McHenry Is Also Brzezinski Critic

By O.C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry has criticized Zbigniew Brzezinski for assuming too big a role in foreign policy. It was the second attack on the national security adviser this week by an official of the outgoing Carter administration.

"You can have only one secretary of state," McHenry said in an interview Wednesday with The Associated Press. He said Brzezinski spoke out when he "shouldn't have" and sent "mixed signals" on the Carter administration's foreign policy.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, also criticized Brzezinski, characterizing him as a "second-rate thinker."

Hodding Carter compared Brzezinski to a "rat-terrier" who would "begin nipping at Vance's ankles" the moment the former secretary articulated a policy decision.

Brzezinski's spokesman said Tuesday that the national security adviser had no comment on Hodding Carter's article and neither Brzezinski nor the spokesman could be reached for reaction to the latest criticism from McHenry.

Turning to the incoming Reagan administration, McHenry conceded he knew very little about Secretary of State-designate Alexander M. Haig Jr. "He is, however, identified with a school of thought and has had very little experience with areas outside of Europe and Southeast Asia," McHenry said.

Referring to the president-elect's foreign policy advisers, McHenry expressed concern about what he called "globalists" or people who view the world from Cold War era perspectives and fail to give proper weight to social, political and economic problems in developing nations.

McHenry said black Africans are concerned that the incoming administration may be less sympathetic than Carter's. Some Carter administration critics claim it was too "Third World-oriented," citing in particular McHenry and his predecessor, Andrew Young, who are black.

McHenry, whose resignation as chief delegate to the United Nations takes effect Jan. 19, said he thought Washington was slowing its Middle East peace effort by refusing to deal directly with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"I personally believe that you can never solve a problem by refusing to talk with those whose position or actions will have an important bearing on the solution to the question," he said.

McHenry, 44, succeeded Young in September 1979, after the latter had an unauthorized meeting with a representative of the PLO. In contrast to Young, McHenry, a foreign service veteran, has gained a reputation for prudence and restraint.

Jordan Press Reports A Syrian Massacre Of 200

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The state-run Petra news agency of Jordan, a foe of Syria, claimed today that Syrian security forces herded 200 people into a public square in the northern Syrian city of Aleppo and shot them all to death for alleged aid to anti-government Moslem Brotherhood guerrillas.

There was no immediate comment on the report from Syria.

Petra quoted travelers arriving in Jordan from neighboring Syria as saying the mass execution took place in Aleppo's public square of Masharka last week.

The Petra report said the alleged victims of the "dreadful Masharka massacre" were rounded up by units from Syria's "special forces" and "defense regiments" on a charge of helping the Brotherhood guerrillas.

Both security forces are headed by Col. Rifaat Assad, the younger brother of Syria's president, Hafez Assad, whose pro-Moscow socialist party has been the main target of Brotherhood attacks.

Petra did not say whether the alleged victims were executed together or in small groups. It identified one victim as Prof. Abdulrazak Marour of the engineering faculty at Aleppo University.

Unconfirmed reports in July said an attempt was made by Brotherhood prisoners to break out of jail in the town of Palmyra in central Syria. Troops surrounded the jail and killed more than 500 inmates, the reports said.

Jordan and Syria have been locked in a war of words over Syrian charges that Jordan's King Hussein allowed Brotherhood guerrillas to train on Jordanian territory for anti-government bombings and assassinations in Syria.

Syria deployed 50,000 troops and hundreds of tanks on the frontier with Jordan in late November. Hussein denied he was aiding the Brotherhood and rushed 30,000 of his own soldiers to the border along with hundreds of tanks. Both sides withdrew their forces several weeks ago, but tensions still persist.

More than 60 Syrian military cadets were killed by Brotherhood guerrillas in Aleppo in the summer of 1979, when the current wave of violence began in Syria.

Several months ago, the Syrian Parliament passed a law making membership in the Brotherhood a crime punishable by death. The army was called out to help crack down the group and a Syrian armored division was stationed in Aleppo, 200 miles north of Damascus, the Syrian capital.

On Saturday, Darwish Zouni, a member of Syria's ruling coalition was assassinated in Damascus, and on Monday and Tuesday Syrian security forces stormed hideouts and killed eight members of the Brotherhood.

The Brotherhood advocates a social order based on the dictates of the Koran, Islam's holy book. It resents Assad's socialist policies which culminated in a 20-year treaty of friendship and cooperation between Syria and the Soviet Union last November.

Among the more than 200 Assad supporters killed by Brotherhood bombs and assassins in the past two years were three Soviet advisers in Damascus.

Algerians Back In Tehran With Reply On Hostages

By The Associated Press
The Algerian intermediaries in the hostage crisis arrived in Tehran today and handed over the U.S. reply to Iran's demand for $24 billion, Western reporters in the Iranian capital said. There was no immediate comment from Iranian officials.

A leading Iranian clergyman said, meanwhile, that Iran should stop bargaining over the 52 Americans and put them on trial like any other criminals because they are spies, not hostages.

The three Algerian intermediaries were met at Tehran Airport by representatives of Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and later turned over the U.S. reply to officials directly concerned with the hostages seized 14 months ago, the reporters said.

The Algerians declined to speak with the correspondents.

Informed Washington sources said the U.S. reply offers to deposit about $12 billion of Iranian assets in an escrow account in a neutral country, presumably Algeria, and that Iran could claim the funds once the hostages are released.

President Carter said the American response contained "reasonable proposals" and said, "I think it would be to the advantage of the Iranians — certainly to the advantage of the United States and the hostages — if they would accept what we have proposed."

However, Carter has little more than two weeks left in his administration to settle the issue, and most observers saw little chance of the crisis being resolved before President-elect Ronald Reagan takes office Jan. 20.

The Washington Post reported today that the U.S. response gives Iran until Jan. 16 to accept the proposals. The Post said official sources described the date "not as an ultimatum but 'simply a fact of life.'" The sources said Iranian acceptance by Jan. 16 would give the Carter administration time to implement the proposals before going out of office.

The Iranian Parliament decided two months ago the hostages would be freed if the U.S. government returned the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, released $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen in U.S. banks, cancelled pending lawsuits against Iran and pledged not to interfere in Iran's affairs.

Last week, Iran said the United States had to deposit $24 billion in the Algerian Central Bank before the hostages could be freed. But Iran's chief hostage negotiator said early this week a U.S. counterproposal on the money would be accepted if the Algerians went along with it.

On Thursday, a leading Iranian clergyman, Ayatollah Allameh Wahya

Noori said documents found when the Americans and the U.S. Embassy in Tehran were seized 426 days ago provided proof that the captives had been engaged in espionage.

Noori said there was no provision in Islamic law for ransom, criticized the government for demanding $24 billion, and said Iran's demand for a U.S. pledge not to interfere in Iran's affairs was "like asking a scorpion not to bite."

His statements appeared in the Tehran Times as Tehran Radio said with the U.S. "final reply" being handed over to the Algerian intermediaries, "it looks as if the matter is somehow nearing its end."

The broadcast said, "One ought to wait and see what it contains and to what extent it meets Iran's legitimate demands."

But it said if these demands were not accepted, "There would be no option but to put the hostages on trial," as Rajai and Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani have said.

The broadcast made no mention of executions if the hostages were found guilty, a threat raised in a Tehran Radio commentary on Wednesday.

Into Spotlight

EMERGES — Hu Yaobang, a reformer at the center of efforts to rebuild Communist Party prestige in China, emerged Thursday in the leading position. Diplomatic sources and the official news agency Xinhua reported that Hu presided over the Party Central Committee's New Year's celebration virtually confirming the fall of Chairman Hua Guofeng, who was not even mentioned. RESPONSE GOOD

Response to the recent Hotline appeal for contributions to help furnish the Pitt County Memorial Hospital bed tower now under construction was good — "very good" — according to Herb Bailey, PCMH Director of Community Relations and Development. Bailey reminded, once again, that he is available for free speaking engagements about the needs of the hospital. His phone number is 757-4869.

ALIEN ADDRESS REPORT

The Immigration and Naturalization Service of the U. S. Department of Justice has asked the Hotline to remind aliens that they must report their addresses to the U. S. government during January. Alien address report forms may be obtained at any U. S. Post Office. Alien children under 14 must have a parent or guardian fill out forms for them. Disabled aliens can have friends or relatives obtain forms for them.

Nine-Digit ZIP Plan Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, bowing to congressional pressure, today postponed until June 1 the start of a new, nine-digit ZIP code intended to save millions of dollars in costs of handling business mail.

Use of the nine-digit code was supposed to have begun in February. The Senate voted unanimously last month to order a delay until June 1, while allowing the Postal Service to buy computerized equipment and make efficiency studies of the new system, but the amendment was dropped in the final version of the legislation to which it was attached.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said the delay was "consistent" with the Senate action and reflected a desire to make sure "that we exercise all due caution in instituting this important and far-reaching development."

The new, longer ZIP code would improve the efficiency of mail deliveries and hold down rising costs by directing mail beyond a local post office to a letter carrier's route, postal officials contend.

Bolger said the nine-digit ZIP code is aimed primarily at high-volume business mailers, who account for 80 percent of the 105 billion pieces of mail the service handles annually. He estimates the longer code would save $600 million a year when it is fully in effect in 1987.

Bolger said the delay will give the service additional time to try to inform the public about the benefits of the new system, which will be voluntary with no penalty for non-use.

He said incentives for business mailers, possibly including rate and mail classification changes, will be proposed in March. The change is opposed by the National Federation of Independent Businesses, which cites the cost of revising mailing lists.

During the floor debate that preceded the Senate's 90-0 vote for a delay in instituting the new system, Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, predicted the nine-digit code would be "the 1981 version of the Susan B. Anthony dollar," a coin that has failed to win public acceptance.

Chocolate Cake Wins Praise

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: We had a wonderful dessert at a restaurant. It was a chocolate-raisin cake flavored with Scotch whisky. When we asked the restaurant owner whether he would part with the recipe, he said he never passed it along. The cake was low, dense, moist, very chocolatey and had a thin chocolate icing. If you have such a recipe we would be grateful for it. — THREE GUYS.
DEAR THREE GUYS: The recipe is in "Simca's Cuisine" (Knopf) by Simone "Simca" Beck. Simca is the talented Frenchwoman who wrote "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" with Julia Child and Louisette Bertholle. I agree with you that Simca's cake is absolutely delicious. One suggestion: I like to use a hand-operated rotary cone-type fine grater for pulverizing the nuts rather than an electric blender, as suggested in the recipe. The rotary grater assures that the nuts will be in tiny even flakes. — C. B.

SIMCA'S CHOCOLATE CAKE
1/4 cup raisins
1/4 cup Scotch whisky
7 ounces sweet cooking chocolate, broken into small pieces
1/2 cup butter, cut in small pieces
3 large eggs, separated
2-3rds cup sugar
4 1/2 tablespoons cake flour mixed with 2-3rds cup blanched, dried, pulverized almonds
Pinch of salt
Line the bottom of a round 8 1/2- by 2-inch cake pan with wax paper; butter sides of pan and paper. Steep raisins in whisky. In the top of a double boiler over hot water melt chocolate with 3 tablespoons water, stirring until smooth. Off heat stir in the butter, thoroughly incorporating each piece before adding the next. Beat egg yolks with the sugar until a pale creamy yellow; stir in chocolate and flour-almond mixture, then raisins and whisky. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff; stir a third of them into chocolate mixture, then fold all back into remaining egg whites. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until outside is firm but center moist — 20 minutes. Let stand for 10 minutes, then turn out on a wire rack and cool a few hours or overnight. Remove wax paper just before icing. Best made a day before serving.
Cover with this icing: In the top of a double boiler over hot water melt 3 ounces sweet cooking chocolate (broken into small pieces); off heat stir in 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar and then 3 tablespoons butter a little at a time; blend well; spread at once on cake. Allow icing to set about 1/2 hour before serving cake.

Food Labels

Consumers say all kinds of nice things about nutritional labeling. "Unfortunately, many of them don't make effective use of the information," says Rachel Kinlaw, extension food specialist, North Carolina State University.
Nutritional labeling gives a run down of the nutrients present in one serving of the product. The label also tells how the nutrient supply compares with the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for protein, five vitamins and two minerals.

Nutritional labeling is required by law on only two types of foods — those that have been fortified with added nutrients and those where a nutritional claim is made. Many other products are labeled on a voluntary basis.

Dear Abby

Surgery Sets Noses Out Of Joint

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: What does a person do when she comes face to face for the first time with a friend (or acquaintance) who has had cosmetic surgery — like a nose job or a face-lift? I recently ran into a woman who had just had a face-lift, and with absolute sincerity, I said, "Your recent surgery has improved your appearance 100 percent!"

She gave me an icy stare and walked away without even saying thank you. I felt like 2 cents.

Another time, I pretended I didn't notice that a friend had recently had a nose job. It was obvious, but I said nothing.

Finally, she said, "Don't you notice anything different about me?" I felt foolish. Of course I'd noticed, but after having learned my lesson with the face-lift lady, I didn't want to mention it.

So tell me, Dear Abby, what is a person supposed to do?
STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Since vanity prompts most people to have cosmetic surgery, to ignore it would be unkind. But to comment too enthusiastically may give the impression that her (or his) former appearance was dreadful, which is worse.

If the improvement is conspicuous, say, "You look great!" They'll get the message without having to decode it.

DEAR ABBY: While our 29-year-old daughter is no raving beauty, she is better looking than most of the girls whose pictures you see in bridal veils in the Sunday papers. She is very intelligent and has lots of dates, and I know she has turned down several good marriage proposals.

When I ask her what she is waiting for, she says, "Don't rush me, Mom."
Is there any way I can get her to hurry up and think seriously of marrying and settling down? I am 55 years old and would like to see a few grandchildren before I leave this earth.

IMPATIENT IN ILLINOIS

DEAR IMPATIENT: Many moms who have rushed their daughters into marriage see more of their grandchildren than they expected to — they're raising them because the marriage didn't work out. If you're eager to see things hatch, raise chickens.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letters from readers who insisted that dogs could "heal" wounds (theirs and others) by licking. As a veterinarian, I can tell you that dogs and cats are frequently their own worst enemies when they lick their wounds.

The skin serves as one of the most important components of the immune system by providing a physical barrier to disease-causing organisms. When the skin is broken and the animal licks the open wound, it literally seeds the wound with potentially dangerous organisms from the animal's mouth. Thus, the healing process is interrupted and the wound is contaminated.

It has long been assumed that wounds on animals have healed because of the licking, but our profession in general feels that wounds heal in spite of the licking.

Gem-Wise
Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

by George Lautares
Registered Jeweler,
American Gem Society

OUT WITH THE OLD

The end of the year is a good time to sweep out the cobwebs in your jewelry for a new year. You might sort through drawers and closets and have a yard sale or donate to a local charity. Considering the state of our economy, you might pick now to replace the big old gas-guzzler with a small economy car.

Something I can help you with is refreshing the look of your jewelry wardrobe. You probably have a number of fine pieces hidden in drawers and trunks because the style no longer appeals to you. It's very possible that you have the material for one or more pieces of new and exciting jewelry.

You can add a bit of tradition to a family wedding by providing a diamond from an old ring to be set into a new wedding ring. Or perhaps there's another special occasion coming up which might warrant a fine jewelry gift.

What we do at Lautares Jewelers is study the gems and metals in your jewelry and suggest ways to use them in a new piece of jewelry. Gold can be melted down to be reused. We can design a new ring or pendant or other item to suit your taste. We also have some ready-made settings waiting for the addition of your gems. There are refining and labor costs for custom and resetting work, of course, but reworking old jewelry is still a bargain considering today's market.

Please feel free to bring your questions about jewelry to me. As an American Gem Society Jeweler, I'm dedicated to consumer guidance and consumer protection.

Development Unlimited

Space exploration is something whose benefits are not readily apparent; yet we have faith that somehow it will eventually profit mankind.

It was difficult to see how Columbus' voyage westward could have any effect on the world. At this time, however, we can see the effects were monumental.

If we can't see the benefits of space exploration, it is easy enough to get excited about the pictures which recently came from Saturn, and feats such as man's first walk on the moon.

Thus there has to be a feeling of national pride as the space shuttle Columbia is moved to its launch pad for tests and eventual launch. What will be its benefits? For one thing the shuttle should cut the cost of space voyages enormously since the space craft will be able to be returned for further use.

The project could open the way for space factories, and perhaps space hospitals to fulfill highly specialized conditions.

Development of space can be slow and expensive but it can ultimately fill many of mankind's needs.

Purchase Auto Tags Early

Among things to remember during January is the purchase of auto license tags.

The plates and validation sticker sales began yesterday with the Greenville office being at Home and Auto Supply Co. on Dickinson Avenue.

We will be purchasing the tags for varying lengths of time as the state goes to a staggered system for purchasing auto license.

The important thing once again is purchasing the tags early to avoid the lines which are sure to form near Feb. 15.

THIS AFTERNOON

Drunks Left Alone

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A little more than two years ago, the North Carolina General Assembly decided to take public drunks out of the police stations and courts.

State laws against public drunkenness were, in effect, repealed and the alcoholics were supposed to get treatment and rehabilitation programs instead of jail. A second major goal of decriminalization was to reduce the workload on police, the courts, and jails in dealing with drunks.

The Mental Health Study Commission of the General Assembly has taken a close look at the impact of the change which took effect in October, 1978, to see how things are going.

It is clear from sporadic reports from various communities around the state that the net result of the law change is that police are largely ignoring the alcoholics who frequent downtown public buildings and parks, much to the dismay of many citizens.

Decline
The legislative study confirmed this general public impression. Arrests of drunks is down an enormous 77.8 percent statewide, according to best estimates; even including arrests which can still be made for disorderly conduct or chronic alcoholism.

Lynn E. Gunn, staff director of the Mental Health Study Commission, sums it up this way: "...police have often ignored the public drunk since the act went into effect. On the other hand, if there is no place to take the inebriate, or if the places that exist are full, there is not much that the officer can do."

The new law calls for alternative treatment programs for alcoholics, but as Gunn points out in a review of the situation published in the current issue of "Popular Government" magazine published by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill, "the bill was ratified without any appropriation; consequently, new service programs have been limited and primarily dependent on local initiative."

So, even while arrests were dropping sharply, there was no consequent increase in numbers admitted to treatment programs, and many North Carolina communities still have no treatment facilities whatsoever.

One positive result of the law change was seen: the courts, jails, and police stations have seen major reductions in the workload since public drunk arrests accounted for 16 percent of all arrests, a total of 55,999 in the year before decriminalization.

On The Spot
But the most prominent negative effect is the impact of the law on the police officer on the beat: he may "assist" the drunk to jail for a 24-hour drying out; he may "assist" the drunk to a treatment facility, or he may ignore the situation.

Says Gunn of this arrangement: "Before the act the officer had two choices — to arrest or not to arrest; now he has (numerous) choices ... the legal status of the inebriate ... his treatment needs and the availability and appropriateness of treatment programs.

"Usually the officer's sense of social responsibility and how much time is available for dealing with the problem will determine how he deals with inebriates ... the act does present a challenge to the heads of law enforcement agencies to make new policy regarding the handling of inebriates."

"In-depth study by the commission demonstrated that police do not appear to be actively assisting drunks into treatment, and that communities do not seem to be aggressive in providing the facilities for treatment.

"Until the detoxification facilities are available and law enforcement is better prepared, the assistance provisions of the act will be only partly used," Gunn concludes.

Other Editors Say Out Of Reason

(Raleigh Times)
Department of Correction officials obviously have been dozing at their posts over the past few years while department employees have received cut-rate housing and free utilities out of proportion to their job responsibilities.

The arrangement whereby residents of 36 state-owned two and three bedroom houses have paid $45 to $55 per month for modern, well-furnished homes smacks of the milltown days, when textile employees occupied free or near-free housing but owed their souls to the company store.

The difference is that Correction employees owe only these rents, which in these days of incredibly high housing costs are next to nothing. Free utilities and fuel are icing on the cake.

The department is justified in making social concessions to employees required to live close to prison units in Edgecombe, Gates, Halifax, Northampton and Hoke Counties. Some rental rate reduction, if not free utilities, is little enough compensation for not being allowed to choose one's own place of residence or to own a home.

Giving employees a break in the ongoing battle with IRS by paying them partly in fringe benefits rather than cold cash is not a policy invented by the Correction Department. Businesses everywhere do the same thing, with the paymaster and payee usually well aware that they must make peace with Internal Revenue over the arrangement.

The fault we find with the Corrections housing policy is that, despite repeated warnings from the Department of Administration, officials have allowed the situation to get out of hand. The real compensation for living in state assigned houses has been allowed to increase unreasonably. And it appears that some state-owned houses are occupied by people who have no business receiving low-rent housing in the first place.

The quicker the Department Correction reviews the situation, increases the rents to more reasonable levels and reports back to the public, the better off the department will be.

Strength For Today

THROUGH A GLASS DARKLY

Modern man, filled with a sense of his own importance yet often cringing in frustration and fear — rebels against facing the fact that he lives in an imperfect world, that at best he can do very little to manage his own affairs, and that about him are mysteries which never have been solved and probably never will be.

The Apostle Paul once made a statement in this connection which has much relevance: "For now we see through a glass darkly."

Castro Best Deterrent

By KATHY MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — The next time you board a commercial jetliner, the man settling in next to you may be a federal sky marshal with a gun tucked into his three-piece suit.

If you have a bottle of scotch or a jug of laundry detergent in your carry-on luggage, the guard at the security checkpoint may insist on opening your bag to make sure it isn't a bottle of gasoline.

And if you fit a secret "behavioral profile" of potential hijackers, developed by the Federal Aviation Administration, you may be taken aside for questioning before you are allowed on the plane.

Most passengers don't notice these special precautions — a legacy of a late-summer wave of hijackings that at its height saw six U.S. planes diverted to Cuba in eight days.

Despite their stepped-up security, authorities admit that one man was responsible for stopping the hijackings, which were blamed on disenchanted "Freedom Flotilla" Cuban refugees.

"I can answer that in two words," FAA spokesman Roger Myers said. "Fidel Castro."

Although the Cuban president's decision to turn over a pair of suspected air pirates for U.S. prosecution was more effective than all the security measures put together, Myers said they remain in effect just in case.

"We're deadly serious about this," he said. The extradition killed rumors among the refugees that hijackers would be welcomed home to Cuba and not punished, said Bill Nettles, acting agent-in-charge of the Miami FBI office.

"They sent the last two back and that got the message across," Nettles said.

From July 22 to Sept. 17, barely a week passed without a commercial airliner being diverted to Cuba by refugees who complained of being homesick, homeless or jobless.

Nettles said there was no evidence to support speculation Castro had planted the hijackers among the 125,000-plus boatlift refugees. There were three hijackings in one day, six in eight days. The total reached 11. There were hijackings by the dozens during the 1960s, but cooperation by the Castro government stemmed the tide in the 1970s.

The new wave came as the boatlift, which began in late April and was ended by Castro in September, was winding down. Resettlement proved difficult for many refugees, some of whom were rejected by sponsors and were left to roam the streets or huddle in a Miami "Tent City."

The Cuban government had served notice to the U.S. State Department that it would not cooperate with efforts to repatriate unhappy refugees. To some it seemed the only way home was in a hijacked plane.

One used a box wrapped to resemble a bomb. Gasoline-filled bottles and lighters then became the threat of choice for forcing unscheduled landings at Havana's Jose Marti International Airport.

Some hijackers were frightening, splashing gasoline on a flight attendant in one case, or themselves. Some, such as one refugee who was overpowered after he threatened to light a bundle of newspapers, were pathetic.

Some passengers were terrified, others took it in stride and carted home Cuban cigars and rum.

No one was injured, but airline officials feared for the day when a skyjacking would go awry. Their frustration mounted with the disruption and expense: One captain passed the hat and handed out IOUs to passengers to pay the $2,000 landing fee the Cubans charged.

On Aug. 15, the FAA announced its security crackdown, including re-institution of checking suspicious-looking passengers with a behavioral profile.

The next day, four Cubans were arrested in Tampa trying to board a plane with four quart-bottles of gasoline stashed in an overnight bag.

Airlines Mark Up Safest Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The year just ended was the safest one in history for America's local-service, trunk and flag airlines, as measured by the number of fatal accidents and deaths, the government says.

In all of 1980, those airlines had one fatal accident in which 13 persons were killed, according to figures published Thursday by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The FAA figures cover the scheduled domestic airlines that are certified by the Civil Aeronautics Board. Those serving short distances are known as local-service operators, those with longer domestic routes are called trunk carriers and those with international flights are flag carriers.

The record for 1980 involving the three types of carriers is the best since 1933, when one fatal accident and 17 deaths were recorded, the agency said. It is a sharp decline from 1979, when an American Airlines DC-10 crashed in Chicago on May 5, killing 271 persons aboard the plane and two on the ground. The total of fatalities that year was 353, it said.

"This is a record of which the airlines and the FAA can justly be proud," said FAA Administrator Langhorne M. Bond in a statement accompanying the figures. "But we must guard against complacency. Our goal must continue to be the complete elimination of accidents."

The only fatal accident in 1980 occurred June 12 near Valley, Neb., when a twin-turboprop Swearingen Metroliner operated by Air Wisconsin lost power in both engines while flying in a severe thunderstorm.

The agency reported that flag, trunk and local-service carriers have gone 14 months without a fatal crash. The most recent accident where lives were lost was in Mexico City on Oct. 31, 1979, when a Western Airlines DC-10 skidded off a runway that was closed for repairs and slammed into a storage building. Seventy of 87 persons on board and one on the ground were killed.

The 14 months represent the second-longest stretch without a loss of life in the history of modern aviation. The only longer period was an 18-month span between February 1964 and August 1965.

The FAA observed that 1980 was the first full calendar year in which there was no fatal crash involving a large jetliner.

By agency computation, the airlines flew some 250 billion passenger miles — enough to take every person in the country on a flight of more than 1,000 miles.

The agency also released figures in several other categories:

—For commuter airlines, whose routes are not certified by the Civil Aeronautics board, the number of persons killed in 1980 was 25 in seven accidents, compared with the previous year's 69 in 13 accidents.

—For supplemental, or non-scheduled, airlines, there was one death, when a cargo plane struck and killed a parachutist.

—For general aviation, which includes all flying except airline and military operations, preliminary figures show a total of 640 fatal accidents and 1,280 deaths in 1980, down from the 658 crashes that took 1,311 lives in 1979.

Bond attributed the improved safety record posted by the commuter airlines to better safety measures on the part of operators, stricter FAA enforcement efforts and more stringent operating, maintenance and equipment requirements which went into effect in 1979.

The commuter operators have consistently had a poorer safety record than larger airlines, and the agency has targeted them for special attention.

Life As It's Lived

Parents Don't Learn From Past Experience

By GAIL MICHAELS
You'd think that with Meg around Phillip and I would cringe at even the remotest suggestion that Zachary might speak before the age of 21. But parents don't seem to learn from experience. CBS didn't await the ratings after this season's first episode of Dallas as eagerly as we waited Zachary's first word.

Of course, there was a little friendly competition involved. Any time I had Zachary's attention, I coached him with a mamamama or two. I referred to Phillip as that guy with the bald spot. Zachary merely smiled.

I don't suppose we could expect much more. In the first place, he appeared to be in total awe of Meg's mouth. Whenever she was around, he just listened. Then again, who could blame him? That's about all anyone can do around her. His babblings were confined to those rare occasions when his sister was missing in action.

In the second place, Zachary could easily be classified as a deprived child. It's not that we don't love him. But due to circumstances beyond our control, he has spent more time in his carseat than he did in the womb. The move from Durham to Smithfield required a number of trips between the two towns, and Meg's dental work required a few more.

Then there were the Christmas shopping treks to Raleigh. Naturally, Zachary didn't remain in the carseat all day during these trips. Sometimes he sat in the stroller.

Even when we have stayed in Smithfield, I have been besieged by errands. Now every time I pick Zachary up, he automatically holds his arms out to the side so that I can put on his jacket.

About the only time he gets adequate stimulation is when he's with his grandparents. And for that we have to drive to Bethel or Atlanta.

But several weeks ago, in spite of all the odds, he ventured beyond the ah-goo stage and began to experiment with new sounds.

"He said, 'bu,'" I cooed with delight after one of these ventures. "That's just a few steps away from 'mama.'"

Phillip rolled his eyes. "How do you figure that?"

"Well, 'bu' rhymes with 'mu,' doesn't it? And I'll answer to 'mumu' any day."

"That's ridiculous. He's already said, 'du,' and you didn't seem to think that was a prelude to 'dada.'"

"That was different."

"How?"

"Can't you be quiet? He just said something, and with all your yammering, I missed it."

Phillip jumped up. "What did you say, son? Was it 'dada?' Here's your dada. Say it again. Say it again for dada."

Zachary smiled benignly. "Come on," I urged. "Say 'mama.' Ma-Ma."

"Da-Da," Phillip said. "Ma-Ma!" I repeated. Zachary held one arm out to the side. "Bye-Bye."

We deserved that.

N.C. Counts Six Victims

By The Associated Press
Six people have been killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina during the long holiday weekend, four of them on New Year's Day.

The two deaths Wednesday night pushed the state's highway toll in 1980 to 1,487, compared with 1,526 in 1979.

For counting purposes, the holiday period began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and will run through midnight Sunday.

A Green County man, Frank Spruill, 37, of Route 2, Hookerton, was killed Thursday when his car ran off a rural road 15 miles north of Kinston and struck a utility pole.

In Gaston County, William Lee Matthews, 64, of Route 2, Gastonia, was killed when his vehicle struck a bridge abutment on I-85.

A pedestrian, Jesse M. Stafford, 67, of Route 2, Pikeville, was killed in Wayne County on a rural road two miles north of Goldsboro.

Marilyn Calder Bradley, 28, of Gastonia died New Year's Day when her car collided head-on with another car on N.C. 16 in Gaston County.

A young Asheboro boy died Wednesday night in Randolph County when he ran from behind a parked car into the path of another vehicle. The patrol identified the boy as Terry Milton Spinks Jr., age 8.

Martha Reavis Wiles, 52, of Route 4, Yadkinville, died Wednesday night when her car ran off a rural road in Yadkin County and struck a tree.

lights for a few moments. What color is the eye you can see out of?"

"Brown."

"And what color is the eye you can't see out of?"

"She says it's green."

"Then it does sound like she put a jellybean into your right eye by mistake."

"What should she do now?"

"Ask her to have one more look in the empty bowl and see if she can find a brown jellybean instead of a green one."

"She wants to know if she can wait until after the game."

"No. Tell her to do it right away."

"She found a brown one."

"Good. Now instruct her to move the green jellybean out of your right eye and replace it with the brown one."

"Agggghhh. She did it. I think it's working. It's worked, Doc. I can see the set. I don't know how to thank you. Now I can see the game."

"I wouldn't watch the game, Wayne. It takes a few hours for your eyeballs to get set in your head and apparently you've seen all the football they can stand."

"But what am I going to watch for the rest of the evening?"

"Why don't you watch Merv Griffin? He just sits in a chair and talks to people. It will give your eyes a rest."

"What a way to spend New Year's Day."

"Consider yourself fortunate, Wayne. If you hadn't mentioned jellybeans and football, I might not have found your eyeballs until tomorrow morning."

commandeered a Delta Air Lines L-1011, a Republic Airlines DC-9 and an Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 and forced them to Havana.

In mid-September, a Havana Radio broadcast warned that the Cuban government would not allow the continued threat to "innocent women and children" posed by hijackings.

On Sept. 18, Castro announced he would send back two Cubans who had hijacked a Delta jetliner the day before. One of them, Juan Atega Fresneda, pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentencing in Columbia, S.C. The second defendant, Crecencio Perez Perez, is scheduled for trial in a Columbia federal court next week.

There have been no successful hijackings since their return.

1980 Turned Out To Be Mixed Year For Hollywood

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — 1980 was a mixed year for Hollywood with as many disappointing films as hits, but it was a boom year for stars who earned more money than ever before.

The year marked the biggest bomb in Hollywood's long history. It was Michael Cimino's "Heaven's Gate," which cost in the neighborhood of $40 million and played one day in New York before critical bombs blew it out of theaters.

It also was a milestone year for actors. Burt Reynolds collected $5 million for a couple of week's work in "Cannonball Run." Apparently Burt is worth it. He was voted box-office champion for the third straight year.

Marlon Brando, in the sunset of his career, was able to pick up a tidy $3 million for his small role in "The Formula."

Steve McQueen, another star who commanded salaries in the multiple millions, died after suffering from cancer. He was 50.

Some of the great personalities of the past died during 1980, among them Jimmy Durante, Mae West, George Raft, Milburn Stone, Jack Bailey, Jay Silverheels, Barbara Britton, Reginald Gardner, Carmel Myers, Don (Red) Barry, Gail Patrick, and George Tobias.

Also taking a final curtain call were Darryl Zanuck, Alfred Hitchcock, Lou Holtz, Jose Iturbi, Sam Levenson, Elliott Nugent, Dick Stabile, and Herbie Faye.

There were some younger stars who passed away: Peter Sellers, David Janssen, Dick Haymes, Rachel Roberts, Gower Champion, and Bobby Van.

The world was shocked by the murder of John Lennon earlier this month. Although he spent little time in Hollywood during his life, Lennon was part of the revolutionary '60s that changed movies, TV and music forever.

It was a year when the Screen Actors Guild strike shut down production of movies and TV for nine weeks, resulting in higher pay and better working conditions for performers.

The strike delayed the fall television season and ruined the Emmy Awards when none of the major stars showed up to collect their trophies.

It was a year to remember for Richard Pryor who almost lost his life in a fire, allegedly when he tried to fashion freebase, a potent form of cocaine, in his home. He suffered horrendous burns and was hospitalized for weeks fighting for his life.

Jim Garner made news in a melee when another driver pulled the actor from his car and beat him severely. Garner wound up hospitalized, too.

Unless you were a captive in Iran or spent the year in the heart of the Amazon, you could hardly escape the fact that 1980 was the year someone shot J.R. Ewing in the "Dallas" TV series.

The producers at Lorimar Productions and CBS-TV kept the world guessing from May until November about the identity of his assailant. We learned at last it was Kristin — played by Mary Crosby, Bing's daughter — who shot the millionaire oil man.

Donny and Marie Osmond split up in 1980 to concentrate on individual careers.

Suzanne Somers held out for a salary raise on "Three's Company" and didn't get it. And a new angel, Tanya Roberts, replaced Shelley Hack on "Charlie Angels."

Edith Bunker was killed off on the "Archie Bunker's Place" series and Melissa Gilbert was married in "Little House On The Prairie."

Johnny Carson threatened to quit the "Tonight Show" and promptly signed a new contract for a great deal more money and agreed to cut his show to an hour in length.

The most talked about TV show of the year aside from "Dallas" was the marathon eight-hour "Shogun" miniseries which proved a big hit for NBC.

ABC and Spelling-Goldberg Productions were accused of diverting funds from "Charlie's Angels" to "Starsky and Hutch," thereby short-changing part owners Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood of profits due them. No charges were filed.

Television loosed a plethora of "realism" or "event" shows in which people and animals were supposed to entertain viewers by being themselves in such nuggets as "Real People," "Games People Play," "Those Amazing Animals" and "That's Incredible."

The 1980 Academy Awards were a triumph for "Kramer vs. Kramer," voted best picture Oscar. Dustin Hoffman, won the award for best actor, and Meryl Streep won for best supporting actress. Robert Benton was voted best director.

Sally Field was an overwhelming choice for best actress for her performance in "Norma Rae."

Brief Fire

At La Scala

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A fire apparently caused by a short circuit damaged some mezzanine and main floor seats at Milan's famed La Scala Opera House, authorities said today.

Fire officials said the Thursday night blaze set off an automatic sprinkler system in the hall, triggered an alarm at a nearby fire house, and was put out in less than 10 minutes.

There was no performance at the 2,800-seat theater on New Year's Day, and officials said only one guard was on duty when the fire broke out.

Carlo Mezzadri, the opera's administrator, said he was awaiting word from the fire department on whether the theater can open tonight for a scheduled performance of the ballet "Romeo and Juliet," starring Rudolf Nureyev.

"It will take us about a week to repair the damage — to replace some seats and add fresh paint here and there — but we can open with the damaged areas cordoned off," Mezzadri said.

The 18th century hall in the heart of Milan was gutted by fire in 1943. It was repaired and reopened in 1946.

Bess Myerson Is Hospitalized

NEW YORK (AP) — Bess Myerson, the television personality turned politician, was in "stable and satisfactory condition" at Lenox Hill Hospital after a fall in her apartment.

Miss Myerson was initially reported suffering from a slipped disc, but friends later told the Daily News that Miss Myerson was redecorating her apartment when she lost her balance and fell off a ladder Tuesday.

She was taken to the hospital where tests disclosed that she was also suffering from hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar.

Friends said that the former Miss America had difficulty moving, but that her condition was improving.

Miss Myerson served as New York City's consumer affairs advocate before an unsuccessful attempt in 1980 to win the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Will Again Try Work Together

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood columnist Rona Barrett and "Tomorrow Show" host Tom Snyder will make another attempt to work together, this time on the revised version of "Tomorrow" that debuts Jan. 12.

NBC Entertainment Vice President Irv Wilson said Miss Barrett, gossip columnist and TV personality, will appear on a regular basis from Hollywood on the newly titled "Tomorrow Coast-to-Coast," starring Snyder.

Miss Barrett appeared for a brief time on "Tomorrow," but left the show abruptly last fall, claiming that she was not being allowed proper time and prominence.

Wilson said the show will have a new format that is more structured.

Psychology On Jail Inmates

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sheriff John Kelly Wall is trying psychology on some of the inmates at the Mecklenburg County jail.

Wall has had two holding cells repainted in pink, because he heard a report that the color pink has an emotionally calming effect. The cells are used for violated prisoners while they are being processed.

But the cells sometimes have the opposite effect, especially on the macho types.

Bill Long, the jail operations director, said some prisoners "don't want to go in. They say, 'You ain't putting me in that sissy cell.'"

Entertainers Like Others In Resolves

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway stars and entertainers are like everyone else when it comes to New Year's resolutions. They're worried about their weight, bad habits and keeping to their good intentions.

In comments in Thursday's Daily News, a number of celebrities, including violinist Itzhak Perlman, Bert Parks and "Barnum" star Jim Dale, offered their personal resolutions for the new year.

Said Perlman: "My resolution is to eat less and lose 25 pounds. Since I'm not a singer, I don't need the weight."

Parks, former emcee of the Miss America pageant, resolved "to get fired again. It certainly did wonders. It will be a great year. You know it was last Jan. 3 that I got fired by the Miss America pageant and things have been just wonderful since."

"Annie" star Allison Smith worried about her soccer game. "My resolution," she said, "is to stop breaking so many windows and be more careful playing soccer." "And," she added, "I will stop biting my nails."

For Dale, sticking to his New Year's pledges was the main concern. "My resolution is not to break any of my New Year's resolutions after the first week of 1981," said the actor.

CAME VIA BOAT OXFORD, England (AP) — Thieves who came and went by boat scaled three walls, broke into Oxford Cathedral through a temporary door, and looted silver valued at $46,000, police said today.

PLAYING SARAH — Actress-singer Lilli Palmer, right, poses in Manhattan during rehearsals for the play, "Sarah in America". Miss Palmer stars as actress Sarah Bernhardt, shown at left in an undated photo. The play will open in Stratford, Conn. in January, moves to Washington, D.C. in February and to New York City in March. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in a quiet post-holiday session.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a 25 loss at 963.74. Gainers held a 7-5 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

A quiet day had been expected with many investors taking a long holiday weekend.

Many large banks today lowered their prime lending rates from 21 1/2 to 20 1/2 percent, matching a reduction initiated by Chase Manhattan of New York and a few others in late December.

The news gave some fresh reinforcement to hopes that interest rates might have passed their peak.

Cannon Mills jumped 9% to 34 1/2 following word that the company had received a $40-a-share takeover bid from a group of private investors including Harold S. Geneen, former chairman of International Telephone & Telegraph.

Deere & Co., which disclosed plans to offer 4 million new shares, dropped 7/8 to 47 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .18 to 77.68. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.95 at 51.94.

Volume on the Big Board came to 12.22 million shares at noontime, down from 17.61 million at the same point Wednesday.

SUCCESSFUL TEST — The front wheel of the Lear Fan turboprop plane is just leaving the ground as the plane LearAvia Corp. is calling the "plane of the future" begins its first successful test run Thursday. The

Erosion Control Project 'Works'

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Pounding waves driven by gale-force winds gnawed away at North Carolina's southeastern coast line for several days last month, but Army Corps of Engineers spokesmen say a partially completed erosion control project worked at Wrightsville Beach.

Some of the sand pumped ashore in the $4.9 million program was washed back to sea, but buildings were undamaged. Just to the north, however, waves caused heavy damage to several shore homes and washed away a section of a fishing pier.

Work on the beach replenishment project at Wrightsville Beach was halted during the wave action, but it will go on as the engineers try to widen the beach by 250 feet.

A similar program, budgeted for $11.3 million, is scheduled to begin at Carolina Beach next fall. Carolina Beach officials, alarmed by the loss of beach in December, have called on federal authorities to advance the timetable for their project.

Beach replenishment is not new for North Carolina's coast line, although it remains a controversial issue. During the last three decades, federal, state and local agencies have spent about $43.8 million trying to build up and preserve the coastal beaches.

Col. Robert Hughes, the corps' district engineer in Wilmington, said his agency has never portrayed beach replenishment programs as a cure-all for erosion.

"We're just trying to retard it. There's no force on earth that can stop erosion," Hughes said.

The National Park Service spent more than $20 million on erosion control projects along the Cape Hatteras National Seashore, but has abandoned most of them. It is renewing efforts to keep the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse from falling into the ocean.

State government has shown a tendency to fund beach erosion controls only when the results would clearly benefit the public rather than private interests.

The Legislature approved $3.5 million in state funds in 1979 to combat beach erosion, but Rep. J. Allen Adams, D-Wake, attached a rider stipulating that the money be used only on beaches with "reasonably adequate public access."

Obituaries

Baker
 Funeral services for Mr. Phillip Baker of Pactolus will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at Hayes Chapel Missionary Baptist Church in Pactolus by his pastor, the Rev. J. B. Crandall. Burial will be in Brown Hill Cemetery, Greenville.

Mr. Baker was born and reared in the Pactolus area and was a farmer. He was a member of Hayes Chapel Church.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Roener Daniels Baker of the home; six daughters; two sons; many grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Annie Belle Curte of Baltimore, Md. and one brother, William Baker of Pactolus.

Family visitation will be held at Phillips Brothers Mortuary Saturday from 8:15 to 9:15 p. m.

Belcher
 Mrs. Lula Belcher died Thursday in Albemarle Villa in Williamston. Funeral arrangements are being handled by Phillips Brothers Mortuary, Greenville.

Eagles
FOUNTAIN — Mr. Harold F. Eagles, 72, of Fountain died in a Tarboro nursing home Thursday morning.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of Paul Funeral Home in Washington Saturday at 1 p. m. by the Rev. Jimmy Rogers of Fountain. Burial will be in Pamlico Memorial Gardens. The family will be at the funeral home for visitation tonight from 7:30 to 8:30.

Mr. Eagles was a retired farmer and a veteran of World War II. He was a member of the Fountain Baptist Church and American Legion Post No. 39.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Lovie Rowe Eagles of Fountain; his mother, Mrs. Kippie Yelverton Eagles of Tarboro; three brothers, Larry P. Eagles of Tarboro, Dr. Richard L. Eagles of Louisiana and Guy Eagles of Murfreesboro, Tenn. and a sister, Mrs. Louise Williams of Nashville.

Attorney Is Sworn In

Greenville attorney Robert Shoffner took the oath of office this morning as assistant public defender for the Third Judicial District.

Don Hicks, public defender for the Pitt-Craven-Carter-Pamlico County district, said Shoffner is the first of six assistants scheduled to be added to the staff of the public defender's office.

He noted that Shoffner will begin work on a part-time basis next week, and devote full-time to the position as soon as he is able to close his private law practice here — hopefully by February.

A Burlington native, Shoffner received his law degree from the University of North Carolina in 1967, then taught school in Lenoir County for three years before entering the private practice of law in Kinston. He began the practice of law in Greenville in July 1971 after a brief period in Grifton.

Shoffner is married to the former Linda Baldwin of Siler City and they have one son.

Roebuck

Mr. Lemuel M. Roebuck, 71, died Thursday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The funeral service will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Dr. Gene Adams, his pastor. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Roebuck was a native of Martin County, spent his early life there and had been a resident of Greenville since 1936. He was employed by Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company until his retirement in 1974. He was a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Crown Point Masonic Lodge No. 708, the Scottish Rite, Sudan Temple, and the Town and Country Senior Citizen's Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Roland L. Roebuck; a son, Larry McCoy Roebuck of Gordonsville, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. H.L. Plummer of Seattle, Wash.; three brothers: Dallas Roebuck of Hamilton, C.B. Roebuck of Raleigh, Reuben Roebuck of Norfolk, Va.; three sisters; Mrs. Stella Whitfield of Hamilton, Mrs. Reba Moore of Macclesfield, Va.; and five grandchildren.

Stamp Honors Dirksen
 On Sunday, the U.S. Postal Service is scheduled to issue a new stamp honoring the late Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois. Dirksen, who was a powerful speaker, won his Senate seat in 1950 by defeating Scott Lucas, the Democratic majority leader in the Senate. In 1959, Dirksen became the leader of the Senate's Republicans. Because Democratic senators outnumbered Republicans then, Dirksen was the Senate minority leader. In that role, he helped persuade other Republican senators to vote for various civil rights bills during the 1960s. He died in 1969. Dirksen's son-in-law, a Republican senator from Tennessee, is scheduled to take over as Senate majority leader tomorrow.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Connally Branch

Since the beginning of recorded history, there are many people who have pledged property as security for a loan. If the debt were not paid, the property pledged was taken over or sold to satisfy the debt. In the financing of real estate, the borrower gives a note in which he unconditionally promises to pay a certain amount of money. The borrower also gives a mortgage which pledges property as security for the loan. It is sometimes called a "dead pledge" because as long as the debtor carries out his promises, the mortgage really has no effect.

Frustrated Pirates Hosting Campbell

Sooners Rally, Slip By Seminoles In Orange

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — J.C. Watts is willing to concede the national championship to Georgia and Barry Switzer has no qualms about Pittsburgh being No. 2, but don't dare rate Oklahoma lower than third.

"We've been No. 3 so many times that that's what I wanted," Sooners' Coach Switzer said Thursday night after quarterback Watts engineered a nine-play, 78-yard scoring drive in the closing minutes of an 18-17 victory over second-ranked Florida State in the 47th Orange Bowl.

"After Georgia beat Notre Dame, I told them I didn't really care about No. 2, let's go for No. 3," Switzer added, referring to the top-ranked Bulldogs' 17-10 triumph over the Fighting Irish in Thursday's Sugar Bowl. "We've been three more than anybody else in the last decade."

Watts threw 11 yards to wide receiver Steve Rhodes with 1:27 remaining and then flipped a pass to tight end Forrest Valora for a two-point conversion that enabled the fourth-ranked Sooners to complete a 10-2 campaign.

"We knew the national championship was out of the picture, but we wanted to play a representative game for the school, the Big Eight and all of America that was watching," said Watts.

"Georgia has got its claim to No. 1 and rightfully so. They're 12-0 and obviously a great team. No argument from me," he added. "I'd love to play them to see if they can beat us, but that's not possible so we'll live with it. I'd hope we'd be voted No. 2, but No. 3 would be fine. Not any lower than that."

Florida State, which had its bid for a perfect season rejected by Oklahoma 24-7 in the 1980 Orange Bowl, dropped to 10-2. The Seminoles' only other setback was also a one-point decision, 10-9 to No. 20 Miami.

"We played our hearts out. Oklahoma played their hearts out," said Seminoles linebacker Reggie Herring. "I still feel we are one of the best teams in the country. We proved that tonight. We can play with anybody."

A crowd of 71,043 watched the teams fight to a 10-10 standout for three quarters before Florida State took command early in the fourth period when Mark Lucky's center snap sailed through the hands of punter Michael Keeling and Florida State's Bobby Butler pounced on it in the Sooners' end zone for a 17-10 lead with 11:07 remaining.

Watts, who was the most valuable player in Oklahoma's 1980 Orange Bowl victory, launched the game-winning drive with a 7-yard completion to halfback David Overstreet and fueled it with a 42-yard pass play to Rhodes and a 14-yard gainer to Chet Winters. Finally, he scrambled 10 yards to set up with the scoring pass to Rhodes.

"Everybody says I'm not a passer, but I've always had the confidence in my ability," said Watts.

Watts completed 7 of 12 passes for 128 yards. Meanwhile, Florida State, which ranked second in the nation in total defense, limited the Sooners' explosive wishbone running game — second best in the country — to only 156 yards. Florida State picked up 212 on the ground and only 51 through the air.

"They defended us well, but we got a few breaks and didn't fall apart when we fell behind," said Watts. "It's just an example of what we've done all year long. We've had our backs to the wall before and we've always fought back."

Florida State made a last-ditch effort to win the game, but Bill Capece's 62-yard field goal attempt came up short on the final play in the game.

Watts' heroics made amends for the three fumbles he lost earlier in the game. One of them preceded an 11-play, 70-yard scoring drive that gave Florida State a 7-0 lead in the second quarter and another set up Capece's 19-yard, third-period field goal which lifted the Seminoles into a 10-10 tie.

Butler's recovery of Keeling's fumble accounted for Florida State's other points.

"Fumbles are just a part of the wishbone offense," said Watts. "A lot of times, you have a missed block and before you know, somebody's hit you before you expect it and the ball pops loose. That was the case tonight."

The senior quarterback nearly saw the game-winning drive halted by Florida State defensive tackle Gary Futch. Watts, under pressure unloaded a screen pass to avoid a sack and Futch nearly intercepted it.

"I was sitting down there on the ground watching him juggle it and hoping he'd drop it," said Watts. "When he did, I said I ought to go over and pay that guy."

Said Futch: "When it first came down, I said, 'Just catch it.' Then the glory hog side of me said, 'Run'—and I started running. I just ran out from under it."

Ricky Williams, the game's leading rusher with 99 yards on 19 carries, burst over left guard for 10 yards a touchdown to give Florida State a 7-0 lead with 49 seconds to go in the first half, but Watts moved the Sooners into position to score before halftime as Keeling's 53-yard field goal — an Orange Bowl game record — made it 7-3.

Overstreet completed a 12-play, 78-yard march with a 4-yard scoring run for a 10-7 Oklahoma advantage and Capece's field goal was set up by Herring's recovery of a Watts fumble at the Sooners' 14.

Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden said the defeat was one of the most disappointing of his career.

East Carolina University's Pirates return to the more friendly confines of Minges Coliseum Saturday night after a disastrous five-game road trip that saw the Bucs denied of victory.

The Pirates will be hosting Campbell University in the 7:30 p.m. contest which opens up a busy January.

East Carolina left Minges to start its road trip with a 3-1 record, and coach Dave Odom said he expected to win no less than two of the five games and felt the Bucs had a chance to win all five of them. The latter part of that statement proved to be true — the Pirates did have the chance to win all of them.

But poor play and inconsistent play cost them the opportunity, and they lost all five of the encounters, dropping their record to 3-6.

And following the final defeat in the consolation game of the Elm City Classic in Connecticut Tuesday night, Odom promises some changes.

"I still don't know what they will be," he said yesterday following three tough practice sessions, one at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday following the Pirates' return from Connecticut and two more on Thursday. "We'll go through practice today before an decision are made. It's not all that important who starts, but we want to wake some people up."

"Actually, I was pleased with the way we played most of the time against Iowa State. We played well and we had the chance to win," the coach pointed out.

But the following night when the Pirates met Brown for the second straight consolation title, it was a different story. "This Jekyll and Hyde stuff has got to stop. I don't know what causes it, but it's got to go. We've got to do something to shake our people up."

"We have a tough time coming up, with some tough opponents, and it's not the time you want to be experimenting."

While Odom has avoided using his team's youth as an excuse for the losses, that fact cannot be overlooked. Only two members of the team have been with the Pirates for as long as three years, Mark McLaurin and David Underwood. Tom Szymanski, although a senior, and Michael Gibson, a junior, are both in their second year with East Carolina. The remainder of the team is all in its first year.

"I don't want to use youth as a crutch," Odom said. "There is a difference between youth and that intangible that helps you be as good as you can be on your level. You can see examples of that everywhere. For instance, Sam Perkins (of North Carolina) in the ACC. He's contributing on his level. There are other freshmen who can contribute at other levels, and I think our players can do this too."

"We're supposed to do well against a team like Brown. They are a smart team, and they are well-coached, but they don't have the talent we do. We should never lose to them if we are in proper mental form. But we weren't and that makes me wonder."

The biggest problem as Odom sees it is the lack of a floor leader. "No one has been willing to say 'I'm it.' And until someone does, I don't know where our leadership is going to come from."

It could come from the newest member of the team, ex-Marine Charles Watkins, who joined the team in time for the Elm City event. But Odom isn't sure how the rest of the team would respond to having a newcomer as that leader.

Watkins certainly played well in the two games he's been in so far. He's averaged 11.5 points, and that tops the ECU scoring averages. McLaurin is next with a 10.3 mark, while Gibson is at 10.0 even. Barry Wright, scoreless in the second Brown game, has dropped below ten, to 9.8, with Underwood, having his best game

Lawrence Statement Left Little Room For Any Misinterpretation

By BILL WERONKA
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — In Wednesday night's Bluebonnet Bowl, North Carolina tailback Amos Lawrence was a star, gaining 104 yards which included an explosive 59-yard touchdown run.

But on the Sunday prior to the game, Lawrence sat on a couch in a Houston hotel and told an Associated Press writer that if he could start his college career over, he would go to UCLA instead of North Carolina because he would have had a better chance for the Heisman Trophy and other honors.

The following Tuesday, Lawrence's girlfriend reportedly read him the story over the phone and the all-time leading rusher at North Carolina became extremely upset. Word was he wanted to find the reporter who wrote the story. He said he was misinterpreted and didn't mean to say that. He only used UCLA as an example, he said, and recanted his earlier statement, saying he would go to North Carolina again "in a minute."

The Associated Press writer asked for meeting with Lawrence to head off any trouble. But Lawrence refused the meeting and passed his comments along through the school's sports information director, who said Lawrence had calmed down some.

But then after the 16-7 victory over Texas Wednesday night, Lawrence was still recanting. He said the reporter did not "grasp the meaning of what I said." The Houston papers Thursday morning even had him denying the story.

Then he continued. "The whole thing really made me mad. If I had run into that reporter I might have done something wrong. I was really upset about it. But the other guys on the team stuck with me. I took out my frustrations on Texas."

But what Lawrence did wrong was make the comment to begin with, if he did not want it reported. And he made the statement on tape, which the reporter has kept intact.

What he said could not be misinterpreted.

"I've been satisfied with my performance and the things I've done at Carolina," he said Sunday. "But if I was to start over again, I think I would go to a bigger school. I had a chance to go to UCLA. They recruited me pretty heavily, and I think if I had the chance again I would go."

"It's really not that I have anything against Carolina or the people there. But I think UCLA is a little more big time. Publicity in the ACC is just something you don't get. At UCLA or some of the other major colleges in the country, I feel like I would have had a better chance publicity-wise."

"I really feel like I could have had a strong chance at the Heisman. But as far as publicity in the ACC for the Heisman, you just don't get it."

That is hard to read but one way. It is a very honest answer, in fact. Many people would do things differently if they could go back in time. Perhaps the timing could have been better. If he had said it after the bowl, there probably wouldn't have been as much made of it.

Lawrence was not upset when he made the comment. He even elaborated on it as the interview continued for about 30 more minutes.

But the story caused a stir among Tar Heel fans. And, obviously, that reaction got back to Lawrence, possibly causing him to wish he hadn't said it. But he did.

Lawrence attended Lake Taylor High School in Norfolk, Va., and was a highly-sought after player — by Ohio State, UCLA, Georgia and North Carolina. Another Norfolk runner, Ken Easley, was recruited heavily at the same time. Easley went to UCLA and was a three-time All-American.

Lawrence was recruited by then-coach Bill Dooley at North Carolina. Coach Dick Crum took over Lawrence's sophomore year after Dooley went to Virginia Tech.

Lawrence went on to rush for more than 1,000 yards in four successive years, becoming only the second player in NCAA history to accomplish the feat. He gained a total of 4,391 yards in his four years and was tagged with the nickname "Famous" Amos.

But he never earned first-team All-American honors and this year it was reported several times that he was unhappy with the amount of playing time he was getting.

Defense Paces Celtic Victory

By The Associated Press
It wasn't the best Boston Celtic offense — but then it didn't have to be, the way the defense was playing.

"Our defense saved us," underscored Coach Bill Fitch.

Chris Ford was a big part of it Thursday night, holding high-powered Freeman Williams to just six points as the Celtics beat the San Diego Clippers 88-85 for their 12th straight National Basketball Association victory.

"I tried to deny him the ball and keep him from going to the middle," said Ford of his defensive work on Williams, who had been averaging 30 points over the Clippers' most recent nine games and 19.7 overall. "I got a lot of help from our big men. We have a lot of intimidators."

The Celtics nailed down the game on Cedric Maxwell's three-point play with seven seconds left.

"We played good enough to win," said San Diego Coach

Paul Silas. "A couple of plays here and there, and we would have had it."

In other NBA action, Portland beat Denver 122-119 and Houston stopped Utah 117-103.

With the Celtics trailing 85-83, Maxwell stole the ball with about 20 seconds to play. After Boston moved downcourt, the 6-foot-8 forward made a layup and was fouled by Phil Smith. Maxwell then converted the free throw to give Boston an 86-85 lead.

Robert Parish led the Celtics with 16 points and eight rebounds. Joe Bryant paced the Clippers with a season-high 22 points.

Trail Blazers 122, Nuggets 119
Kelvin Ransey scored a career-high 29 points, including Portland's last eight, to lead the Trail Blazers over Denver.

Ransey also had nine assists and five rebounds in leading the Blazers to their fifth straight victory and 14th in 15 games. The loss snapped Denver's season-high winning string at two games.

The Nuggets' David Thompson barely missed a three-point field goal try that would have tied the game at the buzzer.

Rockets 117, Jazz 103
Rudy Tomjanovich scored 25 points and three other Houston players combined for 64 as the Rockets broke open a close game in the fourth quarter to beat Utah.

In addition to Tomjanovich, Moses Malone and Robert Reid each scored 22 points and Calvin Murphy tossed in 20, including 10 in the final quarter.

No. 1 'Dogs Hold Off Irish; End 12-0

Upsidedown Touchdown
Georgia's Herschel Walker (34) goes up and over for a touchdown

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It took 34 years, but Vincent Dooley got to see the Bulldogs complete another perfect season, this one 12-0, by beating seventh-ranked Notre Dame 17-10 in the Sugar Bowl.

In 1947, Dooley traveled from his hometown of Mobile, Ala., to New Orleans, to see the Sugar Bowl between Georgia and North Carolina.

"I came down hoping to buy a ticket. My daddy gave me one dollar and I got a ride with a next-door neighbor," Dooley recalled Thursday. But Dooley, then 14, was out of luck.

"I sat on the curb next to a policeman during the game," Dooley said. "I still remember hearing the roar of the crowd."

Georgia won that game in Tulane Stadium 20-10 to cap an 11-0 campaign, but the Bulldogs only finished third in The Associated Press ratings behind, ironically, Notre Dame and Army.

Dooley heard the roar of the crowd again Thursday, but this time it was for 51-year-old Coach Vince Dooley and his No. 1-ranked Georgia Bulldogs in the Louisiana Superdome.

The triumph virtually assured Georgia its first national championship in 89 years of intercollegiate football. The Associated Press will announce the national champion for 1980 at 6:30 p.m., EST, Saturday.

"I sure hope it's us. I will be shocked if it turns out any other way," Dooley said.

Dooley would have been shocked if Thursday's game had turned out any other way, especially after his opportunistic Bulldogs turned a blocked Notre Dame field goal attempt, a botched kickoff by the blundering Fighting Irish and a fumble into 17 quick points in a span of 2:46 late in the first quarter and early in the second.

Harry Oliver's 50-yard field goal at 4:19 of the opening period gave the Irish a 3-0 lead. Georgia's Rex Robinson knotted the score at 13:15 with a 46-yard field goal, nine plays after Terry Hoage blocked a low 48-yard attempt by Oliver. The Bulldogs nosed in front to stay 10-3 just 46 seconds later on freshman star Herschel Walker's 1-yard dive over the middle and Walker added the decisive touchdown on a 3-yard sweep at 1:11 of the second period.

Walker's first tally followed a mixup by Notre Dame kick returners Jim Stone and Ty Barber on Robinson's kickoff after his tying field goal. The kickoff hung in the air for 4.4 seconds and Stone and Barber moved up to block, each thinking the other would field it.

The ball landed behind them at the 4-yard line, free for the taking. Had it reached the end zone, it would have been a touchback and Notre Dame's ball at the 20. But Stone and Barber both dived for it, and so did Georgia's Dale Carver.

Carver won. He slipped under the two Notre Dame players and nudged the ball just enough for teammate Bob Kelly to recover it at the 1. Two plays later, Walker went airborne over the top and Georgia was in front for good.

Less than a minute into the second period, Notre Dame fullback John Sweeney fumbled and Chris Welton recovered for Georgia at the Irish 22. A 12-yard run around right end by Walker, a 7-yard keeper to the left side by quarterback Buck Belue and a pitchout back to the right to Walker produced the decisive points.

"Some of the things that got us here backfired a bit," said Dan Devine, who bowed out after six seasons as Notre Dame coach with a 53-16-1 record, including 9-2-1 this season. "We have not been a team that turned over the ball deep inside our territory. That got us today." But all season Georgia has been a team that took advantage of its opponent's mistakes, a team that tied for the lead nationally in turnover margin with a plus-23 in fumble recoveries and interceptions.

"We've been that kind of a team," Dooley said. "We prepare to be lucky. We prepare to take advantage of the breaks when they come."

They came Thursday, even after Notre Dame's Phil Carter trimmed the lead to 17-10 on a 1-yard run with 54 seconds left in third quarter. The Irish made enough mistakes to nullify a gem of a defensive effort that limited Georgia to 127 yards in total offense. Notre Dame had 328, sacked quarterback Buck Belue four times, kept him from completing a pass until his 12th and final attempt with 2:05 left in the game and held Walker to 55 yards on 19 carries after the intermission.

However, Georgia's freshman sensation wound up with 150 yards on 36 carries to earn the game's most valuable player award.

For the first 27 minutes of the second half, Georgia only managed two first downs, one on a penalty. But with 2:56 remaining, Scott Woerner intercepted his second pass of the game at the Georgia 34 and the Bulldogs picked up three more first downs while running out the clock on their longest drive of the afternoon.

Bear's Homework Pays Off In Alabama Victory

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Score another one for that 67-year-old fox, Paul "Bear" Bryant.

The Alabama coach gave young Baylor Coach Grant Teaff a lesson in preparation New Year's Day as Bryant's extensive homework paid off in his 306th collegiate victory — a 30-2 thumping of the Southwest Conference champions in the 45th annual Cotton Bowl Classic.

"Our coaches beat them," was the way All-American defensive end E.J. Junior described the thorough dismantling of the SWC's most productive offense.

The ninth-ranked Crimson Tide permitted just 54 yards rushing on 35 tries to a team averaging 296 per game.

Baylor wide receiver Mike Fisher said it almost was like the Crimson Tide had somebody in the Bear huddle.

"They had every body ready for everything we do. I do not want to say we were out-coached."

Alabama's impressive victory over sixth-ranked Baylor gave Bryant his sixth consecutive bowl triumph and moved him within nine games of Amos Alonzo Stagg's national record.

Senior quarterback Don Jacobs completed 98 yards worth of passes, the most this year by Alabama, and placekicker Peter Kim kicked field goals of 28, 29 and 42 yards.

The most valuable offensive player award went to senior halfback Major Ogilvie, who gained 74 yards rushing and scored on a 1-yard plunge. His second quarter touchdown gave him a national collegiate record of having scored a touchdown rushing in four consecutive bowl games.

Baylor, which finished the season along with the Crimson Tide at 10-2, avoided a shutout by virtue of tackle Tommy Tabor's sack of freshman quarterback Walter Lewis in the Tide end zone.

"Baylor is the best team we played this year, including Notre Dame. Baylor didn't quit. They kept coming," said Junior. "You just don't look at the score. You look at the way we prepared. We had 10 or 11 days to prepare and we just wanted to win it more."

Alabama worked out behind closed gates the week before the game while Teaff conducted open workouts. "I'm surprised our defense shut them down like that but I knew our coach had some good schemes," said Ogilvie. "Baylor is one of the best teams we played this year... if not the best. Physically, they are the toughest."

Alabama linebackers had the Baylor option down to perfection, shifting toward the correct side of the run almost 100 per cent of the time.

Bryant was asked by a reporter if he ever in his wildest dreams thought Baylor could be shutout by his defense.

The Bear growled and replied: "I don't have wild dreams."

The results of the bowl games produced some surprises and some not-so-surprising outcomes.

Georgia's victory in the Sugar Bowl just about sews up the Bulldogs' Number One ranking in the polls which will be released on Sunday. But the Bulldogs had to be very, very lucky to pull it off.

For most of the second half, Georgia was sewed up by Notre Dame, unable to move the ball. But the Irish proved to be their own worst enemy, and their turnovers and missed opportunities thanks to penalties hurt them as bad as Georgia did.

Then, Thursday night, in the Orange Bowl, Florida State seemed to dominate play most of of the year against Brown, climbing to 8-0.

The five-game dip also has Odom worried about the cumulative effects. "I'm sitting here looking at this telephone cord, and we're wound up about as tight as it is," he said.

"But I've been involved in losing streaks before. You always come out of it and we'll come out of this one."

He's hoping that the reversal will come Saturday night.

Campbell brings in a 1-5 record, having beaten only Methodist College, 97-75. They have fallen victim to High Point, 48-36; Towson State, 69-61; Baltimore College, 86-71; N.C. State, 82-56, and Providence, 93-64.

"They haven't played in several weeks, so they've had a lot of time to work on their mistakes and on us," Odom said. "But what we have to do is go back to fundamentals and work our way out of this (losing streak)."

The meeting with Campbell is the 22nd in a series that saw the Pirates win 53-52 last year. That game was the first meeting between the two since the 1946-47 season. East Carolina leads the series, 12-9.

Campbell is led by 7-0 center Tony Britto, averaging 11.3 points and 8.8 rebounds. The other starters are expected to be Harvey Smith, a 6-0 guard, hitting 5.0 points a game; Lee Quinn, a 6-3 guard, averaging 7.3 points; Ron Curtis, a 6-5 forward with a 9.3 average, and Rodney McConts, a 6-8 forward with an 8.6 mark. McConts is the only senior in the group, with Britto the only junior. Quinn is a sophomore and Smith and Curtis are freshmen.

Following the meeting with Campbell, the Pirates return to the road on Tuesday meeting UNC-Wilmington, then are home again against UNC-Asheville on Thursday. Next Saturday, Pan-American, one of the country's top sleepers, invades Minges. That team has already posted victories over Wichita State, Indiana and Marquette this year.

the second half, only to see Oklahoma pull off a brilliant comeback in the closing minutes of the game.

Nevertheless, it is quite probable that Georgia will get the nod as number one, since they did get the victory and are the lone unbeaten major team in the country. Pittsburgh is likely to end up as number two.

East Carolina's basketball Pirates return to action on Saturday night after a disappointing road trip. The Pirates lost all five of the games and dropped their record to 3-6.

The bad thing about it is that it was possible for the Pirates to have beaten everyone they played. And even considering who they would have faced in the finals of the two-tournament, had they reached the finals, they probably would have come home with a 7-2 record.

The reasons why are uncertain. They have been up and down, even during the games.

The youth of the team plays some part. They still are not playing as a team. The talent is there, and once it jells... The only question is when it will jell.

While there is still one game to be played, our panel of experts have decided the championship. And for the first time since we've been doing this, a tie has developed for the title.

In tonight's Peach Bowl contest, all but Joe Jenkins picked Miami, so the one can adjust the final standings by the result of that game.

Rick Scoppe and Tom Baines ended up with the same record, having posted a 118-38 mark through the games of yesterday. This writer was third, finishing two games back at 116-40.

Our guest, Jim Kyle, posted an 11-3 mark, best among the bowl pollsters, to move the guests into fourth place with a 109-47 mark. Etha Allen ended up one game back at 108-48, while Jenkins, bless his heart, ended up on the bottom with a 97-59 mark. A Miami win will add a victory to all but Joe, who will pick up another loss, while a Virginia Tech win tacks a loss on all but Joe, who thus gets a win.

We congratulate the winners, and look forward to next year's round.

Woolfolk Paces Michigan's Rose Win

By HARRY ATKINS
AP Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The way tailback Butch Woolfolk runs when he's tired may induce Coach Bo Schembechler to hire a brass band to play beneath his window on the eve of every Michigan game next year.

Woolfolk, a 6-foot-1, 207-pound junior from Westfield, N.J., broke open a tight Rose Bowl game Thursday — rushing for 182 yards and a touchdown on 26 carries — to pace the Big Ten's Wolverines to a 23-6 victory over the Washington Huskies.

"I couldn't sleep at all last night," said Woolfolk, who was named Player-of-the-Game. "I doubt if I had more than 3½ hours all night long. I just kept tossing and turning."

Most of the Michigan players had gone with little sleep the previous night after a fire alarm forced the evacuation of the team's hotel at 2:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Once, Woolfolk broke a 35-yarder to get Michigan out of a third and 11 situation at the Wolverines' own 10-yard line.

"Tell me that wasn't a great run, when we're pinned in there," Schembechler said. "Butch can be a real load."

The victory ended what seemed like a lifetime of frustration for Schembechler, who had lost seven bowl games in as many tries during his 11 previous years at the Wolverines' helm.

Schembechler, whose fifth-ranked Wolverines finished the season 10-2, had lost five previous Rose Bowls in the 1970s plus an Orange and a Gator.

The Huskies of the Pacific-10 outplayed the Wolverines in the first half, but still trailed 7-6 after the first 30 minutes. Then Michigan took the second-half kickoff and marched down the field to score on a 25-yard field goal by Ali Haji-Sheikh.

"That was the turning point, as far as I could see," Schembechler said. "To take the kick and drive down the field on them, I think, might have taken something out of them."

However, Washington Coach Don James said that his defenders became disheartened earlier — before the half — when the Wolverines put on two good marches, the second of which ended in a 6-yard touchdown sprint by Woolfolk, who barreled right through Husky cornerback Bill Stapleton at the goal line.

"I could tell in the locker room at the half that my defensive guys had lost a little of their confidence," James said. "Then, too, you have to remember we were down in there on them a couple of times in that first half and came away empty."

On one occasion, it appeared that Washington fullback Toussaint Tyler had plunged for a 1-yard, fourth-down touchdown on the Huskies' second possession of the game. One official signaled TD, but another waved it off and the Wolverines took over.

"The referee who signaled TD told me he changed the call after the other official told him he clearly saw the ball was not in," James said. "If you look at the final score, we'd still lose, but you never know what effect taking that quick lead might have had on Michigan."

"It might have put more pressure on them," Still, the Huskies continued to roll up big chunks of yardage through the air on the pinpoint passing of senior quarterback Tom Flick, the 6-2, 189-pounder from Bellevue, Wash., who was the Pacific-10 Conference player of the year.

Flick finished the game with 23 completions on 39 attempts for 282 yards.

However, the Michigan defense — which has not given up a touchdown in 22 successive quarters — picked off two of Flick's aeriels.

"It hurts," Flick admitted. "It hurts like hell because when you move the football and don't get any points — it stings."

"They had some breaks, but who knows? I think Michigan is a great team and I also think Washington is a good team."

Chuck Nelson, the leading scorer on the Huskies' team this fall, had field goals of 35 and 26 yards.

"Their defense was good," said James, whose 16th-ranked team went back to Seattle with a 9-3 record. "I think we played close to our potential, but I would have liked to have had two more touchdowns."

In addition to the running of

Has Own Way With Pressure

ATLANTA (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Jim Kelly of the Miami Hurricanes has developed his own way of relieving the pressure before a big college football game — he throws up.

"Every game I do that," Kelly said as the 20th-ranked Hurricanes prepared for this afternoon's Peach Bowl battle with the Virginia Tech Hokies.

Miami is a touchdown favorite over unranked Virginia Tech in the 3 p.m. nationally televised game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. Both teams are 8-3.

"I've been doing it since high school — at football games, basketball games," Kelly said. "It makes me feel better. Inside, I get all tensed up and nervous. This relieves it."

Kelly said his Miami teammates at first thought he was "just getting sick. Now, they're used to it. They say, 'It's about time for Jim' before games. It's like a whistle to start it all off. They all start yelling and carrying on."

Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger said he used to be concerned about Kelly's habit, but now he says, "We get worried if he doesn't do it."

Kelly's pressure-easing habit seems to work for him. The 6-foot-3, 204-pound sophomore, who was red-shirted his first year, led the Hurricane offense this year with 1,519 yards passing.

Virginia Tech Coach Bill Dooley described Kelly as a quarterback who "has the ability to stand in there even if he has a rush. He keeps his poise and he has the ability to find the second receiver if the first is covered."

Kelly credits former Miami Dolphin quarterback Earl Morrall with helping him develop to his full potential.

scrimmage for 26 yards in losses. Lyles was named the defensive MVP.

"I liked the way we were fired up before the game," said Lyles. "We played with a sort of reckless style. Everybody was playing real hard."

"I think it went back to last year when we beat them 45-0. We embarrassed them and naturally they used that as a revenge motive. We knew we would have to play well and we did."

Baylor lost four fumbles and three interceptions, leading to all but 10 of Alabama's points.

"Turnovers — that's the story in a nutshell," said Teaff.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak for Alabama in the Cotton Bowl. Baylor has never won one.

On nine carries.

Bryant concluded, "it was a good defensive effort. This is one of our best defensive teams. We played good today, but we were thin in spots."

Bryant didn't mention "the thin" spots.

He said he was proud of his sixth straight bowl triumph because "winning six straight is a lot better than losing six straight — and I've had that experience, too."

Baylor All-American linebacker Mike Singletary said, "They had super outside speed — more than we thought — and they just execute you to death."

Besides Junior, the Alabama defense was led by middle guard Warren Lyles, who had five tackles behind the line of

NEW YORK (AP) - Emergence of the new "Christian right" in American political affairs has been picked by the Religion Writers Association as the top religion story of 1980.

It was accorded that spot by nearly all of the 60 responding members of the association, made up of 110 U.S. journalists who specialize in reporting religion for newspapers, news magazines and wire services.

They noted the role of the newly formed coalitions of religious conservatives, such as Moral Majority and Christian Voice, in backing Ronald Reagan's election as president and in defeat of several opposed senators.

As the second most significant religious development of the year, the religion specialists cited the resurgence of fundamentalist Islam in Iran and other Middle Eastern countries.

Protests over the Vatican censure of the Rev. Hans Kung of Tubingen University in West Germany and his subsequent triumphal lecture tour of the United States, drawing overflow, supportive crowds.

Running debate over whether the burgeoning "electronic church" is hurting local congregations by drawing support away from them.

Election of a woman, Marjorie S. Matthews, as a bishop in the United Methodist Church, the first woman to achieve that status in any major U.S. denomination.

Reopening of many churches in Communist China and indications that the government there is ready to give religion greater freedom.

The Vatican's order to priests to stay out of partisan politics, and controversy over the intervention of Boston's Cardinal Humberto Medeiros in the political campaign in Massachusetts.

The Vatican decision to permit dissident Episcopalians and their married priests to become part of the Roman Catholic Church and to bring elements of their Anglican tradition with them.

The travels of Pope John Paul II to Africa, France, Brazil and West Germany, speaking out for human rights, and acting in Germany to improve ecumenical relations with Protestants.

Concessions gained by labor unions from the Communist government in Poland, including its agreement to permit the Catholic church to broadcast Sunday worship services on television.

Among denominational press specialists, the rating of top stories differed somewhat. Editors of Roman Catholic weeklies cited the assassination of Romero as the top story and papal travels as second.

United Methodist communication specialists named the church's election of a woman bishop as the No. 1 story, and as No. 2, the out-of-court settlement of a protracted, multimillion-dollar damage suit against the regionally church-sponsored Pacific retirement homes.

Ministerial Group To Meet

The Greenville Ministerial Association will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at Hooker Memorial Church.

All local area ministers are encouraged to attend the session, which will include a discussion on the future of the chaplaincy program at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Hospital director Jack Richardson will participate in the program.

Concert Set

AYDEN - The Revelation Gospel Singers of Goldsboro will appear in concert at Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church Sunday at 3 p.m. At 7:30 p.m. the Revelation Gospel Singers will accompany Elder Tyrone Turnage at Arthur's Chapel F.W.B. Church, Bell Arthur.

The Tryone Turnage Crusaders will have a rehearsal at Little Creek F.W.B. Church Saturday at 4 p.m.

Union Fellowship

Warren Chapel F.W.B. Church on Rt. 1, Winterville, will hold a union fellowship program Friday at 7:30 p.m., with a speaker appointed by Dr. Robert Gorham, p. resident.

The Rouse's Chapel choir and ushers will serve.

Sunday at 10 a.m. Sunday School will be conducted by W. C. Blount. Worship services will be conducted by the pastor and the senior choir and senior ushers. Dinner will be served at 2 p.m. Deacons' anniversary will be observed during the afternoon, with services conducted at 3 p.m. by Dr. Robert Gorham and the Diddy's Chapel choir, ushers and congregation.

Deacons from all the surrounding communities are invited to attend the service. The public is invited, says Elder A. L. Miller, pastor.

The church is located seven miles west of Greenville on Highway 264.

Services

The following services have been announced for Warren's Chapel F.W.B. Church, located on highway 264:

Friday, 7:30 p.m. the Union Board will meet with Warren Chapel with Rouse's Chapel serving; Sunday, 11 a.m., morning worship with the pastor, the senior choir and the senior ushers in charge, 2 p.m. dinner will be served, 3 p.m. the deacons will celebrate their anniversary with Dr. Robert Gorham and Diddy Chapel Choir, ushers and congregation in charge.

Deacons from surrounding churches are invited to participate and the public is invited to attend.

REVIVAL

FARMVILLE - A weekly revival will be held at Mt. Moriah Holiness Church here starting Monday and continuing through Jan. 9. The speaker will be the Rev. Samuel D. Clemons of Goldsboro. Services will start at 7:30 p.m. The church pastor is the Rev. Otha Hayes of Greensboro.

APPRECIATION SERVICE

An appreciation service for Mrs. Mammie Gardner will be held at Rock Spring F.W.B. Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Dinner will follow in the fellowship hall. The Senior Choir is sponsoring the service and invites the public.

PROGRAM POSTPONED

The singing program that was scheduled to be held at St. John Baptist Church, Stokes, Sunday at 4 p.m. is postponed.

Speaker Slated For Services

The speaker for the annual installation service of officers and leaders at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church Sunday at 11 a.m. will be the Rev. O. L. Sherrill of Raleigh.

Rev. Sherrill is the former director of and teacher at Roanoke Institute, a unit of Shaw University School of Religion in Raleigh. A graduate of Shaw University, he has also studied at Union Theological Seminary in New York City and at Mars Hill college in Mars Hill. He is a member of the board of directors of the National Baptist Convention, a member of the executive committee of the Lott Cary Foreign Mission board, and a trustee of Shaw University Divinity School.

Sycamore Hill members invite the public to hear Rev. Sherrill.

DECRIES TERRORISM - Pope John Paul II delivers his homily during a New Year's Day Mass in St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City Thursday. The pontiff urged nations to spend more money helping the handicapped and less on armaments. He also decried terrorism and the "barbarous murder" of an Italian police official Wednesday night. Probably coming down with something

Even a frown can worry Mother. And when he has a fever - she always fears the worst!

Did you know, Mother, that more children fall victim to spiritual neglect than any of the crippling diseases we dread? It has wrecked the fond hopes and bold dreams of hundreds of thousands of parents.

Yet it isn't a disease, at all!

It is a HESITATION; hesitating to start our child in Church School, hesitating to go with him and worship God, hesitating to discuss at home the need for moral and religious foundation for the whole family.

Face it today! Do something about it next week! Choose YOUR place of worship. And make attendance a regular habit. And through a lifetime of worship and faith it can be for your child... HIS place of worship.

N.C. Tax Cut Put Gasohol Into A Competitive Role

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — With the new year comes a new tax break that may encourage motorists to use a bit less gasoline in their cars.

Beginning Jan. 1, the state tax on gasohol — a mixture of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol — dropped 4 cents a gallon below the tax on gasoline.

The move is the result of legislation passed by the General Assembly last year. Sponsors said the tax reduction would encourage the use of gasohol in automobiles and help the country reduce its imports of foreign oil.

"We were the first people to introduce gasohol in North Carolina, and I've been waiting for this," said Worley Massey, a manager at Marshall Oil Co. in Wake Forest.

Under the legislation, the tax on gasohol drops to 5 1/2 cents a gallon through the end of June. Beginning July 1, it will rise to 6 1/4 cents a gallon.

It will then rise a penny a gallon with each new fiscal year until the full tax is restored in mid 1984.

"The idea is to get the price close to unleaded regular, in hopes of getting more people to use the mixture of gasoline and alcohol instead of petroleum entirely," said William T. Ellis, assistant director of the gasoline tax division of the Department of Revenue.

Gasohol currently costs distributors about 8 cents a gallon more than gasoline, Massey said. A previous elimination of the 4-cents per gallon federal excise tax reduced that price difference to about 4 cents at the pump, he said. Although the law took effect Thursday, the lower prices may not show up at the pumps right away.

The gasoline taxes are collected for the state at the wholesale level by major oil companies and distributors, Ellis said, and the lower tax applies only on gasohol blended after Jan. 1 — not on the stocks already on hand with the distributors or service stations.

Massey and most other distributors around the state have been preparing for the lower tax, however, by keeping their inventories low prior to the end of the year.

"It will probably take three or four days, or maybe a week, to show up," said Massey.

Consumers may not be the only ones to benefit from the tax break.

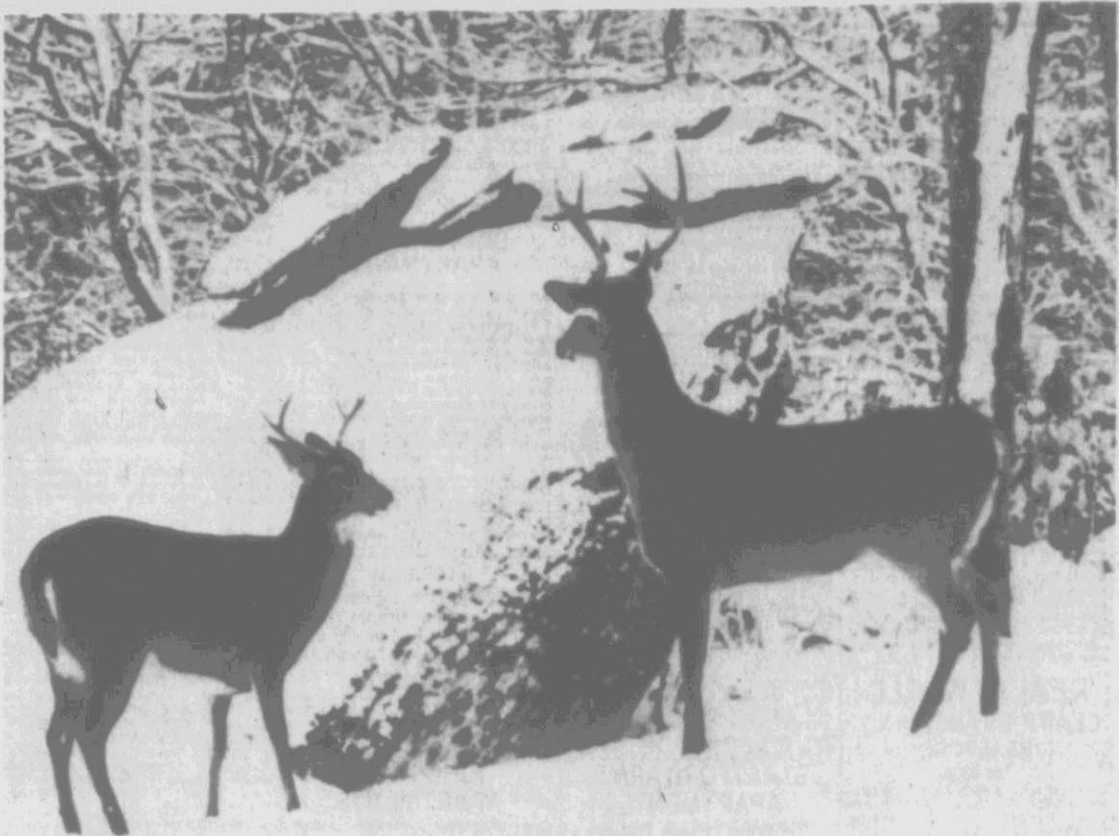

Massey said he has been selling gasohol at a loss in some locations to get sales started, and that now he hopes to recover some of that through the lower tax.

"Lately I've been easing my price up so I can come back down and my customers won't fuss at me too much," he said.

Boosters of the fuel mixture, such as Massey, say motorists who try gasohol may find it improves their car's operation.

"It increases the octane of unleaded from about 87 to 91, and it will reduce your engine knock," he said.

Ellis said motorists have bought an average of 32,000 gallons of gasohol a month during the past year. "It doesn't sound like we're talking about a whole lot of revenue loss (to the state)," Ellis said.

SNOWY STANDOFF — Two bucks face each other in an apparent standoff in five inches of snow in the Grandfather Mountain environmental deer habitat. The snow is remnants of a storm that passed through the state Tuesday. The deer on the right is the boss of ten deer belonging to the herd, but the young buck feels its his duty to challenge the elder member of the herd, just as would happen in human circles. More snow is indicated for the mountain area as another storm is expected to pass over the state. (AP Laserphoto)

Volcano Seen More Active

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — As 10 small earthquakes pulsed through Mount St. Helens, observers spotted new growths on the volcano's rapidly expanding lava dome, scientists say.

Scientists said the Thursday quakes probably were associated with the growth of the dome on the volcano's crater floor.

The volcano steamed slightly Thursday, with puffs rising just about to the lip of the crater of the 8,400-foot mountain, observers said.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Forest Service pilot reported a new growth in a fissure on the northwest side of the dome, said Joyce Routson, a spokeswoman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The pilot also reported some growth in a formation on the southeast corner of the main dome. That corner now is about 350 feet tall, or taller than the main dome, Ms. Routson said.

The lava dome is being described as "starfish-shaped" and gray in color. Film footage showed many cracks across its surface, with steam issuing from the fissures.

The lava domes are formed by molten rock pushing into the crater and hardening at the surface. Scientists have said the building of lava domes is an expected development in the geological life of the volcano, which took three dozen lives in its May 18 eruption.

By late evening Thursday, seismic monitors at the University of Washington geophysics center in Seattle had recorded 10 quakes, the most recent at 1:50 p.m. and 3:58 p.m., said spokesman Bob Norris.

The largest was a 7:07 a.m. jolt that measured 2.5 on the Richter scale of ground movement.

That quake was detected by seismometers as far away as Centralia, 45 miles northwest of the peak, geophysics spokesman Steve Walter said. It lasted about two minutes.

"It's definitely larger than the ones we've seen recently," he said.

New Year Starts With A Bang

The new year started off with a bang as far as traffic accidents in the city are concerned yesterday, according to Greenville police, who reported an estimated $5,800 property damage resulted from a series of four collisions.

Officers reported the first mishap of 1981 occurred at 1:21 a.m. at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Tenth Street, involving cars driven by Teresa Lynn Rouse of Route 8, Greenville, and William Edward Dixon of Grifton.

Investigators, who charged Ms. Rouse with driving under the influence, estimated damage at $600 to the Rouse car and $500 to the Dixon auto.

Cars driven by Lori Ann Britt of 1212 Red Banks Rd. and Gregory Blaine Pabers of 205 North Elm St. collided about 3:45 a.m. at the intersection of Fourth and Jarvis Streets.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $1,200 to the Britt car and $1,000 to the Pabers vehicle, and charged Ms. Britt with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign.

Cars driven by Williette

JoAnn Mizzelle of Route 4, Williamston, and Louis John Hallow Jr. of 220 East 14th St., collided about 1:35 a.m. on Cotanche Street, 50 feet north of the Fourth Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $200 damage to the Mizzelle car and $800 damage to the Hallow vehicle.

Officers charged Ms. Mizzelle with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

Police reported both drivers involved in a 6:50 p.m. collision on Charles Street, 99 feet north of the Berkshire Drive intersection, with careless and reckless driving.

Officers identified the operators as David Earl Phillips of Route 1, Grimesland and Johnny Ray Smith of Route 1, Grimesland.

Damage from the mishap was set at $900 to the Phillips car, $500 to the truck driven by Smith, and $100 to a wall as New Carolina Warehouse.

Investigators reported that Smith, and a passenger in the Phillips car received minor injuries in the collision.

Commissioners Meet Monday

The Pitt County board of commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the county office building at 1717 West Fifth St.

Included on the agenda is the consideration of a resolution on access to the proposed U.S. 264 between Greenville and Farmville; consideration of a request by the Pitt County Mental Health Area Board that the N.C. Association for the Emotionally Troubled be allowed to set up a greenhouse at the old County Home; consideration of a request by the 514th Military Police Co. that they be allowed use of some surplus kitchen equipment; and a report on prospective landfill sites.

Also on the agenda is an 11 a.m. meeting with county school officials on the proposed purchase of property by the board of education.

Wild Turkey Meeting Set

The Roanoke-Albemarle Chapter of the North Carolina/National Wild Turkey Federation will hold a meeting in Scotland Neck Wednesday, Jan. 14.

The meeting will feature a dutch supper at 6 p.m. at the Village Squire Restaurant, Scotland Neck. A program will follow.

All members are urged to attend. The membership fee is $10.00 per year, for which members receive six issues of the national magazine "Turkey Call," plus issues of the state publication, "Strutt & Putt."

The Federation is a national, non-profit educational and conservation organization comprised of state and local affiliates working for the restoration and wise management of the American Wild Turkey and other valuable natural resources. It supports scientific wildlife management on public, private, and corporate lands.

Franciscan Head Is Hospitalized

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Very Rev. John Vaughn, head of the Franciscan order, was in satisfactory condition at Merritt hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Vaughn, the first American elected to lead the order, suffered the attack Tuesday after celebrating two Masses to mark the 25th anniversary of his ordination. The services were in Three Rivers, where the Franciscans hold retreats, and Sacramento, where Vaughn was once assigned.

Oakland is Vaughn's hometown, said the Rev. Geoffrey Bridges.

Vaughn will probably be able to return in about two months to his office in Rome, where he coordinates the duties of 22,000 Franciscan priests and monks worldwide, Bridges said.
