Haig Says All Efforts In Nixon Case Within Law

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexander M. Haig Jr. said today that all his efforts on behalf of then-President Richard Nixon were "within the boundaries of the law" and that he saw his duty then

"to preserve that office in the national interest." Haig dealt only briefly with his 5 1/2 years with Nixon in a 20-page opening statement for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which must pass on his nomination to be Ronald Reagan's Secretary of State. In an appendix, however, he said that his role in the FBI wiretaps of 17 persons and the covert activity aimed at overturning Chile's Marxist government "was quite limited."

And he defended the Christmas bombing of North Vietnam in 1972 as being "in the best interest of the United States (that) produced the intended result."

Haig also defended his advice to Nixon, on June 4, 1972, that the president could say "you can't recall" if he were asked about an earlier conversation with John Dean. Haig told the senators that "it is impossible to say with certainty exactly what we were discussing."

But Haig said he is certain that "I never suggested then or on any other occasion, that he should disseminate or pretend not to recall something."

The former general also attempted to forestall questions about his role in Gerald Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon by saying "at no time did I ever suggest in any way an agreement or 'deal' that Mr. Nixon would resign in exchange for a pardon from Mr. Ford."

Democrats predicted that unless their questioning unearthed clear misconduct by Haig himself, the Senate will easily confirm the 56-year-old retired four-star general.

Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, the ranking minority member on the Republican-controlled committee, said Democrats don't want "a rehash of Watergate or a witch hunt."

To underscore that, Democrats decided Thursday to ask Haig first about his views on military, as opposed to diplomatic, solutions to international crises.

Pell said the minority would question Haig later about his role in former President Richard M. Nixon's Watergate defense, Nixon's pardon, wiretapping of Nixon aides and reporters, and Cambodian bombing.

But Haig attempted to address those issues head-on in his opening statement.

Haig was Nixon's chief of staff for the 16 months before Nixon resigned. President Gerald Ford then named Haig supreme commander of NATO, a job he held for five years until entering private business in 1979.

The Democrats outlined several specific areas from that part of Haig's past for questioning:

—Watergate. Particularly the much-publicized June 4, 1973, tape in which Haig apparently advises Nixon that he could respond to questions about John Dean's "cancer of the presidency" talk by saying "you just can't recall."

—Nixon's pardon. On Aug. 1, 1974, Haig told then-Vice President Gerald R. Ford a pardon was one option to be considered if Nixon had to leave office. But both Ford and Haig have denied Haig ever proposed a deal in which a pardon would be guaranteed in exchange for Nixon's resignation.

Haig's supporters say he is the man who convinced Nixon to resign and that Haig's handling of Watergate showed his diplomatic skill.

—Wiretapping. Haig, as deputy to National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger, gave the FBI the first names for wiretapping 17 Nixon aides and reporters in an effort to find a news leak on Cambodian bombing Haig has said he was only carrying out instructions from Nixon and Kissinger.

Ordinance Adopted On Street Parking

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
An ordinance, aimed at helping to regulate parking in residential sections by identifying through petition and review controlled parking areas, was adopted Thursday night by the City Council.

Mayor Pro-tem Joe Taft Jr., who chaired a Residential Parking Task Force Committee that studied the causes regarding the lack of parking availability within the residential areas adjacent to the university, pointed out that there are "several areas here with parking problems."

At the council's December meeting, it was explained that some areas do not have sufficient on or off-street residential parking space and the city has found that the excessive practice of non-residents parking their vehicles for long periods of time creates unnecessary hardships on residents of the various areas.

Taft said last month that several residential sections have been identified which have the potential to be designated controlled residential parking areas. He identified those areas as including the residential neighborhoods between First and Fifth Streets, the subdivisions of Brook Green and Dalebrook, the area in the vicinity of Elmhurst School, the Rock Springs Road area, and a section between Evans Street and the university.

Under the new ordinance, the city may designate controlled parking areas based on various criteria, applicable on a minimum per block basis. A petition may be submitted to the Traffic Commission, "signed by adult residents of at least 51 percent of the living units contained in each block face of the proposed controlled residential parking area."

A parking study must then be completed by the city and must reveal that at least 70 percent of the parking capacity of the proposed controlled area is occupied. As part of the criteria, a minimum of 33 percent of the parked vehicles must be registered to addresses outside the proposed controlled area.

If the area is recommended by the Traffic Commission as a controlled area, a resident of the area would be able to purchase a permit decal for each vehicle owned at a cost of $5 per year. Signs would be posted in the areas and vehicles not bearing a decal would be unable to park there any longer than two hours between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Taft said that the local ordinance is similar to one in effect in Raleigh and has been tested and upheld in court.

Several residents living in areas identified as potential controlled parking sections attended the meeting and offered comments and suggestions during the public hearing regarding the parking problems. The matter of enforcement was questioned but Police Chief Glenn Cannon said that with the cooperation of the residents, the ordinance will work.

Residents also suggested that the two-hour parking limit be shortened and the hours of regulation extended to reflect night classes at East Carolina.

Ann Buchanan of Lewis Street cited difficulties in receiving the cooperation of college students and she observed, in referring to those students, that the city was "not dealing with normal, rational people."

Lynn Calder, the university's SGA representative on the council, took exception to Ms. Buchanan's stereotyping all students as irrational and said that those students are future leaders.

In general, the city was commended for taking some action regarding the parking problems. Mayor Don McGlohon said that the ordinance represented a "starting point" and would continue to be looked at. The mayor also said that he is sympathetic to the students' parking problems.

In adopting the ordinance, council members established an effective date of July 1.

In other business on a five-page agenda, the council conducted public hearings on two rezoning requests and two annexation petitions. Approval was given to the rezoning, from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, of the Susie T. Rollins property, the Pitt County School Bus Garage site, and a portion of the Nannie M. Combs tract. The property, involving some (Please turn to Page 3)

Wholesale Prices Up 11.7 Percent

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose 11.7 percent in 1980, only slightly less than the year before despite the recession, the government said today. And 1981 begins with energy prices once again accelerating at a double-digit pace.

The Labor Department also reported that the nation's unemployment rate dipped from 7.5 percent of the workforce in November to 7.4 percent last month. The number of jobless workers stood at 7.8 million at the end of 1980, 1.5 million more than in December 1979.

The department said that wholesale, or producer prices, rose another 0.6 percent in December. If that pace continued for 12 months, it would translate to a 7.8 percent annual rate.

But economists forecast sharp increases in the coming months for energy and food prices.

"The fact that energy prices have accelerated significantly in recent months, after several months of moderation, bears watching," said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"Although these prices are not now increasing at the levels registered late last year and early in 1980, the magnitude and duration of changes in energy prices in the coming months will be an important factor in the inflationary climate for 1981," she told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Ms. Norwood said the unemployment rate last month was "little changed" from November, however "some improvement in the economy occurred."

In December, prices for wholesale food, ready for sale to consumers, dipped 0.4 percent after rising 0.5 percent in November. This falloff is considered an aberration, however, because of continued heavy slaughtering of farm animals, and should be reversed soon, say economists.

The department's wholesale price report showed declines last month for pork, refined sugar, fresh fruits, processed poultry and roasted coffee. Beef and veal prices edged down as well, but not as much as in November.

Dairy and bakery products, frozen meat pies, fresh and dried vegetables, peanut butter, black pepper, processed fruits and vegetables, and eggs all rose in price.

Also advancing in price were apparel, household flatware and many health products. The price of passenger cars, suffering a severe sales slump, remained stable. But Detroit has since raised prices on many models.

The price of capital equipment, which is used to manufacture other goods, rose 1 percent, compared with 0.6 percent in November, the department added.

CITY LICENSE FEE PROTEST

I am upset about this new $5 motor vehicle license fee. I think it's awful that it's gone up 500 percent at one blow. And I think it's an unenforceable ordinance, one that fools like me will abide by, paying the freight, while many others get out of it, just as they always have. From what I understand, the law says that anyone who keeps a vehicle inside Greenville 14 days out of any month is supposed to pay. How can that ever be enforced and what's to prevent the city from keeping on using this as an easy source of revenue, raising it again and again? J. S.

It's true that the motor vehicle license fee was raised from $1 to $5 during the past year (in November) by ordinance of the Greenville City Council, City ombudsperson Gail Meeks said. This was done only after special authority to enact the measure was obtained from the General Assembly during its 1980 short session. The increased fee will go into the general fund, she said.

The ordinance has not been changed, she added. It's always been applicable to anyone who garages or keeps overnight a motor vehicle in the city 14 days out of any month. This, then, does not apply to people who work here, but live outside the city limits. But it does apply to students who live here most of any month and to company and leased cars used by local residents for more than half a year.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said you're right, that it will be an ordinance that's difficult to enforce — but not impossible, he hopes. Enforcement efforts will get underway in earnest Feb. 15, he said, and East Carolina University and Pitt Community College students who show license and registration indicating they live elsewhere will also be asked by police officers for student id cards. Tax records will be checked when there's any question about company or leased cars, he said.

He admitted that the ordinance, heretofore, has not been stringently enforced. "It just wasn't worth it for the dollar fee," he commented.

Pre-Inaugural Festivities In Raleigh Are Starting Tonight

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Festivities begin tonight for North Carolina's quadrennial inauguration celebration, but the events will be lacking one element that has added excitement in past years — a new governor.

Gov. Jim Hunt is scheduled to be sworn in to an unprecedented second, consecutive four-year term at 12:42 p.m. Saturday, just after Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green is sworn in to his second term and other members of the Council of State are administered their oaths of office.

The partying will be well under way by then, though.

It begins with the Inaugural Ball tonight at Reynolds Coliseum at North Carolina State University, a traditional gala where ticket prices range as high as $600 and the refreshments, in keeping with the governor's teetotaler ways, will lack an alcoholic punch.

The events will end in the wee hours Sunday, at the conclusion of a traditional inaugural gala at 100 Raleigh hotels where $10 a person buys admission and stronger drink.

No one is certain just how many people will attend the inaugural ceremony, the parties and the parade through downtown Raleigh. Sam Taylor, spokesman for the inaugural committee, estimates as many as 8,000 people may watch the ceremony and parade if the weather is fair.

But some feel the lack of any transition — until Hunt, governors and lieutenant governors in North Carolina couldn't succeed themselves — may take a bit of the edge off this year's inauguration. "We're not sure, this being his second inaugural," says Taylor. "It's hard to say what kind of effect that will have."

The ceremony and parade will be televised live by the University of North Carolina television network, and some commercial stations intend to air portions until 1 p.m.

According to the script prepared by the inauguration's planners, Hunt is to receive the oath of office from state Chief Justice

Joseph Branch at 12:42 p.m., followed by the playing of bands and a 19-gun salute.

Technically, that time will not actually mark the beginning of Hunt's second term, however. According to the state Constitution, his second term began Jan. 1

Conley Units Will Perform In Raleigh

RALEIGH — The D.H. Conley Band and the Men's Drill Team of the JROTC will be performing in Governor Jim Hunt's Inaugural Parade Saturday afternoon. The two units will represent Pitt County in the ceremonies.

"We are certainly looking forward to doing it," said Lt. Col. (Ret.) Carl R. Grantham, senior Army advisor of the Conley JROTC. "We feel as though it's an honor to be the only ones from Pitt County participating." Grantham said that only around 200 units from North Carolina will participate in the event. Each of the units must be recommended by someone connected with the inauguration.

Seventeen members of the Men's Drill Team of the JROTC will be performing in the parade. "We will present various maneuvers," explained Grantham, "such as weapon spinning and marching." The drill team commander is Cadet Capt. Reginald Johnson and the drill team advisor is Sgt. (Ret.) Jack E. Pope.

Approximately 57 members of the D.H. Conley Band will also be marching in Saturday's parade. "Each of Hunt's offices will have an escort," said Grantham, "and the band will be leading Commissioner of Labor John Brooks' car. The drum major is William Mills and the band director is James Fleming." "We feel fortunate to be participating in an inauguration as historic as this one," added Grantham. "This is the first time a governor of North Carolina has been able to succeed himself."

Massive Power Outage Hit 1.5 Million People

By RON BARKER
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Engineers worked today to find the cause of a vast power failure that hit 1 1/2 million residents of Utah, Idaho and Wyoming and left people dangling from ski lifts, awaiting rescue in elevators and maneuvering in traffic snarled by blacked-out signals.

It was one of the most widespread outages in U.S. history. The entire state of Utah lost electricity from lunchtime to suppertime Thursday. Some 27,000 people in five Wyoming counties also lost power for up to 45 minutes, and a few communities in southeastern Idaho also were affected. Lights flickered in eastern Nevada, but stayed on.

By early today, 99 percent of Utah Power & Light's customers had full power.

Officials at the utility said they didn't know what triggered the seven-hour outage, although they speculated a break in a 230,000-volt power line may have contributed to the problem.

At 11:38 a.m. MST, elevators throughout Utah halted between floors, traffic lights darkened, radio stations went silent and television signals were knocked off the air.

"This is ridiculous," snapped a girl who had just lost a quarter in an electronic game machine.

Skiers dangled over mid-slope from Snowbird Mountain's Gad II lift for an hour before a backup power system got them moving.

An open heart operation — in progress at the University of Utah Medical Center when the electricity failed — continued with light from spare generators. But all other operations were canceled for the day.

Inaugural Elegance To Be On View At Museum Of History

RALEIGH — Silks and satins, lace and lame — all will be in evidence next week as the N.C. Museum of History opens a new exhibit of first ladies' gowns.

"First Family Fashions," an exhibit of 22 gowns worn by North Carolina governors' wives, will open Tuesday at the museum at 109 E. Jones St., Raleigh. The exhibit is part of the inaugural festivities of the second term of Gov. James B. Hunt Jr.

From the early 19th century gown worn by the wife of the first governor of the state of North Carolina to the pale gold peau de soie worn by Mrs. James B. Hunt at her husband's first inaugural ball, the dresses will span the years, illustrating the varying style changes through nearly 300 years of Tar Heel history.

The exhibit is designed to show the gowns worn and enjoyed by North Carolina's first families, according to Betty Tyson, museum registrar.

The dresses, in period settings, are arranged in chronological order. Mrs. Tyson mentioned that some of the very old examples have offered special problems in textile preservation.

Sarah Heritage Caswell, wife of Richard Caswell, who was governor from 1776 to 1780, and again from 1784-1787, wore an Empire gown of gold silk brocade with plaid trim. She presided at the governor's home while her husband fought at Moore's Creek during the Revolution and later served as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

The antebellum years 1851-54 saw Henrietta Settle Reid, wife of David Settle Reid, presiding over the governor's household. Mrs. Reid's dress is a two-piece design of embroidered pink net and ecru lace lined with cream satin. After the Civil War Anne Young Holden, wife of William Wood Holden (governor 1868-1871) discharged her duties wearing a three-piece bustle gown of grey faille and navy blue velvet.

For her husband's inaugural, Fannie Yarborough Bickett, wife of Thomas Walter Bickett, wore a two-piece of purple velvet with metallic lace sleeves, beaded fringe and fur bandings.

During the 20th century, governors' wives have chosen elegant traditional ball gowns for the inaugural festivities. Mrs. Tyson explained, Sarah Virginia Watts Morrison, wife of Cameron Morrison (governor 1921-25) selected a gown of re-embroidered Alencon lace and matching jacket with sable cuffs, while Margaret French McLean, wife of Angus Wilton McLean (governor 1925-29) wore a silver lame brocade inaugural gown, trimmed with rhinestones and panels, of spider-web lace. The first Mrs. Scott, wife of William Kerr Scott (governor 1949-53) chose an inaugural gown in a period design of white chiffon velvet with venise lace collar and modified panniers.

The wife of Luther Hartwell Hodges, (governor 1954-61) Martha Blakeney Hodges, wore a sheath gown of mint re-embroidered Alencon lace with silk chiffon panel, and Margaret Rose Sanford, wife of Terry Sanford (governor 1961-65) chose an inaugural gown of peau de soie trimmed with sprays of flowers and crystal beading.

At the inaugural ball for her husband, Jeanette Coulter Moore, wife of Daniel Killiam Moore (governor 1965-69) danced in a gown of re-embroidered white satin brocade trimmed with roses of the same fabric, with a back panel lined in cerise satin. Jessie Rae Osborne Scott, wife of Robert Walter Scott (governor 1969-73) wore an inaugural gown and matching coat of white and blue silk shantung trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, and Patricia Hollingsworth Holshouser, wife of James E. Holshouser Jr. chose an inaugural gown and matching coat of silver metallic brocade, fashioned with princess lines.

Carolyn Leonard Hunt, wife of James B. Hunt Jr. (governor 1977-81) will make history as she chooses a gown for her husband's second inaugural ball. For the first, held in 1977, Mrs. Hunt wore a pale silk peau de soie with gathered shirt and bloused silk organza bodice with dolman sleeves.

The gowns have all been preserved and are shown on specially made forms, Mrs. Tyson said.

The exhibit will be on view through May.

The museum, an agency of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources, is open Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., and Sunday, 1-6 p.m. Admission is free.

COOKING IS FUN

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Have you a recipe for a full-bodied rum punch? None of your pink party stuff! — OLD OAKEN BUCK-ET.

DEAR OLD OAKEN BUCK-ET: With the holidays upon us, I'm getting lots of requests for punch recipes. The one I'm offering you, newly tested in my kitchen, is a tawny brew that's not overly sweet. If you happen to have amber glasses, you'll find the punch matches their color; if they're not on hand, use regular punch cups or mugs or what you will. By the way, the curacao called for in this recipe is, at this writing, the thirteenth of the orange-flavor liqueurs. — C.B.

AMBER PUNCH
 2 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons hot water
 1 1/2 cups strong brewed tea, at room temperature
 1 cup strained fresh lime juice (about 8 good-size limes)
 1 cup dark Jamaica rum (80 proof)
 1/2 cup brandy (80 proof)
 1/2 cup curacao (orange-flavor liqueur)
 12-ounce bottle club soda (1 1/2 cups)
 1 fresh lime, unpeeled and thinly sliced
 Stir together the sugar and water to dissolve the sugar. Stir in the tea, lime juice, rum, brandy and curacao. Just before serving pour over an ice ring in a serving bowl (or into a pitcher over ice cubes) and stir in the club soda. Garnish with the lime slices. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.
 Another version: Omit the sugar, hot water and fresh lime juice; instead use 1 six-ounce can of frozen limeade concentrate (undiluted) and 1/4 cup cold water.

Dear Abby

A Look Back On Anniversary

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Today marks the 25th anniversary of this column, and I am filled with gratitude to:

My twin, Eppie, who only months before I began writing landed the job of writing the Ann Landers column and gave me the inspiration to strike out on my own.

Mort Phillips, my devoted husband, who has spoiled me for 41 years and has given me more unconditional love, encouragement, confidence and sound advice than I ever dreamed possible.

Stanleigh Arnold, the features editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who agreed to see this unknown, inexperienced Hillsborough housewife when she impulsively telephoned him to say, "I can write a much better advice column than the one you've been running."

Robert W. Lucas, the then-managing editor of the Denver Post, who offered to be my special consultant. (He's now retired, but he's still my special consultant.)

The late Ted Bernstein of The New York Times, who, out of friendship, served as my supreme court on word usage.

Katie Beal (Abby's Irish Rose), who has been not only my loyal secretary but my cherished friend for 25 years. Close on her heels came Marion Lake Tetley, Thyra Gusfield, then Sylvia Singer — all still part of my team.

I am profoundly indebted to the hundreds of editors who bought the Dear Abby column early and made it successful. And to you, my readers, I am extremely grateful for providing me daily with letters so human, so poignant and so outrageously funny that at times the column practically writes itself.

Please don't ask me when I plan to retire. I have no such plans. I intend to continue writing this column just as long as you and the Good Lord let me.

LOVE, ABBY

P.S. Has my style changed much in 25 years? You be the judge. The following is a reprint, in part, of the very first "Dear Abby" column, as it appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle on January 9, 1956.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to the paper for advice before, but need help desperately and cannot talk to my family or friends about my problem. I am a private secretary to a well-known executive in the bay area. I have been employed by him for five years. You may think this sounds cheap, but we are deeply in love. His wife speaks to him only when she wants money, and he has no respect or affection for her. He has told me repeatedly that I am the woman he loves, but we can't consider marriage because it would ruin him financially and socially. In addition to an excellent salary, he has given me an automobile, a fur coat and he pays my rent. When he takes business trips, I always go along. I am not getting any younger, yet I feel one day he will make me his wife. What do you think?

CONFIDENT

DEAR CONFIDENT: I think your boss is a super salesman. He certainly did a terrific selling job when he convinced an intelligent girl like you to give up a decent, respectable life of her own to be available when he whistles. Of course he won't marry you. Why should he? He is getting the whole show for the price of the amusement tax.

DEAR ABBY: I am sweet 16 and truly never been kissed. I have plenty of dates and the boys seem to enjoy my company, but when it comes time to say good night, all they do is just say "good night." Please tell me how I can become irresistible.

HOPEFUL ANN

DEAR ANN: If you become "irresistible" at 16, you'll need police protection by the time you reach 20. If you are longing for a good-night kiss, the likes of which would melt a glacier, it's too early. However, if you want the innocent, customary good-night kiss, just hold your little cheek up, close your eyes, and boom! You're irresistible.

The bridal couple was entertained at a cookout held last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor Sr., Kinston. Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davis and Alan Taylor. The hosts and hostesses remembered the honorees with a gift.

Bloodmobile Chairman Attends Monday Meet

The first meeting of 1981 of the Greenville Service League was held Monday at the Recreation and Parks Building. Ott Alford was a guest for the meeting.

Chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile, he thanked members for their support and help with the Dec. 26 visit of the Bloodmobile. He was introduced by Mrs. Edward Smith, program chairman.

President Mrs. Robert VanVeld conducted the meeting. Mrs. Frank Steinbeck Jr. announced upcoming Bloodmobile visits on Jan. 12 at Pitt Community College and Jan. 13 at Eaton Corp.

Mrs. J. Bryan Brown reported the Laughinghouse

Fund received two calls. Mrs. Howard Dawkins received three requests for layettes. Mrs. Eugene Furth reported 41 food baskets were delivered to families at Christmas. Mrs. Charles Wilkerson Jr., chairman of Hospital Activities, reported members made 300 favors for hospital trays and decorated the hospital for Christmas.

The annual Charity Ball will be held Feb. 27 reported Mrs. Raymond MacKenzie, chairman. Workshops have started to further preparations for the event. Proceeds will be used to help patients in need and improve facilities at the hospital.

Miss Manning Entertained

Miss Faye Manning was entertained at a bridal shower Tuesday night in the fellowship hall of Red Oak Christian Church. Hostesses were Mrs. Jean Allen, Mrs. Mamie Allen, Mrs. Nancy Beardsworth, Mrs. Ruth Crawford, Mrs. Edith Denton, Mrs. Jean Garris, Mrs. Wilma James, Mrs. Audrey Jordan, Mrs. Mollie Murphy, Mrs. Sue Pennington and Mrs. Pattie Worthington.

The bridal table was covered with a handmade embroidered eyelet cloth and centered with an arrangement of white daisies and mums flanked by burning tapers. Dianne Manning, sister of the honoree, poured punch and Lizzie Armstrong, sister of the bridegroom-elect, served cake.

Donna Worthington presided at the guest register and Susan McNeal, sister of the honoree, presided at the gift table.

Miss Manning was presented a corsage of white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Manning was honored at a kitchen shower held in the fellowship hall of the church Monday night. Hostesses were Mrs. Elaine Cannon and Mrs. Ann Davis. The honoree was presented a corsage of miniature kitchen utensils.

Each guest presented a favorite recipe to the honoree.

Bridal Parties Held Recently

On Saturday morning, Miss Faye Manning, bride-elect of Stan Armstrong, and her attendants were honored at a bridesmaids luncheon held at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Adron Skinner, Trenton.

Miss Verma Belle Lowery, Miss Katherine Lowery and Mrs. Keith Williams, aunts of the honoree, assisted as hostesses.

The house was decorated throughout with arrangements of white mums and daisies.

Miss Manning received a silver tray, a gift from the hostesses. She presented her attendants with handmade gifts which she designed and her hostesses with miniature bridal portraits.

DEAR ABBY: On a recent cruise in the Caribbean, I saw a man at the beach who was average in appearance and physique, except that he was wearing a gold earring through his left nipple!
It caused quite a stir, as you can well imagine. Abby, could he have been a member of some cult or organization? If not, what is the reason for such bizarre adornment?
ANNE IN INDIANA

DEAR ANNE: It is considered "macho" among a select segment of the male population. It has nothing to do with a cult or organization. All one needs is a gold ring, a left nipple and a penchant for bizarre adornment.

DEAR ABBY: I hope it's not too late to respond to "Where were you on Dec. 7, 1941, when you first heard about the attack on Pearl Harbor?" I was one of 1500 civilian construction workers on Midway Island. The news had a stunning effect on all of us because of our vulnerability. We were pinned down by shelling until late February, then taken back to Honolulu. During those weeks, our food supply was cut off and we lived on lemon pie mix and powdered milk. To this day, I can't stand the sight of lemon pie!
My hair turned snow-white in a few weeks. I was 29.

Registration Is Needed

Draft registration got underway again this week and it brought out the usual number of demonstrators at post offices around the nation.

The program is under a cloud with the incoming Reagan administration, but it should be continued.

If the nation is militarily threatened again mobilization will have to come quickly. There won't be time to identify eligible citizens for the military.

There is a contention that conscription is a violation of constitutional rights. That argument ignores the constitutional duty that all of us have to defend our liberties. It has been exercised since the beginnings of our country and likely is what the framers of the constitution had in mind when they included the right to bear arms in the document.

It is questionable to us whether the nation can ever maintain an adequate military to meet potential security threats without a draft.

Re-institution of the draft is not likely now, but certainly registration should be continued by the incoming Reagan administration

Coal Movement Complicated

Nothing is easy in this age of ecology.

Shipment of coal through the Morehead City port could make that operation profitable.

Concern has been raised in Morehead and New Bern, however, about the coal trains. Gov. Hunt has agreed to study relocation of the state tracks in New Bern to protect the historic area. It would undoubtedly be an expensive project.

Clearly the situation needs study. It would have to first be determined whether or not the coal trains would harm the historic sites in New Bern, and then whether moving of the tracks is financially feasible.

THIS AFTERNOON

Compounded Costs

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Next week, members of the North Carolina General Assembly will come face to face with the reality of what they did last summer.

North Carolina's budget will hit a new record high: $12 billion for the next two fiscal years.

And when lawmakers start looking for places to trim that whopping proposal, they will find that a major part of the increase is there just to pay the bills which the 1980 Legislature contracted for.

More than $300 million in the first fiscal year; even more in the second, will be needed for already guaranteed salary hikes and fringe benefit improvements for state employees. All told, more than half-a-billion in the new budget is committed to 1980's salary action.

A $10 million building sounds big to legislators. They will hem and haw and delay such spending. But seldom does it occur to them that putting up a building is a one-time investment. Pay for it, and it's done.

BILL NOBLITT

Continuing

But when major adjustments are made in salary schedules and across-the-board pay raises, the taxpayers keep on paying.

Last year, the Legislature approved a flat 10 percent pay raise for all state employees. That comes on top of regular longevity and merit pay programs already in effect, and steps up the salary ladder which most employees take as the years go by.

Then, teachers were put on a new salary schedule with an additional step so that with all things combined, pay raises for educators ranged from 15 to 20 percent. For other state employees, the combined effect boosted salaries from 12 to 15 percent.

That's what is known as a recurring expense. It must be paid year after year, with any additional increases piled atop the heap.

the first time topped a billion dollars a year. The $2 billion mark came in 1971, and only two years later the amount soared past $3 billion. In 1978, the total jumped to $4.4 billion, and just one year went by before $5 billion was reached. That's this fiscal year. Next fiscal year the spending will top $6 billion.

More Jobs

Along with the ever-growing state budget, there has been an ever-increasing labor force. Just eight years ago there were 135,705 state employees including teachers. Today, there are nearly 180,000, and that benchmark will be passed shortly as more teachers are hired to decrease classroom size.

So from the current $5 billion total state budget, more than $3.5 billion is spent on direct employee benefits: salaries, fringes, retirement, etc.

And with 180,000 on the payroll, every pay increase must be multiplied into phenomenal numbers: about $22 million for every percentage point added. So when leaders of organized state employee groups talk about another cost-of-living raise in this session of the General Assembly, legislators will be looking at another $200 million per year on top of the $300 million per year coming due right now.

At that rate, a $12 billion annual state budget will come before 1987.

To the editor:

Utopia... the idealists' ideal society. Let's have a society free of aggression and the need for violence. Do away with the police, the judicial system, correctional institutes and national defense. Let's do away with registration for the draft, because this act is only suggesting violence. Violence that should not be attached to a country as great as ours. A country based on the rights of individuals and with freedom as its cornerstone.

Reality... that's where the majority of us prefer to reside, hopefully. The awareness of the recent killing of five Americans in El Salvador. The fact that 52 Americans are being held hostage in Iran. The reality of Russian expansion into Afghanistan. That is the reality that touches many of us so intimately. And we must acknowledge too the truths facing us if we are to remain the free thinking people that we are.

If what we have is allowed to slip by the wayside, there are no hopes for tomorrow. So don't you think the abandonment of ideals of perfection is justified when done in an attempt to preserve the right to dream of a world that is free of aggression and the need for violence?

It may seem hypocritical to use violence in order to establish a society free from violence. But, then again, that is one of the uglier sides of reality.

To the editor:

I had the opportunity to watch with quite a bit of uneasiness the effect Wall Street analyst Joe Granville's "midnight telegram" had on the stock market Wednesday. His recommendation that his subscribers "sell the market," when within the past week he had urged them to chase the "Bull," gives a ring of truth to the feeling many have that this "Voodoo Guru" was making self-fulfilling predictions for his ego, rather than his readers' best interest. He was not predicting anything that almost any novice could not have also predicted. The temporary pullback from the "magic 1,000" line was a foregone conclusion to most, even before it occurred.

His prediction only caused a lot of people to lose money based on panicky decisions. The publicity the net 23-point pullback received was totally out of proportion to the lack of attention given the 21-point surge that put the DOW over the 1,000 mark, as well as the DOW's strong performance since early last spring. The fundamental reasons for the DOW to be at 1,000 and stay there have not disappeared and hopefully one man's need for sensationalism will not hold it back for long.

The Classic Symptoms

By HUGH MULLIGAN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — One reason for attending an editors convention, aside from the booze, the banquets and nappy-pools during the slide shows, is to keep abreast of new developments in the field — or profession as newspaper folk call it when drinking on the expense account.

Without coming to Phoenix I might never have known about executive burnout and midcareer crisis and other benefits that go with our business — oops, profession.

Turns out I'm too long in the traces to have a mid-career crisis, and I must say, I feel cheated.

"You got to grab things when they're going around, otherwise it's too late," commiserated my friend Jim Lund, editor of the Biloxi Daily Herald.

Well, maybe they had midcareer crises when I was halfway up the slippery slope to success (called survival in The Associated Press). If so, no one in personnel informed me of my rights. Come to think of it, they didn't bust their butts or the stamp fund sending out my 20-year pin. I was in Saigon on the anniversary, but the pin — a tie clip actually (in a country where no one wore ties) — arrived four months later by sea mail.

There was no accompanying letter saying they could arrange a sabbatical at Oxford or Harvard to recharge the old batteries or a change of jobs or bureaus if I was feeling emotional exhaustion, creative ennui or some of the other syndromes you are entitled to flaunt at the midstripe marker on the gridiron of life.

If "the well was empty," as the psychologists describe a midcareer crisis, I had to keep dropping the old bucket day after day and come up with a story same as always.

You can bet your Blue Cross shares I'm not going to let that happen in the area of executive burnout. I know my rights. I sat through a seminar called "What About the Rest of My Life?," which the program described as "a discussion of burnout, mid-career crisis, family complaints and other hazards."

The panel included the senior vice president in charge of executive burnout in the Gannett Newspapers, a clinical psychologist who has a Los Angeles radio talk show (maybe along the lines of the legendary Vienna psychoanalyst's clinic that advertised "Three Couches, No Waiting") and a former editor who had given up his swivel chair, scissors and green eye shade to write an advice column on family and career problems (sort of a "Dear Abby" for Fortune's top 100), which strikes me as jumping into the crater at Mount St. Helens to avoid executive burnout.

After listening to them, I know I have all the classic symptoms, a textbook case: Constant fatigue. Fear of failure. An underappreciated over-achiever. Inability to cope, allowing others to set the drumbeat. Paranoid suspicions of rejection reinforced by reader mail that on a good day is only insulting, rather than belligerent.

Catatonic inability to make a decision, especially on where to have lunch. Tendency to eat too much, drink too much, work too hard and long.

Increasing resentment over not being given a two-window office with color-coordinated drapes, the key to the executive men's room, a seat on the corporate jet. Actually, we don't have a corporate jet at AP, but we do have locked toilets for which no one seems to have the key, which cuts down custodial costs.

In the words of one of the panelists, I have become "a wornout watchman of our culture." I go around humming Peggy Lee's "Is That All?" and asking Gertrude (Please turn to Page 16)

Qualities In Carter Liked

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — President Jimmy Carter has consistently won praise from the public throughout his four-year tenure as "a man of high moral principles," "a religious person" and as a person who is "sympathetic to the problems of the poor."

At the same time, however, a recent Gallup Poll indicates that few Americans think history will regard Carter as an "outstanding" president — in fact only 3 percent do so at this time.

President Carter also holds the unfortunate distinction of having received the lowest popularity rating given any president in the last four decades — 21 percent, in July 1980 — and won only a 34 percent approval rating in the public's final assessment of his performance in office.

Further evidence of the president's lack of public approbation is seen in the fact that he failed to top the Gallup Poll's list of men most admired in the world in 1980; he led the list in the three previous years. With some exceptions, incumbent presidents have been the most admired men during their tenure in annual audits conducted for more than three decades.

Yet while confidence in Carter's leadership began to falter as early as his second year in office — and this may contribute to his loss to Ronald Reagan last Nov. 4 — trust and confidence in Carter as a person has remained strong throughout his tenure.

His supporters contend that few presidents have been confronted with problems as complex as those President Carter has faced, including the seemingly intractable problem of inflation. Further, the Carter administration also had its successes: the ratification of the Panama Canal treaties, the establishment of diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China and the Camp David agreements between Israel and Egypt.

Public approval of Carter's performance increased sharply following the successful Camp David summit agreements. An even greater show of support followed the seizure of the U.S. hostages by Iran in November 1979.

34 Percent Approval In Final Popularity Test

In the final reading on Carter's performance in office, conducted in early December, 34 percent express approval. This represents only a marginal gain over the 31 percent rating he received last November and is far below his overall average of 47 percent for his four years in office.

President Carter's final rating is lower than that accorded his immediate predecessor, Gerald Ford, who was given a 53 percent performance rating as he completed his final weeks in office.

Only 3 Percent Say Carter Outstanding

Only 3 percent in the latest survey think Jimmy Carter will go down in history as an outstanding president. Another 11 percent believe he will be considered above average. Roughly four persons in 10 (37 percent) say average, while 31 percent say below average and 15 percent poor.

This evaluation of the Carter presidency compares poorly with that of Gerald Ford's. An early 1977 Gallup Poll showed 5 percent saying history would regard Ford as an outstanding president, 20 percent as above average, 50 percent as average, 15 percent as below average and 6 percent poor.

Rosalynn Carter A Big Plus

President Carter's wife, Rosalynn, was a big plus for her husband's presidency. In fact, a survey conducted in April 1979 showed six Americans in 10 saying they approved of the way Mrs. Carter was handling her job as first lady. In addition, Mrs. Carter has topped the annual Gallup Poll audits of women most admired by the American people during all four years her husband was in office, including 1980.

Strength For Today

SPREAD THE FAITH

"And Jesus said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven."

These were the words with which Jesus appraised the work of his disciples when they returned from their first preaching mission. They must have gone out with many grave doubts. They were given assurance that they would meet opposition. But as they had fulfilled the commission that had been given them, they found their highest expectations fulfilled.

Christ had sent but a few men to spread his religion, and they found that it worked. What Christ was really saying was that the coming of the kingdom was now assured. When a few people who really believed in Him had faith enough to go forth and actually try to get something accomplished in his name, He knew with a deep certainty that a great movement had been started which would spread far and wide. They had tried their religion and it had met the test. — Elisha Douglass

Feels Incompetence Involved

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With would-be customers priced out of the market, with new construction buried in an economic morass, with financing demanding a tax lawyer's agility, real estate people are having their problems.

But some of the industry's problems, according to a fellow who relies on some 34 years of critical observations, were brought on by itself.

"What problems?" William D. Patterson was asked.

"Incompetence," said Patterson, who helped found and who now heads Delaware's largest realtor, Patterson Schwartz, headquartered in Wilmington. He expounded:

"I told a real estate group a while ago that we aren't a profession and they got angry. But we're not a profession. We're approaching a profession and we're making great strides, but we've got a way to go."

Patterson, it may surprise some to learn, is also an official of the National Association of Realtors. He is in fact the brand new president of its educational arm, the Realtors National Marketing Institute.

"If we have a theme for this year it's specialization and professionalism," he said. Education will be the vehicle. "Education and training is the bottom line in this business," he said. It will be proven again this year, he said. Perhaps as never before, he suggested.

"The real estate business is becoming more complex and competitive," he explained. "For the time being, and if mortgage rates stay at 14 or 15 percent, we'll need a lot of innovation or we won't see deals."

Patterson's job for the year — he'll be detached from his Wilmington office — is to spread word of the institute's many courses and books for, he says, "those seeking to be more than sales people."

It's a practice of many years, one that helped build his firm to 130 people grossing $100 million a year. All are employees rather than contractors, the latter being a looser alliance common to most firms. It allows him, he says, "to tell them what needs to be done."

During the difficult days he foresees for this year, and probably 1982 and 1983 as well, the well-trained, well-directed realtor will get the business, says Patterson. He will, for example, know creative finance.

As practiced through much of 1980, creative financing means inducing the seller to take back a mortgage from the buyer. It can mean tax advantages for the seller. It can mean a steady, high-interest income.

Some agents, however, have been slow to learn their roles in financing procedures. Instances abound of agents seeking to induce sellers into granting loans to buyers whose credit never was checked.

The well trained agent or realtor, said Patterson, "will qualify the buyer and have complete information on that person when he goes to the seller. He'll be able to advise on taxes. He'll know the seller's needs and his investment goals." In other words, he'll act professionally.

Seller financing is just one of the creative tools developed in the past few years about which realtors must be knowledgeable if they are to survive the next couple of years, Patterson states.

In his view and that of most of his associates, the conventional, long-term, fixed-rate home mortgage "will soon be a thing of the past." The variable rate mortgage, the renegotiable or rollover mortgage, the graduated mortgage, the equity participation mortgage and others demand to be explained. To explain them, he says, requires education.

With education and training, he says, the industry can fulfill its part of the job of supplying housing in the 1980s for a massive population bulge of young people. Some 42 million will reach age 30 in the decade.

Patterson seems more worried about two other sectors of the industry: the financing sector, which is now forced to charge prohibitively high rates; and the builders, many of whom have been forced into idleness.

While uncertain, and declaring that "anyone who tries to predict the mortgage market is crazy," Patterson nevertheless hopes for a slight lowering of rates, perhaps to 12.5 or 13 percent by midyear.

He is more confident about inflation continuing. "People who postpone buying won't gain anything," he says. You can bank on it, he says.

He provides that advice with the authority of fellow who directs the selling of about 1,500 homes a year, and who currently is tackling the job of upgrading the knowledge and standards of the entire industry.

Ronstadt Makes Broadway Debut And Fares Well

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP) — Last summer, the New York Shakespeare Festival's "The Pirates of Penzance," with pop star Linda Ronstadt among the players, had a wildly successful open-air theater run in Central Park. Well, Miss Ronstadt made her Broadway debut in it Thursday night, when the 101-year-old Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera and virtually the same summer cast reopened at the cavernous Uris Theater.

A major drawback is the stage at the Uris. I won't say it's too large for this show but it's a better forum for the Reno Air Races. The set seems little changed from the Central Park version — a compact facade and platform with a railed walkway that encircles the orchestra. It was a tight fit at the park but it worked. Here, with about 20 vacant feet to the left and right of the set, your eyes tend to wander. The broad or gentle bits of jest that made "Penzance" such a summer sparkler lose some of their impact in all this space. Even Kevin Kline, so memorable as the Pirate King who broadly swashed and buckled his way in the last edition, swashes a bit excessively here, apparently feeling a huge stage requires huge gestures. Why, he even leaned down opening night and planted a big kiss on a lovely, startled flute player in the band, having just arrived aboard a pirate ship with his inept, good-hearted hearties.

But no matter. He's still funny. And the show still runs smoothly, with his young, handsome apprentice pirate (pop singer Rex Smith) again losing his heart to Mabel (Miss Ronstadt), fair maiden by trade. As in 1879, she's one of eight lovely daughters of a sweetly dense Major General (brilliantly played again by George Rose) in this satirical saga of true love, duty and tongue-twisting tomfoolery. A bumbling Keystone constabulary led by Tony Azito (superb here) once more is summoned, a pitched battle ensues, Smith's problem of duty to the pirates who raised him and the woman who loves him is resolved, and all ends happily as before for all hands. Alas, it must be said that Smith still has a vibrato so fast it'd alarm nanny goats. And Estelle Parsons, in the middle-aged pirate maid role done so well last summer by Patricia Routledge, just doesn't have the sly spark of her predecessor. Another flaw: With Wilford Leach again directing (he and Bob Shaw did the sets and Graciela Daniele the choreography), the cast unfortunately plays things looser, particularly Rose's daughters in the first act. They originally seemed precise little Dresden dolls against whom Kline's expert mugging played to fine comic effect. Here, they're done slightly goofy and the effect is diminished. And it's too obvious a gag that some band members have a mock fight amid the rousing cops-and-pirates finale. It sums up what seems amiss in this proceeding — the production occasionally tries too hard to give the impression everyone's having fun.

But flaws and all, this "Penzance" still is a lively, entertaining show — even for those who'll wish they'd either held it in a smaller house or that it rains and the Uris turns out to be un-sanitized.

Drop A Demand By Musicians

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Negotiators for striking film and television musicians have dropped a key contract demand and will meet with producers next week for the first talks in more than a month, union officials say. The musicians dropped their request for payments for reruns of filmed television shows, Kim Fellner, spokeswoman for the American Federation of Musicians, said Thursday.

That demand sparked the strike which began 23 weeks ago. Ms. Fellner said it was discarded because "it became clear it would not be obtainable in this round of bargaining." A meeting between the AFM and the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers was set for Wednesday by federal mediator Phyllis Cayse, who delivered the musicians' latest set of contract proposals to the producers earlier this month. The producers met Monday to consider the proposals. The two groups last met in early December.

Four Junior Achievement Firms Form

Four Junior Achievement companies under the sponsorship and advice of local business and industry have elected student officers and selected initial products for production and sale to the consumer public, according to an announcement by Sue Lemish, community coordinator for JA.

Each company and its board of directors has formed bylaws and applied for a company charter from the National Junior Achievement program in Stamford, Ct.

Notae Co., a Junior Achievement company advised by Eaton Corporation, is already marketing "fuzzie creatures" in high school colors and has manufacturing plans to make decorative refrigerator magnets. Area students elected as officers of Notae are Robin Muzarelli, Rose High School, president; Karen Oehri, Ayden-Grifton, vice-president for manufacturing; Stacy House, Ayden-Grifton, vice-president for marketing; Ken Little, North Pitt, treasurer, and Angeline Ward, North Pitt, secretary.

Odyssey Industries, advised by TRW Company, plans to produce and market wooden key holders. Odyssey Industries officers are Jeff Heath, Rose, president; Sandi Wright, D.H. Conley, vice president for personnel; Patty Williams, D.H. Conley, vice president for manufacturing; Valerie Wilson, North Pitt, vice president for sales; Sherry Breedlove, Rose, secretary; and Sophia Jurganus, D.H. Conley, treasurer.

JABWO is a Junior Achievement company advised by Burroughs Wellcome and has plans to make and market leather key chains. JABWO officers include Cathy Chapman, Ayden-Grifton, president; Monique Kilpatrick, Rose, vice president for sales; Linda Taft, Rose, vice president for personnel; Pam Laughinghouse, Rose, vice president for manufacturing; Venetia Pruitt, Rose, secretary; and Debra Kirkman, North Pitt, treasurer.

Also in the process of participating first-hand in the private enterprise system is JACO, advised by Procter and Gamble. JACO has developed manufacturing and sales plans for wooden memo pads. Newly elected officers are Denise Hewitt, D.H. Conley, president; Tyrone Taylor, Ayden-Grifton, vice president for manufacturing; Tom Little, Rose, vice president for sales; Rhonda Singleton, North Pitt, vice president for personnel; Ann Richards, Rose, secretary; and Hope Strickland, Farmville Central, treasurer.

According to Mrs. Lemish, each Junior Achievement company will capitalize by selling shares of stock, purchasing equipment and supplies for manufacturing, selling products, and by liquidating following payments of dividends to shareholders.

This entire process involves about 100 area high school students in the four companies and will involve about six months time from start to finish.

Life As It's Lived Caught In Middle Of Post-Christmas Blues

By GAIL MICHAELS

My biggest problem every January is what to do with 15 calendars. This year we received two as Christmas presents, one from the local pharmacist, one from the local realtor, and one from a building supply company which recently made NOW's hit list. We've got date books, pocket calendars, and wallet calendars which were never meant to be read without the aid of Mt. Palomar Observatory.

Recently, we packed the kids up after Phillip got off from work and made the grueling trip to Durham from Smithfield because we had a package at the Durham post office. It was a 12 by 24 inch calendar sporting the picture of, up till then, one of my favorite politicians.

This collection would have value only to an individual who wants to look at any wall in her house and know immediately the position she occupies in 1981. Unfortunately, I don't have the slightest desire to know how many days into the New

Year I am. It merely reminds me that the only Christmas decoration that has come down in my house is the cardboard Santa, and that's because the masking tape on the den wall decayed.

I guess what I'm trying to say is that I'm right in the middle of the post-Christmas blues. It usually takes this long for them to really hit me. I suddenly realize that I'm facing another February in which I decorate for Valentine's Day by changing the bow on the front door wreath to pink. And I always know by now how grossly inappropriate those "perfect" Christmas presents were.

Like the Activity Center for Zachary's bed. Nowhere do the instructions describe its earth-shaking rattle when the crib quilt is pulled over the infant who just passed out after an hour of vigorously fighting sleep.

It does have one advantage though. Zachary doesn't have to cry any more at 3 a.m. He simply punches a button and a bell rings. Over and over.

But the Activity Center is nothing compared to Meg's Christmas gift. She got two kittens. I got a permanent nervous tic.

I had forgotten what kittens like to do. For one thing they like to pull the tablecloth off the dining room table. Last week I tried to anchor mine with a full humidifier. That was a mistake.

They also like to use their claws to bat at anything which hangs within leaping distance. That should teach me to dry all my pantyhose at one time over the shower rod.

When they can jump up there undetected, they also enjoy examining the items on the kitchen counter. Like the loaf of bread which they ate. Or the dessert for my dinner party, which they merely tasted.

The last time Phillip slapped one off the counter, he looked at one of the calendars on the kitchen wall and said, "We've had these cats for two weeks, and you still haven't trained them to stay out of the kitchen!"

I slumped onto a barstool. My, how time flies when you're having fun.

Installation Held At Church

The Rev. O. L. Sherrill of Raleigh was the speaker for the annual installation of officers and leaders at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church last Sunday.

Approximately 25 to 30 auxiliaries of the church were represented during the service. Rev. Sherrill challenged each leader and/or office to uphold the Bible's teachings and to withstand Satan's temptations.

Ms. Janet Bullock read the scripture. Mrs. Beatrice Maye led the litany. The prayer and charge to the leaders and the church was given by Rev. Sherrill, and the congregation joined in the singing of the song of consecration, "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee."

Planning the installation were Mrs. Maye, Matthew Lewis, Willie Morris Jr. and David Barnhill.

Reading Event Is Concluded

The Third Street School winners of the December reading contest have been announced. The theme was "Santa wants you to read."

Second grade winners who read at least ten books are Thomas Sellers, David Ricks, Christy Pippins, Horace Worsley, Charity Williams, Dedrick Johnson, Mitchell Nelson and Julie Clark.

Third grade winners are Jerome Williams, Kenney Holten, Alerio Carmon, Vincent Wooten and Jan Carawan.

CARS COLLIDE

Cars driven by Paul Lee Baker of 2813 Jefferson Dr. and James Junior Atkinson of Route 1, Hookerton, collided about 2:09 p.m. yesterday on Memorial Drive, 36 feet south of the Sixth Street intersection.

Damage from the mishap was set at $300 to the Baker car and $50 to the Atkinson vehicle.

Truck Collides With Vehicles

An estimated $2,600 property damage resulted from a 2:10 a.m. collision today on Willow Street, 30 feet east of the Jarvis Street intersection.

Officers reported a truck driven by Thomas Paul Olson of 120 North Woodlawn Ave., collided with two parked cars, resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the truck.

Police identified the owners of the parked cars as Patricia Oneal Hilbert of 701 Willow St. and Shirley Smith Brewer of Route 2, Siler City. Damage was estimated at $300 to the Hilbert car and $1,800 to the Brewer auto.

Olson was charged by investigators with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Coordinator On Radio Show

Esther Davis, coordinator of NCAET (North Carolina Association for the Emotionally Troubled) will be the guest Sunday on "Mental Health Matters" at 10:12 a.m. on WNCN radio. A contractual service for Pitt County Mental Health Center, NCAET offers residential and vocational opportunities for the mentally retarded and emotionally troubled.

Davis will talk about a new venture offering vocational training for clients by means of work experience in a greenhouse. According to Davis, the greenhouse work will help equip clients for general skills necessary in a variety of other work settings. The vocational training component of NCAET's services expands the program of Pitt County Mental Health Center.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, struggling to right itself after the free-fall decline of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 38.99 in the last two days, gained about 6 points in early trading today. But by noontime it stood at 964.33, off 1.37 from Thursday's close.

Gainers clung to a 7-6 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the selling pressure set off by investment adviser Joseph Granville's recommendation that his subscribers dump their holdings let up for a while at the opening.

They said it was typical for the market to take at least a temporary upward bounce after a severe decline. The fact that the rally quickly faded, however, showed that investors were still unsettled by the recent drop.

In the economic news, several banks which had not yet joined in a recent prime rate reduction to 20 percent did so. But one that had gone to 19 1/2 percent, Chemical Bank of New York, raised its basic rate on business loans to 20.

Citicorp led the active list, off 1/2 at 23 1/2. A 478,600-share block traded at 23 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index lost .17 to 76.03. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .90 at 337.28.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 23.78 million shares at noontime, against 23.86 million at the same point Thursday.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was higher for next week's sales. Supply moderate with instances of shortage. Demand good. Weights desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price next week is 48.26 cents per pound for small purchases of plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,698,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady and trended lower for next week on limited receipts today. Supply adequate. Demand very light. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at the farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 15 cents per pound.

City Restrained By Court Order

The city was notified Thursday afternoon that a temporary restraining order had been issued prohibiting the City Council from acting last night on a scheduled agenda item involving the rezoning of some 11 acres between Fourth and Fifth Streets.

The order, issued by Judge Frank R. Brown, temporarily restrained the city "from rezoning and/or holding any and all public hearings pertaining to the rezoning of the property advertised for rezoning at a public hearing set for Jan. 8."

The area, according to the restraining order, "includes the property located at 1801

E. Fifth Street...and is generally located on the north side of E. Fifth Street in the area of 1801 E. Fifth Street."

The restraining order was sought by Kappa Delta Sorority which stated in the petition that "if the city...is not restrained from holding its public hearing on the 8th day of January...as to the rezoning of the area in question, the rights of the petitioner would be irreparably injured in that the Board of Adjustment and the city...would be prevented from complying with the Orders of the Superior Court of North Carolina duty entered in this case."

According to the petition, the matter was instituted when the sorority sought a special use permit from the Board of Adjustment in order to place a sorority house in an area zoned for R-6 (residential) usage at 1801 E. Fifth Street. The board denied the sorority's petition and an appeal was filed in Superior Court.

Superior Court Judge David E. Reid Jr. ordered that the city conduct a "Hearing de Novo" on the sorority's petition for a special use permit. In the meantime, the Council, meeting in December, set a hearing for last night for the purpose of rezoning the area in question, according to the Last night's game at Minges Coliseum brought out a definite need at East Carolina University — a new scoreboard for that building.

Perhaps that's not one of the top priorities on the current ECU list — we know that a new athletic building which would house all offices and lockerrooms is tops — but it's one that needs to be attended to.

In the past, the scoreboard had given trouble. The designers of the building didn't put a lot of thought to the location of the plugs for the scoreboard, and in the past, people walking past the scoring table have kicked the cord out of the plug on numerous occasions.

Last night, the minute function of the clock went off, and it was necessary to keep time with a stop-watch. It is not the best of conditions for a ball game. Problems with the clock or the scorekeeping functions have cropped up from time to time over the years, also.

It's not the best scoreboard in the world, that's for sure, even when it's working properly.

One cannot also forget that several years ago, it fell to the floor during a women's basketball practice session, fortunately when no one was in that section of the gym. Now, the scoreboard is chained up and cannot be lowered and raised for any quick repair work — another handicap.

The scoreboard at Rose High School is a better one, and few colleges have worse ones.

Hopefully, something can be done in the near future.

The future of a new conference could be decided early on. While the five schools who are currently committed to a league are still looking for a sixth, East Carolina athletic director Dr. Ken Karr is hopeful that something can be done by mid-February.

That date, he feels, is the cutoff if the league is to be started in time for next basketball season. Such a league much have six schools, and must compete in a minimum of six sports. A number of other schools are being considered, and Karr hopes to meet with the other four "members" during next week's NCAA meeting in Miami and possibly get together on which teams they want to approach on membership as a sixth.

Most teams in the area are already in conferences, and while some might be persuaded to switch, it is unlikely that they would before a league were started and had met the two-year requirement for consideration of an automatic NCAA basketball berth. That would leave an independent as the most likely, and the best suited for that could well be UNC-Wilmington.

How that school feels, or how the others feel about it could tell the tale.

Something may be known in a week or so.

Western 500 Opens Season

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The 1981 NASCAR Grand National stock car racing season hasn't even begun, and already the numbers game is on.

Going into the Western 500, the season-opener Sunday at Riverside International Raceway, only the best-informed of the Good Ol' Boy followers don't need a scorecard to tell the names.

There's always jockeying among the also-rans for new rides. But, this year, a bunch of top dogs are in new cars.

Among the big names who chose to drive at Riverside, Darrell Waltrip has opted out of the No. 88 to take the wheel of Junior Johnson's No. 11; Bobby Allison has jumped from the No. 15 to No. 28, and Benny Parsons, who has campaigned the No. 27 in recent years, now will be in No. 15.

Cale Yarborough, who drove for Johnson a year ago, chose to drive only part-time this year and didn't even make the trip to California from his South Carolina farm.

Buddy Baker, who left the No. 28, usually avoids Riverside's road course, if he can, and No. 88 will be piloted by young Ricky Rudd.

Another change for this race will be the switching of the Petty's, with "King" Richard moving from his traditional No. 43 to No. 42. His son, Kyle, will be in No. 43, at least until Richard can put No. 42 on the victory circle.

The reason for that change is hard, cold cash.

NASCAR has an appearance fund for eight winning cars which take part in all 31 races on the Grand National schedule. It's called the Winner's Circle and pays each of the cars which qualify $5,450 for a superspeedway appearance and $4,450 for a short track appearance.

And, since it's the car that qualifies, rather than the driver, No. 43 already is included in the program, while No. 42 is not.

"I guess any bookie would tell you that it's my dad who's more likely to win a race first," Kyle said Thursday

Duo Chasing Scoring Record

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Danny Ainge of Brigham Young and Herb Williams of Ohio State are two of college basketball's most consistent scorers, and each has a chance to break the NCAA record for consecutive double-figure games before time runs out this year.

Ainge, a senior who plays infield for baseball's Toronto Blue Jays during the summer, has scored 10 or more points in 93 straight games, while Williams, also a senior, has reached the 81-game mark.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association record for most consecutive games in double figures is 101 by Ronnie Valentine of Old Dominion in 1976-80.

Brigham Young has 14 regular-season games left this season, plenty to accommodate Ainge, whose average of nearly 26 points a game gives him an excellent shot at Valentine's mark. If Ainge keeps scoring at his present pace, he would tie Valentine's record at home against Air Force on Feb. 7 and break it at Hawaii on Feb. 12.

Ohio State has 19 games left on its schedule, which would leave Williams one game short of 101. The Buckeyes, however, are a good bet to make either the NCAA playoffs or the National Invitation Tournament, giving Williams an outside chance.

Ainge scored 37 points, his third highest career total, to lead the 17th-ranked Cougars to an 84-73 victory Thursday night over San Diego State in the Western Athletic Conference. With his 11th point in the game, Ainge went over 2,000 points in his career and trailed only Bob Elliott of Arizona (2,131) and Flynn Robinson of Wyoming (2,049) on the all-time WAC list.

"Ainge is one of the greatest players in the country," San Diego State Coach Smokey Gaines said of the 6-foot-5 guard. "No question about it. He should be a No. 1 NBA draft choice."

Brigham Young, 11-2, led by as many as 17 points after allowing San Diego State to battle back within seven, at 55-48, midway through the second half.

Williams, a 6-10 center, scored 14 points, including the go-ahead basket to key a late rally, as Ohio State upset 11th-ranked Iowa 58-56 at Iowa City. Ohio State trailed by as many as 15 points in the first half, but the Buckeyes out-scored Iowa 20-7 to finally tie the game with 8:13 to play. Williams' jumper with a little less than six minutes left put the Buckeyes ahead for good, 53-52.

"I've been coaching 19 years and never had a team play better than our team did in the second half," Buckeyes Coach Eldon Miller said.

The loss was Iowa's second in 10 games and first at home this year. Ohio State's record is 6-3.

Iowa Coach Lute Olson felt that Larry Huggins' defensive job on Iowa's high-scoring guard, Vince Brookins, turned the tide. Brookins, who averages 16.1 points a game, scored just four points against Ohio State.

"Huggins took our leading scorer and eliminated him from the game on offense," Olson said.

None of The Associated Press' Top 10 teams was in action Thursday night. In other action involving Second 10 teams, it was No. 12 Illinois 88, Northwestern 64; No. 14

Arizona State 62, Washington State 59 in double overtime; No. 15 South Alabama 92, North Carolina-Charlotte 61; No. 18 Utah 100, Hawaii 87, and No. 19 Minnesota 76, Wisconsin 60.

Craig Tucker scored 16 points to lead five Illinois players in double figures. The victory was Illinois' fifth in a row and ninth in 10 games, while Northwestern's record dropped to 6-4.

Lafayette Lever scored the clinching points on a pair of free throws with 12 seconds left in the second overtime as Arizona State held off Washington State. Regulation time ended in a 48-48 tie, and a layup by Lever with four seconds to go in the first overtime tied the score again, 54-54. Lever wound up with 15 points.

Rory White scored 18 points to pace a balanced South Alabama attack as the Jaguars rolled over UNC-Charlotte in a Sun Belt Conference matchup for their 11th straight victory. South Alabama shot 63.5 percent from the floor and outrebounded Charlotte 40-27.

Danny Vranes led Utah's high-powered front line with 23 points, and the 12-1 Utes easily defeated WAC opponent Hawaii. Tom Chambers scored 18 points, and Karl Bankowski added 16 as Utah's frontcourt combined for 57 points.

Mark Hall scored 21 of his career-high 25 points in the first half to keep Minnesota in the game, and the Gophers came alive after intermission to defeat Wisconsin in the Big Ten. Minnesota, 9-1, led by only three points at halftime, but the Gophers reeled off 11 straight points midway in the second half to put the game out of reach.

Elsewhere, undefeated Connecticut won its ninth game in a row, the best start for the Huskies since the 1953-54 team won its first 14, by beating Holy Cross 66-57. Cory Thompson scored 12 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while Karl Hobbs had 14 points.

Isiah Thomas scored 20 points to lead Indiana to a 55-43 victory over Michigan State in the Big Ten. A foul shot by Ray Tolbert and a basket by Thomas gave Indiana a 37-30 lead midway in the second half, the Hoosiers cruised to their eighth victory in 13 games.

Steelwheels Host Raleigh

The Greenville Steelwheels will host the Capital City Hustlers in an important doubleheader here Saturday. Game times are 2 and 4 p.m. in the Elm Street Gymnasium.

Greenville goes into the games with a 5-7 record, while Raleigh is 4-10. "These games are very important in who will finish third," Steelwheels member Richard Hudson said. "Charlotte (6-8) is also in the running for third, so we need to win these two."

Last Chance For Two In Sunday's Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The National Football League season will end in two days for all but two teams, and then begins the two-week wait for Super Bowl XV on Jan. 25 in New Orleans.

The wild-card Dallas Cowboys and East Division champion Philadelphia Eagles will decide the National Conference title. They are scheduled for a 1 p.m. EST kickoff Sunday in Philadelphia.

The wild-card Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers, winners in the West, begin their American Conference championship game at 5 p.m. in San Diego.

The Cowboys, coming off a 30-27 victory over NFC West champion Atlanta in the division playoffs, are one-point favorites to repeat as the only wild-card team ever in the Super Bowl.

San Diego, meanwhile, is a four-point favorite to end the Cinderella season of Oakland's Jim Plunkett, who became the Raiders' starting quarterback after Dan Pastorini broke his leg.

Dallas, guided by quarterback Danny White, appears to have its offense flying. The Cowboys have scored 30 or more points in their past three games, including a 35-27 victory over the Eagles in the final game of the regular season.

"White has come a long way, and they have those great receivers and offensive line," Eagles linebacker Frank LeMaster said of the Cowboys. "I'm concerned about that, but I'm not going to go into the game concerned. We can play defense, too, you know."

Several Eagles' players are mending from injuries, and a few of them won't mend in time for the conference title game.

Wide receiver Charlie Smith, with 47 receptions on the year, broke his jaw against the Cowboys, and backup Scott Fitzkee rebroke his foot in the Eagles' 31-16 playoff victory last Saturday over Minnesota.

The only healthy flanker is rookie Rodney Parker, and even tight end Keith Kreplief has been slowed by minor knee surgery late in the season.

Also on the mend is Eagles running back Wilbert Montgomery, who sustained head, thigh and knee injuries against the Vikings.

The Oakland-San Diego tilt, meanwhile, shapes up to be an aerial show with the Raiders' Plunkett having his best season in the NFL and the league's most prolific passer, Dan Fouts, throwing for San Diego.

"Week after week, someone has come up with big plays when we needed them," the 33-year-old Plunkett said. "If we execute well, there's no telling how many points we can score Sunday."

Plunkett is in his 10th season in the NFL, but he had not started a game previous to this season since 1977. "If you play football long enough, I guess something good is going to happen," Plunkett says.

However, before Plunkett and the Raiders can accomplish the ultimate NFL "good," a Super Bowl victory, they must stop Fouts. The Chargers quarterback is coming off his second consecutive 4,000-yard passing season.

Future Unsure For Bradshaw

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw, talking retirement again, says he may leave the Pittsburgh Steelers for a starring role in a possible NBC television series called "Short Trackers."

"But you're talking about a lot of ifs," the 32-year-old quarterback said Thursday night from Las Vegas in a phone interview with television station KDKA in Pittsburgh.

Bradshaw, who also discussed possible retirement last winter, said he'd had discussions with NBC about doing a pilot show — which would star Bradshaw and country western singer Mel Tillis as cohorts in a two-man auto racing team.

He said the pilot, if approved by NBC, could lead to a series, the filming of which would conflict with football next summer.

"I haven't signed a contract with NBC. The negotiations are through, but I haven't signed," said Bradshaw.

What if he signs? What if the pilot is a hit? What if the network goes for a series?

"If NBC buys the pilot, then I'll have to quit playing football," Bradshaw said.

Earlier Thursday, a Steeler spokesman talked with Bradshaw by telephone. Afterward, Steeler publicity director Joe Gordon said

Bradshaw told him it was possible he could film the entire series before training camp.

"My gut feeling is that he'd like to do both — play football and do TV," said Gordon.

Gordon added, "I'd be very surprised if he retired. He enjoys playing football too much. It means too much to him. He's still a very healthy 32."

A year ago, Bradshaw talked through the offseason about the possibility he might quit football. Then he announced at the start of training camp that he would play as long as possible.

Too Close To Call On Scholarships By 'Need'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The College Football Association, which is to say the Alabama, Oklahoma and Notre Dames, is scared to death it will pass.

Charles E. Young, chancellor of the UCLA, says it must pass because "it simply makes sense."

The entire Division I membership of the NCAA, 292 colleges and universities, will vote next week on a proposal to base athletic scholarships on "need," or the financial condition of a young man's family.

"I am convinced that the nation's colleges and universities no longer can afford the luxury of awarding financial aid on any other basis than that of need," says Young.

It's not a new idea. The last time it was proposed at an NCAA convention, in 1976, it failed by only seven votes. And as athletic administrators and college presidents began gathering here for the NCAA's 75th conclave, most observers agreed it would again be too close to call.

Leading the fight against "need" is the CFA, the 61-member group organized six years ago to protect the interests of big-time football schools.

"To a large degree, we believe it is basically unfair," said Charles M. Neinas, CFA executive director. "It's unfair on the basis of being unable to assist someone who not only contributes to his particular sport but to the institution as a whole. Plus, there is an unfairness in the system itself in terms of evaluating an individual's need."

"I don't know all the ramifications, but it would be very difficult to administer where you have an intense recruiting situation."

The plan's best chance of passage stems from its sponsor, the powerful NCAA Council, the organization's policy-making board. The whole idea, of course, is to save money in these times of economic crisis in athletic departments.

"Obviously, need is not a panacea for all the economic ailments faced by intercollegiate athletics," said Young. "But it has a great deal of merit."

Fred C. Davison, president of the University of Georgia, says the need plan will, ultimately, damage the morale of players.

"Consider the morale of a star athlete from a family judged to be affluent," he said. "He or she receives no financial aid while the third-stringer who performs not nearly at the same level, but is considered to have financial need, receives full financial aid. The star is bringing acclaim and perhaps financial aid to the institution but is penalized."

Although the CFA is working furiously behind the scenes in an effort to stop the proposal, it perhaps will have little clout. If every CFA school votes as a block against it, that would represent only 22.6 percent of the total Division I votes.

Dooley Is Top Coach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Everyone knows Georgia is college football's national champion for 1980. Coach Vince Dooley just hasn't found time to let it sink in yet.

"What I haven't had a chance to do is sit down and just reflect on it. I'd like to do that. I'm hoping to do that next weekend," Dooley said Thursday as he was named University Division Coach of the Year by some 2,400 fellow members of the American Football Coaches Association.

Dooley and Rick Carter, who led Dayton to the NCAA Division III national championship and was named Coach of the Year in the College Division, were honored Thursday night at the AFCA's annual banquet.

For Dooley, 48, it was the culmination of a 17-year head coaching career at Georgia that has seen him change from unbending martinet to a man of reason.

"I think you should have some rules," said Dooley, who still forbids facial hair and long locks on his players. "But kids nowadays are a lot easier to deal with than they were during the late 1960s and early 1970s."

Offensive Goaltending Call Lets Pacers Slip By Knicks, 116-115

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Referee Tommy Nunez said it was "a simple call to make," but really it wasn't. It was a very tough call, one that might have gone either way.

Nunez called offensive goaltending against New York's Sly Williams with two seconds left in overtime Thursday night, nullifying a basket that almost surely would have given the Knicks a one-point victory. Instead the Indiana Pacers were able to run out the clock and come away with a very satisfying 116-115 National Basketball Association triumph, their sixth in a row.

"We were on the edge of being blown out," said Indiana Coach Jack McKinney, whose team trailed the Knicks 87-72 going into the fourth quarter. "But we hung on and came back. That shows a lot."

Indiana outscored New York 35-20 in the fourth quarter, Dudley Bradley's first three-point goal of the season tying the score at 107-107 with two seconds left. Indiana rookie Louis Orr then scored six of his 14 points in the five-minute overtime period, including a pair of baskets off offensive rebounds that gave the Pacers a 116-113 edge with 50 seconds to play.

Bill Cartwright's short jumper cut the margin to one, then Mike Glenn tipped the ball away from Indiana's George McGinnis to give the Knicks one last chance. Ray Williams tried an off-balance jumper from the right baseline, but it was off line until teammate Sly Williams guided it in from directly in front of the basket.

That's when Nunez blew his whistle.

"I thought the goaltending was there," said McKinney. "It was a darn good call by the official, especially since it went against the home team. It took a lot of guts."

"I thought it was a good basket for us," countered New York Coach Red Holzman. "We checked with the TV people upstairs and they also said it was good. But what good does that do us now?"

No good at all. The only man whose opinion counted was Nunez, and he ruled that the ball was at least partially in the imaginary cylinder directly above the basket when Williams tipped it, which made it offensive goaltending. He immediately waved off the basket, bringing a chorus of boos from the spectators at Madison Square Garden and a shower of debris onto the court.

In a mimeographed statement distributed to newsmen, Nunez said, "There's really nothing to explain. It's a simple call to make, one which I make all the time. The ball was in the cylinder of the rim when he touched it."

Williams didn't think so.

"The ball was off the rim, out of the cylinder," he contended. "It shouldn't have been called that way."

But it was, giving Indiana the victory even though the Pacers were outscored 29-11 from the foul line. Billy Knight topped Indiana with 25 points, while Bill Cartwright led the Knicks with 26 points and 10 rebounds.

Bucks 98, Hawks 95

Junior Bridgeman scored 13 of his 26 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee rallied to beat Atlanta. The Bucks, trailing 77-60 with 1:40 left in the third quarter, stormed back to win their sixth game in a row and 12th straight at home.

Atlanta center Wayne "Tree" Rollins, who has been plagued by knee trouble all season, suffered a sprained left ankle midway through the third quarter. Hawks Coach Hubie Brown said Rollins will be sidelined two to three weeks.

Jazz 99, Mavericks 97

Adrian Dantley, who scored 51 points against Denver Wednesday night, got 40 against Dallas as Utah won its third in a row. Dantley, the NBA's leading scorer with a 31.7 average, hit a jumper with 1:02 remaining for the winning points.

Kings 136, Bullets 118

Kansas City led 67-45 at halftime, then erupted for a 45-point third quarter to overwhelm the Bullets. The Kings, getting 28 points from guard Phil Ford, led by as many as 45 points in the second half as they handed Washington its fifth consecutive defeat.

Jr. High Split

WINTERVILLE — A.G. Cox and Wellcome split a pair of junior high school basketball games yesterday.

Cox took the girls' game, 27-17. S. Hardy led Cox with 14 points, while no one had double figures for Wellcome.

In the boys' game, Wellcome gained a 32-27 win. Vernon Patrick led Wellcome with 12 points, while Joel Cox led Cox with 14.

Tribute to Henry Fonda
More than 50 years ago a young man named Henry Fonda got his first acting job in a play at the Omaha Community Playhouse in Omaha, Nebraska. Today at 75, Fonda is one of the world's busiest and best known actors, appearing on stage and in films. The characters he has played in movies include Abraham Lincoln and Wyatt Earp. "The big thing," Fonda says about his long and continuing career, "is joy in your work." Fonda is scheduled to be honored with a special tribute this Sunday at the scene of his first stage appearance - the Omaha Community Playhouse.

DO YOU KNOW - For what 1940 film did Fonda earn an Academy Award nomination?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER - Edmund Muskie is the current secretary of state.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 10, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make sure during the daytime that you work out any problems that exist with anyone else so that your future efforts can be well coordinated. Maintain a positive attitude.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take time to put business and personal affairs in better order. Go to influential persons for the help you need.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle routine tasks that are important early in the day so you'll have time to engage in favorite hobby later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate on ways to improve your environment. Assist close ties in gaining their aims and gain their devotion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Have more compassion for others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Support friends who need your assistance at this time. Discuss practical matters with them and get their advice.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study monetary dealings with others early in the day and be sure they are right. Make needed repairs to property.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Morning is fine for planning recreations for later in the day. Be more considerate of the needs of family members.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at uncompleted tasks before going ahead with new projects. Plan how to gain your most cherished aims.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Allow time to be with good friends before you pursue favorite hobby. Maintain a cheerful manner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to enjoy yourself at recreations with congenials. Show others that you are an excellent citizen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can now launch a new project that could give you added income in the days ahead. Take needed health treatments.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can keep promises sensibly now and in the evening put new ideas to work. Don't neglect routine chores.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can communicate well with others, so permit to have playmates around to further this ability and make adult life easier to endure. There's a fine balance of mind and athletic ability in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Seeks To Elect Public Defender

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - A Guilford County legislator says he wants North Carolina's public defenders elected, rather than appointed, to their positions to make them more accountable to the public.

The proposal by state Sen. Walter Cockerham, R-Greensboro, has drawn opposition from a court official and Guilford County's public defender.

Bert Montague, administrative officer for the state court system, and Wallace Harrelson, the local public defender, both said the system is accountable now and has shown it operates efficiently.

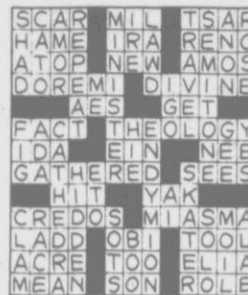

North Carolina has public defender offices, all of whom are filled by appointment, in Guilford County, Mecklenburg and Buncombe counties, in a district that includes Cumberland and Hoke counties, and in another district that includes Pitt, Carteret, Craven and Pamlico counties.

In other counties, attorneys are appointed by the courts to represent the indigent defendants. Cockerham said the public defender system has grown too large too quickly. "I simply believe the elective process would cause the public defender to be more careful about increasing the size of the office and spending public funds," Cockerham said.

Declarer crossed back to dummy with a club ruff, cashed the king of spades and then the ten of hearts, discarding a spade from hand. The scene was set. Declarer was down to three trumps and two clubs, and needed to score only the ten of diamonds to make the contract.

Declarer led a low spade from dummy. If East ruffs low or discards, the contract will sail home as declarer ruffs with the ten. But East had stayed awake. He ruffed with the jack of trumps!

Double-dummy, declarer can still make the hand. He must sluff a club when East ruffs, then discard again when East leads the nine of hearts. Now he scores three trump tricks by playing West for a doubleton queen of trumps. But declarer decided that East had to have the queen of trumps for his no trump overall, so he over-ruffed with the king and exited with a club. East ruffed and lead a heart, and struggle as he might, declarer had to lose two of the last three tricks for down one.

Woman Says MacDonald Was Victim

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - A woman who claims to have witnessed the slayings of former Green Beret physician Jeffrey MacDonald's wife and two children in 1970 says MacDonald was a victim, not the murderer.

In a copyright story published today, The Fayetteville Times quotes Helena Stockley as saying MacDonald's family was killed by members of a witchcraft cult bent on revenge because MacDonald had "been giving drug users a hard time."

MacDonald, who now lives in Huntington Beach, Calif., was convicted in 1979 of second-degree murder in the beating and stabbing deaths of his wife, Collette, 26, and his daughters, Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2, at their home on the nearby Fort Bragg Army base.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned that conviction last year, ruling his right to a speedy trial had been violated. The government has until Feb. 17 to appeal that decision.

MacDonald, who required medical attention for stab wounds in the chest, has maintained that his wife and daughters were killed by three men accompanied by a woman dressed in a floppy hat, with long blonde hair, wearing boots and carrying a lighted candle.

Ms. Stockley told the newspaper she was that woman. The newspaper also said she named the others allegedly involved in the deaths.

In the past government spokesmen have contended that remarks made by Ms. Stockley tending to involve her in the murders were allusions she manufactured because her attire matched the description given by MacDonald.

She was called as a witness at MacDonald's trial, but testified she could not recall being at the MacDonald home. U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree Jr. subsequently referred to her as "a person whose mind is far impaired" who "remains in a constant state of hallucinations."

The Times quoted Ms. Stockley as saying she did not tell her story in court because she was frightened.

Ms. Stockley said she was talking now because "I was tired of living with this thing. I was in a private hell. I'd like to see this resolved in the right manner. It seems like, until now, no one has the blame for botching things up."

In the interview with The Times, Ms. Stockley described the scene at the MacDonald home as "horrible ... bloody ... out of control."

"Everytime I would enter a room, somebody was struggling with somebody," she said.

She said a scream that MacDonald attributed to his wife was her own, because of the violence developing in the house.

"I went into another room and saw another child in there. She looked like she was sleeping. But it was all dimly lit, you couldn't see anything," she said.

"That's when I backed into something behind me. It was the (toy riding) horse ... one of the springs was loose."

"I went out there ... the blood ... that's when I realized things were out of control. That's when I screamed ..." she said.

She said she remembered going into the back yard, to wait for the others, but does not remember whether she went back into the house.

Ted Gunderson, a Los Angeles private detective hired by some of MacDonald's friends, said he has found a witness who saw the car pulling away in the manner described by Ms. Stockley.

Gunderson also said Ms. Stockley has taken a polygraph test indicating her account of the murders was true.

The Times reported it also learned that the government gave Ms. Stockley a polygraph test in April 1971 that indicated she lied when she told an investigator that she had not been in the Gallup Poll...

Here is the question that has been asked to determine presidential popularity since Franklin Roosevelt's administration:
"Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as president?"
Final Carter Popularity Rating
Approve.....34%
Disapprove.....55%
No opinion.....11%
Here is a summary of the public's assessment of the Carter presidency:
Carter Popularity (Percent who approve)
Final (Dec. 5-8).....34%
Average while in office.....47%
High point (March 1977).....75%
Low point (July 1980).....21%
Here is a comparison of the approval ratings of Carter's seven predecessors:

	Previous Presidents
	High	Low	Average
Ford.....	71%	37%	46%
Nixon.....	68	24	48
Johnson.....	80	35	54
Kennedy.....	83	57	70
Eisenhower.....	79	49	66
Truman.....	87	23	46
Roosevelt.....	84	54	68

This question was also asked in the survey:
"How do you think Jimmy Carter will go down in history - as an outstanding president, above average, below average or poor?"
Here are the national findings for Carter compared with those for Ford:

	Evaluations Of Carter, Ford
	Carter	Ford
Outstanding.....	3%	5%
Above average.....	11	20
Average (volunteered).....	37	50
Below average.....	31	15
Poor.....	15	6
No opinion.....	3	4

The latest results are based on in-person interviews with 1,549 adults, 18 and older, conducted in over 300 scientifically-selected localities across the nation during the period Dec. 5-8. For results based on a sample of this size, one can say with 95 percent confidence that the error attributable to sampling and other random effects could be three percentage points in either direction.

Anti-Abortionists Set Up A Hit List

WASHINGTON (AP) - Twelve senators holding seats up for election in 1982, including Massachusetts Democrat Edward M. Kennedy, were targeted for defeat by a national anti-abortion organization Thursday.
"Either they vote our way or we will vote them out of office," said Paul A. Brown, director of the Life Amendment Political Action Committee.
At a news conference, Brown said Kennedy is at the top of LAPAC's list for defeat.

The others are Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., Harrison Williams, D-N.J., Quentin M. Burdick, D-N.D., Howard Cannon, D-Nev., Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif.

Brown said all of those incumbents had either voted against cutoffs of federal funds to pay for abortions or had refused to support a constitutional amendment banning abortions.
Although the Senate is now

MUSICAL PROGRAM STOKES - There will be a musical program Sunday at 3 p.m. at St. John Baptist Church here.
Featured will be the Male Chorus of Winn Chapel Baptist Church, Robersonville; the Supreme Gospel Singers of Burning Bush Holiness Church, Stokes; and the Male Chorus of St. Peter Baptist Church, Greenville.
Everyone is invited, say the deacons, trustees and members.

gress would approve a constitutional amendment reversing the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortions.
He predicted that Senate conservatives would push for a constitutional amendment allowing the states to make abortions illegal.

Living on the Leftovers

They don't have much - Granny and Gramps:
A little "retirement cottage" with a guest room for visiting grandchildren, though they own it free and clear...
A modest savings account for a rainy day - it took some doing to add to it month by month...
Memories, the kind that grow warmer and deeper with every passing year...
Affection - it reaches to them across the miles from more than a score of giving.
And Faith, the firm, courageous, ever-celebrating faith that has made life to Granny and Gramps a confident walk with God.
No, they don't have much as many people count riches. But they do have certain treasures that can never be lost, stolen or foreclosed. Priceless things whose value reaches beyond time into eternity.
They're living on the leftovers of a life of giving.

Stein's what-is-the-question question. At this stage in life (also called at this point in time by some of the experts) I am stuck in what has been diagnosed as a "disposable job." Column writing is considered to be a more disposable job than driving a diaper truck and even more lacking in psychic rewards.
As I get it from the seminar, executive burnout entitles me to some "achievement orientation" and "management stroking," which could take the form of big bucks in the pay envelope or an all-expense paid cruise to the Bahamas to get me rekindled. So light the fires up there on the Seventh Floor, fellows, and prepare for me the psychic banquet of job satisfaction.
But with my luck, Dr. William Von Stein, our corporate physician, will probably diagnose my executive burnout as a bourbon meltdown aggravated by too much sun at that editors convention in Phoenix.
