Jury Acquits Klan-Nazi Six Of Murder

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — An American Nazi leader says the acquittal of six Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis of murder in the shooting deaths of five communists marks a "great victory for white America" and shows "we can beat the system on their own ground."

But spokesmen for the Communist Workers Party, which has refused to have anything to do with the 23-week-long trial, said the jury's decision gives a "green light to Hitler-like attacks on the people of America."
Juror Robert Williams said the unanimous decision was reached on the 13th major vote by the all-white jury of six men and six women.

Williams said the jury agreed with the Klansmen and Nazis' contention that they had acted in self-defense after a Klan-Nazi motorcade drove into a CWP "Death to the Klan" rally site on Nov. 3, 1979.
"From the very beginning, it was the communists who did the attacking. It was the communists who started beating the cars with sticks. From then on, it was a case of self-defense," Williams said.

Sixteen other defendants, including six CWP associates, have been charged as a result of the brief but violent demonstration. District Attorney Michael Schlosser, whose staff prosecuted this trial, said he would announce later if the other defendants would be brought to trial.

The verdict, announced at 5:12 p.m., caught attorneys by surprise and prompted outcries of stunned happiness from defendants and relatives in the courtroom.

As the verdict was read, the men were expressionless and stared straight ahead. But their families, who had crowded into the standing-room-only third floor courtroom wept with joy as a court clerk read the verdicts declaring the men innocent.

"Oh, gosh, I feel like I have been set free," said Paula Wood, wife of Nazi Roland Wayne Wood of Winston-Salem, as tears streamed down her face. "I'm not sure how I feel. It's just a relief."

In Raleigh national Nazi commander Harold Covington expressed delight at the verdict.

"The verdicts are fantastic. It shows we can beat the system on their own ground. That jury's decision represents the wishes of the people of North Carolina," Covington said.

He also announced plans for a news conference today to declare a "counter-attack against the government" that would mark the beginning of a "white revolution, replacing tyranny."

"I don't think I'm being excessively dramatic when I

Fund Allocations Are Decided Upon By School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Approval of funds to assist the school bands in the Greenville City Schools; allocation of additional funds to repave the track at Aycock; and approval of a revised plan for the construction of toilet facilities were among actions approved Monday night at the November action meeting of the Greenville City School Board.

Referring to a request made jointly by Dr. Joseph W. Congleton, Jr. of the Band Boosters Club and James Rodgers, band director at Rose High, presented at the November information meeting; and responding to a board request for more detailed information, Supt. Glenn Cox recommended allocating a total of $2,683 to assist the school bands.

This amount will provide $550 for music; $675 for instrument repair; and $1,458 to purchase three new instruments and two new cases for older instruments. Cox explained that the $1,225 would come from the current expense contingency fund, with the $1,458 to come from capital outlay funds.

The approval of building a toilet facility at the Aycock Junior High track, a project being undertaken and paid for by the Rose-Aycock Athletic Foundation, included a revision. The revision is to locate the facility at the end of the track near the school building instead of the originally proposed area near Greenville Boulevard. The revised location will eliminate the need for a new water/sewage hookup by the city and the monthly charge that would have been involved in a new hookup.

The resurfacing of the athletic track at Aycock is a project for which $10,000 had previously been approved in the current fiscal year budget. That amount was for installing curbing, patching up the surface and resurfacing the track in asphalt. Cox reported that an additional $1,500 was needed to meet the cost of the project. A question arose about the possibility of looking into paving by use of a rubber-cork-rubber combination rather than the asphalt covering.

Cox said this had been looked into, but that the cost for that type of surfacing was prohibitive, with estimates for various types running from $4,000 to as high as $60,000 for the track area.

The track is also being converted from 440 yards to 400 meters during the repair work.

On the merger issue, school board members concurred that their basic stand of readiness to complete a merger study as directed by county commissioners remains unchanged and that the city school board merger committee is ready to meet with the county school board committee at any time directed by the Pitt county commissioners. Cox read a letter from Pitt County Schools Supt. Arthur Alford which formally notified the city board that the county board had voted not to take

Doors Open Today For Tobacco Farmer Show

PLENTY OF TRACTORS TO SEE AT THE TOBACCO FARMER SHOW . . . The Fifth Annual Tobacco Farmer Show opened at 9 a.m. today with over 600 exhibits representing the businesses and suppliers of agricultural products. Although the emphasis is on tobacco farming, equipment used in other areas of farming is also on display. In the

The Fifth Annual Tobacco Farmer Show opened its doors at 9 a.m. today at Farmers Warehouse with over 600 exhibits representing agricultural suppliers and industries from across the five flue-cured tobacco producing states.

Opening ceremonies were held at 10 a.m. with members of Specialized Agricultural Publications and the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival Committee welcoming the farmers and exhibitors. "The newest equipment for tobacco mechanization will be on display during the show," said Jim Swindell of Specialized Agricultural Publications, "as well as the most up-to-date equipment for livestock and all other facets of agriculture."

A Tobacco Tying Contest was scheduled for 11 a.m. today and a Tobacco Spitting Contest for 12 noon. Comedian Jerry Clower visited the show to entertain the opening day crowd at 2 p.m.
The Tobacco Farmers Show will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for three days, November 18-20. On Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. the awards in the Agricultural Art Contest will be presented at the Powell Manufacturing Exhibit, booths 405-413, at the show. Wendy Holcombe will perform at 2 p.m. on stage at the warehouse. Country singer Charly McClain is scheduled for a 1:30 p.m. performance on Thursday.

A crowd of around 1,000 farmers, FFA students and other agricultural-related persons attended the opening of the exhibits and the welcoming ceremony. Exhibits included the newest models of tractors, irrigation equipment, harvestors and bulk tobacco barns.

Not Resigning

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., defeated for reelection following his conviction for bribery in the FBI's Abscam operation, said today he will not resign his seat in the face of possible expulsion by Congress.

He will have to relinquish his seat in January in any event because he was defeated in the November 4 election by Republican John Napier.

BLUE LAW REFERENDUM?

What is the blue law policy in Greenville? Has the City Council put the issue before the citizens? If not, when will it? P. S.

According to Gail Meeks, ombudsperson for the Citizen Concern System of the City of Greenville, the blue law (Sunday store opening) issue has never been put to the vote of the citizens. The Council would have to receive a formal request to call a referendum, she said, and at this time, no formal request has been received.

KOREANS WANT PEN PALS

Mrs. Park Jeong Yi, P. O. Box 339, Pusan City, Korea, has asked Hotline to appeal for pen pals for her high school-aged students of English. "This would help not only their English and emotional life, but also expand their knowledge of foreign lands. It would promote worldwide friendship and mutual relationship, as well as serving as a true foundation of world peace," she said. She said the only information she needs is each interested student's name, address, sex, age, and hobbies and a picture, if possible.

GENEROUS RESPONSE

Response to last Thursday's Hotline appeal for donations for the John L. and Dessie Smith family, whose mobile home burned Wednesday, has been very generous and gratifying, Mrs. Smith said. "We can't thank everyone enough," she said. "A fire's a bad thing to experience, but it's wonderful to know people care so much."

Brewer Among Top Choices For Louisville

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Dr. Thomas Crawford, secretary for the selection committee seeking a new president for the University of Louisville, said this morning that East Carolina University Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer is one of the three top choices for the position to head the 20,000 student university.

Brewer was in Louisville last week to be interviewed. Other possible candidates for the post who have been interviewed include Dr. Charles G. Mayo, president of Westchester State College, Westchester, Pa., and Dr. Donald C. Swain, academic vice-president of the University of California at Berkeley.

Crawford said, "at this time," the selection committee has no plans to interview other possible candidates. He noted that the selection committee is expected to make its choice by the middle of December.

"We are in the final steps of the process," Crawford noted. He added that the committee has been, "very pleased with the quality of people," who have been considered for the post.

Noting that Brewer, chancellor at ECU since 1978, is, "one of the finalists that we are looking at," Crawford said the candidates, have not made, a commitment to the University of Louisville, just as the university has made no commitment to any of the candidates.

Crawford, asked if Brewer had applied for the post, said, "I'm sure he was nominated by someone else."

Efforts to reach Brewer over the past few days have been unsuccessful.

His office today, just as it had last week, said he is out of town at a meeting and is expected to return on Thursday.

Troy Pate, chairman of ECU's Board of Trustees, said today that, "I was aware that he (Brewer) was going for the interview," but said he has not discussed the matter with Brewer further.

"I don't know enough about it to comment on it," Pate noted.

Preliminary Census Data Reflecting Growth

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Preliminary population figures for 1980 released by the Bureau of the Census reflect increases from 1970 data of just under 20 percent for Greenville and Pitt County.

A spokesman in the Bureau's Charlotte office said that the preliminary figures, which could change slightly when questionnaire data is computed, show a 1980 population of 34,738 for Greenville, up 5,675 or 19.5 percent from the final 1970 tabulation of 29,063.

Population in Pitt County, the spokesman said, increased 14,621 or some 19.8 percent to 88,521 this year, compared with 73,900 when final figures were computed for 1970.

The census spokesman said that preliminary figures in 21 North Carolina counties handled by the temporary census district office in Greenville have been made available to officials in each county. She emphasized that the preliminary totals are subject to later revisions.

Population figures for other Pitt towns for 1980, compared with the 1970 totals, include: Farmville, 4,709, 4,424, up 6.4 percent; Ayden, 4,272, 3,450, up 23.9 percent; Grifton, 2,203, 1,860, up 18.4 percent; Winterville, 2,061, 1,437, up 43.4 percent; Bethel, 1,822, 1,514, up 20.3 percent; Grimesland, 457, 394, up 16 percent; Fountain, 417, 434, down 4.0 percent; and Falkland, 120, 130, down 7.7 percent. The Village of Simpson, which was not incorporated in 1970, recorded a preliminary figure of 403 for 1980.

Population in Martin County, according to the preliminary 1980 totals, totaled 25,734, up 4.1 percent from 24,730 in 1970. Williamston's population decreased 8.4 percent from 6,570 in 1970 to 6,015 in 1980, while Robersonville saw an increase of 5.1 percent, from 1,910 to 2,007.

Greene County recorded an increase in population of 6.2 percent in the ten-year period (15,898 from 14,967), with Snow Hill gaining only seven new citizens in the period (1,366 from 1,359) or 0.51 percent, according to the report.

Population in Beaufort County went up from 35,980 to 40,385 (12.2 percent), although the town of Washington experienced a decrease of 5.7 percent, dropping from 8,961 ten years ago to 8,448 in the current data. Belhaven population was up, climbing from 2,259 to 2,466 (9.2 percent).

Preliminary population totals in several neighboring counties for 1980 and 1970 included: Edgecombe, 50,082, 52,341, up 7.2 percent; Nash, 66,338, 59,122, up 12.2 percent; Lenoir, 59,391, 55,204, up 7.6 percent; Wayne, 96,513, 85,408, up 13 percent; and Wilson, 62,723, 57,486, up 9.1 percent.

The census spokesman explained that completed questionnaires from the Greenville office, which is now closed, have been shipped to a census processing facility where they will be fed through high-speed equipment which microfilms each page. The microfilm is then scanned electronically and data from the forms is transmitted directly to the Bureau's computers in Suitland, Md.

Once computer tabulation of the data has been completed, final figures will be released early in 1981 and will supersede the preliminary totals, it was noted.

Getting Educated

According to the Census Bureau, Americans today are better educated than ever before. Ten years ago, a little more than half of all Americans 25 or older had finished high school. Today, more than two-thirds of those 25 or older have high school diplomas. Altogether, about three of every ten Americans are directly involved in education, as students, teachers, principals and other school officials. Nearly 60 million people in the United States are students. The number of students attending elementary and secondary schools has been declining in recent years, but is expected to start going up again by the middle 1980s. This is American Education Week.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

When you are missing a key queen, you will often be able to take the finesse either way. Sometimes a count of the hand will suggest which defender is more likely to hold the lady; at other times it will be a pure guess. But there are hands where entry considerations will dictate which way you have to finesse.

North-South were rather aggressive in reaching four spades, and both players pressed a little. West led the jack of clubs and, when dummy appeared, declarer was faced with a certain loser in each of the side suits, plus a possible loser in trumps and a highly probable second heart loser. The trump suit could be picked without loss with the aid of a finesse, but how could one of the other four losers be avoided?

After careful thought, declarer saw that a long diamond could be set up in dummy for a discard. However, to accomplish that declarer needed four entries to dummy and only three sure entries were available.

The fourth could be obtained by playing West for the queen of trumps. Adopting this line, declarer won the first club in his hand and immediately led the queen of diamonds. East won and persisted with a club. Declarer grabbed dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond. Now he led a trump to dummy's nine. When that held, declarer ruffed another diamond and returned to dummy with the king of trumps.

The fate of the contract now hinged on finding West with the missing diamond. When the fourth diamond was led from dummy, declarer breathed a sigh of relief while East thought briefly before parting with a club, and the hand was over.

Declarer ruffed the diamond, drew the last trump with the ace of spades, then crossed to the board with the ace of hearts to score his game-fulfilling trick with dummy's fifth diamond.

A lucky game to be sure, but declarer had the skill to take advantage of the distribution.

Virginia Men Held In Bethel

BETHEL — Two Virginia men are being held in jail here following their arrest early Sunday morning on narcotics possession charges.

Police Chief Walter Gray said that officers arrested Bernard Edward Watson, 29, of 408 Windsor Street, South Hill, Va., and Claude Swanson Watson Jr., 20, of 259 E. Gerald Street, Highland Springs, Va. Both were charged with possession of narcotics, he said.

Chief Gray, who said that officers confiscated a quantity of drugs as well as hypodermic needles, reported that bond for each man was set at $3,000.

The arrests took place at 1:55 a.m. on Main Street, he said.

Charges Made In Bethel

BETHEL — Kenneth Brown, 21, of Crawford Street here, was arrested this past weekend by Bethel police and charged with larceny of a pocketbook and possession of marijuana.

According to Police Chief Walter Gray, the larceny incident took place at the 77 Club here. He said that a female patron at the club told officers that her pocketbook was taken from her. The pocketbook and $3.50 was recovered, the chief said.

Bond for Brown was set at $500, Chief Gray reported.

Firewood To Be Sold By The City

Terry Oglethorpe, city horticulturist, announced that the city will be offering firewood for sale to the citizens of Greenville.

According to Oglethorpe, wood will come from dangerous or diseased trees removed from city right-of-way areas and funds received from the firewood sale will be used to purchase trees and shrubbery for replacemnts.

He said the Public Works Department will work with the Beautification, Clean-Up and Litter Control Committee in the selection of sites for the planting of trees along street rights-of-way and other beautification projects.

The firewood will be stockpiled at the new Public Works facility on Beatty Street and consist mainly of hardwood from oak and maple trees. The wood will be offered at a reasonable price, Oglethorpe said, and can be purchased in four different load sizes ranging from a small pickup load to a full cord load.

The spokesman said that residents seeking more details and to place their names on the firewood list should call the Public Works Department at 752-4137, Ext. 242.

He added that any person having a specific beautification project in mind should leave a message for the beautification committee at the same telephone number.

Accountants To Have Meet

The November meeting of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will be held Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 6:15 p.m. at the Beef Barn here.

Speaker for the meeting will be Robert L. Pence, special agent in charge, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Charlotte office. Pence will speak on "White Collar Crimes."

The eastern chapter, headquartered in Greenville, is a segment of the national association. The association offers educational and professional development with services such as the Certificate in Management Accounting (CMA).

Membership is offered to any person interested in the services and objectives of the association. Persons desiring to join or obtain further information should contact Paul Setliff at 752-4126.

Whitfield Attends Meet

Carl E. Whitfield, field representative of the Governor's Highway Safety in Raleigh, attended the seventh annual conference on highway safety in Raleigh November 12-13 at the Jane S. McKinnon Extension center, N.C. State University.

Keynote speaker for the event was Joan Claybrook, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Subjects discussed were traffic changes related to energy conservation, alcohol, marijuana, drugs and driving, speed timing devices, and law enforcement. An update of N.C. driving under the influence conviction rates and the use of seat belts in automobiles was also on the agenda.

Four Wrecks Here Reported Monday

An estimated $3,325 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 6:10 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Library Streets, involving cars driven by Donna McLawhorn Eubanks of Kinston, and James Carr Herring of 114 Hawthorne St.

Police, who charged Herring with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident, estimated damage at $100 to the Eubanks car and $1,500 to the Herring auto.

An 11:40 a.m. collision a block away — at the intersection of Fourth and Library Streets — involved cars driven by Ann Mallison Karsnak of 2703 East Third St. and Alice Briley Fleming of 1004 West Overlook Dr.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the Karsnak car and $375 to the Fleming vehicle.

Investigators reported cars driven by Christina Lynn Jensen of 106 Antler Dr. and Natalie Joan Distefano of 107 Templeton Dr. collided about 7:28 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth Street and College Hill Drive, causing $500 damage to the Jensen car.

Officers, who said no damage resulted to the Distefano vehicle, charged Ms. Jensen with following too close.

Cars driven by Allan Laralle Williams of 2507 East Fourth St. and Elizabeth Thornton Stokes of 303 South Harding St. collided about 5:45 p.m. at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles Street, resulting in an estimated $100 damage to the Williams car and $250 damage to the Stokes auto.

say the history books will say that on November 3rd, the first shots of the second American revolution were fired. November 3rd was the Concord and Lexington of the second American revolution," Covington said.

In Greensboro CWP member Signe Waller, whose husband James was among the five victims of the 1979 gunbattle, said again the trial was only part of a government conspiracy.

"It's as clear as day that the government was involved in a coverup of this whole thing," Mrs. Waller said.

"The verdict gives the green light to Hitler-like attacks on the people of America," said CWP member Kurt Krumpnerman. "That was evident when the hand-picked, all-white, Klan-loving jury was seated."

Krumpnerman said the CWP was not advocating more violence in retaliation. "No," he said, responding to that question. "That's what the U.S. government wants us to do so they can put us in jail."

State and local authorities in Greensboro and nearby cities have been on a state of readiness as the verdict neared. Greensboro police said they initiated their defense plan Monday evening but several hours later police Capt. Jim Hilliard said it was "a very routine night."

The defendants left the courtroom immediately after the verdict was announced. They were taken to the Guilford County Jail across the street in a driving rain storm. After being officially released, they were whisked away by their families without additional comment.

In a news conference later, jury foreman Octavio Mandulay said the panel "con-

Home Buyers In Need Of Help

"Help is needed badly for the home buying public and must come soon," according to Mark Tipton, president of the North Carolina Home Builders Association, Greenville.

"Thousands of potential home buyers are being forced out of the market every time the interest rate goes up a point," Tipton said. An informal survey by the Home Builders Association revealed that home construction in North Carolina is off over 35 percent since the latest round of interest rate increases began in mid-September.

Mortgage interest rates for new home construction in the state now average around 14 percent according to the association.

Tipton sees little short-range relief for the industry although he is optimistic that a slow recovery will begin after the first of the year.

"One possible solution," said Tipton, "is the development of innovative new mortgage programs such as the variable rate mortgage. We are also hopeful that the North Carolina Housing Finance Agency will be conducting another bond issue in the near future to provide funds for home construction."

4-H Awards Night Nov. 20

Pitt County 4-H'ers and 4-H leaders will be recognized for 1980 achievements at the Annual 4-H Awards Night, November 20 at the American Legion Building.

The 1981 4-H county officers will be installed in a candle-lighting ceremony at the close of the program. 4-H'ers who have completed 4-H projects and activities during 1980 will be recognized. County champion awards will be given in several project areas to 4-H'ers who have the best project work in these areas.

Two 4-H talent acts will be on the program along with a speaker and the award presentations. The public is invited to attend the program, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Dale Panero, Pitt County 4-H coordinator, stated, "Some outstanding 4-H work has been accomplished this year and we are looking forward to making the award presentation Thursday night. We hope to have a good group of parents and leaders to witness the presentation."

Four Wrecks Are Reported

An estimated $6,250 property damage resulted from four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday.

Heaviest damage, according to investigators, resulted from a 6:50 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 200 feet east of the Evans Street intersection, involving cars driven by Robert James Page of 1510 Myrtle Ave., Judy Kay Carter of Alexandria, Va., and Tom Hollingsworth Forbes of Route 3, Washington.

Officers, who charged Page with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident, estimated damage at $600 to the Page car, $1,800 to the Carter auto, and $200 to the Forbes vehicle.

A 4:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of 14th Street and Greenville Boulevard, involved cars driven by Mitchell Charles Brann of 112A Stancill Dr., and Donald Gene Tripp of 215 Sumrell St., and a truck operated by Robert Warren Lewis of Route 4, Fairmont.

Police set damage at $800 to the Brann car, $700 to the Lewis truck and $500 to the Tripp auto.

Cars driven by Angela Hooker of Route 2, Snow Hill and Audrey Washington of Winterville, collided about 12:04 p.m. on Memorial Dr., 100 feet west of the Trade Street intersection, causing $700 damage to the Hooker car and $200 damage to the Washington vehicle.

Officers reported a 6:50 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 200 feet west of the Rocksprings Road intersection involved autos operated by Donald Harvey Leatham Jr. of Stafford, Va., and Leonard S. T. Reid of Farmville.

Police, who listed damage at $500 to the Leatham car, $200 to the Reid vehicle and $50 to a street sign, charged Leatham with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Farm-City Week Planned

Farm-City week will be observed in Greenville and Pitt County next week, along with 15,000 other communities across the nation, according to Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service chairman Leroy James.

James said Mrs. C. J. Harris, president of the Agri-Business Association will be heading up Farm-City Week activities locally, with staff members of the Agricultural Extension Service coordinating many of the programs.

According to James, Gov. Jim Hunt has proclaimed November 21-27 as Farm-City Week in North Carolina. "The prosperity and well-being of all citizens of North Carolina depend on the products and services of both industry and agriculture," the governor said.

BOARD MEETS

Speculation On Prince Charles' Future Bride

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Lady Diana Spencer, sophisticated beyond her 19 years, is charming yet shy, steeped in etiquette and devotion to duty and from a family "with royal connections." She has all the qualities to be a king's wife.

And speculation is growing that Prince Charles will choose her as his bride and future queen of England.

The daughter of the 8th Earl Spencer and a distant cousin of the Churchills, Lady Diana is literally "the girl next door." Her father's land adjoins the royal estate at Sandringham, where she was christened with a niece of the Queen Mother as her godmother.

Charles has known her since she was a baby. Her brother-in-law, Robert Fellowes, is on Charles' staff. Her father has held an intimate court post to both the late King George VI and Charles' mother, Queen Elizabeth II.

From childhood, Lady Diana has known about the business of royalty, the etiquette, the taboos, the absolute need for discretion and devotion to duty.

Such considerations weigh heavily in the choice of a future queen. Only a princess or someone close to the throne could be aware of the strain of alternating private life with the intense glare of publicity.

She could be living at the family estate at Althorp (pronounced Althrup), owned by the Spencers for 463 years and the site of one of the world's finest art and silver collections. But she prefers to live simply with three other girls in a London apartment while teaching in a private kindergarten.

Her parents are divorced but that is no longer an obstacle in royal circles. Her stepfather, Peter Shand Kydd, has been quoted as saying: "Diana is a very genuine person, one of the nicest."

She drives a Volkswagen but often rides a bicycle to work, which she takes seriously, worrying that attention on her might disturb the children or upset their parents.

A short-haired blonde with appealing eyes and a sharp-cut profile, she has a cool poise. With graceful manners she replies patiently, in clear upper-class accent, to questions by reporters dogging her steps. But all she says is that she has decided to say nothing.

Admitting that she had been seeing the prince, she told reporters demurely: "I can't say anything about it."

A glimpse of her personality was given in an interview with the Sunday Mirror by retired family butler, Ainslie Pendry, 68.

She is "usually a very shy person and blushes easily," he said. But he remembered that she took it well when thrown fully dressed into the family swimming pool during a party.

Pendry revealed that she used to say jokingly she was saving herself for the 32-year-old Charles' younger brother, Prince Andrew, now 20. When she and her elder sister, Lady Sarah, went on shooting parties with the two princes, "We all thought she was there as a partner for Andrew," said Pendry.

Lady Diana declined the customary round of parties given by rich fathers to debutantes and is little known outside her family circle.

She and her family are members of the Church of England. This fits in nicely with the Act of Settlement of 1701, which prevents Charles from marrying a Catholic if he wants to succeed his mother as monarch.

This is because the British sovereign is head of the Protestant Church of England.

Lady Diana's ancestors have been closely associated with royalty for 300 years.

"There cannot be another family so stiff with royal connections," said Peter Townsend, former editor of Burke's Peerage and an authority on blue-blooded family trees.

Some examples: The queen is godmother to Lady Diana's brother; the present earl is the godson of the late Queen Mary; Queen Victoria was godmother to another Spencer, and King George III and Queen Charlotte were godparents to a daughter of the second Earl Spencer.

Writing in the New Evening Standard, Anne de Courcy said: "Only time will tell whether Lady Diana will fill the missing place in the royal jigsaw. What is undeniable is that she could fit it perfectly."

Pitt Council Meeting Set

The meeting of the Pitt County Council on the Status of Women will be held Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock in the board room of Greenville Utilities Building. The business session will include making plans for the group's holiday party scheduled for early December and election of new officers for 1981.

New council members are urged to be present.

Set For Celebrating

BIRDS OF A FEATHER — Holiday activities take flight on this fanciful creation of imported rayon georgette with a triple-tiered skirt and soft blouson top, a perfect party dress any time. (By Anita Storr — C'est Moi.)

Mrs. Carrawan Is Speaker

Mrs. Judy Carrawan of CJ's crafts shop was the speaker for the November meeting of Gamma Delta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International. She displayed various Christmas crafts and explained how they could be made with a minimum of effort and monetary investment.

Mrs. Helen Sermons, president, officiated at the meeting held in the home of Mrs. Frances Cassick. Members volunteered to aid the Eastern Lung Association in its Trim-A-Tree project to be held at Carolina East Mall in December. They also voted to aid a foster child, as was requested by the local Department of Social Services.

Party Plans Are Made

The Grass Roots Garden Club held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. Earl Simmons. Plans were finalized for the Christmas party on Dec. 17 at the Holiday Inn.

The meeting was conducted by President Ruth Crawford. Entertainment for the party will be planned by Mrs. John Langley, Mrs. James Hecker and Mrs. Bob Merritt. Husbands of members will be invited guests.

Sue May, Pitt County home economics agent, was a guest. She spoke on table settings and viewed different kinds of holiday tables decorated by members.

A covered-dish luncheon following the meeting.

Bazaar Set For Saturday

BETHEL — The annual bazaar of the Women's Society of the Bethel United Methodist Church will be held Saturday, Nov. 22.

The hours are 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. and will be held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Bazaar items will include handiwork, fall vegetables, baked goods, a country kitchen and a white elephant table. A snack bar will also be open.

Social Chairman Ms. Shelby Bradshaw announced that the annual Christmas dinner will be held at the Colonial Inn in Farmville Dec. 19. Ms. Suzanne Leis served as hostess for the meeting.

SNACKTIME FARE
Carrot-Apple Cake
Beverage

CARROT-APPLE CAKE
Given on request.

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup unsweetened applesauce
1/4 cup vegetable oil
3 large eggs
3 cups coarsely grated, peeled carrots

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 9-inch tube pan. In a large bowl mix flour, sugar, baking soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Add applesauce and oil and stir until blended. Add eggs and stir thoroughly. When batter is smooth, add carrots and mix well. Pour batter into prepared pan and bake 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until a cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Remove from oven and place pan on a wire rack to cool for 5 minutes. Run a knife around edge of cake to loosen; turn out onto rack and cool completely. Tightly wrapped in aluminum foil, cake keeps well 1 week in refrigerator, up to 3 months in freezer. Makes 16 servings. Per serving: 163 calories, 3 grams protein, 5 grams fat, 28 grams carbohydrate. Published by courtesy of Redbook magazine.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

For celebrities whose every malady must be shared with the free world, there should be a code name for hemorrhoids.

Although it's a condition that seems too "common" to be associated with presidents and third basemen in the World Series, it does occasionally happen and the results are always the same.

Everyone tries to be serious about it and sympathetic, but there's an unmistakable twinkle in Cronkite's eye, a headline that is catchier than most, and you just know that somewhere the sufferer will receive two or three anonymous Titanic Lifesavers to sit on.

Maybe I'm too sensitive about this, but I never permitted my children the heart-break of diarrhea. Whenever they returned to school after an absence and needed a note of explanation I prudently opted for "upset stomach." One teacher circulated a rumor that it was because I did not know how to spell diarrhea, but she was quite vicious and thank goodness did not have tenure.

To be honest, hemb... that word... gives the celebrity a humanness I am not ready to admit to. In my heart, I have never believed that Miss America sweats, Robert Redford bleeds when he shaves, the Pope steps in chewing gum, or Sophia Loren gets an anchovy stuck in her front teeth.

Why, you ask, does the press have to print it at all? Because, you silly duck, according to the First Amendment, it is your God-given right to know if your hero is sitting on a whoopee cushion from the waist down and acting like all is well with the world from the waist up.

Also, there is an unwritten law that hemorrhoids sell papers. I have personally admired the people who have visited Mexico and come home with constipation. It doesn't sell as many papers as diarrhea, but it's class... real class.

I'm not kidding about the code word. One of these days celebrities will be spared the humiliation of headlines.

news bulletins, and eight seconds of a Carson monologue. The word will go out that the celebrity will not appear at an event because of a case of... I don't know. Creative Sitting, the Third Baseman's Disease, or something.

Maybe Washington could come up with a name for it. After all, people who call a defeat a "winning streak in remission" or refer to a scam as a "shift in power and resources" can come up with something.

Airlines compete among themselves to determine their dependability. The CAB measures dependability by checking how close an airline meets its published schedule. It rates dependability each month over the 200 most heavily traveled routes in the country. The CAB defines "on time" as an arrival within 15 minutes of its schedule without cancellation. Using this system of measuring dependability, a traveler may make a choice of airline partly based upon this factor.

Dear Abby

Try To Have Call Returned

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary who qualifies for membership in the "I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby" club, but I really need help with this problem:

When someone calls to talk to my boss and I tell the caller that he is engaged in a telephone conversation, the caller invariably says, "How long do you think he'll be?"

Now, really, Abby, I am not a mind reader, and there is virtually no way of knowing whether he will be tied up on the phone for an hour or only two minutes.

I always say politely, "I'm sorry, but I have no way of knowing." Then I am made to feel like a dummy. Abby, you're quick on your feet. Please give us secretaries a quippy reply to this asinine question.

A.F.

DEAR A.F.: Instead of telling the caller that the boss is on the phone, simply say, "I'm sorry, he's unavailable now, but if you care to leave your name and number I will have him return your call as soon as possible." End of problem.

DEAR ABBY: The dentist who told you that the gold in a person's mouth is usually not worth bothering about is in error. With the help of a mortician in town I have written down all the instructions as to what should happen to me after I die, and I specifically state that the gold in my mouth shall be removed and given to the executors of my estate (my two sons).

The mortician told me that I was by no means the first to make this kind of request. He said it takes only a few seconds to accomplish this with a dental instrument, and should the mortician feel unqualified to perform this task, a dentist can be called in.

A dental supply salesman I know well said he knows some big-city morticians who get between $15 and $30 thousand a year for the gold they extract from the deceased whose families think "it's just too horrible to think about."

I would rather see the gold in my mouth, which my dentist says is worth between $2 and $3 thousand, go toward educating my grandchildren than to someone who means nothing to me. You can bet your gold-filled molars that there will be someone along the line who will see that the gold doesn't go to the same place the corpse does.

AN ARKIE

DEAR ARKIE: Thanks for a valuable letter. Well, readers, that should settle it — unless some morticians want to get their digs in.

***

DEAR ABBY: My problem is not unusual. I have two friends whom I've known since childhood. (I'll call them Mary and Jane.)

Lately Mary tells me that Jane is slandering me behind my back. Then she says, "But please don't tell her I told you." This angers me because I can't fight back without betraying Mary.

Abby, how would you handle this? It baffles me because I've always had a good relationship with both of them.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Mark Twain said: "It takes an enemy and a friend working together to hurt you to the quick. The one to slander you and the other to get the news to you."

Don't accept as truth anything you can't verify. And the next time Mary starts to quote Jane, tell her you're not interested.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Possible Precedent?

We would be as happy as anyone to see school busing go, but the amendment introduced by Sen. Jesse Helms and approved by the senate last week seems a questionable precedent.

It bars the U. S. Justice Department from requesting the courts to use busing for bringing about racial balance in school systems.

We never agreed with court decisions which allowed this method, but they were made and the law must be respected.

So far as we are aware, never before has the justice department been barred from pursuing enforcement of the law.

If this holds up the same approach could be used in anti-trust cases or union racketeering matters. It could be a question of whatever can be slipped in.

Where will law and order be then?

Peanut Price Hikes Ahead

What's the latest commodity to join the price increase parade? The lowly peanut.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown says peanut prices have reached a high of $1,100 per ton compared with a support price of $455 per ton.

It will mean higher prices for peanut consumer products.

The farmer will get more for his peanuts, but only because bad growing conditions and aflatoxin have cut total production.

So, as with so many inflationary situations, nobody really wins.

THIS AFTERNOON

The Modern Way

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — John East, an obscure, 49-year-old political science professor, confined to a wheelchair, who talks in complete, grammatically precise sentences couched in a soft, well-modulated tone and punctuated by wit, thoughtful pauses, and sparkling blue eyes is on his way to the U.S. Senate.

It is, says the East Carolina University professor, a boyhood dream come into reality; the sort of thing which happens once in a lifetime; a humbling and sobering experience.

How could it happen? How could a quiet man with no political green stamps due him, who doesn't stand on a stump and shout, turn out to pasture a Bob Morgan with 20 years of experience in public service, a name well known for his work as a legislator, an attorney general, a would-be governor, a U.S. Senator?

East goes out of his way to express thanks to Morgan for that public service. Indeed, he worries that some may think him ungrateful because when he was hired at East Carolina, Morgan was chairman of the board of trustees.

party activities; telephone conferences and fund-raising events by which candidates can cover in minutes the miles and numbers of people which once took months; satellite television hookups reaching across the continent and reaching tremendous audiences of people with similar concerns and interests; and an array of specialized publications — both magazines and newspapers — circulated to specific groups and individuals within the conservative camp.

Why did all of this take America by surprise? Largely because mainstream based on political philosophy as opposed to the traditional method of closed meetings involving those who hope to get something directly out of their participation.

As to being simplistic, East recalls that he challenged Morgan to debate but was rejected. That would have given an opportunity to explore issues thoroughly, he said. And as a professor with a captive audience who will sit still and listen for hours, he is perfectly capable of doing just that, he says with a laugh.

And pondering the implications of the revolution in politicking which to East means not only a basic change in how to reach the voters, but a major shift in party loyalties — "The Democratic zealot is an endangered species", East commented.

BILL NOBLITT

But times change, and many find it strange that both in North Carolina and across the nation it has been the conservatives of the Republican Party — those often thought of as reactionaries more enamored by bygone times than as progressives — who have capitalized on the change.

This has become, suddenly, the electronics age of electioneering. Critics of East's campaign have hammered away at the money he raised from outside North Carolina and spent for radio and television ads which have been labeled negative and simplistic.

The commercials are only the visible part of the electronics revolution in politics. There are computerized mailing lists with a national fund-raising network; organizations of people outside the mainstream of political media people, political activists from either major party, and a lot of citizens are not plugged into these new channels of communication.

East talks to his critics about his campaign strategy:

"You wish you could sit down on the porch and talk to each and every voter...let each one come to know you well, and where you stand on problems and solutions."

"But in the real world you can't do that." How does an unknown challenger reach the top? The 30-second television ad, East says.

TV Ads
And that, he adds, tends to make the campaign both expensive and simplistic. To raise that much money requires a broad base of support which means going out of state to get contributions

By JOHN J. KILPATRICK

Traveling Man's Notes

WASHINGTON — By the time 1980 comes to an end, Old Dad — meaning me — will have traveled more than 100,000 miles this year around the country, stayed in 52 different hotels in 40 cities, spent 200 days on the road, and developed both the stomach and the disposition of a billygoat. Permit me, if you will, to unload a few thoughts on the joys and travails of a traveling man.

The Stouffer, Marriott and Hyatt hotels remain consistently the best that I encounter. Somewhere in the top management of the three chains, someone has impressed upon everyone down below the great benefit to be derived from a simple virtue: friendliness. It could happen tomorrow, but I have yet to hit a rude desk clerk, cashier or bellman at any of these Best Three.

Outside the big cities, let me recommend the Days Inns, the Ramada Inns and the Quality Courts. They are not inspired, but they're generally reliable.

The Hilton hotels are uneven. Some are good, others not so good. The big Atlanta Hilton suffers from bigness. At some point on the scale of capacity, old principles of inkeeping collapse under the strain. Too many rooms, too many guests, too many bags to be hauled around, too many meals to be served. The best place to stay in Atlanta is the Omni International.

The vice of bigness may also be the problem with the Holiday Inns. These too are fearfully uneven. A truly first-rate Holiday Inn is rare in my experience. Most of them, like the Holiday Inn in Wausau, Wis., are merely mediocre. The worst may be the Holiday Inn on West 57th Street in New York. On a recent visit it was staffed by desk clerks of a remarkable haughtiness, though goodness knows they had nothing to be haughty about — dismal decor, obstinate elevators, pedestrian furnishings.

If you're visiting Washington, the Madison, the L'Enfant Plaza and the Sheraton Carlton Hotels are your best bets. They cost an arm and a leg, but the rooms and the service are superb. The best of the several Marriotts is across the Potomac in Arlington's Crystal City. The relatively new Hyatt at the foot of Capitol Hill has a great staff and a fine restaurant, but now and then conventions get it down. The Four Seasons Hotel in Georgetown also has an elegant restaurant, and I'm told its guest rooms are high-priced but lovely.

In New Orleans and San Francisco, the Fairmonts have maintained their high reputations. Chicago's Palmer House is good, though the staff can be stuffy. Avoid Chicago's McCormick Inn; its drinks wouldn't nourish a goat with a weak stomach and they're way overpriced. The Skirvin in Oklahoma City is on the way up, with yet a long way to go. Otherwise there's no decent hotel in Oklahoma City.

So much for hotels. United Air Lines and American Airlines remain the best carriers. They try harder. Eastern and Northwest remain the worst. Once this year I had two good meals in a row on Eastern. Incredible! But just when I was feeling more kindly about Eastern, some baggage jockey sliced up one side of my wife's suitcase. Two weeks later, in an excess of equal treatment, another Eastern jockey gashed up the other side. As for Northwest, its penurious management seems unable to provide adequate help at the ticket counters, and Northwest churlishly persists in refusing to stock Jack Daniels Tennessee whiskey. TWA is a better bet. Or Continental.

Thinking again of Eastern: Praise the Lord, on December 14 residents of Washington and New York will begin to benefit from some competition to Eastern's hourly cattle car. Since 1961 Eastern has had a monopoly on shuttle service between the two cities. Four million passengers a year regularly are crammed like olives in a bottle into Eastern's 727s. The service has provided a splendid example of everything that is wrong with monopolies. At $60 a crack, the shuttle pro-

To the editor:

The belief that tobacco growing is the economic mainstay of Pitt County is an article of faith skillfully promoted by Reynolds and other manufacturers of tobacco products.

Study after study shows that tobacco smoking is indeed harmful to health, as well as a fire hazard.

But the reaction of the industry is to celebrate the deadly weed with all the hoopla money and influence can marshal.

In the parade Saturday, I accepted the tobacco queen. I accepted the mayors in vintage cars. I accepted the high school bands. But when uniformed Girl Scouts and their leaders went past on a float labeled "R. J. Reynolds Co./Pride in Tobacco," I gagged.

Thank heaven, no one has yet convinced us that the economy of Pitt County rests on the sale of cocaine!

To the editor:

Thursday night, Nov. 13, the City Council voted four to two to call for a referendum on the sale of mixed beverages. It does no good for us who are against the referendum to pout and whimper because of the vote, but we must pull together for the battle that lies ahead. I pray it will be a clean, honest campaign, one in which we attack the issue, and not the individual. Many times in our desire and drive to fight an issue, we start attacking the opposition. Let us present the facts of LBD and encourage the people of Greenville to vote No. Let us not hang our heads in defeat, but pray and trust God for a victory against LBD.

To the editor:

I hope our Tobacco Festival won't influence smokers in Greenville not to take part in the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout Nov. 20.

For smokers who would like to quit smoking FOR GOOD and have failed with cold turkey, I have a plan I'd like to share. I used it 18 years ago and quit a three-pack-a-day habit without any depression or withdrawal symptoms.

Strength For Today

VIRTUE OF TRYING

It is appalling the extent to which some very admirable people torture themselves by continuous inner contemplation of what they believe to be their own iniquity and shortcomings. "We are supposed to be firm religious believers," some of them say to themselves, "yet what horrible sinners we are." And then they compare themselves to others around them who have no religion at all. Some of these people are kindly, tolerant, and apparently free from serious vices.

And so the beleaguered Christian concludes, "What good does religious faith have, anyway?"

The difference between the saved and unsaved person is that the unsaved pays little attention to his sin, or — at the opposite extreme — lives in a continual state of despair because of his iniquity. But the saved man is a fighter who continually fights his sin. On the last great day, God's question will be not how good you are, but how good you tried to be. — Elisha Douglass

Barbara Not An Admirer

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Typical of the political estrangements with fellow Democrats that damaged President Carter's re-election bid was the unpublicized refusal of former Rep. Barbara Jordan to endorse the president despite her key 1976 role in making the nominating speech for Carter.

The black congresswoman from Houston, who left the House after three terms two years ago, has told intimates that she regards Carter as one of the "most vicious" politicians she had ever encountered. But when we asked why she felt so strongly about the president, her office refused to comment.

Ms. Jordan is now teaching ethics and intergovernmental relations at the University of Texas in Austin. Although her office told us she had decided to stay out of politics because of her new teaching career, the real reason was deep political estrangement that started not long after she placed Carter's name in nomination for president in 1976.

The Pentagon Tower
Even though Republican control of the Senate gives him the chairmanship of the armed services committee, Sen. John Tower of Texas has told President-elect Reagan's emissaries he definitely wants to leave the Senate to be secretary of defense.

If Tower gets his wish, next in line for armed services would be Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. But at age 71 and not in the best of health, Goldwater might opt for the less demanding duties of intelligence committee chairman. That would award armed services to Sen. John Warner of Virginia, a former secretary of the navy first elected to the Senate just two years ago.

Such a train of events would be bitter irony for Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who would have become chairman had the Democrats retained control of the Senate. "Scoop's been waiting 40 years for the job," one defense community insider commented, "and now Warner has a shot at it after only two years."

A footnote: Richard M. Nixon, always free with advice, has urged Reagan to announce his whole Cabinet all at once just as Nixon did 12 years ago. Reagan, however, is inclined to reveal the membership one by one, piecemeal.

Pope To The Rescue
Pope John Paul II played a major but unannounced role in helping to find at least a temporary solution to the political crisis between the independent workers' unions and the Communist Party in Poland last week.

Reliable word brought here from the Vatican by Cardinal Joseph Caprio on Oct. 30 and quickly transmitted to the highest State Department officials told how the pope had helped work out the settlement formula with Poland's Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński at the Vatican in late October.

The pope is believed to have strongly advised Wyszyński that the free workers' unions should be very careful not to try to make too large gains too soon. Both the pope, who is Polish, and the cardinal agreed that only the strength of the Catholic Church in Poland had prevented Soviet intervention long before the latest crisis. They also agreed that in any other Eastern European country within the Soviet empire, what happened in Poland would never have been tolerated.

That Early Concession
Contrary to word leaked out of the White House that Robert S. Strauss had acquiesced in President Carter's early concession, the truth is that his campaign chairman pleaded with the defeated president not to say anything until the polls in the West closed.

In fact, Strauss thought he had won agreement from Carter — with top political aide Hamilton Jordan supporting Strauss — not to concede until 11 p.m. So, Strauss was stunned to learn around 9 o'clock that the president was on his way from the White House to the Sheraton-Washington Hotel to concede. Carter had overridden the wishes of not only Strauss and Jordan but of press secretary Jody Powell as well.

A footnote: Strauss can be expected to use his immense influence within the Democratic National Committee to pick the eventual successor to John White (a fellow Texan who had been hand-picked by Strauss) as Democratic national chairman. The early guessing for Strauss's choice: Los Angeles lawyer-banker Charles T. Manatt, who has been the party's national finance chairman.

Whip Or Mr. Taxation?
The post of majority whip is his for the asking, but House Democratic leaders would prefer that Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois become chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee instead.

The reason: The more independent-minded Rep. Sam Gibbons of Florida would be next in line to succeed Oregon's defeated Rep. Al Ullman as ways and means chairman — Mr. Taxation in Congress. Similarly, ways and means Republicans hope Rostenkowski becomes whip (No. 3 in the House Democratic hierarchy), believing they could work more closely with Gibbons.

Gibbons did not improve his stock with the party leaders after the election when he urged passage of tax reduction during the lame-

Car-Pricing, Mortgages, Corn

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In your opinion, are these recent business decisions well advised?

—Beset by foreign competition, poor sales and enormous losses, the domestic automotive industry has decided it needs higher prices for its new, more fuel-efficient cars.

Though costing more, some of the new cars will be less fuel-efficient than some of the imported vehicles. They are less of a known quality than some of the imports, which now have established reputations.

The price increases come during one of the weakest recent recoveries from recession, when lenders and individuals seem more interested in correcting their finances than in expanding their responsibilities.

Moreover, and to the surprise of Detroit automakers, the International Trade Commission has declined to curb automobile imports from Japan.

Can Detroit make its price increases stick?

—Confronted with what appears to be almost constant inflation, the home lending industry has concluded that it will retire from the business of granting long-term, fixed-rate mortgage loans.

Simplified, this is their explanation: We cannot continue to lend money far into the future at what might turn out to be relatively low rates, while spending more than that to obtain the funds to lend.

Almost nobody disputes the argument, nor do they blame lenders for switching to the rollover mortgage, a loan written for a 20-year or 25-year period — even more — but with interest charges adjusted for the rate of inflation each year. The procedure protects the lender.

Question: What will protect the borrower? If interest rates rise faster than the borrower's wages, for example, will the borrower be able to continue meeting payments?

If not, and assuming the lender doesn't desire to keep extending the length of the mortgage, what option is available other than to repossess the house, something in which no lender likes to be involved?

—In an effort to overcome the energy shortage, the Federal government is actively working toward development of a new industry: ethanol alcohol. Ethanol is a vital ingredient in the mixture called gasohol.

The chief source of ethanol is corn, a crop for which the United States is famous, since it produces and exports more at less cost than any other nation. It is a big source of funds for the United States.

Ethanol, however, represents a relatively new demand for corn, and if plans by government and industry plans are carried out it will mean a tremendous new market for the crop. What then will happen to prices?

Business Week magazine suggests the possibility it will spark a corn price explosion because demand for corn is already high, because of the export demand and the developing demand for corn as a sweetener.

If the price explosion happens, you can expect the shock to be felt round the world, because that corn for cars, you certainly will recognize, is the very same corn we have customarily used as food.

'J.R.' Forgot His Lines

LONDON (AP) — Larry Hagman, who as the nasty J.R. Ewing got shot in the "Dallas" TV series, died the death every trouper fears when he appeared before royalty here. He forgot his lines.

On Monday night, the biggest showbiz night of the year at the London Palladium, Hagman twice forgot the lyrics to "My Favorite Sins."

"Well, I blew it — well, there you go," he confessed.

But his role has made Hagman so popular here that he can't do wrong. Queen Mother Elizabeth and her grandson, Prince Charles, were all smiles, and diamond-studded theatergoers who shelled out $144 for their charity tickets cheered him to the roof.

They cheered again when Hagman's mother, veteran actress Mary Martin, skipped onstage in her sailor suit from "South Pacific" and did a song-and-dance routine with her son.

After the show, part of the ongoing celebration of the queen mother's 80th birthday, Hagman met with the royal guests.

"I am not going to ask you who shot you," said the queen mother, a devoted fan of the CBS series.

"I wouldn't say, not even to you, your highness," replied Hagman.

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — The much-heralded video revolution is finally beginning to look like a revolution. I mean a real revolution, with violent upheaval of the status quo and a reordering of the social structure.

Consider my den. It was once a benevolent autocracy, ruled supremely by our 19-inch portable color TV with the fuzzy sound. This system was premised on the fact that there was no other reason to enter the den except to watch TV. Books and dogs and radios and food were all located elsewhere.

They were inhabitants of the den wholly subject to the 19-inch portable.

Sir Tube, we called it. It was benevolent because it was there, ostensibly for our benefit; autocratic because we either accepted what it dished out or lumped it.

Then came cable. Suddenly, Sir Tube was forced to distribute something other than the narrow fare of commercial TV. We got movies. Uncut, uncensored movies.

Cable was our Magna Carta.

Next came satellite services. An all-sports network. Ted Turner's superstation, which brought us Atlanta Braves baseball and old movies. An all-news network.

Suddenly, we were on almost equal terms with Sir Tube. We still had to take what it dished out, but the offerings were so varied we suddenly felt we had a say in things.

Now there is the promise of complete upheaval. I'm talking blood-in-the-shag-carpet revolt here. Its name is teletext.

The CBS Broadcast Group, in association with local stations KNXT (a CBS-owned affiliate) and KCET (a public TV station) announced last week the beginning of a teletext experiment in Los Angeles that has huge implications for the TV dens across America.

Teletext is a service that allows viewers to order printed information on the home TV. Say you're watching "That's Incredible" and you want to know the mortality rate of TV stuntmen. Teletext, even-to work out technical kinks. Also, CBS' presence is notable. That network, the only one of the big three currently without some form of closed captioning for the deaf, will use teletext for that purpose through the services of the Caption Center of WGBH, Boston's PBS station.

Perhaps more significant, though, is the fact that a major network is staking its claim to this vast new video territory. It suggests that CBS, at least, intends to be around when the video revolution has spent its fury.

The network has already petitioned the Federal Communications Commission to begin setting standards regulating teletext, the first vital step to mass marketing.

Teletext holds obvious appeal to a commercial network. CBS might be able to have a classified ads "page" or supplement its commercials with a list showing where advertised products can be purchased.

KNXT, the CBS affiliate, will explore the commercial aspects of teletext. KCET, the public TV station, will explore the educational and cultural possibilities.

The possibilities are enormous. Instead of just watching your TV, subdued, you can use it.

Sir Tube, the days of your reign are numbered. We're nothing but our passivity to lose.

'The Met' Eyes Dec. 12 Opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera's 97th season, nearly scrapped by labor disputes, will open Dec. 12 with Berg's "Lulu," the Opera Association says.

The 19-week season, which would have begun Sept. 22, will get under way with a revival of the Met's once traditional concert, Dec. 10.

A greatly revised schedule of performances was put together after hundreds of telephone calls to determine when opera singers would be free to return from engagements accepted during the contract disputes.

As the new schedule was posted, the Met returned to life with the sound of soloists and choristers beginning rehearsals.

The season opening will be a non-subscription concert, with James Levine conducting and Marilyn Horne and Judith Blegen appearing as soloists in Gustav Mahler's Symphony No. 2, "The Resurrection."

The first opera of the season, "Lulu," will feature Teresa Stratas singing the title role, Evelyn Lear as Countess Geschwitz and

Plunkett's Final Quarter Sparks Raiders To Comeback Win, 19-17

SEATTLE (AP) — The amazing comeback of Jim Plunkett continued — at the expense of the Seattle Seahawks.

The Oakland Raiders' storybook quarterback had a mediocre passing game Monday night and, for three quarters at least, it looked like Plunkett's 1980 magic wasn't going to work.

But he did everything right when he had to in the final quarter in a 19-17 comeback victory over the Seahawks.

The nationally televised game was Oakland's sixth straight triumph, all behind the rejuvenated Plunkett, the 10-year National Football League veteran who got a chance to play when Dan Pastorini broke a leg.

"You have to give them credit for hanging in there," Seattle quarterback Jim Zorn sighed.

Oakland stayed in sole possession of first place in the American Football Conference's Western Division — at 8-3 — on Chris Bahr's 28-yard field goal with 56 seconds left.

The Raiders trailed 17-7 early in the fourth quarter.

"It was a great comeback," Oakland Coach Tom Flores said. "I'm proud. Jim Plunkett came through in the clutch. And when we had to protect him, we did."

"This game," Plunkett said,

"was the toughest we've had in the last six weeks. It's the first time we've had to come back. But we're a good football team, and we came back in the second half."

Plunkett's statistics were 9 completions in 22 attempts for 135 yards and no touchdowns. He had an interception, lost a fumble and was sacked four times.

But when the Raiders marched from their own 39 — with 4:20 left after cornerback Lester Hayes picked off a Zorn pass — to the Seattle 10 to set up Bahr's game-winning field goal, Plunkett came through.

He contributed key runs of 7 and 4 yards and, also completed passes of 18 and 9 yards in the march. He carried four times for 19 yards in the game.

"That's about as much as I want to run," Plunkett smiled.

Seattle Coach Jack Patera watched his team lose its fourth game in a row and drop its second straight contest in the final minute to remain winless in six games at home in the Kingdome this season.

The Seahawks now are 4-7 with four of their defeats coming in the last three minutes.

"I don't think we can play much better," Patera said. "We dominated most of the game. Everybody connected with our team is frustrated because we played pretty well."

"We've been in scoring position too many times to not win the game. We weren't too lucky."

Zorn completed 19 of 35 passes for 250 yards and one touchdown. He was intercepted twice.

"It's really frustrating to play well and lose," Zorn said. "I thought Oakland played really well but they were fortunate to win."

Georgia Clings To First; Irish Move Into Second

By The Associated Press Riding a Crimson Tide, Notre Dame has swept into second place in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Fighting Irish thus moved up right behind top-ranked Georgia, a team that Notre Dame is scheduled to meet on New Year's Day in the Sugar Bowl.

A 7-0 victory this past weekend over defending national champion Alabama was the impetus that helped push Notre Dame four places to the runner-up spot. Dan Devine's team, 8-0-1 so far this year, picked up four first-place votes Monday from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters for a point total of 1,188.

The Fighting Irish took over No. 2 from Southern California, 7-1-1, which dropped all the way to No. 12 after a 20-10 loss to Washington's Rose Bowl-bound Huskies.

Georgia, meanwhile, the nation's only undefeated and untied team with a 10-0 record, defeated Auburn 31-21 last Saturday and held a firm grip onto the No. 1 spot with 55 firsts and a total of 1,306.

After an idle weekend, Florida State held onto third place with three No. 1 votes and 1,175 points, just two more than No. 4 Nebraska. The Cornhuskers defeated Iowa State 35-0 to garner the four remaining first-place votes and 1,173 points.

With Alabama and Southern Cal both losing, Ohio State, Pitt and Penn State all moved up in the polls.

The Buckeyes moved up to No. 5 with 1,012 points after a 41-7 trouncing of Iowa; Pitt climbed to No. 6 with 973 points after beating Army 45-7 and Penn State moved to No. 7 with 896 after routing Temple 50-7.

Alabama's loss to Notre Dame cost the Crimson Tide three places, to No. 8 with 735 points. Oklahoma, a 17-7 winner over Missouri, went one place to ninth with 719 and Michigan climbed from 11th to 10th with 695 points after a 26-0 beating of Purdue.

Baylor held down the No. 11 spot, followed by Southern Cal, Brigham Young, South Carolina, North Carolina, Washington, Mississippi State, UCLA, Florida and Texas.

Washington returned to the Top Twenty after a three-week absence while Texas reappeared after a two-week hiatus with a 56-26 beating of Texas Christian.

Carraway Is Winner

Pete Carraway of 1605 Beaumont Dr., Greenville, is the winner of the final Daily Reflector Football Contest for the 1980 season.

Carraway correctly picked the winners in 26 of the 32 games listed in last week's contest entry pages. His victory, however, came on the basis of his point total guess of 74 points.

The actual total was 86, scored in Mississippi State's 55-31 victory over Louisiana State.

Second place went to Milton E. Diehl of P.O. Box 1223, Grifton, who also had 26 correct picks. He was further off the point total with a guess of 72.

Two other entrants also missed six games, but were further off the point total. The Football Contest will return again next fall.

No Hurry For Va. Tech

ATLANTA (AP) — Peach Bowl officials may decide by telephone during Saturday's college football games which team will oppose Virginia Tech in the Jan. 2 classic.

Five teams — Indiana, Stanford, Louisiana State, Miami and Kansas — are under consideration for the bid. Art Gregory, chairman of the Peach Bowl selection committee, said Monday. Any of the five which loses Saturday will be out of the running.

"We see no reason to make a decision at this time," Gregory said. "We are the only bowl with an opening, so we can afford to wait until Saturday's games."

Indiana, 6-4, plays at Purdue; Stanford, 6-4, is at California; LSU, 6-4, hosts Tulane; Miami, 6-3, hosts North Texas State and Kansas, 4-4-2, plays at Missouri.

"We will have a representative at each of the five teams' games who will phone in after each quarter. More than likely a decision will be made through telephonic communication Saturday, although we could wait until Sunday," Gregory said.

The Peach Bowl will be telecast nationally from Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium beginning at 3 p.m. EST Jan. 2.

Spell, Johnson Are Only Rose All-Division Picks

WILSON — Rose High School's football team managed to place but two players on the 29-man team selected by the league's eight coaches last night, and coach Dave Bumgarner wasn't happy about it.

"I'm really surprised and frustrated about the selections," Bumgarner said. "I felt that we had several more players who were definitely all-conference caliber who were overlooked."

The two picked from Rose were defensive linemen Curtis Spell and defensive back Donald Johnson.

Fike, which won the conference championship, landed nine players on the team, nearly one-third of the total. Golden Demons picked included Dennis Dew at offensive end, Len Barnes in the offensive line, Anthony Moore in the offensive backfield, Bernnie Walker in the defensive line, Jerry Ruffin at linebacker, Mo Ruffin and Greg Edwards in the defensive backfield, Ken Harper at punter and Lee Gliarmis at place kicker. In addition, coach Maxie Williams was chosen as Coach of the Year.

Northeastern and Rocky Mount were runners-up in selections, each landing five players. Selected from Northeastern were Hunter Williams and Troy Brooks in the offensive line, Jerry McGee in the offensive backfield, Robert Williams at linebacker and Walter Harris in the defensive backfield.

Rocky Mount players selected were offensive lineman Stuart Phillips, flanker Ken Weaver, chosen in the backfield; defensive lineman Melvin Williams, linebacker Jeff Swain and defensive back Steve Barnes.

Beddingfield landed four players on the team. They were offensive end Kenny Barnes, defensive linemen Dennis Barron and Richard Quintavalle, and linebacker John Bynum.

Bertie placed three on the team. They included offensive lineman Raymond Wilson, offensive back Jeff Cherry, and linebacker Jimmy Weaver.

Northern Nash landed one player, offensive lineman Scott Green.

Hunt, which finished in last place in the league, failed to land a player on the team.

All of those selected are seniors except for Weaver and Barron.

Beddingfield Teams Get Favorite's Nod In Poll

WILSON — Wilson Beddingfield High School was the solid choice of the Division I basketball coaches to successfully defend its league title this winter.

The coaches were polled last night at the regular conference meeting held at Wilson's Fike High School. Two members of the boys' coaching ranks did not attend the meeting and votes were polled by the remaining six coaches.

Beddingfield's girls were also chosen to win their conference championship, taking last year by Northern Nash; picked this year as the runner-up. As with the boys' coaches, two head coaches did not attend, and the remaining six voted on the pre-season standings.

Beddingfield picked up a total of 48 points, based on an 8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 vote basis. Fike finished second with 34 points, while the third Wilson School, Hunt, tied with Greenville Rose for third with 30 points each.

The second four consisted of Rocky Mount, with 28 points, Northern Nash with 22, Bertie with 15 and Northeastern of Elizabeth City, 11.

In the girls' voting, Beddingfield ended up with 41 points, while defending champ Northern Nash had 36. A tie for third also developed in the girls' rankings, with Fike and Rocky Mount each gathering 32 points.

Beddingfield coach Al Warwick said that he again looks for a good year from his team. "We are definitely capable of winning again," he said.

Leading the Bruins is 6-7 center Ed Farmer, along with both of the returning forwards, 6-4 Randy Loftin and 6-0 Vernon Williams. Likely to take over the guard spots are 5-10 Maurice Bynum and Mike Branch, also 5-10, with the possibility of Thomas Loftin, 6-3, moving in at forward with Williams switching to guard.

Big Payoff

NEW YORK (AP) — The full-share players on the Philadelphia Phillies are $34,693.18 richer, thanks to record earnings in the 1980 World Series.

This year's payoff for the winning team is over $6,000 more a man than was made by the Pittsburgh Pirates in last season's World Series. For last year's victory over the Baltimore Orioles, the Pirates received $28,236.87 a man.

The Phillies' total broke the record of $31,236.99 earned by the New York Yankees in 1978, according to an announcement Monday by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The American League champion Kansas City Royals, meanwhile, came away with a $32,211.95 a man after losing the Series in six games to the National League champions.

Huskies Seek Pac-10 Title Outright

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington football team won't rest on its laurels, even though it has a place in the Rose Bowl, says Husky Coach Don James.

The Pacific-10 Conference title is still up for grabs, and the University of Southern California could still take that title with a victory over UCLA next Saturday — if the Washington State Cougars should upset Washington in Spokane.

"We still want to win this outright," James said. "It's a rival game, too."

"As I see, our biggest problem is like you get after every big victory — everybody tells you how good you are for seven days and you start to believe it. "You don't get ready to play and you get in trouble. If we're not ready to play Washington State, then we'll be in deep trouble."

Husky players have been in the limelight this week because they upset No. 2-ranked Southern Cal 20-10 Saturday. Southern Cal had been favored by 11 points.

Husky junior defensive tackle Fletcher Jenkins was voted the Pac-10 Defensive Player of the Week for his performance against Southern Cal. Against the Trojans, he had 12 tackles, seven of them for losses, and recovered a fumble. He also caused a fumble. The victory assured that the Huskies will go to the Rose Bowl in January for the second time in three years, but James Monday avoided making any rash claims about any changes in the balance of power in the Pac-10.

Asked if power was swinging from Southern California to the Northwest, he replied tactfully. "I've got to believe they've still got every advantage."

James was talking about the two Los Angeles Pac-10 powers — Southern Cal and UCLA.

"I still think they can be pretty strong," James said. "They tell me this year is a great year for recruiting in Southern California, too."

"I really don't know about a balance of power. But we've had coaching changes in the Northwest. Rich Brooks obviously has done an excellent job of making Oregon strong."

Oregon tied Southern Cal and beat UCLA this season. The Huskies did not play UCLA.

The Huskies upset Michigan 27-20 in the 1978 Rose Bowl and posted a 14-7 upset over Texas in the Sun Bowl last season.

James, 47, arrived here from Kent State six years ago. The Huskies went 6-5, 5-6, 9-3, 7-4, 10-2 in his first five seasons here. They're 8-2 this season. Success perpetuates success, he said. "When we went (to the Rose Bowl) in '77," James said, "I don't think anybody dreamed we'd ever be back. "But now that we've had three post-season games, we have the one thing going for us in recruiting that schools do that recruit so well consistently — and that's the chance if you come in you can win and go to a bowl."

James was asked about Saturday's Big Ten Conference championship game between Ohio State and Michigan. The Ohio State-Michigan winner will face Washington in Pasadena.

"I haven't really given it (the Ohio State-Michigan game) much thought," he stressed. "We've really got to be careful this week."

"The thing we have to guard against is talking about Michigan or Ohio State. We can't even think about them," James talked about the Huskies' recruiting prospects.

"We don't have to go down there (Southern California) and get 15 kids," he said. "If we can go down there and get four and five real good ones..."

He added, "We still want to win the battles in the Northwest and fill in with top players from around the country."

James said he hoped to have another "outstanding" crops of recruits.

"We had an outstanding recruiting class last year," he said. "Our goal now is to try to back that up. When you start to get good is when you can back that up with two or three (outstanding recruiting classes)."

"We had an outstanding re-

Kiffin Warns Wolfpack To Beware Of Pirates

The team had planned to go 11-0, win the Atlantic Coast Conference title and go to a bowl game. The chance at all three goals have vanished, but the Wolfpack would like to remain above .500. But Kiffin knows the task won't be easy, especially since his team hasn't put two wins together since the start of the season.

"We haven't been the kind of team to play well back-to-back," he said. "We're not a good football team if we don't go out and play hard. That's our only chance." Kiffin said he was certain that the Pirates will not be the same squad that dropped a 28-16 game in the rain to Eastern Kentucky. In fact, he's certain that the team that comes into Raleigh will duplicate Pirate teams of the past.

"They really are the East Carolina of old. They play with enthusiasm and they have a lot of outstanding athletes," Kiffin said.

However, he added that preparing for ECU would not be easy because the scout team would have to run the wishbone. "That's difficult to do in four days."

N.C. State leads the intrastate series 7-3.

Houston's Bill Virdon Selected Top National League Manager

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Virdon, who once lost his job as manager of the New York Yankees because he didn't show enough flamboyance, proved last season as Houston Astros manager that calm can be a virtue.

Taking a mild-mannered approach, Virdon engineered the Astros to their first division title in the franchise's 19-year history and for his leadership has been named National League Manager of the Year by The Associated Press.

Throughout the Astros' historic 1980 season, the team reflected Virdon's influence. Virdon never allowed himself to get too high or too low and the team seemed to adopt a similar personality.

The Astros almost lost the divisional title in a tense final three-game series against Los Angeles. The Dodgers won three straight games and forced a one-game playoff for the title.

The Astros won the playoff and then took world champion Philadelphia to a nerve-wracking five games in the best of five National League championship series.

After the final heart-stopping 8-7 Phillies victory, Virdon spoke of his team in his now-predictable low-key fashion, taking no credit and praising the players.

"The Astros don't have to bow their heads," he said. "They are a better ball club than a lot of people give them credit for — I have to tip my hat to them."

"This team went through a lot in this season. There were injuries, but they held together. They had a lot of heart and I think that surprised a lot of people. They proved that they were a top-rate team."

Virdon could not be reached at his Missouri home for comment after Monday's award.

A nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters gave Virdon 293½ votes for a wide victory margin over Phils Manager Dallas Green, the runnerup with 167½ votes.

Bobby Cox, who led Atlanta on a surge in the second half of the season before the Braves finished fourth, was third with 66 votes.

Montreal's Dick Williams, whose Expos lost the division title to the Phillies on the final weekend of the regular season,

Bench Making Trade Noises

CINCINNATI (AP) — After 13 years of catching during which he has endured pain and injury, Johnny Bench once again has asked to play another position, and the Cincinnati Reds' management is worried about it.

"I thought we had agreed to the fact that he could catch just two games a week, although I told him I couldn't guarantee that he would play another position," Reds President Dick Wagner said Monday, surprised that Bench had asked for another meeting.

Meanwhile, Bench called a 2 p.m. EST news conference today in which he is expected to say he would like to be assigned another position on a regular basis or be traded.

Bench, 33, has been close to Louis Nippert, chief stockholder of the Reds, and has never been one to air his disagreements with the club publicly.

"John's a company man," said Reuven Katz, Bench's adviser. "This has been dragging out a long time. Rather than go over it all 20 times, Johnny thought it would be best to talk about it this way. It was his initiative."

Wagner said he was surprised when Bench asked to talk again about his positions. "I said, 'It's kind of like Act IV. I thought we agreed.'"

Wagner said he wanted to keep Bench with the Reds. "We hope that he doesn't want to be traded. If he does, we would try to accommodate him. Several clubs have approached us about him, but we really aren't talking," Wagner said.

Bench, a veteran who holds the record for home runs by a catcher, has final approval on a trade under the agreement with the Major League Players Association. "We have established ballplayers. We have a pretty good ballclub. I can't envision anyone moving" to make room in the lineup for Bench, Wagner said.

Baker Hoping To Snap His Citadel-Furman Jinx

CHARLESTON (AP) — Both The Citadel and Furman have a lot riding on their game Saturday.

If The Citadel wins, it will have an 8-3 season record, its best since 1971.

If Furman wins, the Paladins will have a 9-1-1 record, their best since 1935 when they finished 8-1.

For obvious reasons, Bulldog Coach Art Baker hopes his team wins. But Baker has more personal reasons for wanting his squad to be victorious.

Baker coached five years at Furman and never beat The Citadel. He has coached two years at The Citadel and has not beaten Furman.

"I don't really remember it," Baker said, "but I guess I must have broken a mirror seven years ago when I went to Furman. Now, I'm not superstitious, but I've paid my debts, believe me."

The Bulldog coach, at his weekly news conference Monday, assembled a shamrock, leprechaun, lucky penny and a buckeye on the table before him. He said he would accept a rabbit's foot before Saturday's game from anyone willing to give him one.

Baker said in addition to the string of bad luck he has had in The Citadel-Furman contest, he is concerned about the Bulldogs rebounding from last week's lackluster performance against Davidson. Despite the poor showing, The Citadel won 31-13.

The Bulldogs, who have been averaging nearly 400 yards offense per game, were held to less than 300 by Davidson. And Stump Mitchell, the nation's third-leading rusher, was held to a season low 88 yards.

"We did not block or execute very well," Baker said.

The coach said he was pleased with the performance of his special teams. Mark Slawson returned one punt 80 yards for a touchdown, set up another on a 35-yard return, and kicked several kickoffs deep into the end zone for no return.

The Bulldog defense also recovered a fumbled punt and limited Davidson kickoff returns to less than 10 yards per return.

"I feel like we and Furman are very comparable," Baker said. "We do many of the same things. This is a very important game for our program and our school. This game may be very important for me, but I have never asked a football team to win a game for my sake and I never will."

outnumbered losers by about 5-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange. Monte Gordon, an analyst for Dreyfus Corp., attributed the gains to a perception that short-term interest rates are near their peak and that inflationary pressures may ease, despite recent hikes in the prime lending rate by major banks and the jump in the discount rate for bank borrowing from the Federal Reserve System. Gordon said that despite the uncertainty that spiraling interest rates may slow the economic recovery and cause another recession, institutional investors have healthy cash reserves and "emotional conditions" following Ronald Reagan's victory in the presidential election are driving the market forward.

The Federal Reserve Board today reported somewhat discouraging news in its latest weekly report on the nation's money supply. The latest figures show the basic money supply continued to grow at rates faster than targets set by the Fed, aggravating concerns about inflation pressures. And the Commerce Department reported personal income rose 1.1 percent in October.

Oil stocks showed strong gains in today's early trading. Exxon jumped 1/4 to 84 1/2; Mobil rose 1/2 to 82; Texaco was up 1/2 to 45 1/2; Occidental Petroleum gained 3/4 to 34 1/2; and Tesoro Petroleum rose 1/2 to 25 1/2.

The Federal National Mortgage Association, which today cut its quarterly dividend to 16 cents a share from 32 cents, was off 1 1/2 to 12 1/2, topping the NYSE active list at noon.

The NYSE composite index rose 0.82 to 80.14. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 2.25 to 356.59.

FUEL OIL TRUCK WRECKED — A truck driven by Luther Woodrow Smith, 61, of Grifton, overturned just north of Grifton on Rural Paved Road 1939 this morning at 8:10. Fuel oil and kerosene were spilled and an estimated $10,000 loss to the Ayden Fertilizer and Fuel Company truck was reported by investigating officer, State Highway Patrolman Fred Davis.

Smith was a patient in the emergency room of Pitt County Memorial Hospital at 11 a. m., Davis said. He was said to be conscious, but in pain. The Grifton and Ayden Fire Departments and Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner conducted procedures to prevent a fire at the accident scene, Davis said. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest) further action on the merger issue. Also, it was noted at yesterday's meeting of the Pitt County commissioners, commissioners "agreed to discuss the matter after receiving a formal report from the joint merger study committee."

Two budget amendments were approved. Budget Amendment No. 1 to the Federal Grants fund covers an increase of $22,854.07 in seven categories of federal money, bringing the total appropriation of federal funds to the city schools for the current school year to $994,898.07.

The second budget amendment approved was an added allocation from state funds of $10,691 to cover salary cost for the additional first grade teacher the state recently approved for Sadie Sautler School.

The resignation of Macon Jack Moye, Jr., cabinet making teacher at Rose High, was accepted. Moye, who earlier suffered a heart attack, has tendered his resignation effective December 1. William Nelson Hamill was elected as Moye's replacement. Also elected to the staff of the city school were Delbert Cross and Carlton Floyd, both for half-time CETA funded positions at AGEN Fulfillive. Two other personnel also were elected to part-time positions, Debbie Bengala at Eastern and Betty Rayle, Wahl-Coates.

Two out of country trips by Rose High students were approved. One is for the trip by Spanish students to Guadalajara and other cities in Mexico April 17-25, 1981; the second is the trip by French students to Paris and London April 18-26. These are

Urban Northeast Struck By Storm

By C.W. MIRANKER
 Associated Press Writer

A vast storm that swooped out of the Western Plains assaulted cities of the urban Northeast with snows almost a foot deep today, leaving at least 13 people dead from Texas to New York.

Thousands of homes were darkened as the snow and ice ripped down power lines. Highways from Ohio to Massachusetts were littered with stalled trucks and cars. Schools closed in numerous communities.

The storm that had dropped snow up to 17 inches deep in parts of the West intensified as it reached New England in the early-morning hours. With snow still falling, more than 10 inches had accumulated at such places as Albany, N.Y., and Williamsport, Pa. Six inches had fallen in six hours at Concord, N.H., with 5 inches during the same period at Hartford, Conn.

Two traffic deaths in Texas on a rain-slick road and one in Oklahoma were blamed on the storm, which in one day left eight times the normal November snowfall in Oklahoma. Four people died in separate snow-related road accidents in Ohio, where as much as 7 1/2 inches fell.

Two traffic deaths were reported in Pennsylvania and one in New Jersey. In addition, a 9-year-old boy in Armstrong County, Pa., was found dead in his backyard swimming pool after he went outside to shovel snow.

In New York, the storm was blamed for at least two deaths. William Jacobson, 40, of Oswego was killed Monday evening when the car in which he was riding slid into another in Fairhain. In Pulaski, Paul A. Roux, 46, of Watertown was killed early today when his truck struck a concrete wall at an exit on Interstate 81 during a heavy snowfall.

A twin-engine airplane piloted by a New York man was reported missing this morning over rugged Pennsylvania terrain covered with nine to 12 inches of snow.

Wallace's market, on the Eastern Belt, led the state with an average of $153.55 per hundredweight, followed by Fuguy-Varina's $153.12 on the Old and Middle Belt.

Final clean-up sales were held Monday in Wilson, Mount Airy and Winston-Salem.

The Eastern Belt, largest in North Carolina, averaged a record $147.77 per hundred pounds this year, up more than $8 from last year. Old and Middle Belt markets averaged $143.28, an increase of more than $3 over the 1979 average, while Border Belt markets averaged $147.70.

Israeli Fire On Children

RAMALLAH, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Israeli troops opened fire on rock-throwing Palestinian youths here and in Bethlehem today and wounded 10 of them, including the daughter of a university president, military officials said.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, meanwhile, assassins on the hunt for Arabs collaborating with Israel claimed their fifth and sixth victims in two weeks. One was a fruit vendor friendly to the Israelis. The other was the acting mayor of a refugee camp who supported the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Officials said troops wounded four youngsters who stoned a police car in Bethlehem. They said three were known to have sustained light injuries, while the fourth was hit in the stomach.

Soldiers fired at the legs of rock-throwing high school children at this town north of Jerusalem, wounding six people, at least two of them girls, military officials said.

They said the crowd ignored shouted orders and two bursts of warning shots in the air and went on hurling rocks at the troops in the town's main square.

One of the injured was Haniya Baramki, 14, daughter of the acting president of Bir Zeit University. The university, just north of Ramallah, is a center of Palestinian activism and has been closed for a week by Israeli authorities for holding a Palestinian cultural exhibit.

Rescuer Is Also Victim

SAXTHORPE England (AP) — A British rescue crewman's heroic bid to save a U.S. Air Force pilot ended in tragedy today, with both drowning in the North Sea after two U.S. jets collided and fell, officials said.

The other U.S. pilot ejected on land and was slightly injured, authorities said.

As the British airman tried in strong winds to pluck the American from the sea, the Briton apparently became entangled in the American's parachute cords. The winchline to the British rescue helicopter then snapped and both were swept away and drowned, said an RAF spokesman in London.

The bodies were later recovered.

The British airman had been lowered down into the water from the Royal Air Force helicopter which answered a distress call from the American pilot following the collision near this Norfolk County village between two U.S. A-10 jet fighters.

The U.S. pilot had ejected safely and was floating in the sea caught among the lines of his open parachute.

"They both drowned," the RAF spokesman in London said. "It was a most unfortunate accident. I cannot recall a crewman losing his life in these circumstances previously."

Self Service

The Pitt County ABC Board is scheduled to receive bids on December 1, on equipment to convert the conventional ABC Store at 2305 Memorial Dr. to a self-service store.

ABC Supervisor John G. Harris Jr. said the change will require, "different shelving and check-out counters," adding that he had no estimate of the cost to convert the facility.

The Memorial Drive store, ABC Store Number 8, was opened in 1967. Harris noted that the ABC store in Bethel was converted to a self-service facility in July, and has been successful.

Harris said the self-service store opened in Pitt Plaza in 1967, "didn't work," and was changed to a conventional store when the facility moved to the Arlington Street location.

The change-over to self-service for the Memorial Drive store is tentatively set for the first of the new year, Harris noted. "We've had a number of requests for self-service and think it will work."

Varied Items On P-Z Agenda

Some 18 items have been scheduled for consideration by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning & Zoning Commissions at Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

Business on the joint agenda includes: request for rezoning the Susie T. Rollins property, located west of Carolina East Mall, from RA-20 to Highway Commercial; adoption of resolutions for street name changes; consideration of a request by Mickey Ross to amend the Neighborhood Commercial zoning classification to allow an exercise studio as a permitted use;

Consideration of an annexation petition by Watson & Associates for a portion of Lindbeth Grove Subdivision, located on US 264 Business south of Westwood Subdivision; consideration of an annexation petition by Marvin Blount Jr. for a portion of Bedford Subdivision, located south of Grayleigh Subdivision and east of Evans Street Extension; consideration to amend the City Code; erosion and sedimentation control plan for Oakdale Subdivision, Section III; revised preliminary plat of Section I of Lindbeth Grove Subdivision; and the preliminary plat of Addition III of Wilcar Subdivision on Memorial Drive south of Greenfield Terrace.

Business on the city agenda includes: preliminary and final plats of Twin Oak Townhomes north of 14th Street; request of B. B. Sugg Sr. heirs to rezone 757 acres on Pamlico Street between Bonner's Lane and S. Allen Street from Unoffensive Industry to R-6; request of Harvey Bradshaw for rezoning 4.4 acres west of Hooker Road and south of Fairlane Farms Subdivision from Highway Commercial to R-6;

Request of property owners on E. Fifth Street for rezoning an area of some 11 acres between Fourth and Fifth Street, from Maple eastward to Ash, from R-6 to R-9; request by Fred Mattox for a variance of the Subdivision Ordinance; preliminary plat of Section III of Courtney Square, located on Arlington Boulevard;

Revised preliminary plat of Fairlane Farms, located west of Hooker Road; final plat of Section I of Fairlane Farms; revised preliminary plat of Cannon Court Apartments, located west of and adjacent to Eastbrook Apartments; erosion and sedimentation control plans for Section III of Courtney Square, Heritage Village, and Cannon Court Apartments; and an amendment to the Manual of Standard Designs and Details.

The November meeting is being held a week earlier than usual due to the Thanksgiving holiday next week.
