaining diamond honor. East must present declarer with two club tricks, allowing declarer to score one spade, four hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

As it was, declarer was finished when East played the club king. If South ducked this trick, East would revert to a red suit, and declarer would be stranded with a spade loser at the end. But at least that play would have saved two undertricks. East's thoughtful and imaginative defense, however, deserves the highest praise.

Puppet Theatre To Perform

Orchestra To Perform At Goldsboro

Assistant conductor Jackson Parkhurst will lead the North Carolina Symphony Chamber Orchestra in its first Goldsboro performance of the year Thursday, October 23, at 8 p.m. in Goldsboro High School East Auditorium.

Annette Damerou, violin, and Erik Dyke, double bass, will perform, Giovanni Bottesini's "Grand Duo Concertante for Violin and Double Bass." The remainder of the program will include Antonin Dvorak's "Czech Suite," Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "Overture to the Abduction from the Seraglio," Karl Ditters von Dittersdorf's "Tournament of the Temperaments," and Benjamin Britten's "Soyuzes Musicales."

Violinist Annette Damerou is in her second season with the symphony, double bass player Erik Dyke received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Michigan; he also attended the Aspen School of Music.

Jackson Parkhurst, North Carolina Symphony assistant conductor and director of education, was assistant conductor of the symphony from 1969-1971 and has been a guest conductor each season since 1977. Parkhurst founded the Brevard Chamber Orchestra four years ago, and in addition to his duties as its music director, has been music director of the Lexington Park String Ensemble and director of choral music at UNC-Asheville for the past year.

Close Vote On Child Custody

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has narrowly refused to hear an Illinois divorcee's claim that she was unjustly denied custody of her children for the sole reason that she was living with her boyfriend.

The nation's highest court on Monday also upheld the right of federal regulators to ban the use of Laetrile, the controversial apricot-pit derivative that supporters claim aids cancer victims.

The court fell only one vote shy of getting involved in a lower court ruling that Jacqueline Jarrett's living arrangement jeopardized the "moral and spiritual well-being" of her three daughters.

The Illinois courts awarded custody of the children to the woman's ex-husband, who successfully argued that by breaking a state law against unmarried couples living together, Mrs. Jarrett had become unfit for custody.

In a strong objection, Justices Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. said the case "has important implications for many households," claiming that there are at least 1.1 million couples living together out of wedlock. Also voting to hear the case was Justice Harry A. Blackmun.

Four justices must consent for the Supreme Court to accept a case. The vote against considering the Illinois decision was 6-3.

"Nothing in the record or in logic supports a conclusion that divorced parents who fornicate, for that reason alone, are unfit or adversely affect the well-being and development of their children," any more than divorce and separation, Brennan said in voting to hear the ruling of the Illinois

Supreme Court. Fornication is a legal term to describe sexual relations between persons who are not married to each other.

The justices without comment also left intact a federal appeals court ruling that terminally ill cancer patients do not have a constitutional right to use Laetrile.

The ruling allows the Food and Drug Administration to continue its ban against the controversial substance.

Last year, the Supreme Court ruled that the FDA can ban the interstate shipment of Laetrile. But that decision left unanswered the question of whether terminally ill cancer victims have a right — based on their constitutional right to privacy — to use the substance.

FDA spokesman Wayne Pines said the ruling would have no immediate impact. However, he said the agency now would try to dismantle a special system approved by a federal court in Oklahoma under which some cancer patients may apply for permission to obtain and use Laetrile. Pines said the agency also would allow four clinical tests of the substance to proceed, to determine whether Laetrile has any medicinal value.

In other action Monday, the Supreme Court:

—Agreed to consider the limits of federal civil rights suits brought by inmates against prison officials.

—Agreed to decide the scope of an individual's right to sue alleged water polluters.

—Refused to sidetrack a federal court trial in which Los Angeles must defend its police against charges of routinely using deadly force.

LOOKING OVER THE RUINS — Investigators and press in crane look over the wreckage of an industrial helicopter which crashed Monday on the roof of a City of Industry, Calif. furniture store, killing one workman but causing no other injuries. The helicopter apparently lost power while it was attempting to lower a heavy air conditioning unit onto the roof. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW HEARING? — A federal court ruled Monday that Patricia Hearst Shaw, the kidnapped newspaper heiress and former Symbionese Liberation Army fugitive, is entitled to a new hearing in her legal battle to overturn a bank robbery conviction. (AP Laserphoto)

Amy Jo As House Guest

HENDERSONVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — If Amy Jo Kee is a little more excited than usual about sleeping over at a friend's house, she can hardly be blamed. After all, how many fifth graders get to stay overnight at the White House?

Amy Jo, 10, received word Monday that she and her parents are to have dinner at the White House on Friday before spending the night at the home of the president. They'll be the guests of Amy Carter and her sister-in-law, Annette Carter, because the president will be out on the campaign trail and first lady Rosalynn Carter will be returning about midnight from an out-of-town trip.

The visit came about after Amy Jo asked President Carter during a campaign appearance in Nashville if his daughter ever invited friends to the White House.

The president said yes, and then asked if she would like to spend the night there with Amy. Amy and Annette Carter met with Amy Jo when they were in Nashville for the Country Music Association awards last week, and the two girls hit it off well enough for Amy to follow through on the invitation.

Cars Collide On Memorial

Charlie Clinton Green of Route 3, Greenville, was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 250 feet south of the Stantonsburg Road intersection yesterday.

Police Department investigators reported the Green truck collided with a car driven by Gwendolyn Mae Foreman of Route 8, Greenville, resulting in an estimated $3,000 damage to the truck and $1,800 damage to the Foreman car.

Huey Newton Is Still Bitter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Huey Newton, the beret-wearing black militant whose clwshes with authorities brought him to New Left fame, says FBI "dirty tricks" against him "were strictly Hitlerite, but I didn't expect anything more ... from the United States."

Newton, co-founder of the Black Panther Party, said the FBI tactics — which included anonymous telephone calls, forged letters and attempts to recruit black journalists as informers — "really damaged my character and the party to the extent of nearly destroying the party. It's not the national organization it once was."

The tactics were revealed in FBI documents released to lawyers for a former New York Panthers leader and reported in the New York Times and the Daily News. Newton also said he had obtained FBI memos.

Warns Of Rise In Traffic Fatalities

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's switch to fuel-efficient smaller cars is bringing with it a curse of increasing highway fatalities, a safety expert has warned.

"There has probably never been a single event that will have a significant or long-lasting effect on highway safety as the energy shortage," Robert J. Campbell, director of the Highway Safety Research Center of the University of North Carolina, said Monday.

Campbell, during a meeting of the National Safety Congress & Exposition, said the nation's accident death rate per 100 miles of travel has increased for three consecutive years only twice in the nation's history — in the early 1960s and during the last three years.

The common factor in both those periods was that motorists "were seriously starting to use small cars," he said.

Campbell said small cars provide less protection for their riders.

Another speaker was Lorenzo Casanova, associate administrator, for safety in the Federal Highway Administration. He said the Transportation Department is exploring increases in federal motor fuel taxes and licensing fees to finance safety programs better.

He said the National Highway Traffic Safety Foundation has predicted the small car in traffic could cause more than 5,500 additional fatalities annually by 1986, wiping out gains produced by the 55-mph speed limit.

"In 1979, small cars made up only 38 percent of the automobiles on the road, but accounted for a disproportionate 55 percent of fatalities in two-car col-

VISITED HEADQUARTERS

The fifth grade class of Mrs. Jane Reel at Falkland Elementary School visited both the Democratic and Republican campaign headquarters Monday as part of their study of the 1980 presidential and gubernatorial election.

They also followed this up with a visit to the Daily Reflector to find out how votes are tabulated and reported to the public.

lisions," he said.

The conference is sponsored by the Chicago-based National Safety Council.

Put On Paid Leave For Awarding State Lease

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State mental health director Ben W. Aiken and two other veteran employees of the Department of Human Resources were placed on leave, with pay, Monday while the department studies their roles in the awarding of a state lease and food contract to a Wilson rest home.

Aiken and the other two state employees were named in a suit filed last week by the state that accused them of helping a private rest home operator to "unfairly obtain a favorable lease and food service contract" from the Department of Human Resources in late 1975 and early 1976.

The suit alleged that they acted as agents for Wilson Community Rest Home Inc. in obtaining the lease of a wing at the North Carolina Speciality Care Center in Wilson for use as a private rest home. The rest home also obtained a food service contract from the hospital.

In addition to Aiken, those placed on leave Monday by Human Resources Secretary Sarah Morrow were Joseph Gilbert Doby, 46, director of the Wilson hospital, and Conrad Taylor, 53, chief of the construction section of the department's facility services division.

Dr. Morrow said the three men were "currently on leave with pay for 30 days so that we can determine the appropriate action to be taken in this matter."

She signed the state's suit, but said Monday there was "very little time to completely review all these things prior to the time that the suit was filed."

The suit contends that terms of the lease and the food service contract were "grossly unfair" to the state.

Dr. Morrow said the department would look at the records of Aiken, Doby and Taylor and "recognize that they have been in public service for a long time."

A department spokesman said Aiken had worked for the state for 32 years, Doby for 22 years and Taylor for 15 years.

The suit was based on information collected by

SCHOOL MEETING

A. G. Cox Grammar School is having its first Title I PAC meeting Thursday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Parents of Title I and non-Title I students are invited. The purpose of the meeting is to better inform parents in the community of the Title I programs operating within their school and to ask for their suggestions and support. Chairperson Dorothy Stancill said.

Raleigh attorney William L. Thorp, who was hired by the governor's office in May to review an SBI investigation of the lease and food contract.

Gary Pearce, the governor's press secretary, said Monday that Thorp has billed the state $23,000 for his firm's work.

"We will seek to recover all the attorney fees (from the defendants)," Pearce said.

ROBBERY OCCURS

Greenville police are continuing their investigation of a strong arm robbery on First Street yesterday about 1 p.m., Chief Glenn Cannon said today.

According to Cannon, Beverly Jeanne Holt, 21 of 802 Willow St., told investigators that she was walking along First Street, between Library and Harding Streets, when a man on a motorcycle pulled up beside her, kicked her on her leg, and grabbed her purse as she fell.

The chief said the purse contained no money.

Morgan Predicts He Will Carry 93 N.C. Counties

By The Associated Press

Democratic Sen. Robert Morgan, expressing confidence that "I'm not in trouble," predicted Monday that he will carry 93 of North Carolina's counties in the Nov. 4 election.

Morgan, who is seeking election to a second term in the Senate, told supporters in Wilmington that his polls show he leads Republican challenger John East of Greenville by 25 percentage points.

"I know I'm not in trouble. I can't see where my opponent has picked up," Morgan said.

Morgan started a two-day eastern campaign swing with a breakfast and a news conference in Wilmington, stops in Jacksonville and Pollocksville and a rally in New Bern Monday night.

East remained in his Greenville office, making private telephone contacts. However, a spokesman for The Congressional Club — the organization running East's campaign — publicly criticized two newspapers for editorials about the Senate race.

Congressional Club leader Tom Ellis accused The News and Observer of Raleigh and The Charlotte Observer of "not telling the truth about John East's campaign for the U.S. Senate" and of "resorting to outright misstatements in their editorials."

Ellis also criticized other newspapers in general and The Associated Press for stories — or the lack of stories — following his news conference last week.

Ellis said The AP failed to provide in its story an account of the documents from the Congressional Record that he had distributed to reporters. Those reprints were intended to document what East and Ellis say is Morgan's voting record.

Later, Ellis acknowledged that the AP story did contain a reference to what he said was documentation of Morgan's votes against the B-1 bomber and other issues.

In other races, Gov. Jim Hunt spent most of Monday in his office. His Republican opponent, I. Beverly Lake Jr. told listeners in Durham that state government is moving toward socialism.

Lake criticized what he said was a trend toward increased size of government and increased government interference in the lives of its citizens.

"This is the trend. The trend is purely socialistic," Lake said. "Let's call it what it is. The trend is to move everything toward the government, including a higher and higher, ever increasing percentage of people being employed in government, as compared to the private sector."

"This is wrong. If we have any hope of preserving the free enterprise system, it's the wrong way to go," he added.

Asked if he considered Hunt a socialist, Lake said, "I don't know whether you'd classify him as a socialist, but he's clearly in favor of bigger government."

Ellis made his accusations against the newspapers at a news conference in Raleigh.

Ellis produced a large chart on which was reprinted one paragraph from a News and Observer editorial published last Saturday. The paragraph read, "As the incumbent, Morgan has also received some PAC (political action committee) contributions, but nothing on the order of East's."

Ellis produced news stories from two other newspapers that showed Morgan received more money than East from political action committees. The AP reported Friday that Morgan's federal campaign finance reports showed he received $119,730 from PACs this year, and that East had reported receiving $72,211 from PACs this year.

Aiken and the other two state employees were named in a suit filed last week by the state that accused them of helping a private rest home operator to "unfairly obtain a favorable lease and food service contract" from the Department of Human Resources in late 1975 and early 1976.

The suit alleged that they acted as agents for Wilson Community Rest Home Inc. in obtaining the lease of a wing at the North Carolina Speciality Care Center in Wilson for use as a private rest home. The rest home also obtained a food service contract from the hospital.

In addition to Aiken, those placed on leave Monday by Human Resources Secretary

Sarah Morrow were Joseph Gilbert Doby, 46, director of the Wilson hospital, and Conrad Taylor, 53, chief of the construction section of the department's facility services division.

Dr. Morrow said the three men were "currently on leave with pay for 30 days so that we can determine the appropriate action to be taken in this matter."

She signed the state's suit, but said Monday there was "very little time to completely review all these things prior to the time that the suit was filed."

The suit contends that terms of the lease and the food service contract were "grossly unfair" to the state.

Dr. Morrow said the department would look at the records of Aiken, Doby and Taylor and "recognize that they have been in public service for a long time."

A department spokesman said Aiken had worked for the state for 32 years, Doby for 22 years and Taylor for 15 years. The suit was based on information collected by Raleigh attorney William L. Thorp, who was hired by the governor's office in May to review an SBI investigation of the lease and food contract.

Gary Pearce, the governor's press secretary, said Monday that Thorp has billed the state $23,000 for his firm's work.

"We will seek to recover all the attorney fees (from the defendants)," Pearce said.

Sentenced For Smuggling Role

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Salvadoran and a Mexican have been sentenced to five years in jail for their roles in an alien-smuggling attempt that led to the deaths of 13 people in the desert last July.

Sentenced on Monday were Elias Nunez Guardado, 26, of El Salvador, and Mateo Preciado Navarro, 54, of Sonora, Mexico, both of whom had pleaded guilty to federal anti-smuggling charges. Another Salvadoran, Santos Flores Elias, 22, is scheduled for sentencing Nov. 3.

Fourteen Salvadorans and Mexicans survived the July 4 weekend desert trek, but 13 others died after being lost near Ajo.

Commission To Consider Various Items

Four rezoning requests are among 12 items of business scheduled for consideration Wednesday night by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions.

The joint board will consider two items, involving a request by the Susie T. Rollins heirs for rezoning five acres located west of Carolina East Mall and the county garage from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, and a request for a change in the name of Beth Drive in Lindbeth Subdivision to Lindbeth Drive.

Business on the city agenda includes: request of Bill Clark for rezoning 3.7 acres in Tree Hill Subdivision located west of Brownlea Drive and south of Maplewood Subdivision from R-9 to R-6; request of Emma Turner Olsen for rezoning 51 acres at the corner of Arlington Boulevard and Memorial Drive from R-6 to Highway Commercial.

Request of Phil Carroll for rezoning 2.3 acres north of Greenville Boulevard on the south side of David Drive from Shopping Center to Office and Institutional; revised preliminary plat of Section I of Fairlane Farms, located west of Hooker Road; preliminary plat of Twin Oaks Towne Homes, located north of 14th Street adjacent to Twin Oaks Subdivision;

Preliminary plat of Hahn and White Subdivision, located on the east side of Evans Street between Plaza Drive and Red Banks Road; consideration of a request to change the name of a section of Farmville Boulevard, from 14th Avenue to Davenport Street, to Donovan Lane; consideration of parking lot design for A.B. Whitley Inc. on 14th Avenue; soil erosion and control plan for Twin Oaks Towne Homes; and soil erosion and control plan for Section II of Orchard Hill.

Say Disease Killing Deer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State wildlife biologists said Monday a viral disease has killed about 100 deer — including 60 in Bladen County — in 13 eastern North Carolina counties in recent days.

Called epizootic hemorrhagic disease, the virus affects an animal's digestive system and causes internal bleeding, lesions and high fever.

Biologist J. Scott Osborne of Seaboard said Monday there was no danger to humans who eat deer infected by the virus.

The virus is transmitted by biting insects and has a mortality rate of 10 percent to 20 percent.

Osborne said the virus, which has struck North Carolina deer herds on five previous occasions since 1949, usually disappears after the first frost.

In addition to Bladen, the virus has been reported in Northampton, Sampson, Halifax, Warren, Bertie, Pender, Granville, Gates, Franklin, Scotland and Hoke counties.

Partial Closing Of Bridge Set

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Transportation Department said Monday vehicular traffic across the Cape Fear Memorial Bridge at Wilmington will be closed nightly for four days starting Friday for maintenance work.

The bridge will be closed between the hours of 9 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. so that 64 cables used to raise and lower the bridge's vertical span can be lubricated.

Normal vehicular traffic will be maintained during all other hours.
