

Group Delivering U.S. Response To Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher led a small party of officials to Algiers today to deliver the U.S. response to Iranian demands for the release of the 52 American hostages.

The State Department announced. Department officials said it was highly unlikely that Christopher would meet with Iranian authorities, who have been using Algeria as an intermediary. But they said the United States remains willing to hold face-to-face talks. "We have a year's story to tell, and if Algeria is to act for us, they have to be fully informed," said one U.S. official who asked not to be identified. Christopher left Washington unannounced at 1 a.m. EST on the flight to Algiers. No details of the reply he carried with him were made public.

Department press officer Sondra McCarty said in a prepared statement that the U.S. response, which had been prepared over the last week, would be given to the Algerian foreign ministry for transmittal to Iranian officials in Tehran. Algeria has been a go-between in indirect negotiations between the United States and Iran aimed at ending the hostage crisis, which entered its 54th week on Sunday.

Christopher met with Algeria's ambassador to Washington, Redha Malek, four times last week. The State Department said Christopher was accompanied to Algiers by Harold Saunders, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs; Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell; State Department legal officer Robert Owen and Arnold L. Raphael, a special assistant to Secretary of State Muskie.

Lame Duck Session's Decisions Unclear

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled 96th Congress opens its lame-duck session Wednesday uncertain of what it will accomplish. Unclear, too, is the fate of a $39.8 billion tax cut bill endorsed by President-elect Ronald Reagan.

The measure was drafted by the Senate Finance Committee and is supported by both Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the committee chairman, and Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., who will assume Long's role in January when Republicans take control of the Senate for the first time since 1954.

Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, who will become majority leader in January, said Sunday he thinks the bill "will pass the Senate. I think we can move pretty promptly on a tax bill."

But what happens in the House, he added, is another matter. There, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the Ways and Means Committee chairman, says he will not move to block the bill following his defeat Tuesday.

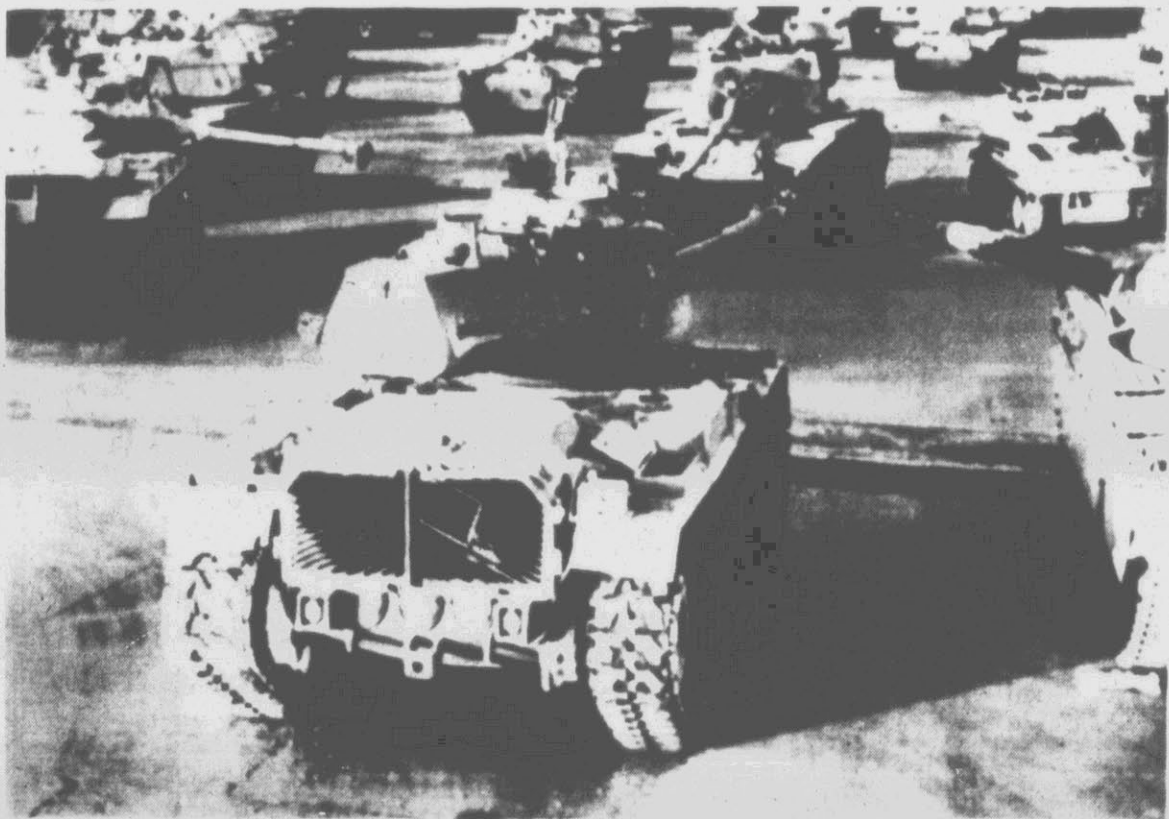

Ullman, whose committee would likely take up the measure, says he also would not want to move any Senate-passed bill forward unless President Carter and the Democratic leadership concurred. So far, Carter and his economic advisers are sticking with their argument that a tax cut now would be inflationary and should be delayed until next year. And Carter could still veto any tax cut passed this session. Baker said Sunday he had "grave doubts" the president would sign any tax-cut that emerged from the lame-duck session. The Finance Committee's bill includes about $22 billion in individual tax cuts and nearly $18 billion in cuts for business. The $37 billion tax cut Reagan supports would cut individual tax rates 10 percent a year for three years. Yet, Reagan said last week, "it would be fine with me" if the Finance Committee bill won speedy approval. Even before reaching the president's desk, however, any tax cut faces several other obstacles: —House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. has said he doubts the lame-duck session will pass any legislation except appropriations bills needed to keep the government running.

—Expedient action on a tax cut could be frustrated on the Senate floor by what one top congressional staff member called a lot of bitter, "wounded tigers," who might prevent passage from being a "neat and speedy process." —Additional time could be taken up if Democrats, who will also see their House majority cut 33 seats come Jan. 3, try to push through pet projects.

I want the public to know of the good will created by the Farmville Police Department. BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq claimed its helicopter gunships set fire to gas installations in besieged Abadan and its tanks killed 74 Iranian troops, while Iran reported its forces destroyed two Iraqi oil terminals on the Persian Gulf and killed 185 enemy troops in Iraqi-occupied territory. An Iraqi communique said waves of its gunships pounded a natural gas storage center and a gas pipeline in Abadan, the last Iranian stronghold along the Shatt al-Arab estuary at the northern end of the Persian Gulf. It said Iraqi infantry and tanks killed 74 Iranians in ground assaults on the city's northern and eastern gates. The communique acknowledged 11 Iraqis killed.

An Iranian communique said Iranian forces attacked Iraqi troops Sunday on the northeastern bank of the Bahmanshir River, on the northeast side of Abadan, inflicting losses on the invaders and driving them back from the edge of the waterway. The communique also said Iranian airborne forces and artillery "crushed" Iraqi forces on the road linking Abadan and Mahsahr, 50 miles to the east. Another Iranian communique said navy commandos stormed Iraqi oil loading terminals at Al Bakr and Khor Alamaya, on the Persian Gulf, and "completely destroyed" the two facilities. "Iraq will not be able to export any oil through the Persian Gulf" as a result of the "suicide operation

$500,000 To Young Investors

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
EUSTIS, Fla. (AP) — Well-to-do widow donates $500,000 to small university.

So? Nothing too unusual about that. But, wait.

The recipient is Stetson University, in nearby DeLand. Stetson is not a large school, but its standards are high and it is well regarded for its program in business administration.

The donor is Sarah George. Mrs. George is 80. She lives modestly in a small brick house on an unpretentious street. Her years have not dulled her sense of perspective. Nor her sense of humor. Nor, clearly, her sense of adventure.

That becomes apparent when you take a look at the strings that sprightly lady attached to her half-million-dollar gift.

Her husband, Roland George, died last year. He was in good health until a month before his death, at 93, and never retired from his lifetime passion, which was playing the stock market.

"It was both his business and his hobby," Mrs. George recalled. "He was an investor. He never tired of it. In his last days, he read the market quotations with a magnifying glass."

In all his years as a Wall Street investor, Roland George had occasion to train many young people entering the investments field. He detected in them a pervasive flaw.

"Roland was a down-to-earth man," Mrs. George said. "It annoyed him that colleges could teach only theory. The students used play money. They took no real risks. He felt the only way to learn investing was actually to do it."

So, in memory of her husband, Mrs. George approached Stetson University with this proposition:

She would give Stetson University $500,000 provided the students in an advanced course in investments control the whole bundle, and speculate with it themselves, win or lose. Dickey.

"If they lose it," Mrs. George said, ever so softly, "Well, they will have learned something by the experience."

"If they make money, they are to use the earnings to pay a salary for a visiting instructor. Not an academician," she said, her voice firm, "but somebody who will take time off from Wall Street for a semester. A practicing investor."

The Georges, Roland and Sarah, knew what it was like to be both up and down financially.

During the Depression, Roland George walked the streets of New York for two years and was on the verge of going back to the Pennsylvania dairy farm where he grew up before he finally landed a job at a bank.

Sarah, meanwhile, worked as a librarian and kept house in their apartment in Greenwich Village. They had no children.

"We lived on Roland's salary and invested mine," she said. "That's how it began, very small. He made much more than he lost. I was surprised at the size of the estate."

Needless to say, Stetson University was surprised, too. Mrs. George's offer, of course, was snapped up.

"I know of no other school with a program like this," said David Nylen, dean of the business school. "We intend to focus on this program, really do it right."

"This investment fund should generate enough money, enough profits, to attract recognized experts, to provide scholarships, to build a fine reference collection. That is, of course, if all goes well."

If. Isn't that the little word Roland George had in mind?

Soviet Diplomat Sees No Troops Sent Poland

LONDON (AP) — The outgoing Soviet ambassador to Britain, Nikolai Lunikov, said that "no way" would the Soviet Union send troops into troubled Poland, where a threatened strike was averted today by a Polish Supreme Court ruling.

The ambassador also said that the Soviet Union expects the United States to ratify the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

"Without it we cannot go further," he said.

Poland's largest and defiant trade union, Solidarity, had threatened to strike this week, had it not been satisfied with the court ruling. The court ruled today that a lower court had exceeded its authority when it inserted a clause in the union charter recognizing the supremacy of the Communist Party in Polish society.

The union claimed the clause was unnecessary because it already recognizes the party's leading role through its adherence to an article of the Polish Constitution. It said the clause undermined the union's independence.

Polish television over the weekend showed films of joint Polish-Soviet troop maneuvers.

Lunikov said it was best for all parties, including the United States, "not to meddle" in Poland's internal affairs. Asked if the Soviets would send troops to Poland, he said, "No, no way."

The ambassador of seven years here said U.S. President-elect Ronald Reagan's campaign statements on the SALT II treaty was "not so constructive an approach." Reagan has advocated renegotiation of the treaty.

Lunikov said the Soviet leadership had expressed the hope that the Reagan administration would take a more positive view on "how to prevent a further spread of further weapons, how to prevent the further manufacture of new types of different weapons of destruction and especially SALT II. We expect they should ratify it. Without it we cannot go further."

Lunikov may become Soviet ambassador to Italy, the London Daily Telegraph reported today.

Handcuffed The Groom-To-Be

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Mark Sammis may be tying the knot, but he would have just as soon stayed out of the handcuffs.

To celebrate Sammis' upcoming marriage, two of his friends handcuffed the 23-year-old Milwaukie man to a light pole in downtown Portland and then abandoned him.

Sammis stood in the rain for an hour, trying unsuccessfully to get passersby to help him and catching a cold. Then a visitor from New York called police. Officers took about 15 minutes to get the handcuffs off.

Asked Sunday whether the two friends, who were to be in the wedding party, are still invited, Sammis said: "I haven't talked to them yet. I'm thinking about it."

No Setback For ERA Drive

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The leader of North Carolinians United for ERA says the movement has not suffered as a result of last week's elections.

The General Assembly has rejected the ERA four times since 1973.

Union Fight Upheld By Polish Supreme Court

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Supreme Court ruled today in favor of the nation's biggest independent union, registering its charter without a disputed clause and averting a new wave of strikes.

After a session of nearly three hours, presiding judge Witold Formanski said the Warsaw district court had exceeded its authority last month when it added to the charter of the "Solidarity" trade union a phrase asserting the Communist Party's supremacy.

Formanski said the lower court had "no right to either cross out any sections of the charter, nor to add anything."

Under an agreement reached Sunday at a Solidarity meeting, lawyers for the union, which claims as members some 10 million of the country's 18 million workers, prepared an annex to the charter. The annex repeats the legal bases for the union, including international labor conventions, the agreement ending the Gdansk area strikes last August and the Polish constitution.

Solidarity's leaders had threatened to strike Wednesday if the high court rejected their appeal, and union leader Lech Walesa was expected to call off strike preparedness plans at a televised news conference today.

The constitution states the Communist Party's "leading role" in the building of a socialist society. Union leaders claimed the clause added by the lower court implied that the party played the same role in the union's operation, placing its independence in question.

"We accomplished what we set out to accomplish on the 31st of August," Walesa told thousands of cheering supporters when he emerged from the downtown court building.

"However, this is the beginning. In front of us is a big line of work. And everyone has his own piece of this line. No one is going to blame Leszek (diminutive for Lech) because if anything fails it will be your fault not mine. We are to work hard and to control."

The crowd began singing the Polish national anthem and pelting Walesa's buses with flowers as the former shipyard electrician entered the bus to leave the court area.

Walesa asked the crowd to sing one verse of "Bozecos Polska," a traditional Roman Catholic hymn. Walesa and his advisers then drove away to confer with the primate of Poland's Catholic Church, Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński.

The agreement signed Aug. 31 by workers and the government to end a wave of strikes provided for the creation of independent unions. It also asserted the union would recognize socialism in Poland and the constitutional "leading role of the Communist Party." Walesa has repeatedly said: "We recognize the leading role of the party in the government, but not in the union."

The court is to prepare written brief on its verdict within seven days.

The Polish government indicated Sunday it was not giving any ground in the case, and began restricting foreign correspondents in an apparent move to limit coverage of possible new strikes. But today, at least one case indicated the government was relaxing again.

Dozens of foreign correspondents were denied entry to the country at Warsaw's international airport Sunday. Correspondents already in the country on visitors' visas were called to the passport office and were expected to be told to leave Poland. But today, the Foreign Ministry told an Associated Press correspondent his visa problems were a mistake.

What do signs and joggers have in common? Both want to be picked out by the eye and noticed. In this respect, color has a great deal of influence upon a subject's ability to be seen. Yellow is the point of highest visibility on the spectrum. It is the region of greatest brightness and the place where acuity is sharpest. Following yellow in this ability to present objects sharply and clearly, are orange, red and yellow-green. Red-orange, perhaps, has the highest rank in the ability to draw attention.

Eyewear today, in addition to its functional values, is of great concern fashionwise also. At CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 6th, Physicians Quadrangle Building A, in addition to professionally dispensing prescription lenses and proper fitting frames, we take great strides to assure your satisfaction in frame color and style. CROCHETED JACKET... is both elegant and economical.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Here's how to achieve a million-dollar look on a penny-pinching budget. Use four-ply worsted weight yarn and your crochet skills to fashion a stunning houndstooth check double breasted jacket — perfect over slacks or skirts. Directions are for small (8-10), medium (12-14) and large (16-18).

To obtain instructions for making the houndstooth jacket, send your request for Leaflet No. 9147 with $1.00 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order kit No. K-9147 by sending check or money order for $14.50 for small and medium sizes or $16.50 for large size. Specify your choice of the following color combinations: burgundy and grey; royal blue and white; coffee and beige or light and dark denim. Each kit contains instructions plus two colors of acrylic yarn; shipping charges are included.

DEAR READERS: Many of you are looking for last-minute ideas for making Christmas gifts so I will try to give you as many as possible in this column in the coming weeks.

Experimenting with a crochet stitch called the Star Shell stitch, I found I could make a lovely scarf in a couple of evenings. A tailored version can be made from four-ply worsted weight yarn, but I made a soft fluffy one from Bernat's Cloudspun, a blend of acrylic and brushed wool. Other similar yarns are Brunswick's Eleganza or Bucilla Melody. Most of these come in luscious soft colors.

With a size H or I crochet hook, loosely chain 33 stitches. For the foundation row, work a double crochet in the fifth chain from hook. (Then a double crochet in same stitch as last stitch, yarnover, draw up a loop in same stitch as last stitch, yarnover and pull hook through two loops; yarnover, skip one stitch, draw up a loop in next stitch, yarnover and draw through two loops, yarnover and draw through three loops.) Repeat the steps given in parentheses to end of row. You should have 14 full shell patterns, with a turning chain at one end and a single stitch at the other. For Row two, chain three and turn. Skip one stitch and double-crochet in next stitch. Then repeat the steps given in parentheses in the previous paragraph to end of row, taking last stitch in top of turning chain.

From this point on, simply repeat Row two over and over for desired length. From two skeins of yarn, I made a scarf ten inches wide by approximately 48 inches in length. If desired, you can work a row of single crochet or some other edging stitches around all edges, although it is not necessary.

If you are using some other yarn and hook size, you may want more or fewer shell patterns to a row. For each additional shell pattern, add two chains or subtract two chains for fewer shells.

Another way to effectively use this pattern stitch is for place mats using either acrylic worsted weight yarns or cotton crochet yarns. As stitch gauge would vary widely from one yarn to another, I hesitate to give an exact number for the starting chain. Instead, I will just tell you to work an even number of chains to the desired width of the finished place mat and then chain five additional stitches. Then just work in the pattern given until it is the desired depth.

Another, even simpler, pattern stitch which gives a denser, more fabric-like appearance is the one over one stitch. Work an even number of chain stitches, single crochet in the second chain from hook and double crochet in the next. Continue across chain, alternating single and double crochet stitches, ending with a double crochet. Chain one and turn.

On the next row, work a single crochet in each double of the previous row and a double crochet in each single of the previous row. Chain one and turn. Repeat this row over and over for desired length.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Reminder Had Big Message

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Halloween eve, our 11-year-old daughter (I'll call her Tina) went trick-or-treating with three girlfriends.

Tina happens to be very tall for her age. One woman answered her door with treats in hand, looked at Tina and said, "Oh, you're too old for trick-or-treating." Then she gave treats to the other girls who were all much shorter, and Tina was turned away empty-handed. She felt so hurt she left her friends and came home in tears.

Abby, tall children — especially girls — are very sensitive about their height. I suppose they should be taught to develop a tougher defense against insulting remarks about their size, but it might help if you published this letter to remind people that today some 11- and 12-year-olds are nearly full-grown. Thank you.

TINA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Thanks for a little reminder with a big message.

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told that woman not to have an abortion regardless of what her husband wanted. But you added, "It's your body."

Abby, once a woman has conceived a child, it is not only her body, there is another body to consider, another life — the life of her unborn child.

For a woman to abort her child is murder, and there is just no other way to look at it.

GOD-FEARING CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Please read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: Since so many women and ministers read your column, I would like to present the Biblical view on abortion:

A woman has the right to abort an accidental pregnancy if she so chooses.

The fetus is not a living soul, but a living organism. It is a part of the mother's body — connected by the umbilical cord. The fetus is not a human soul until the umbilical cord is severed and the fetus takes its first breath of air and is able to survive on its own outside its mother's body.

The Bible clearly states: "God breathed into Adam's nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul" (Genesis 2:7).

BIBLE STUDENT

DEAR ABBY: TICKTOCK TAMMY may get rid of late-night guests who overstay their welcome by having a grandfather clock that chimes every 15 minutes, but it didn't work for me. I have had a chimer and cuckoo clock in my living room for months, and not one guest left because the clocks chimed and cuckooed.

I had the cuckoo clock set one minute later than the grandfather clock, and right after one chimed, the other cuckooed. Some guests remarked on how "funny" it was, but they all stayed until after midnight. Not one person said, "Well, it's getting late, I think we'd better go."

One guest said, "Doesn't that chiming and cuckooing drive you nuts?"

I answered, "No, but you'd better go before it drives you nuts!"

A New Record Is Set

Buried beneath an avalanche of election news last week was a bit of startling, but good, local information.

The United Way had exceeded its goal for 1980. Not only was the goal exceeded but it was substantial. Director Lou Folger reported that a total of $413,770.97 had been pledged, which puts the campaign at 106.1 percent. And all eight divisions of United Way were in excess of their individual goals.

But even that is not the most important thing. The United Way reached its goal weeks before it has ever been accomplished before.

When the old United Fund was first begun in Pitt County there were years when the goal was never reached. Later the community began raising the required amount, but often it was after the first of the year before the work was completed. Later the drive stretched into December.

Now we have accomplished something that has been needed for a long time. We have completed the United Way campaign in a reasonable time.

Congratulations are due to General Chairman Gene Taylor, Lou Folger and all the workers and contributors who decided this year we would confront this task with enthusiasm.

We have established a new goal for ourselves this year — that of completing the United Way drive by Nov. 4.

Vets Mostly Citizen-Soldiers

Tomorrow is veterans day, based on the date of the armistice which ended World War I.

The observance was known as Armistice Day for many years, but was changed to reflect the honor which the nation wanted to bestow on veterans of World War II and later military actions.

It honors all veterans, but particularly the citizen-soldiers who went to war solely because their country needed them. Many lost their lives, or suffered wounds; many returned to civilian occupations, putting the military behind them. Most asked little in return except to be able to resume their lives and occupations in a free country.

We as a nation owe them a debt of gratitude, however, and this day is in their honor.

THIS AFTERNOON

To Fragmentation

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A few hours just looking around any of the larger communities across North Carolina reveals some startling changes in lifestyles; changes which political analysts are now beginning to see as the foundations of apathy — un-involvement — in local governmental affairs and in elections.

Taking a look confirms what the figures from Raleigh show: sprawling apartment buildings march seemingly without end across much of the suburban landscape, and the shopping centers chasing the residents are leaving downtowns vacant. Older apartments are turning into condominiums for sale at an increasing pace as owners opt for a chunk of cash-in-hand rather than the daily headaches of running rental property.

Older people who lived in the lower rental units are hard pressed to find shelter. Meanwhile, on the rural fringes of town, mobile home parks proliferate. The trend had much to do with the economy. Housing costs have doubled and tripled in recent years, causing many young people to abandon their dream of a house and lot.

Society
But there are other factors as well, as dynamic changes sweep through society: fewer marriages, more divorces, a lower birth rate, the marriage age climbing steadily higher, more working mothers.

These changed lifestyles often mean individuals find multi-unit living more attractive.

All of which means that the currently popular term "fragmentation of society" takes on a more clear meaning. Politicians are seeing that citizens seldom have the bigger interests of the community at heart, but rather focus narrowly on one or two issues of special importance and organize around that.

BILL NOBLITT

Traditionally, it has been the property owner who lives in a single family home and plans to stay there awhile who pushes government for the standards such as good streets, garbage collection, better schools, recreational programs, improved police and fire protection. Likewise, the property owner is the one who brings pressure against tax increases and is concerned with zoning and planning, etc.

Homeowners take a more active part in community affairs across the board — church and civic organizations, neighborhood clubs, volunteer efforts. Their investment gives them the incentive to protect and defend their homes and lifestyles against any threat.

Society fragments, then, into older, higher income family people living in single family houses, and younger, people — singles or just starting families — elsewhere.

Arafat Shaving Problem

WASHINGTON — A reader has asked me to help him with a problem he has. The question he posed is: "I notice that PLO leader Yasser Arafat and new Iranian Prime Minister Rajai always manage to appear with a four- to six-day growth of beard, which never grows any longer. How do they manage to do it?"

In order to get the answer I called a friend of mine at the CIA who was very upset that I was on to something. He agreed to meet me in a safe house in McLean, Va. He told me to take a taxi to National Airport, buy a ticket to Bangor, Me., and then at the last moment rent a car and drive to the address.

When I met him at the house there were three CIA agents in the living room who refused to give their names, and my friend.

"Why are you interested in

"You mean he's working for both sides?"

"It's obvious he is. To get to the bottom of this, we'll tell you what we know if you tell us what you know."

"It sounds good to me," I said. "It seems there are a lot of leaders in the Middle East who don't shave every day. By the same token they refuse to grow beards. They prefer a four- to six-day growth, but no more. My source believes they're all using the same razor blade."

One of the CIA men was taking notes. "He's on the right track," he said.

"Did your source tell you how they manage to get the razor blade back and forth?" "Arafat seems to be the bag man. He's always traveling somewhere and my man believes he has the razor blade hidden in his turban. We've never seen a picture of Yasser without his head-dress. It would be the obvious place to keep it."

The men looked at each other before one spoke. "Suppose we told you it wasn't a razor blade but a Soviet electric razor."

I hit my head with the palm of my hand. "An electric razor. I never thought of that. But wouldn't an electric razor give them all a clean shave?"

"You would think so," my friend said. "But we have evidence that the Soviets have been unloading bum electric razors on their clients in the Middle East. No one in Russia will buy them because they will hardly cut any kind of beard, so every time a leftist leader comes to Moscow they give him one as a gift. Arafat shaves every

Other Editors Say Out Of Step

(Washington Daily News)

In recent times we have seen so much ugliness in the Greensboro area as ideas have come into conflict when people holding these ideas find themselves out of step with accepted American standards.

We speak specifically of the shootout in Greensboro in which several people were killed. This shootout involved members of the Communist Workers party and members of the Nazi party.

Looking out over North Carolina today we suspect there might be some active communists and some active nazis. We cannot answer why because we do not know; but we suspect they are out there.

A given individual has the right to be a communist if he or she chooses. That same individual has a right to be a nazi, if he or she so wishes. Each has a right to believe in God or to be an infidel. Each has the right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness according to his own personal dictates so long as those dictates do not interfere with the freedoms of someone else.

America has so much to offer. It may sound corny to say that this is the land of opportunity or to say that here in this great land we do seek quality of opportunity, justice and right. But how else would one put it and still be emphasizing the truth?

Then we have other factors that come into play. There are honor, decency, self respect and common sense. Just a few days ago in Durham around Duke hospital two women were arrested and charged with trespassing. They allegedly are members of the Communist Workers party. They were distributing party handbills on hospital grounds, we are told.

They perhaps feel they were arrested because they belong to the communist group. Because of the difficulties in finding justice, it might take five years or more for these two individuals to have their cases heard eventually by the United States Supreme court. What a farce we sometimes make out of the search for justice!

But it bothers us, not only because of what the communist party or the nazi party stand for, but we are deeply concerned as to why any American enjoying the freedoms of democracy would want to use those freedoms to gain a foothold and eventually destroy them.

If these people in our state and elsewhere in America are so dissatisfied with the democracy we offer and the protection we give so that they can even go so far as to try to destroy our system, then they ought to go somewhere else. Democracy offers the freedom to go elsewhere.

Too many young boys have died in protecting democracy when it has been threatened to stand by idly and see us become the laughingstock of those who would destroy us and all we stand for.

Strength For Today

OPEN-MINDEDNESS

Someone has said that an open mind is like an open mouth — if it doesn't close on something solid, it is pretty silly.

For many people, open-mindedness means opening the mind to everything that comes along and assessing all things at about equal value. Everything new is good; everything old is bad.

But the open mind which is open at both ends and allows knowledge to flow out about as fast as it comes in is not a wise mind. The same is true of the open mind which accepts everything new as good and condemns everything old. The open mind which becomes an end in itself, quite apart from any good it can create, is far from being creative.

The closed mind has cursed the world when it has become the bulwark for selfish and evil systems. But the open mind is neither simple or easy to utilize. It has to be possessed by those already wise, tolerant, and morally sound. — Elisha Douglass

Key Choices Face Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Among the myriad choices confronting president-elect Ronald Reagan are two which will tell whether his administration follows pedestrian Republican predecessors or sets a radical new course for the nation.

Choice No. 1: Will Reagan follow widespread advice and dump two of his campaign's national security advisers, Richard Allen and William van Cleave?

Choice No. 2: Will he pick a prestigious Wall Street favorite with high governmental experience as secretary of the treasury, or risk the establishment's scorn with an unknown but brilliant iconoclast named Lewis Lehrman?

The choices are important both in themselves and for symbolic content. Purging Allen and van Cleave, advocates of true defense preparedness and toughened foreign policy, could be a move back toward the very detentist policies that have weakened the nation. Avoiding the establishment's displeasure in filling the Treasury post would signal the embrace of economic orthodoxy.

Taken together, those two steps would signify Reagan's intention to replicate the Nixon-Ford administration: eight years of declining world prestige and a deteriorating economy, accompanied by the Republican Party's stagnation. They have acquired a sheen only in contrast to the four Carter years that followed.

Indeed, widely-specified choices for senior Cabinet posts are all Nixon-Ford retreats. So are many of the advisers in place for the transition. In addition to their advantages of numbers and proximity, these Nixon-Ford veterans wear the cloak of respectability. Their appointment will earn instant approval from commentators who never wanted Reagan for president anyway.

The transmutation of Ronald Reagan as Gerald Ford's political executor might have been unavoidable had he won narrowly, as expected. Some farsighted supporters now tell him that his landslide carries a mandate that not only permits but requires him to build an administration with new and distinct policies, however unfamiliar and radical to establishment eyes.

The fate of Dick Allen, Reagan's Washington consultant on foreign policy the past four years, is a test case. Some Reagan advisers have copied the Queen of Hearts, who in ordering off Alice's head insisted: "Sentence first — verdict afterwards." Before conflict-of-interest charges against him could even be studied, these advisers were spreading word that he was gone from the future administration (even if retained to help plan the transition).

There is no evidence of complicity by Henry A. Kissinger (who telephoned Allen condolences about his troubles). But Allen is viewed by conservative Republican politicians as a safeguard against the return of Kissinger or Kissinger-style detentism. In urging Allen to fight his detractors, one such politician wrote him: "You cannot lose this battle, for it is at the heart of the fight for the mind and soul of the Reagan administration's foreign and defense policies."

Van Cleave, Reagan's principal adviser on arms control, has no ethical charges against him. But when the Reagan campaign Oct. 29 repudiated his public statement that the Reagan administration might have to increase defense spending more than 7 percent a year, there were echoes of President Ford's sacking of James Schlesinger as defense secretary for refusing to cut defense spending. Like Allen, van Cleave has been privately read out of the new administration by some Reagan insiders.

As for the key Treasury post, publicly-mentioned possibilities are, to the man, Nixon-Ford alumni: William Simon, Alan Greenspan, Charles Walker. All are publicly committed, as is Reagan, to sustained tax reduction. But since none of them supported that policy in their Nixon-Ford incarnations, the question arises: Would they opt for caution and respectability in a Reagan administration?

That question cannot be asked about Lew Lehrman, a 42-year-old Yale- and Harvard-educated self-made millionaire from New York City and an innovative economic theorist. At the Treasury, Lehrman would insist on supply-side theories with radical tax reduction. He would start reviving the dollar by moving toward a return to gold backing. He is no favorite of Wall Street but has fervent support from the supply-side economic clique and a wide Republican spectrum in Congress ranging from moderate Rep. David Stockman of Michigan to conservative Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina.

They and other Republican politicians want to see senior Cabinet members whose names are not household words. That would take political courage for Reagan. So would appointment as secretary of state of a name that is familiar: Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson. Some of Reagan's Nixon-Ford advisers (especially Bill Simon) bitterly oppose Jackson, but he would be a departure from the unhappy Republican past and an opening to coalition politics.

The last three presidents to begin new administrations — John F. Kennedy, Richard M. Nixon and Jimmy Carter — were shackled by hairline victories. Not so Reagan, who faces unlimited possibilities with no need to embrace names and policies of a past more associated with failure than success.

People Clipping More Coupons

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Americans are clipping more coupons than ever before, despite a campaign by one of the country's biggest food chains to do away with coupons completely.

Thirty-nine percent of the shoppers questioned by the A.C. Nielsen Co. in a recently released nationwide survey said they used more coupons than they did a year earlier. An additional 17 percent said they used coupons "some-what more." Thirty-seven percent said they used about the same number of coupons as they did in 1979 and 7 percent said they used fewer.

The Nielsen study indicated that 76 percent of all households — more than three families out of four — use coupons. Other surveys have put the figure at 90 percent.

The anti-coupon campaign came from Giant Foods, a Washington-area chain which argued that shoppers would be better served if manufacturers lowered prices on all items instead of issuing coupons. Giant also said low-income consumers — who need the savings most — use coupons least because they do not buy the magazines and newspapers where the offers appear. And it claimed that fraudulent use of coupons, particularly through misredemptions, costs consumers millions of dollars.

Early this year, Giant prepared a distributed a film on coupons, including an interview with Esther Peterson, the president's adviser on consumer affairs. At the time, Barry Scher of Giant said the company would like to see coupons eliminated. "There are alternatives to coupon programs," he said.

Eileen Katz of Giant's consumer affairs department said in a recent interview that the store "received a lot of mail on the issue." She said the letter writers favored doing away with coupons by a three-to-one margin "if consumers could be assured of lower prices, of a trade-off."

Giant no longer makes any coupon offers of its own, although it continues to accept manufacturers' coupons. Ms. Katz admitted the anti-coupon effort did not draw any widespread support from the rest of the industry, but added: "It wasn't an active ongoing campaign. We just felt it was something we wanted to bring to the attention of the public and we did."

The Nielsen survey, meanwhile, found that use of coupons by low-income consumers has risen, although it still lags behind that of the general population as a whole. Sixty-nine percent of the low-income households questioned by Nielsen said they used coupons — up from 51 percent in a similar survey five years ago.

Richard H. Ayrcrigg, director of marketing research for the Nielsen Clearing House, said the survey covered a sample of 1,007 consumers and was conducted in June 1980.

He said there were several possible reasons for the increase in coupon use, particularly among low-income consumers. Among the reasons, he said, were "a more broad availability of coupons in the marketplace," new ways of delivering coupons and growing media coverage of couponing which "has made consumers more aware."

The Nielsen study indicated that consumers are skeptical of the claim that eliminating coupons would lower prices. Forty-seven percent of those questioned said they thought there would be no change in prices if coupons were eliminated; 22 percent said they thought prices would go up; 19 percent said prices would go down; and the rest were not sure or did not answer.

Seventy-two percent of the people surveyed said they liked coupons "very much;" 23 percent said they liked them slightly; and 5 percent said they disliked them.

The highest use of coupons, according to the Nielsen survey, is in the Northeast and East Central regions; the lowest use of coupons is in the Southeast. Whites are more likely to use coupons than non-whites, the survey found, and people over 30 are more apt to use than people under 30.

Python That Killed Baby Is Described As Docile

DALLAS (AP) — Police say they will ask a grand jury to investigate the death of a 7-month-old girl who was slowly suffocated by an 8-foot python that may have tried to swallow her.

A spokesman from the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office say it may have taken Toni Lynn Duboe as long as five minutes to die from "traumatic asphyxiation" after the pet snake crawled from its 30-gallon aquarium and into her crib.

It is legal in Dallas to keep snakes in private residences. However, Sgt. Gus Rose said he would present the case to a grand jury.

"It could have been hungry, and probably was," Rose said.

Robert Eugene Duboe, the child's father, was "deeply grief-stricken," police said.

According to police, Duboe told them he was awakened by his wife after she found the infant early Saturday. He said the animal left a trail of blood — apparently from wounds on the child's face — as it crawled to a wooden ledge over the dead girl's crib. He said he wrestled the snake into another bedroom, shot it with a .25-caliber pistol, then partially severed its head before throwing it back into his daughter's room, where police found it.

Another daughter, 5, who was asleep in the room, was unharmed.

Rose said Duboe told him the snake usually was fed a hamster every two weeks and that it had been about that long since the reticulated python — which was 4 inches in diameter, weighed 7½ pounds and was 2 years old — last ate. Duboe bought it about 18 months earlier.

Pathologists said the baby's head was covered with "dozens" of needle-sized puncture marks. One set of bites was U-shaped, an indication the snake may have tried to swallow the baby, they said.

Neighbors said the python — named Illusion because it changed color as the light changed — was docile and unaggressive.

"He (Duboe) would let it out of the cage sometimes and it would crawl around for a minute or two and then just back into a corner and stay still," said Lonnie Mager, who tried to calm the parents after the child was found. "I didn't ever see it do anything that was aggressive."

Mager said he accompanied Duboe to the apartment and saw the infant.

"The child was bloody, and the snake had two slash marks on the side of its neck," Mager said. "It (the snake) was lying on the floor by the crib and still moving, squirming on the floor, I guess from reflexes. I was sick all day yesterday."

Dr. Bernhard Grizmek, an animal behavior expert, said although pythons normally defend themselves by biting, "constriction is typically used against prey."

Jim Walker, a reptile keeper at the Dallas Zoo, said there have been "documented cases of pythons eating babies."

"That particular species of python has a rather nasty disposition," he said. "When they get hungry, they get pretty voracious and would strike toward a person."

Walker said pythons have hinged lower jaws that can open wide enough for them to swallow small pigs.

Fire Damages Show Stand

Fire heavily damaged a fire department amusement stand at a carnival at King's Shopping Center parking lot early Sunday morning.

Officers said the blaze, reported at 3:07 a.m., burned several holes in the tent, owned by Toby Sugg Amusements of Goldsboro.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started accidentally from a can of hydraulic fluid inside the canvas structure.

Damage from the blaze was estimated at $1,500.

(Continued from page 4) there is less involvement in community, civic and church activities. There is a strong feeling that political and community leaders pay them less attention. There is a lower level of expectation from community or government. And most significantly, there is a feeling of not belonging.

As more and more people either are priced out of the single family home market, or choose not to own a home because of changed lifestyles, community and political leaders will find a growing population which is at the same time difficult to reach, and feels left out.

All of which underlies the troubling tendency of groups to form around "single issues" such as abortion or equal rights, investing all their time and energy in an isolated field rather than taking a broader interest in government generally.

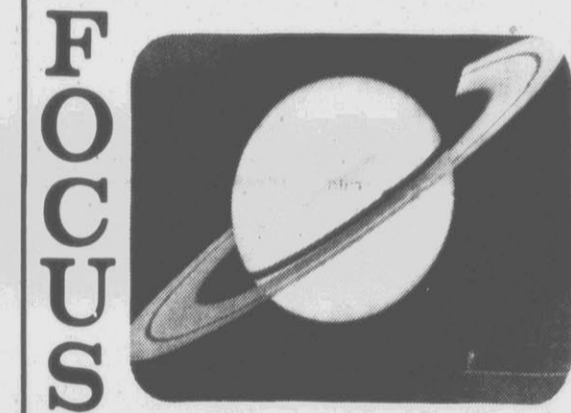

Buchwald Col. ...

(Continued from page 4) day with one, and so does Rajai and a lot of the other people in that part of the world. But even on the adjustable high setting it's the best they can do."

"Why do you people want to keep this a secret?" I asked. "I should think it would be to our advantage to publicize the fact that the Soviets are unloading rejected electric razors on their friends."

"Because every morning when Arafat and his cronies shave it causes them excruciating pain, and for the moment we want to keep it that way."

A Closer Look At Saturn

This week, the Voyager I spacecraft is scheduled to make its closest approach to the planet Saturn. Saturn, one billion miles from Earth, has fascinated people since ancient times. Early astronomers believed that Saturn was the planet farthest from the sun. They named it after the Roman god of agriculture. It wasn't until the 17th century that Christiaan Huygens, a Dutch astronomer, identified Saturn's famous rings. Because thick clouds of gas surround Saturn, scientists know very little about the second-largest planet's surface, or even where its atmosphere ends and its surface begins. Photos from Voyager have already revealed irregular patterns in its rings and the existence of two additional moons.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the solar system's largest planet?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Lenin led a revolutionary group called the Bolsheviks.

Wart Doctor Sees Cures But Unable Explain Them

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP) — Undertaker Toy "Pop" Greene, 73, says if people would read their Bibles, they would find out they can do a lot of things.

Greene, a self-described Christian and a "regular old fella," hints that his faith is what has enabled him to become Rock Hill's unofficial wart doctor.

"I don't have to touch any of them," Greene said of the warts he cures. "I do have to have the exact number of warts we're talking about."

Greene will not charge for the service. "Never have, never will, not in my whole life," he said.

But sometimes satisfied, wartless customers drop by his funeral home with cakes, fruit and testimonies to his method — whatever it is.

Greene's way of zapping warts is as mysterious as the skin eruptions themselves.

"Hocus-pocus," he said. "I believe I've got to have a little faith and they've got to have a little faith," he added when pressed for more information.

Asked for more details, he said, "If I told, I might not be able to do it anymore. It might leave me."

Greene also is known for his apparent ability to soothe burns by "talking out the fire" and stop bleeding by "saying the right words." Beyond those descriptions, he will not disclose his techniques.

"I couldn't really tell you how it happens," Greene said. "I just know it does."

"My grandmother, a little Irish lady named Annie Berryhill Neal, could do it. She passed it down to me. She got it from her father. I was always told I had to pass it on to a member of the opposite sex. I don't know why, but it's always worked that way."

Asked if he considers his power a gift, he replied, "I sure didn't buy it. If people would read the Bible, they'd find out they can do a lot of things."

On Greene's case history of wart removals are:

— A Rock Hill man, a loom fixer in a textile mill, had so many warts that "they were hanging off his knuckles — great big old seed warts," Greene said.

Green's wife Ruby said the warts interfered with his work, but after Greene applied his technique, the man's hands were "as smooth as a baby's," she said.

— A Rock Hill woman always dressed in high-necked clothes, even in the summer.

"I'm inquisitive," Greene said. "One day, I asked her why she always wore high-necked sweaters. She rolled down her collar, and Lord a'mercay, I couldn't begin to count the warts. I stopped at a hundred."

Greene did his hocus-pocus, and the next time he saw the woman, she was wearing a low-cut dress and had no warts.

— A York, S.C., man had a wart the size of a blackberry that weighed down his eyelid so he could see out of only one eye. Doctors could not do anything because removal would rip the delicate skin.

Greene said he got rid of the wart.

People with a tendency to bleed profusely when cut also have sought Greene's services. Mary Clark, who has worked in the funeral home's flower shop 23 years, says she's one of those people.

"If I stick a pin in my finger, I just bleed and bleed and bleed," she said Friday. "I call Pop on the phone and I can be talking to him and it stops. He really can make it work, I tell you that. I tell him he better not die before I do."

Greene said he does not work on people with serious ailments, such as cancer. But he is willing to branch out to more cosmetic treatments if asked.

"One woman came up to me and said I'd gotten rid of all her warts, could I go to work on her moles," Greene said with a laugh. "She's got six moles. I said I'd see what I could do."

No Suspect In Killing Of Three Va. Brothers

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Three brothers who family members say were inseparable were found shot to death in the parking lot of an abandoned service station here. Police say they have no motive or suspects.

Police found the bodies of Glen White, 25, Clayton White, 26, and Robert White III, 27, all of Chesapeake, at about 11:50 p.m. Saturday, about five minutes after receiving a call from nearby residents who heard the shooting, said Gary Smith, police information officer.

"Each one had been shot once," Smith said. "Glen was shot under the left armpit. Robert was shot under the left armpit, and Clayton in the forehead just above his left eye."

None of the men carried identification, and police had to identify the bodies through fingerprints.

The brothers were apparently killed by bullets from a small handgun, police said. An autopsy was to be conducted today.

"We have no suspects and no motive," Smith said. Robbery has been ruled out because a small amount of cash was found with one of the bodies. None of the victims was armed or had any contraband, Smith said.

Family members said the brothers often took a bus from Norfolk to Portsmouth and would then transfer to a bus going to Chesapeake. If the connecting bus was not running, they might hitchhike the rest of the way or take a taxi.

Although there is a bus stop near the scene of the shooting, neither police nor family members could say if the brothers had been on a bus or had been trying to catch one at the time of the shootings.

Several nearby residents said they saw a man run from the scene shortly after shots were fired.

"I heard my shadow and there they were, on the ground screaming," said one elderly woman in the neighborhood. "But I also saw a man running down Scott Street."

"I couldn't tell you what he looked like, but I saw him running."

Another woman in the area said she heard the shots and saw two of the brothers fall to the ground. She said she noticed a man in a dark green jacket running away.

"I was about to leave the house when I heard something go 'poof,'" she said. "I started joking with my friend and screamed as if I had been hurt. But when I looked ... I saw two of them fall and they didn't get back up. My God, I knew what had happened."

"I didn't see anyone shoot anybody but I saw a man running down Scott Street just after the shooting. I don't know if he was black or white, but he had on a dark green jacket."

Residents said the area has been plagued by robberies in the last few months, and police confirmed that robberies in the area are up.

"I don't know what they (the brothers) were doing out there," an elderly woman said. "But whatever was going on, it has got to stop. Now somebody has got to tell some mother she has lost three sons."

Shirley Baker, the victims' mother, sat in her Chesapeake apartment Sunday night, looking at family pictures as relatives and friends gathered around her.

"They were so close," she said. "They were always together. They weren't just brothers, they were best friends."

Mrs. Baker said her sons had shared an apartment in Norfolk and had recently moved in with her until they could find another place.

"They had never been in any real trouble," she said. "The only fights they had were between themselves." Mrs. Baker said Glen, an unemployed construction worker, had paid his tuition to start at an electronics school this week. Robert worked at the Naval Supply Center in Norfolk, and Clayton started a part-time job Saturday at the Navy Exchange in Portsmouth, she said.

Jollie Baker, the victims' stepfather, said: "You see that kind of stuff on television — three people being shot down. But you think to yourself, it's only make-believe. I never would have thought it would happen to my family."

Several Marijuana Arrests Made

Greenville police arrested five persons on charges of possession of marijuana in connection with separate incidents here Friday and Saturday, Chief Glenn Cannon reported this morning.

According to the chief, Larry Hulon Willis Jr., 21 of New Bern was arrested about 11:45 p.m. Friday in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets and charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of sale, after officers allegedly found a quantity of marijuana in his possession.

About the same time, officers arrested Paul Eugene Selfridge, 22 of Plymouth, on charges of simple possession of marijuana in the same parking lot.

Cannon said Pamela Boyd Ross, 25 of Route 2, Washington, was arrested on marijuana possession charges about 1:05 a.m. Saturday, after police allegedly found a quantity of marijuana in her possession in a parking lot at the rear of the First State Bank Building at the intersection of Third Street and Evans Mall.

In a 1 a.m. Saturday incident, Cannon said Donald Wayne Martinez, 20 of Camp Lejeune, was charged with possession of marijuana in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets.

Wesley Calvin Ross, 22 of New Bern, was arrested by investigators about 11:15 p.m. Saturday in a parking lot at the intersection of Third and Cotanche Streets when a quantity of marijuana was allegedly found in his possession.

Tear Up Street To Rescue Dog

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — Put a raccoon in front of a pair of good hunting dogs and they'll go anywhere — even into the Hamden sewers.

The Hamden sister pair, who belong to two West Haven men, were hunting here Saturday with their masters when they disappeared.

Sometime later, people passing nearby heard the sound of a dog crying, coming from somewhere underground. Someone pinpointed the sound's location and spotted a dog stuck upside down in a sewer pipe.

The dog warden, police officers, firefighters and neighborhood residents tried unsuccessfully to extricate the dog, and finally the town's Public Works Department was called in to dig up the street.

When the street was opened, not one dog, but two animals caked with dirt and cement emerged from the pipe.

Their owners said they had disappeared after spotting a raccoon.

Seek Millions In Sunken Gold

LONDON (AP) — After a futile 25-year search, a salvage company has found the wreck of the British cruiser Edinburgh with $120 million in gold believed to be aboard, the Sunday Times reported.

Calling the find "one of the world's great sunken treasures," the newspaper said the British salvage company could receive as much as 40 percent of the gold. It said Britain would get one-third of the rest with two-thirds going to the Soviet Union.

The ship sank from torpedo hits in 900 feet of water in the Barents Sea 170 miles north of the Soviet port of Murmansk in 1942, a critical year in World War II. Salvage experts from Britain, Norway and the Soviet Union have been searching for the wreckage.

"It will be one of the most difficult salvage operations ever," said Fergus Hinds, recovery manager for Risdon-Beasley, the company that claims it found the cruiser last summer. "The wreck is there, the gold is there and the job can be done," Hinds told the Times.

Who will salvage the wreck remains to be determined. Risdon-Beasley and two other companies, one British and one Norwegian, have applied with the British Department of Trade to carry out the operation, the newspaper reported.

It said the British and Soviet governments must give joint approval before dredging can begin.

The Edinburgh sank after being crippled by two torpedo strikes as it headed from Murmansk for the United States with five and a half tons of gold in payments for weapons and equipment.

In the 1950s, British salvage crews failed to find the ship, but were unsure they would be able to lift the gold even if they had. By the 1970s, salvage techniques had progressed to the point where the operation was feasible.

But political considerations complicated the search in waters claimed by both Norway and the Soviet Union.

The Times said the Risdon-Beasley vessel was buzzed repeatedly by Soviet warplanes during the search for the wreck.

In a similar project, a Japanese company is salvaging imperial Russian gold and platinum ingots from the Admiral Nakhimov, a Czarist warship that sank in 1905 during the Russo-Japanese war. The treasure aboard the wreck is said to be worth between $1.4 billion and $4.5 billion.

The Admiral Nakhimov lies in waters Japan has claimed as territorial since 1977. The Soviet Union maintains the vessel is in international waters and its cargo remains Soviet property.

Environmentalists Looking For Election Survivors

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists, reeling from the Republican landslide that swept through the White House and Congress last week, are searching the debris for survivors.

They're finding a few. But, for the most part, environmental lobbyists are busy digging out the bodies of lost programs, toting up the losses in defeated candidates and girding themselves for the battles ahead.

"The people who are coming in are not disposed to environmental protection, by and large," said Dave Berick of the Environmental Policy Center. "They're certainly opposed to excessive federal regulation, which is generally regarded as environmental regulation."

"Exactly how bad the situation is going to be is hard to tell," Berick said. But he added there was "nothing very good" in the election.

Last Tuesday's balloting swept Ronald Reagan into the presidency and gave Republicans control of the Senate for the first time in a quarter century.

The results were a shock to environmentalists, who had regular access to the Carter White House and a substantial base of support in the Democratic Senate.

Still, environmentalists saw some bright spots for their cause in the election's results: The new Republican chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee will be Sen. Robert Stafford of Vermont, a moderate who supports such environmental programs as the "superfund" legislation setting up a multibillion-dollar program to clean up toxic chemical waste dumps.

"We're very pleased with Stafford's record on superfund, on nuclear and on environmental issues in general," said Berick. "Just because you're a Republican doesn't mean you're opposed to doing the right thing on some environmental issues."

—The leadership of the conservation-oriented House

Interior Committee survived the election largely intact, providing a base in Congress.

"We do have the House," noted John Adams, executive director of the Natural Resources Defense Council. "We do have a number of friends, and a number of the new people have a record of being concerned about the environment."

—Conservationists opposing costly water development projects say they're hopeful the fiscal conservatism of the incoming Republicans will lead to closer scrutiny and possible defeat for controversial dam- and canal-building projects.

"The interests of conservationists and conservatives overlap in several significant areas," said Edward Osann of the Coalition for Water Project Review. "The advocates of open-ended water development for the sake of development really don't have a lot to crow about as a result of this election."

But stacked against the bright spots were the losses. Environmentalist-backed candidates defeated in Tuesday's election included Sens. John Culver, D-Iowa; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; John Durkin, D-N.H.; George McGovern, D-S.D.; Frank Church, D-Idaho; and Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

In the House, conservationists lost Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas; Andrew Maguire, D-N.J.; and Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa.

Republican control of the Senate also will make Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, where he will gain significant control over legislation dealing with the inevitable conflicts between energy development and environmental protection.

McClure is on record as favoring increased use of nuclear power and greater development of the nation's resources.

"I guess if there's a blow, that's one of the worst," said Berick of the Environmental Policy Center.

A principal battleground for environmentalists in next year's Congress will be waged over extending the authorization for the federal Clean Air Act, which expires in May.

Industry representatives already are lobbying Congress for more relaxed air pollution control requirements, saying industry needs capital to rebuild and cannot afford major investments for excessive pollution control equipment.

They are likely to have a receptive audience in Republican senators concerned about the future of U.S. industry in an increasingly competitive global market.

Berick noted that stringent air pollution controls affect the steel and auto industries, already under siege from foreign competitors, and the coal and synthetic fuels industries.

"A lot of people are going to be looking at it as a test," said Berick of the Clean Air fight.

"It's going to be a major battleground, and it doesn't look good, just because of the array of forces that have developed over the last six or seven years."

Still unanswered is what positions the Reagan administration will take toward the environment. During his campaign, the president-elect said he considers himself an environmentalist, but he railed against excessive pollution control standards and the wilderness programs that put federal land off limits to energy development.

A Blakeman Early of the Sierra Club said Reagan's background as California governor was not totally disastrous on environmental issues.

"We're not going to see a super-aggressive administration on environmental issues," he conceded. "But his record as governor was not one where we saw him disassemble environmental programs in the state."

N.C. Baptists Gather Today

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Some 3,000 Baptists were expected in Greensboro today for the start of the 150th meeting of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Unlike some past sessions, Biblical Recorder editor J. Marse Grant predicted the meeting will be calm.

"I think our convention is more united today than it's been in the 31 years I've been watching it," Grant said. "I don't see any issue coming up that would cause a great debate like we've had in the past."

The 1.1 million-member convention resolved one of its long-standing disputes last year by loosening its ties with Wake Forest University. After Jan. 1, 1981, individual churches will be free to decide for themselves whether to contribute money to the university.

The theme of the meeting will be "Our Heritage — Our Challenge," with general emphasis on the 150th anniversary of the convention's founding by seven ministers and seven laymen in Greenville on March 26, 1830.

The founders were members of the North Carolina Baptist Benevolent Society. At that time, there about 15,000 Baptists in 272 congregations in North Carolina. Today there are 3,456 churches. Their membership makes it the largest denomination in the state.

The agenda for the 1980 meeting focuses on the history of the convention.

Personalities and landmark events will be featured in dramatic presentations, including one honoring Thomas Meredith and Samuel Wait. Meredith was one of the delegates to the 1830 gathering, founder of the Biblical Recorder and the namesake of Meredith College. Wait was a founder of Wake Forest University, where a chapel has named in his honor.

Also on the schedule is the adoption of a new budget, which expected to exceed $19 million.

The convention's interests include seven colleges and universities, eight children's homes, six retirement homes and a hospital.

Armadillo A Tasty Dish

MONROE, La. (AP) — Joe McQuiston's wife went on strike the first time a dead armadillo was hauled into her kitchen, so he had to do the cooking. But she changed her mind after she tasted it, said McQuiston, who acquired a taste for the Southwestern delicacy from his Texas son-in-law.

The armadillo — its name means "little armored thing" in Spanish — is an odd-looking critter with a rounded shell, pointy snout, long tongue for catching insects, hairy ears and a very hairy belly. Its teeth are so far back it cannot bite in self-defense, so it digs long tunnels and rushes into one — or tries to dig itself a new one — at the first sign of danger. If it cannot get away, it tucks its nose and feet into its soft belly and curls into a virtually impenetrable ball.

There's a song about an armadillo that fell in love with an Army surplus tank. And Rudyard Kipling, in his "Just So Stories," suggests that one of the first armadillos was a turtle which loosened its shell plates so it could curl up and avoid being scooped out and eaten by the big cats living along the banks of the Amazon River.

Those who know say armadillo meat, which tastes something like a cross between pork and chicken, is good for you, and Southwesterners ate a good number of "Hoover hogs" during the Depression.

As for the McQuistons, they've eaten quite a few since that first one, using a number of recipes including that first variation on fried chicken.

Vote Questions Will Be Asked

Mrs. Janet P. Conway is an interviewer for the Bureau of the Census and will ask questions about voting in the 1980 elections in the Greenville area in a sample of households during the week of November 17-21.

No questions will be asked about party affiliation or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of American voters and non-voters by characteristics such as age, sex, residence, education, and labor force status.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady. Supply moderate. Demand good. Weights desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price this week is 46.08 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,742,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today, reversing the decline of the past two sessions.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, down 20.74 points last Thursday and Friday, rose 1.54 to 933.96 by noon.

Analysts said the market benefited from expectations of early measures under the administration of President-elect Reagan to stimulate investment, including a possible lowering of capital gains taxes.

But investors also were faced with the prospect of a continued rise in interest rates.

There were projections that the bank prime lending rate, which climbed last week to 15 1/2 percent, might go as high as 17 before peaking out.

Gold mining issues rallied as the price of gold bounced back from last week's drop, climbing $12.50 an ounce to $617 on the Commodity Exchange in New York.

Homestake Mining gained 2 1/4 to 77 1/4; Dome Mines 1/2 to 103 1/4; Campbell Red Lake 1/2 to 60 1/4, and ASA 1 1/4 to 79 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index rose 25 to 74.60. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .35 at 335.51.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 16.69 million shares at noon, against 18.11 million at the same point Friday.

Abscam Trials Begin For Two

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
 Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Reps. John M. Murphy of New York and Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey were going to federal court here today for the start of jury selection in the nation's latest Abscam trial.

Murphy and Thompson, both Democrats defeated last week in their bids for re-election, were accused in a five-count federal indictment of bribery and conspiracy. Prosecutors contend they shared portions of bribes totaling $100,000.

The money was offered by undercover FBI agents who posed as representatives of fictitious wealthy Arabs. The government has alleged the money was in return for the lawmakers' agreement to introduce private immigration bills on behalf of the phony Arabs.

U.S. District Court Judge George C. Pratt was to open the proceeding by disposing of several pre-trial motions, including the formal severance of a third defendant, Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last week that Criden, who was convicted of Abscam charges in August along with Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., should not be tried again until an appeals panel rules on his motions for dismissal, including a double jeopardy claim.

The appeals court said the trial of Murphy and Thompson could begin now without Criden or be postponed pending the outcome of his appeal. The government decided Friday to proceed immediately.

The case of another defendant, Keyport, N.J., businessman Joseph Vestri, was severed several weeks ago.

Murphy, 54, and Thompson, 62, are specifically charged with conspiracy, bribery, illegally receiving compensation for services relating to government matters and abetting in interstate travel in aid of a racketeering enterprise.

Murphy also is charged with receipt of an unlawful gratuity, while Thompson is accused of aiding and abetting Murphy in the commission of that offense.

Thompson, who is from the Trenton area, is a 13-term House veteran who took over as chairman of the House Administration Committee in 1976. Murphy is a nine-term representative from Staten Island who chaired the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Under House rules, both have temporarily given up their committee chairmanships pending the outcome of the case.

Both men say they are innocent.

Neither Murphy nor Thompson was filmed accepting any money. Videotapes were key in previous Abscam prosecutions, which ended in convictions for Myers and Rep. John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.

Jury Resumes Deliberations

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The jury resumed deliberations today in the murder trial of six Ku Klux Klansmen and American Nazis charged in the shooting deaths of five communist demonstrators at a "Death to the Klan" rally last November.

On trial were Jack Wilson Fowler, 27, and Roland Wayne Wood, 35, both of Winston-Salem; Jerry Paul Smith, 33, of Maiden; Coleman Blair Pridmore, 37, and Lawrence Gene Morgan, 28, both of Lincolnton; and David Wayne Matthews, 24, of Newton.

Each was charged with five counts of murder and one count of felonious riot. The charges stemmed from the deaths of five people at a "Death to the Klan" rally Nov. 3, 1979.

Long told the jury it could return verdicts of first degree murder, first degree murder by premeditation and deliberation, second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or innocent.

Defense attorneys argued the Klan-Nazi members acted in self defense after they were attacked by demonstrators at the Communist Workers Party rally.

Prosecutors argued that the Klansmen and Nazis, who arrived at the rally site in a nine-vehicle caravan, went to the rally "spilling for a fight" and filled with "bigotry, hatred and prejudice."

Eagles Win, Lead Dallas By 2 In East

Giants Shock Cowboys

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

A sign behind the end zone at the Louisiana Superdome read, "See You Again in January." The Philadelphia Eagles would like nothing better than to comply with that request.

The Eagles, who beat the winless New Orleans Saints 34-21 Sunday behind three touchdown passes from Ron Jaworski to Harold Carmichael, moved a step closer to their divisional title when the New York Giants upset the Dallas Cowboys 38-35. "We've got a two-game cushion on the Cowboys now," said Jaworski, who finished the day with 21 completions in 32 attempts for 323 yards — one of eight passers to surpass 300 yards for the day.

Philadelphia's 9-1 record is the best in the National Football League and good for a two-game lead over Dallas in the National Conference East. The division crown would be the first step toward a berth in the Super Bowl Jan. 25 in New Orleans, but the Eagles aren't making any hotel reservations just yet.

"The Super Bowl is just too far away to worry about," said defensive end Claude Humphrey. And Coach Dick Vermeil warned, "We're not a shoo-in for anything yet."

Maybe not, but the Eagles are a lot better off than they were a week ago — thanks to the Giants' first victory over Dallas since 1974. Phil Simms completed 18 of 33 pass attempts for 351 yards and three touchdowns for the Giants, who intercepted five passes by Dallas quarterback Danny White.

Simms hit rookie Mike Friede with a 26-yard pass on a flea-flicker play to set up Joe Danelo's 27-yard field goal with 1:07 to play that provided the margin of victory over Dallas.

Elsewhere, the Atlanta Falcons and Oakland Raiders took over sole possession of first place in their respective divisions.

Steve Bartkowski completed 31 of 47 passes for 378 yards in leading the Falcons to a 33-27 overtime triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. That win, coupled with the Miami Dolphins' 35-14 upset of the Los Angeles Rams, gave the 7-3 Falcons a one-game lead over the Rams in the NFC West.

The Oakland Raiders, led by rejuvenated quarterback Jim Plunkett, beat the Cincinnati Bengals 28-17 for their fifth consecutive victory. Oakland, 7-3, pulled one game ahead of San Diego in the AFC West when the Chargers were upended by the Denver Broncos 20-13.

The Cleveland Browns moved one-half game ahead of Houston in the AFC Central by edging the Baltimore Colts 28-27, but the Oilers will have a chance to draw even tonight when they host the New England Patriots in Monday Night Football.

The Pittsburgh Steelers continued their comeback by beating the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 24-21. Pittsburgh, which lost three in a row earlier this season, is now one game back of Cleveland.

The Patriots, meanwhile, lead Buffalo by just one-half game in the AFC East. The Bills pulled out a 31-24 thriller over the New York Jets.

In other games, the Kansas City Chiefs nipped the Seattle Seahawks 31-30, the Minnesota Vikings trounced the Detroit Lions 34-0, the Chicago Bears beat the Washington Redskins 35-21 and the Green Bay Packers defeated the San Francisco 49ers 23-16.

Besides Jaworski, Simms and Bartkowski, other quarterbacks to pass for more than 300 yards were Doug Williams of Tampa Bay, Joe Theismann of Washington, Jim Hart of St. Louis, Archie Manning of New Orleans and Dan Fouts of San Diego.

Eagles 34, Saints 21
Carmichael caught touchdown passes of 10, 6 and 25 yards for the Eagles, the first time in his career he's gotten three in one game.

"This is something I've been hoping for for 10 years," said Carmichael, whose 65 career touchdown receptions leave him one short of the Eagles record held by Tommy McDonald.

Tony Franklin added a pair of field goals and Mike Hogan scored the clinching touchdown with a 2-yard run midway through the final period.

Giants 38, Cowboys 35
"We got ambushed," said Dallas' Tony Dorsett, who ran for 183 yards and two touchdowns. "Emotionally, we were not as high as we would have been against a team with a better record."

The game was a wild one that came down to a flea-flicker play straight out of sandlot ball. Simms handed off to rookie running back Leon Perry, then took a return pitch before firing a 26-yard completion to Friede to set up Danelo's game-winning field goal.

Falcons 33, Cardinals 27
Reserve running back Ray Strong burst through the line for a 21-yard touchdown at 4:42 of overtime to give Atlanta the victory.

"I shot through the hole and I got two great blocks," said Strong, who has scored three touchdowns in his three-year career — two of them against St. Louis. "R.C. Thieleman and William Andrews opened it up. They drove their men almost to the sideline. There was no way I was going to be

Roaches Not Just Any Ice Cream Truck Driver

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers kick returner Carl Roaches has established two facts in his first season in the National Football League.

He can break the long one and he's not just another ice cream truck driver.

Roaches rocketed down the sidelines 74 yards for an apparent touchdown on a punt return against Denver only to have the play nullified by an official who inadvertently blew his whistle.

He'll be putting his kick return talents on display again tonight when the New England Patriots and the Oilers meet in a key battle of division leaders in the Astrodome.

As for the reference to his summer job as an ice cream truck driver, Roaches wishes it never had come up.

"People seem to think that's all I was capable of doing and it kind of made me mad," Roaches said. "I'm not just an ice cream truck driver."

Roaches, a graduate of Texas A&M, fit all too well into the "Odd Job Department" of past Oilers players. Johnny Dirden drove a cement truck before signing an Oilers contract. Guido Merckens, another specialty team member, was discovered while playing on a slow pitch softball team.

The comparison was too much for sports writers and sportscasters to resist. No sooner had Roaches completed his abortive touchdown run against the Broncos than broadcasters were shouting: "And just a year ago, this guy was driving an ice cream truck!"

Actually, Roaches said, he was working for ARCO Chemical as a process operator when he decided to seek a tryout with the Oilers prior to this season.

"They made it sound like some guy came in off the street who had never played football before and started doing what I did," Roaches said. "I did drive an ice cream truck but that was last summer and it was only because I owned four or five trucks. I was only doing that while I was looking for something else. It should be put in its proper perspective."

Roaches' return against the Broncos, although it was wiped out, proved it could be done.

"We knew that it was good," Roaches said. "Everything was good except the official. A clip or offsides would have been harder to take because then it would have been our fault. But we did everything right and now we know we can do it again."

Roaches just hopes that when he does, he won't be described as the ice cream truck driver who put the Oilers in a "good humor" by driving for a touchdown and "cooling off" the opposition.

East Carolina University's visit to Florida this past weekend turned out to be a much more pleasant trip than its previous one.

The Pirates still came out on the short end of the score, 23-10, but it was a much improved performance for them over their game against Florida State.

The defense showed that it has come much further than the offense between the two games. While it gave up a lot of yardage between the 20's, the Pirates got to be awfully tough when the Hurricanes got down near the end zone.

Miami scored two touchdowns against the Pirates, but the last came with just 18 seconds left in the game. East Carolina was able to put together only one effective drive for a touchdown.

The loss will be touted as a moral victory, since the Pirates did so well against the only team that has beaten Florida State. Just how much it will help the Pirates will be seen in the next two weekends as the Bucs wind up the season.

East Carolina's next two opponents are both going to be tough to beat. Eastern Kentucky could prove to be the stronger of the two. While Eastern has lost twice, they still remain one of the tougher members of the Division II strata of teams.

N.C. State, of course, is traditionally a tough game, and the records of both teams can be thrown out the window at kickoff time.

Both State and East Carolina are currently 4-5, and both have the chance to win this Saturday. State plays Duke.

Should both win, it would mean that a winning season for either is riding on the outcome of the game, and it has been one of the goals of this year's team to have a winning year.

Posting a winning record would be a great achievement for the Pirates, considering their youth, inexperience and the untold injuries they have sustained.

If Greg Stewart, who has come on strong these last two weeks, can remain on the field, the Pirates definitely have a shot at a winning year, but it is going to come hard.

This is a very unusual year. For the first time in a number of years, the Pitt-Martin-Greene area is not sending a team to the post-season high school playoffs.

Rose, the team considered most likely to go earlier in the year, proved to be its own worst enemy, bowing three times in the final four games of the year. Much of the blame lies not with the opposition, but with the team itself.

Greene Central was another team that was tagged to be a possible playoff team when the pre-season picks were going around, but they failed to live up to their billing, getting knocked around early in the season before finally finding their legs.

Hopefully next year, things will turn out better. In the meantime, it's on to basketball season—in just two weeks.

Bradley Is Second In Japan Classic

HANAYASHIKI, Japan (AP) — Tatsuko Ohsako, Japan's leading money winning woman golfer, captured the $175,000 Mazda Japan Classic Sunday, beating runner-up Pat Bradley of the United States by three strokes. Ohsako carded a final-round, one-under-par 73 over the par-74 Hanayashiki Country Club course for a 54-hole total of 213, nine under par.

The victory, Ohsako's third this year, was worth $26,250.

Bradley, eight shots off the pace going into the final round, had the best score of the day, a six-under-par 68 for a 216 total. She earned $17,150.

Defending champion Amy Alcott finished in a fourth-place tie at 219 with fellow Americans Sandra Palmer and Beth Daniel, two shots behind Japan's golfing queen, Hisako "Chako" Higuchi.

A field of 80 women golfers, including 44 Americans, competed in the event, the only overseas tournament authorized by the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Emory: Thought We'd Move Better

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina coach Ed Emory was not ready for what the University of Miami defense did to the Pirate wishbone Saturday night.

"I thought starting out the ballgame we'd move the ball better," said Emory after his team's 23-10 loss to the Hurricanes.

The ECU offense, however, continually failed to control the ball. In fact in only one series did ECU pick up more than two consecutive first downs. That came early in the second period on the Pirates' 88-yard touchdown drive which gave ECU a brief 7-6 advantage.

Much of the credit for the ineffectiveness of the ECU wishbone must go to a quick and talented Miami defense which held the Pirates to 102 yards rushing. Still, the Pirates would like to play the Hurricanes again — with a healthy quarterback.

"If (Greg) Stewart was a 100 percent we would have been able to do a better job offensively," Emory said. "They were giving us the quarterback on the option."

Stewart, who started his first game last week against William & Mary when regular quarterback Carlton Nelson went down with a neck injury, was not expected to start against UM because of a severe ankle injury that had him hobbling as late as Wednesday afternoon.

But he did play, and wound up leading the Pirates in rushing with 40 yards in 12 carries, most of which came on a 32-yard burst that sparked the Pirates to their lone TD Saturday night. Stewart also completed nine of 18 passes for 121 yards and one score.

"We didn't think we were going to play him but Stewart said he felt good during warmups," Emory said. "He made some big plays and it was a gutsy performance on his part."

Perhaps just as gutsy performance was turned in by the Pirate defense. ECU gave up a lot of yardage — 534 yards total offense, including a school record 249 yards in rushing by tailback Smokey Roan. But most of that came in the middle of the field.

Three times the Pirates forced Miami to settle for field goals and three other times the ECU defense held the Hurricanes inside the 10.

Despite the loss, which drops the Pirates to 4-5, Emory said the Pirates can still reach their goals, one of which is a winning season.

"We've got Eastern Kentucky this week. If we win that we'll be 5-5. That's going to be a hell of a battle," Emory said. "Then we've got N.C. State up there."

NOTES...

•Up until the ECU game, Roan had gained 295 yards this season. His 249 yards against the Pirates broke a UM record, set in 1951 by Frank Smith. Roan is in select company, considering that among other backs that have played at Miami are NFL greats Chuck Foreman and Otis Anderson.

•One of Miami's big plays against the Pirates was the flanker reverse. Four times UM's Jim Joiner ran the reverse. He gained 19, 29, 17 and 4 yards on those four carries.

The Pirates were also hurt by the draw, a play that Roan used time and again effectively. Said Emory: "I thought their third down play and the flanker reverse really hurt us. It wasn't anything we hadn't prepared for. They did exactly what we thought they'd do. They've got quality backs, they just hadn't run the ball that much."

Said Roan: "Coach (offensive coordinator Kim) Helton told me that if I got the ball 20 times, I could get 100 yards. I said, 'If I get it 20 times, I'll gain 200 yards ... In the last three games, I'd gotten the ball only 21 times.'"

•The Hurricanes ran the ball more than they have in the past because starting quarterback Jim Kelly was out with a hip-pointer.

"Miami has a hell of a football team and great personnel," Emory said. "I know they missed Kelly. They did exactly what we thought they would with him out."

•ECU faces an Eastern Kentucky team that whipped Tennessee Tech, 48-7, a win that upped EK's record to 7-2. Going into the Tech game, Eastern Kentucky was tied for fifth with Grambling in the Division I-AA top 20 poll.

Unheralded rookie David Woodley, an eighth-round draft choice, passed for three touchdowns and scrambled for two more as Miami surprised Los Angeles.

"When your receivers are covered, you have three choices — to be sacked, to throw the ball away or scramble. I like the last one best," said Woodley.

Raiders 28, Bengals 17

Plunkett ran 4 yards for the clinching touchdown midway through the fourth quarter as Oakland won its fifth in a row.

"It's been 2½ years since we were in first place. That's a long time. But we really haven't done anything yet. Now that we're in first, it's what we do with it that counts," said guard Gene Upshaw, the senior member of the Raiders.

Broncos 20, Chargers 13

Larry Brunson's 53-yard kickoff return helped spark Denver, which gave up big yardage to San Diego's Fouts but limited him to just one TD pass. Broncos Coach Red Miller awarded a game ball to his entire defensive unit.

"The key to this game was in our pressuring Fouts and in being able to score ourselves," said Miller, whose club is now 5-5 and hopeful of a playoff berth. "We're still in the hunt. And now we want to stay there."

Browns 28, Colts 27

Brian Sipe passed for two touchdowns and Charles White ran for two, but after Baltimore's Bert Jones threw two scoring passes in the last 1:27, the margin of victory turned out to be a missed extra point by Baltimore's Steve Mike-Mayer in the second period.

"This team has to take the melodrama out of the fourth quarter or I'm not going to be coaching very long," sighed Cleveland's Sam Rutigliano. "We can't seem to do things easily."

Steelers 24, Bucs 21

Pittsburgh's defense forced two first-quarter turnovers, the Steelers turned them into 10 quick points and the Bucs never caught up. A late interception by safety Donnie Shell iced the victory.

Bills 31, Jets 24

Joe Ferguson's third touchdown pass, a 31-yarder to Frank Lewis with six seconds left, gave the Bills the victory. "It looked exactly like it was drawn up on a blackboard," said Ferguson.

The upset-minded Jets, who battled back from a 17-0 deficit, had tied the score on Scott Dierking's 2-yard run with 4:10 to go.

Chiefs 31, Seahawks 30

Steve Fuller marched the Chiefs 91 yards in 11 plays in 3:21 to set by Arnold Mergado's 1-yard run with 40 seconds left to beat Seattle.

"A magnificent job," said Kansas City Coach Marv Levy. "His resiliency in coming back after mistakes is tremendous. Our whole team showed a lot of fiber."

Vikings 34, Lions 0

The Vikings forced Detroit into eight turnovers and sacked Lions quarterback Gary Danielson seven times en route to their first shutout since 1975.

"It was the most embarrassing thing I've ever been connected with," said Lions Coach Monte Clark. "We laid a complete egg. They kicked our butt every way we faced."

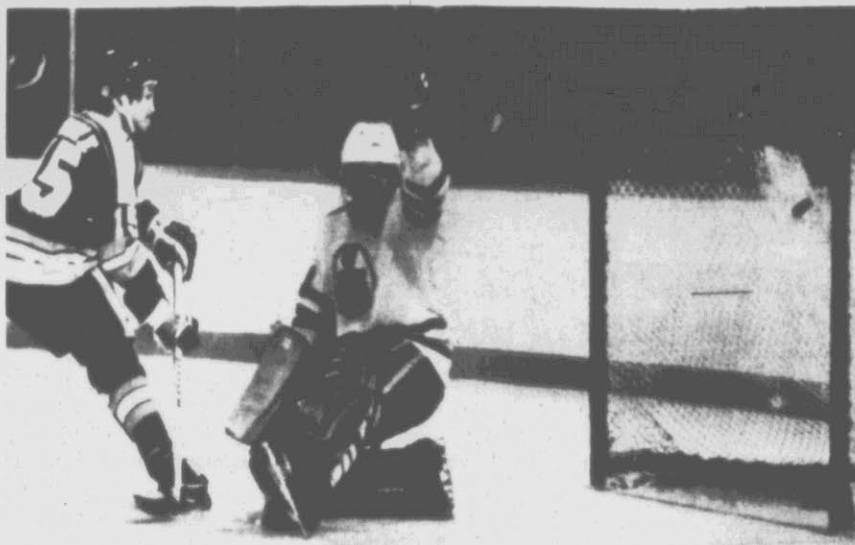

Bears 35, Redskins 21

Vince Evans hurled touchdown passes of 40 and 12 yards to James Scott and another of 54 yards to Walter Payton, who earlier broke up the middle for 50 yards, as the Bears bolted to a 35-0 halftime lead and coasted past Washington.

Packers 23, 49ers 16

Lynn Dickey completed 15 straight passes and finished with 24 of 33 for 244 yards as the Packers overcame a 13-0 deficit and beat San Francisco. Dickey has completed 130 of 202 passes for 1,578 yards in his last six games.

The injury-riddled Packers used star wide receiver James Lofton as a seventh defensive back in their prevent defense. "I took it in stride," he said of the double duty. "I knew I had a lot of good people playing around me, so I wasn't too worried."

The Winston-Salem Smokers, led by Otis Simpson's 22 points and Elmer Clayton's 19, defeated the Capital City Hustlers, 59-41, Sunday to win the ECU Wheelchair Basketball championship.

The Smokers defeated defending Capital Conference champs Richmond Saturday night, 41-36, to advance into Sunday's championship game.

In the third place game earlier Sunday, Richmond defeated the Greenville Steelwheels, 59-40, behind Terry Moore's 18 points and Brock Patten's 12 points. Greenville was led by Richard Hudson's 15 points. Miller Sanders had 11 for the Steelwheels.

Clayton was named the tournament's most valuable player. Joining him on the all-tournament team were teammate Clayton, Greenville's Hudson, Richmond's Moore and the Hustlers' Bob Lyles, who had 13 in his team loss in the title game.

Winfield Said Trying To Manipulate Re-Entry Draft

CLEVELAND (AP) — San Diego Padres outfielder Dave Winfield is trying to manipulate the re-entry draft in professional baseball, says the president of the Cleveland Indians.

Winfield, the offensive leader of the National League San Diego team for several years, has played out his option and is a free agent. He reportedly is seeking a long-term million dollar-plus contract.

But Gabe Paul, head man of the American League Indians, says Winfield is trying to fix the game.

Under the draft rules, 13 teams may select negotiating rights to a free agent; the selection is made in reverse order of the past season standings.

The New York Yankees have publicly said they are seeking to buy Winfield's services. Because the Yankees finished high in the standings last year, they pick late in the draft, raising the possibility that 13 teams could pick Winfield before the Yankees' turn comes.

But Paul said Winfield has sent the Indians and several other clubs a polite letter explaining why he doesn't want to play for them, although, he writes, he has nothing against the city or the team. The purpose of the letter, as Paul sees it, is to make it possible for the Yankees to obtain draft rights to Winfield.

Erving Stars As Bucks Fall Short

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks were so unexciting for the home town fans that visitor Julius Erving felt obliged to entertain the spectators late in the game with some of his liveliest dunk shots.

He finished up with 33 points to pace Philadelphia's 136-121 National Basketball Association victory over usually more-vigorous Milwaukee.

Erving and teammate Steve Mix were particularly devastating to Milwaukee in the second quarter. They scored 13 points apiece to nullify the Bucks' feeble attempt at a comeback. "We didn't control anything," Bucks Coach Don Nelson shrugged. "They controlled everything."

It was the 76ers' 11th successive victory, the longest winning streak in the NBA this season, and the most lopsided score of the season for the division-leading Bucks.

"I had no idea that we would score this many points against Milwaukee," Philadelphia coach Billy Cunningham said. "The difference in this game was that this became a shootout and we controlled the game," he said.

Unable to penetrate the interior, the Bucks had Junior Bridgeman, Mike Evans, Quinn Buckner and Brian Winters try for three-point goals from outside.

That didn't work either. Of the quartet's seven attempts, only Buckner made one. Erving played opposite Milwaukee's Marques Johnson, considered by some to be his only rival in the NBA. Johnson finished with 29 points, and had eight rebounds to Erving's nine.

hard, I think I played Marques pretty well." Philadelphia got a 20-10 start before Milwaukee struggled ahead 35-34 on two Winters free throws.

But the second quarter opened with Philadelphia ahead 36-35 and, after the Mix-Erving surge, the 76ers were up by 10 points again at halftime.

They led by 16 in the third period. Milwaukee got within 98-87 in the fourth, but the 76ers rolled to a 112-90 advantage, again boosted by Erving and by Mix, who finished with 21 points despite playing only 23 minutes.

There Was No 'Mrs. Calabash'

NEW YORK (AP) — As the late comedian Jimmy Durante would say, everybody's getting into the act.

Now his widow, Marge Durante, has let the world in on a secret millions of Durante fans wondered about for years: Who was the Mrs. Calabash to whom Durante bid a fond good night at the end of every radio and television performance?

Durante, who died Jan. 29 at 86, once said the mysterious lady was a childhood sweetheart he met in elementary school. But as Mrs. Durante tells it, there never was a such a person.

"I guess it can now be told," the comic's widow told The New York Daily News. "Mrs. Calabash was a gimmick which Jimmy and producer Joe Pasternak developed when Jimmy was starting his radio show. They felt they needed something special to end the show.

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — To the drama critic's contention that the Shakespeare plays don't belong on TV, PBS offers tonight's "Hamlet" as refutation. A convincing rebuttal it is.

Derek Jacobi is the perfect television Hamlet. He knows and is known by television through his stunning performance in "I, Claudius" and other British productions, and manages to fit Hamlet into the small screen without shrinking the Dane's broad, mysterious dimensions.

Jacobi may be the perfect Hamlet of any medium. The actor's very countenance suggests the dark hero's quizzical aspect, the languid lids and thick arched brows forming a sort of animate question mark on the Jacobi face.

On television, where the audience is neither compelled to attention nor recessed at intermission, Hamlet can't afford the leisurely ambivalence that has been at the center of his literary fame. Is the vengeful prince a coward or a moralist? Is he paralyzed by a subliminal delight that his father is dead? Does he, in fact, delay, or merely pretend to delay? Is he mad, or feigning madness?

That stuff is swept away in Jacobi's furious interpretation of Hamlet, a firestorm of emotional and physical action suggesting anything but limp irresolution. Jacobi's Hamlet moves so fast his many disparate parts blur into one, and the one is strong enough at its center to move you along through the play like a highly accomplished tour guide in a Byzantine castle, probing all the nooks and crannies while making sure none is lost.

Jacobi's Hamlet comes with all the standard equipment, melancholy, seething anger and the like, but there is special care given to Hamlet's morose, sometimes spooky sense of humor. In the final scene of Act III, Hamlet vigorously assails his mother, the stained Queen, he accidentally kills his girlfriend's father, and is devastated by a reproachful visit from the ghost of his own father.

"I'll lug the guts into the neighbor room," Hamlet says, Jacobi looking for all the world like one of the Three Stooges trying to ditch a stiff. Then, grasping the corpse's ankles, he pauses at the door, fixes his gaze on the reeling Queen, and says gently, "Good night, Mother," with the innocence of John-Boy Walton at turning-in time.

A 3½-hour television program is almost a self-contradiction, to be sure. But "Hamlet" above all the Shakespeare plays benefits from a celebrity so broad that its parts are known to even those who don't know its author.

The play is filled with familiar lines: "To be, or not to be." "In the mind's eye,"

"The primrose path of dalliance." "The play's the thing." "Though this be madness, yet there is method in't," and everybody's favorite, "Frailty, thy name is woman."

Claire Bloom, beautiful as ever, plays Queen Gertrude, Patrick Stewart gives a rather benign impression of Claudius and Eric Porter renders a suitably ridiculous Polonius. But each, especially Lalla Ward's anemic Ophelia, is blasted off the stage by Jacobi's Hurricane Hamlet.

He is something to see. The material isn't bad, either.

Actor's Body Is Cremated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The body of actor Steve McQueen, who died of heart failure after cancer surgery last week, was cremated in California without ceremony, his publicist said.

Warren Cowan said Sunday that McQueen's widow, Barbara Minty, told him cremation had taken place Saturday.

Cowan said McQueen had requested that there be no services, adding he did not know what McQueen's family planned to do with the actor's remains.

McQueen's body was flown back to the United States on Friday, after his death in Juarez, Mexico, earlier in the day, Cowan said. The star of such movies as "Bullitt" and "The Cincinnati Kid" died of heart failure 13 hours after cancer surgery.

The actor had sought unconventional nutritional therapy for a rare form of lung cancer, mesothelioma, which had spread throughout much of his body.

Neile Adams, McQueen's first wife and the mother of his two children, denounced his doctors as "charlatans and exploiters" and warned against "unproven cures."

Expensive Film To Be Released

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Heaven's Gate," reputed to be either the most expensive horse opera or the most expensive movie ever made — at about $40 million — is due for theatrical release by United Artists in late November.

The action-adventure film, shot on locations in Montana by director Michael ("The Deer Hunter") Cimino, will be released in only three theaters to begin with — in New York, Los Angeles and Toronto. "Heaven's Gate" will go into general release in major cities in the United States next February and in smaller cities in March.

PLAYS THE PRINCE — British actor Derek Jacobi, shown here in character, stars in the title role of William Shakespeare's "Hamlet," which will be presented on many Public Broadcasting Service stations tonight as part of the Shakespeare cycle co-produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. and Time-Life Television. Jacobi, best known in this country for his role in the "I, Claudius" series, has played the prince of Denmark around the world and insists that the part of Hamlet is "one you bring to yourself, rather than bringing yourself to it." Award Given To Finlator RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Civil Liberties Union has presented its Frank Porter Graham Award to the Rev. W. W. Finlator, long-time chairman of the state advisory committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Finlator, a spokesman on civil rights issues for a quarter century, said in accepting the award Saturday night that North Carolinians must strive to make the state's former progressive image a reality.

"We all came to believe that in education and development and justice we were No. 1 in the South. We discovered we had cherished an image without substance," Finlator said.

Finlator cited what he described as examples of injustice in the state during the last few years, including re-enactment of capital punishment, rejection of the Equal Rights Amendment, support of right-to-work laws and what he labeled as continuing segregation in the state university system.

Finlator has been pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist Church in Raleigh for 25 years. He announced in August that he would retire in 1982.

Cancer Claims Child In His Sterilized Enclosure

RICKY DIES — Ricky, the Ohio child who lived almost his entire life in isolation at Duke Hospital after being born with no immunity to disease, died at the hospital Sunday. (AP Laserphoto)

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A 3-year-old child who fought disease from the isolation of a germ-free enclosure for all but nine days of his life has died of cancer.

Born without natural immunities that protect humans from disease, Richard Joel Bradley Jr. had spent his life separated from others, playing only with sterilized toys and calling his masked nurses "mama."

Even the air he breathed was filtered. His food was sterilized. And yet, his nurses said Sunday, Ricky was a smiling, happy child who — until a few months ago — was becoming increasingly more active.

Lymphoma, a kind of cancer that spreads through the white blood cells, hit Ricky despite the sterile environment. He died in his sleep Sunday morning at Duke Hospital.

He had been known publicly only as Ricky since his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Joel Bradley Sr. of Akron, Ohio, took the youngster to Duke Hospital in the second week after his birth. His identity was announced after his death.

Ricky's older brother, Jamie, was born in 1974 with the same hereditary ailment, known as severe combined immune deficiency.

Dr. Rebecca H. Buckley, one of Ricky's principal physicians, pioneered a treatment for the immuneless condition that involved injections of healthy liver cells into the abdominal wall.

She used that treatment successfully on Jamie, who now is described as living a normal life, but seven attempts on Ricky had proved to be successful only temporarily.

"It was not enough (protection) to make us feel comfortable about letting him out in a normal environment," she said.

Historically, Dr. Buckley, said the most successful treatments for the deficiency involved bone marrow transplants from exactly matched siblings. No suitable donors were available for either Ricky or Jamie, she said.

The cancer which Ricky developed, Dr. Buckley said, is one of the complications in such cases. She said the risk of cancer increases 10,000 fold in such patients.

"He had been very healthy up until he developed the cancer," Dr. Buckley said. "Normally these children don't live past their first birthday."

Doctors are not certain why immune deficiency patients are so susceptible to the cancer, but Dr. Buckley said natural immunity is believed to help the body fight off developing tumors before they become malignant.

"We're all very grieved," Dr. Buckley said. "He was a marvelous little boy. We all loved him very much ... It's just a tremendous loss."

Sylvia Brisson, assistant head nurse on Ricky's ward floor, said Ricky had become a family member to most of the ward personnel.

"He referred to some of the nurses as 'Mama,' especially when it was your day to take care of him," Ms. Brisson said. "All the nurses' families asked about him. He knew everyone by their first name."

A memorial service was to be held in Durham today for the hospital personnel. Ricky's body then was to be returned to Akron for a funeral Thursday.

Defends Policies On Food Stamps

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The director of North Carolina's social services program has disagreed publicly with Republican Sen. Jesse Helms' declaration that the food-stamp program needs to be trimmed by 40 percent.

Helms, who is expected to become chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said last week he would make one of his top priorities the task of making the food-stamp program one for "those who are truly needy."

Robert H. Ward, director of the North Carolina Division of Social Services, said in a weekend interview, however, that he disagreed with Helms' estimate of those receiving stamps who do not need them.

"The people in North Carolina especially have benefited, with the lowest industrial wages in the country," he said.

Ward said inflation and unemployment have added about 11,500 people to the state's primary welfare program, Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Welfare, food stamps, unemployment benefits and the Comprehensive Employment and Training

Act — four of the most publicized and most criticized forms of government aid — channeled about $677.6 million into North Carolina's economy during the 12 months ending June 30, reaching more than 600,000 of North Carolina's 5.7 million residents.

That figure includes about $224 million in food stamps for about 10 percent of the state's population. In four counties — Greene, Halifax, Hyde and Northampton — more than 25 percent of the population was on food stamps.

Supporters argue the programs serve to redistribute wealth and keep money in circulation.

"The money coming in is spent again and again," said Sarah DeLancey, director of the Halifax County Department of Social Services. "You can't measure how much good it does."

But George S. Dunlop, a Helms aide who will become majority staff director of the Senate Agriculture Committee if Helms does become chairman, said the growth of the food-stamp program — 80 percent during the last three years — reflects a shift in emphasis in the program from nutrition to a government subsidy.

"For someone to say, 'I don't need food stamps and don't want them' drives those people to distraction," Dunlop said of the U.S. Food and Nutrition Service, which runs the food-stamp program. "They can't stand to see somebody who doesn't want to live off the federal government."

Baha'i Group To Have Dinner

Interested individuals are invited to share dinner and scripture with the Greenville Baha'i community Wednesday at 6 p. m. at the home of Hazel Worthington, 1621 S. Pitt Street, in commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of Bahauallah.

Bahauallah, the founder of the Baha'i, is considered by his followers to be a messenger of God. He taught that all religions originate with God, with each unfolding spiritual truth revealed progressively through the centuries. Baha'is are being beaten, jailed and murdered in Iran, the land of Bahauallah's birth, now, Worthington said. American Baha'is are grateful for their religious freedom in the country, she added. People who would like to attend the commemoration or learn more about the Baha'i faith are invited to call 752-4483.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Sunny Wednesday and Thursday with increasing cloudiness on Friday. Highs for the period will be in the 60s and lows in the 30s and low 40s.

Study Rules

On Elector

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The attorney general's office said Sunday it is reviewing the status of state Rep. J. Reid Poovey, R-Catawba, to determine if he is ineligible to serve as one of North Carolina's electors in the presidential election.

Poovey was one of 13 Republicans chosen by the state GOP last May to serve as electors if Ronald Reagan won the popular vote.

His eligibility was questioned by Secretary of State Thad Eure, who has forwarded the Republican list of electors to the attorney general's office.

James M. Wallace, a deputy attorney general, said Sunday the state constitution bars an individual from holding two elected offices at the same time. Wallace said state laws refer to presidential electors as elected officials.

"There is definitely reason to conclude that (Poovey) would be ineligible, but we're not concluding that yet," Wallace said.

Other electors on the list are Thomas I. Benton of Roanoke Rapids, Kenneth Roberson of Robersonville, Dr. Corbett L. Quinn of Magnolia, Dean Franklin Hodge of West Jefferson, J.T. Clemmons of Shallotte, Mary Simpson of Charlotte, Walter L. Carriker of Asheville, William H. Westphal Jr. of Greensboro, Barry L. Gardner of Rocky Mount, Russell Barringer of Durham, Ruby W. Collins of High Point and Jim Nance of Albemarle.
