NEW BUSES — Four new 28-passenger, medium-sized buses have been delivered to the city by Blue Bird Body Co. of Fort Valley, Ga. and accepted for transit service. The vehicles, all equipped with wheelchair lifts to serve handicapped citizens, were purchased as part of a captal grant program involving 80 federal funding and ten percent participation by both the city and state. Mayor Don McGlohon accepted the buses today in brief ceremonies at the new Public Works facility. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Polish Army Warns It Might 'Intervene'

By ROLAND PRINZ
Associated Press Writer

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish army newspaper warned today against strikes and "social unrest" and hinted the Polish military might be forced to intervene to restore order in the country. State-controlled media of the Soviet Union and other Warsaw Pact nations stepped up accusations that counterrevolution was threatening Poland's communist regime.

The new Soviet bloc warnings came a day after the White House in Washington said preparations for a possible Soviet intervention in Poland "appear to have been completed."

At the Vatican, Pope John Paul II asked the Virgin Mary to protect "Poland, my country" in marking the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. The pope also asked the Virgin Mary's protection for Rome, Italy and the world.

The Polish army paper, Zolnierz Wolnosci, issuing a warning, said the Polish army would always "vigilantly stand on guard in this state built and won under the leadership of our (Communist) Party."

"The soldiers of the Polish Peoples Army share anxiety and concern" expressed in letters, speeches and at party meetings about the "prolongation of social unrest in our country," the paper said.

It emphasized the army was "an important chain in people's rule and will view the fate of our state with a feeling of utmost responsibility."

The army paper also launched a fresh attack against several dissident groups, including the Committee for Social Self-Defense, or KOR.

KOR leader Jacek Kuron is an adviser to the presidium of the independent trade union Solidarity and has recently called for moderation in making new demands.

"The army, its representatives, are today also the target of more or less veiled attacks," Zolnierz Wolnosci said. "Our answer should be a dignified, restrained but decisive stand."

The Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Warsaw, meanwhile, that "counter-revolutionary groups" in the independent unions are "leading the situation in the country toward further destabilization, toward the aggravation of the political struggle."

Czechoslovakia's Communist Party daily warned that events in Poland posed a danger for peace "in Europe and the entire world." The East German news agency ADN reported industrial unrest in Poland and said "counterrevolutionary groups" in the Solidary independent trade union were seeking "open confrontation with local communist organizations" and trying to install union officials "who openly oppose the government."

Groups of Polish Communist Party officials held sessions in factories and meeting halls over the weekend, calling for action to restore order and "strengthen the leading role of the Communist Party," Warsaw Radio reported.

Similar meetings were scheduled throughout the week in an apparent attempt to show the leadership was capable of defusing Poland's economic and political problems without Soviet interference.

Labor leader Lech Walesa made repeated calls for moderation at a union meeting in Warsaw Saturday.

Since the end of the nationwide strikes Aug. 1, however, Solidarity locals have been staging walkouts to press demands for higher pay and political reforms that has put them on a collision course with the regime.

Iran Told U.S. Response Turned 'More Favorable'

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The 13-month-old U.S. hostage crisis has moved closer to a solution as a result of the latest American response to Iranian demands for release of the 52 captives, the speaker of the Iranian Parliament said in Tehran today.

Hashemi Rafsanjani told reporters that the U.S. clarification delivered Thursday by Algerian diplomats "has come closer to solving the problem" and that the issue would not be re-examined by Parliament, or Majlis.

"In the past the U.S. has accepted our demands in principle," Rafsanjani told a news conference. "But this time it has taken more clear steps in executing them."

His comments come on the heels of statements Sunday by Behzad Nabavi, head of the government commission studying the issue, that the U.S. response is more favorable to Iran.

The developments came as the Algerian diplomats remained in Tehran awaiting instructions from the Iranians for relay to the United States.

On Sunday, Navabi said "Totally, I can tell you that there are some changes, favorable changes for us."

Iran has demanded the U.S. government return the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his closest relatives, drop lawsuits against Iran, release $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen in U.S. banks and pledge not to interfere in Iran's affairs in exchange for the hostages.

Informed sources said the latest U.S. clarifications contained no objection to the non-interference pledge and unfreezing the assets, and offered assistance in fighting the legal claims against Iran and help in locating the whereabouts of at least some of the shah's fortune.

Nebavi's comments, in an interview Sunday with Greek television in Tehran, were the first real indication of government reaction to the U.S. clarifications that were requested by Iran last month.

The response has been under study since Thursday when it was explained by Algerian envoys who are acting as intermediaries at Iran's request.

Nabavi said the hostages, who spent their 401st day in captivity today, were in good health and would soon be transferred to the custody of the government by the militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4, 1979.

But he refused to state their location, saying only they had to be rounded up from several points. The whereabouts of the captives has not been confirmed since the U.S. attempt to rescue them failed in April.

The United States barred spare parts to Iran's American-made warplanes in protest against the hostage seizure. There has been speculation that an early release of the hostages would help Iran get spare parts and other military hardware from the United States.

Today, Iranian Defense Minister Col. Javad Fakuri declared his country would never "compromise" with the United States to get such equipment for use in Iran's war with Iraq.

In an interview with Iran's official news agency Pars, Fakuri accused the United States of supporting Iraq's war with Iran in order to "destroy the Islamic revolution, one of the most glorious in history."

"They could not afford to see other nations learn from it," Fakuri said. "That is why America, which is more frightened than any other country, is employing all possible means to bring Iran to its knees.

Asserts 'Coup' In Process

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A member of Iran's Parliament warned today that a coup was "in process" to overthrow the revolutionary regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"The people of Iran must know that a dangerous coup d'etat is in process to destroy this regime," Ali Agha Mohammad, the deputy from the central city of Hamadan, told the Parliament in Tehran.

Mohammad did not give details in the speech, broadcast by Tehran Radio.

It was unclear if he was speaking metaphorically or if he believed a plot was actually in progress.

The lawmaker's comments followed Khomeini's call for national unity Sunday in an address to Iran's provincial governors.

Congress Adjournment Stymied By Two Disputes

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the lame-duck 96th Congress, who had hoped to be out of town by now, will try again this week to resolve the disputes over two civil rights issues that have stymied efforts to close up shop.

Last Friday's scheduled adjournment was abandoned when the Senate became paralyzed by a filibuster over "fair housing" legislation aimed at enforcing the 1968 civil rights law banning discrimination in housing.

Senators agreed Friday night to take two showdown votes Tuesday on the fair housing bill. If liberal Democratic supporters of the measure win the procedural tests, Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia says he will keep the Senate in session "until it (the bill) is disposed of one way or another."

If opponents choose to press all 200 amendments they have prepared, the debate could last until Jan. 3, the constitutional expiration of this Congress.

Meanwhile, House and Senate negotiators, working in the face of an anticipated presidential veto, are seeking compromise language on an anti-busing amendment that would block the Justice Department from seeking court-ordered busing in school desegregation cases.

The amendment is part of a $9.1 billion appropriation bill for the Justice, State and Commerce departments. President Carter said last week he would veto the bill, which Congress has already agreed to, because the amendment would curb the president's power to enforce the Constitution.

A veto would leave the three departments — along with the federal courts and several agencies — without money to operate.

To deal with this, the House has passed and the Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a stopgap resolution permitting the departments, courts and other agencies to continue spending money.

But this resolution effectively embodies the anti-busing language Carter wants dropped.

He has said that if the stopgap spending measure reaches him with the busing provision intact, he would exercise a second veto even though this would disrupt government operations.

The president had been expected to veto the Justice Department bill on Friday, and the House had tentatively scheduled a vote on whether to override it, but the White House said the president was delaying the veto, apparently pending the outcome of the congressional negotiations on the busing language.

If language acceptable to Carter and the anti-busing forces can be found, the president could veto the Justice Department appropriation while provisions to keep the department running would then be incorporated in the stopgap measure pending in the Senate.

President-elect Ronald Reagan has indicated he would support an anti-busing amendment if the more-conservative 97th Congress, convening in January, sends him one.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

NURSE VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The Pitt County Blood Program has asked Hotline to appeal for nurse volunteers to assist in its "After Christmas Party" Bloodmobile visit to the Greenville Moose Lodge. Licensed practical nurses, registered nurses and senior nursing students able to give two hours or more during the Dec. 26 blood collection are asked to call Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Pitt County Red Cross executive director, 752-4222. The visit is being sponsored by The Daily Reflector, WOOW radio, and WNCT-tv.

PINKHAMS LOST HOME TO FIRE

Fire destroyed the home of Johnny and Beth Pinkham on the Voice of America Road near here early Saturday morning. There was more than one explosion during the fire and the family saved nothing but themselves.

The Salvation Army has asked Hotline to appeal for donations of food, clothing, and household goods for the family. Anything given them that they cannot used will be passed on to someone who can. Pinkham's employer and his wife, Frank and Linda Brady, are also taking responsibility for accepting gifts for the family. Inquiries may be made by calling Mrs. Brady, 752-3553.

The Pinkhams have two daughters and are guardians for two nieces. He is employed by Brady's Welding Service here; she by D. R. Allen Construction Company.

Sizes of the family members are as follows: Pinkham, 29 waist; 7½ shoe; Mrs. Pinkham, 3 dress and slacks, 4 shoe; Lori, 13, 7-8 misses, 8-9 shoe; Angie, 8-10 children; 4 shoe; Jenny, 3 child's, 6 child's shoe; Sarah, 18-24 months, 2 shoe.

Mayor Proclaims Pearl Harbor Week

Mayor Don McGlohon proclaimed Dec. 7-13 as Pearl Harbor Week in Greenville in recognition of 26 men living in Greenville and Pitt County today who survived the attack.

McGlohon pointed out that the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, which adopted the motto, "Remember Pearl Harbor—Keep America Alert," is "dedicated to the memory of Pearl Harbor and those gallant Americans who gave their lives for their country on Dec. 7, 1941."

The mayor added that 2,403 Army, Navy, and Marine men gave their lives, with 1,177 on one ship, the USS Arizona.

Cuban Govm't Said Concerned Over New Threats From U.S.

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cuban government, fearing new threats from the United States following Ronald Reagan's election and reports of revived activities by exile groups, is laying the groundwork for a new territorial militia, U.S. officials say.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the militia, which would supplement the country's regular reserves, has been discussed for some time.

But they say a new sense of urgency in getting the plan implemented has been detected since Reagan's election.

Cuba's heightened concern apparently is based in part on a statement by Reagan early in the presidential campaign suggesting that the Carter administration should have considered a blockade of Cuba in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Beyond that, Florida-based anti-Castro exile groups have been increasing military training activities. Photographs recently have appeared in Florida newspapers showing training camps in the Everglades.

Use of U.S. territory by private groups as a springboard for military activities in a foreign country would be a violation of the Neutrality Act.

But the exile groups have told federal officials they have no intention of invading Cuba, insisting they merely wish to lend their support if the United States decides one day to undertake military action against the island.

The Cuban government has complained about the activities, telling the Carter administration it is foolish to believe the exiles' claims. The administration has responded by saying that it would not permit American territory to be used for attacks against Cuba.

Reagan's election capped what U.S. officials say was one of the Cuban revolution's worst years in its 21-year history. Disease wiped out much of the sugar and tobacco crops and more than 120,000 Cubans fled to the United States between April and October.

Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, a top aide to Castro for many years, has said that as a result of Reagan's election, Cuba is preparing for the worst of confrontations with the United States.

Nonetheless, Cuban authorities may be trying to back away from some characterizations of Reagan last summer which were highly uncomplimentary.

The Communist Party newspaper Granma recently said Carter began his term as a liberal and ended it as a hardliner while Reagan started as a hardliner and emerged as a middle-roader.

"This may have been an attempt by the Cubans to dig themselves out of a hole they dug when they compared Reagan to Hitler," one official said.

It is not clear what policies Reagan will adopt toward Cuba. A broad range of ideas for dealing with Castro has circulated in conservative circles. The most extreme position advocates a renewed effort to depose Castro. Less ambitious proposals call for attempts to wean Cuba away from the Soviet Union or to try to push Cuba toward non-alignment.

Another option is to do nothing, which is the course many State Department officials seem to believe Reagan will adopt.

EXPECTED VICTORY

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — The Kuomintang Party racked up its expected victory in parliamentary elections Sunday; maintaining the firm grip it has held on the Nationalist Chinese government for 30 years.

Stay At Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — NATO's standing naval force in the North Atlantic is remaining at sea rather than returning home for Christmas, officials said today.

Capt. J.B. Finkelstein, a spokesman for the Supreme Allied Command-Atlantic in Norfolk, Va., said the five-ship international force of destroyers and frigates had not dispersed on Dec. 3 as originally scheduled.

Finkelstein declined to comment on whether the action is related to the current problems in Poland.

The spokesman said "pending further orders the force will take advantage of additional training opportunities and will exercise and conduct port visits as deemed appropriate."

Only one American ship, the frigate USS Valdez, is included in the standing force. Others are the British HMS Norfolk and Canadian Fraser, currently in Portsmouth, England; the Dutch ship HMLNS Van Galen in Den Helder, Netherlands and the German ship FGS Luebeck in Wilhelmshaven, West Germany.

Call Card Games Off

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I know this is childish, but I am going out of my mind. After being married for eight years, we finally found a house we could afford that is perfect for us. It's in a wonderful neighborhood, and everything about it is ideal except for one couple who are neighbors.

This couple comes over every Friday night to play cards with us. It doesn't matter what we are doing, they come over without calling. It started two years ago when we first bought this house, and now it has become a habit. They have a nice home of their own, but they're never home because they have a place to go every night in the week — and on Fridays, it's our house!

My husband doesn't want me to say anything, but, Abby, this is making me crazy. I love my home and I don't want to have to start going out every Friday night just to get away from this couple.

What do you do with people like that?

GOING MAD IN MAINE

DEAR GOING: If your neighbors read "Dear Abby," you may not have to "do" anything. If they don't, you have two choices: 1) Tell them the Friday night card game is off unless you call to confirm it; 2) suffer in silence and continue to be stuck with them every Friday night.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Now that Ronald Reagan has made it to the White House, do you think he will quit dyeing his hair? Or will he "dye" lying?

CURIOUS IN GEORGIA

DEAR CURIOUS: Mr. Reagan has never dyed his hair. This comes straight from Drucker, the barber who has cut Ronald Reagan's hair for the last 40 years. And if he gets a few gray hairs in the next four years, let's not have any "I told ya' so's." That job is enough to turn anyone gray overnight.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: This is for the physician who complained about having $35,000 on the books because of slow-paying patients.

Let me assure you that lawyers have the same problem. I never cease to be amazed at the people who brazenly telephone wanting free advice, or "just a minute of your time," totally ignoring the fact that all a lawyer has to sell is his time.

We have had clients phone for legal advice that requires hours of research, and when they are billed for "services rendered," they call up and say, "You're kidding about this bill, aren't you?" What then, Dear Abby?

TENNESSEE ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: Reply, "No, we're not kidding about the bill." And if they don't pay it, sue 'em for services rendered.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BLOOM-IN-LOVE" IN L.A.: Are you looking for a lasting relationship? Or just a passing glandshake?

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I feel stupid asking this question at my age (42), but here goes: What is a first cousin once removed? Is that the same as a second cousin? I know what first cousins are, but I am not sure what kind of relationship makes people second and third cousins.

I'll bet there are lots of other readers who would like to know, too, but they're too ashamed to ask.

NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: Thanks for nudging me. I never clearly understood the "once-removed" relationship either, but after researching it, it goes like this:

I have a son named Edward. My sister has a daughter named Margo. Edward and Margo are first cousins. Margo has a son named Adam. What is Adam to Edward? He's a first cousin once removed.

Now, Edward has a son named Tyler. How are Tyler and Adam related? They are second cousins. The children of Adam and the children of Tyler will be third cousins. And their children will be fourth cousins, etc.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Set a springtime table all year round with these Floral Fantasy placemats and coasters. These beginner-easy table accessories are worked in simple needlepoint stitches on seven mesh plastic canvas using acrylic yarns.

To obtain instructions for making the Floral Fantasy set, send your request for Leaflet No. 702 with $1.00 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector", P. O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may obtain Kit No. K-702 by sending check or money order for $15.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains the instructions plus sufficient plastic canvas and acrylic yarns for making four placemats and four coasters. Unless other colors are requested, kit will be sent with the designer's choice color combination of tangerine, daffodil and amethyst flowers with green leaves on an off white background.

• • •

Have you ever had a case of the "fuzzies" on your needlepoint canvas after ripping a few stitches? These are the tiny little pieces of yarn fiber left on the canvas as the yarn is pulled through.

In the past, I have spent hours trying to pick off these tiny bits with finger nails and tweezers until a friend suggested that I use masking tape for this pesky chore.

Just wrap a piece of the tape — sticky side out — around four fingers of your right hand and pat the surface of the canvas lightly with the tape.

While the yarn fibers do not stick to plastic canvas as much as to traditional types of canvas, I think you will be surprised at how much was left on the surface. It is particularly important to remove these "fuzzies" if you will be working a different color stitch where you have ripped out previous stitches. Otherwise, these excess fibers are likely to come through to the surface and are even harder to eliminate once you have done the new stitching.

If you have scraps of plastic canvas and odds and ends of yarn on hand, you can still whip up some delightful small gifts between now and Christmas.

For eyeglass cases, cut two pieces of the canvas approximately six inches by three or three and a quarter inches. Work each side with a combination of pattern stitches, overcast the top edges of each piece and then whip together the remaining three edges of each piece.

Tiny little boxes can be made for holding such items as rings, pins, paper clips or any other small items. A hinged lid is a good idea for these boxes so there will be no separate top. Work your stitches on six pieces — four sides, top and bottom. ' Whip together the four sides and the bottom; overcast the too edges of three of the side pieces and attach the top section to the other side piece.

If you want to line your boxes, I suggest that you line each piece separately before joining the pieces. Cut the lining one inch wider and one inch longer than each finished needlepoint piece. Press under a one-half inch hem all around and, with wrong sides together, whip lining to needlepoint, making sure that the lining fabric does not extend beyond the stitches.

Assuming that, like me, you do not have any spare daytime hours to sit and stitch, you will be happy to know that you can probably make two or three tiny boxes in an evening.

If you have the time, a set of boxes in varying sizes makes a super gift. You could make a matching set for dresser or desk for all those items which are easier to find if each has its own box. Helps end clutter, too.

If you like, use just one simple stitch such as mosaic, scotch or smyrna and use a variety of colors in set or random patterns. Here's a great time to just let your imagination run wild.

BARBECUED BEEF

Recommended by a Topeka, Kan., cook.

7 to 8 pound rolled brisket
2 to 4 tablespoons liquid smoke
Onion salt
Garlic salt
Sauce, recipe follows

Rub liquid smoke on outside of brisket. Wrap in foil and refrigerate overnight (optional). Next morning, rub onion salt and garlic salt on outside of meat and rewrap in foil. Bake in a 300-degree oven for 5½ hours minimum. Let cool; pour off fat; slice. (For extra thin slices, refrigerate before cutting.) Pour sauce over sliced meat. Rewrap in foil and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Yield: 10 to 12 servings. From "Sunflower Sampler," published by the Junior League of Wichita, Kan.

Sauce: Mix together and bring to a boil — 1½ tablespoons brown sugar, ½ of a 14-ounce bottle of ketchup, ¼ cup water, 1 tablespoon liquid smoke, a dash of salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, 1 teaspoon celery seed and 3 tablespoons butter.

Referendum Needed?

A request has been made of the Pitt board of commissioners for a referendum on the abolishment of ABC stores in Pitt County on the same day as a proposed mixed drink referendum in the City of Greenville — Feb. 17.

The commissioners said they would not make a decision on the proposed referendum until after the city vote.

That is certainly the county commissioners' right and duty; and there should be no question of fairness to dry forces as opposed to the wets if the commissioners conclude that they should not call such a referendum.

The commissioners are elected by the people and it is up to them to determine whether or not the county should go to the expense of holding a referendum on anything. It would have to be determined by the commissioners that there was a strong interest in the issue before the considerable expense of a referendum was authorized.

Proponents of the referendum say they can bring it about by petition, and perhaps they can.

The question the county commissioners have to ask themselves, however, is what is in the best interest of all the citizens of the county? The ABC system brings a considerable amount of money into the county treasury each year which would have to be replaced by taxes. The important thing, though, in our opinion is no other system of alcohol control has worked better than the county operated system.

Our county system was approved by the voters on July 7, 1935 with a three-to-one majority. The plan was advanced by leaders who had wrestled with the problems of bootlegging long enough.

Certainly the county commissioners should be fully convinced that there is a greater amount of interest in abolishing the ABC system than has been shown before considering a referendum.

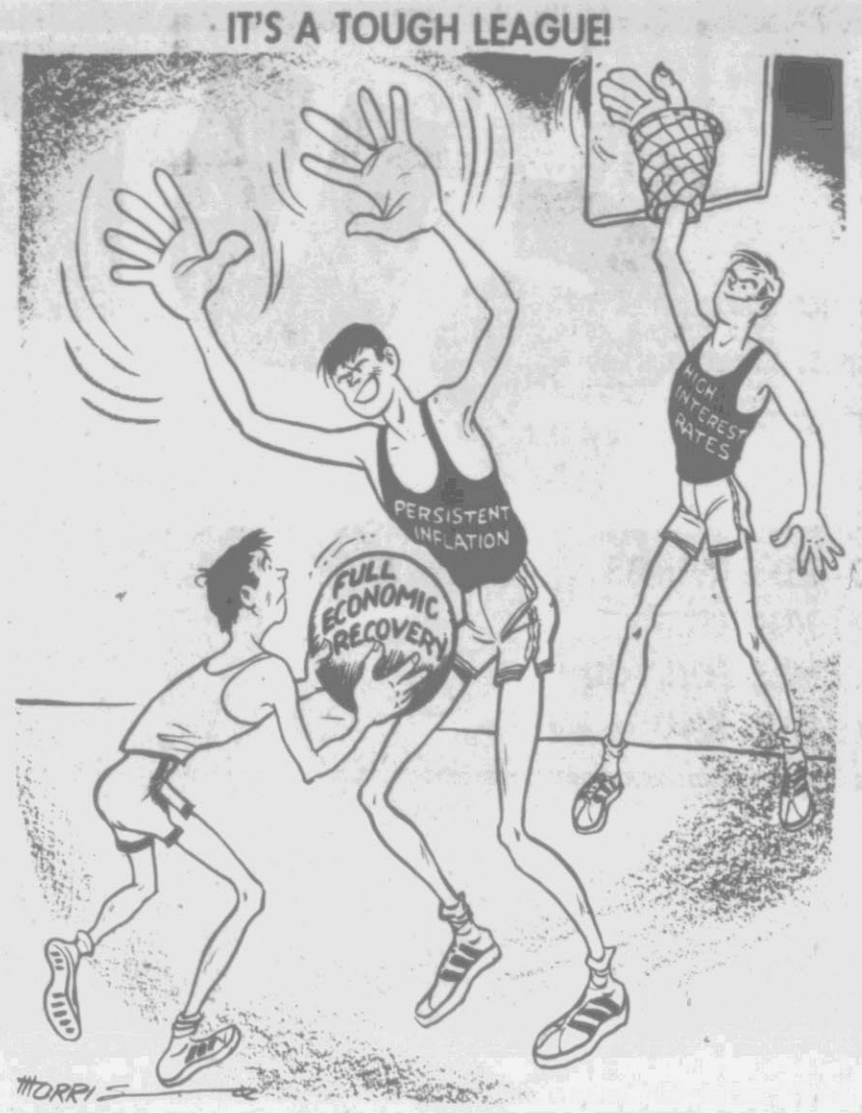

What Of New Oil Discovery

A report of a Soviet Union discovery of history's largest oil field holds small comfort to the western world.

If it proves correct, however, it could lessen the Soviet appetite for Middle Eastern oil and thus ease tension in that part of the world.

Too, if such a large reserve of oil can be found in Russia it is entirely possible that new discoveries will be made elsewhere. Thus world oil supplies could be stretched further than we now think.

IT'S A TOUGH LEAGUE!

Choice For Democrats

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Just how much Democrats learned from their Election Day debacle will be flashed Dec. 10 by the House Democratic caucus when it decides whether to place an LBJ disciple, targeted for extinction by liberal political activists, in a post of tactical leadership.

Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma is slightly favored over his principal opponent, Rep. David Obey of Wisconsin, to be elected chairman of the House Budget Committee — the point man confronting Ronald Reagan's overall program. Superficially, they are similar: tough, smart, young (Jones is 41; Obey is 42) and new legislative masters of the House.

But seldom have Democrats been offered a clearer choice of how they should react to defeat. Obey is a skilled practitioner of liberal constituency-group politics who wants to reform big government sufficiently to save it. Jones wants to throw out liberal spending paraphernalia that has collected in the Democratic attic for generations.

Tried-and-true liberals have viewed Jones as Judas Iscariot ever since he guided through the House the 1978 tax reduction bill backed by Republicans and opposed by President Carter. He is on the secret hit list of the National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC), the famous liberal political action group, for 1982 Democratic primary defeat by a liberal in his conservative Tulsa district.

By supporting corporate tax incentives for industrial expansion, Jones has earned cloakroom indictment by liberal colleagues as a mouthpiece for the Business Roundtable. "The problem with Jimmy," one such congressman told us, "is that he'd give the store away to the Republicans."

Actually, Jones has voted more as a centrist than a conservative: most recently, 32 percent liberal according to the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), and 45 percent conservative according to the American Conservative Union (ACU). That compares with figures of 89 percent liberal and 11 percent conservative for Obey and 74 percent liberal and 3 percent conservative for Rep. Paul Simon of Illinois, who is running a poor third for budget chairman.

Obey is current chairman of the Democratic Study Group, the House liberal caucus, On the budget committee, he protected health and education spending from many assaults and opposed all increases in defense spending. On the House floor, he manned the barricades against anti-abortion riders. Last spring, Obey talked the Carter administration into relaxing domestic spending restrictions, much to the mortification of Jones.

Differences between Obey and Jones over tactics may be even more significant. Jones, a junior aide to President Lyndon B. Johnson in the mid-1960s, would imitate tactics employed by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson in the 1950s: Oppose the Republican administration only rarely; but when a constructive alternative is in hand, attack in force.

Thus, in reacting to Reagan's tax program, Jones supports tax cuts in principle but would apply a Democratic twist by making upper-income-bracket reductions conditional on investment. Jones wants a Democratic label on relief for middle-income voters (earning up to $40,000 a year) who abandoned Jimmy Carter a month ago because they felt the Democrats had abandoned them.

Obey as budget chairman would resist far more than Jones the Reagan run at cherished social welfare programs. That stance is clearly more congenial to Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, as well as to many Democratic congressmen who will vote for Jones in caucus anyway.

The reason is that they agree with Jones that their party has alienated blue- collar voters as the proponent of federal social engineering, the opponent of a strong defense and the defender of permissive personal conduct. That image would not be softened by House Democrats persisting in voting patterns followed by Dave Obey until now.

Jones believes Democrats must change both image and policy to reassert themselves as the majority party. He has told friends that the views of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Vice President Walter F. Mondale represent the 1970s, not the 1980s, and as such offer no effective alternative to Reaganite Republicanism.

Surveys Fool You

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Statistics would show that, on the average, a fellow standing with one foot in a bucket of ice and the other in a pot of scalding water is quite comfortable.

Such is the case when looking at any number of statewide surveys in North Carolina. In such a large and diverse state, generalizations are nigh impossible.

Take those regular reports from the Employment Security Commission; the unemployment rate dropped in October for the third straight month; falling to 6.3 percent.

Nearly two-thirds of the state's 100 counties enjoyed either stable employment or less unemployment during October than in previous months. But that menas that in 39 counties more people were out of work than previously.

And when you look at a state full of people hunting work, you see 174,200 unemployed from a labor force of well over 2.7 million.

Depression

A quip used by economists when asked to define hard times: recession is when your neighbor is out of work; depression is when you are.

There are places in North Carolina where it is depression times all over again, with unemployment in the double-digit range. Richmond County is worst off with 12.1 percent jobless. That is up from 9.5 percent in September and 6.5 percent a year ago.

Says Job Service Manager Roby Burleson at his Rockingham unemployment office: "The problem is that we have a super-saturated labor market and county's employment has been decreasing for more than one year...a decrease of about 2,000 jobs...due to mechanization in various plants....we have had a layoff of 600 people, and know of another which will affect some 150 people before Christmas."

BILL NOBLITT

State jobs experts see no sudden changes in growth which will change the situation, and Richmond County is joined by Bladen, Jones, Person, Robeson and Cumberland counties in suffering a jobless rate above 10 percent of the work force.

A few other areas hover close to the double-digit marker: Cleveland, Ashe, Graham, and Tyrrell among them. Even that doesn't tell the entire story, however. Cleveland has 3,680 people out of work to reach its percentage point, while in Graham there are only 380 on unemployment to achieve the same percentage rate of unemployment.

When statistical numbers become no longer abstracts, but people, the unemployment situation begins to take meaning. All businesses, services, sales, entertainment — whatever — begin hurting, too, when large numbers of people are out of work.

Low Rates

Just as some extremes occupy the high unemployment end of the statistical scale, there are extremes at the low end which also deserve attention.

Lowest jobless rates, for example, is in Alleghany

Where The Consumers?

WASHINGTON — It appears that the fortunes, hopes and dreams of everyone in this country this Christmas are based on only one person — "the consumer." For better or for worse, he or she controls the destiny of multi-billion dollar corporations whose fourth-quarter earnings will depend on what the consumer does between now and December 24th. If the consumer decides to sit this Christmas out, the country will continue to be in a recession, unemployment will increase, managerial heads will roll, and Ronald Reagan will walk in as president with one helluva mess on his hands.

Millions of dollars are being spent every day to get the consumer off his butt and into the stores. But so far it doesn't seem to be working.

I went to visit a consumer the other day, and found him watching a football game.

"Harvey," I said, "it's a beautiful day. Why aren't you jamming the stores and helping them ring up record sales so the economists can announce that the recession is over?"

ART BUCHWALD

"I can't afford it," Harvey said. "The prices are out of sight."

"But Harvey," I protested, "everyone is counting on you to get them healthy again. The stores are staying open until ten every night, just for you. They're not even closing on Sundays. You can make or break everyone's Christmas."

"I'd rather watch this football game."

"Do you know why you can watch a football game, Harvey? Because it's brought to you by the people who make blue jeans and electric shavers, light beer and popcorn machines. The only reason they're bringing it to you is that they feel you'll show your gratitude by going out and buying their products. If you just sit here they won't be able to sponsor any more sports events. There is no such thing as a free lunch."

"You can say that again. Do you know what these potato chips cost? I'm lucky I don't eat M&M's during a game."

"You mustn't think of yourself during Christmas, Harvey. You have to think of the economy. The stores are depending on you for 50 percent of their annual sales in the next two weeks. If you don't go into debt this year, everyone's going to think you're a rotten person."

The phone rang and Harvey picked it up. "Yeh," he said, "I know you've been waiting for me out in the parking lot since nine, but I'm busy now. I'm watching a football game. No, I have nothing against you personally. It's just that I'm not sure I'm going to buy too much this year .... What with inflation and everything, we thought we'd cool it. No, it won't help to keep the store open all night long .... Yeh, thanks for calling, and the same to you."

Harvey put the phone down. "It was J.C. Penney. He wanted to know why I hadn't responded to the ad he

Other Editors Say Always Opposition

Goldsboro News-Argus

The Greenville Daily Reflector noted editorially recently that a suggestion that a journalism major be offered at East Carolina University is running into opposition.

So what else is new?

Virtually everything East Carolina University has gained has had to be won over the apoplectic bodies of its opponents.

There continue to be those who feel that every dollar and every program provided at East Carolina is a direct extraction from what properly should have gone to Chapel Hill.

Let's take a look at this latest proposal.

East Carolina has been offering a minor in journalism. Those who have gone through that program are among the best prepred journalists we have seen. That certainly has been the experience of this newspaper..

Some cases in point:

Betty Sanderson and John Dayberry graduated from East Carolina at the same time and both had taken the journalism minor offered there.

Both were hired by this newspaper. Over the years we have had some excellent reporters who began their careers here. None came aboard better prepared to immediately begin productive service than did these two from East Carolina University.

They had a full knowledge of the basics, they had developed the ability to produce news and feature copy quickly, neatly and accurately. They had been instilled with a deep sense of integrity.

We had had applicants from a number of schools — some with full journalism programs — that year. These were the best two among those under consideration.

Today students who have journalism minors from ECU are working for the Associated Press, the Charlotte Observer, the Fayetteville Observer, Greenville Reflector and the Hickory Daily Record.

Many who have gone through the program at ECU said they would have chosen a journalism major had it been available.

We can see no reason, other than an abiding prejudice against ECU, why such a program should not be offered.

A Shrinking Median Portofolio

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of people owning stocks has risen again after a sharp decline in the early 1970s, but despite rising prices the median portfolio has shrunk to 40 percent of its 1975 size.

There are 29.8 million direct owners of corporate stock and mutual funds, the New York Stock Exchange said today after doing its first shareownership survey since 1975, when 25.2 million owners were claimed.

The increase, said William Batten, chairman, resulted at least in part from "the market's improved performance over the past two years," and "more liberal tax treatment of capital gains."

Battten didn't say so, but the figures seem to suggest that shareownership growth might have resulted partly from higher interest in low-priced stocks, including energy and technology stocks.

In fact, the 31 percent increase in holders of Big Board stocks was the smallest of the categories measured. Improvements for "other exchanges" and the over-the-counter market were 43.4 percent and 65.8 percent, respectively. Both include many smaller companies.

The survey found that the median age of shareowners declined seven years to 45.5 years since 1975, and the size of the median portfolio fell to just $4,000, compared with $10,100 in the the 1975 survey.

The results strongly suggest that it wasn't so much the efforts of brokers that brought the new owners to market as it was the companies that offer employee stock purchase plans.

The survey found more than 12 million of today's shareowners obtained stock through employee purchase plans at some time, and that new owners "were more likely than in earlier years" to have bought through such plans "other non-broker plans that facilitate small-scale ownership."

Another source of non-broker purchases are the various reinvestment plans under which an individual can buy a few shares in a company through a broker and thereafter add additional amounts directly from the company. Several hundred companies now have such plans.

Direct ownership means those people who hold shares in their own name — or in "street" name if left in the hands of the broker — and who have voting rights and earn dividends.

A far larger number of people, in excess of 100 million, are indirect beneficiaries of stock holdings because they participate in pension plans, or because they hold insurance policies or have savings with banks whose fortunes depend on their stock investments.

Stan West, New York Stock Exchange vice president, said indirect beneficiaries were estimated at 115 million in 1975 and that the number has probably risen substantially since then because of the continued growth of pension plans. He said an estimate would be available soon.

Strength For Today

GREATEST DOCTRINE

If we had to pick out the greatest idea that ever dawned upon the mind of man, it would probably be the conviction that God has spoken and that He continues to speak to human needs.

This is known as the doctrine of revelation. If it is not true, the religion is a mistake; if it is true, then all of us have sources of inspiration which make it possible for us to live happy and triumphant lives.

God has revealed Himself through the Bible, through the church, and through the conscience of faithful believers. Indirectly He reveals Himself through nature, art, and science.

God has delivered His great and final message to the human race, but He whispers an individual message to each one of us when we inquire of Him with a repentant heart and an open mind. God has spoken; He continues to speak. In this great fact lies the only hope we have of happiness in this world and survival after death. — Elisha Douglass

Seeks Nominations

Tommy Edwards, chairman of the board of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce announced today that nominations are being sought for the Chamber's most prestigious annual award, "The Citizen Of The Year Award."

Citizens of Greenville and Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce members are encouraged to sent their nominations' names, resumes and reasons for nomination to the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 894, Greenville, N.C. 27834, before December 15.

In making the announcement, Edwards explained that the recipient of the "Citizen Of The Year Award" should be someone who has made significant contributions to the Greenville-Pitt County area.

Edwards said that former recipients of the award include Dr. Leo Jenkins, Joe Pou, Walley Howard, Eugene West, Horton Rountree, Bill Speight, Bruce Sugg, Janice Buck, Les Garner, W.M. "Booger" Scales, John Minges and Charles Gaskins.

For further information about the award, contact the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce at 752-4101.

John East Day Here Dec. 11

November 4, 1980 is a date that citizens of Greenville should remember. That's the day John East was elected as Greenville's first United States senator.

In honor of Senator-Elect John East, the City of Greenville and the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will co-sponsor "John East Day", Thursday, December 11.

A reception for the public will be held December 11 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Greenville Parks and Recreation Department on Cedar Lane. The purpose of the reception is to allow the public to meet Greenville's new senator and his family.

According to Mayor Don McGlohon and Chamber Chairman of the Board Tommy Edwards, citizens of Greenville are encouraged to attend the reception and join with the city and the chamber in expressing best wishes to Senator-Elect East and his family prior to his departure from Greenville to attend the next session of Congress.

For further information about the reception contact City Manager Ed Wyatt's office at 752-4137 or the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce Office at 752-4101.

Band Boosters Meet Tuesday

The Greenville City Schools Band Booster Club will meet December 9 at 8 p.m. at the Greenville Middle School. The advisory committee will meet at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will feature a Christmas concert by the Middle School Band under the direction of Johnny Wooten. A short business meeting will follow the concert.

All current members and interested persons are invited to attend.

"He's not the only man who has called me. I've heard from Sears and Roebuck, Mart of K mart, Shack of Radio Shack and Mrs. Tiffany. Everyone thinks I'm loaded."

"Harvey, you live in the greatest country in the world. But it won't remain that way if you sit at home during the 'Christmas Shopping Days' watching football. That doesn't put bread on anyone's table. The only way you can repay America for all its blessings is to blow your savings on gifts for everyone you know."

The phone rang again. Harvey didn't want to pick it up, so I did. I was surprised to hear the voice on the other end.

"Harvey," I said, "It's Lee Iacocca of the Chrysler Corp. It sounds like he's been crying."

Harvey grabbed the phone. "Yeh, Lee, what do you want now? ... I told you if I decided to buy a car for my kid, I'd consider a new K- model ... But I'm flat-busted ... The interest rates on my house are killing me ... No, I don't want to speak to Frank Sinatra ... Okay, I'll speak to Sinatra ... Yeh, Frank, I've seen your commercials for Chrysler. They're great ... You're doing a fine job .... No, Frank, don't come over now. I'm tied up ... Look, give me your phone number and if I change my mind I'll call you ... Nice talking to you again."

Harvey hung up, and sighed, "It's not easy being a consumer these days. If it weren't for these TV football games, I don't know how I'd make it through the holidays."

IN COMPETITION

FREEMONT — The D.H. Conley JROTC Mens' and Ladies' drill teams participated in a drill competition with various other JROTC units in North Carolina Saturday. The competition was held from 3-5 p.m.

AT NEONATAL PARTY — Fourteen-month-old Jennifer Bissette rest in the arms of her father, Greg Bissette of Wilson at yesterday's first annual Neonatal Intensive Care Graduate Party at Pitt Memoiral Hospital. Young Jennifer was among 90 "graduates" and their families that returned for the reunion. She spent about 3 weeks in the unit as a newborn.

Hospital Party Is Held For Neonatal Graduates

About 90 families — between 300 and 400 persons, including doctors and nurses — attended the first annual Neonatal Intensive Care Graduate Party at Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon.

According to Neonatal staff members, some 600 families of children that have spent time in the intensive care unit since it opened about two years ago were invited to the gathering.

Dr. Art Kopelman, the director of the special infant care facility said, "many...perhaps maybe half," of the children that attended the party with their parents yesterday might not be alive today had they not been patients in the Pitt or another neonatal facility.

He added that many of those who would have survived would not have developed normally without the special care they received. However, "the vast majority," of the Pitt graduates are showing normal development.

Kopelman and other staff members said the party — which included refreshments, a visit from Santa Clause, and Christmas singing — was held as a reunion for the parents, children, and neonatal staff.

They explained that a very close friendship develops between the doctors, nurses and family members of neonatal children, and among families of children in the unit at the same time.

The prime cause of children being admitted to the unit is prematurity. Others are admitted for a variety of medical and surgical problems, including birth defects.

In treating the high-risk infant, the unit stresses family involvement. Mothers and fathers are welcome to visit anytime. This, say staff members, is one reason parents of the children many times develop a close friendship.

Kopleman noted that any families of children who have been patients, and who would be willing to help other parents from their area whose children are patients in the unit, are asked to, "drop us a line." He said having children in the unit is a, "very trying experience," and having other people who have had a similar experience would be, "very supportive."

Corn Meeting To Be Held

The annual meeting of the Corngrowers Association of North Carolina will be held on December 12 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the McKimmon Center in Raleigh.

According to Roger Cobb, Assistant Agricultural Extension Agent, the meeting will deal with such topics as subsoiling and irrigation effects, practices to minimize aflatoxin, broadleaf signalgrass control, etc. An awards program will be held. Corn yield contest awards will also be presented.

Lunch will be served at no cost at the meeting. There is no registration fee and all corn growers and agribusiness people are invited.

Seven Killed In Weekend Traffic

By The Associated Press

Seven people were killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina during the weekend, pushing the state's highway toll for the year to 1,381.

The Highway Patrol said 1,400 people had been killed at the same time last year.

The latest fatality reported was that of Virgil Lee Meadows, 19, of Route 1, Candler, on Sunday. Meadows was killed in a one-car accident in Buncombe County.

Six other people were killed earlier in the weekend.

Optical Topics

opticians association of america

by Beecher Kirkley

"Astigmatism" literally means to be without point. In this case, we are talking about a point of focus. A defect in the eye's lens prevents light from meeting at a converging point with light from the other eye. An indistinct image is the result. A small degree of astimatism may result in simple eyestrain. Astigmatism in higher degrees will cause blurred vision. Although prescription lenses can alleviate this condition, the prescription will take some getting used to. Although astigmatism does not change rapidly, it usually undergoes slow change over a period of time.

Today the "focus" on corrective eyewear reaches as far as fashion considerations. At CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 6th, Physicians Quadrangle, Building A, we offer the professional dispensing of your corrective eyewear needs while at the same time providing experienced attention and assistance to fashion and fit preferences. For all your eyewear needs turn the "focus" of your attention to CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS where your outlook will be enhanced and your vision, fashion and fit preferences and needs will be met. Tel. 752-1446.

EYE TIP:
Astigmatism conditions necessitate at least yearly eye examinations to keep the problem accurately corrected.

House Budget Committee chairmen, Jones would also sit on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, where he has grown influential. That gives him unique leverage on the broad scope of government policy, perhaps as a prelude to future leadership. Nobody in the House doubts that Jimmy Jones wants to be speaker someday, particularly not after he turned down a promising race for the Senate this year.

The vote in caucus, therefore, will determine whether he manages the first big step on the slippery ladder to the speakership. But beyond one politician's fate, it will provide the first concrete evidence of whether the Democratic Party truly feels compelled to change its ways after unmistakable rejection by the voters.

County with 3.3 percent. But the labor force is only 3,680, and a mere 120 people are on unemployment. At first glance that would seem a fine situation when, in fact, Alleghany has a per capita income more than $1,500 below the state average with a mere handful of professional people while most of the population farm, work in factories, or do construction work.

And then there is the county in which there is a large labor force of 166,160 with the extremely low unemployment rate of 4.4 percent. Why is that glowing report possible?

State labor analysis say the Raleigh-Durham area and nearby Orange County have such a concentration of government jobs, and service jobs connected to government, that the region has the lowest metropolitan unemployment rate in the state.

Government service is stable service, say the experts.

Cherry Oaks Club Meets

The Cherry Oaks Home and Garden Club was called to order by President Betsy Little on Tuesday, December 2.

Bonnie Moore and Brenda Whichard presented a workshop program on "Christmas Ideas." They had several decoratons on display. Laurie Charlton announced that the Tasting Tea would be held Febuary 28 at Hooker Memorial Christian Church. She asked that everyone turn in their favorite recipies to Gail Jennings.

Emilie Mallard discussed the "Yard of the Month" for December. Awards will be given in three categories: 1) Best Overall; 2) Religious; and 3) Novelty. The judging will take place December 15 and ribbons will be placed on the winning homes mailboxes.

Meeting hostesses were Betsy Little and Phyllis Rudy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices dropped sharply in early trading today extending steep losses of late last week.

Analysts said mounting tensions with the Soviet Union over the situation in Poland was a major factor weighing on the market.

Investors were already skittish about rising interest rates. The prime rate went to 19 percent at major banks last Friday, touching off a big drop in trading on Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which dropped more than 14 points in the previous session, fell 10.50 to 945.73 in the first half hour of trading today.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by almost 4-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Oil stocks showed continued weakness in today's early going. Mobil fell 1¼ to 81⅛; Amerada Hess lost 1⅝ to 42¼; Standard Oil of California fell 1½ to 101¼. But Texaco was unchanged at 46⅞. All were actively traded.

On Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 14.25 points to 956.23.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by about 3-1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume was 51.99 million shares up from 51.17 million in the previous session.

The NYSE composite index fell 1.44 to 78.60.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost 7.41 355.17.

FOCUS

OAPEC Meets

Oil ministers of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC) are scheduled to meet today for the first time since the start of the Iran-Iraq war. The war has already created tense relations between Arab countries. Saudi Arabia and some Persian Gulf states have expressed their support for Iraq, while Syria and Libya have sided with Iran. Today's meeting is scheduled to include representatives from Iraq and eight other Arab countries. Iran does not belong to OAPEC. But both warring nations are members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), which includes oil-producing countries outside the Arab world.

DO YOU KNOW — Which side has Jordan supported in the Iran-Iraq war?

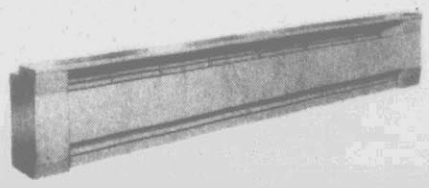

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — The attorney general heads the Justice Department.

Cowboys Win, Tied For First With Philadelphia

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Dallas' Tony Dorsett fulfilled his half of an agreement he made six weeks ago, so the San Diego Chargers and the Cowboys are tied for first place in their respective divisions two weeks before the end of the National Football League season.

When Dallas played San Diego on Oct. 26, "Dorsett asked me to beat Philadelphia, and we did." John Jefferson, Chargers wide receiver, said Sunday after his team was upset 40-17 by Washington. "And now he is supposed to return the favor by beating Oakland for us."

After the Chargers lost to the Redskins, Dorsett ran for 97 yards, including a 20-yard touchdown, as the Cowboys defeated the Raiders 19-13, allowing San Diego to stay even with Oakland for the AFC West lead, both with 9-5 records.

The Dallas victory, combined with Philadelphia's 20-17 loss to NFC West leader Atlanta, moved the Cowboys into a tie with the Eagles in the NFC East, both with 11-3 marks.

It was the Eagles' second loss in a row, the other coming at the hands of San Diego, which fulfilled the first half of the Dorsett-Jefferson pact.

The victories by Atlanta and Dallas clinched playoff berths for both teams, a feat Philadelphia had already accomplished.

"If we win our last two games, we'll have the most victories in Cowboys history," said Dorsett. "That should tell you something."

"I never thought we'd be tied with Philadelphia at this point," admitted Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys, who trailed the Eagles by two games two weeks ago. "It's a good feeling to know if we win our last two games, we'll win the East again."

The Cowboys earned their 14th playoff berth in 15 years as Rafael Septien kicked a 52-yard field goal and Ron Springs scored a 2-yard touchdown in a two-minute span of the second period. Dorsett, who became the first NFL runner to go over 1,000 yards in each of his first four seasons, scored his TD in the first quarter.

Falcons 20, Eagles 17

Tim Mazzetti's 37-yard field goal with seven seconds left gave Atlanta its victory over Philadelphia. The Falcons, 11-3 and two games ahead of Los Angeles in the NFC West, recovered from a 14-3 deficit on Steve Bartkowski's two touchdown passes.

"We're no fluke. We can let our record speak for itself," said Coach Leeman Bennett, whose Falcons finished 6-10 last season.

Redskins 40, Chargers 17

Washington intercepted five passes, three by Joe Lavender, and Mark Moseley kicked four field goals in the shocking upset of San Diego.

Lavender returned one of his three interceptions off Dan

Pirate Men, Women Play Doubleheader

East Carolina University's men and women will play a doubleheader tonight, starting at 6 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

In the opening game, the Lady Pirates, 3-1 on the year, will be playing host to Campbell University. Tipoff is set for 6 p.m.

The Lady Pirates won their first three games, then bowed in their last outing to nationally ranked Old Dominion, 89-77, on Wednesday. They are led by senior Kathy Riley with an 18 point average, and junior Sam Jones, hitting 14 points a game.

The men will be meeting Berry College of Rome, Ga., in the second game of the evening. Tipoff for that contest will be approximately 8 p.m.

The Pirates are 2-1 after having defeated Texas Wesleyan, 90-83, on Friday night.

ECU is paced by Barry Wright with a 14.3 average, while Michael Gibson is hitting 11.7 and Mark McLaurin has a 10.3 average.

The games are the final December appearance for both the men's and women's teams.

The men return home on January 3, against Campbell, while the women do not return until January 17, against William & Mary.

ECU's men take to the road Saturday to face Penn State while the women take part in the Carolina Christmas Tournament Dec. 18-20 in Chapel Hill.

Deacs Regain Bragging Rights

By BILL WERONKA
Associated Press Writer

The Wake Forest basketball team has not had much to brag about in recent years.

But over the weekend the Deacons regained their bragging rights in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Friday the Deacons blitzed North Carolina State in the first round of the Big Four Tournament in Greensboro, N.C. Then they turned around on Saturday and knocked off 10th-ranked North Carolina, 82-71, in the championship game.

It was the 11th and final Big Four Tournament and the Deacons wound up winning the event four times, more than any other team.

Two years ago the Deacons were last in the ACC and last season they finished next to last. They were the preseason pick to finish in the same position this season.

The return of point guard Frank Johnson is what brought the turnaround in Wake Forest's fortunes. After sitting out a year with a broken foot last season, Johnson has come back to give the Deacons needed leadership, speed and scoring. It was never more evident than in the Big Four. He scored 38 points in two games and directed the Deacons in a controlled and consistent offense.

Johnson was named the most valuable player of the tournament, in which he was the only player to participate five times. The last Deacon win was in Johnson's freshman year, the same year they went to the final eight in the NCAA Tournament.

The Deacons showed their performances were no fluke by grabbing big leads early and holding them. Although they shot an amazing 60 percent from the field in both games, it was not the hot shooting that stood out. Instead it was their revitalized and tenacious man-to-man defense that forced N.C. State into 18 turnovers and the Tar Heels into 20. Plus they played a controlled game and displayed speed that was totally lacking last year.

"Last year we were restricted with what we could do," Deacon coach Carl Tacy said. "We were limited to playing half-court games. But this year with Frank we can do a lot more things on both offense and defense."

The victory left the Deacons unbeaten through four games, while North Carolina dropped to 5-1. Duke, which finished last in the Big Four for the first time since 1976, evened its record at 2-2 after a 78-76 loss to North Carolina and a 74-60 loss to N.C. State. The Wolfpack pushed its record to 3-1.

With the exception of Georgia Tech, the rest of the ACC remained unbeaten through the weekend.

Fourth-ranked Maryland boosted its record to 4-0 by winning the Carrier Classic in Syracuse. The Terps won the title with a 83-73 victory over No. 18 Syracuse Saturday.

Seventh-ranked Virginia boosted its record to 4-0 with a 88-68 whipping of William & Mary Saturday. Clemson is also 4-0 after defeating South Carolina 82-69 Saturday. Georgia Tech fell to 2-2 after losing to Georgia 55-38 Saturday.

While the Wake Forest team was celebrating after both wins, the opposition was praising the surprising Deacons.

North Carolina coach Dean Smith simply said, "Wake Forest is for real."

"Wake Forest was an outstanding team in every phase of the game," N.C. State's rookie coach Jim Valvano said after the Deacons whipped the Wolfpack 87-57. "They shot the lights out in the first half and rebounded well. Frankie Johnson gives them an extra bit of quickness that they didn't have last year."

Pats Need Win Tonight Vs. Miami

Scene Too Familar For New England

MIAMI (AP) — The scene must be all too familiar to the New England Patriots.

A late-season loss to a non-playoff contender, an 8-5 record after a fast start and ... a Monday night National Football League appointment with the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl, where New England hasn't won since 1966.

A year ago, the Patriots got off to a 6-2 start but had fallen to 8-5 by the time the team rolled into Miami for a crucial American Conference East matchup on national tv. By that time, the critics had started the talk about the Pats annual nosedive and a 39-24 loss to the Dolphins dealt a serious blow to their playoff fortunes.

The scores and some of the opponents are different in 1980. But the Patriots got off to an identical 6-2 start and stand 8-5 and in desperate need of a victory heading into tonight's nationally televised game with the 6-7 Dolphins. Game time is 9 p.m. EST.

The critics started clearing their throats last week after the Patriots dropped a 21-17 decision at San Francisco and a loss to the Dolphins will again hinder their stretch run for the playoffs.

"We've got to win this game. It seems like we haven't had much success down here, but this has been a different team from teams in the past," said New England safety Tim Fox.

"We've always had certain things over our heads: We can't win certain games, we can't win on grass, we can't win on national TV," he added. "We've overcome a lot of those things."

The Patriots need a victory to remain one game behind AFC East leader Buffalo in the race for the division crown and an automatic playoff berth. New England hosts the Bills next Sunday before closing the season at New Orleans on Dec. 21.

Miami is out of the playoff picture, but the 34-0 whipping the Patriots administered to the Dolphins in Foxboro, Mass., on Oct. 12 gives the team plenty of incentive for tonight.

"I think we all feel we're a much better football team now than we were in that ballgame," said Miami Coach Don Shula.

Jaguar Girls Struggling

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's girls' basketball team hasn't gotten off to a great start, and the reason has coach Hilda Worthington wondering what's going on.

"I just don't understand it. We have the ability, but we're not playing to it," she said. The Lady Jaguars dropped their opening game to Southern Nash, 48-38, then bowed before North Pitt, 44-39, in their second but managed to defeat Tarboro, 66-60, Saturday evening.

Having to open in the conference without having the opportunity to go against non-league competition may have caused part of the problem. "We could be suffering from some early season nerves," Worthington said. Those non-conference games could have gotten rid of those.

"But we're just not playing to par right now. We have better players than the scores would indicate. I do think that we'll come around, however, and be better before long."

Against North Pitt, the Jaguars were hampered by having one of their starters out of action. Karen Dunn, who is an outstanding distance runner, was in Atlanta, Ga., for the weekend at the regional Junior Olympics.

Six players return from last year's team, and although there is only one starter back, there is a good nucleus to build around, Worthington admits.

The lone starter is 5-9 senior Etta Gorham, a forward. Joining her as veterans are 5-9 junior Rose Lang, 5-5 senior Dana Streeter, 5-6 junior Hattie Joyner, 5-9 sophomore Lydia Worthington, and Dunn, a 5-6 sophomore.

Also back is Rose Edmunds, a 5-10 senior who was on the team as a sophomore, but did not play last year.

"Experience is one of our problems, since our bench in pretty much inexperienced," Worthington said. "We can go to one or two, but that's about all."

Currently, Worthington is starting Gorham and Lang at the forwards, Edmunds at center, and Dunn and Streeter at the guards.

The remaining members of the team are 5-7 senior Gloria Baptist, 5-5 sophomore Veronica Hardy, 5-9 junior Betsy Powell, and 6-0 freshman Cynthia Hart. "Hart has a lot of potential ahead of her," Worthington said. "She is going to be a real good player in the future."

Worthington hasn't been pleased with the Jaguar shooting either. "We shot only 23 per cent against Southern Nash, and you aren't going to win games like that," the coach said. "Our rebounding has been right good so far, and we have good speed and quickness."

The defense also proved a weak point, at least against North Pitt.

In the conference, Worthington looks to Southwest Edgecombe to win the title "hands down" and notes that Southern Nash and Charles B. Aycock will both be strong. "I really think we're all about even, except for Southwest.

"I think we have a chance to finish in the upper division, too. We just have to come along and start putting things together."

Last year's Lady Jaguar team was 13-11 and tied for third, earning a district tournament berth. But victories will have to start coming if they are to repeat that trip this year.

The Farmville schedule:

Roanoke Whips North Pitt, 64-52

ROANOKE — Roanoke's Ricky Highsmith poured in 16 points to lead the Redskins to a 64-52 victory over North Pitt Saturday night in a nonconference basketball game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Roanoke outlasted North Pitt, 39-38, in double-overtime.

In the boys' game, Roanoke led after the first period, 18-12, and at the half, 30-24. The Redskins were up 42-35 going into the final period but saw their lead shrink to four midway through the fourth quarter but held on to hand the Panthers their third loss in five outings.

Roanoke got 11 points from Maurice Chance and 10 each from Angelo Spruill and Michael Nel. North Pitt was led by Juan Atkinson's 16 points. Vince Parker added 11 points and Ronnie House chipped in 10.

•

Roanoke led at the end of the first quarter, 10-9, at half, 18-14, and at the end of the third period, 28-24. But in the final period the Pant-HERS tied it up to send the game into overtime.

North Pitt led much of the first overtime but the Redskins managed to tie it up late to send the game into a second overtime. After exchanging the lead early in the second extra period, the Redskins took the lead for good when Moore hit one of two free throws.

The Redskins were led by Sylvia Parker's 19 points. North Pitt, now 2-3, was topped by Jeanette Brown's 13 points and Phillis Daniels' 10.

Johnson Leads Rosettes To Win

SOUTHERN PINES — Nancy Johnson took three firsts and won the all-around championship to help lead the Rosettes to a first place finish in a Class 2 gymnastics meet Saturday night.

At the same competition, the Rosettes were second in the Class 3 bracket and Sunday finished fourth in a Class 4 meet in Raleigh.

Johnson paced the Rosettes to a total of 82.5 points and beat Fayetteville, which finished with 77.7 points. In the class 3 meet, Sandhills Gymnastic Club of Southern Pines won with a score of 80.35, followed closely by the Rosettes, who end up with 80.15 points. Fayetteville was third with a score of 72.05.

Johnson was first in the vault with a score of 7.7, first on the uneven bars (6.45), first on the floor exercise (8.15) and second on the balance beam for an all-around total of 28.75.

Carmela Weber led the Rosettes in the class 2 meet, finishing first in the all-around with a score of 27.95. Weber was first in the vault (7.2) and uneven bars (6.9) and second on floor exercise (7.65)

Sunday in Raleigh at the Class 4 meet Frankie Lynn Hardee took third all-around with a score of 30.1 to qualify for the Eastern Sectional Meet to be held here at the Carolina Country Day gym.

Hardee was first in the vault (8.35), third in the balance beam (7.45) and uneven bars (8.1) and sixth on floor exercise (6.5).

Other results in the Class 3 meet include:

Sue Ellen Nashner — 3. balance beam (6.3), 6. vault (6.7) and 5. all-around (24.45); Caroline Lee — 1. beam (7.15), 4. vault (7.15), 4. bars (5.25), 5. floor exercise (7.0) and 3. all-around (26.55); Christy Jennings — 5. beam (6.05); Tricia Burk — 6. beam (6.0).

Other Class 2 results:

Ginger McLendon — 1. beam (6.7), 4. floor exercise (7.4), 6. vault (6.95) and 4. all-around 25.45; Jenny Johnsrude — 2. vault (7.3), 4. bars (5.3), 6. beam (6.05), 5. all-around (25.3); Tracy Fearington — 1. floor exercise (7.75); 2. bars (6.5), 3. vault (7.2), 3. beam (6.35), 2. all-around (27.80).

Deacs Bragging...

Although he did not want to take anything away from the Wake Forest team, Smith said the Tar Heels are having their share of problems.

"We really weren't sharp offensively," Smith said. "This was our sixth game in nine days and we really need practice time. But we can't get it next week because of exams. We'll only practice twice next week before South Florida because of exams and then only twice the following week before Indiana. That's bad because our execution leaves a lot to be desired. We have got to take care of the ball better, too."

After getting shocked by Wake Forest Friday, Valvano put his team back on track against Duke.

"This feels good, it was a good win for us," Valvano said after the game. "But, no, I didn't give the kids any special pep talk. I used my Knute Rockne speech No. 116 last night and it bombed out. Tonight, I just said let's go out and play basketball."

The ACC's other rookie coach, Mike Krzyzewski of Duke, suffered through a disappointing last second loss to North Carolina and then helplessly watched his Blue Devils just get outplayed by N.C. State.

"We played poorly," Krzyzewski said. "I have no excuses; we weren't ready to play. I don't know the reason. We didn't execute well and we were getting shots blocked. It just was not a good ball game for Duke tonight.

Coach Herb Brooks of the American gold-medal hockey team in the 1980 Olympics at Lake Placid was the last man cut from the 1960 American gold-medal team in hockey.

"HERE'S SOUTHERN RAILWAY'S ANSWER TO THE ENERGY SHORTAGE FOR THE APPLIANCE INDUSTRY."

"THE LONG AND...

The simple fact is, that the way the energy situation is today and, undoubtedly, will be tomorrow, railroads make more sense for long hauls than trucks do.

Because railroads are a lot more energy-efficient than trucks.

But does that mean trucks will soon be a thing of the past for the appliance industry? No. We think trucks have a very definite place in the future of transportation.

As long as trucks are used in the right place.

Harold H. Hall, President
Southern Railway System
Washington, D.C. 20013

...THE SHORT OF IT"

The right job for trucks is the short haul where the railroad begins and ends—at distribution warehouses like this one.

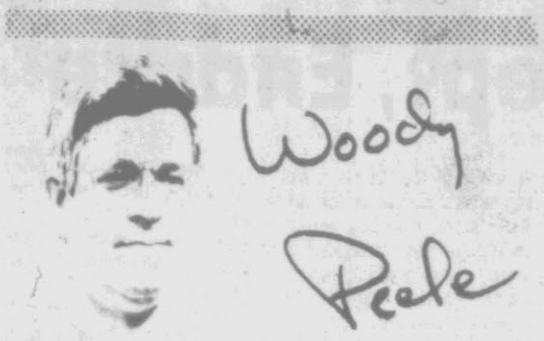

We believe so much in this concept, and its important implications for the future of this country, that we've set up a system to capitalize on our advantage for long hauls and trucks' advantage for short hauls. We've made interchange agreements with over 150 trucking firms all over our route to give you dock to dock service even when your dock isn't on our railroad.

We think the wave of the future is to have each mode of transportation do what it does best.

We have the energy for the long haul.

SOUTHERN
THE RAILWAY SYSTEM THAT GIVES A GREEN LIGHT TO INNOVATIONS

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

East Carolina's basketball team proved a couple of things Saturday night in its 90-83 victory over Texas Wesleyan.

First, the Pirates showed that they do have some good talent on this year's team. The ease with which they handled the Rams throughout most of the game showed that. To be sure, Texas Wesleyan is not one of the powers of the country, but they do have a pretty good team by NAIA standards. Still, East Carolina was on the verge of blowing them completely off the court with a 27 point lead with eight and a half minutes left to go in the game.

That brings us to the second point. Despite the fact that Coach Dave Odom doesn't like to refer to it, the Pirates are young. Only four members of the team played together prior to this year, and they really didn't play that much together, since two of the four saw only token playing time last year.

Odom pointed out Saturday night that one breakdown can cause problems with the team right now. That, too, is because of the youth of the team.

Odom himself feels that "youth" on a basketball team isn't what youth on a football team would be. "Basketball players play the sport all year," he told us earlier in the year, "whereas football players only play in season." For this reason, players in the roundball sport are more experienced.

But youth in the way we mean it is in playing with each other. Players still have to learn each others habits, shortcomings and quality points. Until they do, there is a learning process that can only be described as "youth."

Odom is looking for the "take-charge guy in the clutch," the type of player who will calm the others down when things go wrong and get them back on track. That was what the Pirates were missing on Saturday night.

That, too, will come. Odom believes it and so do we. It will just take that period of adjustment. Once the players become throughly adapted to each other, the leader will step forward. And in the case of this year's Pirate team, it may not necessarily be a senior. It could just as easily be a freshman.

It all depends on who really wants to pick up the gauntlet.

Now that high school football season is over, we'll release the final standings of our own particular poll. Throughout the season, we've kept up with the 300-plus NCHSAA teams across the state, ranking them as to strength of schedule and record.

We award a team four points each time it defeats a 4-A school, three for a 3-A victory, two for a 2-A and one for a 1-A. In addition, for each victory by a defeated opponent, a team gains another point. It's sort of a variation of the Lou Holtz poll.

In the 4-A ranks, Rose High School ended up tied for 29th among the 77 schools in that category. Rose collected a total of 48½ points during the year.

Page, which won the 4-A title, was the number one team with 143½ points, followed by Jacksonville at 114, Goldsboro at 110½, Vance at 99 and Pine Forest at 96. The second five teams were Charlotte Harding at 95½, Terry Sanford at 84, Kannapolis at 80, Asheville at 79 and Lee County at 78.

Among the seven 3-A schools in our area, Williamston ranked highest, finishing 11th among the 129 in that division with 63½ points. Roanoke was tied for 63rd with 31 points, while Farmville was tied for 76th with 24, Ayden-Grifton was tied for 86th with 22, Greene Central was tied for 95th with 17, North Pitt was tied for 113th with 8, and D.H. Conley was tied for 124th with no points.

The top ten 3-A schools were state champion Burlington Williams with 131, Lexington with 118½, Shelby Crest with 95, Edenton with 87, Tuscola with 85½, East Wake with 83, Mt. Airy with 74, Lincolnton with 68½, South Rowan with 67½ and Eastern Alamance with 65.

Sylva-Webster led the 2-A teams with 97, while Currituck was second with 92. They were followed by Southwestern Guilford with 89½, Fuquay-Varina and Southwest Onslow, tied with 76½, Tabor City with 60, Randleman with 59, Perquimans with 57, and Littlefield and West Wilkes, tied with 54½.

Locally, in the 1-A's, Jamesville was 26th among the 29 in that division with six points. Robbinsville led the way with 85, followed by Rosewood with 61½, Cherokee with 49½, Manteo with 40, Maxton with 38, Midway with 36, Princeton with 35½, Creswell with 31, Rowland with 28½ and North Duplin with 28.

Some folks may differ with us, but we guess that's what polls are all about.

Fans Stone World Cup Match

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — A qualifying World Cup soccer match between Malta and Poland was ended in the 75th minute Sunday by Yugoslav referee Maksimovic after continuous stone-throwing by Maltese fans.

The score when the game was halted was 2-0 in favor of the Poles. The incidents were triggered when second goal was scored.

It was not immediately decided what the outcome of the game would be.

Fouts, who surpassed the 4,000-yard mark in passing despite the four interceptions he threw, for a 51-yard touchdown. Joe Theismann had two touchdown passes and completed 26 of 37 tosses for 269 yards.

Bills 10, Rams 7

Joe Ferguson hit wide receiver Frank Lewis on a 30-yard pass play to set up Nick Mike-Mayer's game-winning 30-yard field goal that beat Los Angeles in the fifth minute of overtime. The Bills are 10-4 and 1½ games ahead of New England in the AFC East pending the Patriots' game tonight, while the Rams are 9-5 and are faced with losing the NFC West title for the first time in eight years.

Vikings 21, Buccaneers 10

Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer had only 63 yards passing before halftime but he had 201 in the last two quarters and engineered two long scoring drives.

Minnesota, only 8-6 but still ahead in the NFC Central by a game, trailed 10-0 before intermission.

Cardinals 24, Lions 23

Detroit fell out of a tie with the Vikings when Roy Green returned a punt 57 yards for a touchdown with 3:40 left.

The Lions had led 23-14 late in the third quarter on Gary Danielson's 37-yard touchdown pass to Leonard Thompson.

Browns 17, Jets 14

Quarterback Brian Sipe hit a club-record 30 passes in 41 attempts for 340 yards and a touchdown, a 5-yarder to Greg Pruitt that wiped out a 14-10 New York lead in the fourth quarter, to give Cleveland its victory.

The Browns, 10-4, are one game ahead of Houston in the AFC Central.

Bears 61, Packers 7

Vince Evans completed 18 of 22 passes for 316 yards and three touchdowns and Walter Payton scored three TDs to lead Chicago over Green Bay. The Bears equalled their club record for points in one game set in 1965.

49ers 38, Saints 35

San Francisco wiped out a 35-7 halftime deficit, climaxed by Ray Wersching's 36-yard field goal with 7:20 left in overtime.

Archie Manning threw for 248 yards and three touchdowns in the first half as New Orleans outgained the 49ers 324-21, but San Francisco turned it around in the final two quarters as Joe Montana threw two touchdown passes and ran for another.

Bengals 34, Colts 33

Cincinnati's Jim Breech kicked a 21-yard field goal with 12 seconds remaining to foil a Baltimore comeback attempt. The Bengals led 31-6 before the Colts scored four TDs in the fourth quarter to go ahead.

Chiefs 31, Broncos 14

Quarterback Bill Kenney, making his regular-season debut after nearly two seasons in the NFL, threw touchdown passes of 33 and 8 yards to lead Kansas City over Denver.

Kenney, filling in for injured starter Steve Fuller, completed 12 of 18 passes for 142 yards.

Giants 27, Seahawks 21

Billy Taylor scored on a 30-yard run with 1:57 to go, with the Seattle defense drawn tight on fourth-and-one, to give New York its victory over Seattle, still winless at home this season.

Farmville Falls In 2 Overtimes

FARMVILLE — It was his only field goal of the night, but it turned out to be a winner.

Tarboro's Keith Bishop sank a 15-foot jump shot with six seconds left in the second overtime to give the Vikings a hard-fought 46-44 victory over Farmville Central Saturday night in a nonconference basketball battle.

In the boys' game, Farmville's Melvin Sutton scored six points in both the third and fourth period to help pull the Jaguars even and send the game into overtime at 44-44.

In the first extra quarter the Vikings won the tap and stalled until the Jaguars stole the ball late in the period. Farmville's Ronald Dixon was fouled with 32 seconds left but missed the front end of a one-and-one and a last-second shot by Tarboro was no good, sending the game into a second overtime with the score still 44-44.

The Vikings again won the tap and again went to the stall. Again, however, the Jaguars stole the ball but missed a shot with 1:15 to go. Then, with 17 seconds left, Tarboro called timeout and put in Bishop. Moments later Bishop fired up his 15-foot jumper — his only points of the night — from the right that swished through the net to give the Vikings the lead.

Farmville called timeout with four seconds left but could not get off a shot as the Jaguars lost their third game in as many tries this season.

Farmville was led by Sutton's 17 points. Tarboro got 19 from Greg Steel and 10 from Glenn Shaw.

•

In the girls' game, Farmville jumped out to a 9-4 first-period advantage but saw Tarboro tie the game at the half, 27-27. The Jaguars, now 1-2 overall, regained the lead in the third period, 44-39 and stretched that to as many as 11 in the final period before winning by six.

The Jaguars were led by Etta Gorham's 19 points. Dana Streeter added 17 while Rose Edmunds had 15 and Rose Lang 14. Tarboro was led by Mona Jackson's 18 points and Linda Draughn's 16.

Farmville Central plays host to Ayden-Grifton Tuesday night.

McGraw, Porter Agree To Terms

DALLAS (AP) — Reliever Tug McGraw agreed to a four-year contract with the Philadelphia Phillies, and the St. Louis Cardinals reached agreement with free agent catcher Darrell Porter Sunday in major developments at baseball's annual winter meetings.

The 36-year-old McGraw, one of the stars of the Philadelphia Phillies' National League pennant and World Series triumphs, agreed to a pact estimated at $1.6 million.

McGraw, who telephoned his acceptance to Phillies' personnel director Paul Owens, said the first three years and half of the fourth were guaranteed.

Owens said the key to the settlement was deferred payments that would assure education for McGraw's children. It took a month to hammer out the contract.

The Phillies gave the veteran reliever the rich contract even though he was ignored by all 26 major league teams in the recent re-entry draft.

McGraw said Sunday, however, that he had feelers from five or six teams if he was unable to work out a deal with the Phillies, with whom he wanted to finish his career.

Porter, who played out his option with the American League champion Kansas City Royals, will sign officially with St. Louis when he returns from a honeymoon cruise.

The Porter agreement was negotiated by his agent, Frank Knisley and certified in an exchange of telegrams over the weekend on a ship-to-shore telephone hookup.

The McGraw-Porter announcements were the only major news Sunday from the week-long meetings, which opened officially today with the annual major league draft. All unprotected players are available in the grab bag for $25,000 each.

Among things on the agenda are the contract of NL president Charles Feeney, a report on breaking the leagues into three divisions, expansion of radio and television into more non-major league areas, some rule changes, and an important report on negotiations with the Players Association on the free agent compensation issue.

McGraw said the most important aspect of his resigning with the Phillies was that he could fulfill a desire to complete his career in Philadelphia.

Herzog said the Porter agreement opened the way for the Cardinals to make a few deals for much needed pitching.

The Cardinals have offered third baseman Ken Reitz and outfielder Leon Durham to the Chicago Cubs for premier reliever Bruce Sutter, but Reitz, who has a no-trade contract, vetoed the deal.

"I've given Chicago permission to try and change Reitz' mind," Herzog said.

Sonny Randle To Speak Tues.

Former East Carolina football coach Sonny Randle will speak at the Greenville Sports Club's luncheon Tuesday. The luncheon will begin at noon at the Western Sizzlin' and the talk will get started at 12:30.

One 'Angel Of Bataan' Learned To Accept, Endure

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — To her neighbors, she is Dorothy Armold, a gray-haired retired maternity room nurse who likes to putter with petunias, play cards occasionally, and enjoy her grown children.

But 35 years ago Dorothy Armold was Dorothy Scholl. She was hailed as a heroine of the free world, showered with medals and honors in a brief burst of glory.

The clerk at the dry cleaners and the girl at the grocery store don't know that today's Dorothy Armold was yesterday's "Angel of Bataan and Corregidor." As Dorothy Scholl, she was one of 67 Army nurses who waved goodbye to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and stayed behind in the Philippines to care for the wounded as Japanese forces tightened the noose around the Pacific in the early days of World War II.

That footnote in history happened two generations ago. Only old soldiers who haven't yet faded away now remember the women in white they passed in the jungle those decades ago.

But the Angels never forgot what they endured. This spring they, too, returned to Bataan and Corregidor.

Along with 51 other nurses, their relatives, and nearly 200 Army veterans, Mrs. Armold and her daughter Carolyn and son-in-law Richard Torrence of Wetherford, Okla., flew to the Philippines by jumbo jet. Within a few hours, she'd gone back 39 years in time.

In August 1941 it took Army nurse Scholl, an unmarried 27, 19 days to cross the Pacific on a troop transport. By the time she'd docked in the Philippines, she was smitten with a soldier named Harold Armold who also was on the ship.

In the next five months they saw a lot of one another when Dorothy got away from Sternberg Hospital and Harold escaped his duties on Bataan for a few hours.

But on Dec. 8, leisurely dinners at the posh Army-Navy Club and evening strolls through gardenia-scented Manila came to a thundering end for the adventurous young nurse from Independence, Mo.

On Christmas Eve the nurses were evacuated from Manila to Bataan. Casualties poured into field hospitals at Limay and Cabcaben. Surgeons operated in huts and under trees as the bombs fell. Nurses dug foxholes, dodged snakes flushed out of the jungle by battles, and rigged up pressure-pumped Bunsen burners to fuel pressure cookers that were the only means of sterilizing operating instruments. The Japanese weren't the only enemies. The young women wearing surplus World War I helmets also fought heat, flies, dust and monkeys that attacked them for the dwindling food supplies.

On April 9 the nurses were ordered to withdraw to Corregidor.

They reached Corregidor at dawn. By noon, Bataan had surrendered. Harold Armold was still there. The Death March that would weaken but not kill him was soon to begin.

"By then we knew we were completely cut off, with no way of getting any help," says Mrs. Armold, her voice calm and cool after all those years. "We set about coping as best we could. There was little food, almost no medicine, and bad water. Bloody dressings had to be reused. We were under constant bombardment and went days without ever seeing sunlight or smelling fresh air."

The Japanese arrived on May 6.

They kept the women and wounded in the tunnel until June 25, then brought them to topside buildings for four days.

"The night before they shipped us out to Manila, they separated us from the boys," says Mrs. Armold. "We called them 'our boys' because most of us nurses were in our late 20s or early 30s, and the wounded were mostly kids. They put the boys on ships and left them there alone, in the heat and the dark without food or water, all night. We could hear them crying for help. It was the worst night during the whole experience.

"Then, when we got to Manila, they separated us again and sent the boys to a prisoner of war camp where many of them died. They had it much worse than we did. We went to Santa Tomas."

Mrs. Armold and the other Army women joined 4,000 civilian POWs at the national university prison camp. It was to be her "home" for 2½ years.

Then Japan began to lose the war, and the soldiers came. Black marketeers and Filipino farmers who'd helped supplement the starvation diet of rice and mush with fresh vegetables were banished from the camp. Dozens died of malnutrition, and a doctor who refused to falsify the cause of death was beheaded.

"From February of 1944 on, we were all forced to bow low to the guards and never look at their faces. When American planes started flying over we were forbidden to look up. When they started dropping leaflets we were severely punished if they caught us with one. But we knew, through little things, that the Americans were coming back."

On Feb. 4, 1945, some of the nurses smelled gasoline. And then, suddenly, there they were — American tanks rumbling onto the campus.

"We could hear the tanks and then we could see them — a lot of boys from Texas, they were. The happiest sound in the world," says Mrs. Armold.

She visited her mother, was transferred to an Army hospital at Springfield, Mo., found Armold again when he was liberated that spring, married him the following November, and in March the next year was discharged.

He stayed in the Army and they traveled all over the world and had three children before settling down in Topeka following his retirement. Occasionally they talked about going back to the Philippines for a visit, but somehow never got around to it. In 1975, Armold died of cancer.

But when Mrs. Armold finally did return to Santa Tomas, she went with a child who loved her and wanted to understand, and with some of her old comrades-in-arms who survived the nightmare with her.

"I'm glad I went," she says, looking over her souvenirs and a gold medal struck in honor of the Angels. "We unveiled a plaque for the 101 U.S. nurses who saw action in Bataan and Corregidor. I went back to my old room at Santa Tomas, walked the streets again, and went into the tunnel. It was crumbling to pieces and I wondered now how we ever survived being in there.

"There were bands and banquets and speeches and now there are some good memories too," says the widow.

"I believe," adds the lady from Topeka who celebrated her 67th birthday April 29, "that the whole experience helped me. Because of it, I learned to accept, and to endure."

Joyriders Took Cutter

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Coast Guard officials are trying to find out who stole one of their 41-foot cutters.

Joyriders apparently stole the $500,000 ship from its dock Saturday and returned it to a harbor 10 miles away Sunday in an overnight caper that "we just didn't notice," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

A radioman was on duty at the 24-hour Channel Island rescue station when the ship was boat-napped, "but I guess he was busy doing his work and didn't see it leave," said Petty Officer Gary Bradger.

The theft was discovered during a routine morning check.

Coast Guard headquarters in Long Beach immediately launched an air search for the missing craft, but called the effort off half an hour later when a harbor master discovered the cutter at a National Park Service dock in Ventura, said Lt. Scott Settimo.

Spokesmen said the only damage to the cutter was a torn emblem.

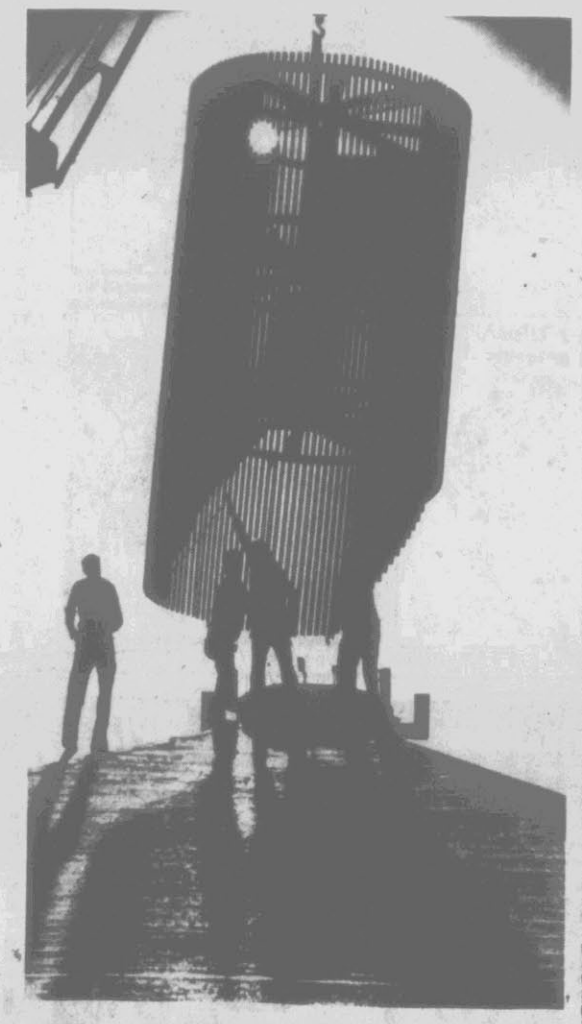

No arrests have been made in the case, which was being investigated by Coast Guard Intelligence, Bradger said.

He said the incident has prompted discussion of "changing the system a bit" to provide better security at the station. The Channel Island rescue station normally has three cutters, he said.

Police Report Local Break-In

Capt. A. G. Whitaker said intruders entered the rear of the building, attempted to force open the company safe, with no success, and took a pistol from one of the offices.

GREETS HONOREES — In the East Room of the White House, President Carter makes his way through the crowd Sunday evening to work down the row of 1980 winners of the Kennedy Center Honors for "lifetime achievement in the performing arts" to greet the honorees. From left are: Leonard Bernstein, composer-conductor; Agnes de Mille, choreographer; Leontyne Price, opera singer; the president; James Cagney, actor; and Lynn Fontanne, actress. Achievers In Performing Arts Are Honored At Kennedy Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1980 winners of Kennedy Center Honors for "lifetime achievement in the performing arts" were treated to a night of praise and ovations by a star-studded group of admirers led by President Carter.

The five winners, honored Sunday night at a White House reception and a gala at the Kennedy Center, are: composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein, actor James Cagney, choreographer Agnes de Mille, actress Lynn Fontanne and opera singer Leontyne Price.

The five represent "the finest character of the finest people on earth," Carter said during the Kennedy Center gala, which was taped for televising Dec. 27 on CBS and featured performances and tributes.

The audience sang "Happy Birthday," in honor of Miss Fontanne, who turned 93 Saturday. Miss de Mille was honored with a performance of "It's Parade Time," a work she had choreographed.

Twice the audience rose for standing ovations for Cagney. Actor Pat O'Brien saluted him as "an actor's actor and a listening actor — they're so rare today."

Two special songs were sung for Bernstein. His daughter Jamie sang "Thank You, Thank You for the Big Heart," and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and former football star "Broadway Joe" Namath were among those who joining in the singing of "New York, New York," Bernstein's hit song from the musical "On the Town."

At the White House reception, Carter said Bernstein has made music "part of the lives of literally millions of Americans." He described Miss DeMille's work as representing "the heart and soul of the American experience," and said the 81-year-old Cagney has touched the heart of America "all the way from Public Enemy Number 1 to Yankee Doodle Dandy." He said the greatest thrill of his presidency was hearing Miss Price sing at the White House.

Carter said Miss Fontanne shared with her husband, the late Alfred Lunt, "a career that has been described as matchless in America and perhaps in the world."

Material Said Missing From FBI Oswald File

DALLAS (AP) — Hours after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated here, the FBI removed documents from the file of Lee Harvey Oswald that referred to his meeting in Mexico City two months earlier with a Soviet agent, a former FBI agent says.

Without that information, investigators were unable to properly consider the possibility that Oswald acted as part of a conspiracy in the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination, says James P. Hosty Jr., the agent who monitored Oswald's activities in Dallas.

Hosty, 56, retired from the FBI last year. He was the most severely punished of 17 FBI men who were disciplined for the way they handled the Oswald case in the days before the assassination.

Hosty, who was suspended for 30 days and transferred from Dallas to Kansas City, decided to tell his side of the disciplinary action, he said, because "one of these days they are going to have to face up and tell the public the truth" about the concealed information.

The Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination, concluded that Oswald, who was later shot to death by Jack Ruby, was the only person involved in the assassination. A House assassinations committee concluded that the slaying was the result of a conspiracy.

Hosty said that FBI intelligence never told him of Oswald's contacts in Mexico City with the man he terms a key to Soviet espionage in the western hemisphere.

When he learned of agent Valeriy V. Kostikov's role as a KGB agent responsible for assassination and sabotage, it was three years too late, Hosty said.

When some Mexico City material did arrive in Dallas — most of it the day before or the day of the assassination — it disappeared from Hosty's workbox after he was instructed to attend Oswald's interrogation by Dallas police the afternoon of the assassination, Hosty said.

The Warren Commission concluded Oswald traveled to Mexico City and visited the Cuban and Soviet embassies in an attempt to get a visa to Russia.

Hosty said at least one of four documents removed from the Dallas file on the afternoon of the assassination was checked out by his supervisor, Kenneth C. Howe.

Howe, retired and living in San Diego, Calif., said he has "no recollection of anything like that."

Howe said anything taken from the file "certainly would be in connection with business and not surreptitiously."

Hosty testified before the Senate Intelligence Committee in 1975 about the material that had been taken from the file, but the testimony remains classified, he said.

Montana Joins 'Silicon Hunt'

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — A six-member delegation that included Lt. Gov.-elect George Turman returned during the weekend from California's "Silicon Valley," determined to try to lure small, high-technology industry to Montana.

"Montana can attract clean, high-technology industry," read the opening line of a brief report composed on the airplane by tour leader John Badgley, president of Missoula's Institute of the Rockies.

The members of the group had seen the report and, with one exception, concurred. Others on the tour were Missoula County Commissioner Germaine Conrad; Don Leuschen, Missoula division manager of the Montana Power Co.; Kalispell real estate broker Larry Lee; Kent Harris, vice president of a Missoula economic development corporation; and Mike Morigeau, an economic planner for the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes of the Flathead Reservation near here.

The statement said tour members were convinced during their tour of computer design and assembly plants near San Jose that Montana could recruit that type of industry to provide new jobs.

Only Morigeau reserved judgment, saying his job was to report to the tribal council, not to reach conclusions.

"We recommend recruiting smaller (electronics) assembly and design plants as both feasible and desirable," the others said in their statement. "There is immediate need to educate the Montana public and the industry management of our interest."

The group called on Democratic Gov.-elect Ted Schwinden to declare the state's interest in the industry, prepare a brochure to circulate to industry executives, and lead a high-level visit to the San Jose area after the 1981 Legislature. The statement urged economic development groups to raise money from private sources to back the recruiting effort.

The Montana entourage arrived in San Jose late Thursday, spent 14 hours Friday touring electronics plants and visiting industry executives, and returned to Missoula Saturday.

The San Jose area has hundreds of electronics plants — many making the silicon-based computer chips that give the area its nickname — and dozens of companies are looking for expansion sites, the Montanans said.

"We were told we are starting from zero," Turman said. "Montana was not in their corporate plans, judging by those we met. It was more of a case of them not thinking about Montana at all, rather than having rejected it."

The Montanans learned that competition for the clean, high-paying technology firms is fierce. An executive of a Honeywell subsidiary said the Montana group was the 26th such delegation he has met.

The San Jose Mercury reported recently that North Carolina Gov. James Hunt met with 75 industry executives to woo their business.

TIME FOR FUMIGATING TOBACCO BEDS...Now is the time of year for fumigating tobacco beds, according to Roger Cobb, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Agent. "If you haven't already done it," said Cobb, "it should be done in the very near future before the soil temperature gets too cold. Many farmers in the county have already fumigated their beds and those who haven't are encouraged to get it done." The beds are fumigated with methyl bromide and then covered with plastic to prevent the gas from escaping. In the photo above, Ray Hardee gets it all done at once with a rig that distributes the liquid (which turns into gas when it goes into the ground), then covers the bed with plastic, sealing the edges. The beds should be well-graded, level, and free of debris from the year before when fumigating is done. Treating tobacco beds with methyl bromide prevents interference from many weeds and pests in next year's crop. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

National Peanut Crop Quota Is Set At 1.4 Million Short Tons

Secretary of Argiculture Bob Bergland has set the national poundage quota for 1981-crop peanuts at 1,440,000 short tons — the minimum required by law — and a national acreage allotment of 1,739,000 acres, about eight percent above the statutory minimum in effect for the 1980 crop.

"We estimate an increase in the acreage allotment of about 125,000 acres will be necessary to provide an adequate supply for meeting export requirements and ensuring a reasonable carryover," Bergland said. "However, because 1980-crop undermarketings are expected to increase the effective poundage quota in 1981 about 5 percent above the 1980 crop poundage quota, we expect the supply of quota peanuts to be 139,000 tons above domestic edible requirements. Thus, we have little choice but to announce the minimum poundage quota," he said.

In the peanut program, a farmer who produces less than the farm's poundage quota in one year (an undermarketing) is allowed to "overmarket" the following year.

Bergland also directed that a peanut marketing quota referendum for 1981, 1982 and 1983 crops be held by mail ballot during December 8-11, 1980.

Under the peanut price support program, farms are assigned an acreage allotment and poundage qouta, and only peanuts grown on allotted acerage are eligible for price support.

There are two levels of price support, one for "quota" peanuts and another lower level for "additional" peanuts. Peanuts grown on allotted acres and within the farm's poundage quota are considered "quota" peanuts. Those grown on allotted acres, but in excess of the farm's quota, are "additional" peanuts.

For example, a farmer who has a 10-acre peanut allotment could have a quota of 18,600 pounds which would be eligible for price support at the "quota" level. If the farmer actually produced 24,500 pounds of peanuts on the 10 acres, the additional 5,900 pounds would be eligible for price support at the lower "additional" level.

Loan rates for both quota and additional peanuts will be announced no later than February 15, 1981. For the 1980 crop, quota peanuts are supported at $455 per ton and additional peanuts at $250 per ton.

If marketing quotas are approved by two-thirds or more of the peanut producers voting in the December referendum, the quotas will be in effect for the peanuts produced in crop years 1981, 1982 and 1983.

Agency Wants REA Changes

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional watchdog agency is calling for some major changes in the Rural Electrification Administration, including more private financing and more careful planning.

The General Accounting Office, in a recent report, also said the REA can do more to help solve the nation's energy needs.

"REA's primary role as a banker may need to be changed to fully realize this potential," the report said. "However, REA could help solve energy problems without such a change through improved power system planning."

The Agriculture Department said it is opposed to some of the primary changes urged by the GAO, particularly those calling for private credit involvement in the program.

The REA last year approved $5.43 billion in guaranteed loans to power suppliers and an additional $50 million in insured loans.

The New Deal-era agency has played a major role in bringing electricity to the nation's farmers.

There are more than 1,000 members in the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, providing power to more than 25 million customers in 46 states.

But the GAO said the federal law should be changed to provide some private financing and some sharing of the credit risk by borrowers.

The auditing agency said that as of the end of last year the REA had guaranteed $16.7 billion in loans in its history and that figure could exceed $200 billion in another 15 to 20 years.

"While REA borrowers' repayment record is excellent, such loans are not risk-free," the GAO said.

Some of the risk could be shared by reducing the government guarantee from its current 100 percent, the report said. It suggested 90 percent might be appropriate.

Also, the GAO proposed that a fee be charged to borrowers, the utility companies, to create a fund in case of losses.

The National Rural Electric Cooperative Association joined the Agriculture Department in opposing both ideas.

The association's executive vice president, Robert D. Partridge, said, "there's an old adage: 'If it works, don't fix it.' The GAO has failed to make any case whatsoever for meddling with what is truly one of the most successful programs ever devised by government."

The association also challenged the GAO's related proposal to restrict involvement in the REA of the Federal Financing Bank, a government corporation that gets all its money from the Treasury Department.

"Alternative credit sources are available to power suppliers, including their own financing organization," the GAO said. "Although such financing will be at somewhat higher interest rates, REA must move borrowers in this direction to avoid placing the entire financing burden on the U.S. Treasury."

Alternative financing also would insure that money would be available to the utility companies in case the government is unable or unwilling to finance their development and expansion, the GAO added.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES
Cnty. Ext. Chariman

Liming acid soils can boost yields and profits on most farms. Soil acidity — or low soil PH is one of the worst sneak thieves in the sun and soybean fields. Every year the problem steals bushels and dollars right out from under our noses. Yet many bean growers look at the cost of liming and say, "It just doesn't pay" or "I can get by one more year, then I'll lime." Putting off liming can be one of the most costly mistakes you could make. We can raise average soybean yields in North Carolina by five bushels per acre. There's no catch, all that a farmer has to do is use lime. In three years, yield in the state would average 29 bushels per acre instead of the 24 to 25 that have been typical in the past. It's just hard for me to see why farmers won't spend $20 - $25 on lime to get $40 - $60 back in added soybean profits. The best time to lime is in the fall. But it's never too late! If you wait to lime at planting time, you'll get at least half the value of liming this year. By next year, you'll be up to full value.

Molybdenum is needed by the soil bacteria that convert nitrogen into a usable form. When PH is low, molybdenum is less available. If soil PH is above 5.5, molybdenum as a seed treatment can partially substitute for lime. Even when molybdenum treatment is used, however, phosphorus utilization is still restricted, and yields can still be cut on soils low in available phosphorus.

Don't overlime soils; however, this is sometimes easy to do on sandy soils. As the soil PH gets above 7.0, availability on phosphorus and micronutrients such as zinc, iron, maganese, and copper is reduced.

Receive Awards For 4-H Work

A large group of parents and volunteers were present Monday night, December 1 to witness 71 per-4-H'ers receive awards for project work completes during 1980.

Pre-4-H'ers, from the ages of six to eightyears, received certificates and ribbons on their project work in the areas of forestry, home improvement, money, clothing, energy, gardening, family relations, crafts, and reading.

Four pre-4-H'ers received blue ribbons indicating outstanding work. They are Jeff Garzik, Derrick Ried, Letecia Moye, and Jalayne Shelor.

Dr. Mel Markowski, Child Development and Family Relations Professor from East Carolina University presented a program to the adults on parenting principles. The group were involved in group activities pertaining to the holiday season.

Special guests at the awards program were Leroy James, Pitt County Extension Chairman, and Sheilda McDowell and Dr. D.H. McAfee, Extension personnel from A & T State University in Greensboro.

Pre-4-H is a special youth development program available to Pitt County boys and girls from the ages of six to eight years. The youth are involved in similar club activities as regular 4-H club members. They meet monthly in local club groups that are located either in homes or in the school building after school hours.

Dale Panaro, Pitt Co. 4-H Agent, and Annie Suggs, Pre-4-H Program Assistant presented the awards to the youth. Panaro indicated that the pre-4-H program has grown considerably in the two years it has been available to Pitt County youth and that the program will continue through 1981 with efforts to expand.

Offer Licensing Class Dec. 16

There will be a Private Applicator's Licensing Class offered by Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service December 16 at 6 p.m. The meeting will be held in room 201 of the County Office Building on West Fifth Street in Greenville.

The participants in this class will be certified to purchase restricted use pesticides. Pesticides that are classified as restricted use cannot be purchased without a private applicator's license.

To register for this class contact Sam Uzzell at the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office, 758-1196.

Peanut Vote To Be Held

Peanut growers have an oportunity from December 8-11 to demonstrate their support of the peanut marketing quotas. Results of the referendum will determine whether marketing quotas will be continued for the period 1981-1983.

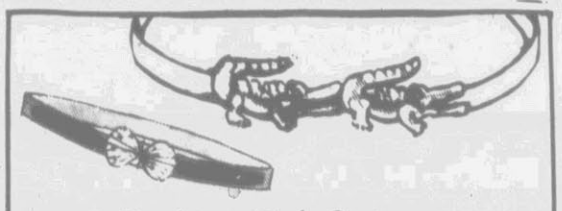

The peanut growers' vote this year will be more important then ever before. The outcome may exert considerable influence upon lawmakers writing the 1981 farm bill. It will also affect USDA policymakers.

According to the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association, peanuts are a significant food crop and a sound peanut program is essential to the future of the crop. The peanut program benefits the growers, processors, manufacturers and consumers.

UNC Press Survives 58 Years Of Struggle

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The South's oldest book-publishing firm is alive and well after 58 years of struggle.

Born in the 1920s, an era when books about the South were unpopular subjects for university presses, the University of North Carolina Press has survived and is growing.

The press recently dedicated an $800,000 office and warehouse building and has tripled its publication program in the last seven years. Some 60 new titles are published each year, and sales surpass $1 million annually.

But much of today's financial success is caused by the faith and support of its financial backers, foundations, individual patrons and the university itself, according to director Matthew Hodgson.

"No university press can be self-sustaining — no good press that is doing what it is supposed to, anyway," Hodgson said.

"A university press has a mandate to publish primarily scholarship and books that commercial publishers find unprofitable. Some university presses have gone commercial, and some that have a lot of capital and can compete with the commercial houses are going for large readership. But I'm skeptical of that. I think we are here to serve."

Much of Hodgson's time is spent in seeking financial support, but he says it helps "that we believe in what we're doing."

"One advantage we have is our prestige. We've had a glorious history. For our size and the problems we have, we ought not be one of the best university presses in the country, but we are," he said.

Hodgson has found much of the money needed from foundations in New York, but some of it has come from home.

"This is an unusual state," he explained. "People who have done well here are inward-looking. They are't the type to move to Miami Beach and blow all their money there. They back things that are local and in which they are in interested."

Hodgson said the press has had problems from its beginning in 1922.

"It was important at that time that a sober, solid approach to the problems of the South was being carried out by indigenous Southerners and by a Southern press," he said. "We are still a better publisher for regional books than are the New York houses because we promote our regional books better and we keep them in stock longer."

He said the press was ahead of its time in publishing important books about the South, coming at a time when the region was open to criticism from the rest of the nation, and about blacks.

"We were publishing books about blacks when no one else was doing it. We still do books that trade publishers don't want," Hodgson said.

Hodgson said he thrives on the challenge of running the press.

"It would be easy as hell to be director of Yale's press. It has a huge endowment, affluent alumni and the best faculty in the world. Here it's a struggle every year," he said.

Helms Backs Disabled S.C. Vet For VA Post

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — A disabled war veteran from South Carolina who has become an evangelist has won the support of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., as a candidate to head the Veterans Administration.

Helms said during the weekend he has recommended former Marine Lt. Cleburn McClary III, who lost an eye and his left arm in Vietnam, for the job. Cleburn was an assistant football coach at the University of South Carolina before he joined the Marines in 1967.

Helms also said Cleburn had the support of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., but Thurmond later said he favored Rufus Wilson, a VA official since the Nixon administration.

Cleburn spoke in Asheboro and Fayetteville during the weekend. He was not available for comment about the VA position. Sources said he had been instructed not to discuss a possible appointment.

Helms, calling Cleburn "a splendid fellow and a certified hero," said he believes the South Carolina native also is the first choice of Sen. Paul Laxalt, the Nevada Republican who managed the Reagan campaign.

A source close to McClary said Lynchburg, Va., evangelist Jerry Falwell had met with Reagan transition director Ed Meese to discuss the possible appointment. McClary, who has headed Clebe McClary Ministries since 1971, has worked with Falwell and his "Moral Majority" occasionally.

As a second lieutenant, McClary received the Bronze Star, three Purple Hearts and the Silver Star.

He worked as a probation officer for two years before founding McClary Ministries. He has worked several evangelists, including Falwell and Clyde Dupin of Kernersville.

McClary, married with two daughters, also works as a motivational speaker to most of the National Football League teams and the U.S. Marine Corps. Island to head the U.S. Veterans Administration.

Thurmond said Sunday that he is committed to supporting Wilson, now deputy administrator, for the VA's top position.

Asked about his support for McClary during a birthday party for him in Columbia, S.C, Thurmond said he might have pushed McClary but had committed to Wilson before he knew McClary was interested in the job.

Thurmond said he is now committed to see that McClary is named deputy administrator.

Wilson, who has been deputy administrator of the VA since 1977, "probably knows more about veterans' affairs than anybody in the country," Thurmond said.

Wilson, 55, of Sweetwater, Tenn., joined the VA in 1955 and served in a variety of posts until the deputy administratorship. He served in the Marines during World War II and is active in handicapped organizations and veterans groups.

Test Finished By Solar Plane

MARANA, Ariz. (AP) — The solar-powered airplane Solar Challenger has completed a round of inaugural flights that should help prepare for a Paris-to-London flight planned for June, the plane's designers say.

In six days of flights at Marana Air Park, the plane never completed a planned 63-mile flight over the desert. But designer Paul McCready said the long-distance flight turned out to be unnecessary.

"It wouldn't have taught us anymore than we've already learned in the last few days," MacCready said. "We know it flies a long distance on solar power."

A sixth attempt was made Sunday to complete the 63-mile flight. But trouble continued with the plane's propeller pitch control and related equipment, and MacCready said he wanted to consider some changes before more flying.

"This is not the best place for us to do a lot of modifications on the plane, so we're not going to do any more flying now," he said.

He said he was "mildly disappointed" that the long-distance flight had not been made, but he said the plane had performed better than he expected.

The craft's 47-foot wingspan and the stabilizer are covered with 16,000 solar cells, which gather sunlight and convert it to electricity for the 2.7-horsepower motor, which turns the propeller.

MacCready, an aeronautics specialist from Pasadena, Calif., said the Challenger still is scheduled to fly from Paris to London in June.

With pilot Janice L. Brown of Bakersfield, Calif., at the stick, the Challenger set altitude, distance and longevity records for human-occupied solar-powered flight last week.

On Saturday, Mrs. Brown flew the plane nearly 15 miles, keeping it up one hour and 55 minutes before being forced down by cloudy weather.

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 12-8

IMHBM INHBI OV ROAV YBINVA YBHOR

Saturday's Cryptoquip — JUNE IN JANUARY IS CLEARLY NOT CONSIDERED A HEALTHY SITUATION.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals S

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Georgia Democrats Won't Ask Carter

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Democrats have decided against asking Jimmy Carter to address their Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner next year, after he turns the White House over to Ronald Reagan, state Democratic Party Chairman Marge Thurman says.

"His role at the J-J dinner will not be in the capacity of a speaker," Ms. Thurman said Sunday, "and whether or not he should be honored at that time is being discussed."

Former Gov. Carl Sanders, who lost a bitter gubernatorial primary battle to Carter 10 years ago, said the March dinner "ought to be a celebration, not a wake."

Sanders said Carter "ought to be recognized and honored, but he should not be the main speaker" at the $100-a-plate dinner to raise funds for the state party.

Mrs. Thurman said the list of possible speakers prepared by the party's executive committee Friday includes Govs. Jim Hunt of North Carolina, John Y. Brown of Kentucky and Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia.

Although Carter has been invited to speak at the annual dinner for the past four years, he has not addressed the state Democratic Party since its charter convention in Macon in 1975, when he was running for president.

Mrs. Thurman also said that Gov. George Busbee will meet with Carter this month to discuss the president's return to Georgia after his term expires.

One plan proposed for Carter's homecoming would involve a tribute in Atlanta on Jan. 20, after Ronald Reagan's inauguration, said Democratic Executive Committee member Bob Shuford.

The Legislature would be in session that day, Shuford said, and "we can generate a crowd — get people out on the sidewalks waving — and then he could address the Legislature as a former governor and president."

Movie Executives Defend Casual Practices In Wheeling-Dealing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In the hectic world of Hollywood business dealings, millions are often committed by memos of agreement, handshakes and lots of faith — even as the cameras roll and before any contracts are drawn up.

Such practices were criticized by the district attorney last week as "shoddy," but industry spokesmen defend them as "necessary" to the "unique" business of entertainment.

Los Angeles County District Attorney John Van de Kamp leveled his criticism in announcing that a long investigation had failed to produce evidence that Spelling-Goldberg Productions tried to defraud its partners on the hit ABC-TV series "Charlie's Angels."

A former ABC contracts attorney, citing verbal agreements and payments without adequate authorization, had accused the producers of diverting up to $1 million in payments intended for "Angels" to another Spelling-Goldberg series, "Starsky & Hutch."

"The investigation raised serious questions of impropriety which have been partially resolved," said Van de Kamp, adding that Spelling-Goldberg and ABC brought the "shady dealings" charges on themselves.

"When you deal in large sums of moneys in an almost casual way with little documentation or record-keeping to detail major decisions," he said, "it seems almost inevitable that, in the least, misunderstandings will occur, or suspicions will be aroused, and that, on occasion, claims of misappropriation will also arise."

But entertainment attorney Tom Pollock, whose firm represents such stars as Sylvester Stallone and George Lucas, said "casual" practices were the nature of the industry.

"This is a business where some agent brings a script and a director and star to a studio on Friday and the studio says, yes, they want to start shooting two weeks later," Pollock said. "So the money has to start flowing, you have to go immediately, there's no time to plan.

"There's just so many deals (being) talked about that there is no way to get everything signed until the movie goes forward," he said. "It is not really in anybody's interest to have that, yet that's how the industry functions. It functions a lot on handshakes.

"Those are really the shoddy business practices that I think are being referred to, and I don't see it as shoddy. I see it as necessary by this industry. It is unique to this business."

The allegations against Spelling-Goldberg by attorney Jennifer Martin said that so-called relief payments, or increases in licensing fees because of cost overruns, to "Starsky" for 1976-79, were really meant to defraud "Angels" husband-wife profit participants Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner and others.

The producers said the extra "Starsky" money was paid back through increased licensing fees ABC paid on the "Angels" show.

Pollock said one source of misunderstanding over film and TV projects is that the definition of "profits" favors the studios and networks.

"If a studio finances a film for $4 million and they take in $5 million, the average person would think that the studios made a million dollars in profits," he said. "But that's not what the contracts say."

Many contracts allow studios to figure such items as "rolling break-even," "advertising liabilities," "reserves for foreign taxes," "account guarantees as income when paid rather than when earned" and "royalty income."

"So when the statements come in and they say this film cost $5 million and the studio's taken in $20 million and it still shows that they're $4 million in deficit, they think that there's something dishonest going on," says Pollock. "(But) by and large there is no dishonesty in the movie industry with the major studios. Why do they have to be dishonest? They've defined the profits out of existence; there's no need for dishonesty."

Gordon Stulberg, chief operating officer of Polygram Pictures and a former president of 20th Century-Fox, said the studios are honest but calculating.

Unless a star, director or producer has the clout to demand a percentage of the gross deal, says Stulberg, the so-called profit-participant, in his haste to strike a deal at any cost, will get the studio's standard definition of profits.

"He wants to make the picture; he wants to get the financing, and he says, 'Get me my fee and I'll worry about profit later.' Then the picture hits. And now the accounting statements come in and he starts looking at what's deducted from gross receipts. He starts screaming, 'Nobody ever told me all of this would be taken off,'" Stulberg said.

"So when you see all this ... that the studios manhandle the profits, hide them, put them away," he added, "in 99 percent of the cases ... what really happens is the participant begins to scream because the definition of net profits, which he really never paid attention to when he made the deal, comes back to haunt him."

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

The annual Christmas pageant program will be performed in the South Greenville School auditorium Tuesday, December 9 at 7:30. The Christmas pageant is an annual event directed by Mrs. Boyd with performances by the sixth graders of South Greenville School. There will be a short business meeting prior to the performance and refreshments will be served after in the auditorium. All parents, teachers and friends of South Greenville School are urged to attend.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1980 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠872 ♡K6 ◇A10752 ♣J93
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass 1 NT Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?

A. — Partner's reopening double shows a hand close to an opening bid and reasonable defensive values. With 8 HCPs, you know that your side has half the high cards in the deck. In addition, you will be on lead against one no trump doubled, and a diamond from your five-card suit could prove devastating. Pass.

Q.2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠92 ♡AK1063 ◇854 ♣K87
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♡ 1 ♠
1 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A. — Partner must have a solid opening bid. After all, he rebid one no trump freely, despite the fact that you might have only five or six points for you response. Since you have a near opening bid, a five-card suit and a key card in partner's suit, we would bite the bullet and raise to three no trump. Two no trump is acceptable opposite an aggressive partner, but take a demerit if you bid some number of hearts, which shows an unbalanced hand.

Q.3 — As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠7543 ♡K10 ◇AJ6 ♣AK98
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♡ Pass
What do you bid now?

A. — The auction has developed awkwardly. Certainly you cannot rebid three clubs with a four-card suit, and a reverse of three diamonds could propel the auction to an uncomfortable level. You cannot bid no trump without a spade stopper, so the only option open is to raise partner's suit. Since partner introduced hearts at the two-level, he must have at least a five-card suit. You honor doubleton, therefore, is adequate support. Bid three hearts.

Q.4 — Both vulnerable, as South with 70 on score you hold:
♠AKJ10972 ♡AJ8 ◇K6 ♣3
What is your opening bid?

A. — This is a case where we would relax our criteria for an opening demand bid. In view of the part score, partner might elect to pass one spade with fair values, hoping to lure the opponents into the auction. We would open two spades and tread lightly thereafter. This action is unlikely to get us overboard, and may make it easy to reach a laydown slam.

Q.5 — Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A6 ♡K9 ◇AKJ872 ♣QJ5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ◇ Pass 2 NT Pass
What do you bid now?

A. — Your side has a combined high-card point count of at least 31, and possibly as much as 33. But points can't describe the tremendous trick-taking possibilities of your hand. Partner may be aceless, but we are willing to take that risk and leap straight to six no trump. No other bid does your hand justice.

Q.6 — Neither vulnerable, as West you hold:
♠Q10852 ♡72 ◇J53 ♣J102
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♡ 1 NT Pass 3 NT
Pass Pass Pass
What is your opening lead?

A. — Even though no trump was bid directly over partner's one heart opening bid, don't even consider any lead other than a heart. Partner should have a reasonable holding to open the bidding in the suit. The drawback with a spade lead is that you might set up your long cards, then have no entry to cash your winners. In the process you could give declarer the tempo he needs to land the contract.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 9, 1980

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day for deciding the policies and the tenets under which you would like to operate in the days ahead, so think them out with care. You can gain much success as a result.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study new ideas that could lead to advancement in your line of endeavor. Enjoy the company of close ties tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't criticize a close tie at this time or there could be a severance of connections. Don't rely on your intuition today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get excellent results if you are more supportive of associates. Maintain your poise at all times today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get an early start on work ahead of you and gain benefits. Be more cooperative with fellow workers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Figure out a practical way that could give you added security in the days ahead. Follow the advice of a financial expert.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You know exactly how to improve conditions at home, so don't waste any time. Show more devotion to loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Gain the cooperation of close ties for gaining a personal aim. Steer clear of one who has an eye on your assets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Analyze personal aspects of your life and figure out the best way to improve them. Not a good day for taking risks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Daytime hours are best for pursuing personal aims. Obtain the information you need from the right sources.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Morning is best spent handling career matters. A new plan needs more study before you put it in operation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A business matter could cause you to worry early in the day but later it turns out fine. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Morning is fine for handling civic matters. In the afternoon influential persons can help you advance in career matters.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will easily comprehend varying schools of philosophies which could lead to a most successful life. Teach not be be so overly independent and to become more interested in humanities. There is musical talent here.

Wake Official Is Found Dead

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Raleigh jewelry store owner Jim Jefferies, who was sworn last week as a Wake County commissioner, was found dead Sunday of what authorities said was a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Raleigh police said Jefferies' body was found in the jewelry store in downtown Raleigh. He had been reported missing from his home since early Sunday morning.

Dr. Laurin Kaasa, the Wake County medical examinaer, ruled that Jefferies died of a self-inflicted wound to the head.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE
G R WHITFIELD SCHOOL RC&D MEASURE, NORTH CAROLINA

AGENCY: Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture

ACTION: Notice of a Finding of No Significant Impact

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Jesse L. Hicks, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Room 544, Federal Building, 310 New Bern Avenue, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611, telephone 919 755-4210.

NOTICE: Pursuant to Section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the Council on Environmental Quality Guidelines (40 CFR Part 1500); and the Soil Conservation Service Guidelines, (7 CFR Part 650); the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, gives notice that an environmental impact statement is not being prepared for the G.R. Whitfield School RC&D Measure, Pitt County, North Carolina.

The environmental assessment of this Federal action indicates that the project will not cause significant local, regional, or national impacts on the environment. As a result of these findings, Mr. Jesse L. Hicks, State Conservationist, has determined that the preparation and review of an environmental impact statement are not needed for this project.

The measure concerns a plan for reducing flooding and for improving drainage on the school grounds. The planned works of improvement include installing catch basins, pipes, subsurface drainage tubing and renovating an open ditch. Grading and shaping will be done to improve surface drainage and to eliminate ponding. All disturbed areas will be seeded with adapted permanent vegetation.

The Notice of a Finding of No Significant Impact (FNSI) has been forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency. The basic data developed during the environmental assessment are on file and may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Jesse L. Hicks, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Room 544, Federal Building, 310 New Bern Avenue, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611, 919-755-4210. The FNSI has been sent to various Federal, State and local agencies and interested parties. A limited number of copies of the FNSI are available to fill single copy requests at the above address.

Implementation of the proposal will not be initiated until 30 days after the date of this publication.

WILSON ACRES
Passive Solar Design
"The Most Apartment For Your Rental Dollar"
The "true" cost of your apartment each month includes not only rent but also your monthly utilities. Wilson Acres Apartments are Greenville's newest. Because of energy saving design features such as heat pumps, thermal pane glass, insulated doors and extra insulation throughout, your monthly utility bill will be considerably less than most apartments in Greenville.
Add your monthly rent at Wilson Acres to your greatly reduced monthly utility bill at Wilson Acres and we think it's the most apartment for your rental dollar.
New 2 bedroom apartments. ENERGY EFFICIENT with washer/dryer hook-ups, dishwasher, frost-free refrigerator, self-cleaning oven, Cable TV hook-ups, heat pumps, tennis, pool, saunas, laundry and club house facilities, ample parking, 3 blocks from ECU, $295 per month.
When you're looking for living affordably, can you afford not to look at the energy efficient townhouses at Wilson Acres?
752-0277 evenings 6-10 p.m. and weekends call 756-2766.

CAROLINA TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

NOTICE OF HEARING DOCKET NO P-7, SUB 652

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, Tarboro, North Carolina, has made application to the North Carolina Utilities Commission for authority to adjust its rates and charges for telephone service to its North Carolina subscribers. Carolina proposes in its application to increase its gross annual revenues approximately $25.5 million. The proposed changes in rates, charges and regulations would affect virtually all local services provided by the Applicant.

BASIC LOCAL SERVICE

The present and proposed rates for basic local service are shown below along with the amounts of the requested increases. The present rates include the provision of one standard telephone set per main station line. The proposed rates consist of separate rates for the telephone set and for the main station line. The telephone set rate would apply in addition to the proposed main station line rate when Carolina provides the telephone set. Only the main station line rate would apply if the customer chooses to furnish his own telephone set. Both the present and the proposed rates include the basic and Extended Area Service components.
