Heavy Voter Turnout By North Carolinians Seen

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer Heavy voter turnout was the scene across the state Tuesday morning as Tar Heel voters cast their ballots for national, state and local candidates.

State elections officials have predicted a heavy turnout — perhaps the highest vote ever — in the state's 2,341 precincts. State Elections Board Director has predicted that 1.7 million or 62 percent of the state's 2.8 million registered voters will cast their ballots in this election.

Polls opened at 6:30 a.m. and will close at 7:30 p.m. except in Guilford County, where they will be open until 8:30 p.m.

Rain was forecast for much of the state Tuesday, and officials said earlier bad weather may keep many voters at home. But by mid morning, the weather seemed to be having little effect on balloting.

In Greensboro, under rainy skies, election board officials described voter turnout as heavy. Long lines were reported in some of the area's polling places, with waits up to an hour. Traffic jams were reported, especially around schools that were used as polling places, and police said they were considering calling for extra help for handling traffic.

In Asheboro, election officials said voters were "turning out in goodly numbers." One poll worker said she had not had time to make a cup of coffee all morning because of heavy voter traffic.

The story was the same in the Asheville area, where poll workers described voter lines as long and turnout "extremely heavy."

Heavy voter turnout also was the story during the morning in Jacksonville, where officials estimated that 20 percent of registered voters cast their ballots in the first two hours.

In the Nash-Edgecombe county area, officials said voter turnout was "heavier than we've ever seen before." A few minor voting-machine problems were reported, but officials said they caused only slight delays.

However, in Wilson County technical difficulties forced the polls to close only three hours after they opened. Officials said polls were shut down to correct a mechanical error that prevented voters from casting ballots that split parties in some races.

Officials in Wilson County said they hoped to have the polling places open again by mid morning. Polling hours were extended to 8:30 p.m.

Vote-Casting Time

VOTING EARLY — this morning at Gardner Fire Station, Greenville Precinct Nine, were Mayor and Mrs. Don McGlohon, who joined many other local residents in casting their ballots during the first hours of poll activity. Early indications were that voter turnout was heavy. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Brisk Voting

Pre-election day forecasts of a heavy voter turnout appeared to be reliable as most of the city and county's polling sites reported steady activity this morning.

As of approximately 10 a.m., just over 8,000 residents had visited the polls in Greenville and Pitt County or roughly 23 percent of the total county registration of 35,147, according to Margaret Register at the Pitt Board of Election.

With 22 of the 24 precincts reporting, some 8,030 persons had been recorded at the polling sites as activity was brisk in the first hours after polls opened for the day.

Precinct totals reported to the elections office included: Ayden, 651; Arthur, 150; Belvoir, 210; Bethel, 350; Carolina, 163; Chicod, 255; Falkland, 101; Farmville, 713; Gritton, 388; Simpson, 305; Pactolus, 132; Swift Creek, 107; Winterville, 654; Greenville One, 192; Three, 228; Four, 318; Five, 774; Six, 255; Seven, 597; Eight, 471; Nine, 542; and Ten, 484.

Carter And Reagan Wait Like Rest Of The Nation

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Their long, sometimes bitter campaign over, President Carter and Ronald Reagan could only cast their ballots and wait today for a troubled nation to decide the outcome of the one of the most closely fought elections in recent times.

On the first anniversary of the capture of American hostages in Iran, one of the darkest moments in his presidency, Carter returned to Plains, Ga., early today and voted in the old brick high school of his hometown. "I think it's very close," he told reporters.

Asked if he expected to win the election, Carter replied: "I hope so. We'll see. I've always felt confident. I've always come out well." He said the size of the voter turnout would be a big factor in the outcome.

While Carter gave emotional thanks to supporters who rallied at the Plains railroad depot, Reagan, his Republican challenger, awaited the voters' decision at his oceanfront home at Los Angeles.

The 24 registered voters in Dixville Notch, N.H., traditionally the first to cast their votes for president on Election Day, gave Reagan a 17-3 lead over Carter shortly after midnight. Independent candidate John B. Anderson got two votes, Libertarian candidate Ed Clark got one and one ballot was left blank.

"I hope it's the forerunner of things to come," Reagan said in Los Angeles before going to bed. But Dixville Notch has voted for the loser in every presidential election since 1960, with the exception of 1972.

After months of Reagan's harping on Carter's handling of the economy and the president's hints that Reagan could start a war, the final days of their campaign were dominated by swiftly moving events in Tehran that encouraged speculation that the ordeal of the 52 American hostages soon may end.

No one could say how those events would affect the outcome of the presidential race, and the candidates reacted cautiously.

Muskie Warns Hostage Release Will Take Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund

S. Muskie today welcomed an announcement in Iran that militants would yield control of the 52 American hostages to the Tehran government.

But Muskie said that despite several encouraging developments, ending their year-long captivity "will require time, patience and diplomacy."

He also reaffirmed President Carter's pledge that any U.S. decisions will be consistent with "our national honor and vital interests."

In a statement, Muskie said it was in the U.S. interest for the Iranian government to assume direct responsibility for the hostages' well-being and security.

He also confirmed that Algeria is playing a role in the negotiations with Iran and said Deputy Secretary Warren M. Christopher had met here with Redha Malek, the Algerian ambassador.

Muskie welcomed the North African country's participation and reports from Tehran that the Iranian government had formed a "working group" to implement the parliament's decision setting terms for the Americans' release.

"There has been progress," Muskie said. "However, much remains to be done. We will continue to pursue our goals with patience, diligence and determination."

He took no questions from reporters in the State Department's briefing room. But department spokesman John H. Trattner dismissed criticism of the administration's negotiating strategy.

Sale Of Student-Built House For $68,000 Is OK'd By School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer Acceptance of the $68,000 top bid for purchase of the J. H. Rose High School Live Project House was approved at the November information meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education Monday night.

The bid, made at a public auction October 23, had remained open ten days in the event an upset bid was received. Since no upset bid was tendered, the board voted approval of the top auction bid. Board member Terry Shank voted against accepting the $68,000 figure. The pre-sale appraisal for the house was $62,000.

Superintendent Glenn Cox noted that the house, the fifth to be constructed by Rose High School trade and industrial students, was not carpeted and did not have soft tile installed — which, if done, would have added an additional several thousand dollars to the appraisal value of the house — and would have at the same time added to the construction cost.

Cox reported that since the first Live Project house constructed in 1970, Rose students had constructed four additional houses. The total cost of construction for the five, has amounted to $122,269, and the sale auction prices of the five has totaled $159,900. "All proceeds go back to the project," Cox stated.

Member Dr. Jon Tingelstad commented "the construction and successful sale of this house, and those before is a tribute to the fine work these students are doing. I think the group deserves a commendation."

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

SUCCESS!

Rebecca Starkey of the Pitt County Department of Social Services reports that the recent Hotline appeal for a home for a mildly retarded boy needing to come out of an institution has been eminently successful. "We have found a wonderful woman, experienced in the care of the special children, who wants to give him a home," she said. "We couldn't be more pleased."

WHO IS COUPLE?

On WITN news a couple of weeks ago there was a report of a fire which destroyed the trailer home of an elderly couple in the Swan Point community, wherever that is. I can't get them off my mind and would like to help them in some way. If Hotline will find out who are, I will do just that. N. H.

Hotline called WITN news editor Roy Hardee who said that Lou Harned's story on the fire at the trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Carson brought an unbelievably heart-warming response from viewers. Swan Point is about five miles east of Washington, he said.

He referred us to Capt. Herman Cutler of the Bunyon Fire Department, which answered the fire call. Cutler told us that V. P. Brinson Sr., Sunnyside, Washington, N. C. 27889 is accepting gifts on behalf of the Carsons. Inquiries may be made by calling a relative of the Carsons, J. A. Campbell, 946-3374.

Rent Schedule Is Revised By Housing Auth.

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer Housing Authority commissioners gave their approval last night to a revised rent range schedule aimed at allowing the authority to maintain required fiscal responsibility.

Joe Laney, executive director, explained that the old schedule, adopted in 1977, provided an average unit rent per month of $68.60 and that range is not adequate now to meet financial solvency guidelines required by law. Laney said the new range will up the monthly average to $96.79.

The director pointed out that the authority is required by law to take in at least 25 percent of the total income of a tenant. The rent ranges help to maintain an economic mix in the various projects, he added.

The revised schedule reflects income brackets of zero to $52, $53-$103, $104-$155, $156-$206, and $207 and up. Under the schedule, a certain number of units are available in each range.

In other business, Laney discussed the status of the authority's three Section Eight programs. He said that the new University Towers mid-rise for the elderly is just getting into management with all 60 units now occupied. Laney reported that the project appears to be off to a good start financially.

The agency's existing housing program under the Section Eight guidelines now reflects 58 units out of an authorized 77 now leased, with five more lease executions scheduled for this week. Under the Section Eight moderate rehabilitation program, 28 of the 75 units authorized for the city are "now in the works" as far as bringing them up to standards, Laney said, and two proposals have been received for 16 units. The Department of Housing and Urban Development approved last month the annual contributions contract for the local program.

Pinned In Wrecked Car

WRECK TRAPS MAN — Members of the Winterville Rescue Squad use the Hurst Rescue Tool to free a man trapped in his small foreign car after a wreck at the intersection of N.C. 11 and Main Street outside Winterville yesterday. According to Trooper D. R. Taylor, a car driven by Nina Hough Worthington, of Main St., Winterville was headed south on N.C. 11 and made a left turn into the path and collided with a northbound car driven by Gary Eugene Gillikin, of Gritton. Taylor said Gillikin was pinned under the car for about 30 minutes. Taylor said initial medical examinations indicated Gillikin suffered a broken leg, and minor cuts and bruises. The investigator stated Ms. Worthington received only slight injuries. Ms. Worthington, according to Taylor, was charged with failing to yield the right of way. Members of the Ayden Rescue Squad and Winterville Fire Department also assisted the Winterville squad at the accident scene. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Members To Assist Schools

Members of the Greenville Service League will extend their Bloodmobile volunteer services by helping the Red Cross with the Pitt County School visits.

The vote was made at the November meeting of the League. The next Bloodmobile visit will be Nov. 12 at Procter and Gamble and Dec. 3 at Empire Brush. The report was made by Mrs. Frank Steinbeck Jr.

President Mrs. Robert VanVeld presided at the meeting which included other reports: Mrs. Eugene Furth, Emergency Charity, received two requests. Mrs. J. Bryan Brown received three calls for the Laughinghouse Fund.

Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. Charles Wilkerson Jr. reported Halloween favors were made and placed in the pediatrics department. Mrs. Howard Dawkins received four requests for layettes.

Mrs. John Guy requested members to bring gifts to the next meeting for Operation Santa Claus.

Fall Forum To Be Held In Raleigh

RALEIGH - "Priorities in Social Legislation - 1981" is the theme of the fall forum sponsored by the N. C. Council of Women's Organizations. The forum will be held in the Wainwright Music Building, Meredith College campus.

The forum will be held Saturday and will begin at 9:45 a.m. Issues to be discussed will be health education in the schools, expanded library services, permanent homes for children in foster care, hunger and nutrition, protection of older adults in group care and alternatives to imprisonment.

The issues will be presented by Mrs. Ann Frazier, Dr. Annette Phinazee, Ms. Florrie Glasser, Miss Isabelle Buckley and H. G. Moeller, professor of correction services, ECU, Greenville.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and a fee of $10 will include a continental breakfast and lunch.

The N. C. Council of Women's Organizations serves as a clearing house for women's organizations in North Carolina and provides an opportunity for women's organizations to plan and work together on matters of mutual concern.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement. Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to "The Daily Reflector" one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

With all due respect to the facts you pointed out - that female officers are intelligent, courageous, hardworking and had to go through the same rigorous training as the men - familiarity does invite intimacy.

WISCONSIN COP'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: It's obvious that you aren't married to a policeman. I was, but we're divorced now, and now I know why the divorce rate among policemen is the highest of any profession.

The temptations put in the average policeman's way are too much for any man to resist. And the way policemen cover up for each other is not to be believed! Because of the nature of their work, they can easily get "lost" for an hour or two, and they always have a buddy who will cover for them.

Abby, policemen can find enough women to fool around with on their own without being assigned to one in the line of duty. Also, a policeman's chances for survival are a lot better if he has a 6-foot, 200-pound man as a back-up rather than a 5-2, 110-pound woman.

DUTCH RAISIN SPICE CAKE - It's a hearty loaf that tastes wonderful with coffee. If you like, you can give it a decorative confectioners' sugar topping.

This Cake Has Dutch Ancestry

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

Diana Schwalb has been enjoying her mother's Dutch Raisin Spice Cake since she was a little girl. When she was old enough to do so, she learned to bake the cake. It's the hearty sort of loaf that tastes wonderful with a cup of coffee.

Diana knew the cake recipe had been handed down in her mother's family for several generations, but it was only recently she found it may go back 150 years. That's when the first member of her mother's family came from Holland to settle in Columbia County, bordering the Hudson River in New York State. Diana's mother, Pearl Simmons Schwalb, was the first member of her family to marry someone not of Dutch descent.

When I asked Diana how she had done all this tracking back, she said she had been tracing her family tree. She searched through state and county records, guided by a book on finding family roots.

Diana's family lives in Hudson, N.Y., and the Dutch Raisin Spice Cake is a favorite with their neighbors and friends. Diana, who lives and works in New York City, bakes the cake as a treat for her friends.

- DUTCH RAISIN SPICE CAKE
- 1 cup raisins, coarsely chopped
  - 1 cup water
  - 2 cups all-purpose flour
  - 1 teaspoon baking soda
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
  - 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
  - 1/2 cup butter, at room temperature
  - 1 1/4 cups sugar
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1 large egg

Line the bottom of a 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan with wax paper; grease paper.

In a small saucepan bring the raisins and water to a boil; simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Strain raisins over a measure, reserving liquid; cool raisins and reserve. Set aside 1/2 cup of the reserved liquid to cool; if there is not enough to make this amount, add cold water; if there is more than this amount, discard the extra liquid.

On wax paper or in a bowl, stir together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer cream the butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in the egg until blended. Stir in half the flour mixture until blended; stir in 1/4 cup of the raisin liquid until blended; stir in the remaining flour mixture and raisin liquid in the same way. Fold in the reserved raisins. Turn into the prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean - 50 to 55 minutes. Place cake in pan on a wire rack; let cool for 10 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out on the wire rack; turn right side up on the rack; cool completely and slice at once if you like. Store the cake tightly wrapped in saran or tightly closed in a plastic bag in the refrigerator. Keeps well for at least 2 weeks.

Dinner Given Couple On 50th Anniversary

In honor of their 50th wedding anniversary, the children and grandchildren of Charlie and Beatrice Dupree gave them a celebration dinner Saturday, Oct. 25, at Wellcome Middle School.

The Duprees were married Oct. 23, 1930. Mrs. Dupree wore a pink gown with matching lace jacket.

Mrs. Rosa Reaves was mistress of ceremonies. Prayer was led by Deacon Herbert Harris. Anton Wesley read scripture. Mrs. Hattie Vines, daughter of the couple, gave the welcome and Mrs. Minerva Freeman, also a daughter, introduced the speaker, Capt. Douglas Dupree, son of the couple. He spoke on open communication and cohesiveness in maintaining an effective marital relationship. Miss Viola Vines, Deacon Roy Gorham and Mrs. Mammie R. Gorham brought words of love from friends.

Andrew J. Maye called the family roll. There are nine children: Charlie Dupree Jr., Mrs. Norice Knight, Mrs. Hattie Vines, Mrs. Amanda Vines, Mrs. Joyce Redd, Cecil Dupree, Mrs. Minerva Freeman, Douglas Dupree and Lois Dupree. The couple has 17 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The Rev. J. H. Hyman said grace, followed by a buffet dinner prepared by Charles Gatlin. The cutting of the anniversary cake followed dinner. A special gift pres-

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

They laughed, a few years ago when I wrote that napping would soon replace jogging. But hang on, little pot-bellied food junkies with two-inch tendons. We're getting there.

A banner headline recently in the L.A. Times proclaimed, "Fitness Craze Slows to a Walk."

They're talking now about 50 million people who are taking to the streets walking for their health. They're saying that jogging a mile in 8 1/2 minutes burns only 26 more calories than walking a mile in 12 minutes. They're saying this fall an avalanche of books will hit the bookshelves telling you where to walk, how much to walk, what to wear, the psychological benefits of walking and what it does for your body.

I'll survive the new craze. I always do. I'll watch my husband come in each morning from walking ten miles and when I ask, "Could you get the paper at the end of the drive?" he'll snap, "Without stretching first? Are you crazy?"

I'll sit around at cocktail parties while people quote Henry David Thoreau who wrote, "Two or three hours of walking will carry me to as strange a country as I ever expect to see." (Could you trust a man who talks to trees?)

I'll endure the amusing little stories about how a prostitute won the Boston Walkathon but was disqualified when it was discovered she was a professional streetwalker.

When I am cornered by a walking nut who walks 200 miles a week and tells me he's going to walk a big one in San Diego, I'll resist asking, "You flying to San Diego? Or walking?"

I read somewhere you cannot uncook a new trend until its time. And our time is coming. I don't know when it will come... maybe as we nod on the sofa during the 6 o'clock news... or maybe as our heads jerk up during a dull speech... but the physical decadents of this land will have their day. Trust me.

And then we can recline in a Big Boy Lounger as we quote Lincoln: "All I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my mother who napped a lot."

We can counsel the people who wear the wrong clothes to nap in, don't nap regularly, or get discouraged when they can't fall asleep right away.

When we can work it in, we'll go on talk shows and tell how much more energy we have since we began napping. But mostly, the thing I'll enjoy the most is seeing a physically fit walker try to join our cult. By the time he gets out of shape, we'll be into another trend.

For a little bit of Russian mixed in with American, Sitka is the place. Sitka was the capital of Russian Alaska for many years and there is still a section of town called "Old Russian Sitka". Alaska's oldest museum, the Sheldon Jackson, is located there. It contains some of the finest native arts and crafts. There is also an historical park that shows the site of the Battle of Sitka between the Russian, Alexander Baranof and the Tlingit Indians. St. Michael's Cathedral was built in the 1850's. You will also be able to see Tlingit Indians practicing their native dances.

No Secret Deals?

It appears at long last that the Iranians are at least ready to negotiate for the release of the American diplomats they kidnapped.

We doubt that they will actually be released by the time this is read, and by that time whatever effects the development will have on the U. S. presidential election will already have been recorded.

The candidates and their supporters behaved well in the face of the Iranian action. On the surface, at least, there was no effort to make political hay from it.

It was a tricky issue, and one that could have backfired on either candidate.

We hope that no secret promises have been made to Iran.

It is acceptable to unfreeze Iranian assets which are held by this country. Possibly also the war goods which were bound for Iran when the kidnapping took place could be allowed to proceed.

Whether the U. S. can return the shah's wealth is questionable. And whether law suits brought by American companies which suffered contract breaches can be stopped is also questionable.

We don't believe the American public will stand for paying ransom to Iran, and we expect the entire Arab world will be enraged if the United States starts a steady stream of war goods to Iran.

Everyone wants the hostages returned, and we have to make every effort in that direction, but giving too much can destroy our own prestige and turn a large part of the Middle East against us.

Jamaica Turns From Cuba

As communists move to take over one nation after another, it is refreshing to see Jamaica vote out Cuba-leaning leadership and elect a free enterprise prime minister.

The Jamaicans elected Edward Seaga who says he will restore economic growth and send the Cuban ambassador back to Havana.

If free elections were allowed we wonder how many communist ruled nations would return to private enterprise systems. We suspect quite a few.

Involved Churches

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — In all the recent shouting nationally and in this state about Fundamentalists or Evangelical Christians getting involved in politics, the fact that Christians have long been involved in politics seems to have been largely overlooked.

As things get into gear in Raleigh for the 1981 General Assembly, a notice from the North Carolina Council of Churches reminds that it is time to put its Legislative Information/Action Network back into working order.

The Council of Churches is a highly respected organization which has been around for years, conducting seminars, studying matters of state policy and legislative proposals, making recommendations, and lobbying vigorously.

The Council's lobbying techniques are as effective and modern as any to be found in the State Capital, using a network of members all across the state who talk to decision-makers at home, at church, at work, or at the country club.

There are 27 denominations represented in the Council of Churches. A statement of what the group hopes to accomplish with its legislative program is enlightening in view of the opposition currently being voiced against Christian involvement in state affairs.

Power
"The Legislative Program of the North Carolina Council of Churches is an instrument for relating the ethical concerns of the Christian community to issues of public policy at the state level.

"Its purpose is to help Christian people to exercise the power of their citizenship in behalf of justice and compassion in the public sector.

"The program is an ecumenical effort which gives primary attention to the agencies of state government, particularly the Legislature."

BILL NOBLITT

The Council of Churches maintains offices in Raleigh, with professional employees who keep in touch with state agency activities and lobby the General Assembly. The unit does research, issues regular information newsletters, mobilizes people for concerted action, and conducts workshops and seminars on legislative issues and effective means of influencing decisions.

The unit has a Commission on Social Ministries with various committees which identify issues and develop strategy and positions for consideration by the House of Delegates which, in turn, determines the posture of the Council on specific matters.

Among the goals of the state Council of Churches are ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, alternatives to imprisonment for non-dangerous offenders, a statewide public defender system, compensation for victims of violent crime, permanent homes for foster children, extended Food Stamp aid for the poor, expanded aid to families with dependent children "to make possible a decent and humane subsistence."

Two Views
In general, those familiar with the work of the Council of Churches characterize its stance as progressive—even liberal.

Other Editors Say Drown In Paper

(High Point Enterprise)

Forgive the poor social worker who looks too busy and frustrated to tend to his clients. He or she has probably got paperwork to do.

Probably a mountain of paperwork to do. Private industry complains its cost of doing business climbs constantly because of government regulations and mandated record-keeping. But that's apparently nothing compared to what government makes itself do.

Social service workers in this state are a case in point. They claim that a third of their working time — figure about 13 hours a week — is taken in filling out forms for Raleigh.

What does Raleigh do with all the information set down on those forms? It keeps armies of computers and bureaucrats well fed.

It isn't just the volume of paperwork that so annoys social workers, who rightly feel they could be doing more important things with their time. It's the uselessness of it all.

A Durham County social service official figures it takes a form six feet long just to train employees how to do all the paperwork. Even with all that training, the forms are largely incomprehensible.

So is much of the information recorded on them. Often, forms are just shuffled from one place to another.

Obviously, when public money is being spent, those administering it must be very careful about what's done with it. That requires monitoring and, yes, paperwork.

The same holds true when dealing with people. Social service clients must be fairly and effectively handled. Again, that requires attention to detail, and, therefore, paperwork.

But there is a glaring Catch-22 that hits observers in the face when paperwork's optimum point is exceeded.

The more paperwork that's required, the more money that's spent. Trying to be efficient thus costs efficiency. And all that paperwork ties up employees, who cannot spend as much time dealing with the problems they are paid and trained to handle.

Raleigh, please give us more efficiency and less paper.

Strength For Today

POWER OF PRAYER

It is quite possible that we can do more for some of our friends and relatives by prayer than by any other action. "The prayer of a righteous man availeth much" — how much no one knows. But we probably err in underestimating rather than in overestimating the potency of praying.

Sir Thomas Browne, the author of "Religion Medici", has this to say about prayers for others: "I cannot contentedly form a prayer for myself in particular without a catalogue of my friends;

Paying For The Harm

WASHINGTON — Courts, chemical companies, drug manufacturers and the Congress are grappling these days with a formidable problem in two broadly related areas. One involves the Love Canal and the so-called "superfund." The other involves the drug DES and what may come to be known at law as the Sindell Remedy. In my own view both approaches are wrong, though for different reasons, but the problems merit your thought.

When Congress returns next week, the Senate will have high on its agenda at least two proposals to create a superfund to pay for damages resulting from chemical accidents. The bills are a direct outgrowth of the national concern that developed from the Love Canal problem in New York. There the leakage from a toxic chemical dump was blamed for chromosomal damage to humans. The alleged damage may have been exaggerated, but it was undeniably serious. Since Love Canal was declared a disaster area two years ago, attention has been drawn to an estimated 32,000 to 50,000 hazardous waste sites around the country. Those numbers also are quite probably exaggerated, but, again, some degree of palpable hazard surely exists.

How do we deal with it? If it were known who dumped what, when and where, old rules of civil liability might be applied in the courts. These elementary facts often are not known. Chemical wastes that cause alarm today may have been dumped 20, 30 or 40 years ago, under conditions thought to be quite safe at the time, by companies that no longer may be in business.

On September 23, the House voted 351-23 to create a $1.2 billion superfund to clean up the 100 most dangerous sites. The chemical industry would be taxed for 75 percent of the fund; the balance would come from general funds. The Senate has its own bill, proposing a superfund of $4.1 billion financed 88 percent by industry taxes. The Senate bill covers every kind of chemical or petroleum damage.

The idea of such a superfund is sound, and it is almost immaterial whether industry is taxed for 50, or 75 or 88 percent of the cost. In the end, consumers and taxpayers — they are all the same people — will pay the cost. What is woefully wrong is the power the bills would delegate to the Environmental Protection Agency. The EPA would function as a czar, issuing authoritarian decrees from a paperwork palace. The costs to American industry, over and above the proposed taxes, would be monstrous. Unless the bills can be greatly simplified, the proposals ought to be carried over to next year.

The problem of the drug DES, for diethylstilbestrol, is quite similar, but the Sindell Remedy is quite different. Over a period of nearly 25 years, between 1947 and 1971, many physicians prescribed the drug for pregnant women in order to prevent miscarriages. An estimated 1.5 to 3 million women had been so treated before a disturbing and tragic correlation was discovered: Some of the daughters of these women began to develop cancer and other abnormalities of the vagina and cervix.

One such young woman, Judith Sindell, developed cancer of the bladder. She sued 11 drug firms known to be marketing DES at the time her mother was treated. She and her co-plaintiffs could not identify the individual manufacturer; the evidence no longer exists. Some unknowable A had harmed B. Who could be found liable?

The California Supreme Court cast old doctrines of tort liability to the wind, and fashioned a radical new remedy of "shared liability." (Continued on page 6)

Soviet Tries Bar Release

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Soviet intrigue against President Carter's hostage-release plan reached a peak in a clandestine broadcast beamed from Russia to Iran accusing the U.S. of instigating the Iraq-Iran war and of using the war "to establish a bridgehead" with Iran so that the "arch Satan" can reassert its old influence.

That Farsi-language broadcast was intercepted by monitors on Oct. 24, even before the Carter administration had fully revealed its plan to send hundreds of millions of dollars of spare parts to Iran in exchange for the hostages. "America, this arch Satan, is talking nonsense about its neutrality," the Soviet-based Voice of Iran thundered.

That is the real Soviet policy on U.S. machinations to gain release of the hostages and reassert American influence in post-shah Iran. While officially favoring hostage release, Moscow subverts it behind the scenes. The Soviet Union wants the pre-eminent position in post-war Iran for itself. Even though the Russians clearly favor Carter over Ronald Reagan, they are willing to risk Carter's defeat on the hostage issue to block a U.S. return to Iran.

Reagan's New Chief?

The rise within the Reagan camp of James Baker, the Houston lawyer who fought Ronald Reagan's presidential nomination attempts in both 1976 and 1980, has been so quick that influential insiders are pushing him to be White House chief of staff should Ronald Reagan win the election.

Baker battled Reagan as manager of Gerald Ford's campaign four years ago and George Bush's this year, only reluctantly joining the Reagan campaign this fall in a subordinate role. But he was not subordinate for long. Baker was alone among Reagan advisers in urging him to debate President Carter. He now gets credit for his wisdom in pushing that necessary step to save Reagan's candidacy, as well as for his skill in negotiating the debate conditions.

A footnote: Lyn Nofziger, Ronald Reagan's political adviser off and on for the past 14 years and currently his press secretary, definitely will leave Reagan after Nov. 4 no matter what the election outcome. Nofziger, downgraded in 1976 and purged in 1979 before his resurrection last spring, has no taste for palace intrigue in the White House. "I'd rather go home (to California) and beat Democrats," he tells friends.

Kissinger At Defense?
Ruled out for secretary of state, Henry A. Kissinger is being gently nudged for the next highest Cabinet post in a Reagan administration — secretary of defense — by admirers who are close to Ronald Reagan.

Their efforts have not yet approached any point of decision. Reagan insiders know there is deep hostility toward Kissinger by some national security aides in the Reagan camp. His presence early in a Reagan administration, however, might bolster Reagan's low prestige abroad and help him here at home with skeptics worried by President Carter's war-monger attacks.

Though Kissinger flatly rules out any job in a Reagan Cabinet, no one doubts he would accept secretary of state — the one post that will not be offered — despite huge financial sacrifice. But a Reagan offer of the defense portfolio might be hard for Kissinger to turn down.

Carter's Racial Politics

To the very end, Jimmy Carter's campaign tried to generate a maximum black voter turnout by seeking to tie Ronald Reagan to the Deep South's murderous racism of 15 years ago — with one late commercial upsetting a key Southern backer of the president.

The commercial was used only on radio where Carter's media director Gerald Rafshoon's ads attack even more strongly than over television. In the commercial, respected Mississippi black leader Aaron Henry ties Reagan to the Philadelphia, Miss., civil rights murders of 1964 on the grounds that Reagan made a political speech there in 1960.

That fits the overriding Carter strategy of using fear to turn out the black vote. Gov. William Winter, Mississippi's most popular governor in memory; who is going all out for the president, protested the Henry commercial and asked that it be pulled off the air in his state. The Carter campaign announced it was complying with Winter's request but it kept running it on some Mississippi radio stations as scheduled anyway.

Amy For The Pentagon

When signs reading "Amy for secretary of defense" appeared at a Ronald Reagan rally in Dallas the night after the presidential debate, Jimmy Carter's political advisers had their fears confirmed that the president's reference to his daughter would not soon be forgotten.

Carter insiders don't doubt that the 12-year-old Amy actually replied, as her father said she did, that she considers "nuclear weaponry and the control of nuclear arms" the most important issue. But they cringed at the president's insensitivity in quoting her. The horselaughs at the Cleveland music hall were echoed in post-debate polling.

A footnote: Rep. David Stockman of Michigan played the part of John Anderson in Reagan's dry run for the Baltimore debate because he was once an Anderson aide. But he did such a good job that he also played the role of Jimmy Carter in rehearsals for the Cleveland debate. Stockman prepared Reagan for most of the zingers actually fired by Carter.

Groping For A Common Ground

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In this election many Americans will enter the voting booth wrestling with the issue of what happened to the American economy over the past decade or so.

They know things are changed — their wallets, worries and waning aspirations are evidence enough — but few people can identify all the hows and whys, and they may have to wait until history's verdict.

Still, since everyone seems to be groping for some practical positions, two of them are related here, gathered from the statements of ordinary citizens, investors, economists and just about anyone else.

You may not subscribe to the thoughts, but they seem to have a universal appeal, heard as often in the bar as in the boardroom.

THE SELFISH CITIZEN.
This has been the most selfish generation in history, living off the fat of the economy and the efforts of those who went before, and seeking to finance it with the efforts of generations to come.

We have lived well, borrowing to do so, and we have passed the bill onto future generations as an unprecedented load of federal, state and municipal debt. How else can we be pensioned at an early age?

We have sanctified consumption and vilified production. We have destroyed productivity because we have used up the capital needed for production. We have demanded the productive America be our servant.

We have selfishly taken money from productive uses and transferred it into making our work areas more comfortable, our vacations longer, our retirements easier. We sue if we don't get "our share" of the pie.

We have become the ultimate, self-serving materialists and hedonists, surrounding ourselves with goods and gadgets for our comfort, and refusing to worry about the consequences, such as paying the bills.

We have devoured the nation's resources; we have insisted on the most luxurious cars; we have demanded an extra bath in the houses we buy. Ah, the good life!

In the process, we have forced up prices and interest rates, especially the prices of the homes we own, but we have denied shelter to our children because we have priced them out of the market.

We have given solace to ourselves by claiming we are the most socially concerned of all generations, but too often what we spend on social projects is other people's money, to be paid for in higher taxes.

THE SELF-SERVING POLITICIAN.

Politicians have sacrificed the economic stability of the country, trading special interest legislation for votes. Voting for spending projects doesn't cost the politician a thing, but on the benefits.

And oh what it does to the country, saddling it with deficits — more than $290 billion in just the past six years — that were inconceivable just a few years ago. And creating inflation and high borrowing rates.

It isn't just with appropriations that the damage is done. Even more oppressive is the creation of regulatory conditions that make it impossible for business to operate efficiently and at a profit.

Profit? The self-serving politician doesn't understand it. Profit doesn't bring in votes. There's more to be gained by shackling the company, calling it the enemy and posing as the hero of the people.

It works, over the short term, but then jobs are lost because the money to operate the factory has been transferred to the fund that supports the regulators. Odd, isn't it, that private enterprise is the way the country makes its money, but we've been clubbing it senseless?

The clubbing has hurt, since it's our own head we've been clubbing. The toll is inflation, high interest, lowered productivity, weak exports, a shaky dollar, and frightened investors.

Jim Woods Campaign Chairman

John H. Bizzell, president of the American Lung Association of North Carolina, Eastern Region, announced that Jim Woods of WNCN-TV, has accepted the chairmanship of the 1980 Christmas Seal Campaign. Woods is the sports director of WNCN-TV.

As chairman of the 1980 Christmas Seal Campaign, Woods will be involved in guiding the program of the association's area, which encompasses 22 eastern North Carolina counties: Beaufort, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Northampton, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington. Program activities aimed at controlling and preventing lung disease are carried out in each of the 22 counties.

JIM WOODS

"We of the American Lung Association of North Carolina, Eastern Region, feel extremely fortunate in having a man of Woods' proven leadership ability to guide our campaign this year," said Bizzell. "Now, more than ever before, we need the quality of leadership Woods can provide to help bring about a completely successful campaign."

Woods, who spoke at the Christmas Seal Kick-Off banquet recently, urged all eastern North Carolina residents to generously answer their Christmas Seal letter.

FBLA Chapter Installs Officers

D.H. Conley Chapter no. 4520 of Future Business Leaders of America installed the 1980-81 officers at a candlelight ceremony October 30 in the school cafeteria.

The theme for the year "In Touch with the Business of America" and a tall lighted taper symbolizing unity furnished the background for the ceremony.

The following were installed as officers: president, Suzanne Wilson; first vice-president, Denise Coward; second vice-president, Maria Jones; secretary, Debbie Hall; treasurer, Kim Swank; parliamentarian, David Adams; historian, David Miller; reporter, Donna Worthington; and photographer, Kathy Drabicki. Installing officers were Mary Thompson, chapter advisor and Jolinda Rouse, immediate past president.

Speakers for the occasion were Chris Stancel on "Future", Gary Worthington on "Business", Loretta Grantham on "Leaders", and Laurie Brown on "America". Vickie Blackwell presented the new inductees.

Parents and special guests were welcomed and members of the Business Advisory Board recognized. Those persons serving on the board are as follows: James Black, J.R. Carraway, Mrs. Betty Jones, Don Langston, Thomas McCaskill, Mrs. Zula Rouse, Mrs. Pamela Schenck, and Mrs. Pat Wilson.

Entertainment was provided by Eugene Lawrence and accompanist Sherri Lawrence. The committee chairman responsible for the ceremony included: Kim Swank, Debbie Hall, Donna Worthington, Maria Jones and David Miller. Business teachers working with these committees were Annie Chappell, Barbara McLawhorn and Mary Thompson.

J. H. Rose Cheerleading Winner

J. H. Rose High School was first place winner in the varsity division at the Tobacco Festival cheerleading contest conducted at Carolina East Mall Saturday. Second place winner was Southern Nash of Stanhope; and third, Ayden-Grifton. Junior varsity winners included; first, Ayden-Grifton; second, James B. Hunt of Wilson; and third Washington High School. Each winning squad will receive plaques from the Tobacco Festival and cash prizes from the mall. Cash prizes in each category are: first, $50; second, $35; and third, $25.

Seventeen cheerleading squads participated in the event judged by the ECU cheerleading squad.

The squads were judged on creativity, coordination, spirit and enthusiasm. Winners will be recognized at the Tobacco Festival football game November 15.

Cadet Leaders Are Appointed

ECU News Bureau Outstanding cadets in ECU's Air Force ROTC detachment have been appointed to cadet staff leadership positions.

Cadet Major Thomas Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gill of Statesville, has assumed the position of cadet group commander. He will be responsible for the training of approximately 165 cadets and the overall management of the AFROTC cadet corps.

Cadet Capt. John Marquis McTillmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McTillmon of Greensboro, has been appointed inspector general.

Cadet Major Rebecca Turner has been appointed deputy commander for operations. She is the daughter of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Frank Padilla of Fayetteville.

Cadet Major Michael Lawrence Helsabeck, new deputy commander for the corps, is the son of Air Force M/Sgt. (Ret.) and Mrs. Don Helsabeck of Goldsboro.

Cadet Capt. Jackie McKenzie, newly-appointed Arnold Air Society commander, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKenzie of Pinehurst.

Cadet Capt. James Burnette Jr., special project officer, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Elza Burnette of Winchester, Tenn.

Carter Wins Cox Election

WINTERVILLE — The students of A.G. Cox Grammar School voted recently in a mock election to re-elect Jimmy Carter in a 324-268 vote. Anderson received five votes; Clark received two votes; Governor Hunt overwhelmed Lake with a 441-141 vote, and East defeated Morgan 391-209. Other victors include Green, White, Allsbrook, Aldridge and Warren.

The election was under the supervision of Mrs. Janice Hardee of the Social Studies Department and Mrs. Sarah Sundwall, the librarian. Students registered to vote the week before the actual voting, and polling booths were set up to simulate election settings. During the two weeks prior to the election the social studies teachers of Cox taught special election-process units, and the library displayed political posters and election information.

A political poster contest was also held. The winners were announced on Monday and were: Keith Compton, Kai-I Chung, Stan Seay, John Parker.

SORORITY MEETS

The Greenville Alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority met at the Holiday Inn Saturday with the executive committee as hostesses.

The criteria committee of the Miss College-Bound Contest made its report, as did the health and nutrition, Valentine party and bus trip committees. Cookie Chandler of the University of Virginia chapter was a visitor.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 6 at the home of Pres. Mary G. Murrell. Regional Director Norma Sermons will conduct a workshop.

Farmville Volume Heavy

FARMVILLE — Yesterday's volume of sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market was one of the heaviest of the season, according to Louis N. Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Offerings consisted of mostly variegated types of tobacco and nondescript grades, he said. Top grades of leaf and cutters that account for most of the top prices were off in volume. Top practical price continues at $1.80 per pound. Quality grades of tobacco were off compared with last Thursday's sales. Stabilization receipts accounted for 18.77 percent of gross sales.

The market 831,890 pounds for $1,212,173, for an average of $145.71 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 32,310,758 pounds for $48,941,008 for a season average of $151.47 per hundred pounds, Williams said.

SERVES AS PAGE

Three Wrecks Investigated

An estimated $3,000 damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted when cars driven by George Melvin Lewis of Henderson and William Herbert Ramey of 1302 East First St. collided about 11:30 a.m. at the intersection of Greene and Martin Streets.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $600 to the Lewis car and $1,000 to the Ramey vehicle.

Cars driven by James Arthur Johnson of Route 6, Greenville, and Sherida Faulkner Fickling of 308 Crown Point Rd., collided about 5:15 p.m. on Evans Street, 150 feet south of the Deck Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $150 damage to the Johnson car and $600 damage to the Fickling auto.

An 8:55 a.m. collision on First Street, 60 feet east of the Washington Street intersection, involved a truck driven by Edward Albert Locke of Ft. Pierce, Fla., and a car operated by Ethan Conrad Beeson Jr. of Route 11, Greenville.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $150 to the truck and $500 to the Beeson car.

Discusses 'Myths' About Arms Race

John Swomley, professor of Christian Ethics at St. Paul School of Theology in Kansas City, spoke Friday night at First Presbyterian Church here, discussing the topic, "The Arms Race, the Economy, and Inflation."

Swomley addressed what he termed as four popular myths: the current arms race is not primarily intended to defend the U.S.; the Soviet Union is not increasing its armaments faster than the U.S.; the emphasis on military development has weakened us; and military bases hurt the economy of the community in which they are located.

The speaker said that his conclusion, therefore, is in agreement with Nobel-winning economist Wassily Leontief's stance: "The arms race keeps the poor in poverty. It is highly inflationary."

Swomley noted that only a small fraction of U.S. oil comes from the Middle East and he suggested that Mexican oil could be used to "fill that gap." He asserted that "big oil exemplifies the influence of big industry on government."

Swomley is the author of five books, including "The Military Establishment," "The American Empire," and "Liberation Ethics," which was available at the meeting.

The meeting was co-sponsored by the Greenville Peace Fellowship and the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a national religious pacifist group.

Scholarship To Senior At Rose

ROSE JACKSON

RALEIGH — Rose Jackson of Greenville has been awarded the Virginia W. Jones Scholarship at Peace College.

Announcement of the scholarship award was made by Dr. S. David Frazier, president of the junior college for women.

Jones Scholars are selected annually on the basis of outstanding academic records, SAT scores, and records of extra-curricular participation and citizenship.

Miss Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.N. Jackson of 1310 Sonata St., is a senior at J.H. Rose High School. She is a member of the Keyettes and the Future Business Leaders of America, and was elected to attend the 1980 Girls State in Greensboro.

The Virginia W. Jones Scholars Fund was established in 1977 by Earl T. Jones of Raleigh in honor of his wife.

Friends Honor Louis Roebuck

FARMVILLE — Some 300 friends of Louis Roebuck honored him with a dinner in recognition of his 32 years of service as a buyer for Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company on the Farmville Tobacco Market last Wednesday.

Warehousemen, his fellow buyers and other friends were treated to a dinner cooked by O. D. Jenkins, tobacco contractor, and held at Carraway's Restaurant here. Roebuck's gifts included a gold watch, a gold cigarette lighter and fishing equipment. The Farmville resident has announced his plans to retire at the end of this selling season.

cal activities can be fairly characterized as conservative with opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment, anti-abortion sentiments, and militant rejection of a package of welfare reforms for children packaged in Gov. Jim Hunt's New Generation Plan as major legislative goals.

Critics have shrilly denounced involvement of Evangelical Christians in politics recently, claiming Constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state are placed in jeopardy thereby.

Regardless of where an individual comes down on questions of state policy and philosophy, it is clear that Christian organizations will continue to be a force in politics — even when the groups differ as widely as these do. Whether one agrees or disagrees with specifics, barring any class of people from involvement in the political process would in itself, be far more dangerous and unconstitutional than anything the people affected might do.

The DES daughters, said the court in a 4-3 decision last March, could attempt to impose liability upon all DES manufacturers according to their share of the market 25 or 30 years ago. On October 14 the U.S. Supreme Court, without comment, declined to review the case.

What is wrong here, in my view, is that the California court has usurped the responsibility of the California Legislature. So novel a doctrine as the Sindell Remedy ought not to be imposed without full legislative hearings and debate. Maybe the remedy would work, but it should not spring full-blown from the brow of four judges. In brief, we need to keep digging. The answers are as elusive as the facts.

Democrats Hold Final Vote Plea

By SUE FERNALD
Reflector Staff Writer
Democratic Party hopefuls made a last minute appeal for Eastern North Carolina votes Monday at Pitt-Greenville Airport.

Governor Jim Hunt, Senator Robert Morgan, Rep. L.H. Fountain and U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones called for voters to support a straight Democratic ticket, from the national level on down to the county level.

Senator Morgan commented that statements made concerning his being against the tobacco industry were completely unfounded.

He stated that he has also been accused of being a "tool of labor," which he denied.

Governor Hunt stressed the positive aspects of the Democratic campaign as "compared to the totally negative approach the Republicans have used." And said "it is terribly important that we deal in a positive way with the problems of our state." He continued, "We are aiming for more good jobs with higher pay and a public school system that is second to none."

The need for a strong defense, concentration on energy policies and on the field of agriculture were stated as policies all North Carolina Democratic candidates support.

Rep. L.H. Fountain described President Jimmy Carter's foreign policy as one of "making friends all over the world for America." He said that Carter performed outstandingly in the Middle East situation.

Governor Hunt denied any future plans to run for senator after his term and said he would concentrate on making the state a better place to live if he is re-elected.

Revival

School Board.....

Monday night was approval of an additional teacher to teach a new first grade class at Sadie Sautter. Due to the overload of first graders at that school, the State Department of Public Instruction authorized the formation of an additional class and an additional teacher allotment for the remainder of this school year only. A second teacher allotment approved is that of a drug and alcohol counselor on a half-time basis. For the past two years, Greenville City Schools have shared one-half a position of Pitt County's two positions. Cox indicated that having a half-time position not connected with the county program gave the city schools more control over scheduling the person filling the position.

Also approved Monday night was the list of East Carolina University student teachers who will be teaching in the city schools. Approval carries the stipulation that board approval is subject to approval by the principal of each school and that of the individual teacher under whom each student teacher will be working. A further stipulation in the agreement limits to five the number of days a student teacher can work as a substitute teacher — and then only for the teacher to which the student teacher is assigned and not for more than two successive days during the student teaching period.

Two grants have been received for the city schools. Ann Harrison outlined details on a $3,825 Gifted-Talented grant that will be used for two basic purposes — to design activity kits for enrichment of teacher development, and to work on an identification criteria to improve processes in identifying children in minority groups who may be gifted but not so recognized.

The other grant, announced by Cox, is a CETA grant in the amount of $56,786. Cox noted he was working on details for use of these funds and will bring this information back to the board. The CETA grant is not new, but in this case comes directly to the city schools instead of being part of the former combined Pitt-Greenville funds.

An inventory of the fixed assets of the Greenville City schools — land and buildings — shows the city schools now own a total of 140.56 acres for an appraised value of $953,100. The total purchase cost of the land was $554,914. The buildings, which cost a total of $9,301,505, are currently appraised for $19,634,140.

Currently, the buildings are insured for $18,020,000, with contents insured for $1,250,000. The insured value represents replacement costs of buildings, not a current market evaluation, and there is no building depreciation factor involved in insurance coverage.

A summary of expansion budget requests based on 39 priority items prepared by the State Board of Education for the 1981-83 biennium amounts to a total statewide of $230,531,216 for the fiscal year 1981-82; and $313,188,684 for fiscal year 1982-83. In presenting copies of this budget request, Cox stated that monies for salary increases are not included in this estimate, these are handled separately.

Dr. Joseph W. Congleton, Jr., representing the Band Boosters, called on school board members to consider providing some funds to use in replacing certain band instruments which are in poor condition, and to purchase a few instruments which the band needs but does not own. Band director James Rodgers cited a couple of instances where one instrument is used on an exchange basis between Rose and Aycock.

The school board had requested an allocation of $3,500 for band use in preparing the 1979-80 budget, but this item was cut from the approved budget.

Congleton stated the primary purpose of Band Boosters in fund raising was to provide for things such as out of town trips for the band, summer sessions at Chowan College, and scholarships to the ECU Summer Band Camp.

Cox told Congleton he had been looking at the contingency budget to determine if some assistance could be given to the band.

On the subject of vandalism in the schools, Cox reported to the board that the number of instances of vandalism is on the upswing, with eight break-ins occurring in the first two school months, compared to a total of 11 instances for the entire 1979-80 school year. He added that a majority of break-ins are related to the theft of food from cafeterias. Cox is working on a detailed report to include the possibility of security detection devices, and the board will consider this matter in detail at the November 17 action meeting.

CUT SHORT
BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (AP) — A test firing of a three-engine unit for the space shuttle was cut short Monday by fuel-pump problems, engineers said.

Study Site For Gasahol

RUFFIN, N.C. (AP) — A Washington, D.C., energy company may build a $80 million to $100 million "gasahol" plant in Rockingham County.

Martin Energy Corp., a newly-formed company, is examining a site in rural Ruffin and studying the feasibility of a project to make the plant the largest gasahol plant in North Carolina.

Last week the company received a $108,600 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy to determine the site's acceptability, according to Marvin Martin, company president.

Should the site pass the tests, construction is expected to begin in January and be completed during the summer of 1982, Martin said. The plant would employ 200 to 300 workers.

The plant would distill alcohol from corn and mix it with unleaded gasoline to produce ethanol, or "gasahol," a motor engine fuel less expensive than gasoline.

Once in operation, the plant is expected to have $100 million in sales by producing 50 to 60 million gallons of gasahol a year, Martin said.

The availability of corn is one reason the company is interested in locating in North Carolina, Martin said.

Annexing Parts Of Afghanistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — The Soviet Union is gradually annexing a strategically important piece of Afghanistan territory that has common borders with China and Pakistan, a Pakistani news agency said today.

The report, by The Associated Press of Pakistan, seemed to have official backing. The news agency gave no source.

The Soviet Union sent an estimated 85,000 troops into Afghanistan in December to help oust one Marxist president and replace him with another more to the Kremlin's liking and has been trying to strengthen its control over the landlocked country ever since. Most of the Soviet troops remain.

The move to annex Wakhan Salient is significant because control over it would mean the Soviet borders meet directly those of Pakistan and China. Wakhan Salient is a strip of land separating the Soviet Union from Pakistan.

The news agency said: "The Soviet Union has been quietly busy, for the last six months, in annexing Wakhan Salient of Afghanistan, according to reliable information received from across the border."

The process of annexation, which reportedly is almost completed, is being done through large-scale induction in the area of Soviet troops who mostly belong to the adjoining Soviet province of Tajikistan, it said.

According to the news agency report, the Soviets also have been improving the communications leading into Wakhan from the Soviet territory.

"The Soviets have found the task of annexation of the Wakhan Salient easy due to insignificant insurgency in the area," the report said.

It said, "The new Soviet move escaped world attention in view of its preoccupation with the reports of resistance and disturbances in the rest of Afghanistan."

The agency said it is believed the annexation is aimed at getting a strategic edge over China and Pakistan, as it will do away with the only common border between China and Afghanistan.

The agency said, "The annexation would thus make Pakistan feel more vulnerable and deprive China from having any direct access to Afghanistan."

Straw Vote Edge For Carter

President Jimmy Carter was reelected in a straw vote held by the Greenville Host Lions Club last night — by a one-vote margin.

The results of the balloting gave Carter 13 votes, to Ronald Reagan's 12. Independent John Anderson took only one vote.

In the U.S. Senate race, the Lions gave incumbent Robert Morgan 17 votes, to Republican John East's 9.

In the N.C. House race, incumbent Sam Bundy received 20 votes, while hopeful Democrat Ed Warren polled 12 votes. Republican Henry Aldridge took 10 ballots.

tributed for review by the commissioners copies of the occupancy/management review conducted by HUD of the authority operations. Laney said the review involved all local procedures in great detail and recommendations from HUD included mostly routine matters.

According to Laney, the authority planned to open bids today for the landscaping of the University Towers grounds. He said that funds are available in the budget for the work, which should make the facility more attractive. Some 25 trees and 200 shrubs are included in the package, in addition to hedges, plants and other landscaping items.

In response to a request from HUD, commissioners approved a resolution modifying the annual contributions contract for conventional low rent public housing operated by the authority here. The modification assures HUD that when the 40-year mortgage period is up on the units, they will be maintained at least ten more years for housing purposes unless approval is otherwise received from HUD.

According to the tenant occupancy report submitted by Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs, average rent during October among the 642 units amounted to $88.67. Individual project averages included: NC 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $94.25; NC 22-2 (Kearney Park), $88.88; NC 22-3 (Moyewood), $98.38; NC 22-4 (Moyewood), $96.66; NC 22-5 (Hopkins Park), $70.39; and NC 22-6 (Newtown), $82.14.

Mrs. Streeter said that of the 642 units, 606 or 94 percent are occupied by black families and 36 units or six percent have white occupants.

Irish At Top; Tar Heels 14th

By JAMES LITKE
AP Sports Writer

Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, climbing slowly but steadily through the ranks, finally reached the penthouse, moving into the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press college football poll.

"It's a great achievement for the players. They've overcome a lot of adversity and we've had a lot of injuries," Coach Dan Devine said Monday. "But this team has great character. They've worked hard and they deserve the honor."

Notre Dame, unbeaten in seven outings after manhandling Navy 33-0 last Saturday, entered last weekend in the No. 3 spot behind Alabama and UCLA.

But Mississippi State halted the Crimson Tide, 6-3, for the first time this season

— a feat which vaulted Mississippi State into the 19th ranking — and just hours later, Arizona overcame the unbeaten Bruins 23-17.

Notre Dame, the 1977 national champion, polled 47 first-place votes and a total of 1,281 points while Georgia, undefeated in eight starts after a 13-10 win over South Carolina, received 15 first place votes and moved into second place. The loss dropped the Gamecocks to No. 15.

Florida State took the third spot by demolishing Tulsa 45-2; Southern California jumped from seventh to No. 4 by wrecking California, 60-7, and Nebraska climbed to fifth with a 38-16 win over Missouri. Once-beaten Ohio State, moved up to No. 7 after a 48-16 win over Michigan

State, while Alabama fell to sixth and UCLA to No. 8.

Pittsburgh, a 43-6 victor over Syracuse, jumped from No. 11 to ninth, and Penn State climbed into tenth place in from No. 13 after a 27-12 win over Miami.

"It's great, but we still have to play Georgia Tech this week," said Devine. "However, I don't think we'll suffer a letdown. We've been through too much already."

Notre Dame began this season in the No. 11 spot and rolled to a 31-10 victory over Purdue in the opener to make it up seventh. But the Irish were idle the following week, slipping to eighth, and a chaotic, last-second win over Michigan — on a 51-yard field goal by Harry Oliver — merely moved them back to No. 7.

When Michigan State succumbed, Notre Dame remained entrenched in seventh, but the win cost it the services of Phil Carter, then second among the nation's ground-gainers, for the next four games.

After beating Miami, Notre Dame clambered into fifth, and snuck into fourth the next week by whipping Army. When Arizona fell in a road game, the Irish were ranked third, poised and ready to strike.

"It's nice to be No. 1," concluded Devine, "but when it comes right down to it, it doesn't count until after the season."

Elsewhere, Oklahoma moved up five spots to No. 11 with a 41-7 pounding of North Carolina, which slipped to No. 14; Michigan climbed six spots to No. 12 by whitewashing Indiana 35-0; Brigham Young advanced to

No. 13 by destroying Texas-El Paso 83-7; Baylor, dropped to No. 16 by losing its first, 30-22 to San Jose State; Purdue climbed to No. 17 by whipping Northwestern 52-31; Southern Methodist inched up one to 18 with a 27-0 blanking of Texas A&M, and Florida cracked the Top 20 by topping Auburn 21-10.

Pruitt's 56-Yard Dash Gives Browns 27-21 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mike Pruitt says he nearly stopped to pinch himself when he saw all that room in front of him.

His 56-yard fourth-period run Monday night put Cleveland up 27-14, and the Browns held on to defeat the Chicago Bears 27-21 in a National Football League game.

"I hadn't seen open field like that in eight games," said Pruitt, who finished with 129 yards on 27 rushes. "I didn't know whether to run or stop and say, 'Where is everybody?'"

Pruitt swept around the right side on the third-and-1 play from the Cleveland 44-yard line, broke one tackle and scampered untouched the rest of the way.

"We were in our goal-line defense, our 6-2, which we're not often in at midfield. We felt it was an important situation," explained Bears Coach Neil Armstrong. "When you break a tackle in that spot, you can go all the way."

Pruitt's performance complemented the superb Browns passing attack engineered by quarterback Brian Sipe.

The 31-year-old veteran used eight receivers to complete 23 of 39 attempts for 280 yards, surpassing the legendary Otto Graham as the greatest passer in Browns' history. Sipe finished the game with 13.54 career yards to 13,499 for Graham.

But Sipe took a while getting untracked, tossing a pair of first-half interceptions that helped hold the Browns' edge at intermission to 10-0, despite an 18-2 advantage in first downs and a total offense edge of 241-62.

"We got a little impatient in the first half," said Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano. "Our quarterback was throwing to them, and it hurt us."

Cleveland got a 23-yard field goal from Don Cockroft and a 4-yard touchdown reception from Reggie Rucker in the first half, and Cockroft added a 42-yarder in the third period before the Bears finally got on the board.

Chicago quarterback Vince Evans spotted Robin Earl for a 24-yard gain, then scrambled 12 yards to set up his own 7-yard touchdown run.

The Browns bounced back on Pruitt's 1-yard score midway through the final period, but Chicago made it interesting, 20-14, when Evans found Brian Baschnagel for a 17-yard touchdown pass less than three minutes later.

Pruitt's 56-yarder again gave Cleveland some breathing room, and they needed it as Earl hauled in a 6-yard touchdown pass from Evans with 37 seconds to play.

Chicago's onside kick, however, was covered by the Browns, as they improved their record to 6-3, good for a first-place tie with Houston in the American Conference Central Division. The Bears dropped to 3-6 and remained in the AFC Central cellar.

Evans finished with a respectable 18 completions on 33 passes for 201 yards.

SuperSonics Embarrass Cavs

SEATTLE (AP) — Cleveland Coach Bill Musselman summed it up for his Cavaliers after his team's embarrassing 118-83 loss to the Seattle SuperSonics.

"We couldn't throw it in the ocean tonight," Musselman said after the Cavaliers were thrashed in the lone National Basketball Association game played Monday. "It was just one of those nights."

Cleveland hit just 36 of 117 field goal attempts, a 30.8 percent success rate, scored only 39 points in the second half while yielding 68, and picked up just three steals and 11 assists.

For Seattle, it was all good news. Captain Fred Brown led a third-quarter blitz that turned a six-point Seattle lead halfway through it to a 24-point bulge at the buzzer.

The Sonics outscored the Cavs 37-19 in the period, with Brown gunning in 14 as the Sonics hit 74 percent of their shots, mostly inside. Cleveland could connect on just 32 percent.

Seattle center Jack Sikma added 23 points and 13 rebounds for the game while teammate James Bailey grabbed as many boards and poured home 18 points. Guard Vinnie Johnson dished out eight assists for the Sonics.

In the fourth period, with the Seattle lineup studded with reserves, the Sonics ran the lead to 38 before settling for the final margin of victory.

Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens played rookie guard Bill Hanzlik for 22 minutes, watching him score a career-high 14 points. New guard Rudy White, signed the same day, also saw action for Seattle and had six points and three assists in 12 minutes.

Wilkens added White to the team's roster before the game to pick up the slack for the injured Paul Westphal.

"I wasn't surprised that White did well," Wilkens said. "He's a veteran, he pushed the ball up the floor well."

Said White: "I've been watching the Sonics for a long time, I'm glad I've got the chance to play with them."

The Sonics were playing without starting forward and co-captain Lonnie Shelton, who was suspended for disciplinary reasons by Wilkens for two games.

"I just didn't feel Lonnie's head was in the game, but he's a good player and we need him," Wilkens said.

Roger Phegley scored 14 points to pace the Cavaliers. Forward Kenny Carr contributed 13 points and nine rebounds.

Musselman said his big moment, Mike Mitchell, has never shot as poorly as he did Monday — hitting just five of 32 shots for 15.6 percent. Mitchell had been averaging 24.4 points and shooting 48.6 percent.

The game was played before 11,723 fans, the smallest crowd in the two years the Sonics have played in the Kingdom. They led the league in attendance last season.

Sadaharu Oh Calls It Quits

TOKYO (AP) — Sadaharu Oh, the Japanese slugger who belted more home runs than anyone else who ever swung a professional baseball bat, announced today that he was retiring after 22 seasons.

The Yomiuri Giants star bows out of the game with 868 home runs, a record that has earned him comparisons with Hank Aaron, the all-time home run champion of the American major leagues with 755.

The 40-year-old Oh said at a news conference he had decided to quit because "both spiritually and physically, I have hit a wall."

The Giants said Oh would continue with the organization as a coach.

Oh, who joined the Tokyo-based Giants in 1959 right out of high school as a pitcher, reached the peak of his fame in Sept. 1977, when he surpassed Aaron's lifetime home run record.

Most comparisons of the two hitters have noted, however, that Oh was hitting in smaller ballparks than the former Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves star, and against weaker pitching. Korakuen Stadium in Tokyo, Oh's home park, measures 394 feet to center field and the fences fade sharply to 295 feet at the foul lines.

Oh, compiled a lifetime batting average of .302, won his league's home run crown 15 times, grabbed three triple crowns, was elected Most Valuable Player nine times and led the Giants to nine straight pennants between 1965 and 1973.

He was Japan's highest-paid athlete in any sport, earning some $850 million last year.

Fred Stanley Traded To A's For Pitcher

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Stanley, starting shortstop on the New York Yankees' 1976 American League pennant winners, has been traded along with a player to be named later to the Oakland A's for minor league pitcher Mike Morgan.

Morgan, 21, was the A's first-round pick in the June 1978 free agent draft and was given a major league start in his first professional appearance on June 11, 1978 against Baltimore.

He allowed two earned runs in that initial outing, pitching a complete game, but he was the losing pitcher.

Morgan, a resident of Las Vegas, Nev., was 0-3 with the A's in 1978 before completing the season at Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League with a 5-6 record.

In the 1980 season, Morgan was 6-9 with a 5.40 ERA with the A's Ogden club in the PCL. In 1979, he split time between Oakland (2-10) and Ogden (5-5).

Stanley batted 209 in 49 games for New York in 1980, his eighth year with the Yankee organization.

Lou Jones Is Winner

Lou Jones of P.O. Box 211, Walsenburg, took first place in last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Jones correctly picked the winners in 28 of the 32 games listed in last week's contest.

Second place ended up in a three-way tie. Those sharing second place are Shirley Stocks of 917 Melody Lane, Greenville; Randy L. Jackson of Apt. 15, Greenway Apartments, Greenville; and Durwood Little of P.O. Box 203, Farmville. All three picked 27 of the 32 games correctly. All three were one off, either high or low, in the point total guess. The actual total was 68 scored in Clemson's 35-33 win over Wake Forest.

Six other entrants also missed five games, but were further off the point total.

The next contest in the series appears on the following pages.

JoJo White Calling It Quits In NBA

BOSTON (AP) — JoJo White was an impeccably stylish guard in his decade with the Boston Celtics when the National Basketball Association team was a legend.

"White in his prime," wrote an observer on Celtics basketball, "was like a smooth, high-priced Scotch."

"I play hard within my style," White said when it was suggested he could wear one of his tailored three-piece suits on the court without musing a crease.

Two weeks short of his 34th birthday, White announced his retirement from professional basketball Monday as a member of the Kansas City Kings — far from his glory years, in Boston, but closer to his college starring days at the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

White told a news conference Monday he had made the decision to retire because he was not performing well. He was a reserve guard, averaging 6.4 points in the 13 games he had played this season.

He averaged more than 17 points a game for 10 seasons with the Celtics; at his best, in 1971-72, he scored 1,825 points for a 23.1 game average.

In between his stints with Kansas City and Boston, he played for the Golden State Warriors. He was traded by the Celtics on Jan. 30, 1979, in the midst of one of the worst years the Boston club ever had suffered.

Playing losing basketball was a strange experience for White, the slender, 6-foot-3, 190-pounder who captained the Boston five.

From his first season as Boston's No. 1 draft choice in 1969-70, White played on two Celtics world champions and in six straight playoffs. He was an all-star seven consecutive years from 1971 to 1977.

"Boston," he said when he was traded to Golden State, "will always be a part of me. That's my home."

"I had it all going then," White said of the 1976-77 season when he clicked for a 19.6 average, "shooting, passing, defense and my total court awareness."

That was not the case in Kansas City.

"I haven't gotten any sleep for the past couple of days," he told reporters. "I don't feel that I'm playing as well as I'm capable of playing. I feel myself that it's better for JoJo White to retire and leave space for a younger guy."

White's pride was injured in his final season with the Celtics, when teammate Dave Cowens was appointed playing manager.

"We were both captains," White said then. "I learned he had been named coach at practice. I thought at least I might have been given a call to see what I thought."

After leading the Kansas Jayhawks to two Big Eight Conference titles and scoring 1,286 collegiate career points in 84 games, White was drafted in 1969 draft by the Celtics, then defending world champions.

White finished his career with 14,399 points in 837 games for a 17.2 point per game average. Until his retirement, he was the seventh-leading career scorer among active NBA players, 35th in all-time scoring.

"It's always sad when a great player ends his career, but it's fitting that if JoJo couldn't end his career in Boston, where he helped them win two world championships, he could end up in Kansas City," said Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

Johnny Owen Dies From Injuries Received In September Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Owen, a young fighter who battled his way up from a Welsh mining town to a world championship bout, has died of injuries suffered when he was knocked out by Lupe Pintor on Sept. 19.

Owen, who never regained consciousness following the bout, died Monday night at California Hospital Medical Center, a hospital spokeswoman said. He was 24.

Pintor, the champion from Mexico City, had knocked out Owen in the 12th round of their World Boxing Council banterweight title fight at the Olympic Auditorium. Owen subsequently underwent brain surgery twice, once immediately after the fight and again on Sept. 26.

He had been attached to life support systems since the fight and his condition was listed as very critical the entire time.

Death was a result of "respiratory complications due to his prolonged coma," the hospital spokeswoman said. "The physician said his condition deteriorated rapidly in the past 12 hours due to pulmonary insufficiency and the onset of pneumonia."

The British and European bantamweight champion, Owen was an underdog against Pintor. The Welshman, however, was the aggressor in the early rounds until the champion began landing telling punches in the middle rounds.

Pintor knocked Owen down once in the ninth round, then again in the 12th. Moments after picking himself up from the canvas in the 12th, Owens waded into a powerful uppercut by the champion.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♦ 1 ♣ 2 ♥ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
5 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♣.

Good defense is an exercise in logic. If you put together the information you have gleaned from the bidding and the play, you are more likely to come up with the correct solution.

When he opened the bidding, South thought that his hand contained definite slam potential. However, North's heart rebid dampened his enthusiasm, so South wisely decided to settle for the club game. Note that he could not risk asking for aces, because he would have had no place to go had North responded with one ace.

West led the king of spades, and East dutifully played his low spade to show an odd number of cards in the suit. Now West shifted to the nine of diamonds. East won the ace and paused to consider what he had learned about the hand.

Obviously, West knew that he could not cash another spade trick—if the spades were going through a second time, West would have cashed a spade before shifting. The nine of diamonds led—top of nothing—meant that there were no more tricks to come from that suit, and a glance at the table sufficed to rule out hearts as a source of the setting trick. That left only the trump suit.

After much thought, East came up with the winning solution—he shifted to a heart! Declarer won in dummy and led a trump to his queen, only to find that he now had to lose a trump trick

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — America chooses a President ("between the evil of two lessers," as Johnny Carson put it) today, which means that tonight, television gets a chance to do the one thing it does best in the political process: count numbers.

The news media, TV networks in particular, are accused of treating the election of a president as a horse race. Tonight, it is simply that and nothing more. And oh, what an exhilarating TV show it is.

Whirring numbers flipping along on electronic scoreboards, percentages of votes counted, electoral votes piling up, projections. Oh, networks are sometimes accused of tainting elections by predicting outcome from trends before the polls close in the West, but if you're serious about your vote, TV isn't going to stop you.

Because of the flood of numbers, network commentators aren't allowed the time for much idle rumination, focusing rather on genuinely useful factual matter. Tonight we're likely to hear whether Carter carried this or that state in '76, as well as a close following of the distinct possibility of the first discrepancy between electoral vote and the popular vote since the Tilden-Hayes election.

The new president should be identified on TV by three in the morning or so in the East, depending upon complications caused by the Anderson factor and the respective networks' bravado. NBC was first to declare last time.

And of course, it is Walter Cronkite's last roundup. He's there to fill this election's reverence void.

A good way to begin this day of marathon TV watching is with Charles Kuralt and the CBS "Morning" show, expanded today and Wednesday to two hours.

Kuralt, who began hosting "Morning" last week after all those miles "On the Road," is a benign, welcome presence in the morning. His "Morning" show is like a well-behaved houseguest in those precarious moments of awakening, in stark contrast to the noisier, much busier "Today" and "Good Morning America" programs.

The weekday morning shows follow a more brisk pace than Kuralt's leisurely "Sunday Morning" show, but it's still smooth and easy to take.

The "Morning" show seems to be less in favor with CBS News than the other morning shows are with their news divisions. At least, "Today" and "Good Morning America" have more reports from the field than "Morning" has.

Still, that gap is filled by Kuralt, and there isn't pleasanter deliverer of the world's tidings in all of broadcasting. Kuralt simply sits on a stool, greets you with a "Hello, I'm Charles Kuralt and this is Tuesday morning," and gets on with the news.

The great rumpled fellow doesn't strain for TV resonance or twinkle, going more for a heartland cadence that says we're going to have a little talk and find out just what's going on.

"Morning" is mostly filled by the news, but there are some features, weather and sports, this last delivered by TV's most civilized sportscaster, Ray Gandolf.

This is a show that understands morning.

Nine Boston Firms Seeking Cable TV

BOSTON (AP) — Nine companies, including The New York Times Co. and the Times-Mirror Co. of Los Angeles, have filed applications for the right to build and operate a cable television system in Boston.

The system is expected to cost between $70 million and $80 million and take five years to build, according to the city. Officials said Monday that Mayor Kevin H. White hopes to award the cable franchise by early summer.

According to Richard Borten, a city official hired expressly to handle the franchising process, White had private meetings at City Hall with several potential cable operators during the past three weeks to discuss the kind of system he wants for the city.

The mayor outlined Boston's goals, including the need for innovative programming and community uses," Borten said. "He told them if you look at Boston's population statistics, the city is like Buffalo or Cleveland. But in terms of sophistication, we're more like New York, and that's something you've got to keep in mind when you're bidding."

Other companies which filed applications Monday are Warner Amex Cable Communications Inc. of New York, Rollins Cablevision Inc. of Atlanta, Cablevision Systems of Boston, Tribune Cable of Boston, Abetta Corp., American Cablevision of Boston, and Boston Cablevision Inc. of Boston.

On the morning of November 4, several hundred Iranian students marched through the streets of Teheran, chanting "Death to America" and "Death to the shah and Carter." When they reached the U.S. embassy, one of them cut the chain that held the heavy metal gates together, and the demonstrators stormed in. In one of the embassy buildings, marine guards used tear gas to hold off the attackers, while other embassy workers quickly destroyed files of classified material. Finally, a marine opened the door, and the demonstrators seized the Americans as hostages. By 4 p.m. the students were in complete control of the embassy. The takeover occurred a year ago today.

PEANUTS

OKAY MEN WELL WAIT RIGHT HERE UNTIL THE ROUND-HEADED KID BRINGS HARRIET BACK.

PEANUTS

DOES HE HAVE A WHAT?

PEANUTS

NO HE DOESNT HAVE A BB GUN! HE'S NOT THE KIND WHO SHOTS BIRDS WITH A BB GUN...

PEANUTS

NO YOU'RE RIGHT. YOU CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL.

B.C.

ALL RIGHT TEAM WHO CAN IDENTIFY THIS PLAY?

B.C.

THE QUARTERBACK DROPPED BACK, COCKS THE BALL BEHIND HIS HEAD IN A DAZING STANCE WHERE IT IS GRABBED BY THE PLUNKER FOR AN END-AROUND RUN.

B.C.

CLOSE, PASTORINI.

B.C.

MIND IF WE PLAY THROUGH.

BLONDIE

DID YOU ASK YOUR BOSS ABOUT THE RAISE?

BLONDIE

HE WAS VERY FRIENDLY AND TOLD ME ALL ABOUT HIS EARLY CHILDHOOD.

BLONDIE

AND THEN HE EVEN TOLD ME HOW HE MET HIS WIFE AND HOW HE STARTED IN THE BUSINESS.

BLONDIE

WELL, WHAT ABOUT THE RAISE?

BEETLE BAILEY

I WANT RESPECT.

BEETLE BAILEY

MESSAGE FROM THE GENERAL, SIR.

BEETLE BAILEY

WELL?! WHAT IS IT?!

BEETLE BAILEY

HE SAYS TO KNOCK OFF THE IDIOTIC HIGH-PITCHED WHINING...

PHANTOM

IN DEEP JUNGLE KNOWN AS PHANTOM COUNTRY THERE IS PEACE... NO CRIME.

PHANTOM

IT'S SAID... A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN CLAD IN DIAMONDS CAN WALK MIDNIGHT WITHOUT FEAR.

PHANTOM

NO CRIME IN PHANTOM COUNTRY?

PHANTOM

WAIT UNTIL HE'S PASSED US THEN...

FRANK AND ERNEST

YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO BE UPDATING MAILING LISTS... STOP PROJECTING WINNERS!

AND SO, WALTER, THIS IS THE FIRST ELECTION IN MY MEMORY WHERE VOTERS ARE TOO EMBARRASSED TO ADMIT WHO THEY VOTED FOR.

FRANK AND ERNEST

POLLING PLACE.

FRANK AND ERNEST

YES, WE PLAN TO PUT THE LEVU ON THE BALLOT AGAIN IN DECEMBER!

FRANK AND ERNEST

THIS IS MINNIE CAMERON WITH THE SUPERINTENDENT OF THE WESTVIEW SCHOOL SYSTEM... YOUR REACTION TO THE VOTERS' OVERHEARD REJECTION OF YOUR SCHOOL LEVY?

FRANK AND ERNEST

WELL, MINNIE, I THINK IT'S PRETTY CLEAR THAT THE VOTERS ARE SEND-ING US A MESSAGE TO TRIM ALL THE FAT AND CUT THINGS TO THE BARE BONE BASICS!

FRANK AND ERNEST

CAN YOU TELL US WHAT YOUR PLANS ARE?

Merit: Runaway Winner.

MERIT low tar/good taste combination earns convincing 3 to 1 victory over high tar leaders.

---

There's a low tar cigarette that's challenging high tar smoking — and winning.

The cigarette: MERIT.

High Tars Suffer Setback.

Nationwide smoker research documents that smokers prefer MERIT.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as — or better than — leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.
