

Iran Again Raises Hopes For Release Of Hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's chief hostage negotiator said today the Tehran government generally accepts a secret Algerian proposal for ending the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

The negotiator, Behzad

Nabavi, told a news conference in the Iranian capital the Algerian mediators had offered a guarantee that their proposal would work. But he gave no details of the proposal and guarantees, saying only, "This subject has been studied and has been agreed upon generally."

Nabavi, who is minister of state for executive affairs, refused to say explicitly whether he meant that a breakthrough had been made or was imminent in the stalemate over the 52 captive Americans, who have been held for 431 days.

The Algerian plan presumably replaces an Iranian one rejected by the Carter administration whereby the United States would have been required to deposit $24 billion in the Algerian central bank as a guarantee that Iran's various financial demands would eventually be met.

Nabavi's remarks came a day after a confusing statement by Iranian Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai aroused new speculation that progress was being made toward resolving the crisis.

Rajai said in a television interview in Tehran that Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had authorized acceptance of a proposal from Algeria "to solve our problem with the United States."

But the Farsi-language words used by Rajai could have been translated as either that Algeria "guaranteed" to solve the problem or "undertook" to solve it, and there was no official English translation of what he meant.

Today Nabavi told reporters, "The Algerian government has said in its proposal that it is ready to accept the undertakings of both sides, in other words Iran and the United States can empower the Algerian government with their undertakings."

Asked when the hostages might be released, Nabavi said, "When the conditions of the Majlis (Iranian Parliament) are met by the U.S. government and when the Iranian government obtains enough assurance that the U.S. government's undertakings will be carried out." He also repeated Iran's threat to put the Americans on trial as spies if the conditions are not met.

There was no immediate public reaction by the Carter administration to Nabavi's statements, but on Tuesday night White House press secretary Jody Powell reported that Algeria delivered "additional questions" from Iran Tuesday on the last American proposals. He said a reply was being sent to the Algerians early today.

U.S. officials who asked not to be identified said the signals from Iran suggested the U.S. and Iranian governments had reached "agreement on some basic principles" to settle the hostage dispute.

But Powell said Tuesday's communication from Iran provided no basis for "any sort of conclusion about when or even if we will have an agreement."

The chief points being discussed between Iran and the United States apparently have been the amount of money to be put in escrow in Algeria by the United States as surety for Iranian assets frozen in U.S. banks, and how to accommodate Iran's demands for U.S. assets of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Council Agenda Readied

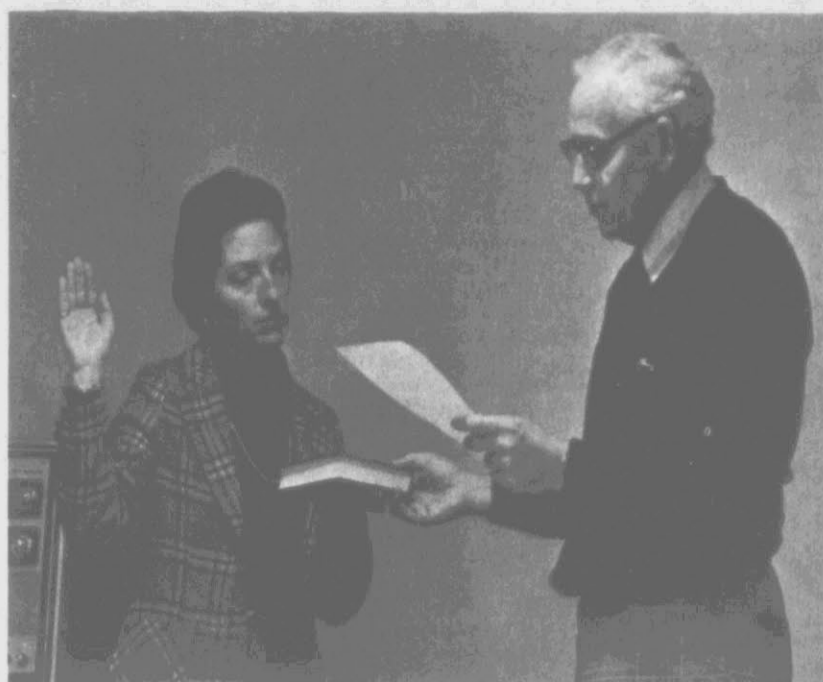

A five-page agenda, featuring nine public hearings, has been prepared for consideration by the City Council at Thursday's 8 p.m. meeting at City Hall.

The public hearings scheduled involve three rezoning matters, two annexation petitions, amendments to the City Code and Zoning Ordinance, a residential parking permit ordinance, and an application for a temporary mobile home permit.

Other business on the agenda includes: appointments to boards and commissions; an application for a hardship permit to place a travel trailer at 1203 E. Second Street for 90 days; acceptance of streets for permanent maintenance; budget amendments; five Traffic Commission recommendations;

Scheduling of three rezoning matters and one annexation request for public hearings; an amendment to the City Code relative to purchasing; consideration of a resolution adopting purchasing procedures; four privilege license applications;

Tax releases and refunds; consideration of an ordinance amending the charter in order to provide for the nonpartisan plurality method of municipal elections; a resolution accepting and agreeing to the implementation of the 201 Facilities Plan for the Greenville planning area; consideration of bids received on traffic signal poles; and various other amendments and resolutions.

Reagan Nominees Sketching Goals Before Congress

By JAY PERKINS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan's Cabinet nominees are outlining for Congress the incoming administration's hopes to cut taxes, deregulate business, shore up Social Security, export more food and go slow on negotiating an arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union.

The issues discussed during confirmation hearings Tuesday before five Senate committees were a general reflection of the themes played by the incoming president during his campaign. There were no surprises and there was no hint that any of those nominated would run into trouble being confirmed.

The process of translating broad campaign rhetoric into more specific proposals was continuing today with two more Cabinet nominees scheduled for confirmation hearings.

However, there was the prospect of some fireworks at the hearing for James G. Watt, Reagan's choice to be interior secretary. He is strongly opposed by environmental groups and among the witnesses scheduled to appear at his hearing was just-defeated Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., now chairman of the Wilderness Society.

A confirmation hearing also was scheduled today for Andrew L. Lewis Jr., Reagan's choice as secretary of transportation.

At Tuesday's hearings, Defense Secretary-designate Caspar W. Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee he expected Reagan to wait at least six months before trying to renegotiate the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

Reagan has long opposed the arms limitation treaty concluded during the Carter administration, saying he believes it is too favorable to the Soviet Union.

Weinberger said the new administration would not want to begin the SALT II talks until it had formulated its policy on such matters as production of the controversial MX missile.

He also said there would be "at the very least, severe administrative problems" in rolling back the peacetime draft registration initiated by President Carter.

Commerce Secretary-designate Malcolm Baldrige told the Senate Commerce Committee that "over-regulation is hurting the growth of medium-sized and small companies" and called for deregulation "from top to bottom."

Baldrige also said government should do more to help companies increase their exports.

Agriculture Secretary-designate John R. Block told the Senate Agriculture Committee he would be "very reluctant" to use a food embargo against foreign countries as a tool of diplomacy.

Block had told a news conference Dec. 23 that food is the greatest weapon the United States has and should be used to "tie countries to us." He added shortly after that news conference that he did not feel food should be used alone, saying "If we're going to boycott and cut off exports, we should cut off everything." And Tuesday he said a food embargo should be used "only as a last resort under extreme circumstances."

In response to a question, Block said, "Yes, you can count on a very aggressive export program."

Block also said Tuesday he has no preconceived notions of demolishing the government's food stamp program, which will cost an estimated $11 billion this year.

Former Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., meanwhile, told the Senate Finance Committee that he, as secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, would try to put the Social Security system on a sound financial footing. But he added it was going to be tough.

Schweiker said any solution to the system's financial ills would be unpopular because the only options are raising taxes, reducing benefits or raising the eligibility age.

CATV AT PCMH?

I have recently had a family member in Pitt County Memorial Hospital and have become more aware of the needs of the patients there. I wonder — has there ever been any consideration given to providing cable television service for the enjoyment of the patients? S. C.

Ralph Hall, hospital plant manager, said cable television is not available to the hospital at the present time. It may be, he said, after cable is run to some new apartments west of the hospital complex.

Even so, he said, there may be other problems. "Our television sets are largely for patient education," he said. "So we may run into trouble with Medicaid reimbursement if we tried to install CATV. Also, it might just be too expensive. We wouldn't feel free to pass too big a cost on to all patients and it might be hard to arrange for certain ones to have it and others not to."

"It is something we get inquiries about from time-to-time," Hospital General Director Jack Richardson said. "We'd like for our patients to have it if it could be worked out at nominal expense."

Cable TV Negotiations Approved By Farmville Bd.

By CAROL TYER

Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville commissioners voted last night to authorize its Cable TV Committee to begin negotiations with Alert Cable TV of North Carolina, headquartered in Wilson.

The matter has been sent back to committee last month in what seemed to be an effort to give opportunity for sufficient evidence to be submitted to enable to committee to select a local firm, Farmville Cable owned by Frank Styers. Also vying to be the franchisee was Tar River Communications Inc. of Rocky Mount and Greenville. The committee, made up of Commissioner David Stowe, Jim Hockaday, Jack Lewis, and Town Administrator Robert Morgan, announced that it made the selection based on criteria stipulated in the Town Code, including installation plan, rate schedule, financial soundness and capability, and demonstrated experience in operating a cable television system under town franchise. They also looked at effects each company would have on the town's economy and the level of programming to be provided, they said.

In other action, the Farmville board took the following actions:

— Authorized the rezoning of property owned by Bill Suggs (his dwelling and two adjacent lots on Highway 264 East) from light industrial to R-20A residential. The action was unanimously recommended by the Planning Board.

— Adopted a preliminary resolution of intent to pave the 200 block of Davis Drive and reset a public hearing on the matter for Feb. 3.

— Adopted a redevelopment plan for the Community Development target area now being dealt with by the town. The plan will give the town powers of eminent domain for the purpose of acquiring private property deemed to be blighted, neglected, being comprised of undersized lots, or having joint ownership by many persons. The property can then be combined and redivided to enhance its value and be disposed of for private development. Any person being relocated will be assisted through the C. D. program to find decent, safe and sanitary housing adequate for his or her needs.

— Set a public hearing on the annexation of a 35-unit addition to the public housing units maintained by the Farmville Housing Authority for Feb. 3.

— Referred a request by Chester Worthington to construct a mausoleum on his lot in Hollywood Cemetery to the public works committee of the board.

— Said it would stand by the decision of its liability insurance carrier that the

Home Heating Fuel Costs To Go Still Higher

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Staying warm has been, is now and will be expensive.

That's the word from suppliers of fuels for home heating, whether it be heating oil, natural gas or electricity.

A rash of price increases during the past two months has shoved home heating oil to an average of $1.10 a gallon, roughly comparable to the cost of regular gasoline for automobiles. A year ago, heating oil cost 92 cents a gallon in the Charlotte area.

There's no end in sight for the increase, said one dealer Tuesday.

"It went up this morning," said the dealer, who asked not to be identified. "It's been going up about once a week for the past several weeks, about one or two cents."

Amoco Oil boosted heating oil prices 11 times during 1980 for a total of 19½ cents, according to company spokesman Dick Fox in Atlanta.

"The reason is ... continued increases in the cost of raw materials," Fox said, referring to higher prices for crude oil.

"The scenario you're looking at is an increase of four to five cents a gallon over the first quarter of 1981," said Al

Bassano, executive editor of Oil Buyers Guide, a New Jersey-based oil-price reporting service.

"There is no actual scarcity of oil. The problem is the (higher) replacement cost of oil."

Many fuel-oil customers will see the higher prices within the next few weeks at the latest as dealers pump the first fill-ups since fall for people with the standard 550-gallon tanks. A homeowner who buys 350 gallons of oil at $1.10 a gallon will have to fork over $385, up $53 from a year ago.

Natural gas prices are climbing even more rapidly, and are expected to continue to climb.

An average January's consumption of gas that cost $34.31 in 1975 had almost doubled to $62.61 by 1980. This month that same amount of gas will cost $78.92, up 26 percent.

"All of the 26 percent is producer cost," said Steve Conner of Piedmont Natural Gas Co. Under federal price deregulation, gas producers are allowed higher prices through 1985, when controls will be removed completely.

By March 1, gas bills may jump another 10 to 12 percent because of the higher prices for gas from newly drilled wells.

Trooper Found Court Says Treatment 'Went Too Far' Not Guilty

A North Carolina Highway Patrolman, charged with assaulting 17-year-old Kenneth Holland Jr. of Route 1, Winterville, was found not guilty in District Court here yesterday.

The youth he was alleged to have assaulted pled guilty to charges of operating left of center, speeding to elude arrest, and careless and reckless driving.

Judge Horton Rountree found Trooper Donnie Taylor not guilty of assaulting Holland in November, when he arrested the youth following a high speed chase.

Holland's parents obtained the assault warrant in December, after the Internal Affairs Section of the North Carolina Highway Patrol exonerated Taylor following an investigation brought on by a complaint filed by the parents that charged the officer used undue force in arresting the youth.

After Holland entered guilty pleas to the three charges, Judge Rountree sentenced him to 12 months in jail on the speeding charge, then suspended the active jail term on condition that he pay $500 and costs and placed Holland on probation for two years.

The operating left of center and careless and reckless driving charges were consolidated, and Judge Rountree sentenced Holland to four months jail, suspending that sentence on condition that Holland pay $150 and costs.

Holland's arrest on the traffic charges followed a 7½ mile high speed chase on secondary road 1711. He allegedly suffered a broken front tooth after he was forced down onto the hood of his car by Taylor after the youth allegedly resisted being handcuffed after his car was stopped.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's highest court said Tuesday District Judge George F. Bason exceeded his authority in ordering Wake County to pay $45,000 a year for treatment of a severely disturbed teen-ager at a private school in Texas.

The state Supreme Court, in a 4-2 ruling, ordered the case returned to Bason for action other than sending the youth, Scott Webster Brownlee, 16, to an out-of-state treatment center. Bason had ruled earlier that North Carolina has failed to provide needed treatment for youths with unusually severe emotional problems.

Brownlee's court-appointed attorney said she had not ruled out additional legal action, including a possible suit in federal court.

But, said attorney Sandra L. Johnson of Raleigh, "I do not see this opinion as changing his right to get the treatment he needs."

"I would hope, though I don't think this is going to happen, the court would decide to let Scott stay where he is. The information I have is he's doing very well there," she said.

If the teen-ager is returned from Texas he will be enrolled in a new unit for aggressive and disturbed adolescents at Butler, according to a spokesman for the state Department of Human Resources.

Justices J. Phil Carlton and James G. Exum, in a sharply worded dissent to the majority of the court, said Bason's order clearly was authorized by state law that allows judges to place juveniles in professional care.

They said the majority opinion "curtails the ability of court officials to deal with emotionally disturbed children" and will "usurp the legislative process."

"The odds that he will soon be an adult criminal will surely be greater if he is returned," the dissenting opinion said.

Bason refused comment on the court's order, but repeated his concern for finding adequate treatment facilities for disturbed teenagers.

"This focuses the responsibility on the state rather than on the county," Bason said. "The heart of the problem ... is the absence of a sufficient number of beds or sufficiently broad treatment programs or programs to treat mental disturbances."

Court records show that young Brownlee has been through a series of state facilities and found by doctors to have above average intelligence but severe emotional and behavioral problems.

Bason ruled last summer that North Carolina offers no adequate treatment facility and ordered the youth to be sent to the Brown Schools in Austin, Texas, where doctors said treatment was available.

County officials appealed his order that the county be required to pay the $45,000 annual costs.

The court's opinion upholding the county's appeal commended Bason for his "tireless efforts" on behalf of the youth and others like him.

"Hopefully, this case and others like it will prompt our state to develop an effective means of dealing with children of Scott's nature and disposition," it said.

Vocational Center Funds Asked

WILLIAMSTON — Members of the Martin County Board of Commissioners at the January meeting held on Monday heard a request for $50,000 for the county for the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center located near Greenville.

Doug Starr, general chairman of the fund raising campaign, and Doug Bonds, a staff member at the center, appeared before the board, explaining that the Martin County contribution is needed to help make up the funds needed to complete the building program.

The funds requested of Martin County, Starr informed, would go toward supplementing a $3,690,000 federal grant and $310,000 of state and Pitt/Martin County funds already received for the complex.

Earlier, Martin County contributed $25,000 to the project. That amount was used to apply to the $310,000 local matching funds.

According to information provided the board by Bonds, residents of Martin County comprise over 30 per cent of the people using the Vocational Center. He noted that three bus routes presently cover Martin County to serve the people of the county now using the center. Bonds noted that 46 live-in residents are served by the center, which has a total enrollment of 226.

Commissioners are to further consider the request for $50,000 before taking final action.

In addition to hearing the center request for funds, the board approved revenue bond proposals totaling $75 million made by the Weyerhaeuser Company.

N.C. Purchases Bible Supply

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Following tradition, North Carolina has purchased Bibles or books of Jewish Holy Scriptures for top state officials to be used in Saturday's swearing-in ceremonies and by the 170 members of the upcoming General Assembly.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, who has held office since 1936, said there has never been a challenge of the practice although expenditure of state funds for religious purposes has been challenged in other states.

Robbery Charge Is Lodged

Greenville Police arrested four men early this morning on common law robbery charges following an investigation of an 11 p.m. robbery at the Fast Fare on Hooker Road yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified the men as Mark Lynn Purvis, 24, and David Lee Purvis, 20, both of 1920 Kennedy Cir., Gene Russell Davis, 18 of 405 Darden Dr., and David Lester Smith, 17 of 1901A Norcott Cir.

Cannon said the four allegedly entered the Fast Fare about 11 p.m., assaulted John Lawrence Bellis, the clerk, and took a display case containing 16 watches, valued at $640.

In addition to the robbery charge, the chief noted that warrants have been issued charging the four with assault and damage to personal property.

25th Anniversary Ayden News

WINTERVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Clinton A. Cannon celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church near here Sunday afternoon, Dec. 28.

Marriage vows were renewed by the Rev. C. L. Patrick, pastor. A program of wedding music was provided by Mrs. Rex Wainright, pianist, Mrs. Mike Bowen, organist and soloist.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannon entered the church together. She wore a formal gown of cotillion blue chiffon over matching taffeta designed with a high neckline featuring open work of blue embroidered Venise lace in a scroll pattern. The sleeveless gown was complemented by an elbow length drape of chiffon. She wore a red rose corsage tied with silver and white ribbon.

Attendants were Andy and Karla Cannon, son and daughter of the couple.

Mothers of the couple were remembered with corsages.

Ushers were Lee Cannon of Farmville, brother of the Cannon, and William Bryan of Ayden, her brother.

Mrs. C. L. Patrick of Winterville directed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cannon greeted guests and Donna Cannon presided at the guest register.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of red and white flowers, silver candelabra and lighted tapers. Silver wedding bells and ribbons also decorated the table.

The anniversary cake was served by Mrs. Lee Cannon and punch was poured by Mrs. Curtis Elks.

Homemaker's Haven

Ironing is certainly less difficult and less time consuming thanks to permanent press fabrics and finishes, tumble drying and steam ironing. But the art is undergoing a revival with the increased use of natural fibers such as silk, cotton and linen. It can be made easier with "ounce of prevention" techniques to discourage wrinkling in the first place.

Check garment labels for care instructions. For machine washing, use wash water temperature with agitation and spin cycles suggested by the manufacturer. The permanent press cycle of a washer, for example, helps prevent the setting of wrinkles in such items by cooling the wash water before a spin and using a low spin speed.

Dryer temperature and time are equally important. Separate lightweights from heavy pieces for more even drying. Absorbent and bulky fabrics retain more moisture and take longer to dry. Don't dry too large a load. Clothes need room to move freely to reduce wrinkling. The use of a permanent press cycle in drying calls for a 10-minute cool-down at the end of the cycle for wrinkle-free results of these garments. Avoid over-drying of all wash loads. This not only tends to set wrinkles, but makes clothes feel harsh.

It is very important to remove clothes from the dryer drum at the proper time, generally as soon as the machine shuts off. However, don't simply drop the dried laundry into a basket. Prompt attention to smoothing seams, collars and cuffs on blouses, shirts and dresses and hanging them up helps cut down or eliminate ironing board duty. The same treatment applies to trousers. Many light wrinkles will hang out or require just a quick touch-up pressing. Undergarments, playclothes, knits need only to be smoothed and folded. Flat pieces, such as tablecloths and napkins, should also be smoothed to reduce wrinkling and make ironing easier.

Ironables may be removed from the dryer damp dry. If ironing is to be done later, they can be stored in a plastic bag. Items like corduroys, quilted fabrics and knits retain their shape better if removed from the dryer before they are completely dry and while they still have a trace of moisture in them.

With the use of a steam iron and a ventilated ironing table that permits the steam to move through the clothing, dampening and arduous ironing are things of the past, especially if overdriving is avoided.

Laundry on the Go
Plan ahead for doing laundry when traveling with a recreation vehicle, trailer or camper. Save both space and time by premeasuring into small plastic bags the proper amount of detergent and other laundry aids for a washer load. Fasten securely. Place all the needs into a medium-size plastic bag and add coins for washer and dryer. Make up as many individual laundry product bags as will be needed for the trip. If liquid products are preferred, measure and store in small containers such as clean baby food jars. This eliminates lugging large boxes and bottles to and from the laundromat. As products are used up, valuable space is freed to stash souvenirs gathered along the way.

The same idea is just as appropriate at home if doing laundry means a trip to a laundromat or apartment house facilities.

Marriage Encounter Opens Doors, Hearts

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Many letters in your column deal with marital problems that seem to be caused by lack of communication. We'd like to suggest an inexpensive, practical and loving way to learn to communicate. The experience is called "Marriage Encounter."

During the last 12 years, over a million couples have gone on a "weekend," as it is called. It lasts from Friday through Sunday afternoon. A six- to eight-member husband and wife team that includes either a rabbi and his spouse, a minister and his spouse, or a priest, presents a series of talks on how to restore life, excitement, love and trust as well as honesty and openness to a marriage.

Abby, the world offers instant divorce as a solution to the problems of communication and commitment. Marriage Encounter showed us a doorway to happiness that we thought was found only in fairy tales.

JON AND MARY, MONTCLAIR, N.J.

DEAR JON AND MARY: I have had sufficient reports in praise of Marriage Encounter to know that it's well worth recommending. Age is not a factor. Couples who have been married 30 years and longer have benefited along with those in their 20s.

It is not a cure for deeply troubled marriages — it's a revitalization for marriages that have become stale, unromantic or dull.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Costello of Rt. 2, Ayden, announce the marriage of their daughter, Rebecca Lynne, to Mark Anthony Eubanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Eubanks Jr. of Grifton. The marriage took place Dec. 28 at the First Baptist Church, Grifton.

DEAR ABBY: A very good friend of ours died after a long illness. While this friend (I'll call him Bill) was ill, my husband and I sent over at least a dozen books for him to read. One in particular is irreplaceable, having been personally inscribed by the author. It's been nearly two years since Bill died, and his widow has made no attempt to return our books.

Although we see her quite often socially as well as at church, we have never mentioned the books to her. We know she's aware that she has them because a year ago she said, "I'm really ashamed of myself for not having returned those books you let Bill read."

How does one resolve such an awkward problem? NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Call Bill's widow and tell her you realize that she's had a lot on her mind these last two years, so she needn't be embarrassed for neglecting to return your books, and if it's convenient, you'd like to stop by and pick them up tomorrow. And when you do, bring her a little gift of flowers, cookies, fruit or whatever.

Cloning Frightening

Cloning . . . the very word is frightening and exciting. It has been more associated with science-fiction than reality. As science-fiction does, however, it has now become a reality.

A mouse has been cloned . . . an exact replica has been created.

Scientists reassure us that the process is far from sophisticated enough to produce a cloned human being, but there are few who doubt that it can be done.

There are exciting positive possibilities for humanity. Severed arms and legs can be replaced by cloning, wornout hearts and kidneys can be renewed.

Then comes the frightening part.

An Adolph Hitler could create his carbon copy to carry on his evil work. Armies of identical men patterned after killer types could be created to fight wars. They would be disposable since more of the same could be created.

What about a quadruplegic? Perhaps the victim could be cloned so that a new replica, entirely healthy, could be created. Then what about the old one? Would it be simply killed off?

The age of cloning can create morality problems that none of us living today can handle . . . and the question is not if it will happen, but when?

THIS AFTERNOON

Topics Of Reports

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — From abandoned cemeteries and adopted children to wilderness camps and wildlife resources, the legislative printing presses are cranking out study commission reports for the 1981 General Assembly of North Carolina.

Among the reports from 72 study groups are the frivolous, the useless, and the wasted. But those are in a distinct minority.

There are also a number of "hot" topics which will generate considerable public debate and some rousing floor speeches in the legislative halls as the recommendation and proposed legislation make their way through the lawmaking process.

Take the field of education: a $600 million bond issue proposal for statewide school construction needs remains active; millions are proposed to reduce classroom size both as a way to reduce school dropouts and to improve learning; the inequality of funding school programs in less populous or wealthy counties is under consideration; and the state proposes to remove a large measure of local control over school buses as a means of cutting an estimated $5 million annual loss from waste, theft, and mismanagement.

Waste

Disposal of hazardous wastes will be high on the agenda for consideration as proposals to give the state condemnation rights to get local property for disposal sites, and the prospect of the state actually buying the land and leasing it to private operators stirs local reaction.

Liquor laws are due a major revision as the study group seeks to remove conflicts and complexities which now allow a combination of some 15 alternative ways a community can have liquor stores, wine sales on and off premises, beer sales on and off premises, and interpretations of regulations pegged to such things as outcomes of ancient elections. The bottom line of the rewrite will be that when a community votes in mixed drinks, that opens the door for beer and wine as well, both on and off premises; and when a community votes in a liquor store, that means and removal of minor traffic offenses from the criminal process would also generate considerable discussion.

Employees

State employee matters don't normally generate much public argument, but a pair of proposals due consideration are likely to draw attention: a dental insurance program, and flexible work schedules. Some state officials plan to push the idea that the four-day week, shared jobs in which two people hold one job, and daycare are important in helping working mothers raise their children. Such innovative approaches are sure to spill over into private business if the government moves forward.

In addition to the list of subjects coming from beer and wine can be sold legally in that community.

Criminal justice is due its share of attention as the Courts Commission makes its report to accompany the earlier one from the Governor's Crime Commission. The Criminal Code Commission will also come in, with a report. Combined, the approach will be to reward crime victims, encourage witness participation in prosecution, clear the courts of delaying mechanisms such as endless appeals, and move ahead with implementation of the speedy trials law even if that means getting more court personnel.

Two other approaches which may or may not get off the ground in 1981: providing court administrators to handle trial schedules, juries, and witness appearances;

See U.S. To Be 'Involved'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — President Carter's State Department has refused even to talk with a high official of UNITA, the anti-communist guerrilla movement in Angola, about two Soviet airmen recently shot down by UNITA who may want to defect to the West.

The emissary to Washington of UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi was told by a low-level State Department operative there was "nothing we can do" at this time about the two Russians. Any decision to give them political asylum would depend on the incoming Reagan administration, he was informed.

That hands-off policy is in for massive change after Jan. 20. The besieged government of Angola, never recognized by the U.S., has now become totally dependent on Soviet, East German and Cuban help. Savimbi continues to extend his territorial holdings, his guerrillas ranging at will over half of the former Portuguese colony. Although Reagan advisers are planning ways to help UNITA, those two Soviet airmen will have to sweat out hope for U.S. asylum until Reagan is sworn in.

William Timmons, a high-ranking Reagan transition official and a longtime Brock intimate, has been plugging his friend to become STR, which was elevated to Cabinet status by President Carter. Brock's major rival is Washington-based financier William Middendorf, a former secretary of the Navy who has substantial conservative support.

Why Lenzner Said No

Ex-Watergate prober Terry Lenzner's law firm insisted that he reject the offer of Senate Foreign Relations Committee Democrats to be chief prosecutor of Alexander Haig during confirmation hearings of the secretary of state-designate starting Jan. 9.

Lenzner kept anti-Haig liberal Democrats waiting two weeks while he pondered the offer, which grew out of his inside knowledge as a top staffer for the Senate Watergate committee. Whether or not he really wanted the role, he had little choice. His law firm (Wald, Harkrader and Ross) decided there was no good case against Haig and that if Lenzner took a leave of absence to prosecute it, the firm might be hurt.

The impact was profound. Not only did Lenzner's refusal set the anti-Haig campaign back several weeks; it also implied that Lenzner saw that his role would be one of tilting at windmills, thus undermining the credibility of the campaign against Haig.

Something For Brock?

Outgoing Republican National Chairman William Brock, viewed with awe by his Democratic opponents but treated with contempt by the Reagan operation, has a last chance for a senior post in the new administration: special trade representative (STR), in charge of negotiating international trade agreements.

While widely acclaimed for rebuilding the party organization the past four years, Brock never was forgiven by the president-elect's insiders for his early coolness toward Ronald Reagan. Brock craved a Cabinet post (specifically, secretary of commerce), but the only job offered him was secondary: ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS). He turned it down.

Sweet-Talking Dole

In his effort to ingratiate himself with a standoffish Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, President-elect Reagan may have offended one of his staunchest allies: Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Dole won his battle for the nomination of Illinois State Agriculture Director John Block as secretary of agriculture over the opposi-

To the editor:

In late November, 1980, the leadership of the North Carolina Association of Education announced its opposition to the Governor's earlier-made proposal that, in lieu of a four percent increase in state employees' salaries, the state assume henceforth and tax shelter all but one percent of employees' retirement contributions. Having now had the opportunity to discuss with state officials the specifics of the proposal, it is impossible to agree with the position taken by NCAE.

The governor's proposal is a superior one, especially in this year of tight revenues. Said proposal, whose enduring value to employees increases as salaries and tax liabilities increase, will result in an increase in the average state employee's take-home pay equivalent to the grant of a seven percent raise. Furthermore, the proposal provides for all the necessary safeguards: retirement contributions picked up by the state will be deposited in and credited to employees' accounts and can be withdrawn in total if employment with the state should cease; no state and Social Security taxes are ever to be paid on the assumed contributions, whether withdrawn in lump sum or as retirement installments; and no reduction in presently guaranteed state retirement benefits shall occur as a result of the pick-up of contributions. Finally, there is no evidence to support the claim that state officials or legislators are attempting by this measure to deny employees their voice in the affairs of the retirement system, nor is it true that the proposal threatens the solvency of the system (the exact opposite is, in fact, the case). The state has always honored in admirable fashion its debt obligations. With this proposal, the state affords its employees the considerable benefits inherent to tax-deferred annuities — benefits usually beyond our meager resources.

I do, therefore, encourage all state employees to support strongly the Governor's proposal and to voice loudly that support.

Strength For Today

SURE CONSOLATION

Sorrow is one of the most prevalent of human experiences, and how to rise above it is something that people of even the most outstanding qualities sometimes do not learn. As we stand in the midst of loss, it is difficult for us to remind ourselves that anything of value is left in life. It seems as if everything has been swept away. Our friends may try to solace us with commonplaces, but these kindly efforts are of little help.

But there are two things with which every Christian can console himself in sorrow. The first is a spiritual consolation. It is the assurance we have in the death and rising of Christ — the assurance that the end of sorrow faithfully borne is triumph. The other is the realization that no matter how much has been swept away in the terrible cataclysms of life, the best always remains. Mohammedans write on the tombstones of the departed these words: "God remains" — Elisha Douglass

Listen To Non-Expert People

By JOHN CUNNIFF
 AP Business Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP) — You must by now have had your fill of the so-called experts proclaiming their beliefs about (1) the economy and (2) what they think you think about the economy and why you are wrong.

Why not listen to some people who never claim to be experts, and who are always shocking the experts right out of their forecasts because the experts didn't listen to them? To the views of ordinary Americans?

The New York Stock Exchange, which learned respect for ordinary views after unexpectedly losing (and partially regaining) 5 million investors in the early 1970s, put its ear to the phone and listened.

After 1,012 interviews in November it found, for example, that by a 61 to 35 percent margin Americans believe their economy is in a crisis, and that more than half say a depression is possible.

This point of view, you may note, bespeaks a greater recognition of reality than is sometimes attributed to the American public. A few days ago, for example, the esteemed Arthur Burns, former Federal Reserve chairman, publicly cautioned President-elect Reagan against declaring a state of economic emergency, suggesting it would frighten the public.

The next finding also might be viewed as a criticism of political and governmental attitudes toward the public. The finding: Eighty cent of Americans believe the political leadership — Congress and the President — have failed to understand and control economic problems.

The realism, and perhaps wisdom, of Americans shows through in another conclusion reached by the surveyors: The public does not expect any improvement in inflation and unemployment in the next year.

"Approximately 65 percent of Americans believe it will take three years or longer to reduce inflation and unemployment to 5 percent levels, and to balance the budget," states the study.

Though, according to the researchers, your views are represented in their scientific sampling, you might have some reservations about another important finding, regarding public patience, to wit:

"Sixty-four percent are willing to give (Reagan) three years or longer to implement changes. Fully 93 percent are willing to give his policies a chance, even if they personally disagree with them."

This attitude has not always been demonstrated. In fact, say some economists, one of the great difficulties facing the nation today is that economic change takes longer to achieve than political change.

The American public also declares it is willing to sacrifice to solve the economy's problems. Again, it hasn't always been so; the consumptive '70s are testimony to the unwillingness to do so.

Still, this is the people speaking, and one lesson to be drawn from the recent election results is that leaders should listen because, on election day, the people have the strongest views of all.

Listening, the stock exchange students learned this:

—Americans are feeling the economic pinch even more than they did in April, when a similar survey was completed.

—In the next few years Americans expect increased interest rates, tax incentives for business to build plants, import restrictions, credit controls and a tax cut.

—Americans favor lowered interest rates, personal tax cuts, tax incentives for business, import restrictions on foreign cars, and wage-price controls.

—Americans want a balanced budget. Fifty-one percent believe balance can be achieved even though taxes are cut. They feel a 10 percent tax cut would not be inflationary and would oppose it if it were. They say they would save or invest the money from a tax cut.

—While Americans support increased tax incentives for business they do not want to cut taxes on corporate profits.

—In overwhelming numbers people believe there has been too little cooperation between government, business and labor. Eighty-three percent say the three sectors should strive for more cooperation.

In all, not a bad program. The country's problems, it seems, may be caused not so much by ordinary people as by leadership.

Claim Major Advance On A Malaria Vaccine

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer
TORONTO (AP) — A major advance toward the development of a vaccine against malaria, the often fatal disease that hits 200 million people a year, was reported Tuesday by researchers from the New York University School of Medicine.

Malaria, transmitted by mosquitoes, is a severely debilitating disease with widespread distribution, particularly in tropical underdeveloped countries. Despite major expenditures for its control, it is still a major public health problem.

The researchers are using recently developed techniques, including monoclonal cell cultures and recombinant DNA, frequently referred to as "gene splicing," to develop the vaccine, they said in a report at the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

They also said it is still a matter of some years before an actual working vaccine can be put on the market.

The research was carried out by Dr. Victor Nussenzweig and Dr. Ruth S. Nussenzweig, husband and wife, at NYU, in work supported by the Rockefeller University.

Their complicated work involves creation hybrid cells in the laboratory to produce substances that enable them to identify specific cells in the body which can produce antibodies to the disease. They then use those cells in the technique known as recombinant DNA — producing new combinations of DNA or genetic material — produce new vaccine-producing cells.

In the research, mice are deliberately infected so their spleens produce antibodies, disease fighting agents, against the malaria. These antibodies are extracted and combined with the spleen cell antigens, active parts of the cell wall, that produced that specific antibody.

That product is then combined with cancer cells to produce monoclonal cells, cells which are clones or genetic duplicates of the original cell but which now have been taught to produce specific antibodies. Cancer cells are used because they are, in effect, immortal, being able to reproduce continuously without dying out of old age. This kind of laboratory manipulation is called hybridoma technology.

The antibody produced by the monoclonal cells is then used as a probe to identify the specific cells within the spleen which can produce malaria antibodies.

When that particular cell line is identified, its antigen-producing genes or hereditary material can be combined with the organism E. coli, the workhorse of recombinant DNA work, to produce a clone that will produce large supplies of the anti-malarial antigen. That antigen, when injected into a person, will then react to a malaria infection by producing the antibody to the disease.

At NYU, Nigel Godson, a specialist in this recombinant work, is working to refine the cloning process, and Nussenzweig said negotiations are underway with Genentech, the company using recombinant DNA research for commercial purposes.

tion of Helms. Helms was miffed that the finance chairman was given precedence over the agriculture chairman on the top farm appointment.

The reason: Reagan desperately needs a warmer attitude than Dole has displayed so far toward his vital tax legislation. That explains Dole's remarkable batting average during the transition, apart from the Block appointment. His wife, former Federal Trade Commissioner Elizabeth Dole, was named chief of public liaison at the White House, and Dole was instrumental in scuttling William Simon as secretary of the Treasury.

No Raves For Michel

Key supporters of the newly-elected House Republican leader, Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, are disappointed in what they privately complain is his failure to stand up to stonewalling tactics of Democratic House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, even before the actual new Congress convenes.

"Bob is just too deferential to Tip," confided one of Michel's major backers in his closely-contested victory for the floor leadership over Rep. Guy Vander Jagt of Michigan. "He comes over as a supplicant in dealing with Tip."

Such critics complain that Michel has not stood up to O'Neill's refusal to change the party ratio on the all-important House Ways and Means Committee to reflect Republican gains in the last election. Michel reached O'Neill by telephone at his vacation retreat on Cape Cod, but the speaker budged not an inch on the ways and means question.

Gunfire Over A Vandalized Car

SEATTLE (AP) — Four people were hospitalized, one in serious condition, after a dispute over a vandalized car erupted into gunfire, police said.

Police said one of the men involved had his car tires flattened a month ago and thought he knew who did it. He set out with five friends Monday night to find the alleged vandal and found him sitting in a car with another man, police said.

A fight resulted and shots were fired, police said. Authorities said no arrests had been made and that they were looking for a man believed to have done the shooting.

Handgun Debate

John Lennon's death last month has stirred up an old debate about possible gun control laws in the United States. Manufacturing handguns is a small but important American industry. Last year, U.S. gun manufacturers turned out more than 2 million handguns. Altogether, Americans own about 60 million handguns, or one for every four people in the United States. Many gun owners, manufacturers and others believe the buying and selling of guns should not be restricted. Other people think gun owners should at least be required to register their weapons. The United States is the only major industrial country that does not restrict the use of handguns.

Voluntary Limits On Code Research Draw Attack

By KEVIN MCKEAN
AP Science Writer
TORONTO (AP) — A proposal for voluntary restrictions on publication of scientific articles about secret codes could open a "Pandora's box" of problems and hinder research, some scientists contend.

The plan came under fire Tuesday at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and among those criticizing the proposal was a dissenting member of the committee that drew it up.

Dr. George I. Davida said that the proposed guidelines of the Public Cryptography Study Group were "totally unnecessary" and would amount to "suppression of the mind."

The study group, set up at the request of the National Security Agency, which analyzes foreign codes, has drafted a plan under which a scientist who plans to publish an article on the mathematics of codes or code-breaking would be asked to submit it to an NSA advisory committee for voluntary prior review.

If the NSA felt the article might jeopardize U.S. security, it could suggest voluntary changes. If, after two years, the voluntary plan wasn't working, the NSA would seek laws requiring prior review.

The plan is still in the draft stage but could be approved as early as Feb. 6, when the group next meets in Washington.

Dr. David H. Brandin of Stanford Research Institute

International, another member of the committee and a supporter of the guidelines, said that knowledge of foreign codes can give countries a crucial advantage in wartime.

It was the well-kept secret that the United States had broken the Japanese Navy's code during World War II that enabled the United States to win the Battle of Midway, he said.

Brandin called the plan for voluntary review "an admirable compromise" and added, "If we don't do it, the NSA is going to do it on its own. It's kind of like the movie industry policing itself."

Davida, a computer scientist at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, said he feared the plan would have a chilling effect on the exchange of scientific views.

It also could threaten the privacy of ordinary citizens by retarding research on coding systems to protect sensitive personal and financial data stored and transmitted by computer, he said.

"Even though they're supposedly voluntary, I feel them to be involuntary in other respects because they require editors of journals to get involved in censorship and I think that's nasty," said Davida, who is on leave from the Georgia Institute of Technology.

In addition, the guidelines could open "a Pandora's box" of problems for professional societies that endorse them, Davida said. Many scientific societies have an international membership, and security agencies in other countries might demand the same sort of arrangement.

The study group was set up by the American Council on Education after the NSA, the intelligence arm of the Defense Department, expressed fears that some new cryptographic research might hinder its efforts to gather intelligence on foreign governments or allow them to break U.S. codes.

But Dr. Stephen H. Unger of Columbia University, organizer of the session, said the guidelines raised "the prospect of a secret tribunal of some sort reviewing material before it is published and I think we ought to think very carefully about that."

Detain Kabul Police Chief

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The police chief of Kabul province has been arrested and charged with dereliction of duty for failing to prevent a riot by scores of Afghan policemen, a Western diplomatic source said today.

Chief Nayab Khel was seized Dec. 30, the day after the riot by as many as 400 policemen in Kabul left five dead, said the source, who asked not to be identified.

Four ringleaders in the riot also were detained, 80 officers were confined to barracks, and there is talk of a general armed revolt among Afghan security forces if the men are not released by the end of this week, the source said.

The extension of service that touched off the police riot came into force Saturday when the Afghan Ministry of Defense ordered two-year tours of duty of all military and police conscripts extended for six months, the source said.

The Afghan military has been plagued by defections since some 85,000 Soviet troops poured into the country a year ago to try to put down a Moslem rebellion against the communist regime.

Never To Own Animals Again

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — A 61-year-old man who pleaded no contest to charges of starving horses and other animals has been sentenced to six months in jail and been ordered never to own an animal again.

County Judge Edward DeFries sentenced William Eberhardt on Monday after Eberhardt pleaded no contest to six counts of cruelty and abuse to animals.

Sheriff's deputies said Eberhardt kept horses and other animals tied up for long periods of time without food or water. Authorities said they confiscated 47 fowl, two ponies, a number of dogs and 20 pigs from his farm.

Ex-Speaker Still Has Chest Pains

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Former U.S. House Speaker Carl Albert continues to have chest pain after suffering a mild heart attack last week, according to Oklahoma Memorial Hospital officials.

Don Brown, hospital administrator, said Albert remained in stable condition and is undergoing additional tests as physicians continue to monitor him closely.

SURGERY FOR IRANIAN NEW YORK (AP) — The second cousin of Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr quietly checked into a New York hospital last month and underwent open-heart surgery, a hospital spokesman has confirmed.

REBUILDING — Twelve-year-old Shanreka Perry exercises while in a wheelchair, and is learning to take care of herself completely after losing her left leg. (AP Laserphoto)

By MIKE McQUEEN
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Nine months ago, Shanreka Perry was a hard-charging forward on the Holmes Elementary School basketball team and enjoyed an occasional neighborhood game of softball.

Today the rail-thin 12-year-old walks with crutches. She has no left leg or hip, scars left by the city's bloody racial explosion last May — on an evening that began with a neighborhood game of softball.

Shanreka's leg was amputated at Jackson Memorial Hospital after a car, careening out of control with a shattered windshield, crashed into her the night of May 17 in the first outbreak of violence of what became three days of rioting.

After six months in the hospital, the shy, soft-spoken youngster is back in her Liberty City home. The accident stole her mobility, but she says it hasn't broken her spirit.

"I feel the same," Shanreka said as she stood up from a couch and smiled broadly while her sister snapped a picture with an Instamatic camera, a Christmas gift. "I don't feel sorry about it at all. I don't like for people to feel sorry for me."

Shanreka has received a lot of attention and sympathy since she was injured. Her sixth-grade class started the Shanreka Perry Trust Fund to help pay her medical bills, and an Elks Lodge in Liberty City has set up a separate trust fund to be turned over to her when she is 18.

"It (the loss of her leg) is not going to stop me from doing what I want to do," Shanreka said. "I care about it and I wish I still had it, but you think I'm going to let that get me down?"

"Shanreka does everything for herself," said her mother, Patricia Small. "She puts on her clothes, makes her bed — everything."

Miss Small isn't as forgiving as Shanreka, one of four children who live in a small, four-bedroom apartment in African Square, a snappy-looking housing project only three blocks from an old restaurant leveled by fire during the riots.

"I appreciate all what has been done for her," the 29-year-old divorcee said. "But it'll never be enough. It's not going to get her leg back."

Shanreka was playing softball in front of her home that Saturday evening just as word reached the neighborhood of the acquittal in Tampa of four former Dade County police officers, all white, on charges stemming from the beating death of black businessman Arthur McDuffie.

As enraged blacks were taking to the streets in protest, a carload of whites — Michael Kulp, 18, his brother, Jeffrey, 22, and Debra Gettman, 23 — unknowingly drove into the developing riot on their way home from a day at the beach.

Their 1969 Dodge was surrounded and pelted by rocks and bottles. The windshield was smashed and the car spun out of control, hitting Shanreka and a pedestrian, 75-year-old Albert Nelson.

The mob dragged the occupants out of the car and beat the Kulp brothers severely. Jeffrey was also stabbed and shot and his right ear and part of his tongue were cut off. He died in Jackson Memorial 26 days later. Miss Gettman escaped with minor injuries after being rescued by a black taxi driver.

Last fall, James McCullough, 20, was convicted of manslaughter in Kulp's death. One man was acquitted, and charges against two other young blacks were dropped for lack of evidence.

The Kulp's car had pinned Shanreka against a wall. Her left leg dangled from her body, her eyes were dilated and she was almost unconscious.

"I was in a shock," Shanreka recalled. "I don't remember what happened."

Already overburdened with riot victims, doctors and nurses at Jackson worked furiously. They pumped 10 units of blood into her body. At 10 that night, Shanreka lapsed into unconsciousness and didn't wake up until 12 hours later. She was to spend the next six months in the hospital.

It was a mild surprise, and an early Christmas present for Miss Small, when the girl was released from Jackson the day before Thanksgiving, a month before doctors had anticipated she would be healthy enough to return home.

Doctors say they plan to replace her lost limb with an artificial leg.

"They haven't sent me a bill yet, but I'm not going to worry about it," Miss Small said. "I can't worry about that."

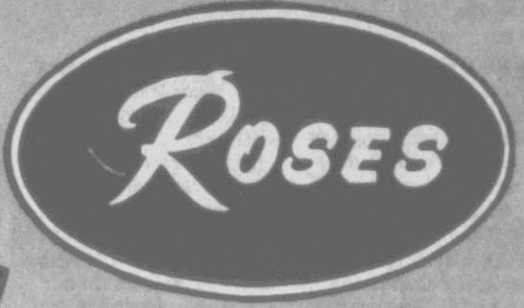

Shanreka, too, said she isn't worried about her misfortune. On Christmas Day, she told everyone she wanted a normal holiday free of depressing talk about her injuries. She clowned with her brothers and sisters and experimented with an electronic tic-tac-toe game.

She said she's glad her family moved from an upstairs apartment to a downstairs unit.

"It's easier to get around," Shanreka said. "It's bigger and it doesn't have an upstairs. I like it."

In September, Shanreka will return to school, probably Miami Edison Middle School because it has an escalator, she said.

Favor Male Dentists, Female Hairdressers

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two-thirds of Americans say they wouldn't mind if their boss were a woman, but by vast majorities they want police, doctors, lawyers, dentists and bankers to be men and salespeople, hairdressers and nurses to be women.

American attitudes are ambiguous on the homefront. Virtually all Americans now think it takes as much intelligence and drive to bring up children as to run a corporation, but only half say a working woman shouldn't have to bear full responsibility for running the house, too.

Woman: How the Public Sees Her," which traces changes in public attitudes about women.

It was prepared by pollster Daniel Yankelovich and his assistant, Deborah Durfee Barron, and published by the President's Advisory Committee for Women. No new polls were conducted for the study, which only analyzed existing studies conducted by major public opinion research firms around the country.

What emerges is a general approval of women's progress — in the job market, in politics, in free choice to determine their own destinies.

But three out of 10 people see women as suffering as much discrimination as Puerto Ricans and Mexican Americans. Most people feel that women suffer less discrimination, though, than blacks or homosexuals.

A third of the women who were surveyed felt they would have gotten a lot further in life if they had been born as men. One in four said being born a woman prevented her from accomplishing all she had once hoped.

Only a third of the public feels that women should run the home and let men run the country, a dramatic change from 1974, when a majority felt women should stay home.

On the other hand, about half of Americans subscribe to the old saying that a woman's place is in the home. Two-thirds disapprove of families in which the wife is the breadwinner while dad stays home with the kids.

Most people think a preschool child suffers if mom holds a job.

In working couples, his job comes first: two-thirds of those asked think a wife with an interesting job should turn down a transfer to another city so her husband can continue in his job. Only 17 percent think he should quit and they should relocate.

Most people — nearly six in 10 — don't think the United States will have a woman president by the year 2000, but seven in 10 think a woman will be sworn in as vice president.

Only one person in seven says he would vote against a woman presidential candidate if his party nominated her. In 1937, 65 percent said they would vote for the other party's male candidate.

Attitudes toward sex have changed, too.

Most people feel a couple having a child out of wedlock should not marry just for the sake of the child, but they don't feel it should be made legal to have children out of wedlock. And seven in 10 say deciding to have a child out of wedlock would be morally wrong.

The public is moving toward accepting the idea of single women having children, but a majority remains opposed. But adoption by single parents is all right with most people.

The public feels, in general, that a woman should have the right to have an abortion if she wants one, and majority opinion opposes an anti-abortion amendment to the Constitution. Support for abortion falls off beyond the first three months of pregnancy.

Clash Of Claims On Iran Assets

NEW YORK (AP) — Oral arguments will be held next month in the government's appeal of a federal judge's refusal to delay 96 suits seeking to tie up $3 billion in Iranian assets until the hostage crisis can be resolved.

On Tuesday, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted the government an "expedited appeal" of the lower court decision and set Feb. 4 for arguments in the case.

U.S. District Judge Kevin Duffy last year turned down the government's request to delay the suits until after "the most delicate stage" of negotiations for the release of American hostages in Iran.

nation since Iran repudiated all foreign debts. A special "Iran Assets Litigation Reporter" has been started to record and comment on legal developments in the area.

The government wants all such cases delayed at least until Feb. 13 to give it time to resolve the hostage crisis.

"The efforts of the United States to secure the release of the 52 hostages held in Iran for over a year are now at their most delicate stage," said the government's appeal brief. "The litigation in the United States involving the government of Iran is inextricably intertwined with the efforts to resolve the crisis in the United States's relations with Iran."

The suits were filed by American banks, companies and individuals seeking Iranian assets as compensation for alleged loan defaults, broken contracts and confiscation of property by Iran.

More than 300 suits seeking judgements against Iranian assets in the United States have been filed across the

Attacked By Orangutan

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Three hungry "freaked out" orangutans attacked a veteran zoo keeper during feeding time after she apparently forgot to lock their holding compartment, authorities say.

Marianne Yeutter, 31, in charge of primates at the Washington Park Zoo for seven years, was bruised, scraped and cut in the face by two adults and one baby orangutan in the incident Tuesday, zoo officials said. The cut required several stitches.

Ms. Yeutter said the orangutans attacked her after escaping a holding compartment she apparently forgot to lock while placing food in their cage.

"They were real aroused," she said. "They were freaked out because it was a strange situation."

Harry, 22, the male orangutan, Inji, 23, his mate, and the baby, Kali, 2, calmed down after Ms. Yeutter talked to them in a soothing voice, she said.

Zoo spokesman Jack McGowan said the animals were docile and easily could have killed Mrs. Yeutter.

"They could have pulled her apart," he said. "They have the strength of a man four times their size."

Packs Of Dogs Attack Zoo

BALTIMORE (AP) — Marauding packs of domestic dogs are attacking animals at the Baltimore Zoo, zoo officials said.

The latest victim was a Grant's gazelle, a native of East Africa, which died Monday, zoo Director Stephan H. Graham said Tuesday. Earlier attacks killed two other gazelles, three African pygmy goats and a southdown sheep, Graham said.

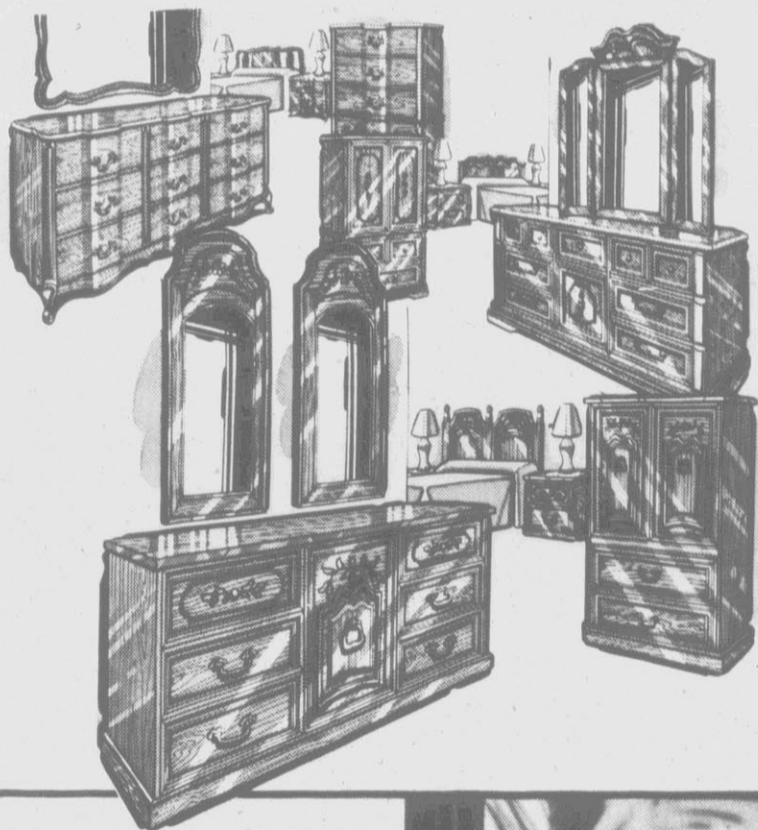

Most of the dogs are pets from homes in neighborhoods surrounding the zoo, Graham said. Zoo officials and police are trying to catch the dogs, Graham said.

Doldrums Besetting The Nuclear Power Industry

By EDWARD ROBY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four years ago, official projections envisioned a turn-of-the-century American landscape dotted with as many as 425 atomic reactors, their concrete domes poking up like mushrooms after a rain.

Today, even the most bullish nuclear enthusiasts are scaling down their estimates. The latest Energy Department figure calls for a mere 160 to 200 plants, including the 75 units currently licensed to operate.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission hasn't seen a single application for a reactor construction permit in the 20 months since Three Mile Island.

But the industry's economic doldrums predate the country's worst commercial nuclear accident.

Only two reactors were ordered in 1978. The following year produced no orders and six cancellations. This year, 10 reactors were cancelled, work on 50 others delayed.

"The electrical generating business is generally pretty poor," said Vice President J.J. Taylor of Westinghouse, the leading reactor vendor. "It's going to be several years of slack period in the United States."

One of the 1980 cancellations came from Virginia Electric and Power Co., which scrapped plans for two other atomic plants only three years ago.

Veeco, the country's seventh largest investor-owned utility, was one of the first to go nuclear.

But President William W. Berry now says the next big power plant his firm will order will burn coal and will be built only if beefed-up conservation measures fail.

Veeco's about-face on nuclear power is typical of the industry's current dilemma — a dilemma only marginally related to the more publicized and controversial safety issues. And it came despite the fact that Veeco's four nuclear plants can make electricity at an operating cost of half a cent per kilowatt hour, compared to two cents for coal and 5 cents for oil.

The company based its decision on studies it commissioned from three different energy and economic consultants.

High capital and interest costs as well as lagging growth in electricity demand were the main problems.

"The nuclear program has less flexibility in it simply because of the way it progresses," Berry said.

A reactor, unlike a coal plant, may take 10 or 12 years to build and license. Until a plant is licensed and becomes part of the rate base, a utility must pay interest on the borrowed capital from its own cash flow.

With a price tag approaching $1.5 billion, a new reactor will cost a utility between 25 and 50 percent more than a comparable coal-fired unit during its lifetime, said New York economist Charles Komanoff. "The difference between the construction costs of new nuclear and new coal plants have gotten to be enormous," he said.

There are signs that some investors may be shunning nuclear utilities.

"To some extent, all utilities with heavy nuclear involvement have had to bear that burden," said T. Justin Moore, the Veeco chairman.

Veeco paid a penalty of one-quarter to three-eighths of an interest percentage point for being the first utility to float new bonds after Three Mile Island, Moore said.

Dr. Lou Perl of Economic Research Associates, one of Veeco's consultants, agreed there is reason to think the investment community has come full circle since 1954 when nuclear projects were favored over oil plants.

Carl Walske, president of the Atomic Industrial Forum trade group, said he was told of investor resistance to nuclear projects by two utilities and the Paine Webber investment firm.

But he said one electric company and Paine Webber thought it was a temporary phenomenon that disappeared quickly after Three Mile Island.

Walske complained that financially distressed utilities have taken a no-growth posture when they should be promoting electricity use.

Electric cars, residential heat pumps and mass transit are what the country needs to exploit its abundant coal and uranium reserves and phase out heavy dependency on foreign oil, he said.

But he said the expansion of electrical generation with coal and nuclear power will take a selling job by the country's political leaders as well as utility rate relief from state regulators.

Taylor said the incoming Reagan administration could help the industry by promoting industrial expansion.

While Taylor and Walske view coal and nuclear power as interchangeable domestic substitutes for scarce oil, Komanoff sees them as competitors for limited investment capital.

With annual electricity demand growth down to about 2 percent, compared to pre-1970 levels of 7 percent, new plant orders are at a premium.

Vince Taylor of the Union of Concerned Scientists notes that since 1978 the utility industry has cut its daily oil use by a third, or 600,000 barrels, through conservation and increased coal use.

Nuclear energy's contribution, meanwhile, slipped about 10 percent despite industry arguments that reactors saved imported oil, he said.

Taylor said only 300,000 barrels of oil — half the amount already replaced by conservation — would be saved by 1985 if all reactors now existing or planned are operating.

But the competitive advantage some see in coal in 1980 may prove a temporary thing if electricity demand perks up and large numbers of new plants are required.

S. David Freeman, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, recently predicted that coal prices are rising fast enough to make nuclear power look as if it may be a bargain in the early 1990s.

In the meantime, the country's nuclear vendors will have to learn how to stay in business without new orders.

Westinghouse, at least, has a large backlog of business in fuel and safety retrofitting of existing plants plus an occasional overseas reactor order.

"I'm positive we'll be around when the nuclear power program begins to grow again in the United States," said J.J. Taylor.

Doggie Diner Losing Dogs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The silly-faced, 10-foot dachshunds that have adorned Doggie Diner rooftops since the late '40s are going the way of the nickel candy bar.

The reddish-brown dog heads with white chef's cap and blue bow ties were once as familiar in the Bay Area as McDonald's golden arches. But the signs have been leashed by strict zoning laws, changing tastes and image-conscious restaurant management.

And the dogs are becoming collectors items. "They may be garish, but they had an interesting character," said Arthur Asa Berger, who teaches semiology — the science of signs — at San Francisco State University.

Berger called the dog heads "a part of our sign heritage," and added: "We're in a more streamlined and blander society."

Founded in 1948 by Al Ross, the chain grew to 30 outlets. In the mid-1960s, a city ordinance banned rotating signs and the Doggie's head, which had been turning at 5 rpm, stop swiveling. In 1969, Ross sold out to the Ogden Corp.

Today, there are 19 diners. Many are dogless, relying instead on a simple sign saying: "Hot Dogs — Hamburgers."

"We're upgrading, image-wise," explained Doggie Diner president Marvin Mohn, who began as a Doggie Diner cook 30 years ago. Mohn developed such a fondness for the pooches that he got a pet dachshund.

"The way I feel is everything has its time," said Ross.

No Epitaphs Yet For The Skipjack

By Lowell Georgia
© 1980 National Geographic

HARVESTING WINTER'S GOLD, skipjacks pull their dredges across the oyster beds of the Chesapeake Bay. At the turn of the century, 1,500 of these handcrafted, sail-driven workboats plied the bay. Although only 30 remain in the last commercial sailing fleet in North America, new skipjacks are once again joining the fleet to follow the watermen's traditional manner of oystering.

By R.R. KIRTLAND
National Geographic
News Service

WASHINGTON — The Skipjack will sail into the mists of memory, they said. They'll never build another one.

Observers of the Chesapeake Bay and its oystering industry have predicted that the use of sail for commercial fishing, long confined to the historic skipjack fleet in the Maryland portion of the Bay, will not survive these modern times. But the epitaph may be premature.

Since the turn of the century, when 1,500 skipjacks worked the Bay, a few of these sturdy craft have run up the rivers to die each year or have been converted into pleasure boats. In a turn-about this season and last, two former skipjacks that had been sold as yachts in the 1960s have been reclaimed by the fleet and returned to their original function—oystering.

And a new skipjack, the Dee of St. Mary's, recently was launched — the first newly constructed vessel to join the fleet in 24 years. A second will be launched later in the oyster-dredging season, which runs from Nov. 1 to March 15.

Leg-o'-Mutton

The skipjack is a shallow-draft, V-bottomed, centerboard workboat — broad beamed with a long needle bow and square stern. Essentially a work platform built close to the water for dredging ease, its good looks are due to its graceful bowsprit, huge triangular "leg-o'-mutton" mainsail, and a small working jib sail.

The skipjack came into being sometime after the Civil War, initially as an inexpensive adaptation of the more graceful bugeyes and schooners. Based on the philosophy that form follows function, the skipjack evolved as the best solution for oyster dredging, easy to build as well as handle.

This functional quality, and an 1865 Maryland law that restricts the dredging of oysters to sailing vessels, has ensured the survival of the 30 remaining skipjacks registered to work the Bay this year.

Now two new skipjacks are being constructed by shipwright Melbourne Smith, modeled on the Minnie V, which was built by a waterman in 1906. The first, to be named the Minnie V, will be docked at Baltimore's recently renovated Inner Harbor as a museum. The second will join the oyster dredging fleet this winter.

Handcrafted

The Dee of St. Mary's was built for Skipper Jack Russell by Francis Goddard in the watermen's tradition of excellent handcrafted boats made from the timber of the forests near the banks of the Bay's many tributaries. Goddard would like to build two more — one for his 25-year-old son, Wayne, and one for himself.

Although it costs nearly $100,000 to construct a new skipjack and between $6,000 and $20,000 annually to maintain the older ones, public programs may help the oystermen stay in business. These include loan guarantees that permit new skipjacks to be financed over 15 to 20 years, and deferred tax liability on money saved for replacing and improving commercial vessels.

The watermen are optimistic about the future of the fleet. Stanley Larrimore, an Eastern Shore waterman who captains the Lady Katie, predicts: "There'll be skipjacks working as long as Maryland prohibits 'drudgin' under power and as long as there are 'arsters' in the Bay."

Battalion Sent To Indian Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says the deployment of a battalion of 1,800 Marines into the Indian Ocean marks the fifth time since March that the United States has sent a small force of Marines into those waters as part of the U.S. military presence there.

The battalion is traveling aboard the Navy amphibious assault ship Tarawa, the tank-landing ship Barbour County and the amphibious cargo ship St. Louis, the Pentagon said Monday. The battalion replaces a similar unit which left the Indian Ocean Dec. 7 for the Mediterranean.

The United States has 34 naval vessels in the Indian Ocean-Arabian Sea-Persian Gulf region. The Soviet navy has 31 ships in the same general area.

CHECKING DENTURES

Fortunately—or unfortunately—you no longer have any problems with your upper teeth. They were all removed some years ago and you now wear a full upper denture. Does this mean you can forget about visiting your dentist regularly? Not if you value your health and future comfort!

Regular appointments with the dentist are as important for denture-wearers as for people with natural teeth. The mouth tissue, bony ridges and gums that support dentures are constantly undergoing changes and may impair the dentures' proper function. Even such general health ailments as vitamin deficiencies, extended illness, drug therapy, weight loss, diabetes or high blood pressure can change the way dentures fit.

Ill-fitting dentures can seriously damage the mouth, causing abrasions, bruises, inflammation and rapid destruction of the supporting bone. Prolonged irritation of this kind may result in the development of tumors.

It is important to have a dental checkup at least once a year to insure that your dentures are properly adjusted and that your mouth is in good health.

A public service with the aim of promoting a better dental health environment. From the dentists of Pitt County.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a steep drop today following an overnight sell recommendation by a well-known investment adviser.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which closed Tuesday at its highest level in more than four years, fell 17.92 to 986.77 in the first half hour today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a one-sided margin in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Numerous stocks were delayed in opening because of the influx of sell orders.

Joseph Granville, publisher of a market letter based in Holly Hill, Fla., sent out his "sell" message overnight by telegram to subscribers to his "early warning service." Granville could not be reached for comment. However, several Wall Street sources confirmed he had declared that "a top has been reached." He recommended that his subscribers sell all their holdings, and sell short the stocks that have risen the most in recent months.

Granville, a controversial figure who is as critical of orthodox Wall Street analysts as they often are of him, is known for sudden changes of opinion. When he sent out a buy recommendation last April 20, it helped touch off a 30.72-point jump in the Dow.

The most recent edition of his weekly market letter, dated Jan. 3, urged, "Do some aggressive new buying. The market is signaling a sharp upswing ahead."

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 12.03 to 1,004.69, its highest close since it finished at 1,013.13 on Sept. 27, 1976.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 67.40 million shares, the ninth largest total on record.

The NYSE's composite index rose .06 to 79.14.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 3.68 at 353.59.

Williamston Water Well Is Approved

WILLIAMSTON — An agreement to begin work toward getting a new town water well, authorization for action on a new recreation building, and the approval of a rate increase for cable television were the principal items on the agenda of the Williamston Town Board at its January meeting Monday.

Following a report on the status of the old town wells made by Junior Long, superintendent of town works, commissioners agreed to "get the ball rolling" on adding a new town well to the system.

A motion to authorize the Recreation Advisory Committee to proceed with drawing up plans for the first phase of a new recreation building was approved. It is to be built in the new town park off Rhodes Street. The proposed complex has been designed for construction in two phases. Only the first phase plans are being considered at this time.

Funds in the amount of $150,000 are available for recreation use, of which $140,000 can be authorized for actual construction.

New rates approved for cable television service provided by Windsor Cablevision, Inc. are for an increase from $6.75 to $7.50 for a basic hook-up, and an increase from $12.50 to $15 for the installation fee.

Berney Stevens of the cablevision company told commissioners the increases were justified to overcome cost increases faced by the company.

Shorthand Class Offered

Pitt Community College, Pitt County Community Schools, and Farmville Central High School, will co-sponsor a shorthand class at Farmville Central beginning on January 8 at 7 p.m.

The class will meet from 7:30 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays for 12 weeks. The class will be good as a review for those needing to brush-up on skills.

The cost of the course is $5 and it is open to any adult. Students are responsible for their books and materials.

For further information contact the PCC Division of Continuing Education at 756-3130, ext. 238.

MASONIC NOTICE

There will be a stated communication at Crown Point Lodge No. 708 AF&AM at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, January 8 for open installation of officers for the year 1981.

town is not responsible for damage to the property of Horace Allen at 107 N. Main Street which resulted from a water leak in the building. Allen asserted in a letter to the board dated Sept. 30, 1980, that he felt the town owed Allen and Jones Furniture Inc. $1,824.07 for damage to furniture stored in the building which the firm uses as a showroom and warehouse. The furniture was damaged, he said, as a result of the bursting of a capped water line inside the warehouse. There was no working meter at the building and Allen therefore feels that the line belongs to the town and that the town is liable for the damage, he said in the letter.

Approved the bid of General Electric Supply for three oil circuit breakers at a cost of $16,025 each.

Confirmed the following appointments by Mayor Linwood Mercer: Little Contentnea Creek Watershed Committee — Commissioner John Turne; Walston; Library Board — Mrs. Anne W. Joyner and Mrs. Nan Gray Monk, reappointed for one year each; Dr. Dan Heizer, appointed for three years to replace Mrs. Cherry Easley; and Frederick Graham, appointed for three years; Community Development Advisory Board — Walter Moffitt.

Set a workshop for Monday evening, Jan. 12 to talk with the planning board and an ad hoc housing committee about Farmville's housing situation.

Were reminded by the mayor of the need for all haste and diligence in finding a site for a new Southside Fire Station.

Obituary Column

Baker
Mrs. Esther Jones Elks Baker, 68, died at her home, 400 Toyota Drive, Ayden, last night.

Her funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel by the Rev. Gene Wood, her pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Baker was born and reared in Pitt County and spent most of her life in Martin and Pitt Counties. She was married to Daniel Webster Elks, who died in 1969, and later to Mr. Baker, who survives her. She was a longtime employee of Rose's Stores, both in the downtown and Pitt Plaza locations, retiring in 1971. She was a member of Community Baptist Church of Ayden.

Surviving her are her husband, Travis Baker of the home; a son, Curtis Elks of Grifton; a daughter, Mrs. J. B. Creech of Rt. 3, Greenville; her stepmother, Mrs. Nina Mae Jones of Ayden; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Royce Harris of Rt. 1, Winterville; a brother, Harry Lee Jones of Goldsboro; five sisters, Mrs. Olivia Hardee and Mrs. Gay Nobles, both of Greenville, Mrs. Harvey Stallings and Mrs. App Williams, both of Ayden, and Miss Goldie Jones of Goldsboro; three half sisters, Mrs. Floyd Bullock of Greenville, Mrs. Claude Baines of Ayden, Mrs. George Whaley of Scuffletown; three half brothers, Ashley Jones of Winterville, Harold Jones of Grimesland and George Arnold Jones of Black Jack; two stepbrothers, Floyd Toler of Greenville and Ray Toler of Bayboro; eight grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Second Half Charge Lifts ECU Past UNC-W, 72-64

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Dave Odom got hot at halftime, and his East Carolina Pirates came back hot in the second half to blister the nets for 73.7 per cent of their shots as the Bucs gained their second straight win last night, a 72-64 decision over UNC-Wilmington.

Odom, angered by a call at the horn, found himself being confronted by UNC-Wilmington's mascot, a student dressed up in a Seahawk outfit, as he protested the call to officials. Odom later received an apology from Wilmington officials, but the Pirate mentor had already worked off his steam as his team broke open a close game to take as much as an 11-point lead during the final half, paced not only by excellent shooting from the floor, but also from the line.

East Carolina burned through 14 of 19 shots from the floor in the second half, and added 19 of 22 free throws, including 17 of 18 during the final ten minutes when the Pirates pulled away from the Seahawks. The resulting 59.5 percent shooting for the game from the floor and the 88.0 percentage at the foul line was too much for the Seahawks to overcome.

"This was a great lesson in what can be accomplished when everyone works together and they don't worry about who gets the credit," Odom exulted afterwards.

"This was the best game we've played — it's not the best we can play — but it is the best we've played," he added.

"The key to it was that we competed for 40 minutes and we showed patience on offense and defense."

That patience was obvious in the final ten minutes of the second half, when both teams had long scoring droughts. East Carolina went 5:02 without a point, while Wilmington went 6:05 without scoring. While both teams missed shots during that period, long periods went by without shots because of the defense of both teams.

East Carolina went with a 2-3 zone much of the way, while Wilmington went with a 3-2. The Pirates finally solved that, and when the Seahawks went with a man, they had even less trouble with that.

"It would be ludicrous to point out individuals," Odom said, "since so many played well. It's obvious that we're getting leadership where we didn't have it earlier and that has a lot to do with what we're doing now. But we are a team, and we want to stay like that."

Despite that, the play of Charles Watkins continued to stand out as the glue that is steadily bringing the Pirates together as a unit. In last night's action, Watkins, now in double figures in three of his

ECU Hosts UNC-A Thursday

East Carolina University's Pirates return home to open a four-game stand as they host UNC-Asheville on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

Asheville brings a 6-6 record into the game, coming off a 69-56 win over Carson-Newman, where they had not won in three years.

The Bulldogs are led by Eddie Latta, senior guard with a 14.1 average, and Mitchell Hill, a junior guard, at 12.0.

Paul Allen, a freshman transfer from Iowa State, scored 14 points in his first outing against Carson-Newman. Pat Jolley, a freshman center, averages 7 rebounds a game.

East Carolina's scoring is led by Charles Watkins with a 16.5 mark over his four games so far. Mark McLaurin has a 10.9 average hitting 62.0 per cent from the floor.

The Pirates will then face strong Pan American on Saturday night.

we've changed some techniques and it has obviously helped."

The first half was a tight one, with East Carolina moving out by six and Wilmington by five on occasions. The score was tied on four occasions, and the lead changed hands three times. Down 15-10, the Pirates, led by seven points from Underwood, moved out to a 19-15 lead while Wilmington was in a three and a half minute drought. After that, the Bucs upped it to 23-17 before Wilmington finally caught fire in the final two minutes and came back within one, 25-24 at the half.

The early minutes of the second half were close too. The lead changed hands twice, and the score was tied on six occasions before the Pirates regained the lead for good at 47-45 on a corner jumper by McLaurin with 8:51 left. Wilmington hung within two until the seven minute mark, when the Pirates, behind four points by Watkins, pushed through eighth straight for a 59-49 lead with 5:02 showing.

The rest of the way, the Pirates hit on 11 of 12 free throws and got only one basket as they held off the Seahawks final attempts to rally. An uncontested dunk shot at the horn by former Washington High School player Shawn Williams allowed the margin to fall below ten.

"We really played the zone well, and I thought we played (Danny) Davis (the leading Seahawk scorer) well. The zone really neutralized him. And we handled their change of defense well, and we rebounded well early," Odom added.

Jimmy Denton led Wilmington with 17 points, while Davis, scoring 11 second half points, finished with 12, six of them at the foul line.

The loss dropped Wilmington to 2-5 overall, but was their first loss in three home starts.

East Carolina is now 5-6 and will try to even its record on Thursday night in Greenville when it hosts UNC-Asheville.

2 ECU Coaches Resign Posts

Two members of the East Carolina University football staff have resigned, according to head coach Ed Emory.

Henry Trevathan, an 11-year veteran with the Pirate staff, and Jim Gudger, who joined the Pirates with Emory at the start of the past season, both have offered their resignations, effective immediately.

Both of the ex-Pirate coaches are graduates of East Carolina.

"We appreciate the effort of these two coaches over the years," Emory said.

Plans of the two were not immediately known.

Trevathan came to East Carolina in 1970, following successful tenures at both Wilson Fike and Rocky Mount Senior high schools. At Fike, his teams won three successive 4-A state championships. At East Carolina, his final duties were with the wide receivers and the specialty teams.

Gudger, who was the offensive line coach, previously coached at Rains High School in Texas, West Craven High School, Western New Mexico University, Gardner-Webb College, Eastern Illinois University, Delta State University and Lenoir Rhyne College.

Vikings, Redskins Among AP Top 10

By The Associated Press

Durham Jordan and Rutherfordton-Spindale Central, familiar names among North Carolina's top high school basketball teams, have launched another battle for ratings in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Jordan is No. 1 and R-S Central second in the first AP poll of the season. The poll was conducted among a statewide panel of sportswriters but does not reflect Tuesday night's games.

Other leaders this week are Chapel Hill (4A boys), Goldsboro (4A girls), Statesville (3A girls), Pantego (2A-1A boys) and Wake Forest-Rolesville (2A-1A girls).

Jordan was No. 1 among the 3A boys much of last season, edging R-S Central most weeks. But it was a different story in the high school playoffs, when Jordan lost to eventual state champion R-S Central.

Here is how a statewide panel of sportswriters rates North Carolina high school basketball teams this week. Points are assigned on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, then nine for second, eight for third, and so on. First-place votes are in parentheses.

Lady Pirates Wallop Stetson

By JOHN STALLINGS
Special To The Reflector

DELAND, Fla. — East Carolina's Lady Pirates, still smarting from a disappointing 74-67 loss to Florida, ripped Stetson, 101-67, Tuesday night as five players hit in double figures.

Senior point guard Laurie Sikes led a Lady Pirate charge that ballooned a 46-37 halftime lead to 85-45 with 9:25 left in the contest. ECU coach Cathy Andruzzi emptied her bench in the first half and only Sikes and center Marcia Girven played more than half the 40 minutes.

"They out-aggressed us, if there's such a word," Stetson coach Kelly Jordan said. "We played sloppily, but a lot of that was due to the aggressive defense East Carolina played. They ran their halfcourt press in the first half and it didn't bother us much. They made some adjustments on it at halftime and we made a lot of turnovers. Once they got geared up in a transition game they shot the lights out."

with 14. Girven with 12 and Mary Denkler with 11.

"We played a tremendous team game," Andruzzi said. "We put last night behind us and played loose. We've played some highly pressurized games and we needed to be loose."

"I'll take some of the blame. I stayed on them and some of them were afraid of making a mistake. I had a talk with them today and told them not to worry about the mistakes."

The 'loose' Lady Pirates burned in a sizzling 67% of their field goal tries and canned 15 of 21 free throws as they topped the century mark for the first time this season. Reserve forward Fran Hooks popped in a 15-foot jumper with 1:58 remaining to put ECU in triple figures.

Despite losing the rebounding battle, 41-40, ECU forced 27 turnovers and made 17 steals to turn the game into a romp.

Stetson point guard Donna Johnson poured in 19 of her game-high 25 points in the first half as the Hatters stayed close on the strength of an 11-of-21 at the charity stripe. ECU, which was whistled for 16 fouls and 31 personals and a technical on Andruzzi for the game, hit six of six free throws in the first half.

"The officiating was different here," Andruzzi said. "They whistled at everything, but our girls adjusted well."

Only Sam Jones and Girven fouled out for ECU while Stetson collected 16 personals for the game. But three early fouls on Hatter center Karen Lovaglio hurt Stetson, now 6-4.

At the beginning of the second half ECU put on a half-court press which produced several fast break baskets by Sikes, Jones and Riley. Sikes handcuffed Johnson with help from her teammates in the second half. Johnson, an all-state guard, got her first field goal of the second half with a minute and a half gone, but she took only two shots during the rest of the game.

"Donna was at the top of our offense," said Jordan, a Wake Forest graduate. "They pinched her off at the key and nobody picked up the scoring."

ECU, now 8-3, travels to Florida State Thursday night to cap its Florida trip. The Lady Pirates will watch the Seminoles play Indiana tonight in Tallahassee.

"I hope we can have a good game against Florida State because we'll need one. They blew away Florida, 90-48, early in the season and they have a strong, physical ball team," Andruzzi said.

Rocky Mount Demolishes Rose, 80-44

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
Turkey, turkey, who ate the turkey? Greenville Rose's basketball team, that's who. And the Rampants must have gone back for seconds, and thirds.

Rose returned to the court Tuesday evening and were unable to shake off both the effects of a long Christmas break and a Rocky Mount club that has lost only one game this season. As a result the Gryphons stuffed and roasted the Rampants to a burnt crisp, 80-44, in a Division I Conference battle.

Earlier, the Rose girls' fared no better as the Lady Gryphons rolled to a 67-47 victory.

"I don't think the turkey's out of them yet," Rose coach Jim Brewington. "But it will be before Friday night. All those days off hurt us. We just stood around and watched tonight.

"It was just one of those games. We looked at the other team play and just watched. We made 'em look that good." Rocky Mount, ranked #2 in the state in the first AP poll of high school teams, released today, didn't need Rose's help. The Gryphons, now 9-1 overall and 1-1 in the league, matched the Rampants' quickness and had plenty extra. Rocky Mount displayed quickness seldom seen in a high school basketball team at all five positions and had little trouble with the Rampants this night.

How quick is Rocky Mount? Well, the Gryphons forced Brewington to try to slow down the tempo, one of the few times this season the Rampants, who thrive on the fast break, tried that. But not this night.

Down 36-20 at the half, Rose, now 6-3 overall and 1-1 in the league, came out in a 3-2 zone after trying both a 2-3 and man-to-man in the first half. But the 3-2 barely seemed to bother the Gryphons. "We were trying to slow down the tempo but it didn't work," Brewington said. "We weren't doing anything right and we were trying to find something that would work."

On this night little worked right for Rose and much of the blame must go to junior guard George McClain, who poured in a game-high 18 points. Perhaps the quickest of the Gryphons, McClain also contributed three first-half steals.

The game started out slowly. But with the score tied at 8-8 the Gryphons scored nine straight points, all of which came within 12 feet of the bucket, to take a 17-8 lead at the end of the opening quarter, a quarter that saw Rose turn the ball over nine times.

The Rampants cut the deficit to 19-16 midway through the second period on a driving layup by Ronnie Worsley. Worsley, who was fouled on the play, missed the free throw and Rocky Mount was off and running again. Led by Randy Smith's three-point play and jumper from the lane and two layups by Ray Green, the Gryphons outscored Rose 17-4 over the last four minutes of the half to take a 36-20 lead at intermission.

The second half was more of the same. The Gryphons worked their advantage to 30, 56-26, when McClain bounced a pass between three Rose players to Jerome Garrett, who sank a short jumper from the right side of the lane. Rose trailed at the end of the period, 60-29, before both teams sent in subs to finish off the last eight minutes.

Ironically, many of the Rocky Mount subs were starters only last week. Following a 58-48 loss to Beddingfield Saturday night - the Gryphons' first game since the Christmas break and their only loss this season - Rocky Mount coach Reggie Henderson benched three of his starters. Only McClain and Green, who had 10 points Tuesday night, retained their starting jobs.

The other three starters - Alton Phillips, Chuck Robbins and Ronnie Winston - were replaced by Dino Moore, Randy Smith and James Lewis. Smith had nine points and Lewis added six, but it was Moore who most impressive. Moore, a 5-2 guard who rivals McClain in quickness, contributed 10 points while directing the Rocky Mount attack.

Rose was led by guard Donald Johnson's 15 points. No other Rampant had over six points as Rose suffered its lowest scoring output of the season. The Rampants previous low was 60, in a 60-55 win over Washington. The performance left Brewington looking toward Friday's battle in Wilson with highly-regarded Beddingfield. "This (the loss) worried me and it worried them (the players)," Brewington said. "This is probably the worst beating they've ever taken. Now it's time to regroup."

In the girls' game, Kim Taylor, Vecchonia Jenkins and Kerri Kolehma combined for 47 points to lead Rocky Mount to an easy 20-point victory over the Rampettes.

Taylor and Jenkins both had 16 while Kolehma added 15 as the Gryphons evened their record at 5-5 overall and moved to 2-0 in the league race. Rocky Mount jumped out on top 14-11 at the end of the first period and then outscored the Rampettes 21-9 in the second to take command of the game. "The big layoff hurt us," Rose coach Dennis Gibson said. "We just didn't hit the boards like we should with our height and didn't box out. And that second quarter just killed us."

After cutting the deficit to 20-18 with 5:25 left in the half on two straight jumpers by Monica Gatlin, who led Rose with 16 points, Greenville did not score again until there were just 17 seconds left in the period. Rocky Mount, meanwhile, had tallied 15 points to take a lead that Rose never threatened.

Rose's Mary Gay scored 10 points for Rose, which falls to 1-6 overall and 0-2 in the league.

"This is the best team in the conference," Gibson said. "But if we had played like we did before the Christmas break it might have been different. We were the only team around that didn't play in a tournament over Christmas and the layoff hurt."

"We're young and inexperienced, but we're not giving up. I still say the team that wins the conference is going to win only seven games."

Bear Grass Rallies Past Manteo, 62-57

MANTEO - Bear Grass High School rallied in the second half and gained a 62-57 victory over Manteo in a Tobacco Belt Conference game last night. In the girls' contest, Manteo downed the Lady Bears, 62-58.

In the girls' game, Manteo rolled out to a 20-13 lead in the first period. Bear Grass clipped one off that in the second period and trailed 36-30 at halftime. Manteo pulled away, 13-9, in the third frame and took a 49-39 lead into the final quarter. In that, the Bears rallied, 19-13, but fell short.

Meekins led the Manteo scoring with 22 points, while W. McKease and Haniels each had ten.

Angie Mizelle had 27 to lead the Lady Bears with Aria Williams adding 12.

In the boys' contest, both Manteo and Bear Grass dumped in 16 first period points, but Manteo slipped out into a 32-31 halftime lead.

Bear Grass came back to regain the lead in the third period, holding a 45-44 edge as the final quarter got started. The Bears then outit Manteo, 17-13, in that frame to claim the win.

Rudy Brown led Bear Grass with 18 points, while William Roberson had 16 and Mike Bailey had 13.

Rams Beat Back Vikes, 52-45

SNOW HILL - It was a crucial midseason showdown and Greene Central came away with the victory.

The Rams, leaders of the Eastern Carolina Conference, beat back the challenge of D.H. Conley, 52-45, Tuesday night. The victory left Greene Central at 6-0 in the ECC, the only unbeaten team in conference play. The Rams are 10-2 overall, having lost only to 4-A Beddingfield.

ECU Signs Two Among Top 25

Two outstanding football prospects have added their names to the growing list of East Carolina University's incoming class.

The newest signees are Ivan Chapman, a 6-4, 235-pound lineman from West Charlotte High School, and Rick Nochols, a 6-1, 175-pound receiver from Great Bridge, Va.

Both of these young men are considered among the top 25 prospects in their respective states.

regular season crown along with Southern Nash and perhaps North Lenoir, drops to 8-3 overall and 4-2 in the league.

Earlier, in the girls' game, D.H. Conley, on two field goals by Karen Barrett, defeated Greene Central in overtime, 44-42.

"I think one of the keys to the game was that we were able to rebound with them," Greene Central coach Lewis Godwin said. "We rebounded them and were able to shoot better in the second half."

After an 8-8 first period, Greene Central edged out on top, 21-14, at the break and pushed that to 25-24 at the end of the third period. At that point the Vikings rallied, but it wasn't enough as they lost by seven. Greene Central was led by Roderick Lane's 18 points. David Joyner had 12 for the Rams while Phillip Hill added 11. DHC was led by Sammy Tucker's 12 points. No one else for Conley was in double figures.

In the girls' game, Greene Central's Sylvia Swinson hit one of two free throws to send the game into overtime but two field goals by Karen Barrett gave the Valkyries the victory. Trailing 40-39 with less than two minutes to go, Swinson was fouled and made the front end of a one-and-one. The second missed and when neither team scored again the game went into overtime.

The Valkyries took the in-tial lead in the extra period on a Barrett jumper but a free throw by Beverly Pitt (she missed the second) cut the lead to one, 42-41.

Barrett's second jumper made it 44-41 but a free throw by Sharen Suggs (who also missed the second shot) cut it to 44-42, which is how it ended.

Missed free throws hurt both teams. DHC was 14 of 26 while Greene Central was 12 of 27. Both teams had 15 field goals.

Barrett had 11 points for Conley, now 7-2 overall and 4-2 in the league. Jackie Hansley had 10 for the winners. Greene Central was led by Letha Taylor's game-high 20 points and Sugg's 10. The Lady Rams are now 5-7 overall and 2-4 in the ECC.

The game started out with Conley taking a 15-8 first-period lead and a 26-20 halftime advantage. The Lady Rams continued to chip away at the lead and trailed at the end of the third period by five, 34-29, before tying it up late and sending the game into overtime where they could not salvage the win.

Pitt Hands Seymour First Loss, 100-89

LITTLEFIELD - Pitt Community College gained its seventh victory of the season last night, downing previously unbeaten Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, 100-89.

The Paladins led throughout most of the game, blowing a lead in the late minutes of the first half to see their margin dwindle to only 45-42. In the second half, however, the Paladins pulled away again, maintaining the lead throughout the half for the eventual 11 point difference.

"Frankie Dail and Jeff Tyson both had outstanding nights," coach Linwood Woodard said. Dail hit on 13 of 15 shots from the floor to lead all scorers with 33 points. Tyson, hitting 8 of 10 from the floor, finished with 16. Calvin Horne added 14 and Dennis Batts had 11.

"Our guards did a good job against their press," Woodard added. "Seymour Johnson is a lot more physical than any of the other teams we've played." He noted that the Airmen beat Pitt in a scrimmage game prior to the opening of the season.

Seymour Johnson fell to 11-1 with the loss, while Pitt is now 7-2.

Seymour Johnson's scoring was led by Donald Hardison with 24, while Herbert Collie and Mike McLean each had 20.

Pitt plays host to James Sprunt on Friday in a game to be played at North Pitt.

Seymour Johnson: Collie 10 0-1 20, Hardison 10 4-8 24, McLean 9 2-5 20, Sheppard 16-10 8, Wooten 3-3-9, Young 2 0-1, Pickett 2-0-1, Totals 57 15-30 89.

Williamston Downs Cougars

WILLIAMSTON - Chrish Peele, Vincent Washington and Tom Bennett combined for 31 points to lead Williamston to a 50-41 victory over Northeastern Conference foe Ahsokie Tuesday night.

Peele led the Tiger attack with 11 points while Washington and Bennett added 10 each as Williamston upped its record to 5-4 overall.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Williamston extended its record to 7-2 overall with an easy 52-23 win over Ahsokie.

In the boys' game, Williamston moved on top, 12-6, after the opening period but Ahsokie tied it up at the half, 21-21. The Tigers regained the advantage in the third period, 34-31, and then outscored the Cougars, 16-10, in the final eight minutes to win by nine.

Ahsokie was led by Glenn Mitchell's 11 points and Terrence White's 10.

In the girls' game, Williamston jumped ahead, 11-7, and then led at the break, 26-11, before coasting home in the second half with the 29-point win.

Lynn Mills led Williamston in scoring with 10 points. No one for Ahsokie had over eight.

Williamston travels to Plymouth Friday.

OLD OAKEN BUCKET
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - The Old Oaken Bucket has been the trophy which goes to the winner of the Indiana-Purdue football game since 1925.

The bucket itself is said to be well over 100 years old, and legend has it that it was used by Morgan's Raiders during the Civil War.

On several occasions the bucket has been stolen by partisans from one school or the other, but it has always turned up again. The bucket is now in the possession of Purdue, thanks to a 24-23 victory in the 1980 renewal of the series.

Hawks Hold Off Jaguars

FARMVILLE — An improving Farmville Central club battled North Lenoir even until the last three minutes of the game before missed opportunities by the Jaguars and free throws by the Hawks sealed a 65-62 win for North Lenoir Tuesday night in an Eastern Carolina Conference game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Farmville Central defeated North Lenoir, 47-41.

Farmville, after regaining the lead in the third period, saw the Hawks move ahead, 57-56, with three minutes to go and revert to the stall.

Forced to foul, the Jaguars picked on Eugene Conner and Danny Wooten, both of whom hit four-of-four free throws from the line down the stretch to give the Hawks the victory.

Isiah Heath led the Hawks in scoring with a game-high 23 points while Conner added 19 and Wooten 10. Farmville was paced by Andrew Edwards' 13 points and Barry Gay's 12.

Farmville, now 1-11 overall and 1-5 in the league, led after the first period, 15-13, but North Lenoir, 8-4 and 4-2, tied it up at the half, 32-32. The Jaguars regained the lead at the end of the third period, 46-44, but could not hold it as the Hawks put on their last minute charge.

In the girls' game, Etta Gorham scored 13 points and Rose Edmonds 12 to lead the Lady Jaguars to their fourth win of the season in 10 outings. Farmville is 2-4 in the conference.

Farmville led after the first period, 8-2, and at the half, 25-15. North Lenoir, however, cut the deficit to 35-28 at the end of the third period but the Lady Jaguars then held off the Hawks in the last minutes to win.

Farmville plays host to Greene Central Friday night.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar took his latest milestone in stride. Abdul-Jabbar became the National Basketball Association's fourth leading all-time scorer by hitting 22 points in the Los Angeles Lakers' 107-98 victory over the Washington Bullets Tuesday night. He passed ex-Laker Jerry West and, with 25,207 points, now trails only Wilt Chamberlain (31,419), Oscar Robertson (26,710) and John Havlicek (26,395) on the all-time list.

The second spot clearly is well within his grasp, but at the age of 33, can the Lakers' 7-foot-2 center catch Wilt and become No. 1?

"I don't have a big concern about passing Wilt," he said. "I'd like to get out and win the championship one more time. That's more important."

Was he excited about reaching the fourth rung on the scoring ladder? "I'm 'Not really,'" he said. "I'm more worried about what is happening this season than about my career."

What has been happening for the defending champion Lakers has not been very encouraging. Since guard Magic Johnson suffered a knee injury in November, the Lakers have posted only a mediocre 12-11 record and have fallen seven games behind the Phoenix Suns in the Pacific Division race.

Abdul-Jabbar passed West with a skyhook with 3:42 remaining in the first quarter as the Lakers took the lead early and held off every comeback bid by the Bullets.

Norm Nixon led the Lakers over Washington with 30 points, tying his career high, and 12 assists. Jamaal Wilkes added 23 points for Los Angeles and Jim Chones had 15 points and 10 rebounds.

Michael Cooper made his first start for the Lakers since Dec. 6. He had originally been given Johnson's starting spot, but then was replaced by rookie Butch Carter as Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead searched for the right combination.

"I'm not so concerned with who starts the game as who is in at the finish," said Westhead. "I'm still trying to balance and even things out. We haven't solved the riddle about how to spread out the playing time with Magic out. Whatever it takes to get an even effort over 48 minutes, I'll try."

Bulls 108, Clippers 93

Chicago fell behind by 13 points in the first half but dominated play the rest of the way as Larry Kenon scored 31 points and Reggie Theus added 27. The Bulls have won 12 of their last 16 outings, while San Diego is on a five-game losing streak.

Despite the victory, which evened his club's record at 21-21, Bulls Coach Jerry Sloan called the effort "mediocre at best."

Spurs 113, Knicks 108

James Silas scored a season-high 33 points and San Antonio shot 61 percent to extend its winning streak to five games. The Spurs broke the game open with a 16-4 burst in the fourth quarter in which they held the Knicks to just one field goal in more than six minutes.

Bucks 102, Nets 86

Junior Bridgeman scored 16 of his 31 points in the third quarter to help Milwaukee turn a 45-42 halftime deficit into a 79-64 lead going into the final period.

Suns 113, Hawks 106

Phoenix posted its ninth victory in the last 10 games as forward Len "Truck" Robinson scored 33 points. The Suns opened a 15-point lead in the first period and were never caught.

Blazers 110, Pistons 90

Portland, led by guards Billy Ray Bates and Jim Paxson, outscored Detroit 25-8 in the first seven minutes of the final period and breezed past the Pistons. Paxson led all scorers with 21 points and Bates finished with 15.

6th Bethel Race Set For Saturday

The sixth annual Bethel/Natural Light Marathon will be held Saturday between Oak City and Bethel.

The event is sponsored annually by the Coastal Carolina Track Club and Anheuser-Busch of Greenville. Jim Dill is the defending champion in the race.

Two events will be held. The marathon starts at 9:30 a.m. and a 10-kilometer event will be held at 9:45 a.m. Starting and finishing lines for both events are in Bethel.

The marathon course follows N.C. 11 from Bethel to Oak City and back.

Registration will be accepted until 9 a.m. on race day, at $8 per runner, in each race. Pre-registered runners may pick up their race packets on Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Greenville, or on Saturday at Bethel Elementary School.

Shirts will be given to the first 400 entrants in the marathon and to the first 200 in the 10-kilometer race. All finishers will receive certificates of accomplishments. Trophies will be awarded to the first place male and female finishers in both races, with running bags as additional awards to the marathon winners. Second through fifth places in both, for both male and female, will receive trophies, and the top three finishers in each age group, male and female, will receive medals.

Age groups include 19 and under, 20-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50 and over.

The current male record for the marathon is held by Jack Fulty in 2:25.23, while Henley Roughton holds the female record of 3:08.2. Dill's time last year was 2:29.42, while Theresa Willis, the female winner, was timed in 3:18.20.

Marshall, Twins Settle Grievance

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Mike Marshall's grievance against the Minnesota Twins was settled Tuesday night before going to scheduled arbitration today, Marshall's attorney, Dick Moss, announced.

After being released in June when he served as the Twins' player representative, Marshall filed a grievance through the Major League Players Association, contending that he was released because of union activities rather than ineffective pitching, as the Twins contended.

Under the settlement Moss announced, Marshall will receive credit for a full year of service on the major league pension plan even though he was released June 5.

Report Soaring Crime In The U.S. National Parks

By STEVE HOLLAND
GATLINBURG, Tenn. (UPI) — From the Great Smoky Mountains in Tennessee to Yosemite in California, officials are raising a red flag on a skyrocketing crime increase in the national parks.

National Park officials say crimes are too numerous and the rangers too few to provide adequate security for millions of acres in the country's park system.

Crime in the national parks, as in any crowded area, is common. People get murdered, raped, stabbed, robbed. Deer familiar with friendly humans are easy pickings and are poached. Thousands of acres of forestry are burned by arsonists who get away scot-free.

"It seems to come in a wave whenever the economy gets bad," says Roger Miller of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. "This past year was particularly bad."

The Great Smoky Mountain park on the North Carolina-Tennessee border, currently ranks 10th in crime among national parks. It is the most heavily visited park in the country and is consistently in the top 10 crime list, said John Vosburgh of the National Park Service headquarters in Washington.

The park is suffering from a 100 percent increase in the number of cars stolen, mostly from tourists who park at the head of a trail and go for a hike. Miller said 220 autos have been stolen in 1980, compared to 113 in 1979. He said it's hard to arrive at a specific reason for the rapid increase.

"It could be that many young people are feeling the pinch and are resorting to stealing," said Miller. "Maybe there's more of them learning the trade across the country."

The types of crimes in the park run the gamut. A killer psychopath has struck in Marin County, Calif., which straddles the Golden Gate National Recreation Area in San Francisco and Point Reyes National Recreation Area. The killer preys on joggers and hikers and has ritually murdered six women and one man this year.

"Everybody in this area is trying to deal with that," said Lt. David Lennox of the Golden Gate park police. "To have a psychopath is kind of out of the ordinary, but all in all, I don't think we have crimes that severe."

Lennox said Golden Gate ranks third in crimes among national parks because of a spillover from the city.

"This is a high suicide area, and when they jump off the Golden Gate Bridge, they land on park property. So they say the suicide occurred in the park," he said.

"It's just like going to a large city for a certain performance," said Maj. Larry Finks of the U.S. Park Police in Washington. "You do what you want to do, you take your chances."

"The crimes in the urban parks are not representative of the entire park system. It's a spillover from the city," said Finks.

Yosemite National Park is away from the city. In summer, with 85 rangers covering 750,000 acres, chief enforcement officer Lee Shackleton has his hands full.

"I think we're down to a critical level with our staff," said Shackleton. "We used to investigate 80 percent of 2,000 crimes a year. Now our staff is cut down to 35 percent of those cases. We don't have the staff to follow up."

He said budget makers let snow plowing and other mechanical services take precedence over crime prevention.

"We have been saddled with a lot of costly services that have taken away from our money. The net result is we're doing little work to prevent crimes," he said.

Shackleton said 2,000 crimes a year looks like a high crime rate, but with three million visitors a year, "we actually have one of the lowest crime rates in the entire national park system."

The nation's 48 parks, which received 280 million visitors last year, recorded 8,561 felonies — including murders, rapes and armed robberies — in 1979.

"Obviously, people who do that can get away quickly and they don't leave any evidence behind that can lead to the suspect," Miller said. "It's hard to evaluate the reasoning behind it... I guess there are some people who just delight in it, or others who are trying to get back at the park for other violations."

Dream Up Terrorist Plots, Responses

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Like the authors of the spy novels that line their shelves, engineers and scientists here dream up terrorist plots for breaking into the nation's nuclear weapons plants. Then they plan — and test — security measures to foil their own schemes.

As armchair terrorists, the security scientists here read intelligence reports by the FBI and the military, the "Soldier of Fortune" magazine for mercenaries, mysteries, thrillers and scholarly works. The also examine plans of nuclear plants.

Then they ask themselves, what if...?

What if a drunk tries to crash a gate at a weapons plant? What if a spy is working inside a plant?

WHAT IF? — Members of Energy Department's nuclear emergency team are shown manning sensitive radiation equipment used during their hunt for a Soviet nuclear-powered satellite which crashed in the Canadian wilderness in 1978. (AP Laserphoto)

The plotting and counterplotting are known as "black hat exercises" since the fictitious terrorists and saboteurs are the bad guys.

The targets of the plots developed at Sandia National Laboratory here are nuclear weapons plants and research facilities, owned by the Department of Energy but operated by private contractors.

"What we at Sandia do is look at engineering solutions to the problem of terrorists," said Roy Crouch, director of safeguards and security for the U.S. Department of Energy.

"We read all of this literature and ask ourselves, 'If somebody tries to do that, are we prepared for it?'" ...We go to military people and ask them, 'If you and your buddies from Vietnam try to take over our plant, what would you do?'" said Bill Myre, director of nuclear security at Sandia.

Another technique for second-guessing and counteracting terrorist attacks is to feed information on nuclear plants — drawings, floor plans, personnel schedules, photos — into a computer.

Often, "the computers will tip us off to the easiest route into a plant," Myre said.

The scientists also occasionally put a scenario into action to test guards and the plant's security setup.

Crouch said inspectors go out in the middle of the night and tell guards there will be a drill.

"We're not sneaking over a fence and leaping on a guard," he said. "That's the worst thing we can do."

"It's like Army training," Myre said. "The bullets are not for real. There are no real battles until you go to war."

One scenario centers on the Rocky Flats Nuclear Weapons Plant near Denver, where a terrorist using wire cutters slips in at night in search of plutonium. He knocks the guards unconscious with nerve gas and cuts electricity at the plant with a small explosion.

But suddenly, he is nabbed by a special weapons and tactics team and the plot is foiled. The catch was an unseen security measure: night vision devices in the plant television security system worked off of backup generators when the power failed.

"I feel we've raised the entry price pretty high," Myre said. "It's not a piece of cake to walk in and cause trouble."

"I worry at night that some bad thing is going to happen. But the fact nothing has ever happened, not once at any of our plants, well, that must show we're doing a pretty good job."

Speaking of Your Health...
Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
Anemia: A Specific Condition

Fatigue, weakness, exhaustion, and a general lack of enthusiasm for the joys of living have all been attributed to anemia. Actually, anemia is a very specific condition of the blood in which there is a deficiency of the number of red blood cells and their contents that circulate through all of the blood vessels of the body. Even if the number of blood cells is adequate, there sometimes may be a deficiency in the amount of hemoglobin in the cells. Hemoglobin is a complex chemical that carries oxygen to nourish all the tissues in all the organs of the body. In order to perform this important function, hundreds of millions of tiny red blood cells are constantly being manufactured and replaced by the bone marrow. There are many different causes of anemia. It can result from a massive loss of blood, from excessive destruction of the red blood cells by disease, or from a failure in the normal production of the blood cells. Pallor of the lips and fingernails may be suggestive but is by no means proof positive of the existence of anemia. Diminished energy, easy exhaustion, and general lethargy are also not positive indications of anemia. Only a definitive and detailed study of the blood can determine whether or not anemia exists. The complete study of the blood is a very complex procedure. The enormous progress made in the field of hematology in the past three decades makes it possible to uncover almost every conceivable type of anemia, trace its origins, and establish a pattern of treatment. It is true that fatigue and weakness can be associated with anemia. The explanation is a relatively simple physiological one, for when a deficiency of red blood cells and hemoglobin is present, the heart, brain, legs, lungs, and all the important organs of the body are deprived of their life-sustaining oxygen. The waste product, carbon dioxide, accumulates in the blood, adds stress to the heart, lungs and other organs and thus produces devitalization and lack of energy.

Since there are many types of anemia, each must be clearly defined. Only then can proper treatment be started. Iron deficiency anemias can usually be controlled with iron-containing medicines (hematinics), nutritious diets and vitamin supplements.

Pernicious anemia is a highly specialized form of the disorder. It is attributed to a deficiency of vitamin B 12. This condition is remarkably well controlled with regular injections of the deficient vitamins, specialized food, and sometimes folic acid.

If anyone thinks that he has anemia, there is no longer any need to speculate about this blood condition. The unnecessary fears and anxieties about the causes of exhaustion can readily be assuaged and eliminated by consultation with one's doctor and by a complete blood examination.

Auditions Will Be Held

CHAPEL HILL — Carolina Regional Theater will hold auditions on Monday, January 12 for the upcoming touring theater production of "Tennessee's Waltz." Auditions for the salary paying roles will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall on the UNC-Chapel Hill campus.

Four actors are needed — a man and a woman in the 20 to 30 age span, and a man and a woman aged 45 or older.

Persons interested in further information on the auditions are to contact the Carolina Regional Theater at P. O. Drawer 1169, Chapel Hill, N. C., 27514, phone 933-5300.

Two Stabbed In Jetliner Fray

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two airport employees received minor stab wounds after trying to remove a man who had no ticket from a TWA jet, police said.

Ronald Jones, 35, of Los Angeles was booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon in the Monday incident at Los Angeles International Airport, police said.

Police alleged Jones evaded airport security, walked onto a runway and pushed aside a crew member to board a San Francisco-bound 727. Airport employees Kenneth Adams, 36, and Daniel Robinson, 36, were stabbed when they tried to remove Jones from the plane, police said. The two were treated at a hospital and released.

'Globalitis' Describes New Outlook

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Reagan transition team has diagnosed a "severe case of regionalitis" in the Carter administration's approach to the Third World, particularly black Africa. A Carter diplomat, in turn, says he detects a strain of "globalitis" in the President-elect's embryonic foreign policy.

At issue in the foreign policy debate is how much emphasis to give to what Secretary of State-designate Alexander M. Haig Jr. has termed "management of global Soviet power." Haig regards this as the vital foreign policy task of the coming decade.

Donald F. McHenry, who as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations holds Cabinet rank in the Carter administration, expresses the belief that containment of Soviet power must begin by dealing with the root economic, social and political causes that make Third World countries susceptible to exploitation by the Kremlin.

The American envoy played a key role in improving U.S. relations with black African states and in attempting to induce South Africa to grant independence to South-West Africa, the former German colony also known as Namibia.

Transition-team critics of the outgoing administration's policy toward Africa maintain it has been based on "dubious premises" — namely, that the United States "should restrain itself from participating in competition of a political-military strategic nature" with the Soviet Union and Cuba and that it does not need "tangible policy instruments," such as financial and military aid, as inducements in dealing with African states.

The transition team report has brought expressions of concern among black African diplomats here that the new administration will be less attuned to their needs and sensitivities, including their strong opposition to white-supremist South Africa.

The South African government is plainly hoping that the Reagan administration will be more appreciative of South Africa's strategic importance as an anti-communist bastion and guardian of the shipping lanes around the continent — an alternative sea route in the event of blockage of the Suez Canal.

Addressing himself to the transition team's criticism, McHenry, in a recent interview with The Associated Press, said: "I do not believe that one's policies in a particular area can be oblivious to events elsewhere. On the other hand, events elsewhere cannot make one oblivious to events in a region."

McHenry said the "globalists" on Reagan's foreign policy team tended "to treat everything as black or white." Such an approach, he maintained, missed "the fact that the failure to deal with social, political and economic problems of the Third World will provide substantial opportunities for exploitation by the Soviet Union and others."

This, he added, also would "provide an opportunity for the radicalization and the introduction of ideology into situations which had no radicals and no ideologies other than the desire of man to be treated (equally)....It is possible, in dealing with those situations, to have a self-fulfilling process. You fail to deal with those regional situations and then that great bogey man (the Soviet Union) comes in, but you've allowed him to come in."

McHenry, a black career diplomat, rejects criticism of the Carter Administration's refusal to intervene in the Horn of Africa on the side of Somalia against Ethiopia, in the Rhodesian guerrilla war and more directly in the conflict in the former Portuguese colony of Angola. The Soviet Union and Cuba supported the winning sides of those conflicts.

Art Form In Modern Tattooing

DALLAS (AP) — Tattoos typically conjure images of brawny sailors, barroom brawls and forearms stained with former girlfriends' names.

But a new wave of young tattooists is changing the reputation as well as the substance of the ancient practice, a researcher says. Huge Japanese woodblock prints are welding a heavy influence on the new tattooists, many of whom hold degrees in fine arts, said Alan Govanar. At the same time, he said, tattoos are experiencing a popularity that transcends social class, sex and age.

Govanar, a 28-year-old Boston native, has studied American tattooing for seven years. He currently is pursuing a doctorate in arts and humanities at the University of Texas at Dallas.

He points to tattooist Ed Hardy of San Francisco as the leader of the creative new breed.

"He is bringing fine art to tattooing. ... He has done a lot to influence other young tattooists," Govanar said.

Hardy's designs include elaborate scenes of Samurai warriors and dragons, and "he specializes in large tattoos that, say, cover a person's back or chest."

Govanar entered the world of tattooing while an undergraduate student at Ohio State University in 1973, when he walked into the downtown Columbus shop of Leonard L. "Stoney" St. Clair.

The two struck up a friendship, and Govanar learned the man had been confined to a wheelchair since he was a child because of rheumatoid arthritis. St. Clair learned to tattoo after joining a circus as a sword swallower at age 15. "He was a natural storyteller," Govanar said, and a paper he wrote about St. Clair for a class eventually developed into a book — "Stoney Knows How: Life as a Tattoo Artist."

The book was accepted by University Press at Kentucky in 1978, but has yet to be published, Govanar said. St. Clair never will see it — he died Dec. 3 after spending 51 of his 67 years tattooing.

"What drew me into tattooing was I discovered it was not what people thought it was," Govanar said. "I was committed to show tattooing as a folk art and a fine art ... also, there was a total dearth of material that had been written on the subject."

Govanar earned his masters' degree at the University of Texas at Austin in 1975, then hit the road in search of American tattooists. He visited more than 30 shops in 17 cities, and wrote several articles on the subject.

Govanar said he's found tattooists are "people who maintain very high standards. They only want to tattoo people who are serious about being tattooed."

The new tattoos "are vastly different from the ones that Stoney did," Govanar said, with overtones of large 18th and 19th century Japanese woodblock prints.

"Tattoos in Japan have a completely different status," he said. "... They stress symmetry, continuity, conformity to body contours. Western tattoos are more agglomerate, with many images placed often haphazardly. They often lack a unifying motif."

The National Endowment for the Arts provided funds for a documentary, scheduled for release in January, on the "old school of tattooing."

Govanar also has written a novel about tattooed people, "Done Up," that he's trying to get published.

He said he's now working on two more films about tattooing. Other projects include an investigation of tattoos' place in Mexican-American culture and "the multitude of meanings tattoos have and can have."

Executives, as well as women, increasingly are joining the ranks of the tattooed, Govanar said, adding that tattoos are beginning to come out from beneath clothing.

Even with the burgeoning popularity, he said, tattooed people still are "oppressed by stereotypes. Oftentimes, they are discriminated against because they have a tattoo showing."
